Mobile Recruiting Unit of R.C.A.F. At Shawville Every Fourth Saturday

Flying Officer T. B. Senex has just completed a tour of the Ottawa District organizing Mobile recruiting for the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Mobile recruiting has been re-organized to standardize the system throughout the Ottawa district and does away with the somewhat hit and miss method of casual trips in various localities.

In the future, certain towns will be visited every month on the same day of the month and at the same hour of the day. Three trips have been organized to cover approximately 80 per cent. of the Ottawa district and these trips are sub-divided as follows:—

- 1.—Smith's Falls, Prescott, Brockville, Kingston, Napanee, Perth and Carleton Place.
- 2.—Winchester, Morrisburg, Cornwall, Lancaster, Alexandria, Hawkesbury and Alfred.
- 3.—Almonte, Arnprior, Renfrew, Eganville, Killaloe, Barry's Bay, Pembroke, Beachburg and Shawville.

As far as Shawville is concerned, the Mobile Unit will be here every fourth Saturday of the month from ten o'clock in the morning to two in the afternoon.

Another feature of these tours will be that the R. C. A. F. will bring along with them a Medical Officer who will examine the applicants on the spot, and tell them immediately whether or not they are fit for service.

Mr. Alex Bean Dies of Injuries From Kick From Colt

It is with deep regret that we report the death of Mr. Alex Bean, who passed away at the Pontiac Community Hospital on Friday as the result of severe injuries received from a kick from a colt at his farm on Wednesday evening when he was watering the stock.

Mr. Bean was a life-long resident of Clarendon, and one of the townships leading farmers. He was born in 1895, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bean. He had been a member of the Orange Order and was very active in municipal affairs, being a councillor for a number of years.

An Anglican, he attended St. Alban's Church, Parkman. He was married 54 years ago to Miss Lucinda Hodgins, who survives, with two sons Wilfred, of Clarendon, and Thomas, on the homestead; three daughters, Mrs. James Cunningham, of South Porcupine, Mrs. Albert Leack, of Pembroke and Mrs. Roy Dagg, of Clarendon; four sisters, Mrs. Wm. Pultz, of Renfrew, Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, of Toronto and Mrs. Peter Gear, of Winnipeg, and Miss Alice Bean, of Clarendon. Twenty nine grandchildren also survive.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon from the late home on the Portage du Fort road, to St. Alban's Church, Parkman. Service was conducted by Rev. Donald Andrews of Campbell's Bay, assisted by Rev. A. F. Fokes, pastor of Shawville United Church and Rev. K. C. Bolton, rector of St. Paul's Church, Shawville. During the service Mrs. Clive Smart and Mrs. Leslie Dean sang a duet, "No Disappointment in Heaven."

Interment was made at Stark's Corners Cemetery, the pall-bearers being, Messrs. Clarence and Emerson Horner, Garfield, Harry, Lloyd and Harland Hodgins, all nephews of the deceased.

There was a very large attendance at the funeral and many beautiful floral tributes were received.

Sugar Rationed to Twelve Ounces a Week

By order of the war time prices and Trade Board Canadians may not purchase more than two weeks supply of sugar at the prescribed ration figure. Those who have more than that amount on hand must use their supplies until they are less than sufficient under the ration for two weeks before buying more.

The order, effective Sunday last fixed three quarters of a pound per person per week as the sugar ration for household consumption in Canada.

It is unlawful to purchase more than two weeks' supply at a time, to purchase any sugar for household use if there is two weeks' supply or more on hand.

There is no restriction on the method of purchase, he made clear. One person may buy for a whole household, either in person or by telephone, for cash or credit.

It will be up to the Canadian to regulate himself and obey the sugar law. Any breach of board orders carries a possible penalty of $5,000 fine and two years imprisonment.

On Wednesday, Dec. 3rd, the wedding took place at Tenantry Church of Alvin Stewart Whelen, C. F. C. and Miss Helen M. Glashan, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alastair Macdonald, of Shellock Killiecrankie.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a robe of ivory satin, and she wore a chaplet orange blossom and brussels net veil. Her shower bouquet was of pink chrysanthemums.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Macdonald, whose dress of delphinium blue needle drawn lace was in Victorian style. She carried yellow chrysanthemums and wore a chaplet of blue and silver.

Betty Gibb, the little train-bearer, in white silk wore a bandeau of pink roses and carried a posy of pink chrysanthemums.

Rev. D. M. Sinclair officiated. Groomsman was L. Corp. Mahon, C. F. F., and the ushers were Messrs. James and Niel Macdonald, Roderick Mackenzie and William Allen, R. A. F.

Besides the wedding hymns the solo "I'll Walk Beside Thee" was sung. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" concluded the service. Mrs. Watson Walker, Kinross, presided at the organ.

The reception was held at Shellock where Mrs. Macdonald, the bride's mother, received the guests. For travelling the bride chose a smart frock of grey woollen cloque with coat and hat to match.

The groom is a son of Mr. James Whelen and the late Mrs. Whelen, of Clarendon, and enlisted at Ottawa.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON IV

THE TEMPTATION OF JESUS
Matthew 4: 1-11; Mark 1:12, 13; Luke 4:1-13

PRINTED TEXT, Matthew 4:1-11.

GOLDEN TEXT.—For we have . . . one that hath been in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. Hebrews 4:15.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time.—The spring of A.D. 27.
Place.—A wilderness, probably on the west side of the Jordan, though its location is not definitely known.

Satan's Desire

1. "To be tempted of the devil." Satan's deep and constant desire, as the enemy of God, is to thwart God's purposes, to prevent God from saving men, and to make it impossible for the Kingdom of God to be fulfilled.

2. "And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he afterward hungered." We should always bear in mind that our Lord's temptation occurred immediately after His baptism, that is, immediately after the hour He was officially anointed by the Holy Spirit to undertake his great ministry. The number "forty" frequently recurs in the scriptures in relation to circumstances not altogether dissimilar from this event.

3. "And the tempter came and said unto him, If thou art the son of God, command that these stones become bread." The tempter puts the matter in this form in order to invite Jesus to establish the fact by a miracle and in order to intimate that he certainly has the right thus to satisfy his hunger. Jesus was tempted to work a miracle in order to relieve his hunger. But he never performed miracles merely for his own benefit; they were all wrought to do good to others, and to attest his divine mission.

4. "But he answered and said, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." In each of the three temptations, Christ answers by quoting a passage from the Old Testament Scriptures. What is this word of God which we are to flash through all falsehood like the thrust of a gleaming sword? It is the word of divine truth; it is the word of divine promise, laying God's strengthening comfort upon the heart. Note carefully that the moment Christ wields the Word of God, Satan ceases a particular temptation.

5. "Then the devil taketh him into the holy city; and he set him on the pinnacle of the temple, 6. and saith unto him, If thou art the Son of God, cast thyself down; for it is written, He shall give his angels charge concerning thee: and, on their hands they shall bear thee up, Lest haply thou dash thy foot against a stone." Jesus stands on the lofty pinnacle of the Tower, or of the Temple porch. He is surveying the scene and by his side is the tempter, watching him. This was the time to act upon his trust. But so to have done would have been not trust—far less the heroism of faith—but presumption. Such temptation as was here presented to our Lord can occur in our own lives.

Unity of Scripture

7. "Jesus said unto him, Again it is written, Thou shalt not make trial of the Lord thy God." Once again our Lord turns to the armory of the Word of God. Only as we enter into the unity of Scripture, as it balances, completes and explains itself, are we armed against error and delusion, excess or defect.

8. "Again, the devil taketh him unto an exceeding high mountain, and showeth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them: 9. and he said unto him, all these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me." The one thing that Satan wanted was so simple to state yet so vast in its implications, namely that Jesus should fall down and worship him. Whom we worship, we serve. By bowing down we submit to the one before whom we throw ourselves prostrate. Should Jesus have bowed his knee to this monster of iniquity, then he would have come under Satan's power.

Two Principles

10. "Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve." This passage reveals the two fundamental principles dominant in our Lord's life, namely: an intimate knowledge of what the will of God is in any particular crisis of life, and, secondly, a determination to adhere to the will of God, no matter what the cost might be. When these two principles are dominant in the life of any believer, that life is safe from collapsing in the hour of temptation; that life will be one constant triumph, of increasing strength and of abiding joy.

Yes, it's Andy Hardy—all grown up and playing the real life role of bridegroom. The 21-year-old film star is pictured with his 19-year-old bride, the former Ava Gardner, of Wilson, N.C., shortly after their wedding in the Presbyterian Church of Ballard, Calif.

Winston Churchill Values Punctuality

Premier Winston Churchill is one of the world's busiest men and to such men punctuality is a virtue. Concerning this virtue Mr. Churchill has expressed himself as in agreement with the sentiments of a friend who could never understand the point of view of persons who make a habit of being 10 minutes late for each appointment throughout the day.

Mr. Churchill expressed the belief that in the case of a late start the only straightforward course is to cut out one or two of the appointments altogether so as to catch up, the theory being that it is better that one notability should be turned away expostulating than that nine deputations should each fume for 10 minutes in a stuffy ante-room.

Dog—No Asthma No Dog—Asthma

Scientists may — and do — snicker in their beards all they please, but here is J. R. Mosley's story and he's sticking to it: Five years ago Mosley, suffering from asthma, borrowed a Mexican chihuahua from a friend and gave it the run of the house. His asthma disappeared.

But the friend's asthma returned, so Mosley had to return the dog. Between asthmatic gasps, he ordered a chihuahua from Mexico.

The dog arrived, and Mosley's asthma departed. But the dog died, and the asthma returned. So he ordered still another chihuahua flown to Memphis.

Pfft — away went the asthma.

Then the new dog ran away. Presto, asthma! The other day the chihuahua returned. Pronto, no asthma!

Russia's Second Line of Defense

Groups of Men Behind Front Line Put Essential Services in Working Order

The enthusiasm and skill of the Russian workers, who form the second line of the great Russian army pushing back the German troops, has been paid tribute to by a British broadcaster. Describing the setup of the Russian army he said that immediately behind the front line army there was the engineering and technical department, the railworker gangs and groups of others whose job it is to get into working order all means of communication, railway stations, bridges, and the most essential services.

"They call them second line soldiers and they are filled with the same high spirit as their brothers in front of them," said the speaker. "The railways are put in order with a speed that is almost unbelievable. In one very important spot, half a mile of destroyed railway lines were repaired in three hours. At an important junction work was carried on day and night. Fires were lit to give light and warmth for the men working on the trains and other equipment. Interminable supply columns move steadily along.

"Behind the technical and supply departments, come the people who used to live in the villages and towns. They came back most of them to find their homes destroyed or their property stolen. Government committees are there to give immediate assistance and within two or three weeks life begins to return to normal."

SCOUTING

The latest call for salvage war service by the Boy Scouts is a request for the collection of bottle caps by Scouts as far east as Quebec City and Ontario as far west as Windsor. The caps, known by the trade as "crown corks" are needed both for metal and the cork lining.

A new Good Turn by the Boy Scouts of Canada for their brother Boy Scouts of Britain is announced in the January issue of the official Dominion Scout publication, The Scout Leader. This is the supplying of Government Approved vegetable seeds, for use in British Scout Victory Gardens.

One of the outstanding forms of war service rendered by the Boy Scouts of Canada during 1941 was the "shore leave" camp maintained near Halifax, on the "Lone Cloud Scout Reserve" for the benefit of sailors of the convoy fleet. Some 1,500 ratings from ships of all types were given several rest days ashore, for which the warmest appreciation was expressed by men and officers. In a number of cases appreciation took the additional form of a substantial donation from a ship's canteen fund, voted by the men themselves.

The sailors were accommodated in eight Adirondack shelters, an officers' hut and a mess hall complete with galley. Three of the eight shelters were paid for respectively by the Canadian General Council, the Scouts of Montreal and the Halifax Rotary Club. Contributions toward other shelters were made by a number of Scout Groups in different parts of the Dominion, and the balance of the building cost was taken care of by Halifax District.

The first party to visit the camp were men from an armed merchantman, and these were followed from week to week by detachments from battleships, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, and a hospital ship. One mixed party comprised crewmen from Free French and British corvettes.

The men enjoyed themselves swimming, rowing, sailing, football and softball. Rather oddly, from the layman's point of view, rowing about the lake in fishermen's dories was a favoured sport. Tramping through the woods also was popular; and several of the sailors "lost their bearings" for some hours, but were found by search parties, none the worse for the experience.

RADIO REPORTER

DIALING WITH DAVE:

It might be said that writer Al Morley is jumping from the frying-pan into the fire, or from the dog-house into a madhouse. For over two years he has been writing the "Uncle Walter's Dog House" program. Now he has resigned to join Edgar Bergen's writing staff in Hollywood to help put sassy words in Charlie McCarthy's mouth! Look for some new humor and gags in the Sunday night CKOC and CBC network funfest—Charlie McCarthy at 9.30 D.S.T.

The Great Gildersleeve, one of radio's newest big-time comedy programs, grew out of the Fibber McGee show, with McGee's sidekick Giddy, streamlined into a show of his own. Among the many voices on the show is that of Lucretia Tuttle who plays young Leroy's indulgent sister, Marjorie. Lucretia also is featured in many of the leading dramatic bits in Academy Award, Sundays at 6.15 on CKOC. The Great Gildersleeve is an NBC show — heard Sundays at 7.30 p.m. D.S.T.

Canadian survey on top notch shows of the year 1941, place Charlie McCarthy (CKOC and CBC network) in first spot with night-time dialers (Sunday 9.00 D.S.T.), and The Happy Gang, (CKOC and CBC network — daily 2 p.m. D.S.T.) as second top listened to show with day-time audiences. Other consistent big night time favorites, included as you might have expected, Jack Benny, Lux Radio Theatre, The Aldrich Family (jumped to 4th place after a year in Canadian radio), Fibber McGee and the Kraft Music Hall. Daytime serial that took top rating was Road of Life! How does this stack up with your preferences?

A few 1150 listening tips:

Every Thursday there's a special give-away on the Happy Gang — which adds no end to the fun on the program on that particular day. Of course, there's always fun when Bert Pearl, Hugh Bartlett, Bob Farnon, Kathleen Stokes, Eddie Allen and Blain Mathe get together — that's why they're called "The Happy Gang." We particularly like the way they've been re-introducing the old song "Over here for Over There!"

The Memoirs of Dr. J. O. Lambert — Friday at 7.00 p.m. D.S.T. — are dramatizations of actual experiences in the interesting career of the Doctor's.

Like really fine Gospel singing? Then listen to the Precious Promise Hour, Sunday mornings at 9.30 D.S.T. on CKOC. Rev. W. W. Tink, who conducts the program has a great tenor voice, and program often features the old favorites — like "Ninety and Nine" — "Life is like a Mountain Railroad" — and others.

Record of the week is "White Cliffs of Dover". Kay Kyser and Sammy Kaye have both made fine recordings of the tune!

The Royal Bank of Canada 73rd Annual Meeting

Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, has new partnership of Canada and the United States. As Chairman of the British War Supply Council sees Germany outstripped by Britain and North America in 1942.

Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, reports assets over $1,000,000,000. Sees record business expansion this year.

Prediction that Germany's war production would be outstripped in 1942 by the combined output of Canada, the United States and Great Britain, was made at the 73rd Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada by Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director.

In his annual address Mr. Wilson gave factual evidence of the tremendous productive capacity of North American factories and spoke in glowing terms of the fine record made by Canadian industry since the outbreak of war.

"Two years ago," said Mr. Wilson, "we were incapable of outfitting an infantry division; today our industries can equip a new division every six weeks. Canadian equipment is being used in every area of war."

Mr. Wilson paid particular tribute to the Government for the way in which it had approached industry and persuaded manufacturers to go into production of the strange and complicated apparatus of war.

CONTROLS CURB INFLATION

Referring to the steps already taken to control inflation Mr. Wilson said, "You cannot divert half a million men into the armed services to engage in the most extravagant kind of destruction and consumption of goods, and expect business at home to proceed as usual, or prices to remain as usual."

"With the tragic memory of the inflation of the first World War in mind, thinking people believe that almost any measure would be justified to prevent a repetition."

"If anyone is inclined to be critical, let him think of how dangerously our present position parallels that of the first Great War. The increase in the wholesale price index in the first 25 months of that war was 10 points; in the first 25 months of this war, the index has climbed 21 points. In the face of these facts, it would be difficult to argue that an effort should not be made to control the situation before it gets out of hand."

"It would be absurd to expect that in the midst of this colossal diversion of material and manpower we should expect to live as we have lived in peace-time."

"We have reached the point where we must cut down unnecessary consumption, in order to make available for the war effort all the resources possible."

"We must keep constantly before us the realization that our war effort consists, in a material sense, in things and services: that is, food, raw materials and manufactured products on the one hand, and man-power on the other."

CANADA PLAYS HER PART

As a comrade in arms of Great Britain, Canada, said Mr. Wilson, had been able to make a material contribution to the common cause.

"We pay the whole cost of raising, arming and maintaining the Canadian armed forces serving in Canada, Great Britain, Gibraltar, the Far East, the West Indies and Newfoundland. We supply Great Britain with food, textiles, lumber and finished apparatus of war, and we do not demand 'cash on the barrel head.' Not one dollar of the $250 millions of gold sent to Canada by Great Britain has been used to pay for goods of Canadian origin—it has all been expended in the United States, with much more of our own gold, to cover a part of the cost of raw materials and machinery brought to Canada to produce war goods for British account."

Little opportunity existed, said Mr. Wilson, for the making of big profits out of the war. "There has been neither opportunity nor disposition for our producers to make big profits out of this war," he said.

CAN OUTSTRIP GERMANY

Mr. Wilson regarded with great satisfaction the close co-operation which has developed between Canada and the United States in recent months and particularly since the Japanese declaration of war.

"Even Germany, with all its vaunted efficiency, and with forced labor, cannot match the production possibilities of North America added to those developed with such extraordinary efficiency by Great Britain under the impact of war."

"Canada's war expenditure in this fiscal year alone is estimated at two billion, $20 million dollars, which is more than twice as much as our total expenditure in all of the last war. The United States has already doubled its entire expenditure during the first Great War."

Peace—"We are determined not only to win the war, but also to maintain the security of the peace which will follow."

"United States manufacturers sent to Great Britain in the first seven months of 1941 nearly twice as many combat planes as were lost defending the British Isles during the whole of 1940. In Canada, starting from scratch, we are producing 40 or more planes a week, of which 15 to 25 are Hurricane fighters."

In conclusion Mr. Wilson paid a warm tribute to the heroic manner in which the people of Great Britain had sustained, for over two years, the terrible impact of war and at the same time performed miracles in the production of urgently needed implements of war.

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

In presenting the financial statement, Mr. S. G. Dobson, General Manager, noted that the bank had enjoyed a satisfactory year despite greatly changed conditions due to the war. Notwithstanding Government regulations, "which at one time would have been considered intolerable, but which we recognize as necessary in the kind of war which has been forced upon us, your bank has continued to expand. While it naturally becomes more and more difficult to make reasonable profits, we have, because of enlarged business and economies effected, been able to show earnings comparable with a year ago."

Assets of the bank now standing at over $1,000,000,000 were at the highest point in history, said Mr. Dobson. Commercial loans had continued to expand and deposits by the public were at a record level—$152,259,936 higher than at the peak of the boom era.

"More new deposit accounts have been opened this past year than in any similar period in the history of the bank. We are doing our best to foster this growth not only because it builds up the bank's clientele, but mainly because saving is an essential development in our war economy."

1052 ENLISTMENTS

Because of war conditions a greatly increased burden had been placed upon the bank's staff, said Mr. Dobson, and too much credit could not be given for the commendable way in which both men and women had performed their duties.

"Since the outbreak of war," he said, 1,052 officers, including 43 from our foreign branches, have been granted leave of absence to serve in the armed forces. In Canada and Newfoundland 40 per cent. of our male employees under 30 years of age enlisted. We have assured all these young men, of whom we are justly proud, and to whose return we are looking forward, that positions will be available to them."

"I regret exceedingly to report that eight of our young men have given their lives in the country's service. We extend to their relatives our sincere sympathy."

PRICE CONTROL

Referring to what he termed the new experience for business of price and wage controls, Mr. Dobson said, "Some people view with concern the institution of these controls and it seems to me an appropriate time to point out that such licensing and price fixing are commonplace with banks."

"Our charters are granted to us by virtue of the Bank Act which comes up for revision at ten-year intervals, at which time the chartered banks are subject to close examination by the Banking Committee of Parliament. All our powers are strictly regulated by law. The maximum rate of interest we are permitted to charge is fixed. There is even a ceiling on the commission we may charge for collecting a bill discounted in one city and payable in another. We are not allowed to charge more than a fixed flat fee for small casual transactions. We are not permitted to own real estate except for our own use; we must not make loans against real estate security. We are subject to inspection by the Inspector General of Banks. We must make detailed and extensive statements to the Finance Department. Since the outbreak of the war we are required to be licensed by the Foreign Exchange Control Board before we can buy or sell foreign exchange and the regulations lay down the commission we may charge on such transactions."

"I do not point to these things in any critical way, but merely to show that what is revolutionary control of other businesses in the interests of wartime stability, is part of the every-day experience of banks. Price ceilings are not a novelty with us."

In conclusion Mr. Dobson remarked that indications were that 1942 would see all records broken in business expansion.

There are about 30,000 miles of navigable rivers in the United States, the Department of Commerce says.

HOW CAN I? BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I prevent stretching buttonholes in a sweater?

A. Before ironing knitted garments, it is wise first to baste the buttonholes in order to prevent their stretching. The threads can easily be removed when the garment has dried.

Q. How can I retain the colors in cretonne when laundering?

A. The next time it is necessary to launder the cretonne slip covers, or any other cretonne articles, try washing them in bran water and see if they do not retain their colors.

Q. How can I attach a meat grinder to a white enameled kitchen table that is slippery?

A. Place a small wad of paper between the grinder and the table, tightening the screws on the paper instead of the table. It will be secure and safe.

Q. How can I make a good cake without eggs?

A. Delicious cake without eggs can be made by dissolving a teaspoonful of baking soda in a tablespoonful of best vinegar; use this the same as eggs. This quantity takes the place of one to two eggs; if four eggs are called for, two eggs and the above quantity of soda and vinegar can be used, if desired. Excellent results, however, are obtained with soda and vinegar alone, increasing the quantity a trifle only in accordance with the number of eggs called for.

Material superiority—"The superiority of the united nations in munitions and ships must be overwhelming."

Loyal Alumnus 4th 1941 Champion Steer

For the second successive year the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. purchased the Grand Champion of the International Live Stock Exposition. Loyal Alumnus 4th was so judged on Dec. 2nd and two days later purchased by Firestone.

Loyal Alumnus 4th, a cross between a full blooded Angus on his sire's side and a full blooded Shorthorn on his dam's side, was calved on June 4th, 1940. He nursed his mother until 10 months old, after which he was taken off pasture and put in a dry lot where he was fed cracked corn, crimped oats, flaked barley, bran and pea-sized linseed oil meal. Alfalfa or clover hay and a little silage was fed for roughage. This ration was fed twice daily up till three months before the exposition when it was stepped up to three times a day. The steer was not over fed, but was allowed all the food he would clean up.

W. L. Carlyle, manager of the Duke of Windsor's ranch in Alberta, Canada, picked Loyal Alumnus 4th as best of the class from among steers from 37 states and several Canadian provinces. The steer was fed by Gilman Stewart, 23 year old agricultural graduate of Purdue University.

Coming from a family of champions the prize steer's father was a full brother to the 1936 International lightweight champion steer. His mother's father was International junior champion bull in 1935 and his maternal great grandfather, Raven Masterpiece, was International grand champion bull in 1934.

"PRETTY SMOOTH, IF YOU ASK ME"

And when an old soldier tells a young soldier that he looks smooth you can bet he is. At the left the representative young soldier of Canada's Army is wearing the new "walking out uniform" which will be issued to all Canadian soldiers early in March. The veteran wears "battle-dress," the uniform which will continue to be worn by all ranks for training and fighting.

The walking out dress consists of a jacket and trousers of khaki serge, Beech brown tie, black fine socks and low black shoes. The jacket is cut along the same lines as those worn by officers, has four pockets and a brass-buckled cloth belt. When wearing the "off-parade" uniform soldiers will carry a "swagger stick" just like their fathers did last time.

Auto A Necessity Not A Luxury

The National Automobile Dealers' Association in the United States is campaigning to prove that the auto is a basic necessity, not a luxury. It cites, among other things, that 12,678,823 persons in 2,320 communities have no mass transit facilities and must depend solely upon motor cars for transportation; that six of every ten city owners of autos use them to go to and from work; that thousands of persons have purchased homes in outlying districts in the belief that the automobile industry could supply them unfailingly with transportation facilities; that millions of farmers are dependent upon motor cars to conduct their business.

New Russian Plane To Seal Nazi's Fate

A BBC broadcast, citing the Moscow radio as its authority, reported that the Russian army has under construction an anti-tank plane "which will spell destruction to the German mechanized army and seal its fate."

The Russians, said the BBC, are also working on a new type of pursuit plane "said to be capable of a speed of more than 500 miles an hour."

What Science Is Doing

UNIVERSE NOT EXPLODING

The world's largest telescope shows that the universe probably is not exploding but is a quiet, peaceful place and possibly just about as infinite in size.

The observations were made with the 100-inch telescope at Mt. Wilson, Calif., and reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science recently by Dr. Edwin P. Hubble, the astronomer who for years has explored the remote parts of the universe.

This telescope sees an area about 1,000 light years across, a light year being the distance light travels in one year. The earth is at the center of this space, with the Milky Way immediately around the earth.

In this space there appear to be about 100 million other Milky Ways, or nebulae, each a vast family of suns, gasses and presumably comets and other familiar celestial objects.

These hundred million nebulae show two things: One, they are on the average uniformly distributed, about two million light-years apart, with near-vacuum between them.

Two, the light of the more distant ones is dimmed in a peculiar way, called the red shift. This dimming could mean that they are receding, rushing away from earth, and if that is true, the farthest away ones now visible are traveling 25,000 miles a second.

This speed of recession led astronomers a few years ago to say the universe probably is exploding.

But Dr. Hubble reported that six years' scrutiny through the 100-inch eye does not bear out the explosion theory.

If what the great telescope apparently sees is right, Dr. Hubble said, the nebulae may be endlessly distributed, on and on, virtually to infinity.

'Invasion' of Turkey

An "invasion" of Turkey by German troops "absent without leave" from convalescence centers in Bulgaria was reported by the BBC recently. The announcement said the Nazi soldiers "preferred desertion to being sent back to the Russian front" and were interned in Turkey.

Heroic Russia Needs Medical Aid

If ever Canadians had a chance to show tangible appreciation of Russia's heroic stand it presents itself in current intensive campaign undertaken by the Canadian Red Cross Russian Appeal committee. Russia is fighting... Russia is bleeding. She has inflicted terrible losses on the Nazi forces. In so doing, she has suffered losses herself, visualization of which rear the very soul. And today, as much as she needs the implements of war, she requires all the medical aid which we can give her. That explains why the Dominion government asked the Canadian Red Cross Society to sponsor a $500,000 campaign for the purpose of providing this medical aid, at once. The response has been disproportionate to the feelings of Canadians for their Russian allies, for if ever the democracies had a faithful, fighting ally, they have it in Russia.

Only $175,000 has been subscribed in the Dominion; a little more than $30,000 in the province of Quebec and if, from this latter amount, is deducted the amount collected at, and through, the rally held in mid-December in Montreal, it will be seen, to express it mildly, that we, as Canadians, have not done our share. The present drive, therefore, is intended to collect as much as possible before January 31 because the appeal must definitely close on that date.

No direct canvassing is permitted for the simple reason that time is too short. Therefore, every individual is asked to send in a subscription immediately to the Canadian Red Cross Russian Appeal, room 718 Sun Life Building. But it should be done at once. Russians are stemming the onslaught of Germany without bothering about a time-table. The least we can do therefore is to show our appreciation in the only practical way possible... an immediate subscription.

Lieut. Col. Wm. Leggat, M. C., president, Quebec Provincial Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society, and Allan Broffman, the indefatigable co-chairmen, have formed a representative and hard-working committee. They have the support of a sponsoring committee which represents every class of the community. But neither the committee nor the sponsors can do the job alone. This is a duty which rests squarely on the shoulders of the individual. We cannot possibly conceive of Canadians ignoring this appeal. Think of it... here, in Canada, we have not yet felt the impact of the war to an extent which interferes except in a very minor way with our daily life. We are not rationed in food. We have not been bombed. We enjoy security. We enjoy the comforts of our homes, our pleasures. We can go to church in freedom. We can express ourselves without any thought of the Gestapo. What blessings we enjoy! The least we can do then, is to make this campaign a magnificent success... and quickly. Never let it be said that we turned a deaf ear to an appeal which should arouse such a wave of sympathy that Russia need have no fears about sufficient medical aid from Canada immediately.

Wartime Prices and Trade Board Problems Dealt With by Louis Hudon

Quebec, January 20—Three questions in connection with price control, problems which are of particular interest to residents of the rural areas of Quebec, were dealt with in a statement by Louis D. Hudon, prices and supply representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board here today.

Mr. Hudon warned that any attempt to raise autobus rates, milk prices or firewood prices without consulting the Board would be strict violation of the price laws. Cases had been reported, he said, where bus companies had brought into effect their "Winter rates", which were well above the ceiling. This was not allowed he stated. Bus operators who felt they had justification for raising their fares over the level which prevailed during the basic period, September 15 to October 11, could take their problems to the Board, but under no consideration could they take matters into their own hands and boost their rates.

Milk dealers too had been reported jumping their prices against the law he said. The specific rulings of the Board on this subject were that the retail price of milk must remain as it was in the basic period. Farmers selling to processors such as creameries or dairies need not maintain this price but the dairy could not increase the price to the public and the farmer when selling to his own retail customers, must keep his price down to the fixed ceiling.

Firewood prices which have risen strongly in the past year due to shortage of rural labour had reached their peak during the basic period, Mr. Hudon said, and would be allowed to go no higher. This applied to all wood fuel and sawdust fuel.

Mr. Hudon asked that any known violations of these rulings be reported to his office, 71 St. Peter Street, Quebec City, or to Mr. L. C. Hobbins, prices and supply representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Aldred Building, Montreal, immediately.

Eggs Rich in Minerals

Fresh eggs are bountiful and one of the best buys on the market because they are good body builders with efficient protein in their yolks and whites. The yolks are especially rich in iron—the mineral that helps to form red blood cells. They are an important source of calcium, another mineral that's likely to be low in many diets. Eggs are also a rich source of phosphorus and are a good source of riboflavin (vitamin G). For good measure, other vitamins are always present — vitamins A and D varying in amounts depending on what the hen had to eat. Modern poultrymen see to it that their hens are liberally supplied with vitamins A and D.

Every Man a Chef

Latest and brightest development in the culinary world is a cook-it-yourself restaurant in New York. This, together with the restaurant proper, consists of a beautifully and shinely equipped kitchen where the customer can whip himself up a hamburger supreme or a cheese souffle, without even the bother of doing the dishes after (the restaurant provides cleaner-uppers). The only losers in this general jollity are the girls who come home night after night and wearily cook dinner. It must be pretty tough on them when they get an evening out to have their escorts propose that it would be no end of fun to go over and dash off a filet mignon.

Dispelling Odor of Cooking

When a cooking odor permeates the kitchen, housewives have burned incense, old newspapers and any number of household remedies, to dispel the odor. But they don't have to resort to these any longer, for a very simple gadget has been put on the market that does away with unpleasant cooking odors.

A simple glass container, that holds a cup of water, is put on the fire. When it comes to a boil, four or five drops of incense are dropped into it. After boiling for five minutes, the heat is turned off, and the odors disappear. Clean, simple and easy to use are a few of its good points.

VOICE OF THE PRESS

SAVING FOR THE FUTURE

It is a great tribute to the stability of the Canadian people that even in the midst of war they continue to take thought for the future.

Mr. George W. Bourke, president of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association, stated the other day that life insurance in force at the end of 1941 reached an all-time high of $7,500,000,000, and that new sales in 1941 were 10 percent higher than in 1940. Four million Canadian policyholders are united in this co-operative pool, and out of their savings $175,000,000 already has been invested in the Canadian war loans. Life insurance is a vital factor in the economic strength of the nation as it is in the economics of the individual.

STYLE IN INDUSTRY

There may be some male sniffing over reports that a costume has been designed for women workers in war industry that combines "allure" with utility. There should not be. That allure will help win the war.

No woman does her best when she does not feel that she is looking her best. The consciousness of being smartly and attractively attired, even among factory machines, will distinctly add to the efficiency of the fair workers.

Russians Get Booty From German Army

The Soviet Information Bureau, as if to refute Germany's claim of an orderly withdrawal to a winter line in Russia, issued an imposing list of material captured between Dec. 26 and 31 on the central front.

The list follows:
Sixty tanks, 11 armored cars, 287 field guns, 91 minethrowers, 461 machine-guns, 309 automatic rifles, 2,211 ordinary rifles, 938 trucks, 249 motorcycles, 1,448 bicycles, 30 tractors, seven wireless stations, 226 carts, 40 locomotives, 425 railway cars, one train-load of clothing, several railway carloads of equipment for signal troops, 14 carloads of provisions, 54 carloads of aviation bombs, mines and shells, nine carloads of sheepskins, three carloads of personal effects of officers and soldiers, nine carloads of motorcycles, one carload of bicycles.

"Captured ammunition dumps, according to preliminary estimates," said the Information Bureau, "contained 20,360 shells and 1,190 cases of shells and 12,910 mines, 6,193,000 cartridges."

Why They Run

On every front where they have been engaged in this war, the Italians have not merely been thrashed, but thrashed by greatly inferior numbers. The armies of Fascism run away, not because the Italians are not a brave race, but because their heart is not in a gratuitous conflict foisted on them by a lunatic leadership.

THE WAR - WEEK — Commentary on Current Events

Position of Russia and Germany After Seven Months of Fighting

On Jan. 1, 1941, Hitler boasted "Soldiers, the year 1941 will bring consummation of the greatest victory in our history." On Jan. 1, 1942, Hitler hoped "the year 1942 should — and we pray God that it may — bring the decision which will save our people."

In the first half of the twelve month period between these two speeches, the full force of Hitler's Blitzkrieg in England failed to destroy England or to damage the morale of the British people. In the second half of the year the unparalleled strength of the Nazi armies and air force failed utterly to conquer Russia.

Hitler's Plan

Seven months ago it seemed incredible that Hitler would attack Russia. It was thought by the Allies that the existing economic pact between the two countries would develop into an outright military alliance. In retrospect it would appear that Hitler considered Russia to be potentially hostile. Germany could not launch an all-out attack upon England with the menace of the Red army in her rear. Therefore, the Nazi plan was to clean up the Russians in a few weeks, and then finish off England.

Nazi Time-Table

When the Nazis invaded Russia last June, the whole world had the previous Nazi time-tables in mind. Hitler had conquered Poland in three weeks, Holland in four days, Belgium in two weeks, France in a month. He had crushed Yugoslavia in ten days, Greece in ten days, and captured Crete by air in another ten days. With each conquest he had increased his supplies of food and materials for war.

Advance in Russia

The almost universal assumption was that Hitler's conquest of Russia would proceed with the usual speed of the Nazi war machine. For a short time that speed was maintained. One week after the invasion had begun the German High Command announced that, in a sweeping advance, the German army had inextricably trapped half a million Russians and had destroyed vast numbers of Russian tanks and planes.

All through the summer and autumn months German successes continued, until in September the Supreme German Command announced the successful conclusion east of Kiev, of "the greatest battle of annihilation of this war and all history." They claimed that in this battle alone the Russians had lost 665,000 prisoners.

Nazi Claims

Hitler's armies had advanced along the whole of the 2,000 mile front and were hammering at the gates of Leningrad and Moscow and advancing into the Crimea. Hitler admitted that "we have been mistaken about one thing. We had no idea how gigantic the preparations of this enemy were." To the sweeping claims of 2,500,000 Russian prisoners, the capture or destruction of 18,000 tanks and 14,500 airplanes, he announced that "Russia is already broken and will never rise again."

Nazi Bog Down

Then there appeared signs of the change that has assumed such tremendous proportions. In places the Nazi drive began to bog down. Early in November Dr. Goebbels issued his revealing warning that the German people must resign itself to a "hard and relentless war." But only a few days later Hitler was still boasting that the Soviet had suffered casualties of at least 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 men, and "from such a blow no army in the world could recover, not even the Russians."

Russian Counter Offensive

Then the Russians reorganized their positions. With the aid of fresh troops from the East and the merciless cold of the Russian winter they began to push the Germans westward as far, in some places, as the lines they occupied last August. The siege of Leningrad was raised, Moscow was no longer in danger and the Russian offensive in the Crimea appeared to promise the complete eviction of the Germans from that strategic peninsula.

Generalissimo Hitler

Late in December the significant and sensational announcement was made that Hitler had removed Field-Marshal General von Brauchitsch who led the German armies into Russia, and that Hitler himself had assumed the personal command of the entire German armed forces. The little corporal of World War I was now Generalissimo of World War 2.

Seeking an explanation for this move, neutral observers believed that the German reverses in Russia—which Berlin discounted as a strategic withdrawal to winter holding positions—were so serious that Hitler had lost faith in his Army Command, and that a serious rift had developed between German Army Leaders and Nazi Party chieftains on a question of strategy.

Nazi Retreat

We do not know how long the present remarkable German retreat in Russia will continue. It appears to be Hitler's plan to hold as much Russian terrain as he can until the coming of summer; there is very little spring-time in Russia. Then, the German propagandists say, the Nazis will undertake a great offensive to crush the Russians and reach the oil fields of the Caucasus.

Even though "Germany's military operations have entered an extremely serious and indeed a critical phase," the Nazi war machine is still a mighty force and should not be underestimated. On the other hand, though Russia may have been gravely weakened, she is still very much in the war.

REG'LAR FELLERS—The Perfect Host

A Weekly Column About This and That in The Canadian Army

"Why does our army need reinforcement when it has not yet done any fighting?"

Now there's a real question—a question that was welcomed by the Director General of Medical Services when, in behalf of the questioner and readers of this column, I posed it to him the other day.

The reason, believe it or not, is traceable to our bad habit in civilian life of not calling in a doctor until most of the damage is done.

You see, I am speaking from experience. In civilian life if you have a stomach-ache you balance your discomfort against the $2.00 or $3.00 a physician's call would cost. If the ache disappears you forget all about it—if it persists you call in the doctor much later than you should have.

But in the Army—that's different! Medical attention is free and when you "fall in on sick parade" you miss a drill or so. Small wonder, then, that medical officers have a chance to find out incipient troubles before they have a chance to develop into possible dangerous illnesses. Of course, there is another thing the "M.O." finds out at the same time—he finds out if you are "swinging the lead," in which event — this, too, comes from experience—you are apt to get "2 No.'s and full duty."

You may be inclined to question, as I did, the "stomach-aches." The answer to that question is that what seems like an ordinary stomach-ache may be an ulcer which caught early enough in civilian life is capable of control by special dietary arrangements such as, for instance, a glass of milk and a biscuit between breakfast and lunch, and a cup of tea and some toast between lunch and dinner, with possibly the addition of a slight raid on the refrigerator before turning in.

You couldn't do it in my day and it is no more possible in the individual citizen's army of this generation to arrange to call off an attack or the movement of big guns or the transfer of troops from one place to another while you have a glass of milk or biscuit. Hence, therefore, men whose condition requires such treatment must be found jobs at the base or, if there is no room there, must return to civilian life where they will be perfectly capable of carrying on.

The stomach is only one phase — an important one if Napoleon's dictum that "an army marches on its stomach" was correct. But the Army, even though it is highly mechanized, once the less still marches on its feet. It marches with precision and this precision is not just to please a drill instructor. It is because you must have absolute control of a unit on the move. You undoubtedly know of several cases where "flat feet" do not interfere in the slightest with the workaday activities of locomotive engineers, even postmen and men in a dozen other vocations. The reason is that within the limitations of their jobs they can choose their own time, go from here to there and largely control the length of time they can take to do it. Put one of those men in the Army where he must be prepared to move with his unit at a moment's notice, to stay with that unit come what may and the disability which was not a disability in civilian life poses another problem for the medical officer.

Until I pestered army doctors for the answer to the question, "Why do you need reinforcements when there is no fighting?" I was inclined to chuckle with glee at the patriotic volunteer who put one over the Medical Board and got into the Army despite a defect that he knew existed. I have changed my tune now that I look at it from the point of view of the taxpayer who pays that man his $1.30 a day. I have no doubt that nothing but patriotism underlies the desire to outwit a Medical Board, but when finally the defect so skillfully covered up becomes apparent the mistaken patriot has cost his fellow taxpayers hundreds of dollars and is himself unable to fulfil the high duty of fighting for his country.

He is another of the reasons why the individual citizen's army needs reinforcements while there is no fighting.

A few paragraphs back I quoted the old phrase for a man who reports sick when there is nothing wrong with him—"swinging the lead"—perhaps some student of military slang can enlighten us as to the meaning of this one. Off hand, it looks as though its origin would come from the Senior Service but what the connection between a man in the chains plumb the depths of the ocean has to do with reporting sick, I don't know — do you?

Leaders Broadcast Christmas Messages

Greatest and most moving thing in the Christmas broadcasts of His Majesty the King and Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt was not in any art of oratory. It was in the deep, reverent note struck by all three of humility and trust in God.

Said the King:

"If skies before us are still dark and threatening, there are stars to guide us on our way. Never did heroism shine more brightly than it does now, nor fortitude, nor sacrifices, nor sympathy, nor neighborly kindness.

"And with them the brightest of all stars is our faith in God. These stars we will follow with His help until light shall shine and darkness shall collapse."

Said President Roosevelt:

"Against enemies who preach the principles of hate and practise them we set our faith in human love and in God's care for us and all men everywhere."

Said Mr. Churchill:

"With God's help we shall win to security for our children." Confidently, we can contrast these words with the torrents of hate and pompous pride that come from the lips of our enemies. An English writer once spoke of "the solemn beauty of the Christian dream which gives strength to our patient power." It is that dream, pitted against paganism and barbarism, that is our stay today.

Churchill Calls For Total War

"In this strange, terrible world war, there is a place for every one, man and woman, old and young, hale and halt. Service in a thousand forms is open. There is no room now for the dilettante, for the weakling, for the shirker or the sluggard. The mine, the factory, the dockyard, the salt sea wave, the fields to till, the home, the hospital, the chair of the scientist, the pulpit of the preacher — from the highest to the humblest, the tasks are all of equal honor. All have their part to play. The enemies ranged against us have asked for total war. Let us make sure that they get it."

Fortune In Toys For Medical Man

Alfred Gilbert, who graduated with the degree of M.D. from Yale in 1909, made a fortune—but not out of pills, potions and medical advice, relates The Toronto Telegram.

Crossing a railroad bridge in New York State one day he was inspired with the idea of making structural toys for children, and borrowed $12,000 to get the business started. His factory, which builds a modernized form of the old-time building blocks, now employs nearly 1,000 men and women.

Soviet's Production
 Astonishes World

War production in Russia has astonished the world — and shocked the Germans. What has been the secret? How has Russia, so backward in technical equipment and industrial training, overtaken competitors? By what is known as "Stakhanovism." Stakhanov was a miner. He rediscovered that if labor is divided and workers are allowed to earn all they can for unlimited work and efficiency, the wheels move rapidly. He became a craze in Russia. His "payment by results" plan was grafted on to the Russian economy. The wheels fairly buzzed.

Bases In Alaska
 For Raiding Japan

The bombing of Tokio by planes shuttling between certain points in Alaska and Russia was pictured as a possibility by a young scientist who has spent a dozen years studying by aerial exploration the topography of the northern territory.

Bradford Washburn, head of the New England Museum of Natural History, said in an interview that he thought it was possible for bombers to blast Tokio by swerving from the direct course between the nearest land points en route from Alaska to Russia.

The route he visioned would be approximately 1,000 miles shorter than flights from Hawaii to Tokio and weather conditions would not be insurmountable, he asserted.

JERRY BRONDFIELD

SYNOPSIS

Dugan confides to Hank that he believes Barbara is spoiled. Hank is unable to accompany Hank to the party, but he arrives later in full tribal regalia. Barbara's guests are frozen with amazement, but Dugan is polite and pretends not to notice. On the way home, Barbara says the incident will cause talk for months. Dugan explains that she wanted a show so he provided one.

"Both you and Midwest will profit, but I know you're getting the best of a good deal."

Hank toyed with his salad fork for several seconds. "Dugan," he said finally, "I'm going to take your advice."

Barbara looked up. "Uncle Hank, have you been down there lately? You haven't, have you?" she said, answering her own question.

"No, not in two or three years."

"Why don't you take a trip down to Oklahoma and sort of see how things are for yourself?" Dugan raised a quizzical eyebrow.

"Eh, what for?" Hank asked.

"Dugan knows more about it than any man in the world. That's why I had him come here."

"Granted, but even an expert can overlook something. There might be more value in that land than he mentions."

"Are you implying something?" Dugan asked mildly.

"Of course not," she returned sharply. "Just a precaution. After all, where there's so much money concerned, I should think . . ."

"Let me do the thinking, please, Barbara," her uncle said quietly.

Barbara shrugged and found Dugan staring at her. There was accusation in that stare and she knew it.

She felt guilty. She really hadn't intended to put a hidden meaning in her suggestion, yet she knew it must have sounded that way.

"You're a clever girl, aren't you?" Dugan purred later when they were alone. "Giving your uncle ideas, like that. I'll have to be careful from now on what I say," he concluded ambiguously.

We should pay attention. We should realize that here is a new-old system which we can and must adopt and adapt. The Russian Army and Air Force made the first experiments with parachute troops. We laughed at them. The Russians began the modernization of their industry. They re-equipped their factories and made a "five-year plan". We laughed at them. This five-year plan was followed by others. We laughed again. We "laughed and laughed and laughed." We know better now. We do not laugh at Russia any longer. We should study this system of efficiency. We should learn how to use it. And we should do it now.

He said that the bombing of Japanese cities by Alaskan-based planes would be even more practical than ferrying bombers to England or shipping them across the Pacific to Russia for the ultimate purpose of blasting Japan.

He pointed out that it would not be necessary for planes surviving attacks on Tokio from Alaskan land bases to return. They could keep right on going to Russia and confine future operations from bases in that territory, he contended.

CHOCOLATE ALL-BRAN BARS

Let your party refreshments be simple — but inspired! Here's a pair that's both: crisp, crunchy chocolate bran bars, half candy, half cake, and a pot of piping hot, fragrant-smelling coffee. Happily, it's a party formula that feeds six as well as sixty and fits anything from a benefit bridge to a family reunion. Make enough coffee for seconds all around and follow this recipe for the chocolate bran bars:

Chocolate All-Bran Bars

3 squares unsweetened chocolate (3 oz.)	1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup butter	1/2 cup All-Bran
2 eggs	1/2 cup chopped nut meats
1 cup sugar	1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Melt chocolate and butter over hot water. Beat eggs well, add sugar and continue beating until light and fluffy. Add chocolate mixture. Stir in flour, All-Bran, nut meats and flavoring. Pour into greased baking pan, making layer about one-third inch thick. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

Yield: Approximately 16 bars (square or oblong pan).

Variation: 1/2 cup cocoa may be substituted for chocolate. Omit chocolate and sift cocoa with flour. Melt shortening and add to egg and sugar mixture. If other shortening is used, add 1/2 teaspoon salt.

TABLE TALKS
 By SADIE B. CHAMBERS

To continue our few remarks on the National Campaign for Health, we have learned many more things recently. Our statistics show our laboring men are the best fed on an average and sad, but true, that our children and housewives are the lowest nourished on an average. Many reasons are given for the findings, that such a large percentage of our population are not receiving the proper nourishment. Small income is only partly a reason, for many suffering from nutritional disorders are found in our wealthy homes. Another reason is large families, overcrowded homes, and a poor choice of foods with budget money for that purpose.

Please remember to use one leafy vegetable as well as two others each day. This is a splendid time for those home-grown tomatoes, so carefully canned, and tomato juice. If using the latter as a substitute for orange juice it will take about three times the amount each day to supply the same amount of vitamins.

Here is an appetizing recipe for the cheaper cuts of meat.

MACARONI SWISS STEAK

1/2 lb. short cut macaroni
 1 1/2 lbs. round steak
 2 tablespoons flour
 1 can tomato soup
 Salt and pepper.

Buy a good piece of round steak about 1 1/2 inches thick. Pound into it flour, salt and pepper on both sides. Brown meat in skillet, add canned tomato soup and allow to simmer slowly over moderate fire until savory and tender.

Remove meat and cut into desired portions. Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Sauté it in thick gravy. Pour on large platter and garnish with steak.

Now a word about gravy. Potatoes and gravy or biscuits and gravy; how appealing that sounds when "wintry blasts blow!" Has it occurred to you, that gravy as well as being the essence of the meats maybe the essence of economy too?

Velvety smooth, reeking of the meats savory juices, seasoned to the King's taste, gravy makes it possible to serve the inexpensive cuts of meat, use of which will cut dollars from the weekly meat bill of a large family. The big secret is to water the meat during roasting and be sure juices and fat, that collect are not the least bit burned, but just richly browned.

When meat is tender, remove from the pan and pour off all but three tablespoons of fat. Be careful not to disturb the rich brown sediment which contains the flavor and savor and color for gravy. Place pan over direct heat; stir in 3 tablespoons flour, stirring constantly until very smooth and a rich brown color. Then add 2 cups of cold water, stirring constantly. If hot water is added the mixture will form lumps and the gravy will have to be strained. Season with one-half teaspoon salt and one-quarter teaspoon pepper; cook and stir for five minutes.

These proportions make a medium gravy, which will complete mashed potatoes or for those old-fashioned or very young persons, give a treat of bread and gravy which is "tops" for them.

54 Norwegians
 Reach Toronto

The youngest lot of Norwegians yet to arrive in Toronto landed there recently, their bags on their backs, some carrying skis, and others helping wounded members of the party.

Of the 54 Norwegians who arrived two were stretcher cases. The supposition is that they are lads who trained here and then went to England where they were wounded in air battles over Germany. The boys were careful of what they said, but one of them remarked that one of the patients had been wounded while escaping from Norway.

The lads, majority of them all, blond and handsome, were from 16 to 25 years of age and had escaped by the usual hazardous route, across the North Sea in fishing boats. Some had been picked up by British raiding parties to Lofoten. They say that the fame of Toronto's Little Norway is widespread in Nazi-controlled Norway, and that the chief aim is to get out here to train for the final fight.

In the party were a number of young airmen who were in the first squadron sent over from Little Norway.

CHAPTER IV
 A Hint From Barbara

There was a picture in the morning papers of Barbara Chase dancing with Chief Leaping Water at the Starlight Terrace. And one of the gossip columnists went so far as to imply Chief Leaping Water was a fabulously rich oil man in whom Barbara was reported more than mildly interested.

Barbara's eyes blazed. She threw the paper to the floor just as Dugan came down to breakfast.

"You no doubt will be interested in this," Barbara said icily. She pointed to the floor.

"At your bidding," he said, bending over.

"It doesn't do you justice," he observed. Then he frowned as he read the item in the gossip column.

"I am honored by the implication," he said gravely, "that you are romantically interested in me. In any way, in fact. Also, I am NOT a rich Indian, but a rather poor Indian . . . with something of a future, however!"

She had to laugh. He looked serious. "In oil, no doubt," she said meaningfully, and Dugan laughed too.

Uncle Hank bustled in. "What's this they have in the papers? Let me see, let me see. Say, isn't that something," he exclaimed, tapping the paper.

Dugan, laughing, dug into his grapefruit. "Depends on the viewpoint. Miss Barbara here," he added in his soft drawl, "isn't on our side."

The corners of Barbara's mouth crinkled upwards. "Don't get me wrong. That was really funny, but I just wasn't prepared for it." She pointed to the paper. "And you see what the repercussions are."

That night at the dinner table Dugan and Hank talked business for the first time in Barbara's presence.

"You've studied the thing for two days, now Dugan," Hank said. "Do we sell those 5000 acres to Midwest or not? Frankly, I'm stumped."

Dugan hunched forward in his chair. "I think you ought to sell, Mr. Chase," he said eagerly. "I'm positive that land doesn't bear deposits valuable enough to warrant working it for the high-grade stuff, but Midwest can make use of it for their line of by-products."

Barbara's eyes blazed. She threw the paper to the floor just as Dugan came down to breakfast.

"You no doubt will be interested in this," Barbara said icily. She pointed to the floor.

"At your bidding," he said, bending over.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
 QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from any druggist and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally in a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

War has killed the one-flourishing sponge fishing industry in the Mediterranean.

New Year Greeting For Mr. Churchill

British public opinion handed a special New Year greeting to Prime Minister Winston Churchill in the form of a British Gallup Poll.

"In general do you approve or disapprove of Winston Churchill as prime minister?" the Poll asked men and women in all parts of the United Kingdom. The study was part of a continuous index of the popular support for British prime ministers since 1936.

Eighty-eight percent of those interviewed said they approved of Mr. Churchill as premier. His critics numbered only eight percent and four percent were undecided.

Before the Empire sweep into Libya a few weeks ago, a similar poll showed Mr. Churchill with 84 percent approving him.

U. S. Using Blimps
 For Patrolling Coast

The navy has put a fleet of blimps armed with depth bombs, machine guns and cannon at work guarding the coast lines of the United States from submarines and prowling raiders.

On the Atlantic coast the first squadron of six blimps has already taken the air, the navy said today. They are the first of scores to be used.

The navy apparently is convinced that patrolling airships are among the most effective weapons against submarine attacks on shipping in coastal waters. Capt. C. E. Rosendahl, veteran dirigible commander and proponent of lighter-than-aircraft, calls the blimp the "dread of submarine captains" and credits it with an important part in halting the first Great War submarine "scourge."

Carrying a crew of eight, the patrol airship can hover, drift or, under power, travel more than twice as fast as a submarine. It has been demonstrated that it is possible to spot even deeply submerged submarines from a blimp under favorable conditions. If the blimp's own depth bombs don't finish it off, the spot can be marked and destroyers summoned.

Bargain Hunter in Census

Take Bests Government

From New Mexico comes what must be the last, faint echo of the census controversy of 1940. In federal court a gentleman of Las Vegas who had been indicted for refusing to answer an enumerator's questions was fined $100 and set free.

It seems that the census man asked him how much money he made per year. To this the citizen, after some thought, replied that he didn't know, never kept any track of it, and therefore any amount he estimated was almost bound to be wrong.

Pressed to put something down, he inquired what the penalty was for making a false return. Ten thousand dollars and ten years in the jug, he was told. What, he asked, was the rap for declining to answer? Told that it was a mere 60 days in jail and five hundred dollars, he did not hesitate for a minute.

Just keeping his trap shut looked like the soundest policy he could pursue, and as things turned out, it was even more of a bargain than he thought. Of course, his actual income is still a mystery.

Canine Wired for Sound; Receiving Set on Back

Zoe, an Alsatian police dog attached to the Bourke Street police barracks, in Sydney, Australia, probably is the only dog in the world who plays the role of four-footed radio car. This highly-trained animal is equipped with a light-weight receiving set, which is strapped to her back.

At a recent police show in Sydney, Zoe and her master, Constable Denholm, put on an act that attracted considerable attention. The constable concealed himself behind a clump of trees, where he talked into the microphone of a small portable broadcasting set. Zoe took up a position more than a hundred yards away in the center of the big field where the maneuvers were being staged. The radio set on her back was tuned in to the wave-length of the broadcasting outfit and she took a series of orders from the master she couldn't see.

Denholm told Zoe to break into a trot, then commanded her to stop and sit down. She did. She also rolled over at the command of the voice that came out of the box on her back, leaped over a low wooden barrier, climbed a ladder, filled a can from a tub of water, fired a revolver by pulling a lanyard with her teeth, and did other stunts—all by remote control.

It would be possible, of course, to recall dogs on a manhunt to headquarters and to direct their movements, to a certain extent, so long as the broadcasting officers could see the dogs, either with the naked eye or through binoculars.

How Rent Control Affects You —

as a landlord as a tenant

AS a part of the general plan to halt further increases in the Cost of Living, the Government on December 1, 1941, extended the policy of the Price Ceiling to rentals for all commercial and housing accommodation in Canada. Generally speaking the new rental laws provide that:

- (1) No oral or written lease for any commercial or housing accommodation (furnished or unfurnished) may legally be made after October 11, 1941, at a rental higher than the rental lawfully payable under the lease in effect on that date unless an application for increased rental has been made to and approved by a local Rentals Committee of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Such an application must be based on specified circumstances arising since October 11, 1941.
- (2) A tenant is entitled to a renewal of his lease unless the landlord requires the premises for certain reasons named in the Board's Rental Orders and has given the tenant a written notice to vacate within the time and in the manner prescribed therein. If this notice to vacate is contested by the tenant, the landlord must secure a Court Order for possession.
- (3) Copies of all Rental Orders and Regulations of the Board and application forms for rental variations are available from any of the regional or sub-offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and, in areas where such offices are not yet established, from the local Rentals Committee.

NOTE: Land and premises used solely for farm purposes are not subject to rent control.

VIOLATIONS of these orders are punishable by law and should be reported in writing to the Prices and Supply Representative Regional Office, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, at the nearest of any of the following cities: Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, North Bay, London, Toronto, Brockville, Montreal, Quebec, Saint John, Halifax or Charlottetown.

Turn Paper-Mill Waste Into Valuable Products

The paper industry is one of the biggest buyers of heavy chemicals. Now it is producing chemicals of its own. When paper-milling states began to pass laws against dumping paper-mill waste into streams, the chemist found an excellent way out for the paper companies. Now, much of the waste is turned into valuable new products which provide an additional source of profit. More than 50 per cent of today's vanilla flavoring for ice cream and confectionery comes from paper-mill waste. Plastics have already been made on a small scale from the same material, and large-scale production is anticipated. Other important by-products are used to waterproof cement, to tan leather and as a source of medicines. Additional by-products are activated carbon, used for filtering sugar and beer, and liquid rosin or pine oil, used in the manufacture of soap, ink and textiles and in mineral flotation.

The research laboratories of the paper industry now hope to recover from the processing of wood made into paper, the whole range of valuable chemical products that are currently obtained from coal, the wood of prehistoric ages.

A knowledge of the types of domestic rugs on the market may help you to make a good selection.
Axminster is a rug with a pile fabric and cotton, linen or jute backing. A peculiar characteristic of an Axminster rug is that it can be rolled only lengthwise because it's made stiff by the crosswise ridges on the back.
Broadloom is not a particular weave or quality, but means any seamless rug made on a broad loom 4 inches or more wide.
