

TORONTO (CP) — After extending an open invitation to Russia to join with other advanced nations in trading with underdeveloped countries, British Prime Minister Douglas-Home flies today into Washington and its chill towards some aspects of British trade with the Communist bloc.

Advance reports from the United States capital indicated President Johnson would tackle Sir Alec on Britain's recent sales of buses to Cuba and take issue with British policy of long-term credits to Communist countries.

The Washington meeting is not likely to change either position. Sir Alec said at Ottawa Tuesday—before flying here for a night speech—that Britain does not believe in economic war or curtailing trade with Communist countries including Cuba.

INCLUDES RUSSIANS

At his Tuesday night speech to Toronto's Empire Club, he pointedly included Russia among the industrialized nations of the Northern Hemisphere having a common duty to boost trade with the poorer nations of the Southern Hemisphere to lessen the strife-inducing disparity in wealth.

The 1962 jolt of possible nuclear war over Cuba appeared to have eliminated force from Russian National Policy, but:

"If we should exchange the danger of an East-West confrontation for one between the north and the south, that would be a danger far more terrible than we have faced in the world up to now."

The prime minister referred to Russia three times—once in an interpolation in his prepared text—as he called on the developed nations to boost trade with and investment in the lesser countries in recognizing international interdependence.

"I see no reason," he said, "why the northern nations of the world, and in this I include Russia, should not recognize a common duty in working together to solve what are common interests."

"We and the Soviet Union have much in common when it comes to preserving the human race from extinction. . . . we have everything to gain from rising living standards. To subvert and to destroy a society only leaves an impoverished wreck on the hands of all of us while to succor and to build creates a new asset for humanity."

'ORGANIZE FOR PEACE'

"The surest way—the only way—to serve mankind in the 20th century is to jettison the ideological conflict and organize the world for peace and plenty."

"If the Soviet Union is willing to settle the differences in Europe and turn to fruitful fields of enterprise, the smaller squabbles in the world will all disappear because the poor and discontented would see before them the prizes of the fullness of life."

The prime minister spoke here to about 1,500 persons at the 60th anniversary dinner of the Empire Club of Canada. Prime Minister Pearson, with whom he held talks at Ottawa in the last two days, was a head table guest.

The highest security since the royal visit of 1959 surrounded Sir Alec. More than 40 police were on duty at Malton Airport for his arrival, and uniformed and plainclothes officers were out in force for the dinner.

At his earlier press conference in Ottawa, Sir Alec renewed Britain's call for Canadian participation in the proposed international peace-keeping force for Cyprus. British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler said Monday Britain wants about 1,000 Canadian infantrymen for the force.

DECLINES COMMENT

Mr. Pearson declined to comment on Sir Alec's press conference statement that Britain hopes "very much" that Canada will join the 10,000-man force, which the Briton indicated would be under British command.

The Cyprus crisis is expected to be somewhat sidetracked in Washington. Sir Alec and his foreign secretary are believed to have it high on their agenda, but Washington informants say the president wants to hear first from trouble-shooter George W. Ball, undersecretary of state, who was due in Nicosia only today.

At Ottawa, the prime minister said the Cyprus problem must be internationalized to prevent war from mushrooming out of clashes between Greeks and Turks.

Teachers' walkout may force shortening of summer holiday

By IRWIN BLOCK
(Record staff reporter)

A resolution that would allow Roman Catholic Schools affected by teachers' work stoppages in the Diocese of Sherbrooke to remain open during the summer months was passed at an emergency meeting of the Association of Roman Catholic School Commissions in Sherbrooke yesterday.

It states that "Because of the delays in the school program occasioned by the repeated absences of teachers, he resolved that schools remain open, where necessary, after June 24 so that the curriculum may be completed."

The resolution will be sent to the Superintendent of the Department of Public Instruction in Quebec City for approval.

It was also decided at the meeting to send letters to all teachers in Richmond, Windsor and Bromptonville informing them they have been fired.

The letter will state that the teacher in question is being fired because the work stoppage is "unauthorized, an act of insubordination, illegal and contrary to the commitment which each teacher has made with the School Commission."

The letter goes on to say that because the teachers refuse to return to work their contracts are to be considered void.

The President of the Association, Jules Thibault, said that the teachers would have to apply for employment to their school commission if they want to return to work and would lose their seniority.

Highly reliable sources said yesterday that striking teachers in Magog would be the next group of teachers to be fired. The sources said that the Commission Association is going to fire teachers in each city where work stoppages have occurred.

They go on to say that the teachers would be fired in stages so that "a continual pressure will be brought against the striking teachers."

The president of the Association, Jules Thibault, however insisted that the firings were genuine and not merely gestures.

He cited the case last year where all teachers working for the Thousand Islands School Commission near Montreal were fired, one month before the end of the school year and not re-hired.

Meanwhile, a meeting of East Angles teachers and School Commissioners last night averted a threatened walkout there. All teachers reported for work this morning.

Joseph Leblanc, President of the Association of Catholic School teachers for the Diocese of Sherbrooke, said that both sides aired their grievances at the meeting, although no official negotiations took place.

In Coaticook, some 2,000 school children will be asked to read "We want to learn," and school children will be asked to read "We want to learn."

The hastily made placards read "We want to learn," and school children will be asked to read "We want to learn."

Youth Minister urges teachers resume classes

QUEBEC (CP) — Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie expressed the hope Tuesday that teachers in the Eastern Townships who left their classes starting last Thursday will go back to work and suggested their walkout is "irregular."

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie was asked to comment on the situation in the Legislature by Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said the Government is not a party to the dispute between teachers and school commissions. But he offered what help he could give, under the law.

Teachers in seven Eastern Townships communities have left their classes to back up demands for higher wages. As a result, about 15,000 school children are on an enforced holiday.

Forgets escape details

MONTREAL (CP)—Victor Levesque said Tuesday he has "a very short memory" about the events leading up to his escape with five others from the Montreal Courthouse Jail last week.

The 25-year-old suspected leader of a hooded rob-and-rape gang that terrorized families in both Quebec and Ontario was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Jean-Guy Darveau, 28, charged with escaping from custody.

Levesque said he was in bed on the night of the jailbreak when he heard a noise outside his cell and noticed that the door was open.

"It all happened so fast I don't know who opened the cell door," Levesque said. "I got dressed and went out on the street."

Levesque testified he remembered entering a taxi and riding in it to "the north end of the city." But he could not recall the names of his fellow passengers or exactly where he and they went.

"I have a very short memory," he said.

Judge Emile Trottier adjourned the hearing until Feb. 18.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie remarked that the whole question of labor negotiations in public services, such as teaching, is under review by the Legislature.

"The revision of laws," he declared, "in no case, and even less in public services and particularly in education, can be done in illegality and disorder. It is obvious that the children are the first to suffer from the present irregularities."

He hoped that teachers would go back to work "without delay," that negotiations would resume and that if negotiations cannot be picked up again, the parties will have recourse to the procedures foreseen by the law, that is to say arbitration."

New victim

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—An 18-year-old Salinas girl has become the fourth northern California woman to be strangled to death in less than a month.

Coroner Chris Hill said Tuesday night.

Barbara Jane Moritz, missing since Sunday, was found dead with her bra twisted around her throat on a lonely dead end road between Monterey and Salinas Tuesday afternoon.

Authorities immediately began consultation to determine whether there was a connection between this latest tragedy and the recent strangulations in Oakland of Mary Elizabeth Martin and her daughter, Caroline, 18, and a similar killing in San Francisco of Mrs. Jane Stapleton, 43, a policeman's wife.

"WE WANT TO RETURN TO SCHOOL" — Mothers and their school children are seen preparing placards for their demonstration in Richmond yesterday. The hastily prepared protest was organized by a group of mothers who insist that the schools be reopened.

Richmond mothers demonstrate

Demand schools re-open

RICHMOND — (Staff) — Mothers and their children staged demonstrations in Richmond yesterday to protest the closing of Roman Catholic School here.

More than 75 women and children participated in the march through the streets of Richmond behind a police escort, waving placards and chanting "open the schools."

Richmond's Catholic schools were closed last Friday when 43 teachers walked out of classrooms and refused to return to work.

The schools were still closed this morning.

After the street protest, a delegation of mothers confronted members of the Richmond School Board. They told the commissioners they wanted action so their children could return to classrooms "where they belong."

The chairman of the school board, J. Pelletier told the anxious mothers that "everything possible was being done."

Interviewed after the demonstration, one of the organizers Mrs. Jean Paul Davignon, said she feared children would lose so much time that they would have to repeat their year.

"Our children cannot waste their precious time," the distraught mother said.

"They are studying according to a program, and a day lost is a day lost" said Mrs. Davignon.

Another demonstrator, Mrs. Roger Cameron, said she had six good reasons to demonstrate, and they were all clinging to her skirt as she spoke to reporters.

"Why should my family suffer because the teachers want a raise?" Mrs. Cameron asked. "My children can't make up for lost time," she added.

The hastily made placards read "We want to learn," and school children will be asked to read "We want to learn."

MINOR 3-CARD UTILITY BID
Another innovation in my 1955 book "The Four Aces System" was the three-card minor suit opening. The wording in describing it was, "The three-card minor suit bid is a general utility man. It is neither used nor intended as a psychic and is employed only with a hand which is a compulsory bid and when there is no other satisfactory opening bid."
We qualified this bid further by explaining that we only bid it with one of the three top hon-hearts before he releases dummy's ace of clubs. Eventually he discards one club on the king or hearts so as to hold his losses to two diamonds and one heart.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It was one of those rare, warm evenings when the past and the present merged for a mutual love—the movies.
The occasion was the annual dinner of Delta Kappa Alpha, national fraternity for students of the cinema.
Gloria Swanson, Adolph Zukor, Jack Lemmon, Charles Brackett and Billy Wilder had been chosen for honorary memberships, and that's what made it a rare evening. Their friends and associates had been invited to share in the occasion.
Today's Hollywood was represented by such names as Stephen Boyd, Omar Sharif, Edd Byrnes, Diane Baker, Steven Forrest, Rhonda Fleming, Maureen O'Hara, Robert Stack and Dick Van Dyke.
From earlier days came Donald Crisp, House Peters, Frances Marion, Madge Kennedy, Betty Blythe, Mae West, Jack Oakie and Claire Windsor.
Informality was the plan of director George Cukor, described by Stack as the "house mother" of the fraternity. Film clips of the honored guests were shown. Miss Swanson and Bob Cummings roamed the room to chat with guests.
STARTED IN 1916
"I came to Hollywood in 1916," said Miss Swanson. "I'll

About Television

NEW YORK (AP)—What can television viewers, distressed by reports of cancelled programs, do to save their favorite shows? Very little.
They can write letters to the networks. But the fate of most entertainment programs hangs on the size of viewing audiences based on estimates made by a research organization.
In prime evening time—between 7:30 and 11 p.m.—the number of sets tuned to any one network program runs between 10,000,000 and 16,000,000. In general, any show that attracts 30 per cent or more of the estimated sets in use probably will survive for another season.
To over-simplify the complicated ratings situation, let us assume a sponsor invests $1,000 in a program that is seen on 10,000 sets. That means it cost him $10 to reach 1,000 families. On the other hand, if 100,000 sets are tuned to his program that cost per 1,000 is reduced to $1.
The one thing which interests most sponsors of entertainment shows is reaching the largest possible number of potential customers for the lowest possible cost.
Some high cost programs survive the annual ratings slaughter, either because the sponsor believes he is reaching his po-

U of S students walk out

Some 325 students taking teacher training courses at the French-language University of Sherbrooke announced Tuesday they will not return to classes until authorities open an investigation of the education faculty.

The students walked out Monday noon, protesting that 37 of 135 second-year students failed an examination in child psychology that was not approved by Quebec education authorities.

Jean Claude St. Denis, secretary of the faculty, said the faculty is always ready to discuss grievances with the students. But "the faculty is not prepared to lower its academic standards," he said.

Local judge chosen to hear vote slip case

St. Francis District Superior Court Judge Evender Veilleux has been called upon to preside at the controversial and politically sensitive trial of Jean-Paul Boisjoly and Marcel Sauve in early March.

Changes in JMC music competitions

Jeunesses Musicales de Canada announces a change in its music competition program.

Unlike previous programs pianists accepted for the competition must perform two works imposed by the jury in the first elimination trials. The titles of these works will be made public on March 19, one month before the final date for entries and four months before the opening of the competition.

Pianists in the second trials must perform a 45-minute recital of their work plus a specially-commissioned Canadian work. The work will be sent to each candidate one month before the beginning of the competition.

The "Fondation les Amis de l'Art" offers a $500 cash reward for the best interpretation of this Canadian work.

The elimination trials will be held at Mount Orford; the first from July 19 to 21, and the second from July 22 to July 28. The concerto trial will be held August 6 at Montreal's Place des Arts.

The grand prize winner of the competition will receive $2,000 in cash and a series of engagements worth about $10,000. The second prize winner will receive a cash award of $1,000.

Pianists who remain for the Concerto Trial will perform with the orchestra in the Place des Arts on August 6.

QPP case

Criticism made by Court of Sessions Judge Jean Louis Pelquin Monday regarding police identification methods was not directed at the municipal police force.

The case, a holdup at the caisse populaire in St. Elie d'Orford last August, was investigated by local Provincial Police.

Soviets bitter

GENEVA — Soviet disarmament negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin charged today that "provocative activity" by Western intelligence agencies led to the defection of Yuri I. Nosenko, an expert on his delegation. He demanded that the Swiss return him.

The case to be heard in Montreal Court of Queen's Bench arises out of the discovery in the autumn of 1962 of a batch of false voting slips in a Montreal railway station.

The two men are to face charges of perjury, obstruction of justice, and inciting perjury.

The reason for the appointment of the local judge by Chief Justice Chalmers is that because of the political nature of the trial, it was deemed best to obtain the services of an "outside" judge.

Several persons have already been tried on charges arising out of the same case and some have been sent to prison for terms varying from 18 months to two years.

Boisjoly and Sauve are the only two remaining persons charged in connection with the voting slips incidents to be tried.

Judge Evender Veilleux was appointed to the Superior Court Bench in early November.

Magog arena committee proposed

MAGOG — (Special) — Alderman Gerard Page proposed the creation of a consulting committee for the Magog arena project at this week's meeting of Magog City Council.

He said that such a committee is necessary to create understanding between taxpayers, committee, and council.

The committee would study in detail the possibility of an artificial ice arena. It would consider the site for the arena, the cost of artificial ice, and possible revenue to be received from arena operation. The committee would submit study results to council which, if satisfactory, would in turn submit them to the public.

It was suggested during the meeting that a loud-speaker be installed at the skating rink near Michigan Bridge, since many children go there. Alderman Page was asked to look into the matter.

The Police and Fire Association suggested that an office be made available for their chaplain.

Council asked the association to form an organization of juvenile police to help out in certain tasks.

Urge rebates

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government was asked today to introduce tariff rebates to encourage American airlines to turn to the depressed Canadian aircraft industry for overhaul and repair work.

The suggestion was among nine put forward by the aircraft workers in the International Association of Machinists (IAM) in a special submission to the government.

The union said a tariff rebate plan similar to that affecting automobile parts would offset United States tariffs on overhaul and repair work carried out on American-owned aircraft in Canada.

Says city air service 'not too far off'

PANCAKE MAMY — It didn't take much persuasion on the part of "Aunt Jemima" to entice blonde, three-year-old Carol Falconer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Falconer of 425 Newton Street, Sherbrooke, to try a blueberry pancake Shrove Tuesday. The lovable, homey mammy (Mrs. R. Hough of Prospect Street, Sherbrooke) won the hearts of everyone as unofficial hostess at the Trinity Boys' Club Pancake Festival held at the Trinity United Church. ## 400 hungry souls crowd hall for Trinity pancake festival fare

Pat-a-cake, Pat-a-cake, Trinity man,
Toss me a pancake,
As fast as you can...
It was the order of Shrove Tuesday last night as members of Sherbrooke's Trinity Boys' Club and five mothers slaved over griddles and tossed pancakes in a desperate effort to feed almost 400 hungry souls.

The tickets said All The Pancakes You Can Eat and that's exactly what happened at the annual Pancake Festival put on in the Trinity United Church Hall on Court Street under the auspices of the Trinity Boys' Club.

The Pancake Festival held, naturally, on Pancake Day, marks the day before Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent.

It is also the hilarious day of the carnival called by the French, Mardi Gras.

By SANDRA PICKFORD (Record staff reporter)

The Trinity members weren't to be outdone, either, as a Mardi Gras spirit swept over the hall.

As a band struck up the soul-stirring Up the Lazy River and other Dixie-land tunes, a jovial, homey Mammy welcomed guests.

"Aunt Jemima" (Mrs. R. Hough) later won the hearts of the youngster set. She joined youngsters in the limbo as the band switched from Dixie to current-hit tunes, to country hoe-down.

Candlelight reflected on the blackened faces of servers (Trinity Boys) decked out in red shirts and blue jeans.

They hurried from table to table carrying light, tender pancakes, hot and golden brown, stacked high on heated plates, ready to serve with butter and a big pitcher of syrup.

There are a variety of pancakes.

Old English batter was mixed with ale, German and French pancakes leavened by eggs and much beating are baked very thin and served with jam or jelly. Russian pancakes or blini are served with caviar and sour cream.

None of these were in evidence last night.

The Trinity members came up with their own specialty. They served blueberry pancakes.

Members sold 300 tickets beforehand. At six p.m. as doors opened for the two-hour festival, there were 180 people at tables and about 100 standing in line.

"We didn't expect this many," said surprised Trinity Boys' Club president Dennis Mills.

Alderman Paul Gervais, chairman of the city's industrial and transportation commission said yesterday that he had received further assurances from the Department of Transport in Ottawa that air service for Sherbrooke would not be too far off.

Mr. Gervais produced a letter written by former Minister of Transport George McIlraith which predicted that the new Minister of Transport J. W. Pickersgill would probably announce a new air policy "before very long."

The letter says also in part: "I cannot of course speak on behalf of my successor but it is reasonable to expect the announcement will, as I have indicated, be made before very long."

Mr. Gervais added that when the Department of Transport has been "organized" under the new Cabinet member, he will then try to arrange an appointment with him to talk over Sherbrooke's problem.

Alderman Gervais had previously held talks with Minister of Transport McIlraith and had been assured that a new air policy for Canada would be formulated by the end of 1963.

Announcement of the program it is believed will clear the way for Sherbrooke to establish regular air service.

Once this has begun, Alderman Gervais has said, the municipal airport would be Airport plans have already been accepted by the Transport Department.

WEEKLY COUNCIL PRAYER 32-YEAR OLD TRADITION

The Sherbrooke City council is responsible for many changes each year. But it still keeps—a warm spot for tradition.

A example of this is shown every Monday night at about 8 p.m. shortly after the Mayor and aldermen have crossed from their committee meeting to the public chamber.

Preceding the opening of every such session, a brief prayer is read by the mayor — a prayer that has been recited by mayors of Sherbrooke since June 6, 1932.

Here is the prayer: "O Eternal and Almighty God, from whom cometh all power and wisdom, we are assembled here before Thee to work for the welfare and prosperity of our city.

"We beseech Thee that we may seek with wisdom only that which is in accordance with Thy will, and having obtained it, use it for the glory and honor of Thy name and the welfare of our country."

"Amen."

In an auto accident, then ambulance crash

An Omerville man was involved in two accidents in succession yesterday afternoon on King Street in Sherbrooke.

Mr. Raoul Turgeon 38, of Omerville received forehead lacerations but his condition was not serious, Hotel Dieu, hospital spokesmen reported.

In the first accident, Mr. Turgeon's car collided with a car driven by Jean-Paul Blais, 22, of RR 1 Bromptonville, near 2835 King Street West.

As he was being transported to Hotel Dieu hospital by Brien Ambulance Service the ambulance collided with a truck at the corner of King Street and Jacques Cartier Boulevard.

Mr. Turgeon was not hurt in the second accident.

Ambulance driver Roger Tardif of Sherbrooke said that he had slowed down for a stop light and thought that no cars were crossing King Street when he drove through the red light.

The truck was driven by Raymond Lavigne also of Sherbrooke who was crossing King Street with the green light.

Damage to truck and ambulance was extensive, though Mr. Turgeon did not even fall from his stretcher in the accident. He was taken to hospital by an ambulance from the Arthur Desile Service.

Lectures planned for Stamp Club

Two local philatelists will be speaking at a meeting of the Eastern Township's Stamp Club February 13, at 357 King Street West, Sherbrooke.

Robert Meiss will speak on pre-cancelled stamps of Canada and R. Hebert will discuss stamps of France.

Members will be able to exchange stamps and purchase stamps and supplies from two member-dealers Ivor Whitehouse and Murray Woodman. The hall opens at 7:30 p.m.

MLA's debate rights bill

QUEBEC (CP)—The legislative assembly has opened study of a measure to provide major improvements in the legal status of Quebec's married women.

The bill, says its sponsor Mrs. Claire Kirkland-Casgrain, is the first step in an overhaul of the Civil Code as it affects married women.

She said Tuesday the code is based on the Napoleonic Code of France, drafted in 1804 under the supervision of the French emperor.

She noted that when the French were working on their code, Napoleon remarked that "nature has made slaves of our wives."

From this stemmed the legal authority of husband over wife. The Union Nationale opposition said it would vote in favor of the principle of the bill.

"The minister has nothing to fear," said Jean-Jacques Bertrand (UN—Missisquoi). "There are no Napoleons in this House."

Mrs. Kirkland-Casgrain, first woman to enter the legislature and the cabinet, said the proposed legislation is "an immense step forward."

Is fined $50 by Welfare Court

A Sherbrooke man was sentenced in Sherbrooke Social Welfare Court yesterday to a $50 fine after being found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Court officials said the charge arose out of alleged sexual immorality involving a 15-year-old boy. The man had pleaded not guilty to the charge, but Judge Roger Bouchard found him guilty.

Shot fired at a car

A Sherbrooke policeman fired a shot in the air in an attempt to stop a speeding car, at around 2 a.m. this morning.

The car, black in color turned from Depot Street west onto King at a high speed, and the policeman signaled for it to stop, municipal police say. The car, however, did not slow down but continued in its course. The constable then fired the shot.

Police said, this morning that they have no explanation of the incident.

Urges Canada play bigger role in helping new African nations

Canada can and should play a big role in Africa, said Rotary Club speaker Michael Struelens at last night's meeting in the New Sherbrooke Hotel.

Mr. Struelens, head of the Institute for African Affairs located at the University of Sherbrooke, said that Canadians would be welcomed in Africa as replacements of the administrators from former colonial powers.

Africa, he said, has been much in the news recently. There have been 10,000 people killed in Ruanda-Urundi over the last month and 4,000 killed in Zanzibar. All of the new African regimes are unstable. Red Chinese foreign minister Chou en Lai has predicted that China will be the centre for revolutions for the next ten years, said Mr. Struelens.

Much of the instability of the new states is the result of colonial expansion in the last century, he said. European powers partitioned Africa according to whoever explored it first. Had British explorers gone a little farther west Katanga would have become a British possession.

This partition, he said, was artificial for it split up tribes that wanted to remain together. However, the colonial era has set up these new political entities and such tribes will probably never become united in a single state.

The year 1956, said Mr. Struelens, was the turning point in African colonialism. This was the year that Britain and France were forced to withdraw after trying to repossess the Suez Canal from Egypt.

This had a tremendous political impact on Africa, he said. It showed that the colonial powers were no longer the strongest in world affairs, so that political agitation for independence developed rapidly.

Today, said Mr. Struelens, there are 32 independent nations in Africa. They have tremendous influence over international decisions, for two-thirds of the United Nations is made up of Afro-Asian countries.

"These countries are very experienced in government, he said, so that there is a bad trend towards demagoguery in the UN. Small principalities such as Ruanda-Urundi and the Congo have the same vote as the

The Doctor Says

IS COLIC IMAGINARY? QUESTION ASKED OFTEN

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT M.D.

Is there really such a thing as colic, or is it a disease which exists only in the minds of new mothers? The question is far from settled. Here are the facts:

Most babies, when first brought home from the hospital, do a fair amount of crying. These babies can be divided into two groups: those who sleep about 22 hours a day and do most of their crying between 6 and 10 p.m. and those who cry off and on day and night but mostly at night.

The easiest explanation in both cases is that these babies have gas in the digestive tract that is causing pain and making them cry. But let's look at the broad canvas.

The newborn baby, unlike a colt or a newborn elephant, cannot walk. He has to get his exercise some way. So when he cries he puts his whole body into it. If the parents recognize this as a normal activity and don't worry about it, the crying spells should not be unusually troublesome.

Gas in the stomach and intestines is there all right but it is swallowed air. The more the baby cries the more air he swallows. This has been proved by X-ray studies. The gas, therefore, is a result of his crying and not the cause of it.

First-born babies are more likely to go through a "colicky" period of three or four months than subsequent infants because the parents are more tense with a first child and if there's one thing a baby can sense from earliest infancy, it is tension. If the tension is the result of family discord, the baby will most likely be one of those who cries off and on all night.

With these facts in mind, most doctors had just about given up using the word "colic" when along came some reports from Dr. W. L. Bradford and his co-workers at the University of Rochester that seem to indicate that there is more to this problem than meets the eye. In studies on colicky and noncolicky babies they found that the colicky babies did not have a chemical compound (pregnenolol glucuronide) in their urine that is found in the urine of noncolicky babies.

This compound is derived from the progesterone in the blood. At birth all babies have a supply of it inherited from the mother, but, as the supply diminishes, some babies are not as prompt at manufacturing their own as others. If progesterone is given to them twice a day for seven to 10 days, their colic quickly disappears.

These two viewpoints do not necessarily contradict each other. There are some colicky infants whose trouble is a bad emotional environment and others who need a little supplementary hormone to tide them over.

Weekly activities at Stanstead College

February 11, Stanstead College was host to the Senior hockey and basketball teams of Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue. Stanstead won the hockey game by a score of 4 to 0 for Macdonald. Scoring for Stanstead College were Bob Wilton, 3, and Jimmie Gordon, 1.

Stanstead College senior basketball team defeated Macdonald in a very well played game. Stanstead scored 64 to Macdonald's 56.

Saturday night the College and Beebe Bantams met on the Border Arena ice. This was also a well played game, the college winning by a score of 2 to 0. Jim Fletcher and Colin Fleet accounted for the College goals.

The College Midget hockey team went down to defeat before a stronger team from Lower Canada College in Montreal. The score was 9 to 0.

Standings of the Senior hockey team on Feb. 9 are 29 points for Bill Greenshields and 19 for Bob Wilton, with Jimmie Gordon standing at 13 points. In the Midget team Tom Garland and Laurie Holland each have 12 points and Brent Houle 11.

February 12 Bishop's College and Stanstead — Midgets will meet on the ice at the Border Arena at 2:30 p.m. The game will be followed at 3:45 by Headmaster Edward Cayley's Intra-mural hockey team clashing with the B.C.S. Orphan team, also at the Border Arena. The two teams are made up of boys not on the other regular teams.

Take it from Kathy
By KATHY PETERSON

Dear Kathy: The biggest problem most girls and boys seem to have is that parents never want to treat them as if they are grown-up. Sometimes we could help, and we'd at least like to know what's going on. The things that happen to our parents bother us, too, but they don't seem to realize that.

My parents have some serious problems. They don't think I know, but I couldn't help hearing lots of things. I haven't said anything because they avoided the subject. My mother looks worried, and is grumpy all the time. Do you think I should tell her I know about things? If I just knew how serious this really is, I'd feel better. — T. F.

Dear T.F.: Deciding whether to tell children about family problems is very difficult. Hiding unpleasant facts doesn't always protect them from anxiety. High schoolers would like to feel they share problems.

Chronic complaining isn't right. It's an adult's job to solve little problems without looking for sympathy, and to provide answers for the big ones. When a crisis is serious enough to affect every family member, I think it should be explained and a solution presented to older children.

You should have a talk with your mother. Discussing things will help. It might be a relief to her to know she no longer has to hide the facts and you'll find she has some answers.

Dear Kathy: My hair is a horrible problem, and it isn't just my imagination. Everyone teases me and even gives me silly nicknames because of it. It's reddish-blond and stands out like a neon sign. No matter how hard I try to care for it, it looks as if I combed it with an eggbeater. Can you help me? — Wanda.

Dear Wanda: Perhaps you are trying for something too elaborate. When color is very outstanding, you do yourself a favor when you keep hair simple with a soft, smooth line.

Save your allowance so you can have your hair done properly once by a good professional. Make the visit a lesson on hair care. Have all your questions ready in advance.

If you hair goes to extremes (very thick or thin, curly or straight), cut could be the problem. A hairdresser can make it behave, and most girls don't need very frequent cuts.

You might be trying styles that are impossible for your type of hair. Curly hair has a mind of its own. You have to learn to follow the line it takes naturally. Soft, fine hair won't adapt to an elaborate hairdo. Ask the professional for advice.

Family Night held at Derby Line in observance of Boy Scout Week

DERBY LINE — Boy Scouts of America Week was observed by Troop 80, on Feb. 7, when Family Night took place in the Universal Church hall, attended by a record number of parents, brothers and sisters of the boys.

The guest speaker was Joseph Ouellette, Derby Elementary School teacher, who spoke on his recent work in Santo Domingo, which is claimed to be the burial place of Columbus. Mr. Ouellette spoke of the Spanish influence in the architecture of the buildings, traditions and cultures of the nation, and on the social situation. He stated that baseball is the number one sport and the district is a winter training center. He also spoke on the treatment of tourists and visitors and men on business, such as himself, and of the brutal policy of the government. To the assembly he said, "Travel will make you appreciate America as you never appreciated it before".

Mr. Ouellette was introduced by the emcee, Assistant Scoutmaster James Stevens, and thanked by Raymond Petelle. The evening commenced with a banquet, provided and served by mothers of Scouts. # Eager young money-hunters dig up $50

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — Over 100 eager money-hunting youngsters turned out for the Treasure Hunt here Monday night, another one of the Winter Carnival activities.

As all events concerning youngsters, this one was loaded with shrieks and laughter and tears of disappointment as scores of enthusiastic, potential millionaires sought the hidden tickets across town.

And the tickets were really well-hidden said Jacques Gagnon, president of the Carnival. Some tickets were hidden on the bridge in downtown Cowansville, some at the railroad crossing on the Farnham Road, others in and near the City Hall and the Catholic Church.

In all, $50 worth of tickets were well stashed away, the highest ticket being a $6 one by the tracks, and the hunt lasted the better part of an hour.

This was followed by a comedy movie shown at College St. Leon.

New fiscal plan advanced

QUEBEC — (CP) — Premier Lesage said Tuesday the Quebec Government has proposals ready on how Quebec may obtain an equivalent amount of money from Ottawa for federal-provincial programs it doesn't want to enter.

Mr. Lesage told the Legislature he has given "precise directions" to government officials who will be going to Ottawa this week to lay the groundwork for the next federal-provincial fiscal conference, to be held in Quebec, probably late in March.

Mr. Lesage spoke briefly in the House as review of a $41,000,000 set of supplementary estimates was completed. His statement was made after Roads Minister Bernard Pinard reiterated that the Quebec Government does not intend to enter any national road building program and that Quebec will seek an equivalent amount of money through a "contracting out" agreement.

Several months ago, Federal Works Minister Deschatelets proposed a conference to set up a national road building program.

The House was debating a $12,000,000 item to help pay for expropriations in the City of Montreal for the new route of the Trans-Canada highway. The route is to run along DeCarie boulevard from Metropolitan Boulevard, almost to the water front, Mr. Pinard

May become annual event

18 teams will compete this weekend in first ET dog-sled international derby

By GORDON ENGLAND (Record correspondent)

SUTTON — This coming weekend, there will be staged a sports event of a kind never before seen in the Eastern Townships.

This will be the Dog-Sled Derby sponsored by Sutton Junior Chamber of Commerce.

An International event, the Derby promises to furnish thrills for spectators as well as for musher-and-dog participants.

A purse of $1,000 is offered for prizes, including a $300 first prize, $200 second prize, $100 third prize, and smaller cash awards to several less successful entrants. A further incentive for keen competition will be a trophy.

The fact, too, that it is an International Derby, makes the dogsled race especially interesting, for that allows entry by some famous American dog team drivers, as well as by seasoned top grade Canadian ones.

In all, there are five entries from the United States and 13 from Canada.

In the majority of teams, there will be nine dogs. Altogether, there should be at least 150 racing sled-dogs.

"Well worth notice also," declared Mrs. H. Jones, owner of Igloo Kennels where she raises handsome white Samoyeds a few miles from town, and who has been registering entries for the big event, "are the dog-teams from Quebec. The young, French-Canadian drivers, without money to invest in high priced purebreds, have chosen and trained dog which they call Croise, which are really mongrels. In races, though, they are really famous drivers. One, is a musher who I rate as the best woman driver in North America. She is Jean Bryar, winner of the North American championship in an Alaskan Derby a year or so ago.

Her husband, Keith Bryar, is also a famous musher and has won big prizes in several big dog-sled events.

"Another American entry, Lee Fishback," said Mrs. Jones, "came up from Nevada City, California, to compete in many Canadian events during the past two months. He drives a team of big Huskies they use in the California Sierras."

"Young Canadians will rivet attention upon Jamie McDougall of Ste. Agathe. Only 13, he has driven dogs since age of eight, although this is his first year in actual competition. Not long ago, he came third in a Dog Derby at Waitsfield, Vermont. He has five fine dogs," she said.

Richard Mireault, president of Sutton Junior Chamber of Commerce, said that the Derby is intended to provide Sutton with favorable publicity.

"We want to put our town on the map in large letters," he said, "and to prepare the way for a big drive of all our chief town clubs to obtain funds to use for a large playground and other recreational facilities for children. Already, our recreation club has built a good skating rink this winter. That, though, is just the start." he said.

There will be no admission charge for spectators at the Dog Derby, but, with the course closed to the public, the only points for view of the contest will be the starting place in a field opposite Crittenden Lodge on the ski road, at the roads' intersection at the Eric Poissant farm, and at the intersection of the Parmentier and Boyes roads near the Harold Boyes' place.

The 12-mile course, running from Crittendens' past the Auberge Gaiete, around the new road down to Poissants' farm, and then along the Parmentier road to the Boyes' one and back by the same route will be used for the race from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Teams will start at intervals of two minutes from 2 to 2:36 p.m.

Like thoroughbred racehorses, sled-dogs are as keen as their owners for competition — and that start, with barking dogs eager to prove their mettle and speed, will be thrilling indeed to see. So, too, should be the finish!

Sunday night, after the races have finished, the trophy and prizes will be awarded at a Canadian style supper of beans, bacon and similar traditional foods provided for contestants and officials at the St. Pierre sugarhouse.

"If the race proves as successful as we hope and expect it should be," said Richard Mireault, "we shall make it an annual event."

MANSONVILLE —

Among those attending the funeral of Mrs. R. F. Cowan were: Mr. and Mrs. Earle Cowan and daughters, Faye and Jean, Mansfield, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. George Bissor, Attleboro, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Jersey, Dorval, and Miss Madeleine Jersey, Montreal; Mr. Wayne Doncaster, Irasburg, Vt.; Mr. Otis Doncaster, Derby Vt.; Mrs. Burton Austin, Mrs. Ray Powers and Mrs. Richard Jenness, West Charleston, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bresse, Mrs. Henry Hoyt and son, Alvin, Sutton; Mr. Clinton Boright, Abercorn; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Aiken, Sr., North Troy, Vt.; Rev. M. Galbraith, St. Johns; and Mr. Geo. Lavery of Howick, Que., as well as many friends from Waterloo, Sutton and Knowlton.

Plans to go before town council

Regional recreation council under study by Les Loisirs

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — Plans were discussed here Monday night for the establishment of a Regional Recreation Council or committee.

The motion was made at the monthly meeting of Les Loisirs de Cowansville Inc. (Cowansville Recreation Inc.) and it was decided unanimously to invite mayors and recreation committee representatives of surrounding municipalities to the Cowansville group's next meeting on March 13.

Also decided at this meeting, was the beginning of a recreational needs study to be undertaken by the Sports Committee, headed by Leslie Jordan. A spokesman for the recreation body said "the present parks and playgrounds are already inadequate for this summer's needs."

The study will be presented to the next Town Council meeting, along with the request that Cowansville appoint and hire a full-time recreational director.

NORTH SUTTON —

By TED BEAUDOIN (Record staff reporter)

Institute meets at Knowlton

KNOWLTON LANDING — A meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the Club Room on Feb. 5. In the absence of the president, the secretary conducted the meeting.

Thank-you notes were read from two who had been remembered while in hospital. The sunshine convener was asked to send baskets of fruit to two sick-its.

A discussion took place on the qualities of a good citizen, led by the secretary. It was decided to ask Mrs. C. George to make up the new programs.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. C. Ewens.

The annual meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Porter Knowlton on March 4.

The melting-pot city of Hamilton now is including French Canadians

HAMILTON (CP) — French-speaking population and customs are enjoying an upsurge in this industrial city of Ontario's polyglot "Golden Horseshoe" area.

French explorer Sieur de LaSalle went through this region in 1669. The French population was minimal. In the last dozen years, it has almost doubled to 11,493.

In the first 200 years since this group — about equal to the population of the city of Noranda, Que.—has acquired a new Roman Catholic church and French-language school, a caisse populaire (credit union), church men's and women's leagues and a flock of religious and sports clubs.

The recent population eruption follows a long period of slow build-up since about 1900 in the city of original United Empire Loyalist stock. French-Canadians now are the fourth-largest language bloc behind the English, Italians and Germans.

Members of Colombian Indian tribe make short visit to civilization

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Smartly dressed travellers scurrying through Bogota's modernistic El Dorado air terminal paused, their eyes popping.

For the natives, there was a round of sightseeing, visits to newspaper offices and dinner in a posh restaurant. A department store donated blue jeans, shoes and khaki shirts.

Four wary Indians, clad only in the briefest of loincloths and led by a Roman Catholic priest, filed silently through the gleaming glass and cement structure.

Strangers to shoes, the Indians hobbled down the capital's main thoroughfares in obvious discomfort, with curious crowds at their heels.

From under thick thatches of black hair, trimmed in fruit-bowl style, their level gazes met the curious stares of their big city brethren.

Tribal policy cut short the planned, three-day instruction period in Bogota.

It marked the introduction to civilization of the Motilon tribe. Rafael Garcia Herrores hopes to bring it training in modern agricultural techniques.

Back on the Rio Catatumba, the Motilon war minister, uneasy about the safety of the tribe's travellers, sent word the five settlers would be executed unless his four subjects were returned home immediately.

A successful sale of home-baked goods was held in the I.G.A. store under the auspices of the Home and School Association on Feb. 7, with Mrs. Gordon Gonyer and Mrs. Ernest Mills in charge. The sum of $50 was realized.

LIVE WEALTH

Livestock remains the principal wealth of Mongolia, which has perhaps the world's highest per capita possession of horses, camels and cattle.

Ban billboards in beauty bid

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal has restricted outdoor advertising in a move to beautify the city and preserve its character.

Council has passed legislation preventing the erection of new billboards on vacant lots and signs on top of buildings advertising goods not connected with the property.

"We feel that within a few years this will check the deplorable situations existing in some sections of the city," says Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the Montreal Executive Committee.

"There were virtually no limits on the size or number of signs or how far out they could be hung over sidewalks. We felt this was a disorderly situation."

The bylaws, which exempt existing signboards and placards, limit outdoor advertising to one sign for each building except at an intersection.

The main immediate effect on owners of existing signs will be that they must move billboards if they are less than 25 feet from intersections.

SIZE RESTRICTED

Signs on commercial building fronts will be restricted to advertising flush with the facade and no more than nine inches in thickness. The size of posters will be restricted to outside wall measurements.

Other new signs may project no more than three feet over sidewalks.

"Because of the disorderly sign situation, the public can hardly see the results of a big effort to improve Montreal's appearance," Mr. Saulnier says.

A long-range benefit would be that as the city's general appearance improved, property values would rise.

The legislation was passed unanimously after council had received briefs from business organizations who, Mr. Saulnier says, supported the bylaws "quite enthusiastically."

"Even the billboard companies were quite co-operative."

The bylaw, exempt non-illuminated signs on vacant lots advertising the property for sale, signs announcing hours of religious functions, election posters and placards designating the place where merchandise is to be delivered.

Pledge money, fees increased by W.A. group

AYER'S CLIFF — A meeting of St. George's Women's Auxiliary was held Feb. 4 at the home of Mrs. Webster when a visitor, Mrs. Dolloff, joined the 12 members present.

Canon H. C. Denton opened the meeting with Scripture reading and prayer.

Motions to increase both pledge money and fees were adopted. Mrs. McFaul, Thank-Offering secretary, distributed boxes to members who wished to have them.

The World Day of Prayer service was discussed and Mrs. John Ashworth was appointed to attend a joint meeting with other denominations, to arrange final plans. Mrs. Maude Chadsey, Miss Kezar and Mrs. McFaul will represent the W. A. at the service.

It was decided to have a tea, at which slides of the Anglican Congress will be shown by Mrs. Matthews, of Lennoxville. Mrs. McFaul offered to solicit food for the event, and the G. A. girls will assist in serving. Ladies from the other church associations will be invited to attend.

Mrs. Atkinson offered her home for the March meeting.

Counselling given Vancouver girls in some of city department stores

VANCOUVER (CP) — The idea that a teen-age girl often finds it easier to talk about personal problems with a stranger has led to expanded services by Vancouver department stores.

Miss Sylvia's program, which passes a box for questions and answers after class for private conferences. Hudson's Bay also conducts a fashion council for 18 girls and put on shows under Miss Sylvia's direction.

Their beauty, charm and personality courses are, in some cases, developing into full-fledged counselling departments.

"Almost everyone who comes needs to come," says Barbara Winkler, fashion co-ordinator for Eaton's. "Their problems are more easily dealt with by a stranger. Their questions are the ones they're embarrassed to ask at home."

The curriculum encompasses subjects as personal as behavior on dates, figure correction and shyness, to say nothing of the whole problem of wardrobe, cosmetics and grooming.

Mrs. Winkler, Gail McKenzie at Woodwards and Miss Sylvia at the Hudson's Bay store oversee courses that give instruction every year to more than 1,000 teen-age girls.

Each program is stamped with the personality of its author. Mrs. Winkler, for example, declares herself "dead against the pomphousness that is so often associated with modelling and charm courses."

Her junior deb course for girls under 17 had 100 students in three classes last fall, emphasizing character development and establishing self-confidence.

"We want inner poise. We want the girls to be thinking about things and not appearance."

Complexion problems are discussed. Wardrobe planning, grooming and hair styling, courtesy and manners dominate the curriculum. Because Mrs. Winkler doesn't want the girls preoccupied with makeup, this subject isn't stressed.

She likes to think she has improved on charm schools she has studied in Eastern Canada, schools that do not strike her as being thorough enough.

Gail McKenzie takes girls 13 to 18 and places more emphasis on modelling, winding up each course with a fashion show. Individual advice is her forte.

"So often they tend to follow each other like sheep," she says. "You know, if one wears boots then the other does, too, even if her legs are too fat for them. That's what we try to overcome. We want each girl to know and do what is best for her."

Agriculture is topic of paper at Cookshire WI

COOKSHIRE — The W.I. met at the home of Mrs. H. V. Burns on Feb. 5, with the vice president, Mrs. R. B. Learned, in the chair.

The agriculture convener, Mrs. R. G. Hodge, gave an interesting paper on agriculture, showing that farms provide employment for more than three times as many workers as all other primary industries combined.

In production value, agriculture contributes almost 40 per cent of the total net worth of primary production. Among the major industrial groups it is surpassed in importance only by the secondary industries of manufacturing and construction. The processing of farm products accounts for over 25 per cent of the average gross values of factory shipments from manufacturing industries; and that of the manufacturing industries which contribute almost 55 per cent of the net value of industrial production in Canada, 26 per cent depend on farm products.

It was suggested that a St. John Ambulance course be given at the Leadership's Training course this year at Macdonald College; project ideas for the Cookshire Fair and the Centenary, are to be brought to the next meeting. A letter is to be sent to the Macdonald technician concerning information for a course.

The group was in favor of providing nurses' scholarships.

The treasurer's report showed a fair balance on hand. Verbal thanks were given by Mrs. Worby and Mrs. T. O. Farnsworth.

A letter of thanks for favors from the society with a donation enclosed was received from Mrs. E. A. Bailey.

Solicitations were made for Save the Children Fund, and Christmas stockings.

The citizenship convener, Mrs. A. W. Darker, read parts of the late President Kennedy's speech, the essence of which was, peace.

The home economics convener, Mrs. O. C. Farnsworth read the last poem of Robert Frost. She also gave a few hints on saving sugar.

The program committee for the ensuing year will consist of Mrs. J. W. French, Mrs. R. G. Hodge, Mrs. P. J. Cassidy; the nominating committee, Mrs. Heatherington and Mrs. O. C. Farnsworth; Mac Mowle was appointed auditor.

The ladies were requested to bring in their knitted squares to the next meeting.

Some drapes are to be donated to the Sherbrooke Hospital by the Compton County W.I., the various branches to share in the cost.

In answer to the roll call donations of cotton for cancer dressings were received.

Mrs. Donald Standish showed slides of her flower garden, family and the snow piles around the town last winter. Miss Esther Farnsworth introduced Mrs. Standish, who was thanked by Miss K. Learned.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Burns, assisted by Mrs. Clarke and Mrs. Darker.

Howie, Hawks' latest ex goes out with door slam

The slam of an apartment door Tuesday night apparently signified the end of the tempestuous career of Howie Young with Chicago Black Hawks.

The door, closed in the face of a reporter by the temperamental defence man, was Young's way of indicating unwillingness to comment on an announcement that the National Hockey League club had sold him to Los Angeles Blades of the Western League. He also declined to answer his telephone.

But Young conferred for more than an hour with Chicago general manager Tommy Ivan before the deal was announced. The inference is that he had reconsidered his earlier decision to quit hockey rather than join a minor-league club.

The announcement simply said Young has been sold for an undisclosed amount of cash and players to be named later. For the 26-year-old defence man, it was a least a temporary halt to a stormy stay in the NHL in which he set a penalty record, embroiled himself with management, league officials and police and won a loyal following among hometown fans with his robust play and occasional brilliance.

The Hawks got Young in a trade with Detroit for goalie Roger Crozier last summer and at that time Ivan said he had a perfect method of reforming Young. He never disclosed his formula, but it didn't work.

Toronto Maple Leafs, meanwhile, have taken to reading

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's "the power of positive thinking" in an effort to rid themselves of a slump that has all but knocked them out of the NHL pennant race.

Twenty-five copies of the book were delivered to the Leafs as they boarded a train in Toronto for tonight's game with the Canadiens in Montreal. The only other contest has New York visiting Chicago.

Manager-coach Punch Imlach bought the books for the Leafs, but Gaulin and Pariseau 'got hot' and notched 10 and nine points respectively.

The Independents took over in the last two quarters as they completely outplayed the Old Boys, especially in close where Garth Smith, Jean-Guy Ouellette, and Curtis Bishop snaggled rebound after rebound. Dan Partridge also added strength under the boards, and his accurate hook shots gave him 11 points for the evening.

Garth Smith individually dominated both the statistics and the game. He netted 20 points in a fine all-round effort, rebounding and shooting well and doing much of the ball carrying for the Independents. Curt Bishop and Bruce Coulter added 15 and 10 points respectively to the Molson's total.

One of the factors in the win was they way in which Molson's stopped Mike Bryson, as the high-scoring forward only managed nine points for the night. Gaulin and Pariseau also found the going rough in the second half, as the big center scored but four points, while Pariseau netted eight to give him 17, before fouling out near the end of the match.

BISHOP'S — V. Hall 11, Doug Campbell, Dave Odfield 13, Mike Holden, Ken Taylor 13, Ian Hammond 4, Bill Stockwell 8, Bob Coombs 12, Bob Aitken 12, Ian Dinning 7, Total 80.

SHERBROOKE DOW — G. Robinson 9, Jim Blake 11, Mike Allart 9, Milton White 13, Bob Lothrop 2, Dale Lindsay 1, Richard Bean 5, George Addis 2, Total 52.

MOLSON'S — B. Coulter 10, C. Bishop 15, G. Smith 20, J. Ouellette 6, D. Patridge 11, B. McGibbon 2, Total 64.

ST. PAT'S — B. Harding 6, D. Finlay 2, G. Morin 1, K. Pariseau 17, D. Brady, M. Bryson 9, J. Wray 4, B. Gaulin 14, B. Smith, Total 53.

Those planning to attend the supper are asked to sign their name or names on the notice at the club. Supper fee cost is 99 cents.

Plans are also being made for the February 20 card party at the club with dessert to be served at 1:30 p.m. Card games will be bridge, 500 or canasta.

who have won only two of their last 13 games and slipped 10 points behind Chicago and Montreal. He copied the idea from Montreal's Bobby Rousseau, who credits the book with his success this year.

The Canadiens star, who scored five goals in one game recently, is now reading a sequel: A Guide to Confident Living.

Leaf problems involve nearly all players on the team, but the front office and disgruntled fans are pointing the finger at big Frank Mahovlich, whose $1,000,000 price tag of 18 months ago has been reduced considerably.

Now the Boston Bruins may be able to pick up the slumping, lethargic left-winger for little more than a song.

Maple Leaf officials have not denied that Mahovlich is dispensable. In fact, vice-president Harold Ballard says "I'd trade or sell anybody if the bait is good enough" and Imlach says the Big M is not "untouchable."

Most frequently mentioned is a possible trade with Boston for hard-working left wingers Andy Heberton and Dean Prentice. There has been no official confirmation of this speculation.

Tonight's game will mark the third time this season that Montreal is at full strength. Defenceman Jean-Guy Talbot returns to the lineup after missing two weeks' action with a charleyhorse.

with around 300 sticks each a season.

A lumber dealer here figures that that wood would be enough to build five $15,000 homes.

Figure at about $2 a stick ($3 for goalkeepers), the bill would run to about $23,000.

Montreal Canadiens are the hardest on sticks as a team, averaging 164 a man. Last year Habs used and abused 2,952.

Dickie Moore, who retired this season, was the champ. He got through 252. Next was Bernie (Room Boom) Geoffroy with 228 followed by Jean Bellevue with 216. Surprisingly high up was Henri Richard, who doesn't use the slap shot as the Boomer does, and doesn't pack the weight of his two mates. All are forwards.

A goal coming after 45 seconds play in the opening period sent the Lennoxville boys on their way. Van Horn got credit for the tally but the puck went into the net off a Sherbrooke defenceman's stick, Lennoxville, by this early tally, kept up their attack. Warner made it two nothing scoring on a pass from McVety.

McVety increased the visitors' lead scoring with Van Horn drawing the assist. Keeping the homesters on the run, Desjardins banged home their fourth goal just before the period ended.

The final period saw Sherbrooke make a determined effort to cut down the Lennoxville lead but the best they could do was a goal from A. Cook after 12 minutes play and time ran out on them, Lennoxville coming through with a close 4-3 victory.

In a game that was well played by both teams, Lennoxville High, holding out grimly in the final period to get the win were well served by Desjardins, Warner and McVety. Haffenden, Schofield, Oxford and Walker starred for the losers.

Sticks broken during NHL year enough lumber for five houses

MONTREAL (CP) — Ever wonder how many hockey sticks are broken by the six National Hockey League teams each season? The answer is more than 11,500.

Want to know which players break the most? They happen to be the league's two top point-getters, left winger Bobby Hull and centre Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks, with around 300 sticks each a season. A lumber dealer here figures that that wood would be enough to build five $15,000 homes.

Van Horn got credit for the tally but the puck went into the net off a Sherbrooke defenceman's stick, Lennoxville, by this early tally, kept up their attack. Warner made it two nothing scoring on a pass from McVety.

McVety increased the visitors' lead scoring with Van Horn drawing the assist. Keeping the homesters on the run, Desjardins banged home their fourth goal just before the period ended.

Going into the second period and four goals down, the Sherbrooke boys broke into the scoring column at the 10 minute mark. D. Raban, with A. Cook assisting accounted for the tally. Going all out to get back into the game, the Sherbrooke boys putting heavy pressure on the Lennoxville defence again broke through this time. R. Haffenden scored on a solo rush. This was all the scoring in the second period, Lennoxville still ahead by a 4-2 score.

Powerful LPS walks away with 114-35 holocaust

In Sherbrooke Basketball League action last night, the Loisirs Perpetuel-Secours seniors walked away with a 114-35 decisive victory over their hosts, St. Francis, showing their strength in every man, as each visiting player received credits in the game.

The first quarter proved to be the roughest of the game as referees dealt out 19 personal fouls to St. Francis as compared to three of L.P.S.

Throughout the first half, L.P.S. continued a strong offensive effort over their hosts which resulted in the score standing 64-19 in their favour. Loisirs Perpetuel-Secours, a team which has become known throughout the league for their better brand of ball, capitalized on their opponents' mistakes, as they were led by Pete Brodeur, who cut the strings for twenty-three points by halftime.

As play resumed in the second half, there was no doubt as to who would leave with the honours as St. Francis made a fruitless effort in coming even close to their visitors. Throughout the second half, both regular and substitute players alike, tallied for L.P.S. as they soon soared to the 100 mark and even higher. The rough tactics used by St. Francis did them no good, for their visitors tallied even on the foul shots.

Once again, L.P.S. proved that a well knit club, with remarkable team spirit can do wonders in the victory circle, for this game was the tenth straight victory for L.P.S. in the Sherbrooke Basketball League.

Outstanding L.P.S. players were Pete Brodeur and Pete Dugas as they led the visitors with 47 and 29 points respectively while Rick Vallee and Serge Morin soared towards the backboards for rebounds. J. Provencal and M. Bugin played well and mannerly for St. Francis.

In cage action for this weekend, L.P.S. will visit St. Pat's Friday night at 7:15. A victory for the Irish over their strong opponents would tie them for second place with Marymount High.

Teams
L.P.S.: P. Brodeur 47; P. Dugas 29; Rick Vallee 17; R. Nadeau 8; M. Choquette 4; D. Brown 4; A. Belanger 3; R. Calvert 1; C. Perreault 1; F. McNeil 11.

St. Francis: R. Hamel 11; M. Begin 8; J. Provencal 6; P. Labrecque 4; A. Levesque 2; G. Lamoureux 2; C. Duford 2; D. Toque. Total - 35.

Two hockey Hull brothers may play for Chicago after Dennis' showing

Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League may have two left-wingers named Hull playing for them before too long—Bobby and his 19-year-old brother Dennis.

The younger Hull fired three goals Tuesday night to pace St. Catharines Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series to a 4-1 win over Niagara Falls Flyers.

The three - goal effort gave Dennis a total of 39 for the season and boosted him into sole possession of third place in the league scoring parade.

The win was the eighth in 11 games for the Hawks and, combined with two ties in that stretch, gives them a three-point third-place margin over Niagara Falls.

The only other league game saw Oshawa Generals move 14 points ahead of Hamilton Red Wings in the run for sixth place by dumping the latter 4-2.

Ken Hodge fired his 31st goal of the term to round out the St. Catharines scoring.

The lone Niagara Falls goal was scored by Bill Goldsworthy. Ron Buchanan, a second-year man with Oshawa, picked up his 42nd and 43rd goals of the season to pace the Generals' attack. Bob Kilger broke up the game with a third-period goal. George Vail got the other goal. Nick Libett and Peter Lovell replied for the Wings.

REMEMBER WHEN
Willie Logan of Saint John, N.B., won the Canadian indoor speedskating championship at the Montreal Forum 30 years ago today. He amassed a total of 140 points by winning the 220 yards, 440 and 880 yard events and the three-mile, beating his nearest rival, Leo Freisinger of Chicago, by 70 points.

The listless Leaf is disappointing

TORONTO (CP) — The price has plunged on Frank Mahovlich.

A little more than a year ago Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League were reported to have turned down an offer of $1,000,000 for him.

Now bargain hunters around the league may be able to pick up the big left winger for a fraction of the 1962 price.

SHS Bantams play Lennoxville, BCS and break even with win and loss

Sherbrooke High School Hockey Bantams in their two games played last weekend broke even Saturday they took a 4-1 win over BCS Hurons and on Monday they lost a close 4-3 decision against Lennoxville High School Bantams.

Their next game is this evening against St. Pat's Bantams.

A. Cook, starry centerman of the Sherbrooke Bantams was the big gun in the game with the Hurons. Cook scored all four goals for the winners. After five minutes play in the opening period, Cook, breaking away with D. Raban, scored on Raban's pass from close in.

Hurons came right back and tied it up at one all, the goal being scored by Stairs on a pass from Brakely. This was at the twelve minute mark.

The High School boys took the lead again after two minutes play in the second period, Cook with R. Raban teaming up for the tally. Hurons tried hard to get on even terms again but Oxford and Walker on the High School defence broke up most of their plays in front of the Sherbrooke goal.

Cook with two goals in the third period put the issue on ice for the home team; R. Raban drew assists on both goals. Time ran out with the BCS boys still trying to get back in the game.

Cook was outstanding for the winners with Oxford, Walker and the two Raban boys also showing up well. Willis, Stairs and Clark were best for the losers.

New telephone developments described to Optimist Clubs

Time Assignment Speech Interpretation (TASI) was described on Monday by P. H. Lavallee of The Bell Telephone Company of Canada as one of the most startling developments in the telephone business.

TASI is a device that allows nearly twice as many people to talk together over the telephone as there are telephone circuits, he told the Sherbrooke Optimist Club during a 30-minute lecture demonstration.

"In short, it allows 72 people at one end of a trans-oceanic cable to talk with 72 people at the other end while the cable contains only 36 circuits," he said.

Mr. Lavallee said TASI is doing much more than providing need for overseas telephone circuits. Its technique is very simple in principle, but requires some of the most complex equipment ever developed in the telecommunications business.

The Bell representative described a newer development in the experimental stage which he said he considered even more amazing. Called Pulse Code Modulation, this newer development involves a technique which enables telephone scientists to change human words into a code.

He also spoke of transmission engineers' turn to outer space as another element through which telephonic signals may be propelled about the earth.

The successful launching of Telstar was the first step towards this new communications outlet, he said. Telstar was conceived and built by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company and launched into space by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Eventually, Mr. Lavallee said there will be numerous active satellites circling the earth. These satellites would be launched into position with modern rockets to do the job that microwave transmitters now do on land.

The satellites would especially be needed for the proposed inter-continental telephone, data and television transmission on an instantaneous basis.

Cables, microwaves and even the long range Tropospheric Scatter System cannot accomplish this job.

"The answer," he said, "Simple. Build towers in the air. And that is just what communications experts have in mind."

He said these and many more communication devices would go a long way towards meeting the growing demand for good service. All these new devices were the result of intensive basic and applied research, the research being done with a view of providing better and more economical service.

Jobless figure reduced

OTTAWA (CP)—An estimated 466,000 persons in Canada were unemployed in mid-January, 75,000 fewer than a year earlier, the labor department and bureau of statistics said today in a joint report.

The January unemployment total was 120,000 higher than in December, but the increase was described as "normal for this time of year." The rise was largely among men 20 to 64 years of age.

As a percentage of the estimated labor force, the January jobless rate was seven per cent, compared with 8.3 per cent in January, 1963, and 8.8 per cent in January, 1962. Seasonally adjusted, the January unemployment rate was 4.9 per cent, unchanged from December.

The job picture in brief, with estimates in thousands:

	Jan. Dec. Jan. 1964 1963 1962
Labor force	6,397,674 6,407,000 6,231,628
Employed	6,231,628 5,956,500 5,541,500
Unemployed	466,046 450,500 690,128

The monthly report is based on a survey of 35,000 households across Canada for the week ended Jan. 18. Since figures are based on a sample cross-section of the population, they are estimates and not precise totals.

The labor force and total employment both declined between December and January—mainly as a result of seasonal reductions in outdoor activities and the release of temporary help hired for the Christmas season, the report said.

In non-farm industries, employment showed a net decline of 189,000, described as "about average for the period." The drop in farm employment was the smallest in several years.

Although there were the anticipated month-to-month drops in the labor force and employment, the year-to-year comparison showed more workers on the job—with non-farm employment up 240,000 to 5,658,000 and agricultural work up 35,000 to 573,000.

The largest increases over the year were in service, manufacturing and trade.

TEACHERS' WALKOUT

to return to school this afternoon. Teachers there failed to show up for work yesterday and their work stoppage continues today.

A spokesman for the Coaticook School Commission said that teaching nuns and brothers would "keep the children working."

They will be given work which they can complete on their own with a minimum of help.

It was made clear however, that the religious teachers could not replace the lay teachers who form the majority of the staff in the Coaticook School system.

Meanwhile, a meeting of striking teachers was held in Textile Workers Hall in Magog yesterday.

The meeting was attended by teachers from Richmond, who drove to Magog in a long cavalcade of cars, and Magog teachers.

The teachers reaffirmed their determination to stay away from the schools until their grievances "have been dealt with satisfactorily."

The teachers are asking for increased pay and benefits totaling $318,000.

The School Commissions offer stands at $250,000.

The increased benefits demanded by the teachers can be summarized as follows:

- A guaranteed annual wage.
- 50% participation of the school commission in a group insurance scheme.
- Retention of 15-day sick leave allowances which also provides teachers extra pay if they do not take the 15-day allowances.
- The teachers insist that agreements must be signed on the local level to account for economic and social differences between the different cities in the diocese.
- The Commission claims that:
  - The demands of the teachers are exaggerated;
  - The collective agreements must be signed on the diocesan level to allow for efficient planning and uniform salary scales;
  - The uniform salary scales for the diocese would remove discrimination against poorer cities who cannot afford salaries of more wealthy cities.

Name Paris envoy to Red China

PARIS (Reuters)—France today named Claude Chayet, consul-general in Oran, Algeria, as the country's first charge d'affaires in Peking.

A Chinese charge d'affaires, Sung Chin Kuang, is expected in Paris at the end of this week, diplomatic sources said.

The way for the exchange of charge d'affaires was cleared Monday when Nationalist China broke off relations with France. This was two weeks after France had announced recognition of Communist China.

Chayet is due to leave for Peking Tuesday, arriving the following Sunday.

He is an experienced diplomat who was closely associated with the final phases of the negotiations leading to Algerian independence from France in 1962.

The Chinese Nationalist charge d'affaires was expected to leave within the next 10 days, but diplomatic sources said he is "not being hustled out of France" and will first wind up the affairs of his embassy here.

The sources added the Nationalists were hoping to maintain some form of "presence" in Paris, apart from their delegation to UNESCO, possibly by leaving behind a staff to run a "Free China" information service.

A French ambassador to Communist China will probably go to Peking in the middle of April. Although nobody has been named, usually well-informed sources said it was almost certain to be Jean Chauvel, former ambassador to Britain.

The women told the Record that if the schools are not open today they would send a protest to the Minister of Youth Paul Gerin-Lajoie, asking him to intervene in the strike.

The mothers and children are planning another demonstration in Richmond this afternoon.

Meanwhile, a 50-car cavalcade of Richmond teachers filed through the streets en route to a meeting of striking teachers in Magog.

JFK 50-CENT PIECES

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The first John F. Kennedy half dollars were struck Tuesday in U.S. mints in Philadelphia and Denver. About 90,000,000 will be made this year, with first distribution late next month or early April after 26,000,000 have been stamped.

Canada could take a great share in the development of Africa, said Mr. Struelens, because it is not large or a colonial power. Moreover, it is bilingual, he said. This is important because most of the African nations were either former English or former French colonies.

Heads group

LONDON (AP)—The International Planned Parenthood Federation Wednesday announced the appointment of Sir Colville Deverell as its first secretary-general. Sir Colville, an Irish Protestant, was governor of the Windward Islands from 1955 to 1959 and governor of Mauritius from 1959-1962.

Ban power use

BELGRADE (AP)—Yugoslavia is suffering an acute shortage of electric power because of low water in rivers. The government has banned the use of electricity for the heating of public and business premises, except hospitals and schools. Lights on streets and in public places have been reduced by 50 per cent.

Sun Life sales soar

Sales by Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada in 1963 were five per cent more than in 1962 and reached an all-time record for a Canadian life company at $1,183,000,000. G. A. St. Pierre, Sun Life Manager in Sherbrooke announced following the company's annual meeting.

Sun Life scored new records in all phases of its operation and announced that dividend scales to policyholders will be increased in 1964 for the 16th consecutive year.

Sales of individual life insurance in 1963 were up 8.3 per cent at $849.7 million and group insurance sales were $333.9 million. Total Sun Life insurance in force at year end was $11,512,000,000. Annuities were the equivalent of an additional $2,706,000,000 of life insurance.

During the year the company paid $217,000,000 to policyholders, beneficiaries and annuitants, eight per cent more than in 1962. Dividends to be paid in 1964, at $51,000,000, will be nine per cent ahead of last year.

Sun Life assets increased $115,000,000 in 1963 to $2,698,000,000. Total income for the year was $436,000,000.

At the company's annual meeting in Montreal President Alistair M. Campbell spoke on the social and economic role of life insurance companies which, he said, "by providing both the incentive and the means for family protection through personal initiative, have helped provide the vast sums necessary for investment in the many fields of human endeavour."

URGES CANADA

much larger nations. The big countries need the support of these smaller nations so that UN diplomacy has become something of a popularity contest.

Out of 32 independent African states, said Mr. Struelens, only four are economically viable. This means, he said, that 28 out of the 32 depend on foreign aid to survive and so they have much trouble following an independent national policy.

Africans want to stick together and not be divided against each other by the larger powers, he said. They are looking for unity in the same way as Europe wants it in the Common Market.

In the African conference held in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, Africans agreed on their dislike of colonialism and also on the more constructive program of getting money from the World Bank to finance the building of roads to join countries.

Many of the present leaders in Africa, said Mr. Struelens, are nice people but lack the training to run their countries. They are now being confronted with a younger generation who have good training for such positions.

These young students and army officers would like to take power. They need some moral standard, he said, and western countries should make every effort to give these young people Christian ideals rather than let them take Communist views.

The trouble in Zanzibar, he said, is an example. The trouble here was racial between Africans and Arabs but the revolutionaries who took control of the government were trained in Cuba and China.

Chou en Lai, said Mr. Struelens, was very successful during his three week tour of Africa. He didn't say much about Communism during the trip but emphasized the common dislike that both Africans and Chinese have of the colonial powers.

Mr. Struelens emphasized the danger of Communist Chinese influence in Africa.

He suggested several steps to combat Communism:

- 1) More young Africans must be trained as leaders.
- 2) Westerners must approach Africans frankly as Christians and try to communicate Christian beliefs.
- 3) Economic help must be given without political strings attached.

It is wrong for North Americans to encourage Africans to seek our high standard of living at present, he said, because they cannot possibly afford it now. Europeans also cannot expect them to quickly develop strong governments, analogous to those in the western countries when such institutions can only develop over a period of time.

Canada could take a great share in the development of Africa, said Mr. Struelens, because it is not large or a colonial power. Moreover, it is bilingual, he said. This is important because most of the African nations were either former English or former French colonies.

Sinatra jr. to testify at hearing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Frank Sinatra Jr., may get his day in court today to answer defence accusations that he helped stage his own kidnapping so he "could make the girls swoon as his papa once did."

The 19-year-old singer's name was on a list of potential witnesses handed to defence lawyers by the government. Others on the list included Milton Rudin, lawyer for the elder Sinatra, and Mrs. Nancy Sinatra, divorced wife of the famed star.

A number of employees of Harrah's Club at Lake Tahoe, Nev., also are on the list, along with trumpeter John Foss and Tino Narzi, manager of the revamped Tommy Dorsey band.

Foss was bound and gagged when two gunmen invaded the Lake Tahoe motel room and took Sinatra Jr., away last Dec. 8. Some 54 hours later, Sinatra was released unharmed after his father had paid $240,000 in small bills following a series of phone calls.

Barry Keenan, 23, Joseph Amster, 23, and John Irwin, 42, are charged in U.S. district court with the kidnapping of young Sinatra.

Their lawyers, in opening statements, all said that evidence would show no kidnapping but instead a publicity hoax.

Mrs. Gladys Towles Root, counsel for Irwin, said: "An apple doesn't fall far from its tree, and Frankie Jr. just wanted to make the girls swoon as his father once did."

MONKS JOIN FAST

Jayasuriya, who has been without food for 14 days, says the nominee was once his pupil. Doctors said Jayasuriya's condition is serious.

A race with student population explosion

Roar of bulldozer hails boom in Canadian university construction

The roar of the bulldozer and the crackle of the rivet gun are drowning out the rustle of ivy on Canadian university campuses these days. With ambitious construction programs that dwarf anything in the past, the halls of higher learning are busting out all over in a race with the student population explosion. The Canadian Press, in a Cross-Canada Survey, added the cost of building programs at 32 universities and came up with a total of more than $625,000,000 for the two decades ending in 1980. And it's inevitable that new plans to be drawn up in coming years will boost the figure well over a billion dollars. Campus expansion ranges from a comparatively modest $500,000 outlay for a science building planned by St. Dunstan's University, Charlottetown, to a 20-year program costing about $150,000,000 at York University, established in 1960 to serve Metropolitan Toronto.

ending in 1970 at the University of Western Ontario, London. An office addition, additions to an arts building, one men's residence and a small services building have been completed. McMaster University, Hamilton, plans 13 new buildings cost-initially and 100,000 eventually. One of two new wings to the education building will have facilities for producing television programs for closed circuit transmission to two Vancouver schools.

At Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., closed circuit television enabling one professor to supervise 28 laboratory classes will be a feature of a $2,900,000 teaching and research centre for biology opening this year. A feature of the University of Victoria's new $2,900,000 science building is an $8,000 astrodome built in conjunction with an astronomy lab designed to house a 16-inch telescope.

The design of Carleton University's engineering building in Ottawa, due to be completed in May, is aimed to give students and campus visitors a visual interpretation of some of the principles of engineering. Much of the mechanical equipment and structure of the building will be visible.

The University of Alberta's Calgary campus, where a $24,000,000 program is set for completion in 1970, will have a series of malls connecting major buildings.

The University of Edmonton campus program, costing nearly $20,000,000, includes a recently opened $3,000,000 research library with the same open-stack system as Carleton. A 16-storey social sciences building will cost $4,000,000.

The University of Saskatchewan's Saskatoon campus is putting up a $1,700,000 food services building that can accommodate more than 3,000 students. The Regina campus is constructing $7,300,000 worth of buildings in three connecting units.

Ryerson Polytechnical Institute recently occupied a new $15,000,000 building in Toronto that includes a special lab for handling radioactive materials and elaborate facilities for teaching radio and TV skills.

Laurentian University, Sudbury, Ont., is working on the first phase of a $15,000,000 program, including permanent quarters for the federated colleges of the Roman Catholic University of Sudbury, the United Church's Huntingdon College and the Anglican Thorneo College.

A recent addition to the University of Toronto, where a program running more than $10,000,000 is under way, is Massey College. Built by the Massey Foundation for $2,000,000, it is an advanced study centre for a limited number of post-graduate students. The U. of T. is also building a new college in the Scarborough area in Metro Toronto's east end and another at Erindale, southwest of the city.

The University of Windsor has completed $13,900,000 worth of new buildings over the last six years and plans to spend $10,000,000 in the next three years to meet expected enrolment of 5,000 by 1970.

The University of Waterloo and Waterloo Lutheran University have a total of more than $7,000,000 in projects under way. The University of Ottawa is building men's and women's residences.

The new Trent University at Peterborough, Ont., will begin offering arts and sciences courses next September at temporary quarters in a public school. The university plans to move to a permanent 100-acre campus in 1966 and has a five-year building program costing $11,225,000.

Construction has started on the largest of six projects in the $33,965,000 phase—a 16-storey $10,500,000 medical science building to be ready in 1965. ## St. Felix de Kingsey industry

Business rolls along at a rapid pace in 25,000-hen automated egg factory

FRESHLY LAID EGGS — A continual stream of eggs pours out of the Lebel Farm. A conveyor belt runs 24 hours a day and brings the eggs to the packer, Omer Gregoire, who has a steady, but not overwhelming stream confronting him from the 25,000 hens on the farm. (Record photo by Doug Gerrish)

FARMER CHECKS HENS — Ronaldo Lebel is seen checking some of the 25,000 hens which he and his two brothers own. They are housed in three such sheds. (Record photo by Doug Gerrish)

By IRWIN BLOCK
(Record staff reporter)

ST. FELIX DE KINGSEY — A rumour has been spreading that "there are a lot of good eggs up St. Felix de Kingsey way".

It might be thought that this town is a model community, a place where every one is a "good guy" and where the law is unnecessary.

Upon further investigation it was found that the rumour was true enough; however "the good eggs" refer to the egg industry here, and not to the nature of its inhabitants and their society.

One of the most prosperous farms in the area is the Lebel farm. It is not a coincidence that this egg farm is fully automated.

The farm has 25,000 Leghorns. These chickens are specially bred to weigh between 3½ and 4 pounds so that three of them can easily fit in one cage.

Double rows of these cages flank a water trough, which runs 2 hours per day, a feed conveyor belt which carries a special blend of feed for this type of chicken seven times a day, and an egg conveyor belt which is below the bottom of the cages.

The eggs, after being laid, roll by gravity to the lower level belt and are carried to a table where a man packs them into cartons.

An egg farmer wants his hens "to lay down on the job". The hens seem to be quite content with the arrangement at the Lebel farm.

They are specially bred for mechanized conditions and are imbued, so Ronaldo Lebel says, with the lucrative philosophy of "an egg a day keeps the slaughterer away."

Eighty-five per cent of the chicks stick to the automated chickens credo but 15 per cent are renegades — boys hemians or non conformists; they prefer the "different" yield of two eggs every three days.

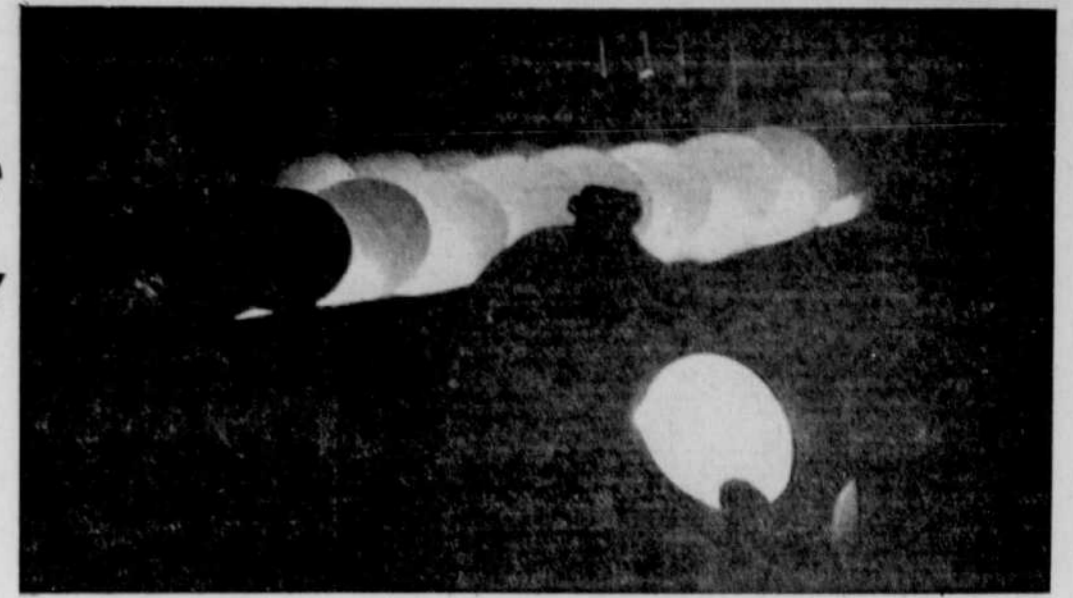

Actually it makes little difference to the life expectancy of the hen since they are all the same age and when they reach their 14th month all are sent to the slaughterers at the same time, irrespective of their egg yield.

The stacker puts the clean eggs in boxes and places the dirty ones into a churning 105 degree bath where the shells are cleaned without hard-boiling the eggs.

In this manner, two men can feed, and harvest the yield of 25,000 hens.

Three men are then needed

EGGS BY CANDLELIGHT — Eggs are graded by a process known as candling. The term is derived from the ancient method of twirling an egg under the light of a candle to see imperfections inside the egg and to detect cracks in the shell! In the Lebel farm a powerful light is used. (Photo by Doug Gerrish) to grade the eggs. The grading is still done by hand.

The eggs are twirled individually under a powerful yellow light so that the inside of the eggs can be checked for imperfections and cracks in the shell can be seen.

The weighing however is done automatically. The graded eggs, A, B, or C, are sent along a conveyor belt and rest on a scale.

If the egg is heavy enough it depresses the scale and rolls into a box. If it is not, it rolls on until it reaches a second scale. If it is not heavy enough to depress this scale it rolls on again. Thus the eggs are collected according to their weights—extra large, large etc.

The grading too, will soon be done automatically when a grading machine arrives from France.

Lebel claims that these eggs are superior to those farmed by traditional methods. He says the yolks are richer and the taste better.

He bears testimony to this fact by drinking six to eight eggs a day.

He used to drink only four eggs a day.

Farm Forum Activities

BEDFORD — The weekly meeting of the Farm Forum was held on Feb. 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hannibal Sheltus, Dutchman Farm. The discussion subject for the evening was, Frills in the Market Place, which dealt with the fancy packing and advertising of goods, all of which added to the cost of the products.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolf Gasser were appointed as delegates from this Forum to attend the annual meeting of the Provincial Forums, held in Montreal at the Mount Royal Hotel.

Following the business session, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Japanese fishing villages

Near neighbors are century apart

TOKYO (CP)—Katagai Town and Choshi City, a morning's drive from Tokyo, are near neighbors a century apart.

They coexist discordantly in the foam-flecked fabric of the Japanese fishing industry—biggest in the world and growing relentlessly in size and efficiency in the battle to meet the protein needs of the nation's millions.

In sharp contrast to Choshi, with its modern efficiency and motorized fleet, fishing at Katagai means fishing just offshore, fishing in depleted waters with hand-hauled nets.

Even in an occupation where many hardships are taken for granted, life in Katagai is hard indeed.

On a Sunday morning in the rain it presented a desolate tableau of fishermen so squeezed for a livelihood they spread nets in puddles left by the ebbing tide. Appropriately, crows in basic black, not seagulls, formed a somber shoreline watching committee.

The women of the village were working in a leaky lean-to, furnished with benches for the job and wooden cribs for their babies, nothing else.

WORK BY HAND

They were gutting sardines, gutting them individually and washing them individually before dipping them in a seasoning of soy sauce and sake. Before being packed, they would be wrapped individually.

Usually in the countryside or anywhere away from the big cities the Japanese have an enormous curiosity about visitors, especially foreigners.

But Katagai's women were in no mood for conversation.

"If he wants us to tell him things for him to put in a story he should pay us 100 yen," one of them said, pointing my way but addressing a Japanese who was doing the interpreting.

The amount was the lesser part of a dollar. The remark was most un-Japanese. The atmosphere of poverty, of hopelessness, made the words quite understandable.

Arrival in Choshi a short time later, over roads that could be described most benevolently as "frontier Siberian," brought a cheering change.

UNLOADED BY WOMEN

The waterfront greeters were earthy women in Tugboat Annie slickers who start work before dawn, keep going until they have unloaded the last catch of the day, and somehow keep good-natured all the while.

Their curiosity knew no bounds. A grilling of one visitor on his family life, the number of children he had, brought a nudge, a wink, and an accolade: "Ah, very energetic."

The go-getting atmosphere in Choshi, although it in itself is not a major deepsea base, typifies a fishing industry that makes no bones about its Viking sweep into waters half a world and more away from Japanese shores.

By Japanese estimates domestic marine fisheries in the vicinity of the home islands account for nearly 90 per cent of a total annual catch of more than 6,000,000 tons.

But the future holds the certainty of more floating factories capable of staying at sea for six months at a time, of new advances in electronics tracking of underwater prey—and, most likely, new international wrangling over who should catch what fish where.

20,000 WHALES CAUGHT
Again by Japanese reckoning, 90 per cent of the catch is brought in by the large companies and the co-operatives. More than 500,000 Japanese are fishermen by occupation, a figure that does not include workers in the canning, processing and related industries.

On the high seas, present international agreements allow Japanese vessels to range the North and South Pacific, the Atlantic, and the Indian Ocean as well as the Japan Sea and other offshore and coastal fisheries.

Tonnage figures do not include the whales taken in the Antarctic during the winter and the North Pacific during the summer—an annual kill exceeding 20,000 of the huge mammals.

Nor do they include the seaweed which is harvested as a food crop—there's even a popular Japanese sweet made of the stuff—or the oyster catch, or the 80,000 tons of miscellaneous fish caught in inland waters.

If fishermen were colonizers, it is often said here, the Seven Seas would belong outright to Japan.

For all practical purposes, they may yet.

Women's Groups

ST. PAUL'S LADIES' GUILD

A pleasant afternoon was spent recently, when the St. Paul's Ladies' Guild met at the home of Mrs. E. Johnston, Cambrai Street. The meeting opened with prayer, led by the president, Mrs. G. Carleton.

Mrs. F. Stanford, treasurer, gave a financial report for the month of January, which proved to be most encouraging.

Mrs. Carleton gave an account of the vestry meeting held on February 4, in the church hall.

A rummage sale was planned for February 19, previous to the regular meeting.

A donation of a quilt from Mrs. W. Pettis was gratefully received.

The members were reminded of the World Day of Prayer, to be held at the First Baptist Church, on February 14, to which all are invited.

Members were asked for a donation for the sales tables, to be brought in to the next meeting on February 19.

The meeting closed with prayer, following which the hostess Mrs. Johnston, served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. E. Jenkinson.

LVILLE U.C.W.

The February meeting of Unit 1 of the Lennoxville United Church Women, was held in the Ladies' Parlor, Douglas Hall, Queen Street. Mrs. William J. Lane presided and Mrs. Norman Flint conducted the worship service, having a Scripture reading followed by a Lenten message, hymn and prayer.

The roll call was answered by 26 members who had made 37 calls on sick and shut-ins.

The correspondence included notes of thanks and an interesting letter from Rev. George McLintock, a former candidate for the ministry, from the Lennoxville United Church, in which he states that he and his wife and four small children plan to go to Africa this year as missionaries.

Notice was given of a meeting of the local Cancer Association to be held on the evening of February 26 in the Upper Scott Hall and all ladies were urged to attend.

The treasurer's report, presented by Mrs. Norman Flint, showed a favorable balance. A collection towards a phantom food sale was taken at this meeting.

Mrs. Albert R. Parsons, reported on the sales of greeting cards which goes towards the support of two European children.

Committees named for 1964 were: Kitchen, Miss Marjorie Waldron, Mrs. Garland Page and Mrs. George Coxon.

Aprons, Miss Francis Crane and Mrs. Harrison, C. Wright, Knitting, Mrs. Myrtle Watkins.

Food sales, Mrs. J. D. McFayden and Miss Mary Farnsworth. Mrs. Lorrie Davidson displayed a completed quilt which was later sold.

Mention was made that the silver tea would be held again this year in May.

To conclude, Mrs. Albert Parsons read a poem written by a local writer entitled, Snow, and an amusing reading entitled, Miss Dorothy entertains the minister.

Mrs. A. B. Lovelace had a film strip on news of India with family life. Guest pianists for the afternoon were Miss Jane Fuller and Miss Dale Matthews.

The hostesses were Mrs. E. Lane, Mrs. J. D. McFayden and Miss Mary Farnsworth.

The lace covered table was centered with red carnations where Mrs. A. B. Lovelace poured tea.

St. Valentine's Day almost here

Invite your man of choice to this special dinner

Combine low lights, soft music and perfume behind the ears — and, Leap Year or any other year, you have a recipe with a long-time reputation for producing romance.

I'd add one more ingredient to make the formula complete: a perfect little dinner, prepared by your own fair hands and served with an air that indicates it just was no trouble at all!

With St. Valentine's Day only a few days away, now's the time to take your courage and your cooking skill in hand, and invite the man of your choice for dinner. "No knows — it may take just that to make him realize how important you are to his happiness.

When you start thinking about the menu, don't attempt anything too exotic. Planning too ambitiously can trap you into a last-minute panic — just when you want to impress him with your cool, calm air.

Start with chilled juice or with canned soup that you give an individual touch with added herbs, or a dash of sherry, or a topping of toasted French bread lavishly sprinkled with sharp cheddar cheese.

The main course can be simple and economical, so long as it's perfectly seasoned and served very hot. Spaghetti with a good sauce, crackling- crisp salad and hot crusty rolls (or bread sticks) needs little last-minute preparation and pleases almost every man. Beef Stroganoff even benefits from standing overnight; all it then needs is reheating and adding sour cream for serving.

Keep dessert simple, too, remembering that most men like anything made with apple or cherries. Crisp crackers and good cheese are something a man loves to linger over. And with a little luck, when you pour your freshly brewed steaming hot coffee, you won't have to take any further initiative. He'll be the one to suggest that you take on his cooking for the rest of his life!

MEAT SAUCE FOR SPAGHETTI

½ pound ground beef, ½ pound ground pork, 2 tablespoons oil, ½ cup chopped onion, 1 clove garlic, crushed, 1 can (28 oz.) tomatoes, 1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste, 1 bay leaf, 2 teaspoon thyme, Generous pinch oregano, Salt as required, ¼ teaspoon ground hot red pepper.

Combine beef and pork, break them up with a fork and cook in the oil until the meat has lost its pinkness. Transfer to a heavy saucepan. In the frying pan, cook onion with garlic until onion is tender; add to meat. Add tomato paste, bay leaf, thyme, oregano, 1 teaspoon salt and the pepper.

Cover and cook, gently, stirring occasionally, for about an hour. Taste the mixture and season further if desired. Cover and simmer ½ to 1 hour longer.

This recipe makes enough sauce for 6 servings. Let it stand over night, covered, in the refrigerator; reheat for serving.

For 3 servings, cook 8 ounces spaghetti according to package directions. Drain, thoroughly, rinse with hot water, again drain. Mound on heated platter, cover with the hot sauce and sprinkle generously with Parmesan cheese. (If your man is a gourmet, he'll welcome a small dish of ground hot red peppers to sprinkle over his spaghetti!)

MUSHROOM SAUCE FOR SPAGHETTI

½ cup vegetable oil, 2/3 cup chopped onion, 2 cloves garlic, crushed, 1 green pepper, chopped, 2 stalks celery, chopped, ½ pound mushrooms, sliced, 1 teaspoon salt, ground hot red peppers, 1 can (28 oz.) tomatoes.

Heat oil in saucepan. Add onion, garlic, green pepper, celery and mushrooms. Cook about 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Mix in salt, ¼ teaspoon red peppers and tomatoes. Cover and simmer about 1 hour. (A 6-oz. can tomato paste may also be added — and call and ground peppers increased if desired.)

This is enough sauce for 1 pound spaghetti, boiled according to package directions. Sauce may be kept in the refrigerator overnight and reheated for serving. Serve with grated Parmesan cheese and additional hot red peppers.

BEEF STROGANOFF

1½ to 2 pounds lean round steak, ½ cup flour, salt, pepper, 2 medium onions, chopped, 1 clove garlic, crushed, ½ pound mushrooms, sliced, 1 can (10 oz.) consommé, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 pint sour cream.

Trim fat from meat; render out in frying pan. Mix flour with 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Cut meat in pencil-thin strips, 3 to 4 inches long and coat with seasoned flour.

Cook onion, garlic and mushrooms lightly in fat. Add meat and brown well, adding a little fat if necessary. Add consommé, paprika and Worcestershire. Cook slowly, stirring often and adding a little water if necessary, until meat is tender.

To serve, heat thoroughly, stir in sour cream, reheat and serve on fluffy rice. Makes 6 servings.

APPLE PIE, HOT CHEESE SAUCE

You can buy a frozen pie or use packaged mix and canned apple pie filling. (Add a dash of lemon and some grated nutmeg to the filling). Bake close to serving time, or reheat to serve.

The cheese sauce can be very easy: Heat ¾ cup undiluted evaporated milk in small saucepan over low heat until bubbles form around edges of pan. Add a quarter teaspoon salt and to 1½ cups cubed or shredded process-type cheese. Stir about 1 minute, until cheese melts. Serve hot.

SWEETHEART CHERRY CREAM PIE

Cake: 1 envelope (about 9 oz.) white cake mix, 1 egg, water and flavoring as directed on package.

Filling: 1 package (3¼ oz.) vanilla pie filling mix, 1½ cups milk.

Topping: 1 can (15 oz.) pitted red cherries, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ cup sugar, pinch of salt, 2 teaspoons butter, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped.

Prepare cake according to package directions. Bake in 9-inch round layer pan. When cold, split crosswise with sharp knife.

Cook pie filling with milk according to package directions. Cool. Use to fill cake.

Drain cherries. Mix cornstarch, sugar, salt. Stir in cherry syrup. Stir over medium heat until boiling. Add butter and a few drops red food coloring. Then add cherries. Cool. Spread over top of cooled cake. With the whipped cream, outline shape of a heart. Makes 10 to 12 servings. (TNS)

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY — Recently when baking a birthday cake for my neighbor's child, I wrapped two or three silver dollars in aluminum foil and when the cake was cool I put each of the wrapped dollars in a slit made in the cake. Then the cake was iced and decorated. This idea was a huge success. — MRS. W. M.

DEAR POLLY — I have a quick way to make a child's sweater from an adult's discarded one. Measure the child for length, waist and sleeve-length. Cut a paper pattern and lay it on the big sweater. Cut through the front and back at the same time. I lay the pattern for the smaller sweater on the lower part of the big sweater and the ribbing of one is the ribbing for the other. If there are no side seams to the adult sweater, the sleeves for the small one can be cut from what is left on the sides. Cut straight across the top from shoulder to shoulder of the new sweater and then cut the front neck lower. Sew shoulder seams together, then put the sleeves in the armholes and finally sew sleeves and body all together with small stitches on the sewing machine. Remove binding from the neck of the big sweater and apply to the neck of the newer and smaller one. Leggings can be made from the sleeves of a large sweater. Cut off the rounded tip at the top of the sleeves (the remainder of the shaped upper sleeve will be sewn together for a crotch seam) make a casing at the top for elastic to run through, and you have a pair of warm leggings for a youngster. — MRS. G. K.

GIRLS — If you are afraid runs might start in the sweater, mark the cutting lines with chalk and stitch before cutting. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I recently attended a variety shower for a bride-to-be. The gifts were beautiful but she received 10 blankets and quilts. When sending out invitations to a shower instead of saying on all of them "Linen Shower" or whatever, divide the invitations and mark with different items. For example, if 25 invitations are issued, write out some for a kitchen shower, some for a linen shower and so on. In this way there will not be so many duplicates. — MRS. J. S.

GIRLS — This brought to my mind a hint once given in this column for including the name of the store where gifts are purchased so duplicates can be exchanged without embarrassment. I have heard so many complaints from people who were asked to so many showers for one bride that the gift buying became a real burden, as a wedding present also had to be bought. Mrs. J. S.'s idea would be a fine idea when just one or two showers are given. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Quite by accident I discovered how handy an iced tea spoon is in my kitchen. I keep several in the utility drawer and constantly use them for spooning instant coffee or mayonnaise out of an almost empty jar of emptying contents from small cans. These small spoons with their long handles are worth their weight in gold in my home. — W. Q.

GIRLS — I agree with W. Q. I keep some plastic ones in my kitchen cutlery drawer. — POLLY

BURIED V LLAGE Moving sand dunes buried a small village on Germany's Baltic coast over a 30-year period, then uncovered it in 30 more years.

FIGURES EQUAL Algeria is more than five times larger than Morocco, but they have nearly equal populations — 11,020,000 and 11,925,000 respectively.

Questions readers ask

Q — How can I tell high quality pork at my butchers?

A — Home economists at USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service give a few pointers to help judge and maintain pork quality.

For high-quality pork, look for firm, fine textured lean meat that is grayish-pink in color; firm, white fat on the outside of the cut, and some fat well distributed through the lean.

Store fresh pork in the refrigerator, loosely wrapped, and plan or using it within a few days. Ground pork and the variety cuts are highly perishable and should be used promptly. You can store uncooked cured pork longer than fresh cuts, but the fat will become rancid if the meat is held too long.

Bacon and the ready-to-eat and tender-cured hams require refrigeration. Bacon should be eaten within a week for best quality. Quick-cured hams should be used within five days. Whole quick-cured hams keep a little better than the half hams, but they should be used within two weeks for best quality.

"Fifty cents for a hot dog! What are you trying to do . . . de-emphasize basketball?"

Retiring regent addresses I.O.D.E. prior to annual meeting at Border

STANSTEAD — A meeting of Stanstead Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held on Feb. 3 at Stanstead College reception room, the regular meeting being followed by the annual meeting. The regent, Mrs. Ellen Wallbridge, presided for the regular meeting and routine reports were heard. Mrs. Wallbridge stated that annual meetings serve a dual purpose, to review and plan to look backwards and forwards, gaining inspiration from what has been accomplished and by entering fully into the making of plans for the future.

The work of the chapter needs women of all ages, the older ones with their wise counsel and the younger ones full of energy, ready to carry on the work started by the older ones. She said, "Let us broaden our outlook and be ever alert to changing conditions in order that the younger and more active women will not pass us by."

She stated all must work towards making 1964 a good year for this is the year this chapter will observe its 40th anniversary, on Nov. 28.

On behalf of the membership, Mrs. James Williamson, thanked Mrs. Wallbridge for her efficient work as regent for the past three years.

Farnham

The Marathon Bridge and 500 Club met in St. James Church Hall, when cards were played at eight tables. In bridge, Mrs. R. Arbee won the prize for high score and Mr. E. Macey, the consolation. In 500, Mrs. Winnie Rogers was prize winner with the consolation going to Mrs. Helen Bishop.

ANNUAL MEETING

The chapter's successful year was confirmed by reports of the officers and conveners through monies raised. Contributions had been made in the Boundary communities, other parts of Canada, and abroad.

Mrs. Alton Grady was elected as regent; Mrs. Sylvia Mooney and Mrs. A. D. McHarg as first and second vice-regents; Mrs. Harold Cass, secretary; Mrs. Mabel Wallace, treasurer; Mrs. E. J. Curtis, Echoes secretary; Mrs. James Williamson, service at home and abroad; and Mrs. Russell Leslie, standard bearer.

The regent, Mrs. Grady, appointed the following conveners: Publicity, Mrs. Howard Wilding; world affairs, Miss Elsie McIntosh; membership, Mrs. H. A. Scarth; tea hostess, Mrs. C. Lee Jenkins; and civil defence, Mrs. Howard Wilding.

In response to an appeal for assistance to a girl from the Magdalen Islands, who is at-ending school at Bishop Mountain Hall, Coaticook, a sum of $100 was voted.

Nominations for National and Provincial councillors were discussed, the secretary to send in the nominees chosen by the chapter.

Mrs. Wilbur Paige and Mrs. Ralph Rogers are to assist the educational convener, Mrs. Hugh McClary.

Mrs. Archie Grady, Mrs. Percy Poaps, Mrs. C. Lee Jenkins and Mrs. A. P. Bliss were named as councillors.

Mrs. Grady asked all members to bring to the March meeting suggestions for the autumn bazaar.

Tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Archie Grady, Mrs. C. Lee Jenkins and Mrs. Bessie McEwen.

The Misses Helen and Clare McCullough spent the weekend in Quebec City and attending the Carnival.

The English retreat will be held at St. Romuald Church from March 1 to March 6. The preacher will be Father David Redmond, of Ottawa, Ont.

Mrs. James J. McCullough, collector of Customs National V. for the Province of Quebec West, and Customs and Excise Officers Association, attended the annual meeting of the Montreal branch, held at the Queen's Hotel. Mr. McCullough also attended the meeting of the Customs and Excise Officers Group Insurance Co., as director for the Eastern Townships.

Mrs. Henry Budgen, of LaSalle, was a visitor of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Walker, of Montreal, and Mr. Henry Walker were guests at the same home.

George Drew has retired in name only; to spend time writing and travelling

LONDON (CP) — George Drew has retired in name only. He leaves public life this week after 42 crowded years, but no slippers await. His official retirement as Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom was effective last weekend.

Three months from his 70th birthday, he feels in "first-class" physical condition and has large plans to write, work and travel.

Standing beside the big red high commissioner's desk in Canada House, his broad shoulders turning away from windows reflecting the illuminated fountains of Trafalgar Square at dusk, Drew told a reporter: "I'm looking forward to doing some writing. I had a lot of material before I came here, but I'll have to make someerment departments into one building, handing such hot issues as Britain's attempted entry into the European Common Market and generally, as one admiring aide said, "leading everybody's life but his own."

BUSY CENTRE

There may be more difficult posts but people who know say that Canada House is the busiest diplomatic and reception centre in London, after the American and Soviet embassies.

By statute, the high commissioner is responsible for the supervision and administration of all Canadian government branches and agencies in Britain, covering some 800 employees. Canada House is the heart of a vast communications system, the "funnel" into Canada

House itself," said The Guardian, describing Drew as an "institution."

MILITARY CRITIC

A regular guest at rallies of Canadian veterans, Drew retains a strong interest in military matters. He joined the 16th battery at Guelph in 1914 and served in the Canadian Expeditionary Force overseas from 1915 to 1917, returning to Canada because of wounds.

He commanded the 18th battery, Canadian Artillery, from 1920 to 1929 and later took command of the 11th Field Brigade with headquarters at Guelph. He also served as aide de camp to the Earl of Bessborough when the latter was governor-general of Canada.

His war books include Canada's Fighting Airmen, The Truth About War and Salesmen of Death.

He plans to leave London Feb. 8, accompanied by his wife. After relaxing in Italy and Sicily, they expect to reach Canada toward the end of May.

Drew was recently named a director of a uranium company in Toronto and will continue his close connection with the powerful United Dominion Trust headed by J. G. Jarvis.

He says he hasn't "fixed any definite pattern" for the writing he will do, but assures that his pen will not be idle.

friends said. The same goes for his vivacious, multilingual wife, Fiorenza, whose last two years here have been clouded by recurrent hospital visits.

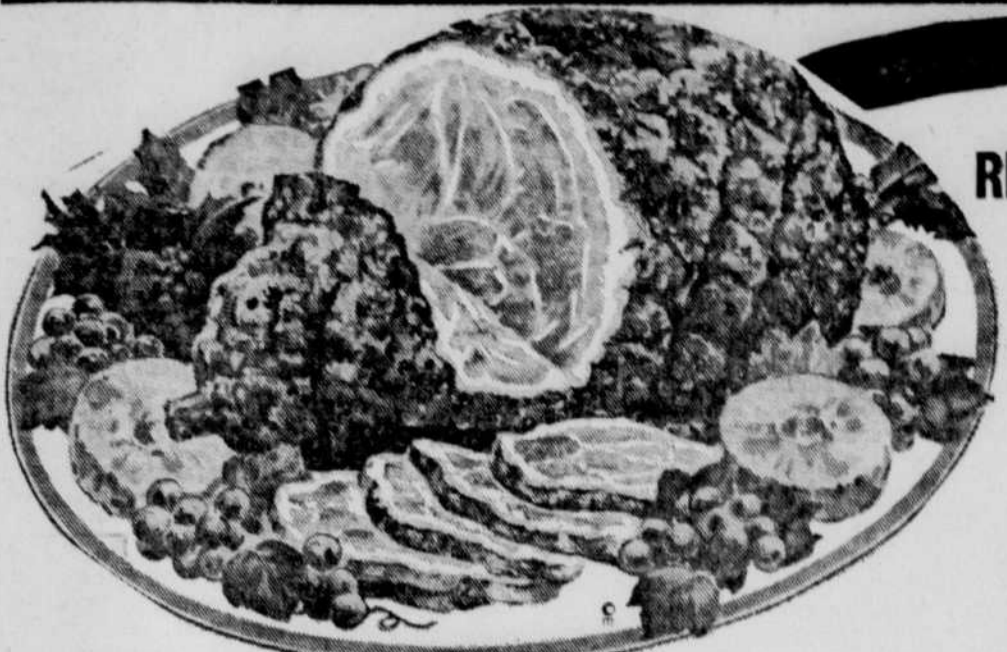

"The high commissioner's real problem is not leisure time but how to get his real work done in view of the heavy social schedule," said a former associate.

Drew's lifetime fondness for travel and his long experience of public affairs, dating to his appointment as an alderman in his native Guelph, Ont., when still in his 20s, help to make things easier.

VALUABLE CONTACTS

He is on first-name basis with British ministers. How valuable "contacts" can be was emphasized when his friendship with former ambassador J. H.

Nurses' bursary centennial project of Shipton W.I.

SHIPTON — The regular meeting of Shipton Women's Institute held Feb. 3, in the Danville town hall, was conducted by Mrs. J. Olney, vice-president.

The treasurer reported a total of $102.86.

The members voted in favour of a bursary for girls entering nurses training as a Centennial project.

It was decided to request a course on millenary, with ceramic tile as second choice.

Mrs. A. Paige, Mrs. S. Taylor and Miss Helen Taylor were appointed to draw up the program for next year. Members are asked to submit suggestions to the committee.

The slate of officers for the coming year was presented by Mrs. M. Baker.

A pattern was chosen for a quilt, which is to be made, Mrs. L. Tremblay to purchase the material.

A contest on homemade valentines was held with first prize going to Mrs. A. Paige and second to Mrs. S. Taylor.

A collection, taken for the March of Dimes, amounted to $1.10, which will be made up to $5 from the funds.

The tea collection was $1.20; flower fund, 51 cents; travelling parcel, 50 cents, the parcel being won by Mrs. F. Bourner; White Elephant sale, $4.05.

Each member is to bring a novelty item to the next meeting, which will be held in the hall Mar. 2, at 8 p.m.

TOKEN RETIREMENT

When George Drew left public life last week after 42 years, he retired in name only. Mr. Drew, who officially retired as Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, plans to spend his time writing, working and travelling. He will be succeeded in London by former justice minister Lionel Chevrier. (CP Photo)

HARD WORKER

Drew was premier of Ontario from 1943 to 1948, when he was elected national leader of the Progressive Conservative party to succeed John Bracken. He resigned the latter post in 1956. John Diefenbaker, then prime minister, announced Drew's appointment to London in 1957.

The new high commissioner wasted no time. Arriving one September evening, he got off a boat train, climbed into an automobile and made his first speech half an hour later.

In the six years and four months since then, he has consistently worked 80 to 90 hours a week as London's "Mr. Canada," entertaining an ever-increasing flow of Canadian visitors at his home near Hyde Park, gathering scattered government departments into one building, handing such hot issues as Britain's attempted entry into the European Common Market and generally, as one admiring aide said, "leading everybody's life but his own."

Whitney gave him the inside track in negotiations whose administrative arm even encompasses Canadian trade offices in Singapore and Hong Kong, since these are in colonial areas.

Jet flights have jacked up the number of Canadians visiting Britain to something approaching 150,000, many of whom get in touch with Canada House. Pressure for tickets to the troping the color ceremony and to Buckingham Palace garden party poses a major problem for Drew and the social secretary, Mrs. Jean Halton, formerly of Pincher Creek, Alta. Mrs. Halton is the widow of well-known CBC commentator Matt Halton.

for Europe and the Middle East, when he was elected national leader of the Progressive Conservative party to succeed John Bracken. He resigned the latter post in 1956. John Diefenbaker, then prime minister, announced Drew's appointment to London in 1957.

Still a tall and handsome man, Drew keeps fit by frequent walking, sometimes making a five-mile circuit of Hyde Park. He seems little changed from the days when his upstanding bearing and Roman senator's head won him the nickname "Georgeus George."

He is a gifted "front man," and the social pressure comes "as natural as breathing."

Congregational meeting is held in Birchton hall

BIRCHTON — Some 35 members of the congregation of the United Church enjoyed a potluck supper in the Birchton hall on Feb. 1.

Following supper, the congregational annual meeting was held, with Rev. J. A. H. Plowright as chairman, and Mrs. Howard Picard, secretary replacing Mrs. Alex Glen, who was unable to be present.

Mr. Plowright, in his statement of the year's work, reported two baptisms, three marriages, five families transferred, and one member of the church removed by death. He also expressed appreciation of the way services had been carried on during his illness.

Reports of different boards and committees showed healthy increases.

At the election of officers, two members of the session, Howard Picard and Arthur Rogers were retiring after completing the two year term of office; on motion John Vander Leden was elected to succeed Mr. Picard; and Arthur Rogers was re-elected for another term.

The committee of stewards were re-appointed, with Mrs. Gilbert Nutbrown, as secretary-treasurer.

After a discussion on some departments of the work of the church, the meeting was closed with prayer by Mr. Plowright.

SIDE GLANCES

COMMON MARKET

There were moments of controversy. Always a man of forceful political views, the high commissioner had little liking for Britain's bid to join the Common Market, fearing its effect on Commonwealth trade. He was reported to have had sharp differences with Duncan Sandys, Britain's Commonwealth secretary who has a fearsome reputation for blunt speaking.

Drew speeches mostly deal with "my faith and my concern" in relation to the Commonwealth connection. He says there are "immense possibilities" for a much closer trading relationship between Canada and Britain.

When a British television program, Living with a Giant, left the impression that Canada was becoming increasingly dependent on the United States, Drew attacked the film so strongly in a Canada Club speech that The Daily Mirror, in a front-page headline, labelled him "The Angry Canadian."

The Guardian of Manchester, whose political line sometimes crossed Drew's, gave him praise when it was announced that he would be succeeded in London by bilingual Lionel Chevrier.

"In seven years of tenancy he has become as much a part of the London scene as Canada feet higher than his head.

Tradition never far away in Japan's industries

TOKYO (CP)—In one corner of the vastness of a Japanese steel mill a visitor comes unexpectedly upon a solitary flower standing in a simple vase.

He passes by, wondering who put it there. Will there be a fresh cutting tomorrow?

The guide shrugs, politely. Probably the touch of beauty is traditional.

In an industrial giant of 95,000,000 people, in an economy with the greatest forward thrust of any in the world, the word is never far away.

To the younger Japanese, it can be an irritant and a frustration. To the foreigner, coming to compare, it clouds all encounters like a mountain mist.

Nowhere is this so evident as in seeking an assessment of Japanese living standards and working conditions.

Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's Liberal-Democratic government — an administration with elements as conservative as the kimono despite its name — is committed to doubling the national income in real terms during the current decade.

But what is real?

JOBS ARE SECURE

Japanese in government say the per capita income — just over $400 compared with Canada's $1,600 — is misleading considering the relatively high purchasing power of the yen, that living standards are substantially higher than would be construed from simple comparisons with other industrialized countries.

Industry points to fringe benefits — how it loves the term — denying it has any appreciable advantage in production costs over its international competitors or that the worker is not getting his fair share of the benefits of a booming economy.

Certainly in the great cities, in the complex of heavy industry and in the advancing frontiers of electronics and precision instrumentation, the fringe benefits — and in this the Japanese — include job security — are many. A man is generally hired for life unless he's an irresponsible underhead. There are company clinics and hospitals for the worker and his family; cafeterias with lunches at cut-rate prices; subsidized housing for families and dormitory accommodation for single workers. Even gymnasiums, for the energetic.

In rattling off all the benefits offered by his company, a steel mill department supervisor says:

"This does not come to the employees in cash but it is customary in Japan. The company has to think of its employees' families, not just the employees themselves."

Yet in the view of foreign observers there is another — a tarnished — side to the coin, the dual economy of Japan.

Hidden in the shadow of the modern industrial firms are, they say, the thousands of hole-in-the-corner small family enterprises that have changed little in employment practices or methods of production in the last century.

In this assessment, a major factor in keeping Japanese production costs down is the subcontracting the showplace companies do with the cottage firms. Here there is no job security. Wages are extremely low, employment generally insecure and conditions, by some descriptions, almost feudal.

WORKS HARD

At its best, Japanese business is highly paternalistic. At its best, the Japanese employee, who works a six-day week and works hard, is almost overly loyal. Advocates of change describe this as a combination that crimps labor mobility and hinders development of realistic labor-management relations.

The younger Westward-looking Japanese, with the lessons and legacies of their history in mind, are concerned not with rice alone but with safeguarding the political and economic reforms of the post-war years.

Democracy in Japan is not traditional.

There are Japanese who would like to see at least a partial return to the pre-war system of society and, to a lesser degree, diehards who would probably prefer outright repeal of the 20th century.

This accounts for a certain wariness among Japanese who have grown to adulthood since the end of the Second World War; a suspicion of anything smacking of "guidance" from above.

"If textbooks were offered free to all students in Japan we would be suspicious, not grateful," said one of them who recalls in the death-rattle days of Japanese militarism being trained at school in the art of repelling invaders with bamboo spears.

Canada has a stake in the Japanese story, as a member of the Western alliance looking to her third biggest export market after the United States and the United Kingdom, and as a Pacific neighbor only 10 jet hours away from Tokyo.

And over all, with all reservations considered, there is much that is heartening in Japan.

If the individual seems slighted at times, at least the gleaming plant cafeteria is not a company store in a depression coal-mining town. The cottage industries with all their abuses are on the decline despite the important role they still play.

Anyone who works for a living in Japan is caught in the same bind of prices rising faster than wages. But planners hope inflationary pressures will be cured through efforts to nudge present "cell-bent-for-leather" progress into a pattern of more stable economic growth.

In the white-collar world, the young executive is hemmed in by a system in which age rates much higher than ability. Even here, the old order is slowly changing. In the meantime he can console himself with his liberal expense account, twice-yearly bonuses and his status-symbol scotch whisky.

Bank accounts are healthy, mainly through thrift rather than affluence, and Japanese are fretting for the day when currency restrictions are relaxed and they are free to travel overseas for pleasure. Meanwhile, they tour madly around Japan looking at one another.

Japanese householders will never have living space in the North American tradition — too many people for too little urban land — and the taken-for-granted family car is a long way off.

But in television sets, in household appliances generally, in fact in most of the grills and comforts of modern living, the people here are matching the best in the West.

They have a hearty appetite for entertainment and with it the price of admission, whether their tastes run from stylized Kabuki drama to striptease extravaganzas.

For what it's worth, the most popular cigarettes have the brand name of Peace. Hope, another brand, sells almost as well.

ELECTRONICS BOOM IN JAPAN — These girls, working in huge windowless, dustproof, air conditioned electronics plant on the outskirts of Tokyo, typify the modern aspect of Japan's post-war industry. Western observers see another side, however, involving thousands of small family enterprises still using outdated production methods and almost-feudal employment practices. (CP Photo)
