Friendly Smile---For A Change

A friendly smile seems out of place in Palestine. But no animosity shows on the face of this Jewish girl in Jerusalem, chatting with the British soldier. MILLIONS PLACE GANDHI AMONG WORLD SAINTS

By DOON CAMPBELL
New Delhi, April 22.—(Reuters)—Today, a few short weeks after the murder of the Mahatma (Great Soul) Gandhi, a popular movement is evident here to add another name to the prophets and saints of the world.

Within days of the assassination some Moslems pronounced Gandhi a Shahid and some Hindus called him Kalki—the tenth Avatara. Buddha was the ninth Avatara, and Hindu mythology predicts the coming of Kalki to earth to destroy the forces of wickedness.

Newspapers in India still carry headlines such as "Greatest Human Being Since Christ," "He Walked With God," "Buddha and Gandhi—a Striking Parallel," and "Greatest Man of God in Modern History."

The Sermon on the Mount and quotations from the New Testament are published alongside selected passages from Gandhi's writings. Many today refer to the little man who was killed in the garden on a Friday as He, and talk His teachings.

Although Gandhi himself preferred to be a man among men, there are movements to attribute to him the qualities of a saint. Miss Madeline Slade, daughter of a British admiral, who renounced everything to become Gandhi's disciple 20 years ago, summed up the feelings of many here when she said: "For me there are only two— God and Bapu (Father Gandhi). And now they have become one."

Gandhi's death shocked and stunned one-fifth of humanity, from the Himalayas to Cape Comorin. People died of shock. People started fasts of penance. Millions mourned his death as the passing of a god.

Newspapers have carried thousands of pictures of the Mahatma and thousands of tributes, letters and laments. Sometimes there was not one line of other news—India forgot the rest of the world for a week-in 10 pages. Sometimes a page was left blank except for the words: "Father forgive us."

Now from every town and many villages in the land come suggestions for "fitting" memorials, suggestions, for example, for a Gandhi clock tower, Gandhi statues of stone and marble (one writer suggests that statues of prominent Britons "symbolizing India's slavery" be pulled down to make way for Gandhi statues), a Gandhi library, a Gandhi colony, a Gandhi garden, a Gandhi hall of peace, Gandhi temples, Gandhi pillars (it is variously suggested there should be from 500 to 100,000 studding the country) with his utterances inscribed after the style of the Asoka pillars.

It is suggested that India, known for 23 centuries as India, be renamed Gandhi "because the whole world knows India as the land of Gandhi." Another suggestion is that Mount Everest become Mount Gandhi "to symbolize the Mahatma's Himalayan stature among human beings."

Narandas Gandhi, the Mahatma's nephew who is chief organizer of the hand-spinning movement in Katiawar, suggests that the Congress working committee should "call upon the nation to produce 10,000,000 regular spinners who would religiously adhere to the charkha (hand spinning wheel), as a mark of respect to Bapu's sacred memory."

While the prime minister, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, and the deputy prime minister, Sardar Patel, and other Indian leaders have stressed that communal harmony is the only memorial worthy of Gandhi, popular sentiment still seeks satisfaction in conventional monuments.

Economy Campaign Delaying Industrial Projects In U.K.

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, April 22.—A country-wide economy campaign which cut factory building has put a crimp in one of the Government's pet projects—establishment of new industries in the country's Development Areas.

Development Areas used to be known as distressed areas—districts which suffered most heavily during the depression years usually because they relied for employment on one heavy industry.

The Labor Government's plan to prevent a recurrence of such disastrous slumps is to establish a diversity of industries in each area. Up to last December, when a six-month ban was placed on new factory building. More than 100,000 workers had found employment in new plants.

There are six Development Areas in Britain—the northeast coast, south Wales, the Wrexham district, South Lancashire, West Cumberland and the Scottish industrial belt.

"From all those areas in the years between the two world wars the life just drained away," says the recent Government publication, "Something Done," which chronicles the Labor Government's achievements since it took office in 1945.

TOURIST LOSS COULD COST $250,000,000

Ottawa, April 22.—Canada stands to lose a $250,000,000 tourist jackpot this summer.

Tourist officials in Ottawa viewed with fear a resolution adopted by the Maine Hotel Association at Portland, Me., last week asking that United States citizens spend their vacation money this year within the United States.

Members of the associations are understood to have taken the move after declaring that Maine will lose in 1948 approximately $10,000,000 because of Canada's restrictions on the export of currency. This allows Canadians $180 a year in travel funds.

The resolution urged "the American Hotel Association and various state associations... to exert every possible effort to influence the American vacationing public to spend its money this season in the United States."

Leo Dolan, Director of the Dominion's Tourist Bureau, declared his intention to do everything in his power to avert the disaster which would follow the widespread adoption of the resolution. Affected would be an expected record 20,000,000 tourists from below the border.

This was the first peacetime adverse publicity Canada's vacation lands had received in its history, he told The Canadian Press. He expressed surprise that the hotel people in Maine had made such a move.

It was true, he said, that Maine would lose some of the tourist trade from Canada this year, normally, the entire New England states benefited from large numbers of tourists from eastern Canada. Similarly, many tourist establishments in the western United States, particularly in California, were in normal times popular with Canadians.

The reaction in Maine came after the announcement by Mr. Dolan that there were signs this year of the greatest tourist boom for Canada since she became a nation.

"What our summer tourist industry will amount to this year is still in the lap of the gods," said Mr. Dolan. "But judging from the 2,000 to 3,000 inquiries we are getting each day in the tourist bureau, I would say we are headed for success."

noon service, on April 4, conducted by Rev. J. Comfort, of Sherbrooke. She received the names Marion Alice, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Robinson and Miss Muriel Ward were the godparents.

Mr. Joseph Beauchamp and Mrs. DeMarsh, of Arnprior, Ont., spent the week-end here with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Proulx. Mrs. Beauchamp returned home with them, after spending about two months here with Mr. and Mrs. Proulx.

Mrs. E. E. Perkins observed her birthday on April 8. Her guests for the day were Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Robinson, of Greenway; Mr. D. M. Perkins, of Lennoxville; and Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Brown, of Waterville.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Robinson were in Tremholm calling on Mr. and Mrs. Mayland Gee.

Hubert Cookman were visitors in Melbourne.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Davidson, of Kirkdale, were guests of his mother, Mrs. Alfred Davidson and family.

Mr. Roy Davidson was in Richmond and was accompanied home by Mrs. Davidson and little daughter, Patsy, who had spent a week at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lancaster.

Messrs. Roy Davidson and Munro Lancaster were in Granby on business.

The sympathy of this community is extended to Mr. H. Lancaster and Mr. and Mrs. A. Moffatt and son, Harrie Moffatt in their bereavement in the passing away of their mother and grandmother, Mrs. William Lancaster, in Bethany.

renewal of steel and labor forced Chancellor of the Exchequer Cripps to announce curtailment of factory building, he said that within the limited construction permitted "preferential treatment will continue to be accorded to the Development Areas."

The Treforest estate near Cardiff is typical of the new type of production. Baby buggies, moulded plastics, combs, buttons, cigaret papers, spark plugs, roller skates and zip fasteners are a few of the goods produced in a district given exclusively to coal mining for generations.

Criticism sometimes heard in the Development Areas is that the new light industries give employment principally to women. Labor Ministry officials say they believe their place would be taken by men should unemployment develop in heavy industry.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Barlow and son, of Montreal, were guests of Mrs. Barlow's sister, Mrs. A. C. Webb, and Mr. Webb, and called on Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barlow. Mr. Barlow still is confined to his bed.

KNOWLTON

Sunshine bags were distributed to all families of St. Paul's Church, Knowlton, by the Women's Auxiliary, to mark the Lenten season. Shortly after Easter a sunshine party was held in the Church Hall, to which everyone was invited. About half the bags were returned at that time and the amount received to date is upwards of $55. During the program hymns were sung with Mrs. George Williams at the piano, and Rev. T. E. R. Nurse showed slides, which depicted scenes of missionary work in Canada. The main event was a very interesting discussion on the formation of Girls' Auxiliaries led by Miss Mercia Tibbs, of Montreal. Miss Tibbs has been regional supervisor of girls' branches and has been appointed recently Dominion Supervisor of Girls' Work. Miss Tibbs' charm of manner and keen interest in girls' church groups was a great inspiration. She has an active part in running their own groups. The program undertaken should be of social and educational value, with parents co-operating. Miss Mary Knowlton thanked the rector and Mrs. W. M. Bancroft spoke with appreciation of Miss Tibbs' visit. Decorations and refreshments were covered by Mrs. S. C. Robson and Mrs. A. T. Woodley. It is felt that the evening was of value because it gave an opportunity to discuss with an expert the problems already met in this parish with church work among young people.

The following amounts were collected by the various grades of the Knowlton High School in aid of the current "Canadian Appeal for Children" campaign: Grade I, $17.82; Grade II, $7.00; Grade III, $10.68; Grade IV, $11.00; Grade V, $54.20; Grade VI, $40.65; Grade VII, $7.25; Grade VIII, $47.61; Grade IX, $15.00; Grade X, $5.65; Grades XI and XII, $7.35.

Colfax Rebekah Lodge, No. 29, met in regular session on evening, in the I.O.O.F. Hall with Noble Grand Sister Gladys Thompson in the chair and conducted the meeting. The secretary, Sister Pearl L. Windle, read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved. She also read the correspondence which included letters from the president of the Rebekah Assembly, Sister Viola Noble, and the grand master, the latter giving information on the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge and the Rebekah Assembly, which are taking place in Quebec, in May. The treasurer's report was given by Sister Dolly C. Bokus, in the absence of the treasurer, Sister Marion Pettes. This report showed a very substantial balance on hand. A withdrawal card was granted Sister Marjorie Sanborn, who is leaving Knowlton to make her home in Galt, Ont. It was decided to continue furnishing hot lunches at the High School for the two children that have been sponsored by the lodge during the winter. Lodge was brought to a close in ritual form. At the conclusion of the meeting five hundred was played at six tables with prizes awarded as follows: Ladies 1. Mrs. C. D. Inglis, consolation, Mrs. Grand Windle; men 1. Mr. Percy Ling, consolation, Mr. William Stone. A hand woven rug which had been donated for a drawing by Mrs. L. Luxen was won by Mrs. Harold Sanborn. Refreshments were served at the close of the games.

St. Paul's Junior Guild held its regular meeting in the Church Hall one evening with the president, Mrs. E. G. Raphael, in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. G. Horsnell and were approved. The treasurer, Mrs. E. Bruce Bailey, gave her report. Several completed articles were handed in to the work committee. Mrs. L. Draper and Mrs. J. Lionel d'Artois, and more material was given out. At the conclusion of a very pleasant evening, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Donald Taylor and Mrs. Kenneth Miller.

St. Paul's Teen Age Club met one evening under the supervision of Rev. T. E. R. Nurse and Mr. Glen Brown. The president, Lorraine Jenkinson, was in the chair and conducted the meeting, which opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Nurse. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Joan Taylor and were approved. AYER'S CLIFF FRIENDS HONOR MISS M. PIERCE

Ayer's Cliff, April 22. — Miss May Pierce, of Massachusetts, and a former Ayer's Cliff girl was feted one evening, when Mrs. Goldwyn Davidson, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Mabel Gothrop, gave a "Miscellaneous Shower" in her honor. Upwards of twenty-five of her co-workers at the B. B. Glove Company, and other friends, gathered to extend to her their best wishes. The guests were received by Mrs. Gothrop, and Mrs. Israel Lafond.

Mrs. Davidson went for her on a pretense of taking her for a drive and having an errand in town, they came and stopped at the Davidson home, which was in darkness, but when lighted she found herself surrounded by old friends, and heard the strains of the "Wedding March" being played on the radio phonograph. Amid her surprise, she was escorted to a very pretty chair, which was gaily decorated with pink and white streamers over which a matching umbrella was suspended at an attractive angle, and after the corsage of white stocks had been pinned on the bride-elect, it showered her with confetti.

The presentation on behalf of her friends was made by Miss Mildred Paul, who presented her with a variety of gifts as their expression of love and friendship with the hope that they should be constant reminders of her former days and of friends in Ayer's Cliff, and that the years ahead would be filled with content and life's richest blessing, happiness.

Master Michael Goode, had several wagon loads of attractive wrapped parcels, which contained pretty and useful gifts, and after these were unwrapped and admired, Miss Pierce charmingly thanked the donors for these gifts, and Mrs. Gothrop, and Mrs. Davidson for the lovely shower.

The Bitter Cold And The Driving Snow plagued the little party of three hunters as they staggered wearily through the forest, dragging with them a huge deer. Finally the strain of walking through the snow was too much and they abandoned the deer. After twelve miles of weary plodding one of the hunters, Emile Boulanger, was overcome with cramps from eating snow and drinking ice-water. He staggered, fell, and lost consciousness. Philbert Proux, the guide, stopped beside him to help and rest and immediately fell into that most fatal of dozes... sleep in a snowstorm. The one remaining man, Laurent Vandal, seeing the blizzard growing worse, gathered brush for a fire and after a struggle, succeeded in starting it. He could have deserted his comrades and plodded the remaining miles back to camp, but he stayed with them 'til they revived and half-carried them back to camp. They had begun their homeward journey at 7:30 p.m. and arrived at the camp, half dead, through 22-inch-deep snow, at 4 o'clock in the morning. Thanks to the courage and endurance of Laurent Vandal, they are all now alive and well. As a tribute to his gallantry... the DOW AWARD, including a $100 Canada Savings Bond, is being presented to Laurent Vandal of Sherbrooke, Quebec. The Dow Award, presented from time to time to a Canadian hero or heroine for outstanding bravery, is sponsored by DOW BREWERY in Montreal.

THE STORY: When Patience, after apparently refusing to recognize Paul, greets Roger warmly, Paul leaves the party in a huff. He doesn't know that he has mistaken Charlotte for Patience. Patience discovers what has happened but by then Paul is gone. Charlotte makes a fuss over Dwight Breeden, the movie producer. Roger is particularly attentive to Patience.

CHAPTER XXI

They were dancing together now and he was holding her tightly. "Patience?"

"Well?"

"Next time I want to meet you you won't run away, will you?"

"I—I don't know."

"Please—we could have such fun together."

"But there's Charlotte."

"She's all right. Look at her if you doubt it."

They were passing her at that moment. She was with Dwight Breeden sitting in a corner talking to him animatedly. Patience felt Roger's arm tighten round her.

"D'you go to your dressmaking academy tomorrow?"

"Yes."

"I'll be around when you leave . . ."

The evening slipped by with the party becoming more and more hilarious. There were now some from some of the company. Songs that Patience didn't understand and felt she wouldn't like if she were able to. Charlotte danced again with Carl Brunner, a dance that was even more abandoned than the gypsy dance they had done in the show. Patience sat on the floor, in front of the crowd, with Roger beside her. With Roger's hand holding hers beneath the billowing folds of her dress. With Roger murmuring to her as it was over: "Can't we slip away? Can't I see you home?"

She turned her head and looked at him and something she saw in his dark eyes frightened her.

"No. I'd rather wait for Charlotte."

And now Charlotte, her dance finished, was coming towards them, Dwight Breeden with her.

"I was wondering where you two had hidden yourselves."

"We've been here, darling watching you," said Roger.

Charlotte slipped an arm around Patience. She yawned and said she was tired. She'd an idea it was about time they were all going home.

They went back to Charlotte's flat together. The two men went in for drinks with them. They sat in Charlotte's comfortable luxurious sitting-room talking show business, going over the events of the evening, discussing past successes and past failures, discussing the talent or otherwise of this and that actor or actress. Some it seemed had got to the top of the ladder through sheer hard work and merit. Others—Charlotte had an odd little laugh. It came now when Dwight Breeden mentioned Marion Lane who was starring in a new musical comedy.

"Of course everyone knows how she got the part," said Charlotte.

"You mean you think she's Barney Roberts' girl-friend?"

"Why, yes. Surely you know?"

Dwight looked at Charlotte.

"That's the way to get on, Charlotte."

Charlotte tossed her head.

"I'm getting on under my own steam, thank you."

Roger's brows were drawn together. His face suddenly, Patience thought, looked oddly menacing. And then it cleared and he turned to her.

"Thank heaven, darling, you don't know what those two wicked sinners are talking about."

Dwight got up from his chair reluctantly. He kissed Patience's hand and said he hoped he'd see her again very shortly. Then he kissed Charlotte. Roger kissed Charlotte too. And then he turned to Patience. For a moment he looked at her uncertainly. Then he touched her cheek with his fingers with a little caressing gesture.

"I'll be seeing you," he said.

"Good night and be a good girl. You see, it suits you."

Charlotte went to the door and saw them off. She returned to the sitting-room, unfastening the pearls at her throat as she came.

"I must say I feel utterly exhausted. You must be dead to the world."

"I'm not, really."

"Come along and undress in my room."

Patience fetched her night dress—neat pink nunsveiling with a little round neck and elbow-length sleeves—and her dressing-gown of subdued blue flannel. Charlotte in the flimsy chiffon house-coat set at her mirror cleansing her face with cold cream.

"I say," she said suddenly, remembering, "tell me more about that young man who took me for you."

Patience remembered too. And marveled that just for so blessed a space of time she'd forgotten

WEST BOLTON

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton McLaughlin and Miss Irene accompanied Mrs. Irving Luce, who was home overnight from Brome, where she is caring for her husband, at Mr. O. B. Mitchell's. They were able to visit with Mr. Luce who was very pleased to see them. He is now able to sit up for short intervals and stood on his feet for the first time for four months. Miss Norma Luce also stays with her parents at her grandparents home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells Martin who recently came to their home at "Argyle Farm" from Washington, D.C., were supper guests at the McLaughlin home, at the Brill.

Friends of Mr. Martin's mother, Mrs. Z. E. Martin, regret to hear that she is in very poor health but is able to get about in a wheelchair.

Mrs. B. R. Mizener and her guests Mr. and Mrs. B. A. McKee called on Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Mitchell and family in Knowlton.

him. Now it all came rushing back to her. The way he'd looked when she'd seen him at the theatre. Hard and cold and as if he hated the sight of her. Patience told her sister the whole story.

Charlotte swung round on the gilt stool when it was finished.

"Honestly, Patience, you're a ninny. Letting those old girls take all the fun out of life for you. My goodness, do you think I'd have let that young man go if I'd really been about him? No, indeed! I'd have done something about it."

"But what can I do?" Patience inquired desperately.

"Write to him. Waylay him next time you see him on the train . . . My dear, there are a hundred ways!"

The Doctor Says

GOVERNMENT AND PRIVATE AGENCIES HELP REHABILITATE DISABLED

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.
According to a recent report, there are about 23,000,000 persons in the U.S. who are handicapped to some degree by accidents, disease or war. In 1946 alone, more than 10,000,000 persons suffered serious accidents, of whom almost 370,000 were permanently disabled.

This is the civilian side of the picture. About 19,000 amputations were performed among military personnel during World War II. Approximately 1,500 more were blinded while in military service, and 265,000 were permanently disabled as a result of combat injuries.

Such things are unpleasant to think about. The important point, however, is what can be done to remedy the situation and to improve the condition of those whose lives are hampered by injuries or disease.

Fitting them for jobs. In an effort to meet the problem, many agencies and individuals are co-operating. The Veterans' Administration has an extensive program of assisting injured persons to use what they have left to best advantage. This work includes methods of fitting them into occupations in which they can make a real contribution.

A man or woman who can be helped and taught to learn a job is much happier than a useless invalid. But it must be realized also that efforts to help others is useful in other ways. During 1944, for example, nearly 44,000 persons underwent rehabilitation. That is, they were fitted for jobs which they could perform satisfactorily.

This work was done under the joint federal and state programs. The average annual wage of this group after the program had been completed was $1,768 as compared to only $148 before.

The program of helping the disabled is being aided by many private and government agencies as well as by individuals throughout the country.

Q—I am troubled by rapidly thinning hair and a dry scalp. What causes this?
A—Most probably cause is a scalp condition called seborrhea. This is a skin disease which can be treated, and treatment will delay further loss of hair.

Walcott Has Only To Repeat First Job; Joe Louis, Sucker For Right

New York, April 22.—Joe Louis, fat, complacent, debonair, returning to the fistie wars to again defend the championship against Jersey Joe Walcott at Yankee Stadium, June 23, finds the elements of boxing and chance stacked against him for the first time since he bolted out of the amateur ranks 14 years ago.

And that's a long time in the back busting business, Bruno, even when you're fighting a bloke your own age.

In the upcoming match, Louis is the man who is trying to come back. The lore of the ring says they never come back. The exception or two down through the years only accentuates the rule, and at 34 the fellow attempting the climb has two strikes on him with Joe Page pitching.

Louis says he will be better in the coming battle. He no doubt will be more alert. You always are when you have been punched on the chin. He also will be more careful, but he can't be any better than he was the night of last Dec. 5, when Walcott twice set him on the seat of his pants. You don't improve at 34.

Conditions are different than they were the first trip. Walcott was then the challenger in every sense of the word. If either experienced nervous distress before the scrap, it was Jersey Joe. Louis envisioned an easy, smashing victory. Hadn't they all laid down and played dead?

Challenger in name only now, Walcott is strutting, even when sitting down. Signing articles and at a tea and crumpet party preceding the formality, Walcott looked and acted the part of the titleholder. He feels that but for an outrageous decision, as wrong as wrong could be, he would have been officially awarded the crown the Police Gazette tried to give him, anyway.

Provided the job doesn't get too big for him mentally between now and then, and if he doesn't choke up, all Walcott has to do to win is be as good as he was in December. He doesn't have to improve.

The hungry fighter, he has kept himself in condition.

Louis' dilletante airs and graces won't help him if his legs begin to tire. And unless the champion works a miracle in attaining condition and nails Walcott early, his legs are bound to feel the pressure of 15 rounds against a clever fellow with remarkable underpinning, especially for one his age, and one who feints, jabs, stabs and throws a whistling right hand when not circling or retreating.

Walcott outboxed Louis with convincing ease. He made the champion fight a battle foreign to his natural advantages.

At his best, Smoky Joe was a sucker for a right, and never was noted for his ability to assimilate shots to the head.

Louis' greatest asset until now was his ability to blast a right

There's Still a Kick in Pepper

Pepper Martin is 44, but intends to place-kick for the Brooklyn Dodgers of the All-America Conference. Demonstrating that he is serious, Martin practices while running a recruits' training camp in Ponca City, Okla., for the baseball Dodgers. The Cardinals' Old Wild Hoss of the Oeage made a local reputation as a halfback for an oil company in Oklahoma in the early 1920s, but insists there is still a kick in him. Lefty Settlemeyer is holding.

hand punch through the smallest and most closely guarded opening. He struck with the speed of light. And when the other guy was hurt, he wrapped punches together with terrific speed and fury.

But this is gone forever, for when an old soldier loses it he never regains it. Louis no longer reacts to openings as quickly as he did, which is another way of saying that his reflexes have slowed down.

As Louis cannot carry on a sustained attack as he once did, his defense, never that of Jack Johnson, is looser, more vulnerable.

Among other things, the Walcott camp remind chief second Dan Florio that a fighter can't win a championship by running in the final round.

That was Walcott's only mistake the first trip.

There was the championship for the taking, but foolishly Jersey Joe, believing he already had it, didn't even make a pass.

And as bad as Joe Louis may be the night of June 23, Jersey Joe Walcott can't make a mistake and beat him.

BEEBE

The April meeting of the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. H. S. Beane who was assisted by Mrs. J. Probert, Mrs. Ida Hazelton and Mrs. Nurbrown.
