

MEET THE CANDIDATES, HEAR THE ISSUES!

The Westmount Examiner invites every elector of Westmount, whether or not voting Monday for an alderman for Seat 2 of Ward 3, to Victoria Hall tomorrow evening at 8 pm, to see, hear, question and meet the three candidates. Newly acclaimed Mayor Paul Ouimet and Aldermen Leeds Nelson and William Wood also are expected to make their first public appearances since their election. Moderator is to be Prof. J. R. Mallory, a Westmounter, of the department of political science at McGill University. The meeting is scheduled to be concluded before 10 pm.

Municipal election Monday:

Late-comer MacCallum, with Dirkman, makes it three-way fight for Ward 3; Carruthers claims treachery by WMA

An eleventh hour candidate threw his political hat into the Ward 3 electoral battle Monday bringing to three the number of candidates fighting for Seat 2 of Ward 3.

Donald C. MacCallum, an engineer of 4300 de Maisonneuve boulevard, launched his campaign with the distribution of a paper describing his position on 11 issues.

The other two contenders are Arthur George Dirkman, a sales representative of 127 Irvine avenue, and David Carruthers, an historian of 126 Clandeboye avenue.

On many issues the candidates hold similar positions. Public housing is the question on which the three most differ. Mr. Dirkman is totally opposed to the construction of the 96 public housing dwelling units on Hillside avenue.

Believing that the density of the three-acre project is too high, (about 32 dwelling units per acre and 83 persons per acre) Mr. Dirkman fears that the project will cause the neighborhood (in which he resides) to degenerate.

In a brief which he recently presented to city council, Mr. Dirkman said, "We number in this immediate area (Metcalf, Abbott, Hillside, Irvine, Lewis, Blenheim, etc.) perhaps 300 persons. It is difficult to visualize how 250, 350 or 450 persons can be absorbed into the mainstream of life in our area. Rather, especially when they are crowded into a small area one block long, they will be competing for the area and shortly take it over."

The brief also states that the zoning change which permitted the construction of the Hillside avenue project may open up the area to other public housing projects so that the district may become a centre for such complexes.

Support principle

Mr. Carruthers supports in principle the concept of public housing and believes strongly that any agency, public or private, which displaces residents should have the responsibility of rehousing them. "This is the only way we can prevent large-scale dislocation of the poor," he said.

OCTOBER 29 to NOVEMBER 6

The frost will be on the pumpkins this Halloween. Clearing rapidly for a pleasant weekend, we will have frosty nights, hazy mornings and bright afternoons into mid-week. Eastern regions may still be within the influence of tropical storms until Sunday with some chance of mixed rain, snow and hail.

This is Full Moon time and a hunter's dream, since recent storms will have blown down most of the leaves. Dry, sunny conditions will continue into the weekend.

Temperature range: nights 20 to 25F. and days 45 to 50F.
Rain 1/4". Snow 2 to 3" for some places.

Paul A. Ouimet, Q.C., president and director general of the General Council of Industry of Quebec, was elected by acclamation Monday as mayor of the City of Westmount. Five of the six aldermanic seats were also filled by acclamation.

Mayor Ouimet served as an alderman in Westmount from 1958 to 1964. Elected with him are:

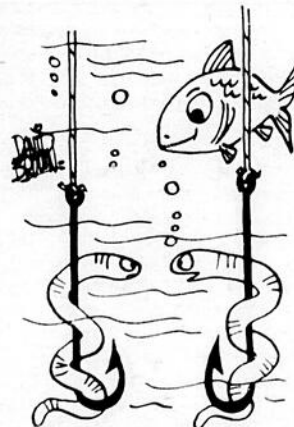

Ward 1: Charles Aspler, architect, re-elected, and Leeds M. Nelson, chartered accountant.

Ward 2: Ian Craig, chartered accountant, re-elected, and William T. Wood, lawyer and former chairman of the Westmount School Board.

Ward 3: Douglas C. Robertson, lawyer, re-elected.

The second Ward 3 seat is to be filled in an election Monday by residents of Ward 3 only. Polls will be open from 9 am to 6 pm, at Unity Boys Club, Greene avenue; 245 Victoria avenue, and Westmount High and Westmount Park schools. Poll numbers with their locations have been mailed by the city to each eligible Ward 3 elector.

First meeting of the new city council, with swearing-in ceremonies, is expected to take place Monday evening, Nov. 8, at 8 pm, in the council chamber at city hall.

WMA exec. split

Dissension and confusion expected this week with the Westmount Municipal Association's executive and between the WMA executive and the supporters of aldermanic candidate David Carruthers.

Some Carruthers supporters suggest the president of the association, Michael Hayes, should resign.

Core reason for the clash is a letter which is to be sent to Ward 3 residents by the WMA asking them to vote in the municipal election on Nov. 1.

The final draft of the letter is impartial. It does not ask members to support WMA candidate Carruthers.

The original letter, drafted by Mr. Hayes with the assistance of Mr. Carruthers and others, in a mild fashion, asked voters to support Mr. Carruthers.

The letter was drafted using as a precedent a letter which had been sent to residents during the Reid Tilley-James Robb school board electoral battle of 1969.

That letter listed the WMA candidates, including Robb, and urged residents, to support the association's choices.

During the drafting of the letter, Mr. Hayes had said that he would not have time to call an executive meeting to discuss the letter but assured Mr. Carruthers that it would be sent out.

'Support' withdrawn

However, some members of the WMA executive learned of the letter and convinced Mr. Hayes that it should be rewritten, eliminating any reference to support of any candidate.

This was done and Carruthers supporters were not informed of the change until Tuesday afternoon—too late, they claimed to organize a direct mailing of their own.

Said Robin Pratt, a citizen working for Mr. Carruthers, "We predicated our whole campaign on that letter. Now we're left dangling."

He added that Mr. Hayes had been a "square shooter" throughout the whole struggle but that the executive had turned on him.

Mr. Hayes said last night there were some differences between the present conflict and the Tilley-Robb electoral fight on which the executive had based its decision not to urge voters to support Mr. Carruthers.

He said that Robb had been a nominee of the WMA's nominating committee (David Carruthers was not) and had been voted in with approximately two-thirds of the membership present.

Admits being rash

He added that he had been rash in promising Mr. Carruthers the original letter would go out.

"But I feel the present letter is the right one in the circumstances," he said.

He said that the WMA executive, but most of all himself had been delinquent in not explaining to Mr. Carruthers the extent of the support the WMA would offer him.

Mr. Hayes appeared to be unsure of Mr. Carruthers's status as a WMA candidate. He said that some of the WMA executive did not consider Mr. Carruthers the official WMA candidate.

He said that the position of that part of the executive was that the association had a responsibility only to ensure that competent persons were running for civic office and that there was no need to endorse any of them.

The executive, he said, was "upset" at the Carruthers endorsement by the WMA general meeting and did not choose to "push" Mr. Carruthers' bid for a seat on council. When asked if Mr. Carruthers was the official WMA candidate, Mr. Hayes said he could not say Mr. Carruthers was not.

He said he had no intention of resigning at the moment.

He added that because of the problems the executive has run into over the present Ward 3 election tangle, the association's leadership was moving toward the position that in the future if there was more than one candidate presented at the WMA general meeting, then the association would endorse none of them, but let the citizens express their feelings through an election.

Claims still 'Official'

Mr. Pratt claimed there was no way that the WMA executive could not endorse Mr. Carruthers as the official WMA candidate.

The WMA by-laws, he said, clearly state the method by which WMA candidates are selected and Mr. Carruthers had won the endorsement of the WMA without any question.

He said that Mr. Carruthers had taken a chance by presenting himself at the WMA meeting, because he felt there was some value in his becoming the WMA's candidate, and now the WMA executive had turned on him.

He described the executive's behavior as treacherous.

Mr. Carruthers said it seemed that some members of the executive were repudiating the wishes of their own members and that they were cutting themselves loose from the membership.

"I personally feel very let down," he said. "I assumed support was forthcoming and it was not."

Candidates . . .

He said that the plans for the project had been maturing, with the assistance of the ex-Selby street residents who are to inhabit the centre, for over a year and that the city had invested substantial sums of money into planning the project.

But he added that some of the objections of the residents were valid and that city council should spare no effort in attempting to accommodate the wishes of the surrounding residents.

He said that the design and layout of the project, zoning laws and the inclusion of residents into the project's administrative body should all be discussed.

He is opposed to the construction of any more public housing projects in the district but believes that stopping construction of the Hillside avenue project altogether would be going too far.

He said there is a good chance that the city will modify the project in zoning administration and design to meet citizens requests but added that he was afraid that the anti-public housing group, in being so adamant and absolute in its demands, would miss the chance to implement constructive changes.

Honor commitment

In his position paper, Mr. MacCallum holds to the belief that the city council should honor the commitment made previously to those Westmounters who were displaced by the Trans-Canada Highway.

He says that the city's architectural commission has made detailed studies of the housing scheme and that he personally is convinced "that its size, architectural design and location will in no fashion whatsoever threaten the unique, quiet, reserved, residential nature of the neighborhood."

But he is opposed to any further construction of public housing projects in the area. He does not believe Westmount to be an appropriate community for the location of large general public housing complexes.

The burning issue to Mr. Carruthers is representation and

THE RESULTS: Returning Officer Ron Seaman is seen at the stroke of 2 pm Monday in the city council chamber reading to a sizeable gathering of candidates and their supports the results of the just-closed nominations for mayor and six aldermen for the City of Westmount for the next four years. Mr. Seaman's assistant, Peter Patenaude, is seated.

information feedback, from council to citizens. In the past, he has clashed with the present city council in his desire to obtain information which he claimed city council would not release.

He said that unlike some of the present city councillors, he didn't mind being "bugged" and he added that all Ward 3 citizens would have access to the information he had.

"I'll make sure people know what's happening," he said.

Traffic is concern

The issue closest to the heart of Mr. MacCallum is the traffic problem along de Maisonneuve boulevard. He lives in the area and describes the situation as "intolerable."

In his position paper he says: "Through drivers seem to regard this residential street as a high-speed expressway with consequent extreme hazard to pedestrians, many of whom are children, and also as generating entirely unreasonable noise levels."

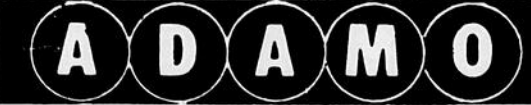

He insists that the city's traffic committee "give this situation intensive study that will result in the elimination of this undesirable condition through more effective control."

'Bulldozer' approach opposed

In reply to a question by Fernand Leclair, president of the Lower Westmount Citizens Committee, at the public meeting in the Unity Boys' and Girls' Club last week, Hon. Robert Andras, minister of state for urban affairs, said he was against the "bulldozer" approach to removing urban blight.

Mr. Leclair had asked Mr. Andras to open doors of communications to the residents of the area to assist them in renovating lower Westmount.

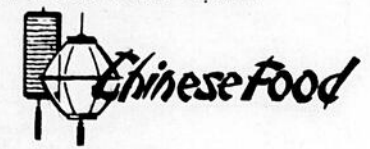

As long as someone looks for something for nothing, there will be someone to give nothing for something.

$625,000 sale leads transfers

The six-storey office building, at 345 Victoria avenue has been sold for $625,000 to Geoffrey Taylor. The Henri Bourassa Shopping Centre Inc. sold the complex which is valued by the city at $717,650.

Forty-two property transfers took place in September—the same number as occurred in August and a jump of seven compared with the 35 which took place in September 1970.

A 2.1 percent lower difference existed between the sales price of the 29 fully-listed properties and the city's valuation of them. Total of the sales prices was $1,855,000. The city's valuation of them is $1,893,550.

August's seven fully-listed properties sold for 7.8 percent greater than the city's valuation and in September of 1970, sales price of the 27 fully-listed properties was 4.2 percent greater than the city's valuation.

Of the 42 transfers last month, 29 were fully listed, 10 were sales for $1 and considerations, three were declarations and 29 were fully listed.

Least expensive fully-listed property was 121 Lewis avenue which sold for $13,500. The city's valuation was $17,500. The property was transferred from Miss Mary J. Standish to Arthur K. Westbrooke.

The details:

4919 and 4912 Sherbrooke: from Josef Friedman to Mrs. Kai Wong Yee, sales price $97,500 (city valuation $79,700);

Snatch yields low pickings

A young man or youth snatched the purse of a Montreal woman who was walking on Rosemount avenue near Sherbrooke street Saturday.

The thief must have been disappointed when he stopped to examine his haul. The purse contained only $2 or $3 in cash. The rest of its contents were personal papers.

The thief approached the woman from behind, snatched the purse and sped off before the victim could get a look at his face.

Home burgled

A Claremont avenue home was broken into on Wednesday, Oct. 20, and $800 worth of camera equipment stolen. Police discovered the thief entered 440 Claremont avenue through a window. The thief forced the window but did not break it.

Avoid friendly women

It may be necessary to avoid friendly women in the concourse of Westmount Square.

One busy window shopper on Saturday was nuzzled by another woman who stood beside her for several minutes. After the woman had left, the window shopper looked down at her purse and discovered it hanging open. Missing was about $100.

We Say

... or start of a new era

SOMEONE who has devoted much time and energy to municipal affairs in Westmount said wistfully the other night that with the going out of office Monday last of the retiring city council that it was "the end of an era."

He didn't spell it out. We knew what he meant.

Most obvious was the clearly homogeneous nature of council, the top business and professional people who for decades have provided this city's municipal leadership, which cannot be expected with certainty in the future.

It is not necessarily the advent of the ward system; in a way, the establishment of voting districts is merely formalizing and anticipating social change and differences here as elsewhere.

The admission of tenants to the electoral rolls—though having a dramatic effect on voting power—is basically only another recognition of social pressure on the older, established order which enfranchised only property-owning ratepayers and which did not see lease-holders as ultimate payers, through their rents, of taxes.

The obligatory stipends for mayors and aldermen and the lengthened terms probably are relatively minor factors of change. A busy executive type becomes a little less prone to agree to serve in office for four years instead of three, and the emolument might be an enticement of sorts to persons of lower incomes.

But underlying our friend's sad reflection was oblique recognition that times have changed. No longer will groups of people, specially when they feel that their vital interests are being affected adversely, protest passively. They now take more direct action and move to seize control of things themselves.

Undeniably, this is happening in Westmount. And depending only where you sit can you say it is a good or a bad thing.

MONDAY's election is an even more complex and interesting bubbling pot of elements than might have been expected. It would be a brash person who would predict the result when the ballots are counted Monday night.

Perhaps after tomorrow evening's meet-the-candidate night at Victoria Hall it may be clearer what factors may tell for and against each of the three candidates. At this writing, geography is the most obvious element influencing how votes may go in Ward 3: generally southeast to Mr. Carruthers, south-central to Mr. Dirkman, and north of St. Catherine to Mr. MacCallum.

Overlaying this is the tenant-versus-property-owner alignment, in which Messrs. MacCallum and Carruthers can be identified with renters and Mr. Dirkman with those who possess real estate.

Then there is the issue of public housing. Mr. Dirkman opposes the project in his immediate bailiwick while both his opponents will have to share the votes of those who sympathize in varying degrees with public housing in Westmount.

No wonder there is much guessing and no predicting over Monday's election outcome.

THIS election is a good exercise, no matter how much the "trouble and expense" may be deplored by some. It is a sad society which cannot freely exercise rule by ballot.

There is another attitude, however, which we find of more immediate concern. That is the feeling among Westmounters of Ward 1 and 2—their aldermanic choices having already been settled by acclamation—that the voting Monday in Ward 3 is not their concern.

The establishment of wards, with the danger of a fractionating of municipal affairs through mutual indifference between citizens of the three wards, makes it more important than ever that residents above de Maisonneuve boulevard acquaint themselves with the Ward 3 issues.

After all, the person elected in Ward 3 on Monday must be, even before being a representative of the southern portion of the city, clearly a councillor of the City of Westmount. The duties and responsibilities of aldermen, once in office, are not expected to be materially changed from what they have been in the past.

For this reason, THE EXAMINER's invitation to see and hear the candidates tomorrow evening in Victoria Hall, which we have booked to help clarify positions and aid electors in deciding how to vote, is extended to every concerned Westmount citizen. We hope you'll be there.

An old-folks '4424'

THE FEDERAL government, through Mr. Benson's massive-spending budget, is looking to municipalities to create jobs through new local works undertakings. Speed to alleviate a feared winter employment crisis, is the watchword.

Westmount is not immune from responsibility for taking some share in this program. Even though we are a community which has provided useful and desirable amenities for its citizens over the years—and thus may be hard pressed to bring forward, quickly, new ones—local imagination and ingenuity is not lacking.

Ward 3 Candidate MacCallum only Monday suggested another, completely-enclosed artificial ice rink for the city.

Lower Westmount citizens are suggesting acquisition of those houses on Greene avenue which were expropriated by the Quebec roads department last winter, only to be left standing—and empty. Many building trades could be employed in a complete overhaul of these structures, rendering them not just habitable again but highly desirable homes in their old familiar district for those displaced from Selby street and who wish to return to Westmount. (A sensible substitute for many if not all of the more elaborate units planned for Hillside avenue; and if that project must go forward, a means of reducing the density of the added population there, feared by Ward 3 Candidate Dirkman and his neighbors.)

Yet another idea, suggested to us by a citizen who is not a candidate for anything we know of at the moment, is revival of an excellent plan which was advanced and shelved as a 1967 Centennial project.

Something for our largely-ignored, in a corporate community sense, segment of the population: our senior citizens.

Framed on three sides by the fine structure of Shaar Hashomayim, St. Andrew's United Church and the city hall is a beautiful reach of lovingly-cared-for lawn which serves as Westmount's bowling greens.

In the middle of this oasis of green stands a little-noticed building—well kept but out of keeping with surrounding edifices—the clubhouse of the Westmount Lawn Bowling Club.

The club itself attracts a large percentage of its members, both men and women, from those of more mature years. Bowling has proved an excellent sport for older folks who remain active.

This structure is no thing of beauty. It is old. It is not substantial. And its appointments are not up to its beautiful surroundings.

Here would be an ideal place for a senior citizens' "4424". What better, more central place could there be for the community to provide a much needed "drop-in centre for our retired people?"

There could be lounges, card rooms, billiards, handicrafts, sewing and other facilities of the folks' choosing—theirs to make of as they wish, with the help of those not yet reached true seniority but who have a growing interest in and concern for this increasingly important segment of our population.

The bowling club could either share or have their own facilities—certainly, basement locker rooms would be their minimum need.

We commend this idea not only to the new city council but to the architectural and planning commission for immediate attention, and to anyone else who may wish to say "Aye."

The real danger is on highways

Sir: Congratulations on your commonsense remarks about our open society.

Montreal is not a "big, bad city" — it is in fact one of the safest cities in the world, (unless you're a gangster) so let's enjoy our freedom while we can.

Rather than fill our children with vague anxieties, fear of the dark and of strangers, let's concentrate on the real dangers. Child molestings are rare and usually involve a relative or someone else known to the child, not a stranger. The likelihood of occurrence is not much higher than being struck by lightning. Kidnapping, of course, is almost non-existent anywhere in the world.

On the other hand, any day we can pick up the paper and read of the dreadful maimings and killings that occur on our highways. If we must worry, let's worry about real dangers.

"From every source comes reports of business improvement. At long last it appears that the tide on this continent has definitely turned, and that we are away to another era of prosperity. Reports emanating from Ottawa that there is a possibility of a balanced budget next year, due to the greatly increased revenue from import duties, has greatly encouraged business to make commitments that would have been out of the question with another huge deficit and increased taxes in prospect. A number of Montreal's larger business institutions have actually begun increasing office staffs — for the first time since 1930."

"The loss of both of Monday's by-elections will cause government leaders at Ottawa furiously to think. Parkdale was expected to continue its adherence to the Conservative Party even with a reduced majority, but the government hoped to balance the Toronto result with a victory in Portage. That both seats went Conservative will give the government plenty to think about, and there will be a considerable attempt to analyze the causes, especially in the west. What effect the results will have in the House remains to be seen. It is hardly likely, however, that the government's position will be seriously imperiled unless the combined opposition parties all want an election at the same time, which is most unlikely."

"A reduction in all phases of criminal activity is reported in Westmount from the first eight months of the year. Entry of buildings unlawfully decreased from the 75 figure of a year ago to 49 for a reduction of 26. Loss in burglaries, however, is higher—a total of $178,993 against $141,825. Recoveries for the period were down—$2,954 against $4,031."

the Advent we wish publicly to protest the allocation of funds from the successful September Fair.

The needs of "4424" are undoubtedly great, and it should be supported by its community, but the principle of giving 87 percent of the proceeds to youth and 13 percent to a survey to determine the needs of the aged appears very unbalanced, especially as prior expectations were for an equal division.

Does this offer young people a

Examiner grants a reader's wish

Sir: Did I miss the public debates where one Ward 3 candidate explained why he purports to represent the interests of tenants like myself, and another candidate expressed the wish to disenfranchise those of us who live above St. Catherine street?

Certainly, these retiring gentlemen did not voice their contradictory views to any of the open meetings where David Carruthers overwhelmingly qualified himself to represent Westmount residents on City Council.

Lets have an opportunity to question the latecomers before they seek a mandate from the whole ward. If we are not entitled to such courtesy before the election, what can we expect later?

Westmount.

Dear Sirs:

I would like to express my appreciation to the person or persons responsible for the planning and upkeep of Westmount Park. When the renovations were made some years ago, I didn't think much of the new plan, but now that the numerous new young trees and shrubs are growing and blossoming, I find the park a constant delight.

I am not a resident of Westmount, but I spend most of my lunch hours in Westmount park. Would it be possible to obtain a list of the trees and shrubs in the park, and where they are located, with any information about them I am sure most people are unaware of the wide variety of trees and flowers now present in the park.

I am sending a copy of this letter to The Westmount Examiner and I hope one of their reporters will do an article on the park and what is to be found there.

Thank you again for the pleasure you have given me.

Sincerely,

Late candidacies surprise citizen

Sir: In connection with the election for alderman to be held on Monday, Nov. 1, it seems somewhat surprising, that the two candidates who are contesting the election of David Carruthers, the nominee of the Westmount Municipal Association, only saw fit to announce their candidacies at the very last moment.

Both of these gentlemen, namely, Dirkman, and MacCallum, have been members of the Westmount Municipal Association for several years, and had ample opportunity to express their interest at the various meetings held prior to the last day for filing papers.

It appears, that these two gentlemen, in running for the aldermanic seat, are running out of self-interest, and not in the interest of the ward as a whole.

Dirkman is running on a platform totally opposed to public housing, and one wonders whether the fact that he is the owner of several properties in the public housing area, combined with a 19th Century view that the construction of public housing will lower adjacent property values, is not his sole motive in contesting the election.

The Westmount Examiner reported last week that he said that he was not concerned with those residents in the ward who lived above St. Catherine street, as they did not need representation. This attitude clearly shows a remarkable lack of interest for many of our citizens living outside his particular area of interest.

MacCallum does not appear to date to have shown any interest in the affairs of the ward. There are grounds for believing that MacCallum chose to run at the instigation of people living outside the ward, who for some unjustifiable reason are fearful of the election of the candidate nominated by the WMA.

The whole purpose of the new ward system is to allow those persons who are interested in municipal affairs to elect candidates in their areas. This purpose is defeated when persons outside the ward support and—or finance, the candidate of their choosing in another ward.

Like Dirkman, MacCallum has shown little interest in representing the ward as a whole. He has stated that he is an ideal candidate to represent the people on de Maisonneuve.

The only candidate who has expressed an interest in representing the ward as a whole and also in the carrying out of the duties of Westmount is the official candidate of the WMA. This is a responsible attitude.

I hope that, the citizens of our ward will be able to see through the campaigns of the other two candidates, and will take the trouble to vote on Monday for Carruthers, who has demonstrated in the past his interest in our community affairs and who has given considerable time and much effort in the furtherance of these affairs.

65 from Selby seeking housing on Hillside ave.

Following last week's council meeting, Al Fisher, president of the Westmount Tenants Association, reported that about 65 Selby streeters who were expropriated to make way for the Trans-Canada Highway have indicated a desire to reside in the Hillside avenue public housing project.

He was replying to questions asked by a member of the audience who had come with several others to present to city council a petition requesting that the project be reconsidered.

One woman asked why the Selby streeters needed subsidized housing more than others.

Mayor Peter McEntyre said that the provisions for admittance into a public housing project are laid down by a provincial government act and that the inhabitants of the housing project would pay rent according to their income.

In reply to a question about who gets priority admittance to the project, Assistant City Manager John McIver reported that first priority goes to those who have been expropriated by government bodies, next comes the low income group.

Roslyn cars broken into

Perspective of Hope at Douglas C.of E. - U.C. union topic for sermon

Dr. Douglas Smith's sermon in Dominion-Douglas United Church will be "The Perspective of Hope" this Sunday. It will set the meaning of three special days - All Saints' Day, Reformation Sunday and United Nations Observance - against the background of man's need for and also the reality of hope.

Dominion-Douglas Couples' Club had a get-together last Thursday. After a gathering at the church, all went for a Chinese dinner. Several new couples were welcomed.

The opening meeting of the Dominion-Douglas Literary Society was addressed by Dr. Smith who spoke on Africa and showed pictures taken on a recent trip to five countries there. The society is meeting now on Wednesdays.

On Thursday, a Presbyterian UCV Rally was held in Dominion-Douglas when Mrs. Marilyn Huband from Winnipeg spoke. She brought a dynamic message to the women who came from the Montreal area and as far away as Lachute.

Science lecture at auditorium

A description of spiritual healing as "scientific in method and precise in its operation" will be set forth by a Christian Science lecturer in the Westmount High School auditorium this evening.

Speaking on "Christian Science: The Discovery of the Healing Christ," Geith A. Plimmer, CS, of London, England, himself a Christian Science practitioner, will illustrate his talk with accounts from his own experience of healings accomplished through spiritual means alone, including ptomaine poisoning, defective eyesight and the effects of a severe beating.

Mr. Plimmer comes here at the invitation of the Christian Science Church in Westmount. A native of Perth, West Australia, he was educated in New Zealand and at the University of Adelaide, South Australia. He withdrew from the teaching profession in 1934 to enter the public practice of Christian Science healing. In World War II he served for three years as Christian Science officiating minister to the Allied Forces in Italy.

Abraham to Gurion Stern topic

Sabbath services will be held in the Temple Emanu-El sanctuary as usual tomorrow at 8:15 pm. Dr. Harry Stern will speak on "From Abraham to Ben Gurion." Oneg Shabbat and kiddush reception follows in the community house.

Saturday at 11:30 am, Rabbi Bloomstone will deliver the sermonette based on Torah portion.

Remembrance Day Sabbath Service will be on Friday, Nov. 5, at 8:15 pm when the Brig. Frederick Kisch Branch No. 97 of the Canadian Legion and members of the Jewish War Veterans Association will attend with their colors.

The School for Adults holds classes Saturday October 30 at 10 am. Dr. Stern will continue his discussions on "The Bible and Funeral service was held at the Chapel of Wray, Walton, Wray, 1234 Mountain Street, on Wednesday, October 27, at 3:00 pm. Interment was at Mount Royal Cemetery.

Remembrance ceremonies on Nov. 7

Westmounters will witness a colorful Remembrance Day parade Sunday, Nov. 7, as the Royal Montreal Regiment, the RMR cadets and the RMR Association Branch No. 14, Royal Canadian Legion, march through the city's streets to lay wreaths at the cenotaph at Sherbrooke street and Cote St. Antoine road.

The units will form up at the RMR Armory, St. Catherine street west, at 1 pm, then parade to the cenotaph.

The official opening of the Greater Montreal Poppy Fund Campaign commences with a flag raising ceremony at Place Ville Marie Monday at noon by the Royal Canadian Legion.

The street sales "tag day" is officially authorized by the City of Westmount for Nov. 6, from 9 am to 5 pm. Veterans of Branch No. 14 and 40 to 50 RMR cadets will be selling poppies on the streets. Proceeds will go to veterans of both world wars.

Residents wishing to purchase wreaths to be deposited at the cenotaph may order them through the branch. The wreaths are delivered to homes by veterans.

Motto of the campaign this year is, "If you can't remember...think."

Andras backs plan for Greene

Lower Westmount citizens have received the verbal support of Hon. Robert Andras, minister of state for urban affairs, in an attempt to open up the Greene avenue houses as low cost housing.

At the public meeting in the Unity Boys' and Girls' Club last week, Joseph Baker, architect, 1087 Greene avenue, urged the minister to use the houses as a demonstration of the rehabilitation of houses in an urban renewal area.

He said that the provincial government (which obtained the buildings on the east side of Greene avenue between the Trans-Canada Highway and St. Antoine street through expropriation) was willing to turn over the houses to residents at little cost.

Mr. Baker said that residents should form a non-profit corporation to maintain and run the houses.

Mr. Andras said that if the proposal was endorsed by the municipality, the provincial government and the residents of the area, then the program would be considered by the federal government right away.

He said that now was an appropriate time to present the program to the federal government.

Buy Greene houses, suggestion to city

Citizens in the southeast corner of Westmount are kicking around the idea of asking Westmount city government to purchase, for a nominal fee, the houses on the east side of Greene avenue from the provincial government.

The province has ended up owning the Greene avenue buildings between St. Antoine and Selby street almost by accident. Originally, the government expropriated the buildings to demolish them to make way for the ramp to the Trans-Canada Highway being constructed along Selby street.

Residents, backed by city hall, protested the demolitions and the roads' department modified its ramp plans so that buildings would not be torn down.

The provincial government has declined to re-rent vacated flats, saying they were not fit for habitation while the highway is under construction.

The city may not tax buildings owned by the province and has been losing revenue.

Would Form Corporation

Fernand Leclaire, president of the Lower Westmount Citizens Association, said there has been talk of asking the city to purchase the buildings, for a nominal fee, they renting them to a citizens' corporation which would be responsible for maintaining and running the buildings.

He added that if the city did not want to acquire the buildings, then the citizens' corporation might do so.

Mr. Leclaire said one of the objects was to revive community spirit in the area.

"The old community spirit is practically non-existent now," he said, "something has to be done to build it up again."

He said he hoped the federal and provincial governments would chip in for the cost of renovating the buildings, just as they do for public housing projects.

Maintain Rent Level

He said that rents should be maintained at their present level.

He added that one building on Selby street which is a few feet from the highway probably would not be suitable for habitation and that it could become a community centre.

He felt that the citizens' corporation should be composed of citizens who live in the Greene avenue homes and perhaps others from the city's citizens groups with the necessary skills and knowledge.

Motorbike and driver are squeezed

A motorbike and its driver were squeezed between two taxis on Friday at Sherbrooke street and Greene avenue about 8:50 pm causing the bike driver minor injuries and causing about $500 damage to the vehicles.

Daniel Gagne, 21, of St. Leonard, was driving his 1968 Yamaha west on Sherbrooke when a taxi pulled out from the north curb, striking the bike and forcing it into another taxi which was stopped at a red light on Sherbrooke at Greene.

Driver of the taxi which pulled out was M. Reininger, 46, of Montreal. Driver of the other taxi was M. L'Esperance, 52, of St.

Learning-problem class seen success at WHS

A class of youngsters with learning problems at Westmount High School is proving a boon to both students and teachers.

It was learned at Monday night's Westmount School Board meeting that because of the innovative techniques needed to handle the youngsters, teachers were learning new ways of dealing with classes while the youngsters with problems were progressing at a steady clip.

Teacher George Mager, who is in charge of the class, produced a brief on it which was discussed at the board meeting.

The brief stated that if the youngsters are to be helped through "the turbulence of adolescence," their courses of study must provide them with the opportunity to explore their motivation and their behavior.

The program is aimed at helping the troubled youngsters who could not function adequately in the usual school environment by offering intensive individual attention and remedial services.

The class is comprised of only six students, all boys, and the special program on which they have embarked includes intensive sports activities such as boxing, running, weight lifting and swimming.

Relaxed atmosphere

In the classroom a relaxed atmosphere is encouraged with the boys having the opportunity to return to their home room whenever they wish.

To elicit commitment and prevent tension, each of the boys, with the help of a teacher, has worked out his own individualized program. Some of the students selected courses beyond their grade level, others opted for remedial courses in reading and arithmetic and others chose courses which involved physical skills such as industrial and photo arts.

The boys have been assigned a "project teacher" who helps them plan their activities, assists them in crises and with studies, counsels them on their school work and behavior, helps other teachers in working with the boys and serves as a liaison between the school and the boys' parents.

Since the teacher is considered the boys' friend, they may visit him outside of school and he may organize field trips.

In the brief, Mr. Ager Mayer complimented Principal Noel Hamilton for his "flexibility as an administrator and his openness to innovative and, at times, disconcerting teaching methods."

"It seems essential," says the brief, "that special education classes be placed only in schools where co-operation and helpfulness on the part of the principal can be expected."

Mr. Mager also recognized the co-operation of vice-principals K. Mann and Miss C. Brodie and the teaching staff which "manifested sensitive handling of the boys."

In his conclusion, Mr. Mager says the emotional problems of adolescents can be best helped when the youngsters are given individual attention and remedial work and given the opportunity to work off tensions and nervousness with physical activities.

"There can be no doubt," says the brief, "that we shall learn much from this project—much, it is believed, which will be of help to all students."

Unemployed youths form job co-op, seek work

Some unemployed youths who frequent Alexis Nihon Plaza have decided to attempt to break out from the depressing monotony of being turned away from businesses.

They've formed a job co-op with the help of the city's Office for Community and Social Development, 1210 Greene avenue, and will be distributing circulars to Westmounters in an attempt to obtain work.

They say they're willing to do anything legal—window washing, raking leaves, dog walking, house cleaning, car washing—anything at all.

Core of the co-op are three teenagers: Jilles Stram, 18, of Amesbury avenue, Montreal; Don Jenkins, 19, of the same address, and Jim Goddard, 15, of 6 Weredale Park.

Community Worker June McLellan of the Office said the boys are frustrated because they couldn't find full-time work.

She said that most of the unemployed persons, many of them young people, who frequent the plaza are not living with their parents and must work to survive.

One of the boys of Miss McLellan will be manning a telephone at 1210 Greene avenue, 935-2668.

RMR trains with unit from Ontario

Reservists of the local Royal Montreal Regiment and the Lanark and Renfrew Regiment, Pembroke, Ont., combined for joint training exercises in the Lachute area earlier this month.

About 60 militiamen from each unit took part, patrolling by day and night and section-level attacks using blank ammunition.

In addition to the infantrymen, services such as cooks, military police and medical assistance was provided by a detachment of No. 1 Montreal Service Battalion.

Highlight was a competition of battle physical training.

The combination exercise—the first in recent years arranged between militia units from different military regions—was brought about by Maj. J.F. Girardin, who served four years with the Lanark and Renfrew Regiment before coming to Montreal as training officer with the RMR which, through its affiliated cadet organization, has obtained the use of some 300 acres near Lachute for use once a month.

Most other military units in Quebec are confined to training grounds of Camp Farnham, 40 miles south of Montreal, and Camp Valcartier, 25 miles northwest of Quebec City.

The commanding officers of the units hope to make the joint exercise at least an annual event.

Leonard. The bike suffered about $200 damage. The taxi which pulled out from the curb suffered about $200 damage and the other taxi suffered about $100 damage.

Mr. Gagne was taken to Montreal General Hospital by Westmount Police patrol car.

Doheny thanks public safety chief, deputies

At the last meeting of the present city council last week, Ald. Daniel Doheny, commissioner of public safety and an outgoing alderman, thanked the whole public safety force in Westmount for doing a fine job.

He singled out the heads of the departments—Deputy Chief Ashford of the police and Deputy Chief Paul Motard of the fire brigade—as being exceptional leaders.

He specially thanked Director of Public Safety E.C. Harper for his contributions.

"A department takes its character from its top man," he said, "and we're extremely lucky to have a man of Mr. Harper's ability as director of public safety."

He said that during the past five years, although there have been minor annoyances, there had been no issue or incident that caused him to complain bitterly.

"I've been honored to serve with you," he said.

Ald. Douglas Robertson seconded Ald. Doheny's remarks and said that Westmounters were privileged to have serving the city a civil service which exemplified everything a civil service should be.

Ward 3 area's record in voting unimpressive

Aldermanic candidates David Carruthers and Arthur Dirkman are going to have to work awfully hard to generate interest in local affairs in their ward, if past voting patterns in that area are anything to go by.

In the last election which took place in 1962 between Westmount Municipal Association candidate Fred Gross and New Democratic Party candidate Mrs. Rina Nilkski, the approximate Ward 3 area (there were no wards at that time) turned in only about 21 percent of the total vote.

Although the population of Ward 3 has grown since 1962 (Westmount Square and Alexis Nihon Plaza were not built) 21 percent of the vote is low, specially when only 30 percent of the total number of voters in Westmount turned out.

Each of Westmount's new three wards has approximately 15,000 inhabitants.

In the Ward 3 area approximately 532 persons appeared at the polls. Four hundred and twenty-four cast their ballots for Gross, 108 for Nilkski.

If the almost 80-percent vote cast for Mr. Gross indicates a conservative trend in Ward 3, it's

Futile snatch

Two young snatchers picked the wrong victim when they grabbed a Montreal women's purse on Monday evening on Atwater avenue near Dorchester boulevard. The purse contained no money; only a book and personal papers.

Advent(ure)

The Church of the Advent at 4119 de Maisonneuve boulevard was broken into on Thursday night or Friday morning. Nothing has been reported missing. Entry was gained by breaking a basement window.

difficult to say how the 1971 candidates will fare.

If the 1962 Ward 3 vote indicates support of the Westmount Municipal Association, it bodes ill for any candidate who might run without the venerable institution's endorsement.

But much has changed in Ward 3 and in the city as a whole since and it is difficult to draw any strong conclusions from the 1962 voting pattern.

Some Ward 3 inhabitants say they have become disillusioned with "the old way" of doing things.

The local Ward 3 convention in August to nominate aldermanic candidates is regarded as one indication of change.

4 mayors sign fire aid agreement

Mayor Peter M. McEntyre and his opposite numbers in St. Laurent, Mount Royal and Outremont yesterday signed an agreement at St. Laurent City Hall formalizing the mutual aid fire backup arrangement which has operated effectively between the four municipalities for the past three years.

The respective fire chiefs were also present as was Judge Jacques Coderre, whose report on unification of island fire services is expected to be released in about three weeks.

All four mayors expressed great satisfaction with the present arrangement which has been highly effective operationally and effected big savings over previous costs of calling in help as required.

Costs are limited to the actual wage expense when extra men are called out to duty to replace those on mutual aid assignment.

Carruthers' upset of WMA is significant

An historical "happening" took place with the election of David Carruthers as the Westmount Municipal Association's aldermanic candidate for Seat 2 in Ward 3.

Never before in the WMA's 63-year history had an executive-endorsed aldermanic candidate of the association's nominating committee been defeated by a candidate nominated from the floor.

Not only was Peter Duffield, the executive's candidate, beaten; he was soundly beaten, losing by a vote of 84 to 49.

What's the significance? To many of the Ward 3 residents who worked in the Carruthers' campaign, the victory is a morale booster, indicating that the "old guard" can be defeated on its own ground in a battle of its own choosing.

To more impartial observers, the event signified the WMA's fundamental flexibility and showed that the association can be a legitimate vehicle of expression for citizens of all types and political hues.

To others, the last minute change of the WMA to a ward-by-ward voting system indicated that the executive was out of touch with the wishes of the membership.

But what of the 56 new memberships, many of them family memberships with two votes, that the WMA picked up at the nominating meeting? What influence will they wield in the city's most powerful citizens' organization?

Most of them, one assumes, were supporters of David Carruthers and therefore approve of his political beliefs and activities which have in the past led him into frequent clashes both with the city and provincial governments.

New directions

If the new members decide to get actively involved in the WMA, and many of them have said they want to, then the fount of political power in the city may begin spouting in new directions.

What are the political attitudes of Mr. Carruthers and his supporters? That's not easy to answer because Mr. Carruthers is a complex person with complex attitudes and his supporters by no means hold to a philosophically homogeneous set of values.

But one thing's for sure, whatever their beliefs, they don't hide them and they persist in questioning elected officers and government officials until they get satisfactory answers.

In his nominating speech at the WMA, Mr. Carruthers complained of being put off by "officialese" and said that if he was elected he would make perfectly sure that the lines of communication between city hall and citizens would be as free as he could make them.

But Mr. Carruthers' primary concern, and that of his supporters, is to preserve the residential nature of lower Westmount and to make sure that the area isn't developed without the consent of the people who inhabit it.

In fighting for that aim during the next four years, if elected, he may come into conflict with the more traditional and business-oriented powers in the city — and that could be exciting.

Not afraid to speak

In the past Mr. Carruthers has never been afraid to speak his mind and he has often kept on speaking it despite the groans and complaints of aldermen and government officials.

A bespectacled, bushy-haired, former lecturer in Canadian history, Mr. Carruthers may develop into a kind of local Morton Shulman, the vocal Ontario MPP who has caused much pain to the Progressive Conservative government in power in Ontario.

Or, he may, once in power and wrestling with the practical problems of running the city, take on a moderate tone.

Whatever his political tone during city council exercises, probability is that he will make a genuine attempt to get Ward 3 citizens actively involved in city council matters. And if he succeeds at the city council level and the new Ward 3 WMA members begin to make that association respond to their wishes, then the city's political life stream may flow in slightly different directions.

Unrestricted store hours seen trade aid

If we let the consumer decide the question of unrestricted hours of store closing, total retail sales will increase.

This is the opinion of Dr. Bruce Mallen, professor and chairman of graduate studies, faculty of commerce and administration, Sir George Williams University.

The speaker was addressing a full attendance of members of the Westmount Rotary Club in Victoria Hall yesterday, under the chairmanship of President Russ King.

Prof. Mallen claimed store hours was a national issue. He reviewed the history of the subject over the years both in Canada and the United States. There has been much legislation on the matter and it is gaining more attention daily, involving retail owners versus their employees. Visiting Rotarians were welcomed from Hong Kong, Germany, New York, and California.

The speaker was introduced by Lou Steinberg. Gerry Stephens was congratulated by the assembly on his birthday and received the traditional lapel rose.

Committees handling the popular auto rally held Saturday, were publicly thanked for their excellent work.

The following building permits were issued at city hall during the past week:

VOTE DAVID CARRUTHERS FOR ALDERMAN SEAT 2 WARD 3

There is only one issue in this campaign.

From the moment he arrived in Westmount David Carruthers has worked for and with people with problems—the children of Staynor Park, the Greene avenue residents displaced by expropriation and citizens worried about the impact of the Trans-Canada Highway on our city.

No one asked him to work—what David Carruthers has done he did because he cares about the kind of community he lives in and the kind of community his neighbors live in.

That is the issue.

David Carruthers cares. David Carruthers has worked for all of us whether we live in an apartment, a room or our own home.

The other candidates cannot make that claim.

On Monday, November 1, vote for the future of your ward and your city.

Vic's Auxiliary sponsoring dance

The Women's Auxiliary of the Royal Victoria Hospital on Friday, Nov. 5, are sponsoring a house staff dance in the lounge of Sir George Williams University. Two orchestras and a "Souper Canadien" will highlight an evening of dining and dancing under the chairmanship of Mrs. E.D. Monaghan.

With approximately 350 interns, 150 fellows, 50 house staff as well as the attending staff, their ladies and escorts invited, this event could be a very large and very gay affair.

This is one of many diversified areas in which the Auxiliary lends its support to the hospital.

which opened with a theatre party on Oct. 8 and, last Friday, an address by the principal of Pius X11 Comprehensive High School.

Next meeting, Friday, Nov. 12, will feature Frank Hanley, colorful Montreal and provincial political figure who is now director of public relations of the Windsor Hotel.

Meetings are held in Victoria Hall, again this year under the presidency of Mrs. Russell T. Stackhouse, 34 Thornhill avenue. Vice-president is Mrs. W. D. Lambie, 370 Lansdowne avenue.

Other scheduled events between now and the end of the year are a welfare bridge on Nov. 18, films presented by Bell Canada on Nov. 26 and a Christmas entertainment on Dec. 10.

UNICEF boxes available at homes here

"A future for every child" is the watchword of the United Nations Children's Fund in 1971, its 25th anniversary year.

Westmount children again will have an opportunity to share their good fortune on Hallowe'en with children round the world by carrying a UNICEF box as well as their "trick or treat" bag.

The black and orange boxes were available, starting Wednesday, from the following houses in Westmount:

48 Aberdeen, 17 Anwoth, 530 Argyle, 71 Arlington, 616 Belmont, 786 Upper Belmont, 54 Chesterfield, 532 Grosvenor, 692 Grosvenor, 48 Holton, 9 Hudson. 486 Lansdowne, 607 Lansdowne, 748 Upper Lansdowne, 364 Metcalfe, 4334 Montrose, 445 Mt. In addition, boxes are made available to youngsters attending The Priory, Miss Edgar's, Selwyn House, The Study, LCC, St. George's Weston and Trafalger Schools and Temple Emanu-El, Westmount Park and St. Andrew's religious schools. Houses distributing UNICEF boxes may be identified by an orange pumpkin poster in the front door or window.

Although UNICEF does not dictate the date of Hallowe'en, it is expected that the ghosts and goblins will be out on Saturday night, Oct. 30th., this year.

College test rule concerns local board

Westmount school commissioners expressed concern at this month's meeting over the provincial government's decision to refrain from using standard university entrance tests which are issued from Ottawa, and use instead tests decided on by Quebec.

It was felt that a disservice was done to Quebec students who might decide to attend universities outside the province. The standard tests are now available in Quebec as Ottawa has stopped issuing them here until the provincial government makes a decision on the question of their use.

Pre-school study group asks for toys, furniture

The Westmount Pre-School Study Group is asking Westmounters to donate used toys, furniture and equipment for a co-operative nursery school which is to open in January.

The group believes that pre-school education is the right of every child, not only those whose parents can avoid the high fee-scale of the majority of schools now in existence. The students at the Westmount co-op school will be drawn from all over Westmount regardless of their parents' ability to pay.

The school is a non-profit organization and at present has no working capital. For this reason it must rely on donations with regard to equipment, they assert.

Bookshelves, lumber and crates, sandboxes, blackboards, low tables and chairs, blocks and other toys will all be appreciated.

In particular the school would like to obtain a piano and a record player.

Persons who can give help with these things are asked to contact Mrs. Peggy Maude, 487-5893. The school will arrange to pick up any items available.

Tuesday is the safest day in the week to drive your car, according to a group of insurance appraisers. Worst days are Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Kay Kinsman, Kathleen Earle sketch the real, unreconstructed old Montreal

by Michael White

When the weather is right, two ladies carrying drawing pads, pencils, water colors and their lunches set out to record another section of Montreal. They have done it for almost six years, since they met and discovered their mutual interest in sketching the city.

In 1967, they published a book of these sketches. And this year in a little house on Westmount's

Bruce ave. they are having a show of their sketches, pencil and watercolor.

They began sketching from love of art and enjoyment of the charm of the houses, the streets and the people they sketched. In their new show, another feeling has crept in. It is concern that many of the places that they have drawn or are planning to sketch are already demolished or are under the threat of destruction, and with them the quality of the urban environments that they have carefully and affectionately recorded.

Neither Kay Kinsman nor Kathleen Earle were born in Montreal. Mrs. Kinsman was born in Los Angeles but lived and studied art in France until 1938, when she and her husband came to Montreal. Kathleen Earle came to Canada as a dietician in 1930 when she was 21. It was not until both women had raised families of three children each that they had the time to concentrate on art.

Their sketching has begun to be systematic.

Began with Lafontaine

"We began with the Lafontaine Park area. Between there and Carre St. Louis," said Mrs. Kinsman. "It was charming. No one had ever mentioned the area before or had sketched it."

"It was alive, people really lived there," explained Mrs. Earle. "When they restored Old Montreal it was just a facade, it was antiseptic. The old city had gone so far that it had to be completely restored. What we hope is that people will look after the other areas so they won't have to do the same thing to them or have to demolish them from decay."

They avoided Old Montreal for their sketching. To Mrs. Kinsman the image of the old city is dozens of sketchers lined up in front of the Calvet House. "We wanted to go where no one else was."

Carre St. Louis and East End Montreal appear in the couple's first book, "Montreal Sketchbook", for which Mrs. Kinsman wrote the text and supplied the capital, while they both provided sketches. "The Montreal publishers said there was no market. I had $1.98 in the bank but I was determined I would make the book," said Mrs. Kinsman.

Their show opened yesterday in Mrs. Earle's Bruce avenue home (beside the CPR tracks and the new Trans-Canada Highway) and will run for four days.

Because of their new concern, the ladies have included some photographs made by two young environmental photographers in their show. They include photographs of one of the buildings sketched by Mrs. Kinsman, but their original purpose was political. They are part of a display commissioned by the Westmount Action Committee, which had fought to stop or modify the effect of the new Trans-Canada Highway on the social environment of lower Westmount. Jennifer Harper and Brian Merrett's photographs emphasize the dramatic reality of the human and ecological disruption caused by the new highway.

Only Mother Could Love

"The main thing that we like about these old streets is their individuality. They are beautiful and horrible at the same time. The sort of places only a mother could love, but they have a surprising dignity," said Kathleen Earle.

"So much depends on what people do to them," added Mrs.

Kinsman. "In the Lafontaine Park area, in St. Henry and Point St. Charles it is fascinating to see how some of the people have set up their own peculiarly natural life-style. Even in Park Extension they have unselfconsciously set up their little garden fronts."

Money from sale of their work will go towards publishing a new book.

And until winter comes, Mrs. Kinsman and Mrs. Earle will continue their work of sketching Montreal.

"We have finished with the East End for the moment, explained Kathleen Earle." We have only really started on Westmount. I think there's another two years work here. We've done some houses between Clondeboye and Blenheim below St. Catherine. The houses are more self-conscious above that. Then we think we want to have a go at St. Mark street.

"If it is still there," added Mrs. Kinsman.

New Guide group is started at Melville

The 7th Montreal Guide Company, which recently opened at Melville Presbyterian Church, held its first enrolment on Tuesday.

Twenty-one young Westmounters have become active members of the company.

Eight Guides were enrolled by the division commissioner, Mrs. A.S. Fernie. They were Andrea Burke, Susan Burke, Andrea Cooke, Susan Cooke, Dawn Deshane, Julie Modden, Barbara Ann Singer and Sue Ellen Singer.

Parents were invited for the occasion and were served refreshments by Gwen Andreotti and Brigitte Hellman, two patrol leaders who were being tested for their Hostess Badge. Mrs. Fernie also presented Laura Armos with her Challenge Badge.

The evening ended with a campfire and the lighting of candles by the newly-enrolled Guides, each candle representing a part of the Guide Law which they had promised, during the enrolment, to follow.

As this company is a newly formed one, it lacks much equipment. If readers have equipment or uniforms which they would like to donate, they are asked to contact Miss Fleming, one of the leaders, at 931-5317.

Dirkman brief: Area in 'twilight zone of 2nd class citizenship'

Ward 3 citizens have been living for over half a decade in the "twilight zone of second class citizenship" states a brief presented to city council last week by the newly formed Westmount Ward 3 Central Citizens Committee.

The brief, which was divided into sections dealing with public housing, Ward 3 aldermanic candidates and the effects of the urban renewal scheme on Ward 3, calls for city council to designate areas for redevelopment as soon as possible and for the freeing of the rest of the residential areas from the "stigma" of urban renewal.

"The city should at the earliest possible minute designate the remaining area available for redevelopment, (is it St. Catherine, Greene, Wood, Dorchester?) and free at least the rest of the existing viable residential areas completely and irrevocably from the urban renewal stigma," it says.

The brief claims to represent the "little people" who have struggled in past years to ensure a place to live in peace and security without fear of the bulldozer.

Claiming that residents cannot afford to maintain or improve their properties because of urban renewal and that they cannot sell them at their true value because of the urban renewal scheme, the brief calls for city council to protect the small home owner from public housing and high-rise apartment developments.

"They (the residents) cannot understand how their city would ever allow them to fall by the wayside after so many years, permitting in the name of progress their small homes to be swept from beneath their feet, so to accommodate public housing or high-rise apartment speculators."

The brief finishes by expressing confidence that the rights of the central Ward 3 citizens will be protected by the city and the administration.

Hallowe'en Saturday

The leaning in Westmount appears to be toward Saturday evening for the celebration of Hallowe'en.

Though All Hallows Eve, strictly speaking, falls this year on Sunday night, Mayor Peter M. McEntyre when asked to provide citizens with guidance in the matter, said that it would appear that most people favored Saturday evening.

Saturday is a better evening for festivity and there is not the problem of getting up for school next morning for young goblins, fairies, spooks, cowboys et al usually up past their normal bedtime making trick-or-treat rounds on neighboring homes.

UNICEF, whose collection boxes have become a regular Hallowe'en feature, also expects Saturday night to be favored for the kids to go calling.

Indecency brings fine for driver

A 39-year-old New Brunswick man was fined $25 and $8.50 costs on Monday in municipal court for indecently exposing himself.

Malcolm B. Long pleaded guilty to the charge which was lodged by a young woman.

On Sunday about 6 pm Westmount Police in a patrol car saw a woman and man arguing in a car. As the patrol car approached, the woman jumped out, ran to the police and accused the man in the car of exposing himself.

Police arrested Mr. Long. The woman was hitchhiking and Mr. Long had picked her up at Drummond street and Dorchester boulevard and said he would let her out at Atwater avenue and Dorchester. He did not do so and continued driving her into Westmount, where they were noticed by Westmount Police.

New Peugeot and Pontiac in collision

A collision between a 1971 Peugeot and a 1968 Pontiac at The Boulevard and Victoria avenue on Tuesday at 10:45 pm resulted in minor injuries to one driver and about $1,000 damage to the two vehicles.

Mrs. Arline Sabbah, 26, of Montreal, driver of the Peugeot, was taken by Westmount Police patrol car to the Queen Elizabeth Hospital suffering injuries to her knees and cuts to her forehead.

The Peugeot was heading west on The Boulevard when it struck the Pontiac heading south on Victoria avenue. The Pontiac was driven by Rolin Gabby, 31, of 59 Windsor avenue. Mr. Gabby claimed the light at the intersection was in his favor.

No charges have been laid. Each of the cars suffered approximately $500 damage each.

Lay-offs due at high school as pupils drop

Three or four teachers at Westmount High School will be laid off this year due to an unexpected drop in enrolment.

On Sept. 30, 1970, enrolment at Westmount High was 1,123, on the same date this year, the enrolment was 1,043.

Supt. R.T.B. Fairbairn at October's school board meeting said that the drop in Westmount High's Grade 7 probably was due primarily to families moving out of Westmount.

Roslyn elementary school had experienced a drop of 32 pupils. Comparison of Sept. 30, 1970, figures to Sept. 31, 1971's, reveal that 803 students were enrolled in 1970 while 771 were enrolled by the same date this year.

Westmount Park School on Sept. 30, 1970, had enrolment of 393 pupils while this year on Sept. 30, it had an enrolment of 405 - an increase of 12.

In the three schools, including WHS, total enrolment dropped by 100 pupils.

Westmount High School NEWS

By CASEY CAMPBELL

Now that WHS has established the "Entertainment Council" as her form of government for this year, it becomes necessary to select the people capable of filling the various positions.

Although nomination forms have been available all week in the general office, it would appear that our nominees have dwindled down to a precious few who strive valiantly to support the waning interest in student government. These energetic souls will have their day, when the results of Wednesday's election are announced, probably at the end of this week.

Dance Troupe visit

On Monday, Westmount High students were fortunate to be entertained by the renowned company, Les Grand Ballet Canadiens. These particular dancers were members of a troupe known as "Le Compagnon de la Danse," one of many groups composing Les Grand Ballet Canadiens.

The program attempted to answer the question, "What is dance?" and traced the origin of dance from the beginnings of man up to the present jazz ballet. The aim of the program was to establish contact with the audience and to have the audience relate to the dancers.

The success of this venture, however, was minimal as the audience was largely responsive and for the most part, restless and rude. However, a good number of the students could appreciate the talent afforded by this group and showed a genuine interest after the program, in a question and answer session with the general manager, Mr. Uriel G. Luft, and four of the dancers, Larry Graits, the choreographer; Cris Table, Leslie Cook and Suzanne Toujon.

Football disaster

Monday also marked Westmount High's last football game of the season against Verdun High where the score was a dismal 30-0. Although the game could be classified a minor disaster, Co-captain T. Cox felt the team tried hard and he along with other team members wish to express thanks to Mr. H. Phillips and Mr. B. Osterman two coaches.

Promotion inconsistency

Vigorous discussion took place at this month's school board meeting on the need for continuity between elementary schools and high school.

Board members felt that high schools had not adapted as quickly to the concept of advancing students by subject according to their ability as had elementary schools.

The problem of scheduling in the high schools was cited as the cause of the differences in the rapidity of adoption of the concept.

Mosquito sudden-death game Tuesday

In the municipal touch football program, in the Mosquito League, Section A, the Cardinals are well ahead in first place with 23 points, having won 9, lost 2 and drawn 5 games of their 16 games played. In second place are the Bears with 13 points followed close behind by the Jets with 12 points.

In Section B, first place is shared between the Raiders and Rams each with 32 points, both having won 11, lost 3 and drawing 10 of their 24 games played. Second place is held by the Chargers with 22 points and in third place are the Giants with 10 points.

There will be a sudden-death play-off between the winners of the two sections on Tuesday at 3.45 pm.

Pee Wees finished

The Pee Wee League's regular schedule has been completed, showing the Lions in first place with 42 points, having won 12, lost

3 and drawn 18 of their 33 games played. In second place are the Eskimos with 34 points, having won 11, lost 10 and drew 12 games of their 33 games played. Third place is held by the Stampeders with 30 points and the fourth place Bombers have a total of 26 points.

The Pee Wee sudden-death play-off between the first place Lions and the second place Eskimos was scheduled for yesterday.

Operation Beaver:

Dawson College seeks new ideas from community

By TONY MacGREGOR

Since the formal birth of Westmount's Dawson College just over two and a half years ago, the English-language CEGEP has shot roots into the community in a determined effort to give life to the bandied catch words "involvement, participation and democratization."

The college's "Operation Beaver" has launched the ever-changing institution more deeply than ever onto the danger-fraught path of maximum participation.

"Operation Beaver is a chance for members of the whole community to create a philosophical basis for planning for the future," said Director-General Paul Gallagher this week.

About 300 persons took part in the first phase of the program in Commerce House at 1080 Beaver Hill last week. The participants broke up into groups of approximately 15 persons and hammered out what they believed was the most appropriate program for the CEGEP to follow.

Recorded on tapes

All the groups were recorded and group leaders, after the week-long session ended, ran over the tapes to establish the recurring themes and ideas at the sessions.

Phase 2 will be a public discussion of these themes and ideas.

"We're throwing the community's ideas back at them."

said Mr. Gallagher. "We're saying 'This is what you said. Do you really mean it.'"

It hasn't been decided exactly what form Phase 2 will take, but it may involve a public meeting or an "electronic-type" meeting using a radio or TV show and telephones for people to register their opinions. Or, it may involve a combination of the two types of meetings.

Mr. Gallagher envisions the second phase climaxed by a vote on four or five broad philosophical alternatives.

The report of the first phase should be available by tomorrow or Monday.

To the government

That philosophical choice will be presented to the college's board of governors who will then present the plan to the provincial government.

Mr. Gallagher said that the department of education approved whole-heartedly of the method by which a Dawson College philosophy was being wrought.

While this determination is being worked out, a group of planning consultants will be working on the technical side of

Mr. Gallagher explained that the only building owned by Dawson is the Selby street campus. All other buildings are leased. Most of the leases expire by 1974 and so, by that time, Dawson should establish the directions in which it wants to develop.

The college has to decide if it wants to locate in one large building, or several smaller ones. It also has the alternative of developing a central core with smaller surrounding units. It also has to decide whether it should buy building or lease them.

"So the department of education will be presented with two briefs," said Mr. Gallagher, "one technical and one philosophical."

Why this method?

Why did Dawson embark on this type of project?

"Logic and the history of the college made it inevitable," said Mr. Gallagher.

He said the eyebrows would have been raised if the college had attempted to determine its future in any other way and added that it wasn't his prerogative to make unilateral declarations on such questions.

He said that Dawson did not have to plan for growth because the college had reached its limit. "Our problem" he said "is how do we plan for change?"

He said that curriculum probably would evolve in the future as would the composition of the student body, the needs of the community and the faculty, teaching methods and instructional devices.

He added that one could only predict so far into the future so it is necessary to remain as flexible as possible to meet upcoming needs.

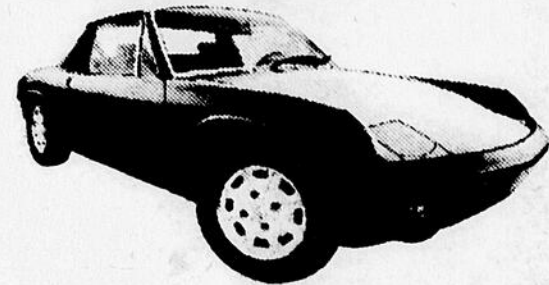

"We don't want physical realities to constrain our educational development," he said.

He said that there is a price to pay for obtaining maximum participation but added that only through involvement would the community develop constructive and responsible attitudes.

Donald C. MacCallum, B. Eng.

Elect Donald C. MacCALLUM for Ward 3, Seat 2

To represent the hundreds of tenants, apartment dwellers and proprietors in Westmount who otherwise will not be represented on the City Council

Five minutes of your time next Monday can make a difference to your future. That's all the time it takes to vote for the man who will look after your interests on the Westmount Council.

Don MacCallum has lived in Westmount for 48 years. He has lived at 4300 de Maisonneuve since it was built and he is thus the obvious choice to represent effectively the hundreds of tenants, apartment dwellers and proprietors who live in the upper part of Ward 3. This section of the Ward can only be truly represented by a resident living there.

Educated at Argyle School, Lower Canada College, Westmount High and McGill (whose B. Eng. degree he holds), Don MacCallum rose to the top of the engineering field. He is now President of Racey MacCallum Bluteau Ltd., consulting engineers, and a member and past Councillor of the Corporation of Engineers of Quebec and of the Engineering Institute of Canada. He served five years in the Canadian Armoured Corps, attaining the rank of major. He is 55 years old. He is a natural leader of men, a competent business man and one who will represent Ward 3 with authority on the municipal government, if elected.

Don MacCallum is bilingual to represent and be heard by both Canadian cultures.

Don MacCallum is Past Chairman of the Montreal Citizens' Committee and the Montreal Port Council. In these important Montreal positions, he has come in contact with many local leaders and politicians involved with the Montreal Urban Community. These personal contacts with City of Montreal civic leaders will have important influence for Westmount in the deliberations of the M.U.C., if Westmount Ward 3 residents ensure that he is elected to their council.
