United Church tackles controversy

A BIG FAMILY — Momma doesn't care for spectators, as shown by her expression. Constable Bertrand Crevier of the Magog police force was presented with 12 Doberman pinschers recently. One of the litter died, but even 11 proves quite a pouch-package in any household, especially when they're Dobermans. Says Crevier, "At least Momma was discreet. She chose a German Shepherd to keep her family pure Deutsch."

SASKATOON (CP) — The 25th general council of the United Church of Canada starts eight days of sessions Tuesday with internal church business taking a secondary place on the agenda.

Instead, the council, parliament of Canada's largest Protestant denomination, turns most of its attention to such issues as abortion, Quebec separatism, apartheid in South Africa, capital punishment, and income distribution in Canada.

Abortion, one of the most contentious issues at the 1971 general council meeting in Niagara Falls, Ont., again is expected to arouse controversy.

The church's stand on abortion was disputed by many of its 2.2 million members.

The church position is basically that abortion is a private matter between a woman and her doctor, permissible in certain medical, social and economic circumstances.

A new paper prepared for council approval reaffirms the position and adds that family planning through contraception not only is preferable but is a Christian duty.

WILL ELECT MODERATOR

Among the inner-church issues on the agenda for the 450 commissioners—half clerical and half lay—is election of a moderator to replace Rt. Rev. A. B. B. Moore of Toronto.

Four men have been nominated for the post, highest elected position in the United Church—lawyer John Black of Kingston, Ont., two Toronto ministers, Rev. Clifford A. S. Elliott and Rev. N. Bruce McLeod, and Rev. R. W. Henderson of Vancouver.

The council is not slated to take any action on proposed union with the Anglican Church of Canada and the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) which has been in negotiation for almost 25 years. The council will hear a progress report only.

The commissioners also are to consider a report prepared by a special church commission that accuses French- and English-speaking Canadians of having as little interest in each other "as if one group were in a foreign land."

The report says Quebec may one day secede from the rest of Canada as it has every "right" to do provided the action "has the clear endorsement of an effective majority."

LOOK AT INVESTMENTS

A resolution up for approval asks that the church take a close look at its investments to determine whether church capital is being used to support South Africa's apartheid policy.

Another resolution would urge permanent abolition of the death penalty for murder.

A proposal from the British Columbia conference seeks formation of a commission to study baptism and alternatives to it. The resolution says there are ways other than baptism for "acknowledging and welcoming and celebrating the gift of a child into a family's life."

Another proposed resolution says multi-national corporations have gained increasing influence over the economic, political and social life of Canadians.

It recommends that church members take an active role in pressing such corporations "whose policies and practices run counter to the interests of society" to assume a greater social responsibility.

IRA blitz expected

BELFAST (AP) — Irish Republican Army guerrillas are expected to unleash a bomb blitz soon to upset a planned conference on Northern Ireland's future, political sources said Sunday.

They also may try to assassinate Roman Catholic political leaders, the sources said.

These fears were expressed by security chiefs and Catholic moderates in Belfast after a weekend which brought two more murders attributed to assassination squads.

They believe the bomb-throwing Provisional wing of the IRA has missed its political opportunities in the last few months and now feels the only way it can win any recognition is to blast its way to the conference table.

A fresh bombing campaign would also hamstring the moderate Catholic-based Social Democratic and Labor Party—which already has had talks with the British and may attend the conference.

The crucial, all-party conference, scheduled for Sept. 25-27 by William Whitelaw, Britain's administrator in Northern Ireland, will take place in England, not in Belfast as initially thought, informed sources said.

The SDLP has come under IRA criticism for talking to Whitelaw before all the IRA suspects interned without trial had been freed.

DEMAND RELEASE OF 200

However, the SDLP stressed Sunday it will not attend the conference unless Britain agrees to end the internment program and release the 200 men still held.

Whitelaw knows the conference will be meaningless unless the SDLP, the main political voice of Ulster's Catholic minority, attends.

Riding camp a way of life for family, students

By FRANCES WESTLEY

SUTTON — The Whispering Pines Horse Farm is more than a riding camp, it's a family affair. In addition it's a way of life, for teacher and student alike.

About 4 p.m. on a drizzly afternoon, at the 13-acre farm owned by George Dyer and operated by him, his wife, two energetic daughters (and his two equally energetic sons, when they're home) is daunted by the weather. In the two outdoor riding arenas seven young girls impeccably dressed in riding habits under their raincoats, ride seriously and studiously round and round. In the centre of each ring, like a ringmaster, the oldest Dyer girl, Diana, stands with the more advanced equestrians. Anna helps with the beginners, directing, advising, commanding.

"We started out when Ski Mont Sutton opened up in around 1961," explained George Dyer as he patted a beautiful dalmatian at his heels. "I've owned the house and the land since 1905. When the tourist association was formed in Sutton we were members. Then we decided to convert our shed into a dormitory for skiers. The first winter we had three doctors' daughters as ski guests and they wanted to come back to ride the horses. So then we started a summer camp. It wasn't really a riding camp then, we took them camping and hiking."

Mr. Dyer, a father of four, has always loved horses. His own father was a veterinarian and when George Dyer married and had children of his own, he taught them to ride almost as soon as they could walk. He kept six ponies for them, and as the children grew, so did their enthusiasm for the animals, and the sport.

It was not until Diana was in college, however, and the Dyers had been operating their ski dorm for several years that the family made the decision to expand into a riding school.

"After one year in university, Diana went to England to do a course in equitation," Mr. Dyer said. "When she came back we decided to expand. After that the whole thing grew like topsy. Gradually we worked up to 22 horses. At one time we had 30 kids but that was too many. Now we take eight. Five years ago we built a lake and now we have swimming and fishing too."

Everything about the farm looked well cared for. The tidy yards were framed by neat white fences. The grass and hedges were trimmed. Inside, the dormitory was much the same. It was difficult to believe seven young girls were living in those rooms, everything shone as if it had been polished.

Most impressive of all, however, were the stables and the tack room. Every bit of equipment was clean and carefully hung on pegs. The stable floor was clean enough to sleep on. There wasn't a trace of the dirt nor of the smell usually associated with so many animals together in one place.

TRAINING EARLY BETTER

The Dyers accept about eight students between the ages of eight and 12 every summer. Sometimes the students are slightly older if the student has been at the camp previously. The family feels it is better to begin training at an early age as old errors are difficult to forget. The object of the school is that after several summers of training a child will be capable of training, riding and entering his or her own horse into competitions.

"Riding is only one of the things we teach a student here," Diana Dyer said emphatically. "More important is that we teach them responsibility and care for an animal and for themselves."

"In England, they run their riding schools like military academies. They're a little too strict. I think you have to be more flexible. With children that system doesn't work. However," she added, "I'm a stickler for a clean barn, and I learned that in England too. I learned that being neat and clean is an attitude that carries over to riding. Similarly it's important to dress properly for riding."

"We're very strict. The children have to be kind to their horses. I try to teach them something of the psychology of the horses, as well as their anatomy. Things like what frightens horses, how to calm them down, where they like to be stroked. It's important as well to have a sense of humor around animals."

The Dyers presently have 28 ponies. The majority are Arawells, half Arabian, half Welsh. In addition they have several pure Arabians, one Morgan, one full thoroughbred and two half thoroughbreds. Each child is assigned a horse on arrival. Factors such as age, size and emotional compatibility weigh heavily in the choice of animal for each child. Once matched, the child is responsible for the care of that horse throughout his or her stay.

"There are a lot of raised eyebrows about the fact that we use Arawells," Diana said. "They're known to be hot-tempered, high-spirited horses. But we're careful. We start the kids slowly, on a line until they get a seat. And the kids know they're riding something special. Over a period of time you watch a child and a horse really grow together."

"Also when you're trained on a well bred pony," added Ann Dyer, "it's a lot easier later on to make the switch to a thoroughbred horse. If you learn on a cold-blood horse, it's hard to change later. Also cold-blood horses are sometimes really unpredictable. They are so dull at times, and then they can be so mean."

HORSES SENSITIVE

"Our horses are very sensitive," chimed in Mr. Dyer. "A while ago we started playing music in the stables and they really responded. They perked up their ears, they really like it." "It's amazing how horses pick up rhythms," Diana agreed. "Sometimes we ride to music. I play marching tunes and the horses really get into trotting with the beat. The kids really like it too. The times pass very quickly."

The students ride morning and afternoon in almost all weather. They are taught basic equitation, some jumping and other manoeuvres. "I don't like to push jumping too much," Diana said. "Too many kids who don't know anything about riding get in a show on a horse with a pair of spurs and start jumping. It's really dangerous. Besides there are so many other things to learn in dressage, the training of a horse. All the manoeuvres go back a long way," she added, smiling.

"Have you ever seen a horse high-stepping on spot? That used to be used in battle. When a rider unseated his opponent he would tramp up and down on him. High kicks with the rear legs used to unhorse the opponent. Now all these moves are used in shows."

The end result of the training is that the students should be able to enter solo competition on their ponies. As far as the Dyers are concerned, this is the true testing of what the child has learned and what the teacher has taught the child. They feel competition gives a student a sense of self confidence and achievement. To this end they patronize the numerous horse shows in the Eastern Townships and for a number of years have donated their own horses for the benefit of the Cystic Fibrosis Association. The Dyers' horses and riders have won numerous ribbons and trophies. The Dyers are not satisfied, however, with what many horse shows in Quebec have to offer the young rider.

"In this region," said Diana, "the line between the rich and the not-so-rich is very clear. If you don't have money you simply don't place in the horse shows around here. The classes and competitions are arranged to suit the horses of the group which organizes the show. Consequently the shows are often inadequate for the junior riders. They never even get a chance to show their stuff."

"The judges are often incompetent," George Dyer said. "The children lose faith."

KIDS LOSE FAITH

"I don't see why they can't see the children need to be encouraged," added Mrs. Dyer. "They're at the age when they could develop into first rate riders. Under these circumstances they just give up. In Stowe they had a whole day devoted to showing ponies. It was great for the children." "They're just not interested in ponies here," Ann agreed glumly.

The Dyers recently visited the Montreal Hunt Show which they found particularly upsetting. They said there were no toilet facilities for the public and some 1,000 people were told they should relieve themselves in the woods or beside their cars.

"Not only was it unsanitary and embarrassing," Diana said vehemently, "but it was also dangerous. Kids who were too embarrassed to go in public were riding with full bladders. If they had fallen off they might have ruptured themselves. One of the organizers was a surgeon's wife. She should have known that."

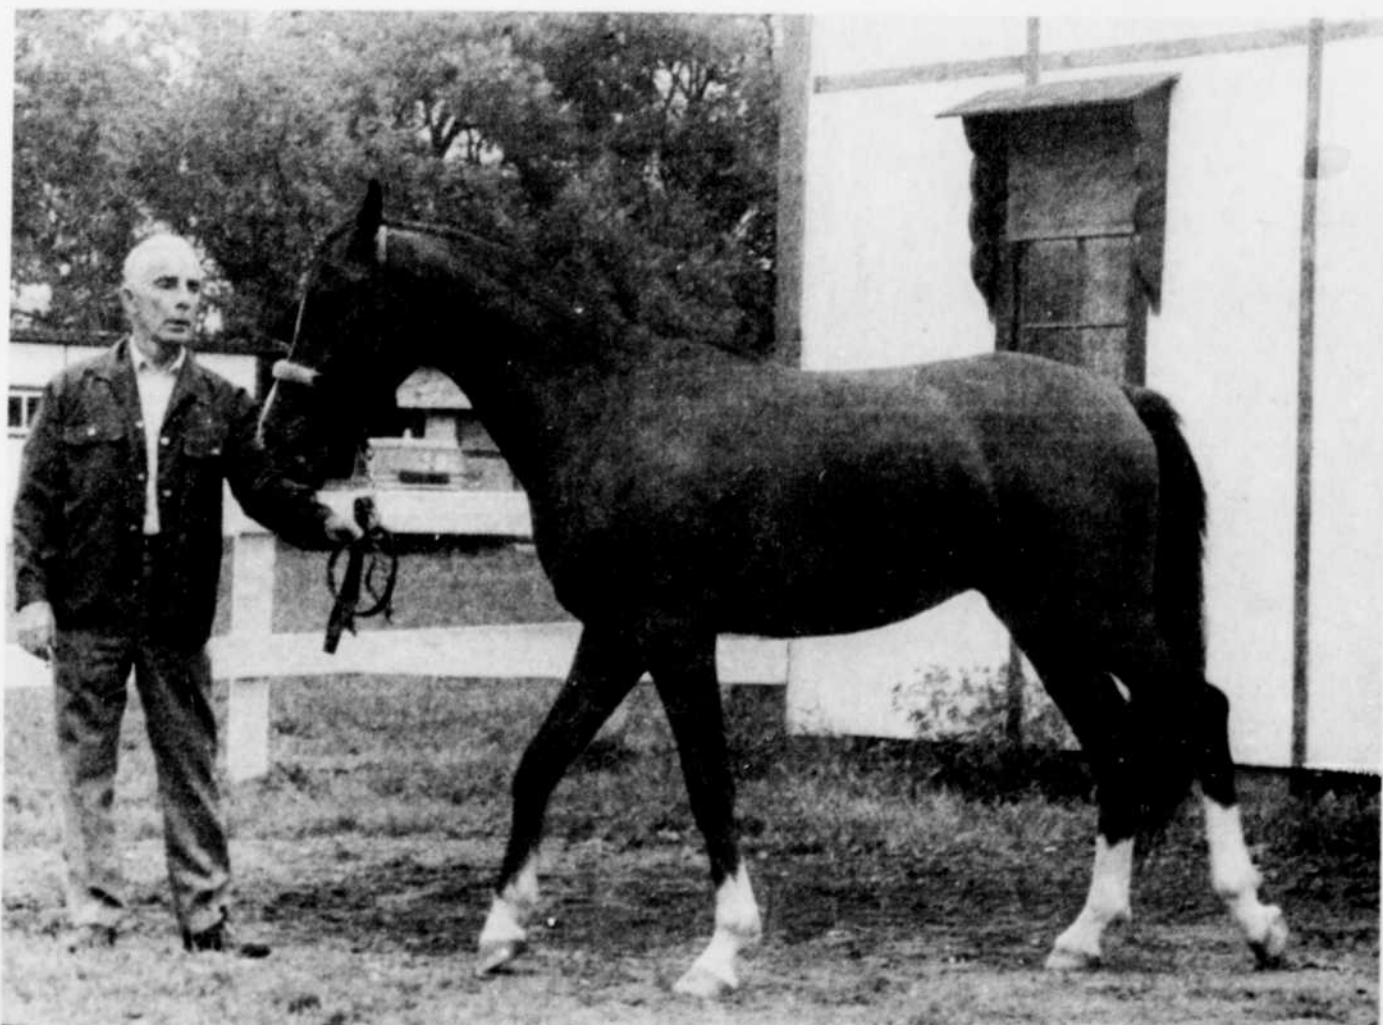

"One little girl from our school was riding and she needed to go to the bathroom. I'm sure there was a bathroom in the arena and so I sent her down to ask the lady in charge if she could use it. She was told that it wasn't for public use."

LACKED TOILET FACILITIES

Mr. Dyer and his wife also requested use of a bathroom and were told to go in the back of some empty stalls. "Imagine, asking people to pay an admittance fee and not providing any toilet facilities," Diana said. "Not only that, but there was no doctor present and no vet, although it was listed on the programs that a vet would be there."

"One girl missed a jump," explained Ann, "and her horse ran into it, as she fell off. She didn't even check the horse, and the judge didn't stop her. She just went right on in another show. By the end of the show the horse's mouth was streaming blood. Blood was all over her and all over the judge. And there wasn't a vet there to check the horse."

"Sometimes when you see what some people do," Diana said, "you look with adoration on animals. They're so beautiful, so clean."

A SENSE OF RESPONSIBILITY — George Dyer stands with his pure Arabian colt, one of the 18 ponies on the Whispering Pines Horse Farm in Sutton, a riding school run by Mr. Dyer and his family which stresses not only riding but responsibility for the care and training of animals. (Record photo: F. Westley)

Mrs. D. Vachon

837-2453

Friends of Mr. Roy Reed and family extend their sympathy in the death of his brother Mr. Jim Reed in Montreal.

Pastor and Mrs. Albert Millner of Oshawa were visiting old friends in the neighborhood. They were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Knutson.

Mr. Frank Knutson has returned after a stay in the Medical Center. His many friends will be very pleased with the improvement in his health.

Mrs. Ruth Hudson of Springfield, Vt., spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. P. Ingham Callers at the same home were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dearborn of Drummondville, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Vear, and Mrs. Mildred Andrews of Lennoxville.

Miss Mary Barter has returned home after spending two weeks at the Frontier Lodge Camp at St. Hermenegilde.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Yetter of Trenton, Ont., spent their holidays with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Knowlton of Waterville and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Yetter Sr. of Newport, Vt. While here they called on other friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Crowley of Toronto, Ont., spent some time in Waterville visiting friends.

The Waterville Christmas club was held at the home of Mrs. Corey in Earlstown. Three tables of 500 were played. First prize was won by Mrs. M.

Knutson, second prize by Mrs. P. Ingham and consolation by Mrs. Brown. Refreshments were delicious fresh strawberries with cream served by Mrs. Corey, assisted by her mother Mrs. C. Ball. Next meeting will be at Mrs. Ingham's.

A very successful Ice Cream Social was held in Waterville sponsored by the St. John's A.C.W. Baking and other articles were sold. A drawing was held and the winning tickets were Mr. Robert Nichols Sr. of Compton winning a bridge tablecloth set and Mrs. A. Bradley of St. Laurent, a trailer truck. The bridge set was donated by Mrs. McGenty of Waterville. The ladies who helped in making it a success were Mrs. V. Loomis, Mrs. Howes, Mrs. D. Deacon, Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. M. Ward and assisted by Misses L. Ward, L. Beliveau and C. Deacon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Knowlton accompanied Mr. and Mrs. E. Vachon to Canton, Mass., to visit their sister who is a patient in the University Hospital in Boston, Mass.

Annual community picnic

SAND HILL - On July 30 over fifty people gathered at Milton Laberee's sugar woods for a get-together. Some carried folding chairs and some picnic baskets, others drove their cars in to the picnic area. People enjoyed eating out on the first day without rain for some time in this area. When lunch was nearly over ice cream was served. It was pleasant to have a chat with old friends and neighbours and also to meet new people.

Among those who signed the guest book which was looked after by Miss Susan Fearon were Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wingate of Van Klee Hill, Ont., who moved there from Sand Hill a few years ago, also Mr. Howard Caswell of Warden.

SOCIAL NOTES

On Sat. July 29 Mr. Milton Laberee attended the wedding of Mr. John Lockerbie to Miss Brenda Carr in St. George's Church, Lennoxville, and the reception held at Ripple Cove, Ayer's Cliff.

Mrs. Ronald Rothney accompanied her daughter Mrs. S. Cathcart to Moe's River one evening to attend a double stork shower at the home of Mrs. Ronald Haseltine in honour of her nieces Mrs. Mahlon Grapes and little son Jeff and her sister Mrs. Lloyd Fisk and her infant son Robert.

On Sat. July 29 Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sims attended on Anglican retreat at Beauvoir, Sherbrooke.

Following the Annual picnic here, Mr. and Mrs. Sims accompanied by Susan Fearon of Lennoxville attended a family picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Labonte at East Angus.

Rev. David Fearon and Mr. Joe Webster were guests for a few days of the former's mother Mrs. J. Sims and Mr. Sims en route home to Hawkesbury after vacationing in Mexico City, Mexico. Miss Susan Fearon is spending a few days at the home of her grandmother Mrs. Sims and Mr. Sims.

Mr. and Mrs. Rothney and Marilyn accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Cathcart of Sherbrooke to Cookshire where they spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rothney.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Follow thru with promises made even tho you now wish you hadn't been so quick to make the commitment.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Listen to opinions of others. You may pick up a bit of information that could change your views completely.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Seeking new contacts is vital to the project and today's aspects indicate success in such endeavors.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): While perfection is desirable, it is, of course, unattainable. Strive for it, but don't fret.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Be sensible about utilization of your time (and that of other people). Make minutes count.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21): Stop all that rushing around and get your life back on an even keel. Nerves seem on edge under present rays.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22): Erratic tendencies accentuated. You blow hot and cold today, first wanting one thing, then another.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Although you get off to a good start in the morning, you tend to fade fast today. Energy at low ebb.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): An early note of gloom fades fast as the mail brings welcome news, perhaps even exciting information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): After you've cleared your desk, workbench or whatever, go out to a new restaurant, drive-in movie or beach.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Experiment a little before making final decision. You may find you want to make a few changes.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Someone may be hiding some vital information from you. Try to ascertain who's holding out, and what.

Implementation of Bill 65 begins tonight with information meeting

SHERBROOKE (WM) — Bill 65, designed to regionalize and improve health and social services in Quebec, is now in effect. Meetings will be held in Sherbrooke this week to elect officials to the Regional Health and Social Services Council which will have jurisdiction over all health and social services in the area. It was announced at a news conference Friday.

The council will consist of 21 members — four elected by the mayors of the municipalities in the region, two named by the universities, three by the hospitals, four by social service centres, three by reception centres, three by local community service centres and one by the Sherbrooke CEGEP.

In addition, there will be two representatives of socio-economic groups of the area to be designated by the Lieutenant Governor in council after consultation with socio-economic groups in the area. An information meeting, to be held in the auditorium of Hotel Dieu Hospital today at 8 p.m. will explain designation procedures for the representatives. Citizens from all socio-economic groups are invited to attend. Representatives of the other sections will be elected during the coming week.

TO BRIDGE GAP

It is hoped the Regional Council of Health and Welfare will form a bridge between the various health and welfare establishments in the area and the ministry of social affairs in Quebec. The council will also assure communications between the public and health and social services. It will receive and investigate complaints from the public and make appropriate recommendations to the persons or organizations concerned. It is hoped this will lead to improvement of the health and welfare services.

The establishment of a Regional Council with jurisdiction over health and social services is the first of a series of new structures designed to improve the general state of health and social conditions in Quebec. It is also intended to simplify existing structures.

The changes will affect hospitals, sanitary units, homes for the aged, day nurseries, social service agencies, orphanages, mental homes, centres for the physically handicapped, work training centres and professional social centres. All these establishments will eventually be put under four main categories — hospitals, social service centres, information and reception centres and local community service centres.

Each of the four main categories will have an administrative council of officials as well as two representatives from the public.

Officer cadets chosen

SHERBROOKE (WM) — Ten candidates from the Sherbrooke area were selected Friday to enter the Royal Military College in St. John's under the Canadian armed forces officer training plan. Captain Roger Smith of Stanstead presented enrolment certificates in a ceremony at the Sherbrooke recruiting centre on King Street.

The students enrolled are Alain Benoit of Compton, Robert Bernier and Daniel Roy of Granby, Alain Charpentier and Robert St. Laurent of Richmond, Paul Dionne of Asbestos, Yves Dugal of East Angus, Gilles Lebrun of Sherbrooke, Rene Robert of Lac Megantic and Derek Smith of Stanstead.

The 10 students were selected from 35 applicants after extensive academic, physical and psychological examinations. The Royal Military College offers bilingual education and recreational activities with academic courses of a standard equivalent to other Canadian universities. Special emphasis is placed on the development of leadership and other qualities expected of an officer in the Canadian Armed Forces.

Tuition and other essential fees are paid by the department of national defence. Graduates of the college are expected to serve the Canadian Armed Services for four years after graduation.

SHERBROOKE (WM) — The second annual dog show held Saturday at the Sherbrooke Exposition attracted many fine entries from all over the Eastern Townships.

The best Canadian dog, owned by Mr. and Mrs. D. McArthur of Mont. St. Hilaire, won a trophy awarded by the Ralston Purina dog food company. The trophy for the best puppy, owned by Mr. and Mrs. M. Goun of Hope Kennels in St. Timothee, was awarded by the Dr. Baillard's pet food company.

The first prize in the cooking sections, donated by Beaudry

Maple Products of Sherbrooke, was awarded to Mrs. Arthur Haisall of Lennoxville.

In the fine arts section, the first prize for the autumn scene went to C.S. Billing of Sherbrooke. The fruit and flowers prize went to Denise Laflamme of Sherbrooke. Mr. Billing also won the prize for the winter scene. The best painting in black and white went to Mrs. Leonide Cote of Bromptonville.

WINS WOOD PRIZE

In the section of articles made of wood, Raymond Pelchat of Sherbrooke won the prize for the best wooden ashtray and for the best offering among other articles made of wood.

The winner of the artistic pieces made from shells went to Florence Gagnon of Fleurimont. In the ceramics section, Patricia Keenan of Greenlay placed first.

Of the photographic exhibits, George W. Taylor of Richmond was judged best, and of the snapshot enlargements, Mrs. Wanda Taylor, also of Richmond, won first prize.

The overall winner for an original subject was Mr. Billing of Sherbrooke.

The Christmas tree exhibition was divided into five sections. Yvan Lanctot of Compton was judged first in the exhibits of Scotch pine trees and Richard Downey of Lennoxville won the prize for the best trimmed balsam pine.

The section of untrimmed balsam pine trees was won by Lachlan Stalker of Melbourne.

Christmas wreaths were also shown in the exhibition. Mrs. Taylor of Richmond won the decorated Christmas wreath section and Mr. Lanctot of Compton won the best plain Christmas wreath prize.

Over the hill

Undoubtedly you have heard of the Cowansville Penitentiary. Unless you have been held captive for the past year by a band of wayward lumberjacks you know the notoriety which surrounds it. What you have heard of this institution probably has not been too complimentary.

Something is definitely wrong over there. As of this writing 15 men have escaped in less than six months. Supposedly this medium security prison, under federal jurisdiction, is a centre of confinement. However, it is turning out to be something quite different, as prisoner after prisoner leaves for greener pastures when he decides a change is in order.

The prison is becoming, or has become, the laughing stock of the province. Now newscasters herald the all too frequent escapes with: "Today still another prisoner escaped from Cowansville..." Other towns and cities are noted for such things as the CNE in Toronto, the Stampede in Calgary, and Man and His World in Montreal. Cowansville has become famous for Cowansville Penitentiary and its many prison breaks.

When this prison was originally established, citizens were fearful. Many were alarmed that dangerous convicted felons would be brought into the community. Authorities smoothed troubled waters by reassuring citizens that "more than adequate" security measures would be employed.

What happened? Obviously somewhere along the line something went wrong. Despite some claims, Cowansville Penitentiary does have within its folds hardened criminals. It is these people who are continually breaking jail and leaving prison officials with a great amount of egg to wipe from their faces.

Both the penitentiary and the department of justice have the charge not only of confining these men but also of protecting the population surrounding the prison.

These escaping convicts have not held hostage or harmed any civilians so far. However, there is always a first time. Some of these men are quite desperate and will do almost anything to avoid being recaptured. The majority of them have been classified as dangerous by authorities.

God help those living close to this prison. Only must these people know the meaning of the word fear. Each time the siren blows to announce the event they will be thankful of the many shotgun-toting policemen tracking about their property in the dead of night.

Right now we bet we know where you can pick up some property real cheap...if you risk it!

Guarding the needs of the people

By Michael Hughes

MONTREAL (CP) — The domes and bell-shaped structures look as though they belonged to a space station on another planet.

But they are part of a model for deep-sea exploration camps featured in Bane Jovanovic's National Film Board production The Sea.

The model, which took more than a year to assemble, was constructed in NFB laboratories here following designs which underwater scientists developed from plans of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration of the United States.

The underwater base also symbolizes one of the movie's themes—that while man has concentrated on exploring outer space, what scientists call inner space, or the seas, holds as much importance and mystery.

Slowly but subtly the half-hour movie weaves together the threads of the message that oceans are important to man's survival and that pollution of the seas is a threat to his existence.

A chilling quote in the film: "If the life of the sea is 24 hours, man intruded just a minute before midnight."

DEATH PORTRAYED

With it, the viewer watches a minute organism, magnified many times, slowly dying in polluted water. This type of organism is one of many which form the basis of life in the sea.

Recently shown on CBC television, the film was awarded the Medal of Gold by the president of Italy at the 13th annual festival of documentary films in Milan.

An equally impressive model used in the film is of the mid-Atlantic range, seven miles deep, where the camera records the crashing rocks and thundering boulders of an underwater avalanche.

Both models were constructed by the film's director, Colin Low, who produced Universe, the NFB's most widely-distributed film.

The Sea was requested by the Bedford Institute of Oceanography of Dartmouth, N.S. late in 1968. It took Mr. Jovanovic three years to complete.

He and his cameramen, including noted underwater photographer Al Giddings, logged more than 45,000 miles "trying to make a poem or impression of the sea."

STUDIED BIOLOGY

Mr. Jovanovic, a native of Belgrade, Yugoslavia, and a graduate of Cambridge University, joined the NFB in 1967 after television and film work in England and Sweden. That year he produced D.N.A., a science film on heredity, which won several international awards.

When he took charge of producing The Sea, Mr. Jovanovic studied "a lot of marine biology," visited the Bedford Institute and cruised on its floating laboratory and research vessel, the Hudson.

Much of the filming was done from the Hudson. One of the more intriguing scenes is of shrimp photographed under the Arctic ice as they make their clicking sound that science has not yet been able to explain.

Other scenes include Japanese divers, a pounding winter storm in the Atlantic, the doomed tanker Arrow in Chedabucto Bay and the super-tanker Manhattan bulling her way through the Northwest Passage with the aid of the Canadian icebreaker, John A. Macdonald.

There are also scenes of the gigantic barrier reefs off British Honduras and the world's largest underwater habitat near Hawaii.

"I think the entrepreneur is a fellow who creates wealth and uses the genius in the community. But I don't believe they should set the rules, that they, the Mr. Bigs, should frustrate the social aspirations of the community," he said.

USES SPORT TERMS

The peppery mayor explains himself in terms of a football game.

"We don't want to take all the players off the field, all the enterprising people off the field, all the businessmen off the field because they are the best players. But we are going to change the rules of the game."

"We in government have to endeavor to change the football rules because we are going to play a different type of game."

New rules for Victoria, former bastion of the status quo, were issued in March when council approved regulations limiting buildings in the downtown area to 14 storeys or 140 feet unless council grants special approval.

The city will also pass a bylaw soon, Mr. Pollen said, gradually eliminating over a three-year period all large "third party" billboards and also imposing tighter restrictions on the permissible size and number of other signs.

Third-party signs are those relating to a commercial activity or advertising a service or product not available on the site in question.

Mr. Pollen said this action became necessary after the billboard companies proved to be "less than responsive" to council's pleas that garish billboard advertising be toned down.

NO SOCIAL IDEAS

The big businesses, the international and multinational companies don't operate with any social conscience, he said. They respond "only to their share of the market and their return on investment."

As a result, Mr. Pollen said, "the city is being used almost exclusively as a vehicle to help business."

"You have a lot of vistas destroyed by billboards. You have developers putting up things like west-end Vancouver because they can make a bigger yield on a 30-storey than they can on a 12-storey."

"I would like to see cities oriented more toward people than business."

Reader forum

Wake up, parents

Dear Sirs,

It was very interesting to read your article on the front page of the Friday, August 4, Record re "School exam result returns in mess."

As I see it, every year they seem to be in a mess. Last year it was a computer's fault. When a student must wait until August to know if he or she has passed to send these results to the University where he or she hopes to attend, it is very disturbing to parents and student alike. September rolls around very quickly and in that short time he must wait for a reply of acceptance. Perhaps he has made applications to more than one University, in case the chosen one has no places by the time his marks are available. This is costly as he does not get back all his deposit.

Yet last year Mrs. Loomis stated in the Record that parents shouldn't be so disturbed not knowing if "Little Johnny had passed." It was apparent by her statement that her children are too young for her to have the concern that parents and students taking grade eleven have.

I hope your readers noted that the subject was brought up about Richmond Regional School Cafeteria was not able to pay their way. How true! The AGRHS cafeteria must make enough money to keep on top and pay what RRHS goes behind. "How do they do it?" you may ask. The cafeteria does not make enough money on their regular meals at the low price they charge. Where else could the ETRSB members get a roast beef dinner complete for less than $1.00 per plate? In that case restaurants would make a mint!

Do the taxpayers in the district served by AGRHS realize that RRHS has four kitchen staff — the same number as AGRHS? Now compare the number of pupils at each school.

Also do the Richmond cafeteria staff work overtime free of charge for extra functions? No, I believe any extra functions there are catered to by outside help. Do the parents and taxpayers know that for the past two years the four kitchen staff plus some students — who were there mostly for fun than work — put on the banquet, not a lunch, for the school Prom, worked from 9 a.m. Saturday until 3 a.m. Sunday with only time enough to grab a snack?

Mr. Taylor, principal at RRHS, says that the students prefer to buy chips at a loss. That's a laugh! Chips, ice cream and chocolate bars, etc., sold at AGRHS help to get RRHS out of the hole as well as the extra catering AGRHS staff do free. I believe that Mr. Taylor does not allow the sale of these extras in his school because it makes more work for his janitors.

Do the parents and taxpayers know that the cafeteria staff at school must have a chest x-ray and medical examination each year? Yet pupils do not undergo the same, to work on — or hang around where it is being prepared — the food and dishes. One pupil worked all winter in the kitchen with a bad cough. The poor child spent the following summer in the sanitarium with TB.

Is it legal for a member of the school board to sell liability insurance to the school under his board? I believe that a mayor of a municipality cannot sell his wares to that municipality. Am I right?

Do you think it is important that the nurses employed at school make a record of accidents that happen on the school property? This is not always the case. When an accident has been reported, should the school board notify their insurance company immediately or should they wait a couple of weeks or more? What about unemployment insurance forms — should they be sent to the claimant immediately or let the claimant go to the Unemployment Insurance Commission anytime and pick them up? Then after the claimant waits for his doctor's appointment to have them filled in, he is disqualified for late filing, etc.

Now, ask a lawyer or doctor to help you, if you have had an accident and should at least get unemployment insurance. What do you get for an answer? The lawyer says, "I'm not running the school board. I'm just mad at the way my taxes are going up and I'm not a doctor so I can't make out medical certificates." The doctor says, "I'm not a lawyer and I have too many reports to fill since medicare." Why doesn't a doctor's report have to be typed and in plain English instead of in his handwriting when even the druggist sometimes can't read his signature?

There are many ways that your tax dollar goes down the drain. Dr. White was allowed $3,000, equivalent to two months salary, when he was rejected as Director-General of the New Lennoxville Elementary Sector Board. That is more than a year's salary for one of the overworked cafeteria workers at AGRHS! Mr. Cooke, in an article recently, stated that taxes would be cut by cutting out expenses he thought unnecessary. Did he mention his or any of his colleagues taking a cut in salary?

Wake up taxpayers and parents! Remember it is your school and mine! We are supplying the money for those we have supposedly chosen to spend for the best education for our children. They are spending it but it is to the best advantage for our children's education and training? Remember, how they are trained governs our future.

Visit the school. It is your privilege to see how your money is spent. There is much more that could be said but I have taken up much space already and I thank you for the privilege.

Signed,
A Concerned Citizen

'Yes, we Canadians should take a greater interest in national affairs — and I think this McGovern will win our next election.'

Probing inner space

By Alex Binkley

VICTORIA (CP) — Peter Pollen, the lean, outspoken mayor of this capital city of British Columbia, is not one who will "go gentle out of the night."

A constant critic of what he called irresponsible politicians, money-grabbing developers and apathetic citizens during his two-year stint as an alderman, he shows no sign of mellowing as the city's chief magistrate.

"I just can't stand sitting around seeing the community getting had," the 44-year-old mayor-businessman said in an interview.

Asked whether he expects to achieve one of his goals, to force city planners and developers to be more sensitive to the needs of people, he quoted a passage from Welsh poet Dylan Thomas:

"Do not go gentle out of the night, Rage, rage, rage against the dying of the light."

Rage he has in the past and more of the same he promises for the future in an effort to have planners, developers and entrepreneurs plug into the needs and aspirations of the community rather than the reverse which he says has been the case in the past.

CITY PICTURESQUE

Summer visitors no doubt look upon this picturesque city on southern Vancouver Island with its hanging flower baskets, quirky little boutiques and "little bit of old England" atmosphere as immune from the earth-shaking problems of big city sprawl, congested streets and high-rise jungles.

Not Mayor Pollen, who uses Vancouver's west end, which he labels "a nightmare," as an example of what could be in store for Victoria if some controls and guidelines are not imposed.

Swept into the mayoral chair last December on a platform, a more refreshing, people-oriented approach to the growth of the city, Mr. Pollen has imposed some limits on the height of buildings, held high-rise proposals in limbo and in general put a leash on developers who previously had a free hand in the city.

Most of the planning decisions for the city in the past came from "an elite group," backed up by civil servants who were "highly specialized but enclosed in an incubator of bureaucracy," he said. Now he and his council are becoming more expert in planning matters and "continually questioning decisions by the civil service."

"Urban environments have always been imposed on the people by the so-called elitists," Mr. Pollen said. "But I think it is time in modern-day thinking... that the imposing of an environment on people must change or you are going to get a resigned dependency."

He is quick to say that these are not the mumbblings of a "mad socialist." After all he did make it big himself in the free enterprise world.

A business graduate, trained in labor relations, he was a business representative for Ford Motor Co. in Calgary and Vancouver before moving to Victoria in 1963. He now is manager of the Ford dealership, one of the biggest car dealerships in town.

Obituaries

RALPH W. ASHMAN of Stanstead

The death of Mr. Ralph W. Ashman, occurred on Saturday, July 22, 1972, at his late residence in Stanstead, following an illness that lasted seven months. He was in his 61st year.

Mr. Ashman was born July 26, 1911, one mile east of Way's Mills, the eighth child of the late John and Mary (Major) Ashman, Sr. His death was the first in a family of fourteen children.

He was a farmer all his life and had lived near Way's Mills except for a period of about six years when he lived at North Stanstead, his latter years he resided in Stanstead Village.

Mr. Ashman was a good christian neighbour, a hard working man and had been a faithful member of the Advent Christian Church in Beebe.

On August 5, 1967 he was united in marriage to Ruth P. Hethrington by whom he is survived.

August, 1963, he went to work for Arthur E. Curtis, Jr., on the Rolling Hills farm, Stanstead East, where he was employed until entering hospital on December 15, 1971. He was able to be about in early spring, but was more and more confined to his home where he was cared for by his wife until the end.

The large funeral was held in the Advent Christian Church, Beebe, on Tuesday, July 25 at two o'clock. Rev. Eric Anderson officiated. Prior to the service Mr. Anderson sang the solo, "Beyond the Sunset", a favorite hymn of the deceased. Miss Viola Moranville played the organ.

The bearers, all long time friends were Mr. John Byers, Mr. Andre Leblanc, Mr. Percy Clark, Mr. Merton Davis, Mr. A.E. Curtis, Jr., and Mr. O.T. LePoidevin. Interment was in Crystal Lake Cemetery, Stanstead.

The many floral tributes and money gifts to the church spoke of the esteem in which he was held.

The following members of the family attended the services: Mrs. Ralph Ashman, Mr. and Mrs. John Ashman, Jr., Massawippi, Mr. Harry Ashman, Hill, N.H.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ellam, Newport, Mrs. Archie Leney, St. Armand; Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, Coaticook; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Middleton, St., Stanstead, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jordan, Way's Mills; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Townsend, LaSalle; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ashman, Newport; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Middleton, Stanstead; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Ashman, Hatley, Mr. and Mrs. William Bronson, Kitchener, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Haskell and family, Marlinton.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hethrington and Leslie, Ottawa, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. David Hethrington, Ottawa, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen, Kentville, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. Percy Manning, Ottawa, Ont.; Mrs. Donald Thayer, Georgeville, Mr. Brian Davio, Beebe; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ashman, Holland; Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Hughes, Lennoxville, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Ellam, Morgan Center; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Harbinson, Sawyerville; Mrs. Arnold McIntyre, Coaticook; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wright, Hatley, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Roy, Stanstead; Mrs. Robert Alger, Rock Island, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Middleton, Rock Island, Mr. Thomas Middleton, Stanstead.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Lyons, Holland; Mrs. Roland Gallup, Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Darald Moulton, West Charleston; Mr. Wendell Humphrey, Thorold, Ont.; Mr. Roger Ashman, Newport; Misses Penny and Heather Middleton, Stanstead; Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Greenwood, Hatley, Mrs. Sadie Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. D. Cunningham, Lennoxville, Mrs. Alfred Keeler and Mrs. Iria Breault, Ayer's Cliff, also Rev. A.G.J. Steeves, Sherbrooke; Mr. Gerritt Van der Mark, Coaticook; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oxford, Sherbrooke and others from the boundary areas.

The following were unable to attend due to illness, a brother, Mr. Edward Ashman and Mrs. Ashman, Newport Center, a sister, Mrs. Herman Humphrey and Mr. Humphrey, of St. Catharines, Ont.

After the interment refreshments were served in Centenary United Church hall by the Allegro Unit.

MR. & MRS. JACK HUDGINS of St. Catharines, Ont.

Funeral services were held at the Butler Funeral Home in St. Catharines, Ont., on Thursday, July 27, 1972, at one-forty-five in the afternoon for Jack and Carol Hudgins who were both killed in an automobile accident at Parry Sound, Ont.

Mrs. Hudgins, the former Carol Humphrey was born at St. Catharines, Ont. She was 22 years of age, the daughter of Herman and Alice (Ashman) Humphrey, formerly of the Boundary areas. She had lived her life in St. Catharines.

Her husband, Jack, age 24 was born at Peterborough, Ont., and had resided in St. Catharines for the past five years. He was a truck driver for A. Newman and Company the past three years. He and Carol had just recently observed the second anniversary of their marriage.

The bearers for Carol were William and Richard Middleton, cousins, from Toronto and Fenwick, Ont., Dr. Dave Donovan, Detective Charles Sandison, Jack Stewart and Arthur Mooradian. And for Jack were Dr. Gordon Martyn, William Bradley, Jack Dawson, Cliff Verge, Tommy Wade and Jim Morton.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Several Gideon Bibles will be placed in institutions as memorials of the couple. Both were christian people and active in the work of their church. Mr. Hudgins was "a big brother" to a youngster of that community.

Mrs. Hudgins is survived by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Herman Humphrey, three brothers, Wainright and Neil of St. Catharines and Wendell of Thorold, Ont., a sister, Miss Lois Humphrey, at home, nieces and nephews and numerous uncles, aunts and cousins, many in the Boundary areas.

Mr. Hudgins is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Douglas (Evelyn) Hawley of Weston, Ont., and Miss Karen Thompson, Lakeland, Ont., a niece and a nephew.

The interment took place in Pleasant View Memorial cemetery.

Among those to attend the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hawley, Miss Karen Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, Coaticook, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Humphrey, Lennoxville, Mrs. Charles Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wade and family, Mrs. Jack Grey and a host of friends from Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Middleton, Fenwick, Mr. and Mrs. William Middleton, Toronto, Ont.

The young couple were killed in a seven car pileup on Highway 69 near Parry Sound in a lineup of cars waiting to pass a road construction site.

Ontario Provincial Police at Parry Sound said the accident happened when the Hudgins car, in the lineup being controlled by a construction flagman was struck from behind by a transport truck.

The collision set off several smaller ones involving several other cars in the line of traffic. None of the other persons were seriously injured.

HARRY V. INGLEY of Histon, Cambridge, England formerly of Asbestos, Quebec

The many friends in the Eastern Townships learned with deep regret of the death of Harry Victor Ingley on April 21st, 1972, at the Brookfield Hospital, an annex of Addenbrookes, Cambridge after an illness of six months.

Born on October 23rd, 1897 in Hertfordshire, England, Mr. Ingley was one of eight children born to the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ingley. He was a veteran of World War I and during that time he had been a prisoner of war.

The deceased came to Canada in 1922 and was followed later by his wife, the former Miriam Street of Bedfordshire, England, and daughter Eileen. They made their home in Asbestos, Que.

Two other children were born of this marriage, Doreen and Eric. Harry started working for the Canadian Johns Manville Company as a stripper in the Open Pit Mine, from which he went to Pit Driller Helper. He was transferred to the Asbestos Plant from 1924 to 1929. In 1929 he was promoted to Foreman in the Packing and Friction Department, which position he held until his early retirement of February 1st, 1962. He was a life long member of the Asbestos Branch of the Canadian Legion and a member of the Quarter Century Club of C.J.M.

He was predeceased by his wife Miriam on September 2nd, 1966 and a brother William.

After his early retirement he returned to his native home where he was united in marriage with Mrs. Nora Rees of Bedford Stores, Dunton. After a few years they made their home in Histon, Cambridge.

During his long illness he was lovingly cared for by his wife Nora until a few days before his death when he entered Brookfield.

The remains rested at the City of Cambridge Crematorium where an impressive Legion Service was held on Friday, April 28, 1972. The hymns "The day Thou gavest Lord, is ended and Abide with me, were sung.

The many beautiful floral tributes were silent tokens of the esteem in which Mr. Ingley was held by friends near and far. Among these were wreaths from his family in Canada, The Canadian Johns Manville Co., in Asbestos, The Quarter Century Club of the C.J.M. Co., and The Canadian Legion Branch 141 of Asbestos, Que. There were also donations made to the Canadian Cancer Society.

He leaves to cherish his memory, his wife Nora of Histon, Cambridge, two daughters Eileen, Mrs. Fred Roberts, Upper Melbourne, and Doreen, Mrs. Merton Montgomery of South Durham and a son Eric of Danville, Que., his two sons-in-law Fred and Merton, a daughter-in-law Betty, nine grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. He is also survived by four sisters and two brothers, sisters-in-law, brothers-in-law, nieces and nephews, all of whom, except one nephew, resides in England.

MALCOLM C. McLELLAN of Sherbrooke

The relatives and friends in the city were shocked and deeply grieved to learn of the tragic death of Malcolm Cecil McLellan at work on Monday July 17, 1972. He had worked at the C.P.R. for 25 years as steam and pipe fitter.

Mr. McLellan was born in South Stukely on July 7, 1929, the son of Mrs. Myrtle McLellan and the late Cecil McLellan.

On Aug. 17, 1957, he was united in marriage to Catherine Houle of Beebe, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philippe Houle. Of this union three sons were born, Brian, Ricky and Robin. They were married, and their three sons baptized in Plymouth United Church.

He is also survived by his mother Mrs. Myrtle McLellan, South Stukely, brother Donald, Agincourt, Ont., sister Celia, South Stukely, brother Stewart, Montreal, as well as many other relatives, all of whom mourn his loss.

The Masonic Lodge conducted its respective funeral service on Wednesday evening.

The funeral which was largely attended, was held in Plymouth United Church on July 20 with Rev. Cedric Arnold officiating. The choir sang two hymns, Stand up, Stand up for Jesus and Safe in the Arms of Jesus.

The large number of floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. A kind friend to all, one who was always willing to lend a helping hand, he will be greatly missed in the community.

The bearers were Stewart Leith, Gerry Bicknell, Gordon Neil, Red Dennett, Wm. Bell, Henry McBain. Interment took place in the South Stukely cemetery.

Relatives and friends who attended from a distance were from Welland, Ont., Claremont, N.H., Milford, Connecticut, Newport, Vt., Rock Island, Fitch Bay, Beebe, East Angus, Farnham, Megantic, New Brunswick, Quebec City, North Hatley, Montreal, Agincourt, Ont., Brampton, Ont., Waterloo, Que., South Stukely, Knowlton, and many other local communities.

RUSSELL J. KELSO of Monroe, N.H.

Russell J. Kelso of Monroe, N.H., died July 19, 1972 at the Cottage Hospital, Woodsville, N.H. after a short period of ill health. He was in his 69th year. Funeral services were held at the Monroe Methodist Church with Rev. Carlton Foss officiating on July 22.

Burial was in the Monroe Cemetery.

Bearers were Herbert Little, Kenneth Little, Loren Bort, Earl Ashcroft, Reginald Moore and Clayton Clement.

Mr. Kelso was born in Inverness, P.Q., Dec. 3, 1903, son of the late John and Della (McGillivray) Kelso.

June 15, 1935, he married the former Helena Mitchell of Monroe, in Keene, N.H., and they had three children.

A truck driver by trade, Mr. Kelso worked for the Ryegate Paper Co., for 34 years before his retirement in September 1971.

He was a member of the Monroe Methodist Church.

Survivors include his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Roland Winn of Concord, N.H.; one son, Richard A. Kelso of Enfield, Conn.; four brothers, Kenneth and Lorne Kelso of Inverness, P.Q.; Allan Kelso of Bury, P.Q., and Murray Kelso of Fort Frances, Ont.; five grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

The large number of floral arrangements were a token of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Relatives and friends attended from Inverness, Adderley, Thetford Mines, Bury, Sherbrooke, Massawippi, Ayer's Cliff, Stanstead and from many parts of the New England States.

HARRY WILSON of Fitch Bay

The death of Mr. Harry Wilson occurred at the Connaught Rest Home in North Hatley on July 24, 1972.

He was born in Fitch Bay, on June 16, 1893, and was in his 79th year.

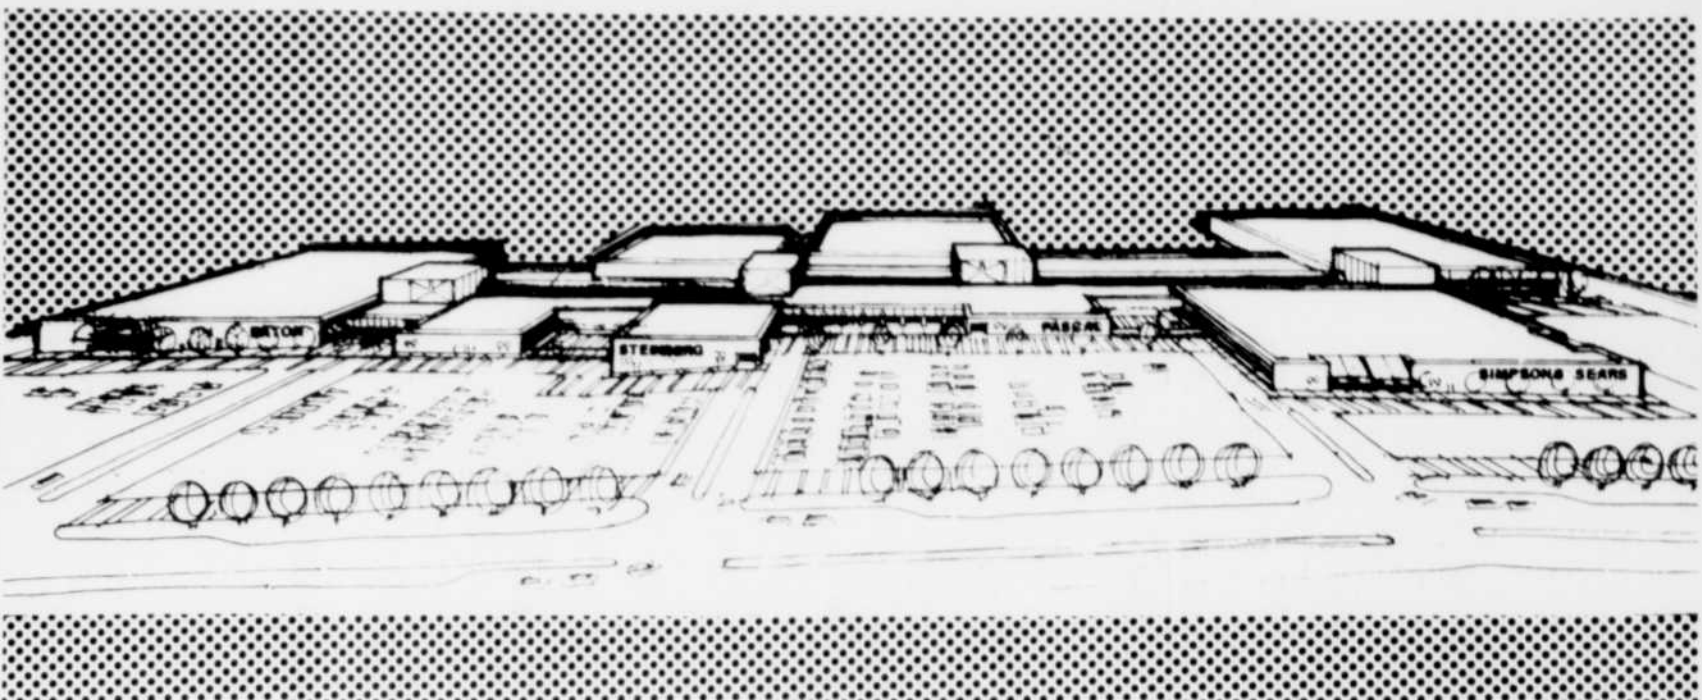

His wife predeceased him some years ago.

He is survived by one son in Ontario; two sisters, Mrs. Guy Whitehead of Magog and Mrs. Ethel Wells in the Wales Home, Richmond.

Nieces and nephews: Mrs. Rena Bernais, Georgeville; Mrs. Grace Williams, London; Mrs. Flora Yetter, Fitch Bay; Mrs. S. Agnes Galazzo, Beebe; Stewart Alex, Austin, Que.; George Alex, Georgeville; Mrs. T. Tetreault, Beebe; Mr. Cedric Whitehead, Sydney Whitehead and Miss Elsie Whitehead, all from Magog, Que.

Needed: A Castration-prone Man for

THE CASTRATING FEMALE

No small number of modern marriages are on the rocks because the wife is a "castrating female." But before you "male chauvinist pigs" smile in knowing self-satisfaction, you might think about the fact that for every "castration" there is a "castration-prone" man.

Dr. Lamb Perhaps history's most famous female castrator was Delilah. She lured Samson under her control with her feminine wiles then proceeded to cut off his hair. She drained him of his strength or his manhood.

The term "castrating female" has become part of the reasonably well educated person's modern vocabulary. To most people it means a woman who tries to degrade or belittle men—and if married, specifically her husband. She must put him down or "castrate" him. This doesn't necessarily mean in sexual performance although that too can be and often is part of the picture.

Characteristically she is demanding, aggressive and outspoken. Husbands commonly speak of their constant nagging. She has an unending list of things to fix around the house or errands to be done on demand. She demands that the husband account for his time. Frequently she demands he bring in more money and if he can't she uses his failure as evidence of his inadequacy. She may help this along a bit by living beyond their means, needlessly spending money.

Many an alcoholic's wife is a castrator. Samuel Fitterman discussed this in an article in the Journal of Psychiatric Social Work. The wife has an unconscious need to prove her husband is inadequate. If the marriage dissolves she will marry another alcoholic, or at least a man with enough inadequacies so that she can feel superior.

There is more than one concept of the castrator's basic psychodynamics. Some of these are diametrically opposed. Originally, Freud explained such a woman's problem as rooted in early childhood development. The Freudian concept is that the girl child resents not having the same equipment the boy has. She may fantasize that this is not true or may envy the male genitals. If her psyche develops normally, she will work out these early conflicts and accept her role as a female, developing a female psychology. If the envy is not resolved, she can become a castrator.

CLASSIC CASE of female-male castration—Samson and Delilah.

This does not mean that she will opt for masculine appearance or be mannish. She may be physically very feminine and use this part of the bait to lure her intended victim into the castrator's trap—in other words, the seductive Delilah.

Subsequent psychiatric theory has emphasized the situational factors that instigate the behavior pattern. The commonly described pattern is a girl with a weak father (who may be an alcoholic) and a strong domineering mother. The father may be removed from the family scene by death or separation. The girl identifies with the strong mother image and a new generation of castrators is spawned. Patterns like this exemplify how psychopathology is passed from generation to generation.

The dynamics of this type of castrator is that she functions best when she disables her mate most effectively. In Fitterman's discussion of alcoholic wives he pointed out that the popular play "Come Back, Little Sheba" was a classic presentation of the alcoholic's wife. The wife, with her beauty faded, wanted to live in the glorious past. Her husband began to overcome his alcoholism and wanted to forget the past and its reminders of his inadequacies. The wife continued to goad him with his past failure until she drove him into restrained hostility and then the bottle. The alcohol released his inhibitions and he then became openly aggressive toward her. When he drank, he failed.

The "castrator" needs to feel superior and she satisfies this need by doing what she can to make her husband fail. He fails and her need is fulfilled. If he succeeds, she begins to feel inadequate, not measuring up to her ego image of an all-powerful, dominant woman, and becomes anxious or depressed. Thus her own psychopathology causes her to manipulate or engineer her husband's failure. Setting the goals of achievement too high is one mechanism — more money, more prestige, a more expensive car, a bigger house — not just keeping up with the neighbors but outdoing them.

Usually the woman will select a man who is weak. Some nurses with this problem will marry an alcoholic they meet while he is being treated. The man who willingly turns over the role as head of the family to his wife or withdraws from his usual male function has problems of his own. He is "castration-prone." Often he is insecure in his masculinity. He has learned to pass through life "uninvolved," using the "passive" role as his key to survival. By allowing his wife to castrate him, he escapes the need for the competition aspects of the masculine world. He doesn't have to prove himself because he has accepted his inadequacies.

He may actually want a mother rather than a wife. If his wife dominates him and he reverts to the boy-mother relationship, he may then become impotent. He will be stopped sexually by the incest taboo. There are many other causes for impotency, but when it occurs in this setting the wife has sexually castrated him. In a sense both marriage partners achieve their goal. Each person's psychopathology required a mate with a complimentary psychopathology. However, such a situation does not resolve either marriage partner's basic problem.

Dr. Martin Goldberg describes still another variation of the castrating female. He acknowledges the concept is at variance with other psychiatric views. He points out the woman with a strong father and a weak mother who identifies herself with the father.

Oswald: "The most skillful form of bridge competition is an IMP team match where a hand is played just twice and all you have to do is to play more successfully than opponents' partners."

Jim: "You said 'more successfully' not 'better.' In other words there is still some luck involved."

Oswald: "Here is a hand from a match played a few years back. The bidding in the box took place at one table. North's three-heart call was an all-purpose modern cue bid. It could be the start of a slam try or it could be an invitation to South to try no-trump. South went to no-trump on the theory that maybe his queen of hearts would be a key."

Jim: "I imagine South was happy when he saw that jack of hearts lead!"

Oswald: "He was! It looked as if his queen of hearts would be the ninth trick but when East produced the king and returned the suit, South had to go one down. At the other table, North just bid three no-trump after the two heart overcall. East opened his partner's suit and the queen of hearts became declarer's ninth trick."

Jim: "Real luck. Most of the time the king of hearts would be held by the bidder of the heart suit and South would have been the proper declarer. Of course, with no heart lead at all there would only be eight tricks since eventually West would get in and lead hearts toward the king."

MORRISON-WARD — Mrs. Clara Ward of Bury wishes to announce the engagement of her youngest daughter, Jean Elizabeth, to R. Jay Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Morrison of Gould, P.Q. The marriage is to take place on September 23 at 4 p.m. in St. Paul's Church.

By Ann Landers

No easy answer for interracial union

Dear Ann Landers: About that white Iowa couple who were adopting the baby girl of an interracial union, they may be God's own, as you say, but I question their judgment.

Americans are still a race-conscious people. These parents would do well to consider the problems the child will face. Will she be looked down on by both blacks and whites? What will the attitude of the neighbors be? Are they well enough integrated so that she will have access to both black and white friends?

Parents who want to adopt "any child" should realize that children aren't poodles. There's more to it than providing "a good home." A child must grow into adulthood prepared to live in the real world. — Mrs. E. in McComb, Miss.

Dear Mrs. E.: The questions you raise are provocative and there are no easy answers. Since that letter appeared I have been bombarded with expressions of love, hate, praise, condemnation and concern. Name it, and I've had it. Here are some samples of what the mail has been like lately:

From Ohio: God bless that couple with the courage to adopt an interracial child. The folks down South won't be so happy about this prediction, but within 150 years America will be predominantly brown.

From Indiana: You suggested a 21-gun salute for that Iowa couple. I suggest you save the salute for the kid, if he survives. It's a rough world out there and whether you like it or not, Archie Bunker is the new American hero and people love him.

From Edmonton, Canada: I am a 12-year-old girl. I just read a book about a couple who took 12 children of mixed parentage into their home and they are as happy as can be. Anyone who thinks brown skin or different shaped eyes make a person inferior needs educating.

From Washington, D.C.: How much experience with international children have you had, Ann Landers? We adopted a Vietnamese child five years ago and she has put us through hell. The girl has been in a mental hospital for over a year and is still very sick. Our own children are normal and healthy and we rue the day we opened our hearts and our home to this foreign girl. From Minnesota: Four years

Myth of the diamond ring

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mary Eady, mother of two children, says she plans to make the "myth of the diamond ring" disappear while helping women achieve equality of opportunity.

As director of Manitoba's newly-established women's bureau, the soft-spoken advocate of women's rights is convinced that marriage and a job often go hand in hand with today's society.

Not against marriage, the widow of Francis K. Eady, senior executive assistant to Premier Ed Schreyer until his death earlier this year, said many women don't seem to be aware of their potential and the possibility of achieving it as social mores change.

She said many employers are not aware that times are changing and as a result many jobs held by women are under-rated.

"A family is often in much happier circumstances when the wife and mother works—and she is much happier and easier to live with."

"This whole move to accepting women as individuals and to deciding careers according to interests and not sex is quite new. It might be slow moving but it is catching on."

Through the bureau, set up to deal with women's employment problems and to integrate female workers within the total work force, Mrs. Eady said she first plans to assess the entire situation before developing any concrete plan.

Once a composite picture of the female working force is obtained, she said the bureau will take aim at areas where women seem to be particularly unaware of career possibilities and rights.

enormous burdens during their growing-up years even under normal conditions. This special situation is an added burden to the child and the parents." I read this in the Hartford Courant two days before your column appeared. It sounds reasonable to me.

From Alabama: You Northerners have a lot to say about brotherly love and racial equality. God made people different colors for a reason. Birds of a feather belong together. If your granddaughter marries a black, you deserve it.

From Hartford, Conn.: A spokesman for The Greater Hartford Association of Black Social Workers says, "Black children should be placed with black families. White families cannot provide the experience that will enable a black child to survive in what they call a 'racist society.' Children face

So, dear readers, there you have it. In my opinion, the overall results of what happens to bi-racial, and black- and brown-skinned children who are adopted by white families will not be known for at least 15 years. I'm betting there will be many triumphs and many disasters. Those who try it need unusual courage, emotional stability and an infinite capacity to love. If they succeed, the rewards are tremendous.

In view of drastic changes in market conditions during 1962 and 1963, the company decided to extend its range of operations in order not to be completely dependent upon heavy woolen fabrics which are now, due to the advent of synthetics, in less demand. We are presently producing yarns, both of wool and synthetics, which ultimately find their way into a great variety of woven and knitted fabrics. In 1964, we had new equipment that arrived, which enabled us to become the most modern, up to date, and diversified commission dyehouse in the province of Quebec.

When the war came along in 1939, we along with other industries dedicated our production to defense needs and commenced making both army blankets and overcoating materials for the Armed Forces.

In 1942, a disastrous fire occurred which completely demolished the main three story factory building together with all the carding, spinning and weaving equipment therein. Although the company was by no means fully insured, we were, by reason of defense production work, able to get the necessary priorities to order replacement equipment. This new carding, spinning, and weaving equipment was placed in a factory purchased by agreement through the town of Coaticook and situated on a hill on the North-West side of dyeing and finishing the cloths which were shipped from the weaving plant in Coaticook.

In 1948, a further building was erected in Coaticook and all machinery from Way's Mills moved to the site here. In 1954,

Bedford church celebrates 100th anniversary

By E.J. Craighead

BEDFORD — The final anniversary service in connection with the 100th anniversary of the Bedford United Church was held recently commemorating the opening of the church to public worship, a hundred years ago. The centennial which was in 1971, has extended over the past months with various affairs. Mr. Thomas Bird was a chairman of the anniversary committee. Mrs. Norman Wood and Mr. Richard Martin were members of the committee.

On the final service the special speaker was the Rev. A.B. Lovelace of Lennoxville, who took as his subject "The Church in a World of Change". The organist was Ronald Martin, the service closed with the pronouncement of the commission and the benediction. The church was beautifully decorated with iris, pink wild roses and pink peonies. The collection was taken by Mr. Neil Creller and Mr. L. Gasser.

Following the church service, all were invited to the church hall, where a buffet lunch was served. An interesting feature of the luncheon was the demonstration given by Mr. Reginald Corey of Ottawa of a reed organ, so small that it could be carried from one church to another and is 127 years old. It was used by Caleb Corey, a famous musician of this district, and grandfather of Mr. Reginald Corey. The organist Rolland Martin played several tunes upon the organ, which was in good condition, excellent tone, etc.

The following extracts are taken from a paper, written by the late Charles Owen Jones, on the occasion of the 34th anniversary of the church. "The children of Israel, on several occasions, erected an altar by the wayside as a memorial to their enduring evidence of gratitude to God for deliverance and protection". Surely the men who built this church had that thought in their minds when they planned and labored to erect this church in Bedford. Do we ever pause and really appreciate their trust in future generations?

Twice in its long history the church has been in danger, twice from fires, once seriously menaced in 1891. In 1904 the church was again endangered from a flood. Surely the church can be said to have passed through fire and flood unscathed. In this day and age the church is going through a stage of "fire and flood" just as real as those physical ones. It is necessary to remind ourselves that God is unchanging, the same forever. His is the Kingdom, the Power and the Glory forever. The rule for his fellowship is the same, a sacrificial role of service and devotion to Him, that doesn't change.

Mr. Jones wrote, "I have a feeling of sorrowful gratitude to many of my departed fellow-members". All can think of many departed friends and relatives and feel a sense of sorrowful gratitude for their contributions to our lives in this church. Their memories must be an inspiration for all to continue in their footsteps. While there may be a feeling of sadness for the friends who have passed on, let us not forget to express our gratitude to the new comers. It is fortunate that so many new Canadians are adopting the United Church as their church, enriching the congregations with their talent, culture and devotion. Gratitude is expressed over the decades for the organists and choirs who have led in the music and singing for worship. More recently, for some years, a junior choir added much to the occasional Sunday service. (The choir was "gowned" for the first time for the Easter service in 1944.) The Catholic Church choir joined the choir of the church for a service of worship during Holy Week, 1972. It was felt that this is a real ecumenical achievement.

Sunday School attendance has waxed and waned over the years. A few faithful souls have always come forward and carried on the Bible study for the young folk of the congregation. Years ago the minister could lend a hand but with four services each Sunday makes it impossible for the minister to participate actively. Over the years additional charges have come under Bedford, Philipsburg and Stanbridge East, Mystic, was originally part of the Bedford charge. Thirty-three ministers have served the church, since its foundation. In 1925 the Session was formed, one of the original Elders still remains active. Usually there are twelve elders, alternating for providing and serving of the elements for Communion quarterly and for greeting the congregation at the door each Sunday. The Trustee Board has played an active part in all church activities since the early days of the church. Stewards have always had to cope with difficult situations. Chairmen and treasurers over the years surely deserve much appreciation for keeping the structure progressing. It has never been an easy task to make mankind realize that "It is better to give than to receive".

The records for 1872 show that a government grant of $300.00 for missions was received. In 1971 $2500.00 was raised for the M. & S. fund showing the great progress which has been made. Ladies Aid, W.A. and U.C.W. have played important roles in the life of the church, not only financially, but by missionary education programs, and Christian fellowship locally and at Presbytery levels.

Special thanks to Mrs. Ruby Moore of Stanbridge East and to Mrs. Edith Wood, now of Clarenceville for the time and effort in researching historic data. (The Committee is still in hopes of getting a book compiled and printed.

To officially open the Centennial Year on May 31, 1971 the congregation was privileged to have Reverend R.A. Gregoire B.D. of Buckingham, as the guest speaker. He brought a special message in a sermon entitled "Living as a Christian in a Troubled World." In November the Young Adults Group took charge of a morning worship service which was most impressive. On March 12, the U.C.W. conducted the service with Mrs. J.B. Wasson, President of the Montreal Ottawa Conference addressing the congregation, women of the four U.C.W.'s formed a choir and also lead in the readings.

To observe the end of the centennial Year and to mark the anniversary of dedication were fortunate to have Reverend A.B. Lovelace D.D.B.A.B.S. of Lennoxville with us.

Our Pastor, Reverend W. Reed Lake has been present in all these services to participate graciously in many helpful ways. Mr. Ronald Martin, present in charge of the music and though our choirs have been small, Mr. Martin's rendition on the organ has been most enjoyable.

Let us thank God for all the blessings of the past and ask in the name of His Son Jesus Christ, that we may go forward to a glorious future spiritually.

During Centennial Year a guest book has been used and people have registered their attendance. One guest came from Germany, several from various points in the United States, and Canadians from Newfoundland, as well as many from the neighboring towns.

Thanks are due a great many people for assistance during the year, not only for the planning and efforts of the mentioned services, but for many fund raising events, such as a June bazaar in 1971 and a Hobby Show in November of that year.

A belated public "thank you" is extended to Mrs. Greig Muir for the lovely painting of the church.

At the final centennial service a melodeon which had been played at the dedication service of the church in 1872 was brought to the church by the present owner, Mr. Reginald Corey of Ottawa. It had originally been the property of Mr. Caleb Corey, great-grandfather of Reginald. Mr. Ronald Martin played the melodeon during the offering and every one enjoyed the steel melodious tone.

Further extensions were made, doubling the space then available in Coaticook, and the company turned away from the manufacture of meltons and friezes to more fancy types of cloths for the women's and children's trade. The company helped to develop the concept of the short car-coat which is still popular, although now seldom made of wool.

In view of drastic changes in market conditions during 1962 and 1963, the company decided to extend its range of operations in order not to be completely dependent upon heavy woolen fabrics which are now, due to the advent of synthetics, in less demand. We are presently producing yarns, both of wool and synthetics, which ultimately find their way into a great variety of woven and knitted fabrics. In 1964, we had new equipment that arrived, which enabled us to become the most modern, up to date, and diversified commission dyehouse in the province of Quebec.

When the war came along in 1939, we along with other industries dedicated our production to defense needs and commenced making both army blankets and overcoating materials for the Armed Forces.

In 1942, a disastrous fire occurred which completely demolished the main three story factory building together with all the carding, spinning and weaving equipment therein. Although the company was by no means fully insured, we were, by reason of defense production work, able to get the necessary priorities to order replacement equipment. This new carding, spinning, and weaving equipment was placed in a factory purchased by agreement through the town of Coaticook and situated on a hill on the North-West side of dyeing and finishing the cloths which were shipped from the weaving plant in Coaticook.

In 1948, a further building was erected in Coaticook and all machinery from Way's Mills moved to the site here. In 1954,

CHAS. NIEDNER'S SONS

COATICOOK — In 1912, William and Charles Niedner of Malden, Mass., began weaving unlined linen fire hose in the City of Montreal but were forced to move in 1913. William Niedner decided that the plant should be nearer to Malden.

His original plans were to open in Sherbrooke. However, Arthur Vincent, local Customs Officer, convinced Mr. Niedner that Coaticook was the ideal location in which to manufacture.

The looms and other equipment moved to Coaticook under the supervision of John Bruhmuller and were installed temporarily in a building near the cement bridge on St. Paul Street. On the day of arrival in Coaticook, Arthur Houle was engaged to assist in unloading the freight cars and at the insistence of Mr. Niedner he became an employee of the firm and worked up to the position of superintendent.

In the fall of 1914, Chas. Niedner's Sons moved to its present location on Cutting Street. At this time, William Felch as superintendent of the weaving department, and John Rayner joined the organization. Mr. Rayner was transferred to the Malden plant at the end of World War I.

In 1936, Cora B. Allard became a member of the organization.

In 1942, William Niedner purchased the interests of his brother Charles and continued as sole proprietor until his death May 1, 1947.

On April 29, 1948 the company was incorporated under the name of Chas. Niedner's, limited with Mrs. William Niedner as president, Cora manager. At this time Lucien Olivier returned to the employ of the Company as assistant superintendent.

On the death of Mrs. Niedner in 1954, the ownership of the Company was transferred to William C. Hamilton who became president. George H. Laming as vice-president and General Manager, Cora B. Allard remained secretary-treasurer.

Since 1947, three additions have been added to the original building and the number of looms have been increased to 35.

As the leading manufacturer of unlined linen fire hose in Canada, the company sells over two million feet per year. Sales are made to the federal and provincial governments, as well as fire protective organizations. Fire Hose is exported to the U.S.A.,

How to change one ticket into a $3500 prize

BARTON — How many people have dreamed the great Pin-Ball dream? You know, you put a nickel in the machine, the lights flash the bells ring and out pours, not five dollars, not ten dollars, but twenty, thirty, forty dollars! You're rich! You get something for nothing!

If you're one of those great Pin-Ball dreamers this year your dreams may come true at the Barton Fair, Orleans County Fair in Barton, Vermont. You put in a dollar, the price of admission, you watch the lights flash, hear the music play and then bang! you find yourself the winner of one of the extraordinary prizes. Just like that! Just that easy!

The organizers of the fair, being held this year on August 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20 are giving away thousands of dollars worth of prizes to lucky admission holders.

Wednesday, August 16, is the big day for children under 12. These youngsters are admitted to the fair free of charge and each is given a ticket at the gate. At the afternoon and evening show, 4 bicycles will be given to the children with the winning tickets. In addition two free-ride passes will be given to every boy or girl 12 years and under, compliments of the Orleans County Fair.

On Thursday night, August 17 there will be a drawing for a 14-cubic-foot Whirlpool Freezer. This fantastic prize may be your answer to all those storage problems. There's no way to economize on your household budget like owning a freezer.

Everyone wants to get in the act at the Barton Fair.

Attention sports fans! On Friday night, August 18 a beautiful 350 Kawasaki Motorcycle, valued at $980 may be yours if you have the lucky ticket that night. Imagine racing down the road, coning and going on your own motorcycle. All tickets to the grounds, including advance sale make you eligible to win.

Saturday night, August 19, one of the biggest nights at the fair, you could win a $500 Ethan Allen Dining Room Set.

Finally, on Sunday night, August 20 the fair comes to a climax. All the excitement of the five days comes to a head when the drawing is held for the biggest prize of them all — a 1972 Ford Mustang two-door hardtop valued at $3500. You could be the owner of this car, simply for the price of the admission ticket.

Talk about dreams coming true!

It's all happening at the Orleans County Fair, Barton, Vermont August 16-20. How can you afford to miss it?

DRIVE SAFELY

HAVE A GOOD TIME
AT THE FAIR!

Acts that will chill you to the bone

BARTON — If you have a pencil and a calendar, draw a big red circle around Aug. 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 and mark in capital letters, Orleans County Fair. You owe it to yourself and your family for many reasons.

First of all, the Orleans County Fair is located in Barton, Vermont, and that, for all Eastern Township families, means a lovely drive through the country to the fair site. Just the right distance for a summer outing, even if there was nothing awaiting you at the other end but a picnic. And in this case, there's a lot more than a picnic waiting.

Over the years, Barton Fair has been made famous by its fabulous entertainment and the organizers aren't about to disappoint anyone this year.

The Grandstand Spectacular, two shows afternoon and evening, is this year featuring the internationally famous Hamid-Morton Circus Act.

You'll see acts of daring and feats of skill in the arena. The Great Carlow performs unbelievable stunts while balancing on just one hand atop a globe. He'll do things you thought no human being could perform.

The animal shows are numerous and amazing. Klausner's Bears balance on balls, ride bicycles and do other incredible tricks under the guidance of beautiful Miss Herta.

The Hawthorn's wonder

Unbelievable stunts are performed by the Great Carlow.

elephants will delight you. These huge beasts weighing several tons, with skin so thick no whip could train them, will carry tigers on their backs, and swing girls on trapezes which the elephants hold in their mouths.

Many circuses have lions but few dare deal with tigers. At the grandstand spectacular at Orleans County Fair you'll thrill to see tigers leaping through hoops, begging as meek as puppies, under the control of one man, obeying his commands.

And for a little comic relief from all the suspense, the Niccolini Family and their trained chimpanzees will amuse you with clever tricks. It's grandstand spectacular not to be missed.

In addition to the grandstand show, the Orleans Fair will this year offer a variety of entertainment.

Velma Goodwin will entertain you with music on the Hammond organ. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday McClure's Student Band will play for your listening and dancing pleasure.

There are horse pulling contests, ox pulling contests, a tractor rodeo, in addition to three days of harness racing, all for fun and prizes.

Finally there are the animal shows. Cattle judging starts on Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. followed during the fair by youth cattle judging, a horse show, a junior horse show, a pony show, and a cavalcade of premium stock.

All this excitement and much more is waiting for you and your family at the Orleans County Fair. Be sure to mark the date, Aug. 16-20 in Barton, Vermont.

Of course you'll need nourishment so you can enjoy yourself.

So do drop in at . . .

Recommends disbanding federal information agency

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP) — The federal government should disband Information Canada and restructure the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., Donald Campbell, president of Maclean-Hunter Ltd., said Saturday.

"Fire it (Information Canada) now for sheer incompetence before it grows and causes real trouble," said Mr. Campbell, "and it surely will as a direct competitor of the communications industry and as a pirate of copyright material."

Mr. Campbell was speaking to delegates at a conference on the role of government, sponsored by the Canadian Institute of Public Affairs. The four-day conference ended Saturday.

Information Canada is the federal government's information agency.

"The millions of dollars saved by, say, the creation of a small CBC and the elimination of Information Canada should be plowed back into communications, as low-cost financing for independent Canadian authors, publishers and producers," said Mr. Campbell.

OUTLINES PROPOSALS
Mr. Campbell made the comments as he outlined his proposed "total communications policy for Canada."

"Government could squash once and for all the idea of a government-owned national daily newspaper," he said.

"Such a newspaper would do no more than regional dailies do now, and within a few years it would puff up into a bureau-cratized white elephant—a newspaper CBC," Mr. Campbell said.

"Government could also start restructuring the CBC to do the job it was originally intended to do—provide non-commercial programming in the national interest."

A total communications policy, said Mr. Campbell, should provide government protection and financing for the news media.

"When the needs of the national interest run contrary to the dictates of economics,"

He said "Canada's nationhood demands Canadian books, Canadian films, Canadian periodicals and Canadian programming and laissez-faire be damned."

OFFERS IDEAS
Mr. Campbell recommended that the federal government order Canadian cable television operators to blank out commercials on the United States broadcasts they bring in.

He also recommended government "take a long, sympathetic look at commercial television in Canada with its 60-per-cent Canadian content and its serious loss of revenue to popular American border stations."

"Government recognizes the need to protect periodicals, why not television?" he said.

Mr. Campbell warned against excessive government control of news media. "You may remember how Vancouver and some other municipalities in British Columbia restricted the circulation of Georgia Straight, the controversial underground newspaper," he said.

"The cities merely used their existing business licensing authority. One also passed a special bylaw to make sure the paper wasn't sold in the streets."

"We Canadians are surely destined to enter the 21st century with the system in which the Post Office and narrow-minded city councils have the power to cripple and kill some publications, while the secretary of state has the power to keep others alive," Mr. Campbell said.

Says companies cushioned

HARROW, Ont. (CP) — New Democrat Leader David Lewis added two more companies—National Sea Products Ltd. and Consumers Glass Co.—to his growing list of corporate "hitchhikers on the road to wealth" Sunday, on the last day of his three-day swing through industrially-rich southern Ontario.

Mr. Lewis told a sun-saturated gathering of less than 100 party workers and families at a picnic in a park here that those two companies, through government grants and tax breaks, have cashed in on a "vast network of corporate cushions" which have taken much of the risk out of running big business.

The New Democrats are assembling a list of financial facts about 100 big companies from financial statements and other documents to use as a base for an election-campaign attack on the "corporate rip-off or the free-enterprise myth."

During his weekend pre-election tour of Toronto, Brantford, St. Catharines, Windsor and this small town of 2,000 about 25 miles east of Windsor, Mr. Lewis has singled out such corporate giants as Shell Oil Co. of Canada, Falconbridge Mines, Denison Mines, and Davis Shipbuilding Ltd.

During his Sunday assault on the two latest examples, Mr. Lewis said National Sea Products of Halifax received a total of 12 government grants and subsidies totalling $9,073,824 during the last five years.

QUOTES FIGURES

Company profits since 1967, on the other hand, amounted to $5,677,000, or "33.396,824 less than the subsidies it received from the federal government."

"In short, the company, completely in private hands, exists only because of public assistance."

Mr. Lewis, in fighting trim despite two days of travel by car under hot sunny skies, said Consumers Glass of Montreal also cashed in on regional expansion grants worth $2,268,000 during the last three years. It paid income tax amount to $2,271,000 in the same period for a net three-year contribution to the federal treasury of $3,000.

Net earnings for Consumer Glass since 1969 have been $28,921,000, Mr. Lewis said.

"In short, the company contributed virtually nothing to social costs of the country and has profited immensely."

Saturday in St. Catharines, Mr. Lewis drew a bead on Falconbridge nickel mining company near Sudbury, Ont., which, he said, had between 1965 and 1971 a net income of $211,460,000 while paying income taxes amounting to only $8,690,000—a four-per-cent tax rate, "thanks to the many concessions provided by their friends in government."

At the same time, said Mr. Lewis, the company had "its very tasty profits sweetened at public expense through a $4-million grant from the department of regional economic expansion."

In Brantford Saturday, Mr. Lewis defended an attack Friday in Toronto against Shell Oil.

"That company had more than half a billion dollars in net earnings between 1960 and 1969, but it did not pay one cent of income tax in the same period."

The company responded Saturday by saying it did pay tax, but that they were deferred. "Deferred taxes amount to little more than interest-free loans," Mr. Lewis said.

Mr. Lewis and his wife Sophie were to travel Sunday evening to Windsor for an evening drum and bugle competition. They return to Ottawa today.

Earlier Sunday, they interrupted a six-hour drive from St. Catharines with a short impromptu stop at a tobacco farm near Tillsonburg, Ont.

The couple chatted with women sorting the tobacco leaves and sympathized with the heavy seasonal chore of harvesting the crop.

This tour is the second pre-election swing for Mr. Lewis, who visited Nova Scotia earlier this month and this week will travel to Toronto and to Ontario centres of Timmins and Kapuskasing.

The party, like the Progressive Conservatives and some Liberals, is preparing for an election anticipated this fall.

Chinese push corrective thinking

PEKING (AP) — In a sandy field outside Peking is a May 7th cadre camp, the pinnacle of a vast apparatus designed to insure the continuance into the future of Chairman Mao's form of communism.

It is typical of thousands of others throughout China which educate and re-educate state functionaries, Communist party members, teachers and a small number of dissidents on the need for constant class struggle.

One of Mao's theories is that revolution is never-ending because society builds new classes and they must be destroyed. Therefore, constant schooling is necessary, particularly among party and state officials.

Much of the outside world interpreted these camps as punishment areas for those who disagreed with the aims of the cultural revolution.

The revolutionary committee which runs this camp vigorously denies this, saying it has a much broader aim. They do not deny there are dissidents in the camp but say the majority coming here are high in the district governments.

They say all district officials, high Communist party members and teachers are sent here for six months on a rotating basis. At present it is thought this will be done every five years. The governing district revolutionary committee decides who will come and in what order.

DESCRIBES AIMS
The vice-chairman of the committee describes the camp aims as:

1. To correct the thinking of those who may have strayed from Mao's theory of constant class struggle.

2. To indoctrinate state and party officials not to waste money—frugality and work are the order of the day here.

3. To correct tendencies of bureaucrats not to respond to the needs of the average citizen. Hard manual labor helps cure this, they feel.

If the Spartan conditions here do not convince spendthrift officials, nothing will.

May 7th camps are now built into this society to remind those at the highest level they must follow Mao's teachings.

Officials concede some in the camps have been here more than six months, but say this is due to the disruption in society caused by the cultural revolution, where the reorganization of the government structure wiped out jobs to return to.

The camp committee says even dissidents will be released in six months although they may have to come back later for further indoctrination.

"You can't change a man's thinking in six months. It's better to bring him back," one official said.

Seek missing pooch

TORONTO (CP) — Peppi the poodle has been missing for nearly four months but Louis Bundas of Toronto and his family haven't given up hope that the dog will return.

Since April 21, when Peppi slipped out an open gate and disappeared, Mr. Bundas has spent $2,700, mostly in advertising, trying to get the two-year-old poodle back.

The family has written more than 3,000 letters to schools, churches and service clubs. They have advertised in foreign language newspapers and prepared 1-200 pamphlets, offering a $500 reward, that were sent to poodle salons, animal hospitals and pet shops in Ontario. But still no Peppi.

"It was the only thing we could do," said Mr. Bundas. The family thought so much of Peppi that they moved out of an apartment and bought a home just so they could keep the dog.

"The apartment owner had told us either the dog must go or we must go," said Mr. Bundas.

The extensive advertising has brought a lot of sympathetic offers of another dog. But they were turned down because "you just can't forget him," said Mr. Bundas.

HONG KONG (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp of Canada leaves here for Peking Tuesday to open a Canadian trade fair and discuss expansion of Sino-Canadian trade with Chinese officials.

Sharp, who arrived here from Vancouver Saturday night, said the fair will be the largest Canada has ever held abroad. It opens Aug. 21 and ends Sept. 2.

The fair will display more than 200 exhibits, he said, including agricultural machinery, hydroelectric equipment, machine tools and electronic hardware.

"We are not expecting vast orders immediately," he said. "We want the Chinese to see for themselves the range and development of our technology with a view to increasing our bilateral trade."

He said three special planes have been chartered to fly about 500 Canadian businessmen to Peking via Hong Kong for the fair.

Sharp said during his visit to China he also will discuss with Chinese foreign ministry officials the question of commercial air links between the two countries.

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Two men were shot to death early Sunday in Angus, 13 miles southwest of here.

Provincial police said a suspect later was arrested and taken to Downsview, a Toronto suburb.

Wilfred Barry Blackier, 46, and Robert George Knight, 36, were shot in their homes.

Police said a man shot Blackier and then went to the home of Knight, where he tried to force a young girl into his car. They said Knight was shot when he attempted to stop the man from taking the girl away unwillingly.

The couple were located when provincial police stopped a car on the Macdonald Cartier Freeway. The girl was unharmed.

44 weekend deaths

A Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., mother and her four children, killed when their car left the road and plunged into a lake, were among at least 44 Canadians who died accidentally across the country during the weekend.

Lucille Moar, 28, and her children, Karen Lynn, 10, Ricky Wayne, 9, Terry Lee, 8, and Jamie Shawn, 3, all died when the car Mrs. Moar was driving apparently went out of control and went into Island Lake, about 10 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie Friday night.

A survey by The Canadian Press showed that 31 of the deaths were from traffic accidents, six persons drowned, two died in fires and five from miscellaneous accidents.

The survey covered the period from 6 p.m. Friday to late Sunday night.

Ontario led the death toll with 15 killed, including eight people who died in the Sault Ste. Marie area making it one of the worst weekends in the area's history. Of Ontario's total, 12 died from traffic accidents, two died in fires and a 12-year-old Newmarket boy, Michael Nielson, died in an explosion in the family basement workshop.

Quebec recorded nine deaths, eight in traffic accidents and one drowning.

HAD SIX DEATHS
There were six deaths in New Brunswick, four by traffic and one by drowning and one miscellaneous accident.

Nova Scotia had five deaths, three in traffic accidents and a father and son who were struck by a train.

Manitoba and Alberta both recorded three deaths. In Manitoba, three drowned and in Alberta, two died in traffic accidents and one in a miscellaneous accident.

One person drowned in British Columbia and one person died in traffic accidents in both Newfoundland and Saskatchewan.

Prince Edward Island was the only province to report no fatalities.

The weekend's 31 highway deaths, combined with 45 other traffic deaths during the week, bring the unofficial total this year to at least 2,170.

Metro talks snag

TORONTO (CP) — A paralysing strike of Toronto's public transit system was averted temporarily Saturday, but a new snag developed Sunday as Toronto Transit Commission operators objected to a TTC proposal to hire some temporary workers.

Leonard Moynihan, local president of the Amalgamated Transit Union, said Sunday rejection of the proposed contract in a membership vote today and Tuesday would mean a strike Wednesday morning. It would paralyse all of Metropolitan Toronto's public transport and Gracy Coach operations.

With a Sunday morning strike deadline closing in, negotiators for the union and commission Saturday reached an agreement calling for wage increases of 19.25 per cent in three stages over a two-year contract, subject to the membership vote.

Fringe benefits would boost the over-all gain for workers to 21 per cent. An operator's wage for a 40-hour week would increase to $200 by June, 1974, from the current $168.

OPPOSITION DEVELOPED

Details of the contract were given Sunday to a union meeting attended by about 1,000 members. Employees leaving an early, closed stage of the meeting predicted a favorable vote, but later opposition developed to the hiring proposal.

TTC Chairman Franklin Young said in an interview the company wants to hire 25 temporary workers on a one-year trial basis to permit more personnel to take holidays during the summer and allow more flexibility during peak periods.

Mr. Young would not comment on the possibility of the TTC withdrawing the proposal.

"We'll wait and see how the ratification vote goes," he said.

There are 5,300 employees involved, of whom 2,900 are operators who might be affected by the temporary-help proposal.

The victory was Meeks' first in the championship which this year attracted 132 contestants from five Canadian provinces and the United States. A $1,000 cash prize and a flight for two to the Caribbean went to the winner.

Taking second place for the second successive year was John Henry Mooring, 45, of Springhill, N.S., who won the championship in 1964, 1965 and 1966.

Defending champion Edward Gurrick, 34, of Woodstock, Ont., whose win in 1971 was his fourth following victories in 1958, 1959 and 1967, this year finished in third position among the 10 finalists.

Other finalists, who performed before a capacity audience of nearly 5,000 persons, were: Johnny Bruneau, 46, of Sudbury, Ont.; Lee Harvey Cremo, 33, of Eskasoni, N.S.; Wilf Gillis, 47, of Ottawa; Gerrard Joval, 51, of Drummondville; Charlie Joyce, 21, of Sarnia, Ont.; Eleanor Moorehead, 26, of Fergus, Ont.; and Wayne Riehl, 29, of Sebringville, Ont.

A record number of visitors, an estimated 10,000, descended on this community of 1,600, 65 miles northwest of Toronto, for the contest which began Friday afternoon.

Tickets for the finals in the community arena were sold out more than a month in advance, so the majority of visitors, camped out in a tent city which filled the village's main park and overflowed onto adjoining farmers' fields, listened to the contest on radio.

The CBC radio network broadcast the finals live.

Fiddles first victory

SHELBURNE, Ont. (CP) — Rudy Meeks, a 41-year-old fiddler from Orillia, Ont., defeated two former champions Saturday night to win the 22nd annual Canadian open old-time fiddling contest.

The victory was Meeks' first in the championship which this year attracted 132 contestants from five Canadian provinces and the United States. A $1,000 cash prize and a flight for two to the Caribbean went to the winner.

Taking second place for the second successive year was John Henry Mooring, 45, of Springhill, N.S., who won the championship in 1964, 1965 and 1966.

Carlton carves Expos, then Expos bounce Phils for split

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Steve Carlton was once again all but untouchable—and it's getting to look the same for Pittsburgh Pirates.

Carlton, Philadelphia's veteran left-hander who has been baffling the rest of the National League for the last 2½ months, did it again Sunday, stopping Montreal on just three hits for his 19th victory of the baseball season and 14th in a row as the Phillies won the opener of their doubleheader 2-1. The Expos rebounded to take the second game 8-3.

The Pirates, meanwhile, silenced by

St. Louis' Rick Wise 2-0 in their opener, got back in the groove in the nightcap by beating the Cardinals 7-5 to widen their East Division lead to 10 games.

In single games Sunday, Cincinnati Reds beat Atlanta Braves 9-4. San Francisco Giants edged Houston Astros 4-3. Chicago Cubs whipped New York Mets 7-4 and Los Angeles Dodgers defeated San Diego Padres 5-3.

Montreal nipped the Phillies 3-2 Saturday while elsewhere Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 6-5. New York downed Chicago 2-1 in 10 innings. Atlanta crushed Cincinnati 7-2. Houston won over San Francisco 3-1 and Los Angeles handled San Diego 5-2.

"I didn't have good stuff and I couldn't get the slider over," Carlton said after raising his record to 19-6, best in the league, and fanned eight Expos to raise his strikeout total to 240, best in the majors. "I was lucky to get away with it."

"I'm not thinking about records or strikeouts," he added when reminded that he's just five victories short of Rube Marquard's 19 straight triumphs, set in 1912 with the old New York Giants. "I want the win," Carlton said. "Those other things take care of themselves."

The Phils took care of him with a pair of first-inning runs, coming on Willie Montanez' double and Greg Luzinski's single. Carlton lost his no-hit and shutout bid in the fourth on Bob Bailey's home run.

Montreal pushed across four runs in the fourth inning and three more in the ninth to gain the split, saddling Billy Champion with his 10th straight defeat. Balor Moore and reliever Mike Marshall teamed for a four-hitter for the Expos.

BUCS SLUG BACK

The Pirates fell behind 4-0 in the third inning of the second game, but, as coach Bill Virdon put it, "They did a hell of a job coming back. They didn't quit."

They scored three runs in the fourth inning, two of them on Milt May's double, then scored four more in the sixth. Al Oliver and Richie Hebner each doubling for one run and Bob Robertson singling for two more.

Wise, who came to the Cards in the deal that sent Carlton to Philadelphia, tossed a five-hitter to win the opener.

The Reds, opening their West Division lead over Houston to 5½ games, got two runs batted in apiece from Pete Rose and Cesar Geronimo.

Rookie Jim Willoughby of the Giants, recently recalled from Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League, scattered five hits to beat the Astros.

Randy Hundley hit his fifth home run and Ron Santo drove in runs with a sacrifice fly and a bases-loaded walk to lead the Cubs past the Mets, who got homers from Tommie Agee and Willie Mays.

Willie Davis belted his 11th and 12th homers, the latter a three-run shot in the eighth inning, to power the Dodgers past the Padres.

Says NHL "wounded"

TORONTO (CP) — Clarence Campbell says the World Hockey Association has inflated National Hockey League salaries but he gives the fledgling WHA less than a year before it folds.

"This is an economic battle and we are being wounded very seriously," the NHL president said in a telephone interview from his Montreal home when asked to explain why league owners forbid the use of WHA players on the Team Canada roster.

Team Canada, a group of NHL players, moved into Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday for medical check-ups and was to begin a twice-a-day training camp today in preparation for an eight-game exhibition series against Russia in September.

"Why should we supply a showcase for our opposition's best feature?" Campbell said, referring to winger Bobby Hull who jumped from the NHL's Chicago Black Hawks to join Winnipeg Jets of the WHA.

NHL owners agreed several months ago to avoid a bidding war with the WHA but salaries offered by the new league, which begins in September, were so high that the NHL was forced to accelerate its spending program on players.

Bill Harris, a talented rookie was signed by New York Islanders of the NHL to a two-year pact estimated at $250,000 due largely to another offer from the WHA's Philadelphia Blazers.

Veterans Brad Park and Vic Hadfield entered into $1 million five-year contracts with New York Rangers after considering offers from the WHA.

Campbell, however, believes it could have been far worse had the WHA not proposed starting this year.

"Another year of talking before they got rolling would have been more expensive," Campbell said. "And if this is an economic confrontation, the surest way for them to fail is to get started."

WON'T LAST

"My personal opinion is that the WHA won't last a year. But we can't afford to proceed on that assumption."

Whatever happens in any future legal actions involving the two leagues, Campbell says the NHL will continue to feel the effect of players' salaries that have increased 30 per cent this year.

Pirates thump Phils

READING, Pa. — The Sherbrooke Pirates strengthened their grip on first place in the Eastern League's national division with three weekend victories over the Reading Phillies. The Pirates took three of four games from the Phils, sweeping a doubleheader Friday then dropping the Saturday contest. Yesterday the Pirates wrapped up the series when they humiliated Reading 9-0.

Manager Steve Demeter hit a grand-slam home run in the seventh inning Friday night to give the Sherbrooke Pirates a 6-3 victory over the Reading Phils and a sweep of their Eastern League doubleheader.

The national division leading Pirates snapped Reading's five-game winning streak in the opener, 5-2.

All Sherbrooke runs in the second game came on home runs. Dave Arrington hit his 21st of the season in the fifth with Jim Campanis on base.

The Phils held a 3-2 edge entering the ninth. Winning pitcher Lou Marone started the inning with a ground single to right and Dave Augustine followed suit.

Steve McFarland laid down a bunt on which Ron Diorio, the loser in relief, went to third and all hands were safe. Then Demeter unloaded his first homer of the season to give Marone his third win against two setbacks.

The Phils got two quick runs in the first on a leadoff homer by Ray Starnes, a double by Don Kinzel, a groundout and a sacrifice fly by Lloyd Hutchinson.

They picked up their third home run in the third on a triple by Starnes and a sacrifice fly by Nellie Garcia.

Dave Downs pitched Reading Phillies past Sherbrooke, 3-0, Saturday night, allowing only five hits in this third shutout of the season. It was Downs' 12th win, tying him for the Eastern League lead with West Haven's Larry Gowell.

Chet Gunter pitched for the Pirates and matched Downs until singles by Don Kinzel, Jim Ziegler and Harry Saferight produced two runs in the front.

The other run came in the eighth on a walk to Kinzel and singles by Dick Wissel and Ziegler.

The Sherbrooke Pirates feasted on Reading for 20 hits Sunday en route to a 9-0 triumph over the Phils which virtually killed Reading's title hopes.

Mel Civil, Fernando Gonzales, Dave Arrington and Brian Murphy each collected three hits as every Pirate started hit safely at least once.

Arrington, Steve McFarland, Jim Campanis and winning pitcher, Brad Meyring each had a double. Meyring's record now is 10-7.

The Pirates gave Meyring all the runs he needed in the first four hits. Dave Augustine singled to open the game after McFarland popped out. Civil hit a ball behind second base which Tom Silicato fielded but had no chance of making a play.

After Gonzales flied out, Campanis hit a single to deep short. Arrington then scored Augustine and Civil with a ringing double to left.

The Pirates collected four more runs on five hits in the third and then added Singleton's four in the fifth, seventh and eighth as they bombed three of the four pitchers manager Jim Bunning used.

THE LIONS' SHARE — For the 11th consecutive summer youngsters in the Cowansville area have benefited from the little league baseball program sponsored by the local Lions Club. More than 80 boys are involved in the summer pastime, and part of the group are pictured above with Lions Club members. The members include, third row, from left to right, Donald Wells, Richard Provencher,

Warner grabs reserve

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP) — Chaired by his team-mates and led by a piper, WO Larry Glibbery of the Third Battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment, Petawawa, Ont., was awarded the Queen's Medal Sunday at the Connaught Rifle Range.

The medal, the highest award for Canadian military marksmanship, is awarded for the high aggregate total score over two days of shooting.

Glibbery scored 668 out of a possible 755, while Cpl. Dave Boudreau of the First Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, London, Ont., finished second with 641.

The service 7.62-mm. FN rifle is used throughout the shooting for the Queen's Medal, but distances and firing positions vary.

Glibbery was modest about his victory, but his team-mates said they knew he would win the top honor.

"You just come down to shoot for the team. If you do win the big one, it's a bonus," the winner said.

Maj. E. L. Warner of Lennoxville, Que., won the Queen's Medal (Reserve) with a score of 578.

Tigers take first with lottery lineup, drop nightcap

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Billy Martin, hoping to wake his slumping team, went with a pot-luck batting order Sunday dictated by a hat drawing.

The names came out spelling success for Detroit Tigers as they stopped a four-game losing streak with a 3-2 victory over Cleveland Indians in the first game of an American League doubleheader.

"It served the purpose. It was supposed to relax the guys—and it worked," said the Detroit manager, who went back to his regular batting order in the second game and lost 9-2.

Ed Brinkman, a .205 batter at game time who usually hits in the eighth spot, opened in the cleanup position and came up with a crucial hit as the Tigers scored twice in the sixth inning to win the opener.

Second basemen Tony Taylor and left fielder Willie Horton were two other batters who helped while hitting somewhere other than their normal positions.

Taylor, usually a leadoff or No. 2 hitter, batted fifth and singled home Brinkman with the winning run. Horton, who has been batting sixth this year, was No. 3 and came through with a homer, triple and single that started the winning rally.

The split dropped the Tigers into third place in the American League East Division race. They are one percentage point behind New York Yankees who moved into second after sweeping a doubleheader from Milwaukee Brewers 5-3 and 5-4.

Baltimore Orioles held first place in the East by 1½ games by crushing Boston Red Sox 8-2.

Things are no less uncertain in the West, where Oakland Athletics climbed into first place by one game after beating Chicago White Sox 3-0.

In other games Sunday, Texas Rangers blasted Kansas City Royals 13-4 and Minnesota Twins stopped California Angels 4-3.

Cleveland whalloped Detroit 6-1 in play Saturday while New York clipped Milwaukee 10-5. Chicago defeated Oakland 3-1. Texas blanked the Royal 3-0. Minnesota downed Carolina 4-1 and Baltimore split with Boston, winning 3-2 and losing 5-3.

In the nightcap against Detroit, Ray Fosse Graig Nettles drove in four runs apiece as the Indians took the second game.

RELIEF WORK HELPS

In New York, the Yankees took the first game with the help of Sparky Lyle's fancy relief work and the second on home run power.

Lyle, who has appeared in seven games during the last eight days to help New York rise to second place, said he thought he deserved a rest.

"I won't pick up a ball until Tuesday," said Lyle.

After Lyle picked up his 28th save in the opener, the Yankees wiped out a 3-2 Milwaukee lead in the second game on a two-run pinch-hit homer by Ron Blomberg.

Bobby Grich belted a homer and Johnny Oates knocked in two runs with a double in a four-run seventh that powered Baltimore over Boston.

Vida Blue pitched Oakland back into first place with a four-hitter. Dave Duncan and Bert Campaneris provided the offence with home runs.

Grand Slam gone but Nicklaus seeks $300,000

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — The glory dream of golf's Grand Slam is gone, at least for this season, but Jack Nicklaus is flirting now with a new goal—$300,000 in winnings for a single season.

"It would be great to win $300,000," Nicklaus said after pushing his winnings to $240,000 Sunday with his victory in the rich Westchester Golf Classic, "but I just don't know if I'll be able to play enough to do it."

"You always want to try to better yourself," said Nicklaus, who won a record $244,000 last year, "and I'd particularly like to do it this season for one reason: I feel that I'm a better golfer this year than I ever have been before in my life."

The record would back him up. In only 15 starts on the American tour this year, Nicklaus has won five—the Masters, U.S. Open, Bing Crosby Pro-am and Doral-Eastern prior to the Westchester, lost in a playoff for the title in the Tournament of Champions, failed by a stroke in the Jackie Gleason and tied for second at New Orleans.

And, of course, he lost by a single stroke in the British Open.

HAS HIS DOUBTS
He's averaging $16,028 a start in the United States.

His record of $244,000 seems certain to go. But $300,000 could be difficult.

"I'd have to win at least one more, maybe two, to do it," Nicklaus said. "I'd like to, but I really don't know if I'll play enough."

Nicklaus won the Westchester with almost casual ease, forging a beautifully-played fourunder-par 68 in the final round on the Westchester Country Club course. The 18-under-par total of 270 was the best on the tour this season.

He was never headed in the hot and muggy final round and won by three strokes over Jim Colbert, who had a hole-in-one and an eagle three en route to a 65 and 273.

Dwight Nevil, the soft-spoken former Dallas fireman who was the surprise of the tournament, held on with a 71 and third place at 275. He later donated $2,000 from his purse of $17,750 to a Newburgh, N.Y., hospital.

Homero Blancas, with a 65, was alone at 276 with George Archer and DeWitt Weaver next at 277. Each had a final round 68. No Canadians survived the halfway cut.

Arnold Palmer, who scored his last individual triumph in this one a year ago, didn't qualify for the final two rounds, British Open champ Lee Trevino didn't compete. South African Gary Player, the PGA titleholder, closed his regular American schedule with a 72—285 and was far back.

Takes amateur

CALGARY (CP) — Doug Roxburgh has produced solid evidence that he is one of the best golfers in Canada.

The 20-year-old Vancouver student won the Canadian amateur golf championship by four strokes Sunday and was a member of the British Columbia team that retained the Willingdon Cup a few days before.

On his way to the amateur title, Roxburgh set a course record at Earl Grey Golf Club and finished the 72 holes with an eight-under-par 276.

He played the final round with Dick Siderowf of Easton, Conn., the man who beat him in a playoff for the title last year, and the deposed champion had nothing but praise for Roxburgh.

"I've never seen a guy hit a ball like Doug Roxburgh did today. ... He has a classic golf swing."

"He just never missed a shot that was important. ..."
