A piece of history

Eating, drinking guides are fascinating history

One of my favorite pastimes is searching through the bins at used book stores, or attending garage sales in the area in a quest for books concerning food and wine.

Often as not I come away empty-handed but occasionally, very occasionally, I discover a rare treat in the form of an "eating and drinking guide". I use this term — one of self-invention — simply because I do not know how else to describe this type of book. Popular before and during the first half of this century, eating and drinking guides invariably give the author's personal reminiscences concerning the food and wine found during, let's say, a trip to France, as in H. Warner Allen's, Through the Wine Glass. Or perhaps they take the form of notes on wine and food sampled during a particular period of time as in the case of The Bed-Book of Eating and Drinking by Richardson Wright.

I must say, that there is a certain touch of the voyeur that leaves me so entertained by the eating and drinking habits of the wealthy and famous. On the other hand, these books are also a fascinating historical guide to the gustatory indulgences of past ages.

For example, who can resist musing over the delights of a meal outlined in The Bed-Book of Eating and Drinking taken by the author and his friends in the fall of the year in which prohibition was banished.

What delight they must have taken in the Consomme Double au Sherry or in the Filet de Sole Anglaise au Vin Blanc matched with a 1929 Gewurtztraminer?

Wine Bits

By TIMOTHY BELFORD

Imagine the smiles on the faces of these men, denied the delights of the table as they had been by the rabid prohibitionists, when they feasted on the Vol-au-Vent Ris de Veau Financière taken with a glass of Haut St. Emilion 1929. And the Faisan Roti au Jus! What possible wine could have been more apt than the Clos de Vougeot 1926?

Excessive? Perhaps. Then again, we humans are doomed or blessed with the necessity of eating in order to make our way through our allotted three or four score years. And why should it not be done with a certain style and joy?

Even the simplest meal of the day can be more than toast and jam with a little thought and a little creativity. Though I must confess, champagne would probably help. Cheers!

Best buy of the week. The Montresor 1983 Soave Classico, presently on sale locally for $6.45 a bottle, is well worth a look. Straw yellow, with a pear-like bouquet, it seems to have good balance and a fresh taste. It is also a Superiore which gives it a higher-than-usual 12 per cent alcohol content.

Several new buildings will be needed in order to reopen on the scale planned, but volunteers and donations are already making the task look easier.

Bands team up to help camp open

By Laurel Sherrer

LENNOXVILLE — Three local bands, possibly four, will team up with the St. Pat's Old Boys Association this weekend to help raise money to reopen the association's summer camp for children on Stoke lake.

Bourbon and Lace, with Debbie Drummond, Idle Hands and High Level (formerly Jumah) have confirmed their participation in a concert and corn roast to be held at the camp Sunday, and there may be another band joining in, said Peggy Barber, representative for the booking agency Estrie Productions.

"There's something for everyone," said Barber; the country western fans, the rock and roll group and the Top 40 commercial devotees. She said the bands' participation is a sacrifice "in a way, because at this time of year the bookings are picking up. But I think they will enjoy doing it too."

The Old Boys are the alumni association for St. Pat's school in Sherbrooke which closed in 1969. The association ran the camp with the goal of providing healthful outdoor activities primarily for disadvantaged boys in the area until about ten years ago. At that time, much of the revenue came from raffles, but new provincial restrictions made this practice too difficult.

RUN ITS OWN CAMP

For the past ten years the association has been renting the camp out to organized groups such as scouts, but has had nothing to do with the operation of the camp. Now, after three years of planning, the association is confident it can open and run its own camp next year.

"To get the camp ready will cost $160,000," said association secretary-treasurer Henry Crochetière, "and we're gonna get it. One way or another there's gonna be a camp. We're back in business," he said.

"Our main goal has been to try to help the kids who need it. We're looking at kids who's have to hang around the streets of Sherbrooke if we didn't have the camp."

It was Crochetière's mother who started the camp, in 1934. There were no buildings then, except for an old farmhouse, and the boys slept in tents. Now there are 16 buildings and plans for another nine to be built before the camp opens next year.

The Old Boys have applied for a $100,000 grant through the Ministère de loisir, chasse et pêche and Crochetière says he's optimistic about getting it. But even with a lesser grant the camp is going to open, perhaps on a smaller scale, he said.

SUPPORT ENCOURAGING

And community support so far has been encouraging.

All the food for the corn roast Saturday was donated by local merchants, and there have been offers to build six new cabins for no charge, offers for discounts on tools, an offer of three days of free bulldozing, donations of a tractor, 12 canoes and 12 boats among other things.

"When local people were approached, they said, 'St. Pat's — that's the gang that runs the camp. We can't refuse them,'" Crochetière said.

He said the demand for spaces in similar camps in the area shows how much the St. Pat's camp is needed. Camp Claret on Lake Elgin had to close applications in March this year because all the spaces were filled, he said.

Mike Butterfield, vice-president of the 350-member association, says he wants to see the camp succeed because he has good memories of camping there as a kid, and later working there.

"It's done a lot of good for me and a lot of my friends," he said. "This is where most of my time is spent — helping out the camp. I'd like to give 30 more years of my time."

The music and munching start at 4:30 Saturday and will continue on into the evening. Tickets are available at Estrie Productions 174A Queen St. in Lennoxville, at the Old Boys' Association office at 82 King West in Sherbrooke, or call 569-1930. Or you can get one at the camp when you arrive.

St. Pats Old Boys Association Vice President Mike Butterfield and Secretary-Treasurer Henry Crochetière say one way or another there will be a camp next year.

Historical home eyed for future cultural centre

By Laurel Sherrer

LENNOXVILLE — The Lennoxville-Ascot Historical Society has its eye on "Uplands", the Speid property in Lennoxville, as a new home, and is dead set on raising the money to acquire it.

Not only will the 14-room Georgian-style house built in 1862 provide ample space for a museum, archives, meetings and all sorts of activities the society is planning and dreaming about, but buying the property will ensure that another piece of the area's history is preserved.

"So many of the original buildings in this town are gone, and have been replaced by service stations and parking lots," said society president Muriel Brand at a press conference Wednesday. "We are very much afraid that with this house on the market it will be lost as well."

The Speid family is supporting the project and have given the historical society first option to buy, before offering it on the open market.

RAISE $150,000

Now all the society has to do is raise the $150,000 required to buy and do a few necessary renovations to the building.

It may seem an ominous task, but with volunteers and suggestions popping up from all directions already, organizers of the fund-raising drive are optimistic about its turnout.

"The project has been very well received," said Joseph McKercher, co-chairman of the financial campaign. "It's a real community effort."

"I'm really amazed at the resources we find," said Brand. "Everybody's got connections, and we'll bring it all together."

The campaign is being launched in style Sunday, September 15 with a garden party and band concert on the property, (50 Park Street, Lennoxville) from 2 to 4 p.m. Volunteers have already been lined up to bake about 100 apple pies for the event, and there will be ice cream and coffee too. A group of young musicians from Alexander Galt called "The Gay Nineties", directed by Bruce Patton, will be providing the music.

This event will go on rain or shine, the organizers say, as a tent will be available.

But even with 50 or 60 volunteers pitching in for the opener, work has only begun, said McKercher.

"Our objective is to have approximately one-third collected by December," he said. After the garden party, the next task is distributing brochures with mail-in donation cards door to door in and around Lennoxville.

After that, some activities are already scheduled, and others are expected to develop as more people get involved.

"We think a good portion (of the funds) will come from groups," said McKercher. "We hope they'll see it as their own project for a fund-raiser."

MUSICAL EVENT

The Bishop's University department of music has done just that, by organizing an appropriate musical event, which they're calling "An evening with Miss Bowen". Friday, October 25.

Miss Bowen is Jessica Eliza Bowen, daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel G.W. Bowen, the first mayor of Lennoxville, and Eliza Jessie Wyatt, the first organist at St. Peter's Anglican Church in Sherbrooke. The Bowens were well known in the area for their musical interests and talents, and the family had an enviable collection of piano and instrumental sheet music, now in the possession of the Bishop's University library.

The Lennoxville Ascot Historical Society announced their plans to buy the Speid property at a recent press conference in an elegant sitting room of the building.

Drawing on this collection, and using period furnishings and costumes, the music department will recreate the musical soirées held in the elegant Bowen home on Prospect Street in the latter part of the last century.

All proceeds from the evening will go to the historical society for the purchase of Uplands.

CULTURAL CENTRE
"The possibilities for this property are almost unlimited," said Brand. She sees it as a cultural centre with a museum, archives, a large room for meetings, and an art gallery. There is great potential in the barn as well, with a large loft that would be ideal for children's theatre, and the wood-working shop of Arthur Speid, with most of his tools from around the 1920s still intact and in their places, providing another taste of the past.

Although the major thrust of the campaign is to get community support, the society is looking into government help, both provincial and federal. The local representatives have been contacted, and have shown significant interest, said Brand.

The historical society has 140 members, up from just 65 a year ago. With the help of various grants, the society has been able to expand its activities over the past few years. This summer, two students were employed through the federal job program Challenge '85, allowing the museum to hold regular hours for the first time in its existence. The society has sponsored bus tours, published a catalog of its holdings and put together brochures for walking tours of the area.

INTERESTING HISTORY

The Uplands property has an interesting history that forms an integral part of the history of Lennoxville itself. As the society's literature explains, the Honorable William Bowman Felton, squire of "Belvidere" was given title as original grantee to two acres in the centre of Lennoxville in 1824. A year later he sold part of it to Ezekial Elliott, who sold it in 1845 to Gabriel Caron, one of the earliest French Canadian settlers in the area.

John Paddon of Compton purchased the land for farming in 1861, and the next year built the house that stands there now, calling it "Uplands". He passed the farm on to his daughter Julia Agnes and her husband Canon A.C. Scarth, rector of St. George's church.

Arthur Speid, a friend of the family, bought the property from the Scarths' sons in 1918, and it has remained in the family since then.

Uplands has an interesting history that forms an important chapter in the history of Lennoxville itself.

Revised guide to literature an invaluable reference

The Oxford Companion To English Literature, edited by Margaret Drabble (OXFORD): $29.95, 1168 pp.

When Sir Paul Harvey published his Oxford Companion To English Literature in 1932 he could not have known what a well-loved, well-thumbed guide to reading and books his tome would become.

Fifty-three years later the Companion has been revised, resulting in a substantially longer text, which retains only 15% of the old book. English novelist Margaret Drabble worked for five years to make sure that the new edition continued the past tradition, and also scanned the contemporary literary scene. Writers born up to 1939 are covered now, and room is made for many who have not appeared in previous editions, such as Ogden Nash, Malcolm Bradbury and Tom Stoppard, among the poets, novelists and playwrights respectively.

Some of the points of difference between Drabble's volume and Harvey's are found in the former's tendency to be more willing to give a critical judgement on writers, and to trace changes in their reputations through the years. Central texts of English literature are given much more detailed attention than before (three double-column pages devoted to The Canterbury Tales); seminal figures such as Dickens are accorded separate entries on all the major novels, their characters, his publisher and his illustrators; writers and topics previously regarded as "non-literary" are treated, including The Beatles, Agatha Christie, Ngaio Marsh, Arthur C. Clarke, Comics and W.H. Smith Ltd.

The Companion remains an invaluable source for finding the plot summaries of novels and plays and outlines of the themes of poems (works such as The French Lieutenant's Woman, The Caretaker, and Four Quartets), as well as an alphabetical key to quickly identifying literature's fictional characters from Flashman to Kurtz to Widmerpool or Yakimov. Movements in literature such as the Angry Young Men, the Beat Generation, and Structuralism, may be easily found, plus important names associated with literary criticism, such as Chomsky, Leavis and A.C. Bradley the revered Shakespearean.

With more than 7,000 entries, the Oxford Companion To En- glish Literature is a mammoth work that even those casually interested in literature and its rich history will find indispensable due to its fine blend of the scholarly and the popular, and the informative nature of the reference book itself.

RECENT PAPERBACKS

The Witches of Eastwick by John Updike (FAWCETT-RANDOM HOUSE): $5.95, 344 pp.

John Updike's wickedly witty modern spoof of New England witchcraft, as practised in contemporary America, is a delight to read. Sparkling with his dexterity with language and the inventiveness of an always fertile imagination, Updike's Witches is the story of a small coven of divorced but hardly celibate witches who find that a new arrival in their small town—the dashing hot tub host named Darryl Van Horne—opens the door to some magical mystical moments. Readers who let themselves in for Updike's captivating storytelling will readily agree with Time magazine's choice of The Witches of Eastwick as one of the five best works of fiction of the year.

RECORD REVIEWS

Paul Young THE SECRET OF ASSOCIATION (COLUMBIA)

The biggest male vocalist out of Britain since David Bowie or Cliff Richard, Paul Young is also the blue-eyed soul singer who single-handedly stole the LIVE-AID SHOW with his exciting rendition of "Every Time You Go Away". The album that is currently zooming up the charts even as Young tours Canada and the U.S. is a tangible ear treat attesting to what the fuss is all about.

Young, who favours following the career footsteps of crooners such as Sam Cooke, shows how to get every possible inch of performing punch out of a voice that is less than spectacular. Young's pipes are fog-hornish, sounding as if he has a perpetual chest-cold, or whiskey-throat, but this only adds to the soulful delivery, especially on the terrific arrangement on Darryl Hall's tune "Every Time You Go Away (You Take A Piece Of Me With You)".

The album, (the title of which is really meaningless, having been culled from a want-ad in the London Times searching for a secretary for an associated group of companies), The Secret of Association, is a blend of soul classics, such as "I'm Gonna Tear Your Playhouse Down", and several tracks written by Paul and his keyboardist Ian Kewley such as "Everything Must Change". Strong contenders to jump out of his album as Young's next North American single could be "Standing On The Edge", or the aforementioned Young-Kewley tune, both of which allow the British balladeer to strut the good stuff that has carried Young into the hottest ticket in recordom.

After listening to CALIFORNIA PROJECT by Papa Doo Run Run most of them will forget it and go on with the much simpler stuff to clone like the Motown heritage that Phil Collins and his ilk keep pilfering. This five man California specialty unit has been covering the Wilson Bros & Friends for over a decade, appearing for 9 consecutive years at Disneyland, plus doing concerts with Jan & Dean, as well as appearing with original members of the Beach Boys.

Part of the credit for Young's emergence as a one-man Hall & Oates must go to the three backup singers who lend such soulful support—George Chandler, Jimmy Chambers and Tony Jackson are used with tasty dexterity by producer Laurie Latham. Young's band sounds like it could sit in for Stevie Wonder or Lionel Richie anytime, so the soul licks certainly add to the effect of the vocals. Paul Young's North American debut was only a natural follow-up to the sight and sound of almost 100,000 Wembley Stadium rock fans chanting the lyrics to his monster hit—over here the reaction has just been delayed, certainly not abated.

The CALIFORNIA PROJECT takes the music of the Beach Boys into a 32-track digital sound studio, hooks up a Mitsubishi X-800, and rolls the tapes to capture what the Beachies would sound like under the Japanese state-of-the-art audio conditions. The result is astounding! This album, merely an adjunct to the Compact Disc format for which the project was designed, is uncannily perfect in its reproduction. The presence, the eerie capturing of the five players' breathing between phrases quickly attests to the kind of recording fidelity that is going onto the tape.

Papa Doo Run Run's faithful duplication of every note and intonation of the original songs is even more breathtakingly dead-on than the Stars On 45 tribute to the Beatles a couple of years ago. From "I Get Around" to "Barbara Ann", the songs are covered definitely, with a track like "Help Me Rhonda" especially popping out of the grooves. Papa Doo Run Run pay the Beach Boys the sincerest form of flattery with their digital delight CALIFORNIA PROJECT.

Sherbrooke art show has something for all tastes

By Laurel Sherrer

SHERBROOKE — The Caisse Populaire de Sherbrooke Est is hosting an exhibition of art works from the Galerie de l'art Français de Montreal for the next month, and it's worth putting yourself out to see.

With about 20 artists' works, there's a real variety, so something is sure to please or intrigue you.

An acrylic by Stukely artist Christian Deberdt greets you as you climb the stairs to the gallery at 2 Bowen South, and you'll see more of his work as you move along. Although he claims his approach to art is "do whatever you want to do", there is among the four or five of his works shown here a consistent emphasis on seasides and riversides.

Making use of expanses of pale, dreamy pastel colors, wonderfully contoured sand-dunes and gentle highlighting, Deberdt's work is a celebration of purity and simplicity of form. His works all feature people, placed asymmetrically so as not to dominate, still seem an integral part of the setting.

STARTLING

"Frisson" (Shiver) shows only a little girl huddled in a beach towel, with the sand and sea behind her. You don't even see her face, but the child-like pose and startling three-dimensional quality make you want to give her a hug to keep her warm.

"Chateau de Sable" likewise plays on the appeal of children, placing four small boys on the beach of any child's dreams, busily piling up the moist sand to build sand castles.

Probably the most astonishing work in the show is an untitled piece by Claude Bibeau. As if looking out a low window toward the street we see the backs of three lifesize, males wearing jeans, and a bit of the crowd of people beyond them. And it really is like looking out that window, the effect is so incredibly true-to-life, down to the metal Lee tag.

Carole Lafontaine, a Sherbrooke artist, has one painting on display at the Caisse gallery. She uses photographs of people to do faces, saying it enables her to make them more lifelike and capture emotion more effectively. Her untitled work is a watercolor, with a young girl's face taken from life, but the misty mountains and sea in the background complete fantasy.

"I want to make people dream," Lafontaine said at the show's opening. "I want people to feel good when they see my work."

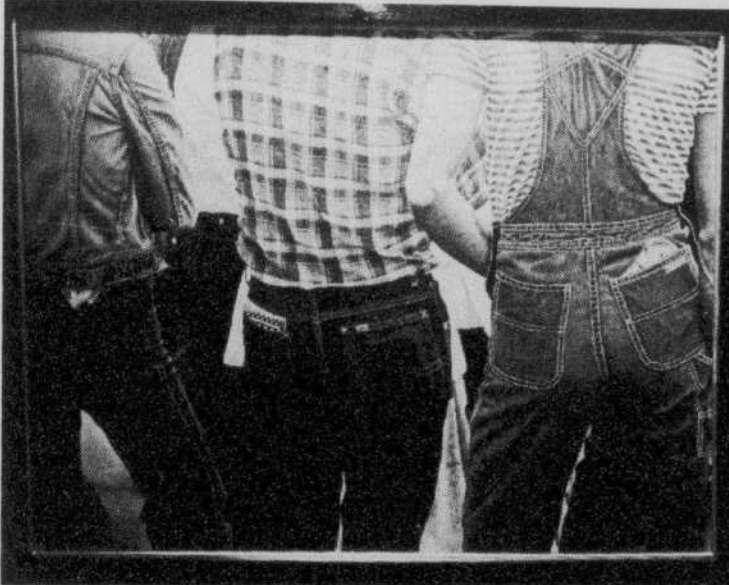

A DIFFERENT VEIN

In a different vein, (as all the works on display are in completely different veins), is "St. Henri" by Myuki Tanobe, a Montreal artist originally from Japan. A charming city street scene, rendered in a somewhat child-like one-dimensional manner, but with enthusiastic attention to even such mundane detail as the Coke signs on the stores, provides a loving look at life in a city neighborhood.

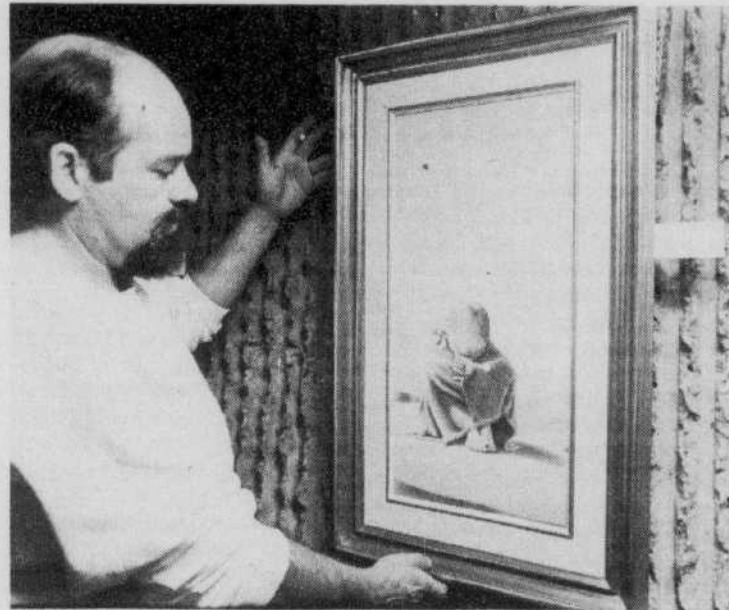

The exhibition also includes works by Fortin, Richard, Suzor-Côté, Riopelle, Scott, Dallaire, Moisan, Souli Kias, Ben David, Jones, Rochon, Lafontaine, Masson, Cosgrove and Gransow, so there's something for every taste.

Jean-Pierre Valentin, owner of the Montreal gallery, said it is entirely by co-incidence that the works he brought from Montreal for this exhibition include those of three Eastern Townships artists. "It just happened they were part of my gallery," he said. "I don't go for a specific region. If something is good it appeals to anyone."

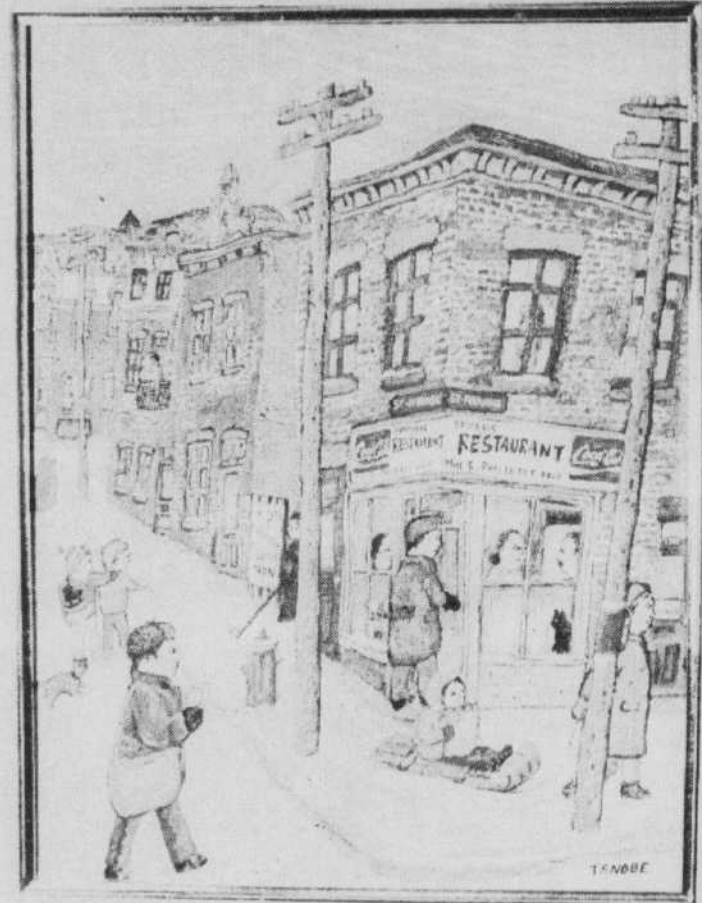

Bibeau's lifesize slice of life produces the effect of looking out a street-level window.

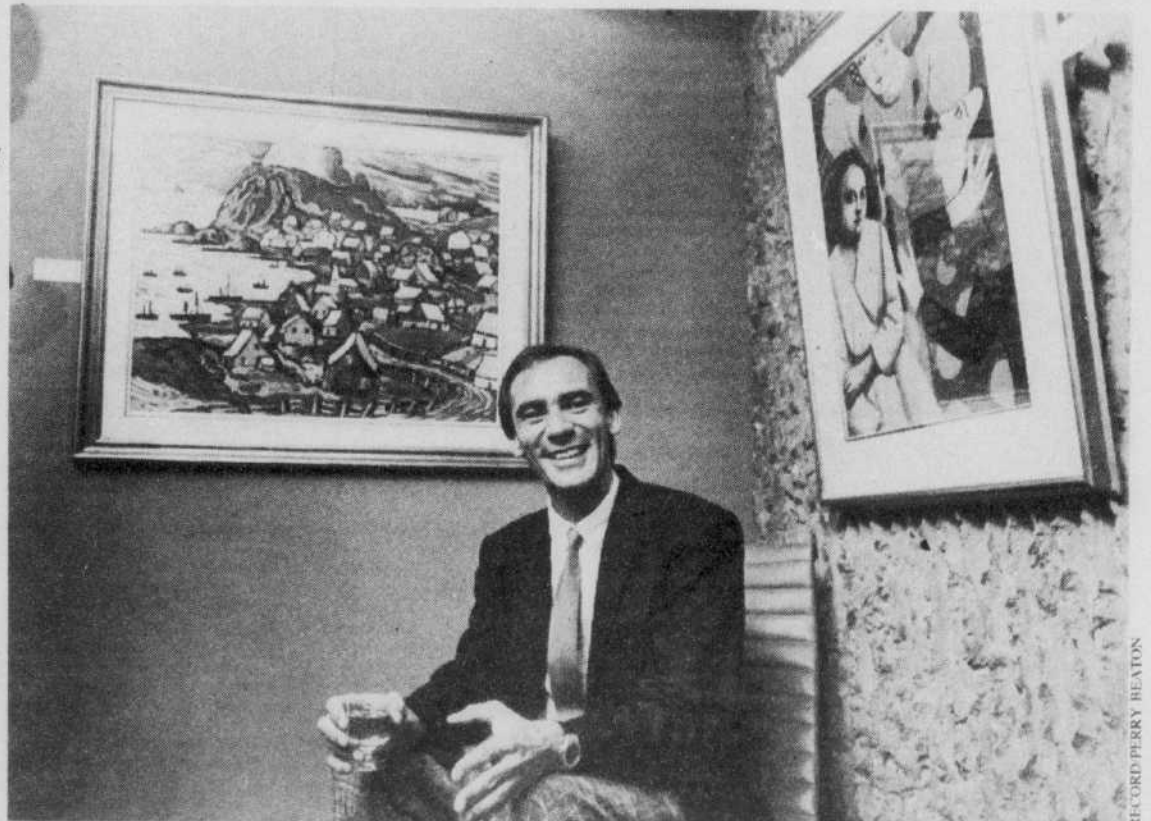

Stukely artist Christian Deberdt's work is a celebration of purity and simplicity of form.

Sherbrooke artist Carole Lafontaine wants her work to "make people dream".

Myuki Tanobe's "St. Henri" has a simple charm.

Gallery owner Jean-Pierre Valentin says he doesn't care where the artist comes from. If it's good it appeals to anyone he says. Fortin's "Gaspé", behind him, has a price tag of $40,000.

'Feel good' trend in movies doesn't suit everyone

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Realism is out, "feel-good" movies are in. And for Hollywood, the formula feels great at the box office this summer.

On screen, the most perplexing of problems are solved in the final reel, and grander-than-life heroes dispatch the bad guys against insuperable odds.

The big winner of the box-office sweepstakes, Rambo: First Blood Part II, offers Sylvester Stallone on a mission to rescue Americans missing in action in Vietnam. One statistician put Rambo's personal body count at 42.

President Ronald Reagan — during the airline hostage crisis in Lebanon — expressed joking admiration for the muscle-bound Rambo's deadly methods.

In Pale Rider, Clint Eastwood challenges seven gunslingers to a fight and plugs them all.

In the season's other big western, Silverado, a quartet of saddlemates conquers a small army of desperadoes. In Mad Max Beyond Thunderdome, Mel Gibson and a pack of kids outwit a rampaging band of brutes led by Tina Turner, while in A View to a Kill, Roger Moore coolly beats the villains and the odds again as James Bond.

On a less violent note, Cocoon is a warm, happy variation on the fountain of youth theme. The two Steven Spielberg movies, The Goonies and Back to the Future, reflect his admiration of Frank Capra's happy endings.

Some members of Hollywood's creative community don't feel good about the trend, however.

"I feel bad about those kinds of films," says Philip Dunne, veteran writer (How Green Was My Valley) and director. "I think they're remarkably silly."

"I believe the movement started last summer with the Olympic Games. As a reaction to the defeats in Vietnam and Lebanon, people wanted to bust out and yell 'USA!' What resulted was a remarkable show of bad manners to the rest of the world."

Director Irvin Kershner (Return of the Jedi, Never Say Never Again) sees the trend as sheer escapism, the same thing movies offered during the Depression.

It's time to register for fall arts courses

SHERBROOKE — Several workshops in art and handicrafts will be offered this fall by the city of Sherbrooke's recreational and community services.

Starting September 9 there will be about 30 workshops for interested adults to choose from. Each one will last 12 weeks, at a cost of $15 per workshop. Registrations are now being taken at 187 Laurier, 563-5959.

The subjects to be taught include English, batik, relaxation, quilting, copper art, painting, crocheting, drawing, leather work, plant care, ceramics, wood sculpture, pottery, wooden toy making, stone sculpture, fancy sewing, rattan, Spanish, weaving, knitting, guitar, sewing, stained glass, photography and yoga.

Courses are offered both during the day and evening.

The University Singers are looking for voices

While September is the traditional time for looking ahead to the activities that will bring a little warmth into the long winters, the University Singers have been planning the 1985-'86 season for some time.

This community choir under the direction of Nancy Rahn has a full year of singing lined up for singers and listeners alike. The core of the university choir is drawn from students in the Department of Music at Bishop's University as well as the campus shared by Bishop's and Champlain. Beyond that members come from every corner of the Townships.

"With a new season starting, the singers re-extend the invitation to join our ranks," said music department chairman Tom Gordon. "Whether you're a refugee from the Met, a veteran church member or an occasional warbler, your voice will be welcome to join us."

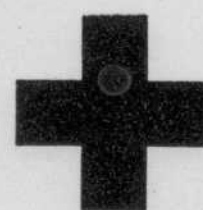

The coming season is an exciting one. The annual pre-Christmas concert will be highlighted by a performance of Schubert's Mass in G accompanied by the University string ensemble. Also on the program will be a selection of modern and traditional carols of the advent and yuletide season.

This year for the first time the Christmas concert will have two venues. On November 17 the choir will sing at Ste-Bibiane's church in Richmond joined in the carols by the combined choirs of Richmond's churches. The program will be repeated on November 24 at the Centennial Theatre on the campus of Bishop's University.

A second pair of concerts in mid-March will feature folk song arrangements by Canadian and European composers. Rehearsals are Tuesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:00 in the music studio of McKinnon building on the Bishop's campus beginning on Tuesday, September 10.

"Prospective and returning members, even the mildly curious are warmly invited to attend," said Rahn. For further information contact her at 565-0344 or Tom Gordon at 569-9551, extension 383.

Tories planning reverse "revenge of the cradle"?

Hurray for Mila and her husband Whatshisname. Worried by a decline in Regressive Conservative popularity, they are single handedly attempting to implement a reverse "revenge of the cradle". Rumor has it that, following the bosses example, all members of the Tory cabinet will be either starting or adding to their immediate families. Contacted in Ottawa, Eric 'The Red' Nielsen, the nation's stalwart and newly-wed Defence Minister, said "It's no big thing. If Cary Grant can do it at 62, I've got plenty of time left." Local MP Jean-James Charest was unavailable for comment, however, rumor has it he was seen recently at the Teddy Bear counter in a well-known Ottawa department store.

Record wine columnist, Timothy Belford, has apparently headed to St. John's this week to offer his services to the Titanic Search Expedition as a wine taster after it was announced that the searchers had located hundreds of cases of undamaged wine in the forward section of the ship. Belford, who is familiar with both wine and ships — having been an officer in Canada's Maritime Command — says that his experience in uncorking bottles under adverse conditions, including thirty-foot swells, would be invaluable. "People don't realize that there's a real knack to drinking wine while the ship's moving from side to side", Belford said, adding, "It's all in the wrist."

Although Johnny Carson, that well-known entertainment industry south of the border, probably won't have to give up eating out, his recent divorce settlement with third wife Joanna is bound to be unsettling. Heeere's Johnny, was ordered to pay up $2.2 million big ones as well as giving the former love of his life two New York apartments, a $5 million Bel Air mansion, a Rolls-Royce, a Mercedes Benz, 310 shares in his production company and 75 Kruger-rands. This leaves Carson with only three L.A. condominiums (Joanna got to keep her diagram), two homes, an antique car and the rest of the shares in his companies. One can't help wondering how the two of them ever managed to drive all the cars and live in all the houses in the first place.

For those of you who are at a loss as to what to give the man who has everything, check out next week's Au Bon Marché ad. Yes sir, if hubby's the hunting type, why not a gallon or two of Moose Urine. At a mere $7.57 it's, as the ad says, "A must for the serious moose hunter." Failing that, an ounce or two of Buck Stop Scent which is guaranteed to bring them "in on the gallop" might be just the thing. The ad doesn't specify exactly how these two enticements are to be applied but I suppose a drop or two behind the ear or a little on the nape of the neck will do the trick.

Well the "Team of the '80s" has demonstrated once again that Wilfrid Laurier wasn't the only one to make mistakes. (You remember, "The twentieth century belongs to Canada", or some such drivel.) The mighty Expos are now so far out of first place that even a strike wouldn't help. And where, may I ask, is Gary Carter, the man who supposedly caused the team's demise last year? He's still playing excellent ball with the New York Mets who are still in the thick of the pennant race. I wonder why nobody there is blaming him for everything from the weather to air pollution? And speaking of sports, the Concordes seem to be taking a leaf from B.C.'s book in a valiant attempt to snatch defeat from the jaws of victory. Joe Galat must wonder how many ways there are for a team to give a game away after his hapless hordes succumbed to Bernie Rouff's foot and a case of terminal boredom against the Ti-Cats this week. You know the city's sports franchises are in trouble when there's more action on the cable TV's test pattern.

The hunting garb, the outdoorsy, adventurous air of the sportsman...it all clicks. But what's that smell?

WHAT'S ON

Music

With the Orford Arts Centre finishing its season a couple of weeks ago, we were left with a bit of a gap in the possibilities for lovers of classical music. But, have no fear, the Old Brick Church in West Brome has more to offer with a pair of concerts Saturday and Sunday at 8 and 3 p.m. respectively. L'Ensemble Claude Gervaise will perform a programme of 16th century music called Le bal chez Rabelais consisting of works composed by contemporaries of Rabelais such as Jannequin, Jacotin and Obrecht. The instruments will include recorders, fiddle, hurdy-gurdy, lute, sackbut, rebec, cittern, bagpipe, zink and others. Admission is free, and more information is available at 263-2346.

Soon as well, the Bishop's University Department of Music will be putting on concerts, starting October 4th with baroque flutist Eric Milner and harpsichordist Gerald Wheeler.

On the popular music level, three and possibly four bands will be playing at the St. Pat's Old Boys Camp on Stoke Lake Sunday afternoon and evening to raise money to re-open the camp the next year. The bands that so far have confirmed their presence are Debbie Drummond, Idle Hands, and High Level (formerly Jumah).

By Laurel S. Herrer

There will be a corn roast along with the musical entertainment, and tickets are available at Estrie Productions' 74A Queen St. Lennoxville location, the Old Boys' office at 82 King West in Sherbrooke or call 569-1930. They will also be available at the camp, for the last-minute types.

Debbie Drummond will also be playing for a dance Saturday at Camping Compton. Debbie has a new release called Breaking All the Rules, which is now being played in Canada and the U.S. Her first release Just Another Song on the Radio made hit rotation at stations in Calgary, Peterborough and Coaticook among others. Best of luck with your newest effort, Debbie!

Station 88 in South Stukely features Sydney Ellis and the Concordes for the month of September.

Back Roads is playing at the Auberge Windsor tonight and Saturday.

A new bar in Robertsonville called the Gaspesian is now featuring Country Fever with Steve Aulis.

Jim's Place in Burroughs Falls has no entertainment this weekend due to a couple of wedding receptions apparently, but next Friday and Saturday the KGB is back together to provide the music. This group consists of Kevin Groves, Charles Murray and Rick Hodge. You'll hear more about them in next week's column.

The Sun Set Boys with their "music for all occasions", will be playing at a corn roast and dance at the Odd Fellows Hall in Knowlton. Their note says "Everyone welcome. Small cover charge." Why so mysterious, I wonder. Should we trust them?

Throughout the month, Ricky Fort will be at the Motel Bretagne Fridays and Saturdays starting at 9. This means country music, supposedly good for dancing.

The Hotel Danville has engaged the Georgia Country Trio with Tom Wheeler for September, and then can be heard Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 10:00, and Sunday at 3:00.

The F.L. Hideaway in Lennoxville still has the new band Blueprint, made up of Steve Hoyt, Tony Galeazzi, Gaetan Bergevin and Daniel Marcheterre. They're all veterans of the Townships music scene, but this is a new combination for them. You can hear them Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings.

The Shady Crest in Ayer's Cliff has the country rock band Moonshine for the next two months, playing Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

The Pub Chez Ronnie is promising dance music on the evening of the 11th (Wednesday) with In Color.

La Maltonière in Sherbrooke again has commercial dance music, but this time it's with a group called Zee.

Finally, this is not for those looking for musical entertainment, but for those wishing to attend a stag party for Stewart MacDonald, and we just thought some of his friends might look here. It's at the Georgian Tavern on Saturday at 3 and tickets are $2. Come and pay tribute to Stewart's last weekend as a single man.

Theatre

In the coming week, instead of just taking in a play, you have the opportunity to take the first step toward being involved in a theatrical production. Wednesday night at 7:30 in the St. George's Church Hall in Lennoxville, the Lennoxville Players hold their first meeting of the year. The group is planning to present Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe" at the Centennial Theatre in the spring, and they're looking for aspiring singers, actors and backstage help. The Lennoxville Firefighters are sponsoring the production, which will be directed by Dean Mullavey, with Morris Austin as conductor and musical director. Those attending the meeting will listen to tapes of Iolanthe recorded by the famous D'Oyly Carte Opera Company and discuss the production. Proceeds from the production will go to organizations such as minor hockey, guides and scouts.

Starting next Wednesday the terrifying comedy Jeu de 12 comes to the Petite Salle du Centre Culturel at the University of Sherbrooke, after a successful summer at the Théâtre du Thé des Bois in Deauville. The play will be presented Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30. Tickets are $8 with special rates for children, students, unemployed and groups.

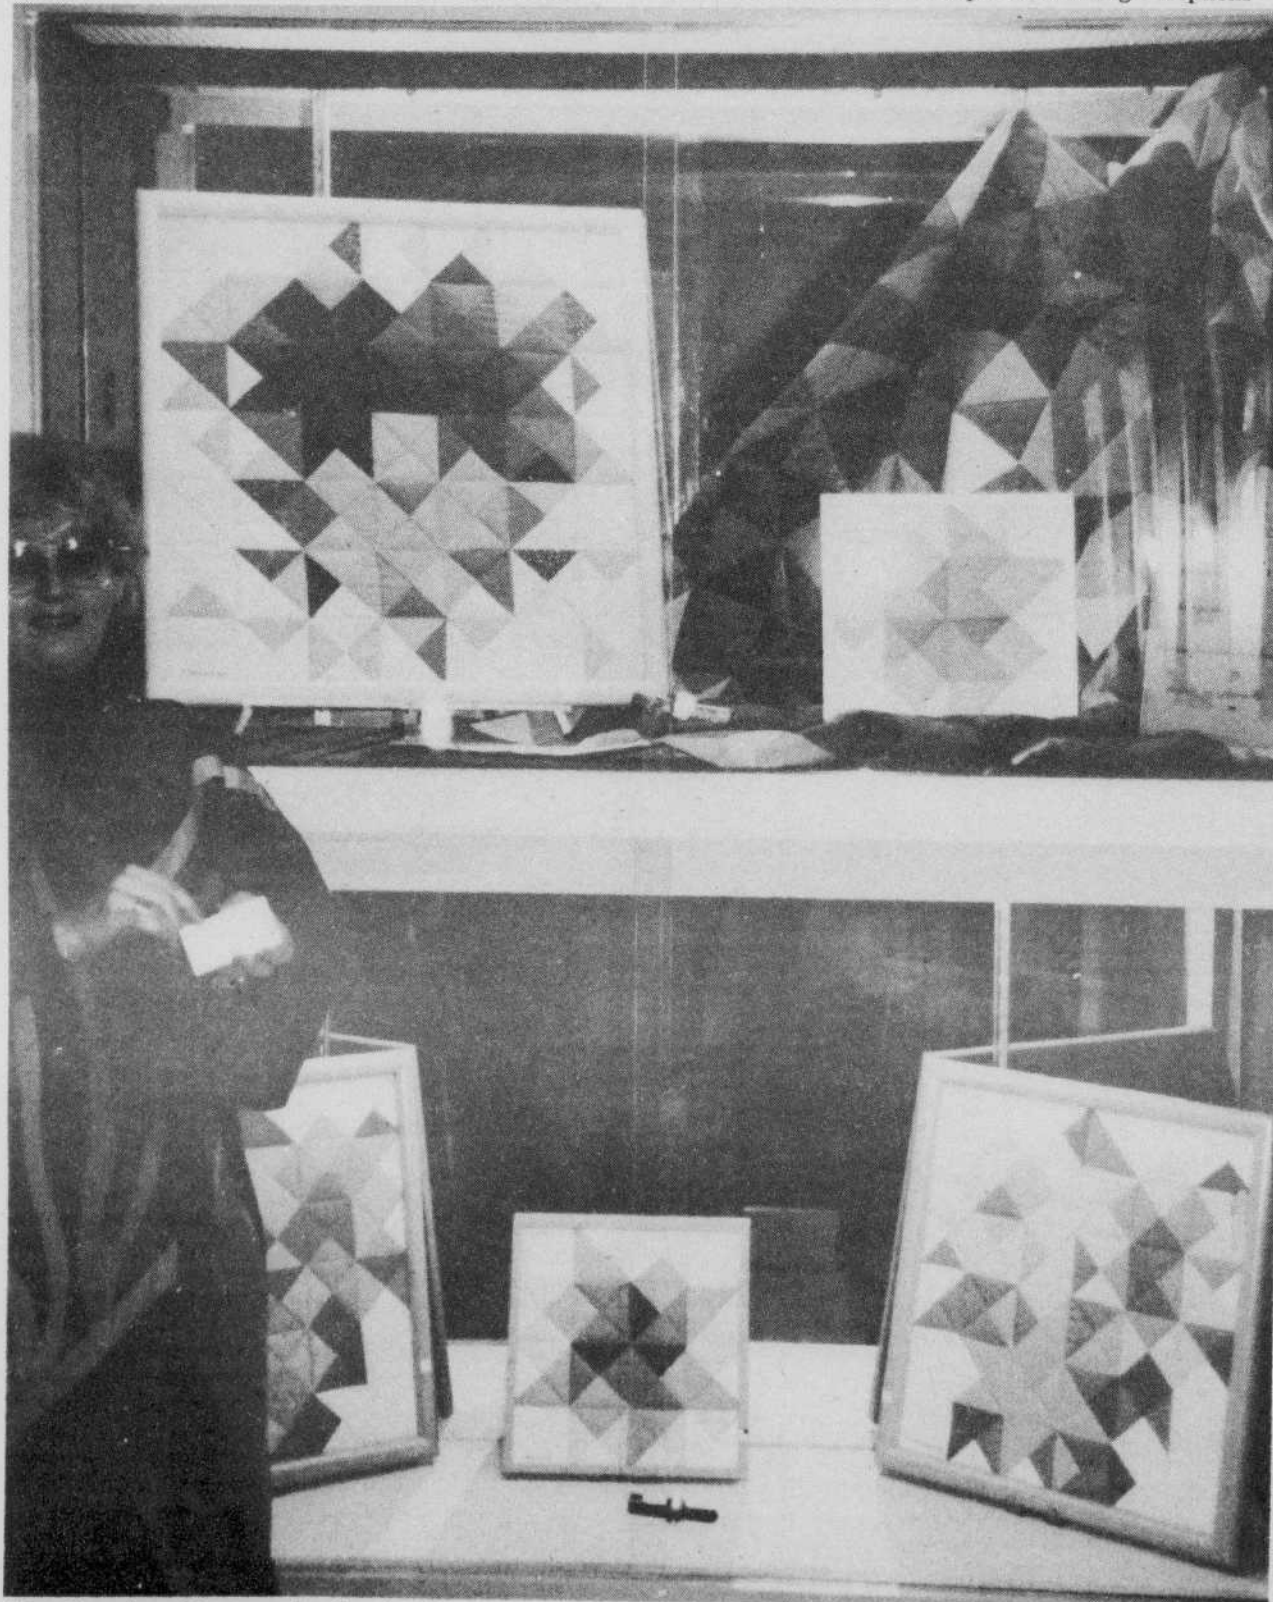

That's all there seems to be for theatre in the area right now, but things will certainly be picking up in the next few weeks.

Exhibitions/Events

At the Horace Gallery starting today the recent works of local artist Françoise Hamel will be exhibited. Hamel's paintings and drawings show a preoccupation with forms, but forms that are used in intriguing ways so as to suggest the "ambiguity between allusion and illusion", between external and internal reality, according to art historian Michelyne Caouette, who works at the gallery.

Also today, the Laurier Museum in Arthabaska opens an exhibition by painter Fernand Labelle. A Cornwall native, Labelle took up art at age thirty after political science and teaching, his early interests, lost their attractiveness for him. He has since shown his work in major cities of five continents, and his paintings can be found in collections in 15 different countries. The vernissage for this show is at 8:00 tonight.

Sunday at the Beaulne Museum in Coaticook quilter Francine Robichaud opens an exhibit that will last until the 29th. Robichaud takes a contemporary approach to this art passed down from our grandmothers, using a computer in creating new patterns, and producing muerals, wall-hangings of all sizes, clothing, as well as the traditional, utilitarian quilts.

The Galerie d'Art de la Caisse Populaire de Sherbrooke-est has a collection from the Galerie de l'Art Français de Montreal until the 27th, with works by about 20 Quebec artists, including three from the Eastern Townships. A real pot-pouri of quality Quebec art work, this is one exhibition that should not be missed. (See story and photos, page 5.)

Starting Saturday at the University of Sherbrooke Art Gallery, Sutton artist Anke vanGinhoven displays her work with Japanese paper making in an show called "Fragments de terre" (Earth fragments). VanGinhoven took courses from Japanese experts in Japan a few years ago, and now uses plants found on and around her farm to produce paper of interesting and varied color and texture. She is constantly experimenting with new plants, she says — different kinds of hay, clover, milkweed and so on — to see what kind of paper each will produce. She makes some paper to sell as a novelty type of writing paper, but mostly she makes pictures, wall-hangings and large "sculptures" out of the paper. It's really quite difficult to describe, but do take a look and see what you think.

Two other exhibitions will be launched at the U de S at the same time: A Survey by painter Wayne Boucher in the Grand Hall of the Pavillion Central, presented in collaboration with the Canadian Arts Council, and Peindre avec la lumiere by Jack Turner and Neal Livingston, in the foyer of the Salle Maurice O'Bready, presented in collaboration with the Canadian Photography Museum.

On Monday, at the Edifice Gouvernemental 77 Main St. in Granby, the Evenements du Hall program for 1986-'87 is launched with an exhibition by Louise Dubé, a Waterloo artist whose media of expression are graphite, charcoal, pastel, and acrylics. This is her first solo exhibition, and it will continue until September 20.

Movies

The Francesco Rosi film Carmen must be something to see, as it's back for its second week at the Capitol Theatre in Sherbrooke. It stars Julia Migenes-Johnson and Placido Domingo and a few others with impressive Latinic sounding names. This is the French version and you can catch it Monday to Friday at 8, Saturday, Sunday and Tuesday at both 2 and 8, and Wednesday it's a $2 special.

The Cinema Carrefour appears not to have an English film this week, as they have not placed their regular ad with us.

Waterloo artist Louise Dubé exhibits her work at the Edifice Gouvernemental in Granby from September 9 to 20.

In Cowansville, at the Cinema Princess, Ron Howard's much talked about Cocoon starts its second week tonight at 9:00. Cocoon has been described as a different use of the old fountain of youth theme. It is preceded at 7:15 by Moving Violations.

Finding out what's on at the Newport Cinema is proving to be a puzzle. A recorded message only tells you what's playing one night at a time, so your guess is as good as mine as to whether Desperately Seeking Susan will continue at 7:30 Friday through Tuesday. But with this theatre it's almost worth it to take a chance Sunday, Monday and Tuesday since it will only cost you $1 (U.S. that is, plus the gas to get there). I'll keep working at getting through to a live person who can tell me on a consistent basis what's coming up. (Give me a break, I'm new at this!)

At Merrill's Showplace Theatre, also in Newport, it's The Year of the Dragon with Mickey Rourke at 6:45 and 9:20 with bargain matinees Saturday and Sunday at 2:05, Back to the Future with Michael J. Fox and Christopher Lloyd at 7:00 and 9:15 every evening and bargain matinees weekends at 1:45, and Weird Science at 7:15 and 9:30 nightly, with weekend bargain matinees at 1:55. Let me once again recommend Back to the Future as definitely the most captivating and fun-filled movie of the (so soon to be past) summer.

Television

Tonight on Vermont ETV, The Shakespeare Plays presents the classic comedy of mistaken identity, A Comedy of Errors at 9:00. Roger Daltrey, formerly of the rock group The Who stars in the adventure of two sets of twins who are constantly mistaken for each other.

At 8:00 tomorrow settle down to watch the Genie Award-winning movie The Grey Fox, starring Richard Farnsworth and Jackie Burroughs. This is the true story of an aging stagecoach robber who is released after 33 years in prison and soon takes up robbing trains.

Tomorrow at 9 on Vermont ETV, Alan Arkin and Martin Balsam head an all-star cast of lunatic characters in the 1970 film Catch 22, adapted from Joseph Heller's black comedy about war. The setting is a bombardier group stationed in Italy during WWII.

Monday on Vermont ETV wildlife cinematographer Dieter Plage captures the life, history and habits of the Bengal tiger on Survival Special at 8:00. The film Tiger, Tiger was shot in India and Nepal.

A Change of Seasons, starring Shirley Maclaine, Anthony Hopkins and Bo Derek on CTV Monday at 9 promises some quality entertainment in the story of a college professor's wife who decides to fight fire with fire when she discovers her husband is having an affair with a younger woman.

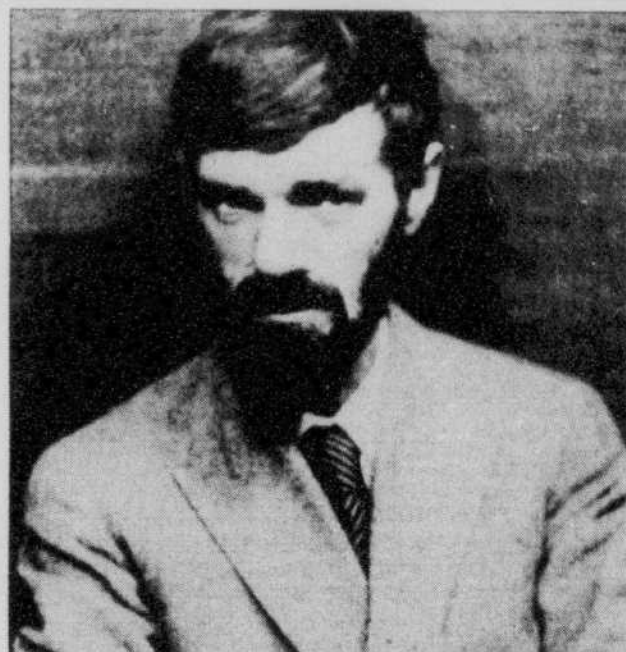

Late Monday night (11:57) the CBC telecasts Second City's 25th Anniversary Show, which will feature some illustrious Second City Alumni including Ed Asner, John Candy, Betty Thomas, Martin Short, Jim Belushi and many more. You don't really need to get any sleep Monday night do you?

The Nature of Things, with host David Suzuki celebrates the CBC's Canada Week with a profile of the Manitoba wetlands, Prairie Waters, Wednesday at 8. The lifestyles of the yellow-headed blackbird, the dancing western grebe, the ruddy duck and the piping plover are among the many features of this region to be examined. Suzuki will look at how human efforts to reclaim the land have had a devastating effect on the environment and wildlife there.

Also on Wednesday, as part of Canada Week, CBC Television is presenting And Miles to Go, a moving drama about a man who finds his true calling among the inhabitants of the bush communities in Northern Ontario. Based on a true story, this drama is telecast at 9 p.m. Gordon Pinsent wrote the story and stars in it as well, playing Jack Morrissey, a disillusioned teacher whose methods meet with disapproval in the private school system, forcing him to find another purpose in his life.

And for the nighthawks, on CTV Wednesday at midnight, the classic My Little Chickadee starring Mae West and W.C. Fields airs. In this 1940 comedy, West plays the field for a rich husband, but has a fond eye for a masked bandit.

There seems to be a good selection of comedy on the CBC next week, which is great because there seems to be a general shortage of it in most entertainment these days. Thursday night at 11:27 there's a special called

The life and work of controversial author D.H. Lawrence will be examined on CBC Radio's Anthology Saturday night.

Just for Laughs with young stand-up comedians and impressionists from Europe, Canada and the U.S. presenting their best.

Radio

On CBC Stereo's Vanishing Point tonight a series of contemporary short stories from India, The Taj Express, begins. That's at 11:30 p.m. With "actuality" for the series recorded on location in India, this series is purported to use sound the way an artist uses paint in an impressionistic style, providing somewhat of an immersion experience into the exotic and mysterious country. The first story, tonight, is The Blackmailer, by Anwar Azeem, which portrays the seedy side of Bombay as seen through the eyes of a young artist-photographer turned blackmailer. Next Friday the program is pre-empted for a special presentation, but it resumes September 20 with Lost Directions, a story of alienation and disillusionment set in modern New Delhi by novelist, short story and film writer Kameleshwar.

Also tonight on CBC Radio is the fifth and final concert of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra on Mostly Music. Maestro Georg Solti conducts Magna Mater by Alexander Tcherepnin, Dvorak's "New World" Symphony, and Mozart's Violin Concerto No. 4 in D, played by Anne-Sophie Mutter.

Saturday night CBC Radio's Anthology will commemorate the birth of controversial writer D.H. Lawrence on September 11, 1885 with an 80-minute special from 10:10 to 11:30. A Lover for Lorenzo: D.H. Lawrence 100 Years Later, is devised and prepared by longtime Lawrence devotee, David Watmough, a Vancouver critic and writer. Stratford actor Edward Atienza plays the part of the writer. Watmough addresses the different ways Lawrence was received in his native land, the U.S. and Canada, and discusses his relationship to some prominent writers on the contemporary Canadian literary scene. He examines the appeal Lawrence's writing has for the general public, and its tendency to provoke either ardent defense or censure.

A mini-season of BBC drama which started last week on CBC Radio's Sunday Matinee at 4:05 p.m. is interrupted this week for a special presentation, but resumes next week with the first part of Bernard Shaw's Caesar and Cleopatra.

Starting Monday on the drama series on CBC Radio's Morningside heard at 11:40 a.m. is the biographical drama Cervantes by Len Peterson. This is the biography of Miguel de Cervantes, author of Don Quixote, and it continues until September 20.

All week long Mostly Music has features for the CBC's Canada Week, with music from early Maritime tune books, traditional spirituals from Ontario, Pacific folk and religious material on Monday, the first release of the CBC Vancouver Orchestra's recording of music by Canadian composers Tuesday, and programs featuring young Canadian performers Wednesday through Friday. Mostly Music is heard on CBC Radio at 10:32 p.m. and CBC Stereo at 11:32 a.m.

A visit to a modern Kibbutz holds a few surprises

By Chick Schwartz

This is a country of startling physical, social, and economic contrasts. It was founded by thousands of idealists who spent their lives doing almost unimaginable amounts of physical labor. They planted literally millions of trees, put in irrigation systems and built near worthless desert into what is today verdant farms of corn, cotton, citrus of all types, figs, bannanas, vegetables, grains, etc. And for the most part, this dedication wasn't motivated by any desire for personal wealth or recognition. They lived on communes called "Kibbutzim".

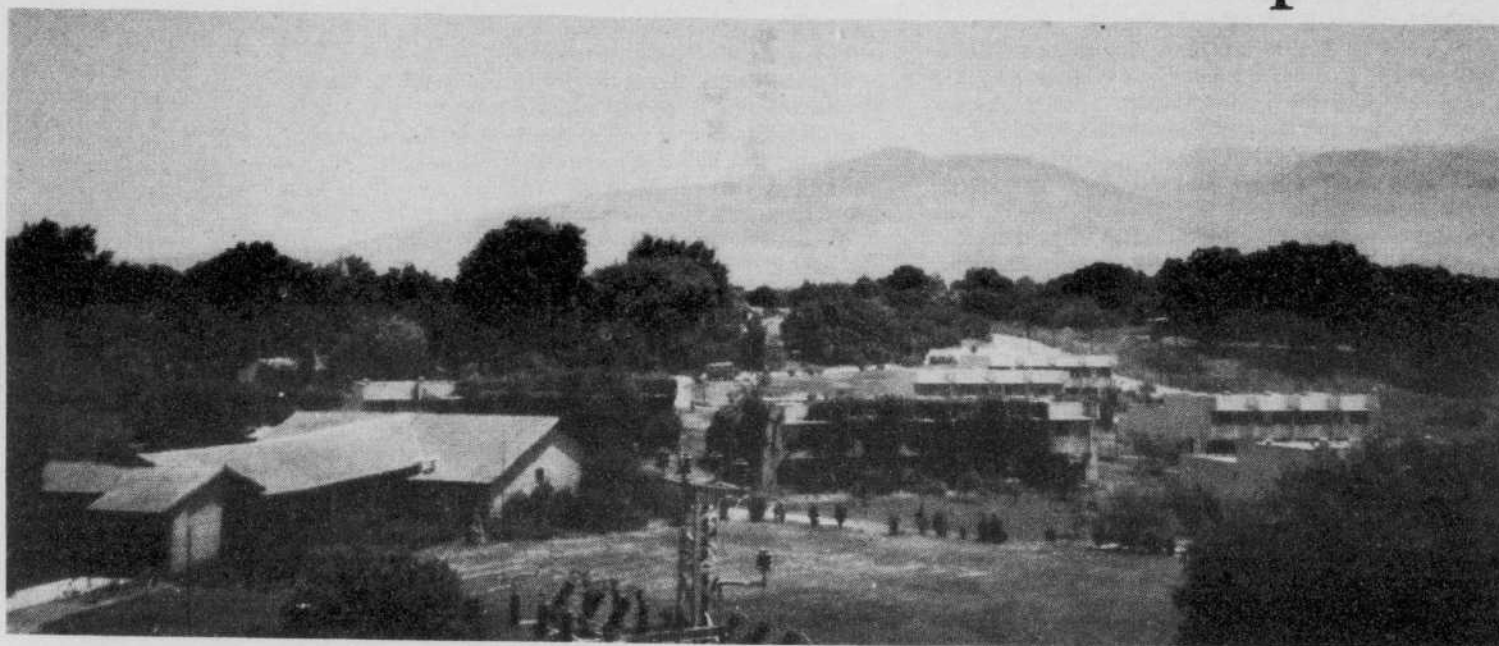

The Kibbutz owned everything. It furnished the members with food, shelter, and education for the children, but little else. Most of us have heard of the phenomenal success of the Kibbutz and the Israeli work ethic. Today, many of the people still work very hard. It isn't at all unusual to find real go-getters with two full time jobs.

THINGS HAVE CHANGED

However, socialism and the unions have taken their toll. When we returned from Egypt, the taxis were on strike as were the teachers, bakers, public office workers, grocery stores, gas stations, cigarette manufacturers, and garbage collectors. Several weeks later, there was a general strike during which no one in the country worked for one day. Every store, office and service was shut tight.

And, even when the public servants and employees of the large stores (all of which are unionized) are working, the service rendered is extremely frustrating to a North American. Courtesy is almost unheard of. Arrogance and surliness are almost de rigueur. It isn't unusual to go to a checkout counter in a store where there are several employees behind the cash and to wait for five or ten minutes when they chat among themselves, totally ignoring the queue. When they take your purchase to check the price, it is sometimes tossed back at you in such a fashion that it lands on the floor rather than the counter.

The tourist information offices in the various cities were the supreme test of temper control. In Acco, which was a bit reminiscent of Quebec in that the Tourist Information Office sign was only in Hebrew making it next to impossible for tourists to locate, I asked the lady if she could tell us how late the buses ran before shutting down for the Sabbath. She shrieked, "if you want to know about the buses, go to the bus station."

STILL WAITING

In Tel Aviv, I asked one of the ladies behind the information desk if she could recommend a hostel or hotel where the six of us could spend the night inexpensively. She snapped that Tourist Information doesn't recommend hotels. Of course, when I persisted, a list of hotels was forthcoming but I almost had to threaten bodily harm to get it. Many of the shopkeepers are so arrogant that you feel they are almost daring you to buy something from them. We're still waiting for the first "thank you" from any merchant from whom we made a purchase.

The Kibbutz has also undergone considerable transformation in recent years. We visited one in the northernmost part of the country, Ha Goshrim. We expected to see a huge farm with sweaty muscular young men and women scurrying around on their tractors during the day, and singing and dancing around the communal fires at night.

No way. The first thing you see is a magnificent, air-conditioned hotel full of tourists. Across the way, the kibbutznicks live in very modern and attractive houses that any of us would be proud to own anywhere. There were lush fields of cotton and apple trees down in the valley, but no sweaty or any other description of farmers were to be seen.

ALL AUTOMATED

Instead, offices with a couple of sophisticated business types manning computers were shown to us. The irrigation, spray schedules, fertilization programs, etc. were all automated or at least controlled in these hi tech centers. Three chicken houses producing 250,000 birds a year were manned by two people and a computer controlled feeding and maintenance system.

The hotel is run on a very business-like manner. Much effort is put into marketing — presentations to travel agent conventions all over Europe and North America. An expansion to their technical tool manufacturing plant is being built after much product testing and market research. And there is no blind loyalty to farming or particular crops. When cucumbers got too competitive, they went into tomatoes. Then tomatoes became only marginally profitable, so they researched potential products and soil/climate conditions and came up with cotton. Right now, between the hotel and the cotton, they are able to finance the plant expansion as well as upgrade the parklike atmosphere surrounding the recreation and pool centre.

EVERYONE BENEFITS

While nobody owns their own cars or piece of the hotel, when you need transportation, a chit is signed and away you drive. Also, since everyone benefits directly by having better homes, vacation money, living allowances, etc., even though none of the businesses or farming ventures are privately owned, everyone works as though they were their own.

Incidentally, the plant manager or hotel administrator, or Kibbutz chief, etc. is a temporary job lasting three or four years. Everyone still does everything. The hotel administrator, whom we had previously met here in Canada and who accorded us superior personal hospitality, worked in the central kitchen where the Kibbutz members take all their meals before he was elected to the position of hotel manager.

The most intriguing aspect of the Kibbutz to us other than the bomb shelters scattered throughout the living area every several hundred meters (Ha Goshrim is only a couple of kilometers from Lebanon and had been shelled continuously by the Palestinians during the last twenty years), was the Kibbutznick's cafeteria. All the members eat together in this huge room and since we were guests of one of the member families, we were invited to eat our meals with them. Except for very old members (some of whom were in their eighties), most of the people were born on the Kibbutz.

LIKE FAMILY

The atmosphere in there was like one huge family of 300. (In fact, several individual families boasted four generations at Ha Goshrim.) Everyone played with everyone else's kids. All the kids seemed as much at home with any of the adults as with their own parents. There was a total easiness and warmth in this dining hall that made you feel a little jealous. They all belonged. No nuclear families here.

Next week: A mined road in the Golan Heights and trading in a Bedouin Market.

The atmosphere on the Kibbutz is like one of a large happy family. They all belong.

Liliana Komorowska feels right at home in America

By Nancy M. Reichardt

"In December of 1981, I felt I had woken up in a nightmare," remembers Liliana Komorowska, who plays Daphne Grimaldi on "Another World."

Miss Komorowska, who was born in Gdansk, Poland, and raised in Warsaw, vividly remembers the end of the Polish Solidarity movement and the beginning of martial law.

"Poland was isolated from the rest of the world. Our rights as citizens were suspended, and all men were under control of the army. We had to learn new rules: A curfew was imposed, cars were taken away, theatrical activity was suspended for at least four months. And for me, that was a psychological and creative death." A year later, adds Miss Komorowska, "I realized I had to escape."

Her lucky break came when she was offered a part in the American-produced film "War and Love."

"It took me seven months of struggling to get my passport," remembers Miss Komorowska. "After my passport, it took another four months of dealing with the American Embassy, which was barricaded by the Polish police, to get my visa to come to America."

Since her arrival, Miss Komorowska has worked steadily. She appeared in the feature films "Man from a Far Country" and "Contract," in the NBC-TV Movie of the Week "Codename: Foxfire," and in a "Simon and Simon" episode before joining "Another World." (In Poland, she also starred in theater, film and television.)

The hardest thing was leaving her entire family behind in Poland. Both her parents are theater people (her mother is a choreographer and her father is a dancer). She also has a younger brother who remained in Poland.

"My parents aren't alone," she says, "but when I left, we knew we were parting forever."

Still, Miss Komorowska has adapted well to her life in America.

"I grew up on American cuisine and culture — Fred Astaire, Rita Hayworth, Ava Gardner, Humphrey Bogart, John Wayne. Of course, I would choose to come to America."

Making Our City Blossom Is Beautifying It

I'm a gardener with some 28 years of experience. As director of our municipal gardens, each year I oversee the planting and care of 500,000 plants.

In my role as president of the committee charged with beautifying Sherbrooke, I'm gratified to see that many others are adopting my passion. Throughout the city, I've seen an increasing number of landscaped yards and flower-decked balconies, making the setting of our homes much more attractive. Our committee is doing all it can to encourage Sherbrooke residents to participate in the "Ville Fleurie" contest. After all, making our city blossom is beautifying it. And what more original way to contribute to making Sherbrooke more than a city?
