Demands for big city welfare aid not right policy-Munro

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has the responsibility to pay for the upkeep of Canadians hit by its policies on unemployment, Perry Ryan (PC—Toronto Spadina) told the Commons Thursday.

He accused the government of ignoring what he called the soaring welfare costs of the provinces and municipalities created by swelling unemployment rolls.

Mr. Ryan, who bolted the Liberal party last year, said the government should at least pay welfare costs of men and their families who could work but cannot find a job.

He was speaking in debate on a Conservative non-confidence motion asking the House to condemn "the government's failure to foresee and take steps to provide for the escalating effects of its unemployment policy upon the social assistance funds of the provinces and municipalities and its failure to consult and co-operate with the provinces and municipalities in providing emergency financial support and employment programs."

A vote on the motion was scheduled later in the sitting.
David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North)

agreed that the federal government should share a bigger part of rising welfare costs.

Mr. Orlikow offered an amendment to the motion that would have the government pay 65 per cent of the welfare bill under the Canada Assistance Plan, under which welfare costs are shared.

Under the present plan, the federal government contributes 50 per cent of cost, the province 30 per cent and municipalities 20 per cent.

Rising welfare costs had been caused by a "deliberate policy to slow down the economy," Mr. Orlikow said.

This had also burdened the federal treasury. Welfare contributions by Ottawa to Quebec are rising to $238 million in 1971 from $146 million in 1970, Mr. Orlikow said.

Transfers to Ontario would be $198 million in 1971, compared with $158 million in 1970.

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette said the same condemnation could have been levelled at the Conservative government 10 years ago. Both governments had followed the same policies with the same effect, unemployment.

The solution to unemployment is a national dividend issued by the Bank of Canada, Mr. Caouette said.

With growing business inventories and agricultural stockpiles, the problem was not over-production but under-consumption.

He challenged the government to give every man, woman and child in Canada $100 each, just once. That would cure unemployment within months by increasing demand and therefore production.

The alternative, continued unemployment, would result in chaos, discontent and revolution, Mr. Caouette said.

Steve Otto (L—York East) criticized opposition demands for more federal grants or loans to the cities. Both would cost the taxpayers money.

He criticized the government for "its acceptance of conventional thinking" in economic matters. It should not have pursued restraint as an antidote to inflation.

And he criticized the municipalities for sharing this conventional approach.

Toronto officials had urged a winter works program. But an $800,000 project would only employ eight men.

Negotiations enter second day

Teachers to dismiss sanction threat

MONTREAL (CP) — French-speaking Roman Catholic teachers were to continue walkouts in Montreal schools today despite the threat of sanctions by the government.

Meanwhile, negotiations in Quebec City to settle the dispute over teacher classification were to enter their second day.

Jean-Paul L'Allier, Quebec civil service minister, threatened Wednesday to take action against the Alliance des Professeurs de Montreal, the only group still continuing strike action carried out by various groups since Jan. 25.

He told the Quebec national assembly he has taken the necessary steps in conjunction with the labor department to apply sanctions provided for in the Labor Code against the rebellious teachers.

Under the Quebec Labor Code, the union could be fined $100 to $1,000 a day for the walkouts. Individual members could be fined $25 to $100 a day.

"No halt in the action is currently foreseen," a spokesman for the alliance said following Mr. L'Allier's announcement that the teachers will be fined for any new walkout.

The negotiations in Quebec City began Thursday after the Quebec Teachers Corporation, which groups 67,000 members of most teacher unions in the province, agreed to suspend rotating strikes begun Jan. 25.

The talks went on despite the walkout in Montreal of about 1,650 members of the 9,500-member Alliance des Professeurs. Some 35,000 French-speaking students in 24 schools were left without classes.

Basis of the dispute is reclassification by the government of the qualifications of certain teachers in Quebec province. Although some have been placed in a higher classification, others have been graded lower and face salary freezes until they can improve their qualifications.

Some teachers have been asked to pay back some of their salaries.

Teacher salaries in Quebec range from $4,500 to $14,500 a year, depending on qualifications and experience.

PM talks of closure to end debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau spoke fondly Thursday of the use of closure to cut off opposition debate. Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield dared him to use it.

Mr. Trudeau, speaking informally in French in a corridor to a group of Montreal university students, said "the parliamentary system is crumbling under its obsolescence and is unable to meet its program" because of time-consuming "clockwatching" talk by opposition members.

One answer, he said, "is to reform the parliamentary system and introduce the guillotine—closure—and then we take a vote."

"But each time that is done we are accused of dictatorship," the prime minister said.

When closure is mentioned, the prime minister said, "the newspapers, the opposition, the press, the students, the professors, say it is dictatorial—they imposed the guillotine to end the debate and the people have a right to express themselves."

"But certainly they have the right to express themselves—but if they want to speak for 20 days on each law, they should not complain at the end of the year that only 20 laws were passed instead of many more."

Mr. Trudeau said efforts to speed up debate introduced by the government two years ago were blocked. "It does not go any faster than two years ago."

The political science students were from the Montreal campus of the University of Quebec and the University of Montreal.

ET social service agencies ordered shut by management

SHERBROOKE (WC) — Social Service Agency employees arriving for work yesterday morning found their entrance barred by armed guards enforcing the indefinite lockout imposed by management Wednesday night.

Management was retaliating for a series of work stoppages and slowdowns the culminated in day-long sit-ins by all 92 area employees at offices in Magog, Sherbrooke, Asbestos and Lake Megantic.

At a press conference held yesterday, Mr. Richard Beauchemin, local union leader, said that due to a decision by the management to suspend social services throughout the province, the population should be informed that the 92 local bureau employees are not responsible for the stagnation of services. "On the contrary, during the time that we carried out our walkouts to try and pressure the government into better negotiations, we made sure the public got the maximum service they deserved," he said. "During the last few months, within which time we have carried out the walkouts, service has never been interrupted for an equivalent of more than one day a week. Now, with the management's response, service is suspended indefinitely," he said.

Negotiations first began nearly a year-and-a-half ago in December 1969 but neither side has been able to agree on the following clauses: hours of work per week, overtime pay, paid holidays, pension fund, insurance plan, retroactive pay and salary scale.

"It is evident that in declaring the lockout management is trying to use the population to impose a work contract on the employees," Beauchemin said.

Plans are now being formulated by the employees to make available to the public the same services as the agency would normally offer. Offices would be set up at different sites within the city and would be manned by the employees themselves.

The union has asked the government to appoint a mediator in the dispute.

The Sherbrooke shut-down was in line with the rest of the private family and social service agencies throughout the province.

All workers are affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions.

The temporary work halt was called by Jean-Guy Beaulieu, president of the management negotiating committee. He said the move was a direct result of the rotating walkouts and work slowdowns which have almost paralyzed the industry.

In a telegram to the CNTU, Mr. Beaulieu said the forms of protest used by the workers made it "impossible for the agencies to serve their clients adequately."

Union advisor Martial Laforce criticized Mr. Beaulieu for blaming the unions.

Land continues to sink at Asbestos

ASBESTOS — A 400-foot stretch of land, between Bourbeau St. and St. Jacques and St. Roch Streets, fell 15 feet in eight hours yesterday.

The latest land movement tends to further aggravate the delicate situation which has been evident over the past few months.

Canadian Johns Manville spokesmen were not available for comment.

The company had taken advantage of the stable land movement situation during the past few weeks to bring in a giant steam shovel to scoop up the dead earth between the crack and open pit. This latest land movement can only serve to further weaken the surrounding area and may jeopardize the working of the steam shovel.

CJM has also been hurrying to demolish company-owned houses in the affected area.

Rose wrote execution note

MONTREAL (CP) — A handwriting expert identified Paul Rose Thursday as having handwritten a note announcing the "execution" last October of Pierre Laporte, kidnapped Quebec labor minister.

Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel of the provincial medico-legal institute was testifying at the non-capital murder trial of Rose, 27, one of four men charged with having abducted the labor minister Oct. 10 and strangled him Oct. 17.

He said the note saying Mr. Laporte had been "executed" was discovered Oct. 18 and was one of three messages in Rose's handwriting.

THE SHOW FOR ALL SEASONS AT THE SHERBROOKE SPORTS PALACE WHERE THE TEMPERATURE IS ALWAYS IDEAL — 360 PARK ST. — SHERBROOKE — MARCH 24TH THRU 28TH — SEVEN SHOWS

Will the real Chester Ronning please stand up...

SHERBROOKE — Chester Ronning's performance yesterday before Canada's Senate foreign relations committee was absurd but not out of character. The former diplomat, who has long been a critic of US policy in the Far East treated the Senators to a turgid whitewashing of communist China's foreign policy.

Mr. Ronning asserts that the Peking regime has no expansionist ambitions, and "no aggressive intent beyond the borders of the old empire." Mr. Ronning must be quite aware that the old empire included vast tracts of the Soviet Union, Outer Mongolia, Formosa, and the reduction to a state of vassalage of Indochina, Korea, and Burma.

Mr. Ronning must also be aware that the Maoist doctrine of "People's Wars of National Liberation" is a murderous euphemism for encouragement of indigenous revolution; that it constitutes ideological imperialism of a form quite as obnoxious, meddlesome, and expansionist as traditional aggression. China consequently possesses an admitted territorial acquisitiveness greater than any country's, while claiming ideological primacy and moral ascendancy equalled only, and only just, by that of the Soviet Union in the 1917-1921 period.

Mr. Ronning's sycophantic defense of the Chinese intervention in the Korean War as necessary for national security is an extraordinary distortion. The Soviet Union was the post-Second World War occupying power in North Korea, and was therefore the most legitimate guardian of such claims as North Korea had to nationhood. The army which approached the Yalu under the command of General Douglas MacArthur in 1950 was a United Nations army charged with the task of definitely ending North Korea's aggressions against South Korea. It was not equipped or motivated to embark on an invasion of China, and not even such a slavish disseminator of mendacious casuistry as Mr. Ronning could believe that the United Nations was bent on a hostile occupation of Korea.

The reference to the invasion of Tibet as a "liberation" is typically far-fetched. The dominance exercised by China over its neighbours in the height of the power of previous dynasties was exercised in a vacuum: there was no appreciable western influence in the Far East, Japan was primitive and isolationist, Russia was not a trans-Siberian power. The smaller states on the periphery of China had no allies and no real capacity for collective defense.

For Mr. Ronning to argue, as he apparently does, that China should be cheerfully assisted in recovering its former satrapies is a shocking proposal for a onetime functionary of some significance in the Canadian foreign service. He might just as well urge that Schleswig-Holstein be restored to Germany; Greece to Turkey; Algeria to France; Israel to the Arabs; and the United States to Great Britain, except for Texas, which would revert to Mexico, and thence to Spain.

One of the numerous questions to be resolved by the Vietnamese war and its aftermath will be this point of the extent of Chinese preponderance in the Far East. Mr. Ronning has been consistent, though scarcely lucid, in his criticism of US policy in that theatre.

The aims of American Far Eastern policy have often been explained: to promote a balance of power in East Asia internal to East Asia and not perpetually in need of trans-oceanic bolstering; to strip the guerilla war of the myth of invincibility; to contain the volcanic force of Asian communism (but not to eradicate it where it already exists); to prevent one of East Asia's most strategic areas from tumbling into the hands of America's self-sworn enemies; and to lend credence to the SEATO collective security agreements.

The United States does not oppose a change in the status quo, merely an alteration of the internal status quo imposed by external aggression.

These American objectives are quite unexceptionable. The United States did not originate hostilities in the Far East and will probably not conclude them. All President Nixon and his allies ask in peace terms is that all non-indigenous forces be withdrawn from South Vietnam, and that free, internationally supervised elections be held in South Vietnam; elections in which all elements will be free to participate and by whose result all will abide.

Mr. Nixon seeks "a peace we can live with," a durable peace in a region where war has raged for 40 years, since the Japanese invasion of Manchuria in 1931. Mr. Nixon has proposed a standstill ceasefire; a total withdrawal timetable; and an all-Indochina conference. It is clear that the communist forces in South Vietnam and Cambodia command slight and diminishing support. Yet Mr. Ronning qualifies American policy as morally indefensible, while China, the world's most bellicose state, is excused its monstrous avarice.

President Nixon explained as recently as yesterday in his yearly foreign policy statement that America doesn't wish to isolate China or deny the world's most populous and venerable people their rightful place of prominence in international affairs.

Mr. Ronning, perhaps motivated by his obsequious reverence for Chinese premier Chou En-Lai, attributes all the misfortunes of the Far East to the US, and informs a committee of the Senate of Canada that the only issue at stake in Vietnam is a coalition government in Saigon.

Apart from disqualifying Chester Ronning as a serious spokesman on the subtleties of foreign affairs, this form of strident foolishness speaks ill of the whole Pearson era crop of Canadian foreign policy architects. At least until recently, most Canadian diplomats appeared to be highly competent at the techniques of external affairs; conciliation and negotiation, but mediocre at foreign policy formation. Mr. Pearson himself is not immune to this criticism.

It is significant that the most recent Canadian delegates on the International Control Commission have not shared Mr. Pearson's view of the conflict, much less that of his thankfully departed appointee, Chester Ronning.

Let us accordingly hear less from the past, and more from those responsible for Canada's current international posture. If Richard Nixon can change from the erstwhile militant anti-communist to attain his present formidable stature as a world statesman, can not lesser men seek to emulate him? Vociferous resurrections of shop-worn prejudices are no substitute for a policy.

Court briefs

By DAVID MAGIL

SHERBROOKE — The "squirrel" admitted yesterday he had bought a stolen pair of opera glasses for $2 at a bowling alley from an intermediary but vehemently denied stealing them from Tabagie Plaza Enrg.

Accordingly, 50-year-old Jean-Paul Gaudreau presented a motion of "non lieu" which was rejected by Judge Roland Dugre in Sessions Court. A motion of "non-lieu", or non-suit, asks that a charge be dismissed because of lack of evidence.

Gaudreau attempted to draw Judge Dugre's attention to what he regarded as discrepancies in Tabagie Plaza owner Jack Friedlander's testimony last week against the accused. Gaudreau pointed out the tobaccoist did not see him steal the glasses and could not positively identify the glasses found on Gaudreau by arresting officers as the same pair missing from his store.

The accused told the court he had bought the glasses from an intermediary in the bowling alley where he was apprehended.

Judge Roland Dugre postponed sentencing the accused until March 3. Gaudreau's trial on another shop-lifting charge proceeds that day.

The accused is being held in Sherbrooke jail.

A 34-year-old Sherbrooke resident accused of stealing $250 worth of copper wire by breaking and entering into the Societe Miniere Weodon will be sentenced by Judge Roland Dugre in Sessions Court March 1.

Ambrose Moreau pleaded guilty at his arraignment yesterday on the charge against him.

A Sherbrooke youth involved in an accident without a driver's licence was brought before Sessions Court yesterday.

Denis Labrie, 19, pleaded guilty at his arraignment on a charge of hit and run which took place on Prospect St. Jan. 1.

Judge Roland Dugre sentenced Labrie to a $100 fine and told the youth he would not be able to drive a car for a year.

Yvon Cadorette, 24, of Kateville pleaded guilty in Sessions Court yesterday to charges of impaired driving and striking a police officer.

Judge Roland Dugre sentenced the accused to a $100 fine and suspended his driving licence for six months on the first charge and accorded a $50 fine or 15 days in jail on the second charge.

Pierre Jean Traversy, 19, of Windsor, will wait in Sherbrooke Jail until Judge Roland Dugre hands down sentence next week.

Traversy pleaded guilty yesterday to stealing a truck valued at $350 from Alfred Goyette in Windsor Dec. 4.

Crown prosecutor Michel Cote told the court the accused was apprehended by police in Richmond during the course of a routine investigation.

Norman Sunbord, 61, of Windsor, had a plea of not guilty entered for him by Judge Roland Dugre in Sessions Court yesterday. Sunbord is charged with impaired driving.

The Windsor resident originally pleaded guilty to the charge but then started to argue his case. He said he was arrested while on the way home from a restaurant where he had bought some food for his wife and said also the breathalyzer test given him showed a reading of 8.5 The Criminal Code of Canada fixes 8.0 as the minimum level under which a charge can be laid.

Judge Dugre pointed out to the accused that he would have to impose a fine and licence suspension if he maintained his guilty plea.

Crown prosecutor Pierre Boily did not object to the not guilty plea being entered.

A 38-year-old Danville resident who pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving which occurred while his licence still was under suspension for a previous impaired driving conviction was sentenced to 14 days in jail yesterday.

Judge Roland Dugre sentenced Rene Boutin also to a $100 fine and suspended his driving licence for an additional year.

Brome notifies Brome Lake of proposed annex

KNOWLTON (PG) — The two-month-old town of Brome Lake was officially notified yesterday of the town of Bromont's intention to double its slice of Brome County by annexing the community of Iron Hill and land as far east as the range 6 road.

The petition, received by Brome Lake Assistant Secretary-Treasurer Barbara Draper yesterday morning, will be considered at the regular monthly meeting of Brome Lake Council March 1.

At last month's meeting, council received a request to meet with Cowansville and Bromont over boundary adjustments. Couneu asked for a postponement until spring to allow it to put its affairs in order.

The territory Bromont proposes to annex includes the area of Stone's Corner in the northwest corner of Brome County and also the remaining land north of Brome Pond lying between the Missisquoi County line and the present limits of Bromont.

Bromont's share of Brome County would be a square approximately six miles on each side in the upper Northwest corner of Brome County, considerably more than twice the size of the present town.

In its by-law 117, passed Feb. 23, Bromont lists several reasons for expanding its territory.

In order to assure the industrial, residential and touristic development of the town, it says, expansion is necessary "in order to protect what already has been accomplished within the present limits."

The by-law says there is space to annex part of the Town of Brome Lake and claims the majority of landowners in the area wish to be annexed.

The by-law states all income from taxes for 1970 would be paid to Brome Lake and that an additional sum to be agreed upon would be paid to Brome Lake by way of compensation.

Bromont Mayor Germain Desourdy was not available for comment and Brome Lake Boundaries Commissioner Alan Webster said he could not say anything until council considers the issue Monday night.

Brome Lake Councillor Peter White told The Record yesterday council had the option of ignoring, rejecting or accepting the offer.

If council chose to ignore or reject annexation, White said, Bromont could circulate a petition among property-owners which would require 66 per cent approval to permit annexation.

If Brome Lake accepts, he said, property-owners can object and demand a vote at a public meeting which would take only a simple majority to decide the issue.

SHERBROOKE (WC) — The annual fund raising campaign of the Sherbrooke branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society began last night with the official opening held in the Union Regional des Caisses Populaires Desjardin building.

This year's campaign will run from Sunday, Feb. 28 to March 21 and has an objective of $20,000.

Co-chairmen Claude Beaurivage and Bernard Murray are busy organizing canvassers for the regions of Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Ascot Corner,

U of S professor named Marketing Man of Year

SHERBROOKE (WC) — Michel Cloutier, Dean of the Faculty of Administration at the University of Sherbrooke, was named Man of the Year in Marketing in Quebec by the marketing review "Pour Vendre."

At a reception held last night at the University of Sherbrooke, Roger Falardeau, president of the review, presented a plaque to Mr. Cloutier.

Mr. Falardeau told the reception of Mr. Cloutier's efforts to advance the concept of marketing in Quebec not only by his collaboration with industry but by his teaching, his research and recently an education film on the concept of selling.

Michel Cloutier, 36, is a native of East Broughton. He received his B.A. and M.A. in commercial sciences from Laval University, Master of Business Administration from Western Ontario University in 1961 and a degree in Superior Marketing from Northwestern University in 1965.

He was a professor at Laval University and assistant Dean of Administration at U of S before becoming Dean of the Faculty of Administration in March 1969.

At the end of February he will leave the university to become consultant to the president of Bombardier Ltd. in corporate planning.

Getting married more than just a proposal

SHERBROOKE (PG) — If you are thinking of leaving your bride at the altar, don't. It may cost more than you think.

This was one of the messages passed on by local notary Robert Kouri, speaking at the YM-YWCA last night on the subject of legal obligations of engagement and marriage.

The lecture is one of a series on "The Law and the Family" intended to inform the public of their rights and sponsored free of charge by the YM-YWCA as a public service.

The next lecture in the series, which is being offered in both English and French, will be Joseph E. Cassar's talk about responsibility and adoption in his discussion on "Children and Parents" March 4.

In last night's talk, Mr. Kouri dealt with the implications of broken engagements, women's rights under Bill 10 and various ways of division of property.

Although Quebec law does not give a marriage engagement legal force in itself, he said, legal action can be taken on the basis that the offending party has caused physical or moral harm either intentionally or by chance.

A damage suit can follow if an engagement is broken off at the last minute or with insufficient reason. Also one party can end the engagement if the other has violated the spirit of the agreement.

Parents can also be held liable if the couple are minors, he said, unless they prove they could do nothing about it. An instance of such liability would be a father withholding or withdrawing consent without good reason.

The offending party can sue for material damages such as cost of caterers or of printing invitations and can sue for 50 per cent of the cost of the bride's trousseau, even though it can still be used, he said.

Moral damages can also be sought for humiliation and damage to honor and reputation, he said, and assessment of such damages rises in proportion to the social standing, wealth, age and reputation of the offended party.

The court can order gifts given in accordance with the marriage agreement returned, he said, but gifts not stipulated in the agreement do not have to be returned. However, return of gifts may be revoked by reason of ingratitude, he said, as in the case of a groom who literally abandons his bride at the altar.

However, gifts to the happy couple by a third person do not usually have to be returned, he said. "The gifts are of a nominal nature and an act of courtesy cannot serve as the basis for legal action."

As regards Bill 10, Kouri said it makes a wife equal in the eyes of the law, which among other things permits sales between husband and wife and also allows the wife to endorse her husband's debt, if need be.

He said there are many types of marriage agreement provided for in the civil code, the only stipulation being that the contract be made on notarial form and registered if it contains gifts.

The first of the three such partnerships he outlined was the partnership of acquiescence, by which property and possessions held before marriage are private while everything brought or earned after marriage comes under a kind of joint ownership.

If the relationship should be terminated, he said, each partner can receive one-half of acquisitions after marriage, an arrangement which usually favors the wife.

No matter what form of agreement is chosen, it may be changed at any time by petition to the Superior Court, as long as it does not infringe on the rights of creditors.

Snow removal costs way up

SHERBROOKE (DM) — Sherbrooke is a city like many other others in the province this winter. The heavy snow accumulation has caused snow removal costs to sky-rocket.

Counc. Rosaire Coutu told The Record yesterday the cost of snow removal to the city up to Feb. 15 was $420,000 this year and $374,000 last winter.

A report from city treasurer Olivier Routhier reveals the total cost of snow removal this winter may reach $600,000. Council budgeted for $475,000 to cover the winter period.

A further report from operations superintendent Jude Lavoie breaks down the cost as of Feb. 6.

Plowing of streets cost $27,113.40, according to Mr. Lavoie's report. The city is divided into 19 circuits and each circuit is accorded one piece of machinery.

Cost of plowing streets and sidewalks as of the same date last year was $26,926.13.

The report reveals the cost of snow-removal alone was $82,299.47 as of Feb. 6 this year, $75,108.66 last year. One team of men work each of the North, East and West wards while two teams work the Central ward.

The teams are directed by small radio-equipped trucks.

Placing sand and salt on city streets cost $73,377.03 up to Feb. 6 this year while the cost to the same date last year was $70,391.93. In spite of council's original desire to keep the use of salt down this year, the 1970 total of 5,000 tons spread by Feb. 6 has been surpassed by 300 tons.

The total snowfall as of Feb. 7, 1970 was 66 inches. Ninety-nine inches had fallen by the same date this year, according to Mr. Lavoie's report.

Arena ready by March 5

SHERBROOKE (DM) — Repairs on the burst boiler in the municipal arena are going so well that the rink will be operable by March 5, Counc. Roger Gingues said yesterday.

At the same time the councillor, whose special "sphere of interest" within the municipal administration is the upkeep of public buildings, elaborated on why council decided Monday night to repair instead of replace the 75-ton capacity boiler. The boiler is a crucial part of the arena's ice-making operation.

A new boiler would cost $8800, he said. He explained the price included the cost of the boiler itself, taxes, transport and preparatory work in the rink.

He also pointed out delivery would take two or three weeks, installation an additional week and icing a further week.

On the other hand, he continued, repairing the boiler would only cost $2,075 plus tax. Counc. Gingues explained that only the pipes within the boiler would have to be replaced because the casing of the boiler, installed in 1907, remained in good condition. The cost of calcium and ammonia and preparatory work in the arena would bring the total repair bill to $4,500, he concluded.

Repairs on the boiler, which burst last Friday, are being carried out by Boiler Specialties of Windsor.

Rustic Fence Co. work goes on despite fire

STANSTEAD (WC) — Work is still being carried on at the L. G. Rustic Fence Co. in Stanstead after the fire that completely destroyed the assembly plant last Saturday night.

Last night, about fifteen of the men who were affected by the fire started production in other buildings situated on Maple Street. Another 25 employees are left jobless for an undetermined length of time because of the fire that caused over $100,000 in damages.

The company is the only one of its kind in Quebec. It transforms cedars into fence products to be exported. It is also the only company in the municipality to employ more than ten persons.

Baldwin's Mills

Miss Gail Hill, Sherbrooke, spent the weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hill and accompanied them to the Dog Sled Derby at Rock Island, Saturday afternoon, Feb. 13, and later attended the supper at Le Baron Hall, Stanstead College.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Markwell and family were in Rock Island Saturday Feb. 13.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mr. John May who passed away on Thursday, Feb. 18. He was a resident of this community for many years before moving to Coaticook.

Red Cross deserves help

March is Red Cross Month and time to pay tribute to the Red Cross Society's services and its thousands of volunteer workers.

Over 90 per cent of Red Cross work is done by volunteers who come from all walks of life, and are of all ages, races and creeds. Volunteers help with the recruiting of volunteer blood donors and the organization and operation of Red Cross blood donor clinics.

Specially trained Red Cross volunteers teach children and adults water safety practices so that they may enjoy water activities in safety. They also operate many water safety programs for the physically handicapped, the mentally retarded, the deaf and the blind. Many volunteer hours are dedicated to helping the sick, the lonely and the elderly — visiting veterans in hospitals, caring for families when the mother is ill, and meeting the needs of senior citizens by providing "meals on wheels", organizing fitness and recreation programs and making them feel part of the community. For many elderly people who would not otherwise venture outdoors, the Red Cross has supplied wheel chair service and transportation to hospital clinics for treatment, or to public gardens, art showings, theatres or zoos for recreation.

Many women volunteers use their talents to make layettes, bedding and articles of clothing for the victims of disasters at home and abroad. They also prepare millions of cotton swabs for use at blood donor clinics.

It is through the financial support of the Canadian public that the articles used for operating these services are purchased and maintained — the sewing machines, the wheelchairs, the instructional aids for the teaching of care in the home and water safety, the items loaned to the public from the Red Cross sickroom equipment loan cupboards and the special apparatus necessary for the teaching of the handicapped.

You support the work the Red Cross is doing in this community when you donate to the financial campaign during March. Therefore be generous to your local Red Cross branch during Red Cross Month.

Bumps in bumper issue

It would seem that in this space age, automobile engineers should be able to produce cars with bumpers of standard height capable of withstanding impacts of five miles an hour by April 1, 1972.

Those are the specifications and the deadline proposed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. They have sent auto company officials scurrying to Washington armed with blueprints and statistics to show why the requirement cannot possibly be met until 1973 or 1974 or maybe 1975, and maybe only for front bumpers but not back bumpers.

One of the least persuasive arguments, however, is this one voiced by an auto company executive:

"Drivers of vehicles which have such an exterior protection system might be more careless in operating vehicles and hit structures that they would now avoid. In addition, some may even play dodgem' with less protected older vehicles."

Maybe we ought to go back to using a piece of wood held against a wheel as a braking system in order to encourage people to drive more slowly.

TIMELY QUOTES

I'm sick of all these aggressive hippies or whatever they are, the "New Generation". They frighten me, a lot of up-tight maniacs going around, wearing peace symbols.
—Ex-Beatle John Lennon.

I come right out of my chair whenever I hear once more on TV that Lake Erie is dead. Lake Erie, if anything, is too alive.
—Dr. William T. Pecora, director of the U.S. Geological Survey, pointing out that Lake Erie's fish harvest is equal to the rest of the Great Lakes combined.

If there were a nice clean button this administration could push, we would do it. But there is none.

—Secretary of Labor James H. Hodgson, on the state of the economy.

Those children kept shouting "power to the people." But I don't see how you're going to have power if you don't know anything. And I could have told them some interesting things.

I hope your lives are worth more than sabotage. No principle is worth the sacrifice of a single human being.

French press says:

Pressure continues on private lakes

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste — The vast movement of contestation by a group of fishermen who, in the summer of 1970, invaded a number of lakes belonging to private clubs in the St. Alexis des Monts region has had its epilogue in court in Shawinigan.

Sixty-one disputing fishermen, members of the Movement for the Abolition of Private Clubs on Crown Land, pleaded guilty and were ordered to pay $25 fines and court costs. However, 18 of them preferred jail terms to paying the fine.

There is no doubt that these "voluntary" prisoners thus want to act as martyrs before the public because each recognized implicitly that the charge was well-founded.

The affirmed that the lakes of the private clubs "are the property of the Quebec people, even if they are situated on Crown land." We are only partially in agreement with that affirmation.

Certainly the holdings of the Crown belong to the collectivity. However, when these holdings are rented to individuals by the duly constituted authority, they belong to these individuals for a determined period of time.

We admit freely that it is frustrating, we would even say revolting, to note that most of the St. Alexis des Monts region is rented to a handful of Americans. Several of these lakes should be open to the public at large. We would even recommend pressure to this end, but legal pressure. — Sylvio Saint-Amant Feb. 20.

Ottawa Le Droit — During his first trip to Europe as head of the Quebec government, Mr. Bourassa proposed to re-evaluate services rendered by Quebec House in foreign lands. There are nine of them and they cost the provincial treasury

$2,254,360 in the current fiscal year, including $866,100 for the one in Paris.

There is no question, as was suggested by rumors, of abolishing them. These agencies serve the economic, tourist and cultural interests of Quebec.

Everything evidently depends on their precise aims and the manner in which they are employed. Following a preliminary hearing conducted by Yves Michaud, deputy assistant minister of inter-governmental affairs, the department decided to reduce expenses by $200,000 at Quebec House in Paris.

Founded under the Lesage administration, Quebec House in Paris was to have been, first of all, a center of information for French people wanting to know about Quebec. It was also to have been, for Quebecers travelling in France or for students there, a reception centre where they could find a bit of their faraway homeland. This mission... was carried out with success.

Today we know that under the Johnson administration, there was a proliferation of personnel and an exaggeration of expenses, without corresponding benefits, especially in the sector of French investments in Quebec. It is up to the current government to determine the deficiencies. — Fulgence Charpentier Feb. 19.

Montreal La Presse — The buckle is buckled. About 80 persons accused of trespassing on private hunting and fishing grounds have been sentenced to $25 fines or eight days in jail.

Thirteen of them, including Marcel Boily, president of the Movement for the Abolition of Private Clubs on Crown Land, chose jail. Ed's note: They spent one night in jail, then paid the fines.

What was wanted by these sportsmen, who last summer took the trouble to wet their lines in the limpid waters of private lakes in the region of St. Alexis des Monts? They wanted the government to revise its policy toward these famous clubs.

Quebec is, in effect, the only Canadian province to rent such vast territory well stocked with game to companies and fortunate individuals. In this way, 97 per cent of forests accessible by car are under the absolute control of forest concessionaires and private clubs.

But the Bourassa government, after the Bertrand government, after the Johnson government, has engaged itself "to proceed with the planned and gradual democratization of fishing and hunting territories."

In a few years, if the government keeps its promise, such trials simply will not take place. In awaiting that time, chasing and convicting those who, not without reason, want to move faster than the state, are worth absolutely nothing and only sharpen the debate, even if "justice is done." — Claude Gravel Feb. 20.

Quebec L'Action — The rotating strikes started several weeks ago by the Alliances des Professeurs de Montreal have since spread across other regions and now risk hitting all teaching sectors in Quebec.

It is regrettable that the teachers chose to go on strike to defend a principle and monetary interests. This action will not help the students, even if certain youth associations and parents have dedicated to join the teachers in support.

The teachers know that the strike is illegal and unjustified at this stage in the application of their collective agreement. In agreeing to sign the contract in 1969, they engaged themselves to work without interruption, according to the announced conditions, until the contract expired, next June.

In other words, recourse to strike action took place very quickly, while other means of finding solutions to the problem were not explored. There was a lack of seriousness and sense of responsibility in so quickly striking, rotating or not.

Even if we pushed reasoning to the point of arguing that the teachers have a right to strike in such circumstances or to reclassification, we can still reproach them for not following the steps required by law so that the right to strike is acquired.

Perhaps the best thing to do, for the moment, is to find a mediator to bring the parties together. This mediator, if he is carefully chosen, could eventually bring the parties together to present the situation from degenerating into a conflict that could only become worse. — Roger Bruneau Feb. 19.

RED CROSS MONTH — The purposes of the Red Cross are: To furnish volunteer aid to the sick and wounded of armies in time of war, in accordance with the Treaty of Geneva and in time of peace or war, to carry on and assist in work for the improvement of health, the prevention of disease, and the mitigation of suffering throughout the world. Remember these wide objectives during March, the Red Cross month.

NOT ON SIDEWALKS — City Treasurer Olivier Routhier reports snow removal costs this year $203,103 to February 6, an increase of $6,000 over corresponding period last week... pedestrians firmly convinced that very little of this represented opening and maintenance of sidewalks.

CANCER SOCIETY DRIVE — Gaston Gagne named chairman of annual financial drive of Sherbrooke section of Canadian Cancer Society to be held during April... President Gaetan Couture reports that 1970 drive netted $13,052 against objective of $13,000.

THE MEGANTIC OUTLAW — Indications are that CBC will rebroadcast radio program presented in 1967 on Donald Morrison, The Megantic Outlaw... much more accurate than recent television presentation.

And a reader, poetry, comments:
ARE THE FENIANS COMING AGAIN

Dear little O'Molly, so immature but sweet
With shining eyes and rosy cheeks
Who listens to the leprechauns
But doth not give her name
When old enough to learn
That there are skeletons galore
Was it three or four
That Scot and English joined
To repel the Irish foe
Who coveted this fair land
Wherein she dwells with peace and ease
Without reproach for those unkind deeds.
Or maybe she will read
The story of Ontario's Donnelly Gang
And then perhaps more lenient be
To that lone Scot who went astray
Prompted perhaps from days of yore
When Clans Morrison and McCauley
Feuded for years and killed each other by the score
As Irishmen do today in dear old Ireland.
Thanks Y'ves.

THE ART BUCHWALD COLUMN

WASHINGTON — The trouble with most business administration schools is that they teach you everything about business except how to keep your job when a company starts to lay off people during an economy drive.

"The reason they don't teach you how to survive during an economy drive," said my friend Wholesworth, who has lived through every pink slip crisis in his company for 20 years, "is that the only way to keep your job during a personnel reduction is to fight dirty. And schools don't want to admit you have to fight dirty to stay in business."

"Give me an example," I said.
"All right, suppose you are working as an executive for the Soft-Serve Tennis Ball Co. The word is out that there is going to be a 15 per cent across-the-board cut in jobs. You don't sit back and wait to see if you're in the 15 per cent? You act immediately."

"You go to see Croton, the vice president in charge of personnel, and you say 'If you have to fire someone in my department, Mr. Croton, I would prefer it be me rather than O'Toole. You see, O'Toole has had some serious problems and that is why he hasn't been able to function for the past six months.'"

"Croton will reply 'Problems. What problems?'"
"His drinking, sir. When O'Toole first came here he never touched a drop. Then he fell apart. But it wasn't his fault. You'd have taken to drink too if you had been under the pressure he's faced lately."

MATTER OF FACT JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — As yet, no one really appreciates the dimensions, or the explosive potential, of the bombshell that Rep. Wilbur Mills is quietly getting ready to toss into the midst of President Nixon's domestic program.

A fully national, completely federalized welfare system is the bombshell. It would be paid for with the money the President has assigned to general revenue-sharing. The powerful and astute chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee already has his staff working long hours on the right design of this kind of welfare system, in which the states and cities would have no role at all.

Chairman Mills has already secured enthusiastic support for his project from Speaker Carl Albert and Majority Leader Hale Boggs. If Mills succeeds, moreover, the resulting enactment will be the most important to have originated entirely in the Congress in over thirty years.

The design that Chairman Mills has in mind is basically very simple. National minima will be established for bona fide welfare clients in all the various categories, among which, of course, and to dependent children is by far the most important.

The establishment of these minimum payments will probably be rendered more easy, by introducing flexibility to cover the one item in the cost of living that really varies enormously, both from city to city and from state to state. This is the cost of shelter. Some flexing of Social Security payments may therefore be needed, too, in order to cover the same variable.

The national minima will be paid as a matter of right, to persons and families who can swear to their need, under the rules laid down by the new system. The idea is to have a welfare system that can be administered without the endless guesswork-interventions of hordes of "case-workers."

Spot checks will have to be made, of course, of the reality of the need sworn to by the welfare clients. But it will become a federal crime to swear falsely to need for welfare clients. But it will become a federal crime to swear falsely to need for welfare payments. Thus it is expected that the checking function can be limited very sharply, leaving a system that will largely depend, like the Social Security system, on a computerized administration, which will simply mail all welfare clients the checks that are owing to them.

The contemplated national minima will not be ungenerous, but they will hardly reach the levels that impose such inordinate welfare costs on New York and California, for instance. Nor will there be any add-ons to the minima, like the rent supplements, clothing supplements, and the like, that are now provided by many state and municipal welfare systems.

If states or cities wish to step in, providing sweeteners in addition to the federal welfare minima, they will be at liberty to do so. But if the system has inbuilt flexing, as now planned, to cover the varying costs of shelter, any state or municipal payments of rent supplements will be subtracted from the federal minima.

Chairman Mills is, of course, too prudent and practical to suppose that this sort of vast and radical transformation of the noxious existing welfare system can be made overnight. He plans a transitional period—"not less than three years, and not more than five"—during which the welfare system will be federalized by stages.

As of now, moreover, he does not foresee interference, opposition or other counteraction, even from the governors of states and mayors of cities where the current levels of welfare payments will be somewhat reduced. "They'll be too damned glad to get the burden off their own backs," he has been heard to remark. That sounds only too logical.

As to the Nixon Administration, the President will be unable to complain that the Mills plan omits the strong incentives and compulsions to get off welfare, and into productive work, that are also included in the Nixon family assistance plan. The President's only complaint can be the substitution of the Mills plan for his general revenue sharing.

But where the need is greatest, the Mills plan will actually have more impact than revenue sharing. Bankrupt New York City, for example, can use its present welfare cost of $1.2 billion a year to pay for the decent schools, adequate police and other services that John Lindsay's New York so conspicuously lacks. Altogether, this really is a bombshell.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Mild Liquid 'Pep Pills' but . . .

Colas Will Not Cause Sterility

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb: — I would appreciate an answer to my problem. A year ago I read somewhere that drinking colas in excess as a youth might make one sterile in adulthood.

I have a family of three children, ranging in age from 18, 12 and 9. They were content drinking an 8-ounce bottle of cola a year ago. Now I find them drinking a 16-ounce bottle every day as though it was water. They laugh at me when I tell them that it may affect their reproduction system in later life.

I'm sure that if I can show them in print that I am correct in stating this, I would stand a better chance of laying down the law. Too, I don't get my wife's support because she says it's like drinking water. I say it's not and I'm writing you to settle this problem.

Dear Reader — I think you must have read about the use of cyclamates in soft drinks. Cyclamates injected in rats affected the chromosomes, causing some concern that in large amounts might cause birth defects. No such effect has ever been observed in man.

You are really a lucky parent to need worry only about your children drinking too much cola these days. You and your wife must have done a wonderful job of rearing them and your concern for your children's habits is probably one reason you don't have some of the problems other parents do these days.

It is true that cola drinks are "soft drugs" just like coffee. They contain a stimulant and when used in excess can cause nervousness or even trouble with the digestive system. In a sense colas and coffee are mild liquid "go pills." They have the opposite effect from tranquilizers.

There is no evidence, however, that cola drinks affect the reproductive system. In fact, the cola generation seems to have been about as active or more so than the previous generation.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am a woman 42 years old. During an examination I was advised that my heart beat did not rise above 60. That, of course, is during normal activities. Is this unusual or

Dear Reader — A slow heart rate may be normal and mean good physical condition. Roger Bannister's heart rate at rest when he was in condition to break the 4-minute mile was less than 40.

There are some disorders of the heart that cause a slow heart rate but a heart tracing is necessary to identify them. Normal slow heart rates are often associated with longer life than fast resting heart rates.

County president guest of WI

EAST ANGUS — The February meeting of the women's Institute was held in the United Church hall with Mrs. R. Joyce and Miss Marion Ord as hostesses.

Roll call was answered by fifteen members and nine visitors. Mrs. Coates welcomed the county president, Mrs. Nugent and members from Sawyerville branch.

Mrs. Wilkin, the secretary, read a letter from Save the Children asking for a donation; this was left until a later date. Several thank you's were received from members who had been remembered while they were sick.

Articles were read by the convenors of Agriculture, Home Economics and Education. Donations were sent to the service fund and the Northern Canadian extension fund.

Mrs. V. Bernard, Home Economics convenor, is to get material for the ditty bags.

Mrs. Nugent, county president, spoke on several points of interest and things that would be discussed at the May meeting.

The business meeting was adjourned by Mrs. R. Joyce and slides were shown by Rev. G. Lokhorst of the International peace garden and the Centennial chair crests made for the library in the Parliament building in Prince Edward Island.

Mrs. Coates read the history of the International peace garden situated between North Dakota and Manitoba consisting of 2300 acres. Commemorating as it does one hundred and fifty years of peace that has existed between the United States and Canada. The International peace garden symbolizes the fact that two nations can and do live in peace and harmony along the longest unfortified boundary in the world.

The mystery parcel was won by Mrs. Fred Robinson, Sawyerville.

Lunch was served by the hostess assisted by other members.

99th birthday

Mrs. Hurley was born in East Clifton and lived there until coming here in 1943.

She has two daughters, Mrs. Mary Ashe who cares for her mother, Mrs. T. C. French and two sons Mr. Volney Hurley who lives here and Mr. Arthur Hurley, Toronto.

GENERAL NOTES

North's three-heart bid is an example of expert technique. He intended to try for slam later on provided his partner could show he really had a heart suit. South confirmed hearts by going to four and North Blackwooded his way to the slam.

The slam is a very good one. When perennial McKenney Trophy winner Paul Soloway looked over dummy, he saw he would romp home barring some very bad breaks. His only problem was to find the safest line against these potential troubles.

He won the trump lead in dummy and led a club. West's ace collared his king and a second trump was won in his own hand. He noted that East discarded a diamond.

At this point Paul had several ways to make his slam. He could ruff a club, draw trumps and spread the slam if clubs would break 4-3. If not, he could develop a squeeze against East by playing out the ace and king of spades after drawing trumps.

A more attractive line would be to try to ruff two low clubs in dummy. This line would succeed provided he could get back to his hand with the spade ace and diamond king. A careless player would lose the hand if he played the spade first since West could jettison his singleton diamond on the next club lead and trump the diamond lead. Paul had noted East's diamond discard and decided it was from length. Hence, he led a diamond; ruffed his last low club, returned to his hand with the ace of spades; drew trumps and spread the slam.

Brome Legion meeting

KNOWLTON — The Royal Canadian Legion Brome Branch No. 23 has swung full tilt into 1971 activities, with a stress on membership and renewals, and many community affairs that are occupying the Legion Hall and the time of the members.

At the recent General Meeting, committees were formed by the President, Herve Gagne, as follows: Building and Maintenance Committee, Earle Falle and Leonard Westcott; Entertainment Committee, Fred Tedman, Ralph Seaton, Mrs. Alan Donkin, Membership Committee, John Sybert, Tom Doucet and John Osterdahl; Publicity Committee, Ford Doherty and Stephen Morson; Finance Committee, Ford Doherty, Miss M. Geldard-Brown, and John Sybert; Welfare Committee, Fred Tedman; Bar Committee, Earle Falle. Branch Representative to the District, John Sybert.

Present plans were made for the Pancake and Sausage Supper which is held annually, on Shrove Tuesday, Feb. 23, and now plans are being made for the Annual Irish Stew Supper on St. Patrick's Day, March 17, and a Grand Dance on Saturday, March 20.

Two members were reported in hospital at the time of the meeting. Roy Bullard and Tom Conolly. Roy has since come home, and Tom Conolly is still a patient at the Queen Mary Veterans Hospital.

Two new members have been received into the Branch Membership, by coincidence, both doctors, Dr. P.C. Staples and Dr. Leslie Brown, so the health of the members should now be in good hands.

Stephen Morson, Branch Secretary, reported that the next District Meeting of the Yamaska Valley District Number 9 would be held March 21 at 3.00 p.m. with Phillipsburg Branch, at Phillipsburg, Que. This is the meeting prior to the Annual Meeting of the election, and at this meeting election of new District Officers will take place.

The use of the Legion Hall has been made available to the Brome Bolton Fish and Game Club for a series of courses on Gun Safety and Gun Handling, sponsored by the Brome Bolton Fish and Game Club with a view to passing out 1971 hunting licenses to all successful candidates who qualify through these courses.

The use of the Legion Hall has also been made available to the Scouts and Cubs Group Leaders and Group Committees; also for the Annual Lions Club Dinner and Ladies Night to be held Feb. 27. There are not many nights when the Legion Hall is not in use for some activity or other, which is as it should be in a thriving and active community.

The joy which comes from the unselfish love that Christ Jesus called for and demonstrated will be brought out in Christian Science churches this Sunday. Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Christ Jesus" will include the Master's words: "These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full. This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you." From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will be read: "Love for God and man is the true incentive in both healing and teaching. Love inspires, illumines, designates, and leads the way."

Nixon has 'careful' praise for Canada's money policies

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon had some carefully phrased praise for Canada's floating dollar Thursday, in what looked at the same time like carefully unspoken criticism of some European currencies.

The subtlety came in the president's second annual report to Congress on U.S. foreign policy, the so-called State of the World message. And like many other passages in the bulky report, it was designed to provide a broadly sweeping view of the U.S. position rather than a detailed summary, leaving ample room for action and interpretation.

As usual in such general U.S. foreign policy statements, there was little specific reference to Canada. Among the 180 pages and 65,000 words, the word Canada appeared only four times.

Three of the mentions lumped Canada with other countries—in anti-pollution measures, foreign trade and space research.

In none of the four mentions was substantial new ground broken in U.S. policy.

BRINGS SPECULATION

But Nixon's reference to the Canadian dollar brought some private speculation from those acquainted with the prolonged and continuing tug-of-war between the United States and some European countries about the deficit in the U.S. balance of payments.

"Canada's temporary freeing of its exchange rate in May, 1970, demonstrated the potential utility of such a mechanism," Nixon said, using the word "mechanism" to describe the floating dollar. But he added that it "also emphasized the question of whether there is a need for new international rules to govern its usage."

Nixon recalled the "recurrent monetary crisis which punctuated the 1960s," when most European currencies were revalued in terms of the U.S. dollar, and said he welcomes "continued work" by the International Monetary Fund in the rules governing the flexibility of foreign exchange rates.

While several European countries have blamed a continuing U.S. balance-of-payments administration has argued that the deficit is being aggravated by over-valued foreign currencies—West German, Japanese, Dutch and Belgian are examples cited—which make U.S. imports more costly while these countries enjoy substantial balance-of-payments surpluses.

The American insistence that the U.S. cannot carry the full burden of currency stabilization for the world seems to some observers to be renewed in Nixon's stress Thursday on the need for greater flexibility in exchange rates, which are influenced strongly by the international balances in foreign trade.

FIGHT POLLUTION

Nixon said the "vigil" of U.S. efforts against environmental pollution "must increase," and cited bilateral discussions with Canada among other countries, as evidence of U.S. concern for international co-operation in reducing pollution.

The president also said he had asked the National Aeronautics and Space Agency "to explore in the most positive way the possibilities for substantial participation" by Canada and other countries in the post-Apollo program of the U.S. in space.

In other areas in which Canada might have figured in the Nixon report, there was no mention of that country's actions.

The silence was particularly noticeable in Nixon's references to China, which Canada recognized last year, and to territorial claims in the world's oceans, on which Canada extended its jurisdiction despite firm U.S. protests.

South Viet troopers beat off tank assault

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers beat off a fierce assault by eight North Vietnamese tanks on their base in Laos Thursday, lowering artillery to point-blank range to help knock out five of them, United States officers said.

While there were no reports of further South Vietnamese advances into southern Laos to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in South Vietnam, said the operation was going well despite heavy fighting and some setbacks.

The fighting in Laos was at Hill 31, about 10 miles inside Laos. The base has been under continuous attack for three days.

The North Vietnamese struck with tanks in their first use of armor since early in 1969. U.S. officers said the direct artillery fire, along with anti-tank weapons, helicopter gunships and jet fighter-bombers, beat off the attack.

Most of the tanks were bagged by the paratroopers and the remaining three fled with U.S. fighter-bombers in pursuit, a U.S. officer in the north said.

He reported the paratroopers still held the hill and "were holding out and were doing a good job." A U.S. F-4 Phantom jet was shot down while flying bombing missions in support of the base. The U.S. command said both crew members were rescued.

There was no word on casualties at the base. Hill 31 is five miles southwest of the point where a South Vietnamese Ranger base was overrun last weekend with severe losses to the defenders.

The action at Hill 31 was the latest in a series of bloody engagements that have erupted since the South Vietnamese drive into Laos began Feb. 8. The South Vietnamese said that three fire support bases and three field positions in Laos were hit by Communist rockets, mortar and recoilless rifle fire. Casualties were described as light.

The tanks reported used in the attack on Hill 31 were believed to be PT-76s, a Soviet-made, light amphibious type.

It was the first time Communist tanks have been reported employed in the current Laos campaign.

A Break in the Action with SCOTT ABBOTT

Rapping with Ronnie

Ronnie Racette was suited up for yesterday's Sherbrooke Beaver practice, but the 28-year-old coach isn't contemplating a comeback with the Quebec Junior "A" Hockey League team.

For one thing, he's well over the junior age limit. Secondly, he doesn't think the Beavers need him in a playing role to survive in good shape the hot race currently being waged among the Sherbrooke team and four other clubs for exact playoff positions.

"We've still got a lot of confidence," the coach was saying in the wake of the Beavers' 7-5 loss to the Maple Leafs in Verdun Tuesday night, a game that matched two teams tied at the time for fourth place.

"We made a lot of mistakes and took a lot of penalties, but we're still in there. We played four against five for 10 minutes in the second period, they had a couple of breakaways and we missed a lot of goals on open nets."

The Beavers play the Three Rivers Dukes, who will finish no lower than third, at the Sports Palace tonight and entertain the Drummondville Rangers, one of the teams in the five-way dogfight for the fourth through eighth playoff spots, at home Sunday.

"If we win these two, we should be in fourth place by Sunday," said Racette.

Verdun plays host to Drummondville tonight and then travels to Shawinigan to face the Bruins Sunday.

"Our trouble is that we can't win three or four in a row," says the Sherbrooke coach. "Sure, we win two together, and then we lose again. If we could put more than two together, we'd get somewhere."

At the same time Racette discounted reports that team spirit is low. "Spirit on the club is very good. It has to be, because we've got to work to finish fourth. But I really believe we will if the guys give me everything they've got. I don't care if a guy's on the ice for just one shift, if he gives me everything he has, that's what we need."

"With players like Normand Dube and Claude St-Sauveur and Rejean Beaudoin if he comes through and the two goaltenders we've got, Yves Belanger and Yvon Pouliot, who I think are the best in the league after Michel Deguise with Sorel, we can finish fourth if everybody works hard."

If the Beavers make it on work, what makes the other teams go?

Ramparts can be had

"Quebec City has Guy Lafleur — he's the leader. After him, they've got good skating and most of them are pretty big guys. Jacques Richard plays just as well as Lafleur and they've got tough guys on defence like Pierre Roy."

Despite their firepower and defence, the Beaver coach believes the Ramparts can be had in the playoffs.

"Sure, they've got the best team, but in the playoffs you start a whole new season and anything can happen. It's a short series. On paper, okay, they've got it. On the ice, that's another thing. They said we'd never beat Quebec and, look, we beat them."

"If they make it, though, I'd like to see them win the Memorial Cup. I don't think they will, but it would be good for the league. Right now the Ontario league has got players from all over — western Canada, Quebec, they look everywhere. They're definitely stronger, but most of their good players come from Quebec."

The Beaver boss sees this factor as holding the possibility of eventual QJHL parity with the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior "A" series.

"If we can keep those good players right here, maybe in two or three years we can be as strong as they are."

For this year, though, he'll take the OHA representative for the Memorial Cup and the Canadian junior championship.

"I like the Ottawa '67s," says Racette. "Maybe it's because that's my home town."

What about the QJHL competition?
"Shawinigan has no stars at all, but they work together and that's why they're second. They play good positional hockey."

"Three Rivers has a leader in a guy like Richard Ledue. If he goes, they all go. And they're heavy — they scare other teams off."

"If we had to meet one or the other, though, I'd rather play Quebec than Three Rivers. Against Quebec I know the guys will be up and play their best, but against the Dukes we always have trouble. We play better against Quebec."

"Verdun I can't understand at all. Their strength is skating, but I don't really see them in fourth place."

"Drummondville is another team I can't understand. They should be in the first three. Against us, they're the best team in the league. I don't know what it is, maybe management, but they should definitely be doing better."

Why finish first?

"Sorel has a young team and their leader is their goaltender, Deguise. He's the best in the league and he keeps them there. And the Hawks get a lot from Richard Campeau."

"Who's next? St. Jerome? They're up and down. The Alouettes are nothing special. They win a couple and then they lose two or three."

"Rosemount is heavy enough and they skate well, but I think they'd be higher without those wrestlers running the team. When Eddie Creitchman comes in the Nationals' dressing room before a game and starts giving a pep talk, I don't think the players appreciate it too much. I know it wouldn't get me or my guys too excited."

The coach tabbed the Cornwall Royals as a team of the future, for which he is thankful.

"We're lucky Cornwall didn't have the team at the beginning of the year that they have now. They're one of the best in the league right now. They've always done well against us," said the coach, understating the case.

The QJHL playoff picture will see the first place finishers — and if you don't know that means the Quebec Ramparts, you haven't been paying attention since September — meeting the fifth place team while second faces sixth. The other pairings are third against seventh and fourth versus eighth.

The arrangement hardly rewards the regular season champions for their year-long efforts, but a first-eighth, second-seventh, third-sixth and fourth-fifth set-up doesn't appeal to the QJHL executives, who fear the titlists might have all too easy a time against the worst of the playoff qualifiers.

After the opening round, the first-fifth winner meets the winner between the third and seventh place teams, with the survivor of the series between second and sixth place clubs meeting the winner of the fourth-eighth series.

Apart from preferring the Ramparts to the Dukes, does the Beaver coach have any other likes or dislikes with regard to playoff opponents?

"No," says Racette. "We'll keep playing and trying to finish just as high as we can and then we'll play whoever we're supposed to."

Now, back to the action.

Ski victory highlights MVRHS Feb. activities

BEDFORD (SA) — The February sports scene at Massey-Vanier Regional High School was highlighted by the Hillcrest Ski Meet held at North Hatley Feb. 10.

A team of 11 fine young skiers under the direction of K. Vaughan won the team title in competition against Bishop's College School of Lennoxville and Stanstead College.

MVRHS finished with 196.4, while BCS took the runnerup position at 214.1 and Stanstead trailed with 219.8.

Basketball activity Feb. 13 at the Chateauguay Valley Regional High School Invitational Junior Boys' and Girls' Tournament, an annual affair, saw the girls' squad down Alexander Galt Regional High School 32-11 in the opening round game. The victory over archrival AGRHS propelled the Massey-Vanier team to wins over Richelieu Valley Regional High School and CVRHS and to the tourney title.

The junior boys met Hudson High School in the first round and came away with a 39-27 triumph. After a second-round bye, the MVRHS team faced Bishop Whelan High School in the final. Changes of a double victory for MVRHS died when the BWHHS squad took a 51-34 decision and the boys' championship.

The Massey-Vanier team's performance was, nevertheless, inspired and the team acquitted itself well, especially after their top scorer fouled out of the contest.

With little practice behind them, the senior boys' and girls' volleyball teams travelled to St. Hubert to play in a tournament at Andre Lerebault Regional High School. The girls dropped a semifinal game, while the boys won the consolation final.

Senior boys' and girls' basketball teams see action again at Macdonald-Cartier Regional High School in Chambly Feb. 17. The boys downed their opponents 63-41, while the girls added to their reputation as the best group of female high school cagers in the province with an 86-6 clubbing of MCRHS.

More records fall as Bruins crush Canucks

Setting National Hockey League records is becoming almost an every-day routine for Boston Bruins who set two marks Thursday night on the way to an 8-3 victory over Vancouver Canucks.

With goals by Johnny Bucyk, Ed Westfall and Ted Green in 20 seconds, the Bruins set a record for the fastest three goals and Westfall became the eighth team member to get 20 goals in a season, also a league record.

The Bruins now will rest for Sunday night when they play host to Toronto Maple Leafs in a game in which Boston could set a record for most goals in a season. They now are just five behind the mark of 303 goals they set in the 1968-69 season.

In other games Thursday, Philadelphia Flyers edged Buffalo Sabres 3-2, St. Louis Blues downed Detroit Red Wings 3-1, Minnesota North Stars tied Toronto Maple Leafs 1-1 and Montreal Canadiens beat Los Angeles Kings 5-3.

HAD EARLY LEAD

The Canucks, who last week upset the Bruins 5-4 in a game at Vancouver, took a 2-0 first period lead in their encounter at Boston before the Bruins started back, led by Bucyk's three goals and three assists.

The 35-year-old left winger set up a second-period goal by centre Fred Stanfield and right winger Johnny McKenzie before starting the record three-goal outburst at 4:50 of the third period.

Westfall beat Vancouver goalie Dunc Wilson at 5:02 and Green's goal came at 5:10.

The previous record of 21 seconds was set by Bill Mosienko of Chicago Black Hawks in a 1952 game against New York Rangers.

The previous record of seven 20-goal scorers on one team was shared by several clubs.

Bucyk's second goal of the night made him a 40-goal scorer for the first time in his 16 NHL seasons. His previous high was 31 goals last season.

Among other records that stand within easy reach of the East Division leaders are most points and most wins in one season.

With 18 games remaining, they are just 10 behind the record 103 points Montreal Canadiens earned in 1968-69 and just three wins back of the 46 mark the Canadiens set the same season.

The Bruins bombarded the Vancouver netminder with 60 shots. McKenzie with two goals and three assists and Stanfield with a goal and four assists were their other big leaders.

SCORES THREE GOALS

Pete Mahovich, playing in his first full NHL season, scored three goals, including what proved to be the winner, in Montreal's triumph at Los Angeles.

Pete's second goal of the night also moved him into the 30-goal-a-season class which older brother Frank has reached six times in 13 seasons.

Frank scored his 21st goal of the current campaign into an empty net in the last minute of play.

The Canadiens outshot the Kings 42-34 on their way to moving seven points ahead of fourth-place Toronto in the East Division.

Snow removal deadline set for mid-March -Jarvis Park

MONTREAL (CP) — While Montreal Expos were continuing their spring training program in the warmth of West Palm Beach, Fla., Thursday, Marc Cloutier, director of operations for the National League baseball club, was faced with another problem.

Cloutier must find a way to remove the winter accumulation of 130 inches of snow from the baseball team's home grounds — Jarvis Park — before the home opener April 13 against New York Mets.

The 130 inches of snow so far this winter is seven inches less than the record fall in 1946-47.

"We have drifts up to 10 feet and you have to go up about 20 or 25 rows in the stands before you can see a seat," Cloutier said.

But Cloutier has set a mid-March target date for 50 men to move in with shovels and wheelbarrows and clean up the stands.

By March 22 — the last possible day depending on further snow or rain — Cloutier will try a new method of clearing the field.

"We're going to bring in a tractor with big balloon tires and a snow blower attached to the front," he said. "We'll keep the blower six inches off the ground and leave a six-inch blanket in case of later cold weather."

Weight problem costs Expos' receiver $150

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Despite the battle of the bulge John Bateman had to wage as a result of a Gene Mauch edict, he still appears set as Montreal Expos' No. 1 catcher for the 1971 National League season.

Bateman, who admits he has a bigger problem keeping weight off than taking it off, had been advised by manager Mauch to get down to 200 pounds by Wednesday's official weigh-in here or face a $100 fine for each pound he carried over the limit.

A club spokesman said Thursday that the six-foot, three-inch Bateman missed the 200-pound mark by 1½ pounds and it cost him $150.

"The problem is to keep the weight off, not take it off," Bateman said.

He faced the same problem last season, but slimmed down by about 20 pounds to his best playing weight of "about 200 — or maybe a pound or two less."

A bruised kidney sent Bateman to hospital early last season to add to his problems. He then had to spend a few weeks with the class AAA Buffalo Bisons of the International League, where he played seven games, to get back into shape.

When he returned to the parent club, Bateman's bat became a big factor in the Expos' late-season drive. He had 113 hits, a career high for his nine seasons in pro baseball. Bateman contributed 15 home runs and finished the season with a .237 batting average.

"I got into 139 games last season and hope to get in more this year," he said. "The whole club seems to be greatly improved and I think we can finish fourth or even third if we play as we did when we got things going last year and if we get a few breaks."

Williams inks $100,000 pact

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Outfielder Billy Williams, the National League's record-holding iron man, Thursday became the first player in Chicago Cubs history to sign a $100,000 contract.

Previous high Cub salary was reported to be $90,000 given Ernie Banks after the veteran Cub won his second straight Most Valuable Player Award in 1959.

SKIING and Snowmobiling in the Townships
by Charles Catchpaugh

Predictions are that we'll ski well into April this year and that there's still plenty of snow to fall. While this means lots more fun for skiers, it's also a boost to the cash registers at the various resorts, whose receipts determine whether or not there'll be improvements for next winter. In a fast survey, we've been able to determine that the consensus among operators in our zone is that this is a first-rate winter, with bigger crowds and, on the whole, more spending. So, chances are, we'll see changes at many areas next winter.

Among those quotable quotes, we have repeated complaints about the number of break-ins there have been this winter at ski chalets. Evidently the robbers have well-checked-out information on the various cottages they've hit, because their take in many instances has been tremendous, and still there isn't a clue as to who these plunderers are. The people robbed have good reason to shout. They feel it's about time some arrests were made.

A couple of would-be snowmobilers, wondering when some outfitter would start an hourly-rental service, mentioned that such a business would prompt many persons to try the sport. "Once hooked," one of the gents said, "there would be only one way out, and that would be to buy a vehicle!"

This is the season that new ski equipment lines begin appearing, prior to the end of winter. Many of the items coming on the market will be featured at ski shows and will be sold for next winter's use. If you are on the watch, you'll likely see some of these yet-unmarketed numbers appearing where you ski.

Typical of such new lines is a radically new design in ski boots being produced by Hanson Industries Incorporated of Boulder, Colo. Alden B. Hanson, president announced that his company will offer a recreational model known as the Prima and a racing model called the International. A prototype testing program began in December and will end this month.

Chris Hanson, brother of the president, designed the new boot line. The boot features a rear-entry design with a synthetic molded exterior and an entirely new concept in customized fitting. Chris Hanson pointed out that the rear-entry design will provide for greater comfort through a more uniform distribution of pressure. The new fitting system will allow quick and easy adjustment to the customer's foot. Unique to the boot is a customized liner that can be personally readjusted by the customer at any time.

Racing models will differ from the recreational boots primarily in flexibility and optional accessories. The Hansons predict that the boot will be extremely popular with ski racers because of its light-weight, uniform pressure distribution and quick response.

Ali's 'agent' barred from Joe's camp

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One of heavyweight champion Joe Frazier's sparring partners was barred Thursday from Frazier's camp, charged with making secret nightly reports to Muhammad Ali, who fights Frazier for the crown on March 8.

Don Warner, who has sparred with Frazier for four years, was fired by Yancey Durham, the champ's manager.

Warner could not be reached for comment.

"He's been under suspicion for two weeks now," Durham said of Warner. "I didn't want him as a sparring partner this time, but Joe said to give the boy a break."

Durham said Warner was making telephone calls every night to Ali reporting on Frazier's progress. Durham said Ali identified Warner as his "secret agent" to a reporter in Miami Beach, where he is training.
