RUSSIAN AFFAIRS.

Students and Reform—Torturing Nihilists by Electricity—Important Discoveries.

LONDON, March 22.—A St. Petersburg correspondent says the Rector of the University recently told the students they would be invited shortly to discuss the impending reforms.

PARIS, March 22.—A despatch from Geneva states that a correspondent of the Intransigeant, who is supposed to be no other than Dr. Agoman, the reputed chief of the Nihilists, this morning declares that Rossakoff has been mercilessly put to torture in presence of General Loris Melikoff. Rossakoff was "electricised" by powerful batteries, and forced by the intolerable agony he suffered to answer the questions put to him.

THE SOUTH AFRICAN TROUBLES.

The Peace Terms with the Boers—Skirmish with Basutos.

LONDON, March 22.—A despatch from Mount Prospect states the meeting between the representatives of the British and the Boers is now certain to lead to a peaceful and harmonious settlement of the Transvaal difficulties. The armistice has been prolonged two days in order to afford time for the final stipulations to be made, discussed and agreed upon. The conditions agreed to thus far are as follows:—Both sides to restore all arms and property captured since the breaking out of hostilities. The independence of the Transvaal to be granted, subject to reasonable conditions, to be settled by a Royal Commission already proposed, the Boers to commence the rule immediately after the Commission has concluded its labors. Meantime the British garrisons to remain in the Transvaal, but in no way to interfere with carrying out the results of the negotiations. Upon signing the stipulations the Boers shall disperse their forces and the murderer of Major Elliott be delivered up to justice.

NEWCASTLE, March 22.—The fifth interview, at which negotiations between General Wood and the Boers will be completed, takes place to-morrow. It is stated that the Royal Commission will meet at Heidelberg. The armistice will probably be formally prolonged for two months pending a final settlement.

LONDON, March 22.—A Reuter's telegram from Cape Town states that in Basutoland a skirmish has taken place near Masiti, the rebels losing forty killed. Last Sunday a pitso of Basutos was held for the purpose of exhibiting the head of Mr. Austen, the late magistrate of Outhing. It is stated that Serothide on this occasion urged the rebels to further resistance. A portion of the Colonial forces is giving trouble, 400 burghers having left Col. Carrington's column without leave; some Cape Town volunteers have also been troublesome. The severe drought continues.

THE DEAD EMPEROR.

Grandeur and Solemnity Attendant on the Translation of His Remains—The Coffin Hidden by a Golden Pall—The New Emperor and Imperial Family Follow on Foot.

LONDON, March 22.—All accounts from St. Petersburg agree in describing the grandeur and solemnity of the ceremony of the removal of the Czar's remains from the Imperial Chapel, in the Winter Palace, to the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, in the sombre fortress, so called, on the left bank of the Neva, the last resting-place of the Romanoffs—a scene which only the capital of the Czar's dominions could furnish. The sun shone with extraordinary brilliancy. The streets were a sea of melting snow. The houses were draped in mourning. The mournful pageant took two hours to pass a given point. George Augustus Sala telegraphs as follows:—"I have just been a spectator of one of the most magnificent, most impressive, most pathetic pageants on which, in the course of a lengthened career, accustomed to the pomps and vanities of regality, I have ever been privileged to set eyes on. Three cannon, fired from the fortress, directed the various mourners to get ready to take their places.

THE SIGNAL TO START.

"A similar salvo about midday gave the signal to start. When the sable standard, bearing in white the initials of the murdered monarch, was unfurled over the fortress, the artillery began to fire minute guns, and all of the bells in the city began to toll. The whole route was lined by troops of the garrison, immediately behind whom the public were permitted to stand. All the houses and public buildings showed the same amount of sable flags and drapery as when the Empress, not a year ago, was similarly conveyed from the palace to the fortress.

THE LINE OF MARCH.

"The route taken was from the great plain in front of the Winter Palace, by the Admiralty Quay and the English Quay to Nicholaivsky Bridge, crossing which the procession took the street on the line of the Island of Vassile Ostroff, across the Tootchkoff Bridge and by the Alexander Park to the fortress, entering the gate called 'Ivaneskaia.' There is a superstition among the Russians against transporting the dead over frozen rivers, and the route by which the cortege passed was some four miles in length. The procession consisted in all of 13 sections, comprising 172 groups, to describe which would occupy many columns." Sala having thus described the salient points, it is idle to take note of the multitude of officers of different grades who occupied isolated places in the procession. The Corps des Payh, however, in full uniform, marching two-and-two, attracted, as a historical body of cosmopolitan cadets, much attention.

BANNER OF LOYALTY.

Then there was a clump of banners, the Imperial family banner, the crimson military standard, broidered with the Imperial arms, and the saddle-horses of his late Majesty, led by grooms in deep mourning. Next came a long defile of peculiarly interesting local ensigns, the standard with the arms of Tchoorkal, succeeded by flags with cognizances of Armenia, Strararda, Georgia and Cartalinia, each attended by a mounted man-at-arms and a groom. Then followed more local flags and men-at-arms, bearing the blazoned shields of Siberia, Witebsk, Odouna, Bidomiebsk, Yaroslaw, Rostov, Polotsk, Riazan, Tchernigow, Nijni Novgorod and Bulgaria were successively represented. The line was broken at intervals by masters of ceremonies mounted on white steeds, and by Court Marshals with crape-wreathed batons, until at length there came relief to the wearied sense in the appearance of the great banner of Moscow, the old Muscovite Dominion, borne proudly aloft before mounted men-at-arms.

REPRESENTATIVES OF PROVINCES.

Representatives of the various Governments or Provinces of the Russian Empire followed, and then came corporations of peasants, of burghers, of traders and of the several administrations; next came deputations of Provincial Mayors and delegations of Marshals of Nobility, the Society of the Red Cross, various philanthropic and economical societies, of more masters of the ceremonies and new Court Marshals, followed by representatives of the various Departments of State, with members of the Chancery, of the Council of the Empire, of the Council of State, of the Grand Principality of Finland, and of the Imperial Senate. Then came a very curious episode, a long line of officers in full uniform, bearing on variously colored cushions, embroidered with gold, the badges and decorations conferred by foreign monarchs and princes on the late Czar. Some were simple circlets of plain gold—others diadems literally blazing with brilliants, emeralds and rubies of Kasan.

KINGLY CROWNS IN LINE.

After these, in care of functionaries of the second class, came the crowns of the kingdoms of Georgia, Jaurus, Siberia, Poland, Astrakan and Kasan, with the Imperial globe, sceptre and crown, followed by two masters and the grand master of the ceremonies; all these order and insignia-bearing officials being flanked on each side by a battalion of cadets from St. Paul's Military School, marching single file. Among the noticeable features of the procession was a figure which attracted much attention—the Knight of the Golden Armour, mounted upon a gorgeously-harnessed steed, carrying a drawn sword, and supposed to symbolize the bright and spotless character of the departed Sovereign. After him walked a man-at-arms in sable armour with a drawn sword. Perhaps the most picturesque feature in the ceremonial were deputations representing institutions created by the late Emperor, the Zemstais, the Justices of the Peace, and a motely group of peasants, with one, at least, of venerable and patriarchal appearance, all attired in their winter garb, some with the colored scarf used to girdle their sheepskin and rough cloth overcoats.

A VAST, SILENT CROWD.

Not the least striking or solemn portion of the spectacle was a vast, silent crowd, who lined the quays, and, indeed, covered every spot from which a distant view could be obtained of the procession. There they stood, bareheaded and mute, many kneeling and praying for the soul of the dead Emperor, followed by a long line of priests and acolytes, numbering many hundreds, bareheaded and attired in their ecclesiastical robes, the priests bearing tapers. The crowd pressed forward and a deep silence prevailed, broken only by the melodious, but weird-like notes which rose and fell upon the ear.

THE GORGEOUS CATAFALQUE.

Following the priests came the gorgeous catafalque, on which rested the coffin, under a rich canopy of cloth of gold, surmounted by white ostrich plumes. Sala says: "We were asking, 'What next, and next?' when the hearse came suddenly in view; and the prodigious mass of humanity rapidly, so to speak, as a flash of lightning, uncovered. It was a most wondrous sight to behold, that black sea of hats and caps transformed into an immense expanse of pale, upturned faces. The funeral car was a bier of ebony and silver, on wheels, with heavily carved silver spokes and a superstructure of black and silver. The whole was canopied by superb material encircling the columns of the bier.

THE COFFIN OF THE DEAD CZAR.

"The coffin of the illustrious deceased was almost hidden by a golden pall, lined with white satin, and the vast car itself was drawn by eight black horses completely shrouded in sable draperies. Four general aides-de-camp stood one at each corner of the catafalque, the polished metal wheels of which glistened in the sunlight. Sixteen general officers held the silken cords of the canopy. Behind the bier of his murdered sire walked Alexander III. in his Imperial solitude, bearing alone his filial sorrow and his State cares, and symbolizing in this last respect his unique position.

HOW THE EMPEROR WAS DRESSED.

"The Emperor was dressed in a General's uniform, wearing the ribbon of the Order of St. Andrew's over his shoulder. Following the Emperor at a respectful distance came the Minister of the Household, the Minister of War and the three officers on duty. Next in order followed the Grand Dukes and Princesses according to precedence with foreign princes. These included the Grand Dukes Vladimir, Alexis, Sergius Paul and Constantine, Sergius Michaelovitsch Dimitri, the three Nicholases, Peter, the two Michaels, George and Alexander, all on foot like His Majesty, with innumerable princes, Romaneffsky, Leuchtenberg, Nicholas and George Maximilianovich, Peter, Alexander and Constantine, of Oldenburg, and Dukes George and Michael, of Mecklenburg Strelitz."

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

The Boer Terms—The Irish Prisoners—Foot and Mouth Disease—The Income Tax.

LONDON, March 22.—Mr. Gladstone stated that the conditions of peace with the Boers are the Suzerainty of the Queen, British control of foreign relations and the establishment of a British resident in future at the capital. The Boers, however, are promised complete self-government. A Royal Commission, consisting of Governor-General Robinson, General Wood and Sir John De Villiers, will be appointed to consider the position of the natives, the regulation of frontier affairs, and the question whether any and what portion of the territory eastward, within a certain limit, shall be severed from the Transvaal. The conditions also provide for the dispersal of the Boers forthwith and a temporary maintenance of British garrisons, which are, however, not to interfere with local affairs. General Wood promises not to advance or send warlike stores into the Transvaal. The House received the announcement of the terms with prolonged cheers.

Mr. Forster stated that he had refused to furnish the prisoners in Kilmainham jail with a statement of the words and acts constituting the grounds of suspicion under which they are detained, or to receive a written statement from each in reply. He pointed out that the House had deemed such disclosures to be inexpedient.

Mr. Chaplin moved that the House is of opinion that the recent outbreak of foot and mouth disease among cattle is entirely owing to the importation of diseased animals from abroad, and the landing in the United Kingdom of foreign live animals from countries known to be infected should be prohibited.

Mr. Mundella, Vice-President of the Board of Trade, said the Government intended to meet the motion with a direct negative. The motion would destroy the principle of the Act of 1878, which makes the slaughter of cattle at the port of landing compulsory. Mr. Mundella quoted statistics showing the large quantity of cattle imported, especially from America, and pointed out that the diminution of the supply would enormously increase the price of meat.

After some debate the motion was rejected by 205 to 147.

Mr. Gladstone, in the coming budget, will propose a reduction in the income tax from sixpence to fivepence in the pound.

THE IRISH TROUBLES.

Mr. Dillon's Attack on the Judges—Adopting Nihilist Methods.

DUBLIN, March 22.—A meeting of the Land League was held to-night. All who addressed the meeting explained or apologized for Mr. Dillon's speech about Judge Fitzgerald in which the Judge was warned he had better take care the League did not do away with him.

LAND LEAGUE MEETING.

Mr. Dillon, whose absence from the Land League meeting to-night caused some suspicion, addressed a large number of tenant farmers at Parsonstown.

ADOPTING NIHILIST METHODS.

LONDON, March 22.—A Leitrim despatch says the Fenian Council of Ballinamore resolved to shoot a landlord who last year shot a man in self-defence during a riot at a farm from which the tenant had been evicted. It is stated that two men have been selected by ballot to execute the assassination. The police are in possession of the facts.

The "Sunbeam" Stove Polish.

Not 724 tons, not 3,864,528 packages, not so many billions and trillions of grains have been shipped in 1880 of Martin's Sunbeam Stove Polish to the United States, Great Britain, Australia, the Sandwich Islands and the Fiji cannibals, but nevertheless it is true that the Sunbeam Stove Polish is daily becoming a great favorite in our Canadian homes, owing entirely to its many excellent qualities and not to puffing and blowing of trumpets.

The "Sunbeam" Stove Polish is put up in tins and every label bears the facsimile signature of the manufacturer, Mr. Chas. Martin, so as to prevent base impositions, and who has also for this reason his trade mark registered at Ottawa in 1876.

Some greedy competitors fear the superiority of his article so much, that they expend large amounts of money to foist their inferior production upon a confiding public, and they would, if they could, prohibit the name "Sunbeam," monopolize the whole solar system, and extinguish the sun in heaven himself to gratify their ravenous propensities.

How well he looks, what manly vigor he possesses, how clear his eye, how elastic his step, how buoyant and cheerful his spirits, is said of him who has read the "Science of Life;" for having read, he must of necessity have practised, the principles of self-preservation so potently set forth therein.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 23, 1881.

THE Montreal police have donned their "summer caps." Now these "summer caps" are no more suitable for the climate than a stove pipe is for a North-West blizard. They are patterned after the caps of the American police, and our men swelter in them while all the world wonders. Why not give them white helmets with a waterproof covering.

So long as Canadian judges are appointed for political services done, so long will the Canadian bench be open to be regarded as degenerate. So long as politics and not merit is made the standard of influence and power, just so long will influence and power be looked upon as the tools of office while merit plays Diogenes and snarls in the market places in its vain search for a man.

A ZULU princess, a daughter of Cetewayo, has condescended to visit New York, and as royal blood is at a premium in that village just now, she is likely to be in great demand. The Sun gives the fashionable society of Gotham a pretty hard rub on their weakness in this direction in the following extract :—"We call on all the adorers of royalty to gather about Her Royal Highness Princess Amazulu, daughter of His Majesty Cetewayo, King of the Zulus, and render her all due obeisance. And the court journals should at once open a department of court intelligence, which might properly precede the elegant department of fashionable intelligence, whose thrilling interest is now diminished by reason of the fasting of this season of asceticism."

THE new Czar has performed a graceful action in issuing a proclamation of his father's marriage with the Princess Dolgorouky. The position of this unfortunate lady is a most pitiable one. Married to a man immeasurably her superior as regards rank and wealth, but infinitely her inferior in intellectual attainments, she incurs the enmity, not only of the family of her husband, but also of the higher orders of Russian society, who look upon her as an interloper. The nobility also are jealous of the Princess, and consider her a successful intrigante, while the masses naturally detest her as the wife of her murdered husband. Such being the case, it is no wonder that the unfortunate lady should flee from the scenes of all her joys and sorrows, and seek some meed of peace in seclusion. It no doubt required considerable moral courage on the part of Alexander III. to take the action he has in regard to the widow of his father.

THE news of the acceptance by the Boers of the British terms will be received with delight from end to end of Christendom. The war in the Transvaal has been far from popular, even in England. It has not been the war of a civilized nation against savages, as were the Zulu and Basuto campaigns. The Boers possess in a greater or less degree all the advantages of a civilized people, inherited from their Dutch and Huguenot ancestors, and, in this respect, at least, are in as good a position—if not better—to reclaim from barbarism the natives as are the British. Whether or not they have assisted in this work, they have fought bravely for their independence—so dear to all men. Nor have they, as yet, been conquered. But foreseeing, probably, that defeat was inevitable ultimately, when Britain had gathered her forces to the front, like the brave men they have prove themselves, the Boers have accepted the terms proposed to avert further useless bloodshed. General Sir Evelyn Wood deserves great credit for the able manner in which he has conducted the peace negotiations, and extricated his country from a most trying dilemma, and will no doubt receive what he has so justly earned—the thanks of the nation.

A Rev. Cayenne Pepper.

A most peppery speech was that which the Rev. George Pepper, a Methodist clergyman, delivered to the Irishmen of New York on St. Patrick's day. After telling them how England had robbed their countrymen of sums only comparable to Judge Black's estimate of the stealings of the railway corporations in the United States—sums far up in the hundreds of millions—he said that if Mr. Parnell would give up his Home Rule nonsense and simply "call on every Irishman in America to come back with a musket, he knew of one Methodist pulpit that would be vacant." "If I were in Ireland to-day," he added, "I would call to all my countrymen 'Get guns and sweep the land-pirates from Ireland forever.'" Why doesn't the Rev. Mr. Pepper vacate his pulpit at once and go to Ireland ? The expense would not be great. So ardent a patriot might even put up with steerage accommodation for a few days, if the passage money was any object. He would arrive in good time ; the Coercion bill is now in nice working order, and, as he called out for the guns, he would have an opportunity at once of meeting and overthrowing the representatives of English tyranny in the shape of the Irish Constabulary. It is really a great pity a man so sure to make a consummate military leader should be absent from the scene where his talents are so much needed. What if Mr. Parnell is so stupid or ignorant as not to call him, is that the reason why he shouldn't go and take his musket with him to shoot the first Custom House officer who dared to examine his baggage ? We fail to see it. Pepper is just the man for the crisis, just the man to take the job off Parnell's hands and work glorious results in the shortest possible space of time. His pulpit would miss him of course ; the congregation to whom he ministers in holy things would lack their weekly rations of Pepper ; but then they could get Talmage or somebody else for a while, until their pastor returned with spoils of war and wreaths of victory. We really think Pepper ought to go, especially now that he has mentioned the matter and excited the hopes of a suffering nation. Such desperate courage as his, united, as we judge from his remarks that it is, to the highest military talent, would simply carry all before it. But then he mustn't forget his musket.

THE EXHIBITION.

Interviews with Prominent Citizens and RR. Managers—All Testify to the Benefits of Exhibitions—Desire for the New Exhibition very General.

"Make it a permanent annual exhibition." Such is the general wish expressed by our leading public citizens in regard to the Montreal fair. Indeed, full half its benefits will result from the fact that it will be an annual and unfailing gathering together of the country's produce. It will speedily become a necessity, and be looked forward to by the people from all the towns and the country for hundreds of miles around. The travelling public generally will take advantage of it to see the city at its best, and at the same time to acquaint themselves at little trouble with the resources of the country. The Exhibition last year was a Dominion affair, and received aid from both the Federal and Local Governments. This year Montreal must shoulder the burden itself, and should be determined to make it even a greater success. In order to ascertain the feeling that prevails in the community concerning the Exhibition and its prospects, our reporter visited several of the gentlemen who took a prominent part in the work of the Citizens' Committee last year, and obtained their opinions.

Mr. D. Morrice would subscribe largely to make the Exhibition a permanent one, for he was certain of its incalculable benefits to the city as a stimulus to trade.

Mr. V. Hudon said he had taken great interest in the last Exhibition and had carefully watched its effects. He was convinced it had given quite an impetus to the business of the city, and felt that if it could be established as a permanent exhibition its success would be more assured, for the people thoughout the country would get into the habit of making preparation for it, and we would thus have a better class of exhibits each year as well as a larger number of visitors. He was certain that his French-Canadian brethren this year would enthusiastically support any effort inaugurated under proper auspices. This year there would be a necessity for larger subscriptions from the citizens, and from a greater number of them. He was of opinion that the hotel-keepers and the railroad companies who profited most by these exhibitions should come down more handsomely on this occasion.

Similar opinions to this latter one being expressed by several prominent citizens, our reporter started off to see what the railroad companies and hotel-keepers intended to do.

THE G. T. RR.

Mr. Sargent, Traffic Manager of the Grand Trunk line, was first interviewed. He said that judging from the traffic receipts of the Company the Exhibition last year had been a grand success. Notwithstanding the very low rates which the Company had fixed for passengers, the receipts sprang up to $90,830 on one week of the Exhibition, and they averaged a surplus over ordinary receipts of from fifteen to twenty thousand dollars per week during the period of low rates. The company, however, had refused last year to grant a bonus to the Exhibition, and had settled it as a rule not to do so to similar enterprises. Their line extended over so long a distance that if they acceded once they would be overwhelmed with applications of a similar nature from all the towns along the line, who desired to hold a fete or fair. The Company, however, would do all in its power to aid the passenger traffic by passenger traffic by low excursion rates, if the Exhibition promised to be as successful as last year's.

Q., M., O. AND O. RR.

Mr. L. A. Senecal, the General Manager, was absent in Quebec. From Mr. Shackell, the Auditor, however, the information was gained that last year's Exhibition had netted them from the low excursion tickets the sum of $10,000.

THE SOUTH-EASTERN.

The South-Eastern Manager was also absent from town. They issued, however, last year several thousand excursion tickets in the month of September, which represented the number of visitors they carried to the Exhibition.

THE CENTRAL VERMONT.

Mr. Viall said they had carried about 15,000 passengers last year at the low rates of one dollar return ticket to St. Albans, and $1.50 return to Burlington. They had also subscribed to the citizens' fund, and were prepared to assist again.

It is quite evident from these figures that an immense carrying trade was done to and from the city last fall, and if the passenger boats are also taken into the account there will be some data from which to measure the benefits accrued to the city.

Mr. Andrew Robertson hoped the same energy and organization would be manifested this year as had been previously displayed. There was room for fresh blood on the committees and he hoped it would be found. The beneficial results of last year's Exhibition could be denied by no one, and there would be plenty of co-operation this year to work the new one successfully. People who came to Montreal always liked it, and the city by establishing a permanent exhibition would obtain credit for a spirit of enterprise. Visitors would see the advantages of Montreal by coming here, and buyers would seize the opportunity for purchasing their supplies. Whatever brought money to Montreal should interest her citizens. The city benefited in a thousand different ways from it.

Mr. S. Carsley said the Exhibitions were of immense benefit to the retail trade of this city, and he would subscribe to make this year's a success. The money brought into the city last September stimulated business for weeks after, while during the Exhibition his stores were more than ever crowded to excess.

Mr. Henry Bulmer expressed himself as favorable to centralizing the attractions on the Exhibition grounds. The Poultry, Pet and Dog Show should exhibit there and not down town. There were many who would prefer seeing good breeds of dogs to the wonders of Machinery Hall or the industrial building, and it would be to the advantage of all to localize these departments in the Exhibition. The Horticultural show should also be brought into line if possible. He was satisfied that there was plenty for the citizens to do, and hoped they would rally to the work. It was the intention this year to unite the Government Exhibition Committee with a Citizens' Committee, and together they would supervise the work. He testified to the advantages derived from Exhibition, and felt assured a great success could be achieved if the citizens put their shoulder to the wheel.

The New Crusade.

At the session of the License Commissioners yesterday afternoon six cases were heard, and resulted in the cases against Telesphore Soupard, 123 St. Urbain street ; Leon Vervais, 554 Craig street, and Michael F. Nolan, 138 St. Joseph street, being suspended, and those of Ansome Reindeau, 42 St. Lawrence street ; Camille Gregoire, Champ de Mars street ; Mrs. Worms, 531 Craig street, and Honore Lavigne being taken en delibere.

Mr. Desnoyers advised the last named applicant to change premises if he wanted to secure a license. He also remarked that many of those who had been refused their licenses thought that later on they would only have to renew their applications for their licenses to get them, but he could tell those with that opinion that their Honor's decision was final.

Is it a Joke, or What ?

Ald. J. C. McLaren—that would be sent before the last meeting of the common Council the material for a huge practical joke, or a claim to a position of originality, beside his brother Alderman, McShane. It takes the form of a protest against "The Father of his Country Stephens"—to quote the Banker's Daughter—taking the seat in that honorable body on account of these specified allegations : "Bribery, corruption, intimidation, and illegal and corrupt practices by which he obtained his seat," in the West Ward by the narrow majority of over 350 votes. In other words Mr. McLaren insinuates that Mr. Stephens does not inherit these good qualities of truth and honor which should be the heritage of his given name. We await Mr. McLaren's proof to substantiate these mild inuendoes to define the joke.

Accident.

A carter, whose name is reported as Guilmette, while yesterday afternoon dumping a load of earth from Water street down to the crib-work of the Q., M., O. & O. R. R. below, backed the cart a little too far, and horse, cart and man went backward down the almost perpendicular incline. The horse and cart struck the crib-work, a distance of twenty feet below, the former being killed outright, and the latter smashed. The man also was considerably injured.

Alleged Over-Assessment of Property.

Mr. Arthur Prevost, of A. Prevost & Co., St. Paul street, appeared with his counsel, Mr. Joseph Duhamel, Q.C., before the Recorder yesterday, appealing against what they allege is a too heavy valuation of a part of the property of the firm by the assessors, and declaring their intention to contest the collection of taxes on this alleged over-assessment. The firm claim that property of theirs valued by the assessors at $208,000 is actually worth only $143,000, and that for ten years past they have paid an excess of taxes amounting to $700 yearly, but that they will do so no longer. They have prepared a number of plans and specifications to prove the correctness of their valuation.

Butler ; Assistant Secretary-Treasurer, Sergeant R. McNaught ; Committee, Major Bond, Capt. Nott, Capt. Campbell, Sergeants Elliot, Allan, Lefebvre, Paddon, Buise and Corporal Kehoe. Major Bond and Capt. Nott were appointed representatives to the Provincial Rifle Association. A vote of thanks was moved to Corporal Somerville, the retiring Secretary, after which the meeting adjourned.

Water Committee.

This Committee met yesterday afternoon. Present : Ald. Donovan (in the chair), Gilman, Allard, Proctor, Farrel and Laberge.

The annual report of the Superintendent was furnished the Committee. In reply to a question put by Ald. Allard, Mr. Lesage, Superintendent of the Water Works, said that the annual report was furnished in MSS on account of the printing contract not yet being arranged. He had acted on the suggestion of the City Clerk. On motion, it was decided to have it printed as in former years.

It was decided to renew the lease of the G.T.R. Boating Club at the rate paid last year : i. e. $50.

Mr. Felix Gagnon offered to renew his lease for a strip of land on the old terms.

Mr. Michael Hennery of the Grand Trunk, and Mr. Henderson, also offered to renew old leases, All three of which were accepted.

A letter was read from the Mayor of St. Gabriel, asking if the city had any property suitable for the building of a Town Hall in the village, and it was resolved that they should be told to select a lot and name their figure.

The question of the water supply for the Montreal Abattoir was brought up, and a discussion arose as to the steps that had to be taken, and the price to be charged for the water. The water would cost 17½c. per 1,000 gallons, and Ald. Donovan proposed that the price should be 15 cents per 1,000 gallons, but Ald. Allard thought it should not be so much.

Mr. Lesage said the supply of water was at the rate of about nine million gallons a day, but if it were to reach twelve millions the cost would be less. The cost of laying the pipes would be about $6,000.

Ald. Gilman finally moved that this committee report to Council that it be authorized to forthwith cause to be laid down the necessary water pipes, so as to connect by the first of May next, or as soon after as possible, the city water supply with the Montreal Abattoir Company, that the water be supplied to the company at the rate of 15c. per thousand gallons, and that the Council grant the committee $6,000 out of the loan to extend the water pipes.

Mr. Robb stated that there was actually no loan on hand, but that there were bonds which had not been issued.

A loan of $3,350,000 was made for water works; $2,500,000 of this had been expended, leaving $850,000. Of this the Council had already granted an appropriation of 20,000, so that it would not be necessary for the committee to go to the Council for the money they wanted.

Ald Gilman made a motion to report to Council that the road-committee be instructed to make the necessary expropriations, and that the price of the water be 15 cents per thousand gallons. Carried.

Mr. Lesage presented a letter complaining that Mr. J. McDougall had failed to carry out his contract for a turbine wheel pump, which should have been ready on the 15th February.

An application from the employes in the department for an increase of wages was laid over until the next meeting.

The committee then adjourned.

THE EVACUATION OF CANDAHAR.—CANDAHAR, March 23.—All is ready for the march of the entire British force at the shortest notice ; but there is no symptom of the establishment of a local government. Ayoub Khan's envoys are still here, but apparently no negotiations have been begun. It seems no longer doubtful that negotiations have been completed for the transfer of Candahar to the Ameer, Abdurrahman Khan, and that the British are only waiting until he is strong enough to relieve them. It is asserted that the Ameer is pushing his forces toward Candahar.

A MURDERER LYNCHED.—RAWLINGS, Wyoming, March 23.—Geo. Parrott, alias Big Nose George, one of the Elk Mountain murderers, and an infamous road agent under sentence of death, last evening got his shackles off and attacked the jailer when he entered to lock the prisoners in the cells. The jailer's wife locked the outside door and gave the alarm. Citizens released the jailer and secured the prisoner. George has always manifested a contrite spirit, did not desire a trial, pleading guilty to the indictment, and asked to be hanged soon. When sentenced, he wept and broke down completely. At a late hour last night George was taken out of jail by masked men, taken to a telegraph pole, and a rope thrown over a cross-arm, and George made to climb the ladder by the rope placed around his neck. The ladder was pulled out, letting him swing. His last words were, "I will jump off, boys, and break my neck."

GENERAL GRANT.—NEW YORK, March 23.—General Grant informed a Herald reporter that he would leave for Mexico on Monday, accompanied by his wife, his son Ulysses and wife, the Mexicam Minister Romero and one or two friends. General Grant expressed the hope that there would be no extra session, as it was donbtful whether wise action on the refunding bill would be taken. He thought the Government should issue a loan of $1,000,000,000 at 3½ for an indefinite time, which would serve as a basis for our currency and be a safe investment for banks, trust funds, estates, &c. General Grant expressed satisfaction with President Garfield's nominations.

The judge held that a clear majority of votes is necessary to elect. The Council will be called together immediately to elect another warden.

FROM TORONTO.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE STAR.]

BODY FOUND.—TORONTO, March 23.—At 7 o'clock yesterday morning the body of a man was found near Hyde Park, about three miles from this city. He was apparently about 25 years of age, and wore the dress of a farm laborer. When found by some workmen, blood was oozing from one of his ears, but as a minute inspection was not made at the time, it cannot at present be learned if any injuries were observable on the body. The remains were found a few feet from the Great Western Railway track, and it may be that the deceased fell from a train, or was run down by an engine. The body has since been identified as that of Daniel O'Halloran, of Toronto

WHY ?

Why do I use STRACHAN'S GILT EDGE SOAP ? Because experience has taught me that it is the best and the cheapest to be got anywhere! In the first place you are always sure that every bar weighs a full pound, and that each bar possesses the same good qualities as others purchased before. Then there can be no doubt about the purity of the soap, for the severest tests shows that it contains nothing but the genuine washing material ; and this leads to the most important point of all,—its washing qualities are unexcelled. 69 1s

CARD !

THE COMMITTEE OF THE SOCIETY FOR THE PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS,

Which has its headquarters in this City, desire to procure the services of a second Inspector. Their experience during the last season of navigation, convinced them that it was absolutely necessary to obtain this additional officer. The growth of the city, and especially of the neighboring municipalities (where the services of the present officer are very frequently required,) and the rapid development of the cattle trade, made it manifest that another Inspector is required. Want of the necessary funds, however, compelled the Committee to defer his appointment till the ensuing spring.

The Committee now desire to provide themselves at once with this indispensable addition to their staff, but are still without the means required for that purpose. It is hoped that the City Council will increase their grant (of $200 a year) to the Society. But even if the Committee's expectation in this respect is realized, the Society will still be dependent for two-thirds of its income upon the subscriptions of individuals.

In view of the Society's urgent need of funds, the President and the Secretary-Treasurer have been deputed by the Committee of the Association, to solicit in person, forthwith, the contributions of their fellow-citizens for the above important object.

Conspiracy Case.

The Holmes conspiracy case is still dragging its slow length along in the Police Court in private. The defence is now submitting evidence which is said to be of a spicy character in justification of the course taken by Mrs. Holmes.

Fire in Craig's Furniture Factory.

A fire broke out in the drying kiln, over the engine room, in J. A. J. Craig's furniture factory this morning shortly after five o'clock. An alarm from box No. 53 was sounded, and the firemen were soon at work with three streams of water playing on the fire. Considerable damage was done before the fire was extinguished.

Serenaded by the City Band.

Mr. J. H. Normand and wife, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., who have been stopping at the Canada Hotel for a few days past, were serenaded by the City Band yesterday evening. It appears that Mr. Normand is famous for getting up river and lake excursions, and on several occasions last summer he invited the City Band to accompany him; and this accounts for their greeting him with music at his hotel. The band played for about two hours in the corridor of the hotel.

Real Estate in Montreal.

Under this heading, in Monday's STAR, an item was given which was not entirely correct. It stated that Mr. Clendinneng had purchased, for $4,000, three years since, the property which he has just sold to Messrs. Brodie and Harvie for $8,300, thus showing the enormous advance of over 100 p. c. in about three years. In point of fact, Mr. Clendinneng purchased the property nearly seventeen years ago for the sum mentioned, and the price now realized is only what might fairly be looked for as a reasonable advance in that number of years. It is to be hoped that no prospective investor in real estate has had his head turned by the paragraph as it first appeared.

Features of the Stock Market.

Bank of Montreal stock fell 1¼ per cent. this afternoon, and bank shares were generally weaker. It is commented upon that the 1,000 shares of Montreal stock transferred by Allan Gilmour, of Ottawa, represent an investment of $390,000, and most of the stock has gone into speculators hands.

Yesterday also the Jacques Cartier Bank netted a handsome sum by selling 500 shares of its stock at 110 on the strength of the rumor that its mine was about to be bought for $250,000 to $300,000.

To-day the Savings and other banks raised the rate of interest on call loans to 5 per cent., and the same rate prevailed at New York, where stocks this afternoon were weak and feverish.

THE ICE RAILWAY.

Track Being Removed.

This morning 54 men began to tear up the track of the ice railroad, commencing at the Longueuil side. It is expected the rails, which, as taken up, are placed on cars and brought over to Hochelaga, will all be removed by to-morrow night, but the removal of the woodwork will take longer, as it is to be stored in Longueuil and has to be drawn there by horse power. About a week ago quantities of straw were strewed under and at the sides of the track to prevent the ice from thawing so rapidly, but in spite of this some spots are getting very shaky and it is thought advisable to break up in time. The time of removal last season was about the first of April. The number and size of the air-holes in the main current have very much increased within a day or two.

Midsummer Night's Dream.

"Music lends enchantment to the scene," which our public parks present in summer, when the tired toilers of the daily round of life take their wives or sisters—or somebody else's sisters—out for a twilight or starlight stroll; as the case may be, and the heat and fatigues of the day are lost and forgotten in the restful stroll under green trees and by the green sward (keep off the grass) to the sounds of divine music by brass bands, if such music be divine. At all events last summer's experience was delightfully successful and we want the music again this year if possible. The Victoria Rifles and Prince of Wales Bands want $1,000 each from the city to "pay the fiddler." Ald. Stephens says he is willing to vote for a gift of $500 to each band, but thinks that if that is not enough to satisfy them that the citizens who will be most benefited, should do the rest by subscription.

A Pricked Conscience.

Some weeks ago a gentleman doing a manufacturing business upon St. Lawrence Main street had taken from the pocket of his vest which hung in his work room a silver hunting case watch. As he had no positive mark by which to identify the watch he took no pains to recover it by detectives. A few weeks ago he moved to a place upon Craig street, where he occupied a building in conjunction with other tenants. On Thursday morning last the office boy of one of the tenants in sweeping down the front staircase, common to all the tenants, came upon a silver watch standing upon its edge in a corner of one of the steps. He took it to his employer, who caused an advertisement to be inserted in THE STAR which brought to light the fact that two gentlemen and one lady had lost silver watches, none of whom, however, described the watch in question. Several days passing, and the rightful owner not turning up, the gentleman who had the watch in charge visited the tenant up-stairs, who said he had lost a watch, and that his people had seen the advertisement in THE STAR and had endeavored to persuade him to see about it. But he decided in his own mind that it could not be his. He, however, gave a description of the watch which was then handed to him, and the office boy who found it is now the happy possessor of a bright half-dollar. The thief had evidently been troubled with an accusing conscience, and took this rather remarkable and uncertain method of restoring the stolen watch.

The New Crusade.

The case of Mrs. Worms was suspended to allow her to make alterations in her house to suit a restaurant.

Mr. St. Pierre observed, on the part of Mrs. Worms, that Sergeant Lapointe had made a serious charge against her to the effect that she kept a house of assignation, and her accuser would have to answer for the allegation in another Court.

The Court remarked that they did not take that evidence into consideration; however, she would have to make a restaurant of her place.

Michael F. Nolan's license was refused on the ground that there was no necessity for a saloon in that neighborhood, 138 St. Joseph street.

The licenses of Camile Gregoire, 114 St. Louis street, and Anseleme Rieudeau, 42 St. Lawrence street, were also refused. Those of Telesphore Poupart, 123 St. Urbain street, and Abel Robert, 19 Gosford street, were granted.

The case of William Kearney, 43 University street, was then proceeded with.

Petitions were fyled by members of the Vigilance Committee signed by Bishop Bond, Canon Baldwin, Dr. Reddy, &c., against defendant. All the witnesses swore that they had explained the object of the petitions to those who signed them.

Mr. Quinn appeared for the defense, and stated that the restaurant was near the Academy of Music, Queen's Hall, &c., and was a necessity.

The lawyer on the other side contended that being so near the English Cathedral, &c., it was a nuisance.

Case en delibere.

THE SCOTT ACT SUSTAINED.

An Important Decision.

The Court of Appeals yesterday confirmed the judgment of the Superior Court at Bedford, dismissing the injunction obtained by a hotel keeper named Noel against the Municipality of Drummond County, restraining them from enforcing a by-law passed on the 14th March, 1877, which prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquors. The by-law is passed under the authority of the Act of 1864, commonly known as the Scott Act. The appellant, Noel, contends that the Act of 1864 is of no effect, matters affecting trade and commerce having been placed by the Act of Confederation under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament, and that the sale of liquors is a matter of commerce. The Chief Justice, in giving judgment, remarked that there is a clause in the Act of Confederation which declares that all laws in force, at the time the Act of Confederation was passed, must remain in force until repealed, either by the Federal Parliament or the Provincial Legislatures, according to the respective powers of each. As the Act of 1864 had not been repealed it was of no consequence whether the matter came under the jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament or the Legislatures of the Provinces, and there was nothing to show that the by-law was ultra vires. The injunction is dismissed.

Desperate Fight With Thieves.

Two policemen, Johnston and Guyon, saw several men about five o'clock yesterday afternoon entering a junk shop on McGill street, carrying several broken crates and pieces of old iron which were afterwards proved to have been stolen from the wharf. In a short time two of them coming out, dividing some money, the constables followed them to the corner of Youville and Norman streets and there attempted their arrest. The thieves resisted most fiercely, but after a stubborn fight and a free use of the baton Johnston succeeded in capturing one of them James, Ennis. The other, however, a very powerfully built young fellow, was too much for Guyon, forcing his baton from him and striking and kicking him about the body, bruising him fearfully. For half an hour the two men were rolling over each other in the dirty street until, no help arriving, and Johnston being occupied with his prisoner, the thief escaped even refusing to stop when threatened with a revolver, and leaving Guyon smeared to the eyes with the filth of the gutter. Ennis was to-day brought before Mr. Dugas, P.M., and remanded for further examination. He with his escaped comrade belong to the "sunfish" tribe and are members of what is known to the police as the "Maurice street gang."

Dr. Carroll, of Newburg, New York, lectured last evening in the Queen's Hall under the auspices of the Stanley Street Presbyterian Church, the pastor of the church, the Rev. James McCaul, in the chair. His subject "From the Blarney Stone to Vesuvius" was a perfect panorama of brilliant pictures drawn with the skill of a master in word painting. His descriptions of scenery—delineations of character and denunciations of tyranny were received with perfect storms of applause. Not soon will the audience whom he held for so long under the spell of his eloquence forget his magnificent descriptions of the sea in its towering wrath, its composed calmness, its sunlit splendor, and its moonlit glory, or his perfect pen picture of Candlish, the Scottish divine, or his awful delineation of Catharine de Medici, the female fiend in flesh. Glancing at the magnificent scenery of the Emerald Isle—her lovely lakes shimmering in the distance—on the swift pinions of well adjusted thought he swept his willing audience with him over England, Scotland, France, Germany, Russia, on to eternal Rome. Sometimes on lofty mountain summit, at others in stately cathedral cloisters, along the river streets of Venice, across the beautiful Bay of Naples, down into the deep depths of buried Herculaneum, and up the charred and crusted sides of Vesuvius he drew his captive audience with the magic power of his thrilling oratory, keeping them enthralled to the end. Few who were present last night will willingly miss hearing the doctor on Thursday night again in the same place, when he discourses on "The Land O' Cakes and Her Peasant Poet." Col. Stevenson, our popular Scotch citizen, is expected to occupy the chair. Every Scotchman should be there.

Amusements.

THEATRE ROYAL.—The "Banker's Daughter" found a large audience awaiting the ringing up of the curtain last evening on the occasion of her first introduction to Montreal's people. By the end of the first act the house was entirely filled and standing room was in demand. The play certainly merits all the praise that has been bestowed upon it, and is no doubt the crowning success of the efforts of that most successful American playwright, Bronson Howard. Its presentation last night was fully deserving of the large patronage bestowed upon it, and the appreciation of the audience was frequently manifested by the most enthusiastic applause. Montreal audiences have not seen such acting, in the modern drama, for a long time and they were not at all backward in bestowing praise where it was deserved. Last night's performance demonstrates the fact that a Montreal audience can appreciate a good thing when they see it, and patronize a first-class attraction liberally enough to amply requite the enterprise of the Manager who brings this class of attractions here. The company is remarkably well balanced for a travelling company, even the weaker features being stronger than the average of "travelling talent." It is useless to particularize in full or to give a synopsis of the play itself; suffice it to say that the performance is one of rare excellence in its entirety, and is quite deserving of full houses every performance, and all lovers of the pure drama and good acting should see the John Strebelow of F. C. Bangs; the Count de Carojac of Sig. Majeroni, who looks and acts the French Count to perfection; and have the tender emotions, which are aroused by the finer sentiment of the plot, dispelled by the most hilarious laughter, which is the irresistible result of those splendid bits of character acting: G. Washington Phipps and Florence St Vincent Brown, (without even the final e), as perfectly rendered by those former Montreal favorites, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walcot.

Police News.

John Patterson, a notorious sneak thief, who was let off last week without punishment for the theft of a fur cap, with a strong hint from Mr. Dugas, P.M., to emigrate, turned up again in the Police Court to-day, charged with making off with a coat belonging to Mr. Edward Power, Colborne street. The prisoner with the coat on was met in the very door of the house by Mr. Power's brother, who, however, did not recognize the garment. Afterwards when it was missed he described the man to sub-Constable Riley, who arrested Patterson. He was committed.

An old man named Dupuis, unused to the ways of the Recorder's Court, strayed after the prisoners who were yesterday passing out of the cells to be tried, and was ushered with them into the room behind the dock. At the end of the Court the policeman in attendance found that one prisoner remained untried, and thinking that his name and offence had for some reason been omitted from the list, took him back and locked him in a cell. There the poor fellow remained for an hour, until he could find some one to believe his protestations, when, after investigation, he was released.

Sub-Constable Johnston remonstrated with a crowd of roughs loitering on the corner of McCord and Ottawa streets Monday afternoon and was assaulted by three of them who seized his baton and struck at him fiercely. Matters would have gone hard with him but for the arrival of Sergeant Dineen when the scoundrels dispersed. Two of them, John Crowe and Charles McCrae, were arrested Monday evening and yesterday morning the former was fined $5 or one month, the latter $10 or two months. McCrae has been before the Recorder six times within a few months. Sergeant Dineen complains that many of the so-called respectable people of Griffintown sympathize with the rowdies in their conduct and work against the police, and states that the police at Young street station are not sufficient to put down disorder in the neighborhood. At present Griffintown supplies about half the prisoners for the Recorder.

Africa.

On this subject the Rev. Dr. Means delivered a lecture in the Wesley Congregational church last evening.

Although, said the lecturer, Africa contained at one time some of the most eminent seats of learning, yet it had least to do with modern civilization and almost no share in the general business of the world. By means of a map the lecturer pointed out the routes by which Livingstone, Stanley and Cameron had crossed from one side to the other. One of the physical features of the country was that it resembled a saucer turned upside down. Its immense water system was such as to baffle all calculation and, in comparison with it, ours consisted merely of streams and ponds. The absurdity of the notion that all the Africans were negroes was exposed, the lecturer stating that the inhabitants along the north were more like Europeans. In physical development the Africans excelled any other race. The condition of some of the tribes in the south centre, as described by Livingstone, was little better than the condition of a cattle kraal. Every man had as many wives as he could purchase or steal, and every woman was a wife and a slave. He concluded his lecture by stating that there was as great a difference between the various races in Africa as there was between those of Europe.

The Police Committee.

At a meeting of this Committee at the City Hall this afternoon, there were present Ald. Gilman (in the chair), and Aldermen Hood, Kennedy, Dubuc, Hagar and Grenier.

After the auditing of an account in payment for numbers, the appropriation recommendations were taken up.

Ald. Hood was in favor of reinstating the salaries as they were, that is that the salaries of firemen and policemen should be restored to the same figures paid in 1878.

Ald. Kennedy wanted to know what the chair thought about increasing the force?

It was resolved to favor that line of action at the proper time.

An application was received from Chief Paradis, asking an increase of salary, stating that he was poorer now than he was thirteen years ago, and had meantime served the city constantly.

Ald. Hood stated that the restoration would rectify this.

It was finally agreed to recommend that the salary of the Chief be recommended to be placed at $2,800, and for all the assistants, that the percentages be added in the recommended appropriations, so that the gross amount will show what is necessary to include all the proposed changes.

It was recommended to increase the efficiency of the force by appointing, by promotion, two more police sergeants for assignments to the stations; there were eleven stations and only seven sergeants.

Ald. Kennedy thought we should have a sergeant for each station.

It was proposed by Ald. Gilman that it would be wise to go to Boston to get information in regard to the management of the detective department of the police force.

Ald. Hood said, jokingly, that he wanted to go and would like to have his expenses paid.

Ald. Kennedy thought all the information could be got in answer to letters.

The appropriation estimate sheet is being discussed, item by item, as we go to press.

Wholesale Provision Market.

The market for eggs to-day was firmer and sales were mentioned at 18c. Prices range from 17½c to 18c. A fair jobbing trade is being done in best qualities of both butter and cheese, but stocks particularly of the former are more than ample. New milk butter can generally find customers at 25c, but for other kinds the best price is 22c. Stale, strong butter is in even worse favor than before, a few lots have recently been re-shipped to the country, and what is left will probably be closed out at gross prices later in the spring. In New York fine fresh lots of butter are receiving attention, but the "off qualities continue to find almost entire neglect, with prices simply nominal all around and holders finding nothing in the outlook at present to afford them much encouragement." There is a fair country and city demand here for pork and lard, but sales are in small lots, such as are scarcely worth mentioning. From all accounts the demand for hog products shows a satisfactory increase over last year. New maple sugar is quoted at 9c to 10c, and syrup at 80c to 90c per gallon. Canada mess pork is held at $19.50 to $20, and Chicago at $19 to $19.50. Canada thin mess, $18.53 to $19. Canada lard is worth 14c, and Fairbanks, 14½c. Bacon, 10½c to 11c.

Finance and Commerce.

The rates of money and exchange continue to rule steady. Drafts on New York were drawn at ⅛ to ½ premium.

The stock market this morning was firm for bank shares and weaker for miscellaneous. The Jacques Cartier bank will probably be in a position to declare a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent, not "six per cent" as announced accidentally yesterday.

The following were this morning's sales:—75 Montreal, 184½; 1 do, 184⅝; 50 do, 184½; 25 do, 184¾; 65 do, 185; 6 Ontario, 101½; 3 Merchants, 119¼; 72 do, 119; 275 Jacques Cartier, 107; 143 Commerce, 143½, 25 Richelieu, 62¾; 125 Montreal Telegraph, 129; 25 do, 128¾; 75 do, 128½; 75 Gas, 156; 75 Canada Cotton, 123; 15 Montreal Cotton, 215.

A despatch from New York at noon says the feelings in stocks was bearish. Money loaned on call at 5 per cent. Exchange dull at $4.80½ to $4.83. Governments firm, 6's of 81, 2⅛; 5's, 1¼; 4½'s, 11½; 4's, 13⅝; currency, 6's, 30 bid.

Some time since Ald. Fairbairn opened in addition to his other business an open Exchange which has proved not only unpleasant but quite unprofitable to him. He could not give the business his personal supervision and a few days ago decided to close it up. The closing up process brought to attention an aggregation of some few hundred dollars of claims due by the "Board" to its customers, and a private meeting yesterday of the three individuals interested to discuss the question of adjustment and settlement has been publicly dignified as "a meeting of creditors." The amount due, some $900. Mr. Fairbairn will probably have no difficulty in meeting, and in the meantime the claims are in course of adjustment.

Afternoon Sales.—25 Montreal, 185; 25 do, 184⅞; 5 do 184½; 35 do, 184¼; 160 do, 184; 150 Ontario, 101½; 50 Peoples, 90¾; 40 Molsons, 108¾; 50 Commerce, 143; 45 Richelieu, 62¼; 12 Dundas Cotton, 126; $1,000 Champlain bonds, 88.

The stock market was generally weak this p.m.

MABEL'S LOVE.

"You can stay for a day or two upstairs in your own room if you like," added Jonas, with what seemed to Mabel a feeling of kind consideration for her present sorrow which drew forth her gratitude. The object of Jonas in making the suggestion was not, however, entitled to any such return. Colonel Marston was still in the house, a fact which he did not wish Mabel to know; and as her room was at a distance from the chamber into which the visitor had been put by the lawyer, the knowledge would be more easily kept from her if she did not come much downstairs. Mabel was only too glad to keep within the refuge of solitude during these first hours of her intensely bitter experience. So to her room she went, and there remained for the rest of the day, doing battle with her overwhelming thoughts, and bracing herself for the expected interview with Edward Marston. Oh, if that interview were but over, and the separation formally made, which had been in reality effected! She would be free then to sink into whatever normal state of existence her wounded soul would settle itself—free to grope her lonesome, weary way through the darkness and the gloom.

There was another as anxiously wishing for the interview between the lovers to be past, and safely past. This was Colonel Marston, who could not leave Raystock till his nephew and Mabel Ashley were beyond all danger sundered. He could not feel assured of the success of his scheme until the lovers met and parted, and Edward had gone away, as he anticipated he would, immediately on receiving his dismissal. So the hard-hearted, selfish, unscrupulous man lay in semi-hiding in the house of Jonas Lynch. It was supposed that no one outside of that dwelling knew of his presence there. The horse on which he had ridden the last stage of his journey south he had left at Kemple, and he, being well acquainted with the paths across the hills, had reached the lawyer's residence without having to pass through any portion of Raystock. He hoped to be able to leave as quietly as he had come, and that the youth would never learn what share he had in the destruction of his bright life hopes.

That very afternoon, while the radiance of the autumn day still flooded earth and sky, Edward Marston and Job Dillon came in sight of Raystock from the point called Edgely Rise, the spot where two months before they had first beheld the village, as related in the opening chapter. To them it wore even a brighter look than it did on that occasion, for now it had for them a sweet and precious human interest which it did not then possess. It contained for each of them a fond, loving heart, to which they were hastening with all the speed which love could put forth, and from whom they expected a joyous welcome and a rapturous embrace.

This time they did not come to Raystock in such an imposing manner as on the former occasion. They had no stout horses to bear them on their way. They had made the journey from Cumberland by such public conveyances as they could find, and this made them a day longer in accomplishing the distance than Colonel Marston, who had come by a direct route on horseback. Having left the coach at the nearest point to Raystock at which it touched, they had walked the last few miles of the journey with light hearts; for every moment of time and every step they took were bringing them nearer to those whom their souls loved.

Arrived at the Wheat Sheaf, Job soon experienced the ecstatic fruition of his anticipations in the warmth with which the delighted Fanny threw herself into his arms and permitted her blushing lips to be devoured with kisses. Of course, this fond and ardent demonstration took place in private and not under the gaze of the people of the inn, though by this time it was well known to her master and her fellow-servants that she and Job were engaged, and intended to be married soon. Still Fanny was a modest, circumspect girl, and Job had too much respect for her to subject her to the raillery of her neighbors. He waited, therefore, a convenient opportunity for the indulgence of such loving manifestations as their re-union demanded, and he had his reward in the free, unrestrained manner in which his darling little Fanny responded to his innocent endearments.

Edward waited only to swallow a hasty refreshment and brush the dust of travel from his clothes ere walking up the slope to enjoy a similar interview with Mabel. To see her he must of necessity call at her stepfather's house, and this he did not shrink from doing, though it was the first time he had made his appearance there, or come in contact with Mr. Jonas Lynch. There was no reason why his intercourse with Mabel should have an apparently clandestine character. He was ready openly to avow his love for her, and appear in an honorable and straightforward character as her betrothed. There was nothing to be ashamed of either on his account or hers, and it consisted best with his frank, undesigning nature to go to Mabel's guardian and let him know the position in which he stood towards his step-daughter.

In pursuance of his resolve, Edward, with a brisk step, made direct for the lawyer's house, his handsome face bright and beaming with the joy which filled his heart. As he approached the gate he cast an eager look through the garden and up to the windows, in the hope of beholding her or seeing her come forth to meet him; but in this he was disappointed. She was not in the garden, nor did he obtain a glimpse of her beautiful face at any of the windows, the blinds of which were for the most part closely drawn.

His coming was not unobserved though by other eyes than those of Mabel, and when Mrs. Lynch opened the door to his knock she greeted him with a look of recognition which he could not mistake.

Again was Edward disappointed. He made quite sure that it would be Mabel who came to the door, he had his arms ready to enfold her, when the squat form, the full developed person, and purple face of Mrs. Lynch were presented to his gaze.

So thoroughly unexpected was this vision that the youth was taken aback, and was at a loss who to ask for. In his confusion he stammered out the name of Mr. Lynch.

"Yes, sir, Mr. Lynch is in—this way, sir," said Sarah, quite volubly; and ere Edward had time to think he was ushered into the parlor where Jonas Lynch sat alone.

The lawyer rose, bowed and smiled also, as it seemed in recognition, which caused Edward to conclude that he had some knowledge of his visitor, a supposition which was at once confirmed by the lawyer uttering his name.

"Mr. Marston, I think."

"Ah, you know me then, Mr. Lynch."

"Well, sir, I have some slight knowledge of you. We have not met before, but I have seen you at a distance, and I know of your acquaintance with Mabel."

The words relieved the youth from his embarrassment. He understood them to mean that Mabel had informed him of their relation to each other, and from the pleasant reception he received he concluded that the knowledge had not displeased him.

"Then, sir," he observed, "I presume that Mabel—Miss Ashley, I mean—has informed you of the character into which our acquaintance has developed, and the relation in which we stand to each other."

"She has, Mr. Marston. As a dutiful girl she deemed it improper to conceal such an important matter from me. I believe this was not quite the arrangement between you when you parted a week ago. The knowledge was not to be communicated till you returned from Cumberland with your uncle's consent and approbation."

"True, sir," that was the arrangement, but I am glad, on reflection, Mabel departed from it, as she had a perfect right to do. I hope, Mr. Lynch, you see no reason to object to our union. We love each other very dearly."

"Possibly—I know that at your age, Mr. Marston, love, or the feeling called such, is considered everything in relation to marriage. I am older, and can therefore view matters more prudently. I have learned long ago that the marriage relation is not to be maintained comfortably on love alone, but is chiefly dependent on more mundane things. Now Mabel has no fortune, and will not be able to bring anything to con tribute to household resources."

"What does that matter?" cried Edward, impulsively.

The catch of herring in the bay at St. John, N. B., this spring, has been the largest known for many years. A correspondent of the Niagara Falls Review says a scheme is about to be promulgated to build (on the very spot in which the fiercest part of the contest took place) a Grand International Monument, in memory of the slain of the battle of Lundy's Lane. The monument, he says, is to stand on an elevation of at least 300 feet above the level of Niagara Falls, and about 500 feet above Lake Ontario, and will rise to the majestic height of nearly 600 feet, which will give to the beholder a view of hundreds of miles in every direction. In spite of all the warnings about signing papers for strangers, a Lucan, Ont., farmer came near being victimized lately. He gave a travelling agent an order for a single article, but after a few days another agent belonging to the same firm came along and demanded his note for an amount forty times greater than the original order. He refused, of course, and becoming annoyed at the threats of the agent, took up a spade and gave him a tremendous blow on the side of the head. The agent fled, leaving order and note behind him. The farmer then discovered that the original order had been changed, and the word "forty" substituted for "one." Others were similarly victimized. The agent certainly deserves credit for his courage in venturing a game of this kind in Biddulph.

There is no more doubt that drinking ice-water arrests digestion than there is that a refrigerator would arrest perspiration. It drives from the stomach its natural heat, suspends the flow of gastric juice, and shocks and weakens the delicate organs with which it comes in contact.

Experiments to test the effect of oil upon waves have recently been made in the harbor of Dundee, by placing flasks of oil below the surface and opening them when there was a heavy sea. According to a local paper the billows were at once reduced in height and violence, and the harbor, in the vicinity of the oil, became comparatively calm.

To color bright wire black or blue and perfectly smooth, the same as hair-pins, take of asphaltum, three ounces; boiled oil, four quarts; burnt umber, eight ounces; mix by heat, and thin with turpentine (oil) before the mixture becomes cool. Dip the wire in this (not too thick) and harden it in a japanner's oven at as high a heat as it will bear without blistering.

A new invention is reported from Turin. It consists in the application of light-giving materials to printing ink, by which print becomes luminous in the dark, so that in future it will be possible to read at night, in bed or during a journey, without the assistance of candle or lamp. A new daily paper in which the luminous material will be used, is, it is said, about to be published at Turin.

A new sort of portable fire escape has just been patented, which consists of an arrangement in the form of a large telescope, which can be extended upward, forming a tower reaching to the top stories, and from the upper section of which a door can be opened and a bridge stretched across to the burning house. Over this persons can go and descend within the great tube which is protected by a covering of sheet iron.

Japanese paper air-cushions are said to have some advantages over those made of rubber. They may be rolled into a package of smaller dimensions when not in use, they will not stick together as rubber does after it is wet, and for pillows they are better because they have no odor. Their strength is marvellous; a man weighing one hundred and sixty pounds may stand upon one without bursting it. They are said to be waterproof and to make excellent life-preservers.

Sulphide of carbon has been used with great success in France for the purpose of exterminating wasps. A small quantity is introduced into the aperture by which the insects go in and out of the nest, and the result is the immediate destruction of the entire colony. The aperture should be closed after pouring in the liquor or forcing it in with a syringe. Sulphide of carbon should only be employed in this way by persons who are familiar with the danger arising from its use and know how to handle it.

Some support to the theory that not the brain alone but the whole nervous system may really be the seat of the mind is afforded by Professor O. C. Marsh's latest researches concerning the extinct reptiles of the Rocky Mountain region. One mammoth skeleton, belonging to a creature which he has named Stegosaurus, must have been clothed with a body as large as that of an alligator, while the brain cavity corresponds in size to that of a dog. Behind this cavity is another, eight or ten times as large which Professor Marsh is disposed to regard as "the box of a posterior brain." When asked at the meeting of the National Academy whether he had any explanation to offer of these strange anatomical peculiarities, he was not prepared to offer any as yet.

Mr. Lincoln used to tell a story about a big Hoosier who came to Washington during the war and called on a street Arab for a shine. Looking at the tremendous boots before him he called out to a brother shiner across the street: come over and help, Jimmy. I've got an army contract."

The small Jenkins boy appeared the other evening amid a parlor full of company, apparelled as his mother had left him, when she put him to bed an hour before. He justified himself, between the spanks, by the statement that his mother had read aloud that undressed kids were fashionable at receptions.

Two noted lawyers, when driving out one afternoon, met a countryman with a three-horse team, the leader being fat and sleek and the other two in very poor condition, and asked: "Why is one of your horses so much fatter and sleeker than the others?" TRAVEL, ADVENTURE AND NATIONAL CUSTOMS.

THE PEOPLE IN ALASKA.—One of the most remarkable traits of this peculiar people in Alaska is their aversion to salt, which they will not eat in any form. I have seen them, when offered a choice piece of corned-beef on the vessel, taste it, and, on finding that it had been salted, spit out the mouthful with a wry face and throw the remainder on the deck in disgust. No matter how putrid a whale or seal may be, they eat it, raw and unseasoned, with evident relish.

When a remark had been made to a wealthy native about the dearth of pretty faces in Cyprus, he replied that the Turks twenty years ago took away all the handsomest girls to Constantinople. Occasionally—very occasionally—says a recent writer, one sees a maiden graceful, tall and lithe, whose purely Greek head is adorned with a pair of Eastern eyes. The children of both sexes are, when healthy, charmingly pretty from the age of four or five to eight or ten; but the vast majority are puny, pale and unhealthy. They are nursed too long by their mothers, and are then crammed with all sorts of unfit food, such as olives, cheese, beans, etc., never getting milk or a farinaceous diet. They suffer more than adults from malarial fevers and almost all are afflicted more or less with disease of the spleen. It is difficult to understand how boys so weakly grow up to be such fine men; but no doubt the less fit do not survive. They have so little idea of personal cleanliness, that doctors find their patients so extremely dirty that they are obliged to make it a rule to give them no advice until they are washed.

IN CYPRUS. The Cypriote makes night hidious with his howlings, laboring under the impression that he is musical. The noise or music to which he jumps is chiefly produced by scraping one—the treble—string of a little fiddle with great rapidity, and has, to all appearances, been learned from the mosquito, which it mimics with considerable accuracy. The fiddle is generally accompanied by the bourdon of a zither, which copies well the wearing screech of the cicala. When the native Greek breaks into song he produces a brief nasal drone, whose melancholy sound is often repeated. The boys never whistle; but the children, chiefly the girls, from time to time, with a voice from the head and nose, produce a short tune, which never exceeds two or three bars. With all this they have wondrous lungs. The men will send their clear voices ringing through the pure dry air, across a country-side; in the streets and on the roads they converse, preferably it would almost seem, from a distance in loud tones. When on fine evenings, and all evenings are fine in Cyprus for months together—whole families sit in the lanes outside their doors, they do not take the trouble to move in order to visit their neighbors, but shout to them with shrill distinctness as they sit. The result is a babel of noise, for all shout together. Notwithstanding that, they seem to make themselves intelligible.

Handsome gold daggers for the hair have the hilts made of Rhine pebbles or fine cut steel.

A young lady of Boston became insane because she could not afford to wear real lace on her clothes.

Very long gloves are more and more popular; the arms are now covered while the throat is exposed.

Silk neck handkerchiefs have disappeared to the inside of dresses, instead of being worn three cornered outside.

High neck ruches of black lace and white lace plaited together are very fashionable and exceedingly becoming.

Ladies will be glad to hear that "fluttered frog" is the name of the last new color. It is rather lighter than "frightened toad" or "angry mouse." "Disturbed cockroach" ought to be a sweet color.

The Joan of Arc bodice is very popular, but it is a mistake to adopt it absolutely. To look well in it requires magnificent materials and a very pretty figure—neither too stout nor too thin; otherwise it has a ridiculous and ungraceful effect.

Moire is decidedly taking rank among the handsome fabrics for dressy toilets. It is worn not only in its original state, but is also combined with plain satin. It is often used for trimming dresses of plain woollen material as well as in conjunction with richer fabrics.

Fancy slippers when worn with a combination toilet are made to match the colors of the costume—for instance, a pair of Roman sandals worn with a dress of peach-blossom satin, trimmed with ruby velvet, has the fronts made of peach-blossom satin and the backs of ruby velvet.

Two young ladies were very much admired at a recent London fancy ball. They were dressed in the severest simplicity. Both were unusually tall, and wore soft white muslin, devoid of any vestige of lace or jewellery, and had powdered their heads very slightly, which gives a much better effect than laying it on with a heavy hand.

A Baptist Minister's Experience.

I am a Baptist minister, and before I ever thought of being a clergyman I graduated in medicine, but left a lucrative practice for my present profession, 40 years ago. I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy. "Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured me." I was also troubled with hoarseness and Thomas' Eclectric Oil always relieved me. My wife and child had Diphtheria, and Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured them," and if taken in time it will cure seven times out of ten, I am confident. It is a cure for the most obstinate Cold or Cough, and if any one will take a small teaspoon and half fill it with the Oil and then place the end of the spoon in one nostril and draw the Oil out of the spoon into the head by sniffing as hard as they can until the Oil falls over into the throat, and practise that twice a week, I don't care how offensive their head may be, it will clean it out and cure their Catarrh. For Deafness and Earache it has done wonders to my certain knowledge. It is the only medicine dubbed patent medicine that I have ever felt like recommending, and I am very anxious to see it in every place, for I tell you that I would not be without it in my house for any consideration. I am now suffering with a pain like rheumatism in my right limb and nothing relieves me like Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Dr. E. F. Crane, Corry, Pa.

Two Hundred and Forty-four Miles of Stove Polish.

Messrs. Morse Bros., of Canton, Mass., are now making large shipments of "The Rising Sun" Stove Polish to London, England. Their labor-saving machinery enables them to overcome the difference in cost of labor and compete successfully with European manufacturers. Their goods have now been sold in the United States for sixteen years, and in the Maritime Provinces for ten years. The sale of "The Rising Sun" Stove Polish in the United States, Canada, Great Britain and Sandwich Islands in 1880 reached the enormous quantity of 724 tons, 3,864,528 packages. As the cakes are four inches long, the product of 1880, placed in a line, would extend two hundred and forty-four miles. Each package of the genuine bears their long established trade mark—a picture of the rising sun—registered in the United States, England and Canada. The trade and consumers are especially cautioned against dangerous imitations in the market of their long-established trade mark, a picture of the rising sun, by which unprincipled manufacturers are seeking to reap the advantage of the great reputation and superior quality of the genuine article. Their Montreal agents are Messrs. Lyman, Sons & Co., wholesale druggists.

FOR THE RELIEF AND CURE

OF ALL

WASTING DISEASES,

SUCH AS

Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma General Debility, Brain Exhaustion, Chronic Constipation, Chronic Diarrhœa, Dyspepsia,

Or Loss of Nervous Power.

It is unequalled in the treatment of Palpitation of the Heart, Trembling of the Hands and Limbs, Loss of Appetite, Energy or Memory.

It acts with vigor, gentleness and subtlety, owing to the exquisite harmony of its ingredients, akin to pure blood itself. Its taste is pleasant, and its effects permanent.

Its first apparent effect is to increase the appetite. It assists digestion, and causes the food to assimilate properly—thus the system is nourished. It also, by its tonic action on the digestive organs, induces more copious and regular evacuations. The rapidity with which patients take on flesh while under the influence of the Syrup, of itself indicates that no other preparation can be better adapted to help and nourish the constitution, and hence be more efficacious in all depression of spirits, shaking or trembling of the hands or body, cough, shortness of breath, or consumptive habit. The nerves and muscles become strengthened, and the blood purified.

Price, $1.50 per bottle. Six for $7.50.
