Critically burned in gas explosion, 3 are saved by Waterville man

STANSTEAD —(Special)—Rock Island police have described a Waterville family of four as "Angels of Mercy" in the saving of three people yesterday, critically burned in a gas explosion.

In critical condition at Orleans Hospital, Newport, this morning are Sol Rolnick, his wife, the former Lena Rosenberg and her sister, Mrs. Sarah Rosenberg White, all of Springfield, Mass.

Gilles Fautoux, a gas station attendant, his wife and two children were fishing near the Rosenberg cottage yesterday when they heard screams.

Running through the woods, Mr. Fautoux found three people rolling in grass trying to extinguish flames on their hair and clothing.

Mr. Fautoux ran to a car, grabbed a blanket and extingushed flames on one of the victims. He went on to put out a grass fire started by the burning victims.

By this time his wife and children had caught up with him and they rushed the three victims to the Orleans County Memorial Hospital.

Police said the victims could have laid injured for days at the summer cottage a few miles from Stanstead had it not been for the Fautoux family.

Although entirely unfamiliar with the territory, Mr. Fautoux managed to find his way to the Orleans Hospital, police said.

The Newport City Police contacted Rock Island Police chief Steve Bronson. Mr. Fautoux took Chief Bronson to the cottage where they found a bamboo curtain still smouldering.

The cottage, one of three on the site, was reported to have been broken into last week. One of the family went to the cottage Friday and left yesterday. He apparently stayed in one of the larger of the three cottages.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolnick, Mrs. White and a brother, Harry Rosenberg of Montreal, arrived about noon yesterday. Mr. Rosenberg left around 4 p.m. to return home.

Three victims were reported through the Derby Lines Customs around 4.45 p.m. being rushed to the Orleans Hospital.

According to reports Mrs. Rolnick lifted a trap door in the bathroom to descend to the basement. A small wood fire was burning in the living room on the ground floor.

Seconds later the explosion occurred, followed by a flash fire.

Mrs. Rolnick's hair and clothes caught fire but she managed to reach the living room, wrap herself in a blanket and run outdoors to roll on the ground.

Mr. Rolnick, the most seriously burned of the victims, was standing near the bathroom door at the time of the explosion. Mrs. White has burns to the arms and face.

The explosion moved the cement-block foundation at least an inch. The impact broke glass doors and windows, sending the shattered fragments flying about 150 feet. The major portion of the tile on the living room floor was ripped off. Some damage was reported to the upstairs.

Caretaker James French said he had checked the building two weeks ago. He said he did not touch the propane gas tank which gives fuel, light and refrigeration to the cottage.

It is believed that whoever broke into the cottage tampered with the tank and fumes filled the basement.

Seek more flights

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Canadian negotiating team headed by Frederick Wood, chairman of the Air Transport Board, intends to put up a stiff fight for bigger share of cross-border air traffic as talks were to open today to design a new Canada-U.S. air agreement, scrapping the one hammered out 15 years ago.

Wood, who heads an eight-man delegation, said Canada only wants reciprocity and "equal opportunity for both countries flying the same routes."

"I'm hopeful we will be able to reach some understanding with our American friends," he added in an interview before moving into closed-door bargaining with the U.S. group headed by Allen R. Ferguson, the state department's international aviation co-ordinator.

American sources said U.S. airlines intend to put up strong resistance to Canadian demands, arguing that what Canada really wants is the opportunity to penetrate deeper into the continental U.S. commercial air market without being able to offer any major new Canadian routes that would be attractive to U.S. operators.

MAY LAST A WEEK
The initial bargaining may continue for about a week or 10 days with an adjournment likely, to prepare for a second round later if no agreement is reached at this stage.

Canadian sources concede that at present, Canada has no major new routes to offer, but the Canadian team feels it has two strong bargaining points. One is the possibility that Canada would withdraw from the existing pact if the U.S. does not agree to yield some increased degree of "reciprocity."

The other is the report of Canadian-born Professor John Kenneth Galbraith, former U.S. Ambassador to India, picked by the late president Kennedy to assess the cross-border air problem.

Galbraith, a native of Iona Station, Ont., and now economics professor at Harvard University, is reported to have suggested in his confidential conclusions that the narrow concept of trading one air route concession for another be replaced by a sweeping principle of ignoring the border altogether and providing routes based mainly on passenger convenience.

If there should be sufficient passengers desiring to travel from, say, Montreal to Los Angeles, then a line should be established for that purpose, with two companies—a Canadian and an American—operating on that line if there is sufficient traffic.

Biculturalism squad to research for facts

VANCOUVER (CP)—The royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, which has been hearing all kinds of strong personal opinions at informal meetings across Canada, made clear Sunday it will launch a large-scale research program to fill in the opinions with some hard facts.

Co-chairman Davidson Dunton told reporters here that a "very extensive" program of social-economic studies is being planned.

His colleague, Andre Laurendeau, said findings of the research projects could demolish or alter some pet convictions Canadians have about their society.

The fact-finding drive is expected to start in June, when university professors will be free from teaching duties. Prof. Michael Oliver of McGill University and a committee of advisors have been considering as many as 50 research projects.

Researchers would be sent to such multicultural countries as South Africa, Finland, Switzerland and Belgium to report on government practices and human relations there, Mr. Dunton said.

Other studies would deal with the impact of cultural affairs on mass-communication cities with a mixed population, as well as industry and commerce.

The co-chairman and seven other commissioners flew here for an informal meet-the-people session today and a private business meeting Tuesday. Public meetings will be held in Regina Wednesday and Windsor, Ont., Thursday.

REPLIES TO CRITICS
Mr. Dunton replied indirectly to criticism of the co-chairmen by Opposition members in the Commons three weeks ago. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and other MPs had accused the two men of making controversial public statements and stirring up animosity.

Mr. Dunton said he and his colleague have made only one speech since their appointments last July and he doubted there would be others until the commission submits its report, likely in late 1966.

The only exception to the rule had been a joint appearance before the Toronto Empire Club to explain the commission's terms of reference.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons begins detailed study today of the income tax changes proposed by Finance Minister Gordon in his March 16 budget.

Several items in the income tax change may provide springboards for the Opposition to discuss federal-provincial tax relations.

A provision dealing with deductions in computing taxable income where family allowances are paid may be used to raise the federal-provincial issue.

Ottawa plans to extend family allowances, at $10 a month, to children, attending school between ages 16 and 18. Previously the top age was 16.

But Quebec pays such an allowance now and an arrangement has been worked out for the province to continue paying its allowance and collect from Ottawa the money Quebec residents would have received through the federal family allowance.

This arrangement was part of the deal negotiated between the two governments at the same time as provision was made for the federal government's Canada Pension Plan to parallel the benefits and contributions of Quebec's proposed pension plan.

PROVINCES TO GET SHARE
A second feature of the Quebec-Ottawa deal involves the amount the provinces are to receive as their share of personal income tax collections. Ottawa proposes to turn over to the provinces an additional two per cent next year and a further two per cent in 1966. Residents of provinces which could receive an equivalent abatement on their federal tax.

Whether the Opposition parties will be able to discuss these subjects during the study of the income tax resolutions which the Commons' presiding officer permits them to range beyond the provisions of the resolutions.

Other subjects which may come in for special attention include an increase to 50 per cent from 30 in the rate at which heavy construction equipment may be written off and a three-year extension to 1967 in tax exemptions for new manufacturing and processing businesses in slow-growth areas.

14 missing
CORDOBA (AP)—A bus carrying about 16 Spanish soccer fans en route to a game plunged into deep water in the Guadalquivir river Sunday and all but two persons aboard were feared to have perished. The bus conductor and one passenger jumped out of the vehicle just before it plunged into the river. Efforts to recover the bus were started.

Referring specifically to Cuba and Communist China, the report said Canadian divergence from the U.S. position should not be treated as a form of disloyalty.

"Honest divergences of policy are not manifestations of anti-Americanism or perfidy when they arise in Canadian-United States relations," it said.

The report responded in part by a call by External Affairs Minister Martin, in an opening address to the conference Thursday, for Americans to recognize the existence of a national purpose and integrity in Canada and the determination to pursue it.

But the statement avoided a firm stand on what it called the "good, troublesome and perplexing" features of U.S. involvement in the Canadian economy.

Shots accompany evacuation try as UN works for 800 in village

NICOSIA (Reuters)—Gunfire provided accompaniment today to UN efforts to arrange the evacuation of the 800 Turkish-Cypriots of the village of Ayios in southwestern Cyprus.

A United Nations spokesman said about 100 Greek-Cypriot

"uncontrollable elements" were now in the area of the village and that fighting which has been going on there for the past three days was still in progress.

The spokesman also said there was shooting near St. Hilarion Castle in the Kyrenia Mountains about 10 miles north of Nicosia, where Greek-Cypriot troops overran several Turkish-Cypriot positions during the weekend.

Turkish-Cypriot hilltop gunposts in the Kyrenia Mountains were trying to stand off attacks by Greek-Cypriots.

The castle is the main Turkish-Cypriot stronghold in the area.

ARRANGE CEASEFIRE
The UN spokesman said there was some shooting in the suburbs of Nicosia Sunday night, and Swedish UN troops arrange a ceasefire in two villages north of Paphos in western Cyprus.

Talks initiated by UN peace force commander, Lt. Gen. Prem Gyani, with leaders of both the Greek and Turkish-Cypriot communities were expected to continue today.

Turkish-Cypriots tried during the weekend to strengthen their defences in a diminishing circle around Nicosia and the road north.

Turkish-Cypriot crowds accused Gyani and the UN force Sunday of not doing enough to end bloodshed in the island.

They staged two demonstrations. In one of them Gyani's car was stoned as he drove from a meeting with Turkish-Cypriot leaders.

They have also moved more women and children into the area from the outlying villages. (AP Wirephoto)

Favreau Que. deputy as Grits ponder split

QUEBEC DEPUTY — Prime Minister Pearson pumps the hand of Guy Favreau in congratulations after the justice minister, at a Montreal meeting, officially became leader of Quebec's federal Liberal caucus. (CP Wirephoto)

QUEBEC (CP)—Guy Favreau, justice as well as Liberals themselves to give the Quebec Liberal party a strictly provincial structure.

At Montreal, Mr. Favreau officially became leader of Quebec's federal Liberal caucus Saturday and at a press conference later he said it has become necessary for the federal Liberals to have their own vehicle of policy and action in Quebec.

Mr. Pearson, visiting briefly at noon, said all the province's Liberals must stay together in spirit if not in body.

He asked everyone to remember: "We are all Liberals." Mr. Favreau said there is no question of a breakdown between Quebec Liberals.

The existing Quebec Liberal Federation was a good vehicle of policy and action at the provincial level. "We need another one to act fully on the federal level."

But the general council after four hours of discussion agreed to toss it back again.

Immigration Minister Rene Tremblay attended the meeting and accepted the move. He said it would be left to the individual Liberal association in the province to decide whether they want to belong to both federal and provincial organizations or only one.

LESAGE FAVORS SPLIT
Premier Jean Lesage arrived near the end of the session and later read a statement saying it is "in the interests of the prov-

Need advice before cash Business badly run

OTTAWA (CP)—Why do so many Canadian small businesses remain small?

Whatever the reason, it isn't because there is general shortage of financing facilities open to them, the royal commission on banking and finance has decided.

Their biggest problem was found to be managerial—not financial.

One institution dealing in long-term business loans accepted only 24 out of 1,100 applications for credit. It cited incompetent management as the prime reason for turning the others away.

The commission said that part of whatever problem does exist is the marked unwillingness of small-business proprietors to sell any share of their enterprise—and its potential profits—to those from whom they seek long-term, high-risk funds.

Said the report: "Our conclusion is that there has not been a side gap in Canadian financing facilities for small businesses.

"In general, short-term lending facilities appear to have been adequate.

"Moreover, the very smallest firms which account for the bulk of the total appear to have been able to raise all the long-term funds justified by their prospects and experience."

Main difficulty appeared to be in this area of small firms with assets in the $20,000-$250,000 range with borrowing needs ranging from $10,000 to $100,000.

But even there the problem wasn't general. The commission regarded the situation as reflecting a need for management advice and guidance—not only finance.

Two are charged in train wreck

FOLEYET, Ont. (CP)—Two persons were charged Sunday in a 24-car train derailment and diesel hijacking which resulted in injuries to three persons, one seriously and delayed mail traffic nearly 10 hours causing damage estimated at about $1,000,000.

Police identified the two charged with mischief causing injury, as Paul Bernatchez, 22, and Henry Linear, 18, both of Foleyet.

The diesel engine and a four-engine, 60-car freight collided about three miles west of here Friday night.

Centenary arouses enthusiasm

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Rivalry among the provinces has raised its head in 1967 centenary planning.

At the three-day conference of centenary planners held this weekend it was disclosed that Quebec—which reportedly had been less than completely enthusiastic about the whole show—has an ambitious program totalling $28,300,000 in federal, provincial and municipal outlay.

The province will receive from the federal treasury $2,500,000 for a half-share in a performing arts centre in Quebec City. It also will get about $5,500,000 in grants, based on $1 per capita, for centenary projects of a lasting nature to be allocated regionally or locally by the provincial government.

Bona Arsenaull, provincial secretary and Quebec minister in charge of centenary planning, told the national committee here that a competition has been opened for designs for the Place des Arts in Quebec City. The $1 per capita grants will go into an ambitious program of cultural centres located in 30 parts of the province.

The $2,500,000 federal grant for provincial capital memorials is to be matched or surpassed by provincial grants. The $1 per capita grants will be matched by $2 per capita raised provincially or locally for the regional projects.

On the basis of this federal formula, Quebec's total program would amount to a minimum $21,500,000. Instead, Mr. Arsenaull said, the total Quebec commitment will run to $28,000,000, the province and local authorities putting the other $6,500,000 into the pot.

Delegates representing other provinces were clearly surprised and pleased by the Quebec program. James Ault, Ontario's minister of travel and publicity who has been newly-named to head centennial planning for the province in place of former attorney-general Cass, produced no comparable program for the conference.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

DUMMY REVERSAL SAVES THE DAY
The National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament is made-up of a group of 18 par hands that are played by students at hundreds of colleges and universities.

These par hands, prepared by Bill Root and Larry Rossler, are designed to test the players' skill in both bidding and play.

The hands are first bid and then irrespective of the actual bidding there is a directed final contract. On hand one, South is supposed to reach four hearts and West is directed to open the ten of trumps.

Without a trump lead, South would have one spade loser and two trump losers. Against that trump lead, South notes that he has two possible spade losers, and South will get his spade

His problem is to cause one of them to disappear into thin air. He can do so by what is known as a dummy reversal play.

He must duck the first trump lead and win the continuation. Then he cashes his ace of diamonds, enters dummy with a club, ruffs a diamond with one of his trumps, enters dummy with a second club, ruffs another diamond with his next to last trump and leads a third club to dummy.

East can ruff that trick if he desires to do so, but then he will have no trump left to lead ruff at his leisure. So East will discard, whereupon the last diamond will be ruffed. Then South will lead his fourth club. Again East can ruff or discard as he pleases. South will be sure of his ten tricks.

Meteor owners use their garages for storing tools, ladders, baby buggies, bicycles, toboggans, etc.

(Well, you wouldn't hide a beautiful car like this in a garage, would you?)

Beautiful—yet every inch is practical. For instance, push that button on the dash. Look in the rear view mirror. Meteor's Breezeway rear window is gliding down. Lower it just a little to counteract misting. Lower it the whole way for lots of fresh air—without that wind-tunnel effect. And because the rear window slants inward, weather can't get at it... can't obscure your rear vision, summer or winter.

Meteor's size is beautifully right, too. It's a full 215.5 inches long (take six giant steps.) It's wide (two giant steps.) You enjoy a smoother, more stable ride, and far easier handling. And the interior is as big as the feeling you get when you drive a Meteor. Think of this long, beautiful car in your driveway. (And think of all the stuff you'll be able to store in your garage!) Now go and see your Mercury dealer.

Bird Club revue

Capacity crowd hears lecture, sees Arctic film

A capacity crowd filled the Lennoxville High School auditorium Saturday night to listen to the St. Francis - Massawippi Bird Club's Tenth Annual Bird and Wildlife Revue's guest speaker, famed lecturer Arthur G. Twomey and to view his film North to the Polar Seas.

Mr. Twomey who was born in Midland, Ontario is senior curator of ornithology at the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburgh. He is also a famed explorer, having led 15 expeditions into the Arctic; and a noted author, scientist and photographer.

With his film North to the Polar Seas, Mr. Twomey took his audience on one of his 15 expeditions into the Canadian Arctic and Sub-Arctic which he has explored from the McKenzie River Delta in the west to the Labrador peninsula in the east. Saturday night's film dealt mainly with a trip through the 10,000 square mile McKenzie Delta.

The film showed the Eskimo residents coping with the difficult northern environment, the spring rush of migrating birds, fishing in the north, the remarkable beauty of the tundra plants, the great colonies of nesting waterfowl, mammals of the north and the geography of the area. The film was in color. In his talk Mr. Twomey said that the Canadian government and its scientists today realize the importance of the Arctic and since the second World War scientists have gone into the high north to learn all they can about the land. They ship in heavy construction machinery in the summer months such as bulldozers and cranes for moving earth and heavy mechanical drills for exploring beneath the tundra, bringing up secrets that have been locked in the bowels of the earth for centuries.

Once a group of scientists made the mistake of removing the thick layer of moss from a large area on the tundra and the land beneath their feet soon became a quagmire of mud. They dug down 1000 feet in places and the earth was still frozen, he said.

In 1935 the Canadian government introduced 2500 head of reindeer from Lapland into the McKenzie river Delta with the thought that the Eskimo might take to reindeer ranching. He soon did and one of these ranchers now has a herd of 3500. Dogs are trained to roundup the herds, said Mr. Twomey.

"On Richard's Island, Eskimos have an annual roundup like that of the western cattle rancher," said Mr. Twomey. "They earmark the animals like cattle." "Eskimos today are being taught to take their place in this ever changing world and some of the men now handle tractors and other heavy construction material, work as carpenters and stevedores as well as the white man," said Mr. Twomey.

Up in the high north the Eskimo is a relatively free man, he said and would not trade his place with anyone, anywhere. He braves the hardships but in so doing can call himself a free man and he is a happy one, he said.

There are many races of dogs now in the Arctic and it is difficult today to find a true Eskimo dog, he said.

The Loosho Indians of the Delta have been growing vegetables for nearly 150 years. Summer there lasts for 110 days in this land of the midnight sun. The children now go to school and the boys are taught manual trades, he said.

In the film were seen many flowers such as the buttercup, lupin, leadwort, dwarf daisy and fields of Arctic heather. The wild rose also grows in abundance and is the same variety which grows in the hill country here, said Mr. Twomey.

Many animals and birds seen were also common here; the ground squirrel for instance, common tree sparrows, the Sandpiper and fish such as northern pike and trout.

FIRST DISTRICT ARMS COLLECTORS' SHOW HELD IN LENNOXVILLE

ARMS COLLECTORS' SHOW — Three distinguished collectors at the Lennoxville Rifle Club Arms Collectors' Show Sunday discuss the finer points of a rifle in another man's display. They are, left to right: Bernard LeCuyer, editor of Canadian Journal of Arms Collecting, Peter Kaeser, president of the Lennoxville Rifle Club and James Gooding, head of the museum section of Historic Sites, department of Northern Affairs and a former curator of the arms section of the Royal Ontario Museum, Ottawa. (Record photo by Gerry Lemay)

MEGANTIC OUTLAW SIDE-ARM — Nelson Andrews of the Lennoxville Gun Shop here shows the famed Megantic outlaw's 32 calibre side-arm to Wilma Ray, Lennox-ville Rifle Club secretary. In the background are a variety of antique rifles. The one at the top is the oldest on display and is a 1475 matchlock. The one second from the top is the second oldest and is also a matchlock, of German manufacture, dated 1575. These are part of Mr. Andrews' private collection. (Record photo by Gerry Lemay)

Carbines, blunderbusses among antiques on display

Matchlocks and Enfield rifles, Sniders and Winchester, Towers, percussion rifles and Civil War carbines, old blunderbusses, pepperbox revolvers with folding triggers and a revolver the size of a milady's brooch which shot bullets the size of fat grains of wheat — these were only a few of the many various weapons on display at the Lennoxville Rifle Club's Arms Collectors Show yesterday afternoon at the clubhouse on Beattie Street.

This was the first exhibit of its kind held in the Township and was put on as an experiment.

The oldest, and perhaps one of the most curious pieces on display was a 1475 matchlock about which little was known.

Perhaps the next oldest rifle was another matchlock, this one of German make, which was one of the first one-man guns following the use of the cannon. It was made in 1575.

"The gun spouts an open flame. That is the reason why it is called a matchlock," explained Nelson Andrews, Lennoxville gun dealer.

There were brown Bess Flintlocks of 1761; a Hudson Bay Indian trade gun; 1866 Winchester, the first to bear the Winchester name, though the company made guns prior to this date; a Canadian-made rifle inscribed made by D. Moore in Ontario, Upper Canada. This was a .50 calibre percussion rifle with a curly maple stock. Another rifle was stamped Montreal Police and was an old Remington rolling block.

There was a .32 calibre rim fire revolver which is said to have once been the property of the famed Megantic outlaw, Donald Morrison. It is a six-shooter a forerunner of the Winchester and was manufactured by W. Pond at Worcester, Mass.

There was a Tower blunderbuss with a card attached which read "For shooting squirrel in scattered timber" and his crusaders. It is known as a morning star mace and is about 175 years old.

German Ludgers, bayonets, old powder, flasks and powder horns were on display. There was a horn powder flask like the one used by the storied Deerslayer and Daniel Boone. Rifles of the same period were a gun collector's dream and there were many dreamers there to look at them.

A miniature brass canon about 10 inches by six inches stood guard over a display of more modern rifles, bullets, fire pin bullets and long range rifle scopes of the modern day hunter.

An Andrews Gun Shop display covered one side of the room with Mr. Andrews on hand to answer the questions of the curious, the collector and the marksman.

Other exhibitors of the day were: L. Crump of Chambly, Quebec; Charles Purdon of Verdun; N. C. Raven of Montreal; Peter Davern of St. Hilaire, Quebec; S. J. Gooding, Ottawa; J. H. Y. Cruickshank, Cookshire; Leo Mancuso, Ville Jacques Cartier; Arthur Hayes, antique firearm dealer of Three Rivers; K. Van-court, gunstock maker, Ayer's Cliff; H. Mayhew, Lennoxville; Emile Dubois, Sherbrooke; Fernand Martineau, of Drummondville; Gerry Lemay of Sherbrooke; Stuart Peck of Vermont; Major Edson Warner of Lennoxville, and a number of others.

OLD BOOKS — A number of antique gun books on hand brought back the year 1608, 1730 and 1894. One dated 1894 said that an annual Clay pigeon tourney which offered $1,000 in prizes would be held on June 19 to 21 of that year.

In pistols there were many different calibres and types; including 36 calibre five-shots; 42 calibre five-shots; a percussion duelling pistol; 44 calibre; 31 calibre five-shots; 30 calibre six-shots; a Sharp revolver and a rare .25 calibre dated 1859.

Many of the rifles and hand guns were found in the Eastern Townships.

The Pepperbox hand gun mentioned earlier in this story was at best a very inaccurate weapon which started to appear first about 1830.

"It was an early attempt at making a revolver. It was, however, a deadly weapon at close range such as for fights in the bar room," said one of the exhibitors.

A small powder flask which might have been used to open the West had separate chambers for caps, shot and powder.

As well as the many rifles and hand guns, many old cutlasses, swords, sabers, knives, and bayonets and axes were to be seen.

By JAMES McALLISTER (Record Staff Reporter)

"This is the first exhibit of this type held here in the Eastern Townships," said Peter Kaeser, president of the Lennoxville Rifle Club, "and the way it has stirred so much interest, I am pretty sure we will stage it as an annual event."

"We had a muzzle-loader and breech-pistol shoot on the club grounds this morning and there was a lot of smoke, fire and fun," he said. "Old arms are becoming more and more popular and if there is enough interest here, we possibly will attempt to form some sort of an arms association and attempt to affiliate with others in the U. S. or Canada," he said.

Warfield, string ensemble to feature Community Concerts

Two names, well-known in the musical world, were announced as participating in the coming series of community concerts arranged by the Sherbrooke Concert Society, society president Bertrand Jacques said Sunday night.

The names are the "Societa Corelli", a stringed ensemble of 13 musicians; and William Warfield, the famous American baritone.

Mr. Bertrand's statement opened the Society's ticket-selling drive which is being carried on this week and will close on May 2. Season ticket holders of reserved seats will have until tomorrow morning to renew their subscriptions at any time during the week.

Canvassing for the renewing of tickets will be conducted from society headquarters at the H. C. Wilson store, 61 Wellington Street North.

William Warfield is an American Negro singer, known in many parts of the world. In a recent series of 28 concerts he performed successively in Iran, Pakistan, India, Vietnam, Formosa, and in the Philippines. His part in Handel's Messiah, performed with the New York Philharmonic concert, was well received by critics.

Mr. Warfield sang the song, Old Man River, in the film Showboat, and performed in the opera, Porgy and Bess, which played very successfully at Vienna, Berlin, and London.

The "Societa Corelli" is an Italian instrumental ensemble highly rated by international critics for its purity and sensitivity.

Richmond mayor retires

RICHMOND — (Staff) — Municipal nominations being held in Richmond today may produce a new man at the helm as outgoing Mayor Marcel Roy announced this morning his intention to retire from municipal politics.

He said that increasing responsibilities in his legal office and family have made it impossible for him to run again.

"Although Richmond is not a big town," he said "we still need a man who is willing to do the job with all his heart and soul."

Meanwhile, two alderman whose term expires this month have announced they will seek re-election to office. They are John Barrington of District No. 1, seat two, and Armand Lampron, District No. 3, seat two.

Meanwhile, the representative of District No. 2 Raymond Lafrance declared last week he would not seek re-election to his seat and that he was retiring from municipal politics.

Nominations were to have been held this afternoon between noon and 2 p.m.

Area crackdown on liquor offences

The crackdown on district hotels and individuals violating provincial liquor laws continued last week as more than half a dozen offenders were sentenced in the Sherbrooke courts.

The week before, more than 15 cases were heard. And authorities say the enforcement of the law will continue.

There need be no rejoicing in the bad fortune of those who have been punished by the law for the various offences. But there need not be sympathy, either.

The law regarding closing hours, sale of liquor and other aspects of the liquor retail business is clear and explicit. Yet, too often, the law has been honored more in its breach than in its observance to the point where regulation became a mockery.

When they have nothing to do with the stories inside why do scantily dressed gals appear on the covers of paper-back books?

MPs still continue absenteeism

For some reason or another, Canadian taxpayers believed that after receiving an eighty per cent indemnity increase which they voted themselves, Members of Parliament would devote more of their time to public business.

But judging from Thursday night's incident in the House of Commons when the Government was sustained by a single vote, absenteeism is as rife as ever.

When the roll was called to determine whether the committee stage study of the redistribution bill should be postponed, there were only 87 of the 263 members in the House.

Many offenders simply paid fines—a small price to pay for the profits of illegal business—and continued to flout authority. But now repeated offenders have lost their licences. This is a more serious business than fines.

The significance of the current enforcement campaign lies in more than the curtailing of liquor sales. It lies also in maintaining respect for duly-constituted law.

When any law is openly and repeatedly broken without any resulting consequences, the whole structure of rule by law is weakened. Some people are influenced to emulate the law breakers. They reason if one person or group of persons can act illegally with impunity, then anyone can.

These comprised 37 Liberals, four New Democrats and two Socreds, who voted with the Government, and 42 Progressive Conservatives who voted against. There were two Creditistes who did not vote.

In other words, less than one-third of the House membership was present during the discussion of one of the most important bills to come before the Commons this year.

Haydn S. Pearson's COUNTRY FLAVOR

Spring is time of singing waters

The time of singing waters has come, and down from the highlands and ridges, brooks make music in April air as they hurry along to the lowlands.

Small streams chuckle and murmur in glee, as they tumble over the ledges, and water drops glisten like colored jewels in the gold of fourth-month sunshine.

Great rivers are born in bubbling springs and from thousands of upland fountains, the waters sing down from tree-studded heights to join forces in verdant valleys.

Part of Earth's basic melody is the ceaseless song of the rivers, strong in the steady power that turns great wheels and turbines.

But the little brooks that swirl and laugh as they hurry down pasture hillsides, have a special message for him who listens when the magic of April blesses the land and a warm south wind plays harps in the evergreens.

Between banks of winter-bleached grasses, the waters sing on their way to the valleys. At the base of miniature waterfalls, colored pebbles move in the current, and the pictures they paint while the waters sing is part of the beauty of springtime.

Man knows when the time of winter is done and the voices of birds are heard in the land, that the music of life restored will play chords of deep-meaning harmony. And the melody that comes from the singing waters, strikes a chord in the human heart.

U.S. view on pensions plan accord

Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson is clearly bringing to his country's most pressing internal problem the quiet but effective diplomacy which, in the post-war decade, won him such deserved esteem abroad. That problem is the containing but not defying of the great revolutionary upsurge which has seized the French-speaking community of Canada—and more precisely that community's homeland in the Province of Quebec.

(Christian Science Monitor)

odie federal-provincial conferences—held this time as a gesture to French feeling in Quebec City—broke up in an atmosphere clouded by apparent disagreement between Mr. Pearson and Mr. Lesage over Ottawa's announced intention to introduce a national pensions plan.

Quebec interpreted the plan as yet another indication of Ottawa's insensitive tendency (as French Canadians saw it) to ride roughshod over provincial feelings. Given its present mood, Quebec wants less tutelage from the center and more freedom to run public services on a provincial basis.

There were gloomy forecasts about the consequences of the recent Quebec City conference, which had seemed to widen rather than narrow the gulf between French Canada and the center. It left the dispute over the pensions plan unresolved, even embittered.

Now, happily, Mr. Pearson has announced unexpectedly an agreed settlement of the issue which apparently was driving Ottawa and Quebec ever farther apart. And the settlement came after behind-the-scenes negotiating in which Mr. Pearson's skill as diplomat rather than politician was presumably exploited to the full. Such skill will be needed again as Canada comes to grips with the many other problems raised by Quebec's present revolutionary tumult.

Excessive pride disqualifies

France checks drivers' health

PARIS (Reuters)—The French government has been taking a sharp look at the health of the French motorist as part of its campaign to keep down the accident toll on the roads.

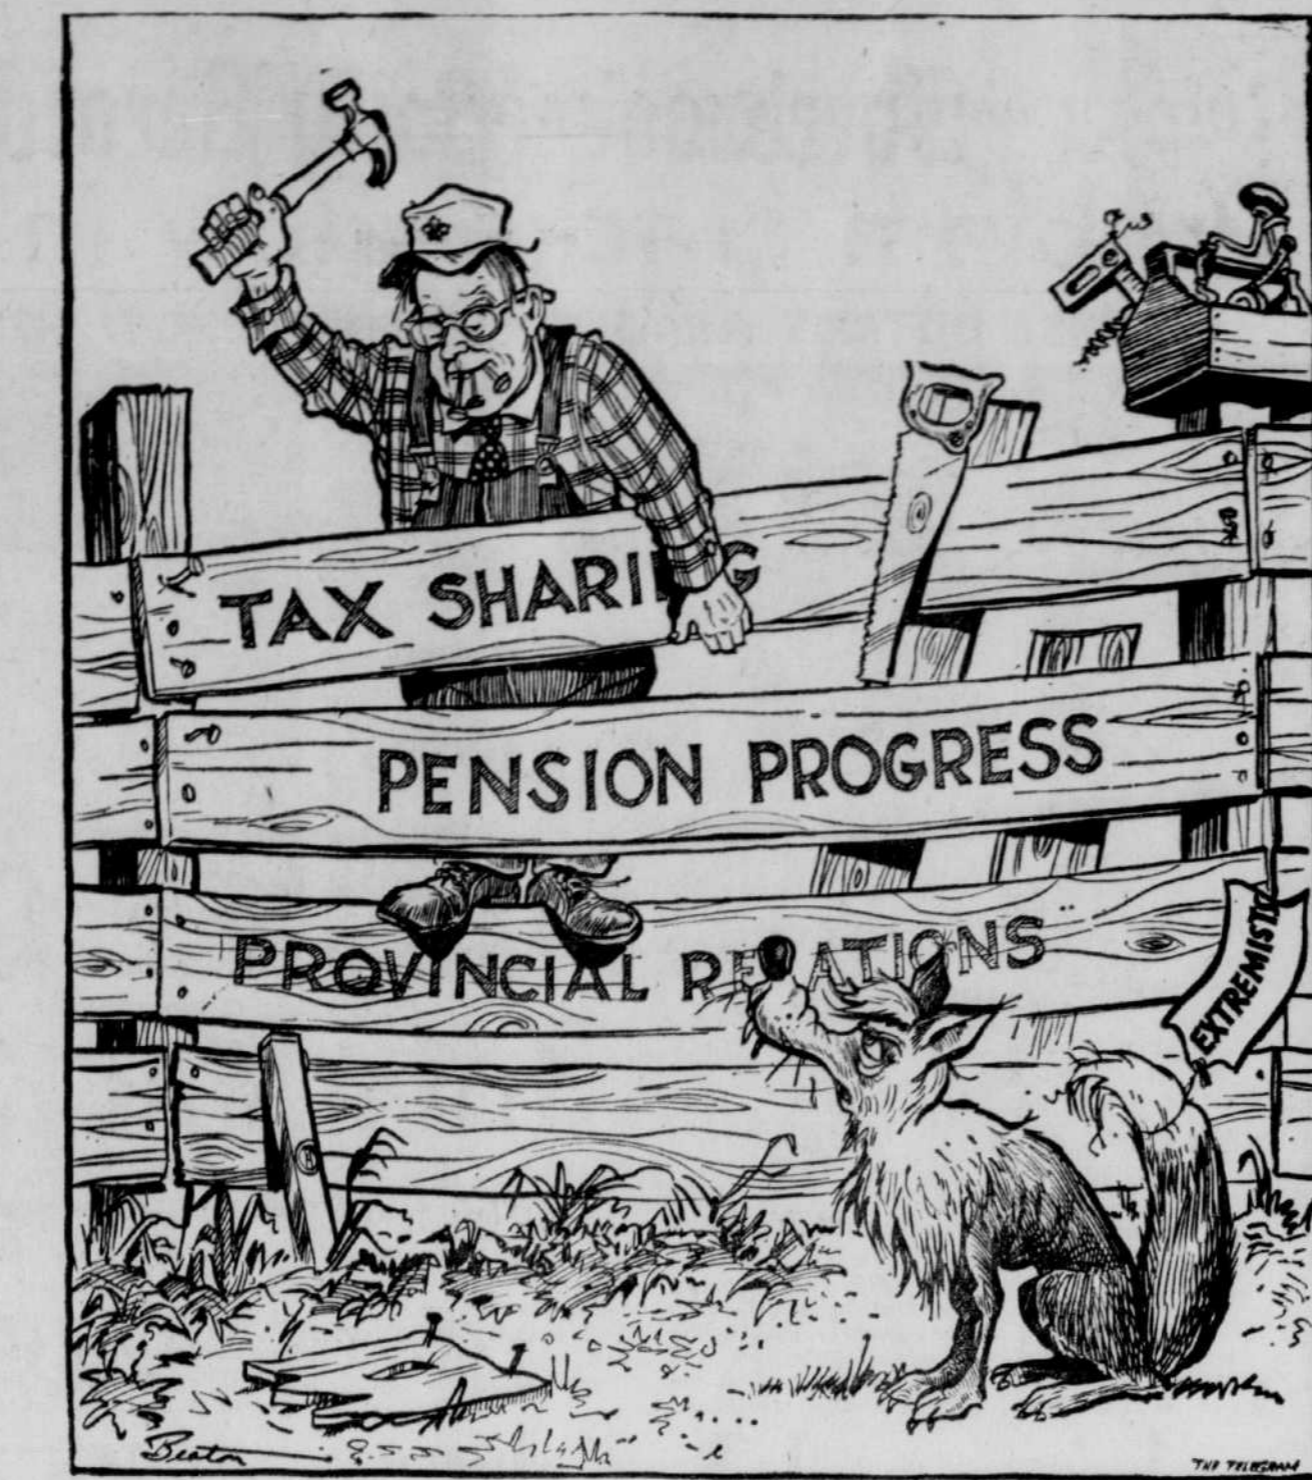

Latest move is a decree by Transport Minister Marc Jacquet listing a long series of ailments which in future will disqualify a would-be driver from obtaining a licence.

They range from such evident handicaps as bad sight or severe deafness to more subtle disadvantages such as superiority complexes and, in the case of illiterates, lack of intelligence. Further measures to keep labs on drivers are expected. They include a 50-mile-an-hour speed limit on new drivers and compulsory medical examinations for drivers at the age of 70 and annually from the age of 76 if they want to keep their licences.

Medical tests at present are compulsory only for heavy vehicle drivers. The present system under which a licence applicant has to declare he does not suffer from any disqualifying disability is expected to be retained. WON'T ADMIT IT

But, according to one motoring writer, drivers can't be expected to know—or admit—they suffer from such troubles as complexes or excessive pride. Contact lenses, formerly banned, now are permitted. One-legged drivers can take the

Many ways to kill a groundhog

Dear Sir: Mr. Beaudoin's article on groundhogs, or as they are more commonly called, woodchucks aroused a lot of interest in this vicinity.

There is hardly a farmer in this locality, who at one time or another, has not suffered from the destructive habits of these little rascals. Each farmer has his own method of ridding himself of these pests. One may plug all outlets from the woodchucks burrow and then place a trap in the remaining exit, while another may leave the groundhog problem to the family dog, who proceeds to dig them out. Another may employ poison bombs. These are said to destroy old and young alike; and also no self-respecting woodchuck will occupy that same home for a number of years.

But what happens if the rascals decide to make their home in a stone wall? This is where the farm boys come in to their own. The dog will show the boys where the woodchuck enters the wall. Then the boys get a stiff piece of wire long enough to serve their purpose. In one end a loop is made. The wire is then inserted between the stones loop first.

In moving the loop about, Mr. Woodchuck eventually receives a poke in the nose. As his nose is his tender spot, he does not take much of this treatment, before he fastens upon the wire loop with his teeth. When the boys discover that their enemy has a firm hold, they then drag him out into the field where the farm dog is waiting to put the finishing touches on the culprit.

Each farmer argues for his own method of groundhog eradication.

I am not a farmer, just another member of the Record's family of correspondents, but I will say a good word for the loop of wire method as I have seen my own boys use it with good results.

Another thing when boys are catching woodchucks they are out of mischief. A Record correspondent Mansonville

Old soldier vs theoretician

US's LeMay wants flexible men in airplanes to back up ICBMs

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The simmering airplane-missile fight between Robert McNamara and Gen. Curtis LeMay is essentially a quarrel between a theoretician and an old soldier.

Defense Secretary McNamara in essence argues: with the United States possessing so many Minutemen, Polaris and Titan missiles, no one but a fool would start an all-out war against us and if some fool did start a war we could flatten him.

McNamara has proved out this thesis in electronic war gaming both for 1964 and for the early 1970s. Mathematically he has proved that his contentions are dead-certain.

Air Force Chief of Staff LeMay argues that in his experience wars never go as the planners plan them. Few battles go according to the book; weapons don't work out as expected. The enemy unexpectedly develops counter-measures.

LeMay says you have to be able to change your plans and your fighting as the situation develops when the chips are down. Missiles are fine and LeMay wants them. But missiles will do only one thing. You press a button and the missiles fly (if all goes well) to fixed, predetermined targets. They're inflexible.

If something goes wrong, missiles are unable to change quickly to meet the new situation. If the enemy discovers how to hit them, or how to knock out their guidance, or discovers some way to protect important parts of his offensive forces against them, they fail.

In other words, LeMay says you can't teach missiles new tricks in the middle of a campaign. If your missile gambles, or has serious weaknesses, and missiles are all you've got, you're stuck. This is why LeMay argues that in addition to intercontinental ballistic missiles, the United States needs something that can change its tactics quickly in the middle of a crisis or a war.

Because man is the most flexible thing we've got, LeMay wants to keep airplanes. The major difference between a missile and an airplane, of course, is that the airplane has a man in it. You can keep in touch with him. You can tell him in mid-course to cancel his mission and come back. You can tell him to change targets. He can go after targets you can't pinpoint exactly, and after moving targets.

If your tactics fail, and some of your planes are shot down, you can teach the pilots new tactics. You're not tied to one rigid pattern as you are with ICBMs.

McNamara says that his calculating machines show that anything a bomber can do, an ICBM can do better and cheaper. Besides, he says, planes are inherently more vulnerable than missiles.

LeMay also claims long-range bombers have uses short of all-out war. ICBMs do not. Suppose, he suggests, the Communists began an aggressive war that was too big to be stopped with conventional forces. The United States would like to win without escalating that war into all-out nuclear war. The United States couldn't use ICBMs because that would be certain to trigger World War III. Intercontinental bombers could be used with a far greater chance of keeping the war within bounds, even if they dropped nuclear bombs.

350 miles from violence

Mobile has integration made easy

ATLANTA (CP)—Violence climaxed a desegregation drive downtown lunch counters and in Jacksonville, Fla. One person was killed and more than a score were injured.

Little more than 350 miles to the west in the same latitude, racial changes have been taking place in Selma, Ala., where Negroes place in Mobile, Ala., for 10 years with little trouble.

In Macon, Ga., a white church admitted into membership a Negro student from Ghana. In Jacksonville, Miss., all efforts at integrating churches have failed.

Contradictions like these are evident everywhere in the South. Why? The answer is as complex as the problem, which covers the spectrum of society. And each community has its own set of issues and conditions.

MAY AFFECT

- Yet some of the more apparent factors which may abet or deter peaceful change include: -Attitudes of government, businesses, churches, integration leaders and segregationists. -Size and nature of the community, whether urban or rural, industrial or agricultural. -Economic conditions. -Percentage of Negroes and their voting power. -Rate of stage and desegregation.

Much of Georgia's college and university system is desegregated; racial bars have been lowered in private schools, some theatres, restaurants and hotels, lunch counters and libraries in most major cities.

Change has been made easier by the moderate course of Governor Carl E. Sanders, elected with the help of the Negro vote—about 14 per cent in Georgia. Desegregation is most difficult in areas of the South where Negroes are a majority in the population.

Eleven school districts in Arkansas are desegregated. Most of them are in Little Rock where federal troops enforced a court decree in 1957.

Dixiecrats ready filibuster

Long hot summer ahead for US Senate

By HAROLD MORRISON (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Seven weeks ago the U.S. Senate began debate on the historic measure to provide Negroes with more of their citizenship rights amid predictions the legislation would get passage if it obtained the full support of President Johnson, a Texan with fairly wide southern appeal.

But despite Johnson's frequent and fervent endorsements the legislation is still stalled in the Senate with Dixiecrats digging in for a filibuster that promises a long hot summer or debate with no passage unless proposals are sharply modified.

Meanwhile, Alabama's Governor George Wallace is continuing to pick up marginal and yet significant political strength in some northern states giving heart to the southern segregationists as they realize they are not alone in their struggle to keep the Negro separate and unequal.

The Wisconsin primary was the eye-opener. Every reputable prognosticator predicted Wisconsin would shun Wallace, the man who defied the late president Kennedy, the U.S. constitution and the courts in attempting to block integration of Alabama schools. Yet out of some 1,000,000 persons who voted in the state's Republican-Democratic primaries, about 260,000 said they would prefer Wallace for president.

It is small wonder, under circumstances which exist, that some of the more restless factions of militant Negro groups are resorting once again to violent expressions of their frustration.

The Negro plan to stall automobiles on the road to the New York world's fair was a flop. But some still managed to cause disruption and embarrassment, especially in heckling Johnson's opening speech. White civil rights supporters predicted the Negro, in taking such action, was merely cutting his own throat.

Filibustering segregationists undoubtedly will use these expressions of violence as argument that the Negro still cannot be trusted with full citizenship. And undoubtedly, the more the filibusters dig in, the more the Negroes will be tempted to seek stronger measures of protest.

EXPLOSIVE PROBLEM The Johnson administration is well aware of the explosive nature of the problem ahead. Officials acknowledge that as long as the Negroes must take to the streets to protest, there will be trouble.

Sporadic incidents of a violent nature have occurred this year in the Deep South, perhaps the beginning of repetition of bloodshed and deaths that marked the demonstrations of the last two years.

Texas remains largely segregated.

Mobile, Ala., began desegregation quietly in 1954 with addition of Negro officers to the police force. It spread quietly to city buses, downtown lunch counters, the municipal golf course and, last fall, a white high school.

The Mobile city commission, eyeing racial troubles in Birmingham, set up last summer a biracial commission and also a 27-member biracial committee.

Biracial bargaining, with an attitude of compromise on both sides, has keyed much of the peaceful desegregation, surveys by The Associated Press have shown.

Waterloo High School prepares for concert

WATERLOO — (Special) — The Waterloo High School glee club is working feverishly to complete preparation for a concert for Thursday, April 30. A most popular event, it is expected to have a S.R.O. (sold right out) performance.

A company of over 50 have been practising through the year with Roger McKergow, director and Mrs. Marion Hackwell accompanist. Stuart Peters on the school staff will assist in some of the numbers on his accordion. The varied program promises to interest everyone. It consists of solos, duets, trios and quartets, as well as the choruses. Among the soloists are Morna Flood, Judy Darling, Sheilegh Bockus and Beverly Norris.

An innovation is a boys group. One of their numbers will be "The Whistling Gypsy" with Mr. Peters accompanying on his accordion.

The Beavers are to do an instrumental number. There is promised a surprise quartet but no details are to be given in advance.

Folk songs and hootenanny choruses open the program. Sea shanties follow with old sea songs, plus a hornpipe Dance. Grade 7 makes its debut in "The Dollies".

Western songs and square dances complete the first half of the program.

At intermission candy will be sold. Each bag sold is to buy a brick for the new school of the Flambeau Homes.

The main attraction of the concert, the cabaret, is scheduled immediately after intermission.

The closing is a group singing patriotic songs.

Rank and file vote will decide dispute

WATERLOO — (Staff) — A dispute between Local 691 of the United Rubber, Cork, Plastic and Linoleum Workers of America (CLC) and an independent association for recognition as bargaining agent for some 200 employees at the Armstrong Cork plant here will be decided by a rank-and-file vote, Thursday, April 30.

The secret ballot vote was ordered by the Quebec Labor Relations Board after petitions for recognition were filed by the two unions early last year for exclusive bargaining rights in the Waterloo plant. The employer has completed its objections to the Board on the two applications.

Three months before conference

Problem cracks show in commonwealth walls

LONDON (CP) — With three months left before the prime ministers' conference here, cracks within the Commonwealth are beginning to show. There is considerable feeling here, particularly among some Conservative members of Parliament, that the government made a mistake in suggesting the conference a matter of months before the British general election and while the Rhodesian problem is on the boil. Some students of Commonwealth affairs also feel time is running out and that the brotherhood of nations must soon prove its worth in some demonstrative way or pack it up.

The crisis could come at the July conference. The most immediate problem is whether Southern Rhodesia, Insistent African intolerance over Southern Rhodesia would be a heavy blow at the heart of the Commonwealth. On the other hand, a show of moderation, even co-operation, could silence cynics who insist the Commonwealth is nothing but a farce.

Other members, of whom only Ghana has so far openly opposed her presence. Southern Rhodesia interprets this as a snub on the grounds the old Central African Federation was automatically represented at such conferences. Since the federation dissolved, and Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland gained independence, Southern Rhodesia has assumed the rights of membership—an assumption not acceptable to other Commonwealth governments.

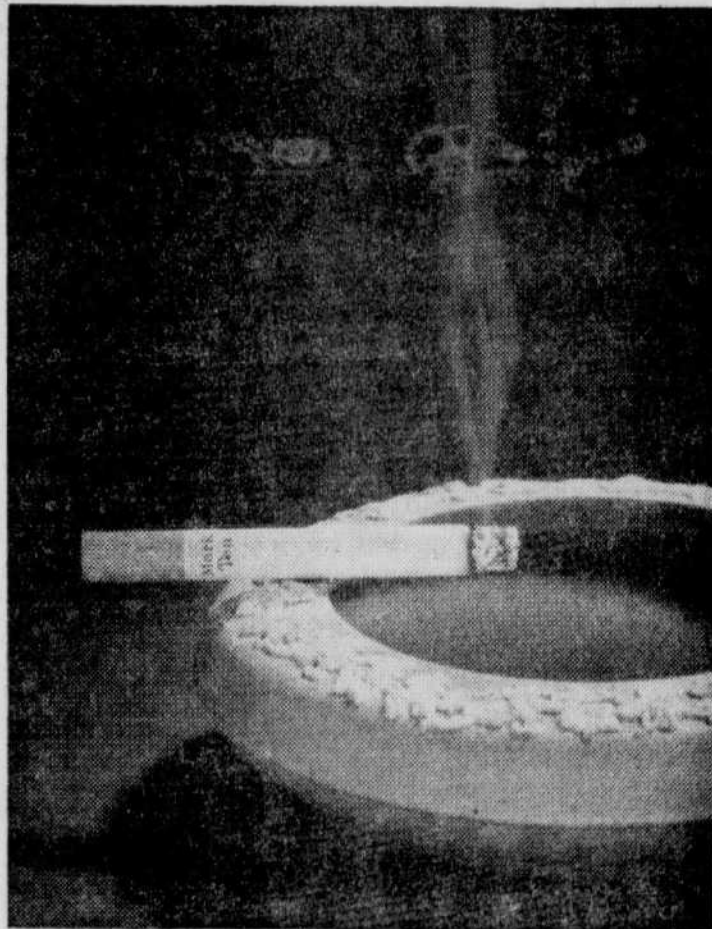

Britain's attitude is that the country should have independence only after she takes steps towards majority government, which should come gradually over a five-year period. Other African countries insist electoral reforms, to include the 3,000,000 natives, should come before independence.

Emigration from Ireland has averaged 40,000 persons annually since 1951.

Ruth Edith Springate weds Gordon William Ditchburn

MONTREAL — The marriage of Ruth Edith Ann, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Springate, of Montreal, to Mr. Gordon William Ditchburn, youngest son of Mrs. Joseph Ditchburn and the late Mr. Ditchburn, of North Hatley, took place recently in St. James United Church Montreal, the Rev. Robert Blair officiating. Mr. Gifford Mitchell played the wedding music, and baskets and standards of white and pink gladioli decorated the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white silk and linen fashioned with a fitted bodice having a jewel neckline and sleeves ending in points over the hands, and a bell-shaped skirt with covered buttons from the waist to the hemline falling into a slight train. Her bouffant veil of tulle illusion was held by a matching floral headpiece, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white and pink gladioli blossoms and stephanotis.

Mrs. John Flick and Mrs. Norman Whittaker, as attendants, were in frocks of pale pink silk organza over taffeta, having fitted bodices with scoop necklines three-quarter-length sleeves, and gathered back panels of organza falling from the neckline to the hemline of the bell-shaped skirts. They wore circles of pink silk and straw with small net veils in their hair, and carried cascade bouquets of deep pink carnations and stephanotis.

Mr. Bernard Hopcraft, of North Hatley, acted as best man and the usher was Mr. George Philip Springate, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Springate, the bride's mother, wore a gown of turquoise crepe under a mink stole, white satin hat, and had a spray of white carnations pinned to her purse.

Mrs. Ditchburn, mother of the groom, was in a gown of navy blue and white printed silk, and wore a hat of white straw and a corsage bouquet of white carnations.

Following the ceremony the reception was held in the Berkeley Hotel which was arranged with white and pink carnations and red roses were used as decorations.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Ditchburn left on their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a suit of pale yellow wool trimmed with deeper yellow suede, and wearing a black hat and a corsage bouquet of yellow and white carnations.

Guests attended from New York U.S.A., Pointe Claire, North Hatley, Sherbrooke, Coaticook, Ville D'Anjou and Quebec City.

The couple will reside in Sherbrooke.

nounced. The marriage has been arranged to take place on Saturday, June 20, in the Mount Royal United Church, Town of Mount Royal.

Polly's pointers

by Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — Three columns make the paper for me and one is yours. When sewing on buttons, I lay a safety pin across the button and sew over the side that opens. This is easier to hold than a straight pin and leaves a shank of thread, just right for easy buttoning. Just open the pin and it slides out quickly.

I keep a jar with 3/4 vinegar and 1/4 water under my kitchen sink. I pour some of this into my glass coffee pot after washing and let it stand a while. After the hard water rings are dissolved I pour this mixture back into the jar to use again.

I save the shaker jars that spices come in and fill with my face powder to keep the girls from wrecking the powder box. Less mess and waste.

STILL PLUGGING

DEAR POLLY — Sew a dress hook about one-half inch above the end of a skirt zipper to keep it from unzipping when you least expect it. Just pull the zipper up and slip the opening over the hook.

GIRLS — This I like and have already put it to use on a dress with a tired zipper that has come unfastened at most inopportune times.

POLLY — When my daughter was small, spelling was hard for her to learn. In order to help her overcome this difficulty, when anyone in the family wanted something he spelled it out. Her curiosity always got the best of her and she would work diligently trying to figure out what was being said. In a short time there was a noticeable improvement in her spelling.

MRS. E. L. R. DEAR POLLY — If a hot iron sticks to starched pieces of clothing, just rub the iron over paraffin that is wrapped in cloth and you will have no more trouble.

Mend a tear in an otherwise good sport shirt with a piece of material cut from behind the pocket. The top of the pocket can be closed with a blind stitch. Thank you so much, Polly, for all the helpful hints.

MRS. M. E. GIRLS — The thanks go two ways. My thanks to all of you wonderful and clever girls for sending in hints to share with me and the other girls.

Questions readers ask

Q—My daughter complains because she can't make her high school girls' basketball team. I tell her that's because she refuses to eat properly. She skips breakfast, won't drink milk and is always nibbling candy. Am I right?

A—Looks as if you could be. A recent survey of high school students in Florida shows that teen-aged girls who eat the most healthful foods perform best on physical fitness tests. The director of the Florida State Board of Health's Division of Nutrition divided 100 girls into two groups of 50, the girls who ate well-balanced meals in A group and those, like your daughter, who didn't, in B group. When standard physical fitness tests were given, every girl in the A group received a higher physical fitness rating than any of the girls in B group. The girls in B group, according to the director, had diets lacking mostly in milk, fresh fruits and dark and leafy vegetables. Your daughter may be interested in this report.

The clothes poll

by Helen Hennessy

These days, a good maid is harder to find than a good man. So if you have one working for you, do anything to keep her happy.

One way might be to hire a good-looking butler. If that's too costly, you might try cleaning the house every night so that she won't be discouraged when she shows up in the morning. (I have friends who do just that.)

If neither of these methods holds appeal, you may like this one. It's a cinch the maid will let her choose her spring uniform wardrobe from a variety of polka dots, flower prints or stripes in new fashion shades of hot pink, aqua or yellow. She can even have matching pinafores and caps.

A firm widely known as designers of professional uniforms admits that the maid's uniform has taken on its new look in over 40 years.

So perhaps you can hold on to your household gem with an appeal to her vanity. The chance to be the first on the block to wear polka dots may prove irresistible.

This status symbol, which could keep your maid with you for a long time to come, will impress your guests, too. And before you know it, the whole neighborhood may become a glorious panorama of domestic color.

Q — As president of our

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

But a man who has lost interest in a woman isn't going to get it back simply because she loses 10 pounds, finds a more becoming hairdo, and buys new clothes that "do something for her."

All these things may be beneficial, simply because they make the woman feel less woe-begone and give her a little confidence in herself. But they aren't going to make her husband suddenly see her in a new light.

My advice to this wife: quit worrying about changing to please her husband and start thinking about making herself garden club. I have been asked to make a speech at our meeting next month when we will be entertaining a garden club from a neighboring town. I should appreciate some advice on the way I should dress for that afternoon occasion. — Mrs. J. Dalton.

Dear Mrs. Dalton — Your best would be to wear something chic, but casual, preferably something you have worn before. We're always conscious of new clothes and they should never be worn on an occasion when our poise is under strain.

If you have a smart suit or knit dress, wear that. It will be comfortable, look attractive and need no pulling or fussing to assure you that it's adjusted properly.

If you wear a hat, be sure it isn't one trimmed with feathers or flowers that will bounce around when you move. This kind of decorative hat can not only distract your audience, but, unfortunately, may even cause uncontrollable laughter at the wrong moment. Above all, wear comfortable, trim shoes. You will probably be standing while you talk.

over to please herself. If she busies herself with things she really likes to do, she'll be happier, and a more interesting person.

Chances are her husband will find her more interesting, too. If he doesn't she's still ahead for she is getting some fun out of life, instead of sitting around feeling sorry for herself.

This probably sounds like very dull advice compared with the "make - yourself - beautiful - and - he'll - fall - in - love - with - you - all - over - again" routine women are usually handed.

But, dull or not, it's realism rather than wishful thinking. For no matter what the storybooks tell you, that old line of advice just doesn't work.

The best time to suggest better behavior to a teen-ager is before a breach of etiquette.

2ND. SHERBROOKE GUIDE AND BROWNIE PARENT COMMITTEE

The April meeting of the 2nd Sherbrooke Guides and Brownies Parents' Committee was held at Sangster Church with Mrs. F. Drew acting as hostess.

The president, Mrs. H. Gram, opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer, after which the various reports were read.

Several new ideas for the annual Spring Tea were discussed. It was suggested that a fish pond would prove of interest next year and that members should donate small articles for this purpose at the meetings instead of tea money.

Mrs. R. Larrabee, Guide Captain, offered to have the Guides make novelties for a table.

Mrs. B. McAuley reported on the camp meeting which she had attended as a representative from the group.

Mrs. G. Ashley, Brown Owl, intends to take the Brownies on a Pack Holiday, sometime in August.

Each Brownie is to be given three dollars if they attend camp and five dollars to each Guide for the same purpose. This same amount has been given for several years now.

It was agreed that the group should buy the book, The World Chief Guide, for the Brownies.

Mrs. Graham suggested a treat for the Brownies at their closing meeting. This was left for Brown Owl to buy whatever she wished.

The next meeting of the committee will take place in September at which the election of officers will occur.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening by the hostess.

A report was given on the Provincial annual by Mrs. G. Smith, municipal regent. This annual was held April 15-16 at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec City and was well attended and proved a highlight of the year for all members who were able to attend.

Mrs. Smith was elected delegate to represent Aldershot Chapter at the I.O.D.E. National annual to be held May 23-27 in Fredericton, N.B.

A rummage sale, to be convened by Mrs. N. Munkittrick, will be held, May 22, in Trinity Church Hall.

Asbestos prospects 'bright'

MONTREAL (CNW) — Despite currently keen competition, and unstable prices in the asbestos mining industry, long-range prospects are bright, A. L. Penhale, president of Asbestos Corporation Limited, declared at the company's annual shareholders' meeting held here Friday.

This is also true for our company strengthened as it is by the recent acquisition of the Johnson's properties and by the rich Asbestos Hill ore body in Ungava," the Asbestos Corporation president added. By acquiring the Johnson's properties, he stated roughly 45,000-000 tons are added to Asbestos Corporation ore reserves, resulting in considerably longer productive life for the mines.

By merging the properties, substantial tonnages of ore on both sides of common boundaries, hitherto inaccessible, are now released for eventual mining.

Integrating the operations of the two mining companies will however involve the lay-off of about 600 men, it has already been announced.

Mr. Penhale pointed out the company is doing everything in its power to lessen the impact on the asbestos mining communities of Thetford Mines and Black Lake of the personnel lay-off resulting from the merger.

Discussions with the union and appropriate government, authorities are being conducted "in a cooperative spirit," he noted.

"Had this agreement not been made unemployment in the Thetford area would have been considerably worse within the next few years," Penhale added, noting that in that event lay-off would have involved more than twice the number of men presently involved. As a result of the current merger, substantial Canadian ownership of the asbestos mining industry will be maintained.

Asbestos Corporation shareholders were also told that at the Asbestos Hill ore body in Northern Ungava between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 tons of high-grade asbestos ore has been proved and that plans are underway for the eventual construction of a plant capable of producing some 100,000 tons of asbestos fibre annually.

Plans for the necessary ancillary facilities such as a township, roads, air strips and a desalination plant have also been prepared, Penhale added.

"Several years will be required to bring this property into production and a substantial sum of money will be required. Indications are that this high-grade property will produce a good profit when it comes into full operation," he declared.

It is expected that the Asbestos Hill project will gradually create hundreds of new jobs and will materially contribute to the economic development of Northern Quebec.

News flashes from around the world

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. James Mellaart, a British archeologist, Sunday described an archeological find in the south of Turkey that he believes may rival in importance discoveries in Jericho that stirred much excitement between 1952 and 1958.

Dr. Mellaart, 38, a graduate of University College in London, said he made his discoveries on a 3,000-foot plateau about 30 miles southeast of Konya.

The find, designated by the digging party as Chatal Huyuk, covers roughly 32 acres and contains abundant traces of a highly developed civilization of the Neolithic period, between 7,000 and 6,000 B.C. He said in an interview.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Times says a report detailing corruption and incompetence in distribution of surplus U.S. food by the Catholic Relief Services in South Viet Nam has been suppressed, with the reported approval of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

A dispatch from a Times reporter in Saigon says the report was prepared by the public safety division of the U.S. operations mission there.

An accompanying article by a Washington reporter for the newspaper quotes a separate and confidential state department legal memorandum as saying in part, however: "Unfortunately . . . the survey appears to go beyond factual reporting and includes a great number of broad generalizations not supported in the survey by sufficient evidence, and also contains innuendoes of misconduct by various named individuals. . . . The survey fails to provide sufficient factual information to support such innuendoes."

CHICAGO (AP) — James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters' Union, was called to trial on criminal charges today for the third time since taking over leadership of the largest union in the U.S.

AFTER THE GAME WAS OVER — Maple Leafs, dark uniforms, and Red Wings form two passing lines on the ice in the Maple Leafs Gardens Saturday evening as Detroit congratulates Leafs on winning Stanley Cup championship. It was Toronto's third straight championship. (CP Wirephoto)

Blank Red Wings 4-0 in seventh game, demonstrate their famous versatility, third straight win

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, crowned champions of professional hockey, silenced a lot of critics Saturday night and finally proved what their supporters had been saying all winter.

If any die-hard Leaf fan had been cornered back in mid-season and forced to explain the reasons for his loyalty, chances are he would have extolled his favorites something like this: "They may lose a lot of games, but they win the big ones. They'll win their third straight Stanley Cup because of their depth, versatility, guts, great defensive work and solid training program — and no one can stop big Frank Mahovich when he feels like moving."

In their 4-0 cup victory over Detroit Red Wings Saturday, the Leafs demonstrated all their virtues—and their big frailty of waiting until the last round to deliver the big punch.

The league-champion Montreal Canadiens and the lowly Wings forced the Leafs to 14 playoff games and extended the series to April 25, the latest date in history.

But the Leafs proved their depth when four different forwards—Andy Bathgate, Dave Keon, Red Kelly and George Armstrong — shared the final scoring of the year.

They proved their versatility by scoring on Terry Sawchuk on four different types of play—a breakaway, a long shot, a backhand and a close-in forehand.

Johnny Bower's 33-shot shut-out was exhibit A for their defensive ability, and Kelly, Bob Bau and Carl Brewer, who all played with severe leg injuries, demonstrated their courage.

Few can argue now with manager-coach Punch Imlach's training methods which call for between-game practices.

And as for Mahovich... he almost left a jet stream behind him Saturday night as he sped all over the rink, stole pucks, set up the plays, did his share of back-checking and fed Kelly and Armstrong for their goals.

The injury-riddled Wings, relegated by pre-season experts to the far reaches of the National Hockey League, wrote their own chapter to the Cinderella story by refusing to capitulate when the odds were against them.

The motley collection of canny veterans and unbridled youngsters struggled from fifth place at Christmas, gained a fourth-place toe-hold in the playoffs, fought from behind twice to defeat the powerful Chicago Black Hawks in the semi-finals, and pushed the world-champion Leafs to the last period of the seventh game of the final.

KEON FINISHES WINGS
"That second goal by Keon in the final period finished us," said Sid Abel, Red Wing manager-coach, after the game. "We had a few chances in the second to tie it, but once they got in front everything seemed to go right for them."

The champagne-filled Leaf dressing room was a scene of triumph but not really of jubilation.

After the titanic struggle of the 14 playoff games, many of the players could hardly believe it was all over.

"When's the next practice, Punch?" asked several of the Leafs in a jocular tone that had a half-serious ring.

To win their 10th cup in club history and the third straight, the Leafs had to overcome 3-to-2 game deficits with both the Canadiens and the Wings. In the final they won one game with two seconds remaining, another late in the third period, another in overtime and then Saturday's decisive victory.

The Wings won a game in overtime after the Leafs had ted it with 43 seconds left, scored the winning goal in another game with 17 seconds remaining and had to hang on by their finger nails to win the third game 2-1.

NHL statistician Ron Andrews said it was the closest final series in the history of the league.

While they quaffed one form of pain-killer after the game, three of the Leafs felt the effects as another kind—novocaine—wore off.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL
Kelly was taken to hospital in a wheelchair and spent the night there. Sunday he was resting at home under sedation, his knee throbbing from the effects of a double check by Gordie Howe and Bill Gadsby in the sixth game.

Baum was scheduled to enter hospital today for x-rays of a possible fracture above his ankle where he stopped a puck in the same game and his defence partner, Brewer, played the last five games after receiving shots to deaden the pain of a leg injury received in the last game against Montreal.

The tough series also took its toll with Detroit defenceman Doug Barkley, who played a stout-hearted game Saturday despite a painful groin injury, and Leaf left-winger Don McKenzie, knocked out of action in the fifth game with torn knee ligaments.

In his record 142nd playoff game, Kelly, a 36-year-old member of Parliament, not only scored but kept the mighty "Slow from getting more than one dangerous shot on Bower. This was Kelly's seventh Stanley Cup triumph, four with the Wings and three straight with the Leafs.

Ed Litzenberger, who was used on a few shifts after McKenzie's injury, earned the distinction of playing on four straight Stanley Cup winners. He was Chicago's captain when the Hawks won in 1961.

The Leafs Saturday did what they have seldom been able to do in the last few weeks—start with a rush, keep up the pace and finish with speed and aplomb.

BATHGATE GETS WINNER
Bathgate, an ex-New York Ranger obtained late in the season, gave his new team all the edge it needed at 3:04 of the first period when the puck hopped over Al Langlois' stick at the Toronto blue line. Handy Andy streaked in on Sawchuk and overpowered him with a fast shot to the near corner.

The Wings, who have often been on the floor but always refuse to be swept under the rug, kept pressing and kept 14,571 Maple Leaf Gardens customers on the edge of their seats until Keon's swift shot at 4:26 of the last period. Keon used Armstrong as a decoy on his right, faked a pass and then whistled home a 35-footer over Sawchuk's arm.

Bathgate-McKenney deal comes through

TORONTO (CP) — A month what the Leafs were looking for, they found it.

In the last month of the schedule, McKenney was the surprise package, firing nine goals and picking up three assists. Bathgate had three goals and 12 assists, broke his own assist record of 56 and wound up fourth in the league scoring race.

In the 14 playoff games against the Canadiens and Wings, the two ex-Rangers earned 21 points. Bathgate had five goals and four assists, McKenney four goals and eight assists — and McKenney missed the last two games because of a knee injury.

In last year's playoff against the same two opponents, Duff and Nevin had only eight points in 10 games. Duff set a record of the fastest two goals from the start of a game, beating Terry Sawchuk of Detroit at 0:49 and 1:08 of the first period in a 4-2 Leaf win. The small left winger wound up with four goals and one assist and Nevin had three goals and no assists.

IMLACH SKIRTS ISSUE
Manager-coach Punch Imlach skirted the issue when asked whether his club would have won with Duff and Nevin.

"I wouldn't have made the trade if I didn't think it would help," he said. "Bathgate and McKenney have paid off, but don't forget Duff and Nevin were good playoff players too."

After Saturday's big goal in the deciding game, Bathgate said: "I'm just thankful to be here. It's not only the first time I've ever been on a Stanley Cup winner, it's the first time I've ever been in the final. I've been with the Rangers, you know."

Neither player has seemed sorry to be away from Broadway. McKenney, who was called "Mary" by New York fans because of his lack-lustre play, doubled his goal production after he came to Toronto.

Marlies polish off Monarchs

MONTREAL (CP) — Toronto Mariboros go into Tuesday's second game of their five-game Eastern Canadian Memorial Cup final series against Montreal's NDG Monarchs looking like champs after drubbing the Monarchs 7-2 Sunday night.

Marlies' coach Jim Gregory was complaining after Sunday's game that his club was weakening for lack of strong opposition and not getting into condition for their likely series with the western champs.

These are Edmonton Oil Kings, who took the western crown by beating Estevan (Sask.) Bruins 5-0 in Estevan Saturday.

"We're getting worse instead of better," said Gregory. Another problem is that "we haven't had a line intact for a week."

Rangers beat Dondee 3-1 before 120,000 in Scottish Cup final, Liverpool win league championship

LONDON (Reuters) — Birmingham City, which spent most of the last five soccer seasons struggling near the bottom of the English League's First Division, escaped relegation to the Second Division by winning its last 1964 league match Saturday.

The club blanked Sheffield United 3-0 which means that Bolton Wanderers go down with Ipswich Town.

Manchester United, which beat Nottingham Forest 3-1, finished runner-up to Liverpool. Everton, 2-0 winner against West Ham, wound up in third place.

Manchester United and Everton qualify for the Inter-Cities Fairs Cup.

Tottenham Hotspur, which won 1-0 at Leicester, finished in fourth place.

RANGERS TAKE CUP
Meanwhile at Glasgow, two goals in 60 seconds only a minute from time gave Glasgow Rangers the Scottish Football Association Cup for the 18th time.

A crowd of 120,000 saw the Rangers beat Dundee 3-1 after a scoreless first half.

The goal that gave the Rangers a 2-1 lead came when right winger Willie Henderson sent a high cross to centre forward Jimmy Millar who jumped to time his header perfectly.

In the English League's Second Division, Leeds and Sunderland had already made certain of promotion.

The relegated clubs are Scunthorpe United, beaten 3-2 at Huddersfield, and Grimsby Town, which could only draw their

Koufax's arm not responding to treatment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sandy Koufax, who injured his arm pitching in St. Louis last Wednesday, is not responding to treatment as well as had been hoped, a doctor said Sunday.

Dr. Robert Kerlan said there had been hope Koufax would be able to pitch for Los Angeles Dodgers here next weekend in their series with San Francisco Giants.

Fred Glover leads his Barons to upsetting Quebec Aces in finals

Barons, Glover guided his team through an unprecedented nine-game sweep of the post-Hockey League records, has proved himself a fine coach as well.

The Barons came from behind to finish the job with a 5-2 victory over Quebec Saturday night.

The Aces scored early and blanked Cleveland until the second period was half gone. Then Glover benched himself and put in Len Ronson, a youngster just up from Omaha playing his second game for Cleveland.

"I had a feeling that Lennie might get it past Worsley (Quebec goalie Gump Worsley)," said Glover. "He's got a quick shot with pretty good power, and I know Worsley hadn't seen much of him."

The move paid off when Jim Mikol rifled a pass across the front of the net to Ronson, who slammed it past Worsley.

From then on the Barons were sailing. Glover scored the second goal, setting a league record of 99 points in playoff games. His 47 playoff goals and appearances in 15 playoff series also are records.

Also scoring for Cleveland were Guy Rousseau, Cecil Hoekstra and Bob Ellett. Wayne Hicks and defenceman Jim Morrison scored the Quebec goals.

The Barons, who have been in 26 playoffs in 28 seasons, were underdogs in this one after finishing the regular season in third place in the Western Division. Quebec coasted to a first-place finish in the Eastern Division.

The Barons ousted Rochester with two victories in a best-of-three-game series.

Oil Kings win Western title

ESTEVAN, Sask. (CP) — Potting three goals in the first period, Edmonton Oil Kings coasted to a 3-0 victory over Estevan Bruins before 1,753 fans Saturday night to win the best-of-seven Western Canada Memorial Cup final series 4-1 in games.

The Kings, defending Memorial Cup champions entered the final for the fourth successive year. Edmonton defeated Niagara Falls Flyers in six games last year for the title.

May Mestinek led Edmonton with two goals. Singles were scored by Red Taschuk, Butch Paul and Doug Fox. Mestinek scored in the second and third periods with his club short-handed each time.

Edmonton goaltender Russ Kirk turned aside 23 shots, the same number blocked by Wayne Doll of Estevan, in gaining his first shutout of the series.

In contrast to his 40-save effort Friday night, Kirk was seldom tested severely as the Kings earned the right to meet the Eastern Canada representatives in the best-of-seven Dominion final.

Taschuk tallied with help from Mestinek and Paul 53 seconds after winger Larry Mickey of Estevan was penalized early in the game. Estevan defenceman Don Newman was in the penalty box when Paul made the score 2-0 six minutes later.

Within less than a minute, Fox was left alone at the edge of the crease to direct home a low shot from Butch Barber.

Mestinek circled a Bruin defenceman with a pass from Paul while Fox was off with a minute left in the second period. Paul set up Mestinek again for a meaningless goal early in the third and Edmonton concentrated on preserving the shut-out for Kirk the rest of the way.

HAD LITTLE HELP
Doll, considered likely to be picked up by Edmonton for the Memorial Cup final, was not faulted on any of the Oil King tallies. The youngster, all-star Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League goaltender and Rookie of the Year, was often left to fend for himself as his defence chased the speedy and rugged Oil Kings with little success.

Celtics down Warriors to win 6th title

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Celtics, spurred by Bill Russell, mustered all their defence and teamwork for a rough 105-96 victory over San Francisco Warriors and an unprecedented sixth straight National Basketball Association championship Sunday night.

The Warriors aggressively battled to the wire before the Celtics could climax a year of dedication by wrapping up in five games the final NBA playoff series.

On tap for the Little League

Larry Osborne belis two blows to pull Maple Leafs into second place

First baseman Larry Osborne struck two blows Sunday that pulled Toronto from seventh place in the International League standings to a tie for second.

His 10th inning double and a first inning home run gave Toronto a 5-4 and 2-0 sweep of a doubleheader with Richmond, showing the Virginians into seventh place.

Columbus also swept a doubleheader 12-6 and 7-4 from Buffalo to move into the tie with the Leafs for second. Front-running Syracuse won a single game from Jacksonville 2-0. Rain washed out a Rochester-Atlanta doubleheader.

Jim McKnight saved the first game for Toronto with a three-run homer in the sixth to tie the score at 4-4. A single by third baseman Ozzie Virgil preceded Osborne's game-winning double.

Phil Ortega takes over for Koufax and stops Braves on four-hitter, Colts knock over St. Louis Cards

After pitching himself out of a permanent job with Los Angeles Dodgers for four years, Phil Ortega has hurdled himself into manager Walter Alston's heart in about two hours.

The 24-year-old right-hander, starting in place of the injured Sandy Koufax, stymied Milwaukee Braves 1-0 on four hits Sunday as the depleted Dodgers won only their third game in 12 starts. The victory, Ortega's first in the major leagues, came at a most propitious time.

Starters Koufax and Johnny Podres are sidelined with elbow injuries while relief ace Ron Perranoski can barely walk because of a thigh injury. The trio won 55 games among them last season.

"Phil may take Podres' place if Johnny doesn't come out of it," Alston said.

This is the fifth season Ortega has had a trial with the Dodgers. Even in the minors he hasn't risen to the expectations others had for him when Los Angeles signed him out of a Mesa, Ariz., high school for a reported $60,000 bonus in 1959.

TOPS DOGGER STAFF
But now his 1.20 earned run average is the best the Dodgers have. Before his shutout, he had pitched 5 2-3 innings in relief.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Philadelphia Phillies whipped Chicago Cubs 5-1, Houston Colts swept past St. Louis Cardinals 6-4 and Pittsburgh and New York Mets split a double header, the Pirates winning the first 4-3 and losing the nightcap 3-2. San Francisco Giants and Cincinnati Reds were rained out of a doubleheader.

On Saturday the Reds doubled the Giants 3-1, Milwaukee whipped the Dodgers 5-1, the Cubs tripped the Phillies 4-1, Houston defeated the Cardinals 4-2 and the Pirates shaded the Mets 5-4.

Ortega struck out three and walked only one after the Dodgers gave him a run in the first inning. He was in trouble just once, when Lee Maye tripled in the fourth. However, third baseman John Werhas grabbed Joe Torre's grounder and nailed Maye at the plate.

Los Angeles scored on Maury Willis' single, a walk, a sacrifice and Frank Howard's sacrifice fly.

Philadelphia got three home runs plus seven innings of tight pitching from Ray Culp before he tired. Tony Taylor and Gus Triandos socked solo homers while Bobby Wine unloaded a three run blast in the sixth.

St. Louis played its game with Houston under protest after an unusual inning-ending double play in the eighth when the Colts scored two runs.

Mike White scored on Rusty Staub's fly ball, but Bob Aspromonte was ruled out for leaving second before the catch. Manager Johnny Keane contended White's run shouldn't count. Aspromonte had singled home what turned out to be the winning run earlier in the inning.

Ron Hunt and Tim Harkness rallied the Mets after they threw away the first game. Hunt scored all three runs after he singled, double and tripled. Harkness, the first baseman from Lachine, Que., sent him home two of those times with singles.

The pirates won the opener on Roberto Clemente's base-loaded single in the ninth. Errors by Al Moran and John Stephenson and a walk to Bill Virdon had filled the bases.

Greene opposes Clay-Liston return bout

ROCHELLE PARK, N.J. (AP)—Abe J. Greene, commissioner of the World Boxing Association, said Sunday he is strongly opposed to a return bout between heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston.

Greene, speaking to a boxing dinner, said that to give former champion Liston another chance at the title so soon "would make suckers out of millions of American boxing followers and a mockery out of boxing administration."

Greene heaped abuse on the principals in the bout in Florida last February and renewed his call for government control of boxing.

He said: "The double-dealing contracts behind the scenes, the barnacle attachment of shady characters to Liston's camp, the eyebrow-raising distribution of his stock in his corporation, the $50,000 deal with the Clay camp which made Liston a partner in Clay's extort, all these angles are to be forgotten in the 'new deal.' If the same people are to give, they should both box the leading contenders.

White Sox rookie does job, Yanks win 5--4

RANEW FORCED, BUT DOUBLE PLAY FAILS — Merritt Ranew, Chicago Cubs catcher, is out sliding into second base on an 8th inning

Manager Al Lopez picked quite a spot for rookie left-hander Frank Kreuzer Sunday in Chicago's 2-1 win over Boston. The Red Sox were leading the White Sox 1-0 in the second inning and the bases were loaded with one out.

All Kreuzer had to worry about was the defending American League batting champ, Carl Yastrzemski, who was the next batter, and the league's leading hitter, Frank Malzone, who was on deck.

But the youngster didn't cringe. He fanned Yastrzemski and got Malzone on a grounder. End of threat and start of a 5 2-3 innings of airtight relief. As if he hadn't already won his spurs with that performance Kreuzer really scored with his manager when he dou-grounder hit by infielder Jim Stewart to Phillies' second baseman Tony Taylor, (right), shortstop Bobby Wine, who took the throw from Taylor, bled home what proved to be the winning run in the fifth. Kreuzer, who won his first big league game, allowed just three hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh. He fanned four.

YANKEES REACH .500

Elsewhere in the American League, the struggling New York Yankees finally reached the .500 level with a 5-4 victory over Baltimore Orioles. Minnesota Twins nipped Detroit Tigers 3-2 in 11 innings. Los Angeles Angels snapped a five-game Cleveland Indians' winning streak 7-0 and Washington Senators downed Kansas City Athletics 7-4.

On Saturday the Yankees whipped Baltimore 4-1, Detroit downed the Twins 5-2, Chicago topped Boston 4-2, the Athletics defeated Washington 3-1 and the Indians outlasted the Angels 2-1 in 11 innings.

The Red Sox pushed across a first inning run against starter Fritz Ackley Sunday on two hits and two walks. Joel Horlen put out that fire but Boston caught up with him in the second.

Horlen surrendered four straight hits but Boston didn't score because Bob Tillman was picked off second in the midst of the rally. Then Kreuzer came on.

The pitcher's clutch double in the fifth delivered Joe Cunningham with the winning run.

RUNS UNEARNED

The Yankees evened their record on three unearned runs, the final one coming when catcher John Orsino let a Harvey Haddix knuckler get by for a passed ball in the eighth inning. Hal Reniff was the winner in relief of Whitey Ford. Jerry Lumpe's wild throw with the bases loaded and two out in the 11th inning gave Minnesota its victory. Jim Kaat went the distance to win it. Bob Allison and Jimmie Hall homered for the Twins.

Don Zimmer crashed two home runs and Bill Skowron socked another as Washington built an early lead against Kansas City. Rocky Colavito, Jim Gentile and Manny Jimenez homered for the Athletics.

Bruce Crampton steals Palmer's script to win $40,000 Texas Open, closes with five-under par 65

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Bruce Crampton stole Arnold Palmer's script Sunday to win the $40,000 Texas Open golf tournament with the greatest come-from-behind performance of the year.

Palmer skipped the Texas Open this time, after winning it three times, but Crampton substituted beautifully for the man noted for his stretch runs. Palmer once made up eight strokes.

Crampton, the 28-year-old Australian, shot a closing five-under-par 65 over the 6,715-yard Oak Hills Country Club course to come from a tie for 16th to the championship by one stroke with 273 for 72 holes. He made up six strokes.

CHI CHI MISSES PUTT

Rodriguez had a chance to tie for it when he came into the final green seven under par for the tournament but he missed a six-foot putt.

When the final round started Sunday, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, 54-year-old two-time Texas Open champion, was leading the field with 202 for 54 holes.

Harrison held onto his lead through the first nine holes although he shot a one-over-par 36.

I.O.D.E. to hold Open House at new headquarters

RICHMOND — Udolphus Lord Aylmer Chapter I.O.D.E., of Melbourne and Richmond held the April meeting in the Legion Hall on the 10th. Mrs. J. S. MacNaughton gave the highlights of the Area Conference held in Sherbrooke, which six members of this Chapter attended. She also stated that the Provincial Chapter will hold an Open House, at their new headquarters on May 29.

Are you cool as a cucumber or are you hot under the collar? Many ways have been devised to measure the temperature of the body, but none offers more promise than the thermograms made by infrared photography. As an instrument for locating trouble spots before severe damage has been done they have a wide variety of uses. Long before there are any signs of obstructed blood vessels and incipient gangrene in the toes of diabetics, the thermogram will reveal cold spots in the affected areas. The same is true for similar obstructions due to other causes. Finding these areas early can lead to the prevention of gangrene. The obstetricians are using thermograms to locate the placenta in pregnant women to detect the presence of twins and to detect false pregnancies and the ectopic pregnancies that sometimes occur outside the uterus. One great advantage of this form of examination is that it gives information formerly obtained only with X-rays. Thus it avoids the dangers associated with irradiation of the fetus and the ovaries. An early diagnosis of pregnancy can also be made because pregnancy causes definite changes in the thermograms of the breasts and uterus. Other uses include the detection of hidden abscesses and tumors, determination of the severity of damage in a burned area and the rate of healing in wounds. The chief drawback is that the equipment is very expensive. Thermograms, when they can be used to replace X-rays, are much safer. In time, less expensive machines for this purpose may be produced. Q—I had one breast removed because of cancer. Now my arm on that side is swollen. What can I do to reduce the swelling? A—About 50 per cent of the women who have a breast removed for cancer have swelling of the arm. This is because in an effort to remove any possible cancer cells in the area your surgeon had to remove the lymph nodes and vessels that carry lymph from your arm toward your heart. Sometimes this swelling clears up in a few weeks. Meanwhile you should keep your arm raised on a pillow when you are lying down. If the swelling persists, use an elastic weave bandage.
