3,000 ET students out of class in teacher strike

A general province-wide strike of specialized teachers which started yesterday afternoon has affected more than 3,000 students at technical and trade schools in the Eastern Townships.

Some 300 teachers in the Townships, all members of the Syndicat des Professeurs de l'Etat du Quebec, (SPEQ), did not go to classes yesterday afternoon and were reported not at work this morning.

In Sherbrooke alone, more than 1,000 students are out of classes as a result of the strike. There are 700 students who attend classes at the city's two technical institutes and about 300 at the Sherbrooke Men's Normal School.

Students at the Sherbrooke Institute of Technology come from all over the Eastern Townships.

The number of striking teachers in Sherbrooke is 95: 72 at the technical schools and 23 at the normal school.

At the beginning of the school-year, students at the Sherbrooke Institute of Technology missed a month of classes because of the late delivery of furnishings and equipment from the department of education.

A total of 26 schools in the Townships are closed because of the strike.

They include trade schools in Asbestos, Granby, Plessisville, Drummondville, Victoriaville, Magog, Waterloo, and Thetford Mines. The teachers at the agricultural school in St. Hyacinthe are also on strike.

The striking teachers are not maintaining any picket lines in the Eastern Townships, and the regional executive of SPEQ has not issued any statements as to how they will conduct the strike.

Throughout the province, the strike involves 2,000 teachers employed by the Quebec government in 100 technical trade and normal schools.

The strike follows an impasse in negotiations with the provincial government over higher pay, the status of the teachers' union and time off for its officers to carry out union business.

Claude Sabourin, president of the teachers syndicate, said the strike will continue "until the government is more reasonable."

Paul Gerin-Lajoie, minister of education who is vacationing in Miami, Fla., said the walkout came without any warning. Premier Lesage, also on holiday in Miami, said the situation is "in the hands of legal advisers" and Acting Premier Alcide Courcy in Quebec City.

The teachers had threatened to strike March 16. But the Quebec government got an interim injunction to prevent the walkout at that time. A judge of Quebec Superior Court declined, however, to extend the injunction because on March 21 the Quebec labor relations board ruled that the teachers perform an essential service and thus cannot strike.

Sherbrooke mayor announces plans

Big industrial growth in works

BY PAUL WATERS
(Record Staff Reporter)

Combustion Engineering-Superheater Limited will expand its Sherbrooke operation by adding 44,000 square feet to its existing plant, Mayor Armand Nadeau announced yesterday.

He said that work on the expansion project should start immediately. The mayor told the press that the company has already purchased about 90,000 square feet of land from the city.

He added that the expansion should provide jobs for about 100 more workers at the plant.

Speaking of further industrial development in the city, the mayor announced that American Biltrite Co. (Canada) Ltd., also has plans for expansion this year.

He said that American Biltrite has bought from the city 29 acres of land along the Magog River on Cabana Street, on which it plans to build a 75,000 square feet construction. This is to be completed sometime next year, the mayor said.

This will be the first step towards the completion of a new factory on the site which will produce many new products, presently bought in Canada but manufactured in the United States, the mayor said.

The mayor also announced that Marquis Rubber Products Ltd., has acquired the property formerly belonging to Sherbrooke Coach Mfg., and plans an addition of 35,000 square feet.

The mayor indicated that there were other plans for industrial expansion in Sherbrooke presently under study, but that he was not at liberty to divulge the details at the present time.

Reviewing the city's industrial expansion in 1965, the mayor pointed out during the year both Pedigree Company of Canada and K and K Mfg. had established branch plants in Sherbrooke. Each of these companies, the mayor said, already employs about 60 workers, and should reach 150 each in the future.

He also pointed out that Confection Alpha Inc., which closed its Sherbrooke plant two years ago, re-opened in Sherbrooke last year, and at present employs about 40 people.

Spencer security shrouded

VANCOUVER (CP) — Secrecy still surrounds investigations into the death of George Victor Spencer and into the past life of the man whose alleged spy connections created political turmoil in Parliament.

Medical examiners today were still examining the body of the 61-year-old dismissed mail clerk found dead in his home here late Saturday night.

City detectives paid another visit to the home of the man fired without pension from his post office job after two Russian embassy officials were deported for spying activity.

Spencer was then ill with lung cancer. He apparently recovered following surgery.

His death came just four days before a judicial inquiry was to open here into his dismissal.

Prime Minister Pearsin ordered the inquiry, reversing the stand taken by Justice Minister Cardin. The action caused a cabinet crisis within the minority government but the justice minister stayed on.

SEEN IN TAVERN

Spencer was last seen alive a week ago in a beer parlor. Two bottles of beer that he took home with him were found partly consumed on a table in front of the body.

Coroner Glen McDonald has said an alcohol reading of 24 parts per 1,000 in the blood could have contributed to Spencer's death. So far there is no concrete evidence of the actual cause.

WHERE HAVE ALL THE METERS GONE? — In this hole on the Grenouille Street parking lot there used to be, until today, a parking meter. It, along with seven other posts, each having two meters, were stolen during the night. Police are still seeking whoever ripped out the parking meters.

16 meters ripped from their parking lot site

The city of Sherbrooke was missing 16 parking meters on its Grenouille Street parking lot, between the CNR tracks and Wellington Street this morning.

The 16 meters, two per post, were removed during the night by what police describe as young people loitering around the parking area.

City Hall officials only knew that the eght posts were missing. The parking meters are valued at about $80.

Sherbrooke police captain Armand Genest said this morning, "It is evident that we have someone breaking into parking meters.

"We did not capture them, they ran away. We are investigating the matter. We expect to need a little luck. We need the co-operation of the witness who saw young people loitering around and most of the time nobody bothers."

The theft was discovered this morning when the collector of the meters did his rounds and found several meters missing.

City hall officials sent out working crews this morning to re-install the meters. Some were expected to be back by the afternoon.

It is believed that the thieves used a car in removing the meters.

Meawhile, there is no free parking on Grenouille Street parking lot. All the meters have been barricaded to allow workmen to install the meters, and secure the remaining meters better.

DRILLING FOR A PARKING METER — A city of Sherbrooke employee, Jean-Marie Huppe, drills a hole in the cement at the Grenouille Street parking lot to accommodate a new parking meter which costs the city $80. Seven other posts, each having two meters were stolen during the night by what police believe to be young people loitering around. (Record photo by Gerry Lemay)

To buy Quebec power

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — The Vermont public service board Tuesday approved a proposed corporation's plans to import Canadian power from Quebec for resale to utilities.

The unanimous decision by the three-man board said "a new source of power capacity in the hundreds of thousands of kilowatts will be needed in the foreseeable future."

The board said the corporation proposed by municipal electric companies and power co-operates "is a suitable vehicle for the purchase, transmission and resale of the power."

The corporation would, in effect, do the same thing Governor Philip H. Hoff's Canadian power plan would have done: provide for the purchase of the power from the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission and resale to Vermont and other New England utilities. The power would come from a huge project proposed for Churchill Falls in Labrador.

Hoff's bill, suffering from a heavy attack by private power utilities, was referred by the legislature to the legislative council for study.

PLAN APPEAL

The utilities also opposed formation of the non-profit corporation and indicated they would appeal a favorable decision.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Still dangerous though weakened by "miracle" weather, the swollen Red River forced more southern Manitoba residents from their homes Tuesday.

With 4,100 persons evacuated already, the river was rising in its northward sweep toward Lake Winnipeg and thrust flood waters toward the communities of Rosenort, St. Agathe and St. Adolphe.

Landslides

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force reported today that the first B-52 raid on North Viet Nam set off huge landslides which sealed Mu Gia Pass through which the Communists funnel men and supplies to the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam.

The B-52s from Guam dropped nearly 1,400,000 pounds of explosives Tuesday on the mountain pass on the Laotian border, 230 miles south of Hanoi, through which men and arms feed into Ho Chi Minh Trail. It was probably the heaviest bomb load of the war.

ATHENS (AP)—Greece's six-month-old government was left badly shaken today following the resignations of two cabinet members. But Premier Stephanos Stephanopoulos said he was confident it would survive.

His foreign and social welfare ministers quit in a bitter dispute over the government's Cyprus policy and his slim parliamentary majority was swept away.

Death and destruction hit Atlantic shipping in storm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Italian liner Michelangelo, battered by a violent Atlantic storm, steamed on toward New York today with two passengers dead and 11 persons injured.

Five men were lost from a British freighter 600 miles off Newfoundland in the same storm.

"We were hit by a wave about 33 feet tall," Captain Giuseppe Saletti, master of the 44,000-ton queen of Italy's passenger fleet said in a radiotelephone interview Tuesday night "A fierce wind of about 70 knots was blowing."

He said he was on the bridge when the wave struck about 10:20 a.m. (8:20 a.m. EST) Tuesday. The ship had run into the storm during the night and had been gradually changing course in an attempt to evade its full fury, he reported.

Viet Cong shows its power hitting Saigon airport hard

SAIGON (CP)—The Viet Cong gave another demonstration early today of their power to strike at will in the Saigon area with a mortar attack on the South Vietnamese capital's huge military and civilian airport, one of the world's busiest.

In a 20-minute mortar barrage, they killed seven American servicemen and one South Vietnamese engineer, wounded 155 servicemen, most of them slightly, destroyed four planes, damaged 33 aircraft and set fire to an oil storage tank.

Target of the early morning raid was Saigon's Tan Son Nhut base, which houses about 20,000 American and Vietnamese servicemen. It is the nerve centre of Allied air operations.

Some of the mortar shells lobbed at the air base landed only a few hundred yards from the residence of the premier, Air Vice-Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky, who as head of the South Vietnamese air force lives on the base.

Similar raids in the past have inflicted severe damage on South Viet Nam's two other main air bases, at Da Nang and Bien Hoa.

HITS RELAY STATION

Among the damaged air craft was a four-engined Constellation used as a relay station for the new South Vietnamese television system.

Ice jams, fire, quicksand collapse

Smithers' dithers continuing

SMITHERS, B.C. (CP)—This northern community of 3,200, still trying to repair damage caused by an ice jam, a fire and a quicksand collapse, faces the threat of another ice jam.

A jam Good Friday tore away a 145-foot section of the bridge spanning the main highway. The same day a $40,000 fire destroyed a pumphouse, leaving the town short on drinking water. Then a quicksand collapse Monday smashed the main sewer line, flooding basements.

Now an ice jam seven miles long has formed at Quick, a small community 21 miles up the Bulkley River. It could roar downstream, causing more damage here.

Friday's ice jam here was blasted with dynamite. Now the Bulkley runs through a 150-foot wide channel.

Two pumps are supplying some drinking water to villagers.

DETOUR 40 MILES

A 40-odd mile detour around the broken Northern Trans-Provincial Highway bridge is still in operation — with special power wagons with winches on duty to pull drivers out of the mud. A detour of 9½ miles is being arranged.

People who live on one side of the river at Smithers and work on the other are being ferried across by helicopter—at $3.50 a round trip.

The main problem, say the engineers, is the broken sewer, which could contaminate the meger water supply.

It is planned to bypass the underground break with a 400-foot section of eight-inch pipe, then fix the break.

A chlorinator for the water is on its way from Vancouver, and engineers are preparing a temporary shelter for it. Chlorine freezes at 45 degrees, and in this part of B.C. it must be sheltered from the elements and kept warm with electric heaters.

HE SAID UNCLE — A Vietnam Day Committee demonstrator is forced to the ground by a Berkeley, Calif., policeman, when a VDC demonstration erupted into a club-swinging melee last night. A riot threatened when police moved in on an apartment in downtown Berkeley and attmepted to seize loudspeakers they said were used without a permit. Police Lt. Bruce Baker said some demonstrators were hurt and at least one hospitalized. He said six arrests were made on charges including assault on police, resisting arrest and interfering.

Viet Nam outbursts watched closely as fall election nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the U.S. Congress are watching the political turmoil in South Viet Nam for developments that could have a massive impact on this fall's congressional elections.

All 435 seats in the House of Representatives will be contested next November while 35 of the 100 Senate seats are at stake. House members serve two years, senators six. Both houses of Congress now are heavily Democratic.

The possible replacement of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government by a Buddhist-dominated civilian regime that might deal with the Viet Cong could compromise the U.S. position in Asia.

The development of a situation in which a new government might ask the withdrawal of U.S. troops would dump into President Johnson's lap a crisis for which there could be no happy solution.

The division of opinion on whether to get out in such circumstances would be likely to produce a political uproar in the United States far greater than any thus far.

The Johnson line has been that the United States is in Viet Nam at the invitation of its government to prevent the Communists from overrunning free peoples.

This policy will have to be swallowed whole in any forced pull-out.

To stay against the wishes of a Saigon government would be to invite thunderous world disapproval, fed by propaganda that the United States is as imperialist as the Communists have been saying.

If a civilian government arranged a ceasefire with the Viet Cong, it probably would have to be observed by the United States. If Buddhist-arranged elections are held in South Viet Nam, the United States is honor-bound to accept the results.

If there are peace talks, the United States would be hard-pressed to prevent the presence of the Viet Cong at the conference table as a full participant.

The Teamsters' Union will intensify its strike against 55 Ontario trucking companies "in as many ways as we can," Ray Taggart, president of Hamilton Local 879, said Tuesday night.

Mr. Taggart, who is also chairman of the joint bargaining committee of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Inc.), made the comment in a telephone interview after union members had voted down a contract offer to settle a province-wide trucking strike now in its 12th week.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Network television lives by the clock—right down to the second. For almost an hour Monday afternoon the living wasn't easy for CBS and its golf commentators.

The Masters tournament at the Augusta National Golf Club ended Sunday in a three-way tie, so CBS resumed its live coverage of the playoff at 5 p.m. EST Monday.

Somebody miscalculated the speed of the play. All available cameras were stationed on the last three holes—but when the coverage started the three finalists, Jack Nicklaus, Tommy Jacobs and Gay Brewer, had only reached the 12th hole. It was 50 minutes before we saw the players.

In the awkward interim there were verbal bulletins of the unseen action. They ran—twice—a tape made the day before and film shot from a plane of the first dozen holes of the course but without a single player on them. They described the beauties of the course. They recalled exciting scenes from other Masters tournaments. When the players finally came into camera range we were treated to a long look at the crowd—from the rear.

When Nicklaus sank his winning putt 70 minutes after that, CBS cut away from the tournament so fast that we never did get to see Jacobs' final putt or putts.

CBS could, of course, have put the playoff on tape, edited it down to the high points and shown it at a more convenient time. But TV sports, even more than other types of shows, are much more interesting to watch when they are live—even when the game is as slow as golf.

Students spot UFO's at UNB

FREDERICTON (CP) — Students at the University of New Brunswick here said they spotted a green, luminous object hovering over the University early yesterday.

Rod Gillis, 19, of Lancaster, N.B., who says he doesn't believe in flying saucers, said he saw the object over a parking lot near a residence.

"I couldn't tell how far away it was but I watched it slow down, make a loop and then go off into the sky," Mr. Gillis said. "I don't understand it. I don't believe in flying saucers but this had an antenna sticking out the top of it hover. It was going too slow for an airplane or a meteor."

Several other students in Gillis' residence also reported spotting the object.

Douglas Herchmer, 19, a forestry student from Montreal, said he took five pictures of the object before it disappeared.

Police said no other residents in the area had reported sighting the object.

Officials at the Municipal Airport said their control tower had closed down at midnight, but said there were no scheduled flights in the area at the time.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Browning and her daughter, Mrs. Bennett.

Mrs. Emil Nelson will entertain the club in May.

Army apologizes for desecration of RC cemetery

BONN (Reuters) — The U.S. Army has apologized to the mayor of Augsburg over the Easter Sunday desecration of a graveyard, allegedly by an American soldier, it was learned today.

A spokesman for the 24th U.S. infantry division in Augsburg said Division Commander Maj. Gen. Edward L. Rowny wrote to Augsburg Mayor Wolfgang Pepper expressing his regret over the incident.

He said in the letter immediate action would be taken to restore the Roman Catholic cemetery where more than 60 tombstones were overturned.

The spokesman said 19-year-old specialist James E. Mays, of Holly, W. Va., was being held for investigations in connection with the desecration. He was also under psychiatric observation.

High wire artist is brought down by police action

SAINT ETIENNE, France (Reuters) — Henri Rochatain, 39 - year - old high-wire stunt man, abandoned yesterday his attempt to spend a week on a tightrope 540 feet above a lake in the Loire Valley.

Police had threatened to starve him down. When he returned to the ground at noon, he complained bitterly at their intervention.

Rochatain took up his position on the wire over the lake Monday afternoon, watched by a crowd of about 1,000 who thought he was going to walk the wire across the 1½-mile wide lake.

But 600 feet out on the six-ton cable he announced through a microphone:

"Here I am and here I stay for 143 hours."

Police had other ideas.

Rochatain's police permit for his high-wire performance ran out Monday. He was told to come down and informed that no water, wine or food would be passed out to him if he stayed on the wire.

Testifies of threat to smear Dupuis' reputation

Lawyer Michel Robert, testifying at the resumption of the Sherbrooke trial of Yvon Dupuis Tuesday, said that early in 1965 he heard of a threat to smear Mr. Dupuis' reputation.

Mr. Robert said Real Rousseau, a friend of Mr. Dupuis, told him that Roch Deslauriers intended to attack Mr. Dupuis' reputation "by shouting from the rooftops that he (Mr. Deslauriers) had given Mr. Dupuis $10,000 to help obtain a race-track permit."

Mr. Dupuis, a former federal minister without portfolio in the Pearson cabinet, is charged with accepting $10,000 in exchange for his influence in getting the permit for Mr. Deslauriers from the provincial government. His trial had been in recess since April 7.

Mr. Robert said he had been asked to a meeting Jan. 5, 1965, by Mr. Rousseau. Mr. Dupuis and another man, Israel Lafrancois, were also present.

SOUGHT DELAY

Mr. Robert said Mr. Rousseau asked at this meeting if bankruptcy proceedings against Mr. Deslauriers could be delayed.

Mr. Roberts' client, identified as Raoul Gobiel, was suing Mr. Deslauriers for $25,000.

Earlier, Judge Evender Veilleux rejected a motion for mistrial which the defence made last Thursday, April 7.

Defence counsel Paul Martineau based his bid on Mr. Deslauriers' switch in story Wednesday, the day before, when he said he was now "morally certain" he made a first payment to Mr. Dupuis at noon, May 8, 1961, at the latter's St. Johns, Que., office.

During the preliminary hearing Mr. Deslauriers had said he gave Mr. Dupuis $10,000 on May 9, 1961, in Ottawa.

The trial continues.

Following are excerpts from yesterday's testimony.

Michel Robert, is on the stand. Mr. Bienvenue questioning.

Q: On January 5 was there a phone call from Rousseau. If yes was there a meeting, and if yes where was it?

A: Yes, I got a phone call on the afternoon in my office. He asked me to come to Cote des Neiges. If I remember well 3637 Cote des Neiges.

Q: Would you tell if at that time you met Mr. Real Rousseau and if you were the lawyer for someone.

A: Yes, I was lawyer to Raoul Gobeil and am still his lawyer.

Q: Would you tell at what time?

A: I think I arrived at 6:30 or maybe 6:35. In the living room there were three people, Mr. Yvon Dupuis and Mr. Real Rousseau and a person I did not know who was introduced to me as Israel Lefrancois.

Q: Would you tell us who explained the reason for the meeting?

A: Mr. Real Rousseau explained the reason.

* * *

Q: Would you tell if someone told you the story of the race track?

A: Yes, Mr. Rousseau explained the situation of the track.

Q: Would you tell if there was question of an amount of money?

A: Yes, $10,000.

Q: Who spoke about that?

A: Rousseau.

Q: Did you intervene in the conversation?

A: After Mr. Rousseau told me Deslauriers threatened to talk through the newspapers, I asked Dupuis what happened to the $10,000. Rousseau said it was given to a messenger of Paul Earl.

Q: Would you tell if the accused protested or did he display any action?

A: I did not observe any action.

Q: Neither verbal nor ——"

Q: He did not say anything?

A: No.

Q: Would you tell me what was asked?

A: I was asked by Rousseau if my client signed a paper that he saw Deslauriers give Dupuis $10,000. I was to find out whether the paper was false or not.

* * *

Q: Would you tell if there was question of contacting Deslauriers?

A: At a given moment the people decided to call Deslauriers and to correct the paper (Gobeil's).

* * *

Martineau:

Q: Was There question of envelopes?

A: Yes, there was. $10,000 was given in two envelopes carried to Ottawa with Gobeil.

Art goes to cubism and fun of op art

By BARBARA STEVENSON
(Record staff reporter)

Sherbrookers are fortunate to have the opportunity of viewing the excellent and varied display of Canadian art from the CIL Collection presently exhibited at University of Sherbrooke's Art Gallery until May 1.

Gone is the influence of the famous Group of Seven, the Canadians who roughed it in the country's wilds in the early half of the century, emerging with paintings of the stark beauty of Canada.

Instead, as seen at last night's vernissage (opening night), Canadian artists have turned to the sophistication of abstractism, cubism, and surrealism, and the fun of op art.

But still dominant in subject matter are country scenes and small town everyday life. There is one painting by David Alexander Colville of a boy riding a milk truck down main street and another by Glenn Adams of a train caboose abandoned near a swamp by a small town.

When the big city is the subject, only a quiet back street is depicted. Or when Quebec City is shown, it is only secondary to a row of fishermen at a nearby bay.

The splendour of Canada's rugged look seen by the Group of Seven painters is captured from a different viewpoint by Alan Caswell Collier. His large painting dominated by solid masses of rock has at its centre a miner poised with his drill in a shaft of light.

There are many other scenes of villages, wide open fields and fragmented views of building corners and windows. One named North Side by Willis Ramanow could be easily mistaken for a well-known American artist who also shows minute details in farm buildings and country scenes.

One particularly attractive painting is Tony Urquhart's Near Wickham Side Road No. 1 which seems to display fleeting beauty in a land where the beauty of each season passes as quickly as the seasons themselves.

A soft wind appears to blow across the wispy pale colored countryside touched here and there with rich, heavy greens and blues.

A large selection of abstract art in the display of about 50 paintings shows imagination and variety. There is the fascinating bead-like design by Alfred Pellan which in its brightness and design looks like a North American Indian costume.

There are also the large, dull-colored canvasses such as one by John Graham Coughtry. Harold Town displays his fascinating Homage to Cubism, and op art is represented by large red, green, purple and blue rings narrowing to the painting's centre, by Claude Tousignant.

Texture in the exhibit varies from thin water color appearance to heavy painting slapped into shapes by palette knives. In fact, one painting is done only in thick white paint with the design gouged out.

The exhibit is open Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday from 4 to 10 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday, 1 to 6 p.m.

Tenders higher than arena's estimates

In a press conference yesterday afternoon Sherbrooke Mayor Armand Nadeau said that an additional $462,000 was voted to the construction of Sherbrooke's new Sports Palace in a public works bylaw last week because the engineers' original estimate of $1,150,000 was made before the tenders were called.

The contractors' bids were higher than the experts anticipated, the mayor said.

The new arena is presently under construction on the fairgrounds in East Sherbrooke.

An item of $462,000 was included in the $1,900,000 public works bylaw passed by the council last week and to be submitted to the ratepayers at a public meeting on April 18.

On August 30, 1965, the ratepayers approved without referendum a bylaw authorizing the council to borrow $1,150,000 to finance the project, the money to be raised by the sale of bonds directly to the public.

BASED ON STUDIES

The mayor said yesterday that the orginal estimated cost had been based on the results of studies that city experts had made of the new arenas recently built in the cities of London and Oshawa in Ontario.

He said that the architects had originally come up with the figure of $250 per seat. The new arena will have a seating capacity of 7,500.

He said that this original estimate was made before tenders had been called, and that there were many things that the city had not taken under consideration.

The mayor said: "We are not building the London or Oshawa arena, we are building one here and we want it to be the best."

He said that the best equipment was being used to finish the arena, and that errors made in the construction of the two Ontario arenas were being corrected.

He pointed out that for seating alone the city was paying $91,000 instead of the originally estimated $55,000.

"We feel that in the construction of an arena," he said, "the seats are almost as important as the ice surface."

'We're paying more," Mayor Nadeau said, "but we're getting the best and the finished product will be something Sherbrookers can be proud of for many years."

Talk to Sherbrooke Rotary Club

Marks opening of cancer drive

The head of the educational program of the Canadian Cancer Society of Sherbrooke last night marked the opening of society's annual fund drive with a talk on cancer to the Sherbrooke Rotary Club.

The Sherbrooke objective is $11,000, and the campaign will run from April 12 to April 31.

Dr. L. P. Lejeune explained how blood cells multiply rapidly and can cause tumours, sometimes benign and sometimes cancerous.

He said that although sure cure for all cancer is at hand, most tumours can be corrected with surgery at the beginning.

The incurable cancers are the ones that have spread to the blood stream, making arrest of the disease almost impossible, he said.

Although Dr. Lejeune admits he smokes himself, he said that there is a definite link with smoking and cancer.

Although cigarette smoking is the most dangerous, pipe smokers can become cancer victims, too.

Pipe smokers are more susceptible to cancer of the mouth, the doctor said because of the way that most pipe smokers hold the pipe in the same side of the mouth all the time.

Dr. Lejeune illustrated his talk with slides depicting the different type of cancer found in the body and also the difference between benign and cancerous tumours.

Dr. Lejeune has been on the staff of St. Vincent de Paul Hospital in Sherbrooke since 1962. He is also a professor of science of education at the University of Sherbrooke.

He was introduced by Ivan Saunders, vice-president of the Sherbrooke Society and thanked by Fred Champagne. Other head table guests included, Paul Pinard, Ralph Gosselin, who introduced Mike Evans a new member of the club, President Clarence Blake, Rudy Gittel and Eugene Fleishhacker.

Provincial Chamber of Commerce head speaks at local C of C general meeting

The provincial president of the Chamber of Commerce, Jacques Caron, will speak to the Sherbrooke Chamber tomorrow on the proficiency of manpower as factor in economic development.

Before his appearance at the

meeting at the New Sherbrooke Hotel, Mr. Caron will attend a reception at the City Hall at which Mayor Armand Nadeau will officially proclaim National Chamber of Commerce Week, which runs from April 17 to 23.

Mr. Caron has been an active member of the Chamber of Commerce since 1957, when he served as founding president of the Batiscan Chamber. He has also helped in the founding of several Chambers of Commerce in Champlain, Three Rivers, and Louiseville.

From 1959 to 1961, Mr. Caron served at the chamber's regional president of the St. Maurice River area. After serving in different provincial posts, Mr. Caron was made provincial president of the Chamber of Commerce on September 25, 1965. He also served as a federal director of the chamber from 1962 until 1964.

In October, 1965, he was part of Canadian commercial mission which made a tour of Japan and Southeast Asia with the aim of improving trade relations with these areas of the world.

For 21 years, Mr. Caron has been in the clothing manufacturing business.

In 1945 he established his first plant in Montreal where it stayed for one year before moving to Batiscan.

His enterprise, Caron Limited, presently employs 55 workers and sells its products all over Canada.

Besides the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Caron has served as a regional director of the API, as a director of the Tourist Commission for the St. Maurice River region, and is a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Caron is a graduate of the Laval University Normal School in Quebec City, and is the holder of a Chamber of Commerce diploma in administration sanctioned by the School of Commercial Higher Studies, and a diploma from the Canadin Institute of Organization Management at the University of Western Ontario.

Mr. Caron, whose hobbies include photography, fishing and travelling, is married and the father of three children.

To build arena, cultural centre as Coaticook centennial project

COATICOOK — (Staff) — What started out as part of Coaticook's 1964 centennial plans will be completed as a Canadian centennial project.

At last night's council meeting, aldermen supported a $470,000 centennial project to cover construction of an arena and cultural centre.

Cost of the indoor arena totals $350,000 while the cultural centre would amount to $120,000.

Both would be situated in municipal park which was developed during Coaticook's centennial year of 1964.

A baseball stadium and swimming pool have already been built in the park. The third addition originally foreseen by centennial planners was to be an arena.

The project will be put before the public at a Monday, April 25th, meeting when a referendum on the matter could be ordered if at least 20 taxpayers are in opposition.

The arena valued at $300,000 would also add another $50,000 to pay for architect plans and printing as well as the sale of bonds.

Council had already agreed at a previous meeting to obtain a loan from the federal government under a plan to help municipalities. This law states that 25 per cent of the loan is not repayable by the town.

Council also voted to use an $80,000 grant received from the federal and provincial governments for monument or centennial project construction.

The difference in the total cost will be paid by the town.

Order trailer closed

City Council decided last night that a trailer restaurant belonging to Aime Bureau and situated near 2985 King Street West must be ordered closed.

A report from building inspector Normand Gauthier said that the restaurant broke all zoning and construction bylaws.

The report also said that Mr. Bureau had reported a false number of doors in the trailer.

* * *

The council last night refused a request from Howard Sims to amend the zoning laws which would permit the construction of apartment houses on his property on Chicoyne Street.

A councillor pointed out that the single family dwellings on Kennedy Street, which runs to Chicoyne Street, would have a backyard view of nothing but huge apartment blocks if the amendment were passed.

* * *

Andre Charest, in a letter to the council last night, asked that the zoning restrictions for Bowen Street South in Zone D-23 be changed to allow the building of commercial enterprises.

However, Mr. Charest did not state in his request what type of business he was planning to open, so the council asked for more details.

* * *

At the suggestion of the Sherbrooke Hussars, the city council last night appointed an alderman to serve as director of Centennial Celebrations. Ald. Paul Gervais was given the task.

* *

The Sherbrooke St.-Jean Baptiste Society submitted to the council a program of events for St.-Jean Baptiste day on June 24.

The council approved of the program.

* * *

The council decided to send a delegation to the meeting of the Union of Municipalities to be held in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal on October 8, 1966.

Annual canvass

COATICOOK — (Special) — William Armstrong, local campaign chairman, has announced that the annual canvass for the Canadian Cancer Society is currently being held, and will continue to the end of April, with an objective of $700.

Says apples were destroyed

HAMILTON (CP)—Thirty per cent of the Canadian apple crop was deliberately destroyed as surplus in 1965 although $3,121,000 worth of fresh apples were imported from the United States, a convention was told Tuesday.

Douglas Williams, chairman of the Ontario Food Council, told the convention of the Ontario Institute of Professional Agrologists 98,000 pounds of dried apples were also imported in the first six months of the year alone.

Mr. Williams, speaking in a panel discussion, said that between Jan. 1 and July 31 last year Canada imported $84,000,000 worth of fresh and processed fruits and vegetables "which can be produced right here in this country."

The government must do its duty

Now that the emotional aspect of the Commons debate on capital punishment has subsided, it behooves the government to face its duty squarely.

Parliament has, in effect, ruled that the law as it stands must be enforced.

This means that the Pearson cabinet can no longer use the possibility of abolition in the immediate future as a basis for commutation of sentences in capital murder cases.

To do so would be to continue to hold up our judicial processes to ridicule and mockery. Distasteful as it is, the government must now allow hangings to proceed in cases where, under existing law, they are justified.

Fifteen convicted murderers are now awaiting final disposal of their cases. Each file must be reviewed by the cabinet.

It may well be that in some of the cases, grounds for commutation are just and reasonable.

Here, it is obvious the government must rule against the noose.

But if, in other cases, there do not appear to be proper grounds for putting off the dread date of execution, there should be no hesitation on the part of the government in confirming the penalty prescribed by the present law.

The government would be derelict in its duty to do otherwise.

In another Commons session, the question of abolition will probably come up once more for debate. But that session is not just around the corner.

Meanwhile, the law of the land, supported by a free vote in Parliament, must be accorded the proper dignity of enforcement.

Saskatchewan law protects buyers

The thousands of salesmen who constantly travel our highways and byways are important cogs in the economic machine which has brought us our present prosperity.

Many of them are highly trained experts in their fields. Others specialize in selling, period. These might sell shoes one day, auto parts another and canned foods a third.

Then there are the door-to-door salesmen. These are modern-day equivalents of the itinerant pedlars who played such an important part in the settlement of our country. They have a long and honorable history of bringing minor luxuries and minor necessities to householders.

Last, and numerically least, are the shady operators who saddle the gullible with unwanted and unneeded goods and services on a contract basis, complete with ridiculously high payments. These hucksters weave a spell of lies and promises, of smooth talk and flattery, especially flattery, until the hypnotized householder signs a very down-to-earth contract for whatever it is the operator is pushing.

The dazzled victim may commit himself to paying exhorbitantly for unneeded aluminum windows, under the impression that he is, somehow, getting them for nothing because the self-announced "advertising executive" or "promotion manager" in his kitchen said the company wanted to install them in the neighborhood for display purposes. As he signs the "authorization", in reality an air-tight contract for time payments, he may very possibly rest his elbow on a catalogue from a respectable mail order house that lists identical aluminum windows at a quarter of the price he will have to pay.

At least one province, however, has taken steps to protect the public from such shady operators. Saskatchewan's Direct Seller's Act is designed to curb such unscrupulous practices and, at the same time, to avoid interfering with the activities of the majority of door-to-door sellers who are reputable men serving reputable firms.

The act, which requires the licensing and bonding of all firms and salesmen engaged in such sales, is worthy of consideration by other provinces.

Attorney-General D. V. Heald says the legislation, which became effective July 1, 1965, has proved more successful than anticipated. At least $50,000 has been returned to people under a section of the act which allows goods or services sold on a contract basis to be returned or refused within four days without obligation.

Wouldn't it be equally successful here?

Things put in, taken out of food

A suggestion by a Canadian pediatrician that Vitamin D be added to ordinary milk reminds us of one of the causes — often lost sight of — of higher food prices in the past few years.

The modern housewife wants her food graded, washed, waxed, fortified, saltless, low-calorie, vitamized, tenderized, and attractively packaged.

By and large, that's just the way she gets it. And that explains in part the paradox of spiralling food prices in the face of decreasing farm income for produce.

All of the things that are put into food and taken out add to the basic cost of the commodity, which the consumer, naturally, has to pay.

Not that this is entirely a bad thing. Most people think that today's improved foodstuff is worth the higher price.

Watch what happens to unvitamized juice and unwashed carrots on a store shelf. They just don't move.

Other papers say:

Strike-stricken society needs help

The Calgary Herald

Governments these days are loath to offend the sensibilities of powerful labor unions. The time demonstrably has arrived when society as a whole needs protection against crippling strikes. Some form of arbitration is the only sane way to determine fair settlement of labor disputes.

Unions even dare to show a contempt for the courts, as was shown in a recent Ontario strike when picketing injunctions were ignored. Thousands of uninvolved workers were made idle in the United States last week and the nation's industrial production was slowed down by a four-day railway strike. Here again a return-to-work order by the federal courts was disobeyed for a time.

President Johnson moved slowly and cautiously to throw the weight of government behind the effort to get the crippling strike called off. Reassuringly, the courts stuck by their guns and promptly imposed fines on the errant unions. This form of discipline brought results and the walkout of firemen, whose grievance represented nothing more than last-ditch attempts to maintain featherbedding practices, ended quickly.

A disquieting aspect of this union struggle was insistence by the labor union on promises of railroad management not to take reprisals against the strikers. There is too much of this sort of union bargaining these days, on the principle that unions can do wrong and escape punishment. What other group in society can lay claim to such a right? A similar case cropped up in B.C. recently, when one of the items of strike settlement required grain companies to call off a lawsuit.

In the case of the U.S. rail strike, the firemen won nothing, the eight railway companies lost $5,000,000 a day, the firemen lost $320,000 a day in wages, and more than 200,000 workers suffered from work stoppages.

Canadian railways soon are to face a preposterous list of wage and benefit demands from their unions.

Clearly the time has come for government legislation which will end the danger of crippling strikes once and for all. Sooner or later, society has to decide who is to run the country, organized government or organized labor. It has to decide if the rule of law is to be applied firmly against all groups within the nation, or if favored groups can ignore injunctions with impunity.

The responsibility for determining these things rests firmly on the shoulders of the politicians.

"Say 'Ah,' Please!"

The readers say:

A parable — How we get inflation

Dear Sir:

Not so many years ago, there lived a king named Hilowicketyfum, who kinged it over a number of Islands in the Pacific Ocean.

His subjects produced for him a large quantity of Copra, which he sold to a trader named Captain Totheef. It came to pass that once when the Captain made his monthly collection of Copra from King Hilowicketyfum, he informed the Captain, through his interpreter, that he had married Princess Rumtumwickety, to make wife No. ten, which has increased his cost of living, therefore he must have three cowerie shells for per ton of Copra, than formerly.

Captain Totheef was so enraged at the greed and avarice of King Hilowicketyfum, that he stomped about, swinging his arms and bellowing terrible oaths. The King, not understanding a word, thought that the funny white man was praying to his god.

Captain Totheef always sold his Copra to Soke & Sokum in Singapore, and when he delivered the cargo in question, he told the buyers, "That lousy pot bellied old heathen, Hilowicketyfum has charged me $5 more per ton than he did last month, for a ton of Copra.

Soke fainted on hearing the dreadfulu news, and Sokum swore many dreadful words. When he had recovered his breath sufficiently, he cabled their principals in Montreal, Grabb & Grabbitt, "That dirty thieving old pirate, Captain Totheef from whom we buy our Copra, has charged us $10 more for ton of Copra, than he charged us last month.

There was consternation in the house of Grabb & Grabbitt when they received the alarming news. When order had been partially restored, notice was sent to all retailers they supplied with Copra. "Owing to the great increase in the cost of Copra per ton, we must increase our price to $15 per ton, from this date."

Upon receiving the new price most of the retailers added $20 per ton to the price of Copra they had in stock, then added 5 to 10 cents more per pound than their usual profit, after adding the recent cost increase in the cost of Copra.

When Mr. Consumer asked the reason why, for the great increased in the cost of production, so Mr. Consumer continued to buy all the Copra he needed, regardless of the cost.

It so happened that Mr. Consumer had a very kind and thankful Government, which was much concerned about his welfare, and when Government, saw that Mr. Consumer was buying all the Copra he needed, regardless of the price, it called a great Pow-wow of all its members, and when they were gathered together, the leader announced; "That Mr. Consumer has been buying all the Copra he needed, that terrible thing named "INFLATION" is abroad in the land, and what can we do to stop this terrible THING.

Some shouted one thing some another, because there was great fear and confusion, lest INFLATION over take and overwhelm them all.

Finally one more wise than the others said; "If we curtail Mr. Consumer's credit so he can only buy half as much Copra than he has been buying, this terrible thing called INFLATION will be killed.

Upon hearing this a great shout of approval went up, and all wondered at the great wisdom of the man who suggested the remedy.

Thereupon a ukase went forth that hereafter Mr. Consumer could only get half as much Copra that he had been buying, and to make sure that he could not, the banks greatly curtailed his credit. All the retailers had a good stock of Copra, so did not buy any more. The subjects of King Hilowicketyfum, not being able to sell Copra, began fighting among themselves, and many were killed.

Captain Totheef not being able to sell Copra, tied up his schooner, discharged his crew, and soon drank himself to death. Soke & Sokum, not being able to sell Copra, discharged their clerks; and Grabb & Grabbitt did likewise and several of them starved to death, along with their families.

After some time, some of the retailers reduced the price of Copra two or three cents per pound. This hearing to the ears of Government, it called another Powwow of its members, and when they were gathered together, their leader announced; "Our wonderfully wise and timely ukase ordering Mr. Consumer to buy only half as much Copra as formerly, has killed this terrible thing called INFLATION that was abroad in the land, because Mr. Consumer had not bought all the Copra he wanted.

Upon hearing this, a great shout of approval went up from the assembled members of the Pow-wow, and they wondered at the great wisdom of the man who suggested the remedy that killed that terrible thing called INFLATION.

So another ukase went forth, saying that now that INFLATION is dead, Mr. Consumer can buy all the Copra he wants.

A "skit" written in June 1952, when the banks were ordered by the government to greatly curtailed all credit, instead of punishing the business men who had greatly raised all prices, not because there was an increase in cost of production, but because the consumers continued to pay the increased prices, because they needed the goods required in their living. We continually read that "prices have been forced up by demand," we should be able to read that greed and avarice has raised the prices, this being considered "good business."

K.H. Annett began school counselling

Sir:

In your edition of April 5, your staff reporter writes that "Protestant Townships students look back on a very brief and spotty counselling program." This does less than justice to the admirable guidance programme initiated and for many years supervised by Mr. Kenneth H. Annett in the schools of the R.D.A. area. It gives an opportunity, however, of paying a tribute to the work of Mr. Annett, who was the first person to be granted the Diploma in School Guidance and Counselling to which your reporter refers.

The first courses on Principles and Practice in Guidance work available in this Province were offered at Bishop's University Summer School for Teachers in 1946, which was a little before "people were perching bugeyed before that new wonder, television."

I am delighted that you have devoted space to the important topic of Guidance in our schools, and the work now being done by Mr. Turpin, but I should be sorry if your readers draw the conclusion that our schools have been entirely without such advantages in the past.

I am, Sir,
Yours very truly,
J. D. JEFFERIS,
Bishop's University.

Bygone days

TEN YEARS AGO

(From the Record of Friday, April 13, 1956)

Gerry Mathieu, one of Sherbrooke's well-known figures in hockey and baseball circles, was elected president of the Eastern Townships Intermediate Baseball League at the annual meeting held at the Hotel Sherbrooke. Paul Malloy, of Coaticook, was named the vice-president, while Jean-Louis de Leseleuc was elected to the post of secretary.

Six clubs: Coaticook, Magog, Windsor, Cookshire, Beebe and Sherbrooke, will be represented in the circuit which is scheduled to open next month.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

WATERLOO — The Kiwanis Club of North Troy, Vt., visited the Waterloo Club on Tuesday night at the regular meeting held in the Canada Hotel. The members of both clubs met at the Crystal Springs Bottling Works before the meeting, when Kiwanian A. Perkins and Butch Bouchard were hosts.

During the meeting, the president of the visiting club, Curt Carnahan, introduced the twelve visiting guests, and one Kiwanian from Granby; Kiwanian Cliff Wilkinson, was also on hand. Kiwanian Ernie Codding, of North Troy, was the guest speaker and his subject was "Communism at Home."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

(From the Record of Friday, April 13, 1946

The eleventh consecutive annual banquet of the Canadian Ingersoll-Rand bowling league was held at the Chateau Frontenac last night under the chairmanship of Harold Soper, league president.

League runner-up and play-off champions, the Jackbits, captained by Peggy Wilcox and Viva MacWhirter, Ray Olivier, Roger Batrie and Harold Soper, received individual trophies and the Rand Bowling Cup presented by G. M. Young, works manager.

Is innocence enough?

Memory may fail the best of peers

By GLADYS TAYLOR
(Record Book Page Editor)

Is innocent enough? A la Perry Mason, I thought so, until I discovered what emotion, money, legal jousting and methods can do to a verdict.

When emotion enters a case we are back with the Witches of Salem. The Trial of Steven Truscott, regardless of the principal's guilt or innocence, prove what raw emotion can do in a courtroom.

Every human has hidden in him (the more civilized, the more deeply hidden) the pack instinct. A threat to a child give him a socially accepted reason to revert to rending and tearing — and inevitably to abusing the judicial processes which he ordinarily honors.

If, through children, justice can be prostituted by emotion, changes in our Criminal Code are due. Eldon Woolliams, Tory MP, Bow River, has made a start on this with his Bill C-121, a "Young Offenders" amendment. However it only protects children; it won't protect adults from betrayals by their emotions into suborning justice — or protect prisoners like Truscott from being subject to tear-jerker justice just as Dodge City was to sixgun law.

Secondly, money tips the scales of justice. More often than ever such spectacle as gold-haired Candy Mossler in her gold-colored car clutching her gold-plated not guilty verdict would suggest.

Had Steven Truscott had behind him the money the Crown had, he could have afforded (costs of lodging witnesses etc.) a change of venue in his trial. Instead he, and others tried in areas where press and backfence gossip have already condemned them, must risk preconviction.

I believe a fund should be set up to cover the costs of a change of venue in all those cases where public opinion runs so high, a miscarriage of justice is possible.

Thirdly, what part does courtroom jousting — other than as TV entertainment — play in a verdict? Too big a part — when even a guilty murderer may get off if he can afford a lawyer whose repartee, gimmickry or whatever form his legal jousting takes, makes it possible for him to boast, not necessarily of having had no guilty clients but of having had no convicted clients.

Finally, are horse-and-buggy courtroom methods acceptable in our computer age? In most trials, transcripts are taken down by hand. If the case lasts 15 days as Steven Truscott's did, we get 2,500 foolscap size pages of transcript. How long does it take to prepare copies of this? How long does it take to read it?

Too long. And that means that the lawyers in summing up, the judge in directing and the jury in reaching their verdict, may all have had to rely on their memories.

Surely it is archaic to let a prisoner's life depend on the all too fallible memories of his 12 good men and true."

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

"I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish, and no one shall snatch them out of my hand." (John 10:28, RSV).

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee that Thou art with us to share in every experience of life. We also thank Thee for the assurance that all who have died in Christ live eternally in Thy nearer presence. We are so grateful that in both life and death we do not walk alone. In His name. Amen.

Tenant list reads like a PQ who's who

MONTREAL (CP)—What do Queen Victoria's father, the French governor who surrendered Quebec to the English and the first Anglican Bishop of Quebec have in common?

They all, at some point, lived in one of Quebec's oldest houses—a building whose list of tenants reads like a Who's Who of Quebec history.

Kent House, on the corner of St. Louis and Haldimand streets, was built in 1650 by Louis D'Ailleboust, the third governor of New France.

By 1691 it had passed to Louis Theandre Chartier de Lotbiniere, civil and criminal lieutenant for the city. Jean Mailloux, architect and contractor of the king, bought it in 1713 and lived in it for 40 years.

The next owner was the commandant of the Quebec garrison, Jean Baptiste Nicolas Roch de Ramezay. Four days after the battle of the Plains of Abraham he signed the capitulation of the city.

After de Ramezay returned to France the house was sold to a British merchant. In 1777 title passed to Adam Mabane, a Scot who came to Canada as a surgeon's mate in Wolfe's expedition.

LEASED TO DUKE

In 1791 he leased it to Edward, Duke of Kent, the fourth son of George III and father of Queen Victoria. Edward, then 25 and commanding the 7th Fusiliers, lived for three years in the house which from then on was known by his name.

One of the first tenants after Edward returned to England was Rev. Jacob Mountain, first Anglican Bishop of Quebec and father of the first principal of McGill University.

Supreme Court Justice Jean Thomas Taschereau and his son, Sir Henri Thomas Taschereau of the Court of Queen's Bench, were among its 19th century tenants.

The building entered a somewhat less glorious phase of its history in 1919 when it was purchased for use as an office building. Today it belongs to Domtar Newsprint Ltd.

From the outside, Kent House looks almost the same today as it did 316 years ago; the only change has been the removal of one of the two entrances. But the interior of the building has been altered radically by one of the firms which uses it as an office.

Costume party closes season for lady curlers of Boundary club

BOUNDARY — The ladies curling season came to a close with a social evening on April 4, at the Curling Clubhouse in Beebe. The event was largely attended and the curlers came onto the ice in costume with many of the spectators wearing original hats of their own creation.

The women were met at the door by Miss Faith Greenwood, who pinned a name on the back of each one. During the evening, by questions, by hook or by crook, each one guessed what the name was.

Prizes to the winning rink on the ice, in costumes, went to Ellen Ovitt, Nellie Kezar and Jacque Cass.

After the game, those modelling hats marched around the main lounge, and the most original and the prettiest were chosen by the panel of judges, Phyllis Greenwood, Vera Probyn and Grace Taylor. After serious deliberation, the judges choose the creation of Mrs. M. Carruthers as the prettiest, a picture hat, with a large rabbit in the crown center of the surrounded by Easter eggs, and tied under the chin in a large bow of tulle.

Prize for the most original, went to Mrs. M. Carruthers, a nursery picture hat, complete with a baby doll, with all its equipment from soap boxes, to bibs and pins.

Next came the judging of the costumes by Mabel Jenne, Viola Moranville and Ivy Hatch, who chose Mrs. June Quigley's original Raggedy Ann costume and Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, as Bugs Bunny, with floppy ears, fuzzy tail and two front teeth, as the funniest.

Prizes for the curling season were presented by Mrs. Priscilla Fitch, who announced that the trophies are being engraved and will be given later. Winners of the Evening League were Helen Edgar, Arlene Probyn, Cecile Dutil and Lorraine Joyal. In the Afternoon League they were Helen Edgar, Poots Kelley, Nellie Kezar and Blanche Beasse. Mrs. Fitch also announced the runners - up.

In the Maple Bonspiel the winners were Helen Edgar, Faith Greenwood, Nellie Kezar, and Cecile Dutil and runners - up were Betty Cass, Esther Baldwin, Bella Dumoulin and Vera Ogilvie.

The winners of the Vice Skips (Thirds) bonspiel were Gabrielle Paine, Betty Cass, Laurette Davignon and Blanche Beasse. Runners - up were Elizabeth Miller, Priscilla Fitch, Mildred Carruthers and Arlene Probyn.

Other entertainment of the evening was an auction of wrapped gifts. Arthur (Scully) Langevin was the auctioneer and the proceeds brought in a sum of $29 to meet expenses.

While the curlers were on the ice, some watched, others played cards and some just chatted, buy all enjoyed the evening.

The program was planned by the match committee: Helen Edgar, chairman; Arlene Probyn, Ann Denney, Ellen Kilpatrick and Priscilla Fitch.

The evening terminated by the serving of buffet style refreshments. The final event of the season will be a dance at the Club House on April 16.

West Shefford council meets

WEST SHEFFORD — The April meeting of the West Shefford Municipal Council was held on April 4, in the Central School, at eight o'clock, with Mayor Jean-Marc Potvin and five councillors present.

After the formal business of the meeting was concluded, there was discussion on the application to the Quebec government for improvement of the main street, which is a provincial highway, by lowering the grade.

The secretary-treasurer reported that the total cost for the winter ploughing of the sidewalks, and removal of snow had been less than anticipated, amounting to $689.50.

The financial statement of the municipality, showing a considerable saving, had been accepted by Quebec. There was no increase in the tax rate, which would remain at $1.25 a hundred.

A letter was received from Horbert Dunlavey thanking the West Shefford fire-fighters for their prompt action in extinguishing the recent fire in his barn.

The next meeting of the Council will be on Monday, May 2.

SURGERY IS ONLY TREATMENT FOR CONTRACTURE DISEASE

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I recently developed small bumps on the palms of both hands. My doctor says I have Dupuytren's contracture but he did not recommend any treatment. Would ultrasound help?

A—Dupuytren's contracture is a slowly progressing hereditary disease that starts with the tumors you describe on the palms. As the disease progresses the fingers are gradually pulled toward the palm and cannot be straightened out. This is due to a thickening of the strong fibrous sheath (palmar fascia) which lies between the skin of the palm and the tendons attached to the finger muscles.

Ultrasound, of value in some cases of bursitis, would be of no help. The only treatment is an operation in which, by careful dissection, the palmar fascia is completely removed. The operation should be performed early in the course of the disease. In many persons this gives a lasting cure but in others, through no fault of the surgeon, the condition returns.

Q—My trouble is seepage from the bladder, especially when I laugh. What can be done for it?

A — This very common and troublesome condition is known as stress incontinence. It is found chiefly in women who are over 50 and have borne several children but these factors are absent in some victims. The underlying cause is a relaxation of the pelvic support of the bladder. In addition to laughing, coughing, sneezing or straining at stool will permit an involuntary leaking of urine.

When women with this complaint can be taught to contract their pelvic muscles and repeat this many times throughout the day, these exercises may result in better control. If this does not work the only cure is surgical repair.

Q—Would the constant use of Robaxin be harmful?

A—Methocarbamol (Robaxin)is given to relieve painful muscle spasms. About 10 per cent of those who take it complain of drowsiness, dizziness, blurred vision, headache, nausea and skin rash, but these usually clear up when the dosage is reduced. The drug is not habit-forming.

Q—Should a person carefully watching her cholesterol intake after a mild coronary attack, avoid nuts, particularly peanut butter?

A—The amount of cholesterol in nuts, vegetables and fruit is negligible.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

JOHN F. S. McCAW, OF SHERBROOKE

John F. S. McCaw, one of the community's oldest residents, died on March 8 at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnston, of Thetford Mines. He was in his 93rd year.

Mr. McCaw was born at River David, Que., on February 5, 1874, son of John McCaw and Ellen Steele. He spent his boyhood in Montreal and then moved to Sherbrooke, where he married Helen Baird who predeceased him.

Mr. McCaw was secretary-treasurer of the Jenckes Machine Company and later was connected with the MacKinnon Steel Co. and Hall Machinery Co.

He was a faithful member of the Sherbrooke Baptist Church, where he served on the board of deacons for many years, and later was made an honorary deacon.

Surviving Mr. McCaw are a son, Francis, of Vancouver, B.C., and a daughter, Helen. A son, Jack, predeceased him.

The funeral was held March 11 at Johnston's Funeral Chapel Sherbrooke, Rev. John Dozois officiating.

Bearers were nephews, Malcolm, Charles and Sidney McCaw, and Clarence Blake, of Sherbrooke.

Interment was in Elmwood Cemetery.

JAILED FOR DRUGS

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Every third woman in Mexican prisons is there for a drug-trafficking conviction. Police show drug offences among woman convicts are more numerous than theft, prostitution and homicide.

Mrs. M. Masse named Head of Border CWL

ROCK ISLAND — Mrs. Helen Bushnell, retiring president of Our Lady of Mercy Council C.W.L. entertained the annual meeting at her home on April 5. Father George Guay, Spiritual Director, was present.

Father Guay was in the chair for the presentation of the slate of officers by Mrs. Irene Bacon. Elected to office are: President, Mrs. Marielle Masse; three vice-presidents, Mrs. Rita Quillinan, Mrs. June Federico and Mrs. Irene Bacon; secretary, Mrs. Norma Bilodeau; treasurer, Miss M. Poisson; councillers, Mrs. Beatrice Hodgman, Mrs. Maria Seguin, Miss Vivian Clark, Miss Marguerite Davignon, Mrs. Irene Poulin and Mrs. Blanche Webb.

Correspondance read, included a letter from Edith M. Clark, Spiritual Diocesan convener, noting that His Excellency, Bishop Whelan, is observing his 25 year as Bishop. A spiritual bouquet and a sum of money will go to the Bishop as a gift contribution.

Mrs. Bushnell thanked her officers and the members for their support during her two years as president.

Mrs. Masse took the chair and in her remarks thanked the members for electing her and expressed appreciation to Mrs. Bushnell for her work over the past two years.

Father Guay spoke to the women and gave a brief outline of the work of the Catholic Women's League. He thanked the retiring officers and members for their good work in the church, community, Diocesan and in field afar, and gave the Blessing upon the new executive.

Mrs. Masse spoke of the approaching feast of Our Lady of Good Councel in April, when a mass will be held in the church at 7:30 p.m. date of April 26 or 27 was suggested. Members will be notified the exact date.

As the new church is now in use, the former church, now the basement hall of the church, will be put into use as such and the May 10 meeting will take place there at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Masse, convener of welfare and health, reported a needy family in the community had been given assistance.

Mrs. Bushnell served coffee.

Grand Circuit to be held July 2-3

PRESENTS CHEQUE — Georges Masse of Molson's Brewery, second from left, is seen presenting a cheque to Gilles St. Pierre, chairman of the Grand Circuit which will be held here this summer. On the left is Peter Roberts of CASC and on the right John Sambrook, Provincial Director of the CASC. (Record photo by Gerry Lemay)

The third annual Molson's Grand Circuit will be held in Sherbrooke on July 2-3, announced Gilles St. Pierre, competition director for the Sherbrooke Auto Club, at a press conference held at Molson's Brewery.

Georges Masse, president of the Sherbrooke Summer Festival, presented, on behalf of Molson's Brewery, a cheque for $2,000 towards financing this year's Grand Circuit. It will be held on the same course as last year.

Andre Lachance, acted as master of ceremonies, and presented the various guests at the conference. John Sambrook, Provincial Director of the CASA, Peter Roberts, who is in charge of publicity for the Sports Association, and Stewart Ramsey, a driver, wore on hand.

The Sherbrooke Auto Club will be in charge of the racing event which will be held at Jacques Cartier Park with the track around the streets near the park. This is the only race of its kind in Canada and with additional prize money, donated by Molson's, it is expected to draw some of the top drivers in the sport.

The club staged their first event three years at the Shopping Centre but last year moved to Jacques Cartier Park owing to the large number of entries. With the help of the City of Sherbrooke they staged a large event which drew thousands of fans.

Alderman Tony Pinard stated that the City would again give their full support in helping stage the classic. All of the streets will be widened according to specifications handed down by the Canadian Sports Association. Members inspected the layout making recommendations and these will be attended to in the near future.

This year's Grand Circuit is open to drivers all over Canada. The course is 1.4 miles long and last year Francois Gagnon of Quebec won in 85.94 seconds. It is expected this year that it will be faster owing to the wider course.

The Sherbrooke Auto Club has named Gilles St. Pierre in charge and he stated he had already received applications for the coming race. The contestants will arrive on Friday, July 1, stated Mr. St. Pierre and tests will be held while on Saturday they will hold practice runs. On Sunday the race will get underway with the presentation of the trophy and prize money in the evening.

John Sambrook, director of the CASA, walked around the layout and stated. "The course is a fine one and by next year should be real test for the drivers. It should draw some of the best drivers in the game. It is the only one of it's kind in Canada and this should, with the extra prize money, be a big help in getting the top drivers in the event."

Mr. Sambrook congratulated Molson's Brewery and the City of Sherbrooke for giving the Auto Club such fine support in staging the Grand Circuit.

Following the conference a colored film of last year's Grand Circuit was shown. The press were guests of Molson's at a buffet lunch after the film.

Georges Masse thanked all for attending the conference and stated that Molson's Brewery was glad to be able to help in any way possible. Mr. St. Pierre then thanked Mr. Masse for permitting them to hold the press conference and also for their generous donation making it possible to increase the amount of prize money.

Civic reception for Coaticook hockey club Sunday, City Council to receive club, banquet after COATICOOK — The City of Coaticook will honor the Dynamiques, champions of the Inter-city Hockey League for the second year, at a special reception Sunday at the City Hall.

The City Council decided to take part in the celebration and will receive the champions at the City Hall prior to the banquet. The reception will take place at 4:00 p.m. in the Council chambers when the Mayor and Aldermen will receive the players with their wives and members of the executive.

The banquet will take place at Auberge de la Tourelle at 6:30 p.m. Following the banquet the various trophies will be awarded to the winners for the past season. The banquet is open and all fans are asked to attend to honor the champions.

The receipts from this banquet will help the club balance their budget for the past year and at the same time get set for next year. A good turnout would give the City Fathers an idea how many people of Coaticook support the club and may help them in deciding to build an arena of their own.

Bruins rally to nip Halifax

HALIFAX (CP)—Three third-period goals in less than 2½ minutes brought Shawinigan Falls Bruins a 6-4 victory over Halifax Canadiens Tuesday night in the opening game of their Eastern Canada Memorial Cup semi-final.

In the next of the best-of-seven series tonight, the Canadiens hope to get extra mileage from their scoring leader, Paul MacWilliams, who missed the opener while sitting out a suspension for three games because of a stick-swing incident in the previous round.

The Canadiens battled the Bruins on even terms for the first two periods Tuesday night, going into the second intermission with a 3-3 tie.

The bubble burst when Normand Pepin, killing a Shawinigan Falls penalty, broke loose to score at 9:57 of the third period Before the Canadiens could recover, defenceman Alain Beaule drove home a slap-shot at 11:48 and Dominic Decastris put the game out of reach with another goal, his second of the night, at 12:23.

RICE GETS THREE

George Farnham and Jacques Michel were the other Bruins scorers. Fraser Rice counted three times for the Canadiens, whose fourth goal came from Rod Bossy.

Farnham stole a loose puck and broke into the clear, beating Halifax netminder George MacNeil 22 seconds after the opening faceoff but Bossy tied it at 2:44.

The score umped to 2-2 when Decastris scored his first goal for the Bruins at 11:18 and Rice retaliated at 12:54 with both sides a man short. Rice gave Halifax the lead for the only time in the game at 10:25 of the second period but Michel tied it at 17:27.

The Canadiens outshot the Bruins 35-28.

It will be a different story tonight — Roy

BROCKVILLE — "The Combines will be in for a surprise this evening," stated Coach Georges Roy following a light workout yesterday at the Brockville Memorial Arena.

The Beavers had a little difficulty in getting adjusted to the large ice surface but tonight it will be different. The teams clash in the third game of the best-of-seven Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-finals, which Morrisburg leads 2-1.

The ice is the same size as the Montreal Forum, 200x90, which is quite a difference compared to the Sherbrooke Arena. Gerry Fleury won't be on hand and Coach Hurley will rely, once again, on Don Grant. He played in the game Monday evening and managed to hold off the Beavers to allow the Combines to post a 2-1 victory.

Coach Roy had his boys do some shooting in yesterday's workout as he figured this was a big factor in their downfall Monday evening. "They were missing too many golden opportunities," said Coach Roy, "and in a close game you just can't afford to do that. It will be a different story tonight."

Lionel Robidas, one of the Beavers' regular rearguards, may miss tonight's tilt. He started in Monday's game but during the first period he was obliged to quit owing to stomach pains. Coach Roy replaced him during the balance of the game.

In the first period Monday evening the Beavers certainly held the upper hand but they were missing in front of Grant and their shots made him look good. Missing the open net can hurt you, stated Coach Roy, and we certainly had our share Monday but tonight the boys should be a little sharper and things could be different.

Following tonight's tilt the next one is also booked for Brockville Friday evening. If the Beavers should win one of these two the series will move back to Sherbrooke for Sunday and Monday evenings in the sixth and seven games.

Coach Roy figures his team can upset the Combines tonight and he also is looking for a win Friday in order to return home leading the series 3-2. This seems to be quite a job since the games are in Brockville but the Beavers are confident they can accomplish the job and return to Sherbrooke ahead.

Habs rally to dump Leafs

Dick Duff intercepts pass to start on road to victory, Tim Horton is goat, Canadiens hold big 3-0 lead

SHACK SCORES — Eddie Shack (23) of Toronto Maple Leafs scores on goalie Gump Worsley of Montreal Canadiens in the first period of the National Hockey League game in Toronto last night. Defenceman Ted Harris covers the leaf player. Montreal leads the best-of-seven series 3-0. (CP Wirephoto)

TORONTO (CP) — Dick Duff picked Tuesday night to remind sports fans that traded players come back to haunt their old teams and today his former buddies — Toronto Maple Leafs — have only a ghost of a chance to bounce Montreal Canadiens from the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The 30-year-old left winger mode a key interception of a clearing pass to set up Montreal's first goal and launch a comeback that gave Montreal's first goal and Canadiens a 5-2 victory over Toronto and a commanding 3-0 margin in their best-of-seven semi-final.

Until Duff picked off a stray pass by Toronto defenceman Tim Horton and set up Ralph Backstrom for a goal, Montreal appeared anything like defending Stanley Cup champions.

Toronto had taken a 2-0 first period lead and the margin could have been greater except for erratic shooting by Leaf forwards. The Leafs maintained the pressure early in the second and appeared set to run Montreal right out of the rink.

But Duff, one of the few Canadiens able to maintain any semblance of poise in the first 25 minutes of the game, made the play that changed the complexion of the game and possibly the entire series.

Toronto now enters the fourth game Thursday with the realization that only one club in Stanley Cup history—the 1942 Leafs—ever came back after losing the first three games.

BITTER IN 1964

Duff, bitter in 1964 about a trade that cut his ties with Leafs after helping the club win two consecutive Stanley Cups, also was a tower of strength in the late stages when Montreal moved to the defensive to protect its margin.

Backstrom, Bobby Rousseau, defenceman Terry Harper, John Ferguson and Jean Beliveau shared the Montreal scoring. Eddie Shack and Horton counted for Toronto in the opening period.

If the series is extended beyond Thursday, the fifth game will be played in Montreal Saturday, the sixth here next Tuesday and the seventh in Montreal Thursday.

Toronto came out flying at the start of the game and Shack counted his second goal of the series on a power play at 1:26. The rugged winger broke through the Montreal defence and slid the puck into the right corner when netminder Gump Worsley sprawled to the wrong side.

In the next 15 minutes Toronto dominated play and did everything but put the puck into the net. Worsley looked particularly jittery and it was more erratic Toronto shooting than his netminding that kept the score close.

Horton got the final Leaf goal after 17½ minutes of play with a bullet drive from the right point that Worsley never saw. Just minutes earlier both Dave Keon and Frank Mahovlich—two Toronto stalwarts — shot wide with Worsley out of position and seconds after Horton's goal, defenceman Bobby Baun hit the post.

Toronto continued to dominate play until Backstrom scored at 8:16 of the second period and ignited Canadiens.

Within three minutes and 10 seconds they moved to the front on goals by Rousseau, his third of the series, and Harper to take a lead they never lost.

Veteran Johnny Bower, back in goal for Toronto after missing the first two games of the series because of the flu, saw his defence crumble in front of him. Allan Stanley—out for the season with a knee injury—was sorely missed.

Ferguson killed the last Toronto hopes with his goal 16 seconds into the final period and Beliveau wrapped it up, scoring into an empty net after Bower had been pulled for an extra attacker.

Fergy, who had several jousts with Shack, was picked by coach Toe Blake to check the rugged Toronto winger. The assignment elated Ferguson and he was even happier when Shack drew a penalty for high sticking him, which gave Montreal a power play that produced Rousseau's goal.

Toronto's chances of winning the series are slim. Montreal hasn't lost four games in a row this season and Henri Richard, Montreal's speedy centre who sat out Tuesday's game with a knee injury, is expected to be ready Thursday night.

Hawks win tilt 2-1, injuries hurt

DETROIT (CP)—"Now it's a case of which team stays the fittest," coach Sid Abel said following his Detroit Red Wings 2-1 loss to Chicago Black Hawks Tuesday night.

The victory gave the Hawks a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-finals, but two Chicago veterans were knocked out of action during the rough and tumble encounter.

Detroit defenceman Bill Gadsby ran into Chicago's Chico Maki. The chunky forward suffered an injured knee, and although he wasn't taken to hospital, Chicago coach Billy Reay was unable to say whether he will be available for the fourth game of the series here Thursday.

Defenceman Elmer Vasko suffered a 10-stitch cut on his right thigh when he and Detroit's Norm Ullman ran into the boards behind the Chicago goal.

The injury occurred in the first period and Vasko was reported limping badly after receiving the stitches.

SCOFFS AT INJURY

"That doesn't mean too much," said Abel. "I remember Bobby Baun came off the Toronto Maple Leaf bench with a broken leg in the 1964 semi-finals and scored the winning goal against Montreal Canadiens."

Super-star Bobby Hull is also limping from a knee injury suffered in the opening game in Chicago last Thursday. Veteran Doug Mohns suffered a shoulder injury in Sunday's second game in Chicago, and defenceman Doug Jarrett played sparingly Tuesday for the first time since receiving a back injury in the first game.

Hull and Mohns also played Tuesday night.

"Jarrett's shoulder was sore but he played real well," said Reay.

The big surprise of the night came at the opening taceoff when Reay sent out a line of Hull, Maki and Stan Mikita That left Mikita's regular Scooter Line of Mohns and Kenny Wharram with centre Phil Esposito.

"I decided to play them with Hull, hoping Mikita would break loose with everyone shadowing Hull," Reay said.

Hull was handcuffed by Bryan Watson all night but it was Maki who broke loose to score the first Chicago goal and give the Black Hawks a 1-1 tie in the second period.

SCORES FOR DETROIT

Eric Nesterenko scored the other Chicago marker, while Watson scored the only Detroit goal.

Watson, who has become an overnight hero since he was first assigned to shadow Hull early in Sunday's second game of the series at Chicago, drew rousing cheers from the 14,495 fans for his checking efforts. Hull did get one assist on Maki's goal.

But Watson was responsible for forcing Hull into taking two penalties and drew two himself.

The Wings' forechecking ability was only a shadow of what it had been during their 7-0 rout of the Hawks in Chicago Sunday. Detroit defenceman Garry Bergman said it made the difference between winning and losing.

"If you can forecheck them into their own end like we did Sunday, they just can't get going," Bergman said.

"But they turned the tables on us and we couldn't do a thing about it."

The Wings outshot the Hawks 30-24 with a 12-5 edge in the opening period.

Watson opened the scoring at 15:01 and the goal was poetic justice for the partisan crowd.

He had tangled with Hull behind the Detroit net and was thrown to the ice by the stronger man. Almost instantaneously Watson leaped to his feet, scooted down the right side, caught a pass at the Chicago blueline and fired a long bouncing shot past goaltender Glenn Hall.

Both teams were one man short at the time.

Maki's goal came while Detroit's Bert Marshall was sitting out a hooking penalty in the second period. He took a pass from Mikita and went in alone, beating netminder Roger Crozier easily with the prettiest goal of the game.

Nesterenko scored the winner late in the same period. Crozier came out of the net to retrieve a lost puck but Nesterenko, with Detroit's Paul Henderson draped around him, stabbed at it with his stick and poked it into the net.

There were 12 penalties called in the close-checking contest, with the Rd Wings taking seven. Jarrett was also assessed a five-minute major penalty for cutting Andy Bathgate behind the left ear with his stick.

Judge Roller to issue his ruling today

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—A decision in Wisconsin's anti-trust suit against baseball remains under wraps as the Braves prepare to open the season in their new Atlanta home.

Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller, who has worked virtually around the clock since Thursday to complete the ruling, said late Tuesday he will not make his verdict public until today.

The Braves had been scheduled to open against Pittsburgh Tuesday night.

Wisconsin sought a judgment before the Braves began play in Atlanta and stressed the importance of the time element throughout the six-week trial that ended last Wednesday.

Whitey Ford loses opener 2-1 to Tigers, White Sox goes 14 before edging Angels, Orioles stop Sox

Whitey Ford had this plastic bottle in his back pocket. No, it wasn't filled with Irish mist or cough syrup. Just plain old hot water.

Whitey had the jug with him Tuesday when he pitched his 11th opener for New York Yankees and lost 2-1 to Detroit Tigers. That is, he had the jug at the start of the game.

Ever since Ford underwent an operation a year ago for a circulatory condition in his left arm, the fingers in his left hand have had no feeling in cold weather.

After Ford threw two pitches in the first inning, play suddenly was halted. Out came Charley Dressen, the little manager of the Tigers, making motions toward the umpires.

"You can't use it," Dressen said, looking directly at Whitey. The umpires agreed because there is a rule against carrying anything in your pocket that might contain a foreign substance.

"You ain't gonna win any pennants that way," said Ford to Dressen in an expurgated version.

Ford also gave up — even more grudgingly—a run-scoring single to Norm Cash in the ninth that sent the Tigers to victory before the largest Yankee Stadium first day crowd in 14 years.

Chicago White Sox struggled through 14 innings before subduing California Angels 3-2. Baltimore Orioles eked out a 5-4 decision over Boston Red Sox in 13 innings and Minnesota Twins edged Kansas City Athletics 2-1 in other American League openers. The four games drew a total of 102,225, all in cool weather.

The Twins opened defence of their league title with a squeaker. They managed only four hits off loser Jim (Catfish) Hunter, but two of them were run-scoring singles by Sandy Valdespino, the last a tie-breaker in the ninth.

Tom McCraw's bases-loaded single off the first baseman's glove broke up the 14-inning, four-hour, 23-minute affair at Chicago. White Sox rookie Tommy Agee sent it into extra innings with a two-run homer in the seventh. Joe Adcock had a homer for the Angels.

Braves open new stand in Atlanta before 50,671 but lose tilt 3-2, Dodgers and Giants post victories

At County Stadium in Milwaukee, Florence M. Murray, 62, who had never missed a Braves' home opener, took her regular seat in Box 11, Tier 21, holding the scorecards of 13 past seasons.

But there wasn't much going on. The Braves aren't in business in Milwaukee any more.

"It was lonely," she admitted.

At Atlanta Stadium, Willie Landers, 24, took his seat in Aisle 340, Row 23, waving his can of beer and howling as the Braves made their debut in the Deep South.

There was plenty going on.

But Landers was lonely too.

CROWD DRIFTS OUT

"Too many ties here for these people to be real baseball fans," said Landers as he watched the crowd begin to sift out of the new $18,000,000 arena when the game went into extra innings.

And by the time Willie Stargell slugged a two-run homer in the 13th inning, giving Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 victory and ruining the Braves' Dixie debut, half of the crowd of 50,671 had left.

It had been a long day for many of the fans, who had taken part in a day of celebration heralding the Braves' official arrival. Schools and businesses were closed and a holiday atmosphere took over the city as the Braves paraded down Peachtree St.

And the crowd at the ball park, though 200 less than capacity, exceeded season-opening attendances in either Boston or Milwaukee, the Braves' last two homes.

Leo Durocher's debut as manager of Chicago Cubs also was ruined with Willie Mays frustrating his former boss with a 415-foot homer that propelled San Francisco Giants to a 9-1 victory.

RON FAIRLY STARS

In the only other National League game played, Ron Fairly drove in all three runs as the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Houston Astros 3-2. The New York-Cincinnati and Philadelphia - St.

THE QUEBEC SCENE

Most RCMP officers in Quebec now bilingual

MONTREAL (CP)—All commissioned officers and about 95 per cent of non-commissioned officers serving with the RCMP in Quebec province now are bilingual, Chief Superintendent Armand Thivierge said Tuesday.

He said in an interview that with the expansion of the force in Quebec in recent years, the emphasis on bilingualism in the RCMP throughout the province has been increased.

"It hasn't been a sudden upsurge of bilingualism," said Supt. Thivierge, who commands the Quebec division. "Rather all this has been a matter of gradual transition."

Signs on the doors of offices at the division's headquarters in Montreal now are printed in both French and English, as are the inscriptions on business envelopes used by the force.

HELPS IN INTERVIEWS

The ideal, said the superintendent, is that any French-speaking persons interviewed by RCMP members should be interviewed in their own language.

"We must also allow French-speaking members of the force to write their reports in French if they so choose," he added.

Supt. Thivierge, whose own native language is French, said the force in Quebec by no means excludes English-speaking men from its ranks.

CNR crash study

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for Canadian National Railways said Tuesday night an investigation is continuing into Saturday's collision of two freight trains in northeastern Montreal.

Two railway workers were killed and four were slightly injured when a freight train consisting of some 20 cars crashed into a stationary caboose linked to about 20 empty oil carriers.

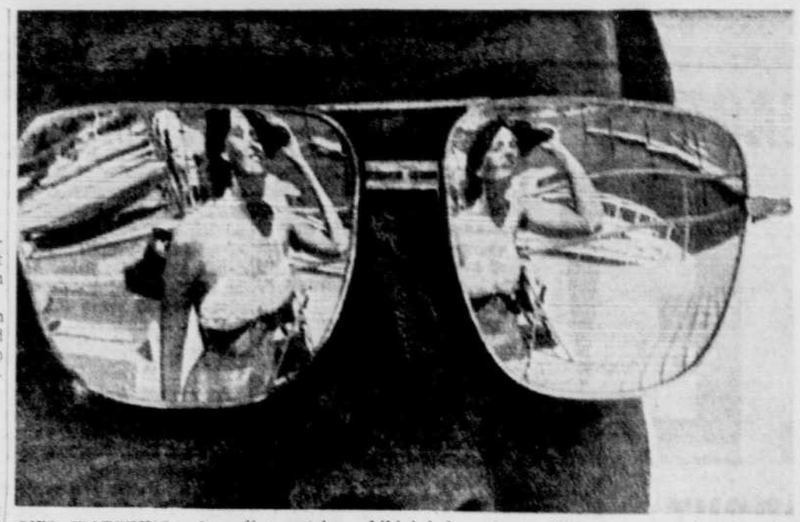
John R. McGuckin, 40, of Montreal, a brakeman, was found dead in the wreckage of the caboose, his chest pierced with a piece of jagged wood. Michael Don Halvorsen, 34, of suburban Verdun, died five hours after he was admitted to hospital.

3 explosions

QUEBEC (CP) — Some 100 persons had to leave their lodgings Tuesday night when three explosions shook three apartment buildings in the Upper Town section of Quebec City.

The explosions occurred as employees of the roads department were making repairs in the street. Police said a gas main four inches in diameter burst underneath the street near the three buildings.

Two persons required hospital treatment.



GIRL WATCHING — Ingredients for summer happiness are reflected in the sun glasses of this man as he watches bikini-clad actress Donna Wilson stroll past the moorings at the Balboa Yacht Club, Newport, Calif. News flashes from around the world

LONDON (Reuters)—A leading British professional law organization has recommended that convicted thieves be declared "criminal bankrupts" so that they and their families would not benefit from crime.

Aim of the proposal by a committee of the Law Society—ruling body of Britain's 19,000 lawyers—is to end the present situation where little attempt is made to recover stolen money once a man has been convicted of theft.

Under the committee's proposal, which would call for fresh legislation, the criminal bankrupt and his family would have to make good claims made against them by their victims.

NEW YORK (AP)—A process which developers say could make wheat palatable to Asia's rice-eating millions — and thus be a partial answer to famine—will be tested in a pilot project beginning this week in Hong Kong.

Wheat kernels are peeled by a lye process that makes them look like rice and cook like rice. The purpose of the project is to see whether Asians decide that it tastes like rice.

One of the biggest roadblocks to easing world famine, experts say, is that some people would rather die than change their eating habits.

OTTAWA (CP) — Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten arrived in Ottawa Tuesday night for a two-day visit as guest of the governor-general.

He flew in from Regina where he opened the new Speaker's Corner at the Wascana Cultural Centre during a short visit.

Here, he will have discussions with the Defence Research Board and National Research Council in co-operation with Britain's National Electronics Research Council, of which Lord Mountbatten is chairman and founder.

FREDERICTON (CP) — A budget predicting record expenditure but making no provision for the Liberal government's municipal reform program was tabled in the New Brunswick legislature Tuesday by Finance Minister L. G. DesBrisay.

Mr. DesBrisay, 45, finance minister in Premier Robichaud's cabinet since 1960, said a new budget will be presented when legislation covering the controversial program is passed.

CALGARY (CP) — Integration of the Canadian armed forces has resulted in a disruption and decline in the services' morale, Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, said Tuesday night.

The problem is most prevalent in the navy so that it is impossible for Canada to man all her ships and put them out to sea, Mr. Harkness said.

'Rat restaurant'

QUEBEC (CP)—Dr. Jacques Roussel, this city's health director, Tuesday termed the St. Charles River here a "veritable open - air restaurant for rats."

The river runs through "lower town" Quebec, north of the capital's downtown area.

Dr. Roussel made a report to Mayor Gilles Lamontagne in which there were photographs of the corpses of two cows which had been dumped onto the river bank instead of disposed of at the city incinerator.

Candle of Hope program held by Granby Kiwanis

GRANBY — At the regular dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club, on April 5 at the Socia Club, the group held its Green Candle of Hope program in observance of Holy Week. Harvey Lawrence and his committee had prepared the program and Mr. Lawrence explained its significance.

At the directors' meeting which followed, committee chairmen were reminded that March reports should be sent in promptly so that the report for the first quarter of 1966 can be compiled.

Kiwanianne Olive d'Avignon, captain of the first Granby Girl Guide Company, advised the club that Kiwanian Joe McAulay had recently completed a seven week St. John Ambulance Preliminary First Aid Course for her 14 girls and all 14 had qualified for their First Aid badges. In all 34 people had attended the course and profited from Mr. McAulay's excellent instruction.

Car swipes pole

COWANSVILLE — (Staff)— A Cowansville man was in satisfactory condition Monday in the Montreal General Hospital following an accident when a car in which he was riding hit a telephone pole last Saturday on Main Street.

Injured was Walter Chapman, 46, of 200 River Street, who was rushed to Montreal from the Brome-Missisquoi-Perkins Hospital Saturday following the accident at 12:15 a.m. with a suspected skull fracture. Following X-rays it was found his skull was not fractured. In addition to the head injury he suffered facial cuts.

The driver of the car, Serge Gervais, 24, as uninjured. He was, however, hospitalized overnight for observation.

The accident occurred in front of a service station in Cowansville when Mr. Gervais who was leaning over looking for a hot ash from his cigarette which had fallen under the seat, lost control of his car and crashed into a telephone pole. The car was travelling in an east to west direction on Main Street.

Car damages totalled $1,100 and an estimated $400 was caused to the pole owned by Bell Telephone Company, police reported.

TO SPEAK — At the next monthly meeting of the Industrial Direction Club of Cowansville, April 18 guest speaker will be Jean-Noel Parenteau, a local weekly newspaper editor and president of the Quebec Weekly Newspapermen's Association. At the supper meeting Mr. Parenteau's subject will be Retrospectives.

Granby couple faces child neglect charge

By JAMES McALLISTER
(Record Staff Reporter)

SWEETSBURG WARD — A Granby couple were ordered to appear next Monday for voluntary statements following their hearing yesterday on a charge of neglecting to provide proper nourishment for their four-month-old son, allegedly the cause of his death last May.

Accused are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Leroux, of Granby, about 30 years of age, who are alleged to have neglected their infant son, Sylvain, who died May 28, 1965.

A justice department pathologist, Dr. Ilona Kerner, testified that on examination of the infant's body, May 28, she found the baby to be undersized for its age. The baby weighed, she said, only six pounts, 12 ounces, whereas when in good health a baby at four months usually weighs about 13 pounds. An average new-born, she explained in comparison, would weigh seven pounds, four ounces.

Dr. Kerner attributed the death of the baby to infection, plus inflammation of the ear channel.

She said that under normal circumstances this would not necessarily cause death but because the infant was in an extremely undernourished state death was the result.

* * *

Dr. Maurice Noiseux, of Granby, who was present when the baby was born, testified that Sylvain weighed seven pounds, five ounces, when released from the hospital about one week after birth. He said that at birth January 21, 1965 the baby weighed six pounds, 10 ounces.

"Theoretically we accept the idea that a baby in good health will gain on the average one pound per month," he said. He had not, he testified, examined the baby after it left the hospital.

Another witness, Dr. Roch Dube, of Granby, said a sister at the St. Joseph's Hospital in Granby had asked him the latter part of May, to examine a baby which appeared dead. Upon examination Dr. Dube said the infant's heart was beating very weakly and that he immediately breathed into its mouth in an attempt to save its life. The child responded slightly, he said, and he turned the mouth to mouth breathing over to a nurse and proceeded to massage the child's heart externally.

He said the baby was later rushed to Ste. Justine's Hospital for emergency treatment. It died there. He also testified it was his opinion that the reason for death was malnutrition.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroux face separate charges against them but at the end of the hearing it was decided by Judge Guy Genest, of Court of Sessions, to accept the same testimony in both cases.

Four other witnesses were not called to testify in the case.

* * *

A Frost Village man of 21 was sentenced to one month in prison yesterday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of theft and another of breaking, entering and theft.

Donald Royer said a business man gave him $10 to commit the thefts after giving him liquor to drink.

Royer was accused of stealing the hub caps of a car owned by Doreen Shepard, of West Brome, while it was parked on Main Street in Cowansville in January. The caps were valued at $140.

He also pleaded guilty to breaking into a cottage at West Bolton, owned by Mrs. S. Dermott and stealing an oil heater, baby carriage and water pump valued at approximately $100.

Royer had recently served a 15-days sentence for theft.

* * *

Damien Brais was sentenced to a fine of $100 and court costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of jacklighting for deer. His weapon was also confiscated.

* * *

A St. Sebastien man was sentenced to a $50 fine and costs and his driving permit was suspended for three months when he pleaded guilty to charges of impaired driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Milton Gagnon at first admitted to the second charge but said he had not been drinking. He later pleaded guilty to both.

The charges arose from an accident involving a collision with another car, March 30, on Rural Route 52, Clarenceville. The other car was damaged to the extent of $450, police said. Mr. Gagnon had no previous record.

* * *

A Ville St. Michel man pleaded not guilty to theft of $5 worth of gasoline from a local service station and his preliminary hearing was set for April 29.

Gerard Duchaine is accused of driving away from the Haman garage in Sweetsburg Ward April 3 after his tank had been filled with gas and not paying for it.

PUT FACTS IN OPEN

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson wants to reduce the 50-year waiting period before state papers are published to 30 years. The rule is designed to protect still-living politicians and civil servants, he said, but "If criticisms are to be made of me . . . I would rather be alive to answer them when they are made."

Stanstead W.A. making plans for card party

STANSTEAD — Christ Church Woman's Auxiliary met April 6 at the home of the president, Mrs. A. H. Scarth.

Mrs. R. W. Peirce led for the responsive reading and Mrs. Scarth read an Easter message.

The April 20 card party, at which the dessert will be served at 1:30 p.m. was discussed. The party will be held at the homes of Mrs. C. C. Colby, Mrs. E. C. Cayley and Mrs. E. Hyatt, with whom reservations to play bridge, 500 or canasta should be made.

Mrs. John Shipway, Dorcas secretary, listed articles which may be sent to Sioux Lookout School. The W.A. are sending $16 to the school and other articles may be left with Mrs. Shipway to be sent by May 1.

A sum of money was voted towards sending some children to Quebec Lodge on Lake Massawippi this summer.

Mrs. Leo Perrault, Family Life secretary, reported on a meeting held at St. George's Church, Lennoxville, at which Mrs. Jelicoe, of the Diocese, spoke on the Family Life new curriculum.

The members agreed to order brochures on the sale of bulbs for fall planting.

The talent money, a Lenten project was turned in to the treasury.

The collection was taken up and Mrs. Cayley offered to entertain the May meeting at her home.

Mrs. C. C. Colby, educational secretary, for the study period, read a chapter from the book, A Guide to the Bible.

Mrs. Scarth served refreshments.

CLAPHAM —

Miss Annie Johnson, Miss Valerie Nutbrown and Master Stevie Nutbrown were guests at the Pinette home during the week, where they were trated to sugar on snow at their sugar camp.

Armed with computer, specialists may solve rail reservations snarl

MONTREAL (CP) — Traffic specialists of the CNR, armed with a room - sized computer, are reported hot on the trail of a solution to the biggest headache in the railway passenger business—reservations.

Their aim is an instant system for confirming train reservations of all types.

Some of the biggest railways on the continent have tackled the problem and failed. It has been said the solution just doesn't exist.

But reliable informants at the CNR are predicting the publicly-owned railway will have a computer-run reservations system in operation by the end of the year.

Although the big airlines have used computerized reservations for years, their problem was relatively simple. Airliners have only two types of seats, first class and economy. Most of their busy routes are non stop and few have more than four touchdown points.

Train reservations range through coach and parlor car seats, upper and lower berths, compartments, roomettes, bedrooms and drawing rooms. The schedules often run to more than a dozen stops.

ERRORS OCCUR

Reservations now are handled manually at central offices. Often it takes hours, sometimes a day, to get confirmations. Errors, such as selling the same space twice, are frequent enough to cause concern at top levels.

A replacement for this decades-old system is a priority item in the CNR campaign to revitalize the rail passenger business. The railway expects its biggest passenger traffic increase since the war will occur this year. Prospects for the 1967 centennial year are even greater.

No details have leaked out about the CNR's proposed system, but its specialists are banking on their earlier successes with computerized techniques to beat the problems.

Three earlier computer simulation programs developed by the CNR have attracted inquiries from railways around the world. A few weeks ago the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway flew a planeload of executives to Montreal to learn the CNR's technique.

One of the programs now being copied by other railroads is the Train Performance Calculator (TPC) in which computers figure out minimum running times for trains in any given traffic load on a specific line. It can study 100,000 miles of train operation in an hour.

Another, the Single Track Capacity Analyser (STCA), simulates dispatching operations over a subdivision.

SPEED FREIGHT

The latest, a more sophisticated version of STCA, can simulate train operations over a string of subdivisions equipped with different signals systems and traffic control devices.

All three are designed to speed up freight train movements and increase the handling capacity of busy lines. No new schedules are introduced by the CNR until they have been tested and proved by the computer programs at a saving of weeks or months in testing time.

"In many cases, field tests of certain projected operations would be quite impractical. However, with the computer, we can 'play train' in a matter somewhat similar to the military with their war games.

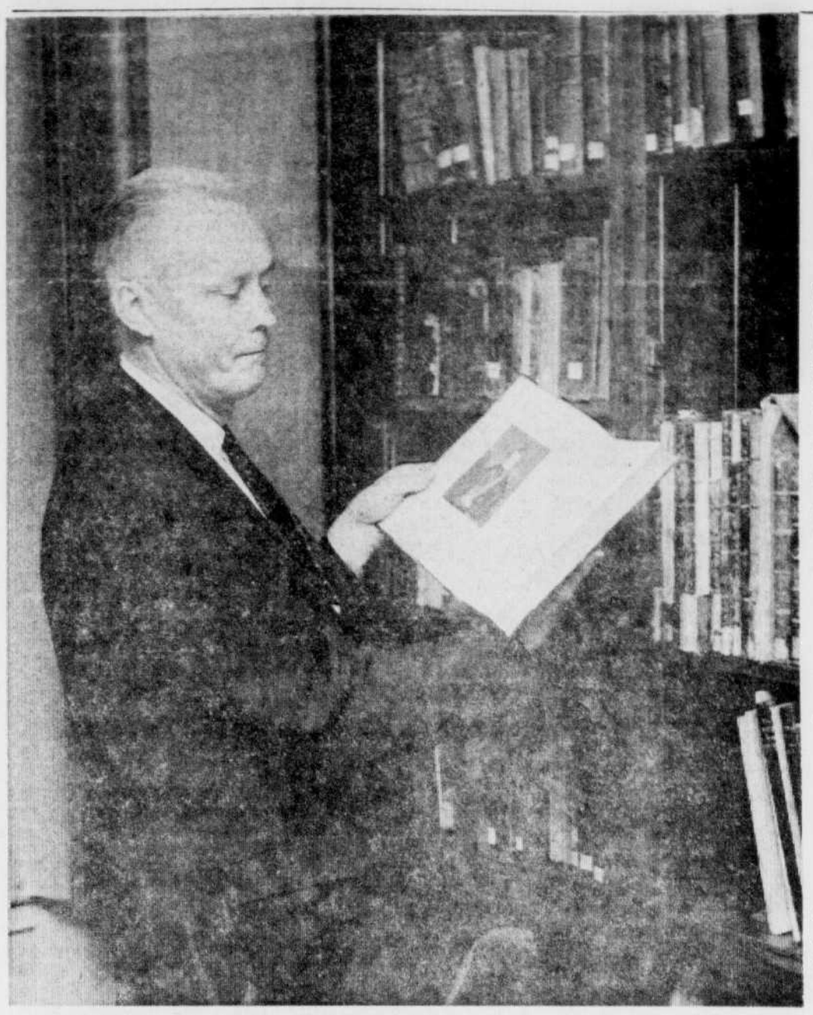
E.T. Historical Collection at Bishop's one of area's finest



COLLECTION INCLUDES RARITIES — The Eastern Townships Historical Collection in the John Bassett Memorial Library at Bishop's University includes a number of rare 19th Century volumes concerning the area's history, which are stored in locked cases in the office of Librarian Arnold Banfill, who is pictured above examining one of them. Mr. Banfill says that possibly the scarcest item in the collection is a 100-year-old two-volume work called Canadian Scenery, published in London with text by Nathanial Willis and drawing by W. H. Bartlyett. It is one of several virtually-unique items in the collection. (Record phroto by Gerry Lemay)

First in series by Doug Whatley (Bishop's Correspondent)

The Eastern Townships Historical Collection in the John Bassett Memorial Library at Bishop's University has grown to the point of being one of the finest collections of historical materials on the Eastern Townships region in existence.

It now includes well over 700 printed items and 50 or more manuscripts—as well as several dozen early lithographs, engravings and prints — relating directly or indirectly to ET history from the era of pioneering settlement up to World War One.

Most of this material has been acquired in the past eight years.

LOCAL HISTORY

"Of course, the Library at Bishop's has had at least a few works relevant to local history on its shelves since its founding," explained librarian Arnold Banfill in an interview, "but it was not until 1957 that a special collection of them was begun in a small way."

"In 1957, we had less than a hundred such items," he added, "so the collection has multiplied seven or eight times in the past few years."

This rapid expansion of the ET Historical Collection has involved much work by Mr. Banfill and some members of his staff.

"But we're very interested in doing it," said the librarian, "I regard it as a pleasant avocation."

UNIVERSITY DUTY

He also feels that assembling and organizing such a collection can perhaps be said to be part of the Lennoxville university's duty: "Bishop's is situated in the Eastern Townships; much of its growth has, as it were, been nourished by Townships soil; and, as a present cultural centre in this area, one of the functions that it is to perform is to preserve documents relating to the development of the region."

In order to make a list of the Collection's contents available to all interested citizens and students, the Library published a 40 page catalogue, covering the more than 700 printed items, several months ago.

"Most of the manuscripts in the Collection — ranging from old letters, diaries and legal documents to the secretary's minutes and cashbooks of turn-of-the-century groups — had not been systematized yet, and so were not included in the first edition of the catalogue", said Mr. Banfill.

SUPPLEMENTS

"But as the Collection grows in the future, we plan to publish supplements to the catalogue which will include the manuscript materials as well as keeping the list of printed items up-to-date," he added.

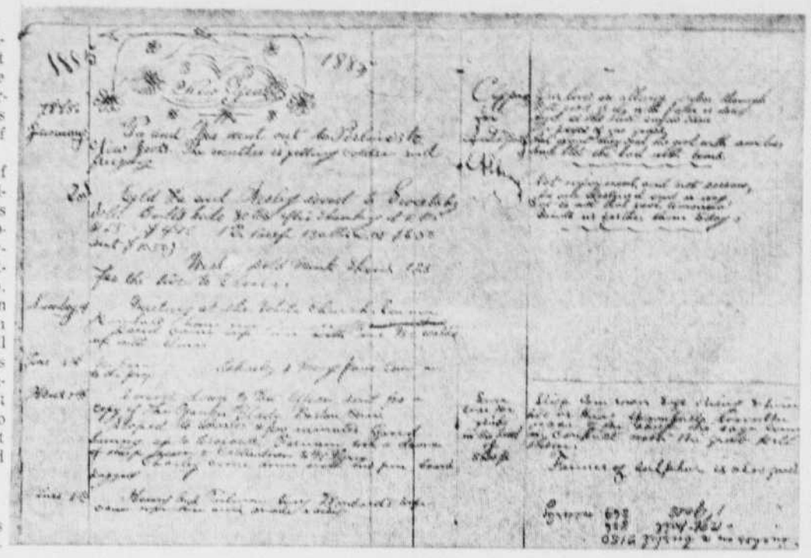
When Mr. Banfill sent copies of the catalogue to major university libraries across the country, reaction from scholars and librarians interested in Canadian history was prompt and enthusiastic.

"A very nice piece of work, tastefully produced and very useful indeed as a bibliography to the Eastern Townships," wrote the curator of an important collection of Canadians in another province.

A university librarian in French Canada wrote to Mr. Banfill: "On behalf of staff and students interested in Canada, I beg you to accept an expression of our sincere gratitude (for the catalogue of the Collection)."

CONGRATULATIONS

"I wish to congratulate you not only for a neatly done publication, but specially for the idea itself," wrote another, "we need more of such catalogues."



MANUSCRIPTS IN COLLECTION — The Eastern Townships Historical Collection in the Library of Bishop's University includes about 50 manuscript items. Ranging from legal documents to personal diaries, they are for the most part of the sort of item which would have been viewed as common, even pedestrain, in the days of their employment, but are now regarded by Bishop's librarians as being of genuine historical interest. There is, for instance, a group of diaries by various East Dunham folk of the later 19th Century, which can contribute to some understanding of this particular place and time in Townships history. Above is seen a page from one of these, the "Day Book and Journal of All Accounts" of one F. W. Westover, East Dunham, 1885. (Record photo by Gerry Lemay)

Mr. Banfill anticipates that the catalogue will be of special interest to all local groups and persons interested in the historical background of this region. The Library will accept orders for copies of it at two dollars each; if any profits result, they will be used toward the expansion of the Collection.

Most of the collection is housed in the university Library's basement stackroom, with some of the more rare or fragile items being kept in locked cases in Mr. Banfill's office. "However, any individuals or groups interested in examining all or part of the Collection, whether they are connected with the university or not, are welcome to request arrangements to be made for them to see it," he says.

How has the Collection been acquired? "We have purchased some of the material from rare book dealers in Montreal," said the librarian, "but much of it has been donated to us, and a good deal of it by Townships residents."

Philip H. Scowen, a North Hatley resident and vice - president of the university's corporation, has been the chief benefactor of the Collection. In the preface to the catalogue, Mr. Banfill writes that "the Library owes an incalculable debt of gratitude to (Mr. Scowen), for his many benefactions and for his knowledge and keen interest as a collector, without which most of the materials . . would not have been assembled

FUTURE EXPANSION

How will future expansion of the Collection occur? "We hope it will grow largely by donations from people who presently possess works relating to Townships history," replied Mr. Banfill.

"We feel that such people could perform a very important service to the public by giving these kinds of items to a centrally - located permanent depository where they will be carefully preserved and readily accessible," he noted.

Galt papers included

Within the Eastern Townships Historical Collection at Bishop's University, one may find numerous items connected with illustrious men who have played major roles in shaping the present Townships.

For example, the name of Alexander Tilloch Galt, father of confederation, finance minister, and Sherbrooke MP, is prominent in the Collection's documents.

The earliest document relating to Galt appears to be an 1847 pamphlet by him entitled "The Saint Lawrence and Atlantic Railroad, a letter to the chairman and deputy chairman of the North American Colonial Association," published in London.

But there are also relics of the later period when Galt was conspicuous in the battle for confederation. There is a "Speech on the proposed union of the British North American provinces, delivered at Sherbrooke, Canada East, by the Hon. A. T. Galt, Minister of Finance, November 23, 1864," printed at Montreal. There is also a copy of the parliamentary debates on the subject of confederation at the provincial parliament of Canada's third session in 1865, in which Galt figured.

And, of course, there are a number of speeches and reports by Galt published in the 1860's by the Department of Finance which he headed, including long-term economic surveys, budget speeches and a report on the famous reciprocity treaty with the United States.

In addition to such items from the hand of Alexander Tilloch Galt himself, the Collection includes several works by other authors which are directly or indirectly about him, notably the definitive biography of 1920 by O.D. Skelton.

This is not to suggest that Galt is the only eminent ET gentleman who is honored by

Wide scope and variety covered by collection

The Eastern Townships Historical Collection in the John Bassett Memorial Library at Bishop's University containing over 700 printed items and 50 manuscripts pertaining to regional history, is so large as to preclude our giving a detailed picture of its scope and variety within the space of a few newspaper stories.

The collection really must be seen to be fully appreciated; and, indeed, the librarian at Bishop's cordially welcomes interested groups and individuals to apply for arrangements to be made for such an examination.

It is possible, though, within the limits of one article, to give some glimpse of the wide range of material in the collection by mentioning a number of the historical items there — not designed as a fully representative portrait of it, but rather as a sampling from it aimed at suggesting its diversity.

For example, the collection includes:

— the very early "History of the Eastern Townships; Civil and Descriptive, in three parts", written by Mrs. Catherine Townsend Day in 1869; and the same author's "Pioneers of the Eastern Townships", an 1863 work advertised as "containing official and reliable information respecting the formation of settlements, with incidents of their early history, and details of adventures, perils and deliverances";

— a pamphlet giving information for intending settlers on the Eastern Townships of Lower Canada, published by the British American Land Company in 1833, and a map of the ET in 1842 drawn from that company's early surveys;

— personal writings on the Townships ranging from George McAleer's "Reminiscent and Otherwise" of the ET in 1850 to Bertha Price's "Legends of the Lakes, a Tribute to the lakes of the E. T., the Garden of Canada", 1923;

— well - illustrated works ranging from a mid - nineteenth century two - volume edition of "Canadian Scenery" with drawings by W. H. Bartlett, one of the rarest items in the collection, to Charles de Volpi and P. H. Scowen's recent "The Eastern Townships, A Pictorial Record."

These works deal with the Eastern Townships as a whole, as do numerous other elements of the collection. But there is also much material on particular centres in the Townships. For instance, in the case of Sherbrooke, there are such documents as:

— a book called "Reminiscences of Student Life and Practice", published by Dr. E. D. Worthington in 1897, for the benefit of the planned Sherbrooke Protestant Hospital;

— Miss Margaret Robertson's "An Essay on Common School Education", published in Sherbrooke in 1864 by the St. Francis District Teachers' Association as the Galt Prize Essay;

— an appealingly homely Farmer's Almanac published in this city in 1859, filled with trustworthy weather predictions and trustworthy maxims for rural people of the region a century ago;

— an original program of the five - act opera Mireille, with libretto by Michel Carre and music by Charles Gounod, presented under the sponsorship of the City of Sherbrooke by the French Section of L'Union Musicale de Sherbrooke in His Majesty's Theatre, in 1926.

Nor is Sherbrooke the only centre represented in the historical collection. A sampling of the others might include:

—those represented as agricultural centres, such as Abbotsford, reports of the Fruit Growers' Association of which dating back to the 1870's are in the collection, or Brome, whose agricultural exhibition prize list for 1899 is represented;

— others represented as mining centres, present or past, as reflected in reports bearing the titles "Report on a Recent Discovery of Gold near Lake Megantic" (1908), "Report on the geology and petrography of Shefford Mountain" (1902), "Contributions to the Minerology of the Black Lake area" (1918) or "Reports on the Property of

Prominent N.Z. chef to advise on lamb preparation

AUCKLAND (CP)—As part of its lamb promotional campaign in Canada in April and May, New Zealand is sending a prominent chef to advise on preparation of the meat. New Zealanders insist that most nations do not properly understand the correct cooking of lamb and that that is one reason why the dish is less popular than it should be.

A. Tremain, holder of many diplomas and prizes for culinary exhibitions and now catering consultant for a chain of New Zealand hotels, will advise on the art of cooking lamb in Vancouver and Toronto.

Valley Weavers plan group conference meet

The Valley Weavers held its regular meeting on April 7, at the home of Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace, in Lennoxville, with Mrs. Ernest Johnston, president, in charge. Mrs. Wallace acted as secretary, in the absence of Mrs. Royce Gale.

Further plans were made to hold a meeting in Lennoxville with the Lake Shore Weavers and the Ottawa Valley Weavers in attendance, in view of holding an annual conference meeting to bring these three groups closer together to get better acquainted in person and in working ideas. For the purpose of plans for this first get-together meeting plans will be made by the Valley Weavers as it was their proposal.

Mrs. John York and Mrs. Royce Gale will be in charge of a work display; Mrs. Hubert Johnston, program; Mrs. J. Edward Perry and Mrs. E. R. McLenahan, refreshments; and Mrs. William Van Horn, accommodations.

In connection with the event all members were asked to bring any finished work they had on hand to the next meeting for the committee to choose from for their display. This meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. York, in North Hatley.

The regular work discussion and the exchange of library books was carried on. Mrs. Perry told of a recent visit to the weaving studios of Osma Gallinger Tod, in Coral Gables, Fla., and distributed pamphlets.

Work on display included a church vestment, stole and maniple in red and gold done by the president, who specializes in ecclesiastical weaving, she also had place mats. Mrs. Wallace, had place mats and ladies' scarves. Other members told of work on the looms.

At the close of the session lunch was served by the hostess.

Twin theatres feature simultaneous films

Mothers with a yearning for daytime movie-going and who have a baby-sitting problem will be pleased to hear of a new trend in motion picture houses. They are called 'twin theatres' . . .two movie-houses, side by side in the same building, that can offer adult and children's entertainment simultaneously. While mother is quietly enjoying a filmed musical or tense drama in one theatre, her children can gaze raptly at a cartoon next door.

Park Royal Twin Theatres in West Vancouver, B.C., are among the first in Canada. The building that houses them is located adjacent to a modern, bustling shopping centre, and the object is to offer a variety of day-long entertainment to the community. During the daytime adult and children's movies are shown in the 'twins', while in the evening the cinema may show an art film while the larger Park Royal features a popular movie.

However, young home-owners may find themselves paying as much attention to the interior design, as to the film, because new decorating ideas abound that can be adapted to a home. For instance, sweeping curved walls are clad in washable vinyl covering called Univercil. This material is rugged and tough—just the thing for the playroom—and it adds warmth and the texture that is now an integral element of contemporary design.

The busy lobby serves both theatres, and it was necessary to choose serviceable furnishings that blended the over-all elegance of the decor. The furniture is upholstered in a rich, brown vinyl coated fabric that harmonizes with the teakwood panelling yet will withstand scuffing for years to come. These fabrics are completely washable, so a pastel shade would have been equally practical . . . something for the housewife to keep in mind . . . and now the Fabrilite vinyls are breathable so they are as comfortable to sit on as any woven fabric.

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY — The Pointers are the first thing I read in the paper. Mothers, did you know that when the elastic gives way in your half-slips you can make pretty slips for your little girls? Remove the old elastic, fold the slip through the middle and cut out the neck and armholes. Their size will depend on the size of the child. Trim the armholes and neckline with narrow lace and you have a very pretty slip. — FLOSSIE

DEAR POLLY — I use different sizes of hair rollers when I set my own hair. I had an extra set of kitchen canisters and found that they made excellent containers for rollers. I separated the rollers as to size and then put the different sizes in different canisters. This works wonders when I am struggling with wet hair as I can now reach for the proper size without groping around. — MRS. G. R.

DEAR POLLY — I polish my stainless steel stove and sink with an old nylon stocking and find it does a wonderful job.—AGNES

Today's recipe

REFRIGERATOR CREAM CAKE
(With Fresh Strawberry Sauce)
(Serves 6 to 8)

- 2 pkgs. (3-oz. each) ladyfingers
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 cups heavy cream
- Fresh strawberry sauce
- Whole fresh strawberries

Split ladyfingers and use as many as needed to line the bottom and sides of a lightly buttered 8-inch spring - form pan. Add sugar and vanilla extract to cream and whip until it stands in soft, stiff peaks. Fill the pan with alternate layers of whipped cream and ladyfingers, having cream as top layer. Refrigerate overnight or 6 to 8 hours. Just before serving, remove sides from the spring - form pan and place cake on a serving plate. Garnish top and around the bottom of cake, as desired, with fresh strawberries. Serve with fresh strawberry sauce.

FRESH STRAWBERRY SAUCE
(Makes 1½ cups)

- 2 cups (1 pint) fresh strawberries
- ⅓ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice

Wash strawberries, remove caps and drain. Mash berries. Add sugar, pure vanilla extract and lemon juice. Chill. Serve over cake or use as a topping for ice cream, custard puddings and other fruit desserts.

50-mile hike to meet

B.C. teenagers among Canadian boys to receive award from Prince Phillip

OTTAWA (CP)—A 50-mile hike that took them close to the summit of a 7,100-foot mountain led to a meeting with Prince Phillip for five boys from British Columbia.

The hike filled the "expedition" requirement for the Duke of Edinburgh's gold award. The B.C. teen-agers were among 18 Canadian boys who received the award from the prince during his Ottawa visit in March.

"That was a wonderful day," said Stephen Owen, a slight, brown - haired boy whose business-like manner is offset by a dimpled grin. "We talked to the prime minister in his office. He has quite a bit in common with the headmaster of our school—like they both went to Oxford."

Prince Philip chatted with the winners during the award ceremony held later that day at Government House. "He asked us about the expedition and about our school."

The boys also met Governor-General and Mme. Vanier and members of the diplomatic corps.

The B.C. boys are all 17 and in Grade 12 at Shawnigan Lake school, on Vancouver Island about 30 miles north of Victoria. It's a private school for 240 boys from Grades 8 to 12.

THREE-YEAR PROJECT

It was the headmaster of the school who got them interested in the Duke of Edinburgh's Award scheme. It was started about 10 years ago in Britain by Prince Philip to teach young people how to use their leisure time constructively.

Usually supervised through a school or organization like the boy scouts or girl guides, the scheme offers a lapel pin and certificate at bronze, silver and gold levels for achievements in four categories—public service, expedition, hobbies and fitness.

"We've been working on it since we were in Grade 9," said dark-haired Robin McDaniel, who got his hobby award for drama. "About 12 of us started out."

That made it a three-year undertaking.

Reports that the five had actually climbed Mount Garibaldi were denied by Peter Quinn, a smooth-spoken member of the group.

"No, we went across Whistler Mountain in Garibaldi Park, and that was just because it was in between where we started out and where we wanted to end up. And the part where we were is only about 6,000 feet up."

"We went through a pass on the Black Tusk—that's a volcanic formation," explained Robin. "We could have gone over the top, but it wouldn't have been a very practical route."

Suggests dismissing myths to overcome discrimination

TORONTO (CP)—Racial and religious discrimination can be overcome by dismissing myths directed against minority groups, says Mrs. Paul Brown of Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. Brown, who is Jewish, founded in 1957 a Panel of American Women. It is composed of mothers and housewives of various creeds and races who speak about prejudice and discrimination.

"The panel was whipped up to fill a slot in a women's club program originally.

"Women on the panel were home - town women, mostly housewives. They were willing to talk about the prejudices and problems they faced in a very personal way."

She was in Toronto at the request of local women, headed by Mrs. Louis Posen, who decided to form a Panel of Canadian Women after reading a magazine article on the U.S. group.

The Toronto group, sponsored financially by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, will meet at St. Thomas' Anglican Church here April 20.

Among the panelists will be Mrs. Lillian Rockman, who is a Jew; Mrs. Michael Powick, Protestant; Mrs. Nicholas Matsilkoff, a Roman Catholic, and Mrs. K. L. Searles, who is Negro.

Canadian panelist who met with Mrs. Brown commented that two main areas of discrimination in Canada are against French-speaking Canadians and Indians.

Mrs. Brown said parents should impress on their children a respect and warmth for people, no matter what their race or creed.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Certainly babies should have some leeway in setting their own patterns in the matter of feeding and sleeping the first few months. But as baby grows toward a more settled routine, he should be gently steered toward a reasonably fixed schedule. The baby who is guided toward good habits early, is less likely to rebel at more exacting regulations later.

•

High on the happy list of favourites for the little fellow on a full food schedule are combination dishes. (More ingredients, more flavour). Gerber Meat Dinners are bound to win any mealtime popularity contest. That's because these flavoursome casserole dishes are savoury with extra meat. (3 times as much as our regular vegetables and meat combinations). Garden-good vegetables and subtle seasoning are added to the meat for truly sprightly flavour. Nutritionally, they're a good source of protein, offer significant amounts of vitamins and minerals. 8 strained or junior varieties.

Toy trickery. (1) If baby gets take-apart, put-together toys before he's manually ready to use them, let him play with the individual parts, provided they're not small enough to swallow.

•

Carriage cues. (1) A bright balloon or pinwheel, attached to the front of baby's carriage, will provide many happy looking moments. (2) A transistor radio, tuned sweet and low, will delight baby when he's awake . . . won't disturb him when he's a-snooze.

•

Mouth-watering memo. Fruits score high as baby favourites. Especially Gerber Strained and Junior Fruits. And for good reason. Gerber Fruits are cooked in a flash to preserve Mother Nature's appealing colours and sun-kissed flavours . . . and to help protect precious vitamin values. Served "as is," they're delightful. representation in the Bishop' collection. There are others.

For instance, there is a grou of documents which offers an interesting outline of the distinguished career of Christopher Dunkin of Brome.

The earliest dates from 1853. It is a speech by Mr. Christopher Dunkin, Esquire, to the Canadian Legislative Assembly, delivered on behalf of some proprietors of seigniories in Lower Canada, against the second reading of a bill aimed at defining seigniorial rights in that territory.

Twelve years later, in 1865, we find Mr. Dunkin, as member of parliament for Brome, speaking on the topic of confederation.

Three years thereafter, in 1868, the Hon. Christopher Dunkin, treasurer of the province of Quebec, is presenting a fiscal report to the provincial legislature, a copy of which is in the Collection.

Later still, Dunkin became a judge, in which capacity he assembled a large and valuable Canadian law library. The final item in the Collection relating to him is a catalogue of this library prepared by a group of auctioneers after his death in 1881.

There are others besides these two examples. It may perhaps be the case that the pioneers and politicians of every county in the Townships are in some manner represented in the Collection. Even if this is not quite the case, then if the Collection continues to grow in the next decade at the rate at which it has expanded in the past 10 years, it will soon be the case.

— still others represented as tourist centres, such as is shown in a book called "The Shaybacks in Camp: Ten Summers under Canvas", published in Boston by a couple named Barrows in 1887, and, in the words of the authors, "principally devoted to an account of camp life on the shores of Lake Memphremagog."

— various other records relating to the varied aspects of the E.T.'s economy, such as the 1897 reports of the Drummond County Railway or the 1909 50th annual report of the Eastern Townships Bank;

— a variety of early historical sketches of ET centres, including "A Sketch of the Early Settlement and History of Shipton, Canada East" by Rev. Edward Cleveland (1858), "The Canadian Loyalists and Early Settlers in the District of Bedford" by J. P. Noyes (1900), and "The Fiftieth Anniversary History of Thetford Mines" (1929);

— and miscellany ranging from an 1864 plan of the village of Danville to a 1906 study of the etymology of the Indian place name "Missisquoi", and from an anonymous political pamphlet called "The Boodle Brigade" to the memoirs of a clergyman grandly titled "The Grand Old Man of Dudswell."

Guild and W. A., Kirkdale, plan rummage sale

KIRKDALE — The Guild and W. A. of Holy Trinity Church met at the home of Mrs. R. Roux on April 5.

Plans were made to hold a rummage sale in the Melbourne Town Hall April 30, commencing at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Roux was assisted by Mrs. W. Patrick as co-hostess.

GENERAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. W. Patrick accompanied Mrs. R. Graham to Montreal to visit Mr. F. Graham, who is a patient in Notre Dame Hospital.

Friends are sorry to learn that Mr. G. Couchman is a patient in Sherbrooke Hospital.

COOKSHIRE

The junior choir, of 14 voices, participated with the senior choir in the singing of the hymns, the Gloria and the Lord's Prayer, and also rendered an anthem at the Palm Sunday morning service in Trinity United Church.

Col. and Mrs. T. W. Johnston and daughter, Elizabeth, Hudson Heights, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Osgood, and visited Mr. O. A. Osgood at Lowell Lodge in East Hatley.

Mrs. R. J. Westgate, formerly of East Angus, who visited Mrs. N. D. McLeod for a week, has left to spend a few days in Lennoxville, Coaticook and Beebe before returning to Montreal, where she will reside in future. Mr. and Mrs. U. Vaudry, Lake Megantic, were also guests of Mrs. McLeod. While here, Mrs. Westgate and Mrs. McLeod visited Miss B. Everett in Lennoxville.

Mr. and Mrs. David Benton and daughter, Cathy, of Summerside, P.E.I., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benton, of Sherbrooke, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wheeler.

Africa always new

LONDON (CP)—The sage of ancient Rome who murmured "out of Africa, always something new" should be around for the 1960s.

Coups, attempted coups, revolutions, rebellions and mutinies have occurred in 23 territories since 1960—10 in the last year. Some have had more than one upheaval.

Eleven governments were felled in the continent of some 50 countries and colonies. Four men who led their countries to independence were slain. Soldiers have overthrown eight governments since last June 19.

The causes and forms of the African ferment are probably almost as broad as the vast continent itself. In most cases it was the military men who brought down or rearranged their civilian masters.

For purposes of perspective, however, Africa was not the only scene of military coups during the period: Latin America had nine and there were four each in the Far East and the Middle East.

Not all African political developments were violent. Tanzania's autumn election exhibited democratic principles despite its status as a one-party state. Morocco's King Hassan II named himself premier and Libya's King Idris also intervened in politics.

Gambia, tiny sliver in West Africa, became the ninth independent African Commonwealth member. Basutoland, British high commission territory entirely surrounded by South Africa, plans steps toward independence this spring. Bechuanaland becomes independent Sept. 30 and Swaziland is also on the independence road.

DANGER AHEAD

Political and economic progress was made by some countries and an impressive measure of continental unity attained by 1966. Yet the outlook is for further spectacular and dangerous events in Africa, which has grown to 36 independent states—many of them much smaller in population than Toronto and Montreal—from only three within 15 years.

What is it all about?

Last year's events show the honeymoon of independence, if there ever was one, is well and truly over and Africa has entered a new era of challenge to the men who shaped and ruled various nationalist movements.

Africans were disillusioned by corruption, favoritism, extravagance, high-handed rule, ineptness cold war dabblings displayed by the politicians. The real achievements of Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah in such basics as education and agriculture became sullied by his ruthless oppression.

Educated Africans whether in the civil service or elsewhere often thought it prudent to remain silent about their frustration and discontent. But the military men, also possessing an education, had the tools and organization to do the job.

Their intervention was made less hazardous since the new nations have no tradition against military rule and indeed no national traditions at all, only symbols such as flags and anthems—and nationalist heroes.

INHERITED TROUBLE

Anger flowed up toward the men on top even if they were doing their best with difficult new problems besides trying to cope with a daunting heritage of muddle left by their former imperial masters.

Nigeria's prime minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa was slain in the name of unity although that was also the dearest aim of this highly-respected Moslem. Perhaps his greatest misfortune was to be associated with two regional premiers, also slain, whose positions were more equivocal.

The fantastic hodge-podge of national boundaries, imposed by the European powers without regard to tribal division or eventual economic viability, is one of the things Africans will apparently have to live with indefinitely.

While English and French frequently are the official languages, the countries mingle scores of tongues among peoples of different customs, laws, dress and religion—Christianity in various divisions, Islam, paganism, ju-ju.

Place on top of all this poverty, unemployment, drastically reduced prices for such crops as cocoa and—in some cases—political chaos and you have a ripe situation for a man with a gun.

The old year went out and the new one came in to the crackle of rifle fire as five west African governments came crashing down in a little more than two months, Nigeria and Ghana following French-language Dahomey, Central African Republic and Upper Volta.

County president visits Institute at Cowansville

COWANSVILLE — The Women's Institute met at the home of Miss Ella Brown, the hostesses being Mrs. R. Jenne, Mrs. G. Phelps, and Miss K. MacIntosh. The County president, Mrs. E. Dryden made her official visit.

Plans were made for the filling and sending of Christmas stockings to far lands. It was decided to continue the sponsorship of a girl from Jamaica in whom the branch has been interested for several years.

Mrs. E. Boyd keeps up a regular correspondence with the group's "Link" in West Parley, England. A very interesting letter was read from Mrs. V. priest, a member of that "Link".

Mrs. Dryden pointed out several items of interest, and advised greater use of the Pamphlet Library. Mention was made of the Leadership course, as well as the county annual meeting to be held in Cowansville on May 12, which will be, entertained by the Fordyce branch.

KINNEAR'S MILLS

Miss Iona Davidson, of the teaching staff at Shawbridge, spent the Easter holidays at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rothney were visited during the Easter holidays by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bastos, and their children, Helene, and Keith, of St. Hubert.

Mr. David Rothney, of Montreal, is at home for a short vacation.

Mrs. Annie Lowry was called to Sherbrooke by the illness of her brother-in-law, Mr. Elmer Suitor, a surgical patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Messrs. Russell Rothney and Leslie Bastos motored to Gould to attend a Masonic meeting.

Mrs. Bertha Nutbrown and Mr. Arthur Nutbrown recently visited relatives in Lennoxville.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Learmonth and daughter, Marianne, Inverness, were guests on April 3, of Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, on the occasion of Mrs. Bailey's birthday.

Mr. Lyman Learmonth and his mother, East Angus, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jamieson and family.

Mrs. Fred McElravy and son, Verel, of Bulwer, are visiting her mother, Mrs. A. Davidson, Mrs. Davidson and Mr. Irvine Maxwell previously had visited Mr. and Mrs. McElravy in Bulwer.

DANVILLE

Miss Janice McMorine spent part of the Easter holidays in Sherbrooke, the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Jack Grime, and Mr. Grime.

Bro. Ray McMorine, D.G.M., Bro. Hilton Findley, P.N.G. and Bro. Roy Monahan, N.G., accompanied by Bro. Preston Schoolcraft, Grand Master of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Quebec, were in Montreal to attend a meeting of a Lodge there.

Friends of Mrs. Arthur Paige will be sorry to learn that she burned her hand quite badly, and had to have medical attention.

The Carry-On Christmas Club met at the home of Mrs. Guy Andrews, with Mrs. Charles Horan as co-hostess. The raffle was won by Mrs. Jerome Olney and the Lucky Cup by Mrs. J. A. Ashmore. Prizes for the games went to Mrs. Gordon Laxton and Mrs. Wesley Walker.

The A.Y.P.A. of St. Augustine's Church met April 6, when plans were completed for the Dance which they are sponsoring on April 15. The project is to raise funds necessary for these young people to carry on with their club.

Mrs. Ronald Paige, of Burnaby, B.C., and Mrs. Donald Macleod, Hamilton, Ont., are guests of their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Robinson, called here by the illness of their father, Mr. Howard Robinson, who is a patient at the C.J.M. Clinic, Asbestos.

SAWYERVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Perkins and family, of Senneterre, spent the Easter holidays at their home here.

Miss Shirley Loveland, Montreal, is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Loveland.

Mrs. Gerald French and Miss Debbie French were Easter guests of Mrs. W. N. Johnston and family of South Durham.

RICHMOND

Principal Donald Rattray and Mrs. Rattray have returned to Hudson Heights after visiting the former's mother, Mrs. W.K. Rattray, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Phipps in Melbourne. Mrs. Douglas Gleason, of Ville Lasalle, was also a guest at the Rattray home.

Mrs. Frank Thompson was a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Russell Lowry, and Mr. Lowry, Montreal, and also visited her aunt, Mrs. Philip Wilson, and

Hat contest at Ayer's Cliff tea most amusing

AYER'S CLIFF — St. George's Parish Hall presented a charming scene of spring flowers and Easter bonnets when the ladies of the Guild held their spring sale and tea on March 31.

The guests were greeted by Canon and Mrs. H. C. Denton and tickets were sold at the door by Mrs. Ernest Wintle.

The hat contest had a good number of most attractive bonnets on display. These were modelled by their makers, prizes being won by the following: Mrs. Maude Chadsey, first; Mrs. Lancelot Piercey, second; and Mrs. Wayne Hall and Mrs. Carlos Pedersen tied for third; The judges for the contest were Mrs. James Atkinson, John Cunliff and Canon Denton.

As an added attraction for the afternoon Mrs. Keith Kennedy had prepared paper bags for the younger girls, each bag containing the makings of a hat. The girls were given a specified time to make a hat from flowers, feathers, veiling and the like.

The girls in the senior group who won prizes were: First, Melanie Drew, and second Ginny Martin. Winners in the junior group were Beverley Wintle and Jennifer Kennedy.

Mrs. Avon Dolloff, Mrs. Delia Mitson and Mrs. Gordon Shipway were the judges for the contest, which created much amusement for the guests.

Tea was poured at an attractive table, centered with spring flowers, by Miss Maude Kezar and Mrs. Edith Little.

The miscellaneous table was in charge of Mrs. Darrell Sloggett and Mrs. Algenon Piercey, with Mrs. Norman Wintle looking after the table of home cooking and attractive dolls clothes.

The dining room was in charge of Mrs. Royce Martin, assisted by Mrs. Weldon Dustin, Mrs. Wallace Browning, Mrs. Wendall Cass and Janet Lundeborg.

Members of the G. A. and J. A. of St. George's Church were the waitresses.

Mrs. James Atkinson Mrs. R. Hoffman, Mrs. Lillian McFaul, Mrs. Malcolm Gilbert and Mrs. Galen Vance were in charge of the kitchen.

Asbestos Guild and W. A. plan tea and sale

ASBESTOS — The regular meeting of all Saints Guild and W. A. was held in the church hall on April 5.

The minutes were read by Mrs. Storry, in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Hull. Mrs. Storry also gave her financial report.

Plans were made for the tea and food sale and fancy work table, to be held April 28, 7:30 p.m.

It was announced that the biennial meeting will be held at St. Augustine's, Danville, on May 25 and 26, with All Saints W. A. serving the refreshments the afternoon of the 26th.

Tea was served at the meeting's close.

Anglican and Baptist ladies guests of U.C.W.

NORTH HATLEY — The April meeting of the United Church Women was one of special interest when fifteen visitors from the Baptist Ladies Circle and St. Barnabas Anglican Guild joined with the eleven U. C. W. members to enjoy slides of the Holy Land, shown by Mrs. A. B. Lovelace, of Lennoxville.

In keeping with the Easter season, Mrs. Lovelace traced the life of Christ, from His birth to the Crucifixion. She was thanked by Mrs. George Cheal.

A brief business session had preceded the program, the devotions being lead by Mrs. M. Sharman and Mrs. C. Smith. The program chairman, Mrs. R. Olson, introduced Mrs. Lovelace.

Following the program, the hostesses, Mrs. N. Cairns, Mrs. H. Taylor and Mrs. R. Reed, served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

Memorial organ is dedicated at Windsor service

WINDSOR — A special service was held Palm Sunday evening in St. Andrew's United Church to dedicate a memorial electric organ, to admit Frank Harper, Jr., as an elder to the session and also to celebrate Holy Communion.

Dr. Graham Barr, of Trinity United Church, Sherbrooke, was guest speaker, his subject being Communion Meditation.

The organ was dedicated in memory of J. N. Caswell, Mr. and Mrs. W. Greenlay, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Paige, Mrs. Frank Harper Sr., Louis Dubuc and Angus McCray.

The organist, Mrs. Mildred Morey, led the choir in the singing of an anthem, Great God to Thee Our Hearts We Raise.

Walter Judge, student minister in charge, assisted Dr. Barr in the service.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

UNUSUAL PLAY IS LEAD CUE

Oswald starts out today's discussion by asking Jim: "What would you say is the most important thing to bear in mind when you use suit preference signals?"

Jim: "That the signal is a sort of junior partner of your regular signals. Almost all of the time the lead of a deuce merely means that you are leading fourth best, not making some mystic call for partner to play clubs later on, or when you drop a ten spot it does not mean that you are showing strength in spades but merely that you have strength in the suit of the ten spot."

Oswald: "Could you put it this way? A play will only constitute a suit preference signal when there is no other reason for it."

Jim: "You've hit the nail right on the head. This also means that frequently you will be able to read a high card as a suit preference signal when a low card play would be dismissed as just following suit."

Oswald: "Today's hand falls into this category. East opens the bidding with a nonvulnerable preempt. South jumps to the spade game and West raises to five clubs. Five clubs would be down one trick but North pushes on to five spades. West would have gone further with his sacrificing except that he sees a good chance to beat five spades. He passes and opens the nine of diamonds.

"His plan is to get in with the ace of spades and then try to put his partner on lead for a diamond ruff. East doesn't know exactly what is going on but East does know that his one entry is in hearts— not clubs. He plays his ten of diamonds! West recognizes this play as most unusual. It must be a suit preference so when West gets in with the ace of spades he leads a heart, not a club, to put his partner on lead."

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
			1 ♠
Pass	1 N.T.	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠KQJ76 ♥A2 ♦5 ♣AQ1062

What do you do now?

A—Bid three hearts. You are going to game somewhere.

Members of Hatley Guild sponsors miscellaneous shower for bride

HATLEY — Miss Evelyn Knapp, prior to her marriage on April 9, was guest of honor at a miscelleneous shower on April 5, sponsored by members of St. James Anglican Church Guild, in the Guild Hall. About 60 relatives and friends were present.

The bride-to-be was escorted to a seat beneath an arch, decorated in pastel green and yellow, by her cousins, Mrs. Caroline Rymill and Mrs. Ann Walker, to the strains of the wedding march, Mrs. Hormer Cote was at the piano.

Members of the J.A. and G.A. groups sang several songs, the audience joining with them, with Mrs. Cote as accompanist, after which Mrs. Nellie Hartwell gave a reading entitled, Romance at Hatley Pond.

Catherine and Nancy Whitcomb, cousins of the bride-elect, carried in a basket laden with gifts which had to be replenished several times.

Miss Knapp expressed thanks for the lovely gifts and to the Guild for the shower. Refreshments were served by Guild members, assisted by several of the younger girls of the community.

Miss Knapp and Peter Glauser, Montreal, were married in St. James Anglican Church, Hatley, on April 9.

Out-of-town relatives and friends who attended were from Ayer's Cliff, Hatley Centre, East Hereford, Compton, Moe's River, Lennoxville, Waterville and Sherbrooke.

WAY'S MILLS

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Dobb, Arlene Dobb and Mrs. Mary Hill, of Athens, Ont., spent a few days with Mr. Dobb's mother, Mrs. Alice Dobb, prior to leaving for Arizona, where they intend to reside. Miss Beverly Dobb, of North Hatley, also visited at the same home while her parents were here. Mrs. Alice Dobb, with her guests, visited relatives in Glover, Vt., and Mrs. Dobb, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Dobb, of North Hatley, returned to Glover the following week to spend some time with her sister, Mrs. Clare Eddy.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Davis and daughter, Beverly, spent the Easter weekend with friends in Ontario.

Mr. Harold Smith was called to Libbytown by the illness of his mother, Mrs. M. J. Smith, who was later removed by ambulance to the Sherbrooke Hospital, where she is reported to be resting comfortably.

Show Business

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The two-hour feature for television has replaced pay-TV as Hollywood's pie-in-the-sky.

For 15 years, the cry has been: "Wait until pay-television; then this town will really boom!" The theory had been that then first-run movies could be paid for and seen in the home, the Hollywood product would be in greater demand than ever before.

But pay-TV remains only a glimmering hope after years of experimentation. Now the studios are scouting another, more immediate prospect of future prosperity: The movie feature made expressly for television.

For 1966-67, the three networks have scheduled prime-time movies on five nights—Tuesday and Saturday for NBC, Thursday and Friday for CBS, and Sunday for ABC. All three are scrambling for products.

"Within two or three years the supply of feature movies should become critical," Grant Tinker, new head of NBC programming, remarked recently "It behooves us to start making plans to replenish that supply."

MAKE DEALS

All three networks have entered into deals to provide new features for television.

CBS recently announced a contract with Warner Brothers for six two-hour films which would be released in theatres first, then on the network. CBS was also reported in negotiations for features by producers Ivan Tors and William Castle.

ABC concluded a deal with MGM for six features, which may or may not be released in theatres first. One now is being filmed: 52 Miles to Terror with Dana Andrews and Jeanne Crain.

NBC is the pioneer in the field of new features for television, having contracted with Universal for such films during the last two years. The network reported that ratings suffered no drop when new features were played, rather than the more publicized old ones.

MAKE A DOZEN

Universal expects to make a dozen two-hour shows for television this year, most of them for NBC. Recently the studio had three of them shooting at once: Dragnet—1966 with Jack Webb and Harry Morgan; How I spent my Summer Vacation with Robert Wagner, Peter Lawford, Walter Pidgeon, Jill St. John, Lola Albright and Michael Ansara; The Doomsday Flight with Jack Lord, Van Johnson and John Saxon.

Studios generally reserve the right to release the films in theatres first, in case they turn out promisingly. That happened with The Plainsman, which Universal made for CBS with Don Murray and Guy Stockwell. Additional revenue comes from the release of the films in foreign theatres.

All this bodes well for an industry that once feared television would destroy it. Now it appears television may supply the movie industry a means of survival.

Ireland's Easter Rising succeeded in failure

LONDON (CP) — The tall, pale schoolmaster with the slight squint walked out on the steps of Dublin's main post office, watched by a sparse crowd of sightseers that sunny Easter Monday noon 50 years ago.

"Irishmen and Irishwomen" declaimed Padraic Pearse in his high - pitched tenor. "In the name of God and of the dead generations from which she receives her old tradition of nationhood, Ireland, through us, summons her children to her flag and strikes for her freedom."

With these words, seven oddly-assorted men ranging from a poet to a labor leader and calling themselves the Provisional Government of the Irish Republic, declared independence from Britain April 24, 1916.

Their action, climax of 700 years of British rule, launched a week of bitter fighting and a chain reaction of violence that would lead six years later to home rule in a divided island.

It was a bold and apparently hopeless bid, doomed from the start for lack of arms and support — 300,000 Irishmen were fighting in the British Army. Yet by its very failure it succeeded. Pearse's belief that Ireland needed a blood sacrifice to fire her nationalism was proved correct, and the echoes of the Easter Rising are reverberating still.

BRITISH SURPRISED

The rebellion took the British completely by surprise, though its roots went deep into Irish history. Four previous insurrections since 1798 had failed.

As the 20th century opened, Irish nationalism was gaining ground. In 1905, Arthur Griffith formed the Sinn Fein (Ourselves Alone) movement, advocating Ireland's own parliament. It was a non-militant society that attracted large numbers of scholars and professional men.

The idea of armed rebellion, however, was kept alive by a secret revolutionary society in the United States called the Irish Republican Brotherhood.

The fuse was lit in 1912 when Britain's Liberal government, needing the support of John Redmond's Irish party, seemed on the verge of granting home rule. Conservatives in England and Ulster reacted fiercely. Sir Edward Carson, a distinguished barrister and leader of the Belfast Orangemen, founded the Ulster Volunteers to resist separation from Britain.

The south retaliated by forming its own militant groups. First came the Citizen Army, a small, tough force of trade unionists led by veteran labor leader James Connolly.

The Sinn Feiners, backed by the Irish Republican Brotherhood, founded the Irish Volunteers. They were headed by the respected figure of Prof. Eoin MacNeill of the National University of Ireland, who was opposed to violence unless the authorities moved first.

PLANNED FOR REVOLT

But three members of the brotherhood — Pearse, John MacDermott, and Edmund Kent—were already planning to turn the Volunteers into a weapon of revolt.

In August, 1914, as Britain went to war, Redmond pledged Ireland's loyalty and offered to recruit Irishmen for the British forces, following Carson's agreement to suspend the home rule dispute. Irish nationalists regarded this as a bitter betrayal.

Early in 1916, through their American intermediaries, they asked Berlin to send arms for an Easter rising.

The enigmatic Sir Roger Casement, distinguished British consular official turned Irish nationalist, now entered the scene. In Germany he pleaded Ireland's cause and tried vainly to raise a rebel brigade among Irish prisoners of war. When the German arms sailed aboard the Aud, a ship flying Norwegian colors, Casehe t was sent back to Ireland on a U-boat.

The Aud was intercepted by a British patrol boat as she waited for a shore signal that failed. Ordered to Queenstown for inspection, her commander blew the ship up. With her went 20,000 rifles and 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition.

CHARGED WITH TREASON

Casement was arrested soon after landing on Good Friday and sent to London to be tried for high treason. The double blow convinced MacNeill the rising had no chance of success and he issued a countermanding order, even placing an announcement in Dublin newspapers April 23 that all "movements" were cancelled.

Pearse and his followers, however, were convinced the nationalist leaders would soon be arrested. They decided to go ahead, one day late. As a result, the rising went off at half-cock.

The conflicting orders and uncertainty wrecked the original grand plan to have 100,000 men rise in arms throughout the country. Only about 700 men marched with Pearse that sunny noon in Dublin, though the number more than doubled as the week went on. They faced a British military strength of 2,265 men and 120 officers — but that day so many were at the races watching the Irish Grand National that the garrison at Dublin Castle, normally 200, was less than 25.

The unprepared state of the authorities took the rebels themselves by surprise. As Pearse and Connolly led 150 men into the massive, pillared post office on Sackville—now O'Connell—Street, a small detachment of the Citizen Army marched on the castle, shot the policeman on duty and entered the guardroom, taking six prisoners.

MISSED CHANCES

Thinking the fortress heavily guarded, they failed to press their attack and so lost a crucial opportunity to capture the ancient symbol of British rule. Later that first day the Irish were again misled into believing the telephone exchange occupied, with the result the British were soon able to call for reinforcements.

As the first rebel groups moved in, four battalions of Irish Volunteers occupied the Four Courts, Dublin's legal citadel, and other strategic points around the city centre. Among the commandants was a towering, gaunt, American-born professor of mathematics called Eamon de Valera, who established his men in Boland's flour mills and set up a series of outposts commanding the entry of any British forces arriving from the port of Kingstown, now known as Dun Laoghaire.

Altogether a more unlikely-looking bunch of revolutionaries could hardly be imagined than the leaders of the Easter Rising. Thomas MacDonagh was a university professor; Kent a civil servant; Joseph Plunkett a tubercular poet of 29 with his throat swathed in bandages; Thomas Clarke, at 58 the oldest of the leaders, a frail-looking tobacconist.

SON OF ENGLISHMAN

Dominating them was the magnetic but strangely aloof personality of Pearse, 36-year-old bachelor commander-in-chief of the Irish forces. The son of an Englishman, Pearse as a boy had vowed to "free Ireland or die fighting the English."

As the rebels dug in that first day, there was little sense of excitement.

"There was a suspension of thought all that week — we were just doing the job we had trained to do," said Prof. Liam O'Briain in a recent interview from his Dublin home. His chief memories are of "an awful lot of noise —the guns and the buildings crashing down—and a great deal of moving furniture was said the Germans had about."

The heady effects of rebellion spread quickest in the crumbling slums north of Nelson's Pillar in Sackville Street. Champagne and whisky ran in the gutters as shawled women and ragged men raided pubs and stores, piling the sidewalks with loot.

Next morning Dublin awoke to confusion and wild rumors. The city's power had failed, since de Valera's men had dismantled the gas works. Shops were closed. The streets were empty of traffic. The pro - government Irish Times, able to publish because it had its own power supply, ran only a three-line announcement on the rebellion.

In the absence of news, bizarre rumors flourished. It was said the Germans had landed; Irish - Americans were coming to help; the Orangemen were marching on Dublin; the Pope had committed suicide.

Fierce hand-to-hand battles were going on at the outlying rebel strongholds, but the British commander, Brig.-Gen. W. H. Lowe, was stealthily throwing a cordon around the city centre, bent on isolating the nerve centre of the rebellion.

As day followed day that fine spring week, it seemed incredible that the insurgents should still be holding on. Seven Irish soldiers held one strongpoint, Clanwilliam House, for nine hours against blistering attack by the Sherwood Foresters, inflicting 234 casualties before the house was bombed and abandoned by the four surviving rebels.

There were moments of light relief. Twice daily at St. Stephen's Green, the elegant park in the heart of Dublin, both sides quit firing to allow park-keeper James Kearney to go in and feed the ducks.

But time was running out for the rebels. On the third day a British gunboat came up the Liffey and pounded Liberty Hall, the trade union headquarters where the Irish forces had assembled Easter Monday. The military closed in on Sackville Street, attacking with machine-guns.
