Fifty-Third Year

TONY DEMERS RECEIVES SENTENCE OF 15 YEARS

World News In Brief

Washington, Nov. 22.—(P)—A score or more countries are expected to fall in line promptly with a United States proposal for concerted action to free Consul-General Angus Ward from a Chinese communist jail.

Officials looked for the first responses today to the personal message asking intervention with the Peiping Red regime. State Secretary Dean Acheson sent it out during the week-end to the foreign ministers of 30 governments, including Russia.

The big question mark was whether Moscow and the four other Soviet-bloc countries would agree to take part in the international move, which diplomats said was without precedent.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The 18 survivors of a B-29 crash, picked up Saturday by a Canadian destroyer after 79 hours in two overcrowded life rafts on rough seas, were being improved today. Some were playing poker—but used dominoes instead of money.

The United States air force fliers are recuperating at Kindley Field hospital here. They are all responding rapidly to treatment and should be able to leave the hospital within four days.

London, Nov. 22.—(P)—President Vincent Auriol of France and his wife will pay a state visit to the King and Queen next March 6, Buckingham Palace announced yesterday.

London, Nov. 22.—(Reuters)—Britain's armed forces decreased 23,900 during three months to a total of 746,000 as of Oct. 1, the defence ministry announced last night.

Tokyo, Nov. 22.—(P)—Baron Reijiro Wakatsuki, 83, sometimes called Japan's last pre-war Liberal Prime Minister, died yesterday. He was Prime Minister between 1936, 1937 and again in 1931. His downfall and the assassination of his successor led to a series of cabinets under increased military domination.

Berkeley, Calif., Nov. 22.—(P)—An earthquake described as large and 5,800 miles distant was recorded at 5:04:05 last night on the University of California seismograph.

The university seismographic station reported early to day the direction from Berkeley lasted an hour and 45 minutes, was undetermined. The minutes.

Liverpool, Nov. 22.—(Reuters)—The Cunard White Star liner Britannic, delayed since Saturday by fog and the loss of an anchor, left here for New York late last night with 400 passengers.

New Safety Measures Are In Prospect For Lake Ships

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—(P)—New safety measures on inland passenger ships, involving extensive reconstruction, were in prospect today in the wake of a critical judicial report on Toronto's Noronic fire disaster.

Implementation of the report would call for ships to expand fire-fighting equipment, at an overall cost probably running into the millions.

The government, in tabling the Noronic report in the Commons yesterday, indicated it would bring down early legislation to tighten safety provisions.

The report, by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada, recommended a series of such measures and also blamed the owners and master of the Noronic for the Sept. 17 fire that claimed 118 lives as the liner was berthed at Toronto.

Mr. Justice Kellock, who investigated the disaster as commissioner in a transport department inquiry, suspended for one year the certificate of Capt. William Taylor, 66, of Sarnia, Ont., master of the 36-year-old cruise vessel.

He also penalized the owners—Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd.—by assessing them the inquiry, which may run between $50,000 and $100,000.

In his 30,000-word volume of findings, the commissioner placed blame for the fire and the loss of

Judge Says Sentence Would Have Been 25 Years But For Request For Clemency

Small Powers Back West In Cold War

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Lake Success, N. Y., Nov. 22.—(P)—Small countries in the United Nations today are expressing louder than ever before their distaste of the cold war.

All but Yugoslavia continue to vote almost without exception with the big western powers when it comes to an east-west showdown in the U. N. Assembly.

The representative of Premier Tito alone gives voice to the idea of a "plague on both your houses" and supports Russian or western resolutions on various issues.

Another showdown vote is slated to be taken early this week in the 59-member political committee. Already the majority have expressed support of the 12-point Anglo-American resolution outlining the essentials for permanent peace.

And they have rejected the Soviet resolution which calls for a peace pact among the big five powers. The most constant themes in small power objections to the Russian plan are:

1. That it demands condemnation of "preparations and the United States for 'preparations for a new war.' This is an unwarranted accusation.

2. That it apparently excludes the small powers from the machinery of strengthening peace. A Philippine delegate said small countries should work actively for peace rather than take on the position of "kibitzers."

While small powers voiced unstinting support of the Anglo-American plan last week, they gave no less emphasis to their disapproval of the "word war" conducted by Russia and the United States in U. N. conference rooms.

Assembly president Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines—who hopes the present session will be known as the "peace assembly"—took an unusual step at the weekend. Demanding that insults be stopped, he ruled that henceforth such phrases as "satellites of Moscow" and "minions of Wall Street" will be stricken from the records.

It was too early to determine whether the plea to end the verbal part of the cold war in the U. N. will have any permanent effect.

But there were some signs that both east and west delegates are toning down their attacks.

Some small powers went farther than mere disapproval of the harsh words flung across the conference tables.

Carlos P. Lopez and the Philippines told Russia and the United States to stop risking war for the sake of world domination.

Demers Impassive as Sentence Is Delivered by Mr. Justice Cesaire Gervais—Appeal Status Still Indefinite.

By MARGARET DOHERTY
Tony Demers, former National League hockey player and star right wing of the Sherbrooke Saints, stood impassively in the prisoner's dock this morning and listened to Mr. Justice Cesaire Gervais sentence him to 15 years in the penitentiary, for the manslaughter death of attractive 32-year-old Anita Robert, of Coaticook.

Except for a slight pallor, the accused, wearing a smart grey suit, showed no more emotion than he had throughout the trial, and when asked if he had any statement to make answered firmly, "No, I have nothing to say."

Mr. Justice Gervais, in sentencing Demers, said, "I shall mete out punishment to you, proportionate to the grievousness of your crime. You owe an immense debt to society and the sentence which I am about to pronounce, will put an end to your brilliant career as an international athlete."

"It is a pity that the strength which you displayed so proudly, should have been used brutally and savagely against a feeble, intoxicated woman, whom you had so subjected to your passions and desires, that not even the fearful pleading of her mother could keep her from going out with you."

"You drank a great deal on that day, knowing that liquor would make you quarrelsome and as a result, you killed her. You plunged this woman into eternity, without any preparation. During your sojourn in penitentiary, I hope you will think of the fate of Anita Robert, and that you will repent."

In conclusion, Mr. Justice Gervais said that, in view of the fact that the defence attorneys as well as the members of the jury had pleaded for clemency, he would not impose the 25 year sentence which he had in mind, but would reduce it to 15 years.

"You are young yet," he added, "and your behaviour in the penitentiary can reduce your term."

Representations were made to the Bench, prior to the handing out of the sentence, by both Crown and defence attorneys.

Henry Monty, K.C., Chief Crown Prosecutor for the District of Montreal, said that intention was no excuse for the crime committed by the accused, and he pointed out that the jury had completely repudiated the accident theory, choosing to believe that Anita Robert died as a result of a beating she received from Demers.

"Had the jury not recommended clemency," Mr. Monty said, "I would have asked that the accused be sent to penitentiary for life, but under the circumstances, he must nevertheless be justly punished for his crime, for his own sake and for the protection of our society."

An appeal was also made by Paul-Emile Brazeau, who handled the defence with Evender Veilleux, K.C., as counsel. Mr. Brazeau reminded the Judge that he alone had the right to decide what magnanimity shall be shown and requested the ultimate clemency.

Spectators were barred from the Court Room this morning, and, in contrast to the huge crowds which thronged the Court House throughout the trial, only a very few people stood outside to get a glimpse of Tony as he was taken back to the local jail.

Defence attorneys who, over the week-end had declared that they intended to appeal the case on several points of law, would not commit themselves this morning, but stated that the decision would be made shortly.

Thirty-two-year-old Demers, former member of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League and last season, while with Sherbrooke, voted the most gentlemanly player in the Quebec Senior Hockey League, was convicted Nov. 5 of manslaughter.

He originally was charged with murder, following the death in Providence Hospital, Magog, on Sept. 16, of Mrs. Robert with whom he had been drinking the previous day and night.

Mrs. Robert died from injuries which the Crown contended were the result of blows inflicted by Demers. Tony, on the stand for more than two hours at his trial, said the woman was injured when she fell from his car although in an earlier statement to police he had admitted striking her.

Mrs. Robert was taken to hospital by Demers and the Crown contended Demers beat her because of jealousy and because she called him a vile name as they drove through the night in his automobile.

Demers' trial lasted five days and daily attracted crowds to the Sherbrooke courthouse.

Television Spotlight Turns On Met

By ARTHUR EVERETT

New York, Nov. 22.—(P)—Everybody got into the act last night as the Metropolitan Opera opened its 65th season.

On-stage, the Richard Strauss women-dominated opera "Der Rosenkavalier" went off smoothly with Rise Stevens, Eleanor Steber and others singing out their arias to six solidly-packed tiers of opera-goers.

Between acts, the great and would-be great of society put on their own show for the television cameras.

Those who weren't starred in either performance lined the corridors and pointed, cooed and ached at celebrities on and off the stage.

One minute, the opera house at 39th Street and Broadway was a gloomy, deserted cavern. Its only light came from a single, feeble blue above the orchestra pit.

In the next, it became a glittering, brilliant arena, with bejeweled patrons strung in the colorful laid-out stage.

But the bar was never dim. And never quiet.

A table captain, veteran of 15 consecutive opening nights, lamented:

"This is the worst I have ever seen. They all want to walk around in front of the television cameras. How can we keep the aisles clear?"

He couldn't. He finally gave up. In an endless, between-acts fashion show, society paraded in one door, along the bar and out past the cameras. A few paused for a drink. A handful had tables reserved.

The opening was televised a year ago, but this year it was presented over an expanded network for a record audience.

Critics found "Der Rosenkavalier" satisfying, if not epic. Miss

Spirit Of Nationalism Is On March Again In Germany

By THOMAS A. REEDY

Berlin, Nov. 22.—(P)—Is the old spirit of German nationalism on the march again?

Western allied officials in Berlin have been piling up a file of evidence that points that way.

The bugaboo of communism may soon have to take a back seat. "There's competition around," an American political authority commented today.

All four occupation powers—Britain, France, Russia and the United States—appear to be sensitive to the rebirth of the old Bismarck creed of "Germany for the Germans."

Recent examples of this are: In London, Member of Parliament Brig. Frank Medlicott said "Signs of the return of Nazism in Germany are increasing."

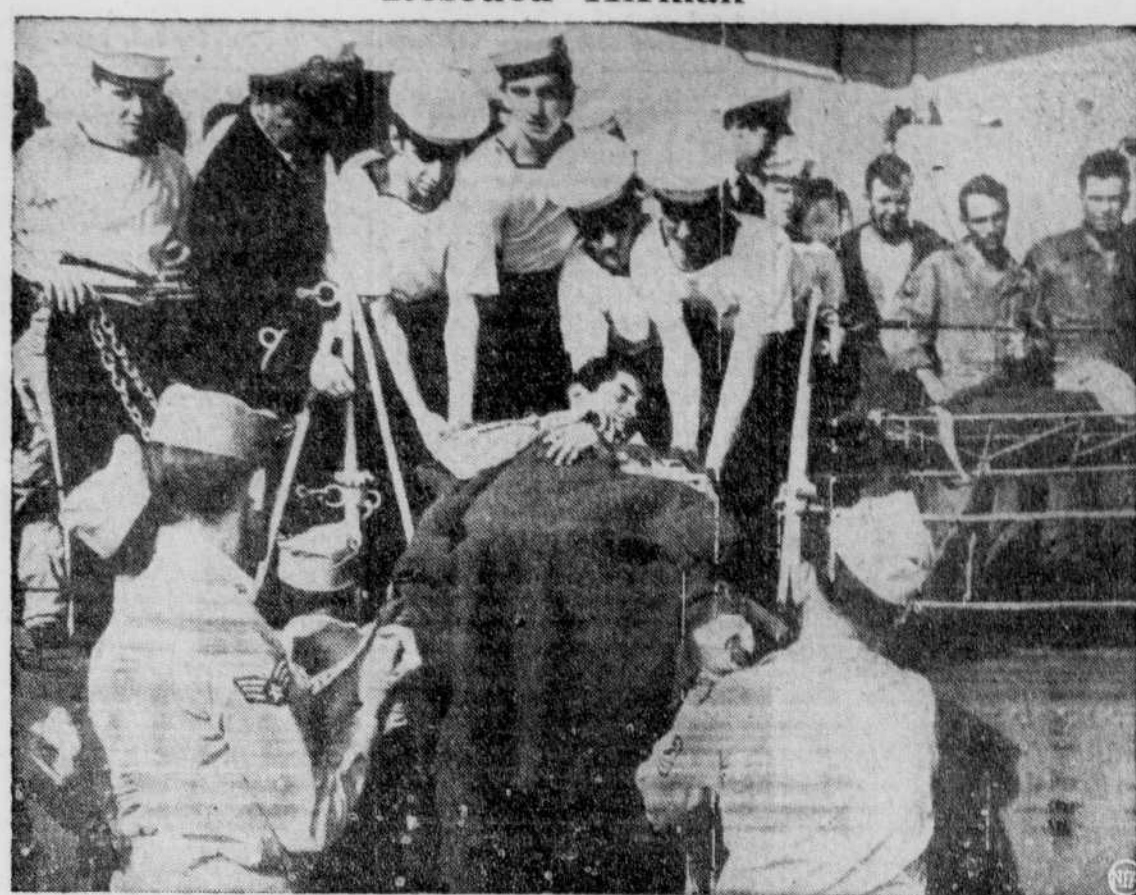

In Washington, Telford Taylor, chief U.S. war crimes counsel, asserted the Germans are trying to "soft pedal" the war crimes trials behind a rising nationalism.

In Paris, the French have consistently resisted proposals to halt dismantling of German industry which they call war potential.

In Ottawa, Field Marshal Earl Wavell forecast that Germany would eventually become a greater problem for the east than the Soviet Union. He called the Germans the "most dangerous people in Europe."

Wreckage Of Dutch Plane Is Found In Norway; One Of 28 Children Is Alive

Sovereignty Is Granted To Libya

Lake Success, N.Y., Nov. 22.—(P)—The United Nations Assembly returned today to committee debate on rival Soviet and British-American proposals for peace after deciding overwhelmingly to make a sovereign country of Libya.

The rival peace plans, now before the political committee, go to the core of east-west disagreement in the United Nations. They have produced heated debate and are expected to continue to do so until the Assembly finally disposes of the issue.

Involved is a Soviet request for a non-aggression pact among five major powers—Britain, the United States, France, Russia and China; and the British-American counter proposal reaffirming the binding nature of the peace pedges contained in the U.N. charter.

Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia has used the Russian proposal as a base to launch charges that what he describes as "reactionary elements" in the United States and Britain are preparing for a new world war.

The western powers have declared their charges are insulting by their very nature and completely unfounded. They saw the U.N. charter itself makes unnecessary any such five-power pact as the Russians suggest.

The settlement of Libya's future came yesterday in an Assembly

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 22.—(P)—Police announced today they recovered 26 bodies from the wreckage of a Dutch plane which had crashed in the dense forests of southern Norway. It was lost en route from Tunis, North Africa, to Norway with the 28 undernourished refugee children, three nurses and a crew of four.

The plane smashed into the forest, cutting a broad swath through the trees. The front part of the chartered Aero-Holland craft was badly damaged, but the rear section was said to have been almost intact. As rescue workers came upon it, some of them reported they could hear faint, feeble cries.

It was reported that the lone survivor was a 12-year-old boy. Several bodies were found strewn about in the dense woods.

The plane was found near Filtvet, a small town on the west side of the Oslo fjord, about 30 miles from the Norwegian capital. The nearest house to the crash scene is almost two miles away, and apparently its occupants did not hear the explosion when the plane crashed.

Even though hopes were slim for any more survivors, squads of ambulance and rescue teams were sent to reinforce those at the scene, a hill, heavily-forested place difficult to penetrate.

The child who survived was taken to a hospital at Drammen, 20 miles from Oslo, police said. A doctor there was quoted as saying the boy has a good chance of recovery.

The boy, one of the pitifully underfed refugee children who had been on their way to rest and rehabilitation in Norway, speaks only this morning. They gave him rights back to former Nazis, then it was impossible for the time being to persuade him to tell his name.

All the children had been destined eventually to go to Israel. A vast hunt for the plane had been under way since Sunday. About 2,200 volunteer searchers had stumbled through tangled forests of south Norway seeking the plane, which was carrying 28 undernourished Jewish refugee children from Tunis in North Africa.

The searchers found the plane shortly before noon, local time, and reported it to police authorities of the Hurum district. An official announcement was made shortly afterward by the chief of police of Drammen, a town 20 miles from Oslo.

The Aero-Holland Aples, whose cargo of underfed children was coming to Scandinavia for rest and rehabilitation before proceeding to Israel, mowed down trees in a wide swath as it crashed into the forest.

The front part of the plane was almost completely smashed, but the back part seemed almost intact. Rescue squads clawed at the wreckage to get at the intact portion.

Only last night a group calling itself "Friends of Otto Strasser" tried to hold a political rally in

Hall Of Fame For Farmers Is Proposed

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—(P)—Canada's farmers soon may have a hall-of-fame to honor the outstanding figures in the nation's leading industry.

Directors of Ottawa's Winter Fair—second in size only to the big Royal Winter Fair at Toronto—have got the idea off to a fast start by setting-up a preliminary organization and nominating a candidate.

They are seeking to form in Canada a club patterned after the famed Saddle and Siroin Club of the Union Stock Yards, Chicago. Restricted to agriculturists, the club would annually select a member making an outstanding contribution to world or North American agriculture.

Nominated by directors for the honor of being acclaimed No. 1 farmer this year is 64-year-old Dr. E. S. Archibald, one of Canada's foremost agriculturists and director of the country-wide Dominion Experimental Farms.

A native of Yarmouth, N.S., the former farm boy graduated from Acadia University at Wolfville, N.S., and later won his Bachelor of Science in agriculture at the Guelph Ontario Agricultural College.

He was professor of agriculture at the Truro, N.S., Agricultural College before joining the staff of the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa in 1912.

The suggested agricultural hall-of-fame already has won good support from agricultural bodies across the country. Directors said they had broached the subject to other winter clubs across the country and that the idea appears to be gaining ground.

Under the Ottawa proposal, an all painting would be completed of the farmer winning the club's annual award.

But agriculture, like sportsdom, may have trouble in reaching agreement on just who should be nominated for the honor of having their painting hung in the club.

Both Agriculture Minister David Ure, of Alberta, and Manitoba's Agriculture Minister F. C. Bell suggested that it would be more fitting to have the honor go to a man actively engaged in farming for his livelihood than a scientific farmer like Dr. Archibald.

But whatever plan is followed, Canada's agricultural hall-of-fame is not likely to lack worthy candidates for hanking in the club house of the Canadian Saddle and Siroin Club.

An added difficulty to the proposed organization might be finding sufficient wall-space to honor the legions of Canadian farmers whose products are renowned around the world.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—(P)—Donald Campbell, 14, last night led his prize Shorthorn steer into the Royal Winter Fair horse show ring to receive the King's Guineas from Governor-General Viscount Alexander.

Donald, who comes from Moffat, Ont., won the Guineas for showing the best baby beef steer in competition with about 125 other junior Ontario farmers. The Guineas were the gift of King Edward VII.

Poles Take 100 Persons Into Custody

Warsaw, Poland, Nov. 22.—(P)—More than 100 persons have been arrested as members of a spy ring which Polish authorities say was linked with the French embassy here.

An alleged confession by Andre Simon Robineau, secretary of the French consulate Szececin (Stettin), Poland, was said by a spokesman of the foreign ministry here to have led to "liquidation" of the spy ring.

Robineau was arrested at the Warsaw airport last Friday just as he was about to board a plane for Paris for a vacation.

"Certain threads have led our authorities to one of the foreign embassies in Warsaw," said Gen. Wiktor Grosz, chief spokesman for the Polish foreign ministry.

Grosz told newspapermen Robineau "admitted espionage and revealed that his position in the French consulate served as a cover for these activities."

(In Paris the French foreign ministry denied the Polish charges. A spokesman said the French were worried about Robineau because he was not the first Frenchman to have disappeared inside Poland. The spokesman said an employee of the French consulate at Bres-

Provinces, Dominion Near Agreement Over Highway

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, Nov. 22.—(P)—The federal government and the provinces are nearing agreement on plans for the completion of a "first-class, hard-surfaced" Trans-Canada highway, Reconstruction Minister Winters told the Commons yesterday.

He made the statement in introducing legislation authorizing the federal government to pay 50 per cent of the cost of completing the 5,000-mile highway. He did not estimate the likely total cost to the Dominion, but some believe it will be between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000.

Some opposition members, while welcoming the legislation, suggested the government pay the full cost of the highway.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said a Dominion-Provincial conference should be called to discuss how the highway will be financed and to choose the route.

Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) said his party wanted to see the federal government assume full cost of the highway. Solon Low, Social Credit leader, supported the suggestion. He said if the federal government did not want to pay all costs it should not ask the provinces to contribute more than 30 or 33 per cent.

Other speakers included Gordon Higgins (PC—St. John's East) and Percy Black (PC—Cumberland).

Earlier, members debated pro-

JAMES MASON'S SAY PARENTS SHOULD LET BABY TAG ALONG

Hollywood — The James Masons are writing a sequel to their book about cats. The new tome is titled "How to Bring Up a Baby."

Since becoming parents, the Masons have some unusual ideas on the subject. They believe that if they go out to a party, the baby should go too. If the parents stay up until midnight, the infant should have the same privilege, etc.

All of which makes me wonder how you can teach a new baby how to play Canasta.

Judy Garland and M-G-M have reached a new agreement, since her latest row with studio brass hats. Under her new contract, Judy will not be required to work for more than six weeks on any one picture. . . . Bing Crosby is trying to coax Ed Wynn into making an appearance in "Mr. Music." If Wynn accepts, it will be his first film chore since 1933, thanks to TV.

Ella Kazan has retained Walter Bernstein, New York writer, to work on a play based on Manhattan's fabulous garment industry.

Inevitable department: Ben Lessy and Sid Kuller are writing a song titled "There's a Little Bit of Texas in Hawaii."

Ken Murray says he will not revive his Blackouts in Hollywood after its New York flasco. He's still nursing the wounds inflicted on him by Broadway critics but is as excited as ever about his future in television. . . . Marlene Dietrich, who was just presented with her second grandson, is seeing London with Michael Wilding, who is almost young enough to be one of them. . . . Humphrey Bogart's agents are peddling him for an airshow, "Stories for Men," from a series of yarns collected by Charles Grayson, Bogie will act and narrate.

Clifton Webb, the bachelor, is having his troubles. He asked me to appeal to the mothers of America to show him some mercy. "I am a mere mortal man," he groaned, "I do not have any miraculous technique for bringing up children."

Since Clifton dumped the bowl of oatmeal on Roddy Macaskill in "Sitting Pretty," he has been called on for assistance in rearing the nation's bubble-gum set. Every mail delivery brings letters from anxious mothers wanting to know whether the should spank junior or ask the police department to give him a good, stern lecture.

Things are getting worse. Now Clifton is playing the father of 12 children in "Cheaper by the Dozen." Now he'll be expected to know even more.

Says Clifton: "In my next picture I want to play a killer or someone whom everyone, including myself, could thoroughly detest."

Jack Paar on television: "At the end of every program everybody gets a cigarette lighter. This gets pretty complicated as your agent gets 10 per cent. My agent has a whole garage full of flints. I'd like to give him the wick but he's so short he might use it to hang himself."

Betty Clark, the 13-year-old blind ABC network singer, probably will be the lead in "The Helen Keller Story," now being written for the screen. . . . Dave Garber, one time Universal studio manager, will establish a film center in Jamaica, British West Indies. Hollywood personnel will be allowed free entry to the island.

Jack Carson will shed his gags again for another dramatic role with Gary Cooper in "Bright Leaf." The role is reminiscent of his straight acting in "The Hard Way" and "Roughly Speaking."

Steve Allen's idea of a great vaudeville bill—Kate Smith in the flesh, Charlie McCarthy in the wood and Frank Sinatra in the bone. Steve also is working in a film story titled "I Remember Papa—or Father Was a Flash-back!"

Hollywood Is Talking About: Walt Disney climbing on the "Mule Train" via a cartoon short written around the nation's new song hit. Frankie Laine will warble the lyrics.

James Mason's 11-month-old daughter, Portland, will make her film debut in "The Duchess of Idaho." The child has been swimming since she was four months old. Producer Joe Pasternak says she'll do a swimming routine with Esther Williams.

That advertisement in the Hollywood trade paper: "Always Leave Them Laughing" is absolutely the funniest picture I've ever seen." (Signed) "Milton Berle's Mother."

Fine Time Had By Young And Old At Lions' Father And Child Night

Sherbrooke Lions held annual Father and Child Night at the New Sherbrooke Hotel last evening and the party was a huge success. Armed with noise-making toys, crackers, balloons, knives and forks, the children really went to town. But their talents included more than just making noise. Several of the youngsters re-

Demers Case Interest Was High In E.T.

The interest displayed by the holders of November Handicap sweepstakes tickets, in the race run off last Saturday to determine the winners of the pot of gold amounted to almost stoic indifference when compared to the near-anxiety with which residents of this section of the country sought to predict the sentence which would be imposed upon Tony Demers, convicted of manslaughter November 12 in connection with the death of Mrs. Anita Robert.

The crowd which actually gathered at the Court House to hear Mr. Justice Cesaire Gervais pronounce sentence may have been below that which followed the trial proceedings, but throughout the length and breadth of the Eastern Townships, there were few indeed who did not have their own ideas as to what would be imposed. Each had his or her own reasons for suggesting what the judge would hand out—and generally they were convinced enough of the merits of their case that they were willing to back their opinions with coin of the realm.

Sometimes their arguments were based on reason. Other times they were based on individual hopes, dependent upon the degree of sympathy the predictor held for the former hockey star. And in other cases the reasons advanced were almost fantastic, bearing little relation to the merits of the case or the provisions of the law.

Where straight predictions were held unacceptable, pools were organized on a winner-take-all basis, the length of the sentence determining the winner. The anxiety of the sponsors to determine the pay-offs was quickly realized in local newspaper offices, the editorial department telephones receiving a continued inflow of calls asking for the decision.

The opportunity for the forecasters has not completely vanished, even with the imposition of the 15-year term. Now the debate is long and loud as to whether the defence will appeal the verdict, whether the appeal will be granted and whether the accused can secure the bail while the appeal is under way. So far the defence counsel have maintained a discreet silence.

Devaluation Alone Won't Solve U. K. Problems, Richmond Speaker States

By MARGARET DOHERTY
Richmond, Nov. 22.—"Devaluation is not enough to restore to Britain a predominant trading position and thus supply the margin necessary to maintain a high and improving standard of living," Sidney A. Shepherd, manager of the Foreign Exchange Department, Bank of Montreal, told a joint meeting of the Richmond Senior and Junior Boards of Trade, at a dinner held in the Brunswick Hotel last night, inaugurating the Junior Board's annual "Week of Activities."

Mr. Shepherd held that unless other steps are taken, it is hard to see what the future holds for the people of Britain, because the economy as now constituted cannot support the present population and the burden of accumulated debt. He suggested eight steps that it would seem necessary for Britain to take. She must export a large proportion of her manpower to places which offer a greater economic return for the labor expended. She must work longer hours to produce more goods, more cheaply and forego long hours of leisure; improve production per man hour by installing more modern equipment and introducing more up-to-date methods.

Britain must give capital and labor a greater incentive to produce, by reduction of taxes and a return to freedom of enterprise for the individual; reduce the present free social services which the existing economy can by no means afford; rebuild patiently the background of experience and skills which were to a considerable degree lost during the war years; arrange for the further reduction, as partial payment for services already rendered, of those large sterling debts held by other countries, which drain away wealth in the form of unrequited exports and lastly, radically reduce government expenditure by the elimination of the administration of wasteful services and restrictive and unnecessary controls.

Referring to the effect of devaluation on Canada, Mr. Shepherd said "There will be some increased competition facing Canadian goods in the domestic market and there have already been complaints of difficulties from Canadian woolen manufacturers but perhaps the most serious aspect of devaluation is the severe rise in cost to the 'high devaluation' countries of Canada's export products."

He said that probably the developing difficulties of Canada's exporters could not altogether be blamed on devaluation, because undoubtedly, devaluation abroad or not, Canada was about to be faced with a serious problem, the shortage of hard currency in so many other countries and the inability of these countries to fill a larger part of Canada's own needs in the way of goods and services.

The drastic cuts announced by Britain in her purchases from Canada would have been necessary in any event, he continued, although probably the situation has been aggravated by the increased cost of the Canadian dollar in terms of pounds sterling. However, the widening of the use of ERP funds enabling freer "offshore" purchases will help Canada.

As to the United States, he said that it is certain they must do all in their power, as the leading surplus-producing nation, to maintain or increase the dollar supply abroad and thus the demand for their exports, in their own interests, if for no one else's. "It is encouraging to note that there is every indication that the United States will act vigorously not only to improve the machinery of trade, but to clear the sand and accumulated sludge from it," he said.

In conclusion, Mr. Shepherd declared "Controls and the need for devaluation could be dispensed with if restrictions to free trading and the free play of economic forces were removed. There might be individual or regional distress, but that may be the only means of creating that urge for improvement in lot which is permitted expression through freedom of action and incentive."

He maintained that too much protection of the individual by the state kills ambition, holds back development and reduces the general standard of living. "Ours is a growing and dynamic economy, and free enterprise, self-reliance and the pioneer spirit, on which the foundations of this country were built, are still needed."

Mr. Shepherd was introduced by H. Nowlan, manager of the Richmond branch of the Bank of Montreal, and thanked by Jacques Beaubien, chairman of the finance committee, for the Junior Chamber.

H. P. Stone, president of the Senior Board, was in the chair for the meeting. Speaking briefly in both French and English, Mr. Stone welcomed the members and guests, mentioning the friendly relationship which exists between the two Chambers and congratulating the Juniors on their excellent contributions to civic improvement. He extended a special welcome to Rev. Brothers Alphonse Ollon, of the Sacred Heart College, and their tenth grade students, to L. F. Somerville, principal of St. Francis College, K. H. Annett, and their pupils of the 11th grade.

Mr. Stone announced that the students of both colleges are to write an essay on Mr. Shepherd's address, and that he has offered one prize in each school for the best composition. At this point Mr. Shepherd said he would be pleased to present a second prize to the second best essay in both the French and English college.

Best wishes to the Junior Chamber for continued success were expressed by Mr. Stone, who also promised the continued co-operation of the senior board. The appreciation of the Junior Chamber was expressed by its president, Robert Prefontaine, who said that he and his fellow-members would have the opportunity of receiving the seniors at an oyster party on Friday. He also announced that several prominent Richmond citizens would be honored at Sunday's dinner which will bring the "week of activities" to a close.

"We shall continue our work and our interest in the Chamber," Mr. Prefontaine concluded, "in the hope that some day we may be worthy members of the Senior Board, to follow adequately in the footsteps of our predecessors."

Local Kinsmen Are Guests At Optimist Meeting

Members of Sherbrooke's newly-formed Kinsmen Club were guests last night at the regular weekly meeting of the local Optimist Club. President Chris Barr, of the Kinsmen, outlined for those present the purposes of the club and urged the formation of a service club co-ordinating committee. Such a committee, he said, would stop the overlapping of work done by local service groups.

The general work of Kinsmen, President Barr stated, is "to raise funds so that the community as a whole will benefit."

Kinsman Keith Jackson also outlined the history of the Kinsmen Club for the Optimists. Don Clowery, Optimist president, announced last night that the group will forward a contribution to the St. Pat's Old Boys exhibition basketball game featuring the House of David team. This will enable boys to see the game for 25 cents, not the 50 cent official charge.

Head table guests last night were Joe Gilbert, past president of Optimist, Nelson Adair, guest of honor and entertainer, President Clowery, Chris Barr, and Dick Burroughs, vice-president of the Kinsmen Club.

Nelson Adair Entertains At Legion Social

Nelson Adair, guitar-strumming, singing businessman from Montreal, was guest entertainer at a social meeting of the Sherbrooke Branch 10, Canadian Legion, last night.

An old time vaudeville fan, Mr. Adair tramped at one time with Al Jolson in the "good old days." Serving with the army during the First World War, he is an old hand at keeping veterans happy.

For over two hours last night he told jokes and sang to the tunes of his own guitar. He revived many memories of wartime days with songs popular at the turn of the century.

At present, Mr. Adair is general manager of a large electric saw firm in Montreal.

Last night's meeting was chaired by Joe Gilbert, branch president. Thanks of the branch were tendered to various non-members for their work in the poppy campaign and Armistice Day ceremonies. These were guests at the Legion Home last night.

It was announced that the branch will contribute toward admitting boys at half price to the House of David exhibition basketball game this Saturday evening.

The Lennoxville Women's League held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Fowles. The president Mrs. Fowles was in the chair.

Final plans were made for the Christmas tea and sale consisting of fancy work, home-cooked foods and candy, to be held at St. Andrew's church hall, Sherbrooke, on

Sherbrooke Hospital To Receive Grant Of $142,000 From Dominion

The Federal Health Department has allotted more than $142,000 to help build the new building, J. G. Armitage, president of Sherbrooke Hospital, told the Record this morning.

The money will be "thrown into the pot," he said. None of it has been earmarked for any specific task. It will "help us to carry on."

The St. John's Sanatorium is receiving more than $42,000 to help build a new wing on the building, replacing a wing condemned for hospital use in 1947. The St. Mary's Hospital will receive about $38,000. The hospital is a new 38-bed building.

In each case, the federal grants are matched by provincial grants.

Other officers chosen with Mr. Lupien were: J. L. Burns, as vice-president and O. C. Blair, as secretary-treasurer.

Committees were appointed as follows: Industrial—H. P. Stone, chairman, A. E. Dyson, R. A. Marcotte, G. W. Ewing and J. N. A. Levin.

WONDERFUL RUSSIAN ICE

Aside from their ability to claim originating everything of importance either in the scientific, political, economic and literary world, the Russians have long earned for themselves an unenviable reputation as procrastinators. However, this is not accompanied by any great ingenuity in providing convincing excuses for their delays.

The United States is having considerable trouble in this connection at the present minute, all because the Russians have three modern American icebreakers. These vessels were handed over under lend-lease to Russia virtually off the ways in 1944 and 1945. Now the Americans want them back and the Russians have formally promised to return them to United States authorities by December 1. But now they are beginning to hedge, claiming that they will be unable to carry out their agreement. Two of the icebreakers, they claim, are stuck in the ice somewhere, the exact location not being revealed.

The argument is not held very convincing, because these ships have proved time and again their ability to smash through the heaviest floes. So the Russians trying to argue the United States into the belief that they are stuck in the ice is like trying to tell a woodsman that a sharp axe will not make a dent in soft pine.

Whether the United States will get the icebreakers back remains to be seen—and so does the real reason if they do not.

The failure of the Russians to return the craft in question may bring back to mind an announcement not many months ago that the icebreakers were strictly a Russian invention and that the rest of the world were a bunch of copy cats. Of course, the Reds may be detaining the vessels as something in the nature of a royalty payment.

STRAIGHTEN OUT THE TAXES

The more one studies the proposals of the Dominion Government to give financial aid to the municipalities in lieu of taxes on federal property, the more it becomes apparent that the whole plan is political window dressing that will be of little real advantage to most municipalities. In fact the Government itself admits that only ten per cent of the cities and towns in Canada will receive any aid whatsoever.

This brings up the questions as to why such a complicated process was brought into being. To a substantial portion of the population there never has appeared any good reason why Dominion-owned property should not pay taxes. After all, it enjoys all those municipal services for which the private property-owner, dependent upon the income therefrom or from the profit on his business, is assessed by the municipality. And it must be appreciated that the federal government today is by far the greatest business in the country.

The loss of taxation on federal property to municipalities has been growing steadily as the government has extended its activities into more fields formerly operated by private enterprise. This has been one of the contributing factors to the need of the municipalities to impose sales taxes and other new nuisance levies.

Taxes, levied on a just and equitable basis, are preferable to grants, which must of their very nature lead to inequality and in the formula announced by the Finance Minister are nothing less than discriminatory.

RESENTMENT AT OFFICIAL SNOOPING GROWS

One of the chief complaints of the average British citizen over the intensified austerity program is over the apparent intention of adding further names to the public payroll which already gives employment to one Briton in every ten. The newcomers, according to London reports, will be in the category of paid informers, people who snoop, betray confidences and tell the government about any skulduggery in currency smuggling. The popular opposition is voiced in The British Recorder, which declares that the move smacks of the old Gestapo and the present omniscient police system in Russia. In this connection the paper observes:

The dazed man or woman of Britain needs to sit back occasionally and see what is happening to the country.

Now here is Sir Stafford Cripps announcing that he is prepared in suitable cases to sanction a reward for information which proves of value in detecting or preventing currency smuggling.

Currency smuggling is a bad thing, even if it is only the evasion of an artificial order by politicians and bureaucrats.

But a much worse thing is that Britain, "Mother of the free," should crawl down to paid informing.

Only a man like Sir Stafford Cripps could agree to such a thing.

And only a man like Sir Stafford Cripps could blithely bring his country to the standard of Hitler's Germany.

We have to repeat it until it is wearisome, but the truth persists—Mr. Churchill was right when he said that Socialism cannot be applied without totalitarianism.

Perhaps on American standards, paid informers to prevent currency smuggling in Britain is not so bad after all. Every purchase of diamonds is reported to the revenue department of the United States and when smuggling of these is detected, the informers in Paris or Amsterdam are duly rewarded. They make a business of it. And the informers within the United States about goods smuggled in, also gets his or her cut. But it is decidedly new for the British people and indicates, perhaps, that the multiplicity of regulations only serves to bring the law generally into disrepute.

PRESS COMMENTS

HE GIVES AWAY 350,000

Hamilton Spectator

Moralists and sages have been urging people for a long time to hang on to their earthly substance, once they have acquired it. They admit that it may take a smart person to make money, but it requires a smarter one to keep it. Don't wind up behind the eight ball, they counsel in effect, for the road can become tough in its last lagging miles, and it is then that an adequate purse proves most comforting and a dependable friend.

James Powell, of Aurora, Illinois, is impressed with the truth of all that and he acknowledges that it is sound advice. He followed it for several decades and thereby managed to get a few dimes in the bank—as many as would equal $350,000, in fact. Which isn't many, as the smart talkers put it. But it is a nice green stack of alfalfa.

Mr. Powell has mellowed with the years and his outlook on life has changed. Now 74, and alone so far as immediate relatives go, and also aware that his health is failing, he has come to realize more and more that you can't take it with you, nor does the last garment have pockets. A lucidly worded will and testament? Yes, he had thought of that. But it didn't appeal to him, somehow. He wouldn't be there when the will was read and his assets distributed.

Why not give it away while he was still alive? That was the decision he came to. He had enjoyed himself while amassing his fortune; it was his conviction that he would derive vastly more pleasure from passing it out with his own hands and under his own signature.

He proceeded to do it anonymously, just as an old friend who was going away for a spell, because he didn't wish it to appear that he was doing this for publicity or to gain glory. But so many substantial gifts were made that his identity soon became known in his home town with a population of about 48,000.

He gave $25,000 to the mayor as the nucleus of a fund to build a municipal auditorium; $50,000 for an addition to a high school, and numerous sums ranging from $100 to $10,000 to individuals who had been kind to him, his late wife and his two late sisters. "Why shouldn't I make my friends happy while I'm still alive?" he asked.

What better reason could any man have? To what better use could money be put? The tax collectors may not like this sort of generosity. But for once, it seems, they will just have to scratch their heads in frustration. Mr. Powell is fixing things so that there will be little or nothing left to tax.

SHARING THE POVERTY

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Prime Minister Attlee recently told the people of Britain that further reductions in their standard of living must result from the breakdown in Socialism. Housing construction is to be cut down. Food subsidies are to be reduced, and the prices of food is now to rise. There are to be small token payments for "free" health services, and the building of public works of all kinds, including schools and hospitals, is to be slowed down. Even defence expenditures are to be cut, at a time when this is only good news in Moscow.

What is the matter in Britain? Mainly the consequence of experiments in connection with establishing a welfare state. That starts out with the assumption that the government can decide what standard of living everyone should have, and see that they get it. It starts out with distributing wealth. It begins with trying to subsidize and otherwise encourage the consumption of goods, not their production.

In the process, enterprise has been discouraged, labor has been taught that rewards are not in proportion to work, the whole nation has become poorer, and all that Mr. Attlee can do is to insist that the resulting poverty must be shared equally.

DELAY IN ORDERS

Windsor Star

Mr. Leslie A. Dunbar, Kitchener textiles executive, is coming back from Britain disgusted by the futility of his attempts to order $150,000 worth of machinery. He claimed British firms showed "complete indifference to me and my orders," except for one firm that promised delivery in 18 months. He left word in Britain that "your slow-moving methods leave me no alternative" but to get the machinery in the United States.

This is one of the barriers Britain is up against in attempts to increase sales to dollar countries. Either because British firms prefer to produce for other markets, or because their production methods are slow and obsolete, it is difficult for Canadian purchasers to place orders and get quick delivery.

On this continent, business and industry are accustomed to fast action. And if they can't get it in Britain, they just won't buy there.

"WHADDYA MEAN I'M OVERDRAWN? ..."

British Member Of Parliament Proposes Joy Rides To Malta

By ALAN HARVEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Nov. 22.—(C)—Smiling, sun-bronzed Dr. M. Follick, Parliament's foremost man of ideas, has just come up with another fifty-joy-rides to Malta.

To help solve Malta's money worries, Dr. Follick would like to see Britain fit out four obsolete aircraft carriers for pleasure cruises to the George Cross Island. Each ship would take about 500 passengers.

The cruise would stretch over three weeks, Dr. Follick told the House of Commons. "That would be a week going, a week coming back and a week on the island."

The 60-year-old Labor member for Loughborough, whose pet projects include a rotating tooth brush and a system of phonetic spelling, said that if the cruises went on all year the cost would be £1 ($3.10) a day for each traveler.

He didn't get much support from his colleagues.

Dr. H. B. W. Morgan, Labor member for Rochdale, wanted to know how many ordinary working men could afford to spend hard-earned money on such a "fantastic" expedition.

Unperturbed, Dr. Follick replied that a holiday at Margate or Blackpool, two of Britain's principal seaside resorts, would cost more than £1 a day.

"Under this plan," he said, "it will be easier to stagger holidays in a proper way."

About 20,000 persons a year could make the trip. Whisky would cost about 8s. A bottle and cigars would be cheap. If the ships weren't needed for tourist traffic, they could be used to take Maltese emigrants to Australia.

(Increase emigration is regarded as the quickest way out of Malta's difficulties. An increase birth-rate has left standing-room only on the island, with its population of 300,000 existing on what amounts to 95 square miles of barren rock.)

Colonial secretary Creech Jones, replying to Dr. Follick, said the member of Loughborough had ignored many practical problems. He promised that his department would give all possible help to Malta in developing tourist traffic and in obtaining ships for emigration.

Dr. Follick's suggestion was no surprise to Parliament. Two years ago, during austere discussion on a finance bill, he whipped out a rotating tooth brush, shaped like a chimney sweep's brush and esoterically designed for back teeth. He credited its efficiency for the fact that at 68 he still has all his teeth.

This year, he introduced a bill to reform English spelling. He said he wanted to avoid the difficulties foreigners sometimes experience with English. Which prompted a member to bring up the old story about the Frenchman who read a poster saying "exhibition pronounced success," and threw up his hands in despair.

Season For Smelts Has Opened

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

Canadian Press Staff Writer
Quebec, Nov. 22.—(C)—When silvery smelts invade Quebec's harbor by the thousands every fall, they get a hot reception—in some housewife's frying pan.

Late arrival of the little "epelans" last week had the wharves buzzing with day-and-night activity.

Neither drizzling November rain, snow, nor icy winds blowing across the St. Lawrence River stop smelt fishermen who, like all sportsmen, enjoy the ruggedness of their out-ings.

Typical is Edgar Rouleau, 34-year-old provincial government em-

USE MILITARY TACTICS ON PLAY OF A HAND

Whenever I go to Washington, I always enjoy my luncheon date with Maj.-Gen. James A. Ulio, the former Adjutant General of the Army. Now that the general has retired, he has adopted two hobbies, one farming, and the other, obtaining scholarships for American war orphans.

One must admire the active minds of the men who have handled our gigantic military undertakings. When I am with one of these men, who is also a card player, I enjoy laying out a hand and discussing the tactics of the play with him, as compared to military strategy.

Take today's hand, for example. On the opening lead of the ace of diamonds you play the five-spot from dummy and East puts on the queen. Would you win this trick?

Before you say yes or no, let us look over the situation. We know that we have a losing diamond and if the ace of hearts is on the wrong side, we have two losing hearts. That is nothing to worry about if we find the king of clubs right—but the military man says, "Nothing is sure to be right. Plan your defense and attack on the assumption that everything is 'wrong.'"

The Record Short Story PAINTING PARTY

By LAWRENCE GEORGE STEINFELDT

By ISABEL JOHNSTON

It was a painting that introduced Alida to Bryant Ross, the new young man in town. It was a secret, mutual yen to dabble in water colors that made them click. But it was a different kind of paint that Alida used to outwit Hildegarde's man-grabbing tactics.

At a local art exhibit in the village museum Alida was studying a striking painting of the sea. She became aware of the new young man in town, standing beside her, admiring the seascape, too. He began to tell her why he liked the painting so much. He confessed that he was an engineer—though that she already knew—but that he enjoyed painting as a hobby. Alida admitted she often had wanted to try water colors herself.

"Isn't it marvelous?" It was Hildegarde, pretending to admire the painting, too.

Naturally Alida had to introduce her to Bryant Ross. Of course Alida knew his name. Everyone in town did. Naturally enough he didn't know hers. But it was embarrassing to know so much about him when he knew nothing about her. In her embarrassment, Alida lapsed into silence and let Hildegarde take over the conversation, the young man and the tour of the rest of the exhibit. The three of them went around the hall together, but Alida felt she was trailing them.

Resentful memories of Hildegarde flooded her. Ever since their high school days, Hildegarde had always tried to grab any young man Alida found interesting. Often, Hildegarde succeeded. It wasn't that Hildegarde was so much prettier. She wasn't really pretty at all. Her nose was too long. Her hair, even with the soft, natural waves that Alida's did. She did have a beautiful home, a basement game room for gay parties, her own car, canoe and tennis court—and stunning clothes. With the family wealth and her gift for entertaining, she made herself glamorous.

"You live so close or I'd give you a ride home," Hildegarde dismissed Alida and turned to Bryant Ross, "but can't I give you a lift?"

As Hildegarde went off with Bryant, Alida could hear her saying, "Come on, Bryant, let's go home. Once in her house, Hildegarde would invite him to supper—and maneuver a Saturday night date out of him afterwards."

Around 10 next morning, Hildegarde telephoned.

"Since Bryant Ross is new in town, I thought he ought to meet people. Hildegarde said, 'So I'm going to give a party, a big party next Saturday night. You and I, of course, are invited. How wonderful!' Alida exclaimed. She was ready to forgive Hildegarde everything. At Hildegarde's party, she'd get a chance to talk to Bryant again.

"I want you to pour for me, will you?" Hildegarde went on crisply. Alida told herself that she had rejoiced too soon. It was like Hildegarde to maroon Alida behind a teapot, pouring tea for the older people, at a party for Bryant Ross.

"Why yes, I suppose so," Bryant agreed reluctantly and made herself say politely, "Thank you for inviting me."

After she hung up, Alida stared resentfully at the fading wall paper in the little house she and her mother shared. It was so different from the beautifully decorated living room, study and game room in Hildegarde's home. It was hardly the setting for a party that could compete with the lavish affairs Hildegarde gave. If the old wall paper were removed and the walls painted—yes—there was really no reason why she couldn't give a party for the new young man in town, too.

It was silly to waste time resenting Hildegarde. Impulsively Alida started tearing off the wall paper. It proved to be a much more difficult job than she supposed. All that Sunday she tore off wall paper until her fingernails were sore. Every night after work, she pulled off more. By the afternoon of Hildegarde's party she had all the paper off—and on the floor.

With the furniture moved out of the way, the living room looked as if a hurricane had struck it. As Alida left for Hildegarde's cocktail tea, her mother was sweeping up. Naturally her mother couldn't move the heavy furniture back alone. Just the same, Alida felt exhilarated. She'd bought paint and planned to paint the living room. "Oh, no, that's house paint," she confessed. "I was trying out the color for our living room. I didn't know I painted myself. And I wanted to look so nice for this party, too."

He laughed out loud at her rueful face. There was amusement, and tenderness, too, in his eyes as he looked down at her. It made Alida feel that Hildegarde's party was turning out wonderfully for her, after all. She told herself that if Bryant asked to take her home—no matter how her house looked—she would accept.

And then, Hildegarde, all solicitous hostess, interrupted.

"The Sullivans go your way, Alida. They'll give you a lift home."

It was just too much. She'd go with the Sullivans, of course, but she wouldn't let Hildegarde get away with everything. She'd give her own party. Right away. She hadn't listened to Mrs. Everson all afternoon for nothing. She had just the idea for it...for her party. It was an idea born of desperation and blue paint, though she might have known Hildegarde would try to jinx it.

"It's been fun, so much fun, Hildegarde, I'm giving a party, too," Alida heard herself announcing. "Mrs. Everson was telling me about the old fashioned husking bees. So Wednesday night, I want everybody to come in their oldest clothes and join me in a painting party—painting our living room."

Her invitation made a great hit. Bryant suggested that everyone bring a brush. Hildegarde insisted that it was fashionable to paint one wall a different color. She'd bring just the right shade for it.

The painting party turned out to be an hilarious affair. Alida's mother served them baked ham and salads. Well fed, they started opening the cans of paint. Hildegarde's gift turned out to be a poisonous looking yellow, but Alida didn't feel it was gracious to object. There was much laughing and jostling over the stirring. They daubed, they splattered. Someone overturned a quart of paint. In the middle of the evening Hildegarde insisted that the smell of turpentine made her feel ill. She managed to get Bryant to take her out for air, but he didn't stay out long. As the party broke up, Alida heard Hildegarde reminding Bryant of a golf date for Saturday. But at least he didn't take her home. No after it was all over, Bryant lingered along with Alida and surveyed the newly painted living room.

"You're wonderful little sport, giving all of us so much fun," he said. "But I hate to think of you living with the result. That yellow of Hildegarde's is positively worms and spare tackle. They buy worms from lower town "worm merchants" at 35 and 40 cents a hundred. After a few fish have been caught they bait with fish eyes, and save on worms.

The men who have lamps fish in a group. The white glare, they believe, attracts the fish. They talk, eat pork sandwiches, sip hot wine from thermos bottles and work their lines ceaselessly, unhooking the fish with bare hands. It's nearly frozen by the time they have it on the wharf.

Smelt fishing is a test of endurance. The idea is to get as many fish as possible. All sizes are good. A tiny smelt is called by the untranslatable expression "gour-goune." When the odd large one shows up there's likely to be a chorus: "Regarde la baleine." (Look at that whale). A night's catch is about 400 per man.

When Edgar gets home he starts cleaning the 400 to 500 tasty "epierians."

While most of the smelt fishermen eat or sell their take, Edgar gives his to friends and even ships some to Montreal relatives who annually look forward to the smelt season—and Edgar's parcels.

Says Edgar: "I don't like eating them much, but I like to catch 'em."

He looked down at Alida thoughtfully. She was aware that she must look pretty messy, daubed up with paint—and to tell the truth the paint job on the living room was pretty messy, too.

"It wouldn't take long to cover up that yellow. Would you mind if I came over Saturday and gave it all a second coat?"

"But don't you have a date with Hildegard for golf?"

"What would I do with a girl who can't stand the smell of paint?" he flicked a paint smudge from her cheek gently. "Remember, painting is my hobby."

Express Editorial Is Criticized

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—A government dairy expert last night said the person who wrote the Conservative Daily Express editorial on Canadian butter "must have had his wires crossed."

The London newspaper said in an editorial that Canada had a surplus of 66,000,000 pounds of butter and that much of it was butter made in New Zealand, destined for the United Kingdom, then diverted to Canada to meet a temporary shortage.

The expert said the writer must have been confused with the 15,000,000 pounds of butter Canada purchased from Denmark, Australia and New Zealand early last winter when a butter shortage developed.

Canada purchased most of the butter from Denmark, with the exception of 5,000,000 pounds, the contract for which was split equally between Australia and New Zealand.

"That butter has been eaten long ago," the expert said. "What supplies we are building up now is from Canadian production during the summer months."

The government was selling the supplies to the Canadian trade. Some of it was going to the British West Indies, but he doubted whether there would be enough to supply some to the U.K. as suggested by the editorial.

With winter consumption far greater than available production, there might be little of the storage butter left by the time the spring rolls around.

Robineau was said by Grosz to have confessed that the secretary of the French embassy in Warsaw, Aymar de Brossin de Mere, was his direct superior in the French intelligence service espionage activities.

Grosz said Robineau named Fernand Renaud, embassy secretary translator, as an assistant to de Mere.

The arrested Frenchman was also said to have confessed that he recruited espionage agents, while some were transferred to him by Rene Bardet, the former French vice-consul in Stettin.

Bardet no longer is in Poland. The Poles have ordered de Mere and Renaud to leave the country immediately.

Robineau's alleged confession declared he was given substantial funds with which to pay the agents. The statement said he accounted for these funds to de Mere, to whom he also sent intelligence reports.

Duesseldorf on the Rhine. The British occupation authorities forbade the meeting. Strasser was one of the seven men with Hitler who founded the Nazi party. He has been a refugee in Canada since he broke with Hitler but has tried repeatedly to return to Germany.

Strasser was quoted recently as saying the occupation powers are preventing his return "knowing full well that in a few years time we would be the strongest party in Germany."

Strasser and his brother, Gregor, who was liquidated by the S.S., represented the extreme nationalist right-wing in German political thinking.

Right-wing parties have won the largest support in West Germany. The Bonn republic is dominated by Christian Democrats, but they need and get voting help from rightist Free Democrats and the nationalist "German Party" in order to outrank the socialists.

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The United States government has dismissed 123 persons on grounds of doubtful loyalty since the loyalty review program began in 1947, the civil service commission reported today. Forty-eight persons who sought jobs with the government were denied them for similar reasons.

ters tabled correspondence exchanged with the provinces and said replies from most of them indicated "agreement in most principles."

He tabled an agreement which said that the highway is to be constructed within a period of seven years. Federal contributions would be based on a two-lane road. Where a province thought a three-lane or four-lane highway was needed, the federal contribution would be "computed by reference to the cost of a two-lane highway."

After the road is completed, it will become the responsibility of the province through which it runs, except in cases of national parks. In these areas, the federal government would be responsible.

The federal government's concept of the highway is not that of a super-highway for high-speed traffic from coast to coast, said Mr. Winters.

"It is rather that of a first-class, hard-surfaced road which should follow the shortest practical east-west route across Canada and through each of the provinces, consistent with the needs of the provinces and Canada as a whole."

Small Powers

The prime example of an incipient third force in world politics could be drawn from India's reaction to the atomic problem.

Sir Benegal Rau of India proposed that the international law commission draw up a convention banning use of atomic weapons and instituting international control of atomic energy. He called on smaller powers to band together to build a moral force which the United States and Russia could not resist.

Russia and the United States made one of their frequent common stances—along with Britain and Canada—to vote down the Indian resolution. But the small margin of defeat—24 to 15 with the rest abstaining—indicated that many small countries are seeking a new way out of the atomic impasse.

Two Couples Honored By Farm Forum

Magog, Nov. 22.—Two young couples were feted on Monday evening, November 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Tryon, Crystal Lake, Magog, in conjunction with the Farm Forum meeting.

Best wishes were extended by all, then the grooms responded their thanks.

Honored at the same table with them were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gustin, of Newport Center, Vt., and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Moreland, of Richmond, also recently married.

OBITUARIES

MRS. ERNEST WILKINS, OF MELBOURNE

Melbourne, Nov. 22.—The death occurred suddenly on September 28, 1949, after a very brief illness, of Mrs. Ernest Wilkins, a resident of this community for many years.

Mrs. Wilkins, nee Kezia Miriam
Fowler, was born in Melbourne on December 5, 1873. She was the youngest daughter of the late
Henry Fowler and his wife, Kezia
Lewis. When she was a few years old, the family moved to the settlement known as Dalling, Que.

She attended school in Richmond, and later taught school at Melbourne Ridge. She then spent several years caring for her sister, Mrs. Fred Clarke, at Bethany and later for her father, at the family home.

In 1921, she was married to Mr.
Ernest Wilkins, of Melbourne
Ridge, and they soon afterwards moved to Melbourne, where they had since made their home.

Mrs. Wilkins was esteemed by all who knew her, and she will always be remembered for her kindly, cheerful manner. Though partially crippled by painful rheumatism, during her later years, and seldom able to leave her home, she always showed a smiling face to everyone.

She was a member of the United Church, and although she had been unable to attend services for some time, she took an interest in its activities.

The funeral was held at Melbourne Ridge United Church, on September 30, 1949. The Rev. Mr.
T. Mitchell, pastor of the deceased, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Mr. Wilfong, and spoke words of comfort to the mourners. The hymns "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "Abide With Me" were sung, and Mr. W. R. Beers also sang the beautiful solo, "Face to Face."

The bearers were all nephews and grandnephews of the deceased,
Messrs. Dwight Fowler, Henry
Fowler, Otis Fowler, Alex Fowler,
Ralph Fowler and Neale Fowler.
Interment was made in Melbourne
Ridge Cemetery.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, Ernest N. Wilkins;
one brother, Mr. H. W. Fowler, of Melbourne Ridge; four step-children; three nieces; five nephews;
and a large number of other relatives, besides many friends.

She was predeceased by two sisters and a brother.

service of the late Mr. L. Barnes, who died on Saturday, October 29,

Church, the Rev. T. F. Duncan, officiated.

Mr. Barnes was for many years a resident of Stanbridge Station, where he lived at the home of the late Mr. Charles Hitchcock. Since the death of Mr.
Hitchcock, Mr. Barnes has made his home in and around Bedford.

Interment took place at the United Church Cemetery, at Morgan's Corner.

ness. She was the former May E.
Hill, and was in her 68th year.

Mrs. Truax had been a faithful member of the church, and as long as her health permitted was a good worker.

Gill, of Rosemere; two nieces, Mrs.
Gordon Emmett, of Waterloo; and port, Vt.

in St. Paul's United Church, in Waterloo, on Saturday afternoon,
November 5, with Rev. E. D. Mitchell officiating. The choir, under the direction of the organist, Mr.
Roger McKernan, led in the singing of two favorite hymns of the deceased, "Unto the Hills" and "Saved by Grace."

The bearers were Messrs. Hartley Graham, of Asbestos; Percy Jones and Cecil Thompson, of Waterloo; Cedric Emmett, of Cowansville; and Preston McGovern, and Robert McGovern, of Cowan-ville.

ral service was held on Tuesday,

The Doctor Says

SURGERY IS THE BEST METHOD OF REMOVING EYE CATARACTS

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

A common penalty of old age is the development of a condition of the eyes called cataracts. A cataract involves that portion of the eye which serves as the lens. The lens is normally clear but becomes clouded in cataract and this produces a blurring of vision. Perhaps it can be explained best by comparing it with a camera. If a camera lens were not clean, or something happened to the glass to cloud it, a picture taken through that lens would also be blurred and "fuzzy."

How much fuzziness there is depends on the amount of cloudiness in the lens. If only part of the lens is involved, not all of the field of vision will be disturbed. If the whole lens is clouded, then all objects will be blurred.

There is no reason to believe that eyestrain leads to the development of cataract, though, of course, eyestrain should be avoided for other reasons. Heredity, and particularly increasing years, seem to have more to do with most cases of cataract than anything else.

Drugs of Little Value
A beginning cataract, in which the clouding is slight, is spoken of as incipient. When the process of clouding has been completed it is called "ripe" or mature. Unfortunately medical treatments—that is drugs that have so far been discovered—have not proved of value in dissolving material which clouds the lens nor can they restore normal vision.

Operation is the best treatment for cataract. When the cataract is "ripe" or mature, it can be removed and full vision restored in uncomplicated cases. In recent years, surgery of the eye has been so improved that it is possible to remove the lens with a cataract in it at early stages of development in many cases.

Q—Can sinus trouble cause difficulty in the throat, such as phlegm?

A—Yes, indeed. Mucus and infected material from the sinuses can drop down in back of the throat. This frequently causes irritation and results in hawking and spitting.

Impressive Remembrance Day Services Were Held At Beulah United Church, Ayer's Cliff, By Rev. W. H. Boomhour

Ayer's Cliff, Nov. 22.—A Remembrance Day service was held in Beulah United Church on Sunday, November 6, when the Ayer's Cliff Branch of the Canadian Legion attended in a body.

The pastor, Rev. W. H. Boomhour, spoke on the topic "Making Canada Christian."

The preacher started his impressive discourse with reference to a cartoon in which Jesus' picture appeared, sitting in a chair under which was inscribed the words, "Secretary of Human Relations." He continued by asking the question "in what cabinet or at what council table would Jesus have a place today?" Rev. Mr. Boomhour impressed upon his congregation that it was their duty as individuals to see that Jesus has a place in our world today.

Each is called upon at this "Remembrance Time" to re-dedicate themselves to Jesus. The speaker made reference to Miss Thompson, who visited an internment camp, where each soldier had been for twenty months, and when asked, who behaved best under the worst conditions, she replied, "Those who had had religious training, those who remembered that man needed a soul."

Each person should, he claimed, be true, do what is right, and make it their task to try and make Canada Christian.

Rev. Mr. Boomhour referred to the mass resources available in Canada, and said it was task of each individual to see that these resources were used for the best of our Canada, and the well being of all. The questions: "What would people do if Jesus came today etc." "What would Canada say if Jesus came today etc." are a challenge to the people.

He closed by asking how many sacrifices people had made and earnestly appealed for help in making Canada Christian and an instrument of "Peace" and by giving themselves to the Lord and Leader of the Christian World.

At the close of the service everyone went to the cenotaph, where Rev. Mr. Boomhour conducted a short service. Wreaths were placed on the monument by the Legion, municipality and individuals.

The "Last Post" was sounded by Mr. F. M. Wyman.

"Most tooth loss comes from gum troubles," say dentists.

FIGHT TOOTH DECAY AND GUM TROUBLES BOTH!

New dental research proves you can help prevent tooth decay as you guard your gums—this doubly-effective Ipana way!

DENTISTS SAY THE IPANA WAY PROMOTES HEALTHIER GUMS!

In thousands of recent reports from all over the country, dentists say the Ipana way promotes healthier gums. That's just as important as fighting decay, for dentists warn that you can't have healthy teeth without healthy gums! Try this dentist-approved Ipana care—for healthier teeth and healthier gums both.

DENTAL RESEARCH SHOWS HOW IPANA FIGHTS TOOTH DECAY!

Scientific research based on daily dental examinations now proves that every time, any time you brush your teeth with Ipana, it helps fight tooth decay by effectively reducing and keeping down the acid-forming bacteria. No other paste or powder is more effective for this purpose. And Ipana helps remove bacteria-trapping deposits that invite decay.

Dentists warn that if you want to save your teeth, you must protect your teeth and gums both.

For not only does tooth decay cause untold misery and expense. Gum troubles cause even more tooth losses than decay, according to leading dental authorities. And gum troubles can strike anyone—even healthy youngsters and teen-agers—with little warning!

Now you and your family can help prevent tooth decay and gum troubles BOTH—with doubly-effective Ipana dental care.

For new dental research now proves that Ipana's own special formula effectively reduces and keeps down acid-forming bacteria—considered a major cause of tooth decay. Ipana fully meets these standards for an anti-decay dentifrice.

And more—Ipana is the only leading tooth paste specially designed to stimulate gum circulation—promote healthier gums.

IPANA
for Both!

HEALTHIER TEETH, HEALTHIER GUMS

Athlete's Foot

A New Concentrated Prescription Found

Athlete's Foot is a fungus condition which is very contagious—it is one of the most persistent skin eruptions known. A new concentrated prescription has been found which will destroy all odor and by consistent use, night and morning, will relieve it. This prescription has been thoroughly tested and has shown remarkable results, even in long-standing cases. It is a clear, odorless and colorless liquid and contains no oil or grease, clothing and linens cannot be stained or marked. Application is simple. Wash your feet night and morning with warm water and pure soap. The prescription, Exoff Concentrated, is then patted on with a small swab of cotton, and allowed to dry.

Your druggist can supply you with this prescription, simply ask for about 3 ozs. of Exoff Concentrated and if your skin is tender or gets dry, you should also obtain 1/2 oz. of Exoff Ointment. You may like to cut this article out—it is well worth a trial.

The Racehorse Is A Million Dollar Export Industry

ONE THOUSAND thoroughbreds, representing the equivalent of two or three million dollars, were, according to recent figures, exported from Britain last year. The United States, whose great 1948 champion Citation was bred from a daughter of the British stallion Hyperion, was one of the principal importers. Pictured top are the Newmarket Sales in England, where sums as large as the horses' pedigrees change hands annually. In the ring is a yearling colt bought by Prince Aly Khan for the equivalent of $43,190. It will race in the colors of Aga Khan, the prince's father and a leading racehorse breeder and owner in Britain. Pictured left is Eclipse, immortal of English racing. Foaled in 1764, he won every race he ran and sired 344 winners. His blood is said to flow in almost all the racehorses in the world.

DRUMMONDVILLE

Miss Mavis Winstone, Lindsay street, returned home by plane, after an extended tour of the southern United States. While visiting in South Carolina, she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Caulfield, who were former residents of Drummondville, and of Mr. and Mrs. L. Blankenship, who before her marriage to Mr. Blankenship was Betty Caulfield, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Caulfield.

Rev. Dr. S. W. Boyd, of the Sangster Memorial Church in Sherbrooke, was in charge of the morning service at the United Church on Lindsay street. The resident minister, Rev. Roy P.

Stafford, was a former preacher of the Sangster Memorial Church, which has a young and thriving congregation.

Mrs. Ralph Taylor, Belmont street, has been summoned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fuller, at Hudson Heights, where her father is seriously ill. She was accompanied by her two infant sons, Donny and Chick.

On Sunday evening the United Church congregation joined with the Anglican Church congregation at St. George's Church, Heriot street, for evening song in the interests of the Bible Society, which was followed by a showing of the film entitled "The Book for the World of Tomorrow," which was illustrated by the Rev. H. Rayner, a field secretary of the Bible Societ. The proceeds of the special collection amounted to $98.

At the morning service of the United Church Remembrance Day was observed. At the close of the service Mr. William Riley sounded the Last Post on his trumpet, also "Reveille" in solemn tribute to those who had made the supreme sacrifice.

The date for the next social evening for the young people of the United Church congregation has been set for November 22, and will be held at the church.

The date for the annual church bazaar in aid of the church has been set for Saturday afternoon, December 3. It is hoped that all ladies of the congregation will give this event their fullest co-operation.

Two games are slated Sunday to open activities in the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League when Waterloo travels over to Victoriaville and Drummondville moves into Granby to commence the seventy-two game schedule.

Six teams will operate in the league, which will be divided into two sections, with each club playing twenty-four games, twelve at home and the same amount on the road, during the season.

Les Douglas Still Sets Pace In A.H.L. Race

New York, Nov. 22.—(P)—Veteran Les Douglas, of Cleveland Barons, had a 10-point week and continued to lead the American Hockey League in scoring.

With six goals and four assists, Douglas ran his point total to 32. Runner-up Johnny Chad, of Providence Reds, had 26. Harvey Frazee, of Providence, was third with 25. Tied for fourth were Jack McGill, of Providence, and Ab DeMarco, of Buffalo Bisons, with 24 points.

Douglas also had the most goals with 14. Top playmaker in the league was McGill with 19 assists. Joe Lepine, of Cincinnati Blackhawks, had spent 65 minutes in the cooler for his hot temper on the ice, to lead the league in that department.

Rookie goaltender Gil Mayer, of Pittsburgh Hornets, became the leading netminder with an average of 2.65 on 45 goals allowed in 17 games. Connie Dion, of the Bisons, had his second shutout and tied Indianapolis Terry Sawchuk for the lead.

Lindsay Leads Snipers; Durnan Tops Goals

Montreal, Nov. 22.—(P)—Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings continues to set the pace for the National Hockey League scorers as he holds down the first place spot for the second consecutive week.

According to official League statistics released today, the swiftness of Lindsay commands the scoring parade with 21 points made up of eight goals and 13 assists. The next two positions on the ladder are also held by Detroiters. In second place, two points back of Lindsay, is veteran Sid Abel with six goals and 13 assists while Gordie Howe follows with nine goals and nine assists for an 18 point total.

Chicago's Doug Bentley is fourth with 17 and Paul Fonty of Boston Bruins is tied for fifth place with Chicago's Roy Conacher. Both have 15 points.

Despite a poor week in the goal sniping department, Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard still leads that exclusive division with 12 goals. Lindsay and Abel with 13 assists are tied for the top spot in that department.

Bill Gadsby of Chicago leads the penalty parade with 32 minutes in 16 games spent in the "cooler." Montreal's Bill Durnan continues to lead the League's goalies with a 1.56 goals-against average in 16 games. The lanky Montrealer is also tied with Toronto's Turk Broda with three shut-outs. Harry Lumley of Detroit has the next best average in the goals-against department with 2.13 in 15 outings.

Detroit Red Wings hold a seven point lead in the pennant race over the Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leafs. Wings have won 11 games, lost two and tied two for a total of 24 points in 15 games. Toronto has 17 points and Canadiens, in third place, have 16. Rangers and Chicago are tied for fourth with 13 and Boston hold down the cellar spot with 11.

LIKES OCTOBER 23RD

As far as Bill Durnan is concerned he would like every day to be October 23rd. For the last two seasons Big Bill has turned in shutouts on games played that day. Last year on October 23rd against Detroit both he and Harry Lumley chalked up "goose eggs" as their respective clubs played to a scoreless draw. Then on October 23rd this year, and which is an oddity, he and Jack Gelineau of the Bruins registered shutouts as Canadiens and Boston played to a scoreless tie. It was Bill's second shutout of the season on both occasions. While Durnan likes the 23rd it is safe to assume that the Canadiens would hate it, as they just can't seem to score any goals on that date.

Saints To Receive Team Which Stopped Their Nine-Game Winning Streak; Locals Ready For Tilt

Toe Blake's Valleyfield Braves will supply the opposition this evening at the local arena against the Sherbrooke Saints, the pace-setters in George Slater's Senior Group.

The Braves is the team which upset the local's march to a new record in the Senior Group earlier in the month. They stopped the Saints' winning streak after nine consecutive games and will no doubt be out this evening to try and improve their present standing in the loop at the expense of the locals.

Sherbrooke won their first encounter with the Braves 6-3 on October 23rd, but on ninth of the present month, in Valleyfield, the locals went down to a 7-2 defeat. It was the worst setback they have received this year and Dugre's squad will be gunning for revenge.

The locals came through their hard week-end trip without any serious injuries and the team, although tired after the long bus voyage, will be gunning to make up for the reversal inflicted by the Braves.

The Saints are solidly entrenched in first position with a comfortable nine-point lead over the Royals and Quebec, who are deadlocked for second spot. Quebec has two games in hand over the locals, but Carlin's crew has played two more than the locals. So to protect their nine-point lead the Saints must come through with a win.

This evening's tilt is the only one slated on the schedule, whereas tomorrow night the locals return to Valleyfield and Quebec will tangle with Chicoutimi.

Famed House Of David Basketball Squad To Meet Local All-Stars Saturday At William Street Armory

The World Famous Bearded House of David Basketball Team will make its appearance here at the William Street Armory where they meet the local team in a basketball game that promises to be outstanding treat of the season.

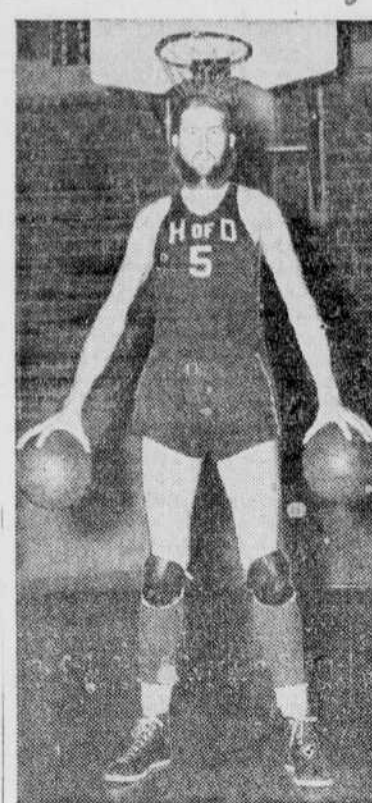

The House of David Team certainly need no introduction as they annually tour the United States, Canada and Mexico, playing over 200 games each season, against all type of opposition and are consistently a winner, as their record for the past six years will verify. The Bearded boys played one thousand two hundred seventy-nine games, winning a total of twelve hundred one and losing only seventy-eight, which is a pretty fair county average in anybody's league.

The fun loving Davids not only present high class basketball, they also keep the fans in an uproar with their eccentricities, comedy actions and clever line of chatter, while the game is in progress. Probably the most famous of their tricks is the hidden ball in which the bearded boys gather in much the same form as a football huddle on the floor and the basketball disappears.

Heading the list of the Hairsute cagers is long Moose Ludka, 7'3" center who tips the scales at 265 lbs., and wears a size 15 shoe. The Moose played college basketball with Syracuse University and is well remembered for the great defensive job he did on St. John's College of Brooklyn, in holding their star center Harry Boykoff to six points in a game played in Madison Square Gardens last season. Ludka is the tallest player in the basketball world today and it will be a revelation to local fans to see this giant in action.

Next in line comes clever Bobby Roth, who for years was an outstanding star in Detroit and previous to this Bobby was college ball player in Michigan. Roth is known in basketball circles as the games fastest breaking forward. Bobby bears the brunt of the David clowning while the game is in progress and from reports where he has played, he keeps the fans in a constant uproar of laughter.

"Toes" Heaven, 6'7" guard, hailing from Connecticut has been with the House of David team for the past five years and this big fellow, who wears a size 13 shoe, and tips the scales at 215 lbs. is a consistent thorn in the side of the opposition by his controlling of the ball off the backboards.

Frank Mekules, All-American 6'4" guard, is the Davids leading scorer and with his added height he is never left out on rebounds. Mekules tips the scale at 240 lbs. and past years played with the Detroit Michigan Gems of the National Pro League and was their outstanding ball player. Frank is also a baseball player, having won 14 games and lost 12 as a pitcher for the Amarillo-Texas Club last year. He is the Davids leading scorer.

But Scott, 6'3", 190 pounder from the 'show me' state of Missouri, will hold down the forward spot opposite Roth, and these two teamed together forms one of basketball's most powerful scoring combinations. But is also a professional basketball player and has played basketball with the bearded House of David for six years and his specialty is the one handed shot from the coffin corner.

Fans who attend this game will witness one of the nations top light basketball teams in action as well as have a night's entertainment that bears all the earmarks of a three ring circus.

School Authorities Complain To Q.A.H.A. Regarding Pupils Playing In Group And Flunking Studies

Montreal, Nov. 22.—(P)—What do about students who play hockey with Quebec Amateur Hockey Association teams and flunk in studies posed a problem today for heads of Montreal's High Schools.

The school officials saw a distinct cause—and effect situation. Representatives of Protestant and Roman Catholic Schools have already had one meeting with the Q.A.H.A. and another is planned.

At the first conference, last Saturday, school officials said they favored fostering as wide participation as possible in amateur sports but that 15 high school students who joined amateur hockey teams last year had very low marks in their courses.

The school heads suggested a regulation forbidding a student to play on Q.A.H.A. teams unless he has the consent of his principal. At present only parental consent is necessary.

Seven school officials attended Saturday's conference with Azarie Choquet, Q.A.H.A. president, and his executive, Frank Slater, General Manager of Montreal Forum, sat in on the talks. The second conference, expected to be called this week, will be attended by the school officials and a committee of five appointed by the Q.A.H.A.

J. G. Lang, Director of Physical Education for the Montreal Protestant School Board, said yesterday that participation of high school students in hockey outside their schools is a long-standing practice in Montreal.

"Any schoolboy is apt to give some outside time to Y's, Scouts and neighborhood clubs," he said.

"This kind of activity is 'outside,' however, only in the sense that it is outside the boy's regular school time."

"A good deal of this activity is innocent and harmless. But I am concerned over something much more menacing—the exploitation of boys by commercial teams for the publicizing of the commercial product."

He said boys cannot carry on their school work while playing outside schedules and that "in athletics alone they see all interest in inter-school sports and are absorbed in practice schedules that drain their strength as well as their marks."

He said practices are held at hours without consideration for a boy's physical condition and that the heavy playing schedule "plays havoc with a normal boy's school work and life."

Boys believe they can become National Hockey League stars, said Mr. Lang, and even some parents believe "a headline means a cash prize." He said there are about 200 players in the N.H.L. and about 300 with farm teams, while some 60,000 schoolboys in Canada are "turning out for regular practice."

He added that if a student plays on a Q.A.H.A. team the student will be absent from school many days a month and his marks are likely to drop from 80 per cent to 50 per cent.

Mr. Choquet said "it is up to the parents of the boys involved to rectify any situation which is not pleasing to the schools."

He said the Q.A.H.A. has a

Joe Louis Takes On Joe Cheshul Tonight

Newark, N.J., Nov. 22.—(P)—Joe Louis, a slower and heavier Brown Bomber, and Joe Cheshul, a young and fast-comer, meet tonight in a ten-round no-decision bout at the Newark Armory.

For Louis, the not-so-retired undefeated heavyweight king, the bout will be the second of his country-wide tour of exhibition 10-rounders.

Louis is expected to enter the ring at 20 rounds, about 10 pounds lighter than he carried in dumping Johnny Shkor three times in Boston last week.

And lighter he'll have to be to catch Cheshul, a Bayonne, N.J., junior college student, who weighs only 157.

A boxer, not a puncher, Cheshul has been compared to Billy Conn. He has taken 24 of 27 fights and has been knocked down only twice. On both occasions he came off the canvas to score a win over his opponent.

At 35, Louis is 11 years older than Cheshul.

All this points to a busy night for Louis who hasn't had a real fight since he successfully defended his title by knocking out Jersey Joe Walcott June 25, 1948. At that time he was 213.

A cocky Cheshul is quoted by co-promoters Chickie Bogard and Sam Bozza as saying: "I'm extremely confident that I can outspeed and outpunch Louis." In addition, he says he can outbox the retired champion.

Notre Dame Still Leads, California Moves Up

New York, Nov. 22.—(P)—California has replaced Oklahoma as the runner-up team behind Notre Dame in the Associated Press weekly football poll.

By triumphing Stanford, 33-14, to move into the Rose Bowl and the Pacific Coast Conference Championship, California took up the rugged task of chasing Notre Dame.

The fighting Irish from South Bend, Ind., captured 113 of the 151 first-place votes from football writers and sportscasters across the United States.

California drew 24, Oklahoma 11, College of the Pacific two and Army one.

Notre Dame has led the poll seven straight weeks since Michigan took the opener. The final vote will be taken next week.

Stukus Reappointed Coach Of Edmonton

Edmonton, Nov. 22.—(P)—Annis Stukus last night was reappointed coach of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Inter-provincial Rugby Football Union at a five-hour executive meeting.

The former Toronto newspaperman and one-time Toronto Argonaut star coached Eskimos for four victories and third place in the Western Union when Edmonton re-entered the Conference this year after a 10-year lapse.

Stukus said on being informed that the executive had asked him to return as coach.
