PLAYING 'I SENT A LETTER TO MY LOVE' AT MITCHELL PARK

Y group has many interests Kangaroo action hopping in city

By DAVID MAGIL

SHERBROOKE — The Marquette Street fire station is normally a pretty quiet place. The firemen go about their duties efficiently and quietly at the station and sometimes are called out to answer alarms, false or otherwise.

Earlier this week the tranquil atmosphere of the station was upset a bit when 32 youngsters from the YM-YWCA's Kan-Do Kangaroos Camp came for a visit.

Fireman Roger Barlow escorted the youngsters through the station and had his hands full most of the time.

At first he had no problems. The youngsters, all between the ages of four and seven, were led into the firemen's recreational hall at the back of the station. They gazed in astonishment as one firefighter came sliding down the fire-pole and landed with a thud in front of them.

The exhibition silenced them, but only for a moment. Soon some of the braver ones were attempting to emulate the fireman, except they tried to go up instead of down the pole. None succeeded.

Next the youngsters were ushered out to look at the station's four fire trucks, and any discipline which had prevailed earlier disappeared.

Roger Barlow tried patiently to explain the workings of each vehicle but he held the attention of only a few Kan-Doers. The kids realized there were better things to do than listen to someone describe the fire trucks. They explored the vehicles themselves, for there were all kinds of shiny knobs to inspect, and cabs to jump into and trucks to frolic on.

The effervescent youngsters' intrepid explorations were halted for a minute, nonetheless. One of Barlow's colleagues climbed into the cab of one truck and activated the siren. There was only one thing for the kids to do and they quickly put their hands over their ears.

Besides exploring every square inch of the fire station the Kan-Do Kangaroos also managed to demonstrate some of that irrefutable logic unique to youngsters.

Mr. Barlow had just finished explaining that one of the trucks was equipped with a ladder that could be extended to 125 feet.

"You never open it in the station, do you?" one of the youngsters asked.

"No, we don't. Why do you ask?" fireman Barlow answered.

"Because if you did you'd break the station down."

Mr. Barlow nodded his head to that one.

The tour lasted 45 minutes, and once it was over the youngsters were ushered outside and made their way up Belvedere Street to Mitchell Park.

There they took part in activities which form an integral part of the Kan-Do Kangaroo Camp program.

The main purpose of the camp, according to director Jo-Anne Trussler, is to bring youngsters together at an age when they have formed no prejudices and encourage them to learn how to work in a group as well as functioning on their own.

The camp is bilingual and supervision is provided by eight monitors.

The youngsters do pick up some words of the other language at the camp, said Miss Trussler.

The camp operates Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 1 to 4 p.m. and there are many activities organized and designed to keep the youngsters occupied and happy.

Most activities see the four- and five-year-olds separated from the six- and seven-year-olds.

"We have to take into account that the older children are more physically mature and capable," Miss Trussler explained.

Both age groups participate in tours which are held every second week. Kangaroos explore local sites of interest such as the fire station, the Sherbrooke Greenhouses and Howardene Park. The tours were held on a weekly basis last year and have been cut back this year "because we realize the kids enjoy themselves as much playing together," according to Miss Trussler.

Outside activities take place in Mitchell Park or at the Parade Grounds and include group games and sports.

"We try to introduce rather than teach the games to the children," director Trussler explained.

Indoor activities are held at the Y on Montreal Street and include arts and crafts, swimming instruction and gymnasium games. The camp is equipped for 40 Kangaroos and there still is room for more youngsters in the program. The cost is $4.50 per week and the phone number to call for further information is 569-7488.

"The falcon is on its perch" Moon walkers to swoop to conquer

HOUSTON (AP) — The Apollo 15 astronauts dropped their spacecraft to within 42,000 feet of the mountains of the moon Thursday, lining up for a landing in a basin surrounded both by the highest lunar peaks and a 1,200-foot-deep canyon.

"The falcon is on its perch," said Apollo commander David R. Scott.

Falcon is the Apollo 15 lunar module in which Scott and James B. Irwin will make the landing at 6:15 p.m. EDT, today.

Scott, Irwin and Alfred M. Worden rocketed into moon orbit earlier using a precise manual control on the spaceship's main rocket engine and were awestruck then by the view rising before them of the moon's mountains, plains and craters.

The spacemen had completed a 250,000-mile journey from earth to the vicinity of the moon after conquering a series of irritating, but never serious problems that plagued their flight almost from the start Monday.

MIND BOGGLES

Scott's first description after he and his crew-mates had confirmed the achievement of lunar orbit was that the sights were "absolutely mind boggling."

The low orbit afforded an even better view of the stark lunar features.

"I tell you it's spectacular when you can see the central peak of Tsiolkovsky before you see the rim," he said, referring to a major crater on the moon's backside.

"It sure looks like we're looking up at some of those fellows," said Scott, referring to the mountains. "Seems like we're skimming below them sometimes."

Behind the moon and out of touch with Mission Control, the astronauts fired the rocket engine a second time—this time on computer—to drop their original 195-by-67-mile orbit to a low of 57,000 feet, only about 42,000 feet above the towering lunar peaks.

To go into moon orbit, the spacemen had performed a perfect rocket burn using a new firing method which required split-second manual control of the 20,500-pound-thrust engine. Minutes later they were passing over the planned landing site.

"We're approaching the Apennine Mountains and that is indeed a spectacular sight," said Scott. "It's just unreal."

"The mountains came up out of the ocean (flat plain) and it's just unbelievable."

"As we look at all of this after all the many months of studying the moon," said Scott, "it's almost overwhelming."

At 11:45 p.m. EDT, Mission Control wished the astronauts a good night and they settled down to sleep.

They performed a perfect rocket burn using a new firing method which required split-second manual control of the powerful engine. Moments later Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin sped over the mountain basin where they will land Friday at 6:15 p.m. EDT.

SIGHT 'UNREAL'

"We're approaching the Apennine Mountains and that is indeed a spectacular sight," said Scott. "It's just unreal."

"The mountains came up out of the ocean flat plain and it's just unbelievable."

The astronauts were flying over parts of the moon never before seen from so close.

Scott said at another point they were flying over Mare Crisium, the so-called Sea of Crisis, and said it looked like a desert with different shades of sand.

"The variation is... from white to grey," said Scott, who did most of the description. "It looks like a great desert across which we've had a great dust storm."

"All over Crisium you can see these streaks which are the result of some kind of impacts."

Worden said he saw craters "which look like there might have been some dark material which slid down one wall."

CRTC move questioned

SHERBROOKE (DM) — A group of 28 Eastern Townships businessmen objected Thursday to a Canadian Radio-Television Commission decision giving a group of Quebec companies permission to buy large cable holdings in Quebec.

The decision permitted a group of six insurance companies and the Quebec Deposit and Investment Fund, a provincial crown corporation, to gain control of National Cablevision Ltd.

The commission's decision was announced when it approved a multi-million dollar deal reducing the holdings of the United States-owned Columbia Broadcasting System Inc. in Canadian cable television companies.

National Cablevision Ltd. is buying out the British-owned Rediffusion Inc. system in Sherbrooke and Transvision Eastern Townships Ltd. outlets in Victoriaville, Cap-de-la-Madeleine and Ascot County.

A spokesman for a second company which applied for the Rediffusion and Transvision holdings charged the CRTC Thursday with doing an about-face in deciding in favor of National Cablevision.

Omer Girard, president of Transvision Magog Inc., contended that by grouping together 48 businessmen from the region, the majority of whom were French-Canadian, his company had shown it had the capacity and local aggressiveness needed to develop cable television services without seeking support from outside the province.

Mr. Girard insisted the CRTC decision conflicts with its stated objectives, the encouragement of local control in cablevision systems.

The commission revealed Thursday it had considered slicing the Transvision and Rediffusion purchases from the rest of the deal but it felt National Cablevision holdings in Montreal and Quebec City required heavy investment.

Claude Prieur, president of the Quebec Deposit and Investment Fund, promised Wednesday Eastern Townships representatives will sit on National Cablevision's administrative committee so that the region's interests will be respected.

Fear air disaster biggest

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese airliner with 161 persons aboard and a Japanese jet fighter collided over northern Japan and crashed today, the national police reported.

The police said 15 bodies had been found, and there were fears it was the worst aviation disaster on record.

The airliner, a Boeing 727, was operated by All Nippon Airways and was on a flight from Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island, to Tokyo. It had 154 passengers and a crew of seven aboard.

The crash occurred about 210 miles northeast of Tokyo. Police said searchers moving into the area had found 15 bodies but did not locate the wreckage immediately.

The pilot of the F-86F jet fighter was said to have parachuted from his aircraft. He was reported in a hospital.

The worst previous airline disaster was the crash of a Venezuelan DC-9 on March 16, 1969, off Maracaibo, in which 155 persons were killed.

Japan's worst previous crash occurred Feb. 4, 1966, when a Japanese jetliner crashed into Tokyo Bay, killing 133 persons.

That plane was also a Boeing 727 and was also operated by All Nippon Airways.

Officials of the airline said the flight engineer aboard the airline today was an American, Donn M. Carpenter, who had been flying for All Nippon since February 1970.

The officials said they did not know yet if any other foreigners were aboard.

'71 Air Show no show

SHERBROOKE (PG) — Lack of coordination, time and funds have shot down this year's Sherbrooke Air Pageant scheduled for Aug. 8. The announcement was made at a news conference called last night by the organizers of the event, members of the Sherbrooke Flying Club.

The air show was planned and arranged in January. However, the city, which controls the airport, commissioned the firm of Canadec to study the airport and make recommendations. That report was, in the words of Sherbrooke Flying Club president B. Cretaigne, "all negative."

The club then made its own report. The conclusions were similar but their recommendations for correcting the airport's difficulties differed from those presented by Canadec.

Canadec's report called for sweeping and expensive changes in the airport operation, but the club's report suggested the appointment of a manager to have complete control over the entire airport would be sufficient. At present the airport is administered jointly by the Sherbrooke Flying School, the Flying Club and City Council.

Another problem was financing. The concession for the established restaurant was given to the organizers. However the restaurant's owner, Roland Patoinne reserved the rights to several booths which he planned to erect on the airport grounds.

About $500 revenue was expected from these booths. There exists a $1,600 deficit from last year's show which drew 20,000 people. In addition, efforts to get this year's show off the ground have already cost $1,500. It had been hoped this year's revenues would pay off last year's debts.

When difficulties arose, an alternate date of Sept. 19 was set. Staging the show involved some 250 persons, a number of organizations, and the provincial and federal governments. Several considerations meant the date had to be advanced to Aug. 29, but although the Canadian Armed Forces were willing to provide aircraft for the show, other participants were unable to meet the Aug. 29 date.

The only other option left to the organizers was to stage the show as originally planned, on Aug. 8. But that possibility was rejected on the grounds that sufficient interest could not be generated in so short a time.

Public relations manager Jacques Tremblay said, "Hold the show with a week's advertising? Never!" Organizers are confident next year's event "will be the biggest event in Quebec."

QUEBEC IN FOCUS

Recover May 4 body

ST. JEAN VIANNEY, Que. (CP) — The body of a victim of the landslide which hit this community May 4 was recovered by divers Thursday from the mud deposits left by the disaster which killed 31 persons.

The body, the 15th recovered, was of a male but positive identification could not immediately be made.

A 14th body, that of 42-year-old Mrs. Roger Landry, was recovered Monday. She and her five children were swept to their deaths by the landslide.

St. Jean Vianney is 115 miles north of Quebec City.

Slide threat forces move

STE. ANNE DES MONTS, Que. (CP) — Four houses in this village perched on the rugged Gaspé coast have been ordered evacuated because of a landslide threat.

Police said government engineers ordered the evacuation following the discovery of a crack in Highway 6, which follows the Gaspé coastline.

The crack was about a quarter-mile from Ste. Anne des Monts, at a point where the highway borders on a cliff 800 to 900 feet above the St. Lawrence River.

Eight years ago, several houses in the nearby village of St. Joachim de Tourelle were swept away by a mudslide and four persons riding in a truck were killed when a section of the highway was washed out.

Boards gaining okay

QUEBEC (CP) — Other provinces have buried their distrust of Quebec attempts to set up agricultural marketing boards and now see the need to establish an interprovincial marketing plan, Agriculture Minister Normand Toupin said Wednesday.

He told a news conference that all 10 agriculture ministers have agreed in principle to organization of a national marketing board on a provincial basis.

Such a board would be an extension of the settlement reached in the chicken-and-egg war. Under this plan, production levels of all provinces are based on average annual production in 1968-70.

The settlement also provides for the establishment of a federal-provincial coordinating committee which would regulate the marketing of eggs.

SERVE AS POLICEMAN

The federal role would be that of policeman.

The provinces have until Oct. 4, 1971, to set up marketing agencies similar to Fedco, Quebec's egg-producing board.

Mr. Toupin said the agricultural ministers, meeting in Edmonton last week, also agreed to the principle of regrouping marginal farms.

But they rejected a program proposed by H. B. Olson, federal minister of agriculture, that would give Ottawa the right to orient farm policy within each province.

Knife spree kills three

LONDON (Reuter) — Police used tear gas to flush out a man who barricaded himself in an upstairs room here early today after going berserk with a knife and killing three persons.

Police said those who died were thought to be the man's father, brother and a sister aged about 18. Another woman was taken to a hospital with stab wounds.

Described only as about 25 and a West Indian, the man barricaded himself into the room while police with shields and dogs circled the house and trained powerful spotlights on the buildings.

Then police moved in with tear gas and the man was later carried from the house on a stretcher.

Dairy shortage soon?

QUEBEC (CP) — Canada will face a shortage of dairy products within six months unless the Canadian milk commission changes its policies, Agriculture Minister Normand Toupin of Quebec told a news conference Wednesday.

He said milk producers are so worried about being penalized for overproduction that they actually maintain a below-quota level.

Mr. Toupin said that while a dairy farmer receives 99 cents for each hundredweight of milk produced up to the quota level, the penalty for overproduction is $2.40 a hundredweight.

Federal policies are too rigid, he said, adding that he urged Ottawa to ease its quota system during a recent conference of agriculture ministers in Edmonton.

Quebec would like to see more flexible policies accompanied by an aggressive campaign to seek export markets for dairy products.

Temperature tells time of ovulation

Dear Dr. Lamb—Can you please tell me how the doctor pinpoints ovulation in order to help a woman become pregnant more quickly? How would a 32-day cycle affect the time? Would ovulation occur at the same times as a 25-day cycle? If a man had a slightly lower sperm count, could it take longer for a woman to become pregnant, even knowing the time of ovulation?

Dear Reader—There are several ways to pinpoint ovulation. Taking the body temperature each morning before getting up will show a continuous drop in temperature, then a steep rise of 0.8 degree. The temperature stays at that level until menstruation begins. Usually ovulation occurs 14 days before the menstrual period, but there is a wide variation. Some women have conceived just before or just after their period.

Yes, if the sperm count is on the low side, it often takes more effort to induce pregnancy.

It is a simple matter of the more sperm cells there are, the more likely one will connect with the ova. There are measures that can be taken to help increase the sperm count in some people. Abstinence of three or four days before ovulation helps build up the amount of sperm cells stored and may help. It is a bit like the days of the American Revolution, when ammunition was in short supply and our soldiers were cautioned, "Don't shoot until you see the whites of their eyes."

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am 20 years old and have a problem with which I hope you can help me. I want to wear the new fashion, "Hot-Pants," but I have a few scars on my upper leg which make it difficult to wear them. My legs look terrible. Is there anything I can do?

Dear Reader—There is not much you can do about scars except to have plastic surgery. This isn't altogether out of the question, because you may have other reasons besides fashion for wishing to improve the appearance of your legs, but it is an expensive luxury.

Cosmetic surgery is important in helping improve people's self-image and promoting psychic health in some people. Some plastic surgeons have called it instant psychotherapy.

You have a few other choices, leg make-up (which certainly has its disadvantages), long HotPants, or you might find some suitable long stockings, panty hose, leotards or opaque one-piece body stockings. Your scars probably don't look as bad to other people as you think.

Deadline passing fails to deter IDC

SHERBROOKE (DM) — In spite of the fact the deadline has passed with only one-fifth of the $100,000 objective reached, the Sherbrooke Industrial Development Corp. intends to carry on.
 Corporation directors need the approval of shareholders to do so and letters are being sent out now to the 100 Sherbrooke businessmen who bought into the fledgling enterprise during the past month.
 The Sherbrooke Industrial Development Corp. was formed June 16 to promote industry in the Sherbrooke region.
 More than 50 of the 70 businessmen present at the June 16 meeting bought $200 blocks of shares in the enterprise.
 Corporation organizers promised then to return all moneys collected if the objective was not reached during the following month.
 Only 50 more businessmen have bought stock in the corporation since then.
 Organizer Jean-Marc Donahue said Thursday people going on vacation and lack of full-time personnel hindered the corporation from attaining its goals within the month limit.
 He added he is quite confident the $100,000 will be raised by the end of September.
 His confidence is based on the fact a student from the University of Sherbrooke's faculty of business administration will soon be working for the corporation.

 In addition, most people will soon have returned from their vacation and will be approachable.
 The purpose and goals of the industrial promotion corporation are basic, according to Mr. Donahue. Everyone agrees the industrial situation in Sherbrooke is poor. New industries are not being attracted to the city and existing industries are in financial trouble or are unable to expand their plants because of a lack of funds.
 One way this problem can be solved is through citizens action. The burden is too great to be placed on politicians' shoulders alone.
 If a great number of citizens contribute a predetermined amount to act as a capital investment in existing firms then those firms will be eligible for expansion grants from the government. Once these firms expand they increase the wealth of the whole community since more people will be employed.
 If the firms make more money as a result of the grants their value will increase along with the worth of individual investments in them.

Club sponsors visit camp

SHERBROOKE (PT) — Members of the Sherbrooke Richeleu Club recently paid their annual visit to Camp Michel, situated several miles from Eastman.
 The camp welcomes Sherbrooke children during the summer months for periods of two weeks each.
 President Laurent Martin of the Richeleu Club told The Record that the principal activity or project of the club in the months to come will be supporting Camp Michel. The club presently finances a major portion of the club's expenses each year.
 This year, 144 Sherbrooke children had or will have the chance to spend two pleasant weeks at the camp, playing and learning at the same time.
 There are dormitories at the camp, and a monitor sleeps in the building each night in case anything unexpected should happen.
 During the summer, students are employed as monitors, a total of 16 being on hand to supervise the children's activities.
 There is absolutely no charge for the stay at the camp, although usually only the Petites Soeurs de l'Assomption choose the children privileged to spend two weeks at camp.

 Unlike other camps of this nature, only girls are admitted, and they must be between seven and 12 years of age.
 The monitors, under the direction of two nuns, keep themselves busy organizing various activities for the girls who for the most part, are living in their first group experience.
 "One of our basic aims is to instill a spirit of joie-de-vivre and the ability to get along with others into the children," said Sister Huguette, one of the directors.
 There are two dormitories for girls at the camp, as well as three buildings which serves as staff sleeping quarters, and a central building.
 There is also a chapel which is used not only for services but also for other indoor activities on rainy days.
 When the Richeleu Club visited, the personnel of the camp served supper to the 40 guests who mingled with the children.
 The camp is now accredited by the Quebec Camping Association.
 "Camp Michel is financed by the youth commission and the region welfare council, as well as the Sherbrooke Richeleu Club," explained administration council president Romeo Dube.

ETers among grads

NICOLET (PT) — Five Eastern Townships men are among the 74 graduates of the latest session of the Quebec Police Academy here. The officers received their diplomas last Friday, July 23, at the 13th convocation of the academy.
 They are: Bernard Fiset, Quebec Police Force, of Ste-Anne Street, Coaticook; Gilles Fortin, Quebec Police Force, of 407 Stevens Street, Waterloo; Alain Pelletier, Quebec Police Force, of 93 Webb Street, Asbestos; Alain Prefontaine, Quebec Police Force, of 476 Picard Street, Sherbrooke; and Constant Viau, Longueuil municipal police, of 170 Montcalm Street, Granby.
 Thirty-five of the students have joined the Surete du Quebec, while 39 other graduates will serve with other police forces throughout the province.
 For the first time in the history of the academy, Bell Canada, which has been giving a course in police communications to the officers-in-training, awarded a plaque to the student with the highest standing in this course.

 Lasting a total of 21 hours, the course gave the recruits a chance to learn technical aspects of police communications equipment as well as a thorough grounding in the operation of the various consoles in police stations and vehicles.
 Roger Delude, director of Verdun police and recently-elected president of the Quebec Association of Police and Fire Chiefs, presided over the ceremony and presented the graduating students with their diplomas.
 Representatives of Quebec Police Force, Quebec Police Commission, Bell Canada and the Association were present at the ceremony.

Students quiz Lennoxville

LENNOXVILLE (PT) — What do English Canadians in Lennoxville think of their French-speaking fellow citizens?
 That is the subject of a study being made this summer by four university students. They are distributing a questionnaire to a random sampling of 100 English-speaking residents of the community.
 A $4,140 Opportunities for Youth grant has enabled Louise Atkins of Oakville, Ont., Stephen Tribble of Lennoxville, Harvey Hirsch of Toronto, and Dolly Henderson of Montreal to complete their summer sociology project.
 Both Miss Atkins and Mr. Tribble are 1971 BA graduates in sociology from Bishop's, Tribble having attained first class honors as well as the sociology prize.
 The questionnaire having been completed, the four students are now compiling and co-ordinating the responses they have received.
 They started out with the working hypothesis that English-speaking people living in Lennoxville are living there by choice, as a refuge from the French-speaking majority prevalent in most cities and towns throughout the province.
 This, they believe, has made Lennoxville an Anglo-Saxon "ghetto," at least for the most part.
 More than 35 questions were asked of each of the 100 citizens polled, among them a query as to whether they voted in federal, provincial or municipal elections.
 According to the students, the majority of the English-speaking people polled never attend public holidays such as St-Jean-Baptiste Day and very seldom watch French-language television or read francophone newspapers.
 "We noticed that most of the women over 50 years of age were very anti-French and were completely disinterested in discussing the subject," Miss Atkins said.
 Mr. Tribble remarked on one Lennoxville man he had interviewed who had been overseas in combat. This man had told his student questioner that he had nothing against French-Canadians when he was serving in the forces, but since he has been socially and psychologically separated from French-speaking people he has not understood their actions or the motives for them.
 The students are to submit a report on their research at the end of the summer.

 Dr. Enriquez was born in Havana, Cuba, and obtained his MD at the University of Madrid School of Medicine in 1959. He continued his studies in the United States in clinical and anatomic pathology at the Mayo Clinic and also spent two years as a Fellow in hematopathology with Dr. Henry Rappaport at the University of Chicago School of Medicine.  Dr. Datnow is a native of Johannesburg, South Africa, and pursued most of his studies at the University of Witwatersrand, where he obtained his B.Sc. in physiology and biochemistry in 1958, and his M.B. Ch. in 1962. After a few years of teaching in physiology he obtained a grant from the National Academy of Sciences to pursue advanced studies in the United States. Completing two years of research in pathology as related to aerospace medicine, he then continued his studies in clinical and anatomic pathology at the Mayo Clinic and became a diplomate of the American Board of Pathology in 1970.

 Dr. Datnow is particularly interested in surgical pathology and is at the present time in charge of the hospital service in the department of pathology.

SHERBROOKE (PT) — How many readers remember seeing advertisements on bulletin boards and in newspapers reading somewhat as follows:

Generous starting salary and commissions for a few hours' work a day. Cash bonuses. See Mrs. _____, Room _____, Hotel, between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. No phone calls please.
 These ads are placed by companies such as MacLean-Hunter who run the door-to-door magazine rackets. Flocks of young kids without summer jobs show up in the right hotel at the appointed time and line up to see the woman.
 She explains the most beneficial and favorable aspects of the system to the students, takes down their names and addresses, and they leave soon for points unknown.
 Although you can quit whenever you want, there is continual pressure by the person in charge of the group to sell. Trudging from door to door is long, hard work.
 Indoctrination of the youngsters selling the magazines is an accepted part of the routine and former magazine sellers report receiving threats, punches and beatings from their supervisor.

Time for appraisal

Non-Catholic churches in the Eastern Townships and indeed throughout North America are facing financial crises coupled with decreasing attendance and fewer endowments.

Instead of continually begging their parishioners for more money in the weekly church bulletins, perhaps it is time for clergy and laymen involved in the various churches to take a good look at where they are going.

For example there are three Anglican churches in Sherbrooke and a chapel in nearby St-Elie d'Orford. St. Peter's Church, the largest and oldest, is half-empty every Sunday except on major Anglican holy days. Surely it would be sensible to close down the three little buildings and have one strong congregation rather than four weak ones.

Plymouth and Trinity churches are on their way towards realizing that Sherbrooke does not need two United churches — especially within a quarter mile of each other — and are holding joint summer services.

Another aspect of the question is that of church union and ecumenism.

The Christian church is in a pretty sorry state when the various branches each choose to interpret the Bible their own way, and unflexibly remain separate.

The churches should re-examine their role in today's society and attempt to rationalize what if anything they still have to offer.

Although it is a time-honored tradition for many people to go to church, how many go because they believe even a fraction of what is being taught there?

On the other hand, how many go because they have been taught by their parents and inculcated by society that going to church is the "right" thing to do?

The church cannot even begin to deal with the problems of today by living in the world of yesterday. Nor are they to be forever allowed the privileged status once accorded them by the various levels of government.

Unless the churches do some severe self-appraisal and revamping of their own back yards before presuming to continue preaching to the people today, they may find themselves the hopeless anachronism many already believe them to be.

Paul Trollope

Election syndrome

The problems we face in these times threatening recession have raised the level of criticism of government to such an extent that it seems more than ever before to be the case that our leaders are engaged in more electioneering than governing.

Over the past two years there have been an overwhelming number of provincial elections — most defined in upset of the party in power.

Manitoba, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan voters have all evidenced their disapproval with provincial government by turning out their former leaders and casting their lot with the Opposition.

Alberta will go to the polls next month, and Ontario is awaiting an election date.

Even the Quebec government of Premier Bourassa, elected only 15 months ago in what the electoral distribution made a sweep, is not immune from rumors about election possibilities.

And on the federal scene, Prime Minister Trudeau is studying his calendar attempting to select the date least damaging to his majority rule.

In the United States, where terms of office are rigidly defined, the 1972 Presidential race has already begun in earnest and the open.

The scene may well be one in which it is indeed impossible to see the forest for the trees. Once chosen by the people, elected leaders should attempt to do just that — lead the way out of problems and towards progress.

The U.S. system of precisely delineated terms of office might be a prudently-adopted one. Under that set of rules, government would, at least ideally, be more motivated to adopt long-range measures to implement progress, rather than short-term ones designed to climax just before a snap vote.

And if the measures taken by a particular government were unsatisfactory to the electorate, that electorate would hopefully have had that much more exposure to the party in power by which to render a valid judgment.

Presumably, too, in those cases where the people's verdict happened to be unfavorable, the same mistake would be less likely to be repeated soon.

French press opinion

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Sherbrooke La Tribune: A political science professor at McMaster University made public this week the results of a study of the attendance record of MPs in the House of Commons.

Dr. Roman B. March stated . . . that an average of 38 per cent of the members were absent for the 98 division votes called during the last session.

This average is by far the highest of recent years . . . In the United States, where members elected to Congress also have personal affairs to manage, the average attendance is in the order of 80 per cent.

Why then in Canada is the average little more than 60 per cent?

We admit that illness, official travel outside Ottawa and certain days really devoted to constituents may justify some absences, but surely not a total of 38 per cent.

We must conclude that some MPs . . . prefer to look after their personal affairs or devote too much time to their personal recreation.

Normally, when a member receives his monthly pay, he is supposed to mention his absences from the House. And if the absences were for personal reasons, his pay in principle is reduced accordingly.

But in the last session, only one of the 264 MPs had his salary reduced for that reason, and that was Mr. John Diefenbaker. Was he the only one absent for personal reasons? No one could believe that.

In future, it might be worth considering an automatic reduction in an MP's salary for each of his absences, unless the member himself proves that he was absent for a valid reason. — Alain Guilbert, July 24.

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: The heinous murder of two young girls from Cap de la Madeleine has revived the famous debate on capital punishment.

Readers will recall that in December, 1967, the House of Commons adopted by a vote of 114 to 87 a bill presented by the solicitor-general of the time, Mr. Larry Pennell, restricting capital punishment to persons convicted of murdering policemen or prison guards on duty.

The Commons is to decide next year whether to maintain the Pennell act in effect or simply restore capital punishment for all categories of assassins.

There is no doubt that the silent majority ardently desires the re-establishment of capital punishment. Last October, when cabinet minister Pierre Laporte was assassinated, the so-called silent majority clamored for the gallows for the authors of the brutal murder. The killing of the two little girls from Cap de la Madeleine aroused the same reaction all across Quebec.

In the last four years, since the Pennell bill was adopted, no criminal has suffered the death penalty even if he killed a policeman or prison guard on duty.

That is to say, the 1967 law has made absolutely no change in the situation that has existed since 1959, because no criminal has been hanged in that period.

Society has the right to adequate protection against criminals, and it does not have that protection now. We are not necessarily in favor of capital punishment. But we ardently wish that the unbalanced people who hold others' lives cheaply would be put away for the rest of their days, or at least until they are completely rehabilitated.

Capital punishment or not, killers of any stripe should be isolated from society forever. — Sylvio St. Amant, July 23.

Montreal La Presse: The visit of President Nixon to China before May, 1972 . . . marks a decisive turning point in American policy toward the Far East and the world as a whole.

Henceforth, everything must be re-evaluated in the light of what Edgar Snow calls the end of the Dulles era. In other words, it is the end of 20 years of irrational intransigence, as much on Peking's and the beginning of what the New York Times calls "more pragmatic policy" between the two countries.

"No, no - THIS is a coup that countercoups
YOUR countercoup of OUR coup . . ."

William F. Buckley, Jr.

On the Right

While it is not clear what Mr. Nixon will accomplish by his convulsive Far Eastern policies, a distinction needs to be made between these and his domestic policies, towards which his critics, temporarily confounded, are turning their fire.

Those who desire employment and can't find it would be grateful if the Nixon Administration found the means to help them find it. Those who suffer from inflation would be grateful to Mr. Nixon for a dollar whose buying power ceased to dissipate. So that it remains the question: Does Mr. Nixon know what to do about the soggy economic situation?

Concerning his problems, a few observations:

1. It becomes clear what is the Administration's attitude towards those industries in the United States whose impoverishment means a startling rise in unemployment: help them. In other times, to help the industries directly would have been neither the New Deal answer nor the answer of the classical economists. The New Deal's answer was direct intervention in behalf of the unemployed. The classicists' answer was: hands off the situation.

Mr. Maurice Stans Secretary of Commerce, in discussing the textile situation a year or so ago was altogether blunt about it. If Japanese imports continued at the current rate, 100,000 Americans per year would be cast into unemployment. Now, he said, since it is government policy to provide welfare for those who need it, it is manifestly more efficient to protect them in their jobs, and allow foreign competition to displace them only gradually, rather than to permit them to be unemployed suddenly, greatly aggravating the problem of finding new jobs.

Thus, in coming out for a flexible tariff policy, he spoke the mind of the Nixon Administration clearly: use existing organism of employment, in order to soften the blow. The operative imperative? Social welfare.

It is exactly the same thing with Lockheed.

2. The great switch of the past generation is from private to public initiative. Mr. Nixon's assumption that only four per cent is a tolerable unemployment rate means that the stimulus to provide employment for the difference between four per cent and the currently unemployed six per cent has got to come from somewhere.

Under the new dispensations, the initiative is the government's. In yesteryear, it would have been the private sector's. But the old mobility is gone. For one thing, the average American has been willing to trade off more and more of his salary in return for welfare measures, public and private.

The cost to American employers of fringe benefits is a staggering 30 per cent of the payroll. The cost to the various governments, local, state, and federal, of all services rendered is in the vicinity of 35 per cent. One gradually deduces from the relative apportionment of responsibility that necessarily the initiative devolves upon the government. There isn't enough slack in the private sector.

Assume, for one minute, that Congress were instantly to a) reduce U.S. corporate taxes by 25 per cent; b) abolish unemployment benefits altogether. In such a situation, the old, the disabled, dependent children, would still receive care. But the private sector would rush to expand, even as the unemployed rushed to seek work, never mind the union scale. How far away such free market solutions appear. The psychology of welfarism dominates.

3. The critics of Mr. Nixon are determined to hold out wage and price controls (an "incomes policy," as they nowadays call it), as the deus ex machina. The classicists insist it wouldn't work, that indeed it would cause great harm.

I wonder, mightn't it be worth trying? The free market analysis is not wrong, but is there a better opportunity to discredit the price control theory than the current one? Inasmuch as unemployment stays the same, the national deficit approaches spectacular reaches, inflation goes robustly forward: why not experiment? It would be no more shocking, at the domestic level, than the recognition of Red China at the foreign level.

If we are so far into welfarism that we cannot seek out classical solutions, why not admit it? And force a confrontation with the results of the truly managed, totally managed economy? Even if, after we were through, we were to discover that about the only freedom we have left is to steal secret papers?

The consequences of this unpredictable upset of world diplomatic equilibrium remain to be evaluated. In the United States, people are generally happy about the turn of events. In official Chinese circles, they are equally happy. But with characteristic candor, Premier Chou En-lai says that in his view, the withdrawal of the GIs from Vietnam is much more important than Nixon's visit.

In Moscow, the authorities are contenting themselves with prudent statements.

Everything indicates that Republican Senator Hugh Scott is right in his belief that Nixon's visit means the decision has already been made to withdraw all American troops from Vietnam beforehand.

Furthermore, the senator says, the decision has also been made to let China join the UN next fall.

The international poker game is taking a reassuring turn. Plain common sense is winning out over the 200-year obsession with a ridiculous witch hunt. The decade has started under an auspicious star. — Jean Pellerin, July 26.

Quebec Le Soleil: Since the Quebec medical care plan took effect last November, hospitals, medical clinics and doctor's offices have been choked with patients.

Some have been so encumbered that it has become impossible to get into them within a reasonable time. So it is natural that there has been criticism and that many people have been tempted to look for abuses of the plan.

But it is essential to keep in mind the government's fundamental reason for instituting the plan, to provide better medical care for the greatest possible number of citizens.

Surely, there are abuses. But on whose part? Is the patient taking advantage of accessibility to complain about all his little aches and pains, or is the doctor taking advantage of all the patients to increase his income?

No one can deny that the present organization of the medical profession is fundamentally sound, and that it is essential to retain the part of the system whose efficiency has resisted the passage of time. This is why the government should not intervene on the level of professional medical practice. — Paul Lachance, July 26.

Ottawa Le Droit: With a little attention to detail, the dispute between Air Canada and its machinists' union would have been settled quickly.

A few extra hours of intensive talks - a little overtime, you might say - and they would have come to an agreement.

Threats of strikes, bombs or firings have no place in our society, especially when the community at large is likely to be the main victim. Until now, nearly all union disputes in Canada have been settled by negotiation. Sure, many have been marked by painful strikes, but it is clear in the final analysis that the strikes have contributed nothing worth-while to the settlement.

When will we learn once and for all that collective agreements are drafted at the bargaining table, and not in the streets? — Louis Rocque, July 24.

The plot thickens

WASHINGTON (CP) — The sudden and unexpected shift in Washington-Peking relations has left dozens of governments — East and West — scrambling for a new diplomatic posture to fit the changing scene that could emerge from the approaching Peking meetings.

Their problem is that nobody knows now what scenario will be devised in President Nixon's meeting next year with Premier Chou En-lai. One thing certain, nothing will be the same afterwards.

In earlier, less-complicated days the score was simple. The mainland Chinese were Communists. The U.S. didn't recognize them and had little difficulty keeping them out of the United Nations, where the whole of China is presumed to be represented by the delegation from the offshore island of Taiwan.

Partly because of the Vietnam war and their participation as allies of the U.S., the foreign policy of such countries as Australia and New Zealand has been but an echo of U.S. Asian policy. It would be a humiliation for governments there, particularly in the face of growing public dissatisfaction with the war, suddenly to change course in reflex action to a new China policy in Washington.

Additionally, Japan is said to feel humiliated and angry that Nixon did not tip Japanese authorities in advance of his announcement of the Peking trip.

The Philippines, too, is worried and has set about a complete reassessment of military and economic treaties with the U.S.

Said President Ferdinand E. Marcos: "If this can happen to Nationalist China, there is no assurance that this won't happen to us."

On the other side of the coin, far-left revolutionaries around the world are bound to be dismayed by the Nixon visit. The Peking regime and most particularly Chairman Mao will suffer loss of revolutionary prestige by rubbing shoulders with the top "capitalist imperialist" of them all. Certainly the announcement of Peking's invitation must have caused jitters in Hanoi and North Korea, among other Communist centres.

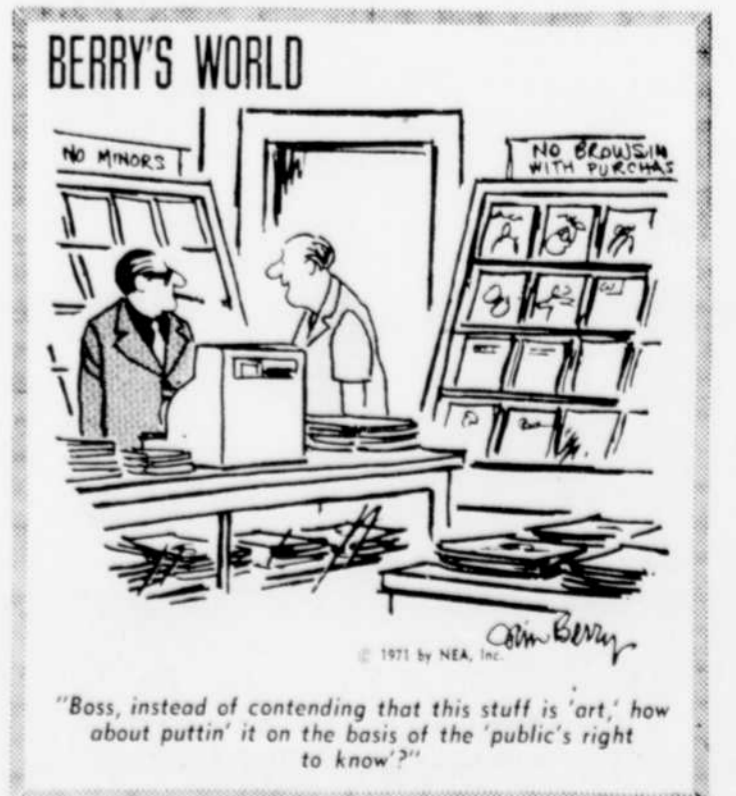

The biggest problem, of course, is faced by Taiwan which, in turn, constitutes the biggest problem blocking the road to some sort of Washington-Peking accord.

Nixon has been at pains to assert that no sudden or substantial policy changes will come out of the Peking meetings, and has sought to damp down optimism that they might hasten the end to the Vietnam war. He also is said to have assured President Chiang Kai-shek of Taiwan that the U.S. will stand by treaty promises to help defend that island if necessary.

But when Nixon talks of hopes for the "normalization" of relations with Peking, it is widely presumed that the Communist Chinese interpret this to include an end to U.S. support for Taiwan and support for Peking's admission to the United Nations, at Nationalist China's expense.

Both Taiwan and Peking have said they are dead set against a "two Chinas" policy. But a good argument can be made for Taiwan having UN representation of its own since it has about 14 million population, larger than roughly two-thirds of the other UN members.

But it would take slick diplomacy to give Peking the official China seat and persuade Taiwan to stay in the UN in its own right, giving up the pretence that it speaks for - and one day will govern - all of China.

"Boss, instead of contending that this stuff is 'art,' how about puttin' it on the basis of the 'public's right to know?'"

Sunday Sermon Subject for August 1, 1971

"Love" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon this Sunday at Christian Science church services. The nature of God as divine Love will be brought out in the Bible selections, including this from I John: "And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us: God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him." In one of the related citations to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy emphasizes what "this means for man: 'Divine Love is infinite. Therefore all that really exists is in and of God, and manifests His love.'"

THE FAMILY

Bridal showers

KINNEAR'S MILLS — The community hall at Kinnear's Mills was the scene of a happy event when Miss Helen Bailey, a bride-to-be, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower. The hall was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers, and white wedding bells.

About 50 relatives and friends attended. The hostesses were Mrs. Leonard Guy, Mrs. Jack Allan, Mrs. Lawrence Allan, and Misses Flora and Heather Reid.
Helen was met at the door by the Misses Reid and presented with a corsage. Mrs. James Bailey, mother of the bride-to-be, and the prospective groom's mother, Mrs. Bernard Robinson, also received corsages. The trio was seated at a table well-laden with attractively-wrapped gifts, which consisted of many lovely and useful things for her home in Inverness. They were passed around and admired.

At the close of the evening, refreshments were served. The bride's table was centred with a heart-shaped shower cake made and decorated by Miss Flora Reid. On either side of the cake were bowls of pansies and pink candles in fancy holders.
Helen graciously thanked the guests for the gifts, and those responsible for arranging the delightful shower.

Miss Bailey, and Allan Robinson are to be married July 31, at St. Andrew's Church, Inverness.

Guests attended from Hamilton, Ont.; Westmount, St. Hilaire, St. Agathe, Inverness, Thetford Mines, Leeds Village, Kinnear's Mills, and Lennoxville.

DERBY LINE — Miss Celeste Roy of Derby Line was the guest of honor at a delightfully-arranged shower held on Saturday evening, July 24, at the home of Mrs. John Berry.

On arriving, Celeste was surprised to find 24 relatives and friends awaiting her. Miss Madeline Roy presented her with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses, and amid salutations, she was escorted to a chair and seated between her mother, Mrs. Roland Roy Sr., and her future mother-in-law, Mrs. Dalton Downing.

The decor was in green and white with garlands and a wishing well which contained prettily-wrapped and ribboned gifts with an overflow around the base. The gifts were miscellaneous, for which Celeste voiced her appreciation.

Buffet refreshments were served from the dining table, which was centred with an arrangement of red roses. Mrs. Berry poured.

The shower cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Benoit Blais, in round wishing well design was accented with pink roses and a bride's slipper. This was cut and served by Celeste.

The hostesses were Misses Madeline Roy, Kathy and Ellen Berry, and Betty Downing. Guests included Celeste's sister, Miss Joan Roy of Boston, Mass., and others from the Boundary Villages.

Celeste and Michael Downing have arranged their marriage for August 21 at St. Edward's Church in Derby Line.

COOKSHIRE — Miss Marilyn Fraser was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower, held at the home of Mrs. Lily Hurd, with Mrs. Henrietta Hodgman as joint hostess.

When Miss Fraser entered the house, a pink rose corsage was presented to her; her mother, Mrs. Fraser, and her prospective mother-in-law, Mrs. Ross, were also presented with corsages by the hostesses.

While Mrs. Heatherington played the Wedding March, the guest of honor was escorted to the livingroom to a specially decorated chair. Here, about 30 relatives and friends were assembled to honor Marilyn. Pink and blue was the color scheme for the evening; variegated summer flowers were also used for decorations.

The hostess brought in a plastic laundry basket, filled with prettily-tied gifts, and presented it to the guest of honor. The basket was replenished several times. The gifts were opened by Miss Fraser, assisted by Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Ross, and then passed around for all to see and admire.

Miss Fraser thanked all for their kindness in having a shower and in honoring her in this very pleasant way, and invited the guests to visit her in her new home.

Refreshments were then served, and included a two heart-shaped bridal cake, frosted in the evening's color scheme.

Can't buy tokens of love for self

Valentine.
—His Wife
Dear Wife: Here's your letter. I hope all the husbands out there who put their eyes themselves will think for their glasses for a better look.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing about your advice to cheated-on wives—"Forgive and Forget"—"I'm a wife who could neither forgive nor forget and as soon as I was able to admit that I couldn't make myself over, my whole life changed for the better."

My own Casanova started having affairs with younger women four years ago. When I learned of his peccadillos he attempted to justify them by saying, "A man falls in love through his eyes. I can't help it. All the lovelies I became involved with reminded me of —when you were younger." His ingenious rationalization did nothing for my damaged ego.

Organization of Branch read at WI

DANVILLE — The regular meeting of Shipton WI met at the home of Mrs. Hull on Saturday, July 3, with Mrs. J. Olney as co-hostess.

Mrs. Hull gave a report of the QWI convention held recently at Macdonald College — which she and Mrs. Taylor attended. This report dealt mainly with WI accomplishments over the previous years. Mrs. Taylor won a door prize at the convention, of a beautiful painting — she also won second prize at Richmond Fair on a knitted cushion.

Members were named to visit the Wales Home Friday July 9 when they served home-made breads and afternoon tea to residents of the Home.

Delegates were also chosen to attend the county meeting in Richmond July 14.

A paper was read on the organization of the Shipton WI which was started in April 1932 through the efforts of Miss Gwen Elliott of Nicolet Falls.

ANNIVERSARIES CELEBRATED — A joint family celebration was held recently to honor Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Knowles of Trenholm, at the left, who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bracey of Stanbridge East, at the right, who celebrated their 40th anniversary.

25th and 40th celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Knowles of Trenholm were honored on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary given by their family Mrs. Rene Mimeau, and son-in-law Mr. Mimeau, daughter Debbie and sons Timmy and Jimmie, and Mr. Wayne Whittingstall, at a surprise party held in the Langlois Hall, Windsor.

Mr. and Mrs. Knowles were taken for a drive by Debbie and Mr. Wayne Whittingstall after which they were taken to the hall in Windsor where they were greeted by over 65 relatives and friends. They were met at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Mimeau as Mrs. Mimeau pinned a corsage of red roses on her mother and Debbie a boutonniere on her father and were then escorted to seats of honor. The guest book was in charge of their son Timmy.

Dancing was enjoyed with the music furnished by a number of friends, after which delicious refreshments were served.

The hall was prettily decorated with white and silver streamers and white wedding bells, and a number of baskets of beautiful summer flowers completed the decor.

The guest table was centred by a three-tier prettily-decorated anniversary cake, given by the bride's mother, Mrs. C. J. Gunter of Richmond.

A gift of silver was presented to Mrs. Knowles by her granddaughter Tina, from the family with their love and best wishes. A number of cards and a purse of money was also received from their relatives and friends.

Relatives and guests were present from Trenholm, Montreal, Richmond, Stanbridge East, Dunham, Melbourne and Danville.

A double celebration was also held at this time for Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bracey of Stanbridge East, who were celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary. A corsage was pinned on Mrs. Bracey by her niece, Mrs. Jack McCabe, of Pointe Claire, and a boutonniere on Mr. Bracey by his niece, Mrs. Judy Saffin of Danville.

Mr. and Mrs. Bracey were also presented with a lovely gift from the family.

Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Moreau of Stanbridge East, were unable to attend.

Best wishes were extended both couples by the guests.

Exercise to beat fatigue

Fatigue is like a fog. It creeps up on you, and suddenly you are grey and tired. Nothing puts the whammy on good looks faster.

These simple, almost passive exercises can lift that fog. Many of them can be done as you sit at your desk, stand behind a counter, stir a sauce. They were developed by DuBarry for the corps of guides at Ontario Place, newest showplace in Toronto, and are boons for every woman who leads an active life.

They really work. Try them.

For a tense neck: Flop head forward, chin reaching your chest. Roll your head around to the right shoulder, then drop it back, then to the left shoulder and finally forward to the starting position. Do this two or three times. Stop after each roll for a few seconds, then repeat.

For sagging shoulders: Sit or stand, as you wish. Hunch shoulders as high as possible; then push them back and down, and then forward, in a rotating motion. Repeat five times. This combination of tense and relax stirs the circulation; sends fresh blood through the muscles and chases tiredness.

For tired back: Stand with feet about 12 inches apart, knees stiff. Flop your torso forward as though you were a rag doll.

Clench your fists. Now try to touch the floor with your fists, using a bobbing, up-and-down motion, rather than a straight thrust. Keep bobbing for 10 times; straighten up. Relax.

Repeat three times more. It's wonderful to relieve tension and cramped back muscles. Better do this in the washroom or your bedroom, though.

To help prevent that ache in the first place, always walk up and down stairs with your knees slightly bent. Put your complete foot on the step for safety, balance, and less fatigue.

For sore feet: Sit down. Cross legs at the knee. Rotate ankles five times clockwise, five times counter-clockwise.

Now a dandy to try under the counter. Slip the shoe off your right foot. Curl your toes slightly under as you stand on your left foot. Uncurl the toes, spreading the toes as far apart as possible.

Do this five times. Do the same for the right foot, with the left foot. This exercise can also be done sitting.

For heavy eyes: Shut your eyes tight. Now squint, hard. Hold for slow count of two. Open. Repeat five times.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor of Sawyerville wish to announce the engagement of their third daughter, Shirley Ann, to Mr. William Lackie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lackie, of Birchton. The wedding is to take place on August 21.

Approaching marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Irwin of Waterloo, Quebec, announce the approaching marriage of their eldest daughter, Margaret Anne, to Mr. Robert Beaulac, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Beaulac of Waterloo. An August wedding will take place in Calgary, Alberta.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

East decided that his partner's failure to play the ace was some sort of a suit preference signal so East returned the deuce of clubs.

South won with dummy's ace and tried to get some club discards on dummy's diamonds only to go two down when West ruffed the second lead of the suit.

Now let's give the deuce of spades the floor at the card meeting. "I don't get much of a chance to be the hero of a hand," he would say, "but it is a shame that some mere human being will ruin my opportunity. There I was in full control at trick three and South reached over and played me. If he had just held back and thrown any other card in the hand except the club ace the rubber would have ended triumphantly for him."

So it would have. If the club shift came, dummy's ace would win. But now South would play that deuce of trumps; draw all the trumps and then put the high diamonds to real work.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19) — There is a tendency to be attracted to the flamboyant today, unusual in Aries' charts. Try to subdue it.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — Most of the action is behind the scenes. Your view may be obscured by daydreaming and lack of attention.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Try to combine idealism with a little healthy skepticism and realism and see just what happens.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) — Contact people you need as allies in your cause. Be frank about your wants and intentions.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you wear your heart on your sleeve for all to see, you could be very embarrassed later on.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — What you think you wish for may not be really what you want. Take time to think things through.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Demanding associates may try to impose on your good nature and generosity. Stand your ground firmly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Someone may be pulling the wool over your eyes. While you are aware of it, you seem helpless to take action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be sure to keep promises you made. Pay bills due. Do whatever necessary to make the future more secure.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You'll get a favorable response if you make your requests in a reasonable and courteous manner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be a leader rather than a follower. Try out the new styles that suit you. Aquarians are individualists.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — A series of small misadventures makes this an upsetting day. Don't allow emotions to get the upper hand.

SURPRISED AND GRATEFUL!
PREPARING FOR OUR 10th ANNIVERSARY SALE!

By DALTON CATCHPAUGH

The second annual Regatta 50, sponsored by Georges Lussier, the Magog region Labatt agent, will be held this weekend along the Memphremagog Promenade.

The event will get underway Saturday, when spectators will witness the effort of Gerald Bombardier, who is attempting to swim Lake Memphremagog from Newport.

A special party Saturday evening at the Centre de Loisirs will see the crowning of a Miss Regatta 50.

Sunday will be an event-crammed day, as a full program of events from 10:30 a.m. will terminate only in late afternoon with the prize awarding. Open to the public, there'll not be an admission fee, and it's expected that the crowd of 3,000 of 1970 will be topped if the weather is favorable.

Mr. Lussier, who is sponsoring the event, was credited last summer with originating the biggest drawing card of the year at Magog.

With a full range of aquatic events Sunday, highlights will include waterskiing, boat racing, sailing, log rolling, acrobatics on the lake, and a special parachute jump into the water by two skydivers.

A full slate of officials, workers and behind-the-scene organizers have spent a month preparing for the July 31 and August 1 event, which has also gained the full support of Magog's mayor and city council as a special tourist attraction.

Woodard, who presented her with a small token of appreciation.

A food auction was held, after which a salad tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. E. Woodard and Miss V. Moranville.

The Elks Club sponsored Indians are the Sher-Lenn Little League champions for the 1971 season. The team, managed by Jean Chouinard and coach Denis Gosselin, went through the season with only two defeats in the 21-game schedule. Blessed with players returning from the 1970 season, the team was earmarked to take the title and this they did and were worthy winners.

The Orioles, the Richelieu Club sponsored team, finished in second place in the standings and coach M. Goulet did a great job with this team. They were perhaps the most improved team over last season, as they finished in fourth spot in 1970. Coach Goulet was ably assisted by Jean Landry.

The Senators, the Kiwanis sponsored team, with two new men looking after the coaching—Danny Raban and Dewey Raban—are to be congratulated on bringing this team along so well and finishing in third spot. The Red Sox always seem to get into playoff contention and they have accomplished that again by finishing in fourth position, just edging out the White Sox.

The Tigers, with Moon Mullin again at the helm, finished better than last season. This young team did very well. Mullin was assisted again by Don Kingsley and G. Roy. White Sox just missed the playoffs by one point, but they were well coached by Denis Doucet and L. Roberge. In mentioning the Red Sox, it was Andre Boisvert and P. Fahi who looked after this good team. The Yankees and Twins were big disappointments this season. Both these teams had the potential to do better, but as they say in Brooklyn, wait til next year.

The league playoffs will be held up owing to the provincial playoffs being held in Sherbrooke. They should get underway around August 16. The Indians will meet the Senators with the Orioles taking on the Red Sox. The series will be a two-out-of-three affair.

Next Wednesday, August 4, is a red letter day for the Sher-Lenn Little League. That is the day they start to play host to the best teams in Quebec and the Maritimes. All preparations for the event are settled and it's all up to the weatherman and the support of the public to make it a success. The important matter of interest to the Sher-Lenn Little League is that the success of the provincial playoffs here will be a big factor in the League having the All-Canadian Finals in Sherbrooke within the next three years.

Last night's game here between the Sher-Lenn All-Stars and the Cowansville All-Stars was called off owing to the wet grounds but will be played today at the Amedee Roy Stadium starting at 6 p.m. Winner of this one goes to Valleyfield Saturday to take on the Valleyfield All-Stars.

Teams competing in the provincial playoffs will be published Monday or Tuesday. Four districts will have representative teams, and the series will be a two-game elimination.

The three stars this week are Richard Bergeron, Red Sox; Franco Zol, Red Sox; and Bernard Boutin, Senators.

In Quebec tennis play Lutz ousts Ashe

QUÉBEC (CP) — Hard-hitting Bob Lutz of Los Angeles, seeded eighth in singles at the Quebec international tennis open, upset top-seeded Arthur Ashe of Miami 7-5, 6-3 Thursday to advance to Saturday's semifinal round against Tom Okker of The Netherlands. Lutz, a 23-year-old graduate of the University of Southern California, overpowered his opponent with forehand and backhand smashes.

He broke Ashe's first service in the second game of the first set but saw his own service broken in the ninth game. Holding a 6-5 lead going into the 12th game, Lutz broke Ashe's serve at 30 to win lead and set 7-5.

He duplicated the first-set win, smashing a cross-court forehand drive to the top left corner to break Ashe's serve in the second game of the second set.

In the ninth game, Lutz served up three aces to win the game and the match.

In the only other singles match played Thursday, Okker gained a berth in the semi-finals when he beat Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico 6-4, 6-2.

USES SPEED Okker used his speed against the hard-hitting Pasarell, breaking his opponent's serve in the seventh game of the first set. In the second set Pasarell missed a few easy shots in the early going and fell apart when Okker broke his serve in the first and third games.

In the first doubles contest on the program, an all-Australian affair, Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle teamed up to defeat Ray Ruffles and Bob Carmichael 6-2, 4-6, 7-6.

After the third set went to a tie-breaking 13th game, the 3,200 spectators gave the four Australians a standing ovation. Rosewall and Stolle won the tie-breaking game 7-5.

Under the rules of the tournament, the seven-point tie breaker system is used in early-round action to speed up play on the $1 million, 20-city pro tour which travels through North America, Europe, Asia and Australia.

The system has both teams alternately serving two points each with the winner being the team which picks up seventh of the first 12 points. If the tie-breaking game becomes tied at 6-6 the teams alternate single serves until one has a two-point advantage.

In the other doubles match Rod Laver and Roy Emerson of Australia defeated South Africa's Bob Maud and Frey McMillan 6-1, 6-3.

The week-long, $50,000 Quebec Open ends Sunday with the finals in both singles and doubles.

Rose: Roberts the best

There are several National League batters who probably would disagree with Pete Rose, but the two-time batting champion of Cincinnati Reds believes that Dave Roberts of San Diego Padres is the best left-handed pitcher in the league. Sparky Anderson, the Reds' manager, not only agrees, but goes even further. He says Roberts is the best pitcher—either right- or left-handed—that he has seen all year. Roberts, owner of the National League's best earned run average among starting pitchers, lowered his ERA to 2.15 Thursday night, throttling the Reds 5-1 with a sparkling five-hitter. "I've seen harder throwers," said Anderson, "but Roberts tonight was the best pitcher I've seen all year." Rose, who had two of the Reds' five hits, said: "I can't think of a better left-hander in the league." Elsewhere, Pittsburgh Pirates battered Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4. St. Louis Cardinals downed New York Mets 3-1 in a game shortened to eight innings by rain, and Atlanta Braves defeated San Francisco Giants 4-2. Roberts, obtained by the Padres for $200,000 in the October, 1968, expansion draft, was nicked for two hits and a run in the first inning on a single by Rose and a double by Lee May, then tied his club record by retiring the next 18 batters before yielding a one-out single to Tony Perez in the seventh. Two infield singles in the eighth were the only other Reds' hits off the 6-2, 200-pound Roberts, who didn't walk a batter and struck out five. Afterward, Roberts said: "I felt so strong I was trying to overpower hitters the first part of the game. I found out after two innings that I had already thrown 32 pitches and I knew I couldn't keep up that pace. That's when I went to pitching instead of throwing." He threw only 64 pitches in the final seven innings for a total of 96. Despite his impressive ERA, Roberts' record is only 8-11. Among his losses have been 1-0, 2-1, 3-1, 3-2, 4-3 and three 2-0 games. DRIVES IN RUN Roberts, also a good hitter, made sure he got at least one run Thursday night, driving it in with one of his two hits. Dave Campbell chipped in with a pair of run-scoring doubles for the Padres. The Pirates overcame an early 4-0 Los Angeles lead, with the help of Gene Clines' three-run homer, Bob Robertson's two-run blast and Willie Stargell's 33rd

Gabler sparks Cat win

HAMILTON (CP) — Quarterback Wally Gabler came on in relief with 2:03 left in the game and steered Hamilton TigerCats to an exciting 17-15 victory over Edmonton Eskimos in an interlocking Canadian Football League game Thursday night before 22,786 fans. All the fast action was packed into the final five minutes of the game after Edmonton's Mike Law made his second interception off Joe Zuger and the Eskimos turned it into a touchdown. Bob Houmar diving over five plays later with just 2:03 left to send the Eskimos into the lead. But coach Al Dorow surprised the Eskimos after the kickoff, substituting Gabler for Zuger, and the former University of Michigan ace pulled it out with a 17-yard touchdown strike to Dave Fleming with just five seconds left showing on the clock. Tommy Joe Coffey, Hamilton's pass-catching placekicker, accounted for the rest of the Ticat points on a first-quarter touchdown, a 41-yard field goal and two converts.

Hurt Tiger dangerous

Fred Scherman, workhorse of Detroit Tiger bullpen, has another victory and the bruise to prove it. Scherman took matters into his own hands Thursday night, getting hit by a pitch to force home Detroit's winning run in a 10-9 victory over Kansas City Royals. Elsewhere in the American League Thursday, Milwaukee Brewers shut out Boston Red Sox 3-0, California Angels dropped Cleveland Indians 7-2 and Chicago White Sox blanked New York Yankees 4-0. Oakland Athletics at Baltimore Orioles and Washington Senators at Minnesota Twins were rained out. The Tigers had gone into the ninth inning against Kansas City trailing 9-6 despite a grand-slam homer by Norm Cash and a pinch shot by Dick McAuliffe. Singles by Gates Brown and Al Kaline with one out got Detroit started. After Willie Horton walked, loading the bases, Bill Freehan struck out and Tom Burgemier relieved for the Royals. Cash was hit by a pitch, forcing in one run and then Jim Northrup singled for two more, tying the score. Then McAuliffe walked, loading the bases again. REPEAT HEROICS That brought up Scherman, who was pitching for the 47th time this season. And the hurler was hit by another pitch, forcing in the Tigers' winning run. It was the second straight night that a four-run ninth inning gave Detroit a victory over the Royals. Freddie Patek drove in four runs for the Royals with a double and a homer and Lou Piniella extended his hitting streak to 18 games, longest in the American League this season. Boston dropped its third straight against Milwaukee with Marty Pattin firing a four-hitter. Bill Voss homered for the Brewers and wireless Luis Tiant dropped his fifth game for the Red Sox. Chicago beat the Yankees for the fifth straight time with Tom Egan's two-run homer and a solo shot by Bill Melton providing the offence. Tom Bradley scattered nine hits for the victory. Billy Cowan and Ken McMullen cracked home runs, leading California past Cleveland.

Golf's Leonard at 19th

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stan Leonard, the world-class Canadian golfer who inexplicably lost his game at the peak of his career 10 years ago, has finally decided to give up competition and become a weekend golfer. "I'm so relieved that I don't have to go out there and punish myself anymore," says the 56-year-old Leonard. "I've abused and annoyed myself long enough." Leonard, who became one of the most respected international players, last month was still searching for whatever it was he lost a decade ago as a touring professional. In 1955, he was individual champion in the Canada Cup (now World Cup) team competition in Montreal. He gave a repeat performance in 1959 at Melbourne. Leonard won three U.S. pro events: the greater Greensboro in 1957, the tournament of
