World News In Brief

London, Aug. 28.—(P)—Yugoslavia has fired its second broadside in two days against a Communist neighbor. This time it accused Hungary of trying to foment a revolution against Premier Tito's Regime. Yesterday's protest, broadcast by Tanjug, official Yugoslav news agency, came two days after a similar charge against Romania. Both countries have adhered to the Cominform denunciation of Tito and his Yugoslav Communist party leadership.

Moscow, Aug. 28.—(P)—Informed sources believe it likely a brief communique will be issued tonight covering the progress of the current four-power talks here.

The informants said last night's three-hour session between the three western envoys and foreign minister Molotov might have been the crucial one in negotiations over the Berlin situation.

Pending a possible four-power announcement, the talks still were covered by official silence.

Osterville, Mass., Aug. 28.—(P)—Charles Evans Hughes, retired Chief Justice of the United States who narrowly missed becoming President in 1916, is dead. He was 86.

Hughes, Secretary of State in the Harding and Coolidge cabinets and twice Governor of New York State, succumbed last night after only a few hours after he was reported in critical condition from a heart ailment.

London, Aug. 29.—(P)—Bulgaria has signed a trade agreement with the Soviet zone of Germany, the Bulgarian official telegraph agency said last night in a broadcast from Sofia. The report said the agreement runs through 1949 and provides for the exchange of $6,000,000 worth of industrial and farm products.

London, Aug. 28.—(P)—tremendous all-out effort by Britain's land workers helped by recent sunshine and drying winds, has saved the harvest from the ruin which seemed almost certain two weeks ago.

Farmers and farm workers with 25,000 land army girls and 140,000 civilian volunteers have combined to produce a harvest that now is expected to be above average.

London, Aug. 28.—Reuters Prime Minister Attlee, who went to a London hospital at the beginning of this week for treatment of eczema of the feet, was stated last night to be much improved. The hospital said he was making satisfactory progress.

Toronto, Aug. 28.—Canada's soldier sons took over the Canadian National Exhibition today—Warrior's Day—as the whirligig of events at the big fair spun on their varied ways.

Main features at the exhibition today include a luncheon address by Earl Mountbatten of Burma, who yesterday officially opened the show.

Nazi Field Marshals To Face Trial

Three Germans Will Answer to War Crimes Charges in Britain.

London, Aug. 28.—Three famous German field marshals will be tried by Britain on war crimes charges, the War Office said last night.

The officers, who have been prisoners of war for three years, are: Gerd von Rundstedt, who opposed Gen. Eisenhower in Europe; Erich von Manstein, who campaigned on the Russian front; and Walter von Brauchitsch, who once headed Hitler's high command.

Col.-Gen. Adolph Strauss also will be tried.

The War Office said a military court will be convened probably in Hamburg, in the British zone of Germany, to try the four officers.

"These four officers are held in Munsterlager hospital in the British zone of Germany as prisoners of war," the War Office statement said. "They will now be demilitarized by the appropriate military authorities and will no longer be prisoners of war."

"These four German generals will be defended by German counsel of their own choice, or in default of choice by German counsel allocated to them by the British authorities."

The four were prisoners of war in Britain until last month when they were transferred to Germany.

On their transfer an outcry started in the British press, notably in the letters column of The Times and the Daily Telegraph, about the continued detention of the four. A demand was voiced that they be either tried or released.

The Moscow radio predicted Wednesday the three field marshals would be released soon.

Balts' Future Is Studied At Ottawa

By JOHN LEBLANC
 Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The man who tossed a mooring line ashore from a small boat at Quebec a few days ago probably would be impressed at learning that at set five Canadian government departments in motion—on both sides of the Atlantic.

But they are making sure the 100,000 persons awaiting entry after crossing the Atlantic in tiny vessels are the genuine article.

To that end, the government has mobilized the resources of the immigration, justice, labor, health and external affairs departments.

These departments are looking into the case in both Canada and Europe while the Estonians and Latvians wait in immigration detention quarters at Quebec, Halifax and Saint John, N.B.—and still another boatload sails the Atlantic on the way to Halifax.

The immigration and justice departments—the latter through the R.C.M.P.—are largely concerned with determining their eligibility to enter Canada, and are examining into their backgrounds on both sides of the ocean.

In Europe, the task is complicated by the fact that the Balts are fugitives from the other side of the Iron Curtain, since their countries are within the Russian orbit.

However immigration and the R.C.M.P., which have men in Europe screening displaced persons for Canadian absorption, expect to pick up information from allied authorities on the continent and in Britain.

The external affairs department is concerned with the fugitives because foreign countries are involved; the health department is examining them from the physical-fitness viewpoint; the labor department is preparing to find jobs for them if their entry is approved.

U.K. Dollar Shortage Is Felt In U.S.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Britain's dollar shortage is threatening the life of a proud old southern industry—tobacco growing. Its leaders are in Washington almost with blood and tears in their eyes looking for salvation.

They now claim British switching of tobacco purchases from the United States to Canada, Turkey and Rhodesia is really a violation of the 1945 Anglo-American loan agreement.

French Government Topples On Wages And Prices Issue

By ROBERT WILSON
 Paris, Aug. 28.—(P)—The month-old government of Premier Andre Marie resigned early today over the issue of wages and prices which had plagued the coalition cabinet since its inception.

The toppling of the government, the tenth post-war French cabinet, plunged France into what may be one of its gravest political crises. Marie had been in office since July 27.

President Vincent Auriol hurriedly called in various political leaders, but then postponed the search for Marie's successor until later in the day.

The political instability of one of the four countries participating in the Moscow talks was outlined starkly as France was left technically without a foreign minister. Former Premier Robert Schuman will, however, continue to fulfill the duties of foreign minister until a new cabinet is formed.

Schuman and Finance Minister Paul Reynaud conferred with Auriol early today.

The cabinet resignation came shortly after 1 a.m. Paris time, after an unsuccessful two-day struggle to draft wage and price reforms. The twin issue almost precipitated the fall of the cabinet earlier this month when Marie went before the national assembly to ask that the cabinet be given decree powers to effect financial reforms.

Reynaud was given the wide powers after making some concessions to the Socialists. The two-

Dieppe Called One Of Most Vital Operations Of War

By DOUGLAS HOWE
 Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—(P)—Earl Mountbatten of Burma, the man who conceived the Dieppe raid by the Canadians in August, 1942, said it was "probably the most important raid" and "one of the most vital operations" of the Second World War.

The former chief of combined operations told members of the Parliamentary press gallery Tuesday: "If I had the same decision to make again I would do as I did before."

He put the conference off-record until a speech in Toronto today on the subject. It was his first public statement on one of the most controversial actions of the war.

The Earl said the lessons learned in the assault had "profound effects" on later conduct of the war and listed these:

1. They demonstrated the necessity of an artificial port—Mulberry—and probably ensured success of the D-Day landings two years later.
2. They immediately became what Field Marshal Alexander, now Governor-General, called "the Bible" of assaults operations in the Mediterranean.
3. They, conversely, fooled the Germans "utterly and completely"

Ayer's Cliff Fair Will Close Tonight

Continuous Performance, Featured by Horse Show, Marks Final Day.

Ayer's Cliff, Aug. 28.—With a continuous performance today, opening at 10 a. m. with a baseball game between Beebe and Waterloo for the E. T. County Fair Championship, band concert at 1 p. m. and a big afternoon program of harness racing, stage attractions, horse and cattle parades and Horse Show events, Ayer's Cliff Fair will have no let-up for the final day. At 6 o'clock the big night show will get under way with the closing Horse Show, followed by a band concert, and the great Congress of Hollywood Haredevil Thrill Show starting at 8 1/2 p. m.

Last night, paying tribute to 69 consecutive years of attendance at Ayer's Cliff Fair, William Rediker of Georgeville was honored by the Fair Board, receiving a gift from the Stanstead County Agricultural Society, and was also presented a lifetime pass to the Fair. Mr. Rediker, introduced by Gordon Beerworth, from the stage, expressed his pleasure at being present and told briefly of the many changes made on the grounds since he first attended Ayer's Cliff Fair.

Miss Beverly Miller of Rock Island, "Miss Newport 1948" was also introduced from the stage, being a guest of the Fair Board in honor of American Day. Miss Miller very charmingly expressed her thanks, and was given a tremendous ovation from the crowds, later enjoying the midway through the courtesy of the management of the Model Shows of Canada.

At 6:30 last evening, through the courtesy of Drummond Air Services operating passenger flights from Ripplecove Inn, the Fair Board dropped ten free tickets to the grandstand as the plane flew over the grounds, with a dollar bill attached to one of the cards, through the courtesy of Henry Moulton, Vice President of the Fair. Opening the night show, the H. N. Brien ambulance with the St. John Ambulance Brigade, roared around the track, and the staff was introduced to the audience. Yesterday afternoon, in spite of the heat, every seat in the huge grandstand was filled, crowds jamming the infield, around the stage, and along the track on both sides. They applauded an excellent harness racing card, again with 71-year-old Dr. Charles Taylor adding to his winning streak with more first-place wins.

In the Cattle Parade, the best dairy herd on display was shown by Miss Billie Beit Speyer, of Massachusetts, who with Mrs. A. R. Virgilio, of North Hatley, took principal honors in the Jersey classes. At B. Storey and Son, of Hatley, and K. B. Little, of Hatley, took principal honors in the Holsteins, with the James Woodward Estate, of Lennoxville taking Beef Cattle honors. A splendid showing of cattle appeared yesterday, and W. G. MacDougall, of the Parade Committee also had a much larger parade of horses and Junior calf clubs than was previously shown.

Complete results of the racing and the excellent Horse Show given by the Sherbrooke Riding and Driving Club yesterday will appear in Monday's Record. This afternoon, Joe Laflamme, Canada's "King of the North," will appear at the Ayer's Cliff Fair, but his famous moose, "Muskeg" will in all probability have to be left behind at the exhibition, where he is appearing all next week, his big zoo opening tomorrow.

Soviet Vice Consul Goes Home

New York, Aug. 28.—(P)—Jakob Lomakin, Soviet consul-general, is scheduled to head back to Moscow today, but he hints he may miss the boat.

His job as consul-general here is finished, President Truman has officially revoked his credentials.

But Lomakin, key figure in events which led to a break in Soviet-American consular relations, indicated he is not certain he will make his scheduled departure for Russia.

Booked to sail on the Swedish-American liner Stockholm, Lomakin was asked yesterday by reporters if he would be aboard when the ship sails.

"I'm not sure," he replied.

Asked to answer further questions, Lomakin said he might do so later.

"Maybe," he said, "in two weeks."

Officials of the ship line said reservations for Lomakin and his family have not been cancelled.

In Washington, the State Department left the way open for Lomakin to do as he pleased—for the present—about leaving the United States.

The New York consulate itself, as well as the Soviet consulate in San Francisco and the American consulate in Russia, have been ordered closed by Moscow as a result of the united action against Lomakin.

It was his dealings with Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina, Russian school teacher who failed to fill her own reservations on a Russian-bound ship, that touched off the international controversy.

The teacher, who leaped from a third-storey consulate window of the consulate where she claims Lomakin held her prisoner, yesterday was provided with a lawyer to aid her in steps toward becoming an American citizen.

Mrs. Kasenkina, who has charged that Lomakin and his aides "arrested" her at a White Russian camp and later held her in the consulate, that touched off the good condition at Roosevelt Hospital.

Lomakin yesterday made a call at the Soviet United Nations headquarters, which he has visited frequently in recent days.

Before leaving the consulate, he was asked several times about his scheduled departure today. At one time, he said:

"I want to go, but I'm not sure if I will. I am still too busy with a lot of work."

A secretary at the consulate told reporters that the ship "accommodations will be used."

Reminded that the passage could only be filled by the persons for whom it was made, she said: "I understand."

Demobilization Is Studied By U.K.

London, Aug. 28.—(Reuters)—Recent meetings of cabinet ministers and service chiefs reflect the British government's problem of trying to reconcile demobilization of the armed forces with the continued international tension.

The problem is urgent because by the end of the year, when navy, army and air force will have been further depleted by demobilization, reinforcement of the services will be confined to men 18 years old compulsorily recruited for one year only under the new national service act.

It is certain that if there were any deterioration in especially the Berlin situation the government,

Irish Union Is Forecast By Costello

New York, Aug. 28.—(P)—Prime Minister John A. Costello of Eire forecast today that Irish partition will be ended and said that when that happens his country probably will be willing to enter a defence agreement with the western powers.

He declined to say how or when Eire and the six countries that make up Northern Ireland will be merged, but said he has "high hopes" it can be done.

For one thing said the Fine Gael party leader who succeeded Eamon de Valera as government head last Feb. 18, the Irish land—all of it—is strategically important to both Britain and the United States.

When the Canadian Press recalled that Eire was neutral during the Second World War and asked whether the Dublin government would be willing to commit itself in a defensive military agreement if partition ends, Costello replied:

"It would be a very good assumption that my country would be prepared to enter an agreement with the United States, Britain and the western European powers for strategic purposes to maintain peace."

"But we are not considering that as long as partition exists."

Costello is en route to Montreal, where he will be the guest of the Canadian Bar Association. He will arrive there Monday morning. Later he will visit Ottawa, Quebec and Toronto before sailing for home from New York Sept. 23.

Duplessis Reaffirms Quebec Stand

Premier Says Government Will Resist All Federal Centralization Attempts.

Quebec, Aug. 28.—(P)—Premier Duplessis yesterday reaffirmed his government's stand on provincial rights, one of the foremost issues of the recent Quebec election in which the Union Nationale won an overwhelming victory.

He told his weekly press conference that "courteously, politely, firmly and categorically" he wished to make it clear his government would "resist all attempts at centralization and encroachment" by federal authorities.

Premier Duplessis made the statement after noting a paragraph in a recent bulletin of the national Liberal Federation which said that the Trans-Canada highway might possibly come under federal jurisdiction as an "inter-provincial means of transportation."

Premier Duplessis also commented on a recent statement by W. P. J. O'Meara, assistant under-secretary of state, suggesting uniformity of legislation among the various parts of Canada to meet increasing disarray of laws.

The Union Nationale leader said that Quebec has a "natural and constitutional right" to keep intact its civil code which is "perfectly suitable to the province."

"Uniformity of laws could only lead to assimilation of races to which we are irresistibly and definitely opposed," he said.

Premier Duplessis also announced the appointment of Mr. Justice Joseph Blouin, 48-year-old chief justice of the Court of Sessions in Quebec City, as chief judge of the Magistrate's court of the province.

The Premier said that next Wednesday at Three Rivers he will attend ceremonies during which Quebec's "heudeliese" flag will be formally hoisted at the municipal stadium. Next month, he will visit mining and hydro-electric development sites in the Ungava district of northeastern Quebec.

Questioned about rumors that an autumn session of the Quebec Legislature would be called, Premier Duplessis said the provincial House will not meet before January.

The Premier also denied reports of a post-election cabinet shuffle. He said all his ministers had been re-elected with increased or substantial majorities and it was not proposed to swear in the ministers again simply because there had been an election.

Premier Duplessis said comment on the Trans-Canada highway in the Liberal Federation bulletin appeared under the signature "Ottawa Observer." He said a copy of the bulletin had been sent to him by a friend.

Premier Duplessis said it seemed from the statement that Ottawa authorities sought "the control of public transportation and means of communication which are within the provincial field of authority and always have been within the provincial field."

He said that Quebec had never received from any federal government the share of revenue due to the province for construction of the Trans-Canada highway.

Premier Duplessis said his government was determined to maintain "in this domain as in others

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

Mr. George A. Sloan, Chairman Metropolitan Opera Assn. 147 West 53rd Street New York, N.Y.

An August 6, I sent you a letter in which I offered to run the Opera for a year and guarantee it against deficit. On August 10, I received your reply. It was gracious and well-written, but one sentence stuck out like a chunk of glass in a box of talcum powder.

Well, Mr. Sloan, if the Met's problem isn't one of management, what in the name of Giuseppe Verdi is it? Labor demands? I can't buy that. The legit theatre does business with the same unions, but nobody has threatened to shut up shop. Lack of public interest? Hardly. According to your own figures, the Met has played to 97 per cent of capacity for four years, and last year 85 per cent of your tickets were subscribed for before the season began.

What, then, is the bottleneck? Let me whisper it to you. In spite of what you and your Board say, it is management. Not crooked management, not bad management, but uninspired, unenlightened and unrealistic management.

Am I suggesting that you fire Mr. Johnson? Perish the thought! There's a lot of operatic know-how packed away in that well-shaped head, and if he's used only as artistic director, he's well worth his keep.

walks of Seventh Avenue (where it's often rained on), carrying it to the warehouse, and then bringing it back a few weeks later and putting it up again, is close to $4,000.

Why, then, wouldn't it be smart to present two operas a week instead of five or six? Instead of treating the biggest city in the world as a one-night stand, why not play "Carmen" the first half of the week and, let's say, "Der Rosenkavalier" the second half? And ditto the rest of the operas in next season's repertory.

The unions representing your employees assure me that this plan would cut down rehearsal expenses, and would make for smoother and more expert performances.

Is this practical from the standpoint of the singer? Several of your singers tell me it is. Last year, "La Traviata" was performed seven times with four different Violettas, not to mention four Alfreddos, "Manon" with four Manons, "Carmen" with four Carmens, and "La Boheme" with four Rudolphs and four Mimis.

"Tannhauser" was performed on Nov. 13, Dec. 1 and 27, Jan. 20, Feb. 13 and 27, and March 6 and 12. Instead of this traditional but uneconomic schedule, this opera could be presented four consecutive nights in December and four more in February. And it shouldn't be difficult with five Tannhausers, five Wolfraums and five Venuses on your payroll.

According to my pencil scribbles, this consecutive performance policy would eliminate at least 50 per cent of the deficit. But that would still leave you $200,000 in the red, and if you're allergic to red ink, I think you might do well to consider the advisability of cutting down the number of operas in the Met's repertory until such time as you are in the black again. I'm not suggesting this as a permanent policy. A season of 29 works is more exciting than one of 19, but I'm sure the town would rather have 19 operas than none at all.

There's another fundamental axiom of show business that the Met management continues to overlook—a dark house doesn't make money. For several years now, there's been a shortage of theatres in New York. But while every theatre owner has been cashing in on this, the Met has been closed a good part of each year.

This, in my book, is plain stupidity. Why not open the Opera House during its off-season to operettas such as "Porgy and Bess," "Carousel," "Show Boat" and "Oklahoma?" Or popular concerts at popular prices?

No, Mr. Sloan, I can't go along with the statement that your current problem is not one of management. It's nothing else but.

A certain showman recently told me that he couldn't understand why a monopoly like the Met should ever lose money. A few years ago this fellow got $75,000 from a movie company for letting it use the name of his cabaret.

Can you imagine what he would have gotten for the real Diamond Horseshoe? Sincerely, Billy Rose (Copyright, 1948, by Billy Rose)

63rd Sherbrooke Fair Will Get Under Way Tonight

Record Crowds Expected To Attend Week-Long Exhibition

This is D-Day at the Sherbrooke Fair—the 63rd exhibition of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association.

Tonight, Lucky Lott's Hell Drivers will get the Fair officially under way with a thrill-packed performance of car and motorcycle driving. Tomorrow there will be two more Lucky Lott shows and the Midway will be open. Monday, judging begins and the Fair can really be said to be in full swing.

This is one of the Fair's busy days although the program will be limited to the Lucky Lott show tonight. Exhibitors were bringing in their livestock and other displays while industrial firms were putting the final touches to their fine exhibition.

Open Season For Moose At The Fair

Joe LaFlamme, "Muskeg" his moose, and his other trained animals, including wolves from Canada's far north, are in Ayer's Cliff today where they are being presented as a special feature of the Fair. Tomorrow and all next week, visitors to Sherbrooke's Exhibition will have the opportunity of seeing these trained animals, along with many others which have been loaned through the courtesy of the Quebec Zoological gardens.

Joe LaFlamme and his trained pets are presented by the Eastern Townships Fish and Game Clubs Association, in collaboration with the Departments of Fish and Game and Lands and Forests, with a view to the preservation and conservation of the wild life and the forests of this province.

This Is What Happened When Margaret Met Joe's Muskeg On A Hot Afternoon

Dear Boss:

When I began work as a newspaper woman I was told that I would have to be ready for any kind of a situation and that no assignment should surprise me.

But I never expected my work would include feeding a moose with one hand and pushing away an affectionate deer that was nuzzling the back of my neck, with the other.

Such was the case yesterday when, accompanied by Forest Keene, I went up to the exhibition grounds to interview Joe LaFlamme whose wild life show can be seen at the Sherbrooke Fair starting tomorrow.

Mr. Keene had several quart bottles of milk and loaves of bread for Joe's animal family and once these were deposited inside the big wooden stockade where the animals are being housed I set out to get my interview.

Mr. Keene introduced me to Joe, who, by the way, is quite a character, and I began asking him questions. But it seems that the animals were hungry and had to be fed. So Joe left with a quart of milk and a loaf of bread and began feeding his pets.

It was just about here that the moose—Muskeg—stepped into the picture. He decided things were moving too slowly for him so reached across me to a table and helped himself to a loaf of bread, wax paper and all. I asked Joe if this was the usual procedure and he replied: "No. Here—you might as well feed him."

And at that he handed me a loaf of bread.

I must admit it really wasn't a hard job. In fact, Muskeg and I became good friends, and that goes for the little deer too. But I was relieved that the other animals—bears, wolves, raccoons and beavers—were in cages.

Finally we settled down to the interview. Joe, a heavy-set man with snow-white hair, flowing beard and a wonderful sense of humor, revealed that he first started training animals when, as a trapper, several of his dogs died of distemper and he replaced them with wolves. He kept increasing the number each year until he had a team of 17.

I asked him about bears and he told me that there is a certain period during the year when a bear is dangerous and will attack anything, including human beings. When the animal emerges from his five-month period of hibernation, his stomach has shrunk and he has to eat very small quantities until it resumes its natural size. Consequently the bear feeds on a small quantity of sap and a few leaves, until the suckers start to spawn, then he goes fishing, starting four hours in the stream, grabbing the fish as they go by.

It is during the period between the fishing and the blueberry season that the bear's appetite returns to normal and he becomes ravenous, devouring whatever he can find. The general opinion, he claims, is that wolves are more dangerous than bears, consequently people keep away from them and therefore there are fewer cases where people have been attacked by wolves.

Here Joe is feeding the animals bread, milk, rolled oats and barley meal, but normally his moose are fed on poplar leaves, pussy willows, moose maple, white birch, the old limb of balsam and white pine. Barley meal is very good for the animals, he says, but they need variety and must have brush. Joe believes the reason so many moose die in various zoos is because they are fed on hay, which does not agree with them.

Joe says that if hunters continue to kill moose at the rate they have been, in a very short time before leaving I took another look at some of the animals and birds. Joe has brought with him—beavers, wolves, a white snow goose, Geraldine the badger, bear cubs, wolves, a skunk (deodorized), baby deer, pheasants and a solemn looking owl among them.

But Muskeg is my favorite. After all, it isn't every day a girl gets to feed a moose.

MARGARET DOHERTY.

MORE RAIN REQUIRED FOR CROPS

The Bank of Montreal weekly crop report shows that although the recent fairly general rains and warm weather have been beneficial to growth, additional moisture is required in some areas of the Eastern Townships while in others warm, dry weather would be of benefit.

Grains continue to do well and good-average crops are in prospect; the harvesting of oats and barley has commenced in most areas and threshing is under way. The greater part of an above-average pea crop has been harvested and canning is well advanced.

Tomatoes are progressing well and a good crop is indicated. Harvesting of an average hay crop has been completed in most sections. The recent rainfall has improved pastures which, with few exceptions, are now in good condition. Potatoes and other roots are progressing satisfactorily and good-average yields are in view.

An average apple crop is foreseen and small fruits are plentiful.

Stop, Look, Listen During Accident Prevention Week

Accident Prevention Week gets underway tomorrow and Police Chief Edouard Moreau asks all motorists as well as pedestrians to be careful. Stop, Look and Listen. "Jay walkers are the cause of many accidents. Pedestrians when crossing the street should, after they have looked in both directions, cross between the marked off white lines," Chief Moreau told the Record.

At intersections where there is a stop light pedestrians are permitted to cross the street only when the green light which bears the name "walk" is lighted.

Three persons were killed and 83 were injured in 681 automobile accidents in Sherbrooke during the year 1947. According to the police all these accidents resulted from carelessness and violations of traffic regulations.

Accident prevention week this year coincides with the Sherbrooke Fair and there will be heavy traffic. Avoid accidents, Stop, Look and Listen.

Posters have been placed all over the city and stickers have been handed out to motorists to help them remember Accident Prevention Week.

Motorists Chief Moreau said should always signify their intention of either stopping or turning. When driving on city streets they should remember they are not in a race and drive slowly. They should not mix liquor and gasoline.

Pedestrians should observe the municipal traffic laws and remember they are more apt to get hurt than the motorist.

Riding on the running board of a car may be breezy but it is dangerous. Children playing in the streets are risking their lives.

DIPLOMAS TO BE GIVEN TO DOGS MONDAY

Dogs which have been undergoing obedience training classes at Sherbrooke and North Hatley over the summer months will hold their "graduation" at the William Street Armory on Monday night at 8:15 o'clock.

The dog school was operated by Mrs. Alex Casgrain who instructs dog training classes in Montreal for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Owners and dogs attended school together once a week for 10 weeks and owners were taught how to teach their dogs simple obedience—not tricks, but just good manners. There were nine dogs trained here and a similar number at North Hatley.

At Monday's "graduation," prizes will be awarded for the performance of the dogs and the owners' handling and diplomas will be given to the "graduates."

There will be an exhibition by two trained Poodles—Mrs. Casgrain's "Wendy," which has the title International Champion Dog, and Madame Barclay's "Gay," a graduate of an advanced training course in Montreal.

There will be no admission charge to the graduation.

News Of Quebec Province In Brief

Montreal, Aug. 28.—It was hot at Longue Pointe on Monday morning, where Defence Minister Claxton was expected for the presentation of certificates to officer cadets.

Armed with rifles, girded with web belts, clad in stiff drill, and wearing warm berets, the troops stood patiently awaiting the Minister.

Shortly after ten o'clock he appeared and the band struck up with "The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck."

Granby, Que., Aug. 28.—Word reached here today of a fire early last Monday that destroyed the house, a shed and a grain building belonging to Alexandre Dupont of the 10th range of St. Valentin.

Mr. Dupont's son started a tractor in the shed. He was handling gasoline and there was a sudden explosion. He managed to escape without injury.

More than 2,000 bushels of grain were destroyed. A few pieces of furniture were saved from the house.

Granby, Que., Aug. 28.—Two persons were injured Thursday night when an automobile and truck collided on the Watkinson-Granby highway, about six miles from Granby.

Police said the automobile, driven by A. R. Thompson of Montreal, piled into the left side of the truck, belonging to Albert Deslauriers of South Stukely.

Mr. Thompson was taken to hospital suffering from a cut lower lip and possible fracture of the right hand. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Maureen Yates, who was accompanying him, suffered shock.

Granby, Que., Aug. 28.—Andre Campbell, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Campbell of St. Dominique, is dead from injuries suffered when trampled by two horses.

The horses became frightened and unmanageable when the boy fell under them, and he was also crushed by the wheels of the wagon the horses were pulling.

Mrs. W. S. MacCaskill entertained the Ladies' Aid of Chalmers' Emmanuel Church. The president, Mrs. Peter MacIver, was in the chair. Plans were made for a chicken supper to be held in the near future. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. K. N. MacIver, the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Alexander Morrison. The hymns, "Asleep in Jesus," was sung, followed by a minute of silent prayer, dedicated to the memory of the late Mrs. George Martin. The meeting closed in the usual manner, after which the hostesses served refreshments assisted by Mrs. K. MacLeod, Mrs. Arnold MacKenzie, Mrs. Milton Goodin, Miss Miriam MacLeod and Miss K. MacLeod.

Visitors at the home of Mr. M. K. MacLeod included Mr. K. MacLeod, of Barre, Vt., Mr. R. Clark, of Beebe; Mr. W. MacArthur, of Sturtevant; and Mrs. Neil MacArthur, of Gould.

Paton Mill Slowly Closes Down As Weavers Stay Out

Another "blank" was drawn yesterday noon in a meeting between officials of Paton Manufacturing Company and representatives of 42 weavers, whose strike over a bonus dispute on August 16 has gradually been paralyzing the textile mill.

Management officials met Rene Gosselin, technical advisor to the national Catholic Textile Federation, G. Fortier and R. Gervais, president and secretary respectively of the National Association of Paton Employees, at the company offices, but no success was reported.

The last two named representatives were not present in the capacity of union officials, however, as the weavers themselves point out that their action is not union-sponsored.

A meeting has been planned for Sunday morning at 10:30 at the Syndicate Hall on Gordon Street, when Gosselin will meet with a general session of all Paton employees.

Gosselin, in a statement issued last night said that at a meeting with the weavers Thursday night the situation was reviewed and that it was agreed that the company was responsible for the work stoppage "because they provoked the employees by changing working conditions, contrary to article 24 of the law of labor relations and to article 11 of the collective contract."

"At today's meeting with representative of the company we told them that no agreement was possible so long as they did not respect the law and the contract."

The statement remarked that "it is regrettable that the minister of labor has shown so little interest in this problem and hasn't ruled that the Paton company respect the law."

It added that an attempt would be made to have an interview with the labor minister with a view to settling the strike.

Meanwhile, the walkout in the weaving department is choking off other units at the mill. Several departments are closed or closing, and officials stated that by the end of next week a small skeleton force of 50 to 100 men will be left at the factory.

At full operating strength the mill employs 450 workers in all departments.

The workers in the weaving section struck on Monday, August 16 in protest against the company's decision to enforce a bonus plan which had been long objected to by the weavers.

Company officials stated in a prepared statement earlier in the week that they considered the strike illegal, and that the new bonus plan was specifically agreed to in a collective agreement signed last August.

Spoken for the weavers have insisted that the contentious plan be submitted to a three man arbitration board.

Step on it! Bring down-trodden heels, worn soles to us. Swift, expert service.

PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Sherbrooke civic officials are today launching their annual "No Accident Week" during which time they seek to impress upon motorists the need for greater safety in driving...

A survey of highway accidents in Quebec made during July and the first half of August shows that the majority of traffic mishaps involve what the Quebec Safety League describes as a "certain group of motorists."

Investigation of accidents that have happened on curved sections of highways during the past six weeks shows in all cases that the cars and trucks involved were travelling faster than was safely permissible on the sections of highway involved...

The increase in the number of accidents involving children generally resulted from "lack of foresight" by certain drivers. Safety League officials declare that all motorists should understand that a child is liable to dart into the street without a second's warning...

Besides high speed, over-indulgence in liquor was blamed for many of the accidents, the authorities claiming that the false sense of confidence which alcohol creates generally results in an accident. In addition to high speed, too much alcohol is consumer with a result that a great indifference to other highway users ensues.

The authorities themselves can do much to reduce accidents. The existing traffic legislation might not be perfect, but if the present rules were properly observed and strictly enforced the toll of the highway would be reduced substantially. It is up to the authorities — police, prosecuting attorneys and magistrates alike—to see that greater respect be given the law. Too often the traffic section of a police department gives too much attention to detail without realizing the overall picture. Hours will be spent on checking up and apprehending minor breaches of the parking regulations, but serious breaks of speeding and safety ordinances go unheeded.

Next week is No-Accident Week but it is to be hoped that any lessons learned at this time will be applied throughout the year.

TYPICAL TACTICS

The great Communist-staged riots in Berlin when mobs of ten thousand persons or more stormed the City Hall are typical of Soviet tactics and show their determination to take advantage of every opportunity provided by a crisis—even if this crisis is Red-inspired.

The obvious reason behind the demonstration to scare the officials of the Four-Power administration from the building and leave it untenanted. The next step was simple. The Communists would claim that the international government had proved unwilling and unable to administer the affairs of the German capital and Red representatives would step into their places. From then on the extension of Soviet power would have been easy, with pro-Allied officials in the outside services being replaced by Communist stooges and the position of the Allies would become even more untenable than it is at the present time.

However, the international agents appear to have retained control of the situation for the time being at least, although one may rest assured that if a similar opportunity presents itself, the Soviets will capitalize upon it to the limit.

AFTER DANUBE RIVER FIASCO, NEXT RIDDLE IS DARDANELLES

Next riddle of European diplomacy is what effect the Danube River conference, whose terms were dictated by Soviet Russia, may have on future control of the Dardanelles—the Turkish straits leading from the Mediterranean to the Black Sea.

The Potsdam declaration signed by Truman, Churchill and Stalin in August, 1945, called for revision of the Montreux Convention of 1936, which governs international uses and control of the Dardanelles. The Big Three at Potsdam agreed that this convention, or treaty, should be revised to meet modern conditions.

The English version of the Potsdam agreement says that the next step should be the subject of direct conversation between the three powers and the Turks. An exact translation of the Russian text of the Potsdam agreement says that "the proper course" should be the subject of direct conversations between "each of" the three powers and the Turks.

On the basis of this neat little trick in translation, the Russians in 1945 and 1946 made direct demands on the Turks for special privileges in control and defense of the Dardanelles. The Russians wanted to establish their own military bases on the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus straits to the north, so that they would have full control of approaches to the Black Sea.

This is what Russia has always wanted, ever since the days of the czars. It was the subject of Russian demands in the Russo-German non-aggression pact of 1940. Hitler's refusal to meet Russian demands for control of the mouth of the Danube River—which flows into the Black Sea—was one of the main reasons for the break-up between the Nazis and the Communists.

WESTERN POWERS CUT OFF FROM DANUBE CONTROL

At the Danube conference just concluded, the Russians and their six Communist satellites were able to put over their idea that the river should be controlled only by states having riparian rights—that is, countries through which the Danube flows. That of course cut out the United States, Britain and France from having any control over Danube traffic.

If the Russians now try to establish this same principle over control of the Dardanelles, an interesting thing may develop. Geographically, Turkey is the only country that has any riparian rights, since both banks of the Dardanelles, the Bosphorus and the little Sea of Marmara in between are Turkish soil.

The Russians may claim, however, that since the waters of the Black Sea flow through these straits, countries bordering on the Black Sea should also have a voice in control of the Dardanelles. That would cut Russia, the Ukraine, Bulgaria and Romania in on the deal. They could then outvote the Turks on every issue.

MONTREUX CONVENTION REVISION POSSIBLE

The Montreux Convention which now governs the straits provides very definite procedure for revision. It was to be subject to revision every five years after 1936 and completely rewritten after 20 years in 1956. No revision was made in 1941 because of the war, during which Turkey had full right of control. In 1946 the issue was hot. Many notes were exchanged but nothing was done. The next regular date for revision would be 1951.

But since the Russians have put over the principle of riparian control of the Danube, it would not be surprising for them to move for revision of the Montreux Convention now, under the terms of the Potsdam declaration. In a straight revision by the countries that signed the Montreux Convention, however, the Russians would not have majority voting control as over the Danube.

The U.S. was not a League of Nations member, did not attend and did not sign the Montreux Convention. It would be entitled to attend any new conference to discuss revision of the Montreux Convention because of its participation in the Potsdam declaration which called for such revision. Also, for the last three years, U.S. tonnage has accounted for between a third and a fourth of all shipping through the Dardanelles and has been greater than that of any other country.

In any future conference on the Dardanelles, the Russians might try to force out Britain, France, Greece, Italy and the United States on the grounds that they were not riparian countries. If successful, this would reduce Russian opposition to one vote—Turkey—and give the Communist bloc control.

SOMETHING MUST BE WRONG IN PARADISE

Thanks For The Stars

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

Of the world's oldest picture books—with thrills on every page—the sky, dotted at night, with stars, today I am thinking.

No holiday is complete unless you get alone at night under the silent stars and read "the elder scriptures, writ by God's hand." Therein you hear the spangled heavens their great Original proclaim as they shine from pole to pole saying: "The hand that made us is divine." Of course the Psalmist said this in those familiar words: "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth His handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge" (Ps. 19). Those who watch the stars there comes a solitude and silence which acts as a nurse for the full grown soul aiding you, on your native heath, to find your real self—and God!

A short time ago I asked a friend of mine what stars suggested. To my delight he reminded me that daily he thanked "God for the stars and this country so; thanks for the night, this loneliness, and God."

TWINKLE, TWINKLE, LITTLE STAR!

In these modern days not many approach the study of the stars in the old mood of "Twinkle, twinkle, little star; how I wonder what you are, Up above the world so high, like a diamond in the sky." Rather they wonder and ponder about those worlds, ever thwarting, never interfering; roving for ever, without error; roving for ever, without error; roving for ever, without error.

Who kindled those lamps in the heavens? What kept them burning? Why do some twinkle whilst others shine with a steady light? Did they radiate influences for good or ill on human life—these are some of the questions that baffle.

Do you know that "dis-aster" means against the stars? And "con-sider" means together with the stars? In these two words we see the influence of Stars in our language. Nor has this influence passed away. Do you detect a stark grim materialism which is basically fatalistic influencing people to accept defeat? There is no freedom, say they. We are the result of causes and forces beyond ourselves. In a word, victims. And this is all so unworthy for Christ assured us that we are meant to be victors.

Let us challenge you to plant the thought firmly in your mind that you are not a negligible grain of dust blown by the winds of chance or controlled by stars in far constellations but rather a child of God. So "commit thy way unto the Lord. Trust in Him also, and He shall bring it (all things needful) to pass."

UNDER THE STARS . . .

One night I shall never forget when, under the stars, we chatted about Salvation. You know, no doubt, that there is a flippant, indifferent, cheap attitude towards what we must do to be saved. Crooked thinking about this vital subject is all too prevalent. It is not reasonable to ask that as the Master is preparing a place for us hereafter, must we not be preparing ourselves for that place? This the Church emphasizes and insists that Christ is the only One to whom we can look when our soul cries out for deliverance. Jesus only! So to Him we must get back. Back to the simplicities! Back to the Cross! Back to Christ!

That is, we must return to our merciful Saviour Who forgives and forgets. Submitting ourselves to Christ and the discipline and the means of grace provided in His mystical Body, the Church, we shall be travelling in the glory way, with the easy yoke and light burden, thereby walking in all lowliness, patience and charity. Can't you hear the saints across the centuries calling you to submit to the only dictatorship—that of the Holy Spirit—seeking always His glory and serving Him daily in your work with thanksgiving.

This is the only way for you and me to wear the garments of salvation and the robe of righteousness (Is. 61:10). The price? In money, nothing. Does not the Church sing: "No price in my hands I bring, simply to Thy Cross I cling?" In effort? We must persevere to achieve holiness without which no man can see the Lord knowing that the Blood of Christ not only cleanses us from all sin but also renews and endows us with new life. There is life in the Blood! Peace, too. (Col. 1:20).

D. F. W. Boreham in his "A Faggot of Torches," observes that half the world is asking: "What must I do to be saved?" The other half is asking: "What must I do to get saved?" In returning and rest shall ye be saved! In quietness and in confidence shall be your strength! . . . Salvation always lies in returning. We get on by going back.

Back, then, we must go. Back to the Cross! There the bright and morning Star sheds its beams around us.

THE BRIGHT AND MORNING STAR

Of all the names of the Master, this last title is one of surpassing beauty. (Rev. 22:16) suggesting that Christ is alive for evermore, forever the harbinger of a day of gladness. He who trod our common way is still our Guide, our Hope, our Joy and Confidence in every dark night which finds us longing for the dawn.

Our life just now is stormy. The great constellations of faith, hope and love still shine. With these three we shall achieve peace on earth, good will among all men everywhere and the sea of life will become calm once more.

At every turn we are driven back to the Cross which is the Christian's skyline. That old rugged Cross is to us what the North Star is to the mariner for, with that guide, explorers and sailors kept their chosen courses from time immemorial. Their unalterable rhythm of movement still functions. Across the sea of life, then, see the Morning Star shining and, as you repeat that loveliest of names you will find your heart beating rapidly. Reflect that that name was revealed to the author of Revelation in one of the world's darkest hours, when brute, godless tyranny ruled from the throne of the Caesars and the voices of the spirit sank to a dying whisper.

Now, in our out-of-joint, uneasy, upset, defeated world the same Star shines, challenging us to its heroic mode of being followers of the Lamb, new men, twice born men, soldiers of the Cross!

If ever the world needed an un-failing star it is now.

It is there—shining above all angry clouds.

SHINE FORTH

So, now you thank God for the stars, resolving to keep their light strong and clear, and shine forth in our lives that men may find their way? Godward?

will determine to become a guiding light to others, leading them "O'er moor and fen, crag and torrent" to their heavenly Father.

At the end of August all roads lead back to the city, school and work. Take back with you the Presence—Christ—and the healing and the stars. Daily thank God for the beauty and usefulness of the stars, keeping in mind their rare promise after the night of death—"And he that overcometh . . . I will give him the Morning Star." Jesus!

I still hear that youthful, idealistic conversationalist repeating Ralph Spaulding Cushman's charming poem: "Thanks for the Stars."

THE RUSSIANS NOT TOO HAPPY

Nothing could emphasize more the importance of the Four Power discussions in Moscow that the repeated intervention of Stalin. He is the functioning head of the Russian state, far loftier in status than the three western negotiators two of whom are ambassadors while the third is a private secretary. Stalin's repeated entry into the talks will be regarded in Russian eyes as a very great concession.

To our eyes, however, it means something else. It means that, even if the western powers are precariously in Berlin supported only by an air lift that cannot be maintained in bad weather, the Russians themselves are in trouble and want to get out of it if they can. They too find Berlin a difficult place to hold. The German capital, a vast city of three and a half million people, was dependent in normal times on much more than that part of the country now included in the Russian zone of occupation. It drew upon all Germany. Until it draws upon all Germany again its great skills and industries remain half paralyzed. Certainly they will remain so for very many years if German partition becomes a full reality.

Yet the Russian need is for the fine machinery, the capital goods industries provide. Either from desperate need or from greedy improvidence, the Russians in 1945-46 looted Berlin and the surrounding zone. Now they are finding that they have killed the goose that laid the golden eggs. Or rather, the goose now rests in a state of suspended animation. The Russians want to bring it back into activity again. Their objective is therefore to get the German economy working again. They are attempting this after more than two years in which they frustrated every attempt to reach that goal. Now they find that Berlin and their zone cannot work without the Ruhr and the resources, industries and skills of western Germany.

They might have realized this before. They would have realized it had they not been so cocksure that western capitalism was going to crumble and break up before the impact of their own fanaticisms. But western capitalism has displayed — surprising strength. The Russians, having refused to co-operate through the wide-open front door of the Potsdam agreement, are now trying to enter by the back-door of the Berlin blockade.

If the Russians really wanted to get the western Allies out of Berlin, the prolonged negotiations in the Kremlin would have broken down long ago. The Russians would have stood pat and waited for the air lift to break down. They have not done so, which means they are playing a larger game, or that the arguments presented by General Bedell Smith and his associates are of a kind which command stern and respectful attention from the Russians.

Very obviously the cards are not all on one side. Analysis suggests that we hold fundamentally by far the stronger hand.

Q—In music what is the distinction between score and libretto?

A—Libretto is the text; score is the music composed to fit the libretto.

HOW TO BID SLAMS UNDER POINT-COUNT

Slam bidding is the subject of this final article in the series taken from the booklet entitled "The Point-Count System of Bidding in Contract Bridge" by Fred L. Karpin of Washington, D.C.

The whole system is based on counting an ace four points, a king three, a queen two, a jack one, the fifth card of a suit one, and the sixth card of a suit one. For a game, a minimum of 26 points is needed in the combined hands.

Thirty-four points are needed in the combined hands to "guarantee" a small slam, while 38 points are needed to "guarantee" a grand slam. But, points out Mr. Karpin, it either of the partners is assured of a minimum count of 32 points, a small slam should be bid; and 37 points is worth a try for a grand slam. Thirty-three and 37 do not "guarantee" slams, but they will make over 60 per cent of the time.

When South opened the bidding on today's hand with one no trump, North, holding 17 points, knew that the combined hands held at least 33, as 16-18 points are needed for a one no trump opener. He was justified, therefore, in jumping to six no trump.

A nice safety play must be employed to insure the contract. The opening lead of the queen of clubs is won with declarer's ace. The king of diamonds is cashed, a small diamond led and dummy's eight-spot finessed. Thus declarer loses only one diamond. Even if all five of the missing diamonds were in the East hand, declarer is assured of three diamond tricks by laying down the king of diamonds. As Mr. Karpin says, even in the point-count system you must not lose any opportunity in the play of the hand.

RADIANT HEATING — heating — important application. By Richard Woolsey Shoemaker, Consulting Engineer. Radiant Heating brings you practical information on radiant heating is, and how it compares with other heating systems. It's packed with valuable hints and suggestions, sound advice on location—in both commercial buildings and residences; on the heating plant and its control system; on installation; on radiant cooling. Data and methods for designing one- and two-story residential and commercial radiant-heating units are provided in careful detail. Scores of examples of radiant-heating constructions are included to show you practical applications of this modern system in all types of buildings in various climatic conditions.

The Managing Editor's Column

By DOUGLAS AMARON

Hot weather stories are legion these blistering August days but we are passing this one along because it is different and because it is a story that every mother and father can appreciate.

One day this week Alan and Eddie Anderson, 10 and seven respectively, and three young friends sought escape from the heat at the Vacation colony. Like other small boys, they took off their clothes and went swimming.

During the afternoon, one of the boys, Billie Thornton, cut his leg badly and had to be taken to hospital for treatment. The ambulance came and in the excitement of getting Billie away, not only his clothes but those of Alan and Eddie were packed into the vehicle.

The brothers did not miss their clothes until they prepared to go home early in the evening. Other children at the Colony had gone by this time and Alan and Eddie and their friends were left alone. One of these other boys was nine, the other five.

Alan took charge and sent the nine-year-old, who had his clothes, off to the bus stop with instructions to get Mrs. Anderson and some clothes. The bus did not come for 25 minutes and it grew later and darker.

Eddie became cold, the five-year-old grew frightened. Trees took strange shapes in the darkness and the youngsters began to cry. Alan decided that clothes or no clothes, the situation called for bolder strategy. He set out with his two charges for the bus stop, took the wrong turning in the dark and moved away instead of toward the bus.

But this story has a happy ending. Mrs. Anderson, speeding in a taxi, reached the Colony. Her calls were soon heard and three cold, tired but very, very relieved young boys went home.

Viscount Mountbatten, who opened the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto yesterday, has a warm spot in his heart for Canadians. On the front page today his views on the Dieppe raid which he considers "one of the most vital operations" of the war, are related.

The former chief of combined operations had a hand in another Canadian raid on the French coast about four months before Dieppe. This was a "hush hush" operation and the fact that Canadians took part in it was kept under cover for nearly two years.

British Commandos were given the task of staging a hit and run sortie near Boulogne, with the objective of capturing prisoners and destroying a few German strong points. It was what was known as a reconnaissance raid.

Canadian troops, keyed up by long training, were clamoring for action and it was decided to send along part of the Carlton and York Regiment from New Brunswick. We accompanied the Canadians on this sortie but by one of those queer turns of fate the Canadian landing party came under heavy fire from the Germans and failed to get ashore.

There were no casualties but the Canadians were disheartened that their first chance to come to blows with the enemy had been thwarted before it really got under way. Their chagrin was increased by the fact the British troops had completed their mission successfully.

Back in London, the day the raid was completed, Viscount Mountbatten reluctantly ruled that no mention of Canadian participation could be made in news stories.

"One of the objects of these raids is to learn as much as we can and to tell as little as we can," he said. "The Germans don't know the Canadians were along so there is no use telling them that your soldiers are ready for this sort of action."

So into the waste-paper basket went thousands of words on what, in effect, was the Canadians' first real operation of the war. Had we known then, as Viscount Mountbatten knew, that Dieppe was to follow so soon we would not have thought the dark thoughts that went with the deflated story.

Manufacturing provides executives with a simple and basic, yet complete analysis of the fundamentals of modern manufacturing, to guide them in establishing a new enterprise, or in modernizing an existing one. Stressing the importance of good organization and developing an objective viewpoint of manufacturing problems, the book covers in detail such processes as designing and processing the product, housing the enterprise, personnel practices, management controls, etc., and supplies a new slant on such important subjects as designing, formalizing, evaluating, and staffing the organization. The Case History method of presentation is used throughout.

LETTER FROM BRITAIN—

Justice In England

By EDWARD HODGKIN

Ten years ago, just before the war, I went to prison. I went, let me add, as a visitor, or rather as a reporter which made me one of the lucky ones who find prison an easier place to get out of than into. The reason for my visits was that Sir Samuel Hoare, now Lord Templewood, Home Secretary in what was then Britain's Conservative Government, had brought in a Prison Reform Bill, and I went round the prisons trying to find out for my newspaper why they were supposed to need reforming. Then the war came, and the Prison Bill was pushed into a pigeon hole, from which it only emerged a year ago, this time with its title changed to the Criminal Justice Bill, and with a Labor Government to back it instead of the Conservatives.

This Bill has just passed through all its Parliamentary stages, with the support of members of all parties. It is good sign that in spite of all its other preoccupations Parliament can still find time to consider a subject like penal reform, which is not likely to gain any member fresh votes, and to devote its attention to an outcast section of the community like prisoners. Why did Parliament do it? Partly, I think, because in Britain we are conscious that a century or more ago we led the world in prison reform, under the inspiration of such great humanitarians as John Howard, Elizabeth Fry and Jeremy Bentham; and we would like, as far as possible, to keep this lead. Also, in the last 20 years the prison Commissioners, who are responsible for Britain's prisons, have been doing a lot of experiment in treating delinquents. And this has produced enough results for legislative action to be taken.

I remember going to visit Wakefield prison in Yorkshire, where the most remarkable of these experiments was being conducted.

Outdoor Prison
A few miles from the prison itself, which was one of the usual fortress-like buildings, was a camp in the woods. Here selected prisoners lived and worked, with nothing to prevent them running away except the knowledge that they were trusted not to, and that if they did abuse this trust it would react against the men they were working with. They did a hard and full day's work at the camp, felling trees and draining the ground, but it was a healthy life and they were conscious that the work was useful, not monotonous work for work's sake like mail-bag sewing.

This experiment was a success. Only one or two men have tried to escape from Wakefield camp, and prisoners who have been there hardly ever turn up in goal again. In fact this new sort of treatment seems to cure as much as it punishes, and the community is thereby the gainer. Of course such treatment is only possible with selected offenders, but the point of the new Bill is to make it possible for treatment to be graded so that not only does the serious offenders get his deserts, but the young man who perhaps more by misfortune than by malice has gone wrong, gets a chance to rehabilitate himself.

Having admitted that my visits to prisons have not been the result of any misunderstanding with the law, I should like to be able to claim an equally clean sheet with regard to the police courts. I must, however, admit that I once appeared in the wrong part of court, which cost me a £2 fine and a warning to drive more carefully next time. The proceedings took place in a building in a small country town which had been a court room for five hundred years. The chairman of the bench of magistrates was a Duke. His colleagues on the bench were all men and women of standing in the local community, and all acted as magistrates voluntarily. These local magistrates, Justices of the Peace as they are called, deal with 90 per cent of all the cases which come before the courts in England. The big crimes—murder, treason and so on—which get into the newspapers, are tried by High Court Judges and Jury, but the ordinary small breaches of the law, like poaching, riding a bicycle without a light, parking your car too long and so on—all these are the daily fare of voluntary magistrates.

The Woman Magistrate
The voluntary system is an excellent thing, and as far as the administration of law is concerned, it has worked well in these islands for many hundreds of years. A Royal Commission has just been inquiring into its present workings, and has decided that, although in certain ways there is room for improvement, in general the system does not need changing. It may seem strange to trust the administration of law to men and women who have no legal training (although in every court there is a solicitor as clerk to advise on purely legal matters), but in small communities justice is as much a matter of personality and common sense as of text-books, and the local people, subject always to appeal, of course, are probably better equipped than anybody else to see that fair play is done.

In the big towns, where administering the law is a full-time job, there is always at least one full-time, paid magistrate. In London there are several (among them a woman), and when one of them retired the other day he received an unusual testimonial to his sense of justice. A group of what we now call "barrow boys," who used to be better known as costermongers, got up a subscription and bought him a gold watch as a testimony to the fair-minded way he had always treated them when they "crime" is always the same—"obstruction," which means selling things from their barrows in the main streets, where they get in the way, instead of in the side streets. This magistrate had dealt humanely with their transgressions and they were duly grateful. Now, to show their

There isn't much to report on the Legion Front this week, except that the Pipe Band had a hot time in Bury and Scottstown last Sunday. The boys say that next time they have an engagement on a hot day, they're going to take along a "clothes wringer for the use of!" The Band members are wondering when they are going to get their kilts. Cheer up, boys! Probably they'll arrive when it's about 20 below zero; you know how it used to be in the army. I remember how we spent a winter in Holland practically freezing to death then all of a sudden a large shipment of Red Cross woolies arrived for the boys—in April!

Did ya notice I had company last public spirit, they have formed themselves into an association to encourage honest street trading, and costers who break its regulations will get worse treatment from their colleagues than they do from the magistrates.

MANSONVILLE

Mrs. Cleopias Poulin and Miss Madeleine Poulin are visiting relatives in Dorchester County for two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Baler, of Russell, Ont., and Mr. and Mrs. James Gibb, of London, Ont., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sullivan.

Mrs. Betty Johnson and Miss Barbara Brouillette spent two days in Montreal. Mrs. Ethel Bailey was the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. I. White, and Mr. White.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sullivan and Mr. and Mrs. James Gibb motored to Old Orchard, Me. A box party in aid of the Dunkin Church was held in the Town Hall. Proceeds will go to help in wiring the church for electric lights.

It seems there's another Killooy in Stanstead. Hi, pal! How do you like being a Winchell? This week we introduce the first of our promised series of Pen Portraits of Legion personalities, commencing with our president.

Pen Portrait—No. 1

Comrade Charles Alexander Kench, M. B. E., "Chuck," as he is commonly called, is this year's president of Branch No. 10 and also 3rd vice-president of the Quebec Command.

He was born in Victoria, B. C. in 1919, and was educated in the West graduating from Vancouver High in June, 1938. After leaving school, he was employed in the automotive trade in Vancouver. Being interested in Aviation he joined the Auxiliary Air Force, No. 111 CAC Squadron, and on the outbreak of war went into active service with the R. C. A. F. Chuck's speciality was Air-gunnery, and he attained the rank of WO. I, senior Armament Instructor. (Bombs and Guns). He was considered such a valuable instructor that he was never posted overseas, much to his disappointment. At the end of the war he was decorated with the M. B. E.

Chuck is happily married, his wife being formerly Miss Lillian Peabody, of our fair City, whom he met while he was stationed at Windsor Mills in 1942, and they have two lovely daughters, Susan and Dorothy. Charles is now in the insurance business, and lives in Sherbrooke, on Joffre Street.

Besides being president of our Legion Branch, he is vice-president of the newly formed Kiwanis Club, and is also adjutant of the local Air Cadets. Under Comrade Kench's presidency, Branch No. 10 is flourishing, and is rated one of the best branches in the province. Coming up! Branch Executive meeting, Memorial Home, 8 p. m. Monday, August 30th. Important business.

THE MINERAL MAP OF THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

In importance on the level with agriculture and forest industries, mining is for the Province of Quebec the one that shows for the near future the most possibilities; and the progress it makes has an important bearing on the provincial economy as a whole.

It has given new jobs for the workers, opened new outlets for the farms, forests and manufacturing plants; it has provided the railroads with new sources of revenue and built highways to new areas that would otherwise have remain unsettled.

It is with great pleasure that the Department of Mines of the Province of Quebec invites everyone to visit the Sixty-Third Annual Sherbrooke Exhibition and view a mineral map stressing the importance of mining in our economic life and showing how fortunate we are with our mineral resources.

The Doctor Says

SCURVY CAN EASILY BE AVOIDED BY SUFFICIENT AND PROPER DIET

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Scurvy is brought about by an insufficient supply of vitamin C, or ascorbic acid, in the diet. This vitamin is plentiful in citrus fruits, and is also present in green vegetables, fresh fruit juices, tomatoes, some root vegetables and in small amounts in milk. The disease can be avoided by including enough of these foods in the diet.

Scurvy begins slowly, as a rule. At first there is loss of weight, a feeling of weakness, vague pains in the legs and the skin becomes pale and sallow. Soon the gums begin to become swollen and spongy, and bleed easily when brushed or rubbed. The changes in the gums may become so bad that the teeth loosen and fall out. If vitamin C remains out of the diet for a long time, the bone of the jaw can actually decay.

Russians Are Harming Their Cause

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press News Analyst

Moscow's policy of handling all situations, no matter what their nature, by strong-arm methods is making decidedly bad propaganda for Communism abroad.

You would expect them to vary their tactics according to the occasions—but not they! Direct action is the order of the day, and it's applied in all cases without discrimination.

Within the Soviet Union every activity must conform to the Communist party line. For example, if science, medicine, the drama, literature and music are not developed in accordance with that line, there is a purge of the guilty. Apropos of this the Soviet Academy of Sciences yesterday promised to make its views on heredity and environment conform with those of the Red party and pursue a course dedicated to the "victory of Communism."

So the government tells the people not only how they must act but how they must think. There is no individual freedom.

In international affairs the same approach is employed. It is a policy which even in diplomacy calls for an attitude that is typical of the school-yard bully. Let's take a look at some instances:

One of the most striking examples, of course, in which Russia has hamstrung the activities of the United Nations in virtually all important matters is by use of the veto—that nasty-sounding "nyet."

Then we have the sensational Kasenkina case in New York—the employment of Russian secret-police tactics by the Soviet consulate in New York in an effort to compel two Soviet school-teachers to return home to something which so terrified them that they appealed to the mercy of the United States.

And currently we have a typical case of Bolshevik strong-arm methods in Berlin. Howling Communist mobs have been raiding the Berlin city hall and breaking up meetings of the duly elected, anti-Communist city council. The hall is in the Soviet zone and Russian-controlled police have watched complacently from the side lines. My colleague Wes Gallagher, A.P. chief of bureau in Berlin, interprets this exhibition in part as follows:

"In Moscow Prime Minister Stalin debates the future of this embattled city with the western powers. In Berlin, Soviet-trained Communists are attempting to grab control of the city by physical pressure.

"It is impossible in Berlin to recognize Soviet-sponsored actions here with any relief if the Kremlin expects or wants any satisfactory agreement to come out of the present discussions. The Communists in Berlin... are apparently trying to present Moscow with a fait accompli. They are trying to force the elected anti-Communist city government from office, seize control themselves and impose their will on the population.

"If they could succeed—which seems doubtful as long as western occupation forces stand firm—the question of who controls the city's currency, now being debated at Moscow, would be academic."

Strong-arm stuff! Scare heads out of 'em! Never any deviation!

The Communists have kept flinging that sort of stuff at the democracies until the latter are fed up with the Red Ism. There is nothing the Russians could have devised which would have done the cause of Communism more harm. They have done democracy a good turn by exposing Communism in its true light.

Reds Refuse Protection In Berlin

Soviet Commandant Evades Pleas That Demonstrators Be Curbed.

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, Aug. 28. — (P) — Berlin's Soviet commandant today evaded pleas by city council leaders that he protect their meetings from further invasions by Communist demonstrators. Then he passed the buck to the Russian-sector police.

In reply to a letter from the council speaker, asking such protection, the commandant, Maj.-Gen. Alexander Kotikov said he did not understand what was desired of him.

Kotikov was asked last night for assurances that city hall, in the Soviet sector, would be kept clear of rioters, who have invaded it the last two days, forcing cancellation of assembly meetings.

His reply to the letter from Socialist Otto Suhr, speaker of the mainly non-Communist assembly, consisted of a series of counter-questions and was front-paged today by the official Soviet press.

The commandant's reply requested a series of "clarifications" and asked why the city council did not apply to German police in city hall district for protection.

These same police have stood idly by as Communists twice broke into city hall, took over the council chambers and demanded the overthrow of the elected government, with the substitution of a hand-picked Communist-dominated regime.

Leaders of the council's non-Communist majority convened early today to consider Kotikov's reply.

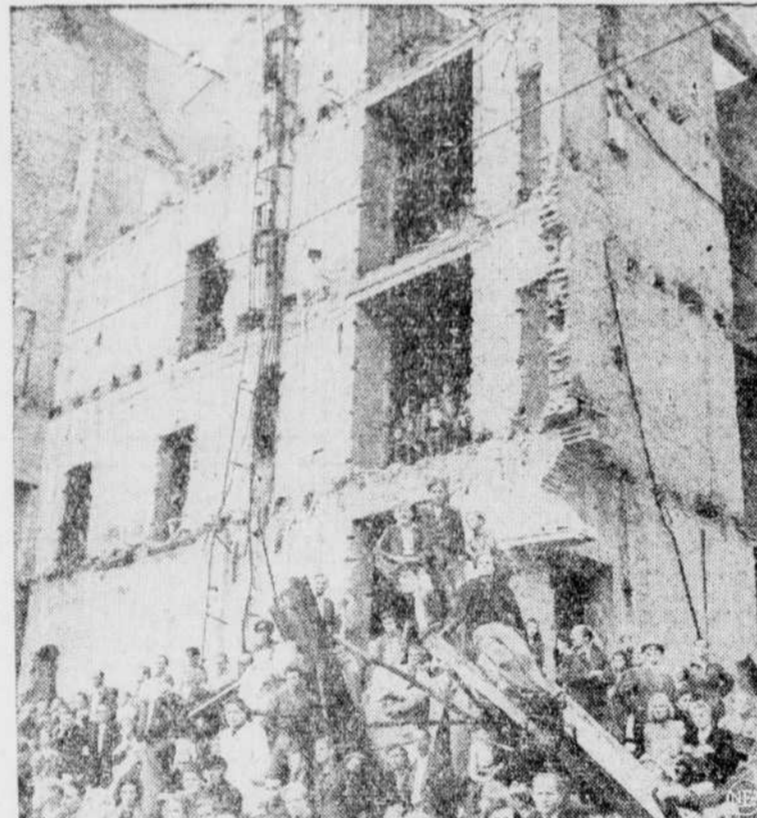

They have not announced their next step. It is believed, however, that if the Russians refuse to guarantee the council adequate protection the majority will decide to move into western occupied sectors.

A move out of the Russian zone undoubtedly would result in the Communists trying to force a coup on the administration left in the Soviet sector.

Reds Put On A Show For Germans In Russian Sector Of Troubled Berlin

GENERAL ADMISSION: Crowd of 20,000 jams the Gandarmenmarkt, in the Russian sector of Berlin, to watch a Soviet show. Only trouble came when Russians gave British and American photographers two minutes to get out of the sector.

BALCONY: Ruins of bomb-blasted buildings make a natural balcony, as the Germans watch the Cossack choir singers and Soviet dancers perform. Russian practice of crossing into U. S. zone and kidnaping German policemen has made Berlin a city of ever-increasing tension.

SOUTH BOLTON

Grasshoppers have been unusually thick for the past few days, eating holes in the leaves of many garden vegetables as well as in the farm crops.

Miss Sylvia Davis has been visiting Miss Marilyn George, at Mansenville, for a few days.

Miss Sylvia Davis and Mr. G. Rodrigue and some other were visitors in Cherry River.

Mrs. M. D. Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. George Davis and son were guests in Magog. Marilyn Cameron visited Mrs. Ferguson the same afternoon.

Misses Betty Roberts and Pauline Statton held the closing of their two weeks' Bible Summer School, in the school house here, put on under the auspices of the Canadian Sunday School Mission (undenominational), which was started in 1927 in Manitoba.

Miss Roberts presided at the organ for a varied program of hymns and choruses and Miss Statton, acting chairman, for the evening, assisted in different ways. Prizes and diplomas were also given out at this time and every one was pleased to see what the children had accomplished in two weeks, under their capable leaders.

A vote of thanks was also given to those who had co-operated with the leaders here. Those helping to entertain the teachers for meals, included Mrs. A. A. Cameron, Mrs. W. Durrell, Mrs. Etta Plum, Mrs. C. A. Randall and Mrs. G. Fuller.

Misses Shirley Ricker and Marie Thompson workers from Dunkin, visited Misses Roberts and Statton one afternoon and were tea guests at "Highland Farm."

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Murray, of New York, Miss M. A. Cameron and Mr. A. A. Cameron, of Sherbrooke, were dinner guests at "Highland Farm" and called on other relatives.

Mr. J. M. Cameron returned to Sherbrooke with them for a few days' visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Colombe and baby, of Waterloo, were guests of Mr. John Aiken's, and family.

Miss Hamelin, of Mansenville, is spending a week at the same home.

Miss Lily Aiken and Colin Aikens were visitors in Waterloo.

Miss Marion Bowen, of Sherbrooke, and Mr. O. Bowen, of Magog, were calling on relatives here.

Mrs. R. C. Davis and Douglas are guests of her parents, in Currier, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Willey and Mrs. L. A. Davis were in Magog one day with Mr. W. Durrell.

Mr. and Mrs. George Davis and son were in Mansenville one evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Tracey visited Mr. and Mrs. A. I. White and family.

Mrs. J. M. Cameron and Mrs. A. P. Bloomfield were in Knowlton for a day.

Mrs. Walter Durrell has received the sad news of her uncle's death, in Mountain View, Calif. Mr. Arthur Taylor who was born in this vicinity leaves to mourn his passing, his sister, Susan, and two brothers, Daniel and Ernest, besides his wife and two sons and their families, in California. Sincere sympathy is extended to those who mourn from old friends here.

Miss Ruth Macdonald was a guest at "Korner View."

Mr. Sliker and family have been spending a few days here in their cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Crawford, of Sherbrooke, were week-end of Mr. and Mrs. G. Fuller.

Miss June Fuller spent a week in Magog with her sister, Mrs. Harold Patterson, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Magoon and children spent a day in Magog with Mr. and Mrs. Dingman. Mr. and Mrs. Magoon and children also attended a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. John Wells, held in Waterloo, at the home of his parents, Inspector and Mrs. Wells. Mr. John Wells and his wife are going to Newfoundland, to carry on Mission work there. They were given a purse of money from their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Durrell, Miss Joyce Fuller, Mrs. G. Fuller and Mrs. N. Wedge were guests in Waterloo.

A truck load of bobbin wood going to Vermont tipped over on the roadside in front of Mr. Lindsay Davis and one or two children were buried under the load, but no one was hurt seriously, as far as is known. Early Sunday morning a car left the road at the corner by Mr. A. Cameron's Store and ran down into Mr. Whigham's field, breaking Mr. Burnham's radio pole on its way; but again no serious damage was done.

RMC Drops "Gentlemen" From Title

Kingston, Ont., Aug. 28. — (P) — The Royal Military College isn't going to call them "Gentlemen Cadets" any more. From now on, starting with the first post-war class in a month's time, they're simply "cadets."

Removal of the adjective from the title for its students is one step in a changeover that will make the 72-year-old college the training ground for future officers of all three services. It formerly was entirely army although many of its graduates did go into the other two services.

The roughly 100 cadets who report Sept. 19 have been chosen on a basis of qualifying examinations and senior matriculation results. About four applied for every one who could be accommodated. They will earn their own fees by serving with units in the field or at sea at active forces rates of pay in the summer.

The old Point Frederick buildings, some of which have a history dating back to the war of 1812, will still be used, but the essentially modern college receiving the "class of '52" will be vastly different from that to which the "original 18" reported in 1876. Of these 18, the only survivor is the former R. C. M. P. Commissioner, A.B. Perry of Ottawa, whose name is associated with early accounts of opening up the west.

On entering, the cadets will be measured for tailored uniforms somewhat similar to the D. M. C. pre-war type except that the "pill box" hat will be replaced by the wedge cap. Belt and buttons will be changed to incorporated the new tri-service aspect. Flannels and blazers will be issued for recreational dress, sports kit for athletics and fatigue clothes for rough work.

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 28. — (P) — The Russian embassy staff, held in Chile since Chile broke relations with the Soviet Union last October, will leave by plane today for Argentina. The staff was given permission to leave after Russia allowed the Chilean embassy staff to leave Moscow.

would be willing to accept as premier.

Only the Communists and the rightists have failed to get a chance at the ten post-war premierships. There is scant possibility that they will be given a shot at the eleventh.

If de Gaulle isn't given his chance, few observers see a solution other than another weak cabinet that would last no longer than Marie's.

Underlying the crisis is France's shaky financial position. In asking for degree economic powers, Reynaud told the assembly that all practical effect France was broke.

already agreed on the principle, would halt the rate of demobilization.

The present rate of discharge if it is understood, will continue only if there is easing of tension after the Moscow talks and if the Malayan and other Far Eastern crises do not get worse.

It had been intended all who were in the forces in 1946 other than those on regular engagements, should be released on an age and length of service basis by the end of the year.

For the last quarter of 1948, release estimates were—Royal Navy 5,030, Army 63,730, and R.A.F. 26,000 with approximately an additional 5,000 from the women's services.

Total demobilization for these three months would therefore amount to 100,000.

From Jan. 1, when the new act comes into force, the services will comprise the regular navy, army and air force, the new 18-year-old conscripts under training, and recruits obtained under a volunteer scheme.

Bedard, Quain Split Match

Montreal, Aug. 28. — (P) — Robert Bedard, 17-year-old tennis wonder from Sherbrooke, yesterday split a fiery match with top-seeded Hamilton Quain of Ottawa in the semifinals of the men's singles in the Quebec junior tournament here.

Meanwhile, Ottawa's brilliant young Patricia Lowe won the women's tilt with an easy 6-2, 6-1 victory over Miriam Rainboth, also of Ottawa.

Quain took Bedard for a 6-2, 6-3 ride in the first two sets, but the Eastern Townships junior champion came bounding back 8-6, 7-5 in the final frames. It was a ding-dong battle all the way, fought in heat that would have wilted most older court stars.

The two will meet again today to determine who plays Raymond Page of Montreal for the title. Page yesterday downed A. Chagny of Quebec 6-1, 9-7, 6-2, in the other semi-final match.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By KEN JOHNSON

Toronto, Aug. 28. — (P) — Ever heard of a soft-hearted umpire? Usually the victims of more recrimination and the object of more (mental) mayhem than should rightfully be the lot of mankind, umpires are thought of as little Hitlers, frustrated from the cradle.

Jack (London Free Press) Park, however, comes up with the man who should rate attention as a gentle ump.

Snapper Binns-Park calls him the Inter-County Baseball Association's top caller of balls and strikes—kicked two players out of one ball game recently.

In that, he was following the trail set by many another blue-suited brother. However, the situation was unique in Binns' case because it was the first time he has sent anyone to the showers in 12 years.

Park writes: "We don't know the reason, but baseball is becoming more violent with each passing year. There was a time when the diamond game was the most relaxing of sport pastimes. Now you rarely see a day pass without some mention of a large-sized rhabarb."

Cooling Off. Bill (Niagara Falls Review) Gayton turns to hockey this hot weather to help cool things off.

Says Gayton: "Mike McMahon's retirement from professional hockey isn't going to create a similar yello to that occurring when such greats as King Clancy, Eddie Shore and Basher Jackson stopped. The defence fat man wasn't that kind of a player but during his brief stay with Canadians he always got quite a thrill watching the big fellow go."

agreement. At that time British authorities promised not to depart from normal trade arrangements with the United States.

For years the United Kingdom has been the main market for United States export tobacco. China has been second best customer but taking only about 25 per cent of the British import.

For the year ended last June, British tobacco imports from the United States amounted to $25,000,000 pounds, the tobacco industry claims. In the current similar period the estimate is a decrease of about 60 per cent, because of the dollar shortage and high excise tax.

That, the industry says, spells ruin to the industry, particularly in the Carolinas and Georgia.

The lobby also charges that the State Department, in its policy of encouraging inter-European trade, is encouraging the Netherlands to buy its tobacco from Turkey and Greece. The Netherlands was a big United States customer. It also is recipient of E.C.A. aid.

The tobacco lobby points with pain to the increase in the British tax levy on American tobacco which was $2.32 a pound in 1939 and now has gone to $11.72.

Two classes of people are suffering, one spokesman said. The British smoker and the United States tobacco industry.

LARIVIERE-TOPP

The marriage of Miss Frances Topp, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Topp, of Granby, to Mr. Edward Lariviere, of Montreal, took place on Saturday, August 14, at three o'clock in St. George's Church, the Ven. Archdeacon I. M. Lidstone officiated and Miss Doris Lewis played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of ivory satin with light fitted bodice, which ended in a soft drape over the hips and formed a bustle in the back.

The flower girls, Joan and Sandra West, wore floor-length dresses of white figured organza.

Mr. Forbes Skinner, of Montreal, was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. David McKenna and John Shutt, of Granby, and William Giddings and Ronald Dandridge, of Montreal.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, on Young Street. Baskets of white gladioli and other summer flowers adorned the rooms.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake supported by a tiny vase of sweet peas. Cut glass bowls of summer flowers and tall white tapers in silver candlesticks completed the table arrangement.

The couple left by motor for a trip to the Laurentians, the bride travelling in a dark red gabardine suit with black accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Upon their return they will reside in Granby.

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 29, 1948.

The Golden Text is from Luke 19:10, "The Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And when Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto Him a centurion, beseeching Him, and saying, Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, grievously tormented. And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so be it unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour."—(Matthew 8: 5, 6, 13.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christ is the ideal Truth, that comes to heal sickness and sin through Christian Science, and attributes all power to God. Jesus is the name of the man who, more than all other men, has presented Christ, the true idea of God, healing the sick and the sinning and destroying the power of death. Jesus established what he said by demonstration, thus making his acts of higher importance than his words. He proved what he taught."—(page 473.)

A special meeting of St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid recently took place at the home of the president, Mrs. Claude Turner, Victoria Street. The president, in the chair, opened the meeting, the principal point to be discussed being the arrangements for a concert to be held in the church hall, on Thursday, September 29. Prior to closing the meeting, Mrs. Turner referred to the regret felt by all the members at the departure of Mrs. Kathleen Cooper, of Lennoxville, V., where she will make her future home, and on behalf of the Ladies' Aid, presented Mrs. Cooper with an appropriate gift. Mrs. Cooper, who has been a member of the Aid for the past five years, expressed her sorrow at severing connections with her friends of the church and her appreciation of their sentiments towards her, and of their gift. Mrs. Lewis Dunsmore presided at the tea table which was centered with a large bowl of marigolds. Mrs. Turner served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. J. MacDonald and Mrs. J. Eiger.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Warko, Gibson, Alberta, and Brenda, were afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. MacMillan.

Broken Family

Mother Of Three, Separated From Husband, Must Become Family Breadwinner

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a young girl who is getting a divorce from her husband and I have three children, the oldest 7 years old, the youngest 4. My problem is that I live with my mother who is 45 years old. She has a pretty big house and she is alone except for the children and me. She asked me to come and live with her when I left my husband, as she thought it would be better for all of us and less expensive. But the children have gotten on her nerves and she does nothing but pick on them and abuse them and quarrel with them. The other day when they spilled some food on the floor we had an awful fight. She called me names and ordered us out of the house. I have nowhere to go and am at my mother's end. My husband only contributes $15 a month to the children's support. I cry all the time and am so nervous I am almost crazy. What shall I do? DESPERATE MOTHER.

Answer: It seems to me that the only thing that you can do is to go to the Domestic Relations Court and try to get it to help you solve your problem. It might be that it could bring enough pressure on your husband to give more money for your children's support. It certainly is $15 a month more than the prospect of getting another husband is dim, for not many men want to take on a really-made family of three hungry youngsters. Or it would be better still if the children could be gotten into some foster home where they would be properly cared for.

CHOOSE JOB

I gather from your letter that you are not at work and so are not able to contribute to the children's support. My advice to you is to face the fact that your mother is definitely not going to let you and the children be parasites upon her, so it is up to you to decide what kind of work you have the most aptitude for and fit yourself to do it well enough to command good pay.

There is no use in your sitting down crying over your not being able to get along either with your husband or your mother. Both of them are out of the picture as far as you are concerned, and the prospect of getting another husband is dim, for not many men want to take on a really-made family of three hungry children.

Just realize that you are on your own and summon all of your courage to meet the emergency.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a girl of 15 and have a boy friend and I want to get married before I am 16, but my mother and father don't want me to do so. I am in the 10th grade and want to quit school.

Answer: What's your hurry about getting married? Sixteen isn't the deadline for matrimony. There still will be plenty of boys left, and my advice to you is to wait and look 'em over and see which one you prefer, instead of grabbing up the first kid who comes your way. Also, you might make a better choice if you had a little more education. Don't forget that marrying in haste involves repenting at leisure.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

Excellent Racing Card To Be Run Off Fair Week

THE BOUNDARY ROTARY CLUB HOST TO C.A.T.

Derby Line, Aug. 28—For the past eight weeks the Canadian Art Theatre has been entertaining the Boundary residents with its productions of fine plays. On Monday evening the situation was reversed, when the Rotary Club of the Boundary entertained a number of members of the company at their regular meeting in the Del Monty Hotel.

Only six members of the group were able to be present at the meeting, as the others were delayed in getting back to the Boundary by motor trouble. To these six however, the thanks and appreciation of the members of the club were expressed for their work here this summer. Those present at the meeting were Bruce Raymond, business manager of the company; Miss Mary Sheppard, Miss Mary Forde, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kronold, and Gerry O'Brien.

In the absence of Joy Thomson, director of the C.A.T., Bruce Raymond acted as spokesman, and told of the idea and plan behind the company. "The Canadian Art Theatre," he said, "is intended to be a training ground for young people desiring to make a career out of the stage. It operates schools in various branches of theatre activity, puts on children's plays regularly in Montreal, and also does plays for adults. There is a definite need for more development in the theatre in Canada, and the C.A.T. is endeavoring to fill that need. Not only does it offer excellent training in all branches of the theatre, but through its productions give practical experience as well.

"When we planned a summer theatre group we had no idea of coming to the Eastern Townships. Actually it was accidental that we learned of the Haskell Opera

WHERE'S ELMER?

The answer is: Elmer's one of the "Lucky" Lott Hell Drivers who are scheduled to appear at the Sherbrooke Fair for performances today and tomorrow. The Elmer is Elmer Linden of Stockton, California, the rollover king of the celluloids. Linden has perhaps more automobile rollovers in motion pictures than any other daredevil in the business.

House here, but once we saw it we knew that here was the proper and almost inevitable location for a summer theatre. In no other community anywhere near this size could we have found a theatre so perfectly suited to our needs.

"When we first arrived we were strangers in a strange land, but you folks at the Boundary have been so co-operative and friendly that we already feel as though we belong here. The audience response here and in the other communities has been actually larger than we expected; and we feel that next summer, with more careful advance planning, that we can do a better job, and accordingly win larger audiences for our plays.

"I should like to thank the members of the Rotary Club of the Boundary for having us here tonight as their guests, and regret that the balance of the group were unable to be present. Your help and friendliness and your patronage of our plays has been most encouraging to us, and through your gentlemen may I express for the C.A.T. our very real gratitude to all the people who have been so kind to us."

The president of the club, Earl Heath, presided, and said that the reason why the club was glad to have the members of the Canadian Art Theatre for their guests was as a means of expressing gratitude for the fine stage productions that had been put on locally this summer. "Many people do not realize," said Mr. Heath, "the amount of work that goes into these plays. Besides playing one production this week, the group is busy rehearsing for the play the following week, and at the same time planning and learning the play for the week ahead of that. The scenery is not stock material sent out from Montreal, but is designed, created and built right here by the members of the company.

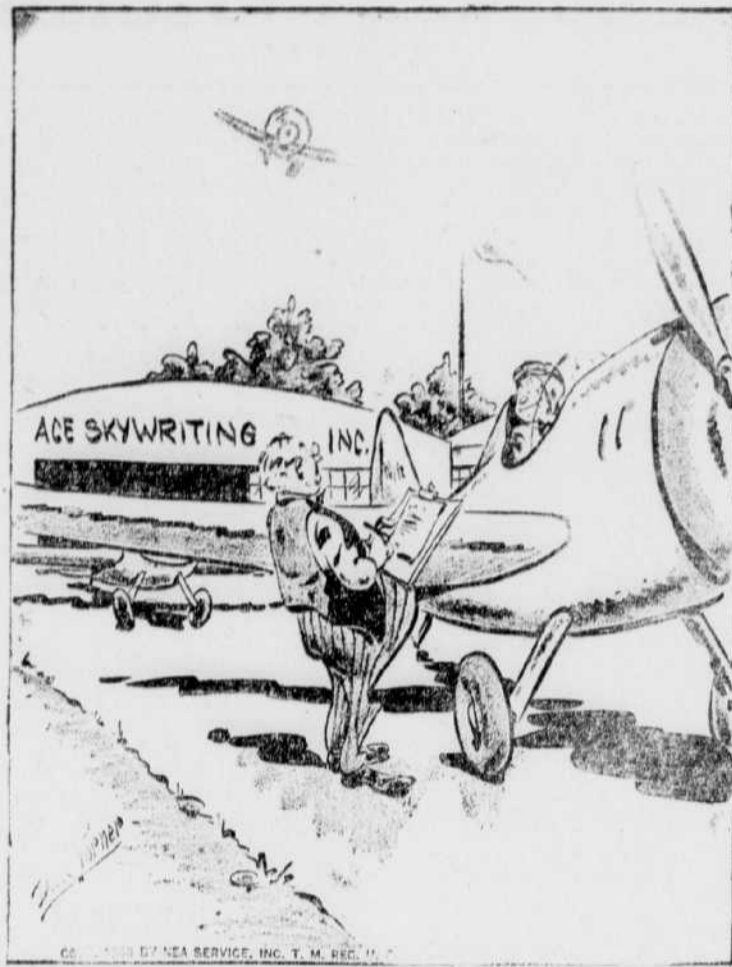

"I have some idea of the amount of hard work that these people have done this summer, and I believe that they have built up a reputation for themselves that will be reflected next summer in larger audiences. I hope that also they have enjoyed themselves here, and assure them that we will be looking forward to their re-appearance next year."

Visiting Rotarians at this meeting included Ernest Martin and Karl Page, Jr., of the Newport club. Albert Young urged the members to work harder on the tickets for the Boundary Fair, assuring them that many more must be sold in advance.

On August 9, the speaker was Bill Lewis, of Moosejaw, Sask., who gave a fine talk on "Saskatchewan," and on August 16, the club was royally entertained by Fitch Cheney, of the Willimantic, Conn. Rotary Club who did a series of baffling and amazing magical tricks. Visiting Rotarians on August 16, included Fitch Cheney, and Nelson O'Rourke, of Daytona Beach, Fla.; Percy Proctor, of Babylon, N.Y.; Clarence Jordan, Ernest Martin and Ly-

BOB PARRY IS TOPS IN ACROBATICS

Presenting an act new to the outdoor repertoire, Bob Parry is definitely establishing himself as an outstanding attraction in the parade of top-notch talent of the saw-dust ring and outdoor entertainment.

Parry's mixture of amazing acrobatics on the springboard and the trampoline with hilarious comedy is superb. He mixes fast knock-about action with slow-motion effects afforded by the extreme height he gets from his unding trampoline. But, the most distinguishing mark which brings this act to the high level of entertainment it has attained is Parry personality itself.

The impersonation he gives of an inebriate taking dives into a swimming pool are deftly introduced, proving him to be a good character actor as well as a performer of merit. He is master of pantomime, slap-stick comedy, and skilful acrobatics all in one, and with something just a little different to offer.

Making his first appearance at Sherbrooke Fair, the management takes pride in presenting this attraction to its patrons, who will no doubt enjoy seeing this clever artist.

man Hall, of Newport, Vt.; and Dick Allmond, of Tulala, La. Special guests at this meeting were Howard Seekerson, of the University of Connecticut, a guest of Fitch Cheney; Nelson O'Rourke, Jr., and Donald Heath.

The meeting next Monday, August 30, will feature Rev. Clifford Stetson speaking about "The International Community School," and will be held at the Del Monty Hotel, at 6-15 p.m.

DRUMMONDVILLE

The property owners of Drummondville gave the city council an unanimous vote of confidence last week-end, when they approved by a vast majority the public works program submitted to them by a referendum. This works project and the sum of $435,000 to be spent on public and building improvements is by far the largest in the history of this industrial city. 346 ratepayers and owners of taxable properties estimated at $2,826,000 voted in favor of the by-law, three property owners valued at $25,000 voted against. The last by-law on which ratepayers voted was taken in August 1947, which was approved by 268 votes against 13. This by-law included the works program in the enlargement of the water filtration unit. The mayor and the city council are proud of the present vote and the unanimous confidence of the general public in this vast improvement building project.

All employees paid by an hourly rate at the plant of The Canadian Celanese Ltd., were given an additional raise of four cents to help offset the ever increasing high cost of living. At the signing of the labour-management agreement in January this year a ten per cent raise to all employees was granted. The Canadian Celanese Ltd., like other large manufacturing plants has to meet with stiff competition and the only way to do so is to keep its skilled workers on the job and keep up production, at the present there are now 4,300 workers on the pay-roll in Drummondville, and 500 more employed at their new plant recently completed at Sorel. The histery department has been discontinued but the workers there were simply transferred and retained for work in various other departments.

THIBAUT & BOUCHARD

BIG FORKS STREET, SHERBROOKE.

It is with great pleasure that I extend a welcome to everyone in the Eastern Townships, and beyond it, to visit the Sixty-Third Annual Sherbrooke Exhibition. The Provincial Government is, of course, extremely interested in these exhibitions which mirror the industrial and agricultural development of our Province.

This year the Department of Lands and Forests have an exhibit at the fair stressing the importance of forests in the national life of Canada, and showing how fortunate is the Province of Quebec in her forest resources—the exhibit stresses, too, the need for proper care of this rich natural gift. I believe it would be both instructive and interesting for each of you to visit this exhibit.

Finally I wish to congratulate the directors of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association and all those who worked with them to make this exhibition the best ever. Good luck, and see you at the fair

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

"This sitting with children is going to make an old maid out of me—I'm awfully discouraged about motherhood!"

"ARSENIC AND OLD LACE" WELL PLAYED

Derby Line, Aug. 28.—For their concluding play, the Canadian Art Theatre players selected a sure-fire hit, "Arsenic and Old Lace," and proceeded to give it one of their regular first-class performances. Opening at the Haskell Opera House Saturday evening, the play was repeated there Monday evening, and at North Hatley, Wednesday and will be at Magog, Friday evening.

In the roles of Abby and Martha Brewster, the two kindly old ladies, who like to relieve lonesome old men of their lives, Amelia Hall and Mary Dore scored personal triumph, in doing a truly convincing job of making the characters believable. As Jonathan Bruce Raymond looked and behaved as Boris Karloff, and was properly horrible. Silvio Narizano turned in another of his fine performances as Dr. Einstein; his work was really very fine. Arthur Voronka was Teddy Brewster, who imagined himself Teddy Roosevelt, and carried out a difficult part perfectly. As the two lovers, Mary Sheppard and Richard Kvorold were effective, and the other parts were equally well played by the other members of the company. Paul Horton played two parts, Rev. Harper and Lieutenant O'Brien; Eddy Asselin and Gerry O'Brien were the two cops; and the director of the company, Miss Joy Thomson, played Mr. Witherspoon very well indeed.

Louis Monty was scheduled for the part of Mr. Gibbs, but was unable to do it Saturday night; on Saturday the part was played, and played well, by James Poapet, Louis Monty played Monday evening.

The story of "Arsenic and Old Lace" is familiar to most people, as it had a very long run on the stage with Boris Karloff and Erich Von Stroheim who played the part of brother Jonathan in different companies, and with the late Effie Shannon and Josephine Hull, the two sisters. It was made into a movie with Cary Grant and a fine cast, and was equally popular on the screen. The Canadian Art Theatre did a fine job with their production of the play, extracting the utmost in laughs and horror from the lines, as written by Joseph Kesselring.

Usually Saturday night is the best night at the Haskell Opera House, but for this play the largest audience attended Monday evening. Besides the local people, theatre lovers from the surrounding communities were present, and all were pleased at the fine production.

The late George M. Cogan used to say, "Always leave them laughing when you say 'Goodbye,'" and accordingly "Arsenic and Old Lace" made a fine closing play for the C.A.T.

In a certain speech, made in response to loud applause, the director of the company, Miss Joy Thomson, said that they had all been very pleased with the response the company had had at the Boundary, and were planning to return next summer with ten plays instead of eight. Certainly this fine group of young people have added a great deal to the pleasures of the summer here, and it is larger that they will have much larger audiences awaiting them in 1949.

Alvin Dark Gives Teammates Credit For His Rapid Rise As Brave, But No One Taught Him To Hit The Ball

New York, Aug. 28—Alvin Dark gives teammates full credit for his rapid rise to a star's dressing room with the Boston Braves.

First to show him anything about fielding was Dick Culler, now with the Cubs. At Fort Lauderdale in the spring of 1947, the two worked together.

Dark was sent to the Milwaukee Braves where he worked around the keyhole with Danny Murtaugh, who this year is up with the Pirates. "Murtaugh showed me how to handle double-play balls and little things that you just can't explain," draws Dark.

Dark came into his own in the 1947 season, batting .303, and sewing up the Little World Series spot for the Braves with an eight-inning home run against Kansas City.

One of the reasons the Braves bought Eddie Stanky was to help bring Dark along.

"Stanky taught me how to field a ground ball, how to go down for it," says Alvin. "I didn't charge the ball enough in those days, nor stand in the right spots, and seemed to be out of position too often."

"But no one taught me how to hit. That is something you have to learn for yourself."

"Some fellows have a set stance, but I try to be natural. You feel differently some days and change your stance. I know I do." The Braves remain in the thick of the pennant fight and largely because of this 25-year-old Lake Charles, La., shortstop.

Al Dark should be around for a long time.

Eddie Stanky, broke on ankle and is still out of the lineup, isn't due back till mid-September. Centerfielder Jim Russell has come up with an unknown ailment that may spell curtains for the remainder of the season.

Both are badly missed by the Beantowners. Billy Southworth goes along with those who say that the Braves haven't one of the best teams in the league.

"We miss Stanky and Russell, and it's fortunate for us that Alvin Dark really arrived just about the time we lost Stanky," says the Braves boss.

The drawing Southerner has come into his own as one of the finest shortstops in the game.

He is in the National League's Big Five with a batting average hovering around .330.

"Not much of a career—kind of short," is the way the youngster puts it. Beyond the typical sandlot experiences, Alvin never really played ball until 1943, his sophomore year at Louisiana State, where he also stuck out in football and track.

Lake Charles High didn't have a baseball team.

It didn't take long before his 400 batting average at L.S.U. attracted big league scouts. The Braves paid $85,000 for his signature when he returned from the South Pacific, where he served with the Marine Corps.

It was the end of the 1946 season, and as Dark says, "I got into about 14 games, mostly as a runner and played late innings in a game or two."

One of the few spring training camp wonders who has lived up to expectations, Dark still has old-timers screaming superlatives his way.

Billy Southworth says: "If a ballplayer can field a bit, hit a bit, run and has a good head, he can go a long way."

"Dark not only can do these things, but he has plenty of natural ability."

Black Gold On A Rampage As Oil Well Goes Out Of Control

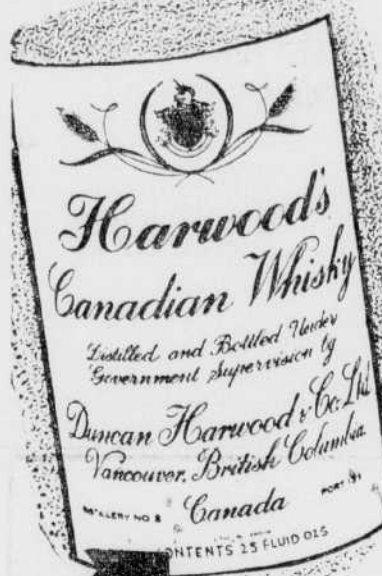

This is what happens when an oil well goes wild and runs wild. In the new Leduc oil field, 18 miles south of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, Atlantic No. 3, left, has been on a rampage for five months. It's flooded 10 acres of wheat fields, as 14,000 barrels of oil a day run like a river from the well. Below, left, Ted Baugh, of the province's Department of Mines, kneels beside the rushing oil. In an effort to stop the flow, 60 tons of feathers, cement, wood pulp, wheat and cotton have been used, in vain. More feathers, below right, are tossed in the continuing struggle to bring the wild well under control.

They say it's

- Pleasingly Mellow.
• Delicately Aged.
• An Unique Delight.

Two Americans To Compete For Canadian Ladies Open Golf Title

Riverside Golf Club, N.B., Aug. 28.—Canada's hopes of bringing the Canadian Ladies' Open Golf Championship back home disappeared yesterday when two American golfers, including a defending champion, made a double-barrel victory of the 18-hole semifinals.

Miss Grace Lenzyk of Newington, Conn., who defeated Miss Ada Mackenzie of Toronto 5 and 4 in the final at Toronto last year, won from the Canadian veteran again yesterday in even more convincing fashion, 7 and 6.

Mrs. Eddie Bush of Wilmington, Del., was called to the 19th green before she could dispose of Mrs. Graeme Pyke of Hudson Heights, Que.

The All-American final today will be a 36-hole affair; the semifinals and earlier rounds were over the 18-hole distance.

Last year at Toronto Miss Lenzyk won 12 and 11 in the final against Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen of Toronto, and it was Mrs. Mulqueen who eliminated Mrs. Bush in the 1947 quarter-final.

The 21-year-old Connecticut girl gave a brilliant display under a sizzling sun in turning back Miss Mackenzie, who has held the title five times.

Miss Lenzyk went two up at the start, halved the next two and then took four in a row from her more experienced opponent. They halved the ninth, leaving Miss Lenzyk six up at the turn.

She had birdies on the second, fifth and eighth, and her approximate medal score for the first nine was 36, three under par.

Miss Mackenzie failed to win a hole before succumbing to the long drive and sparkling putting of her opponent.

Miss Lenzyk won the 10th and halved the 11th and 12th to end the match. She was over par only at one hole, the 10th, where she took a four against Miss Mackenzie's two-over five.

The champion rules a strong favorite over Mrs. Bush in the final. The Wilmington golfer was given a dogged battle by Mrs. Pyke, who has played steady golf throughout the tournament.

At the fifth hole Mrs. Pyke went one up with a par three, but Mrs. Bush put the match all square again at the long seventh with a par five. She moved to the front again on the home nine, only to have Mrs. Pyke square the match at the 18th.

At the extra hole Mrs. Pyke

Hot Weather Fails To Stop Montreal Cyclist

Quebec, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The answer to this hot weather is cycling, says Romeo Morin.

"Hot weather doesn't bother me," declared the 40-year-old Montrealer who gets two or three months' leave every summer from his railway job and takes up his hobby of "Canadian Cycle-tourist Champion."

Next Wednesday Morin, five feet three and 110 pounds, will roll his 18-year-old bike up the Palestine National in Montreal ending a 3,000-mile circuit of the Maritime Provinces. His time will be 36 days.

Last year it was a trip from Halifax to Vancouver, 6,000 miles in three months.

In the last seven summers, Morin who carries an envelope-full of pictures of Canada's beauty spots, has made 18 tours totalling 26,000 miles. In 20 years he's pedalled 106,000 miles.

Aussies Drop Doubles Match To Americans

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The United States Davis Cup four-man team, with half of it ousted by Colin Long and Geoff Brown, the Australian International tandem, reached the final round of the United States Men's Doubles Tennis Tournament today.

Long and Brown, who are expected to play Challenge Round doubles at Forest Hill, N. Y., next week, bowed to Ted Schroeder and Frank Parker 15-13, 6-2, 6-3.

Gardner Mulloy and Bill Talbert beat Tom Brown and Irvin Dorfman in an All-American match, 9-6, 9-7, 6-4, 13-11.

New Records Predicted For Gold Cup Event

By DAVID J. WILKIE

Detroit, Aug. 28.—(AP)—New speed records were predicted tonight as nearly a score of the world's most powerful speedboats awaited the starting gun tomorrow of the historic Gold Cup race.

The number of craft that will start in the famed powerboat classic probably will not be determined until just before the first 30 mile heat scheduled for 1:55 p. m., EDT, Saturday. The predictions of new records, however, were based on the fact nearly a dozen of the contestants can do better than 100 miles an hour on the straightaways.

Around the three-mile course in the Detroit River the winner probably has to top 80 miles an hour.

The fastest three-mile lap in Gold Cup competition was run by Miss Golden Gate in 1946, when Dan Arena hit 77.531 miles an hour.

Miss Golden Gate, now named Miss Great Lakes, and entered from Detroit, and Tempo VII, So, too, has Miss Canada III, of Ingersoll, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Kitching and family, of Quebec, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cummings and Norman.

Mr. Thomas Seale spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham, at Glen Murray.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Seale were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Scott, at LeClerc Village.

Bobby Locke To Miss Canadian Golf Open This Year; Large Entry Is Expected To Compete For Gold Cup

Bobby Locke won't be around after all to defend the Seagram Gold Cup he carried off to South Africa last year, but the probable entry list still looks mighty attractive for the Canadian Open Golf Championship in Vancouver starting September 22.

Locke had been regarded as a certain starter, and the forced withdrawal of the man who set a record for Canadian Open play at Toronto a year ago came as a distinct blow to officials of Shaughnessy Heights Golf Club in Vancouver and the Royal Canadian Golf Association; but against that is the fact that there is every indication that this year's tournament will attract a record number of outstanding U.S. players as well as a full crop of top Canadian pros.

Locke's visa expires before the tournament and he will be headed homeward when the event gets underway.

Officials are hopeful that U.S. Open Champion Ben Hogan, and crowd-pleasing Sam Snead will be on hand, but no definite word has been received from either as yet.

Lawson Little will be there to conduct this famous golfing school before the tourney, and likely starters from the U.S. circuit include such golfing greats as Lew Worsham, 1947 U.S. champion; Elsworth Vines, the converted tennis star; Lloyd Mangrum, 1946 U.S. champion; and Frank Stranahan, the smooth-stroking amateur who has knocked off many a leading professional on both sides of the Atlantic in recent years.

Other crowd favorites of Seagram Gold Cup competitors in the past include Dutch Harrison, Clay Fargol, Skip Alexander, Ed Haffgol, Cary Middlecott, Johnny Palmer, Dick Metz, Herman Keiser, Jimmy Demaret, Tony Penna, Vic Ghezzi, Jim Ferrier and Herman Barron. Most of them have come close to top Canadian honor in the past, and any one of them might turn the trick this year—if a Canadian doesn't slip in ahead of them.

Although officials have hopes Snead will be on hand, it's a cinch they won't announce his entry until they are positive he will show up. That's because events have conspired against "Slammin' Sammy" as far as the Canadian Open is concerned in the past couple of years.

In 1946 he was all set to come, but changed his mind at the last moment and flew to England to win the British Open instead. Last year he was definite entry until he fell heir to a twisted back a couple of days before the tournament.

If Snead does turn up, at least one of the Open's records will be in danger. He'll be speaking a distinction none of his opponents can hope to match—possession of the Seagram Gold Cup for the fourth time. Since the Gold Cup became a symbol of Canadian Open supremacy nobody has won it more than once except Snead, and he has held it three times with victories in 1938, 1940, and 1941.

That still leaves Siegel, one victory behind Leo Diehl, who took top Canadian Open honor in 1924, 1925, 1928 and 1929—all before the Seagram Gold Cup became the emblem of Canadian golfing mastery.

GRANBY HERE TONIGHT AT 7.15; ST. HYACINTHE TOMORROW

Wilfredo Salas To Hurl Tonight Against Red Sox; Paul Calvert And Adrian Zabala To Attend To Saints

The up and coming Red Sox of Granby will move into town this evening to tangle with the local Athletics in what should be the game of the week. The game is scheduled to commence at 7.15 at the Park Avenue Stadium.

On their last appearance in Sherbrooke the Red Sox edged out the locals 3-1 after 11 innings, when they pushed across two runs in the final frame to emerge the victors in a hard fought battle. Both clubs had tallied once and had nicked the offerings of Ernie Balser and Adrian Zabala for nine safeties apiece, but going into the top half of the eleventh the Granby squad banged out four consecutive singles to push two runs across the plate and walk away with a hard earned victory.

In tonight's battle Manager Gladu will throw his speed ball artist, Wilfredo Salas, at the visitors with Paul Calvert, Adrian Zabala and Ralph McCabe being held in reserve. The balance of the club will be the same as usual with the left field position being left open until game time to decide whether a left-hander or right will be the hurling for Granby.

Tomorrow the locals will hook up with Paul Martin and company in a two-game Sunday affair. The first tilt will be played in St. Hyacinthe in the afternoon with the return engagement back at the local park in the evening.

Manager Gladu will have his team right on their toes to try and upset the heavy hitting Saints in this very important battle. The outcome of the series will have a very big bearing on the standing of the loop. Sherbrooke is at present setting the pace with 54 wins and 32 losses for a .628 average, while the Saints are in second spot with 50 wins and 38 reversals for a .568 average and trail the league leaders by five games so the outcome will have a big bearing on the final standing.

N.L. Pitching Getting Better, Says Kiner

Pittsburgh, Aug. 28.—(P)—Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh Pirates' home-run slugger, says National League pitching "is getting better."

"That's a significant statement from a hitter who's hammered more home runs—35—than any other player in the majors this year."

"When I first broke in with the Pirates three years ago," Kiner recalls, "the League was chock full of throwers—guys trying to fire the ball past you."

"Now the pitchers are using their heads and playing corners."

"That's why a lot of batting averages have dropped—at least that's the way I've got it figured."

Anyone talking to Kiner usually mentions the record 60 homers slammed by the late Babe Ruth in 1927.

The Pittsburgh star, currently six four-baggers behind the Bambino's home-hitting mark, has his eyes on the Ruthcan park—but, "A fellow would have to be hitting awfully good to send that many balls out of the park," he says. "The only way I figure it will ever be done is if some hitter could put together two home run streaks during a season."

What's more, Kiner points out, "I don't think it will ever be done by a right-handed hitter. The left field fences in most major league parks are too far away."

Argos To Be Stronger Than Ever This Year

By JACK MITCHELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Toronto, Aug. 28.—(P)—New strength down the middle gives Coach Tedder Morris one of the best-balanced Argonaut squads on paper of post-war years and makes the big Toronto team again the club to beat for their fourth straight Dominion football championship.

It also means Argos may lose a bit of their All-Canadian identity, because one of the three new key men lined up with the double blue is a halfback import from the United States.

The Argos open their Big Four schedule in Toronto Sept. 4 with their first-team lineup virtually unchanged from the team that copped the Grey Cup again last year. That means Joe Krol and Royal Copeland are back.

Morris considers the team to be strengthened most at snap and at quarter. The canny little coach, who produced three champion clubs in three tries, points to Doug Cook and Frankie Dunlap as his reasons.

Cook, a husky centre, comes from All-Star status with University of Western Ontario via Saskatchewan Roughriders for one season.

In Dunlap, Morris feels he's finally found the regged quarterback he wants. The 24-year-old former Ottawa Roughriders ace—regarded as one of the best forward passers in the game despite the influx of U.S. imports—transferred to Toronto to enter law school this fall.

The U.S. import threatening Argos All-Canadian tradition is Ken Whitlock, 175-pound speed back who played four years with Virginia State and was also on the colored All-American team. He boots 70-yard punts in practice—nearly a match for Krol—but it depends what he does in the heavy pads.

Marthe Tanguay Captures E.T. Net Title Defeating Isabelle Hibbard

Little Marthe Tanguay last evening copped the Eastern Townships Ladies' Singles Championship when she downed smooth-stroking Isabelle Hibbard 3-6, 6-3, 6-1. Miss Hibbard played brilliantly in the initial set but Miss Tanguay took to the defensive and copped the next two sets.

Miss Tanguay chalked up point after point on her back-handed drop shot while Miss Hibbard picked up the majority of her points on placements. Miss Hibbard, who has a strong forehand as well as a backhand, found it hard to cope with the defensive play of Miss Tanguay, especially in the last two sets.

It was the second major title this year for Miss Tanguay who is the city's singles champion.

MONDAY

On Monday evening the mixed doubles finals will be played. Andre Panetton and Simone Chevalier meet Mr. and Mrs. Russel Marois at 6:30 p.m.

"Sport Shots
and Pot Shots"

BY LEN. O'DONNELL

The Sherbrooke Athletic Baseball Club demonstrated Thursday evening to the 3,500 fans that attended the game, why they are on top of the Provincial Baseball League when they swapped the Braves of St. Johns 15-2.

The A's did everything except steal the Braves' equipment. They pilfered seven sacks as Pete Taillefer, Gilles Dubé, Jorge Torres and Lauro Pascual ran the paths, to make poor old Leo Ruffin look sick as he tried to nip the boys. In fact, after a while he gave up as things got worse and he retired from the game.

Terry McDuffie, the Braves' temperamental colored boy, put on a show by himself, but from our viewpoint and that of the fans, something should be done by MR. McDUFFIE. Every time he throws the ball, if the ump should happen to call it a ball, then he starts. He kicks the dirt, walks the whole way to the plate to carry on a private little feud with the ump, which gets him nowhere and just holds up the game. If his opponents should connect for a single, which goes to the outfield, then he gets sore at his mates and gives them the dickens.

After watching McDuffie hurl quite a few games this year, which could have been finished in half the time he takes, I have come to the conclusion that Mr. McDuffie thinks he is the best hurler in the league and that nobody should offend him by hitting his pitches. If he could choose every day that he is as good as he thinks he is, well, then, he would be with the Dodgers, because it looks as though he thinks he is that good.

As for sportsmanship, he gave a very poor exhibition when he walked off the mound by himself and refused to continue. Pretty poor show. After all, he was the boy who hitting the pitches the locals are hitting, not his mates, and why lay the blame on them? On the other hand the ump should read the riot act to McDuffie and it might do him some good—maybe.

This evening the Red Sox of Granby will be in town and a good Granby will be in town and a good at present the hottest team in the circuit and the fans who travel to the Stadium will see a good game of ball, which should be much better than Thursday's exhibition.

Granby is six games behind St. Johns and if they continue the way they have the past week they will close the gap in short notice and stand a good chance of passing them. The locals have had trouble with the Red Sox in the past but should stand a fair chance of upsetting them if they are as hot to night as they have been in the past few games.

The softball tilt scheduled last night in the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville circuit has been postponed until Monday evening.

The Industrial "A" Softball League will start their playoffs Monday evening at Dufresne Park. Louis will visit Savard in the opening tilt at 7.15, and Lesard and Sherbrooke Pool Room will play in the closing game of the double-header.

The semi-finals will be a three-out-of-five series with the finals a four-out-of-seven. The games will be played Mondays and Wednesdays until the league winners are declared.

The Sherbrooke Athletics' football team will start their heavy drills next week. The heavy equipment was handed out last night and the boys will start their work Tuesday evening under the lights at the ball park, which is something new. In fact, all the games this year will be played at the ball park which should be a great improvement for the players, fans and everybody concerned.

We know that this is not the weather to think about the game, but after all, this hot spell will not last forever, and generally speaking around these parts, after the Fair is over the cold weather starts to set in. So, boys, forget about the heat and think about the cold spell, which is just around the corner, if it ever gets here.

Judging from the lineups of the Montreal teams and the Quebec entry the circuit should be very strong this year. The boys from the Capital are really taking their football seriously and have been going strong for the past two weeks with their heavy drills. The teams have been importing some top-notch players from around the country but I think if our local boys get to work they can hold their own with the imports. So how about bucking down and let the fans know that you mean business and prove that you are just as good as the highly rated imports.

Dodgers Threaten To Run Away With Pennant

The Dodgers are running again. Here Jackie Robinson scores on the front end of a triple steal as the Brooklyn club swipes eight bases in a single game with the Braves. The catcher is Bill Salkeld, the umpire Jocko Conlan, the batter Billy Cox.

(VEN)—ST. JOHN'S, N.B.—Returning from Europe, we catch the Dodgers for the first time since July 7, and for the first time since the season started they look like the Bums who literally ran off with the National League pennant last season.

This the Brooklyn definitely threaten to do again.

Old Burt Shotton has the Brooks running, which is what the Superbas are cut out to do best.

Once more the Dodgers are a club that can beat the other side in more ways than any outfit that has come along in a long while.

The Bums stole eight bases in a game with the Braves at Ebbets Field the other afternoon, five in an inning, with Jackie Robinson scoring on the front end of a triple steal. Billy Southworth finally had to replace Bill Salkeld club.

The Bums stole eight bases in a game with the Braves at Ebbets Field the other afternoon, five in an inning, with Jackie Robinson scoring on the front end of a triple steal. Billy Southworth finally had to replace Bill Salkeld club.

This swelled their total to 31 stolen bases in 22 attempts.

Robinson and Pee Wee Reese are the most artful Dodgers on the bases, and Pete Reiser is as annoying as Robinson when the Pistol bats for someone and gets on base. Marv Ruckley, Duke Snider, Billy Cox and utility man Eddie Miksis are exceptionally fast. Gene Hermanski and Roy Campanella steal bases.

Robinson has stolen home four times this season, threatens Reiser's mark of seven, hung up in 1945. Four others—Reese, Hermanski, Bruce Edwards and Miksis—have stolen home.

Leo Durocher likes the running ballplayer and game. Circumstances no doubt mitigated against the Brooklyn's running for him and his excess. Robinson remained over-weight and comparatively slow, for example.

It is pointed out that the Brooks weren't winning for Durocher, and consequently couldn't run. That brings up the question: "Did the Superbas start running when they started to win, or did they start winning when they started to run?" The answer is, of course, that the changes for the better came simultaneously.

It was the fact that the Dodgers weren't running, as much as any one thing, that made Branch Rickey make up his mind that Durocher could not pick up the and the fact that at the half way mark the attendance at home was 200,000 below last year. Old Man Shotton had the formula, and it was no trick at all. His main idea was to get the outfit settled down, and unleash it. Durocher's barking and dog houses were okh win the older heads, but this is a young club, and the youngsters are more at home with the fatherly resident of Bartow, Fla. There is less tension. The athletes are no longer restrained.

Cox, for instance, is now quite sure that he is a third baseman in good standing, not a pitcher or a catcher likely to be shipped to Newport News on the next rat-tler. Catcher Edwards is vastly more at home in left field than he was in third base.

Players now keep both eyes on the batter, no longer watch the dugout out of the corner of one bulb in fear of being taken out at the slightest slip.

Help was brought in, yes, and tell Rex Barney arrived, but Shotton straightened out the pitching until now he has depth.

"These kids press here and there, but there are too many good ballplayers on this club for it to lose very often," he tells you. Billy Southworth and the other managers heartily agree.

"His keeping a ballplayer like Carl Furillo out of center field is the tip-off," says Billy the Kid.

Young Duke Snider, a left-hand power hitter, was kept in center field against both types of pitching despite the fact that he was batting only .200. Furillo, the only right-hand hitting outfielder other than Edwards, with an average of .252, became an alternate in right.

Baseball men said a hitter more established than Snider belonged in the clean-up slot, but Shotton saw the Compton Cloutier's tremendous potentialities, and strung along with him, hoping he'd catch fire.

Barney Shotton quietly builds the confidence of the individual, fits the game to the material at hand, and wraps it all together into a winning club.

Here comes Malicious!
