FIGHTING RENEWED IN PALESTINE AS ARAB BULLETS KILL BRITISHER

British Troops Return Fire on Rioters at Kubatia, North Palestine, Killing Two and Wounding Three—British Constable Fatally Wounded at Old City of Jerusalem by Arabs in Retaliation for Killing of Arab by Police—Authorities Redouble Efforts to Restore Peace in Race Clashes.

Jerusalem, May 28.—British troops returned the fire of rioters at Kubatia, north Palestine, today, killing two and wounding three.

Officers in command of the British forces reported they had suffered no casualties in the brisk clash.

The shooting brought the death list for the day to four. Earlier in the day a British policeman was wounded fatally in the old city of Jerusalem.

(The Palace agency said the shooting of the constable, Robert Beard, was believed to have been in retaliation for the killing of an Arab by another policeman. The two killings occurred in quick succession at St. Stephen's gate, in the old city.)

The policeman, shot in the stomach, died soon after being removed to a hospital.

Earlier in the day, with calm apparently restored to Palestine by the rigorous campaign against terrorists throughout the Holy Land, police had disregarded their steel helmets in favor of sun hats.

Arab newspapers decided to strike Friday, Saturday and Sunday and to send a memorandum to the British administration demanding its withdrawal from the Levant Fair which started its fifth week today in the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv.

Jaffa, the predominantly Arab city bordering on Tel Aviv, passed its most quiet night in a week, but hoodlums scattered nails in the Jerusalem streets in an attempt to stop motor traffic.

Jaffa authorities, who made it a standing rule to reply to each bullet from a sniper's gun with a burst of fifty machine-gun shots, were confident they could maintain order after three previous nights of heavy sniping and bomb-throwing did little damage.

An official casualty list, numbering forty-eight dead, was issued, but the exact number of victims was likely never to be known because of the Arab custom of carrying off their dead unburied.

Rioters continued their attempts at sabotage on railway and communications lines, but thus far all charges of dynamite had been discovered before any damage was done.

BRITISH FORCES RECEIVE FURTHER RE-INFORCEMENT

Jerusalem, May 28.—The rigorous campaign instituted by British authorities against Arab anti-Jewish terrorists throughout the Holy Land restored apparent calm to Palestine today. Police persisted in a round-up of arms and ammunition in Arab villages, however, after making a number of new arrests.

An official survey of the situation since April 9 in the Arab demonstrations against Jewish immigration showed:

Dead—forty-eight, of whom one was a European.

Injured—331, of whom seven were European.

Arrested—1,244, of whom 969 were Arabs, 275 Jews.

Some of those arrested early in the disorders have been released as the situation has become more quiet. The force of eight hundred British soldiers which left Cairo yesterday for Palestine would bring the military strength in and around Jerusalem to about six thousand men.

"MAN OF A THOUSAND BIRTH-DAYS" CRITICALLY ILL.

Georgetown, Ont., May 28.—Georgetown's "man of a thousand birthdays" lay at his home today in critical condition as a result of a stroke. Thomas Coe, blind for nearly a score of years, made it his hobby to memorize the birthdays of 1,000 of his friends and acquaintances and wish them a happy birthday annually, either in person, by telephone or by messenger.

THREE CANDIDATES NAMED IN VICTORIA BY-ELECTION

Victoria, May 28.—Three candidates have been selected to contest the June 8th Victoria federal by-election, necessitated by the recent death in Ottawa of D. B. Plunkett, Conservative. C. J. McDowell, Conservative, was named last night as Liberal candidate, while Dr. S. F. Tormie, Conservative, and Professor King Gordon, Co-Operative Common Wealth Federation, were named previously.

THE WEATHER

PARTLY CLOUDY AND COOL.

A moderate disturbance, centered near the Bay of Fundy, is moving slowly northward, while high pressure extends from Hudson Bay southward to Lake Michigan with low pressure over the far west portion of the continent. Showers have occurred in most districts of eastern Canada and it has become quite cool in Ontario and Quebec. The weather has been fair and extremely warm throughout the West with record-breaking temperatures in some parts of Saskatchewan.

Forecast: Fresh northwest winds; partly cloudy and cool with some light scattered showers; probably gradually clearing; Friday—northwest winds; partly cloudy and cool.

Temperatures yesterday: Maximum, 70; minimum, 50.

Same day last year: Maximum, 84; minimum, 70.

MERCURY TOUCHED 102 DEGREES YESTERDAY AT BATTLEFORD, SASK.

Winnipeg, May 28.—Prospects of continued hot weather faced residents of the Prairie provinces today as they dug into trunks and store rooms for summer clothing following a day of extreme heat.

Battleford, Sask., endured a high temperature yesterday of 102 degrees, the top in the Dominion. Edmonton's 94 degrees was the hottest recorded so early in the season in twenty years, while Saskatoon reported 98 degrees, Prince Albert, Sask., and Medicine Hat, Alta., 96, Regina 94 and Winnipeg 92.

The forecast was for continued fair and "decidedly warm" weather, with a few scattered showers in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

SEVEN ARE REPORTED KILLED AS TRAIN STRUCK AUTO.

Chicago, May 28.—Seven persons were reported killed today when a Chicago bound passenger train demolished an automobile at a crossing in suburban Calumet City. The dead were reported to be two children, four women and a man.

STRONG OPPOSITION STILL FACING UNITED STATES RELIEF PROPOSALS

Long Debate Expected if Organized Opposition Arises to Amendment Authorizing Continuance of Passamaquoddy Total Power and Florida Ship Canal Proposals—Deficiency Bill Provides $2,369,000,000 for Relief—Tax Situation and Townsend Feud Also Serving to Delay Adjournment of Congress.

Washington, May 28.—After much preliminary argument in committee room and corridor, the Senate came today to formal debate on the relief fund for the next fiscal year.

Leaders predicted the $2,369,000,000 relief-deficiency bill, containing $1,425,000,000 for the United States jobs programme, would go through before the week-end.

Some other Senators foresaw longer debate if Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, should go through with a reported plan to attack an amendment empowering President Roosevelt to continue work on the Passamaquoddy tidal power project in Maine and the Florida ship canal, providing engineers approved.

Congress so far has turned a cold shoulder to more funds for these projects and Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, gave notice he would fight any effort to revive them.

The tax situation, another key to the problem of quick adjournment of Congress, was surrounded by some confusion. There was bitter dissension in the Senate finance committee over President Roosevelt's demand that the committee's tentative revenue programme be changed to provide more revenue.

As for the feud between a House investigating committee and Dr. F. E. Townsend, old age pension leader, the Capital expected a new climax today. The committee sought quick action on its resolution asking that Dr. Townsend be cited for contempt for walking out of the committee and that he be turned over to a Federal Court for trial.

The treasury was busy preparing today for a gigantic financial operation. It plans to offer $2,050,000,000 in securities Monday, of which about half will be used to cover maturing obligations. The rest will be new cash to meet current needs, including cash payment of the bonus.

DEMANDS REDUCTION IN GOVERNMENT EXPENSES

New York, May 28.—An attack on attempts to extend what he called political control over United States business and a plea for lower taxation were made today by Eugene G. Grace, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, in opening the spring meeting of the trade organization.

Approximately 1,800 leaders of the industry from all parts of the country gathered to discuss various problems, including foreign imports, labor relations and technical developments.

"While business generally has shown improvement," Grace, who is also president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, said, "Progress toward sound and permanent recovery is being seriously delayed by continued experimentations and failure to recognize the proper function, needs and accomplishments of business and industry."

Discussing taxes, Grace said that whatever progress industry is able to make toward lower costs and prices is in a large measure being offset by increased taxes, "which is an inevitable result of governmental regulation and control."

YOUTH SUES SCHOOL BOARD

Saskatoon, May 28.—As a result of a rugby accident on the Nutana Collegiate Institute grounds here last September, David Lloyd Walsh, junior player, has entered suit against the High School Board for general and special damages amounting to almost $800.

PLAN FEDERAL INVESTIGATION OF TERRORISTS

Attorney-General Cummings Will Decide Today whether Activities of Black Legion in More than a Dozen States Justifies Intervention by Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Detroit, May 28.—The Black Legion, which guarded its secrets with scourge and pistol and boasted that it could mobilize millions of armed men in twenty-four hours, faced the possibility of United States federal as well as state investigations today.

The "mobilization," Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea said members told him, was to be ordered in the event of a Communist uprising.

In Washington, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings indicated he would decide today whether acts of terrorism attributed to the night riders in more than a dozen states justified intervention by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Before Congress was a resolution introduced by representative Dickstein, Democrat, New York, requesting a committee investigation of the Black Legion, among other organizations.

In Detroit, the Wayne County Circuit Bench planned to decide by mid-day whether to order the grand jury investigation asked by Michigan's Attorney-General David H. Crowley of violent deaths, floggings and firing of buildings in the metropolitan area.

In Cleveland, police reopened their investigations of two unsolved deaths an anonymous telephone caller had blamed the Black Legion.

In Columbus, O., records of a legislative investigation a year ago disclosed an allegation that the night riders were responsible for threats to Kidnap Governor Martin L. Davey's daughter, Evangeline, among other acts of intimidation and violence.

In Pontiac, Mich., a citizens' committee undertook an investigation of reports ascribing two deaths, a flogging and the burning of homes to at least two suspected Communist agents to a secret organization similar to, if not affiliated with, the Black Legion.

WEATHER AIDS QUEEN MARY ON MAIDEN TRIP

Representatives of Liner Still Insistent No Efforts Will Be Made to Lift Blue Riband This Trip.

Aboard the Queen Mary En Route to New York, May 28.—Stopping at her speed gradually, Britain's greatest liner progressed smoothly today on her maiden voyage to the United States under conditions favorable thus far for a record trip.

Whether the Queen Mary would attempt definitely to win the blue ribbon for trans-Atlantic speed her first time out remained an open question—apparently not yet decided by officers.

One of the liner's representatives reiterated previous official assertions no record trip would be made this inaugural trip, but an impression prevailed that this decision might be reversed if favorable conditions persisted.

Officers said weather prospects for the voyage ahead to the west were good on the basis of present reports.

A more definite announcement as to a speed attempt was expected before the trip progressed much farther.

Second only to hope for a record passengers' interest centred on how the Queen Mary would react as she approached her top speed of about thirty-two knots.

On the first leg of the trip, across the English Channel from Southampton to Cherbourg, the liner attained a speed of twenty-eight knots last night, with extremely little vibration.

As she turned out at Cherbourg early today and steamed west into the Atlantic, the vibration at this stage of the voyage had been less than normal, in the opinion of some experienced travellers, for a vessel of 80,773 tons.

After a spectacular demonstration from spectators on land, sea and air, at her start at 4:54 p.m. (11:34 p.m., E.D.T.) yesterday, she swung into the channel.

She departed from Cherbourg at 12:35 a.m. today (7:35 p.m., Wednesday, E.D.T.).

During the night, all public rooms of the liner were crowded, the passengers moving through the many brightly-lighted special lounges and decks.

Today was the first of the four days at sea. The French liner Normandie's record westward crossing was made in four days, three hours and thirteen minutes from Bishop's Rock, at the west entrance of the English Channel, to Ambrose Lightship at the entrance to New York harbor.

LABOR TROUBLE IS AFFECTING TWENTY STATES

Barbers, Longshoremen, Agricultural Workers, Steel Mill Employees and Cranemen All Participating in Walk-Outs in Different Parts of United States.

New York, May 28.—Strikes in United States industry and agriculture were in progress in twenty states today, marked by scattered disorder.

Agreements reached in some states were offset by fresh troubles elsewhere. The number of workers affected was estimated by labor leaders at more than 46,000.

Ilion, N.Y., police said one hundred uniformed private detectives who had been sent to guard the Remington Rand plant had been recalled by company officials who said it would re-open today.

Three men were arrested on a charge of assaulting a worker at the plant which was surrounded by one thousand pickets.

Dallas, Tex., police patrolled taxi company offices after two passengers had been jerked from taxis by sympathizers with six hundred striking cab drivers. All movement of cabs stopped.

A strike by members of the International Longshoremen's Union at Milwaukee, Wis., held up the handling of cargoes on two package freighters. Union leaders said there were four hundred strikers.

A major settlement was reached at Bedford, Ind., where a committee of operators and workmen announced the end of the strike of crane operators in the Bedford-Bloomington limestone district which had thrown 2,500 men out of work since May 8. Committee members said the operators would go back to work at their old wage scale.

Little headway had been made toward settlement of the barbers' strike in New York, in which union officials said 7,500 were participating in the strikes of three thousand and Arkansas tenant farmers, one thousand celery field workers in California, and 5,500 employees of the Wheeling Steel Corporation at Portsmouth, Ohio.

Interest Coupons Due June 1 Will Be Met in Full, After which Interest Will Accrue at 2½ Per Cent., According to Provincial Treasurer.

Edmonton, May 28.—Issuance of certificates as payment to workers on certain Alberta road construction projects will be inaugurated by the Social Credit Government but the date for starting the scheme is still to be decided.

Premier Aberhart, announcing the plan last night said it was his assurance of certificates would increase purchasing power and the flow of credit in the province.

The certificates would be issued each week as wages and a two per cent. stamp, reckoned at two per cent. of the value of the certificate, would be put on each certificate each week, Mr. Aberhart said. The Government hopes to redeem the certificates at the end of each month, he added.

"We intend to be able to redeem the certificates at the end of each month, thus providing the currency for wholesalers and retailers who make payments outside the province," the Premier declared.

He said the plan would be started in connection with projects under the Public Works Department, mainly road work, but would not be applied in construction of main highways.

The Premier refused to divulge other details of the plan on which Hon. Lucien Maynard, minister without portfolio, has been working for some time.

SOCIAL CREDIT PARTY ORGANIZED IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Vancouver, May 28.—Social Credit was officially a political party in British Columbia today with Premier William Aberhart, leader of Alberta's Social Credit Government, as its first honorary vice-president. Representing eleven provincial constituencies, fifty-five delegates gathered here for their first provincial convention. A. D. Creer, Vancouver, was elected president.

NEW BRITISH COLONIAL SECRETARY NAMED.

London, May 28.—Prime Minister Baldwin today named William George Arthur Ormsby-Gore, former Postmaster-General, as Colonial Secretary.

with a film company in New York for four years, and came to England to find work with a British film concern. I did not really mean to stay aboard—at first.

"But when I had been on the ship a short while the temptation became overwhelming," she concluded smilingly.

Miss Siegel did not announce her immediate plans, but she is expected to return to London as soon as possible.

CORONATION OF KING EDWARD FIXED FOR MAY 12TH

London, May 28.—Prime Minister Baldwin today set May 12, 1937, as the day on which King Edward VIII will be formally invested with the authority of the British throne in a centuries-old coronation ceremony.

The announcement was made in a special issue of the Official Gazette. The date will be officially proclaimed at colorful ceremonies in the heart of London tomorrow.

Active preparations will begin at once for the vast array of pageantry and ceremonial that will mark the event, which will reach its climax in Westminster Abbey when the Archbishop of Canterbury places the famous jewelled crown upon the King's head.

BOYS EXCEL IN COOKING CLASS.

Arkansas City, Kan., May 28.—Thirteen boys enrolled in a junior high school cooking class and all of them passed, none with a grade below average—thus making a better showing than was turned in by the school's cooking classes for girls.

DUTY EXEMPTIONS FOR RETURNING TOURISTS THREATEN DIFFICULTIES

Opposition Members Demand Privilege Accorded Tourists Be Amended to Prohibit Liquor Importation—Final Tariff Changes Proposed in Budget Speech Passed After Brief Debate—Ontario Liberal Member Supports Opposition in Criticizing Reduction in Farm Implement Duties.

Ottawa, May 28.—Another milestone of the parliamentary session was passed yesterday when the last of the tariff changes in the budget was approved. Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Finance, got his budget through the House with unusually little debate this session. The formal budget debate was short and discussion of the tariff changes was limited.

A final protest against the reduction in farm implement duties without adequate investigation was entered yesterday by W. R. Macdonald, Liberal member for Brantford. He said it was the wrong way to make tariff changes as there was no telling what the effect might be on employment in implement factories.

At the same time Mr. Macdonald expressed the hope a Tariff Board investigation would yet be held. He expressed confidence the Government would correct the wrong done if an investigation showed there was a wrong.

Complications developed over the clause providing for free entry of tourists' purchases up to $100 in value. The clause restricts the exemption on liquor to a quart and opposition members claimed that under other laws it was illegal to bring any liquor into Canada. They said the clause would be misleading to a layman and suggested it should conform to other legislation and prohibit the entry of any liquor.

Mr. Dunning and Hon. J. L. Halsey, Minister of National Revenue, were unwilling to make a change, although they admitted the point had given them a great deal of trouble. They promised to consider the points raised further and announced that customs officers in any case would take steps to warn tourists against bringing liquor back from their trips abroad.

Today the House considers changes in the income tax law and estimates.

SENATE COMMITTEE GIVEN AMENDMENTS TO B.N.A. ACT

Ottawa, May 28.—Opposition of Conservative Senators to the resolution amending the British North America Act with a view to broadening the taxation powers of the provinces continued in the Upper House yesterday. Before it was decided to refer the resolution to the Banking and Commerce Committee the Senate had heard criticisms from Hon. W. A. Giesbach, Conservative, Edmonton, and Hon. C. E. Tanner, Conservative, Picton.

Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Government House leader, rallied to the support of the resolution. The committee will examine the resolution in detail and may seek advice on possible repercussions.

Senator Arthur Hardy's six months' hiatus to the bill incorporating the Independent Order of the Sons of Italy was withdrawn yesterday, the Brockville Senator declaring his unwillingness to be a party to anything that might give rise to international complications.

A motion for the repatriation of Canadians in the United States moved by Hon. Arthur Sauve, Conservative, St. Eustache, was continued. This remained for further discussion.

St. Boniface, Man., May 28.—Five firemen had recovered today after being overcome by heat and smoke when an empty warehouse on Archibald street, property of the city, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin yesterday. The prostrated firemen included Chief Arthur Spence, who required treatment at the hospital.

LEGISLATURE TURNS DOWN ANNUAL PROPOSAL TO ENFRANCHISE WOMEN

Government Members Voted Solidly Against Motion to Extend Vote in Quebec Provincial Affairs to Women, Rejecting Bill by Forty-Three to Twenty-Four—Premier Taschereau Warns Against Dangers of Holding Up Budget After End of Fiscal Year—Declares Tactics Employed by Opposition Only Motivated by a "Thirst for Power."

Quebec, May 28.—Investigation of the public accounts of the Quebec Government will continue in spite of threats received since the inquiry started by Opposition leader Duplessis, member of the Quebec Legislature's Public Accounts Committee.

In the Legislature the Opposition leader said last night that "since we have started the investigation into the public accounts of the Province I have received many threatening letters. But I want to tell the Government right now that any threats or menaces which they might inspire will not deter me from continuing the work I have undertaken."

Mr. Duplessis' remarks came after Premier Taschereau warned the Opposition members they would be responsible if Quebec's economic life was paralyzed by failure of the Legislature to adopt the budget by the end of the fiscal year, June 30th.

Earlier, the bill to enfranchise women, the measure which has cropped up annually in the Legislature and been defeated each time, was again turned down by a vote of forty-three to twenty-four.

The Premier declared the Liberal party was in power in Quebec and intended to remain at the helm even if the sitting of the Legislature had to last all summer. He said tactics employed by the Opposition were only motivated by a "thirst for power."

"We don't care if it lasts until next year," replied Opposition leader. "We have pledged ourselves to reveal details of the maladministration of the province under the Taschereau regime and will continue investigations until such time as the actions of all the members who have been guilty of exploiting the people have been brought to light."

The Premier told the Opposition members that the popular vote was against them in the last provincial election and said that the delays the Opposition were putting in the way of the Government were hindering adoption of the budget.

"Make all the objections you wish," said the Premier. "We are ready to remain here and will remain here, and if the public services suffer you will take the responsibility."

Failure to adopt the budget before the end of the fiscal year would paralyze the economic life of the province, Mr. Taschereau declared. The Government would be unable to meet salary requirements, maintenance of highways, unemployment relief and other necessities of the public service and grants under the Public Charities Act.

Mr. Duplessis said he was glad the Government had at last revealed the strategy it planned to follow. The Government, he said, was worried about the budget being not passed before the Public Accounts Committee and was attempting to divert public interest from the proceedings.

The Opposition chief challenged the Premier to announce a general provincial election and said the delay in voting the budget held not harm grants to hospitals and payments under the Public Charities Act as these were provided for by special funds which did not require approval of the House.

DUPLESSIS QUITE CAUSTIC AT PUBLIC ACCOUNTS PROBE

Quebec, May 28.—The Public Accounts Committee of the Quebec Legislature, which has been stealing the show from the Legislature itself, continued its active role today as Maurice Duplessis, Opposition leader, carried on his persistent examination of past expenditures of public money.

Yesterday Mr. Duplessis devoted himself to questioning three witnesses, Henri Gagnon, managing director of Le Soleil, Quebec evening newspaper; P. M. Guibault, Provincial Superintendent of Fisheries, and L. A. Richard, Deputy Minister of Colonization.

The Opposition leader became caustic during examination of Mr. Guibault. The fisheries superintendent was testifying about grants to needy fishermen and told the committee there had been two complaints by intended recipients that they had not received their money.

The cheques, totalling $185, had been received by Alexandre Chouinard, member for Gaspé South, said Mr. Guibault, and the money had been paid the fishermen some ten days after the matter had been taken up with Fisheries Minister Hector Lafontaine.

Mr. Duplessis asked if Mr. Chouinard was a Government candidate at the last election, then said: "So the Government supports a member who appears to have the habit of putting other people's money in his pocket."

"Le Soleil," said the Opposition leader during questioning of Mr. Gagnon, "is by its own admission, the official organ of the Liberal party. The party is a shareholder of the company; the brother, son and partner of Premier Taschereau are directors. The company receives hundreds of thousands of dollars a year from the Government, and it is ridiculous to pretend it is not in the interest of the Province to know who eventually gets this money."

Mr. Gagnon had told the committee the directors of the company were Senator Georges Parent, Edmond Taschereau, Langis Gailpeault, Paul Taschereau and himself. Capitalization was $500,000.

Mr. Duplessis sought to learn what Please Turn to Page 2.

AWAIT VERDICT TODAY IN "RED" MORIN'S TRIAL

Motion for Non-Suit Made by Defence Attorney Dismissed by Justice Verret at This Morning's Court Session Hearing Case of Barnston Cobbler on Trial for Murder of W. K. Baldwin.

A bitter verbal battle between Wilfred Lazure, K.O. Crown prosecutor, and Ivan Sabourin, defence attorney, occurred in Court "A" of King's Bench this morning during a motion for non-suit at the trial of Lucien "Red" Morin, of Barnston, Que., on a charge of having murdered Willis Keith Baldwin, 78-year-old former Member of Parliament for Stanstead County, who was slain in his general store at Baldwin's Mills on April 18, 1935.

Mr. Lazure at one stage exclaimed that he had "never been so insulted" in his life, and in reply Mr. Sabourin shouted "quit the dramatics and proceed with the case." The clash suddenly occurred after Mr. Lazure insisted that a motion for non-suit had been made by the defence in the trial of Kenneth Brown and Mr. Justice Hector Verret had to consult the process-verbal of the Brown case to settle the dispute.

Mr. Sabourin talked for exactly one hour on his motion for non-suit in the Morin case. His Lordship dismissed the motion after hearing Mr. Lazure's arguments against it. Court re-convened at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon for the address to the jury. A verdict is expected to-night.

Mr. Sabourin, in presenting his motion, argued that the Crown had failed to implicate Morin in the crime for which Kenneth Brown, of Milton, Vt., is under sentence to die on the scaffold. In the letters which Morin wrote to Brown, Mr. Sabourin said, mention had been made of "a pot of money" which could be obtained near Barnston, but no date for the robbery had been specified. Furthermore, Brown's own evidence given at Morin's preliminary hearing and entered into the record of the present case stated that Brown had gone to Baldwin's Mills on April 18, 1935, after consulting Morin, merely to examine the premises but not to commit the actual robbery. Brown said that he was to have returned to Baldwin's Mills with Morin to rob the former Member of Parliament at a later date. If Brown, leaving for Baldwin's Mills under that understanding, had committed the crime for which he was convicted Morin could not be held responsible, for he had had no intention of robbing Baldwin that day, or of resorting to violence to commit the deed.

Mr. Sabourin contended that Morin might have been accused of conspiracy to rob, but the jury did not have the power to return such a verdict. The jurymen could only return verdicts of murder, manslaughter and acquittal. In his argument, Mr. Sabourin referred to the Carver and Hall case.

Mr. Lazure, attacking the motion, said that a similar request to take the case out of the jury's hands had been made in the Brown case. He said Sabourin said that he did not believe such a motion had been made at the trial of the young Vermonter. Mr. Lazure was certain that there had been.

"Brown's lawyer is here," Mr. Sabourin said, waving a hand towards Antonio Drolet, "and he can tell us if there was or not."

Mr. Drolet murmured a quiet "no, there wasn't," and shook his head.

Mr. Lazure said that if Brown's lawyer did not remember the motion, he, Mr. Lazure, recollected it very well.

His Lordship remarked that he believed a motion had been made. He asked for the process-verbal of the Brown trial.

Mr. Lazure continued his argument. He said that all he knew about the Carver and Hall case was what he had read in the newspapers. He turned towards the press table and said, "With all due respect to the newspapers..."

"I don't think the reporters will report this," said His Lordship, "I don't see them taking any notes."

Mr. Lazure insisted that Morin was as guilty as Brown and that a motion for non-suit was ridiculous. If Morin plotted the robbery of W. K. Baldwin, then he had to take the responsibility for Brown's actions while the robbery was being committed.

TO DISCUSS LOCARNO QUESTIONNAIRE WITH BRITISH OFFICIALS

Berlin, May 28.—Baron Joachim von Ribbentrop, Chancellor Hitler's Ambassador Extraordinary, left Tempelhof airport for London late today for what diplomats believed would be an official airing of the British Locarno questionnaire.

The trip was described as a private Whitenside visit. Von Ribbentrop will be the guest in Ireland of Lord Londonderry, former Air Secretary, for the holiday week-end.

However, it was believed he would stop for an exchange of views in London and possibly pave the way for Der Fuehrer's reply to the British questions on Nazi Germany's European intentions.

It was recalled Sir Eric Phipps, the British Ambassador to Berlin, saw the Reichschancellor a few days before Britain handed the questionnaire to the Wilhelmstrasse.

rob Baldwin, were produced yesterday afternoon as the Crown completed its case against the young Barnston cobbler.

Asking for an adjournment at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, Ivan Sabourin and Roland Dugre stated that they wished to confer with their client to discuss what defence they would make.

Dr. Rosario Fontaine, Quebec medico-legal expert, testified that Baldwin had died from three fractures of the skull. He had been struck at least two blows, evidently as he was bending down to slip on a pair of rubbers. He was then bound and gagged and dragged behind a counter in his store, in the witness' opinion.

Letters found in Brown's home had been written by the accused, Dr. Fontaine testified, explaining that he had compared them with a sample of Morin's handwriting. The letters, three in number, were written a few weeks before Baldwin's murder.

In them Morin invited the young Vermonter to "come up and see me sometime" and mentioned "a big pot of money" that was "doing nothing."

Morin also referred to the three years he spent with Brown in a Windsor, Vt., penitentiary. "Those three years have to be lived over," he wrote. "Money has to roll again."

"We have to be two for the job," another part of one of the letters read.

Brown, it is alleged, stole a car in Burlington, Vt., and drove to Barnston in answer to Morin's invitation. Together they discussed the plot to rob Baldwin. The following day, April 18th, 1935, Brown left by car for Baldwin's Mills. He went alone, and the prosecution contends that Morin, who did not dare go to Baldwin's Mills because he was too well known, waited for Brown's return to divide the proceeds from the robbery.

Kenneth Drew, 33, and Frank Drew, 50, who reside near Barnston Corner, which is on the road between Barnston and Baldwin's Mills, testified that on the afternoon of April 18th, 1935, they noticed Morin in the vicinity. He was walking along the road. Frank Drew said that he spent about an hour or half an hour in the vicinity. Then he went away.

Louis-George Lemay, Clerk of the Court, read to the jurymen the verdict returned at the trial of Kenneth Brown's trial for Baldwin's murder. Brown was found guilty and sentenced to hang on July 10th next. Mr. Sabourin entered an objection to this evidence, contending that it was illegal.

Detective Laurent Forest, of the Quebec Provincial Police's homicide squad, stated that Morin's letters had been found in Brown's home at Milton by United States officers.

Examination of Mr. Richard was short. He said the colonization department accounts were audited promptly, although in exceptional cases bills had gone two or three months unpaid.

C.N.R. OPPOSED TO ANOTHER LINE IN NORTHERN QUEBEC

Quebec, May 28.—With the Canadian National Railways contending rail business in northern Quebec should not be split up more than at present, the Railway Committee of the Quebec Legislature today considered the bill to incorporate the Temiskaming and Abitibi Railway Company and permit extension of the existing line from Angliers to Royon.

QUINTS GREET BIRTHDAY IN FINE SPIRITS

Canada's Famous Babies Appear Little Perturbed Today Over Fact That This Is Their Second Birthday.

Callander, Ont., May 28.—To Dr. Allan Roy Daffoe singing and dancing on an international hookup are not as important as facts and figures that prove the continuing good health of the Dionne quintuplets.

So today, while others played the famous youngsters would coo and tap at the proper moments during their birthday celebration this evening, the quiet little country doctor took time out to keep the hospital chart straight.

He said his bouncing miracle babies are in better health than ever on their second birthday, that although they have not quite reached the height and weight figures the child training book set for singly-born two year olds they are so near them only a quibbler would fuss about the difference.

The quints are within 2.2 pounds of the weight the books say a singly-born child who weighs 7.16 pounds at birth should scale at two years.

Today the Dionne youngsters averaged 23.8 pounds in weight, compared to the twenty-six pounds the normal baby weighs at two years. Their average height is only an inch less than the normal height of 32.2.

They have gained only eight ounces the past month, but Dr. Daffoe thinks that is enough. He is keeping them on a diet that is planned to build their bodies rather than put fat on them.

His mind satisfied about their physical condition, there will be nothing to prevent Dr. Daffoe permitting Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Marie from singing and dancing according to schedule from 6.30 to 7 p.m. tonight over a Canadian Radio Commission network.

Nurse Jacqueline Noel, who has had more than a little success in teaching them a form of dancing and a humming that some call singing, has promised to play the piano in the nursery and lead them in a step or two and a lullaby.

Before that Hon. David A. Croll, Ontario Minister of Welfare, Judge J. A. Valin, of North Bay, who gave them the piano, and Dr. Daffoe, their guardians, will give little speeches and the latest selections by the orchestra will be played for the quint's entertainment.

The half-hour celebration is all that is planned to mark the quint's second birthday. The rest of the day will be spent as usual around the Daffoe Hospital. There will be no party or cake for the quint, but they will not miss them because they have never had either.

It seemed very doubtful today the parents of the youngsters, Olivia and Elzire Dionne, would attend the celebration. They failed to attend last year when they were invited and it was reported here the guardians had not extended them an invitation for today's celebration.

The weight of the quint's in pounds and ounces today followed changes from April 28 follow:

Yvonne 25 pounds—4 ounces loss.
Annette, 25 pounds, 10 ounces—10 ounces loss.
Cecile, 24 pounds—unchanged.
Emilie, 23 pounds, 6 ounces—6 ounce gain.

Marie, 21 pounds—unchanged.
Total, 119 pounds.

On Friday afternoon, May 22nd, the members of the I.O.D.E. met at the High School to celebrate Empire Day. The regent, Mrs. George Robb, read a very interesting item on the celebration of the day, then introduced the guest-speaker, Mrs. March, who spoke on "Patriotism," whose talk was very much appreciated by everyone present.

Mrs. McIlmont, a member of the Quebec Chapter, was called on to say a few words. The High School pupils sang "O Canada," the meeting closing with the singing of "God Save the King." Tea was served by the members of the I.O.D.E. A silver collection was taken in aid of the Junior Red Cross.

Mrs. Hood and Miss Dorothy Willson, of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. McLintock.

Students of St. Charles Seminary Surpassed Themselves Last Evening with Annual Physical Culture Demonstration

Sherbrooke's citizens of every nationality are deeply interested in St. Charles Seminary. This was manifest last evening when five thousand spectators crowded the way and occupied every available inch of space in the Arena to watch the collegians stage their annual physical culture demonstration. The 2,800 seats in the Exhibition auditorium were filled long before the programme opened, the promenades and alleys were packed, and four deep, while a crowd estimated at more than 1,000 was turned away because of lack of accommodation.

Those who failed to gain admittance missed a spectacular performance. For a little more than two hours, neatly attired and well trained athletes kept the huge audience enthralled as they went through their various paces. The programme was somewhat long, but the variety infused into the proceedings made the spectators forget the discomfort they experienced on the hard seats and in the promenades.

Every one of the twelve numbers received thunderous applause and it would be difficult to select any outstanding feature. But what kept the crowd keyed up was the display of tight-rope walking given by Gustave Labbe, sixteen year old East Ang youth. For nearly twenty minutes Labbe balanced himself perfectly on the treacherous wire and "did his stuff" in a manner worthy of more experienced professionals.

The parade horse, the German horse, the high-bar and the mattresses were brought in for plenty of use as the students performed with a facility which bespoke hours of faithful practice under their two efficient instructors, Rev. Fathers Hermin Dubuc and Anatole Bernier.

Without any doubt, the demonstration eclipsed former exhibitions by the collegians and was the best ever witnessed locally.

Accompanying the performers were the Ste. Cecile band directed by Rev. Father Herman Morin and a smooth orchestra under the baton of Marcel Fortier. Military airs by the band and the latest selections by the orchestra vied for popularity with the performers in the ring. The programme was well balanced, not a dull moment existing from the opening number until the band rendered the National Anthem with the athletes poised in a difficult pyramid.

Among the principal performers were Raymond Desilets, Maurice LeBon, Hervé Lefebvre, Polydore Boissoneault, Robert Michaud, Adrien Roy, Leonard Martel, Roger Perrault, Joseph-Henri Perron, Roland Turmel, Jean Gaudreau, René Dufault, Alain Langlois, Guy Langlois, Charles-Edmond Roy, Leo Lamoureux, Jean-Paul Grogioire, Marcel Gagnon, Gustave Beland, Marcel Darche, Gustave Beland, Marcel Darche, Pierre Couture, Jean-Louis Desileux, Roger Champoux, Germain Cambron, Fernand Nolle, Roger Hebert, Rouville Daigneault, Constant Durette, Jean Denault and Joseph Rheumeau.

ALBERTA PLANS
EARLY PAYMENT
BY SCRIP MONEY

Premier Aberhart Declares that Province Hopes to Redeem Certificates Issued in Payment of Road Construction Workers Once a Month.

Edmonton, May 28.—Interest will be paid June 1 at rates of four and a half to six per cent. on some $16,700,000 of Alberta bonds but not general debentures. The province's public debt will be paid at a provincial 1-2 per cent. according to a compulsory reduction announced by the Provincial Government.

Hon. Charles Cockcroft, Provincial Treasurer, made the announcement yesterday after a cabinet meeting and he declared proclamation of the Compulsory Refunding Act, passed at the present Legislature's first session would not be necessary as sufficient authority for the refunding was given by the Alberta Treasury Act.

"If there is not authority at the present time in existing legislation then it may be necessary to proclaim the Refunding Act and suspend its complete operation," Premier Aberhart said.

The new rate will be effective June 1 with the province's entire public debt of $160,000,000 affected and the possible exception of $25,000,000 owing to the Federal Government. Mr. Cockcroft said it was hoped the Federal Government would agree to reduce interest to 2-1/2 per cent. on this $25,000,000 so the Dominion would be in the same position as other creditors with respect to future negotiations.

CONVICT YOUTH IN SLAYING OF NEW YORK LADY

Jury Return Verdict of First Degree Murder Against John Fiorenza After Deliberating More than Eighteen Hours.

New York, May 28.—John Fiorenza was convicted today of murder in the first degree in the bath tub slaying of Mrs. Nancy Evans Titterton. The jury deliberate more than eighteen hours.

The conviction carries the death penalty. Mrs. Titterton, wife of a radio executive, was strangled and attacked in her Beekman Place apartment on Good Friday, April 10th.

Fiorenza, aged twenty-four, an upholsterer's helper, was accused of calling at the apartment during the morning, on the pretense of inquiring about a love seat. The state charged—and the police produced at the trial a confession he signed—that he forced his attentions on Mrs. Titterton, threw her on a bed, strangled her and then dumped her body in a bathtub.

Fiorenza went on trial in general sessions court before Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., and a jury a week ago last Monday.

His attorney, Henry Klauber, contended Fiorenza was insane and hence not responsible for his acts, and in summing up his case argued the State of New York was morally guilty for the crime, since Fiorenza had been released from Elmira Reformatory, although a state psychiatrist had called him potentially insane.

had told him that the Black Legion had as its primary purpose defence against a Communist uprising when, and if, it should come.

"They said their leaders told them they could mobilize their forces in Michigan in fifty-one minutes and that within twenty-four hours they could have their entire membership over the country under arms," the prosecutor said.

V. F. Effinger, of Lima, O., spokesman for the national organization of agents, claimed a total membership of 6,000,000 the country over.

SPORTING NOTES

CARNERA FORCED TO QUIT BY ATTACK OF PARALYSIS

New York, May 28.—Another of the bad breaks which have studded his fistic fortunes put old Primo Carnera, the lumbering Italian heavyweight, back among the second raters today.

Carnera lost his ten-round return battle with Leroy Haynes, the new Philadelphia sensation, at Ebbots Field last night when an attack of paralysis in his left leg forced him to leave the ring forty seconds after the ninth round started.

Haynes was ahead on points at the time and probably would have been returned a winner, anyway, but "Da Preem," by holding the colored boy on even terms throughout most of the fight, partly atoned for the three-round knockout Haynes scored in Philadelphia two months ago.

Disappointed and discouraged, Carnera would not discuss his ring future as his handlers worked on his leg in the dressing room after the fight. He is to leave soon for an exhibition tour of Europe, but after that he is not sure. His friends say he may never return to the United States to fight.

ROBERT AWARDED DECISION IN RIOTOUS MAT BOUT.

Montreal, May 28.—Yvon Robert, French-Canadian contender for the world's wrestling championship, was awarded a decision over "Gentleman" Jack Walcott, an American, last night. Robert's victory came after seventeen minutes and nine seconds of wrestling and resulted from a foul, Washburn pitching his opponent out of the ring and hitting him as he attempted to climb through the ropes.

When he gained his feet after being tossed out of the ring, Robert went berserk and had begun swinging at spectators before he was removed to his dressing room. He was later removed to a local hospital, apparently suffering from concussion of the brain.

TEN CANADIAN CITIZENS WON SMALL FORTUNES.

Toronto, May 28.—The sudden wealth from the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes that follows the English Derby rolled into the pockets of nine Toronto and one Vancouver citizen yesterday.

A fortune of $75,000 gladdened the heart of Roy H. Storms, factory superintendent in a textile manufacturing company, who drew Taj Akbar, the Aga Khan's colt which ran second in yesterday's classic at Epsom Downs. Storms will not quit his job, declaring that satisfied customers must come first.

The parents of William Shields and his brother, Robert, will share the money the famous race brought in its wake. They will pay off the mortgage on their parents' home in Regina. The Shields boys came to Toronto two years ago when transferred by their employers.

Mrs. M. Kimpton, who held a ticket on Flares, won $3,000, while an unnamed Torontonian drew Calumille and will collect about $2,500. Lawrence F. McCormick will get $3,000 and a Toronto housekeeper, who refused to divulge her name because she feared her employer's disapproval of sweeps, also held a consolation ticket.

A ticket under the name and address of St. Basil's Novitiate was held here, but the winner remained unknown, while Mrs. F. G. Norwood, when she heard she had won $5,000, started on a shopping tour and bought herself a new pair of glasses.

The Vancouver winner is Mrs. William Walton, an invalid, who won $50,000 when Thankerton placed third. The ticket was bought by her daughter and presented to Mrs. Walton. Miss Walton is employed in a Vancouver department store and helps to support her mother and an invalid sister, injured fifteen years ago when kicked by a horse.

VATICAN ISSUES STRICT ORDERS FOR PILGRIMAGES

New Regulations Stipulate Pilgrimages Must at All Times Preserve Their Religious Character and Be Distinct from Trips Organized for Pleasure or Rest.

Vatican City, May 28.—Sweeping regulations governing pilgrimages went into practice today for the first time with the arrival of hundreds of pilgrims to celebrate Pope Pius' seventy-ninth birthday on Sunday.

The rules were issued in April, but this was their first application. The Congregation of the Council promulgated them in order that "pious and religious voyagers may fully conform to their high purpose."

The Congregation, of which William Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, is a member, provided that the pilgrimages must at all times preserve their religious character and be considered as true and proper acts of Christian piety.

Consequently, they must be completely distinct from trips organized for pleasure or rest. Everything that could be avoided which would conflict with the religious nature of the voyage.

The Congregation declared only ecclesiastical authorities had the right to promote and direct pilgrimages. No company, therefore, even if directed by religious institutes, could start and guide the pilgrimages unless they were first promoted or at least approved by the ecclesiastical authorities.

NOVEL PLAY AT HATLEY PROVED GREAT SUCCESS

Pleasing Entertainment, "Memories," Was Presented in Hatley Municipal Hall by Members of Hatley Dramatic Club.

Hatley, May 28.—A pleasing entertainment was furnished in the municipal hall on Friday evening by the Hatley Dramatic Club under the able direction of Miss Florence Bishop.

This was entitled "Memories," and took the form of a radio programme, the singers being behind the scenes. Old songs and old-fashioned costumes to represent the characters in the songs, helped to keep before the audience the old-time memories.

Those taking part were John Adair, Arthur Hall, Christie Adair, his wife, Phyllis Little, as listeners to the radio. The singers were Miss Florence Bishop, soprano; Muriel Bowen, alto; Mrs. Delbert Vaughan, contralto; Morton Bowen and Rupert Hall, tenors; Delbert Vaughan, bass.

Those representing the songs were Hilda Bowen and Archie Moulton, Donald and Rena Bowen, also some of the singers. Mrs. Hugh Bowen accompanied the singers on the piano. Morton Bowen was the announcer.

The programme comprised "Love's Old Sweet Song," by the singers; "Seeing Nellie Home," represented by Rena and Don Bowen; Emily and Amos, Hilda Bowen and Archie Moulton; "Alone," Miss Florence Bishop; piano solo, "Dear, What Can the Matter Be?," represented by Hilda Bowen and Archie Moulton; "Down by the Old Mill Stream," Florence Bishop and Morton Bowen; "Basket of Old-Fashioned Roses," Hilda Bowen and Archie Moulton; piano solo, Miss F. Bishop; "Aloha Oe," Rena Bowen; "In the Gloaming," by Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Vaughan; "When You and I Were Young Maggie," by Rena and Donald Bowen; "When You Look in the Heart of a Rose," Rena Bowen; "Sweet Alice, Ben Bolt," Hilda Bowen; vocal solo, "Some Day I'll Wander Back Again," Miss F. Bishop; "Put on Your Old Grey Bonnet," Rena and Donald Bowen; "Home Sweet Home."

The proceeds are to be divided between the United and Anglican Churches.

Rev. W. A. Edwards and Rev. W. Smith, in short speeches, thanked those taking part, and also spoke of the great help, especially in music, given so freely by Miss Florence Bishop during the past few months.

The May meeting of the Hatley Women's Institute was entertained by Mrs. George Macdonald and Mrs. H. F. Webster, at "Brookbank," the home of the former, at which there was a large attendance of members and visitors. The meeting was brought to order by president in the usual manner. The roll call was responded to by naming "Beauty Spots in Quebec," all feeling that the Eastern Townships deserves honorable mention for beautiful scenery. Miss Phyllis Little joined the branch at this meeting. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted, after which items of business arising from the minutes were dealt with. Mrs. F. Pope was appointed to act as delegate at the annual county meeting held at North Hatley on May 19.

Reports from the conveners were then called for and articles were read by Mrs. Little, convener of Canadian Industries, on "The First Ski to be used in Canada," and by Mrs. Pope, convener of Canadianization and national events on "The Associated Country Women of the World."

It was decided to invite the county branches to meet here for the county quarterly meeting to be held in August. Owing to funds being low and many worthy calls to be met, it was decided not to send a delegate to the provincial convention to be held at Macdonald College in June. At the close of the business session a delicious tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Macdonald and Mrs. H. F. Webster.

"THAT KRUSCHEN FEELING" in SWEDEN
In Sweden "That Kruschen Feeling" is the comment you'll hear to expect of a woman whose vigor and health gives her suppleness, beauty and vivacity.

For thousands of women in Sweden, as in more than 100 other countries, have adopted the "daily dose" of Kruschen. They, too, recognize that internal cleanliness goes hand in hand with a body that radiates health and fitness.

Women have found by experience that Kruschen helps to keep them healthy, active and fit. Kruschen stimulates the organs of elimination and cleanses the body of the waste products of digestion—regularly and thoroughly.

SHERBROOKE, THURSDAY, MAY 23, 1936.

Extent To Which Propaganda May Be Carried.

An instance of how far the dangerous art of propaganda may be carried to gain an evil end has been unfolded in the British House of Commons by Anthony Eden.

From the lips of the British Foreign Secretary came the clear-cut truth of a deliberate plot to fabricate evidence in an endeavour to convict British firms of supplying soft-nosed bullets to the Ethiopian army.

It is an almost unbelievable story, yet it proves the logic of the old adage that "truth is stranger than fiction."

The notorious person of many aliases who is responsible for the spreading of this plot of lies and far-fetched falsehoods first made his appearance as a South American officer.

His first deceitful move was to call on a British firm and suggest the possibility of the firm's appointment as purchasing agents for the Abyssinian Government, stating that dum-dum bullets were required for shooting leopards.

He then dictated a letter in the firm's behalf to the Abyssinian Minister in London offering to supply the dum-dums and stating that a sample package was being sent with the letter. He then took the letter and package, but not to the Abyssinian Minister.

It was not long before an Italian newspaper was publishing photographic evidence that a British firm was supplying illegal ammunition to the Abyssinians.

But that is only part of the story. Soon afterwards this trickster was found calling upon the Abyssinian Minister under a new alias, offering to supply munitions. A list was made out for the Minister to sign. It included three million dum-dum bullets, an item which the Abyssinian diplomat did not observe and which would not have remained if he had noted it, since no licence to export illegal ammunition would have been issued by the British Government.

The next to be seen of the signed order was in the form of a copy in the Italian press. Strangely enough, having heard something of what was going on, the British Foreign Office informed the Italian Embassy and received grateful thanks for the exposure of a low impostor.

But this did not prevent the subsequent photographs and charges in Italian papers and the presentation of an Italian protest to the League of Nations based on the fabricated evidence, which protest has since been withdrawn.

Great Britain is a nation which is known for its integrity and fair play. It is not British ethics to stoop to under-hand tactics or to take part in scheming plots. Britain stands for all that is honorable and noble. That is her reputation, and that will always be her reputation.

Value Of Cadet Training.

Cadet training in schools as a builder of discipline and self-control finds an enthusiastic supporter in Thomas L. Church, member for Broadview-Toronto. Mr. Church was a member of the Toronto School Board for many years and thus learned at first hand of the benefits of this training, and has noted a deterioration in the morale of the pupils since the grants were cut from $300,000 to $150,000. In a vigorous attack on Miss Macphail's motion in the House of Commons to reduce to one dollar the present appropriation of $150,000, Mr. Church said:

The last generation in the city from which I come was trained in the cadet movement, and if you look over the reports which I have seen with regard to these cadet services you will find that it is not a military organization any more than the Boy Scouts or the Girl Guides. It does help to imbue the cadet with qualities which today are necessary for success in life. Look over the gaols and prisons of this country today; look at the findings of judges, magistrates and juries throughout this country as to the lack of home training, discipline and training generally for the youth of today, and you will see the need for training of this kind. In the old days juvenile courts were never heard of. I do not like to disagree with the estimable lady member for Grey-Bruce, but I am heartily in accord with this vote. I am sorry to see the Board of Education in Toronto, composed of pacifists, and everybody there who calls himself a doctor, oppose the cadet movement; the result has been that this movement has been practically abolished in that city, where they spend $11,000,000 or $12,000,000 on education.

Mr. Church continued his condemnation of the Toronto School Board for abolishing cadets by declaring that he was at the Union Station a few days ago and saw twenty-one young people brought back in custody from Northern Ontario. Formerly these young persons would have been cadets, but the training had been cut out several years ago and they had lost this valuable experience and discipline, with the result that when removed from parental control they had no individual self-discipline.

Canadian Doctors.

High praise for the Canadian medical profession was given by Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, at yesterday's annual dinner of the Ontario Medical Association, when he declared that Ontario doctors were "really the medical 'shock troops' of this continent."

The great medical schools and clinics of the United States, he continued, are largely manned by Canadians, and a Canadian doctor in the United States occupies very much the same position as a Scotsman does in England.

Declaring that medicine was the loftiest of all callings, the Governor-General urged the need of constant study on the part of the doctor, especially the general practitioner, who is the keystone of the whole profession.

In his praise of the general practitioner, Lord Tweedsmuir spoke from solid ground, for although Canadian doctors and research workers have covered themselves with glory in many lines of medicine and surgery, it was the "Country Doctor of Callander" that really drew the attention of the world to the ability of the members of the Canadian medical profession.

Editor's Note-Book.

Cleveland, like many large cities, is troubled incessantly with traffic violators. And tickets, the city has found, do not appear to stem the tide of difficulties.

So officials have resorted to immediate booking of violators. Drivers are escorted to the nearest police stations upon arrest and, if they can provide bond, are released for trial. If a driver desires, the case can be disposed of within twenty-four hours.

That is in contrast to the old system, that of issuing a summons. The trouble with the summons, police point out, is that it often fails to bring in the defendant. Moreover, the lag in prosecution over a period of weeks opens the way for "fixing."

What effect the Cleveland experiment will have on its traffic remains to be seen. But it does look like a good tip for any city with a clogged traffic docket.

Hit by a bullet several years ago, a Malawan, N.J., resident just coughed it up, which worries us. We have a cough and, several years ago, passed through Chicago.

What Editors Say

NEW DEVELOPMENT APPEARS IN QUEBEC POLITICS.

Toronto Mail and Empire.

Some of those behind the joint opposition in the Quebec Legislature are beginning to admit that they are making no headway against the Taschereau administration and to ask for the formation of a coalition administration to include the better elements on both the Government and Opposition benches. La Province, the official organ of l'Action Libérale Nationale, has come out with the proposal that that party under the leadership of Paul Gouin and the Conservatives under Maurice Duplessis (the two parties which form the Opposition) should combine with the main Liberal party under Taschereau in the constitution of a coalition Government.

According to La Province, those electors who voted against the existing Government, and those who regret not having voted against the Government, are becoming uneasy at noting that the Government is holding its own, and that the attacks of the Opposition, vigorous though they are, do not appear to have notably enfeebled the Government. Without ceasing to wish the downfall of the Taschereauites, it appears, in the view of La Province, that it is impossible to turn the Taschereau Government out, and this uneasiness "is not of a nature to aid the national cause."

The number is growing, according to La Province, of those throughout the province who wish to see the formation of "a coalition government where all the groups will be represented, while eliminating the undesirable, such as a government, for example, as that which saved and continues to save England from disaster, since it considers national interest before the interests of individuals or the interests of a party."

There is no indication that the Conservatives under Mr. Duplessis agree with this proposal. It may be that La Province is merely flying a kite, or that the members of l'Action Libérale Nationale are preparing to desert their Conservative allies and join forces with Mr. Taschereau.

RUSSIA MAKES SHARP REPLY TO POPE PIUS

Soviet Government Newspaper Accuses Roman Catholic Church of Joining Forces with "the Contemporary Barbarism of Fascism and Militarism."

Moscow, May 28.—Pope Pius' recent attack on Communism and Soviet Russia received an official reply yesterday.

The Government newspaper Izvestia stated there was no law discriminating against the Roman Catholic Church in Russia, declaring "any differentiation between religions is quite strange to Soviet policy."

The Roman Catholic head made his attack on May 12 in a speech inaugurating the world exposition at the Catholic press in Vatican City.

There is no official prohibition of religious practices in the Soviet Union, but only a limited number of churches remain open here and these houses of worship are mainly Greek Orthodox.

Izvestia accused the Roman Catholic Church of joining forces with "the contemporary barbarism of Fascism and militarism."

The journal criticized the Pontiff severely for reference to the "triumphal gladness" of the Italian people in commenting on the end of the Italo-Ethiopian war.

Pope Pius, said Izvestia, "is openly interfering with the domestic and foreign policies of nations."

"While teaching love of human beings," said the Government organ, "he blesses the cruel suppression of one people by another."

In his address, Pope Pius referred to the end of the war as "the triumphant news of a great and good people."

In reply to the Pope's reference to Communism as "a force of evil," the newspaper said: "When the head of a church announces that triumphal gladness has been won with bombs and poison gas and finds that danger for human dignity and safety lies in the forces which guarantee freedom from material and moral slavery, we have adequate proof that the spectres of the past still lurk behind the statues of Venus in the Vatican museum."

THETFORD MINES

The United Church sponsored an exceptionally fine group of Anglo-Scottish entertainers at a concert in the St. Maurice Hall. Messrs. MacDuff Copeland and Kenneth Duff kept a large audience amused by their wit, songs and pranks. Rev. Mr. Lister, of Kinnear's Mills, introduced the entertainers. Mr. Kenneth Duff rendered a number of fine violin solos during the evening. His rendition of Chopin's "Nocturne in E Flat," Strauss' "Blue Danube," Toselli's "Seaside," Mendelssohn's "Concerto" 3rd movement, and the Intermezzo by Mascagni won him much applause. Among the songs which Mr. Copeland sang were "Onaway March," "The Skipper's Song," an amusing sea ditty, "Gracie McKay" and "The March of the Cameron Men." The "Garden of Memories" was sung by Mr. Copeland in a very impressive manner. A number of Shakespeare's plays in tableau form proved amusing items of the programme. Mr. Copeland's study in the evolution of songs was very delightful, "Comin Thru the Rye," done in this manner, was very entertaining. Mr. Copeland, in Highland dress, gave a fine Scottish interlude. Songs, stories and bagpipe delighted the audience. A number of ballads, strathspeys, laments and reels added much to the enjoyment. Violin duets and comedy at the piano in a very original style were memorable characteristics shown by these two Old Country entertainers. A community finale in the form of "A Toast to Scotland" was enjoyed by the audience who entered into the spirit of the fun wholeheartedly and sang the numerous choruses with gusto. The proceeds, which were very gratifying, are for the work of the church.

CONGREGATION BID ADIEU TO REV. CHEVERTON

Members of Congregations of St. Paul's Church and St. Eli d'Orford Mission Join in Fitting Tribute to Beloved Rector.

The massed congregations of St. Paul's Church and St. Eli d'Orford Mission assembled in St. Paul's Church Hall last evening to say farewell to their beloved pastor, Rev. W. H. Cheverton. The approaching departure of Mr. Cheverton has caused widespread regret among his people, who arranged this gathering to express in some tangible manner not only their sorrow in his departure, but also their abiding love and esteem. Thomas W. Oak, people's warden, presided, and feelingly referred to the happy relations which had existed during the past eight years between pastor and people. Mr. Oak also paid high tribute to the wonderful progress made by St. Paul's during Mr. Cheverton's period of devoted and unselfish work on behalf of the church.

Other parishes were also represented at the congregational gathering of St. Paul's people, Rev. Canon H. R. Bigg, rector of St. Peter's, paying tribute to the splendid work accomplished by Mr. Cheverton at St. Paul's and referring in a happy manner to the cordial relations which marked the years of their closer association, during which Mr. Cheverton was curate of St. Peter's. Rev. E. K. Moffatt, of the Church of the Advent, and Rev. A. Jones, rector of St. George's Church, Lennoxville, were also among the honored guests, and each in turn reiterated Canon Bigg's remarks, confirming the outstanding work accomplished by Mr. Cheverton.

The chairman then called upon B. Thorne, the rector's warden, who, on behalf of the congregations of St. Paul's and St. Eli d'Orford, presented Mr. Cheverton with a beautifully fitted leather handbag as a slight token of their love and appreciation.

In replying Mr. Cheverton feelingly referred to the happy years of his ministry at St. Paul's, and expressed regret at the coming severance of relations. He extended sincerest thanks for the appropriate and lovely gift and for the kindly thought which had prompted his people to so remember him. There was "still much work to be done," Mr. Cheverton said, and in conclusion, he asked for the same loyalty and co-operation in upholding the good name of St. Paul's. He also asked for support on behalf of the incoming rector.

The arrangements made for the evening included the following excellent programme arranged and carried out under the chairmanship of H. Cuthbert: Sing-song, in which everyone present took part, with Mrs. E. Earnshaw at the piano; instrumental duet by Dorothy Stanfield and Victor Drew; vocal solo by H. Hutley, accompanied by Mrs. E. Earnshaw; tap dance by Lillian Slater, accompanied by Vivian Woolerton; recitation by B. Thorne; vocal solo by Grace Cuthbert, accompanied by Mrs. J. Robinson; piano solo by Raymond Thorne; vocal solo by Frank Stanfield, accompanied by Dorothy Stanfield; banjo duet by R. Kerr and E. W. Bryant, accompanied by Mrs. H. Cuthbert; vocal solo by R. Kerr, accompanied by E. W. Bryant on the banjo, and vocal solo and recitation by Mrs. A. Hargreaves.

Rev. W. H. Cheverton, who saw service in the ranks overseas, was ordained in the Cathedral of the Holy Trinity, Quebec City, in 1921. After a number of years spent in Labrador, he came to St. Peter's Church, Sherbrooke, as curate, and eight years ago last January was appointed priest-in-charge of St. Paul's mission.

Mr. Cheverton, who is to be succeeded on June 1 by Rev. Oscar Berry, of Windsor Mills, has not yet been advised of his future field of work. He will officiate at the services on Sunday when Bishop Carington will attend the confirmation service in the evening.

ASCOT W. ENJOYED ADDRESS ON GARDENING

D. A. Finlayson, guest speaker at the May meeting of the Ascot Women's Institute in the Ascot Consolidated School, gave a timely and instructive address on "Gardening and Perennial Borders." Location, plans, control of insect pests and general care of gardens and borders were included in Mr. Finlayson's lecture, and at its close he was accorded a hearty vote of thanks and appreciation.

Other important business included reports on the banquet given in honor of Mr. Odell, of Capetown, much credit for its success being due to Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Rowe and Mrs. H. Woodward, of the Ways and Means Committee, while W. P. Cox and Walter Reid also rendered valuable assistance.

Mrs. J. L. Robinson sent in an excellent report of the annual county meeting which was read by Mrs. Cox, and the August flower show was discussed. It was decided to give prizes in the Ascot Consolidated School for the same subjects as last year. New programmes were distributed for the June meeting at Willowdale Farm, which will be held a week earlier on account of convocation, and plans for the inter-county picnic at the Experimental Farm in June were discussed. The roll call was answered by an expert from Canada and its destination. Mrs. F. S. Browne and Mrs. Richardson, the roll call captains, submitted the lists of teams prior to adjournment.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Rowe, Mrs. Parnell, Mrs. Green and Mrs. LaBonte, assisted by the Misses Elaine and Evelyn LaBonte.

At a hospital he was treated for a severe case of strained muscles and sore back.

He was defeated by four to three in a hard-fought game.

CITY MEASURES TURNED DOWN BY GOVERNMENT

Taxing of Chain Stores and Expenditure of $200,000 for Construction of Industrial Buildings Failed to Receive Approval of Public Bills Committee.

The Public Bills Committee at Quebec did not look with favor upon the requests made by the City of Sherbrooke for the imposition of a $500 levy annually on chain stores operating in the city and for the $200,000 expenditure for the erection of industrial sites within the city limits.

His Worship Mayor Emile Rioux, City Treasurer Leonard Prefontaine and City Attorney Boisvert returned last night from the Ancient Capitul, where they appeared before the Public Bills Committee to press the city's claims.

It was stated at the City Hall this morning that the requests had been left in abeyance pending further information. From another reliable source, however, it was stated that the matter was practically closed as Quebec did not see fit to sanction such requests.

It had been the intention of the City Council to tax the chain stores of the city $500 a year plus the business tax which they are presently paying.

The building of industrial sites was intended as a measure of preparedness to have suitable factories for any industries that might desire to locate here.

AS COLD AND SILENT AS A WINTER NIGHT

The Dragon Murder Case

By S. S. VAN DINE

Copyright by PUBLIC LEDGER, INC.

"Yes, yes. Very strange things, Trainor. But continue. What did you do then?"

"I tried the door, sir. The man's eyes rolled, but he did not look at any one of us. It was unlocked, and I opened it and looked into the room."

"I noticed the bed had not been slept in, and I felt a most peculiar sensation—"

"Spare us your symptoms, Trainor. Vance was becoming impatient. Tell us what you did."

"Entered the room, sir, and made sure that Mr. Greeff was not there. Then I returned to the dining room and indicated to Mr. Stamm that I wished to speak to him alone. He came into the hall, and I informed him of Mr. Greeff's absence."

"What did Mr. Stamm say?"

"He didn't say anything, sir. But he had a very queer look on his face. He stood at the foot of the stairs frowning. Then, after a few moments, he pushed me to one side and ran upstairs. I went back into the dining room and continued serving the breakfast."

Heath took up the story at this point.

"I was in the front hall when Stamm came down," he said. "He was looking queer, all right. But when he saw me he came right up to me and told me about Greeff's being gone. I did a little looking around, and questioned the men on post duty; but they hadn't seen any one leave the estate. Then I phoned to Mr. Markham."

Vance, for some reason, appeared deeply troubled.

"Amazing," he murmured, busying himself with a cigarette. When it was lighted he turned back to the butler.

"What time did Mr. Greeff go upstairs last night?" he asked.

"I couldn't say exactly, sir. The man was growing noticeably more nervous. But Mr. Greeff was one of the last to retire."

"And what time did you yourself go to your quarters?"

The butler moved forward, thrust out his head, and swallowed with difficulty.

"Shortly after 11, sir," he replied in a strained voice. "I closed up the house as soon as this gentleman—indicating Heath—" had gone. Then I went to my room."

"Where is your room?"

"At the rear of the house, sir, on this floor—next to the kitchen."

There was a peculiar intonation in his voice that puzzled me.

Vance sank deeper into his chair and crossed his knees.

"I say, Trainor," he drawled, "what did you hear last night, after you had gone to your room?"

The butler gave a start and sucked in his breath, and his fingers began to twitch. It was several moments before he answered.

"I heard—he spoke with a curious mechanical precision—"some one slide the bolt on the side door."

"The door that leads out to the steps to the pool?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you hear anything else? Any footsteps?"

Trainor shook his head.

"No, sir—nothing else. The man's eyes moved vaguely about the room. Nothing, sir, until an hour or so later—"

"Ah! And what did you hear then?"

"I heard the bolt being thrown."

"What else?" Vance had risen and was confronting the man sternly.

Trainor retreated a step or two, and the twitching of his fingers increased.

"I heard some one go upstairs—very softly."

"To which room?"

"I—I couldn't say, sir."

Vance gazed at the man indifferently for several seconds; then he turned and walked back to his chair.

"Did you think it was?" he asked lazily.

"It occurred to me that perhaps Mr. Stamm had gone out for a little walk."

Vance smiled indulgently.

"Really, y' know, Trainor, if you thought it was Mr. Stamm you wouldn't be so frightfully upset."

"But who else could it have been, sir?"

Vance was silent for a while.

"That will be all, Trainor," he said at length. "Tell Mr. Leland we're here and would like to see him."

"Yes, sir."

The butler went out, obviously relieved to have the interrogation over; and shortly afterward Leland entered the drawing room. He was smoking his pipe calmly, and greeted us with more than his usual reserve.

"You know, of course, Mr. Leland," Vance began, "that Greeff isn't around this morning. Can you suggest any possible explanation for this?"

Leland appeared worried and sank into a chair by the table.

"No," he said, "I can see no reason why he should have run off. He is not the kind to run away from anything."

"Exactly my impression," nodded Vance. "Have you spoken to any of the other persons in the house about it?"

Leland nodded slowly.

"Yes, we all discussed it at breakfast and afterward. Every one seems to be mystified."

"Did you hear anything during the night that might have indicated when he left the house?"

Leland hesitated before answering.

"Yes," he replied finally. "But I also heard something that would indicate that it was not Greeff who went out."

"You mean the rebolting of the side door an hour or so after it had been unbolted?"

Leland looked up in mild surprise.

"Yes," he said. "Just that. Shortly after midnight some one went out."

the side door, but later some one re-entered the house. I had not been able to go to sleep—and my hearing is particularly keen."

"Trainor, too, heard some one go out and come in last night," Vance told him. "But he couldn't tell to what room the midnight prowler returned. Perhaps you are able to enlighten us on that point?"

Again Leland hesitated, and shook his head slowly.

"No, I am afraid not," he said. "My room is on the third floor, and several people were moving about below me. I will say this, however: whoever it was that came back to the house was very careful not to make any unnecessary noise."

Vance had scarcely looked at Leland during the questioning, and he now rose and walked to the front window and back.

"Is the room you occupy," he asked, "on the side of the house facing the pool?"

Leland took his pipe leisurely from his mouth and moved uneasily in his chair.

"Yes, it is just across the side passageway from Mrs. Stamm's quarters."

"Did you hear any one outside the house after the side door had been opened?"

"Yes, I did," Leland sat upright in his chair and carefully repacked his pipe. "I heard voices, as if two people were talking in low tones. But it was only the merest murmur, and I could not distinguish what they were saying or who it was."

"Could you tell whether it was a man or woman speaking?"

"No. It seemed to me that they were deliberately pitching their voices to a whisper, to avoid being overheard."

"How long did this whispered conversation last?"

"Only a few seconds. Then it faded away."

"As if the two holding converse were walking away from the house?"

"Exactly."

Vance swung about quickly and faced Leland.

"What else did you happen to hear last night, Mr. Leland?"

Once again Leland hesitated, and busied himself with relighting his pipe.

"I am not sure," he answered reluctantly. "But there was a scraping sound at the far side of the pool, toward the East Road."

"Most interesting. Vance did not relax his steady gaze. "Will you describe, as nearly as possible, just what you heard?"

"The dragon again."

Leland looked down at the floor and smoked intently for a moment.

"First," he said, "I heard a faint grating noise, as of one piece of metal being rubbed against another—at least, such was my impression. Then all was silence for several minutes. A little later the same sound was repeated, and still later, I could distinguish a low, continuous noise, as of something heavy being dragged over a sandy surface. This noise became fainter and fainter, until finally it died away altogether."

"I heard nothing more until perhaps half an hour later, when some one re-entered the house through the side door and replaced the bolt."

"Did these noises strike you as peculiar in any way?"

"No, I cannot say that they did. We had all been told we had access to the grounds, and I took it for granted, when I heard the side door open, that some one was going out for a walk in the air. The other noises—those on the other side of the pool—were very indistinct and might have been explained in various ways. I knew of one case, that a man had been stationed at the gate on the East Road, and I suppose I assumed—without giving the matter any particular thought—that it was he whom I heard across the pool. It was not until this morning, when I learned of the disappearance of Greeff, that I attached any importance to what I had heard during the night."

"And now, knowing that Mr. Greeff is gone, can you offer any explanation for the noises you heard?"

"No, I cannot," Leland thought a moment. "They were not familiar sounds; and while the metallic noise might have been the creaking of the hinges of the gate, there would have been no point in Greeff's opening the gate to make his escape, for he could very easily have climbed over or walked round it. Moreover, the sound seemed to be much nearer to the house than the gate is. In any event, there was some one guarding the gate, and Greeff would not have chosen that avenue to escape—there are too many other ways of leaving the estate, if he really wished to do so."

Vance nodded as if satisfied, and again strolled toward the front window.

"Did you, by any chance," he asked, "hear any one else go out after midnight?"

"No, sir."

"I am afraid not," he said. "My room is on the third floor, and several people were moving about below me. I will say this, however: whoever it was that came back to the house was very careful not to make any unnecessary noise."

Vance had scarcely looked at Leland during the questioning, and he now rose and walked to the front window and back.

"Could you tell whether it was a man or woman speaking?"

"How long did this whispered conversation last?"

"Only a few seconds. Then it faded away."

"As if the two holding converse were walking away from the house?"

Vance swung about quickly and faced Leland.

"What else did you happen to hear last night, Mr. Leland?"

Once again Leland hesitated, and busied himself with relighting his pipe.

"I am not sure," he answered reluctantly. "But there was a scraping sound at the far side of the pool, toward the East Road."

"Most interesting. Vance did not relax his steady gaze. "Will you describe, as nearly as possible, just what you heard?"

"The dragon again."

Leland looked down at the floor and smoked intently for a moment.

APPOINTED TO BOARD OF CANADIAN WINERIES, LTD.

The Honourable Victor Marchand, of Montreal, president of Melchers Distilleries Ltd., has just been elected to the Board of Directors of Canadian Wineries Ltd.

The addition of Mr. Marchand to the directorate of Canadian Wineries Ltd. is expected to strengthen the position of the company very considerably, especially in the Province of Quebec, where a large part of the firm's business is done and where a substantial investment was recently undertaken.

Mr. Marchand will bring to the Board, not only a wide and highly specialized knowledge of the wine and liquor business as conducted in the Province of Quebec, but a broad and general experience in merchandising and business methods that should be found invaluable.

ed casually, "hear an automobile on the East Road last night?"

"No," Leland shook his head with emphasis. "I can assure you that no car traversed the East Road in either direction up to the time I fell asleep—which, I should say, was about 2 o'clock in the morning."

Vance turned leisurely at the window.

"Did Mr. Greeff," he asked, "by any action or any remark, give you the impression that he contemplated leaving the estate?"

"Quite the contrary," Leland returned. "He did grope a bit about being detained here. He said it might mean the loss of some business at his office this morning; but he seemed resigned to seeing the affair through."

"Did he have any words with any one last night?"

"No, he was in unusually good humor. He drank a bit more than his custom, and spent most of the evening, after dinner, discussing financial matters with Stamm."

"Any evidence of animosity between them?"

"None whatever. Stamm seemed to have forgotten completely his outburst of the night before."

Vance walked back and stood before Leland.

"What of the other members of the party?" he asked. "How did they comport themselves after dinner?"

"Most of them went out on the terrace. Miss Stamm and I walked down to the pool, but we returned immediately—a pall seemed to hang over it. When we came back to the house Mrs. McAdam and Miss Steele and young Tatum were sitting on the steps of the terrace, drinking some sort of punch that Trainor had made for them."

"Where were Greeff and Stamm?"

"They were still in the library. I doubt if they had gone outdoors at all."

Vance smoked a moment in thoughtful silence; then he resumed his chair and lay back languidly.

"Thanks awfully," he said. "That will be all for the present."

Leland rose.

"If I can be of any help—" he began, "but he contemplated his pipe. Without finishing the sentence he went from the room."

"What do you make of it, Vance?" Markham asked with a puzzled frown, when we were alone.

"I don't like it," Vance returned, his eyes on the ceiling. "Too many strange things have been happening in these past few days. And it's not like Greeff to walk out in the middle of the night."

At this moment some one came hurrying down from upstairs, and a few seconds later we heard Stamm telephoning to Dr. Holliday.

"You'd better come as soon as you can," he was saying nervously. Then, after a pause, he hung up the receiver.

Vance had risen and gone to the door.

"May we see you a moment, Mr. Stamm," his request was practically a command.

Stamm crossed the hall and entered the drawing room. It was obvious that he was laboring under some suppressed excitement. The muscles of his face were twitching, and his eyes were staring and restless.

Before he could speak Vance addressed him.

"We heard you phoning to the doctor. Is Mrs. Stamm ill again?"

"The same trouble," Stamm answered. "And it's probably my own fault. I went up to see her a while ago, and I mentioned that Greeff was missing. Then she started in with her pet hallucination. Said he was missing because the dragon had got him. Insisted she saw the dragon rise out of the pool last night and fly down toward Spayten Duvell."

"Most interesting!" Vance leaned against the edge of the table and looked at Stamm through half-closed eyes. "Have you yourself any more rational explanation of Greeff's disappearance?"

"I can't understand it," Stamm appeared nonplussed. "From what he said last night he had no intention of leaving the place till you gentlemen gave him permission to go. Seemed quite content to remain here."

"By the by, did you happen to go outdoors late last night?"

LOCAL MAN TAKES HIS OWN LIFE.

A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner's jury this morning in the case of George Lavigne, forty years old, 45a Alexander street, who hanged himself from a beam in a barn at the rear of 25 Goodhue street. The inquest was held by Leonidas Bechard, district coroner, at No. 1 police station this morning.

Lavigne left his home at about five o'clock yesterday morning to feed his horses, which were stalled in a barn at the rear of Goodhue street. His body was discovered last night when his nephew, Rosaire Lemieux, sixteen years old, entered the barn to feed the horses. As the boy reached up to pull down a bundle of hay he touched his uncle's dead body which was hanging from a beam.

Young Lemieux immediately notified municipal police. It is believed that Lavigne had been hanging for over thirteen hours before his body was discovered.

DIXON'S DAILY SUGGESTION

"You'd be surprised how frequently I am asked for suggestions on what to have for dinner," says Dixon. "I quite realize the difficulty of thinking up something new every day and always try to be helpful. Just now I have real Spring Lamb, than which there's nicer for a toothsome change. It's today's best suggestion." Dixon's Market telephone number is 1031.

SALVATION TAG DAY, SATURDAY, MAY 30TH.

At the end of a month's efforts to raise funds to enable it to carry on for another year, the Salvation Army on Saturday, May 30th, will conduct a tag day and make a final drive to reach the amount considered necessary for the foundation of the coming year's work. Although the generosity of many subscribers has proven an inspiration, the total subscriptions have so far run behind the yearly quota. It is hoped that the thousands of Army well-wishers will greet the taggers gladly and generously.

CURIOSITY COSTLY TO BISHOP-YOUTH

A desire to see what would happen to a rifle cartridge when hit by heavy instrument proved rather painful for Clinton Baxter, sixteen year old son of Walter Baxter, of Bishopton. Yesterday, in an effort to appease his curiosity, young Baxter placed the bullet on the chopping block and struck it with an axe. The cartridge exploded and the lead bullet entered the lad's right leg.

Dr. Elliott, of Bishopton, was summoned, and after rendering first aid conveyed the wounded youth to the Sherbrooke Hospital. The bullet was later removed and Baxter allowed to return home.

UNITED CHURCH PAGEANT GIVEN AT LENNOXVILLE

Splendid Programme Arranged by Women's Missionary Society in Honor of Tenth Anniversary of United Church of Canada.

Douglas Hall of the Lennoxville United Church was filled to capacity last evening for the very successful presentation of the Tenth Anniversary Pageant presented by the Lennoxville Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada.

Mrs. P. Pergau acted as mistress of ceremonies, explaining that the United Church of Canada, including the Presbyterian, Congregational and Methodist Churches, came into being in 1925. She then introduced the play, given by the Missionary Band, which depicted the tenth birthday of the United Church. The members of the cast were as follows: "English boy," Jerry MacKenzie; "two English girls," Mary Robichaud and Evelyn Shufelt; "Mission Band leader," Eleanor Leith; "East Indian girl," Margaret Merrill; "Chinese girl," Ruth Evans; "Chinese girl," Julia Vaudry; "Kim," Freddie Vaudry; "girl from Trinidad," Marjorie Hilliard; "African boy," Clifford Gundersen; "Korean girl," Muriel McIvor; "Italian boy in Canada," Jackie Stewart; and "Japanese girl in Canada," Wilma Wallace.

At the close of this playlet, the children held individual cards with a letter forming the name "United Church," while they sang an appropriate hymn, accompanied at the piano by Miss Mina Pergau. This playlet was in charge of Mrs. Gordon Hall.

The play entitled, "The Beginnings," given by members of the Women's Missionary Society in three acts. This, Mrs. Pergau told the audience, was not fiction, but actual history of the first meetings of the missionary societies of the Presbyterian, Congregational and Methodist Churches.

The opening scene depicted a meeting in Halifax, N.S., in 1876, shortly after the organization of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Mrs. Abbie Willard representing Mrs. C. F. Burns, president of the society at that time, was assisted by the following cast: Mrs. Frank Titcomb, Miss W. Scott, Mrs. E. Bickley, Mrs. R. L. Lipsey, Mrs. E. E. Mosher, Mrs. M. Knutson, Mrs. W. H. Henderson and Miss Martha Stevenson.

The second scene portrayed a meeting shortly after the organization of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church in Canada, the time being 1881, in Hamilton, Ontario. Mrs. Alex Burns, president of the society, was represented by Mrs. Ethel Seale, who was assisted by Mrs. L. W. Smith, Mrs. L. E. MacAllister, Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie, Mrs. D. Ross, Mrs. J. Marlin, Mrs. Woodward, Mrs. F. R. Matthews, Mrs. E. Wellman and Miss Eileen Stalker, who played the tiny organ to accompany the members for their hymn.

The third and concluding scene re-enacted a meeting shortly after the organization of the Congregational Women's Board of Missions, the time being 1866 in Ottawa, Ontario. Mrs. C. Howard Aikman representing Mrs. Macallum, president of the society, was assisted by Mrs. G. G. McCurdy, Mrs. G. Hall, Mrs. Arthur Coates, Mrs. W. J. Lane and Mrs. F. J. Marshall, with the hymn, "Take My Life And Let It Be" being sung as a solo by Miss Maud Cote.

The old-fashioned costumes did much to carry the audience back into the period depicted, as did also the "tuning fork," and the little old organ used at these meetings.

Changing the tempo of the programme, Miss Thelma Crawford's beautiful contralto voice was heard in "I Have Done My Work," by Carrie Jacobs Bond. After being insistently applauded by the audience, Miss Crawford returned to sing as an encore, "The Key," by Carrie Jacobs Bond. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Maud Cote.

The sacred solo, "Be Thou Nigh," by E. B. Bailey, was inspiringly sung by Allen Willard, accompanied by Miss Patricia Watson, after which Rev. F. R. Matthews gave a brief address.

The Pageant, "The Builders," was then presented, the colourful and appropriate costumes representing many countries, enhancing the beauty of this presentation. This act bridged the gap of the years and depicted the growth of organizations at home. By means of a series of simple pictures, the three denominational leaders show also the gradual building up of mission work at home and overseas. The act closed with a brief inaugural service of union and a solo by Miss Maud Cote.

student and school girl," Mrs. P. Walton and Betty McKenzie; "Trinidad girl in training," Caroline Moir; "An African woman," Mrs. Donald Ross; "Japanese teacher with Kindergarten children," Mrs. L. E. MacAllister, Ruth Evans and Margaret MacDougall; "Chinese teacher and school girl," Mrs. F. R. Matthews and Margaret Ann Forbes; "Canadian Indian woman and girl," Mrs. H. Aldrich and Mary Stewart; "Canadian teacher with Japanese and Chinese children," Mrs. Woodward, with Margaret Ann Forbes and Wilma Wallace; "New Canadians in Canada," Mrs. W. H. Henderson, and "Canadian Medical Work," Mrs. L. Parker.

Both the play and the pageant showed the result of much time, effort and thought, and great credit is due to Women's Missionary Society for this successful venture.

Mrs. Abbie Willard, president of the Lennoxville Women's Missionary Society of the United Church, was in charge of the entire programme, with Stanley Cote acting as cashier.

Assisting in the tea room were Mrs. E. Gilson and Mrs. J. S. Baldwin.

Canon and Mrs. H. Reginald Biggs, "The Rectory," Montreal street.

Mrs. George Armitage poured tea in Trinity Church tea room yesterday afternoon instead of at "Strenuous allwood," her home on the Montreal Road, where the Women's Association had intended holding their pleasant gathering. The inclemency of the weather was responsible for the change, but most fortunately did not deter a large number of guests from attending the second of the series of teas arranged by the Association as the outstanding feature of their spring programme.

Tulips in profusion were used in decorating, glowing red beauties in a silver basket adorning the lace covered tea table, while vases of the same lovely blooms centered the small tables placed about the hall.

The hostesses were Mrs. H. L. Cleveland, Mrs. Gilbert, Miss Eleanor Van Vleet, Mrs. MacKie Fuller, Mrs. Gertrude Hall, Mrs. A. L. Parker and Mrs. Wesley McKee.

Reid and Mrs. Fred Pearson were the hostesses, and assisting them were Mrs. Chas. Coombs, Mrs. Henry Barlow, Mrs. James Johnston, Mrs. J. R. McGregor, Mrs. Mrs. Ernest Burbridge.

The delectable salads were in charge of Mrs. W. Kinkade, Mrs. C. J. Rose and Mrs. Milo Lethrop, while Mrs. James Strickland covered the sales table, which substantially augmented the gratifying proceeds from the pleasant social afternoon. In connection with the sales at the latter table, the gift of a lovely hand crocheted Afghan was an unexpected and lucrative source of revenue. The lace covered tea table, at which Mrs. W. H. Fuller and Mrs. C. F. Fuller presided, was exceptionally attractive with a silver basket of brilliant hued tulips and pale green candles in silver candlesticks. Garden flowers in profusion were placed about the hall and lent a special air of festivity to the pleasant event which so successfully concluded the Guild's activities until the autumn.

CLAIMS CONQUEST PREVENTED
WAR OF INDEPENDENCE

Montreal, May 28.—When Wolfe conquered Canada in 1759-60 he interrupted the beginnings of a "War of Independence" between French-Canadians and France, Rev. Father Armand Yon, told the Historic Society of Montreal.

During the last ten years of French domination of New France, Vaudreuil and the Canadians were ever at odds with Montcalm and his soldiers, he said.

HIGH HEELS BLAMED FOR NUMEROUS ACCIDENTS

Weston, Ont., May 28.—High heels worn by the fairer sex of Weston loomed into affairs of the Town Council here when discussion arose over complaints about the condition of the sidewalks. It was pointed out that most of the complaints came from women, and council debated as to whether the falls were caused by the condition of the sidewalks or the high heels of the ladies.

STALIN'S STEELY
MIEN TEMPERED

There is little of the relentless dictator expression in this new and unusual portrait of Josef Stalin, who, as general secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, is Russia's dictator. The quizzical expression about the mouth and kindly eyes belie title of "the Steely One."

GRANBY CLUB PRESENTED AN AMUSING PLAY

"Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick," Rollicking Comedy, Staged by Gleaners' Mission Band.

Granby, May 28.—A rollicking comedy entitled, "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick," was staged in the Drummond street hall by the Gleaners' Mission Band and kept a large and appreciative audience in high spirits.

The cast of characters was as follows: "Aaron Slick," not as green as he looks, Gordon Miller; Wilbur Merridew," a crooked speculator, Donald Heelis; "Clarence Green," a mysterious young man, Wilbert Doe; "Mrs. Rosy Berry," an Oklahoma widow, Gladys Nicholson; "Gladys May Merridew," a sweet young thing, Claire Osgood; "The Girl in Red," the vampire, Molly Robinson; "Little Sis Riggs," a regular tomboy, Juliette Girard; Master of Ceremonies in the Cabaret, E. Ellison.

The presentation was directed by Mrs. Lucille Taylor, who received many congratulations on the result of her efforts.

All the players took their parts well, but Gordon Miller in the role of the foxy farmer, appeared to be absolutely at home in the role.

Others who deserve special mention were Donald Heelis, who had a difficult part to portray, and Miss Girard, who entered wholeheartedly into the spirit of her tomboy role.

The third act opened with a cabaret scene and Mrs. Taylor had gathered some really fine talent for this feature.

Mrs. Boucher, of St. Hyacinthe, who has a fine, well-trained voice, sang, "O Carissima," and "Awake Little Flower"; Mr. Jamieson, also of St. Hyacinthe, sang, "A Brown Bird Singing" and "I Heard You Darling Mother," the latter being his own original composition. Mr. Gervais, another artist from St. Hyacinthe, gave two violin solos, "Adoration" and "The Old Refrain." Mrs. Malboeuf sang one of the Jacobs-Bond songs and "The Sunshine of Your Smile," and Mrs. A. E. Solomon made a hit with her songs, "The Flower Girl" and "Kisses."

W. R. Legge accompanied these artists. The last cabaret number was given by Miss Mollie Robinson, who as "The Girl in Red," took up the action again of the play itself and proceeded to vamp Aaron Slick.

The incidental music and music between acts was given by Mrs. C. E. Ball and Mr. Gorvin.

DOMINION STORES LIMITED

DOMINION STORES LIMITED — THE TENANT

In recent years the owners of developed real estate, not only in large cities but in smaller towns as well, have endured their full share of the troubles of industrial depression. They have had difficulty in collecting rents and they have often found it impossible to get tenants at all for their property. Whether they can collect rents or not, real estate taxes must be paid.

Stores has paid high rentals for desirable locations in the past, but its ability to pay such rentals is being rapidly curtailed by the onerous discriminatory taxes now being imposed on chain stores by many municipalities. The effect of such taxes, in the long run, will be depreciation in the value of store properties and property values are the basis for municipal revenue.

Dominion Stores sends out nearly 500 cheques to landlords on the first of every month. Dominion

IN ONE YEAR DOMINION STORES PAID LANDLORDS RENT AMOUNTING $895,000.00.

CARELESSNESS— that often brings UNHAPPINESS

YOU may know girls like the one on the left — at home, unhappy, while others are out enjoying life.

Often they are victims of ill health that results from unwise dieting — from eating meals that lack sufficient "bulk" to provide needed internal exercise.

Common constipation results. Too often it isn't regarded as serious. Yet doctors will tell you that common constipation can slowly undermine your health, leading to discomfort, lowering of bodily resistance, and disease.

Don't neglect common constipation. Usually it is due to lack of sufficient "bulk" in the foods you eat. When it is, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a safe and pleasant corrective. Scientific tests in leading universities have shown that this delicious ready-to-eat cereal supplies the "bulk" needed to provide regular elimination.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture in the body, forming a soft mass that gently cleanses the intestinal walls. It does not break down in the system as does the "bulk" in many fruits and vegetables. So it is often more effective.

Isn't it better to use this natural laxative food in place of patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily, served with milk or cream, are usually sufficient. Stubborn cases may require ALL-BRAN oftener.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all" — but it does correct common constipation. It is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company. Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or cook into appetizing muffins, breads, waffles, etc. ALL-BRAN has a tempting nut-sweet flavor. Eat it regularly for regularity. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

JUDGE WHITE COMMENTS ON SCHOOL DAYS

Popular Sherbrooke Jurist Reviews Activities at Bishop's College School when He Was a Student There in 1884.

Recalling events of more than half a century ago—names that have changed and gone—Mr. Justice Charles D. White, in a special interview in connection with the approaching Centenary of Bishop's College School speaks of his own memories of the school as far back as 1884 seven years before the great fire of 1891 which destroyed many of the school records.

Sitting in his chambers in the Sherbrooke Court House Judge White put aside, for the moment, the business of the day and carried the interviewer back to the leisurely "golden rule" days before the telephone, the radio and the automobile intruded on the peace of the Eastern Townships.

When Judge White first entered Bishop's College School, in 1884, the headmaster there was H. Finnes Clinton. "Day Students," who lived in Sherbrooke, had each morning to catch the eight o'clock Grand Trunk train or catch something far more unpleasant if they turned up late. Sherbrooke was out of bounds. Lennoxville was not, except to students who were "gated" for misdemeanor.

In recalling events that transpired either during or just before his sojourn at Bishop's College School, Judge White related the story of a Mr. Chapman, a Protestant parson of Lennoxville, who took the law into his own hands and cut a lumber boom on the St. Francis river, because he could see no reason why the lumber company had any right to obstruct the "river highway." As Judge White recalled the story, the case was carried through one court after another until, eventually, the parson was exonerated of all blame and the lumber company restrained from obstructing river traffic. The case was naturally important as, at that time, there was a great deal of river driving in the Eastern Townships and the rights of lumber companies was a matter of concern to almost every community.

Returning to reminiscences of his school days, Judge White remarked that one of the few landmarks that have stood the test of time is the old swimming hole beside the railway bridge over the Massawippi river. Three or four generations have used the same spot and it is still being used today.

Among the many names which Judge White recalled as being identified with the school when he was there was that of a French master called LeRay, who was thought to have been an officer in the French Navy and who told delightfully harrowing tales of the siege of Paris in 1870. Harry Brustall was a contemporary student who later came to command a Canadian division during the Great War. Sir William Heneker was just before Judge White's time, but he remembers R. T. Heneker and Fred Heneker. George H. Montgomery, K.C., prominent Montreal lawyer, was a "fag" when "Charlie" White was in the "sixth."

Judge White recalled that the school at that time went in for English rugby and cricket, and he believed, played against Upper Canada College and against the Montreal High School.

Judge White matriculated from Bishop's College School in 1888, was called to the bar in 1896, and appointed to the Bench in 1920—a position he continues to fill with distinction.

Judge White, in discussing the present school as contrasted with the old buildings he had known as a boy, remarked on the many changes which had been made for the better, and felt that the progress which had been made should be a subject of pride to every "old boy."

SAVED 500 LIVES

Liverpool, England, May 28.—"Muretarina McNeil," credited with saving more than five hundred lives at sea, died at his home here. Capt. McNeil retired in 1931 after piloting the famous old liner four years.

SEVEN VICTIMS ARE TAKEN OUT OF HINTERLAND

Two of Seven Killed in Sunday's Plane Crash at Lake Pushketamika Have Not as Yet Been Identified.

Amos, Que., May 28.—Seven men are dead. For four days Quebec's silent north country held secret the exact toll of Sunday's aircraft crash at Lake Pushketamika, but in the gathering dusk last night airmen brought back to this northern Quebec mining settlement seven bodies, some of them battered beyond recognition.

Two of the dead remained to be identified today as three of the bodies were started homeward. They were Pilot W. H. Clarke, 35, of Rouyn, Que.; mechanic George Millham, 23, Rouyn, Que., and Leo Springer, 36, Ottawa mining man.

The other identified dead were Lucien Degane, 24, prospector from Barre, Que., and Roy Hamilton, 25, Matheson, Ont., prospector.

An inquest was opened as soon as the bodies were unloaded from two cabin planes that journeyed the 140 miles from Rouyn to Lake Pushketamika. The five were quickly identified and then an eighteen-hour adjournment was taken.

Except in the case of Clarke, whose face was no more than bruised, identification had to be made by clothing, articles contained in the clothes or, as in the case of Springer, a birthmark.

Karl Springer, of Toronto, identified the body of his brother, Capt. Roy Brown, president of General Airways Limited, for whom Clarke was flying when he crashed, identified the pilot, and Stuart Hill identified his brother-in-law, Millham, by his clothes.

Articles carried by the two prospectors established their identity, but there was nothing to determine the names of the other two passengers.

In threatening flying weather the plane came out of the wilderness to the airbase here. Pilot Clarke Edwards brought the bodies of the two fliers. The others came with Pilot Bill Rensiguer, while Capt. Brown accompanied them in another plane.

The fliers said it must have been almost noon on Sunday when the plane with its seven passengers plummeted into the group of poplar saplings six hundred yards from Lake Pushketamika.

Watches worn by Clarke and Millham had stopped at 11:40 a.m., they said. It appeared the plane, returning to Rouyn with only Clarke, Millham and Springer in it, had stopped at the lake to take on the four prospectors. Airmen held to the theory Clarke struck an air pocket as he took off, hit the trees and bounced some twenty feet to earth.

The plane landed right side up, they said, but buckled in the middle. Clarke was the only one of the occupants thrown clear of the wreckage. All of the victims appeared to have been killed instantly.

When Pilot Edwards first found the wreckage last Monday he counted only six dead. He could not see the seventh body hidden by the crumpled fuselage.

At that time there was no chance for a thorough investigation. Threatening weather forced them to take off for the Rouyn base quickly and it was not until yesterday that fliers could go into the north country and bring out the bodies.

Even at that, when Edwards and Rensiguer left Rouyn snow, sleet and rain was reported from the mining country.

Capt. Brown, feeling deeply the loss of the men, particularly Clarke and Springer whom he said were "two of his best friends," said the plane would not be salvaged. "We want nothing to remind us of this," he said. "It will be burned."

MASS MURDERS SHOW UNUSUAL COINCIDENCES

Recent Family Slaying Less Shocking than Old New Brunswick Tragedy when Six Persons Were Killed by an Axe.

Saint John, N.B., May 28.—Ghastly similarity in violent deaths of Philip Lake, his common law wife and baby son at Pacific Junction, N.B., on January 5, 1936, and the murder of an entire family at Misspec, near Saint John, seventy-nine years ago, is shown in dusty records of the latter case.

Mass slaying, isolated scenes, adult and child victims and the burning of their homes were similar aspects of the tragedies. Robert McKenzie, his wife and all their four children met brutal death but the infant daughter of Lake survived.

McKenzie, a thrifty Scot, was reputed to have $30,000 in his comfortable home. Some miles away the family of Patrick Slavin, fifty-five years of age, lived in a humble shack. Plotting with a man named Breen, farmhand of McKenzie, they planned to steal the Scot's reported wealth.

From a small, nearby farmhouse the plotters closely watched movements of the doomed family. Finally Slavin's older son, also named Patrick, aged sixteen, lured McKenzie across the road and he was struck down by an axe as he entered the little dwelling. In a pocket the conspirators found the key to his money chest. Then they crossed the road and turned a peaceful home in a shambles.

Mrs. McKenzie, court testimony revealed, was rocking one of her babies to sleep in front of a hearth fire while the other children, all less than six years old, were quietly playing in the cozy room.

No mercy was shown by the three murderers even when a little girl, in the midst of the bestial slayings, pitifully held up a doll in mute appeal for the assailants to rain their savage blows upon it instead of the family. The mother and children fell beneath the same weapon used in murdering the father. The brutal trio then found McKenzie's hoard, which amounted only to about $100 in gold. Like pirates they hastily divided the sovereigns and set fire to the house in an effort to conceal traces of the crime.

A pet dog, howling mournfully through the night, was the only other witness. The next morning a neighbour found the smoking ruins. Suspicion of foul play was first aroused by a blood stain on the dog, and the Slavins were suspected when members of the family carelessly exhibited gold coins.

After a long trek through woods, Crown officers finally trailed the trio to a rough camp where they had sought refuge from the law. Exhausted from hunger and exposure, they surrendered without resistance.

At the trial Breen promptly pleaded guilty. Young Patrick declared he was not guilty and the elder Slavin first said, "I cannot say I am clear of it." Subsequently the latter confessed the entire gruesome affair. Details of the multiple crime as revealed at the trial drew attention across the continent.

Sentence of death was imposed upon all three following a recommendation for mercy on behalf of the younger Slavin. Breen cheated the gallows by hanging himself with a silk handkerchief in his cell shortly before the day set for the hanging. On a clear, cold Friday the elder Slavin was hanged in front of the King street East jail while thousands saw the execution. It was Saint John's last public hanging.

Sentence of death in the case of Patrick Slavin, Jr., was commuted to life imprisonment. He remained in the old penitentiary overlooking Courtenay Bay for fourteen years before succeeding in a second attempt to escape. Making his way on foot, he entered the United States at Vanceboro, Me.

Technical difficulties in the matter of extradition existed at that time, and as public opinion favored giving young Slavin a chance to begin life anew in another country he was allowed to remain in the United States, where he reportedly secured employment and settled into respectable citizenship.
