A Canadian Press survey showed that a total of 15 deaths were recorded in the area—11 of them in Ontario and four in Quebec.

Of the remaining five, three were drowned, one was shot and one died in a fire.

French Consulate Employee Held By Poles For "Spying"

Paris, Nov. 21.—(AP)—France and Poland were on sorely-strained diplomatic terms today after the arrest in Warsaw of a French consulate employee and the retaliatory detention in Paris of a Polish airman and his crew.

The Frenchman, Andre Simon Roubineau, was charged with espionage involving two other French diplomats, Aymar de Bressin de Mere and Fernand Reneux, members of the staff of the French embassy in Warsaw.

Roubineau was arrested Friday as he was boarding a Polish plane. From Warsaw it was reported the government there had ordered his two alleged accomplices to leave Poland. They were scheduled to leave for Paris by train today.

Because they had not been officially notified of Roubineau's arrest, French authorities filed seven homicide charges against the seven crew members of the Polish airliner that was to have brought Roubineau to Paris. The crew at first said here that Roubineau had boarded the plane.

Their plane was impounded.

Bank Holdup Trio Given Prison Terms

St. Hyacinthe, Que., Nov. 21.—(CP)—Alertness of a 48-year-old spinner bank employee resulted Saturday in the swift conviction and sentencing of a Montreal policeman and two accomplices for an $8,600 armed holdup.

Less than 16 hours after Miss Corinne Vigneault was thrust with her 77-year-old mother into a closet of the bank in the little village of St. Hughes, the three men were arrested, arraigned and sentenced to penitentiary terms on pleas of guilty.

Real Vincette, 33-year-old Montreal policeman who has been on sick leave, was given a five-year term, Gerard Labrie, 28, of Montreal received the same sentence and Armand Lapierre, 25, also of Montreal, was given a four-year sentence.

Vincette, with nine years service as a constable on the Montreal force and father of three children, has been on sick leave for several months because of a back injury.

About 7 p.m. Friday three men walked into the branch of La Banque Canadienne Nationale at St. Hughes, about 40 miles northeast of Montreal.

Miss Vigneault was in charge as manager because her aged mother Mrs. Jean Baptiste Vigneault, was ill. Two other daughters, Miss Marie and Miss Gracia Vigneault, were also in the bank.

All were ordered into the closet, tied up and told to "keep quiet." The armed trio then ransacked the bank and fled in a car, subsequently discovered to have been rented in Montreal.

Miss Corinne Vigneault managed to free herself and the others and immediately notified provincial police, who broadcast an alarm.

Three hours later Vincette, alone in the car, drove up to the toll at the southern end of the Jacques Cartier bridge spanning the St. Lawrence river at Montreal.

He showed his police badge as a pass without toll payment. But provincial police at the bridge recognized the car from a broad description, found the money and two revolvers in the glove compartment and arrested Vincette.

Labrie and Lapierre were arrested later when they showed up at Vincette's home where, police said, the money was to be shared.

The Vigneault sisters were brought to Montreal Saturday morning where they identified the three men.

Vincette and his pals were then taken to St. Hyacinthe and arraigned before Judge Victor Chabot. All three pleaded guilty and were sentenced immediately.

The Polish embassy filed a formal protest against the detention with the foreign ministry. The note demanded the crew's release.

Police said the homicide charges against the plane crew would have to be dropped if the report of Roubineau's arrest was officially verified. A foreign ministry spokesman said the French ambassador in Warsaw had been instructed to demand permission to see Roubineau.

The Polish radio announced that Roubineau, who is the son of the secretary-general of the French Institute in Warsaw, had confessed to the espionage charges and would appear in a Polish court later.

French circles in Warsaw described the espionage charges as nonsensical and said the accusations resulted from an attack of spy fever growing out of a new decree to protect state secrets. These sources also doubted that Roubineau had made a confession attributed to him by the Polish authorities.

Manila, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The weather bureau said today a typhoon with winds up to 90 miles an hour would pass about 200 miles north of Luzon Island early tomorrow.

30,000-Word Report of Mr. Justice Kellock Is Tabled in House of Commons—Recommendations to Be Studied.

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—(CP)—The owners and master of the cruise ship Noronic were blamed by a Supreme Court of Canada judge today for the Sept. 17 flash fire that took 118 lives as the luxury vessel lay at a Toronto dock.

Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, reporting as commissioner in a transport department inquiry, ordered the master's certificate of Capt. William Taylor of Sarnia, Ont., suspended for a year and recommended a series of tightened safety regulations for such vessels as the Noronic.

In a 30,000-word report tabled in the Commons shortly after he had delivered a brief court judgment suspending the captain, Mr. Justice Kellock found the loss of the ship and the loss of life had resulted from "failure" of Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., and Capt. Taylor to take adequate precautions against fire.

In particular, the judge censured owners and master for failure to provide proper means of detecting and fighting fires while in dock and for getting passengers off the ship should it take fire in port.

Acting Transport Minister Howe, tabling the report, told Parliament the government would "carefully consider" the judge's recommendations and he expressed hope the investigation would be the "means of preventing disasters of this kind in the future."

Besides suspending the captain's certificate, Mr. Justice Kellock also assessed against the owner-company the expenses incurred by the transport department in the 17-day investigation held at Toronto.

He had been appointed a commissioner by the department to answer 20 specific questions dealing with the fire, which broke out in the early morning hours as the 30-year-old ship lay at a pier during a Great Lakes cruise that had started at Detroit.

All but one of the dead aboard the veteran $5,000,000 craft were United States residents enjoying a post-season cruise. Most of them having been trapped in their bunks, identified dead total 111 and seven persons are known missing. Unidentified remains as yet are being kept in cold storage.

The remainder of the 527 passengers and the 16 crew members aboard the ship at the time of the outbreak—including the captain—escaped.

While critical of the actions of the master after the fire broke out, Mr. Justice Kellock said the actions of the ordinary crew members were no doubt what they would be expected to do, in such circumstances.

This was in the light of the fact that no officer had taken charge of the situation or had attempted to give any general directions, "if such was possible at the advanced stage which the fire had reached when the alarm was given."

After the alarm was given, the judge said, "the only thing that might have been possible to do, which was not done, was for the master to have taken general charge of the situation and directed in an organized way the arousing of passengers, instead of acting himself as an ordinary seaman in such parts of the ship as he could reach."

Evidence at the inquiry was that Capt. Taylor attempted to fight the fire personally when caught below decks by the outbreak.

The investigator found that the fire broke out in a small linen closet just forward of a women's washroom opening onto the port corridor on "C" deck, third deck down from the top of the vessel.

While Mr. Justice Kellock gave no finding on the actual cause of the fire, he declared there was no evidence of incendiaryism.

His ruling on the responsibility for the loss of the ship and the lives was that the captain and company were at fault in:

1. Failing to have a continuous patrol of the ship to detect fire. He added "such patrol as was in existence" was limited to about 15 minutes out of each hour.

2. Failing to have an organization in operation, while the ship was docked with passengers, to transmit word of a fire outbreak to some point where trained fire-fighters could be dispatched immediately.

3. Failing to "contemplate in any real sense" the possibility of fire at a dock and maintaining only 15 men on duty out of a crew complement of 171.

4. Failing to "have any plan for keeping ahead of the growth in world population."

The meeting will run two weeks or longer.

Son Seeks To Avenge His Father

Walpole, Mass., Nov. 21.—(AP)—An urge to avenge the death of his father in a Quebec plane explosion was given by police today as the reason a Brown University student staged a $55 hold-up.

Police said a youth who identified himself as Patrick J. Parker, 18, will be arraigned in district court on a charge of armed robbery in connection with a liquor store holdup in nearby Plainville.

The youth told police he was the son of the late Russell J. Parker of Rye, N. Y., former vice-president of the Kennecott Copper Company, and president of the Quebec Iron and Titanium Company.

The elder Parker and 22 others were killed when a plane crashed at St. Joachim, Que., last September 9 after a bomb exploded in the baggage compartment.

J. Albert Guay, a Quebec jeweler, is held without bail on a murder charge in Quebec. He is charged with arranging for the bomb to be placed aboard the plane so his wife, one of the victims, would be killed.

State police quoted young Parker as saying he needed money "to fly to Montreal . . . because I wanted to get revenge and kill the man responsible for my father's death—the man who had the bomb put on the plane before the take-off."

The youth, police said, did not explain why he intended to go to Montreal instead of Quebec where Guay is jailed.

They theorized he did not know where Guay is held or that he knew and planned to go from Montreal to Quebec.

Clyde Marshall, owner of the Cranston, R. I., home where Parker was staying, told police the youth was "deeply shocked" by the death of his father and "brooded constantly."

Meanwhile, defence lawyers for Guay, scheduled to go on trial Jan. 9, said in a signed statement in Quebec that "adequate protection" will be sought for the jeweler during his trial.

In the statement the lawyers said: "We wonder if the conduct and the statement of young Parker of Rye, N. Y., are not the result of the behavior of certain newspapers, radio commentators and sources of information toward our client . . ."

Princess Elizabeth Arrives In Malta

Valletta, Malta, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth was a happy naval officer's wife today. Her husband's ship was swinging at anchor in sight of her window.

Elizabeth joined the Duke of Edinburgh here last night, arriving in time for at least a part of her wedding anniversary. Her plane had been delayed in London 24 hours by fog.

The Duke bounded up the steps to his wife's plane as soon as it landed and welcomed her privately inside the cabin. Outside she faced photographers and greeted Malta's governor, Sir Francis Creasy, and Archbishop Gonzi. But ceremony was at a minimum.

The royal couple is staying at the Villa Guardamangia. The villa overlooks the harbor where the anchored ships include the destroyer Chequers. The Duke is second in command of the Chequers.

That's what survivors of the ditched B-29 said they thought about during 79 "miserable" hours on two six-man life rafts in heavy Atlantic swells north of Bermuda.

The 18 survivors—four of them on stretchers—arrived yesterday afternoon aboard the Canadian destroyer Haida. The ship picked them up Saturday afternoon after a United States air force B-17 sighted them about 400 miles northeast of Bermuda.

Two of the 20-man crew drowned before they could get through the heavy swells to the two life rafts. One of the 18 survivors was suffering considerably from shock.

But 14 of the bruised and salt-caked airmen walked unaided from the crashboats that brought them to the shore from the destroyer. They grinned at the wildly cheering hundreds who watched them transfer to ambulances that took them to the Kindley air base hospital here.

Most of the men were considered in good condition. Some had suffered sprains. Some had salt water sores. But the majority seemed fairly fit.

The captain of the rescuing destroyer, Lt. Cmdr. E. Ward T. G. Madgwick of Ottawa, said waves 50 to 60 feet high were tossing the B-29, already are members,

28 Refugee Children Are Lost In Plane Accident

Oslo, Nov. 21.—(AP)—A plane carrying 28 undernourished Jewish refugee children from North Africa was missing today, believed crashed somewhere in tangled forest country near Oslo.

The plane with 35 aboard—28 children, three nurses and four members sent its last radio message about 6 p.m. last night as it neared Oslo's Borgeby airport. Soon afterwards a sharp flash of light, followed by an explosion was seen near Gjerboen lake a mile southeast of Oslo.

Hundreds of searchers struggled through the trees and swamps in the lake region during the night and this morning searching for a trace of the missing craft.

The 28 children were in a group of 55 North African Jews from Tunis being flown to Norway for six months of rest and rehabilitation before travelling on to Israel. Most were between six and 12 years of age.

Another plane with 27 children arrived slightly earlier in the afternoon from Tunis. The missing plane, a twin-engine DC-3 transport, was operated by a Netherlands company, Aero Holland.

Visibility was obscured by clouds as the incoming plane reported it was over Oslo Fjord only a mile or two from the capital.

Aero Holland, owners of the plane, announced at The Hague, Netherlands, that the plane was considered lost.

The rehabilitation program is financed by the American joint distribution committee. A spokesman said the children, from Tunisian Jewish families, were undernourished and threatened by tuberculosis.

Britain Will Co-Operate In Europe

London, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, said in a broadcast to Europe last night that Britain is "ready and able" to co-operate with other western European countries in tackling the economic problems which lie at hand "so as to build up an expanding economy of western Europe."

"There is certainly nothing in Britain's position in the sterling area to prevent us playing a full part in the economic integration of western Europe," he said.

"This is the fundamental objective of all of us: A wide market, increasing production and full employment for our peoples."

Reviewing the work of the organization for European Economic co-operation, Sir Stafford listed three "important progressive steps."

Firstly, the fact that its 18 members were developing a European approach to economic problems was a "very great achievement."

Secondly, the inter-European payments plan, put forward by Britain "would be adapted and developed in new circumstances in the coming year."

Thirdly, there was what had been termed "the liberalization of European trade," which was also a British proposal with the object of freeing Europe's trade by cancelling quantitative restrictions on many imports.

By Dec. 15, Sir Stafford said, "at least 50 per cent of all private-account trade between O.E.E.C. countries should be freed from import licensing restrictions, except where a balance of payments difficulties make this impossible."

"We have already done our part, and we look forward to the wider markets we shall enjoy when others do the same."

"I think you will agree it was a pretty good record for two years international work and that Britain can be proud of the part she has played in it."

"So you see, from the very first moment we have thrown our full weight into promoting this practice of European economic co-operation and that we are going on."

Sir Stafford concluded: "We shall always remain bound to western Europe in many ways, by our history, by our economic needs, by our political and strategic interests, but perhaps the strongest link of all is that of European culture which we have helped to build over the centuries and which we share with our neighbors of western Europe—the common heritage of Christian civilization."

Leaders In China Are Divided

Hong Kong, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The feud between nationalist China's top leaders—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and acting President Li Tsung-jen—may have reached a showdown today.

Li was in a hospital in this British colony. He complained of a serious stomach ailment. He flew in yesterday without returning to Chungking where Chiang has awaited him for days.

The Generalissimo had gone to the national refugee capital, now seriously threatened by the Chinese communists, at Li's request. He found Li gone on inspection tour of the nationalists' dwindling southwestern China domain.

They have had many differences since Li took over the presidency last January when Chiang "retired." Out of these has developed a deepening cleavage over basic conduct of the civil war against the Reds.

Chiang, still the dominant power.

Montgomery Plans Defence Talks During Visit To US

By DON WHITEHEAD
Washington, Nov. 21.—(AP)—British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Alamein arrives in the United States today for an official but highly important round of meetings with the top-ranking military men of the United States.

On the record, the famous British warrior with the black beret comes to the United States as the guest speaker Nov. 29 before the English-Speaking Union in New York.

But during his 12-day trip he will visit with Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, his boss in the Second World War; Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff; Gen. Joseph L. Collins, army chief of staff, and other military and diplomatic leaders.

Monty already has announced he will "talk defence with anyone who will listen." There is no doubt the military men will be ready to listen. He has been working for months on plans for Europe's defence.

These plans for Britain, Belgium, France, Holland and Luxembourg will form the hard core of the basic defence plans for the North Atlantic defence for which the United States Congress has voted $1,000,000,000.

And it is on these plans the western allies will gamble in their fight to hold Europe against any attack from Russia and her satellites.

Many military men believe the western union couldn't have chosen a better man for the job than the Spartan, precise Montgomery. His campaigns in the last war were studies in painfully-detailed planning—first as commander of the famed British Eighth Army and later as commander of the 15th Army Group under Eisenhower. In all of them, Monty never had his defences broken by the Germans.

Monty is scheduled for only four speeches on this trip. In Washington he'll address the National Press Club, the Overseas Writers and the National War College, and the English-Speaking Union.

Gen. Bradley has invited a number of officers who were Montgomery's comrades in the war, publishers of local newspapers and other Washingtonians to a stag luncheon at his Fort Myer quarters.

In New York Monty will get together with Gen. Eisenhower. This will be the first time the two have met since the warrior's book, "El Alamein to the River Sangro," came out last March.

In his account Montgomery said the allies went into the Italian campaign in the last war without a "pre-determined plan of action." He didn't say who was to blame for alleged lack of planning.

But at the time, Eisenhower was commanding the allied forces in the Mediterranean while Britain's Viscount Alexander, now

STAR SAYS YOUNG ACTORS HAVE NO CHANCE TO DEVELOP TALENT

Hollywood — Movie fans have been yelling that Hollywood has forgotten how to develop new stars.

Joan Crawford blames the embryo talent as well as Hollywood's assembly-line methods.

Says Joan: "Kids in pictures don't have to work any more. Everything is done for them, including dialog coaches who tell them how to read their lines. There's no longer need for self-development—and that's what brings out stars."

Red Skelton is reading a new script, "The Popcorn Man."

There's no escape—now they'll be selling popcorn on the screen as well as in the lobby.

Montgomery Clift's easy-going attitude, his wardrobe of only two suits and his lack of interest in the Hollywood social whirl have won him a reputation for being "strange." But the publicity boys at Paramount, after working with him on "The Heiress" and now "A Place in the Sun," have a more logical explanation.

As they see it: "The guy is so normal and unaffected that it's almost an affliction."

Clift's simple explanation for owning two suits:

"I've never needed a big wardrobe."

No. 1 Rumor Girl

Elizabeth Taylor says she's become the most datable girl in town. "I'm afraid to go out. Every time I go with a boy, someone announces we're engaged."

Wonderful line in "The Glass Menagerie." Gertrude Lawrence explaining why her husband deserted her, says:

"He was a telephone man and he fell in love with long distance."

The grapevine says Joan Davis is a slick chick as a sophisticated comedienne in "Turned Up Toes."

Gertrude Nielsen will be the star of the second big TV show coming from Hollywood . . . "I've found the real cinema hell in New York. Plays By J. M. Barrie, W. B. Yeats On Bill For Bishop's Drama Event

The minor plays, a yearly feature of the University of Bishop's College Dramatic Society, will be presented at the St. George's Parish Hall in Lennoxville tomorrow, and Wednesday evenings. On both nights the program will begin at 8:15 p.m.

First on the program is a mystery comedy "Shall We Join the Ladies" by J. M. Barrie. The play is full of humour and suspense and has a very surprising ending. The action centres around a dinner party at a large estate, where all the diners are possible suspects in an unusual murder case with a plot that builds up to a sudden climax. Grant Sampson, Loraine Smith, Barbara Glenross, Dave Martin, and Al Black are included among a cast of thirteen.

At intermission there will be brief, humorous entertainment, much like one of the features of a vaudeville stage.

"The Lord of Heart's Desire" by W. B. Yeats will be the final presentation for the evening. This fantasy is written in dramatic verse and has its setting in the Ireland of long ago. The theme is more serious than most of the minor plays, but it is sure to hold the interest of the audience.

A member of the graduating class has composed an original accompanying score for this play. The cast consists of first year students Joan Taylor, Margot Dimmock, Judy Cate, Tony Abbott, Al Peterson, and Don Lawrence.

Both the plays are under the direction of the executive of the Bishop's College Dramatic Society. Reserved tickets may be obtained by phoning Jim Plant at Lennoxville 211.

Students Score Strikes; To View Draft Tonight

A motion that "strikes in major industries are justifiable" was defeated 3-0 last week when the Bishop's University Literary and Debating Society presented its second radio debate of the year. Compulsory military training in Canada is the subject of tonight's radio debate, the third in this series.

Last week's resolution was defeated by Anthony Abbott and William Atkinson. Upholding the proposal were Alex Morrison and George Beers. Judges were Wright Gibson, principal of Sherbrooke High School, J. Edward Shortt, general secretary of the Sherbrooke Y.M.C.A., and Alan Bickford, of the Dominion Burlington Mills.

Mr. Morrison, who led the affirmative argument, based his stand on the plea that man—both individually and collectively—has the right to withhold his services as a bargaining weapon. He stated that the strike is labor's only weapon, that never has improvement come before, but always after, strikes, so that arbitration was no logical substitution for the strike.

The negative argument was taken up by Mr. Atkinson, who stated that strikes were not justifiable because of their widespread effects and the misery which they inflict on the public when the industry involved is a major one. The question in the final analysis, he pointed out, was whether the welfare of the many was more important than the private interests of the few.

Mr. Beers elaborated on some of his colleague's points and added the argument that the press of today, being controlled for the most part by capital, by the industrialist or owners, is an influence against labor. By playing up the side of management, and by presenting a biased report on strikes and strike negotiations, the press gives an unfavorable picture of labor to the public, so that negotiations, which depend on public support, are no longer possible, and labor must fall back on the strike, he pointed out.

Mr. Abbott then showed how strikes, to his mind, are unreasonable in major industries. Taking the railroads as example, he asserted it was not right for a relatively small group of workers to tie up the whole transportation system of the nation as a means of securing private advancement in the form of increased pay. So unjust was such a strike, he said, that when the recent rail strike in the United States was impending the government felt obliged to intervene in order to prevent such a catastrophe.

Tonight the Bishop's Literary and Debating Society will present the last of its radio debates this term, but Rosenbloom's will sponsor another series after Christmas. Tonight's debate will be "Compulsory Military Training in Canada." Speaking for compulsory military training will be "Bim" Hobbs and Charles Wright, while Alan Jowitz and Malcolm Stanley will uphold the negative.

Study Of Tax Protests Starts Today

The special committee of the Sherbrooke City Council, comprising Mayor Trudeau, Aldermen Wesley Bradley, Carl Camirand and Armand Fiset, named to study protests against the 1949 real estate valuation roll is beginning its task today.

Judging from the number of protests received against valuation increases, numbering over one hundred, their task will be a heavy one and it is doubtful if they will be able to complete their labors in time to report to the special session of the Council called for November 29. In that case the homologation of the roll will be deferred to the first regular session in December.

The period of delay for the receipt of protests expired on Friday.

Two Sherbrooke Residents Are Injured

Mr. and Mrs. Andree Vallee, Prospect Street, are patients in the Deauville Hospital today suffering from lacerations and bruises to the body, received in an accident on the Montreal highway Saturday evening.

Attendants at the hospital report their condition as satisfactory. Two other passengers in the vehicle were not injured.

Dominion Textile Appoints New Sales Manager

Montreal, Nov. 21.—Appointment of C. P. Bishop, of Montreal, as general sales manager of Dominion Textile Company Ltd., was announced here by G. B. Gordon, company president.

Well-known in Canadian textile circles, Mr. Bishop has spent nearly half a century in the business. He started at the company's Hochelaga branch in Montreal in 1901, later serving briefly at head office and in 1909 transferring to the plant at Montmorency Falls, Que.

In January 1913, he returned to head office taking a sales job in the yarn department. In 1941 he was named head of yarn sales and in November 1948 became assistant general sales manager. His promotion today fills the vacancy created by the recent death of Arthur C. Johnston, of Montreal.

Avoids Pedestrian, Skids Into Ditch

East Farnham, Nov. 21.—Pinned under his overturned car, when he served to avoid a careless pedestrian near St. Brigid's on the Montreal highway recently, H. Knott, of East Farnham, was rushed to the hospital at St. Johns, suffering from three fractured ribs and a broken collar bone. Mr. Knott's condition was not considered critical and he was returned to his home.

Beattie as auctioneer, assisted by Miss I. Nubrown.

Afternoon tea was served by the hostesses: Mrs. Fairbrother, Mrs. A. Brown and Mrs. J. Cox.

Q. W. I. Reveals Record Formation Of Branch Groups

A record, not surpassed since the early years of the Quebec Women's Institutes, has been established with the formation of a second branch within the span of a month, it was announced today. The new branch at Nitro was only three weeks old when the report reached the provincial office of the organization of another at Black Capes, in Bonaventure, making seven branches in that county and 102 in the province.

The county president, Mrs. R. Skene, presided at the organization meeting and the president and secretary of the neighboring branch at New Richmond, Mrs. R. Montgomery and Mrs. H. Campbell, respectively, also attended and assisted in outlining the ideals and purposes of the Institute.

This new branch started off with 13 members on the roll and a full slate of officers was elected as follows: President, Mrs. H. Henderson; vice-president, Mrs. R. Willett; secretary, Mrs. N. McVair, and treasurer, Mrs. A. Ward. The conveners were also appointed at this first meeting.

The educational program of the Q.W.I. and the extension work carried on through the provincial office has reached many rural women. This is manifested by the steady increase in the number of branches and members.

Scout Apple Day Results Announced

Final Apple Day results for the Sherbrooke District Boy Scouts have been announced by Scout officials. Receipts for 1949 show a slight decrease over last year's figures, probably due to a last minute switch in Apple Day dates.

Gross receipts for the entire area amounted to $949.53, while net receipts to be returned to the various groups that participated amounted to $513.09.

Units from Sherbrooke which took part in Apple Day 1949, included the following: 3rd Sherbrooke Pack, 1st Sherbrooke Pack, 5th Sherbrooke Troop and Pack, 7th Sherbrooke Troop and Pack, 10th Sherbrooke Troop and Pack. Out-of-town units which also participated were the Waterville Pack, Sawyerville Troop, and troops and packs from Lennoxville, Huntingville, Cookshire, North Hatley and East Angus.

Prizes are to be awarded for the highest sales in both the Scout and Cub sections. Winners of these prizes are Scout Garry Hurd, of the 5th Sherbrooke Troop, with sales amounting to $18.01; and Cub Keith Peak, of the 7th Sherbrooke Pack, with sales in the amount of $10.95.

The highest gross receipts per barrel in the City of Sherbrooke was from the 5th Sherbrooke who had a total of $28.92 per barrel, while an out-of-town unit at East Angus grossed $51.52 per barrel.

Ernest Guillemette Disappeared From Prison Ten Years Ago Today

During the current term of the Court of King's Bench for the District of St. Francis, the erier undoubtedly will call on several occasions, "Ernest Guillemette" for Ernest Guillemette is, or was, an individual in whom the Crown had a deep interest.

But it is unlikely that Mr. Guillemette will reciprocate, for Mr. Guillemette has never shown any great interest in responding to invitations extended by His Majesty to meet the royal representatives who make their living at the local court house.

Generally speaking, Mr. Guillemette was not considered a very desirable companion in this district ten years ago. In fact he was very unpopular — to the extent that some ten years ago he was asked by the courts to spend thirty years within the confines of St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary after being found guilty to an extended series of robbery charges.

But that was not all. On November 21, 1939, he was due to appear before the local assizes on another series of charges ranging from grievous assault down to robbery, some of which carried a life term. The prospect of the additional time to be spent as a guest of the Crown did not particularly appeal to Mr. Guillemette, who also paraded as Ernest Gilbert.

Unlike many other people with a grudge, however, Mr. Guillemette decided to do something about his condition at the first opportunity.

And it was ten years ago today that the possibility of him bettering his condition arose. The guard at the local jail charged with watching Ernest went to another part of the building, leaving the door of the cell block unlocked.

Out went Mr. Guillemette into the jail yard. There he met with further good fortune. He found a long plank in the yard left there by some of the workmen who had been repairing the jail wall. He placed the plank against the top of the wall and clambered up. The coast was clear and he jumped to the ground.

From that day to this he has disappeared from the sight of man, as represented by the law, despite an intensive manhunt of the police.

many weeks duration. He walked off into the dawn clad in a prison shirt and a light pair of prison trousers, but within a short time he had obtained a new wardrobe by visiting the various clothes lines in the vicinity.

He was reported seen at various places in the Eastern Townships but investigation failed to give any substance to the rumors. Some say he is hiding in the woods. Others declare he joined up with one of the army units being despatched to Europe at that time, that he served overseas and deserted in England. Still others say they don't know.

This fact does remain, however, Mr. Guillemette walked out of jail ten years ago today and despite police officers and court criers, he apparently intends to stay out.

PRESERVING QUEBEC WILDLIFE

The sweeping restrictions on the hunting of moose in the Province of Quebec plus the newly instituted conservation educational campaign announced at the week-end by Hon. C. E. Pouliot, Minister of Game and Fisheries in the Provincial cabinet, should be but the initial steps in a much wider drive to preserve the wildlife of the Province.

One of the greatest tourist attractions any district can enjoy is an ample supply of wildlife to meet the desires of hunters and fishermen who would come long distances and spend substantial sums of money each year if they are assured a reasonable chance of getting a bag. Unfortunately, through wasteful methods, induced partly by official indifference and partly by the failure of the population to appreciate the value of wildlife, the supply of fish and game in many areas of Quebec has been seriously depleted. The only manner in which the value of these districts as hunting and fishing areas can be even partially restored through the immediate introduction of restrictive legislation and the strict enforcement of the prevailing laws. To assure the long-term growth of game and fish stocks, certain sacrifices must be made at the present moment.

The establishment of a closed season on moose is designed to provide for the short-term needs by assuring that those animals which remain in the more populated areas will be given an opportunity of survival and of reproduction. The longer-term aspect will be met, it is hoped, by the creation of moose preserves from which a certain number of animals may be released each year when the population of the reserved area has reached its desired quota.

The success of the buffalo preserves of Western Canada is an indication of what may be accomplished in this direction. There the once-vanishing buffalo has increased from a few beats to the point where large herds can be turned loose each fall.

However, closed seasons and reserved areas are not sufficient. The people as a whole and especially the residents of game areas must be made to appreciate the importance of respecting the various restrictions, both from the viewpoint of personal good and from the interests of the community.

This must be met by a twin approach — education and a strict enforcement of the game laws. Unfortunately, these are two things which have been neglected in the past. The existing game laws should have done much to preserve the province's wildlife but too often they have been regarded as something to provide employment for political supporters rather than something designed to retain one of the Province's greatest assets. If Mr. Pouliot remedies this condition and preserves in office those officials who are really attempting to accomplish something, he will earn the lasting respect of the sportsmen, both here and outside.

A STARTLING FACT

The famous "man in the street" has a short memory, says The Printed Word. If anyone asks how conditions are today, he can usually remember back long enough to be able to explain that many things are worse now than they were a few years ago, although he does not remember how many things are better. It is sometimes useful to dig out actual comparisons between conditions now and a few years ago, before it is decided that the world is really falling to pieces, the publication continues.

Take for example the question of the price of motor cars. The "man in the street" is probably going to announce, if asked to comment on this subject, that it is impossible to get anything like as good value for the dollars invested in a motor car today as it was in the past.

Today, it is certainly impossible to buy a Buick car as cheaply as twenty years ago, but does this really mean that the cost of motor cars to the "man in the street" has risen?

In this country, twenty years ago, it was possible to buy at retail a Buick sedan for $1,840. That car developed 74 horse power, had a maximum speed of 65 miles per hour, 6 cylinders, and made 17 miles per gallon, at 30 miles per hour in a constant speed test.

Today, anyone may purchase, also at retail, a Chevrolet sedan for $1,800. That car develops 90 horse power, will make a maximum speed of 82 miles per hour, and will run 26 miles per gallon of gasoline, at 30 miles per hour.

Incidentally, to make the comparison complete, a 1949 Chevrolet is actually a larger car than a 1929 Buick. It has a wheel base a fraction of an inch longer, and roomier seats.

Thus, "the man in the street" is wrong, if he thinks that he does not get as good value for his money in motor cars as he did a few years ago. He gets considerably better value.

This, of course, is because, during these twenty years, manufacturers of motor cars went steadily ahead installing new machinery, adopting new methods, and generally investing money on a great scale, for the purpose of making motor cars better and cheaper.

As a by-product, the workers in motor car factories now get 100 per cent more wages per hour than they did twenty years ago. The shareholders of the factories do not do quite as well as they used to do.

Note particularly that the comparison of prices is in current dollars in the two years. That is one dollar of 1949 vintage, which in the case of most goods and services will buy only a fraction as much as a dollar of 1929 vintage, will actually buy more motor car.

"TELL THE TRUTH"

St. Catharines Standard

Hon. Paul Martin, Canada's Health Minister and second in command at the United Nations, created quite a stir at Lake Success on Tuesday when he actually called upon Vishinsky to tell the truth for once in his life about the western countries, including the United States and Canada, of course. For 45 minutes the Canadian speaker looked Vishinsky more or less in the eye, when he demanded that Soviet spokesmen get rid of their false doctrine that war is inevitable between Communism and the free world. Mr. Martin declared:

"Those who really prepare for war are those who believe in its inevitability. We do not believe war is inevitable; it is a basic principle of our political philosophy that there is no political problem which cannot be solved by discussion, by negotiations, by compromise, by agreements."

Of course, neither Russian newspapers nor Russian radio dare inform the Russian people about how the free world lives. Or just as important, how the free world thinks. If the time ever comes when there is more or less free intercourse, when the iron curtain is lifted, the entire world will be changed for the better.

FORECAST FOR WINTER

New York Sun

Professor Hurd C. Willett, meteorologist of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, puts his weather predictions for the coming winter in highly understandable form. His opinion is that there is one chance in four that there will be a severe winter in the east, one chance in four that there will be an average winter and two chances in four that there will be a mild winter and, in southern New England, an open one. It is true that this form of prediction leaves the prophet pretty snug against bricks; whatever happens, he is bound to be right, in part. But certain mathematical predictions make it easy for the ordinary person to understand the statement that it is a good 3 to 1 bet that the coming winter won't be a severe one.

As a neighbor of southern New England, New York is interested in a prediction of an open winter. As a municipality, New York is cheerful at the prospect of little snow. But also in its municipal character, New York would like to see fall rains and winter snow fill its reservoirs. Professor Willett believes that even though northern New England has a mild winter and an open one, there is likely to be a normal amount of snow in northern New England. The Massachusetts meteorologist's forecast is based upon a study of a scarcely established pattern of the western drift of winter weather. But the prospect suggested is not altogether unpleasant: Too little snow to bother the city dwellers; just enough snow to make the skiing good to the north of us and to replenish our water supply.

NO END TO IT

Los Angeles Times

Just as the sand and gravel workers went back to work, after a strike that idled some 40,000 construction workers in this area, the hod carriers are getting about $21.50 a day but they want 25 cents an hour more; they also want two hod carriers hired for every three plasterers instead of one. Meanwhile the plasterers and all the other building tradesmen, not to mention the families trying to build houses can wait. Is there no end to this kind of nonsense?

Marine Hero Donated Money To Better Industrial Relations

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Before he died a hero's death on two Jims, Marine Lieut. Benjamin Rush Toland made out his will to give 40 per cent of his modest estate for the promotion of better employer-employee relations in the U.S.

Half of the money he asked to be given to the National Association of Manufacturers, to be spent in any way that organization saw fit, to try to carry out the terms of his will. The sum turned out to be $1200. But NAM officials added $10,000 to it and created two research projects. One is now finished. It is a report called "Effective Communication in Industry."

Dr. Paul Pigors, associate professor of industrial relations at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was selected by NAM to make the study and report on it. Dr. Pigors' theme is that if employer and employee have an effective way of talking to each other they will get along a lot better. His study explains the problem and he makes some sound recommendations.

About Lieut. Benjamin Toland, a foreword in the report says this:

"He was 24 years old when he was killed in action on two Jims. Ben Toland had a brilliant athletic and scholastic career. He was captain of the St. Paul's School hockey team, co-captain of the Yale freshman hockey team, played football and tennis. He was a leader in student activities, member of Phi Beta Kappa—a graduate summa cum laude of Yale. On Iwo Jima, Feb. 21, 1945, he took command of a wounded fellow-officer's platoon, took the assigned ridge, and here Lieutenant Toland was killed by a mortar burst while laying out air markers. He died as he lived—serving others beyond the call of duty."

Suggests Face-to-Face Talks

Dr. Pigors explains that one of the basic difficulties in the failure of good communications between worker and top boss is the lack of face-to-face talk between executives and employees. In most modern industries this is impossible. But he frankly charges management with a big share of the blame in not trying to overcome this difficulty.

He says, "When executives assume that their successful experience in communicating with each other can be projected into their relationship with workers and union representatives," they make a mistake. He explains, "top management communication down the line cannot be timed to reach every individual worker at the moment when his feelings make him most ready to understand and accept the message."

When workers think they have reason to be suspicious of management, or in the case of "chronic kickers," Dr. Pigors argues, "top management words are likely to fall flat on their faces, or lead to boomerangs. He poses the problem, "How can management set to work to transform their attitude of suspicion into one of trust?"

As an answer he offers some "dos" and "don'ts" to management.

Make Proper Overtures

One thing not to do, Dr. Pigors says, is to hand a new employee a copy of the company handbook with the remark, "You'll find out all you need to know by reading this."

"If induction is to be fully effective it needs to be a fresh start for all concerned. A sound method for communicating the general outlines of an organization is by giving periodic orientation courses. In these, newcomers can get a bird's eye view of company operations as a whole. Such a course should, if possible, be started off by the chief executive himself."

Dr. Pigors' study shows that executives don't use their foreman properly, as "communications centers." He states, "Many foremen receive little, if any, training for the most difficult parts of their

CULTIVATE FLEXIBILITY WHEN PLAYING HAND

I have been associated with Maj.-Gen. Peter C. Harris of Washington, D.C., since 1942. During the war the bridge players of the nation wanted to use their organization for the war effort. After careful consideration they decided to try to provide educational opportunities for the orphans of deceased American veterans. This fine general, who had served as the adjutant general in World War I, had been working ever since the end of that war to secure scholarships for war orphans, and it was to him that I went to seek advice and counsel. Today he is chairman of the board of War Orphans Scholarships.

General Harris does not play bridge, but he was a whist player years ago. He enjoys my habitual comparison of everyday problems of life with problems in bridge. He was telling me that we should allow ourselves leeway and cultivate flexibility in order to meet happiness or sorrow without being carried away by the one or beaten by the other. That is a good lesson, and prompts me to give you a lesson today in flexibility in the play of the hand.

The Record Short Story

IF HE WERE HUMAN

By LAWRENCE GEORGE STEINFELDT

Jake Staunton stepped back from the balky gas water heater he was trying to repair and listened with growing irritation to the incessant yapping of the mutt upstairs. He contrasted the dog with the keen collie pup he had seen in Slater's Pet Shop yesterday.

The first thing Jake had noticed about Joey's new brown dog was its strictly mongrel quality. Ears like a cocker, nose like a dalmatian, legs like a pomeranian; it was a side show freak. And as though there wasn't sufficient reason for the noisy mutt to be banished from the house, the dog was obviously no more attached to Joey than to anyone else. Firmly fixed in Jake's mind as the first essential was for a dog to be a one man, or a one boy's dog.

"Jake," Mary called down.

Jake looked at his watch and saw that it was time for lunch. He shook his head, puzzled. Heaters much older were still giving very satisfactory service.

As he went upstairs the yipping sound of the mutt became sharper and more annoying. He shut the bathroom door tight and ran the lukewarm water hard while he washed up. He was determined to get rid of the animal.

"Sure," he admitted readily to himself as he wiped his hands. "I want my kid to have a dog. Any father who doesn't want a dog for his kid is having trouble remembering his own childhood."

Jake remembered his own childhood very well. He'd never forget Rex, a smart collie he had owned. And Rex had been his dog. A dog that wasn't one man's dog was nobody's dog.

"After I get the heater fixed, Mary," he told his wife as he came into the kitchen, "I'm going to get rid of that mutt."

"Get rid of 'Spots,'" Mary said anxiously, "and you'll break Joey's heart. He's wanted a dog for so long; now that he has one you just can't turn him out, Jake."

"That isn't what I mean," Jake said. "As long as I live I'll never forget the dog I had when I was Joey's age. But a dog is something special. A dog must be a one man's dog, if he isn't that, what is he?"

"I don't know," Mary said. "I never had a dog when I was a child. And we never had a dog since we've been married. But Joey likes 'Spots' and the dog likes him."

"Yeh," Jake frowned. "I saw 'Spots' likes everybody. And I've always known that everybody's dog is nobody's dog."

As though to prove his point one of the neighbor's kids came down from the joey's room holding the barking dog in his arms. The dog's tail was wagging furiously. Joey was right behind him.

"Now, Tommy," Mary said, "put 'Spots' down and go home to your lunch."

"OK," Mrs. Staunton, the kid said reluctantly. "I wish 'Spots' was my dog."

"Well, he's mine," Joey said and prepared a pan of milk, which he placed under the sink.

"Useless," Jake thought as he watched the dog lap up the fluid. "Not the dog for Jake Staunton's kid."

Joey was sent out to wash up. He came back like a shot, was inspected for cleanliness, and sat down. He hardly saw what food was placed before him. He grinned and chattered silly gibberish at the dog. He gulped his food and was out with 'Spots' in record time.

'Spots' is fun, Mary said, looking after him.

"A dog should be more than fun," Jake replied, and pushed away from the table to go back downstairs and continue wrestling with the heater. He almost had it right, and then it was all wrong again. He'd have to do some re-threading and get some washers.

For a man who had always taken care of the repairs on his car, and around the house, this had become quite annoying. He had repaired far tougher things than an old gas water heater.

"If I call in a mechanic for this," Jake muttered, "I might as well throw out my tools and work bench."

But the heater stayed wrong most of the afternoon. Finally Jake wearily checked for leaks and came up to announce without too much pride, and still considerably annoyed with the yapping dog, "The job is finished."

Jake looked at his watch and saw that it was time for lunch. He shook his head, puzzled. Heaters much older were still giving very satisfactory service.

lifeboats as he brought the Haida alongside. The waves were so high, said the 33-year-old Canadian skipper, the men stepped or were handed across the destroyer's forward deck without using a ladder.

Cmdr. Madwick berthed his 1,600-ton ship at the U. S. naval operations base at St. George's, five miles from Hamilton, after transferring the survivors to a crashboat in Hamilton harbor.

The Haida, possessor of a proud record in the Second World War, had steamed into port with the survivors after rescuing the U. S. airmen in the surging Atlantic northeast of this island.

A whaler from the Haida picked up the men from a rescue boat which was dropped earlier from a circling search plane. The 18 men had transferred to the rescue boat from two overcrowded life rafts on which they had huddled since the crash.

Six of the Haida's crew succeeded in plucking the survivors from the rescue boat from the turbulent seas. Coxswain of the 27-foot whaler was James E. Callaghan, 22-year-old petty officer from Toronto.

Lt-Comdr. Alfred A. H. Kerley of Victoria, engineering officer of the Haida, said the men seemed pretty dazed when they were picked up.

"We fed them soup and coffee, and they wolfed that down," Cmdr. Kerley said.

Cmdr. Madwick said the seas were so heavy the Canadian frigate Swanssea had dropped behind the aircraft carrier Magnificent and the Haida as the three ships raced toward the rafts.

The magnificent launched fire-fighter planes to search the seas as they approached, despite the fact the waves were breaking over the flight deck. As a result, some of the planes were damaged in landing.

Because of the heavy swells, the fighters had not spotted the rescue boat, but the survivors later said they had seen the carrier planes.

The pilot and commander of the B-29, Lt-Col. Grable of March Field air base, Calif., said the church was to be a first stop ashore for most of the rescued airmen.

"Then maybe we will celebrate a bit," Grable added.

Grable said "no one turned evangelist" during the long, wet wait, "but we all thought a lot and prayed we would be picked up."

The pilot said after the plane's radio navigation equipment failed

Wednesday morning, "we hunted for the island (Bermuda) under every cloud we saw, but had no luck. It was pretty overcast."

With their fuel almost out, "we jettisoned everything we could and prepared for ditching."

When the big bomber hit the water, the tail broke off, taking one of the three life rafts aboard down with it. The fuselage turned nose down in less than a minute.

The men on the rafts lived on emergency rations, mostly hard candy. When they were picked up, they had one day's supply left.

There was no problem because they drank rain water from frequent showers. They also had equipment to purify the salty sea water.

Grable said he caught one fish, a two-foot yellow tail. But it got away when he tried to land it. It was the nearest group came to getting their food from the sea.

One of the crowded rafts capsized twice but everyone got back aboard.

Grable said he felt sure they would be picked up because he realized planes and ships were looking for them. Several times they heard planes pass over and twice they saw ships. When they tried to paddle toward one of them, heavy swells kept them from making any progress.

"We began to feel the hopelessness of our position when we saw planes overhead but they kept circling without seeing us," said Sgt. William Johnston, of Beverly Hills, Calif.

When the B-17 finally found the rafts, it dropped the survivors a lifeboat by parachute. The rescue plane crew said by then some of the survivors were so weakened, it took them 45 minutes to transfer from the life rafts to the boat.

On their arrival here, Sgt. Roy Coulter, 46, Beverly Hills, Calif., was ruled out in shape to talk to reporters. Lying quiet and unsmiling on his stretcher, he was reported suffering considerable shock.

The two men lost were Cpl. Raymond Breit, 32, Arlington, Calif., who received a severe head injury from the wrecked plane's girders, and Pte. Robert Dobson, 19, Decatur, Ill., who was unable to swim through the swells. Grable said the heavy seas prevented the other survivors from reaching them.

Five other airmen died during the huge search for the plane crew when their own B-29, taking off from MacDill Field, Fla., to join in the search, crashed at the edge of Tampa Bay.

That crash, and a series of others to B-29's recently—six crashed in two weeks—resulted in arousing and getting the passengers off the ship in the event of fire while the ship was at dock.

5. Failing to train the crew in the proper steps to be taken on discovery of fire or in fire-fighting methods, beyond giving them a knowledge of how to operate fire extinguishers as hoses.

The commissioner said the loss was due to "wrongful default" of the owners and the 66-year-old master in these five particulars.

"While it is true that the owners knew and approved of the organization or lack of it designed to deal with the outbreak of fire on the ship while it lay in dock with sleeping passengers on board, the master was not in any way precluded by any instructions from the owners from taking the proper steps himself," Mr. Justice Kellock added.

In taxing costs against the owners, he added:

"I cannot think that any reasonable person, charged with the safety of sleeping passengers, could have failed to realize that something in the nature of what actually happened would be likely to happen on the ship here in question on the night of Sept. 16, 1949, had he really applied his mind to such a situation."

The judge said he was not interfering with the certificates of either first officer F. Gerald Wood of St. Thomas, Ont., or second officer Wilbur J. Bowles of Dorchester, Ont.

He declared "they should have had a direction from higher up, which they did not receive, although the second officer, who was the officer of the watch, showed no more resource nor initiative than did the master."

Mr. Justice Kellock found that the fire-fighter equipment on the vessel apparently was satisfactory and in good working order.

However, he recommended that provisions for fire-resistant bulkheads should be made applicable to such ships as the Noronic, as provided in the international convention for the safety of life at sea.

The Noronic had been exempted from 1939 regulations requiring new ships to have fire-resistant bulkheads, since she was built before the regulations came into effect.

Other recommendations for ships carrying more than a minimum of passengers in major inland waters:

1. That an efficient and continuous fire control be maintained, as well as an automatic fire alarm or fire-detecting system. These systems should not be restricted to those parts of the ship not accessible to the patrols.

2. That safety-convention provisions be complied with in connection with the mustering of passengers, extinguishing of fires, warning of passengers and controlling the movement of passengers after an outbreak. This would require crew training in fire-fighting and the maintenance of an effective organization for sending trained men to the spot of a fire.

3. That these vessels be fitted with a sprinkler system protecting all enclosed sections.

4. That muster charts—which show emergency stations for passengers and crew—should be prominently displayed so crew members may become familiar with their duties.

5. That the ships be fitted with public address system for directing passengers in emergency, and that officers be trained in their use.

6. That ships at dock should have "adequate" and more than one means of getting ashore.

7. That passenger ships remaining in dock for any extended time be required to be connected with the local telephone system so that fire department aid may be obtained without delay.

The Junior Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Parish, held its first meeting of the season on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Clara McHarg, assisted by Mrs. Myrtle Pharo and Mrs. Seeley helped the girls in the election of officers. Officers elected were: Miss Beverly Beattie, president; Miss Kathleen Smith, secretary; and Miss Helen Mathers, treasurer; the vice-president will be elected at the next meeting.

An order Friday grounding those B-29's not engaged in the search, for inspection and modernizing.

High loss of life was the result of lack of fire-fighting organization and absence of a proper alarm system.

Complete complacency in regard to the possible outbreak of fire had descended on both the ship officers and the management.

The Noronic had no pre-arranged plan for rousing and getting passengers off the ship in event of fire.

There was no evidence of the fire having been deliberately set.

The fire cause was not established although it is known to have started in a small linen closet just forward of the women's washroom opening onto the port corridor on "C" deck.

Such efforts as were made to fight the fire were scattered and ineffective.

Ordinary members of the crew took such action when fire was discovered as they would be expected to take in view of the lack of general direction resulting from failure of any officer to take charge of the situation.

The fire fighting appliances on board appear to have been satisfactory and in good working order.

Passenger ships docking with the intention of staying for an extended time should be required to be connected with the local telephone system so that the local fire department can be called without delay in event of fire.

Regulations requiring complete coverage of such ships by continuous fire patrol systems as well as automatic fire alarm systems should be applied.

All such ships should have a comprehensive fire-fighting organization with each member of the crew assigned specific duties.

Highlights Of Commission Report On Noronic Fire

Ottawa, Nov. 21—Highlights of Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock's royal commission report on the Noronic fire, tabled in the Commons today:

Destruction of the Noronic and the high loss of life are blamed on failure of the owners and captain to assure proper fire-fighting precautions aboard the ship.

The captain—William Taylor, 66, of Sarnia, Ont.—was also at fault for failing to take general charge of the situation after fire broke out.

The captain should have directed in an organized way the arousing of passengers instead of acting himself as "an ordinary sailor in such parts of the ship as he could reach."

Capt. Taylor's certificate is suspended for one year. No other certificates were interfered with.

Costs of the investigation are to be charged against the owners—Canada Steamship Lines Limited—on the Exchequer Court scale of costs.

No ruling on the extent to which drinking may have contributed to loss of life.

The fire patrol system aboard the Noronic was inadequate for early fire detection.

The fire found officers and crew without any organization designed to deal with the situation.

"Joey" And The Bosses

Vancouver's Triplets

A trio of waiters who made their debut in Vancouver Oct. 28 at Vancouver General Hospital, are shown here in their specially-heated, glass-enclosed incubators. The two girls, left, and boy were born to Mrs. R. L. Martin, wife of a U.S. Marine Corps Veteran now attending the University of British Columbia. Dad thinks he'll be forced to leave the university to support them since he receives an allowance of only $100 monthly under the U.S. veteran's bill of rights. (CP Photo)

Shows His Wares

Fourteen-year-old Ian Cameron, right, exhibited his wood-carving handicraft to distinguished company as Governor-General Alexander opened a boys' club in Montreal suburb of Rosemount. Next to Ian is Sarto Fournier, Liberal Member of Parliament for Montreal-Maisonnette-Rosemount, who represented the federal government at the ceremony.

"Yes," Jake Staunton smiled approvingly, "never heard such rich vocal quality in a dog's bark before. If he was human he'd sing at the Met."

Montgomery Plans

Canada's Governor-General, headed the 15th Army Group under which Montgomery operated.

Anyone who reads the book will find that the only campaign discussed which Montgomery wholly approved was his 8th British Army's great march across the African desert into Tunisia. The Field Marshal planned that one himself.

However, shortly before Montgomery's 1946 visit, Eisenhower's wartime aide, Navy Capt. Harry Butcher, in his "My Three Years with Eisenhower," disclosed that Montgomery was sometimes quite alone with Eisenhower.

A few good vealers made 27-28, common and medium 16-25 and grassers ranged from 11-14.50.

There were no early hog sales. Lamb receipts were also low but prices were steady to firmer.

Some mixed lots of good and medium lambs made 24, a few 24.50 with others at 23-23.50. Sheep ranged from 6-10 according to quality.

Livestock Trading Was Slow Today

Montreal, Nov. 21—Receipts were lower than last week and trading slow on the two Montreal livestock markets today.

Total receipts were 1,483 cattle, 1,144 calves, 1,176 hogs and 1,200 sheep and lambs.

Buyers had less cattle to offer than last week and more than 60 per cent of the receipts consisted of common to medium cows. Early trading was slow but prices seemed to be steady with last week.

A few medium steers sold between 17-19 and common 14-16.50. Medium heifers were 15-17, common 11-14.50. Good cows were 14-14.50, medium 12-13.50 and common 10.50-12. Canners and cutters 6-10.50. Common bulls ranged from 11-14.50.

In the carcase section, with less than half of last Monday's receipts to offer, sellers had a slow morning at steady prices on vealers and steady to 50 cents higher on grassers.

There were no early hog sales. Lamb receipts were also low but prices were steady to firmer.

Li, on the other hand, has favored risking all on a decisive military stand against the Reds.

Li turned his job over to Premier Yen Hsi-Shan before he entered Taiwan nursing home here. But he said he was not shirking his duty on the pretext of illness and hoped to get back soon "to devote myself to the anti-communist war."

"The union has a chance to do much to explain its own feeling and purposes to new workers. It is unfortunate that the act of joining has become pretty bleak; in many cases a mere cash transaction, with no effort to evoke individual understanding and loyalty."

Twenty per cent of Lieutenant Toland's estate was divided between the CIO and AFL for the same purpose of improving labor relations. This part of his contribution was given to local councils to spend and there is no report on what was done with it.

"Great Fat Seal"

Eskimos living along Hudson Strait in Canada's sub-Arctic territory regard the Transport Department icebreaker N. B. McLean as a friendly annual visitor and call it the "great fat seal." The icebreaker is shown above arriving at Quebec after a four-month, 7,213-mile patrol on the northern grain route from the port of Churchill.

OBITUARIES
NORMAN MORRISON, OF SCOTSTOWN
Scotstown, Nov. 21. — Residents of this community were deeply saddened by the death of one of its most esteemed and highly respected residents, Mr. Norman Morrison, who died on Wednesday, October 19, 1949, at his home on Albert Street, after a prolonged and painful illness.
Following prayers at the late residence, a service, largely attended by sorrowing friends, neighbors and relatives, was held on Friday, in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, which was filled to capacity.
The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Smith, who, in an inspiring message, spoke words of comfort from the text, "We know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."
The speaker paid tribute to the sterling qualities of the deceased, who for many years was a citizen of the town, interested in all good works, extending kindness so freely as to prove himself a friend to all. His love and devotion to his church, as well as his faith throughout his life, was also stressed. He will be greatly missed, not only by his own town, but in the surrounding communities, where he was widely known.
With Miss Kay MacLeod as organist, favorite hymns were sung, "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and "All The Way My Saviour Leads Me."
The many beautiful floral tributes, evidencing affection and esteem, included a blanket of flowers, from relatives, covering the casket, and a pillow from Albert Street neighbors.
Norman Morrison, the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Murdoch Morrison, was born in Red Mountain, in 1875. Later, with his parents, he resided in Gould Station, and after the death of his father, he with his mother, moved to Scotstown, where he participated in the life of the community for over forty years.
He was predeceased by his parents and by his brother, Angus, a few months previous, and by a sister, Jennie, Mrs. William Flynn. The bearers were Messrs. George

The Doctor Says

WORRY IS THE CHIEF CAUSE OF WAKEFULNESS AT NIGHT

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Many people who complain that they do not sleep well at night actually sleep much more than they think they do. They are often awake on first going to bed and this period often seems longer than it is. Also the sleepless periods during the night from which so many people suffer are likely to be comparatively short.

There are very few diseases which can cause sleeplessness or insomnia. These usually produce other symptoms besides insomnia and do not explain the inability to sleep which the ordinary person complains of so much.

Worry is the principal cause of inability to go to sleep at night and of wakefulness during the night. The mind, especially of those who earn their living by desk work, is often too active at night and makes sleep difficult. People who get a lot of outdoor exercise suffer far less from insomnia than most city dwellers. The problem is how to turn off the thoughts and worries of the day when going to bed at night.

You Can Induce Sleep

There are ways of helping to get into a "sleepy" frame of mind. Reading a book, entirely away from the usual occupation and one which is not too exciting, is often helpful. Many people find soothing musical or relaxing pre-bedtime occupation. Handwork of some kind helps others.

Unfortunately a great number of people who complain of sleeplessness try various drugs. This tendency to use drugs as a sort of crutch in getting to sleep should be resisted. The sleep-producing drugs have their place but most of them are habit forming if taken over long periods. There are probably few people living in cities who have not at one time or another suffered from a certain amount of difficulty in sleeping. The fact that this difficulty has only been temporary with most of us shows that ordinary insomnia is not dangerous. No one ever dies of simple insomnia.

Q—Would an examination under a fluoroscope detect a tumor or growth of the breast?
A—Not ordinarily.

Dr. John Astbury, Of Montreal, Spoke On His "Two Months In India" At The Boundary Community School

Derby Line, Nov. 21. —"There are 200,000,000 sacred cows in India, most of them tubercular," was one of the surprising statements of Dr. John Astbury, of Montreal, in the course of a talk titled "Two Months in India," at the public assembly session of the International Community School, last Tuesday evening.

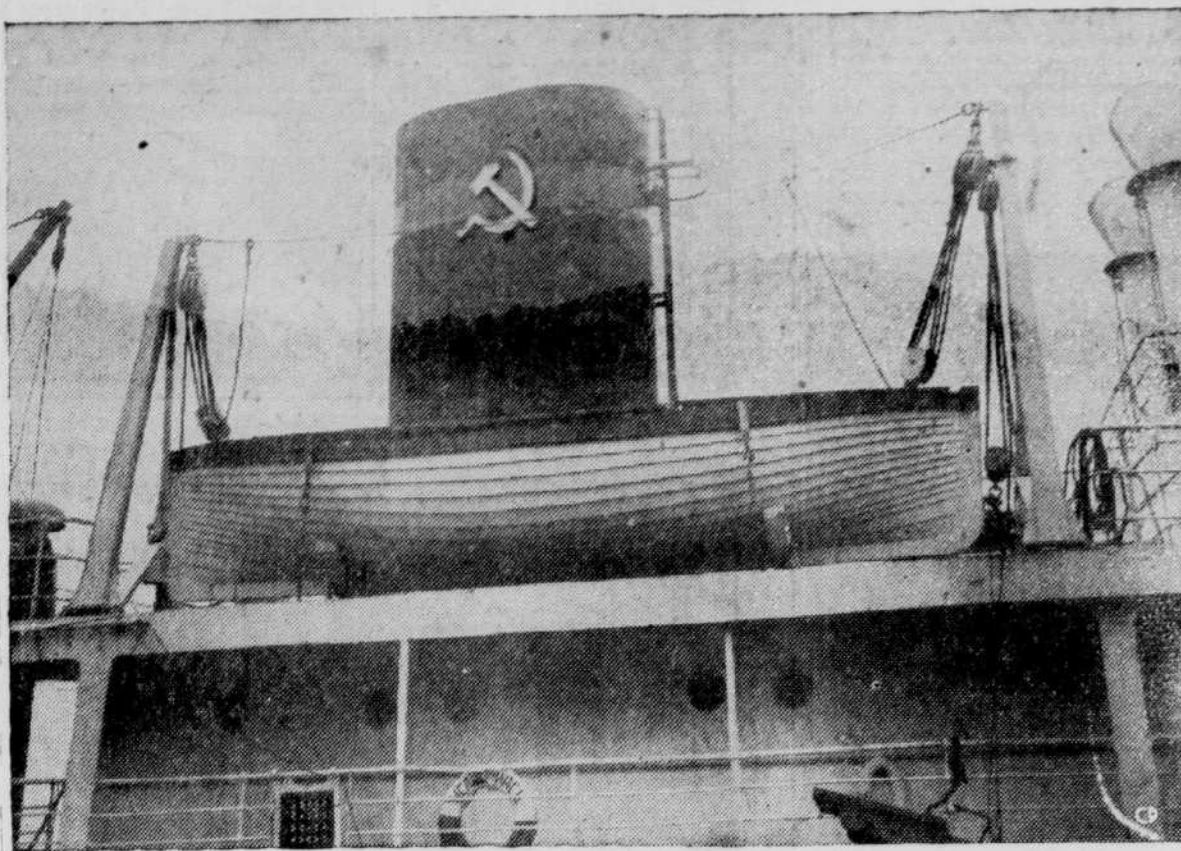

Pointing out that two months was nowhere nearly enough time to learn all there was to know about a country, Mr. Astbury asked that the audience keep this in mind, and realize that he did not wish to state definite conclusions on many subjects.

"Not only are the cows sacred, but so are their products," said the speaker. "The milk is used, the meat is used, and the manure is used as fertilizer, for building and as fuel. These cows graze on thousands of acres of land that could be cultivated while many people starve. The cows seem to know that they are regarded sacred, and I have seen them resting on the steps of public buildings while the people carefully pick their way around them.

"I thought of India as a bee-hive, as a land of teeming millions. I found it to be full of individuals with the same wants, needs, ideas and hopes as the rest of us. You see women with armlets and anklets of silver and wonder at the waste of valuable metal, until you find out that it is the way they invest their savings. While the metal is carried with them it cannot be easily lost, and the cottages of many of the people are so flimsy that no valuables would be safe within.

"The villages are mainly built away from the highways with stockades around them for protection. Poverty is great, chronic and universal through most of India. The listlessness of the people is due far more to hunger than to climate. You simply cannot have much pep when you are always on the verge of starvation. This listlessness extends to the animals as well as to the humans, and disease is rampant everywhere.

"There are a million lepers in India and chances for about fifteen on twenty thousand of them to be properly cared for. Only 10 to 15 percent of the people are literate. "Gandhi was truly a great leader, with all the Christian virtues, even though he did not embrace the Christian religion. His favorite reading was the fifth chapter of Matthew, the sermon on the mount. He was deeply shocked and grieved at the riots in India and the killings of innocent people.

"Above all the people of India are proud of their country, hopeful of the future, and determined to work together to secure understanding and better their conditions. I have every hope for what I believe to be a great country."

Dr. Astbury was introduced by the president of the school, Lloyd MacPherson; and thanked for his address by Rev. Mr. Nickerson, of Derby.

Class Talks At Community School. Mr. A. L. Fuller gave a short talk on the history of Russia to lead off the class in a discussion of their U. S. S. R. talk. Mr. E. J. Struthers continued to talk, while the members of the class stated opinions, ventured ideas and asked questions. It was felt there might be at least a chance that Russia could sometime be a good neighbour, at least as far as the people were concerned.

Raymond Petelle gave a talk on the Postal system of the United States at the "Mind Your Own Business Class," and movies of Palestine were featured at the "Your World in Pictures" class. "Recreation" will be the feature of the public assembly session next Tuesday evening, and will wind up the regular class.

A large number of veterans of both wars were present with their guests for the evening. Mr. Patterson told of many interesting events and read several poems. He claimed that poetry produced during this war was not of such high merit as that produced as a result of the last, but attributed it to the highly mechanized warfare lately engaged in. He also described the Toronto reunion of first war veterans in 1934, which some 50,000 veterans attended.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN'S CLUB

The November meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club took place Monday evening, November 14. The president, Miss Yvette Campbell, was in the chair and opened the meeting with the Mary Stewart Collect for women's clubs.

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read by Miss Ethel Taylor, secretary, and the financial report was given by Miss Leta Seymour.

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lela Aikenhead, read amongst others, a letter from Miss Irene Campbell, of Regina, Sask., executive secretary of the Federation of B. and P.W. Clubs, in which she outlined the duties of Canadian clubs towards their adopted B. and P.W. Clubs in England and suggested that help could be given them by sending parcels, by exchange of information regarding club matters and Canadian activities through correspondence, etc. A syllabus of study, prepared by Miss E. Donaldson, promoting study clubs, was also brought to the attention of the club. The president commented on these issues.

Miss Campbell reported having attended commencement exercises at the Lennoxville High School, where she presented the trophy won in the public speaking contest, sponsored by the B. and P.W., to Miss Joyce Allen, a student of that institution. The trophy will remain in the Lennoxville High School for the scholastic year. Miss Campbell was accompanied by Miss Margaret Haight, past president, and several members of the club.

Mrs. P. D. Mathias, who is in charge of the music program for the Christmas party, which will be held on Monday, December 12, at the MacKinnon Memorial, announced some of the best artists in the city have accepted her invitation to perform on that night. Mrs. Mathias suggested that each member bring a friend and in due course notify Mrs. E. Johnson, social convener, as to the number expected. At this concert a silver collection will be taken for the purchase of Christmas cheer, to be distributed where needed.

Miss Campbell, the delegate from the Sherbrooke Club to the provincial conference held in Montreal on October 22 and 23, gave an excellent account of this meeting. The outstanding event of the convention, Miss Campbell said, was the dinner held at 7 p.m. in the Mount Royal Hotel, when Miss Ruth McGill, Federation president was the speaker. Miss E. May Craig, president of the Montreal Club, presided at the dinner and seated with her at the head table were, Miss McGill, Miss Isabelle Menzies, provincial president, and the presidents from Ottawa, Halifax, N.S., Sherbrooke and Stanstead.

In her address, entitled, "Our Widening Circle," Miss McGill stated the Canadian Federation now counted 115 clubs, with a total membership of 5,300 and that International Federation had more than 250,000 members, in twenty countries. She claimed that of vital importance to the Canadian Federation, today, were social security measures, such as Unemployment Insurance, Health Insurance and Old Age Pensions.

Miss McGill said, Federation believes more women should hold public office. By training women in the conduct of meetings, by giving them the necessary experience through national and club programs, women are brought to the fore and are given the desire for public service.

Sunday noon, Miss Campbell said, delegates and members of different clubs met at the very attractive Montreal club house for a buffet luncheon. A social hour followed, after which the afternoon meeting took place, presided over by Miss Menzies. Reports from the representatives of the clubs, forming the provincial group, were given.

The resolutions presented at this meeting were timely and of great interest to all women: The placing of a woman on the council of Unemployment Insurance Bureau; the elimination of the "means test" in contributory Old Age Pensions; and that employers be urged to employ handicapped persons.

Miss McGill again spoke at this meeting, as did Mrs. Ahearn, of Halifax.

The speakers were thanked by Miss Bessie Milford. Following the adjournment of the meeting, Mr. Guy Bachand, manager of the Rex Theatre, entertained the members by the showing of two films, "Across Canada," and "Down by the Sea" with running comment. The movie projector used was graciously loaned by Mr. J. E. Shortt, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Bachand was thanked by Miss Feline Mullins. Refreshments were served, under the convenship of Mrs. J. E. Johnson.

In the absence of the treasurer, the financial statement was given by the president. The correspondence, read by the secretary, included a letter of thanks for a recent donation.

Final plans were made for the nurses' dance, which took place last Saturday. Mrs. Lavallee appointed the nominating committee for the election of officers for the com-

ALOUETTES CAPTURE EASTERN CANADA FOOTBALL TITLE

A's Plaster Hamilton Tigers 40-0 In Convincing Manner To Cop Crown; Meet Calgary Saturday in Toronto

Montreal, Nov. 21.—How a 40-0 drubbing of Hamilton Tigers can properly be assessed against a coming clash with Calgary's Stampedeers plagued many a supporter of Montreal Alouettes today.

The Big Red Montreal team left nothing to be desired yesterday in dragging a toothless Tiger ignominiously by the tail through the mud and mire of Delorimier Stadium.

It was a conclusive victory in the Eastern Canadian Football Final for the Montrealers who will meet the defending Jaegers next Saturday at Varsity Stadium in Toronto for the Dominion Championship.

Coach Les Lear of Stampedeers personally scouted the game for his 1948 Grey Cup holders.

A paid-attendance crowd of 15,343 saw Alouettes, winners of the Big Four League playoffs, piled up seven touchdowns and five converts against the hapless titleholders of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Coasting on a 17-0 lead at the end of the first quarter, Alouettes added insult to injury by playing a flock of second-stringers almost the rest of the way. Coach Les Lear was particularly chary of using Frankie Filchok, quarterback field general and ace passer, and Virgil Wagner, the league's leading scorer.

At that, Filchok heaved the forward pass that gave Alouettes their first touchdown, and Wagner's sensational broken-field running with springs of 75 and 30 yards accounted for two more.

Bobby Cunningham scored the opening touchdown in the first quarter and added another in the last quarter, both majors coming on passes. Ches McCance and Keith English dragged in passes for two more touches and Jim Harper accounted for another on a line plunge.

Bishop's College Gridders Finish Season With Startling 6-0 Win Over Loyola College Saturday

(Special To The Record)

Montreal, Nov. 21.—Bishop's College gridders topped off their season with a 6-0 triumph over a hard fighting Loyola College contingent Saturday afternoon at the Loyola Stadium.

It was the first time in ten years that the Lennoxville aggregation has downed their old rivals, from Montreal West, and it enabled Coach Hec Shields' squad to finish the season, in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference with three wins and three losses.

The small crowd that braved the cold weather and the falling snow, saw the Purple and White hold off numerous Loyola assaults and then capitalize on a break to take the game. The weather was certainly not favorable to football; the temperature was close to freezing and the latter part of the game was played in heavy falling snow.

The only major in the contest came when Bishop's blocked a Loyola kick and the ball rolled behind the line. Lineman Ross McMaster broke through to smother the ball in the end zone. Tom Price booted the convert for the other point.

Joe Stearns was missing from the line-up due to injuries, and Jack Simpson had to handle the main part of the Bishop's plunging attack, and the speedy backfielder made up for the loss by playing a hardfought two way game. Fred Rider did a good job in his quarter back position and got away some fine kicks, while Tom Price and Al Sutherland were outstanding both on the offensive and defensive.

A big factor in the victory for Bishop's was their hardfought line. Ross McMaster, Reid Scowen, Dave Vass and Bruce Johnston did a good job of holding out in the centre of the line. Ends Sam Purdy and Jim Alexander broke through on numerous occasions to smear Loyola plays behind the line.

Gerald McGee was the most consistent ground gainer for the losers and started the game with a twenty yard run through the line. John Antonescui was a big factor in the Loyola ground attack, while Herb English got away some long kicks for the Loyola "Warriors."

In the air neither team was very successful. Bishop's tried four passes and completed one. Loyola three a total of six passes, completing two and having two intercepted.

In the first half Loyola held the edge in play but were unable to capitalize on their breaks to push the ball across the goal line. Loyola began the game with a 20 yard run by Gerald McGee who broke through to carry the ball up to centre field. Throughout the rest of the quarter, Bishop's were forced to go on the defensive in their own end. Sam Purdy and Tom Price both broke up Loyola drives that might have ended in touchdowns.

The Bishop's end broke up a lateral play resulting in a loss of yards for Loyola, and the backfielder intercepted pass that was marked for a touchdown. The Bishop's line found hand of plays going through the line difficult to cope with and Loyola backs, McGee and English, went for long gains.

In the second quarter, Loyola continued to drive Bishop's back into their own end with Eddie Rochford breaking through for twenty yards. John Antonescui shared a pass to continue the offensive and a plunge carried the ball to Bishop's 25 yard line. When just a few points might have meant the game, the "Warriors" elected to try for a field goal, but the ball fell short of the goal line and Jack Simpson carried it out to the Bishop's ten yard line. Bishop's continued to play with their backs to the wall and tried frequent kicks in an attempt to get the ball out of their own end. Sparked by Gerald McGee and John Antonescui, Loyola began to drive towards touchdowns territory. However, Don Deverall ended the threat when he intercepted a Loyola pass in the last play of the half.

In the third quarter, Bishop's surprised Loyola with a quick kick that drove them back to their own 35 yard line. Jim Alexander for Bishop's broke through and smeared the ball carrier behind the line of scrimmage and a roughing penalty pushed the Maroon and White still further back. Linesman Vass, Scowen and McMaster broke through the Loyola line and sent a blocked kick rolling into the end zone. Ross McMaster chalked up Bishop's only touchdown when he jumped on the ball behind the Loyola line. Tom Price lifted the ball between the bars to give Bishop's their total of six points. From then on Bishop's took the offensive and held Loyola in their own territory throughout most of the second half. Simpson, Sutherland, and Rider broke through for first downs to continue the Bishop's attack. Loyola threatened briefly after Don Gagnon went through the line for a first down, but a fumble recovered by Dave Vass returned the ball to Bishop's hands.

In the final stanza, Al Sutherland scooped up a Loyola fumble and raced across the goal line, but the referee ruled an offside on the play. A pass completed to Gerald McGee was the only spark in a weakening Loyola offensive. Bishop's continued to move forward with a lateral from Rider to Simpson paying off in a first down. The game ended with Loyola on their own two yard line after a kick by Fred Rider had rolled offside just outside the goal line.

Line-ups:

Bishop's: Scowen, centre; Vass, guard; McMaster, guard; Hayden, tackle; Johnson, tackle; Purdy, end; Alexander, end; Rider, quarter; Simpson, half; Sutherland, half; Deverall, half; Wright, half.

Loyola: Gutelius, centre; Shamee, guard; Gardner, guard; Bossy, tackle; McLaughlin, tackle; McMullan, quarter; English, half; McGee, half; Brome, half; Rochford, half.

Bishop's subs: Kelly, K. Price, Matheson, Bergeron, T. Price, Meakin, Brown, Spice, H. Smith, D. Smith.

Loyola subs: Mander, Laliberte, Lane, Mayville, Patterson, Laframboise, Tremain, O'Donnell, Levasseur.

Athletics Trim Eastward 14-6 In "Kiwanis Bowl" Exhibition Game As Ritchie, Johnston Pace Attack

The Sherbrooke Athletics proved their superiority over the Eastward Fighters here Saturday afternoon when they handed their old rivals a 14-6 setback before a scattered crowd in the "Kiwanis Bowl" exhibition game. The match was sponsored by the Sherbrooke Kiwanis Club in conjunction with National Kids Day.

Meanwhile in Montreal H.M.C.S. Donnacona squeaked by the Lakeshore Flyers 13-12 in a sudden death game for the Q.R.F.U. league championship.

Eastward and Sherbrooke had met in two previous encounters. Sherbrooke took the first here 17-16 and then absorbed a 26-1 shellacking from the Fighters in Montreal.

The Athletics held the edge in play throughout the first half although Eastward went into the second half with a 6-5 advantage.

Eastward opened the scoring in the second quarter when Keen snared a fifty yard pass and went over for a touchdown which Tyler converted. Murray "Perk" Johnston retaliated with a major after the A's blocked an Eastward kick and recovered 15 yards from the goal line.

Johnston came through with three more points in the third quarter when he booted a field goal after Ritchie and the Hunting brothers had set up the play.

Taking advantage of an Eastward fumble Bill Ritchie ripped through the line for a touch in the fourth quarter and Johnston converted.

Star half back Ed Mott went over for a major in the first half of the game but referee Bill Lemon called it back because of illegal interference. Andy Lecsce, Pee-wee Berwick, Beef Ross, Jack Lynch, and Ray Billings on the line turned in one of their finest performances of the year and were a major factor in Sherbrooke's victory.

Larry Gallagher sharing quarterback honors with Ron Morrow combined with Bill Ritchie to lead the Athletics' aerial attack.

A parade to the ball park preceded the game and in conjunction with the special "Kids Day" celebrations, a "kid," Richard (Ricky) Beerworth, kicked off the ball to start the game.

A large group of boys from the Rehabilitation Centre attended the game as special guests of the Kiwanis Club and through many of them didn't know much about football, they all appeared to be having a happy and noisy afternoon. At half time the Kiwanis Club treated them all to hot dogs.

After the game, members of both clubs were guests of the Kiwanians at dinner at the Chateau Frontenac hotel. Ronnie Jodel, chairman of the Kids' Day committee, presented a trophy to Gordon (Beef) Ross, captain of the winning Sherbrooke team.

Line-ups:

Sherbrooke: Berwick, Clark, Ross, Bergeron, Saunders, B. Hunting, A. Hunting, Jackson, Draw, Lynch, Martineau, Gallagher, Billings, H. Drew, Ritchie, Strickland, Lecsce, Morrow, Yorke, Misses, Mott, Johnston, Bert.

Drummondville

Young people of the congregation of the United Church and their friends held an enjoyable social evening at the church. A sing-song was led by the minister, Rev. Roy P. Stafford, and games were played.

Entertainment was provided by Bill Riley, on the trumpet, and Peter Woodward, a piano. Miss Eileen Haworth showed interesting pictures of her recent trip to England, Switzerland and Italy. Joyce Scott and Mary Imah assisted with the games, and Carol Taylor and Joan Ellis took care of the light refreshments.

The young people decided to hold another social evening on November 22.

Rev. DeCoursey H. Rayner, B. A., was in Drummondville on Sunday, November 6, for the annual meeting of the Bible Society, which was held this year in St. George's Anglican Church, Heriot Street.

The social tea, put on by the men of the church, under the leadership of the stewards, proved a big success. Many requests were heard for the men to make it an annual affair.

It is estimated that close to 200 people attended. All the net proceeds have been devoted to the completion of the anniversary objective of $1,500.

Pictures were shown on the screen in natural colors at the evening service, October 30. There theme was "Growing With The Years," and it was written by the Rev. K. J. Beaton, D. D.

The Chamber of Commerce's annual oyster party was held on Monday night, November 7, at the Manoir Drummond Hotel. This was a special occasion and a large gathering of all members and their friends were on hand to spend an enjoyable evening.

Drummondville, like most of the towns and cities throughout the Province, turned its clocks back one hour at midnight, Saturday, October 30, but as is generally the case, a large percentage of its citizens completely forgot to do so. However, the day was Sunday so little or no loss was recorded by any particular working labor organizations that maintain skeleton crews in their plants for special assignments and security purposes.

The majority of citizens were mostly confused and concerned about the change in time for their favorite radio programs coming across the border. The greater part of Ontario will retain daylight saving time until the end of November.

One of the town's oldest and most respected citizens, Mrs. Malcolm Millar, died Tuesday evening, October 25, at the age of 83. She was the mother of Mrs. Lucien Boisvert and Mrs. Jean Noel.

The funeral service was held on Friday morning, October 28, at St. Frederick Church, with a large number of mourners and friends in attendance. Many had travelled from other parts of the province.

At a sitting of the City Council, his Worship, Mayor Ringuet, announced officially that a new industry is to be established here in Drummondville. However, at the request of the company's officials, the mayor did not reveal the name of the firm that is to build. He mentioned however that the company specialized in the manufacture of frames for eye-glasses.

The company has secured and paid for a lot from the Newton

Sessions, between Bernard Blvd. and the C. P. R. siding. Construction of the plant is to start immediately and when completed will give work to 75 employees, with an additional 125 when the plant maintains full production.

Provincial Badminton Tournament To Be Held Here In Mid-February; E. T. Tournay To Be Played Here In March

Plans for the Province of Quebec Badminton Tournament to be held at the 53rd Armoury here in mid-February were discussed at a meeting held in the Armoury yesterday. Claude Tetreault, president of the Province of Quebec Badminton Association and Jim Hickey, representative of the Montreal City and District Association on the Provincial Board, attended the meeting which was presided over by Maitland Soles, president of the William Street Armoury Club.

One week prior to the Provincial Senior tournament to be held here in Montreal, all requesters 18 and under before October 1 are eligible to compete providing they belong to a club which is affiliated with the Association. This rule also applies to senior competitors. R. H. Cleveland, president of the St. Francis Valley Badminton Association announced that the E. T. Tournay would be held at the William Street Armoury in mid-March.

Mike Armstrong, chairman of the local tournament committee, stated that preliminaries would be held here before the actual Provincial tournament.

Following the meeting Tetreault and Hickey played exhibition matches with local players.

Cleveland Still Setting Pace In A.H.L. Race

Cleveland Barons are making a shambles of the race for first place in the Western Division of the American Hockey League.

The Barons made it 10 games without a loss during the week-end with a 7-6 victory over Providence Reds Saturday and a 4-1 draw with Cincinnati Monarchs Sunday.

The goal-happy Clevelanders now lead the runner-up St. Louis Flyers by seven points and still have a game in hand.

Meanwhile, the League's Eastern Section remains a four-team race with the fifth squad not completely out of contention.

Providence Reds hold a slim one-point lead over both Buffalo Bisons and New Haven Ramblers in second spot.

In second spot, Springfield Indians are four points off the pace and the tail-end Hershey Bears trail by nine points.

The Reds maintained their slim margin Sunday by downing Hershey 9-4 while Buffalo edged Springfield 4-2. The injury-riddled Ramblers held the helpless Cincinnati Hawks 2-0.

In other Saturday games, Springfield blasted Indianapolis by a 6-2 count and Hershey defeated Buffalo by the identical score. New Haven and Pittsburgh Hornets played to a 1-1 tie.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 21. — (AP) — The boys along the hockey beat are getting a lot of laughs out of retelling the story of a recent ruckus between Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens during which Gus Mortson made the mistake of tugging with the fiery Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

Maurice let fly with a right to the chin and Gus took a count.

Afterward a critic questioned Richard's boxing ability, asking why he didn't let the referee know "Why" asked the Rocket, "Should I let him have the easy one first?"

Proving that somebody can do something about the weather, the Grossinger Country Club in the Catskills (north of New York City) is building an artificial skating rink. With a lake and skating pond already there, the customers can bust limbs regardless of the temperature.

Boom or Bust

Football now has reached the annual boom or bust season—when the alumni either are booming some kid for all American or trying to bust a losing coach out of his job.

Offhand, we'd say the coaches on the worst sports are Bill Osmanski of Holy Cross, Art Valpey at Harvard, Slick Morton at Mississippi State and Chick Atkinson at Brigham Young.

But so far the wolf howls haven't been too loud. Morton, for instance, was smart enough to tell the alumni in advance they'd have to wait a couple of years for a winner and they say the Mississippi State freshman roster reads like the roll of a united mine workers local in Pennsylvania.

Other reports, not guaranteed, say that Alabama's Red Drew and Southern Methodist's Matty Bell may advance to the less trying duties of being athletic directors.

Week-End Stars

Paul Leclerc, the Saints' agile goaltender, who played a big part over the week-end and as the locals turned back Chicoutimi 3-1 and Quebec Aces 1-0. In registering his whitewashing against the Aces Leclerc was called upon to extend himself but came through with marvellous work, especially when his team was short-handed, to save the day for the Saints.

Jimmy Planché, right, led the locals' scoring parade over the week-end with two goals and an assist. He scored the first marker Saturday against Chicoutimi and set up Adj Cote, his pivot man, for the team's second tally. Yesterday afternoon he scored the only goal of the day as the locals blanked his former mates, the Aces, 1-0.

Sherbrooke Saints paced by two outstanding exhibitions of goal-keeping by Paul Leclerc, chalked up 3-1 and 1-0 victories over Chicoutimi and Quebec to extend their lead in the Quebec Senior Hockey League to nine points over Quebec and Royals, tied for second position.

Playing both games at Chicoutimi the locals downed Rollie Hebert's Saguenays 3-1 in a rough, fast-skating affair. Paul Leclerc was outstanding in the nets for the Saints and time after time turned back the home team when they were forcing the play. Jimmy Planché, Adj Cote and Ray Barry notched the markers for the Saints, while Jimmy Murelich accounted for the Saguenays' lone tally in the opening period.

Against the Quebec Aces yesterday afternoon, Jimmy Planché chalked up the only tally of the game when he beat goalie Miller in the middle session on a passing play with Marcel Fillion. Paul Leclerc turned in an outstanding performance in the nets for the Saints as he turned the Aces back time after time from close quarters. The Saints drew seven penalties to the Aces' two but during this time Leclerc was unbeatable. In the dying minutes of the game he blocked Herbie Carnegie's penalty shot awarded to the Aces when Guy Labrie pulled down one of his former mates.

Tomorrow evening the Valleyfield Braves will move into town to tangle with the Saints. It is the third time the teams come together and each club has a victory to their credit. The Saints won 6-3 at home but dropped a 1-2 decision to the Braves in Valleyfield.

SATURDAY
Chicoutimi, Que., Nov. 21.—The surging Sherbrooke Saints strengthened their hold on first place in the Quebec Senior Hockey League Saturday night by downing Chicoutimi Saguenays 3-1 in a penalty-riddled fixture.

Johnny Murelich opened the scoring for Chicoutimi early in the first period, but Planché evened the count less than a minute later.

Adjutor Cote clinched the game for the Saints when he tallied the only goal of the second period. Barry added another for Sherbrooke late in the closing session.

Bill Veeck Expected To Announce Sale Of Cleveland Indians Today; No Idea What He'll Do After Sale

Cleveland, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Restless Bill Veeck is expected to sell the Cleveland Indians today after building them into one of the best money-making clubs in baseball.

The fuzzy-haired promoter, who brought Cleveland its first American League pennant in 28 years and piled fans into the Stadium with a circus-type ballyhoo, summoned reporters to a press conference at noon.

And qualified observers were confident he would turn his title as president of the Indians over to Ellis Ryan, 45-year-old Cleveland insurance man and head of a buying syndicate.

The reported purchase price was $2,200,000. This contrasted with an estimated figure of $1,250,000 Veeck and others paid for the Tribe, its 13 farm clubs, and old league park June 22, 1946.

Just where the sale would leave Veeck, now 35, was not clear. All he would say was:

"I want to get married. I want to take a good long rest. After that—believe me, I haven't the faintest idea what comes after that."

Then he was asked why he wanted to sell the team, and he replied:

"The only way a man can make any big chunk of money under the present tax set-up is to sell something he has created and to take advantage of the capital gain provision."

"I could have borrowed the money I needed in any one of several places, but I couldn't have paid it back in less than 20 years because I couldn't make enough money out of salary and dividends after taxes."

"I don't know whether I'll be alive 20 years from now and I don't want my children to be in heck to a creditor."

Veeck is divorced, has three children and expects to marry Mary Frances Ackerman, 27, former Pittsburgh and New York model.

Clark Griffith Has Quiet 80th Birthday

Washington, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Clark Griffith, a part of baseball for 61 years and still "rarin' to go," quietly celebrated his 80th birthday yesterday.

Griffith, president with controlling interest of the Washington Senators baseball team of the American League, broke into baseball as a pitcher in 1888. He was 17 years old.

He came to Washington in 1912 as a manager.

His plans now?

"I want to put together a pen-nant winning club," he said. "And I'm rarin' to go, I've just started to work."

The best player he has ever watched?

"Ty Cobb. He had everything, everything!" he said.

Hamilton Wildcats Win Junior Football Title

Vancouver, Nov. 21.—The Hamilton Wildcats today are Dominion Junior Football Champions, but they have another obstacle to overcome before going home to hear hometown cheers.

Hamilton took to the air Saturday to defeat Vancouver Blue Bombers 14-11, then took to a train Sunday for an exhibition game at Saskatoon where they will play Saskatchewan Hilltops, the team they beat in the Dominion Finals last year and the team Vancouver had to eliminate in the Western Finals this year.

But the team that boarded the train bound for Saskatoon for Wednesday's game was covered with limps, bruises and sore spots. Coach Fred Veale admitted it had been the toughest battle the Cats had encountered in their undefeated season.

In Saskatoon, the Hilltops' will set out to prove that their team is better than the one that lost to Vancouver on a sleeper play. The final score was 16-12.

Quebec City May Join International League

Montreal, Nov. 21.—Buzzie Bavasi, general manager of Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League, said Saturday that Quebec City is getting serious consideration for a franchise in the Triple-A circuit.

Bavasi, just back from league meetings in New York, said he thought there was a chance Quebec might take over the franchise of either Newark or Jersey City.

He said New York Yankees are ready to pull out of Newark, their farm team, because of failure of the bears there to draw. Jersey City, farm club of New York Giants is said to be on the verge of quitting because of increased rentals of Roosevelt Stadium in that city.

There was believed to be a possibility that if the Little Giants pulled out of Jersey City, the Yankees may place their Newark Bear franchise there. If this happens, Quebec and Reading, Pa., appeared to have the best chances of taking over the vacant spot.

Red Wings Win N. H. L. Doubleheader With Maple Leafs; Normie Dussault Tallies Lone Goal For Canadiens

Detroit's rampaging Red Wings, hottest team in the National Hockey League race, walloped Toronto Maple Leafs twice during the week-end to run out their current winning streak to eight straight.

The victories, by identical scores of 5-2, consolidated the Red Wings' seven-point lead at the top of the loop. Montreal Canadiens missed a chance Sunday to overtake the second-place Leafs when they lost to the cellar-dwelling Boston Bruins 2-1. A victory would have put Montreal a point ahead of Toronto.

New York Rangers moved into a fourth-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks by defeating Hawks 5-2 in Chicago Sunday night before 15,206 fans. Both teams now have 13 points.

Joe Carveth, a recent Detroit acquisition, highlighted the Detroiters' assaults on the world champion Leafs, scoring three goals and three assists in the two contests.

At Detroit last night Toronto drew first blood at the five-minute mark when Ray Timgren slipped a short shot into the Detroit net.

Six minutes later Detroit struck back while Jimmy Thomson of Toronto was off for holding. Red Kelly drove the rubber home with Carveth assisting. Toronto was short-handed shortly afterward when the Red Wings forged ahead.

The goal, a close-range shot, was fired by Carveth. Carveth again took advantage of a Toronto penalty—an interference wave-off by Vic Lynn—and ran up another counter at the 14:48 minute mark.

The Leafs collapsed in the second period in the game at Toronto Saturday.

Toronto was leading 2-1 on goals by Harry Watson and Howie Meeker but suddenly blew up under Detroit pressure and the Wings netted three goals in 55 seconds.

Howe's second tally at 7:55 of the third happened after Turk Broda came out of the Toronto net to hook the puck off Ted Lindsay's stick on a breakaway. Jack Stewart, tough Detroit rearguard, took 15 stitches over his eye and down his nose after he slid into a puck shot at the Detroit goal by Thomson.

A two-goal rally in the third period gave Boston Bruins their victory over Canadiens at Boston Sunday. Canadiens' first tally ended 107 minutes and nine seconds of scoreless play in Boston between the two teams. They played a scoreless tie recently.

The Habitants owed their only goal to a pretty passing play by Leo Gravelle who whizzed down the left lane, rounded the net and passed to Billy Reay. Reay slipped the disc to Norm Dussault, who blasted it in.

Most of the scoring in the Chicago game was packed into the second period, little Tony Leswick of the Rangers rapping in three goals within a space of three minutes and five seconds.

New York rang up the initial counter at 5:24 of the second period when Edgar Laprade fired in a pass from Bud Poile. Jimmy Conacher tied it up for the Hawks five minutes later.

Then Leswick started. He sped down the ice for a solo goal at 11:33 and took a pass from Laprade for another at 12:03.

Rookie Bert Olmstead of the Hawks connected with Chicago's second goal shortly after that and then Leswick fired his third counter at 14:38.

In the finale Poile counted the only goal, taking a pass at the goal-mouth and whacking it into the corner of the Chicago
