World News In Brief

London, April 25.—(Reuters)—"Big Bill" Campbell, 57, one of Britain's most popular stage and radio stars who came from Canada 20 years ago, died here today from a heart ailment.

Campbell made his name with a "wild west" show set in a cowboys' bunkhouse. The show was broadcast for many years. He was also a successful racehorse owner.

His wife, Peggy Bailey, who sang in his "Rocky Mountain Rhythm" show, and his children, live in Dublin, Ireland.

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—Senator Blair Moody (Dem.-Mich.) yesterday asked for a Senate investigation of government censorship and President Truman's controversial security order on public information. Moody, a Washington newspaper man until he was appointed Senator last year, introduced a resolution proposing appointment by the government operations committee of an advisory council of five to seven Washington newspaper and radio correspondents.

Hull, Que., April 25.—(AP)—Maj.-Gen. F. P. Worthington, federal civil defence co-ordinator for Canada, said yesterday Canada would suffer more heavily than the United States in a war involving the North American continent.

He spoke at the fourth day of a civil defence conference where representatives of Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom are mapping a defence plan.

Enemy air attacks would try to put out of action Canada's aircraft, steel and other heavy industry. Bombers prevented by defence measures from penetrating to U.S. targets would unload their bombs on Canadian cities.

Ottawa, April 25.—(AP)—The government hopes to find an early market for pork that has been frozen as Wildshire sides. Agriculture Minister Gardiner said yesterday in the Commons.

He was replying to questions from Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) and John Clark (PC—Brant-Wentworth).

Mr. Gardiner said that surplus pork being bought by the government is being canned and frozen as Wildshire sides.

Menton, France, April 25.—(AP)—Four persons were killed and 10 others were missing today after a landslide crushed 20 houses in this French Riviera city near the Italian border.

In addition, 13 persons were injured, three of them severely. The houses were destroyed last night from their foundations by flooded streams.

Ottawa, April 25.—(AP)—Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche 63-year-old native of Concordia, Kas., has been appointed Canadian ambassador to Argentina, the external affairs department announced last night.

He succeeds J. D. Kearney, chief commissioner of the Board of Transport Commissioners.

Maj.-Gen. LaFleche came to Canada when a child and was educated at Sorel, Que., and Montreal. He began a diplomatic career in 1945, being appointed Canada's first ambassador to Greece. In 1949 he was transferred to Australia as high commissioner for Canada. He returned home in 1951 on sick leave.

Queen Juliana Continues Surprise Visits To Farms

Hamilton, April 25.—(AP)—A brilliant spring sunshine. Queen Juliana of the Netherlands took off today to visit Dutch settlers on dairy farms in eastern Ontario.

The Queen said she hoped to surprise her countrymen who have found new homes in Canada. She hoped the immigrants she planned to visit would make no preparations to receive her but would continue at their jobs when she made her appearance.

This is what happened. Many of the 300 farmers, cannery workers and nurserymen she visited were caught by surprise. Others had heard through the grapevine that the Queen was coming and turned out in their Sunday finery.

Federal Court Hears Steel Arguments

By ROWLAND EVANS, JR.
Washington, April 25.—(AP)—The steel industry, fighting what it calls President Truman's "wholly illegal and wholly unconstitutional" seizure order, returns to federal court today in quest of an order forbidding any government-imposed wage boost for steelworkers.

But action centred on the federal district court where Judge David A. Pine awaited answers from government lawyers to questions he asked yesterday.

Pine again and again questioned the chief government lawyer's assertion that President Truman had ample authority under the constitution for his April 9 seizure order. The jurist appeared totally unconvinced by the answers he got.

Finally, showing signs of impatience, he told Assistant Attorney-General Holmes Baldrige to search the record for a single case in which a federal court had found a Presidential seizure order legal which had not been issued under a specific law passed by Congress.

Baldrige asked for a week's delay to give him more time to prepare his arguments.

But Pine denied the request, saying the case "requires almost immediate action. The parties are entitled to very prompt action."

Along with their request for a temporary injunction, all but one of the six companies making the bid have asked Pine to go another step and rule the seizure itself illegal.

Technically, a temporary injunction would forbid Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer from taking any steps under the seizure order. The government already is working on a wage boost for 650,000 steelworkers.

Industry lawyers completed their opening arguments yesterday. Following the government's answer, the industry gets a chance for rebuttal.

The Senate Judiciary committee, meanwhile, continued its investigation of legal aspects of the seizure; the House of Representatives labor committee made plans to start a full investigation of the wage stabilization board; the Senate banking committee scheduled another closed-door session in its steel inquiry; and the Senate labor committee took a recess from still a fourth Congressional hearing into the dispute.

Old-time Congressional observers were unable to recall a situation when four Congressional committees all investigated the same subject at the same time.

The Wage Stabilization Board last month proposed a three-increase in pay which would total 17½ cents by next January; other money benefits totalling 8½ cents; a union shop, which would compel all workers to join the union within a specified time; and an 18-month contract, instead of the traditional one-year agreement.

Reds Call Off Secret Prisoner Negotiations As U. N. Declines To Return All Captives.

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
Munsan, Korea, April 25.—(AP)—The United Nations command tonight proposed a full-dress meeting Sunday of allied and communist armistice delegations. The surprise move came six hours after the communists broke off secret negotiations on how to exchange prisoners of war.

The U.N. gave no reason for suggesting a plenary session. The communists called off the secret prisoner negotiations after the U.N. command announced it would return less than half the Reds captured in Korea.

The effect of the Red action was to remove the veil of secrecy from negotiations. The prisoner talks were recessed at the request of Col. George Hickman, who said the U.N. command wanted to reassess its position in the light of developments.

Neither side suggested truce talks were in total collapse. But grim allied negotiators made no effort to mask the seriousness of the situation.

The Reds broke off the secret talks six days after being told that only 70,000 of their captives wanted to return to the communists.

Chinese Col. Tsai Cheng Wen angrily told U.N. negotiators there "has never been anything like the so-called voluntary repatriation throughout history. It is a direct violation of the Geneva convention from which your side has been quoting so readily and frequently."

Communist newspaper men distributed a press statement on behalf of the Red armistice delegation accusing the allies of using the secret negotiations "to deceive the world" on what has happened at the talks.

The end of secrecy brought the first public disclosure that the U.N. command proposes to return only 70,000 prisoners.

Dec. 18 the U.N. command gave the Reds a roster of 132,000 prisoners and said an additional 37,000 had been reclassified as civilian internees.

Of the 132,000, the U.N. said 16,000 South Korean nationals swept up in the tide of war were in the process of being screened and reclassified. That would leave a total of 116,000.

In a long statement reviewing the secret talks Tsai accepted in part the allied principle of voluntary repatriation.

He said U.N.-held prisoners whose homes lie south of the battle line should have the right to choose where they want to live. Red-held prisoners would have the same choice.

Tsai said "the insistence by your side on this ridiculous figure (70,000) has proved that your side is not in the least willing to abandon the unreasonable position of forced retention of tens of thousands of captured personnel of our side. Thus, these executive sessions have been rendered meaningless."

Hickman said interviews with prisoners during a two-week recess which ended April 19 showed that only 70,000 wanted to go home.

Col. James C. Murray said revised communist figures submitted during the secret talks showed the Reds holding 12,000 prisoners, an increase of about 500 since official communist prisoner roster was turned over last December. Murray said most of the additional names were those of South Koreans.

Seoul, Korea, April 25.—(AP)—Allied fighter-bombers swept in over the Korean battle line today, bombing and strafing communist front-line positions a second consecutive day.

Dense clouds over North Korea gave the Reds a temporary respite from aerial bombardment of hard-hit railways and supply facilities. But communist troop and artillery concentrations got the full treatment of bombs, rockets, jetted gasoline and machine-gun bullets.

Ground action along the 155-mile battle front was limited to patrol skirmishes and light Red probing attacks.

The Eighth Army said United Nations patrols twice drew heavy enemy fire northwest of Yoncheon on the western front. An estimated 15 communists were killed. There was no report of allied casualties.

The heavy cruiser St. Paul destroyed seven communist bunkers and other Red facilities on the eastern end of the battle line Thursday, while the cruiser Manchester and destroyer Buck knocked out a half-dozen Red coastal guns.

The air force announced a re-valuation of an earlier report that allied fighter-bombers had knocked out eight Red tanks on the central front Thursday. It said eight tanks were sighted, but only one was destroyed.

Abbott Told How To Trim His Budget

Ottawa, April 25.—(AP)—Finance Minister Abbott has been told he can chop $315,000,000 off his maximum-record budget of $4,500,000,000.

Ross Thatcher (CCF—Moose Jaw) advised the government in the Commons last night that defence spending could be cut by $225,000,000 and money could be saved by such means as reducing old-age pensions and family allowances for the well-to-do and by postponing public works.

A 34-year-old hardware dealer who sometimes does not see eye-to-eye with the rest of his party, Mr. Thatcher found his social-security and public-works proposals challenged by some C.C.F. members as he spoke.

Later Joseph Noseworthy (CCF—York South), in a speech of his own in the budget debate, expressed belief that "in many respects" Mr. Thatcher was delivering his own opinions and not speaking C.C.F. policy.

Besides reductions in the $2,500,000,000 defence program, Mr. Thatcher suggested these economies for the current fiscal year:

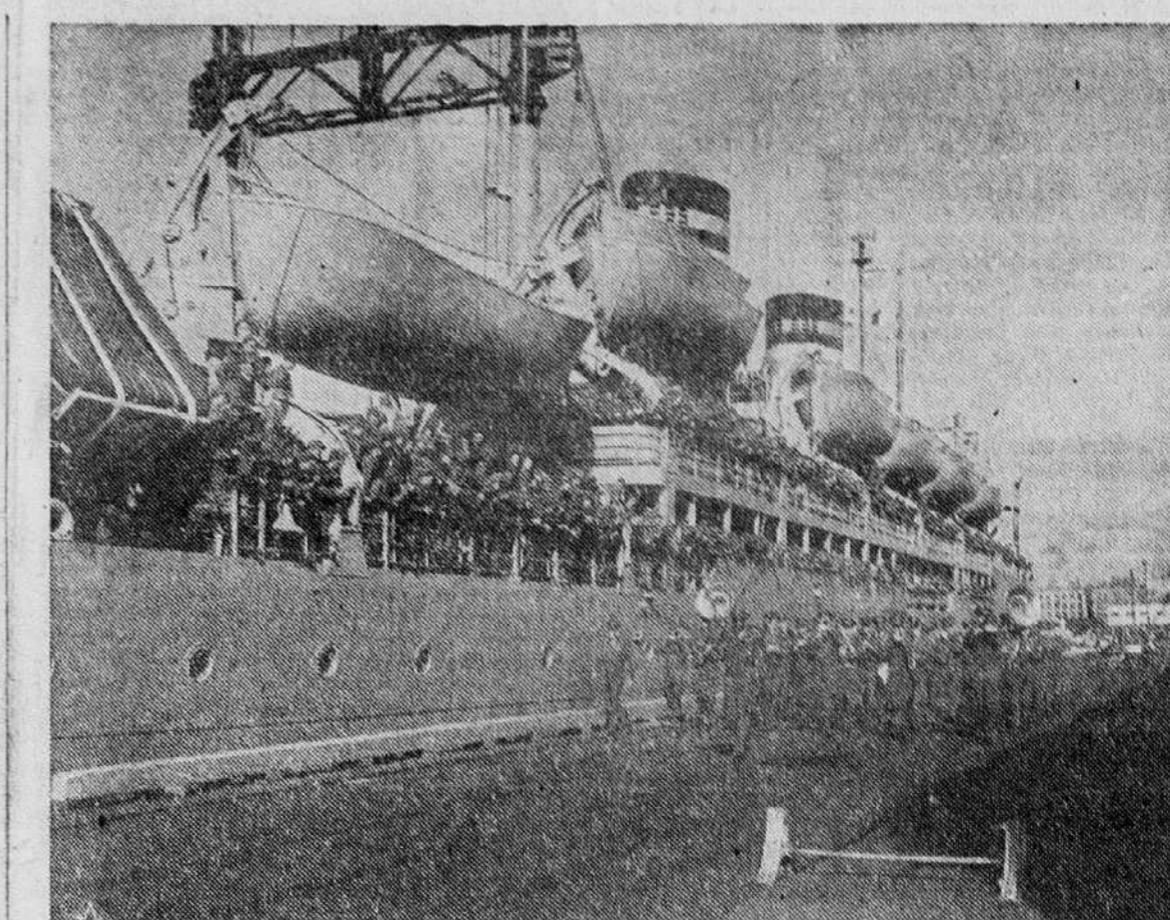

Old-age pensions and family allowances, $30,000,000; public works, $20,000,000; CBC shortwave broadcasts, $2,039,000; government publicity and printing, $4,000,000; statistical publications, $1,000,000; reduction in civil service personnel, $20,000,000; centralized government purchasing, $10,000,000.

He listed, too, a number of miscellaneous items that might be reduced such as $500,000 for buying aluminum buckets for maple sugar producers and $7,143 apiece for seven gift doors for the United Nations headquarters at New York.

Saying peacetime taxes are too high, Mr. Thatcher said the government's spending program will take 21 cents out of every dollar earned and means an average of $320 in taxes for every person in the country.

He came into conflict with fellow-members of the C.C.F. when he suggested the universal pension of $40 a month and family allowances should not be paid to the

23 Animals Destroyed At Ormiston

Regina, April 25.—(AP)—R.C.M.P. rifles have cut down 23 more animals in the federal-directed program to rid southern Saskatchewan of foot-and-mouth disease.

The animals, 12 cattle and a hog from an infected premises and 10 cattle from a neighboring farm, were shot late yesterday. Then they were buried deep under layers of soil in a pit on the infected farm.

Confirmation was announced Tuesday that foot-and-mouth disease had been found on the farm five miles south of Ormiston. Ormiston is 100 miles southwest of Regina by road and outside the original foot-and-mouth quarantine area but inside an additional buffer zone.

The outbreak was discovered Friday, then kept under observation and quarantine until the announcement.

Officials moved fast. Digging equipment for the grave, one of eight dug since the announcement Feb. 25 that foot-and-mouth disease had broken out, was rushed from Regina. But the slaughter was held up when the equipment bogged down on muddy roads.

The outbreak is the first in the Regina area since March 8. Since the original outbreak, nearly 1,300 animals have been destroyed. They have come from 25 infected premises and eight contact premises.

Federal officials believe the latest infection came to the farm through a quarter of beef from a premises infected in the original outbreak.

The meat was kept frozen from the purchase late in January—before the announcement that the disease had broken out—until being cooked and canned two weeks ago. Uncooked bones and scraps were scattered around the

B.C. Liberals Have Shelved School Issue

Vancouver, April 25.—(AP)—The British Columbia Liberal party voted last night without debate to shelve an executive resolution calling for partial integration of Roman Catholic schools into the public school system.

This resolution corresponded roughly with a seven-point program the B.C. Catholic Education Association put forward as a means of settling the issue.

No action was taken on the executive resolution when it came up in January at a special meeting of the Liberal executive. Members were asked to first attempt to feel out sentiment in their ridings.

At the annual convention of the party, which is hammering out a platform for the June 12 provincial general election, the resolution was shelved and another resolution endorsed.

Mossagh's resolution notes that textbooks are provided free to private as well as to public school students and that in some cases free medical and dental care is provided for other than public school pupils. It adds:

"Be it resolved that the government be urged to consider any other apparent matters of discrimination with a view to their elimination in any such discrimination."

The resolution said the government's granting of textbooks and health services to other than public schools corrects "certain apparent discriminations."

G. A. Hebdon, Chairman of the resolutions committee, told the convention the original intent of the shelved executive resolution was "regrettable and could stir up

Missouri Flood Threat Lessens

Kansas City, April 25.—(AP)—The Kansas City area was over the hump today in its fight against the Missouri river but flood workers still maintained a vigil along the network of dikes for possible weak spots.

The flood-choked river continued to fall here after reaching its peak yesterday just a fraction under 30.7 feet. This was better than 10 feet under the top of the levees.

It was a record upstream flood until the muddy surge hit Kansas City. But from here on downstream the river stages are lower than the terrible flood of July, 1951, when the Kaw (Kansas) river, which joins the Missouri here, laid waste the rich industrial areas of the two Kansas cities.

As the crest passed Kansas City, President Truman signed a $25,000,000 flood relief bill in Washington. A little later he allotted $250,000 of emergency funds to his home state of Missouri and $100,000 to Kansas, where four counties were affected.

On the Mississippi river, the record flood there inundated a second Clinton, Ia., residential area eight blocks from the waterfront. It was the second flood flow in a year for Clinton.

Sentiment up and down the river seem to be this year's flood was no worse than last year's. Everyone had feared it would be more serious.

At St. Louis, army engineers started mobilizing men and equipment to meet the flood threat along the Missouri-Illinois border. F. E. Reszejeu, district engineer, predicted the crest would pass with "a minimum of difficulties" if there is no more heavy rain.

U.S. May Renew Aid For Iran

Tehran, Iran, April 25.—(AP)—Authoritative sources said today Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's government and the United States have agreed on terms for renewing U.S. military aid to strategic oil-rich Iran.

Aid was suspended early in January because Mossadegh refused to sign a contract containing six commitments tying Iran to co-operation with the west, as provided under the U.S. mutual security act.

Mossadegh contended such an agreement would violate Iran's neutrality in the east-west cold war. This hurdle was overcome in an exchange of notes between Mossadegh and U. S. Ambassador Roy Henderson Wednesday.

It was reliably reported that Mossadegh's note pledged Iran to support the United Nations charter and resources at his command, build up its defenses, and fight any aggression directed against the country.

country in which Canada has no diplomatic or other representation and no means of obtaining evidence is difficult to punish by any legal means under existing statutes.

No matter how wide the definitions of treason or sedition or utterances designed to endanger the peace or welfare of the country, the necessity remains or making and proving the charge.

Mr. Diefenbaker brought the matter up again in committee yesterday and said the implications of what Dr. Endicott was reported to have said were "damnable" and "most dangerous to the peace."

Last year's amendment to the citizenship act tightened the procedure for actions against those who make treasonable statements in peacetime. However, Canadian law holds to the principle that a man is innocent until proven guilty.

Mr. Pearson said Dr. Endicott was due home shortly and would be questioned on the report of his speeches about germ warfare.

If his replies confirmed the report Mr. Pearson said the impounding or cancellation of his passport would be "considered" and he hoped there could be some legal action open to the Crown.

Cancellation of the passport would not prevent Dr. Endicott visiting Iron-Curtain countries of any country willing to receive him, Mr. Pearson said.

Furthermore, he said, Dr. Endicott's citizenship is a British right and cannot be denied him under law. Therefore, he is always free to return to Canada.

Truman Gets Into More Hot Water

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—President Truman's off-the-cuff assertion that he forced the Russians out of Iran by a personal ultimatum to Premier Stalin led to some unhappy tongue-clucking in high quarters today.

A press office "clarification" of Truman's extemporaneous statement at a press conference yesterday pointed up the embarrassment occasioned by this and other off-hand remarks that have raised eyebrows around the world.

British newspapers splashed the "ultimatum" story under such headlines as "Sensation at Truman talk" and "Blunders by Mr. Truman."

In diplomatic language an "ultimatum" is regarded as a step just short of war. Roger Tubby, assistant Presidential press secretary who formerly worked at the state department, told reporters afterward that Truman had used the word in a "non-technical, layman sense."

The note in question, he said, was not one from the President to Stalin, but a note from this government to the Russian government on March 4, 1946, published the next day, stating U.S. opposition to Russia's continued occupation of Iran.

"As you probably recall," Tubby said, "the Russians withdrew their troops from Iran in May, 1946."

Truman cited the Iran matter in outlining some of the action he and other Presidents have taken to meet national emergencies. He was talking about his seizure of the steel industry to prevent a strike.

Newspaper men recalled the firing of Henry Wallace as secretary of commerce on Sept. 20, 1946, following his speech attacking the "get-tough-with-Russia" policy.

Truman told reporters he had approved Wallace's speech. Two days later, he issued a statement saying he meant only that he had approved Wallace's right to make the speech. Six days later the President fired Wallace.

Truman's Nov. 30, 1950, press conference remarks on the use of the atomic bomb created world-wide concern.

Truman had said the U.S. would fight on in Korea with every man at its disposal—including the atomic bomb, if necessary.

The White House explained later that use of the atom bomb had not been authorized and that Truman's comment did "not represent any change in the situation."

Justice Department Studies Statements By Dr. Endicott

Ottawa, April 25.—(AP)—Justice Minister Garson and his law officers are studying the statutes for possible methods to deal with reported utterances of Dr. James Endicott, Toronto cleric, implicating Canada in alleged germ warfare in Korea.

Because the statements attributed to him were made in communist China, the difficulty will be to prove them.

External Affairs Minister Pearson yesterday told a Commons committee that Dr. Endicott would be questioned on reports of his statements in China after he returns to Canada.

"What will you do if Dr. Endicott says the reports are correct?" Mr. Pearson was asked by Gordon Graydon (P.C.—Peel).

"He is a Canadian citizen and has the responsibilities of citizenship," Mr. Pearson replied. "If the law has been broken he must suffer the consequences."

Mr. Pearson said he was not qualified to say whether or not there was a specific statute under which Dr. Endicott could be prosecuted for statements made abroad which could damage his own country. He said he hoped there was.

Mr. Garson said in an interview that his law officers are preparing an opinion on the Endicott reports. When it is ready he will make a statement in the House.

He said the reports had been the subject of study before the matter was raised in the Commons Monday by John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre).

Creative Hobby Acts As Escape Valve Montreal Artist Tells Women's Club

"People should have something creative as a hobby," Mrs. Peter Douet, one of Canada's best known contemporary artists, told members of the Canadian Club of the Eastern Townships at their regular meeting in the New Sherbrooke Hotel, last night.

She pointed out that this hobby need not necessarily be painting but that any creative hobby acts as an escape valve, an outlet for the pressure and tension of modern living.

Known also as Ruth Dingle, the artist has done considerable art teaching, including a session at McGill. She is an instructor for various art groups in Montreal and an interesting public speaker.

During the war she enlisted in the Air Force and was mentioned in despatches for her work in teaching handicraft and painting in military convalescent hospitals.

Stressing the importance of Canadians appreciating their artists, she deplored the fact that so many of them are forced to cross the border if they hope to earn a living.

She claimed that the general Canadian taste is mediocre, that the manufacturers are afraid to take a chance on anything new or different. As a result materials which sell well in the States are brought into Canada and find their way to the stores and their drapery or upholstery departments. The Canadian artist then has no alternative. There is no work for him here so he must move to the United States.

Making her running commentary all the more interesting, Mrs. Douet, during the meeting, painted a still life scene in oils, explaining the various steps, such as proportion, proper blending of colors and so on.

She said that there are no set rules for painting. Every artist brings a unique quality to a painting, because individuals are different and have been molded by their family, their education and their emotional background. The creative urge in the painter is what makes the difference in his paintings. He sees things a certain way, and his neighbor has an entirely different perspective.

Mrs. Douet claims that people should not look upon modern painting as worthless. "It is definitely typical of the age we live in," she said, and is definitely significant. She claimed that people are prone to say they know what they like, but in reality they like what they know and are afraid to experiment.

The speaker, who was introduced by Mrs. Stewart Knox, and thanked by Mrs. C. H. Niles, answered a number of questions put to her as she was doing the painting.

Mrs. Alex Stewart, the president, announced that the Club's annual meeting will be held on May 29.

At the head table, in addition to Mrs. Douet and Mrs. Stewart, were Miss Lora St. Laurent, Mrs. A. N. Preston, Mrs. S. Knox, Mrs. C. H. Niles, Mrs. Newman Hunter, Mrs. Lewis Rosenbloom and Mrs. L. V. Parent.

Properly installed lightning rods would reduce the annual loss of farm buildings through fires by 35 per cent, according to estimates of fire experts.

Cooking School Windup Was Huge Success

St. Paul's "Giant Cooking School" ended last night with a third capacity audience at the Mitchell School.

Miss Ghislaine Montpetit, home economist of Canada Packers, acted for the "school term" in the capacity of demonstrator. Last night, Miss Montpetit wore an orchid corsage, the gift of Paul McKenna, local florist.

Mrs. Rupert Porter, of Sherbrooke, served as assistant to the demonstrator and last night wore a corsage of red roses, also given by McKenna.

Ed Bryant acted as master of ceremonies for the three nights and was assisted with the drawings by Earl Hallett.

Miss Montpetit's demonstration got under way with the baking of orange muffins, a tempting breakfast dish. Mrs. E. W. Bryant, of Champlain Street, was the lucky winner of these muffins.

Next to be made were ham biscuits. Served with salad, a delicious lunch awaits, and Mrs. Colin MacKenzie, of Lennoxville, went home with this dish.

Domestic drop cookies, the one recipe that makes three types of cookies were won by Mrs. Stewart Rich, of Prospect Road. Tomato cheese tea biscuits went to Miss Audrey Stalker, of Lennoxville.

More cookies, this time coconut drop cookies, were awarded to Miss A. Brown, of Lennoxville, and the mince meat spice cake topped with a mouth-watering orange cream icing went to Mrs. Percy Gray, of Lawford Avenue.

The 15 lb. ham, which was a featured item each night, was won by Mrs. Arthur Ottiwell, McManamy Street.

More prizes from local merchants were on the schedule and Mr. Bryant and Mr. Hallett proceeded to distribute them.

A credit note for the dry cleaning of one lady's or gentleman's suit and one lady's or gentleman's spring suit, donated by Crown Laundry of Sherbrooke, was won by Mrs. A. N. Flint of Walton avenue.

A case of ginger ale, the gift of J. H. Bryant Ltd., went to Miss Pearl Robinson, Cambrai street. From Skinner's, a cup and saucer were won by Miss O. Langlois. Unbleached sheeting from Dominion Textile went to Mrs. A. Morris, Perry street.

Lacombe and Beaudoin, hardware store, donated a pyrex casserole with a pie plate cover. Mrs. Ray McNab, of Stanley street, was the lucky winner this time.

An attractive flower vase from Stevenson's Florists went to Miss Mildred Pollock, of Lennoxville. A credit note from Pinard's store was won by Mrs. H. Bench, of Lennoxville.

A box containing 72 spools of assorted threads, a gift of National Thread of Sherbrooke, went to Mrs. C. A. Dunsmore, Kingston avenue.

The $25 gift certificate from H. C. Wilson's which is applicable on the purchase of a Frigidaire or a Frigidaire stove or redeemable for cash was won by Mrs. John Farthing, of 5 Dugre Lane, Sherbrooke.

As on the previous nights, 24 bags of groceries, a donation of Canada Packers, were given away and last night's lucky winners were as follows:

Mrs. Jimmy Moore, Mrs. C. H. George, Lennoxville, Mrs. G. Riff, Mrs. Rupert Porter, Mrs. S. Spanswick.

Mrs. W. G. Billson, Lennoxville, Mrs. Jack Lenaghan, Mrs. Ted Anderson, Mrs. G. O'Boyle, Lennoxville, Mrs. E. D. Dorman, Mrs. Jack Matheson.

Miss Margaret Green, Mrs. W. E. McCabe, Lennoxville, Mrs. Peter Parker, Mrs. E. McGee, Mrs. John Farthing, Mrs. Kenneth Patrick, Mrs. Leonard Dore.

Mrs. M. Johnson, Mrs. Fraser McQuat, Miss Priscilla Tuite, Mrs. S. Farmer, Mrs. Raph Caunter and Mrs. J. E. Gallagher.

Three boxes of assorted soaps, also from Canada Packers, went to Miss U. McColeman, Vimy street, Mrs. R. Pariseau, Lennoxville, Mrs. H. Bolduc, Wellington street north, Frigidaire equipment through

Archbishop Georges Cabana Is Guest At Banquet Tendered By City Council

His Excellency Rt. Rev. Georges Cabana, recently appointed Archbishop Coadjutor of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Sherbrooke, was the guest-of-honor at a banquet tendered by Mayor Emile Levesque and the members of the Sherbrooke City Council.

In welcoming the new Archbishop, Mayor Levesque stressed the close collaboration existing between civil and religious authorities in working for the benefit of the community as a whole.

He also stated that the new Archbishop was a son of the Eastern Townships returning to a notable career in other sections of the Dominion.

In closing he paid tribute to the work and energy of Archbishop P. S. Desranleau and extended the best wishes of his colleagues on the City Council for his early recovery.

Archbishop Cabana expressed his pleasure at being back in the Eastern Townships, saying that when he received his Western Canada appointment he had feared that his last official link with this district had been severed. However, he had been called back here and while he was loud in his praise of his former charge and the many friends he had made there among people of all classes, races and creeds, he was pleased to return to his native section of Canada.

He urged the continued cooperation and goodwill of all sections of the community in advancing the interest of Sherbrooke and other parts of the Archdiocese.

In addition to the Mayor and Aldermen, those attending the dinner included Mgr. O. Z. Le-tendre, Vicar General, City Clerk Antonin Deslauriers, Alexandre Lafontaine, acting treasurer, J. C. Cote, city engineer, Albert Rivard, city attorney, Gaston Masse, electricity superintendent, Edouard Moreau, chief of police, Percy Donahue, director of the fire department, G. Monfette, director of municipal assistance, J. A. Tardif, superintendent of parks, and G. E. Vaillancourt, secretary of the valuation board.

Final Tribute Is Paid To H. A. Sampson

There passed away at the Sherbrooke Hospital on Sunday, April 20, after a long illness, Herbert Arthur Sampson, in his 69th year.

Born in Sherbrooke, the son of William Henry and Elizabeth Smith Sampson, he received his education at the North Ward and Sherbrooke High Schools. He entered the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and worked in many branches throughout the province until his retirement in 1943, when he returned to settle in Sherbrooke. He always took a keen interest in music, and acted as organist and choir director in many of the churches in the Eastern Townships.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Evelyn Grant Fuller; one son, H. Grant Sampson; a brother, Harry A. Sampson; three sisters-in-law, Mrs. J. E. Thompson, of Lennoxville, Miss C. M. Fuller and Mrs. F. M. Wyatt, of Toronto; two brothers-in-law, J. E. Thompson and F. M. Wyatt; a niece, Miss Catherine Thompson; a nephew, H. E. Wyatt, and many other relatives.

The service was conducted at Blake's Funeral Home, on Tuesday, April 22, at two o'clock, the Rev. Canon Russel Brown officiating. Many floral tributes were silent tokens of sympathy and affection. The bearers were Messrs. George Morgan, Clinton Soles, Mackie Fuller, Eric Fuller, Charles Davis and Halton Clark. Interment was in Elmwood Cemetery.

Among the friends from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Sampson of the Town of Mount Royal, Mrs. G. A. Harrison and Mr. Lloyd Harrison, of Bishopston, Mrs. H. Boutelle, of Danville, Mr. and Mrs. H. Scowen, of Cookshire, Mrs. G. Baker, of East Angus, Mrs. E. Cote, of Lennoxville, Mr. S. Lockwood, of Danville, Mr. H. D. Parsons, Mrs. M. Wilson and Mr. V. ## E. T. Students Enjoyed Trip To New York

Three days in New York, packed with new experiences, will leave the minds of thirty Eastern Township high school boys who made a trip to the American metropolis last week under the auspices of Sherbrooke Y.M.C.A.

Developed by a committee of members of the local Hi-Y Club under the guidance of J. E. Shortt, general secretary of the "Y," the trip provided twelve members of the Club and eighteen boys from outside points an unusual opportunity to broaden their knowledge and gain a personal acquaintance with places which had up to then been but names.

Travelling by chartered bus, the group left Sherbrooke following supper on Wednesday evening, arriving in New York Thursday morning. Times Square at night, with all its brilliance and excitement, United Nations Headquarters, Rockefeller Centre, Statue of Liberty, Empire State Building, Hayden Planetarium, American Museum of Natural History, Central Park, big-league baseball, and a four-hour conducted tour of the city itself, all contributed to the enjoyment of the boys.

But their time was not all so occupied, for they had plenty of free time during which they shopped, went to shows, watched television, and just looked at things.

They travelled the subway, discovered the speed of New York taxi transport, and had themselves a very big time. To cap the trip, the entire group attended the Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey Circus at Madison Square Gardens on Saturday evening before leaving for home.

They arrived back in Sherbrooke on Sunday afternoon, Rev. R. C. Tall, of Plymouth United Church, and Mr. Shortt, accompanied the boys as adult leaders and counsellors.

Largest bird known to man was the giant roc, or elephant bird, of Madagascar.

Capacity Crowd Attends Opening Of Demonstration

A capacity crowd last night received with enthusiasm the Gymnastic and Dancing Demonstration staged by the classes at the Y.W.C.A., the first under the direction of Joan Coll, the new physical education directress.

Final performance will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Mac-Kinnon Memorial, Montreal street.

All classes of the Y.W.C.A. participated in the demonstration, Midgets, Juniors, Intermediates and Senior girls and the "grade" classes.

The opening half of the performance was devoted to marching, exercises and bench work, while a feature part of this program was the presentation of dances of different nations—those of the Americans, Indians, Hungarians, English, Danes, Swedish and Irish.

The second half of the Demonstration was in the form of a playlet, "Alice in Wonderland," with singing, dancing and gymnastics to help tell the story.

Mrs. Belle Willard, at the piano, provided musical accompaniment for the events.

Magog Lions Hold Business Meeting

Magog, April 25—Wednesday evening, Lions Club meeting in Magog featured several items, business and reports from various committees.

The meeting, presided over by President Robert E. White, was opened by Lion Al. Swogger with invocation.

Leo Giguere announced that this club's Easter Seal drive had so far netted $326.30, and more returns were still expected. This is the second year that the Magog Lions Club has conducted the Easter Seal campaign.

Edward Mandigo commented on a proposed golf tournament which would be held sometime next summer.

President White gave a complete resume of the Magog Safety Committee meeting held at the Knights of Columbus Hall here last Wednesday. This report revealed much progress towards the protection of school children.

William H. McKenna announced that this club's drive for the blind will take place next July. It usually takes place during February, but because of hard times in this city it was postponed six months.

Past District Governor, Lion Ernest Bradley, told members of his winter vacation to Bermuda. He attended several Lions Club meetings there and compared them with those of this club. He also referred to another service group in Bermuda, the Leopards, which is made up of coloured people of that country. They conduct welfare work among their own people, and are doing a lot of good there. Mr. Bradley also mentioned that hotels in that country compete for service clubs' patronage. He said that most of the visiting Lions from outside the country are Canadians.

It was announced that charter nights will be held at Granby on Friday, May 2, and at Farnham on Tuesday, May 13.

The next meeting will take place on Wednesday, May 14. This will be nomination night, and all members are expected to attend.

Final Tribute Is Paid To H. A. Sampson

There passed away at the Sherbrooke Hospital on Sunday, April 20, after a long illness, Herbert Arthur Sampson, in his 69th year.

Born in Sherbrooke, the son of William Henry and Elizabeth Smith Sampson, he received his education at the North Ward and Sherbrooke High Schools. He entered the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and worked in many branches throughout the province until his retirement in 1943, when he returned to settle in Sherbrooke. He always took a keen interest in music, and acted as organist and choir director in many of the churches in the Eastern Townships.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Evelyn Grant Fuller; one son, H. Grant Sampson; a brother, Harry A. Sampson; three sisters-in-law, Mrs. J. E. Thompson, of Lennoxville, Miss C. M. Fuller and Mrs. F. M. Wyatt, of Toronto; two brothers-in-law, J. E. Thompson and F. M. Wyatt; a niece, Miss Catherine Thompson; a nephew, H. E. Wyatt, and many other relatives.

The service was conducted at Blake's Funeral Home, on Tuesday, April 22, at two o'clock, the Rev. Canon Russel Brown officiating. Many floral tributes were silent tokens of sympathy and affection. The bearers were Messrs. George Morgan, Clinton Soles, Mackie Fuller, Eric Fuller, Charles Davis and Halton Clark. Interment was in Elmwood Cemetery.

Among the friends from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Sampson of the Town of Mount Royal, Mrs. G. A. Harrison and Mr. Lloyd Harrison, of Bishopston, Mrs. H. ## SECOND BOER WAR

A danger that the mistrust and hatred now prevailing in South Africa may boil into open rebellion is contained in the announcement by Premier Malan of South Africa that he will defer the election on his "Courts versus Parliament" issue until next year. At this distance we are inclined to look upon the trouble in South Africa as one concerning the "color" question solely, a natural conclusion to reach about a country inhabited by 2,600,000 whites, 1,038,000 colored or mixed blooded persons and 8,500,000 blacks. But while that is the basic problem, it is by no means all. According to the New York Times' correspondent at Capetown the Union "is ill with many fevers and her vital strength is being sapped by division within herself." He sums up his conclusions in the following understandable language:

"The white man's quarrel is neither trivial nor temporary. Nor is it really about race (the color problem) at all.

"Expressed in its crudest terms, the issue in the first Boer War of fifty years ago was whether British or Dutch settlers here were going to dominate the life of South Africa.

"There is now, and well advanced, a second and thus far bloodless Boer War. Expressed also in its crudest terms, the issue in this second Boer War is whether essentially British ideas or essentially the ideas of the Afrikaner, who is mainly the descendant of the Dutch, are going to run South Africa.

"Most basic of all the basic ideas of the Boer is 'Suid Africa Eerste' (South Africa First), and it is held with vehemence.

"This is a country with a deeply split personality quite apart from the physical gulf that divides whites and blacks. While it would be a great mistake to suppose that the British-oriented man and the Afrikaner were forever at each other's throat, the fact remains that here in South Africa there is a vast conflict between two whole ways of life—the easy, casual, almost flippant way of those stemming from Britain and the dour, thrifty, somewhat puritanical way of the Dutch race.

"The Afrikaners are not all in the presently dominant Nationalist Party, but mostly they are.

"The British-oriented people are not all in the out-of-office United Party, but by perhaps 1,000-to-1 they are.

"The objective of the Nationalists in this second Boer War is to reverse the result of the first—which, of course, the British won—and to establish here a republic, to haul down the Union Jack from the few places it still flies and to cut the last quite tenuous link with the British throne."

It is, to say the least, a disturbing situation and one that will require the display of real statesmanship and coolheadedness in order to avoid a repetition of what happened fifty odd years ago. Those who say that wars settle nothing may be right, although we fervently hope that in the case of South Africa their contention is wrong.

BUDGET CRITICISM

Many Opposition members of the House of Commons have been loud in their condemnation of the Liberal Government and its taxation policies as revealed in the recent federal budget. At public meetings they have given a preview of the attacks that may be expected now that the budget debate is in full swing.

Strong as their ground is in protesting high taxes, for the most part they have displayed a common weakness which to a degree makes their criticism less effective. They have failed to provide constructive criticism. They must state whether they are opposed to wide debt reduction, whether they favor deficits. Or they must show where savings can be made in defence or other expenditures. Logically, they cannot favor projects involving new expenditures on the one hand and criticize the Government for spending money, on the other.

It is not enough to be against heavy taxes. Everybody shares this view. The Opposition must be prepared to show how and where these taxes can be lowered without reducing essential civilian services or reducing the preparedness effort, and without jeopardizing a sound fiscal position.

If the Conservatives can come out with a definite, clear-cut program of what they can do in this respect, the people will pay some attention to them. But if their attacks are of a purely negative nature, they may expect a longer period in the wilderness.

WAGE, PRICE SPIRAL REFLECTS MARKED RISE IN U.S. BUDGET

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — The question of how much inflationary cost there is in the U.S. government budget is timely again.

Legislation to extend price and wage controls is before Congress. So are appropriations bills for next year's national defense, foreign aid and general government expenditures.

Congress is also preparing to set up a new joint Senate-House committee with a big staff to check on spending. Strike threats over wage increases demanded on the basis of inflationary living costs are current in steel, oil, railroad, telegraph and other key industries.

All these industries supply things that the government buys. Any increases in costs resulting from wage and price increases are therefore bound to be reflected in the Federal budget.

Best estimates today are that since the start of the Korean war all government costs have risen by an inflationary factor of 10 to 12 per cent. When in May, 1951, General George C. Marshall said that inflation had robbed the armed services of $7 billion out of their $35 billion appropriation for that year, he may have overstated the case. This would be a 20 per cent inflationary boost.

In trying to measure this impact, Budget Bureau experts admit that it cannot be done accurately and must be estimated in only the roughest terms. One reason is that there is no index of goods and services that the government buys. Stacy May, chief statistician for the old War Production Board, tried to get up such an index. He finally had to give it up as an impossible job.

There is no index on the cost of a battleship, an airplane or a tank. Designs change. New models are far more complicated than the old. Comparing the cost of a $5000 World War II Norden bombsight with a $250,000 electronic bombsight becomes meaningless.

Projects Not On Public's Shopping Lists
Even increases in the cost of government public works projects cannot be measured against commercial and private home building cost indexes. The government builds roads, dams, airfields in Greenland and atomic energy plants which the general public doesn't have on its shopping lists.

On government pay scales an inflationary factor may be figured. Congress raised all government pay rates in July, 1950, just after the Korean war broke out. Increases were from $200 to $800 a year, depending on grade. Average increase was about 10 per cent.

Some 800,000 "blue collar" government employees—craft workers in arsenals and similar installations receiving union pay scales—have had additional raises. They have been in line with wage increases for comparable work in private industry, since the Korean war broke out, and so may be considered inflationary costs.

Not all government payroll increases since the Korean war have been due to raised wage rates, however. Most of the increased cost has been due to the employment of 500,000 more civilians in the first two years of the war, with another 200,000 scheduled for hiring in the next fiscal year.

This will raise the government's civilian payroll from $7.6 billion this year to $8 billion for an estimated average of 2,700,000 employees in fiscal 1953. In fiscal 1950 the payroll was $6.6 billion for 2,000,000 employees. This represents a 21 per cent increase in payroll, but the cost per employee is reduced from an average of $3300 to $3000 a year.

Military Payroll To Rise Again
These figures do not include the military payroll of $10 billion for over three million troops this year. This will rise to $11 billion for nearly four million troops in the coming year. A military pay increase bill now before Congress may raise this figure another $800 million. This will be another inflationary boost of over 7 per cent on payroll, if finally approved.

On goods and services bought by the government, Budget Bureau experts say that only an approximate calculation can be made of the inflationary impact. It is obtained by applying either the Bureau of Labor Statistics' wholesale price index or its consumers' retail price index to all government spending.

Government buying is entirely different from either of these patterns. But because these indices have come to be accepted as measures of the relative purchasing power of the dollar, they may be used as a rough guide for measuring government budget inflation.

As of June 30, 1950, before the Korean war began, the consumers' index was 170.2—1935-39 prices being 100. As of Feb. 15, 1952, the index was 187.9. This 17.7 per cent increase is 10.4 per cent.

If the wholesale index is used, the June, 1950, figure is 100.2—1949 prices being 100. The March 29, 1952, figure is 111.7. The 11.5 per cent increase is 11.5 per cent.

These 10 to 12 per cent increases represent the best guess obtainable. If accepted, they mean that from $7 billion to $8.5 billion of this year's $71 billion budget can be charged to the failure to hold the line against wage-price increases.

PRESS COMMENTS

"ALL ASHORE"

Montreal Gazette

The traditional cry, "All ashore that's going ashore," was heard in Montreal Harbor Friday for the first time in 12 years.

Friends and relatives of passengers departing on the Empress of Canada—first big liner to leave port this season—made port history by visiting cabins before sailing time and waving farewell from the docks.

The wartime controls, instituted because of foreign exchange regulations, meant that previously friends of departing passengers normally had to say goodbye from customs barriers outside sheds.

Abolition of controls brought the end of all that yesterday. The new freedom produced the inevitable result of clogging ship's corridors and passageways as, in true pre-war style, dozens of parties got under way in first-class cabins.

THE OLD CLOCK TELLS US THINGS

Since the beginning of this tired old world there have been devious ways of "telling the time"; the sun having its place in this part of everyday life. We cannot conjecture what the people did when there was no sun, but they had something to make things come out right. The sun dial dates back centuries; settlers in our forested townships used the noon marker unless they were fortunate enough to have a time-piece, and perhaps in some cases they learned to count the hours from the Indians, though, goodness knows we have no idea of how they did it. One thing that was a relief, they didn't have to meet trains, buses, nor boats, nor did they have to ring bells for church service, nor to call the children to school.

The world went on and as settlers came in so did clocks and watches—they were all called time-pieces then. We read about a man who had the only time-piece in the settlement and felt rather sorry for him, he must have been busy in replying to requests. In the history of Eaton it is recorded that an early settler (about 1830) bought a clock from a travelling salesman and paid forty bushels of wheat, but alas, the record lacks the information as to how the salesman managed the grain. A member of the family recorded, however, that "you could hear the clock all over the house, but in those days the houses weren't very large."

One thing that stands out from the above medley is the fact that in our townships today are some very fine old clocks. Grandfather's clocks, they call them, like the old rocker—that is grandmother's chair. Those names are a bond between the past and present and themselves an honorable addition to a home.

Let us take a fleeting glimpse of one old clock as it stands against the wall ticking off its story in a gracious old-time manner. While spending a tea-time and evening in a home in North Hatley we will see the old clock and hear a little of its history. First we learn that this unique piece of wood and workmanship came from the clock shop of one Bartholomew, Bristol, Conn. On its back were the words: "Warranted—if used well," four words with a lot of meaning.

In the early years of 1800 there was a man who was widely known as Clock Smith, who travelled back and forth from the U.S. to Canada selling clocks. Years later his son, Richard Smith was a resident of Sherbrooke, a clocksmith and a well remembered citizen of the fast growing town.

On one of his journeys Clock Smith took this clock we see through the mist of years to a young couple in the tiny village of Massachusetts, in Stanstead County. Amos and his good wife, Praxanna Kezar, lived there and he worked for Lemuel Harvey who had one of the earliest grist-mills in the townships.

En route the intrepid Clock Smith had an unpleasant experience. He was bringing a load of clocks to sell in the townships and Rostock, the German supply port for the Russian front, has been subjected to increasing pounding by British aircraft.

BRITISH BOLDNESS PAID DIVIDENDS
Few American experts would raise to two hearts freely on the West cards in the hand shown today. When the hand was played in an English tournament recently, however, several bold Britons took action with the West cards instead of passing.

The result, in this case, was good. South was pushed to three spades, which could be set if the defense was very accurate. I am not suggesting that Americans copy the English bidding style, but I do think that they will find an interesting point in the defense.

At some tables West made his best opening lead—the seven of clubs. East took two club tricks with the ace and queen, and then led a third club for West to ruff. West next led the five of hearts, and East won with the king. If South still had a heart, East should cash the ace of hearts before leading his last club. If East had no more hearts, East's best play was to lead his last club at once. How could East tell what the true situation was? Obviously, West had led his fourth-best heart. After the play of the first heart trick, East knew that West still had the queen-jack-eight of hearts (the only unseized hearts that were higher than the card that West had led). East didn't know who held the four of hearts. After all, South might have dropped the six of hearts even if he held both the six and the four.

One or two of the English experts tried to cash the ace of hearts. South thereupon ruffed with the ace and king, and ran the rest of the tricks. The successful defenders read the true situation by rather subtle reasoning. If West had held only four hearts headed by queen-jack, he would have led the queen as an indication that the defence had a chance to win two heart tricks. The fact that he led the five of hearts (instead of the queen) indicated that West expected only one defensive trick in the suit. In short, West was thereby marked with a five-card holding in hearts.

The successful defense therefore was to lead back the last club. This was bound to produce another trump trick. If South ruffed high, either the queen or the ten of spades would win a defensive trick later on.

The Record Short Story

ACHIEVEMENT

By SEVEN ANDERTON

Centerville folks agreed that there must have been a mixup somewhere, or Vince and Arthur Garvin would never have been brothers. Arthur, the younger by a year, was a shrewd and energetic go-getter, always on the alert for opportunity — and he prospered accordingly. Early and late, Arthur was hot on the trail of another dollar, while watching sharply that none he had got away from him. He had no time for frivolity or relaxation.

On the other hand, Vince was born relaxed, and stayed that way. As a young man, he preferred to spend a day fishing along the river, and frequently did so even in harvest time when wages were high. Arthur said Vince had no ambition. In Centerville's words, Vince sure took things easy.

When Vince was 40 their father died, leaving each son a few hundred dollars. It was a drought year and Arthur invested his legacy, along with all other funds he could raise, in cheap, half starved cattle, and put in a strenuous year rustling feed to see them through. Vince bought a few rough and partly timbered acres along the river just outside town with a tumble-down house and barn.

"Paid twice what the place was worth," Arthur declared.

"Always wanted to live there," Vince said.

Taking his time, Vince got his house and barn into snug but not fancy condition. He was a good hand at any sort of work he wanted or would consent to do.

Vince never married. Arthur married Bernice Lansing who came to Centerville to work in the beauty parlor, but saw a better opportunity in Arthur, who then had two farms, stock in the bank, and various other interests. Bernice led Arthur a life, demanding what she had married him for, the right to spend his money. Arthur could counteract this only by making more money.

By the time Arthur was 49 and Vince 50, Arthur was always addressed as Mr. Garvin, while his brother was Uncle Vince to everybody.

Arthur and Bernice lived on Maple Hill in the town's finest house and Arthur had an office above the bank. Uncle Vince lived on his rough acres and kept one cow which was always a pet and was turned out to die in a green pasture when her milking days were over.

His cats and dogs got along peaceably, because Uncle Vince insisted upon it. He kept about three dozen hens, all his chicken house would accommodate, and there, too, were pets. Other pets such as a nanny goat and her kids, three gray geese and a fat coon also made the acreage their home. Uncle Vince enjoyed them.

Now and then Arthur tried to jolt Uncle Vince out of his "shiftlessness," but Uncle Vince was jolt proof. He was happy. He made his own butter and sold his surplus eggs and garden produce to buy tobacco, salt, flour and such. He spent a lot of time fishing.

Uncle Vince had a radio and books from the library to read. When asked why he didn't get a car, he said, "Why? When I get so old I can't walk to town and back, I won't be able to drive a car. Autos is for folks that's in a hurry."

When harvest rushes were on and help scarce, Uncle Vince would assist any hard pressed neighbor who asked. But more for accommodation than for pay, and he wouldn't be hurried. Bart Hazelett cited an instance in Sandy King's barber shop. Said Bart: "Uncle Vince is an aggravating

By the latter Bernice meant that Uncle Vince treated them just like he did everybody else in Centerville—as friends and neighbors. Since Bernice Garvin ignored it, Uncle Vince refused to go to another part of the state to superintend a sheep ranch that Arthur had acquired.

Then, at the age of 59, Arthur died of a heart attack. It was brought on by the notification that some 600 head of fat steers already in the shipping pens could not be loaded into cars because a strike in a packing house had brought about a rail embargo on cattle shipments.

Uncle Vince dug up the can he kept buried in his feed bin and took out money to buy a suit of clothes and a necktie to wear to the funeral. Since she could hardly forbid the presence of her hale and robust brother-in-law at the funeral Bernice Garvin ignored it. But she got a real shock when Arthur's will was read. The widow was to have the one third of Arthur's estate guaranteed by law. The rest went to Uncle Vince.

Centerville passed the news around gleefully, but was little surprised by what Uncle Vince did.

"I'll have none of it," Uncle Vince said. "Give it all to Bernice. Let her pay all the taxes and such and worry about taking care of it. I'm doing all right. I've got good health, a good home, plenty of friends, and no worries."

Bernice took the money, but she couldn't take the rest. She couldn't face Centerville with the coils of fire on her head. She turned management of the estate over to a firm of business counselors and went east to live. She wrote once to Uncle Vince, asking him to have a suitable stone placed at Arthur's grave and send her the bill.

"Too bad about Arthur," said Earl Metz who was helping Uncle Vince set the stone. "He should have been in his prime. Younger than you, wasn't he?"

Uncle Vince nodded. "Worst part was, he said, 'Arthur never did get any living done.'"

"That," Earl Metz told Red Sonberg later, "should have been Arthur Garvin's epitaph."

"But not Uncle Vince's," Red said, grinning. "Guess what he's got now?"

"I give up," Earl said. "A pet chicken hawk," Red told him. "Found it after it broke a wing flying into a telephone wire. He's teaching it to let the chickens alone."

Earl snickered. "Want to bet he don't?" Red asked. Earl didn't.

Darts League Playoff Spots Are Decided

Final playoff positions in the Southern Eastern Townships Darts League were determined last night when the Canadian Legion won its last game from Four Corners of Magog by default and New Magog defeated the LaSalle Five O'Clock club 22-18.

Qualifying for the playoffs in order of finish, were Connaught Inn, New Magog, Hillcrest, Bellevue-Rand, Legion and Riverview. The Legion and Riverview teams were tied for the last playoff spot with 20 points apiece, and won and lost an identical number of games, but Legion had a slightly better scoring average.

In the playoffs, which will start next week, Connaught Inn and Bellevue-Rand will meet in a best-of-five games series. New Magog and E. Fortier and Leo Dubois and Fred Cole, Bob Vickers and Austin Cook, with four wins, were the best Five O'Clock team.

Wee War Brews Over Exporting Unaged Scotch

Glasgow.—(P)—Scotland is debating a burning question—is immature whisky fit to drink?

A related question is, presuming it can be swallowed, should young whisky be allowed to go out into the world as a symbol of Scotland, like heather and tartans?

The answers produce a clash of opinions that ultimately may reach Parliament. It is a little whisky war between two camps of distillers and blenders.

The Scotch Whisky Association, old and orthodox, is lined up against the Independent Scotch Whisky Association, which is new, like the whisky its members produce.

Canada, the United States and Britain herself are not directly concerned in the merits of the debate. These countries have their own regulations which say that Scotch whisky must have matured at least three years. It has become a sort of rule-of-thumb that Scotch must be three years old before it is fit to drink.

After the war, when the United Kingdom began scrambling for foreign currencies, a number of exporters discovered that many other countries are not as exacting.

Enterprising exporters began shipping 18-month-old whisky at a rate of more than $4,000,000 a year.

About 40 firms set up the Independent Scotch Whisky Association to look after their interests in exploiting the new market. The 140 members of the old Scotch Whisky Association met at Edinburgh in March to denounce the new trade, and issue a heated statement that "immature whisky is raw whisky having none of the characteristics of the mature product with which the world trade of the association is concerned."

Then the government struck. Through the board of trade it issued an order that no immature whisky may be exported to any destination without a special licence. That is how the situation stands. Law suits are brewing and Members of Parliament are beginning to feel the pressure of the clans. Whisky is a subject on which Parliament is sensitive because it is a grand dollar-earner. Exports to the United States alone are upwards of $42,000,000 annually.

A spokesman for the old Scotch Whisky Association is William Birnie, who manages the Glen Mhor and Glen Albyn distilleries at Inverness.

"Whisky under three years old is a sick spirit," said Birnie. "Sick in spirit and violent in the throat of a man, and I personally should welcome legislation requiring five years of aging."

A spokesman for the Independent Scotch Whisky Association is its secretary, William Graham.

"In judging any whisky, after it has been approved by a competent chemist, the customer is right," Graham said.

"It is a fact that after some years of selling 18-month-old whisky to many lands, we have not had one complaint as to quality. Our members get re-orders."

On one point the opposing associations are agreed—only Scots can make Scotch.

Suggest RAF Spread Fertilizer By Air

London.—Use of R.A.F. planes and training crew to help Britain produce more food was visualized as a possibility during a recent debate on agriculture in the House of Lords.

It was suggested the planes could be used to advantage in spraying fertilizer from the air over hilly farmlands and other areas difficult to fertilize by normal means.

The proposal, made by the Earl of Listowel, joint parliamentary secretary to the ministry of agriculture in the last Labor government, was applauded by several other Peers.

Some wealthy farmers, the Earl said, had already tried out the air-spraying method with considerable success, but the undertaking was far too costly for the ordinary farmer.

"I have sometimes wondered whether the government might not secure the co-operation of the R.A.F. for this operation," he said. "It may seem a fanciful speculation, but if we really mean business about increasing home supplies of meat we must examine every possible method of getting it."

Lord Dewar, a former food minister, describing the idea as "ingenious," doubted whether the R.A.F. would prove helpful but agreed an approach was desirable.

He suggested where R.A.F. machines were being used to train air crew, they might well be employed at the same time in the dual task of spreading fertilizer.

When Justice Minister Garson asked if Mr. Thatcher would apply the means test to the baby bonus, Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) interjected: "Over my dead body!" Mr. Thatcher said there is no need for pensions or family allowances for those earning more than $5,000, or perhaps $3,000.

farm-yard, where the infected cattle picked up the disease.

Dr. N. D. Christie, federal district veterinarian for Saskatchewan, said yesterday that a side of beef had been shipped late in January from an infected farm to the small Ormiston store.

One quarter went to the infected farm. The other quarter, still missing, is being traced. The remaining half of the beef carcass is believed to have been destroyed earlier.

Dr. Kenneth Wells of Ottawa, disease eradication program director, has said that the new outbreak is not as serious as it appears.

He said the reasons are that the source of the infection has been traced, it is not a mass spread of the disease, and the area is not thickly populated with cattle.

sharp division at a time when harmony is desirable.

The Catholic Education Association submitted its proposal to the educational department last fall.

"What we are asking," said association president Patrick Power at the time, "is that the education department take our schools into the public system in such a way that we can retain the religious character."

The proposal said, for instance, that Catholics would want some of their own textbooks, such as history, and that non-Catholic teachers would be accepted only in such subjects as physical education and the trades.

Catholics would still insist that their children be given religious instruction in the schools, but this might be done after school hours.

But Education Minister Straith said recently in a speech to B.C. teachers that he "would not wish to administer the department of education under any but our present system."

He said the cabinet was in accord with his views.

Many Blind Workers Succeed in Industry

Montreal.—Lindsay G. Williamson, national director of employment for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, believes the C.N.I.B. has some things to offer industry and he has been proving his point for the last 12 years, to manufacturing firms across Canada.

"Canada is leading in this field at the present time," he says, adding that the C.N.I.B. has trained several American placement officers who returned to the United States and are using the methods of vocational training and industrial placement practised in Canada.

Mr. Williamson travels 15,000 miles a year across Canada, visiting the six divisions of the institute. He has been totally blind since the age of 18 when he was injured in a farm accident in Saskatchewan.

His biggest job, he says, is selling the idea that the blind can be of some value to industry. At present there are 480 sightless persons employed in industry across Canada, 90 of them in the province of Quebec.

Included are such jobs as power drill press operators, bolt and nut threaders and machine operators as well as assembly line jobs.

Any blind person who is willing to work, regardless of race or religion, is trained in the C.N.I.B.'s occupational shops under the guidance of a placement officer. His aptitudes are tested and if he is found satisfactory for employment a job will be found for him.

Mr. Williamson emphasizes however that many of the jobs suitable for blind people put them in competition with workers who can see. The institute makes periodic follow-ups to make sure the person fits into the job.

"We never leave an employee on the job if he is found unsatisfactory either by the employer or the C.N.I.B.," says the director.

Century-Old Press Returns To Calgary

Calgary.—A couple of veteran printers donned ink-smudged aprons the other day and gave a 100-year-old Washington hand press a workout in the Calgary Herald's business office.

For the printers, Harry B. Wilson and John D. Meara, and the press, too, it was a case of returning home. Years ago the men operated the press which turned out the first Calgary Herald.

The press was made some time between 1845 and 1850 by R. Hoe and Co. of New York. It was little more than a youngster when set up in Calgary in 1883 by T. B. Braden, a teacher from Peterborough, Ont., and A. M. Armour, a Barrie, Ont., printer, who began publishing the community's first newspaper.

After the Herald's progress had relegated it to a proof and poster press it saw service at the Okotoks, Alta. weekly review from 1900 until 1947.

Its owner, Charles Clark, Jr., publisher of the review and the High River, Alta. Weekly Times, recently donated the Washington press to the Calgary Herald because of its historical value.

So it was like meeting up with an old friend when printers Wilson and Meara came down to the Herald specially to give the old press a public tryout.

Wilson, a retired superintendent of the Calgary fire alarm system, worked the press back in the 1890s. Meara, who now operates his own printing business in Calgary, pulled many proofs on the old Washington in those early days, too.

There was a lot of banter as the two veterans of the trade inked a bed of type—an old-time advertisement for an auction sale—and checked the finished product.

Chiddingfold, Surrey, England, April 25.—(Reuters)—Gertie Miller, 73, pin-up girl of the naughty '90s who jumped from the bright lights of London's theatre world to the pages of D. H. Lawrence's 'Lady Chatterley's Lover', died at her home here today.

In private life the twice-married Miss Miller was Gertrude, Countess of Dudley. The Earl of Dudley died in 1932, leaving her a fortune of £400,000. Her first husband, Lionel Monckton, music critic and composer, died in 1924.

Egypt To Elect New Parliament; Women Can't Vote

Cairo.—Illiteracy and the lack of voting rights for women are two major obstacles Egyptians will face when they elect a new parliament May 18.

About 4,000,000 men of 21 years of age or over are entitled to vote, but only some 750,000 are literate. Many persons who can read and write cannot vote because they are women.

Egypt is considering the use of party signs on cards—like India did in her recent election—so that the voter can place a mark opposite the party candidate he supports.

"The problem of making sure each voter goes to the polls only once is more difficult. The story is told how during one general election, Ahmed, a servant, failed to turn up for work.

When he appeared the next day, his master asked him to explain his absence.

"I started for work but eight different policemen made me go and vote," Ahmed said.

To prevent any one voting more than once—frequently in the name of someone who is dead—some suggestion is that on leaving the polling booth, the voter have his left hand marked with indelible ink.

The majority of the voters are fellahs (peasants).

Many travel part of the way to the polls by boat, for the densely populated area of Egypt is cut by the River Nile and criss-crossed by irrigation canals.

Some travel by automobile and some by gharrys (horse-drawn carriages). Those who have to travel by rail are given free tickets. Some arrive at the polling stations on horses and donkeys while others come in from the desert areas on camels.

The election will provide Egypt's feminists with another opportunity to press their claims for equal rights. Leader of the feminist movement is Doria Shafik, editor of several women's magazines.

Mrs. Shafik, mother of two children, opposes the system which deprives educated women of the right to vote while the most ignorant male peasant has a say in an election.

The new election will be the third in slightly more than seven years. One held in January, 1945, resulted in a coalition government, while the second in January, 1950, swept the Wafd party, headed by veteran statesman Mustapha Nahas Pasha, to power.

Negotiations are underway for an issue of $90 million of debentures by the Aluminum Co. of Canada to be offered in the U.S. and to be guaranteed by Aluminium Ltd. The issue will provide for an increase in the estimated cost of the current expansion programme and for a substantial acceleration in the date of construction.

Satisfactory results for the first quarter of 1952, showing improvement over the corresponding period of 1951, were reported yesterday at the annual meetings of Consolidated Mining and Smelting of Industrial Acceptance Corporation and of Famous Players Canadian Corporation.

Hinde and Dauch Paper Co. earned 79 cents per share in the first quarter as compared with $1.18 in the like period of last year.

FARM FIRE Granby, Que., April 25.—(P)—Fire yesterday destroyed two barns, a stable and agricultural implements along with 24 cows, 14 calves and two horses on the farm of Ernest Hebert, St. Valerien.

The animals were owned by Maurice Cabana, a neighbor, who had kept them at Hebert's place since a fire destroyed his own barn last winter.

Pilots' Death Described At Inquest

Skegness, Lincolnshire, England, April 25.—(Reuters)—An air collision at 19,000 feet between two Canadian-piloted Sabre jets flying at almost 400 miles an hour was described yesterday at an inquest here by the pilot of another plane in the formation.

The inquest returned a verdict of accidental death on the two pilots killed in the crash last Friday. They were FO. Joseph Austin Leslie Kerr, of Weedon, Que., and FO. Arthur Edgar Rayner of Medicine Hat, Alta., both members of the R.C.A.F. 410 squadron, stationed at North Luffenham.

After the crash Kerr's body was recovered from the mudflats of Wanfleet bombing range near here. Rayner was picked up unconscious from the sea by Skegness lifeboat but died later.

FO. R. W. Found, pilot of an aircraft in the nine-plane flight, said they were flying "V" formation in three sections. The sections were about 200 yards apart with the planes in each about four or five wingspans apart.

A 90-degree turn to port was being made properly when a plane in one section fouled the underside of another machine in the centre section, he said.

There was an explosion and both planes caught fire. He saw a parachute opening and later saw Rayner fall into the sea.

Mancroft, in a letter to the House, said his remark had been only "a flippant aside."

"I very much hope the House will accept my wholehearted apology and I withdraw my remarks unreservedly."

Peer Apologizes For Statement

London, April 25.—(Reuters)—Conservative Peer Lord Mancroft today apologized for making a "grave reflection on the dignity of the House of Commons" and headed off a move to take action against him.

But most Labor Members of Parliament were still chafing at his charge yesterday that, unlike members of the Lower House, he is not paid for "larking about in the division lobbies at night with the girls."

The reference to the Labor party's 210-pound Mrs. Bessie Braddock and other women members was heatedly brought up yesterday by socialist Mrs. Barbara Castle, who quoted Mancroft's remark from a speech made earlier to the Conservative party's Primrose League.

Mrs. Castle asked that members be able to protect themselves from "the gross vulgarity of a comment of this kind."

Mancroft, in a letter to the House, said his remark had been only "a flippant aside."

"I very much hope the House will accept my wholehearted apology and I withdraw my remarks unreservedly."

Missionary's Needs Dazzle Storekeeper

Ottawa.—Hardware merchants are used to all sorts of odd requests but petite Pat Syran, 23, threw a curve the other day that startled one dealer.

Pat ordered a galvanized bathtub, 12 padlocks and a police whistle. And that was just the start of her list of household necessities for a four-year stay in Africa as a missionary. She leaves this month for Nigeria with financial support from Calvary Baptist Church here.

She will be out of touch with a store for some time so her stock of clothing includes a dozen pair of shoes, 24 new dresses, eight nightgowns, 18 pair of stockings and a pair of mosquito boots.

Pat will take along some household goods too, among them a folding bed and deck chair, and, of course, the galvanized bathtub.

A use for the padlocks isn't too hard to imagine. But the police whistle stumped everyone. Pat says that is to summon the natives who she hopes will help operate a small hand grist mill which rounds out her list of essentials.

HARDENED ARTERIES CAUSED BY CALCIUM IN BLOOD VESSELS

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Mr. C. and others have asked for a discussion of hardening of the arteries. Perhaps it would be well to start this by saying that now when so few people die young from such diseases as typhoid fever, diphtheria, and pneumonia, more are reaching an age when gradual hardening of the arteries is likely to produce symptoms. It is probably for this reason rather than any real increase in the amount of hardening of the arteries or arteriosclerosis, that one hears so much more about it today.

The process by which the arteries become less elastic starts early in life, but it is unusual to have symptoms from it until the middle or later years. Just what symptoms will be caused from arteriosclerosis depend on which arteries are affected since the process is not even in all of them.

The increased hardness of the arteries, or arteriosclerosis, which lessens the flow of blood is likely to be so gradual that there is no way of detecting it until it has become quite advanced. The arteries do not become hardened at the same rate of speed in one part of the body as they do in another.

For example, the walls of the arteries in the legs may become thick, hard, and inelastic while those supplying the kidneys or the arms are still normal and soft.

Deposits of calcium in the walls of the blood vessels is the principal thing responsible for hardening of the arteries. Why calcium should be deposited in the arteries, why it should be deposited faster in some arteries than in others, and why it should come earlier in some people than in others, no one yet knows.

SOME GET DEPOSITS EARLY

Early deposits of calcium are more common in the members of some families than in others. Perhaps also the ordinary wear and tear of living plays a part in the speed with which the arteries become sclerotic or hardened. Over-eating, disturbances of hormone secretion, certain diseases of the kidney, and chronic infections, have also been blamed.

The treatment of hardening of the arteries depends on which blood vessels are involved and how seriously they are affected. There are no established rules of diet to prevent hardening of the arteries or any which will dissolve out any calcium deposits already formed. The proper amount of rest and whatever local measures are indicated is about all that can be done. Perpetual youth cannot be retained and therefore a person with arteriosclerosis must learn to live with it as comfortably as possible.

Bedford H. & S. Association Held Executive Meeting

Bedford, April 25.—The monthly executive meeting of the Bedford High School Home and School Association, was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Malcolm McCaw. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Charles Jones and adopted as read.

The subject of a scholarship being given by the Home and School Association was discussed. The amount of the scholarship was fixed at $75, with the following stipulations: (1) All applications must be in the hands of the committee by May 10; (2) The student must write papers in ten subjects; (3) The recipient must be a student who is continuing education; (4) The money will be paid to the institution of learning chosen by the applicant, receiving the highest marks in Grade XI in the provincial June examinations.

Mr. Frank Treccarten was appointed as chairman of the nomination committee.

Mrs. Sinclair McIntosh reported on the Federation meeting of Home and School Association, which she and Mrs. Charles Jones attended in Montreal. The annual conference will be held in Montreal at the Windsor Hotel on May 10-12 next. All members are strongly urged to attend these meetings, which will be of interest to all. The importance of having members, other than delegates be present at this conference, was stressed.

It was suggested that one subject of great importance be discussed at this time, i. e. the teacher shortage. The matter of enlarging the circulation of the Federation's magazine was discussed. At the present time there are 14,000 members of the Home and School Association in the province of Quebec, with 50 branches in Montreal and 59 outside of the city. Out of this number only three branches have reached their quotas in regard to magazine subscriptions, one of which is the Bedford Home and School Association. With an increased subscription list, the magazine could be improved and enlarged, and additional advertisements obtained.

The Students' Council has again this year asked the Home and School Association to look after the graduation dance, which will be held on Thursday, May 29, in the Masonic Hall. Mrs. Gordon Jones was appointed to look after the corsages for the members of the graduating class. The refreshments for the dance will be solicited from the parents of the high school students. The decorations will be in the hands of the students. Robinson's Orchestra will play.

It was decided that the annual

Here is just one of the many tempting recipes, with the recipe for sauce taken from the last chapter, which has ideas for all kinds of dessert sauces:

BRAZIL-NUT PUDDING
1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup grated apple
1/2 cup pitted dates, cut fine
1/2 cup sifted flour
1/2 cup chopped brazil-nut meats
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup strong coffee
1 egg white

Cream butter and sugar together until fluffy. Add egg yolk, apples, dates and brazil nuts. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add alternately with coffee to first mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Turn into buttered loaf pan, small ring mold, or 8-inch square pan. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 45 to 50 minutes. Serve with Brazil-Nut Hard Sauce. Serves 6.

BRAZIL-NUT HARD SAUCE
1/2 cup butter
1 1/2 cups confectioners' sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons cream
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup chopped brazil-nut meats
Cream butter until soft. Beat in half the sugar carefully, add cream and beat in remaining sugar. Add orange rind and brazil nuts. Beat until fluffy. Chill. Makes about 2 cups sauce.

Magog School Safety Committee Has Complete Success With Major Project

The Magog school safety committee, a project that had its birth with the Magog Kiwanis Club and that was enthusiastically endorsed by 18 other organizations in that city, has met with overwhelming success in its first undertaking.

Last October nine safety recommendations were proposed by the committee, whose chairman is Kiwanian Jack Peters. Last week when the committee gathered for a meeting, Mr. Peters was able to report that the city council has approved eight of the nine recommendations.

The nine points, and the action taken on them, were as follows:

1. That signs at the highway entrances to the City advertise the speed limit and it will be strictly enforced.

The Council has authorized signs for the five entrances to the City which are: 1. Montreal Road, 2. Sherbrooke Road, 3. Ayer's Cliff Road, 4. Georgeville Road, 5. Katovala Road. The speed limit is to be 30 miles per hour.

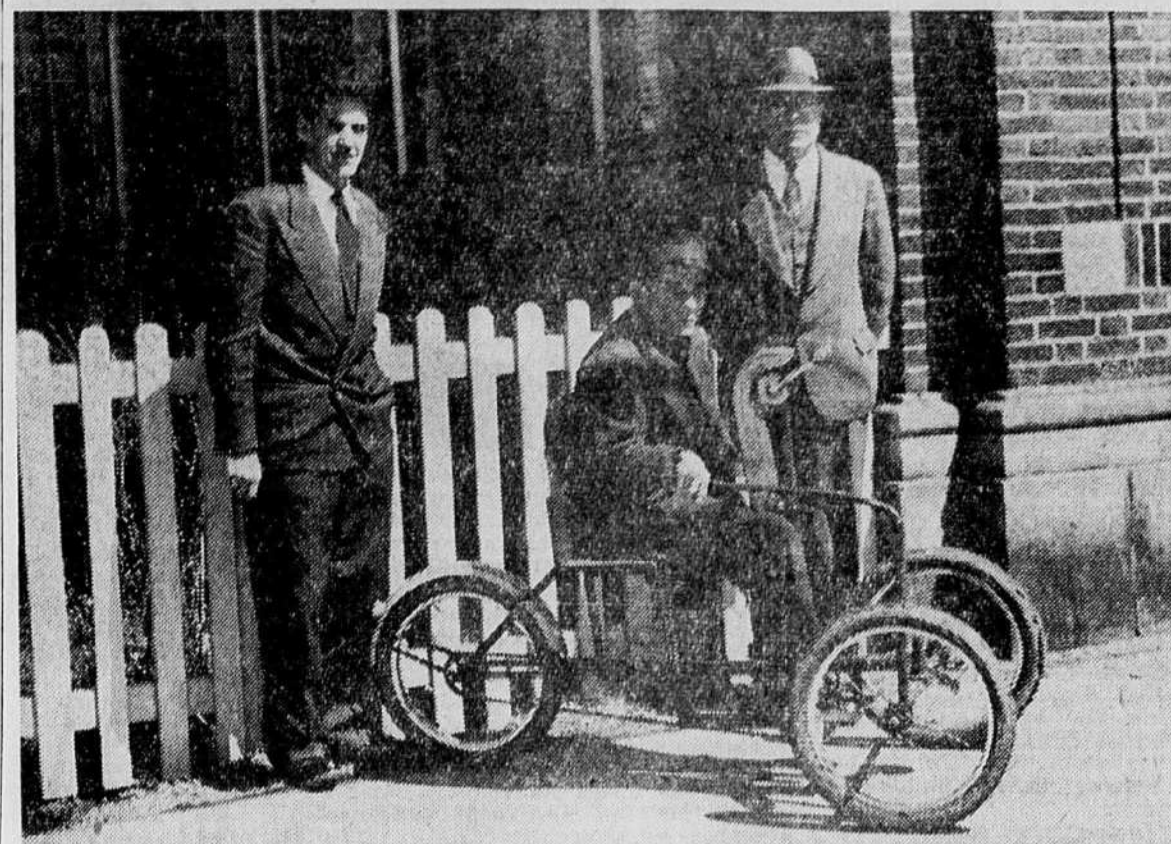

2. That school zones with restricted speed limit be established around each school in the City. The Council has designated St. Patrick Street, from corner Sherbrooke Street West, to corner Main Street as school zones with signs stating so. Also school signs 100 feet each side of school property. At other school localities there will be school zones large enough in proportion for the protection of the children, with the above mentioned signs. Also all crossings frequented by school children will be painted white and School and Ecole will be painted on the road.

3. That the Chief of Police be requested to train and supervise School Monitors.

The Chief has been willing to do this for a long time. Now he is trying to get the Monitors organized immediately.

4. That dummy policemen be placed on the streets during school hours. This is the one resolution that was not accepted. Due to the narrowness of the streets.

5. That the School Commission-

SERVICE CLUBS WORK TOGETHER. Sometimes a joint effort is necessary to carry out the needs of the community and this picture portrays such co-operation in Magog. It shows president Bob White (right) of the Magog Loins Club and his counterpart from the Kiwanis Club, Maurice Leveseur, giving a wheel chair to a totally incapacitated man, Emilien Gaudreau. Since receiving the chair, Mr. Gaudreau has been able to enjoy a measure of freedom and independence for the first time. Magog Kiwanians feel rightfully proud of this, their first joint effort, and look forward with confidence to the tasks ahead in the knowledge of unquestioning support from their fellow club.

KIWANIS CLUBS work hard to raise the money needed for their various charitable works. At Christmas-time, in Magog, the club there bought a truckload of Christmas trees from a local farmer, took them to the park on Main street and sold them to the citizens of Magog at a reasonable price. The Kiwanians got cold hands (but not cold feet) and raised more than $100 for their welfare fund. This picture shows vice-president Jack Peters, Max Dingman and secretary Ted Foggo on the job. Next fall the Magog Kiwanians will have gathered by dint of hard work and sacrifice of free time many articles of clothing and furniture, and household and miscellaneous articles which they will resell at their annual White Elephant sale. This is another means of raising the funds necessary for the club's ever-increasing community work. ers be requested to purchase the belts and signs to be used by the proposed School Monitors. This naturally is left to the School Commissioners.

6. That it be recommended to the Protestant School Commission that a gate be installed in the fence at the back of the School for the convenience of those pupils living at the southern part of the City, by doing this it would relieve the congestion on St. Patrick Street.

This was recommended to the School Commissioners.

7. That it be recommended to the Convent authorities, that they arrange to have the pupils leave the Convent by Merry Street rather than St. Patrick Street, owing to the lack of sidewalks and heavy traffic on the latter street. This has been done and the children are now leaving by Merry Street.

8. That the co-operation of the Catholic and Protestant School Board be requested in putting these proposals into effect in order to increase the safety of our children when proceeding to and from school.

This co-operation has been forthcoming.

9. That it be recommended that the City Council seriously consider increasing the present Police Force by at least four men, so that effective traffic control can be maintained.

The Council has authorized Police Force to be increased by two men. The Policemen with a radio police car are to patrol the streets and the entrances of the City from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 a.m. the next morning. They are to patrol St. Patrick school zone and all other school zones from 8:30 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. from 11 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. from 3:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Also these Patrol Men while on patrol will watch for: 1. Speeding on our streets, 2. Violation of traffic rules such as not stopping for stop signs or red lights, illegal parking and over parking, in other words all traffic violations are to be dealt with a fine.

The organizations which were associated with the committee, in addition to the Kiwanis Club, were: Daughters of Isabella, Knights of Columbus, Catholic Women's League, St. Jean Baptiste Society, Les Francs, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Army Navy and Air Force veterans, Dominion Textile Company Printers' Association, 73rd Field Battery, R.C.A., Social Service, Order of the Eastern Star, Magog Lions Club, Magog Home and School Association, Catholic School Commission, Protestant School Commission, Memphremagog Masonic Lodge, Red Cross Society, and the Magog Branch of the Catholic Syndicates.

Eight Canadian, Seven U. S. Clubs Will Be At Magog Meeting Tomorrow

The chief executives of the United States and Canada today cited the relationship that prevails between the two countries as an outstanding example of international goodwill. The statements were issued in connection with United States-Canada Good Will Week which is sponsored by Kiwanis International and its more than 3,400 affiliated clubs. The observance is held annually in commemoration of the Rush-Bagot Agreement which went into effect April 28, 1818.

President Truman, in a letter to Kiwanis International President Claude B. Hellmann, said "Your annual sponsorship of United States-Canada Good Will Week contributes, in no small measure, to the strengthening of the ties which bind the two countries together."

"People everywhere can profit by the magnificent example of co-operation which the United States and Canada have established; a mighty continent has been welded together as a result of mutual aspirations and objectives. We must preserve this friendly, productive relationship."

Prime Minister St. Laurent, referring to the observance of United States-Canada Good Will Week stated that it "is making a notable contribution, not only to furthering the good relations which exist between our two nations, but also to strengthening the partnership of free nations presently engaged in building up their combined strength to deter aggression and preserve peace."

Canada's chief executive also issued cordial greetings and commended Kiwanis "throughout the United States and Canada for their annual observance of this 'Good Will Week.'"

The observance, designed to foster good relations between the United States and Canada, dates back to 1921 when the Kiwanis International convention held the first Canadian Day celebration. This was the forerunner of the present United States-Canada Good Will Week which will be observed during the week of April 27-May 3.

During the intervening years, Kiwanis clubs have erected 27 bronze "peace tablets" at major points of entry along the more than 2,000 miles of unfortified boundary between the two nations. The inscription on each tablet reads: "This unfortified boundary line between the Dominion of Canada and the United States of America should quicken the remembrance of the more than a century old friendship between these countries, a lesson of peace to all nations."

At the meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Magog, President Maurice Leveseur announced that the club would observe United States-Canada Good Will Week with a special program. He said that the program would be highlighted by an inter-club meeting to be held at the New Magog Hotel on Saturday, April 26, when eight Canadian and seven American clubs will be in attendance.

Sherbrooke Kiwanis Club Has Set Fine Record In Four Years' Service

The inspiration to form a Kiwanis Club in Sherbrooke preceded the actual organization by two or three years.

Opinions were expressed to the effect that Sherbrooke already supported a sufficient number of service clubs and that a Kiwanis Club in Sherbrooke would be superfluous, that a sufficient number of men of service club calibre could not be found in Sherbrooke, outside of the present members of other clubs, that if a Kiwanis Club was actually formed in Sherbrooke its life and usefulness would be short-lived.

Inconvenienced by these negative forecasts, a small group of men co-ordinated their efforts and determination during the early months of 1948 and by late summer the Kiwanis Club of Sherbrooke was an accomplished fact.

This organizing group included Lieut.-Governor Perry Conklin of Brockville, under whose jurisdiction the Eastern Townships was then allocated, officers of the Granby (sponsoring) club, including past president Jules Crevier, President Fred Wallace and Herbert Whitcher, chairman of the sponsoring committee, Charles Kench and Newman Hunter, co-chairman of the Sherbrooke organizing committee.

The following chronological highlights of the club: 1944-47: Reconnaissance (see preface). 1948, June 12: Vol. 1, No. 1 of

United States-Canada Goodwill Week Recalls Rush-Bagot Agreement

The signing of the Rush-Bagot Agreement (it has never been called a "treaty") is one of the most important and suggestive events in American history.

In 1814, after the signing of the Treaty of Ghent, both England and the United States were sincerely desirous of maintaining peace and avoiding further hostilities, but on the Great Lakes at that time were vessels of war belonging to both countries, and others were in process of being built. This situation gave promise of developing into a race in naval construction with attendant opportunities for clashes which again might involve England and the United States in war.

James Monroe, Secretary of State at that time, was asked to begin negotiations with England to check the wasteful and dangerous procedure of the building of these war vessels. During these negotiations, which seem to have proceeded with great deliberation, some important notes were exchanged and as the content of them is of peculiar interest to us at this time, copies are included on an attached sheet marked Exhibit "A."

In 1816, Sir Charles Bagot, a British diplomat and administrator, was made Minister to the United States in Washington and it was while serving in this capacity in 1817 that the famous agreement was completed through further negotiations with Richard Rush, American lawyer and diplomat, and then Acting Secretary of State. A year later, April 23, 1818, to be exact, President Monroe through Proclamation confirmed the arrangement now known as the Rush-Bagot Agreement.

Note particularly the paragraph in the Agreement, included in the Proclamation, which reads, "If either party should be hereafter desirous of annulling this stipulation, and should give notice to that effect to the other party, it shall cease to be binding after the expiration of six months from date of such notice." In spite of subsequent times of stress between our two countries, the conditions of the agreement have never been revoked, but have been rigidly adhered to during these 135 years.

The Development of Program of United States-Canada Good Will Week And Activities As Taken From Official Records Of Kiwanis International

Back in 1921 at the Cleveland convention, the first "Canadian Day" celebration, the forerunner of the present "United States-Canada Good Will Week" was observed, and the following resolution adopted by that convention:

RESOLVED, That every effort be made to foster by all means the continued splendid relations between the United States and Canada and to that end that Kiwanis Clubs of this Continent be requested in Canada to set apart a day to be termed "United States Day" and in the United States a day to be termed "Canadian Day" on which occasions appropriate exercises will be held in their respective clubs.

Accordingly, in 1922, the week of April 28 was officially fixed as the period during which "Canadian and United States Days" were to be observed, and a bulletin issued at that time states that "This period was selected because it was in April 1814 that the negotiations between Great Britain and the United States were finally completed in the Rush-Bagot Agreement. . . . Each club in the United States was urged to observe "Canadian Day" and each club in Canada was urged to observe "United States Day."

In July, 1926, the International Board provided for the appointment of a Special International Committee to have charge of plans for a wide observance of this feature of Kiwanis, with the adoption of the name "United States-Canada Week" rather than "Days." This proved generally acceptable, and was in effect until June, 1936, when the Board again changed the title to that of "United States-Canada Good Will Week," and same has been maintained since that time. The date for the observance of this program (at "reasonable intervals") is during the week in which occurs the anniversary of the signing of the Rush-Bagot Agreement, April 23 and 29, 1817.

At the Milwaukee Convention in 1929, the following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, We believe that a peace that is continual between the people of the United States and Canada is essential to world peace; be it

Resolved, That Kiwanis International in convention assembled does hereby pledge its unqualified support to all such movements as shall tend to continue the peace that has existed between these two countries for over a hundred years, and recommends to the Board of Trustees that proper steps be taken to make United States-Canada Week a biennial event when there shall be an interchange of speakers and such other movements inaugurated as will tend to develop the increasing spirit of good will already existing.

It is further hereby suggested that a special committee be appointed to carry out the above recommendations in every district and that regional inter-club meetings be arranged to the end that proper adequate speakers may be secured.

Kiwanis Memorial And Plaques

As a further tribute to the good will and understanding which has so long existed between Canada and the United States, Kiwanis International erected in Stanley Park, Vancouver, B. C., through subscriptions of the Kiwanis clubs in both countries, the splendid Harding International Good Will Memorial which was dedicated with significant ceremonies on September 16, 1925. The inscription on this memorial, a copy of which is included on the attached sheet (Exhibit "C") is an excerpt from the address of President Harding, the first President to visit Canada, this address having been delivered in Stanley Park where the memorial is located.

The record of the furtherance of good will between our two countries by Kiwanis clubs would not be complete without mention of the bronze Boundary Tablets that have been erected by various clubs along the unfortified border. This activity was begun in 1935 and at the present time there are twenty-six tablets along this extensive border line, the first one having been erected on Ambassador Bridge, between Detroit and Windsor, by the Michigan District, January 22, 1935, during the Twentieth Kiwanis Anniversary observance.

Second row in the same order: S. Messenger, Eric Sutherland, Reg. Bishop and Harry Blue, all of the Sherbrooke Club.

The inscription on these tablets, with the exception of the date, is the same on each one, and reads as follows:

"This unfortified Boundary Line between the Dominion of Canada and the United States of America should quicken the remembrance of the more than a century old friendship between these countries—a lesson of peace to all nations.

Erected (date), Kiwanis International."

The erection of these tablets is a continuing activity and it is the hope of your Committee that in due time one or more will be placed at every important boundary crossing.

Another beautiful bronze tablet was placed and dedicated by Kiwanis International on April 29, 1935, on the site where the Rush-Bagot Agreement was completed, now occupied by the Columbia Hospital for Women, in Washington, D. C. The design of this tablet is the same as the boundary tablet, but bears the following inscription:

"Peace through limitation of naval armament was promoted between the Dominion of Canada and the United States of America by the signing of the Rush-Bagot Agreement, April 23 and 29, 1817, providing for the restriction of naval forces on the Great Lakes.

"This notable agreement was negotiated on behalf of Canada in the British Legation which stood on this site."

"Placed April 29, 1935 by Kiwanis International."

Secretary Monroe wrote Mr. Adams, who was United States minister at London November 16, 1815, as follows:

"It is evident, if each party augments its force there, with a view to obtaining the ascendancy over the other, that vast expense will be incurred and the danger of collision augmented in like degree. The president is sincerely desirous to prevent an evil which it is presumed is equally to be deprecated by both governments. He therefore authorizes you to propose to the British government such an arrangement respecting the naval force to be kept on the lakes by both governments as will demonstrate their pacific policy and secure their peace. He is willing to confine it, on each side, to a certain moderate number of armed vessels, and the smaller the number the more agreeable to him; or to abstain altogether from an armed force beyond that used for revenue.

"You will bring this subject under the consideration of the British government immediately after the receipt of this letter."

The British envoy, Charles Bagot wrote James Monroe, July 26, 1816, as follows:

"Sir: Mr. Adams having intimated to His Majesty's Government that it was the wish of the Government of the United States that some understanding should be had, or agreement entered into, between the two countries, in regard to their naval armaments upon the lakes, which, while it tended to diminish the expenses of each country, might diminish also the chances of collision, and prevent any feelings of jealousy, I have the honor to acquaint you that I have received Lord Castlereagh's instructions to assure you that His Royal Highness the Prince Regent will cheerfully adopt in the spirit of Mr. Adams' suggestion any reasonable system which may contribute to the attainment of objects so desirable to both states &c &c &c."

James Monroe, President of the United States, wrote to the Senate on April 6, 1818, as follows:

"An arrangement having been made and concluded between this government and that of Great Britain with respect to the naval armament of the two governments, respectively, on the Lakes, I lay before the Senate a copy of the correspondence upon that subject, including the stipulations mutually agreed upon by the two parties. I submit it to the consideration of the Senate, whether this is such an arrangement as the Executive is competent to enter into by the powers vested in it by the Constitution, or is such a one as requires the advice and consent of the Senate, and, in the latter case, for their advice and consent should it be approved."

Some of the activities in which Granby Kiwanians participated were distribution of 33,125 free bottles of milk to the schools, distribution of 720 bottles of cod liver oil, and 36,000 units of vitamin capsules.

Two tonsillectomies were paid for, the club paid half the cost of a wheel chair and the full cost for hospital treatment for an epileptic boy. Milk for the under-privileged at summer camp cost $750; another $75 went to the Girl Guides' summer camp.

On Kids' Day, 3,000 children were entertained at a theatre and received candy. The club paid for repairs and improvements at the Youth Hostel. For the fifth consecutive year it provided seeds, plants and prizes for the boys' and girls' garden contest.

In six years, 66,650 young trees have been planted and 28,000 more are on order for 1952 planting.

Used furniture was collected to re-establish a needy family.

The club sponsored the introduction of civil defence to Granby, when civic officials were guests at a meeting at which Brigadier Guy Gauvreau, until recently civil arrangement is in the words following, to wit:

"The naval force to be maintained upon the American lakes by his Majesty and the government of the United States shall henceforth be confined to the following vessels on each side; that is

"On Lake Ontario, to one vessel not exceeding one hundred tons burden and armed with one 18 pound cannon

"On the upper lakes, to two vessels, not exceeding like burden each and armed with like force;

"On the water of Lake Champlain, to one vessel not exceeding like burden, and armed with like force.

"All other armed vessels on those lakes shall be forthwith dismantled and no other vessels of war shall be built or armed.

"If either party should be hereafter desirous of annulling this stipulation, and should give notice to that effect to the other party, it shall cease to be binding after the expiration of six months from date of such notice.

"The naval force to be limited, shall be restricted to such service as will in no respect interfere with the proper duties of the armed vessels of the other party."

And whereas the Senate of the United States have approved of the said arrangement and recommended that it should be carried into effect, the same having also received the sanction of His Royal Highness, the Prince Regent, acting in the name and on behalf of His Britannic Majesty;

Now, therefore, I, James Monroe, President of the United States, do, by this my proclamation, make known and declare that the arrangement aforesaid, and every stipulation thereof, had been duly entered into, concluded and confirmed, and is of full force and effect.

Given under my hand, at the city of Washington this 28th day of April, in the year of our Lord, 1818, and of the Independence of the United States, the 42nd.

By the President,
John Quincy Adams,
Secretary of State.

EXHIBIT "C" Inscription Harding International Good Will Memorial

"What an object lesson of peace is shown by our two great countries to all the world. No grimed fortifications mark our frontiers, no huge battleships patrol our dividing waters, no stealthy spies lurk in our tranquil border-lands. Only a scrap of paper, recording hardly more than a simple understanding, safeguards lives and properties on the Great Lakes, and only humble mile posts mark the inviolable boundary line for thousands of miles through farm and forest.

"Our protection is in our fraternity, our armor is our faith, and the tie that binds, more firmly year by year, is ever-increasing acquaintance and comradeship through interchange of citizens; and the compact is not of perishable parchment, but of fair and honorable dealing which, God grant, shall continue for all time."

Kiwanis Club Objects Cited

These are the objects of Kiwanis.

To give primacy to the human and spiritual rather than to the material values of life.

To encourage the daily living of the Golden Rule in all human relationships.

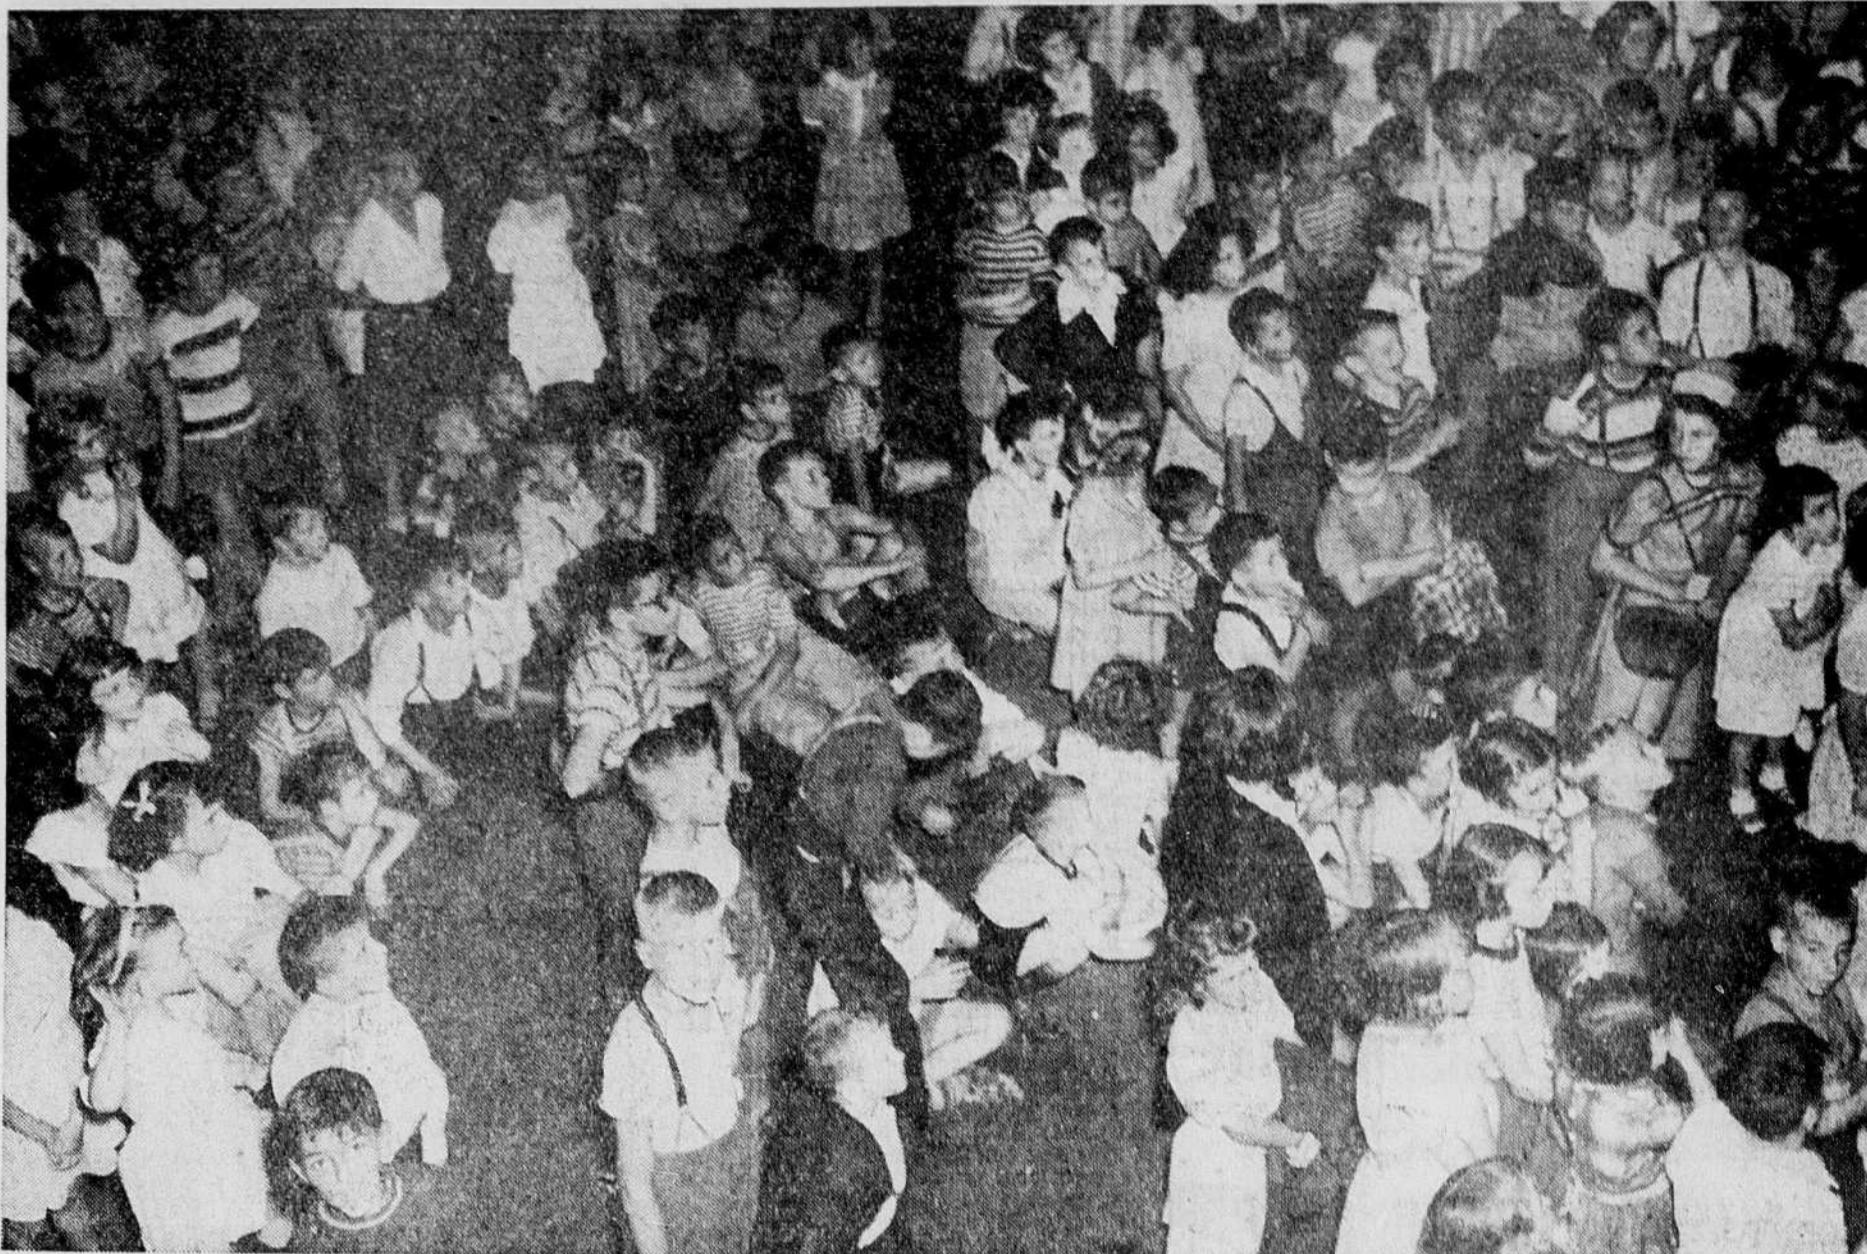

To promote the adoption and the application of higher social defence co-ordinator for Montreal, was the speaker.

Granby Kiwanians gave active assistance to the Canadian Red Cross Society in organizing blood donor clinics. The club donated two dozen white canes to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

To assist the community in these and other ways, the following are some of the fund-raising projects undertaken: Montreal Men's Choir concert, mile of pennies drive, Christmas seals campaign, Easter seals campaign, sugar social.

Clayton E. Ball is president of the Granby club and other senior officers are L. G. Roach, 1st vice-president; Gerard Legendre, 2nd vice-president; A. W. Robinson, Secretary, and W. J. Flannery, treasurer. Past president is Sidney Simms.

Not the least among the services rendered by Kiwanis International is that pertaining to youth, which includes boys and girls' work, key clubs and assistance to underprivileged children.

The recent past centuries have witnessed a development in the political and economic status of mankind. But these, in themselves, are insufficient if the individual is left to his own devices, without the fellowship and the brotherly attitude of mankind at large.

The romantic age of "pagants and maypoles" and the "good old times" when life was simple are things of the past. Conditions have now changed and whereas the pet theorist inflicted mankind with the dubious slogan "Live and let live," today the accent is more in line with the Sermon on the Mount, "Live and Help live."

With this object paramount, the Kiwanis Club of Magog was founded in December, 1950. During the first year the club underwent all the vicissitudes attendant upon a society in its initial stages.

In spite of this, the Welfare committee contributed clothing and nutriment to underprivileged children amounting to approximately $500. An artificial limb was purchased and a self-propelled wheel chair was bought jointly with the Magog Lions Club.

National Kids Day, held in September last year, was Magog's first public endeavor of importance. More than 2,000 children, some of them shown in the above picture, congregated in the Magog Arena to sing, watch motion pictures and to enjoy refreshments, without cost to them.

Now that the Magog Kiwanians have had time to appraise and evaluate conditions and finances, the program for the current year is more extended. The job done in the first year of existence, although small compared with much larger and financially sounder clubs, augurs well for the future.

Small In Numbers, Waterloo Kiwanis Club Still Does Outstanding Work

A comparatively small club in members, the Kiwanis Club, of Waterloo, is a big one in deed. Last year, on 11 major projects, the club spent $2,516, every cent of his money going in some way to benefit the community and its people.

Here is a break-down of how that money was spent and it gives a good indication of the varied work done by the club:

Tuberculosis X-rays for town-people, $900; milk for undernourished children, $827; toilets in Robinson park, $200; athletic equipment for schools, $174; repairs and cleaning up of beach, $105. In addition, Kiwanians gave 300 hours of their time on this project.

Wheel chair for a crippled child, $50; donation to Waterloo library, $50; record player for Scout hall, $75; prizes for Calf Club, $60; donation to Red Cross, $25; moving picture entertainment for children, $50.

To raise this money, the club staged an ice carnival, featuring the Sherbrooke Winter Club. It held an Easter dance, operated a lunch booth at the exhibition, staged a chicken shoot. It gave its Kiwanis Concert, featuring magician Tommy Auburn, and it sold Easter seals, its major project.

While membership is small, projects are well organized and well patronized. The club tries to concentrate on children as much as possible, but all worthy causes are taken into consideration.

Two picnic tables were erected on the Granby-Waterloo highway and this year the club plans to

Young Thetford Mines Club Makes Fine Progress During Three Years

The Kiwanis Club of Thetford Mines, organized less than three years ago, has made steady and sure progress, with care for the under-privileged its greatest activity, from which much good has come.

The club was organized, under the sponsorship of the Sherbrooke Kiwanis Club whose president then was Newman Hunter, in September, 1949.

The charter was issued on November 12, 1949, on which occasion a banquet was held at Thetford Mines at which there were some 350 persons present, including the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor and all the officials of District No. 7.

Sydney Bateman was installed as first president of the club with vice-presidents Gabriel Roberge and J. M. Cunningham, secretary V. J. Southey and treasurer Ivan Thetberge. The directors were W. N. Asbury, George Roy, Conrad Douville, Jack Hitman, Stuart

Hodge, M. J. MacLeod and C. H. McNaughton.

Twenty-one other men were accepted as charter members—M. C. Pharo, Dr. Marc Delage, C. H. Thomas, O. H. Adams, P. Boissonneault, George Nakash, Dr. Gaetan Cyr, L. C. Pluze, A. E. Johnston, G. E. Poirier, J. L. Lavioie, L. E. Lavigne, H. Gagnon, L. P. Roy and P. E. Leclerc.

In addition to service for under-privileged children, the club has also aided charitable institutions. Boys and girls and vocational guidance have not been neglected. Agricultural and conservation projects have also been featured, not forgetting the annual celebration of Kids' Day.

There are at present 45 members in the club and Kiwanis is well-established in the district, with a future that appears to be well assured.

President last year was Gabriel Roberge, a young Thetford Mines lawyer, while the current president is Harold McNaughton, general superintendent of Asbestos Corporation Ltd.

Newport Club Activities Are Varied

Public relations is an important item with the Magog Kiwanis Club and a four-man committee looks after the work. Chairman of the committee is Arthur St. Martin, pictured above. There are four departments in the committee, direct mail, bulletins, newspapers and photography. Members in addition to Mr. St. Martin, are Henry Jorgenson, Paul Legare and Charles Catchpugh, an honorary member of the club. Today's Kiwanis feature was instigated by this committee.

Activities of the Kiwanis Club of Newport, Vt., range from the sale of pigs to the staging of a winter carnival and each and every project has but one objective—to obtain the means to carry out the many good deeds that the club is doing in its community.

Some of the main projects which the club supports include a dental clinic for under-privileged children, to which Kiwanis contributed $200 a year; a poultry project in which the club finances about 12 children in the purchase of chickens, which they raise and

Two major building projects will in all probability be started here in the late summer, which will help to contribute to keep the building trade in high gear. The first of these would be the construction of a new Roman Catholic Church in St. Germain to replace the century old structure, which was completely destroyed by a spectacular fire on March 11. Blue prints are now in the process of being drawn up, and when completed the church will be rebuilt over the old foundation with a seating capacity of 1,200 at a total of $300,000. Architect L. N. Audet is also drawing up plans for a new school to be constructed at St. Simon directly adjoining the new church at present under construction. The new school, when completed will contain eight class rooms, with an additional thirty rooms set aside for teachers' accommodation. The cost of this new school has been estimated at $250,000, and is expected to get underway by the late summer.

A delegation of citizens of St. Philippe has requested the Drummondville City Council to have their municipality supply water from the city filtration pumping station. Mr. S. Giroux speaking in behalf of the delegation explained that St. Simon intends to install water mains on Mercure Blvd., and in this respect St. Philippe would like to have this service also extended simultaneously as a large number of families now depend on their neighbours for their present water supply. His Worship Mayor Biron replied that the City Council would have to have a complete estimate on extension costs, the number of fire hydrants required before a final decision could be reached in a satisfactory agreement, which would have the entire pledged support of the City Council.

A good turnout of members and their friends were in attendance to the regular bi-monthly meeting of the A.N.Y.P.A., which was held on Wednesday evening, April 2, at St. George's Hall, Heriot Street. Following a short business discussion, movies were shown with subscription, ranging from a scenic tour of the Province of Quebec, to a fine film of the R.C.M.P., which was followed by refreshments being served. On the following Sunday, the group met at St. George's Hall, and despite the unfavourable weather, then prevailing all climbed aboard the hay wagon and set out for a sugaring-off party. Following the ride, a short trek through the woods brought the group to a log cabin, where the processing of maple syrup and sugar was explained to them. After sampling the various products, old fashioned square dancing was then the order of the day, which lasted until sunset, with the order again given for all to get aboard the band-wagon for the return trip home, bringing to a conclusion a very happy day. At an executive meeting the following week, it was decided to hold an old fashioned "Farmer's Hoe-Down" with complete trimmings a caller, etc., on Friday evening, May 2, at St. George's Hall, with cordial invitation being extended all to join in the fun.

Mr. J. F. Grady, who has been a director and general manager of the Dennison Tag Manufacturing Company of Canada Limited, for the past few years, was, at a recent directors' meeting elected to the office of vice-president. Mr. Grady will continue to reside here in Drummondville and act in his capacity as the Company's general manager. Mr. J. S. Kier, of Fram-

Johnny Ubriaco With Two Goals Paces Winners Together With Hal Gordon's Top Goaltending; Fifth Game Saturday

Quebec, April 25.—(P)—Saint John Beavers, their backs to the wall last night in a do-or-die bid to remain in Alexander Trophy play, came up with a system for beating Quebec Aces' fast skating, smooth passing and keen-like backchecking.

The combination paid off when the Maritime Major Hockey Champions rocked the Quebecers and 10,391 fans with a 6-0 white-washing that spoiled Aces' chances of sweeping the best-of-seven series in four straight games.

With Quebec leading 3-1 in games, Beavers coach Johnny O'Flaherty would make no prediction about the fifth game here Saturday night.

"We'll play them one at a time," he said.

Beavers' scoring spree, paced by Johnny Ubriaco with two goals, caught the Quebec defence napping in the first period, and Aces never threatened seriously after Saint John went ahead 3-0.

The other markers went to Matt Mesich, Ken Watson, Tom Smelle and Dusty Blair.

Goalie Hal Gordon, bolstered by a hard-checking defence, played a large part in his team's victory with an excellent performance. He made 19 stops, compared with 24 by Jack Gelineau for Quebec.

Gordon made sparkling saves when two of Quebec's highest scorers, Jean Beliveau and Jackie Leclair, twice coasted right in on him.

Quebec came out of the game with the possible loss of two players. Marcel Bonin suffered a shoulder injury and Armand Gaudreault came down with an undetermined illness. They may not play Saturday.

From the start, the Beavers outskated the Aces and their passes were accurate. At the last whistle, Saint John was still going strong.

Ubriaco picked up his first goal when he deflected Carl Smelle's 25-foot shot into the net near the half-way mark in the first period. At 11:10, Mesich back-handed the

Frank Stranahan Goes Hunting For "Grand Slam" Of Golf This Summer

New York, April 25.—(P)—Porsuvering Frank Stranahan will go hunting again this year for the elusive "Grand Slam" of golf, a quartet of major championships which only the fabulous Bobby Jones has been able to package into a single season.

Stranahan's name was included in both lists today as the United States Golf Association announced American entries in the British Amateur at Prestwick, Scotland, May 28-31 and the British Open at St. Anne's July 7-11.

The 29-year-old heir to a Toledo, O., sparkplug fortune also has eyes on the U.S. Open at Dallas June 12-14 and the U.S. Amateur at Seattle Aug. 18-23.

Jones won the four big titles in 1930 and then retired from amateur ranks. Since then nobody has come close, but Stranahan has come close.

The muscled young millionaire won the British Amateur twice, in 1948 and 1950; finished just a

Sid Smith Wins Lady Byng Trophy

Montreal, April 25.—(P)—Sid Smith, spike-haired left-winger of Toronto Maple Leafs, was announced by the National Hockey League last night as winner of the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy for the 1951-52 season.

The trophy goes to "the player adjudged to have exhibited the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability during the season."

The voting was done by a panel of 18 sports writers and broadcasters, three from each N.H.L. city, and points were awarded on the basis of five for first choice, three for second and one for third.

Smith had 51 points, including nine first choices, of a possible 90. Red Kelly, all-star defenceman of Detroit Red Wings, was second with 27 points. Kelly won the trophy last year. Bill Mosienko of Chicago Black Hawks and Don Raleigh of New York Rangers tied for third place with 23 points each.

In addition to the trophy, Smith gets $1,000 from the league. He played in all 70 games during the season and had 27 goals and 30 assists. He incurred only three minor penalties—a total of six minutes.

Biltmores - Pats Set For Tonight

Guelph, Ont., April 25.—(P)—Rigorous practice drills were held yesterday as Regina Pats and Guelph Biltmores prepared for their first meeting tonight in the Memorial Cup hockey final.

The second game of the best-of-seven series will be played at Toronto Sunday.

Murray Armstrong, a former Toronto Maple Leafs player now coaching the Pats, says his club will have to be almost 25 per cent stronger to win under prevailing conditions.

"Strange ice, strange fans—it's difficult to win under those conditions. We had a great record home . . . We might have won had it been out there."

Coach Albie Pike of Biltmores said he will wait until after the first game before making any guess about the series.

"If the team plays like it did in the final two games with Montreal, I won't worry," he said.

His club won the Eastern Canada Championship last week, ousting Montreal Canadiens in six games.

Regina gained a berth in the Memorial Cup race by defeating Calgary, Edmonton, Flin Flon and Fort William teams in that order. Two years ago they lost the Canadian final to Montreal Canadiens.

U.S. Beats Canada In Dinghy Race

Hamilton, Bermuda, April 25.—(P)—The United States yesterday won the International 14-foot dinghy team race from Canada although Moonbeam, sailed by Bruce Kirby of the Britannia Yacht Club of Ottawa, finished first.

The U.S. team of three boats finished second, third and fourth to win the title with 18 points. Besides first place, the Canadians took fifth and sixth and piled up 15 1/2 points.

Moonbeam was first in 5:58.35. The other Canadian boats were Seahorse, sailed by Wally Williams, fifth in 5:59.53 and Lady June, sailed by Jack Muir of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto, sixth in 5:59.4.

Boston Braves Beat New York Giants 6-3 While Boston Red Sox Win 3-2 Over New York Yankees In 11 Innings

Boston Braves snapped a three-game National League losing streak and in the process beat the "lefty" jinx Thursday when they defeated New York Giants 6-3 in 10 innings.

In the only other game of the day—three National League and two American League games were postponed because of the weather.

Semi-Finals Reached In Golf Tourney

Pinehurst, N.C., April 25.—(P)—Frank Strafaci and Al Galletta, both of New York State; Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, and Harry Haverstick Jr. of Lancaster, Pa., yesterday knocked the South completely out of the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament.

Each eliminated a dixie hopeful, including both 1951 finalists, to gain today's 36-hole semi-finals which sends Strafaci against Haverstick and Stranahan against Galletta.

Haverstick furnished the major surprise, a 1 up victory over last year's runner-up, Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C.

Stranahan registered a 4 and 3 victory over defending champion Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga. Strafaci eliminated Ben Goodies, Reidsville, N.C., laundryman for the 19th hole.

Galletta knocked out Ed Gravelly of Rocky Mount, N.C., 4 and 3.

Boston Red Sox whipped New York Yankees 3-2 in an 11-inning affair.

Giants Manager Leo Durocher got Max Lanier, another in a long line of left-handed pitchers who have been plaguing the Braves, to the mound. For seven innings he didn't allow the Beantowners a run.

But in the eighth, Boston finally got to Lanier and tied the count at 3-3. That brought Dave Koslo, another southpaw, to the scene. He was charged with the defeat when he gave up three runs in the 10th inning.

Hero of the Braves' uprising was rookie Ed Matthews, who doubled with the bases loaded, sending home two runs. That finished Koslo, and George Spencer came on. Jack Cusick sent home the third tally with a fly.

The Red Sox beat the Yanks when relief pitcher Bob Kuzava forced home the winning run by walking Billy Goodman with the bases loaded.

Ed Lopat had held the Sox to five hits in his nine-inning stint on the mound. For the Sox, Maury McDermott started and went up to the 11th, but was relieved then by rookie Ivan Delock, who got credit for the triumph.

Kuzava suffered his first loss when catcher Sammy White beat out an infield hit, Dom DiMaggio singled and Jim Piersall walked to load the bases. Then he walked Goodman for the game. White previously had homered off Lopat.

Hornsby Happy With Young Winning Team

St. Louis, April 25.—(P)—Rogers Hornsby, the stone-faced Rajah of baseball, yesterday was like a stern father trying to hide his pride in a spunky son.

He almost smiled in talking about the victory surge of his button-bustin' Browns. Sports writers last year called them the "lowly" Browns. Yesterday they held a lofty perch—first place in the American League.

Bobby Cain put them there Thursday night with a one-hit pitching performance that whipped Cleveland Indians 1-0. It was the seventh victory in eight games for the Browns.

As his still somewhat wet-behind-the-ears club whooped it up with newly won confidence, the grey-haired Rajah tried hard to appear unimpressed after the game.

"Great job of pitching by Cain," said Hornsby. "Fine game. Our boys are hustling."

Yesterday the blunt Mr. Hornsby elaborated: "Fine game, our boys are hustling. We're getting the pitching."

Shortstop Marty Marion, who like Hornsby has been with winning teams before, was less reluctant.

"These kids are just plain crazy to play baseball," the ex-Cardinal manager said, "and when you get a bunch of fellows on one club all as eager to play as these Browns, you know anything can happen."

St. Louis fans, who in previous season showered most of their attention on the Cardinals, are wildly enthusiastic about the new Browns.

The temperature Thursday night was as cold—50 degrees—as the pitchers were hot, yet attendance was 7,110. That brought the Brownie home gate this year to 70,916, compared with 22,576 for five playing dates last year.
