DESPITE SCAREMONGERS, THERE IS NO WAR TEMPER EVIDENT TODAY

General Jan C. Smuts Confident Present Disquieting Phase Will Pass and a New Renaissance of European Spirit Will Follow—Believes Issue Around which Greatest Battles in This and Coming Generation Will Be Fought, if Cause of Our Civilization Is to Be Saved, Is Issue of Freedom—Activities of "New Tyranny Disguised in Attractive Patriotic Colors" Greatest Peace Menace.

Dundee, Scotland, October 17.—"I do not agree with those who think the world is on the verge of another great war," declared General Jan C. Smuts, Empire statesman who played a leading part in the last conflict, as he delivered his rectorial address today to the University of St. Andrews.

General Smuts, noted soldier and scientist, former Prime Minister of South Africa, has been rector for the past three years of the five-hundred-year old university, but this is the first occasion on which he has been able to be present for induction. His term expires in a few months.

"The issue around which the greatest battles in this and the coming generation will be fought, if the cause of our good civilization is to be saved, is the issue of freedom," he continued. In the events of the times he saw much ground for anxiety, but none for real pessimism.

Scaremongers were doing their best to create an atmosphere of war, but despite them, and the present lamentable failure of disarmament efforts; and despite the vogue of "silly drilling and strutting about in uniform," he said, "I do not find real war temper anywhere."

"The issue of freedom is once more squarely raised and cannot be evaded. A new tyranny disguised in attractive patriotic colors is enticing youth everywhere into its service."

In this obvious reference to Fascism and Hitlerism, the General added that he feared the danger of another great war.

"I have no doubt," he concluded, however, "that the present disquieting phase will pass, and a new renaissance of European spirit will follow."

FRENCH DIPLOMATS HAVE FULL SUPPORT OF ITALY

Paris, Oct. 17.—French diplomats have the full support of Benito Mussolini in their efforts to keep the Marseilles assassinations from disrupting the peace of Europe.

Diplomatic circles said today they were informed Il Duce is more than ever bent on pushing a policy of conciliation, despite the years of ill feeling between Italy and Yugoslavia.

As the threads of the assassination plot are gradually being unraveled, the French Foreign Office is just as busy as the nation's police have been.

Plans to scatter the clouds which gathered eight days ago when the assassin's pistol was fired were laid in a long talk between Dr. Edouard Benes, Czechoslovakian Foreign Minister and leader of the Little Entente and League of Nations, and Pierre Laval, France's new Foreign Minister.

Laval plans to pursue the vigorous policies of his predecessor, Louis Barthou, a victim at Marseilles with King Alexander. He will soon visit Rome.

A judicial investigation of the Marseilles tragedy is being developed there. Ivan Rajitch and Zvonimir Pospechil, confessed members of the assassination band, are being taken to Marseilles. Mio Kralj, third suspect to be jailed, probably will join them. Police said Kralj admitted he was sent to Marseilles to kill Alexander.

With these arrests, police said all of the "assassination squad" now are definitely identified or accounted for except a mysterious beauty, "Delegata" Kvaternik, alleged to be a member of the band. Swiss police are following clues which may lead to her arrest.

The hiding place of Dr. Ante Pavelich, supposed "brain" back of the conspiracy, police claim is known and they say they are ready to seize him.

GNAWED SHOES TO EASE THEIR HUNGER PANGS

Could Not Even Have Small Mercy of Sleep Because of Narrow Corridors of Pits—Scores Collapsed

Pecs, Hungary, Oct. 17.—From many parts of the world came messages of sympathy and encouragement today for the twelve hundred miners who remained on a five-day underground hunger strike in a dramatic fight for better wages.

A number of miners expressed dissatisfaction with the compromise which brought them above ground early yesterday. A winter bonus of $3, another at Christmas and longer working time was promised the men, who demanded a weekly wage of $3.50 as against their previous one of $2.

One hundred and ten of them were in such a condition they were taken to a hospital after they were brought out.

"The pangs of hunger maddened us to such an extent," said a seventy-two-year-old miner, "that we ate our leather belts and gnawed at our shoes. We couldn't even have the small mercy of sleep because the corridors of the pits are so narrow that we were forced to

RELEASED AFTER WEEK OF CAPTIVITY

Mrs. Alice Helen Stoll, twenty-six year old wife of a wealthy Louisville, Ky., oil man, was released in Indianapolis this morning after being held captive in an apartment there since the time she was kidnapped from her home a week ago. Fifty thousand dollars was paid for her release and today the police seek the abductor, who they believe is a former lunatic asylum inmate.

AS ONE U.S. KIDNAPPING MYSTERY WAS SOLVED, NEW ONE APPEARED

Mrs. Alice Stoll, Louisville Society Woman, Released After Week's Imprisonment in Indianapolis Apartment—Snatchers Holding Young Son of Prosperous Bronx Junk Dealer for $20,000 Ransom—Missing Cheshire, Conn., Child Not Kidnap Victim.

After six days in the hands of kidnapers, Mrs. Alice Stoll, young Louisville society leader, was safe in her home today as a new kidnapping case was dropped in the lap of the law and Department of Justice agents revealed an extortion plot against Edsel Ford, the Detroit automobile manufacturer.

Federal agents announced they had arrested Edward Lickwala as the writer of the note received by Ford, only son of Henry Ford, threatening to kill him unless him paid $5,000. Department of Justice agents said he confessed.

In New York a search was being made for Lewis Esposito, twenty-three year old son of a prosperous junk dealer in the Bronx, New York City, reported missing since Monday.

His family said they had received telephoned demands for $20,000 ransom for $50,000.

Fears that eight year old Gloria Gennaro, of Cheshire, Conn., had been kidnapped were dispelled when the child appeared at school today, after spending the night with school mates. An all-night search had been made for her.

Mrs. Stoll, abducted a week ago, was charged with her abduction, was being held in an Indianapolis apartment, was released last night. Physicians ordered her to bed for a week, but pronounced her "in fairly good condition" today.

T. H. Robinson, Jr., the man charged with her abduction, was being hunted. His wife, who is said to have acted as a guard for Mrs. Stoll, was held.

A major development in the Lindbergh kidnap case occurred last night in New York when Bruno Hauptmann's habeas corpus action to prevent removal to New Jersey to stand trial for the Lindbergh baby kidnap-murder was denied. His attorney filed notice of an appeal.

WEALTHY JUNK DEALER'S SON HELD FOR $20,000

New York, Oct. 17.—The snatch racket has struck in the Bronx again.

Louis Esposito, twenty-three year old son of a wealthy junk dealer, is being held by kidnapers for $20,000 ransom.

Federal agents and police—just concluding their case against Bruno Hauptmann in the Lindbergh abduction and murder—have little to report on. They say the youth's family is reverent to drive his vengeance to co-operate. Esposito vanished on Monday evening.

His automobile was found abandoned last night in the Bronx, seven miles north of his home and about a mile south of Hauptmann's residence. Its proximity to the Hauptmann home, however, was not considered significant.

The youth is the son of Anthony Esposito, wealthy junk dealer, Louis, who was engaged to be married shortly, left his home on Monday evening at Christmas and longer working time was promised the men, who demanded a weekly wage of $3.50 as against their previous one of $2.

Two hours later Louis' sister answered a telephone call, screamed and fainted. The voice on the wire had told her:

"We have Louis and you won't stand up on each side of the corridor." Scores collapsed from weakness, he said, and "the pangs of hunger maddened us to such an extent, that we ate our leather belts and gnawed at our shoes. We couldn't even have the small mercy of sleep because the corridors of the pits are so narrow that we were forced to

FORMER ASYLUM INMATE SOUGHT FOR ABDUCTION

Wife of Alleged Kidnapper and Guard of Kidnapped Louisville Society Matron Held as Woman is Released After Ransom Money Payment.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 17.—The relentless forces of the United States Department of Justice spread a net today for Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., twenty-seven year old Tennessee, accused of the kidnapping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

The wealthy young society matron was brought home last night after a harrowing six days of captivity for a $50,000 ransom.

Robinson, former inmate of lunatic asylums, is named by federal agents as the man who entered the Stoll home last Wednesday, snugged Mrs. Stoll with an iron pipe and carried her off to an Indianapolis apartment where she remained until yesterday afternoon.

The federal operatives are confident they will get their man. He is believed to have fled the Louisville area in an automobile bearing Illinois license plates and a Chicago tag.

Investigators also are looking for the $50,000 ransom fund paid by Mrs. Stoll's husband, Berry V. Stoll, oil company executive, for her release.

The investigators are holding Robinson's wife, who they said picked up the $50,000 ransom package from her father-in-law—the intermediary—in Nashville. Mrs. Robinson was captured as she accompanied Mrs. Stoll from Indianapolis to Louisville yesterday. She refused to participate in the ransom money," said George Stoll, "and came to Louisville at her own very great risk. The family here is very solicitous about her welfare and hopes that she may be given every possible consideration. We feel she has been very fine to us."

Mrs. Stoll was put to bed as soon as she arrived at her home last night. She was brutally treated at times during her imprisonment, but was said by a physician to be in fairly good condition. The physician would not allow anyone to question her, with the result that details of her captivity are not known.

NATIONAL RAIL HEAD OPPOSES AMALGAMATION

Hon. C. P. Fullerton Declares Figures Used by E. W. Beatty, K.C., as to Possible Savings Exaggerated—Co-ordination Favored.

Halifax, Oct. 17.—A system of co-ordination rather than amalgamation of Canada's two great railways would be far greater benefit to the people according to Hon. C. P. Fullerton, chairman of the board of trustees, Canadian National Railways.

Replying to contentions of E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway that union would effect a saving of $75,000,000 annually, Hon. Mr. Fullerton said here yesterday that amalgamation was not an issue as far as he was concerned—it had been settled in Parliament.

Speaking before a group of Halifax business men, the board chairman declared: "Mr. Beatty says that amalgamation will take the railways away from political influence. Perhaps you believe that, but I don't."

"When the C.P.R. president said $75,000,000 could be saved by this means he spoke not from his own knowledge but from what his own officers told him, and they used figures for 1930," Mr. Fullerton declared. He believed that saving would not be more than $50,000,000.

"If the railways wished to proceed ruthlessly, they could of course cut down expenses but it would be by dismissing men, reducing salaries, abandoning lines, and putting men out of work."

The Canadian National Railway trustee said that extravagance on their lines had been done away with and political interferences had been eliminated.

The nationally-owned railway had reduced costs of operation. In 1930 there had been an operating deficit of $20,000,000. From 1932 on the railway met its operating costs and from 1928 the system paid its operating expenses and the interests on its bonds. The depression halved revenues for all railways. The Canadian Pacific had been in exactly the same position as the Canadian National and had to go to the government for assistance.

Mr. Fullerton paid tribute to S. J. Hungerford, president of the line, stating: "I don't know who to operate a railway but, thank God I have a man who can."

He said, together with other high officials of the Canadian National Railways today proceeded to Prince Edward Island to inspect the company's lines.

ROYAL FUNERAL UNITES PEOPLE OF YUGOSLAVIA

Hundreds of Thousands of Persons Suffer Great Privations from Cold as Housing Accommodations at Belgrade Prove Inadequate.

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Oct. 17.—Nights without shelter or sleep in bitter cold weather faced hundreds of thousands pouring into Belgrade today to attend funeral ceremonies for King Alexander.

Heavy snowstorms, accompanied by high winds, are sweeping toward the capital from Slovenia, where the snow in some places is two feet deep.

The blizzards descend upon Belgrade they will add immeasurably to the discomforts already suffered by the legion of mourners here, they are now sleeping in railroad stations, carts, streets and hallways.

Hospitable Yugoslav families offered the visitors all available private rooms, but there were not nearly enough accommodations for the 250,000 persons already here.

Fifty special trains have arrived daily for the past several days, and people of all classes continue to pour in, by foot, horseback and in ox-carts. Some 150,000 additional visitors were expected today.

King Boris, of Bulgaria, definitely is coming for the funeral. He will arrive by special train this afternoon, the Yugoslav Government said.

Apprehensive that an attempt might be made on his life if a lurking Balkan assassin knew of his coming, the Bulgarian government deliberately announced as a camouflage that the King's brother, Cyrill, who arrived this morning, would represent him.

The Yugoslav government awaited King Boris with the deepest interest and gratitude, for it remembers that the Bulgarian King, the last Royal ruler to see Alexander alive, had inaugurated with Alexander a new era of friendship.

Arrivals included President Albert Lebrun of France, who was greeted by Prince Paul and members of the cabinet.

In death Alexander had succeeded in giving a culturally varied people a feeling of unity through a common grief such as they never had while he lived.

The belief grew among the people that the regency would take advantage of this opportunity to call a free and secret election, abandoning dictatorial methods.

BLONDES NOT IN DEMAND Toronto, Oct. 17.—Applications received by the student "date" bureau of the University of Toronto reveal that gentlemen are not so fond of blondes after all. Only twenty-five per cent. of the applications announce a desire for the ladies with fair hair.

The "date" bureau is doing a rushing business as youths, unable to locate a partner for dances and other social functions, are applying to the bureau. Women students, slow to come forward at first, are now finding the bureau an advantage.

NEWS RECORDS SEVERAL DEATHS The following deaths were recorded in today's Canadian Press despatches:

Brookline, Mass.—James J. Pihel, 63, senior member of the banking and brokerage firm of Pihel, Blower and Weeks and considered one of the outstanding Catholic laymen in the United States.

Gibraltar—Richard L. Sprague, 62, Consul-General for the United States at Gibraltar.

PLANS TO EXTEND ITALO-AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN PACT

Rome, October 17.—Premier Julius Goemboos, of Hungary, will visit Premier Mussolini shortly, it was learned today.

A date has not yet been set, but Goemboos will come to Rome either on the last two days of October or the first few days of November.

His visit is to extend and enlarge the Italo-Austro-Hungarian pact signed several months ago, and he also will discuss with Il Duce the possible entrance of Czechoslovakia into the treaty.

Hungary, it was understood, may place several political conditions on Czechoslovakia's entrance, such as guarantees regarding Hungarian minorities in Czechoslovakia.

VETERAN BRITISH LABOR LEADER ORDERED TO TAKE REST

London, Oct. 17.—On the advice of his physicians, Arthur Henderson, veteran leader of the British Labor party, retired to his home today for a rest. At the close of the recent Labor party congress he was compelled to enter a sanatorium for treatment, but he was reported to have recovered.

It appears to become definite that French commercial policy is on the eve of a change of highest importance. It would seem quotas are to disappear gradually and be replaced by temporary increases in tariffs on merchandise which formerly was under quota.

The newspaper applauded the change, which it had long advocated, and commented thus on France's effort to gain friendship among other nations: "It is vain to pretend to open one's heart and close one's markets."

Max Hymans, president of the Chamber of Deputies committee on customs and commercial accords, said Parliament was dissatisfied with the results of quotas and was ready to consider another system.

Hymans proposed to go about abolishing the quotas in connection with negotiation of new trade treaties, but in other quarters it was learned the Government planned to effect the change by decree. It has special powers enabling it to do so, which expire November 15 but may be renewed.

Increases in tariff rates, which would naturally accompany dropping of quotas in order to maintain protection and bargaining power, have already gone into effect. Yesterday duties on machines were raised and higher schedules were announced for ebonite and other manufactured hard rubber goods. It was expected that quotas on these commodities soon would be removed.

While certain quotas were abolished from time to time during the past year by the Ministry of Commerce, the creation of new quotas hitherto far exceeded the abandonment of old ones.

The Doumergue Government has encountered widespread criticism of corruption and complaints of injustice and favoritism. Lucien Lamoureux, Minister of Commerce, has said the present system was unsatisfactory and promised to drop quotas when a better system was found.

MISSIONARIES RELEASED WITHOUT RANSOM PAYMENT Group, Including Canadian Girl, Captured by Bandits a Week Ago, Arrived Today at Changteh in Hunan Province.

Changteh, Hunan Province, China, Oct. 17.—A group of foreign missionaries, including a Swiss Canadian girl, captured by bandits a week ago, arrived here today from eastern and northern Kweichow province.

Miss Grace Embien, a British subject who once lived in Winnipeg, another Briton and a Swiss missionary had been held for 500,000 Mexican dollars ransom money, around $150,000. It was not immediately apparent how their release had been effected.

The China Inland Mission, to which they belonged, had announced the money would not be paid. Wives of the two men who were taken captive with Miss Embien had been allowed to return to Kweichow, where all had gone to attend a meeting.

THE DOCTRINE OF COLONIZATION OUTLINED BY QUEBEC GOVERNMENT

Hon. Irene Vautrin Tells Colonization Congress of Plan to Take Unemployed with Farming Knowledge from Cities and Place Them in Groups of Fifty in Rural Areas—Premier Warns Co-operation of Settlers Needed—Cardinal Villeneuve Praises Project.

Quebec, October 17.—In a determined effort to establish colonization on a footing that will allow French-Canadian unemployed to settle permanently on the land and derive their living therefrom, over three hundred leading apostles of the back-to-the-land movement gathered here today in the parliament buildings for the two day colonization congress sponsored by the Quebec Government.

Who-hearted support to the government plan of assisting the Legislature to vote $10,000,000 for colonization of the next Legislative session was given by Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Lieutenant-Governor, and Cardinal J. M. R. Villeneuve, while Premier L. A. Taschereau made it clear the government could not do everything and that the co-operation of the settlers themselves was required.

The Lieutenant-Governor said the French-Canadian race must always hold its proper rank in national development, but in doing so should view the future of agriculture and colonization "remain the basis of our national solidarity." He said there were few problems which could possibly preoccupy the minds of the guiding spirits in the community than those directly concerned with the future of the nation.

The Diocese Colonization Society Cardinal Villeneuve placed at the disposal of the Government, stressing that "it will not participate in party politics in any way nor will it be an organ of the party in power."

Premier Taschereau emphasized his interest lay in placing farmers' sons at work in the country. "There are the unemployed in the cities and there are the jobless youths in the rural centres. These young men must at all costs be kept in the country and derive their living from the ranks of the unemployed in the cities. Our population must understand the government cannot do everything."

He concluded by congratulating Hon. Irene Vautrin, Minister of Colonization, for his efforts to improve the lot of his compatriots.

The Dominion Government's back-to-the-land plan had not given the results expected, Mr. Vautrin declared. Under the Dominion Government plan, he said, municipalities had not been able to contribute as requested, consequently a provincial plan was of necessity required.

"The cost will be entirely borne by the province," he declared, "without any contribution by the municipalities, to establish settlers in groups of about fifty at a time.

"Settlers will first go to their new homes either at their own expense or at the expense of an organization being financially aided by the Government. A colony of four houses, to be used later by settlers occupying the lots on which they are built, the present, after which settlers would be installed in them and proceed to clear their own lots aided by grants in the cases of the most needy.

TEMPORARY HIGHER DUTIES WILL REPLACE FRENCH IMPORT QUOTAS

Ministry of Commerce Confirms Reports of Important Change in French Economic Policy, which Has Already Been Applied in Several Instances—Officials Decline to Give Any Details or Plans or to Say Whether Original Plan of Doing Away with Quotas Gradually Is to Be Followed or a Big Mass of Them Dropped Immediately—Move Hailed in Many Quarters.

Paris, October 17.—The new policy of abolishing quotas and substituting temporarily higher tariffs for protection, was confirmed officially today by the Ministry of Commerce.

The policy already has been applied in several instances and further decrees are expected soon. The ministry declined to give any details or plans or to say whether the original plan of doing away with the quotas gradually is to be followed or a big mass of them dropped immediately.

L'Information, leading financial newspaper, yesterday pointed out increased tariffs can limit imports as well as quotas.

"It appears to become definite that French commercial policy is on the eve of a change of highest importance. It would seem quotas are to disappear gradually and be replaced by temporary increases in tariffs on merchandise which formerly was under quota."

JUDGE REFUSES HABEAS CORPUS FOR HAUPTMANN

Appeal Court Holds Only Hope for Hauptmann to Avoid Standing Trial in New Jersey on Kidnap-Murder Charge.

New York, Oct. 17.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann is a step closer today to trial for the murder of the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

His plea against extradition rejected, Hauptmann's only hope of preventing his removal to New Jersey now lies in an appeal to the appellate division of the Supreme Court. His counsel plans to file an appeal immediately.

The unsparing carpenter's fight against extradition was dealt a crushing blow when Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer dismissed the writ of habeas corpus sought in an attempt to prevent Hauptmann's removal to New Jersey.

Announcing his decision last night, Justice Hammer said: "My conclusion is that the relator, Hauptmann, has failed to make out a case, and that he has not established beyond a reasonable doubt that he was not in New Jersey the night the crime alleged was committed."

After the decision was announced, Hauptmann's counsel obtained a stay of execution until 4 p.m. Friday in order to bring his appeal before the appellate division. It is considered likely that action on the appeal will be taken by that time.

Hauptmann remains in the Bronx County jail where he has been held since his arrest nearly a month ago. If the final barrier to his extradition is removed, he will be taken immediately to Flemington, N.J., where his trial will take place. New Jersey authorities were ready to transfer Hauptmann across the Hudson last night if Justice Hammer had not granted the stay.

The decision blasting Hauptmann's hope of evading trial on the murder charge came at a night session following Hauptmann's appearance on the stand in the late afternoon in which he denied calmly and deliberately that he had written the ransom notes received by Col. Lindbergh after the baby was kidnaped.

Earlier in the day Albert S. Osborn, handwriting expert, had testified the ransom notes were in the handwriting of Hauptmann, and Attorney General E. H. Clegg examined the notes carefully and asked him whether they were in his handwriting.

Slowly Hauptmann read each note. Not a word was said. For nine minutes he scrutinized the collection. Then he said: "It is not my handwriting. It is the first time I ever saw them."

Hauptmann denied also that he was in New Jersey during the first four months of 1932. This was in denial of testimony of Millard Whitely, New Jersey farmer, who identified Hauptmann as the "stranger" he saw near the Hopewell home of Col. Lindbergh on two occasions during the two weeks preceding the kidnaping.

The opinion also referred to the question of an alibi. It is Hauptmann's contention that on the night the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped he had dinner with his wife in a Bronx restaurant and then went home where he spent the night.

"The question of alibi," said Justice Hammer, "or any question as to the guilt or innocence of the accused, may not properly be considered in extradition proceedings, but must await trial for determination."

MISSING MAN WAS TO HAVE BEEN DRUG CASE WITNESS

Police Believe George Thompson Frightened into Hiding by Those Involved in Coming Narcotic Prosecutions.

Montreal, Oct. 17.—New light was cast today on the disappearance of George Thompson, waiter in an uptown club, when Corporal Jean Raymond, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said the man was to have been a witness for the prosecution in two illicit drug trials to be heard shortly.

Friends of the missing waiter said he vanished a few days after he had boasted he knew something about the killing of Charles Feigenbaum, smuggler and police informer. They were fearful the slayers of Feigenbaum were responsible for the disappearance.

The police officer stated, however, he believed Thompson was still in Montreal, but had been frightened into hiding by those involved in the coming narcotic prosecutions.

POLICE CHECK YOUTHS' QUEST FOR ADVENTURE

Two Adventurous Boys Had Hiked from Toronto to Cowansville—Queen City Authorities Requested Their Detention

Cowansville, Oct. 17.—It is all in a day's work says Chief of Police R. G. Forster. A police force has many duties. Besides safeguarding the peace of a community, investigating robberies and directing traffic, the minions of the law have a hundred and one other things to do.

It was one of these other things that concerned Chief Forster this week. Two youths walked wearily into Cowansville and obtained lodging at a boarding house on South street. Shortly after their arrival Chief Forster received a telegram from Toronto. The message did not give local authorities the names of the pair, but requested that they be detained.

Further investigation revealed that the youths, Kenneth Mariner, sixteen years of age, and Jack Boyd, fifteen years old, had left the city of Toronto on their own initiative. They were not one of those ordinary hikers through woods. The call of the road was too strong, and the pair decided to see the country.

Their travels brought them to Cowansville just as the communication reached Chief Forster. The Toronto police, acting on the request of the boys' parents, asked that they be taken into custody until their fathers reached here to return them home—not on foot but by car. In due time one of the parents arrived and the youths are now being held in the city jail.

Chief Forster said he was relieved of his charges by a grateful father. The ace detectives, who have struck blow after blow at the kidnap racket, were confident that they would soon seize Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., twenty-seven-year-old fornicator, who is named as the kidnapper.

"Additional arrests are expected in the near future," the Department also announced, but it declined to name the other suspects.

Agents made clear that almost from the very first day of the case they felt certain that Robinson was the kidnapper. They had no doubt they would catch him—but they were driven to a terrific pace by the fear that Mrs. Stoll would be killed before they could reach their goal.

They said Robinson had been seen at robbery and of attempted assault on young girls in or near Nashville, Tenn.

It was after one of the robbery charges were brought against him that he spent a period in the state insane asylum at Nashville.

As signs of Robinson's feeble intellect were pointed out, fingerprints left on the ransom letter and the fact that the note name "T. H. Robinson" as intermediary. This is the name of the youth's father. The elder Robinson's address in Nashville was given in the letter, making it doubly easy for the agents to begin their work of tracing.

"The ransom letter," said a statement released by William Stanley, assistant to the Attorney General, "was obtained by special agents and immediately forwarded to the technical laboratory of the Department of Justice in Washington."

"Latent fingerprints developed on the letter, were pronounced by fingerprint experts to be identical with the fingerprints of T. H. Robinson, Jr."

"Known specimens of the handwriting of T. H. Robinson, Jr., were also obtained by special agents and upon comparison by the handwriting experts of the technical laboratory, were concluded to be positively identical with the fragmentary hand printing contained in the ransom letter."

Although the elder Robinson first was named as intermediary, later messages from the kidnapper selected Mrs. Frances Robinson, wife of the hunted man, to fill that role. She was taken into custody last night because, according to J. Edgar Hoover, chief of investigators, she passed some of the $50,000 ransom paid by Berry Stoll, wealthy husband of the kidnaped woman.

A second telephone call to the home, this one from a woman, came an hour after the first. The speaker ordered the brother who answered to meet her in front of a restaurant, saying she could be recognized by a small patch of adhesive tape on her face. Louis' two brothers hastened there, but could not find the woman.

CLUES LACKING IN CASE OF MISSING SCHOOL GIRL

Cheshire, Conn., Oct. 17.—A search is being conducted today for Gloria Gennaro, eight year old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gennaro.

The child, believed a possible kidnapping victim, was reported missing three hours after she failed to return home from school yesterday. Gloria had been in the habit of riding the 8:20 a.m. interurban car, which passes the school at the time classes are dismissed.

But authorities said they know definitely she did not board that street car yesterday and are at a loss for essential clues.

It was about 6 p.m. before anyone knew she was missing, investigators said, and then constables were notified and a systematic search of the wooded sections about the school and along the railway tracks from there to her home was begun.

ABDUCTOR'S FINGERPRINTS FOUND ON RANSOM LETTER

Washington, Oct. 17.—The story of a six day quest to free Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll from the hands of an insane and brutal kidnapper was told today by United States Department of Justice men.

The ace detectives, who have struck blow after blow at the kidnap racket, were confident that they would soon seize Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., twenty-seven-year-old fornicator, who is named as the kidnapper.

"Additional arrests are expected in the near future," the Department also announced, but it declined to name the other suspects.

Agents made clear that almost from the very first day of the case they felt certain that Robinson was the kidnapper. They had no doubt they would catch him—but they were driven to a terrific pace by the fear that Mrs. Stoll would be killed before they could reach their goal.

They said Robinson had been seen at robbery and of attempted assault on young girls in or near Nashville, Tenn.

It was after one of the robbery charges were brought against him that he spent a period in the state insane asylum at Nashville.

As signs of Robinson's feeble intellect were pointed out, fingerprints left on the ransom letter and the fact that the note name "T. H. Robinson" as intermediary. This is the name of the youth's father. The elder Robinson's address in Nashville was given in the letter, making it doubly easy for the agents to begin their work of tracing.

REICHSBISHOP URGES UNITED GERMAN CHURCH

Nazi Leaders Anxiously Await Reaction Throughout Country to Appeal for Support from Protesting Clergymen.

Berlin, Oct. 17.—Nazi leaders, worried over Germany's bitter church struggle, anxiously awaited reaction today to an appeal by Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller for peace within Protestant ranks.

"We have sought to interest everybody again in the church and re-establish one evangelical German church," said Mueller, whose dictatorial policies led hundreds of pastors and their congregations to rebel.

"We have no thought of abandoning the gospel," he declared, branding as lies "Anti-Nazi" socialists' demands for a state church in which Chancellor Hitler, not God, would be dominant.

He warned that "if the church by itself cannot become orderly, whether through human failures or the state's duty to compel order."

Regarding the Aryan situation, long a source of dissension in Protestant ranks, Mueller declared: "I deny the assertion that Christianity is closely connected with Jewry. The Old Testament shows that Jews assassinated all who uncompromisingly preached God's truth until finally Jesus was crucified."

"Even today Jews' and Christians' viewpoints are opposed and wrong to assert that Christianity was born of Jewry. Now is the time for the German Christian people to realize they do not need to understand Jewry. We cannot abandon the anti-Semitic clause. President Von Hindenburg, who died in August, told me to take care that the word 'Jew' be preached in Germany."

FORMER ASYLUM INMATE SOUGHT FOR ABDUCTOR

Continued from Page One. Inson at a secret hiding place here to learn her knowledge of the kidnaping. Whether any charges will be lodged against her has not been determined.

Harold Nathan, in charge of the Department, pointed out that Robinson had formerly been employed by the Stoll oil refining company of which Berry Stoll is president.

The return of Mrs. Stoll was brought about through a chain of events starting with the delivery of the $50,000 ransom package last Monday morning.

In compliance with the ransom note left by the kidnapper, the money was sent by express to Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., father of the accused kidnapper. The father was named as intermediary in the first ransom note.

The money was delivered to Robinson's Nashville home by a federal agent posing as an express company employee. The father took the package to his daughter-in-law on Monday afternoon, following instructions received in another note in which Mrs. Robinson, Jr., was named as a second intermediary.

Mrs. Robinson, Jr., took a train for Terre Haute, Ind. During these transactions both Mrs. Robinson and her father-in-law were under observation by government men. Even the number of her train reservation was known.

At 3:30 yesterday afternoon two women appeared at the residence of Rev. Arnold Clegg, who is no relation to federal agent H. H. Clegg, who carried out the Nashville investigation.

"I am Alice Stoll," said one of the women. Mrs. Clegg's cousin of Berry Stoll—"and this is my friend."

Mrs. Stoll asked permission to call Louisville. She was in communication with her home and asked that the way be cleared so she could return "sometime tonight."

Mr. Clegg, who was calling on the head of the women's state prison at Indianapolis when his wife received the visitors, was summoned. Upon request he agreed to take the two women to Louisville in his car.

The investigation which resulted in Lickwala's arrest was directed by William Larson, head of the Department of Justice here.

The letter was dated October 8. A trap was laid on October 12 but it was only partially successful. Lickwala finally was arrested last night, agents said, but it was kept secret until this morning.

CHICAGO CLUES IN KIDNAPPING WITHOUT VALUE

Interest of Man, Charged with Killing Woman, in Stoll Case Proved Only Friendly Solicitude.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Police Lieut. William Reed said today that Albert Annan held in the mysterious death of Mrs. Ottilia Griffin, forty-five years old, in which a possible connection with the Stoll kidnaping case was seen, had admitted that he struck the woman yesterday afternoon during a drunken argument.

Annan said he struck her about three p.m., Lieut. Reed asserted, but did not telephone physicians until about three hours later, because of fright. Mrs. Griffin, also known as Mrs. Roper, was found dead on a couch in a southside flat, blood flowing from her forehead.

The Stoll angle was injected into the case by a mysterious telephone call while police were in the flat last night conducting their investigation. An officer answered the phone and a woman's voice said: "Whatever you do, don't call to Mr. Stoll. He is back. He called warned 'Al' to 'beat it,' and hung up."

Two agents of the Department of Justice questioned Annan for several hours, then left the police station where he was being held, refusing to comment.

Lieut. Reed, however, said that Annan accounted for his interest in the Stoll kidnaping case as inspired merely by a friendly solicitude. He had attended Sunday school as a boy with either the father or the grandfather of the kidnaped woman's husband as his teacher, he stated, according to Lieut. Reed, and declared that his home originally had been in Louisville.

Analysis of the dead woman's vital organs showed that she had been drinking, a coroner's inquest said. "Whatever you do, don't call to Mr. Stoll. He is back. He called warned 'Al' to 'beat it,' and hung up."

1603 S. Ford, Louisville, Ky., was found in the flat, the police said, and was quoted by them as follows: "Dear Al: Your letter arrived today. Mrs. Stoll hasn't been found yet, Ruth."

The letter was postmarked at Louisville and was dated October 13. Annan told police he had been expecting a telephone call from his sister, Ruth, in Louisville, but a check of telephone company records disclosed, the police said, that the message had come from somewhere in Chicago.

"Mother—" began little Mary. Her parent, who was in earnest conversation with a friend, motioned her to be quiet.

A few minutes went by, and the child again said: "Mother."

"Mary," said her mother sharply, "you must wait until I have finished before you speak."

The child shook her little head. "But, mother," she replied, "you never finish."

The mistress of the house was going out of her way to find extra work for her maid. In the end the poor girl began to get fed up. Just then the mistress entered the kitchen.

"Mary," she said sharply, "have you finished polishing the brass ornaments yet?"

"Yes, madam," answered Mary, "all except your rings and bracelets."

CAN YOU MASTER A SIMPLE PROBLEM IN HONEST FINANCE?

When we consider awhile we must conclude that William Jennings Bryan was just a few generations ahead of his time.

Mr. Bryan's main idea was to establish a fixed parity between gold and silver, and have all the nations of the world agree to that basis on the dollar content or the gold value. That was to be 16-to-1.

The Republicans, under McKinley's administration, characterized this as baloney money, or as putting a magnifying glass over a lemon to make you believe it a grape fruit. Both are of the lemon family.

If it was true then it is true now. Where will it end, and when?

So long as any proposition such as 16-to-1 remained constant and fixed the purchasing power of both silver and gold dollars would have been honestly balanced; but the moment that this proportion would have become out of equivalent balance, the public would be accepting "baloney" money, if the money taken did not represent an equivalent number of grams of either gold or silver.

With all nations agreed on the 16-to-1 proportion, then will we have honest money.

With any departure from this agreed proportion, then will begin a purely gambling process between those people who were clouted from the Temple by the Great Master.

Bryan may have been a hundred years ahead of his time. If the unit be fixed, whether it be 16-to-1 or 20-to-1, such an international agreement will scourge the exchangers and wipe them off the market, where they are entrenched in London as strongly as are the C.N.R. trade mongers in Ottawa.

WE CANNOT AFFORD TO MISS A SINGLE OPPORTUNITY.

British exports to Empire States and countries within the Commonwealth of Nations are greater by far than are exports to all other nations combined.

British imports from the Dominions are steadily increasing just as they decline from other countries. This is the aim of the Imperial Conference being fulfilled.

We would speed the day of reconstruction did we ask each merchant: "Is it British?"

Not with any thought of prejudice, but simply as the business of preservation from a return to the day when our dollars were at a discount on the international money exchange.

While only eight per cent. of the bacon supplies came to Britain from Canada, this can be increased by good advertising of such a quality article as Hovey makes in Sherbrooke.

The producers must build up a quality article in substantial volume, so that the British dealers may rely on a supply to meet the demand.

Present day trade channels have ticklish corners, and we must be fair to leaning over on our treatment of British goods imported into Canada.

Sane and effective advertising will help stimulate the demand for Canada goods, for we already have the friendship and good-will of the consumer. But stringent steps to prevent any made-in-Chicago bacon being offered as the made-in-Canada article is a guard which is up to our producers.

We have the field for rehabilitation of the made-in-Canada goods, but the overseas consumers are not going to put themselves out to find them. The London newspapers cover the United Kingdom.

Let the English buyer once get the idea that the new Marketing Bill has the earmarks of a wheat pool, and it's all off. The Wheat Pool was looked upon by Britons as a hold-up game.

A FAMOUS ENGLISHMAN.

There passed away recently in London, as recorded in the London Telegraph, the chairman of Barclays Bank, Mr. Frederick C. Goodenough, who was but sixty-eight years of age when he died after undergoing a surgical operation. He was a grandson of the Headmaster of the Westminster School, afterwards reverend Dean of Wells. As the Editor writes:

"Mr. Goodenough's death robs the City of one of its leaders, respected both for his urbane attitude to all who came in contact with him, and for his position as head of one of the 'Big Five' banks, and his sound views on finance."

It was in 1896 that he joined Barclays, and in 1903 he was appointed general manager, and in 1913 was elected a director. Showing his devotion to Imperial development, in 1923 he formed Barclays Overseas Bank. Oxford University conferred upon him the degree of D.C.L. He was active in public affairs.

Besides his close connection with Barclays Bank in Montreal, the late Frederick C. Goodenough had close relatives in the Eastern Townships. Mr. E. E. Goodenough, of the Saint-Jean store, is a first cousin, as are also Frederick C. Goodenough, of Bury, and W. E. Goodenough, of the same town. Both the latter are successful farmers and outstanding men in their community. The respective fathers of the two branches journeyed far afield from Britain, the banker's father going to India, where the deceased was born in 1866, and the father of the Canadians journeyed to the Dominion when he was a young man.

EDITOR'S NOTE BOOK.

In the simple language of the layman the money inflation programme means that the Boss will say to his working colleagues: "I am going to divide your wages by half and then multiply them by two, so that you may have a raise." If the government issues a silver dollar containing fifty cents' worth of silver, or otherwise inflates the money and deflates its value, that was called flim-flam in the good old days of sound economic doctrine. But Mr. Roosevelt is doing that to his citizens in the United States. He uses the diplomatic method of selling billions of bonds against the same old security value.

Of the chain store system, which the Stevens Committee was directed at, coupled with the department stores and their business methods, the only curative from the individual business men's standpoint is to continuously present something better. It can be done. It has been done, and is being done. Always the customer likes the individual personal service, the friendly service. We could quote many instances of merchandising and selling where such successes are being scored, the more readily when there is the spirit of keeping everlastingly at it.

With all their surrounding democracies and republicans the Kings and Queens of Europe show a remarkable admiration for the British Royal family and for the fine old traditions of the present occupants of that highest position in the world. The youthful King Peter was a pupil at an English public school, and has had a Yorkshire governess since he was a baby. No doubt the democratic subjects of King George called him "Pete" when on the playgrounds.

Which story of the famous violinist reminds us of another. The violinist was asked to dinner and requested to bring his violin. "But my violin does not eat," was the response, for the artist saw through the subterfuge. And Punch echoes this: "It is all right to make a friend of your doctor, but do not make a doctor of your friend." But if he shows a disposition to treat you, be grateful.

The modern Moses of Finance is still breaking down the Idol of Gold, that he may replace it with a silver calf. Punch pictures John Bull and Uncle Sam exchanging their paper money after the yacht race with this caption on the anti-gold bloc: "We may have had a slight difference about a silver cup, but we are both at one in despising the Idol of Gold."

A. G. Mallory, of Lennoxville, is in his eighty-sixth year, but is still young enough to make his annual visit to the Record office to renew his subscription. With his wonderful memory of the early days we hope to persuade Mr. Mallory to write a special article for the Anniversary Number on the caption of "Eighty-six Years on the Same Farm."

"The man who is not in business for his health will probably not have good health, nor good business," wrote Elbert Hubbard. It is a version of the old adage that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. But we Scotch love better the amateur sports, until we lose the ball.

The hardest thing in life to do is to live up to a photograph by George Nakash, or a lithograph in the colored pages of the magazine which represents the pretty lady at the dated coffee pot. I'd rather be an elephant drinking like a Saladin.

System, cleanliness, frankness, promptness, honesty, simplicity, economy efficiency—these are the attributes of possession which will meet any competition, be it fair or unfair.

We have in training an ideal political candidate. He not only enjoys kissing all the babies, but on occasion he will get down on all fours and romp with Nicholas Nickleby, the favourite poodle of the lady whose vote he seeks.

What Editors Say

WHAT MAKES PUBLIC WORKS REALLY EXPENSIVE

The Financial Post, Toronto. The construction of public works in order to create jobs does indeed give immediate stimulus to purchasing power. But the overlooked factor in such a plan of buying prosperity is that, once the public works are in operation, not only does interest have to be paid on them but they must be maintained and serviced. Even those who make allowances for interest in their calculations usually forget the cost of operation.

The National City Bank of New York points out that the Erie Canal, built by the State of New York twenty-five years ago, cost $230,000,000 and while it was being built gave the State certain benefits from the construction expenditure. But ever since it has had to be kept in operation at high cost. If the State of New York could be relieved of the operating and upkeep costs, it could pay the rail freight on every ton of freight passing through the canal and still make money on the deal.

Every public works project should be studied in the light of its ability to pay, not only interest and sinking fund charges, but upkeep cost including the salaries of all the governmental officials who have to be hired to look after its affairs from some central bureau.

BUILT NEW CHURCH WITH THEIR OWN HANDS

Every Person in the Congregation Joined in Building of Church in Prince Edward Island to Be Named After Beloved Minister Still with Them.

Just as do our thousands of readers far, far away like to read the city and district news in the Record, so do their friends who stayed at home delight to hear of their success in far-off places.

Rev. Allister Murray, who was a well-known pastor in Hampden and Milan in his earlier years, is now in Prince Edward Island, with a manse and home in the land made famous by Mrs. L. M. Montgomery, who is herself the wife of a minister.

At Murray Harbour South, on the island, there has been dedicated the Allister Murray Memorial Church of the Presbyterian Church of Canada. On the occasion of the dedication there were present many dignitaries of the church. The new building was erected to its utmost capacity, all other congregations offering their congratulations.

Mr. Murray now resides in Caledonia, but he is minister for Caledonia and Murray Harbour. That he is beloved by his people is proven by the fact that the new edifice was built with free labor, "so much so that only about $50 was spent in wages on a building as it now stands finished in the spotless robe of paint and varnish, outside and inside, valued at some $6,000. Can you beat that anywhere? The whole of Prince Edward Island can beardonably proud of men like these."

Even to the furnishings, and to the leather-bound Bible for the minister's pulpit, this spirit of generosity prevailed, and the Charlotte-town Guardian may well make the pointed query: "Can you beat that?" Monthly hidden behind such an achievement must stand a heart that is loyal to friends both new and old, and this factor of possession we can accord to the Rev. Allister Murray, for each year as he sends his letter of renewal he encloses the breezy and cheery recollections of his old friends in Compton County and within the circle of the Presbytery.

DEMANDS RESIGNATION OF OTTAWA HYDRO CHAIRMAN

P. D. Ross, Leading Publisher, Declares Action Taken to Bring Ottawa Concern Under Thumb of Ontario Hydro Commission.

Ottawa, Oct. 17. — Resignation of P. D. Ross as member of the Ottawa Hydro Electric Commission has been requested by T. S. Lyon, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission. Mr. Ross, proprietor of the Ottawa Journal, has been the Ontario Hydro representative on the Ottawa Commission for eighteen years.

In a statement issued today Mr. Ross declared, "This of course means my dismissal by the Hydro Commission. Mr. Lyon is simply a tool." The statement proceeded to explain that the Ottawa Hydro enterprise was purely an Ottawa undertaking. The statement continued:

"Other Hydro organizations in the province are practically all the creations or creatures of the Ontario Hydro, which supplies them directly with power and supervision. Ottawa is different. We created our own Hydro, and we derive no advantage of any kind from the Ontario Hydro Commission. All that the Ontario Hydro has ever done of value to Ottawa was to assist 18 years ago in negotiation of our first contract for power with the Ottawa and Hull Power Co. Since that time we in Ottawa have hoed our own row, except that sometimes the Ontario Hydro has tried to do us mischief—and occasionally succeeded."

BAD NEWS FOR POPCORN ENTHUSIASTS

NOTED AVIATOR SEEKS TO BETTER LAND-PLANE MARK

Clyde Pangborn Negotiating to Buy Supermarine Racing Seaplane for Attack on World's Speed Record.

London, Oct. 17. — Clyde Pangborn, United States airman who is entered in the London-to-Melbourne air race with Col. Roscoe Turner, is planning an attack on the world's speed record for land-planes, it was revealed today.

He has been negotiating to buy for the purpose the famous supermarine racing seaplane S 66, in which Lieutenant Stainforth won the Schneider trophy in 1931 at a speed of 407 miles an hour.

Pangborn's idea is to remove the pontoons, substitute wheels, and fit the machine with a new and smaller engine. He is convinced he will be able to beat Wedell's land plane record of 304 miles an hour, and make at least 320.

Thomas H. Barnes, O.D.

Travelling in Germany a quarter century ago one of my professors at the College of Optometry described a pair of spectacles he saw in Wartburg, Germany, which had been worn by the humanist, Pertheimer in his lifetime, 1470-1530. This is the earliest known pair in existence in Europe.

They are a large pair made up of two large circular lenses, connected by a pince-nez nose piece.

The German professors cheerfully accorded to China the earliest discoveries, and it was not until the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries that the employment of spectacles had spread widely over Europe among the better classes.

Well, we are all better classes in Canada.

And I devote myself to better and clearer eyesight for those who give me their confidence.

YEARS OF STUDY BEHIND HIS ACHIEVEMENT

Dr. Gordon Jaquith and His Mastery of the Profession of Osteopathy Has Had Many Remarkable or Miraculous Successes in His Practice.

Osteopathy is now an accepted science in medicine, though a few decades ago the physicians were inclined to scoff at it.

There can be no gainsaying the fact that the bone structure of the human frame is wonderful in its intricacy and delicacy, and that both bone and sinew can be displaced without external trace.

About five years ago a young Canadian student journeyed to Missouri, and before returning he had spent four long years of study and experiment in the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery.

Instead of locating in his old home in Toronto Dr. Gordon H. Jaquith decided on this doctor-to-Missouri, and before returning he had spent four long years of study and experiment in the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery.

Instead of locating in his old home in Toronto Dr. Gordon H. Jaquith decided on this doctor-to-Missouri, and before returning he had spent four long years of study and experiment in the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery.

Yes it is when the patients say of him that the name and fame of the osteopathic doctor depends. At his offices in the Olivier building at the corner of Wellington and King streets, Dr. Jaquith thumbed his card index and quickly recited the cases of readers of the Record who had come to him for relief.

A young lady came, suffering from backache, eye ache, swollen glands and general lassitude. She called the osteopathic diagnosis magic, but was assured that it was reasonable and logical. After three treatments by Jaquith she announced that she was cured, well and strong again.

A young man came in lame, almost walking on his ankle, and with a deformity that would appear puzzling, and his accounts of his troubles would make anyone skeptical of success. Yet with treatment there was an obvious change in the appearance of his feet. One foot, "clammy" to the touch, was restored to normal circulation, and the patient reports himself as free from a sequence of headaches, and that the pleasing results of treatment were a surprise to him.

This card recites the case of an elderly lady who had accepted invalidism and was confined to her bed with an occasional walk to an invalid's chair. With a few treatments she was able to walk with a little assistance, and when I last called on her she was quite rejuvenated, and was drying the dishes.

Dr. Gordon Jaquith says that it is not professional etiquette to print any names, although it is quite an ordinary thing for his patients to express a wish to tell the story of their recovery for the benefit of any callers at his office who may have aught the matter with their nerves, tissues, sinews and bone structure. A single small bone out of place is often worse than a toothache.

"AUTUMNAL FETE" WAS A DELIGHTFUL EVENT

The "Autumnal Fete" sponsored by the King George Fifth Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire in St. Peter's Church hall yesterday, under the convenship of the Misses Twose, was not only a delightful social event, but a splendid success financially. The hall presented a most attractive appearance, the brilliant autumnal colors being artistically carried out even to the minutest detail in the flowers and decorations.

The regent, Mrs. W. E. Loomis, received, and the "Fete," which included luncheon, bridge, afternoon tea and sales tables, was more in the nature of a private party, so comfortable and convenient were the arrangements made by the conveners and their capable assistants for the entertainment of their numerous guests.

Luncheon was served from noon until two o'clock at small tables adorned with autumn flowers, and the Y. W. C. A. fell in line, even if not by the front door.

Today the Y. W. C. A. is in the centre of international thought for better world conditions. There are, the speaker said, some women of wonderfully fine intellectual ability on the Y. W. C. A. headquarters and Canada has not been behind in her contribution.

As an instance of the work being accomplished Miss Hobecker referred to the study made of methods of employment agencies, saying that it was the result of these enquiries that no employment bureau in Canada is as efficient as the Y. W. C. A. in securing employment for women or girls.

It was, she said, the practice formerly to take as much as the first month's wages for commission. Cases were even known, the speaker added, where a woman's fee for her services in securing employment for women or girls.

The three representatives from Canada to the World's Council were Miss Muriel Brock, of Toronto, Miss Greta Findlay, of Montreal, and Mrs. Nevela B. Bell. As all have prevented Mrs. Rowell from going abroad Miss Hobecker went in her stead.

Miss Hobecker mentioned that all the representatives to the World's Council had gone at their own expense. The urge was given for the young people of Canada and their desire to do what they could to solve the present-day problems facing young people.

The speaker referred to the work of several of the representatives of other countries who attended the meeting and of the great desire shown on all sides to aid those who are about to take their place as citizens of the world.

In conclusion she said: "The Y. W. C. A. is a youth movement and it has always tried to give leadership to young people. For seventy-five years it has sponsored a youth movement. It makes its programme for youth education in politics and in the world of international thought. It is now operating in fifty-six countries and it is worth your time, your work and your highest effort."

Miss Hobecker was thanked by Mrs. J. F. S. McCaw, after which afternoon tea was served, when those present were privileged to enjoy a friendly chat with this outstanding Y. W. C. A. worker.

Yesterday's business meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. F. S. McCaw, president of the Board of Directors, and a number of business matters were disposed of.

Miss Evelyn Davies in submitting her monthly report said the Health Education Department had renewed its activities with large success and unusual enthusiasm, while the Hi-Y-ette Club were again holding regular weekly meetings.

Miss Martens reported the donation of books and other gifts of vegetables for preserving and pickling from Mrs. R. G. Davidson, Mrs. Fred Hoyer, Mrs. D. J. Salls, Miss Drummond and Mrs. T. S. Somers.

A letter was read from the Canadian Legion and after discussion it was decided that a wreath would be placed on the soldiers' monument on Remembrance Day.

NOTED Y.W.C.A. WORKER VISITS LOCAL BRANCH

Miss H. D. Hobecker, National Executive of National Council of Y.W.C.A., Outlined International Work of Organization at Meeting of Board of Directors of Local Association.

"Unemployment makes Communists. We in the Young Women's Christian Association are willing to sponsor a youth movement against war—but are we willing to sponsor a youth movement against capitalist greed?"

This was the question put clearly before members of the Board of Directors of the Sherbrooke Young Women's Christian Association at the MacKinnon Memorial yesterday.

The question in itself is important, but it bore added weight when it came from such an outstanding Y. W. C. A. worker, Miss H. D. Hobecker, who holds the important position of National Executive of the National Council of Y.W.C.A.'s with headquarters in Toronto.

Miss Hobecker is one of the three women who had gone to Geneva to interpret Canada to the World's Council. Yesterday she paid a hurried visit to Sherbrooke and while here discussed various aspects of Y. W. C. A. work with such clearness and soundness that the thoughts which she imparted to her Sherbrooke listeners can not but bring forth the required results.

During her remarks Miss Hobecker mentioned the fact that until five years ago the Y. W. C. A. World's Council offices had been in London, England. London, she said, seemed a very remote location for every woman going to Europe visits London. But the Young Women's Christian Association, as well as other big interests, had followed the League of Nations to Geneva and the Y. W. C. A. fell in line, even if not by the front door.

Today the Y. W. C. A. is in the centre of international thought for better world conditions. There are, the speaker said, some women of wonderfully fine intellectual ability on the Y. W. C. A. headquarters and Canada has not been behind in her contribution.

As an instance of the work being accomplished Miss Hobecker referred to the study made of methods of employment agencies, saying that it was the result of these enquiries that no employment bureau in Canada is as efficient as the Y. W. C. A. in securing employment for women or girls.

J. R. KIRKPATRICK,
Manager of Bank of Montreal, in Sherbrooke.

J. R. Kirkpatrick, recently promoted to the management of the Bank of Montreal in this city, succeeds two distinguished predecessors in Messrs. Dean Suckling and R. A. E. Aiken.

Your banker must know all about you, your past, present and future. It is nice to know all about your banker, particularly his past and present.

James Ralph Kirkpatrick, who is now installed in the banking house on Wellington street was born in Cornwall, Ontario, and stepped from the Collegiate Institute of that city right into the banking business as a junior in Montreal. He believed in education which comes from a variety of location, and was always willing to move on if it meant even a half step up the ladder.

From Montreal he was moved to the same bank branch in Brockville, and from thence to Waterloo, the Ontario centre of insurance and industry. From there to St. Thomas, one of the railway centres of Western Ontario, and thence to London. Then to Toronto he came, before being recalled to Montreal, thence as accountant to Owen Sound, where shipping and industry combine. His first full managerial responsibility came to him in Kit-woodstock, from whence he went to Woodstock, following a bank merger which caused many staff readjustments.

From the urban delights of the City of Woodstock he was directed to the breezy West at Saskatoon, which is the Wheat Hub of Saskatchewan prairie farming.

Then fell vacant the busy branch of the Bank of Montreal in London, where he was happily situated until the time came when Dean Suckling was promoted to all Newfoundland. That led directly to the selection of one of the best men on the staff for the Sherbrooke City vacancy.

With these antecedents and this steady promotion in his chosen walk of finance, J. R. Kirkpatrick will be cordially accepted by the citizens of the Hub of the Eastern Townships, where he will fittingly represent the oldest financial institution of the Dominion.

CONTESTATION CASE AWAITS COURT RULING

His Lordship, Mr. Justice Charles D. White, Took Under Advice-ment Action Seeking Disqualification of Centre Ward Alderman for Alleged "Illegals."

His Lordship, Mr. Justice Charles D. White, presiding over a Superior Court session, this morning took on deliberation the action instituted to unseat Oreus Mailhot, Centre Ward alderman in the City Council. Mailhot is alleged to have been a party to "illegals" said to have existed in the municipal relief kitchen before it was closed, and is charged also with making a trip to Three Rivers at the city's expense.

His Lordship listened today to the arguments of both sides. More than an hour was consumed by the two lawyers in airing their views of the matter.

The enquete was concluded yesterday afternoon with the evidence of a large number of taxi drivers, garage mechanics and insurance experts. They were summoned to tell how much it cost a mile to operate an automobile. Opinions varied, the rate ranging from eight to fifteen cents per mile.

PROVING SUCCESSFUL.
Edwardsville, Pa., Oct. 17.—The "castor oil curfew law" is working smoothly.

Burgess Norman James reports that the number of children under fourteen arrested on the streets after 9 p.m. has dropped from fifty to twelve a week.

Boys and girls found "out late" are required to appear at "Castor Oil" Court in the town hall the next Wednesday. One ounce for the first violation; two for the second, and three for the third is the rule.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S. MET AT AYER'S CLIFF

Large Number Attended Sectional Meeting of United Church Women's Missionary Society in Beulah Church.

Ayer's Cliff, October 17.—The sectional meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery was held in Beulah United Church, with a splendid representation of all the societies in this section. The morning session opened at ten o'clock with an impressive service of worship led by Mrs. Albert Johnson, of Coaticook, who by her sincere spiritual opening started the meeting off in the right trend. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Mackie Fuller, of Sherbrooke. Miss Robinson, of Rock Island, was appointed to act as secretary and it was moved that a message of sympathy be sent to Mrs. George, of Lennoxville, who still remains quite ill. The words of welcome were given by Mrs. W. H. Rexford, who extended to all a cordial welcome, and assured them of the pleasure it afforded the Ayer's Cliff W.M.S. to have the opportunity of entertaining them. Short addresses were given by the various secretaries on the work of their departments which proved very interesting. Mrs. W. H. Abbott, of Lennoxville, spoke on Christian Stewardship and Finance. Mrs. Willard, of Lennoxville, gave the report on supplies. She said two bales, had been sent amounting to $366, the large bale going to the Indian reserve. Mrs. Matthews, of Lennoxville, who reported on strangers' work, said she had heard from nearly all her superintendents, who reported calls on the sick and shut-ins, as well as the welcome extended to strangers. Miss Van Vleet responded for the department of literature. Mrs. E. E. Temple submitted a splendid report of the temperance work. A vocal duet "Love Divine All Love Excelling" by Mrs. R. P. Stafford and Mrs. F. A. Johnston, was very much appreciated. The quiet hour was very ably taken by Mrs. E. J. Forest. At noon luncheon was served in the vestry by the members of the local W.M.S., generously assisted by members of the church, to eighty-five guests. The afternoon session opened with devotion led by Mrs. Angus McElae who gave a keenly spiritual address. "The Roll Call of Auxiliaries" was responded to by the members of the societies, who told of the encouraging features of their work. This was thoroughly enjoyed and it was indeed most gratifying to hear the many encouraging things related. Mrs. F. A. Johnston very efficiently conducted the "Discussion Period" and some of the many difficulties were cleared away. The treat for the day was the address which was given by Mrs. Roy P. Stafford, of Montreal, who took as her subject "Thank Offering as Related to Our Canadian Work." She dealt chiefly with the northern hospital work and her address was very much enjoyed. This was the first time Mrs. Stafford had been the speaker in this section, although she is very well known and the large number of ladies present considered it a rare treat. Sincere words of appreciation were expressed to Mrs. Stafford for coming out and giving such a helpful and hopeful message to this sectional meeting. "Tell Me About the Master" was sung as a duet by Mrs. Stafford and Mrs. Johnston, and much enjoyed. Closing words were given by Mrs. W. H. Abbott, of Lennoxville, after which Rev. H. A. A. Gillingham made a few fitting remarks and pronounced the meeting as closing one of the most successful and enjoyable sectional meetings.

BRITISH BRIDGE EXPERTS LEADING UNITED STATES

Good Share of United States Team's Deficit Was Contributed by Mrs. Culbertson and Her Partner.

London, Oct. 17.—The United States' defenders of the Schwab bridge trophy entered the second day of the international match against England today 2,510 points behind with 240 boards to be played.

The score, after sixty boards was: England, 20,310 points, and United States, 17,800 points.

A good share of the United States team's deficit was contributed by the fact that Mrs. Ely Culbertson and Albert Morehead threw in two hands which R. Lederer and R. Rose, of the British team, playing in the other room, found good enough for game bids.

On one of these occasions the English team bid four hearts and made eleven tricks for a clear 650-point gain and another time bid and made five diamonds for 500 points.

Halifax, Oct. 17.—With registration practically complete at Dalhousie University, a decrease of eighty in the students body was announced today by officials of the institution. SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

... proves that NATIONAL BREWERIES YEAST is 10 TIMES RICHER in Vitamin "B" than other types of Yeast

Official tests show a remarkably high content of this important Vitamin

Brewers' yeast has long been recognized as the world's richest known natural source of Vitamin "B". National Breweries yeast is pure brewers' yeast dried and flaked.

FACT OF IMPORTANCE TO YOU

Vitamin "B" is one of the most important of the vitamins. It is necessary to life, yet the body cannot store it. A fresh supply is needed continuously. It is essential for growth in children and the maintenance of good health in adults, building up tired tissues and relieving the run-down feeling that expresses itself in listlessness and chronic "nerves".

with distinguished research scientists in conducting tests comparing National Breweries Yeast with other yeasts. These biochemical tests proved it to be ten times richer in Vitamin "B" than other types of yeast.

75 Units in a Teaspoonful The biological assays that proved National Breweries Yeast so much richer than others, is why National Breweries Yeast can be so valuable to you. Two or three teaspoonfuls a day are all you require unless you are very much below par.

'DIZZY' AWARDED MOST VALUABLE PLAYER HONORS

Jerome Herman "Dizzy" Dean, Ace of St. Louis Cardinal Mound Corps, Came within Two Points of Perfect Score in Annual Selection of National League Stars.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—And still they call him "Dizzy." He's the most valuable player in the National League. He's the idol of St. Louis, the talk of the baseball world.

He's making thousands of dollars cashing in on his fame. And he's having a lot of fun doing it all.

He was christened Jerome Herman Dean. They called him Jerome when he was picking cotton for less than a dollar a day, but when he began to skyrocket across the baseball horizon they started calling him "Dizzy."

A few million hard-working people wouldn't mind being called "Dizzy" if they could duplicate some of his deeds or pocket half of his cash.

The "most valuable player" award of the National League is the latest honor to fall to the pitching sensation of the champion St. Louis Cardinals.

The dizzy one came within two points of a perfect score in the selection by a committee of writers representing the Baseball Writers' Association of America, which votes the honorary award each year. Dean got seventy-eight votes out of a possible eighty, and his margin was twenty-eight points over Paul Waner, Pittsburgh outfielder, who finished second with fifty points.

Moore, of the Giants, was third with thirty-two, and Travis Jackson, of New York, next with thirty-nine. "Dizzy" succeeds Carl Hubbell, ace of the Giant pitching staff, who obtained only sixteen votes.

Some of "Dizzy's" achievements over the 1934 campaign follow: Won thirty games and lost seven in the regular season; won two World Series games; led the National League in strikeouts for the third successive year, fanning 198 batters; pitched 311 innings; participated in fifty-one Cardinal games, either as pitcher or as reliever; batted .246, and beat the Giants six times.

Hubbell finished this year in a three-way tie for ninth place with Paul Dean, "Dizzy's" brother, and Hal Schumacher, another Giant. Melvin Ott, of New York, who is holder of the National League home run record with Jimmie Collins, of the Cardinals, placed fifth.

Players who have received recognition as the most valuable in the National League, including winners of the official league award, 1924 to 1933 inclusive, and those selected by the Writers' Association since then, follow:

1924—Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn. 1925—Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis. 1926—Bob O'Farrell, St. Louis. 1927—Paul Waner, Pittsburgh. 1928—James Bottomley, St. Louis. 1929—Rogers Hornsby, Chicago. 1930—Hack Wilson, Chicago. 1931—Frank Frisch, St. Louis. 1932—Chuck Klein, Philadelphia. 1933—Carl Hubbell, New York. 1934—"Dizzy" Dean, St. Louis.

DEANS MYSTIFIED BY VISIT TO MUSEUM Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—The dazzling Deans, fresh from a breakfast of ham and eggs and decked out in baseball togethery, invaded the sanctuaries of science yesterday, breezed through the wonders in typical Dean fashion, and left just as the better for the science side threatened to get them in a hole.

Take it from the elder member of the pitching clan—Jerome Herman "Dizzy" Dean—the visit of himself and brother, Paul "Daffy" Dean, to historic Franklin Institute contained nothing difficult for a Dean—nothing at all.

That is, there was nothing difficult until Dr. James Barnes, the associate director of the Institute's museum, went technical on the boys. Then "Dizzy" remembered a date he had some place away from there.

"It is very interesting that in a baseball ball there is a centre of oscillation," was Dr. Barnes' observation. "A centre of what?" was "Dizzy's" enlightening comment.

"Hey, Paul, I think we gotta go," he hastened to add, "I think we're going to be late for the ball game."

Nevertheless, before they passed through the museum's portals on their way out, each carried a certificate the Institute reserves for "distinguished visitors only."

The two St. Louis Cardinals' pitchers had gone to the museum from their hotel after arriving in Philadelphia by plane. "We've only got five minutes to see this place," explained "Dizzy" lightly to Dr. Barnes. "Maybe 'Dizzy' didn't know it, but scientists usually take days in going through the museum and seeing the exhibits it contains."

GIANTS REFUSE TO RELINQUISH PITCHING STAR

New York Team Will Undergo Shake-Up Before 1935 Campaign Rolls Around, but Carl Hubbell Will Not Be Traded During Process of Club Alterations.

New York, Oct. 17.—The New York Giants, deposed from the seats of the baseball mighty this year, will undergo a shake-up before the 1935 campaign rolls around, but there is no reason to expect the talented southpaw, Carl Hubbell, will be traded in the process of club alterations.

From his home in Memphis yesterday, Manager Bill Terry added his denial to the somewhat indignant reaction at the Giants' headquarters here over the circulation of reports that Hubbell would be offered to the world champion St. Louis Cardinals for one of the Dean brothers.

So far as this particular piece of baseball gossip is concerned, the Cardinals are no more anxious or willing to part with either Dean than the Giants are to let go of Hubbell, hero of the 1933 season and winner of twenty-one games this year, despite a poor finish.

The only foundation for the Hubbell yarn is a story that has been going the rounds since the collapse of the Giants. According to this tale, Terry had harsh words with Hubbell and blamed the southpaw for several critical defeats, to which Carl retorted he had been overworked earlier in the season and unable to perform at his best in the last drive.

The belief is that Dick Bartell, captain and shortstop of the Philadelphia Phillies, will come to the Giants during the winter in exchange for Blondy Ryan, George Watkins and a pitcher. Some baseball writers think this deal is all set and the signing.

Other Giants slated to go elsewhere before next spring include Johnny Vergez, third baseman, and Lefty O'Doul, veteran outfielder and pinch hitter. Lefty keeps in shape by hitting the Cuban pitcher, it probably will be in a coaching capacity. The Giants' manager also is looking for an understudy for himself at first base.

Hubbell finished this year in a three-way tie for ninth place with Paul Dean, "Dizzy's" brother, and Hal Schumacher, another Giant. Melvin Ott, of New York, who is holder of the National League home run record with Jimmie Collins, of the Cardinals, placed fifth.

Late in the day the Dean boys returned to their apartment in a doubleheader between two local semi-pro clubs for which 8,000 fans turned out. The Philadelphia Stars, for whom the Deans pitched, dropped both games to the Golden Stars by eight to nothing and by four to three. The Deans played an outfield in the first contest, and "Dizzy" hurled two innings of the second attraction.

FRUITFUL GOLF CAREER AWAITS SCOTCH LASSIE

Thirteen-Year-Old Nancy Jupp Is Toast of British Golfdom After Blasting Her Way to National Girls' Championship—Has Been Playing Golf Since Age of Six.

Edinburgh, Oct. 17.—A wee Scot lassie, stocky-legged and freckle-faced, is the toast of British golfdom. As long as the island has a Nancy Jupp coming up to take the place of the veterans, the women's championship which has been resisting overseas challenges for years looks safe.

For little Nancy, all of thirteen years and four feet and a half high in her furry spoked shoes, has entered the hall of golfing fame by blasting her way to the national girls' championship.

Nancy started playing golf at the age of six when some one gave her a club as a birthday present. She commenced banging away over the hills of Edinburgh where Tommy Armour and a host of other stars learned their strokes.

But she's never entered a tournament before she matched strokes with girls up to six years her senior in the championship and few noticed her as a potential rival of the Joyce Wethereds and Enid Wilsons of fairway fame.

Particularly, too, since Nancy's sister, Rhoda, was calculated to be the better. She's six years older than Nancy, but Nancy's spring of heater as her good-look charm, figures youth and a mass of freckles no obstacle to a champion.

The key to her game is its complete simplicity. She just steps up and hits the ball with complete fearlessness, whether it's for a 200-yard drive or a five-yard putt.

Experts predict a great future for her if she can keep from being taught the "secrets" of the game and so spoil her natural, free, boy-like swing that loyal Scots reminisce as "the true Scottish swing."

Many attributed her prowess to a complete lack of nerves, but whatever it is she plays golf as if there were no difficulties to the game. She's been educated at the Edinburgh Ladies' College, so only plays golf on Saturdays. She could play on Sundays but prefers to have a go with the boys at "touch rigger."

Hubbell finished this year in a three-way tie for ninth place with Paul Dean, "Dizzy's" brother, and Hal Schumacher, another Giant. Melvin Ott, of New York, who is holder of the National League home run record with Jimmie Collins, of the Cardinals, placed fifth.

1924—Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn. 1925—Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis. 1926—Bob O'Farrell, St. Louis. 1927—Paul Waner, Pittsburgh. 1928—James Bottomley, St. Louis. 1929—Rogers Hornsby, Chicago. 1930—Hack Wilson, Chicago. 1931—Frank Frisch, St. Louis. 1932—Chuck Klein, Philadelphia. 1933—Carl Hubbell, New York. 1934—"Dizzy" Dean, St. Louis.

DEANS MYSTIFIED BY VISIT TO MUSEUM Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—The dazzling Deans, fresh from a breakfast of ham and eggs and decked out in baseball togethery, invaded the sanctuaries of science yesterday, breezed through the wonders in typical Dean fashion, and left just as the better for the science side threatened to get them in a hole.

Take it from the elder member of the pitching clan—Jerome Herman "Dizzy" Dean—the visit of himself and brother, Paul "Daffy" Dean, to historic Franklin Institute contained nothing difficult for a Dean—nothing at all.

That is, there was nothing difficult until Dr. James Barnes, the associate director of the Institute's museum, went technical on the boys. Then "Dizzy" remembered a date he had some place away from there.

"It is very interesting that in a baseball ball there is a centre of oscillation," was Dr. Barnes' observation. "A centre of what?" was "Dizzy's" enlightening comment.

"Hey, Paul, I think we gotta go," he hastened to add, "I think we're going to be late for the ball game."

Nevertheless, before they passed through the museum's portals on their way out, each carried a certificate the Institute reserves for "distinguished visitors only."

The two St. Louis Cardinals' pitchers had gone to the museum from their hotel after arriving in Philadelphia by plane. "We've only got five minutes to see this place," explained "Dizzy" lightly to Dr. Barnes. "Maybe 'Dizzy' didn't know it, but scientists usually take days in going through the museum and seeing the exhibits it contains."

Late in the day the Dean boys returned to their apartment in a doubleheader between two local semi-pro clubs for which 8,000 fans turned out. The Philadelphia Stars, for whom the Deans pitched, dropped both games to the Golden Stars by eight to nothing and by four to three. The Deans played an outfield in the first contest, and "Dizzy" hurled two innings of the second attraction.

FAVORITE WON THE FAMOUS CESAREWITCH STAKES Newmarket, England, Oct. 17.—The favorite Enfield won the famous long-distance handicap, the Cesarewitch Stakes, from a high class field this afternoon.

Shining Cloud was second and Penny a Limer third in the field of twenty-seven that raced over the two and a quarter mile route.

Enfield, backed down to even money just before the start, finished half a length in front of Shining Cloud, which started at twenty to one. Penny a Limer, at 33 to 1, was the same distance back in third position.

The winner, one of three three-year-olds in the race against older opponents, is an English-bred colt by Winalot out of Firecrest, owned by Marshal Field, of the United States. Enfield was ridden by the veteran jockey Sires and carried 108 pounds, twenty less than top weight assigned Loosestrife, who was unplaced.

Shining Cloud, also a three-year-old, ran in Sir Abe Bailey's colors, with D. Smith up, carrying the lowest impost in the race, ninety-three pounds. Penny a Limer, owned by J. B. Joel and ridden by Richardson, also was lightly handicapped with ninety-six pounds.

It was the ninety-sixth renewal of the famous handicap which, unlike most major English races, was not interrupted during the war years.

SON OF WEALTHY TORONTO MAN SOUGHT TO END LIFE Los Angeles, Oct. 17.—Thomas P. Phelan, twenty-seven years of age, identified by police as the son of H. W. Phelan, said to be a wealthy resident of Toronto, Ont., attempted to end his life early today by shooting himself, police reported.

The young man was removed to the Georgia street police emergency hospital suffering from a bullet wound near his heart. Surgeons said he probably would recover.

The reported suicide attempt took place at fashionable Coconut Grove, rendez-vous of film celebrities. A note, addressed to H. W. Phelan, 44 Castle Frank Road, Toronto, was found in Phelan's possessions. It read: "Dad: This is going to solve a lot of difficulties. Give my love to mother, yourself and the gang. So long."

URGES UNITED ACTION IN WAR ON KIDNAPPING

Toronto Chief of Police Calls for Better Informed Public Opinion on Racketeering Activities.

Ottawa, Oct. 17.—No country could properly be called civilized where kidnapping is permitted as it is a type of barbarism which could not be tolerated, declared General D. C. Draper, head of the Toronto police force in a paper read here yesterday on "Banditry, Racketeering and Kidnapping" before the annual meeting of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada.

General Draper said that the urgency of subduing those breaking the laws of Canada called for a better informed public opinion. Citizens must not be allowed to be intimidated by criminals. It was necessary for the public to realize that co-operation with the police is essential, and citizens should demonstrate more confidence in the police.

There must be the overwhelming force of enlightened public opinion behind law enforcement agencies, free of political interference, he said. The growth of banditry, racketeering and kidnapping demanded the attention of every law abiding citizen, declared General Draper. Some good citizens seemed to take such crimes as a matter of course. In the United States it had long ago passed the stage of being a challenge to law enforcement agencies. Such crimes did not exist to any extent in England, and he believed it was possible to combat them.

Men engaged in those crimes today were highly educated, clever persons and were well organized by crafty individuals. Law enforcement agencies in order to successfully combat their operations would have to bring strong leadership and brains to bear. This type of racketeering was running into a tremendous sum of money, literally millions. There was no length to which the individual engaged in it would not go.

He mentioned the recent attempts on the life of a Vancouver police official who had been successful in running down offenders against the law. The type of man engaged in banditry, racketeering and kidnapping might be one of the cleverest in the community, but he was not using his intelligence in the right channels. General Draper said his own observations had revealed a type of criminal today that it seemed impossible to cope with. The boot-licker had found his business unprofitable and was looking to other fields for his operations and kidnapping seemed to have a special appeal for this type. Viewing the situation from a Toronto aspect, he said he had never had reason to complain of lack of co-operation of United States police authorities, but he had become familiar with political obstruction encountered there.

General Draper stressed the need for scientific methods to fight the operations of racketeers as police methods must not only keep pace but be ahead of the criminal's methods. Scientific methods and up-to-date equipment could greatly facilitate the detection of crimes.

A PUBLIC FUND FOR MATERNITY SERVICE URGED

Nation-Wide Service to Provide for Women at Childbirth Proposed Before Ottawa Gathering.

Ottawa, Oct. 17.—Creation of a maternity service to be available for every woman and supported from public funds was advocated by Dame Janet Campbell, D.B.E., M.P., M.S., one of the outstanding figures of the world in maternity welfare, in an address last night. She was speaking at a public meeting under the auspices of the National Council of Women, now in convention here.

"Every woman should contribute what she can, but none should be unable, because of poverty, to obtain what is necessary. We should aim at a maternity service in every country, in every district, available to every woman, which will supply the professional advice or treatment, the institutional or nursing, or the material aid or domestic comfort which she may happen to need."

"Some women are unable, through poverty or place of residence, to provide for themselves even the minimum required for normal confinement. Others could do this, but cannot make provision for unexpected emergencies, hospital treatment and a specialist's advice. But no woman should lack on account of poverty what is needed to bring her safely through pregnancy and childbirth, and restore her to normal health, with a healthy baby. It should be the concern of the community to see that such facilities, such doctor's assistance as she requires are available for her."

She was definitely opposed to benefits or bonuses at childbirth. It was much better to utilize at least some of the money in a more efficient service.

MARRIAGE EDUCATION ONLY WAY TO COMBAT DIVORCE Episcopal Leaders of United States Today Studying Report of Their Joint Commission on Marriage.

Atlantic City, Oct. 17.—Episcopal leaders of the United States studied today the report of their joint commission on marriage, urging education as the only way to combat a world increase in divorce.

"It seems clear that the only way of sanctifying marriage is by an educative process," the report said. "The western church has worked under the present restrictive canon for centuries, but nevertheless divorce rate continues to increase all over the world, especially in the United States, but in England and Canada as well."

"The educative attitude is so new that we cannot yet look for results, but experience seems to make it clear that all hope of progress in our civilization lies along educational lines."

"Our Eighteenth Amendment and the carnage by automobiles afford abundant evidence that laws are important unless based on public opinion."

"We may well ask ourselves whether in the matter of divorce, we are not dealing with a symptom of a disease which is basic in the conflict of industry, in the conflict between pressure groups and in the conflicts between nations."

WILL ATTEMPT TO SALVAGE SHOONER SUNK YEARS AGO Daring Woman to Don Diving Suit Today and Descend Forty Feet into the Depths of Lake Erie.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 17.—If expected salvage equipment arrives today from Toronto a four-foot, nine-inch woman, weighing 112 pounds, will don a diving suit and descend forty feet into the depths of Lake Erie. This will mark the first step to salvage the schooner New Brunswick of its valuable cargo of black walnut and white oak.

Mrs. Garret Campbell Goodman, of Brooklyn, who is equally at home below the water surface or in the air, will carry 153 pounds of suiting when she descends for the first time to determine the exact position of the vessel which sank during an August storm in 1859, shortly after clearing from Wallaceburg for Montreal.

The Brooklyn matron located the vessel from the map on Saturday and immediately got in touch with her Toronto backers, G. H. Anderson, J. C. Reade and Carlyle Rowntree, and asked them to despatch the necessary equipment immediately. It was expected here today.

The vessel is owned by Newton C. Ebbel, Chatham, and much contrary legend has grown up around it since it sank seventy-five years ago with the loss of one life, that of a colored man whose body was washed ashore later.

San Francisco, Oct. 17.—The San Francisco Chronicle and two of its editors yesterday paid the $1,000 fines imposed upon it by the State Supreme Court for contempt following publication of an allegedly false article saying the court had voted to grant David A. Lamson, formerly of Red Deer, Alta., a new trial on the charge of murdering his wife. The court in assessing the fines declared the Chronicle's story false, and said its publication tended to put the court in disrepute. It stated it had not voted to decide the Lamson case and that the opinion had not been written.

A new trial was granted Lamson by the court on Saturday.

LONDON DEFERS UNION PROJECT TO LATER DATE

British Government Considers Scheme for Windward and Leeward Islands Impracticable Under Present Conditions.

Castries, St. Lucia, B.W.I., Oct. 17.—An official despatch from the Colonial Office in London states that the "closer union" scheme proposed for the Windward and Leeward Islands is considered impracticable and will not be developed further at this time.

Government of the islands will remain as at present, with a Governor for each group and an Administrator for each colony.

The Colonial Office announcement also stated that selection of a new Governor for the Windward Islands was under consideration. Sir Thomas completed his term and was relieved by an acting governor pending outcome of the "closer union" movement, which was given added impetus in 1932 by the report of a commission which studied government in the British West Indies for the Imperial Government.

The commission recommended that the Leeward and Windward Islands be grouped under one government, at Castries. Certain Government services were to be coordinated but some were to remain as at present.

Although the Colonial Office considers it impracticable to proceed with the main recommendation for union, it plans to make certain internal changes in the colonies. It is understood that the elective principle will be introduced in Antigua, St. Kitts and Montserrat, if legislatures of those islands approve.

Nominated and elected unofficial members will be in the majority in the councils, the number of official members being reduced only to those whose presence is necessary for the conduct of business. The Governor, however, will have full over-riding powers.

Colonies where women now have no votes will be asked to approve extension of the franchise to them.

BIG FAMILIES DEBATED AT WELFARE GATHERING Ottawa, Oct. 17.—The Mahoney quadruplets figured in a speech made before the National Council of Women meeting here today. A boast made by Mrs. J. Wesley Bundy, Ontario's provincial president, that Ontario could now number quintuplets among its achievements brought a reminder from Mrs. E. Atherton Smith, of Saint John, that New Brunswick did not lag far behind with its four Mahoneys.

"They are now six years old and going to school," the New Brunswick provincial president said and told, amid laughter, of how the four "quadruplets" had become synonymous in New Brunswick with "the Mahoneys." Mrs. Smith touched briefly upon the care given these four children by the public health and other child welfare societies of New Brunswick.
