AUSTRIA'S EMPRESS MURDERED.

Stabbed to the Heart by an Italian Anarchist's Stiletto, She Dies Instantly.

THE STRICKEN HEAD OF THE HOUSE OF HAPSBURG PROSTRATED BY THE EVENT.

The World Shocked and Astounded at the Murder of so Inoffensive a Woman.

GENEVA, Switzerland, September 12—The Empress of Austria was assassinated on Saturday afternoon. The deed was committed by an anarchist named Luccheni, and his weapon was a stiletto.

The assassin lived in Parma, Italy. He was born in Paris, of Italian parents. He is now under arrest.

It appears that Her Majesty was walking from her hotel to the landing place of the steamer at about 1 o'clock, when the man suddenly approached and stabbed her to the heart. The Empress fell, got up again and was carried to the steamer unconscious.

The boat started, but seeing the Empress had not recovered consciousness, the captain returned, and the Empress was carried to the Hotel Beaurivage, where she expired.

The stretcher upon which the Empress was carried to the hotel was hastily improvised with oars and sail cloth. Doctors and priests were immediately summoned, and a telegram was sent to Emperor Francis Joseph. All efforts to revive Her Majesty were unavailing, and she expired at 3 o'clock.

THE ASSASSIN CAPTURED.

After striking the blow the assassin ran along the Rue des Alpes, with the evident intention of entering the Square des Alpes, but before reaching it he was seized by two cabmen who had witnessed the crime. They handed him over to a boatman and a gendarme, who conveyed him to the police station.

The prisoner made no resistance. He even sang as he walked along, saying: "I did it," and "She must be dead." At the police station he declared that he was a "starving anarchist, with no hatred for the poor, but only for the rich."

Later, when taken to the court house, and interrogated by a magistrate in the presence of three members of the local Government and the police officials, he pretended not to know French, and refused to answer questions. The police on searching him found a document showing his name to be Luigi Luccheni, born in Paris in 1873, and an Italian soldier.

A great crowd quickly assembled around the Hotel Beaurivage, where the officials proceeded, after interrogating the prisoner. The police searched the scene of the crime for the weapon and the accomplices of the assassin. It appears that a boatman yesterday noticed three persons closely following the Empress, who was making purchases in the shops.

The local Government immediately on receiving the news of Her Majesty's death, half-masted the flag on the Hotel de Ville (the municipal offices) and proceeded in a body to the Hotel Beaurivage as a token of respect.

SOUGHT THE DUC D'ORLEANS.

The assassin, while being interrogated by the magistrate, said he came to Geneva with the intention of killing the Duc d'Orleans, but the latter had already left.

Luccesi (or Luccheni) followed the Duke to Evian about 25 miles northeast of Geneva, on the lake, where he was again unsuccessful.

He then returned to Geneva and learned from the papers of the presence of the Austrian Empress. Yesterday he dogged her footsteps, but found no opportunity to carry out his purpose, though he watched the Hotel Beaurivage all day.

This afternoon about half past one, he said, he was the valet of the Empress leaving the hotel and going toward the landing. He inferred from this that the Empress was going to the steamboat, and he hid behind a tree on the quay, with the file in his right sleeve.

In a few minutes the Empress, accompanied by her lady of honour, appeared, and the assassin struck the file home.

Luccheni confessed that he had been an anarchist since he was 13 years old.

"If all Anarchists did their duty as I have done mine," he said, "bourgeois society would soon disappear."

He admitted that he knew the crime was useless, but he committed it, "For the sake of example."

CANNOT BE HANGED.

While Europe rings at the news and words of vengeance are uttered on all hands, the assassin laughs in a security known to few, if any, regicides in history. There is no capital punishment in the Swiss code. Even for killing an Empress, Luccheni cannot, under the laws of this republic, suffer anything more severe than a lifetime's imprisonment. This is assuming that extraordinary measures are not taken by the Government, inspired by international sympathy and international pressure, to visit vengeance on the murderer, regardless of the laws of the canton in which the crime was committed.

TRANSFIXED THE HEART.

The post mortem examination of the remains of the late Empress of Austria, has revealed that the weapon completley transfixed the heart, penetrating three and one third inches and making a wound one-sixth of an inch wide. The fact that Her Majesty walked fifty yards to the steamer is ascribed to her remarkable will, power and natural energy.

VIENNA'S SORROW.

The Austrian Capital Laments the Empress's Death.

VIENNA, September 12.—The news of the assassination of the Empress of Austria became known here shortly before six o'clock on Saturday afternoon. It spread like lightning and the streets suddenly became filled with multitudes of people. Many were soon impassable for vehicles.

Extra editions were issued by all the papers. Many Viennese considered the report incredible, until the semi-official Wiener Abend Post appeared, confirming the statements of the other papers.

All the papers accompanied the announcement with warm tributes to the Empress. The editions were eagerly snatched from the hands of the sellers and were read aloud to groups of citizens.

An indescribable grief overpowers the people. The performances at the court theatres and the Jubilee Exhibiti on have been cancelled. All the theatres here and in the provincial towns are closed.

The extra edition of the semi-official Wiender Abend Post appeared with black borders. It expressed "the universal sorrow felt at the loss of our noble Empress, whose life was one long chain of philanthropy," adding: "She had gone abroad in order to obtain fresh strength, but only to become the victim of a wicked and mad attack."

It concludes with an expression of "sincere sympathy with the Emperor, upon whose beloved head such grief has fallen in the year of his jubilee."

THE EMPEROR HEARS THE NEWS.

Emperor Franz Joseph returned to Vienna on Saturday from the army manoeuvres in the south of Hungary and should have gone to attend the manoeuvres in the north of Hungary, but instead he charged Staff-Major Beck, to replace him.

When Count Parry informed the Emperor of the murder His Majesty was wholly overcome. He sank to the ground, groaning and cried: "Am I not to be spared any pain or grief in the world."

The Emperor's fortitude is the topic of universal admiration. He is bearing up manfully, despite the terrible shock which in view of his old age, had inspired the gravest apprehension. Although at first stunned and then slightly hysterical, he soon regained his self-control and displayed remarkable calmness. Occasionally, however, completely overpowered by his grief, he moaned piteously, repeatedly sobbing the name of the Empress.

Addressing Prince Von Liechtenstein, chief marshal of the imperial household, he exclaimed:

"It is inconceivable how a man could lift his hand against one who never in her life injured anybody; one who did nothing but good."

Then he moaned: "Nothing is spared to me in this world."

The shock of the news crazed one of the court servants, who rushed from the palace to Burrydatz, shrieking: "Where is the murderer of our Empress?"

The court will go into mourning for six months.

The plans for the funeral of the late Empress Elizabeth contemplate the bringing of the remains to Vienna next Thursday, a lying in state on Friday and the obsequies of interment on Saturday.

Every flag in the city is at half mast and the theatres, races and other amusements are suspended indefinitely.

All the Arch Dukes and Arch Duchess Marie Valerie have arrived at Schoenbrunn. It was reported that Emperor Francis Joseph had gone to Geneva by special train, but this was an error; he had not yet left Schoenbrunn. The Crown Princess Stephanie, who has been staying at Darnstadt, has been summoned.

THE EFFECT IN HUNGARY.

BUDAPEST, September 12.—Both houses of the Hungarian diet met on Saturday in extraordinary session long before the magnates and deputies arrived the legislative palace was surrounded by immense concourses of sorrowing people.

A band of 500 students carrying craped banners lined the road leading to the entrance to the Unterhaus.

The presidents of the chambers expressed the nation's sorrow and condolence and in both houses motions befitting the occasion were adopted.

A royal decree suspends the Hungarian military manoeuvres.

SWITZERLAND ACTS.

The Federal Council Expresses the Republic's Sorrow.

BERNE, September 12.—The President of Switzerland and other members of the Government were stunned with horror and grief when the news reached the palace that the Empress of Austria, so beloved by all Europeans, had fallen a victim to an assassin within the borders of their country.

They immediately arranged to hold an extraordinary Federal Council on Sunday morning at which it was decided to send the following telegram to Emperor Francis Joseph:

"The Swiss Federal Council has the honour to express to Your Majesty its profoundest grief and deepest indignation at the horrible crime to which Her Majesty Empress Elizabeth has fallen victim. Our pain and indignation are all the greater owing to the foul crime having been committed on Swiss territory, where the departed, as she had often done before, was seeking recovery from bodily sufferings which as on previous occasions, she had every hope of finding.

"The Council hastens to assure Your Majesty at the same time of its own warmest sympathy and that of the whole Swiss people in the irreparable loss Your Majesty, the Imperial house, and the peoples of Austria and Hungary have suffered through your exalted lady's death."

The Geneva Cantonal Government met on Sunday and decided to issue a proclamation expressing the horror of the Government and people of Geneva and a decree directing a popular demonstration to-day. All the civic officials will march past the Hotel Beaurivage, followed by the citizens, all of whom are invited to participate. During the procession the great bell of the cathedral, associated with all Swiss national demonstrations of grief or joy, will be tolled.

The flag of the federal building is at half mast. It is expected that the judicial authorities of the Canton of Vaud will conduct the enquiry and the trial.

The Geneva council will place upon the coffin wreaths enterwined with the Austrian and Genevan colours and bearing the inscription:

"A token of sorrowful sympathy from the people of Geneva."

THE WORLD'S GRIEF.

Rulers of Every Nation Express Sorrow at the Dastardly Deed.

LONDON, September 12.—Queen Victoria and the Prince and Princess of Wales telegraphed their condolence to Emperor Francis Joseph.

The Court Circular to-day says:

"The Queen received last evening with feelings of the utmost consternation the startling news of the terrible crime. The Queen mourns profoundly the loss of Her Imperial Majesty, with whom she had been on terms of friendship for many years. She feels likewise most deeply for the honoured and bereaved Emperor, who has experienced so many trials during his long and beneficial reign."

AMERICA'S SYMPATHY.

AN ANARCHIST PLOT.

It is Believed That the Assassin Intended to Kill King Hubert.

PARIS, Septembre 12.—The police believe the murder of the Empress of Austria the result of Italian anarchists, and the assassin is identical with one Luccessi, who is wanted by the Boulogne police as a dangerous anarchist. The man known as Laucheni was implicated in the recent troubles at Milan.

Luccessi was present at a meeting of Italian anarchists when seven were selected, including Luccessi, to assassinate the principal European sovereigns including the King of Italy.

MR. BERGERON SPEAKS.

Interesting Political Demonstration at Beauharnois.

THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT TAKEN TO TASK FOR UNFILLED PROMISES.

(Special to the Star.)

BEAUHARNOIS, Que., September 11.—There was a political demonstration here yesterday, at which Mr. J. G. H. Bergeron, M.P., was the speaker of the day. He was received enthusiastically by the electors. Both parties were well represented, and there were a great many ladies in the crowd, which numbered about seven hundred. Messrs. F. Leduc and Joseph Boyer, Mayors of the town and parish, acted as joint chairmen.

Mr. Arthur Plante, of Montreal, was the first speaker, who proceede to rake the Premier fore and aft on political lines, but at the same time admitting him to be a distinguished French Canadian and an ornament to his race.

Mr. Bergeron was then introduced and received a great ovation. His speech, like that of his predecessor, was also an arraignment of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his Government. Mr. Bergeron said he knew of some men who voted Liberal because their fathers had been Liberals before them, and others who voted Conservative because their grandfathers had invariably shared that political faith. It might be, however, that the Liberals of to-day were not worthy of support, and in order to ascertain if this were true, the speaker would have to take his hearers a few years back and listen to the promises that were then made by the leader of the Opposition and his followers.

The Conservatives were spending $38,000,000 yearly, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that this was $4,000,000 too much. Sir Richard Cartwright declaring that the latter sum was being wilfully wasted every year. Then there was that famous Manitoba school question. The Remedial Bill was accepted by the bishops, by Mgr. Langevin and the Catholic clergy of Manitoba, yet Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Tarte said it was no good, and appealed to the electors to place them in power and they would settle the question in six months.

In the English-speaking provinces it was quite another story, for there the statement was made on every platform that Laurier was preventing the Catholics from taking advantage of the Protestants, and should have Protestant support. The cry was Sir Charles Tupper and the Pope, Laurier and the Queen.

Mr. Bergeron then asked the questions, "Has Mr. Laurier kept his pledges?" and "What are the facts?" He answered them as follows:

"The public debt of Canada is over $32,000,000 in advance of what it was when the present Government came to power."

Mr. Bergeron then took up the financial record of the Ottawa Government, and showed that instead of governing the country at a cost of $34,000,000, as they had promised, they had actually asked Parliament at the last session to vote a sum in excess of $50,000,000.

"Here are the figures," said the speaker "in black and white:"

"Regular estimates	$44,912,571
"First sup. estimates	3,058,376
"Second sup. estimates	68,50[illegible]
"Vote for Manitoba	475,000
"Salaries for additional judges	27,000
"Montreal harbour improvements	2,000,000
Total	$50,541,447

Mr. Bergeron next quoted from the Huntingdon Gleaner, whose editor declares that under the present condition of affairs the Government should be ashamed to claim a surplus, when the fact was that they had increased the public debt during July over $5,000,000. He also quoted Sir Wilfrid's claim that protection was ruining the country, and Sir Richard Cartwright's claim that the whole system of protection was one gigantic steal and he loved to refer to the manufacturers as bloated monopolists.

Mr. Bergeron claimed that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had violated every promise he had made to the farmers of Quebec province as wel las those of the other portions of the Dominion. He was afraid to remove the duty from American oil, because Mr. Lister who had attempted to whitewash Mr. Tarte in the Drummond affair, represented Lambton, and Mr. Prefontaine, Mayor of Montreal, had bonsted that he told the Government if they interfered with protection he would vote against them. (Cheers.) In a word the Government had stolen their protection tariff from the Conservatives, and only the other day, the Globe, the organ of the Government, the master of both the Premier and Mr. Tarte, stated that the farmers of Essex would receive $1,000,000 for the tobacco raised this year on their farms, and that formerly this money went to the farmers of Kentucky, and the other Southern States.

With reference to the alien labour law the speaker claimed that the action of the Government in not enforcing it was cowardly. Referring to the civil service Mr. Bergeron stated that during two years the Government had appointed to office more members than their predecessors had in eighteen years. The Government's prohibition policy was denounced. If they were in favour of prohibition, why did they not have the courage to say so, a plebiscite was not constitutional, and had never been taken in a British country.

In conclusion, Mr. Bergeron made a eulogistic reference to Sir Charles Tupper, and expressed the belief that he would yet live to b called to lead the Government of his country.

Mr. C. A. Cornellier, Q.C., of Montreal, delivered the closing address.

The felt factory at Brandon, Man., was destroyed by fire on Saturday morning. Loss, $20,000; insurance, $9000.

SHERBROOKE FAIR.

One of the Most Successful Brought to a Close Saturday.

(Special to the Star.)

SHERBROOKE, September 12.—Saturday brought to a close the fourteenth annual exhibition of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association. The week was one of the most successful in the history of the Great Eastern Exhibition. It is estimated that fully 50,000 people were on the grounds during the week. The exhibition in all departments was better than last year.

The racing this year was perhaps not up to standards of the past. The horses starting in most classes were fewer, and the contests less keen than at many previous fairs.

Sherbrooke has always been very fortunate in the matter of weather. This year, on the whole, was not an exception. No rain fell except on Wednesday afternoon. This marred the pleasure of that day's crowd, though it did not materially affect the gate receipts.

Already the directors are speaking of improvements and extensions to be made at the exhibition grounds, the needs of which were manifested this year. These include the erection of a new hall for the exhibition of agricultural products and the extension of the grand stand, the seating capacity of which is now about 7,000. This has been found insufficient for the needs of the case.

LAST OF BASEBALL.

Five Thousand People Attended the Last Saturday Game Played on Montreal Grounds.

A FINE WIND UP OF THE SEASON,

But the Umpire Came Very Near Spoiling Everything by the Way he Acted.

TROUBLE IN LAST GAME.

Small Boys Vented Their Spite by Stoning the Bus Which Contained the Buffaloos

BASEBALL has been a wonderful success in Montreal this season. The men who managed it have spared neither time nor expenses nor energy to make it so, and in addition to the admirable position of owning the championship pennant, they possess at the end of the season the knowledge that the game which they ventured to introduce, has taken a strong hold upon the sporting element of the city.

Where two years ago a baker's dozen was a good attendance at a home game in Montreal, the Montreal and Buffalo teams played to four thousand on Saturday last, and five thousand were looking from the horse cars made and encouraged they caused, were full as interested as a similar crowd would be over a lacrosse game.

It was, in fact, almost as interesting to witness the actions of the crowd as those of the players, and the enthusiasm of the most wonderful character, can be imagined.

Gaily coloured fabrics, Tam Toms, new fangled rattles, and a score of noise and mysterious effects aroused frantic excitement were employed to the most advantage, and pending the noon hour rush, when over a Montreal did another crowd. Many ladies were present, and seemed to enjoy it all thoroughly, and several of the English cricketers were also on the stand, and were not a little surprised at the freedom of the scores, who, when they reminded the players as it made them feel the sting of their displeasure with a tongue that was by any means was of the politest kind.

It was a great day for the game and it was to be regretted exceedingly that the caprice of an umpire made it end up in any way unpleasant.

As the day on the ground went, the trouble amounted to a row. Early in the game, boys outside started to throw stones at the bus containing the Buffalos, and kept up such a fusilade that every window was broken, and the players had to crouch down on the floor of the bus. This was a most unfortunate thing. It was the only affair of the kind that has ever taken place at the grounds, and might be set down as a general wrong impression about the game. Trouble of this kind, caused by some action of an umpire, and resented by an excited and disappointed crowd, is not unusual in other cities, but it is by no means a necessary adjunct to the game, and it may be expected that the management of the Montreal Club, either by furnishing better police protection or otherwise will prevent it from occurring here in the future.

The pennant now belongs to Montreal, and it has been won by good consistent ball playing. At times the article of baseball has not been of the best quality, but Montreal has never had as big a slump as the rest of the clubs in the league have experienced during the season. Saturday's games did not effect the winning of the pennant, but nevertheless the boys got great encouragement from the largest crowd of the season. The first game was nothing more or less than a gift to Buffalo, by Gruber, and the action of that official in leaving the field will be remembered when the appointment of umpires is made next season.

As to the second game it was most unfortunate that the season should end in such a way. But it is generally the case that trouble rises up when players umpire a game. That Brown did his best to rob Montreal of an earned win was noticed. There is no doubt. With the score standing seven to three in the 8th in Montreal's favour, Brown started in to call everything that McFarlan pitched a ball. He did nobly. It was growing dark and he also wasted all the time possible. When he had successfully given Buffalo five runs, Montreal managed to retire the side and then went to bat. They went out in one, two, three order.

Shearon rushed over to him and asked him what he meant and looked as if there might be trouble, but Dooley promptly ordered his men to their stages and Butler called the Buffalos to bat. They refused to come on and after three balls had been pitched he declared the game forfeited to Montreal.

The crowd then filtered out of the gates and there witnessed a lot of [illegible] vence on the Buffalos by visiting them with mud and stones. The Balmoral hotel has been the greatest sufferer in respect to damage.

THE FIRST GAME.

Montreal lost the first game through the kindness of umpire Gruber. Abbey was in the 8th with the score 7 to 3 in favor of Montreal and was opened by Brown. Both pitched good ball. After the game Gruber disappeared and was not seen again for the balance of the afternoon. Buffalo went to bat first and scored a run on Schiebeck's errors. They did not score again until the fifth when they made one more on two hits and a couple of outs. The sixth brought three runs. White led off with a bunt and Carry sacrificed him. Wise was hit and Householder singled. Greminger and Diggins were retired easily. Two runs were made in the ninth on a base on balls and three hits.

Montreal failed to score until the fifth when they made one, a home run by Butler. Errors allowed Jimmy Bannon in the sixth. Conway made a base hit and stole second going to third on Diggins' error. Shearon flew out. Barry singled and Dooley did likewise. Schiebeck followed with an error and was thrown out stealing second. Two errors by Wise gave Henry and Butler their base and their Abbey struck out four runs. That ended the scoring. The score follows:

SUMMARY.

Stolen bases, Shannon, Wise, Urquhart, Bannon, Barry; home run, Butler; sacrifice hits, Garry, Diggins, Shearon; first base on balls, off Brown 1, off Abbey 1; hit by pitched ball, by Abbey, 1; struck out, by Brown 5, by Abbey 2; left on bases, Buffalo 2, Montreal 7; time, 1.45; umpire, Gruber.

Gruber had been talked to considerably by some of the "fans," and it is to be supposed that that was the reason he would not act in the second game. Had he done so, the crowd might have reviled him, but the more serious subsequent trouble would probably not have occurred.

THE SECOND GAME.

The second game had a very unsatisfactory ending. Brown and Butler umpired the game, and Brown did his best to rob Montreal of a game that she had easily won. It grew dark, and when Brown had stuck the knife as far as he possibly could into McFarlan on balls and strikes, he called the game, with Montreal one run behind. Montreal would not have this, as they claimed Brown's jurisdiction ended when the third man was out. Butler then went behind the bat and called play. Buffalo would not come up, and McFarlan put three balls over the plate, and Butler gave the game to Montreal, nine to nothing. The score was as follows:—

THE RECORD BY CLUBS.

A third evidence of Montreal's superiority is found in the record of its games by series. Montreal won every series save that with Wilkesbarre and had that even until Umpire O'Loughlin deliberately presented it to Wilkesbarre in the final game of the series. Singularly last year's champions were the easiest mark for this year's, while Wilkesbarre and Toronto gave Montreal the hardest fight.

THE SEASON'S CAMPAIGN.

Below will be found the figures summarizing the work of the Montreal team during the season just ended. The figures are the best evidence of the fact that the Montreal team fully deserved the place it has won. Not only did the locals outbat the opposing teams, but they outfielded them, made more sacrifice hits and stole more bases. Of course, Montreal was outbatted by individual teams, but as they were outfielded by others, but the general average work of the Montreal team was better. In batting the Montreal average against opposing clubs is .266, a very respectable figure, and one that brings Montreal into the category of a good hitting team. That they are also hard hitters is shown by a total batting average of .364. The fielding percentage is .931, as compared with .928 for opposing teams. Montreal stole .203 bases, as compared with 186 for opposing teams, and made 73 sacrifice hits, as compared with 48 by opposing teams.

THE RECORD BY MONTHS.

The following table shows the work of the Montreal Club by months. It will be noticed that in only one month did the club do poor work. That was in June, when the team was considerably weakened by the presence of a weak spot in the infield. That was strengthened by the engagement of O'Brien, and the club went away on a tour. They left in third place and returned in first, after playing Wilkesbarre, Springfield and Providence. It was on July 12 that they took the lead from Wilkesbarre, and since that date they have held the lead steadily. In fact, but for a short while in June, and the first part of July, Montreal set the pace for the Eastern League all the season. The monthly record follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Per cent.
May	15	10	.600
June	11	13	.458
July	18	11	.621
August	17	11	.607

THE BUFFALO SERIES.

Below will be found the results of the Buffalo-Montreal series. In all twenty games were played, of which Montreal won eleven, and Buffalo eight, while one was a tie. One of the Montreal victories was a forfeit. The figures below show that the Buffalo team excelled in fielding and sacrifice hitting, while Montreal showed marked superiority at the bat, hitting the ball both oftener and harder than Buffalo, and also in base-running. There were only two shut-outs in the series, Buffalo with Mitchell pitching, shutting out Montreal 1 to 0; and Montreal, with Milner in the box, blanketing Buffalo 3 to 0. Buffalo's worst defeat was 13 to 3; Montreal's, 11 to 3.

Buffalo played three errorless games, and three with only one error. Montreal played two errorless games. The Montreal fielding in the Buffalo series was away below its usual form.

Buffalo made nine sacrifice hits, compared with nine by Montreal. Buffalo stole 24 bases, while Montreal pilfered 33. The figures follow:

THE OTHER GAMES.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., September 12. — Providence and Springfield met yesterday for the last time this season, but owing to the failure of the Providence players to play with all their vim they were capable of, they lost the game after they had it practically won. The field was in a bad condition. Score:

Springfield	.. ..	1	1	2	0	1	0	1	1	3—10	19	1
Providence	.. ..	2	0	2	1	3	0	0	9	1	0	0

PROVIDENCE, R. I., September 12. — Providence made it four straight with the Springfields on Saturday in the last game on the grounds for this season. The game was uninteresting until the sixth inning, when Braun was touched for a double and four singles, which netted the Ponies four runs. A base on balls and two hits, coupled with an error by Hemming, netted the home team four runs in the fifth of the seventh. Springfield's error was costly. The game was called in the middle of the ninth innings on account of darkness.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., September 12. — The Eastern League season in this city closed on Saturday, when Wilkesbarre played the last of its postponed game with Syracuse. FOOTBALL.

MONTREAL FOOTBALL CLUB.

Friday night's semi-annual meeting was a capital one. There were some fifty present, and the proceedings went off with much eclat.

To fill the vacancies, Mr. Norman Last was unanimously elected secretary, and Messrs. V. C. Burhanan, C. O. Hayler, C. Fry and W. Maxwell were chosen on the committee.

Dr. Tait MacKenzie's address on "Training" was, of course, the feature. The suggestions were pointed, and will prove of much value to those who carry them out. On the Doctor's recommendation, there will be tea and toast on the grounds on Tuesday at 6 a.m.

Herbert Molson, Dr. Clifford Jack, Mr. Lash and Dr. Swarts, McGill's great wing for many years, will be out this week.

Mr. Wally Hagar will manage the team and it could not be in better hands.

Carlind, Williams and some other members of the Championship Lacrosse team are looking for football honours and will be on hand Tuesday morning.

MONTREAL CLUB.

The Montreal Football Club practices on Tuesdays and Fridays at 6 a.m. and on Wednesdays at 4.30 p.m. On Tuesdays at 7 a.m. the place-kicking competition is to take place. This competition is to extend through the season, the best number of goals winning the prizes.

THE SHAMROCKS WON

The Capitals Were Defeated After a Hard Struggle in Saturday's Match.

VICTORS IN SPLENDID FORM.

They Were in Excellent Shape and Played the Best Game of the Season.

TORONTO AND NATIONAL TIES.

Trouble Over the Game in Toronto --- Montreal Won Interprovincial Championship.

THE Shamrocks defeated the Capitals on Saturday afternoon, thereby recovering much of their lost prestige.

The match was certainly one long to be remembered and even the old weather seared veterans of the game admitted that the style of lacrosse played was something that they had not been used to in the good old days of long ago. It was beautiful lacrosse, and the match will give those people who have been ranting so much about the decadence of the game something to think about.

By defeating the Capitals the Shamrocks showed that they have still all their old time brilliancy, and their present standing in the Senior Series is due altogether to unfortunate circumstances, and not, by any means, owing to dearth of good lacrosse playing material, as some people have broadly hinted.

The score was five goals to three, but the Capitals have the credit of a goal which did not pass through the poles, and, in reality, had the score more than doubled on them. This bears out the prediction made in these columns after the Shamrock-Capital game played in Ottawa earlier in the season—that the Shamrocks could and would defeat the champions when they met again, and to the most partial observer of Saturday's match it was easily evident that if the Shamrocks had started on their present gait earlier in the season, there would not have been any doubt as to where the championship would rest this winter.

The victors played in almost faultless style and there was hardly a weak spot on the team from the goal to the inside home man. Every man played in true form, and, what was still better, was playing as heartily at the end of the match as in the beginning.

The match was beyond all doubt the finest that had been played this summer and those who were present were really given something worth looking at. It was a soul-stirring contest and it moved every drop of enthusiastic blood it every rooter's veins. The match was replete with exciting incidents from the start to the finish and there was no let up at any stage of the game. Each team was out to do its utmost and every man did his possible best. It was a meeting of giants and the reason that the Shamrocks won was a simple one, they had the better team.

Since this time last season the Shamrocks took a leaf out of the Capitals' book and they have learned well the lesson of last season. Then the Capitals with a team of new men, that is new to the Senior ranks came here and played the Shamrocks off their feet and soundly wallowed them to a standstill. This year the Shamrocks profited by their lesson and there was plenty of new blood on the team, and to the credit of the recruits it may be said that they were the stars of the day. The old stagers were steady, and in a critical moment, their coolness was very apparent, but in the real hard work of the day, the youngsters were in formost and bore the real brunt of the battle. Whenever there was some stiff work to be done or any brisk scrimmage to mix-up in, then the youngsters shone. They were in the game heart and soul were taken as a matter of course. The hard knocks were by no means scarce and when the game was ended there were six men less on the field than at the beginning of the match. There was but little foul work, but there was any amount of good hard checking and every man today bears a mark as a memento of the occasion. Starrs was exhausted and was taken with violent cramps in the seventh game and had to go off.

Binks had his shoulder dislocated early in the game and pluckily kept on playing until Starrs was hurt, and he, too, went off. Henry, who had been cross-checked in the face and had his jaw bruised, took advantage of this opportunity and went off. Haves was off to even up. Then later Currie had his head split and a moment after he was struck on the arm, which was rendered numb, and he had to lay off. So that there was only nine men left on each team when the battle was over.

The attendance at this game was probably the poorest that has ever attended a Shamrock-Capital game. Those who were there were treated to a rattling good game, and those who were not missed something that would have done them good to see. There was no reason for any falling off in the attendance and there ought not to have been any. Those croakers who have been raving about the decadence of the national game are, or rather have been, to use a popular saying, "talking out of their hats." The style of lacrosse played this season has been far ahead of anything ever seen in any one season of the Senior League. It has not been a case of, as in past seasons, a lot of poor games and one good hot match to wind up with, but every game has been worth seeing, and there has been excitement galore for all those who have attended the games. There has been an uncertainty about the issue and every team has met with reverses from the most unexpected quarters, and now there still remains much doubt as to which team shall have the championship, and every team except Cornwall, has a great deal to do with its disposition. For a real manly game, lacrosse should occupy the premier place in Canada's summer sports and, as there is no such thing as decadence in the players, there ought not to be any decrease in the attendance at these games.

Coming back to the game. It was probably somewhat of a surprise to the Capitals to have to play second fiddle to their old opponents, but they were outmatched and outgeneralled and were beaten out on their merits. The Shamrocks were in the finest possible shape and went on the field determined to make up for past reverses and defeats; and every man covered himself with glory and the winning of the game will please the Shamrocks and their supporters almost as much as if they had won the Championship. The team played far better lacrosse than they have done at any previous time this season. Not a man made an error, and, to be just, the Capitals did not really deserve to have such a score to their credit. One of the games was won by pure luck and in the last one the ball did not go through the goals at all, but struck one of the poles and bounded away. Of course, the Capitals made great efforts and that they didn't score oftener was not due to any lack of work or desire on their part, but the day was not theirs and they were vanquished.

Hoobin did not play owing to his absence from town and Dade was on in his place. Dade played a splendid game and did as much work for the defence as he did for the home. He was all over the field and played a wonderful game. Every man on the home worked well. It was a hot pace for the five first games and after that the rush began to tell on some of the old timers and there was a let up in the speed, but not in the science of the game. Shanahan, Tucker, Henry and Hinton worked like beavers and were on the go every minute of the game. Hooker was not on the scoring list, but he did a lot of work that counted in every game taken. Henry was right up to the mark and played as steadily as he had in the previous game against Cornwall. Currie did herculean work in centre, and he scored the seventh game after a plucky run from the centre of the field. Robinson did splendid work and so did Moore and Hayes. Dwyer frisked around as chipper as ever, but the steady, cool work was done by Stinson and McKenna, neither of whom appeared to be worried at anything which occurred and in this their true value lay, because they were always at their posts and could always be depended on when they were wanted.

The Capital team was the same as that which met with defeat from the Nationals and they played a much better game than when they appeared on Exhibition grounds. They were much more confident and had less of that scary appearance about them. The defence had to bear the real brunt of the work, and they did all they could to stave off defeat. Devine worked like a Trojan in the goals, and Shore and Pulford were as steady and as sure as ever. Ralph was not so evident as he has been in other games and he was well watched. Robertson and Binks played a good hard game. Binks was unfortunate in having his shoulder dislocated and had to go off. Starrs did all the hard work in the field and it told on him later on when he simply became exhausted from the amount of work he had done. Westwick shone, but he was well looked after by Robinson and did not have things his own way by any means.

The players were :

Shamrocks—Goal, McKenna; point, Stinson; cover, Dwyer; defence field, Moore, Hayes. Robinson; centre, Carrie; home field, Hinton, Henry, Dade; outside, Shanahan; inside, Tucker.

Capitals—Goal, Devine; point, Shore; cover, Pulford; defence field, Ralph, Robertson, Binks; centre, Starrs; home field, Westwick, E. Murphy, P. Murphy; outside, Durkin; inside, Donaldson.

There was some trouble about the officials, all the gentlemen chosen failing to turn up. Finally, Mr. W. McKenna was chosen as referee, and Messrs. B. Murphy and J. Murphy as umpires.

Following is the summary of the games :

A TIE GAME.

Nationals and Torontos Play a Draw in Toronto.

TORONTO, September 12.—The 1500 people who turned out on Saturday afternoon to see the National Lacrosse team on their first appearance here since they were admitted to the big league, were very disappointed lot, as they turned their steps homeward at dusk in the night. There were long waits at both ends, and another in the middle of the game, and after waiting for more than three hours the result was a tie, which will most likely be played off in Montreal. The Torontos wasted half an hour before the game started kicking over the referee (Mr. Alf. Beckingham, of Montreal), who had been appointed by the council of the league at a late hour on Friday night. The play in the first part was fast and clean, the Torontos having the best of it. At the end of the sixth game the score stood 4 to 2 in their favour, and if they had used a little judgment, they would easily have won the match, but they tied at the finish, making the game a draw.

From the start of the first game the National home seemed to be afraid of the heavy-looking defence of the Torontos, and were never dangerous. McVey scored in ten minutes, on a shot from Nolan, which Foley stopped, but didn't have time to pass out.

In the second Gamble accidentally cut Brennan's head and the game was stopped while the wound was stitched up. After the face the ball went to the Toronto's flags, and Caldwell put it through.

In the third game the Nationals looked dangerous for a time, but Stewart relieved, and after a pretty piece of combination, tallied another for Toronto in three minutes. The Nationals disputed the game, and the referee removed Mr. Ross from his position as umpire. After a half-hour had been wasted, Mr. P. Grimes, vice-president of the Young Capitals, was chosen in his place. In the fourth game there was a lot of end to end play, and it was a nice game until after 9 12 minutes, when Nolan got the ball behind the flags, carried it around and passed to McVey.

The Nationals had things pretty much their own way in the fifth, Walsh scoring in three minutes on a pass from White.

In the sixth the play was very short, Moran scoring on a pass from Peaker.

The seventh went to the Nationals in 2 1-2 minutes. Allan stopped a hot shot from White, and Walsh scooped the ball through.

The eighth game was a long and loose one. McVey missed a chance to cinch the game, and, after Griffith and Murphy had been ruled off for fighting, and Peaker had been sent to the fence, Cavanagh scored, tieing the tally, after 18 1-2 minutes.

After a long conference, it was decided to play till one team scored, but the referee called the game, after five minutes' play, on account of darkness. The teams were:

Toronto—Allan, goal; York, point; Grimes, cover point; Griffith, Gamble, Stewart, defence field; Fred. Moran, centre; Peaker, Frank Moran, Burns, home field; McVey, outside; Nolan, inside; Mc Cullugh, captain.

Nationals — Foley, goal; Joe Valois, point; Murphy, cover point; Cavanagh, Alf. Valois, C. Marcelin, defence field; Brown, centre; Caldwell, McKeown, White, home field; Brennan, outside; Walsh, inside; Brophy, captain.

The officials were:—Alf. Beckingham, Montreal; J. Ross and J. McConaghy, umpires; Messrs. Lamont, Toronto, and Quinn, Montreal, timekeepers.

SUMMARY.

First game, Toronto, McVey, 10 minutes. Second—Nationals, Caldwell, 5 minutes. Third—Toronto, McVey, 3 minutes. Fourth—Toronto, McVey, 9 1-2 minutes. Fifth—National, Walsh, 3 minutes. Sixth—Toronto, Moran, 10 1-2 minutes. Seventh—Nationals, Brennan, 2 1-2 minutes. Eighth—National, Cavanagh, 8 minutes.

MONTREAL WON THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

OTTAWA, Ont., September 12.—The Montreal lacrosse team are champions of the Interprovincial League, having defeated the Cornwalls in the final match in Lansdowne Park, Saturday afternoon by a score of five goals to three. The game was uninteresting and both teams put up an inferior article of lacrosse. If anything, the Cornwalls played the better game, but an unexpected spurt by the Montreal men towards the latter part of the match won them the championship. Cornwall scored the first, fourth, fifth, and the Montreals, the second, third, sixth, seventh and eighth games. Mr. F. C. Chittick, was referee, and Messrs. E. P. Gleason, and J. P. Carruthers, umpires. The teams lined up as follows:

Cornwall—Masterton, goal; Kerwin, point; Carr, cover-point; Adams, Sands, McAteer, defence field; McCourt, centre; Murray, Munro, Brown, home-field; Francis, outside home; Milden, inside home. Captain O'Neil.

Montreal—Pierce, goal; Carlind, point; Taylor, cover-point; Murphy, Haines, Williams, defence field; McKerrow, centre; Porteous, E. Christmas, W. Christmas, home field; Patchell, outside home; Robertson, inside home. Captain Andrews.

CRICKET.

ENGLISH CRICKETERS GONE.

The visiting English cricketers left on Saturday night, after a very enjoyable stay in Montreal. On Saturday the Warner's team were the guests of the M.A.A.A. and had a splendid time around the city. They saw part of the baseball game and then drove to Lachine and had a run down the rapids. Before leaving on Saturday night, Mr. Frank Mitchell, the celebrated Cambridge player, presented Mr. B. T. A. Bell, with

The Voltigeurs Meet To-morrow Night---Michael Beat Taylor on Saturday.

(Special to the Star.)

WINNIPEG, Man., September 12.—THE C. W. A. Meet came to a conclusion on Saturday afternoon after a delay of five days waiting for favourable weather. The track was in excellent condition, a genial autumn temperature prevailed, and the attendance was about two thousand five hundred. The races were capital, especially the professional events. All of the Eastern riders left yesterday for home, most of them going to Montreal where they will compete at the Voltigeurs' meet there. Barring the rainy weather, which caused the postponement of the second day's programme from Tuesday until Saturday, the C. W. A. Meet has been a great success, and the local committee as well as all of the contestants are well satisfied with the results. THE NIGHT MEET.

Voltigeurs Ready for Their Races To-morrow Evening.

Every arrangement has been completed for the Voltigeurs race meet at the Queen's Park track to-morrow night, and by the way things have been going the club will have by far the most successful meet of the season. The entry list is a splendid one, and all of the crackajacks have sent in their names. The star professionals from the west will be here. In order to ensure their presence, Mr. Charlebois wired to Winnipeg asking if they were coming to Montreal and received a reply on Saturday assuring him that all would be here.

The arrangements for handling a large number of spectators are very good, and those who go to the Queen's Park track will suffer no inconvenience of discomfort.

MICHAEL DEFEATED TAYLOR.

NEW YORK, September 12.—Jimmy Michael, the Welshman, met his erstwhile conqueror "Major" Taylor, the coloured rider, in a 20-mile unlimited paced race on the Manhattan Beach bicycle track on Saturday afternoon, and won in hollow style. Michael was smarting under his defeat of two weeks ago by Taylor in the best two out of three one-mile paced heats, and he prepared himself carefully for the distance. Taylor was clumsy in his picking-up of pace, and frequently lost it during the contest, while Michael's every movement was as perfect as clock-work. Both got behind their pace immediately, and in the first lap Taylor gained 15 yards. At the end of the first mile the coloured rider had gained sixty yards. His time was 1.46 1-5, and Michael's, 1.50 2-5.

In the last lap of the second mile Taylor lost his pace, and at the end of the second mile Michael had pulled Taylor's advantage to ten yards. In the third mile Michael got on equal terms and soon gained 20 yards on his opponent, who had difficulty in keeping up the pace. Michael's men worked Taylor beautifully, and brought him to [illegible] with his of Taylor's wheel in the 7th mile, together the next lap Michael passed the rear rider. THE FAMILY RESCUED.

Taken from a Burning House in St. Henri by Firemen.

Incendiarism is supposed to be the cause of the fire which broke out in the house of Mr. J. B. Desrosiers, corner of Notre Dame and Bourgeoin streets, about twelve o'clock Friday night. The fire committed considerable damage to the building, completly gutting the inside. All the household effects were lost. The house is a two story wooden building and although the St. Henry brigade responded immediately, the place was burning briskly on their arrival, while Mr. Desrosiers' family was still sleeping in the upper story. They were awakened by the firemen and taken in their night clothing from the windows. The fire started in either the back kitchen or the small sheds ajoining and tramps are thought to have started it. The building is insured and the damages will probably reach $500.

DECORATIONS OF "HER MAJESTY'S."

At a meeting of the directors of the West End Theatre Company, held Saturday the contract for the decorations was awarded to Mr. George S. Kimber, 2468 St. Catherine street. Some beautiful and elaborate designs were adopted, which will be a revelation in this line in Montreal. The prevailing tints will be terra cotta, with gold and ivory relief and borders.

Arthur Gravel, accused of theft, has been sent to the Queen's Bench for trial.

THE SLATER STRIKE.

Both Sides Must Waive Points Before Settlement Can be Reached.

The situation of the strike at Slater & Sons' shoe manufacturing has not changed to any marked extent, and it is doubtful if the trouble will be settled until both sides are willing to waive several points which they insist upon at the present time.

The workmen claim that the troubles which have arisen since May last have nothing to do with the present strike. The shoe Cutters' Union tried to propose terms favourable to both parties but the firm of Slater & Sons would not agree to employ members of that Union in preference to all others and thus the attempt failed. Messrs. Slater & Sons are willing to arbitrate the question and so also are the workmen, but each refuse to agree to certain changes.

NEW WESTMINSTER'S DISASTER.

New Westminster, like Chicago, has had its baptism of fire. Like Chicago, it is safe to predict, it will rise to a greater prosperity from the ashes. The buoyancy of British Columbian prosperity is great enough to carry a city up out of even a fiercer calamity than this. Still the sympathy of the rest of Canada with the victims of this disaster will be deep and sincere. It has come upon them at a season of the year that would compel a quick revival or else an abandonment of the city for the winter, if it had happened to one of the Royal City's eastern sisters; but the British Columbian climate will be kinder to them.

That they must rebuild is a foregone conclusion. The trade of the Pacific is just opening, and the cities upon its coast are only beginning their real expansion. As China develops, as Japan grows with its new life, as the whole Asian world comes to realize that it must have western goods if it is really to live, the cities on the Pacific coast where the goods made in the Canadian East must be transhipped to the older East, will become as busy as any of the not too many other pivots of the world's trade. Then will the visitor to New Westminster forget that she ever had a great fire, until he hears someone date a new movement or a magnificent block from "the year of the fire."

ACCOUNTING FOR THE DEBT INCREASE.

At last we have a defence of the Government's course in increasing the public debt. It has been long overdue. The Ottawa platform upon which the Liberal party is supposed to have carried the elections, declared that "we"—the said Liberals—"cannot but view with alarm the large increase of the public debt and of the controllable expenditure of the Dominion and the consequent undue taxation of the people under the Governments that have been continuously in power since 1878." Yet there some Liberals, when they came into power, went right on increasing the debt and the controllable expenditure. Thus the people are not to blame for expecting to hear some explanations of the circumstance.

The Globe meets this demand by stepping in to account for the debt. It begins—"It is true that the Laurier Government had added to the public debt in order to secure the construction of the Crow's Nest Railway, the extension of the Intercolonial to Montreal and the deepening of the canals." This is impressive and also newsy. A Government is expected to add to the debt by its capital expenditures. Now the extension of the Intercolonial to Montreal is not, thanks to the Senate, a capital expenditure. We are merely paying an annual rental for the road which is chargeable to revenue account. And then we have the earnings of this extension of which we heard so much when the scheme of buying it outright was before Parliament, to set over against this annual rental. If the optimistic calculations then set forth by the Liberal apologists for the proposal were true, those earnings should pay the rental in full and give us a handsome surplus. If they do not, then we are paying too much rent for the road. A bargain of this kind under which we simply rent a line of railway from year to year, should be a revenue-producer or else should be promptly abandoned. To calmly count it in as one of the transactions which has legitimately—increased the public debt, is an astonishing piece of bravado.

As the article from which this bit of information is taken gets under way, the real defence is seen to be—the last ditch as it were—the assertion that, had as it is, it would have been much worse under that awful man, Sir Charles Tupper. This the Globe's constituency will probably not have so much difficulty in believing, but are beyond the Tory figures, but that, if the Tories had got another chance at it, they have out-Toried themselves this time? Is this the kind of talk they like to hear from the Globe?—

While the Government have been unable to keep debt and expenditure as low as some Liberals had hoped, at least the country is making progress, whence arises the necessity for most of the large exceptional expenditures; and population is coming in, and as the number of taxpayers increase, the burden upon the individual citizen is lightened. The country has not yet reached ideal conditions, but it should not cease to be grateful for what it has escaped in the regime of coercion and profligacy which Sir Charles Tupper would have inaugurated.

"At least the country is making progress." Why? Because the Liberals came into power; or because Klondike was discovered and the world-wide price of wheat went up? The Liberals are apparently mismanaging the Klondike opportunity to the best of their great ability in this respect; but, in spite of that, it has undoubtedly drawn a large number of people to Canada. But would the Tories have kept them away or hindered the discovery of the Yukon gold fields or prevented the Spanish war or the scarcity of wheat abroad? They would have saved us from an era of tariff uncertainty, they would not have taxed us a quarter of a million to hold a plebiscite that no one is taking seriously. But the damaging fact is that the Liberals banged their Parliamentary desks black and blue, and filled their papers with big, bullying type because the Conservatives would not stop increasing the national expenditure and piling on the national debt. They secured the confidence of thousands of men by promising to put a stop to those things. And they have fulfilled that promise by increasing both our debt and our expenditure.

The assassination of the Empress of Austria can only be described as the crime of a madman. The wildest enemy of the monarchical system could not imagine that a blow would be struck at his "bete noir" by the cowardly stabbing to death of an aged lady whose life did not affect the succession to any throne. On the contrary, the assassin, in proclaiming himself an anarchist, has made his crazed act as effective a blow on behalf of the Royal Families as has been struck for many a year. The sympathy of the world will go out to the aged husband whose life is of so much importance, not only to Austro-Hungary, but possibly to the peace of Europe. If this crime should hasten his death, it may result in suffering to the classes upon whom the horrors of a general war will press most heavily, the like of which they have not seen since the Napoleonic wars.

BACK FROM HAMILTON.

Richard Coeur de Lion Preceptory Had a Pleasant Trip.

The members of Richard Coeur de Lion Preceptory arrived home from their pilgrimage to Hamilton on Thursday morning last much pleased with their trip to that city. The party, which numbered 30, and was accompanied by a pipe band, upon their arrival in Hamilton Tuesday morning were received by a detachment from Godfrey de Bouillon Preceptory, of that city and the band of the 13th Batt., and escorted to the Waldorf Hotel, which they made their headquarters.

At 10 o'clock they marched to the Masonic Hall where they acted as an escort to the Supreme Grand Master and assisted in the opening ceremonies of the Sovereign Great Priory. The business session of Great Priory was concluded about four o'clock when St. Simon Preceptory, of Sarnia, exemplified one of the degrees before the Great Body, followed by the London Preceptory No. 4, who, in an exceedingly creditable manner also, exemplified the Temple degree. Then the Montreal men took their turn and held the attention of the members of Great Priory for over an hour when, in a faultless manner, they showed how the Malta could be most interestingly worked. Wednesday morning the Hamilton Knights engaged a number of cars and took all their visitors to Hamilton Beach where they entertained in the Hamilton Yacht Club House. A very pleasant hour was spent in the enjoyment of delightful selections from the 13th Batt. band, the Montreal Scots Pipe band, songs, etc. Among the latter was one from Mr. John R. Wilkes, of Montreal. In the afternoon a parade of 150 Canadian Knights in uniform, the Great Officers, in carriages took place through the principal streets of the city to the armoury, where short and pithy addresses by the Supreme Grand, the Deputy Grand Master, the Grand Chancellor and Messrs. William Gibson, M.P., of Beamsville, and D. C. Fraser, M.P., of Guysboro, N.S., both Knights Templars, and active members of the Sovereign Great Priory.

A concert was held in the evening, but the Montreal deputation had to leave by the evening train for home and could not attend. The members of the party enjoyed their outing very much and, reports from Hamilton and the members of Great Priory are loud in their praise of the admirable manner the Montreal contingent performed the duties assigned them and the efficient military manner in which they carried themselves. The contingent carried a very handsome silk Union Jack and the black and white flag or "Beausant" of the Order, with the name of the Preceptory embroidered thereon.

The reports of the various officers of Great Priory showed the Order was steadily increasing and more interest being taken throughout the Dominion in Masonic Knighthood. The next meeting of the Great Priory will be held next year in Windsor.

FORESTERS PUBLICATION.

The Independent Order of Foresters has just issued what it terms "The Dulce Domum Supplement" to the regular publication of the Order of the Independent Foresters. The supplement is very handsomely lithographed in colours, and is in every way an interesting number. The front and back page covers breathe the spirit of the new born of Britain and America, the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes being intertwined, and pictures of Queen Victoria and President McKinley occupying positions of equal prominence. A new short story, by Robert Barr, a sketch of Toronto, with profuse illustrations; an account of the growth of the Order of Foresters, a story by P. G. Black, and other numerous articles of interest make up the interior.

WANTS DAUGHTERS BACK.

Alphonse Millaire, a carpenter, has taken out a writ of habeas corpus to recover his two young daughters, who are in the Bethlehem Asylum, on Richmond Square. The writ is addressed to the Lady Superioress. He alleges that they are illegally detained there. His wife, he says, left him some months ago. The writ is returnable on Thursday next.

THE FRENCH IN AFRICA

Their Presence at Fashoda Puts a New Phase on the Soudan Situation.

THE SIRDAR ADOPTS SECRECY.

Situation Has so Altered That He Has Ordered the Correspondents to Retire.

PENNY POSTAGE TO INDIA.

Russia Wants Li Hung Chang Reinstated--Mr. Chamberlain May Visit Ottawa.

LONDON, September 12.—The dramatic news received from Omdurman on Saturday, showing apparently that Fashoda, on the White Nile, about 400 miles south of Khartoum, has been occupied by a white force, causes the greatest sensation here. If, as there seems little room to doubt, the troops occupying that place are French, this may prove a disastrous set-back to the British victories on the Nile, and at once disposes of the question of a British waterway to the Upper Nile.

Additional evidence of the fact that Sir Herbert Kitchener expects serious and important events to grow out of this new feature in the African situation comes with the news that the newspaper correspondents with the expedition are not allowed to proceed to Fashoda, but have been ordered to return immediately to Cairo. If the French should claim to exercise sovereignty over Fashoda, either Great Britain or France must back down in order to avoid war.

Successive British cabinets under Lord Beaconsfield, the late William E. Gladstone, Lord Rosebery and the Marquis of Salisbury have warned France that Great Britain will consider interference in the Nile Valley as a cause for war.

ARE MARCHAND'S MEN.

It is practically certain that the Europeans in Fashoda are Marchand's French expedition and they must have been there some little time to enable the report of their presence to reach Omdurman in time to permit the Khalifa's gunboat to go and return by Wednesday.

Captain MacDonald was still at Uganda, on May 27, and could scarcely be expected to arrive at Fashoda within three months. Assuming, then, as we must, that this force is French, its immediate treatment will foreshadow the probable course of events between Great Britain and France.

A Khartoum despatch, dated September 4, said that five gunboats had proceeded up the White Nile. The importance of this was immediately grasped here. It is generally assumed that the boats have come to join hands with Captain MacDonald and forestall England's rivals on the Upper Nile. If this had been effected before the question would have much easier of solution on the basis that possession is nine-tenths of the law. A second Khartoum despatch, dated September 5, said that four gunboats had proceeded up the White Nile, one pursuing the Khalifa. One had returned, and the others were again due at Khartoum. An Omdurman despatch of September 7 said that a gunboat would go up the river as soon as possible.

Despite a certain amount of confusion, it is plain that one or two gunboats are already on the way to Fashoda, and that the rest are hastening thither in view of Wednesday's news.

As Fashoda is nearly 400 miles south of Khartoum, and navigation is considerably hindered by the sud, or heavy flowing vegetation, it must be some time before news from there will be available.

FRANCE MUST GET OUT.

It has been suggested that Marchand's party may pose as a scientific expedition, thus avoiding the immediate trouble it might otherwise incur. The Spectator publishes the British Imperialist view concisely: They must be bundled out of Fashoda, without further ceremony, and France must decide whether she cares to fight the matter out in the channel.

The terrible losses inflicted upon the Dervishes ought at least to render any policy of British withdrawal impossible. To-day's estimate of the killed and wounded rises to thirty thousand, the effect of the new expanding bullet being almost murderous. Newspaper readers regard those estimates with as little emotion as they would a table of vital statistics in the Blue Book. When the price of human life is so high for victories of civilization over barbarism, the work ought to be done so well that it will not have to be repeated. The logical sequence to Sirdar's victory will be the passing of the whole White Nile district, from Uganda to Khartoum, under British control. Gordon's work in the Equatorial provinces will be resumed as the most sensible method of reverencing his memory. On the Blue Nile some compromise with Menelek will be necessary and there will be other sections, but there will be no scuttling out of the full responsibility for the government of the Nile country. The only practical plea justifying the slaughter of the Soudanese on such a tremendous scale is the determination of the British Government to take up the humane work of civilization in the vast Equatorial district and to carry it on without regard to difficulties and dangers. The same moral is good for the other latitudes and nations.

LI HUNG CHANG'S FALL.

An Imperial edict announcing that the Emperor has no further need of Li Hung Chang's services as a minister of the Chinese Foreign Office was promulgated in Pekin on Thursday. It is a short, curt dismissal, for which no reasons are given. He presumably remains in office as grand secretary. The news of his dismissal was not unexpected. A growing distrust of him has been observable for some time past among his colleagues. It will be a great blow to Russia with which country Li Hung Chang has faithfully served for months past. Whenever the Foreign Office received the British minister Sir Claude Macdonald in audience Li immediately visited the Russian minister and reported the whole proceedings to him. Lately there have been indications that Li Hung Chang was wholly in the service of Russia. And last week in the presence of the foreign officers, Sir Claude Macdonald reproached Li Hung Chang for his conduct, and his dismissal from the Foreign Office was probably the immediate consequence. It is said that Russia will strenuously endeavour to bring about the reinstatement of Li Hung Chang. The courage of the latter gave him the leadership in the Foreign Office, where he was the only minister prepared to vigorously answer harsh foreign demands. A panicky feeling pervades officialdom in Pekin. The Emperor is daily edicting dismissals or promotions without apparent causes. A new edict requires the viceroys to send to the capital lists of men capable o bearing arms. This is looked upon as indicating the origin of a militia on the American model.

CHEAP POSTAGE TO INDIA.

The annual report of the Post Office has just been issued, and the Duke of Norfolk is able to show a profit of nearly three and a half million sterling. This is good enough, and no doubt next year the Postmaster General will be proudly able to point to his four millions, if not more. I doubt much, however, whether the comfortable story of these large profits excites people as much as the announcement of the coming great reform in Indian postage. For years the notion of penny postage to India had been sneered and laughed at as an impossible dream of men outside, who little knew the power of a permanent official. Yet now the Indian Government is about to face the predicted loss of some forty thousand sterling annually, and after next month must carry an ounce letter overseas from India to England for one anna.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN AND CANADA.

It is expected here that Mr. Chamberlain, before returning home, will pay at least a flying visit to Ottawa, in order, among other things, to talk over the Pacific cable scheme. There is good reason to believe that the Colonial Secretary has persuaded the Chancellor of the Exchequer to agree to provide a subsidy for the cable route in money for a [illegible] important announcement on the subject will be made in the next session of the Commons. All the colonies have now agreed to share three per cent of the subsidy or to guarantee the interest or companies, which may lay the cables.

THE YOUNG QUEEN'S ESCAPE.

The Lokal Anzeiger says that a fortnight ago an attempt was made to assassinate Queen Wilhelmina near Amersfort, province of Utrecht, on the road between Castle Scostydt and Baara. A man emerged from behind a tree and fired a revolver at Her Majesty. The bullet missed the Queen, but ploughed the cheek of a lady in attendance.

The would-be assassin was arrested. He is supposed to be an English anarchist. The strictest secrecy has been maintained hitherto as to the affair, in order not to disturb the enjoyment of the enthronement festivities.

A GORDON MEMORIAL.

A despatch from Omdurman says that General Sir Herbert Kitchener, the commander of the Anglo-Egyptian expedition, suggests the establishment of an unsectarian college and a medical mission in Khartoum in memory of General Gordon, the establishments to be conducted by British tutors and to be mainly to educating the sons of sheikhs. They should issue certificates qualifying the holders to fill Government posts. General Kitchener hopes that the British public will subscribe £60,000 at least, with which sum the college and mission could easily be established.

HOLLAND'S YOUNG QUEEN.

With the enthronement festivities at Amsterdam well nigh over Queen Wilhemina is prepared to assume the responsibilities of royalty, which she realizes to the full extent. The Queen values her high position and the stories told of her self will are evidently not exaggerated. The proclamation in the church originally began, as written by the Prime Minister: "To the people of the Netherlands," but the Queen altered the phrase so as to read: "To my people."

JUSTICE FOR COL. RHODES.

Queen Victoria has restored to his rank in the British army, Col. Frank Rhodes, brother of Cecil Rhodes, who was dismissed from the service for his participation in the armed raid into the Transvaal, led by Dr. Jamieson in December, 1895.

Col. Rhodes was wounded at the battle of Omdurman, while acting as war correspondent of the London Times.

CABLE NOTES.

There is a distinct recrudescence of eruptions from Mount Vesuvius accompanied by rumblings and explosions.

It now appears that Mr. N. Curzon, the newly appointed Viceroy of India, will not be raised to the Peerage before he goes to India. But his father, Baron Scarsdale, will get the courtesy title of Viscount.

Yachtsmen here are delighted at the fact that "Big ships" have again been chosen for the America's Cup contests, as this class of yacht promises to be very strong here in 1899. Mr. Charles Day Rose and the Duke of Abbruzzi, nephew of the King of Italy, have both ordered new ninety-footers.

The health authorities have issued a warning against the use of American chewing gum, which is becoming the rage among children in the East End. The authorities consider it more dangerous than ice cream, which the Italians sell in the street and against which there has been a rigorous crusade.

British society is still scattered over the country and continent. The Prince of Wales landed on Thursday, from the Royal yacht, and will spend a fortnight at Osborne. The Queen, who is in excellent health, witnessed the Braemar gathering at Balmoral, on Thursday. Unusual interest was taken in the celebration, as it was the fiftieth anniversary of the occasion upon which the Queen first patronized the games.

HE MUST APOLOGIZE.

An Incident at Cowansville Cheese Board—Richmond Board Rallied.

(Special to the Star.)

COWANSVILLE, September 12.—Bidding was slow at the meeting of the Cheese Board on Saturday, and only about half the goods listed were disposed of. The ruling price was 7 7-8c. One lot of coloured, 56 boxes, sold to A. J. Brice at 8c. J. Ferguson bought 132 boxes at 7 7-8c. P. F. Ferguson bought 766 boxes at 7 7-8c, and Geo. W. Brock bought 230 boxes at the same price. Total sales were 1471 boxes. Forty factories offered 2731 boxes. Twenty-eight boxes and 24 tubs of butter were also offered for which 17 1-2c was bid and refused.

A resolution was passed to the effect that unless a certain buyer who behaved in a discreditable manner at the meeting two weeks ago apologized for his conduct on that occasion he would in future be denied the privileges of the Board.

President Foster last week visited the Richmond Board, which is in rather a struggling position, and in an address there urged upon the factorymen not to disband if it was possible by any means to hold together. Should, however, a collapse become inevitable, he suggested that they should list their goods on the Cowansville board, and send one man over each week to sell them. While he was at Sherbrooke, visiting the Exhibition, a number of Stanstead cheese men extended to Mr. Foster an invitation to visit that county during the winter, and make a series of addresses to the dairymen in the several parts of the county, with a view of causing them to make some working arrangement whereby the factories in that part of the county would also list their goods at Cowansville, where the large business done made it an object for a large number of buyers to be present each week, in which way the competition was greater and higher prices realized as a result.

Mr. McLeod Stewart has received an invitation from the president and members of the Champlain monument committee to be present at the unveiling of the monument of the great explorer by Lord Aberdeen next Thursday. Mr. Stewart has accepted the invitation. He is now busily engaged on his book, which will be published in England next Easter, entitled "In the Footsteps of Champlain," and which is to be beautifully illustrated and dedicated [illegible]

If men would only realize that ill-health robs them not only of life, but of their fortune as well, there would be fewer penniless widows and orphans to drag out cheerless lives. When a man holds a dollar close up to his eyes, it shuts out the light of good judgment, and looks bigger than life or death, or wife or child. The facts are that ill-health very soon puts a stop to a man's money-making powers and turns them into money-losing disabilities.

When a man's digestion is out of order and his liver sluggish, his brain gets dull, his muscles sluggish, his blood impure and every organ in the body—brain, lungs, heart, stomach, liver and kidneys—becomes crippled. A man with a crippled lung, liver, heart, brain or kidney, is a worse cripple ten times over, than a man who is minus a leg or an arm. The man who is crippled outside may live a long life but the man who is crippled inside is taking a short cut to the grave. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures indigestion, makes the appetite keen, the liver active, the blood pure, and every organ healthy and vigorous. It makes blood and builds flesh up to the healthy standard. Honest dealers don't recommend substitutes.

"I wish to say to those who suffer from kidney and bladder trouble—take Dr. R. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Dr. Anderson, of Carthage, Jasper Co., Mo. THE CORNWALL DISASTER.

Bodies of All the Victims But Three Recovered.

WORK ON THE NORTH SHORE SPAN HAS BEEN RESUMED.

(Special to the Star.)

CORNWALL, Ont., September 12.—The bodies of all the victims of the bridge disaster have been recovered, except those of Baumer, of Johnstown, Pa.; Gray, of Detroit, and Davis, of Pittsburg. The bodies recovered on Saturday were those of W. J. Cubby, of Paterson, N.J.; W. F. Jackson, Columbus, Ohio; Frank Lavigne, of Ogdensburg, N.Y.; W. Sherman, address unknown; Tom Birmingham, address unknown, and Cyril Campbell, of Cornwall. All the bodies were in a horrible state of decomposition and hardly recognizable. Lavigne's body was shipped on Saturday night to Ogdensburg, N.Y.; Jackson's to Windsor, Vt., and Clausse's to Caughnawaga, Que., where they will be buried. The others were interred here. The funeral of W. J. Cubby, who was well known in Cornwall, was held on Saturday and was largely attended.

The injured in the Hotel Dieu are doing well. Work was recommenced on the Cantilever span of the north channel bridge this morning. Mr. R. C. Douglass, the Canadian Government engineer, visited the scene of the wreck on Saturday in the steamer Ivy, but made only a cursory examinations.

A conference between representatives of the Ottawa and New York Railway Company, the Phoenix Bridge Company and Sooysmith & Company is being held in New York this morning to determine what steps shall be taken with a view to rebuilding the south channel bridge.

The Coroner's inquest on the body of Dan Hughes will be concluded to-day at Helena, N.Y.

HALL CAINE'S ARRIVAL.

NEW YORK, September 12.—Fresh from Manxland, with his curly red beard and wavy hair, Hall Caine arrived here on the Campania on Saturday. A great lover of universal peace, he has the Englishman's scepticism of the Czar's proposal for a general disarmament, "which seems grotesque in coming from such a source," he said. Mr. Caine, moreover, seems to doubt the practicability of an Anglo-American alliance. "It would be a great guarantee of the world's peace, if it were possible," he added.

LORD BRASSEY TALKS.

NEW YORK, September 12.—Lord Brassey, the British naval authority, arrived on Saturday on the Cunard steamship Campania. He is on his way to Victoria, Australia, of which he is the Governor. He said he saw no reason for the further differences between England and the United States and that there ought to be no need of formal treaties to perpetuate the understanding already existing.

CEVERA'S DEFEAT.

He Left Santiago Because He Was Told to do so—He Wanted to Blow Up His Ships.

MADRID, September 12.—In the Chamber of Deputies on Saturday, Captain Aunon, Minister of Marine, replying to the attacks of Senor Canalejas, editor of El Heraldo, reminded the Deputies that when he became Minister of Marine the Spanish squadron under Admiral Cervera was already at Santiago de Cuba. Therefore, he declared he could not be held responsible for the acts charged by Senor Canalejas.

Moreover he asserted that the Admirals met in council and expressed an unanimous opinion that the squadron should go to Cuba.

"Admiral Cervera, not having coal or food, was unable," said Captain Aunon, "to leave the blockaded port of Santiago. He wanted to blow up his ships in the harbour, but [illegible] him that it would be preferable [illegible]

THE SEAWANHAKA CUP.

The New York Club May Challenge the Royal St. Lawrence Club for a Race Next Year.

(Special to the Star.)

NEW YORK, September 12. — That the breach between the Seawanhaka Corinthian and the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Clubs over the last races for the International trophy for small boats is being rapidly healed by the good offices of the more diplomatic members of both organizations, is shown by the following communication, which was issued on Saturday afternoon, dated from the secretary's office:

At the request of members, as provided in the by-laws, a special meeting of the club will be held at the Oyster Bay Club House on September 14 for the purpose of considering the question of challenging the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club to sail a match for the Seawanhaka International cup during the season of 1899 and matters pertaining thereto.

As Duggan and Crane, who have designed the Canadian and American competitors, respectively, for these races during the past three years, have both signified their intention of withdrawing from further competition owing to press of business, the contests, should they be sailed, will doubtless be between yachts representing other naval architects.

Should the decision of the Seawanhaka Club be to issue another challenge, it is possible the cup may revert to the donors for the reason that the St. Lawrence Club is unwilling to again go to the expense of building and maintaining a defender.

However this may be, as soon as the Seawanhakas signify their intentions of issuing a defi for the trophy, interest in the sailing of small boats will take another boom, and the strained feelings that still exist to a degree will at once become more friendly.

Although no member of the Sailing Committee of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club cares to be quoted in connection with the matter, it can be safely said that everything looks favourable for another series of races for the Seawanhaka Cup next year, and there is little doubt that the challenge of the Seawanhaka Club, if they do challenge, will be received in the same spirit in which it is sent.

(Special to the Star.)

PARIS, September 12.—The Cabinet Council held a long session this morning, discussing the Dreyfus case. Ministers carried on a very lively debate until the adjournment. The sitting will be resumed this afternoon.

A report that Gen. Zurlinden has resigned is spreading. It is said that the evening session of the Cabinet will decide the question of Zurlinden and also that of a revision of the Dreyfus case.

STRANDED IN KINGSTON.

(Special to the Star.)

KINGSTON, Ont., September 12 — A. A. Deaker, of Montreal, a dealer in mineral water, is stranded here. He says that a young man named Ashley, who was with him since boyhood, ran away with $200. It appears that Deaker and Ashley were partners and that the former supplied $300 to Ashley. They started out to make a tour of Ontario and were to meet in Kingston, when a settlement would be made respecting the $200. When Deaker got here he learned to his astonishment that Ashley went to the United States with a soldier named Rogers.

CHAMBERLAIN AND HERSCHELL

(Special to the Star.)

TORONTO, September 12.—Hon. Joseph Chamberlain has written to Mayor Shaw saying that private engagements have been made for him which will render it impossible for him to visit Toronto for the next week or so, but if the city will leave its invitation open for a fortnight, Mr. Chamberlain will do his best to arrange a trip here before his return to England.

Lord Herschell will arrive in Toronto at one o'clock to-morrow from Niagara and the Mayor and Aldermen will cross the lake early in the morning to meet the city's distinguished guest and escort him here.

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE

(Special to the Star.)

TORONTO, September 12. This morning's session of the General Conference was taken up in committee work, and this afternoon the debate on the million dollar fund will be resumed.

A sub-committee of the general missions committee this morning wrestled with the proposed reorganization of Japanese missions. The student volunteers for missions are signing a petition asking to be allowed to serve at unguaranteed, but stated, salaries which could be reduced pro rata according to any possible shortage.

The committee on the General Conference fund, which fund will be in debt $20,000 at the close of this session, decided to recommend that annual conference be asked to pay an annual assessment for four years to wipe out this debt and that in future delegates be assessed $5 each.

MR. ATWATER SUCCEEDED.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, Ont., September 12. — In the Supreme Court appeal of the Eastern Townships Bank vs. the estate of the late J. M. McDougall, Hon. A. W. Atwater, being the judge in chambers this morning, successfully opposed an appeal to amend the case by adding certain documents. The argument was purely technical.

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH.

Charles McCarthy on Trial on a Charge of Chicken Stealing.

At the opening of the Court of Queen's Bench this morning, the following jurors were sworn in: James Quinn, G. J. H. Emott, P. Flock, J. B. Dubois, Wm. H. Winter, P. Dufresne, T. B. Stafford, T. Martin, A. W. Mullen, N. A. Delorme, John Hennessey and Samuel Elliott.

Mr. Tancrede Pagnuelo, counsel for Ezear Mann, accused of having murdered his mother-in-law, on Poupart Lane, asked that the case be sent over until the November term, as it would be easier for him to locate his witnesses then. As the defense also said they would prefer the November term, the adjournment was granted.

The first case heard was that of Charles McCarthy, aged 22 years, accused of having stolen nine chickens valued at $4.00, from Nazaire Versailles, butcher, St. James street, in June last. The stolen chickens had been sold to a butcher for the sum of twenty-five cents. Mr. W. A. Weir is the counsel for the defense and Mr. J. P. Cooke is the Crown Prosecutor.

The witnesses heard this morning were: Nazaire Versailles, William Miron, Henri Picard, Detective Suthergill, R. Dandenais, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Maurice Leduc, the accused's mother, and David Robb.

The prisoner was called to the stand, and said that the chickens were the property of a farmer whom he met in a saloon that morning. P. Donovan was the last witness heard this morning.

NESBITT CONVICTED

Of Unlawfully Wounding and Killing William Coe.

"Unlawfully wounding and doing grievous bodily harm," with a strong recommendation to mercy was the verdict rendered on Saturday afternoon in the case of John Nesbitt, who had been on trial for several days on the charge of killing William Coe. Mr. Wilson, on behalf of the prisoner, made a strong plea, contending that the deceased, while under the influence of liquor, fell and sustained the wounds which resulted in his death. After an exhaustive review of the case by Mr. Cooke, Mr. Justice Ouimet charged the jury rather unfavourably to the prisoner, who was convicted, as previously stated, of the minor offence of unlawfully wounding.

Mr. Wilson says that Nesbitt is satisfied with the verdict.

The maximum of the sentence for such an offence is three years.

PROVISIONS.

Bacon Advances in Liverpool—A Dull Local Market.

The provision market was rather dull this forenoon. Demand for bacon and hams had fallen off for the moment, and there was practically no enquiry for pork. Live hogs, fed and watered, sold at Point St. Charles for $5 to $5.10.

We quote: Canadian pork, in barrels, $15.50 to $16; hams, 11 to 11 1-2c per pound; bacon, 11 1-2 to 12c; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7 1-2c to 8c; compound refined, 5c to 5 1-2c.

Ware & Leland's circular says: "Large stocks of provisions were the leading excuse for depressing prices, and further aided by yellow fever reports. January prices are based on hogs selling at about $3.40 per hundred, and are nearly half a cent per pound below present packing hogs. The foreign hog supply is reported small. The future of prices doubtless depends more or less on the result of corn values. We feel very friendly both to corn and provisions, believing it nearly as ten to one that prices advance before declining further."

In Liverpool bacon showed considerable strength, long cut heavy being 6d higher than on Saturday, at 30s 6d. Long cut light was steady at 30s, and short cut light was 30s.

In Chicago also the market indicated firmness. October pork opened even at $8.45, and before noon was $8.50; Dec. opened 5c down at $8.50, and advanced to $5.60; Jan. was steady at $9.30. Oct. lard opened even at $4.85, and before noon had reached $4.92; Dec. opened 2c down at $4.90, and went to $4.95; Jan. opened 3c down at $4.97, and went up to $5.05.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

The Reports from all Sections are Favourable.

THE MANITOBA WHEAT HARVEST—REVIVAL IN KLONDIKE BUSINESS.

Wholesale trade at Montreal has been quiet this week, says Bradstreet's review, but business continues to improve. With cool autumn weather, there will be a considerable expansion in trade. The prospects for the autumn business were never brighter. The reports from the west are very satisfactory, and large shipments of goods west are expected to be made before navigation closes. The grain movement has not been active, but there has been considerable demand for ocean room and some good-sized engagements have been made during the past week. Dry goods and hardware showy a little more activity, there being considerable demand from the North-West. There has been no enquiry for butter, the late improvements in the English markets having induced purchases in this market. Cheese is quiet, but holders are not disposed to make concessions even for large lots. Money is steady and rates are unchanged.

Trade at Toronto has been active. The warehouses of the wholesale dry goods firms have been thronged with buyers from all parts of the country. This week has been the best second week in the history of the autumn openings. The buying has been large, and a considerable portion of it has been for cash or for short terms of credit. The sales of millinery have continued large. In other lines there has been an increased movement compared with other years. Hardware is more active, with a big demand for sporting goods for the autumn trade. Metals and all sorts of structural material are selling freely. Groceries have been selling well. Sugars are in brisk demand. The general tone of the market is very firm, with an upward tendency in sugars, canned salmon, and some lines of dried fruits. There is a more liberal movement in grain at country points, but the demand for export is still small. There is a good demand for funds for mercantile purposes, and rates are steady. Call loans are unchanged at 4 per cent. to brokers, and commercial discounts are the same at 6 to 7 per cent., according to name and date.

The wheat in Manitoba is now pretty well all down, and the feeling throughout the province is one of security. It will be some time yet before the new crop movement assumes large proportions, but already the receipts are increasing. It appears as if the Manitoba farmers will accept the situation, and market their grain promptly, notwithstanding the fact that the prices are not all that might be desired. Business has been quiet in wholesale circles. A good business in farm lands is booked for this autumn, after harvest is finished. During the month of August the land department of the C.P.R. disposed of 19,448 acres of land for the total sum of $61,230. This is more than double the sales of a August of last year, when 9,656 acres were disposed of for $30,209. The improved demand for farm lands is one of the most hopeful features of the present year, showing as it does that substantial progress is being made in the development of the country.

There has been quite a brisk trade at the Coast lately in Klondike supplies. The demand for labour continues active, and there is a great deal of work being done at Vancouver. The street railway there is extending its system, the city is spending $90,000 on asphalt pavements and there is a good deal of other sort of work going on. This season 100 steamers were added to the Pacific coast fleet, British Columbia getting more than her share. Most of these steamers will remain under charter. Last week there were 22 boats unloaded at Vancouver, 6 at Victoria, and 8 at Nanaimo and Chemainus, a total of 36 for the entire Canadian Pacific coast. The salmon pack has been a failure, owing to the late running of the sockeyes which are now, after the season is closed running into the river in millions. The earlier opening of the coho season has been advanced one week to September 15th.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

The country produce market was quite dull this morning. The demand for eggs during the forenoon was light and unsatisfactory, and no export enquiry was being made.

The Arrivals by Boat Sold at High Figures—Butter Much Firmer.

The principal feature in the stock market to-day was the sale of between 7000 and 8000 boat cheese on the wharf. There were a number of anxious buyers, and the bidding was brisk. At the outset 1000 boxes went at 7⅞ cents, but the price was then boosted to 7¾ cents, at which a great part of the goods were sold. The indications were that there was a little covering by shorts. These sales are all subject to warehouse inspection. The business in western continues on about the same basis, 8¼ to 8¼c for coloured and 7¾ to 8¼c for white. The total exports for the week ending Saturday were 52,566 boxes, as against 57,599 for the corresponding period last year. To date the total shipments to England have been 1,045,984 and last year during the corresponding period 1,270,744, a decrease of 274,790 boxes. The shipments of butter for the past week were about even with last year, 17,897 packages, as compared with 17,328 packages, and to date this year 111,231 as compared with 132,349 packages.

The butter market is stronger all round on English buying, and the quotation for finest creamery is now 18 to 18¾ cents; dairy ranges from 14 to 14½ cents.

TRUTH IS MIGHTY.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills the Wonder of the Century—Many Marvellous Cures Where all Other Remedies had Failed—Indisputable Evidence of their Efficacy and Power Over Disease.

ISIDORE MAJOR,

Valleyfield East, Que., Owes His Life to Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills—Twenty Years of Suffering.

Mr. Major says in writing: I am willing that you should publish this certificate under oath, as I consider I owe my life to Dr. Chase. For over twenty years I suffered from kidney trouble, paralysis of the tongue, loss of memory, and severe attacks of rheumatism; in fact, I was in the last stage of debility. About a year ago, a friend of mine, who commented upon my miserable appearance, recommended me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, stating that they might do me good, even if other medicines had failed. I told him I was very much discouraged, that I had taken so many remedies and without getting any relief. I thought the matter over seriously, and one day reading of a wonderful cure, Patrick J. McLaughlin, of Valleyfield, Que., in the 'La Presse,' I made up my mind to try them. I can take my oath that I am to-day a different man entirely; my body is as supple as a twenty-year-old man, although I am forty-seven years of age; all the members of my family are surprised at this change. I spent hundreds of dollars to cure this disease, without success. Before I took Dr. Chase's pills my back used to ache so much that I could not bend sufficiently to put on my shoes, and I could not lift a twenty-pound weight from the ground. I could not eat anything with taste, and everyhing that I did eat seemed to stay in my stomach and burn like fire, now I can eat anything.

I thank God these troubles are all gone, and I am willing to endorse it if anybody wishes to write.

Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills are the only combined Kidney Liver Pill made. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box.

Dr. Chase's new receipt book, cloth bound, 500 pages, sent to any address in Canada. Price 50 cents. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 214 1 2 w 7

Yes, but these days are of the past. Dr. Russell's Corn Cure is the great deliverer of the slaves from painful corns of the present day. Robert Stewart, the well known general merchant, of Salmon Arm, B. OUT OF REVENGE.

The Residence of Mrs. J. Evans, of Juror Street, Set on Fire This Morning.

Mrs. J. Evans, of 22 Jurors street, had a remarkable experience last night and an escape from being burned to death in her bed. About two o'clock this morning she was awakened from sleep by the smell of smoke in the house, and getting up discovered that the room was perfectly filled with the choking flames. The two little children were in the bed, and waking them she raised them to the window to prevent suffocation and to summon help. The flames were put out, and it was then found that the front door of the house had been broken open and an incendiary had started the fire in the hall. This attack for revenge is attributed by Mrs. Evans to the late part she took in a trial. She was summoned there as a witness, and has already received protection from the courts against interference. Mrs. Evans this morning warned the authorities of the affair and asked that a guard accompany her to her home until she recovered from her fear.

He Tells the Star of His Trip Overland to the Arctic Ocean Via Edmonton.

HARDSHIPS OF THE JOURNEY.

Forced to Pick Out a New Route When Fairly Started on the Road.

DEAD HORSE FOR MOOSE MEAT

Interesting Observations in Connection with the Great Lone Land of Canada.

"I am like the Yankee who went down the toboggan slide. I wouldn't have missed the trip for $1000, but I wouldn't undertake it again for twice that amount."

This is the comment of Mr. John A. Grose, the well-known Montreal gentleman, who has just returned from a tour of exploration in the Canadian North West Klondikewards.

Mr. Grose left Montreal in the first week of November, 1897. He reached Fort McPherson, the objective point of his trip about July 4 and left there for home on July 23. During his absence from Montreal ten months in time have been consumed and he has travelled ten thousand miles. This has been done in all sorts of conveyance and by all means from "shanks" mare to the Pullman coach. All sorts of experiences and hardships have been undergone, and Mr. Grose feels that he is much richer in experience than he ever expected to be when he left Montreal last autumn. How ever he is looking the picture of rugged health, and has suffered physically in no lasting way since he departed from Montreal last November.

In future Mr. Grose will make Montreal his home and this city will be in the future as it is in the past, the headquarters of the Grose Sporting Goods Agency Bureau, of which he will be the presiding genius.

On episode of the trip which Mr. Grose tells with much glee is a joke played by an Indian upon the party. Considerable trouble had been experienced in scaling the Red Deer Mountains and Swan Hills, and, in consequence, provisions were not plentiful with the expedition. An Indian came along and offered a hindquarter of "moose meat" for sale. This was eagerly snapped up, and for a few days all kinds of dishes were served of which venison was the chief component part. Further along, however, it was discovered that the Indian had palmed off upon the tenderfeet from the effete east a portion of a carcase of Indian pony.

"And indeed," said Mr. Grose, "I am not sure but we were eating the hindquarter of one of our own horses which had died along the trail. However," he added, "we were glad to get it, and I know that we enjoyed the meat immensely; so we could afford to give the trickster."

THE GROUND COVERED.

The original intention of the Grose expedition was to pursue a north westerly course from Edmonton to the Nelson River, build boats there and proceed this spring to the mouth of the Mackenzie River by way of the Nelson, Hard and Mackenzie. A glance at he map will make this route plain, and it was chosen in preference to the other route from Edmonton by way of Athabasca Landing, down the Athabasca River to Great Slave Lake across that great body of water and down the Mackenzie River.

But as matters worked out the Grose expedition was forced to take a third route, which is not usually laid down on the maps. The insuperable difficulties that met the party when they got over the Red Deer Mountains and the Swan Hills consisted in a region lying between that point and the Nelson River, over which there was no trail worthy of the name; simply an Indian path blazed through the woods and winding in and out with many deviations from the objective point. It was rather a guide to the hunting grounds of the Indians than a road by which to reach the Nelson. Before leaving Edmonton the route had been strongly recommended, even in preference to that by way of Athabasca Landing, which, south of Fort Murray, has a series of portages and rapids regarded with much distavour by the traveller. Turning aside and to the north the expedition reached Peace River crossing where during the winter their boats were built, and in the spring they proceeded to the Great Slave Lake by way of Peace River and Great Slave River. Here the ice moved out this year about six weeks earlier than usual and allowed the party to cross to the mouth of the Mackenzie, from which point, as Mr. Grose put it, "all we have to do is to lay down at the start and get up at the finish of the trip, which is all down stream."

The companions of Mr. Grose on this trip were Americans, or rather sent on the trip under Chicago auspices. Their object was a general survey and prospecting expedition. Mr. Grose, for whom the expedition was named, accompanied them on a private mission, which terminated on his arrival at Fort McPherson, on the Peel River, approximately at the mouth of the Mackenzie, as distances go in the northern regions. Here Mr. Grose left his companions and returned by the Hudson's Bay steamer to Athabasca Landing, walking thence to Edmonton, returning to Montreal by the C. P. R.

HARDSHIPS OF THE TRIP.

When the party left Edmonton it was possessed of 44 horses and 52 dogs. When it reached Little Slave Lake to the Northwest, and but a comparatively short distance on the journey, nine horses and three dogs were all that were left alive. The animals died along the trail and by reason of the hardships necessary to the progress of the party. As a sample of the difficulty the explorers had to overcome Mr. Grose cited the scaling of the Red Deer Mountains and the Swan Hills. The ascent was sheer into the air, and the only way that such articles as were absolutely necessary could be got up was by sticking a stout pole in the side of the hill, passing a rope around it and hoisting the supplies from stage to stage. Here a lot of the supplies had to be abandoned. At time food was scarce. Mr. Grose was, he says, about this time glad to dine off a wildcat, which one of the party had captured. On Christmas eve Mr. Grose and his companions had a light airy lunch of snow for their means of subsistence. Just before reaching the Red Deer Mountains a terrible snow storm, a regular blizzard came up.

It was a spot near Lac le Nun. The cook, who generally went ahead, had the provisions, and he became separated in the blinding drift of snow. The party in the rear sat out a comfortless night, eating snow to deaden the gnawing hunger which was not appeased until the discovery of the cook the following night, when their first Christmas fare was tasted. This same cook, John Bouret, a Parisian Frenchman, was the only man of the party to lose his life during the whole trip, and he lost it after all the dangers of travelling were over. He fell from a boat at the wharf at Fort McPherson, and his body did not come to the surface until it was discovered two hours later. Bouret joined the party in Chicago.

The depredations of mosquitoes, flies and other pests of that nature when spring set in, Mr. Grose describes as awful and agonizing. The only remedy was mosquito netting, arranged in the form of a mask over the face, gloves over the hands and long legged boots. At night sleep had to be had behind mosquito bars, "if you can get them up quick enough," to quote Mr. Grose.

NOTES AND IMPRESSIONS.

Summing up his impression of the whole region Mr. Grose says he saw nothing whatever to induce a man to live in the country. While the party were building boats in the winter, he took several hunting and survey trips about Peace River Crossing, and when the boats tied up at Fort McPherson he continued his trip in a canoe down to the shores of the Arctic Ocean. Here he saw many Esquimaux, who are "very industrious, but dirty." Among them are a few white men, who do some business as traders. Within a mile of the Arctic Circle, Mr. Grose saw a bed of potatoes growing, and brought home a photograph of himself standing in the middle thereof, as proof.

Mr. Grose has a very interesting collection of photographs, which he has brought back with him, but his diary and many of his notes were lost in one of the multitudinous accidents incidental to such a trip. On the lower stretches of the Mackenzie Mr. Grose put in some 75? miles of the distance in a Peterboro canoe, and when he returned to Edmonton he was inclined to be a little boastful of that feat. "But," says he, "the people are very unappreciative of that sort of thing, and no matter what hardship has been undergone or what feat performed, the recital is accompanied by matter of fact observations on the part of the hearers. One fellow told me I ought to be thankful to have the canoe to do it in, as he knew a chap, who had performed even a more extended trip on a raft, made of logs, which he had cut from the forest. There isn't much hero worship in that district."

Speaking of the "mighty Mackenzie," Mr. Grose said it was not at all inspiring, especially to one who had dwelt alongside the St. Lawrence. The fish caught in it were called by an Indian name, which when translated into English meant "unknown fish." They were not very good eating, being soft and watery, although resembling a salmon in appearance. The Peel good white fish were obtained, and fine trout in the Great Slave Lake. As for game moose, bears, geese, duck and swans were to be had, but not so plentifully as to affect the bean and flour market. The quotation for the former article was $25 for a fifty pound bag, and that for the latter ranged from $25 to $35.

AS TO THE PEOPLE.

The Indians, according to Mr. Grose, are like any other Indians, and as the type is pretty well known, he thought that description would do. During the whole trip he had not seen a drunken man, and the preservation of law and order was remarkable for its correct observance. There had only been, he recalled, one "scrap," of which he was a witness and that was between a couple of hotheaded fellows at Fort Smith. No blood was shed. The whole country along the route of travel, however, is full of "bad men," trying to make their way to the Klondike. Many of the would-be miners will have to winter in the country. Mr. Grose says he does not anticipate a shortage of provisions this winter either at Dawson or along the trails leading to the bonanza city.

A curious account, from an eastern point of view, is given by Mr. Grose concerning the law of "cache." A man going along wishes to leave, say his coat, behind, for reasons of personal comfort. He hangs it on a tree, and it will be there for him if he does not return for a week. Similarly the ownership of a suspended gun or rifle is respected. Mr. Grose says a man would be safe in hanging his gold watch and chain on a tree with the assurance that it would be there when he returned to claim it. A cache of provisions is subject to a slight modification in respect to the rule of inviolability. A hungry Indian discovering such will make a fire in front of it, to make it apparent that there is no secrecy intended in connection with his visit. He will then take from the cache sufficient food for his immediate needs and pass on, without touching anything more.

During his progress, Mr. Grose fell in with various Montreal gentlemen, including Messrs. Maltby, Smith, McAdam and others. The Ransom party he heard of; it was a day or so in advance of his expedition.

Mr. Grose is glad to be back in Montreal and he makes no secret of it. He isn't able to do much to-day, except shake hands with his numerous friends, who are holding him up whenever he appears on the street.

HALL CAINE HERE.

The Distinguished Author Arrived in the City To-day.

Mr Hall Caine, the English author, arrived in Montreal this morning, and is staying at the Windsor. He is accompanied by Mrs. Caine.

Mr Caine registered privately, where the newspaper reporters would never see it. He doesn't like being interviewed, and took this means to keep his presence in the city quiet. Besides, he has been reading about the Quebec Conference, and the way the commissioners there kept their doings secret, and as he may have something to say himself to the Canadian representatives, on the matter of copyright later on, he perhaps thought it might be as well to follow in the path of golden silence so unmistakably marked out by the august commissioners.

Anyway, Mr Caine did not seek public announcement of his arrival Of that there could be no doubt. In the first place, as already said, he did not enter his name on the hotel's public register. In the second place, when the reporters at the Windsor this morning sent their cards up to him, he said he would be down in a minute, and then forgot all about it.

Of course, Mr. Caine is a big map now, and it doesn't matter much to him whether he's interviewed or not. Besides, he is understood to have periods of inspiration which come upon him suddenly, when he sees great things in visions, and thinks great thoughts. Sometimes these moment of fine frenzy come along in the dead of night and then he sits up in bed and jots down what he feels like.

It may have been one of these inspired moments which caused Mr. Caine to forget his appointment with the newspaper men this morning, and keep them waiting an hour before they found out that he had quietly gone off walking with Mrs. Caine. However, reporters' moments are cheap, when compared with those of a great author, and it was all right.

When Mr. Caine got back from his walk, he regretted his forgetfulness, and the reporters forgave him.

Mr. Caine's present mission in America, according to himself, is to help Miss Viola Allen to rehearse the play founded on "The Christian." This play will be produced first in Washington, on September 25, then it will be brought to New York, on October 3, and later will be in Montreal.

Of the play Mr. Caine says he can say no more than that it is not in the ordinary sense an adaptation of the novel, but an entirely independent composition. An entirely separate structure has been built with the motive and characters of the novel as the basis. Mr. Caine says he is satisfied with what he has seen with it.

Mr. Caine does not yet know how long his stay on this side of the water will be. It was not his first intention to deliver any lectures here, and unless he modifies his programme to embrace a brief lecturing tour, he expects to return to England in about three weeks.

IMPORTANT SKATING RACES.

It is quite probable that Montrealers will be treated to something especially good in the way of skating races during the coming winter. Mr. Louis Rubenstein, who returned from Winnipeg, where he has been acting as as referee at the annual champion ship meet of the C. W. A., this morning, has had in view for some time the idea of a match race between Jaap Eden, John S. Johnson and John Nelson. When Johnson was in Montreal last winter Mr. Rubenstein spoke to him and he said that he would be willing to skate in such a race. Neilson was seen at Winnipeg and he too said that he would race. The only one remaining is Eden and Mr. Rubenstein hopes to get his consent when he returns to America from Europe in October. This would make an exceedingly interesting race and as Johnson and Neilson are willing to skate in Montreal it is more than likely that the championship speed races will be resumed again this winter, which would make a decidedly interesting programme.

CIVIL COURTS OPENED.

Remarks by Mr. Carter, Batonnier of the Bar, and the Acting Chief Justice.

The opening of the Civil Courts after the vacation took place this morning. The function came off in the largest room in the building, which was crowded with lawyers and their clients anxious to get justice. On the Bench were acting-Chief Justice Tait, and Judges Taschereau, Lorranger, Doherty, and Curran. Their Honours inaugurated the proceedings by their appearance promptly at half past ten o'clock, the time set, thus giving the first example of the legal year that promptitude is to be the word.

Mr. C. B. Carter, Q. C., the Batonnier, on the court being declared open, addressed their Honours, saying:

"A year ago I had the honour of presenting to the Court a number of gentlemen who had been admitted to practice law at the previous July examination. I have again the pleasure this year of performing the same office, but before doing so, I will ask the Court's indulgence to make a few remarks about the Bar. It was incorporated by the 12th Victoria, Chapter 46. The first meeting in Montreal was held on the 24th of July, 1849, at which 63 members were present. Mr. Toussaint Pelletier, Q. C., an eminent lawyer of his day, being the oldest member. Branchaud, who died a few months ago, Bronchaud, who died a few months ago, and who was prothonotary of Beauharnois, acted as secretary. Mr. J. Pelletier was elected the first batonnier. Many of those present have occupied distinguished positions. Mr. A. A. Dorion became Sir Antoine Dorion and Chief Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench. Mr. W. C. Meredith became Sir William Meredith and Chief Justice of the Superior Court. Mr. E. G. Johnson became Sir Francis Johnson and Chief Justice of the Superior Court. Messrs. Berthelot, Beaudry, J. J. Loranger, Mackay, Duncan and Buchanan, all became Judges of the Superior Court. Mr. Austin was appointed Chief Justice of Antigua and Mr. Betournay was appointed to the Manitoba Bench.

"Mr. Cartier afterward Sir George Cartier devoted himself to politics—was one of the Fathers of Confederation and died a great statesman.

"As far as I can learn there are but four living to-day of those who attended that meeting. They are: Mr. J. J. Day, Q. C., Mr. Strachan Bethune, Q. C., the Hon. Gedeon Ouimet, Q. C., and Judge Buchanan.

"With the progress of our country and the rapid increase in population of Montreal, it is not surprising to find the ranks of our profession largely augmented. To day we have on the Tableau General for the Montreal Section of the Bar, 491 members. 35 candidates were admitted to practice from this section in July last, and 41 candidates were admitted to study. Next year will be the 50th anniversary of the incorporation of the Bar. I only trust it will be celebrated in a manner befitting the occasion. I now beg to present to the Court the gentlemen who were admitted to the Bar in July last.

Mr. Carter then presented the following members of Bar admitted in July last: Messrs. E. N. Armstrong, Samuel Clay, J. J. Domphousse, H. J. Elliott, J. T. Feron, C. D. Gaudet, J. A. Julien, J. A. A. Laramee, Auguste Lemieux, Wm. Loranger, A. L. Pelletier, J. A. Savignac and Nap. Tessier.

The Acting Chief Justice then addressing the Batonnier first and then the young members presented expressed the pleasure experienced by their Honour in listening to the eulogy which had just been made of the Montreal Bar and of the eminent men which it had produced in one past. As to the members of the Bar who were now entering upon their careers they would have an opportunity now of putting into practice the principles which had been inculated to them in the various colleges through which they had passed. They would now become the trustees of the interest of others, whose richts they would have to maintain and wrongs to remedy. He was sure that none of them would act through mercenary motives but for the love of their profession they would ever be ready to defend justice and the rights of the poor man. The interests of their clients should be their first consideration so that all of them would be entrusted to public confidence and to the confidence of the Bench Nothing would ever be gained by attempting to mislead the Bench. He was sure all would deserve the confidence of the Court, who wished them all success in their future career.

This brought the function to an end and the courts were declared formally opened. Judge Taschereau presides at the distribution of the cases, Judge Mathieu in the Practice Court, Judges Paguuelo, Curran and Archibald in the Court of Review, and Judges Tait, Loranger and Doherty in the various divisions The Court Building was overrun by people having business there.

AFTER THE FIRE.

New Westminster Thankful for Offers of Assistance.

SOME OF THE VICTIMS HAVE NOTHING LEFT IN THE WORLD.

VANCOUVER, B.C., September 12.—Vancouver, on behalf of New Westminster, thanks Seattle, Winnipeg, Victoria and other cities, for sympathy extended to the unfortunate sufferers by the fire. The kindly offers of help are much appreciated.

A fearful joke was perpetrated after the fire. It was noticed that some wretch had put up a black flag with cross bones on it on top of the Central School House.

Rev. Mr. Betts, of New Westminster, who is in Toronto attending the Methodist Conference, will have a sad home-coming. His church and parsonage have been destroyed, and his valuable library of books was burned in the fire. Some of his effects were however, saved.

A SUFFERER IN TORONTO.

(Special to the Star.)

TORONTO, September 12.—C. Cliff, of New Westminster, one of the sufferers by the disastrous fire, is in the city visiting relatives. He knew nothing of the fire until he came down town shopping this morning and picked up a newspaper in a store where he was buying goods. Mr. Cliff was one of the leading merchants of the stricken city, and had built up a large stove and tinware business. He had a big stock but neglected to put on any insurance and now as he expresses it "My goose is cooked." He has little hope that the city will be rebuilt, though he says it had recently been going ahead.

A MESSAGE FROM MR. ROY.

Mr. Rouer Roy, Q. C., consulting attorney, this morning received the following from his son, Mr. J. R. Roy, chief engineer of the Department of Public Works, in British Columbia:

Most of New Westminster City was destroyed by fire last night. My rooms with all personal effects burnt, as well as our offices. Every store, business place, bank and hotel, without exception, gutted. Am perfectly safe.

JOSEPH R. ROY.
Resident Engineer.

AID FROM TORONTO.

(Special to the Star.)

TORONTO, Ont., September 2.—The civic Board of Control to-day granted $1,000 for the relief of the sufferers by the New Westminster fire, the same amount as was given to Windsor, N. S.

DROPPED DEAD.

HALIFAX, N. S., September 12.—Rupert Cunningham, town clerk of Antigonish, dropped dead in his office this morning.

MR. ROMEO STEPHENS DEAD.

Carried Off by Heart Failure at His Chambly Home This Morning Early—His Career.

Mr. Romeo H. Stephens died this morning of heart failure, at his residence, Chambly, Que. The end was not unexpected as his health, very indifferent for the past two years, has recently been giving his friends much concern.

The passing of Mr. Stephens removes a prominent link connecting the generation of to-day with men prominent in the affairs of Montreal half a century ago. The deceased was the eldest son of the late Mr. Harrison Stephens, who amassed a vast fortune in Montreal. He was born at Missisquoi Bay in 1827. He attended Harvard University for several terms, but not completing his course returned ere, when he entered into commercial purvuits. He was associated with the late Hon. John Young, and Mr. Benj. Holmes, an ex-president of the Bank of Montreal. The various firms with which he was connected dealt largely in western produce. Subsequently he studied law and afterwards became associated with the late Sir John Rose, afterwards of the banking firm of Messrs. Morton, Rose & Co., of London, Eng. With the Hon. Alex. Morris, Alex. Molson, and Mr. W. B. Lambe, Collector of Provincial Revenue, he was instrumental in organizing the first law class in connection with McGill University. Mr. Stephens did not exhibit a strong liking for his profession. He only practised for a few years. For a short period he was in partnership with the late Mr. Brown Chamberlin, C. M. G., Queen's Printer.

Mr. Stephens at an earlier period had an interest in the firms of Stephens & Mills, and Messrs. Lane, Stephens & Co.

He was fond of agricultural pursuits, and for many years indulged his hobby at Sloeum Lodge, at St. Lambert. He owned a famous Ardermay herd of cattle, well known by its offspring throughout the continent. He was an extensive traveller in recent years, usually spending the winters in Morocco. He had also made several visits to Russia.

Mr. Stephens was married three times His first wife was a Miss Holcomb, of Troy, N. Y. After her demise he was wedded to Mrs. Chalmers, of Montreal His third wife survives him. He also leaves three children by his first wife, Hiram, Frank, and Mrs. Frank stephen, sister-in-law to Lord Mount Stephen. He is also survived by his brothers Hon. G. W. Stephens and Mr. S

who are seeking the highest type of cigar excellence, purity, wholesomeness and satisfaction should by all means give a trial. Ten cents never bought a better cigar and it's hard to buy it at any price. It is a domestic cigar which is "BETTER THAN IMPORTED."

It is an immediate favourite wherever introduced. The present troubled condition of the tobacco market makes it extremely difficult to get an imported cigar worth smoking.

One trial of the "Pharaoh" will convince you that it is precisely the cigar you have been looking for.

If your dealer cannot give it to you I will be glad to send you, prepaid, a box of 25 for $2.00; 50 for $4.00 or 100 for $8.00.

MILITIA REORGANIZATION.

Report in Ottawa That It Will Take Place on an Imperial Basis.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, September 12.—A rumour is current that the appointments of the Earl of Minto as Governor-General, and that of Major General Hutton, as G.O.C., are intended to facilitate a reorganization of the Canadian militia on an imperial basis, that is to place them in a shape to be effectively available for the defence of the Empire, not only of Canada, and fulfil the promise made by Sir Richard Cartwright in Parliament last year that this country, in the event of a war, will stand ready to furnish a contingent for foreign service if required, as her contribution to the general defence. It is said that General Hutton has made a thorough study of the military situation before coming here, and that one weakness he has located is the lack of organization of the force in any formations larger than a battalion, battery or regiment of cavalry. The militia has absolutely had no training in brigade formation and there is no organization of staff in the proper sense of the term, for handling brigades or larger bodies in the various districts. The experience of officers in these important duties has been hitherto limited to the haphazard engagement of available men for duty at the Brigade Camps for the instruction of mounted units and the rural corps, and then the work has been confined to the rudimentary administration of the commissariat and other departments necessary to the maintenance of the force under canvass. The units of the force at these camps form brigades in name only. They never drill together or parade as brigade divisions except for a church service or to march past at a review and then, as all militia officers know, it is largely a case of "every man for himself and the D.O.C. for us all."

OPPOSED TO PROHIBITION.

TORONTO, September 12.—A circular, signed by E. E. Sheppard, as secretary protem, has been sent out to a number of prominent citizens here announcing that a movement on behalf of those citizens who strongly, endorse the position taken by Rev. Principal Grant, of Queen's University, Kingston, with regard to the coming plebiscite has been informally organized to invite him and others to deliver addresses in Massey Hall on or about the 15th inst., and inviting them to join a committee which proposed to organize for the purpose of Professor Grant's meeting. Mr. Sheppard says that those engaged in the liquor traffic will not be invited and that the movement is entirely non-political.

DATE OF CONSECRATION.

BROCKVILLE, September 12.—Archbishop Gauthier has announced the date of his consecration, October 18th. The ceremony will take place in St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, and will be attended by all the leading Roman Catholic dignitaries in Ontario and Quebec.

NO BY-ELECTIONS YET.

OTTAWA, September 12.—The date of the by-elections to fill parliamentary vacancies will not be fixed until the conclusion of the Quebec Conference.

THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY.

Probability That This Dispute Will be Referred to Arbitration.

OTTAWA, September 12.—Referring to the probability of the Alaskan boundary question being settled by the Quebec Conference, it is stated that the settlement will probably be in the shape of a reference to some other separate tribunal for arbitration and final ruling. The expense and difficulties of new and complete surveys would be enormous, and besides a large volume of material is already available from the surveys which were made by both Canadian and American surveyors on the ground a few years ago. The information is regarded as perfectly reliable and sufficiently comprehensive to justify its use by an arbitration.

WESTWARD HO!

Many Manitoba People Being Cured of Heart and Nerve Troubles.

Mr. A. Wilson, of Clearwater, Relates His Experience.

Not only in the East, but also in the great Western provinces of the Dominion, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are steadily gaining the confidence of the people.

Wherever there is a weak heart or shattered nervous system they restore them to perfect vigor; run-down, worn-out constitutions they build up, strengthen and renew, and give new hope to downcast, despairing, sickly men and women.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

"I can recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as the best thing I know of for weak and nervous people. When I first commenced taking them I was in an extremely weak condition. I was nervous and easily startled, sometimes I would start in my sleep and it would be a long time before I could get asleep again.

"Shortness of breath and dizzy spells would come over me at times and often I thought my end was near.

"Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have changed all that. They have strengthened my nerves and built up my health so that I am a new man. I consider them simply wonderful." A. Wilson, Clearwater, Man.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box or 3 boxes for $1 25, at all druggists, T. Milburn & Co., Toronto, Ontario.

NEW WESTMINSTER IS DESTROYED.

Former Capital of British Columbia Practically Wiped Out by Fire.

OVER 300 BUILDINGS DESTROYED AT A MONEY LOSS OF NEARLY $3,000,000.

The Loss of Life May Prove Heavy--Ten Thousand People are Without Homes or Food.

(Special to the Star.)

VANCOUVER, B.C., September 12.—The city of New Westminster is wiped out by fire. Some 327 buildings in the heart of the city are now smouldering ruins, besides the river front wharves, stretching for over half a mile in front of the city. The total loss is estimated at over $3,000,000; the insurance not being over a million and a half dollars all told.

The heaviest losers are the Sun Life Insurance Company, of Canada, who held mortgages on the buildings on the principal street to the extent of five hundred thousand dollars.

The insurance companies who carried insurance on these and other buildings, were the Commercial Union, London Assurance Company and the Norwich Union. These three companies lose $1,000,000, the rest of the insurance being divided among the following companies: London Assurance, Commercial Union, Norwich Union, London and Lancashire, North British, American Union, British American, Hartford, Connecticut, Aetna, Atlas, Alliance, Guardian, Manchester, Western, Phoenix, North American, National of Ireland, Scottish Union, Phoenix of London and Northern.

THE FIRE ORIGINATED.

by a stray spark igniting some straw on Brackman and Ker's wharf that had been lying there for over a year. The straw set fire to three steamers, the Gladys, Bon Accord, and Edgar, tied to the wharf. Their moorings burnt and they floated down stream, helping the furious wind in its work of destruction by setting fire to all the buildings on the water front before they sunk. The flames were soon fanned by a high wind into terrible fury and, to the consternation of the Fire Department, it was discovered that the reservoir for fire purposes, had been allowed to run almost dry.

VANCOUVER TO THE RESCUE.

At two o'clock, three hours after the fire started, Vancouver firemen, who made the twelve miles between the cities, in an hour and fifteen minutes, came on the scene and not until then was any attempt successful to stop the fire, which had covered six blocks one way and seven another, embracing an area of over half a mile square and including the entire business portion of the city. There are some 10,000 people homeless and there are no provisions in town, but all day burned out people retired in the early hours of the morning in the open in front of the schoolhouse. They covered themselves with blankets and lay down to sleep under the sky. Their sleep was the sleep of despair. All they had was lost to them.

In early days New Westminster was the capital of British Columbia. The colony took root in 1859, and was the immediate and direct outcome of the gold excitement of the previous year. Thousands of miners and adventurers, in search of gold, rushed up the Fraser to the auriferous bars. Sir James Douglas who was governor of Vancouver Island, assumed the protectorate of the mainland until the Imperial Government could invest it with a regular organized administration.

Among the officials sent out to govern were Lieut.-Col. Moody (Lieutenant-Governor), Commissioner of Crown Lands and Public Works, and Military Commandant, and Matthew Baillie Begbie, Chief Justice, two men whose names have become historic. It was the former who selected the Westminster town site, upon which to found the capital of the new colony. The previous year Sir James Douglas had hit upon Langley, further up the river, laid it out into lots, held an auction sale, and named it Derby. Col. Moody, however, in coming down after his trip, up the Fraser, caught sight of the commanding eminence on the right bank, and with strategic instinct and an eye to the picturesque, immediately decided upon it as the capital, and the site was changed from Derby. It is an old story. He and Governor Douglas, who rarely agreed upon any subject, disagreed on the name. It should bear one wanted it called Queenborough and the other Queens, and, to settle it, they referred it to Her Most Gracious Majesty herself. With a delicate diplomacy of the Queen, whose name was already honoured in Victoria, made it New Westminster, which on that account is often referred to as

THE "ROYAL CITY."

Those who had bought lots in Derby were allowed to exchange them for Westminster property, and the first house built was by W. J. Armstrong, the late sheriff of Westminster county. Governmental machinery was set in operation and public buildings, very modest and unpretentious, were erected. A mint, which, however, minted but a few nines of gold, was established, and the Royal Engineers, organized and seen off by Lord Lytton, with a body of sappers and miners, with a mission to survey, build roads and the like, formed a camp at Sappertown, now within the city limits. There, in response to public demands, were unbanded long before the term of their service had expired. Westminster after the first excitement of the gold fever had subsided, settled down to a humdrum life, making little progress and disturbed by but few influences of any kind, for a number of years. The two colonies were united in 1866 under one name, that of British Columbia, which was followed soon after by the removal of the capital to Victoria. The slumber of existence was even deeper after that. Three things tended to revive it and give stimulus to growth: The building of the Yale and Westminster trunk road, the establishment of the salmon canning industry on the Fraser river and the building of the Canadian Pacific railway through the mountains to the coast. Even with these influences, progress, though real and substantial, was slow. Its tributary sources of wealth up to 1880 had been the river traffic, the salmon industry, and a rich agricultural district, of which it was the principal supply point and the center. Through these agencies, and a not inconsiderable lumber trade, a great deal of wealth had accumulated. Then an era of improvements set in which rapidly transformed its appearance. New streets were opened up and old ones improved; public improvements of all kinds were made; increased railway and steamboat communication, gas and electric light, electric trams and waterworks followed in quick succession. Fine new residences sprung up everywhere; handsome and massive blocks, among the finest on the coast, were erected; such institutions as a public library, a Y. M. C. A., exhibition buildings and grounds, churches, schools, parks, etc., kept pace with the general progress, if not well in advance. Industries grew and prospered; the population rose from 2,000 or less, to 9,000 or 10,000.

The industries which contribute chiefly to Westminster's importance are the salmon canneries, of which there are 27, extending from the city to the mouth of the river. The Royal City Planing Mills, which have a daily capacity of 10,000 feet, with a large operating staff and engaging largely in manufactures of wood. The Bonnette saw mills, with a daily capacity of 65,000 feet, engaging largely in manufactures of wood, shingles, boxes, etc., and doing a large business. The McLaren-Ross Mills, capacity 200,000 feet per diem, splendidly equipped, but not yet in operation, the owners awaiting the revival of the foreign export trade. The Pacific Coast Lumber Company's mills, doing a good business. The Reid & Currie Iron Works, doing a business of from $50,000 to $75,000 a year and employing 25 hands, and the Westminster Foundry. Tietjen's cigar factory, with an output of half a million annually, employing 15 hands. Wintermute's furniture factory; two breweries, several fish salting and exporting firms, McGillivray's Steel Pipe Works, a brick yard, a match factory, with a capacity of four millions a day and employing 15 hands; the British Columbia Milling Co.'s mills, manufacturing oatmeal, split peas and graham flour, capacity 10 tons per day; the gas, electric light and waterworks.

The public and semi-public institutions are the penitentiary (Dominion), central prison (Provincial), asylum for the insane, court house and land registry office, two hospitals, public library and Y.M.C.A. buildings, public and high schools, three private academies, and fine churches representing all the leading denominations, for two of which, the Catholic and Anglican churches, it is the episcopal headquarters. There is an active Board of Trade. There are two newspapers, the Columbian (daily and weekly), and the Pacific Canadian (weekly). a social club and all the usual fraternal and benevolent societies fully represented. Westminster is one of the Pacific Coast termini of the Canadian Pacific Railway; it is the Canadian terminus for the present of the Great Northern Railway, which runs to South Westminster on the opposite side of the Fraser; when the Burrard Inlet and Fraser Valley Railway is completed, and the railway traffic bridge is built across the Fraser, it will be connected with the Northern Pacific system as well as the Great Northern Railway. The city is connected with Vancouver by electric tramway, which makes hourly trips each way, covering the distance going and coming in forty-five minutes.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

(Press Despatch.)

VANCOUVER, B.C., September 12.—In New Westminster, not a stone of the business houses remains standing after a terrible fire which swept over the town on Sunday. Despair and suffering are the lot of hundreds of poor homeless folk. Food, clothing and aid of all kinds is being despatched from Vancouver to the ill-fated Royal City. It is not known how many people lost their lives, but it is feared several must have been burned to death. It is said that Campbell, a fireman, fell off a roof of a burning building and was killed, while a woman dropped dead from fright. It is said also that one poor woman who had been confined a day or two ago, died while they were removing her from the burning house, while another female suffering from typhoid fever, who had to be twice removed from the residences which were in the burning zone, did not survive the shock.

So extremely fierce were the flames that apples on trees on the side of the street opposite where the houses were burning were roasted as if put on a fire for the purpose. The three river steamers destroyed are the Edgar, Gladys and Bon Accord.

New Westminster to-day is without a store of any kind, without a newspaper and without food, save that which is being hurried over from here. Every industry save the big Royal City Planing Mills and the Cleve Canning Company, has been wiped out. Every merchant's office has been burned. Bankers, clothiers, hotel men, saw mill men, canners, merchants of all description, have nothing with which to do business. The insurance men must face a big loss.

An eye-witness gave a reporter a description of what he saw. He said: "The fire was first noticed at Brackman & Ker's wharf, on Front street. From there it spread down to the C. P. R. depot. It did not cross the street until that point was reached. From there it went up, taking in the other side of Front street, and also Columbia street, the chief business thoroughfare of the city. Block after block caught fire rapidly, and in a few minutes there was nothing left of what had been the business portion of New Westminster. From Columbia street it spread up the hill, and the great centre of the fire became a huge building built on piles in the gully bridged by Carnarvon street. There was a great space under this building filled with dry seasoned lumber. The air got in with the fire, and gave it great play. There was here a whirlwind of flames which belched forth destruction. From this point the fire spread around.

The English Cathedral was quickly attacked. The Baptist Church followed and Central Methodist Church also. All were destroyed. Just here, too, a large number of residences were situated. They all went up in smoke, and the inhabitants had to flee for their lives. The fire swept down Carnarvon street and quickly encompassed the big brick Court House and the wooden City Hall. Fortunately, there is a big open space here, and the flames were not able to leap far enough to take in the big Central School. Agnes, street, however, had got alight, and one side of Royal avenue, and all the houses there being completely burnt up. The wind was blowing furiously down the Fraser River towards its mouth. If it had been blowing the other way the whole of the Catholic Church buildings, the convent, hospital and other structures, would have been burned.

There is no water supply for the private use of the burned-out citizens. There was not a single butcher's baker's or provision shop that was not destroyed, and there was only one small hotel saved. The Columbian newspaper has not got a single line of type left. It had just got in a three years' supply of paper. Some of the burned out people retired in the early hours of the morning in the open in front of the schoolhouse. They covered themselves with blankets and lay down to sleep under the sky. Their sleep was the sleep of despair. All they had was lost to them.

SEVERAL WERE KILLED.

Five people are reported missing and two women are dying by being prematurely confined as they were being carried out of burning buildings. A Chinaman, Wing Fung, was found dead in a burning building with bags of gold gripped in his fingers. He died of fright. Three firemen were injured, two internally and they are not expected to live.

THE BUILDINGS BURNED.

The following list shows the names of the chief business blocks and public buildings destroyed, and where known, the approximate loss:

Starting at Front street, the buildings burned were: Market wharf; Brackman and Ker wharf, contents valued at $10,000; New Vancouver Coal Gas wharf, Canadian Pacific Navigation Company's wharf, Sinclair Canning Co., building and season's pack; Western Fisheries Company, with pack; J. A DISASTER IN ARIZONA.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., September 12. — The town of Jerome, Ariz., has been almost wiped out by fire. Three lives have been lost and immense damage done.

LIVES LOST IN PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., September 12.—By the explosion of forty gallons of gasoline in the cellar of a grocery store at 1440 South street on Sunday night, four, and possibly a dozen more, lives were lost. As an immediate consequence of the explosion, the building where it occurred and those adjoining it on either side, collapsed. Four bodies were recovered from the ruins and three identified as follows: Samuel Schattenstein, keeper of the grocery store; his 19-year-old son, Abraham; a ten-months child named Goldberg. The fourth body was that of a girl about 10 years old. How the explosion occurred is yet unknown. The front of No. 1440 was immediately blown out and this was followed by the collapse of that structure, and Nos. 1442, occupied by Morris Goldberg, furniture store, and 1446, Louis Sallonse's shoe store. The west wall of 1440, occupied by L. Wanger's clothing store, was blown out. All the buildings were of brick, three stories in height. In the confusion and excitement following the disaster it is impossible to secure anything like an accurate census of the occupants, but it is generally stated that the upper floors were crowded with families, huddled together in tenement fashion. Coming as it did at the supper hour, it is feared the loss of life was heavy. The list of injured will be long. They were taken to all the hospitals within a radius of a mile.

BAD FIRE AT LEVIS.

(Special to the Star.)

QUEBEC, September 12. — Fire broke out at Levis on Sunday morning in Turgeon's livery stable, on Commercial street. The building, which belongs to Mr. Couture, was destroyed. A large double two-story brick house, the property of Mr. J. Carrier, grain merchant, was also burned. Messrs. Carrier and Turgeon, who lived in the building, had to jump from second story windows to save their lives. Miss Carrier also leaped and fractured her arm. The premises of Mr. Couture, hotel-keeper, were also destroyed. Mr. Carrier had only about $3,000 insurance on property worth over $8,000. The total loss will be nearly $12,000.

NEW BRUNSWICK MYSTERY SOLVED.

(Special to the Star.)

BOSTON, Mass., September 12. — A mysterious disappearance that has been puzzling the Canadian police for a year has been solved through the assistance of the Boston Bureau of Criminal Investigation. Mrs. Samuel J. Mowatt, who disappeared so suddenly from her home at Oak Bray, near St. Stephens, New Brunswick, on September 10, 1897, and who was thought to have been murdered and thrown into a well, has been found alive in this city by a Canadian detective, Mr. Ring. She is living under her maiden name and says she prefers to reside in Boston, as her husband was in the habit of passing his winters in the woods and she was not properly cared for during his absence.

CRUEL SCHOOL TEACHERS.

HAMILTON, Ont., September 12. — Miss Mabel Alford and George Duncan, school teachers in the Greensville school, were committed for trial by Magistrate Jelfs on Saturday on a charge of excessively punishing a pupil named Alice Durand, last Wednesday. The evidence of the child's parents went to show that her back was marked black and blue, and other marks on her legs showed the effect of chastisement inflicted by the two teachers because she had not done her home work.

"Friendship lends importance to tidings that may seem trivial to a stranger. The Baron is my most intimate friend, therefore I ask of you to remember carefully and relate accurately what I have to send him. Tell him the silk merchant whom he accompanied to Treves is well, and now in Castle Thoron."

"I carry not news of silk merchants, but of Emperors," cried the monk, resentfully, for, despite his calling, even his humility was offended by the sudden descent from the highest to the lowest, in a country where rank was so greatly esteemed.

"Remember, Father, that the founder of our Holy Church was the son of a carpenter."

"He was the Son of God."

"Most true, but reputed to be what I say, and his Apostles were poor fishermen. Therefore it may well be that when you carry news of a silk merchant you are no less ignoble a messenger than when you carry news of an Emperor. Tell the Baron the silk merchant sends him greeting, and asks him to persevere in the augmenting of the army which the silk merchant hopes will, from its very strength and efficiency prove to be, not an engine of war, but an assurance of peace. To be thus effective, however, it must be undeniably stronger than any forces that may combine against it. Say that the West and the North have combined, which fact he probably already knows. The Baron is, therefore, not to interefere in any struggle that may be going on, but rather to keep a close watch upon it, and to have everything ready when a command is sent him. Have you given street heed to my message, good Father? Repeat it to me."

"Baron von Brunfels is to be made aware that the silk merchant who accompanied him to Treves is at present in Castle Thoron. The army is to be increased and made more efficient. The West and North have combined, which I take to mean, that Europe as it one against the Saracen, and that the Emperor's army is to be made stronger than the combination, so that when he gives the command, he will be at the head of a force superior to all others sent out, and may thus bring the war to an end without further blood being shed, through the mere terror of his name, supplemented by an army so redoubtable.

"I beg you to colour not your message with your own explanations but to attend more strictlyto the exact words I enunciate to you. Say that when further news of the Emperor comes to him, he is to send you again to Castle Thoron, and he may give you instructions that will be for my ear alone. You will, therefore, be careful, if you value the good opinion of the Baron, to keep strictly apart the message for me, and the general intelligence which you recite to the Archbishops. Say that the silk merchant is perfectly safe, and thinks it better to make no premature attempt to leave Thoron. The main thing at present is to get together as many troops as will outnumber two to one the forces of the West and the North. All this is not done in a day. Do you go back to the Archbishops?"

"No, my Lord. I intended to journey up the Moselle."

"Are you afoot?"

"The Baron von Brunfels, wishing me speed, gave me a horse, to which I am only now becoming accustomed. I left it at the village below in care of a soldier, it being my intention to travel to-night to the valley of the Brodenbach, and rest at the castle of Ehrenburg."

"Ehrenburg can wait for its news of the Emperor. Go, therefore, up the Brodenbach valley as was your first intention, but continue on past the castle until you come to the Frankfort Road. Rest then if you must, but know that the sooner you reach Frankfort, the better will you please the Baron."

Rodolph called to Steinmetz who again blindfolded the monk, and accompanied by Emperor and Captain, the Palmer was set once more outside the walls, and disappeared in the night down the hill towards Aiken.

CHAPTER XXX.

The Countess Tekla spent the greater portion of her time waiting upon her aunt, who, never having known a true friend in her life before, clung to the girl with pathetic insistence, unhappy if Tekla were out of her sight. The natural positions of the two seemed reversed; the elder woman leaning dependently on the younger, and looking to her for protection, and as a child looks at its mother. When Tekla was busy in the courtyard garden her aunt would sit on the balcony and watch every movement of the girl with a dumb, tender affection that was touching. The elder rarely spoke, and never smiled except when Tekla looked up at her with a smile of her pretty lips.

Rodolph often wished the aunt were not quite so much the shadow of the niece, but there was such love for each other between the two women that he never ventured to suggest to Tekla his wish that he might be permitted now and then to enjoy her companionship unshared. He worked with her in the garden, and often said that he expected to make horticulture his occupation when the seige was over, so expert had he become under the charming instruction of his fair teacher.

When winter intervened, and the spring came again Rodolph jokingly suggested that they should plant grain in stead of flowers, as there was still no sign that the Archbishops were becoming tired of their undertaking.

The second winter passed, and a second spring found the iving line around the castle still intact, thus Rodolph's former jest began to take on a grimmer meaning, for provisions were indeed running low, and the two years' supply which seemed at first almost inexhaustible was now coming to an end, and yet not a pound of grain or a gallon of wine had succeeded in getting through the cordon drawn by the stubborn Archbishops. Rodolph had counted on a quarrel between their two Lordships ere this, but there was no indication of dissension in the opposing camp. The bitter persistence of the seige he laid to the account of the Archbishop of Treves, and in this he was right. There was, however, one grain of consolation in its countenance; so long as the armies of the Archbishops were circulating Thoron, they were out of mischief elsewhere, and the rest of Germany was at peace. Rodolph could not help thinking that if it came to a fight the troops would hardly be as warlike as they were two years before, when the seige began, for the sound of revelry came up each night from the camp, and the idle men were industriously drinking their thousand gallons of wine each day, which tended more to hilarity than discipline. Nevertheless, they held tightly to the castle, and there was no relaxing of the lines that surrounded it. On several occasions attempts were made to get through by one or the other belonging to the garrison, but in each case without success. The deserters were turned back, the officers even refusing to make prisoners of them.

Meanwhile the Emperor had periodically news from the capital, and was compelled also to listen to long-winded mythical accounts of his own bravery in the East, which did much credit to the fictional power of the romancer in Frankfort, who put the stories together. When at last it was reported to him that the army centred in Frankfort, and other points within easy call of the capital, was fit to cope successfully against all opposition, the Emperor resolved to quit the castle by stealth if possible, and if that proved impracticable, to send word when next the monk came, telling Brunfels to the lead the army in person up the Moselle and raise the seige of Thoron. His hope, however, was to get away from teh castle and himself give the command to move on the beseiging Archbishops.

But another matter occupied his mind, almost to the exclusion of the great affairs of state, which should perhaps have had his undivided attention, because of their paramount importance. This interest held him a willing prisoner in Thoron, and it may be some excuse for his inaction—for his reluctance in showing himself a real and not a nominal Emperor, that he was less than thirty years of age. Before he quitted Thoron, therefore, he desired to know whether the Countess Tekla regarded him as a fear friend or a dearer lover. It was his right to come at the head of his army and demand the girl, for even if she had, when sorely pressed, rebelled against being bestowed upon an equal in rank and wealth in the person of Count Bertrich, yet whatever her personal inclinations might be, she could not deny the suit of the Emperor, were he as ugly as Caliban, as old as Methuselah, and as wicked as Beelzebub. Such a refusal would have been unheard of under the feudal law, and would certainly not be allowed by the upholders of it. But Rodolph was in the mind to keep all prerogatives of his position for other purposes, and trust to his qualities in pursuing the course Cupid had marked out for him. If the girl cared nothing for him as Lord Rodolph, he would not ask her to care for him as the Emperor.

The moon was shining brightly over the Moselle valley when he determined to escape from the castle, and as he had resolved to take the archer and Conrad with him, not only as a bodyguard, but in order that there might be less demand on the almost empty larder of the castle, he had to wait for a night when the moon was obscured, or until it grew older and rose later. It would be impossible for three of them to get away when night was as light as day, indeed experience had proved the futility of even one attempting to quit the stronghold, but the Emperor was imbud with the belief that he would succeed where others had failed.

The archer had formulated a plan for their escape in conjunction with his friend Roger Kent, who was now on guard at a portion of the line in the Thaurand valley after midnight, and although Surrey had as yet no chance of consulting his friend he surmised there would be little difficulty in persuading him to turn a blind eye and a deaf ear up the valley for a few minutes to accommodate an old friend.

Things were at this pass, when, one afternoon, Rodolph was with the Countess Tekla in the garden while the girl's aunt sat on the balcony watching them.

"My lady," said Rodolph in a low voice I have serious complaint to make of you."

"Of me, My Lord," asked the girl in surprise, glancing swiftly up at him.

"Yes, Countess. While, we have each, even to Count Henrich himself, taken turns in keeping watch and guard on the battlements, you have never shouldered pike and marched up and down the promenade. Yet is there reason for that. Your doing so would attract, rather than repel the enemy, so perhaps we were wise in allowing you to work in the garden instead. Still, you should at least encourage those on guard, and as this promises to be a beautiful night, and as I pace the battlements until the stroke of twelve, I beg of you after our evening meal to come upon the battlements and bear me company for an hour or so. I make it a question of duty, if I cannot persuade you else."

"I am not one to shirk from duty," said the Countess rightly, "so upon that basis will I assist you to repel the invader. Besides, I wish to see the valley bathed in the moonlight, and have long desired to venture on the battlements, and would have done so before now had not my uncle forbidden it. But that was long since, and perhaps he apprehends no danger at this time."

"The battlements are as safe as the quietest streets in Frankfort, and I assure you the valley in the moonlight is most lovely and well worth gazing upon. I may then look forward to your coming?"

"Yes, unless my uncle or aunt object."

"They will not object, especially if you do not ask their permission, which I beg you not to do. Just make the venture, and I will guarantee that no one will have aught to say against your presence on the battlements."

And thus it came about that the Countess Tekla, with a fleecy white scarf thrown over her fair head, reaching down to her waist, looking as if it had been woven from the moonbeams themselves, walked on the battlements that night with Lord Rodolph of Hapsburg, and then was the time, had the Archbishops been looking for a favourable opportunity to attack, to charge upon the fortress, never since the world began was watch so carelessly kept in ancient stronghold, as when these two young people guarded grim Castle Thoron.

"This remirds me of another night," said Rodolph. "The moon shown as brightly, and the river flowed on as peacefully under its mild radiance. Does your recollection join with mine?"

"Yes. It was the night we left Treves.

"Together."

Tekla looked up at him, then gently murmured a repetition of the word.

LOUIS PAYER'S SUICIDE.

Took His Life in Ste. Cunegonde Police Station.

A LETTER FROM HIS WIFE THE SUPPOSED CAUSE.

Believing that his wife had deserted him and his little family of five, and ashamed that his boys should see him in a drunken condition, Louis Payer, of St. Henri, committed suicide in the Ste. Cunegonde police cells on Saturday afternoon with his pocket handkerchief.

About ten o'clock in the morning he was found lying on Notre Dame street, near Levis, by Constables Lagasse and De Belleufuile, and removed to the station, where he was locked up. The rash act must have been committed without noise, for Sub-Chief Chabot, who was sitting in the office up-stairs, did not hear a sound. Payer tied the handkerchief to the small grating through which the food is given to the prisoners, and, placing his back against the door, adjusted the handkerchief around his neck and lifted his feet from the floor. Death was instantaneous, the thickness of the opening inside of which he had securely tied his head breaking the neck at once.

At two o'clock in the afternoon he asked to be released, and the application was taken to Chief Trembly, but he was then not fit to be allowed out. At half-past two the Chief went out and left orders that liberty be given him when sober. Shortly after Payer commenced to sing, followed by a crying spell, and seemed terribly down-hearted that he should be missed by his three boys when they came home from work. Not many minutes after some one passed the cells, and noticing the white knot of the handkerchief on the bars, alarmed Sub-Chief Chabot. Opening the door the body came with it, and although he was immediately cut down life was extinct. Afterwards the body was conveyed to the morgue.

Payer is a man about forty years of age. Some months ago he came to Montreal from Fall River, Mass., where he was working as a carpenter with the firm of Kelly & Davis, and procured work in Hochelaga at his trade, but for two months has lived at 105 Duvernais stre t, St. Henri, with his three boys. He was working at the new Fire Station, St. Henri, for two weeks. Payer's life lately has been a hard one. Leaving the States on account of scarcity of work during the war, he got his three boys here, and had written for his wife to follow on Wednesday of last week. She wrote saying she had left him. Two little girls who were with her she had placed in the Protestant home there, where he could find them if he wished. The letter concluded by mentioning she had something better, and would now give up her occupation as waitress in the hotel.

This completely upset him and drawing the trifling earnings of the three little boys, Dorail, Louis and Philip, the youngest of whom is only 13, the father commenced to drink, and in a few hours had ended his life in the cells.

The boys work as spinners at the Merchants' Cotton Mills, St. Henri, and had about twelve dollars coming to them. Chief Tremblay has communicated with the police of Fall River to locate Mrs. Payer, but in the meantime the children are without protection. Coroner McMahon held an inquest on the body at the morgue this morning.

JAMES M'KENNA KILLED.

Fell While Attempting to Board a Train at Morrisburg.

HE WAS A WELL KNOWN G. T. R. FIREMAN.

James McKenna, a young man about 28 years of age, a fireman on the G.T.R., living at Point St. Charles, was instantly killed yesterday morning by an accident on the line at Morrisburg. The morning train was just moving out of the station when McKenna, who went to board the engine, lost his hat. After recovering it he attempted to board the rear end of the baggage car, but missed the step and was thrown against the car wheel. Death resulted almost instantly from a broken neck.

Beyond a bad cut on the side of the head, the body was not mangled, as the wheels did not pass over him.

The remains were brought in to this city on the 6 o'clock train and removed to his home.

The deceased at the time was travelling to Toronto as a delegate to the Firemen's Convention. He was accompanied by his wife. One of the sad aspects of the accident was that Mr. McKenna had been married only two months.

TEMPERANCE MASS MEETING.

A temperance mass meeting was held in Centenary Methodist Church last night, which judging from the enthusiasm displayed and the number in attendance augurs well for the plebiscite campaign in Point St. Charles. Brief addresses were delivered by the Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of the Baptist Church; the Rev. D. J. Hamilton of the Congregational Church, and the Rev. W. R. Cruikshank of St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church, all of whom were listened to with the closest attention. The action of certain ministers of the Gospel in opposing the issue was strongly condemned. The chair was occupied by the Rev. Melvin Taylor, pastor of Centenary Church. This evening an organization meeting will be held in the same church when committees to undertake the plebiscite campaign work in the point will be appointed. Another mass meeting will be held in Unity Hall on Friday evening and again next Sunday evening in the Congregational Church. Energetic work is being done in Victoria town by the committees from Victoria Presbyterian Church to-morrow, Tuesday evening, the Rev. W. D Reid, M.A., B.D., will address a temperance meeting in Victoria town.

REVENUE OFFICER'S WORK.

The Inland Revenue Officers of Montreal, Messrs. Brabant and Cinq Mars, during the course of the past two months have made a number of important seizures, comprising tobacco, cigars, contraband cigarettes, etc., in the neighbourhood of Montreal, namely, at St. Johns and the villages north of this city. Several illicit stills have been confiscated and destroyed. The same officers recently seized in a private office in Mile End two machines for the manufacture of whisky as well as many gallons of alcohol. Forty barrels of liquor were found on the premises in the process of fermentation. About the same time an important seizure of a quantity of contraband cigarettes was effected in a house on St. Denis street.

Collector Simpson, of Sherbrooke, has also been making extensive seizures in his district, and a number of cases will be heard in St. John's Court this week.

THE FASHIONS.

(By the Fashion Authority of the New York Evening Post.)

"Wilhelmina" jackets, hats, ties, capes, and costumes are now appearing.

Black gowns of lovely transparent or semi-diaphanous weaves over silk or satin, and in heavier materials for day wear, will take high place in the ranks of fashion for the early seasons before us.

Among the silks now extensively used by Felix, Welle, Doucet, Raudnitz, etc., are the handsome muscovites, faille de Paris, Victoria jaspe, peau de Diane, peau de soie, all the taffetas, in both plain and fancy weaves, and soft liberty satins and foulards in beautiful autumn colourings and designs.

The handsome double faced cashmeres will find increasing favour and admiration as the new weaves and rich autumn colourings are brought out. This material is quite heavy enough for winter wear, which single cashmere is not, unless well lined and worn above warm underskirts. The elegant Venetians and faced cloths made up into very stylish tailor costumes, but unless of best quality, the surface guaranteed to have been sponged, rain and other spots show aggressively, as they do, in fact, on most dressed materials.

In the face of all the continued topheaviness of fashionable headwear, it is a relief, especially in these torrid days of September, to come upon a few stores and importing houses showing advance autumn and winter styles—where the prevailing spirit allows you among the bewildering exhibit of forthcoming and present modes—a few simple, pretty styles in toque, turban and English walking hat models, which are entirely up to date in contour, trimming and decoration, and for those who seek modes that are in no way conspicuous.

The princess shape will be much used, both for dressy days and evening toilets, this autumn, and nothing could be more perfect than the fit and outline of some of the newest models. The style of the gown can be varied once and again to suit different forms, materials, and requirements. On some of the youthful models the princesse effect appears only at the back, the front showing pretty guimpe jacket or blouse effects, fitted on straps, fancy single, double or triple revers, and vests and bretelles of lace and velvet. Notwithstanding the vogue of the revived three-quarter walking coats with fronts curving back towards the hips, or made in double-breasted box styles, some of the smartest models in both French and English tailor costumes show the bodice portion cut in round-waisted style, with a straight belt or pointed girdle as a finish, sometimes with, and again without, short added basques. Every sort of fanciful device, both novel and familiar, is resorted to in the makeing of youthful-looking waists. They are slashed, with glimpses of glowing colours showing between the slashings; they are in double-breasted form, with handsome military buttons for trimming and very fine gold cording at the edges, or they are openfronted to the belt, with every sort of rich or dainty fabric introduced as a vest—plum-red being a very favourite colour.

NO TIME TO TRIFLE.

Diarrhœa and Dysentery are too dangerous to experiment with Untried Remedies.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has over 40 years of cures to its credit and never fails in the severest cases.

Diseases, such as Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Inflammation of the Bowels, Cramps, Colic and Summer Complaint are recognized by every one as exceedingly dangerous.

When you or any member of the family is attacked, you want a remedy you are positive will cure. These diseases are too serious, too rapidly fatal, if neglected, for experimenting with cheap and dangerous imitations of the genuine Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. You want something that will, without fail, touch the spot and check the advance of the disease promptly.

Mrs. Middleton Wray writes from Schomberg, Ont., as follows: "Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the best remedy I know of for Summer Complaint and Bowel Diseases of children. I have used it in our family for the past seventeen years, and never had occasion to call in the doctor for these troubles, as the Fowler's Extract always worked like a charm."

Refuse all imitations, many of which are highly dangerous. 214 1

AUSTRIA'S EMPRESS MURDERED.

The French detective, who was present at the meeting in disguise, warned the French Foreign office, which communicated its information to the Italian Government. As a result King Humbert was carefully guarded, as was also M. Faure.

About a week ago a meeting of the same band was held at Zurich, and those who had been selected at the previous meeting were accused of cowardice.

Thereupon Luccossi said: "I will show that I am no coward. I will kill someone."

He then left Zurich proceeding to Basle.

THE AWFUL DEED.

Enormity of the Crime Comes Home Close to Europe.

LONDON, September 12. — The terrible news of the assassination of Empress Elizabeth has thrilled Europe from end to end, and everywhere but one question is asked, how can society protect itself against anarchism?

Special despatches from every capital describe the effect produced and quote newspaper comments that palpitate with horror and indignation that a defenceless woman who shunned politics and did nothing but good should be selected at the moment of the approaching jubilee for the assassin's knife.

Perhaps the most poignant grief is displayed in Italy, because the public mind there is touched with shame that so many political crimes have been committed by Italians. King Humbert, with his own hands, wrote a telegram expressing the deepest sympathy. The Pope wired Emperor Francis Joseph as follows:

"May God give the strength of resignation to our dear son Joseph, who in so short a period has been tried by so many misfortunes. We pray the God may bestow upon the House of Hapsburg that peace and tranquility which it merits by reason of its sentiments toward the Church and the Papacy."

LONDON ANARCHISTS UNEASY.

The murder of the Empress of Austria has caused much excitement in Anarchist circles in London. Chief Inspector Melville had recently redoubled the vigilance of his detectives in London, in anticipation of a possible plot in connection with the enthronement of the Queen of Holland. All suspicious arrivals from the continent were closely watched, as dangerous Anarchists in London were kept under surveillance.

Nevertheless, there was no suspicion in Scotland Yard that the assassination of the Empress of Austria was plotted in London. If the Detective Department here be rightly informed, the assassin's name is Luchine. A relative of Luchine, prominent in advanced sections of the Anarchist propaganda, left London a fortnight ago, crossing to Ostend.

It has been suggested that, in consequence of the precautions taken for the protection of the Queen of Holland being so complete that no chance of success presented itself, the Anarchists may have turned their attention to the Empress of Austria, as, in view of the intended jubilee celebration in Vienna, the Austrian Emperor and Empress had been specially marked out as possible victims of Anarchist vengeance.

A reporter visited the principal Anarchist clubs in the West End of London. Their members were clearly in a frightened condition of mind, being aware that they were subjects of close attention on the part of the detectives, who are maintaining an incessant watch on known dangerous Anarchists on the possibility that some of them may be wanted in connection with the plot against the Empress of Austria. It is fully expected in Anarchist quarters that the assassination will be made ground for a strong appeal from European governments to England and the United States to take joint international action against Anarchists. There is unquestionably a wave of feeling in that direction in England already, so that the Anarchists who are quaking lest their last European refuge be closed to them.

THE INQUEST.

Emperor Francis Joseph telegraphed the Austrian minister, Count Von Kuefestein, to consent to a post mortem examination. Dr. Riverdin, Dr. Megevaus, and M. Golday, mayor of Geneva, were entrusted with the examination of the wound on the half of the judicial authorities, and accordingly proceeded to the Hotel Beauvage where they carried out their instructions. At the close of the examination they announced that death was caused by internal hemorrhage from a triangular incised wound. They decided that the injury was of a character to leave no grounds for the theory which had been advanced, that the Empress, who suffered from weakness of the heart, might have succumbed simply to the shock of the blow.

PRESS OPINIONS.

New York Papers Deplore the Assassination of the Austrian Empress.

NEW YORK, September 12. The Herald commenting on the assassination of the Empress of Austria says: "No murder more foul was ever committed than that which destroyed the life of the Austrian Empress. Here was a beautiful, accomplished and amiable lady who had never in her life wrought a single wrong to any of her subjects and who had preferred to keep aloof from politics and spend her life among the horses and dogs she loved so well and who loved her so well in return. If there were life or reason in the most bitter anarchist's plea, against misery or potentiality it would still have spared this poor lady's innocent methods of pleasure in field sports and her generous regard for people whom fate had brought under her dependence."

The Tribune makes a reference to the awful crime in the following words: "Anarchy once more declares itself the creed of hell. More than any denunciation ever uttered against it by its adversaries, more than the darkest picture of it ever drawn by those who hate it and who fear its sway, its own deeds pillory it forever as an invention of the devil and as a thing for which there can be no forgiveness, with which there can be no parley, and to which there can be given no quarter. Of these deeds, hideous as they have often been, the latest, which we record this morning with emotions of sorrow and detestation, is easily the worst* * * *It is idle, and worse than idle, to consider such a deed as the act of a sincere but misguided reformer, or as having its inception in any aspiration for the betterment of the conditions of the human race. Let us give all due weight to the woes of the oppressed in lands less free than ours, to the long legacy of woe and of hatred against the oppressor. Let us remember the ignorance of many of the people, the elemental nature of their passions, the despair that must now and then settle upon them when they find themselves helpless save to strike blindly in the dark. Let us make all possible allowance for these things and for everything that may be named or dreamed of in extenuation of violent methods of redress for wrongs. Yet there remains the fact that such a deed as this is inconveivable save as the emanation of a mind diseased with malignant hatred of the human race. It is not the deed of a suffering man nor of a tortured brute striking out recklessly with tooth and claw. It is the act of a rattlesnake endowed with the gratuitous malice of a fiend. The creature who could plan that crime must of necessity hate all mankind. The hand that could do it was consciously turned against the human race.

The World has the following comment:—"The crime is identical in character and enormity with the assassination of President Carnot of France and Premier Canovas of Spain. It makes it easier to believe that an attempt has been made within a few days on the life of the young queen of Holland, and another on the life of the Czar of Russia. Against the blind fury of anarchism personal character is no protection No good can come from crime, and no good can come from the murder of the Empress of Austria. If it has any effect at all, it will merely serve to deepen the gulf between absolute power and absolute anarchy, and render a bad situation worse instead of better."

The Times says: "The infra-human character of the assassin of Empress Elizabeth is at once demonstrated by the fact that his victim was a woman. Even in the disordered minds of Anarchists and assassins the universal sentiment that prompts male humanity to exempt woman from the consequences of ferocious passion has commonly held sway. It is futile to describe this assassin as an Anarchist. Consorting with the Anarchists and other criminals of Paris and brooding over their detrines of violence may have unhinged his mind. But when he murdered the Austrian Empress he was merely a wild beast. No political theories, no desire to reform society and lift up the humbe could have prompted a fanatic or calculation and plan to assassin te the good and perfectly harmless woman who bore the title of Empress of Austria. No crowned head in Europe seemed more secure from the assassin's blow. No consort sharing the throne with a reigning sovereign was further removed from participation in acts of royal authority displeasing to the discontented and dangerous persons who call themselves Anarchists. It was a crime without possible motive or cause."

The Journal refers to the assassination as follows: "If Francis Joseph of Austria had been a Greek of the heroic age, he would have come down to us in tragedy with Ajax and Edipus as the victim of remorseless fate. No sovereign of modern times has been crushed under such a succession of family horrors. Brother, son and wife have been snatched from him by violence —one by military execution, one by shameful suicide, and one by assassination. Who could wonder if this final blow should crush the hitherto indomitable spirit of the weary old Emperor, who has risen above every former calamity for the sake of the people who look up to him alone and of the distracted country which only he seems able to hold together? And who can tell what calamities would be let loose upon Europe if that strong pillar of peace and order should fall?

THE MURDERED QUEEN.

Her Life Has Been Full of Dramatic Incidents and Strange Experiences.

The Empress Elizabeth Amalie Eugenie, of Austria, wife of Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria, and King of Hungary, was born December 24, 1837, at Schloss Passenhofer, on the banks of Lake Traun. Her father was the Duke Maximilian Joseph, of Bavaria. Her mother was a cousin of the Mad King Louis, of Bavaria. She was the youngest of five daughters, the eldest of whom became the Princess of Thurn and Taxis, the second the Queen of Naples, the third, the Countess de Trani, marrying a brother of the King of Naples, and the fourth the Duchess d'Alencon, whose sad death in the Charity Bazaar, in Paris, is still fresh in the public mind.

The Duke Maximilian was a man of simple tastes and frugal habits, as became a German princeling of comparatively limited means, who dressed himself in coarse cloth and his daughters in woollen or cambric, according to the season.

Princess Elizabeth was the Cinderella of the family, a merry little hoyden, who amused herself by riding around the country, associating with peasants and behaving generally as a young woman who, though a princess, aspired to nothing beyond her simple, happy country existence. Then when she was sixteen years of age Prince Charming came riding into her life. The story of her wooing and marriage has been told in various ways.

THE EMPEROR'S ROMANCE.

All agree, however, that when the young Emperor Francis Joseph, clad in a hunting suit, came knocking at the doors of Schloss Passenhofer, it was to make the acquaintance of her elder sister, Princess Helen, who had been destined as his bride. He was cordially received. One story says that the four eldest Princesses only were at home when he arrived. As he sat chatting with them in the afternoon under the trees of the lawn the visitor discovered the slim form of a girl of exquisite and delicate beauty, dressed in white, and followed by an enormous dog.

She advanced in the halo of the setting sun like an apparition, her magnificent hair streaming on her shoulders. It was the Princess Elizabeth. The heart of the Emperor, which had remained unmoved by the statelier and maturer beauty of Princess Helen, was captured at once. A few days later, at a ball in Ischl, he passed the whole evening with her, and the preference so avowed was sealed by a formal offer for her hand.

Another version is that one day during the Emperor's visit at the castle the little mad-cap was, as usual, amusing herself by sliding down the banisters, just as he came in from a hunt. As he started to ascend the stairs she lost her balance, and incontinently tumbled not only into the arms but into the affections of her future husband.

But though the Emperor had failed to be impressed by his destined bride, she, on her part, had proved more susceptible. Proud, ambitious and deeply in love with her faithless fiance, it was a terrible blow to her to see the Cinderella of the family carry off the man she loved and the crown which she would have been delighted to wear. However, her good sense induced her to keep her troubles and sorrows to herself and to put the best face possible on the matter. Not only during the marriage festivities, but also throughout her subsequent life, she acted to perfection the part of a loving and sympathizing sister, and appeared, to the public at any rate, to rejoice at Elizabeth's good fortune.

CELEBRATION OF THE MARRIAGE.

The marriage was celebrated on April 24, 1854. Her beauty and elegance captured her new subjects, but failed to win the approval of her husband's family or his court. Her own mother-in-law, the Dowager Empress Sophia, headed the cabal against her, angry, it is said, at her continued violations of the etiquette of the palace at Vienna, whose prim and starched formality little suited the eager and high spirited young Bavarian. The great families of Austria allowed her to see that they did not look upon a mere scion of the collateral branch of the royal house of Bavaria as a fitting consort for their Emperor.

The Empress never forgave the slights to which she was subjected in those early days.

When later on she had triumphed over her enemies and became recognized as one of the greatest of the social lights of royalty, she paid back with interest every slight that had been heaped upon her. Her keenest delight was won by the gradual emancipation of her husband from the influence of his mother, so that even before her death, in 1872, he had become, in fact as well as in name the ruler of Austria.

WAS A GREAT HUNTRESS.

Nevertheless the Empress Elizabeth had contracted a great dislike for Vienna and the Viennese, which she never shook off. Her Hungarian subjects were more to her taste. She was fond of travel and of horses, and took especial delight in her long visits to England and to Ireland, where she spent a large part of her time in hunting to hounds. She practically renounced the throne for the side saddle, and emancipated herself from all the irksome duties of her station.

It was only natural that her first acquaintance with the Irish people should carry her back to the days of her girlhood, with the unconventionality of her early life pointed and accentuated by the customs of the Emerald Isle.

Here her passion for riding to the hounds found ready sympathy and enthusiastic support. In Ireland she forgot she was an Empress, and was led by the idolatrous admiration of which she was the object to imagine herself the heroine of some popular epic poem. All Her Majesty wondered at was that Ireland should have been ever placed under a ban, and that the Irish accent, which to her cultivated ear sounded musical, should be a thing to be ashamed of in London drawing rooms of anywhere else. According to a member of the Imperial household, a feature of the hunting field which immensely amused and pleased the Empress were the "footmen. These riders on Shanks' mare have more gallantry than the butcher, the baker and the tinman of the English village, and were not withheld by a consciousness of humble position from expressing their admiration of the wondrous seat on horseback, boldness, grace and beauty of the Imperial stranger among them. When Her Majesty's cheeks were flushed, with exercise and excitement it would never have entered into the head of any one unacquainted with the story of her life that she was a grandmother.

Compliments spontaneously paid, in which there was a good deal of hyperbole, rendered imperial Elizabeth oblivious of some old heart-sores and set her laughing until her sides were sore. In all parts of the "United Kingdom the "footmen" enter into the fun and excitement of the hunt, but more so in Ireland than elsewhere. Established Her Majesty when those wedded trian sportsmen waxed enthusiastic about her fearless riding and clever mode of taking an ugly ditch or a stiff fence. She knew English well enough to understand the jests they risked at the expense of the over-prudent hunters, or those unfortunate who easily part company with their horses. The Empress "never experienced more delightful sensations," said an Austrian courtier to me, "than in riding after Hibernian foxes." Nor did the beggars themselves strike the Imperial lady as being a blot upon the Green Isle. Empress Elizabeth dropped a coin one day into the hands of a beggar woman. The mendicant, with a prompt tongue, thus acknowledged her obligation:—"I will pray the Lord every day I rise out of my bed that he may preserve your ladyship's honour your lovely head of hair, and the light of heaven may always shine, as now, out of your ladyship's soft eyes."

Vienna appeared like a prison to her. She was always glad to leave it. Her absence extended over three-fourths of the year.

But a painful nervous complaint finally compelled her to renounce her favourite amusement. Then came the various sorrows that shattered her life and drove her into seclusion.

DOMESTIC AFFLICTIONS.

Political catastrophes were followed by domestic afflictions, which culminated in the suicide or assassination of her favourite son, the Archduke Rudolph. After that fatal event she aged rapidly and withdrew more and more into seclusion.

It was even said that she had become insane. Certainly she was kept under surveillance. She was not crossed or interfered with. Her whims were not noticed seriously, although they were sometimes very expensive, and she did practically as she pleased. Nevertheless she was carefully and lovingly watched and guarded.

Her favourite winter residence for many years past was the villa which she built herself on the Island of Corfu. This she named Achilleion, after Achilles, "the son of his mother's sufferings," in evident commemoration of her own bereavement.

Her Majesty's favourite reading consisted of the poems of Christopoulos and Valaurides, many of which she knew by heart. Then she turned to the Odyssey, which she read from cover to cover. Heine, among the Germans, and Shakespeare, among the English, were, however, her favourite authors.

Every morning, winter and summer, the Empress would take a cold bath. Breakfast was served at nine o'clock. It consisted of two meats, with green vegetables, tea, with a large assortment of small cakes, fancy pastry and fruit.

She then ate nothing until four o'clock, when dinner was served, consisting of soup, two meats, vegetables of the season, and pastry.

She was especially fond of a soup prepared for her by her chef, Tremel. Two or three pounds of tenderloin steak were slightly fried or broiled, so as to leave them very rare. They were taken up to Her Majesty's ante-chamber, slashed with a sharp knife by the cook on duty and put into a silver handpress.

The lever was turned and the juice of the steak pressed out and caught in a cup of medium size. Another specialty of the Empress was a drink of cognac mosseux—a special effervescent cognac, made from the choicest old vintage and specially treated.

She has had three children, two daughters and a son; the unfortunate Crown Prince Rudolph, born in 1857; the Archduchess Louise Marie, born at Laxenbourg, July, 1856, and who married at Vienna, in April, 1873, Leopold, Prince of Bavaria; and the Archduchess Marie Valerie, born April 22, 1868, married at Ischal, in 1890, to the Archduke of Austria and Tuscany. The Empress has been one of the royal recipients of the Golden Rose from the Pope.

Her cruel taking-off will be a terrible addition to the crushing load of anxiety and sorrow which Providence has laid upon the shoulders of Franz Joseph, whose life has been one long record of misfortune and trial, borne with heroic fortitude. It is a calamity that will be felt all the more severely by him, coming as it does, at a time when he is harassed by political difficulties of the most delicate and dangerous character.

EMPEROR'S SAD JUBILEE.

Culmination of the Sorrows of Francis Joseph During His Reign.

The year 1898 was marked in Vienna from the beginning of the summer by great fetes and an exposition in honour of the jubilee or fiftieth year of the reign of Francis Joseph, the unhappy husband of the murdered Empress. The official jubilee was arranged to take place in the beautiful Austrian capital next December. Doubtless the sad fate of the Empress Elizabeth will put an end to the programme, which was thus noted in the press in June last:

"The official jubilee will take place early in December, and is being arranged by the Archduke Franz Ferdinand. At present the programme includes the reception of royal guests or their representatives, and deputations from foreign and home armies. There will be pageants and a theatre pare performance at the Royal Opera House. Kaiser Wilhelm, King Albert of Saxony and the Grand Duke of Hesse will attend personally, and it is expected that many German princes will also come.

"The Prince of Wales will represent the Queen, and the Crown Prince Victor Emanuel the King of Italy. It is not yet settled if the Czar of Russia will send a representative in the person of a Grand Duke or be present himself. As to Spain whether the Queen Regent comes to Vienna for the festivities or sends some one in her stead depend on the course the war takes."

MURDERED MONARCHS.

The late Shah of Persia was the eighteenth sovereign or head of a State assassinated in this century.

It was the Emperor Paul, murdered in 1801 by Palace conspirators, who led off. Next came the Sultan Selim in 1808. There was then a long interval, extending to 1831, when Capodistrias, President of the Provisional Government of Greece, was shot at, and then despatched by a blow from a yataghan at Nauplia. At the end of another interval, extending to 1854, the Duke of Parma was assassinated.

The turn of Transatlantic Presidents began with the President of Hayti in 1869. The South American series included Colonel Balta, President of Peru, in 1872; Moreno, President of Ecuador, in the same year; and his successor, Gutierez, in 1873. President Lincoln was the first North American President to be assassinated. Abdul Aziz was bled to death in a warm bath in 1874; President Garfield was shot in 1880; and Alexander I. blown up in 1881. Carnot was murdered in the midst of civic festivity at Lyons. The Queen of Corea was the last to be added to the black list.

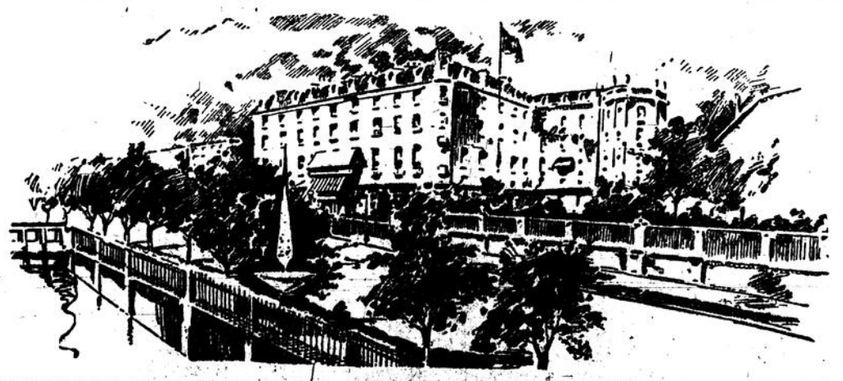

Four Deys of Algiers were murdered in this century. The executed monarchs were Murat, the Iturbide, and Maximilian of Austria, each and all of whom tempted fate. The king most often and most seriously shot at was Louis Philippe, who somehow was never hurt by his would-be assassins. The most desperate attempt was by Fieschi, the Corsican, who operated with an infernal machine. He was once fired at at such close quarters that the flash of the pistol set fire to the bonnet of Queen Marie Amelie, who sat beside him in a carriage. Only one serious attempt was made to assassinate the first Napoleon; it was with an infernal machine. The second Napoleon had two narrow escapes. One was when the Orsini bombs exploded round his carriage, and the other was in the Bois de Boulogne, when a ball meant for his guest, Alexander I., whizzed by his ear and shot his aide-de-camp's horse.

And now comes the poor Queen of Austria, whose fate the world mourns to-day.

Special Notice.

It is the Art Ideal of the World.

When people are influenced in the selection of a piano by price alone, the question of choice becomes a complex one owing to the multiplicity of cheap, showy instruments that crowd the market. When, however, people have cultivation and desire merit of a high order, then the choice narrows down to a few pianos. When the customer desires the best and highest grade piano produced then his mind instinctively turns to one piano—known wherever civilization is known—as the standard and ideal piano of the world. We feel we need not even name this piano. The thoughts of nine out of ten who read this paper will instinctively name it for us. We will only say that there is now in the city of Montreal the largest and choicest selection of these truly beautiful pianos ever imported into Canada.

The choice embraces rare Mahogany, Walnut and Ebonized cases. These pianos can be seen, and, if you wish, purchased in the wareroomsof the Lindsay-Nordheimer Co., 2366 St. Catherine street.

Montrealers returning from the Toronto Exhibition are unanimous that the display of Morris Upright Pianos, for which W. H. Leach, 49 Metcalfe street, is the Montreal representative, was unsurpassed.
