Divorce Dispute Grows

OTTAWA (CP) — An effort to widen the grounds for parliamentary divorce that may have repercussion in the Commons comes to a head in the Senate today.

While two CCF MPs maintain their blockade against passage of divorce bills in the Commons, the upper chamber will debate the action of its divorce committee on a petition by a Quebec resident for a divorce alleging desertion rather than the currently-recognized ground of adultery.

One aspect of the Commons filibuster by Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) and Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming) has been their contention that adultery hasn't actually been proven or that evidence of adultery has been rigged in many of the divorce bills sent by the Senate to the Commons or final approval.

Both have stated they would rather Parliament be relieved of responsibility for granting divorce for residents of Quebec and Newfoundland, which have no courts to handle such cases, and that they believe desertion is a legitimate ground for divorce.

ROEBUCK DISAGREES

In the Senate Tuesday night, Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario) said he disagrees with the action of the upper chamber's divorce committee, of which he is chairman, regarding the case of the Quebecer seeking divorce on grounds of desertion.

He said he will have more to say about this today when the committee's report comes up for adoption.

The committee voted 12 to 3 not to consider the petition for divorce.

Senator David Croll (L — Ontario) may be in the forefront of opponents of its adoption today. He is known to have planned to introduce a bill at this session to widen the grounds for granting divorce to include desertion among other things.

Meanwhile, in the hour devoted in the Commons to divorce cases Tuesday, Mr. Howard became embroiled with Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax) for his references to Ottawa lawyer A. H. Lieff, counsel for a divorce petitioner whose bill was under detailed study.

CRITICIZES LAWYER

Mr. Howard said he though Mr. Lieff was lax in not bringing out all the information on the divorce case when it was examined by the Senate divorce committee.

Mr. McCleave, chairman of the Commons private bills committee, which examines the divorce bills and the Senate committee evidence, took exception to Mr. Howard's remarks.

Mr. Howard said he's prepared to repeat his statements outside the Commons where he is not protected from legal action.

No divorce bills passed Tuesday, leaving 309 piled up on the order paper. In past sessions, divorce bills have been passed en bloc in a matter of minutes.

In other business, the Commons:

1. Gave final approval to a government bill extending for three years to July 31, 1963, controls over movement of strategic materials and other commodities, through the Export-Import Permits Act.

2. Approved a similar extension to Jan. 31, 1964, of federal grants to remove railway grade crossing hazards.

3. Gave approval in principle—second reading—to a bill increasing membership in the elected Yukon Territories council to seven from five and establishing a territorial court of appeal.

U.S. Politics Hit

K. Says Changes Void Agreements

PARIS (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev today challenged President Eisenhower's assurance that U.S. spy plane flights over Soviet territory will not be resumed, saying the pledge applies only to Eisenhower's remaining months in office.

Khrushchev told a press conference:

"It is impossible to negotiate with the United States . . . if agreements made by one person become invalid when he is no longer in office."

Khrushchev quoted the president as saying in the Big Four meeting Monday that his guarantee of no more spy flights applied only during his term.

He said the president declared "I do not know what my successor will decide."

The Communist leader drove into the Palais de Chaillot grounds in an open car, his hat off, a tight smile on his face. Booed on two earlier occasions today, he was cheered by a crowd at the entrance of the driveway.

About 1,500 newspaper men packed the hall where he appeared on a dais under the glare of flood lights.

A chorus of displeasure rumbled along the Faubourg Saint Honore as Khrushchev's car proceeded. The usually ebullient Khrushchev sat back in his limousine and looked glum.

By contrast, Eisenhower was cheered and drew shouts of "bravo" as he drove out on a visit to Notre Dame Cathedral before having lunch with the French president.

Khrushchev's 20 - minute farewell discussion with Macmillan was described by British informants as "bleak."

It was understood that the two discussed how the international situation — including the Berlin problem — would develop in the next few months as a result of the summit collapse.

The British sources said Khrushchev was definitely "not threatening" in his tone. At the same time, they said, no progress was made.

PARIS (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev set the stage today for a new blast at President Eisenhower after final frantic efforts by the West had failed to pull the Soviet premier back to the summit conference table.

Going through the preliminaries to leaving, Khrushchev and Marshal Rodeion Malinovsky, the Soviet defence minister, paid a protocal call on de Gaulle this morning, a routine gesture preliminary to the Soviet premier's departure for East Berlin and Moscow.

En route to see de Gaulle, they stopped at the British Embassy to say goodbye to Macmillan. Aides said Macmillan almost certainly would try to keep some line of personal communication with Khrushchev open despite the collapse of the summit talks.

KHRUSHCHEV BOOED

A small crowd gathered outside the British Embassy during Khrushchev's visit and they booed and whistled at the Soviet premier as he departed.

A similar small crowd in front of the French presidential palace was solemn, even glum, as it watched Khrushchev enter.

PARIS— (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev said today that if the United States resumes nuclear tests, Russia also will resume testing.

The Soviet premier also sent word that he would hold a press conference (probably about 11 a.m. ADT) before departing. This would give him a last chance in Paris to reiterate his charge that Eisenhower torpedoed the meeting by refusing to condemn

Canadian Leaders Issue Call For Cool Policies

OTTAWA (CP)—Initial reaction of Canadian political leaders to the collapse Tuesday of the summit conference was a call for cool heads in a tense world situation.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was blamed for torpedoing the Paris talks, but Commons opposition spokesmen Tuesday night pointed a finger of blame at the United States as well for giving him an opportunity to load the torpedo tube.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in the Commons Tuesday, before the actual conference breakup but at a time when it was obviously imminent, that the Paris impasse was due to the "intransigence" of the Soviet leader and not because of the stand taken by the Western Big Three.

"This is a time for moderation and good sense," he said.

There was no immediate statement from government members on the final collapse. It was indicated Mr. Diefenbaker might reserve his comment for today's Commons sitting.

"CRUDE" DEMAND

Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson said in a statement that Mr. Khrushchev capitalized to the limit on the shooting down over Soviet territory of the American U-2 spy plane—"as it should have been obvious that he would."

"But his inadmissible, indeed his crude, demand for punishment and apology was Soviet power and pressure politics at its worst," Mr. Pearson said.

"The reaction of the Western leaders, as it has been so far, should be to refuse to be intimidated by such tactics on the one hand, or to react harshly and angrily to them on the other."

Mr. Pearson, former external affairs minister and 1957 winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, said the West should draw the necessary conclusions from the summit failure.

"One of these is that summit diplomacy has its dangers and disabilities. Another is that mistakes made before it meets—and some serious ones were made by the United States in recent weeks—can prejudice its success or play into the hands of those who do not wish such success.

"Firmness and patience, wise and carefully considered words and actions now are more necessary than ever. This is no time for the 'fast draw' or for throwing away our ammunition in diplomacy or defence."

Hazen Argue, CCF leader in the Commons, described the summit failure as a great tragedy for all mankind and said the United Nations is the only organization through which the world "may even yet be brought to its senses."

"Canada, I am sure, will support with one voice every effort by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to salvage the peace of the world," he said in a statement.

Mr. Argue said the "disaster at the summit" cannot be blamed on any one side.

"The United States, by the spy plane incident, placed itself in an untenable position. This was made worse by President Eisenhower's refusal to declare immediately that no further flights would be made over Soviet territory. This whole incident is quite unforgivable.

"Mr. Khrushchev, by his anger and intractability, showed himself more interested in propaganda than agreement. He must accept the responsibility for the summit's final disintegration."

Quebec Campaign

Barrette Would Meet Lesage

MONTREAL (CP) — Liberal Leader Jean Lesage was to leave the Saguenay region today after a three-day grass roots tour while Premier Antonio Barrette carried his campaign for the June 22 provincial election into northwestern Quebec.

Mr. Barrette addressed a rally Tuesday night in St. Jerome, 30 miles north of Montreal, and promised to challenge Mr. Lesage to a public debate if the Liberals don't stop making what he called confusing statements about the federal-provincial university aid arrangement.

Mr. Lesage has maintained that new federal legislation providing an alternative system for federal grants to universities violates the province's rights in the education field.

Designed to overcome Quebec's past objections to direct grants from Ottawa, the new system enables Quebec to collect the money itself from corporation profits and gives the taxpayers an equivalent exemption from federal taxes.

QUESTIONS ESTIMATES

Mr. Lesage, winding up his three-day campaign in the Lake St. John-Saguenay district, found fault with a statement of the Union Nationale leader.

Mr. Barrette had told voters in Asbestos that the welfare program proposed by the Liberals would cost $500,000,000, Mr. Lesage said.

Mr. Lesage maintained it would cost no more than $20,000,000 and would be financed by savings and by eliminating government waste.

The social security program proposed by the Liberals includes a $10 monthly allowance for students between 16 and 18 and $10 monthly supplements for old age, blind and disabled pensioners.

Mr. Barrette said enumerators appointed on recommendation of the Liberal party in urban ridings are acting as party agents.

Such activities are clearly illegal, he said in a statement issued in Quebec City. Attorney General Antoine Rivard had been authorized to investigate.

RAPS FARM POLICY

Mr. Lesage, speaking Tuesday to an audience of farmers at Normandin, said agriculture is in a sorry state throughout the province as a result of the "do-nothing and care less" policies of the Union Nationale.

He said Premier Barrette has stated his government is working hand in hand with the federal government of Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Ottawa.

"I accuse the Diefenbaker and Barrette governments of being chiefly responsible for desertion of farms in Quebec province," he said.

Mr. Lesage is to return to Montreal today and will spend the next two days campaigning in constituencies in the eastern townships near Montreal.

Mr. Barrette is to fly to the Abitibi district and has two speeches scheduled today, one in Lasalle and one in Rouyn, a city 250 miles northwest of Ottawa.

OTTAWA (CP)—Efforts to get the late Premier Duplessis of Quebec to pay a $1,000,000 debt to the federal government were described Tuesday to the Commons railways committee investigating toll collections on Jacques Cartier Bridge in Montreal.

Premier Barrette is studying the matter, Transport Minister Hees said.

The bridge is operated by the National Harbors Board, a Crown agency, by agreement with the city of Montreal and Quebec province. Under the agreement each owed the federal government money.

The federal government succeeded in a suit against the city but no legal action was taken against the province.

Lionel Chevrier (L — Montreal Laurier), transport minister from 1945 to 1954, said he called twice on Mr. Duplessis about the matter. The first time Mr. Duplessis had said that the court action against Montreal was won because of a bad defence by the city and he didn't feel obliged to be bound by it, Mr. Chevrier said Tuesday.

CHEQUE DIDN'T ARRIVE

The second time the Quebec premier said he would send a cheque but it had never arrived.

George Marler, Liberal transport minister for 1954-57, said he called on Mr. Duplessis once and had been told: "For years you have been saying that Quebec has been having deficit accounting. How do you expect us to be able to pay?"

Mr. Hees said he was aware of Mr. Duplessis' stand.

Last December, however, he had telephoned his successor, Paul Sauve, and arranged a meeting for chairman Maurice Archer of the harbors board.

Mr. Sauve had died before that took place and Premier Barrette was approached last March. The matter still is under consideration, Mr. Hees said.

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) wondered why the federal government hadn't taken further measures to get Mr. Duplessis to pay up. Mr. Chevrier said it was up to his cabinet colleagues. He thought the matter should have been pursued legally but there was a question of law concerned—a case of the crown suing the Crown. He had gone to see Mr. Duplessis instead.

In Maryland

Kennedy Stock Boosted

BALTIMORE (AP)—A record-breaking wave of votes in Tuesday's Maryland primary election has propelled Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts closer to the Democratic presidential nomination.

Reeling off his sixth straight victory in state popularity polls for those aspiring to lead the party in the November elections, Kennedy outdrew the combined opposition almost three to one.

With Maryland's 24, he now has an unofficial total of 294½ votes toward the 761 needed for nomination at the Democratic national convention. However, these pledges only involve the first ballot. Political manoeuvring could negate the primary results at the convention itself.

Kennedy and Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, a distant runner - up in Tuesday's balloting, hook up in another primary Friday, this time in Morse's home state.

Returns from 1,353 of 1,356 polls showed Kennedy with 209,252 votes and Morse with 49,225.

Kennedy's vote was about 73 per cent of the total cast, which in turn came to about only 33 per cent of the 866,878 eligible Democrats in the state.

Electoral Pact

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—An electoral agreement was signed Tuesday between the Democratic Socialist Sri Lanka Freedom party, founded by late Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike, and the Trotskyist Lanka Sam Samaja party. The agreement is designed to eliminate contests between the two parties and form a front against the United National party in the national election July 20.

Picket Nears Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—Mr. Baxter left for Quebec City Tuesday night, bearing his mystic message high on a sandwich board.

"Articulation for middle management," the message says. For the last two days, it has puzzled passers-by on St. James Street.

City police said the man, who gave his name as Mr. Baxter, seemed to be picketing a large bank but when asked why, said he had no protest and no grievances.

"He wasn't breaking any particular law but he seemed to be bothering people so we asked him to move on," a police spokesman said. "He told us he was headed for Quebec City and then the Maritimes."

Mr. Baxter, who left Vancouver several weeks ago, has picketed in most major cities west of Montreal.

When asked what the words on the big black - and - yellow sign mean, he replied: "I'm sorry, I can't say anything."

"He must be selling something or some idea," ventured a bank employee Tuesday, "but no one knows what it is. . . ."

Centennial Committee Appointed

OTTAWA (CP) — A national, non - governmental organization was formed Tuesday to promote interest in Canada's 1967 centenary.

The new body, known as the Canadian Centenary Council, was launched at a meeting of representatives of some 50 national organizations who adopted a constitution and elected a provisional executive.

The new council is to set up a headquarters, likely in Ottawa, and ensure that the "voluntary sector" of the community is represented in preparations for the 100th-birthday party.

Chairman of the provisional executive is H. M. Wallis, president of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, who told Tuesday's meeting he is optimistic about prospects of raising the $35,000 needed for the council's first year of operations.

He had approached five presidents of big Canadian corporations. All had promised financial support.

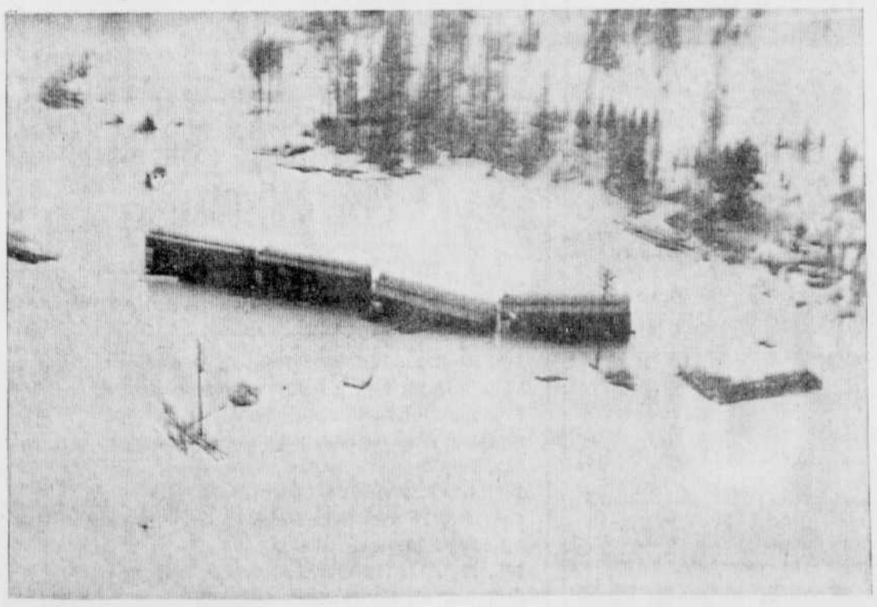
Survivors include a brother, Thomas B. Nelligan in Halifax and a sister, Mrs. Alonzo Keough of Tignish.

Fatal Argument

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A baseball argument in a tavern over the standing of the Baltimore Orioles in the American League led to the fatal stabbing of a 59-year-old Kansas City baseball fan. Robert Kean died of wounds suffered when stabbed in the abdomen with a pocket knife. Police said James F. Robertson, 47, signed a statement admitting the stabbing. He said Kean argued that Baltimore was in fourth place while he contended the team was in the second division. Both were wrong. Baltimore was in first place at the time.

Ontario Floods

Another Northern Town Abandoned



RAIL LINE FLOODED — Four box cars sit abandoned on the CNR main line between North Bay and Port Arthur at Foleyet, Ont., after a dam broke on the Ivanhoe River flooding the area. The town was completely isolated and many of its residents were evacuated by air. (CP Wirephoto)

FOLEYET, Ont. (CP) — A three - boxcar rescue train pulled out of Peterbell Tuesday, carrying the Northern Ontario hamlet's entire population of 47 persons from the flooding waters of the Missinabi River.

A breached logging dam sent the waters swirling into the area, 50 miles northwest of here on the CNR transcontinental line.

At Foleyet, on the same railway line 60 miles southwest of Timmins, the flooding Ivanhoe River was still dropping from its weekend high when another smashed dam had loosed the flood that washed away part of the town.

In Peterbell, the full force of the waters was expected to be felt today as the Missinabi was rising at the rate of two inches an hour, pouring through the dam that gave way under pressure of runoff water from rain and melting snow.

Only essential personnel were left in Peterbell by the CNR to report on the battered main line, washed out here earlier by the Ivanhoe's 13 - foot flood crest.

Montreal Area Rivers Rampage

MONTREAL (CP)—The swollen Riviere des Mille-Iles continued a destructive rise today, threatening five north - shore areas with further flooding.

Hundreds of residents in Laval West, Fabreville, St. Eustache, St. Rose and St. Therese West have reported flooded basements and garages. Police said Tuesday night the water continues to rise at the rate of one-half-inch an hour.

Some residents in Laval West and Fabreville have left their homes. Only means of travel on some streets in these communities is by boat.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When the curtain rose on Bye Bye Birdie on Broadway recently, another one fell on the dancing career of Marge and Gower Champion.

The rousing, youthful musical is one of the big winners of the New York season. The man who staged the show, including the dances, was Gower Champion. The theatre's gain is the loss of those who have enjoyed the winsome, seemingly effortless dances of the Champion team.

"I'm not saying we'll never dance again ever," said Marge. "We need only heed the experience of friends and fellow craftsmen — like Fred Astaire—before saying 'never.'

"But it is 99-per-cent sure that Gower und I will never dance professionally again. Maybe more than that—99.44—per-cent sure.

MAJOR HURDLE

"This is something we have been planning for a long time. The major hurdle was to get Gower established a s a stage director. Now he has that. The fact that he can also choreograph is the extra something, like the fact that George Abbott can also write."

What is Marge going to do, now that she has kicked off the dancing shoes?

"I have a full-time career—as wife of Gower Champion and mother of Gregg Champion," she said.

If her wife-mother duties allow, Marge would like to try her hand at straight acting. She has been taking dramatic lessons for the last two years, plans to do some summer stock this year.

Proprietors' League Rapped

Local Jaycees Urge Support For Public Works By-Law

The Sherbrooke Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday urged the Sherbrooke Proprietors' League to be more serious and objective in their studies and to use in a constructive fashion the influence they might have on public opinion.

In a statement, the Junior Chamber also said it was in favor of the $910,000 public works loan by-law to which 71 property owners, influenced by the Proprietors' League, registered their opposition last Thursday thus forcing a city-wide referendum.

The Junior Chamber said:

"The city is undergoing a considerable development, and to continue to give adequate municipal services to the population, purchases and works necessary to expansion must be made.

"That the City council adopted May 2, 1960 by-law 1065 for works and purchases necessary to the city's expansion at an estimated total cost of $910,000.

"That the Sherbrooke Proprietors' League opposed the adoption of the said by-law at a special council meeting held May 12, 1960 by demanding a referendum.

"That the apparent motive of this opposition is a personal and political dispute between certain members of the council and the directors of the Proprietors' League.

"That a referendum costs the City between $1,500 and $2,000.

"That to demand a referendum there must be a serious and justifiable reason.

"That the said by-law 1065 is for urgent and important works.

"That the work the by-law entails can ensure employment during summer months to the city's laborers.

"That 80 per cent of the works in by-law 1065 will be done in answer to property owners' demands.

"That the reimbursement of the city's obligatory debt will be done in a proportion of 34.96 per cent or $318,000.

"That the annual city's debt service will only be $26,000.

"That if the streets scheduled to be paved under the said by-law are not paved the city would have to annually pay out $30,000 for the gravelling of the streets.

Strike Tomorrow ?

Post arbitration negotiations between the International Association of Machinists local 1530 and the Combustion Engineering-Superheater Company Ltd. began at 11 this morning—only 36 hours before a scheduled strike.

If the two parties involved are unable to reach agreement by sometime tomorrow, some 300 employees are scheduled to go on strike midnight Thursday.

May 5, 130 company employees voted by secret ballot to strike within 14 days if no decision was arrived at between company and union officials.

Negotiations began April 1959 when the union demanded a 26 cents hourly wage increase should a two-year contract with the company be signed, or a 36 cents hourly wage increase should a three year contract be signed with the company.

Dies From Road Injuries

THETFORD MINES — Achille Henri, of St. Julien de Wolfe, father of nine children, died in St. Joseph Hospital here yesterday morning from injuries received when the car which he was driving collided with a truck on the Thetford Mines - Robertsonville highway Monday afternoon.

Mr. Henri was attempting to make a left turn off the highway and apparently did not see the truck, driven by Adelard Demers of Thetford Mines, coming from the opposite direction.

According to Dr. C. Mercier who attended him, Mr. Henri died of a fractured skull and a cerebral hemorrhage. A coroner's inquest yesterday afternoon returned a verdict of accidental death.

Tough For University Students

Take What's Going, Hustle To It Advice For Summer Job Seekers

By MALCOLM DAIGNEAULT
(Record Staff Reporter)

If you're a university student desiring summer employment, there's no time to be wasted.

The days have passed when almost any university undergraduate could survey the summer job field, pick a spot to his liking and then walk into it without much effort for four months.

Students can no longer be fussy about the type of work they will accept, but will have to take what's going and hustle to get it, according to National Employment Service officials in Ottawa.

Added to this is the fact that there were 828,000 unplaced Canadian job applicants at April 17 — the latest available figure.

Garth Smith, Placement Officer at Bishop's University, pointed out that unless an undergraduate, especially in arts, has connections through his family or elsewhere, things are a bit tough this year.

Roger Chartier of N.E.S., who who handles applicants from the University of Sherbrooke, was a little more optimistic. "Things are somewhat better than last summer, particularly in construction," he said.

He hastened to add however, that there was certainly no crying demand for summer students in this area and if they want work, they have to get out and find it.

Last year he took the applications of 175 students and found jobs for 59 of them. Of the others, a good many found jobs on their own, but some spent the summer loafing. At the end of April this year, he had had nearly 50 applicants and they have been coming in at the rate of five per day since then.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that the situation is about the same in all provinces except Ontario where all appears well with the job-hunting student.

The survey also showed that in the toughest spot are students in the professional faculties — medicine, law, pharmacy, dentistry education — especially freshmen. Even some of the engineering students who needed practical summer experience were having difficulty finding work.

For students in this area, the best bet is to visit Mr. Chartier a the N.E.S. office and make out an application, then get out and look for work independently. With a little luck and a lot of pavement-pounding, a job might come your way.

Model UN Report Is Given

Four students from the district who attended the 10th annual Model Assembly of the United Nations at Plymouth, N. H., presented their reports to the Sherbrooke Rotary Club sponsors of the trip, last night.

Robert Reynolds of the Sherbrooke High School, Margaret Pearson of Marymount High School, Douglas Monk of Bishop's College School and Sybil Fish of Lennoxville High School covered the event well, giving both a general picture and specific examples of Assembly proceedings.

Each of the students was introduced in turn by Rotarian Wright Gibson, chairman of the International Service Committee, who accompanied them on their trip. The local students were the only Canadians represented, he said, at this Assembly sponsored by two Rotary Districts in cooperation with Plymouth Teachers College.

Robert Reynolds gave a picture of the general set-up, mentioning the 150 delegates from 91 high schools in Vermont, New Hampshire and Quebec who attended and the way they were divided into groups, each group representing a member nation of U.N., and having a student teacher advisor.

Time was allotted to committee meetings, bloc and plenary sessions with the general purposes of admitting a state to UN membership and passing resolutions.

Boy, Six, Is Struck By Car

A six-year-old boy is in Hotel Dieu Hospital today with a fractured leg and undetermined head injuries after being struck by a car early yesterday evening at the intersection of Galt West and Cabana Streets.

Jacques Houde of 1323 Cabana Street was playing on the sidewalk and chased a ball into the street. The driver of the car, Ulric Rouillard, 41, of 1470 Caron Street, was unable to avoid the boy who was struck by the right front side of the car, police said.

Hospital authorities said this morning that the boy's condition was satisfactory.

LOW ACCIDENT RATE — O. Goyette of the Shell Oil Co. of Canada congratulates Sherbrooke Police Chief Edouard Moreau on the low rate of accident fatalities in Sherbrooke at a dinner hosted by the Province of Quebec Safety League in the Sherbrooke Hotel last night. At left is pro-mayor Robert Gauthier and in centre is P. Leboeuf, General Manager of the Safety League.

Fatality Every 8 Hours In Quebec

92% Of All Highway Accidents Said Caused By Human Errors

Every eight hours, someone is killed on the highways of Quebec, Police Chief Edouard Moreau of Sherbrooke told guests of the Province of Quebec Safety League at a dinner in the Sherbrooke Hotel last night.

The increase in the number of vehicles on the roads is only a partial explanation and not a satisfactory one, he said.

To illustrate his meaning, Chief Moreau pointed out the fact that only eight per cent of all highway fatalities are caused by uncontrollable factors such as mechanical failure or bad roads.

Seventy per cent of these accidents are the fault of the driver and 22 per cent the fault of the driver and a pedestrian combined.

"It is therefore clear that if we could eliminate the factor of human error, we would eliminate 92 per cent of our highway fatalities," he said.

In attacking this problem, Chief Moreau emphasized the need for public education on highway safety. This would have to include education of cyclists and pedestrians of all ages as well as motorists.

Most important of all, in his belief, was the need to educate children because the safe-walking or bicycle riding child of today will be the safe-driving motorist of tomorrow.

Chief Moreau cited facts to prove the need for this education. In this province last year, one car in every nine was involved in an accident which made for a total of 66,033 accidents. As a result, 871 people died and 19,852 people were injured, many of them becoming invalids for life.

Accidents on our highways and streets last year took the lives of more children than did the seven deadliest diseases combined, he said.

In concluding, Chief Moreau appealed to his listeners to preach highway safety by word and by deed, everywhere they went.

Following his speech, Chief Moreau was presented with a certificate lauding the low accident record of the City of Sherbrooke, by Paul Leboeuf, General Manager of the Quebec Safety League.

The Villain And The Goats

The summit, as was expected, is to all intents and purposes reduced to a mere molehill.

The people of the West need not be unduly discouraged over this. It had been freely forecast by political experts and by statesmen that not too much in the way of tangible results could be expected to come out of the summit meeting.

Their most optimistic hope was that at least fruitful discussion could be held, paving the way for future talks and eventually, some concrete solutions.

So the end result of the abruptly-concluded summit meeting was probably only slightly worse than it might have been had the conference run out its natural course.

Mr. Khrushchev's behavior at the meeting was, to put it midly, a distinct disappointment. Most of the reasons for this have been laid by observers to domestic problems in Russia.

Many say that other Red leaders favor a tougher line in foreign policy than Mr. Khrushchev had been following up until the time of the summit conference.

He was, they say, simply looking for an excuse to reduce the conference to shambles and call off Mr. Eisenhower's visit.

He found more than ample excuse in the spy plane incident.

No one will blame the Americans for the failure of the conference. Mr. Khrushchev has that all to himself.

But the fact cannot be avoided that if Mr. Khrushchev was the villain of the piece, the Americans were the goats.

Rather than keepnig a discreet, diplomatic silence on the whole U-2 incident, and sticking to their guns, they blurted out a confession unparalleled in the annals of international espionage.

It was this amazing compulsion to "tell all" that gave Mr. Khrushchev his golden opportunity at the summit.

Arsonists Busy

A Canadian fire investigation expert said this week that arson is probably the cause of 30 per cent of the huge yearly fire-loss total in this country.

J. W. Ensinck, general manager of the Fire Underwriters Investigation Bureau of Canada, Inc., said that while annual figures show incendiary fires have about doubled in Canada and the United States in the last 10 years, the arson situation is far more serious than these figures indicate.

He called for more and better investigation of fire, more prosecutions even in cases where the evidence does not appear particularly strong, and heavier penalties for arson convictions.

Quite apart from these considerations — which are important ones — Mr. Ensinck's observations bear out what many professional fire-fighters in this province have been saying for some time.

The gist of their argument is that no matter how much time and money is spent on fire prevention, sufficient up-to-date equipment and strong, trained fire-fighting forces are needed to take care of the many other fires — the purposely-set ones to which Mr. Ensinck referred — which cannot be prevented.

Too often, it is thought that an excellent and continuing fire prevention campaign is all that is needed in a community to keep fire losses to a minimum.

Such a campaign ,of course, is tremendously worthwhile, but it should be not conducted at the expense of a proper fire-fighting force.

Only a fire department can cope with the large percentage of fires set by arsonists.

Neglected Graveyards

The problem of maintaining in good order the older cemeteries, as emphasized by the developments at Waterloo during the past few weeks, is one of growing concern in many Eastern Townships communities. This is especially true where the original English-speaking Protestant population has been replaced by residents of another language and faith.

In earlier years, the idea of perpetual maintenance funds to assure the continuation of proper care for burial grounds was little accepted. For the most part the people of those days believed that following generations would gladly accept the responsibility for keeping the last resting places of their ancestors in good order.

Unfortunately, the succeeding generations moved to other fields until too often there was no one left in a community to concern themselves with the maintenance of these cemeteries.

In many cases the cemeteries were not incorporated and had no other assets than the land actually occupied as grave areas. In a few cases there were modest endowments, but with the removal of the descendents of the original lot owners, the cemetery associations became dormant with no one being in a position to make use of the funds for their designated purpose.

Perhaps the most practical proposal for meeting the problem would be to create some central association in each area which could gather together the funds necessary to provide a minimum of maintenance for all known graveyards.

Following Margaret And Antony

Royal Romance Tourist Trail

LONDON (Reuters)—Tourists visiting Britain this year may want to do the latest thing many Britons are doing — trace the lives and royal romance of Princess Margaret and her commoner husband.

The tourist's trail up to 900-year-old twin-towered Westminster Abbey—taking in the sites most closely associated with the early lives and 80 - day engagement of the newlyweds—provides a series of contrasts from Bohemian shabbiness to the most preening elegance.

It envelops the glitter of London's theatreland, the places of kings, a dockside studio, rolling green lands of country mansions and a haunted castle. It moves from the south of England to the west country and on to Scotland's Aberdeenshire mountains.

* * *

The natural starting place is the huge, grey, colonnaded Buckingham Palace, where Antony Armstrong - Jones lived in the weeks immediately preceding the marriage.

About 300 yards from the palace stands Clarence House, the home of the Queen Mother, and, until her marriage, of Princess Margaret.

In the City of Westminster, hard by other historic sites, is Eaton Terrace, an elegant early 19th-century row of houses. Number 25 is singled out to snapshot artists now as the place where Armstrong-Jones was born May 7, 1930. The house still belongs to his mother, the Countess of Rosse.

To the southwest lies the shabby Bohemian area of Pimlico. Armstrong-Jones lived in a modest apartment on Pimlico Road, working as a photographer until his move to Buckingham Palace.

Still in west London, one of the top tourist attractions is the 18th-century residence the Queen has given the couple as their home. Only three feet separates it from Kensington Park, a popular strolling place, and next door is the admission-free London Museum.

* * *

The city's lively theatreland north of Trafalgar Square has been a favorite haunt of both Antony and Margaret for many years. In it is the Covent Garden Opera house, mecca of the country's opera and ballet, where the couple made their first public appearance together at a gala ballet performance after the announcement of their engagement Feb. 26.

In London's grimy east - end dockland is a small timbered house on Rotherhithe Street. This is where Tony rented a single, plain, white-painted room as an additional studio.

Thirty miles upriver stands massive Windsor Castle, built more than 800 years ago by William the Conqueror. At the royal lodge in its extensive wooded park, Margaret and Antony announced their engagement.

A journey across East Anglia brings the tourist to Sandringham House, another of the Queen's residences. Antony visited his princess there and at Balmoral Castle, set in the heart of Scotland's lovely Deeside and surrounded by Aberdeenshire mountains.

Margaret was born at Glamis Castle, in County Angus, about 40 miles south of Balmoral. Said to be "the most haunted house in Britain," the many - turreted baronial castle has belonged to her ancestors since the 14th century.

matter of FACT

It took two murders to spark the enactment of a bill to save the beautiful birds of the Everglades. Plume traders had nearly wiped out whole species of herons and egrets by 1900. The murder of two Audubon Society wardens set off the public indignation that finally led to effective protection laws.

Remarkable Traffic Safety Record

New Medicine Hat Campaign

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—A two-year-old girl was killed in 1954 when she fell from the back of a milk truck in Medicine Hat. The reaction to the fatal accident led to one of the most successful safety campaigns in North America.

This spring a Calgary family driving through this southern Alberta city of 23,000 rammed their car into the back of a truck hauling power poles. An 11-year-old girl in the car was killed, bringing an end to 5½ years free of road fatalities.

Those responsible for the safety program—police and safety offidials—were shocked and disappointed, as were the people of this safety - conscious city, but they soon buckled down for a new campaign aimed at bettering their mark of 1,980 days, a record for North American cities of more than 20,000.

But police chief A. R. Bull says his department is not considering any crackdown as a result of the fatal accident of April 14.

* * *

"We believe in a policy of steady enforcement in traffic laws," he said. "I don't believe in crackdowns. Steady enforcement without a lot of publicity is the best safety program."

But the city is taking steps to tighten its program. Instead of warnings for drivers of faultily-equipped automobiles, it will begin issuing court summonses. And a jay-walking bylaw is being considered.

What are the major contributing factors to Medicine Hat's safety record?

In 1955, a year after the death of Wendy Starling, the city's Safety Council put on a campaign for an accident-free Christmas season. Hazardous corners were marked, high hedges that might obstruct vision were ordered trimmed, and corners with high accident rates were listed for signs.

* * *

It was decided that, for the most part, adults were beyond the influence of basic safety education but that a campaign should be undertaken among pre-school and school children.

The Safety Council began conducting safety lessons in all grades. A service club helped by sending members to parks and playgrounds. Dressed as Elmer, the safety elephant, they taught safety to pre-school youngsters.

Since then more than 4,000 children have been given safety instruction. Pedestrian habits are taught up to the Grade III level and the Pedal Pushers' Club emphasizes bicycle safety for older pupils.

In junior and senior high schools, authorities attempt to impress new drivers with the importance of proper attitudes and responsibilities. The idea is that after the age of 16 or 17 it is difficult to change the habits of drivers.

* * *

The April 14 accident occurred when Marilyn Shortreed was struck by a pole that pierced the roof of the car driven by her father. The truck carrying the poles was moving slowly at the time.

Residents of Medicine Hat were particularly disturbed because the accident involved an automobile from out of town. It came at a time when plans were being made for a civic celebration May 4 to mark the 2,000th fatality-free day.

Instead, citizens formed a committee to plan a giant May 4 safety rally. But this met with a general lack of interest and it was cancelled. This was another cause for concern among safety authorities but they are hopeful that the years of education will serve to offset the discouragement over the termination of Medicine Hat's impressive record.

OLD WEATHER VANES

(Ottawa Journal)

The weather vane is disappearing. There are a few left on solid old barns up the Valley, even a handful in the city; but most lie broken and rusting in tool sheds, or pose in the antique shops to attract tourist in search of quaint artifacts of another age. Once every farm had its vane, a crowing cock or a trotting hackney, a simple arrow or a fine brass model of a champion of the breed of cattle favored by the farmer.

Meteorlogists today tell us that weather forecasting is not a science but an art; sometimes, it seems, an abstract art. In the day of the weather vane it was a part of life. A man who could predict the weather was not a forecaster, he was a prophet. He had his weather vane, sometimes a barometer or a rheumatic knee, and a collection of ancient verse and fable.

Enough blue sky in the west to make a Dutchman's trousers was a sign of clearing.

The wind's significance was not only in its direction but also in its timing:

When the wind's before the rain.

Soon we may makes sail again.

When the rain's before the wind.

Then your sheets and halyards mind.

Significance of signs varied through the day:

Red sky at night, shepherd's delight;

Red in the morning, shepherd take warning.

A mackerel sky:

Not very long wet or not very long dry.

The weather seemed a more personal thing. If a man forecast a storm it was welcome when it came because it was "my storm". Now the weather seems to be imposed on us by meteorological order-in-council. We used to feel we had a vote.

U.S. PLANTS IN EUROPE

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

Since the end of the last war United States manufacturers have found it profitable to meet British and European competition by establishing branch plants in those countries. Chiefly by means of lower wages they have been able to produce goods much cheaper than in their American plants; so much so in some cases that they have been able to import products from their overseas plants and sell cheaper than the home plant could.

Europeans are now beginning to have second thoughts about the big influx of U.S. firms setting up operations in Western Europe.

Several years ago, when this invasion from across the Atlantic started in earnest, Europeans generally were very happy about it. The material advantages to Europe were many: dollars capital came in, new manufacturing methods were tried, new sales techniques were introduced, Europeans got jobs, and so on. Also, the feeling was that, if Americans became heavily involved in Europe, there was less chance that the U.S. would ever again become isolationist.

But now growing competition is increasing not only in European markets but also in overseas export markets. For example, textiles made by European affiliates of U.S. firms are giving established European producers a bad time.

American industries have $28,000,000,000 dollars invested in other countries, including South America and investment is expanding at the rate of a billion dollars a year. Obviously, such business is going to harm native industries as well as help them. It is a form of trade that cuts both ways.

SPEEDING THE NON-PARTING GUEST

(B.B.C. Newsletter)

However gregarious you maybe, there are times when guests overstay their welcome. "When we lived in London, almost on top of the Marble Arch", said Mrs. Diana Kareh in a BBC broadcast, "our friends dropped in to see us as they passed by, and we also received endless streams of hitherto unknown visitors who had been given our address by relatives and friends abroad. We enjoyed constant interruptions, but inevitably we sometimes got stuck with a chap who was either too shy to say he ought to be going home, or too dim to notice that we were almost dead on our feet, or, worst of all, too fond of his own voice to stop talking.

"The shy ones could generally be pushed towards the door without too much bruising; but there's nothing short of sheer rudeness to get rid of the bores and dimwits. With persistent stayers we would sometimes adopt the line of preparing for bed. Bed, in those days, was a perilous scaffolding of bunks to the side of all the rest of the clutter in the room. By the time we'd got the top layer of clothes off, all but the most egoistical of orators would be shuffling to their feet and making their farewells.

We had one such regular in particular, a somewhat mixed-up, middle-aged artist of no fame, who on one occasion sat and talked his way through us getting undressed, and into our bunks - well past one o'clock in the morning; and to this lullaby we slept. When we woke up in the morning he was gone - rather to our surprise."

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

I think we should note with enthusiastic approval the action of the school boards in this area to organize some English-speaking classes in technical instruction at the high school level in Sherbrooke next year. Advertisements have appeared in the local papers, instructing prospective students that such courses will be available. At the present time the high school authorities are circulating questionnaires among the students to see who would be inclined to take this sort of training.

This is a wonderful step forward in education in our area. Now we shall doubtless be able to save scores of boys and girls for a technical high school training who otherwise would have dropped out of the regular high school course before they finished it. Also we will now have trained artisans and mechanics to take active part in our industry in this area.

The congratulations of the English speaking public in the Eastern Townships certainly should go to our educational authorities at this time.

Very truly yours,
Arthur C. Hill

Sir:

The statement made by the member for Port Arthur in the House of Commons, that the people of Quebec have a superiority-complex, has provoked discussion in the French Press of this province as well as in other circles. Whether the accusation was a compliment, or insinuation is of little moment. It is quite evident that in the opinion of Mr. Fisher Quebec has become aggressively asserting in demanding that its rights be respected, and its inhabitants given the same opportunities as those enjoyed by the English speaking majority.

The average Quebecer, whether on the farm or employed in industry, is a humble individual. Hitherto he was quite complacent and content to allow the leaders of industry, finance, and even government to get the lion's share of credit for the progress made in their several fields. The new generation however is determined to make its influence felt in every sphere of influence and human endeavour. They are bolder in their attitude when emphasizing their just claims to consideration. Enjoying better educational facilities than earlier generations, they have developed a keenness of intellect coupled with an ambition to occupy positions of importance for which they are qualified.

In former decades there was - and may yet be - a type of English speaking Canadian who suffered from a superiority complex when comparing himself with the French Canadian. He overlooked the biological fact that the people of Quebec inherited from their ancestors those qualities of mind and heart that gave France the distinction and eminence it enjoyed for several centuries.

One's judgment may be colored by interest or prejudice, but facts are stubborn things.

French Canada has given us statesmen of eminence and merit, distinguished soldiers, talented artists, scholarly jurists of both bench and bar, outstanding prelates and educators. There is therefore every reason for the people of Canada's oldest province to possess a superiority complex, if they were so inclined, but they are not, since all they seek is that recognition and credit to which they are entitled, and may lay claim to as loyal Canadians. The people of not one of the ten provinces are as politically minded as those of Quebec; this has been demonstrated in more than one election since Confederation. They saved Canada for the Empire and Commonwealth, when they could have cast off their allegiance by joining the American Republic; they preferred however to retain their rights in the matter of language and faith under the British Crown. In the measure that Quebec develops its enormous resources will it exercise greater influence in the national councils. Only those who have spent a lifetime with the kind and tolerant people of Quebec can appreciate their many qualities. The rights of minorities are nowhere more respected than in Quebec; Archbishop Carrington has testified to this. If pride of race and nationality are now more positively manifesting themselves, it is proof that the people of Quebec, constructing as they do, one of the principal true marks of freedom and democracy, have every right to be given that respect and appreciation which they have earned because of their adherence to the ideals and traditions, which they cherish and will maintain at all costs.

JACOBY On Bridge

WHEN TO RAISE MAJOR SUIT BID

One of the most valuable lessons an inspiring bridge player can learn is that when he can raise his partner's major suit bid, the time to do so is right away and not later on when the bidding may have gotten away from him.

Now take a look at the North hand. Your partner has opened one spade and West has overcalled with two hearts. You have one ace, as your sole high card, but you do have four spades and a singleton heart.

It appears to be the opponents' hand and your first impulse may be to bury your head in the sand like an ostrich and pass. If everyone else passes, the opponents will meake two hearts and possibly overtricks, but they don't have to pass.

Suppose East jumps to four hearts. Now you have a real problem. From your hand they probably will make four hearts, but are you going to bid four spades with a hand that you couldn't bid two spades with? Of course not!

Actually, whether you pass or bid two spades, East is going to jump to four hearts, but if you have bid two spades, your partner will surely go to four. He will realize that his hand has little defense, but plenty of attacking possibilities once you have given him a raise.

Of course, the swing is terrific. If South takes the trouble to finesse for the king, he will make five spades while all East has to do to make four hearts is to pull trumps as soon as he gets the lead and to concede whatever tricks in the black suits that haven't already been taken by North and South.

You, South, hold:

What do you do??

A—Bid two spades. This raise may shut out the opponents if your partner has an ordinary overcall and it gives him a chance to go on if he has a very good one.

TODAY'S QUESTION

West passes and your partner bids three spades. What do you do now?

United States espionage flights over Soviet territory.

Eisenhower and other Western leaders meanwhile were assessing the danger of new cold war crises likely to result from Khrushchev's explosion of personal and official hostility toward the American leader during the last two days.

Western diplomats fear the Soviet Union now may develop an increasingly tough and risky policy toward the Western allies. A new Berlin crisis is a possibility.

FUTURE HOPES GONE

The future of disarmament hopes also was entangled in the wreckage of the summit conference.

Gone was the plan of Prime Minister Macmillan to make the Paris summit meeting the start of a series of top-level peace-making conferences. The failure of the summit conference also buried president de Gaulle's hopes of arranging a detent, or cold war truce.

Eisenhower, de Gaulle and Macmillan scheduled a late-afternoon Western conference at the Elysee Palace, following a meeting of their foreign ministers at the French foreign office.

Indications were that Eisenhower and Macmillan would leave Paris Thursday. Eisenhower is due to go home by way of Portugal, where he will visit Lisbon for two days. Macmillan is expected to report to the House of Commons in London Thursday.

The Western leaders in a mild joint statement blamed Khrushchev for the summit failure but for the record left the door open to resumption of East-West talks by saying they "remain ready to take part in such negotiations at any suitable time in the future."

BLAMED U.S.

A parallel Russian statement pointed the finger of blame at the U.S., saying: "It is common knowledge that it was the U.S. government which, by the aggressive actions against the Soviet Union on the eve of the summit conference and by its persistent refusal to bear responsibility for these actions, had torpedoed the conference, awaited with such hopes by all nations of the world."

The Soviet statement also declared readiness to negotiate, but restated Khrushchev's condition that "the United States remove the obstacle which hampers the beginning of the conference"—meaning Eisenhower's refusal to apologize for the U.S. spy flights over Russian territory and to punish those responsible for the flights.

The Western and Soviet declarations were issued at the end of a long, hectic day of diplomatic manoeuvres in which Macmillan and de Gaulle unsuccessfully tried to get Khrushchev to drop his demands on Eisenhower and get down to negotiations on disarmament, the German issue and an easing of East-West tensions.

The end finally came in a 75-minute meeting between Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Russia's Foreign Minister Gromyko.

ARGUMENTS FAIL

Lloyd again argued that Eisenhower's announcement Monday that spy flights had been called off should be enough for Khrushchev. But Gromyko stuck firmly to Khrushchev's stand that summit negotiations must wait for six or eight months, to let the dust settle.

Western diplomats believe Khrushchev wants to wait and negotiate with the man who will succeed Eisenhower next January, following the U.S. election in November.

The Russian refusal to negotiate until Eisenhower did penance for the aerial espionage apparently did not extend to the negotiations in Geneva on disarmament and for a nuclear test ban.

But Western diplomats now see no prospect for progress in Geneva, where the two conferences had adjourned to wait for the Big Four to solve the deadlocks which had developed on major issues. Western officials now assume that these deadlocks will be deepened by the renewed cold war atmosphere likely to follow the summit breakdown.

The College of General Practice is an educational body, chartered by federal enactment, with provincial chapters. It scrutinizes educational attainments of each applicant before he is accepted.

The meeting will include a paper by Dr. Paul Chevalier, assistant in the department of surgery at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Sherbrooke, on "initial management of chest injuries."

tor of the Canadian Citizenship Council and secretary of the executive, said the council will co-operate closely with the governmental centennial committee, made up of four federal cabinet ministers and one minister from each province.

The new council will act as a clearing house and information centre and provide centenary planning facilities and services. A big task, according to its constitution, will be to establish principles and objectives for the centenary and "direct public attention to them."

A pro tem committee, chosen at a February meeting in Montreal of the founding organization, was named the provisional executive. Two names were added—Maurice Chartrand, representative of Le Chambre de Commerce du District de Montreal, and Mrs. John McLean of Eureka, N.S., a representative of the Federated Women's Institutes.

The other members are Andre Bechand, director of public relations of the University of Montreal, and four Ottawa residents—Mrs. G. V. Haythorne, representing the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation; Norman Dowd, executive secretary of the Canadian Labor Congress; Robbins Elliott, executive director of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, and Rev. Andre Renaud, general director of the Indian and Eskimo Welfare Commission of the Roman Catholic Oblate Fathers.

Party Lines Appearing In NB Election

FREDERICTON (CP) — Two major points have emerged in campaigning for New Brunswick's general election June 27.

Progressive Conservative Premier Flemming emphasizes the importance of what government will represent the province at the Dominion-provincial fiscal conference opening in Ottawa July 25.

Liberal Leader Louis J. Robichaud, 34, says a Liberal government would call a special legislature session to deal with various matters, including the national hospital insurance plan and administration of the province's liquor laws.

The Liberal party opposes premium payments for this insurance coverage and contends it should be paid from general revenue. Mr. Flemming says this could be done only at the expense of another service.

Mr. Robichaud said the legislature should debate "the whole problem of liquor control in a nonpartisan way and reach a firm decision as to how it can best be enforced in the general public interest."

NO PLATFORMS YET

Although the law limits sale of liquor, wine and beer in the bottle at government stores, numerous clubs are allowed to serve these drinks by the glass.

The party platforms have yet to be made public. Since the 61-year-old premier's May 6 announcement of the election date, the two leaders have been attending nominating conventions.

Liberals made an early start in choosing candidates and so far have picked 30, leaving 22 to go for a full slate. The Conservatives have 19 in the field.

No major third-party bid is anticipated. A CCF spokesman said he did not expect his group to contest the election. A Social Credit spokesman said his party has made no definite plans. The last election, in 1956, had no CCF candidates. In 1952 Mr. Flemming and his supporters ended a 17-year Liberal reign, winning 36 of the 52 seats.

The house standing at dissolution: Conservatives 34, Liberals 13, Independent Liberal one and vacancies four.

Community Hospitals Response To Demand

Over the years, the public demand has been for more and more efficient community hospitals, where the vast majority of medical problems can be properly treated, Dr. Hector McDougall of Sherbrooke told a joint meeting of the Magog and Sherbrooke Kiwanis Clubs Monday night.

"To fulfill this public demand, certain basic things were required," he said. First was for professional personnel with special skills comparable to their urban counterparts to establish themselves permanently in these communities. Then funds had to be acquired to provide necessary facilities for efficiently carrying out medical care, funds to maintain these facilities at 100 per cent efficiency and funds to provide new equipment to keep up with scientific advancements.

Using Sherbrooke Hospital as an example, Dr. McDougall cited specific instances.

Ten years ago the pathological, bacteriological and biochemical laboratories were run by two technicians and a part-time pathologist, he said. But in 1959 the hospital had a staff of seven technicians, one full-time pathologist and a full-time biochemist. Additional necessary modern equipment costing $15,000 has been purchased in the past four years in this department.

Dr. McDougall listed some expenses in other departments and emphasized that all services provided were vital. With advancing scientific knowledge, rising costs of living and uncertainty of government subsidies, we must do everything in our power to support our institution, he concluded.

The three other speakers discussed specific resolutions put forward by committees and of amendments to and rejections of these resolutions. Margaret Pearson dealt with the Algerian situation, Douglas Monk with the Unification of Germany and Sybil Fish with the Admission of the Peoples' Republic of China.

The speakers were thanked by Fred Pattison.

A new member Gordon Shaw, was presented to the club by Fred Sangster and welcomed by President Lyman Tomkins, formal induction to take place later.

Guests at the meeting included Rotarians Chick Simpson of Verdun and Don Ross of Bellows Falls, Vt., and Peter Welsh, W. B. Scott of Grand'Mere and Edward Perry, principal of Lennoxville High School.

Nikita Hanged

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—An effigy of Nikita Khrushchev was found hanging from a lamp post in downtown Cedar Rapids Tuesday. Tacked to the well-padded dummy was a note which read: "Death to Khrushchev, the fat man." Police, who removed the dummy, said they didn't know who was responsible.

Freak Hailstorm

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Tons of ice piled up in some parts of this western Pennsylvania community during a 15-minute hailstorm Tuesday. Hail piled up as high as 18 inches, and broke 50,000 panes of glass.

Bedford Celebrations

Bugle, Drum Corps Featured For May 24

BEDFORD (Special) — After being without a band for some years, Bedford will again have one. The Bedford Bugle and Drum Corps, has been formed, and from May 21-25, a series of events will be held in the town, to celebrate Victoria Day, and the first public performance of the Bedford Bugle and Drum Corps.

The celebration will open on May 21, with the arrival of several troops of French Boy Scouts from Montreal and surrounding areas, who will be in camp over the holiday weekend on the property of Mr. Jean Lamarre on the Stanbridge East Road. On Sunday May 22 the Scouts will parade from St. Joseph's Convent to the Soldier's Monument to raise the flag and to open several days of celebration.

On May 23 there will be a parade sponsored by the band, including floats, horses and a number of majorettes, the St. Albans Bugle and Drum Corps of St. Albans, Vt.

The parade will start at Moreau Street, circling the town, returning by way of Dutch Street, Rix Avenue and River Street to Moreau Street. This will be followed by the Scouts camp fire, at which all are welcome.

On May 24, in the evening, the Philipsburg Cadets will hold a parade through the town, returning to St. Joseph's Convent, where they will give a gymnastic display.

The celebrations will conclude on May 25, when a street dance will be held in front of the Town Hall, to which all are welcome.

Derby Line To Vote On Interchange

DERBY LINE (Special) — A special meeting for the legal voters of the Village of Derby Line will be held May 31 at 8 p.m. in the Village hall to have an open discussion about the proposed interchange for Derby Line and vicinity from the proposed new Interstate highway.

Voters will indicate by vote if the location of this interchange is desired to be either at where the proposed new highway crosses Caswell Ave., or where the proposed new highway crosses on Route U. S. 5, approximately one-half mile south of the village of Derby Line.

At this same meeting the voters will elect a committee of three persons to try to have this interchange located where the village has voted it would like to have it.

Quiet Day For Royal Honeymoon

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Honeymooning Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones planned to visit the undersea gardens at Buccoo reef today, their second day off the royal yacht Britannia since leaving England after their wedding May 6.

Anchoring off Tobago Island Monday night, the couple went swimming Tuesday at Golden Grove Bay and spent the day at the cottage of Frank Latour, owner of a Tobago estate. A guard of police and security officers ensured the honeymooners' privacy. They returned to the yacht Tuesday night.

The couple planned to spend today and Thursday around Tobago and then visit Port of Spain, capital of the British West Indies Federation, for several days. Governor Sir Edward Beetham declared Tobago and its territorial waters a prohibited area for the duration of the couple's stay. All roads were blocked off to keep sightseers away.

Takes Own Life

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A 26-year-old woman convict died Tuesday, police said, a few hours after she ate a deadly mash made from crushed rosary beads and a powder form of rat poison. Mrs. Judy Majestic, mother of two children serving time on charges of passing worthless cheques, left a note saying she killed herself because she could no longer stand the shame of being a convict.

OBITUARIES

MRS. STEWART CARTER OF CHARLESTON, N. H.

HUNTINGVILLE — Mrs. Stewart Carter, the former Stella Ellis, in her 46th year, passed away suddenly at her home on Wednesday, May 11, 1960, at Charleston, N.H.

Mr. Carter arrived home at the noon hour from his teaching duties and discovered his wife dead on the bathroom floor. Death was due to coronary thrombosis.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Carter leaves two daughters, Beverly, Mrs. Charles Jensen, of Long Island, N.Y., and Gail, at home.

The funeral was held on Friday, May 13. Among relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. Ross Carter, of North Hatley, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Aldrich, of Brompton. Mr. Carter is well-known here having spent part of his boyhood in Huntingville. He attended Lennoxville High School and made his home with his sister, the late Mrs. Harry Aldrich, and Mr. Aldrich.

WILBUR R. BORDEN, OF BEDFORD

BEDFORD — The death took place on Tuesday, May 10 at his home, 7 River Street, of Wilbur R. Borden, who passed away suddenly after an illness of a few hours.

Mr. Borden, who would have been 75 in August next, was the only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Borden and had spent the greater part of his life in Bedford. For some years Mr. Borden lived in Watertown, N.Y., also in Swanton, Vt., and Montreal. He returned to Bedford 37 years ago, filling the position of superintendent of the local branch of Torrington Company for many years. He retired several years ago.

He was a Mason and last September was presented with the 50-year jewel of the order. Mr. Borden was a member of St. James Anglican Church, where the funeral was held on Thursday afternoon, preceded by the Masonic service at his home. The rector, Rev. W. J. White, officiated at the funeral, which was attended by the members of Bedford Lodge, No. 60, A.F. and A.M.

The bearers were two cousins, Clifford and Lyall Rhicard, of Stanbridge East, and members of the staff of the Torrington Company, George Harland, John Cook, Malcolm McCaw and Raymond Whitcomb.

An important message from the President of Canadian Oil

The day after tomorrow this corporation will announce a petroleum achievement of profound significance to motorists throughout Canada. Until now, this has remained a closely guarded secret.

Late last year our chemists in Sarnia, working in collaboration with international petroleum leaders, succeeded in developing two new gasolines that combine—for the first time in Canada—the major benefits known to petroleum chemistry. The total research of the Fifties is now ready to bring you a new kind of gasoline for the Sixties.

The symbol you see below stands for this achievement—and the two new White Rose motor fuels that it created.

We recognize that, in recent years, confusing claims and semi-scientific names have made it difficult to separate promotional fiction from petroleum fact.

There will be no such mixup with the new White Rose motor fuels.

Their benefits will be told, not in vague generalities, but in terms that have tangible meaning for every motorist. If the scientific superiority of a product is any criterion, the typical Canadian car owner will soon discover that these fuels live up to the claims that are made for them.

This statement is backed by our policy of making no claims that are not matched by performance. We say to you "Here is a milestone in motoring" only because we can say it to ourselves.

But we would rather have you tell us.

In this spirit, I wholeheartedly advocate and will appreciate your using one of the new White Rose gasolines. They will be available at all White Rose service stations on Friday.

O'Keefe Golf Circuit To Stage 10 Tournaments In 1960

To Open June 4 At Drummondville; Mount Orford Event Slated Aug 6-7; $4,000 At Stake In Medal Play Event

MONTREAL — During the past five years,the O'Keefe Golf Circuit has earned its place of importance on Canada's golfing scene. As the circuit enters its sixth year, O'Keefe can look back on major contributions toward the advancement of professional and amateur golf in the Province of Quebec and indeed the national golfing world.

The O'Keefe Brewing Company Limited has long been interested in the advancement of public-participation sports in Quebec, and it was for this purpose that the first tournament was organized at Mount Orford in 1955. This year a Commitee Chairman has been added. He is John C. Costigan, Honorary Secretary-Treasurer of C.P.G.A. of Quebec.

Not only has the Circuit succeeded in rousing public interest in golf, but it has also helped to sharpen the play of Quebec golfers by providing good competition and attractive prizes.

This year's O'Keefe Golf Circuit will include 3 tournaments for pros and amateurs, 7 amateur tournaments and to top off the golf season, the "O'Keefe Quebec Professional Medal Play Championship." CBC-TV plans to televise this final event of the circuit as most of Quebec's professional golfers will be competing for the $4,000 in prize money.

The O'Keefe Brewing Company Limited has allocated $12,000 in prizes for the 1960 O'Keefe Golf Circuit. In addition, there will be the O'Keefe trophies for all tournament winners.

Dates and locations of this year's tournament are as follows:

Pro-Amateur Tournaments

June 18-19, $1,000, Granby-St. Paul.

July 2-3, $1,000, Ste. Dorothee.

August 13-14, $1,000, St. John.

Amateur Tournaments

Ted Doncaster Takes Only Seven Seconds To Stop Eddy Henderson; Wants Summer Bout With Burke Emery

HALIFAX (CP)—Swarthy Ted Doncaster, leading contender for the Canadian light - heavyweight boxing championship, took just one minute and seven seconds to polish off Eddy Henderson of Washington, D.C. in a 10-round light - heavyweight scrap here Tuesday night.

The 25-year-old Sackville, N.B. native perhaps made his bid for a title bout with champion Burke Emery of Sherbrooke, Que., too impressive.

Al Backman, Emery's Montreal manager, was in Henderson's corner. Backman said after the fight that a Doncaster - Emery bout this summer "doesn't seem possible at the time."

Backman told Chris Shaban, Doncaster's manager, that Emery wanted "a couple more fights before defending his title." Shaban, who guided Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B. to the British Empire and Canadian light - heavyweight crowns, had hoped for a June or July title bout between Doncaster and Emery in Moncton.

Doncaster, who has won 22 of 26 fights, 16 by knockouts, sent Henderson to the canvas with a wicked overhand right. Henderson staggered to his feet but was unable to defend himself.

Doncaster weighed 167½, Henderson 164 for the scheduled 10-rounder before nearly 3,500 fans.

Sharp-punching Larry Wright of Brooklyn, N.Y., upset Canadian junior welterweight champion Lennie Sparks of Halifax in another 10-round main event scrap on the season's opening card.

Wright, a member of the 1956 United States Olympic boxing team, survived a first - round knockdown and went on to post a split decision over the 21-year-old Halifax Negro.

The loss was Spark's second in 21 fights. He has won 18 of them, 10 by knockouts.

Referee Jack Delaney and judge Alex Nickerson scored it 5-3-2 for Wright while judge H. R. Nicholson gave it to Sparks 5-4-1. The crowd cheered the decision.

Sparks landed the harder punches in the early rounds but weakened later when Wright began landing hard body belts. It was the 21-year-old Wright's first 10-round fight. He has won nine of 12 as a professional.

Wright weighed 145½, five pounds lighter than Sparks.

Sparks knocked him down with a left hook early in the first round, but Wright climbed to his feet and held on. The sting went out of Sparks' punches when Wright started to land heavily to the body.

Bob Cleroux To Meet Ike Thomas

MONTREAL (CP) — Bob Cleroux, top contender for the Canadian heavyweight title, will meet Ike Thomas of New York May 30 in a 10-round boxing match here.

Promoter Jacques Chevrier also announced Tuesday night that the preliminary card will feature an eight-round welterweight bout between Joey Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., and Cornell Lewis, New York.

Patterson Takes Look At Last Fight Pictures

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP)—Floyd Patterson now knows what hit him last June 26.

Tuesday for the first time, he says, he took a peek at movies of the bout in which he lost his heavyweight championship to Ingemar Johansson.

It was strictly a private showing for Floyd, "technical advisor" Joe Louis, and trainer Dan Florio. After it was over Patterson kept any thoughts about the film to himself.

Patterson, who will seek to regain his crown when he meets Ingemar at the Polo Grounds June 20, boxed four rounds Tuesday in the ring set up in the abandoned road house where he lives and trains.

He went two rounds with a burly Cuban heavyweight, Julio Mederos, and then a round and three-quarters with his 17-year-old brother, Ray. The second was cut short when Floyd clipped his kinfolk with a stout left hook. Ray didn't go down, but he was in a bit of trouble.

Victoria Park All Set For Rematch In Preakness With Colts Who Whipped Him In Derby, Three Are Favored

BALTIMORE (AP) — Not so many years ago the Maryland Jockey Club, which puts on the $150,000 - added Preakness race, stepped on a lot of toes with widespread advertising that "Marylanders know a horse race from a carnival."

Things have changed somewhat.

The Jockey Club is doing all it can to make Saturday's Preakness at Pimlico a picnic. The track's 28-acre infield is to be thrown open to the public at an admission price of a "buck a head."

A new entrance gate has been opened for the infield patronage. It will have its own betting windows and odds board, rest rooms, refreshment stands and bleacher seats for 10,000.

Pimlico is urging folks to make it a family picnic affair. Two bands, one featuring Dixieland style imported from New Orleans, will provide entertainment. Before the regular races start there will be a "powder puff Preakness" with girls doing the jockeying.

Behind it all is an effort to boost the Preakness crowd.

Without the first three finishers in the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness wouldn't amount to much of a race this year. There are only three prospective starters in addition to Derby winner Venetian Way, Bally Ache and Victoria Park, owned by Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor.

They are Divine Comedy, Celtic Ash and T. V. Lark, all beaten last Saturday by Bally Ache in the Preakness prep.

The experts still figure it's a race among Venetian Way, Bally Ache and Victoria Park in the second leg of the sport's triple crown. The Preakness is at a mile and three-sixteenths, sixteenth shorter than the Derby.

Manager Mauch Fined $100 By President Giles

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Warren Giles, president of the National League, Tuesday night fined manager Gene Mauch of Philadelphia Phillies $100 for his part in Sunday's fist - swinging free-for-all with Cincinnati Reds.

Mauch charged out of the dugout in the eighth inning of the first game of the doubleheader Sunday after Reds' reliever Raul Sanchez hit pitcher Gene Conley who was batting, the third batter Sanchez hit in the inning. Other players joined in.

None of the other principles was fined.

Belt Out 11-6 Win Over Red Sox To Move Back Into First Place As Orioles Lose, Indians Edge Yanks

There's no place like home for Chicago White Sox, so far unbeaten in Comiskey Park - the ball yard with the beer garden and surrealistic scoreboard.

The defending American League champs popped back into first place with their seventh straight home victory Tuesday night, buffeting Boston Red Sox 11-6. They did it with 14 hits off Tom Brewer, the righthander who blanked them on two hits a week ago in Boston.

Kansas City Athletics helped by defeating Baltimore Orioles 4-2, ending the Birds' one-day stay on top and clipping their winning streak at five games. The loss dropped Baltimore to third, half a game behind and in a virtual tie with Cleveland Indians for second place. The Indians dropped New York Yankees to fourth 7-6, Detroit Tigers plunked Washington Senators into the cellar 3-1.

The White Sox tagged the Red Sox with their fourth straight defeat in a four-run fifth, scoring three on Sammy Esposito's bases - loaded double. Esposito, who came in batting .100, was 2 for 3 and drove in four runs against Brewer (2-3). Bob Shaw (3-2) won it, giving up 12 hits that included home runs by Frank Malzone, Gene Stephens and Haywood Sullivan.

HERZOG BREAKS IT UP

A two-run homer by Whitey Herzog broke up a 2-2 tie in the seventh for the A's, who had been held to three hits for six innings by loser Milt Pappas (2-3). Their first two runs came in the second on two of the game's 13 bases on balls, a single by starter Don Larsen and an error. Leo Kiely (1-0) won it with 2 1-3 innings of hitless relief, although he forced in the tying run in the seventh when he hit Clint Courtney with the bases loaded. Jackie Brandt's third homer scored the first run for the Orioles, who had five hits to the A's six.

The Indians packed away seven of their 12 hits in the first two innings, chasing rookie Bill Short (2-2) with five runs in that span. They got the clincher in the sixth when reliever Duke Maas hit winner Gary Bell (5-1) and then gave up a two-out double by Jimmy Piersall. Bell, first to win five in the AL, needed Dick Stigman's one - out relief for his fourth straight victory after the Yankees scored four unearned runs in the ninth. Mickey Manile's third homer brought in three of them.

Detroit, 3-0 vs Washington, sent Pete Ramos (0-5) to his seventh consecutive loss since last September when Norm Cash doubled and Chico Fernandez tripled for a second-inning run and a 2-0 lead. Frank Lary (3-2) won his second in a row, both over the Nats. They scored in the third on Faye Throneberry's single, a double by Bob Allison and a foul fly by Jim Lemon—their only run in 29 innings against the Tigers.

Natural GOLF

No. 21 — Identical V's

By JIMMY DEMARET

The accompanying illustration gives us our first look at the thumb and forefinger of the right hand as they close properly over the club shaft.

You will notice that they, too, form a line or V generally up toward the center of the body. This pictures the beginning of the backswing showing a view of the entire full-fingered grip.

The lines formed by the thumb and forefinger of the hands appear to be pointing more to the right than they would if the swing had not just begun. Notice that both of thse lines or V's are identical in their direction. This indicates that everything possible is being done to be sure the hands are working as one.

When the thumb and forefinger of the right hand are closed over the club, the palm "pocket" formed by the gripping technique will neatly close over the thumb of the left.

Same direction

This causes the feeling that the hands are working as one without robbing you of a finger.

NEXT: The right hand is placed on the club at an angle identical to the one formed by the club and the left hand.

Frank Howard Belts His First Grand Slam Homer Against Bob Buhl As Dodgers Win; Giants Stop Redlegs

When Frank Howard, the latest of the new Babe Ruths, first showed up in major league baseball observers called him "The Thing" and "The Beast." But he's strictly a six-foot-six, 245-pound thing of beauty for Los Angeles Dodgers at the moment.

Howard belted the Dodgers' top nemesis Tuesday night, beating righthander Bob Buhl and Milwaukee Braves 6-4 with his first grand-slam home run in the National League.

It was Milwaukee's sixth defeat in 10 games and left the third-place Braves just one game over .500, five games back of the leading San Francisco Giants. The Giants whipped Cincinnati Redlegs 9-3, retaining their one-game edge over the second-place Pittsburgh Pirates. The Pirates defeated Chicago Cubs 11-6 with the help of six unearned runs. A game between St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies was rained out.

BRAVES OVERHAULED

Howard's third major league homer, first since being recalled from the minors last Friday, overhauled a 4-1 Milwaukee lead in a five-run eighth inning.

Larry Sherry (5-3), winning his fourth game in a row in relief, also homered in the rally against Buhl (2-2). Hank Aaron, taking the major league lead with his ninth, and Ed Mathews homered for the Braves' first three runs off Don Drysdale.

Howard, 23, was signed in 1958 for an $80,000 bonus off the Ohio State University campus, where he starred in basketball. He is batting .357 since his recall from Spokane of the Pacific Coast League.

The Giants, matching their run production of the last five games, scored seven runs in the first three innings. They picked up four in the first against young Jim O'Toole (3-3), who had a shutout string of 18 innings.

Willie Kirkland, Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda homered as the Giants collected 14 hits after manager Bill Rigney loaded his lineup with right-handed hitters. Jack Sanford (4-1) was the winner, giving up a two-run homer in the fourth by Ed Bailey, who had half of the Reds' six hits.

The Pirates also got things squared away fast, scoring eight runs in three innings and chasing Glen Hobbie (3-4) after a four-run first inning. Don Hoak had three of their 13 hits and three runs batted in. Bob Friend gave up 11 hits, one Ernie Banks' three-run homer, but won his fifth game against one loss.

REMEMBER WHEN . . .?

Harold (Hal) Chase, one of the great defensive first basemen of all time, died 13 years ago today in California at age 64. With New York Yankees from 1905 to 1913 he revolutionized the fielding style for first-sackers, and in 1916 he won the National League batting championship with Cincinnati.

Knowlton-Granby Split Honors At Bedford Meet

ST. JOHNS — Knowlton High School walked off with the honors in boys' section of the 35th annual District of Bedford High School Athletic Association Track and Field Meet held here Saturday. The top honors in the girls' division was won by the Granby High School.

The meet which was held on the Athletic Grounds of College Militaire Royale saw over three-hundred boys and girls from nine schools from throughout the District participating.

In spite of adverse weather, eleven records were broken: athletes from Knowlton High School led the assault on the old marks, breaking six; Granby and Cowansville each broke two; and Waterloo accounted for one.

Top individual point-getter was Dan Mitchell of Granby, who won the senior 220 yards, 440 yards, and broad jump, and took a close second to Knowlton's Bob Hume in his record-breaking mile run. Tied for second place honors were: Terry Lewington, Granby, Bruce Racicot, Waterloo, and Ken Flewwelling of Knowlton. Frances Byers of Knowlton, the only performer to break two records, dominated the girls' individual honors, with Granby's Marilyn Blunt and Jane Porter as runners-up.

At the presentation of cups following the Meet, Capt. Turgeon of C.M.R., representing Group Captain Archambault, Officer Commanding, congratulated Knowlton and Granby teams for winning the Boys' and Girls' Aggregate Cups, respectively. Commissioner Ford Frick Gets Solid Backing From Ball Owners As He Goes Before Senate Subcommittee Meeting

CHICAGO (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, with the solid backing of major league club owners, goes before a Senate anti - monopoly subcommittee in Washington Thursday to present baseball's case to Congress.

Frick's argument against proposed federal legislation to govern baseball was given unanimous approval by all 16 major league owners at a Chicago meeting Tuesday.

It was the first meeting attended by all owners in more than 15 years but the only formal action reported taken was approval of Frick's stand against the legislation.

The private meeting, which continued for more than five hours, was conducted in the exclusive Chicago Club. Newsmen were not permitted beyond the club's lobby.

John Galbreath, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates who acted as group spokesman, said later the meeting was held mainly to get the owners acquainted with each other and the problems they face.

Frick, who will present his statement before the sub-committee, has termed a proposal by Sen. Estes Kefauver (Dem.-Tenn.) to bring baseball partly under anti-trust statutes as "vicious, discriminatory, disastrous and absolutely unacceptable."

Neither Frick, Galbreath or any of the owners would comment as to the content of Frick's statement.

The Kefauver Bill, which Frick is expected to attack this week in Washington, figures to benefit the proposed Continental League because it asks Congress to limit to 100 the number of players a major league club may control.

The bill also stipulates that all except 40 of the 100 players would be subject each year to unlimited draft by all other teams, including those in the Continental League.

Galbreath said the group plans to meet again "sometime late this summer and certainly before the joint major league meetings this winter."

DON CARDWELL GETS BONUS

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Cardwell of Chicago Cubs will get a reported $2,000 salary increase for his no-hitter against St. Louis Chicago pitching debut Sunday.

General Manager John Holland said Tuesday Cardwell signed a new contract after his brilliant game against the Cards. Cardwell's base salary, inherited by the Cubs when Don was traded to them by the Phils Friday, was reported to be a little more than $10,000.

Mickey Mantle Ready To Pay $100 For Glove

CLEVELAND (AP)—Six baseball caps and Mickey Mantle's favorite glove were stolen during the weekend by thieves who broke into the New York Yankees' equipment duffel bag, the club discovered Tuesday night.

Said Mantle: "I'll give $100 reward and ask no questions if I can get back the glove. It was my game-glove—the one I had broken-in.

"It was one of the best I've ever had."

The theft was not disclosed until the team unpacked Tuesday night for a game with the Indians. The equipment had been shipped from Washington Sunday night to New York and shipped here Monday night.

It was not determined where the thieves broke into the bags.

Triple-Double Pays $3,734.10 At Blue Bonnets

MONTREAL (CP)—A new betting feature, the triple-double, paid dividends of $3,734.10 to one Blue Bonnets raceway better Tuesday night.

The better picked five of six winners in the last six races. In addition seven other railbirds picked up $133.30 for picking four of six winners.

This was the first time the triple-double has been offered at the raceway this way.

The best time of the night was 2:05 2-5, recorded by Cartier Stable's Ehka's Enseign.

Palacona, driven by Paul Radley, won the $2,000 B trot, paying $26.00, $4.20 and $3.10.

Bonnie Song paid $4.40 and $3.20 in second and Virgne's Tompoy paid $2.90 in third.

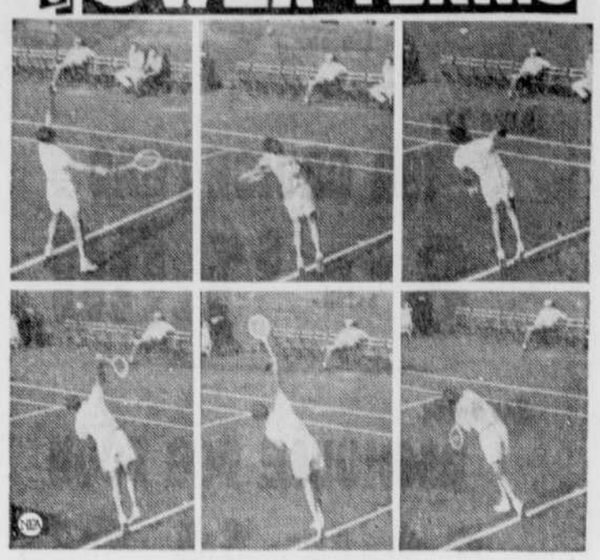
Pancho Gonzales' POWER TENNIS



Pancho Gonzales' serve

By PANCHO GONZALES

The service requires more co-ordination than any other part of tennis, plus the proverbial strong back.

Mercer Beasley, the veteran coach, always counsels that the basic stroke is like striking a nail with a hammer. That's for the beginner. To get the proper grip, hold the racket by the throat in your left hand, directly in front of you. Fasten the fingers of your right hand on top of the handle. You're doing the Continental.

To put something into the delivery is where you need the pliable, agile back.

Stand behind the base line with the left heel perpendicular to the right. The feet shoull be well apart and evenly distributed. Sway back on the right foot, shifting all the weight.

Throw the ball two or three feet above the head (not too high) and meet it squarely at the top of the toss. I throw it slightly ahead of myself above the left shoulder.

The twist service comes by giving the back an arch and throwing the ball so you almost have to reach for it over the left shoulder. Roll the wrist away from you for top spin. On the follow through the racket should descend near the right foot.

To get more speed later, toss the ball over the right shoulder and hit it with the full face of the racket. This eliminates spin but increases aces. On the second serve, of course, you go for over-spin to keep the ball safely in play, and induce a higher hop. Sometimes, it pays to cross up the other guy by hitting the second service first.

You have more time to storm the net.

Unseen Member Of Medical Team

Detective Of The Hospital Lab Gives True Picture Of Inner You

He identifies telltale 'fingerprints' and detects the changes in his subject, thereby revealing the nature of the culprit.

Is he a detective? No, he is a pathologist.

The pathologist is a physician who specializes in laboratory medicine. His workshop is his laboratory, and his materials are the tissues and fluids of the human body, explained Dr. Walter Kintzen, pathologist at the Sherbrooke Hospital for the past three years, in an interview.

"The word pathology is used synonymously with clinical pathology and includes all branches of laboratory medicines such as anatomy, bacteriology, biochemistry, hermatology, serology and blood banking," Dr. Kintzen said.

By ELAINE SMITH
(Record Staff Reporter)

Working as the unseen member of the medical team, the pathologist fits his information together like a jigsaw puzzle and gives your doctor a picture of the inner YOU!

No longer does the family physician or general practitioner fight a lonely battle with his little black bag against disease!

EARLY DIAGNOSIS

As a result of scientific advances, more diseases are curable but early diagnosis to pinpoint the patient's trouble has become of even greater importance, usually requiring laboratory assistance and pathological investigations.

With a battery of high-powered instruments and complex tests, pathologists and their skilled assistants work around the clock behind the scenes to detect disease in its earliest stages.

"Blood tests often help to determine whether that tired feeling results from anemia, curable by medication, or the presence of infection requiring immediate treatment, whether a stomach ache means appendicitis, whether chest pains mean a heart disease and whether the Rh factor may cause trouble in childbirth," Dr. Kintzen said.

Urine tests will decide whether or not you have diabetes.

Danger signals can be detected as they lurk in other body fluids.

Spinal fluid may point to polio, stomach juice helps to detect an ulcer, and a thin slice of tissue taken in the doctor's office or in the operating room may in a few minutes prove to the pathologist that what was feared to be cancer is a benign tumor and may be completely removed.

Chemical analysis is done, and sometimes the material is cultured to reveal which antibiotics may be best used to combat infection.

The amount of blood needed during an operation, and the type to be used are indicated in reports provided by the pathologist's laboratory.

Lab specimens are examined with the naked eye and in many cases under the microscope for detail.

"Some of the diseased tissues are encased in plastic by a new process which is utilized at the Sherbrooke Hospital and these specimens are then used for the purpose of teaching in medical staff conferences," Dr. Kintzen explained.

Originally, pathology was largely a subject by itself studied behind closed doors, but now has become closely allied to the patient's bedside.

During the past twenty-five years, on the advice and urging of hospital medical staffs, hospitals have greatly increased the size and scope of their laboratories.

INCREASED SERVICE

During the past year at the Sherbrooke Hospital, the number of examinations undertaken in the Clinical and Pathological Laboratories has increased from 17,357 to 19,095 necessitating the purchase of new equipment for increased efficiency.

"During the past year, $12,000 was spent for the newly introduced control system to combat bacterial spread throughout the hospital, especially in the operating room. Of this amount, $6,000 was used for chemicals incorporated into the final rinsing of all laundry at the hospital to kill bacteria," Dr. Kintzen said.

"The result of some of these chemicals was felt at the hospital last week," the pathologist said.

One baby received an infection when he was with his mother and before it was discovered it had spread to three other infants in the nursery. A chemical bacterial barrier was formed to isolate the babies from the rest of the nursery.

"An average of nine routine and special laboratory tests are given to each patient entering the hospital," he said.

To pay for these and other facilities the Sherbrooke Hospital campaign is now in full operation and will continue until the end of the month. Objective is $65,000.

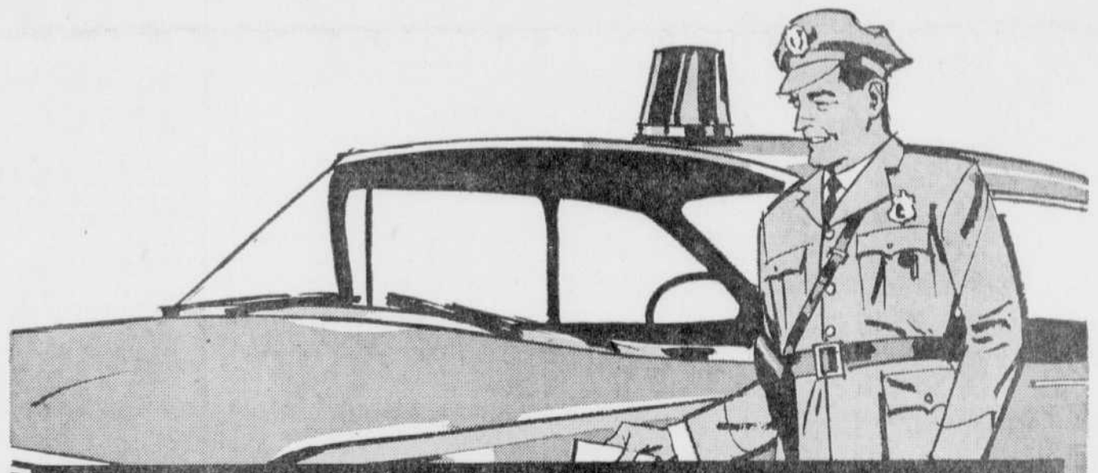
Use the Naran Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.



NOTICE TO MOTOR VEHICLES ACT VIOLATORS

Arrest without warrant is permitted under the Motor Vehicles Act, in certain predetermined cases.

For infractions that come under the criminal code (drunkenness, impaired faculties, dangerous driving, etc.) not only can the police officer arrest the driver, but it is his duty to get him off the road.

If a policeman finds that you have violated any provision of the Highway Code (particularly speeding, illegal parking by night, careless passing, consuming alcoholic beverages in a motor vehicle parked or in motion, throwing bottles or other articles, passing or crossing a school bus that is taking-on or letting-off children), the policeman will stop you immediately, give you a summons, and require you to sign a document by which you are ordered to appear before a judge at the time and place indicated. This is your notice to appear.

You are thus accused and will have the right to defend yourself before the court.

If you refuse to sign such a document the officer has the right to arrest you at once.

If you fail to appear you may be found guilty and fined not only on the original charge, but also on an additional one.

Above all, don't be tempted to bribe the officer: This could prove costly, as it is an offense under the criminal code.

By driving prudently everywhere and at all times, you will save yourself a great deal of trouble. Don't forget this.

Stocks, Bonds, Now Part Of Woman's Tea Time Chatter

VANCOUVER (CP) — Talk among 36 Vancouver women nowadays tends to turn from diapers, babies and household chores to stocks, bonds and annual reports.

The women have formed two investors' clubs with 18 members each. Husbands who once laughed at the idea now are bringing home annual business reports and other financial information.

The first group collected some $700 before it started investing in April. The second was organized later.

Investment groups, common among men, collect a monthly fee which goes toward purchase of securities. All members share in the profits.

The first group, with members ranging from young mothers to wives of retired men, meets each Monday morning in a rented office. Each puts $10 a month into the kitty and pays 25 cents for rental of the room. This raises about $2,100 a year for investment.

Light, Luscious Loaf Cake

Loaf cakes may lack the glamorous appearance of their frosted sisters, but they are undoubtedly more versatile. They can be cut into bars and served as finger-food at a tea, and thus eliminate the need for both plates and forks. They also can be served along with a pudding or fruit salad as the happy ending to a meal. This particular recipe can be baked in next to no time with a minimum of ingredients. Although its delightful chocolate flavor should preclude any problems of what to do with a staling cake, it's useful to know that the cake keeps very well when stored in a closely covered tin.

CHOCOLATE LOAF CAKE

1½ cups once-sifted all-purpose flour or 1¾ cups once-sifted pastry flour 3 teaspoons baking powder ½ teaspoon salt ½ cup cocoa ½ cup shortening ¾ cup fine granulated sugar 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Grease a loaf pan (4½ x 8½ inches, top inside measure) and line with greased waxed paper. Preheat oven to 325 deg. F. (rather slow).

Sift together twice the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, salt and cocoa. Cream shortening; gradually blend in sugar. Add and beat in the egg. Combine milk and vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with milk, combining lightly after each addition. Turn batter into prepared pan and spread evenly. Bake in preheated oven 50 to 60 minutes. Stand cake in its pan on cake rack for 15 minutes. Turn out, peel off paper and allow cake to cool completely on rack.

In a Good Home the Heart Is as Important as Head

The controversy over whether or not a 4-year-old girl should be taken from the couple she thinks are her real parents, because the little girl has an exceptionally high I. Q. and the parents prefer TV to reading books, probably has made a lot of people re-examine what the terms "good home" and "good parents" really stand for.

(Happily, the controversy has been resolved in favor of the foster parents. The child is to remain with them.)

I believe most of us who were fortunate enough to have grown up in good homes and to have had our characters formed by good parents will agree on the basic requirements for both.

Isn't a "good home," so far as a child is concerned, one in which the parents love and respect each other and love their children, a home in which a child feels safe and wanted?

And aren't good parents people of good character who are honest, hard-working, compassionate God-loving as well as God-fearing, and determined to bring up their children to be good citizens?

The home can be small or large, in the right neighborhood or on the wrong side of the tracks, tastefully furnished or not, so long as it is clean and cheerful, paid for or mortgaged. If the wall are lined with books — that's fine But if they aren't, even the brightest child needn't suffer — not with our system of public libraries.

It's fine when parents are intellectually gifted and can fan the flame of intellectual curiosity in their children. But loving parents often encourage their children to reach higher than the parents ever dared to reach. In fact, that is the American ideal — a better chance for each succeeding generation. And homes of the intelligensia have no monopoly on it.

So let's not become such intellectual snobs that we ever forget that the heart is as important as the head and that good parents are good people who may or may not find reading more exciting than watching TV.

ST. FRANCIS - MASSAWIPPI BIRD CLUB NOTES

Rain forced cancellation of the midweek excursion to Belvidere Hill and woods, but the slow-moving disturbance chose to encircle the St. Francis Valley on Saturday before flooding it. Wedding parties and birders thus got a daytime reprieve, and 32 members of the Club made that most attractive, if moderately strenuous tour of the season - the Woods Limits of Canada Paper Corporation near Windsor Mills.

Included amongst the six o'clock starters was a small number of young biologists with eyes and ears alert to both birds and plant life, of which the Limits contain a wealth. Regrettably, General Manager A. J. Philip was unable to be present, but he delegated the hosting to E. R. (Buster) McLenahan, a most affable guide and a speaker of much talent.

For that matter, the post-luncheon oratory was of high quality, with President D'Arcy Bennett in keen good humour, and with 2nd vice - president Freeman Clowery handling his collection of the viewing results with dispatch and efficiency. In addition to a whale of a day's good experience, each member was happy to receive as a souvenir a calendar, beautifully illustrated by Fenwick Landsdowne, young Canadian artist who paints birds with beautiful accuracy. We enjoy being spoiled by such generous hosts!

Birds? We saw approximately 50 species, and heard a few more. They ranged from miniscular Wrens, from small but noisy Ovenbirds, to Great Blue Heron and majestic Broadwinged Hawks with the gloriously colored Warblers providing, in all probability, the most scientifically critical birding.

Oddities were there, too; several members saw their first Sapsuckers, and a Woodpecker's hole in the upper part of a sandbank isn't quite the usual in bird housing schemes. The Limits' watercourses produced a sizeable number of waterbirds, but for many, the drier woodlands, fresh with every known shade of green and laced, about four feet above ground level, with horizontal layers of glistening white Mooseberries, made the four-hour stretch of morning travel an unbroken adventure in color and sound.

Once again, we were highly impressed with the outstanding good humour of both hosts and guests, a quality of the Club's field trips that attracted for the third time our enthusiastic member from Cornwall, Ont., Gordon Blard, who prefers, as he says, a 200-mile trip to this area to birding in the Upper St. Lawrence region. Thank you for the genuine compliment of your visit, Gordon!

We appreciate, too, the interest and help of non-member friends in the vicinity, notably the interest of Leonard Yetter and family, who guarded jealously a pair of Canada Geese for a fortnight or more in the Massawippi Flats, and Victor Sims, of North Hatley, who invited members to see a p[illegible] nesting Loons which he had discovered.

Two more interesting morning trips are coming up on May 21 and 29th. You won't be fed as we were on Saturday, but if you are wise, you'll see, the night before, that you have ample flydope to prevent a feast for the blackflies. However, there will be Tarushes in the next viewing, we hope; Tanagers are also due, very soon, and whether you are novice, journeyman or expert, there will be plenty to see and hear before the spring leaves grow so dense that viewing becomes next to impossible.

Band Celebrates 35th Anniversary At Cowansville

COWANSVILLE — To celebrate its 35th anniversary the Harmony Band held a concert in the Princess Theatre.

The Band members presented a smart appearance in their maroon and grey uniforms, and the conductor in a white uniform with gold braid.

The youngest member of the band is Robert Harrison, age 10. The program was a good blending of traditional and modern band numbers.

At The Minstrel Show, a band novelty was conducted by Edward Benoit Jr. son of the conductor and was especially effective.

The choir in, The Bull Dog, a humorous novelty was well received, and Bombasto, a march, directed by Jack Henderson, director of the Farnham Band, was excellent. El Capitan march was directed by Geo. Sirois, assistant-director as was The Rocketeer a stirring concert march.

During the evening a drawing for a platform rocker took place. Mr. H. Boucher drew the winning ticket for Miss Dumont.

The Harmony Band choir will perform on May 25, in the Princess Theatre, with the Petits Chanteurs.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank our customers for their continued patronage, and to offer everyone, new customers and old, special bargains, and two weeks of free gifts. Bring your children with you when you shop — we will give candy and balloons, and, of course, you will receive very special cut prices. Try to benefit from the man behind the counter — the man who has continued business from the same spot for 39 years — the man who knows how to buy — where to buy and when to buy— and what's more he is free to buy and sell as he wishes without accounting to anyone. That is why everyone knows that FORTIN'S is the store where you can save more than in any other store in the Eastern Townships.

We now give Thrifty Blue Stamps — please return all the other stamps that you have collected from us — they are good until June 1st. Ask for our new catalogue of Thrifty Blue Stamps. Most Industries Depend On Truck Transport

Almost every field of industry in Canada depends partly, or largely in many cases, on automotive power for transportation in producing and distributing spheres.

With modern merchandising almost entirely relying on highway transport, care should be given to the condition of the highways and attention to a long-range road preservation and building policy.

"The 20th century belongs to Canada." To underline this famous saying we could add that the truckers of this country will make it a real Canadian century of progress. Because of the economy and flexibilty of highway transportation new roads will branch out into newly developed areas making the expansion of the trucking industry a must in Canada's development.

Large urban centres depend on truck transport for an important part of their food supply delivered from the surrounding country-side in staggering volume. Decentralization of industry has been made possible and manufactured articles are now subjected to processes in widely scattered centres and transported to assembly plants by truck, making the highways a sort of assembly conveyor belt.

Modern roads are essential to security because they are a requisite for industrial mobilization, civil defense and military activity.

Roads are a godsend to workers. They are carried to and from their work over the asphalt ribbons. The plants rely on road transport for up to 95 per cent of incoming and outgoing freight.

A civil defense system is worthless unless quick means of communication are available between the major centres of the nation. In military planning, movement is everything. Only by improving existing bridges and roads could defense equipment be used to the best advantage.

Our agricultural produce is brought to market through the transport industry. Roads have broadened the farmers' market, increased consumption of dairy products, fruits and vegetables, and generally improved the standard of living of both farmers and urban dwellers. Trucks now carry more than 90 per cent of the nation's milk supply. They hold a dominant position in livestock shipments.

Some people maintain that the trucking industry is not paying its share of highway costs. The Dominion Government Royal Commission on Transportation supplied an emphatic answer. It reported that the industry was paying the provinces adequately for the use it makes of public highways.

Big highway trucks these days pay, in highway taxes alone, more money than is paid for fifty average passenger cars.

Others say that Canada's highways created the trucking industry. On the contrary, trucks fulfilled a public demand for the growing needs of the country.

Without trucks and the millions of dollars in taxes which the industry pays annually, Canada's whole highway building and maintenance program would collapse.

The Doctor Says

CONSIDERATE HUSBANDS BRIEF WIVES ON WIDOWHOOD

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

A gracious correspondent reminds me that discussions of retirement often fail to give consideration to the bereaved wife who is more or less forced into retirement by the death of her husband.

I plead guilty to this omission.

With what I'm afraid is typical male thoughtlessness, I have been concerned with the problems of my own sex.

And my guilt is compounded by the fact that the problems of widowhood are almost a daily challenge to those of us who engage in the general practice of medicine.

The average American housewife must sooner or later face the ugly fact that she may have to live as a widow for 10 to 20 years. Usually a few years younger than her bridegroom at marriage, she has a life expectancy which exceeds that of her husband by at least a decade.

Simple addition of these differentials suggests a long period of loneliness if the years of marriage are lived with no realistic thought of the future.

It is my belief that the prime responsibility for training in widowhood rests with the considerate husband. It is also my belief that the best time to begin this training is the time when life is most serene and fortunes are at a peak.

However unwelcome the subject may appear at first blush, its consideration should not be postponed to the inevitable "rainy day" when measured thought gives way to the panic reactions of fear and insecurity.

It is best (and perhaps easiest) to begin with a consideration of dollars and cents. Almost surely beyond the age of wage-earning, the prospective widow must know what her assets will be, what regular income she can count on and how and to whom she shall go to safeguard her financial interests.

Not until she is in full possession of this information will she be able to decide whether she can live alone in the manner to which she has become accustomed or whether she will have to abandon the homestead whether it be a small apartment, a shack or an estate.

When the basic problems of economics and housing are by way of being settled, the relationships with children and grandchildren merit consideration.

If the homestead is to be preserved, should a married child be invited in? If the homestead is to be abandoned, should the widow seek smaller quarters? Move in with one or more friends or strangers who have also been bereaved? Or take up residence with a married child?

In any case, what to do with the empty hours of the day and the long hours of the night?

To these questions, there is only one answer. As of the serene and fortunate moment of the discussion, the prospective widow, with the help and guidance of her husband, must train herself for some useful and challenging occupation or hobby. Note the words "useful" and "challenging," for it will not be sufficient to putter about with some passing fancy or caprice.

And there will be little satisfaction doing anything that is not helpful to the less fortunate and that does not require intense concentration for its accomplishment and maintenance.

Perhaps the travel agencies and some of my colleagues will resent these advices. For the widow with a useful and challenging job will be a poor prospect for the escape mechanisms of summer and winter cruises. And she'll have little need for gland shots, tranquilizers, sedatives, hypnotics, psychoanalysis or pep-up pills.

On the other hand, she'll have more than an even chance of retaining the love and affection of the children she'd rather not live with, and of the grandchildren who'll come to look on her infrequent appearances as visits from a fairy godmother.

And, of greatest importance, she'll have her independence and a fairly full treasury of self-respect.

I've an idea that's worth working for.

Dear Reader: Dr. Hyman appreciates your comments and questions but regrets that the heavy volume of his mail doesn't permit him to answer each individual letter or post card. However, he will comment in columns like the above upon matters of general or unusual interest.
