Commission hears both sides of Pontiac ward boundary dispute

by Denise Belec

The decision concerning the future boundaries of the electoral districts in the Municipality of Pontiac is now in the hands of the Commission de la représentation électorale du Québec.

On Thursday, October 19, Mr Pierre F. Côté, C.R. and Commission président; and commissionners Guy Bourassa and Marc André Lessard, were at the Luskville Community Centre to hear the communitiy's opinions on the proposed division of the Municipality into districts in which the population will be more envenly divided.

The battle has been raging since July, when the Municipality of Pontiac decided to redefine the boundaries of the Municipality's council districts.

The municipalities of Quyon, South Onslow, North Onslow and Eardley were united into one in 1975. From comments made by both groups, those opposing the redivision and those supporting it, this is the first time the new municipality has been so divided on an issue.

The Concerned Citizens Committee (CCC), a coalition of residents in the three western wards of the Municipality who oppose any changes to the electoral district was the first to address the Commission.

The CCC asked the Commission to reject any changes on the basis that there were many inaccuracies and discrepancies in the figures used by the Municipality to redefine the Wards. Mrs Eileen McCrae, speaking on behalf of the CCC, said that the group had compared names on Provincial and Municipal lists and that the numbers of eligible voters were quite different.

The history of the three western wards was another reason cited by Mrs McRae for opposing any change.

Mrs McRae said that historically, the Wards of South Onslow, Quyon and North Onslow were three individual municipalities where the needs of the people were met by people living within each small community. The people within each formed a homogeneous socio-economic grouping tied by a common linguistic, cultural heritage.

Mrs McRae said that amalgamation of the four municipalities was a loss to the three western municipalities which became Ward 1, 2, and 3, while the fourth, Eardley, became Wards 4, 5, and 6, which Mrs McCrae claims was a tremendous gain for this sector.

"For many years, the western wards had the advantage of having the mayor elected from their sector. Eastern and western sectors lived in comparative harmony, even when the eastern sector provided us with the mayor.

"We oppose any redistribution which would result in a loss of one representative on council on the basis of its geographical size. These three regions have more than one-half of the land mass of the municipality, which requires that we be represented by at least one-half of the councillors. Although we don't have one half of the population.

Mrs McRae added that the ratepayers of Wards 1, 2 and 3 opposed any changes on "the grounds that council had not acted in good faith," and that it had continually misinformed them.

The CCC accused the council of not holding the proper consultations prior to drawing up new boundaries. The CCC claimed that council did not follow the procedures outlined in the municipal code.

Hélène Bélisle, councillor representing Ward 5 of the Municipality of Pontiac, said that the redistribution of Wards had been done in due form. She said public meetings were held and that objec-

Terry Fox bridge being repaired

Employees repairing the Terry Fox Bridge in the Municipality of Mansfield noticed that plywood had been taken from the site in the night of Saturday to Sunday. The loss is estimated at $150. Police are investigating the theft.

The Municipality of Mansfield has received a $30,000 grant to repair the Terry Fox Bridge in Mansfield.

The bridge had been closed for the past two years because it had deteriorated to a point where it was dangerous to users.

Mansfield Mayor Robert Ladouceur said the municipal employees are doing the repairs on the bridge. The bridge should open again to traffic within the next two or three months.

The bridge was first built in 1985 as part of a tourist route that would link the Coulonge Chute with Leslie Lake and the Rocher Fendu. Mr Ladouceur added that a plan to build a bridge between Mansfield and Calumet Island was also part of this project.

Campbell's Bay native inducted into Country Music Hall of Fame

by Richard Wills

It may seem to be a long way from the old dance halls of the Pontiac to the pinnacle of national success in the music industry, but to one local boy it is merely a natural progression.

Ron Sparling, who grew up in Campbell's Bay, was inducted Saturday night into the Ottawa Valley Country Music Hall of Fame. Along with Terry Carisse, this year's other inductee, Sparling joins such well-known figures as Oral Scheer, Mac Beattie, Joe Brown, and Orval Prophet in the select group who have received this honour.

In the early 50's, Sparling reminisces, he used to watch Sheer on television through the front window of Arbic's store in Campbell's Bay, because he had no TV at home. Now the two men share space in the Hall of Fame.

Another previous inductee, the late stepdancer Donnie Gilchrist, also came from Campbell's Bay, which gives that Pontiac town a double distinction in the history of country music in Canada.

Although he began his career in the late 50's as a drummer for many of the region's best-known western orchestras, it was Sparling's second career, in the management business, that brought him his greater success. In his time he has booked shows with nearly all of the top country and western acts in the country.

Greatest love

Sparling's love of music began before he reached his teens, as part of a musical and social scene that was, he says, "sort of coming to an end when I was about 10 or 12." Those were the house parties – the homegrown sessions that spawned the style of entertainment that has now grown into a multi-million-dollar international industry.

As a boy, he would sit beside the musicians and dream of one day being able to join in.

"I remember going to the Ladysmith Dance hall when I was 14 or 15, when Alex Cobb and the Moonlight Ramblers were playing. I just fantasized being on stage.

"The dance halls were my greatest love."

For the time being, however, his musical performances were confined to drumming in parades for the Campbell's Bay Orange Lodge.

At an Ottawa Christmas party where everyone was singing "The Pontiac Line" by Andy Lusk, Sparling casually offered his services as a drum-

Pontiac Jr B's come from behind, but fail to catch Golden Knights

by David Moore

The Pontiac Junior B's found themselves in trouble early in their home opener against Ottawa West on Friday, October 20th.

The Ottawa Golden Knights charged in quickly, striking first only a minute and a half into the first period, with Ted Poulsen banging in a rebound on an open net. Assisting were Jeff St Louis and Trevor Clark.

Minor penalties started to pile up on the Pontiacs during this period, leaving them short-handed and too busy to muster up any defence.

Midway through the first period Ottawa West struck again, when Jeff Wiggins buried the puck behind Pontiac starter Denis Villeneuve. Assisting in the play were St Louis and Jamie Monds.

With the few chances the Pontiacs had in the first period, Dave Rich put the Juniors back into the game at 9:20, assisted by Paul Collette Jr and Grant Hodgins.

But Ottawa bounced back again very quickly, adding two more for a 4-1 lead before leaving for the first intermission. Scoring goals three and four were Trevor Clark and Andy Watzenboeck. Assisting were Wiggins and Monds on the third, and Sean Brennan and Geof Vivian on the fourth.

Second period

Penalties continued to plague the Pontiacs into the new period. The Golden Knights did not waste time in taking a commanding lead, scoring four more with the Pontacs answering back only once, leaving the score at 8-2.

Scoring Ottawa's fifth marker 35 seconds into the second period was Trevor Clark. Drawing assists again were Monds and Wiggins. Watzenboeck continued with goals six, assisted by Brent Jessup with Jeff Nimmo. Ottawa's seventh marker went to Wiggins; St Louis and Watzenboeck got the assist.

Pontiac's lone second period goal was netted by Grant Hodgins. Assisting him was Sylvain Roy.

Ottawa closed out the middle frame scoring number eight with Kirk Sharkey slipping the puck behind Pontiac's alternate goalie John Robertson.

Third period action

The Pontiacs held Ottawa's offence to one point in the third. Scoring for the Knights was Poulsen; Clark and Wiggins drew the assist.

The Pontiacs really came alive in the latter part of the third, scoring four goals against a weary Ottawa defence.

Dave Rich netted his second and third goals of the night, with Sylvain Roy and Mark Muldoon assisting. Stephane Sgarbossa popped in goal five, assisted by Rich and Peck.

Grant Hodgins got the Pontiacs' last marker in the final minute of play, with Rich assisting.

Final score was 9-6 in favour of Ottawa West.

The Pontiacs' next home game is Sunday, October 29th at 2:30, when the Arnprior Packers hit town. According to Pontiac General Manager Art MacIntyre, Kevin Keon should be back in action soon, after pulling a shoulder ligament in a collission on Friday night.

QPF Car Rally

by Denise Belec

The officers of the Campbell's Bay Office of the Quebec Police Force are at it again. Putting the final touches to their second annual car rally.

Proceeds from the rally which will be held this Saturday, October 28th, will benefit the Pontiac Community Hospital and the Fondation de la Sûreté du Québec.

The whole County is invited to meet the challenge, and to come up with the right answers to the clues so carefully set out by the police.

The Rally

Cars will start leaving the municipal hall in Calumet Island at 9:00 am on a first come, first served basis.

The rally will be divided into four parts, permitting participants who get hopelessly lost, to continue the rally to the end. The rally should take three to four hours to complete.

The cost is $10 per car, with two people permitted in each vehicle.

The QPF urges the people of Pontiac to take up the challenge.

Man dies in bush accident

The accident occurred at about 2:15 pm at Busted Lake near Camp Manitou in the northern part of Pontiac County.

Quebec Police Force spokesman Richard Bourdon said that Philippe was cutting trees when one of the trees hit another and rolled back, falling on him, crushing his head.

A co-worker who discovered the accident.

Philippe Romain had been working in the woods for five years. He had been in the employment of Barette Fortin Ltd since October 2nd.

Shooting death on Allumettes Island

The Quebec Police Force Major Crime Unit is investigating the shooting death of 16-year-old Shayne Clifford Marchand on Saturday, October 21st.

According to QPF spokesman Richard Bourdon, Shayne was with a 16-year-old friend who was staying at his grandmother's place when the incident occurred.

Bourdon said that Marchand was photographing the friend who was holding a 12-gauge shot gun. The gun went off and hit Marchand in the face.

Bourdon said there was not much to add at this point except that it is being treated as a suspicious death. Bourdon said that an autopsy would be performed and that the gun would be studied for any malfunction.

New Business

Quyon Family Hair Care Centre

Lori Ann Matechuck has started a new business in her home in Quyon. A family hair care centre.

Lori Anne studied hair styling at Michael School of Hairstyling, eight years ago in Sault Ste Marie.

Since, she has worked at many hair salons including Renaldo's in Ottawa and Unisex in Shawville.

The birth of her son Josh, now four months old, made her decide to open up shop at home, where she could be close to him.

The hair salon is open Tuesday and Wednesday from 1 pm to 6 pm; Thursday and Friday from 9 am to 9 pm and Saturday from 8 am to 5 pm.

For the convenience of seniors and others who may not find it easy to leave the house, Ms Matechuck will visit homes by appointment from 9 to noon, Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Eventually, Lori Ann will offer a makeup line and makeovers. "This will be a help to teenagers who are starting to experiment with make-up and have no one to show them how to apply it," she said. She will also sell the makeup at retail.

The salon is located at 62 Bruce St. Apt A in Quyon. For Appointments call 458-2994.

Artists' Studio Tour an exciting success

by Katharine Fletcher

On October 14th and 15th, the public was invited not only to view professional artists' work – but also to meet the artists themselves in their home studios.

Gatineau artists self-financed and hosted this first annual event called "Artists in Their Environment". A map and brochure highlighted each studio and outlined the route through the glorious autumn countryside from Wakefield to the Rupert/Masham area. A warm welcome, a hot mulled cider, and the opportunity to meet artists in their own creative space made the tour a grand success.

The ten participating artists represented a stimulating cross-section of media and styles. Included were the exciting Celtic-inspired paintings of Shelia Helferty-Lacharity of Low exhibited in the charming 1859 Brooks Hill Cottage; and the tactile fibre craft of Denis Atkinson displayed in her home, an intriguingly-comfortable converted barn!

There is something very special about having the opportunity to enter the artist's personal living quarters. You gain an inkling of the energy, the discipline and the determination that is a basic requirement of the creative process.

You also get an insight into the love of the artist for their creations. It was

Clarendon Contest winners

Six winners have emerged from the first Clarendon Beautification Contest sponsored by the Clarendon Municipal Council.

The local "Flowered Houses" contest promotes beautification of the Municipality in residential, agricultural, and commercial categories.

Becky and Clarence Wilson of Green Lake won the $100 first prize in the residential category. Joan and Peter Bauer of the Heath Road came in second, winning $50, while Doris and Bill Watson of Calumet Road West won the $25 third prize.

In the agricultural division, Joy and Dalton Hodgins of the Hodgins Road won the first prize of $100. The second prize of $50 went to Shirley and Thoburn Caldwell of Radford. Lynn and Elwyn Lang won the $25 third prize.

There were no entries in the commercial divison.

Because the contest was a promotion by the Ministry of Agriculture, it was decided to present the awards to the winners at an agricultural event. This year the prize money will be presented at the annual banquet and awards night of the Pontiac Holstein Club on November 4th at the Shawville Community Centre.

A committee including Jeannine Wickens as Clarendon Council representative, plus Rebecca Wilson and Margaret Hodgins of the Clarendon Women's Institute organized the contest. They chose two neutral judges from the Ministry of Agriculture.

Judges Louiselle LeBel of Shawville and Helene Boisvert of Buckingham, viewed the properties in August. They used the criteria of: overall visual effect, general cleanliness, health of plants, beauty of plants, and beauty of landscaping. The choice and site of plants and inert materials were also considered.

Ms LeBel said the dryness of the summer in the area especially affected lawns, but, overall, they were impressed by the 15 entries.

"For the first year, we are really happy," said Ms LeBel. "We didn't think there would be that many participants."

The committee commends Heather and Ross Dickson of Sand Bay, John Langford of Calumet Road West, Iva and Hubert Elliott of Starks Corners, Jack and Elaine Lang of Highway 148, Helen and Royce Hodgins of Portage Road, Regina and Joe Leveris of Highway 303 North, Don and Jean New & Sons of Calumet Road West, Linda and Vernon Fairhead of the 8th Concession West, and Roley and Beulah MacDougall of the 4th Concession, for their entries.

Wedding

Albert - Fraser

Julie, daughter of Gil and Lucille Fraser, and Sean, son of Gerry and Heather Albert of Ottawa, Ontario, were married on Saturday, June 3, 1989.

The wedding was preceded by two lovely showers and two stags hosted in Quyon and Ottawa. Two hundred and thirty-five guests attended the ceremony which took place in Ottawa at St Patrick's Parish officiated by Father Gary Cain. Assisting in the ceremony were Cheryl McPhie, Eleanor Foran, as organist and Gail Gavan, soloist.

Joanne Daley attended as her maid of honour. The bridesmaids were Audrey Fraser, Francie Brewster, Cecile Dumont, Kelly Albert, and Laurie Albert.

Ian McNaughton attended as best man. The groomsmen were Joey Fraser, Mike Thompson, Zenon Woychyshyn, Phil Zerr, and Peter Kennedy.

Kyle Chamberlain, nephew of the groom was the ringbearer.

Following the dinner, a reception was held at The Tudor Inn and the guests danced to the Davey Drummond Band.

Julie and Sean are now residing in Ottawa, Ontario.

Rotel Players come to Shawville Saturday

This Saturday evening, October 28th, the Rotel Players of Ottawa will be putting on a live variety entertainment at Shawville's S E McDowell School entitled "It's a Small World".

While live entertainment is a rarity in small communities like Shawville, and worthwhile to attend, it is important to be aware of the project which these players will be promoting: Rotel. Rotel provides a service which could affect any residents of the Ottawa Valley personally.

Rotel is a 50-room hotel, built through the efforts of many local area Rotary Clubs at the Health Services Centre on Smythe Road in Ottawa, and available at very low cost to people using health care facilities in the city, or staying overnight to be near a patient. The latter is an important aspect of care for someone hospitalized who will benefit from the love and support of family or friends nearby.

Rotel rates are $23 per night for a room with a double bed, and $29 per night for a room with two double beds – a bargain to be sure. It is open 24 hours a day.

Rotarian Dan Darling, a professional entertainer, is the director of the Rotel Players, who have been putting on these shows throughout the Ottawa Valley for several years. Tickets for this concert are available from any member of the Shawville Rotary Club, and will be available at the door of McDowell School on October 28th, starting at 8 pm.

More information can be obtained from Clarence Wilson at 647-3929.

Shawville delegate attends worldwide womens' conference

Carolyn Knox of Shawville was selected to attend a recent international women's conference held in the US.

On September 21st through October 1st, the Associated Country Women of the World held their 19th Triennial Conference in Kansas City, Missouri. Two thousand country women and homemakers from 23 countries share visions and concerns in the heartland of America. The meeting was hosted by the Country Women's Council of the USA.

This year's conference also marked the 60th anniversary of the ACWW.

The theme of the Conference was "Partners in Progress". Dr Ellen McLean presided over the meeting, at which the new president, Mrs Valerie Fisher of Australia, was elected.

"It certainly was a wonderful experience," recalls Mrs Knox, whose lifetime membership in the ACWW allowed her to bus down from Toronto for the occasion.

"You had to be there to realize the membership that was represented," she says. "Friendliness was half the conference."

Voting delegate from the Quebec Women's Institutes was Pearl Inglalls Yates from Dunham. Other delegates were Gwen Parker of Hatley, and Mrs Knox.

The organization's next meeting will be in 1992 in the Netherlands.

ACWW gives firsthand information about the United nations organization. The Association's objectives are to relieve poverty, advance education, relieve sickness and protect health.

ACWW circles the world with societies in over 73 countries. More than nine million members link together through this international non-governmental organization representing country women and homemakers.

It is a non-party political, nonsectarian, and non-racial. The aims are to raise the standard of living of rural women and to promote and maintain international friendship and understanding.

Mrs Knox is not sure whether she'll be able to attend the Netherlands conference, but she holds out a hope for the following one, scheduled to be held in New Zealand. "I have a little more zoom for there," she says.

Artists' Studio

intriguing to hear Janice Moorehead talk of how she painstakingly balances bits of glass, without solder, into layered collages. In her piece "Metro", an angular expression of a cityscape, she demonstrated how the shadows on the wall behind the piece – created by sunlight – give extended life to the work itself. Yes, the viewer might have observed this, but to actually hear Janice express her excitement was an unexpected treat.

Perhaps that's what the studio tour is all about. It is successful because it provides an opportunity to meet with and talk to artists in their very own setting.

Conversely, artists have the opportunity to meet their public, to hear their observations. As an alternative or addition to the gallery scene, studio tours offer the unparalleled benefit of introducing – and integrating – the artists into their own community.

Gallery exhibitions decidedly have their indispensible function. However, there are a growing number of artists who are disenchanted with the gallery scene, with its costs and the increased risk of damage to their artwork.

This studio tour is significant to Pontiac County. Here we are blessed with an active artisic community that might benefit from a similar tour.

Poachers must be punished

Quebec Game Warden Luc Guindon of Laval died in hospital on October 10th, after being shot by a man hunting moose at night with a crossbow near Ste-Agathe-des-Monts, 100 kilometres north of Montreal. Police say no charges will be laid. The following editorial appeared in the Sherbrooke Record on October 16th.

Fearing for their safety, some game wardens have suspended night camouflage operations against poachers.

Who can blame them?

Would you risk your life out there in the woods – particularly after the shooting death of a game warden by poachers is being treated as an unfortunate accident?

Last week, Warden Luc Guindon, 29, was shot in the heart by a poacher armed with a crossbow. He was apparently mistaken for a moose. Guindon had been on duty, dressed in camouflage.

Wardens are justifiably angry with the decision not to lay charges against the poacher and his friends, who were illegally hunting at night. Under Quebec's game conservation laws, it is not only illegal to hunt at night, but it was also against the law to use a crossbow to hunt moose or deer at that time.

In the last couple of years, the government has finally started cracking down on poachers – who hunt without regard for Quebec's precious wildlife nor fellow human beings. But if wardens retreat fearing for their lives, what control do we have over poachers?

If the killing of a game warden by people obviously breaking the law is to be treated so lightly, what message are we sending game wardens? Worse, what message are we sending poachers?

Quebec Justice Minister Gil Rémillard demanded a report on the case, and could review the decision not to lay charges.

Sorry, Gil, that's just not enough! This is not an isolated incident. Guindon is the fourth Quebec game warden to be killed by hunters since 1969.

These poachers must be punished. If a hunter enters the forest and fires at a shadow he isn't even sure is an animal, he should not be shooting. It shows a complete disregard for the law and a criminal disregard for life.

If he is not charged with premeditated murder, he should be charged with criminal negligence and manslaughter. A man is dead and that poacher is responsible. We have to send a message to poachers that we will no longer put up with their wanton disregard for the law, animals and people. More importantly, we have to send a message to wardens: we will support their efforts and we will not allow them to be needlessly butchered without reprisal.

Letters to the Editor

Open letter to Shawville Councillors and Mayor

It is nice to see the Mayor and Councillors of Shawville follow the rules in their book so closely. As a member of the Shawville/Clarendon Fire Dept., I know the Mayor and Councillors have to follow rules, or so they tell us. Every time we ask for something, they tell us, "You can't just expect us to say 'yes,' it has to go before council for a vote." or "It's not in our budget." After all, there are rules to follow.

Now to my point.

Years ago, the Fire Department, through fund raising and donations, bought and paid for an emergency vehicle, that being the Ford truck with the bucket. This vehicle you see around town putting up decorations and flags. That's OK if a member of the Fire Department is with it, but a lot of times they are not. In the agreement between the Village the Fire Department, it is stated, par. 14 and 15, "Any fire fighting equipment is not to leave the Fire Hall without the consent of the Fire Chief, and a member of the Fire Department with the equipment." So why is it that you, Mr Mayor and/or Councillors, cannot follow your own rules when it comes to this?

What if there was a fire, how could we find our equipment or where?

Yours truly,
Wayne Bohard.

P.S. Have a fire-safe day.

Letter to Brian Mulroney

Dear Mr. Mulroney:

Enclosed, please find a copy of my letter to the editors of newspapers across Canada (October 18th Equity). I am concerned about the deep resentment felt by many English Quebecers as a result of the restrictive language policies legislated by the present Quebec government. While our provincial politicians are justified in their attempts to preserve French language and culture, they are blatantly violating the language rights and threatening the cultures of minority groups in Quebec.

My ancestors settled in Quebec over a century and a half ago, where they proceeded to live in relative harmony and prosperity in a predominantly English community. They were, as I am now, part of a minority group, but they had something which our Quebec government has taken away from me: The freedom to live and work in one's mother tongue without government recrimination.

Premier Bourassa's decision to restrict the use of English as stipulated in Bill 178 has created animosity not only between French and English Quebecers, but between French and English Canadians. History has proved, time and again, that the promotion of one viable culture at the expense of another results in terrible conflict, and regression rather than progression.

Sir, you have stated many times previously that you believe the rights of minority groups should not only be respected, but protected. I ask that you now show leadership in helping Canada's two main cultures live and work together in every province, and that they be accorded the same rights and freedoms throughout the entire country.

French Canadians need only equal status with English Canadians, not special status. The same should be applied to English Quebecers.

Yours truly,
Keith Nesbitt
Wakefield, Quebec

Reply from Mulroney

September 8, 1989

Dear Mr. Nesbitt:

Thank you for bringing to my attention your concerns over minority language rights in Quebec and the notwithstanding clause of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

The Government of Canada believes that Quebec, in responding to the unanimous decision of the Supreme Court, should have sought to promote the French language in Quebec in a manner that respected the freedom of expression of all citizens, without recourse to the notwithstanding clause (section 33 of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms). I conveyed this view to Premier Bourassa before he arrived at his decision which resulted in the passage of Bill 178. I have since made clear my view, and that of the Government of Canada, that the decision of the Government of Quebec was both disappointing and unsatisfactory.

It remains my firm belief that it is possible to strengthen the French language in Quebec while at the same time maintaining the right to freedom of expression, as suggested by the Supreme Court, for Quebec's linguistic minority.

I have said in the House that the notwithstanding clause is a fundamental flaw of the 1982 Constitution Act and that it is, in my judgement, inconsistent with a Charter of Rights and Freedoms. The decision of the Government of Canada to make such an overwhelming concession to the provinces in 1982 is without parallel here or in any other jurisdiction. By concluding such a flawed arrangement, the Government of Canada also deprived any successor government, seeking to heal the wound, of the flexibility that inheres in a comprehensive constitutional negotiation.

The removal of the notwithstanding clause is an important matter which can be addressed at future constitutional conferences. The Meech Lake Accord will make such conferences both possible and mandatory and will thus provide a means to review and strengthen the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, among other matters.

As you are no doubt aware, the Government of Canada expressed its regret and disappointment with the language laws which Alberta and Saskatchewan adopted last year. Let me assure you, therefore, of the Government of Canada's committment to the promotion of official languages and the development of anglophone and francophone minority language communities across the country. I have indicated publicly that I intend to address the issue of minority language rights in their broadest context at the first constitutional conference to follow the proclamation of the Meech Lake Accord.

Again, thank you for writing, and for the opportunity to respond to your concerns.

Yours sincerely,
Brian Mulroney

Frontier Days

The story up to now is about bees and the part they played in opening up the County in the Frontier Days. The next period could be called settling in and this would include house building, barn raising, clearing land, stumping, exchanging animals and machinery.

The first struggle of the new settlers was to cut logs, haul them to the spot chosen to build the house, usually near a spring or a creek. This done, the first bee would be one comprised of neighbours with experience in framing logs for exact fit in raising the building.

The next episode would be purchasing the material needed in building the house or barn. This would include enough nails, shingles, door hardward, glass, cement and mortar, bricks and chimney hardware such as pipes, long bolts, clean out duct, etc.

All is now ready to call a bee and that the date don't conflict with a neighbour's date for the bee. This is probably the most romantic kind of a bee – moving into a new home in a new country.

One must remember that the labour was all free, because no one had much money and it was needed to buy food and material. The date was then set and enough people got together on the long summer days to finish the house in one day except for the chimney, windows and flooring which could be done later.

This house building bee would be supplemented by a great thanksgiving meal where everyone would bring something to eat for up to twenty men and three meals.

After a late-night meal, everyone would congregate inside the new building and sing songs of praise and tell stories by the light of the coal oil lamp. They would ignore the mosquitoes and makeshift chairs and really Praise the Lord till the wee hours of the next morning. Everyone went home satisfied and tired but happy that their new neighbour was settled among them.

By the time everyone in the settlement had a house to live in, and secure against the summer heat and rains, the 25 degrees below zero winters with great snow storms that isolated farmers or settlers for days had arrived. It was time to get on to the business of scratching out an existence from the land.

Clearing the land, a few acres at a time, was the next stage in setting up a homestead that would provide an independent existence for the settler.

Certain jobs could be done with one or two men but that method was not used very often except when a new settler had time on his hands. An important item was the stumping bee. The best time of the year for a stumping bee was in the spring just after the frost had left the ground. It was easy to dig and a good team of horses or oxen could be pretty effective in pulling out stumps in the clay ground where nothing could be done in the late summer when the clay was hard and the stumps couldn't be budged.

Believe it or not, it was dangerous to go into the bushes to pick berries or other wild fruit, so the women and children used to make bees so they could feel safe against hungry bears and other wild beasts thought to be waiting in the bush.

4-H Steer Club. Chris Judd, son of Mr and Mrs Lewis Judd, received the Coderre Trophy, and Jack Lang, son of Mr and Mrs Lawrence Lang, received the Merit Award at the Sherbrooke Winter Fair. Lang thus wins the right to represent Quebec at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto in November, in the category of young beef raisers.

Orla Mee Honoured. On October 8 and 9, the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers held their centennial celebrations in Montreal. One of the events was the ceremony of the presentation of the Order of Scholastic Merit, of which Miss Orla Mee was one of the recipients.

Head table guests were Morley McGill, Father May, League President Buddy Sloan, Sec-Treas Bill Mousseau, Gord Lomer and Bruce Yemen.

The Fort Coulonge Comets, Champions of the League, left almost immediately after dinner.

The Ray Johnston Trophy for highest point standing in the League was accepted by Coach Keith Horner for the Shawville Tigers. Mr Sloan mentioned the success of the Shawville team, having won the League Championship for seven out of nine years. It was first won by Campbell's Bay in 1956.

Other League trophies were awarded to: Coulonge's Ken Soucie for Rookie of the Year; Shawville's Earl Powell – Best Pitcher; Shawville's Harvey Smith – best infielder; Campbell's Bay's Dennis Therrien – Best Catcher; Bryson's Ivan Saunders – Best Outfielder; Coulonge's George Gagnon – MVP; Shawville's Keith Horner – Best Coach; Shawville's Harvey Sweetman – Most Gentlemanly Player.

Regional Board. From preliminary information, it would appear that Protestant schools in western Quebec will form a regional school board, which will be the second largest in area in the entire province. Involved are 23 local boards, serving 1200 students.

Shawville News. The old Academy building was sold by auction on Tuesday last to Mr James Dale of Clarendon, who returned to this section a short time ago, after several years' residence in the US.

Mr James Newton is having a dwelling house erected at the end of Victoria Avenue, near the railway tracks.

Mr Alf Draper is having his house veneered with brick.

Married. At the English Church in Aylmer on September 30th, two of Pontiac's well known young people, in the persons of Miss Lilly, daughter of Mr Thomas Coughlan, and Robert Thomas, eldest son of the late Wm Wallace, all of Morehead, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

Born. At Clarendon on October 16th, to Mr and Mrs Norval Kilgour, a son.

The War. The Canadian troops arrived at Plymouth, England, on Thursday last, in good health and spirits. They were accorded a grand British reception. Debarkation began on Friday, and the Canucks began to entrain for Salisbury Plain, where they will undergo additional training.

Service of special intercession for our troops who have gone to the front will be the character of the Friday evening services at St Paul's church, henceforward, beginning with this week's.

Box Social. Quite a number of the young people of the village drove out to Charteris on Friday evening to attend the box social held under the auspices of the Orangemen of that section. The social was quite a success from the financial point of view, a sum of over $60 being realized from the sale of boxes and admissions. When proceedings connected with the social were concluded, the young people thought the opportunity a good one to have a little dance, and accordingly, music was soon forthcoming, and the light fantastic toe was merrily tripped until the early morning hours were well advanced.

A Day of Carnage. The Shawville Hunt Club hit upon an excellent day last Thursday for their annual match, although the wind was adjudged a leetle too high for good partridge shooting. The teams selected comprised ten n a side, with Messrs John Lester and Ralph Hodgins as captains, respectively. The sportsmen nearly all made a very early start, radiating, it might be said, in all directions for several miles. North, south, east and west trod the relentless "nimrods," dealing death to nearly everything – feathered or furred – that was unfortunate enough to be in their way. The count was made at McGuire's hotel at six in the evening.

Considerably over 200 squirrels "bit the dust" last Thursday as a result of the perambulations of our local marksmen. One party bagged twenty-six.

Forum on Environment
by Katharine Fletcher

An introduction

by Katharine Fletcher

Being environmentally aware is currently "in vogue".

We hear politicians declaring themselves to be committed to "the environmental cause". We see alarming newscasts on television, graphically depicting such environmental catastrophies as the latest oil spill – no, not the first, but the latest. We read articles on acid rain damage that not only affects our lakes and streams but also our trees or our industries such as maple sugaring.

It's frightening. It's sad. It's exhausting.

I say "exhausting" for several reasons. First, by speaking up or writing about environmental issues, one is immediately labelled a "tree-hugging environmentalist", a label that immediately sets up barriers rather than tearing them down. Second, the issue won't go away; our environment is literally our life. Third, it's hard to know what to believe; even scientists don't agree about how serious the situation is – or about what the solutions are. And fourth, if you attempt to lead an environmentally-friendly lifestyle, it can be costly in time and money, commodities that seem very elusive.

This column will be about the environment... It does not aim to exhaust you!

What it does aim to do is this: to present issues that affect us all, and, whenever possible, to suggest positive steps that you and your family can take to develop an environmentally-friendly lifestyle.

Unlike many topics that come and go, being environmentally aware cannot just be "in vogue", or a passing fashion. We cannot afford to be cynical. We cannot afford to think that our beautiful Pontiac will always stay the same. We cannot just look back and idly wish that we could turn the clock back in time to those elusive "better days".

We can learn about what we can do to help. Each and every one of us can make a positive contribution.

What are you, your family, your class doing abour the environment? Want to share your ideas? Write to me c/o Forum on the Environment, THE EQUITY, Box 430, Shawville, Quebec, J0X 2Y0.

Quyon Legion launches Poppy campaign

With the advent of the month of November, members of the Royal Canadian Legion begin their most noteworthy activity of the year. During the two week period immediately preceding November 11, Legion members and associate members begin the placement of poppies in businesses and schools.

The Quyon Royal Canadian Legion Branch 231, which has responsibility for Bristol and Luskville as well, will again be canvassing in those areas until Remembrance Day.

This year's Poppy Chairman is the Rev Robert Scott, Protestant Padre for the Branch. Over the next two weeks, businesses in Quyon, Bristol and Luskville will be displaying posters bearing the slogan, "Together We Will Remember Them."

Thankfully, two generations of Canadians have never experienced war on a global scale. Part of the purpose behind the Poppy Fund is to educate young Canadians about the great contribution that was made toward world peace by those who fought in the First and Second World Wars and the Korean War.

There still remain many veterans of these wars we owe a great debt of gratitude. The Royal Canadian Legion is dedicated to the task of providing assistance to veterans and their families in time of need.

Funds for this task in our area are provided through the generosity of citizens of the Pontiac who purchase poppies and wreaths during the annual campaign leading up to the Remembrance Day services.

Branch 231, in Quyon, will conclude this year's campaign with a Memorial Service at the Cenotaph on Clarendon Street on Sunday, November 12 at noon.

Rink managers ready for Jr B's

Town Employee Rick Russett checks the ice surface at the Shawville Arena on October 19th, in preparation for the following night's Junior B hockey game. Friday night's match against the Ottawa West Golden Knights was the first home game for the Jr B Pontiacs. Although the ice has been in use for a couple of weeks by minor hockey, the Jr B's Pontiacs were forced to go elsewhere for ice until last weekend.

Russett and Town Employee Arch Hillier manage the Arena for the winter, looking after the ice and booking ice time. Once the chiller equipment was restored to working order, successive layers of ice were applied. After a couple of layers, the white ice paint is laid down, then a couple more layers and the marking lines are laid down with coloured paper. A few final layers of ice, and then the Zamboni machine gives the rink surface its final finish.

Biggest crowd ever for Shawville Night at R C

On October 21st, Rideau Carleton Raceway entertained the largest crowd ever from the Pontiac on Shawville Night at the Races.

Sandra Murray organized the evening; and, as sponsors for each race, Shawville businesses presented coolers to the winners of the last nine of the evening's eleven races.

The Pontiac audience was fortunate enough to see locally-owned horses achieve two seconds, one third and one fourth-place finish that night.

In the second race, Sher Is Noble, co-owned by Shawville's Barrie Murray, placed second.

Mr Mudd, owned by Daniel Leduc of Aylmer, won the third race, and received a complimentary cooler from Daniel Slevin, representing McLean and Slevin Insurance.

Armstead Mark, owned by Yvon Lepage of Bourget, Ontario, won the fourth race, and received a cooler from sponsors Robert MacKechnie and Eric Smith of Shawville Ford.

In the fifth race, Leigh-Ann Lance, on behalf of McCann and Sons Hardware, presented the cooler to Stormont Looker, owned by Lorne Link of Williamsburg, Ontario.

The sixth race was won by Kert's Message, owned by Brigitte Quintal from Granby. The cooler, from Paulie's bar, was presented by Paul and Sylvie Thomson.

Representing Murray's Sporting Goods, Barry Murray presented the cooler to the winner of the seventh race, Pub Crawler, owned by Investim, Inc of Montreal. Placing second in this race was JJ's Red Ribbon, owned by Timmy Murray, Garnet Orr, Steve Hodgins, and Blake Barr, all of Shawville.

The cooler for the eighth race, donated by the Pontiac Junior B Hockey Club, was presented to Lets Go Mez from Tom Fraser, Jim Hodgins, Kevin Stanton, and Albert Armstrong.

In the ninth race, the winner was Nalas Cartouche. The cooler was presented by Linda Schwartz, Darlene Dods, Jim Hodgins, Robert McCord, and Mike Morrison, on behalf of sponsors Valley Mutual General Insurance Association of Shawville. Placing third in this race was Sheriff Ransdell, owned by Jan De Haan of Quyon.

The tenth race was taken by French Master, owned by Bill Murray Sr of Brockville. Sponsored by the Corporation of the Village of Shawville, the cooler was presented by Mayor Edgar Schwartz, Fire Chief Roy Thoms, and Councillors Sandra Murray and Bill Black. Placing fourth in this race was Shotgun Blues, owned by former Shawvillian William R Horner.

The eleventh and final race was won by Victoria Sil G, owned by Embrun Stables. Les, Charles, and Garnet Orr presented the cooler on behalf of the Clarendon Inn.

CHIP-Fm to hold general meeting on November 16

CHIP FM will be holding a general meeting on November 16 to discuss the situation of the station and to elect a new Board of Directors.

On Monday night, October 23rd, the Board of Directors met with officials of Communications Québec.

Mr René Guillerm, the president by interim of the Board of Directors, said that he could not elaborate on what was discussed at this closed meeting.

He did say, however, that on November 16, the six empty seats on the board of directors would have to be filled. "We are looking for serious people because we have set goals to make the station work."

"We also want to stop the rotation of personnel every six months or so." Another goal set by the board is to have finances controlled by the Board of Directors instead of the general director.

A guest speaker was introduced by Helena Beattie. Evelyn Maloney MacNamara is connected with a life-line program from Elizabeth Bruyere. This involves people helping people and is helpful to folks living alone. This allows individuals to remain safe and independent in their own home and give familes peace of mind.

The system has a computer, which is connected to the Elizabeth Bruyère Health Centre, 43 Bruyère St., Ottawa, K1N 5C8, telephone 560-1488.

It has a life-line button, a press pendant. It requires a telephone jack and a private line. In an emergency, a person pushes the help button and an alarm is sent to the Centre. Immediately, personnel will call that person in their home. If that person is unable to answer, the telephone designated responder will be sent to the home.

Eleanor thanked Evelyn for her informative talk and presented her with a gift. This monetary gift will be turned toward the Bruyère Health Centre.

The meeting was adjourned by Noella.

Prayers were said for priests and vacationers.

The hostesses were Ada and Eleanor.

Most of us, when asked "Where do you work or live" are proud to say (like many of our ancestors answered before us) "I live and work in Shawville, the most neighbourly community in the prettiest valley in the world".

I'd like my kids to be able to say the same thing in the future!

How about you?

Story of Pontiac's only hanging

The following account first appeared in the Crime Flashback column by Max Haines, taken from the Toronto Sun of January 11, 1982.

Michael Bradley's name made headlines in 1935, when, in one controlled and deliberate act of rage, he snuffed out the lives of five members of his own family.

Bradley lived on a farm with his wife and four children, just down the road from his parents' home on Allumette Island in Pontiac County. At one time, Bradley and his family lived with his parents, but he and his father quarrelled constantly. Bradley claimed that, taking into consideration cash and labour he contributed, he had close to $3,000 invested in the family farm. His elderly father Joe didn't see it that way. The quarrels became so heated that the Bradley family moved to another farm in the same area.

On a hot summer morning in July, 1935, the rage which burned within Bradley was transformed into cold, deadly action. Armed with his own .32-calibre rifle, he travelled on foot to his parents' farm. He hid in one of the barns, knowing that his Uncle John would be coming into it to perform his first task of the day.

Around 6:30 am, John walked into the stable area. As he did so, a bullet whistled by his ear. A second bullet tore into his abdomen, killing him instantly. Bradley dragged his uncle's body to a nearby chicken coop, where he covered it with hay.

Bradley again took up a position which allowed him an unobstructed view of the doorway. Only a few minutes elapsed before his father Joe entered the barn. One shot directly into the chest and he lay dead on the barn floor.

Next to die was 33-year-old Joanna, Bradley's sister, who no doubt heard the shot which killed her father while she was preparing to feed the cows. She ran toward the farmhouse, made it to the living room and slammed the living room door shut. Bracing herself against the door, she received the full impact of three bullets in the back. Bradley then sought out his mother in the kitchen and shot her without hesitation.

The last member of the family to die that morning was Bradley's brother Thomas. He was shot twice before he could leave his bedroom.

An eerie silence fell over the farm. Everyone was dead.

Discovered by labourer

Joseph Cantin, a farm labourer, was on his way to the farm in the morning of the shooting. He wanted to find out if the Bradleys could use an extra hand for the haying season. Suddenly several shots pierced the still morning air. Cantin was afraid. He didn't want to go to the Bradley farm in case a madman was on the loose. Instead, he told milk truck driver Nelson Soudere, who was driving by, to tell Father Dennis Harrington to come to the Bradley place quick. By the time the priest arrived, Cantin had gathered up enough courage to peer through the farmhouse window. He was the first to witness the carnage wreaked by Bradley that day. Harrington arrived a short time later and saw to it that the police were notified of the quintuple murder.

Bradley was located at his own farm. From the very moment of the discovery of the bodies he was a suspect. At the inquest and trials which followed, Bradley said his .32-calibre rifle had been stolen from his home 10 days before the massacre. Eyewitnesses on adjoining farms identified him as the man they had seen running from the farm right after hearing the sound of the fatal shots.

Bradley collapsed when Mr Justice Louis Cousineau sentenced him to death. The sentence was later carried out at Campbell's Bay, the only hanging ever to take place in that community.

Michael Bradley hanged in 1935

The following account of the execution of Michael Bradley appeared in THE EQUITY on April 11, 1935.

In the yard of the Court House at Campbell's Bay on Friday morning, as a church bell tolled a solemn death knell, Michael Bradley paid the supreme penalty for the murder of his father, mother, brother, sister, and uncle, at their farm home at Demers Centre, Allumette Island on July 21, 1933.

Mass was celebrated for the condemned at dawn, and at 5:55 Bradley walked from his death cell to the scaffold. He droppped through the trap at 5:57 am, and doctors pronounced him dead four minutes later. He was attended by a priest, doctors, prison officials, and the sheriff.

The carrying-out of the execution marked the first time in the history of Pontiac County that the supreme penalty has been inflicted.

As Bradley walked to the scaffold with steady step, one of the committee of eight official witnesses fainted and had to be carried into the outer yard.

A detail of 12 men and two officers of the provincial police accompanied Bradley from Bordeaux jail on Wednesday, where he has been held since his arrest.

The five Bradleys were shot in the house and barns of the Bradley home with a 32-calibre hunting rifle. Michael was placed on trial for his life at the county court house at Campbell's Bay in July, 1934, but when the jury disagreed, a second trial was ordered. His case was transferred to Hull criminal assizes on instructions from the Attorney-General of Quebec.

A petition asking clemency was circulated throughout the district, with many persons signing it.

The justice department replied that, owing to the magnitude of the murders, no clemency would be shown.

Bradley was married and was the father of four children, the eldest of whom is nine years. His wife visited him the day before the execution.

THE WAY WE WERE in THE EQUITY

compiled by Richard Wills

the road between Shawville and Portage du Fort is reported in a very dangerous condition, the sleepers being broken in the centre. The guardians of the township's interests should see to it at once, and avoid the possible expense of paying for the loss of somebody's team, should the old affair happen to collapse.

The steam threshers now travelling about the country are blamed for wrecking a good many culverts and frail bridges on thee rural highways. Just as well; perhaps it will lead the civic fathers to see the wisdom of constructing something more substantial.

Steamer. The steamer Janet Craig is pretty busy at present, large quantities of grain, cattle, horses, etc., being shipped from Bristol. Considerable freight being consigned to the business men in Portage du Fort is also being carried.

Shooting Match. Our boys came pretty nearly carrying off all the prizes at the shooting match held at Bristol Corners on Saturday, Mr McGuire having a tight contest with Mr Goodwin for first, which the latter executed good marksmanship to carry off.

Concours d'affiche de la Fête du Canada

Le secrétaire d'État du Canada, M. Gerry Weiner, a lancé aujourd'hui le concours d'affiches de la Fête du Canada 1990. Les douze gagnants, représentant chaque province et territoire, ainsi que leurs parents, seront accueillis par le secrétaire d'État sur la colline du Parlement, à l'occasion de la cérémonie officielle du 1er juillet.

L'année 1990 marque le 25e anniversaire de l'adoption du drapeau canadien, lequel est sans doute notre symbole le plus visible et le plus apprécié. En célébrant notre fête nationale, nous pourrons tout à loisir réfléchir à ce que ce symbole représente pour chacun de nous et au privilège que nous avons de vivre dans un pays de liberté et de tolérance. En encourageant nos jeunes à participer à ce concours, nous pensons les amener à mieux apprécier la valeur de nos symboles, qui nous distinguent et nous unissent en tant que peuple.

Le concours est ouvert aux jeunes de 18 ans et moins. Un grand gagnant sera choisi parmi les douze dessins primés à l'échelle provinciale et territoriale et deviendra l'affiche officielle des festivités qui se tiendront partout au pays l'an prochain.

Tous les dessins devront être envoyés au bureau du Secrétariat d'État le plus proche avant minuit le 1er décembre 1989, le cachet de la poste faisant foi, avec sur l'enveloppe la mention: Concours d'affiches de la Fête du Canada.

Le concours de 1990 bénéficiera des Lignes aériennes Canadien international, qui assureront gratuitement le transport aller et retour des lauréats et de leurs parents, alors que l'hôtel Château Laurier les logera aussi gratuitement lors de leur séjour à Ottawa.

Précautions à prendre avant de consommer l'ours noir

Même si les résultats d'analyse récentes permettent de conclure que seulement 1% des ours noirs peuvent être porteurs du parasite pouvant amener la trichinose, le ministère du Loisir de la Chasse et de la Pêche tient à rappeler aux chasseurs quelques précautions élémentaires destinées à éviter toute contamination.

Premièrement, la viande d'ours ne doit jamais être consommée crue ou saignante, ce qui exclut même de goûter un plat pendant sa préparation ou de la servir sous forme de bifteck. Lors de la cuisson de rôtis, le centre de la pièce devrait atteindre au moins 58ºC.

Deuxièmement, une congélation à -25ºC, pendant une période d'au moins dix jours, constitue une excellente précaution supplémentaire: cette basse température permet la destruction des parasites, la cuisson qui suit complétant le processus.

Le MLCP rappelle que ces parasites, parfois présents dans la chair de l'ours; ne sont pas visibles à l'oeil nu et il faut, par conséquent, faire montre de grande prudence.

La trichinose pouvant découler de l'ingestion de viande parasitée et mal cuite est une maladie grave qui, si elle n'occasionne pas nécessairement la mort, laisse au moins des séquelles importantes pour toute la vie. Cette maladie se reconnaît aux symptômes suivants: douleurs abdominales, diarrhée, fièvre et vomissements. Ces symptômes semblables à ceux de la gastro-entérite peuvent permettre la confusion avec cette maladie.

Les personnes chez qui ces troubles du système digestif se manifestent après l'absorption de viande d'ours feraient bien de mentionner sans tarder ce fait à leur médecin pour lui permettre d'appliquer le traitement approprié dès le début de la maladie.

A bicyclette, signalez vos intentions

La bicyclette, au sens du Code de la sécurité routière, est un véhicule routier et son conducteur est tenu de signaler son intention de changer de voie et de tourner.

Signaler permet aux automobilistes de s'adapter à votre changement de vitesse ou de direction et d'éviter de vous frapper. Le signal doit débuter avant la manoeuvre sur une distance suffisante et maintenu jusqu'au début de l'action.

Le ralentissement et l'arrêt sont indiqués en plaçant l'avant-bras gauche vers le bas.

Le virage à gauche, en plaçant le bras gauche horizontalement.

Le virage à droite, en plaçant le bras droit horizontalement.

Signaler, c'est communiquer.

Quelques consignes de chasse

A l'approche de l'ouverture de la chasse au cerf de Virginie, le MLCP tient à rappeler certianes dispositions de la Loi sur la conservation et la mise en valeur de la faune. Ainsi, quant à l'utilisation d'un projecteur la nuit, ladite loi stipule que:

"Nul ne peut utiliser un projecteur la nuit pour déceler la présence d'un animal dans un endroit fréquenté par le gros gibier." Art. 30.2.

Il faut retenir que cet article interdit donc à quiconque de localiser du gros gibier dans les champs la nuit, que cette activité se fasse alors que les propriétaires du projecteur soient ou non en possession d'une arme à feu. Le seul fait d'utiliser un projecteur la nuit, que ce soit un projecteur à main ou les phares mêmes du véhicule qui servent alors, constitue une infraction et rend les personnes qui pratiquent une telle activité passible des sanctions prévues à l'article 165 de la même loi, soit d'une "amende" d'au moins $400 et d'au plus $1,200 et, pour toute récidive dans les trois ans de la condamnation pour une infraction à la disposition, d'une amende d'au moins $1,200 et d'au plus $3,600. Et, "dans le cas d'une récidive, le juge peut en outre condamner le contrevenant à un emprisonnement d'au plus 90 jours." Rappelons aussi que la loi prévoit que la nuit est "la période de temps entre une demi-heure après le coucher du soleil et une demi-heure avant son lever".

Au cours des prochaines semaines, une attention toute spéciale sera apportée à ce genre d'activité sur tout le territoire de l'Outaouais et la Direction régionale invite la population à signaler tous ces cas de braconnage aux bureaux régionaux de la conservation de la faune ou en composant le 1-800-463-2191.

mer to Charlie Muldoon from Beechgrove, and Chelsea guitarist Tony Charette, who hired him on in 1957.

As the story goes, Sparling didn't even own a set of drums when he got this first booking. He rushed out and bought a kit, gave himself a crash course in musicianship, and took the job. That brash move has turned out to be an eventful decision for Sparling.

Joining an orchestra called the Blue Mountain Boys, Sparling played all the dance halls of the Pontiac in those days: Beechgrove's Hall 70, Coronation Hall in Bristol, the Ladysmith Dance Hall, and, of course, the Top Hat in Campbell's Bay.

In 1961, Sparling was playing with Hank Lariviere (also known as Hank Rivers) when they shared a double bill with the Happy Wanderers. He joined in with Joe Brown, Ward Allen, Bob King, and the other Wanderers, and continued playing with them until they disbanded in 1967.

Brown and Sparling continued to work together after that. At some bookings, "Joe started to bring his kids," Sparling recalls. From this small begining, the Family Brown has now grown into Canada's premier country band, sweeping the competition at this year's Juno and Country Music Association award shows, as they have for many years.

Sparling drummed with the Family Brown until 1985, when he retired from the stage to devote his energies to management.

Changes over the years

Over the years that Sparling has been booking musical shows, standards have shifted toward bigger, more technically complex productions.

"With the Happy Wanderers we used to have a Volkswagen van," he recalls. "in which we carried complete sound equipment, all instruments, drums, etc., plus seven people!"

In today's bands, the instuments play louder, and everything is miked and amplified. In the older days, many country bands never even used a drummer.

"That was one of the advantages I had in the early days," says Sparling. "There were very few country drummers. But people like Buck Owens and Ray Price were carrying drums, and there was one style called a rim shot that was very prominent in country music in the late 50's and early 60's. That changed a lot of country bands at the time."

In the early days of the Family Brown, they often played in Pontiac at the Bryson Lodge hotel. "We were playing at Chez Charles the night Neil Armstrong walked on the moon," he recalls.

Talent agency

The other main part of Sparling's music career is the entertainment agency, named for his wife and partner, Laurie-Ann. The first booking handled by them was in Labine's Hotel in Fort-Coulonge in 1973.

Since that time, their agency has grown steadily. Locally, they have booked nationally-famous performers for the past two Shawville Fairs, plus lining up the bigger names for Don McCredie's Riverview North Country Jamborees and the Renfrew Fair.

"The biggest show I do is Wayne Rostad's Gatineau Clog," Sparling says. All this, plus handing all the bookings for Rostad and the Family Brown, who have graduated to the "duet with Willie Nelson" level of the business.

In spite of his association with the stars of the industry, "I've never really gotten away from the Pontiac," says Sparling. "The whole time I played, I was always introduced as 'Ron Sparling from Campbell's Bay'. In Joe Brown's indroductions, I was always 'The Pontiac Flash' or 'The Pontiac Kid', whether we were in England, Belgium, Vancouver, or Shawville.

"I enjoyed growing up in the Pontiac, playing hockey, going to high school in Shawville. I still know a lot of people up there. I was up there for this year's Shawville Fair.

"There's a lot of local musicians up there, a lot of good talent," he says, such as the Denault Family from Fort Coulonge.

Another of his proudest achievements is seeing his concept for Country Music Week become a reality. He was the event's first chairman in 1977, as well as in 77, 81, and 89.

The future is all onward and upward for Sparling these days. Branching out into television production, his next big project is a 13-episode series with the Family Brown and Ronnie Prophet. Tommy Hunter and Carroll Baker will be included among the guests on the show, which is scheduled to be aired in March.

If there were still an Arbic's store on Main Street in Campbell's Bay, some young person might be found watching Ron Sparling's upcoming show through the front window, and dreaming of someday being involved in the glamour of the entertainment business.

Some day that young person could also become a member of the Hall of Fame.

Commission

tions were listened to. She added that the redistribution was inevitable. Questioned by the Commission on the possibility of creating a seventh ward, Mrs Bélisle answered that this would give balance to the municipality.

The CCC opposes the creation of a seventh ward. Mrs McRae said that the way they are proposing the law, it would give more power to the Eastern sector and that it wouldn't be fair.

Gary Trivett, councillor representing Ward No. 6, said that he did not see major obstacles by leaving the West with their historical boundaries, but he added that the East Sector would have to be devided into four sections to make the population more equal in each ward.

Referring to a comment made earlier by the CCC on electors who did not reside in the municipality he said, "It is true that their address is not in the municipality, but we take their tax money."

Mr Trivett said he favoured a more equal representation. He added that he doesn't want differences of 11% on one side and 21% on the other. "I don't want to represent 800 people while another only represents 600."

A ratepayer living in the Eastern part of the municipality told the Commission that he supported the Council in its effort to give equal representation to the ratepayers of the Municipality.

Mr Ronald Belec, legal advisor for the Municipality of Pontiac and farm owner in the municipality, also favours the creation of a seventh ward.

"We must give more equal representation to all the ratepayers," said Mr Belec. "The people who pay taxes live in the East and they are not receiving services. If we don't want to lose them to Aylmer, we'll have to do something."

The mayor of the municipality told the Commission that he was the mayor of the whole municipality and that he would abide by the Commission's decision.

Twelve people (excluding the CCC) spoke for or against the changes.

In Memory

Dagenais - In loving memory of a dear mother, Laurina, who passed away October 26, 1987.
God saw you getting tired,
The cure was not to be.
So he wrapped you in His loving arms.
And whispered "Come With Me."
You suffered much in silence.
Your spirit did not bend,
You faced your pain with courage,
Until the very end.
You tried so hard to stay with us,
Your fight was all in vain,
God took you in His loving arms,
And saved you from the pain.
Always remembered and sadly missed by daughter Gail, Basil and granddaughter Laura. bo25

Dagenais - In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Laurina, who passed away October 26, 1987.
If I had all the world to give,
I'd give it up and more.
To hear her voice and see her smile,
And greet her at my door.
But all I can do dear Mother,
Is go and tend your grave,
And leave behind tokens of love,
To the best mother God ever made.
I'd like to think when life is done,
Wherever Heaven may be
That she'll be standing at the door
Up there to welcome me.
Sadly missed by June, Gerald, Donna and Janice. b oc25

Dagenais - In loving memory of a der mother and grandmother, Laurina, who passed away October 26, 1987.
Your end was very sudden
You made us weep and cry
But the saddest part dear mother
You never said goodbye.
To be together in the same old way
Would be our only wish today
No one knows the grief we share
When we are all together and you're not there.
But if tears could build a stairway
And Memories build a lane,
We would walk all the way to Heaven
And bring you back again.
But since this precious dream of ours
Can never more come true
We cherish now the memory
Of yesterday and you.
Lovingly remembered, daughter Muriel, Ron, and grandchildren.
oc25

McCoy - In loving memory of a dear mother, Lois, who passed away October 20, 1988.
She never failed to do her best,
Her heart was true and tender,
She toiled hard for those she loved,
Then left them to remember.
At early morn, when all was still,
God gave His great command;
In silent peace she passed away,
Into the Better Land.

She was the dear sister of Ena Russell, Ruby Hagel and Frank. She is also survived by three grandchildren. She was predeceased by four sisters and three brothers. The funeral was held on Friday, October 20 for service at Quyon United Church. Interment was in the Norway Bay United Cemetery.

We sure are having rain. I guess it is better than snow and it is giving plenty of water for the wells for the winter. No doubt, the farmers will be glad of dryer weather to finish their Fall work.

Last week, I made two mistakes. Denton Hodgins hasn't been able to go for his eye surgery as yet. He'll know we were all thinking of him anyway. Oswald and Florence Way haven't moved into their home in Shawville yet. Good luck when you do move and Shawville will sure welcome you. I do get ahead of myself sometimes.

Some of our seniors will soon be going to Florida. I sure hope they all have a very healthy and happy winter. They tell me the decorations in Florida at Christmas are really something to see.

The earthquake in San Fransisco left many of us sorry for the loss of lives as well as the destruction. Two residents from this area Father Cain from Quyon, and Robert Russell, son of Donald and Mabel Russell, who were there at the time of the quake called their people to let them know they were safe. Robert is at present working with the Salvation Army in San Fransisco helping people who had lost their homes.

The Shawville Lionettes are busy again this season. They are preparing for a Nearly New Sale. As well, they will have tables of baked goodies and white elephant items to choose bargains from. This Fall, the sale is being held in the Anderson & Taylor Building on Main Street, beside the Town Hall, on Wednesday, November 1st. The profit from this project is spent helping less fortunate adults and children who live in this area.
