

Duplessis Forces Swamped By Liberals

Only Sixteen U.N. Members Retain Seats

Six Ministers Among Casualties in General Election Yesterday as Liberals Take Sixty-Seven of Eighty-Six Seats in New House — New Premier Pledged to Cooperate with Federal Authorities.

Quebec, Oct. 26.—(P)—Liberals under Hon. Adélard Godbout made ready today to take over the administration of Quebec's affairs and to co-operate with the Federal Government in which four of the Province's native sons hold ministries.

The will of the Province's voters to go along with Godbout in his promised "safe and sane administration" and to back the stand on war participation of its Federal Ministers was expressed yesterday in an avalanche of votes that sent sixty-seven Liberals to the Legislative Assembly in this Ancient Capital.

Premier Maurice Duplessis found his Union Nationale representation—71, when he called a general election a month ago—reduced to 16. One Independent and one National candidate made up the total of 85 who were counted in after the polls closed. One constituency—Charlevoix-Saguenay, votes November 16.

Six Cabinet Ministers were among Government party casualties as Liberals reversed the vote which put them out of power in 1936 for the first time in 39 years. The new Premier will be Godbout, who held that position for two months in 1936 after a period as Minister of Agriculture. He is a scientific farmer from Temiscouata county on the St. Lawrence's South Shore, a former professor of Agriculture, a family man with five children. He is 47 years old.

Throughout the campaign the Premier-elect talked provincial affairs, urged a broad agricultural program, improvement of rural life and collective labor contracts. Much of the Liberal reply to the Duplessis charge that Quebec's autonomy was threatened by Ottawa acts—namely the War Measures Act—fell to the federal cabinet ministers—Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe, Postmaster-General G. G. Power and Works Minister P. J. A. Cardin. They had staked their seats on the defeat of the Union Nationale Government.

At Ottawa last night Prime Minister Mackenzie King showed the Quebec result as showing "above all else that the people of Quebec are as one with their fellow Canadians in the other provinces in their determination that a united Canada shall cooperate at the side of Britain and France in taking the fight to freedom x x x." He said "no greater service has been rendered Canada since Confederation" than the campaign work of the three federal ministers.

Conservative Leader Manion said: "Practically it is no longer an issue. Now let us get on with the war."

Mr. Lapointe declared, "I will remain at my post," and Mr. Cardin said the result disclosed a firm determination on Quebec's part to cooperate with the rest of Canada. Premier Duplessis made no formal statement but appeared before his Three Rivers home in response to a Continued on Page 2, Col. 4.

Comments On The Election Results

"I was glad to show the people of my province, of Canada and even my King and Queen, and France, that I had enough principle to run against the Premier of a province in order to demonstrate to the whole world that I was against Communism and Nazism and in favor of civilization and Christianity." — Mayor Pitt of Three Rivers.

"Very proud I am of the good old Province of Quebec. She was true to herself and her name." — Hon. P. J. A. Cardin.

"The final result of the election is not a surprise to me because the programme (of the A.L.N.) is a campaign of education which people cannot easily understand, particularly in time of such excitement runs high." — J. E. Choquette, defeated Gouin candidate in Sherbrooke.

"We will contest the results of the election in Sherbrooke County." — Maurice Gingués, defeated Liberal candidate in Sherbrooke.

"The result of the election shows plainly that the people of Quebec, regardless of nationality, are interested vitally in the cause of Canadian unity. The final standing in the Province and in Sherbrooke was no surprise to me, although I consider that the result locally was not a victory for Col. Bourque in that the number of votes against the Government exceeded his total." — Charles B. Howard, M.P.

"There was no opposition at Quebec before, there will be one now." — Hon. Maurice Duplessis.

"As long as God gives me life, I will carry on." — Paul Gouin.

Premier-Elect Seeking United Action To Restore Province

Quebec, Oct. 26.—(P)—Quebec Province's citizens had before them today an appeal from Premier-elect Adélard Godbout to "work together to bring back progress and prosperity to old Quebec, and at the same time, to our beloved country, Canada."

The Liberal leader, speaking from his home here last night over a provincial network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, said administration of Quebec "will require much work and I am fully aware of the responsibility which has fallen upon me."

"Particularly in the financial field much work has to be done to place this Province in good standing," he said.

Mr. Godbout's address followed a triumphal automobile procession from the ferry wharf in Downtown Quebec, where hundreds gathered to greet him on his return from a week-long tour where he won a personal victory at the polls.

Ex-Premier L. A. Taschereau, in whose cabinet Mr. Godbout once served as Agricultural Minister, was among the greeters and the two chatted for many minutes in the crowded parlor of the Premier-elect's home.

Outcomes of yesterday's general election, Mr. Godbout said in his address, "compensates us well for the trials which our party underwent in 1938," when thirty-eight years of Liberal rule ended with rise to power of Retiring-Premier Maurice Duplessis' Union Nationale party.

"Should I also thank Mr. Duplessis for having wished that this Provincial election campaign touch also on questions concerning Federal politics?" he asked.

"We knew that the provincial Liberal party had good and loyal friends in the Federal domain, but in spite of their sympathy in our behalf, they would not have had to participate in this political campaign if it had been conducted only on a provincial basis."

"In effect, today's election has a double significance. It shows first that in the provincial domain the electorate wishes to confer the administration of this Province to the forces had captured the day before. The French, it claimed, trying to regain the position near the border of the province, were "frustrated while still on French soil."

"The French communiqué for today, noting 'bad weather,' said last night 'was quiet as a whole.'"

While the Nazi press was priming the nation for the struggle ahead, more than 20 army and air force generals and staff officers were reported to have conferred in Adolf Hitler's Chancellery last night. Hitler was believed to have participated.

Hitler made the former Free City of Danzig a province and named Albert Forster, former Nazi district leader there, as governor. The new province includes also the pre-war province of West Prussia. It has a total population of about 2,400,000.

A Soviet Russian trade delegation headed by I. T. Tevoysann, Commissioner for Shipping, was expected here today.

(In Moscow belief was expressed that the delegation would take up the question of buying armor plate and naval technical instruments).

"The verdict of today will enable the Province to play its part in the destinies of Canada. It will enable the Province to play the role which rightly belongs to her in the world." — Premier-Elect Godbout.

"I will continue to defend and protect the interests of the citizens of Sherbrooke County at Quebec the way I have for the past three years." — Col. J. S. Bourque.

"Tonight's verdict constitutes also an approval of the attitude held in the Federal domain by those who have always been the protectors of our rights, the defenders of our traditions and the champions of national unity."

"It is also in my opinion a proof that Quebec electors, be they French-Canadian or English-Canadian, understand the necessity of maintaining unity of thought and action, so indispensable in the difficult times which we are undergoing."

"It signifies, finally, that the cooperation of all well-thinking citizens now is acquired to permit Canada to play, among the nations of the world, the important role guaranteed it by its geographic position, its natural resources and the value of its population."

"The attitude of the chiefs of state of the world, who have already received the approval of foreign countries; it has just received tonight that of the electors of Quebec Province."

LOSES LIFE AS TRAIN STRIKES CAR AT BROME

Walter Heap, 45, Killed When Drummondville-Sutton Mail Train Crashes into Automobile in Brome Village.

Brome, Oct. 26.—Walter Heap, 45, of East Hill, met instantaneous death here last evening when the car which he was driving was struck by the Drummondville-Sutton mail train a few minutes after six o'clock. A verdict of accidental death was returned at an inquest conducted in Brome following the accident by the district coroner, Dr. Boulay, of Sutton.

Heap's vehicle was struck just as the gasoline-operated train was pulling out of Brome station in the direction of Sutton on its regular evening run from Drummondville. The train had gathered sufficient momentum to carry the car some distance down the track. Heap was apparently crushed as the car was dragged along.

It is believed the victim failed to notice the approach of the train and was unable to stop his car in time to avoid being struck. Heap, of English descent, has no family. During the summer he was employed by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and at the time of his death was working for a lumbering concern at East Hill.

French Convinced Germans To Stage Drive In Near Future

Scouting Parties Report Huge Troop Concentrations and Supply Arrangements Usually Regarded as Forerunners of an Offensive—Actual Fighting Limited to Patrol Clashes on Northern Flank.

Paris, Oct. 26.—(P)—French land and air patrols were reported today to have returned from reconnaissance assignments with information indicating the Germans were fully prepared for a big push on the Western Front.

The French said their scouts told of huge troop concentrations and supply arrangements usually regarded as forerunners of an offensive. They estimated the Germans now have 1,500,000 men on the front and in support areas.

Actual fighting was limited to patrol clashes between the lines of the northern flank—the only sign of action along the front since the German counter drive into the Saarland ten days ago.

French military sources said their patrols were seeking to take prisoners for questioning on the possibility of an enemy offensive. They estimated the Germans now have 1,500,000 men on the front and in support areas.

In Berlin, a high command communiqué said the Germans had "frustrated" an attack by a French battalion seeking to regain a height close to the frontier west of Voelklingen.

For the first time since the start of the war, snow fell in the Vosges mountains as rain and cold swept the entire front, hindering infantry operations and grounding air forces.

Today's French communiqué said the night was "quiet as a whole" and noted "bad weather."

In anticipation of a possible assault on the Maginot defences, French authorities offered facilities for the voluntary removal of the civilian population of Nancy, which is about forty miles behind the fortifications. Only 57 of 120,000 residents, it was disclosed, have thus far availed themselves of these facilities.

In the rear Polish and Czech armies were in training. General Wladyslaw Sikorski, Polish Premier, Most of them came from the mining regions of Northern France and Belgium.

The Ministry of Justice announced a plan to accelerate naturalization of foreigners seeking to serve with the French army. France has several million residents foreigners, thousands of whom would be eligible for military service.

Chamberlain Challenges German Efforts To Place War Blame Upon Britain

Declares Statements of Von Ribbentrop Unworthy of Comment and Filled with Distortions of Truth—Claims British Navy Seized German Shipping in Excess of Tonnage Sunk in Week.

(By J. P. Sanderson, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 26.—(P. Cable)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today dismissed Joachim von Ribbentrop's effort to pin blame for the war on Great Britain as unworthy of comment and filled with distortions of the truth.

The whole world knew the Nazi Foreign Minister was wrong when he argued in his Danzig speech last Tuesday that it was Britain and not Germany which desired and plotted war, the Prime Minister told the House of Commons in his weekly "war report."

"The whole world knows that no government ever sought more ardently to avoid war or took greater risks to preserve peace than the Government of this country," Mr. Chamberlain said.

"We have already published with complete frankness all essential documents relating to the causes of the war. We are content to be judged by facts and to know that the verdict of the great majority of neutral observers is in our favor."

Before dealing with what he called von Ribbentrop's "performance" at Danzig, the Prime Minister declared "it now seems to have become the rule for merchant ships to be sunk without warning."

"No words are strong enough to express our detestation of this form of warfare," Mr. Chamberlain said of German U-boat attacks.

The British Navy during the past few days has captured five German merchant ships totalling 28,367 tons, he said. During the same period five British ships were lost, one by the German surface raider Deutschland. But British losses amounted to 6,000 tons less than the tonnage of German ships captured.

CZECHS PROTEST BAN ON OBSERVING HOLIDAY

Prague, Oct. 26.—(P)—Extra police were stationed in several towns today following demonstrations against an order of the German Protectorate Government prohibiting celebration of the anniversary of the former Czechoslovak Republic's founding October 28, 1918.

The demonstrations were reported to have occurred in Beroun and Tabor, where 150 persons were arrested. Moving picture theatres and restaurants were closed in Tabor and sale of alcoholic beverages to Czechs was halted.

The Ministerial Council was called to discuss measures to prevent further demonstrations.

Canadian Elevator System Strained By Record-Making Wheat Carryover

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—(P)—Canada's wheat elevators, swollen with an all-time record storage of wheat, will groan even more before the present strain on the nation's grain handling facilities begins to diminish, it was predicted today.

For the past four weeks the visible supply of Canadian wheat has been greater than at any time in history, totalling 336,565,884 bushels at October 20, according to the monthly review by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. It is expected that figure will continue to grow during the next few weeks, until disposal in the domestic or export markets overtakes the rate of new marketings by growers, now declining.

The present traffic jam in wheat has resulted from a variety of factors but the physical result is that handling facilities at the head of the lakes and along the St. Lawrence river are taxed to capacity, in addition to a large proportion of country elevators on the Prairies.

Rail shipments to the lakehead have been suspended until the congestion there is partly relieved. This is reflected in the 40,252,515-bushel figure for wheat in rail transit for the week ended October 20, compared to only 15,230,364 bushels for the same period last year. This probably indicates some storage in freight cars on railway sidings.

On the other hand, wheat in transit on the lakes was much less than this time last year, the comparative figures being 3,638,358 and 8,439,411.

This reflects the cessation of British buying of Canadian wheat for the first six weeks of the war; one of the major factors in the record accumulation in the country's elevators. Moderate British buying is now reported resumed. The previous record visible supply was 270,700,000 bushels, in store November 1, 1935.

Difficulties this autumn started with a record volume of primary deliveries from the farms during September when country elevator receipts and platform loadings amounted to 172,000,000 bushels compared to 134,000,000 bushels in September, 1928, the record crop year.

Increased use of combine threshers and grain trucks has contributed to earlier delivery but the Wheat Board's guaranteed initial payment may also have been a consideration this year.

Above everything else is the fact that the 450,000,000 crop is well above normal and came on top of a near-record carry over from last year—of about 109,000,000 bushels—and all this in a year of record world supply.

World wheat production this year is estimated at 4,273,000,000 bushels, only second to 1938. The world carryover from last year was estimated at 1,101,000,000 bushels, combining to give a world record supply of 5,374,000,000 bushels. On this basis, experts are already forecasting an even greater world carry-over again next year, ranging around 1,400,000,000 bushels. This Continued on Page 2, Col. 8.

Quebec Election Results To Vindicate Dominion Policies

Liberals and Conservatives at Ottawa United in Viewing Defeat of Duplessis Government as Mandate to Press War—Outcome of Fight Held Great Personal Tribute for Justice Minister.

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—(P)—Federal Liberals and Conservatives alike today viewed the Liberal landslide in the Quebec election as an emphatic vindication of Parliament's decision that Canada should participate in the war against Nazi Germany. Government supporters were jubilant at the result, acclaimed the defeat of Premier Duplessis' Union Nationale Government as a victory for Canadian unity and showered congratulations on their political chieftain, Justice Minister Lapointe, who led the Federal Liberal attack in Quebec. Political opinion on Parliament Hill generally interpreted the Liberal win as a personal triumph for Mr. Lapointe and probably his greatest achievement in 35 years of public life.

A tense capital received the election results last night and both Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Conservative Leader Manion issued statements regarding the vote. The Prime Minister said, "The results of the polls have shown above all else that the people of Quebec are as one with their fellow Canadians of the other provinces in their determination that a united Canada shall co-operate at the side of Britain and France in the war to defend freedom and resist aggression." FAST SERVICE WAS PROVIDED BY THE RECORD

Thousands Congregating in Front of Record Building to Avail Themselves of Election Service Provided Through Sound-Amplifying Systems and Bulletin Boards.

Now that the shouting and tumult have died away, peace and quiet reign more or less supreme throughout the city, and the hurried and harassed members of the Record staff, who worked like Trojans last night to keep up with election results which told the story of a Liberal landslide and to flash them to milling throngs lining both sides of Wellington street by means of an amplifying system and a window bulletin set-up, are finding it a mighty dull proposition to settle down to everyday routine once more.

To say that for a time last night the Record brood was a gross understatement, prepared for any eventuality on an election night, this paper's workers, and of course the thousands who were on hand to hear the results, began to wonder just what the score was when, after Maurice Gingues had addressed the electorate and thanked them for naming him their representative, and after Mayor Marcus Armitage had congratulated the believed successful Liberal candidate, word was received from the returning office that an error had been made and that in reality Col. Johnny Bourque had retained his seat.

Checking and re-checking the new report, the Record tabulators informed the announcers, who told the crowd of Col. Bourque's retention. Then, a few minutes later, the Sherbrooke Member entered the Record building "mid cheers of his enthusiastic supporters and broadcast a fighting speech to the people of this city.

Throughout the evening news furnished by The Canadian Press ran into the Record on teletype machines. Last-minute results in the various local polls were phoned in by representatives stationed in the editorial rooms and the business offices rang continually and a battery of employees were kept busy answering a barrage of questions asked by residents of all sections of the city.

As the news came in by wire and by phone it was assembled and written, copies going to the announcers, to those detailed to handle the bulletins in the front windows of the building.

Activity was at a fever pitch but through it all the work of keeping the English and French citizens of Sherbrooke posted on the course of events proceeded in orderly fashion.

As soon as the amplifying system was put in operation crowds began to gather on both sides of Wellington street. Early returns were received quietly and with little display of enthusiasm, but it was noted that, when, fairly early in the evening, the defeat of Paul Gouin, A.L.N., in Montreal-Mercier was announced, the crowd seemed to find news somewhat amusing.

Cheers greeted the announcement that Hon. Maurice Duplessis had retained his seat in Three Rivers, and word that Hon. Adolphe Godbout, Liberal leader, came through with flying colors in L'Islet also drew a display of enthusiasm.

Wellington street crowds were treated to something unusual in the line of parades, as first the Gingues party and later Col. Johnny Bourque's supporters proceeded in triumph, with cart horns blaring and hoarse voices acclaiming their chiefs.

Crowds were thickest when Mr. Gingue, after the election had been conceded him through an error at the returning office, and Mayor Armitage spoke through the O'Boyle-Free amplifying system, and when, a half-hour later, Col. Bourque addressed the throng following announcement of official figures giving him a majority.

All in all it was quite a night, and the seventeen members of the Record staff who toiled mightily for over four hours are today feeling the let-down. It was great while it lasted, however, and it was a pleasure for the Record to maintain its recognized place as an institution of service to the people of Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships.

Those helping with last night's service were Donald McMahon, news editor, who supervised the coverage, Culbert Jones, who handled the receipts of news from the Provincial battle fronts, Dick Ryder, who answered the Editorial Office phone and made sure of Col. Bourque's visit to the Record, Marcel Olivier and Francis Kenalty, who communicated local results to the office as they were tabulated by the returning officers, Eric Tribble, Gordon Shipway, Gerald Lemay and Ted Anderson, who handled the phones in the business offices, Norman Walker, David Reid, Ernest Bridges and Douglas Davies, who were in charge of the window bulletins, Allan Bryce and Leon Darche, who supplied bilingual reports through an amplifying system, and Warren Berwick, who was the general handy man.

Latest Modified Russian Demands Claimed Unacceptable To Finland

By LYNN HEINZLING (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Helsingfors, Oct. 26.—(P)—An authoritative source declared today that Soviet Russia's new, modified demands on Finland still contained points on which Finland refused to yield.

After Dr. Juho Paasikivi had spoken for an hour today with President Kuoopli Kallio, Foreign Minister Elias Erkkko and Prime Minister Aimo Cajander, a Foreign Office spokesman said there was "no doubt" negotiations with Russia could be continued and that the Finnish delegation headed by Dr. Paasikivi would go to Moscow for a third time.

Dr. Paasikivi and the entire delegation returned to Helsingfors this morning, bringing the new demands with them.

This was the second time the Finnish envoy had come back without reaching an agreement with Russia on still undisclosed issues. When the official commented on the brevity of this trip, Paasikivi laughed and replied it was "like a promise."

demonstration by a sympathetic group of youths. He was heard to say: "Long live youth; down with conscription."

Mr. Godbout said the election was "a vote of confidence in the provincial Liberal party and an appreciation of the stand taken by the Liberal leaders in the federal field."

"We did not save the country because the country did not want us to do so," said Paul Gouin, leader of the Action Libérale Nationale party which ran 56 candidates and failed to elect a member.

"Conscription" was the word that ran through almost every campaign speech, yet actually there was no expressed difference in the attitude of any of the three parties on compulsory military service. All opposed it. Prime Minister Mackenzie King had announced publicly that his government would never impose it; the Quebec federal ministers had said they would never remain in a government attempting to confer it.

Premier Duplessis, however, declared that a vote for the Liberals was a vote for conscription, and held that the federal ministers had changed their stand in extra-territorial war participation, that they might change their stand again.

Gouin pledged that an A.L.N. Government would take Quebec out of Confederation in the event of compulsory service. He opposed "unlimited participation" in the war; Union Nationale recognized that Canada was at war and in this connection declared through Premier Duplessis that "there are laws and Quebec will obey them" but held that authority was centralized through war measures and expenditures on participation were unduly jeopardizing Quebec's position.

Only four of ten cabinet ministers, apart from the Premier, were able to hold their seats. These were Hon. Orestes Gagnon, Minister of Times of Motion; Hon. J. S. Bourque, Minister of Public Works in Sherbrooke, where he had a close call to win over Maurice Gingues; Hon. J. H. A. Paquette, Minister of Health and Provincial Secretary, who won in L'Islet, and Hon. Antonio Elie, Minister without Portfolio, victor in Yamaska. Both Bourque and Paquette are veterans of the first Great War.

T. D. Bocharand, Liberal House leader during the three years since the party's 1936 defeat, was returned in St. Hyacinthe. Other prominent members of the party from which Mr. Godbout will pick his Government are L. Athanasie David, a former Provincial Secretary; Oscar Drouin, who was a Minister in Duplessis' cabinet but broke away and ran in this election as a Liberal; and F. J. Ledue, also a former Duplessis minister.

Two Duplessis supporters who left the party over the Premier's war stand failed of election when running on other tickets. W. R. Bullock, represented Westmount as Union Nationale member, was defeated as a Conservative in the new constituency of Notre Dame de Grace, and Gilbert Layton, as

Some observers expected the latest Russian demands would be communicated immediately to the governments of Norway, Denmark and Sweden which, it was disclosed, have been in daily contact with Helsingfors since the Stockholm conference.

Reports from Moscow that Russia had demanded the Aaland Islands remain unfortified, concessions on certain other islands in the Gulf of Finland and that the Finnish Government maintain a friendly policy toward Russia were described by Foreign Minister Erkkko as "just as unfounded as all others."

Twenty Russian submarines, meanwhile, were reported bound for the harbor of Tallinn, Estonian seaport capital across the Gulf of Finland from this country. The Russians have been holding naval manoeuvres off their new bases in Estonia and Latvia for the past few days, these reports said.

Finnish territorial waters were being mined protectively and new blackout restrictions have left only dim street lights burning here at night. A complete test blackout is scheduled for tomorrow night.

A parade was hastily organized and Mr. Bourque taken in triumph around the city. Although the Duplessis Government was smashed in the dust throughout the province, "Johnny," as he is affectionately known to thousands, is still a popular man in this city, as was shown by the applause which greeted him on all sides as he toured the city's principal streets.

Speaking briefly in English and French to the hundreds gathered in front of the Record Office, Col. Bourque declared "the fight has only started and it will be carried on until we get back into power."

With the Liberal in the driver's seat the "people will see a difference in the province and realize what a mistake has been made," he said. Thanking those who elected him, Col. Bourque expressed regret at his reduced majority and paid tribute to his adversary, Mr. Gingues, for the fair and clean manner in which he himself had carried on his campaign.

With the exception of quarrels and disagreements which inevitably accompany election day, Sherbrooke was quiet yesterday as some 3,000 voters trooped to the polls. No disturbances were made by police, Director Arthur Maranda said this morning, and the day passed without any incident of a serious nature.

Great interest was taken by local citizens in the election, particularly in Sherbrooke County, and the telephone in the Record office buzzed continually with inquiries for information. Until late last night hundreds were gathered in front of the Record Building listening to last-minute results sent out over a sound system, manned by Allan Bryce, Record reporter, and Leon Darche, manager of the local Tourist Information Bureau.

Bilingual reports were given out, which enabled many French-speaking readers and friends to avail themselves of our service.

All in all it was a hectic time while it lasted. But such is life in newspaper office. We thank the members of our staff who assisted us. We thank the Hon. Mr. Bourque, Mr. Maurice Gingues and His Worship Mayor Armitage who spoke over the loud speakers from our offices. We thank our friends for the interest which they took in the Record and for their kind expressions of appreciation for the service which we endeavored to give.

WARTIME ARCHAEOLOGY

Hull, England, Oct. 26.—(P)—Digging sand for sandbags near here workers found several human skeletons and a pottery vessel, all later identified as remnants of the Bronze Age.

An Independent, in the merged riding of Westmount-St. George, Mayor Camillien Houde, of Montreal, storm-centre of many a political squabble and once Provincial Conservative leader, got back into the Provincial picture as an Independent. He was successful in his old riding of Montreal St. Mary and was one of two "other group" candidates to win out. The other was Rene Chalouit, who left the Union Nationale ranks in 1937 and termed himself a National. He won Lotbiniere from Maurice Pelletier, the sitting Union Nationale member.

Another colorful figure failed to make the grade. R. L. Calder, K.C., noted criminal lawyer, ran in Montreal-Vaudin as the only Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate in the election. He finished second in a field of four to J. J. Comeau, Liberal.

The Communist party polled 146 votes, all for Everiste Dube in Montreal St. James, won by J. H. Toupin, Liberal.

reounded with cheers as the youthful labor leader who had supposedly successfully carried the banner of the Liberal party to victory rode through the city. It was a great and exciting and thrilling time for Les Rouges, Sherbrooke, following the trend through the Province. Mr. Gingues spoke over the local radio station and the sound-amplifying systems in the newspaper offices.

It was at the very moment that he was addressing the people in front of the Record office that loud-speakers that telephone call from the Returning Office brought the startling news that a later revision of the list gave Bourque a majority of 59 in the 65 polls.

The Gingues victory parade was stopped. Sherbrooke officially announced Bourque's victory, and the National Union organizers then started a parade of their own. People who had started to wend their way homeward remained in the downtown area to watch the long line of cars drive by and cheer the man who the voters represented them at Quebec since 1935.

An analysis in voting showed that all of the five city wards and in the rural districts of Sherbrooke County heavy inroads were made into the majorities Col. Bourque piled up in the 1936 general elections. A great loss to the Union Nationale candidate was in the West Ward, a Gingues stronghold, where a plurality of 70 votes for the Liberal standard-bearer compared with the 1936 majority of 328 accumulated by Col. Bourque.

The former Minister's own ward, the East, remained true to its former allegiance although Col. Bourque's margin in this division was cut to 59 from 219 last election. The predominantly English-speaking North Ward, where Col. Bourque was given a majority of 516 against Cesaire Gervais three years ago, was another big loss as Gingues was down only 70 votes in this sector.

Besides the West Ward one other municipal division gave a margin to the Liberal candidate, the South Ward converting Col. Bourque's 1936 majority of 208 into a gain of 74 for Gingues. In the Centre Ward there was a difference of only 6 votes in favor of Col. Bourque, where three years ago he had accumulated a gain of 145.

It was in the rural sections of the county that the Union Nationale candidate gathered most of his lead, returns from Orford, Collinsville, Lennoxville and the other centres showing Col. Bourque was ahead by 105. This was also a reduction from his 1936 margin when he led Mr. Gervais by 320.

J. E. Choquette, the A.L.N. candidate, received his biggest support in the North Ward and his poorest in the North.

Voting as a whole was considerably heavier than in the last election, 8,416 marking their ballots as compared with the 8,169 who voted in 1936.

BETTERMENT OF DOMINION SAID UP TO CITIZENS

Miss Ethel Chapman, Canadian Writer, Says Women's Groups Should Begin Planning for Changes to Come After War.

"We, of a democratic country, must make use of our freedom, shoulder the responsibilities which go with the opportunities offered by this freedom, and give back to our democracy something so good that no other 'ism' can come in and build other things into it to undermine its values," declared Miss Ethel Chapman, well-known Canadian authoress, lecturer and authority on the affairs of women, in a thought-provoking address to an interested assembly at the School for Leaders last evening in the Lennoxville High School.

Miss Chapman was introduced by Miss Marion K. Haley, of the Y.W.C.A., Sherbrooke, and the authoress of two successful novels, "The Homesteaders" and "With Flame of Freedom," pointed out what can be done by keen-minded members of a community towards the betterment of the country as a whole. She stated that those who have been outlining plans for changes will find that now is a good time to put forth these ideas to the public, for when the world is in a turmoil such as this war has aroused, people are open-minded to changes and keen to do things for the welfare of all.

"Begin now to make plans for changes in the adult education, community after the war, such as immigration and the assimilation of new Canadians, unemployment, unrest, etc.," she urged, "so that you can assist in guiding the restless and unfortunate to a sane and correct thinking and living."

Miss Chapman spoke appreciatively of the adult education being undertaken in the Eastern Townships. "To my knowledge," she said, "there is nothing exactly like the School for Leaders anywhere else in Canada. It is a fine thing, and something which is especially needed at the present time, when it is most important that we have an intelligent public opinion on national and international affairs. However, you must not let the knowledge which you have gained in this course die, and you must not hoard it. You must keep it alive by keeping it in use and passing it along to others, in order that it may, in time, spread to other parts of the country, where it is also needed."

Speaking before an assembly of women of Sherbrooke and the surrounding districts who gathered in the Mackinnon Memorial Building yesterday afternoon, Miss Chapman said "It is about time women's organizations stopped passing resolutions and went in action to get things done."

SHERBROOKE TO BE VISITED BY STUDENT GROUP

Forty-Five University of Montreal Youths Choose This City for Study of Industrial Situation in Province.

Selected from among all other cities in the Province, Sherbrooke will be visited today and tomorrow by a group of forty-five students from the University of Montreal who, as part of their course, must study at first hand the industrial situation in Quebec.

Mayor Marcus Armitage will officially receive the youths at four o'clock this afternoon in the City Hall. The young men are students of the Higher Commercial School of the University of Montreal.

Tomorrow the students, in groups of five or six, will visit about twenty industrial plants in the city, where they will gain the information necessary for the course they are taking.

Three Rivers and Chicoutimi particularly requested that the students visit these cities, but Sherbrooke was chosen as it was felt a wider knowledge of the general situation of Quebec industry could be obtained here, where a large number of varied plants are located.

is in spite of a drop in European production this year of 123,000,000 bushels from last year.

Against that prospective big carryover in 1940, foreshadowing new world wheat problems, are a major autumn drought in the United States hard wheat area and subnormal moisture conditions over Saskatchewan and Alberta. Manitoba has had average to above normal rainfall since August 1 but Eastern Saskatchewan has had only 40 to 80 per cent of normal and western Saskatchewan and South Central Alberta have been "extremely dry."

BOURQUE IS RE-ELECTED BY SMALL MARGIN

Liberal Victory Parade Is Dimmed By Return Of Bourque

Final Figures Giving Member Victory Cap Weird Election Night—Gingues Informed of Defeat While Receiving Congratulations of Supporters—Liberals Start Celebrations After Premature Announcement of Victory.

Climaxing one of the weirdest election nights ever seen in this or any other city, Col. the Hon. Johnny S. Bourque was officially returned as Member for Sherbrooke last night with a majority of 116 votes over his Liberal opponent, Maurice Gingues, after the election had been conceded to Mr. Gingues and local Liberals were celebrating loudly and lustily.

Elections are bound to bring disappointment to the losers, but no disappointment could be more poignant than that suffered by Mr. Gingues, who, in the first moments of his hour of victory, with the taste of triumph sweet upon his lips, was told that a mistake had been made and that Col. Bourque was still the Member.

With a number of polls to be heard from, officials in the Returning Office conceded the election to the Liberal standard-bearer. Celebrations were immediately started and a triumphant parade organized. Mr. Gingues appeared before microphones at local newspaper offices, thanked his electors for voting him into Quebec and then rode in a shouting and cheering procession to the Chateau Frontenac to receive the congratulations of his supporters and friends.

Here, while the merriment was at its height, with hundreds of well-wishers swarming around him, Mr. Gingues was informed that his victory had turned into defeat.

In spite of what the news must have meant to him, Mr. Gingues appeared but little perturbed.

"The joke of it is," he laughed, "I have already thanked the people for electing me and it appears I'm not elected after all."

First to bring word of Mr. Bourque's election to the joyous hundreds at the Chateau was Charles B. Howard, M.P. for Sherbrooke, who cautioned the merrymakers against further celebrations until the results of the election had been definitely determined. The report of the National Union candidate's victory was confirmed by reporters at the Chateau, who hurried to the Returning Office to learn that Mr. Bourque had been returned.

When the official figures were brought back to the celebrating throng Mr. Gingues' supporters at first refused to believe that he had continued on Page 2, Col. 6.

Eastern Townships Adherence To Union Nationale Cause Is Ended

Only Two of Thirteen Ridings Supported Outgoing Administration, Balance of District Counties Throwing Their Bulk Behind the Incoming Government of Premier-Elect Adelard Godbout.

Its brief adherence to the Union Nationale cause ended for the time being at least, the Eastern Townships today is throwing the bulk of its support behind the incoming Government of Premier-elect Adelard Godbout, only two of the thirteen ridings supporting the outgoing administration. In Sherbrooke, Hon. Johnny Bourque, Minister of Public Works and of Lands and Forests, was re-elected by a slim majority, while in Brome Jonathan Robinson slightly extended the vote he received in 1936.

In Arthabaska County, Wilfrid Grouard ran up a majority of 827 over Wilfrid Labbe. In the 1936 vote, J. D. Gagne, a Union Nationale candidate, received a majority of 730. Gagne withdrew this year. Beauce, which gave the Union forces a majority of 398 in 1936, elected Henri Renault, a Liberal, to the Legislature by 250 votes.

Jonathan Robinson, running against a former Provincial Treasurer, R. F. Stockwell, increased his lead of 152 in 1936 to 236 in Brome. Compton saw three candidates in the field, with a former Liberal deputy, William Duffy, leading the race by 306, followed by C. D. French, Union Nationale, and Emile Beaudoin, A.L.N. In 1936, Payson Sherman, who stepped down this year, received a majority of 1030.

Dr. A. U. Rajotte, a veteran Liberal campaigner, ousted Joseph Marier, Union Nationale, by 1,015 votes, with Conrad Thiboutot, A.L.N., trailing the list. Marier has a majority of 869 in the last election. Henri Gagnon, who went down to defeat in Frontenac by 1,500 votes in 1936, staged a comeback to oust Patrice Tardif, Union Nationale by the narrow margin of 58.

In Megantic, a former Liberal member, Louis Houde, took his revenge on Tancred Labbe, elected on the Union Nationale ticket in 1936 by 1,648.

Missisquoi saw two old rivals, Frank Pouliot, Union Nationale, and Henri Gosselin, Liberal, do battle again. Last go Pouliot held a 681 vote lead over Gagnon, but this time the Liberal copped the seat by 1,648.

332. The Actioniste candidate in the field was Aldeo Martel.

A member of the Legislature for many years, Stanislas Desmarais, was returned in Richmond, ousting the sitting Union Nationale member, Albert Gaudreau by 242 votes.

Carl Bullock restored Shefford to the Liberal fold by turning back the retiring member, Hector Choquette by 570. Oscar Seguin, the A.L.N. candidate came in third.

In Stanstead, a newcomer, Raymond Frogeau, led the Liberals to victory, heading a three-cornered field with a majority of 268 over the Union Nationale member, Henri Gerin. Antoine Mailloche carried the A.L.N. standard.

In Wolfe, Thomas Lapointe, Liberal, regained his old seat from Henri Vachon by 106 votes.

QUEBEC STANDS FIRM

One thing emerges very clearly from yesterday's Provincial general elections—that the people of Quebec intend to fulfill their duties to the British Empire without fear or equivocation. They left no doubt in anyone's mind that Quebec is loyal to the heart and fully intends to carry out the burdens which the current European crisis has imposed upon it.

No doubt existed in the minds of the majority of the political onlookers for several days before the election that the Government would be defeated but the size of the majority was surprising to even the most optimistic supporters of the Liberal cause. The campaign was waged on a confusion of issues, matters provincial and federal becoming badly mixed up, but the essential basis of the fight was the stand to be adopted by the Province on the war issue. The out-going Duplessis administration was openly hostile to co-operating with the federal administration in the prosecution of the war—in fact the very basis of the fight was the stand of Premier Duplessis against this co-operation.

The result was a definite rejection of the ideas of separatism which from time to time raise their voices in the various parts of the Province. It is a tribute to the judgment of the French-Canadians who have indicated that they are as loyal to the Empire as their English-speaking confederates.

The French-speaking people of this Province have spoken in no uncertain terms. There can be no question of their loyalty to the Empire. There can be no question of their readiness and determination to co-operate to the fullest extent with the federal authorities in the prosecution of this war. Quebec stands beside the other eight provinces. And Quebec stands beside the other sections of this far-flung British Empire. Quebec today stands out before the rest of the world as a loyal Canadian province.

To the names of the Right Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. P. J. A. Cardin and other French leaders has been added lustre and prestige. Especially is the Right Hon. Mr. Lapointe to be congratulated. Bravely did he accept the challenge of Quebec's defeated Premier, and bravely and honorably did he lead in the fight. He emerged victorious and he showed himself and his fellow-compatriots in their true colors.

That small group of would-be separatists whose purpose and aim is not the welfare of the Province as a whole have now been given the verdict of the majority. May this verdict serve as a lesson to them. And may yesterday's voting in Quebec serve as undeniable proof of Quebec's loyalty, sanity and the determination of her people to live together in harmony; in co-operation with her sister provinces; in accord with her central powers at Ottawa; in harmony with the other British nations and solidly and firmly behind the Empire and the Mother Country.

The people of Quebec have spoken. There can be no question of the firmness with which they have spoken. Canada has every reason to feel proud of Quebec.

THE NEW PREMIER

J. Adelard Godbout, who is the choice of the electors of Quebec Province to head the administration for the next four or five years, has had long experience in political affairs in the Province. When Louis Alexander Taschereau laid down the Liberal leadership in 1936, he selected his comparatively young Minister of Agriculture as leader and short-time Premier.

Mr. Godbout headed the Provincial Government for two months that year before Maurice Duplessis' Union Nationale party swept the Province in the August 17th elections and ended thirty-nine years of Liberal rule.

Slight of stature, Mr. Godbout compensates for this with intense energy. He is closely associated with the soil of his native province. Minister of Agriculture from 1930 to 1936, he retained that portfolio when he formed his own Government upon Taschereau's resignation.

Mr. Godbout met personal defeat in L'Islet in 1936, but he continued to direct the provincial Liberal party from outside the Legislature. Taschereau's choice of Mr. Godbout as a leader was officially confirmed by a Liberal party convention in Quebec in 1938.

Mr. Godbout was born September 24, 1892, in St. Eloi, a farming community in Temiscouata county. Educated at Rimouski Seminary, he continued his studies at the Provincial Agriculture College at Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere, then took up post-graduate work at Massachusetts Agricultural College.

He returned to the college at Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere in 1918 as a professor of agriculture, and remained on the teaching staff until 1930. He was Provincial Agronomist at L'Islet from 1922 to 1926, and entered political life in that constituency through a bye-election in May, 1929.

Mr. Godbout's wide knowledge of agricultural affairs, his studious nature and his comments in the House earned him the portfolio of Minister of Agriculture November 27, 1930. He was re-elected in L'Islet in 1931 and again in 1935. He became Premier June 11, 1936.

The Liberal leader was married in 1923 to Marie Dorinda Fortin, of L'Islet. They have two boys and three girls.

Premier-elect Godbout is a man whose honesty, integrity and determination to ably serve his Province cannot be questioned. He faces a strenuous task, but there is every reason to believe that he will successfully carry the burden.

The new Government must face a policy of strict economy. The condition in which the finances are at present warrant slashing of expenditures in every respect possible. The new administration must, of necessity, keep a strict eye to the provincial purse, and to the new Premier falls the task of seeing that public funds are not wasted in the determination of some of the Government supporters to award contracts or to assist their friends at the expense of the public.

Mr. Godbout must tackle his new responsibilities with a determination to be leader of the Government. He must be firm, and the must put provincial welfare above party welfare. He is the type of man who may be depended upon to do his duty and to do it well and good.

ITALY AND THE BALKANS

It is not surprising to hear reports that Signor Mussolini is quietly trying to form a neutral but self-defensive bloc with the Balkan states, presumably his adoption of a more friendly attitude toward the Anglo-French Allies who are making war against his axis partner, Herr Hitler.

Neither is it surprising to find that one of the chief purposes of such a bloc would be to stymie Germany, as well as Russia, from extending their influence over Southeastern Europe, which Italy regards as her rightful domain.

If Mussolini really makes this move, his aim will be to safeguard present Italian interests, and at the same time to seize the opportunity of strengthening his own position in the Balkans.

It seems quite certain that Mussolini is a happy man to see what looks like a chance to ease the bonds of his German pact.

Neutral observers in Italy were certain that if Germany went to war she would not have Italy's military support. The belief was strong that Mussolini would break away from the Berlin-Rome axis when a favorable opening occurred.

This idea was strengthened by the vigorous manner in which Hitler was reaching into what Il Duce regarded as his special zone of influence. There was every indication that the Nazi chief was aiming at domination of the Balkans and the Eastern Mediterranean.

Now comes Russia with similar ambitions. Thus far Mussolini has refrained from joining his axis ally in embracing the Communists. Maybe Air Marshal Balbo's newspaper Il Corriere Padano spoke from inspiration the other day when it declared that Fascists were "born anti-Communists and are determined to remain."

All in all, this would seem to be an opportune moment to try to form a Balkan bloc under the guidance of Italy. These small states, fighters though they are, have taken to cover in the face of the Russo-German storm, and their inclination as a whole is to stick together for protection.

A possible weak spot in the scheme is that Turkey, which has been taking the lead in Balkan affairs, long has distrusted Mussolini's expansion programme.

However, when this distrust has been ironed out there would seem to be no insurmountable obstacles to the formation of a really powerful bloc.

PRESS COMMENTS

GERMANY'S ISOLATION

(London Free Press)

As Herr Hitler views the situation he must have decided by this time that he has lost more than he has gained by his alliance with Russia and already he must realize that Russia is a very doubtful ally. The anti-Communist pact consisted of his own, Spain, and Hungary along with Germany. If Herr Hitler had been able to stand together it would have been a powerful alliance for Britain and France to meet.

The allies of Germany were all sincere opponents of Red Russia, although for different reasons. Hitler pictured himself as the leader of a sort of Holy War against Communism. When he aligned himself with Stalin he lost at once the support of Spain. General Franco, as the leader of Catholic Spain, simply could not support a Germany allied with Communism. This relieved France of the danger of having to divide her forces between an army on her southern boundary. It meant that the Germans could not find bases for their submarines in Spanish ports. It strengthened the position of the Allies in the Mediterranean.

Mussolini has found himself in a very similar position. The Italians do not like the Germans and never have, but the Italians fear Communism. The sole basis of the Rome-Berlin axis was common hatred of the Red menace. When Germany linked up with Stalin the whole foundation of the axis was undermined. Mussolini has been cooling off in his friendship with Hitler for the simple reason that he knows he cannot carry his people with him. It would be the end of his regime. Hitler can no longer count on Italy; in fact if Mussolini gets into the war at all it will more likely be on the side of the Allies.

Perhaps the German Russian pact came as a greater shock to Japan than any other country. Japan's alleged excuse for her invasion of China has been to stop the spread of Communism. It was on these grounds that Japan joined the anti-Communist pact. When Germany made peace with Russia Japan felt that she had been betrayed. It left her without support to oppose the power of Russia in the East. She might have to fight both Russia and China. Japan has abandoned the German alliance.

There is probably no country in Europe which is more fearful of Communism than Hungary. It is still a nation of large landowners and great estates. The landowners knew that if Communism came the property would be divided up; the Hungary of today would disappear. So for that reason Hungary lined up with the axis. Now Hungary finds Russia her neighbor. Russian troops line the Hungarian border. Hungary is fearful and looks with suspicion on her old ally.

Hitler has lost all his friends and has gained in return Russia, Russia, it is true, has great resources of men and natural wealth. But it is questionable whether they will be placed at the disposal of Germany. Already Russia is assuming control of the Baltic which must be disturbing to Germany. It is doubtful whether Russia is in a position to supply the materials Germany wants and needs and Germany has the means to buy them.

Germany has isolated herself by her alliance with Russia—a daring move which she thought would frighten the Allies they would be prepared to make peace.

CHECKING TERRORISM

(London Sunday Times)

The method of aggression is always the same—the atrocious campaign of the ultimatum, the assertion that it has been rejected before there has been time to read it, the bombing, the troops on the march. Serbia in 1914, Austria in 1937, Czechoslovakia in 1938, Poland in 1939 are all instances of the classic German way of picking a quarrel, then the ultimatum, the ultimatum, in a doubt about it, and least of all at this moment. Germany brands herself as the aggressor, and, since Italy is taking no initiative, she stands alone, except in so far as she may have the promise of secret support from Russia. British and French action is predetermined in such a situation. Let us hold to that, and firmly resolve that it shall not be perverted by any of the trials and afflictions that await us.

NO CHANCE FOR COMPROMISE

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

What Hitler may consider a just peace no one has any means of knowing. Nothing about his policies or actions gives the slightest hint. If he is serious about a peace proposal—the threat of joint action with Russia is poor evidence that he is—Premier Chamberlain has dictated the only acceptable basis for it. The Premier's statement in the House of Commons left no margin for quibbling. The Allied position is the same as it was at the war's beginning. There is no thought, and can be no thought, of compromising its essentials, regardless of Nazi inducements.

Hitler himself having ruled out "capitulation" in his own declaration of war, there is no common ground from which even to talk peace. To have peace Hitler must surrender. In Mr. Chamberlain's words, the rule of violation must cease. This does not mean that Hitler can step aside, as some sources have suggested. We are not fighting the master, but the monster he has created. It is Hitlerism, the barbarous National Socialist creature which has overrun Europe like a beast, that must be destroyed. For Hitler to simply hand the leash to Goering or Hess and the rest solves nothing. None of them can Accordingly, the peace plan must be accepted as a failure in advance. Official Italian reaction to Hitler's intentions, or as much of them as he disclosed to Count Ciano, doesn't encourage any other view. In the circumstances, then, Canada's course can be no different from that of Britain. Chamberlain laid down for Britain: intensify our efforts for effective prosecution of the war." Any idea Hitler may have that he can transfer the guilt from himself to the Allied Governments by simply offering to end hostilities is too absurd for words. As far as world opinion goes there can be no honorable peace as long as he and his creed survive.

ALL PAY FOR WAR

(New York Times)

The British public was told last week how much its government expected to spend in the first year of the war against "Hitlerism." It was a staggering bill—£2,000,000,000 about $8,000,000,000 at current exchange rates, almost twice the expenditure in the last fiscal peacetime year. Even more staggering were the new taxes proposed in Parliament by Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer: (1) Additional levies on beer, wine, sugar and tobacco; (2) a boost in the income tax rate from 27.5 to 37.5 per cent. Single men earning the equivalent of $10 a week would be included among income-tax-payers. The new taxes would claim four-fifths of an income of $400,000.

The new taxes plus old taxes, were calculated to bring in revenues of £1,000,000,000. The other £1,000,000,000 national debt inherited from the first World War. Before hostilities began in 1914, Britain's debt stood at $650,000,000 and her income tax rate at a bit higher than six per cent.

TWO SORTS OF OPTIMISM

(London Church Times)

We are all of us undergoing a test of endurance, whether we be people of Britain, France, Germany or Poland. The times seem very evil, but in quietness and in confidence shall be your strength. There are two sorts of optimism. There is that of the man who has neither faith nor foresight, who tries to keep up his spirits by ignoring facts, and there is that of him who believes in God, never doubts that right will come uppermost, and goes on his way through the darkest hours accordingly. In the end he believes that there is no other foundation for stable peace than that of a genuinely Christian civilization. Such a civilization has yet to emerge fully in the life of the world, but by faith and conduct, penitence and prayer, we will make his own personal contribution towards its attainment. It is no selfish craving for a negative, uncreative peace, let alone a morbid shrinking from peril, which will sustain him or help forward the nations in their travail.

INDUSTRIALIZE CANADA FOR CANADIANS

To the Editor of the Record.

Dear Sir: Canada is to be turned into a vast industrial plant for the manufacture of war materials for the defence of the British Empire. At the present time the industrialists of the United States are scheming how they can take over this big enterprise. By the mere setting up of a series of dummy companies under Canadian incorporation they could exploit the natural resources of this country in this big war effort, in which they have no other than commercial concern, and to their own profit, not Canada's.

There is no question, but that Canada has unlimited natural resources, not only to manufacture war materials, but also to provide the commodities needed for civil or peaceful life. This being so, why go outside for capital? If new companies are to be organized, why not do it ourselves and embrace all the people of Canada in the financing of them? It is our war and in the last analysis we will have to pay the piper. Having called the tune why not do the piping? Canada is again prepared to sacrifice its life blood on behalf of the freedom and justice which our democratic system gives us as against totalitarianism. As equality of sacrifice is the wish of all right-thinking Canadians, the only thing that remains is to point the way so that this equality may be obtained.

For some time there has been a conviction that the resources of Canada, both man power and otherwise, should be mobilized for the common purpose which confronts the Empire, and that is the preservation of freedom. This freedom must also include the freedom of the millstone of foreign interest bearing obligations.

This freedom can be obtained and with considerable profit to ourselves by the concerted effort of our own people and those of the Empire and without outside help.

The venture calls for the pooling of Canada and the setting up of the railway or shall we call it the transportation problem. Both these items are mere incidents in comparison with the war task confronting us, but through the offices of the Bank of Canada and the united front of the people of Canada, easily capable of achievement.

The venture calls for the pooling of all the natural resources of the country and the development of whatever industry is required to carry on the war, take care of home needs and absorb the men whenever they return from the front in gainful occupation. The whole should go on together, preparing for the time when we can beat our swords into ploughshares.

At the present time we are in the position that requires us to sell our shirts and buy swords, but we should sell our shirts to ourselves, lest we be unable to buy them back. Knowing the temper of the Canadian people as a whole this venture does not present real obstacles. The danger we are now confronted with is that of turning over our natural resources to strangers who will bring in their experts to operate them, bring in their key men to manage, and, take all the profit out of the country.

Canadian banks are still capable of handling the business of Canada given the proper backing. This backing should be made available by the people as a whole. If there is a profit from the venture then it should accrue to the advantage of Canada and Canadians.

This is a war to the death and the resources of Canada are involved in it. To lose will be to lose all. We must win for Canada. Under the plan suggested of bringing in foreign companies who will use our credit and capital, we will be in slavery to the end of our days, win, lose or draw.

A committee composed of a group of expert industrialists would put this plan of Canadian development into motion in the course of a few weeks given the proper backing.

To give this backing and insure the success of the scheme we must enlist our natural resources and our transportation systems of whatever nature, and these together with the Bank of Canada as the people's financial agency, the whole industrial venture would be readily solved.

Let us put the Bank of Canada and the resources of the people to work and do the job that lies before us. Our young people are already showing the way. Why should we falter when it comes to throwing the weight of Canada into one united action against the enemy. Let's cut out the muddling!

THE OLD WILLOW TREE IS CUT DOWN

Old "Dudswell Willow," so sturdy and strong, There is much to commend your renown; The years you have stood by this road have been long Ere the powers that be cut you down.

A history unique, I am told you possess, To my readers I'll now make it known: From a cane of John Bishop's you grew, and none less— A start of the best, we all own.

A sturdy start we must allow, And Oh, the progress made! For many years you, up till now, Provided ample shade.

In 1902, so I am told, You were placed in the soil, And you have lived to be so old While none your growth did spoil.

You've had a long and varied life Seen changes, not a few; Known days of peace, as well as strife, Had joys, and sorrows, too.

Wee birds did nest and pause for rest, For years among your boughs; Now, life is done and death begun— My sympathy you rouse.

No more shall little children play Beneath your spreading boughs, No more in heat of summer's day You'll shelter gentle cows.

Did you bid last adieu to the scenes you well knew Ere the axeman felled you to the ground? Did you wave a farewell to the ones you loved well Or gaze on the landscape around?

You're just a heap of rubbish now Awaiting to be fired; A fact lamentable, I vow, For natives you admired.

(Some broken fragments I preserve That others too, might see The wealth of age, and strong reserve In you, old "Dudswell" tree.)— A pathetic adieu, ancient willow to you In our memories you never shall die; In the years which you knew, you were ever "True Blue," Dear old landmark, we bid last "Good-Bye."

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

MINOR SUIT GAME IS DIFFICULT, SHOWS EXCEPTIONALLY FINE PLAY

Minor suit games are usually difficult to arrive at, as players will often get into three no trump. Therefore I thought today's hand was well bid, and the play to make five clubs is also exceptionally fine.

Naturally South must open the bidding with a club, and the double is West's best call. North's redouble is fine. East would be justified in passing, or some players would prefer the two diamond bid.

Having opened the bidding, South must now pass to see what action West and North take. North's double of West's two-heart bid is for business, and South's two no trump shows the diamond stopper. When North goes to three no trump, South wisely decides in favor of a suit; declaration on the hand, and North follows the same reasoning when he takes the contract to five clubs.

The opening lead is won with the ace of spades and the eight of hearts led. West wins with the ace and returns another spade, dummy winning with the king.

The jack of clubs is played and the ten is led. South wins with the ace, plays another spade and ruffs in dummy with the club four. South discards a diamond on the king of hearts and ruffs another heart. The king of diamonds is cashed, a small diamond played to dummy's ace and another heart returned. South will discard a diamond and win the last two trump tricks. If he discards, declarer will make his small trump, and lose only the heart ace and a trump.

War Seen As Golden Opportunity For Fledgling American Designers

With the war creating great difficulties for the famous Paris dress-making houses, it may be that, for the first time in many long years young Americans' ambitions to become professional designers will have their golden opportunity.

Outstanding fashion experts are predicting a boom in American designing, and youngsters now studying the art are hopeful that their creations will help the boom.

"The war, with its temporary breakdown of the Paris couture, has propelled our own designers into feverish activity," says Ethel Traphagan, artist-designer of her own school of fashion.

Miss Traphagan points out that young Americans interested in the fashion field now have greater opportunities for use of their talent. With imported French models likely to be cut to a minimum per season, it stands to reason that manufacturers will be more willing to listen to the ideas of even the novice designer who devises something attractive, she adds.

Big Demand For Good Design
Experts agree that a dress house can be no better than its designer. No matter how complicated the inner workings of a successful wholesale house may be, when all is said and done, unless the designs are what the public wants, no amount of salesmanship can make the public wear them.

For any aspiring designer, the following hints—from the files of the experts, might be helpful:

Study the history of fashion. Styles come and go in cycles. Unless you know what has been worn before, your inspiration for designs for the future may be somewhat limited.

Study the mode of life of the people of the market you are trying to reach. The more you know about their background and habits the less likely you will be to design impractical clothes.

Learn all you can about color and combinations of color. On this one point many a designer has built her success.

Appreciate simplicity. If the basic silhouette of a dress is bad, no amount of tricky trimming will conceal the fact. Use trimmings, but don't count on them too much.

Excellent lines distinguish this smart black dress, created by novice American designers. The students first make miniature garments and try them on dolls like that shown. When all fitting problems are solved, the adult-size frock is made and finished with minimum of alteration.

Nightly Cleansing, Even Simplest, Is Important

"It is more important to remove makeup at night than it is to put it on in the morning," says a well-known beauty expert. "The woman who intends to keep her complexion smooth and clear, with that youthfully transparent quality about it, wouldn't dream of going to bed with a day's accumulation of dust, dirt and cosmetics on her face and neck."

It is important, of course, for every woman to follow a special routine each and every night. It need not be complicated, but it ought to include thorough cleansing and application of a cream or a preparation or two designed to correct whatever complexion defects she has.

If her skin is very dry, she uses a rich night cream, patting it in with upward and outward strokes and leaving it on for at least twenty minutes, if not all night. If her skin is normal with a tendency toward dryness, she uses a slightly less rich night cream. But she uses it just as regularly and pats it in carefully.

Use Pore Cream For Oily Skin

For the oily complexion, there is a wide variety of pore creams, tonics, astringents and the like—all designed to eliminate the excess flow of oil from the pores. The skin should by all means be cleansed with quantities of soap and water just before the special anti-oil preparation is applied, as well as several times a day. Experts agree that soap and water are "musts" as far as the oily skin is concerned.

No matter what preparation you decide to use immediately after the nightly cleansing promise yourself that you will use it regularly and strictly according to directions. There are no two ways about it, one item, used every night, will accomplish one hundred per cent better results than a hit-or-miss system whereby something is applied one night, something else the next and nothing at all the third.

HALLOWE'EN HINTS

Refreshments, Decorations Carry Out Spirit

(By KATHARINE BAKER)

Of course the youngsters will want to dress up on Hallowe'en so out comes the rag-bag again and the trunk full of old costumes is ransacked for fantastic get-ups. Pumpkins must be hollowed out, witches and black cats are cut from crepe paper to help create the air of spookiness that invades the house.

Very little effort is required to transform everyday foods into specialties in keeping with this magic night. A plain butter cake covered with orange tinted frosting and decorated with melted, unsweetened chocolate will bring exclamations of delight. Orange jelly makes a healthful dessert and can be brought up to date by arranging raisins in shape of a face on the top of each individual mould. Cookies, which are a joy to children any time, take on special value for Hallowe'en when cut in shape of witches and black cats. This can be done by drawing figures on cardboard. Cut out carefully. Lay cardboard patterns on rolled cookie dough, and cut around edge with sharp knife. Bake. If desired, eyes and mouths may be made from candies, pieces of preserved fruit or peel.

This recipe for cookie dough is especially suitable for such purposes.

Coconut Cream Jumbles

- 3 cups sifted cake flour
- 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 cup heavy sour cream
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups coconut, premium shred

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda and salt, and sift again. Beat sugar into beaten eggs. Add cream, vanilla, and coconut and mix until blended. Add flour and 1/4 inch thick on slightly floured board. Cut in desired shapes and place far apart on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) twelve to fifteen minutes, or until done. Makes about thirty cookies. One cup sweet cream may be substituted for sour cream and soda in this recipe.

Chukled Mr. Picobac

When Columbus discovered America he discovered tobacco, observed Mr. H. K. Charters, principal of the High School of Commerce, Essex Centre.

Mr. Charters helped himself to a fragrant pipeful of tobacco from Mr. Picobac's friendly extended pouch.

"Columbus?" chuckled Mr. Picobac, proceeding to fill his own capacious straight-stemmed briar. "Columbus didn't discover it all. Columbus never got up this far. If he'd ever discovered the kind of Burley we grow up here in Sunny Southern Ontario, he'd have found something to write home about. What do you say, Professor?"

"Absolutely," replied Mr. Charters.

"It DOES taste good in a pipe!"

AFRICAN WORK IS DESCRIBED AT COATICOOK

Missionary Endeavors Among Natives of Angola Subject of Address to W.M.S. by Rev. J. T. Tucker, D.D.

Coaticook, Oct. 26.—The work being done among the natives in Angola, West Africa, and the customs of the natives in that part of the continent were reviewed by Rev. J. T. Tucker, D.D., of Angola, in an address at the annual thank-offering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, Dr. Tucker was entertained at the United Church parsonage for lunch.

Sixty per cent of all the native children die before reaching the age of one year, Dr. Tucker said, largely due to the ignorance of the parents. In the work among the natives particular attention is being given to education tending to do away with the ideas of witchcraft and evil spirits, impressed upon the people from one generation to another.

Previous to Dr. Tucker's address the usual routine of the W.M.S. was followed, with Mrs. Rogers leading. Prayers were offered by Mrs. White, Sr. The yearly thank-offering, which last year amounted to thirty-nine dollars was also taken.

At the close of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and tea served. Miss Amy Tomkins, with Mrs. Albert Johnston at the piano, sang as a solo "Seeking to Save."

MISSION GROUP IN CONVENTION AT EAST ANGUS

Sectional Meeting of Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbyterial of W.M.S. Honored by Presence of High Officers.

The sectional meeting of the W.M.S. Presbyterial, Quebec-Sherbrooke, was held at the Emmanuel United Church, East Angus, and nine auxiliaries, Bury, Cookshire, Gould Station, Island Brook, Lake Megantic, Lingwick, Sawyerville, Scotstown and East Angus were represented. Mrs. C. C. Gilbert, of Bury, presided.

at the morning session when reports were received and endorsed and Mrs. James addressed the delegates, who numbered about sixty. Mrs. James drew attention to certain changes in the Dominion Board by-laws, especially one referring to nominating committees for the various auxiliaries. She also stated that a survey of all preaching appointments in the respective areas would be made and that a campaign to organize more auxiliaries wherever possible would be begun soon.

Dinner was served by the Junior Ladies in the Legion Hall, the delegates speaking highly of the manner in which they were entertained. The afternoon session opened at 1:30 when the Sawyerville Auxiliary took charge of the devotions. A few more reports were received after which Mrs. A. A. McAuley, of Scotstown, secretary of Christian Stewardship, gave a most helpful address, saying "Some claim we cannot afford to give to missions, but I say 'We cannot afford not to give to missions. We must give ourselves as well as our money.'"

Mrs. E. C. Amaron, B.A., Superintendent of Baby Bands, gave a most helpful talk on this important work, making suitable illustrations

CHAMPION OF UNITY

An effective appeal for the maintenance of the spirit of unity, tolerance and understanding upon which Canada was founded, was made by Mr. Brockington, speaking at the opening dinner of the Montreal Junior Board of Trade.

This picture is one of the few of Mr. Brockington, of this character. Mr. Brockington disclosed recently his resignation of the chairmanship of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

and advising how to organize Baby Band work and to further its efforts. Mrs. E. Ball, of Magog, literature secretary, also addressed the gathering and told of the work of her department.

The Junior Choir of the East Angus congregation rendered two selections that were greatly appreciated by the audience, as were recitations by two members of the Mission Band of East Angus. Mrs. John Burns and Miss Seale then conducted a memorial service for those who had passed on during the year.

The president of the W.M.S. Branch, Miss Carson, of Ottawa, gave a sketch of activities in the five presbyterials that compose the Montreal-Ottawa Branch, stating there were thirty-six auxiliaries and over 7,000 members in all auxiliaries that were organized. Mrs. Carson said all had a task to do and must not lose confidence because of conditions now existing in the world.

The speaker compared the Kingdom of God to a seed planted in the heart which must be allowed to develop and grow to its fullness until we know the power of the Gospel to reach all who do not frequent the House of God. "Keep on inviting them," she said, "Don't get impatient and never give up until they become interested."

Mrs. Carson asked why there were so many women in various churches who are not members of the W.M.S. and stated she was aware how many other worthy organizations were doing splendid work and interesting the women of the churches. She added that many Orientals are depending on the W.M.S. to support them by prayer and by gifts and that the members cannot go back on them.

Mrs. Goff, of Cookshire, addressed the gathering in the interest of temperance and gave a report of the recent W.C.T.U. convention in Granby. The address of welcome was given by Mrs. J. O. Baron, president of the local auxiliary. Mrs. S. Somers accompanied all singing on the organ at the morning session and Miss Glenna Sutton played in the afternoon.

RAIDERS MEET LACHINE RAPIDES TONIGHT

Maher Flashy On Line With Forsey, Peterson

Crack Forward Unit Shaping Up in Red Raider Drills—Benedict Brigade Clashes with Tag Miller's Outfit in Exhibition Encounter—Team Expected to Leave for Sherbrooke Tomorrow.

First test for the Red Raiders is slated for the Lachine Arena tonight, when Clint Benedict's revamped team goes to work against Tag Miller's Rapides in an exhibition encounter, while next Tuesday, October 31, is set for a game in the local arena, when an encounter between the Raiders and Washington Eagles of the United States Amateur Hockey League will lift the barrier on the local hockey scene.

Clint Benedict lays no claims to a crew of world beaters at Lachine, but Michael Stenson, president of the Sherbrooke Hockey Club, is convinced that Sherbrooke fans will see "a hard-fighting outfit that will put up a good battle with the best of them."

Members of the team, who have been drilling religiously for several days, are rounding into A-1 condition, and team spirit is high. Following tonight's encounter the boys will pack up preparatory to leaving for Sherbrooke tomorrow morning. Thus it is highly probable local fans will get a look at the players on the week-end.

With the much-sought one player still unassigned at noon today, Raider officials are still confident they will get their man. He is expected to play on a forward line with Howie Peterson and Jack Forsey.

In the meantime, Don Maher has been working with Forsey and Peterson and the trio has been burning up the ice in the Lachine Arena.

Maher, the centreman, played with Victoria in the Quebec Senior Hockey League last season, while in 1937-38 he was the top scorer for Verdun's junior Provincial champions. Maher is 21, stands six feet and weighs 170 pounds.

Peterson and Forsey are making a return to Canadian hockey after several years of stardom in the English National Hockey League. Peterson is 25, is five feet, eight inches tall and weighs 170. He is a left-winger.

Forsey, a right-winger, is 25, weighs 170 and is five foot, ten inches tall. Peterson went through Queen's University, and rose to prominence with Newmarket, Ont., Dominion Junior Hockey Association, and Oshawa Generals while Forsey played for Kimberley Dynamiters, Allan Cup champions in 1935-36.

Husky Peter Konrad, whose play on the defence has been a revelation, was a member of last year's Schumacher Mines team in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, and in 1937-38 he played Kitchener, Ont., in the Ontario Senior Hockey League. Konrad is 21, his height is 201 pounds and his height 6 feet, 1 1/2 inches.

Edwin Burke, a 170-pound right-winger, comes to the Red Raiders after playing for the last three seasons with St. John Beavers in the Maritimes Hockey League. Burke is 25 and stands 5 feet, 8 inches.

The new goalie, Conrad Dion, Asbestos youth who has sky-rocketed to hockey prominence, worked with the Lachine outfit last season after guarding the twine for Verdun's junior champions the year before. Conroy is 21, weighs 141 and stands 5 feet, four inches from tip to toe.

Gerry Cormier is also working out with the team. He was a member of the 1938-39 Concordia team in the Quebec Senior Hockey League. He weighs 170, stands 5 feet, 11 inches and is 24 years old.

Michigan State has a twenty-eight letter guy on its freshman team in Dionysius George Economopoulos. Count 'em.

GIANT OWNERS VOTE IN FAVOR OF NIGHT BALL

In Spite of Bill Terry's Objections, New York Giants Have Decided to Install Bang-Up Lighting System in Polo Grounds.

New York, Oct. 26.—(P)—Despite the long-standing objections of Manager Bill Terry, the New York Giants have decided to install a bang-up lighting system in the Polo Grounds and play a full quota of night games next summer, both at home and on the road.

The Giants thus become the last of the big league clubs to haul down their twilight banner and succumb to the financial lure of the night. Up to now Terry stubbornly has refused to expose his athletes to the night air, but he evidently has been overruled at last. An official announcement will be made in about a week.

This will leave Yankee Stadium, alone of the three New York ball parks without a lighting system. Brooklyn made a mint of money with its night games at Ebbets Field the past season. The Yankees are willing to play a few night games away from home, but President Ed Barrow is set against installing lights—"at least for 1940."

Terry, who has said he never would play under lights, will have to shade his eyes and like it, a martyr to the desire of the stockholders to make money. He will remain field manager of the team, not yet being convinced his employers that he would be more valuable sitting at a desk directing the Giants' farm properties.

The decision of the Giants to light up their own big plant and to play night games abroad will be acclaimed by other National League clubs. The Polo Grounds, sitting smack in the centre of several million potential customers who like to go places at night, can confidently be expected to jam in several crowds of 55,000 or better for its nocturnal attractions.

At last, it was next to impossible to get inside Ebbets Field, just across the East River, on the nights the Dodgers played there the past season, and their opponents benefited accordingly. While Brooklyn was fighting it out with Cincinnati in the matter of total admissions for the year, the Giants had too many afternoons when a charge of grape shot would not have harmed a fan in the upper tiers.

Having finished a wobbling fifth, they plan to make a number of deals to strengthen their line-up before next spring, but none is likely to be announced before the mid-winter meeting at Cincinnati. They will meet at Winter Haven, Florida, for a change, having decided that they can get more and better practice against the cluster of clubs training around there than they have had the past few seasons against the Indians and Athletics out in Louisiana.

New York, Oct. 26.—(P)—Coast promoters threaten to go into court if Joe Louis cancels those exhibition dates.

What's this about Dr. Frank Graham (U.N.C. president) doing a Corrigan and winding up at Alabama-Tennessee game instead of at N.C.-Tulane.

England's three ranking heavyweights—Tommy Farr, Len Harvey and Eddie Phillips—are in the air service and their commander is Brig-Gen. Critchley, the Calgary-born London promoter.

Sixty Escobar, just resigned as bantamweight champion, is worth $50,000.

The Tarboro (N.C.) High School griders kneel on the field and pray before each game.

Fred Henneberry, Australian middleweight, has signed to meet George Abrams, hard-hitting New Yorker, in his United States boxing debut on the Conn-Leavitch card at Madison Square Garden November 17. If the Aussie makes a good showing Uncle Mike Jacobs has promised him a crack at either Conn or Ceferino Garcia in December.

Old Yale grads are piping mad at the way the Elis fumbled, fouled and marked time last Saturday when Army had a chance to score and tie the football game in the last two minutes. The fiasco included a Yale run-back of almost fifty yards for an intentional safety. "This is not Yale football," old Blues were heard to exclaim irately.

during last season—Don Deacon, Syd Abel and Buck Jones—scored a goal apiece while Cecil Dillon, newly purchased from New York Rangers, and Don Grosso, an amateur last season, scored the other two.

Bidding has been started for the sweater worn by Babe Siebert in his last season with Montreal Canadiens before his tragic death in Lake Huron this summer. Louis Letourneau, a director of Canadiens, bid $100 as the first offer. The sweater will be auctioned off in conjunction with the Siebert memorial game in Montreal this Sunday.

The injury jinx that hounded Doug Young during the last two years as a Detroit rearguard has trailed him into Montreal Canadiens. Young was struck in the face with the puck and needed two stitches to close the wound during his second practice with his new team last night.

Would Supplement World Series By Annual Intra-League Competitions

New York, Oct. 26.—(P)—Startled out of a sound off-season slumber by the alarm of Brooklyn's early rising Leland Stanford MacPhail, who wants to supplement the World Series with games between the other clubs, the major league magnates are cautious and ready to give MacPhail's idea considerable thought.

Some of them have been burned before by their own criticism of the red-head's red hot schemes—such as night baseball—and are willing to give his latest brainchild a hearing.

This is what MacPhail said he intended to have anyway at the annual meetings at Cincinnati in December, when he will propose that the first place clubs play each other, as now, and the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth place teams also meet.

"Inter-league competition should not be confined to two clubs. A series of inter-league games in which all clubs participate would fairly determine the question of supremacy each season," argued MacPhail.

The first reaction of a lot of persons was probably voiced most succinctly by Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, who snapped: "I just say for me that MacPhail is long time ago and it was just as silly then as it is now."

But for the most part calmer spirits prevailed. William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, declared, "Theoretically I'm inclined to favor MacPhail's idea, because I believe that the National League is every bit as strong as the American with the exception of the Yankees. However, I don't feel the plan is practical. One objection is that such a plan would tend to take away interest in the big series."

Alva Bradley, of the Cleveland Indians, recalling that his suggestion last year of a series of inter-league games in mid-season "didn't get much response," said he would be ready to give MacPhail's idea considerable thought if it were brought up, "but I wouldn't want to take a position on it right now."

Old Connie Mack, who has seen a lot of novelties come and go, dissembled loudly: "To my way of thinking it would be a real failure. There would be no real rivalry. I don't believe any of our clubs in the second division, or even those in the lower part of the upper, would draw enough to make it worthwhile, financially, to play the games."

"I don't think we have to worry about which is the best league or the best team. We'll always have a good team. We'll always have a team that we can beat in time. I think almost any of us could do it—if we got it into our heads we really wanted to."

Sam Breadon, of the St. Louis Cardinals, asserted, "The world wouldn't want to see anything introduced which would detract any interest from it."

And this year's World Series rivals, Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said, "I want to think about it a while before I comment."

Ed Barrow, president of the Yankees, observed: "I don't want to comment. But this same proposal was made thirty or forty years ago by August Herrmann, president of the Reds, and laughed away."

McGILL BESTS ROCKLANDS TO WIN Q. R. F. U.

Red Seconds Smash Through Outremont Aggregation 15-1 to Clinch Intermediate Grid Championship.

Montreal, Oct. 26.—Smashing through Rocklands last night to a 15-1 triumph in a tilt played under lights at Nelson Stadium, Buster Fletcher's McGill seconds clinched the title in the intermediate Quebec Rugby Football Union and eliminated any possibility of their being overtaken by the Outremont aggregation or by Sherbrooke Athletics.

Outclassed in every department of the game, Rocklands only succeeded in averting a shutout as Fitzpatrick kicked a rouge on the final play on the encounter. Play was rough throughout. Jack Fogel and Al Goodis, of Rocklands, and Grandia, of McGill, being tossed out of the contest for unnecessary roughness.

Fancy kicking by Morrison and flashy broken field running by Russell sparked the McGillmen, who finished the first half in the lead by 6-0 and ran up nine more markers before Moe Herscovitch's musclemen found the scoring range.

Rockland fumbles accounted for the two touchdowns chalked up by McGill. In the first half the Outremonts led the ball on their five, and MacDonald knifed over for a major on the first play, while in the last half George Moore fell on the ball when Pickering fumbled behind his goal-line.

Horish converted the second touch, while Morrison's educated boot accounted for four single points. Harry Dikofsky, elusive running half, was the best of the Rockland players.

Miss Kenyon told of her work among the Telegu women, to whom she has ministered for the past sixteen years. She is leaving Canada this week to return to her work. Minton, Oct. 26.—A pleasant change from usual characterized the October meeting of the Minton branch of the Women's Institute, as thanks to the kind invitation of Mrs. Arthur Virgin and Miss Emily LeBaron, the meeting was held at the "Flying Shuttle."

The president, Mrs. Daintrey, was in charge of the business session which opened in the usual manner. Reports were given of the picnic held for the children and of the special meeting addressed by Mrs. Lobb, followed by discussion regarding the community school at Ayer's Cliff, and the giving of prizes in the school for next year. Plans were made for raising funds and one or two interesting articles were read.

At the close of the regular business, Miss LeBaron extended a cordial invitation to those present to examine the contents of the shop and to ask any questions which occurred to them, and an interesting hour of pleasure and profit under Miss LeBaron's direction followed. The members were sorry that Mrs. Virgin was unable to be present. Miss LeBaron served refreshments.

Detroit Wings Revamped For 1939-40 Campaign In N.H.L.

Red Wings Shaken Up from Head to Foot as Jack Adams Attempts to Assemble Squad Resembling Stanley Cup Outfits of Three and Four Years Ago—Purchase of Cecil Dillon and Summoning of Flock of Youngsters Principal Moves.

Detroit, Oct. 26.—Release of Marty Barry and Doug Young, two stars of the world champions of 1935-36 and 1936-37, is but one indication of how thoroughly Jack Adams is making over his Detroit Red Wings for the National Hockey League season.

From head to foot Adams is giving the Red Wings a shaking-up with the intention of assembling something like his Stanley Cup squads of three and four years ago. An admixture of veterans and little-tried youngsters will be counted on to lift the Wings from the rut that led them right out of the playoffs two seasons ago and to nothing better than fifth place last season.

Adams started rebuilding early in the 1938-'9 campaign, when he let Normie Smith retire, sold Bucko McDonald to Toronto and acquired from Boston one of the greatest of all goal-tenders, Tiny Thompson, to replace Smith. When the season ended he relinquished his rights to big Charlie Conacher and retired another old standby, Herbie Lewis, to the management of Detroit's new farm at Indianapolis.

He bought a great scorer, Cecil Dillon, from New York Rangers and summoned a flock of youngsters to training camp to try for places with the Red Wings and with the Indianapolis and Omaha farms. Evidently he was pleased with the crop he let Barry and Young go unconditionally last week, though they were welcomed with open arms by Montreal Canadiens.

On the 34-year-old Thompson will fall again a big burden behind a defence that has to prove its worth. Only Eddie Goodfellow and Scott Bowman remain from the defence-men of Stanley cup days.

Alex Moffat, 175-pound centre, is being made over into a defenceman the way Goodfellow was. For the fourth defence spot Adams will rely on Buck Jones, a hard-hitting youngster.

Most of Adams' troubles end there, however. For all youngsters have made good in either the major or minor leagues. Manager Jack figures he has found some combinations in camp.

Dillon will work on a line with Ken Kilrea and Don Deacon, the newly boy from Regina who led the International American League in scoring last season and saw service with Detroit in the playoffs.

Moderne Bruneteau and Syd Howe, who helped bring the world titles to Detroit, join Gus Giesebrecht, a sensational sophomore on the second line. The third trio consists of Eddie Warsaw, an experienced pay-off player, and Don Grossen and Sid Abel, who came up from amateur company last winter and made good immediately.

The enduring Hec Kilrea, brother of Ken and a National League veteran since 1925, will serve as ability forward.

Country And Dairy Products Prices

Montreal, Oct. 26.—No great change in conditions was featured on the local market. A little more activity was felt on the Exchange, but the open market was dull. Butter was quiet with a slightly easier tone.

Cheese was steady, with little or no activity. Eggs were steadier with an improved demand. The demand for eggs was not too brisk but receipts were light. The general tone of the market is usually quiet at the beginning of the week and an improvement may be noted toward the end.

FEAR COCKNEY MAY OUTPOINT OTHER ACCENT

Guardians of Real English Afraid Influence of London Evacuees May Influence Dialects of Primitive England.

By JACK BRAYLEY (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 26.—The quiet green lanes of England are resounding these days to the chatter of the nervous Cockney. And where it will all end is a question wrangling the brows of societies for the preservation of country dialects.

For the stubborn, unyielding Londoner who slurs over syllables with contempt, drops his where they should be and puts them in where they shouldn't be, has never been known to concede an inch and worse still has a reputation for being contemptuous.

So as thousands of London's evacuees poured into the heretofore undisturbed sanctuaries of Wilts, Bucks, Berks and all the rest, the protagonists of local culture emitted a horrified and somewhat wailing "Coo blimey"—an expression this correspondent has since heard rolling unexpectedly from the slow tongue of a "Zumerzi" bumpkin. The epidemic has started.

What chance has the chomping splitter of Wilts with this greatest abhorrence of all English dialects? None at all say the experts. Cockney spreads and in spreading stamps out all traces of rival and perhaps older tongues. Hence if the war keeps the Cockneys in the country long enough the experts predict there won't be a "Z" left in Somerset or an "H" in Sussex—counties which for centuries have been distinguished for giving these letters more than full value.

Some predict that only Lancashire and Yorkshire have stout enough accents to withstand the invasion. Others are convinced that even these fortresses will fall.

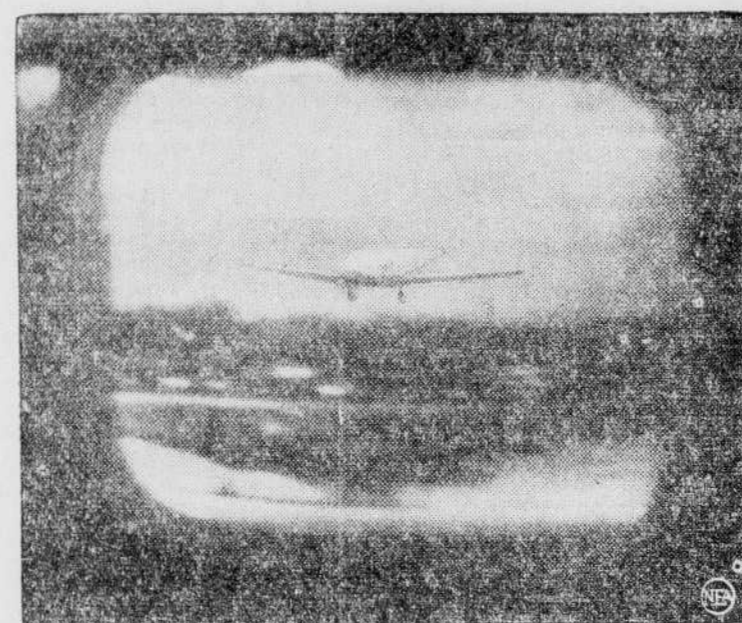

The critics point out that if one Cockney can correct a whole school surely there is only one hopeless prospect for the country dialects in villages where populations have been trebled by the influx from London.

And they tell the story of the prosperous Cockney bookmaker who decided to send his son to a public school—which of course is a private school in Canada.

"Now, chum," he said to the very Oxford headmaster, "I want the young 'un to get a good broad full of learnin' and especially a haecent."

"Quite," replied the nasal-toned

PASSENGERS INSIDE PLANE GET OUTSIDE VIEW AS IT LANDS

Passengers aboard a United Air Lines plane high over New York's new Municipal Airport at North Beach, L.I., gazed in awe at this view of their plane gliding down for a landing. The image was flashed from the ground by R. C. A. engineers conducting the first demonstration of television inside an airplane. A photographer aboard the plane shot this picture of the image on the screen.

Six months later the bookmaker called for his son and while waiting for him to pack asked the headmaster what kind of a job he had done.

"Well, Lor' lumme, guv'nor, strike me pink if yer Alfie 'int 'arf a bright 'un—" the headmaster began. The father sighed resignedly. The whole school was speaking Cockney.

MAN ON STREET SEES NEED FOR CAUTIOUS WAR

British People Realize Watchful Waiting May Do More to Win War Than Unrestricted Aggressive Fighting.

By JACK BRAYLEY (Canadian Press Staff Writer) London, Oct. 27.—Impatient arm-chair strategists who seem disappointed the war didn't start with military parades followed by colossal battles and air raids have stopped asking: "What kind of a war is this, anyhow?"

From any public house in England you'll hear caution advocated. The British General Staff's three-year plan has been accepted as a basis for the man-in-the-street's new conclusions over the counter with foaming beer.

Here is an example: A long waiting war with a stalemate between the Maginot and Siegfried Lines finally being broken by complete capitulation by the Germans after collapse on their home front. This collapse, according to the amateur critics, would be caused chiefly by the blockade but contributing factors would be the rising of oppressed minorities and Nazi impatience leading to rash and costly adventures antagonizing neutrals and causing discontent among the German people. Rash adventures would include desperate counter attacks, unrestricted submarine warfare, bombing of civilian populations and violation of neutrals.

Meantime, the hypothesis continues, Britain and France, conserving men and munitions by stone-walling tactics, keeping German ships from the seas and assuring their own sources of supply by efficient convoy systems, stand by until Hitler's regime is finally discredited and then step in and help establish a new order.

"I tell you chum," said the proprietor of the Star and Garter, "we've nothing to lose and everything to gain by a cautious waiting campaign. With a blockade and truthful propaganda, we can do more to establish a peaceful and democratic Germany and Europe than we can by unrestricted bloody warfare."

Ten days before the same man had been one of many expressing dissatisfaction at the seeming inactivity on the Western Front and especially at the lack of direct help for Poland.

The Evening Standard military correspondent points out that to send Allied planes to Poland and equip their necessary ground staffs, radio stations, repair depots and munition supply dumps would have been a useless sacrifice, even from the Polish military point of view.

WALLACE URGE THIRD TERM FOR ROOSEVELT

San Francisco, Oct. 26.—(AP)—War abroad, said Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today, makes clear the desirability of a third term for President Roosevelt.

Wallace, who said agricultural prospects were brighter than at any time in two years past, referred only briefly in an interview to the 1940 campaign, saying:

"Since the outbreak of war in Europe it has become apparent that the country needs the talents and training of Mr. Roosevelt not only in handling domestic problems."
