World News In Brief

Valleyfield, Que., Aug. 21.—(C.P.)—Blame for delay in the settlement of the 81-day-old strike at the Montreal Cottons Ltd., mill was laid at the door of the recently formed independent union, the Association of Textile Workers of Valleyfield, by Kent Rowley, Canadian director of the United Textile Workers of America (A.F.L.), at a mass meeting of workers here last night.

"The workers have endured enough intimidations and insults on the part of the company and the (provincial) government," he added, "that it is not 100 or 500 arrests which can settle the strike. It is by justice and the signing of a union contract and not by any other means."

Paris, Aug. 21.—(Reuters)—Field Marshal Jan Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa, took his seat at the Paris conference today and thus became the only statesman among the representatives of the 21 countries who was also at the Versailles peacemaking after the First Great War.

Wearing uniform and escorted by Maj.-Gen. Frank H. Theron, deputy leader of the South African delegation, the 76-year-old Field Marshal was warmly greeted by several delegates as he made his way down the aisle of the conference chamber at Luxembourg Palace.

He tok his place in the middle front row of the semi-circle of seats and listened to Albania present her case for recognition of her claims in the peace settlement.

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 21.—(AP)—The oldest human bones in the United States—so their discoverer believes—were unwrapped today at Harvard's Peabody Museum.

They are the bones of an extinct Neanderthal man who lived in the old Stone Age 100,000 years ago.

Dr. Theodore McCown of the University of California found them in a cave on Mount Carmel in Palestine in 1932. They spent the war years in London, were jostled by a direct bomb hit on the Royal College of Surgeons, but escaped undamaged.

The Palestine cave yielded fragmentary skeletons of 26 men and women—"the richest find of specimens of Neanderthal man ever made," according to Dr. McCown.

The men ranged in height, the anthropologist said, from five feet seven inches to five feet 10 inches. They were narrow hipped, with long legs and arms. The women were about five feet two.

Relations Between U.S. And Countries Within Red Orbit Reported At Critical Stage

Diplomats in Washington Awaiting Official Russian Reaction to United States' Stand on Dardanelles.

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

Washington, Aug. 21—(AP)—Relations between the United States and countries within the Soviet orbit plummeted to their lowest point since war's end today. There were two main reasons:

1. An explosive dispute over the future of the Dardanelles.

2. An angry protest to Yugoslavia over the "outrageous performance" of Yugoslav fighter craft which attacked and forced an American transport plane to crash land. Premier Marshal Tito retorted that his country wants peace "but not at any price."

Diplomats here anxiously awaited official Russian reaction to this country's stand on the Dardanelles—a stand officials said would firmly reject Soviet demands for a share in the military control of the strategic Straits.

The American note, already in Russian hands, was due to be made public today.

Even as the strain on relations intensified from Trieste to the Black Sea, the navy announced that two of its top ranking admirals had left for Europe on a "routine inspection tour" that will include Mediterranean areas.

They are Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, acting commander of the Atlantic Fleet, and Vice-Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, deputy chief of naval operations.

The navy's "routine" description came after London reports had said the two were en route to visit "troubled areas."

The Government's protest was lodged yesterday against the action of Yugoslavia in attacking an American Army plane August 9th and forcing it to crash land in a cornfield.

Dean Acheson, Undersecretary of State, used the term "outrageous performance" in making public the note, which also referred to reports from Trieste that a second American plane is missing after having reported itself under machine-gun attack.

The document contained a stiffly put "demand" for assurance that there will be no repetition.

Where Plane Downed

Map shows where two Yugoslav fighter planes fired on an American C-47, forcing it down outside Ljubljana August 9. The plane was en route from Vienna to Udine. Cross indicates where fighters forced it to land after it had been driven from its course by a storm. A second U. S. plane came under fire near the Yugoslav border.

FLIGHTS SUSPENDED

Berlin, Aug. 21 —(AP)— Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, Allied Commander in Europe, announced today that American air transport flights between Vienna and Udine had been cancelled until further notice as a result of the downing of two of the planes by Yugoslav fighters.

Gen. McNarney said he planned to confer with Gen. W. D. Morgan, Allied Commander-in-Chief in the Mediterranean, on measures to protect the planes.

He stressed that suspension of the flights was "temporary" and that they would be resumed as soon as he could work out a plan of operation with Allied forces in Italy.

Yugoslav Foreign Affairs Ministry Admits Slav Planes Attacked U.S. Military Transport Flying from Austria to Italy.

Belgrade, Aug. 21—(AP)—The Yugoslav Ministry of Foreign Affairs has acknowledged that Yugoslav fighter planes attacked an American military transport flying from Austria to Italy Monday and sent it crashing in flames near Bled probably with some casualties.

The admission—contained in a note dispatched by the Ministry last night to United States Ambassador Richard C. Patterson—brought from Patterson the bitter comment. "A year and a half ago they welcomed our planes and now they shoot them down."

The Yugoslav note, which termed Monday's incident a "regrettable accident," made no reference to the United States transport plane downed August 9 nor to the seven occupants of that plane now being held at Ljubljana. It said two members of the crew parachuted from the plane forced down Monday, but added: "There are signs that unfortunately victims fell in this accident."

(In London, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug issued a translation of a talk broadcast to Yugoslav workers by Premier Marshal Tito in which he said he had witnessed the downing of one of the planes. The text did not make clear which. An earlier translation by Tanjug specifically said it was that of August 9, but the later text did not carry any date and Belgrade dispatches said it was likely he had seen the second plane attack, but not the first.

(In the later text, Tito complained of "incessant new violations of our frontiers and territory" by "not only civilian planes but military planes . . . not single planes alone but even whole squadrons."

(He commented that "when it happens, as it did happen, that a plane is forced to land, . . . statements are put out that the plane could have lost its way in the clouds, though the sky was perfectly clear." This seemed to be a contradiction of Mr. Patterson's statement Sunday that the plane forced down August 9 had been lost in the clouds.

("Furthermore," said Tito, "slanders are being thrown against our army. False statements were made that the plane was not given a signal to land, that the plane was fired upon when it had already landed, etcetera, etcetera. All this is not true, as I have been myself a witness of this event").

Marshal Tito was reported to be at his summer home at Bled, not far from the Austrian border, and was believed to have been a witness of Monday's incident, as he was of the previous one on August 9.

Observers in Belgrade commented, that although the note mentioned numerous fighters and bombers flying over Yugoslavia, both fighter attacks were made on transports, which are unarmed.

Tito Doesn't Want "Peace At Any Price"

Yugoslav Premier Denounces Former Allies for Striving for an "Imperialistic Peace Treaty."

London, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Marshal Tito, Premier of Yugoslavia, today accused certain of Yugoslavia's wartime allies—which he left unnamed—of striving for "an imperialistic peace" rather than "a peace of liberation."

Yugoslavia, Tito said in a speech to workers at the Jesenice steel works, wants peace, "but not peace at any price." The Slav leader's speech was distributed in London today by Tanjug, the official Yugoslav news agency, which distributed a partial text of the talk earlier.

The earlier text referred mainly to the downing of an American transport plane by Yugoslav fighters, while the later version consisted generally of a review of the international situation.

"We have come to realize," Tito said, "that certain countries which during this war of liberation marched together with us do not wish a peace of liberation but an imperialistic peace."

"We want a new peace but a peace worthy of those who have given the greatest sacrifice in this war. We do not want peace at any price because we have already paid too dearly for it. We do not want to pay even a penny more for it. We shall not yield even one inch of territory that rightfully belongs to us; we shall not give away what is ours; and we want peace and the best possible relations with all countries."

He denounced "reaction" and acknowledged that it existed even in his own country.

"There can be no question today of two fronts: Western and Eastern; Western countries and Eastern countries," Tito declared. "No, the question today is one of true democracy versus reaction. . The question today is of these two fronts: The front of democracy and peace on the one hand; of reaction and various provocateurs on the other hand; in no case is there a question of two fronts along the lines West against East."

Workers Pass Picket Lines At Hamilton

Strikers Permit Passage of Employees and Supplies Into Stelco Plant—2,500 Still on Job.

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 21.—(CP)—For the first time since the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.) went on strike July 15th at Canada's three basic steel plants, picket lines at the Hamilton works of the Steel Company of Canada yesterday and last night permitted passage of workers, cars and trucks.

The Stelco plant had been operating at partial capacity, with an estimated 2,500 workers still on the job, since the strike began for a basic minimum weekly wage of $33.60 and a 40-hour week. But strong picket lines around the sprawling works had kept the plant besieged with the company using planes to move supplies into the plant, until yesterday's development.

The union itself had no statement to make on the new policy but it was noted that the Hamilton Police Commission met yesterday afternoon.

The Police Commission was told by George B. Elwin, vice-president of Stelco, that the company expects to reopen the picket lines "forwith" and expects "to have our men, trucks or trains go through without hindrance." Elwin added "we expected protection."

But the picket captains had received fresh instructions hours earlier which permitted workers in cars and afoot, and trucks with supplies, to pass through the lines. Employees were still going through the lines late last night.

Working employees were passing the lines in both directions—out of and into the plant. Food and other supplies moved in.

The special Police Commission meeting decided that the Hamilton Police should continue in control of the situation as long as Chief Crocker felt he could maintain order. A resolution instructed the chief to bring before the board anyone found breaking the law concerning intimidation or any other regulations.

A big labor rally at Woodlands Park last night was under chairmanship of Mayor Samuel Lawrence, who produced a resolution signed by 24,000 citizens calling on the Federal Government to settle the various strikes in Hamilton on the basis of union proposals presented to the Ottawa Parliamenary Committee on Industrial Relations. The petition later will be taken to Ottawa by a delegation.

Union officials estimated the crowd at the rally as high as 15,000. Pat Conroy, of Ottawa, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor and chief speaker at the rally, urged that co-operation, coordination and solidarity should keynote the present strikes in Hamilton from the union standpoint.

"Hamilton is the focal point in the strike struggle at present," said Conroy. "You will win or lose in proportion to how you co-operate with one another. Regardless of the threats of the steel company we'll win this strike and put Hamilton on the map."

All charges against Controller Donald A. Clarke and six union pickets in connection with an incident on the picket line August 14th were dismissed yesterday by Magistrate Harry Burville. The controller had been charged with careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident; the union men were charged with intimidation.

Another Chicago Hotel Burns

Fire broke out in another Chicago hotel, the New Warner, and sent 50 guests scurrying from their rooms. Three firemen were injured in the four-alarm blaze. Damage was estimated at $50,000. Police are holding the couple in whose room the fire started after they found marijuana cigarettes in the room.

Local Child, E.T. Woman Polio Cases

First Cases of Infantile Paralysis in Current Epidemic Sweeping Country Registered in This City.

First cases of the dreaded disease poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) to be registered in this district during the present epidemic which is sweeping Canada, are those of a three-and-one-half-year-old local child and a woman from Asbestos, the latter now at the Civic Hospital.

The Sherbrooke tot is Valerie Joan Burton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Burton, of 121 Quebec Street, and she is at present at home under medical care.

She first fell ill while she and her mother were on a visit to Bondville, Brome Lake, on Friday last. On their return here she became gradually worse and a local doctor who was summoned pronounced the child to be suffering from polio. Health authorities in the Bondville area were informed and two houses there—whose inmates had been in contact with the Burton child—were placed under strict quarantine. A physician at Knowlton informed the Record this morning that none of the children in the two houses quarantined, is ill at present.

The Asbestos victim is 19-year-old Mrs. Armand Cote. She took sick Sunday and was taken to the hospital at Victoriaville. There Drs. Paul Cote and Romeo Gregoire diagnosed her illness as poliomyelitis and sent her immediately to the Civic Hospital in Sherbrooke, where she is at present.

Every precaution is being taken here to prevent the spread of the disease, it was stated this morning.

Dr. Cote, who is from Victoriaville, told the Record that this is

Chinese Reds Gain Power In Manchuria

Communist Spokesmen Refuse to Take Part in Coalition Government With Chiang Kai-Shek.

By HAROLD K. MILKS

Nanking, Aug. 21—(AP)—China's Communists announced today establishment of their own government of Manchuria, and said they would not discuss participating in any coalition government of China until all of the current fighting is stopped.

Some informed quarters here said that establishment of such a coalition had become "the last hope" of mediators seeking a permanent peace.

Communist spokesmen denied that their party was calling for all-out mobilization against Chiang Kai-Shek's forces, and said they "have no desire" to overthrow his national government — which is strictly a one-party regime now. But they added:

"The first thing is to stop fighting. Then we can talk about reorganizing the government."

Some observers here said that Gen. Marshall and Ambassador John Leighton Stuart, having failed to stop the shooting first and talk politics later, now were trying to reach a political accord first.

Chiang, these sources said, had asked Gen. Marshall to request a list of ministries which communists would demand in any coalition government.

Strike Vote Compiled By Farms Union

Ballot Conducted by Alberta Union Membership on Proposed Non-Delivery Strike of Farm Produce.

Edmonton, Aug. 21.—(CP)—More than 20,000 Alberta farmers, members of the Alberta Farmers' Union, today awaited final compilation of a strike vote conducted by the union's membership on the proposed non-delivery strike of farm produce.

The strike, if called, is expected to be underway by the week-end.

The action to make effective a farmers' non-delivery strike, if and when the farmers considered such action advisable was approved by the members at their annual convention in Edmonton last November.

Steps approved then included: That other farm organizations be asked to give support and that support be sought of railway workers and packinghouse workers unions.

Yesterday officials of the union and a central strike committee gathered in Edmonton in closed session to discuss the decision of the strike.

King Expected To Return Next Week

London, Aug. 21.—(CP Cable)—The likelihood that Prime Minister Mackenzie King will return to Canada on the liner Queen Mary sailing from Southampton next Tuesday, was understood in Canadian circles today.

Tentative arrangements have been made for the Canadian Prime Minister to return from the Paris peace conference to London Sunday.

When he arrived for the peace conference Mr. King expressed hope he would stay to the end but the discussions obviously are taking longer than he anticipated.

The Canadian Press learned that cabin space has been reserved for him on the Queen Mary which is sailing from Southampton with a load of Canadian servicemen and their dependents.

PC Members Warn Commons Reds Are Gaining Ground

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—(CP)—The Commons, scanning Canada's turbulent industrial situation, yesterday found agreement in the need for action to improve relationships between Canadian workers and employers.

The labor situation was discussed when the report of the Industrial Relations Committee was before the House for consideration. The report launched a full dress debate which brought ominous warnings from a group of Progressive Conservative members of the danger of Communist elements gaining from continued unrest.

Reconstruction Minister Howe sounded the most optimistic note of the day when he expressed belief that the present wave of strikes—which involve some 50,000 workers, was nearing an end. He said they had reached a point where their effect was being felt throughout the country and in industries where there was no dispute.

A majority of the speakers supported the general terms of the committee's report which made proposals for a national labor code and other steps toward improvement of industrial relations. Only point on which there was definite disagreement was the proposal that the Labor Minister should be empowered to conduct a strike vote in a dispute either before or after a stoppage had taken place.

David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina), a former Ontario Labor Minister, and Angus MacInnis (CCF—Vancouver East) voiced strong opposition to that suggestion as interfering with the rights of unions and, Mr. Croll said, laying the government open to strike-breaking charges.

Most of the discusison centred about the broader phases of industrial relations and on the question of wages there was little inclination to make commitments. Several of the members said they were inclined to accept the opinion of Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, that wage increases much in excess of 10 cents an hour might be fatal to price control.

The labor debate followed third reading of the government's bill on major tax changes provided in the 1946 budget. Before the bill reached third reading the House turned down, by an 82-69 vote, a Progressive Conservative amendment which would have referred the bill back for further consideration.

Arthur Smith (PC—Calgary West) led off the labor debate and gave the keynote speech for his party on labor affairs. It was his suggestion which led to the committee's investigation.

He spoke of "the canker of Communism" which had attached itself to a part of the labor movement with the ultimate goal of a general strike which would give the Communist Party control in Canada. It was a condition which the majority in the labor movement were fighting.

"It is unfortunate that they (the Communists) have made some progress, but I still say that the heart of the labor movement is still sound," he said.

On the matter of price control and wages, Mr. Smith said the fact that there was no direct liaison between the administrations of price and wage control was a matter of "major criticism."

In proposing government-conducted strike votes the committee was affirming the principle of the secret ballot.

One of the primary needs for better labor relations was a mutual understanding and confidence between labor and management.

Labor Minister Mitchell received commendation from Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) who also urged closer co-operation between the two groups.

Mr. MacInnis termed the committee's report an "anti-climax."

Albania Claims War Record Justifies Entry Into U.N.

Paris, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Prime Minister Enver Hoxha of Albania today told a plenary session of the 21-power Paris peace conference that his country's war record justified its inclusion as a full-fledged member of the conference.

British Foreign Minister Bevin, making his first appearance at the conference, presided over the meeting, called to hear statements from Albania, Egypt, Mexico, Austria and Iran.

The session interrupted a series of commission hearings on Big Four treaty proposals, and turned the Luxembourg Palace convention platform over to countries involved in the Second Great War but not invited to participate actively in peace decisions.

The first Italian attempt to ease the terms of her proposed peace treaty ended in a stalemate following a meeting yesterday of the conference's political commission on Italy.

The commission declined to endorse a formal Rome request for greater consideration as a co-belligerent against Germany, but left the door open for future concessions crediting Italy for her help to the Allies after Mussolini was overthrown.

The Italian request touched off a 7 1-2 hour debate within the commission regarding the right of defeated countries to submit proposals on the treaties.

Andrei Vishinsky, Russian Deputy Foreign Minister, urged that such proposals be rejected "right now." Western powers, while arguing that it was hardly proper for defeated countries to propose their own peace treaty terms, nevertheless rejected Mr. Vishinsky's suggestion. The question finally was left just about where it started.

Despite the inconclusive termination of the day-long study of the Italian treaty, some delegates aligned with the so-called western countries—headed by Britain and the United States—said they were not discouraged by the apparent slow progress.

Russia was reported to have split with the other members of the Big Four—the United States, Britain and France—on a report submitted to the conference by a special four-power commission studying creation of a free Port of Trieste.

One of the principal points of disagreement, an American source said, was a Russian demand to add Albania, Poland, Romania and the Ukraine to an international council supervising the free port.

Shutdown In Meat Packing Firms Urged

Preliminary results today showed a majority of union members endorsing possible strike action by the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.) against two of Canada's three big meat-packing chains—Canada Packers Ltd. and Burns and Company. Negotiations are still underway between the union and the third packing chain, Swift Canadian Company.

The union is seeking a weekly minimum wage of $33.60 for a 37½ hour week. According to the union, negotiations with Canada Packers and Burns collapsed last week and the strike ballot then was authorized among a claimed union membership of 9,000 across Canada in the two companies.

L. A. Forsyth of Montreal, counsel for the two meat packers, said wage increases had been offered.

First announcements of balloting results came last night from Hull, Que., Prince Albert and Edmonton.

At Hull, members of Local 514 at the Canada Packers plant last night voted 95-3 in favor of strike action. At Prince Albert, employees at the Burns plant were said by union officials to have voted unanimously in favor of strike. At Edmonton, employees of both Canada Packers and Burns Company plants favored strike action. The union said the vote at Canada Packers was 458-23 in favor of strike, and at Burns was 278-10.

Union members at the Edmonton Swift Canadian Company plant previously had endorsed strike action in the events that negotiations with Swift Canadian should break down.

Livestock Parade Centre Of Much Interest At Cookshire

Cookshire, Aug. 21.—Bad weather has dogged the footsteps of the directors of Cookshire Fair throughout the entire three days, with rain washing out the first day's show completely, and yesterday, with cloudy skies and intermittent showers, some three to four thousand people flocked to the grounds, a much smaller crowd than usual for the big day of the fair. Today, another big program will be given to bring the exhibition to a close, and despite the overcast this morning, it is hoped a record crowd will witness the many attractions and fine exhibits shown at Cookshire Fair this year.

In spite of the small attendance, the directors are most optimistic, stating that the quality and quantity of exhibits and the many displays are far beyond normal showings, and certainly yesterday, in the premiere showing of horses and cattle in the famous Cookshire Fair livestock parades, one could not fail to be impressed with the fine exhibition of Compton County's finest. A grandstand filled to capacity, and with several hundreds more standing along the track or leaning over the fences, applauded enthusiastically as the many well-groomed horses and sleek cattle paraded past the stands.

Leading the cattle parade were members of the Sawyerville and Bury Boys' and Girls' Calf Clubs, whose lively little entries drew a good hand from the amused and appreciative crowd. Miss Dorothy Loveland, of Sawyerville, took top honors with at least three firsts in the Calf Club division, including the prize for the best calf on parade.

From all parts of Compton County came the pride of the herds to compete for top honors in the big parade of cattle yesterday afternoon, and led by the Sherbrooke Junior Harmony Band, directed by Professor Charles Delvenne, the many fine specimens once again upheld the splendid reputation of Compton County farmers for raising some of the best cattle in Eastern Canada.

Winning the grand championship in the Shorthorn division were two Lennoxville exhibitors, C. C. Warner showing the grand champion male and the James Woodward estate exhibiting the grand champion female. C. D. French, of Cookshire, took both male and female championships in the Hereford division, while Raymond St. Marie, of Compton, took first, and Hollis Burns, of Cookshire, second, in the grand championship awards for Ayrshires. Stewart Coates, of East Angus, won the Jersey honors, and Jack Tarte, of Sherbrooke, took first in the Holsteins with his grand champion female.

For the best display of beef cattle on parade, C. D. French, Member for Compton, took top honors, with C. C. Warner, of Lennoxville, winning the R. Wallace and Sons Ltd., special for the best Shorthorn herd, and Mr. French also taking the Webster Motors special for the best Hereford herd. Malcolm McCaskill, of Bury, won first prize for his grade beef cattle, and Stewart Coates, of East Angus, captured the Cookshire Milling and Farm Supply Company special for the best Jersey calf.

In the horse parade, the grand champion Belgian stallion was shown by Arthur Taylor, of Sawyerville, with J. A. C. Hearn, of Cookshire, showing the champion Percheron stallion, and Eric Dunn, of Lennoxville, showing the champion Percheron mare. Hazen Lowry, of Sawyerville, exhibited the best heavy draft horse over 1,400 pounds, with Arthur Taylor also taking the Jacob Nicol special for the best heavy draft stallion, any breed. Curtis Ross, of Bulwer, won first in the champion roadster class, for standard bred horses.

Several enjoyable grandstand acts were given on the stage during the afternoon, introducing California Joe and his trick pony from the Wild West Rodeo on Bernard and Barry Shows, Floyd Dillon and his educated pony "Lucky Star," who answered questions put to her

Three Applicant Nations Pass For U.N. Membership

Lake Success, N.Y., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Sweden, Iceland and Afghanistan passed muster for membership in the United Nations in a screening report handed today to the Security Council.

The report carried the elements for further wrangles in the council over the disposal of six would-be members:

Albania—supported by Russia, opposed by the United States and Britain.

Outer Mongolia—sponsored by Russia, opposed by China.

Siam—opposed by France and Russia.

Portugal, Ireland and Transjordan opposed by Russia.

In a strongly-worded argument before the prolonged final session of the council's membership committee here last night, chairman Jerzy Michalowski of Russian-backed Poland challenged Transjordan's membership bid as premature.

He touched upon the Palestine question and Britain's relations with the former British mandate of Iraq, where British Imperial troops are based, under a treaty of military alliance, ready to dive into the southern Iran oilfields.

Mr. Michalowski declared there is a close relation between Transjordan and Palestine, which were under a combined British mandate until the Hashemite Kingdom was set up earlier this year.

Poland's contention that Transjordan seems a fit candidate for trusteeship rather than membership had been sharply challenged on Monday by British representative Valentine Lawford.

Russian representative Alexei Krasilnikov gave his endorsement to Sweden and Iceland "with pleasure" after having previously approved only Afghanistan. Those three countries alone are unopposed out of the nine applicants the Security Council will pass upon, with the veto power held by each of the Big Five. Final approval is up to the General Assembly, before which the applicants must get a two-thirds majority for membership.

Other developments at last night's committee meeting in the new U.N. interim headquarters here:

Siam pressed for favorable consideration on her membership bid, declaring the Siamese are confident an agreement will be reached with the French very soon in Washington on the procedure for settlement of the Indo-China frontier dispute.

France replied it was premature to speak of talks being underway in Washington.

Russia urged the acceptance of Albania into membership over British and American opposition and said a representative of the Mongolian Peoples Republic could be expected here soon to press for membership.

first on fluid milk, on September 30, as part of Government policy. There are also large subsidies paid on every pound of butter, on cheese and on concentrated milk, which it is expected will be discontinued later.

Both farmers and distributors state that consumption of fluid milk has increased enormously in recent years, due largely to a more widespread appreciation of its high food value and to the emphasis placed on health during the war. Even at somewhat higher prices milk and dairy products will still be one of the cheapest foods when judged by real values. They also point out that fluid milk is selling in most U.S. cities at prices considerably higher than in Canada. Lower production here would result in a serious scarcity and all the trouble that would entail.

He supported the general recommendations, though they failed to meet the needs of present work stoppages. He did not, however, approve of the suggestion for government strike votes.

The plan proposed by the committee gave the Labor Minister the right to go over the heads of the unions.

The proposal on strike vote also came under attack by Mr. Croll. Such a plan would mean rejection of the Rand formula which had been the settlement of the 1945 Ford strike at Windsor. The formula gave the union financial support from all employees and imposed penalties in the event of improper work stoppages.

John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge) said the committee had been in "an impossible condition," with labor demanding a 15-cent increase and the government imposing a 10-cent limit. He suggested the steel plants be reopened on the basis of proposals made by the union which were "reasonable." If it were shown necessary plants could be subsidized by the government and the cost could be met by "win the peace victory bonds."

John Charlton (PC—Brant) dealt with the efforts of the Communist Party to invade the ranks of labor. He said they were aiming eventually at a general strike which would enable the Soviet to take over Canada and the United States. In the meantime there would be "rehearsal strikes." If the present laws were satisfactory they should be enforced. If not they should be revised. The responsibility to settle the present strike rested with the government.

Mr. Howe said evidence given before the committee had established that most of the current strikes were illegal in that machinery for approving wage increases had been ignored. The steel strike had peculiar difficulties with differences between the companies and the union insisting on a uniform settlement for all basic plants and also fabricating plants.

While the amount of wage increase included in the price increase granted steel producers was approximately 10 cents an hour it could not be exactly guaged. A 10-cent increase was a substantial increase to steel workers.

The recommendations which the committee had made would be helpful in future dealings with labor matters. The suggestion of government strike votes was a constructive one and was not likely to be abused.

Meantime, while the committee was sitting, strikes were continuing.

"Not only have they paralyzed industries directly affected but they are extending to industries not directly connected with any labor dispute," he said. "That situation is most acute at this moment. There is scarcely a section of the country which is not beginning to be affected by these strikes.

Lt.-Col. Cecil Merritt, V.C., (PC—Vancouver Burrard) supported the committee's recommendations. He said the government had to accept responsibility for the present situation because of its lack of policy and resolution.

The government had missed opportunities to settle the steel dispute and the time had been reached when there would have to be a clear declaration of government policy on how far wages could be advanced. That ruling would have to apply uniformly across Canada.

P. E. Cote (L—Verdun) who adjourned the labor debate, endorsed the committee report and said he could see no reason for labor objecting to the government conducting strike votes.

by Gordon Beerworth, the emcee; Dillion's famous jumping pony and the favorite four-sister team of the Texas Dollies who delighted the audience with popular western songs and music. Ray Dawe was at the piano, providing many musical interludes.

With only three starters in each race, and on a slow track due to the rain, the usual enthusiasm in the harness racing was lacking. A. R. Rousseau, Mayor of East Angus, presided over the racing in his capacity as starter, with E. A. Labonte, of Birchton, A. E. Wiken, of East Angus, and J. W. Robinson, of Cookshire, as judges, and F. C. Barlow, East Angus, with J. H. Labonte, East Angus, as timers. E. Vermette, Jr. of Cookshire, was clerk of the course.

Two races were run off, with results as follows:

2.22 Mixed Class—Purse $150

Hilda Stout	1	2	3
Lee Bee	2	3	1
Black Pepper	3	1	2

Time: 2.35; 2.30; 2.25

2.28 Mixed Class—Purse $150

Pat Harvester	1	3	3
Zonia	2	1	2
Morgan Brook	3	2	1

Time: 2.28; 2.30; 2.25.

On this afternoon's card the feature event will be the free-for-all, and the companion race will be a classified event. The final livestock parades will also take place and the Sherbrooke Junior Harmony Band will be in attendance.

Guests present yesterday included C. D. French, Member for Compton; Emile Bellmare, Mayor of Cookshire; Payson Sherman, of Scotstown, ex-member for Compton; Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Bradley of Sherbrooke; Hugh McClary, W. J. Whitcomb and A. B. Hartwell, directors of the Ayer's Cliff Fair, and Raoul Deragon, Vice President of Waterloo Fair, with Mr. French heading a delegation from Sherbrooke Fair, including N. G. Bennett, Raymond St. Marie, V. R. Beattie and Dr. L. Gendreau.

St. Pat's Old Boys Association of Sherbrooke who are raffling a Frigidaire for the benefit of their boys' camp, held their nightly drawing for the choice of a Silex or hotplate, Monday night's winner being Earl Dougherty of Cookshire and last night's winner being Miss Jeannie Desruisseaux, of Lennoxville. Two drawings will take place at the booth tonight.

In the Horticultural Department, upstairs in the Main Hall, where a splendid exhibition of work by the ladies of Compton County is drawing much admiration, several special prizes have been awarded. Mrs. Guy Waldron, of East Clifton, took 1st for the best collection of vegetables; Mrs. R. B. Learned, of Cookshire, took 1st for her collection of house plants and also for cut flowers. Jack Tarte, of Sherbrooke, took two 1sts for the best formal bouquet and for the best table centre, winning the E. S. Hetherington Special for highest aggregate of points in the floral division. Leon Colby of Bulwer took the S. J. Osgood and Sons special for maple sugar and syrup.

Last night a good crowd attended the first night performance, with much admiration expressed for the smart new grandstand stage, brilliantly lit with fluorescent lighting. Designed by Gaston Morin of Cookshire, the structure is the finest outdoor stage on the E. T. County Fairs circuit. Acts presented last night included Ray Dawe, King of the Ivories; Curly Hanna, whose pastime is juggling; the favorite Texas Dollies in two well-received appearances; Pete and Miss Ruth in an Australian whip-cracking act; with Montana Frank, featured in the Wild West Rodeo on the midway; Terry Mozell, from the Oriental Follies; Frank Dillon and his educated pony, Lucky Star, and as a finale, Dillon's famous Jumping Pony, taking a five foot jump over a special hurdle on the track.

Price Control Is Reimposed On U.S. Meats

Ceiling Will Also Be Placed on Dairy Products if Prices Jump Further — Black Market Feared.

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington, Aug. 21—(AP)—Pork chops, beefsteak, hamburger and all other meats in the United States are going back under Office of Price Administration ceilings "at or close" to June 30 prices.

Milk, butter, cheese and all other dairy products remain free of ceilings, but controls will be slapped back on if prices of those items jump further.

These main decisions announced by the Price Decontrol Board last night prompted widely varying reactions.

The meat industry spoke of dangers that black markets might spring up again and that the public would find less meat to buy.

And the C.I.O. cost of living committee said the decision to keep dairy products free of controls "will bring greater inflation to the American people."

On other points in its first decision the decontrol board:

1. Ruled against restoring ceilings on nearly all grains.

2. Authorized livestock and meat subsidies to be paid again, at June 29 rates.

3. Ordered price controls re-established on soybeans and cotton seed products, including salad and cooking oils.

broadcast to Yugoslav workers over the Belgrade radio last night made no reference to the missing plane but disputed American contentions that the other craft had been forced off its course by bad weather.

President Truman, meanwhile, received a complete report on the Yugoslav situation in a trans-Atlantic telephone call from State Secretary Byrnes at Paris to the presidential yacht Williamsburg en route to Bermuda.

As part of its newly-strengthened policy of firmness, the United States reached out also to reprimand Poland, another of the countries in the Soviet sphere of influence.

The State Department delivered a note to the Polish Government saying that persecution of the Polish Labor Party, arrests, censorship restrictions, administrative interference "and other repressive acts" have prevented normal democratic political activity.

It reminded Poland that her pledge to hold "free and unfettered elections" formed the basis of this country's agreement to extend diplomatic recognition.

Canada Discussed By Soviet Writer

By REMBERT JAMES

Moscow, Aug. 21.— (AP) —Ilya Ehrenburg, writing in Izvestia, said today that Canada's investigation of a Soviet espionage ring was intended to distract the average Canadian from his real difficulties: The increasing cost of living, strikes, and unemployment.

He said Canada's dependence on both New York's Wall Street and London's City was strongly felt there.

"In their time the Americans tried to conquer Canada with arms and fought the English for three years," he said. "Afterwards the Americans understood that dollars were more in place here than field guns. Canada became a field of battle between English and American capital. It is difficult to state whose power here is more perceptible—the crown of Great Britain or Wall Street."

Canadians, he said, "do not live badly materially but spiritually they are still babies. There is only one salvation for Canada—a genuine spiritual independence and in strengthening the still unripe Canadian culture."

Isolationism Is Condemned By U.S. Consul General, Montreal, In Address To Rotarians

"A nation cannot in these dynamic and progressive days stand alone . . . and we can no longer isolate ourselves, for as horizons narrow and great distance is overcome, even very foreign countries of yesterday may become neighbors of tomorrow," declared North Winship, American Consul General at Montreal, in an address before members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club at their luncheon meeting yesterday.

Condemning isolationism by paralleling it to living in a community without friends, the speaker stated that as understanding and unity are vital among the United Nations, "these virtues are all the more important, in fact imperative, between Canada and the United States."

"We must trust and have confidence in someone more or less close at hand, preferably a neighbor," the American Consul said.

Continuing in this same vein of thought, that of strengthening the bonds of unity between the two great North American countries, Mr. Winship mentioned the joint sacrifices of the Canadian and American soldier on the same battlefield and the contributions of Canadian and American industry. "This co-operation will undoubtedly continue," the speaker added, "and according to reports already made known, the training and equipment of the Canadian and American armed forces of the future should follow a similar pattern."

Mr. Winship felt that these post-war years should witness a quick revival and expansion of the normal trade which has always existed between Canada and the U. S., and "which is now greater than that carried on across any other frontier." He went on to declare that "not the least important part in this commerce is, and should continue to be, the trade affecting Quebec and the New England States."

In the matter of trade, Mr. Winship said, the United States is Canada's best customer and Canada is the United States' second-best customer and as an indication of the "health and vigor" of the trade between the two bordering countries he cited the recent adjustment of the Canadian dollar to parity with American currency.

"Price controls, subsidies and production limitations are being cancelled as rapidly as industry and commerce can be readjusted. New instructions from Washington and Ottawa to their respective trade commissioners emphasize that help must be given to importers as well as exporters. Full credence is being given to the theory that trade is good no matter in which direction it flows and the 'buy-at-home' slogans of the period between the wars are dead," he said.

It was the opinion of the speaker that, geographically at least, the flow of trade north and south between the two countries is easier than the flow east and west within either country. He added that eventually, as ceilings, rationing and other restrictions are lifted, present border formalities and requirements will also "be reduced to a vanishing minimum and United States-Canadian relations will take on new significance as a shining example in mutual political, industrial and commercial understanding, co-operation and accomplishment."

Mr. Winship lauded the warm and cordial relationships which for the past several decades have existed between Canadians and Americans, "two peoples with the same ideals and philosophies of living," and he called for other nations to take this example by pointing out that "better results are obtained by pointing a scornful finger at an erring neighbor than by pointing a loaded gun."

"The records show," Mr. Winship said, "that in spite of strikes, bottlenecks and other interruptions, production in both countries has reached a high level for the year following V-J Day." With more settled conditions production will go higher, the speaker felt, "and our most pressing wants and those of our less fortunate allies will, within a reasonable time, be satisfied."

"Canada, Great Britain and the United States, as the foremost producing and trading nations, will be given the opportunity to demonstrate the validity of the far-sighted policies now being inaugurated. This is the time to build well our unhampered international trade, our integral industrial and commercial policy, so that we who proved its value to ourselves and the world in war, may prove again its value in developing that happy state of lasting peace and prosperity so long envisaged," he concluded.

The speaker was introduced by Bert Lyon and thanked by Brown Hopkins.

Seated at the head table with the guest speaker and President W. S. Sutherland were: Arthur Arnold, K. B. Jenckes, Bert Lyon, Brown Hopkins, Willard Cross, Carl Skinner, Norrey Price, a guest, H. L. Gagnon, of Sherbrooke, and a visiting Rotarian, Frank Whittaker, of Westmount.

Other visiting Rotarians were: J. Ernest Millen, of Montreal, Lawrence Doering, of Chesterville, Ont., and Dr. H. Kaessler, of Mt. Vernon, N.Y.

SURRENDER OF ACCOUNTS BY BAND ASKED

Professor Charles Delvenne, relieved about a year ago as director of the Sherbrooke Harmony Band, has entered another action in the local courts, this time against the band association demanding the surrender of accounts addressed to the Harmony Band during the contract period between the two parties.

According to the claim of the plaintiff, a contract drawn up between the Harmony Band and himself on October 27, 1929, stipulated that the director of the band was to receive fifty per cent of all takings by the band for concerts given after all expenses had been deducted; it was further understood that while all amateur bands received a subsidy from the government, in the case of the local associaton, one-half of the grant was to be turned over to the director.

The plaintiff claims further that during the entire period of his directorship, the band association carried out all the administrative duties and assumed all responsibilities such as keeping the books and that under the terms of the contract certain sums of money are still due him by the association.

The plaintiff demands that either all accounts be surrendered and that the defendant pay the amount due with interest or be condemned to pay to the plaintiff the sum of $4,000 as one-third due on the balance of the said account.

Higher Milk Prices Certain In Fall Say Local Dairymen

It now appears certain that prices of dairy products in Sherbrooke will advance this fall. The advance will take place all across Canada and will be the result of discontinuance of subsidies which the Government has been paying to dairy farmers. Some time ago it was announced in the House of Commons at Ottawa that the subsidy on fluid milk would end September 30.

That prices of milk and dairy products would advance here was confirmed by leading dairy distributors and dairymen M. T. Armitage, President, Sherbrooke Pure Milk Co. Ltd., spokesman for local milk distributors, said he could see no alternative to an advance in price on October 1 for fluid milk and later for other dairy products. Mr. H. R. Ross who spoke for dairy farmers supplying milk and cream for local distribution, said it looked very much as if consumers would have to pay more next winter.

"This is not just a local matter, the increase this fall will be right across Canada," stated the milk distributor. "We shall have no alternative but to increase our local selling price as we shall be required to pay farmers more for milk and cream to compensate them for loss of the subsidy which they are now receiving from the Dominion Government. This subsidy is now 55 cents a 100 pounds of milk. We certainly could not afford to absorb any part of this amount, not with the way our costs have been rising the past few years."

The representative of the dairy farmers was equally emphatic. He said farmers simply could not face a drop in the price they receive for milk and hope to continue in business. He went on to explain that in such an event production of milk would decrease to the exrent that the scarcity of milk would become very acute. The farmer explained that all his costs have gone up in recent years—machinery, feed and living costs—and that the increase in labor costs has been particularly rapid during the past six months.

Both representatives of the industry point out that few consumers have been aware that the Dominion Government has been paying a large share of the retail price of dairy products for the past five years. There was a direct consumers' subsidy of two cents a quart on milk, which was taken off by the Government a few months ago, and various subsidies paid direct to farmers to encourage wartime production. These latter are also due to be discontinued, the

Hollywood Highlights

Hollywood, Aug. 21.—(AP)—You'd think after all these years Shirley Temple would be able to handle any movie scene. But no — she finds making love difficult.

"I can't see what people think when they make love on the screen," she said, blushing through her makeup.

"My kind of acting is to pretend that everything in a film plot is real. And to do that in a love scene with anybody but Jack is—well—sort of embarrassing."

The Jack she speaks of is her husband, John Agar. There is a good possibility that Shirley will some day be able to make movie love with confidence. Her boss, David Selznick, also has John under contract and the couple may be co-starred.

"That would be swell," she said, "because he's the only leading man I'd feel at ease kissing."

As age creeps over the actress (she now is 18), her screen roles involve more and more kissing. In her latest, "Honeymoon," she smacks both Guy Madison and Franchot Tone. Lina Romay tried to assist by suggesting Shirley imagine the actors were her husband.

"But that wouldn't work," said Shirley. "Making love to Guy and Franchot isn't at all like kissing Jack!"

"What, no Mickey Mouse?"

This familiar cry may be heard increasingly in the future, now that short subjects are facing a crisis. With costs up and rentals almost the same, producers are wondering how much longer they can make shorts at a profit.

Now that Bing Crosby has signed his radio deal, the trade is talking about the many deals the groaner was offered. One company offered $1,000,000 as a gift, if he would only sign. He wouldn't . . . As if he isn't making enough, Bing also rented his tennis court for scenes in "The Emperor Waltz."

John Hodiak, Ann Gifford and Eve Arden were sweltering under the lights for a formal dinner scene in "The Arnelo Affair." They couldn't understand how George Murphy remained so cool—until he walked away from the table. No pants.

A TIMELY WARNING

The warning placed before the people of Canada by Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., that this country will probably be the battleground in the event of another world war should be taken to heart by the government and the people of this country. It is no idle talk but rather a presentation of the grim facts which should make all true Canadians determined on a dual course — to leave no stone unturned to assure the success of any organization designed to maintain the peace of the world and secondly to see that the armed forces of this country are developed to the highest degree of efficiency so that in co-operation with other democracy-loving nations they will be in a position to meet any threat which may develop.

The first objective requires the active co-operation of this country in the battle for peace. Mere lip service to the cause or passive approval is not sufficient. And this active co-operation means that the nation must be prepared to take its part in any international move to localize incipient trouble.

This latter can only be obtained by the maintenance of an adequate defence service. The decision to establish a standing army, a permanent air force and a fleet substantially in excess of pre-war standards is not sufficient. These forces must have the most modern of equipment, which equipment must be developed in the light of new discoveries in the art and science of warfare. Furthermore, the men must be fully trained in the handling of the new weapons.

CHANGED VIEWS ON AIRWAYS CONTROL

The complete reversal of the views held by Reconstruction Minister C. D. Howe on the future ownership of the Canadian Pacific Airways as expressed in the House of Commons Saturday indicates the grave dangers inherent in the policy of making the government the competitor and at the same time the regulator of private business Furthermore it is strong proof that too often a long range decision binding the country for many years is made by a member of the government or a small group of such members on the basis of some temporary condition or imagined condition.

In this particular case, Mr. Howe acknowledges that his earlier decision that the private railway company must divest itself of its airlines was not in the best interests of the country as a whole and that to carry out his earlier judgment would have retarded for many years the development of airborne traffic in the Dominion. Unlike too many men in public office, the Reconstruction Minister is ready to admit a mistake and thus a dangerous condition is avoided.

His frankness in publicly admitting the mistake in his earlier opinions cannot but enhance the already high respect in which Mr. Howe is held by the Canadian people. It proves that in peace, as in war, his prime interest is the improvement and expansion of Canada and its people, rather than in political preferment through the retention of some particular views which have become outmoded.

As a logical corollary of his change in views, Mr. Howe might seek to impress upon his cabinet associates the desirability of permitting the privately-owned air transport companies to compete on a fair basis with the government monopoly on the profitable trans-continental routes, thus permitting them to meet the deficits they accumulate on the development lines.

THE CRISIS IN INDIA

The bloody rioting which has been sweeping Calcutta for the past week, in which at least three thousand people have been killed in battles between the Hindus and Moslems, is a tragic warning to the critics of British policy of what will happen throughout the country if the British forces are suddenly withdrawn. In dealing with the problem of India, it must be fully appreciated that racial and religious hate and intolerance cut far deeper there than in perhaps any other country of the world. One of the greatest tasks which has occupied the British authorities over the years has been to hold this racial friction within bounds as far as possible and it has been only through the determination of the ruling officers that these tragic outbreaks have been as infrequent as they are.

Any removal of British power would be the signal for clashes the like of which have not yet been seen. The differences between the two dominant groups in India are too long-standing and too deep to permit of any immediate settlement. The mutual mistrust has become so impregnated in the life of the country that it is doubtful if the minority would accept any plan which left them to the slightest degree at the mercy of the majority party. On the other hand the majority are determined that they shall control any national assembly and have rejected all proposals for the division of the country into Hindu and Moslem areas.

Thus the British Government is placed in the unpleasant position of being unable to step out without creating a condition for one of the bitterest civil wars of all time—a civil war which might make the sufferings of China appear as a joy.

This is the bitter truth, but a truth which too many people are prone to overlook, being content with criticizing and offering gratuitous advice which is worth exactly what it costs—nothing.

Peter Edson writes on

VETS' HOSPITAL SITUATION

Within the past few weeks the War Department has made a series of announcements on its hospital situation which at face value does not make sense.

First, it is announced the closing of Ashford General Hospital, formerly the old Greenbrier hotel at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. The Army paid more than three million dollars for this 6,000-acre resort and put another couple million dollars into improvements. Now it is offered for sale as surplus. It is one of three big hotels taken over by the War Department for use as hospitals during the war.

Next, the War Department announced the closing of three more Army general hospitals, as of September 30. They are located at Framingham, Mass., Galesburg, Ill., and Springfield, Mo.

Finally, it announced that the Corps of Engineers had let contracts for seven new veterans' hospitals, at a cost of 38 million dollars. They are to be located at Wilmington, Seattle, Shreveport, Omaha, Wilkes-Barre, Fresno, and Big Springs, Tex.

This seems to be kicking the taxpayers around something awful, and maybe it is. Why build new vet hospitals when the Army general hospitals are being closed and sold as surplus? But the War Department answers add up to make a definite policy which seems justifiable, and it's worth going into for a complete picture of the vet situation today.

MANY WARTIME HOSPITALS WERE POORLY BUILT

Many of the wartime general hospitals were of temporary construction. They are not fireproof. They are no good as permanent hospitals. These temporary hospitals are being turned over to the War Assets Administration for disposal as surplus property as fast as they're vacated.

The National Housing Agency is getting most of them. It moves them in sections for temporary housing wherever possible. Otherwise, it knocks them down and tries to salvage the lumber.

More-permanent wartime hospital facilities are being turned over to state and local governments. Massachusetts took over the Army hospital at Camp Miles Standish, valued at a million dollars. The state is spending five million dollars more to make it modern.

Many wartime general hospitals were built at remote locations. They were built near big training areas, to meet wartime needs. It's difficult for relatives and friends to visit these spots today. And they're so far away from metropolitan centers that medical specialists in the big medical schools and clinics are not available for consultation in complicated cases and cases involving difficult surgery.

The entire load formerly carried at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., can now be transferred to Walter Reed hospital at Washington. It's in a much better location, more convenient for visits from veterans' relatives and close to the big Eastern university medical centres.

THE ARMY HAS CLOSED 37 GENERAL HOSPITALS

During the war the Army built or acquired 60 general hospitals at a total cost of 248 million dollars. This does not include the several hundred training-camp hospitals, most of which will be closed.

Of the 60 wartime general hospitals, 23 are still active. They represent an investment of 82 million dollars. When the Army gets shaken down, it will have only 12 or 15 general hospitals.

The War Department plans to build only one new general hospital, at Ft. Totten, N.Y., to provide a needed hospital near the port of New York.

Twenty-one wartime general hospitals costing 97 million dollars are being disposed of as surplus property. Final decision has not been made on three others, representing an investment of 10 million dollars. But 13 hospitals costing 59 million dollars have been turned over to the Veterans' Administration. So the investment isn't completely lost.

The Veterans' Administration has an 800-million-dollar hospital-building program. It will build 8 new hospitals at a cost of 771 million dollars. It will make additions costing 68 million dollars at 42 of its existing hospitals.

The Veterans' Administration now has 106 hospitals. When this program is completed, there will be nearly 150,000 beds available for veterans requiring hospital care.

Lewis Men In Eastern Townships

by

former resident of Sherbrooke, where he operated a marble and granite business, has written a series of articles on the early settlers of the Bury district, Scotsmen who haled from the Island of Lewis. The following is the second of the series which will appear in the Sherbrooke Daily Record on Monday, Wednesday and Friday until the series is completed.

THE EDITOR.

CHAPTER II.

We must make the fact plain that this was no prairie land ready for the plow, with 160 acres given freely to any one who might squat upon it, corresponding to the laws governing western land settlers in later years.

Ahead of these pioneers of the older days were the land grabbers or what has been termed in some quarters as "land sharks." Why the government should give away Crown lands to others than those who were to use them, and allow the owners the privilege of selling it to the pioneers at exorbitant prices is a problem which we will not attempt to solve here. However, into the hands of these land sharks the pioneers fell blindfolded.

Progress was impossible since the interest alone on the price promised to the new-found landlords was much more than any profit or saving that could be made under such hardship. Much has been written about the troubles of the new settlers in the Abitibi district in this Province in recent years, even though they were given free land and a fair amount of money in order to make a good start, yet these hardships might be considered a recreation in comparison with the trials of the original settlers in this country. Indeed the absence of the bailiffs and sheriffs who were continually after the earlier settlers in the older days, is in itself a benefit too great to be estimated.

Houses were built of logs. Sawmills sprang up here and there where sufficient water power could be found. There were few beasts of burden in the community for many years, as few, if any, of the early settlers could afford such luxuries. There were no well supplied stores within easy reach.

The first grain produced was carried to the grist-mill, often some miles away, on the shoulders of the women-folks, as the men's time was so important in land-clearing that they had to devote most of their time to this particular work, which was the hardest of all. As children grew up and families became larger and larger, community life sprang into being. Churches were built and "little red school houses" appeared as the need became evident. Teachers received the princely salary of $12.00 per month and paid $1.50 per week for board.

Many of the rising generation on reaching manhood went to the "States." Immigration laws as we now know them were not thought of at that time and work was plentiful for both boys and girls in the growing Republic to the south. But the folks back home were never forgotten and money was regularly sent to help those brothers and sisters who were still in their 'teens. The return of those who had been away for some years would be the cause for great rejoicing, sweethearts, friends and relatives would be at the gate awaiting the arrival of the "stage"—that was to bring back their dear ones from the railway station many miles away. A royal welcome greeted them.

It may be mentioned here that some of these young people felt very proud after spending some time in the "States." Some would say that they had forgotten the Gaelic (their mother tongue) and could only speak English. This was strongly condemned and would cause much talk along the roadside and in the homes. The old folks would shake their heads sadly, and their eyes would "pop" when they attempted to pretend they were real Yankees—and their queer behaviour would cause loss of a friendship among the elder element. The young fry, on the other hand, thought they were up-to-date and would stand by the new-comers.

There was often a case of a sad sweetheart in this homecoming and among these was that of Angus, who on his return home found his best girl engaged to another fellow. This upset Angus so much that he consulted the minister in the most serious manner. The minister was always considered the judge, the lawyer, the notary—his word was high court of the realm and Angus' purpose was to see if the engagement could not be broken, but the minister was not in favor of such a drastic procedure. The minister at this time was Rev. Daniel Gordon, father of Ralph Connor, the author and preacher.

He strongly advised Angus to forget her, telling him that he had the best looking girl in the congregation at the Manse and he added he would be glad to introduce her to Angus. It should be added here that for a young girl to be working for the minister was the very highest honor that could be paid to any girl in this or any other land. Angus appreciated this good start so he went to the Manse and was introduced to this beautiful girl Angus was a strapping, fine-looking fellow himself and lost no time in chopping the minister's woodpile, splitting the blocks and piling them back of the stove so that Elizabeth could reach for the fuel with as little trouble as possible.

In the summer-time Angus would go fishing in the nearby brooks and on his way home would leave half of the ghat (catch) in the minister's kitchen. This we might say ends this first chapter in this honest and true love story. There was never any reason on the part of any one to regret what happened and described in the first part of our story, for Angus and the best-looking girl in the congregation were married by the minister who had introduced them. The couple eventually became the most outstanding pair in the community for over 50 years and brought up to manhood and womanhood 9 stalwart children, all of whom became outstanding in the business life of the community where their lot was cast. Their parents passed on to the unseen world at a ripe old age, proud and happy. Proud, because of the part they had played in pioneering a new world for thousands yet unborn; happy, because of the faith they had in the grace of God, and the promise that they would again meet those they so dearly loved "beyond the vale." In later years Dr. B. N. Wales says, "In this large family, there is not a single black sheep."

Angus spent the last years of a long and useful life in telling those whom he chanced to meet of the consequences of sin and advising all to ask God's forgiveness before it was too late. Many he met did not believe his creed, but they were always eager to listen to him and considered it a pleasure to spend time in his company.

The eminently successful life of this happy pair may be attributed largely to Angus' unsuccessful first love venture in the early days, showing how strange and simple happenings of plain people change the entire course of society through the ages.

Dancing was strictly prohibited in the community by the elders who were in command of the moral codes. Indeed, many were quite outspoken and had no doubt that dancing and cards were the direct work of Satan. The fiddle and the fiddler had no standing among the elders. Both were considered dangerous to the moral welfare of all. In fact, music of any description was to be handled with great care, if at all,—even a Jew's harp was not to be played on the Sabbath day.

The leader in the singing of the Psalms at the church service on Sunday was for many years "Big Angus,—the Singer." Since nearly all men were nicknamed, Angus was so named after his calling. When Angus, six-foot-four and two hundred and twenty pounds stood up before the congregation, in the box and straight-seat provided for him, foolish, indeed would be the person who could see any need for music. Hymns were sung at the smaller religious meetings throughout the community but no musical instrument was allowed. The Sabbath service at the village church would often last close to three hours and the message from the preacher would explain how all who died in sin would suffer torments forever more. It was, however, explained that such a terrible calamity could be avoided. One must first of all believe that the message was true and participate at certain religious services with the family every day. When you felt that your sins were forgiven and you were cleansed you would appear before the Elders and you would not be turned away. At the next sacrament you would be permitted to sit down with your fellow-worshippers at the Lord's table and partake of Communion. After this you would keep clear of sin and there was nothing to fear. You had been strengthened: you would repeat the ten Commandments from memory whenever asked to do so. The story of the camel and the eye of the needle was believed by all, and was always brought to the front when discussing the position of certain rich men here and elsewhere. It was the general belief that they were lost if they passed out while they were yet grasping for riches, while others were in actual need of food.

Letters To The Editor

CASTIGATES GOVERNMENT

Dear Sir:

A War Memorial has been erected by six veterans.

Yes, that's true. This is the way it was done. A Vet of this war wanted a home under the Veterans' Land Act. He goes to the Board, makes application and is told a house on one acre of land just outside the city limits where taxes must not exceed sixty dollars is made available. He applies, after a time he is called to the office and his wife must come too and answer all the questions so they can be classified, passed with high grading.

A farm is bought on the Lennoxville Road at a very low cost and the property divided into lots (and still a farm and buildings are left which has been taken over by a farmer) seven houses started, to be ready for occupancy late last fall. Well Christmas came and went and by May the Government had not yet accepted the houses. No water installed, water was to come from springs on the hill. A drill was brought to the spot and stayed there for weeks but what it did we don't know for no water from the springs came to the houses.

A cistern system was to be used for drainage, but plans changed. Sewers were brought from Lennoxville and water too. The houses were ready for occupancy around the middle of June. No price was set but veterans were advised prices were higher than originally told, but not too much.

Families desperate for living accommodation moved in. Bomb No 1 arrives in August when Veterans' Land Act office sends notice to insure the property at once, although the cost of the property is not known.

Bomb No. 2.—A note from Lennoxville Town for payment of water at $5.25 for three months, with arrears added on. This is an added expense that the veteran never expected.

Buzz bomb arrives in a few days telling the veterans the refrigerator is $175.00 and to send cheque to cover the cost. This is one of the items that was supposed to come from the $600.00 credit the veteran was to receive to purchase his furnishings which has disappeared into thin air.

The atomic bomb comes when the representative of the Board announces the prices of the houses. Can or will any legal authority explain to these boys how the price can be jumped legally to $7,800 after accepting payment of $600.00 on a $4,800 house? Where has this money gone?

The houses on the Rock Forest Road are exactly the same designs and the prices are different. Three thousand dollars extra on one house alone should pay for a lot of sewerage and water pipes. Oh, yes, we nearly forgot our acre of land that must be purchased has shrunk to half its size and at that it runs cross way. The neighbor's lot almost cuts off the corner of one house just where the refrigerator is built in. A new road has been built to accommodate the lots running up the hill, yet this has been charged up to those veterans that have no use of it.

Our Prime Minister, Mr. King, boasted and bragged all during the war, over the radio and through the press that our Canadian boys were going to be treated properly when they got back. Now is the time for him to act upon his word to them for they stood up for their Government. Hon. Mr. Abbott how about you putting in a good word for the boys from your old home town, it might help.

In closing would like to say some of these veterans enlisted the day war was declared and went over on the first boat. They gave six of the best years of their young lives, and were there when we needed them. These few veterans can't do very much by themselves but are we as citizens of Sherbrooke and Lennoxville going to sit back and let them pay for a War Memorial? We were not afraid to stand behind them when they were overseas. Are we afraid to stand behind them now?

How about it Senator Howard, Senator Nicol, Mr. Gingues, Canadian Legion, Ladies' Auxiliary Canadian Legion, Daughters of the Empire, Rotary and Lions Clubs?

Yours truly,

SADIE B. LeHURAY.

FANCY BID HELPS ONLY OCCASIONALLY

Quite a few players seem to think it is rather cute to stick in a no-trump bid after an opening. This might work sometimes, but I believe that a psychic no-trump bid should be purely a psychic bid. When it is made by a player who has declarer's suit stopped and nothing else, it may give just the information declarer needs to make his contract.

West made a foolish no-trump bid on today's hand. South finally became the declarer at six hearts. It is true that six no-trump could be made, but with a singleton North could not be blamed for choosing the safer contract. A six contract was reached at most tables in the game, and in most cases was defeated because declarer tried to drop the hearts two-two.

The declarer who had the advantage of West's no-trump bid won the second club with the king, led a small heart to the ace, came back with a diamond and led the jack of hearts. When West played the nine-spot, declarer felt safe in taking the finesse.

Tournament—N.-S. vul.

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 N.T.	Double	2 ♣
2 ♦	Pass	4 N.T.	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	6 ♥	Pass

Opening—♣ A. 21

Fancy bidding has an occasional advantage, but unless it is handled intelligently, it can be very detrimental.

East's two-club bid over the double of one no-trump did not show any strength. It indicated only a weak hand with a long club suit.

Entangling Alliances

Couple Smart In Avoiding Marriage While Man Attends College

Dear Miss Dix: A sailor whom I like very much, but to whom I am not engaged, has been discharged from the service and plans to attend school, which I approve of very much. He tells me he loves me and wants me to be his wife some day. I feel the same way about him, as he has all the characteristics I would desire in a husband, but I am not ready to settle down yet as I am only 20 years old.

Now here is my problem: Many of the men I have gone with before meeting my sailor and to whom I have written friendly letters during the war, are being discharged and have asked me for dates. As yet I haven't gone out with any of them, yet I hate to refuse their invitations for I know they are lonely and want girl friends. But, on the other hand, if I go with them, I am afraid of losing my boy friend.

DOROTHY DIX

What should I do?

PERPLEXED.

WISE DECISION

Answer: I think you and your friend seem to be very wisely taking the advice that George Washington gave to the nation—friendship with all, entangling alliances with none—and in this you show good, hard, common sense. He realizes that if he is going to continue his education and fit himself for any profession, it will take years of study to do it before he can be in a position to get married and support a family. So when he says he wants to marry you "some day" it is a vague prospect for you.

Also, being a sensible girl, you must realize that in that time he will meet many different people and that he will change himself, and you may not then be the girl of his dreams.

On your part, you will also change and your taste in men will be entirely different from what it is now. For you to deny yourself all companionship of men and all the good times they offer you on the offchance that you will still be in love with this man at some time in an undated future will be folly. Don't do it.

Dear Miss Dix: Faced with the problem of the philandering husband, as so many women are, I didn't go off the deep end and rush to divorce court. I sat down and thought the situation over. I loved my husband. I had a nice home and beautiful children. And I decided they were worth keeping. So I held my temper, didn't let him know that I knew of his infatuation, got myself a new hair-do, got a lot of pretty clothes, and began acting gay and amusing.

I fed him on good cooking and made home such a pleasant place that he liked to stay in it. And that ended the episode. But I still keep up the technique and never let him have a dull moment because I am taking no chances.

A SUCCESSFUL WIFE.

Answer: Good for you. Sportsmanship and common sense would bring many a philandering husband back if wives would only use them. For, after all, a middle-aged man's feet begin to hurt him and when night comes he wants to rest them instead of treading the primrose path with a cutie young enough to be his daughter.

The greatest mistake that wives with flirtatious husbands make is drowning their husbands with their tears and deafening them with their reproaches, which drives them away from home, when the wife's play should be to attract them back to it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Do you think a young man of 25 should marry a woman eleven years older than himself? He just got out of the army and never bothered with girls before he went away. She is a divorced woman and they have only known each other a short time.

ANXIOUS MOTHER.

Answer: Evidently your son is about to be devoured by a lady wolf, and the only way you can save him is to separate him from her as soon as possible. Take him on a trip where he will meet pretty girls in his own age class and he will forget all about her in a week's time.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

BRINGING UP FATHER. By George McManus.

SCOUTS, CUBS AT GRANBY IN ANNUAL OUTING

Granby, Aug. 21.—Bronzed and happy, the Granby Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs have returned from their nineteenth annual camp at Lake Bonnallie.

Sixteen Scouts, nine Wolf Cubs, five officers and a cook formed the group. All reported that they had had a grand time and were looking forward to next year's camp. J. Kachergensky, camp chief, was ably assisted by Muir Hase, A.S.M., Roger Dionne, A.S.M., and Dave Carr, senior Scout.

The weather, outside of a few showers, was fine with sunny days and cool nights. Bonnallie Lake has long been a favorite with the boys for swimming and this sport was fully enjoyed this year.

Three King Scouts, Dave Carr, Frank Jackman and Richard Shutt, and Muir Hase, A.S.M., climbed Bold Face Mountain. Their smoke signal on the very top notified the camp that they had reached their objective.

Many badges were won by both Scouts and Cubs. Mr. O. R. Jackman, assistant district commissioner and badge secretary, was in camp three days taking tests.

The closing program was held in the marquee. Rain prevented the usual camp fire.

W. H. Miner, district commissioner, presented prizes to the winning patrol for the camp period, Frank Jackman, P.L., Kenneth Skinner, 2nd, Geoffrey Hackett and Peter Kaufman. He also presented J. Kachergensky with the Gilwell wood badge parchement and beads. This is the highest rank a Scout officer can attain.

The Scouts gave Mr. H. Hase a pipe, showing their deep appreciation for the excellent food he cooked and the generous servings.

Mr. Miner in his remarks to the boys stated that he was pleased to have the Scouts and Cubs hold their camp at Lake Bonnallie and that he hoped they would return next year.

SIDE GLANCES By Galbraith

"I appreciate a gag once in a while, but falling asleep when I try out my after-dinner speech isn't funny—can't they ever be serious?"

BROME CENTRE BRIDE-TO-BE GIVEN SHOWER

Brome Centre, Aug. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. M. Miller entertained a large gathering at their home at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Oliva Frizzle, who was married shortly afterwards.

Miss Frizzle, together with her brother, Lawrence, and his wife, had started out to visit their uncle, but upon passing the Miller home her brother decided to stop in and deliver a message. The guests gathered around and to the strains of the wedding march she was conducted to a chair, which had been prettily decorated for her.

Her little nieces, the Misses Patsy and Brenda Frizzle, soon appeared on the scene drawing a cart, which was covered with pink and blue crepe paper and loaded with gifts which they informed her, were all for her. Four cart loads were drawn in before all the gifts were presented.

Several of the young girls present assisted the bride-elect in opening and showing the gifts, after which she very graciously thanked her friends for their kindness to her and invited them to visit her in her new home.

A sing-song was then enjoyed with Rev. R. Mitchell at the piano.

Later delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

"Eat what you can and can what you can't" is an excellent slogan to remember these summer days when fresh fruits and vegetables are in season. Of course it's not always convenient to do your canning the same day you see a particularly luscious lot of berries or crisp fresh vegetables. But with an electric refrigerator, products may be kept farm fresh until you have time to can them. You can buy in larger, budget-saving quantities, too, without fear of spoilage.

The Doctor Says:

INFECTED FOODS CARRY DEADLY DISEASES

By William A. O'Brien, M.D.

The danger of the spread through meat of certain diseases is eliminated by the examination of animals before and after they are slaughtered, but pasteurization of good milk is the only satisfactory method of preventing the spread of disease in dairy products.

Dr. O'Brien.

Food spoilage is most commonly caused by the action of germs which have not been destroyed in the preservation process. Bacteria require moisture, warmth, and protein-food materials for growth, and foods which contain starches and sugar ferment as a result of bacterial growth.

Proper refrigeration retards germ growth and keeps the number of germs at a harmless level. Trichina and the cysts of tapeworms in meat are killed by keeping the meat at a temperature of 10 degrees F. for three weeks.

Quick-Freezing Is Safe

Quick-freezing is one of the most valuable methods of preserving food and preventing bacterial development. Quick-frozen foods lose little of their nutritive value, but they must be eaten shortly after thawing and they must not be refrozen.

Canning foods involves the destruction by heat of all germs which are present and the prevention by an airtight seal of the entrance of others. Home-canned meats and vegetables should be reheated before they are served.

The most serious infection from home-canned foods is botulism. This germ develops a deadly poison as it grows in the food, and it multiplies only in the absence of air.

Outbreaks of botulism have been traced to fish, ham, sausage, beef, fowl, cottage cheese, string beans, corn, berries, and peas.

The botulism germ is distributed in the soil throughout the Midwestern and Western parts of the United States. It is destroyed in food by heat, acid, or a 10 per cent solution of salt brine.

Unless non-acid foods, such as string beans and corn, are processed properly at home, they should be reboiled for 15 minutes before they are tasted or eaten.

Oyster Danger Stopped

Infected oysters at one time were a cause of bowel infections, including typhoid fever. Oysters grow best in waters with a high nitrogen content; left to their own devices, they will settle nearest a sewage outlet.

The United States Public Health Service now supervises the sanitary packing and shipping of shellfish, including oysters, and they are no longer disease-spreaders.

Raw milk can spread disease germs picked up from animals or milk - handlers. Typhoid fever, scarlet fever, septic sore-throat, bowel infection, and diphtheria have been traced to raw milk.

More recently, brucellosis (undulant fever) and the staphylococcus infections (cream-puff poisoning) have been traced to milk products.

Animal-tuberculosis germs in milk have been practically eliminated by tuberculin tests of infected animals. This does not eliminate human-tuberculosis germs, which can be transmitted to raw milk by milk-handlers. Pasteurize and be safe.

Question: My daughter has ringworm of the hands. When she swims in a pool her hands get better. What does the water contain which might account for the improvement?

Answer: The water contains chlorine. But it would not be advisable for an individual to put chlorine in concentrated form on his hands. Chlorine is also used as a clothes-bleach, and it may be found in water for washing clothes.

SHERBROOKE LOSES DOUBLEHEADER TO WATERTOWN 2-0, 10-5

LOCAL SOCCER CLUB SPLITS OVER WEEK-END

Sherbrooke Soccer Club, playing two games over the week-end, came out with a split, losing to Drummondville Celanese 2-1, and winning from East Angus 2-1 at Angus.

The East Angus game was played on a field of mud and water, and resembled more muddy fields of Flanders than a football square. Angus boys did not take long to settle down and go to work, and drew first blood five minutes after the ball had been dropped at centre, when Rolland booted in the one and only Angus goal from 12 yards out. Langley, Sherbrooke goalie, was unbeatable from then on and rose to great heights on several occasions in keeping Angus off the score sheet. With ten minutes to go in the first period, Knowles, Sherbrooke, accepted a pass from Johnston deep in Angus territory and lodged the ball in the left hand corner of the net to tie the score.

Sherbrooke opened the second half with a burst of speed, and after twenty minutes of play it paid off, when Knowles, Sherbrooke, again booted one home to put his team in the lead and emerge the winners 2-1. Taking into consideration the condition of the playing field, it was a well contested game throughout, with beautiful passing and goaltending on both sides. Ernest Marshall, of Sherbrooke, acted in the capacity of referee and kept the game well under control.

Sherbrooke journeyed to Drummondville for their second game in as many days, and, feeling the effects, dropped the encounter 2-1.

Jimmy Fieldsend opened the scoring for Celanese in the first half when he accepted a perfect pass from Roadley and making no mistake booted the ball into the Sherbrooke net behind Langley for Celanese's first marker. The visitors then settled down and carried the play but failed to score as Sullivan was unbeatable in Celanese's net and the period ended with the home team in the lead.

Celanese got away to a good start when Tommy Fieldsend, Jimmy's son, carried the ball up the field and making no mistake with it booted a nice corner shot that had Langley beat all the way. Sherbrooke then went to the attack, and play ranged up and down the field when finally Knowles, taking a line drive from Haffenden, slipped the ball behind Sullivan for Sherbrooke's only marker. Celanese then applied pressure but Langley just was unbeatable and the game ended with Celanese on the long end of a 2-1 score.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES FINCH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Winnipeg, Aug. 21.— (CP) —Pigskin-pushing enthusiasts—not to be outdone by the fairway filberts who talked their piece during the recent Canadian Professional Golfers Association Tournament—are quickly changing local sport banter from golf to rugby football.

Their reason? The not-too-distant affair between Montreal Alouettes and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Western Canadian senior football kings.

The teams line up for a two-game exhibition series Aug. 31 and Sept. 2 and rugby fans are already discussing the prospects, the outcome, and the general possibility of Western-Canadian hopes in the all-Canadian rugby picture this year.

They think this east-west tussle will give them a little inside dope on their calculations.

Inasmuch as the Alouettes are getting a $7,500 guarantee, this pre-season excitement is strictly all right with the Bombers' front office. Seats for the two are-light games are selling at $2, $1.50 and $1, and Osborne Stadium, where the games will be played, seats about 5,500.

While not much is known here of the Lew Hayman-coached Alouettes, Jack West, mentor of the Bombers and a new-comer himself to the Blue-and-Gold squad, had had his boys working out for some time and appears to be prepared for any eventualities.

He has already hired four United States imports and is seeking two more before the regular season gets underway.

Walter Dobler and Bill Ordway, backfield stars on North Dakota circuits last year, have shown up well in practices, while Martin Gainor, West's assistant at University of North Dakota last year, has coupled his tackle position with the job of line coach. The fourth is Don Hiney, East Grand Forks, N.D., backfielder who attended spring practices but only now has actually been signed.

These, plus such proven veterans as Mel Wilson, Bill Ceretti, "Chick" Chikowski, Nate Shore, Cliff McFayden, Norm Geller and Ken Draper, along with a crew of local talent recently graduated from High School League, will round out the 1946 edition of the Bombers.

Brooklyn's National Loop Lead Has Been Reduced To Half Game

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer

Brooklyn stands in dire need of a fiery pep talk from cheer-leader Leo Durocher today with its National League lead shriveled to half a game after absorbing a 10-0 pasting from the rejuvenated Pittsburgh Pirates.

Since Frank McKinney, Bing Crosby and associates bought the Pittsburgh franchise, the Bucs have hustled to seven victories in 10 games.

With seven more games against the Cards and four more with the Dodgrs, Pittsburgh could very well prove the decisive factor in the championship battle.

Nick Strincevich, who lost his first seven starts in 1946, shut the door in the Brooks' faces, allowing only four hits. The Pirates climbed all over Vic Lombardi and three successors.

The Cardinals lit into Johnny Niggeling for a 4-1 verdict over Boston Braves.

Chicago Cubs gained ground on both Brooklyn and St. Louis by whipping the Phillies twice, 5-2 and 10-2, but lost second baseman Don Johnson with a fractured left hand.

New York advanced to within half a game of the slumping fifth-place Cincinnati Reds with a 4-3 decision engineered by Dave Koslo wth home run help from Walker Cooper and Toronto's Goody Rosen nullifying a workmanlike effort by Harry Gumbert.

Boston's pennant-bound Red Sox divided a pair with the lowly St. Louis Browns but stretched their lead to 14½ games over New York with only 35 to go.

Jim Bagby grabbed his fifth victory in the opener, 5-1, and Ellis Kinder of the Brownies fashioned his first major league sucess in the 5-4 finale with relief help from Tom Ferrick. Ted Willaims hit his 33rd homer.

Both Cleveland's Bobby Feller and Detroit's Hal Newhouser failed in their attempts to hit the 22-win mark, Feller bowing to Washington, 5-4 and Newhouser losing to Philadelphia 2-0.

Randy Gumpert's eight-game win streak was snapped by Chicago as Ed Lopat turned back New York, 9-2, before a Yankee Stadium crowd of 33,989. Joe Dimaggio collected his 20th homer in the seventh frame.

One Of Football's Great Names Is Gone With F.H. Yost's Death

Ann Harbor, Mich., Aug. 21.— (AP) — Fielding Harris Yost, 75-year-old University of Michigan athletic director emeritus, today joined in death the ranks of a generation that made football a big time enterprise in the midwest.

Victim of an acute gall bladder attack at his home here yesterday afternoon "The Coach" died not far from a college campus on which he wrought his own memorials and wrote his own testaments of victory.

The elder statesman of Michigan football, Yost had been a semi-invalid for the past few years following his retirement in 1940 as athletic director, living quietly with his wife and retelling the exploits of the Wolverine teams he piloted to scores of triumphe.

He came to Michigan in 1901 after turning out championship teams at Ohio Wesleyan, the Universities of Nebraska and Kansas and Leland Stanford University.

His mark on the sports records of the times was already well respected, but at Ann Arbor he fashioned a 40-year career that made him famous not only in the Western Conference but also throughout the United States.

The gridiron greats of his generation included such coaches as the late Howard Jones of Southern California, Tad Jones of Yale, Dr. Henry L. Williams of Minnesota, Percy Houghton of Harvard, Knute Rockne of Notre Dame and such veterans as Bob Zuppke of Illinois, now retired, and Amos A. Stagg, who at 84 coaches at the College of the Pacific.

NEWARK BEARS MAKE BID FOR SECOND PLACE

The play of the pace-setting Montreal Royals during August has been overshadowed by the four-cornered fight being waged for the three remaining international league playoff berths.

Manager Clay Hopper's fast-stepping crew was conceded the pennant a number of months ago but the Royals haven't taken life easy. They have won 15 of their last 23 games and before another week passes, they should clinch their second consecutive pennant. They pace the loop by 16½ games today with only 24 left to play.

The Royals chalked up their 86th triumph of the season last night by nosing out Toronto Maple Leafs, 6-5.

Trailing 5-2 at the end of three innings, the Royals scored twice in the fourth and won out in the fifth when catcher Herman Franks clouted a two-run homer.

The third-place Newark Bears moved to within half a game of the runner-up Buffalo Bisons by defeating the tail-end Jersey City Giants 6-4 while the Bisons were nosed out, 7-6, by the seventh-place Rochester Red Wings.

Rookie righthander Duane Pillette notched his 10th truimph of the campaign as the Bears scored four times in the fifth frame to break a 2-2 deadlock and go on to hang up their third straight victory.

The fifth-place Syracuse Chiefs drew to within 1½ games of Baltimore's fourth-place Orioles by taking a doubleheader from the Orioles, 6-1 and 17-5, before 18,931 paid admissions at Baltimore.

Both teams collected only four hits in the opener but Oriole flingers issued seven walks while Earl Harris, who went the route for Syracuse, yielded only one pass.

The Chiefs pounded out 16 safeties in the nightcap that featured four-baggers by Joe Dudick, Hank Sauer, Kermit Wahl and Charley Kress while Mike Schultz and Johnny Wittig scattered 10 Baltimore blows.

Norwalk, Conn.—Ronnie MacDonald, 151, Edmonton, and Joe Demarcino, 148, Bridgeport, Conn., drew (10).

Gerken Paces Watertown Heavy Hitting In Double Feature

Sherbrooke Canucks lost both ends of a doubleheader last night in a scheduled game played at the local ball park, 2-0, 10-2.

Jim Scott, Watertown's manager, pitched the first game and held the Canucks to two singles and a two bagger, by Magnerilli, but he kept them so well scattered that no harm was done. In the meantime his boys colelcted six hits off Richardson, including a home run by Gerken. In the second game the Canucks just could not do anything right. They connected for only two hits and at the same time committed four errors, which helped Watertown to a 10-2 victory, although Watertown did not need any help in the error department, as they pounded the three Canucks pitchers for a total of eleven bingies.

The first game was well fought the whole way, but again the errors proved costly, Sherbrooke committing three and Watertown keeping their side of the book clean. With two men out in the first Gerken, who had a field day at the expense of the Canuck's pitchers last night, stepped up to the plate and poled one over the fence for a home run and put Watertown in the lead which they never relinquished. They collected a single in the second, third, fourth and in the fifth, coupled with an error and sacrifice they pushed one more run across the plate and sewed up the old ball game.

Scott had the Canucks really eating out of his hand. They could only connect for three hits, one single in the first and third. In the fourth Magnerilli, the man with the deep voice, belted a nice two bagger but it proved useless as he was left stranded on second. From then on Scott held the Canucks hitless and pulled his team out with a victory with some very good pitching.

In the second game a total of five pitchers were used, three by Sherbrooke and two by Watertown. It was a completely different game, Sherbrooke was doing everything wrong. It was no fault of the pitchers. After all they can do only so much and the team gave them little support.

Landes, Canuck's starting pitcher, was sailing along in fine style until he hit the fifth, when on a walk and two singles he was taken out for Dickerson. Before the side was retired they had pushed across four runs on two walks, an error and four singles.

That inning was the deciding one, but the boys from across the river were not satisfied with that and got to Dutch Proechel, who had gone in to relieve Dickerson, and belted out four more hits and pushed four runs across the platter to emerge the victors 10-2.

Norris held Sherbrooke down to two hits until the sixth, when for the first time in the game Sherbrooke looked like a fighting team, and they got to him on three singles and an error and pushed across two runs. The Watertown bench pulled Norris out then and there and sent Cole to the mound and retired the Canucks before they could do any more damage.

HORSE SHOW TO BE OUTSTANDING FAIR FEATURE

The light horse show at the Stanstead County "Hundred Plus One" Exhibition will be a source of keen interest and entertainment and saddle events will be very popular in this year's outstanding show. A good saddle horse or high-stepping hackney is ever a pleasure to the eye, and many patrons of the fair will make it a special point to be on the grandstand early in enjoy the graceful performances of the light horses.

Directed by the Sherbrooke Riding and Driving Club, the Horse Show Committee issues a cordial invitation to visitors to watch the saddle and carriage horses go through their paces. It is a sight which no horse-lover will want to miss.

The course, set on the track in front of the grandstand, provides a good view for the hundreds who are expected to crowd the big stand at each performance. Interest in riding has grown in the Townships in recent years and is evidenced by the numerous horse shows that have been held in the district recently. Local riders in the show will be augmented by others from distant points. Entries have been received from all Sherbrooke stables as well as from Magog, North Hatley, etc.

Classes for hunters and jumpers, driving classes, riding classes, championships for the best junior rider, lady rider, gentleman rider and champion rider at the show, and gymkhana events are some of the special features of the light horse show.

The daily program includes a brief afternoon display and the big show, lasting about two hours, takes place every evening beginning at 7.30, followed by the Great George Hamid Stage Show, "Atomic Flashes of 1946." The various classes will include single roadsters, novice jumpers, light hunters, open jumps, double and single carriage classes, high-steppers, hunter stakes, knock-downs, handy hunters, unicorn jumps and various saddle classes.

AT THE GREAT STANSTEAD COUNTY
101st Exhibition
AYER'S CLIFF
OPENING THURSDAY

STARTING TOMORROW, AYER'S CLIFF FAIR HAS BIG PROGRAM

Elaborate, Well-Balanced Program Arranged For Stanstead County's Great "Hundred Plus One" Fair

Exhibition-minded folks from all over the Eastern Townships and the nearby New England States are anticipating a grand time at the big Stanstead County "Hundred Plus One" Exhibition which opens its gates at Ayer's Cliff tomorrow morning, for an elaborate three-day and three-night show. Celebrating the 101st anniversary of the Stanstead County Agricultural Society, the directors have left no stone unturned, allowing no effort to lag in their many long months of preparation for their greatest of all fairs. Indications are that their work will not be in vain.

Possessing a remarkably fine set of buildings and grounds accommodation that is hard to beat, the Ayer's Cliff Fair ranks well to the fore among provincial exhibitions, and is considered one of the finest county fairs in Canada.

To add the finishing touch to their preparations for the big 101st Anniversary Fair, the directors made a complete renovation of their buildings, adding several new features and improving both accommodations for exhibits and for the thousands of visitors who throng the grounds. One important change has been in the Poultry Building, which has been rebuilt into one of the most modern in the province, an entirely new set of coops having been installed which greatly improves this important department.

Joining with the members of the Agricultural Society in their 101st Anniversary celebration, the members of the Stanstead County Horticultural Society are observing their 35th anniversary this year, and the attractiveness and quantity of their exhibits of fruits and vegetables, dairy products, maple syrup, honey, home-cooking, etc., housed in their own spacious and well-kept building is considered one of the principal features of the Ayer's Cliff Fair.

Industrial displays have been tastefully arranged in the Main Building, with many county firms showing their products alongside displays arranged by well known provincial and Townships industries as well as exhibits of a purely local nature.

Upstairs in the Main Building, many interesting displays are ready for the many visitors to this popular Fair. The Ladies' and Children's Departments have a variety of handicrafts and art work on exhibition and a special art exhibit will attract much attention.

Stanstead County has long been famous for its splendid livestock, and the horse and cattle exhibits, with the sheep and the swine, will be even more interesting than usual this year. To carry out the desire of the directors to hold identically the same program on each of the three days of the Fair, the spectacular horse and cattle parade in front of the grandstand, a feature which has always been a very special attraction at Ayer's Cliff, will be held every afternoon, in conjunction with the grandstand performance.

Racing is one of the highlights of the Ayer's Cliff Fair, and the half-mile track is one of the finest in the province, having been newly surfaced and put in tip-top condition for the events scheduled during the 101st Anniversary Fair. Some of the best horses that have been competing in various events during the present season have been entered for the Ayer's Cliff Fair races. Two events will be run off each afternoon, on the three-heat plan, with every heat considered a race.

Considerable interest centres on the Boys and Girls Calf Clubs, and the judging and showmanship competitions staged by these Junior Breeders always attracts a large crowd and proves decidedly interesting for the exhibitors themselves. To increase the work of these youthful farmers, the Fair directors made them a special grant of $200 towards prizes, and a special section of stalls for their exhibits has been set aside for them just behind the Horticultural Building, adjacent to the track and the show-rings.

No Fair is complete without band music and the midway. For the 101st Annual Exhibition, the directors were determined that they would secure the finest local band that they could find, and there is no doubt that the Border Musical Club Band will more than live up to expectations. It is the county's finest band, truly an international organization, with players from all the border communities, and they will provide the music for a special concert prior to each grandstand performance, as well as leading the horse and cattle parade each afternoon.

Fun for both young and old is assured on the thrilling rides and shows brought to the Ayer's Cliff Fair this year by Bernard and Barry Shows, which ranks as one of the finest amusement organizations in the Dominion. Visitors to the Fair can be assured that on this "modern cavalcade of mirth" they will find the finest and newest attractions that can be secured, guaranteeing many new surprises to this gay White Way of Fun and Frolic.

Highlight of the Exhibition this year will be the grandstand show, which will be a gala combination of Horse Show, Circus Acts, Band Music, Horse Races and Cattle Parades, providing a complete round of entertainment lasting well over four hours. Determined to make the big 101st Exhibition one that will long be remembered, the directors spared no cost to provide one of the most carefully-planned, elaborate and thoroughly entertaining grandstand shows that has ever been seen at any Fair.

Arranged through the efforts of the Sherbrooke Riding and Driving Club, a thrilling Horse Show with some 50 of the finest show horses in the Eastern Townships will com-

Horticultural Society Will Hold 35th Annual Exhibition This Year

Members of the Stanstead County Horticultural Society with their own attractive building and tasteful displays are an important adjunct to the annual Stanstead County Fair, and the co-operation existing between the Horticultural and Agricultural Societies provides an important contribution to the yearly exhibition, with the fruit and vegetable departments being one of the principal attractions.

This year, with the Agricultural Society celebrating their 101st anniversary, the Horticultural Society has arranged an even more attractive display than usual. It is their 35th annual exhibition, and visitors to the Fair will find the best that Stanstead County farms can produce shown to advantage in the cool and attractive Horticultural Building just to the right of the main gate.

pete in a series of special events in front of the grandstand every afternoon and evening. The track has been especially prepared, and the jumps and other paraphernalia of the show ring has been procured so that each event can be run off without any delay. Classes are scheduled for ladies and gentlemen as well as children, and include jumping, riding and driving events that round out a complete horse show program. Cups and ribbons will be presented to the various winners at the conclusion of the Exhibition.

Seldom has a Fair been able to present such a complete variety of top-flight stage talent as will be seen in "Atomic Flashes of 1946," the thrilling and colorful revue being brought to Ayer's Cliff by the George Hamid Attractions of New York City.

Featured on the great stage show, to be emseed by Gordon Beerworth, the Record newscaster, will be the popular "Sweethearts of the Airwaves," charming sister singing and musical unit, the Texas Dollies; Ricardo and Marion, known as the world's greatest jugglers, in a routine that will thrill and entertain both young and old, featuring Don Ricardo as "the Human Seal," in his famous "barber pole" number; Chris and Rae, masters of the slack wire, in an act filled with comedy, suspense and genuine thrills; Ray Dawe, well known Canadian orchestra leader, whose band opens at the Palais D'Or in Montreal next month, and who is known as the "King of the Ivories"; the Great Beckman, world-famous magician whose feats of magic and mystifications keep you guessing, closing his act with the famous "trunk escape," and other clever numbers; and as the big thrill act of the show, "The Great Del Ray," the crazy sailor, will perform breathtaking feats on the top of a slender 60-foot pole, closing his routine as he suspends himself by his neck, then makes a slide for life down the length of the pole. Many other surprise acts are on the porgram, the greatest stage show ever brought to Ayer's Cliff, and guaranteed to provide thrills, laughs and real family entertainment every afternoon and evening.

Special attractions are being arranged for the children each afternoon and evening, with a gala day for their own big day at the Fair set for tomorrow, the opening day, when all school children under 12 years of age will be admitted free of charge to the grounds.

A splendid Horticultural Building is well worth a visit, and is a "must" on the list for everyone who wants to see the greatest collection of fruits, vegetables, dairy and maple products ever assembled under one roof.

This year the directors have arranged for the operation of the dining hall on the grounds to be in charge of Charles Brewer, who promises home-cooked meals that will long be remembered by the fairgoers, and as a special treat, will serve a roast capon dinner on Friday.

Cattle will be judged according to breed again this year, with a full program set for each day. Holsteins will hold the spotlight on the opening day, tomorrow, with Ayrshire men getting their opportunity to show their herds on Friday, known as "Red and White Day," and the Jerseys will be judged on the final day of the big Fair, Saturday, the 24th.

Thursday, tomorrow, the opening day of the Fair, will be Children's Day at Ayer's Cliff Fair, and Friday has been designated as "Eastern Townships Day," while on Saturday, with many visitors from across the international border expected to attend, the Fair directors will hold their annual "American Day," with many special features for the occasion.

The Great Beckman, recognized as a master of the arts, will amaze and thrill the crowds at Ayer's Cliff Fair on Thursday, Friday and Saturday with his mystification and feats of magic, including "The Vanishing Clock," "The Magic Umbrella" and many other novelties, closing with his famous escape from a locked trunk on the stage in front of the audience. The Great Beckman will be a feature act at the Great Stanstead County 101st Exhibition, presenting the George Hamid "Atomic Flashes of 1946."

Don Ricardo, Ace Juggler

Don Ricardo, ace of dexterity, will present a complete juggling routine for his part in the elaborate grandstand show that has been planned for the Big 101st Ayer's Cliff Fair on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Ricardo, who has long been known in the entertainment world, has appeared on the leading stages of America and few jugglers have attained the stage where they are clever enough to present a full routine.

A variety of different "props" ranging from Indian clubs to several balls, are used by Ricardo. The routines, many of which he has originated and presents exclusively are presented in the rapid-fire manner of the professional performer, one of them earning him the title of "The Human Seal."

The fair management is confident that, with the addition of this clever juggling act to the line-up, the fair will present the finest entertainment bill that it has ever been privileged to give before the fair-going public.

The many friends here of Mr. J. Howes Burton, of East Islys, Long Island, N.Y., learned with regret of his death and extend to Mrs. Burton and family their sincere sympathy. About nineteen years ago, Mr. Burton purchased the Stevenson-Allison property adjoining the H. A. Norton farm, on McConnell road and since then has spent the summers here, greatly improving that estate an making a new road over the hill at his own expense. He was keenly interested in sports and was a promoter of the Fish and Game Club. Their friends are also sorry to hear of Mrs. Burton's impaired health and trust she may recover and be able to enjoy her home here for some years to come.

Major and Mrs. Pomeroy, of Compton; Mrs. Paice, of Montreal, and the Misses Stevens and McKindsey, of Lennoxville, were guests at "Carlton Lodge."

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Despres and son, Peter, are spending a holiday in Hopewell Cape, N.B., with her grandmother, Mrs. Cleveland.

Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Quigley have returned to Union City, N.J., after spending two months at their cottage, "Rockleigh," on Lake Massawippi.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baldwin, of Toronto, Ont., are spending a week here at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Baldwin, to be with his brother, Mr. Eugene Baldwin, Mrs. Baldwin and family, of California, who are also house guests at the Baldwin home.

Mrs. Wallace Robinson and two daughters, of Lennoxville, were guests of her grandmother, Mrs. H. R. Place, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Place.

The Young Women's Association held a business meeting in the United Church Hall one evening, when ten members were present. In the absence of the president, Mrs. R. G. McHarg, the vice-president, Mrs. Willard Rexford, conducted the session. The secretary, Mrs. S. J. Astbury, read the minutes of the last meeting in June which were approved. Mrs. Baldwin, the treasurer, reported cash on hand of one hundred and twenty dollars and fifty-three cents and eight dollars and sixty-six cents talent money. After some discussion it was decided to cancel the "Victory Tea," which was planned some months ago, and each time it was necessary to put it off due to other activities. The resignation of the Way's and Means Committee members, Mrs. H. Nelson Pierce and Miss Mildred Paul were regretfully accepted. It was planned to order the Christmas cards and sacred calenders at once and Mrs. Glen Little will again take charge of the cards. A rummage sale was planned for the first Wednesday in September and in October a supper will be held. The details will be made next month. In November it was decided to hold a Christmas sale, which will consist of novelties, aprons and gift suggestions and an orange tree for the younger folks and afternoon tea will be served. Mrs. Little invited the ladies to hold the next meeting at her home, which invitation was gratefully accepted.

SWIMMING POOL VERY POPULAR AMONG KIDDIES

Rock Island, Aug. 21. — The Frontier Community Center swimming pool is proving very popular and many of the children of the Border Communities are taking advantage of the opportunity of learning swimming. James Galbraith, Recreational Director, is at the swimming pool Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, from 3 to 5 p.m., to give instruction and help all those who want to become at home in the water. Many of the children who were actually afraid of the water when the pool first opened a month ago have now overcome their fear, and are able to swim, float and dive. The attendance at the pool averages about 20 each day, with as many as 40 there on good afternoons. The bathers are of all ages, and both English and French. The water has been kept constantly to a depth of between four and five feet at the deepest point, and many favorable reports have been received by the Directors regarding the popularity of the pool.

The senior and junior softball leagues have completed a very successful schedule, and are now in the playoffs, which will occupy them for the balance of this month.

The Community Center field is gradually being put into shape and will, when finished, be as fine a playing field as can be found anywhere around here. The Rink House is being covered with asbestos sheeting, and the rink boards are being painted, so that conditions at the rink this coming winter will be better than they were during the first winter.

The Frontier Community Center has helped develop the playing of tennis on the courts in Baxter Park, Derby Line, and the game is being played their regularly Tuesday evenings and Thursday mornings.

FRONTIER COMMUNITY CENTER

More and more local people are taking advantage of the many option offered by the Frontier Community Center, but the Directors portunities for healthful recreaare especially anxious that everyone realize that all of these activities are open to any one who desires to participate in them. They are hoping that people will plan to visit the playing field at Stanstead and the swimming pool, and see for themselves what has been done for their benefit. The tennis games at Derby Line Tuesday evenings and Thursday mornings are open to any and all who wish to participate in them. The more people who take part in the various activities, the better the Community Center can serve all the people; and new developments depend wholly upon the support the present plans have from everyone interested.

Master Of The Wire

Walking a straight line after having a drink or two is pretty much of an impossibility for most people. They wouldn't think of trying to walk a tight wire under any circumstances. Chris & Rae, simulating the former, can do both of these. This will be one of the featured presentations at Ayer's Cliff Fair, the big 101st Exhibition on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Dressed in top hat and tails, Chris weaves onto the stage after the manner of a person who has had one too many drinks. His antics on the tight wire after that present a combination of amazing equilibrium, and hilarious antics.

While maintaining his balance on the wire which measures only a fraction of an inch in diameter Chris keeps his feet moving at so rapid a pace that their motion is almost lost to the eye. Time after time he makes it look as though he is about to lose his balance and hurtle to the floor but each time, exercising just the right balancing gesture, he regains his former steady position.

Rae, his pretty partner, is present on the stage to offer well meaning but seldom helpful suggestions, ending up by doing her bit on the wire, as well.

This outstanding attraction was secured by the management through George A. Hamid, Inc., New York, the nation's largest booker of thrilling outdoor acts.

BIG GRANDSTAND SHOW TO FEATURE "ATOMIC FLASHES OF 1946"

NORTH HATLEY

The regular meeting of the North Hatley branch of the Women's Institute was held in the Guild Hall one evening. Mrs. Roy Bowen president, presided. Mrs. J. E. MacKay, Mrs. G. Kezar, Mrs. Grant LeBaron and Mrs. Robert Vaughan were appointed delegates to the quarterly meeting at Beebe on August 14. The purposed county project of furnishing a room at the new Sherbrooke Hospital was discussed and it was decided to cooperate with the county if a decision to do so is made at the quarterly meeting. It was decided to send a personal parcel to some given address in England and thus assist with the plan as suggested by the provincial president, Mrs. Smallman. Mrs. J. E. MacKay, chairman of the local committee of the "National Clothing Collection," reported that fifteen large boxes were packfled and sent to Sherbrooke to be shipped with the collection there. It was regretted that Mrs. Daintrey provincial convener of education, was unable to carry out her program, of "What Makes a Good Book." The meeting adjourned to meet in September, when Mrs. Robert Vaughan will be in charge of the program, on "Recent Friends in Adult Education." Members of the Blue Cross Hospital plan were reminded that the quarterly payments are due not later than August 28. The local branch of the Women's Institute now has thirty-four Blue Cross members listed.

The benefit performance of the "Ghost Train," which was held at the North Hatley Town Hall under the joint auspices of the local Legion Post and the Community Club proved a great success. Nearly a thousand dollars were raised for the War Memorial which will be erected as a tribute to the men of North Hatley, who fought in the war. At the conclusion of the performance, Mrs. Jeannette Virgin, the director of the play, was presented with a bouquet of red roses, and Mr. William Chisholm was given an appropriate gift for his work with the sound effects and general staging. Susan St. Pierre, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. St. Pierre, made the presentation.

The team of the Massawippi County Club travelled to Barton, Vt., and played a tournament with the local team of that city. Results have not yet been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacCaffrie have been visiting with Rev. and Mrs. Albert Q. Perry. Mr. MacCaffrie is a trustee of the Brockton, Mass., Universalist Church, which Rev. Mr. Perry served before coming to North Hatley.

The trustees of the Universalist Church met at the parsonage. Among the decisions taken was a proposal to have printed the orders of service at the regular worship services, if the members of the church will individually support the project. During the summer weeks this plan has been tried out and found successful.

Miss Helen Fairchild, who is visiting the family of Mr. Ashley Jackson, played for the second time at the Universalist Church on Sunday. She has offered to play at one more worship service. Miss Fairchild is one of the outstanding organists of the middle west, as well as an instructor in organ, piano and voice at the Conservatory of Music, in Detroit, Mich. The three solo numbers that she has played each Sunday during her stay here have been greatly appreciated.

The Vacation School, which is being carried on at the Universalist Church, is on the way to becoming a community project. St. Banabas Church, through its rector, Rev. Mr. Marston, has given it official sponsorship; and support has been received from members of the local Baptist Church. Mrs. Percy Knights served lunch to the children attending the other afternoon. Upwards of thirty children are registered this year in courses relating to home and nature. Mrs. Irene Perry is directing the project.

The North Hatley Village Improvement Association will hold its annual meeting at the Community Hall on Thursday, August 22.

Rev. Herbert Secord of the local Baptist Church is having a few weeks' vacation. Services are being carried on by a series of guest preachers.

Wishing the Officers, Directors and Members of the Stanstead County Agricultural Society every success for their 101st Anniversary.

This quartette of charming girls known as the "Texas Dollies" specialize in hill-billy and cowboy songs, with Betty playing the accordion, Shirley and Patsy on the guitar and little 9-year-old Mickey who always steals the show with her novelty numbers.

These youngsters will be a treat to both young and old and will delight you with their renditions. Don't fail to come to the Ayer's Cliff Fair to see this lovely and talented quartette.
