Paris, June 22.—(Reuters)—Singer Lena Horne disclosed last night that she has been married for three years to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's musical director, Lennie Hayton. Miss Horne, who said the marriage took place in Paris in 1947, is on a European tour.

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 22.—(AP)—The 200-inch Hale telescope has discovered an exploding star farther away than any yet reported — it took 50,000,000 years for its light to reach the earth.

The Palomar telescope, the world's largest, found the star in the Coma cluster, one of several distant universes similar to the Milky Way.

The Hague, June 22—(Reuters) — The Dutch central foundation for agricultural emigration today announced a scheme for the emigration of 10,000 Dutch settlers to Canada in 1951.

The foundation said that, since 1947, 25,000 Netherlanders had emigrated to Canada.

Lake Success, N.Y. June 22—(AP)— The United States asked the United Nations today to set up an international authority to check on the reduction of ordinary arms and armed forces.

The proposal has been circulated among delegates to the U.N. commission for conventional armaments.

Conventional arms are rifles, artillery, naval and aircraft and almost all other weapons except the atom bomb and weapons of mass destruction.

Reds' Weakness May Prevent War

Tokyo, June 22.—(AP)—John Foster Dulles said today the "captive world" of communism is too weak to seek war now with the free world.

The Republican adviser to the United States State Department told the American Chamber of Commerce that the immediate danger to free countries is that they may be taken over from within by small, disciplined communist minorities.

Dulles said:

"Any struggle that openly pitted the full might of the free world against that of the captive world could have but one outcome. That would be the total demolition of the artificial, rigid and relatively weak structure that Soviet communism has built. That is why most well-informed people do not except war. The position basically is too one-sided."

He cited three basic weaknesses

Bank Robber, Killer Of Two Men, Is Sought In One Of Ontario's Widest Man-Hunts

Two Bank Customers Are Slain During Pursuit Of Man Who Held Up Bank At Langton—Loot Is Abandoned.

Langton, Ont., June 22—(CP)—A cold, methodical killer who chopped down two pursuers with sub-machine-gun fire while fleeing from a bank holdup was sought today in one of Ontario's greatest man-hunts.

Stopped late yesterday by a pursuers' bullet that struck an automobile tire, the killer blasted out the rear window of his own machine with sten gun fire, sent several bursts through the windshield of the pursuers' car—killing the two men in it—then mercilessly sprayed the car to make sure they were dead. Then he fled—leaving his $23,000 bank loot behind.

He headed into scrub bush in rocky, sandy country around Kinglake 27 miles east of St. Thomas where police and volunteers took up the hunt, aided by circling aircraft, walkie-talkies and bloodhounds.

Roads were sealed and police cruisers roamed the rural roads, drawing a tight ring around the area where the killer was believed to have hidden, some six miles north of Lake Erie. Police broadcast warnings to motorists not to pick up hitch hikers in the Lake Erie area.

The first scene of the bloody tragedy was played out here in the sleepy hamlet of Langton, about eight miles east of the scene of the double slaying.

At 2:45 P.M., an armed man walked into the Imperial Bank branch in this village in the heart of Ontario's tobacco-growing country. He escaped with $23,000.

Ten minutes later Art de Lierman, 31-year-old insurance agent, and William Goddyn, 24-year-old operator of de Lierman's tobacco farm, took up the pursuit. They were among five customers in the bank at the time of the holdup.

The chase ended between 3:15 and 3:25 P.M. The pursuers punctured the bandit's car rear tire with a shot from an old service rifle. The car plunged into a ditch.

The bandit greeted the pursuit car with a withering blast of sten gun fire which ripped out the rear window of his own auto. Then he walked up close to pump several more rounds into the death car before fleeing on foot.

Two young farmhands, Ben Nobles and Ray Pressey, saw the killing. They were working in a nearby field when they heard the first shots. They dropped flat to the ground in the thought that the shots were aimed at them. Nobles said he saw the killer step up to the de Lierman car and fire the second murderous blast.

Police counted 12 bullet holes in the windshield of de Lierman's car which Goddyn had driven at breakneck speed over the twisting country roads to catch up to the bandit. There were 10 other bullet holes in the hood.

When the bandit fled into the bush, he left behind the $23,000 in loot, in a shopping bag in the car which had been stolen in Windsor. He also left behind a revolver, taking the sten gun with him into the bushland.

De Lierman, father of two children, and Goddyn, father of four, were transacting business in the bank when the bandit pushed open the door. He levelled a gun at the six members of the staff and the five customers and in a soft low-pitched voice: "This is a holdup."

He ordered H. W. Thompson, accountant, to open the vault.

"I'm not fooling," said the man. "Open it up if you don't want to get a sore head."

Thompson obeyed. The bandit herded staff and customers into the vault. He scooped up money and put it in two shopping bags. He backed out of the vault and looked around. Lambert van Hooren, a garageman, and Cecil Aspeden, a bus driver, were peering in. He ordered them into the bank and then into the vault. He slammed the vault door but did not lock it.

Outside, one of the shopping bags broke and money spilled on the street. The bandit paused and scooped it all into one bag before getting into his car and driving off.

De Lierman and Goddyn took up the chase without telling anyone of their plans. There was shooting during the pursuit. Farmer Harry Manary said "they were shooting when they went past my place."

Others who saw the chase said the cars were travelling at a "terrific pace."

The Imperial Bank is the only one in Langton, a village of about 250 persons.

It was robbed of $34,000 on Sept. 12, 1945, by three armed and masked men who escaped in a waiting car, driven by an accomplice.

Four days later four men were arrested in connection with the robbery, three in Windsor and one in Ottawa.

The four, Gail Hastings, 23, Gerald Blackburn, 28, Dominic Minille, 30, and William Vance,

Shortage Of Housing Is Grave In UK

London, June 22.— (CP) —Britain's housing shortage is so bad that authorities have been instructed not to destroy existing properties unless they are dangerous.

Dr. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York, considers that never in the last 100 years has the country had such great areas of slums and such overcrowding.

These points emerged last night from key speeches in a House of Lords debate on housing. Veteran reporters described the debate as among the most depressing they have ever covered.

From late afternoon until an hour before midnight, the Peers argued the problem in an atmosphere of defeatism which was typified in a statement by Lord Morrison, under-secretary for the works industry:

"There is not a single member of this House who could put his hand on his heart and say that he could solve this problem within the lifetime of the youngest member present."

The youngest Peer present was Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, who is 23.

Paymaster Lord Macdonald, last governor of Newfoundland, said that he could offer little encouragement about slum clearance. Action could not be taken if it would prejudice the building of new houses.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh said the size of London's problem was equal to its greatness in every respect.

After a generation in the streets children became "little townies and, I think, lost souls. London is a great octopus which has us in her grip, and she will not easily relax."

Washington, June 22. — (AP) — The United States Congress yesterday voted six more months of rent control, plus another six months for cities that ask for it.

Nelson, B.C., June 22.— (CP)—Michael (The Archangel) Verigin, Doukhobor leader, was acquitted yesterday on a charge of conspiring to dynamite a highway bridge in 1947 at Brilliant, B.C.

The "Archangel" was convicted Tuesday of seditious conspiracy, a charge with a maximum two-year jail sentence.

Also convicted on the charge Tuesday was Verigin's secretary, Joe Podovinikoff.

Ideals Must Be Harnessed Says Lagueux

Detroit, June 22—(CP)— Ideals without action are almost as fruitless as action without ideals, Arthur Lagueux of Quebec city, president-elect of Rotary International, said today.

Mr. Lagueux, in an address to the closing session of the 41st annual Rotary International convention here, said "we must harness the power of our idealism if we are to turn the wheels of our better tomorrow."

The "strategic function" of Rotary was "to perform in the battle against discord and division," he said.

Mr. Lagueux was elected president of Rotary International at the Convention which winds up its five-day session here today. Delegates represented 7,100 Rotary Clubs with a membership of 340,500 business and professional executives in 83 different countries.

Mr. Lagueux is President of the investment corporation of Lagueux and DesRochers and of the Financial Building in Quebec City. He is also President of the La Sarre (Quebec) Power Company and an Officer of the Order of the British Empire. He is a member and Past President of the Rotary Club of Quebec and has served Rotary International as Director, District Governor and as committee chairman and member.

Elected to Rotary's 1950-51 Board of Directors were Roberto Alvarez Espinosa of Mexico City, Mexico; Heikki H. Herlin of Helsinki-Helsingfors, Finland; Percy Reay of Manchester, England; Harold T. Thomas of Auckland, New Zealand; Helgi Tomasson of Reykjavik, Iceland; Curt Wild of St. Gallen, Switzerland; and seven Directors from United States and Canada.

Because of the tremendous growth of the Rotary organization world wide, this year for the first time it was necessary to limit attendance at the Rotary Convention to Rotary Club delegates only. More than 6,500 of these Rotary delegates and members of their families from 60 countries of Europe, Asia, Africa and North, South and Central America attended the Convention.

In the formal Convention addresses by United Nations General Assembly President Carlos P.

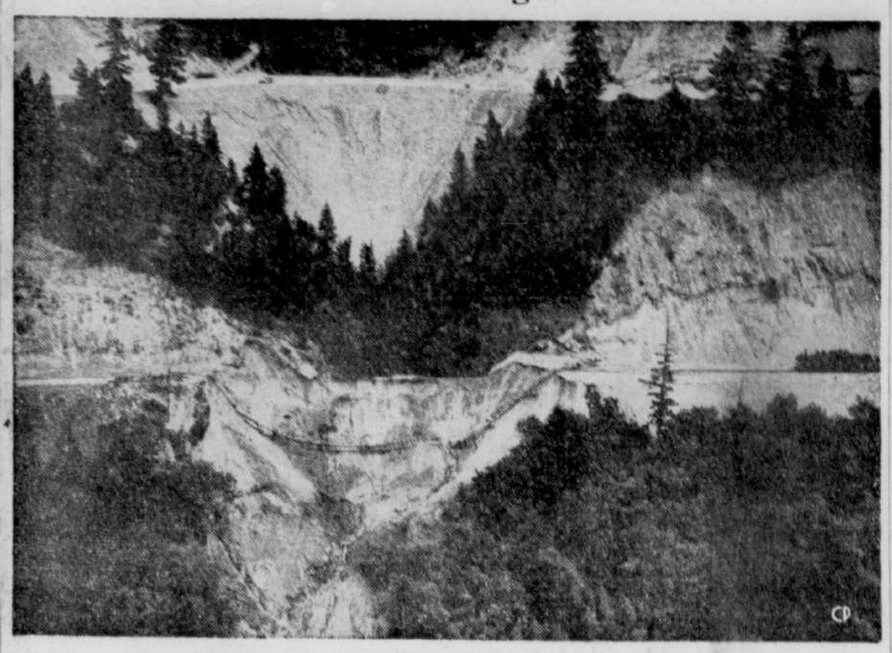
Rail Damage



Dangling rails are products of a flood-induced slide 20 miles north of Bostong Bar in British Columbia's vulnerable Fraser canyon. This break in the main line of the Canadian National Railways is believed due to a small creek flowing into the rampant Fraser River. (CP Photo)

Flood Threat In British Columbia Lessens As Level Of Rivers Falls

Vancouver, June 22. — (CP) — The major rivers of British Columbia, their offensive anticipated for two seasons, today could claim but a shadow of their 1948 victories.

Word from most areas was that the flood peak was near or past.

The mighty Fraser river was held back by a multi-million dollar chain of dikes. But the lesser Harrison river battled against stubborn flood fighters.

For the second straight night at Harrison Mills, 40 miles east of here, dike workers labored under the glow of searchlights to stem the Harrison river. The Harrison meets the Fraser at Harrison Mills.

A major victory was claimed there yesterday after men and machines plugged a breach in the dike which had threatened to let water run over 1,500 acres of farmland, severing rail and highway links.

The situation again became tense last night when winds rose and exerted water pressure against the five-mile-long dike link. At some sections water was washed over the protective wall.

J. B. Carswell, chairman of the Fraser Valley Diking Commission, said yesterday: "If we can sweat it out for two more days, we can hold the dikes."

Seepage remained the big danger.

Early today the Fraser river level dropped at Mission, 45 miles east of Vancouver. At 4 P.M. PDT yesterday the official reading was 24.10 feet; at 10 P. M. it was 24.01 and at midnight, 23.98. Flood level is 20 feet.

"We're pretty sure we have the floods beaten," said flood commander W. Hicks at Agassiz, 65 miles east of Vancouver and centre of the $30,000,000 floods of 1948.

North of Vancouver, the Skeena river was dropping. Danger was past.

The Columbia river continued a belated rise at Trail, smelter city 250 miles east. Flood control officials said "a few" people were evacuated yesterday as water seeped into low-lying basements.

It was hoped that the Columbia was near its peak but flood officials said heavy rains could change the picture.

New Liberal Chief Quits Commons

Montreal, June 22.—(CP)—Georges Emile Lapalme, recently-elected Quebec Liberal leader, last night announced his resignation as Federal Member of Parliament for Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm.

The 43-year-old lawyer made the announcement at a banquet tendered him by Montreal Liberals.

He told more than 1,600 persons that George C. Marler, member of the Legislative Assembly for Westmount-St. George, will remain the party's House leader.

Mr. Lapalme said he will devote his time to rebuilding the party's fortunes in Quebec.

His resignation will necessitate a Federal by-election.

He said last night he had reason to believe that the provincial riding of Montcalm, part of the riding he represented in the Federal House, soon will be opened. He did not elaborate. He stated it did not mean he would contest the seat.

"I'll choose the seat I wish to contest," he said, "not Premier Duplessis."

(The Quebec Premier said recently that his Union Nationale party would not contest Mr. Lapalme's election if one of the eight Liberal members would resign his seat.)

The Union Nationale's sweep of the 1948 provincial elections cut Liberal strength in the Legislation from 34 to eight. Mr. Duplessis' party holds 82 seats. Adelard Godbout, former Liberal Premier, later was appointed a Federal Senator and Mr. Marler took over the Quebec Liberal leadership.

Of Mr. Duplessis, Mr. Lapalme said: "He'll try to trap me into seeking a seat somewhere, but I find myself in the fortunate position where I'm able to see through his designs and avoid the consequences."

Coal Mining In Alberta Suffers Blow

Cadomin, Alta., June 22.—(CP)—Suspension of mining at the Mountain Park Coal Company mine was announced yesterday, bringing the third disastrous blow to this Rocky Mountain community in less than a week.

Last Wednesday night five men were lost in the workings of the Cadomin Coal Company mine here after a flood devastated the valley of the McLeod river.

Underground mining at Mountain Park, six miles south of here, cased in February and only strip mining has since continued. This work ended Tuesday, throwing 135 men out of work. Lack of markets and subsidy plus higher freight rates were given as reasons. The mine had been in operation since 1914.

Meanwhile, rescue workers pushed into the mud-blocked workings of the Cadomin mine where the five men are entombed. The men are presumed dead.

It is believed that between 200 and 300 more feet must be cleared before the bodies are reached.

As the shutdown was announced miners immediately prepared to leave Mountain Peak, faced with the prospect of becoming a ghost town. Some had grown up in the settlement.

Even leaving would be a prob-

Stalin Lays Down Law On Language

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Now that Prime Minister Stalin has laid down the law on Russian-language policies, a parade of new confessions can be expected in Moscow.

Stalin made known his views on language Tuesday in the communist party newspaper Pravda. Exactly what his words meant is subject to varying interpretations, but this appears obvious: He laid waste the school of linguistics which long has ridden the crest of popularity in the Soviet Union.

Nikolai Yakovlevich Marr, the philologist hailed only recently as "inspired Soviet scientist and founder of the new materialist teachings on language," was not only wrong in many of his conceptions, but was un-Marxist, said Stalin. The Soviet leader thus entered—and probably ended—a debate on linguistics which has been going on for months in Moscow.

If the communists run true to form, this will bring a parade of confessions in the form of "Bolshevist criticism and self-criticism," from persons like academician I. I. Meshchaniov, a leader of the Marr school, who in an academy discussion in April proclaimed Marr a model scientist "combatting hostile, idealist theories" of language.

Others had joined joyfully in singing the praises of Marr, who died in 1934.

Stalin wrote in Pravda that Marr's theory that different classes develop different languages was absurd; Marr's notion that language was merely a cultural superstructure which would change swiftly with revolution was not true. Further, the Prime Minister deplored that the Marr school gave Soviet philology a regime under which scientists were demoted or fired for criticizing Marr's teachings.

This appears to mean that the imposition of Russian language or orthography upon subordinated peoples is not going so well. The Marr adherents dreamed that one day there would be a world language of revolution and that language would be basically Russian.

One speaker at the April academy discussion of Marr's merits indicated what had been done. According to accounts of the meeting in the current digest of the Soviet press, a review of the Russian press translated in the United States, this speaker said Russian language "has exercised and is exercising a beneficial influence" on the Kazakh literary language.

The Kazakhs speak arabic, but, said this speaker, "the contemporary Kazakh alphabet and orthography are built mainly on the correct principle of completely borrowing the Russian alphabet while taking into account the phonetic peculiarities of the contemporary Kazakh language."

"This," said the speaker, "is precisely the kind of language construction to which N.Y. Marr was summoning us."

Marr stood for the application of artificial means to speed up a common world language. Stalin blasted this idea.

In short, perhaps the Russians are finding out what the peoples under their domination are being stubborn about speaking their own languages.

Canada's Official Sculptor, Cleophas Soucy, Has Died

Ottawa, June 22—(CP)—Cleophas Soucy, whose ornamental carvings in Canada's Parliament buildings won him international recognition, died unexpectedly at his home last night.

Official sculptor at the Parliament buildings, the 71-year-old stone carver began working on the buildings under John Pearson, architect of the present buildings. In the last 30 years his deft fingers, which in spare moments played the clarinet, fashioned hundreds of designs and figures both inside and outside the buildings.

He wrought delicate friezes designed from Canadian animals and flowers. Wolves, moose, lions and unicorns, as well as regiments of dragons, gnomes and weird little caricatures of statesmen of the past took their place around the buildings' gothic arches and high marble corridors and in the Peace Tower.

All of his work was in the Gothic style.

Mr. Soucy's delight was doing stone carvings in and around the main building.

"Nowhere," he once said, "is there a building better suited to display the work of a Canadian sculptor for his work is not merely in it but a part of it and a monument to Canadian culture and tradition.'

Native of Montreal, Mr. Soucy came from a family of sculptors A brother, Elzear, and a nephew, Donat Soucy, are proinment sculptors.

He showed a flair for sketching while attending school at Montreal and later began studying sculptoring at night school while working in a wood-carving factory.

In 1906 he went to Boston to study under the American sculptor John Evans and then returned to Canada to work under two distinguished Canadians, Goerge Hill and Phillippe Hebert.

Some of his early work is in the chapel of St. Laurent college, Montreal, and at St. Viateur Church, Outremont, Qûe.

In 1919, he married Elizabeth Boutot of Ottawa and began working on Parliament Hill.

Besides his work in stone, Mr. Soucy did much of the woodcarving in both the Senate and the House of Commons. Behind many of his carvings, both in wood and stone, may be seen the genial humor of the sculptor.

Above the Speaker's private entrance to the commons is carved a vociferous jackdaw caricaturing a past Speaker, Hon. E. N. Rhodes. And high on the Peace Tower beneath the carillon are several grotesque dwarfs. One of them is lustily playing a concertina while another muffles his ears in anguish.

The Peace Tower also displays fantastic little dwarfs whose features are recognizable as those of Fuller, architect of the old Parliament buildings destroyed by fire in 1916, and Pearson, who designed the new buildings. Another figure depicts former Prime Minister Sir Robert Borden capering in ecstasy.

Mr. Soucy once said there are only two or three good stone carvers in Canada. He was afraid there might be no young Canadians capable of carrying on his work of recording the story of Canada with hammer and chisel.

Ban On Canadian Newsprint Suggested At U.S. Probe

Washington, June 22.— (AP) — Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem. N.Y.) plans to ask the United States tariff commission to consider whether Canadian newsprint should be barred because of "unfair practices" under the federal tariff act.

About 80 per cent of the newsprint used by American newspapers comes from Canada.

Celler, head of the House of Representatives judiciary subcommittee inquiring into newsprint shortage and high prices, said he is writing also to President Truman calling the situation to his attention.

The President has the power to direct the treasury to refuse entry for the commodity. Canadian newsprint has entered the U.S. tariff-free since 1913.

The apparent objective is to strengthen the President's hand in possible future direct negotiations with the Canadian government to ease the newsprint situation.

Celler's proposal developed during questioning of Joseph M. P. Donohoe, chief of the lumber-paper division of the tariff commission.

Donohoe said "No, sir," when Celler asked if the commission had ever investigated the newsprint industry.

Celler recalled anti-trust charges brought against segments of the industry in the last 25 years and commented:

"I don't know how to characterize that — laxity or indifference."

The committee earlier had heard Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, describe the world newsprint shortage as "a major impediment to the attainment of peace and the preservation of free government."

He said that the imbalance which exists between newsprint supplies available to American newspapers on the one hand and to newspapers in many other countries on the other is an "unhealthy and undesirable situation."

"Anything that can properly be done to make more newsprint available in the world will be a net contribution to the cause of peace," said Canham, past president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and now an officer in the International Federation of Newspaper Editors.

He said the way to accomplish this is not through further controls. "The market is not free enough as it is now—it does not need further controlling to set it free," he said.

30 Injured In Theatre Accident

Redwood City, Calif., June 22.—(AP)—Thirty persons were hurt in an accident which dumped some 10 tons of ornamental plaster on moviegoers in the balcony of the Sequoia theatre here last night.

Fifteen required hospital treatment, but only one was in serious condition early today. The others needed only first aid.

Mrs. Vangie Case, 34, of Redwood City, was unconsicous in Palo Alto hospital several hours after the accident. She either jumped or fell from the upstairs loge seats in front of the balcony. She was not in the area where the plaster fell.

Her husband, Dr. Robert Case, said her injuries consisted of a possible concussion, possible internal injuries and a broken finger.

None of the injuries, other than those of Mrs. Case, was considered serious.

The accident occurred about 11:45 p.m. when most patrons had left.

The crash of the ornamental plaster and wire lath reinforcing came suddenly with a "roar like thunder" and seemingly dropped in a single sheet, said police officer William Goldsmith, who was attending the show. (A brief panic among patrons resulted.

Opposition Parties Contend Indian Act Is Too Negative

Ottawa, June 22.—(CP)—Citizenship Minister Harris announced in the Commons today that the government is withdrawing a bill amending the Indian Act from further consideration at this session of Parliament.

Ottawa, June 22. — (CP) — Opposition parties in the Commons yesterday attacked government legislation to amend the Indian act and unsuccessfully tried to give it a six-months "hoist"—parliamentary device for killing a bill.

In a late-hour division, a motion by E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) urging that the bill, up for second reading, be read "six months hence" was defeated 90 to 29.

Two Liberals—H. A. MacKenzie (Lambton-Kent) and William Mott (New Westminister)—joined the Progressive Conservative, C.C.F. and Social Credit parties in supporting Mr. Fulton's motion.

The bill, heralded by the government as a new deal for Canada's Indians, was the target of almost six hours of opposition criticism that it did not go far enough along the road to citizenship.

Many Indians, delegates to a convention of the North American Indian Brotherhood, sat in the galleries as the debate unfolded.

Citizenship Minister Harris announced that the government plans to set up an "Indian Register" to record all persons of predominantly Indian blood.

The ultimate goal of the government's policy, he said, was the "integration of the Indians into the general life and economy of the country."

John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) said the bill would make the Indian a "second-class citizen" by denying him recourse to the courts without the permission of the Minister. It would perpetuate "bureaucracy" over their reservations.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, expressed "bitter disappointment." The legislation should have been delayed in the hope that "some better course" could be worked out.

John Backmore (SC—Lethbridge) suggested that the bill was an "entirely negative act" apparently designed to govern "an inferior and subordinate race and to keep them inferior and subordinate."

Others opposing the Indian bill included A. L. Smith (PC—Calgary West), Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary East), O. L. Jones (CCF—Yale), H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West), H. O. White (PC—Middlesex East) John A. Charlton (PC—Brant-Wentworth), Gordon Higgings (PC—St. John's East) and C. W. Jodson (PC—Victoria, Ont.).

Two Liberals—Don Brown (Essex West) and George Murray (Cariboo)—urged that it be adopted, though they conceded that it was not perfect. However, it could be amended later.

The Chamber also opened study of finance department estimates and heard J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood), Progressive Conservative financial critic, suggest that the strength of the Canadian dollar now should allow Finance Minister Abbott to take further steps to free it from exchange controls.

Two bills making minor changes in the trust companies act and the loan companies act were adopted. A third bill amending the judges act was given first reading.

Third reading was given another measure giving Canadians the right to sue crown corporations without the necessity of obtaining government permission.

NO DRAMATICS FOR CARMEN --- JUST 'ZEEP AND ZOOM'

Hollywood — (NEA) — Exclusively Yours. It's all mangoes-and-cream between Carmen Miranda and her producer hubby Dave Sebastian these days. Anybody who starts any talk about sour marital notes is going to get boffed by one of the pineapples she wears on her turban.

Carmen whispered to me: "Ees wahnderful weeth us. Pipple talk too much een Hollywood. Everybody fights. You mohst fight."

She'll do another picture at MGM in the fall, then night club appearances throughout the country and bookings that will take her to London, Paris and Portugal in 19--

Pals are advising Carmen to pl... for the ...y Mary role when "South Pacific" is filmed, but she doesn't think she'll have more luck as a Duse than Zazu Pitts had.

"I made seex, seven t'ousand dollars a week een my night club act. Byootiful costumes, lotsa zeep and zoom. I geev'em loffing eyes, sporkling beeg mouth. Everybody say look at her beeg mouth. Ees wonderful. Eef I try be dromotic, they loff at me. Why gamble?

FUNNYMAN'S ILL

Sorry to repeat this, but one of the reasons for UI's production sprint on "Abbott and Costello in the Foreign Legion" is Bud Abbott's serious illness. . . . There's talk again at Columbia of turning Ben Gage into a singing cowboy. . . . Jimmy Stewart winds up his balmy Elwood P. Dowd role in "Harvey" and then goes into "Jack-pot at Fox. From crackpot to jackpot? . . . There's an old "Duel in the Sun" poster on a sound stage wall at the Motion Picture Center. "Sun" has been crossed out and it now reads, more appropriately for Los Angeles, "Duel in the Smog."

Ralph Edwards, accepting his Golden Scissor award from the California Apparel Creators as the best dressed man in California, quipped: "I understand I just nosed out Lassie. They would have given the award to Lassie but they couldn't find a place to sew on an inside label."

Ralph says he won't do kinescope for "Truth or Consequences" when it switches to TV in the fall. "It has to be on film," he says. . . .

Casting switch: Marilyn Maxwell, who usually sports sultry gowns and lush hair-do's, is wearing blue jeans and plaid shirts for her role opposite Lew Ayres in "New Mexico."

"Illegal Bride," with a Las Vegas background plus Ginger Rogers, Jack Carson and Mercedes McCambridge, will be the second movie for Fidelity Pictures. Fidelity's first, "Woman on the Run," with Ann Sheridan, Dennis O'Keefe and Robert Keith, winds up this week. Keith, the one-time film writer turned actor, tells some fabulous stories about work in in 1931 with Tom Mix on the star's first talkie, "Destiny Rides Again." ..Keith's story conferences were held at Mix's home, which was beautifully decorated in priceless antique French furniture. But on the furniture Mix gleefully tossed saddles and other western gear.

Tom's favorite drink was brandy and champagne and, after four or five nips, he invariably would announce to anyone present:

"I'm in the best physical condition of any star in Hollywood. Why? Because I've never taken a drink in my life."

TIMELY TOPIC

"The Private Life of Dr. Paul Goebbels" will be re-issued on the basis of Producer W. R. Frank's theory that the Russian situation has made the film more timely than ever. It was re-titled "Enemy of Women" for its original release when the public was anti-war movie minded.

It happened in San Francisco, where Fox was on location at the Curran Theater for scenes in "All About Eve." Bette Davis stood on stage calling for someone to rehearse her lines with her. People she called could not be found.

"Miss Davis," a crewman said, "Why don't you just ask is there an actor in the house?"

Bette considered this but countered: "Just what is an actor?"

"Sorry," the crewman said, "I can't answer that while I'm on salary."

Now that Producer Eddie Small finally has started production, after 13 years of preparation, on "The Life of Valentino" with Tony Dexter, the swoon boy is coming back in celluloid flesh via TV. "The Eagle" and "on of the Sheik" are playing the TV tubes.

Big Show Fills Air With Ace Somersaulting Fliers

The world renowned Flying Concellos, Artonys and Comets don't do it with the greatest of ease, but they achieve the seemingly impossible in daring artistry and soaring grace in the big Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, coming to Sherbrooke Wednesday, June 28, for performances at 2:15 and 8:15 p.m., with doors open at 1 and 7.

These famous somersaulting fliers are, however, but three groups among the hundreds upon hundreds of headline artists featuring the 1950 program of The Greatest Show on Earth.

Climaxing the overwhelming presentation of sensational features in the $300,000 super-spectacle, "When Dreams Come True," an unbelievably lovely fantasy employing multitudes of gorgeously garbed people and trained animals.

News to many spectators is the fact that one of the initial lessons in the school of circus aerial work is "taking the fall." The "safety" net spread beneath the fliers is safe in name only and many a broken arm and leg and neck has resulted from improper landing.

If they miss a trick, they try to land on their heels or their backs. Falling and falling out of control they roll up into a ball and trust to luck.

With the lofty reaches of the world's largest tent filled with flying figures including a host of sensational new aerial stars from Europe, the Big Show is coming to town with 1,450 people nine herds of elephants, hundreds of horses and mammoth menagerie including Toto, gorilla mate of the late Gargantua the Great, and her Congo Cradle of two cute baby gorillas recently imported from the depths of West Africa.

Two of the Flying Artonys, famous aerialists with the big Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

The United Church At Inverness Heard Miss Lily Simpson Speak On India

Inverness, June 22.—Under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Miss Lily Simpson, R.N., missionary on furlough, from Jhansi Mission Field, in India, visited the United Church, Inverness, on Friday evening, June 16.

Miss Simpson, who is making a tour of the Presbyterials of Quebec, has spent 22 years on the mission field in India and expects to return to India in October. She gave an interesting address on the situation in India as it is today.

The area covered by the Jhansi mission field has a population of eight million people and there are only fourteen missionaries to bring the Gospel message to them.

Mr. J. L. Warke presided at the meeting and led the devotions. The hymns, "Lord, I Hear of Showers of Blessing" and "O God Our Help in Ages Past," were sung with Mrs. D. A. Appleton as organist.

Mr. Warke said that Mrs. D. D. Macmillan puts her heart and soul in the work of the Women's Missionary Society. Mrs. Philip Boy, president of the Quebec Presbyterial, introduced Miss Simpson and Mr. Warde thanked Miss Simpson for her interesting message.

The meeting closed by singing "Jesus Shall Reign Where'er the Sun" followed by the benediction.

After the meeting Miss Simpson showed two native costumes and a collection of Indian curios.

Story Of Hong Kong Battle And Its Aftermath Is Related To Kiwanians

The dramatic story of the fall of Hong Kong and the subsequent imprisonment of the Canadian and British defenders was related last night by James C. Gilbert, a St. Lambert alderman and insurance broker and a former member of the Royal Rifles of Canada and a prisoner of war for three years and eight months.

Mr. Gilbert, speaker at the Kiwanis Club meeting, joined the Royal Rifles, of which 45 per cent of the men were from the Eastern Townships, in early 1941. Following nearly a year's training throughout Canada the regiment embarked for Hong Kong via Vancouver, Hawaii and Manilla.

"On arrival at Hong Kong we were greeted by our Air Force," Mr. Gilbert said. "It consisted of three ancient planes, two of which, were destroyed on the ground on the first day of the war. The third was shot down in the air. That was our entire Air Force!"

In the three weeks which preceded the outbreak of fighting, Mr. Gilbert said the Canadian troops spent their time acclimatizing themselves and getting used to Oriental food, every scrap of which had to be boiled because of cholera which was so prevalent among the Chinese.

"During these three weeks," he said, "We lived in comparative luxury. Since in the East a white man loses face if he is seen doing his own work, we all had servants which literally did everything for us."

Mr. Gilbert said that the Canadian troops felt that the war would break out when it did. The British, on the other hand, who had been stationed at Hong Kong for many months, and had long since been used to rumors of war.

"When the war broke we were hopelessly outnumbered. We had at our disposal 10,000 troops, one destroyer and a few motor torpedo boats against 80,000 Japanese troops and their air force. Of our 10,000 troops only 4,000 were properly trained and equipped, the remainder were resident volunteers."

"The war was quick and it was disastrous. On December 25, 1941, it was all over. We discovered later that the Japs knew our defenses by heart and that they even possessed more detailed maps of them than we did. They gained their knowledge by sending their men to work as Chinese coolies on our defenses before the war."

Mr. Gilbert then described the conditions of prison life which he and his fellow soldiers endured for three years and eight months; the labor which was forced upon them by the Japanese in defiance of the laws of the Geneva convention; the acts of brutality to prisoners of war and Chinese civilians alike, and the needless death of many prisoners through diphtheria and dysentery.

"One of the favorite tortures of the Japanese was to deprive a man of water for several days and then offer him water with sand in it," Mr. Gilbert said. "The harsher the Japs treated us the more we pulled together. There were men of 28 different nationalities in our camp and there is one lesson we learned from it all—how to live and get along together."

"It is deplorable," Mr. Gilbert said in conclusion, "that in these days of peace that the nations and peoples of the world cannot follow that example."

The speaker was thanked by Eugene Arnold and presented with a Kiwanis guest speaker certificate.

President Len Keeler announced that all meetings for the remainder of the summer would be held during the luncheon hour.

At the head table other than the President and guest speaker were: Eugene Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Lipton, of New Jersey, Doug Drummond, Harry Blain, Dave Grey, Les Memory and Harry Blue.

French-Speaking Flood Victims Are Assisted

Winnipeg, June 22.—The machinery for rehabilitating French-speaking victims of the Red River flood in St. Boniface, and such rural centres as St. Norbert, St. Agathe, and St. Jean, has begun to turn.

Information forms printed in French were being distributed by the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund. The forms enable flood victims to list losses in household and other personal effects and clothing — the items which the Fund has been established to replace.

Previously, members of the Restoration Committee — the body which appraises damage and makes cash payments — had toured St. Boniface and other French-speaking settlements in the Red River valley for first-hand information on flood losses.

The committee has announced that first consideration in disbursing the Fund will be given to the most needy cases and those made destitute by the flood.

In Sherbrooke today local officials of the Eastern Townships committee of the relief fund acknowledged another $1,300 in donations from E. T. organizations, companies and individuals. The E. T. total is now well above $6,000. The list follows:

$500, Collins and Aikman of Canada Ltd.; $250, Silex Company Ltd., Panther Rubber Company Ltd.; $200, Cables, Conduits and Fittings Ltd.; $50, Miss K. D. Palmer; $25, Sherbrooke News Co. Inc.; $15, Order of Eastern Star, Chapter No. 32; $10 W. M. Hall, Dr. Leo Blais, D. McLennon, National Wallpaper Co., Ltd.; $8, J. O. Cote; $5 Peter Leckie-Ewing, R. J. Mayhew, Rolland Dion; $2, Lawrence Tilton.

Coaster Classic Is Cancelled

The Coaster Classic scheduled for July 1st which was being sponsored by the Kinsmen Club of Sherbrooke, has been cancelled. According to an announcement by Club officails, this action was necessary due to lack of entries for the event.

The Kinsmen desire to express thanks and appreciation to the fine response on the part of local merchants for their encouragement and also to the Chamber of Commerce and Police Department.

Rev. W. Ross Adams Was Inducted As New Minister At St. Andrew's

It was sundown last night when Rev. W. Ross Adams was inducted as minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Sherbrooke. As the last golden rays stole through the northwest windows of the church a quiet, impressive two-hour service took place, conducted under the auspices of the Presbytery of Quebec and presided over by the Moderator, Rev. J. W. Smith of Scotstown.

Music for the service was rendered by St. Andrew's choir, under the leadership of Malcolm Brown, Mus. Bac., and choir director. Mrs. W. H. Trenholme presided at the organ. Two solemn and beautiful anthems, "Holy Art Thou" and "Blest be the God and Father" were among the musical selections.

"The way of God is in the sanctuary," the Very Rev. C. Ritchie Bell, B.A., D.D., told the large congregation in the sermon he preached for the occasion last night. Dr. Bell, is a native of Sherbrooke, the ex-Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, and minister of MacVicar Memorial Presbyterian Church, Montreal. He was Interim Moderator of the vacant charge at the local church.

Dr. Bell also spoke of a book entitled "Puzzled People." He said it was a best-seller because a large number of people were confused and its author had a sense of the need for direction so many of them felt. This composure and purpose is to be found in the sanctuary of the church.

"The church's sanctuary is always the place of recollection. We only see our little corner and life seems all out of proportion much of the time," the minister continued. "Where is God in the battlefields, in the maze of ideology, in our city slums, we ask and we feel we could believe in him if he would only do something.

"And so the primary aim of the church is to lead people to the sanctuary. Altruism is the great truth of life. There is bitterness in the world, but also a lot of good, much division and also much unity. There is much of need but even more charity, and the church is the place of purification where we may get a clearer view.

"It is so easy to confess the sin of our neighbour and very hard to confess one's own. The church satisfies our own individual needs of confession and forgiveness. We are so tiny in the midst of the vastness of the world but if we open our minds to the sanctuary we will be shown the step that will consecrate us."

Dr. Bell said that the true usefulness of any church is not gauged by the number of its members but by what they do. By way of illustration he told the story of an old farmer who could tell neither how much butterfat his cow produced nor how many pounds of milk a year. The farmer could, and did, however, say this: "She's an honest old cow and she'll give you all the milk she can."

"Can we," Dr. Bell asked, "say the same of what we give to God?"

In his charge to the minister Dr. Allan S. Reid, D.D., congratulated the congregation upon obtaining Mr. Adams and he congratulated Mr. Adams on his appointment to the church. "The work of a minister is more difficult in the church today than it was forty or fifty years ago," Dr. Reid said. "The society of our church has become tremendously complex and ministers deserve the loyal support of all Christian people."

Dr. Reid advised Mr. Adams to let nothing interfere with his studying and work but to sympathize with all benefit societies whether or not he had time to take an active part in them.

"In the old days," he said, "the minister was usually preaching to people who were well versed in the scripture. Nowadays a minister often talks on current events and things that he feels may gain the interest of his people. But people should have what they need, not what they like," said Dr. Reid, and he advised the new minister to stick to the word of God.

In his charge to the congregation Dr. Bell spoke of the ties which bind together the minister and his congregation. "They are particularly strong," he said. "The minister is a man of your choice, and though it is your right to call your own minister each right brings with it new responsibilities. Your part of the contract is to work with him lovingly and to trust him even though his ways may not be yours.

"Affection means so much to a minister," Dr. Bell continued. "He cannot have too many close friends or people will say he is partial, and so you must show him some love."

The benediction at the close of the service was pronounced by the newly inducted minister, Mr. Adams. The translation of Dr. Adams from a charge in Owen Sound to the local charge in Sherbrooke culminated Friday, June 2nd, when the Presbytery of Bruce of the Presbyterian Church in Canada met in St. Andrew's Church, Owen Sound, to consider the "call" which Mr. Adams accepted.

The new minister is a graduate of McMaster University, Hamilton, and of Knox College, Toronto. He held pastorates at Corunna and Sarnia before going to Owen Sound where he has been for the past seven years.

A reception was held in the Church Hall at the close of the service. Alec Davidson, general chairman, called on different speakers for the occasion. Rev. O. L. Davidson, president of the Ministerial Association, extended a welcome to Rev. and Mrs. Adams on its behalf. Rev. T. D. F. Everett, minister of Trinity United Church, Rev. R. C. Tait, of Plymouth United Church, and Rev. J. Smith, minister of the French Protestant Church in Melbourne, also extended welcome.

George M. Dick thanked Dr. Bell for the work he has done in supplying the vacancy and Dr. Bell responded. Mr. Adams gave a short address and the ladies of the congregation served refreshments.

Resident Of Disraeli Is Injured

Rene Roy, 30, of Disraeli is resting in the Hotel Dieu this morning, following an accident last night in which he suffered a broken leg and numerous lacerations to the face.

Mr. Roy was travelling along the highway to Disraeli on his motorbike last night, when he smashed into a car coming around a bend in the road just a few miles outside the town.

Ht was brought to hospital here about 8 o'clock by ambulance and his leg was operated on this morning.

Hospital authorities report his condition as good.

Danish Newspaper Has Useful Hints For Married Life

Copenhagen —(Reuters)— Disturbed at the "iron curtain of silence between man and wife on long evenings year after year," the Danish newspaper Politiken gives these tips for restoring harmony:

1. Not enough wives read newspapers or, generally, keep themselves informed on national and world affairs. Having small children is a good excuse for this but only for the first year or so.

2. Being in love is not enough—not for a whole lifetime, anyway.

3. Husbands—and there are two parties to all marriage troubles—should help with the washing-up and general household chores so that both parties are free as soon as possible to enjoy the evening together.

4. Husbands and wives should never work in the same office together. They see too much of each other if they do.

5. A husband should try to maintain a keen interest in domestic affairs—make suggestions for meals.

6. The wife should always be neat and tidy in readiness for her husband's return.

7. The husband should not assume his wife would not understand his work problems. Husbands should tell their wives of their office worries. Maybe she can help.

8. Neither party should live for the other's interests; both should have different interests and both should be interested in each other's.

Statistics issued here add an interesting footnote to the marriage problem. Best age for a woman to marry; 25 and 30: best age for a man; 30. Most dangerous years of a marriage — the third and fifth year.

Inquest Into Weedon Mayor's Death Today

Coroner's inquest is being held this afternoon into the death of J. A. Goulet, Mayor of Weedon and local insurance agent who fell from a height of two stair flights last night in the Magog House.

He was rushed to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital by ambulance but was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mr. Goulet, who reportedly had a bad heart, took the elevator up to the third floor of the hotel where his son, Jean Claude Goulet, had a room. The elevator operator then descended to the ground floor. Three minutes later, he heard a crash, in the lobby and rushed out to discover Mr. Goulet lying in a heap and bleeding badly.

No doctors were immediately available and the ambulance was called.

No one witnessed the accident, but it is believed that this is what happened between the time Mr. Goulet left the elevator and his fall. He went to his son's room and knocked on the door. Satisfied that no one was in, he started down the stairs. At the very top of the third flight, he took a seizure, toppled over the bannister and fell straight down a height of about 22 feet.

The inquest this afternoon will decide whether the fall itself was responsible for the death.

Mr. Goulet had lived at the Magog House for the past several years.

Q.W.I. Supports Resolutions

The Quebec Women's Institutes, which are affiliated with the Montreal Council of Women, are working with that organization in supporting its action on matters of equal importance to rural as well as urban women.

To this end, resolutions will be presented at the Annual Board meeting of the Q.W.I., to be held at Macdonald College, June 26-27, as a result of recommendations made by the Council of Women to the Provincial Government on such subjects as Reciprocal Maintenance Laws, Increased Exemption for Succession Duties, and Reforms in the Protestant Women's Jail, Montreal.

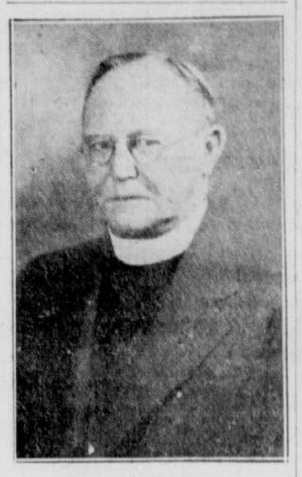
These resolutions were drafted and approved at an Executive Committee meeting of the Montreal Council of Women, and similar ac-

Testimonial Banquet Held At Magog For Rev. A. E. Tulk Who Is Retiring

Magog, June 22.—A testimonial banquet was held last night in St. Luke's Church hall for Rev. A. E. Tulk and Mrs. Tulk who are leaving Magog shortly to take up residence in Montreal.

Mr. Tulk, rector of St. Luke's Anglican church for the last eight years, is retiring.

Approximately 150 persons attended the banquet at which Archdeacon A. Jones, of Lennoxville, was the guest speaker. Archdeacon Jones reviewed the highlights of Mr. Tulk's career and spoke of his great contribution to the community.



REV. A. E. TULK

William H. McKenna, an active church worker who was chairman, introduced the guest speaker, who was thanked by Joseph Ewart.

Mrs. Margaret Dufresne presented a purse to Mr. Tulk, while a bouquet was presented to Mrs. Tulk by Miss Carol Whittier.

The banquet was organized by ladies of the three church guilds, aided by the church wardens and Mr. McKenna. During the evening two vocal selections were rendered by Miss Shirley Fields, accompanied by Mrs. David Cross.

Thanks to all those who helped make the banquet a success were expressed by Brian Patch, people's warden, who also proposed a toast to the ladies.

Rev. W. J. Rowe and Mrs. Rowe, of Coaticook, were among the guests, and Mr. Rowe, a Newfoundlander like Mr. Tulk, spoke movingly of the retiring minister.

Mr. Tulk has served 46 years in the ministry, 23 of them in Quebec dioceses. He succeeded Rev. George Atkinson at Magog eight years ago.

In his remark Mr. Tulk expressed regret that he must retire but predicted that under Rev. John Comfort, of Sherbrooke, who will be his successor, St. Luke's parish had a great future ahead of it.

tion will be taken by the Q.W.I. Board, in the hope continued and concerted action may bring about the desired results.

KEEPING IT DARK

Despite the tremendous importance of the Atlantic Pact meeting in London, none of the governments represented is actually explaining to its people that they have now all agreed to a co-operative military effort on a great scale, and that this is going to mean large bills.

From a strictly military sense, no difficulty arises. France is quite willing to concentrate on a land army; Britain agrees to provide tactical air forces and some naval power; the United States is committed to provide bombers, atomic bombs, armored forces on land and naval power; Canada is to guarantee local defence here, also important assistance against submarine and air attacks on shipping. This is all extremely sensible, and the willingness to pool military effort is very real.

The great lack is the failure to provide any clear understanding as to how this is all to be paid for. Every country in the Atlantic Pact is going to have to reduce its public expenditures in other directions, and ask sacrifices from ordinary citizens, in order to carry out the plan. But no government has ever hinted as yet that this is the case.

The United States Government has at least taken the practical step of announcing that it must continue to finance provision of arms to its allies to the extent of something more than $1,250,000,000 annually, but that is probably just the beginning of the increased costs to the United States people for military purposes. Britain is back at the point reached under Mr. Baldwin, when the nation chose a housing scheme instead of an adequate air force, thus ensuring that more houses would be destroyed in the Second World War in Britain than were built between the two wars.

The Canadian government simply does not tell Parliament or the people anything about this choice—between butter and guns.

WORST DRESSED MAN

The National Association of Retail Clothiers of the United States has reversed the usual order of things and nominated Premier Stalin of Russia as "the worst dressed man in international affairs." Photographs of Uncle Joe usually reveal him attired in a sort of blouse or smock get-up, but there is an excuse for him because he never goes out for a walk around the parks of Moscow, or mixes at social gatherings with other people.

There is one obvious reason for that. He dare not risk going outside among the masses who are said to love him so devotedly, for fear one of the devoted unimportant comrades might shoot him. So he plays safe and just rambles around the rooms of the Kremlin in any old clothes.

Nevertheless, if he were to get some natty togs and smarten himself to look like Anthony Eden, it would give a lift to his morale. It might even reorientate his distorted mental processes.

To see Molotov in a sports shirt and golf shorts would be something, and Vishinsky in a pork-pie hat and zoot suit might be the envy of the politburo.

But if Anna Pauker, the woman boss in Romania, were to appear in public with a form-fitting sweater and bobby sox, it might be enough to start a rebellion by the underground that would spread like wildfire and destroy the Communist regime.

A COUNTRY OF EMPLOYEES

The trend toward greater dependence on government and a decline in individual enterprise is explained in no small measure by the reduction over the past century in the number of self-employed, the Fort Erie Times-Review believes.

Prof. Sumner Slichter, of Harvard University, points out that one hundred years ago more than one-half of the working population were working for themselves. Now less than one in five is his own boss.

Referring specifically to the United States, but in a statement that also reflects the situation in Canada, Prof. Slichter continues:

"We are a country of employees. The number of skilled workers in proportion to our population is dropping while the number of professional people is growing ten to fourteen times faster than the labor force.

If this trend is to continue and if workers are not given a greater sense of management responsibility, the business interests which were once the leaders of thought and political action will soon take second place to organized labor."

ANOTHER DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

For several years, in co-operation with Great Britain, the United States has been trying to break through the soundproofing of the Iron Curtain. The "Voice of America" has been beamed to Russia and its satellite nations, and despite all efforts to jam it is reported to be reaching a large audience.

One official American estimate is that the "Voice" is being heard by 10,000,000 persons. Seventy transmitters in the United States and Britain carry it. Soviet Communism is using 250 transmitters in an effort to drown it out.

The Soviet fear of the "Voice" is perhaps the best evidence of its effectiveness. It tells the Russians and satellite peoples the truth about matters that are wilfully distorted by Soviet propaganda, hence its unpopularity with Kremlin officialdom.

It may be that the estimate of 10,000,000 listeners is high. Yet, if only 1,000,000 are being reached, the Russian gag is to that extent being frustrated. It adds up to another cold war victory on our side.

Press Comment

ECONOMICS OF DEFENCE
St. Thomas Times-Journal

The United States defence expenditure during the current financial year is placed at $13,000,000,000 and will have to be continued for two years more. That makes about $50,000,000,000—an appalling amount to have to spend to prevent war, but it is much cheaper than war itself. In short, the United States believes in the principle that preparedness for war is the best guarantee of peace.

At the same time a lot of Americans are asking how their country can finance that preparedness and at the same time reduce their tariffs as they are being asked to do, so as to allow the European countries to sell more goods to the United States and earn dollars with which to pay for American imports. That step will not be taken for some time, and President Truman has appointed two economic experts to go into the matter and see how much the United States can afford to buy from other countries and siill finance their defence.

BELGIANS STILL SHARPLY DIVIDED
Stratford Beacon-Herald

If, as reported in royal household circles in Brussels, King Leopold of the Belgians is "very satisfied" with the result of the latest election, probably most of the people feel more confused than happy. True, the Social Christian (Catholic) Party holds a bare majority of seats in both Houses of Parliament—and that party in staunchly behind the exiled king in his persistent effort to win his way back to the throne. But the sharp and almost even division of public sentiment, as expressed in the ballots marked a few days ago would appear to make impossible a safe and sufficient mandate for Leopold's return. Nevertheless, he may act upon his rather shallow support to come back to Brussels, and either delegates his powers to Prince Baudouin, or himself try to rule. The fact that there is no thought of abolishing the monarchy as an institution has a bearing, of course, in all these referendums.

RED GERMAN GOVERNMENT CEDES TERRITORY TO POLAND
Toronto Telegram

Following the example of the democracies in Western Germany, the Soviet government has transferred control in its zone of Germany from army commanders to Russian civilians. The circumstances are different in the two cases, since in the west there has been established a parliament freely elected by the people and a government responsible to the parliament, while in the east there has been set up a communist government responsible to no authority but that of Moscow.

On the day the transfer was effected, it was announced that the communist government of Eastern Germany had made an agreement with Poland by which it recognized Polish claims to German territory as far west as the Rivers Oder and Neisse, claims which have never been allowed by the western powers. At Potsdam it was agreed that the Poles should hold the territory provisionally, pending a final definition of the boundary when the four great powers came to make peace with the whole of Germany. The latest move which of course has been made at the direction of Moscow, makes an accomplished fact of what was merely a provisional arrangement. It is a high-handed action in disregard of the Potsdam agreements and of the rights of the western powers. As such, it is another indication of what is to be expected from the Soviet if negotiations on major issues are resumed.

The purpose of the move is to satisfy the Poles, who have been deprived in the east of almost half of their country, annexed by Russia. At the same time, as Poland is in Russia's grip, it extends the Soviet power to within a few miles of Berlin, while the communist government in Berlin will be the tool of the Kremlin in the capital and in the Soviet zone to the west.

AFTERMATH OF A FLOOD
Lethbridge Herald

A great many people are wrong when they believe that the worst part of a flood is over once the water begins to recede. The aftermath of floods is often greater than the actual flood itself. The mud and filth a rampaging river leaves behind often takes months to clean up. The smell stays for years.

We hope the people of Lethbridge and district realize that those who call Winnipeg and the Red River valley home, will of necessity suffer from this spring's flood for many months to come. Their need is as great now as it was two weeks ago. Their need a month from now will be as great as it is today. Their recovery from the nightmare of water and mud will be long and arduous and expensive. Whatever help they can get will receive their heartfelt appreciation.

Those in this country who can afford to help but who as yet have done nothing for the people of the Red River valley have a lesson to learn from the people of Buffalo, N.Y. The citizens of that large American metropolis, when they heard of the fires which almost completely destroyed the Quebec communities of Rimouski and Cabano raised in less than a month's time more than $500,000 in cash and supplies for those whose homes and businesses were razed. Their friendly and generous example could well be emulated by those of us who have done absolutely nothing for our thousands of fellow citizens to whom 1950 has become a year of despair and heartbreak.

8,000 To 10,000 Jews Enter Israel Each Month From Iraq

By LARRY ALLEN

Tel Aviv, Israel, June 22.—(AP)—Some of the wealthiest Jews in the world, straight out of the legendary site of the Garden of Eden, are flocking into Israel, practically "dead broke."

Jews from Iraq are arriving in Israel at the rate of 8,000 to 10,000 monthly. A total of 120,000 may come within the next 16 or 18 months. They are forced to leave behind homes and business holdings valued at hundreds of millions of dollars.

These people from the Biblical cradle of the human race arrive in Israel with about 60 pounds of personal baggage and the equivalent of about $15.

These Jews are abandoning outright or selling for virtually nothing properties built up in one of the oldest (2,600 years) and richest communities in the world. Immigration agencies have estimated the value of properties in Iraq of 30,000 Jewish families alone at 16,000,000 dinars A dinar is worth $3.10.

There are 100 families with fortunes of 150,000 dinars each; 50 families are registered with properties worth 300,000 dinars each. Much of their wealth is in homes, schools, synagogues, business properties.

Leaving this wealth behind doesn't seem to disturb the incoming Iraqi immigrant. He beams happily upon reaching Ledda airport. Some kiss the soil of Israel. Others kneel in prayer on the airfield.

All seem anxious to get here in a hurry for the Iraqi government has set a time limit on the registration for those who want to come to Israel.

It is ain unusual operation, for Israel still is technically at war with Iraq.

The Iraqis require planes loaded with Jews to clear for Nicosta, Cyprus. Then the aircraft have to turn around and fly over to Israel. It is an expensive operation, for by going first to Cyprus the planes fly a 400-mile detour.

The flow of the Iraqi Jews increases still further the tremendous job of the Israeli government in finding places for immigrants to live and provide them jobs.

WESTMINSTER REPORT

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, June 21—(AP)—Britain's depressed areas, whose bitter experiences between the first and second world wars still influence political thinking, are again a source of official concern.

Lord Lucas, parliamentary secretary of the ministry of transport, warned the other day in the House of Lords that Britain is losing the fight against unemployment in these areas, despite finding work for 200,000 persons.

The jobless in these between-the-wars black spots, now called development areas, number 144,500, or about one-half of the total unemployed in Britain as a whole.

"A disturbing factor," said Lord Lucas, "is the anticipation that this unemployment will increase."

Lord Lucas was moving second reading of a bill designed to encourage new industries in areas where they are needed most.

On a brighter note, he said that since 1945 jobs have been found in development areas for 200,000 workers and new factories have been built, or are projected, at an estimated cost of nearly £111,000,000 ($344,100,000).

Near Jarrow in Durham, one of Britain's notorious centres of unemployment during the inter-war period—books have been written about the Jarrow story—he saw 13 factories in an area which was "absolutely derelict" before the war.

Nearby, in Darlington, Lord Lucas added that he visited a wool-spinning mill which was one of the world's finest. It cost £6,000,000 to build and ultimately will employ more than 3,000 persons.

But that is only one side of the picture, he continued. Future prospects are disturbing, he told the Upper House.

Baron Bilsland said in his maiden speech in the House that unemployment in Glasgow has remained "obstinately stationary" at between 20,000 and 25,000 since 1945. Lord Adams, on the other hand, said his district of west Cumberland, once the worst-distressed area of all, has reduced the unemployment figure from 25 per cent to one per cent.

What now are called development areas include England's northeast coast, principally the industrial Tyneside Region; west Cumberland; south Wales and Monmouthshire; the industrial areas of southwest Scotland; south Lancashire and Merseyside.

All are districts whose employment has depended largely on one industry.

"PESSIMISTIC PETE" SKIPS FINESSE, WINS

"This is going to take me a couple of seconds," warned Pessimistic Pete.

"Take your time," said West. "I don't have to get to work until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning."

It was a difficult hand to make, since all of the cards in the red suits were badly placed for declarer. However, Pessimistic Pete saw a way to make his contract in spite of such bad breaks.

The opening lead had been the king of clubs, and dummy had won with the ace. Pete, playing the South hand, then drew two rounds of trumps.

The danger lay in the fact that South might lose three diamonds and one heart. This loss could be avoided if the ace of diamonds happened to be in the East hand, or if an extra heart trick could be set up in the dummy. Pete pessimistically suspected that he would find everything wrong. He therefore set about to find a way to make the contract even though luck was against him.

After some thought he cashed the ace and king of hearts, and then returned the jack of clubs from dummy. On this card he discarded his remaining low heart.

West was obliged to win the trick with the queen of clubs — precisely as Pete had planned. And there was now no way for West to defeat the contract. If West returned another club, dummy could ruff while South discarded a diamond.

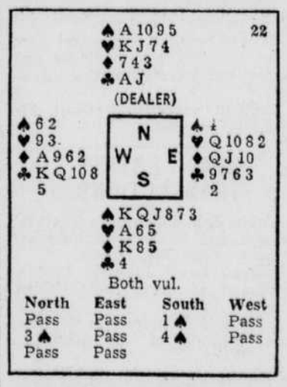
West actually returned a diamond, hoping to collect three tricks in the suit. This lead, however, permitted South to win a trick with the king of diamonds.

The point of discarding the heart was that Pete was safe even if West had held more hearts. When West took the queen of clubs, only the queen and ten of hearts were out, and South was safe no matter who held these cards.

If West could lead the queen of hearts, South could ruff at once. Later on he would discard a diamond on the jack of hearts.

If West could lead the ten of hearts, South would play dummy's jack. That would either win at once or would bring out the queen. In the latter case South would ruff and would later get a discard on dummy's established seven of hearts.

It is important to note that Pete would have lost his contract by taking the "normal" finesse in hearts. East would win and return the queen of diamonds. This would yield four defensive tricks in all.



Questions and Answers

Q—What is a representative-at-large?

A—This term is applied to a representative in Congress selected by the voters of the entire state instead of by the voters of a specific district within a state. Representatives-at-large are selected in this manner when the state fails to redistrict after an apportionment of representatives following a decennial census.

The Record Short Story

They're All Alike

By CONSTANCE CLARKE GREENE

Everybody said old Grandpa Fowlkes wouldn't last out the Winter. And it was a long, cold one, too. The worst in years. The wind blew the drifts as high as 10 feet, and the ground was frozen solid from October to April. It was a lucky thing they got old Grandma Fowlkes in before the big freeze came.

That's why they said he wouldn't last. Grandma died in September, just before the first frost came and when the trees were the prettiest. Pepole had been expecting her to go right along. She was such a thin, brittle little woman. Sort of bird-like. Tiny, maybe no more than five feet tall. Her hands and feet were real little and skinny and fluttery. And her eyes darted here and there and were restless and watchful, like a bird's.

But Grandpa thought the world of her. Everyone said there wasn't anything he wouldn't do for her. She was not strong, and if she asked for anything she as good as had it. It was real nice to see them together. He'd take her arm and help her up and down the curbs in town and handed her into the car like she some piece of china. All the women sort of envied her, though they sniffed and said, "Rather be treated like a human being than something up on a shelf."

Grandma Fowlkes never mixed with the older women. One reason, she never had children. Too delicate, the doctor said. That was too bad, because Grandpa Fowlkes was fond of little ones. Used to take a couple to the fair every year and buy all kinds of stuff to eat that made them sick. Their mothers didn't like that much, but they figured if it gave him and the kids a pleasure, why, once a year wouldn't hurt.

The Fowlkes lived out of town a ways. When people were asked to their house, which wasn't often, why, it was neat as a pin and sort of empty-looking. But Grandpa made good whisky, and that always made a party a party, so after awhile, when they got used to Grandma, sitting and rocking and not saying much, they had a good enough time. They forgot she was there.

Grandma and Grandpa Fowlkes were the kind of people you just couldn't imagine being not married. It seemed as if they had never had a life before the wedding ceremony. They weren't town people. Came from the next county and none knew how long they'd been married or how old they were. Some of the women had edged around and tried to find out from Grandma what year she was born, but she was too smart for them. Just looked over their heads dreamy-like and pretended she didn't hear.

That made the women mad because they liked to have all the facts straight. It didn't seem exactly right not to know how old your neighbors were, they said among themselves. They guessed them to be pretty much of an age, say around seventy or so, but it was hard to tell.

She took sick along about the middle of August. It was terrible hot, and the flies were awful that year. Doc Grant didn't seem to know what the trouble was.

"Just old age," he muttered, and the women thought how mad that would make Grandma if she could hear. She just sort of withered and waned and soon she wasn't there any more. They had a big funeral, and everyone turned out. Everyone always turned out for a funeral. That and weddings were just about the biggest things to happen in the town.

Everyone looked sad at Grandpa and told him they were sorry and some of the women wept a little. It was a real nice funeral, and the weather was good that day. Everyone said how lucky it was she died before the first frost.

People kept looking at Grandpa and saying he wouldn't last long now. Not with his wife gone. The poor old man had nothing left to stay around for. Too bad they never had any youngsters. They sort of kept people going after they were old.

But Grandpa stayed on at the farm and didn't seem to suffer any, although some people said they thought he looked mighty peaked. Mrs. Caspar, down by the river, even made up a kettle of her famous chicken soup and took it over to him, to hold him off from the grave a little longer. He thanked her and returned the kettle all nice and shined up a few days later, but outside of that people just didn't see him around much at all.

When the sky got thick and gray and mean looking, why, everyone knew that meant a long hard Winter. They thought about old Grandpa Fowlkes, alone with nothing but his memories and they felt real sorry for him. A few of the neighbors got together and went over to pay him a call one Sunday before the snow came. They planned to ask him to stay with them a couple of weeks during the worst weather. But he wasn't home. At first when no one answered their knocking, they looked at each other and they all thought, the poor old man's gone at last. Couldn't stand it without Grandma to look out for.

But when they walked in the house to find him, he wasn't there. The place didn't look as neat as when Grandma was alive, but it looked pretty good. There was food in the cupboard and crumbs on the kitchen table. He had been here a short time ago. They couldn't figure out where he'd get to but as long as they couldn't find the body, they figured he must be all right.

Later on, Jim McCall said he saw Grandpa in the restaurant in town having a cup of coffee and talking a blue streak to the girl behind the counter. He went in and sat a while with Grandpa and said he seemed right smart and chipper. Looked good, like he'd been eating regular. He said to his wife that night, "Don't look like we're going to have a funeral for Grandpa right away, Tess. The old man sure is keeping up good without Grandma."

Tess McCall told everyone about Jim's seeing Grandpa and, to tell the truth, some of the woman were a little put out. They didn't think Grandpa ought to get out and around so soon. Even though they hadn't liked the old lady very much, they thought it proper for a man to be sorrowful for a long time. But then, they reasoned, lots of people hide their feelings and inside he was probably cut up something bad.

One night Jim was going by Grandpa's house when the old man called out to him to come in and have a nip, for the night was cold and windy. Inside was warm and cozy. Grandpa was in his rocking chair by the fire. Jim was stamping the snow off his big boots when Grandpa said, quiet, "Meet the wife."

Well, Jim thought Grandpa was pulling his leg. It was the woman from the restaurant down town. Big and blonde and—well—womanly. Then he knew it was so. She shook hands and smiled and didn't saw much. She brought the jug and then threw a log on the fire. Grandpa creaked in his old chair and his gnarled old hands whistled contentedly as he rubbed them together.

Jim told Tess first thing when he got home. He figured it'd set her up to be the one to tell the other women. She clamped her hat dead center on her head and told him to feed the children, she'd be home when she got there.

Much later that night, Tess got back, exhausted, her eyes shining with unaccustomed excitement.

"Humph," she sniffed as Jim turned off the light. "It's like I always say. You can't trust any man. They're never too old for foolishness." And the look she shot at Jim was suddenly suspicious. "You're all alike."

THE END.

Tractors Don't Eliminate Need For Horses

"The ever-increasing performance and efficiency of the tractor during the first part of this century does not mean that in the near future the horse will have disappeared as a factor of importance in world agriculture," says an editorial of "World Crops," a magazine published in Great Britain and distributed throughout the world.

According to this article, there is no reason to believe, as some prophets do, that the horse "will survive merely as an instrument for sport and recreation, a charming relic of a bygone age." On the contrary, writes the editorialist, the horse has, and will continue to have, a definite part to play in the farm economy for many years to come and, indeed, indefinitely. It will supplement the work of the machine and their roles are complementary, a sort of symbiosis, in fact.

Point is given to this in a recent circular of the British Ministry of Agriculture which describes the alarming decline in the number of farm horses during the past decade. The circular stresses the fact that tractors have to depend on imported fuel oil, while the horse "proceeds under its own stream generated by home-grown food."

"Even assuming that adequate supplies of tractors, spare parts and fuel can be relied upon," says the writer of 'World Crops,' "there are still many occasions when the horse can be more suitably employed than the tractor. Smaller farms with, say 100 to 125 acres of arable land possessing only one tractor will almost certainly require two horses at least."

The editorial goes on to point out that the tractor is particularly valuable for getting heavy work done quickly, but numerous light jobs are more cheaply and efficiently done by horses, especially when conditions are wet owing to the lower compressive effect of the horse. In some conditions, "the value of the draft animal as a source of supply or organic manure has to be taken into account."

"It is not really a question of competition between the animal and the tractor, concludes the editorialist, but rather one of deciding the conditions under which each can be used to the best advantage. They are, in fact, complementary and not competitive."

Directors Of First Church Address Group

Boston, June 22. — Vast new evidences of the power of pure Christianity to solve mankind's problems in modern times were reported by The Christian Science Board of Directors.

Addressing a gathering of nearly 7,500 Christian Scientists at the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, in Boston, the directors declared that healing of sickness, "release and enrichment" — a full answer to human trouble—awaits all mankind through the utilizing of spiritual power.

Emphasizing "the meaning of pure Christianity" for the present age, the directors pointed to concrete evidence that spiritual power can be utilized to heal disease, enlarge individual capacity, provide "sure guidance," uncover hidden resources, and provide without message "the precise good that is needed" by every individual in every human circumstance.

Their message, read by Thomas E. Hurley, retiring First Reader of The Mother Church, highlighted a session at which progress was reported in many Christian Science activities. A report of healings of serious diseases by Christian Science, compiled from many countries, was read. The directors reported that a "marvelous new effectiveness" in the practice of Christianity is resulting today from the "scientific understanding" of its meaning.

In referring to substantial growth during the past year in the number of Christian Science churches and the ranks of the denomination, the directors added: "The healing work of Christian Science, always the best barometer of growth in the movement, was never of better quality or on a larger scale than in the last year."

The audience filled three auditoriums in The Mother Church edifices as well as a nearby theatre. Adherents traveled from every state in the union and from Europe, Asia, Australia, and other distant points, to attend.

Throughout the main session ran the theme of the validity and power of Christianity to answer the problems of the modern age. Watler S. Cross of Fitchburg, Mass., Christian Science practitioner and incoming President of The Mother Church, declared in his keynote address:

"Men need a deeper understanding of God and His laws in order to cope with the present-day chaos and confusion in world affairs . . . There is an answer to the mesmeric doctrines of tyranny and mental domination which would spread terrorism over large areas of the globe. The answer lies in the spiritual realm, and is available now."

Steady progress was recorded in reports of various Christian Science activities. George Channing, Manager of Committees on Publication, reported that insurance companies and state laws in growing number recognize the validity of Christian Science treatment, and the right of Christian Scientists to practice their religion by relying wholly upon prayer for physical healing.

In referring to Camp Welfare activities of the church, Gordon V. Comer, Clerk of The Mother Church, mentioned the healing within one week of a veteran, suffering from paralysis, who had not walked for 8 years and had not talked for 20 years.

Reporting for the Trustees of The Christian Science Publishing Society, John H. Hoagland, Manager, said circulation of The Christian Science Monitor and of the denomination's weekly, monthly, and quarterly religious periodicals had in the past year "reached the highest levels since their founding." He reported an "increasing volume of healing testimonies" volunteered by persons restored to health by Christian Science.

The church does not publish membership figures, but the directors reported that in each year since 1902, the net gain in membership has exceeded the gain of 2,784 reported for that year by Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science. In each of the last 40 years, including the one just past, the gain "has been several times as large," they stated. They reported a net gain of 38 Christian Science churches in the past year, bringing the total to more than 3,000.

Agricultural Scientists To Visit Canada

Headed by Sir William Ogg, director of the experimental station at Rothamsted, England, and consultant director of the Commonwealth Bureau of Soil Science, a party of six eminent United Kingdom agricultural scientists and administrators will tour Canada this summer as guests of the Canadian Department of Agriculture.

Scheduled to land at Quebec June 27, the party will be accompanied by Dr. W. F. Darke, agricultural secretary to the U.K. High Commissioner in Canada, across the country and back until they leave Montreal August 24.

This is a return call for the visit of Canadian agricultural scientists to the U.K. last year and is part of a postwar movement towards the vital and continuous interchange of ideas related to the scientific and organizational aspects of agriculture.

Besides Sir William Ogg, the party will include Dr. D. P. Cuthbertson, director of the Rowett Research Institute, Aberdeen; Professor W. H. Ellison, University College of Wales, Aberystwyth; J. H. Anderson, National Agricultural Advisory Service, Cambridge; W. H. Senior, assistant director of education and research of the Department of Agriculture, Scotland; Professor Ewen M'Ewen, University of Durham.

During their tour of Canada they will study the most recent developments in Canadian agriculture and visit the most outstanding agricultural institutions of this country. For instance, their itinerary includes an airplane trip over Prince Edward Island from Charlottetown, guests of the provincial government, and an extended tour of the great St. Mary's dam and canal system from Lethbridge. They will also visit representative farms from coast to coast, manufacturing and packing plants, experimental farms and stations, universities and agricultural colleges, provincial and federal government buildings, offices and personnel.

Bang's Disease Survey Conducted

Canadian stock owners are showing an increasing interest in the Department of Agriculture's Brucellosis-Free Listed Herd Policy, and recent figures released by officials of the Health of Animals Division show that there are 4,225 herds under supervision, of which 1,960 are listed as Brucellosis-free.

DISINFECTION OF AIRCRAFT

A new section dealing with the use, cleansing and disinfection of aircraft used for the transportation of animals has been added by Order-in-Council to the Animal Contagious Disease Regulations Act.

GILTS AND BARROWS COMPARED

In Alberta, Production Service officials of Canada's Department of Agriculture have made preliminary comparative scores of sides from gilts and barrows and the average score for females was 80 compared to 66 for males.

GERMINATION TROUBLE

Seed Testing Laboratories of Canada's Department of Agriculture in Alberta, report the most difficult germination season this year on record, many cars that gave good readings on first inspection proving unsatisfactory when re-examined at a later date.

B.C. OATS FOR ALBERTA

Two carloads of commercial seed oats grown in B.C. were shipped this year to Edmonton, probably the first time that this province has made such a shipment to Alberta, according to Production Service, Canada Department of Agriculture.

Some miners will be absorbed at the mine in Luscar which is still operating or new mines at Forestburg.

The mine management said water and electricity will be supplied to homes for a few days.

All the towns are in the Coal Branch, area, 200 miles southwest of Edmonton.

Grass Silage For Dairy Cattle Suggested

A cow producing upwards of 30 pounds of milk per day can eat enough grass to supply all her needs, provided the grass is available. It is the long period of barn feeding that takes the joy out of dairying. If pasture could be transplanted into the barn for the winter a considerable saving in feed costs would result. But well-made grass silage will give almost the same result, states J. S. Leefe, senior agronomist, Experimental Station, Kentville, N.S.

Grass silage made from grass legume mixtures, cut from eight to twelve inches high, will be close to the original herbage in feeding value. It will be superior to the best field-cured hay made from the same material.

Grass silage can be made in upright or trench silos and from long or chopped grass. The cost of harvesting and storing should not be greater than that of harvesting and storing the same amount of dry matter as hay. Every dairy farmer should make and feed some grass silage. Besides being excellent feed, it is a "must" in any sound grassland program. Grass for silage can be cut early while it is most nutritious. This allows taking a second crop for pasture, silage or hay.

Although expensive field choppers are available for making large quantities of silage quickly, silage can be made with no more equipment than that required to harvest hay. For details the nearest Experimental Farm or the local agricultural representative should be consulted.

Roosevelt's Cousin In British Politics

London, —(Reuters)— A British cousin of the late President Roosevelt, Oxford-educated Sir Humphrey Orme Clarke, has been chosen as Conservative candidate in the London borough of South Hammersmith.

It will be his first attempt at politics, although he has tried his hand at banking, a diplomatic career, business and gentleman-farming.

The 44-year-old Baronet—fifth in a line dating back 120 years—is six-feet-four inches tall.

He has been married three times, and the heir to the Barontecy is his elder son, 10-year-old Charles, by his American second wife Elisabeth, daughter of Dr. W. A. Cook, of Santa Barbara, Calif.

Sir Humphrey's mother was Elfrida Roosevelt, daughter of Alfred Roosevelt, of New York.

Before the war, Sir Humphrey worked in the family banking firm in New York. From 1940 to 1944, he was a secretary at the British embassy in Washington, and he then spent two years in the British foreign office here.

Now he has private business interests and runs his own farm in Gloucestershire.

His job as Tory candidate in South Hammersmith will be tough. In last February's elections, Labor won the seat with a majority of 2,600.

Romney Marsh Court Flouts Old Custom

Romney Marsh, Kent, England, June 22.—(AP)—The court of Romney Marsh, elected by the people every year, held a session outside its ancient courtroom for the first time in its 500-year existence.

Members visited a nearby amusement park to hear a record player which residents claimed was too noisy.

The court, after listening to "The Merry Widow" and "You Are My Heart's Delight," decided to grant a licence for the player if the park management guaranteed to keep it toned down.

P. F. B. Urges Experiments Be Continued

A closer integration and a still wider use of experimental work with fertilizers was advocated yesterday at the opening session of a two-day meeting of the Provincial Fertilizer Boards of Eastern Canada. The meeting, held at the Horticulture Building of the Central Experimental Farm under the chairmanship of G. S. Peart, Associate Director of Production Service of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, was attended by representatives of federal and provincial governments and the fertilizer trade.

In spite of all the work done during the last twenty years in improving fertilizer use and in spite of the fair measure of co-operation arrived at in each province on the matter, most of the delegates were favourable to a pattern which would co-ordinate the experiments made by the Experimental Farms, Agricultural Colleges and the Universities on fertilizers in order to have a complete picture of the work done for use as a background in recommending fertilizer mixtures still better adapted to the needs of the soils and plants as well as to the economic position of the farmer.

The discussion on the subject followed an address delivered by Dr. E. S. Hopkins, Associate Director of the Experimental Farms Service. Dr. Hopkins enumerated the many bases used in making fertilizer recommendations such as the types of soils, the needs of various plants, the requirements of the climate, the price level, but emphasized the fact that more and more the research work done at the Experimental Farms and Agricultural Colleges was a precious source of information at the disposal of and used by fertilizer specialists and farmers.

Tracing back to 1888 the first experiments made on fertilization, Dr. Hopkins stated that the work done in the past should not be overlooked and presented a few suggestions for the future. These suggestions included, as mentioned before, better co-ordination of the soil fertility programs; wider use of experimental work; better quality in the experiments; the results publicized more efficiently; recommendations in harmony with various types of farming and the possibility of encouraging farmers to establish some experiments of their own based on work done at their nearest Experimental Farm. Fertilizers, he said, are one medium for improving the fertility of soil but due emphasis should be given to others such as manure, green fertilizers, crop rotation, drainage and irrigation,

British Weavers Need New Methods

London, June 22. —(Reuters)— Weavers in Britain's famous Lancashire cotton mills were told yesterday that their traditional skill is no match for the modern methods of United States mills.

A team of 13 representatives of the weaving industry, reporting on a tour of American mills sponsored by the Anglo-American council on productivity, reported unanimously that Lancashire needs new machinery and fewer prejudices.

"The most striking difference between American and British mills in productivity in weaving is attributable to the wide use of automatic looms in America," the team's report added.

It pleaded for a re-examination of the relative merits of the American automatic looms and the traditional Lancashire looms.

"We feel it to be vital for the future of cotton weaving in Britain that old prejudices should be cast aside and the problem reconsidered on the basis of the facts we present," it said.

The team reported it had seen weaving being done in the United States with more than 90 per cent efficiency and 104 looms a weaver. Few firms in Britain would weave the same type of cloths at more than eight non-automatic looms a weaver and 85 per cent efficiency, it stated.

DEATHS

BAILEY — Suddenly at his late residence, 64 Portland Avenue, on Tuesday, June 20th, 1950, Edward A. Bailey, beloved husband of Helen Learned, in his 68th year. The Doctor Says:

SEVERAL CURES MAY BE USED IN GETTING RID OF PSORIASIS

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Psoriasis is one of the most common skin diseases. It is usually harmless so far as life or general health is concerned, but is disfiguring in many cases. Only a small part of the skin may be affected or it may cover almost all of body surface.

Dr. Jordan

The most common locations are at the elbows, knees, scalp and lower back. The eruption may begin suddenly or it may start with only a few spots on scattered parts of the body.

The affected area is usually bright red, scaly, and flat. There is a sharp line between the involved skin and that which appears completely normal. Psoriasis may gradually spread or stay in the same spot.

Itching is unusual in the chronic cases which are the more common; in the acute cases, however, itching is frequent. The skin which has been involved for a long time usually becomes covered with a thick scale, and if this is all removed by scraping, tiny bleeding points appear underneath.

Unfortunately, like so many other diseases of the skin, the caust of psoriasis is not known. Members of the same family often have psoriasis, however, so that the family tendency.

There are a good many treatments which have been tried which seem to bring about good results at least temporarily. In fact, psoriasis is one of those diseases for which several new treatments are reported almost every year. A large number of these have stood the test of time and therefore one should be extremely cautious about accepting the value of any new remedy for psoriasis.

The most commonly used methods for which many skin specialists throughout the world have reported good results are coal tar ointment, an ointment called anthraline, exposure to ultraviolet rays, and occasionally X-ray therapy.

Chronic Form

In many cases of chronic psoriasis, good results may come from any one of the different treatments, the psoriasis goes away and later returns. When the same treatment which produced good results the first time is tried again, nothing may come of it and a new method has to be attempted.

For these reasons, psoriasis is often an extremely discouraging thing for patient and doctor alike.

Miss Marthe Emond, a July bride-to-be, was guest of honor on Monday evening at a cup and saucer shower, given by Miss Antoinette Linahen, at her residence, Main Street, Richmond.

The party was an informal get-together of the intimate friends and co-workers at the Richmond Court House, of the bride-elect.

Following the presentation of the gifts to Miss Emond, the guests were invited by Miss Pauline Linahen to the dining-room, which was adorned with a profusion of spring flowers, the fragrance and color of which enhanced the occasion.

The table was covered with an exquisite ecru lace cloth and centered with pale pink flowers in a silver basket, compassed with matching candles in silver holders. Refreshments were served by the Misses Linahen and Miss Joycelyn Leblanc.

MARRIAGES

RAPLEY—HOWELL

Westmount, June 22.—The marriage of Catherine Joyce Curran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Howell, of Westmount, to Mr. John Kenneth Rapley, son of the late Winfield P. Rapley and of Mrs. Rapley, of Montreal, and formerly of Sherbrooke, took place Saturday afternoon, June 17, at three o'clock, in St. Matthias' Church, Westmount, the Rev. Canon Gilbert Oliver officiating. Mr. Eustace Tait played the wedding music. White peonies and snapdragons arranged with greenery and palms, were used to decorate, the pews reserved for guests being marked with sprays of peonies tied with white tulle bows.

Mr. Howell gave his daughter away and she was attended by Mrs. J. Rhys Floud, as matron-of-honor, Miss Patricia Ramsey, as bridesmaid, and little Miss Jane Floud, as flower-girl. Mr. Peter Graham acted as best man for Mr. Rapley and the ushers were Mr. Alfred Howell, the bride's brother, Mr. David Casgrain and Mr. Bruce Reid.

The bride was in a gown of gardenia white faille, the fitted bodice, fastened up the front with tiny buttons, having a high neckline, and the skirt fashioned of unpressed pleats, draped into a bustle at the back, falling into a long train. Her veil of tulle illusion, extending to the hem of her train, was held by a coronet of Bourdon lace embroidered with pearls and crystal beads and she carried a cascade bouquet of lily-of-the-valley and stephanotis. Her only ornament was an heirloom brooch.

The attendants were in frocks of white organza over matching taffeta with fitted bodices having off-the-shoulder necklines and bouffant skirts. The matron-of-honor's frock had a sash of ice blue satin and she wore a picture hat of white organza with an ice blue rose fastened under the brim; the bridesmaid wore a sash of aqua satin and had an aqua rose fastened under the brim of her organza picture hat.

The little flower-girl was in a bouffant frock of white organza, trimmed with Bourdon lace, with a sash of blossom pink slipper satin. She wore an organza bonnet with blosson pink streamers and carried a pink basket of Pinnochio roses.

Mrs. Howell, the bride's mother, was in a floor-length gown of Wedgwood blue crepe romaine and wore a matching hat, navy blue accessories and a corsage bouquet of Bountiful roses.

Mrs. Rapley, mother of the bridegroom, wore an ankle-length gown of navy blue taffeta organza with a matching hat and accessories and a corsage bouquet of orchids and lily-of-the-valley.

The reception was held at the Montreal Badminton and Squash Club, where the bride's table, centered with the wedding cake, was arranged with white stocks and lily-of-the-valley and white candles in candelabra.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Rapley left by motor for Lake Placid, New York and Connecticut, the bride travelling in a suit of navy blue shantung and white pique, and wearing a matching hat, red kid accessories and a corsage bouquet of red and white carnations.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. Kenneth Jones, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Burley, Miss Bernice Burley, Miss Ruth Burley, and Mrs. J. A. C. Kemp, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar S. Edwards, of New Canaan, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Welsh, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Robins and Mrs. Gordon Hume, of Sherbrooke; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Mordy, Mr. Brock Mordy and Mr. Alan Mordy, of Ottawa, and Miss Charlotte Rapley, of Strathroy, Ont.

PARTCH—LIBBY

Waterloo, June 22.—A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon, May 31, at half-past two o'clock at St. Paul's United Church, Waterloo, Que., when Laura Irene, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Partch, was united in marriage to W O 2 D. W. Libby, son of Mrs. Libby and the late Carmi Libby, of Brome. Rev. E. D. Mitchell officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a light navy gabardine suit, with a blue hat and matching accessories, and she wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Gerald Campbell, of Waterloo, was matron of honor for her sister, and she wore a rose wool suit with black and white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. Gerald Campbell acted as best man.

After the ceremony a buffet lunch was served by the bride's sister, Mrs. Campbell, at her home on Main Street, Waterloo. Only the immediate families and Rev. E. D. Mitchell attended. The dining room was decorated in white and a wedding bell was suspended over the bride's table, which was centered with the wedding cake.

Later the newly-weds left by motor for a wedding trip. They will reside for the present in Picton, Ont.

STANBRIDGE RIDGE

Mrs. H. A. Douglas has been ill with the grippe.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sager and Miss Carol Sager were guests of Mrs. Corey and Mrs. Fairfield, in Stanbridge East, the occasion was in honour of Mrs. Corey's eighty-second birthday.

Several from here attended a Farm Forum Dance at Frelighsburg.

Mrs. Frank Corey, Miss Jeane Corey, Miss Lois Baker and Miss Carol Sager assisted in serving a turkey supper, put on by the Stanbridge East Ladies' Aid, at the Masonic Hall for visiting brethren.

Mrs. Archie Sager accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Baker and children and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cook, to St. Johns.

Word was received by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vaughan that their young grandson, little Bobby Davis, of Richford, Vt., underwent an operation for mastoid trouble, in the St. Albans, Vt., Hospital.

Several of the local young people attended a ball game at Cowansville.

Miss Jeane Corey was an overnight guest at the Sornberger home.

Mrs. Lester Stolliker, of Stanbridge East, spent a short time at the Frank Corey home.

DRAPER'S CORNER

Master Wayne and Miss Nancy Lavallee, of the Brompton Road, have returned home, after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Draper.

Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Roland Campbell and Miss Linda to Melbourne, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Deacon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Todd, of Compton, spent an evening with Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Allison.

Mr. William Skuse, of Danville, and Miss Violet Skuse, of King's Hall, Compton, were Sunday guests of Mrs. James Skuse.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Allison were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hughes one evening.

DOROTHY DIX

Grafting Teen-Ager

Girl Demands Expensive Gifts From Schoolboy

Dear Miss Dix: We have a son who will be 17 next month. He goes with a girl who is also going to have a birthday during that month. The girl started a campaign for a diamond ring right after Christmas and my son insists he is going to get her one, which is absurb, considering that we are in very moderate circumstances. What can be done when Son threatens to join the navy, quit school or do something equally ridiculous when he is denied anything he wants? How can we impress upon him the necessity of his pursuing his high school course without buying his girl whatever she demands? She already has his watch as well as numerous articles of less value.

WORRIED MOTHER

DOROTHY DIX

Answer: It seems to me that you have a couple of hold-up artists to deal with and that the thing to do is to call their bluff. The girl is holding up your son for a diamond ring and everything else she can get out of him by making her favor the price of his standing and delivering, and your son is holding up you and his father by threatening to leave school and join the navy if you don't give him what he asks. That, incidentally, would be a good thing for him, for he sadly needs the discipline that he would get in the service, and to be delivered out of the hands of the little grafter for whom he has fallen.

DON'T PAY FOR RING

Of course, you cannot do anything with the girl except indirectly to block her game, but you can certainly stop the boy's giving her a diamond ring by refusing to pay for it. It takes money to buy jewelry, and if you absolutely refuse to supply it you will automatically save your boy from his folly, for no merchant will be silly enough to sell a schoolboy without a job a diamond ring if he knows that his parents will not pay for it.

Have a heart, but also have a backbone in dealing with him, and don't be moved by his raving nor by his threats of the direful things he is going to do. He won't do them and, oh, how grateful he will be to you for teaching him early in life how little worth the price are bought kisses and the affection that has to be continually stimulated with gifts.

And, if by refusing to give your son the money to buy a ring for his grasping sweetheart you can make her throw him over for some boy who is better off, you will have done him a favor that he can never repay.

Dear Miss Dix: My husband and I have been married nine years and have one child. I was a very pretty girl and he was much in love with me when we were married, and we were very happy for the first year. I am a good cook and housekeeper and very affectionate, but our trouble is that I have very little education. Don't like to read, while my husband is a brilliant man, has a college degree and a wonderful position. Now he is tired of me, never speaks to me except to tell me how dumb I am. He has no affection for me, for the physical attraction is gone. Tell men to marry in their own class and not break some poor girl's heart by marrying her and then being ashamed of her.

A WOMAN WHO KNOWS

Answer: When we speak of a man who has outgrown his wife, our sympathy is always for the man who has lost touch with his wife because he has gone forward while she has stayed put. But if we have tears to shed, the one whom we should bedew with them is the outgrown wife, the woman who has lost the little hold upon her husband that her physical appeal once gave her, the woman who knows that her husband is tired of her and ashamed of her, not because of anything that she has done, but because she is just as God made her and as she was at the time that he picked her out for a wife.

The man who marries a girl who is his intellectual inferior just because he is temporarily caught by her pretty face does her a greater wrong than he does himself. He ruins her life more completely than he does his own. For the time comes when her face loses its prettiness and her youth is gone and he turns to women of his own class for companionship. Then none so poor and none to be so pitied as the lonely, dumb wife who could have been so happy married to some man on her own intellectual level, who would have had the same things that she does.

Dear Miss Dix: It has been said that every woman is some man's rib. Do you believe that for every man there is a special woman who was meant to be that man's mate? JOHN

Answer: Probably, but if so few men find them. The tragedy of the world is the mismated, the good men and woman who guessed wrong about their ribs and who would be such good husbands and wives to the right mates and are such poor husbands and wives to the wrong ones.

Granby Protestant School Board Has Accepted Tender For New School

Granby, June 22. — The building of the new High School for Granby will begin at once. A tender for the work having been accepted from Sherbrooke, by the Protestant School Board.

The present school is comprised of three sections, the oldest of which was built in 1890.

In 1910, through the generosity of the late Mrs. S. H. C. Miner, the "Clara Miner Annex" was built, and the newest addition, which consists of the gymnasium, three class rooms and the principal's office was built in 1941.

The proposed construction will demolish entirely the oldest part of the present buildings, that section which faces Ottawa Street and the rear part of the building, known as the "Clara Miner Annex" will be demolished to the ground floor only, salvaging the basement, including the boys and girls showers and the manuel training class room.

The new foundation will continue in an easterly direction from the gymnasium building to Lorne Avenue. The salvage of the basement of the Miner Annex will represent a saving of $30,000, and the gymnasium is valued at $50.-000.

While several tenders were received the firm of R. E. Stewart Construction Corporation, of Sherbrooke, was accepted with their bid of $178,760.

In order to finance this construction, the Protestant School Board was successful in obtaining a loan at the most advantageous rate of any loan thus far this year in the Province of Quebec.

Construction on the new school is expected to commence during the week of June 19 and is expected to be ready for occupancy by September, 1951.

CONVENTION OF QUEBEC POSTMASTERS

Upwards of 150 Postmasters attended the annual convention of the Quebec Branch of the Canadian Postmasters' Association, held in Granby this week.

The general headquarters were at the Granby Hotel, and the sessions were held at the Granby City Hall.

On the first day, Mr. J. E. Champoux, president of the Association, gave the address of welcome, His Worship Mayor P. H. Boivin added a note of welcome, also and Mr. P. E. Lortie, local postmaster, thanked the speakers and gave an outline of the program.

In the afternoon, the guests were conducted on a tour of the city and the directors were invited to drop a line in the pond at Victoria Park, where fish abound.

Upon their return to the City Hall, a civic reception was held, and representative heads were asked to sign the 'Golden Book."

A concert dinner was held at the Windsor Hotel in the evening, at which 115 guests were present.

The highlights of the program on Tuesday were addresses by Mr. Albert Gagnon, director of Postal Service; Mr. J. M. Ferris, secretary; and Mr. C. A. Marcoux, inspector of the Montreal Postal District.

While the men were in session, the ladies were invited to visit several of the local industries and were otherwise entertained.

On Tuesday evening a complimentary dinner was tendered to the delegates by the T. Eaton Company Limited, and the Robert Simpson Eastern Limited, at the Granby Hotel, at which Mayor P. H. Boivin was the guest speaker.

C. P. R. Regional Vice-Presidents Are Changed

Montreal, June 21.—Transfer affecting vice-presidents of the Canadian Pacific Railway's three regions across Canada were announced here by N. R. Crump, the vice-president of the company, to take effect July 1.

D. S. Thomson, vice-president of the eastern region, Toronto, becomes vice-president of the prairie region, Winnipeg; William Manson, vice-president at Winnipeg goes to the Pacific region, Vancouver, and George H. Baillie, vice-president at Vancouver, moves to Toronto to take over the eastern region.

D. S. THOMSON

All of D. S. Thomson's 40 years with the C.P.R. have been spent in the east, and his new Winnipeg appointment marks his first western service. Joining the C.P.R. as a clerk at Montreal in 1910 he gained experience as assistant superintendent at Smiths Falls,

W. MANSON

Sudbury and Toronto and later as superintendent at Toronto and Brownville, Maine. Mr. Thomson was appointed general superintendent of the Ontario district at Toronto in 1944, assistant general manager of eastern lines in January, 1947, became general manager eight months later, and in April, 1948, was named vice-president of the eastern region.

A westerner by birth, William Manson started in the transportation department at Winnipeg in 1909, and in that service travelled extensively throughout the west. He was appointed an assistant superintendent at Weyburn, Sask., in 1926, and held that position at Lethbridge, Alta., and Winnipeg terminals. Appointed superintendent at Nelson, B.C., in 1932 he held other superintendencies at Calgary and Regina until September, 1942, when he was appointed superintendent of transportation for the west. This was followed by a year at Vancouver as general superintendent and in 1944 he became general manager of western lines. Mr. Manson came to Montreal in 1946 as vice-president of personnel and in February, 1947, was appointed vice-president of all rail services and communications. He returned to Winnipeg as vice-president of the Prairie region in April, 1948.

G. H. BAILLIE

Montreal-born, George H. Baillie joined the vice-president's office in Montreal as a junior in 1918. Ten years later he moved to Winnipeg as chief clerk to the vice-president and general manager, and in 1930 moved to Vancouver as assistant to the general superintendent.

As assistant superintendent at Wynyard, Sask., and Lethbridge, Alta., he received further training, and returned to Vancouver as superintendent, a post he later held at Revelstoke, B.C. Appointed general superintendent at Calgary in 1942 he returned to Vancouver as general superintendent in 1944, and two years later was named general manager of western lines. His appointment as vice-president of the Pacific region at Vancouver came in August, 1947, when the Canadian Pacific divided operations into three regions.

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

"And what is so rare as a day in June?" rings through my mind on these first beautiful days of summer. "Then, if ever, come perfect days" has been true again this year. I don't suppose those lines will ever go from my memory, impressed there by being written out twenty times back in my public school days!

Rustic Table

I was finally bullied into leaving my garden long enough to take the family on a picnic yesterday. We journeyed to a secluded spot not far from the city and had a thoroughly enjoyable time. The highlight of the day for me was finding a rustic picnic table I could copy. I have been wanting to build one in front of the barbecue I finished early this month. If my first table turns out successfully I'll be making one for the cottage.

Garden Ornaments

The indiscriminate use of garden ornaments always bothers me. One house we passed on our way home from the picnic brought this whole subject back to my mind. The yard was so cluttered up with wooden ducks, dogs, girls with bright parasols and statues it looked more like a graveyard than a garden. Properly chosen and placed, ornaments do add to the beauty of the surroundings; especially if they are out of the ordinary—a carboy, sundial or painted butterfly.

No garden is complete without suitable pathways to carry the traffic. The type of material used in construction can be as varied as the shapes the path can be given. The subject is important enough to require lengthy treatment but a few ideas are given here.

The Abused Tin Can

Next week I must brush up on my tin-can craft as today's mail brought a request to help with handicraft at a summer camp for boys. No hobby is easier to master nor the equipment required more easily found. One or two suggestions are offered but you will find more in the booklet "Around The Home" now ready for distribution.

More information on these and other ideas in the booklet "AROUND THE HOME". Write for your copy to Tom Gard, c/o MOLSON'S BREWERY LIMITED, Post Office Box No. 1600, Place d'Armes, Montreal, Quebec.

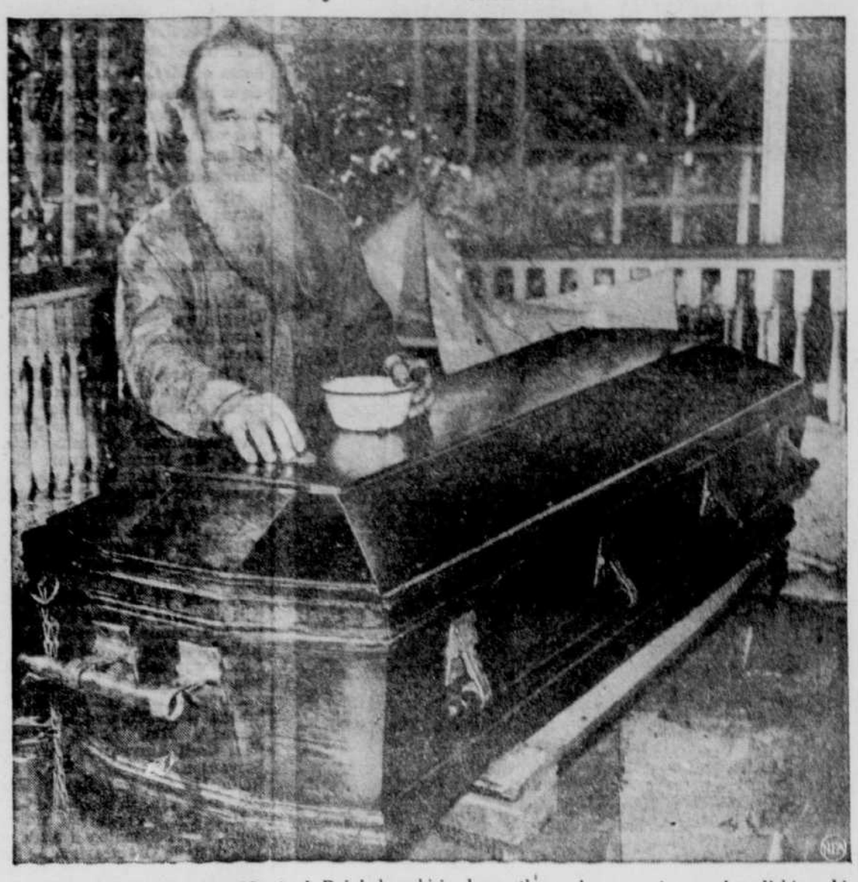
Ready For Gabriel---



Spry and spirited at 76, Martin J. Dziubakowski is busy these days waxing and polishing his casket on the front porch of his Cleveland, O., home. If he doesn't whistle as he works, it's more on account of his beard than any lack of cheerfulness. Dziubakowski came to Cleveland from Austria in 1901. About 35 years ago he found a fine piece of oak. "Ah, that will be for my casket," he declared. And so the collection of oak pieces began. He completed the casket long ago and now gives it fatherly care with frequent polishing.

Udolphus Lord Aylmer Chapter, I.O.D.E., Heard Reports Of National Chapter's Meeting In Montreal

Richmond, June 22. — Mrs. C. R. Boast presided at the regular meeting of Udolphus Lord Aylmer Chapter I.O.D.E. During the formal opening ceremonies the flag was brought forward by Mrs. George Walker.

Miss Augusta Hughes read the minutes and Mrs. J. S. MacNaughton gave the treasurer's report.

A very interesting letter was read thanking the members for the very delightful sight-seeing bus trip to Quebec they had sponsored for the pupils in Grade IX, of St. Frances College High School.

Mrs. Grant Campbell, ex-service personnel convener, gave a very interesting report of the monthly visit to the Veterans' Hospital at St. Hyacinthe. Mrs. Harry Hardy very kindly motored down with the following ladies who assisted in distributing the gifts to the patients: Mrs. Grant Campbell, Mrs. A. Murchie, Mrs. C. Delaney and Miss Lois Boast. Donations were received during the month from Mrs. F. Newell, Mrs. George Walker, Mrs. A. Murchie, Mrs. A. W. McCabe, Mrs. D. R. McLaughlin, Mrs. George Laroche, Mrs. C. Dupuis, Mrs. C. Delaney, Mrs. J. Beaubien, Mrs. J. Stott, Mrs. H. Burt, Mrs. George Alexander, Mrs. E. Poulin. Miss Edith McCourt, Mrs. H. H. Nowlan, Mrs. F. Elgood, Mrs. O. Blair, Mrs. W. McMorine, Mrs. H. Hardy, Mrs. J. S. MacNaughton and Mrs. C. R. Boast.

The regent thanked all the members who had co-operated so willingly with the annual Street Fair, which netted $135. The following members assisted in the different departments: "Special Articles," Mrs. C. Spence, Mrs. A. Blais, Mrs. W. L. Pope; Shoes, Mrs. D. N. Desmarais, Mrs. F. Newell, Mrs. H. H. Nowlan; men's wear, Mrs. H. Crook, Mrs. N. Levia, Mrs. Grant Campbell, Mrs. P. Smith; children's wear, Miss Mabel Boast, Mrs. George Walker, Mrs. D. R. McLaughlin; kitchen ware, Miss Florence Davis, Mrs. H. P. Stone, Mrs. George Chamberlin; hats, Miss Augusta Hughes, Mrs. W. E. Perkins; variety, Mrs. E. W. Birch, Mrs. R. Bedard, Miss G. Mathias, Miss Florence MacKenzie, Mrs. A. Marchand, Mrs. C. R. Boast; dresses, Miss M. Harkom, Mrs. H. Hardy, Mrs. C. Delaney, Mrs. Mabel Morrill. Mrs. K. G. Nourse, Mrs. M. K. MacKenzie and Mrs. H. H. Nowlan very kindly collected the bundles for the sale and Mrs. A. E. Fee was in charge of arranging the equipment. The cashier was Mrs. J. S. MacNaughton.

Reports of the 50th anniversary celebration of the founding of the I.O.D.E., which was held at the Mount Royal Hotel, were given by Mrs. T. P. Ross, who is a member of the Provincial Executive, Mrs. J. S. MacNaughton, Mrs. George Walker, who carried the Chapter Standard in the procession of Standard Bearers, at the opening ceremony when the Governor General and Viscountess Alexander and Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mrs. L. St. Laurent were the special guests.

The highlights of the National meeting were the opening meeting on Saturday night, the church service, which was held at St. Andrew's and St. Paul's Church and the banquet and "pageant," which presented the history of fifty years of fashion.

The special guests at the opening ceremonies were His Excellency the Governor General of Canada and the Viscountess Alexander of Tunis, who is honorary president of the Order, the Prime Minister of Canada, the Right Hon. Louis St. Laurent and Mrs. St. Laurent and the Right Rev. John Dixon, Bishop of Montreal, and the chief executives of the Order.

Rev. R. J. Berlis, minister of the church of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's was the guest speaker at the service of Thanksgiving and Dedication of the National Chapter of Canada, I.O.D.E. The service was held in the church of the foundress, the late Margaret Alson Murray who was the wife of Professor Clark Murray, one of the elders of the Church of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's.

The banquet and pageant held at the Mount Royal Hotel was very largely attended. Mrs. Doreen Day, Eaton's fashion director, was the commentator during the pageant.

During the sessions Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, who recently won the Hamilton west seat for the Progressive Conservatives, at a by-election spoke briefly to the members and congratulated them on their very splendid achievements during the past fifty years, when they had laboured for the ideals of the foundress for patriotism, community service and personal dedication.

It was announced during the sessions that a letter was sent to the Lord Mayor of London from the National Chapter of Canada, I.O.D.E. thanking him for the generous gift of the people of Britain, which takes the form of a Thanksgiving Fund to be used to develop a residential centre in London for students from the Commonwealth and Empire overseas.

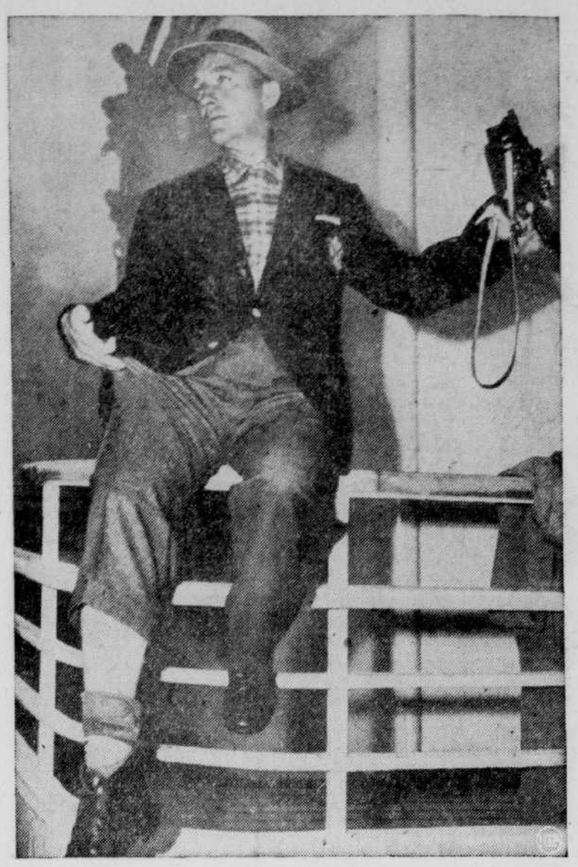
Mrs. K. L. G. Drope, the post-war service convener, reported that fifty-five and one-half tons of clothing, bedding and food had been sent overseas during the past year.

In closing her report the regent said, "This great organization cannot stand still. The broad scope of its aims and objects will enable us to accept the challenge of the future.

Plans were made to have the annual Tag Day at the local Fair in August. The conveners appointed to have charge of the Tag Day were Mrs. C. Spence and Mrs. J. S. MacNaughton.

It was decided to have the I.O.D.E. films shown in September. Mrs. W. L. Pope, educational convener and Mrs. J. S. MacNaughton were appointed to arrange the place and date for the presentation of these films.

Crosby Cheesecake



In the tradition of shipboard celebrities—usually women—crooner Bing Crosby exposes a bit of leg for the benefit of news photographers. Arriving in New York on the Queen Elizabeth, Crosby said, "I don't know anything about it," when asked about reports he and his wife, the former Dixie Lee, would separate.

BISHOPTON

A regular meeting of the Christmas Club was held at the home of Mrs. Denzil Kenney with eight members present. "500" was played at two tables. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Luce and daughter were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Merrill, at Hatley.

Mrs. B. Heath is the guest of her niece, Mrs. Humphrey, and Mr. Humphrey, in Sherbrooke.

MASSAWIPPI

Massawippi, June 2[illegible]. — "Greenbank," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Armstrong, was the scene on Friday evening of a very enjoyable ice-cream lawn social.

The colored lights hanging among the maples made an attractive appearance. The Ayer's Cliff Band under the able direction of Mr. F. A. Johnstone was indeed an added attraction and much enjoyed.

The proceeds were most gratifying and will be added to the church fund.

The ladies of the committee in charge were Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Raymond, Mrs. L. D. Schoolcraft, Mrs. W. Mitchell and Mrs. Taylor.

These ladies wish to especially thank the Band for donating their services for this occasion.

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, June 22nd—Something wonderful for summer picnics!...this sandwich spread is truly delicious! And no wonder, for HEINZ SANDWICH SPREAD is the happy result of a combination of finest quality spices, pickles and turmeric in a special salad dressing. As only Heinz Chefs can make it! So when you're packing that picnic hamper—be sure to include Heinz Sandwich Spread! And keep a good supply always on hand for teas and bridge parties—for luncheon and bedtime snacks! It's a sandwich spread that even a "Dagwood" would rave about!...a luscious taste-treat for all sandwich enthusiasts!

Sun 'n' Sand are a wonderful combination for a holiday... not such a wonderful combination for your eyes! Eyes grow tired under the sun's bright glare...they smart when the wind blows. That's why it's such a good idea to carry a holiday supply of MURINE with you wherever you go. Murine soothes tired eyes in a jiffy...just two drops in each eye makes eyes feel rested and refreshed. For Murine contains 7 ingredients that blend with the natural eye fluids... cleansing and soothing delicate tissues gently as a tear, and relieving that weary, used-up feeling! So take my tip and put Murine at the top of your vacation-time shopping list! You'll find it in drug stores everywhere!

Just For Fun, would you like a brand new you for your Summer vacation? A beautiful dancing-under-the-stars dress can do it—or a once-in-a-million hair-do...but to look your loveliest all the time—try that brand-new make-up... WOODBURY DREAM STUFF! It's glorious! It's a tinted foundation and powder magically blended into one make-up! Not a drying cake—nor a greasy cream. Pat it on with its puff—it clings for hours. Tuck it in your purse—it can't spill! Only 65c in four dreamy shades...I particularly recommend the "Tropic Dream" shade for a Summer vacation complexion!

Here Today—Gone Too Soon... that's the story of the season's fruits. But there's a fine way to have year 'round enjoyment of summer-ripe fruits—thanks to CERTO Fruit Pectin! For with Certo you can preserve all the choice, rich flavour of fully-ripe fruits in jams and jellies, so quickly and easily. Because Certo recipes cut the boiling time to just 1 minute for both jams and jellies! And a pound of jam or jelly made with Certo contains no more sugar than a pound made the old, long-boil way! You get up to 50% more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit, and results with Certo are always sure—even for beginners—if they follow exactly the tested recipes in the booklet under the label of each Certo bottle!

Here's Your Chance to get a set of famous Wallace Brothers Silver Plate at half the price and less! All you do—simply save your LIBBY'S EVAPORATED MILK labels—and here's what you can have in the beautiful "Laurentian" pattern exclusive with this Libby Offer—6 Teaspoons ($2 open stock value) for just $1 and 6 Libby's Evaporated Milk labels—OR—a 24-Piece Set of 8 teaspoons, 6 dessert spoons, 6 forks, 6 knives ($15 open stock value) for only $6 and 24 Libby's Evaporated Milk labels. (Labels from both large and small tins are acceptable for both offers.) Use Libby's Evaporated Milk whenever your recipe calls for milk—use it for tea, coffee and in baby's formula! Libby's contains all the nutrients you expect from fresh, whole milk, plus added Vitamin D! It's today's best buy in milk—so buy it and try it! ...and, for your silverware, simply send your Libby's labels and money order to me—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.!

Are You In A June Mood? Feel like relaxing in the garden and watching the birds 'n' bees? To complete your sense of well-being, there's nothing like a refreshing glass or two of iced tea served with tangy, luscious lemon wedges! Or a frosty-cool glass of lemonade to quench your thirst! That's why it's such a good idea to keep a supply of lemons on hand these warm sunny days. They give added spice and life to iced tea—and everyone loves lemonade! But be sure the lemons you use are SUNKIST CALIFORNIA LEMONS...they're the finest, juiciest grown!

Butterscotch Pudding is a wonderfully smooth—excitingly tasty—refreshingly cool dessert for a warm June evening! And when it's made according to the Ann Adam recipe on the new package of DURHAM CORN STARCH, it's specially good! Not only are there several wonderful Ann Adam recipes on the new package of your favourite corn starch, but this package has a brand new top, specially designed for easy, easy opening! All you do—just pinch the top and roll it back. Inside you'll find the corn starch carefully protected in a paper bag and when you've finished using it, replace the lid and your "Durham" will be protected completely from dust 'til the next time you use it!

Here's A Portrait Of A Happy Husband... munching apple pie to his tummy's content—and I'll wager it's the "best apple pie he's ever tasted" if it's made of SCOTIAN GOLD Canned Apples! Yes, you buy top of the crop apples in the tin labelled "Scotian Gold"..."quartered" apples already carefully cored and cut in small pieces for pie or dumplings! No coring—no peeling—no waste—these wonderful apples are ready for the pie when you open the tin! And you've never tasted anything quite like these specially picked, carefully inspected, expertly cooked apples! Your husband won't be "fooling" when he says the apple pies you make with "Scotian Gold" canned apples are "tops" in flavour and rich, juicy taste appeal!

To Me, June Is The Loveliest Month Of All. In fact, if it weren't for mosquitoes and other insect pests I wouldn't mind if it were June—twelve times a year! This aerial photo of a plowing match at Olds, Alta., 58 miles north of Calgary, shows that Alberta farmers have lost none of their skill in plowing behind horses. The competition was held under the auspices of the Olds Agricultural Society with George Adie of Calgary, an old-time Scottish plowman, winning the main event, the walking plow class.

Cookshire Parents Paid A Visit To Knowlton Composite High School

Cookshire, June 22. — Four cars of interested parents left Cookshire on June 10, to witness the opening of the new extension of Knowlton Composite High School and to see at first hand what the new High Schools in the Proyince of Quebec are like.

They returned full of new thoughts and hopes that Cookshire would have something done to bring its High School more up to date. As Dr. Percival said, "A child may be taught on a log or in an open field but not 400 of them at once.

The wood-work room drew a great deal of comment. It was a place, where pupils can realize the need of mathematics, not just something to learn in school but something real and necessary.

Where are our best teachers going to go? The answer is easy. To schools that are well equipped, comfortable, up to date.

The schools are the mounding place of man, therefore we, the people, should put the best into them.

Under the auspices of St. Paul's Women's Missionary Society, Miss Lily Simpson, of Jhansi Mission Field, in India, addressed a large and interested audience in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. The opening worship service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Smith, who read from the Scripture from Romans X, followed by prayer. Mrs. Philip Boy, Presbyterial president, introduced the speaker, who based her address on the text, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free," John VII:32, and gave an informative and concise description of the situation in India at the present time, stating that since the declaration of independence in that country fields are opening up which had formerly been closed to missionaries. Miss Simpson also stressed the need for more co-operation from the church, the call for workers, and financial support being greater than ever before, citing interesting incidents in connection with the work, and asked her hearers to remember and realize their responsibilities as there were all kinds of opportunities for service. With Mrs. Boy as organist, appropriate hymns were sung, and Mr. Smith extended thanks to Miss Simpson for her timely message.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Sherman included Rev. Canon and Mrs. C. E. S. Your first glance inside shows you that Hudson's exclusive "step-down" design, with its recessed floor, puts at your service new space that is wasted in other cars.

That means seat cushions that are up to 12 inches wider than in cars of far greater outside dimensions . . . more head room than in any other stock car built today . . . a spaciousness further increased by the placing of interior hardware and door controls in recessed panels to give extra elbow room!

But Hudson's fabulous roominess is only part of the story!

Hudson's free-flowing, low-built design quickly tells you that the New Hudson has the lowest center of gravity in any Canadian or American automobile; yet there's full road clearance!

As a result, you know instinctively that this thrilling motor car handles more surely, hugs the road more tenaciously, and is therefore Canada's best-riding and safest car! And for added safety, Hudson's Monobilt body-and-frame* rides you completely encircled by box-section steel girders.

Yes, Hudson brings you more value at less cost—as a few minutes behind the wheel will disclose. We invite you to visit us soon and discover quickly and completely that "The New Step-Down Ride" is Canada's best and safest ride!

Drummondville

Lise Tanguey, aged five years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Tanguay, of 37 5th avenue, St. Simon, died from a fractured skull in the St. Croix Hospital, Tuesday afternoon, after being hit by a truck driven by Mr. Amedee Toutant. The tragedy occurred when the child was walking along the highway with a group of her young companions. The driver of the truck was coming towards Drummondville, when the child suddenly left her young friends and ran right into the oncoming vehicle, which was doing about 20 miles an hour at the time of the sad fatality. Mr. Toutant immediately stopped and had the child rushed by ambulance to the hospital, where she passed away the same afternoon. Dr. Rene Millet, coroner, did not consider an inquest necessary and delivered a verdict of accidental death, after studying the reports of police officers Paul Coulombe and Sgt. Dupont of the Provincial Police.

A young man who had taken the loan of his brother's automobile Sunday evening, was arrested after he had damaged three vehicles parked on Heriot street. Accused of driving a car without a licence and endangering the public, he was sentenced by the recorder on Monday morning to a month's imprisonment, besides being ordered to pay the damages he caused to the parked automobiles.

Miss Regina Heroux, of Montreal, while driving her car along the highway between St. Clotilde and Notre Dame, suddenly became alarmed at the sight of a bee, which had flown inside the car. She became so nervous at the sight of the insect that she lost complete control of the car, which took to the ditch. She suffered minor injuries in the mishap, which were treated at the St. Croix Hospital, while damage to the automobile is estimated at around $500.

Mr. Lucien Lampron, aged 31 years, and a mechanic in the employ in the fishnet department of Dominion Cottons Ltd., collapsed and died while at work last Monday morning. Suddenly taken ill, he asked a co-worker to accompany him to the first aid station, but died while on the way. Dr. W. Gough, the plant surgeon, attributed his death to an attack of angina pectoris. The deepest sympathy is extended to his sorrowing widow and three small children.

Mr. Walter Yandle a textile foreman for the past 20 years with the Canadian Celanese Ltd., died at his home Wednesday evening, after a few months illness, at the age of 58 years. A native of England, Mr. Yandle had come to Canada to join the staff of Canadian Celanese at the begining of the company's operations here. He was well known and held in high esteem by his many friends and co-workers in Drummoundville. The deepest sympathy is extended to his sorrowing widow, nee Fernande Blanchard, and his son, Richard. Funeral services were held at St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church at 10.30 a.m. Saturday, with a large number of relatives and friends in attendance.

An important delegation left Drummondville Thursday morning en route to Ottawa, for a personal request to the federal government, for a grant to help finance the local airport in required improvements. The government has already made grants to several centres, which include Victoriaville and Granby, while Drummondville with its airport and six aircraft has been turned down on two different occasions. The delegation was headed by His Worship Mayor Antoine Biron, Mr. Norbert Boisvert, president of Drummond Air Service, Mr. J. L. Killoran, vice-president, Mr. Phillipe Bernier, chief of staff, flying members, Mr. Paul Frigon, president Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. R. D. Farley, city industrial agent. Hope is being expressed here for the complete success of this important mission.

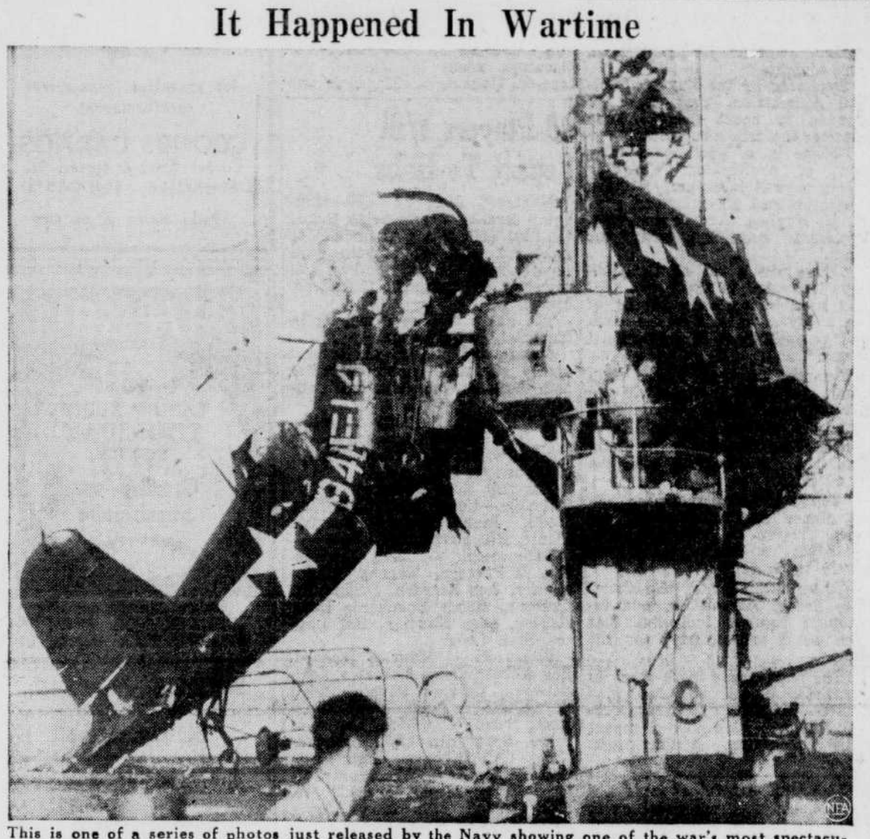
A collective agreement was signed between the Syndicate representing the building trades and the service d'Habitation Ouvriere of Drummondville. Plans were negotiated by Mr. Bruno Beaudoin, business agent of the central council of the National Catholic Syndicate, and Messrs. R. Gauthier and A. Robidoux, manager and president of the Co-operative. The contract states that an investigating committee must be appointed within fifteen days after the signing of the contract to study complaints of both employers and employees. The contract also calls for an immediate five cent raise to the workers, plus the benefits of a group insurance plan covering hospitalization, etc., the cost of which will be met by both employer and employee. Father Wellie Coll, Messrs. Bruno Beaudoin, Benjamin Bissonnette and Camille Blanchette, of the Syndicate, and Messrs. Romer Gauthier and Anatole Robidoux of the Service d'Habitation Ouvriere signed the contract.

Miss Mary-Jane Grady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Grady, general manager of the Dennison Paper Tag Company, of Drummondville, was awarded a special prize given by the Washington University for academic proficiency and success. She had been president of her class for the past three years. Archbishop Richard J. Cushing, of Boston, Mass., had the honor to address the students on this occasion of graduation. Congratulations are extended to Miss Grady.

Times Have Changed

Back in 1892, Mrs. Joseph Lamoureux, now 83, went to St. Johns, Que., from Sherbrooke to work in the telephone exchange as an operator. Then there were 100 phones and she knew all the subscribers. Recently Mrs. Lamoureux, formerly Caroline Elizabeth Temple, dropped in at the present exchange to recall familiar scenes. Here she is shown at the long distance switchboard in the dial exchange which now serves 6,300 subscribers.

It Happened In Wartime



This is one of a series of photos just released by the Navy showing one of the war's most spectacular plane crashes. Aboard the aircraft carrier, Prince William, a Navy F4U piloted by Lt. John H. Lahey has just rammed the carrier's island, shearing off the plane's right wing. Note wing on opposite side of island. As gas spurted from its tanks, the plane burst into flames, with the pilot still trapped inside. He was saved by quick action by rescuers.

Stanbridge East Held An Excellent Women's Institute Meeting And Many Plans Were Formulated

Stanbridge East, June 22.—The regular meeting of Stanbridge East Women's Institute was held on June 1, in the lecture room of the United Church, with an attendance of fourteen members and three visitors.

In the absence of the president, the chair was taken by Mrs. Neil Creller, vice-president, who opened the meeting in the usual manner.

The secretary was also absent and her office was filled by Mrs. C. Rhicard. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. The treasurer's report followed, and showed cash on hand to be $55.60.

It was voted to sent $5 to the Cancer Relief Fund, and donations of old cotton and linen were solicited for this same cause. It was also voted to send $5 to the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund.

The roll call was responded to by giving "Garden Hints," and many helpful ideas were received.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Yates, convener of Agriculture, who read a most informative and interesting paper on "Plant Something New" and "Plant Perennials," and magazines on "Gardening" were exhibited.

Books and pamphlets received from Macdonald College were on display, and many availed themselves of the opportunity of borrowing these.

Mrs. Jates reported that 200 packages of seeds had been received for distribution to pupils for the School Fair.

It was voted to combine the "Hobby Show" and the "School Fair," to hold them in September, with Sports events also on the program on this occasion. Suggestions were invited for helping to carry out this project.

Thanks were extended to Mrs. Donald Blinn for her excellent broadcast on "Homemaking," recently given from Granby.

The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. M. A. Brown, Mrs. Gordon Callagher, Mrs. Clifford Rhicard and Mrs. Lyall Rhicard, who served delicious refreshments, at the close of the meeting.

LAKE MEGANTIC

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. R. E. Morrison on Wednesday afternoon, with a very good attendance. Owing to the absence of the president, the meeting was conducted by the vice-president, Mrs. J. Duplessis. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. Several bills were presented and ordered paid. Various business items were discussed and left open until the next meeting. Aftr the general routine of business was transacted the meeting was closed with the "Mizpah Benediction." Tea was served by the hostess, assisted in serving by her daughter, Mrs. H. Wilson of Holeb, Me., and Mrs. John MacDearmid. Members of the Young People's Society and several visitors came in at the tea hour.

Miss Constance Oakley is a guest of her parents, Rev. A. J. and Mrs. Oakley.

The Young Peoples' Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. John MacDearmid. Ten members and one visitor were present. The president, Mrs. Neil Stewart, was in the chair and opened the meeting with Scripture reading and prayer. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Several items of business were discussed. Aprons, doilies and novelties were sold, also the money for the finishing of a quilt was received, bringing the total proceeds of the evening to $18.15. After the meeting was adjourned, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. L. Rider and a social hour was enjoyed. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Colina MacKenzie.

Miss Margaret Redstone, of Fredericton Junction, N.B., is spending two weeks with her aunt, Mrs. H. Peterson.

Miss Dorothy MacDonald has returned from a holiday spent in Montreal and Gatineau, where she was a guest of relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Wood and son, Harry, were in Toronto, Ont., for a few days and attended the Wood-Thayer wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and daughter, Elizabeth, and Miss Jean Stewart, of Wolfville, N.S., were in town for a short time on Monday, en route to the New England States and called on the latter's sister-in-law, Mrs. Harold Stewart and Miss Evelyn Moore.

LADIES' NIGHT AT STADIUM—GRANBY VISITING TEAM

Locals Lose Second In A Row To St. Hyacinthe; Prizes Tonight

St. Hyacinthe Saints made it two in a row over the loop-leading Sherbrooke Athletics last evening as they eked out a 4-3 win over the locals.

Although allowed only five hits by Big Lou Knerr, the Saints bunched them and took advantage of the breaks. They scored all four runs in the sixth inning. Shacker, the winning pitcher, was touched for seven safeties.

Granby Red Sox snapped out of their losing slump long enough to hand St. Johns Braves a 17-4 shellacking. The Sox gathered a total of 15 hits off three St. Johns hurlers.

In the only other game played last evening in the Provincial league the Farnham Black Sox defeated the Drummondville Cubs, 6-3. Bill Sevalen went the route for the winners and allowed seven hits. Earl White was the loser.

LADIES' NIGHT

Tonight is ladies' night at the Park Avenue Stadium. The Sherbrooke Athletics will play hosts to the Granby Red Sox. The game is scheduled to get underway at 8:30 p.m.

Ladies will be admitted to this evening's game for the reduced price of 25 cents. In addition to the reduced price the ladies will have an opportunity of winning one of four valuable prizes which will be drawn.

Either Armando Roche or Lou Shapiro will go to the mound for the A's tonight.

The A's will be out after their first win in their last three starts. Currently holding down first place the A's need a win to increase their lead over the Drummondville Cubs.

Chet Laabs Homers Twice As Giants Win

Chet Laabs, the toast of St Louis in 1944, is the No. 1 citizen in Jersey City today.

Laabs, who slammed two home runs in the final game of the season six years ago to clinch St. Louis' only American League pennant, is socking the ball far and often for the International League Giants.

The 36-year-old slugger was coaxed out of retirement after drawing the pink slip from Toronto a few weeks ago and both Laabs and the Giants have been happy ever since.

Laabs socked his sixth and seventh home runs of the season last night to lead the Giants to an 8-4 victory over Rochester Red Wings. His second homer decided the game.

The score was tied at 4-4 and the Giants had the bases loaded and two out in the last of the ninth. Laabs belted reliefer Nike Schultz's pitch out of the lot to break up the game.

The victory moved the Giants from fourth into third place, 2½ games behind the Red Wings and Springfield Cubs, who are virtually tied for first place.

Springfield dropped a 10-8 decision to Toronto Maple Leafs and their margin over the Wings dipped to five percentage points.

The Leafs enjoyed a 6-0 lead going into the last of the fifth when the Cubs tied the count with a six-run rally that Jack Wallaesa featured with a grand-slam homer. The Leafs, however, came back with two runs in the sixth and seventh innings to win.

The last-place Buffalo Bisons turned back Baltimore Orioles, 5-1, behind the six-hit pitching of Charley Harris. The Bisons also collected six hits off a trio of pitchers but two of the blows were home run blasts by Harry Minor and Cy Block.

Syracuse's Chiefs edged Montreal Royals 3-2 to pull into a fourth-place tie with Baltimore and a two-percentage-point edge over the fifth-place Royals.

Veteran Bud Byerly limited the Royals to six hits in gaining his eighth victory. The Chiefs snapped a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning on Carden Gillenwater's run-scoring single, his third hit of the game.

Sherbrooke May Have A Football Team

There is yet a possibility that the Sherbrooke Athletics may field a team in the Quebec Rugby Football Union league this fall, according to Gordon (Beef) Ross, last year's Captain, who has just returned from a Q.R.F.U. meeting in Montreal.

The Athletics withdrew from the league last month after the team's executive decided there was not enough financial support or local interest to warrant further participation in the Q.R.F.U.

Ross, who attended the meeting with Ross Hunting and Jim Strickland, both members of last year's squad, said that financial aid may be forthcoming from the Q.R.F.U. and that a meeting of potential football players for this season's team will be held sometime next week.

Ross said that Westmount has filed an application to enter the Q.R.F.U. this year. Their acceptance would enlarge the league to seven teams.

A BUFFETING WEEK-END FOR ANGLERS

Quite a buffeting they took, the angling contingent which sallied forth last week-end for trout and other species of the finny tribe. Some fish were taken, it is true, but the fishing, the weather and the flies took an unaccustomed toll for this time of year. Incidentally, my theory that the flies have gained additional wing power seems to be borne out. It is a scientific fact that both flies and mosquitoes are developing immunity to the effect of D.D.T. and that a stronger race of insects is being developed, so why couldn't they step up their flying strength either through increased r.p.m. or some adaptation of the jet principle.

Anyway it blew everywhere I have heard anything about fit to capsize your canoe but the flies were there. Ask News Editor Pete MacRitchie. He was as far north as Windigo with Harry Larkin's party in the Brown Companies limits up on the C.N.R. Transcontinental. On his chest is a growth of manly moss which would be the envy of any of Eddie Quinn's performers. Well sir, those flies up there not only successfully tacked into a 30-mile northwester to get at Pete and his companions — they actually penetrated the hirsute thicket on Pete's chest with results that you can imagine.

* * *

Jim Paisley Was High Rod

Other members of the party were similarly affected, but they got fish and saw some most interesting country under conditions quite different from what they had experienced last fall on a partridge hunt. Pete did, say however, that he was colder this trip then he was when there was snow on the ground up there. Harry as usual stuck with his flies, but persistently, and found the Dark Montreal and Parmechene Belle about equally effective.

Jim Paisley was high rod, he having made use of a trolling outfit mostly. Bert Howard kept track of the fish and Reg Viner, of the Brown organization, kept track of the boys. The region offers quite a variety of fishing what with speckled and lake trout in some lakes and streams and Great Northern pike and dore in others. Despite the weather and the flies I much regret not having been able to go along with the boys to enjoy the rare hospitality and companionship that characterize Windigo.

The Muskie Ice Is Broken

The Montreal muskie ice is broken for the 1950 season. For this job we are indebted to Art Bowers, of Lachine, one of a famed fishing clan. On Monday afternoon at 3 p.m. just below St. Nicholas Island, a 16½-pounder, 37 inches long, mistook a South Bend perch scale minnow for something to eat or to destroy. From there on Art took over and Lake St. Louis appears to be the first water of the district to produce one of these great fighters this year.

Good News from Salmon Country

Yesterday from Trinity Bay came a box of fresh caught Atlantic Salmon the gift of Mr. Carson Flood who has been down there fishing for a few days. No story came with the fish, but there will be stories from the Gazette families whose diets will be enriched by the distribution of this most succulent of fishes. I always get a thrill eating salmon. Even if the "court boulion" has not been of the fanciest it is fine food and it always recalls to me the rare occasions upon which I have experienced the living potentialities of that rosy flesh. In the river or on the platter the salmon is king.

Tot Morgan is down on the Grand Cascapedia trying to duplicate or better his feat of last year when he took a 40-pounder from the same stream. And it was another Grand Cascapedia fish a few ounces heavier that took Field and Stream's first prize in its 1949 fishing contest.

* * *

Michael Carroll Has Arrived

Another Montreal angler now in the salmon country is Michael Carroll who is looking over some New Brunswick waters. Michael is the strapping seven-year-old son of sports writer Dink Carroll whose mother is a New Brunswick girl from whom her giant son has inherited a flair for the participating sport of angling.

Michael up to now has specialized in just legal sized brookies and his rod has been a sapling of some sort. That's the way to start but the time has arrived for some improvement in the equipment situation and this has been taken care of. We'll hear of him.

* * *

Eee, Bah Goom! Lookee 'Ere

And speaking of sizeable salmon, read this from the June 10th issue of the Fishing Gazette, England's leading weekly paper for anglers:

"One of the heaviest salmon caught in the River Eden for many years is recorded by our Eden reporter in this week's issue. He states that this large salmon of 52¼ lb. was caught in the Carlisle Angling Association water on a 1½ inch Devon by a local youth. Other big salmon from the Eden were Mr. Lowther Bridger's 60-pounder caught on fly in 1888; a 56 lb. fish killed by Mr. G. Mackenzie in 1892; and one of 55½ lb. killed by Mr. E. Francis in 1888."

Derby Day Is Imminent

It is only a little more than a week to Lake St. Louis Anglers Big Fish Derby, so quite naturally the most recent edition of Anglers News, their house organ, devotes some space to it. Derby tickets appear to have been going well, as why not with a long list of prizes ranging up to a new 1950 Chevrolet. Also the new clubhouse comes in for attention and it is receiving a lot of attention as members of Lake St. Louis Anglers don overalls and scrape and paint up the premises readying them for Derby Day headquarters. The organization is in the market for the donation of almost any sort of not-in-use furniture for the new clubhouse.

As soon as it is in presentable shape it will be available to members and their guests every night. An official government-tested scale will be installed for the weighing of fish, not only for the Derby, but throughout the season.

* * *

They Have Changed Judges

Bob Chisholm did me the honor of asking me once more to act as judge at the Derby but I find that the date conflicts with that of the Third Interprovincial Bass Derby which is taking place near Wellington, Ontario. I would have withdrawn from this contest this year to attend the Lake St. Louis Derby were it not for the fact that Quebec holds the title and as representative of this province I have to be out there to defend it. Ralph Allen will be fishing for Saskatchewan, Gil Purcell for Manitoba, Ernie Burritt for Northern Manitoba, Foster Barclay for the rest of Ontario and Alan Randall for New Brunswick.

* * *

Competition Will Be Keen

From what I have heard the competition is going to be pretty keen. Alan Randal has not only been up to O'Connell Lodge, he had also been out in the Eastern Townships sharpening up for this contest. And Mr. Purcell, I understand, has been seen out near the Toronto City limits fishing in the Don at dawn as Montreal trains were pulling in. Ernie Burritt, the terror of French River is always a dangerous opponent. And Ralph Allen applies more brains to the task of fishing than any man I have ever seen in action. He has to have reasons for and to know the true inwardness of everything. Some of his conclusions are revolutionary as may be seen from some of his writing. He took the biggest fish last year and developed a gleam in his eye which bodes ill for Fos Barclay and I who usually fish as a team. All we can do is our best.

* * *

Maybe I'll Win the Car Now

In any event my not being at the Lake St. Louis Derby will give me a chance to draw some of those prizes. As a judge I have been called upon to draw many of the tickets, including the one for the top prize. I always buy a lot of tickets, but think how it would look if I pulled one which called for Izaak Hunter to take possession of that car. Naturally I've had to be pretty careful about drawing a ticket with my name on it. This year it may be different.

Anyway the Derby wouldn't be quite the same this year for usually on these occasions I receive some very acceptable attentions from Pat Glendening, mother of my friends Susan and Freddie. Last evening Pat went into Lachine General Hospital for an appendectomy and she'll hardly be completely convalesced in time for the derby.

Bruck Mills Upset Superheater 22-7

Bruck Mills caused quite an upset in the Sherbrooke Industrial Softball League last evening when they trounced the loop-leading Superheater squad, 22-7.

In the other games played the Sherbrooke Machineries won 12-8 over Railroaders while Fairbanks chalked up their second win of the season, defeating Sherbrooke Regiment 13-6.

Footballers Say Tour Was Success

Montreal, June 22 —(CP)— England's all-star football ambassadors think they have planted a soccer seed in Canada which may grow into a tree of professional calibre.

The footballers, fresh from a tour of Canada and the United States, play their final game against Sweden's jonkoping team here tonight.

Sponsored by the English Football Association, they came to Canada to boost soccer. They consider the trip a success.

"There is a good possibility, now, of professional Canadian soccer once it is properly started in schools and playgrounds," says H. H. Hughes, Association Vice-President travelling with the team.

"There are a lot of Canadian boys interested in the game. All you need is a steady source of these players to build up the game and you will have a professional league."

Members of the 18-man team admit that spreading goodwill and promoting soccer is harder than just playing.

Fred Rose of the London Daily Express, who travelled with the team, said:

"You've the longest-winded after dinner speakers we've ever seen. They're so worried about what they're saying they are afraid to be funny."

Walter McKeller of the Canadian Soccer Association said incomplete figures indicated that "we won't lose money" on the tour.

"The team made more than its guarantee in all but two provinces—Alberta and Saskatchewan," he said. "We hope to repeat with something similar next year."

40 Players Will Report To Habs

Montreal, June 22 —(CP)— Managing director Frank Selke picked the first official day of summer to announce that 40 players will report Sept. 18 for hockey fall training at Montreal Canadiens' camp.

The camp this year will be in Montreal, at the forum.

Among the players are several highly regarded amateurs from both Eastern and Western Canada.

Bill Durnan, the veteran goalie who last season announced he planned to retire was not included in the player list.

The full camp roster:

Goalies—Gerry McNeil, Gordon Bell, Jack Donlevy, Jacques Plante, Bill Harrington.

Defencemen — Tom Johnson, Bud McPherson, Tommy Manastersky, Ken Reardon, Dollard St. Laurent, Butch Bouchard, Doug Harvey, Glen Harmon, Hal Laycoe, Stan Long.

Forwards — Maurice Richard, Reg Abbott, Doug Anderson, Jean Beliveau, Georges Bougie, Floyd Curry, Giles Dube, Norm Dussault, Bernie Geoffrion, Leo Gravelle, Bert Hirschfeld, Jacques Locas, Colin Kilburn, Elmer Lach, Calum MacKay, Chuck McCullough, Paul Meger, Dick Moore, Ken Mosdell, Billy Reay, Howie Riopelle, Art Rose, Fred Sandford, Vern Kaiser, Frank King.

Washington Whips Detroit 12-4, Fast-Stepping Indians Beat Yanks

Bucky Harris' new rhumba team —Consuegra and Marrero—have mucho stuffo on the old apple. Just ask Detroit.

The Tigers saw Sandalio Consuegra yesterday and Conrad Marrero Tuesday. They haven't seen the ball yet.

Consuegra and Marrero pitched for Havana in the Florida International League last year. Consuegra had a 6-5 record in 11 games. Marrero had a 25-8 record for a 1.52 earned-run average. Three years in a row he was the top winner in the league.

Harris wasn't too keen on his Cuban talent during spring training. Consuegra got into an argument with owner Clark Griffith of Washington Senators about paying off an old Venezuela contract and went home. He was just called back from Havana this month. In his first start he shut out Chicago, St. Louis knocked him out and then he whipped Detroit yesterday 12-4 with only five hits.

Marrero, like his countryman a righthander, now is a regular starter with a 4-2 record. Half his victories are over Detroit's first-place Tigers.

Consuegra had plenty of help from a 14-hit barrage that unhinged Hal Newhouser, Montreal's Paul Calvert and Saul Rogovin. Starting with Sam Mele's three-run homer in the first inning, the Senators never let Detroit get started. Consuegra chipped in two singles and drove in three runs.

Cleveland, moving up fast in the American League race, saved Detroit's hide by whipping the second-place New York Yankees 5-1.

Billy Pierce followed up his recent one-hitter against New York with a 3-1 victory for Chicago over Boston Red Sox. Pierce yielded seven hits but he struck out eight, getting Ted Williams twice.

Philadelphia Athletics tagged St. Louis 4-2 to keep two games ahead of the last-place Browns.

Once again the National League is all snarled up with St. Louis and Brooklyn tied for the lead. Cincinnati rallied with three runs in the ninth to nip Brooklyn 6-5 yesterday while St. Louis pulled up even with the Dodgers on a 14-6 romp over New York.

Pittsburgh gained a 5-3 verdict over Philadelphia, costing the Phils a chance to close in on the Dodgers.

Vern Bickford's five-hit pitching was wasted as Chicago blanked Boston 3-0 behind Johnny Schmitz. Bill Serena's two-run homer in the fifth broke a 0-0 tie. They added another in the ninth.

Work On Short Putts In Practice To Develop A Smooth Stroke

By GENE SARAZEN
Winner of Them All

Most golfers practice their putting by starting out with the 30-footers and work in.

Gene Sarazen

It is much more advisable to start a foot or so from the hole and gradually work back to 15 feet or so. You are more likely to develop a smooth stroke.

Golfers think too much about holing their practice putts. Great golfers like Horton Smith concentrate on their stroke when they practice. They know if they are stroking the ball correctly, they will get their share of putts.

Putting techniques are more individual than any of the other strokes, but there are two touchstones that all excellent golfers follow.

First, keep the blade as low as possible going back.

Second, the face of the putter is always kept square to the hole. It must look at the cup during the entire stroke.

Anybody can hit the ball. It takes a golfer to put his shots together and a three-foot putt is every bit as much of golf as a 250-yard drive.

The putter separates the cream from the milk. The great champions have all been beautiful putters. Harry Vardon is the one possible exception to this rule and when he was winning he wasn't a bad putter.

A champion cannot remain so if his putting falls off.

In the 1946 U. S. Open, Byron Nelson played immaculate golf from tee to green, the best in the field. Nelson failed to win not simply because he three-putted the 71st and made a miserable putt on the 72nd, but because on his full four rounds his putting was not coordinated with the pitch of the rest of his game.

SQUARED AWAY — Twice U.S. Amateur champion, Willie Turnesa, above, lines up a putt with the face of his putter looking at the hole.
