Fifty-Fourth Year

World News In Brief

Rome, May 1.—(P)—Two farm workers were killed and five others wounded last night in fighting between police and demonstrators at Celano, in the Abruzzi hills.

Police at nearby Avezzano told reporters by telephone that the trouble began when a throng of some 300 workers ignored police orders to disband.

Stellarton, N.S., May 1.—(P)—A close vigil was kept today over the Allan shaft mine here for further explosions when officials said might wreck the 47-year-old workings.

While the seven victims of a blast and fire Friday night still lay in hospital—two on the danger list—mine experts kept an anxious eye on pit-head graphs.

Mine manager Ernest Wright said a minor explosion is believed to have occurred Saturday—on the same 1,200-foot level as the first blast.

Quebec, May 1.—(CP)—Cattle population on Quebec province farms increased in 1949 to 1,748,000 from 1,728,900 in 1948, the provincial Statistics Bureau reported today.

The number of milch cows on Quebec farms increased in 1949 to 1,109,500 from 1,094,700 the previous year.

The sheep population fell to 240,200 last year from 260,500 in 1948 while the number of pigs increased to 1,146,500 from 939,200.

There was a drop in the number of horses to 290,000 from 304,200.

Winnipeg, May 1.—(CP)—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Nicky Kolt were found in the basement of their home in north-end Winnipeg, police said today. A rifle lay nearby.

A roomer discovered the bodies.

Singapore, May 1.—(P)—Police announced today the arrest of a man accused of tossing a grenade Friday night at Sir Franklin Gimson, Singapore's governor. The arrest led to the roundup of four communist leaders, and discovery of another alleged murder plot.

Calgary, May 1.—(P)—A 22-year-old pilot based Calgary for 40 minutes early Sunday, then crashed to his death. His plane piled into a north-end bungalow. Four persons in the house escaped serious injury.

Jack Harper, advertising and sales employee of Foot-Hills Aviation Ltd., took a twin-engine Cessna crane from the company hangar at 2:38 a.m.

Without obtaining permission from the airport control tower he took off from the wrong runway.

Paris, May 1.—(Reuters)—Premier Georges Bidault said last night France does not intend to produce an atom bomb. "There must be some control of all armaments and not only of the atom bomb," he told a local congress of his party, the Popular Republicans, at Montbrisson.

14 Sunken Freighters Will Be Salvaged From Atlantic

Montreal, May 1.—(P)—Sydney J. Simon, of Halifax, announced here today he has purchased 14 sunken freighters and will salvage their steel from the bottom of the Atlantic off Canada's east coast.

Mr. Simon, managing director of the Guard Wrecking and Salvage Company of Halifax, said the freighters range up to 10,000 tons and salvage work will begin within six weeks.

Explosives will be used to blast the steel from the ships.

Mr. Simon said some of the freighters still have rich cargoes in their holds and efforts will be made to recover them before blasting. After the hulls have been blown apart the steel will be raised to the surface by means of floating cranes. The steel then will be sent to eastern mills for melting.

Mr. Simon listed 10 of the freighters as the Kenkerry, Ganby, Guard, Langellbridge, Aranda, Advance, City of Colombo, River Rye, Watford and Martin van Buren.

Sporadic Clashes Between East And West Berliners Mark May Day Celebrations

Stalin Reviews Mammoth May Day Parade In Moscow

By The Associated Press
Generalissimo Stalin reviewed thousands of cheering Russians today in a mammoth May Day parade celebrating international labor day.

The communist slogans in Moscow's Red Square were echoed around the world, from tense and divided Berlin to distant Burma.

The eyes of the world, however, turned anxiously toward Berlin where nearly 1,000,000 persons converged to hold rival communist and anti-communist demonstrations.

Tough west Berlin police were quick to suppress the first scattered clashes and incidents. East Berlin police in their Soviet sector also were out in force.

Moscow, the capital of all communist-style May Day celebrations, was engulfed in a sea of red bunting. A military parade marched past Lenin's tomb and Stalin's reviewing stand.

Overhead roared Moscow's most spectacular peacetime display of Soviet aerial power, led by Stalin's son, Lt. Gen. Vassili Stalin.

May Day, established as international labor day by the socialist international at Paris in 1889, since has been traditionally celebrated throughout Europe.

But in the United States and Canada, labor day is designated as the first Monday in September. And this year in the U.S. May 1 was observed generally as the time for anti-communist demonstrations.

Mosinee, Wis., had the most elaborate show, with the American Legion staging a mock "communist insurrection" in which they rounded up city officials just before dawn and took over the newspapers, banks, stores and other public activities for one day.

Wisconsin communist distributed copies of the Daily Worker yesterday scoffing at the idea.

In Canada, everything was quiet as leftist organizations observed the occasion with parades and meetings in most of the larger cities.

Police kept close watch at rallies in Montreal and Toronto.

At Montreal one man was arrested for carrying a banner—a papier-mache torch—in a May Day "Memorial" service in Dominion Square sponsored by the youth assembly for peace.

At Toronto, 600 persons attended a May Day rally sponsored by the Labor-Progressive party. Police watched as the party's two Ontario members of the Ontario legislature, J. B. Salsberg and A. A. MacLeod, addressed the meeting in Willowdale Park.

Speaking in front of the burned-out Reichstag, rallying point of the western anti-communist Berliners, Irving Brown, European representative of the American Federation of Labor, said Berlin workers were fighting to preserve "an island where human decency and individual liberty can survive."

Railways Are Ready To Negotiate

Ottawa, May 1.—(P)—Canada's two major railways today advised labor minister Mitchell that they are willing to negotiate a settlement of a wage dispute with some 124,000 employees on the basis of two recent federal conciliation board reports.

The Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railway emphasized that "the additional costs involved can only be met by increasing the charges made for our services to the public."

The railways estimated implementation of the board's findings would cost between $19,225,000 and $27,000,000 annually.

The majority reports of the two conciliation boards handed down April 15 rejected the 17 railway unions' claims for outright pay increases. They recommended a formula that would give the employees a shorter work week, higher hourly rates and generally, less in the weekly pay envelope.

The unions had asked for reduction in the work week from 48 to 40 hours, with a five-day week and no loss in take-home pay, plus wage increases above that of from seven to 10 cents an hour.

The railways' acceptance of the board's findings was contained in a joint letter delivered to Mr. Mitchell today. The letter was signed by S. F. Dingle, vice-president of the C.N.R. and N. R. Crump, C.P.R. vice-president.

"The executives of the railways have given careful study to the board's analysis of this dispute,"

19,000 Police And Troops Keep Affairs In Order As 750,000 West Berliners Jeer Reds.

Berlin, May 1.—(P)—Hundreds of thousands of Berliners jeered each other across sector barriers in this tense divided city today during rival east-west May Day celebrations.

There were sporadic flare-ups but police of both sides kept them from turning into riots.

Some 11,000 west-German police, backed up by 8,000 specially-trained western allied troops, kept affairs in the west sector in hand while an estimated 750,000 Germans cheered speakers lambasting Russia and communism.

A few blocks away thousands of east Berliners converged on the Lustgarten for the communist rally, a demonstration organized from start to finish and heavily guarded by communist sector people's police.

At one point anti-communist demonstrators at Potsdamer Platz began surging toward the Russian sector border, despite efforts of west-Berlin police to keep them in check.

At the Brandenburg gate, some of the demonstrators began shouting insults at the communist-controlled east-Berlin police, calling them the "Black S.S." and "communist pigs."

The west-German officials said they appeared to be led by young roughhouse elements who may have been drinking—began throwing stones at east-sector police. Allied reporters said the east-Berlin police showed restraint, merely dodging the stones without even drawing their clubs.

After this incident, west-Berlin demonstrators seized two east sector civilians and beat them severely. One of the victims was a photographer. West-Berlin police reserves, answering a riot alarm, dispersed the unruly elements.

Potsdamer Platz long has been a hot corner in the cold war. It has been the scene of many clashes between communists and anti-communists.

While the west-German crowds converged haphazardly for their mass demonstration, regimented tens of thousands, a few blocks away in the east sector, marched past Soviet and German communist chiefs in a Moscow-like copy of May Day celebrations of Red Square.

British and American planes and helicopters soared over the central part of the city, with observers ready to radio the word to headquarters at the slightest sign of disturbance.

West-Berlin's mayor Ernst Reuter estimated the anti-communist crowd at 750,000.

West-Berlin organizers charged that at least another 30,000 persons had been held back forcibly from the rally by communist police at Soviet sector borders.

13 Deaths Reported At Week-End

By The Canadian Press
The deaths of three persons in a two-truck crash near St. Zotique, Que., were among the 13 fatalities reported in eastern Canada this week-end.

A Canadian Press survey shows Ontario accidents claimed seven victims while Quebec had six fatalities.

Traffic mishaps caused six deaths and two young boys were drowned. Other accidents included a burning, a fall from a tractor, a planing-mill mishap, an automobile repelling fatality and an accidental shooting.

Mrs. Dianna Addison, 44, her 17-year-old daughter, Pauline and Guy Desrochers, 19, were killed when the truck in which they were riding smashed into the rear of a parked truck on the highway near St. Zotique, about 40 miles south-west of Montreal. Four other occupants of the vehicle escaped serious injury.

At Almonte, Ont., Harold McGrath, 15, and John J. Lyons, 14, were drowned when their canoe overturned, throwing them into the near-freezing waters of the Mississippi river. They were on a boating expedition with eight other members of their Scout troop.

Percival Gamble, 36, burned to death in a garage when the fire-bomb he was repairing caught fire, turning him into a human torch. The accident occurred at St. Jean Deschallons, in the Quebec district.

At Montreal, Enclide Mounsey, 73, was crushed under the axle of an automobile when the jack holding it up slipped. He was removing a flat tire.

Alphonse Bezaire was killed in a fall from his tractor near Windsor while Donald Plato, 12, was accidentally shot by his father with a .22 calibre rifle at Fort Erie. Norman Smith, 62, a planing mill employee at Kingscote, Ont., was killed when the pulley he was testing snapped, fracturing his skull.

Other traffic victims were: Medley Leblanc, 42, at St. John's Que.; Wladystaw Haduch, 30-year-old Polish immigrant, at Simcoe, Ont.; and Grant Robinson, 24 near Streetsville, Ont.

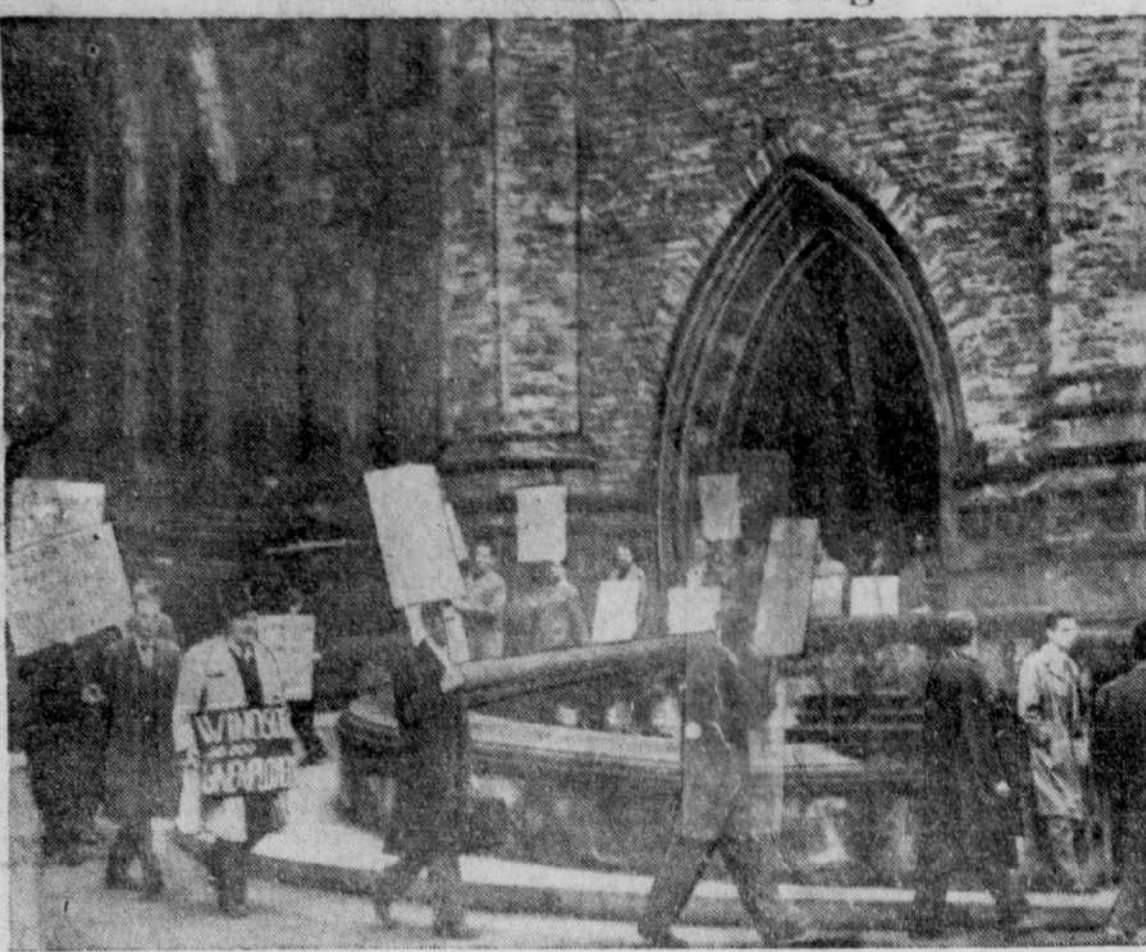

Singapore, May 1.—(P)—The Dean of Canterbury complained today that "the United States would not let me through the golden curtain."

The so-called "Read Dean" Rev. Dr. Hewlett Johnson, was passing through Singapore on his way to Canada by way of London.

Picket Parliament Buildings

Protesting unemployment in Canada, these pickets paraded around the entrance to Parliament Buildings in Ottawa Thursday. They made an unsuccessful attempt to interview Prime Minister St. Laurent and seven of them, claiming to represent a national convention of unemployed organizations, were removed bodily from the public gallery of the Commons when they attempted to read a prepared address to the members of Parliament. They continued their picketing outside. (P Photo)

Town Of Morris In Manitoba Almost Deserted As Flood Waters Still Rise

Chiang Says Nationalists Fight Russia

Taipei, Formosa, May 1.—(P)—Chiang Kai-Shek today urged workers in Red China to aid the nationalists' war "against the communists and Soviet Russia."

The nationalist Generalissimo's May Day message was loaded with claims that his government is fighting the Russians as well as the Chinese Reds.

Appealing to the workers on the communist-occupied mainland Chiang said:

"You have fully recognized the significance of the struggle against the communists and Soviet Russia. Your hatred for the protest against the communists, your sabotage and strikes, are of equal importance as the contribution made by workers in the rear."

"Our anti-communist and anti-Russian strength lies in the workers... only through thrift and hard work in the rear and through consolidated efforts at the front can Taiwan (Formosa) be held and victory over communism and Russian be won."

He described this island bastion as "our base in the anti-communist and anti-Russian war for national salvation." He added:

"Our anti-communist war is a war against aggression. While 450,000,000 Chinese now pin their hopes on Taiwan, the brute force of the Russian aggressor and the communists is also pointed to this island..."

The president of what is left of nationalist China reviewed the half-century since the start of the revolution led by Dr. Sun Yat Sen. Chiang said the Manchurian dynasty has been overthrown, the northern warlords eliminated and Japanese aggression thwarted, but "now we are fighting against the communists and Soviet Russia."

Even before Mayor Harry Shewman of Morris used a public-address system to urge everyone to leave, an estimated 500 men, women and children left. The exodus was resumed in earnest yesterday.

Emerson, at the international boundary, was the focal point of flood news up to Saturday. There the Red's rise was almost stopped as the flood crest moved slowly but relentlessly northward toward Lake Winnipeg.

Today Morris took the main brunt of the river's fury.

Reports to Winnipeg over jammed telephone and telegraph lines said 12 inches of water swirled into the hospital. The town and the R.C.M.P. both called for army help to build a higher sandbag wall. Civilian workers were exhausted after hours of ceaseless work.

Twelve patients—including two mothers and their three and four-year-old babies and four expectant mothers—were in the hospital. Some of the patients were seriously ill. Some had been moved in only a few days ago from another hospital now inundated.

Patials, East Punjab, May 1.—(Reuters)—Thirty-two persons were reported killed and 40 injured today in an explosion which wrecked part of the eastern wall of Patials fort.

Nearly shops in the heart of the town were destroyed, other people were believed to be trapped under the debris and rescue operations were started by troops, police and the fire brigade.

A high state official said the explosion was caused by an old ammunition dump accidentally catching fire.

Dr. Endicott Says He Was Misquoted

Toronto, May 1.—(P)—Dr. James Endicott suggested yesterday that perhaps the Soviet press had misquoted him.

Recently returned from a one-month tour of Russia, Dr. Endicott took exception to statements made about him by External Affairs Minister Pearson in a speech Saturday in Montreal.

Mr. Pearson read an excerpt from a Moscow newspaper quoting Dr. Endicott as saying that while Moscow represented peace, in Canada airfields and military bases were being built instead of apartment houses.

Dr. Endicott said the statements to which Mr. Pearson referred were made at a press conference "at which there was lots of give and take" but "at no time did I contrast peace conditions in Canada and Russia."

"If the reporters say that, I was misquoted. Soviet reporters are as human as any others about sometimes getting their facts wrong. What I did say was that I had seen enough of the enormous construction program in Russia to convince me the Soviet needed peace."

Dr. Endicott referred to another excerpt read by Mr. Pearson, quoting him as having said that if a Canadian refers to Russia "in a positive manner" in his home, the police may drive him into the street and seal off his apartment.

"Mr. Pearson should have gone on to say that I was referring to"

Police Halt Youth Rally In Montreal

Montreal, May 1.—(P)—The leftist youth assembly for peace, ousted from downtown Dominion Square yesterday when members attempted to stage a "memorial service at the cenotaph, today planned a "speech-making" trip to Toronto.

A spokesman for the assembly said a delegation probably would leave here today to attend the Canadian Peace Congress in Toronto next week-end. En route, the delegates will stop off at several points, including Cornwall, Ont., to deliver speeches.

Meanwhile, the chairman of the youth assembly faces arraignment in court today on a charge of carrying a banner without a civic permit.

Leo Hardy, 27, of suburban Rosemount, was arrested yesterday by members of the city's anti-subversive squad for carrying the banner—a papier-mache torch—to the cenotaph in Dominion Square. Hardy's companions were ousted from the square by police, who then herded several hundred Sunday strollers from the grounds and stationed a guard to prevent people from entering.

The assembly decided to hold the "solemn memorial service" at the cenotaph after police refused permission to stage a "peace torch" rally at Fletcher's Field in north-central Montreal. The rally would have included a non-stop relay from Montreal to Toronto with the final runner arriving in Toronto for the opening session of the Peace Congress.

Hardy is the fourth person connected with the assembly to be arrested in less than two days.

Two men and a woman were arrested Friday night on charges of being found in possession of and distributing subversive literature. Aline McGregor, Joe Eibling and Homer Smith appeared in court Saturday and were remanded one week for trial.

Police said the trio were arrested in an automobile which contained thousands of circulars advertising the "peace torch rally," sponsored by the Montreal Peace Council, parent body of the youth assembly.

The arrests followed Thursday's police raid on the downtown Bleury street offices of the Peace Council where, police said, they confiscated thousands of circulars and pamphlets advertising the Toronto congress.

Montreal Girl Is Stabbed In Hand

Montreal, May 1.—(P)—A teenage Montreal girl was stabbed in the left hand with a hypodermic needle last night by an unknown assailant while she was walking along crowded St. Catherine street in downtown Montreal, police reported.

Police did not identify the girl nor would they say what the needle contained.

The girl told them she was walking along with a friend on a map grabbed her gloved hand and shoved the hypodermic needle through the glove.

Police took the girl to hospital for treatment. She was released after preliminary treatment and told to return later this week for a checkup.

United Press Telegraph Operators Begin Strike

New York, May 1.—(P)—Telegraph operators and equipment maintenance men in all American bureaux of the United Press Association were called out on strike early today in a wage dispute.

Last-hour efforts by a federal government mediator failed to resolve the dispute between the news agency and the Commercial Telegraphers Union (A.F.L.).

United Press officials did not immediately disclose what plans they had for continuing operations in the face of the strike.

John Lynch, chairman of the United Press unit of the New York local of the American Newspaper Guild (C.I.O.), said executives and business representatives of the United Press were operating some teleprinters.

A U.P. official in New York said the service's circuits into Canada were operating as usual.

James T. Neary, secretary-treasurer of the C.T.U.'s United Press division number 47, said 235 teletype operators and 30 equipment maintenance men in the United Press' 35 U.S. bureaux were called off their jobs.

Neary said the union had voted 212 to 14 for a strike unless their demands for a basic increase of $15 weekly were met.

The balloting was done by mail. Harry Ferguson, assistant news manager of the United Press in New York, said:

"I'm not sure that all the bureaux in the country will strike."

Union representatives said, however, they were confident the strike would be general throughout the domestic bureaux of the United Press.

Neary said today's strike was the first ever called by the C.T.U. against any one of the three major American news agencies. Neary said the United Press made a last-minute offer of a $2.20 weekly wage increase but that it was rejected by the union.

"We came down to $6.50," Neary said.

Neary said the basic wage for teleprinter operators at the United Press was $90 a week.

Equipment maintenance men have the same basic wage, he added.

Neary said C.T.U. negotiations began early in March with the United Press on a new contract.

They were ended March 31, he said. Then they automatically were extended to midnight, April 30, under a contract clause that provided 30 additional days of negotiation before a strike could be called.

Commissioner J. R. Mandelbaum of the federal mediation and conciliation service met with both parties right up to the strike deadline in an effort to settle the dispute.

Twelve C.T.U. pickets were posted outside the entrances to the New York Daily News building shortly after midnight.

Hollywood — Word is filtering back to Hollywood from New York about a film Romeo and Juliet that topped some of the wilder scripts they've acted in. The hero fired a gun through the window to feign suicide and the heroine called the police. They're an ocean apart now.

Recurring rumors about the rekindling of the old flame between Ida Lupino and Louis Hayward are groundless.

Deanna Durbin isn't in France or Italy, as reported. She's hiding out in New York and calls her business manager here regularly. Deanna's sly grin over rumors that she's broke out-Monas Lisa. Financial wizards rate her fortune over Shirley Temple's.

Another big break for John Hodiak at M-G-M. He'll co-star in "Cause for Alarm" with Loretta Young. A few months ago John had cause for alarm about his career.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Expect To Lose With Poor Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
"Everybody talks about good hands," complains Mrs. J. R. S., of Pittsburgh, "but nobody has a word to say about the miserable assortment that seem to come my way whenever I play. For example, take this hand:

K 10 8-8-7-6-5 4
"Last night I held these twelve cards, after drawing a card, and time when both sides needed 120 for the first meld. Don't experts ever get a hand like this? If so, is there a magic way of playing such a hand?"

Well, Mrs. S., I was hoping we could avoid this sort of talk. After all, lots of people read this column while they're eating, and just looking at that sort of hand is enough to give them the colly-wobbles.

As long as the subject is out in the open, however, the answer is that experts get miserable hands too. I could tell you about hands that would make you burst right into tears! What's more, every expert could tell you the same story.

For another thing, experts are not magicians. They just do the best they can. That's usually enough to prevent disaster, but not always. In a game against skillful opponents you must expect to lose points on your bad hands, no matter how well you play them. And once in a while you must expect to take a really bad beating. That goes for experts as well as for the newest beginners.

I must point out that the expert doesn't jump out the window when he holds a bad hand. For example, with the hand just described, the expert doesn't make a serious effort to scrape together a meld of his own. He would change his mind if he picked up a few wild cards, particularly a jack or two, but he could not count on such extraordinary luck.

Instead, the expert plays the hand in the expectation and hope that his partner will eventually be able to meld. When that happens, the expert wants to be in position to add to his partner's melds. The idea is to make a canasta in a hurry and then meld out as quickly as possible.

When you are in this sort of spot, you watch your partner's discards very closely. Your object is to save the same cards that he saves. The simplest way to do that is to make the same discards, your hands should begin to match pretty well.

Q—We had a canasta in sixes and some other melds. I had a six and a joker, after drawing, I didn't want to meld out. Could I meld the six or the joker and then refuse to discard?

A—No. The only time you can refuse to discard is when you meld out. If you don't want to meld out you must discard either the six or the joker, and you cannot meld either of those cards in that case.

Q—When the deck is frozen, are you allowed to count the top card of the discard pile as part of your first meld? For example, you have a deuce and a pair of kings, while the top discard is a king. Can you meld 50 points, using that discarded king, or must you have the 50 points all in your own hand?

A—You are always allowed to count the top discard as part of your meld. It doesn't matter whether the pack is frozen or not. In this case, therefore, you would be able to take the king and meld 50 points.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in this column.

A Farewell Banquet And Presentation Were Given For Mr. And Mrs. J. Cruden And Mr. And Mrs. J. Irwin At Highwater

Highwater, May 1. — A banquet was given by the staff of the Montreal Pipe Line at the Highwater Inn, for Mr. and Mrs. J. Cruden, who are leaving for Alberta.

Upwards of fifty guests were present and sat down to a turkey dinner. The guests represented the Pipe Line staff here and representatives from all the stations from Portland, Me., to Montreal.

After the meal there were speeches and toasts given and the staff from this station presented Mr. Cruden with a fine gold wrist watch and Mrs. Cruden was presented with a hand bag.

They both thanked their friends in a few well chosen words. Mr. and Mrs. John Irwin, who are leaving shortly for Montreal, were also presented with gifts. A stick pin for Mr. Irwin, and a brooch for Mrs. Irwin, from the staff here.

They both thanked their friends for remembering them.

An enjoyable evening was spent.

The friends here wish them success in their new homes.

Underworld Grapevine Keeps Canada's Illicit Narcotic Business Operating

Ottawa, May 1. — (CP) — Wanted! Man to peddle dope in large Canadian city.

You won't find advertising of this kind in your daily newspaper. But such information nevertheless is carried to the end of Canada by one of the most subtle advertising mediums—an underworld grapevine.

It's difficult to describe this grapevine because it is haphazard and ill-planned, though effective. Through one means or another information originating in one section of Canada eventually finds its way to interested parties in other cities.

It is this grapevine which helps keep Canada's illicit drug business operating. It was through this means, for instance, that a Toronto man recently learned there was a job in Vancouver for someone to peddle narcotics.

At the present time there are about 3,500 known criminal addicts in Canada compared with 2,000 two years ago. At first glance this might suggest that drug addiction is on the increase. But control experts don't think so. Kenneth C. Hossick, chief of the Narcotic Control Division at the National Health Department, believes better policing has helped to discover more persons who are addicts.

"Narcotic enforcement by both the R.C.M.P. and municipal police has never been on a higher plane than today," he said.

Training is one of the biggest weapons in the fight against drug traffic, a business stretching from forming but they have an exhilarating effect on the user and often lead to violent crimes by building up false confidence. Since all drugs used in Canada come from foreign sources, customs authorities are up against a mammoth task, particularly because it takes so little narcotics to supply a large number of addicts.

Spring Shopping Formal Routine For Parisiennes

By DOROTHY WADDINGTON

Paris—(Reuters)—Opening of the buds on the horse chestnut trees which line the Champs-Elysees is the signal for every Parisienne to think of her spring wardrobe.

And for the traditionally smart Parisienne, this is indeed a carefully planned venture. In all budget groups, the new spring wardrobe consists of one of possibly two dresses and a suit or a coat depending on the last season's purchase.

Parisian women fall roughly into three shopping groups.

The first is "chateau madame"; next there is the housewife and finally there is the working girl. Here is how each goes about it.

Chateau madame dresses at one of the top (haute couture) fashion houses. Although a steady client of one house, she will undoubtedly first do the rounds of all the top collections.

Then, in the setting of luxurious grey carpets and crystal chandeliers she makes her choice of the best which Paris dressmakers have to offer. She generally buys her suits in one house and her evening clothes in another.

The housewife: She starts her shopping with visits to as many collections as she can get invitations for.

For her, to get an invitation becomes something of a problem and it is first a matter of calling upon all her friends who might have an acquaintance in the fashion house.

Once inside, each line she sees at the collection has to be applied to her last year's wardrobe—the black dress which can be brought up to date with white organdy cuffs; last year's hems that must be shortened this year.

"Little Dressmaker"

Combining ideas from the collections and a good fashion magazine, she arrives at roughly the style she wants. The next step is a visit to her "little dressmaker."

By taking the sleeve from one dress seen at Faith's, perhaps the corsage of another at Dior's and still another line from a dress seen at Piquet's a new design is made up. The finished product is always a personal one, and the cost about 4,000 to 12,000 francs, roughly $12 to $36.

Those "little dressmakers" who serve the not-so-rich, are a group by themselves. Working in tiny apartments or with dummies set up in the corner of their salons, they turn out beautiful examples of French workmanship.

The working girl: Hers is a completely different problem. The time factor is important and she spends precious time reading her favorite fashion magazines.

The French magazine carefully and thoroughly analyzes all the new lines. These magazines, coupled with the complete reports of the collections in the newspapers, act as her personal fashion service.

Next she starts to look at small stores which carry ready-made dresses. The piece goods department receives considerable attention, too—with a view to a new blouse made to order, or possibly a skirt.

The average salary of a secretary is about 18,000 francs or $22.50 a month. The purchase of the smallest article is tremendously important. A tailor-made blouse, for example, will cost her about 1,200 francs (about $3.50) at a department store.

Red Cross Opens Whole Blood Drive With Opening Of Clinic Here May 8

The Canadian Red Cross opens its annual drive for whole blood here on May 8 with the arrival of the blood-donor clinic at the New Superior School on King Street, it was announced today by Red Cross authorities.

Scheduled for a five day stay in Sherbrooke, May 8 to May 12, the mobile clinic will also make previous appearances at Lennoxville on May 2, Windsor Mills on May 3, East Angus and Cookshire on May 4, and Rock Island, Beebe and Stanstead on May 5.

The objective of the forthcoming whole blood drive is to provide local hospitals with whole blood and plasma, free of charge, which in turn, will be administered to waiting patients at no cost.

Red Cross officials said that donors will be given a haemoglobin test before being registered, and only those in good health will be permitted to give a maximum amount of 380 cc's of blood.

Cards will be sent to individual donors bearing information with regards to blood grouping and RH factor. Authorities say these cards should be carried by donors at all times as a protection in the case of accident or illness.

To the civic-minded citizens of the community Red Cross officials appealed: "Get behind this greatest of peace time services. Enroll as many volunteers as possible and render a service which will, without doubt, help our hospital patients."

"Never forget, blood is life! Give your blood that others may live!"

Man Escapes From Jail, Is Recaptured

Gerard Blais, 28, is back in Winter Street Jail cells here today after more than three days of freedom.

Blais, a local resident, was serving a one-year sentence for theft and had about six months to go.

Blais broke out of jail on Thursday and was captured by police Saturday evening as he attempted to enter his former home.

Two local constables had kept a three-hour watch on the empty house when the man attempted to break in through a rear window.

Provincial and Municipal police worked on the case and it is not known yet what charge will be laid against Blais.

Word of Blais' escape was withheld from the Sherbrooke newspapers by the police but was released to the Montreal newspapers on Saturday.

Local police said they did not want to announce the escape because it "would tip off Blais."

They said the announcement in Montreal was made by the Provincial Police.

$208,000 Paid Out Here Under Blue Cross Plan

At the annual meeting of Quebec Hospital Service Association (the non-profit Blue Cross Plan), held last week in Montreal, E. Duncan Millican, Executive Director, announced that $208,000 had been paid by the Blue Cross for hospital care given to local residents who were hospitalized in Sherbrooke county hospitals.

It was also announced that over 200,000 Quebec residents have now been hospitalized under the Blue Cross Plan since 1943, and that Blue Cross paid over $11,000,000 in settlement of their bills to its 75 affiliated hospitals in Quebec.

R. H. Robertson was elected chairman of the Board of Governors; A. Stewart McNichols, vice-chairman; Ernest Charron, D.D.S., L.D.S., honorary secretary, and Irene Monette, honorary treasurer.

Continuing expansion throughout Quebec, Blue Cross now has regional offices in Sherbrooke, Quebec, Chicoutimi, Hull and Three Rivers. Those offices were opened with a view to providing adequate service to all groups, and keeping Blue Cross in constant contact with residents of the most distant localities.

In 1949, concluded Mr. Millican, Blue Cross paid 97,926 hospital, surgical and medical bills for Quebec residents. Total number of members enrolled as at 1st January, 1950 was: 504,179 under the hospital plan, 359,318 under the surgical plan; and 254,670 under the medical plan. Quebec Blue Cross is now the largest medical services plan in Canada.

Soil Conservation Is Discussed At Meeting Of Farmers In Lennoxville

Much interest was shown by farmers of the district in a survey on soil conservation made on Friday evening, in the Lennoxville Town Hall, during the two day farm conference sponsored by the Sherbrooke District Farm Forum Association and the Sherbrooke District Concentrated Milk Producers.

A lively discussion took place on the signs of trouble which have been seen in the Sherbrooke district in this connection. It was found that soil was carried from the fields into muddy streams, that ditches were filled with soil from the fields, that wells and springs are drying up and the water level dropping.

Over 75 per cent of those present had witnessed flood damage to buildings and lands as well as wind damage to same. It was discovered that more fertilizer is needed to maintain yields. Loss of soil from fields was attributed to water and wind, to overcutting and to lack of young growth in woodlots.

Methods of controlling the trouble, which were suggested at the meeting, were reforestation of land unsuitable for farming, keeping stock out of woodlots, more crop rotation, pasture improvement — more suitable varieties and mixtures, more attention to meeting fertilizer needs, better use of manure and lime, modified contouring, and dams for flood control.

It was pointed out however that reforestation of land unsuitable for farming, better use of manure and lime, modified contouring, while the other methods can be handled by the farmer, if he has the proper information as to what to do.

An interesting film was shown by J. S. Cram, of Macdonald College, and was much appreciated by the various farm forum representatives at this meeting.

On Saturday morning L. L'Euyer, Farm Economics Branch, Quebec, spoke on farm management, giving a survey of the cost of milk production among concentrated milk producers in the Townships.

In 1948-49, in the four counties, Sherbrooke, Compton, Richmond and Stanstead, (48 herds) the net cost of producing milk was $3.48 per cwt. The return was $3.34, therefore the farmer suffered a net loss of 14 cents per cwt. On the low cost farms, some farmers had a cost as low as $2.50 while others reached a high of $5.00.

The subject of farm financing was treated in the afternoon by Floyd F. Griesbach, secretary, Quebec Farm Forum.

Representatives were again divided into groups for this meeting and were required to discuss the question "When is credit required on a farm, 'What credit services are available to farmers under Quebec law' and 'How do these services suit credit requirements on the farm?'"

It was the opinion of the gathering that credit is required when a man starts on a farm. It is also necessary for improvements to fields and buildings. Seasonal credit is required for seeding, and for emergencies. One group held that it should only be used when it is certain to bring returns.

Credit services available to farmers under Quebec law were listed as Quebec Loan, Federal Farm Loan, Federal Improvement Loan, Housing Act, Banks, Credit Unions and local lenders. A short discussion took place on the suitability of these services to the average farmer.

At the close of the two day conference a short period was allotted for remarks about the conference, what the representatives did and did not like about it, and suggestions for the future.

On the whole it was considered to have been a most successful conference and representatives expressed their satisfaction at the manner in which it had been conducted, with each man being given the opportunity to bring up the particular problem or problems which had faced him and other farmers in his district, during the past year.

W. S. Labrecque, of Bulwer, suggested that it would be a good idea to sponsor a "greener pastures" competition, with entries spread throughout the area.

Charles Drummond, chairman of the conference, worded a resolution to the effect that the Farm Forum committee appoint a sub-committee to study the question of the competition and to advise the other counties to do likewise. Further action could then be left to the committees.

Mr. Griesbach, in closing the conference, thanked the committee for organizing the affair, and the Farm Forum representatives for their interest and active participation in the meetings. Mr. Drummond expressed the thanks of the representatives to Mr. Griesbach, and the other speakers who had helped to clear up some of the very serious problems facing the farmers today.

Development Of Resources May Lower Taxes

Granby, Que., May 1. — Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said here Saturday that hope for a lighter tax burden in Canada lies in the ultimate development of the nation's natural resources.

Addressing the 50th anniversary of the city's board of trade and Chamber of Commerce, he said that discoveries of oil in Alberta and iron and titanium in Labrador would eventually make Canada an exporter of these products.

"Our annual oil imports from the United States have always represented a heavy expenditure," Mr. St. Laurent said, "but the day is not off when our oil fields will enable us to save millions of American dollars each year."

"Iron ore discoveries in the Labrador region can make this country one of the most important suppliers of this mineral in America."

"A marked increase in development of our natural resources," he added, "will yield greater wealth to the country and enable us to discharge our responsibilities and eventually lower taxes."

The Prime Minister spoke of social security as a form of insurance to protect man from economic burdens.

Final Tribute Is Paid To Mrs. Stracchino

Final tribute was paid today to Mrs. Selina Stracchino, widow of Achille Stracchino, who died at her residence at 51 Island Street on Friday evening after a long period of failing health.

Mrs. Stracchino was in her 65th year. Born in Sheffield, England, Mrs. Stracchino was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hickman Pearson, of Sheffield. She came to Canada 44 years ago and had been a resident of Sherbrooke for the last 43 years.

Her husband predeceased her in 1940.

She is survived by one son, Edgar Stracchino, and a granddaughter, Victoria Stracchino. Two other sons, Leslie and Vincent predeceased her.

Other surviving relatives are: three brothers, William Pearson, of Chesterfield, England, George Pearson, of Grimsby, England, Edgar Pearson, of Bridlington, England, and two sisters, Mrs. Amadee Normand, of North Hollywood, Calif., and Mrs. E. A. Reekmans, of London, England, who is at present residing in Sherbrooke.

Prayers were held at Mrs. Stracchino's late residence at 2:15 p.m. today, followed by the service at St. Peter's church. Interment was in Elmwood Cemetery.

The officiating clergyman was Canon Russell F. Brown.

Suspension On Magog Police Officer Lifted

Magog, May 1.—A suspension ordered on assistant chief of police, Gordon Rouleau, on Saturday, by Mayor Ernest Simard, of Magog, was lifted indefinitely yesterday at a private caucus of the town council called especially to discuss the issue.

The suspension was lifted on the request of chairman of the police committee, E. Boisvert, who claimed that the Magog police force would be short-handed without the services of the assistant chief.

On Saturday afternoon Rouleau had given a parking ticket to Mayor Simard, and Saturday evening he was issued his order of suspension "on several counts." The mayor claimed that only the hind portion of the car was in the no-parking zone, and as he had a very long car it was impossible to park it otherwise.

At the meeting yesterday the mayor said that though he did not want to be a dictator he would like the respect of all the town employees. He also said that he wished to keep the laws.

Tree Survey Will Begin In Lennoxville

The monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Lennoxville and Ascot Community Association was held on Thursday. One of the main topics was the tree planting project. The following proprietors were asked to complete the survey of their streets and adjoining streets in order to find out the names of all proprietors wishing trees.

Academy street: C. Christmas and G. Loveland; Wilson street, S. Snow, Mrs. W. T. Pearson, E. Lennox, St. Francis and Alto streets, R. Coombs, C. Dougherty; Warren street, H. R. Slater and L. Mansell.

It was also decided that trees would be offered to the proprietors on high street. All proprietors wishing trees should make application not later than Tuesday next. Proprietors on other streets wishing trees should contact the committee and if trees are still available, they will be supplied with them.

faces, only Halloween masks. Even descriptions of their body frames are hazy.

What's happened to all the "clues?"

The best still is being tracked down. It is a truck, cut up into small pieces with an acetylene torch and sledge hammer, found a month after the holdup on a dump in Stoughton, a few miles south of Boston.

The truck parts were traced to a 1950 Ford stolen from a Boston dealer last November. A similar green-painted truck was reported seen by two persons near Brink's shortly before the holdup.

Also under way is a check of some 300 former convicts who learned welding in prison. If this had anywhere police are keeping it to themselves.

Other "clues" have given little information.

See Bigger Acreage For Flax And Barley

Brandon, Man. — With prospects for marketing Canadian wheat less encouraging than for a decade, there probably will be a smaller acreage sown to wheat in 1950 and more attention focussed on other crops, experimental farm officials report.

There is room for increased acreage in barley and also for a moderate increase in the production of linseed flax, the Brandon officials say.

Flax variety recommendations for Manitoba now list only four: Dakota, Rocket, Sheyenne and Redwing.

Dakota has been found suitable for all crop zones of the province, whereas Rocket, because of late maturity, is best adapted to southern regions. Sheyenne and Redwing are early maturing types suited primarily to northern agricultural zones.

In the Standard Rod Row flax test at Brandon in 1949, Rocket was the highest yielding of the recommended varieties, with 29.7 bushels an acre. Dakota was only slightly less with 29.1 bushels. Redwing and Sheyenne gave identical yields of 21.8 bushels.

Royal, which was the standard variety grown for many years, yielded 24 bushels an acre.

On the basis of five-year average results (1945-49), there was less than a bushel difference between Rocket and Dakota—27.8 bushels compared to 27.2 bushels respectively. In the same period, Redwing yielded 22.6 bushels and Sheyenne 21.2.

Pert English Girl To Sell Beer Here

Sheffield, England. — Maxine, Hall, wasp-waisted 24-year-old daughter of a Yorkshire pub-keeper, is on her way to Toronto to sell beer.

"She'll keep" The Barrel, replica of a 700-year-old inn on the Derbyshire moors—complete with thatched roof, smoke-blackened oak beams and stone-flagged floor—at the International Trade Fair, May 27-June 2.

The replica now is under construction here by the firm of brewers for which Maxine works as an export saleswoman.

No beer will be sold across the bar of The Barrel; that would contravene Ontario liquor regulations. But visitors who want to sample Maxine's goods—which include golden mead ale, made from honey, and a special stout containing New Zealand oysters—can try them at the licensed bars at the fair.

Looking for long-range dollar orders, the striking brunette says: "I shall concentrate on the women."

Her argument: 80 per cent of beer drunk in Canada and the United States is consumed at home; once you have the housewife sold, you're in.

Her slim, trim, five-foot figure will prove that women drink beer without losing their waistslines. And Maxine has a selling secret about golden mead ale: "It's extremely good as a hair rinse, too."

Orchestra Leader Thinks Canadian Tops On Trumpet

By PAT USSHER

Canadian Press Staff Writer
New York. — Maynard Ferguson, Montreal trumpet player, is tops with orchestra leader Stan Kenton.

Kenton paused long enough during a busy two-night appearance here to hail the Montrealer as "a sterling asset" to his 40-piece jazz band.

"He's the most talked-about trumpet player in the country today, I guess," said the orchestra leader in an interview sandwiched between lunch and a recording session at a radio station. "We're really happy about him. He's wonderful."

"He's planning to set up his own orchestra when his tour ends in another four months."

Ferguson, regarded by many as Canada's top trumpeter, had his own band in Canada before he joined Kenton a few months back.

The Stan Kenton orchestra was here for two jazz concerts in Carnegie Hall. The appearance was part of a comeback tour which started in California Jan. 31. The cross-country swing already has taken the band to Montreal, Quebec, Niagara Falls, Ont., and London, Ont., for one-night stands.

That winds up the tour's Canadian dates, the tall, good-looking conductor said.

Competition stiff

Kenton, nattily dressed in a grey suit with striped tie, was asked why he quit the field 14 months ago.

"Band leading is a rugged business," he said. "I got so I just had to whip myself to go on stage and conduct. There were a lot of bands at the time and we were all billed alike; there was too much competition in the field."

Why the comeback?

"I figured it was possible to do what I wanted to do, put the emphasis on concert music," he said earnestly.

"Jazz is a music that has developed and become too complex to play in any sort of tin pan alley manner now."

"There are lots of easier ways to making a living than conducting a band but I love it and that's what I want to do."

Kenton launched enthusiastically into the subject of jazz.

"I believe greatly in contemporary music," said the orchestra leader, who plays piano and composes as well. "The character of jazz has constantly grown. . . It has developed to a point where it is not even a part of popular music any more."

"I think what will evolve out of it will eventually be known as American classical music."

Another former Canadian, Chloé Alvarez, also plays trumpet in the Stan Kenton orchestra. "I think he comes from Quebec but he has lived in the United States for some time," Kenton said.

Railways Are Ready

said the letter. "It is considered that the members of the majority have resolutely faced the problems laid before them, and that their reports are a fair and impartial documents as could be produced in the circumstances."

"It had been hoped by the railway managements that the appearance of these reports would initiate a new and more fruitful stage of negotiations."

"Unfortunately the immediate reactions of the union representatives, as reported in the daily press, indicate that there has been no change in their attitude. This is all the more regrettable because railway unions have in the past enjoyed a reputation for moderation and restraint in the conduct of their bargaining activities."

The two officials said the conciliation boards had rightly described the employees' proposals as "unreasonable." Cost of the proposals of the two union groups representing the non-operating employees — those who do not run the trains — would amount to an estimated $84,147,000 annually. Should their demands be met, it would set a pattern for all employees on the railways. The cost of "all demands now in contemplation" amounted to an estimated $115,592,000 annually for both railways — "the equivalent of a 25-per-cent increase in their railway wage bill."

Wins Many Prizes With Siamese Cats

Lethbridge, Alta., May 1.—(C)—Siamese cats "are just the most beautiful animals," says Mrs. J. V. Filchak, of Lethbridge. "From the moment I purchased one in 1944 as a pet, I fell in love with them and decided to breed them."

Mrs. Filchak now has nine of the sleek animals in her cattery and has had as many as 17 at one time in the past. Her cats have won top prizes in Dominion shows at Toronto.

Besides breeding the cats, Mrs. Filchak has become well acquainted with their history.

"It is not known definitely when they really became the sacred symbol of Siam, under the direct patronage of the kings of that country," she says. "But it is a well-established fact that any person causing bodily harm or even the slightest discomfort to one of these cats was put to death as punishment for the crime."

Just prior to 1800 two of the first Siamese cats to leave Siam were sent to England as a gift to Queen Victoria from King Prajadhipok of Siam.

"After 1910 the Siamese cats

'Homeward Borne' Is Serious Novel By Noted Actress

By W. G. ROGERS

New York. — (C)—"To write a novel," says Ruth Chatterton, "I need a theme that makes me angry."

The stage and screen star hit on such a theme, or the theme hit her, a couple of years ago, and she did her first novel, "Homeward Borne," published by Simon and Schuster.

How did she write it? At a typewriter, writing and rewriting. It isn't the only thing which, starting from scratch, she has learned by doing. For instance, she started from less than scratch to study French. As she explains it, her sole equipment was: "I adore France. She also had a good ear. Out of that came, eventually, with the aid of a dictionary, the translations of three plays."

But some things still foil her, among them, spelling. "You should talk to my editor about my spelling," she says with a whoop of laughter.

A friend, overhearing an interviewer ask her about hobbies, jokingly suggested that one of hers was conversation. But she is not a chatter-chatter-Chatterton; she talks about her novel as professionally as if she had been at this kind of work all her life.

She is not the sort of person usually interviewed by this reporter, whose bent tends to be cluttered with flat-heeled, stringy-haired woman authors who chew pencils. Miss Chatterton has dark wavy hair, a quick smile and an air that belongs to the stage rather than the study.

A Mature Book

Yet her novel is not what might be expected from theatre people. Recent examples of troupers' books have been flippant pieces loaded with laughs.

"Homeward Borne" is serious, mature and worthwhile, and the idea of it will anger you as much as it angered the author.

The idea came out of her wartime work for a free Palestine.

The story concerns a Vermont woman who adopts an 11-year-old refugee. The child is believed to be a Jew, and the badgered woman runs into difficulties with her family, her friends, and the ill-used, wretched boy himself.

Miss Chatterton intended originally to make it a play. When she told the story to a novelist friend, he said there was too much for a play, and that it should be a novel.

"How do you write a novel?" she asked, and he answered: Just tell the story.

She has appeared in many plays, among them "The Rainbow," "Daddy Long Legs," "The Little Minister." The last of her movies done in this country was "Dodge City" in 1936.

People are dicker to turn the novel into a film. Miss Chatterton declares she will not have any flatter-eyes blonde in the role of Pax Lytleton, who adopts the child; and instead of some slick Hollywood youngster for the boy, she wants a bewildered, cunning, suspicious refugee, a real one.

Stalin Reviews

The Soviet troops were reviewed in Moscow by Gen. S. M. Shtemenko, chief of the general staff. He told cheering throngs the Soviet army and navy, together with the Russian people, are "convinced of their might and ready to defend their beautiful motherland from the encroachment of any aggressor."

Yugoslavia's independent communist celebration—minus the pictures of Stalin featured in the Soviet satellites—was touched off by a triumphant declaration that Premier Tito's regime had broken the Russian-led Cominform's blockade of nearly two years.

Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, in a May Day address, blasted Red China's leaders and urged workers now living under the new communist regime to fight with sabotage and strikes. He pictured his beleaguered nationalist forces on Formosa as fighting the Russians as well as the Chinese communists.

Bitterness between communists and anti-communists in Israel caused a riot Saturday night in Tel Aviv. A crowd carrying the blue and white flags of Israel broke up a meeting of communists singing the Internationale. Several persons were injured.

An estimated 100,000 Jewish and Arab trade unionists paraded today in most of Israel's cities, towns and villages carrying banners urging workers to "fight for world peace." Communists paraded separately from the other trade unionists.

London had no parade because of a ban passed last year on political demonstrations. But the international socialist conference there issued a May Day message declaring that "socialism alone" can knot the world's peoples "into an organization for unity of effort."

Several thousand workers in Rangoon, Burma, paraded with pictures of Stalin, Lenin and Mao Tse-tung and with banners calling for an end to British control of the big Burma Oil Company.

came into their own in America. Heretofore, this breed was almost entirely unknown here. Few breeders or exhibitors possessed Siamese cats because they did not have the financial wherewithal to purchase a specimen. The average price of a Siamese cat purchased in England at that time was $1,000 or more. Present day prices are much more in line.

Sporadic Clashes

This huge demonstration cheered thunderously at every mention of "freedom for Berlin from communist tyranny" for calls for a United Germany and restoration of the eastern territories which have been given to Poland by Russia.

In east Berlin, massed thousands of communist marchers carried flags and portraits of Stalin and cheered attacks against the "western war mongers."

The west-Berlin rally broke up shortly before noon after 90 minutes of speeches.

The massed hundreds of thousands were told to go home quietly and avoid any clashes with the communist demonstrators, still marching in the Lustgarten, a mile away in the Soviet sector.

The famed Brandenburg gate, dividing line between east and west Berlin, was guarded on both sides by masses of German police.

In contrast to straggling crowds streaming into the western sector at the Tiergarten, the demonstration in the east was organized to the last minute.

The east-zone government put on a show by its "police" which the west claims is a Soviet-sponsored army. Four thousand east-zone police marched by in military formation led by a band.

These were followed by thousands of communist youth, marching in a parade.

The east Berlin parade is supposed to last throughout the day, going past a reviewing stand in the Lustgarten.

Mrs. Arnold Butler and Mrs. Willard Marshall, of Inverness, while motorizing to Thetford Mines one evening, had a very unfortunate accident. Mr. Marshall's car turned over on the highway leading to Thetford Mines, but luckily no one was seriously injured and Mrs. Butler, after having been treated for shock, was able to proceed and spend an enjoyable evening with friends.

Friends of Mr. Wesley Davidson are very pleased to hear that he has recovered completely from frost bites received last winter and was able to help Mrs. John Dempsey during the maple sugar season. They have also about completed cutting the season's fire wood.

Mr. Herbert Wright and Mr. Champagne have had a very successful maple sugar season, on Mr. Wright's lot.

The Doctor Says

INFECTIOUS DISEASE INVOLVING LIVER SPREAD BY WORLD WAR II

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

During previous wars typhoid, typhus, smallpox, influenza and other infectious diseases have often caused serious epidemics. In World War II a disease called epidemic or infectious hepatitis, while not as widespread as some of the epidemics of previous wars, has nevertheless caused a good deal of trouble.

The infectious disease has been recognized in occasional outbreaks or individual cases for a long time and was formerly called catarrhal jaundice. It is now safe to say that it is an infectious disease involving principally the liver. It has occurred in more or less widespread epidemics both on this country and in many of the theatres of military operation.

In about 85 per cent of the patients, there is an early period of the disease lasting a few days, which precedes the characteristic appearance of jaundice, or yellow coloration of the skin. In about one out of 10 the jaundice appears at the beginning. The early stage is usually accompanied by easy fatigability, slight nausea and almost complete loss of appetite.

About half of the patients have a fever of up to 103 degrees. The jaundice often gives the victims an intense yellow color of the skin and eyes and other mucous membranes; sometimes the yellow coloration is very slight indeed.

Headache is present in a few. After the jaundice has appeared the second stage lasts from about two to three weeks. A convalescent stage is recognized, too, lasting for one or two months. Usually from six to eight weeks is required for full recovery, though a few patients may not be quite well even at the end of several months. A chronic form has been described.

Most seem to recover without any serious or permanent harmful effects. The most important part of treatment is to begin strict bed rest early and to keep it up for a long enough time. A diet containing a high proportion of protein foods is also used and seems to shorten the course of the disease.

Succumbing to Science
The cause of this condition is almost undoubtedly a virus which is a tiny living organism too small to see under the ordinary microscope. Infectious hepatitis was undoubtedly a more serious condition in the army overseas than among civilians in this country, but this difference can probably not be laid at the door of combat conditions.

Although much has already been learned about this disease, we can confidently expect that much more will be known about it within a few years. This is a good example of how new diseases and new health problems keep cropping up as the old ones become conquered.

The most powerful gasoline your car can use!

YES, many of today's engines have been stepped up... they call for more powerful gasoline! Now Shell gives you the most powerful gasoline your car can use—Shell Premium—it's "activated."

Actually, Shell splits molecules to get more power for today's more powerful engines. So you get a gasoline that's "activated!"

Activation makes the difference

Shell scientists using the finest available crude, activate the molecules by splitting and rearranging them according to Shell's formula for a perfectly balanced gasoline. The result—Shell Premium, the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

Notre Dame Choir Of Rock Island Presented Its Annual Concert In The Haskell Opera House

Rock Island, May 1. — The second annual concert was given by the Notre Dame Choir, of Rock Island, on Sunday evening, April 23, at the Haskell Opera House.

The concert opened with overtures, "Carnaval de Venise", by Luigi Borde. The solo parts were sung by Rejeanne Joyal, Jeannine Audet, the mixed choir joined in the chorus, and "The Rosary", by Ethelbert Nevins.

The Women's Choir sang "Le Ver Luitant" by Paul Linke, and "Mother Machree", arrangements by George J. Trinkans.

A few brief words of welcome were spoken in French and English by R. E. Fregeau. The program continued with two soprano solos by Miss Esther Bethel, who sang "Samson and Delilah" by C. Saint-Saens, and "Lullaby", by Georges Brahms.

This was followed by a one-act farce, "What An Image." Mrs. Muriel Preston, a young married woman, whose husband is away on a week-end fishing trip, has three friends staying with her during his absence, and they are making their plans for the day when a letter arrives announcing the intentions of Mr. Preston's aunt to visit her for the week-end. This aunt is extremely rich and whose main interests in life are in the study of Natural History.

The Prestons expect to receive a share of her estate, but so far have received only a gift of a historic image, which Muriel has donated to the White Elephant sale for the church.

With the aunt's expected visit Muriel tries to find the image, and she and her friends run into all sorts of difficulties before finding it, such as wrecking a car, spraining a wrist, stealing the wrong statue from a garden, and being chased by a policeman, mistaking Miss Ray, a masseuse, for the aunt, and putting her in the guest room, the maid locking the guest room door not knowing it was occupied.

They finally find the hideous image and things start running smoothly again only to receive a telegram saying that the aunt has been called to England and must postpone her visit. The character parts are played by Misses Irene Julien, Rita Pisson, Jean Bedard, Rita Laberee, Lillian Delisle, Madeleine Pisson and M. Danig-non.

Two baritone solos were sung by Alderman Hamelin, of Newport, Vt., "When Day Is Done" by Dr. Robert Katscher, and "Daddy Boy" by F. Westherby.

A comedy, "La Chance Approvoise" in one act was then presented. This was of a young married couple. She was the niece and heiress of a rich uncle, therefore she does all she can to remain in his good graces and is planning to entertain him at a luncheon.

She hires a maid of about fifty-eight years of age for the occasion, but before the uncle arrives the maid hears that she has come into the sum of $50,000. She immediately leaves the home, but the niece decides it would be a good idea to have the uncle and maid marry, then she would inherit the money from both. She talks the idea over with the husband, who agrees providing that she will throw out the dessert for the luncheon, which contains poison, and was to be served to the uncle. She agrees to this, and goes for the dessert. The husband takes it and throws it out the door; the uncle arrives only to be covered with the dessert. He is cleaned up.

When the former maid arrives, she is left with the uncle, who proposes and is eagerly accepted. The maid has learned of the poison in the dessert and tells the uncle, who faints. The maid calls for help and he is survived by the "Pop" of the opening of a bottle of champagne, which gushes all over him.

The act concludes by all four drinking to the betrothal of the maid and uncle.

The cast and characters included Henri Lamberlin, M. F. Mac-livie, and his wife, Lillette Lamberlin, Miss Laurette Blais, Verduron, the uncle, Hubert Pepin, Pelagie Potchoard, the maid, Miss Y. Beaudoin. The mixed choir then sang "Maman" by Leo St. Cleur. The solo part was sung by Rejeanne Joyal, the full choir also singing "Mighty Lakia Rose" by Ethelbert Nevins. Alderman Hamelin sang "Roses Picardy", by Haydn Wood, with the choir joining in the chorus.

The concert concluded with the mixed choir singing "Beautiful Ohio" by William Stickles, and "Etoile de Soir" by A. Giles, "O Canada" and "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

All the numbers were very well received by the appreciative audience in the well filled theatre.

The musical numbers were under the direction of Mrs. Lawrence Simmonneau. The piano accompanist, Miss Marguerite Davignon.

Members of the choir are Mrs. A. Danigmon, president, Doris Seguin, vice-president; Florence Girard, secretary; Jeannine Audet, Esther Bethel, Irene Breaud, Jeannine Cote, G. In The Women's Sphere

DOROTHY DIX

Silent Suitor

20-Year Courtship With
No Mention Of Marriage

Dear Miss Dix: I am a woman 38 years of age, interested in a man of 40. We have lived in the same city all our lives and although he gives me to understand I am the only one, he has never mentioned marriage. He has taken me to places of entertainment since we were young, but we are always accompanied by his mother or sisters.

DOROTHY DIX

Now there is a man in my office who likes me and wants to call on me. Would you let him come and leave the other man to his mother and sisters?

Answer: By all means accept the attentions of the other man. If that doesn't make your silent sweetheart speak, nothing will, and it will give you at least the advantage of knowing where you stand and what you can depend upon.

NO HOLD ON MAN

To a woman there is nothing more aggravating than the useless romance that begins in the high-school days and runs endlessly on through the years without leading to the altar. They are never actually engaged. The woman has no real hold upon the man, nothing definite to look forward to, yet he has absorbed her youth and kept other men away from her and narrowed her matrimonial chances down to him or nothing.

The man doesn't intend to do the girl an injustice. He doesn't realize he is being selfish. In the back of his head is the vague idea that sometime he will marry her, but he feels that there is no hurry about it. It is something he can do when he gets good and ready, and in the meantime the situation is most satisfactory to him.

It doesn't even occur to the man that the girl is wasting her youth and the freshness thereof, and eating out her heart longing for the home and the husband and the children that belong to her.

There is only one thing to do in such a case, and that is to jolt the slothful lover awake. The woman has become a habit with the man of which he cannot break himself, and she must break it either by going away and letting him realize how much he misses her and how necessary she is to his happiness, or else by setting up a rival and scaring him to death about losing her.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Please tell me how to bring up my children so that they can get along with people. I realize its importance because I don't know how to do it myself.

PRUDENCE

Answer: The art of getting along with people is something that can only be learned by practice, and that is why it is so important that children should be associated with other children at the earliest possible moment. Children reared by themselves are nearly always shy, suppressed, selfish, antisocial, get queer ways and lack the ability to adapt themselves to others.

If schools taught nothing else but human adjustment, they would still be invaluable. For a child learns from its schoolmates what no adult can teach it. It gets its ego deflated. It has the angles in its disposition knocked off. It learns to give and take. It learns to play fair and be a good sport.

A mother can help teach her children how to get along with other people by making them share their toys with other youngsters even while they are in the nursery, and by respecting the rights of other babies. She can teach them not to be little bullies who run over all the other children. She can teach a boy sportsmanship; if the other children play his game he must play theirs, and he must not boast when he wins or whines when he loses. And she can breed in him good manners and graciousness of speech and behavior until they are just as much a part of him as his hair or his eyes.

But the main part in the education of every child in how to get along with others must come with daily contact with his fellow creatures. He must run with the pack instead of being a lone wolf.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 17 and am to be married in June. I feel that I am too young to marry, especially as my health is very poor. My fiancé refuses to wait any longer. He says that I have put him off too many times already. What shall I do?

BOBBY

Answer: No girl of 17 is old enough to get married. She is unformed in mind and character and doesn't know what sort of husband she is going to want when she is grown up. And of this goes double when the girl is as delicate as you are. So don't ruin your life to please a silly youth who doesn't himself know the catastrophe to you both he is trying to bring on your heads.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers but will answer problems of general interest through her column. However, she has prepared leaflet D-3, "Mothers-In-Law," which treats the problem of "too much grandmothering." To obtain a copy, send 5 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Dix, P. Rev. and Mrs. F. R. Matthews were calling in this district.

port on the "House Account" standing. It was announced that the municipal regent, primary regents, as well as the municipal secretary and treasurer constitute the "House Committee."

Mrs. Thomas Wyatt, film convener, read an article describing the film entitled "The Queen Mary Carpet."

Conveners for the coming year were re-elected as follows: Immigration and colonization, Miss Fannie Knapp; film, Mrs. Thomas Wyatt; ex-service, Mrs. R. M. Loughheed; post war service and child and family welfare, Mrs. Hugh Brown; Empire study, Mrs. F. H. Bradley; hospitality, Mrs. A. A. Munster; tea convener, Miss May Mitchell; press and publicity, Mrs. William Cochrane.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon, May 23. In view of the fact that Mrs. R. Havard is leaving Sherbrooke for England, early in May, she was presented with a beautiful leather handbag, by Mrs. A. A. Munster, as a token of deep appreciation of her untiring efforts in connection with the chapter.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, the National Anthem was sung, after which refreshments were served by the Sir John Sherbrooke Chapter.

Team Corn Bread With Sausage

CORN MEAL AND SAUSAGE team deliciously in corn bread "pinwheels," served with smooth cream pork gravy or applesauce.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Corn meal and sausage are flavor twins. Combine them into pinwheels. Serve with a smooth cream pork gravy—sounds pretty wonderful, doesn't it?
Sausage Corn Bread Pinwheels (6 servings)

One pound pork sausage meat, 1½ cups sifted enriched flour, ½ cup enriched corn meal, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ cup shortening, ¾ to 1 cup milk.

Cook pork sausage meat, stirring until meat is crumbly. Drain off fat. Sift together dry ingredients. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add milk, mixing lightly only until mixture is dampened. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently a few seconds.

Roll out in a rectangle about 12 x 9 x ¼ inches, cover with cooked sausage meat. Starting with the long side, roll up like a jelly roll. Cut in slices 1 inch thick. Place on greased baking sheet and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Serve with sausage gravy or hot applesauce.

Here's another mouth-watering get-together of meat and corn meal.

Meat Topped Corn Bread (6 servings)
One-half pound pork sausage meat, ½ pound ground beef, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, ¼ cup flour, 1 tablespoon salt, ¼ cup chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, 1 recipe of golden corn bread batter.
Brown meat and onion in frying pan, stirring constantly. Drain off fat. Blend in flour and salt. Add green pepper and pimiento. Spread in an 8-inch square pan. Pour corn bread batter over meat mixture. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Loosen sides and turn onto a platter, meat-side-up.

Golden Corn Bread
One cup sifted enriched flour, 1 cup enriched yellow corn meal, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, ¼ cup shortening, soft.

Sift together dry ingredients into medium-sized bowl. Add egg, milk and shortening. Beat with rotary egg beater until smooth, about 1 minute. Do not overbeat. Pour over meat mixture and bake according to directions.

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit, griddle cakes, syrup, crisp bacon, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Chicken patties, creamed peas, hot biscuits, butter, celery and carrot sticks, fresh fruit bowl, tea, milk.

DINNER: Corn bread pinwheels, apple sauce or pork gravy, buttered asparagus, spring salad, canned peaches, oatmeal cookies, coffee, milk.

MARRIAGES

PEARCE—KINHEAD

The marriage of Mabel Delia, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kinhead, of Sherbrooke, to Mr. Stanley Edward Pearce, son of Mr. Henry Pearce, of Westmount, and the late Mrs. Pearce, took place Saturday afternoon, April 29, at 3:30 o'clock, in St. Peter's Church, the Rev. Canon H. K. Bigg officiating. The wedding music was played by Mr. James Hopkirk, Mus. Bac., A.C.C.O. Tall standards of lawnny snapdragons, daffodils, iris and calla lilies were used to decorate the church. The altar was adorned with identical flowers in tall vases. The pews reserved for the guests were marked with iris and snapdragons with large pink satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Kinhead, who acted as maid of honor. The best man was Mr. H. S. Babcock, of Westmount, and the ushers were, Mr. John Pearce, nephew of the groom, of Montreal West, and Mr. Howard Beveridge, of Montreal.

The bride was gown in an ankle-length original model of coral crepe, fashioned with a Victorian collar, long tight sleeves ending in double points over the hands, the moulded skirt falling in deep fan pleats at the centre of the back. Her headpiece was a braided coronet of the same material as her dress and she carried a bouquet of Gloria roses and coral flowers.

snapdragons arranged with matching net and tied with a large satin bow.

Her maid of honor wore an ankle-length frock of Nile green, styled with fine tucks across the bodice, having a Peter Pan collar, long sleeves and a gathered skirt. She wore a cloche hat made of matching material and carried an arm bouquet of iris, daffodils and roses, tied with blending shot taffeta ribbon.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Kinhead, was attired in a street-length dress of French blue crepe, having a high round neckline and draped skirt and she wore a black hat with French blue trim and a corsage of Sweetheart roses.

The groom's sister, Mrs. L. C. Elvidge, was in powder blue crepe, with which she wore a pink hat, pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The reception was held at Rockcliffe, Quebec Street, where the rooms were adorned in spring flowers and roses, toning with the bride's gown. The bride's table, covered with an ecru lace cloth, was centered with a three-tier wedding cake and decorated at either end with yellow roses and iris in silver bowls and matching candles in silver holders.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Pearce left for a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Ont., and other points, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit, under a yellow tweed coat, a navy felt hat and accessories and an iris corsage.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Pearce will reside in Montreal.

Out of town guests who attended the wedding, were: Miss Lois McGuigan, Miss Helen Farquharson, Miss Dorothy Coleman, Miss Madge Gribbin, Miss Dina Stewart, Miss Ruth Fraser, Miss Mae Fallon, Miss Genevieve Smith, Mr. Jack Pearce, Miss Myrtle Ravenscroft, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Delaney, Miss Margaret Walker, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Elvidge and Master Robert Elvidge, Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Pearce, Mr. H. R. Beveridge, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Eversfield, all of Montreal.

Mrs. Jack C. Powers, of Albany, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Pearce, Mr. John Pearce, Mr. Brian Pearce, all of Montreal West; Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Boulter, Notre Dame de Grace; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Babcock, Westmount.

WHIMPERING DOLL BABY'S REVEILLE

Vancouver.—Dolls can do practically everything now except grow up to be adults.

Morley Freeman of Toronto, vice-president of a toy company, said here one new doll may eventually replace the alarm clock. It can be set for a certain hour to cry loud enough to wake up the baby. Another sucks its thumb. Another doll item coming up is one which changes facial expressions and cries at the same time. This idea Mr. Freeman, 28, picked up on a European jaunt this year.

About $400,000,000 was spent on toys in Canada and the United States last year, Mr. Freeman said. Most of it went on dolls.

DANVILLE

A large delegation from Golden Rule No. 13 motored to St. Johnsbury, Vt., to attend a rally. They included J. R. Baizone, P.G.M., H. C. Marek, R. E. Young, G. R. Morill, H. E. Lockwood, H. P. Lockwood, Norman Lockwood, Oscar Perkins, Rene Andrews, Edward McGonigal, H. S. Robinson, Dean Olney, B. P. Mills, Gordon Horan, Andrew Horan, L. E. Findlay, B. J. Barlow, Ernest Frost, Alex Smith, Hilary Smith, John Lodge, Eric Harding, D. Gallup, H. Statton, George Raek, and Hilton Findlay.

Mr. and Mrs. Bird, of Montreal, spent the week-end at the parsonage with their daughter, Mrs. C. W. Foggo, and Rev. Foggo. Little Diane Foggo, who was so badly scalded two weeks ago, is now recovering.

Mrs. Gordon Hebert and family, of Montreal, were Easter holiday guests of Mrs. Hebert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Atchison.

Miss Lois Lockwood, of the staff of the Sherbrooke Hospital, was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lockwood.

Mr. Francis Smith spent a few days in Montreal for special treatments on his eyes.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Gale have returned home from Montreal, where Mr. Gale was a patient in the hospital.

Mrs. P. Scarlett, of Ottawa, Ont., spent a few days with her aunt, Mrs. G. H. Johnston, and Mr. Johnston.

Mrs. Henshall was a guest of Mrs. J. E. Horan for the week-end.

ULVERTON

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. McMannis were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cummings, of St. Johnsbury, Vt., and Mr. Elwyn McMannis, of Toronto, Ont.

Mr. Elwyn McMannis and Mr. Urban McMannis, of Toronto, Ont., spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McMannis.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Smith and daughter, Judith Ann, were guests of Mrs. Clara Johnston, at Sweetburg.

Evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mace, Sr., were Mr. and Mrs. Capistran, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Harsell, of Drummondville, and Mr. William Cook, of Port Arthur, Ont. Mr. Percy Mace, of Drummondville, spent the week-end at the same home.

Mr. Grant Husk, of Sherbrooke, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Husk.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Norris and son, Dana, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Garvin at Chute Panet. They were accompanied home by Miss Vivian Garvin.

Mr. Edmund McIntyre, of St. Johns, was the guest of his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. A. T. McIntyre.

Allow Children To Enjoy Food Is Advice Doctors Give To Parents

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

This is Child Health Day. In the U.S. the President proclaimed it as such. He asked a question every parent must answer, "Are we, the richest nation in the world, doing all we should to give our children a fair deal?"

Of course, we all want to. But let's check up on attitudes, beginning with the basic one of children's eating.

Child guidance clinics throughout the country report that most problems center around eating. Parents are apt to be too anxious about getting food into their babies.

Dr. Nina Ridenour, Director of the Division of Education of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, expert on healthy parent-child relationship, says, "Good food, offered in a matter-of-fact way, without urging: There — as simple as that — is the main point in helping children to develop good eating habits."

She stresses this fact: you can't make people enjoy something. You can only let them enjoy it. The same is true of food. The parents' role is not to make the child eat, but to let him eat.

"Always offer any new food when the child is hungry and when he is in good humor. The best way to get a child to like all kinds of food is not to try make him eat all kinds against his will, but to give him some freedom of choice," she adds.

This consultant believes that forcing a child to eat is one of the most common parental mistakes.

"Keep before you what you want for your child. You want him, by the end of his first year to have learned to like to eat and to like to eat a wide variety of food. If you accomplish this, you will have laid the foundation for good eating habits. He may still show certain little cranky notions and dislike a few foods. But if he likes a variety of foods, he will be more likely to eat a balanced diet when it is set before him, and as he grows older, he will be better able to select his own balanced diet."

STANBRIDGE EAST

Mack Molding's Annual Banquet At Waterloo Was A Most Enjoyable Event

Waterloo, May 1.—The annual Mack Molding banquet was held on Friday evening, April 21, at 6 p.m., at the High School. Upwards of two hundred employees and guests sat down to a delicious meal prepared by Mrs. Albanie Casavant and served by the girls of the C.G.I.L., with the manager, Mr. Peter Gunter, acting as chairman.

Introducing the guests, Mr. Gunter told them that they were very welcome and he hoped that they would have a most enjoyable evening.

Among those present included Messrs. James McIntosh, Kenneth Macksey, directors of the company, from Wayne, N.J.; and Donald Kendall, director from Arlington, Vt.; Alan Dickton, also of Wayne, N.J.; Messrs. Jack Kent, James Wright and Ernest Cosh, of Armstrong Cork, of Montreal; and Mr. William Gassner, from Pennsylvania; Mr. "Bud" Pollock and Mr. Henry Seymour, of Pollock Bros., Montreal; Rev. E. D. Mitchell, Mrs. Leon Lewis, Mrs. Gerald McGovern, Miss Lillian Wright, Dr. Earl Blake, Mr. Winston Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gagne and Messrs. Jay and Douglas Irwin, all of Waterloo; Mr. William Campbell, of Bakelite Corp., Belleville, Ont.; Mr. Paul Rydzik, of Wayne, N.J.; Mr. Jack Quigley, of Boston, Mass., and New York; members of the hockey team, Albert and Allen Norris, Conrad L'Heureux, Omer and Guy Caouette, Claude and John Blanchard, Ben Rainville, Maurice Fausse, Roger St. Onge, Ernie Benoit, Paul Raymond and Cubby Smith.

The following wives of the foremen: Mrs. Gunter, Mrs. G. Jackson, Mrs. A. Renihan, Mrs. A. McKergow, Mrs. R. McKergow, Mrs. A. Johnson, Mrs. F. Campbell, Mrs. V. Graves, Mrs. F. Graves, Mrs. H. Lucia, Mrs. R. Atkinson and Mrs. J. Rydzik; and two very special guests from the Canadian Hockey Team, Elmer Lach and Glen Harmon.

Following the introductions and welcoming by the chairman, several reports on the Mack's activities were presented, with Alan McKergow giving the first report on "Safety." In his report, he stated that marked progress had been made during the past year over previous years in lost time accidents, and he asked for continued co-operation from all employees in the struggle for an entirely accident-free year.

The report on tennis was presented by Frank Graves, who invited more members to take advantage of the excellent facilities offered for all aspiring tennis players.

Vernon Graves gave a very fine report on the softball and although he did not predict another victory this year as last, he did strongly hint that the Mack softball team would be in there again this season giving a good account of itself.

Alan Renihan gave the report on fishing, and stated that there were two very active clubs at the Mack, one for bass and one for pike, and stated that there was room for more members to take an active part. Only about two-thirds of the employees joined last year, which leaves one-third to get in on the fun.

The chairman gave two reports, one on the garden contest, which has proved very satisfactory in the past three seasons, with Percy Jones winning the grand prize twice in this time, and once again more entries were sought by the chairman.

The other report presented by Mr. Gunter was one on Bowling. This year no league was operated, but it was hoped that one might be arranged for the coming year. Two matches were played with Armstrong Cork, with both decisions going to the Montreal club, and Mr. Gunter made the presentation of the "trophy" to Mr. Wright, which token of superiority came to Mack last year.

A very excellent report on the Mack Fire Department was given by Fire Chief Archie Johnson, who stated in the course of his report that six drills were held during the last year, and that it only took thirty-five seconds to clear the building, which is very good, he stated. Additional work, however, must be done to better even this mark, and steps are being taken to meet this goal.

Mr. Kent, of Armstrong's then took over, and as he has done in the past, had drawings for prizes for the women and men employees with the winners being Mrs. Jean Hetu, Mrs. Gerald Tetreault and Miss Angeline Nadeau, with the male winners being Thornton Boyd, Clifton Kendall and Grant Strange.

Ten-year employees were then called together and presented with their ten-year pins by Mr. McIntosh. These included Miss Marjorie McKenna, Messrs. Murdoch MacIntosh, Thornton Boyd, Patrick Cloutier, Amelie Rainville, Oral McGovern, James Bobo, Wilfred Copping, Rosaire Rainville, Russell Bockus, Joe Rydzik and Alan McKergow.

The fifteen-year employees were also presented with their pins by Mr. Kenneth Macksey, and these included Messrs. James McIntosh, Peter Gunter, William Carter, Archie Johnson and Francis Campbell.

A special feature of the evening was the twenty-five year award made to Joseph Rydzik, who joined the Mack organization in Little Falls, N.H., in September, 1925, and has been with the same company for the past twenty-five years. A beautiful watch with a suitable inscription, was presented to Mr. Rydzik by Alan Dickton, who gave a very fine talk in his presentation, and warmly congratulated the recipient in being the youngest member of the organization who had ever received a gold watch for this purpose.

Roger McKergow then gave the hockey report, and in so doing he individually introduced each hockey player and then had the gathering give them a big hand for their fine showing this past year. The two trophies, The Marcel Boivin Trophy, which was won by Al Norris last year and again this year, and the Jack Court Trophy, which went to Claude Blanchard, last year, and Maurice Fausse, this year, were considered too valuable to the player winning it to be allowed to hold it one year only, so suitable duplicates were presented to Al Norris and Claude Blanchard, by the club.

Elmer Lach was asked to say a few words to the gathering which he did in an able manner and thanked the management for including him on the invitation list. Glen Harmon, on the other hand, spoke a few words also and immediately won the hearts of all by his witty remarks. Both Mr. Lach and Mr. Harmon were told that they were very welcome and were thanked for coming to Waterloo and helping to make the Mack banquet the success it was. Mr. Gunter presented each one with a box of Waterloo manufactured and grown products, which were gratefully accepted by both the boys.

Following the singing of "O Canada," the gathering dispersed to the theatre, where there was a special show for the employees and their guests, bringing to a close the most successful banquet yet held by the Mack organization.

The second dance sponsored by the members of Beaver Chapter Number Seven, Order of the Eastern Star, was held on Friday evening in the High School Gymnasium.

A very large crowd was on hand to enjoy the old time dances with music supplied by Hollenback's Orchestra, of South Stukely.

Refreshments were made available during the evening and a most enjoyable time was spent.

Satisfactory financial results were obtained, and it hopes to continue these dances in the fall of the year.

BROME CENTRE

Mr. and Mrs. R. Goslett and daughter, of Montreal, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mount and Mr. Victor Mount, Miss Christine Miller, R.N., spent a day in Montreal. Mrs. M. W. Miller and Mrs. R. Y. Beerwort attended the Women's Missionary meeting one afternoon, at Knowlton United Church Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Blockwood and two children, of Tibbit's Hill, were guests at the Mount home. Miss Joan Beerwort, of the Bedford High School staff spent the week-end here at her home.

ford High School staff spent the week-end here at her home.

Messrs. Gayland and Herman McClay and Jack Sweet were dinner guests of the former's daughter, Mrs. Bernard Paige, and Mr.

Birthday Party Held At Marbleton

Marbleton, May 1. — On Saturday April 22 Mr. and Mrs. Roy Weston entertained seventeen young lads and lassies in honor of the birthday of their two children, Carol and George.

Mrs. Weston drove out from her home and gathered up the young people, which in its self was great fun for them.

Games were played during the evening and a delightful lunch was served by the hostess. Two lovely birthday cakes centered the decorated table. Carol and George received many pretty and useful gifts from their young friends. Mr. and Mrs. Weston presented Carol with a lovely bicycle.

A final feature of the games was the drawing from a box where each young guest received a gift and a treat.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Weston entertained at the Arlington Hotel in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Weston's father, Mr. W. H. Ross, of Bury. The following were the guests attending: Mr. W. H. Ross, of Bury, (the guest of honor); Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Ross, Bulwer, Que.; Mr. Holland Ross and two sons, Garry and Milton, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Ross, of Lennoxville, and Miss Alberta Ross, of Sherbrooke. There were several other guests invited, but they were unable to attend. A very happy time was spent.

On Sunday, April 23, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bishop and Mrs. Gerald Bishop, of Sherbrooke, were evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bishop.

There passed away from our midst on Friday evening, April 21, a very kind neighbor and friend in the person of Mrs. H. G. Weston. She will indeed be greatly missed. Much sympathy is extended to her bereaved family.

Mr. Foster Morrill, of Sorel, was a recent caller at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Currie.

Messrs. Shannon and Donald Hetherington, of Sherbrooke, were weekend guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hetherington.

Kenneth Currier, of Howick, spent a few days recently with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Currier, of Lennoxville, Ont., and Mrs. Sarah Edwards, of Bishopston, were also guests at the same home.

Mrs. Ernest Stevenson, Dawson, and June Stevenson and Mr. Cedric Dawson, of Erle, Que., were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Currier recently.

MAPLE GROVE

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Dacres and Mr. Edward Craig, of Stoneham, motored here and spent a day with Mr. and Mrs. A. Nugent. They were accompanied back by Miss Marion Nugent.

Miss Helen Gill spent a few days with her aunt, Mrs. Grant Annesley.

Mrs. J. Carey was a guest of her niece, Mrs. Beamis Amadon, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Bennett, of Clapman, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Bennett.

Mrs. T. A. Wood has returned to her home here, after spending the winter in Woodville, N.H. She was accompanied by her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wood, and little son, Mr. Wood returned home but Mrs. Wood and little son are remaining for a few weeks with her aunt, Mrs. T. A. Wood. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Boyd, of Quebec motored here and spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Bennett. Evening guests were Mrs. F. N. Gill, Mrs. D. Gibbs and Mr. John Gill. Sunday afternoon guests at the same place were Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Pharo and two girls, and Mrs. L. C. Pharo, of Thetford Mines.

Miss Ethel Gill spent the week-end with her cousin, Elsie Bennett. Mr. John Gill and Mrs. F. N. Gill spent the afternoon and evening with Mr. Lloyd and Misses Goldie and Olive Annesley, and were treated to sugar-snow.

Evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Beamis Amadon were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denary and Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Gill.

Mr. Jasper Dinning spent a few days with his sister, Mrs. John Morrison, and Mr. Morrison, in Lennoxville.

Mrs. George Stewart spent the day with Mrs. B. A. Bennett. Mrs. D. Gibbs and son, Ronald, spent a day with Mrs. A. Nugent. Messrs. Byron and Gerald Bennett spent an afternoon with Grant Annesley.

Mrs. A. Nugent and Mrs. B. Dinning visited the former's daughter Mrs. Gordon Moore, at the Thetford Hospital.

Mrs. F. N. Gill and Mr. John Gill attended the sugaring-off at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denary's sugar camp.

SAWYERVILLE

The Jolly Jills held a meeting in the church parlour one evening. There were twenty-three present. Mrs. Malley gave a short reading and a few choruses were sung, after which a work period was held. At the close, refreshments were served by the girls.

Radio Links Regina With Remote North

Prince Albert. — The vast "unknown" northland of Saskatchewan now is only as far away as the telephone.

A vast radio network links the northern three-fifths of the province to officials of the forestry and fisheries departments in Regina.

The 144-station government network—one of the biggest in the Dominion—has removed one of the major deterrents to development of the once-isolated area. No longer do the trapper, prospector and forest ranger disappear for weeks and months.

In fire-lookout towers, in field officers' cabins, at the edge of a forest blaze, in a canoe knifing down the river, in a plane speeding on a mercy mission or a car rushing supplies to fire-fighters, the crackle of radio voices is only a moment away.

It is a far cry from the days of hand-operated—and often unreliable—telephones and heavy transmitters of 25 years ago. Commu-cations now are as mobile as the people who make their living flitting through forest and muskeg, river and lake.

The change began when Ron Hook, now head of Saskatchewan's communication system, joined the department of natural resources in 1936.

"They had about 22 transmitters and receivers then," he recalls. "Compared with today's equipment they are like the old Red-River wagons and present-day automobiles."

Builds Own Equipment
Now the province builds all its own northland—designed radio equipment. Mr. Hook is working on an even-smaller set suitable for smoke-jumpers, woodland patrols, and timber cruisers.

The system comprises regional networks feeding through a district centre. Four districts near Prince Albert work through Meadow Lake, Hudson Bay, La Ronge and Prince Albert. With this breakdown they operate on a relatively-small power output. The centres relay information through Prince Albert.

At present Mr. Hook and his aides are busy rigging additional two-way equipment for the coming fire season. It too will work through Prince Albert.

Sometimes the air-waves carry messages of importance to Hook's own staff—as the time when a technical assistant perched in a remote fire tower learned he was the father of twins. And there is the odd humorous incident too.

Mr. Hook tells of one message that still gives him a chuckle. Addressed to the administrator of northern education, it read: "School to be closed. On fish haul."

The officials were in a flap, thinking the teacher had abandoned his charges to go fishing. A checkup, however, revealed that it should have read: "School to be closed. Unofficial."

EFFERVESCENT

Kempsey, Australia. — After a flood here one of the chemists, cleaning away silt, coated his windows with cleaning materials and left it to dry. Somebody finger-wrote the message, "Bismuth as Usual."

Gay British Socks Make Hit Overseas

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

Canadian Press Staff Writer
London.—A new line in British socks is making a hit in export markets.

They are decorated with birds, flowers, coats-of-arms and family crests. There are tartan socks, angler's socks with fish designs, socks with school crests and any other pattern requested. Price is high—£4 10s ($13.95)—but they are selling like hot-cakes.

The socks are plain at foot and top with intermediate panel of colored striping supporting such patterns as the Scottish thistle.

Forty-two-year-old John Carr Doughty is the man behind this idea. He invented attachments to hand-driven knitting machines to carry any pattern desired.

Girls are taught to operate the machines and then work in their own homes. Mostly they are women with children who can't work in factories. They make around £1 ($3.10) a day.

2,000 Employees
Doughty now is employing more than 2,000 women but says:

"A year ago I employed only a few hands making specialized knit-wear such as mittens for R.A.F. rear gunners—nothing for export. Home trade slakened. I decided to try the United States market."

Doughty took a long trip to the Amazon river photographing birds, flowers and butterflies to be incorporated in his sock designs in their exact colors.

His plan was successful. The first sample socks to reach New York met with instant success and

"One Chicago department store ordered some with the firm's trade mark on gave them to all their male shop assistants to wear on duty," said Doughty.

War's Ruins Provide Home And Livelihood

With his family quartered in a "home" fashioned from rubble, Anton Strack conducts a business in scrap iron on the sidewalk outside the dwelling in Frankfurt, Germany. The scrap iron, along with Strack's livelihood, comes from war-ruined buildings. But despite their own plight the residents seem to have been sentimental enough to erect a bird house over their wretched home. At right, members of the Strack household huddle in their "sleeping room." The room contains a stove, petroleum lamp, chair, cupboard and two beds, where all four members of the family sleep. OBITUARIES

MRS. G. H. A. MURRAY, OF THREE RIVERS, FORMERLY OF LENNOXVILLE

Three Rivers, May 1. — The death occurred on April 22, 1950, at the Private Hospital here of Margaret Jane Ashe, wife of the late Rev. Canon G. H. A. Murray, M.A., D.C.L.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Ashe, and was born at Lennoxville on August 16, 1867, and was married to her husband July, 1890.

Since the death of Canon Murray, she has made her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Higginson, at Three Rivers.

The funeral was held on April 24, at 2:30 p. m., in St. James' Anglican Church, and was conducted by the rector, Canon A. E. E. Legge. Interment was made in Forest Hill Cemetery.

One son, Kenneth, was killed in the first World War, 1914-18. She is survived by two sons, J. R. C. Murray, of St. Lambert, and W. I. Murray, of Three Rivers, and their wives; and two daughters, and their husbands, and Ruth, and her husband, W. J. Higginson, of Three Rivers; and Margaret, and her husband, Rev. W. W. Smith, of Dunville; a number of grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

MRS. THOMAS WELLS, OF MAITLAND, ONT.

Maitland, Ont., May 1. — A direct descendant of this district's pioneer families, Mrs. Thomas Wells, was buried in the family plot in the Blue Church Cemetery, on Tuesday, April 11th. Mrs. Wells passed away at her residence in Maitland on Saturday, April 8th, at the age of 90 years.

She was a daughter of the late Rufus Henderson and Emily Blakely, and had spent her lifetime in Maitland, where she had been a devoted member of the Anglican Church. Her husband predeceased her 34 years ago and four sons and a daughter have also died.

Surviving her are one son, Frank Wells, of London, Ont.; two grandsons, Brock Wells, of Waterloo, Que., and John Wells, of Peace River, Alberta; and three granddaughters, Mrs. W. Pritchard, Cambridge, Mass.; Miss Margaret Moss, of Montreal; and Miss Frances Moss, of Toronto, Ont.

The funeral service was conducted at the Anglican Church, Maitland, by Rev. Edmund Grant, rector of the parish and was very largely attended.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Justus Jones, Allan Jones, Purvis

Burnard, Garnet Debeau, Arthur Moss, of Cobalt, and Arthur Jones, of Du Puy, N. Y. Relatives and friends attending from a distance included Mr. Frank Wells, of London, Ont., Arthur Moss, of Cobalt; Miss M. Moss, of Montreal; Miss Frances Moss, of Toronto; Mrs. F. Beaven, and Mr. C. Beaven, of Prescott.

MR. EDWIN PAIGE, OF BOLTON GLEN

Bolton Glen, May 1. — The funeral of Mr. Edwin Paige, beloved husband of Virginia Ross Paige, who died at his home, "Echo Hill," one Monday, April 17, at the age of eighty-two years, after a few days illness of pneumonia, was held on Wednesday, April 19, from Robb's Funeral Home, at Knowlton, with the Rev. Mr. Grey, pastor of the United Church, officiating. Interment took place in the Knowlton Cemetery.

The principal mourners were his widow, Virginia Ross Paige; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paige, Mrs. and Mrs. Grayson Cousins, of Bolton Glen; Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, of North Troy, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Dudley, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dudley, and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Paige, of East Berkshire, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Paige, of Knowlton; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Paige, of Bolton Pass; Mr. Harry Paige, of Knowlton; Mr. Hugh Paige, Miss Betty Paige, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Paige, of the Glen; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paige and Miss Evelyn, of Mr. Frank Needham, of Waterloo, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Needham, of Knowlton.

Every home in the Glen was represented at the funeral, with relatives and friends from Waterloo, Cowansville, Dubouche's Corner, Bolton Pass and other surrounding towns, thus showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held. He was a kind and loving husband, father and neighbor, who will be sadly missed.

The sympathy of this community is extended to the bereaved family.

MR. GEORGE G. KERR, OF CANTERBURY

Canterbury, May 1. — On Tuesday, April 18, George G. Kerr died after a very short illness. He was eighty-four years old.

George Kerr was born at Hillcrest, Megantic County, on January 21, 1866, a son of the late Robert Kerr and Sarah Burns, his wife.

He married Stella Hughes, on September 1914. Three children were born to them, Jean, Marjorie and a baby, who died in infancy. Stella, his wife, died in April 1925. He sold the farm and came to Canterbury in 1930.

The Kerrs were pioneers of Megantic County coming from Enniskillen, Ireland. There are none left in Megantic County now.

Mr. Kerr will miss in the neighborhood and vicinity as he was of a bright cheery disposition taking an optimistic view of life. He was a strong supporter of the Anglican Church, which he served faithfully all his life. He was a member of the Oddfellows Lodge, and in politics a Conservative.

The funeral was held on Thursday, April 20. Prayers were said at the house, at 9 o'clock by Rev. W. E. Walker. The body was taken by motor hearse by Mr. Boynton, undertaker to Lower Ireland Anglican Church, accompanied by his daughters, Jean and Marjorie, Eva, his sister; Mrs. C. H. George, a cousin; Messrs. R. N. Mayhew, Herbert Mayhew and N. G. Bennett, nephews; Mrs. Thomas Parsons and Mrs. R. N. Mayhew, nephews.

The service was conducted by Rev. V. E. McLaren. Hymns sung were "Oh God Our Help in Ages Past," "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Abide With Me."

The bearers were all old friends, Messrs. Murdo McKinnon, Guy Little, Ernest Porter, Willard Christie, Allen Little and Kenneth Kelso.

The beautiful spring flowers which covered his casket were emblematic of his bright cheerful life. Interment took place in Lower Ireland Cemetery, in the old Kerr lot beside his ancestors.

He leaves to mourn his two daughters, Jean, Mrs. Murdo Morrison, Marjorie, one sister, Eva, Mrs. Bennett; two grandchildren, Joan and George Morrison; and a number of nieces and nephews.

MR. DONALD McLEOD, OF CANTERBURY

Canterbury, May 1. — The death occurred of Mr. Donald McLeod on January 29, at the home of his son, Raymond, in Bury, at the age of 85 years. He died suddenly having gone to visit his son, in Bury.

The deceased was born in Winslow, November 11, 1865, the second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McLeod. When a young man he moved to Marshboro (Big Woods), where he resided until he retired from farming in 1925, he lived in Milan before coming to Canterbury, in 1929, where he made his home with his son, William and his wife.

He married Annie Murray, in 1888, and nine children were born, six of whom are still living. Mrs. Murray died on May 12, 1911. One son, Dannie, was killed in World War I, 1917. Angus, a son, died in 1910; and John died since coming to Canterbury, in 1938. Mr. McLeod was loved and respected by all. He was ever anxious and willing to help everyone, quiet and unassuming. "He walked humbly before God," which was a favorite quotation of his.

He was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church at Scottston, where the funeral was held on January 31. Rev. J. Smith held prayers at the house before going to church. The choir sang the 23rd Psalm, and "Asleep in Jesus," the last two verses of the Psalm LXVIII was sung in Gaelic, the language he loved and was presented by Murdo Murray.

Interment took place in Marshboro Cemetery. The bearers were three nephews, Messrs. William and Daniel Paul Murray, and Edward McLeod, and John McKenzie, of Scottston; John McKenzie, of Canterbury; and James Dunn.

The flowers were numerous and beautiful and expressed in some degree the high esteem in which he was held.

He leaves to mourn his passing six children, Christine, Malcolm, William, Raymond and Neil Margaret (Mrs. Angus Nichols), and all were present at the funeral except Neil, of Evesham, Sask.

One sister, Katie, Mrs. John Murray, of Lennoxville, one brother, Alex McLeod, of Evesham, Sask., three daughters-in-law, Mrs. Neil McLeod, Mrs. Raymond McLeod and Mrs. William McLeod, one son-in-law, Angus Nichols, nine grandchildren, Fernie, Joan and Doris McLeod, of Evesham, Sask.; Anne, Donald, Jimmy, Grant, Dale and baby Eric McLeod, also survive him.

LAWRENCE S. HAGGERTY, OF DETROIT, MICH., FORMERLY OF EAST ANGUS

Black Lake, May 1. — Friends here will regret to hear of the death of Lawrence S. Haggerty, of Detroit, Mich., on April 3rd, 1950. He was the youngest son of the late John Haggerty and his wife, Margaret Murphy.

Mr. Haggerty was born and brought up in Wolfstown and spent his young days on the old homestead there until the year 1921, when he moved to East Angus, and from thence to Detroit, Mich., where he made his home.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife and five sons; who mourn the loss of a kind husband and father.

The host of friends and relatives who attended the funeral testified to the esteem in which he was held.

Mr. Haggerty was 76 years old and had been in poor health for two years.

Musicale And Dance Held In Windsor Mills

Windsor Mills, May 1. — Under the auspices of the Windsor Group of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Sherbrooke Hospital, a musicale and dance was held at the Canada Paper Club House, loaned for the occasion through the courtesy of the Canada Paper Company. The hall was tastefully decorated by the Boy Scouts under the direction of Mr. P. Whitney.

There was a large attendance, and the duties of M.C. were ably carried out by Mr. B. Goulet, whose genial personality contributed largely to the success of the proceedings.

The first part of the entertainment consisted of local items. The program was as follows: Solo, "Maitenata" by C. E. Force Jr.; Duet, "Rosemarie" by Mrs. B. Quinn and C. E. Force Sr.; Solo, "A Brown Bird Singing" by Mrs. J. McCabe; Duet, "Battle Eve" by Messrs. C. E. Force Sr., C. E. Force Jr.; Solo, "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair" by Miss M. Philip; Duet, "With A Song In My Heart" by Mrs. B. Quinn and Mrs. W. Houghton; Quartette, "Brightly Dawns Our Wedding Day" by Mrs. A. J. Philip, Mrs. W. Houghton, Messrs. C. E. Force Jr. and C. E. Force Sr.; Mrs. J. J. Watt was the accompanist. The above program was much appreciated and several encores were given.

Excellent dance music was provided by an orchestra consisting of Mr. Guy Allaire, Mr. Stuart Smith and Mr. Dave Gardner under the direction of Mrs. L. Dunn. Miss

Twin tornadoes zipped through Whistle, Ala., and four other communities in the Mobile Bay area, causing scenes like this. Although there were no injuries at this spot — where this woodworking factory was leveled—14 persons were injured at other places.

Elizabeth Finley assisted with various vocal numbers. During the evening a handsome cake plate was auctioned. The highest bidder was Mr. Anderson.

Door prizes were won by the following: Mr. B. Quinn, Mrs. A. E. Noble and Miss Barbara Ross. Mr. Quinn very kindly returned his prize which was then given for a Spot Dance, the lucky winners being Miss Barbara Ross and Mr. D. Force.

During the intermission refreshments were served by the members of the Group.

The committee wish to thank all who assisted in any way, and especially Mr. C. Allan for his help at the door, Mr. Lyons for posters, and Mr. R. Longpre for sound effects.

As a result of this effort one hundred and twenty-five dollars was realized. A cheque for this amount was handed to Mrs. W. E. Hume by the secretary, Mrs. B. Quinn at the Sherbrooke Linen Ball on Saturday last.

The Boundary Rotary Club Heard A Splendid Talk By Miss C. MacKenzie

Derby Line, May 1. — The English frequently sign their covenants in a pub and celebrate the event with a pint; the Scottish people sign their covenants in a dark churchyard on top of a flat tomb and then go home," according to Miss Catherine MacKenzie, of Stanstead, in the course of an interesting and humorous talk on Covenants at the regular Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, held at the Del Monty Hotel.

Using the theme of Scottish Covenants, Miss MacKenzie said that an attempt to separate Scotland from Great Britain was underway with the well known author, Compton Mackenzie, as one of the leaders. "Compton Mackenzie is no relative of mine," said the speaker, "and I disagree with the idea of separation. I feel that Scotland needs England that she hasn't the money, people or facilities to make a go of it on her own. The Scottish people object to English Socialism, not because it is Socialism, but because it is English. They want their own variety. I do not know how the movement is coming along since the last election, but the Scotch have usually won out with their covenants in the past. This is one instance, however, where I hope they will fail."

Returning to the local scene, Miss MacKenzie said that the people of Rock Island sometimes showed a dislike for the people of Stanstead, and the people in Stanstead resented it and some of them at least felt the same way about the people in Rock Island.

"Let's not have the people of either village signing covenants against each other," continued the speaker; "Instead, let us see how well we can co-operate with each other. We find that we like individuals in each community; we find that we work together pretty well whenever we try it. If that is the case, let's try and work together in more things that affect us. After all, what hurts Rock Island, also hurts Beebe and Stanstead. Perhaps a union of the three would be a real benefit to all. It would mean a more efficient and effective police force, better facilities for fighting fires; and it would be a large enough community to demand respect from our legislators."

"You members of the Rotary Club could do a great deal by making individual efforts to work toward this end, and as a group by backing every effort at getting together as we have just done in the school situation."

It was an effective talk, spiced with humor, and one that was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Miss MacKenzie was introduced by J. A. Grady and thanked for her talk by C. Earl Heath, President Maurice Moore presided, and reports on the Spring Conference in Concord, N. H. last week were given by vice-president, C. R. Darby, and past president G. Earl Heath.

Visiting Rotarians present at the meeting were George Allison, Gordon McKenny, Herbert Marsh and Lynton Wells, all of Newport, Vt. Miss Jeanette Brainard of Derby acted as pianist for the singing, which was led by C. R. MacLean.

"The Journey Of A Word" By M. Turpin Of The Bell Telephone Co., Was Enjoyed By Waterloo Kiwanians At Meeting

Waterloo, May 1 — A large number of members were on hand Tuesday night at the Waterloo Kiwanis Club for the regular weekly meeting, along with five guests, Messrs. Thomas Wilkison, Gordon Ladd and Gerry Hope, all of Waterloo, and Kiwanian Mort Bradley, of the Granby Club.

The main point of interest was a lecture and demonstration on the Bell Telephone Company, entitled, "The Journey of a Word," by Mr. Marcel Toupin, of the Telephone Information Department.

Mr. Toupin, who was introduced by Kiwanian Walter Readshaw, gave a brief but very interesting and instructive talk on the evolution of the telephone, and had a complete set-up as a model to illustrate his talk to the members.

Combining his talk with humorous anecdotes the speaker was received exceptionally well by all, who were fortunate enough to hear him, and his illustrated talk was educational and interesting at the same time.

Kiwanian Paul Emile Fortinably thanked the speaker for his fine address.

Kiwanian Frank Allen, president of the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, thanked all members who had co-operated so well in making the Blood Donor's Clinic such a marked success, on Friday, at St. Luke's Hall, when a total of 143 donors were passed through the clinic.

This was better than anticipated and as good as hoped for the stated, and much of the credit goes to the manufacturers, who co-operated so well in this important part of the work of the Red Cross.

It was announced by Kiwanian Duncan Dalton that the Shefford County Agriculture Society has granted permission to the Kiwanis Club to erect a permanent refreshment booth on the fair grounds to be twenty-five feet square, placed fifteen feet from the end of the grandstand at the north end. It must be kept open from seven in the morning until eight in the evening, serving meals during the fair, and all proceeds must go toward the Youth Welfare work in the town of Waterloo. With these points accepted, it is expected that work on this booth will begin at once and the members themselves will attend to its erection.

Next week, it was announced, that the guest speaker would be Elder Brock Wells, missionary in East Africa, who will give a talk on his work on that continent. Mr. Wells is the elder son of the late Hubert Wells, a member of the Kiwanis Club, who recently died. It is expected that this talk of Elder Wells will be of interest to all members, and another large attendance is expected.

THE AUXILIARY OF THE CANADIAN LEGION

On Saturday afternoon, in the Canadian Legion Hall, on Lewis Street, the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion held a very successful salad tea.

A special feature of the afternoon was the rendition of several vocal solos by Mrs. Donald Legge, accompanied at the piano by her husband, editor of the Granby

MILAN

Miss Mary MacLeod, Mrs. David A. Nicholson and Mr. Norman MacDonald attended a birthday party given in honor of Mrs. Donald Shaw, a former resident of Milan, at her home in Lennoxville. The best wishes of this community are extended to her.

Miss Alene Graham spent a week-end in Sherbrooke with friends.

Miss Christie MacLeod, R.N., of Sherbrooke; Mr. William MacLeod and son, of Canterbury, were calling on friends here.

Due to the serious illness and subsequent death of her niece, Mrs. R. I. Bullard, Mrs. William Altonbach, R.N., of Roslyndale, Mass., spent several days at the home of her sister, Mrs. K. D. MacLeod.

The sincere sympathy of this community is extended to the bereaved husband and family of the late Mrs. R. Irving Bullard.

Mrs. George N. MacDonald entertained the "Carry On" Society at her home. The president, Mrs. David A. Nicholson, opened the "Leader Mail." Mrs. Legge, who had not been heard here before, showed remarkable ability as a soloist and her numbers, with which she was most generous, were all very well received by the large group present.

An interesting feature was the drawing of a hand-made hooked rug, which was won by Mrs. Noad, of Waterloo.

The tea table was presided over by Mrs. C. G. Hall and Mrs. Walter Legge, and the president of the Auxiliary, Mrs. A. V. Beale, met and welcomed all guests on their arrival at the hall.

A table of hand-made articles was well patronized, and it was announced that satisfactory financial results were obtained from this venture.

meeting with devotions and conducted the business meeting. Plans were made for a quilting at the home of Mrs. A. W. Murray during the following week. A social hour was enjoyed, while the hostess, assisted by Mrs. David Nicholson and Mrs. A. W. Murray, served refreshments.

The Milan Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society met with Mrs. Henry Moulard, Mrs. MacArthur, president, was in charge of the meeting. A study period following the study book on Japan, was observed. During the business period tentative plans were made to attend the annual Presbyterial meeting to be held in Quebec in May. The supply allocation was ordered paid and a quilt recently completed was displayed and priced. At the close of the meeting tea was served by the hostess in honor of her mother, Mrs. C. MacArthur, who was observing her birthday.

NEW EXTRA EARLY HYBRID SUGAR PRINCE SWEET CORN

Of supreme value in short season districts. Twelve years in course of development. Exclusively tested in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, proving superior to all other varieties of sweet corn. Of special interest too for other areas for first picking, either home or market. Can be planted earlier than other corns due to greater hardiness and resistance to cold weather. Deliciously tender for table use and holds its fine quality over a longer period for canning. Deep, rich golden yellow, 12 to 16 rows; also 8 to 10 rows. Remotely high sugar content, usually 16 1/2%, and has been recorded as high as 22%. Rated a heavy cropper for the early class. Supply limited. Order from this advertisement (1/4 lb. 30¢) (1/2 lb. 50¢) (1 lb. $1.00) postpaid. (5 lbs. or more at 70¢ per lb. by express not prepaid.)

Roy Wouters Hammers George Ross Into Submission To Cop Canadian Middleweight Boxing Championship

Halifax, May 1.—(P)—Determined and methodical Roy Wouters, of Vancouver and Montreal, a 5-6 underdog, ended George Ross' 20-month reign as Canadian middleweight boxing king here Saturday night by hammering the former West Bay Road, N.S., farm boy into submission in the ninth round of their 12-round championship battle.

Some 4,500 fans were both startled and disappointed when it was announced just before the start of the 10th round that Ross was unable to continue. Wouters, who scaled 158 to Ross' 156½, was declared winner by a ninth round technical knockout.

Promoter Gussie MacLellan, of Glace Bay, N.S., also Ross' manager, said a rematch would be held in a Nova Scotia ring within the next three months. Wouters' contract stipulated that if he won Ross got first crack at the title within six months. Both will be allowed tune-up fights.

The win was the highlight of Wouters' four-year career and his 48th in 54 bouts. The solidly-built, wavy-haired Western Canadian champion made Rene Chauvin, his veteran Montreal handler, happy. Before the match the excitable and shrewd Chauvin, who piloted Danny Webb to the Canadian welterweight championship, told reporters he was sure he had another champion in the 25-year-old Wouters.

Luke Appling Returns To His Favored Spot

Chicago, May 1.—(P)—Luke Appling finally made his 1950 bow as a Chicago White Sox shortstop in American League competition against Detroit here yesterday.

Appling's No. 29th game at shortstop when Luke shifted from first base to shortstop in the sixth inning of the first game of yesterday's double-header against Detroit.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, May 1.—(P)—You'd think a ball club would be happy to have one Robin Roberts, but the Phillies figure they'll have another before long. No. 2 is Buzz Bower, who was shipped to Toronto Maple Leafs for further seasoning this spring. Like Roberts, Bowers played for John Kobs' Michigan State University team and he played summer ball under Michigan's Ray Fisher at Montclair, N.J., in the Independent Northern League.

Unlike Robin, Buzz turned pro when he became ineligible, under Big Ten regulations, because of his summer activity. He didn't get a $25,000 bonus. The first time he faced professional opposition in Florida, Bowers shut out the Red Sox for three innings. And the Phils tell with amazement how Manager Eddie Sawyer told him to do a little running in the outfield, then had to send a message to slow down when he was observed sprinting like mad across the field. In his first International League start for Toronto, Bowers again turned in a shutout. That's a better-than-fair start.

Not Buildy
In American boxing they have a Managers Guild, a Trainers Guild and even a Matchmakers Guild. But our English cousins have gone one step further by organizing the British Fight Fans Union. Next think likely will be a form of video viewers league—and insist on giveaway programs or puppet boxers.

Monday Matinee
Ivy Williamson, Wisconsin football coach, is threatening to turn away from the two-platoon system in the belief that he can get better results with two-way players. And also because he's a bit short of talent. Hank Oana, who had his share of fun as a baseball player, got so annoyed when a couple of his Austin (Big Upstate League) players violated training rules that he took a belt at one of them and suspended both. "It just convinces me," said Hank, "that you can't be a good fellow and be a manager."

Around the Home...

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

Our new neighbours moved in yesterday and we had fun watching them start immediately to fix up the interior to suit themselves. With the house shortage being what it is, I didn't think it would take long to find a tenant. I have met the man of the house, "Red". Breast, but not his good wife—she was too busy! The two robins must have liked the shelter I put up for them in the early spring as they have decided to stay.

Most of our feathered songsters will be returning soon and looking for a nesting place. Help ease their housing problem by building one or two of the houses illustrated. Weathered wood without paint is a satisfactory building material. It's wise to stay fairly close to the dimensions as given in the booklet "Around the Home".

Doorways

Does your doorway extend a welcome? It's a most important feature of the home that can be made very attractive by an arrangement of flowering shrubs for summer, ornamental evergreens for winter effect, and climbers. Perennial plants are best for the man who owns his property, annuals for the one who rents.

Rock Gardens

I spent two enjoyable hours in The Botanical Gardens last week admiring their beauty, listing some of the plants that are in bloom even at this early date, and getting some ideas for rock gardens. When asked what can be done with a sloping bank my usual suggestion is to build a rock garden. When carefully planned and executed, it's a decided asset to your property. You'll find directions and a list of plants that can be used in the booklet "Around the Home".

Montreal Dog Wins Breed Honors At Show

Montreal, May 1. — (P) — Ben Braggie What-A-Lad, owned by F. W. Fraser of Montreal won the best-in-show for breed honors last night at the Ladies Kennel Club of Canada all-breed championship dog show here.

The Scottie bested six other group winners to capture its third straight championship in nine months.

Hoven Mardi of Car V in Rob was chosen reserve champion of the remaining group winners. A Daschund, it is owned by Irene Burden of Toronto.

Connie Mack Returns Home For Rest Period

Philadelphia, May 1. — (P) — Connie Mack, tired out by a round of events in connection with his 50th year as manager of Philadelphia Athletics, is home to rest.

Mack arrived in Philadelphia from Boston yesterday and went straight home, where he placed himself in the competent hands of Mrs. Mack.

The wife of the 87-year-old manager prescribed complete rest.

"He's just overly tired," said Mrs. Mack, "and I think he knows it."

"He'll feel better in a couple of

Stampeders Have Six Former Cup Winners On Club; Youth Against Expeience Seems To Be Byword

Calgary, May 1. — (P) — Twelve years ago Bunny Dame helped Trail Smoke Eaters win the Allan Cup. In 1946 he was with Stampeders when Calgary won its only Canadian senior hockey title.

Today, Dame at 35 is hopeful that he may be with an Allan Cup-winning team for the third time in 12 years.

And Bunny isn't the only "Old Hand" with the Stamps. Goalie Russ Dertell, Archie Wilder, Julian Sawchuk, Doug Cairns and Dunc Grant also were members of Calgary's 1946 Dominion championship crew.

A national Hockey League scout probably wouldn't find much to get excited about in the outfit which takes on Toronto Marlboros in the opener of the best-of-seven Allan Cup final.

One of the Stampeders are closer to 30 years of age than 25. The team average is 26. Only defenceman Hughie Coffin is rated a big time prospect.

During the regular Western days and will be back with the team.

Boston's Shellacking Of Athletics No New Experience For Luckless A's; They're Accustomed To Bad Beatings

When bigger and better horse collars are fashioned, it's a pretty safe bet Philadelphia Athletics will suffer.

When a team wins by a top-sided shutout score, the A's are almost certain to be on the receiving end.

Until yesterday, 14-0 represented the largest shutout score in the American League in the last ten years. One such game was played in 1943. Another in 1944. The Athletics were the victims both times.

The luckless Mackmen made those two games seem like pitcher's battles yesterday. In the first game of the American League doubleheader the final score was Boston 19, Philadelphia 0. The Red Sox also won the nightcap, 6-5.

Boston missed by two runs in equalling the record league high of 21-0. Who do you think lost that one? Why, the A's of course. Aug. 13, 1939, Red Ruffing of New York whitewashed Philadelphia 21-0.

A 21-0 count also appeared in the box scores the first year the American loop was considered a major circuit. Sept. 15, 1901, Detroit, behind pitcher Ed Siever, whipped Cleveland by that score.

A Boston crowd of 34,697 watched the Red Sox maul four Philly hurlers for 17 hits, good for 34 total bases in the opener. Ted Williams, back in action after missing seven of the last eight games because of the grippe, blasted two home runs. Each came with two men on base. He drove in a seventh run with a single. Vern Stephens and Bobby Doerr also homered. Joe Dobson doled out five singles for his second triumph. Dom DiMaggio and Johnny Pesky scored nine runs between them.

Sore-armed Dick Fowler, the Toronto nightstand, made his first start for the A's and was tagged for seven runs in the two innings he worked. The Sox slugger Harry Byrd, Joe Coleman and Bobby Shantz for 11 runs in the fourth. Coleman, another sore-armed gent, also was making his first appearance of the season.

Boston built up a 5-0 lead for southpaw Chuck Stobbs in the first three innings of the second contest. The young bonus pitcher weakened gradually, putting the tying run on base in the ninth. Al Papai took over and retired the next three batters. Hank Wyse was the loser.

The Red Sox now have beaten the A's 14 straight times at Fenway Park.

Chicago White Sox emerged with a victory and a tie in their doubleheader with the league-leading Detroit Tigers. After lefty Bill Wight hurled a two-hit, 5-0 triumph in the opener, the White Sox overcame a 7-0 deficit to gain a 7-7 tie before darkness halted the contest at the end of nine innings.

Local Golfers Win Invitation Tourney

Although there was snow on the nearby mountains, the fairways were dry, green and hard at the Orleans, Vt., golf club yesterday.

A sixteen-man team, representing the Hillcrest Ski Club, eked out a win over the Lyndonville, Vt., Outing Club team in an annual invitation inter-club get-together.

The fairways and greens on the picturesque nine-hole course were in good condition.

Considering it was the first tournament of the season and the first game for many, some good scores were turned in.

Kermit Grant, of Lyndonville, who organized the tourney, had a 77 while other low scorers included, Gerry Huot, top-notch Magog club-swinging; Harry Fowles, professional at the Sherbrooke Country Club; D. Royer, St. Johnsbury, Vt., champion; and Real Dussault, of the S.C.C.

Montreal Canadiens And Regina Come To Neutral Ice For Third Game Of Memorial Cup Playoffs

Toronto, May 1. — (P) — Memorial Cup hockey will be making a return to Toronto Tuesday night when Montreal Canadiens take Regina Pats in the third game of the best-of-seven junior classic. The first two games were at Montreal.

The two clubs arrived here today. Toronto fans, always red-hot on the fast and furious junior brand of hockey, will watch them battle in the first final series game here since Port Arthur Bruins polished off Barrie Flyers in the 1948 championship set.

They'll probably see something too. Montreal, leading the series with a 2-0 edge, just squeezed by, 8-7, in the opening game and had to crash in four last-frame goals before taking Saturday's tilt, 5-2.

It won't, however, be the first look Toronto fans have had at the classy junior Habitués. The Montrealers played two games here in their semi-final series with Guelph Biltmore. Toronto fans were impressed by the speed and aggressiveness shown by the lighter Canadiens.

Bob Tyler, playing superbly in the nets for Regina, held off the Montreal marksmen for a single goal in the first two frames at 2-1 for the Pats.

Then a shifty piece of centre machinery named Billy Goudo personally wrapped up the contest for the Canadiens. He whistled in the tying counter midway through the last period and followed Art Rose's winner with his second, Jacques Nadon added a second insurance tally 45 seconds before the final bell.

There won't be any change in the officiating. Al Pickard, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced at Regina last night that Vic Lindquist and Windy Lyndon, both of Winnipeg, will continue to call the series.

ONE IN A SERIES OF BASEBALL THRILLS

WHAT A Home Run!... SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT!

It's opening day at Jersey City, with Montreal Royals visiting the Little Giants. Charlie Thompson, youthful Royal catcher, is called in to pinch-hit for the injured Toby Atwell. Nothing to worry about there, think the Jersey City fans — after all, Thompson couldn't hit for anything better than a single all last season! But Charlie connects solidly with the first ball pitched — and sends it soaring over the right field fence!

Several Kentucky Eligibles To Strut Stuff In One-Mile Derby Trial Tomorrow; $100,000 In Play

Louisville, Ky., May 1. — (P) — out to meet Middleground in the trial.

There should be at least four other derby eligibles in a trial, including the Brookmade entry of Greek Ship and Sunglow. A. E. Reuben's Lot O'Luck and Wilburton Farm's Trumpet King.

Other possibilities, all Derby eligibles, are Calumet Farm's All Blue, Reverie Knoll Farm's French Admiral, William Veeneman's Black George and J. Graham Brown's Rayloper.

E. C. Dobson would start Wisconsin Boy in the trial but the colt wasn't made eligible. Dobson said it's still a 50-50 chance whether Wisconsin Boy goes in the 1 1/4-mile derby. He stopped badly in recent races.

The current Derby favorite—Your Host—breezed three-eighths of a mile yesterday in the rain in 27 seconds. His chances in the mud are unknown for the thoroughbred, owned by Hollywood movie-man Bill Goetz, has never raced on an off track.

The $100,000-added Derby is expected to draw between 10 and 15 horses, including Your Host, Middleground, The Mark, Lot O'Luck, All Blue, Theory, Sunglow, Greek Ship, Trumpet King, T. C. Chenery's Hill Prince, Tom Gray's Oil Capital, C. V. Whitney's Mr. Trouble, Hal Price Healey's Lotowith, Clifford Moores' Hawley and Walter Fugate's Hallieboy.

Dick Wakefield's Case Looks Like Big Problem

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 1. — (P) — Rejecting one American League club and rejected by another, outfielder Dick Wakefield now is a bigger problem child than ever to organized baseball.

Once a Detroit Tiger bonus player, Moody, 29-year-old Dick insisted he won't go back to the New York Yankees who obtained him in a trade last winter.

"Obviously, I'm not wanted," he said. The Yanks tried last week to deal him off to Chicago.

But Wakefield isn't going to play for the White Sox, either.

Chicago General Manager Frank C. Lane made that clear when he called off the Wakefield for Johnny Ostroski and cash bargain after Dick refused for two days to report to the Sox without a salary boost.

How about the minor leagues, for instance New York's American Association club at Kansas City?

"I would quit baseball first," snapped Wakefield.

In New York, the Yankee management had no comment on the impasse.

The New York-Chicago was called off because Wakefield wanted his old Detroit salary restored. That would be $5,500 more than the $17,000 the Yankees agreed to pay him.

Johnny Greco Favored To K.O. Eddie Giosa

Philadelphia, May 1. — (P) — Johnny Greco, Canadian welterweight champion, meets Philadelphia's Eddie Giosa tonight in a 10-round bout at the arena.

Both recently pounded out easy — and convincing — victories over former lightweight champion Bob Montgomery.

The Montrealer decisioned Montgomery but Giosa knocked out the former champion, a feat that prompted the South Philadelphia to change his style from a hit-and-run fighter to an aggressive puncher.

Greco will outweigh the 143-pound Giosa by four or five pounds. He'll count on an explosive hook-swing to finish off Giosa.
