FOUR CHILDREN PERISH IN LOCAL FIRE

World News In Brief

Carcassone, France—(AP)—At the request of management and labor, police today occupied the Salsigne gold mines in southern France. Workers demanding higher wages walked out Wednesday. The gold miners are asking the same pay as coal miners in the region and 4,000 francs $11.41 in monthly indemnity pay pending settlement of the dispute.

Oxford—(AP)—Sir Richard Bone, artist and author, died Wednesday night at his home here. He was 77. Bone was best known for his paintings as an official artist during two world wars.

Vera Cruz, Mexico—(AP)—All 11 of the crew of the coastal freighter Constanti managed to swim ashore after their ship caught fire Wednesday. The ship was destroyed.

Reggio Calabria, Italy—(AP)—Torrential rains which beat down on this area across the southern toe of Italy all Wednesday night left 10 persons known dead, with the toll expected to go much higher.

Unofficial reports said 48 persons were known dead.

Dublin—(AP)—Drawing started today on the Irish Hospitals sweepstakes, with a 20-year record prize fund of $4,760,000.

Total proceeds on the sale of tickets on the Cambridge horse race was more than $8,400,000, a large chunk of which will go to support Irish hospitals after deduction of expenses of the sweepstakes. The race will be run Oct. 23 at Newmarket, England.

Milan, Italy—(AP)—Two thousand shouting students carrying anti-Yugoslav posters demonstrated today in downtown Milan. No incidents were reported.

It was the first Trieste protest in this north Italian city since the British-American decision Oct. 8 to pull their troops out of zone A of the Trieste free territory and turn it over to Italy.

Paris—(AP)—Agence France-Press today said a French column has captured Phu Quo Quan, stronghold of the Communist-led Vietminh 55 miles southwest of Hanoi, Indochina.

The French launched one of their biggest land, sea and air offensives of the seven-year Indo-China war a week ago in an effort to uproot and wipe out two key Vietminh divisions south of the vital Red river delta.

But the capture of Phu Quo Quan came as a surprise.

Buffalo, N.Y.—(AP)—A four-point buck deer leaped into the barge canal terminal waters in Buffalo harbor Wednesday and swam 45 minutes before it was rescued. But it was discovered the animal was suffering a compound fracture of the leg, and an agent of the society for prevention of cruelty to animals destroyed it. No one could explain how it got into the city.

Exchange Of Scientific Information Is Needed

Ottawa—(AP)—Dr. O. M. Solandt, Canada's top defence scientist, said today that freedom in the international exchange of scientific information must be maintained if the world is to advance.

The Defence Research Board chief said Canada must guard against giving out secrets that might help a potential enemy, but scientists and industrialists must recognize that secrecy "will seriously interfere with the growth of the body of scientific knowledge on which we all depend."

"The whole progress of science and consequently of industry depends on the free interchange of ideas and information between the scientific communities of different countries," he said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association.

"One of the curious anomalies of the atomic age is that the development of the atomic bomb and the present prospects for production of industrial power from atomic energy arose from a pooling of scientific knowledge arising mainly in Europe.

"If there had been effective barriers to the exchange of the results of fundamental scientific research between nations before the Second World War, the atomic bomb would never have been developed."

Dr. Solandt spoke of the rise of the "scientific community" in Can-

Europe-Aid Plans Near Completion

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington.—(AP)—Plans are about complete for funneling United States military aid to Western European countries through the projected European Defence Community when it is ratified.

This was reported today by government officials who pictured State Secretary Dulles and other top officials as confident that the long-stalled EDC treaty will be approved in the next three or four months.

That action would clear the way for rearming West Germany, the only state which has ratified it so far. Other signers are France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Informants have said a special agreement covering the delivery of U. S. aid to EDC, being worked out with a defence community preparatory commission at Paris, is substantially completed.

In general, it follows the line of agreement required by the U. S. Congress with all the individual countries receiving U. S. assistance.

In brief, the requirements are that the aid must be used to strengthen the Free World, that there be adequate publicity as to the source, and that the aid not be transferred to other areas without U. S. approval. Technical provisions cover presence of U. S. personnel in the areas where weapons and equipment are released and used.

Officials said the agreement has been negotiated in line with basic U. S. policy, as laid down by Congress in recent foreign aid bills, that U. S. aid may be given to international organizations where desirable.

Israeli Freight Train Derailed

TEL AVIV, Israel—Reuters—An Israeli freight train was derailed by a mine near the Jordanian lines Wednesday night, an Israeli army spokesman said today. There were no casualties.

A sharply-worded protest has been lodged by Israel with the Israel-Nordan mixed armistice commission.

The protest is the latest move in the renewed tension between the Jewish state and its Arab neighbors following a Jewish attack on an Arab settlement in Jordan a week ago.

Arab quarters accuse the raid party of the massacre of 66 Arabs in the attack.

The issue is pending before the United Nations Security Council.

In Amman, Jordan, where there have been angry demonstrations outside buildings belonging to Western powers, the Arab League's political committee announced plans to visit the scene of the massacre today.

In Damascus, it was reported that Syrian army men on leave have been ordered to rejoin their units immediately.

But it was discovered the animal was suffering a compound fracture of the leg, and an agent of the society for prevention of cruelty to animals destroyed it. No one could explain how it got into the city.

A flash fire of unknown origin this morning snuffed out the lives of the four young children of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Bradley, 869 Esplanade Street.

Mrs. Bradley, herself, is in perilous state at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital where she and the youngsters were taken by Hamel et Frere ambulance.

Dead are: David, 10 months.
Robert, 4.
Barbara, 5.
Keith, 10.

The mother and children were pulled from the flaming residence by firemen from number one station, who responded to the alarm at 7:10, under the direction of Capt. Eugene Fortier and Lieut. L. P. Lessard.

At the time of the fire, Mr. Bradley was at his work for Allatt's bakery. Police contacted the firm who got in touch with Mr. Bradley who was on the bread route at Ayer's Cliff.

The children and their mother were badly asphyxiated by the thick smoke. The father is in a severe state of shock.

What caused the fire, which badly damaged the parlor and living room of the second-floor tenement apartment, is not certain.

Inspector Wilbrod Lapierre and Capt. Fortier this morning were poking around a small, deep hole in the floor of the parlor, a few inches away from the ruined sofa.

Just a few feet away stood a blackened floor lamp and it may have been faulty wiring in this which caused the tragedy.

In the dining room, next to the parlor, stands a badly damaged sewing machine whose steel parts are twisted, mute evidence of the flame's intensity.

"It was like a furnace in here when we arrived," says Capt. Fortier, who is heading the Fire Department during the absence on vacation of Director W. P. Donahue.

The firemen quickly overcame the blaze by the use of fog nozzle apparatus. Only the parlor of the Bradley flat could be described as heavily damaged.

The adjoining living room was damaged to a lesser extent and the bedrooms and kitchen across the narrow hall were touched only by a little smoke and water. The alarm clock in the third bedroom still ticked away.

Firemen found the mother and baby unconscious on the floor of the first bedroom. In the second bedroom, separated from the first by the kitchen, Robert and Barbara lay in their beds as if still asleep. In the last bedroom, 10-year-old Keith, a former Record carrier boy, also lay under the covers.

Mrs. Ken Wood, who also resides in the tenement block, heard a window shatter around seven this morning. She ran out of her home and saw smoke and flame coming from the Bradley apartment.

But the back alley door to the Bradley home was locked and she ran around to the Esplanade side.

There she bumped into Roland Arcouette, another neighbor, who resides at 885 Esplanade. Mr. Arcouette sounded the alarm.

Lieut. L. P. Lessard was the first man in the flaming tenement and with the firemen Rock Rousseau and Rene Vallieres pulled the five unconscious persons from their smoke-filled bedrooms.

A number of other flats in the block, owned by Jean Prefontaine, were damaged by smoke and water.

Fred Sinclair reports heavy damage to his apartment on the east side of the Bradley home and several other neighbors reported lesser damages.

Capt. Fortier discovered the mother and the baby unconscious on the floor.

Captain Fortier has been on the fire department for 23 years and while he has seen much bigger blazes in his time he cannot recall any which were nearly as tragic.

"It was a terrible thing," the captain said. "Veteran firemen cried this morning."

The captain adds that the baby appeared dead and that the oldest child was dead for certain.

The daughter, Barbara, who was adopted by the Bradleys when she was seven days old, appeared to be breathing still when the firemen found her and the inhalator was used on her all the way up to the hospital but to no avail. Even the family dog was discovered dead.

Hamel et Frere ambulance was on the scene seconds after the alarm was sounded, also called by Mr. Arcouette.

Physicians at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital were still working to save the life of Mrs. Bradley at press time today.

The mother, 29, who was seared by the heat of the flames and badly asphyxiated, is given one chance in a hundred to survive. She was found clutching the baby in her arms.

Mrs. Bradley, who is the former Doris Bailey of Croydon, England, is a British war bride. Mr. Bradley met her while he was overseas with the 35th Battery and their oldest child, Keith, was born in England, coming to Canada with his mother when he was 15 months of age.

Police saw to it that Mr. Bradley was given a brace. He kept repeating "I've lost my four children and I was so fond of them," as he was being comforted by his father, Robert Bradley, at the latter's home, 75 Belvedere Street.

Seamen Tell About Collision

Montreal—(AP)—Seamen aboard the crippled Norwegian freighter Stugar said Wednesday night their ship was on the wrong side of the channel when she collided with an Italian vessel in the St. Lawrence river Wednesday.

The 7,258-ton freighter from Tonsberg, Norway, collided with the small 1,450-ton Carla Maria G. heading downstream from Montreal near Portneuf, Que., about 31 miles west of Quebec City.

The master of the Carla Maria G. ran his ship aground as a precaution against sinking, but their backed her off the mud-bank and proceeded downstream to Quebec aided by the tug Foundation Josephine II.

The Stugar, her bow dented from the impact, arrived in Montreal Wednesday night. She was travelling light when the accident happened, having unloaded a cargo of British Guiana bauxite at Port Alfred, Que. Repairs are expected to take two days.

Sailors said the Stugar was in the eastbound lane when she tangled with the Palermo vessel. One seaman said the weather was clear, but the accident occurred at 4:42 a.m. It was not yet light.

Members of the crew who spoke to newspaper men refused to be identified, and the skipper, Capt. K. Markussen, said he had no comment.

The impact pitched many of them from their bunks, they said. Sverre Rusendal, 24, the radio operator, rushed on deck to find the other ship "badly damaged."

Crew of the Carla Maria G. were kept on board when she limped into Quebec, but it was expected the ship, badly damaged amidships, would be put into dry-dock at Lauzon, across the river.

Meanwhile, the 20,000-ton liner Samaria left Quebec Wednesday night 24 hours behind schedule for Rotterdam, with replacement units for the 27th Canadian Brigade in Germany.

The liner was forced to drop anchor near Quebec when her mooring lines fouled her propellers. Tugs helped her back to harbor and divers descended to free propeller shafts.

Police Officer Is Questioned

St. Louis—(AP)—Police Lieut. Louis Shoulders returned to seclusion Wednesday night after a seven-hour question-answer session which his superiors as key witness in the investigation of possible irregularities in police handling of the Greenleaf kidnapping.

It was Shoulders who Oct. 6 arrested Carl Austin Hall, the confessed kidnap-killer of six-year-old Bobby Greenleaf, and recovered about $283,000 in ransom cash.

The particulars of Hall's arrest and the handling of the ransom money are under investigation. Half of the $600,000 Greenleaf ransom money is unaccounted for.

Police chief Jeremiah O'Connell told reporters that the panel of investigators may recall Shoulders for further questioning, but that he would not reappear today.

O'Connell declined to comment on the results of Shoulders' testimony.

Satellite Members Of POW Commission End Walkout

By FORREST EDWARDS
Panmunjon—(AP)—The two Red satellite members of the Korean prisoner repatriation commission ended a three-day walkout today, but there was no indication they had won their point—that anti-Red Koreans be forced to hear Communist efforts to coax them home.

The explanations have been stalled since Monday, when the Polish and Czech delegates left the commission after being voted down by the Indians, Swedes and Swiss.

In today's meeting they apparently repeated the demand without success, and the explanations remained at a standstill.

The Communist delegates are forcing the point by disregarding the 14,600 Chinese who apparently will listen, insisting instead of talking with the 7,800 Koreans who have refused with a show of belligerence.

The Red reluctance to meet the Chinese may grow from the propaganda beating they took in the first two days of interviews, only 19 of 921 Chinese chose repatriation.

After unsuccessful efforts by Indian guards to get the Koreans peacefully to the interviews, the Red efforts were called off.

Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the repatriation commission, said after Thursday's session that Indian troops are unable to produce the Koreans "at this time."

However, the meeting was not adjourned, but was recessed until Friday, leading observers to speculate that some new line of argument may have been presented.

Before the meeting Thimayya said he would ask for an indefinite recess, but he declined comment on that point after the session.

The days without interviews are chipping time from the explanation period set by the armistice, which ends Dec. 24. The Allies already have refused several requests for extensions.

The United States Army announced today that Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson, the former prisoner who switched his choice from communism to home, was flown to Tokyo Thursday.

The Communists also received a prisoner, a Chinese who was the cause of an angry UN protest over a three-hour grilling by Red examiners which the Allies termed "cruel and unusual . . . brainwashing."

The Chinese was dazed and bewildered after the long session Saturday and had been kept in segregation. But he was smiling when he left the repatriation commission meeting after requesting to go home.

Palestine Dispute Goes Before U. N.

By TOM HOGE
United Nations, N.Y.—(AP)—The United Nations Security Council prepared today to hear a first-hand report on the growing strife in Palestine which has sparked a Big Three call for a full inquiry and counter-demands for council action from Syria and Israel.

Maj.-Gen. Vagn Bennike of Denmark, chief of the UN truce supervision group along the Israeli-Arab frontier, has been summoned from Jerusalem to report. Informants said he may appear before the council Friday.

Bennike's report is expected to shed light on the three-pronged issue before the council.

1. A United States request, backed by Britain and France, for a full dress probe into border incidents between Israel and her neighbors, including the recent Kibya attack in which Jordan claims Israeli troops killed 63 persons and flattened the village.

2. A Syrian complaint that Israel is endangering Middle East peace by diverting the waters of the River Jordan.

He still blushes about it, though. Just back from New York and stardom in "Light Up the Sky," he was asked to work opposite a studio newcomer, Teresa Celli, in a film test.

Community Chest Lists First Returns; Canvassers Urged To Speed Up Calls

Returns are beginning to come in at the central headquarters of the Red Feather campaign from the divisional offices from which the canvassers are working. Special names have pretty well cleaned up their assignments, but the canvassers on ordinary names are not getting their calls in as quickly as would be wished, reports campaign chairman H. E. Walker.

Mr. Walker, at a meeting of one sub-organization last night, expressed the wish that canvassers would do a complete job on the cards assigned to them. In many cases cards have been turned back after one call has not found the contributor at home, or found that he has moved to a new address, but no effort has been made to follow the matter up.

"This creates a problem for the executive," says Mr. Walker. "I felt that a canvasser ought not to turn back a card until he has made every conceivable effort to obtain the subscription. After all, there are no reserves in this army."

Process Of Tariff Reduction Has Gone Too Far, Kiwanis Club Is Told

"In pre-war days the Canadian industry supplied about 73 per cent of the Canadian market for textiles and textile products. Today the Canadian industry supplies barely 51 per cent," K. C. F. Mills, Superintendent of the Dominion Textile Mill here, told members of the Kiwanis Club at their regular weekly dinner meeting held in the New Sherbrooke Hotel last night.

An increased population and high national income have brought about a much greater demand for textiles by the Canadian people. Most of this increased demand is, however, being supplied by imported materials and the Canadian industry is not, as a consequence, experiencing the remarkable upsurge in sales and production that has been a feature of other domestic industries over the past ten years or so.

"A recent issue of the Review of Foreign Trade, published by the Federal Department of Trade and Commerce says at one point: 'there seems to be a long-term trend for imports to form a smaller proportion of the country's total production and consumption.' This does not apply to the textile industry. The domestic demand for textiles, as for other consumer goods, has risen steadily in Canada as population and per capita income have increased. But whereas 15 years ago the Canadian industry supplied almost three yards of fabrics for every yard imported today Canadian suppliers barely match imports yard for yard. To put it in another way, fabric imports have increased 131 per cent over the pre-war average while Canadian production has increased only about six per cent.

"The main reason for the decline in Canada's share of her own textile market is summed up in another sentence from the same Review of Foreign Trade. 'Canada is one of the few countries in the world today which has almost no significant barriers to imports aside from tariffs and the Canadian tariff has been considerably reduced since the war.'

"Canada today is far ahead of most other countries in offering her domestic market to imported goods that compete with that of her own manufacture. On the other hand, as evidenced by the difficulty she has had in disposing of her wheat crop this year, Canada has by no means secured the advantage of steady dependable markets for all her exports.

"The theory that Canada as a whole, will benefit from progressive reduction to tariffs and trade restrictions is an attractive one and many people point to Canada's present general prosperity as evidence that the policy is succeeding. But it should be remembered that for the past 15 years, while this policy was operative, international business conditions were, to say the least, abnormal.

"Not only have textile duties fallen from the higher levels of the thirties but they are now materially below the rates of twenty five years ago. They are little more than half of the 1933 levels and only three-quarters of what were regarded as the low 1928 levels.

"In view of the steadily declining share of the Canadian market held by the Canadian industry and of the importance to Canada of maintaining a strong and prosperous domestic textile industry it is difficult to escape the conclusion that the process of tariff reduction has gone too far.

Professional Engineers Hold Meeting

The local regional group of the Corporation of Professional Engineers of the Province of Quebec held their annual meeting in the Club Social, on Monday.

Gaetan Cote acted as chairman, deputizing for Armand Crepeau, the regional representative, who was unable to be present.

R. F. Shaw, president of the Corporation, Leopold Nadeau, general secretary, and Donald McCallum, councillor, were present from Montreal as representatives of the official group of the Corporation.

Mr. Cote opened the meeting by extending a welcome to the visitors and introducing the president who then gave his presidential address.

Mr. Shaw included in his address a review of the activities of the Corporation and emphasized the place which the engineers have in today's affairs, and made a plea for greater interest by engineers in such organizations as the Corporation because of the vital importance which such interest adds in maintaining the proper relationships and standing of the engineering profession.

The general secretary, Mr. Nadeau, also addressed the meeting by giving a very interesting resume of the methods by which the Corporation operates, including the various items in the Corporation's programme, which is made up with the object of extending the effectiveness of the engineering profession and of keeping its members suitably posted on all factors pertaining to their interest.

A question period followed during which a considerable number of topics were discussed, all relating to the relationships of the engineers with the Corporation and with the other groups who come within the sphere of engineering activities.

Messrs. Shaw, Nadeau and McCallum answered the various questions directed to them and extended their comments in a very enlightening manner.

The last official item on the programme was the election of a new regional representative to replace Mr. Crepeau, who has resigned, and on the motion of Louis Georges Carignan, seconded by Gaston Masse, and unanimously adopted, G. M. Dick was elected to this post for a two-year period.

Mr. Cote then vacated the chair in favour of the newly elected representative, and in accepting the nomination Mr. Dick expressed himself as highly honoured by the appointment, and stated that he would do everything within his power to carry out the duties to the satisfaction of all concerned. He added that in his experience in the local engineering groups, he had always received the highest degree of cooperation from both the French and English speaking

Jean L'Ecouteur Given Additional Five Years For Escaping From Jail

Jean L'Ecouteur, 35, who escaped from Provincial Police cells here on September 23 and was caught again last Saturday morning in Montreal was sentenced to five years in prison yesterday by Judge Dorais Panneton.

Before L'Ecouteur escaped he had been sentenced to five years in penitentiary for taking part in a $1000 robbery at the Canadian National Bank in Bromptonville.

The bank robber's accomplice, Jean Jacques Rochon, of Hull, had been sentenced to twenty-three months for taking part in the robbery.

L'Ecouteur has been in and out of jail and reform schools since an early age.

"Despite your record, you were given a chance after you were arrested for the Bromptonville robbery," Judge Panneton said. "This time you cannot expect a chance. I want to protect society for men like you. You will have another five years added to your sentence and the sentence will be consecutive."

When L'Ecouteur was sentenced to five years for the first time in Sherbrooke he was placed in the cells at Provincial Police headquarters awaiting transportation to Montreal.

During the night he pried open the bars of his cell with his feet and hands and made his way to freedom.

A tip from a taxi driver led police to a Montreal restaurant where they found L'Ecouteur and placed him under arrest.

This time the police took no chances. For his court appearance he was handcuffed and shackled.

When L'Ecouteur, who is a small man, escaped another man was in the cells. The cellmate, Rodolphe Lefebvre, was given six months in jail, for aiding the escape.

When L'Ecouteur left the local cells he had only 25 cents in his pockets. When he was arrested in Montreal he had some $1,800 in cash.

R.C.M.P. and Provincial Police are also expected to question L'Ecouteur in connection with robberies in New Brunswick, Chicoutimi and other parts of the country. It is not yet known whether further charges will be laid against the convict.

Judge Panneton praised the work of the taxi driver who gave the tip which led to L'Ecouteur's arrest. "That man was alert and had seen his picture in a newspaper. The newspapers help greatly to find a wanted man."

It is reported that L'Ecouteur was very co-operative with the police when he was arrested for the robbery at Bromptonville and helped them find the missing money.

Now L'Ecouteur is not in a very talkative mood when it comes to giving out information which the police are seeking.

It is also reported that L'Ecouteur purchased a $500 diamond ring and a fur coat for his sister in Montreal.

L'Ecouteur will be under heavy guard while he is being brought back to Montreal.

A DIFFERENCE IN VIEWPOINTS

Secrecy is generally a sign of inefficiency in the administration of public bodies — of inefficiency or even worse. Usually when a public organization — city council, police department, or anything else — is carrying on its work efficiently and honestly, it is prepared to let the public know what it is doing and is ready to seek public support in overcoming such shortcomings as are inevitable in any human organism.

But when such a body decides that it is "not in public interest" to tell anything about its activities, the same public is justified in deciding that the group in question is not working in "the interest of the public."

In recent weeks, a heavy curtain of secrecy seems to have been let down at the local police headquarters. Any request for information concerning any investigation the bluecoats may have carried out is met with the response of "No report here," or by the old run-around by which the inquirer is shunted from one officer to another and generally ends up with finding out nothing at all. This applies whether the case in question is a minor accident or a major crime.

The inevitable conclusion to be drawn is that the force knows it is not doing what it should or that it cannot do what it should.

From time to time an appeal is made for public support to correct certain conditions. The cry is made that the "police cannot do everything." But how can they expect to receive public support or respect when they are afraid to take the public into their confidence.

Yesterday an escaped convict appeared before the courts because of information given the police by a man who had read the details of the escape in the newspapers, the information and picture being readily supplied by provincial police at the time of the escape.

A man whom the municipal police "did not want to know we knew he had escaped" is still at large.

UNWILLING PEDAGOGUES

Independence has produced many thorns for the Government of India, not the least of which is a reorientation of social respectability. Years of British rule geared education in India to the need for English-speaking clerks and government officials of the lower and middle categories. An inevitable result was the significant social overtones implied by government service, especially to the inferiority-ridden Indian of the educated classes. Civil service employment became the goal of the most ambitious graduates from the Indian schools. It gave them a certain financial security, but, even more important, it carried with it the badge of social distinction.

To make social superiority of the Indian in Civil Service all the more firmly entrenched, Hindu caste ideals did much to promote an abhorrence for manual labor. Combined with education in a country where by far the greater part of the inhabitants were uneducated even to the point of being unable to read or write, this scorn for manual labor became even more significant as the gap widened between the educated youth and their unlettered fellows.

Then the British decamped from India, civil service and all. Although the Indian Government was able to absorb some, there are today eighty thousand of these college graduates unemployed. They spend their time sipping coffee and sniping at the government. The ultimate drift into waiting Communist arms of these young men, who have been educated to white-collar jobs and scorn less socially acceptable employment, is worrying Mr. Nehru and his colleagues. It is plain that they fear the Reds at home as much as they seem to favor them abroad.

Actually less acceptable forms of employment are also scarce in India, where a staggering unemployment problem is putting a strain on Mr. Nehru's ingenuity and prestige. In order to provide occupation for these idle educated youth, a stop-gap program has been drawn up under which 300,000 of them will be given a six-week training course and set in front of a village class. Another 50,000 teachers will be similarly trained by 1955.

Certainly the prospect of teaching village school in place of comfortable berths in government and business offices will not be a pleasant one. It is a far cry from the "respectable" white-collar employment and gentlemen's hours of the civil service in Calcutta and Bombay. The lettered youth may be as unwilling as are our Canadians to become pedagogues. It is embarrassing to realize that the causes involved are not entirely dissimilar.

Mr. Nehru must give Indian education a "new look" if he would find a lasting solution. Conferred respectability on manual labor is essential, and with the legacy of British rule it will be difficult.

BENSON'S INVESTIGATION OF MEAT PRICES RAISES DOUBT

By PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent Washington — (NEA) — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's call for an investigation of middlemen's profits on meat sales has caused considerable head scratching in Washington. So far, the secretary has been pretty well supported by the meat-packing industry. He has not resorted to any extreme measures to increase the price of beef cattle on the hoof. This, however, has not been popular with the livestock raisers. If Secretary Benson's new study finds the meat packers, wholesalers and retailers have not been making unreasonable profits out of this situation, he may well retain their support. If, however, the Benson report shows the middlemen have been gouging the livestock producers, there may be trouble. It is a foregone conclusion that any such findings would be answered by loud denials from the meat industry. Any time anyone talks about the huge profits of the packing industry, he is snowed under by reams of statistics showing the processors make only a fraction of a cent a pound on all meat handled.

Some Packers Show Loss On Packing

Some packers even show figures of losses on meat operations. They attributed their profits to hides, tallow and other by-products. One of the main walls of the packing industry now is that the market for these by-products has dropped. They say this cuts their receipts so they must keep meat prices high. What Secretary Benson's study of middlemen's margins is going to prove remains something of a mystery.

Still another puzzle is why it is necessary to make this study at all. BAE — the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in Department of Agriculture — has one of the largest and best economic-analysis staffs in Washington. If there is anything that BAE doesn't know about farm prices, nobody knows it.

For instance, a marketing-research report on "Costs of Retailing Meats" published only last August, showed that the livestock producer got 64 cents out of the consumer's meat dollar. Of the remaining 36 cents, less than three cents went to the marketing of livestock, 13 cents went to the meat packer, four cents to the wholesaler and 16 cents to the retailer. This is for choice and prime grades. No data have been collected on good, commercial and utility grades.

These poorer grades, coming from cattle sold directly from the range to the packing houses without going through the feed lots for fattening, make up about half of the U.S. meat sold. These poorer grades go largely into hamburger, canned and processed meats.

Range cattle have sold as high as 30 cents a pound in periods of meat shortage. During this year's drought the price has dropped to nine and 10 cents a pound. The price of hamburger hasn't come down by any such proportion. This is one of the main reasons why an investigation of middlemen's margins seems in order.

Drought Forced Sale of Large Stocks of Cattle

The drop in range-cattle prices this year has of course been due to forced selling of herds in the drought areas. Having no grass and water, stockmen had to sell for whatever they could get.

As a result of this forced liquidation, the total number of U.S. cattle next Jan. 1 may be just about the same as it was last Jan. 1. Secretary Benson puts this number at 94 million head.

Fewer cattle on the range means a meat supply more in balance with total U.S. meat demand. But with U.S. population increasing at the rate of two million a year, and with U.S. per capita consumption of meat now at a high of nearly 75 pounds a year, the total demand for meat is bound to go up.

This situation means a stabilized and probably higher price for meat next year. It also probably means a higher meat price for consumers. But in all this talk over meat prices, it is interesting to note there is no great concern for what the consumer pays.

Press Comments

ARE PRISONERS MEN?

Stone walls do not a prison make if you let the inmates read newspapers. That, not unfairly we think, sums up some remarks by Sheriff Russell Beattie of London, and Cochrane's M.P.P., Mr. W. J. Grummett, who have gone on record against letting prisoners have newspapers because from stories on jailbreaks they "might get ideas" on how to escape.

At present any prisoner who can pay for it can have a newspaper, but before we go any further it should be made clear that in condemning this suggestion of a prison ban on them, we have no ulterior motives. The number of papers sold to jail inmates would not keep an enterprising delivery boy in bubble gum money for a week, nor, as far as we can discover, does any tradesman through his adverts do a brisk business with prisoners.

Sheriff Beattie and Mr. Grummett talk as if the newspapers were full of stories about jail riots and escapes and of details on how prisoners succeeded in getting out before their time. Our fairly close acquaintance with the contents of a lot of different newspapers over a very long time does not support this idea. Any prisoner who relies on newspapers for tips and inspiration on escaping is likely to stay inside till he is legally free to leave by the front door with the warden's blessing and possibly a new suit.

If a prisoner is interested and intelligent enough to want a newspaper, he should be encouraged in his reading. And if he is in for a long term his adjustment to the outer world when he is released will be the easier for his having kept up with current events. There is much in every newspaper that is valuable, instructive, entertaining and even inspiring, and to deprive a man of this on the petty grounds suggested by Sheriff Beattie and Mr. Grummett would be unfair and absurd.

To follow their shaky logic to its conclusion, why not ban prison libraries? Out with "The Count of Monte Cristo." To the flames with every whodunit. Even mere book titles can be provocative to a prisoner so don't let him catch sight of "The Caine Mutiny" or "Revolt in the Desert." Let him spend the idle hours twiddling his thumbs. Imprison his mind as well as his body.

"We are dealing with men and they should be treated as men," Sheriff Beattie told the select legislative committee on reform institutions in urging the newspaper ban. This is exactly our point. Treat them as men, not as animals.

IT'S THE WALK BACK THAT TAKES AWAY ALL THE FUN

U.S. Announces Plans To Tame Atomic Power For Peace

Chicago — (AP) — The United States today announced its first full-scale attempt to tame atomic power for peace — a move billed as "America's answer" to Soviet claims of mastery over dread new nuclear weapons of war.

Thomas E. Murray, a member, said the Atomic Energy Commission will build an industrial power reactor producing at least 60,000 kilowatts of electrical energy — enough to run a city of 50,000. He said the project will cost "many tens of millions of dollars," and that the AEC hopes to have an operating plant in three to four years.

The plant, Murray said, may be located "at or near" an AEC facility for separating uranium-235, the paydirt of atomic power, from natural uranium. The AEC has one such facility at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and is building others at Paducah, Ky., and Portsmouth, Ohio.

He said Westinghouse Corporation will be the principal contractor for the new plant, of a design "inherited from a naval project." Rear-Admiral H. G. Rickover, the U.S. navy's reactor expert, was given "immediate responsibility" for the program.

Murray's announcement, a little more than eight years after the U. S. unleashed the world's first atomic bomb at Hiroshima, came in a speech prepared for the electric companies public information program.

He said the AEC decided to beat Russia to the punch by pushing ahead first with an industrial power program instead of concentrating almost exclusively on reactors for military use.

"This is America's answer — its significant peace-time answer — to recent Soviet atomic weapons tests," Murray said. "It should show the world that, even in this gravest phase of arming for defense, America's eyes are still on the peaceful future."

Murray said the world was stunned when Russia announced recently that Soviet scientists had learned the secret of the hydrogen bomb, the tremendous offspring of the A-bomb, that could blot out cities.

But world peace would have been more gravely endangered, he declared, if Russia had announced successful operation of an industrial power plant — and had offered to swap atomic know-how for uranium produced by other countries.

"It is no secret that our atomic weapons program depends upon the receipt of substantial quantities of uranium from foreign nations," Murray said.

"These friendly nations, I think, are motivated mainly by two beliefs. They believe in the military protection afforded by our atomic weapon potential. But we sometimes are inclined to forget that they also are betting on our great record of success in solving industrial and technological problems.

"They are banking on the United States know-how and United States good faith to help them build their nuclear power plants of the future. "I believe that unless we embark on an all-out attack on our nuclear power program immediately, we may be deprived of foreign uranium ores with the result that our weapons potential will be smaller than we believe."

Murray said countries hungry for the new source of power, no matter how repellent they are by Soviet tyranny, might gravitate toward Russia.

until they reach voting age; and then use their political power to change the codes. They can get together to pass a law prohibiting marriage until everyone gets bored shopping about with their sex impulses and wants to start a home with them.

Then nobody will develop the panics that fill our mental hygiene clinics with people whose nervous systems have cracked under society's anger at breaking sex codes.

Until this change is made, premarital sex adventure, like any other uncertain and furtive defiance, can arouse such vindictive and defensive feelings as to disqualify us for the self-trusting and trustful commitment required by a creative sex relationship.

I am delighted to say that I grow weary of the sensations that keep detonating from this nation's laboratories. I am sick of dodging the psychological dynamite thrown by absent-minded professors who expect us to deactivate it. I am tired of abstract people who are too fascinated weighing glib statistics and the magnitude of stars to compute human capacity for shock.

If our scientists can't tear themselves away from equations long enough to consider their possible effects on the worried people they live among, I wish they would move their laboratories to Mars — and give the rest of us a chance to recover from the blows already administered by their passion for arithmetic.

As to Dr. Kinsey, he'd better wait to change this society until we're sure we can keep it unfissionized.

Who Led Indians To Greet Captain George Vancouver?

Vancouver — (AP) — Claims and counter-claims of two Vancouver historians have stirred up a mild controversy over who led the Indians to greet Captain George Vancouver on his arrival here 160 years ago.

Did the original Chief Capilano really paddle out to greet the discoverer of Vancouver harbor? "Yes," says Indian editor Andy Paull.

"No," retorts city archivist J. S. Matthews. The argument started from an article by Mr. Paull in his magazine, The Totem Speaks. He gave a stirring account of how Chief Capilano led 40 war canoes out to meet the British explorer's ship on June 13, 1792.

Skeptical View Mr. Matthews thought the story was tommyrot, and in a letter to the magazine said "there is not a word of truth in it."

Hitting back in the current issue of the magazine, Mr. Paull says his fact are true. He says he was among a chosen few selected to learn West coast Indian history for the purpose of handing it down to the next generation as his forefathers did before him.

Mr. Matthews claims that his

HOW WILL TROUBLED CHILDREN REACT TO THE KINSEY REPORT?

Sex is like atomic energy. It can serve us or destroy us.

When a physicist gets a new slant on atomic energy, his university asks him to use discrimination. It doesn't allow him to confide his findings to anyone who might use them destructively against the community. He is required to consider loyalty to people as well as loyalty to his science.

I find this sense of social responsibility lacking in the university that employs Dr. Kinsey.

Just how does this zoologist think immature or troubled young men will react to his announcement that pre-marital sex experience makes good marriage?

Has he ever looked into the eyes of a 12-year-old girl charged with prostitution? Or talked to an unmarried mother just before her baby was born? I have. So I am shocked at the irresponsibility of Dr. Kinsey's treatment of his findings.

Mary is not a laboratory rabbit. She's a complex organism into which we have built sex needs that extend beyond physical release into the release of her contentment, tenderness and pride. In the girls I have known who have broken their society's sex codes, these things have not been released. But anxiety, restlessness and hate have been. Their names were Mary, Anne, Sue — not Mona of the South Seas.

If our young people object to their society's sex codes, there's only one thing to do. That's to protect themselves by self-control.

EXPERTS SELDOM WORRY ABOUT BID

Experienced bridge players will not be surprised by the bidding of today's hand. North's bid of two clubs obviously doesn't show a real club suit, but is the Stayman Convention, asking South to show a four-card (or longer) major suit if he happens to have one.

South happens to have an eminently biddable spade suit, so he shows it. North naturally goes immediately to game in spades. North has 11 points in high cards and knows that South has 16 to 18 points.

The combined count is obviously enough for game, and a good fit in a major suit is assured if South can show either spades or hearts. (If South had no major suit, he would bid two diamonds, and North would bid three no-trump with his strong hand.)

Even though the final contract was logical and sound, South had to play it well when this hand was actually played in a recent rubber-bridge game at the Fort Worth Club. West opened the king of clubs, and East overtook with the ace of clubs in order to return the deuce.

This hammer-over-the-head play made it clear that East had been dealt only two clubs. West won the second trick with the ten of clubs. This gave South an easy chance to go wrong.

If South ruffs in dummy, East can overruff, and South will eventually lose a heart trick. Down one. The actual South saw a much better line of play. When West led the queen of clubs, South discarded a low heart from the dummy. West shifted to a heart, realizing that a fourth club couldn't do any good. But no defense could do any good, since South had made the sure-fire play.

Declarer won the heart return with the king, drew three rounds of trumps and then ran three rounds of diamonds to discard a

SHORT STORY The Yeggs

By Lytle W. Robinson

Joe wasn't very happy as he drove past the few remaining houses on Sixteenth Street and turned into the El Paso highway. He knew Marie's answer was going to be "no". For a full ten minutes now she had sat gazing silently out the window; if she were going to say yes she would already have said it.

Out of the corner of his eye he saw her turn and look at him. She didn't say anything, he knew she was studying him. She would have to make up her own mind—he wasn't going to try talking her into it. In four years of courtship, Joe Brummitt had never talked Marie Pennington into anything!

Marie looked at him, a slight furrow coming into her brow. "You're nice, Joe—and quiet and stable, and you like children, but—well, you're unimaginative and too easy-going. You never have an opinion on the things we do—"

"Go on," he said. Marie looked away. "I know this is small—but you act slow, talk slow—even think slow! And me, I'm excitable and always in a hurry. I'm afraid I'm just not the one for you, Joe. You understand, don't you?" She pressed his arm.

"Okay, Buddy—get out!" He flashed an automatic in his face.

"Yes," he said weakly. "I see." But he didn't see. His mind was turning somersaults. So that's what she thought! He was a do-nothing!

Little muscles flexed across his jaws as he reached down and found the radio switch in the darkness. Perhaps the music would soothe his empty, as well as ruffled, feelings.

In a moment it suddenly blared out with a news commentator, and Joe snapped off the switch and drove on in silent thought.

Suddenly he pulled the car over to one of the gaily lighted filling stations. Marie looked at him questioningly.

"Be back in a minute," he said lightly getting out of the car. "I want to phone Ray Adams."

Joe was gone more than a minute, but Marie didn't seem to mind. Nor did they talk much as he drove a leisurely pace out beyond the business sections and into the darkened stretch of road that led by Sunrise Heights.

Joe at length turned off the highway and started up the long, lonely grade leading to the Pennington's house. They were halfway up the incline when they saw the other car, parked on the side of the road near the crest, headed downhill.

"Somebody having tire trouble," Joe muttered to Marie, slowing down. "This will be my good deed for today."

As he pulled to a stop two men disappeared into the darkness, one on each side of the road.

"What's the trouble?" Joe called, craning his head out of the window. Marie shrieked, "They have on masks!"

The man on his side grabbed the door handle. "Okay, Buddy—get out! We'll take the car!" He flashed an automatic in Joe's face.

"Make it snappy, girl!" the other man said in a loud, rasping voice, jerking open the door and taking Marie by the arm.

"Why—er—" Joe stammered. Then suddenly he reached down, flashed on the dash light and clicked his radio. Excitedly, he shouted in a loud voice:

"Calling all cars! Hold-up Sunrise Heights off highway eighty—hurry!" Then to the men, he said evenly: "You've got two minutes to get out of here!" "The guy's a highway copper!" frantically yelled the man on Marie's side. "Look at his hat." The other man took one bewildered look and started backing away. Neither of them waited to take a second look at anything as they turned and fled for their car. Marie buried her head in Joe's shoulder, trembling and making a lot of senseless noises.

"Joe! It worked! Your Scoutmaster's hat does look like the border patrol's!" Marie exclaimed, throwing her arms around his neck. "Will you ever forgive me darling?" "I'll give it serious consideration," he said, smiling to himself as he put his arms about her. "You're an awful sissy, you know." But inside his heart was singing wildly; it did work and the Adams brothers were a couple of darned good yeggs!

Strike Halts Traffic In Busy London

London (AP)—London's busy motor traffic moved toward a shutting down today in the face of a growing gasoline famine caused by a wildcat strike of 2,600 tank-truck drivers.

As the strike went into its fourth day, officials of the state-owned London Transport System said its buses would soon be stalled; garages hung "sold out" signs on their gasoline pumps, and there was a noticeable slackening of taxi services.

A spokesman for the British Automobile Association said: "London, for all practical purposes, is without petrol. We are rationing hundreds of stranded motorists to a gallon apiece so they can get home or go to a garage outside the affected area."

The tank-truck drivers, members of Britain's huge Transport and General Workers' Union, are demanding pay raises of 10 shillings a week, retroactive to Aug. 1, and dismissal of non-union men. Neither the strikers nor employers would divulge the average present wage.

The union officials advised the strikers to return to work and negotiate their grievances, but the truckers unanimously voted at a mass meeting Wednesday to continue their walkout. The strikers run trucks supplying London out of 32 depots operated by major British oil companies.

Adding to Londoners' worries is a strike of meat cutters over a wage dispute that will affect weekend shoppers. The 600 striking cutters and weighers indicated they will go back to work Friday, but that will be too late to meet heavy week-end buying demands. Britons have been virtually un-

Windsor W. I. Hear Address On Newfoundland

"Custom-made" Coffee New Breakfast Vogue

Marvellous 100% Real Coffee Made
"Strong, Medium or Mild"
Right in the Cup

At breakfast you could always get your toast light or dark—your bacon medium or well-done—your eggs, 2, 3 or 4-minute boiled. But your coffee? Well, you just got coffee!

The coffee might be too strong for you—it tasted bitter. Or too mild for you—it tasted weak. But if you are in the minority—too bad! After all, one pot of coffee can't satisfy everybody's taste.

But then came the revolution—the "Coffee Revolution"! Now the most forgotten "little man" can get just the cup of coffee he likes! Seriously, though, it's the women who make the coffee who brought on the revolution! It was they who discovered the wonderful new Instant Chase & Sanborn, and started serving it for breakfast.

First of all, here's 100% real coffee that really tastes like it. Chase & Sanborn scientists saw to that! They took on the job of producing an "instant" worthy of Chase & Sanborn's 100-year-old coffee reputation. They never relaxed till they had succeeded in extracting from the finest coffee beans the color and texture—the rich robust flavor and aroma of freshly ground coffee.

Next, housewives decided that this definitely superior "instant" plainly belongs whenever and wherever coffee is served. And then, everybody caught on to the other important benefit. Cups of Instant Chase & Sanborn can be "custom-made" to each person's taste. Goodbye to the old one-pot handicap!

Farwell to Grounds

For the housewife, Instant Chase & Sanborn means the end of that doleful after-meal chore of scouring a stained coffee pot and disposing of coffee grounds. Here is the modern, dainty, trouble-free way of serving fine coffee.

Budgeteers are excited about the savings on Instant Chase & Sanborn too. The regular size jar makes about the same number of cups as a pound of regular ground coffee. Yet it sells up to 40¢ less than a pound of regular coffee.

THIS REALLY IS MY COFFEE!

Miss Margaret Buck frequently visits her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Doonan, Jr., in Granby.

Mr. Ernest Brophy, of Montreal, spent the Thanksgiving week-end at his farm.

Among those out of Shefford lately included: Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McMahon and Mrs. Benham, at Knowlton; Mr. Joseph McMahon, Granby; Mrs. Brunton, Montreal; Mrs. Payne at Granby; W. P. Lang, Miss Lang, Mrs. Soloman and Miss MacMillan at Newport, Vt.; Mrs. Luc Marchessault, Granby; Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell, Covansville; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lyons in New York City attending the funeral of the former's sister; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. Michael McMahon at Granby; John Paul Decelles at Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McMahon have received from their niece, Miss Elizabeth Harvey, who is attached to the office of the superintendent, Public Relations Branch, Administration Branch, Post Office Department, Ottawa, a copy of The Postmark. The cover features a picture of an 1891 mail coach with Miss Harvey, dressed in the costume of that period, as one of the passengers being assisted aboard the stage. In a recent Ottawa parade, this float attracted much attention. In the same magazine Miss Harvey contributed an illuminating article on Granby, and as an indication of its quality we quote the first paragraph: "The thriving city of Granby lends a sparkle of industrial colour to its pastoral setting amid the rich farmlands, apple orchards and maple groves of the Eastern Townships. Today it is noted as a postal centre which derives much of its revenue from various industries, the successors of grist and sawmills built by pioneers on the banks of the river which the Indians called 'Yamas-ka' or 'where the brass and the rushes are high.' It is interesting to go back across the years, in imagination, although some practical Sheffordians may find it difficult to think of their next-door neighbor—Granby—back in 1826, when Chambly-Stanstead couriers travelled on horseback with, often, only two letters and three newspapers! Anyway, old Shefford is always proud of her offspring—Granby!"

Bobo Olson Punches His Way To Middleweight Crown

Earns Unanimous Decision; Turpin Started With Rush But Slowed Down; 18,869 Pay To See Slugging Bout

New York — (AP) — Carl (Bobo) Olson, a tireless ring mechanic with a persistent, slashing attack, floored Britain's Randy Turpin twice Wednesday night to win the vacant world middleweight title on a unanimous decision in a 15-round bout.

Time after time, the partly-bald Hawaiian drove the sturdy Briton to the ropes and pummelled him almost at will. Turpin went down for a five-count in the final seconds of the ninth and took a count of nine from referee Al Berl in the 10th.

Randy started with a rush, slowed down under Bobo's steady punishment but still packed enough thunder to shake up Olson with a long overhand right in the 11th.

Referee Berl scored it 9-4 in favor of Olson, judge Charley Shortell, 11-4 and judge Arthur Susskind, 8-7 on the unanimous ballot. The Associated Press had Olson on top, 10-4-1.

SPOTTED WEAKNESS

The capacity crowd of 18,869, paying $167,651, roared as Olson, an 11 to 5 favorite, slashed Randy's face and dumped him twice.

Olson found the flaw that Sugar Ray Robinson, the retired king, found in Turpin's style. He just can't back up under fire. Once Bobo learned the trick he rushed Randy to the ropes every chance he got.

Against the ropes Randy reverted to form and dropped his hands just as he had against Sugar Ray when he was stopped in 1951. His awkward-looking attempts to duck punches by shifting his head backward simply gave Olson a better target.

Bobo Olson

NEAR KNOCKOUT

It looked like the end in the 10th when Olson pinned Turpin in his own corner with another two-fisted rally. Blood streamed from a cut on his left cheekbone as he went down on his knees, holding the bottom rope. At the count of four he sank on his haunches, still holding the ropes. He was up at nine, still a little foggy.

Turpin had surprised everybody by weighing in at 157 pounds at noon on Olson's 159½. Bobo even had to work off a pound or so after a trial run in mid-morning. The weight didn't seem to make too much difference.

At the start Turpin rushed to the attack, scoring with his stiff jab from a stand-up stance. He had Olson grabbing, trying to duck away from that line left. Again in the second and third Turpin continued to press with his swarming attack. However, in the third Olson began to box in his accustomed style. Close observers thought Turpin was gasping for breath.

Suddenly Olson struck out in the fourth with a hook to the body that made Randy, the European champion, grab and hold. The cut opened on Turpin's cheek and the blood began to turn his white trunks into a butcher's apron.

Bobo had Turpin leaning away now, trying to duck his punches, as he began to bang away to the head and body. In the clinches, Olson scored to the body while Randy waited for a chance to shoot that long right to the head.

In the fifth, seventh, ninth, 10th and 13th, Olson crushed Randy to the ropes to pound away with both hands to the head while the former champion stood with his hands at his sides.

Maritime Major Hockey League Vexed Over Baldy George's Move In Withdrawing Alexander Trophy

Gloucester, N.S. — The Maritime Major Hockey League says the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's action of taking back the Alexander Trophy appears to be a "deliberate attempt" to force the league to withdraw from CAHA competition.

C. Roy MacDonald, MMHL president, said Wednesday night that it "looked like the CAHA is trying to do the same thing to us as they did to the Quebec Senior Hockey League—make us get out."

The trophy, won last year by Halifax Athletics and emblematic of the major, semi-professional hockey championship of Canada, was withdrawn because of lack of competitors.

There were four major leagues comprising 22 teams when the trophy was presented by Field Marshall Lord Alexander, then governor general, in 1950 but there's only the four-team MMHL today.

MacDonald has sent a telegram to CAHA president W. B. (Baldy) George, asking for an immediate explanation of why the cup was withdrawn without the league being advised of the proposed action.

MacDonald said he asked George what trophy the league now is competing for, and if the MMHL will be permitted to play the winner of senior competition for the Allan Cup.

"The league isn't happy about the way the CAHA handled our affairs last year," he told The Canadian Press. "And this action doesn't help things this year."

"In 1950 the CAHA forced the Cape Breton League and the Big Four League into major classification. Now we are the only major series left and they've taken the cup away, given nothing in return, without any consideration.

At Kemptville, Ont., George said Wednesday that the question of withdrawing the Alexander Trophy

OLSON DRESSING ROOM

By WILL GRIMSLEY
New York — (AP) — The new middleweight champion of the world said through puffed lips and bloody teeth Wednesday night that his winning strategy "was to give Randy Turpin the first three or four rounds and then finish fast."

"My manager, Syd Flaherty, told me to go slow," Carl (Bobo) Olson said in his bustling dressing room after his 15-round victory for the title.

"So I just took my time and let him work himself out. I felt I got stronger as I went along and wasn't tired at the end."

Shortly after the bruising fight, Jim Norris, head of the International Boxing Club, said he hoped to match Olson next with welterweight King Kid Gavilan if the Kid can take Johnny Bratton in Chicago Nov. 13.

Gavilan watched the middleweight battle from a poor seat.

"I'd like to meet the winner," the Cuban said. "I'm sure I can whip either one. I think Olson would be tougher than Turpin."

Olson's nose was bashed and his face was marked with several bruises.

"The hardest blow he hit me was a left hook in the middle of my face in the fourth round," Olson said.

"I was stunned for a while. But I shook it off. After that, I knew I could make it."

TURPIN DRESSING ROOM

By TED SMITH
New York — (AP) — Randy Turpin, the pride of Britain who hoped to retain the world's middleweight boxing championship Wednesday night, attributed his defeat by Bobo Olson to the fact he "had personal things on my mind."

He did not make the announcement that some London newspapers expected him to maintain in the fight, and Jack Solomon, the British promoter, said none would be forthcoming.

"I think I could have stopped him in eight if I was right mentally," Turpin said quietly while lying on a bench.

Turpin has had marital troubles and has been named in a divorce suit.

Turpin spent a considerable time during the fight backed up against the ropes, his fists lowered taking a pummeling from Olson.

"Why did you say on the ropes?" he was asked by a search me," was his candid answer.

Turpin said he had no objection to the fact the referee permitted considerable clinching and in-fighting, something that is not done in England.

"It's the American style," said Turpin.

"I'll fight anyone," Turpin declared, as if to put at rest rumors he might retire.

Barons Take Over As Reds Drop Tilt

Cleveland Barons hoisted themselves into undisputed leadership of the American Hockey League Wednesday on the strength of a win over Pittsburgh and defeat of Providence at the hands of Buffalo Bisons.

The Barons downed the Hornets 6-4 at Pittsburgh when Eddie Olson pumped home two goals in the closing minutes of the last period.

At Buffalo the rampaging Bisons knocked Providence Reds out of their first-place tie with Cleveland and themselves took over the No. 2 spot with a 7-2 win.

It was the Bisons' first victory at home. Previously they had won two, lost two and drawn one game.

Don Marshall, Gaye Stewart and Steve Whock each scored twice, with Capt. Johnny McCormack adding the seventh tally. He added the Reds 5-1 going into the second period.

In the only other game played Hershey eBars won their first win of the season with Dun Fisher and Obie O'Brien getting two apiece to help the Bears to a 9-4 win over Syracuse Warriors.

From competition and its possible replacement still are under consideration by the CAHA executive.

Boxing Card Moved To Windsor Mills; Takes Place Saturday; Same Fighters On Program; Special Buses To Leave

The boxing card scheduled to take place Sunday evening at the Belvidere Street Armory has been switched to Windsor Mills and will be held Saturday evening. The first bout is slated for 8:30.

The joint promoters, Les Connors and Ray Murphy, were forced to move the program to the Canada Arena in Windsor when unforeseen circumstances forced the change. The move will not effect the card in anyway and all the same fighters will take part in the event.

Three special buses will leave Lansdowne Marke at 7:30 for Windsor and will return immediately after the final bout. A special fare will be charged for the trip.

A good crowd is expected for the program and the promoters, Connors and Murphy, have decided to reduce the prices seeing that the fights have been moved to Windsor instead of at the Armory. All fans who have purchased for the scheduled affair in Sherbrooke can secure their rebate at the door upon entrance.

The main bout will see Rocky Briseois take on Phil Burton in a ten-rounder while the semi-final affair will see Tony Percy and Reggie Chartrand getting together. In the quarter-final another good bout is slated with Bobby Malouf and Vern Stevenson battling it out.

Sherbrooke's Burke Emery will clash with Marcel Sauve in what should be a good fight as both boys will be out to win. Two good preliminaries are boxed to open the evening's festivities. In the first one Joe Kollath will take on Butch Bousquet, the hard-hitting slugger from the Townships, while in the other Don Supple and Bobby Joyal will tangle.

Charlie Grimm Voted National League Manager Of Year For Leading Milwaukee Braves Into Second Spot

New York — (AP) — Milwaukee's Charlie Grimm, who hoisted the Braves from seventh to a surprising second-place finish in one year, today was voted National League manager of the year.

Grimm, runner-up to Casey Stengel Wednesday for major-league Managerial honors, had no trouble outscoring Charlie Dressen, Brooklyn's deposed manager, for the National League's top spot.

The 55-year-old Grimm drew 110 of the 179 votes cast by members of the Baseball Writers Association in the annual Associated Press poll. Dressen was second with 66 votes. Eddie Stanky of St. Louis and Roger Hornsby, of Cincinnati, the only other managers to receive recognition, divided the remaining votes.

Stengel naturally was selected as top man in the American. He received 143 votes. Lou Boudreau of Boston, was second with 19,

CAHA To Decide What Trophy Maritime Major Circuit Will Play For, Says Baldy George, Canada's Big Boss

Kemptville, Ont. — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will decide later this season what trophy the Maritime Major Circuit will play for, says W. B. Baldy George, CAHA president, said Wednesday.

But whatever that decision is, the Maritime Major Circuit won't play for the Allan Cup if they have any professional players on their teams, he said.

George was commenting on a statement in Glace Bay, N.S., by C. Roy MacDonald, president of the Maritime League, that the league will insist on playing off with the Allan Cup winner if the Alexander Trophy is taken out of circulation.

George said no formal motion has been made by the CAHA to withdraw the Alexander Trophy, presented in 1949 by Field Marshal Lord Alexander for competition among major series clubs which were allowed to carry professional players.

The Allan Cup was to remain the championship emblem of senior leagues unconnected with the major clubs.

George said that since the other major leagues the Western Canada, Ontario Hockey Association and Quebec Senior—are no longer in the running for the Alexander Cup, there aren't enough competitors for the trophy.

The trophy's final fate will be decided by the CAHA executive, George said.

Maple Leafs Off To Better Start In NHL This Year; Hold Red Wings To 1-1 Tie; Rookies Tally Goals

The suspicion is growing that Toronto Maple Leafs may have a hockey team this year.

Nudged out of the National Hockey League playoffs last season for one of the few occasions in their history, the Leafs are away with the leaders this fall. And there are indications that they may stay there.

There are few personal changes from the fifth-place Leafs of last spring. But Conn Smythe's bumper crop of rookies is a year older, and a number of them are showing signs that they have a better idea of what it's all about.

In fighting the league-leading Detroit Red Wings to a 1-1 tie last night, the Toronto club showed promise of better things.

Trailing 1-0 after rookie Bill Dineen sank a 25-footer while they were a man short in the second period, the Leafs took command of the play, bombarding Terry Sawchuk in the Detroit cage until he yielded the equalizer midway through the final frame.

And the tying goal by 19-year-old Eric Nesterenko was a gem. The Flin Flon, Man., youngster, who graduated from junior ranks less than a year ago, squeezed his shot between Sawchuk's pad and the goalpost on the short side. It was the only one of 32 drives to beat the great Detroit goalie all evening.

Harry Lumley stopped 20 shots at the other end, including some dangerous efforts by the top Detroit scoring threesome of Earl Reibel, Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay.

The result gave the Wings a clear two-point lead in the standings. The Leafs drew level with Montreal Canadiens in second place, but the Montrealers have a chance to tie for the lead tonight as they visit the winless Chicago Black Hawks. Boston Bruins take on New York Rangers in a battle for fourth place, currently held by the Bruins by a one-point margin.

Hamilton Edges Citadels 4-2

Hamilton — Two goals in the final period last night gave Hamilton Tigers a 4-2 win over Quebec Citadels in an Ontario hockey Association Junior A game.

The win moved the Tigers into a fifth-place tie. The Citadels are in the league cellar with only one win in six starts.

Less than 300 fans saw the teams battle right down to the wire.

After a dull first period in which Bill Stewart scored to give Hamilton the jump, the youngsters turned it on in the second. The Citadels outscored the Tigers 2-1 to knot the count.

Karl Wandovich got the first for Quebec after 1:40 of play and Mike Ratchford beat Riggan for the Cit's second tally at 13:08 and after Marty Kilrea had scored for Hamilton.

The final period was 12 minutes off when Marlin McAlendin scored

Championships To Be Held In Montreal By Weightlifters

Montreal — More than 20 weightlifters from the United States and Canada, including four members of this country's 1952 Olympic team, will take part Saturday in the North American weightlifting championship here.

The championship is sponsored by the Province of Quebec Weightlifting Association and was sanctioned by the Canadian Amateur Athletic Association.

Members of the Olympic team are bantamweight Rosaire Smith of Drummondville, Que., featherweight Jules Sylvain, Quebec; lightweight Gerry Gratton, Verdun, Que.; and heavyweight Dave Bailey, Noranda, Que.

Among the U.S. entrants will be heavyweight Paul Anderson and featherweight Yas Kuluvara, both of York, Pa., and heavyweight Ken Stroller, Buffalo, N.Y.

Jr. Canadiens Rally To Down Three Rivers

Montreal — The league-leading Montreal Canadiens came from behind in the third period Wednesday night to defeat Three Rivers Red 5-4 in a Junior Amateur Hockey Association game.

Claude Vinet and Claude Prevost scored twice to give the Montrealers the edge, with Prevost and Forbes Kennedy setting Denis Boucher up for the winning marker at 15:31 in the last period.

Edgar Gendron scored once and Lalonde twice, to tie the score 3-3 going into the second period.

Cosette put Three Rivers into the lead at the 9:00-mark in the second, but Canadiens came back with two in the third to take the game.

Bruce Edwards To Return To Majors With Chicago Cubs

Chicago — (AP) — Bruce Edwards, former Brooklyn catcher who was thought washed up because of an arm injury, is returning to the major leagues.

This time Edwards, now 30, is coming up as a third baseman.

Chicago Cubs announced Wednesday they have purchased his contract from their Des Moines, Iowa, affiliate in the Western League.

Edwards managed Des Moines to a fourth-place finish and the playoff championship last season. He also played third base, hitting .321.

He broke into the majors with Brooklyn in 1946, was the National League's all-star catcher in 1947 and played on the 1947 and 1949 championship Dodger teams.

OHA To Allow Cits Two More Imports

Toronto — The Ontario Hockey Association junior A council decided Wednesday to allow Quebec Citadels to use four branch-to-branch imports.

Canadian Amateur Hockey Association regulations allow only two imports for each team in the league. The OHA's decision must be passed by the CAHA before the Citadels can look for another two imports.

The OHA meeting also decided that Jack Armstrong, who skipped to Montreal Canadiens of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association after being purchased by St. Catharines Teepees from Oshawa Generals, must return to St. Catharines.

Varisty Runs Off With Track Meet

Montreal — A surprising University of Toronto squad ran away with the 46th annual intercollegiate track and field championship Wednesday.

The strong Varsity contingent won eight of the 15 events and amassed 78 points—more than twice the total compiled by McGill athletes, who finished second. The Toronto team also smashed one of the two records broken at the meet.

English Writers Vexed At Turpin

London — (AP) — Randolph Turpin's defeat by Bobo Olson in the world middleweight title fight in New York Wednesday night "is a ring tragedy that can be explained at the moment only by inadequate training methods," George Whiting said in the London Evening Standard today.

In a story from New York, Whiting blamed Turpin's defeat on his lack of condition.

The Evening News said "sackcloth and ashes and do not look for any excuses, Turpin was well and truly beaten." The News said Turpin's training methods were suspect from the start.

Before the fight, British sports writers criticized Turpin's "as I please" training methods.

Willie Shoemaker Boots Home Three

Albany, Calif. — (AP) — Jockey Willie Shoemaker brought in three more winners at Golden Gate Fields Wednesday to come within three of 400 in a year.

The pint-sized Texan boosted his own world record to 397 aboard Bullregor in the third race, Tauring Dog, in the fourth and Irene's Angel in the sixth.

Saints Rally To Tie Braves 2-2; Bonin And Giesebrecht Tally For Saints; Open Home Stand Tonight

Sherbrooke Saints whittled down an early Valleyfield lead to tie the Braves 2-2 in overtime Wednesday night in a Quebec Hockey League game.

The Braves, going all-out to defeat the last-place Saints and move up from the No. 3 slot in the league, piled up a 2-0 lead in the first five minutes, but they lacked staying power and couldn't stave off Sherbrooke's come-back.

Andre Corriveau, ace Valleyfield goal-getter and top scorer of the QHL, did not score, but he helped Jean-Paul Bisailon whip the puck past Sherbrooke goalie Dave Gathrum for the Braves' opening score at the 2:39-mark.

A minute-and-a-half later, Larry Kwong netted Valleyfield's other marker.

Marcel Bonin came back with only seconds to spare to score for Sherbrooke near the end of the first period. Bert Giesebrecht slammed home the equalizer at 4:49 in the second.

Jimmy Moore And Bucky Buchanan Tally Two Each As Sags Blank Springfield 6-0 In Wide-Open Tilt

Chicoutimi, Que. — Chicoutimi Saguenays walloped Springfield Indians 6-0 last night in a Quebec Hockey League game that gave them undisputed leadership of the League. Previously, they had shared the No. 1 spot with Ottawa Senators.

The Saguenays consistently out-gunned Springfield goalie John Henderson and carried the attack into the Indians territory from the start. Building up a 4-0 lead by the end of the first period.

The Indians played better hockey in the second stanza, but couldn't prevent the home team netting two more to make it 6-0. They held Chicoutimi scoreless in the third frame.

Jimmy Moore got two of Chicoutimi's markers in the first period, Pete Tkachuk and Normie Dussault setting him up at the 13:40 mark and Georges Roy sending him a labelled pass a minute later.

Lou Smrke and Bucky Buchanan slammed in two other counters in the opening period. Smrke scored first on a relay from Fern Perreault and Delphis Franche.

Moore Must Defend Title By Dec. 24

New York — (AP) — Boxing's Joint Board of Review Wednesday told light heavyweight champion Archie Moore to defend his crown by Dec. 24 against "somebody," but preferably Harold Johnson, the

No. 1 contender from Philadelphia. Moore successfully defended his title June 24 when he outpointed Joey Maxim, from whom he won the championship. His six months of non-title grace expire Dec. 24. Charlie Johnston, Moore's manager, told the board that he has never received an offer for a

Casey Stengel Named Manager Of Year; Receives 107 Votes In Poll; Charlie Grimm Edges Chuck Dressen

Glendale, Calif.—(AP)—Casey Stengel is duly grateful, for the fourth time in five years, to be named baseball's manager of the year. He made this point as clear as Stengel can make anything clear when advised at his home that he had won the 1953 award, hands down. The New York Yankee skipper received 107 of the 179 votes cast by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America in the annual Associated Press poll. The vote was quite a tribute to the 64-year-old master, only man ever to manage a team to five straight world championships. He won this same distinction in 1949, 1950 and 1952. As Stengel put it this award was purely a case of the Yankee team, the front office and the coaches all combining in an astonishing movement "to build me up and win for me this great honor." Casey seemed intrigued that his vote was far greater than the combined ballot for the other 15 managers in the big leagues. Milwaukee's hero, Charlie Grimm, was second, with 30 votes, six more than Casey's beaten rival in the World Series, Chuck Dressen, then of Brooklyn, now of Oakland, Calif. Other votes: Paul Richards, Chicago White Sox, 10; Lou Boudreau, Boston Red Sox, four; Al Lopez, Eddie Stanky and Rogers Hornsby, one apiece. "The first time we win the pennant and we win the championship, this vote or award to me was tremendous," recalled Casey, adding that he was "elated," it was "really something," and "wonderful" as the next awards were received. "Now we get to this fifth and we win the championship again and first I have to say my players were great with speed and good arms and they attend to business and naturally you have to say the front office which there has been no changes in since I come to the club has stood back of me and my coaches gotta be thanked for the job they did for me. "Fellas kept asking me how am I going to win five straight," Casey went on, "and I said how should I know. I know some people that know how they won four straight but I didn't know anyone who had won five straight and how was I gonna know how to win five if nobody else did?" In conclusion, or nearly so, Casey noted: "We got a pretty good outfit and if they don't get too confident and don't go too far on this honor Mr. Stengel has just won again, well, the Yankees will make it six straight."

forbidden flavours There may be a place in drinks for molasses, honey, liquorice, vitriol, guinea-pepper or opium, but not in ale. Things was, though, when knavish brewers, short of malt or hops, would slip one or more of these exotic ingredients into the brew. Things got so bad around Henry III's time a law was passed prescribing "the pillory and tumbrel" for dishonest brewers. Henry also created the job of Ale-Taster which, by Queen Bess' day, had become a prize plum for minor office-holders. Will Shakespeare's father, John, held the post in Stratford for a while and seems to have thrived on it. Once appointed and sworn in, the Ale-Taster had to examine all beer and ale in his bailiwick to see that it was "goode and wholesomme". You could tell an Ale-Taster by his leather breeches. When testing, he'd spill some ale onto a wooden seat, then sit down on the damp spot. If the breeches stuck, the theory was that a forbidden substance had been added. Out came the pillory and tumbrel! Our Ale-Tasters could wear leather breeches, but we've found other and better ways of testing Molson's Ale. One of the best is to pour some into a glass, hold it to the lips and sip it slowly. It's so good you just know it couldn't have anything but the very best ingredients. You'd be right too, for Molson's Ale is made — and always has been — with barley malt, hops and water — with an assist from the distinctive Molson strain of yeast. That's all — and it has made "The Ale Your Great-Grandfather Drank" Canada's favourite by a wide margin.

Mr. Pile Sufferer How can you expect anything worthwhile if the internal cause of that it is treated? The Doctor Says BE SURE YOUR PARROT-TYPE PETS ARE FREE FROM INFECTION By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D. "My teen-aged son," writes Mrs. M., "has six pairs of parakeets which he has outside in a protected place, but which he wishes to bring into the bedroom in the winter. Is this advisable from a health standpoint?" Mrs. M. is probably worried about a disease called psittacosis, or parrot fever. If her son's birds are free of the virus causing this disease, it would be safe to bring them into the house. It is a disease caused by a virus which is too small to see under the microscope. A person will not catch the disease from handling a healthy parakeet, but only from one which is infected. The symptoms usually consist of a high fever and conditions similar to pneumonia. In 1932, 76 cases of psittacosis were reported in the United States and seven people died from the disease, and the next year there were only 15 cases and four deaths. The rapid improvement came from a quarantine which was imposed by the federal government on the shipping of parrots and similar birds between the states. Still Battle Birds Since that time our public health services have been engaged in a continuous battle to eliminate psittacosis in susceptible birds. Infected birds have been destroyed and the importation of infected birds has been prohibited. Reports of birds smuggled in from Mexico indicate the need for continued caution. There are laboratory tests which can be used to make the diagnosis definite. A blood serum taken from a victim of the disease who is convalescing or a goat serum which has been produced shortly the course of human psittacosis.
