World News In Brief

London, Sept. 19. — (Reuters) — Two Jesuit priests, Rev. Stanislaw Rotoworski and Rev. Stanislaw Nawrocki, were sentenced yesterday to 12 years' imprisonment for "activity against Poland and for overthrow of the people's regime." Warsaw radio reported.

Bogota, Colombia, Sept. 19. — (AP) — Colombia declared an end to the state of war with the West German republic yesterday.

U.S. Fifth Air Force, Korea, Sept. 19. — (AP) — One Russian-type Mig-15 jet fighter plane was destroyed and five damaged today in a furious air battle with allied jet fighters over northwest Korea.

St. Louis, Sept. 19. — (AP) — The mortality rate among wounded soldiers reaching battalion aid stations in the Korean war is a little more than half the second-world-war figure, Maj. Gen. George E. Armstrong, surgeon general of the United States army, reported yesterday.

Hong Kong, Sept. 19. — (AP) — Reports filtering in from communist China confirm that the Liao river burst its bounds in August, gave Manchuria its worst flood in decades, and cut the big Mukden-Changchun railway feeding war supplies to Korea. The floods caused the evacuation of 130,000 persons.

London, Sept. 19. — (Reuters) — A war office spokesman said yesterday that British troops in Korea may be short of winter boots and parkas this year because the items will not have reached Korea in sufficient quantities to equip all British troops before the beginning of winter.

Irish Peer Takes In Boarders

Newmarket-on-Fergus, Ireland, Sept. 19. — (Reuters) — Lord Inchiquin, descendant of the Irish kings, is taking in boarders to keep out of the red.

The 54-year-old peer can no longer maintain his vast County Clare ancestral home without help. He has already sold his Stradivarius violin for £2,700 and a 2,000-acre estate in Shropshire, England.

"So now I take in paying guests. I do not run a hotel but the guests who live here in a permanent house party, mean that I can keep up my family home," he said today.

Lord Inchiquin is the head of the O'Brien family, branches of which have migrated from Ireland to most parts of the world.

For £11 a week and up, Lord Inchiquin's guests have the run of Dromoland, his 50-room castle on his 1,700-acre estate.

Lord Inchiquin is a descendant of Brian Boru, the first king of Ireland.

King's Health Deteriorates, Lung Ailment Is Disclosed

London, Sept. 19. — (AP) — Worried Britons speculated today on the King's illness as they waited for more details on the lung disease affecting the 55-year-old monarch.

News stands did a land-office business as early commuters snatched papers carrying such headlines as "Serious News" and "King's Lung Is Affected."

Little knots of early risers gathered at the gilt-spiked fence in front of Buckingham Palace. They hoped to get an early bulletin on the King's condition.

Doctors for the tired monarch disclosed last night that "structural changes have developed" in one of his lungs, indicating a serious ailment. A medical bulletin last night gave no explanation of the condition.

Nine doctors signed the bulletin, including a tuberculosis specialist.

A London lung specialist—not one of nine examining the King—said "structural changes" can mean any of several lung diseases. He said the wording of the bulletin "suggests the doctors are not sure what is the whole trouble."

The Queen, Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, returned by plane last night from a vacation in Scotland. The Princess and the Duke had scheduled their return some time ago but the Queen had intended staying on at Balmoral Castle for several weeks.

The King himself went about his people's business last night. He had a 75-minute session with Prime Minister Clement Attlee in Buckingham Palace. Some believe the

U.K. Officials Are Ordered From Iran

Abadan, Iran, Sept. 19. — (Reuters) — The Iranian oil board today ordered two senior British officials of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company to leave the country by Sunday.

The board withdrew the residence permits of James F. Cunningham, superintendent of A.I.O.C. communications, and Dudley Box, the company's shipping manager here.

The board replaced Cunningham last Thursday with an Iranian technician, alleging he withheld technical information from them.

The board gave no reason for Box's expulsion, but it was believed to consider him responsible for the departure of five British ocean-going tugs which the Royal Navy escorted from Abadan to Basra Sunday.

Washington, Sept. 19. — (AP) — The United States made public today a three-point proposal for reviving deadlocked British-Iranian talks over control of Iran's strategic oil industry.

Presidential assistant W. Averell Harriman told the Iranian Prime Minister, Mohammed Mossadeq, in a letter that Iran must be "practical" if her dispute with Britain—generally viewed as dangerous to Middle Eastern peace—is to be settled.

Harriman wrote Mossadeq that negotiations can soon be resumed if the Premier accepts the U.S. proposals as a basis for discussion. This might indicate Harriman had talked them over, at least informally, with Britain.

The three points called for "competent" management of the oil industry under the company Iran set up after nationalization; compensation to Britain, and British control of overseas sale and distribution of Iranian oil products.

Refusing to transmit a 15-day Iranian ultimatum to Britain, President Truman's special envoy said the terms laid down by Mossadeq in the ultimatum were largely the same as those the British rejected last month when negotiations stalled.

Harriman said bluntly that both sides must show good will and give recognition to the "practical business and technical aspects" of the industry.

Mossadeq sent the ultimatum to Harriman to take effect 15 days after Harriman delivered it. This roundabout method was widely interpreted as leaving the door open for Harriman to do just what he has—pocket the ultimatum.

Council Will Meet This Afternoon To Discuss Plan For Replacement — Cause Of Fire Is Not Known.

The city-owned baseball stadium was completely destroyed by a spectacular fire early today just a few hours after 3,200 fans had watched the Sherbrooke Athletics beat Quebec to win the Provincial League baseball championship.

Charred, smouldering ruins were all that remained two hours after firemen answered a call from a radio patrol car at 4:56 a.m. At press time water was still being poured into the debris.

The cause of the fire is not known, but fire department officials said it is possible that the blaze started from cigarettes dropped between the floor boards during last night's game.

When the first reels reached the scene the fire already had taken complete control of the stadium and a second alarm was sounded at 5:05 a.m. There was nothing, however, that the four officers and 18 firemen from No. 1 and 4 stations could do to save the structure.

At the City Hall this morning it was indicated that the stadium will be rebuilt as soon as possible. No decision, of course, has been made on this yet but a special meeting of the Council has been called for 5 p.m. today to discuss the matter.

Some aldermen favor the building of a fire-proof steel and concrete replacement, but the present steel shortage may make this impossible.

The stadium was valued at $40,000 and was insured for $30,000.

The loss, however, will be considerably higher than the monetary value of the property because considerable baseball equipment and office and restaurant stores also went up in flames. Some members of the local club took their equipment with them after the game, but most of the players left it in the lockers, to be removed today.

Although most of Sherbrooke was asleep when the fire began, a large crowd gathered quickly, attracted by the roaring flames which reached more than 100 feet into the sky. The blaze was fanned by a stiff breeze which helped to spread the flames through the stands.

Some idea of the height reached by the flames was still evident this morning. The platform near the top of the 125-foot light towers behind first and third base were on fire. The towers themselves were seared yellow by the heat.

Some of the bleacher seats along the right and left field lines were unharmed and the outfield fences and the big scoreboard also escaped damage.

The heat given off by the flames was so intense that trees 30 feet from the stadium caught fire and some were still burning at 6 a.m. In what used to be the restaurant, a mass of molten glass was all that remained of many cases of soft drinks.

The stadium was started in 1937 and completed the following year, replacing the old lacrosse grounds stands that had been burned down in 1921. It originally was owned by the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association.

The seating capacity was 3,000, but on special occasions such as playoff games additional seats were installed and on several occasions more than 5,000 fans have jammed the stands.

It was built of wood, set on concrete piers and 1,000,000 feet of lumber were used in the construction. Crepeau and Cote were the engineers.

Although the loss of the stadium is a severe blow, it would have been worse had the fire come earlier in the season. Last night's game ended the local baseball season for 1951—a triumphant ending for which the fire was a sad anti-climax.

During the last few years the Sherbrooke Athletics football team has taken over the stadium at the end of the ball season, but there is no football team here this year so loss of the stands will not affect that sport.

Reds Want Talk With U.N. Officers

Tokyo, Sept. 19. — (AP) — The communist North Vietnamese government tonight asked for a meeting with United Nations' liaison officers tomorrow and the U.S. command agreed.

A release from the U.N. command information office gave no indication of the subject of the meeting.

The release said the request was received at 7 p.m. It asked that U.N. liaison officers meet with them at 6 a.m. Thursday at Panmunjom, Red checkpoint southeast of Kaesong.

Brig-Gen. Frank A. Allen, chief of information at general headquarters, said liaison officers accompanied by three allied correspondents would meet with the Reds at the time specified.

Mass-Produced Atomic Bombs Are Possible

Washington, Sept. 19. — (AP) — Can the United States make atomic bombs in abundance and for only $240,000 apiece instead of the present multi-million-dollar cost? Senator Brien McMahon (Dem., Conn.), top man in Congress on atomic affairs, says yes.

Atomic bottlenecks in materials, production, equipment and design have been broken and the country can turn the weapons out in mass production at a cost less than that of a tank, the Senator said in the Senate yesterday.

If he said, the U.S. will provide this arsenal of atomic arms, there will be fewer foot soldiers needed; fewer old style artillery pieces and more guided missiles with atomic warheads; fewer flame-throwers and more radiological warfare; planes and submarines and aircraft carriers given unlimited range by atomic engines; ships firing guided missiles with atomic explosives and torpedoes which uncannily hunt down enemy ships.

Within an hour after McMahon spoke, military leaders had copies of the text under close scrutiny. Did it mean the army or the navy or the air force or all of them would be smaller? (McMahon put strong emphasis on cutting national defence cost.)

How much rearming of tactics and strategy would be required? The air force now has bomber

Canadian Congress Of Labor Pushes For Price Controls

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Vancouver, Sept. 19. — (AP) — The Canadian Congress of Labor, Canada's second biggest union body, was launched today on a new drive for price controls.

The 350,000-member Congress decided yesterday to push for controls, a rollback of prices, an excess-profits tax and consumer-goods subsidies.

In these objections, it was looking for joint action with the 500,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, though there appeared considerable doubt as to how far the T.L.C. was prepared to go in co-operating with the C.C.L.

The bigger Congress voted at its Halifax convention last week to cut down on the extent of its co-operation with the C.C.L. and other central labor bodies, but yesterday the C.C.L. leadership said it was ready to close that breach and going even further towards labor unity.

Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the C.C.L. and one of its top policy spokesmen, told the Congress that the C.C.L. doesn't want to settle for anything less than complete unity of Canadian labor.

The only way for labor to get its ends, Conroy said, would be through an amalgamation of the two big congresses along with other labor organizations. That would put about 1,000,000 workers into a single organization.

"Anything less is playing into the hands of the government," he said as he launched a drive for political action that was backed by several other speakers among the 600-odd delegates.

The C.C.L. for several years has designated the C.C.F. party as the "political arm" or labor.

High Cost Of Newsprint Is Protested

Quebec, Sept. 19. — (AP) — The Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor yesterday decided to protest to the Quebec government against the "prohibitive" cost of newsprint.

Some 400 delegates attending the 30th annual convention of the Quebec labor group adopted a resolution urging that "the price of newsprint in Quebec be fixed to allow all our good newspapers to subsist."

(The price of newsprint was raised $10 a ton to $112 in Canada last July 1.)

The delegates also adopted a resolution advocating that preliminary hearings in criminal cases be held behind closed doors and that radio and newspaper reports be excluded since no defence is made usually at this stage of court proceedings.

The C.C.C.L. endorsed another resolution asking amendment of the Canadian criminal code to permit a Quebec government lottery.

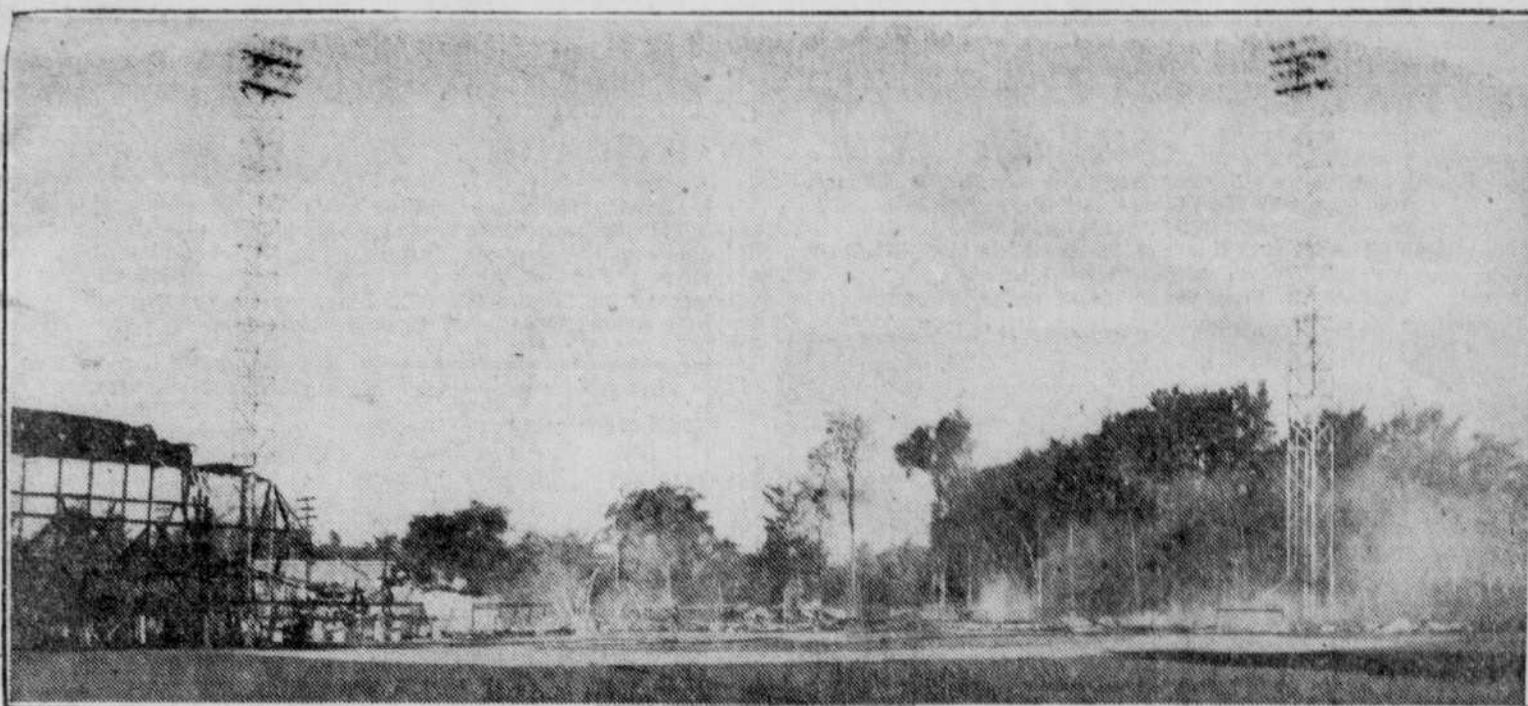

Other resolutions asked Quebec college of physicians and surgeons to lower doctors' fees and sought an amendment to the Quebec civil code so that a worker called to testify in court be paid his salary as usual.

Rene Roque, C.C.C.L. organizer who served a six-month jail term for conspiracy to stir up violence in Quebec's asbestos workers' strike in 1949, told the meeting he has resumed his post in the labor organization and will continue to do "what I have done in the past."

Quebec, Sept. 19. — (AP) — Labor Minister Gregg yesterday told the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor the Korean war has put Canada in a "difficult" economic position.

"Violation" Of Neutral Zone Admitted By U.N. Command

By DON HUTH
Tokyo, Sept. 19. — (AP) — The United Nations' command tonight announced that four unarmed South Korean soldiers yesterday mistakenly entered the Kaesong neutral zone, site of the suspended Korean cease-fire talks.

They were held by the communists for 20 hours, then freed, a command release said.

The Reds had charged that the incident was a violation of the Kaesong neutral zone.

The U.N. command took a lighter view.

It said the four, members of an anti-epidemic unit, were "armed with nothing more dangerous than DDT."

Investigation on the communist complaint, the command said, "took place without incident and in an atmosphere almost completely devoid of tension."

The release from the headquarters of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme allied commander, said U.N. liaison officers who made the investigation Wednesday noted a marked change in the communists' attitude as they drove through Red territory into Kaesong.

"Nearly all the communist soldiers along the road stood rigidly at attention as the U.N. command party passed," the announcement said.

"Many of the civilians in Kaesong smiled as the U.N. personnel passed by, in contrast with inscrutable countenances they have shown on other occasions."

The release said the U.N. investigators questioned the South Korean soldiers, headed by Sgt. Na Kwang Sin, following which they and their truck were released.

During the meeting, the release added, the communist and allied officers discussed "a proposal for changing the radio frequency in use between the delegations" for communication between Kaesong and U.N. advance headquarters at Munsan. Signal officers of both sides will meet in Kaesong later to talk over the proposal further.

The release said Na told interrogators his group lost its way en route to spray South Korean bullets and inadvertently entered the neutral zone.

The U.N. liaison officers told the Reds "it is obvious to us that the men were lost, that they wanted to turn back and that there was no intention of violating the neutral zone."

The head of the U.N. team then requested the men be turned over to him "for return to their organization and such disciplinary action as we may take."

The Reds replied they still considered it a violation of the neutrality but let the men go with the words:

"We desire that you will observe the neutrality agreement faithfully and that you will not permit such things."

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 19. — (AP) — Allied troops today hurled back two communist smashes against a hard-won key peak on "Heartbreak Ridge" in the rugged mountains of eastern Korea.

The north-south ridge is 35 miles inland from Korea's east coast.

The Eighth Army reported earlier that three major hills were captured Tuesday by allied forces on the flaming eastern front. On one, 206 Reds were killed and 37 captured.

27th Brigade Will Enter U.K. Sector

Ottawa, Sept. 18. — (AP) — Canada apparently is to continue its traditional military association with Britain despite the army's switch to American arms.

This was implied in a government announcement last night that the army has been authorized to prepare the 27th brigade for movement in November to the British sector of Germany.

However, at the same time it was announced that Canada's air division will be grouped with United States forces when it gets to Europe.

Both the R.C.A.F. squadrons and the army brigade will be in Gen. Eisenhower's integrated Atlantic pact forces.

Defence Minister Claxton issued a statement after a meeting of Atlantic pact defence ministers, announcing the impending moves.

The first of 11 Sabre jet fighter squadrons for the air division would leave for England "within a few weeks."

He said three R.C.A.F. squadrons will be going to England with the Sabres to form the first wing of the division. They would remain in the U.K. "until facilities are available on the continent."

"There it is expected they will begin by being grouped with the U.S. forces. Because much of the equipment is of the same type as

Acheson, Morrison Foresee North Atlantic Community

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL,
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, Sept. 19. — (AP) — A North Atlantic community where citizens will move freely and where they will enjoy the same basic rights and privileges is envisaged by two of the world's leading diplomats.

State Secretary Acheson of the United States and Foreign Minister Morrison of Britain, here for meetings of the North Atlantic Council, yesterday looked beyond the immediate problems facing the 12 Atlantic pact countries and made almost identical appraisals of what the future may hold.

Mr. Acheson said in a broadcast over the CBC's Trans-Canada network:

"I think we can anticipate an increasing sense of community among the nations of Europe and North America. Our first aim is to develop a community in which the individual can be free from fear."

"Beyond this, we look forward to the day when a citizen from any one of our countries may travel freely and easily anywhere throughout the Atlantic community, finding understanding and friendship, and enjoying the same basic rights and opportunities as the people he visits."

Mr. Morrison, going a little farther, told a Canadian Club luncheon:

"I am sure that we should look forward to the day when in a common citizenship for all the peoples in the North Atlantic community, with all the barriers to thought, travel, trade and understanding swept away."

Foreign Minister Stikker of the Netherlands struck a cautious note in replying to questions at a press conference. He said the question of a common citizenship implied that there would be something in the nature of a federation of states.

"I think that will take a long time," he said.

Member of a five-man committee appointed by the Council to study ways to foster greater co-operation among N.A.T.O. countries in other than the military field, Dr. Stikker said the development of an Atlantic community will be a slow, long-term project. Many practical steps will have to be taken to bring the project to reality.

Diplomats admit that the expression "North Atlantic community" is vague, but they like it for that reason. The phrase is intended to cover all phases of co-operation, within the North Atlantic region, short of actual union. At the same time the expression implies in a broad way the goal which many are advocating—a union or federation of the countries in the North Atlantic area.

A five-man committee on co-operation in other than a military field will report either today or tomorrow to a secret meeting of the council. The committee, on which a United States resolution recommending the admission of Greece and Turkey to membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Belgium, Canada, France, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Britain and the United States were ready yesterday to vote in favor of admitting the two Mediterranean countries. But Denmark, the 12th member in N.A.T.O., asked for a delay to permit time for consultation with the Danish government in Copenhagen. A reply is expected by late today.

Denmark could veto the entry of the two Mediterranean countries since the extension of membership requires unanimous consent.

Some of the countries, notably the Scandinavian members, said they would prefer to see a Mediterranean pact that would include Greece and Turkey and be allied in some way with N.A.T.O.

MAY MCAVOY, EARLY FILM STAR, NOW DOING BIT-PARTS FOR MGM

Hollywood — Movies Without Popcorn:

"The clock's been turned back to the era when rugged profile boys tenored 'I love you' and aristocratic movie queens sounded like Judy Holliday on the set of MGM's 'Singin' in the Rain'."

It's a musical about the advent of sound movies and low-slung limousines and autos of the period. Everything except Jack Benny's Maxwell is driven up to a replica of Grauman's Chinese Theater. Gene Kelly, Jean Hagen, Donald O'Connor and Debbie Reynolds are the principals pretending to be stars of 1927 attending a gala premiere.

Among the people lined up on the street, I notice a familiar face and do a double-take. May McAvoy, a high-powered star of the '20's, is working as an extra today.

It was in 1927 that "The Jazz Singer" was premiered and May herself trod the plush carpet and listened to the wild cheers of the public. Now she's just another dim face in the background of a Hollywood movie.

The rain machines are spewing water over Clifton Webb in Fox's "Elopement" and the celluloid Mr. Belvedere shiveringly speaks his lines to Anne Francis, William Lundigan and Evelyn Varden. The moment the scene is finished, Webb starts for his dressing room.

"This picture," he snaps through the chattering of his teeth, "should be called 'The Frogmen and Girls.'"

Quiet Puhlease
A comedy sequence in a bar near an army camp is being filmed for Sam Goldwyn's "I Want You" and I watch Farley Granger, as a private, work with Martin Milner, Peggy Maley and Ann Robin. Behind them soldiers and pretty extra girls jitterbug, but there is no sound of foot-shuffling.

Later I find out that all the dancers have been equipped with felt overshoes so that the dialog spoken by Farley can be heard on the sound track.

Even an atomic bomb wouldn't dare make a sound exploding in Hollywood if a big star was speaking an important line.

Two screen newcomers, Cleo Moore and Ken Garcia, are playing a torrid love scene in Hugo Haas' third independent production, "Thy Neighbors' Wife," at Motion Picture Center.

The story takes place in Moravia in 1841 and it is clear from the dialog and action that Cleo is enacting the role of a highly "Amber"-dextrous man-killer. Haas supervises a kiss of the Garbo-Gilbert variety, with Cleo bending over Ken's face. But first Haas orders her to push back her blonde braids so that moviegoers will get a peek at her camisole.

"We want people to see what's important," he explains. Just A Day's Work
Ida Lupino and Robert Ryan play a tense, hair-raising scene in "Days Without End" on the RKO lot and even onlookers who are aware of the camera and crew are caught up in the make-believe of the two stars.

It's the yarn about a widow who is held prisoner in her own home by a maniacal killer. Audiences who see this movie will be held in the grip of the scene a little longer than the set observers, however.

The moment the action is over, Ida, a terrorized woman a few seconds before, announces:

"I'm going to my dressing room to get my feet massaged. They're killing me."

Judy Canova is grinning as a rowdy bar room brawl ensues for her new starring film, "Oklahoma Annie," which is being rehearsed at Republic. She points out an Amazonian blonde bit player, who has been swinging a balala wood axe too realistically and has already knocked out a male extra.

A few moments later, Director R. G. Springsteen and Associate Producer Sidney Pickers go into a huddle about the enthusiastic axe-swinging.

DEAD LETTER OFFICE AUCTION CANADA POST OFFICE

Auctions are fun...but lost parcels aren't funny!

A lady you never heard of just bought the lovely tea set you mailed to Aunt Sophie last year. Not much fun for you in that, but nice for the lady who got it for half what you paid for it.

The gift didn't reach Aunt Sophie because the Post Office just couldn't read the address on the package, or the wrapper came off because the package wasn't tied securely. The Post Office couldn't return the gift to you because there was no return address on, or inside the parcel.

Along with 6,000,000 other letters, circulars and packages—toys, wearing apparel, surveying instruments and even a horse collar—the tea set went to the Dead Letter Office, Canada's largest lost and found department. Experts couldn't figure out where the package was to go.

The package was stored for a year, but no one enquired about it. With thousands of others it was catalogued and sold at auction. That's when the lady you never heard of legally bought Aunt Sophie's tea set.

Canadians Indifferent To History, Ewen Irvine Tells Rotary Club

"An intelligent awareness of the past is generally considered to be a sign of maturity in an individual or a community; but the Canadian people, although showing unmistakable signs of political maturity, still regard their history with indifference tempered by distaste."

This statement was made to the Rotary Club last night by Ewen R. Irvine, Associate Editor of the Montreal Star.

Canadian history, he said, is the sum total of local history, and the deeds of the little people put together make the history of a country. They give an area its color and picturesqueness.

He urged the teaching of more Canadian history and said that members of Rotary Clubs and other such organizations can and should tell the local story wherever it can be uncovered—the trivial, the amusing, even the scandalous. "Woven together, they make up the warp and weft of the Canadian fabric."

The speaker said he was not much concerned with the Massey Commission's fears that the people will be too much influenced by the United States and the American way of life, and added that he believed the Canadians would develop something distinctive.

He expressed the wish, however, that they could be as interested in their history as the Americans are, with their historical pride in the past.

Mr. Irvine used several incidents in the history of Stanstead County to prove his point that a number of facts and deeds belonging to generations past have given the people of the Eastern Townships the history they can claim today.

He stressed the importance of fostering an awareness in the community of the facts of its historical past. "It's an endlessly fascinating subject, this of finding out not what great battles took place where, or who won this or that political contest," he said, "but of finding out what the little people did that made history."

"Quebec is an historical gold mine and much of its riches is still untapped," he concluded.

Mr. Irvine was introduced by Vice-President Ken Mills and thanked by Ivan Saunders.

President Emile Levesque welcomed two guests to the meeting, Rotarian Gerry Philbin, of Valleyfield, and Norrey Hunting, of Lennoxville. He also announced that next week's meeting would be the annual rural-urban one, and would be held at 6:30 in Gertrude Scott Hall, Lennoxville.

Past President B. N. Holtham reported on the recent inter-club visit in Quebec, for a return club game with the Quebec Rotarians, and said that the Sherbrooke group had been received with the utmost courtesy and hospitality.

Members were reminded of the Fall Conclave at Crawford Notch this week-end, and were urged to attend.

President Levesque congratulated Past President Douglas Stevenson on his appointment to the Rotary Foundation Fellowship Committee and the District International Service Committee.

At the head table were Jack Thompson, K. C., F. Mills, the speaker, President Levesque, Ivan Saunders, Alpheus Gauthier, Bert Ross and Norton Baldwin.

Members of the Sherbrooke Athletics and officials of the club which won the championship of the Provincial League were tendered a reception by the members of the City Council after last night's crucial struggle. The informal gathering was held at the Council Chamber of the City Hall where the guests were welcomed by Mayor Wesley H. Bradley.

In congratulating the Sherbrooke squad for the honor they had brought to the City, Mr. Bradley stressed that this had been achieved only by teamwork, not only among the players but between team, management and executive. He then presented cigarette lighters, carrying the crest of the city, to each of the players.

Other speakers included Ivan Dugre, president of the club, Roland Gladu, playing manager, Amédée Roy, secretary-treasurer of the club and Albert Molini, president of the Provincial League. Refreshments were served at the close of the gathering.

Youth's Death Is Termed Accidental

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday following an inquest in the case of 17-year-old Jean Claude Laliberte of Sherbrooke. The youth was killed almost instantly Sunday noon when a bicycle which he was riding collided with a car at the corner of Wellington street south and King street west.

Witnesses at the inquest testified that the driver of the car, Maurice Jacques, 23, of Berlin, N. H., was travelling very slowly while the victim was travelling at a fairly fast clip.

The car's driver was going east to west and was attempting to turn the corner onto Wellington street south.

The impact of the collision knocked the boy from his bicycle and his head struck the steel top of a sewer at the curb.

Dr. Louis Gagnon, coroner for the district of St. Francis, presided at the inquest. The jury quickly returned the verdict of accidental death.

Scout Toy Shop Will Be Operated

Scouts of Sherbrooke will again operate their Toy Shop this year in order to provide toys at Christmas for children in the homes of our less fortunate families.

For a number of years now, these boys, under the guidance of volunteer adult leaders, have been performing this unselfish service which has brought joy and cheer in to the lives of countless children.

This is but one of the ways in which the Boy Scouts serve their Community, and which merits the assistance of all citizens.

Boy Scouts participate in the Red Feather Community Chest Campaign, from which the funds they require for their service projects are, in part, derived.

When you contribute to the Red Feather Community Chest, you make life happier for boys and girls of your City.

Give generously. Wear the Red Feather with pride. Help others to help themselves.

Health Matters Dominate Curtailed Five-Year Term Session Of Sherbrooke City Council Is Imposed On Constantin

Health matters dominated the brief discussions at the regular session of the Sherbrooke City Council last evening. The discussion, rather than a debate, was touched off under the item of "Inquiries" generally a time when some routine question or another is asked.

But when Pro-Mayor Bradley, who was presiding in the absence of Mayor Charles B. Howard, called out for inquiries, Ald. Henri Labonne asked what had been done about the establishment of a health unit in Sherbrooke—which had been requested by the City Council on December 20, 1949. Despite a delay of two years, no really effective health unit has been established here. Such personnel as had been appointed were not residing in Sherbrooke.

He asked that the City Council petition the government to start the health unit at once—in temporary quarters if it is to be the headquarters of the new organization, needs any major remodeling.

This gave Ald. Thibault an opportunity of commenting on the water situation, especially in connection with the discoloration of the Magog river supply owing to the dumping of dyehouse refuse by the textile plant at Magog. He proposed that the Council support the municipalities of Deauville and Rock Forest in protesting the practice, the motion, seconded by Ald. Fiset, being carried after brief debate and without a recorded vote.

All three readings were given by the by-law to change the meeting nights from Tuesday to Monday and notice of intention to introduce a by-law to regulate the sale of horse meat in the city was also given by Ald. Camirand.

The purchase of several strips of land for the widening of King Street West and of Council street was also approved.

An agreement was certified between the city and the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association for the supply of electric power and water for the arena this winter. The city will make a nominal charge of $25 for the services on condition that a minimum of seventy per cent of the receipts are turned over to the Sherbrooke Senior Hockey Club. The value of these services is placed at $3,000.

Several purchases of equipment for the various departments was also approved.

Lennoxville High School Building Fund Asks Donations Of $100,000

Citizens of Lennoxville and district this morning received an attractive booklet from the Lennoxville High School Building Fund Committee.

The booklet, and accompanying letter and pledge card, explains the need of the large addition to the existing school building and asks the people of this district to contribute generously to this cause.

The booklet states: "The extension, which will be completed for the Autumn term of 1952, at a cost of approximately $500,000, will provide under one roof, excellent accommodation for all the Protestant children of Lennoxville and district. The new wing will provide 13 modern classrooms for grades one to seven while single classes of grades eight to eleven, the High School grades, will remain in the older part of the building."

The new quarters, supervised by a resident caretaker, will enable the school to offer a more liberal curriculum than before, while continuing to prepare students for university entrance. Typing and other commercial subjects will be provided for and manual training will be taught, for the first time, in the old gymnasium.

"Facilities for instruction in household science and in the pure science subjects of biology, chemistry and physics will be much improved and extended. The new cafeteria, to be operated at cost, will serve those arriving by bus and will be available to other pupils as well. The new gymnasium-auditorium, with a seating capacity of 600, will meet a long-felt need, providing a setting for an adequate program of physical training, for general assembly of school pupils and for the holding of such functions as school plays and commencements, for which the present facilities are inadequate.

"Along with Bishop's University this extended and reconstructed school will help to maintain Lennoxville's reputation as an educational center. A fine, well-equipped school is not in itself the solution to our educational problems but it will certainly help to draw to and hold in our community well qualified teachers."

The Building Fund Committee, of which Robert McMurray and D. G. H. Melton are co-chairmen, hopes to get citizens of Lennoxville and district to pledge $100,000, in donations payable between now and five years from now.

The campaign is scheduled to start next week. Finishing touches on organization for the campaign will be ironed out next Monday evening at eight o'clock at a meeting of team captains, canvassers and the committee, the meeting to be held in the school gymnasium.

Gaston Constantin, 31, of Quebec and Sherbrooke, was sentenced to five years in penitentiary by Judge Joseph Marier here recently after being found guilty of ten charges of fraud and three charges of passing false cheques.

Crown Prosecutor Roland Dugre K.C. asked that a heavy sentence be given since the accused had already served four years in jail.

"You present a good appearance and could make an honest living quite easily but apparently you have other ideas. You will spend the next five years in jail," stated Judge Marier.

Q. C. R. Wants Sherbrooke-Newport Passenger Train Run Discontinued

Faced with steadily mounting costs of operation and drastically curtailed revenues because of competition from other forms of transportation, the Quebec Central Railway has made application to the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada for permission to discontinue passenger service on its line between Sherbrooke and Newport, Vt., and replace it by a high-way autobus service.

Under the present set-up, the railway is operating one train daily between the two points, serving among other places North Hatley, Ayer's Cliff and the boundary communities of Beebe, Stanstead, Rock Island and Derby Line, Vt.

The train leaves Sherbrooke late in the evening and returns the following morning, arriving here about seven o'clock.

In addition the affiliated Quebec Central Transportation Company Ltd. operates on parallel highways throughout the area two passenger buses in each direction daily. If permission is granted for the discontinuance of the train service, the bus company would make an additional round trip daily to replace the service at present being given by the railway. The scheduled of the additional bus trips would vary slightly from those of the train in order to meet more satisfactorily the needs of the travelling public.

Commenting on the proposal to replace the trains by buses, Quebec Central officials declare that the buses would not only care for the passenger traffic to and from the affected towns themselves but would in addition provide an improved service for residents of local points which are not now served by the railway.

Supplementing its existing passenger services, the Quebec Central Transportation Company operates an express truck daily in each direction between Sherbrooke and Beebe Junction, serving all intermediate points. This service would be augmented and changed to care for the express business which now is being carried by the train which it is proposed to discontinue.

Post office department officials have indicated that all mail now handled by rail will be carried on the improved bus service.

The majority of the municipalities and public bodies in the area affected by the proposed changes have given their approval to the suggestion of the railway company, although limited objection has been forthcoming on the ground that winter highway conditions may interfere with the satisfactory operation of buses during and after heavy snowstorms.

Commenting on this objection, Arthur M. Hand, general manager of the Quebec Central, said that in the past two years, the only disruption of service occurred on January 13, 1950, when one round trip was cancelled due to icy road conditions. The decision of the Provincial Government, taken in the fall of 1950, to take over the winter maintenance of the main highways had materially improved winter road conditions and promised to make bus operation as reliable as that of the railways, he continued.

The reason for asking permission to discontinue railway passenger service was essentially economic, said Mr. Hand. A survey made some time ago showed the cost of operating the Sherbrooke-Newport train as $3,600 per month while the cost of operating a corresponding bus service was approximately $1,100 a month, a saving of $2,500 monthly and $30,000 annually.

The application concerns passenger service only. Mr. Hand emphasized, there being no intention now or in the foreseeable future to interfere with the important freight traffic now operating over the Sherbrooke-Newport line.

ANOTHER RED DEFEAT

Coming on the heels of success at San Francisco, the Big Three's progress at Washington on issues affecting Germany is almost too good to be true. Top British, American and French officials agreed without reservation that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower should be authorized to create a unified European army, including German forces.

This in essence is the French plan, but until now it had been resisted by both Britain and the United States. When Eisenhower himself endorsed the proposal, the latter two countries underwent a change of heart.

The agreement clears the way for greater speed in the organization of effective European defense. How to handle the problem of German rearmament had continuously plagued Western relations.

It should not be forgotten, however, that the Germans have minds of their own. Though the Bonn government it thoroughly committed to the West, there has been no enthusiasm for rearmament in Western Germany up to now. The chief reasons have been fear of being trampled in a Russian offensive toward the Atlantic, and reluctance to bear arms until they have political equality.

Fully aware of this obstacle, the Big Three foreign ministers also acted at Washington to remove it by preparing to give Bonn as nearly an independent status as is possible for a divided nation living under direct Russian threat.

The diplomats will offer the Germans not a peace treaty but a "peace contract" which will closely resemble it. Under this arrangement, the Allied occupation would be officially ended and Western forces would become "defense troops" aiding the Germans. Bonn would have a high degree of control over German affairs, except where seizure by internal or external anti-democratic forces threatened.

The price for this contract would be German participation in the European defense army.

If this peace contract is engineered as planned, and accepted by Bonn on Allied terms, Germany will be pulled into the Western orbit almost as completely as Japan.

Obviously, this is a goal eminently desired by the West. By the same token, it is a condition the Soviet Union must hope to prevent.

Russian foreign policy for six years has been pointed toward the winning of Japan and Germany. What will Moscow do if both slip irretrievably from Communist grasp?

On the answer to that question could hinge the issue of peace or war in the next 12 months.

PROPAGANDIST KILLED

In a free country murder and assassination is not condoned, but in a dictatorship, there is much to justify it. The Windsor Star believes.

There, the normal means of protest are not available, and anyone openly criticizing the government is due for death or exile.

In Poland, the underground has acted to quiet forever the voice of one Moscow tool. He was Stefan Martyka, the propagandist who kept cutting in on the Voice of America broadcasts with interjections branding the broadcasts lies, etc. His purpose was to prevent the Polish people from learning the truth. He has been shot to death.

If an underground can become powerful enough to knock off such vassals of Communism, it can play havoc in Eastern Europe. It probably cannot get at the leaders, for they are very well guarded. Such incidents, and that of the escape of a number of Czechs who ran a railway train across the border into the Western zone of Germany, show beneath the stiff Communist crust in Eastern Europe there is seething unrest.

THE TRIESTE PROBLEM AGAIN

A British Foreign Office spokesman has said the Italian and Yugoslavian governments are ready to discuss the future of Trieste, the Adriatic territory disputed by both countries. Reuters reports.

The two governments have informed Britain and the United States to that effect, the report added.

The United States and Britain, as two of the three administering authorities for the 293-square-mile free territory on the northern tip of the Adriatic, declared in 1948 that Trieste should eventually be handed back to Italy.

Earlier this year, when Italian Prime Minister Alcide de Gasperi visited London, Britain said it preferred that the ownership issue be settled between Italy and Yugoslavia, and the United States later agreed.

Local elections in the Anglo-American zone of Trieste — originally set for next month — have been postponed after urgent Italian requests they should not be held "until the situation becomes clear."

THE RUSSIAN BRAND OF LOGIC

A good deal of the time the Soviet Union scoffs at the U.S. economy as outmoded and ultimately doomed. Pravda's propagandists continually forecast a shuddering collapse into a new and probably fatal depression.

Thus it strikes American ears oddly to hear Russia demanding that the United States pay half the yearly operating costs of the United Nations, instead of the present 39 per cent.

The Russians argued that the American economy appears quite capable of bearing the extra load. Indeed, a Mr. A. A. Soldatov declared comparative studies of various national incomes proved it.

You see the overpowering logic of their position, don't you?

Toss all their thoughts into one hopper and here's what you find the master propagandists saying:

"Your capitalism system is through, America. It's on its last legs. It will topple any day now. So kick in another 10 per cent to UN expenses. You can stand it better than the rest of us — the figures prove it."

Catch on?

PRESS COMMENTS

ECONOMIC SQUEEZE ON IRAN

Windsor Daily Star

United Kingdom restrictions on the use of Iranian-held sterling may appear, at first glance, an act of economic warfare, the playing of "dollar diplomacy," if such a term can be applied to sterling.

As banker for the sterling area (just as the United States is the banker for the dollar area) the United Kingdom has refused to change Iranian sterling into dollars. This cuts off dollar supplies from Iran. In addition, the United Kingdom has halted exports of scarce British goods to Iran.

This, in a sense, an economic blockade. And, due to Iran's intractable attitude, the United Kingdom cannot be blamed overmuch for resorting to such measures.

But there is more to it than the application of economic pressure on Iran. For the United Kingdom it is an act of economic defence. Iran, by her decision to nationalize the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, struck a severe blow at Britain and the entire sterling area.

The United Kingdom and other parts of the sterling area bought large amounts of Iranian oil. As they paid for it in sterling, they had no problem in financing the purchases. Britain allowed Iran a certain amount of dollars in exchange for sterling, perhaps an overly-generous allotment. It must be remembered, however, dollars are tightly rationed throughout the sterling area.

If, because of the oil imbroglio in Iran, the United Kingdom and other parts of the sterling area must buy oil from dollar countries, this aggravates the United Kingdom dollar predicament. It lessens the number of dollars available for other purposes.

As to halting of exports from Britain to Iran, if these goods can be sold on the dollar market, this likewise will assist the United Kingdom.

The necessity to conserve dollars is not merely a problem of the United Kingdom. The whole sterling area is involved.

To keep from complete bankruptcy in dollars, the United Kingdom relies on the dollar earnings of other parts of the sterling area. Mayala rubber and tin are big dollar earners, as is Australian and New Zealand wool, South African gold and Ceylon tea.

Iran launched economic warfare against the United Kingdom by nationalization of her oil. Britain's new economic reprisal is a parrying blow struck in self-defence.

ARGENTINE EGOMANIACS

The Windsor Star

Those who knew Adolf Hitler best called him a megalomaniac, meaning he had a disordered mental condition which gave him grandiose delusions. Whatever ails Argentina's Perons is somewhat milder.

Both of them, photogenic Evita and Dictator Juan, correctly can be called egomaniacs, that is, persons who believe everything revolves about themselves; or egomaniacs, meaning persons who have an abnormally developed satisfaction with themselves.

The dictator even can be called an egoist, or one who has deified himself. In forming this delusion he has had some help from his wife, who has hailed him as a god. Certainly it's sheer understatement to call either of them a mere egotist.

We're reminded again of the Perons and their cult of colossal vanity through Argentine propaganda booklets that have come this way. The cost of printing and disseminating this material must be enormous. The purpose is strictly self-glorification.

Its effect certainly is the opposite of what the Peron clique would like to create. Anyone who took it seriously would be left wondering why Argentina was so barren of ideas before the Perons came to show the way.

The language of glorification, doubtless approved by the Perons, goes from the sloppily sentimental to the fanatically ridiculous. In one booklet, for instance, we are told that:

"The hard work, self-imposed discipline and abnegation of Eva Peron, who remains ever faithful to the doctrines of social justice, can no longer be considered as bounded by human limitations, but reach out far beyond them to the realms of real heroism."

In a picture we are shown Eva smiling heroically through the window of a limousine as she leaves the scene of her self-sacrificing toil at 4:40 a.m. The picture, we presume, was not taken by a La Prensa photographer. The publicity-loving Perons bushwhacked that paper because it dared to believe an upstart dictator can be wrong.

Modern Training Of Future Queen Is Less Formal Than In Past

By ALAN HARVEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London. — Elizabeth Alexandra Mary Windsor is a Princess in the modern manner. Almost from infancy, her training and education have been influenced by a 20th-century concept that members of the royal family should enjoy greater freedom and informality.

One incident illustrates the new approach. On one of the victory nights in 1945, Princess Elizabeth, then a school girl, was invited to the balcony of Buckingham Palace to mingle freely with the happy crowds.

It is even said the sisters joined in the sport of knocking off hats — something that would have been a sensation in Queen Victoria's day.

But if the human touch has not been wanting in Elizabeth's training, there has been no lack of emphasis on her responsibilities. The possibility that she might one day succeed to the throne has been recognized from the feverish days of her father's coronation. Even before that the Duchess of York, soon to become Queen Elizabeth, sought to instill in her daughter a sense of the courtesies demanded of royalty.

Her studies covered a wide range, but as Louis Wulff writes in the book, "Queen of Tomorrow," she was never "forced precocious" in a hothouse of royal learning, nor circumscribed in her studies and entertainment when she grew older.

Elizabeth's first lessons came at her mother's knee in a nursery on Piccadilly. When she reached school age it was decided she should be educated privately. For years she kept regular school hours in an upstairs room of the Piccadilly residence, studying under Marion Crawford, a graduate of Edinburgh University, who became one of the Princess' closest friends.

Her favorite subjects were history, literature and languages. She disliked arithmetic and algebra. She became fluent in French and enjoyed the works of Moliere, Racine and Corneille. One of her early favorites was Alphonse Daudet's "Lettres de Mon Moulin."

But for the Second World War Elizabeth probably would have been the first British Princess to go into residence at a university. Instead it was decided to entrust her advanced studies to Sir Henry Marten, provost of Eton College. Her curriculum covered such relatively abstruse subjects as the theory and law of land tenure and the history of British agriculture. Controversial questions were not shied from and among other things Elizabeth received instruction on the French problem in Canada.

War-time Activities

Elizabeth sought few special privileges. During the war she registered at the labor exchange for pre-service training and at 18 insted on joining the Auxiliary Territorial Service, although the King had directed she should not be called up compulsorily. Her course of training qualified her as a driver of heavy army trucks.

Before she even came of age an act of Parliament stipulated that she would become regent of Great Britain in event of her father's disablement and that she would act as one of five counsellors of state, who discharge the Sovereign's functions when he is absent from the realm.

One of her first major public duties was Nov. 11, 1945, when as representative of the youth of the Commonwealth she placed a wreath on the cenotaph in Whitehall. Two years later, on her 21st birthday, she recognized the extent of her duties in a moving speech dedicating herself to the service of the peoples of the Commonwealth.

As a child Elizabeth was quickly aware of her royal status. On daily drives through Hyde Park, she precociously went to cheering crowds on the streets. As early as her fourth birthday she took the salute from the Scots Guards. But her grandmother, now Queen Mother Mary, soon pricked the bubble of Elizabeth's self-esteem. When the child wanted to leave a public function, insisting that a crowd outside was waiting to see her, Queen Mary sent Elizabeth out the back way and bundled her home in a taxi.

Questions and Answers

Q—Is English or Irish the preferred language of Eire?

A—The Irish language is a required study in all national schools. The aim of the Gaelic League is to have Irish made the only official language of Eire after 1970. By that date it is predicted that the civil service would be composed only of those who had a fluent knowledge of the native tongue.

Q—What was the value of the coin called the "Brasher doubloon?"

A—The face value of the doubloon was that of the Spanish doubloon, about $16.

Q—Are American boxers who fight in England permitted to bring their earnings back to the U.S.?

A—Under a British Treasury

sted on joining the Auxiliary Territorial Service, although the King had directed she should not be called up compulsorily. Her course of training qualified her as a driver of heavy army trucks.

Before she even came of age an act of Parliament stipulated that she would become regent of Great Britain in event of her father's disablement and that she would act as one of five counsellors of state, who discharge the Sovereign's functions when he is absent from the realm.

One of her first major public duties was Nov. 11, 1945, when as representative of the youth of the Commonwealth she placed a wreath on the cenotaph in Whitehall. Two years later, on her 21st birthday, she recognized the extent of her duties in a moving speech dedicating herself to the service of the peoples of the Commonwealth.

As a child Elizabeth was quickly aware of her royal status. On daily drives through Hyde Park, she precociously went to cheering crowds on the streets. As early as her fourth birthday she took the salute from the Scots Guards. But her grandmother, now Queen Mother Mary, soon pricked the bubble of Elizabeth's self-esteem. When the child wanted to leave a public function, insisting that a crowd outside was waiting to see her, Queen Mary sent Elizabeth out the back way and bundled her home in a taxi.

The government is aware, he said, of the inflationary dangers created by increased expenditures for armament and will neglect nothing to check their growth.

Mr. Gregg repeated the government's view that price controls at this time are not necessary, but that they would be considered in a future emergency. Mr. Gregg told inflation set in.

Due to the present national debt, the C.C.C.L.'s 30th annual convention, the government is forced to give priority to problems of defence.

Once these problems are settled, the government will turn its attention to social questions noted in a message from the 88,000-member labor organization, he said.

Chief among these, the C.C.C.L. claims, are rising prices. The convention has adopted a resolution asking for immediate controls with a price rollback to the January, 1951, level.

that of the U.S.A.F. the R.C.A.F. squadrons will use to a considerable extent the U.S.A.F. supply organization.

Mr. Claxton said Gen. Eisenhower has expressed "deep satisfaction" that the Canadian government will seek parliament's approval in October for movement of the 27th brigade—with 6,500 men under Brig. Geoffrey Walsh—to Europe in November.

"He was of the opinion that the brigade should be deployed in the northern army sector in association with the United Kingdom, Netherlands and Belgian forces and where suitable accommodation and training areas could be made available."

The U.K. war office had promised co-operation in carrying out this arrangement.

This indicated the brigade will continue Canada's traditional association with the British. It had been thought in some quarters that the army's switch to U.S. arms would end the association.

The placing of the air division under U.S. command represents a major change from the system of the second world war when R.C.A.F. squadrons came under the over-all command of the R.A.F.

Jeudi Musical Program Is Well-Balanced

By MARGARET DOHERTY

A large audience enjoyed a well balanced musical program last night, presented under the auspices of the Jeudi Musical in the spacious auditorium of Mont Notre-Dame Convent.

The event marked the opening of the musical season and was all the more enjoyable in that it featured young local musicians giving of their time and talent to further the career of one of their conferees.

Proceeds of the concert will go to Serge Garant when he leaves shortly for Europe to continue his studies in composing.

Mr. Garant — whose talent is well known in Sherbrooke and district — acted as accompanist for the vocal numbers, conducted the string ensemble and also played in the group for four saxophones which he arranged from a suite for strings.

Musical talent is prolific in the Garant family, and Serge's brother Florent acquired himself very creditably in the difficult Hindemith Sonata for trumpet.

Suzanne Gagnon, soprano, and Etienne Paquin, bass, shared the vocal honors. Both have voices of excellent quality which appeared to advantage in their French and Italian selections. Their interpretation of the popular duet from Don Giovanni received an enthusiastic response from the audience, and they were warmly applauded.

Each is always a good program opener and was ably featured by the string ensemble which was also heard in two compositions of Grieg.

The enjoyable evening was brought to a brilliant conclusion by the really professional playing of the duo-pianists, Mrs. Irene Leveque and Miss Mimi Shea.

Both received their musical training at Mont Notre-Dame and as we joined in the ovation given them by the audience we could not help thinking that the Sisters must be very proud of their fine performance.

The Jeudi Musical is to be complimented on the capable organization of this musical event.

The program follows:

Heart Wounds . . . Grieg

Mossadegh's 1,200-word ultimatum contained four points. Britain could accept them or face expulsion of 30 British managers and technicians remaining at the Abadan refinery of the vast Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Harriman said his three-point counter-proposal would satisfy Iranian aspirations to control her oil industry while giving justice to Britain.

The were:
1. The Abadan refinery would be run by a "competent organization" under control of the National Oil Co. of Iran, in accordance with "common business practice throughout the world."

2. Payment of compensation to Britain for nationalization of British property must depend upon arrangements for efficient operation of the oil industry, to assure that its products continued to be made available for sale in world markets.

3. Iran must rely on Britain for overseas distribution of Iranian oil products, which amounted to 30,000,000 tons of oil a year before the dispute started. Only Britain, he said, has transportation and distribution facilities available.

McMahon proposes a "revolution in military firepower."

But no one expects that the transition would be abrupt or that all present weapons would be scrapped.

The last great revolution in firepower was the invention of gunpowder. But hundreds of years later the spear, made obsolete by the bullet, still exists in the form of the bayonet.

CAUSE OF BED-WETTING IS OFTEN PSYCHOLOGICAL IN TEEN-AGERS

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Inability to hold the urine at night, commonly called bed-wetting and medically enuresis, is normal during the first year or two of life. However, when control of the urine during sleep is not obtained by the time a child is about a year and a half old, or if bed-wetting develops later on in life after being absent for several years, it causes a great deal of emotional distress as well as physical discomfort.

As a matter of fact, the condition is much more common among those in their teens and even older than is often realized.

There are some definite nerve conditions and a few diseases of the urinary tract itself which may be responsible, but the vast majority of older youngsters who suffer from bed-wetting seem to be in perfect physical health. Of course the possibility of some physical cause should be investigated, and if found, should be treated as seems necessary. If nothing is found, which is usually the case, enuresis becomes largely a psychological problem.

In some cases continued bed-wetting appears to be the result of a sort of resentment usually directed towards the parents. The youngster unconsciously, of course, is trying to punish the parents for some real or fancied actions which the child does not like.

Physical punishment is certainly no the answer to the problem. The fact that enuresis almost invariably occurs during sleep indicates that it is not done purposely and therefore punishment would not be of the slightest benefit and could be in fact be harmful.

From the practical standpoint, what can be done for bed-wetting? In some cases, the aid of a psychiatrist should be obtained with the aim of getting at the basic mental cause. In some cases, however, more simple methods may suffice to help a youngster to get over this unfortunate habit.

It is usually advisable to cut out fluids of all kinds as much as possible after three or four o'clock in the afternoon. If the time of enuresis during the night can be fairly accurately determined, and is about the same, night after night, it is possible to wake the youngster up or set an alarm clock an hour or so beforehand. Three psychological reasons are considered most important: the first is that the youngster has not yet grown up with reference to water control.

The second is that subconsciously the youngster wishes to return to or remain in the rather protected and irresponsible state of infancy, instead of assuming the normal difficulties of his or her age.

And finally, there is the point which has been previously mentioned, namely, that there is subconscious resentment against the parents because they have been too critical or have otherwise frustrated the youngster.

It should be remembered that almost all of those who do develop enuresis eventually succeed entirely in overcoming the difficulty.

MY WHAT A BRILLIANT SHINE!

AND I DID IT THE EASY WAY WITH GLO-COAT!

Brilliant
is the word for
Johnson's GLO-COAT!

From Mother to Daughter—Neighbour to Neighbour—the news has been passed through Quebec for many years. Johnson's Self-Polishing Glo-Coat gives all your floors a brilliant shine—without any rubbing or polishing. Just pour a little Glo-Coat on the floor and spread it—in minutes you'll have a shine that's bright and hard and lasts for days!

Glo-Coat makes housecleaning easier too because dirt won't penetrate a Glo-Coat shine. A mop dampened in cold water takes dirt away in an instant—and the wax gleams on and on!

The quality in Johnson's Self-Polishing Glo-Coat comes from over 50 years of experience in making fine waxes for the home.

P.S. It's easier still when you stand up and spread Glo-Coat with the GLO-COATER. Ask your dealer!

Making Sandwiches Is Art

BY VIOLET M. ROBERTS

THIS is picnic time, and you need sandwiches by the dozen to fill that lunch basket on short notice. If you're tired of using white bread for sandwiches, try raisin, whole wheat, and graham bread for a delightful change. Use soft butter, or margarine, and spread bread before adding the filling. This often makes the difference between a sandwich that's good and one that's delicious.

These 12 combinations will eliminate that old cry which so frequently goes up when picnic sandwiches are being made, "Oh, no! Not pimiento cheese again!"

1. Combine cream cheese with peanut butter and spread on graham bread.
2. Chopped chicken, ham and pickle relish, mixed with mayonnaise on whole wheat bread.
3. Hard-cooked egg, tuna fish, pickle relish, mixed with mayonnaise on whole wheat bread.
4. Chopped bacon, hard-boiled egg, shredded lettuce, mixed with mayonnaise on whole wheat bread.
5. Chopped cucumbers, chopped onion, parsley, and mayonnaise on raisin bread.
6. Baked beans, chili sauce, and chopped pickle on hamburger buns.
7. Sardines, lemon juice, and paprika on crackers.
8. Raisins and nuts chopped fine and moistened with grape juice on fruit nut bread.
9. Tongue, finely chopped cab-

ANY PICNIC TO BE A COMPLETE SUCCESS, NEEDS DELICIOUS SANDWICHES.

10. Chopped corn beef, celery and watercress mixed with Russian dressing on rye bread.
11. Chopped celery and Roquefort cheese, mix with mayonnaise and add a few drops of Worcestershire sauce, on whole wheat bread.
12. Peanut butter and chopped dates, mixed with mayonnaise, on white bread.

"To get good grades?" Betty asked.

"Naw," Bill retorted, "to get into that outfit."

United Nations Rotary Project Has Attracted Wide Attention

When the Rotary Club of the Boundary started its plan to provide the students at Ayer's Cliff Academy, Derby Academy, and Stanstead College, with material about the United Nations, followed that with an essay contest, and finally sent three young people to Plymouth, N.H., last spring to attend a three-day model U.N. Assembly, the idea was not considered as so very unusual by its sponsor, past president Earl Heath.

Since this idea was started, however, a District International Service Committee has been established, and the U.N. Project has received attention by them and has been recommended to all the other clubs in District 286. Rotary International at Chicago has circulated material about the project of the local club, and the American Representative to the U.N. Assembly, Ambassador Warren Austin, has given it his approval as an idea of real value and importance.

Perhaps the most important feature of the whole project is the response from the teachers and students. The material supplied consists of two books, "From Here On," the charter of the U.N., and "The World at Work," the story of the subsidiary organizations, and a monthly "Report on U.N." These publications are published by Rotary International, and are regarded as both thoroughly interesting and completely accurate.

The teachers have found the material to be interesting and the students have found them thought-provoking as well as accurate. The publications, taken together, give a complete and up-to-date picture of the United Nations.

The students are always ready to take part in the annual essay contest, and the prizes are eagerly

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Burton spent the week-end in Portland, Me., with Mrs. Burton's brother, Mr. C. Oliver, and family, and called on other relatives.

Miss Gladys Swanson spent several days in Swanton, Vt., with her cousin, Miss Emma Swanson, and while there Miss Swanson and her hostess motored to Bridgton, Me., where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Swanson and Miss Christine Swanson.

Mrs. William Davidson, of Sherbrooke, visited her sister, Mrs. J. B. McNaughton.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sarasin and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thérien, spent a day in Montreal with friends.

DRIVERS MUST THINK

Drivers have more than the responsibility of obeying the laws. They must also think for the child who is inclined to be irresponsible and careless. It is little comfort for a parent to be told that it was his child's own fault that he was killed. And it is little comfort for a driver with a conscience to know that, although he has killed a child, he did it without breaking a traffic law.

sought. The first prize for each school last spring was the opportunity to attend the Model U.N. Assembly at Plymouth, N.H., and it is expected that this will be the first prize again in 1952.

Pictures and the story of this Model Assembly are a feature of the October issue of the Rotarian, and local people who are interested will find this magazine in the Haskell Library in a few days. Ask any Rotarian to loan you his copy, if you wish to know more about the idea.

Briefly, the idea came from Plymouth Teachers College, and about 60 young people were expected to attend. The District International Service Committee with Lloyd Squier of Waterbury, Vt., as chairman, got behind the venture, and as a result over 120 young men and women from Vermont, New Hampshire and Quebec spent three active, busy days taking part in an actual replica of the real Assembly.

Speakers were J. King Gordon of the Human Rights Division of the U.N., and Benjamin Brown of the United States delegation. A number of teachers and students from Plymouth Teachers College had spent a week or more in New York studying the real Assembly, and they acted as advisers to the various student delegations.

Those attending from the Boundary were Miss Betty Bradshaw of Bedford, Quebec, representing Stanstead College; Archie Christensen of Ayers Cliff Academy; and Reginald MacDonald of Derby Academy.

The United Nations project will again be in operation at the three high schools this year, and next spring will see another group of prize winners, with some of them attending another U.N. Model Assembly at Plymouth Teachers College.

Women In Egypt Follow The West

Toronto. — Although there are some exceptions such as polygamy and child marriage, women in Egypt are almost as western in outlook and action as Canadians, says Madame Amb. Mitracchi who arrived in Canada recently from Egypt.

Mme. Mitracchi, an attractive middle-aged Egyptian, is an active member of the Alliance Committee in Alexandria, an organization devoted to social work among women and children.

In Egypt the city dweller is better off than the country woman, she says. As an instance of this she tells of rural women who consider child birth as just another chore. They leave their work in the field, have their baby, then hoist it on their back and proceed with their work. In the cities there are good maternity hospitals.

However, middle eastern women have progressed considerably since they peered at the outside world from veiled eyes. Socially, educationally and in the arts they have made great strides, particularly the upper class of women, many of whom speak English and French fluently.

Women graduate from French convents, Jewish and Protestant schools as doctors, lawyers and scientists. They serve as social workers and are gradually extending the variety of other occupations open to them, she says.

There is only one amateur dramatic group in Alexandria, Mme. Mitracchi said, but it gets the best in the professional theatre. The Greek dramatic group produces some of the classics. There is an excellent theatre which was left to the government by a wealthy Egyptian.

STIR THEM UP

It is quite safe to say that if every citizen wrote to a councillor and asked him what was being done about some issues that action would be taken. If no one cares one way or the other it's our bet no councillor is going to stick his neck out very far.

7th Annual Boundary Rotary Fair At Rock Island, Sept. 20-21-22

Once again its "Fun For All—All For Charity" when the Seventh Annual Boundary Rotary Fair opens at the Rock Island Armory Thursday evening, Sept. 20th; and the same slogan will apply for the two following evenings, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 21 and 22.

Each year the fair is bigger and better than ever, with new games and old games, prizes galore, and many happy people walking around the Armory with arms full of fruit, groceries and other winnings.

The chairman this year is again Elwin Chadsey, and his assistants are Charles Parmenter, Maurice Moore and Earl Heath, with all the other members of the Rotary Club of the Boundary and many friends of the club working hard to keep the record good and make this 7th edition a bigger success than ever.

The old "corny" game will be there, the game you sit down to play, with Romeo Rodrigue again calling out the numbers. Certainly one of the most popular games at the Fair, this will be a favorite again this year with a large group competing for the many fine prizes.

There will be fruit and groceries, shirts and blankets, china and silverware, and many, many other games and prizes. There will again be the Chancit Booth, with the big wheel and the bigger prizes, and there will be one lucky winner

Where Does Rotary Fair Money Go?

To give a detailed account of where the money raised by the annual Boundary Rotary Fair is spent would entail bringing in names and facts about donations to local people, and this is one thing the club refuses to do. At the same time, those who patronize the Fair deserve to know what is done with the money, so the following account will give some idea of the way the money is spent:

United Nations project, $150.00. (This includes the books for students at Ayer's Cliff Academy; Derby Academy and Stanstead College; prizes to the winners in the Essay Contest; and the trip to Plymouth, N.H., where the first prize winners attended a three-day Model U.N. Assembly.)

Rotary Children's Room, Haskell Library, $200; Rotary Summer Camp at Lake Salem, Derby, $555.54; Rotary Halloween Party, $40; Santa Claus Parade, $30; Assistance to Poor and Christmas Baskets, $202.20; Special Donation for crippled, $112.50; Miscellaneous Donations, $348.75. Total $2,038.99. Balance on hand, July 1, 1951, $505.28. Net from 1950 Boundary Rotary Fair, $2,544.28.

(Above figures are as of June 30, 1951. Amounts have been spent since then, and the above balance will by no means begin to pay for the 1951 Rotary Children's Camp at Lake Salem.

The number of persons needed to operate Loran stations, which enable mariners at sea to get their geographical location by radio waves, has been cut to half by new automatic equipment.

Each time the wheel spins. A beehive of activity will be the Armory on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with a crowd of people coming to see how lucky they are. Most of them stay to the end in order to find out who is lucky enough to get the 20 prizes in the big Rotary Raffle.

There will be 10 cash prizes Thursday evening, 7 cash prizes Friday evening with 2 cash prizes and a genuine Frigidaire refrigerator as the grand prize, Saturday night. Each ticket is good for all the prizes; each night's winners go back in the big barrel for the next drawing. Tickets will be available at the Fair, or right now from any Rotarian.

As usual there will be door prizes, and many, many other fine things to take home with you—if you are lucky!

Even if you do not win a lot of prizes you will have a lot of fun, and remember it's "Fun For All—All For Charity" at the Seventh Annual Boundary Rotary Fair, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, Sept. 20, 21 and 22, at the Rock Island Armory.

Bank Letter Points To Current Skilled Labour Shortage

Canada's exports for July were $379 million, nearly $8 million more than imports for the same month, says the current issue of The Canadian Bank of Commerce monthly Commercial Letter. This was the first monthly surplus on trading account this year. It reduced the cumulative deficit for 1951 to $332 million. Exports to both the United States and the United Kingdom increased during the month. For the second successive month imports from the United States declined slightly.

Harvesting is now well under way. The first official estimate forecast a record wheat crop of 582 million bushels of wheat and bumper outputs of feed grains. Rain has delayed harvest work and the lateness of the season in Western Canada makes late-sown crops vulnerable to frost damage. Ample feed supplies are virtually assured — a good omen, having regard to current rather precarious live stock and dairy products supplies.

BALANCING THE LABOUR BUDGET

No very far-reaching change in either the use or the source of labour is likely this year unless foreign relations alter quickly for the worse. Beyond 1951 the outlook is more obscure. Assuming that the projected defence program must be carried out in full, a fairly large addition to the effective labour force must be contrived, or a lowering of present living standards accepted.

The most critical shortage at present is that in skilled labour. And it is one that seems likely to remain with us for some time. Unless there is some "dilution" of labour or a far-reaching attempt by individual industries to raise the status of their less skilled workers, the skilled labour situation seems likely to grow more acute as the volume of defence work grows. On the present efforts of skilled workers the subsequent employment of semi and unskilled labour depends. Without skilled workers shifts can be in.

Essentially the problem is to produce only to a limited extent. The military equipment we must have together with enough civilian goods to keep prices within bounds.

Between 1946 and 1950 that part of the labour force engaged in manufacturing increased by 18 per cent. This was attained only at the expense of other segments of the economy, notably agriculture. Throughout this period shortages of skilled and semi-skilled tradesmen have persisted. Some doubt, therefore, arises concerning the ability of our economy to man the increased capacity contemplated in the next year and a half, while also providing the additional labour needed in other sectors.

The greatest untapped source of labour at the present time is women not currently seeking employment, students and retired persons. In June 1951, 24 per cent of adult females were members of the labour force, compared with 33.5 per cent in mid-1944. While the restoration of the latter percentage would be neither necessary nor socially desirable in the absence of extreme urgency, this group forms the largest potential pool of labour. It is likely also that many persons who have just reached retiring age could be induced to remain at work. The natural increase in the labour force is now about 50,000 a year, part of which will likely be absorbed into the armed services.

About 5 per cent of the current labour force is probably made up of immigrants who have come to Canada between 1946 and 1950. Immigration this year may set a post-war record of about 150,000, about 90,000 of whom may be added to the labour force.

The allocation of scarce materials to defence production has resulted in some shift from civilian to military goods. But this together with tightened credit controls does not necessarily release manpower of the desired types in the most strategic localities.

PURPLE HEARTS

The Order of the Purple Heart decoration for military merit was established by George Washington on Aug. 7, 1782, when it first was awarded. Only three men, all non-commissioned officers, received the tribute at that time.

Wartime Duties Started Princess On Royal Career

London. — At the height of the last war the voices of two young girls were heard over the radio one evening. They came from an underground studio of the BBC—a studio then without a name because it was in the heart of bomb-torn London.

One voice was that of the small Princess Margaret, bidding goodnight to all the British children who had been evacuated to other countries.

The other was the voice of Margaret's not-so-much-bigger sister Elizabeth—grey-eyed and just 14. "I can truthfully say to you, that all we children at home are full of cheerfulness and courage," said Elizabeth.

It was one of her first public speeches. Many more were to follow, but perhaps this and others she made as a child growing up in the midst of a broken world were the ones in which Elizabeth first touched the heart of a kingdom.

Despite the war and its upsets, the training of Britain's future Queen never slackened during those unhappy years. There also were wartime jobs. For instance, as a subaltern in the Auxiliary Territorial Service she took a driving course and learned the mechanics of the truck she drove.

On a visit to the A.T.S. centre the King and Queen found Elizabeth stretched under a truck, smeared with oil but enthusiastic about her "grease monkey" job.

It was shortly after her 11th birthday in 1937 that her future suddenly became apparent to Elizabeth. She was still too young to realize the significance of the moment when "Uncle David", Edward VIII, had abdicated and her father became George VI. But she came to understand in the little changes around home.

The weight of what had happened fell upon her one day when she saw a letter addressed to "Her Majesty the Queen".

"That's mummy now, isn't it?" asked the small Elizabeth.

There were still carefree days for a girl who liked to collect cocoons, who could dance an Irish jig and ride a bicycle. But studies became more important than ever. And Queen Mary herself undertook to teach etiquette and diplomatic convention to young "Lilibet" as she was known throughout London.

Then there was a governess for the history and literature—which she liked—and arithmetic—which she didn't.

Those were the growing-up years of the Princess Elizabeth Alexandra Mary who now as a young married woman of 25 is making her first visit to Canada.

When the war began Britain's future queen was a little girl wearing skirts up to her knees and indulging in good-natured wrestling with young Margaret. As its end she was a serious young woman.

Britishers were hungry for news of their Princesses in those years. But for safety's sake it often had to be held back for days at a time. The girls spent the first four months of war in a small granite house in a lonely Scottish glen. Then later they moved to the south of England.

News dispatches in 1940 recorded that Elizabeth tap-danced and sang at a village concert which the Queen organized to aid war charities. Such charities formed part of the Princess' wartime activities, with much of her spare time spent on knitting sweaters and scarves for servicemen.

She lived without fanfare during the war and reached her 16th birthday in 1942 without much recognition from a Britain then fighting for its life. For Elizabeth, this particular birthday chiefly meant registering under the government youth service scheme, like any other 16-year-old.

Fun For All--All For Charity Is Slogan Of Fair

Boundary Rotary Club Has Many Appeals For Help Each Year

Each year the calls for help of one kind or another seems to increase, and the Rotary Club of the Boundary would like very much to respond to all of them. The amount of help we can give, the number and kind of projects we can carry on, the assistance we can render in cases of need—all of these things depend upon YOUR patronage of the Seventh Annual Boundary Rotary Fair, to be held at the Rock Island Armory, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, Sept. 20, 21 and 22.

We want to continue to keep the Rotary Children's Room in the Haskell Library an ever more useful and attractive place for the young people to spend their time and get good books to read. We believe that the Annual Halloween Party and the Santa Claus Parade are worth while.

The U.N. Project which gives the young people of the various high schools a thorough knowledge of the United Nations is one that we also wish to carry on.

We will want to either have a summer camp again in 1952 or do something equally useful for the young people in this section. We hope to provide milk when it is needed; to aid anyone in want for medical attention; to give out Christmas baskets and to help others at Christmas time.

We hope to give donations to worthy charities, and in every way to continue the fine work done in the past by the Rotary Club of the Boundary through funds raised at the Boundary Rotary Fair.

Just how much we can do, whether we can increase the number, depends upon how well you patronize the fair in 1951.

As always, the slogan is "Fun For All—All For Charity." As always, the slogan means just what it says. We will see that you have a grand time at the Rock Island Armory, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, Sept. 20, 21 and 22, and there will be plenty of grand prizes there for you to take home. We will use the profits for the best of our ability for the good of the people of these communities. Hope to see you at the Fair, and once again may I remind you that it is: "Fun For All—All For Charity."

David Goodell, President, The Rotary Club of the Boundary.

Lake Salem Rotary Camp A Happy Spot

Started a few years ago, the annual Rotary Children's Camp at Lake Salem, Derby, has been a happy outing for about 150 boys and girls from the Boundary District each summer.

Each boy or girl spends a whole week at a well supervised camp, where swimming, hiking and many other activities keep them busy and happy. Special meals are provided that are taste-tempting and wholesome, and there is enough so that each child has plenty to eat.

The camp has cost the Rotary Club of the Boundary about $1,000 each year, the balance of the costs being paid by parents of children who attended. The camp is made possible by the money raised at the Annual Boundary Rotary Fair, and the Seventh edition of this popular event will start at the Rock Island Armory, Thursday evening, Sept. 20th.

All of the projects of the Rotary Club of the Boundary are made possible by the patronage of these annual fairs. What will be done in 1952 depends upon the amount realized at the Fair this fall.

It may be another camp next summer, it may be some other equally valuable project for the young people—but what it will be and whether anything will be done depends upon how well you patronize the Seventh Annual Boundary Rotary Fair this year. Remember the dates: Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, Sept. 20, 21 and 22. The place: Rock Island Armory.

The booth, pictured above, was set up at the Ayer's Cliff fair last month and past-president Maurice Moore (left) and co-chairman Elwin Chadsey (right) reported brisk sales. (Gerry Lemay photo).

Several Valuable Prizes Are Won At Boundary Rotary Fair

tread water, plunge dive, running front dive and a ten-minute swim.

Nine boys and girls passed their junior life saving. These children usually are required to be 12 years of age and up, to pass the course but can take it younger if they wish and are able.

The children have to put in 15 hours studying how to keep from being grabbed by a drowning person and if grabbed how to safely get away and rescue the victim. There are many other swimming and safety skills they had also to learn, and were graded on book knowledge, practice work in the water and everyday class work. Those passing were: Gloria Brown, Joyce Laberee, Rock Island, Louise Turcotte, Beebe, Patricia Roderer, Nancy Wood, Patty Manley, Cynthia Roy, all of Derby Line, Lee Rollins, Stanstead, Jean Irons, Williamstown, Vt., and Betty Laberee, the only one to pass her senior life saving. Besides being able to pass American Red Cross skills these children on the border can also work and pass Canadian Red Cross tests. The Canadian tests are almost the same as the American Red Cross skills, but with one or two added skills in order that a child may progress thus: American beginners, Canadian junior, American intermediate, Canadian intermediate, American swimmer, Canadian senior swimmer, American advanced swimmer, Canadian junior and senior L. S.

The following ten passed their Canadian junior tests: Susan Socks, Washington, D.C., Sandra Moore and Albert Bease, Stanstead, Susan MacLean, Nancy Earle, Janet Laythe, Bonnie Morin, Derby Line, Lucille Ste. Marie, Derby, Vt., and Elizabeth Converse, Montreal. The ten who passed the Canadian intermediate were: Patricia Roderer, Cynthia Roy, Derby Line, Alice Middleton, Janet Grosjean, Robert Amaron, Lee Rollins, Stanstead, Charles Kezar, Derby, Vt., Pat Robertson, Rock Island. Two passed their Canadian senior tests, Jean Irons, Williamstown, Vt., and Ann O'Leary, Malden, Mass. This swim project was carried on for eight weeks with David Wood and Judy Arkin as American Red Cross instructors, and Lorraine Turcotte as Canadian instructor. Pat Robertson and Betty Laberee were junior helpers and Charles Kezar, Jean Irons and Lee Rollins were volunteer helpers. The week of August 13 was reserved for those wishing to take the junior and senior life saving course and will become future instructors. Eighteen were enrolled in this class, which was held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for five days. The week was very cold and rainy but the children worked hard and it was only through the kindness of Mrs. A. Leonard who loaned the youngsters the use of the 4-H building, that the unpleasantness of the damp, rainy weather was taken off. Newport, Vt., boys and girls taking the course joined the border children, making a total of 40 youngsters, and because the children worked hard a reward was in store for them.

Forty-three youngsters and instructors from the border and Newport climbed out of bed at 6:30 a.m. and left Newport at 7:30 a.m. for Montpelier, Vermont's capital city, to swim in a pool, then on to Barre, Vt., but because of a flat tire they were too late to swim in Barre, so went on to St. Johnsbury, Vt., where they again dipped in a pool, then journeyed home, tired but happy. For most of them it was their first swim in a pool and diving boards delighted them. Again, let it be explained, what it meant by the question as to tests and skills. As a child passes from one grade to another in school he acquires certain knowledge, likewise with swimming lessons; he learns a skill and passes a test, thus he has accomplished another step up the ladder to becoming a good, all-round, safe swimmer.

Thanks are extended to Mr. Earl Hackett for the float which he donated to the project. Between the time the project closed last year and the time it opened this year both the 4-H and swim project floats disappeared and could not be found. Thanks are also extended to every one who has helped in any way to make the project a success, and to anyone who has not been asked or has not had the privilege of donating towards this worth-while project, we extend this personal invitation to send donations to "Swim Project," Royal Bank of Canada, Rock Island Branch. "Freely ye hath received, freely give."

Knits Evening Gown Like Woven Cobweb

London. — Women knitters in Britain are becoming world-famous.

As a proof of what they can do, Miss Ruby Eunson brought her knitting needles and a supply of wool to London from Scotland's Shetland Isles this summer and in 18 days knitted one of the loveliest gowns seen this year.

In the palest grey, the gown has 1,500,000 stitches, is patterned to her own design, with a border of Viking longships and Shetland cottages—and looks almost like a woven cobweb.

STORYBOOK FINISH GIVES A'S 7-6 WIN AND CHAMPIONSHIP

Pedro Ballester Drives In Tying And Winning Tallies In Ninth; Quebec Fades Under Stretch Drive

Staging a thrilling uphill fight in the final innings to tally five runs, Sherbrooke Athletics last night came through with 7-6 "squeaker" over the Quebec Braves to wrap up the 1951 championship of the Provincial Baseball League and climax the best season in the history of local baseball.

Pedro Ballester, the diminutive shortstop in the local squad, turned out to be the hero of the evening when he connected for a single in the ninth to send Bill Metzger and Silvio Garcia home with the tying and winning runs. Gonzales started activities with a single and then Metzger, who had went down swinging four times in a row, came through with a payoff double. Garcia walked and this turned out to be the winning tally. Duany was hit by a pitched ball and then Ballester finished matters with his bingle to give his team a close 7-6 win.

The locals were out-hit twelve to six by Quebec but they bunched five of their hits in the final two innings and this meant the difference between victory and defeat. It was uphill fight the whole way for the A's but they put on the pressure in the end and came through terrific drive to cop the deciding tilt.

The victory gave Roland Gaudin's club the best-of-seven final playoff four games to one. The A's jumped into an early lead in the series with wins in the first three games and then dropped the fourth tilt in Quebec City but managed to come through last night in the dying innings of the game to cop the championship of Albert Molini's circuit.

The series was closely fought from the start with the locals taking a thirteen-inning duel 6-5. In the second game Armando Roche tossed a two-hitter for 4-1 verdict while in Terry McDuffie came through with a ten-inning victory to give Gladu's aggregation a three-game lead. In the fourth tilt, Monday, George McQuinn's youthful squad managed to eke out a 6-5 decision for their initial, and only win of the series.

In last night's game George McQuinn's squad seemed riding away with a comfortable lead for their second consecutive victory with a 6-2 advantage going into the eighth, but then the young Quebec team fell apart at the seams. The A's tallied two runs in the eighth and in the ninth they managed to shove three more across the plate to take the crucial game 7-6.

From the opening frame Quebec outplayed the locals and until the "Famous Eighth" Ken St. Pierre, the Braves' hurler, had given up only one hit, a double to Lauro Pascual in the second inning. Sherbrooke turned in one of their worst exhibitions for the first seven frames and just couldn't do anything—right as Quebec held a big margin in all departments.

Lou Shapiro, the local range hurler, went the route for Gladu's squad and was touched for twelve hits. He accounted for three via the swinging method and didn't issue a single free pass. On the other hand St. Pierre sent down ten men at the plate but issued six tickets to first, and one of these proved to be the winning run. Each team committed four miscues with Pedro Ballester leading the parade with two for the A's with Metzger and Garcia being charged with the others. The tilt was all one-sided until the eighth with Quebec registering three runs in the opening frame, with two more in the fifth and a singleton in the seventh. Sherbrooke, with the aid of two walks, a wild pitch and two errors, got two runs in the lower half of the inning but that was all as far as the A's were concerned until the seventh.

In the eighth Garcia reached first on Blais' second miscue Duany flied out but Pedro Ballester smashed out a lousy double to send home Garcia. Pages came through with a clean bingle and the second tally crossed the plate, but Mantaras and Shapiro flied out to end the short-lived rally but A's were within striking distance.

Ballester Drives In Tying And Winning Runs

In the top half of the final inning Quebec was put down in order by Shapiro but McQuinn's squad was out in front 6-4. In the lower half of the inning things began to happen. Brown, pinch-hitting for Shapiro, went out to right fielder on a long fly ball. Gonzalez then connected for his first hit of the evening and Bill Metzger, who had been whiffed four straight times, delivered with a long double to deep left field and Gonzalez came racing home.

At this point Manager McQuinn called upon Jim Espinola with Silvio Garcia coming to bat. The local fleet-footed third baseman worked him for a free pass to put the tying and winning runs on the sacks. McQuinn brought in Bill Conroy to face Duany, who was hit by a pitch to load the sacks. Pedro Ballester stepped up to the plate and more than redeemed himself when he lashed onto a pitch to drive out a clean bingle through the box, and Metzger and Garcia came racing home and the ball game was

Athletics' Familiar Last Inning Comeback Pays Off

The photo was taken last night at the Park Avenue Stadium immediately following Sherbrooke's victory over the Quebec Braves and shows Roland Gladu receiving the Brouillette trophy, emblematic of the Provincial Baseball League championship, from Yvan Brouillette, donor.

The Athletics copied the series 4-1 and last night's thrilling game gave the locals possession of the trophy. Appropo Stages Drive To Cop Hewlett Pace

Westbury, N.Y., Sept. 19.—(P)—Appropo, a strapping four-year-old belonging to P.G. and Jerry Gray, of East Providence, R.I., closed with a powerful rush in the final quarter mile to win the Hewlett pacing feature at Roosevelt Raceway last night.

Driven aggressively by Frank Safford, Appropo won by 1 1/2 lengths from C. T. Black's Jean Chief. Reynolds Reed's Hunter Direct finished third another two lengths behind.

Second choice in the wagering, Appropo returned $7.20, $4.60 and $3.30. He covered the mile in 2:06 2/5.

Top Contenders Don't Seem To Want Pennant; Yanks And Dodgers Given Inside Edge With Remaining Games

Say, doesn't anybody want to win a pennant? That seems to be the picture today as the top contenders in the American and National Leagues keep passing up chances to take a stranglehold on first place.

New York Yankees appeared on the way to the American League flag after winning vital games from Cleveland Sunday and Monday. But they blew a 7-1 decision to the fourth-place Chicago White Sox last night. That cut their lead over the Indians from a full game to three percentage points.

Now take Boston's third-place Red Sox. Winner of six of their last seven starts, the Sox seemed ready to deliver the knockout punch to the groggy Indians. Instead, the Tribe scalped Boston 6-4, leaving the Red Sox 2 1/2 games off the pace.

Even Brooklyn joined the act. Generally regarded as sure-fire World Series participants, the Dodgers now find themselves hard put to keep the persistent New York Giants off their necks.

The Dodgers saw their margin—once 13 1/2 games—shrink to three yesterday when they bowed to St. Louis Cardinals, 7-1, while the Giants took a 6-5 squeaker from Cincinnati.

While there is some reason for Dodger alarm, it would still take a minor miracle for the Giants to overhaul them. Brooklyn still has a five-game bulge in the important losing side. The Giants have only eight games left to play against the Dodgers' 12.

That's where the Yankees gave their edge, too—in the losing side. Cleveland has won two more than New York but the Indians have also lost two more. They have only seven games left to 11 7-4.

Rocky Graziano Rated Favorite In Tonight's Tiff With Janiro

Detroit, Sept. 19.—(P)—Rocky Graziano's superior punching power makes him an 8 to 5 favorite in his scheduled ten-round middleweight bout with Tony Janiro here tonight.

The granite-chinned gladiator from the Bronx was a heavier favorite—12 to 5—in the previous bouts with the baby-faced scrapper from Youngstown, O.

The closeness of those fights, however, has cut the wagering margin.

Both fighters will be bidding for one of boxing's best "money shots"—a crack at Sugar Ray Robinson's 160-pound crown. The winner stands a good chance of gaining an engagement in February with Sugar Ray, the ring's hottest box office attraction at the moment.

The fight will be broadcast and televised over national networks at 10 p.m. EDT.

The first encounter between Graziano and Janiro on March 31, 1950, was a draw. In the second meeting last October, Graziano won a very close decision.

With his eye on a chance at regaining the middleweight title, Graziano will be in there swinging tonight for a knockout. He is unbeaten in 18 fights since he lost the title to Tony Zale in June, 1948.

Janiro's chances for victory rest on his superb boxing skill. In his

Coach Dick Irvin Cracks Whip Over His Charges With Double Duty; New Players Showing Up Well In Drills

Montreal, Sept. 19.—(P)—Coach Dick Irvin, who has often been compared to Simon Legree, made hard work the order of the day yesterday as Canadiens swung into their second day of practice. With the squad divided into two groups, Irvin was forced to mold four practice sessions. Each squad worked out for a solid hour in the morning and again in the afternoon. By the end of the day the boys were pretty well tagged out and most looked forward to Wednesday's half day rest and the annual goal tournament.

Yruse And Montreal Meet; Series All Tied

Syracuse, N.Y., Sept. 19.—(P)—Syracuse and Montreal, all even in their 24 International League games this year, meet for the crucial third game of their final playoff series tonight.

The teams each won 11 games during the regular league season and stand one-all in the best-of-seven playoffs.

Pennant-winning Montreal won the series opener, but Syracuse came back strong to win the second game. Both were in Montreal. The teams came to Syracuse yesterday and will play the next three games here on successive nights. Additional games, if needed to decide the series, will be played in Montreal.

Winner of the series will meet the American Association playoff champion in the "Little World Series."

Bill Miller (16-10) probably will start on the mound for the Syracuse Chiefs tonight (8 p.m. EDT) while Bob Alexander (15-8) is expected to get the call for the Royals.

Of his veteran players, Elmer Lach, Maurice Richard, Doc Cature, Bert Olmstead, Doug Harvey, Billy Reay, Ken Mosdell, Tom Johnson, Bud MacPherson and Ross Lowe, were going at a much faster pace than at this time a year ago. The Lach-Richard-Olmstead line in particular was hitting the high spots.

Doc Cature teamed up with Billy Reay and Eddie Mazur, Cature bagging three goals. The Habs hope to get much useful service from the tall winger, and if he keeps going at his present rate, he could be in for his best year.

This morning the Habs will work out and then turn out for their annual golf tournament at Lasalle Golf Club. Thursday they'll be back at the four-day workouts in preparation for Saturday night's opening exhibition against the senior Royals at the Forum.

Red Strader Claims Football Has "Czar"

New York, Sept. 19.—(P)—Norman (Red) Strader, recently fired as coach of New York Football Yanks, lashed out at professional football's method of selecting college players in an affidavit filed today in supreme court, where he is seeking to collect $10,000 in salary from Ted Collins, owner of the Yanks.

In his affidavit the coach, who said he was fired by Collins in August, described the method of drafting college stars as "illegal" and contended that the club owners have arbitrarily set up a "football czar" to enforce the system.

Collins, in an action to stay Strader's suit, contended that when Strader signed as head coach for the 1950 season at $20,000 yearly he agreed to abide by the League's constitution which provides that Commissioner Bert Bell shall decide all disputes.

Justice James B. M. McNally reserved decision.

Hawks Trade McCaig For Max Quackenbush

North Bay, Ont., Sept. 19.—(P)—Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League today obtained defenceman Max Quackenbush, 23, from Detroit Red Wings in exchange for Doug McCaig of Guelph, Ont., also a defenceman.

Quackenbush, a Toronto-born player, is expected to give additional depth to the Hawks' defence. He is the younger brother of Bill Quackenbush, former Detroit player now with Boston.

Veterans Roy Conacher, Bill Mosienko and Doug Bentley are expected to check into the Hawks' training camp here soon to join the rest of the squad now working out for week-end exhibition jousts with Detroit at Copper Cliff and North Bay.

Fred Hucul, Guyle Fielder and Syd Finney, all from Western Canada, are possible starters in an amateur line coach Eddie Goodfellow plans to use in the exhibition game.

Goaltender Harry Lumley has been working hard to get in trim. Jack Stewart, Bill Gadsby, Clare Martin, Rags Raglan, Leo Fogolin and Al Dewsbury are trying for defence spots.

Coach Goodfellow has been experimenting with Dewsbury, a big fellow who packs a powerful shot, on a forward line.

Red Wing Officials Beam With Confidence

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 19.—(P)—In a display of unusual confidence, the general manager and coach of Detroit Red Wings intimated yesterday that the team is almost sure to finish first in the National Hockey League this season.

"We have more fire and dash than at any other time in the past seven or eight years," said General Manager Jack Adams as he reviewed the first ten days of the Detroit training camp here.

"These youngsters and the spirit of the veterans have proved just the right combination to make this year's Detroit Red Wings a very dangerous threat for another N.H.L. title."

Coach Tommy Ivan was even more certain.

"I've never seen such a hungry bunch of players," he said. "The way things are going now we should take over first place by a comfortable margin."

Roy Campanella Given Green Light By Doctors

Chicago, Sept. 19.—(P)—Star catcher Roy Campanella of Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday was released from a hospital 24 hours after he was struck on the left ear by a ball pitched by Chicago Cub right-hander, Turk Lown.

Hospital officials said the husky Negro player, currently batting .325, might be able to return to the Dodger lineup by the end of the week.

Physicians said X-rays showed there was no skull fracture and "as up to now, no serious injury."

County Council Holds Fall Meet At Drummondville

Drummondville, Sept. 19 — The County Council held its fall quarterly meeting at the Registration Building, on Heriot Street. The meeting was presided over by Mr. R. O. Blanchard, mayor of the village of St. Germain and also Prefect of Drummond County.

Following various discussions it was announced that no concrete decisions had been reached for the construction of a new building, as the Council is still awaiting a definite reply from Provincial Government authorities before proceeding further with any immediate plans for the near future. The Council had first decided to purchase the present Post Office building and when the Federal Government had finally decided the issue in the construction of a new one, when a suitable site had been allocated to start work upon. But up to the present date this so far has not materialized in any present solution or complete agreement by the Federal Government in a definite decision.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. R. O. Blanchard and Mr. Elzear Charpentier were elected to be the two delegates representing Drummond County at the annual Congress of the Provincial Association of County Councils to be held in Quebec City on October 8th and 9th and will give its full support to the resolution of the municipality of St. Simon is asking the Provincial Government to increase the allocation to needy mothers, with Mayor Robert Roux of St. Simon remarking that a pension of $35 a month is definitely inadequate to support a widow with small children in the present day ever increasing high cost of living standards with the additional inclusion of payments of family allowances to the parents.

Miss Lucille Croteau, a resident of St. Simon, and an employee of The Butterfly Hosiery Co., Heriot Street, suffered a broken leg, when she was struck by an automobile, driven by Miss Shirley Cantor of St. Joseph. The accident took place following the completion of a day's work at the factory, while Miss Croteau was in the act of crossing the street. Following the mishap she was immediately taken to the St. Croix Hospital, where her present condition is reported very satisfactory.

Just a month ago, a local installer tested a new telephone in Drummondville and, for the first time, its bell signaled the successful connection of the 6,000th such instrument to be put into service here.

"We've marked an important milestone in community growth and development," Mr. A. Whelan, Drummondville Bell Telephone manager, told press representatives. The number of telephones installed only within the last four years are equal to the number we had here in 1947. At the close of 1947, Drummondville had 3,000 telephones in service. Of that total, 1,560 were home installations while 1,440 were in business establishments. At the end of last month, according to Mr. Whelan's records there were 3,870 residence and 2,130 business telephones in operation here, with the result that telephone calling has shown a similar gain, emphasizing the increased value of the service to each used as more telephones are added to the system.

On the average day in 1945, the Drummondville Exchange handled around 12,600 local calls and some 250 out-going long distance calls. At the present time telephone users here place 40,000 local and 1,000 out of town calls daily; which speaks for itself of the rapidly expanding record of the growth of the city and The Bell Telephone System in the city of Drummondville.

The municipal authorities at the city hall on Lindsay Street, have made it known that eighteen building permits for a total value of $67,225 had been issued for the month of August—which will include the completion and construction of eleven new flats. However the present building plans are still far below the same period of last year's construction when building permits amounted to $263,350.

The St. Simon Municipal Council confirmed this week, the evaluation roll for the current year, in which it states that the taxable property is now valued at $3,281,670 which is $50,000 more than for the same period of last year.

During the course of the meeting, Councillor Edgar Lemaire was elected pro-mayor for a term of three months. The Bell Telephone Co. has also petitioned the Council to approve their proposed new rates which was however rejected.

A request was made to the Quebec Municipal Commission to collect municipal and school taxes twice a year with fifty percent on November 1st, with the other fifty percent to be collected May 1, 1952. A resolution was also asked the Council to insist in convincing the Provincial Government that needy mothers allowances should be raised to offset present every day high cost of living standards.

The secretary was also instructed to give final notice to those still owing the municipality for new sidewalk construction to pay off this debt within seven days, after receiving notice.

The secretary read out the report that asphalt paving had been completed on St. Therese, Jeanne Mance and St. Rodolphe Streets, and if present weather conditions remained favourable, Lallement and Brebeuf Streets would also be completed, which would conclude this year's program for public works.

Mr. Jean Baptiste Mathieu, the owner, of what is considered to be one of the finest and most up to date farms in the vicinity of St. Germain, was partially destroyed by fire recently. The fire which is believed to have broken out in the stable, quickly spread to the two adjoining barns completely destroying the yield of the Summer's crop along with the farming equipment. The St. Germain fire brigade under the command of Chief Raul Levesque were quickly on the scene, and are worthy of the highest commendation for bringing the blaze under control in a very difficult situation, without an adequate water supply, having to pump water from nearby wells in order to protect the family home and additional storage structures. Fortunately no one was injured, but total damages are estimated to be around the $15,000 mark, cause of the fire is unknown.

The date has now been officially set by the Committee of the 1st Drummondville Boy Scouts Troop in their P per Drive, which will get underway here Saturday afternoon, September 22. The Committee again is asking the full cooperation of all citizens of Greater Drummondville to assist them in every way possible in their campaign in order to raise funds to carry out Scouting activities and necessary finances in this noble work for our boys, to be our "men of tomorrow."

"OPERATION ALUMINUM"

Here's why a further quarter of a billion dollars is being invested by Aluminum Company of Canada in Aluminum is being put to so many uses these days that Canada's aluminum industry, begun at Shawinigan Falls in 1900, and already grown to giant size, is embarked on another vast expansion program.

More dams, powerhouses, smelting facilities in Quebec... a whole new operation in British Columbia... these great forward strides will further step up Canada's aluminum capacity to a total of more than half a million tons a year.

IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Project as planned calls for expenditure in the first stage of $200 million; the final stage when completed will increase this to $550 million. First stage to be completed 1954.

KITIMAT SMELTER

Capacity one billion pounds of aluminum a year.

Lake, above Nechako River Dam, 500 square miles in area.

Kemano powerhouse, to be built 1/4 mile inside mountain. Eventual capacity 2,000,000 h.p.

IN QUEBEC

CHUTE-DU-DIABLE

250,000 h.p. installation. Begun autumn, 1950. Will be in operation May 1952.

CHUTE-A-LA-SAVANNE

250,000 h.p. installation. Begun summer, 1951. To be completed in 1953.

ISLE MALIGNE

Smelter. Output doubled. Construction underway.

BEAUBARNOIS

Smelter. Re-opened April, 1951.

Today the names "Peribonka" and "Kitimat" mean nothing to most Canadians. Right now they head blueprints — blueprints of work in the planning stage, of work in progress with thousands of men already on the job.

"Shawinigan", "Shipshaw" and "Arvida" were new names, too, many years ago. Today they are living reminders to Canadians — and to the world — that Alcan has grown, developing this country's resources so that now it produces a quarter of the world's aluminum supply.

On the Peribonka River in Quebec, Alcan is harnessing two cataracts — Chute-du-Diable and Chute-a-la-Savanne. These will provide hydro-electric power for a big addition to aluminum output and additional power resources for the Saguenay District.

Meanwhile, up coast 400 miles from Vancouver, a whole new aluminum operation is planned. Where now stands the tiny Indian village of Kitimat, a whole new town will be built; here Alcan will construct a huge smelter. At Kemano, 50 miles away, Alcan will build a powerhouse inside a mountain; a ten-mile tunnel through this mountain will carry water from a chain of lakes down a 2,600 foot drop to develop an eventual 2,000,000 h.p. capacity.

This "Operation Aluminum" means jobs for thousands of Canadians. It means additional millions of dollars coming into this country from abroad, for much of this aluminum will be exported.

It means additional low-cost aluminum for Canada's own use — metal which a thousand plants throughout the country use to fashion everything from utensils and toys to airplanes and bridges.

"Operation Aluminum" is a big thing for Canadians and for the free democratic world. It means a further line of defence against aggression. And it means a busier, more prosperous country in which to live and work.
