World News In Brief

Washington, Sept. 15.—(AP)—The National Security Council has exempted five countries—Iran, Israel, Egypt, Libya and Indonesia—from a ban against United States aid to countries doing business behind the Iron Curtain.

Declaring that Iran does not export arms, ammunition, atomic or other war materials to the Soviet bloc, the council said yesterday it is in the security interest of the U.S. to exempt Iran.

The ban provides discretionary powers in granting exemptions.

Berlin, Sept. 15.—(CP)—East Germany's Prime Minister today denounced the Big Three Foreign Ministers' decision to take Western Germany into defence partnership as meaning that "preparations for a new war had reached a new and more serious stage."

Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl made the statement in a foreign-policy speech at a special session of the East German Volkskammer (Parliament).

Toronto, Sept. 15.—(CP)—Women are needed in the municipal political field, from Charlotte Whitton believes.

The acting mayor of Ottawa told the Inter-Club Council for Women last night that women have certain qualifications for public office that men lack.

Speaking as a "spinster with broad observation unhampered by experience," she said: "Women have a finer sensitivity for ethical and moral values. Often they can draw to male attention something not previously expressed."

She stressed that women should be partners, not competitors, with men in public life.

No life comes without partnership of men and women. And no better life for a nation can come without this partnership in government."

No level in politics is unworthy of women, Dr. Whitton said, but the municipal field is one in which there are no interests foreign to them.

Tokyo, Sept. 15.—(Reuters)—The Canadian destroyer Cayuga supported South Korean marines in recent raids on communist installations far behind the front line, a United Nations' communique said today.

The communique said accurate fire from the Cayuga's eight four-inch guns cracked communist resistance and killed 150 communists.

At one time the destroyer commanded by Cmdr. J. Plomer, of Winnipeg, was raining shells on a concentration of 350 men, the communique said.

The Cayuga also knocked out gun positions and shattered installations and supply buildings during her patrol along North Korea's west coast.

Noted Canadian Writer Honored

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 15.—(AP)—A bust of the late Stephen Leacock, noted Canadian humorist and economist, was unveiled yesterday in this town near his boyhood home. Premier Frost, also a native of the district, spoke to a gathering of writers and publishers at the unveiling.

Author Eric Nicol of Vancouver, who at a later dinner received the annual Stephen Leacock Memorial Award for humorous writing, said that Leacock did not belong to the line of bitter wits such as Swift.

With him humor was "pure and gentle fun, which is what you get when you turn wisdom inside out so that the facts don't show."

Reds Must Make Next Step In Reviving Peace Parley

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Tokyo, Sept. 15.—(AP)—The United Nations today put it up to the communists to take the next step in reviving the suspended cease-fire talks at Kaesong.

A statement issued by the Public Information Office of Supreme Allied Headquarters said "the next move is now up to the Reds."

The Reds broke off the talks Aug. 23. They charged that Allied warplanes strafed, bombed and fire-bombed Kaesong the night before in an attempt to "murder" the communist truce delegation. The United Nations command denied it.

The statement today dealt primarily with another communist charge—that an Allied aircraft bombed Kaesong last Monday. The U.N. admitted that charge, and said it was the result of a pilot's mistake.

The statement said the admission was "no indication that the

Apology For Butter Action Is Made

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—(CP)—The Canadian government has publicly apologized to New Zealand for its action on butter import controls which resulted in New Zealand losing opportunities to extend butter sales in Canada.

Trade Minister Howe issued a statement Thursday placing part of the blame on the government's shoulders, but at the same time making clear that New Zealand's butter prices were higher than those prevailing in Europe where Canada purchased most of her imported butter requirements.

The statement followed discussions between the trade department and William Marshall, chairman of the New Zealand dairy produce marketing commission. Informants disclosed that the statement was drafted with Mr. Marshall's help.

It disclosed that when the government slapped on import controls on butter Aug. 1, New Zealand was in a position to offer butter to the Canadian trade, but refrained from doing so on the Canadian government's request.

Previous reports disclosed that New Zealand had hopes of selling 10,000,000 pounds of butter in Canada, but the Canadian government purchased only 3,000,000, giving orders for the remaining 7,000,000 to European sources.

New Zealand offered butter at 62 cents a pound, duty paid. Canada got butter from Sweden, Denmark and the Netherlands at from 60 to 61 cents a pound, duty paid.

The statement said Canada was bound to buy butter on a competitive basis, without discrimination, in line with the terms of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade of which she is a member.

Informants previously disclosed that one of the reasons why Canada switched to European butter was the fact that New Zealand sold butter to Britain for 42 cents a pound but offered it to Canada for 63.

Grain Growers Face Problems

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—(CP)—A crucial storage problem looms over Prairie fields as man and the weather combine to make things tough for the western grain growers.

Though prospects are that Canada will harvest a record wheat crop—valued at more than $1,000,000,000—the Bureau of Statistics has forecast that Prairie downpours may slow harvesting and cut quality.

The second strike against the farmer may be swung by a continuing lag in shipping. Despite the fact that the government has appointed a transport controller, grain shipments from the lakehead has not been boosted. The shipment problem has spread to the Eastern seaboard and a slowdown in the transfer of grain to eastern countries.

These dismal threats hover over prospects of harvesting the big wheat crop in history. The Bureau yesterday forecast, in its second estimate of crop production, a record wheat crop of 579,338,000 bushels. This was only 2,400,000 bushels lower than a preliminary estimate made a month ago of 581,700,000.

U.N. command will admit to any trumped-up communist charge, no matter how loudly they "protest."

"The admission of the charge puts the responsibility of the little cold war squarely up to the Reds," the statement added.

The communists have not yet officially acknowledged the U.N. note accepting blame for the incident.

Peiping radio has said the strafing was a deliberate attack. The Allied release pointed out that the strafing last Monday "occurred in a rather obscure area a mile from the conference site and was not—as the Reds have falsely claimed before—aimed at 'murdering' the Red delegates."

The Reds presumably still are waiting for an answer to their note rejecting Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's suggestion that the cease-fire talks be moved to a new site.

Council President Van Zeeland And Prime Minister St. Laurent To Make Keynote Speeches At N.A.T.O. Council Opening.

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—(CP)—The North Atlantic Council meets here today to build further on defensive foundations which its President believes have already increased the chances for lasting peace.

Five days of meetings start at 12:30 P.M. EDT behind an unusual wall of security, probably with Prime Minister St. Laurent briefly greeting the 300 delegates.

On the eve of this most distinguished international assembly Ottawa has known, two of the West's leading statesmen came out with keynote statements.

Belgium's Foreign Minister Paul Van Zeeland, Council president, said N.A.T.O.'s first two years have already cut the dangers of general war and predicted—with emphasis—that "peace can be won" if the west presses forward with urgency to build its defences.

Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson warned Canadians that further sacrifices will be necessary to build those defences and said the ultimate aim of this defensive alliance should be the creation of nothing less than a federation of North Atlantic states.

His first statement coincided with reports that N.A.T.O. wants more military and financial aid from Canada as well as from the other 11 member nations, including more jet fighter squadrons and quicker delivery of them in Europe.

His second statement—indicating Canada's support for something approaching the same sort of organic union as that which binds her own 10 provinces—found an encouraging echo from Mr. Van Zeeland.

The Belgian told a press conference the pact could become "the charter of a community founded on common ideals... some aspect of this evolution is likely to be discussed here."

Neither the Parliament Buildings nor Ottawa itself have seen anything quite like the arrangements for this gathering of the great of the Western world, including two Prime Ministers and 30 other cabinet ministers.

When Mr. Van Zeeland rises in the Commons to deliver the opening address, plainclothes police will be nearby, more than 120 soldiers and airmen will be in the building, the doors will be guarded, even Members of Parliament are required to show special passes before gaining entry.

The Schumans, Van Zeelands, de Gasperi, Gaiskells, Shinwells and other big names of the West continued to pour into the city by plane, train and car. The arrivals will be topped off this morning by the coming of State Secretary Acheson of the U.S. and Foreign Secretary Morrison of the U.K., both flying in from Washington.

Finance Minister Abbott flew in from Montreal and financial talks in Washington last night appeared to go into a huddle with Mr. Pearson and Defence Minister Claxton before the big show starts.

Prime Minister St. Laurent's greeting to the delegates at the opening ceremonies will be public in the sense that more than 200 reporters as well as a few M.P.s, officials and diplomats will watch from the galleries. The general public will be excluded.

At his press conference, the urbane and courtly Mr. Van Zeeland listed these among the deliberations of "immense scope" which will likely be examined in the days ahead:

- 1—Admission of Greece and Turkey—expected to be granted.
- 2—Rearmament of West Germany, already favored by the Council, but this may have to wait for decisions at a later meeting in Rome.
- 3—Economic and financial questions, including the possibility of working out an interim, co-ordinated financial plan for producing arms and equipment without having to wait until experts work out an exact budget for the sharing of the burdens. Many months might be saved this way.
- 4—Steps to create a real North Atlantic community.
- 5—Reports by the Council deputies, top permanent body, as well as economic and production boards.

Vancouver, Sept. 15.—(CP)—It was a happy day yesterday for some price-conscious housewives here.

They got roasts of beef at 59 cents a pound when the sale price should have been 89 cents.

A mistake in a Woodwards Department stores advertisement brought the cheap meat.

The store stood by its bargain and sold 350 pounds at the lower price. The regular price was 97 cents a pound.

Sherbrooke's population, according to preliminary census reports from the Bureau of Statistics, is 49,737.

British Land Smallest Tuna On Final Day But Win Tourney

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Wedgeport, N.S., Sept. 15.—(CP)—Sparked by a London stock-broker, whose skill at killing bluefish is a tradition in these waters, the British Empire team yesterday won their first post war world big game fishing tournament with a tuna that was the smallest and most docile.

When Maj. Cyril Frisby, a first world war V.C., landed a 269 pounder in 20 minutes in yesterday's final session of the three day 8th international tuna cup match he made the British total three, the best record of the tournament.

His own total of two fish was also the best individual mark among the 25 competitors representing five international teams.

It was a dramatic battle for second place between the United States and Scandinavia which finally decided in favor of the Americans, who got two fish yesterday—one with only half an hour to go—after two scoreless opening days, and the poundage just topped their rivals. The Scandinavians had led until yesterday. Chile was fourth and Cuba last.

Scoring is based on poundage, biggest fish of the day and tournament and most fish. Here is the final standing:

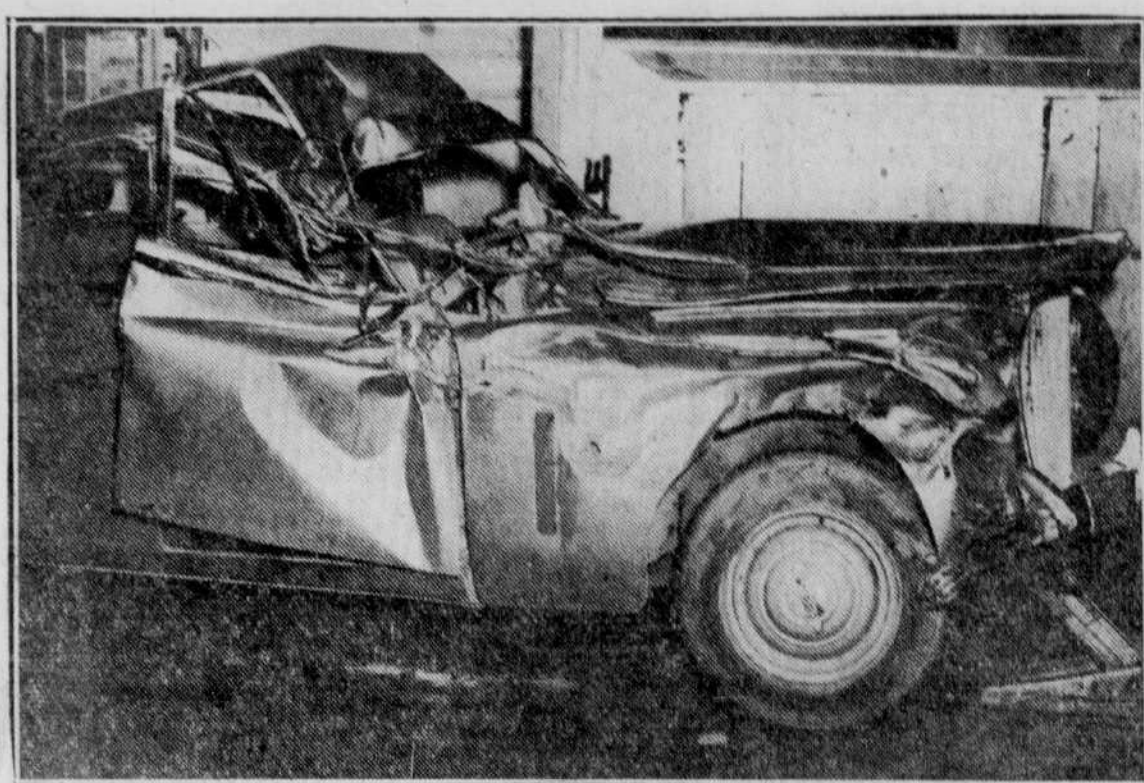

First, British Empire, 2,039½ points with a 597 pounder caught Wednesday, a 640 pounder caught Thursday and Maj. Frisby's catch yesterday.

Second, United States, 1,853 points with a 716 pounder caught yesterday by Maj. Davis (Ben) Crownsfield of Ipswich, Mass., after an hour and six minutes fight and a 737 pounder caught yesterday by team captain Tony Hulman of Terre Haute, Ind., after an hour's fight.

Third, Scandinavia, 1,821½ points with an 805 pounder—biggest fish of the match—caught Wednesday and a 483 pounder caught Thursday.

Fourth, Chile, 1,370½ points with a 669 pounder caught Wednesday and a 644 pounder caught yesterday by Eduardo Reyes, Santiago industrialist after two hours and 10 minutes, the longest battle of the day.

Have A Safe Week-End

If the weather holds good this week-end, there will be hundreds of cars on the road. Scarcely a day goes by without a serious accident on the Eastern Townships' highways. Last Saturday night nine persons died in a crash near Drummondville. Two cars were smashed in Sherbrooke on Sunday. The car pictured above was wrecked in an accident on the Montreal highway, within the city limits, last Wednesday night. The driver, Henri Charles Bois, of St. Bruno, is still in serious condition in hospital. Drive carefully this and every week-end. Don't add your car's picture to a newspaper morgue, your body to the city morgue.

Allied Attacks Checked Along Most Of Korean Front After Fourteen Hour Clash

Guards Fired As Prisoners Make Escape

Spelner, Ala., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Six of 21 convicts who made a daring break from Draper prison last night were back in custody today. An intensive search went on for the others.

As an aftermath, Prison Director J. M. McCullough announced the firing of two tower guards, who, he said, could have prevented the break if they had been alert.

Three of the escaped convicts were captured at Selma, Ala., within a few hours after their escape. Two others were run down by dogs. Another was taken off a train near the prison.

Those picked up at Selma were Robert Cottrell, serving a two-year forgery term, Donald Phillips and Neal Michelson.

Warden B. R. Reeves said the ringleader was Frank Green, a convicted murderer, who grabbed the guard at the front inside gate and overpowered him. Green was serving a life term.

Green had asked the guard to let him put some papers in the warden's desk outside the gate, Reeves said.

Reeves said Michelson helped Green take the keys from the guard, W. C. White, who was beaten until he was unconscious.

They ransacked the prison arsenal, then rounded up five other guards and locked them in an office together with two prisoners, Reeves added.

After opening cell doors along the main corridor, they sped off in two prison cars.

Others captured were Alton R. Dabney, serving a 20-year term for assault, and Herman McLaughlin, given two years for grand larceny. They were run down by prison dogs at Porter Creek, about two miles south of Draper.

Earlier railroad detectives had taken Gene Little off a train five miles north of here.

Among those still missing was one of Alabama's most notorious convicts, 33-year-old Leo Self, who had four previous escapes in his record. He was serving a 20-year robbery sentence.

By JOHN RANDOLPH

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 15.—(AP)—United States Marines captured one hill and bloodily repulsed a communist attack on another newly-won height in Eastern Korea Friday, but allied regiments on the Marines' left flank were stopped cold.

The fierce fighting—some involving battles lasting up to 14 hours—raged at points along an 80-mile front extending from Kumsong in Central Korea to the east coast.

In the west, where the allies were on the alert for an expected offensive, planes and artillery knocked out three of eight communist tanks spotted 35 miles north of Seoul.

Last night was quiet in the west despite a full moon, the type of clear weather favored by the Reds for massed manpower assaults.

Northeast of the "punch bowl"—20 miles north of the 38th parallel in Eastern Korea—elements of the U.S. 1st Marine Division seized one wooded height and beat off a determined Red counter-attack against another. Remnants of a Red battalion were cleared from a third hill in the area.

Alled regiments north and northeast of Yangju still were denied a hill mass which they have been assaulting for four days. Yangju is seven miles north of the parallel and 14 miles south of the punch bowl.

Late Friday, the allies had to fall back after attacking the hill mass for 14 hours. Nearby, other allied elements were equally unsuccessful after a fight which began at 7 a.m. Friday and lasted until 8 p.m.

In the same general area, Reds fighting from bunkers defended a high ridge against a five-hour attack.

On the east coast, west of Kangsong, South Korean infantry tackled a communist regiment on a high mountain throughout Friday, but had to withdraw after failing to break through the enemy's bunker defence.

Turks and Ethiopians fighting in the eastern sector beat off Red attacks ranging up to company strength.

Some allied attacks were pressed far into Friday night by the light of plane flares.

Far East air force planes flew 830 sorties Friday. Carrier-based planes killed at least 50 Reds in a front-line strike which the navy called one of the most effective of the war.

Friday night, 29 B-29s delivered heavy attacks on two key railroad marshalling yards in North Korea. One was at Masung, across the Changan river from Sinanju, the other at Hyopung, south of Sinanju.

London, Sept. 15.—(CP)—Rain and low ceiling today forced cancellation of a fly-past designed to celebrate the R.A.F.'s victory in the Battle of Britain.

Nearly 300 planes—including 12 Vampire jet fighters of Canada's Red Indian Squadron—stationed at Oadham, Hampshire—were to have taken part in the 11th anniversary celebration.

Thirty-two United States jet fighters and planes of the R.A.F. and royal navy had also been scheduled to take part in a mass swoop over London.

Flt.-Lt. Fred Evans of Ottawa and Saint John, N.B., recognized as one of Canada's crack aerobatic fliers, was scheduled to lead the Canadian formation. He had planned to give a demonstration of solo aerobatics.

Broader Divorce Law Is Opposed

Toronto, Sept. 14.—(CP)—The Canadian Bar Association yesterday wound up its 33rd annual meeting with a stormy discussion of divorce.

A resolution proposing sweeping extension of the grounds for divorce to include desertion, cruelty and incurable insanity was defeated by five votes.

The lawyers voted 69 to 64 against broadening Canada's 100-year-old divorce laws, which now admit adultery as the only ground for severance of marriage ties.

Abolition of the death penalty for rape also was advocated.

Submitted by British Columbia delegates, the divorce resolution urged that provinces be given the power to dissolve marriage on three additional grounds:

- (1) Desertion without cause for at least three years; (2) cruelty and (3) incurable insanity requiring care and treatment for five years.

Earlier this week, the Association passed a resolution asking for a crown commission investigation into provincial courts in an attempt to remedy delays and lessen the cost of litigation.

It also recommended equal time off for good behavior in penitentiaries and provincial jails. Present laws provide a maximum of about two months more time off for good behavior on two-year penitentiary terms than for two-year

Big Three Powers Agree To German Peace Treaty

By JOHN SCALI
Washington, Sept. 15.—(AP)—The western big three powers agreed yesterday to go ahead "as rapidly as possible" with a separate peace contract with western Germany aimed at bringing it into the anti-communist defence line-up.

At the same time, the three—Britain, United States and France—sought to reassure the Russian bloc this and other moves are "purely defensive" and not aggressive in character.

The move to scrap most German occupation controls came out of a five-day conference on cold war problems.

The three governments were represented by State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States, Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison of Britain and Foreign Minister Schuman of France, along with nearly 100 aides.

Two joint communications issued afterward kept the door open for new talks with the Russians to settle the present east-west tensions.

The forthcoming November United Nations assembly sessions in Paris, they said, significantly will offer a "real opportunity for contacts and exchanges of views."

In offering the west German republic a limited partnership deal, the three ministers stressed allied troops will remain in the divided country "until a peace settlement with a unified Germany becomes possible."

Flt.-Lt. Fred Evans of Ottawa and Saint John, N.B., recognized as one of Canada's crack aerobatic fliers, was scheduled to lead the Canadian formation. He had planned to give a demonstration of solo aerobatics.

A top-ranking western diplomat expressed the hope the "peace contract" would lead to German military units for a proposed European army some time early in 1952.

Franchot Tone Knocked Out In Brawl

Hollywood, Sept. 15.—(AP)—A movieland love triangle erupted in fistfuffs yesterday and the pummeling hands of actor Tom Neal sent Franchot Tone to the hospital with a brain concussion and broken nose.

The fight scene was outside the home of Barbara Payton, the object of all the ardor.

While Barbara screamed, Neal, approximately ten years Tone's junior, proceeded to lay Tone horizontal.

The 46-year-old Tone was unconscious for some time, all witnesses to the early morning scrap agreed. Surgery was performed on his broken nose at California Hospital yesterday. His physician, Dr. Lee E. Siegel, said Tone might be in hospital several days.

Neal gave this version of the big bust-up:

"This thing's been brewing for a long time. First, Barbara was going to marry Tone, then she was going to marry me. We had already taken our blood tests and were to have had the ceremony performed in San Francisco tomorrow."

"The first thing I knew of any change in plans was when Barbara went out yesterday afternoon with Tone. Last night she went out with him again and they didn't get back until about 1:15 a.m. I was waiting at Barbara's place with my friend, Jimmy Cross, and some other people."

"Tone ordered me out of the house. He then invited me out on the lawn. I told him 'I'm a younger man than you, and I don't want to get into a fight with you. Furthermore, you're very foolish to get into trouble when you have your child custody case coming up.'"

"Tone replied, 'Well, that's the way with life. When you get bad publicity you just have to take it.'"

"Whereupon he swung on me. I ducked the punch and then hit him very hard, knocking him about ten feet. Then I hit him three or four more times. He went out cold."

"At this point Barbara came screaming at me and I pushed her aside. I saw them carry Tone into the house, all bloody, and still unconscious. Then I left."

"As to the marriage plans—Neal said: 'I guess that's all off.'"

Royal Couple To Greet Canadians

London, Sept. 15.—(Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, who leave for their tour of Canada Sept. 25, will do their best to satisfy the thousands of Canadians who wish to see them, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said today.

Two human beings could not visit every town in Canada in a four-week tour, he said, but added: "During the hours of daylight they will probably do their best to appear in the observation car at the rear of their train to see crowds which are likely to gather at the stations on their route across the Dominion."

Asked to comment on a report that Princess Elizabeth may alter her program to suit the spokesman said: "Neither the Princess nor the Duke of Edinburgh can interfere with the tour arrangements."

expressed the hope the "peace contract" would lead to German military units for a proposed European army some time early in 1952.

Summing up their future policy toward the defeated enemy nation, a three-power declaration said:

"The three foreign ministers declared that their governments aimed at the inclusion of a democratic Germany, on the basis of equality, in a continental European community."

"The new contract, they said, will 'transform completely' the western relationship with western Germany, giving it full control of foreign policy, and trade except in these special circumstances:

1. Protection of all defence forces in the country.
2. Problem affecting Berlin.
3. A full-fed full-fed peace settlement and any negotiations involving unification of the eastern and western zones.

IN KLONDIKE ADVENTURE! Margaret Field braves adventure trails with action star Kirby Grant in "Yukon Manhunt", with Chinook, the Wonder Dog with this new action drama for tomorrow until Tuesday at the New Premier Theatre. Also "Sword In The Desert", starring Dana Andrews, Marta Toren, Stephen McNally.

Rounseville was a convincing Hoffman, both in voice and appearance while magnificent costumes and coloring completed the high standard of the production.

Menotti's "The Medium," starring Marie Powers, was also well done, but the music did not appeal to us as much as Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman." The story is an interesting one of a spiritualist whose mind becomes unbalanced to the point where she commits murder, trying to run away from the fear which causes her to believe that the fake seances she has held to dupe a gullible public, are perhaps not fake after all and that God has turned against her for her wickedness.

Miss Powers gives a strong portrayal and 15-year-old Maria Albergotti as her daughter, Monica, reveals a beautiful, flexible voice and natural acting ability. She is to be seen shortly in a movie with Bing Crosby.

For those who enjoy musical comedy, "Two on the Aisle," starring Bert Lahr and Dolores Gray provides an amusing evening. Mr. Lahr is of course, a veteran of the stage and movies, and therefore makes the most of every gag. He is extremely funny and the show features some good take-offs on the Kefauver investigation, radio sportscasters and commercials, as by the tunes however, and did not well as the usual beautiful girls.

We were not impressed greatly by any of them remaining with us as did those in "South Pacific" and "Kiss me Kate."

Mr. W. L. Smith is spending some time with his daughter, Mrs. G. L. Bockus.

Callers of Mrs. H. T. Smith were Miss Jessie Blackwood and Mrs. C. O. Jones, of Bedford.

The funeral of Mr. Chancey Jones was held in the United Church on Saturday afternoon with Rev. F. Duncan officiating.

It'll be "Senior Miss," not "Junior Miss," from now on for zippy, 20-year-old Barbara Whiting. Barbara was radio's Junior Miss, playing a 15-year-old, until the show was cancelled because of TV inroads. Beaming about her lost job beside the Last Frontier Hotel pool in Las Vegas, Barbara told me:

"I'm ducking all kid roles. I want to grow up. There must be a role for a 20-year-old SOMEWHERE."

It's a gasp, but big resort hotels unable to receive TV programs are complaining of the worst summer season in history. The seersucker vacationers have been flocking to the hostels displaying the sign of the television aerial, by cracky.

TV has given Apple Valley Inn, the luxury oasis where movie kings and queens duke it up, its biggest season.

"We can get six channels here," manager H. L. "Hank" Hassinger boasted when I checked with him. "When people say they want to get away from it all, they don't necessarily mean TV."

Unkissed Queen
The only movie queen who hasn't pressed her lips against a profile boy's let it slip today that she'll go on being a kissless star. I'm referring to Judy Canova, who has been tagged "Queen of the Cowgirls" by her Republic bosses. (No, Myrtle, Dale Evans is queen of the West.)

"I'm not the type," Judy wailed on the "Oklahoma Annie" set. "Besides, the kids wouldn't like it. They'd say what kinda Queen of the Cowgirls is she supposed to be?"

Varied Agenda Faces Local Council At Bi-Monthly Session On Tuesday

Council procedure, horse meat sales and—perhaps—autobus service will engage the attention of the City Fathers when they hold their regular session Tuesday evening.

At the last session of the Council, formal notice was given of a by-law to amend the procedure of the meetings to provide that in the future the regular sessions would be held on the first and third Mondays of each month instead of on the first and third Tuesdays. In all probability this will be given all three readings next week and be effective for the October session which would be held Monday, October 1.

Monday was traditionally the night for Council sessions but four years ago, in an effort to avoid late starting, the meetings were deferred until Tuesday with Monday being reserved for committee sessions. This has proved none too effective in achieving the desired end, with sessions still being one or more hours late in starting. So recently a new experiment has been undertaken—calling the committee sessions for five o'clock and having the Aldermen sit right through. This has been more satisfactory and the Aldermen have decided to revert to Monday evening sessions.

It is also expected that formal notice will be given of a by-law to regulate the sale of horse meat in stores of the city. The exact terms of the by-law will not be revealed until the measure comes up for adoption at the October 1 gathering.

The question of the renewal of the franchise of the Sherbrooke City Transit Company, which expires at the end of this year, is still before the Aldermen. The company has indicated it wishes certain changes in the conditions to meet the rising operating costs and both parties are working on some compromise agreement designed to guarantee the citizens an adequate service and if possible avoid an increase in fares.

Naturally this presents major difficulties and while the terms of the proposed contract may be announced Tuesday night, this is not considered very probable.

12-Year-Old Boy Lauds V.O.N. Work

Have you ever been sick in bed with everybody out and just an old magazine for company? Your disposition seems worse when your cough becomes hoarse and your head threatens to split.

Then you hear the door open, and in comes a lady in a blue uniform. She explains that she is a nurse, and that your mother has asked her to visit you.

She has a black bag which she opens. She puts on an apron and rolls up her sleeves. You feel much better now, just having someone to talk to.

She comes to you with a thermometer and takes your temperature. Then a bed-bath—my first experience—which really makes me more comfortable. After leaving a list of instructions for my mother, she takes her leave.

If this or a similar experience has happened to you, you must know the value of this wonderful organization, the Victorian Order of Nurses.

The above appreciation of the V.O.N. was written by a 12-year-old boy. Such written, or spoken, tributes often are the only recompense the V.O.N. receives for its work. That is why it has to appeal to the public for financial support, as it is doing in Sherbrooke at the moment.

Legal And Cheap, Horsemeat Is Here To Buy If You Like It

Horse meat has made its appearance in Sherbrooke legally.

One of the local meat markets started sale of the meat on Thursday of this week and reports that it is doing a flourishing business. When its prices are compared with beef it is not surprising!

The owner of the store claims there is no need to shudder at the thought of eating horse meat. In fact he is willing to bet his customers will not be able to distinguish it from beef.

Existing high prices have forced the butcher to turn to the horse, he said, as he cannot afford to take a proper percentage of profit in selling beef today, nor can the average family afford to pay for it.

The sale of horse meat is allowed by the Federal Government as long as it is advertised and sold as such. Horses are brought in from the Canadian West and slaughtered at Gently, after which they must pass Federal and Municipal inspection, before being sold to local consumers.

Following is a comparison of prices:

Beef	Horse
Round Steak	$1.18 63 cents

Filet Mignon	$1.60	89 cents
Boneless T-Bone	$1.25	73 cents
Chuck Roast	79 cents	43 cents
Boneless
Shoulder	$1.10	69 cents
Sirloin	$1.40	79 cents
Ground Steak	75 cents	43 cents
Cubed Steak	$1.18	63 cents

It is common knowledge that many people have for the past few years been eating horse meat without knowing it, and worse still, at beef prices. However, it is also known that the horse is one of the cleanest of animals, and consumers do not suffer any waste through fat, as they do in the purchase of beef.

The city council intends to introduce a by-law at Tuesday's regular session, regulating the sale of horse meat for human consumption, within the city limits.

While the city fathers have not the power to prevent its sale, they can impose certain conditions.

In the meantime, those citizens who are intrigued by the prices or are just ordinarily curious, are planning to serve horse meat to their families in the near future, to see if they can distinguish it from beef.

I will take a few lines to give you my idea of the guest speaker, Bill Boss, Canadian Press war correspondent. Two words strike my mind in expressing what he was like, "Great and Interesting."

Great, because with all his fame as a correspondent he is one of the most natural people you can meet. He is the type of chap that you cannot help but like from the first minute that you meet him.

Scouts' Apple Day Set For Sept. 28, 29

Boy Scout activities for the winter months are now getting into full swing with all the troops and packs starting their regular weekly meetings. There are five units in Sherbrooke, two in Lennoxville and one in each of the following places: Waterville, North Hatley, Cookshire, Sawyerville, East Angus, and Huntingville which come under the supervision of the local Association.

The fall activities opened with the ushering job at the Sherbrooke Fair at which from 40 to 60 scouts and cubs were on hand afternoons and evenings under the leadership of the President of the Local Association, Maurice Parsons who gave a week of his summer vacation to carry this out.

The next big event in the scouts activities is Apple Day which this year is to be held on Friday and Saturday, September 28th and 29th.

The proceeds of the sales of apples goes to the individual Troops and Packs which take part. Each troop and pack receives an amount in proportion to the amount of their sales bear to the total sale. These funds provide them with the wherewithal to run their unit throughout the winter.

There is a prize given for the Scout and Cub making the highest sales during Apple Day which makes an incentive for each boy to do his best.

Parents and friends of Scouts and Cubs and the general public should remember that the boys programmes for the winter months are governed by the success of the Apple Day when they are approached by the boys to buy an apple on Apple Day.

his story. Everyone expected to hear the entire speech on the fighting in Korea, but Bill worked around the war news by giving us a full insight into the people of Korea, the kind of country it is, the way the Koreans live—in other words he gave us a picturesque view of Korea and the conditions our troops are facing over there.

We certainly enjoyed Bill's talk. And we hope he will be able to return to the Branch for an encore. On behalf of the Branch, Bill, we wish you God speed and a speedy return home with the end of hostilities in Korea.

Preparations are still being worked out for the Canadian Legion Command Revue. It will be held at the Bishop's University gym, through the kindness of the Principal, Dr. A. B. Jewitt, and his date will be towards the end of October. This Revue is supposed to consist of part of the army and navy show and the Etonettes.

I believe, also, that some of the Leslie Bell singers are also on this show and from the ovation they received in Granby it seems to be a show that we should not miss. More details will appear in later logs.

The Ladies Auxiliary held a successful party last Saturday at the branch and everyone had a good time. The Auxiliary still has the raffle going on, so everyone should buy a couple of tickets and help the ladies in their effort.

The Stanstead celebration is still going on. I hope to have more details on what is happening later. Be at the meeting Monday so we will know if we need a bus or not and I will have the full program to read out at our next meeting.

The invitation is still open to our branch from the Sherbrooke Fusiliers Association to join them in their church parade on Oct. 14. Keep this Sunday open.

The Armistice banquet is still up in the air as nothing definite

More than 25 years have elapsed since Miss Sandell first went to Korea as a nurse, a period of service which has been broken only by infrequent leaves in Canada. Her latest leave of absence was necessitated when Seoul was evacuated June, 1950, and she returned to Canada in November of that year.

Among her speaking engagements in the Eastern Townships was one to the Magog Lions Club. The Magog Lions will be remembering Miss Sandell and her charges this Christmas when they send Christmas treats for the patients in her hospital.

Before I was married I am afraid I didn't realize the importance of regular saving. I had a vague idea I'd be lucky in real estate or some other investment.

After we were married I woke up to the fact that a man with my responsibilities must keep an eye on the future.

I was making good money but we were spending all I made until I got the Mutual Life policy.

TAXES AND THE COST OF LIVING

One reason for the sharp increase in living costs that receives little appreciation on the part of the public is the ever-growing burden of taxation. It is not always realized that in measuring prices for the cost-of-living index, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics records the prices of goods as they are sold. This means that excise taxes, which are included in the prices, show up in the index. Sales taxes in each province are also added to the index by the Bureau. When excise and provincial taxes are raised, the index reflects these tax increases and rises accordingly.

Every time we ask the Government for increased services we are putting pressure on Government to increase taxation which, inevitably, finds its way into the cost of goods and is reflected in a higher Cost-of-Living Index. And so the spiral climbs ever upward.

Rene Perrault, a member of the Executive Council of The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, in a recent radio broadcast pointed out that in the United States, federal and state taxes on automobiles amounted to about one-seventh of Canadian taxes. "A month ago," said Mr. Perrault, "I saw the complete figures of similar cars purchased in St. Stephens, N.B., and Calais, Maine. The tax amounts were $96 in Calais and $676 in St. Stephens."

Another factor entering into the relatively higher cost of living is our increased standard of living and our demand for improved consumer goods and services. We can well remember the days when it was common practice to bring a jug to the corner store to be filled with milk. Today we insist on our milk being pasteurized, homogenized, and delivered to our door in bottles which have been sterilized before filling. We insist on our bread being double-wrapped in wax paper and even being sliced. We demand better lighting in our cities, more automatic traffic signals, more parks with playground facilities, more municipal swimming pools, school buildings equipped with gymnasiums, swimming pools, auditoria and even public address and inter-class communication systems. There would be a great outcry if our children had to walk more than two or three blocks to and from school, every home must have at least one radio, and our meats, vegetables, and other foodstuffs must be pre-packaged for individual purchase and wrapped in gleaming cellophane. The fact that an increasing number of soft drinks are purchased at .07 per six ounce bottle (as compared to milk at .19 per 40 ounces in Montreal), that rural electrification is increasing, that liquor sales are increasing, that tobacco sales have been but slightly affected by the recently increased rate of taxation — all these things point to an upward change in our standard of living.

All of these things mentioned above cost money. Services provided by Government must be paid for by taxes. Refinements in methods of distribution must be paid for by the consumer. They all add up to relatively higher prices.

Let us bear some of these things in mind when we look at our rising "Cost-of-Living" Index.

THE V.O.N. AND THE COMMUNITY

It is doubtful if any organization comes in closer contact with the people of the community than the Victorian Order of Nurses, whose annual campaign for funds is now under way.

During the course of the year, the four nurses of the Sherbrooke - Lennoxville branch make slightly over 8,500 visits to the homes of local citizens where they perform a wide variety of nursing service. Over one-half of these are free and during 1950 only 444 were paid for at the full rate of $1.50, a rate which barely covers the average cost of $1.40 experienced in 1950.

In view of the high number of non-paying services, it is obvious that the organization cannot function except with the support of the public, the municipal grants being far from sufficient to bridge the gap between revenues and expenditures, a gap that is growing owing to the well-merited increase in salaries given the nurses and the general rise in costs.

In its appeal to subscribers of former years, the Victorian Order is asking them to maintain and even increase their habitual contributions and it also appealing for new donations to help meet the $500 increase in operating costs occasioned by the salary increases.

The organization is deserving of the full support of every class of Sherbrooke citizens.

JAPANESE PEACE TREATY WON'T SOLVE HER ECONOMIC PROBLEMS

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

San Francisco—(NEA)—Anyone who imagines everything in the Far East is going to be in good shape because the Japanese peace treaty has been signed has another thought coming. If not the worst, there is at least plenty of bad yet to come.

Everything will have to go on as usual till the treaty is ratified by the governments of the countries whose foreign ministers signed it. In the case of the United States, that means the treaty has to be ratified by the U.S. Senate.

There is little chance the Senate will get around to hearings and ratifications before the scheduled Oct. 1 adjournment. That means the matter will be held over as unfinished business for the new session convening in January 1952.

There is a provision in the treaty that it must be ratified within nine months by a majority of the signers. That would put the date off till July, 1952. If not ratified by a majority then, individual countries may separately ratify this or any other treaty suitable to the Japs.

Even if the San Francisco conference had blown wide open, the United States would probably have made a separate peace with Japan. The U.S. had already begun to relieve Japan of some responsibilities as a defeated enemy and an occupied country.

The purpose of this was to help prepare Japan to stand on its own feet, economically. For several years, maybe longer, this is going to be nip and tuck.

HUGE ECONOMIC PROGRAM

American aid to Japan was ended last June 30. In the approximately five years since the end of the war, this aid has amounted to nearly $2 billion. It was begun as a relief program.

Later it was turned to industrial rehabilitation and the sending of Japanese officials, businessmen and students to the United States for education in democracy.

On top of this, considerable indirect aid accrued to the Japanese. U.S. armies of occupation stationed in Japan were paid there and spent a lot of money in that country. There are no reliable data on how much this amounted to.

Costs of the military occupation were borne by the Japanese government. This was a considerable drain on the Japanese economy.

This has cost the Japanese government over $300 million a year, or between $1.5 billion and $2 billion since the end of the war. Effective last Aug. 2, the U.S. cut this bill in half.

The Japanese have made a pretty good thing out of the Korean war. Japan's index of industrial production has risen to 42 per cent above the pre-war 1932-36 level.

ECONOMY BOLSTERED BY WAR

How much the Korea war has helped Japan's economy is shown by the export and import figures. In June, 1950, Japan's exports were valued at $96 million. A year later they were $120 million. Imports were $73 million in 1950. A year later they were $185 million.

While these figures show an unfavorable trade balance, Japanese foreign trade for the calendar year 1951 is expected to balance off at about $1.9 billion. Imports of this volume will be offset by commercial exports of $1.5 billion plus invisible receipts of $250 million.

If Japan can maintain these levels of trade, she can at least pay her own way and get by without outside economic aid. If U.S. troops are withdrawn, the story will be much different.

Where the rub comes is that Japan's whole trade pattern has to be readjusted. Before the war, Japan sold silk to the U.S. and bought cotton. Now the silk trade is pretty well shot by synthetics. But Japan still needs cotton.

Before the war, Japan got iron ore and coking coal from China and Manchuria. Those sources of supply are now cut off. Japan will have to buy from Canada or the U.S. Costs will be higher and dollar exchange will be required to make payments.

The problem this presents is the same as the European trade problem. The United States must increase its imports from Japan, or else figure on some kind of an economic aid program. The peace treaty will merely make Japan a new economic frontier. Japan can't just be turned loose if it's going down the economic drain.

PRESS COMMENTS

SETBACK FOR EVA STARTS SPECULATION

Edmonton Journal

Eva Peron, of Argentina, is probably the most powerful woman in the world today, but her career has just suffered a rather mysterious setback. Two weeks ago, a vast mass meeting of the Peronista party in Buenos Aires nominated her as its candidate for vice-president in next November's election, the ticket being headed, of course, by her husband, President Peron. She seemed on her way to the highest elected office ever held by a woman anywhere.

Then suddenly a few days ago, Eva went on the air and announced that she wasn't a candidate after all!

It's a woman's privilege to change her mind, but this particular change has caused a great deal of speculation. Eva herself gave no reason for her renunciation. However, the New York Times correspondent reports that strong opposition to the nomination had developed in various quarters. The idea of having a woman in high public office was too much of a break with Spanish tradition. The army was particularly horrified over the possibility that, if anything happened to Peron, it would find itself with a commander-in-chief in skirts.

Even the Peronists themselves were apparently not too enthusiastic about the idea. The mass meeting which nominated Eva was attended by possibly 300,000 people—a monstrous crowd by normal standards. However, the government had expected and arranged for at least 2,000,000. The faithful all over the country had been offered free transportation, meals and lodging if they came to Buenos Aires for the occasion. By these ambitious standards, the rally was a failure, which is said to have disappointed and worried Peron. His advisers presumably persuaded him that because of public feeling it would be dangerous to try the experiment of a woman vice-president.

This check to the ambitions of "Evita" suggests that the Peron regime may not be as strong as it has seemed for the last six years—not strong enough, anyway, to trample on the prejudices of its subjects.

Eggs And Brains

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

Down by the sea fish are associated with brains. Maritimers will point with pride to the large number of professional people they have given to Canadian life and the many exported to the United States. When, however, you contact the farming districts the accent is on eggs with the formula—eggs and brains.

Not long ago I heard a commercial traveller wish that "our breakfast nooks and restaurants could furnish us at the beginning of each day with both eggs and brains—with that which would invigorate the depleted body and that would illuminate the darkened mind.

Here evidently was one who was endeavoring to see life steadily and in totality, fully aware that in addition to the physical there were intellectual, moral and spiritual aspects. Our age unfortunately accents the physical with a pretty face, an attractive form valued more highly than qualities of the mind and spirit.

Your land and my land desperately needs right away those who think through their problems in the spirit of a victor. We need men and women of poise and power—these remake humanity and the earth. Each is lord of his event—each will stand like some tall cliff.

As I view the Canadian scene, at times I am forced to conclude that we are on our way to become a nation of ears, due to the radio and soon of eyes when television arrives. But what of brains? How many people think? Are we not intellectually lazy in allowing others to do our thinking for us? Yes, I fear we are, and remain content with quoting the latest commentator, the latest book, as we adopt a certain sameness of speech and thought which is almost automatic. We are producing a mass mind stereotyped as to tastes and standards, operating on snap judgments and arriving at verdicts without hearing all the evidence. Advertising appeals, moronic, pernicious, vulgarizing are bound to have an evil influence on Canadian manners and morals.

THINK WITHOUT CONFUSION CLEARLY

Henry Van Dyke put down as the first requisite of a successful and rounded life. "To think without confusion clearly." Here is a challenge for you to adventure on the sea of thought. Our forefathers were pioneers on this sea. They had neither newspapers nor radios to formulate their thinking. They had to think through their own problems. And life taught them to weigh and consider wisely the facts placed before them before they made their decision. There was no turning back. Forward they must go!

Beware lest any in 1951 should fail to remember that no one can be a master of arts until he has mastered the art of thinking.

OUR TEACHERS—GOD BLESS THEM!

Naturally, at this time of the year, with the schools, colleges and universities re-opening, we think of education and those who teach. Let us, however, have to be forced to think realistically and shamefully about certain trends both affecting youth both at home and across the border. For this state we must assume responsibility, for any nation that spends more on liquor, cigarettes and gambling than on education must reap what they have sown. Our example has not been a good one. Crooked thinking has been the vogue, with the slogan, "What does it matter?" Eat, drink and be merry. Who cares about tomorrow. Today only matters. That's the harvest which pay athletes and boxers more than scientists.

Our teachers I salute! They are doing the Master's work. Five days a week they work with the minds of our future Canadians, seeking to lead them forth on the sea of thought in the spirit of adventure. For this they too often receive ingratitude, misunderstanding, criticism, heartaches. In fact they are miserably underpaid. Those who clean our streets receive more compensation than those to whom we entrust the minds of our children. Our actors and funny men get more in a week than school teachers in a year.

But still our teachers carry on, believing that their thoughts implanted in the minds of youth shall a world's famine feed. (2 Cor. 4:2). Each word they hope will issue in a fruitful seed. For their lives—great and noble creeds—we thank God. God bless all those who teach!

O CANADA!

Yet despite the splendid role our teachers are playing, supplementing the work of both the home and the Church, there is much to be desired in our national life which claims to be Christian. To cite but one instance: In a time when civilization is being shaken to the foundations, the voice to which more ears were tuned on Sunday night than to all the prophets and preachers on the continent was the voice of a wooden dummy. Surely here is a faulty sense of spiritual values.

O Canada! Your founders, men of faith, hope and love, were followers and heralds of Christ. The King who successfully laid Christian foundations and expects us to build wisely thereon. "Seek ye first God," (Matt. 6:33) they bid us, reminding us that we cannot live by bread alone. We dare you to dedicate your brain to the glory of God and the good of men thy brethren and go forth, by faith, inspired by hope, and motivated by love, consecrated by truth, honor, self-command, possessing loyal hearts, constant minds and the courage to be true, is the challenge.

CARELESS PLAYING AIDS OPPONENTS

East was dealt so many low cards in today's hand that he gave up hope. He was sure the opponents would get to a game—perhaps a slam, and he wasn't really surprised when they eventually bid six spades. Instead of looking for a chance to set the contract, East played listlessly and carelessly. One slip was enough to let South make the contract.

West opened the king of clubs, and dummy won with the ace. Declarer hopefully tried two rounds of trumps, since the slam would be unbeatable if all the trumps could be drawn in two rounds. When it became apparent that West had a third trump, South had something to worry about. West had already bid clubs and supported hearts. He was obviously short in diamonds.

This all flashed through declarer's mind very quickly. Without stopping for breath, he continued with four more rounds of trumps. On one of these East casually threw a low diamond from his "worthless" five-card holding. That set up South's last diamond and assured the slam contract.

East's play was very ill-advised, to be sure. The bidding should have told him that his diamonds were more precious than gold or silver. It was clear that West and dummy had the clubs between them and that West and East had complete control of the hearts. If South had nothing much in hearts and nothing much in clubs, why had he bid so vigorously? Obviously, he had a spade-diamond two-suiter. Equally obvious, the defender who held diamonds had to keep them no matter what else he parted with.

CARD SENSE

The bidding has been: North—East South West 1 Diamond—Pass 1 Spade Pass 2 Diamonds Pass 7. Hearts J-4, Diamonds Q-3-2, Clubs K-J-10-4. What do you do? A—Bid three clubs. Your hand is strong enough to give you some sound reason to hope for game. You can afford a second response at the level of three. You may still stay out of game, but this bid of yours suggests that you have a very good hand and urges your

The Record Short Story

Twenty Demerits

By EDMUND E. PUGSLEY

All the way up over the pass on Number Eight, young Bunny Blaine had been thinking more about Superintendent Kimball than about the twenty demerit marks against his service record on the railroad. Joe Anderson, the engineer, had just hinted that the new trainmaster was making eyes at the superintendent's job. Life for Bunny on the railroad would be unthinkable without the man who had helped him so much when everyone else had been against him.

Down near the valley bottom where Number Eight had a meet over with the General Manager's special at Columbine, Bunny went over to stand behind the engineer.

"You don't really think a man like McGraw would get Mister Kimball's place, do you Joe?" he asked.

Joe pulled in his head from peering through the thick snow for the switch light long enough to poke Bunny in the middle. "I've seen funnier things happen on this same railroad, Ben. Better take a tip and try to get along with McGraw. He got his promotion from the head office, and he can get more the same way, remember. If he did, your pull with old Herb Kimball wouldn't amount to a snowball in your firebox."

"Pull?" Bunny blazed. "How come all you fellows think I've got a pull? Mister Kimball is just playing square, that's all." "Sure," Joe laughed. "That's how a bird like McGraw gets his knife in. Making out to the head office that Kimball is getting old and soft and due for retirement. And you can figure that's just what the General is doing away out here right now in midwinter. Looking for a scalp to blame all this snow-fighting expense on."

Bunny sighed and went back to his window. It was like that, he didn't think he wanted to stay long enough for Trainmaster McGraw to add enough to his twenty demerits to fire him. But he sure liked to do something for Mister Kimball before he left. They were slowed down to a walk when Benny caught the green glint of the switch light at Columbine's west switch. Bunny didn't wait for the brakeman to come, but he leaped down into the deep snow and commenced to clear the switch for opening, thinking all the time that it was pretty small business making a passenger train take the siding for company official train.

He worked fast and soon had the switch over, giving Joe a signal to come ahead. Then, inside, he found two red fuses and stripped the top off, rubbing it into a spluttering red glow ready for instant action. He stood in the cab gateway watching and listening for the special coming down the main. Joe was doing his best to keep the train rolling smartly into clear, looking anxiously across at Bunny now and then. But the snow was deep and his speed slow.

Bunny didn't need to ask Joe why he looked so worried. He knew the big engineer was thinking about Dan Millarky on the special, wondering how he'd ever seen that east switch light looking through his glasses with this snow pelting him and filling his old eyes and shutting off the world right there an arm's length from his window.

They'd got the engine into clear but back there behind were a dozen coaches full of warm, soft humanity, worrying at all about the storm nor the fight going on.

With one motion he ripped off the covering and snapped the lighter against the sulphured end. As it spluttered into a red glow, he caught the first glint of Dan's headlight. And then, with the coming light of the fuses and headlight he saw he was all but trapped.

He dug desperately at the hard crusted snow wall to make room for his body while he swung the fuse at arm's length across the path of the headlight. Then, with the roar of the exhaust in his ears, he flattened his body against the wall, holding only his signal arm out to the last.

He felt the hot blast of steam from the cylinder and thought with relief that he was clear, but still, in that flash, he remembered Dan had not yet shut off. With one last attempt, he whirled the fuse straight up where the cab should have been, and then something hit him and he was falling down a mountain into a deep sleep. But as he took off he heard the satisfying pair of whistle blasts answering his signal and then the crash of airbrakes in emergency.

When Bunny toiled back up out of that black oblivion he saw a lot of queer things. First there were bandages, starting from his nose and going right on down to his toes. There was one over his left eye, too. But he could squint through the other. He decided he was riding in a private car. He tried to move but there was a box car or something sitting on top of him.

Melchiorre Should Face Trial Says Jury

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 15. — (AP) — A grand jury decided yesterday that all-America basketball star Gene Melchiorre alone should face trial for the players' part in Bradley University's basketball scandal.

The grand jury indicated Melchiorre and six alleged fixers but did not indict three other former Bradley basketball players.

Melchiorre was indicted for failure to report a bribe for helping rig the Dec. 7, 1950, game in Peoria with Oregon State which Bradley won 77-74.

The other three players the jury ignored admitted sharing in a $4,000 payoff for holding down Bradley's victory margin in that game. The small victory margin permitted the gamblers to clean up.

They are James Kelly, Fred Schlichtman and Aaron Preece. Melchiorre, also under indictment on a similar charge in New York, faces, if convicted, 90 days to a year imprisonment and a fine of $100 to $1,000.

State's Attorney Michael A. Shore said conviction also would bar Melchiorre from participating in any type of sports event in Illinois in the future.

Also indicted were Nick (the Greek) Englis, 26, and his brother, Tony, 25; Jack (zip) West, 39; Eli Kaye, 29; Jack Rubenstein, 33, all of New York, and Joseph Benintende, 41, Kansas City hoodlum and reputed head of the gambling ring.

They are accused of bribery and attempted bribery of basketball players.

The four basketball players involved testified before the grand jury.

Robert Kavanaugh, counsel for Kelly and Schlichtman, said they requested the $1,000 they received be given to charity.

I.B.C. Is Fined By Commission

New York, Sept. 15. — (AP) — The State Athletic Commission today fined the International Boxing Club $5,000 for "padding" ringside rows for last Wednesday night's Randy Turpin-Ray Robinson middleweight title bout at the Polo Grounds.

The penalty was the maximum permitted by law, short of suspension or loss of licence, and was the heaviest ever assessed by the commission.

Chairman Eddie Egan said the I.B.C. violated the rules of the commission by both lettering and numbering four rows of ringside seats.

Commission rules say the rows must be numbered and not lettered. The I.B.C. listed one row as 4 and followed it with 4a. The same thing was done for rows 6, 8 and 10. Thus a ticket-holder with a seat listed for row 11 actually wound up in the 15th row.

Harry Markson, managing director of the I.B.C., said the additional four rows totalled about 1,000 seats. At $30 a ticket, that amounted to $30,000.

Each of the anchors aboard the British trans-Atlantic liner, Queen Mary, weighs 16 tons.

Fifth, Cuba, 663½ points, with a 597½ pounder caught Thursday. The score for the tuna yesterday was a broken leader and a broken line for two members of the Scandinavian team and two broken lines for members of the Chilean teams as strikes were held briefly before setting away.

For a brief time early yesterday it looked as though Scandinavia had put the match on ice when the Viking giant killer, Knud Kyvgard of Copenhagen, hooked a giant. But the big bluefin crashed and twisted with the power of a submarine and finally snapped the leader and got away.

Yesterday's second and biggest fish was caught by Capt. Tony Hulman, Indianapolis speedway chief, to put the United States team in the lead part in the musical "South Pacific," still playing to packed houses after more than two years on Broadway.

Martha is an old trouper—she started on the stage in grammar school plays—but she says it really isn't any easier playing in a long-run entertainment.

"It's harder to give a vivid performance day after day in a show you have done again and again than it is when frequent changes create new challenges," she said.

That doesn't mean she isn't glad to have the "South Pacific" lead as ensign Nellie Forbush—and her name in lights. The glamor and excitement of the long-run show puts sparks in her blue eyes.

Martha comes from Duval, Wash., 80 miles from Seattle. Her grandmother and her father both were singers. Her father went to work for a shipping company when his tenor did not make enough money and her grandmother started Martha singing.

By the time she got to college she had her own 15-minute radio show, over the Northwest Triangle network. Then along came a touring company of "Up in Central Park." She found herself in the chorus in November, 1946, and the tour wound up in New York in May, 1947.

There followed a couple of flop stage shows and some radio spots, but it was television that kept her going. Also there was a Rodgers and Hammerstein concert in the Yale Bowl in the summer of 1949. There she met Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein who wrote "South Pacific" and many other hit musicals.

"They have been wonderful to me ever since," she said. But she never played in the show until she came to New York to replace Mary Martin last June.

Years ago, she had dreams for opera, and says now she hopes some day to get back to "serious singing." The song hits she does in "South Pacific" may be fine entertainment but in her view it is not real singing.

"There is some good singing in the show," she says. "But I use what we call 'chest tones.' That's the way it was started and that's how it became a hit. But real singing is something else."

Youthful Singer Finds Star Role Test Of Talents

New York—(AP)—After years of quick-changing parts in radio, television, stage and night club plays, Martha Wright at 25 succeeded Mary Martin in the feminine lead part in the musical "South Pacific," still playing to packed houses after more than two years on Broadway.

IN MEMORIAM

WILSON — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, George Short Wilson, who left us so suddenly on September 16th, 1942.

Every year comes another anniversary. Of the day we lost our George, Time dulls the pain but always on this sacred day.

He seems to hover near. As if he knew we stood in need of comfort and of cheer.

We look upon his photograph, That face so young and gay, It changes not, as we must change, With every passing day.

We'll grow old and weary, Sometimes happy, sometimes sad, But he, beyond the reach of time, Will always be our darling lad.

Missed, loved and longed for always.
MOM AND DAD
JAY, HUGH, BUD AND FREDDIE.

CHRISTIE — In loving memory of our dear father, Allen A. Christie, who departed this life on September 15th, 1950.

Your memory to us is a keepsake, With which we will never part. Though God has you in His keeping, We have you in our heart.

Times have changed in many ways, But one thing changes never, Our memory of happy days, When we were all together, Ever remembered by his daughters and sons-in-law.
LILLIAN, EVA, FRED AND LEO DAINEAULT

LADD — In fond and loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Sarah J. who left us two years ago today.

Always remembered
MR. AND MRS. FAYLAND M. LADD
AND DAPHNE
MR. AND MRS. G. A. DOUGALL
AND DEBORAH

CHRISTIE — In loving memory of my dear husband, Allen A. Christie, who passed away one year ago, September 15th, 1950.

You oft times said I'll miss you, How true those words have proved, With many a lonely heartache And silent tears for you.

His loving wife,
ANN CHRISTIE

Waterloo Kiwanis Club Holds Well Attended Meeting

Waterloo, Sept. 15. — The Waterloo Kiwanis Club met at their weekly dinner in the Waterloo Hotel with a very good attendance of members present, and in addition, two guests, Mr. R. D. MacLay and Mr. K. Johnson both of Waterloo.

Two perfect attendance tabs were distributed. President Jack Buckland presented Kiwanian, Roger McKergow with his sixth year tab, and Immediate Past President, Mike Cardinal presented President, Jack Buckland with his one year tab. The Industrial Safety Rally was discussed. This Rally, sponsored by the Quebec Association for the Prevention of Industrial Accidents Inc., was held yesterday in the Waterloo High School where moving pictures were seen and short interesting talks delivered, and attendance prizes were presented.

Last night the employers banquet was held at the Waterloo Hotel, which managements and key men attended to take part in the discussion: "The Human Factor in Accident Prevention." Mr. T. H. Miller, Acting General Manager of the Quebec Association, led in this discussion. The Kiwanis Club was asked to boost this accident prevention rally as much as possible because it was announced by Vice-President, Moe Katz, that the Program Committee was working hard in order to bring to the members their best. "While the speaker is not the important part of a Kiwanis Meeting," the Vice-President stated, "it helps to have a good one. Your Program Committee is doing its very best to provide you with just this."

Past President Pete Gunter spoke briefly on Kiwanism, and he stated that it was not a big task for any member to boost Kiwanis by making his good deeds known to the club so credit could be attained. "People are always anxious to keep their light under a bushel," he stated. "Let us bring it out in the open and let people know Kiwanis in Waterloo is alive. We are performing good deeds every day, well, let us know about it, let everybody know about it. Kiwanis is marching along."

National Kids' Day is to be held on September 22, and this year it will take the form of a Field Day and Sports Day at the Waterloo Arena. Specialized classes of different events will be operated during the afternoon, with prizes, favors, and a host of other surprises for the kiddies. Kiwanian, Moe Katz is the chairman of this committee.

Treasurer Frank Allan gave the financial standing of the club, and while the standing is good, it became apparent, however, that some new ventures would have to be undertaken before too long in order to improve the bursary. It was announced by Kiwanian Mike Cardinal that another Chicken Shoot would be held in the very near future. One was held last year, but due to lack of advertising and lack of knowledge as to how one should be operated, it was a rather dismal affair, however, it is believed that this year one could be a most interesting event for all concerned. The date of this chicken shoot was not announced but it was believed that it would be held early in October.

Miss Bertha Parkinson has returned home from two weeks' vacation spent with her sister, Mrs. I. Gunderson, in Toronto. While there Miss Parkinson attended the Toronto Fair and other places of interest.

The Busy Bee Christmas Club was entertained for the September meeting by Mrs. Clifford Burnell at her home on Main Street with a very good attendance. The afternoon was pleasantly spent with the members doing various kinds of handicraft. A buffet lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Otto Wolfe, of North Hatley. Mrs. Arthur Bell will be hostess for the October meeting.

Mrs. Otto Wolfe, of North Hatley, was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bell.

Then the annual concert was discussed by Kiwanian Roger McKergow, who stated that considerable material he had lined up for this event had either moved out of town since or left the club. His program had taken quite a beating, he said, but he felt that with the help of some of the members, this concert could be held successfully in the month of November. It was also announced that possibly next week we would receive a report from the Secretary of the O.Q.M. District Convention, being held at Murray Bay, at which the Secretary is the official delegate of the Waterloo Club.

The guest speaker, Mr. Filmore Saddle, who was to have spoken at the regular meeting on Tuesday, was unavoidably delayed in his appearance, and had to cancel his visit at the last minute, but it is hoped that it can be arranged in the not too distant future, to have Mr. Saddle appear again at a Waterloo Kiwanis Club meeting. He spoke before the club two years ago in what was one of the better meetings the club has ever had.

When it was learned that Mr. Saddle could not be present, Jack Buckland, President, very creditably, turned the meeting into a "Booster Meeting" and a very successful one it was with one of the largest attendance in several months taking part.

Twenty Demerits

"Feeling better, Ben?" someone asked.

He tried his mouth experimentally. "Sure," he said. Then he saw the speaker. "Sure, Mister Kimball, I'm fine. This the General Manager's car?"

"No. Mine. You look pretty good—what I can see of you. We're going back on Number Seven. Want to get you to the hospital for X-rays?"

Bunny suddenly remembered something then. "What about that meet at Columbe? Did I get the Special Stopped... in time?"

The superintendent nodded. "Yes, Ben. Everything's all right, but you."

Bunny blinked his good eye. "I'll be okay... Sure glad I did something right for once." He mumbled. "For a minute I didn't think I was going to make it, with old Dan lurching along so fast through that snow..."

"That wasn't Dan," the superintendent corrected. "Dan took sick coming over the pass. Had to press McGraw in. He whipped along so fast he missed that east switch light." Then after a minute of silence he added: "Remember what I said that day in my office, Ben?"

"You mean, about what's around the bend?"

Old Herb nodded. "That, and about squaring accounts. You've balanced up with a nice little margin to your credit, Ben. We had twenty demerit marks against you. I'm giving you twenty on the other side now. Wiping the slate and giving you twenty merit marks."

"Time you get out of the hospital and well enough to work again, you'll probably have a regular run, the way things look. And you'll be hearing from the General direct, about that fine little job of flagging you did—for all of us. It could have been bad. I hope I never see another near-miss like that, Ben," the superintendent said fervently. Ben blinked his good eye again. "Why, thank you, Mister Kimball. Thanks a lot. Like you said, it sure changed my luck, getting away from Gander McGraw... I hope... I hope I can keep clear of him now."

Old Herb smiled. "I think you can, Ben. He's leaving us." He stood up to gaze through the coach window at the great white mountains. "After due consideration—and that near-sideswipe, the General has decided to transfer Trainmaster McGraw back east for some special training course for young officials. We'll be getting an experienced man from the prairies, I understand."

Ben tried to laugh, he felt so good. "Gosh, Mister Kimball, maybe that'll change your luck, too... All those rumors about you... about you retiring?"

"Just rumors, Ben," Mister Kimball assured him. "Just rumors." And he squared his shoulders and took a turn down the aisle of his private car. Coming back, he said: "Never worry about rumors, Ben. Just be sure you're right, then keep your eye right down the railroad—and let her roll."

SPECIAL ATTENTION OF POTATO GROWERS, MARKET GARDENERS AND FARMERS

Early last spring we were successful after persistent letter writing to the different Provincial and Dominion Government Agricultural Departments, to obtain a small quantity of foundation stock Certified Seed of the Rust and Blight resistant variety Canso Potatoes. This is an entirely new variety selected after years of experimenting in selection of thousands of seedlings stock which after testing were discarded leaving only the Canso and Keswick varieties as being the most resistant to rust and blight.

Our plot of Canso, is at Windsor Mills, on the Estate of J. A. M. Rankin, and only contains sufficient planting, as assured, Government Inspection, they have been inspected twice this season, and will be inspected once more.

The Potato plot was not sprayed during the season, and at this writing the Potatoes tops are as green as a month ago. If the Canso variety continues to be rust resistant as expected, the planting of this variety will save thousands of dollars throughout the country by less immature and unmarketable potatoes, and large expense for spraying equipment and material.

The Canso is an attractive Potato, white in color, with very shallow eyes. We will have a small quantity for seed purposes and they probably will be sold through the Government Agencies. Anyone interested, write or telephone to:

Boundary Rotary Club Speculates With Real Estate Offer Of 250 Acres

Derby Line, Sept. 15 — The Rotary Club of the Boundary has been offered about 250 acres of the Weir Estate, at Cedarville, Quebec, to be used for the benefit of the Boundary Communities. This was announced at the regular Monday evening meeting of the club, held at the Del Monty Hotel.

The offer was made by Rotarian, William T. May, one of the executors of the will of the late Ronald Weir, who said that the property would have to be used for the benefit of all the people, with the hope that this beach estate could be developed into a model summer community center.

The late Ronald Weir in his will, envisaged this property as a memorial to the Weir family, and especially in memory of Judge R. Stanley Weir, D.C.L., author of the Canadian National Anthem, "O Canada."

It was felt by the executors, miss like that, Ben," the superintendent said fervently.

Ben blinked his good eye again. "Why, thank you, Mister Kimball. Thanks a lot. Like you said, it sure changed my luck, getting away from Gander McGraw... I hope... I hope I can keep clear of him now."

Old Herb smiled. "I think you can, Ben. He's leaving us." He stood up to gaze through the coach window at the great white mountains. "After due consideration—and that near-sideswipe, the General has decided to transfer Trainmaster McGraw back east for some special training course for young officials. We'll be getting an experienced man from the prairies, I understand."

Ben tried to laugh, he felt so good. "Gosh, Mister Kimball, maybe that'll change your luck, too... All those rumors about you... about you retiring?"

"Just rumors, Ben," Mister Kimball assured him. "Just rumors." And he squared his shoulders and took a turn down the aisle of his private car. Coming back, he said: "Never worry about rumors, Ben. Just be sure you're right, then keep your eye right down the railroad—and let her roll."

yourself treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. (Matthew 6).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy:—"All nature teaches God's love to man, but man cannot love God supremely and set his whole affections on spiritual things, while loving the material or trusting in it more than in the spiritual. Sensual treasures are laid up 'where moth and rust doth corrupt.' Mortality is upon them, and carries off their fleeting joys. Mortals must gravitate Godward, their affections and aims grow spiritual,—they must near the broader interpretations of being and gain some proper sense of the infinite,—in order that sin and mortality may be put off." McKEAGE—SHAW

Shawinigan Falls, Sept. 15.—The wedding of Miriam Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. ATHLETICS AND BRAVES TANGLE IN QUEBEC CITY TONIGHT

HERE and YONDER

By GORDON HARMER

"We are hoping to have a rugged and hustling team this season," Ivan Dugre, coach of the Sherbrooke Saints, said today in a telephone conversation.

Some twenty-five players will report at the local Arena next Monday morning and Dugre will give the tryouts and those who have already signed a light drill. "We want players who can play at home and away from home this season. Anyone who lets-up on the road will be released quickly," continued the coach.

Sherbrooke Saints had a poor year in the Q.S.H.L. last year but hope to do well this season. In the 1949-50 season the Saints topped the league title and went on to beat Sydney Millionaires only to lose to Toronto Marlboros, Allan Cup Champions that year.

Quebec Braves will be without the services of hard-hitting left-fielder Carl Kolosna for the remainder of the playoff finals with Sherbrooke.

Thursday night at Sherbrooke, Kolosna got a single and a double in the opening game of the best-of-seven finals.

George McQuinn, Braves' manager, announced today that Kolosna has to leave the Quebec team to resume his studies at the University of Miami. McQuinn said Kolosna tried unsuccessfully to obtain a postponement of his return to the university.

He will be replaced by Joe Andrews, first-baseman and left-fielder with the Braves earlier in the season.

Top professional and amateur golfers from Canada and the United States will tee off today in the St. Johnsbury, Vt., open golf tournament.

Several attractive prizes are at stake in this tournament which is a two-day affair. Competitors may play either today or tomorrow or both days with the best score to count.

Several club swingers from the Sherbrooke Country Club, headed by professional Harry Fowles, will participate in the tournament.

Horst Rothfels, Athletic director of the Sherbrooke High School, expects to field a light and fast football team this season. The boys have been practicing for the past four days and, although there is only one holdover on the team, they are expected to make a good showing this season.

S.H.S. will play home and home series with Quebec High School, Stanstead College School, Bishop's College School, Lennoxville and possibly St. Pat's.

Warren Berwick, former Sherbrooke Athletic football player, is assistant coach.

THIS-AND-THAT: When Montreal Alouettes and the Argos tangle in Toronto this afternoon one of the top punters in the big four, Joe Krol, will not be in Toronto uniform. Krol will sit out today's game because of what coach Frank Clair termed Krol's "poor performance" last Saturday against Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Is there another reason? . . . Manuel Mantaras has turned out to be Sherbrooke's most dangerous hitter in the playoffs. The powerful catcher has won the last three playoff games for the locals. . . Tomorrow the E.T. mixed golf tournament will be held at Danville. A large number of entries is expected for the annual event.

The second-division teams in the American League seem to enjoy beating the New York Yankees and the Cleveland Indians these days. The Yanks and the Indians are battling it out for first place but have had little success recently against the so called "weaker teams" . . .

Alex Kyle Wants To Be Disqualified

London, Sept. 15. —(Reuters)—Alex Kyle, British Walker Cup golfer, said today he has asked to be disqualified as winner of the Balfour Trophy, awarded to the leading amateur in last week's Yorkshire Open Golf Championship.

In a letter to the tournament committee, he said he inadvertently broke a rule by letting a caddy hold back a bush to let him play a stroke.

His letter will be considered by the committee.

WILL HURL SUNDAY

TERRY McDUFFIE, one of the top hurlers in the Provincial Baseball League, is expected to toss for the A's tomorrow evening at the Park Avenue Stadium in the third game and Terry McDuffie is expected to be on the mound. The game here tomorrow night gets underway at 8 o'clock. Sherbrooke, holding a 1-0 game lead in the series as the result of Thursday evening's 6-5 thirteen-inning thriller are favored to beat

Edmonton Eskimos Setting Hot Pace

Edmonton, Sept. 15. — (CP) — Long before the football season got under way, Coach Annis Stukus of Edmonton Eskimos was on record several times as saying "this is our year."

And Stukus has turned out to be a first-rate "crystal ball" man.

Besides leading the Western Conference as the half-way mark nears, Eskimos are getting the breaks.

What may prove to be the best stroke of luck was the acquisition of Roland Miles, a 23-year-old Negro.

Miles, who weighs 175 pounds and is five feet, 10½ inches tall, was playing baseball this summer for Regina Caps in the Western Canada Semi-Pro League.

An All-American colored star last year with St. Augustine's college at Raleigh, N. C., Miles was planning to try for a spot with Regina's Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Football Conference.

"But I was too busy with baseball," said Miles. "Then I came to Edmonton for a baseball tournament. While here, arrangements were made for me to try out with Eskimos."

He reminds western fans of the fabulous Fritzie Hanson who ran wild with Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Miles appears to be as fast as Hanson. Opposition tacklers are finding the speedy Negro halfback just as elusive.

Third Game Of Series Here Tomorrow At 8.00 P.M.; McDuffie Will Pitch

Armando Roche is expected to toss for the Athletics tonight in the second game of the best-of-seven playoff finals.

Tomorrow night the teams meet at the Park Avenue Stadium in the third game and Terry McDuffie is expected to be on the mound.

The game here tomorrow night gets underway at 8 o'clock. Sherbrooke, holding a 1-0 game lead in the series as the result of Thursday evening's 6-5 thirteen-inning thriller are favored to beat

Joe Gagliardi And Billy Maxwell Meet In U. S. Golf Finals Today

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 15. —(AP)— Joe Gagliardi, giant-killing buster from Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Billy Maxwell, a grim little collegian from Texas, will clash today for the amateur golf championship of the United States.

Each a 200-1 shot when the 51st annual tournament began Monday, this pair of dark horses eliminated two gallery favorites in yesterday's double-round semi-finals, started in blustery winds and finished in a drenching rain.

Gagliardi, 39, moved down 16-year-old Billy Jacobs, Jr., the high school truant from Montebello, Calif., 6 and 5, winning on his mastery around the greens.

Maxwell, 22-year-old captain of the North Texas State College golf team, made short work of Jack Benson, the 40-year-old real estate developer from Pittsburgh, 10 and 9.

Gagliardi and Maxwell will tee off in the 36-hole final today to determine a successor to Sam Snead.

Yankees Win And Remain Only One Percentage Point Behind Indians

Big Vic Raschi and Little Yogi Berra teamed up yesterday and guided New York Yankees to within one percentage point of the pace-setting Cleveland Indians.

Raschi pitched one-hit ball for seven innings and Berra clouted a grand-slam home run to escort the Bombers to a 5-2 victory over Detroit Tigers.

The triumph snapped a three-game Yankee losing streak. The Indians' night game with the Senators in Washington was rained out. The Tribe meets the Senators in a doubleheader Saturday while the Braves. They will, however have a tough fight.

Roland Gladu is undergoing treatment in Montreal for an injury suffered in Thursday's game but is expected to return to the diamond soon.

Terry McDuffie is also on the injured list with a swollen ankle. He was spiked in a game with Drummondville here recently and has been undergoing treatments ever since. He is expected, however, to be ready to toss tomorrow evening.

of Rochester, N. Y., who was one of the mass of favorites chopped down during this rocky week over the 6,979-yard, par 71 Saucon Valley Country Club course.

This is the fourth National Amateur for the Gagliardi, who never before got past the second round. Champion of the Metropolitan district in New York, Gagliardi had to shoot five birdies on the last six holes to qualify, then he needed only one to defeat the defending champion, Urzetta, and the British Amateur King, Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., on succeeding days.

Yesterday he fired his best golf of the tournament in grabbing a lead over young Jacobs at the first two holes and never relinquishing it, holding a two-up advantage after the morning 18-hole round.

It's the second national for Maxwell, who was beaten in the fifth round last year.

Maxwell won six of the first seven holes yesterday, five in a row, and built up steadily from there.

Yanks again take on Detroit. Boston's third-place Red Sox climbed to within three games of the Indians by humbling St. Louis Browns 9-6. Rookie Bob Nieman homered on his first two trips to the plate as a major leaguer for the Browns but home runs by Ted Williams, Walt Dropo and Dom DiMaggio turned the tide for Boston.

Raschi pitched no-hit ball for 5½ innings and had allowed only one hit when he was forced to retire because of a tight shoulder in the Yankee half of the seventh. Bob Kuzava took over and yielded two hits the rest of the way.

Lefty Bob Cain, usually extremely effective against the Yanks, was bombed out in the first inning. Nieman, up from Oklahoma City of the Texas league, homered in the second and third inning off lefty Mickey McDermott in the game at Boston.

However, Neiman's feat was wasted as the Red Sox scored all their runs in the first three innings. Dropo climaxed a five-run first inning with a three-run homer. Williams socked his 11th with one on in the second and DiMaggio homered with one aboard in the third.

Rubber armed Ellis Kinder gained credit for the victory, his 11th — scored two defeats. Kinder took over in the seventh inning and allowed only one hit.

New York Giants defeated Chicago Cubs 7-2 in the only National League day game. Five Chicago errors helped the Giant to win.

Jim Hearn started and gained his 15th victory. He was relieved by George Spencer in the ninth with the bases loaded and one out. Spencer nailed the two next two Cubs on pop-ups to end the game.

SPORTS of SORTS

by Glen Brown

Ye olde purveyors of sport in the district of Bedford's high schools are flexing their muscles, knocking the cobwebs off their uniforms, and dusting off the trophy shelves all around the circuit.

Meers, Anderson, Black, Wood, Gruer, and Kemp are whipping those young hopefuls through the intricacies of the great game of the basket and the ball. Prying information out of them is similar to interviewing a clam, and, of course, all potential athletes are cripples or invalids, and all good players have graduated, (give them a wailing wall, but even with all these handicaps I am going to try and do a resume of all basketball teams in next five columns.

First of all Waterloo High, with their large genial coach John Black, are the upsurge. Last year they played fine ball, had lots of fire, but they lacked the shooting and playmaking experience that makes a winning team. However we must remember that Covansville and Knowlton both had gymns four years before Waterloo, and Granby at least ten years. Moulding any type of athletic team takes four or five years, so John Black has come a long way in two years at Waterloo High, and he deserves much credit for the grand showing of his team.

In personnel, Waterloo's emporium of education has lost little through graduation and transfers. Dale Chaddock, their leading scorer, has joined the Navy, and Bruce Barrett has found the pastures a little greener over Knowlton way, but they still have five veterans of Senior play on their line up. The most promising of these is "Old Reliable" himself, Dick Seguin, their towering all-around player. Dick played every position on the team last year, but his best work was at guard; this year he steps into the center's job and one and all can be sure that Dick, with one position to play, will be an outstanding basketball Mears and Junior Atkins at left in the league.

Flanking him will be Roger and right forward positions. This should give Waterloo High just about the steadiest threesome in the league. Roger has been playing outstanding ball both on offense and defense, but his shoot-tournament, was the lone United States Davis Cup team member left in the running.

He will go into the finals Sunday against the winner of the match tomorrow between Frank Sedgman, Australia's No. 1 player, and Herb Flam of Los Angeles.

ing has been just a little off in his past two seasons. At the end of the 1950 season he was really coming and his work made him one of the prize forwards of the league. This season he should really produce. At right wing, Black has a potential artist in basketball in Junior Atkins. Junior has all it takes to produce if he takes a real interest in getting in there. However he seems to be afflicted with a slight disease called Prima Donnia. If he could conquer his temper, and if he could generate the interest he should in his team, Waterloo might well be this district's representative in the Vissar playoffs.

Backing up this forward wall will be Murray Logan and Roger Cousens, both good reliable boys who should show a good performance. In reserve, Black will have Allen Buckland, Roger Burnham, Teddy Hackwell and David Fisher.

The Intermediate team will be built around Wesley Barrett, John Talbot, Malcolm Lewis and Allen Short.

Chaff rumor says that Sutor, Wright, and Ling, of Knowlton, are on the tryout list for the Junior Royals playing out of Granby, and that the Royals are red hot after Wes. D'Artois for their defense. . . Doug Stocks of Covansville trying out with Quebec City. . . Jimmy Cramer, Covansville's claim to fame in track and field, will do or die for dear old Stanstead. . . Wes Jones, of Waterloo, is railroading. . . Ross Ladd, former all-around athlete with K.H.S. had the misfortune to break his hand while on duty in the Air Force. Knowlton High's team next week.

THE ROSENBLUM REPORTER

Football

RUGBY PRACTICE started this week at Sherbrooke High, and we want to wish all the school teams in this district a successful season. We say this particularly because we understand that there will be no other local Rugby teams this year. And this seems too bad. The Sherbrooke Athletics have given us some excellent football in the past, and we're told that they have closed up this year because of finances.

WE REMEMBER when young fellows got together with whatever equipment they could muster to have a swell time playing rugby. Nearly everyone was interested in getting into the game, and money was unimportant. Are we wrong in suggesting that athletic affairs have taken a turn for the worse with the passage of time? There's too much business in them now. It appears to us that the young chaps of yesterday had more fun in actually participating in all kinds of games than the lads of today have in just watching others play which seems all too common. And that is why we're following with interest the activities of the teams at the local schools. The Eastern Townships has produced college stars in the past, and of course we will again.

WE AT ROSENBLUM'S are having a busy time these days outfitting some of the young men who will star in appearance soon on the college campuses. With our wealth of experience, we know what University men prefer in attire, and our prices appeal to young fellows on a budget. See our feature window of Campus clothes. Let us help you select a smart wardrobe for your college days.

A Dodge "Job-Rated" truck is engineered at the factory to fit a specific job . . . save you money . . . last longer. Every unit that SUPPORTS the load — frame, axles, springs, wheels, tires — is engineered right to provide the strength and capacity needed.

Every unit that MOVES the load — engine, clutch, transmission, propeller shaft, rear axle — is engineered right to meet a particular operating condition.
