Clark won't ask public service resignations

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Clark has decided not to ask for the resignations of top public servants, saying he wants their help instituting election campaign promises.

The new government leader met 32 deputy ministers Wednesday and told them that his new cabinet "wants to work with them in partnership," a spokesman said.

Deputies are appointed directly by the prime minister and all those in office now owe their jobs to former Liberal prime minister Pierre Trudeau.

Long before he was elected May 22,

Clark said he would expect to receive such resignations from deputies and Crown agency heads to allow him to remove those he wanted to.

Michael Pitfield, top public servant under Trudeau, made Clark ask for his resignation. Clark announced on Tuesday that Marcel Masse would replace Pitfield as clerk of Privy Council.

MORE TO COME

Clark did not mention resignations to the deputies Wednesday, the spokesman said, although he said there is more change forthcoming in the future.

"It is not his intention of swinging an axe," the spokesman said.

He said the aim of the meeting was to establish stability and trust.

Clark discussed his election promises with the deputies — everything from economic proposals to moving the Canadian embassy in Israel.

DC-10 groundings stall air traffic

The McDonnell Douglas DC-10 has been grounded indefinitely and U.S. airlines are losing millions of dollars a day while the wing-engine assemblies of the huge jets are inspected for possible defects. Two DC-10s were found to have cracks in the wings late Tuesday causing the FAA to ground all of the nation's DC-10's. Canadian authorities have followed suit.

Travellers — about 65,000 a day — are losing time and patience, and airlines are losing money — millions a day — with the grounding of the U.S. DC-10 fleet.

Temperatures have flared as airline clerks stew over alternate flights for the DC-10 passengers, but on the whole, people seem resigned to the order to ground the controversial jets.

The domestic DC-10 fleet, built by McDonnell Douglas Corp., was grounded early Wednesday by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), pending inspection of engine-wing assemblies.

The order was issued after two more DC-10s were found late Tuesday to have cracks in their engine-wing assemblies after they had been inspected following the May 25 crash in Chicago of an American Airlines DC-10 that killed 275 people.

Non-U.S. air carriers were not legally bound by the order, but were later told they could not carry passengers or cargo in U.S. air space. Many, including Britain's Laker Airlines, parked their planes. In Canada, Wardair grounded its two DC-10s. The charter airline owns the only DC-10s in Canada.

LAKER NOT PLEASED

Sir Freddie Laker, who had rolled up his sleeves to help mechanics conduct earlier inspections, complained that the FAA had gone too far.

"I believe that this grounding is totally unnecessary," he said in London.

Laker's budget Skytrain of six DC-10s was shut down, stranding many transatlantic travellers, and Sir Freddie complained that the grounding was costing him 364,000 pounds ($873,000) daily.

Two hundred Laker passengers camped outside Gatwick Airport near London Wednesday night, hoping for seats on alternate flights. Hundreds of others were booked into hotels or returned home.

Securities analyst Michael Derchin, vice-president of Oppenheimer Co. of New York, estimated the daily costs to U.S. carriers with DC-10s will range from $500,000 for Western Airlines to $1.4 million for American. He estimated the daily loss over-all in the United States would be $5.3 million.

FLIGHTS SCRUBBED

Among the domestic airlines with DC-10s:

—United Airlines, with 30 DC-10s in its fleet. It was able to replace only 13 of the 125 flights affected Wednesday.

—Western Airlines, with nine of the jets. Clerks were warning persons holding reservations for today that they might not be accommodated.

—National Airlines, with 16 DC-10s carrying almost 50 per cent of its passengers. Analysts said it would feel the order's impact acutely, and spokesman Walt Robshaw said 25 weekly transatlantic flights were scrubbed.

Rondeau drops sentence appeals

GILBERT RONDEAU
...returning to jail

By JOHN MCCAGHEY
MONTREAL — Gilbert Rondeau, the 51-year-old former independent MP for Shefford, withdrew his motion to appeal his sentence on 14 charges of fraud and conspiracy to defraud the Unemployment Insurance Commission of approximately $37,000 in Quebec Court of Appeals here yesterday.

Rondeau, who was originally arraigned on 10 counts of conspiracy with one or more persons to defraud the UIC and 14 of having defrauded the Commission of approximately $61,000 between June, 1973 and October, 1977, pleaded guilty to nine counts of conspiracy and five of fraud in Granby court December 8, 1978.

He lost in a last-ditch attempt to have a new trial granted on April 12 when he appeared for sentencing before Judge Gerard Normandin. He was sentenced to five months concurrent on each charge and was fined $5,600 in default of payment within 60 days, to four months additional.

Rondeau was convicted on 18 on 21 counts on having induced persons in error to make false statements concerning political contributions under terms of the Canada Elections Act in 1977 when he was fined $5,050 by Judge Yvon Roberge.

The former Creditiste was found guilty in November, 1978 on charges of having conspired with one or more persons to commit arson during the two months preceding December 20, 1976 and to having committed arson at a home he owned in Bromont on December 29, 1976. The blaze broke out while Rondeau was attending the funeral of former social leader Raoul Caouette in Rouyn. Rondeau was sentenced to six months concurrent on each count by judge Louis-Denis Bouchard.

Rondeau appealed both the conviction and the appeal on the arson counts while the Crown appealed the sentence. That case is still before the appellate court.

Rondeau produced six sworn affidavits from inmates of the Waterloo and Sweetsburg jails during the 1979 election campaign which attested to his presumed innocence. The affidavits all alleged the signators heard Jacques Harbec state he had not been paid by the accused to set the fire rather he had acted in personal vengeance when Rondeau canceled his proposed discotheque project in a building he owned in Granby.

Harbec, 23, the Crown's main witness swore he had been paid $15,000 by the accused for his part in setting the fire. Harbec also testified he paid Jean Bernier, 23, also of Granby, $200 to set the fire before he had been paid by the former MP.

Harbec pleaded guilty to counts of conspiracy and arson and was sentenced to four months concurrent on each count. Bernier pleaded guilty to a single charge of arson and was sentenced to three months.

Rondeau is expected to wind up some personal business and report to prison authorities this week. All sentences recommended he be incarcerated at the minimum security Waterloo Rehabilitation Centre.

PETROCAN EXEC WOULD BUY OUT FIRM

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice Strong, former president of Petro-Canada, says he would buy the oil company himself if Prime Minister Clark makes good his election promise to sell the Crown corporation to private interests.

In an interview published Wednesday, Strong said selling Petro-Canada would be "one of the greatest mistakes the government could make."

In dealings with foreign countries, he said, it is often helpful to have a Crown corporation so oil deals can be worked out between governments.

During the election campaign, Clark promised to "privatize" Petro-Canada by either selling the company's operating divisions and keeping the holding company, or selling equity participation certificates to allow the public to share in profits.

Strong, who resigned as a Toronto Liberal candidate for personal reasons before the federal election, said he would prefer the first option.

"I'll be the buyer — I'll get together a group," said the former chairman of the International Development Research Centre, now an industrialist and environmentalist who controls an Arizona-based company.

Meanwhile, Carl Nickle, president of Convertures Ltd. of Calgary, said the Petro-Canada issue should be left to simmer while the new Conservative government develops "a concrete energy policy."

"The federal government should do everything possible to increase the rate of capital investment by the government and private sectors," he said.

Nickle predicted that an annual average investment of $15 billion will be needed in the next 10 to 15 years to ensure development of energy sources to meet the needs of Canada and the United States.

He said the government should revamp oil and natural gas regulations to eliminate special privileges for Crown corporations that discourage private investment.

A Gulf Oil Canada Ltd. spokesman said the company doesn't care what happens to Petro-Canada as long as competition in the oil and natural gas field is fair.

PQ promoting EEC concepts?

ROBERT BOURASSA
...observing European elections

BRUSSELS (CP) — Former Quebec premier Robert Bourassa says the first direct elections for the European Parliament are evidence the Parti Quebecois is promoting political concepts now considered obsolete in Western Europe.

"They want to make Quebec into a nation-state while in Europe the idea of the nation-state is being seriously questioned," Bourassa said in an interview Wednesday.

The former Liberal premier, defeated in the 1976 Quebec election, is visiting Belgium and West Germany to observe the elections and participate later in a CBC French-Language television discussion on the results.

The elections take place in the nine countries of the European Economic Community over four days with 180 million electors deciding on the 410 members of the parliament who will sit in Luxembourg and Strasbourg.

Until now, the European parliament has been made up of representatives delegated by the national parliaments of each of the nine countries.

Bourassa said Europe is rejecting the concept of a delegated assembly at a time when the Parti Quebecois has suggested creating a non-elected body as a common institution between an independent Quebec and the rest of Canada.

Pope to pray at camp sites

KRAKOW, Poland (AP) — Pope John Paul II visits his birthplace in southern Poland and prays at the Auschwitz and Birkenau death camps after a jubilant welcome for the former archbishop of Krakow.

Following morning prayers at Kalwaria Zebrzydowska Monastery outside Krakow, the pontiff was to drive today to his birthplace at the little town of Wadowice for a speech in front of the local church.

Then a helicopter was to take him to Auschwitz, 28 kilometres away, where he was to visit death cells and the death wall at Block 11. At nearby Birkenau he was to attend a mass celebrated by priests who were prisoners at the twin camps in which the Nazis exterminated an estimated four million people.

Thousands stood in the rain cheering as the Pope's helicopter landed in the centre of Krakow Wednesday evening, bringing him from western Poland to the ancient city he served as archbishop until his election as pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church last October.

CHEERED BY CROWDS

Crowds 20 deep chanted and clapped as the pontiff travelled a flower-bedecked route to the cathedral at the hilltop Wawel Castle. Poland's mightiest bell, weighing 16 tons and dubbed Zygmunt for a Polish king, tolled a welcome as the motorcade climbed the approach to the fortress.

The Pope said evening prayers at the tomb of Poland's patron saint, Stanislaw, then retired to the same simple bedroom he used when he was Archbishop Karol Wojtyla of Krakow.

The crowd in the square outside did not disperse, and he appeared at a window to shouts of "It's your town! It's your town!"

"Aren't you going to sleep?" the Pope asked repeatedly, and each time the crowd shouted back, "No!" "Well I am," the 59-year-old pontiff said, and calmed the throng by having them join him in a prayer.

The Pope came to Krakow after three days in Czestochowa, site of Poland's holiest Catholic shrine, the Jasna Gora Monastery, where he challenged the Communist government to recognize religious rights and improve the conditions in which the church operates.

He told Silesian workers at a mass outside the monastery that work is "the fundamental dimension of man's life on earth."

In a farewell statement before leaving Czestochowa, he recalled previous visits to the monastery as a young boy with his father and later "clandestinely during the terrible occupation" during the Second World War.

Embassy move delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Flora MacDonald said today she plans no immediate action to move Canada's embassy in Israel to Jerusalem from Tel Aviv.

She reiterated in a CBC radio interview that moving the embassy remains a goal of the Progressive Conservative government. But the government would take into account protests from Arab states and U.S. views opposing the shift.

Miss MacDonald said the move is something that will not be done "precipitously and not in the immediate future."

"There is no 'for-rent sign' out on the embassy in Tel Aviv."

Prime Minister Joe Clark said Tuesday other views will be taken into account, but the basic government policy will be to move the embassy as soon as possible.

FCM 'going down tubes' — mayor

QUEBEC (CP) — Edmonton Mayor Cec Purves told 550 delegates attending the 42nd annual conference of the Federation of Canadian Municipalities Wednesday that he has no intention of leading an organization "going down the tubes."

But, with Ottawa and Metropolitan Toronto threatening to pull out, Purves, the federation's new president, has a lot of work to do in the next year simply to keep the organization from losing a large chunk of its income, as well as some of its credibility.

The organization representing about 250 municipalities, excluding Montreal, wound up its conference here Wednesday, with 65 fewer members than it had only four years ago. Its basic function is to provide a link between the municipalities and the federal government, and many delegates attending this conference felt its strategy and priorities were "misdirected and wrong."

"They have chosen a constitutional strategy to deal with the problems of cities," says Winnipeg alderman Cyril Keeper. "They should be dealing with issues like public transit versus cars."

Anne Johnstone, executive alderman from Toronto, said she thought the federation should be more aggressive in dealing with the federal and provincial governments.

"Maybe if people got mad, something would be done," she said.

Among resolutions passed at the conference was an appeal to the federal government to grant more money to the municipalities, either in direct cash or through tax breaks.

Delegates also voted narrowly to recommend reinstating capital punishment, and called on the federal government to examine ways of controlling the increasing number of crimes committed by convicted prisoners out on parole.

One of the most hotly-debated resolutions was one calling on the federal government to make parents liable to pay for damages caused by their children in acts of vandalism.

The resolution passed, as did another encouraging national unity through student exchange programs and the twinning of French- and English-speaking communities.

Somoza declares martial law

MANAGUA (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza declared martial law and began calling up army reserves to combat Sandinista guerrillas holding Leon, Nicaragua's second-largest city, and battling the national guard in five other cities.

A tank-led column of Somoza's troops was unable to break through guerrilla lines Wednesday to relieve the embattled garrison at Leon, 86 kilometres northwest of the capital city of Managua.

Maine tightens pesticide control

AUGUSTA, Me. (AP) — Maine's pesticide control board rejected an immediate halt to the state's teetering spruce budworm spray project Wednesday, adopting instead a compromise slightly tightening restrictions on the spray planes.

The advisory board voted to impose tighter no-spray buffer zones around all streams in the 3.25-million spruce and fir forest targeted for spraying this year. The board left enforcement of the buffer zones up to the department of conservation, which runs the largest U.S. forest spray project.

Shipbuilding plan criticized

QUEBEC (CP) — A Quebec government plan to make Marine Industries Ltd. more profitable by reducing its shipbuilding activities would "condemn the entire shipbuilding sector in Quebec," a spokesman for the province's second-largest labor federation said Wednesday.

Andre L. Hereux, vice-president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, told a legislative committee studying the plan that if the Quebec-owned company eventually ceased to build ships altogether, some 1,800 jobs would be lost.

Portuguese PM resigns

LISBON (Reuters) — Portugal's main left-wing political parties forced Prime Minister Carlos Mota Pinto to offer his resignation Wednesday.

Faced with censure motions from the Socialists and Communists, the 42-year-old prime minister submitted the resignation of his six-month-old party government to President Antonio Ramalho Eanes. If he accepts the resignation, Eanes can call general elections in 90 days or choose a new prime minister to attempt to win parliamentary support.

EEC parliament elections today

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The world's first trans-national election began today with four of the nine member countries of the European Economic Community voting for a European Parliament.

Although the new 410-seat Parliament will be a largely consultative body with limited formal powers, it will be the first elected body to represent the community's 180 million voters.

Oil sands no solution

EDMONTON (CP) — Widespread global supplies of heavy oil and oil sands will not quickly rescue the world from its oil shortage, three Alberta Research Council scientists said Wednesday.

The trio told reporters that Wednesday's session of the UN conference on heavy oil and oil sands identified many promising methods of efficiently extracting the hard-to-handle unconventional oils.

But, they emphasized, the experimental new technologies need much more work before they are sufficiently proved to convince conservative financiers to put up the billions of dollars necessary for oil sands or heavy oil projects.

D-Day anniversary: France honors those who died

GRAYE-SUR-MER, France (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley, who commanded U.S. invasion forces in Normandy 35 years ago, watched Wednesday as France paid homage to Canadian and other Allied soldiers who died here. The 86-year-old general of the army participated in D-Day anniversary ceremonies in the American sector of the Normandy landing area, but an aide said Wednesday that Bradley was too weak and ill to leave his car. Ceremonies were dedicated to Canadian and British forces who took over the eastern half of the 64-kilometre-long invasion beaches.

"Half a man's life has gone by since this great victory," said Raymond Triboulet, president of the D-Day commemoration committee, as thousands of spectators, veterans and local citizens watched from atop decaying German bunkers and sand dunes.

"Our faith in this annual rendezvous is due to the uneasiness inspired by the more and more endangered world peace," Triboulet said. SEES NEW THREAT "We fought World War II hoping to free Europe and the world for many years to follow, and now, all of a sudden, a sort of turmoil has started almost everywhere in the world that reminds us of those sinister days that preceded 1939. Tyranny is spreading more and more throughout the world."

Military units from Canada, the U.S., Britain, France, Norway, Netherlands and Belgium stood at attention across the sand where, on June 6, 1944, about 156,000 Allied troops stormed ashore to begin the final thrust to free Europe from the Nazis.

Earlier in the day, at the Canadian cemetery in Beny-Sur-Mer, greying former soldiers made their way through the ranks of tombstones, pausing to salute an old comrade in arms or place flowers on the grave of a friend or relative.

Schmidt opposes time limit
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany says any move to set a time limit on the prosecution of Nazi war criminals would "intolerably strain" the world's sense of justice.

Schmidt spoke Wednesday night at a dinner at the University of South Carolina marking the 100th birthday of the late James Byrnes, former state secretary, U.S. Supreme Court justice and South Carolina governor.

Earlier Wednesday, Schmidt met for almost two hours with President Carter in Washington, discussing topics including energy, arms limitation and the military situation in Europe.

The chancellor told about 700 people at the South Carolina dinner that he opposes any time limit that would hinder the prosecution of murders committed under Hitler.

"I believe it would intolerably strain our own nation's and the world's sense of justice if, after such outrageous crimes, one of the culprits were able to invoke the provision of statutory limitation," he said.

Oil made from wood chips
GOLDEN, Colo. (Reuters) — Energy researchers have succeeded in producing a barrel of oil from wood chips at a cost that is competitive with the price of imported crude oil, it was announced here.
Sabri Ergun, head of the research team, estimated wood chip oil could be produced at about $26 a barrel and would be comparable to No. 6 bunker fuel, suitable for use as a sulphur-free fuel for electric power plants.
Ergun, who presented the findings at an energy conference being held here this week, said about 900 pounds of wood chips went into the making of the first barrel of oil.

OTTAWA (CP) — A bench warrant has been issued for the arrest of Newfoundland Liberal MP David Rooney for failing to appear in court Wednesday on charges of misusing his elected office.
Justice of the Peace Lynne Coelter issued the warrant, termed discretionary since it leaves it up to the police and the Crown attorney's office whether or not to make the arrest.
Donald Bayne, Rooney's lawyer, said the warrant was a formality to maintain the jurisdiction of the Ontario Supreme Court in the case, adding that Rooney would appear when the case is re-scheduled. He was at home Wednesday in Newfoundland.
That date will be set Monday.

CARTER to assemble energy package
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter pledged Wednesday to join forces with Congress in assembling a major new energy package aimed at boosting U.S. fuel production, congressional leaders said.
Among elements of the package will be new government subsidies for coal-derived fuels and legislation expediting the building of new pipelines, said participants at a White House meeting that focused on energy issues.
The measures will stress production rather than conservation. Carter's past proposals emphasizing conservation, including his standby plan for gasoline rationing, have been rejected by Congress.

Anglo certificate vital if child attends French school

By NELSON WYATT
WATERLOO — The importance of possessing an admissibility certificate to an Anglophone school cannot be stressed enough if parents wish to send their children to French school but do not wish to close the door on their grandchildren entering an English educational institution in the future.

Local resident Dick Stoddard raised the question of admissibility of children back into the English system after discussing the matter with Massey-Vanier Regional High School Principal Robert Douglas. Stoddard, who has a son in the fifth grade in the francophone system, grew concerned about the admissibility of future grandchildren into English schools if their father had not completed his primary education in English.

"It could be a question of interpretation," said Stoddard in a telephone interview with The Record earlier this week. He said that while Douglas had told him it was necessary for the child to have completed six to seven years — about the total number of years spent in elementary school — to qualify, he received a different interpretation from a spokesperson for the District of Bedford Regional School Board. The spokesperson said criteria included the clause to the effect a child was admissible if he or she had been a resident of Quebec prior to August 27, 1977, the date Bill 101 came into effect.

Mr. Stoddard questioned this interpretation, since most educators and school administrators he had talked to agreed with M-V Principal Douglas' view.

Fearing the loss of his son's admissibility certificate if he didn't complete his elementary education in English, Stoddard was concerned that by enrolling him in the French system he had cut off the option for future grandchildren to return to English school.

"I didn't feel that I had the right to make that choice," said Stoddard, who enrolled his child in the French school because he felt that the English system did not provide adequate French instruction. Massey-Vanier Principal Robert Douglas told The Record that, "if a youngster doesn't complete his elementary education in an English school, then the next generation can't take any English language instruction. The law says that the husband and wife must have taken their elementary education in English."

"We do have young people who want to come in whose parents haven't completed their elementary schooling in English and who haven't got a language certificate."

"Each school board is required to complete the registration as per Ministry of Education directives," said

Douglas. "The board has to accept those youngsters where there is no question but in the case of doubt, the parents have to provide affidavits to prove that they have met the criteria for admissibility. The director-general then forwards these documents to Quebec City for approval and if it is approved, the child is admitted."

When contacted, however, both the DBRSB and the Sherbrooke regional office of the Ministry of Education denied that a child or his children would lose the right to be admitted to an Anglophone school if they possessed a language certificate, even if they had spent some time in a francophone school.

The criteria for obtaining an admissibility certificate is that one of the parents must have received their primary schooling in English in Quebec; one of the parents may have received their primary education outside of Quebec but was living in the province prior to August 27, 1977; if the child was enrolled legally in English school prior to August 27, 1977 or if they had older brothers or sisters in English schools prior to August 27, 1977. Once met, all or some of these criteria will enable a child to be granted a certificate making him eligible to attend English school.

"Once you have the certificate, that's it," concluded the DBRSB spokesman.

French-language nurses end 24-hour walkout

MONTREAL (CP) — Nurses in eight French-language hospitals in the Montreal area were back on the job today after staging a 24-hour walkout to protest lack of progress in contract negotiations with the province.

Hospital officials said Wednesday that essential services were maintained despite the walkout, although many patients were temporarily discharged and all non-emergency surgery and admissions had been cancelled.

Two hospitals, Sacre Coeur and Jean Talon, said they were forced to shut down their emergency wards as a result of the walkouts. Ginette Gosselin, president of the Montreal nurses union, said in a statement the walkout was called after government negotiators refused to modify their contract offers. The nurses have been without a contract for a year.

Gosselin said unresolved issues in her union's negotiations include work schedules, transfers, salaries, vacations and working conditions.

Meanwhile, in Quebec City and other regions of the province, about 12,000 nurses continued rotating strikes began three weeks ago to protest against government contract offers. The nurses have also been without a contract since last June.

In addition, about 65,000 other hospital employees across the province — including maintenance and other non-professional workers — planned two-hour study sessions today to protest their own contract offers.

In an emergency debate in the national assembly Wednesday, Social Affairs Minister Denis Lazure described the hospital strike situation as "serious" but ruled out any government intervention in the near future.

QUEBEC (CP) — Social Affairs Minister Denis Lazure said Wednesday the government does not intend to take action against nurses who staged 24-hour walkouts in 65 French-language hospitals.

"It's obvious that the current situation is serious, especially in the Quebec City region where there have been rotating walkouts for more than a week," Lazure told an emergency session of the national assembly called to debate the hospitals situation.

However, he said, "the situation does not justify an ill-timed intervention."

"To our knowledge and after repeated verifications several times a day, I repeat that the agreements have been respected. Thus, the rules of the game must be respected."

Lazure said about 30 hospitals in the Quebec City area were affected by walkouts Wednesday as nurses affiliated with the Syndicat Professionnel des Infirmières et Infirmiers continued their protest against government contract offers.

He said another 35 hospitals in the Montreal area were hit by walkouts, staged by nurses affiliated with another union, the Federation des Infirmières et Infirmiers du Quebec. EMERGENCIES SERVED

But the minister said emergency services in all hospitals except Montreal's Sacre Coeur remained open.

Bryson denies job offer

A statement attributed to Eastern Townships Regional School Board Director-General Wendell Sparkes on page 3 of Tuesday's Record to the effect that Galt Vice-Principal Joan Bryson has accepted another position within the school board has been denied.

According to Bryson, no official offer of a position has been made, let alone accepted, since she was informed February 15 that she would no longer be principal of Blue House, effective July 1.

Chambre passes Hwy. 10 resolution

SHERBROOKE (FJM) — The Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce passed the following resolution concerning the construction of Route 10.

"Since businesses are handicapped by the extra transport costs involved in driving through the city of Sherbrooke, since the University of Sherbrooke and the CHUS are penalized by the absence of a quick route linking their related campuses, since substantial sums of money are lost to commercial enterprises due to the inaccessibility of their stores to shoppers who live in another ward and find it difficult to drive through the city and since the transport of injured people to the CHUS through the city in ambulances is difficult, the Chamber of Commerce demands that the Ministry of Transport re-open the dossier on the construction of Route 10.

"More precisely, we are concerned to see that the construction of a by-pass north of the city linking Route 55 and the CHUS be started in the beginning of 1981.

"We will forward this resolution to Sherbrooke MNA Gerard Gosselin, St. Francis MNA Real Rancourt, the mayor of Sherbrooke, Jacques O'Bready, and the mayor of Fleurimont, Julien Ducharme."

Near miss at Sports Palace

SHERBROOKE — An electrical panel short circuit brought firemen from Stations Four and One to the Sports Palace early yesterday afternoon when thick, strong smoke filled the upper portion of the building. Firefighters quickly extinguished the small fire atop the press box on the structure's east side. The Sherbrooke brigade also sent a truck to Rock Forest last night to douse a car fire which was involved in an accident with another around 8:40.

Behind the scenes at the Marquette St., headquarters, firemen Guy Beauchesne took over the post of lieutenant on Monday, a spot vacated by Lt. Jacques Denault who becomes the department's first full-time head instructor.

Lessard outlines highway work

VICTORIAVILLE (JE) — Minister of Transport Lucien Lessard was in the Victoriaville area last night, June 6. He was greeted at the Colibri Motel by local mayors, councillors and presidents of organizations who are concerned about Route 116 (Richmond to Plessisville). Lessard commented that, by 1980, instead of continuing Route 55 to Trois Rivieres, his department will rebuild Route 116.

The following is the program for 1980-81: — build four lanes from Richmond to Route 143 to join Route 51 at Melbourne. This will cost approximately $1 million (2 km). Also, from Plessisville to Princeville, a two-lane highway with truck lanes where necessary at a cost of $2 million.

—In 1981, from the intersection of Route 116 and 255, in Danville, will be improved to a two-lane truck lane roadway (1 km).

—At the cost of $7.3 million, 14 km between Danville and Richmond will be renewed with two lanes plus a truck lane where necessary. This project will be completely finished by 1984.

Lessard gave no promises of Route 55, but the above has already been accepted by the government.

School candidate pushes education quality

SHERBROOKE (FJM) — In a brief interview with The Record yesterday, John Castle, who is seeking election to the post of commissioner on the Lennoxville District School Board in Ward 4, outlined what he thinks are the important issues facing the Board.

"Enrollments in the elementary and secondary schools in the area are dropping and this will result in changes in their administration and operation," Castle said. "During a time of flux like this we need to be extra careful to see that the quality of education for our children is preserved and that we get our money's worth for the taxes we pay.

"A particular instance of the adjustments needed to meet change is that adequate students in French will cause changes in curriculum, teachers' qualifications and budgets," he added.

"Another point I feel needs to be stressed is that people need assurance that all available funds are being obtained from the ministry of education," Castle affirmed.

"This is especially necessary at a time when government rules for the roles of all school boards in Quebec are changing and even the basis of taxation may be completely changed. People need to be informed and to be able to inform their school commissioner of their views so that they can be properly represented on those matters at the School Board Meetings."

Castle says he will endeavor to inform the electors of the ward on problems, issues and choices about decisions which will have to be made; to inform people about where and on what their tax dollars are to be spent; and to strive to preserve the quality of education for children. He says he is willing to be available for consultation by electors, parent committees and school committees, the objective being to establish better two way communication than now exists between the Board and parents. His phone number is 843-5826.

Castle, 48, is a Chartered Accountant, and has served on a number of committees relating to local schools. He was Co-Chairman of the Galt-Richmond Parent Committee from 1972-73 and 1975-76 member of the Galt School Committee 1972-78, Chairman of the Galt School Committee 1972-73 and 1975-76, member of the Joint Committee of Butters, Dixville and the ETRSB for special education for the mentally handicapped 1976-78.

Castle has been a resident of Magog Township since 1963, is married and has two sons.

LOCAL ROAD ACCIDENTS INJURE NINE

SHERBROOKE (BP) — Area police handled several accidents involving injuries yesterday, the worst occurring in Rock Forest last night.

Two people were kept in Hotel Dieu Hospital overnight and a third was released following examination as a result of a crash between two vehicles at the corner of Bourque Blvd. and Kennedy St. in Rock Forest at 8:40 p.m. Wednesday. Yvan Jacques was thrown from his car which was travelling along Bourque Blvd. on impact with the auto owned by Gerard Fortier of St. Elie.

Jacques' vehicle also caught fire immediately after the collision, though both cars were total losses following the initial contact. Fortier's wife suffered the least injuries and was discharged a short time after she entered hospital. The accident occurred at an intersection where new traffic lights have been in operation for a short time.

In Sherbrooke, four persons were injured in three incidents yesterday. The most spectacular took place at the corner of Belvedere and McManamy streets around 5 p.m. during rush-hour traffic when the accelerator of a north-bound car on Belvedere stuck, causing the driver to lose control. He hit a car in the intersection of the streets, swerved to the left to hit the cement wall of a grocery store, careened sharply to the right to strike another car also heading north on Belvedere and continued to make a complete circle before slamming head-on into the cement wall to end his speedy voyage. Two people were slightly injured.

About 15 minutes later, a 14-year-old boy was sent to Hotel Dieu Hospital after the bicycle he was riding struck a parked car on 13th Avenue South.

At 6:45 p.m., the collision of a motorcycle and a car at 1247 Wellington S. sent the cyclist to Sherbrooke Hospital with unknown injuries.

Disco-circuit dancers' deaths beg Justice Ministry probe

Editor: A short time ago I received a letter from Micheline Carrier, a Quebec writer who serves as a contributing editor of such publications as Chatelaine and Le Bulletin du Conseil du statut de la femme and whose articles appear occasionally in Le Devoir. Ms. Carrier has just completed a two-month study of pornography; her work will be featured in two special issues of the French version of Chatelaine in June and July. She read the series on pornography published in The Record in December and has asked me to send you a translated copy of an open letter which she has written to Justice Minister Marc-Andre Bedard. It concerns teen-age prostitution in Quebec, pornography and other issues involving violence against women and children.

The letter is a strong one, and, if I may comment on it, I believe that the anger evident in the letter is similar to the anger I found common to all women who have spent time researching the subject. We have, for too long, turned our eyes away from pornography and the violence that so affects our lives. Now that we are beginning to confront it, our first reaction is shock and anger. In the past months, a number of women have spoken to me in support of the articles. Many have expressed anger about the exposure by local newstands of their children to pornography when they buy a comic or a candy bar. The same is true when they themselves wish to buy a newspaper. May I suggest that concerned women, and men, write to Justice Minister in Quebec City in support of Micheline Carrier's letter?

SONDRA CORRY, Sherbrooke

Mr. Minister:

On February 13, 1979, an editorial in the Gazette revealed that, since May 1977, 275 bars and discotheques situated within the boundaries of the Montreal Urban Community have engaged young women and sometimes adolescents as nude dancers and have pushed them into prostitution. The same paper wrote that in the entire province, 325 discotheques have employed young women from the Montreal region who have run away from home. During the same period, twenty dancers, some adolescents, were found dead.

On April 24, 1979, "Femme d'aujourd'hui" dedicated its entire broadcast to these young dancers, and presented the testimony of two of them with policemen who have worked for eight years aiding youth. According to these policemen, 4,000 young women work in the network of prostitution which serves certain bars, cabarets, hotels and discotheques in Quebec; 2,000 change region nearly every week, and 10 per cent of them are adolescents on the run. The 142 minors registered to date by the police are between 11 and 17, and if we can believe the police, two days do not go by without these children being implicated in a major crime in Quebec.

This situation is hardly natural and is unacceptable. We are confronting one of the most odious forms of violence against children. It is clear, Mr. Minister that our society does not yet have all of the means to protect our young people against debauchery, that those who prey on the young are proprietors of agencies or cabarets or simply consumers.

The policemen invited to the program "Femme d'aujourd'hui" said that the judges of the Juvenile Court have given fifteen sentences of imprisonment to those who have employed minors. Fifteen sentences, Mr. Minister, that is ridiculous if we believe that this business is practiced on a provincial scale. It is also ridiculous and an encouragement to recidivism that the maximum penalty of $1,500 can release an agency or a company which sells the services of an adolescent. These

Slap in the face

Prime Minister Joe Clark's decision to name Heward Grafftey a minister without portfolio responsible for social programs is a slap in the face for all English Quebecers. Grafftey, the lone Anglophone elected by the Progressive Conservatives becomes not only the spokesman for his home riding of Missisquoi, but for the rest of the province.

Roch LaSalle, the only other elected Tory, was handed the more important role of minister of Supply and Services, undoubtedly a move to impress francophone voters in the next election. Grafftey, unlike LaSalle, has stayed with the party through thick and thin, even prior to his election in 1958. We must admit he will probably be very adept in his role in the cabinet once the guidelines and critical paths of his non-portfolio are established.

Anglophones have no representation in government in Quebec. Grafftey, as a junior minister, cannot be expected to have that much clout in Ottawa. This leaves Gerry Snider of the Executive Council of the Montreal Urban Community as the senior anglophone representative at all three levels of government.

Possibly Prime Minister Clark will see fit to remedy the situation when he has his first cabinet shuffle. It's getting mighty lonely in La Belle Province.

JOHN McCAGHEY

In passing

Thirty-five years ago yesterday, a certain 16-year-old infantryman was in the second wave to go ashore on the Normandy beaches in what has since come to be known as D-Day.

Last night he and his friend were celebrating that day. It wasn't much of a celebration, indistinguishable from their regular Wednesday-night tear in the local, and it degenerated into arm-wrestling for beer with a bunch of irreverent non-veterans, ourselves included. But all over the Townships and throughout the rest of North America, survivors of that day are gathering this week to mark what has come to be a symbol.

NATO was built around the dream of an alliance as durable as that which made D-Day possible, and on a more personal note, it is a symbol for hundreds of thousands of how an incredible agglomeration of men, supplies and ships was somehow assembled in one of the greatest logistic operations of all time - in relative secrecy.

The men who assembled the invasion force are history. Eisenhower, Patton, the Canadians, British, Americans, Free French, Australians, and New Zealanders are the subject of scores of stories and books, many of them celebratory, some of them critical. Perhaps better management following D-Day would have shortened the war; we weren't there to say.

Authors celebrate the bravery of the invasion force. Veterans' organizations honor the men who never made it back from those beaches. But do the rest of us?

As the gent said early this morning, it's impossible for those who weren't there to understand the feeling. We're sure he's right. But we hope everyone gave at least a passing thought yesterday to the youths of the Western World who died in the liberation of Europe.

Letters

Editor:

My husband and myself and our parents before us have been actively involved with cemetery upkeep and the graves of our pioneer ancestors in the Abbott's Corner, Pinnacle, and Frelighsburg areas for as far back as I care to remember.

Quite a few years ago, I tried to encourage the cleanup of burial grounds on the North Pinnacle road and actually the initial cut of trees and brush at the Deming Cemetery was done when Sherman was mayor of the Parish of Frelighsburg. Since then, under the very able guidance of a former resident of that road and now living in Sutton, Mr. Lyndon Royce, the Deming, Barnes, Smith, and Johnson Cemeteries appear as if a miracle had taken place, as indeed it has.

ways been well cared for and with annual work-bees held to help with the heavier tasks. These cemeteries were for many years taken care of by the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young; latterly they were nicely kept by Ivan Robinson and family. Since last year, it is once again our family's responsibility. In addition, and because of my urging, we care for two private burial grounds with no remuneration whatsoever.

In the Frelighsburg area of our parish, the old Methodist cemetery, now the Frelighsburg Memorial Cemetery, is also very much our concern. I am the Sec-Treas., and both my husband and my brother are directors. In fact, to go back a few years to 1868, the land was given for this burial ground by my great grandfather's brother. After the collapse of the Methodist church congregation it seemed that the old cemetery was forgotten. In 1928, a death-bed promise to Cousin Ida Bartlett was given by my uncle to undertake the formation of a trust fund to see that sufficient funds were ever available for upkeep of this place of burial. Through much effort and several years work it became an accomplished fact and it is no longer the brush and berry patch it had become.

I might also mention that because of a letter to the Sherbrooke Record two or three years ago, I feel I was able to stimulate a renewed effort and interest in the North Shefford Cemetery where I also have ancestors.

My only reason in mentioning the foregoing cemetery work is to qualify my involvement and deep interest in contributing to the care of such places. Much has been done in other areas of our County of Missisquoi in this line of work and I commend it highly, at least I did up until this spring when I became aware of a certain effort made last year by people unknown to me with the exception of the Committee Chairman, Mr. Bill Taylor of Bedford, Que.

I am not a newcomer to this Parish - my Holden ancestors homesteaded land here in 1798 - and succeeding generations have lived here ever since. However, these people did not feel it necessary or courteous in any way inform me of their plans to move my family's gravestones from the old Holden homestead burial ground which has markers dating back to the 1840s. Not only did they deem it necessary to remove them, but took them out of the Parish where these people had lived and died, and away from the numerous other relatives buried in public cemeteries nearby.

I would be the first to admit that the old farm cemetery in a not-easily-accessible part of the farm has been in a miserable state for many years, but I personally was and am not able to finance the necessary improvements. Surely if the gravestones have been there for nearly 140 years, what is the point of taking them away? The grants of money received by the improvement committee could have been put to far better use in this case, with a generous portion of common sense added, in the placement of the stones at their original location. I am well aware that the stones are now mended and standing straight and in a roadside cemetery, and truly, I appreciate people's concern about the Holden cemetery. But what happens to the family tradition which tells of the old burial ground beside the first log cabin? Another point I would like to make is by whose authority was this private cemetery disturbed? Even though I am a descendant of these people, I am sure I do not have the authority to sanction such a move and I seriously believe the removal of these Holden gravestones is a criminal offense albeit was done in good faith.

In view of the above revelations, I suggest that a close watch be maintained over other private graveyards to see that this does not happen again, elsewhere. Improvements? YES; Moving? NO.

Norma Young, Pinnacle Mountain Farm, Abercorn.

Editor:

Everyone seems to be writing about religion. There are a few things I would like to mention that have bothered me for years.

I was born, baptized, confirmed and married in the Anglican Church, but am sorry to say I seldom attend now. We were brought up to attend church regularly and we did, my mother, and father always attended, until the Anglican Church started singing or chanting all creeds and prayers, etc. As they did not sing, they really felt left out of the service and I feel the same way.

Another thing - it was understood that a minister's work was to baptize, marry and bury, as part of their duty (I may be wrong), but of course, people usually gave them a donation.

When my father passed away in 1968, we went to see the minister about funeral arrangements, when we got back to the funeral parlor, the undertaker told us a certain amount was required before the minister would take the service. This I felt was not right, as of course, we expected to pay him for his services.

Of course I realize times have changed, but I believe a minister gets paid as well as anyone else.

My husband and I do attend church whenever we can, but it's not an Anglican Church. We do enjoy the service, also the hymn singing, and our occasional visit from the Pastor. This church is always full and at times extra chairs have to be brought in.

Is Uncle Sam still intercepting private conversations?

WASHINGTON - A secret congressional report bears directly on the current debate over the limits that should be set on operations of U.S. intelligence agencies in this country and overseas. The verdict: Uncle Sam is still intercepting private conversations.

The report, prepared by the House Subcommittee on Government Information and Individual Rights, deals with the key issue: Should government-paid spooks be allowed to spy on American citizens and corporations, and if so, under what circumstances?

Titled "Interception of International Telecommunications by the National Security Agency," the secret report details some of the shadier workings of this little known intelligence agency.

"It has become apparent that the activities of the NSA have had, and continue to have, an adverse impact upon the rights and privacy of American citizens..." the report declares. "Enough has appeared on the public record, and been conveyed to this committee, to indicate NSA's enormous potential to silently violate the rights of Americans on an immense scale."

In the wake of Watergate-era disclosures about illegal wiretaps, burglaries and spying on politically suspect Americans, the NSA announced that it no longer "targets" U.S. citizens by name for any purpose. But the House subcommittee spotted a loophole in this assurance. By targeting certain activities, the NSA still manages to invade the privacy of individual Americans.

"It may be of foreign intelligence interest, for example, to know what is being said between U.S. banks and their large Middle East depositors, whose actions could have a substantial impact on the U.S. economy," the report notes. "It may be of foreign intelligence interest to know the details of oil transactions between U.S. importers and their foreign suppliers."

"Thus while an American citizen or company might not be targeted by name, by virtue of his international activities his communications might be selected by NSA on the basis of its 'foreign intelligence' criteria. NSA has not denied that it in fact selects U.S. messages of this nature, and indeed several uncorroborated reports have reached this committee indicating that such monitoring is presently under way."

The 1977 report cites these examples: -An American businessman selling commercial building products to an Arab sheikdom reported that, soon after his first international communication regarding such a sale, he and his wife were visited by federal intelligence agents who knew details of the proposed transaction.

-A Washington, D.C., lawyer whose client was involved in international trade reported that in litigation with the Justice Department, the government presented evidence it could have obtained only by intercepting his client's international communications.

-A senior official of a large multinational corporation told the committee he knew that NSA was intercepting the firm's communications. Though the company sent its international messages in code, government regulations forbid the code to be so sophisticated that the NSA can't decipher it.

Although the NSA no longer sends its messengers to the offices of international telegraph carriers every morning for copies of its wireless messages, it still intercepts international communications "just as effectively and just as indiscriminately," the report states.

"In fact, the international communications of Americans are presumably being intercepted today in a significantly greater volume than was ever available (before). Moreover, the ability of NSA to sort such great volumes of material has undoubtedly improved with advances in computer technology."

The report concludes on this somber note: "Apart from a fundamental concern for the privacy of one's communications, these practices unavoidably bring other possibilities to mind."

"Could the government be using information gleaned from such communications to influence or disrupt international business transactions? Could it provide NSA or executive branch employees with 'insider' information which might give them a competitive advantage in some economic venture? Could such information be used to blackmail or threaten some individual or business? Could this information be turned over to a federal agency... in pursuit of its administrative responsibilities? Would information relating to a potential civil disturbance or forthcoming political rally be turned over...?"

Washington Whirl: Last March it was widely reported that Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., asked the House Administration Committee to pay his legal fees if the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct decided to take disciplinary action against him following his conviction on corruption charges last year. What hasn't been reported is that Diggs had earlier tries to get the standards committee to pay his legal costs out of the special fund appropriated to investigate him. Both committees turned him down.

"Ugly Americans are now organized and, like all cause-y types, will stage a rally on the steps of the U.S. Capitol. The May 21 demonstration has been called by the Committee Against Physical Prejudice, which has taken aim at the discrimination it claims is practiced against those who are "bad looking, overweight or short." We were invited to attend - in a professional capacity, of course.

PQ convention disagrees on equal-partner definition

By JASPER MEYERS
If the Parti Quebecois receives a mandate to negotiate a new type of association with the rest of Canada and the federal government agrees to enter into negotiations with Quebec, the PQ bargaining team will be making use of propositions adopted during its congress last weekend.

Sovereignty itself is not negotiable the PQ has been saying all along. A proposition adopted on Saturday affirmed this idea and defined sovereignty as "implying the exercise of the political powers particular to a separate state, including especially the exclusive right to levy taxes and formulate legislation particular to the territory involved, and to negotiate an association of a principally economic nature with Canada".

One claim which seems to follow directly from the concept that sovereignty itself is not negotiable is that Quebec would have to be a 50-per cent partner in some of the institutions and decision-making bodies the two "sovereign states" would share.

For example, the second proposition in the commission concerned with joint institutions states that "the institutions set up in order to regulate common concerns and the interpretative bodies drawn up to preside over disputes should be constituted on the basis of parity". Rosemont MNA Gilbert Paquette said the significance of this proposal was that it insured that the nature of the relationship would not be misunderstood.

A certain amount of argument preceded the adoption of a proposal demanding the creation of a court of justice consisting of an equal number of representatives from both countries and concerned with the resolution of disputes and the interpretation of mutually binding pieces of legislation.

Those who argued against said that if Quebec signs an associative treaty with Canada as a nation it won't need such a court in order to resolve differences; any such requirement simply shows that Quebec is still not quite an equal partner but somewhat dependent.

Those who supported the proposition said the existence of such an institution would provide perhaps the "most civilized" way of regulating differences between the two nations and would in fact show that Quebec was in fact an equal partner. This ambiguity in the interpretation of the notion of "equality" occurred fairly frequently in the weekend debate, revealing a certain amount of discord concerning the type of demands the possession of sovereignty both requires and allows a nation to make.

The proposals concerning the nature of the economic association desired with Canada also engendered some hot debate and some of the propositions which were accepted were the butt of considerable criticism before being taken to a vote.

The final package included the establishment of common tariff barriers in relation to third countries, the free circulation of capital, goods and people between the two nations, the rights of both countries to protect their own agricultural production, and a common currency based on the dollar, which would also allow the creation of common financial institutions and separate banks.

Those who argued against the acceptance of these propositions felt that a shared currency in particular would perpetuate a federalism in which Quebec would suffer from the weakening of the dollar engendered by the mismanagement of the economy by the federal government. It was argued that only by issuing its own currency would Quebec ever have the chance to be truly sovereign, to be "an equal".

It was up to Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau, who spoke at a number of crucial moments during the congress, to defend the proposal by saying that "the existence of a common currency will not make a central bank necessary, nor require the development of a common monetary policy". He denied that problems would arise if one nation decided to concentrate on fighting inflation and at the same time the other felt it was more important to fight unemployment.

California gullets find Molson's a heady brew

LOS ANGELES (CP) — In pubs and bars throughout California, the Molson brand of beer is quenching thirsts by the thousands.

About 75,000 gallons of the Canadian-made brew go down the gullets of California beer buyers every month and sales are expected to double in the next few years.

"We think we'll be the No. 2 imported beer in California in a year," John Winter, general manager of the Martlet Importing Co. Inc., said in an interview.

"We're already No. 2 nationally."

The most popular imported beer in California — and across the U.S. — is Heineken, produced in the Netherlands. Winter believes Heineken sales reached a million barrels, or 25 million gallons, in the U.S. last year.

Martlet, owned ultimately by The Molson Companies Ltd. of Montreal, expects Molson imports to reach the million-barrel milestone in the 1979-80 fiscal year.

Molson U.S. sales in 1978-79 were 19 million gallons, up from 13 million gallons the previous year.

NAME CHANGED

Molson products sold in California are Golden Ale and the brand known in Canada as Export Ale. But since the Export is an imported ale here, it is sold in the U.S. under the name Molson Ale.

Both varieties are sold in long-necked, non-returnable green bottles rather than the squat, brown deposit bottles in Canada. A six-pack costs about $3.50, less than some other imported beers but more than the domestic ones.

Martlet, which began importing the Molson beer to nine states in 1971, now sells in 24 states and expects to expand to 40 states in two years, Winter says.

The California branch is expected to turn its first profit this year, its third in operation. By the end of five years, Winter hopes to record an over-all profit.

Winter, whose family lives in St. John's, Nfld., says taste is a key factor in the rapid growth of the imported-beer market in this country.

"I find the American product tends to be getting lighter," he explains. "Imports such as the Canadian beer offer more flavor and body."

He adds there also is a certain kind of snob appeal involved in buying an imported beer rather than a domestic one.

Molson's Ex a beer with snob appeal?

"In some places, apparently, yes. It's very popular in some eastern college towns, for example. In some, we even outsell Schlitz."

Winter says that selling beer in California and other U.S. markets is "a sheer delight" compared with Canada.

The beer is sold here in grocery and convenience stores. In addition, Americans are much more relaxed in their attitude toward the brew.

"They don't seem to have that 'booze is evil' thing you find in Canada."

Disco deaths

agencies have made large sums of money, otherwise they would abandon this business. I am convinced, Mr. Minister, that some people have paid more for a lesser crime, for example a false declaration of income.

Would it not be in the public interest, Mr. Minister, that you reveal the number of establishments which have lost their commercial license for having engaged minors or having given those under the age of 18 access to forbidden places? It is necessary to drain the source of income of those who prey on the young because money is their only motivation.

The police interviewed on "Femme d'aujourd'hui" asked the public to inform them if they believe a young woman to be in danger. This form of exploitation is practiced openly, Mr. Minister, and is at times reinforced by publicity. Surely it is not announced that the nude dancers are minors. But the police have eyes like everyone else to see, and they know the establishments; some frequent them regularly.

Some people in your ministry have told me that "the police have more than that to do," that is to say, to protect minors. I do believe that, Mr. Minister. Perhaps you could, therefore, advise the Surete du Quebec to withdraw from infiltrating syndicates in order to leave time to protect the children.

A policeman has also declared the following: "The agencies are there because it is lucrative. They fill the demands of the tavernkeepers who in turn fill the demands of the clients. Society as it is loves to see nude women, and younger and younger nude women!"

I do not think, Mr. Minister, that women who compose 52 per cent of said society manifest such taste! I suppose when speaking of society, the policeman had in mind only a part of the masculine gender. Because to my knowledge, not all men encourage the exploitation of adolescents and women by frequenting these places.

Has your ministry a threshold this side of which it proves itself tolerant? Is it waiting for this business to sell 10,000 women rather than 4,000, of which 25 per cent are minors instead of 10 per cent in order to lead a general and public inquest? I would point out, Mr. Minister, that the 1970 October Crisis had one victim, while the business of women and children has had "officially" twenty victims in a year and a half in Montreal alone. And the October Crisis is the object of a costly inquest.

I am sure, Mr. Minister, that you do not personally tolerate such a situation. But you have responsibilities toward Quebec society and to not take Draconian measures to correct this situation comes back to tolerating it. Laws are not engraved in concrete; we have seen this in other areas. If they are inadequate to the point of favoring the exploitation of children and women - as is presently the case - then we change them. And there is no need to make a five-year study to change the laws.

I recognize, Mr. Minister, that women's groups who boast of working for the furtherance of women and the protection of children appear discreet on this subject. I do not concede that in their several year of existence that they are not concerned by such a visible problem, but rather that they do not want to see it. Perhaps these groups have been dependent upon the state for the protection of women and children in the same way it protects the public from other crimes. They are learning, at their expense, in this area as in so many others, that the State does not consider women and children "ordinary" citizens.

I also deplore, Mr. Minister, that parliamentarians of both sides of the National Assembly prefer political games and trifles to the defense of the elementary rights of persons. If the elected reflect society in general, they render a sad image of this society.

Finally, Mr. Minister, I have heard said that your services are organizing a conference on violence for the fall. The sum invested in two or three days of meetings causes me to believe that the specialists attending will not be satisfied to simply stroke the bellies of their colleagues nor of informal discussions on violence. Will they have the courage to approach frankly the case of adolescents and women who are the victims of the ravages of pornography in all its forms? Will they dare to deal in depth with the subject of battered wives, rape victims, and violent pornography? Will your ministry follow with a campaign of information against violence or will it prefer to hide it all under a bushel? Will you invite to this conference Dr. Denis Lazure in order that he understand the necessity of financing centers to aid the victims of rape, and houses which shelter battered wives, which are now assuming the incumbent responsibilities of the Ministry of Social Affairs?

This conference will show us, Mr. Minister, the veritable will of your government to struggle against violence, to understand that which is practiced daily against women and children. It will be very instructive for Quebec women in quest of equality and independence and similarly for the children for whom we have consecrated a year.

Specialists question mastectomy

WASHINGTON (CP) — Surgeons should abandon the disfiguring radical mastectomy as a standard treatment for early-stage breast cancer, a panel of cancer specialists recommended Tuesday.

The National Cancer Institute panel said new information indicates that a simpler form of breast removal surgery is as effective in treating early breast cancer as the more radical mastectomy, in which the major muscles of the chest wall are removed along with the breast and underarm lymph nodes.

The panel also recommended that surgeons end the routine practice of removing a woman's breast during the same operation in which they take tissue samples to determine whether she has the disease.

ROCK ISLAND (DB) — A very pretty early summer wedding took place at Our Lady of Mercy Church in Rock Island at 2 p.m. Saturday, May 26, when Miss Daphne Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rowe of Cambridge, Ont., became the bride of Michael Dubois, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dubois of Rock Island.

The bride, walking down the aisle on the arm of her father looked lovely in a floor-length white organza gown with daisies and tulips applied on the stand up collar, down the yoke to the waistline and around the wrist band of the long full sleeves. The tiny daisies and tulips circled the hem of her dress. Her short veil was held in place by a lace head band of daisies and tulips. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Her maid of honor Miss Lori Staubaun was in a baby blue sleeveless dress with matching jacket and white accessories.

The three bridesmaids Gloria Rowe sister of the bride, Cheryl Dubois sister of the groom and Frances Hederson, friend of the bride were in matching yellow floor length sun dresses with short capes and yellow picture hats, their accessories were white and each wore a white rose corsage.

Ronald Buzzell, friend of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Clayton Rowe, brother of the bride, Paul Dubois, brother of the groom and Thomas Main, friend of the couple. The groom and his attendants had white carnation boutonnières.

The bride's mother chose a floor length gown of greyish blue nylon with white flowers and a wide cape which extended to the fingertips, her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of pink roses.

The bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Clara Rowe was in a floor length peach gown with white flowers and a wide cape, finger-tip length. She wore white accessories and her corsage was pink roses.

The groom's mother wore a floor length dusty rose dress of polyester with a matching jacket, her accessories were white and her corsage of pink roses.

The groom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Claire Goodsell was in a multi-color pink gown with round neckline and long sleeves. She wore white accessories and her corsage was pink roses.

Father Lefebvre, parish priest, performed the ceremony and Mr. Adrien Langevin sang several hymns during the wedding.

Following the marriage, a turkey dinner was served to approximately 70 guests at the Legion Home, Stanstead, catered to by the Ladiex Auxiliaries.

The wedding party formed a receiving line and the guests wished them every happiness.

During the meal a toast was made to the happy couple by the bride's father and mother and also by his parents. These were responded to by the groom.

The bride's table was centered with flowers and white candles, and, on a small table, was the wedding cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Horace Doyon of Stanstead. It was a three tier cake iced in white with a miniature bride and groom standing under a flowered arch. On one side of the cake were winding stairs frosted in pink with green leaves and a pink rose on each step and on the edge of the step a small pink candle. The bride and groom cut the cake and shared it with their guests.

Misses Marjorie and Glenis Rowe, sisters of the bride, were in charge of the guest book.

Following the dinner, music was supplied by the Mansion Orchestra when more friends of the bride and groom joined them for an evening of dancing.

The happy couple will make their home in Cambridge, Ont.

Guests were from Cambridge, Toronto, St. Catharines, Ont., California and the border area.

Rehearsal Party

Following the rehearsal at the Church in Rock Island on Friday evening, May 25, a party was held for Michael and Daphne at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dubois. The evening was spent visiting and Mrs. Dubois served delicious refreshments.

Ann Landers says

Husband who can't forget

Dear Ann: How much "understanding and patience" must a second wife have to prove she really loves her husband?

When I married Elmer he said his first wife was a liar, a cheat, and a lazy, no-good tramp. Everything rotten - she was it. Now I find he is meeting her after work to talk about the children. He is also taking her to lunch in little out-of-the-way places - again, to talk about the children. He takes off from work in the middle of the day to go to PTA meetings with her because he doesn't want to disappoint the children.

The children, incidentally, are 21, 20, 15 and 8 years of age. The three oldest are married. When I tell him I think he is handing me a line of garbage and that I am going to leave if he doesn't stop seeing his ex-wife, he begins to cry, falls to his knees and begs me to forgive him. Somebody has a screw loose and I'm beginning to think it's me. What do you think? — Suspicious

Dear Sus: Face it, lady. You are not going to win this one. Husbands who are unable to disconnect from ex-wives are incurable. You are fighting a losing battle.

What kind of wedding goes with today's new life styles? Does anything go? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" tells what's right for today's weddings. Second Winds on TV LENNOXVILLE — The Second Winds, that remarkable group of singing senior citizen members of the Sher-Lenn 50 Plus Club, appeared in their second annual T.V. special, last night at 8 p.m. on Channel 11. Channel 11 presented them in their T.V. debut last year, and were so pleased with the results that they requested a second special this spring.

The Second Winds began as a singalong group, one of the many activities provided for the senior citizen members of the Sher-Lenn 50 Plus Club. Their talent, energy and enthusiasm soon made it evident that this was no ordinary group. They chose their name, the wonderfully descriptive Second Winds, and when Mrs. Janice Ranshousen invited Lois Ogilvie Blanchette to direct, their career as a performing group moved into high gear.

Lois Blanchette is well known in Sherbrooke as a former Leslie Bell Singer, and for twelve years was directress of her choir here, The Singing Girls. (La Chorale de L'Amitie). She is well qualified for her task through her musical background, and also by her training in speech and theatre arts, for she herself writes all the dialogue, and most of the poems and monologues for the concert plays which have become the trade mark of the group.

The Second Winds rehearse once a week, and often twice when a concert is close. During the 1978-79 season they gave a total of 11 presentations. These added to the enjoyment of all club members on such occasions as Hallowe'en, St. Andrew's Day, St. Patrick's Day, Christmas, and so on. There are about 20 singing members with Mrs. Annie Morrison of Lennoxville as piano accompanist.

Mrs. Ranshousen, coordinator of activities for the 50 Plus Club for everything from card games, bingo, and guest speakers to art classes and bus trips for the enjoyment of the members, says the singing troupe is one of the club's points of pride, and whenever a concert is scheduled, the audience support is tremendous.

Don't miss Sherbrooke's Second Winds tonight on Channel 11, directed by Benoit Charland, at 8 p.m. Where's Louie is the theme of the program, and if you'd like to find out what adventures he and all the singers experienced, tune in without fail.

Second Wind members are: Mrs. Kay Baker, Mrs. Muriel Barter, Mrs. Gertrude Blake, Mr. Bob Blake, Mrs. Mildred Blunt, Mr. Bill Coupland, Mr. Leo Delfosse, Mrs. Winnie Edgcombe, Mrs. Mabel Frost, Mrs. Amelia Hamilton, Mrs. Harriet Heath, Mrs. Vivian Hutchison, Mr. Vince Lee, Mrs. Annie Morrison (accompanist), Mr. Rod Morrison, Mrs. Marguerite Mouldy, Mrs. Velma Nicholson, Mr. Dan Patton, Mrs. Helen Tolhurst, Mr. Frank Wilding and Mrs. Mattie Wright.

Birthdays Party

FITCH BAY — On Sunday, May 27, a turkey supper was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Webster, Stanstead, in honor of his mother's birthday, Mrs. Howard Webster of Fitch Bay, which was on May 24. The supper was arranged by Mrs. Leslie Webster and Mrs. Arnold Warner. A very pretty birthday cake was made by Janie Webster and decorated in a very dainty fashion, which was cut and served to each one. Mrs. Webster received several nice gifts from her family, as well as many cards from friends and relatives, also several telephone calls. Those present at the supper were the guest of honor, Mrs. Howard Webster, Leslie and Janie Webster, son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Warner, daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Stebenne, daughter and son-in-law. All left for home at an early hour, wishing Minnie Pearl many more birthdays.

Jacoby's bridge

If West's club lead had been a singleton, he would have let East hold the first spade trick.

Now you lead out your two high diamonds. You aren't worried about West ruffing because dummy can over-ruff and you know that East won't be able to ruff. West follows to all three diamonds and you know he started with 7-1-2-3 distribution. Now you have solved all heart-suit problems.

You lead to dummy's ace and finesse against West's jack on the way back.

One final point. You must not chuck your queen of clubs on the first club lead.

Bridge teacher Sumner Cotzin of Worcester, Mass., has a monthly publication called "Communication". Each month's issue includes a problem.

West opens the five of clubs. East takes his ace and shifts to the jack of spades. West overtakes with the queen after you (South) duck. West continues with the ace and a third spade which you ruff with dummy's queen.

Sumner asks how you should proceed.

You start some detective work by cashing dummy's queen of diamonds. Then you come to your hand with the queen of clubs. You aren't worried about a ruff.

MANSONVILLE STUDENTS END YEAR ON AN ACTIVE NOTE

Mansonville Elementary School held a Nutrition Week earlier this year sponsored by the School Committee. The event, which highlighted nutritious foods only for one week, went on record as a "definite success." Mr. W. Horn, Principal of the school, urged parents to replace sweets in school lunches with nutritious foods such as raisins, nuts, and fresh fruit. The community responded enthusiastically, and donated another four weeks of nutritious snacks to the school.

Students and staff at Mansonville Elementary are warming up for a Track and Field Day to be held Friday, June 8. Prizes are given for best performances in the various disciplines, and everyone at the school regards it as a wonderful opportunity to get some exercise and fresh air while having a lot of plain old fun. At the end of this month, Mansonville students will demonstrate their physical prowess again in a Cross Country Run at Stanbridge East.

Thirty-two teams from Quebec competed in four leagues, and in the championship game against Malcom Campbell High School, Massey-Vanier's team emerged as the winner.

Mrs. G. Marquis and Mr. B. Turvey coached students Tom Eakins, Ron Haigh, Peter Philion, Brian McCarthy and alternate Philippe Bouskela to the provincial win. As well as representing the province in the national finals, Massey-Vanier High School receives a $1,000 scholarship from the CBC "Reach For The Top" trophy for 1 year, and a travel alarm clock for each team member.

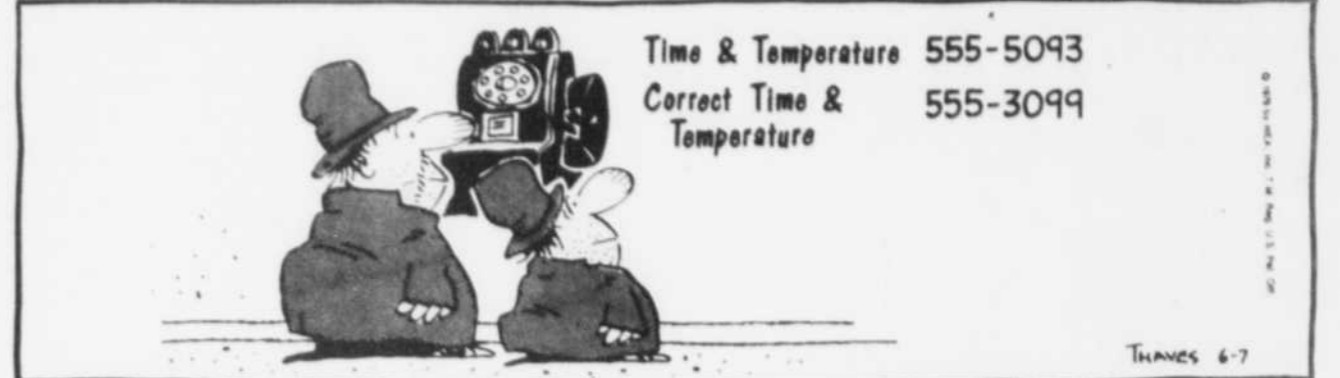

Over 50 individual students walked away with awards and scholarships this year, much to the pleasure of parents, teachers, and the students themselves. In addition, approximately 40 students received Proficiency Awards in subjects ranging from Math, Art, and Economics, to Typing, Agriculture, and Home Economics.

Ah You expected in Als' camp at any time

GENE GAINES...pleased with secondary

By MATTHEW ELDER
LENOXVILLE — Exactly where is Junior Ah You? After yesterday's Alouettes' practise, it seemed fairly certain the big defensive end had arrived in Montreal. Canadian Press reported, at 2:30 p.m., that Ah You arrived yesterday morning, but neither coach Joe Scanela or PR assistant Gary King were able to positively confirm the fact by 6 p.m.

"I believe Junior's in Montreal," Scanela said, "but I haven't spoken to him yet. I last heard that he'd arrived at the airport at 10:30 a.m. He's talked to someone in our organization — I don't know who — and I've heard he's looking for an apartment."

Scanela insisted this was all second or even third-hand information, but King said the source was "reliable". Whatever his whereabouts, it appears Ah You will be reporting to the team's camp at the University of Sherbrooke in the very near future.

Asked how he had prepared for the loss of the Hawaiian all-star, Scanela replied: "You shouldn't let these things bother you. If you do, you'll die coaching. I didn't get excited about it; I was ready to deal with it instead."

As soon as Ah You arrives, he'll be on the field at the very next practise, the coach assured. Scanela's not worried about his conditioning — Junior can be relied on to be in good shape and to have a good attitude.

"If he says he's quitting, I believe him — he's an honest guy. Junior's got a good attitude toward the team — he's a straight (ball player)," he added.

The worry over Ah You has placed a lot of attention on a young defensive end from Penn State, Tony Petruccio. Scanela said he has been impressed with the play of the 6' 4", 245-lb., 22-year-old, who played in the Sugar Bowl last January. The Als are still in the market for another defensive end, so Ah You's apparent return shouldn't hurt Petruccio's chances of making the squad if his talents are for real.

Joe Barnes, the Als' starting quarterback last year, once again had a good day throwing the ball, so well that Scanela brought it upon himself to commend the ex-Texas Tech stand-out's play.

"He's stronger throwing the ball this year than last," the sophomore mentor said. "He must have really worked hard the past two months."

He was quick to add that prize QB prospect Ron Calcagni is very much in the thick of things. "We have a system of 'brainstorming' our quarterbacks," Scanela explained. "We throw everything at them and then pick it out of them afterwards. Right now, I think the kid's overwhelmed by it all, but it'll all unscramble soon."

Joe Barnes and Gerry (Dattilio) are really into it now — they really know our system — and they're helping Calcagni out. They're rooting for him, though they realize he could be a threat to their jobs. They can appreciate the fact that he can be a good backup for them," he added.

The defensive backfield positions are under close competition, according to defensive backfield coach Gene Gaines. Gaines, himself one of the best backs the CFL has ever seen, said that all the rookie candidates were progressing well, sorting out and adapting to a new system.

The departure of all-star cornerback Vernon Perry means that one of the five positions has no incumbent veteran. At least one rookie will make the squad, unless talent is sought from another club. At this point, it seems unlikely as Sandy Gray, Steve Gelley and Alex Clark all displayed good speed and reaction. Clark, a six-foot halfback out of little-known Fort Valley State, was signed at the Alouettes' free-agent camp held in Raleigh, N.C., in the spring. Clark worked out at cornerback yesterday afternoon, leading to speculation that perhaps he might fill the void left by Perry's departure. Terry Peters, another DB candidate who played briefly for the Als last season, is out for at least 10 days with stretched knee ligaments.

CAMP NOTES... Newly-arrived in camp is Howard Hackley, a small (5-9, 175-lb.) wide receiver with good speed. Hackley was also briefly a member of the Als last year — he was picked up the week prior to the Grey Cup when Bob Gaddis was injured, but never saw action. Both Hackley and Ed Wright, a bigger man at six feet, were singled out by Scanela as being "very fast"... Veteran defensive end Gordon Judges was holding back a little, in respect, no doubt, to his "empty" knees (they've been operated on countless times). Coach Scanela has told him to pick out the drills he feels he needs to participate in and sit out the others — "I know what he can do; when we get to once-a-day workouts, he'll be fine," the coach said. Nick Arakgi, the pride of the Bishop's Gaiteers, has impressed the coach with his potential. "He's impressive, an outstanding prospect," Scanela commented, but he's young and has a lot to learn — it's going to be a battle (at this camp). I believe he has a very fine future."

ALS RECEIVE PUBLIC SUNDAY

SHERBROOKE — On Sunday, June 10, two days before their first exhibition game at the 'Big O', the Alouettes will receive the population of Sherbrooke and surroundings at their training camp at the University of Sherbrooke. This day has become a tradition during training camp of the Als.

Since 1975, the Als, together with their sponsors, O'Keefe and Pepsi-Cola, have received the local population at the site of their training camp. In the past, the citizens of St. Jean were invited to the fete when the team was at the College Militaire Royal on three occasions (1975, '77 and '78). In 1976, the day was held in Lennoxville when the team trained at Bishop's University.

This year, the general public will have the chance to see the Alouettes practice twice during the day, as there will be two sessions, one at 9:30 a.m. and the other at 3:30 p.m.

Refreshments, drawings for tickets to Als games and other prizes will be drawn. Furthermore, the sales personnel for the Alouette team will be on hand to offer any information or assistance which anyone might require. Identity cards will not be necessary on Sunday, and the general public will be allowed to view the practice from front row center, an opportunity that does not occur very often for free.

The staff has already noticed a consistent following of faithful who come to watch the practices every day and sit quietly along the fence surrounding the practice field.

GRAZYS LEAVES J.H. PRICE CENTRE

By MATTHEW ELDER

LENOXVILLE — After three years at the helm, John H. Price Sports and Recreation Centre Director Al Grazy has resigned. Grazy has gone to Vancouver to join a friend in a chemical manufacturing business.

"It was a surprise to us all," Bishop's University Athletic Director Bruce Coulter said yesterday. Bishop's shares the Lennoxville facility with Champlain Regional College.

"It should be noted that the Centre was extremely well run during its first three years — we were lucky to have a man of his organizational capabilities here," Coulter said.

Effective Monday, Tom Allen, former Director of Athletics at Champlain, took over Grazy's position. The move leaves CRC without an athletic department head. Athletic staff member Ian Rowe has taken on the duties temporarily until a successor can be found. The process is apparently a lengthy one — the position must be advertised both internally and externally, candidates must be reviewed by selection committees and so forth.

No word was given on when an announcement might be made. Acting athletic director Rowe is the college's men's soccer coach and is actively involved in many areas of Champlain's athletic program.

Allen was head coach of the Champlain Cougars football team and his assistant, Ian Breck, has taken on the top coaching job.

Legion, ANAF split

BY GUS HAIG

LENOXVILLE — Little was settled over the weekend as the North Hatley Legion and the Army-Navy-Air Force, who are both hot on the tail of the Golden Lion Pub in Division 1 of the Massawippi Valley Softball League, split a doubleheader on Sunday in North Hatley.

In the first game of the twin bill, pitcher Dave Cochrane of the ANAF stymied the Legion 7-3. Cochrane helped his own cause with a pair of hits. Aubrey Graham and Bruce Hodge also collected two hits apiece. However in the second game, the Legion won a squeaker 2-1. Bob Lamey, who leads the loop in home runs (8) as well as runs batted in (18), cracked a two-run shot to give Jack Bruun all the runs he needed, as Bruun raised his pitching record to five wins against three losses. Roger Warren hit a solo shot in a losing cause.

In other games Sunday, the Ayer's Cliff Blues upset their arch-rivals, the Ayer's Cliff Reds 9-5, and Bill's Country's Kitchen and Sawyerville split a doubleheader. Sawyerville won the opener 9-6, while the CK came back to win the second 3-2. In the Ayer's Cliff game, Claude Dupuis hit a three-run homer in the first inning off losing pitcher Billy Goodsell (3-6). Denis Boulet, who was tagged for a round-tripper by the Reds Henry Rathier, picked up his second win of the campaign. Meanwhile in Sawyerville, the clutch hitting of Denis Gagnon, Ross Bell and Yvon Perron proved enough, while the CK salvaged the split on the strength of some home run power by Mario Carrier and Sylvain Petit. Bill's received a strong pitching performance from Andre Boudreau who limited Sawyerville to a mere four hits.

In other action earlier in the week, the Golden Lion continued their winning ways as they won twice Thursday night, the Pub bounced Waterville 12-3, as Steve Mitchell and John Laberee were perfect at the plate. Mitchell cracked his fifth homer of the season. Mike Hallam allowed only four Waterville hits, John Irving had two RBIs for Waterville. On Tuesday evening, the Pub downed Huntingville 8-1. Hallam continued his strong pitching, allowing just two hits — he sparked offensively as well, going two for three with a home run. Jim Grwdy, Chris Mitchell and Douglas MacKenzie also banged out two hits apiece in the victory. Larry Brazel (2-2) suffered the loss for Huntingville.

Elsewhere, the Reds of Ayer's Cliff, paced by the hitting of Bill Goodsell, Stan Holmes and Mike Mooney, downed the plucky Compton squad 7-5 on Wednesday night. Ron Haseltine, who is struggling on the mound thus far this season, took the loss, his fifth of the year.

In perhaps the finest game of the season to date, the ANAF won a thriller over the North Hatley Legion, 11-10. The Legion seemingly had the game won until a last inning rally by the ANAF produced four runs and the victory. The individual hero for the ANAF was Larry Rosebush who was a perfect three for three at the plate including the game-winning hit. Stan Cathcart was the winning pitcher in relief, while Jack Bruun was tagged with the loss. Bruce Burnham shone in defeat as he collected three hits good for three RBIs. Dennis Tobin, the loop's leading hitter, was two for four in that tilt as well.

In upcoming games this week, the Golden Lion will travel to Huntingville tonight, while Sawyerville and the Reds will do battle in Ayer's Cliff tomorrow evening.

Expos' big inning clobbers Braves

ATLANTA (AP) — Tony Perez was a bit astonished when he stepped up to bat for the second time in the fourth inning.

"I looked up and there still was nobody out — I never saw that before," said the Montreal first baseman, who slapped out his second hit of the inning.

The Expos trailed 2-0 when Perez led off with a single against Atlanta's Phil Niekro, 6-9. Before the inning was over, the Expos had picked up 11 runs — nine of them before an out was recorded — nine hits and two walks, the Braves had committed three errors and a wild pitch, and every player in the Montreal lineup had scored at least once.

The final score was 12-2. "The last time I saw an inning like that was when I played for the Brooklyn Dodgers," said Expos' manager Dick Williams. "We got 13 runs that time." In that game March 24, 1953, the Dodgers scored 12 runs against Philadelphia Phillies without an out being made in one inning. That still holds as a major league record.

KEPT COMING

"We beat Atlanta 19-0 here last year, but we generally don't fare that well against them," Williams said. "We didn't overpower Niekro, but they kept coming and we kept taking them."

Braves manager Bobby Cox was at a loss for words. "No matter what we did, we just couldn't get them out," he said.
