VOTING TODAY IN MANITOBA

Forty-One Candidates For 10 Winnipeg Ridings — Four Women Candidates

Winnipeg, Man., June 28—(By Canadian Press.—Manitoba today is electing a new legislature, and 208,316 registered electors are entitled to go to the polls and register their sovereign wills. Elections are deferred in The Pas and Rupert's Land and the voters in those constituencies are not included in the above total.

Fifty-one members are being elected today, and these, with the two deferred elections and two members elected by acclamation, make up the membership of 55 in the next legislature.

More men than women are entitled to vote. The last voters' list showed 107,455 males and 97,861 female electors. The new list shows 124,943 men and 83,246 women. The City of Winnipeg holds 62,255 voters, nearly thirty per cent. of the provincial total.

One hundred and forty-four candidates are in the field and 93 of them are bound to be defeated. Winnipeg has a field of 41 starters, and only ten can win. Winnipeg votes under proportional representation, and Ronald Hooper, Secretary of the P. R. Society of Canada, states that the election in this city will be the severest test which has been faced by the "single transferable proportional representation elective system."

Four women are running in Winnipeg, but no other constituency has a chance of female representation.

Names of the 41 Winnipeg candidates appear on a long ballot in alphabetical order and no provision was made in the Election Act for designating their party affiliations. To assist the elector who desires to vote a straight ticket it has been arranged that the names of Government candidates will be printed in red on the ballot. Conservatives in blue. Labor and Socialist in pea green and Independents in black.

PASTOR WHO MARRIED MARY PICKFORD SCORNED

At Northern Baptist Convention—His Name Scratched For Nomination

Buffalo, N.Y., June 28. — When balloting for officers for the ensuing year was started by the Northern Baptist Convention here this afternoon, the recent marriage of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, cropped up and nearly caused a hitch in the proceedings. The report of the nominating committee was opposed by a move from the floor to substitute the name of the Rev. James A. Francis, of Los Angeles, for that of the Rev. J. W. Brougher, also a California.

Mr. Brougher performed the marriage ceremony for Douglas and Mary and since coming here as a delegate to the convention has made a public address in which he emphasized his belief that it was not contrary to Church law to marry divorced persons.

The convention adopted resolutions urging President Wilson and the Senate to ratify the treaty of Versailles, with suitable reservations at the earliest possible moment and pledging the Baptists to support strict enforcement of Federal prohibition laws.

TAX EVASION IS EXPENSIVE

Hamilton, Ont., June 28.— For attempting to evade the Federal Income Tax, Coroner W. B. Hopkins, well-known Hamilton physician, was heavily punished today. The Department doubted the doctor's returns and put an inspector on the books. The evidence showed a return in 1917 of $1,500, while receipts were $8,905; $4,000 in 1918, with actual receipts of $13,600, and $3,000 last year, with receipts of $12,000. It was estimated that nearly $10,000 of last year's profits came from liquor prescriptions. The magistrate delayed for a time about sending the physician down for six months, but finall imposed a fine of $3,000.

GOVERNMENT TO PAY FARMERS

Will Receive Fifty Per Cent of Excess Due Them About July 15th

Ottawa, Ont., June 28.—(By Can. Press).—Farmers will receive fifty percent of the excess due them on Canada Wheat Board participation certificates about July 15 next. Definite announcement has been made that this excess on the original wheat price will be at least forty cents per bushel.

Just before the bill to empower the Government to extend the jurisdiction of the Canada Wheat Board, if necessary, until August 15, 1921, was passed by the House to-night, Sir George Foster stated that the Wheat Board would pay fifty percent of the amount due farmers out of the profit made by the Wheat Board on or after July 15.

Interviewed by the Can. Press regarding the exact effect of the announcement, Sir George stated that the exact price of last season's wheat crop could not be decided yet. Several million bushel remained to be disposed of by the Board, but meantime the Board would be able to make a fifty percent payment to wheat growers and this would be not less than twenty cents per bushel. The balance would be payable when the marketing of last season's crop was completed, and not later than the end of the present year.

SENATOR GLASS MADE CHAIRMAN

Administration Forces Appear To Be in Control of Democratic Convention

Anditorium, San Francisco, Calif., June 28—Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, was unanimously elected chairman of the committee on resolutions when the committee met for organization tonight.

There was no opposition. Senator Walsh, of Montana, seconded Senator Glass' nomination for the chairmanship.

The first test of strength proved the claim of the Administration forces that they were in control of the situation and they contended it forecased further control in the framing of the platform. Senator Walsh was understood to have the backing of Wm J. Bryan.

Senator Walsh had been urged to have the chairmanship by a group headed by Western delegations. They abandoned the fight when a canvass of the committee revealed a majority against them.

Senator Robinson Arkansas, was unanimously recommended by the Committee on Permanent Organization for the chairmanship if the convention.

Other temporary officers of the convention were recommended by the convention to continue their duties as permanent officers.

NO TRACE OF BRIG.-GENERAL LUCAS FOUND

Several Buildings at Lismore Sacked By Soldiers In Reprisal

Dublin, June 28—The utmost endeavors have been made by military patrols, aviators and the police to trace the whereabouts of Brigadier-General Lucas. Up to this evening, however, all efforts had failed.

Lismore, Ireland, June 28—Several private houses and places of business here were sacked Sunday evening by soldiers in reprisal for the kidnapping of Brigadier-General Lucas on Saturday night. There was some firing in the streets, but nobody was killed.

London, June 28—(By Canadian Press).—It was announced in the House of Commons tonight that no information had been received respecting Brigadier-General Lucas, captured by the Sinn Feiners.

Premier Lloyd George said that martial law had not been proclaimed in any part of Ireland.

GIGANTIC PROFITS MADE IN COAL

Philadelphia & Reading Co., Managed to Give Itself Nearly 500 Per Cent

Scranton, Pa., June 28.—Charges of profiteering and monopolistic control in the anthracite coal industry were made before the Anthracite Coal Commission today by W. E. Lauck, former Secretary of the United States War Labor Board, and now consulting economist of the United Mine-Workers of America.

Mr. Lauck appeared in hearings on the demands of the anthracite workers for wage increases that will bring their earnings to a level with those of the bituminous workers, with a minimum wage of $6 a day.

"A survey of the anthracite industry", said Mr. Lauck, "shows an increase in net profits of the principal operators for the period 1916-18, over 1912-14, of nearly 90 percent as compared with an increase of production during this period of less than 12 percent.

"The net income earned by these companies on their capital stock outstanding during the period 1916-18 ranged from 20.4 percent to 36.6 percent as compared with net income in 1912-14 ranging from 14.2 percent 18.9 percent.

"The actual increase in profits during the war years of the coal companies which market their own product is indicated by the income account of the Philadelphia and Reading Company. This company, which had no selling device for concealing its profits increased its production 11 percent during the war years, but increased its profits nearly 500 percent and its profits per ton on output 435 percent."

SMALL BOY IS BOLD BAD ROBBER

Aged Eleven, He Terrorized Town of Buckingham—Going to Reformatory

Ottawa, June 28.—Described "as a dangerous criminal" a little boy, 11 years of age, was sentenced by Magistrate Miller in Hull Police Court this morning to serve two years in the reformatory. Though meekness appeared to be written all over the youngster's face he had virtually terrorized the town of Buckingham for the last month by pulling off daring robberies and burglaries. It was at the request of his parents, the mayor and parish priest of Buckingham that the little chap was placed in the reform school. Following the daring highway robbery of two women who were driving in a buggy, the youthful desperado was arrested by Chief Constable Kearnan after a two days chase in the open.

FRANCHISE BILL PASSED COMMONS ON FINAL VOTE

Several Amendments Were Adopted During Third Reading of Measure

MAJORITY OF 26

The Amendment Proposed By A. R. McMaster Was Defeated 86 To 60

Ottawa, Ont., June 28—The Franchise bill which has occupied the House of Commons for a large part of the present session was passed tonight after several amendments had been adopted. There were divisions and a brief debate on the Opposition amendment which sought to compel newspapers to print the names of advertisers paying for matter published in support of political parties.

Third reading of the bill was finally passed by a majority of 26 after an mendment proposed by A. R. McMaster was defeated by a vote of 86 to 60.

Hon. W. A. Buchanan (Lethbridge) and F. L. Davis (Neepawa) voted against the Government in support of the amendment. The Farmers' Party voted against the Government.

Mr. McMaster proposed that election advertisements in any form bear the name of the person or organization paying for the advertisement.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie said that the evils of election advertisements through public journals was greatly exaggerated. It would be more to the point if newspaper articles bear the signatures of the writer.

Hon. W. L. MacKenzie-King said that the important thing was that powerful interests be prevented from backing a political party without the knowledge of the public.

Sir Robert Borden then introduced his bill to increase indemnities to members of the Senate and the House of Commons. The bill was given first reading.

Third reading of the F[illegible] Bill prought some rapid fire amendments and keen interchanges. Hon. W. S. Fielding had an amendment to refer the bill back to committee with instructions to provide that where there are two or more constituencies vacant by-elections shall be held on one day. The House divided on the amendment. It was defeated by 7[illegible]to 58—a Government majority of 19. The Progressives voted with the Opposition.

The Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, Leader of the Opposition, had another amendment. He would have the bill referred back for amendment in such a way as to do away with the employment of enumerators in rural constituencies. Mr. King argued that doing away with enumerators would save the country around a million dollars. Moreover, he said he was merely proposing what the Solicitor-General had himself suggested at a conference between both sides of the House.

Mr. Guthrie admitted that at the time of the Conference he was willing to follow the suggestion, but, he said, no sooner did he propose it to the House than Opposition members objected to certain features of it; then it was determined to adhere to the original provision of the bill. A moment or two later, Mr. Fielding warmly charged Mr. Guthrie with having repudiated his agreement and having been guilty of a breach of faith.

The charge brought the Solicitor General to his feet. "I absolutely deny that I have been guilty of any breach of faith," he sharply interrupted. You have no right to say that."

"Take it back! Take it back!" Government members shouted, but the House divided without further reference to the incident.

Mr. King's amendment was defeated by 101 to 48.

Twelve Progressives voted with he Government.

The next amendment came from W. D. Euler (North Waterloo) seconded by Sam Jacobs (Montreal.) It sought to strike out the subclause which compels women of alien birth to apply to a judge for naturalization. Hon. Hugh Guthrie opposed the amendment. Replying to J. H. Johnson (Last Mountain) Mr. Guthrie stated that the women's husbands need not appear before the judge. The judges would have wide discretionary powers.

This amendment was also lost, the vote standing: for 59; against 90; a majority of 31 for the Governmen:. The Progressives supported the amendment. The first amendment from the Progressive Party was moved by J. A. Maharg, of Maple Creek. It provided for the publication of contributions to "a group of candidates of any political party, in the same manner as is now provided for in this Act covering the contributions and expenditures in connection with the election of members."

Mr. Maharg's amendment was defeated by 96 to 58, a Government majority of 38...W. A. Buchanan, of Lethbridge, voted for the amendment and against the Government.

DOMINION STEEL DIRECTORS MEET

To Consider Report of Special Committee — Will Confer Again Today

Montreal, June 28.—The Board of Directors of the Dominion Steel Corporation met here this afternoon to consider the report of the Special Committee which has been examining the details of the terms on which the smaller companies are to be included in the British Empire Steel Corporation. Owing to the extensive and intricate nature of the work before them the Board found an adjournment necessary which was taken until to-morrow afternoon.

It is then anticipated that a definite date will be set when the shareholders of the Corporation will be asked to ratify formally the terms of the consolidation.

As foreshadowed yesterday, Hector McInnes, K.C., of Toronto, was re-elected to the Board.

SENATE MADE RAPID PROGRESS

Upper House Cleaned Up a Number of Important Legislative Measures

Ottawa, Ont., June 28.—(By Can. Press)—The Senate today made rapid progress in clearing up a number of important legislative measures It gave third reading to the bill amending the criminal code, providing that racing continue under existing regulations until October 15, instead of until September 1, as first proposed; gave third reading to two measures affecting the Indians and gave second reading to the Government's measure for the encouragement of shipbuilding.

The Senate sent a mesage to the House of Commons stating that it would not insist in its amendment taking employees of the Senate out of the control of the Civil Service Commission.

Senator Turner condemned the service given in the Parliamentary restaurant and referred to the friction produced by the new regulations.

Senator Girroir said that the new rules under which the privileges of members of the press gallery had been restricted in the restaurant ought to be repealed.

Senator Crosby agreed with Senator Girroir.

The idea that members of the press gallery would eat in the restaurant, but that their wives could not, was not based on common sense, and he could not understand how any reasonable person could entertain it.

The report was adopted.

THE DEMOCRATS HEARD CUMMINGS SOUND KEYNOTE

Big Party Convention Held One Brief Session At San Francisco

CHEERS FOR WOODROW

Several Prolonged Demonstrations for President Wilson Delivered by Delegates

San Francisco, Calif., June 28.—During its own brief session today, the Democratic National Convention heard the key-note speech delivered by National Chairman Homer S. Cummings and delivered several prolonged demonstrations for President Wilson.

When adjournment was taken until to-morrow after a three hour session the real work of the convention began among the committees delagated to write the platform, decide appeals of contesting delegations and select a set of permanent convention officers.

Demonstrations for President Wilson began as soon as the session opened and every mention of his name thereafter was received with cheers. Display of a portrait of him at the back of the platform stirred up a 20 minute uproar during which nearly all of the State standards were carried about the floor in the first parade of the convention. Mention of the League of Nations also aroused prolonged outbursts of approbation and the convention adopted unanimously a message of congratulation and admiration to the President.

Aside from the key-note speech today's meeting was given over to routing the convention going through the motions of approving committee selections already made by the States.

Virtually no further business will be done until the committees are ready to report. All of them held meetings today and all except the Resolutions Committee expected to finish its work by to-morrow.

Fights over prohibition, the League of Nations and Ireland, however, promised to prolong the task of writing the platform in the Resolutions Committee and some members thought it might not be able to report for three days.

None of these questions came sharply to the surface during today's convention session although Chairman Cummings' argument for the League of Nations was interrupted by a woman at the back of the hall, who wanted to know something about Ireland. It made only a momentary stir. The woman shouted:

"There is British tyranny in Ireland today".

Somebody suggested putting her out, but others discouraged the idea and the woman sat down and did not interrupt further.

Just before adjourning, the convention on the motion of Governor Gardner, Missouri, sent President Wilson a message praising the President's achievements in the war, rejoicing in the recovery of Mr. Wilson's health and deeply resenting the "malignant onset" of the President's partisan foes.

Treaty Plank

Ratification on the treaty of Versailles with such reservations as a Senate majority approves is proposed in the plank of Wm. J. Bryan dealing with the treaty and the League of Nations, made public tonight.

It follows:

"The Democratic Party demands an amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for ratification of treaties by a majority vote, so that it will be as easy to end a war as it is to declare war. Planting ourselves upon the most fundamental principle of popular government, namely the right of the people to rule—a doctrine in support of which we have recently spent over $25,000,000,000 and for which we have sacrificed 100,000 precious lives—we favor an immediate reconvening of the Senate that this principle may be applied to treaty controversy and ratification secured with such reservations as a majority of the Senators may agree upon, reserving for the future the making of such changes as we may deem necessary.

"We favor appointment by the President, with consent of the Senate, of delegates to represent this nation in the League until regularly chosen delegates are elected and qualified.

"We favor the selection of the nation's delegates in the League of Nations by popular votes in districts, in order that the people may speak choice in the august tribunal which will consider the welfare of the world.

"These delegates should be instructed not to vote for war without specific instructions from Congress or from the people, given by referendum vote.

"Our nation's delegates should also be instructed to insist upon the disarmament of the world in order that the burden of militarism may be lifted from the shoulders of those who toil and the foundation of an enduring peace laid in friendship and co-operation."

Assembling at noon today for their first session, delegates to the Democratic National Convention perfected preliminaries clearing the way for the real work of finding a presidential candidate. Twelve o'clock noon was fixed for the opening but hours before ticket holders gathered in the spacious building, which for the occasion seats more than 12,000 persons.

The opening preliminaries were not unlike those of the Republican Conventions. The feature on the program was the key-note speech understood to have had the approval of President Wilson.

With the preliminaries over the bir four convention committee will promptly get down to work. The greatest interest, as usual, centres in the committee on resolutions where the party issues will be fought out with good prospects that none of them will reach the convention floor for final decision.

In the meantime, managers of presidential booms were keeping in touch with delegates and working for position in the early balloting.

COMING TO QUEBEC

THE COLONY OF LORD SELKIRK

Known in Canadian History as Red River Colony—Its Founder

Toronto, June 29. — Thomas Douglas, Earl of Selkirk, known in Canadian history as the founder of the Red River Colony, was a member of the ancient Douglas family, renowned in Scottish song and story. At an early age Lord Selkirk displayed that broad humanitarian sympathy which characterized his whole life, and took an active interest in attempting to better the lot of the Highland poor who were suffering great hardships as a result of the long Napoleonic wars.

It is worth noting that Lord Selkirk was probably the first man of his age to conceive in outline, and even in some detail, a scheme of national defence that foreshadowed the Territorial plan.

This scheme, which he placed before the House of Lords in 1807, provided that every young man between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five years should be thoroughly trained as a soldier. Besides advocating his project in the House of Lords, the young Scotch peer published his ideas on this now important subject, and they stand today available as constituting a noteworthy document, the anticipation of a remarkable man who had the misfortune to live before his time.

At length one problem gripped Lord Selkirk's imagination to the exclusion of all else and the promotion of emigration became the predominant interest of his life. To this question he devoted his remaining years, his heart, his intellect, and his fortune, and the West can never repay the deep debt it owes to the man who after having lived as an apostle died as a martyr to the cause of western settlement.

It was through reading the "Voyages" of Sir Alexander Mackenzie that the Scottish dreamer and philantropist first learned of the vast tracts of fertile country "at the western extremity of Canada upon the waters which fall into Lake Winnipeg." But Selkirk did more than dream. He was essentially one who made dreams come true, and when in 1802 the Government forbade the establishment of a colony on the Red river, he turned his attention to more accessible parts of Canada. Through his energetic assistance several hundred Scottish crofters, who had been driven from their clearances in the Old Land found new homes in Prince Edward Island and Ontario. But Selkirk never forgot the vision of a great western colony and by 1810 he had evolved a plan by which that vision was to become a reality. Aided by friends he acquired control of £35,000 of stock in the Hudson Bay Company, and in the same year he had laid his plan before the directors. They were to give him a district of about 110,000 square miles, and he in return was to settle a large colony thereon, assuming all the cost of transportation, government and protection.

Needless to say, Selkirk's plan met with strong opposition. But no amount of opposition could quell Lord Selkirk's enthusiasm, and in July, 1811, the first party, consisting of slightly over one hundred men and women set sail for the distant shores of Hudson Bay. There, under the leadership of Captain Miles Macdonell, the little band spent their first winter in Canada. In the following summer they reached their destination on the Red river, and the settlement of the west had begun.

Other parties were sent out in 1813 and in 1814, and it soon became clear to the Northwest Company that they must fight this Scottish philanthropist to a finish. "Lord Selkirk must be driven to abandon his project," for "his success would strike at the very existence of our trade," wrote one partner to another and steps were taken at once to prevent further settlement. More than a hundred of the Selkirk colonists were induced to settle in Ontario, and about a half hundred more were driven to the northern end of Lake Winnipeg. The colony appeared to be completely broken up, and great was the jubilation of the Northwest Company partners at their headquarters at Fort William.

But Lord Selkirk was not to be defeated thus. He organized another party and placed at its head Robert Semple, a captain of the British army, who was to go out as governor. This company, known as the Kildonan group, had a quick voyage, and arrived on the Red river in the autumn of 1815.

Through the disbanding of the De Meuron regiments at the close of the war of 1812-14, Lord Selkirk was able to secure one hundred of these ex-soldiers as military settlers. Lord Selkirk set out on his journey westward and at the Sault learned of the frightful tragedy at Seven Oaks where Governor Semple and twenty one colonists had been slain. He hastened on to Fort William and placed the Nor' West leaders under arrest, and sent them under guard to Montreal.

The arrival of Lord Selkirk at Red river with a strong military force encouraged the colonists to return from Lake Winnipeg and his presence revived their hopes for a settlement of their dispute with the Northwest Company. With the courts and legislatures controlled in Lower Canada by the Northwesters and in Upper Canada by the family compact, Lord Selkirk had no chance whatever. He was forced to pay fines amounting to £2,000, and thoroughly disheartened and discouraged, he sailed for Europe in 1818, a broken-down and worn-out man. He died in the south of France two years later, "unwept, unhonored and unsung"—the pioneer empire-builder who spent himself and his fortune in his efforts to make a great dream come true.

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC ACCOUNTS TABLED IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

In Matters Investigated Vouchers Were Available For All Payments Made and All Accounts Found In Order—Question Raised of Trade With Soviet

Ottawa, June 28.—(By Canadian Press).—The report of the select committee on public accounts, was tabled in the House at the opening this afternoon. In the matters investigated it was found that vouchers were available for all payments made and that all accounts were in order.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, protested that there was not a French name on the list of members of the editorial committee. As the French language had equal standing with the English, he held that the French speaking population of Canada were entitled to recognition of this committee. He said the one French speaking member of the government should have a place on the advisory board.

Reading from an article in the Montreal Gazette, Joseph Archambault, (Chambly-Vercheres) asked the government regarding the status of trade between Canada and Soviet Russia. He quoted the newspaper as stating that C. A. K. Martens, representative of the Soviet Government in the United States had said that millions of dollars in contracts for food, machinery and clothing had been closed between Canadians and Soviet Russia. Mr. Archambault asked if trade had been resumed with Russia was the government aware of there contracts having been made; and was it a fact that Premier Lloyd-George and Gregory Krassin were instrumental in arranging these contracts. Sir George Foster replied that there were no restrictions against trading with Russians but that Canadians were not given any more facilities than elsewhere.

In about five minutes, the divorce bills then passed through committee and were given third reading.

French Treaty

Referring to the termination of the commercial treaty with France, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux asked the Minister of Trade and Commerce if he was aware of the fact that French importations coming in under the general tariff rates were discriminated against by the admission of many similar goods from Japan, Belgium, the Netherlands and Italy, under the intermediate tariff.

Sir George Foster: "Yes".

Mr. Lemieux: "In order not to dislocate the trade which has developed between Canada and France, should not the Minister offer by cable to the French Government our intermediate tariff against their minimum tariff pending negotiations towards a permanent agreement."

"Steps have already been taken in the direction indicated by the question", Sir George Foster replied.

Sir Robert Borden moved that the two resolutions which provide for increased sessional indemnities for members, and increase in salaries to Judge and Cabinet Ministers be taken up today. The motion carried.

Coal Scarcity

The House went into committee on a resolution which provides for amendments to the Railway Act granting the railway commission power to take any action it sees fit to deal with a real or apprehended scarcity of coal or other fuel supplies in Canada.

In moving the resolution, the Prime Minister stated that Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railways, and Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, had been looking into the coal situation which had became serious, especially during the past few days. These two ministers had made a report which showed that since the month of April receipts of coal in Canada had been becoming very irregular. The provinces of Ontario and Quebec were practically on outside for their supplies of coal, which were short by over a hundred cars every day.

The shortage and irregular delivery of coal, said the report was due to a number of causes, one of which was the inadequate car supply and another the strike of rail way employees, in the United States Industries in the United States were closing down owing to the coal shortage and the control and direction of fuel supplies had been placed in the hands of the Inter-State Commerce Commission. This Commission had placed an embargo on shipments of coal from Atlantic port to countries outside of the United States, and had made a regulation that coal should be shipped to Canada only if the cars would be unloaded within twenty four hours.

European Embargo

In view of the fact that the United States had placed an embargo on the export of coal to the European countries, it was probable that Canada must take similar action, if she expected to receive any coal from the United States, said Sir Robert.

While the United States exercised a fuel control and established priority for essential industries in consumption it was unlikely that exports would be permitted to Canada unless a responsible administration with executive powers similar to that of the Inter-State Commission distribute the coal when it reached Canada. Public opinion in the United States would prevent the free shipment of a controlled article to another country for indiscriminate use. Even if Parliament were sitting continuously, it could not deal directly with an extensive matter of this kind. The Prime Minister reminded the House that he had already voiced the Government's objection to assuming a control of this kind. He felt that since Canada had such an efficient organization as the Board of Railway Commissioners, with knowledge of the difficulties to be experienced and machinery to regulate fuel traffic, the best way to deal with the situation was to constitute the Railway Commission practically a fuel controller for Canada. Something must be done at once and this seemed the best way to do it.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux said that he was in accord with the Prime Minister in the course he proposed to take.

J. A. Currie, (Simcoe) wanted coal wharves established along the St. Lawrence River, and on the Great Lakes, so that big coaling vessels could discharge cargoes more easily. The Government had none of these vessels at present, but might include the purchase of half a dozen of them in its shipbuilding programme.

The resolution carried. Introducing the bill based thereon, Sir Robert Borden explained that it was proposed to give the Board full control in the matter of coal shipments and distribution without the necessity of an order from the Governor-in-Council. The proposed amendments to the Railway Act would expire on the last day of the next succeeding session of Parliament. Sir Robert Borden emphasized that he had been informed by the former Fuel Controller, C. A. Magrath, and other officials that the treatment given to Canada by the United States officials had been the best possible.

A bill based on the resolution passed through all stages in the House and went up to the Senate.

Judge's Salaries

The House then took up the resolution to provide for increases in judges' salaries. On the motion of the Minister of Justice an amendment was made to strike out the limitation imposed in regard to increases to the county judges.

The increase, as originally provided, was to go to circuit, county and district court judges "in whose county or district there is a city or town with a population of forty thousand people or over." Under the amendment, the increase will be granted to all circuit, county or district court judges.

R. Lanctot (Laprairie and Napierville), objected to increases being made in judges' salaries unless provision was made for deduction for pensions. Judges ought to pay something for their pensions, Mr. Lanctot argued. He cited the case of a judge in Quebec Province who had died recently, after receiving a pension for thirty two years, or a total sum in pensions of $85,354.

"When you speak about judges getting a famine salary," Mr. Lanctot exclaimed, "I object to it. It is not only salary they are receiving."

He thought too, that the Minister of Justice should not accept his pensions as a retired judge.

The Minister of Justice urged that a competent judge was surely worth the proposed salary. He mentioned that a reduction was going forward in the number of judges in Canada.

W. F. MacLean, (York) said that in Ontario, this reduction should be speeded up.

Hon. T. Crothers agreed there were now seventy county court judges in Ontario. In many districts, there were two judges and not enough work for one. He was opposed to the increase as far as Ontario was concerned.

Edmond Proulx, (Prescott) said he was opposed to the whole resolution. He did not think increases should be given at the present time. There were civil servants and public servants who were more entitled to increases than were judges. There were twice as many county court judges in some parts of Ontario as were needed. If the Government wanted to grant increases it should remember that rural mail-carriers were performing a public duty on "starving allowances."

H. A. MacKie, Edmonton, strongly supported the resolution. J. H. Sinclair, (Antigonish and Guysboro) agreed that the increase was necessary but regretted that the Government had brought it on at the present juncture.

The resolution was carried and a bill based upon it was given first reading.

The Minister of Justice intimated that under the provisions of the bill as it would next come before the House would provide that judges' salaries would be liable to income tax, that the judges would not be paid extra for work they did on Federal or Provincial commissions and that a sliding scale would be provided to cover pensions.

Wheat Board

Sir George Foster again submitted to the House in committee his resolution for the extension of the Canada Wheat Board.

The resolution was formally taken into committee.

Donald Sutherland, (Oxford South) asked for the names and occupations of the present Wheat Board.

Sir George Foster gave the names which were: James Stewart, H. W. Wood, A. Black, F. W. Riddell, Norman Patterson, W. L. Best, C. B. Watts, A. McWilliams, Joseph Quintal, W. A. Matheson, F. O. Fowler, Lieut.-Col. Fraser.

Mr. Sutherland drew attention to the fact that the Board of Commerce had complained that there were too many milling interests on the Wheat Board and that the differentials in the prices of feed stuffs were not reasonable.

Sir George Foster replied that the bill now before the House did not specify the personnel of the Board.

It was aimed to represent on the Board the grain growers, the milling interests, labor, shipping and other interests concerned. The Board could not hope to escape difficulties and criticism. Its operations affected a very wide field. On the whole, he believed it had earned the approval of the majority of the people. It had kept down the price of flour in Canada nearly $2 below the price in the United States. The Government had made a most careful choice of the personnel of the Board and Sir George believed that its choice was justified in the event.

Sir George Foster moved the following amendment to the resolution:

"Should a Board be appointed under this act, after trading in the wheat crop of 1920 has commenced, the Board shall have power to adjust and make payments from the funds of the Board in respect to actual losses incurred by reason of the bringing into effect of this Act, provided that before payments are made, they are approved by the Governor-in-Council."

The Minister explained that if the grain exchanges opened, traders made undertakings and conducted business, they might occasion financial losses should the Government decide to close the exchanges and place the Wheat Board in control of the market. The amendment was to deal with this situation, should it arise.

J. A. Maharg asked whether, on the expiration of the term of the present Wheat Board on August 31, next, the question as to whether the exchanges would be thrown open or not would rest with the Government.

Sir George Foster replied that it would. Until the Government decided to appoint the new board, it would have the decision in its own hands. When the new Board was appointed—if it was appointed—the question of the opening or closing of the exchanges would rest with it and the Government.

Hon. T. A. Crerar urged that the Government decide as early as possible what it was going to do in the matter of control. He did not want to see the exchanges open for one or two months and then close again.

Sir George Foster replied that the suggestion was a good one and that the Government would take early steps. Present intentions were that there would be a very large crop to handle and it was important that machinery should be provided. The matter would be given the fullest consideration.

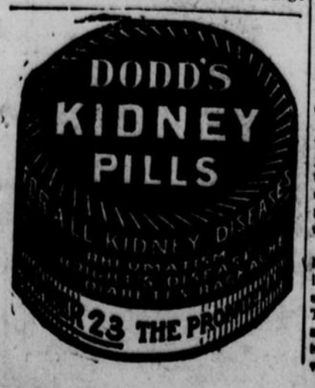
J. A. Robb asked who was to bear the loss if prices slumped 50 cents per bushel and the country was out fifty or one hundred million dollars. He did not think it was fair that the tax-payers should have to meet this loss. He suggested that the profits which the Wheat Board had in hand should be held in trust against possible loss of this year's crop. Then there could be a division when the Government decided on final decontrol.

Sir George Foster replied that last year's crop and this year's were entirely separate and must be handled so.

R. C. Henders joined Mr. Crerar in urging an early decision on decontrol.

MARK WORKMAN IS BACK FROM LONDON

Montreal, Que., June 28—Mark Workman, former President of the Dominion Steel Corporation, arrived here today from London. Before giving any expression of opinion on the action of the directors at the recent general meeting of the Dominion Steel Corporation and the changes in the directorate which ensued at the meeting, Mr. Workman stated that he would require more information that he had at present.



At The Theatres

THE CLASSIC.

"Simple Souls", starring Blanche Sweet, is the feature attraction at the Classic for the first half of the week. This production is a romance of sweet simplicity wound around two of the quaintest and most lovable human beings seen in a long while. It bubbles over with youth and romance, with laughter, sunshine and ideals, and its humor and drama throb alike with a real fervor and feeling.

The story concerns two dreamers, one a duke who was a biologist, and a poor shop girl whose passion and hobby was books. Their dreams and ideals brought these two kindred souls together, but it was their different stations in life and certain holier-than-thou relatives that nearly tore them apart.

In this picture Miss Sweet adds greatly to her laurels. Her acting is superb, and she is supported by a very strong supporting cast. A capital comedy and other short subjects were also shown.

THE EMPIRE.

"The Street of Seven Stars", featuring beautiful Doris Kenyon, was the opening vehicle at the Empire yesterday, and it continues until tomorrow night. The picture itself is a powerful one, and an all star cast is in support of the beautiful star, with the result that the production is a particularly pleasing one.

Large crowds attended yesterday's performances, and Charlie Chaplin, the king of comedians, was seen in one of his most comical and laugh-producing comedies. "The Bank" had the audiences roaring from start to finish, while a two reel western drama was on the same bill.

Miss Kenyon does some particularly excellent work in her picture, the scenes of which are something out of the ordinary. The story was written by Mary Roberts Rinehart and it is one of her best, if not the best.

THE AUDITORIUM.

The feature attraction at the Auditorium yesterday was "White Lies", starring the well known and popular actress Gladys Brockwell.

Miss Brockwell has the reputation of being the most emotional woman on the screen, and in this picture, her latest production, she more than lives up to her name.

She is supported by an excellent cast, and has a first class vehicle to work upon, with the result that the picture is very good.

A two reel Hank Mann comedy entitled "Leap Year" had the crowds who attended the opening performances yesterday in roars of laughter from start to finish, while the Kaufman Weekly that was shown is also very good. The pictures must be seen to be appreciated, and large crowds should take in the remaining performances.

THE VICTORIA.

Alice Joyce in "Dollars And The Woman" was the feature attraction at the Victoria yesterday, and she attracted capacity audiences. The story of the picture is a very timely one, and deals with the struggles of a poor young couple who finally become rich. The wife's economical ways, even when rich, cause the young husband to become indifferent, and the intervention of a third party causes complications to arise.

The powerful story, however, comes to a very satisfactory end in an exceedingly original way. Miss Joyce is at her best in this picture, and loses some of her usual reserve in putting across some of the unusually dramatic scenes with which the picture abounds. Robert Gordon plays the young husband in great style, while the third party, who creates the complications, Crauford Kent, is also excellent. The remainder of the strong cast are very good.

An extra special laugh producing Christie comedy, and the thirteenth episode of "Trail of The Octopus" are on the same bill.

NOTED SPIRITUALIST TARRIES IN MONTREAL

Interrupts His World Tour To Take Needed Rest—On His Way to China

Montreal, June 28—James Moore Hickson, the well known spiritualist healer, who has recently been attracting so much attention in Toronto, is spending a few days in Montreal. The object of his visit, he said, was to secure a rest and it was on acount of this that he refrained from publicly announcing his visit. He stated that he was at present on a world tour and he intended visiting China, Japan, Egypt, and Russia. While in the United States he had great success and was present at some of the largest religious gatherings that ever took place. Mr Hickson explained that he will not try to affect any cures while in Montreal, as he feels that if he does not take a few days rest he will have a break down.

JUDGE DISMISSES BALDWIN SUIT

Montreal, Que., June 28—The petition of Mary A. M. Stevenson, asking for a judicial separation from her husband, Maurice Day Baldwin, formerly Rector of All Saints' Anglican Church, this city, and son of the late Bishop Baldwin of the Huron Diocese, Ontario, was dismissed by judgment of the Superior Court rendered by Mr. Justice Howard this afternoon. The court's judgment was that the grounds of complaint in the action had been considered one by one and had been found in each case insufficient to sustain the action.

The delegates to the meeting were as follows:

A. L. Caron, President, and Geo. C. McNamee, Montreal; W. S. Bullock, M.L.A., A. C. Smith, A. Girard and A. Barin of Granby; J. A. Brillant and W. K. Veit, Matane and Rimouski; Dr. P. Picard, A. Chateauvert, Hon. Frank Carrel and L. S. Beaupre, Quebec.

Before adjourning, the League passed a resolution of condolence in connection with the death of the First Vice-President, J. C. Barr, President of the Granby Auto Club. Copies will be forwarded to the Granby Club and the family of the deceased.

JOHN R. BOOTH'S WELCOME OFFER

Will Guarantee Half Amount of Newsprint Now Worrying Publishers

Ottawa, June 28—An offer to guarantee one half of the amount of newsprint paper, now in dispute between the Canadian Daily Newspapers and the newsprint manufacturers, which amounts to about 2,750 tons per year has been made to the committee of the cabinet by John R. Booth, the large newsprint manufacturer and lumber man of this city.

What effect the offer of Mr. Booth will have in staying the action of the government in the passage of legislation, licensing the exports of paper and compelling that Canadian newspapers be first supplied, as requested by the Canadian Daily Newspapers Ass'n. is problematical. It is thought, however, that the offer of Mr. Booth will largely remove the cause for complaint, and if so, then it will be a matter for the government to deal with Fort Frances, instead of passing legislation effecting all the Canadian newsprint mills.

The Fort Frances Pulp and Paper Co'y. it was stated today have formally notified all their Canadian customers that they will not continue to supply them with newsprint paper after July 1, and for the present at least, will make no sales of rolls news in Canada.

FUEL OIL FAMINE FACES PAPER MAKERS

May Be No Newspapers in Any of the Pacific Coast Cities

Vancouver, B.C., June 28—(Canadian Press)—A famine in fuel oil faces the paper-making industry in British Columbia and if the famine continues there may be no newspaper in Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle and Tacoma and other Pacific Coast cities as far south as San Francisco and San Diego.. Calgary and Edmonton, Alberta, are affected.

For the most part all newspapers on the Pacific Coast are dependent on the great manufacturing plants at Powell River and Ocean Falls, B.C., for their supplies of newsprint.

These mills are run by steam generated by boilers heated with California fuel oil.

The Standard Oil Company in California, it would appear, has made up its mind that it can provide no more oil for export, owing, it is said, to the great demand for oil arising from the coming of many new steamers to the Pacific.

WRITS ISSUED FOR ONTARIO BYE-ELECTION.

Toronto, June 28—Writs were issued today for the by-election in Fort William necessitated by the recent swearing in of Hon. Harry Mills, as Minister of Mines. The nominations will be held on Monday, July 19th, and the election date is fixed for Monday, July 26th, if an election should be called for. So far there has not been any indication of opposition to Hon. Mr. Mills, who was elected in the last Provincial general election, by 1,513 of a majority over his nearest opponent in a three-cornered fight.

This will be the first election since the Farmer-Labor Government came into power in Ontario.

BRITISH PROTEST JONES SHIP'G BILL

Democratic and Republican Parties Hold Divergent Views on Subject

New York, N.Y., June 28.—(By Can. Press)—A special despatch from Washington printed in the Tribune this morning indicates that protests regarding the discrimination against Canadian transportation interests involved in the Jones Shipping Bill will not receive very emphatic consideration should the next occupant of the White House be a Republican "carrying out the policies of a Republican congress".

According to the Tribune a statement was issued on Saturday by the Republican publicity association, which says:

"It is quite probable that President Wilson will turn a sympathetic ear to the British protest against the Jones Shipping Bill. But after March 4, 1921, when a Republican President will be in the White House to carry out the policy adopted by a Republican Congress there can be no doubt that the spirit of the Shipping Bill, will be maintained and a permanent merchant marine will be established."

Referring to the opposition of Great Britain to the provisions of the shipping bill, the statement continues:

"It is announced that the British Government is preparing to make formal representations to this movement in opposition to two features of the merchant marine bill recently enacted in by the United States Congress One provision is that which prohibits the carrying of merchandise in other than American ships between American ports via foreign ports. The other directs the president to terminate as soon as practicable all treaties which restrict the right of the United States to impose discriminatory duties upon goods entering American ports in foreign ships.

PREMIER CONCILIATORY TOWARDS IRELAND

Opposition Seek To Force the Government To Disclose Complete Fin. Proposals

London, June 28—With a view to forcing the Government to disclose its complete financial proposals for Ireland, the Opposition leaders in the House of Commons today moved amendments seeking postponement of the clause in the Home Rule bill repealing the 1914 Act. The amendments, however, were rejected.

Premier Lloyd George, taking part in the debate, was again conciliatory toward Ireland, but insisted that nobody now would be satisfied with the 1914 Act and that it was impossible to grant the demands of the Irish extremists. He was convinced that the things would improve in Ireland when the genius and common sense of her people realized that the British people would never consent to the extreme demands of the Sinn Feiners and that the United States would not support the demand for an independent Ireland.

WEST REQUIRES FIFTY THOUSAND FARM LABORERS.

Winnipeg, June 28—Fifty thousand farm laborers will be required to harvest the 1920 crop of the Prairie Provinces, it was estimated today by J. A. Bowman, Provincial Commissioner of Colonization.

Bumper crops in all three Provinces warrant the increase, which is one-third greater than the number of men engaged in farm work last year, Mr. Bowman said.

A TOUCHING EVENT.

A copy of the Hythe Reporter that has just been received by the Chronicle from overseas, records a touching event which should convince those who have any doubts on the subject that British sentiments of blood kinship with and gratitude to Canada are not actuated by motives of calculating policy or desire for Imperial domination. The event in question, which took place about a fortnight since, was the decoration with flowers by school-children of the Canadian Graves in Shorncliffe Cemetery for the fourth successive year. Thus far it has been quite unheralded on this side of the water and there is no reason to suppose that the little ones who have thus annually joined to do honor to the memory of Canadian soldiers could expect that their actions would be reported in this Dominion.

Doubtless some at least of our readers may have a personal interest in these distant graves and will find pleasure in learning some particulars of their decoration.

"Wednesday's ceremony of placing flowers upon the graves of the Canadian soldiers lying buried in Shorncliffe Cemetery", states the Hythe Reporter in a beautifully written description, "was favored by glorious weather.

"The little churchyard, with its amphitheatre-like appearance, looked charming in the bright sunshine. A vast number of children, each one carrying his or her floral offering, dotted its slopes, and mingled with them were many hundreds of adults, soldiers, nurses,—in fact, all followings and professions appeared to be represented at this spontaneous act of homage to the memory of the fallen members of that great army that crossed the seas from Canada,—that great, white outpost of the British Empire. Looking to the West one could see Hythe nestling beneath the shadow of the Sloughs, with its canal a gleaming thread,—both reminiscent of past wars. To the South the waters of the English Channel lazily glittered in the sunny haze that shrouded from one's view the distant cliffs of France. From the churchyard the ground sloped upwards in verdant stretches, wooded, gorse-covered sweeps of land, with myriads of butterflies flitting in the hot air. Peaceful farms laid almost hidden here and there, and the whole scene seemed to be imbued with the typical peace of an English countryside.

"Immediately the last strains of the National Anthem had died away the children stepped forward with one accord, and in an instant the bare-looking mounds were transformed into a riot of color. Stately blooms from sheltered gardens, wayside flowers, all combined to screen the nakedness of those graves, and the reverent care with which they were placed in position lent a sense of holy dignity to the scene.

"Looking back from the leafy entrance of Sandy Lane half-an-hour later, one could see the slopes of the churchyard still covered with people, anxious to secure a last glance at the glorified resting-places of those who had fought the good fight."

The ceremony opened with the singing of "The Maple Leaf" by the children. During intervals in the addresses the children also sang the hymns "On the Resurrection Morning" and "Through the night of doubt and sorrow," and their young voices, rising clearly on the still air, sounded refreshingly beautiful to those standing around them. Children from all the elementary schools of Folkestone, Hythe, Cheriton, Sandgate, Newington and Seabrook were present; and the whole scene was one of lingering remembrance.

Bsides the children's flowers, many beautiful floral contributions had been sent to deck the graves. One of these wreaths was from the son of a Canadian who is still serving. His home is in Montreal. Another was laid on a grave by a little boy, who is living with his grandmother in Folkestone. His mother was a Cheriton girl who married a Canadian and returned to Canada with him, where she died; and his father sent the boy money to purchase a wreath in remembrance of his dead comrades.

The opening address was delivered by the Mayor of Folkestone, who said that for the fourth time they were met to remember the Canadians lying buried in that sacred plot. This was the first occasion since the signing of peace, and if it had not been for the help from overseas he did not know how long it would have been before peace was signed. They were there that day to remember the sacrifice on behalf of the Empire, on behalf of the country, on behalf of justice, integrity, uprightness and truth.

Although the Canadians, thousands of miles away, were comparatively safe, the speaker continued, they knew very well that if England was beaten the next attack would be on her colonies and dominions, taken on one at a time by the Huns. Those who first came over were volunteers. This was recognized then, and had been through the years up till that day. It must never be forgotten that they came to Britain's help when she was in such sore need. They had responded just as readily as the Englishmen, and just as quickly, and the King had thanked them all. It was a special duty to remember Canada, as the Canadian headquarters had been at Shorncliffe during the war. If that action in remembering them was any solace to any of their friends who were in Canada, those present knew they were very grateful to them for doing it. In conclusion, Mr Wood expressed the hope that the ceremony would be held for many years to come.

After further addresses in a similar strain had been delivered by the Mayor of Hythe and other dignitaries, Mr. Joseph Vale-Lane, the Musical Director of the Overseas Force of Canada, representing Sir George Perley, High Commissioner for Canada, expressed his profound thanks to all those who had combined in carrying out such a beautiful and touching ceremony which would be such solace to all those who had relatives interred in Shorncliffe Cemetery.

EDUCATION AND THE FARMER.

At a recent meeting of the Select Standing Committee of the House of Commons on Agriculture and Colonisation called to consider the standardization of the parts of farm machinery the Honorable S. F. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, endorsed the proposed policy and expressed hope that the difficulties in the way of its adoption would be overcome. He then addressed the Committee on the subject of agricultural education, emphasizing its value as applied to the live stock industry.

The Minister pointed out the need of education in the production of beef animals. He referred to his visit to an abattoir in Toronto where last December he saw going over the killing floor a lot of nearly seven hundred head of cattle whose carcasses ranged from 250 to 350 pounds. Not a single carcass in the whole section was properly finished, which meant an immense loss to the producer as well as poor quality produce for the consumer. In the first place these animals were selling for 5¼ cents per pound on foot whereas had they been properly finished and in good shape they would have brought from 8 to 10 cents per pound, at the same time weighing twice as much, which would have meant a large increase in the profits of the farmer. At present only ten percent of the cattle that go through our abattoirs are fit for export.

Better business methods for the farm were also advocated. The Minister recommended that we should be more careful in counting the cost of production. The farmer who carries on mixed farming has perhaps one or two lines that are paying, some on which he is losing, and some on which he breaks even. It is in his interest to find out which of these lines are parasites on the thriving departments of the farm. By counting the cost of production the farmer would not only be able to devote more energy toward developing the profitable branches but he would be in a position to eliminate the unprofitable.

Throughout his address Dr. Tolmie urged the necessity of education for farmers in every branch of agriculture. He showed conclusively that success in agriculture is largely due to education; proper methods of cultivation, conservation of soil fertility and moisture, together with timely attention to seasonal requirements, go far to insuring abundant crops. Along with this a practical knowledge and study of market conditions throughout the world, and a good understanding of local demands, enable us to dispose of our products at the right time and at adequate prices. A knowledge of the requirements of the human animal is essential if we are to get the most out of life. This is especially true in the rural districts, where the knowledge must embrace the mental, physical, and spiritual needs of both ourselves and our neighbors. The home life, community life, and the life of the nation are largely dependent upon our mental attitude toward our work and our outlook on life in general.

THREATENED BOOK CRISIS.

The newspaper situation created in Canada by the scarcity and abnormal cost of newsprint has been forcibly impressed upon public consciousness by the publicity that recent events have commanded but it will be news to many that the publishing business is reaching a point where production may have to be practically suspended for the time being. This fact was disclosed the other day by one of the leading British publishers in an interview with the Pall Mall Gazette and, while he of course speaks only of conditions in his own country, the same pinch must be felt to a greater or less degree by the trade generally in Europe and America.

We never value our conveniences until we are deprived of them and the public would experience greater hardships than many persons might credit in adjusting itself to a temporarily bookless world in which the latest works of fiction or of science would be unobtainable. Probably the British publisher is discounting the worst and we shall not actually have to do without reading matter as long as we are able and willing to pay for it, but the problem indicated is an acute one nevertheless.

In the interview referred to above the informant of the Pall Mall Gazette declared:

"At the present time I am reluctantly compelled to refuse books almost daily which in pre-war times I should have gladly published. The two root factors of the situation are the insistent demands of labor and the extraordinary increase in the price of paper. Between them they are forcing up the prices of books to a point where we can only produce at a loss. People will not pay above a certain price for books; and you cannot ask, say, $3.60—the economic price—for a book which normally would cost $1.20.

"These figures show that the price of books has risen proportionately less than that of anything. There is practically no hope of the price ever falling to pre-war level. But, as I have said, we are in danger of reaching a point where a book cannot be marketed for a figure which the public will pay. Then we shall be faced with a real crisis."

To put the matter in a nutshell, British publishers are paying, on an average, over three times as much for every item in book production as they paid four years ago, according to this authority, and still prices are rising against them. Recently making estimates for reprints which formerly would have cost $4,150, the cost is now found to be between $12,000 and $12,500.

From the labor standpoint the publishers are constantly receiving notices from printers and binders stating that they have to raise their charges because of having to grant continuous increases of wages and bonuses to their employees.

At the present time the men, who work 48 hours weekly, are agitating for a 44-hour week. But it is found that with the present 48-hour week less work is done per hour than used to be the case with a week of 51 hours.

In brief, the cost of composition is now two and a half times that of pre-war days; of machinery, two and a half to three times; of binding three to three and a half times.

Then as to paper. Before the war it used to cost 4¾ cents a pound; during the war it rose to 31 cents and, although it dropped for a time, it is again threatening to rise to that figure, and there is no prospect of its falling.

THE DUTIES OF AN OPPOSITION.

(Westminster Gazette)

Nobody particularly enjoys sitting up all night in a stuffy atmosphere, but the criticism levelled at the Independent Liberals for forcing an all-night sitting on Thursday night are really a little naive. Parliament is not a tape machine, intended to turn out Government Bills with perfect regularity just as Ministers please. It is bad enough that important measures should be discussed by a handful of members in a jaded House, but even that is better than that they should not be discussed at all. In this House of Commons the Opposition is so small in numbers that the majority party is apt to resent its very existence. But the functions even of a weak Opposition are of paramount importance to the efficiency of Parliament, and we are glad to see that the Independent Liberals are determined that they shall be properly performed.

POISONED DARTS ARE STILL USED

"Blowgun" Is the Favorite Weapon in Nearly All of South America

New York, June 28.—Traders, the advance agents of civilization, are starting to explore commercially a teritory, covering hundreds of thousands of square miles, that is almost as totally unknown as if on another planet. It is the vast basin of the Amazon, in South America.

The most numerous and most war like of the many native tribes of the upper Amazon and its tributaries are the Mundurcus, who are the most expert feather-workers in tropical America, the warriors wear beautiful garments of birds' plumage, with rosettes of brilliant feathers on the forehead, or sometimes diadems of alligator scales. "scepters" which the chiefs carry in their ceremonial dances are admirable works of art, being made by fastening upon a long wooden rod the white and yellow feathers from the breast of the toucan.

At its top such a scepter expands into a wide plume composed of the long tail-feathers of macaws and trogons. To preserve it from injury, the wand of authority is kept in a cylindrical case when not required for use on feast days. As part of the costume a crescent shaped breast plate of turtle shell, so thin as to give out a clear note when struck, is worn.

Among the Mundurucus no youth is considered to have attained the dignity of manhood until he has endured the "ordeal of the gloves." In that country there is a kind of ant, as big as a wasp and quite as venomous; likewise another species, known as the "fire ant," whose bite feels like a red-hot needle piercing flesh. Two bamboo tubes are closed at one end and into each of them a number of these poisonous ants are put. Then the tubes, called "gloves" by courtesy, are tied upon the arms of the young man whose fortitude is to be tested, and, wearing them, he goes about the village dancing and singing. If he shows the slightest sign of distress he is pronounced a failure and becomes an object of derision to the girls; but, if he endures the agony without wincing, his promotion to the rank of warriors is accomplished.

All over that part of South America the blowgun is the favorite weapon of thec hase. The stalk of a young palm of a particular species, is taken, ten feet in length, and split in two lengthwise, the pith being removed. Then the halves are securely bound together, providing an instrument of remarkable lightness with a smooth and polished bore. The projectiles employed are made from leaf-stalks of another kind of palm, sharpened at the point and wrapped about the middle with silk-cotton, obtained from a tree.

The dart thus formed is introduced into the tube like a cartridge, filling the bore, so that a puff of breath sends it on its deadly mission. Like a rifle, the blowgun has a foresight and a backsight. The darts are made sharp as needles by scraping them between the keen-edged, sawlike teeth of the prial fish, one-half of a pirai jaw being customarily attached for this purpose to the hunter's quiver.

Armed with this weapon, the aboriginal marksman is able to kill off a whole flock of birds at perch, dropping one after another and not alarming them. Such blowguns, when used in war or for the killing of tapirs and other large animals, are commonly provided with poisoned darts, the 'curari' poison employed for this purpose being widely known and manufactured among the tribes of the upper Amazon and tributary rivers.

Science today is not acquainted with the recipe for making "curari," the secret of its composition being handed down from generation to generation by the priests of the tribes. The basis of the mixture is supposed to be an extract from a strychinine-producing plant, snake-poison, venomous ants and other unpleasant ingredients being added. A slight wound from an arrow dipped in "curari" will kill a man in a few minutes.

When the Botocudo husband is out of temper with his wife he goes after her with a knife, and it is rare to see a married woman of the tribe who does not bear scars of wounds thus inflicted. From seeds and fruits these people obtain brilliant dyes, with which they adorn their bodies, a favorite fashion being to paint the face above the mouth a bright red, the upper half of the body being stained black, and a red stripe encircling the waist. A naked warrior thus decorated presents a truly demoniacal appearance.

Space is not here available for even a brief description of many other tribes of the Amazon basin—as, for instance, the Mautonos, who weave cloth out of the hair of slain enemies or the Jivaros of Maranon, whose war trumpets are made from skin of the tail of the great armadillo. It may be said in a general way of all the savages of that vast region that they are the most primitive people in the world today — barring possibly the aboriginal blacks of Australia and a few African tribes.

A NAUTICAL SUPERSTITION.

A curious examplification of an old nautical superstition occurred recently in the Calcutta river, when the Port Commissioners' tug Retriever was sunk by colliding with a vessel she was towing to sea. Sailors affect to believe that it is particularly unlucky to name any vessel after one which has been sunk. In 1887 another Retriever, after which the present one had been named, was sunk in the same river, and curiously enough, under very similar circumstances. The first Retriever was also towing a sailing ship to sea, and in her case, too, collided with it and went down, while the ship as in the present instance escaped.

BULL HAS GOT SPORTING CHANCE

Hackneyed Argument Refuted By Death of Idolized Spanish Matador

London, June 28—The hackneyed argument against bull-fights, that the full has not a sporting chance, is refuted by the death in Madrid of the idolized Joselito who was gored to death in the eighth year of his career, according to a correspondent writing to the London Times on "The Psychology of the Bull-Ring". He says:

"True that of the 1,430 bulls that Joselito disposed of in his brief career as a matador only seven succeeded in wounding his body and one taking his life.

"Yet, even if we accept these figures as an average, though they result from the experience of the most skilful bull-dodger that the Spanish ring ever knew, they are amply sufficient to prove that the bull has a sporting chance considerably higher than that of the fox or deer.

"The opinion seems to be general in England that bull-fights satisfy a craving for cruelty and sanguinary scenes. Nothing is farther from the truth. It is not because bull-fights are sanguinary, but in spite of their being so, that Spaniards like them.

"It is seldom that the foreigner can appreciate a bull-fight as something more complex and dramatic than a picture. Once he has taken in the graceful curve of the ring, the movement, the color, and the merry hubbub of thousands of voices, and the blue sky overhead; once he has seen the despejo, the glistening costumes of the toreros, the quaint ceremony of the throwing of the key; once he has felt the first bull rush out from his dark cell, and suddenly stop, dazzled by the sun, cutting out on the yellow sand its beautiful profile—nothing remains in store for him save monotony, broken now and then by outbursts of disgust. But it is then that the true 'aficionado' begins to enjoy himself.

"He is going to behold a spectacle where men are playing light-footed on the edge of the abyss. There is no forgetting that. A bull is a most dangerous animal, one whose handling requires a cool head and a stout heart. nd this is the fundamental fact about bull-fights. They are above all dramas of courage."

EAST MEETS WEST IN MANDALAY

In Mandalay, made known to the western world by Kipling before ever human ingenuity had made photographs move as if they were alive, native audiences nowadays acquaint themselves with the vivid and picturesque life of the United States as it is strenuously lived by the cinema cowboy. They like the cowboy drama in Mandalay, and American movie stars are favorites with the motion picture public, whether the individual enthusiast pays 4 annas, which would be about 8 cents in America, or luxuriously invests a rupee, which would be about 32 cents, for the pleasure of seeing them... Detective stories also delightfully thrill the Mandalese, and comic scenes are greatly relished by them. The war, it seems, has made motion pictures popular in Mandalay, and the popularity is typical of present conditions throughout Burma. Many other places of amusement were closed during the war period; at the same time the war made the rest of the world real and interesting to the miscellaneous population of town and city as it had never been before, and aroused a curiosity about other countries and peoples that the "current events" department of the motion-picture industry is particularly well adapted to satisfy Rangoon at present supports eight good-sized motion picture theatres five of them chiefly for the entertainment of the European part of the population, with seats as high as 2 and 9 rupees, and the other three patronized almost entirely by natives. From Rangoon the industry reaches out and establishes its motion picture theatres in smaller places, and twice a day the audiences gather to watch these dumb but interesting spectacles. Yet it seems odd to realize that more than half of the program is often devoted to American subjects.

SOCIALIST WAS FRIEND OF KING

Leader of Reformists Socialists in Italy Died Recently —Personal Friend of King

Rome, June 28.—Leonida Bissolati the leader of the Reformist Socialists who has just died, was a friend of King Victor Emanuel, of Italy, notwithstanding his socialistic ideas. A story told the King illustrates this.

When Bissolati in 1913 was a candidate for the Chamber of Deputies from that part of Rome in which the King's palace is located, Victor Emanuel allowed it to be understood that he would be pleased if the Socialist was elected. One of the King's personal attendants, however, refused to vote for one who seemed to him subversive and anti-monarchical in his doctrines.

On Election Day, the King asked his attendant, according to the story: "Will, did you vote for a candidate today?"

"No, your Majesty," replied this hard-shell conservative, "I could not bring myself to vote for my Socialist."

There was silence for a minute or two and then King Victor said: "I will bet you cannot tell me who are my three enemies. They are first of all the Austrians, then the clerical fanatics for temporal power and the Monarchists."

WEEKLY LUNCH OF ROTARY CLUB

Guest of Honor Unable To Attend—Address by Southern Cotton Grower

The Quebec Rotary Club held its weekly lunch meeting at the Chateau Frontenac yesterday which was well attended by members, and several guests, including some six members of the Dominion Automobile Club from Montreal, and Capt. Jones of the Y.M.C.A. Immigration Dept.

Mr. Eugene Jullien, President of the Club, presided, and after the cigars were reached, the chairman announced that the commanding officer of the Czecho-Slovaks who was to be present as a honored guest was unable to attend on account of the arrival of the sister units at Valcartier Camp which necessitated his presence there. The meeting was quite informal, and Mr. David Clark, of Charlotte, North Carolina, a Southern cotton grower, who was in Quebec in attendance at the Cotton Growers' Congress held at the Chateau and a guest of the Rotary Club, gave a short talk on the cotton situation in the Southern States.

Mr. Caron, of Montreal, member of the Dominion Automobile Club, discussed the 3000 miles of good roads built by the Governments of Canada, and specially dwelt upon the splendid roads in the Province of Quebec, due to the Quebec Provincial Government.

Capt. Jones, of the Y.M.C.A. Immigration Service, discussed the presence of the Czecho-Slovaks at Valcartier Camp, and their visit to the city today, and outlined the programme proposed for the entertainment of the troops.

MIDNIGHT RAID ON ROAD HOUSE

Proprietor Accused of Selling Liquor—Inmates Must Pay Fines

It having come to the knowledge of the Revenue Inspector and the Provincial Police, that a road house kept by Eugene Moisan at Lake St. Augustin was selling liquor without a license.

Several members of the Provincial police with officers of the Revenue, left Quebec last Saturday night to raid the place. Reaching their destination at midnight they entered the premises, and while the revenue officers seized the liquor found, the Provincial police arersted two young men from the city; and three young girls, whom they brought back to the city. Yesterday Eugene Moisan was arraigned in the Court of Sessions charged with keeping a house of ill-repute and selling liquor in violation of the Scot Act. The accused gave bail to appear for trial at a later date.

The three young girls charged with being inmates of the Moisan house pleaded guilty and were fined $25 and costs each. The two young men found in the house also pleaded guilty and were fined $25 and costs.

ENTERTAINMENT WAS A SUCCESS

Last Concert By Star Course Series Was Well Attended —Pleasing Performance

The last Star Course entertainment for the season was given last evening in the Knights' of Columbus Hall, before a large and appreciative audience, and although there were only two artists in the Company Miss Molly Mildram and Miss Shevlin both gave a performance that delighted all who heard them. The organizers of the Star Course Concerts certainly deserve credit for their endeavors to keep faith with patrons, and especially Mr. A. E. Pfeiffer, who went to considerable trouble to secure artists in order that the entire season's programme might be carried out, and last evening's contribution was one of the most successful of the whole series.

Miss Shevlin proved versatile in her several roles. She possessed rich clear soprano voice, and in the rendition of her vocal numbers, scored a distinct success. As an elocutionist she also proved successful, whilst her impersonations of various characters met with in everyday life, scored a hit with the audience.

Miss Mildram's contributions were also appreciated, and her pianoforte selections won deserved applause, whilst she was also heard to advantage in a pretty duet with Miss Shevlin. It is not always an easy task for two artists to hold the attention of audience for couple of hours, and the ability of these two ladies was clearly demonstrated by their being able to do this last evening.

The Star Course Concerts are now firmly established and future series should draw crowded houses.

FIRST PART OF THE CZECHO-SLOVAK VISIT

The first part of the official program covering the coming of the 3,000 Czecho-Slovak troops from Valcartier Camp to this City today, from their departure from Valcartier Camp until they are separated into parties to be entertained is as follows:

First train will leave Valcartier Camp at 8.50 a.m. and the second train at 9.50 a.m. The troops will detrain at Limoilou Station and will proceed to the Exhibition Grounds where coffee will be served by ladies.

Third train will leave Valcartier Camp at 10.50 a.m., and will arrive at Parent Square at 11.45. On detraining the troops will march along St. Joseph street to Jac.-Cartier Square. In the meantime the troops from trains Nos. 1 and 2 will leave the Exhibition Grounds at 11.45 a.m. and will join the others at Jacques Cartier Square.

The united parade will then be formed up and will proceed by way of Crown street, Abraham Hill, d'Youville, St. John, De Salaberry, Grande Allee to Drill Hall Square where they will be reviewed by Brig. Gen. Landry and will be given the freedom of the City.

The parade will then reform and will march by St. Louis street, Du Fort, Buade, Fabrique and Palace Hill to Henderson street. They will then pile arms behind the C. N. R. Station and will reform on Henderson St., to be separated into parties.

The remainder of the program, covering their entertainment in the afternoon, and the activities at the Exhibition Grounds in the evening, will be found in an another column of this issue.

HEALTH DEPT. TO ACT IMMEDIATELY

Will Take Drastic Measures Against Proprietors of Unsanitary Houses

Dr. C. R. Paquin, City Health Physician was interviewed yesterday by a representative of the Chronicle, in regard to the unsanitary conditions of houses in various sections of the City, that were complained of by the ladies of the Red Cross Society as unfit for habitation and breeders of tuberculosis.

Dr. Paquin said he was aware of the situation which he admitted was serious and deplorable and gave it to be understood that the department would do its duty. He said that there were some 150 such houses in the city to be dealt with, explaining that there were matters in connection with these houses, or rather landlords, before he could finally put into execution the sanitary by-law regulating them. "In the first place," said Dr. Paquin. After we receive a complaint, we send our inspectors to go over the premises and make a report. We next notify the landlord, and give him a resonable time to repair his property and put it in a sanitary condition. If he does not comply he is then liable to prosecution in the Recorder's Court. I have only two inspectors at my disposal to visit all the houses complained of and this accounts for the delay in the persecution of the landlord complained of.. Besides the two inspectors have to make a second visit and even more to the houses to see that the buildings have been attended to by the landlords.

"However, I intend to commence using drastic means to have the orders complied with at once and tomorrow will take out actions against these complained of. I am fully aware that there are many houses leased in this city to the poor they are no fit to live in, and I mean to do my duty to these people and the office I hold for the preservation of the public health."

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

AT KENOGAMI

The annual picnic of the St. James Church, Sunday School Kenogami, was held on Thursday 24th inst. on the banks of the Sand River in the vicinity of Kenogami.

There was a full turn-out of S. S. scholars, as well as a large number of pupils who were invited from outside, and took part heartily in the sports and various games of the programme. Mrs. Brands with characteristic energy had charge of the proceedings and was ably assisted by the Misses Mortimer, MacBean, Waters, Murray and Talbot.

Rev. Mr. Mortimer; Principal MacBean, Messrs Brands, Smith Brisette and Stevens also contributed to the success of the gathering.

A long and varied programme of athletic turns was held and the keenest enthusiasm displayed.

The utmost order and cheerful discipline prevailed throughout, and the pleasing spectacle of the children of more than one denomination marching side by side, with beaming countenances, and every evidence of joy and mutual confidence was an inspiring one. As an interested visitor remarked, "the strains of the bagpipe accompanied by the drum of "Buster" Fulton, brought the children's joy to a climax.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. QUALIFYING ROUND GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

LATEST IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

SPORTS FOR THE CZECHO-SLOVAKS

AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP OPENING DAY OF THE CANADIAN AT BEACONSFIELD YESTERDAY

Canadian Champion Turned In Fair Card Only—Quebec Golfers Taking Part in Tournament—Toronto Players Made Best Scores For Day—Qualifying Round Yesterday

Montreal, Que., June 28.—Toronto players turned in the best cards in the qualifying round of the Canadian Amateur Golf Championships at the Beaconsfield links today.

W. J. Thompson, Mississauga, went round the 36 holes in 153. In the morning he turned in a card of 77 and in the afternoon one of 76, a total of 153, while the veteran Geo. S. Lyon, did the rounds in 156, equalling Mr. Thompson's 76 in the afternoon. Seymour Lyon, son of the x-champion, equalled his father's morning score of 80, but fell off in the afternoon, his total being 159.

Stanley Thompson, a brother of W. J. Thompson, registered 158.

The Canadian champion, William McLuckie, of Kanawaki, could do no better than 166, taking 86 to make the afternoon round.

Five Americans played in the qualifying round, D. C. Cockran, of Baltimore, who got into the semi-finals of the United States National Championships last year, and was beaten by Chick Evans, G. H. Collett, F. M. Hancock and H. R. Farrington, of Providence, R.I., and Brice Evans, of Boston.

C. C. Kippen, Kanawaki, E. A. MacNutt, Royal Montreal, made nine holes in 38, the best nine hole score of the day, while M. Greer, Grand Mere, W. C. James, Lambton, W. D. Wilson, Hamilton, B. L. Anderson, C. W. Hague, Calgary, were among those who had holes in two to their credit.

A. Adams, Hamilton, did the intrips of each of his rounds for the same score at each hole. Farrington made a disastrous start in the afternoon, putting three balls out of bounds, and taking eleven for the first hole.

On account of the excellent work of the Thompson brothers, Mississauga won the team prize.

The day was a curious mixture of weather conditions. Beginning with a mist at noon, it was nearly ideal, except for a tricky wind which puzzled the players at the 18th hole. Later it rained and visibility became bad. In the evening it cleared again, fortunately for the dozen or so players of the long list who were compelled to finish their second eighteen holes by twilight.

No Quebec City player qualified for the first round.

All players with a score of 175 or under qualified for the first round.

Montreal ,June 28—Play in the qualifying round of the Canadian Amateur Golf Championships began at Beaconsfield links this morning with ideal weather prevailing. One hundred and forty-one players were scheduled to compete in this round. The early scores turned in were poor, no player approaching the par for the course, 72.

BIG FIELD DAY AT KENT HOUSE

Lacrosse Match Scheduled For Dominion Day, As Well As Foot Races

The biggest field day that the city has ever witnessed will be held on Thursday, Dominion Day, at the Kent House enclosure.

A regular Lacrosse League match is on the bill, C.N.R. and Frontenacs coming together, while there are numerous other sporting events, including the hundred yard dash, the 220 yard sprint, the quarter mile and the half mile runs, while a tug of war between two picked teams is also on the program for the day.

A considerable number of prizes will be given to the various winners, and the prize list is both lengthy and valuable.

In addition to the sporting events, there will be a band concert, and a special car service will be run, trains leaving for the Falls every fifteen minutes.

The lacrosse game sees the two unbeaten teams of the league fight it out for the leadership. The C.N.R. stick handlers have only been seen in action on one occasion, when they beat the Firemen, and their work on that occasion stamped them as a classy aggregation of lacrosse players, while the Frontenacs have already gained two victories this season out of two starts.

The game should be a battle royal between the two, and should attract a mammoth crowd. The gatherings at lacrosse matches so far this season have been excellent, and the biggest crowd of the season should be on hand for Thursday, when, in addition to having what might aptly be termed the "best lacrosse game of the season" to witness, the crowd will also be enabled to watch the cream of Quebec's speed merchants compete in the various races.

It is understood that quite a large number of entries have been received for the various races, so that the day should prove to be a great success.

AN ELECTION BET

It was at the time of the presidential election. There were two boys great chums, who expected to be married soon.. One was a Republican, the other a Democrat. This young Republican was so sure of Hughes that he told his chum if his man lost he would go without a shave a week before and a week after the wedding. He lost and was married before a large crowd as grizzly as a bear. He almost lost his bride over this episode.

AHEAD OF THE SILLY SEASON

Discussion Started as to Why Cow Invariably Arises With Her Hind Quarters Foremost.

Inquiring minds in Connecticut are grappling the old-age question why a cow, which is to say the genus bos, rises from recumbency by elevating her anterior quarters first, whereas a horse reverses the process and a pig appears to have no predilections but to be solely concerned, when there is a prospect of something to eat in sight, to get in motion toward it all at once.

Generally speaking, it can of course be said that a cow takes the method physiologically the easiest for her in getting on her feet, remarks the Rochester Post Express. The head-end-up procedure probably produces muscular stresses and interior discomforts which she understaids better than she can explain. It is open to question also if she ever in all her ruminations reflected on the matter; nor is it clear that it is worth our while to do so, since it is only an inconsequetial fact with an immaterial reason behind it. It is an interesting bit of information, and it might be profitable in imaginable emergencies to know how an animal normally acts and which is the danger end of her to be avoided. But the obscure cause of it is of no apparent practical importance, for it is just one of those things that are so and might as well be so as something else.

It seems fair from all that is known of the cow, to acquit her of any disposition to do things hind end foremost out of cantankerousness, or to cling to a notion or method through perversity or pride because it happens to be hers. There is no evidence of that domineering spirit in her or of a willful insistence in having her own way. She does the things that are to be done sequentially, in order, settles hes pressing problems first and leaves to the future others that may arise. Imperiled by enemies, her way would be to fight them to a standstil first and leave for later consideration a bovine league to secure her against possible new attacks. Her ratiocinative processes may be limited, but there is reason to believe that as far as she does see she sees clearly, never out of focus that her intuitions are sure, and that, while she may sometimes seem to, she never really does things wrong end first or clings to a course when conclusive reasons for abandoning it appear. On the whole, therefore, it seems profitable to consider the cow in the field, how she acts, for Solomon in all his glory was not so wise in all recpects as one of these.

SHAMROCK GIVEN SPIN YESTERDAY

Had Full Crew of Forty On Board—Rain Brought Trip To End

Sandy Hook, N.J., June 28—The Shamrock IV., which will meet the Resolute for the America's Cup off Sandy Hook next month, was given a short spin today with her full crew of forty aboard. It was decided not to match her against the 23-metre Shamrock, but to take some of the crew from the trial horse and place them aboard the challenger, in order to determine how the great green sloop would handle with her full complement. A rain, however, which set in soon after the craft began her work-out, brought the trip to an abrupt end.

Yachting experts who watched Sir Thomas Lipton's sloop today announced that her sails were setting better. They declared, however, that they were not yet entirely satisfied with them.

It was made known tonight that both challenger and defender would be sent to South Brooklyn shipyards July 8 for measurement. After that they will be under direct supervision of the race committee.

HAS MOVED ON.

Beaver Colony Leave the Mill Dam at Cedar Grove.

Toronto, June 28.—A suddenly as they came, and without giving notice that they intended to quit their abode the colony of beaver has disappeared from D. N. Reesor's milldam at Cedar Grove, near Markham. Nothing has been heard of them since they left the neighborhood, and the where abouts of their present habitat is a mystery.

Some months ago when they first made their appearance they started to construct their abodes with the energy characteristic of their race, and gave every indication of having chosen the picturesque dam on the Rouge river as their permanent home.

It was not until they had been gone some time that D. N. Reesor fin ally made up his mind that they had moved on. He expressed the opinion that the crowds of people who visited the dam to see them in their natural state frightened the beavers away.

COMPETITION IS UNLIKELY

Transportation Difficulties Would Be Very Hard To Overcome

New York, June 28.—Alaska as a potential source of newsprint supply is being boomed in the United States by Secretary of Agriculture Meredith who thinks that one-third of the requirements of the United States could be served from this source. However, newsprint manufacturers who have made a study of pulpwood resources are not in agreement according to the Wall Street Journal. The statement is made by one authority that wood from Alaska will never come into serious competion with the Canadian product. Admitting the possibility that Alaskan wood for newsprint manufacture might be able to compete successfully in the territory west of the Rockies this authority voices the opinion that the long rail haul across the continent is an effectual barrier against the northern wood entering the market in middle western, southern and eastern states.

It is pointed out that chief known timber resources which are now being utilized in Canada are mainly in the eastern Canadian provinces, Quebec and Ontario. As the rail haul from Quebec to the eastern, southern, and middle western states is comparatively short, it is maintained by newsprint men that Canada could easily undersell the Alaskan paper in the chief American markets. Another fact which seems to dispose of the claims for Alaskan wood is found in the fact that present cut of Canadian wood is far below the annual growth. On this basis, Canada could indefinitely supply sufficient wood, to say nothing of the American output.

According to newsprint authorities Alaska has not yet been cruised by lumbermen to any extent, and comparatively little is known of the interior forests. The warm Japanese current which touches the coast has aided the growth of timber within fifty miles of the coast, but further inland, it is maintained, the forests become sparse and inaccessible.

Resources of Labrador.

Labrador, it is believed, offers possibilities for future lumber and pulpwood supply, with a comparatively cheap water haul to Canadian and American ports. At present ehere are no restrictions on shipments of cut wood. Labrador has not yet been touched to any extent. Only recently, one of the Canadian paper companies cruised the timber lands extensively by airplane, reporting favorably on their possibilities. During the war England imported a considerable amount of poles for mines and trenches from Labrador, but this was abandoned after the signing of the armistice.

It is pointed out that the time when it will be necessary to go to Labrador or other sources for pulpwood and timber, if ever, is still far off. Canada, according to present estimates, can supply the needs indefinitely on present consumption, to say nothing of the Pacific Coast timber lands. American newsprint manufacturers are hopeful that the time will soon come when proper reforestation laws are put into effect which will safeguard their remaining timber lands and insure replanting, which should equal the annual cut.

NEW SPEED RECORDS.

Latent Miracles Of Atomic Energy Are Discussed.

From all quarters come dark hints that the world is on the brink of new discoveries that will revolutionize it. At present the air is charged with musterious possibilities, and authorities vie with one another in their prophecies of startling changes.

In a remarkable article in the Nineteenth Century Mr. Harold F. Wyatt discusses the boundless possibilities that will be created when the human race has discovered the secret of atomic energy and harnessed it to its own uses.

"At any moment in some quiet laboratory," he remarks, "may be revealed a secret of nature which will transform all the conditions of man's being, and so visibly divide past from future that later generations may say: 'At this point human history was bisected, and our day began.'"

Mr. Wyatt comments that, while this prodigious potentiality is known to exist in matter, no effort to form some general conception of the results expected appears to have yet been made.

Yet these results "beggar imagination and transcend experience." Coal fields and oil wells will become superfluities, and all conditions of transport will be revolutionized. "A motive power — enormous, illimitable, and costing nothing save for such apparatus as may be required—will be placed at the service of an astonished world."

Presumably the chosen mode of movement will be through the air and "there speeds will naturally be reached exceeding any present thought of possibility, and the practical limitations will be marked only by the point at which swiftness of movement cause combustion. Yet even in this respect finality may be thrust far off, for with boundless energy at command a protecting envelope of invisible force may be interposed, as in the waters, between the surrounding air and the vehicles racing through it."

Mr. Wyatt adds: "Those vehicles we must conceive, not as airplanes, which will be as obsolete as packhorses, but as carriages built for the conveyance of passengers or of goods in whatever shape expediency or luxury dictates, with little reference to economy of size or weight." Ships huge as the Imperator, carriages small as the humblest motor-car, will alike be able to inhabit the thronged spaces of the air.

This raises the question: "Will man ever be able himself to navigate, while still wearing the vesture of the flesh, the gulfs entervening between the units of the solar system?". The reply is: When atomic energy is at last made usable there would seem no valid reason to reject the thought.

"Taking the moon's distance as the passage thither at a speed, say, averaging, roundly, 210,000 miles, of one mile a second—and we cannot imagine that, under such conditions, it could be less—would not be more than sixty hours. Again, taking, roughly, the distance of Mars from us as averaging 30,000,000 miles, the time needed to cross that distance at the speed named would be a little under one year—about as long as the period consumed by Clive in his first voyage to India."

Even the awful gulf that yawns between the earth and the nearest fixed star, "might be traversed by wireless telegraphy or telephony were there on its other side some intelligence awake to receive it."

MUD-JETS AS FIRE EXTINGUISHERS

The efficacy of the mud-jet has long been recognized in connection with the extinguishing of fires in colliery workings, but so far the method of applying and operating such jets has been far from efficient or scientific. One of the chief reasons for the success with which the mud-jet usually operates is that it not only extinguishes the fire by means of its water content, but it cements all loose particles together and forms a cake over the gas-emitting openings, excluding the air and so making the mass safe for the future. Investigations have been made recently into the scientific side of mud-jet working and it has been decided that the material of the mud, some of which should be of a lime and some of a clay character, should consist of sifted earth of five mm. mesh, boiler ash; dust from the cleaning of blast-furnace gas, and even combustible material, such as the refuse of coal washing, can be added to make up bulk without any risk, should nothing more suitable be at hand. In the majority of instances the mud tank can be so placed as to operate by gravity, but steam or compressed air pressure can be used.

CZECHS NATIONALIZE MINES

In Cecho-Slovakia, where socialization, especially that of the coal mining industry, as in England and all other countries, became a burning question, the Government, following its socialization program, already has taken the first step toward the solution of this difficult problem by its preliminary measure for the nationalization of the coal mining industry, says the London Post.

The bill dealing with the subject was passed about a month ago by the National Assembly.

For each separate mining concern employing at least twenty miners a mining council of management will be established, elected from miners and officials, and having at least three members, of which the number is to be increased according to the number of employees.

This council will be concerned with safe and hygienic conditions of working; it will arbitrate in disputes arising from wages or other matters, will control the fulfilment of wage contracts, will be responsible for discipline, will act in connection with the dismissal of workmen, will submit plans for improvements in working and will control the financial accounts of the concern.

Litigation between miners and mine owners will be settled in its final stages by a court of arbitration, consisting of senates, with three members from each branch immediately concerned. The president of this tribunal must be a judge. In mines employing more than one hundred people a committee is to be formed consisting of three representatives of the employees and four representatives of the mine owners. The committee must be kept constantly informed of the financial position of the mine.

ABUNDANT CROPS FOR RUMANIA

This Year, Provided No Dry Weather Sets In—Corn All Planted

Bucharest, June 25. — Rumania's crops this year promise to be exceedingly abundant, provided no drought sets in. Nearly four-fifths of a corn crop has already been planted. The government hopes to be in a position to export a large quantity of cereals this year. This is expected by Rumanians to bring up the present low value of the Rumanian franc which is about two cents. The Ministry of Industry and Commerce has entered into a contract with the Italian government for the early delivery of 40,000 carloads of maize.

The farmers are much retarded in their work by reason of the scarcity of horses, draught, oxen and agricultural implements. None of the farming machinery carried off by the Germans has been replaced. Horses and oxen have been brought into the country from Hungary and Transylvania, but the number is inadequate. Much industry has been tied up by lack of tools, machinery and transportation There is a fertile field in Rumania for American agricultural implements of all kinds.

The taking by the government of all state and institutional lands and more than 4,000,000 acres of private holdings, for use by the peasants, is expected to have a stimulating influence on production. It is the first time in Rumania's history that the peasants have been given outright ownership of land. The expropriation of large private estates by the government did not please the proprietor classes, but it had a steadying influence on the temper and spirit of the people who were showing distinct signs of unrest.

DOG AND FOX FAMILY.

New York, N.Y., June 25.—Tabby cats are not the only animals, besides the foxes themselves, that can nurse baby silver foxes successfully. J. Gordon Noakes, sales manager for the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation has received information telling how a female Belgian police dog, part of the protective force of a New York State fox farm, had nourished three little "silvers" until it was time to wean them. The mother fox had refused to care for the little ones soon after they were born, but the police dog, herself a mother of seven puppies, took the job willingly. Mr. Noakes' informant said that the good care she took of her foster family is evident from their size and the fine condition of their pelts. By "adopting" the fox pups the dog saved the owners of the farm from a threatened loss of several hundred dollars.

A SWISS GLACIER.

A strange Alpine phenomenon is taking place at Grindelwald, that mountain center much beloved by tourists of all nationalities, both in summer and winter, with its town clustering under the great range of white mountains. Many who have stood on the famous Grindelwald glacier have been unconscious that they were moving, for the action of the ice as it pushes towards the valley is so slow as to be imperceptible—an ordinary pace for a glacier often being a few yards in 50 years. But the Grindelwald glacier has been moving at the rate of 4 to 6 feet a day for over a week. It has obliterated a pine forest and a stone bridge across the Black Latchine, as the ice river makes its way across the water to the upper banks. It is thought the rapid movement is due to enormous amount of snow and ice on the higher portions of the glacier pressing it downward; but visitors and those making observations, are watching with interest, and realising that what would have taken a thousand years to do gradually is being accomplished before their eyes at topspeed.

A BEAD-EMBROIDERED BATHING SUIT

By Gertrude Beresford.

This suit is developed from a very lustrous taffeta in the fashionable shade of henna. About the neck and short sleeves there are very fine pleatings of the silk, which are firmly held in position by a narrow cording of the silk. The rather long waisted bodice is adorned with white china beads, a trimming that extends beyond the narrow belt that encircles the waistline. The full skirt is bound with fine pleatings of the silk—a decoration that also appears on the snug-fitting bloomers. The cap is fashioned from the silk and elaborated with beads.

THE FAMILY ICE-BOX.

BY LORETTO C. LYNCH.

An Acknowledged Expert On All Matters Pertaining To Domestic Economy.

Here's a timely topic relative to sanitation, suggested by an ex-service man. Said he: "Write something about the care of the family ice-box. I believe a soldier would be shot at sun-up who neglected to care for the food supplies as do some of the women whom I serve with ice."

To begin with, the refrigerator should be of a substantial make, fashioned to keep out the atmospheric heat and so prevent the ice from melting unnecessarily, and should have easily removable parts. The drainpipe especially should be easy to remove, for if neglected it is an ideal place for the breeding of germs and for the collecting of slime from the melting ice.

Sometimes, of course, the refrigerator is one of the built-in fixtures of the house or apartment. But certainly no housewife who has the welfare of her family at heart will think of storing food in such a refrigerator until she has given it a thorough cleansing. Remove all removable parts. Make ready a pan of hot soapsuds to which has been added a small lump of washing soda. Scrub the ice chamber as well as the food chamber. Rince with several clear waters and thoroughly dry. Expose the inside of the box to the direct rays of the sun if possible.

In like manner clean the removable parts. The drain pipe—that is, the long pipe which leads from the ice chamber through the food chamber and on out through the bottom of the box—may be cleaned by twisting a piece of muslin about a wire.

It will need several thorough scaldings and rinsings. If you do not know how to remove this pipe, ask some one to show you. Many women are under the impression that this pipe is a permanent fixture instead of a removable one.

Then purchase enough ice to well fill the box. It is more economical to purchase a large piece of ice on Monday and a small piece of ice on Tuesday and Wednesday. It is quite possible you can get along without ice Thursday and Friday—that is, you will not have to purchase ice on both those days, for once an ice chest becomes thoroughly chilled it remains so longer than when it is only cooled a bit each day. Ice must melt to keep a refrigerator cold It is a mistake to wrap the ice in paper to keep it from melting.

Some housewives have a set of enameled bowls in which they keep things they wish to store in the refrigerator. These are of unbreakable material and sometimes colored blue. A servant knows that only these particular pieces are used to store foods in the refrigerator.

Unwrap meats and wipe off with a damp cloth. Cut out any portion discolored by the meat hook. Then place the meat in a receptacle in the food chamber. Lettuce and the like may be cleaned and placed in a covered tin pail in the box. It is not good housekeeping to throw things in paper packages into the box on top of the ice. In fact, it is best to avoid putting anything in contact with the ice. Try to keep the ice chamber for ice and the food chamber for food.

Since we do not know the source of our ice supply avoid putting ice directly into water you wish to chill. Better put one or more mason jars of fresh water in the refrigerator each morning. It will be cold when you want it and will also prevent the necessity of chopping off bits of the none-too-cheap ice.

Once a week is none too often to go over that ice chest very thoroughly. Remember, the health of the whole family depends in a measure on the sanitation of the ice chest.

ALTERATION OF GOLF RULES NOW BEING CONSIDERED.

London, June 28.—Alteration of certain rules of golf was considered at a meeting of a special committee of Anglo-American golfers here yesterday, according to the Times. Standardization of the balls used was also discussed.

It was decided to recommend to the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrew's and the United States Golf Association that with reference to stymies, no alteration be made in the present rule. Recommendations were made to unify penalties for lost balls, balls out of bounds and unplayable balls. The penalty for the first and last should be "stroke and distance," but in the case of a ball out of bounds permission should be given clubs to govern the penalty by local rules, it was decided.

Decision was reached to recommend "that the weight of the ball shall not be greater than 1.62 ounces, and that the size shall not be less than 1.62 inches in diameter."

The new ball recommended is equivalent to the 30 pennyweight ball now on the market.

Halifax Street Car Traffic Falls Off and Net Earnings Are No Higher

Halifax, June 25—The advance in rates on the cars of the Nova Scotia Tramways and Power Company in this city has not so far proved the panacea for decreased net income that it was expected it would. This is the statement of Mr. Weston, the general manager of the company, before the city works committee. The matter came up on a complaint of the company that has the contract for street paving. It was said that, because of delay by the tramways company in doing the portion of the work falling to it on certain streets, the paving company will not be able to finish its contracts on to time. The law requires that the tramways company shall pave between its own rails and for a certain distance on each side thereof. The reply of the tramways company was that although a seven cent rate had been charged since the legislature gave this permission, about three weeks ago, the traffic had fallen off so materially that the receipts on the whole are less even than before the advance and that in consequence the company cannot finance loans to enable it to go on with the paving and other improvements.

The company asked for the advance a year ago and if it had been given then it might by this time have been in a position to do the necessary financing. The allegation was also made that the strike at the Halifax shipyards had cut off a large amount of traffic. All these things made it impossible to go ahead with the paving as would otherwise have been done.

The company suggests that the city come to its relief but in what way is not yet stated. The bill introduced in the house authorising the advance in rates had a clause providing that the company be permitted to put in a cheaper material than what had hitherto been demanded or, in other words, that it be allowed to use a material not more costly than the employed by the city itself in paving. The city council objected to this clause and it was struck out. This may have a bearing on the present situation.

The company was aware when it asked for the advanced rates that there would be a falling off in traffic but that it would be so marked was evidently not anticipated. If a way is not found out of the difficulty some of the streets may not be paved this season as residents thereon expected they would and the paving company will have something serious to say if prevented from finishing contracts at the end of the summer and have perhaps to hold over, at considerable loss, to next year.

BRAZALIAN AVIATION ENTHUSIASM

Enthusiasm for aviation has reached such a point in Brazil that important factories or France, Great Britain, Italy, and the United States have sent representatives to that country. These have been devoting several months to the study of the market, and have tried to win concessions from the Government. With the exception of Great Britain, all the manufacturers have sent machines, and there are daily flights. Aerial service, both freight and passenger, is to be established by a resident British company, between the chief cities of the republic.

THE GATEWAY OF THE RED SEA

Aden is Well Known Port of Call—Harbor Always Full of Interest.

London, June 24.— Aden, since 1839 a military station and second Gibraltar of the Empire, is a Dependency of the Bombay Presidency of the Indian Government, and is to all travellers eastward bound and to their stay-at-home relatives and friends perhaps the best known port of call, at least by name.

Soon after passing the Straits of Bab-al-Mandab the traveller sights the serrated peaks of Jebel Hasan (the fabled tomb of Cain) and Jebel Shamshan on his eastern horizon, at first seemingly as two isolated islands, but presently they display themselves as two promontories rising abruptly from the low Arabian mainland. Conspicuous from afar, they were the unmistakable landmarks for the earliest navigators of those seas to a safe and unequalled harbor.

Aden has to the general voyager the evil reputation of being as barren of interest as of vegetation, "a waste of ashes set in a sea of despair," and in high unwholesome temperature but little removed from regions which shall be nameless. Of the thousands who call at the port, few except those posted to the garrison make it their destination, and fewer still care to know more of it than can be gleaned during a few hours' drive. Yet Aden, Dofar, Sokotra, Mokha, and almost every feature of the South Arabian coast is full of human life and history reaching back to the childhood of commerce, if not to the beginnings of civilization.

The harbor itself is always full of interest from the constant coming and going of the large lateen-sailed dhows or the sharp prowed (probably piratical) beras, but little modified in cut and rig from those that have frequented this haven for centuries. Now, as throughout the ages, these native craft hail from the coasts of Berbera, Zanzibar (the ancient Zenj), Makulla, and Mokha, or fly the pennons of the Imams and Walis along the shores of South Arabia, the Persian Gulf, and the coasts of India. Here one watches a stream that has known little variation, save waxing and waning, during the past 50 centuries. Here was one of the chief emporia of all the most prized products and commodities of the Orient, from which they passed to every port of the inhabited world.

The streets of Aden always present to the visitor a busy scene of Oriental trading. There "the broad-necked hamals sweating in the sun" are to be seen with their heavy sacks of commodities poised on their necks unloading each their own craft, with hurrying feet; there

The traders, cross-legged 'mid their spice and grain,
The buyers with their money in the cloth, chaffer all day long over a couple of piee; and there strings of loaded kafilas monopolize the roadway, the head of each following camel tied to the tail of its forerunner, "the camel, drivers rocking on the humps"—each a picturesque and dignified procession as it strides sedately onward.

A path along the eastern shore and through the Hedjuff gate leads to the Maala plain, and a mile further by another gate to the outside of the defensive lines separating the Aden peninsula from the mainland. Thence a road northward over the desert, running along the aqueduct, built early in the 16th century by Suleeman the Magnificent to supply the celebrated tanks which still form "an object of surprise and interest," leads to Sheikh Othman, 10 miles north, where in a green oasis the Resident has a summer bungalow, and further on to Dir Amir, the boundary between the Abdali country and the British possessions, and still beyond to Le Houtah, the capital of the Sultan of Lahej so long the friend of England.

Egyptian Connection.

The Aramaic and other foreign disease names in papyri of the IVth Egyptian Dynasty prove an intercourse five millenniums ago between the Nile and some foreign (probably Syrian or Saboean) highly civilized State, and the occurrence of Indian spices in the 20th century B.C. indicate that with India and the Further East trade was established and of long continuance through the Persian Gulf by caravan routes to the Levant. Along these portages the report—often enough intentionally falsified — spread gradually abroad of the homes and harbours of these luxuries. Early and keenly alive to the profit of a first-hand share in so lucrative a traffic, Egypt, from her favorable geographical position, was able to send her galleys as early as the Vth Dynasty in search of these treasures, and more notably in the XVIIIth, by order of Queen Hatsepsut.

There were the beginnings of the long continued contest for the proud title of "Lord of the Navigation, Conquest, and Commerce of Ethiopia, Arabia Persia, and the Indies"—a dignity which was to belong only to the keeper of the Red Sea gate, whose bastions have with time and change been Aden, Sokotra, Berbera, Mokha, and Ormus. We watch the title pass in succession from Arabia to the native Pharoahs for several thousand years. Some 10 centuries B.C. it belongs to Tyre, and several hundred years later to the Greeks, whose capital, Alexandria, was then the most celebrated mart of the world. It was seised in turn by the Roman fleets 30 years before Christ, till, by the lapse of centuries and the decree of destiny, it returned to its ancient masters the Arabs, who continued to hold the monopoly of this richly benefited region till the jealousy of Europe, early in the 15th century, brought the caravels of Portugal safely round the Cape among the "harbours of incense like a pack of hungry wolves in a well-stocked sheep walk." Throughout this vast period of time Aden, the unquelled harbor, the opulent treasure house of three continents, suffered endless vicissitudes of fortune. Time and again it was a port "most noble, rich, and beautiful," "remarkable for its buildings," "unsurpassed in luxury," and of unrivalled celebrity for its fortifications and its commerce. Time and again it was destroyed and re-established to control or to prevent its interception of the eastern trade—vicissitudes in which Arabs, Phoenicians, Greeks, Romans, Persians, Venetians, and Turks all had a share.

Portugal and Britain.

With the appearance of Portugal in the Indian Ocean a new competitor of the East. On Sokotra, Mokha, entered the lists for the lordship Aden, and Ormuz she soon erected an effectively growing barrage against the auriferous stream which so flowed through the Persian Gulf and the Red Sea, to divert it into her new route round the "Southern Horn" of Africa. After a hundred years of incessant conflict she had possessed herself of the marts of an entire hemisphere; but through her new but gateless highway thither the power and lucre (if hardly the hatred of the infidel) which had excited herself attracted to rival fleets of Holland and England. Invading her monopoly, these "perfidious heretics" shattered her dominion of the sea, and finally parted the Indies between them. On the advent of steam and the establishment of the route between the Mediterranean and th Red Sea the barrage was dissolved, and Aden and Sokotra rose to a measure of their pristine importance as ramparts of the Gate. In 1839 Aden, then captured from the Sultan of Lahej, was the first annexation to the English Crown under Queen Victoria. Of this event an interesting memento existed, till quite recently, in the little vessel moored in the harbour and long used as the time-gun station, which one smiles to think, for it was hardly larger than a native dhow, was one of the squadron at the bombardment of this, "the strongest city," as Varthema called it, "that was ever seen on the level ground."

When you are "wide awake as an owl" at night, and can't "keep your eyes open" in the daytime you certainly need

WAR OF 1812 RECALLED.

An interesting find has been made by a Welland County lawyer reminiscent of the last war between the United States and Canada, over a hundred years ago. During that war, in December, 1813, the United States army captured Niagara-on-the-Lake, then the capital of Canada. It will be remembered, and burned the town. That has something to do with the story.

A lawyer was in the Welland Registry office looking up the records of a certain farm in Stamford. This farm was given to its first owners by the British Crown over a century ago The owner then twenty years later sold it to another party and the deed of the transfer disappeared, and there has been a cloud on the title of the property for a century.

The laywer, by means of his search, has been able to clear up the missing link in connection with the deed by producing the duplicate deed made April 9, 1894, and registered two days later at the Niagara Court House with the signature of John Powell, registrar, who was registrar at that time.

After the war of 1812-14 was over the Canadian Government, wishing to repaid what damage the Americans had done, advertised that all parties who had registered deeds of property in this district should bring them in and have new copies made for registration, the original copies having been burned when the court house and Government buildings at Niagara. Evidently the owner of the Stamford farm had never seen the advertisement for there is no record of his deed in any registry office and now, after a hundred years, damage done in this one instance will be remedied and a clear title be given the present owner of the farm.

THE ALARMS OF PEACE.

Mrs. Jones' new lodger had to get off to his work very early. It was dark the first morning, and as he carefully made his way to the head of the stairs, his foot struck something with a hollow, metallic sound.

Losing his balance, he fell from top to bottom of the stairs, together with the obstacle which had upset him — a large tin bath. As he lay panting at the foot, he heard a drowsy "Right-ho!" from one of the upstairs rooms.

At supper-time he complained loudly about the carelessness of the person who had left the tin bath in such an awkward position.

"That was Mr. Tims," said the landlady, with a smile. "He always puts it htere. He's a very hard sleeper, and only a noise like that wakes him up. He calls it his alarm-clock."

For the Sake of Whiter, Safer Teeth

It Is Film
that causes men's teeth to discolor, and that holds tobacco stains.

It Is Film
that clouds women's teeth, spoils their glistening beauty and is the basis of tartar.

It Is Film
which is responsible for decay in children's teeth. It is the source of most tooth troubles.

The dealers named below have been supplied with 10-Day Tubes of Pepsodent. This week a tube will be handed free to anyone who asks. Simply present the coupon. The purpose is to urge a test of this film-removing tooth paste, which leading dentists nowadays advise. Prove the results for your own sake and your children's sake. Learn what they mean to your teeth.

See How Your Teeth Look When the Film is Gone

There is on your teeth a slimy film. You can feel it with your tongue. It clings to the teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

The tooth brush doesn't end it. The ordinary dentifrice does not dissolve it. So it clings and, night and day, it may do ceaseless damage.

The Tooth Wrecker

That film is the great tooth wrecker. Most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

The film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Also of many other troubles, local and internal.

That is why well-brushed teeth so often discolor and decay, why tartar forms and pyorrhea starts. You leave much of that film.

Tooth troubles are constantly increasing, as statistics show, despite the wide use of the tooth brush. And the reason lies in that film.

Now We Combat It

Dental science, after years of searching, has now found a way to combat film. Able authorities have proved it by convincing clinical and laboratory tests. Thousands of dentists have proved it, and at least a million people.

The results are seen everywhere in cleaner, whiter teeth. Some of your own friends have them.

For home use, this method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And this week you can test it at our cost.

Based on Pepsin

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

Pepsin long seemed impossible. It must be activated, and the usual method is an acid harmful to the teeth. But dental science has discovered a harmless activating method. And that method, used in Pepsodent, enables all to daily use this efficient film combatant.

Watch the Results

We urge you to present the coupon. Get the 10-Day Tube and use like any tooth paste. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten—how they glisten—as the fixed film disappears.

Compare the results with your old methods. Then let your own teeth decide the method best for you and yours.

This is of lifetime importance. Don't neglect it. Cut out this coupon so you won't forget.

HARBOR FACILITIES AT ST. JOHN, N.B.

St. John, N.B., June 28—The Commissioners today unanimously agreed to permit the Canadian National Railways to lay additional tracks on Water Street, along the McLeod and Pettingdale wharves, under conditions providing satisfaction to the City Engineer and civic control of placing of cars. It was said that the new trackage would mean that the C. N. R. elevator on the east side of the harbor would be kept at capacity next winter.

NO WIRELESS MEN.

Montreal, June 28—When the C. P. O. S. liner Minnedosa put into port this morning she was without wireless operators and for the first time since the central body in London controlling British Marconi operators, called them out, Canada has felt the pinch.

GEM'S ROMANTIC HISTORY

Truly romantic is the story of the Braganza diamond, a stone of 1,660 carats, and "as large as a goose's egg," which, for more than a century has been the proudest possession of the Portugese crown. This amazing stone, which Mr. Streeter, the great authority on gems, has valued at £58,000,000, was picked up by three Brazilian outlaws in the half-dried bed of the Abaite river, in the province of Minas Geraes.
The outlaws took the stone to the nearest village priest, who obtained access for them to the governor, into whose possession it was given. The diamond, the largest and finest hitherto found, was dispatched to Lisbon, with the result that the three outlaws received the royal pardon and a rich reward, while the padre to whose friendly offices they owed their good fortune was given high preferment in the church.

REPUDIATION NOT EVEN SUGGESTED

Premier Lloyd George Gives Emphatic Denial to Stories Circulated in United States

London, June 28—"Great Britain has not the slightest intention of repudiating any war debts. In fact, she is now preparing to repay what she owes the United States."
Thus Lloyd George, British Prime Minister, gave the lie to widespread rumors in the United States reporting Britain's stand to the contrary.
The statement was made in a corridor of the Premier's residence in Downing Street to Paul Brewster this afternoon. Brewster writes:
"I met the Premier as he emerged from the room where the Cabinet meets.
"'Is there any truth in the report that you are sending an emissary to the United States with the object of obtaining a cancellation of England's war debt to the United States, because France has asked Great Britain to cancel her war debt to Britain?, I asked.
"'We are not sending any emissary to Washington, nor are we making any advances regarding cancellation of any part of the British war debt, or the proportion of the amount which France suggests cancelling,' Lloyd George replied.
"'Are there any new developments with regard to Germany?' I asked.
"'The question of a loan to Germany to help her pay for imports of raw materials will not be considered until after the conference at Spa towards the end of July, when the inter-allied finance committee meets,' the Prime Minister answered.
"The next question asked was whether France was using Great Britain as a political lever to pry indemnities from Germany on the grounds that she would not pay the part of her war loans due Britain in October. The Premier shook his head.
"Great Britain is prepared to pay the United States and will do so," he said. "We never expected any help from that quarter other than the suspension of the interest charges on Britain's debt, which the United States has already granted. If you want any further information on the subject ask Mr. Austen Chamberlain." Lloyd George concluded. "I have never even heard repudiation discussed."
The following statement to Universal Service was authorized by Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer:
"No proposals dealing with allied indebtedness to America were discussed either in the conferences in Hythe or in those that have just taken place at Boulogne. Nor have any of the Governments represented at these conferences ever suggested the repudiation of their obligations."
The Chancellor of the Exchequer is expected to make a statement to this effect in the House of Commons early next week in order to set at rest the widespread rumors about plans for cancellation or repudiation.
At No. 10 Downing Street these rumors were characterized as "foolish and unjustifiable."

THE GHOST SHIP.

Among the war stories that British naval men feel free to tell now is one about a "ghost ship" whose mystery has never been solved.
In 1917 a convoy of 12 ships left a British port. At dawn on the day after sailing the escort commander discovered thirteen ships under his charge. While the identity of the extra ship was being discussed the convoy was suddenly attacked by German light cruisers and most of the escort and nine of the merchantmen were sunk. The Germans then made off.
Survivors positively assert that there were thirteen ships and that the mysterious vessel disappeared as strangely as she had appeared. They are certain that the ship was not sunk. Official inquiries failed to throw any light on the nature of the craft. It was ascertained that she could not have been a disguised German raider, and her presence was "logged" by the escort commander.

HOW COINS WERE NAMED.

Word "Sterling" Adopted During King John's Reign.

One of the most distinguished elements in the present commercial difficulty is that of money and exchange and it is not surprising when consideration is given to the importance of the medium of exchange and what part it has to play in serving for the transfer of commodities. The word money was derived from moneta, one of the surnames of Juno, in whose temple the Romans first made coins. The word mint is supposed to be a contraction of the word moneta through the Ango-Saxon "mynet."

When we read that sterling has fallen in exchange value who knows the origin of the term? Yet it is traced to the inhabitants of the Hanso towns, known as Esterlings, who were invited by King John of England to come to England and reform the currency which had become very corrupt. From that date good English money was known as sterling.

The shilling is from the Anglo-Saxon scilling, meaning a twentieth, so it takes twenty shilling to make a pound.

The English farthing meant the fourth of a penny and was actually broken from a penny in olden days when the pennies were indented with a full cross so heavily that they could be snapped into four. This was a solution of making change, as the primitives understood it.

The franc is only another way of spelling the silver coin of the Franks and has no indication of value. Our own dollar has a German origin, having been the thaler or more fully, Joachim's thaler, the silver coin struck out of the silver found in the thal or valley of St. Joachim, France. This was extremely pure and being coined into ounces gave the real basis of the silver dollar which weighs an ounce.

Few stop to consider what a cent is. It meant a hundredth, the French word for hundred, and is the appropriate name for the coin which is one-hundredth of a dollar. The quarter is easy, for it is one-fourth of the dollar. The nickel is so-called because of the metal from which it is made and the dime is a tenth, from the old French disme, traced to the Latin decem, ten.

When you visit a mint and see the great bars of gold and silver and are told that this is bullion, you may not bulla, meaning rounded, and refer-know that the word is from the Latin ring to the rounding of these bars by art.

The $10 gold piece of the United States is so-called an eagle because of the print of the eagle on it, just as the English crown received its name from the crown on its reverse side.

In coins the side bearing a head is known as the obverse, that bearing any other device as the reverse. In matching coins, we speak of one side as the head, the other as the tail.

GERMAN BLACK LIST IN PERU

Publications in Peru do not believe in soon forgetting the intrigue of Germany or letting the Hun go unpunished. Newspapers there larry a complete list of merchants who showed anything like a friendly disposition to Germany throughout the war. It is known as the "Official Allied Black List." The boycott of these merchants includes trade with any of the employees of the firms. The notice at the top of the list includes the warning:

"Any transaction with an employee of a firm on this list is naturally the same as a transaction with the firm in its own name and will have the same consequences."

Commercial and Financial News

CLOSING LETTERS BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

(By Canadian Press)

New York, June 28.—The same factors and considerations which have governed the apathetic course of the market throughout the month were present again today in more acute form. A new record for dullness was set at the end of the session, dealings dwindling to the insignificant total of 260,000 shares.

Events over the week-end were mostly of a character to chill bullish sentiment, even if the technical position of the market had warranted conservative efforts.

Returns of the Federal Reserve Banks plainly indicated that the process of deflation had made little headway and industrial developments were far from encouraging.

Regardless of general expectations however, monetary conditions inclined to relaxation. Call money eased from its opening rate of 9 percent to 7 percent. Before the close a fair amount of time funds was offered at 8 3-4 percent, but there was little demand for merchants paper.

Reports from the Middle West showed a gain in volume of business during the month now expiring, but this increase evidently resulted in large measure from lower commodity prices. New England advices told of a probable advance in the usual summer shutdown in the woollen trade, with concurrent curtailment of cotton production.

Steels, equipments, oils and chemicals led today's irregular reaction, motors, metals, tobaccos and Shippings being less severely affected. Intermittent selling of rails added to the general reversal, only a few miscellaneous specialties holding their ground.

Lower prices ruled in the very dull bond market, the domestic list, including Liberty issues, recording nominal concessions, with steadiness among internationas, notably Anglo-French 5's. Total sales (par value) aggregated $11,350,000.

Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

CLOSING LETTERS BY THE LOCAL BROKERS

(By Bruneau & Dupuis)

New York, June 28.—The listless and uninteresting attitude of the market continues with trading in the lightest kind of volume. The renewal of money at 9 percent today was one unwelcome indication, but it was followed by somewhat easier rates this afternoon. Such a rate, together with the latest showing of the federal reserve bank, must of necessity hold the market in check. About the only matter of interest at moment is the beginning of the convention with its keynote space, the vital point will come in the selection however the platform and candidates.

The most that can be said in favor of the market is its steadiness under prevailing conditions, which seem to indicate a substantially liquidated situation and a position from which prices could advance as soon as the financial and business outlook will permit.

Total of sales 309,200.

(By O'Brien & Gourdeau)

New York, June 28.—While a few issues in the stock market began the new week at fractional advances from last week's final prices, selling pressure characterized the remainder of the list, although the total number of stocks traded in at the opening and immediately thereafter was comparatively small. Saturday's bank statement was used by floor traders as a pretext for the selling. This early pressure lacked sufficient aggressiveness to maintain a downward trend, however, and the market developed pronounced dullness before mid-forenoon. Offerings were increased upon announcement of a nine per cent rate for call funds, but here again the selling power was limited with the result that trading came practically to a standstill at the low level. The market remained decidedly inactive throughout the afternoon, although some improvement in the price level was shown at the close.

The total volume of business transacted, which was the smallest for any five-hour session in many months, was of a highly professional character.

Attention is being very largely centered on news from the Democratic National Convention and it is believed that the market will remain a narrowly irregular professional affair, while the Convention continues in session.

Sales stocks, 261,000; bonds, $9,390,000.

(By L. G. Beaubien & Co.)

New York, June 28.—The market picked up a little this afternoon when the demand for money appeared satisfied and the rate eased off. Crucible, Replogle, Mexican Petroleum and several of the rails recovered moderately.

The demand appeared to be merely that of professional covering however of stocks sold this morning in an effort to make capital of the poor bank statements.

The democratic keynote speech at San Francisco attracted little attention as it was along sterotyped lines and chiefly laudatory of the parties achievements in the eight years it has been in power.

CHOCKING AN ALLIGATOR

"In the spring of 1889, when I was learning how to grow and cure coffee and pepper in the sultanate of Johore," writes a contributor to the Wide World Magazine, "the plantation manager and I one evening rowed across the river to a new clearing to see how the work progressed. We wore our swimming clothes, and as we drew into the beach I dropped overboard.

"I had been swimming for a short time when suddenly I was grasped by the waist and flung into the air. The next moment I discovered that I was the prey of an alligator that had misjudged its grip. When I fell back into the water, the brute closed his jaws on my right leg and shook it, as if trying to wrench it off.

"The manager and the coolies came running to the edge of the water, but the manager dared not use his rifle, lest he should shoot me, or launch the boat, lest my captor should carry me off.

"Suddenly an idea came to me. Bending forward, I pushed my right hand into the alligator's throat and groped among the hot, soft folds of flesh. Managing to get a grip on them, I pulled with all my strength. The flesh in my hand hardened, then the brute choked, gave a cough like a blast from an air valve, and literally blew me out of his mouth. Needless to say, I lost no time in reaching the shore. My right leg was so badly injured that I could not stand, and the coolies had to carry me to the manager's bungalow."

CLAIM FINANCING BREAKS RECORD

Riordon Subscriptions Outstanding in Size of Issue and Rapid Absorption

Montreal, June 28.—(Special to the Chronicle).—The closing yesterday of subscription lists for the issue of $8,500,000, 8 per cent cumulative preferred shares of Riordon Co. Ltd., public offering of which at 100 and accrued dividend was made on June 18th last, completed what is believed to be. A record in Canadian Industrial Financing in both size of issue and in rapidity of absorption.

It was stated last night at the offices of Royal Securities Corporation that subscriptions to the issue totalled over $9,800,000, an over subscriptions to the issue totalled subscription of $1,300,000 of the total allotted.

More than $8,000,000 was subscribed for by Canadian Investors an attainment the more remarkable when account is taken of the prevailing stringency in the money markets. It is understood that the number of applications totalled over two thousand, a feature of the offering that indicated wide distribution with resulting stable market for the new securities.

The new common shares have been dealt in rather actively in the Montreal unlisted department at from 51 to 52 compared with the price of $50 at which fractional shares were adjusted at the time of the issue.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

(By Canadian Press)

Montreal, Que., June 28—Dullness and lack of interest characterized today's dealings on the local stock exchange with one of the smallest day's turn-overs of the year. Only one stock ran into four figures, National Breweries, which was also strong, up 1¼ points to 55. Stronger issues took in Atlantic Sugar stocks, both of which made substantial gains, the common moving up 1½ points to 127½ and the preferred making a new high at 148¾, a net gain of 2¾ points; Howard-Smith preferred gained 2 points; Montreal Power 1½ points at 84; Tooke's preferred 3½ points at 90.

The Steels outside of Iron, which sold unchanged, showed some strength, Ontario making a new high at 77 and Steel of Canada gaining a point at 76 for the common and 1½ points at 97 for the preferred.

Spanish River dipped to 99½; Montreal Cottons sold down three points at 101; Riordon and Brompton lost 1½ and a point, respectively. Quebec Railway was not active and was inclined easier.

Total trading: Listed, 7,318 shares; Bonds, $65,100.

WEDDING BELLS.

A diversion was created at my wedding which has caused many a laugh since. Just as the minister was saying, 'Dearly beloved," etc., the fire alarm counded in the hose house across the street, upsetting the solemnity of the occasion and causing a ripple of laughter among the guests. A dear, sentimental auntie, who is slightly deaf, said after the ceremony "O, I thought it was so sweet to have the chimes while the service was being read."—Chicago Tribune.

THE PATRIOTIC ASPECT of BUYING GERMAN BONDS

The war is over. The slogan of patriotic Canadians, should be "Back to Work." Business as usual," is not sufficient; we have grown up.

We are an agricultural nation. We produce grains, paper, pulp wood and lumber. We need potash for the land, dyes, and other products for manufacture.

No matter how much we would like it, we cannot deny the proprietory position of Germany in certain essentials we need, no more than do we desire to let the world forget the commanding position we hold with regard to the essentials we produce.

Three months after armistice, English Government Brokers sold millions of bushels of Canadian wheat into Germany; Certain philanthropic Canadians today are helping to feed destitute Austrians; British and French Bankers have frequently urged as a necessity to peace and progress the re-establishment of commercial relations between allied and enemy countries.

The only way this can be carried out is by the re-establishment of International Credits and the re-adjustment of currency equations between nations.

Let patriotic Canadians ask themselves if it is more patriotic to endeavor to establish Credits with enemy nations on a basis of present depreciation of 1000% or wait until, by natural causes, the readjustment has taken place and then pay in cash at par for the things we have to buy(?)

Who will be the sufferer if we neglect the present occasion? We declare without fear of contradiction that Canadians will be sufferers. We can do Germany no greater injury in the present circumstances than by buying her Obligations at present starvation rates and stand by to see that she pays.

The safest method of accomplishing this purpose is by buying.

At The Theatres

Blanche Sweet Supersedes All Previous Plays in Simple Souls At the Classic Theatre.

Blanche Sweet has always been recognized by Quebec audiences as a star of first magnitude but in "Simple Souls" her magnetic personality was most highly appreciated in this unique play at the Classic yesterday. This wonderful feature has romance, charm, laughter, tears and a story that has a distinction and appeal all its own. Molly Shine (Blanche Sweet), a shop girl meets a Duke and despite their difference in station their ideals are the same...Their life and how Molly's beautiful simplicity eventually won, gives one of the sweetest and grandest productions ever screened. "Simple Souls is indeed a real feature and everyone who likes something above the ordinary should see it.

"Welcome Home" was the title of a very funny comedy. The Classic Weekly News and "Topics of the Day" were both interesting and entertaining.

The same show will be repeated today and tomorrow.

Take a Maple Avenue car to DeSalaberry St.

Great Programme at The Empire Theatre

A great programme is offered to the patrons of the Empire today and tomorrow when beautiful Doris Kenyon is offered in picturization of Mary Roberts Rinehart's famous novel "The Street of Seven Stars". A powerful dramatic story in which the lovely star is seen to wonderful advantage. Charlie Chaplin is simply a scream in his side-splitting comedy "The Bank" while the western drama on same bill is full of exciting action. News weekly also shown.

CLORIA SWANSON

Coming Thursday in "Station of Content."

Alice Joyce Scores Hit in "Dollars and Women," at Victoria

Alice Joyce certainly made a decided hit in "Dollars and the Woman" at the Victoria Theatre yesterday and the picture is one which is bound to make an impression on all who see it. It is a six-reel special production and beautifully staged. A two-reel comedy and serial on same bill. Coming Thursday: Wallace Reid in "The Lotterryman."

WILL DRIVE TO COAST IN AUTO

Vancouver Man Suggests a "King's International Highway" as Northern Route.

To establish by investigation and travel the shortest and most feasible motor route from Montreal to Vancouver is the task laid down for Mr. Percy Gomery, of Vancouver, who left Montreal on the first leg of the longest Canadian "drive away" on record, having completed some 1,200 miles on a run from Detroit via the London Highway.

He is accompanied by Mrs. Gomery, travelling under the auspices of the motor clubs of British Columbia, accredited by various organizations and on behalf of a group of Canadian and foreign journals. Mr. Gomery is a director of the Vancouver Automobile Club, but is in no way connected with the automobile business, and his tour is purely an amateur affair, the actual aim of which is to ascertain the nearest to an all-Canadian route available today.

From his own province he brings the suggested title of "The King's International Highway," at once indicating a British undertaking but international in scope. Americans everywhere have been enthusiastic over the prospect of a northern summer route across the continent as opposed to the parched alkali regions of Montana and the long desert stretches of the Lincoln Highway through Utah and Nevada.

Proper Thing Now Is to Peel Off Soiled Skin

Those who abhor sticky, greasy, shiny, streaked complexions should religiously avoid creams, powders rouges during the heated days. There's no need for them, anyway, since the virtues of mercolized wax have become known. No amount of perspiration will produce any evidence that you've been using the wax. As it is applied at bedtime and washed off in the morning, the complexion never looks like a make-up. Mercolized wax gradually takes off a bad complexion, instead of adding anything to make it worse. It has none of the disadvantages of cosmetics and accomplishes much more in keeping the complexion beautifully white, satiny and youthful, free from freckles, pimples, blotches and other blemishes. Just get an ounce of it at your druggist's and see what a few day's treatment will do. Use like cold cream.

THE READY SCOT.

Two American sailors who had been indulging somewhat freely were sitting beside a kilted soldier on the top of a tramcar in Edinburgh.

"No doubt about it," said one of them loudly. "We come from the greatest country in the world."

"Weel," was the quick retort of the man in tartan, "ye dinna speak with a pure Scotch accent."

MONTREAL WOMAN GAINED 15 POUNDS

Nervous Indigestion Gone and She Eats Anything Since Taking Tanlac

"I don't doubt anything good I hear or read about Tanlac for I have gained fifteen pounds on four bottles and am now enjoying the best of health," declared Mrs. Clara Allard, residing at 857 Henri Julien Avenue, Montreal.

"I suffered terribly from nervous indigestion," said Mrs. Allard, "and for many years I couldn't eat any heavy foods like roast pork at all. Even the little bit I did eat caused gas to form on my stomach which pressed up against my heart, making it palpitate so badly that it just seemed like it would jump out of my body. I had a constant rheumatic pain in my knee and it hurt me so that I could hardly stand up to do my housework. I was so nervous that even the children playing about the house would upset me, and at nights was so restless that I could scarcely sleep. I tried many different medicines and treatments but failed to get any relief.

"I read several statements in the local papers from people who said Tanlac had relieved them from their suffering, and they were so sincere that I decided to give it a trial. Well, Tanlac has certainly been fine for me, and it has increased my appetite so that I eat four times a day I can eat anything now, including pork, and not be bothered with gas on my stomach, palpitation of the heart, or indigestion. My nerves are as steady as a clock, my nights are very restful, and I'm just happy all the time. Tanlac sems to have been just the thing for me; and I'm more than grateful that I found it."

Tanlac is sold in Quebec by Jollicoeur's pharmacy; and by Martel and Dion; and in Levis by Maurice Dion; under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.
