World News In Brief

Colombo, Ceylon, June 13.—(Reuters)—Food commissioner K. Alvaipillai announced today he had stopped all further purchases of Canadian flour until Canadian suppliers can guarantee "good quality" flour.

Ceylon bakers have protested that Canadian flour is "not as good as Australian" and that, because of Canadian imports, people are eating "worse bread than ever before."

Vancouver, June 13.—(P)—An over-all plan, including a public works program, to meet seasonal unemployment was advocated yesterday at the 30th annual meeting of the Canadian Welfare Council by R. E. G. Davis, of Ottawa, executive director.

His report suggested special work and training programs for young people; extended unemployment insurance benefits available when needed or a well-developed general assistance program administered by the province with incentive grants from the Dominion.

Toronto, June 13.—(P)—Highway accidents in Ontario killed 64 persons during May, a record for a month.

Tokyo, June 13.—(P)—Gen. MacArthur is expected to tell United States defence chiefs that Japan is willing to have American troops stay on after a peace treaty is signed.

That was the word today from informed sources, who added that MacArthur will emphasize that Japan needs an early treaty.

Nelson, B.C., June 13.—(P)—Six more sons of Freedom Doughbors, all women, yesterday were sentenced to maximum three-year penitentiary terms for padding nude. They were arrested June 6.

A total of 419 members of the radical Doughbors sect now have been sentenced to penitentiary terms in trials at Nelson, Grand Forks and Trail. Others are waiting trial.

Hollywood, June 13.—(P)—Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Producers Association, believes agreement will be reached for renewal of the British-American film pact which expires tomorrow.

Johnston, just back from London, said yesterday a settlement may be reached during a one-month period from the old agreement, which permits American producers to take a percentage of their profits out of the country.

Fargo, N.D., June 13.—(P)—Twin windstorms approaching from Canada caused heavy damage to buildings, crops and communication lines last night in eastern North Dakota.

Mayor Gus Heinze of Alice said the two storms, moving southeast, converged there to do damage he set at $50,000.

Magazine Editor May Face Charges

Washington, June 13.—(P)—United States Senate investigators today studied the possibility of bringing contempt proceedings against Philip Jaffe for refusing to answer questions about the five-year-old Amerasia magazine case.

Jaffe was the editor of Amerasia magazine when its offices were raided in 1945 by federal agents who found classified government documents there.

Contempt citations have been recommended against two other witnesses who refused to answer questions by members of the Senate foreign relations subcommittee investigating communist-in-government charges.

They were Earl Browder, former communist party secretary, and Frederick Vanderbilt Field, whom Senator Joseph McCarthy, (Rep. Wis.), author of the communist charges, has called a "Soviet agent." Field denied the accusation under oath, but declined to say whether he is or ever has been a communist.

Subcommittee Counsel Edward P. Morgan told reporters yesterday that the subcommittee got a series of question turn-downs from Jaffe behind closed doors, doors, that he had been directed to draw up recommendations on the possibility of citing the witness for contempt.

The Amerasia case, revived as an offshoot of McCarthy's communist charges, involved the finding of hundreds of classified government wartime documents in the magazine's New York office. The arrest of six persons resulted.

Jaffe, editor of the now defunct magazine, pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to obtain illegal possession of federal documents. He was fined $2,500.

Another of the pleaded no defense and was fined $500 which Jaffe paid. Charges against the remaining four were dropped.

Five Are Dead And 39 Are Missing In Crash Of Air France Plane In Persian Gulf — Military Craft, Helicopter Also Lost.

Paris, June 13.—(P)—A four-engined Air France plane with 50 persons aboard crashed in the Persian Gulf last night. After 12 hours of rescue operations, five were known dead, six had been rescued and the fate of 39 persons was in doubt.

The plane ditched in the gulf north of Bahrain island, off the east coast of Saudi Arabia.

Three of those who survived were members of the crew of eight. The other three were from among the 42 passengers aboard the Saigon-to-Paris flight.

The plane was making a hop from Karachi, Pakistan, to Cairo, Egypt, when it was forced down in the sea.

Jean Sladek, termed one of the company's veteran pilots, was in command of the ship, flying from Saigon to Paris.

The company said Sladek had logged 19,500 hours of flying time. In addition to the pilot, the eight-member crew included a copilot, two radio operators, two mechanics, a hostess and a steward.

The company said first news of the crash was received from Calcutta. Those already saved have been taken to Bahrain, the company announcement said.

An official at Air France said he believed all aboard were of French nationality except one displaced person without a passport.

The Paris office, he said, had received no advisory cables that any government officials or well-known personalities were aboard.

Paris, June 13.—(Reuters)—A French military aircraft with 13 aboard today was reported missing on a flight from Tananarive, central Madagascar, to Tamatave, east Madagascar. Search was being made for it.

Southampton, England, June 13.—(Reuters)—All three occupants were killed when a Cierva Air Horse—claimed to be the world's largest helicopter—crashed and burst into flames here today.

Among the dead was the firm's chief test pilot, Henry A. Marsh. Also on board were two members of the Cierva Autogiro Company.

The machine crashed two miles north of Eastleigh, Southampton's airport.

The machine was not flying high when it crashed, but Southampton firemen were unable to rescue the occupant from the blazing wreckage.

The Air Horse, designed to carry 24 passengers, was still in an experimental stage. The machine was completed only a few months ago, and was to have been used either on one of Britain's "army" lines or in farm work.

Canada Is Thanked For Newsprint

Montreal, June 13.—(P)—Delegates to the seventh Imperial Press Conference will leave today for Ottawa to resume their business sessions after a three-day round of social engagements here.

The 80-odd delegates, 64 of whom represent 13 overseas Commonwealth countries, last night paid a brief visit to the Montreal Men's Press Club.

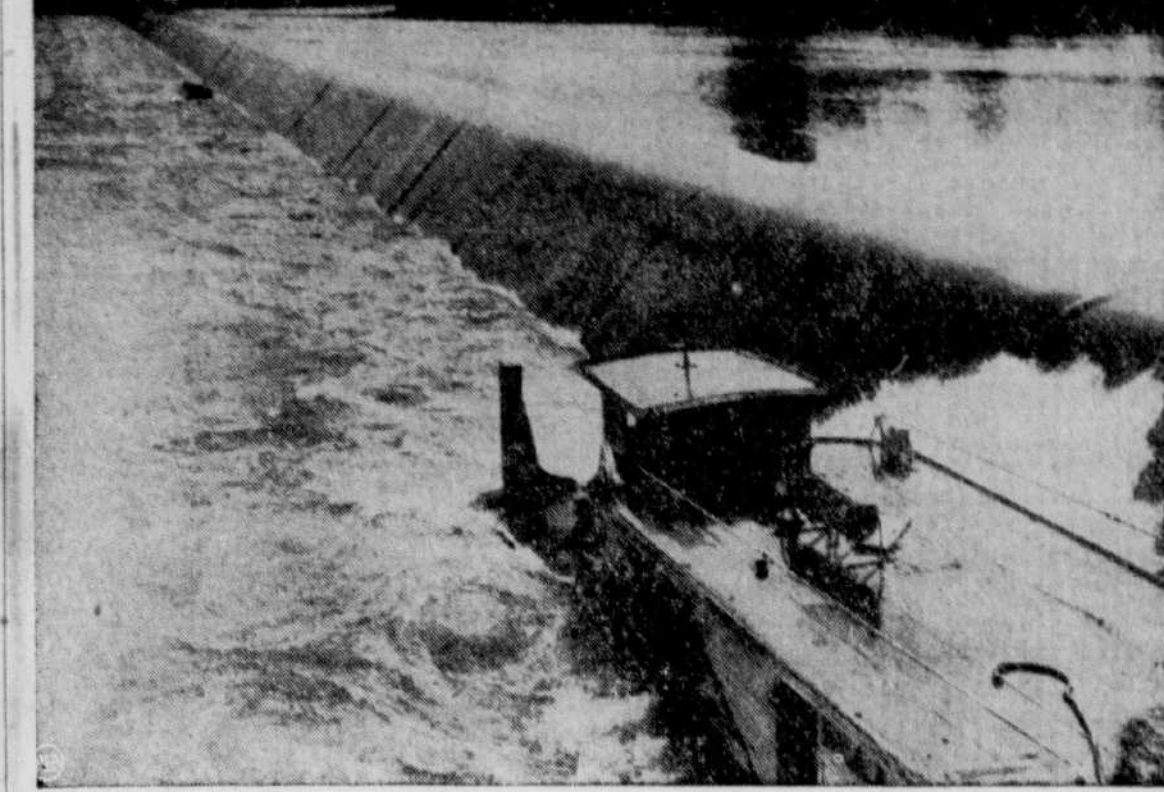

The Ottawa sessions will start tomorrow and last until Saturday. Two important topics will be freedom of the press and the tight newsprint situation in some Commonwealth countries.

Although no business sessions were held here, a representative of the British press told Canada's newsprint makers yesterday that British publishers are grateful for the way the Canadian industry has stood by them and are anxious to deal with Canada again when Britain's currency difficulties are straightened out.

L. P. Scott, managing director of the Manchester Guardian and Evening News, said the Canadian industry — "the greatest newspaper industry in the world" — had fulfilled its responsibility by not abusing its power.

Speaking at a luncheon tendered the delegates by the newsprint association of Canada, Mr. Scott said:

Where Four Perished

A small cabin cruiser is battered against the spillway near Oakmont, Pa., in the swift waters of the Allegheny River. Four were rescued, but four drowned, two of them being would-be rescuers.

Britain Rejects Plans For Complete Political, Economic Union In Europe

Fight Marks Suspension Of Red Deputy

Bonn, Germany, June 13.—(P)—Max Reimann, west Germany's top communist, today was suspended for 30 days from the west German parliament after a communist outburst broke up a session of the parliament's lower house (Bundestag).

Fighting broke out on the floor when guards attempted to remove Reimann.

Communist and anti-communist members of parliament kicked at each other and swung a few wild blows with their fists.

All parties except the communists had joined in a declaration condemning the loss of east German territories to Poland. It denounced the communist-dominated east German government for signing a pact with Poland last week accepting the new east German border as permanent.

Unable to quiet the communists, president Erich Koehler recessed the session.

A few minutes later he reconvened the meeting to announce that Reimann would be barred from Parliamentary sessions for 30 days.

Reimann still refused to leave. His party colleagues surrounded him when guards attempted to remove him.

Anti-communist deputies then went to the aid of the guards, kicking and swinging their fists. The fight was quickly broken up.

At the 1945 Potsdam conference, German territory east of the Oder and Neisse rivers was awarded temporarily to Poland, subject to confirmation in the peace treaty.

Poland, however, ousted all Germans from these regions and incorporated the territory into the Polish state.

Senate Says Divorce Job Too Arduous

Ottawa, June 13.—(P)—The Senate's divorce committee wants a divorce from its job.

In its 249th and final session report presented yesterday, the committee which annually hears hundreds of divorce petitions said the job was taking up too much time of too many Senators.

It regretted that "Parliament has not yet seen fit to solve the problem of Parliamentary divorce by setting up suitable tribunals before which cases from Quebec and Newfoundland can be heard."

Other provinces have their own divorce courts but Quebec and Newfoundland cases have to go through the Parliamentary mill.

The report was presented by Senator W. M. Aseltine, 64-year-old Rosetown, Sask., lawyer and farmer and father of five who said he was quitting after 10 years as committee chairman. The reason, he said, was that his duties as deputy leader of the 13-member Progressive Conservative opposition in the Upper Chamber made it impossible for him to continue as a member of the committee where he has served for 16 years.

The report showed that the committee held 38 meetings, heard 301 petitions, granted 240 and earned $47,330 in fees.

The divorce committee provided statistics to show the growth of Quebec Province divorce petitions to Parliament in the last eight years. In 1942 there were 73 petitions granted. From there it read: 92 in 1943; 111 in 1944; 179 in 1945; 290 in 1946; 348 in 1947; 292 in 1947-48; 184 in the first session and 166 in the second session of 1949.

Most of the petitioners are wives. For all Canada in 1946 husbands were 10 per cent.

Truman's Point Four Plan Still Has To Be Implemented

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, June 13.—(P)—A year and a half has passed since President Truman outlined his "point four" program to aid backward areas of the world.

But today, while the United Nations is attempting to implement a similar program, the United States' scheme hasn't really started. Added to that, no one can say how far it will go, how well it will work or where it will end.

In his inaugural address as President in January, 1949, Truman mentioned some things he thought the United States should do in a world almost half of which was communist. One of these things—his fourth point—had as its aim helping backward countries to a better life and more progress.

The difference between his program and that of the U.N. is that the American scheme is aimed at stopping the march of communism. The U.N., of course, can have no such outward aims. It is merely trying to give technical assistance to all countries that need it.

Both plans reach their end by the same means: Brains, skill and money. Experts would show backward countries how to grow better crops, wipe out disease, moderate education, use water power for electricity, for example.

The United States idea is then to have American businessmen invest money in those countries, aside from what money the government gives.

Canada Will Take Off Kid Gloves In Bid For Markets

Ottawa, June 13.—(P)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said last night in the Commons he is prepared to talk tough in an effort to open British markets for more Canadian products.

It was time, he said, that Canada stopped talking "nicely" when she tried to obtain British markets for Canadian food products.

This would apply only to "one or two" persons with whom he had trade deals in London. About a year ago Mr. Gardiner told the Commons that there were some officials in Britain who were not anxious to import any food products from Canada except wheat.

The question of trade with Britain was raised by opposition members who urged the government to "suggest" to the United Kingdom that, in view of Canada's generous help to her during the war years, she reopen her market to Canadian apples.

"I might as well be perfectly candid," said Mr. Gardiner. "I have done every nice thing I know of to try and persuade those who come here to talk about buying food, but I have not succeeded."

"Others have gone over there and attempted to be even nicer than I was in the last stages of the discussions, and they have not succeeded. I think it is about time we stopped talking nicely to some people over in Britain."

Think they are going to be marketed by nice talking. I think more direct talking must be done than we have had so far, and I am quite prepared to do it.

Before turning to Mr. Gardiner's estimates, members gave first reading to a bill vesting in Trade Minister Howe the powers to direct defence purchasing in peacetime.

Mr. Howe said the measure reduces the war-initiated authority he has held until now. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, asked for a definition of the emergency which would justify placing such board powers in the hands of the Minister.

Mr. Howe replied he believed that the powers were necessary in the light of world conditions. Broad legislation would be introduced in time of emergency.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, called for nationalization of straight defence industries.

In the agriculture debate, E. D. Fulton (P.C.—Kamloops) and N. W. Hertridge (C.C.F.—Kootenay West), both from apple-producing areas of British Columbia, urged that efforts be made to reopen the United Kingdom market to Canadian apples.

They applied their remarks to Ontario and Nova Scotia apples as well as the British Columbia product.

Mr. Fulton said he thought that

Strike Cancels Television Shows

New York, June 13.—(P)—Six Columbia Broadcasting System television shows were cancelled last night when more than 400 technicians walked off their jobs in New York and Hollywood in a contract dispute.

The negotiations involved nearly 600 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Union (A.F.L.) in New York, Hollywood, San Francisco and Washington, D.C.

The strike continued today. Two leading shows cut off were "The Goldbergs" and "Studio One." Four shorter video programs also were pulled. Films and live substitutes were used to fill out the 2 1/2-hour interval in the evening period.

About 335 technicians walked out in New York and another 90 in Hollywood. There, however, CBS was able to stage one of its main television shows, Lux Radio Theatre, using supervisors as engineers and "mixers"—the man who handles the complex radio and television controls.

The issues are wages, working conditions and seniority. Union demands include a sliding scale of wage increases that would lift beginning salaries from $65 to $70 a week, and from $128.50 to $145 weekly after five years.

The union said the last CBS offer was $10 below union demands.

State Police Act To Keep Milk Moving In Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, June 13.—(P)—State police, acting on orders from Governor James H. Duff, put reinforced patrols on the road today to protect milk truck movements in a seven-county dairy strike area with a population of some 7,000,000.

Milk was available only to emergency users such as hospitals and families with formula-fed babies.

Farmers fed surplus milk to hogs and dumped the rest.

Duff acted yesterday after reports of dumping of truckloads of milk by armed picket bands in the five-day walkout which has shut down the 68-member firms of the greater Pittsburgh milk dealers' association. Only a handful of independent dealers continued operations.

At Greensburg, Pa., 30 miles from Pittsburgh, Sheriff Howard Bud Thomas had court authority to organize a posse to prevent violence.

The court granted a preliminary injunction to prevent striking milk workers from adjoining counties from interfering with non-striking workers in Westmoreland county.

Witnesses at the hearing on the injunction testified bands of pickets roved through the county, dumping milk, threatening workers and stirring tactics on a private highway leading to a dairy.

Union Representing The Workers Asked For A Five-Day, 40-Hour Week With The Same Pay Now Given For A Six-Day, 48-Hour Week. The Companies' Counter Offer Did Not Go As Far As The Union Asked.

Washington, June 13.—(P)—Dairy representatives promised to come up today with a proposal for ending Washington's milk strike.

A union-management session broke up at 1 a.m. E.D.T. with no action taken on a union compromise "suggestion." Details were not made public.

The nine dairies that supply most of Washington's daily 760,000 quarts of milk have been closed since Saturday noon. The A.E.L. union representing the workers asked for a five-day, 40-hour week with the same pay now given for a six-day, 48-hour week. The companies' counter offer did not go as far as the union asked.

An emergency arrangement has taken care of hospitals.

Staff Quits On New York Newspaper

New York, June 13.—(P)—The American Newspaper Guild (A.N.G.) went on strike today against the New York World-Telegram and Sun, one of the largest evening newspapers in the United States.

Pickets appeared immediately. The paper's management said it would continue to publish "if we can put out as good a paper as we do every day."

The Guild, however, said it hoped the A.F.L. printers and other mechanical unionists would honor its picket lines and force the paper to suspend publication.

Nearly 400 editorial and business employees, all members of the Guild's New York local, launched the strike at 5:30 A.M. EDT to back up their demands for a 10-per-cent general wage increase and other benefits.

The walkout came after both sides deadlocked yesterday at the end of three months of negotiations.

Morning work for the first edition continued up to the last moment before the strike deadline.

The Guild's "rock bottom" demands yesterday left off with the 10-per-cent pay raise, with minimums ranging from $30 a week for office boys to $130 for experienced newspaper men. The present top is $110. The demands also include a requirement that nine of 10 new employees hired be Guildsmen, a night differential of one hour's pay a shift, arbitration of group layoffs on economy grounds, a five-day week or higher pay for tabulators, and a one-year contract.

The World-Telegram and Sun said it could not meet these terms because of business conditions, and made the following counter-offer:

A general pay increase from $2 to $5 weekly and increases of $1 to $3.50 a week in minimum scales, making the top minimum $113.50 for experienced newspaper men; arbitration of wage conditions if both sides cannot agree; a job security clause "in effect" the same as that at the New York Times; maintenance of membership; eight paid holidays a year instead of six; a night differential of 75 cents a night for the night shift and $1.50 for the third or overnight shift, and a 35-hour work week instead of the present 37 1/2.

"In general wage increase, minimums and night differential," the management said, "our offer goes far beyond anything offered by any other major New York newspaper. On hours, vacations and holidays, it is the equal of the best now in effect or offered by any of these papers. On job and union security it is in line with that accepted by the Guild from the Times."

The Guild and the Times have agreed on all points except wages and contract duration, and are arbitrating these.

In a letter to its employees, the World-Telegram and Sun said: "We do not desire a strike. We have exercised every reasonable effort to avoid one. Any interruption of the publication of this paper which endangers its progress must inescapably impair the security of all."

"The offer gives your committee this morning (Monday) goes as far as it is possible to go in order to avoid a strike."

The Guild countered with a statement from Ed Easton, chairman of the Guild's World-Telegram and Sun local:

"We do not desire a strike. We have exercised every reasonable effort to avoid one. Any interruption of the publication of this paper which endangers its progress must inescapably impair the security of all."

Truman's Point Four Plan Still Has To Be Implemented

Congress has finally approved Truman's point-four plan. As approved, it calls for the United States to spend $35,000,000 the first year. But Congress still has not voted the money.

The plan isn't new. For many years, the United States has had a somewhat similar program working in South America—both on a governmental and a private-industry level. The results of the South American investments have been gratifying.

In the case of the point four program, it will take years before results will really begin to show. Yet the United States remains in a dilemma about getting a scheme started as soon as possible that would stop the march of communism.

Communism makes its appeal to people in backward countries by promising them a better and fuller life. Truman's scheme aims at the same end. Perhaps the dilemma rests in the answers to questions which we won't know for a long time:

Will this help be enough to stop communism? Is the idea too late in starting? Is the plan big enough to do the job?

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Freeze Rules: Think, Think!

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
We have already discussed the general principle of freezing when the opponents make their initial meld before your side does. As with any early freeze, there are three rules to keep in mind. The first rule is: Think before you freeze. The second rule is: Think again. And the third rule is: Keep a-thinking.

either have the pile in your possession—or you will be fighting desperately to get it. If it gets away from you, and the opponents have also melded while you haven't, the hand will probably be a major disaster for your side. That is why you think so hard before freezing. You can afford to take a small loss on any hand. You don't want to take a really big loss.

This doesn't mean that an early freeze is always unsound. It does mean that such a freeze is a dangerous two-edged weapon. Don't use it unless you're quite sure that you're not going to cut yourself.

For example, suppose both sides need 50 points for the initial meld. The player at your left makes the first meld for his side by putting down three aces from his hand. The discard pile is quite small. Your partner discards a black three, and the next player discards a five.

After you draw, you hold the following cards:
Joker K-K Q-Q 10-10 9-9 7-7 4

Should you freeze the pack by discarding your Joker?

No. This is a very poor freeze. It is true that you are discarding to an eight-card hand, but you have no assurance that you can discard safely. Moreover, you don't know whether or not your partner can discard safely. To clinch it you have no reason to suppose that you can get the pack quickly.

Your better play is to meld the Joker with one of the pairs. This puts you on even terms with the opponents. If you lose the pack soon, the chances are that you could not have saved it by freezing.

Q—I asked permission to go out, and my partner said "Yes." I made a canasta and got down to one card, which I was going to discard. The opponents then pointed out that I had not drawn. I drew, and then had two unmelded cards in my hand. I could discard only one of them, so couldn't meld out. What should be done?

A—Discard one of those two cards and continue the hand. Your side must pay a penalty of 100 points when the hand is scored.

Q—I already have a canasta and I have in my hand two black threes and an ace. I draw another black three. I now want to meld my black threes, discard the ace, and thus meld out. The opponents say I cannot discard when I go out with a meld of black threes. Is this right?

A—No. You are allowed to discard when you go out with a meld of black threes. Also, you are allowed to meld the black threes and go out without a discard. The choice is up to the player, and the opponents have nothing to say in the matter.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

TAPPING TYPEWRITER HERALDS ELEANOR POWELL'S COMEBACK
Hollywood—(NEA)—Exclusively Yours: There's another dancing role in the typewriter-tapping stage at MGM for Eleanor Powell. She came out of retirement to do a routine in "Duchess of Idaho." Shirley Temple mixed a role in Andrew Stone's "Riviera." "Not sophisticated enough," was her reason. Marjorie Reynolds did a double-take when she got real champagne instead of the usual ginger ale for a breakfast scene at RKO. They explained it: "You're working for Howard Hughes, kid. "Mrs. Mike" may have a sequel, "Mrs. Mike and the Sergeant," if Producer Edward Gross can get Evelyn Keyes' name on the dotted line. Hollywood's "problem" movies, with the exception of "Home of the Brave," have been overburdened with preachment and lacking dramatic dynamism. The latest, about the American-Mexican problem, "The Lawless," picks up the powder keg, runs with it for a frightening 90 minutes and then drops it right into your lap. With the problem unsolved and the words unsaid, the result is suspense and action and a story of terror that takes turns knotting your heartstrings and frosting your spine. The preachment is there, but it doesn't choke you like the popcorn.

Cowansville Canadian Legion Held Meeting

Cowansville, June 13. — The regular monthly executive committee meeting of Cowansville Branch No. 99 of the Canadian Legion was held in the Auxiliary room of the Memorial Hall, on Monday evening, June 5, with Vice-President, Comrade J. N. Wood, in the chair.

Despite a small attendance, the business was attended expeditiously as soon as the meeting came to order at 9 a.m. Minutes, reports, and other routine matters were soon covered.

A letter was received from the Parish of St. Therese de l'Enfant Jesus requesting co-operation in the matter of their scheduled tombola for the benefit of the church building fund. Bearing this in mind, the Legion executive picked July 21-22 as the tentative date of the Legion's annual Summer Fair, so as not to interfere with the church tombola in August.

Comrade Don Fraser gave notice of motion to amend the house rules in the matter of admission of guests on certain nights, the motion to be presented at the July general meeting.

Comrade Wood conveyed the thanks of the Cowansville High School for the recent donation of a trophy for the Legion for track and field competition. This trophy had been put up for competition at the recent District of Bedford High School Meet for Class III boys and had been won by Cowansville.

At their own request, the comrades who have been rotating as stewards in the canteen were confirmed in office for another year, but the executive voted to increase their remuneration to bring it more into line with their efforts. The meeting adjourned at the comparatively early hour of 10:30 p.m.

A MISCELLANEOUS "SHOWER"

Misses Barbara Seale and Barbara Bell were hostesses for a delightful miscellaneous "shower" on Monday evening, at the Golf Club, for Mrs. Christine Hilton.

The room was beautifully decorated with spring flowers.

The bride-to-be was taken by surprise, when she arrived to help arrange tables for the bridge tournament, to find everything in darkness, but the lights came on as the door was unlocked and she found twenty friends to greet her.

After unwrapping the lovely gifts, delicious refreshments were served and a happy time was spent.

General Notes
Miss Marjorie Lewis was home from Knowlton for the week-end.

Mr. Kenneth Brown has gone to Sherbrooke, where he has a position with the Carnation Milk Company for the summer.

Mr. Keith Johnson has returned from the B.M.P. Hospital, much improved in health, after his long illness with pneumonia.

Mrs. Gordon Brown and Mrs. C. Hubbard were in Montreal one day to visit their brother, Mr. W. Beach, who is a patient in the General Hospital, and found him improving after his operation.

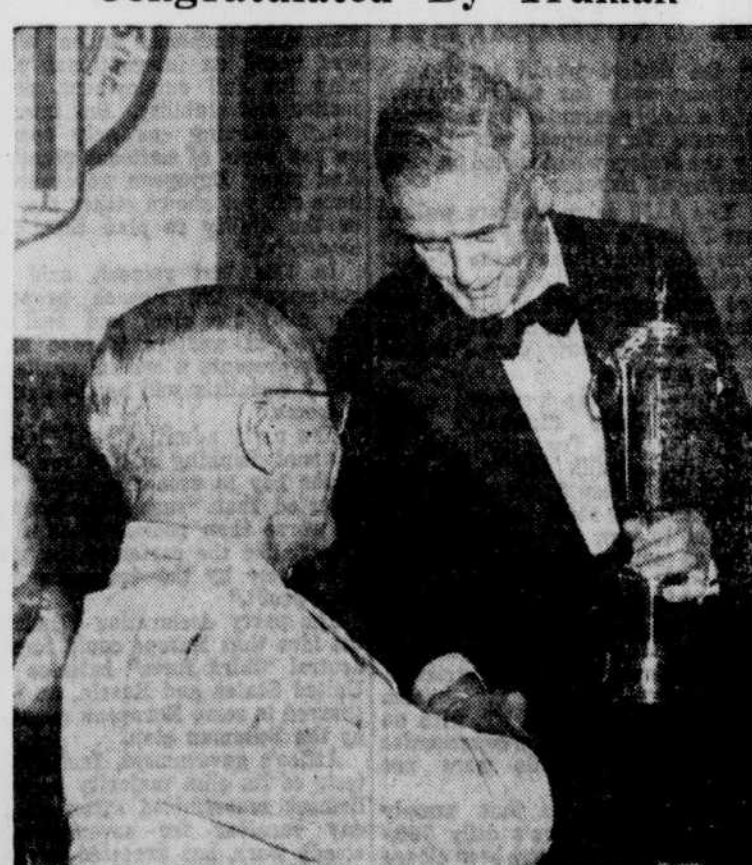

Mrs. N. J. Wyatt spent the week-end in Montreal and attended the marriage of her son, on June 10.

Mrs. F. L. Nunns spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Collins, at their cottage in Missisquoi.

Miss Carolyn Dunwoody attended Convocation at McGill University, Montreal.

Mrs. R. H. Hubbard spent several days in Toronto, Ont., recently. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Alice Willard, of Drummondville.

Six Eastern Townships Doctors Are Honored By McGill Graduates Society

Emeritus memberships in the McGill Graduates Society were presented Saturday night to six Eastern Townships doctors, all of whom have practised medicine for fifty years or longer.

The members were in recognition of the doctors' long service as outstanding graduates.

The presentations, which were accompanied by plaques and certificates, were made at the annual spring meeting of the St. Francis district branch, which took the form of a buffet dinner, held at North Hatley.

The doctors who were honored, and the years of the graduation from McGill, follow: Dr. J. R. Spier, North Hatley, 1891; Dr. C. H. Church, Coaticook, 1896; Dr. Philip Colquhoun, Waterville, 1896; Dr. C. L. Brown, Ayer's Cliff, 1897; Dr. W. W. Lynch, Sherbrooke, 1898; Dr. R. H. Stevenson, Danville, 1900.

Gordon LeBaron, regional vice-president of the Graduates Society, made the presentation and there were brief replies by the doctors, all of whom were present with the exception of Dr. Spier and Dr. Lynch. The doctors were introduced by Dr. T. J. Quintin, of Sherbrooke.

Officers of the branch for the 1950-51 year were elected at the meeting with Dr. Stevenson being named honorary president. Harold McNaughton, of Thetford Mines, was named president. Madeline Dupuis, of Coaticook, and Craig Bishop, of Sherbrooke, were elected vice-presidents. John Murray, of Georgeville, was named treasurer, and Mrs. John York, of Sherbrooke, became secretary.

Optimist President Congratulates Members On Success Of Peanut Day

At a meeting of the Sherbrooke Optimist Club last night President Paul Lefevre declined to divulge the amount of profit realized from the club's annual Peanut Day but indicated that more money was made than last year.

In a congratulatory message to Optimist members who, he said, had worked endless hours for the past month, he made honorable mention of Paul Nadeau, Jacques Laliberte and Gordon Zakaib, whose efforts were a significant contribution to the success of Peanut Day.

"It has been indeed a pleasure to have worked with you," Mr. Lefevre said. "Even if we had only netted a dollar our efforts would have been worth while."

At the same time the president announced that a party honoring the success of Peanut Day would be held for Optimist members and their ladies shortly.

Prizes to the winners of the popularity contest included three leather travelling bags to the winner, two bags to the lady placing second and one for the third place contestant. All contestants are to receive nylon stockings.

Ivan Dugre, coach of the Quebec Senior League champions, said that Henry Crochetiere had been elected vice-president of the Quebec Amateur Hockey League.

Those at the head table other than the president were: Gordon Zakaib, Les Larouche and Fred Bean.

Damp Drudgery

Boots, brooms and garden hose are the answer to Mrs. Heber's spring house-cleaning problems. She and her husband, Henry, move back into their Winnipeg home after the Red River ran through it for almost a month. Son Walter helps with the smelly, filthy task of cleaning floors of their slippery coating. Mud-laden linoleums were thrown out earlier.

Sunday School Pianist Retires After 27 Years

After some 27 years as pianist for Sunday School and Young People's Union, Norman Tracy this week handed in his resignation due to pressure of work with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Mr. Tracy, who has established somewhat of a record, began his musical duties in what is now called Trinity Church and was formerly known as the Methodist Church. He remained there until 1937, when he transferred to Plymouth and continued there until his resignation.

Mr. Tracy will, however, continue as substitute pianist, but does not feel that he can carry on the rather heavy work by himself.

Evacuated Manitoba Housewife Tells How She Set About Clearing Debris

(Editor's note: Mrs. Henry Heber of Winnipeg's Point Douglas district was one of 100,000 evacuees from the Red River flood zones. Her home was flooded—not as deeply as some but more deeply than others. A week ago she brought her family back to Winnipeg and started the clean-up job. Now, in a series of four Canadian Press stories—this is the second—she tells what housewives all through the Red River valley face.)

By ELLY HEBER

Winnipeg, June 13.—I'd never have believed so much could happen in one month.

There we were with the house beginning to look like something again—that awful smell was gone, thank goodness—and only a month ago we fled for our lives and figured we'd never get back.

We were asleep on Saturday, May 6th when someone banged on the door and said: "Get ready to move, the dikes have broken."

Only a couple of blocks from the big point Douglas dike, we'd been worried. Everything we have in the world is in this house. And Luther, the 11-year-old, has a bad heart and shouldn't be rushed around.

But we moved, and fast, and after staying at a hotel I moved to Wapella, Sask.

All the time the kids and I were at Wapella I worried about the house. I still dream of it sometimes—all that ugly water washing through it, eating at the walls and the floor, ruining my stove and bed.

When we finally left to come back I was scared of what I'd find.

But there we were after a few days of the kind of work I never want to do again, beginning to feel reasonably chipper about the future.

Everyone has been so wonderful. The Red Cross, the United Church mission (we're Lutherans ourselves), the people at the rehabilitation centre.

I've been almost embarrassed to ask for anything, they're so anxious to help. We were pretty broke after the trip—although everyone helped us—and we got food and shelter and clothing for the asking.

We'd got most of the basic cleaning done. The walls looked pretty good, though the assessors said the water had soaked up several feet in the boards and the studs. We just painted them last winter and I'm still not sure whether I'm glad we had the fresh paint to protect them or whether I'm irked at all that wasted effort. Every trip painting the inside

C. W. L. To Hold Diocesan Convention

The Diocesan convention of the Catholic Women's League of Canada will be held in Magog on June 15 under the patronage of His Excellency, Most Reverend Philippe Desmarieau, of Sherbrooke. A large number of members have already registered.

Born at Lancaster, Ont., Miss MacDonald was educated at Iona Academy, St. Raphael's West, Ont. Completing a course in creative writing at McGill University, she started work in the Campion Book Shop of which she has since been in charge.

When Ensign started in 1948 the publisher, Mr. Keyserlingh, asked Miss MacDonald to act as editor of the book page. She was also asked to cover the opening ceremonies of the Holy Year in Rome as "Special Correspondent of the Ensign."

Miss MacDonald was the first Canadian correspondent to arrive in Rome. She has since addressed audiences in western cities as well as Windsor, Ottawa, Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury and Montreal.

Quebec Bishop Authorizes Relief Fund

In a letter to the clergy of the Diocese of Quebec the Archbishop of Quebec, Most Rev. Phillip Carleton, made it known that he had authorized the treasurer of the Diocese to open an account to be known as the "Winnipeg Church Relief Fund."

At the same time he said that a sum of $5,000 had been sent to the Most Rev. L. R. Sherman, Archbishop of Rupertland, by the M.S.C.C. to be used at his discretion to alleviate cases of distress within the Church.

"I am told," Archbishop Carleton said, "that aid of all kind is reaching the stricken area, but the needs must be exceedingly great. No doubt our people have contributed generously to the various funds which have been opened; but I am sure that there are many who would like to lend a helping hand to the church which must be in great need."

Before leaving on a trip to Newfoundland the Archbishop said he could "assure the new Canadian Diocese of the prayers and good wishes of our people."

Local Residents Are Injured In Accident

Adalbert Beaulieu, 36-year-old local man, is in the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Quebec, in critical condition following an automobile accident near St. Jean Port Joli on Saturday. Roger Aubry, also of Sherbrooke, who was driving the car in which Mr. Beaulieu was a passenger, is in hospital suffering from lacerations to the face and severe shock.

The accident occurred when an automobile driven by Rev. Clovis Beaugrand, 60, Roman Catholic Chaplain of Tracadie, N. B., leper hospital, collided with that in which the other two men were riding. A coroner's inquest has since ruled that Father Beaugrand died of a heart attack seconds before the collision.

Mr. Beaulieu, who resides on Amherst Street, is district manager of the Stainless Permanent Steel Company and was returning from Cabano with his salesman, Mr. Aubry, whose home is on Drummond Road.

Suffering from multiple fractures, Mr. Beaulieu, who is married to Viviane Perrault of this city, and has two small sons, is in an oxygen tent, fighting for his life.

According to information received from his family this morning, he is in a very weakened condition and his physicians are hoping to strengthen him before they can treat any of the fractures.

Father Beaugrand's body was taken to St. Hyacinthe Seminary and his funeral service will be held in St. Hughes, Bagot, where he was born.

The priest was the founder of the Holy Family Parish in Calgary, Alberta.

Dominion Textile Profits Fell During 1949

Although profits of Dominion Textile Co., Limited for the year ended March 31, 1950 showed a sharp decline, to $1.15 a common share from $2.03 in the preceding year, the year's results may be considered as fairly satisfactory, the directors' report points out, in view of the much higher provision made for depreciation during the period under review, and the distinctly unfavorable conditions that existed during certain months of 1949.

The report, which is signed by G. B. Gordon, president, refers to the pronounced business recession that occurred in the United States during the spring and the early summer of 1949. This had an unfavorable effect on Canadian trade sentiment, resulting in a sharp decrease in the company's orders booked, volume of production and shipments. The situation improved, Mr. Gordon reports, from September onwards, and for the first three months of 1950, the last quarter of the company's fiscal year, production of the mills was at a high level.

The company's selling prices were reduced in August, 1949, to correspond with the lower price of the new American raw cotton crop, but when the value of the Canadian dollar was set at a discount of ten per cent in relation to the U.S. dollar, on September 21, 1949, the resulting increase in the cost of raw cotton made necessary an upward revision of prices for finished products. These prices have been maintained at the level then set, Mr. Gordon reports, although the market price of raw cotton in the U.S. has advanced nearly ten per cent since last autumn.

"It is to be hoped" Mr. Gordon said, "that the current impaired manufacturing margin between raw cotton costs and the selling prices of our goods will be improved somewhat by lower market values of raw cotton in the U.S.A. when this year's crop is harvested from August onward. An increase in selling prices is the only alternative, as it is difficult to envisage a decrease in operating costs through reductions in wage rates or in other manufacturing expenses. Raw cotton costing thirty cents per pound or more has already brought about a general price level for cotton goods which places them at a disadvantage in relation to consumer spending. Also to be considered is the possible loss of business to imports from other lands where prices are geared to a lower standard of living and where depreciated currencies or local manufacturing practices offer a marked advantage. Higher asking prices for our goods can be contemplated only if every effort to meet the situation in other ways proves futile."

Expenditure of almost $6,000,000 on plant account during the year, the report continues, has gone a long way towards completion of the major projects in hand. The company has decided to construct a modern eight-story head office building on Sherbrooke St. W. in Montreal, and expects to occupy it about May of next year.

A new method of valuing inventories has been adopted, similar to the LIFO (Last In—First Out) method accepted by U.S. taxation authorities for companies of this type. The heavy cost of carrying inventories is reflected in the balance sheet by bank loans of $4,932,551.

Edmonton, June 13.—Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Oliver, of Edmonton, observed their golden wedding on May 30th. It was on May 30, 1900 that Miss Elizabeth Beattie became the bride of Charles Allan Oliver at the Anglican Church, Leeds Village, Quebec.

Investments and advances, mainly in subsidiary companies, are shown in the balance sheet at $9,544,289 compared with $9,402,399 a year ago. Book value of marketable securities, less reserve, is shown at $10,080,026, down about half a million dollars from 1949. Market value of these securities at the close of the fiscal year was $1,729,129 higher than the balance sheet value, and down by only $163,281 from the previous year, at $1,818,155 as compared to $1,981,436 in 1949.

The revenue account shows income from operations at $4,140,958 compared with $7,510,116 in 1949. Figures in both years are after depreciation, which amounted to $3,433,528 during the year under review, against $1,651,942 in 1949. Income from investments, at $722,785, was down from the previous year by $51,553. It was deemed expedient to forgo dividends from the Montreal Cottons Co., in order to assist that company to re-establish its liquid assets, which had been depleted by the redemption of its preferred shares in 1948.

Homes Freed

The Lyndale Dike, which held back flood waters on the Red River from Norwood homes, is being removed. Here bulldozers chew away the great pile of rubble which once was the homes it surrounded. Removal of the dike was urged by residents of St. Boniface, anxious to return to their homes.

Search Continues For Slayer Of Police Constable

Montreal, June 13.—A country-wide search for the murderer of an R.C.M.P. constable will hit full stride as soon as a police artist can sketch a suspect's picture, city police said here last night.

The suspect was identified as "C. Loring" or "Loring", and was believed to be hiding out in Ontario or western Canada.

He is wanted for the murder May 25th in Montreal of Constable Alexander Gamman, unarmed Bank of Canada guard. Sgt. Gamman was fatally wounded when he tried to capture a frustrated bank bandit fleeing from the Bank of Toronto branch on downtown Beaver Hill here. He died in hospital 35 hours after the shooting.

Bank manager S. G. Bickley, shot at the same time, has recovered from a leg wound.

The suspect was described as a sailor, a heavy drinker and a gum chewer, six feet, two inches tall and weighing about 215 pounds. City police said they were awaiting arrival of an R.C.M.P. artist from Ottawa to draw the suspect's picture. A complete description has been obtained and his picture will be sent to police stations across the country.

in the province to possess their own premises. It will be recalled that through the co-operation of Mayor Carignan of Lachine they had acquired a plot of land upon which they proposed to build. Now they have acquired an adjoining premises already built, an official "Angliers News" announcement of which is as follows:

"Another one of the original objectives of the Lake St. Louis Angliers has been accompanied. Following closely on the closing of the Chateaugay sanctuary and the establishment of the muskie hatchery, Lake St. Louis Angliers now have a clubhouse. A promise made to the members has been fulfilled. The property, formerly owned by McGill Rowing Club, is situated at 3501 St. Joseph street, Lachine, near the wharf. The building is adequate for all the needs of the Association. It includes a place suitable for offices, a large hall, storage place for boats and canoes, large wharfage area and very large grounds. Plans are under way for the renovation and redecoration of the building and the beautification of the grounds. With these new facilities, Lake St. Louis Angliers will be able to expand the very successful work of restoration and conservation of wild life in the Province of Quebec. All in all, it will be a place the members can be proud of. When the work is completed the building will be open for inspection for members and their friends. The Association would appreciate any help any of their members would care to give them in the redecoration of the building."

City Bond Issue Is Awarded

Award of a city of Sherbrooke bond issue to Casgrain and Company Ltd., and Dudley Dawson, Ltd., was announced today by city treasurer Cormier.

The bid of this syndicate for the $50,000 issue was $8.61 and the yield will be 3.088.

This compares with an average interest cost of 3.259 per cent on a $1,000,000 issue last August and 3.214 for a corresponding $50,000 issue floated last June.

The highest rate paid was 3.45 per cent for a $975,000 loan effected in August 1948 and a low of 2.669 per cent for a $420,000 issue sold in July 1947.

"Only within the last week has the World-Telegram and the Sun shown a willingness to bargain, and its final proposal is still not even close to the contracts on other papers."

"The united council was therefore faced with this choice: either strike to obtain a decent contract or to give in to management's stubbornness."

"All we want is to be treated as everybody else in the business is."

Last January the Scripps-Howard World-Telegram bought out the Sun and combined circulations. The management said circulation now is more than 600,000 daily.

Canada Will Make

Britain, in view of Canada's wheat trade aid, would take it in "good part" if the Canadian government asked her to allocate $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 for Canadian apples.

Mr. Herdridge said the United Kingdom purchased $2,500,000 worth of American apples and $3,500,000 worth of Australian apples last year.

The U.K. had agreed to use some of the funds earmarked for the purchase of Canadian wheat to buy apples, but the government had not yet decided whether to provide for apples.

He supported Mr. Fulton's suggestion that if a fresh share of the British market is not found, the government should establish some floor or support price for apples so the producers would know what the future held.

Mr. Gardiner said Britain had refused to buy Canadian apples, but Canadian producers themselves had done a good job in finding markets. They had sold their product in 32 of the 48 American states, despite a bumper American crop and had sent what they could not sell to the United Kingdom as a gift.

The Doctor Says

ISOLATING POLIO VICTIMS
MAY WARD OFF GENERAL
EPIDEMIC

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Although there is much still to learn concerning polio, the cause is now known to be a virus, which is a tiny living organism too small to see under the ordinary microscope.

This virus is difficult to grow outside the human body but it has been possible to study it in monkeys and in a few other experimental animals.

Consequently it is now known that there are at least two kinds of polio viruses and possibly this is the reason why second attacks of the disease have been reported once in a while.

How is this virus spread? Probably it is from fairly close contact between someone harboring the virus and a susceptible person. The virus has been found in waters contaminated by human waste and on flies, but it is likely that human infections are usually contracted by fairly close contact.

It is believed, too, that the incubation period—that is the time between the exposure to the virus is between one and two weeks. It is also believed that most people who have not had polio are susceptible to the virus and that children from 1 to 16 years of age are as a group more susceptible than older people, although polio also attacks older people occasionally.

What we know now is the result of painstaking research and there is every reason to expect that investigations of the future will continue to hack away at the problem until it becomes solved.

This research is now being conducted in many parts of the world and is being supported in the United States very largely by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis which so many citizens support in the annual March of Dimes Campaign.

Since there is no known way of preventing polio, what precautions can be used? Early diagnosis is, of course, particularly helpful. At present it is recommended that polio patients be isolated, that is, kept away from others—for one week from the beginning of their illness or from the end of fever. The secretions from the nose and throat and intestinal discharges contain the virus and should therefore be disposed of as quickly and as safely as possible.

General Control
Other than these measures the general opinion is that about all that can be done is to take certain steps in general control such as to be aware of unusual outbreaks of polio, to isolate children who have fever until the diagnosis of its cause has been found, to keep children away from unnecessary contacts such as crowds or movies, to avoid excessive physical exercise and to postpone any but urgent operations around the nose, throat or mouth.

These preventive measures do not need to be taken, however, except in those areas in which there is an unusual amount of polio; parents should not feel that they must restrict the activities of their children all summer unless there is a more than average amount of infantile paralysis in the community.

Planned Saving

paid off for the Browns

The neighbors remember how sick young Donny was a few months ago, and how worried the Browns were. But they never guessed what a serious drain his illness had been on the family purse.

Wisely, the Browns had made it a rule to put something into their savings account, week by week, almost from the day they were married. So when they consulted their bank manager, their credit was good. With the help of a small bank loan, they were able to pay all their bills promptly. Now Donny is healthy again—and so is their bank account.

Pert Milliner Designs Models For Ottawa Set

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa—(C)—"My work — it is a part of me."

Pert Alberte Legeault shrugged an expressive shoulder. "I don't feel as if I'm working when I'm making hats."

Alberte was born in Hull, Que., and went into the millinery business 12 years ago when she was 18. Now her styles are so popular in the capital that there is scarcely a wife of a diplomat or high government official who doesn't boast at least one hat with a "Mile Alberte" label.

The wives of two Government Ministers also have worn Alberte models.

The sleek-haired young expert styled several for Princess Alice, wife of a former Governor-General.

"I made five for Her Excellency," said Alberte. "One was a black shiny straw and there also was a close-fitting turban for travelling — draped in toast-colored jersey."

Lady Alexander doesn't care for extreme hats.

"Her Excellency chooses hats with good lines and not too much trimming," said Alberte.

What to choose when shopping for hats?

Alberte warns that trimming on the left side gives a "matronly" look. Flowers and feathers on the right give a "much younger, more dashing" appearance.

Women with round faces should avoid the complete halo hats. Instead there should be at least a fold in the material at one side — to detract from the roundness.

Tiny persons should avoid great towering feathers and obvious attempts to give height.

Tall persons can effectively wear cart-wheel hats — those are wide but don't add to height.

Finally Alberte has one last piece of advice — don't copy the other woman.

She confessed that customers often come in begging her to make them a hat exactly the same as one they've seen on somebody else.

That's difficult when the customer is 10 or 15 years older than the 21-year-old model who wore the hat which caught her eye.

In such cases Alberte styles the hat as closely as possible to the one desired — but with modifications.

of intimate friends of the bride-elect. Following the presentation of the gifts to Miss Hibbard, tea was served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McD. Millar and Miss Heather Millar, Newton Street, have returned from Chalk River, Ont., where they attended the wedding of their son and brother, Dr. Charles H. Millar, to Miss Ruth L. Bailey, which took place on Saturday.

Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. Leonard Dorey and Mrs. Arthur Ross, entertained recently at a linen shower at the Masonic Temple, Montreal Street, in honor of Miss Shirley Billing, a June bride-to-be. The camouflage, contrived by the hostesses, worked out beautifully and the bride-elect who came prepared to take part in a quite different event, found herself at her own party.

The pale blue and white color scheme was carried out in every detail, white lilies and blue streamers decorated the hall and the simulated basket containing the lovely linens was done in frilly blue crepe paper and ribbons, and was presented to the guest of honor by Miss Joan Billing and Miss Doris Lavallee.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Wesley Billing, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Arthur Arbery, at the table covered with a white damask cloth and centered with blue forget-me-nots and lilies of the valley, completed by white tapers.

Miss Carol West assisted the hostesses in serving.

The arrangement of pink and white spirea, with iris, tulips, phlox and greenery glorified the artistic interior of the Country Club House for the opening bridge and tea on Saturday afternoon, when a large number of guests, non-members as well as members, took advantage of the annual "open house" and the success of this first event augured well for much activity at the club this summer.

Mrs. G. H. Carr, president; and Mrs. F. Steben, social convener, received the guests, who were looked after by the hostesses: Mrs. G. H. Carr, Mrs. W. E. Hume, Mrs. K. C. F. Mills, Mrs. C. H. Niles, Mrs. F. Steben, Mrs. Cyril Pike, Mrs. O. Goyette, Mrs. R. C. Keeler, Mrs. J. R. Simms, Mrs. H. Langille, the Misses Mimi Shea, Marguerite Gauthier, Priscilla Tuite and Charlotte Nadeau.

One corner of the cocktail room has been greatly improved by the installing of a corner seat, cushioned with bright red leather, matching the figures in the original wall paper, and making for extra comfort for the members.

The tea table, covered with an ecru fluted lace cloth and centered with a large bouquet of American beauty roses and matricaria graced a corner in the lounge, where during the afternoon, tea was poured by Mrs. Carr, Mrs. W. E. Hume and Mrs. C. H. Niles.

DOROTHY DIX

Bad Housekeeper

Domestic Rift Caused By The Wife's Incompetence

Dear Miss Dix: I am married to a young woman who is pretty, intelligent, amiable, affectionate, all that a man could want in a wife, except that she is the world's worst housekeeper. I bought a pretty home when we married. It is never clean or orderly. There is never a place where you can sit down in comfort. Even the laundry isn't sent out. I provide ample money to keep a good table, but there is never anything fit to eat. My wife frankly tells me that she loathes domestic work. That cooking bores her to tears, and besides, she hasn't any turn for it and could never learn how to do it.

The situation is particularly hard on me because I am a domestic man and had looked forward to having a home that was like the one in which I was brought up.

My wife and I have got almost to the breaking point. We quarrel continually because when I come home tired and hungry from my work of an evening I am infuriated over the mean dinner which she puts before me, and she considers me gross and material because I put stress on such creature comforts as a clean room, fresh towels in the bathroom and decent food.

What do you think of our problem?

Answer: It is a pity that when you were courting your wife you were so busy asking her, "Do you love me?" you neglected to inquire if she knew how to cook and generally to ascertain her views on a woman's place in the home.

SHOULD INVESTIGATE QUALIFICATIONS

It is a queer thing that men practically never try to get a line on a girl's domestic qualifications before they lead her to the altar, for on them more than on almost anything else depends the happiness of their marriage. For no marriage can be a success unless the wife knows how to keep house any more than it can be a success if the husband cannot make the money to support it. It is just as necessary that the wife should be able to fry the bacon as it is for the husband to bring it home.

No man can prosper if his wife is wasteful and extravagant and throws half he makes in the garbage can. No man can be healthy and competent to do his best work unless he is properly fed. It doesn't avail a man anything even for his wife to love him unless she expresses her affection in making him comfortable.

The way for you to settle your problem is either to hire a competent housekeeper and put the entire management of your home in her hands, or else break up your home and go and live in a hotel where you can get good food and good service. Perhaps your wife's other charms and graces offset her lack of domesticity. But don't try to go on as you are, quarrelling over her inefficiency. It will kill your love and send you to the divorce court.

Dear Miss Dix: We are a young couple who have been married a year and a half. Get along fine together. Everything all right, except that I can't get my husband up in the mornings. He gets plenty of sleep. Is not lazy. But he is just terrible to get up in the mornings. I have let him be late for work several times, but I can't take a chance of letting him lose his job. He gulps a hurried breakfast and is off. Never a chance to fix the furnace. I am so tired to this and we scrap over it to the extent that he hardly talks to me for several days. I don't like to have every day begin with a quarrel. What shall I do about it?

A. L. B.

Answer: Quit making an issue of it. Just accept the fact that your husband is a sleepy head and that it is part of your job to wake him up and get him off to work. Make a joke out of it instead of a tragedy. He might have a lot worse fault than that.

I'm not saying that a man who hasn't enough energy and initiative and the get-up-and-get-out about him to wake up of himself isn't aggravating. He is. But there is nothing you can do about it. Nothing you can do or say is going to turn your husband into an early riser. You can have a fight over this fact every morning and send him to work peeved with you and thinking bitter thoughts of you all day. Or you can make a game out of getting him out of bed. Give him a good breakfast with a jolly wife across the table from him and send him away convinced he has the greatest little girl in the world for a wife.

Which policy do you think will pay better, and do more to keep you out of the divorce court?

Dear Miss Dix: I am married to a man who is perfectly splendid in every other way except this: He delights in airing all my faults in front of company. When we are alone together he practically never criticizes me, but just let company come and he holds up all of my faults and shortcomings for their amusement. Why is this?

G. M.

Answer: It is his way of being witty. Lots of men do that. They really think their wives are just the best ever, but in order to show off how humorous they are they drag out poor old wife before company and try for laughs by making fun of her. The only way to cure him is to make up some nice spicy stories about his little peculiarities and set the table in a roar by countering with them when he starts out with his little spiel.

New Taste Treat: Bratenburgers

BRATENBURGERS are a tasty variation of the familiar hamburger, prepared in sauerbraten sauce.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

A variation on the familiar hamburger theme is always new. Bratenburgers—they are new! Nothing more complicated than hamburgers cooked in sauerbraten sauce of spices and vinegar, guaranteed to pick up languid weather appetites. Here's the brand new tested recipe:

Bratenburgers
(6 servings)

Three slices dry bread, ½ cup hot water, 1 pound hamburger, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 1 egg, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup cider vinegar, 1½ cups water, 12 cloves, 6 bay leaves, 8 ginger snaps (coarsely crumbled).

Break up bread and soften with ½ cup hot water. Add meat, onion, egg and salt; mix well. Shape into six patties and brown on both sides in hot fat. Mix together remaining ingredients; pour over patties. Cover and simmer about one hour.

Personally, I like them with mashed potatoes and a big bowl of fit. Slacks come in a range of neutral-toned colors from ice-cream white to darker beiges and grays in gabardines or tropical worsteds.

The old stand-by T-shirt blossoms out in new looser mesh-like weaves and in bold colors sometimes pointed up by contrasting stripes. Also aimed at cool comfort are sports shirts in thin handkerchief-weight cottons.

Terry cloth steps down from beach robes, cardigan jackets and sweaters to make matching socks that are absorbent, wash easily and won't shrink. If dad likes his sports togs bright, blazer stripes on these terry cloth togs will fill the bill.

Fitting leisure time companions for the pipe smoker are new pipes with interesting carved briar bowls. Skillful carvings include rugged animal heads, Indians, knights and friars.

New lure for the fisherman is a transparent live bait box. Tenite plastic in amber or green makes the tough nine-ounce box which can be hooked over a strap or belt. A perforated shelf is attached inside to the hinged lid. When the lid is raised, a live minnow is pulled up on the shelf out of the water in the lower half of the box.

Golfers can get in backyard practice with less risk to windows and innocent bystanders with the help of light plastic practice balls. Bakelite is molded in the shape of a regulation golf ball and punched with holes to make a feather-weight sphere. In practice shots, this ball travels the same hooked, sliced or straight path as a regular ball—but is slow motion and travels only one-tenth as far.

If a camping trip is in prospect, a sturdy rechargeable spotlight will be an illuminating guide. One such spotlight works for 1000 hours before recharging is needed. This one throws a powerful beam for a half mile, the makers claim. Recharging may be done from an auto cigar lighter or a house outlet.

The man who finds his summer recreation in his own home workshop is a candidate for such new gadgets as a soldering gun which is an inexpensive substitute for a blowtorch. The gun fires an alcohol flame. Small electric sander-polishers equipped with lamb's wool buffers and different grades of sandpaper are also calculated to speed up workshop projects.

Mrs. L. D. MacLeod then addressed a few words to Mr. MacLeod in Gaelic, after which she thanked him for his faithful service to the United Church choir, and complimented him upon the excellent qualities of his voice. She presented him with a wallet from the members of the choir and church.

In reply, Mr. MacLeod expressed his thanks and commented upon his pleasant years spent in Bury, and said that he hoped to be able to return frequently to visit his friends.

Hints Are Given To Brides Facing The Problem Of What To Wear

One of the most pressing problems facing a June Bride, is, "what kind of dress am I to get and how many." The answer is difficult as most summer clothes this season have a "you-must-have" quality which is hard to resist especially for a bride.

The bride should remember that remaining crisp and fresh during the hot weather is one of her many new duties as a housewife. This means that she will need many pet frocks that will wash well and keep their air of newness. The beauty of the 1950 dresses, too, is that there are styles for every bride — completely strapless, made with one strap, with halter necklines, or with built-up tops so that nobody needs to worry about bra straps showing. Suntop dresses also offer more for the money because there are so many choices in jacket tops — waist-length, bust-length, fitted, bloused, give an idea of the variety. These jacket tops also mean that

Wardrobe Of Bride Made To Flatter

Tucks and gathers have a slimming effect and are being used on summer-to-fall suit dresses. A crisp white weskit can be worn this summer with skirt, slacks or shorts, or to change last year's dress, according to ready-to-make fashion news, where a complete wedding wardrobe, from flower girl to bride and guests, is also described.

"A bathing suit has a strap that buttons off for even tanning; featherboning keeps the top in place. A weskit can be worn with any skirt, with slacks or with shorts, or to change last summer's dress. A spectators sports dress is very trim in white, accented with red-and-white checks. A sheer dress for parties is particularly pretty with crisp white collar and cuffs.

June Wedding
"For a pretty June wedding, the flower girl, proud as she is pretty, wears pink organza. Its skirt is importantly long. A soft crepe dress with fan drapery on the skirt is ideal for the wedding guest. Drop shoulders make the tiny cap sleeves. Another is beige faille, with a very slim skirt and a scarf drapery tied at the hip-line. For dancing at the wedding, there is whispering taffeta with a swinging, bell-like skirt.

"Of course the bride looks beautiful. Her satin gown of the palest blue-pink, stretching out to a gleaming train. Her veil of nylon marquisette falls from a satin cap quilted with pearls.

"The set-in belt is a forerunner of fall in one suit dress, which also has a peplum, gathered at the sides to make the waist look smaller. Outside darts on the jacket of another suit dress add a decorative touch that's pointed up with buttons.

The Skirt
The skirt's fly-front is purely for effect; it's not a closing. Clusters of gathers in the tucked peplum of still another suit dress emphasizes the slimmest of the narrow skirt, which is slit at either side at the hem.

"An afternoon dress in taffeta is crisp enough to emphasize the clean lines of the mitered, stand-away collar, soft enough so the pleats fall in soft folds. The short sleeves make it cool for summer; the lines and material will be right for fall. Another afternoon dress in crepe or tissue faille falls with becoming fullness in folds from the shoulder seams, and from the deep basque point in back.

The bodice dips to a slight point in front, and there's an unpressed, inverted pleat to give front fullness to the skirt.

ROCK ISLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Varney and son, of Sherbrooke, spent Sunday, June 4, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Badger, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Walsh.

Mrs. A. E. Jackson is spending three weeks in Lindsay, Ont., at the home of her son, Mr. Terry Jackson. She was accompanied to Ottawa by Mr. A. E. Jackson. Their son, Gerald Jackson, and Mrs. Jackson, of Waterloo, and their daughter, Mrs. A. H. Noble, of Sherbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Jackson, met them in Ottawa.

Mr. John Danneau is a surgical patient in Broadview General Hospital, Newport, Vt.

Sundresses take kindly to any occasion — luncheon to cocktails, street-wear to sitting in the sunshine.

"Sleeveless" is another key word for summer fashions. Sleeveless dresses will play a big part in the cool-at-top look for summer, both in sports dresses and in town fashions. The sleeveless fashion carries on into active sportswear and play clothes and summer blouses to confirm its all-around rightness. A wise bride will include such a dress in her trousseau.

Opposite of sleevelessness are all the dresses with not only sleeves, but big sleeves, puffed and draped. This is another way of saying that this summer stores will have fashions to please everybody. The dresses with big sleeves range from spectator sports to afternoon styles, and a good many of them are in sheers.

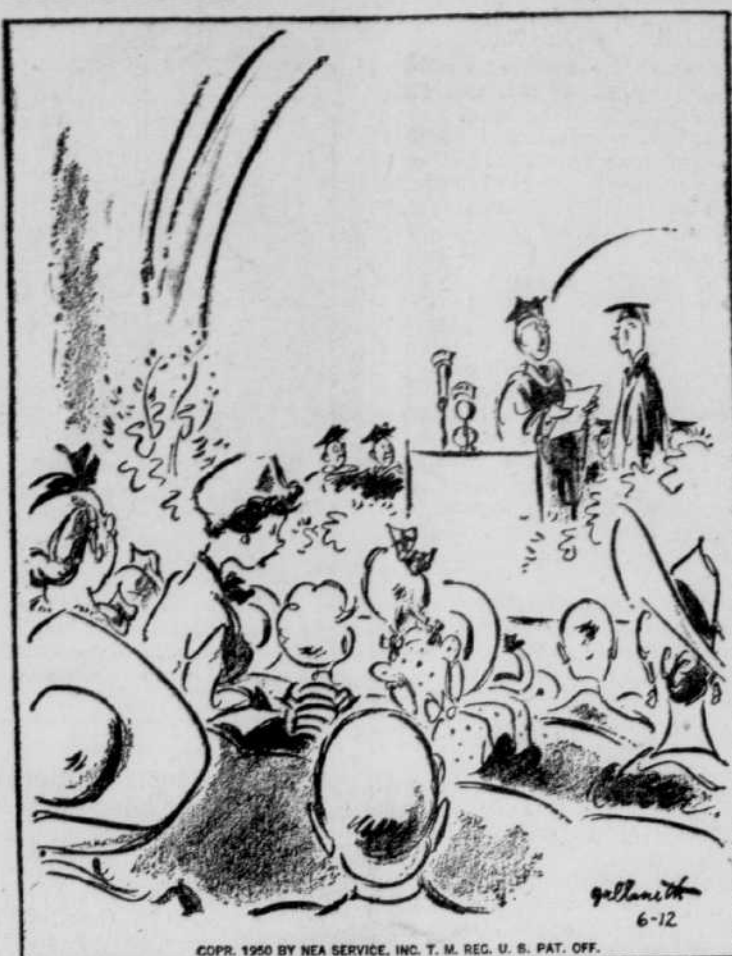

June Brides who like the separates way of dressing are going to have a field day. There are more separates than ever, for night and day — circular and other full-cut skirts in elaborate prints, some of them even "painted" with gold; all-purpose tops like strapless elasticized tubes, cool-cut sweaters, T-shirts and tank-tops. There will also be more separates in the dress departments this summer consisting of tuck-in blouses and skirts. This clinches the case for separates even more convincingly.

History Made By Brides Last Year

Last year's brides didn't know it, but they were making marital history.

Emily Post, noted etiquette authority, has acknowledged plastics as perfect gifts for the first wedding anniversary in the 1950 revised edition of her work, "Etiquette."

Emily Post's wedding anniversary guide now reads, "First year, Paper and Plastics," a revision which opens up a whole new field of gift ideas for the One-Year-Marrieds this June.

Mrs. Post examined plastic gifts assembled by a chemical company, producer of the world's greatest variety of plastic materials. The gifts included plastic housewares, decorative accessories, occasional tables, cooking utensils, silverware, chests, television and radio cabinets, carving sets, table cloths, closet accessories, shower curtains and colorful stemware.

The company has printed in booklet form a wedding anniversary guide containing the historic change. It will be available through gift departments.

Bride Considers Kitchen Planning

Whether she rules over cabin, bungalow, apartment, or house, the new housewife this spring will be surveying her kitchen "workshop" again wondering how to rearrange and improve it in preparation for another active summer.

Four basic rules should guide these prospective kitchen planners; personal taste; ease of cleaning and tidying; arrangement of work areas according to individual needs. A vital working part of all these rules is the all-important kitchen sink, reminds Peggie Cowan, women's editor of the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating.

Much thought should go into choosing a new kitchen sink for the wide variety of work it is required to do each day for the housewife. Modern streamlined sinks have been designed for installation in every type of home and for every income group, so there is no reason why every home maker should not be completely satisfied, advised the C. I. P. H. consultant.

Luxurious

Luxurious, new six foot cabinet sinks with double bowls and double drainboards are ideal for a bride and groom. These modern beauties are now available in pleasing colors to relieve eyestrain from surface glare. Popular colors are white, yellow, green and blue.

Such sinks are more easily cleaned because bowls and drainboards are made all in one piece. They have durability because of the base of rigid cast iron beneath a heavy coating of acid-resisting enamel.

COMPTON

The ladies of St. James' Guild, Compton, were pleasantly entertained one afternoon by Mrs. Turcotte at her home. The ladies gathered at her home in the lovely sun porch where they conducted their meeting, with Mrs. C. Hyatt in the chair. The meeting was opened by prayer and then the minutes were read by Mrs. Edwards. The treasurer, Mrs. F. Hall, reported that ten dollars had been sent to the Winnipeg Flood Relief, and all bills had been paid. At the roll call, all members answered but Mrs. Brown, who was absent on account of sickness. The ladies kept busy cutting out quilt blocks. After a happy afternoon, Mrs. Turcotte invited the ladies and children into her spacious dining room, where a most delicious tea was served. The rooms looked lovely decorated with spring flowers. After doing full justice to the delicious tea, Mrs. Edwards moved a vote of thanks, seconded by Mrs. Absalom, to the hostess for her hospitality. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Shepherd. Between meetings the ladies are tacking quilts for the Red Cross Society to be sent to Winnipeg, Man., or Cabano.

The flowers in St. James' Church one Sunday were in memory of Mr. Morris Hackett, and were sent by his son, Mr. F. W. Hackett.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Superheater, Bruck Silk Mills And Shermac Win Games In Softball Loop

Rene Pepin's return to form was a big factor in the Sherbrooke Machinery victory over Fairbanks last night at the Parade Grounds. The Machinery hurler had control of the game at all times, allowing only six hits and sending 11 men down via the strikeout method. Charlie Clark helped the Machinery team by knocking out a home run as the score ended 4-0 in their favor.

Superheater continued to lead the pack in the Sherbrooke Industrial League as they took the measure of the Regiment 11-4. With Desjardes on the mound for Jim O'Connor's men, scattering seven hits, his mates took the Regiment hurler, Connors, to town and batted out 15 bingles. Caron and Cabana were the big guns for the winners with a home run apiece with Gendron also helping the cause with a four for four appearance at bat. Six errors played a big part against the Regiment.

Bruck Silk surprised Railroaders in the other game as they came through with a 13-9 victory. It was a free slugging affair with 32 base knocks being divided among the teams. Deziel and Bourrelle hit for the circuit for the winners with Boudry doing likewise for the losers. Three costly miscues were charged against the Railroaders.

Red Sox Have Had Plenty Of Injuries

Boston, June 13. — (AP) — If Boston's Red Sox don't win any other title this season, they probably will succeed New York Yankees as champions of the "Arnica League."

The only regular who has not missed a game thus far is Walt Dropo, the big first baseman who got his chance to play for the Sox only because of an injury to another player.

Big Walt has played in all 40 games since his recall from Louisville because of an injury to Billy Goodman.

Walt is third top batter of the Majors with a .379 average, third in home runs with 14 and third in runs batted in with 56.

Since his recovery Goodman has played every other infield position because of pulled muscles suffered by second baseman Bobby Doerr, shortstop Vern Stephens and third baseman Johnny Pesky.

Al Zarilla, Sox regular right-fielder and left fielder Ted Williams, the major's top home-run hitter, also had to sit a few contests because of a wrenched neck.

Williams suffered a cold in spring training and recently has been playing with a bruised side and a slightly strained wrist.

Pesky, who had been sitting out because of a pulled muscle in his leg, had to fill in at shortstop Sunday because incumbent Vern Stephens suffered a similar strain.

A WEEK-END WHICH HAD EVERYTHING

Anyone who went trout fishing over last week-end north of Montreal got quite a diversified taste for what trout angling can be like. They may have gotten some fish, but they got some other things as well. Leaving Montreal in the sweltering heat of Friday such an angler reached his base with the black flies and mosquitoes well warmed up to their nefarious business. Such at least was the case in the St. Donat district where I went to visit friend Alex Learmont who is, under doctor's orders, staying at Chateau du Lac for a few weeks convalescing from an attack of pneumonia.

The flies weren't staying in the bush either. They were coming right out into the clearings and they seem to be able to work better by electric light than they do by the rays of the moon or a Coleman lamp. Their activities of Friday night were a promise for the morrow which was fulfilled and more. There were swarms of them and damned if I don't think they are developing more wing power — anyway some of them were coming upwind against a 15-mile breeze. For a time I thought my favorite fly dope wasn't going to stand them off.

Provide Many Advantages

Insofar as my own attitude on fishing contests goes I can only judge from what I have seen. All I have seen of them has been the two Lake St. Louis contests, which in the capacity of a judge, I have been able to observe very closely. I found who will carefully blast against fishing or hunting in any form. One prominent Toronto hack who has specialized of late in the warming over of ancient murder stories to serve up with sordid sauce for the edification of Canadian youth, last year produced an article in which he expressed the hope and made the prophecy that all killing of game would some day be forbidden by law. Nuts to him and his hope and his prophecy.

The only possible objection that could be made to such a contest would be the assumption that they result in the destruction of an inordinate number of gamefish. This has not held good in my experience. In fact in the cases of both the Derbies I have witnessed it has seemed to that for some reason the overall take of fish from those expansive waters has been less than would be the case on an average Saturday or Sunday with no Derby on.

Until I see something to the contrary I shall be delighted to help where I can with such contests in that they create interest in the sport, provide tangible contact with law observance and provide a basis for the spreading of conservation education. They also provide organizations in most instances with a means for raising funds with which to carry on their work, much of which is valuable to the overall picture.

Lake St. Louis Progress

There will be a new headquarters for the Lake St. Louis Anglers Derby this year. What is more it will be on their own property for the lusty offshoot of the Quebec Anglers Association has become the first such organization.

The Question Of Fishing Contests

Practically every organization in the Montreal district plans to run a fishing contest this summer. Among the latest in the list are the Lake of Two Mountains Anglers, and the Verdun Motorboat Association. And of course Lake St. Louis Anglers right now are completing arrangements for their third Big Fish Derby which is the largest event of its kind in the country.

The boys should be advised that here and there throughout the country, contests against such contests has developed. In Ontario for instance, it has attained quite a momentum. But then, of course, in that province writers are to be

Francisco Segura Wins U.S. Pro Net Tourny; Beats Kovacs In Finals And Kramer In Semi-Finals

Cleveland, June 13. — (AP) — Francisco Segura, a little fellow who whipped the two best big men in the game, is the new United States professional tennis champion.

The five-foot-six, 140-pound star from Ecuador is the first South American to win the pro net crown. He defeated Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Calif., last night in the finals.

Kovacs' six-foot-two, 200-pound physique couldn't stand the pace set by the mighty mite from Ecuador. The Californian suffered leg cramps and called it quits in the fourth set.

At that time Segura led two sets to one and the games of the fourth set were tied 4-4.

The finest was even more dramatic than in Segura's semi-final victory Sunday night when big Jack Kramer, 1948 pro ruler, wearily folded up in the fifth and deciding set against the tireless South American.

Segura won the first set 6-4, but dropped the second one to Kovacs 6-1. Big Frank looked to be the winner as he led 3-0 and 4-1 in the third set, but Segura grabbed four games in a row to take the lead. Segura broke Kovacs' serve in the 13th game at love then held his own to win the set 8-6.

After a ten-minute intermission, Segura got away to a 3-1 lead in the fourth set, but Kovacs rallied to take three games. Segura then held his service, and the score stood 4-4. As Kovacs started serving the ninth game, he was getting wobbly, and he fell going after one of Panchito's hot two-fisted forehands. He had to be helped to the side of the court.

"Take all the time you want, Frank," Segura said. "I will wait."

But the 30-year-old Kovacs was

Use Only One Stance On Long Shots; It's Second In Importance To Grip

By GENE SARAZEN

Winner of The All

On and around the greens there are bound to be personal variations on copy-book form, but a golfer should use one and only one basic stance on all long shots.

The stance is second in importance only to the grip.

The most common fault springs from the weird misconception that because a player has 14 clubs, he must play them with as many swings from 14 stances.

The basic stance is regulated by the length of the club. My driver, for example, is 42½ inches long. The natural, the comfortable position for me on my drive is to line the ball up opposite my left heel.

As the length of my clubs grows shorter, and the arc of my swing becomes progressively more upright, I stand a little closer to the ball, and play is progressively farther to the right.

I line up my five iron, for instance, from the very centre of my stance.

On my nine iron, the shortest fairway club, the position of the ball is moved back to a point almost in line with my right heel.

When I want to accentuate backswing of my niblick, I play it from a point directly opposite my right instep.

Tee and fairway shots should be played from the square stance in which both feet are placed at right angles to the projected direction of the shots.

With the feet set in this position, the hips and shoulders are done. Umpire Ned Brown announced Segura the winner by default.

"I'm very happy to be champion," Segura said, "but I did not want to win this way."

After about an hour's delay, Kovacs was able to return to the court and with Welby Van Horn of Philadelphia defeated Segura and Frank Parker of Milwaukee in the doubles final 1-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Parker played under protest because Bob Trenkamp, tournament manager, reduced the match from three-of-five sets to best-of-three.

The singles victory was worth $1,500 to Segura, and the doubles paid each winner $750.

SHORT LINE — Playing the nine iron, the shortest fairway club, the position of Gene Sarazen's ball is moved back to a point almost in line with his right heel.

also squared to the line of flight. The square stance is the golf stance.

The open and closed stances are merely variations.

They should be used with great discretion, if at all.

NEXT: The open and closed stances.

Yanks Want To Make Deal Before Deadline

Disturbed by Detroit's solid strength, New York Yankees remain hopeful of making a major deal before the Thursday midnight deadline.

The Yankees, defending world series champions, learned new respect for the Tigers when they bounced back from two Yankee stadium defeats to top New York in the finale and then sweep three straight at Boston.

Many of the Yankees now regard the Tigers as "the team to beat" instead of the Red Sox. Boston lost prestige by dropping four in a row after rolling up a 29-4 record score on St. Louis last week.

The Yankee pitching situation is desperate. Don Johnson, on the sidelines with a skin ailment, remained in New York when the club headed west. That left seven pitchers, including Joe Page who, troubled by a sinus condition, has pitched only one inning since June 3.

A look at the June records emphasizes Detroit's sizzling pace. Although they still trail the Yankees by half a game in the won-and-lost column, they're out front by .002 in percentage points.

Since they left Detroit, the Tigers have won 10 and lost two. Now they dig in at home for 16 games, starting with three against Philadelphia A's.

Boston, winning only six of 11 at Fenway Park against the West, ventures into the badlands where they have failed so miserably in the past. First stop is Cleveland.

The Yanks break in easy with three at Chicago and four at St. Louis before riding into Cleveland and Detroit on their 13-game jaunt. They took 8 of 13 in New York against western teams.

Despite the telephone number scores at Boston, St. Louis Browns won 7 of 12 in the east. Now they open at home against Washington.

Brooklyn comes home to play 16 games at Ebbets Field, trailing St. Louis by two full games. The Dodgers were less than superb in the west, compiling a 5-6 record. Tonight they take on the Cubs.

The Cardinals, rolling at an 8-3 clip at Sportsman's Park, face a

Bedford, June 13. — Bedford trounced Phillipsburg 10-3 in a regular scheduled Border League baseball game played on Sunday. It was Bedford's fifth consecutive win of the season.

Bedford, paced by G. Bedard, who drove out three doubles, showed too much power for the visitors. R. Grenier was the winning pitcher while Gutcheil was charged with the loss.
