MILITARY CAMP IN FULL SWING

More Regiments Arrive and the Serious Business of the Camp Has Begun.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Three Rivers, June 27.—The military camp here is now in full swing. Four regiments, the 11th Argentuil Rangers, the 64th Voltigueurs, the 83rd Joliette, and the 85th, Montreal, arived on Tuesday, and by six o'clock on that day were established in their allotted places without mishap. The Army Service Corps, as an advance guard had already been on the field, and the principal arrangements were in readiness for their arrival.

By yesterday all were ready to enter on serious work and in the afternoon all were out for parade drill and inspection. Upwards of two thousand men answered the roll call, after two hours' instruction had been gone through.

The same old camping ground, which was secured by the militia department six years ago, is again in use. That the choice was an admirable one, was evidenced yesterday, when, after several hours downpour of rain, the field was still in a fit conditon for the evolutions of the troops.

Work on the ranges, which are quite close to the camping ground, commences to-day. Several companies of the 83rd and the 11th did some work yesterday in preparation, being put through the usual rifle exercises by Captains Milotte and Cushing.

DETAILS TO ARRANGE.

The camp fittings have yet to receive the final details of equipment. The electric lighting, the water, and the telephone installations are complete, but several minor details in furnishings, especially the cook's department, are yet to be added.

The citizens of Three Rivers are taking a keen interest in all that pertains to the camp; and they have again offered for a tug-of-war competition the silver cup which was secured by public subscription two years ago. The 11th, the 83rd and the 85th have signified their intention of competing. The teams, under the rules established, are to consist of seven men each and these are to be picked from among the commissioned officers only. The judges of the contest are to be appointed by the Citizens' Committee, and the rope used is to be paid for by the winning team. The trophy, a very handsome piece of silverware, is to become the property of the victorious seven. It is now on exhibition in a Notre Dame street store.

The first offence against military rule occurred yesterday when a private of the 83rd refused to obey an order of his captain. He was immediately ordered to the guard house and will receive judgment to-day.

BELLEVILLE GAS WORKS DESTROYED BY FIRE TO-DAY

Special to The Montreal Star.

Belleville, Ont., June 27.—The building of the Belleville Gas Works, which are owned by the city, was burned down about 3 o'clock this morning, but it is reported that the plant and retorts are uninjured. The fire is believed to be of incendiary origin. About 8 a.m. the man whose duty it was to wheel out the coke says he saw a fire which had been started just outside the building, up against the wall. It looked as though a lot of wood had been piled there. He ran in to get a bucket of water, and called his assistant to come and help him. When they got back the fire had got beyond their control, and an alarm was sent in. During the last two months there have been many fires at the gas house, and it is reported that one insurance company cancelled its policy only a few days ago, which was, however, immediately taken up by another company. When the new manager, Mr. Thos. Gardner, came here, he met with considerable opposition, and the entire old staff quit. The fire this morning is covered by an inurance of $8,000. An investigation into the cause of the fire is likely to be held.

Steamer Ashore in Fog.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Halifax, N. S., June 27.—Norwegian steamer Oscar II, Wabana for North Sydney, with 5,000 tons of ore, went ashore during a heavy fog to-day, on the rocks at Smith's Island, C.B. Several tugs have gone to her assistance, but the position is a dangerous one and it is feared she cannot be saved.

WHAT MR. EMMERSON WAS FIGHTING FOR

He Says He Was Vindicating His Honor as a Man—Montreal "Plot."

Toronto, June 27.—"My fight has been simply for the vindication of my honor as a man, and I have never made it the fight of the Liberal party," said Hon. H. R. Emmerson, ex-Minister of Railways and Canals, last night, when interviewed. Mr. Emmerson is bound for West Virginia, where he has important business interests.

Referring to the case against Mr. James H. Crocket, the editor of the Fredericton Gleaner, he said: "It has been wholly dealt with by the Conservative press of Canada from a political standpoint, which convinces one that there is no high moral aim in view. That the morals of the question is not at all the moving feature impelling those who indulged in the defamatory words seems quite clear. They have no high moral purpose to serve.

"It was a plot conceived for political purposes, and the Liberal party must strike back. The comments of some of the Toronto newspapers indicate that they consider it my political defeat, as if that were the main consideration. It may seem so to them, but my political destruction certainly will not in any way help the Conservative party in New Brunswick, because the vitality of the Liberal party is there, and in my small way, I will always fight for its success, as I have done since 1878. I think the animus shown me will be an incentive to greater activity on my part than ever before.

"I have reason to believe," said Mr. Emmerson in conclusion, "that the defamatory statements against me originated in Montreal, and certainly the headquarters of the defence is to be found in that city. The whole thing has been originated as a feature of the campaign of scandal directed against the Liberal party."

BOMB KILLED TWO BROTHERS

Many Were Injured in the Tiflis Square Explosion.

Tiflis, June 27.—The police have not succeeded in making any arrests in connection with yesterday's bomb outrage.

Later in the day a bomb exploded in house adjoining Erivan Square, killing two brothers and wounding a third, who were trying to hide a quantity of revolutionary articles.

More than fifty persons were injured in the bomb outrage yesterday, and $170,000 was stolen.

MR. BORDEN GIVES A BIRTHDAY CHAT

On His Fifty-third Birthday Opposition Leader Talks of Canada's Mighty Growth.

Ottawa, June 27.—Mr. R. L. Borden, M.P., leader of the Conservative Opposition in the House of Commons, yesterday received many congratulations upon the occasion of his fifty-third birthday.

Interviewed, Mr. Borden spoke of the great material prosperity of the Dominion and reflected more critically on its advance in some other respects. He said: "The progress of Canada even in my time has been all that the most intense enthusiasts anticipated. I can recollect when Nova Scotia was a separate province, and when we school boys used to collect the old Nova Scotian postage stamps. There was then no Intercolonial Railway, and, indeed, only a few miles of railway in that province. The journey from Halifax to Ottawa occupied nearly a week. When, in 1855, I first came to the Supreme Court of Canada, that journey occupied nearly 48 hours, and now it can be accomplished in less than 30. This is only one illustration of the enormous advance in the facilities for transportation accomplished throughout the country.

"The different communities throughout the enormous area of Canadian territory are beginning to know each other better, although much still remains to be accomplished in this regard. The material prosperity of the people in various industries and the means of transportation both by rail and water, have increased to a marvellous degree within my recollection. Canada has received her full share of the tremendous commercial and industrial expansion and prosperity which during recent years have prevailed throughout the world.

"One can thus draw a roseate, but a true, picture of the commercial and industrial development of our country. The more important question remains, as to whether there has been a corresponding moral and intellectual improvement and advancement. Are the standards of public opinion higher than those of thirty years ago? Does the commercial spirit dominate too greatly? Is aught unforgiven to him who acquires a great fortune? Have we not forgotten some things of importance in the fierce race for sudden wealth, and in the uses to which it is applied? There are more books, and, perhaps, more book-learning, but is there truer education than there was thirty years ago? The true answer to these and many other similar questions would not give us in Canada to-day much cause for self-congratulation."

CANADA CAN NOW CHOOSE IMMIGRANTS

May Leave Certain Ones to Other Colonies—Empress Passengers for Canada.

By Special Cable from our own Correspondent in London.

London, June 27.—Hon. Thomas Bent, Premier of Victoria, sails on the Empress of Ireland to-morrow, returning to Australia. He proved the most outspoken critic of the British Ministry's attitude at the Colonial conference, resulting in Elgin's refusal to invite State premiers and give them Imperial recognition.

The poularity of the Canadian route to the Antipodes was also attested by the choice of the Empress of Ireland by Lady Plunkett, wife of the Governor of New Zealand, and daughter. Marconi and his wife will also sail tomorrow in connection with his Canadian enterprises. Bruce Walter, who succeeded Prestor as the head of the Canadian Emigration office here, leaves to-morrow for a visit to Ottawa. The feeling is growing that the time is approaching when Canada may do well to put some check on movements for assistance to out-of-works through Boards of Guardians and other municipal charity bodies. The best classes of emigrants are unquestionably those who pay their own fares. These better classes will go to Canada anyway and the question is being quietly discussed whether Canada might not leave the less desirables, who need assistance, to Australia and other Colonies.

Among other Empress of Ireland passengers are Hon. Adam Beck and Col. Lessard, both of whom have been concerned in the International horse show in London, and W. Shaughnessy, son of the president of the Canadian Pacific.

OBSTRUCTION TO THE CANADIAN BILL

By Special Cable from our own Correspondent in London.

London, June 27.—Premier McBride, of British Columbia closes his mission to London to-day, and sails in the Empress of Ireland to-morrow. It is not expected that the obstruction to the British North America bill in the House of Commons will prove serious. A little group of Opposition members, including Banbury, Clarkie and Hay, are not sorry for any opportunity of giving Winston Churchill and the Government a dig, but they are most unlikely to go the length of imperilling the bill. It will, however, now need a special push to pass the bill through both Houses before July first. The suggestion that McBride is in any way responsible for the obstruction is not seriously credited.

COLLINS MURDER TRIAL.

Evidence of the Late Father McAulay Was Read.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Hopewell Cape, N. B., June 27.—Yesterday afternoon, good progress was made in the Collins murder trial. William Simpson, station agent, Intercolonial Railway, Anagance, swore that on or about the 21st day of August, he sold a second class ticket for St. John to a man whom he took to be a sailor by his dress, and a few days later, he saw the same man in custody of Sheriff Lynds, of Albert.

The reading of the evidence of the late Father McAulay occupied all the afternoon. Mrs. Nellie Turner, Ruth Leamon, and her son Charles, who lived on the Kent Road, in the parish of Elgin, between five and six miles from Father McAulay's house, detailed, as before, the visit of the prisoner to Mrs. Leamon's home on the 20th August, and getting his dinner, and his statement to them that while he, the prisoner, and Mary Ann McAulay were absent from Father McAulay's house on a fishing trip during Saturday and Sunday, the horse, buggy and harness of Father McAulay had been stolen, and that the prisoner was going to Elgin in search of the rig. They all swore that he was carrying two valises, which appeared to be those in court.

Killed by a Waggon.

Winnipeg, June 27.—A lad named W. Plumridge, aged 4 1-2 years, was instantly killed yesterday by falling beneath the wheels of an asphalt waggon.

CHRISTOFORE WILL GO BACK TO HAMILTON

Was Agent of the Toronto Labor Bureau and Got Into Trouble.

A gentleman sporting the swagger name of Kiovanni Christofore is at present on a visit to this city from Hamilton, Ont. He arrived yesterday afternoon, but his trip has been unexpectedly cut short by the appearance of Detective Cotter, with whom he will return this evening to Hamilton.

Kiovanni is an Italian, but he fancies himself, as a fluent orator in English and Irish and occasionally assumes the names of John Christopher and Patrick Duffy. This talented individual is wanted in connection with $500 which have somehow or other gone astray. He was the Hamilton agent of a Toronto Labor Bureau and Leopold Scarronne the head of the Toronto office is the complainant. Apparently Scarronne decided to pay a call upon his Hamilton agent, but on doing so found the office deserted and closed up.

The police were informed and by means of a long ladder gained entrance to the place through the window. As a sequel to the investigations which followed Scarronne declared that he had been robbed of $500. A description of the missing man was wired to the principal police stations in Canada and the United States and yesterday afternoon he was arrested in the vicinity of Bonaventure Station. He had in his possession $700.

MAY MEET NEXT YEAR IN MONTREAL

Montreal Branch Will Likely Extend Invitation to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

It is likely that at the annual meeting of the Montreal section of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which is being held this afternoon at the offices of the branch in the Board of Trade building, the advisability of extending an invitation from the Metropolis to the association to hold next year's convention in Montreal will be taken up. The next convention of the association will be held in Toronto in September. There is a feeling that Montreal is a suitable place for the following general meeting. The association convention was held in Montreal in 1904. Owing to the necessity of providing extensive hotel accommodation, such gatherings are confined to the larger centres, the association's meetings so far having been held in Montreal, Toronto, Quebec and Winnipeg. Vancouver is anxious to secure the gathering next year, but it seems likely that acceptance of that invitation will be left over until 1909.

Other business of the annual meeting will be the reception of reports and the usual discussion of routine matters.

The ballots received for the various candidates for the eighteen representatives to the executive from Montreal, will have all been received by the time of the meeting. They will then be given over to the scrutineers to be counted. The result of the vote will be made known to-morrow.

NEW YORK PAPER DEFENDS CANADA

The Sun Replies to Critic and Shows How Canada is Developing All Along.

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, June 27.—The Sun says: "W. R. Givens, a man of Canadian birth and American residence, in a recent number of the Independent, submitted a review of Canadian conditions on which the present popular opinion regarding Canada and its progress is quite flatly contradicted. We have come to look upon Canada—and we believe with good reasons for doing so—as a progressive country, developing rapidly on a sound basis, and destined to play a much larger part in the affairs of the world in the immediate future. With the statement that there is little real Canadianism in the Dominion, and really no such thing as true Canadian spirit, we cannot agree in any way. It does not accord with the facts. The federation of 1867 was the first decisive step in the march of a distinct sentiment of Canadian nationality, and on every later page of the history of the Dominion there is recorded the advance of that sentiment. There is still loyalty to England and there should be, so long as Canada remains even nominally a colony, but Canada's self-government is now virtually absolute with the exception of the treaty-making power and the inherent, though infrequently exercised, right of her citizens as British subjects to appeal from decisions of the Supreme Court to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council of Great Britain. These form only the slenderest of political ties and only a little strain would be needed to break them.

M. S. R. DOES NOT OWE CITY A CENT

Managing Director Ross Contends That Statement at City Hall is Not Correct.

"Not one cent does the Montreal Street Railway owe to the City of Montreal," was the reply made to-day by Mr. W. G. Ross, managing director of that company, when questional relative to the statement made before the City Council, that the company was in arrears to the extent of $50,000 taxes on poles and wires.

According to Mr. Ross, "the company has a contract with the city with regard to the operation of their cars, and are carrying it out to the letter, and the public should not be misled by extravagant statements with regard to such matters. The city two years ago placed a tax on all poles and wires in the city and set up a ridiculous claim against this company in the face of the rights granted us fifteen years ago by the city itself and for which we pay liberally.

"The tax was aimed at companies using the streets which do not pay a toll to the city treasury and had no contract with the city, and I cannot understand the procedure of trying to drag us into the question, which will only terminate by the public being put to useless expense. The money might well be spent in other directions."

CHURCH UNION IN IMMIGRATION

Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists to Co-operate.

CHAPLAINS WORK TOGETHER

Rev. Frank J. Day, of Montreal, the Congregationalist Superintendent, Tells of Value of Work.

The Rev. Frank J. Day, of Montreal, at the annual meeting of the Congregational Union, of Canada, held in Hamilton, Ont. recently, was appointed the Union's representative at Quebec. The title of Superintendent of Immigration was conferred upon him.

For the past four weeks, Mr. Day has met the various steamers arriving at the Ancient Capital from the old land, and during that time has welcomed to Canada's shores 306 Congregationalists, men, women and children.

"No previous intimation of the arrival of these people had been received," says Mr. Day. "They were found out by search among the second and third-class passengers, and as it was impossible to cover the whole ground, it is not known how many more may have passed through without being interviewed by myself and other Congregationalists."

Of the number met, 113 were going to Winnipeg and beyond, and 193 to points east of Winnipeg. The figures were somewhat of a surprise to Mr. Day, as well as to others, as the general impression was that the majority of the newcomers were bound for the West, and would, therefore, be lost to the Congregational fold, owing to the small number of churches of that denomination in Western Canada.

PRACTICAL UNION.

Plans for thorough co-operation between the representatives of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches, in the matter of meeting and welcoming immigrants at Quebec, are being matured as rapidly as possible. One room is occupied by the different representatives as headquarters. Each representative is furnished with the cards used by the others, and these are given out to new arrivals in order to serve as an introduction to the minister of their denomination in the town or city to which they are ticketed. A badge, bearing the word "Chaplain" and the names of the three denominations, is also used, and notices, cards, and so forth, for special use on board ship among the second-class passengers are to be issued in the names of the three churches. It is hoped that in this way the ground may be more thoroughly covered and more people reached and helped. The representatives, says Mr. Day, are rejoicing in this practical expression of Church Union.

WORK YET IN INFANCY.

At the best, however, Mr. Day feels that it will be impossible to meet all the people of any one denomination; but as the plan becomes known in England and the newcomers are on the watch for the chaplain the efficiency of the whole system will be notably increased. This year must, therefore, be largely a study of conditions with the purpose of evolving the best possible plans for the continuance of the work in the future.

Mr. Day is confident that the newcomers appreciate what the churches are doing for them and many a one has told him that it was an unexpected courtesy to be thus met at the threshold of a strange country by a representative of the churches. He looks for good results to accrue from the work the representatives of the different denominations are doing.

Take a Rest in Colorado

$30 Round Trip From Chicago

Burlington Route

Proportionately low rates from Eastern points.

If you have never been there, you have no idea what a "rest in Colorado" means.

The tonic mountain air and the continuous sunshine bring color to the cheek, brightness to the eye, a spring to the step and buoyancy to the spirit. You want to "do things" out doors all the time, and nowhere are there greater opportunities for this than in Colorado.

Let me send you our handbook telling all about what you can do, where you can stay and what it costs, the beauty of the scenery and the comforts of the Burlington train service. Drop me a postal, and do it to-day.

TESTIMONIAL TO CUTICURA

"I suffered a severe attack of eczema on the scalp, face, ears, and neck, and was for several months under professional treatment, but became worse. My face was dreadfully disfigured, and I lost nearly all my hair. My wife prevailed upon me to try the Cuticura Remedies, which I did with most satisfactory results, the disease disappearing and my hair growing thicker and glossier than before my illness. My wife has purchased Cuticura for other sufferers, with good results in each case.—Robert Isaac Finnemore (Judge of the Natal Supreme Court), Pietermaritzburg, Natal."

The British Preferential Tariff.

Canadian Associated Press.

London, June 27.—"We can talk preference until the crack of doom," says Mr. L. G. Chiozza-Money, M.P., "but the Canadian manufacturer will blandly reply by continuing to extend to us a British 'preferential' tariff high enough to protect himself. In fine, the Canadian manufacturer has aimed at securing the home market, and has got it. He has not the slightest intention of letting us in."

MORE RAINY DAY TALK ABOUT BALL PLAYERS

Barger Has Been Sold to Rochester—Kit Still Spending Money on Telegrams—A Pleasing Decision Handed Down on Mr. Flood.

Fifteen days in the cooler ought to work wonders in calming the turbulent emotions of the versatile Mr. Flood, who second bases for Toronto.

Mr. Flood has already been under the ban for getting rough house with the Ump, and his sudden exit from the scene of his activities to a fifteen day stone-crushing performance in the Toronto jail was exactly the brand of medicine needed to show him that even an Ump cannot be jumped on and spiked in the solar plexus.

Mr. Flood's attack was a cowardly one, and the way Magistrate Denison handed him the fifteen day holiday from his second base labors pleased everyone but Mr. Flood.

A peppery ball player who does a little sane kicking and livens up the game is not always a nuisance, but the thugs who argue with their spikes and strike the arbitrators, need just the kind of treatment that the Toronto Magistrate invented for the skilful second baser.

Quarts of blood are lost every year in hockey and lacrosse mix-ups, and while baseball players do a lot of kicking they are seldom known to wilfully injure one another or try to do bodily harm to the Ump.

Mr. Flood excelled himself, however, and for the good of the game we rejoice to observe that he got all that was coming to him.

Barger, our six-foot three heaver, has been sold to Rochester.

The long pitcher came to Montreal with a good reputation as a curve dispenser, but he failed to make good for more than three consecutive minutes.

None of the fans seemed to be pleased with his work, and the only hold he had upon their affections was his ability to pole out a long swat when he came to the bat.

Barger didn't seem to have anything in the way of benders, and he was advised to give up the pitching game and get into training for a job in the outfield.

Rochester is shy of pitchers, and were ready to grasp at anybody who could make a bluff at heaving.

Kit's deals to strengthen the team are still hanging fire, and he is ready to take out an affidavit before any responsible notary that he has blown in 74 per cent. of the gate receipts in telegrams entreating the best fielding and swatting talent to come here and lift us out of last place.

The truth of the matter is that good ball players are scarcer than mosquitoes in Iceland and money can't buy them.

Half the big League teams are scouring the country for players and good men these days can stick their feet up on the piano and tell the manager to go and chase himself around the block.

However, Kit says he can land two beauts if they are content to toil for something less than a million dollars a minute.

Our old college chum and boon companion Hatpin Smink is umpiring in one of the western leagues.

Montreal fans will never forget Mr. Smink who pulled off a play at Atwater Park unique in the checquered career of crime.

Smink who was playing with Rochester had been having an altercation with one of the Montreal infielders when he was seen to run over to the grandstand and talk to a drug store blonde who was sitting in the front row chewing gum and eating peanuts.

The lady was seen to reach up to her hat and then hand something to Mr. Smink.

The game had been called to accomodate Mr. Smink and he returned hurriedly to second base.

Suddenly Schiebeck let out a horrible yell and pointed excitedly to Mr.

There was no game but the players went out to do a little practise.

Smink who was in the act of drawing that death dealing weapon, a hatpin.

It was Mr. Smink's idea to stick the hatpin into our third-baseman en route to the plate. Wasn't Smink a nice model young man? Wasn't he a lulu?

Smink and Mr. Flood, of Toronto, should be operating on the same team.

Every once and awhile some base runner gets stung by the old trick of a player hiding the ball and tagging him when he moves off the base.

This play must be at least 4,000 years old, but that does not prevent the 1907 sleep walkers getting caught with it.

The dope play has been pulled off twice in the Eastern League this season, and the other day the Chicago Nationals worked it off on St. Louis with the bases full and two out.

What the St. Louis manager said to the trance artist could be heard several miles away.

Ezra Sutton, one of the greatest of the old-time ball players, died this week at the age of 57. Sutton played third base for Boston.

John Kelly, who played in the Montreal outfield and afterwards went to Baltimore, has been returned to that club. Baltimore sold him to the St. Louis Nationals, but he failed to make good.

It is now said that Thoney will stay the season out with Toronto, and will go to the Boston Americans next year.

Wet grounds stopped the games at Atwater Park yesterday, and the grounds, owing to the soaking they got were none too dry this morning.

Providence is here to-day and there will be a double-header on Saturday.

Our friend Mr. Burnham, of Newark, who was with us this week bought a gold brick early this season and hasn't been the same man since. He paid Brooklyn $2,000 for Pitcher Mal Eason.

Eason has been on the pay roll of the Newark Club nearly two months, yet he has been in only one full game and three innings of another game, both of which were lost.

Baseball rules are supposed to cover every possible emergency that may arise during a game—yet a dozen times a week, in some nook or corner of the world, there arises a situation over which there are certain to be bitter disputes, and which the umpire alone may judge.

Even in the big leagues these things occur. One did on the old Eastern Park grounds at Brooklyn in a game between Philadelphia and the Perambulators.

The decision of the umpire was upheld by President Nick Young, although the case still is open to dispute.

It happened that in the seventh innings, with two men on bases, Treadway hit a line drive down the left field line. The ball, beyond doubt, was going foul, for it was curving toward the foul line rapidly. Gaffney, who was umpiring the game, was standing at the plate squinting down the line, his eye following the course of the ball.

Suddenly a flight of pigeons swept along, the ball struck one of the pigeons, knocking it to the earth and the ball itself swerved from its course and struck the ground a foot inside the foul line. The Brooklyn runners raced round the bases, but Gaffney waved them back and declared the hit foul. There was a long wrangle, which resulted in Brooklyn protesting the game, but Uncle Nick upheld Gaffney.

One of the funniest situation that ever came up was at Cincinnati when Joe Kelley, now the Toronto manager, had his "killers" down in St. Louis.

The infield was drawn in slightly, expecting a bunt, and naturally everybody was on tiptoe. The St. Louis batter poked a short bunt down the third-base line, and in an instant McGill, who was pitching, and the third baseman were on top of it. They saw in an instant that it would be impossible to throw out the runner, and waited in the hope that the ball would run foul. It was rolling slowly and was just swerving on to foul ground when a big hop-toad, apparently frightened by the commotion, jumped, struck the ball and sent it back on to fair ground.

McGill picked up the toad and made a hurry-up throw to Kelley, who grabbed it and lined it to second.

Charley Atherton has resigned the management of the Wilmington Tri-State team, and Mixe Grady was yesterday appointed his successor.

Bill Clancy is playing almost errorless ball for Rochester, but is not hitting very close to the .300 class.

THE CORNWALL LACROSSE TEAM WHICH WILL PLAY THE NATIONALS HERE SATURDAY.

LOSS OF FLOOD AFFECTS THE TEAMS

Special to the Montreal Star.

Toronto, Ont., June 27.—The Greys dropped their third straight game to the Kelleyites at Diamond Park yesterday losing by the score of 6 to 3. Little life was exhibited in the play. The severe penalty imposed on Tim Flood casting a deep gloom over the players of both teams alike. Kelley was unable to get into the game on account of his knee having been injured in Tuesday's scuffle, while he was keeping Flood away from Umpire Conway, and Wotell took his place in right field, Mitchell covering second base in the enforced absence of Flood. The visitors had a new man, Oakes, purchased from the Newburgh Club of the Hudson River League, in the middle garden. Killian pitched the first three innings for Providence, but was sent to the bench by the umpire in the fourth after two were out for arguing the point too forcibly in the matter of the base on balls to Weidensaul, which forced in Thoney. While the pets could not connect with Killian as often as they wished, they were helped out by his wildness, no less than three runs being attributed to free transportation, while two tallies were forced in. Stevens replaced Killian, and did good work on the eighth, when a charity and Thoney three bagger and a sacrifice notched two.

Buffalo Won.

Buffalo, June 27.—Buffalo played her usual clever game yesterday, but the same cannot be said of Baltimore, for the Orioles allowed the ball to drop between them, and Adkins once failed to cover first when Dunn and Hunter were after a hot grounder. These omissions all counted to give Buffalo the victory. Umpire Owens is still under the surgeon's care. The lack of an official came very near ending the game at one time, because Baltimore refused to play with a certain ball, claiming that something had been rubbed on it to prevent Adkins from using his spitter. The doctored sphere was finally thrown out. Score:

Practice To-night.

The Y.M.C.A. Association Football Club will hold a practice to-night on the Y.M.C.A. grounds at Atwater Park with the object of choosing teams for the senior and intermediate matches against Rosemount on Saturday. The senior team will go to Brownsburg on Dominion Day to play against a team representing the Dominion Cartridge Company.

HEAVYWEIGHTS TO MEET ON JULY 4TH

A week from to-day the big Squires-Burns fight for the heavyweight championship of the world takes place, and fight fans are making many predictions of the result, and the prevailing opinion seems to be that Squires will be the winner.

Nothing much is known here of the Australian, outside of the ability he has shown in training. He has a tremendous reach, of 74 1-2 inches. Both men have plenty of gameness, and the fight will likely be a hard one.

The weights and measurements of the two men, together with the principal facts in connection with the match, are as below:

Squires	Burns.
5 ft. 10½ in.	Height	5 ft. 7½ in.
172 lbs.	Weight	175 lbs.
40½ in.	Chest	40½ in.
33½ in.	Waist	32½ in.
21¼ in.	Thigh	23 in.
15¾ in.	Calf	16½ in.
10½ in.	Ankle	10½ in.
11¾ in.	Forearm	11¾ in.
7½ in.	Wrist	7¾ in.
13 in.	Biceps	13½ in.
19 in.	Neck	16 in.
75½ in.	Reach	74½ in.

Promoter—Jimmy Coffroth.

Referee—Jim Jeffries.

Seats provided for 9,000 spectators, which is more than ever arranged for any other battle in California.

Price of tickets—General admission, $3; reserved seats, $5, $7.50, and $10; seats in back rows of boxes, $15, and ringside box seats, $20.

Burns is to receive $8,000, win, lose, or draw.

Squires was probably guaranteed at least $5,000.

Jeffries wil get $1,000 for refereeing.

Total cost of fight—About $20,000.

Speaking of the match, recently, Burns said:

"Squires, you know, is just from Australia, where they have had a good many great fighters. He's an odd sort of character, and is by no means a bad fighter, from all export accounts. There has long been a longing for some big guy to but into the game and make it interesting. Squires seems to be that man. All these conditions make you fellows fall hard for him. You play him up because he gives you a good chance to get away with the bunk. No knock meant, old boy, but it's a fact.

'On the other hand, Ive had a harder time coming up. This O'Brien affair didn't help me any. I'm not to blame in any way, for when I once got into the ring I fought, and fought to win. I still maintain I'm right. They call me a fakir. I didn't fake. I fought.

"And when I meet Squires, I'll fight again. There's nothing in it. I'll win if he will only fight, as they say he can. I am faster than he is, they all say. I can hit as hard and you know I can mix it up and take punishment."

Squire's opinion, reported by a 'Frisco reporter, is characteristic of the man. 'Don't be on me," he says. "Not that I am not sure of winning. I would not be over here now if I did not think I could win. But that is my opinion. I'm not asking anybody else to entertain it. I don't know much about American fighters. Maybe I have underrated them. So don't bet on anything I say. Just wait and see what happens."

HANDICAPS TO-NIGHT.

The third of the weekly M. A. A. A. handicaps will take place to-night on the association's grounds, commencing at 6.30 o'clock, when the following events will be run off: 440 yards, putting the 16 lb. shot, high jump, and two miles. A great deal of interest is being taken by the M. A. A. A. athletic members this season in the handicaps, and the entry list in consequence is much larger than has been the case hitherto. The official schedule for the rest of the season is as follows:

July 4.—100 yards, 880 yards, broad jump, 220 yards, low hurdles.

July 11.—220 yards, 1 mile, 120 yards' hurdles, putting 56 lb. weight.

July 18.—440 yards, putting 16 lb. shot, high jump, 3 miles.

July 25.—100 yards, 880 yards, broad jump, 220 yards' low hurdles.

August 1.—220 yards, 1 mile, 120 yards' hurdles, putting 56 lb. weight.

August 8.—440 yards, putting 16 lb. shot, high jump, 2 miles.

August 15.—100 yards, 880 yards, broad jump, 220 yards' low hurdles.

August 22.—220 yards, 1 mile, 120 yards, putting 56 lb. weight.

August 29.—440 yards, putting 16 lb. shot, high jump, 3 miles.

WON'T BE IN LONG.

Believed That Hon. Mr. Aylesworth Will Consent to His Release.

Toronto, Ont., June 27.—While the upholders of law and order are satisfied with Col Denison's disposal of Tim Flood's case, the general opinion is that Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, will allow the ex-Toronto second baseman his liberty before many days.

Messrs. J. J. McCaffery, K.C., Solman and J. Walter Curry, K.C., were at the Parliament buildings yesterday afternoon in the hope of interesting the Premier and Attorney-General in securing Flood's release, but were unable to reach the Premier and Hon. J. J. Foy, who were engaged on important appointments. The deputation will renew the effort this morning.

MONTREAL MAN SELECTED.

Toronto, June 27.—Fritz R. Martin, of Hamilton Golf Club, George S. Lyon and A. E. Austin, of the Lambton Golf Club, have already been chosen on the Canadian team in the Olympia contest for teams at Cleveland, July 8. Gerald Lees, of the Outremont Golf Club, Montreal, and W. A. H. Kerr, of the Toronto Golf Club, will probably be asked to complete the team.

Britt-Nelson Fight Postponed.

San Francisco, June 27.—The Britt-Nelson fight which was scheduled for July 3rd, was postponed last night until July 31. The reason given for the postponement is the inability of Nelson to continue training owing to an abscess in his ear. The referee for the fight will be chosen July 15.

WINNERS DISQUALIFIED AT KENILWORTH

Mocksie in Jumping Race and John J. Rodgers in Last Event—Both Set Back For Fouling—Jockey Set Down For Remainder of Week.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Buffalo, June 27.—Two winners were disqualified at Kenilworth yesterday afternoon. Mooksie in the jumping race and John J. Rogers in the final event. Mooksie, which is a hard horse to handle, cut off Rockstrom and Dawson after taking the twelfth jump, and after hearing the evidence of Mr. Taylor, rider of the Rockstrom, and Jockey Hagan, who rode Dawson, the stewards set back Mooksie, which finished first by two lengths, placing Rockstrom first, Dawson second and Dr. Keith third. While Mooksie might have won, barring interference, the disqualification was a just one, Dr. Keith opened favorite in the race but a plunge on Rockstrom forced the latter into favoritism, at post time.

John J. Rogers, which captured the final event of the day, was the second winner to be set back. Rogers, off well, forced a fast pace in this race, but in the stretch began to tire, swerving and interfering with Zippango. He was accordingly set back and Zippango given the race. Fleming, the favorite, was placed second and Lyndhurst third. Zippango was well played by the smart ones and it is understood that a heavy commission was placed on the horse in outside poolrooms. He ran a cracking good race and would have won had not Rogers interfered with his chances. Nicol rode a nice race on the good thing.

Tickle yesterday demonstrated that her defeat by Spion a few days ago was rather a fluke as the Filigrane mare yesterday reeled off the half furlongs in the fast time of 1.07 2-5, taking the measure of Spion. Revenge and Kankakee. The latter made the pace to the half, where Diggins made his move, sent to the finish, Spion was made favorite and was well played on the race of a few days ago. At the end Tickle was galloping, winning by three lengths. Revenge was third, five lengths back of Spion and a head in front of Kankakee.

Apple Toddy was made favorite in the opening race event, at 4 1-2 furlongs for two year olds. Eight faced the barrier and the start was a poor one, Apple Toddy was off badly and Nicol was forced to work his way through the bunch. He never was able to catch the flying Larkin, which secured a running start and had an advantage of two lengths before the rest of the field got fairly started. Apple Toddy made up ground and finished second in front of the fast coming Cleil Turney. Inauguration came through from behind on the turn home, but the effort told and Inauguration finished fourth.

St. Joseph, the 7 to 10 favorite in the fourth event, a race at a mile and forty yards, was soundly beaten by Posing. The latter assumed a winning lead going round the first turn, increasing it on the back stretch and was only cantering at the finish. St. Joseph closed fast in the stretch and took second place from Request; Gilpin carrying a heavy impost of 111 pounds won the fifth race from Peter Knight, Gilpin was made favorite in this event, but had to be ridden out to stall off Peter Knight, which came fast all of the last furlong. Picaroon finished third.

The stewards set Jockey Englander down for the remainder of the week for foul riding on John J. Rogers in the last race. Investigation showed that Jockey McClain on Mooksie was not to blame for cutting across Rockstrom and Dawson in the jumping race. Mooksie is rather a hard horse to keep straight and no doubt the rider was blameless when the foul was committed.

The sumamry:

First race, 4 1-2 furlongs—Larakin, 5 to 1, won; Apple Toddy, 6 to 5, second; Cleil Turney, 7 to 2, third. Time, .55.

Second race, steeplechase, about two miles—Rockstorm, 4 to 1, won; Dawson, 5 to 2, second; Dr. Keith, 5 to 2, third. Time, 4.04 2-5.

Third race, 5 1-2 furlongs—Tickle, 8 to 5, won; Spion, 4 to 5, second; Revenue, 5 to 1, third. Time, 1.07 2-5.

Fourth race, mile 40 yards — Posing, 5 to 2, won; St. Joseph, 4 to 5, second; Request, 5 to 1, third. Time, 1.43.

Fifth race, 1 1-8 miles—Gilpin, 2 to 1, won; Peter Knight, 6 to 1, second; Picaroon, 8 to 1, third. Time, 1.53 4-5.

Sixth race, mile—Zippango, 2 to 1, won; Fleming, 4 to 5, second; Lyndhurst, 20 to 1, third. Time, 1.40 4-5.

NATIONAL PLAYER REPORTED TO LEAGUE

Clement, of Nationals, has been reported to the National Lacrosse Union by Dr. Austin D. Irvine, who refereed the Capital-National match last Saturday, for rough work and abusive language. When Dr. Irvine ruled Clement off for ten minutes for striking Gaul on the head with his stick, he called the referee a vile name, for which his penalty was doubled. Upon this Clement seemed to lose his head completely, and he flatly refused to leave the field, all the while keeping up a volley of abuse directed at the referee. Even his own team-mates, who were endeavoring hard to persuade him to leave the field, could not induce him to be quiet, and Dr. Irvine says the only thing to do with such a player is to report him to the N. L. U., and let the executive of that body deal with him.

It is not probable that Decarie, of the Nationals, one of the best defence fields in the country, will be seen on the lacrosse field again this season, in the capacity of spectator, he saw his team mates down the champions on Saturday, but on Sunday he was taken to the Hotel Dieu suffering from pleurisy and inflammation of the lungs. He underwent an operation Tuesday, and was reported yesterday as doing well. Although his case is not critical, it will be several weeks before he can leave the hospital. His loss will be a severe blow to the Nationals, as he was a fast, clean and clever player.

The officials for the Cornwall-National match at Maisonneuve, on Saturday, have not been agreed on yet. Ald. Tom O'Connell would prove acceptable to both teams, but as he is going to New York with the Shamrocks, he will be unable to act. This means that President Tom Carlind will probably have to appoint officials, as it is unlikely that any agreement will be reached. The Factory Town team is just as anxious to win as the French-Canadians. They see no reason why they should not be able to down the Nationals at Maisonneuve, seeing that they whitewashed the Capitals in Ottawa, and gave the Tecumsehs a hard run in Toronto. The Nationals have been working very hard this week, and Jack Tucker, who is confident of downing Cornwall, says he will be very much disappointed if they lose another match on their own grounds this season.

Montreal is in first class condition for the game with Jimmy Murphy's team in Toronto on Dominion Day, and should certainly win out if form counts. It will be over two weeks since their encounter with the Shamrocks, while the Torontos will probably be stiff and sore after their struggle against Tecumsehs at Hanlan's Island on Saturday. If Montreal puts up the game they played against the Shamrocks they should win out, provided that Roddy Finlayson plays defence. The big fellow would have little trouble in blocking the light Toronto home men from running in on Muir, or in passing the ball out to the Montreal home fielders.

Each time a National player is penalized he is severely reprimanded by the executive, and a black mark is placed opposite his name. In the event of his team making a particularly good showing, his chances of a bonus are slim, if he has many such marks registered at the end of the season. It is also part of the agreement with the men that if a player is penalized in the last quarter when the score is close he must submit to a fine of $5. The majority of the men receive $20 per match.

It is expected that Ashfield, of the Capitals, who is suffering from a very sore knee, as the result of an injury sustained in practice, will be able to play against the Shamrocks on Saturday week.

A number of admirers will accompany the Shamrocks to-morrow night on their trip to New York, where they will meet the Crescents of Brooklyn, at Bay Ridge on Saturday. Bob Wall and Billy Dobby, of the Crescents, are both old Shamrock men.

CORNELL WON RACE WITH GREAT FINISH

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., June 27.—Cornell won the University eight-oared race of the Intercollegiate regatta for the eighth time late last evening in the most exciting contest ever rowed over the four-mile Poughkeepsie course. Cornell's time was 20.02 2-5 seconds. Columbia was second; United States Naval Academy, third; Pennsylvania, fourth; Wisconsin, fifth, and Georgetown, sixth. Syracuse did not finish, her shell being swamped a half-mile from the finish line. The Ithacans won by the narrowest margin from Columbia. Until the judges announced their decision the thousands of spectators afloat and ashore were in doubt as to the result. Cornell and Columbia fought for the honors over the whole course, and at no time were the two shells more than twenty-five feet apart. Columbia led for over three miles, and then Cornell took the lead, only to lose it to Columbia again. In the last hundred feet of the race, Cornell, by a tremendous spurt, shot the nose of her shell out into the lead and swept over the finish under the glare of a big searchlight on the United States monitor Arkansas, five feet ahead of Columbia. The Annapolis crew, which rowed a magnificent race, finished two lengths behind Columbia.

Syracuse captured the honors of the university four-oared shells from Cornell, Pennsylvania and Columbia, which finished in the order named. Syracuse finished two lengths ahead of Cornell, and her time over the two miles' course was 10 minutes and 37 1-5 seconds.

Wisconsin won the freshmen eight-oared shells over the two-mile course, leading Syracuse at the finish by one length, and covering the distance in nine minutes and 56 seconds. Pennsylvania was third, Columbia fourth, and Cornell fifth.

The 'Varsity race was postponed until seven o'clock on account of rough water.

THE EMMERSON-CROCKET CASE.

The action of the Crown on the Emmerson-Crocket case appears to work an injustice to Editor Crocket. All the trouble and expense to which he went to prepare for his defence against a criminal charge is now in a large measure lost labor; and yet he remains a prisoner, though out on bail, who must get his case ready and his witnesses on hand again, whenever the Crown feels ready to proceed. This might be excusable if the action were a civil one, but Mr. Emmerson chose to take a criminal action which according to the spirit of the law must be brought immediately to trial. But the men who took action, and so declared their belief that Mr. Crocket was a criminal, are the men who refused to proceed, which would seem to indicate that they were not ready to prove Mr. Crocket a criminal when they caused his arrest. A man accused of crime might want delay to prepare to meet the accusation; but he who takes the grave responsibility of accusing another of crime should have been very sure before he attempted to put this stigma upon him.

Again, witnesses are not immortal. Nor are they nailed down. Men upon whose testimony Mr. Crocket depends might find it necessary to leave the country in order to earn a living or for some other reason; and Mr. Crocket might not be able to get them to Fredericton when next the case comes up. This would be awkward for Mr. Crocket; but it would also cheat the country out of its right to hear the whole truth. Justice would suffer from such a condition of affairs. And the gravity of this danger may or may not be increased by the fact that on one side we have a journalist whose resources are, necessarily, limited; and, on the other side, we have a man whose disgrace will damage a powerful political party, entrenched in office at Fredericton, Ottawa, Quebec and Halifax, and able to draw upon the resources and devotion of thousands of friends.

However, unfair as it is to Mr. Crocket, he has little reason to complain in comparison with Mr. Emmerson. Mr. Emmerson was lately Minister of Railways and Canals. Certain damaging charges appeared against him in the Fredericton Gleaner, upon which he temporarily laid down his office in order to be free to vindicate himself before the courts. When he was vindicated, he was to come back and take up his office again. He was to become once more Minister of Railways and Canals, thus getting control again of one of the two great spending departments. Now, however, his vindication is postponed. He cannot go back to Ottawa and pick up his portfolio.

But it is an important portfolio, and cannot remain vacant. Sir Wilfrid is coming home in a few days now, and he will feel under compulsion to fill it. Our system of government railways, the control of our canals, the guidance of our entire railway policy at this time of rapid development cannot be left indefinitely without a responsible Minister. If Sir Wilfrid had come back and found Mr. Crocket in jail and Mr. Emmerson vindicated, all would have been easy. But with Mr. Crocket clamoring for an immediate trial and Mr. Emmerson's lawyers refusing to go on with his vindication, Sir Wilfrid will be compelled to appoint another man to Mr. Emmerson's late position. And this other man, when appointed, may not be ready to give this fat portfolio back to Mr. Emmerson when that gentleman is finally vindicated. Consequently the delay, which may put Mr. Crocket to further trouble and expense, and may even deprive him of some of his witnesses, will be very likely to visit upon Mr. Emmerson the far greater injury of depriving him of one of the two best portfolios in the Federal Government.

And who will profit by this? Well, there is no telling. Politics are uncertain. But they do say that Hon. Mr. Pugsley will get the portfolio. And who was the lawyer who fought tooth and nail for the delay which put Mr. Emmerson finally out of the competition? Why, the court records say that it was the Hon. Mr. Pugsley.

THE LORDS.

One hundred men in the British House of Commons voted for the abolition of the House of Lords. This is probably the most significant feature of the divisions on Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's resolution and the Labor amendment. The Liberal-Labor-Nationalist combination was against it, however, three to one. How much of this was due to party loyalty to the Government resolution, we do not know, but the truth is that the Campbell-Bannerman programme would be a mild and expensive form of abolition. A House which could never prevent the passage of a bill over its head might as well be out of existence.

The weakness of the Liberal assault upon the Lords at this time is the weakness inherent in the Liberal party itself. No Government will ever put the Lords in a panic which is not ready and even eager to dissolve its own Commons and appeal to the people against them. So long as the party in the Commons which favors the action of the Lords is the party which desires a dissolution, and which has the highest hopes of gaining from it, the Lords will seize with delight upon the opportunity of posing as the champions of the people, and at the same time annoying their political opponents. When the education bill was thrown out, it was Mr. Balfour who wanted to go to the country—not Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman; but we would have seen a different feeling in the Lords if this position had been reversed. In two words, no merely Parliamentary party can abolish or manacle the Lords. Only the people can do that. And it is useless to talk of a successful crusade against the Lords unless the crusaders are confident that the people will give them bumper majorities at the polls.

Again, a Government which only charges the Lords with doing wrong, and proposes as a remedy to curtail their powers, is at the mercy of a possible popular feeling which may arise in some case that, after all, the Lords have not done so very wrong. But if a Government were to take the ground that the constitution of the Lords is faulty—that the hereditary principle is unfair to the rest of the people—that no man has a right to be born a legislator for thousands of his fellow men—that a Second Chamber should be based, like the First Chamber, on democracy—then it would have a policy with which the people would perpetually agree; and its antagonism to the Lords, instead of being a burden to be carried by other popular planks, would itself become a capital vote-getting "plank" in the general platform.

A FOWLER PAMPHLET.

It seems that Mr. G. W. Fowler's speeches of last session has been issued in pamphlet form for distribution in the Maritime Provinces. They are prefaced by an introduction to which the Toronto Conservative organ gives prominence—and, possibly, bad English. As we have not been favored with a copy of the pamphlet, we are not in a position to say where the English comes from. But, while it is original, it does not at all obscure the meaning, as will be seen if we may be permitted to quote a few sentences:

These speeches mark an epoch in Canadian public life, because as a result of them two Cabinet Ministers will no longer be advisers of His Excellency. Liberal members in the House whose unsavory operations in public lands purchased from a complaisant Government, will cease innuendoes with respect to private affairs of members, with which the House of Commons has nothing to do. Insulting remarks from men who will never be more conspicuously known in public life than when they had the privilege of occupying sack seats in the House of Commons ceased.

The hireling Liberal press of the country has now realized that when a man of Mr. Fowler's determination and clean record passes his word that in a certain event he will take a certain course, he will do so to the uttermost limit. Most important of all, the people of the country recognize that Parliamentary ethics alone intervened between Mr. Fowler and the Liberal party in the House of Commons, which saved the party from annihilation and disruption."

It will be noted that it is claimed for these speeches, off-hand, that they permanently disabled two Cabinet Ministers. Here we are confronted once more with a weakness characteristic of the speeches themselves—a remarkable reluctance to give names. Who are the two Cabinet Ministers? We may suspect; but a man who makes such an assertion ought to be willing to be explicit. The consequence may be that some of us may be thinking of the wrong men. It puts every Minister who has recently dropped out of active work under suspicion, and does not show the courage to make definite charges.

There is also the familiar rejoicing that Liberal members were prevented by these speeches from "making innuendoes with respect to private affairs of members with which the House of Commons has nothing to do." That is, they served as a shield. They were accepted as a "saw off." That this is a thing about which to boast will strike most people as peculiar—almost as peculiar as the statement that "Parliamentary ethics alone intervened between Mr. Fowler and the Liberal party in the House of Commons," which party would have suffered "annihilation and disruption" had it not been unethical in Parliament to treat people so rudely. Just how a party could be first "annihilated" and then "disrupted," the writer of the preface should make clearer.

"Parliamentary ethics"! It is a pity that the man who made the speeches did not have so deep a respect for "Parliamentary ethics" as the man who wrote the preface. "Parliamentary ethics" would have forbidden a man to make insinuations of a damaging character which he refused to follow up with definite charges; and doubly would it have forbidden him to use these insinuations as a threat to compel opponents to leave his own acts uncriticized. It is generally conceded that if the Speaker had been in the chair, he ought to have stopped Mr. Fowler when he made his insinuations and compelled him either to apologise or to proceed. So we have more than "Parliamentary ethics" against the ocurse he took, and of which the writer of this preface now boasts; we have Parliamentary usage and Parliamentary rules as well.

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth seems to have developed a most remarkable habit of taking it for granted that a popular audience is composed largely of fools. At Sarnia on Tuesday, he is reported to have told a gathering of local Liberals that there was nothing wrong with the North Atlantic Trading Company contract; that, in fact, it was legitimate in conception and method, and the Opposition were only able to raise the cry of scandal against it because the Government declined to reveal the names of the company. Now surely it must have occurred to some gentlemen in Mr. Aylesworth's audience that, if this were true, it was a strange thing that the Liberal Government cancelled the contract. If the contract was good, the Government ought to have stood by it; and the fact that the Government pitched it overboard, is condemnation either of the contract or of the courage of the Ministry. As to the revealing of the names of the company, the fault of the Government was not in refusing to do so if it had pledged its word to that effect; but in making such an agreement to begin with. Canada does not desire to subsidize secret agents to decoy immigrants into the country.

Our Excellent By-Laws.

To the Editor of the Montreal Star:

Sir,—A correspondent signing himself "A Well-Wisher" in your paper, suggests that the city "pass a by-law" regulating the washing of store windows at unreasonable hours. While such a by-law is badly needed, what would be the use? It would only be another added to the long list of unenforced laws. The by-law relating to snow on the street is practically ignored by the police. The rules concerning the disposal of garbage seem to have been forgotten. There is a by-law forbidding spitting on the sidewalk, but I saw a few days ago a policeman at the corner of Bleury and St. Catherine streets deliberately spit on the sidewalk while many people were passing. There are by-laws regulating the speed of street cars and automobiles, and yet nearly every day I see these vehicles rushing along much faster than the legal speed limit, and at a really dangerous rate, and the police calmly ignore the matter. There are by-laws relative to the obstruction of streets and sidewalks, and I see every day policemen walk by a dozen places where the thoroughfares are blocked and traffic restricted, without apparently giving a thought to it. There is a by-law on the smoke nuisance, and every one knows that it is not enforced. There are no doubt several other laws which are similarly neglected. I have lived in several large cities, but never before in one where the civic officials did so little to enforce the laws strictly and impartially. What we need in Montreal is not so much more by-laws as a form of city government which is effective and business-like, and men of intelligence and brains and independence to run it. It is quite evident that the present form of government is ridiculously ineffective, and not adapted to the conditions, and that too many of the officials in control of affairs lack experience, business ability, and the courage to do their duty without the fear of the "ward boss" and the next election in their minds.

COSMOPOLITAN.

A Letter from Dr. Robins.

To the Editor of the Montreal Star:

Sir,—As I do not know the name of a single subscriber to the portrait of myself recently presented to and accepted by the university, I crave permission through your columns to express my grateful sense of the kindness shown me after more than fifty years of educational labor in this city. Permit me to add that because I retire on a pension, all that my strength will still permit ought to be done by me to further education in this province. One thing I shall be glad to continue to do, to aid in their difficulties, especially mathematical, such teachers as may consult me by letter or by personal interview.

DOCTOR SPROULE.

Old "Doc" Sproule is a good old soul,
Oh, a harmless soul is he;
Why upon my soul, the real Doc. Sproule
Is as harmless as he can be.

His favorite "dope" is to kick the Pope;
Still, a harmless soul is he.
For he plays to the stand as Sovereign Grand,
But a harmless soul is he.

If one were sick, he'd do the trick,
For a kind old soul is he;
And his heart is right, but this is his plight,
He's a Grand Sovereign, you see!

With regard to some of the people that are at present in Europe, we don't want to be pessimistic, but we believe they intend to come back.

A man was assaulted and severely beaten at Quebec the other day for drinking his "whiskey blanc" through a straw. The people of the Ancient Capital are jealous of their cherished institutions.

ALWAYS WORE THEM.

Mrs. Bongtong—If I had as many idiosyncrasies as Mrs. Oldcastle I believe I would conceal a few of them.

Mrs. Justcome—Yes, but she can't go shoppin' without wearin' them all along with the rest of her jewellery.

NEARLY BUT NOT QUITE.

This happened in one of the many courts of Montreal; which one, is a detail inconsequential in itself. A well-known legal character was examining a witness:

"You say," he asked, "that you heard the husband and wife make the arrangement"

"Yes."

"Now, how did you hear this conversation?"

"Oh, I heard it through the dumb waiter."

"Aha, you will tell me the name of that bum waiter, and I will have a subpoena issued for him."

Sonnet of a Chorus Girl.

He says his mother's kickin' like a steer,
Because she thinks I ain't refined enough;
I'd like to meet her, just to call her bluff!
Gee, I'm so darned refined I pretty near
Have apoplexy every time I hear
A phrase that ain't grammatical! It's tough
To have to stand and take that kind of guff,
But I'll call mother proper, never fear.

She wants to catch a duke for Sister Sue,
And bag an earl for Sister Marguerite,
And so she thinks that it would never do,
Because I have a pair of twinklin' feet,
To let me in the fam'ly circle—pooh!
I'll simply paralyze her when we meet.

One consolation for the thin girl is the thought that anyway her ankles can't be compared to beer kegs.

THE DIFFERENCE.

"Pa, what's the difference between the meaning of prepared and ready?"

"Well, there's many a person who may be prepared to die, but I never saw one who was ready."

To him who would be just: When your wife lectures you don't go down and take it out of the office-boy.

"Treat your friends like your cash," advises an exchange. That's all right, but it would mean that most of us would be out of friends nearly all the time.

An Old Bachelor's Opinion.

CALLED DOWN.

"Tell me, pretty maiden," said a masher to a girl,
"Are there any more at home like you?"
And the maiden, with a snicker, shook a saucy little curl
As she answered, "Chase yourself, you pie-faced mutt, and cut out the con. I'm a lady!"

THIS DATE THIRTY YEARS AGO.

The late Hon. John Hamilton.

June 27th, 1877.

Another bear movement is in progress on the Merchants Bank on a variety of rumors, all of which we are assured on very good authority are baseless, circulated solely by a small brokerage firm to depress the stock. One of the rumors was to the effect that the president had resigned, as well as the general manager.

THE above named bank was established by the late Sir Hugh Allan and other wealthy merchants, with a paid-up capital of one hundred thousand dollars. It opened for business in 1863, with Sir Hugh as its first president, and the late Mr. Jackson Rae as its first cashier. The former was succeeded by the late Senator John Hamilton in 1877, on resigning, and the latter by Mr. George Hague.

A Washington despatch this morning says that the President and War Department have appointed Lieutenant Greene, U.S. Engineer Corps, to act as military attache to the American minister at St. Petersburg, Russia, and to observe the operations of the Russian armies in Turkey.

THE American officer on the conclusion of the Russo-Turco campaign published a very interesting work on the operations of both armies. He served on the staff of Grand Duke Nicholas, who was a brother of the reigning Emperor, and commander-in-chief of the Russian armies.

The Late Rev. A. J. Bray.

A large meeting to bid good-bye to the Rev. A. J. Bray before he sails for England on a two-months' vacation was held last evening in the lecture hall of Zion Church. The Rev. Dr. Wilkes presided, and made a feeling address of farewell and safe voyage and return. Dr. Geo. Beers also made an appropriate speech. Rev. Mr. Bray replied in a touching manner to his congregation for their many acts of kindness and cordiality since he had been pastor. He hoped the holiday would quickly restore his health, and that he would be spared soon again to be among them.

THE three gentlemen mentioned have long since passed from this earth to the great unknown world. Dr. Wilkes was principal of the Congregational College of Montreal to the day of his demise. Dr. Beers was a strong supporter and warm personal friend of Rev. Mr. Bray, and the views he held on a variety of questions outside of church affairs. The latter founded and was for many years the able editor of the defunct Spectator. He possessed much literary ability. He died in London, England, in the eighties.

As a result of the ship laborers' strike on the wharves and their hostile demonstrations against the men working on the Allan and Beaver vessels, the Water Police, under Chief McLaughlin, was reinforced at 11 o'clock by a detachment of the city police under Chief Penton. A large reserve force is held in readiness at the Central Station to meet any emergency that may arise.

BOTH the chiefs of police have long since joined the great silent majority. They handled their men with good judgment and coolness on many serious occasions, when the services of the police were required to prevent riots.

THOUSANDS NATURALIZED.

Large Percentage of Arrivals in 1906 Took Out Naturalization Papers.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, June 27.—Figures have been issued showing the number of foreigners who during 1906 have become naturalized Canadians. For the whole calendar year 1905, the number of new-comers who took the oath of allegiance was 6,632. Last year, 1906, the official figures of which have just been compiled, the total number of new citizens was 10,242. These included subjects of practically every monarch under the sun, Chinese, Japanese, Russians, Germans, Hungarians, Galicians,—in fact, the figures show that practically the head of every family which entered Canada in 1903 took steps to become a citizen and a voter. No less than 3,888 of the new arrivals from the Republic took the oath of allegiance just so soon as the law allowed. This figure was an increase of 600 over the previous year, and all indications are that the same proportion will be preserved this year.

The figures show that while the number of British subjects arriving at Canadian ocean ports is 11,481 more than in 1906, the foreigners who are coming via the United States are becoming Canadians just as fast as the statutory provision of the law allows.

The total immigration for the month of April was 44,051, as compared with 35,313 for April of last year, an increase of 25 per cent. For the ten months, July 1 to April 30, the immigration was 168,718, compared with 124,021 for the corresponding months of the fiscal year, an increase of 4,687 or 36 per cent. This is a large increase in the percentage of arrivals from the United States.

LORDS' VETO RESOLUTION.

Resolution Favoring Curtailment of Power of Upper House Carried.

London, June 27.—A three days' debate in the House of Commons ended at midnight, when Premier Campbell-Bannerman's resolution in favor of curtailing the power of the House of Lords in vetoing bills passed in the House of Commons was carried by 432 to 147 amid loud Ministerial cheers.

The amendment introduced by Mr. A. Henderson, (Laborite), Durham, for the total abolition of the House of Lords was previously rejected by 315 to 100, the minority being composed of Laborites, Nationalists, and a few Radicals.

Boys Stole Fising Tackle.

Followers of Isaak Walton in this city have for a long time back been greatly annoyed not because of any failure to catch fish, but owing to the fact that much of their tackle disappears at frequent intervals. Two of the thieves have been caught, however, and brought before Judge Lafontaine. Their names are Napoleon Picotte and Napoleon Gagnon. Napoleon I was ordered to be confined in a reformatory for three years while in the case of Napoleon II sentence was delayed. The accused stole from a boat house a pair of long rubber boots two nickle-plated fishing reels with lines and other attachments used in connection with the piscatorial art. The arrests were made by Detective Markey.

PRINCE FUSHIMI'S DEEP APPRECIATION

He Takes Home to the Mikado News of Canada's Friendship.

Ottawa, June 27.—His Excellency, the Governor General has received the following telegram from Prince Fushimi, dated Victoria, prior to his departure for Japan Tuesday: "At the moment of leaving the mighty Dominion of Canada, I desire to assure your Excellency how highly I appreciated the tokens of enthusiastic good will towards myself and towards Japan, which I have encountered on every hand during my stay in this country. The cordiality of the reception accorded to me by all classes, and the warmth of the display of friendship towards my country have deeply gratified me. On my return to Tokio it will afford me great pleasure to inform the Emperor of the sentiments towards Japan, which so evidently exist throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion.

PRESENTATION TO QUEBEC.

Quebec, June 27. — Prince Fushimi, has sent the Mayor fifty pounds sterling to be distributed amongst local charitable institutions.

CIVIC STRIKE IS TO BE MAINTAINED

French Government Concerned Over Mutinous Spirit Shown by Troops.

Paris, June 27. — The Government's hope that the return of Marcelin Albert, leader of the wine growers' movement, to the South, after his interview with Premier Clemenceau, would result in a change of attitude on the part of his followers, has been blasted. The federated committees have decided to maintain the civic strike. The Government is quite as much concerned about the insubordinate spirit manifest among the troops as the attitude of the wine growers, for in spite of efforts to minimize them, new incidents showing lack of discipline in the army are occurring daily.

The Government seems to have awakened to the necessity of dealing sternly with the demoralization engendered by the Socialistic anti-military propaganda, and the press commends the decision of the Government to exile the mutineers of the 17th Infantry, and to postpone indefinitely the bill providing for the abolition of court martial in time of peace.

All the committees of the Trades and Labor Council will meet to-night.

THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL.

A Story of Adventure.

CHAPTER III.—(Continued.)

There was a general movement among the company in the coffee-room. Sally had bustled on to the kitchen, while Jellyband, still profuse with his respectful salutations, arranged one or two chairs around the fire. Mr. Hempseed, touching his forelock, was quietly vacating the seat in the hearth. Everyone was staring curiously, yet deferentially, at the foreigners.

"Ah, Messieurs! what can I say?" said the elder of the two ladies, as she stretched a pair of fine, aristocratic hands to the warmth of the blaze, and looked with unspeakable gratitude first at Lord Antony, then at one of the young men who had accompanied her party, and who was busy divesting himself of his heavy, caped coat.

"Only that you are glad to be in England, Comtesse," replied Lord Antony, "and that you have not suffered too much from your trying voyage."

"Indeed, indeed, we are glad to be in England," she said, while her eyes filled with tears, "and we have already forgotten all that we have suffered."

Her voice was musical and low, and there was a great deal of calm dignity and of many sufferings, nobly endured, marked in the handsome, aristocratic face, with its wealth of snow-white hair dressed high above the forehead, after the fashion of the times.

"I hope my friend, Sir Andrew Ffoulkes, proved an entertaining travelling companion, madame?"

"Ah, indeed, Sir Andrew was kindness itself. How could my children and I ever show enough gratitude to you all, Messieurs?"

Her companion, a dainty, girlish figure, childlike and pathetic in its look of fatigue and sorrow, had said nothing as yet, but her eyes, large, brown, and full of tears, looked up from the fire and sought those of Sir Andrew Ffoulkes, who had drawn near to the hearth and to her; then, as they met his, which were fixed with unconcealed admiration upon the sweet face before him, a thought of warmer color rushed up to her pale cheeks.

"So this is England," she said, as she looked round with childlike curiosity at the great open hearth, the oak rafters, and the yokels with their elaborate smocks, and jovial, rubicund, British countenances.

"A bit of it, Mademoiselle," replied Sir Andrew, smiling, "but all of it, at your service."

The young girl blushed again, but this time a bright smile, fleet and sweet, illumined her dainty face. She said nothing, and Sir Andrew too, was silent, yet these two young people understood one another, as young people have a way of doing all the world over, and have done since the world began.

"But, I say, supper!" there broke in Lord Antony's jovial voice, "supper, honest Jellyband. Where is that pretty wench of yours and the dish of soup? Zooks, man, while you stand there gaping at the ladies, they will faint with hunger!"

"One moment! one moment, my lord," said Jellyband, as he threw open the door that led to the kitchen and shouted lustily: "Sally! Hey, Sally there, are ye ready, my girl?"

Sally was ready, and the next moment she appeared in the doorway carrying a gigantic tureen, from which rose a cloud of steam and an abundance of savory odor.

"Odd's my life, supper at last!" ejaculated Lord Antony, merrily, as he gallantly offered his arm to the Comtesse.

"May I have the honor?" he added ceremoniously, as he led her towards the supper table.

There was general bustle in the coffee-room; Mr. Hempseed and most of the yokels and fisher-folk had gone to make way for "the quality," and to finish smoking their pipes elsewhere. Only the two strangers stayed on, quietly and unconcernedly playing their game of dominoes and supping their wine; while at another table Harry White, who was fast losing his temper, watched pretty Sally bustling round the table.

She looked a very dainty picture of English rural life, and no wonder that the susceptible young Frenchman could scarce take his eyes off her pretty face. The Vicomte de Tournay was scarce nineteen, a beardless boy, on whom the terrible tragedies which were being enacted in his own country had made but little impression. He was elegantly, and even foppishly dressed, and once safely landed in England he was evidently ready to forget the horrors of the Revolution in the delights of English life.

"Pardi, if zis is England," he said as he continued to ogle Sally with marked satisfaction, "I am of it satisfied."

It would be impossible at this point to record the exact exclamation which escaped through Mr. Harry Waite's clenched teeth. Only respect for "the quality," and notably for my Lord Antony, kept his marked disapproval of the young foreigner in check.

"Nay, but this is England, you abandoned young reprobate," interposed Lord Antony, with a laugh, "and do not, I pray, bring your loose foreign ways into this most moral country."

Lord Antony had already sat down at the head of the table with the Comtesse on his right. Jellyband was bustling round, filling glasses and putting chairs straight, Sally waited, ready to hand round the soup. Mr. Harry Waite's friends had at last succeeded in taking him out of the room, for his temper was growing more and more violent under the Vicomte's obvious admiration for Sally.

"Suzanne," came in stern, commanding accents from the rigid Comtesse.

Suzanne blushed again; she had lost count of time and place, when she had stood beside the fire, allowing the handsome young Englishman's eyes to dwell upon her sweet face, and his hand, as if unconsciously, to rest upon hers. Her mother's voice brought her back to reality once more, and with a submissive "Yes, Mama," she too took her place at the supper table.

CHAPTER IV.

THE LEAGUE OF THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL.

They all looked a merry, even a happy party, as they sat round the table; Sir Andrew Ffoulkes and Lord Antony Dewhurst, two typical good-looking, well-born, and well-bred Englishmen of that year of grace 1792, and the aristocratic French comtesse with her two children, who had just escaped from such dire perils, and found a safe retreat at last on the shores of protecting England.

In the corner the two strangers had apparently finished their game; one of them arose, and standing with his back to the merry company at the table, he adjusted with much deliberation his large triple-caped coat. As he did so, he gave one quick glance all around him. Everyone was busy laughing and chatting, and he murmured the words "All safe!"; his companion then, with the alertness born of long practice, slipped on to his knees in a moment, and the next had crept noiselessly under the oak bench. The stranger then with a loud "good-night" quietly walked out of the coffee-room.

Not one of those at the supper table had noticed this curious and silent manoeuvre, but when the stranger finally closed the door of the coffee-room behind him, they all instinctively sighed a sigh of relief.

"Alone, at last!" said Lord Antony, jovially.

Then the young Vicomte de Tournay rose, glass in hand, and with the graceful affectation peculiar to the times, he raised it aloft, and said in broken English,—

"To His Majesty George Three of England. God bless him for his hospitality to us all, poor exiles from France."

"His Majesty the King!" echoed Lord Antony and Sir Andrew as they drank loyally to the toast.

"To His Majesty King Louis of France," added Sir Andrew, with solemnity. "May God protect him and give him victory over his enemies."

Everyone rose and drank this toast in silence. The fate of the unfortunate King of France, then a prisoner of his own people, seemed to cast a gloom even over over Mr. Jellyband's pleasant countenance.

"And to M. le Comte de Tournay de Basserive," said Lord Antony, merrily. "May we welcome him in England before many days are over."

"Ah, Monsieur," said the Comtesse, as with a slightly trembling hand she conveyed her glass to her lips, "I scarcely dare to hope."

But already Lord Antony had served out the soup, and for the next few moments all conversation ceased, while Jellyband and Sally handed round the plates and everyone began to eat.

"Faith, Madame!" said Lord Antony, after a while, "mine was no idle toast; seeing yourself, Mademoiselle Suzanne and my friend the Vicomte safely in England now, surely, you must feel reassured as to the fate of Monsieur le Comte."

"Ah, Monsieur," replied the Comtesse, with a heavy sigh, "I trust in God—I can but pray—and hope. . . ."

"Aye, Madame!" here interposed Sir Andrew Ffoulkes, "trust in God by all means, but believe also a little in your English friends, who have sworn to bring the Count safely across the channel, even as they brought you today."

"Indeed, indeed, Monsieur," she replied, "I have the fullest confidence in you and your friends. Your fame, I assure you, has spread throughout the whole of France. The way some of my own friends have escaped from the clutches of that awful revolutionary tribunal was nothing short of a miracle and all done by you and your friends—"

"We were but the hands, Madame la Comtesse. . . ."

The Standard

On July 1st the Dominion of Canada celebrates the 40th anniversary of its birth—40 years of struggle and of attainment.

Forty years ago the various provinces making up the present Canadian Confederation stretched, unconnected, over a vast continent. To-day, bound together by rails of steel and ties of sentiment and love, the name of CANADA is on every lip.

FORTY YEARS OF STEADY PROGRESS.

In its issue this week The Standard will print an elaborate collection of illustrations dealing with Canada's 40th Birthday—pictures of her great statesmen, the Fathers of Confederation—of her Premiers, federal and provincial—of her Governors-General—of her Parliament buildings—of her principal monuments—of her historical relics—of very many things, in fact, for which Canada should be deeply thankful on her 40th Birthday.

Be sure and get a copy this week.

The Biggest Kind of a Change that Ever Happened to Any Magazine Has Happened This Month to
THE SCRAP BOOK

THE SCRAP BOOK for July is issued in two sections—two complete magazines, each with its own cover and its own table of contents. One of these sections is an ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine; the other is an ALL-FICTION magazine. Each is a mammoth magazine in itself. The one presents an overwhelming array of human interest articles and illustrations; the other an enormous tonnage of fiction—190 pages of absorbing stories.

Ten years ago I created a new type of magazine—the ALL-FICTION magazine. Now I am creating another distinct type—the ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine. This is the age of specialization. The conventional magazine, with its smattering of illustrations and its smattering of fiction and its smattering of special articles, doesn't contain enough of any one thing to make it satisfying. The ALL-FICTION magazine and the ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine, joined together as a unit, strengthen each other, and make something really big and forceful and convincing.

The Only Way to Know a Thing is to Try It

The two-section magazine idea is brand-new to the world. It is not quite new with me, however, as I have given it, at odd times, four or five years of thought. It first came into my mind in response to a desire to couple, in some way, the strength of the all-fiction magazine with the illustrated features of the conventional magazine. It has been a difficult problem to work out. Now that the idea is perfected, I wish to see what there is in it. It looks to me to be very good, but the only way to know a thing is to try it.

Two Magazines for a Quarter—Easy Money

The price of this two-part magazine is twenty-five cents, which is equal to twelve and one-half cents a magazine. Most magazines which were selling at ten cents have been advanced to fifteen cents. THE SCRAP BOOK in two parts means two magazines for twenty-five cents against thirty cents for two fifteen cent magazines.

MANY LAND SHARKS LIE IN WAIT FOR THE EUROPEAN IMMIGRANT-- SOME OF THE FLAGRANT SWINDLES

Polacks and Slavs, Driven Like Cattle, Are Sent Under False Pretences by Unscrupulous Agents to Points Far From Their Intended Destination And Swindled En Route.

Rosy are the paths leading to Canada the land of Promise and place of Milk and Honey; yes, the paths are indeed rosy if the newcomer will heed to all the soft words of some of those who greet him soon after he has passed the threshold of the portals. Wages are to be high, very high indeed, and as a dollar will equal from two to six times the value of various European monetary units, the first promise that seems likely of realization is the early acquirement of the sought-for wealth.

The English-speaking immigrant hears the soft words in the old country, the immigrant of other tongues hears a succession of remarkable stories soon after he has landed; some rare fiction being reserved for the gullible foreigner.

Long accustomed to be cared for under the forms of more or less paternal governments which in so many European states save the subject the trouble of thinking for himself, a considerable section of the peoples who come to Canada from the north-eastern portion of Europe promise easy victims for persons of evil mind to whom financial gain is of paramount importance.

There exists in Montreal and elsewhere in Canada, for that matter—a class of man who finds the spinning of these yarns a profitable source of money-getting. Not one in ten, perhaps not even every tenth one, of the immigrants who reach Canada from the various Slavonic countries has any definite idea of Canada, its geographical peculiarities, and, least of all, the condition of its labor markets. The great idea foremost in their minds is that here is a land of wealth, a land where easy work brings rich return. Naturally, details of such things are unknown to these people, it is all hazy in their mind's eye.

THEY FIND A "MOSES."

Now, possessed of such ideas, when these simple people are approached by a smooth-tongue individual who brings many promises and who seems to be a sort of a Modern Moses, set down here expressly for the purpose of leading these men and women into the new land of promise, it is indeed quite likely that he will be listened to, and, as his words assure a quick realization of the dreams of their wanderings, it is almost certain that he will be followed. Does not this stranger speak their tongue, and does he not voice the very things they were told of, or, perhaps, dreamed of, or maybe read in the fatherland? It looks as if it were all about to come true.

It may take days, but it will not take weeks for these unfortunate people to learn that their new-found friend was a glib speaker of untruth, and that his promises were about as his evil heart. When this realization shall have come, with it will also come the discovery that it was a costly proceeding to listen to the smooth tongue.

MANY LOOK FOR VICTIMS.

Immigrants coming to Canada, and, more particularly, those from continental Europe, excepting such as are of French, Belgian and Italian origin, are likely to fall victims to unscrupulous men who will promise work of all kinds and big wages, and entrap the unfortunates into a series of debts, petty in amount, yet uncomfortably large to persons whose worldly possessions can be counted in scant dollars, and whose only capital is their ability to secure such employment as can be performed by unskilled labor.

These men were rather bold in their operations at one time, now they seem reduced to waiting for the immigrants as the latter leave the railway stations in Montreal. They operated on the trains at one time, but this has been stopped through the instrumentality of the railway companies, and the latter have also succeeded in freeing the stations from the presence of such as prey upon the newcomers.

One form of the practice was for men to board the immigrant specials, ask the immigrants their destination, then distribute slips of paper. Arrived at Montreal other men would round up the inimigrants bearing slips and pack them off to such places as might be convenient for the purposes of the man in charge. These immigrants would then be informed that work would be secured for them on payment of a fee, one dollar, perhaps two dollars. By this means a tidy sum could be collected if the man had been prompt in his work.

In many cases work was found for these immigrants. It was quite likely, indeed, that the man had orders to supply so many laborers. For this he secured a second commission from the contractor.

The immigrant had not a word to say about it at all, and was usually shipped to some place he had never heard of, nor wanted to go to.

MUST "WORK OFF" DEBTS.

Then again it was seldom, if ever, that these immigrants were informed that they would have to pay their own railway fare from Montreal to the place where their services were in demand, and usually the new-comer found himself in debt to his employer, all without his knowledge or consent. This state of affairs was due to the fact that from the time of the arrival in Canada, there was no one to tell him of what the conditions were and how he could obtain work. The one man who did speak to him lured him into something that the immigrant was ignorant of and forced him into a condition of temporary slavery.

This condition of affairs has been going on for some time, and is even going on now. It occasionally reaches such proportions that the immigrant is fought for on the street outside of the railway station. He is not told what it all means, and it seems that in this connection the Government should issue instructions to its various interpreters that they should inform strangers, ignorant of English, what the sudden and unexpected friendship really means.

A SPECIFIC INSTANCE.

An effort was made by a Star representative to canvass a train of immigrants which had come through from Quebec, these immigrants being off the Lake Michigan, which had landed in the Ancient Capital Monday evening.

Two men boarded the train at Outremont and had distributed a couple of hundred slips before they were found by the train crew. Their presence discovered, the men endeavored to secure transportation to Montreal, but this was promptly refused and they had to quit work. The slips given to the immigrants were then taken up by the train crew. When the train reached Windsor street station one of the pair was in evidence on Dominion Square and succeeded in inducing half a dozen of the new arrivals to follow him.

Mr. Monahan, chief of the Labor Department of the C. P. R., was present at the arrival of this special train and said that the company was opposed to any such work, and that any men found on board their trains without permission would be arrested and prosecuted.

It is usually the Polacks and Slavs that are susceptible to such influences. The Italian and German immigrants are of a higher type. Furthermore they usually have some objective point in view and will not be turned away without hearing from one of their compatriots. Generally they are seeking some one here whom they know and that saves them from falling victims to the wily man of promise. The Polack seems easier to secure and as the Pole and Galician is in demand for railway work, a great many of this class of immigrant has to make expensive payment for the privilege of obtaining work in Canada.

"MAL AU VENTRE."

Just a passing internal ache.

THE SONS OF SCOTLAND.

The Annual Convention at Niagara Falls Elects Officers and Adjourns.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 27. — The Grand Camp, Sons of Scotland, did not close their convention until late last evening. The suggested change of insurance rates was referred back to the executive committee to report at the Grand Camp in 1909. The matter of organization was also referred to the executive committee, with power to act. The per capita tax was changed from two dollars per year to fifteen cents per month, payable monthly. The executive committee will report on the appropriation to permit members to enter the sick benefit branch without going into the life insurance branch. Prince Fushimi's Gift to Ottawa.

Ottawa, June 27.—His Imperial Highness Prince Fushimi has remembered Ottawa in a charitable way. Mayor Scott has received $250 from him, which has been divided amongst the various charitable institutions of the city.

THREAT OF HALIFAX TIE-UP.

Inside Freight Handlers Refuse Cent An Hour Advance.

Halifax, N.S., June 27.—Halifax is threatened with another labor strike, one which, if it takes place, will more or less affect the whole country. The inside freight handlers, employed by the Intercolonial Railway, have notified the department that they will not accept an offer of one cent per hour additional pay, and that if a more substantial increase is not given them by Saturday, they will stop work. Such a strike would tie up railway traffic at this terminal.

The outside freight handlers of the railway recently were given a rate of 20 cents an hour for day work and 25 cents for night work. The inside men asked for a similar increase, but were only given one cent an hour, the department alleging that as their work was steady year in and year out, they were not entitled to the same rate as the outside men, whose employment was more precarious.

The cent an hour rise is declined, and unless the Government railway comes up in its offer, work in the freight sheds will cease on Saturday.

Trustees Stand by Minister.

Windsor, Ont., June 27.—The trustees of the British Methodist Episcopalean Church here have decided to stand by their minister, Rev. O. H. McGowan, who has been expelled from the conference in session at Brantford this week for alleged insubordination. The trustees claim that the conference had no right to pel their minister.

Gray, of Waterford, spinster, deceased, on an estate sworn at $1,212, all personal property; letters of administration to Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Griffiths, widow of the late James E. Griffiths, of Sussex, deceased, on an estate valued at $299.95, all personal property; letters of guardianship to John Burgess, of Studholm, of the person and estate of Inez Gertrude Williams, a minor, daughter of the late Wellington R. Williams, of Apohaqui, deceased; letters of guardianship were granted to Cecil McCordick, of the person and estate of his sister, daughter of the late Robert McCordick, of Hampton Village, deceased, who is interested in an insurance policy on her father's life.

The Train Crew Suspended.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, June 27.—Engineer Dewar, Fireman W. Short and Flagman W. R. Smith, the train crew of the Grand Trunk Railway light engine, which crashed into the New York and Ottawa freight on Saturday evening at Carlsbad Springs, killing Fireman W. R. Dodgies, after an investigation held by Mr. Morley Donaldson, superintendent of this division, have been suspended. Engineer Dewar, who has 20 years of service behind him, is overcome with grief as the result of his mistake. He attributes the wreck to over-confidence in his ability to remember the time-card.

International Rifle Practice.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, June 27.—An international rifle match has been arranged between No. 8 Company, 43rd Infantry Regiment, Ottawa, and "G" Battery, 2nd Battalion 5th Massachusetts Infantry, of Boston. The match will be shot August 17th and September 14th, the first under Canadian, and the second under American rules. The results will be exchanged by telegraph upon the conclusion of the match.

IMPROVEMENTS IN RIVER CHANNEL

Fairway in Lake St. Peter and at Beaujeu Bank is Now Being Widened.

Dredging operations are being carried on with great activity on the route between Montreal and Quebec, and below the Ancient Capital, Mr. F. W. Cowie, harbor engineer, has just returned from a tour of inspection and is well satisfied with the manner in which the work is going forward.

During the month of May the dredge Israel Tarte, which is at work widening the channel at the curve in the centre of Lake St. Peter from 375 to 800 feet, dredged half a million feet and is being kept going as fast as possible, working better than ever she has done in previous years. More than half the work is done now, and soon a good anchorage will be provided in the middle of the lake. By the end of next season, Mr. Cowie expects that practically the whole of the dredging work on Lake St. Peter will be completed. The channel will then have a clear width of 450 feet, while the bends will have a width of from 600 to 800 feet.

At Cap a la Roche, the elevator dredges are at work steadily. There are six of these fitted with all appliances necessary to remove the shale rock which there forms the bottom. A swift current makes operations difficult, but each dredge lifts from 1600 to 2000 feet a day, in a depth of from 33 to 40 feet. Getting out of the way of passing steamers is another cause of considerable delay at that point. The work is being done in two cuts, one of which takes in 200 feet of bank which is being cut down and 100 feet of channel proper. When this is done it will afford a passage to the steamers going up and down, and work can be carried on more expeditiously on the other side.

One hydraulic dredge, six elevator dredges, two stone lifters, four coal barges, eleven tugs, twenty scows and other equipment for heavy work are in operation between Montreal and Quebec, and four hundred men are kept busy night and day from midnight on Sunday to noon on the next Saturday.

Below Quebec, the only work being done is by the dredge Galveston, bought last year in Texas. Beaujeu bank is the spot at which she is located. The situation is much exposed and it is impossible to use scows, so that the Galveston must take into her own hoppers whatever she raises from the bottom. Her capacity is 1,400 cubic yards at a load, and so far has removed 4,500 yards of sand, gravel, and soft blue clay. The Galveston works only in daytime, from daylight to sunset, and time is lost frequently through bad weather. Another dredge is now being finished at Sorel for the work below Quebec. She will be ready in six weeks. She will have a cutter as well as suction pumps, so that the harder materials will be broken up and there will be no danger of blocking the pipes. The new dredge will work between Crane Island and Grosse Ile. As she will have a capacity of 2,000 cubic yards, she will accomplish a great deal towards making the St. Lawrence route even safer than it is now.

THE PURE MILK LEAGUE.

Work This Year Will Be Restricted to Small Civic Grant.

At a recent meeting of the executive of the Pure Milk League, it was determined that a special appeal should be made to the public of Montreal for financial assistance to enable them to carry on the work during the present hot season.

For some time past anxious enquiries have been made by parents in sections usually supplied with stations as to whether they will be able to obtain the pure milk for their babies this season.

This year the civic grant has been limited to $500, so that the work of the league must necessarily be somewhat restricted. It has been determined that for the present, but three stations shall be opened. These are, the central station, 208 St. Charles Barromee St., one in Point St. Charles, and one at the east end of Ontario street. Other stations will be opened should the league find sufficient funds to enable them to extend the work.

The services of the same nurses who have been engaged in the work since its inception have been secured for the coming season, and the educative work, which is an important feature of the work of the league will be prosecuted as vigorously as possible.

Through the kindness of Dr. Dagenais, chairman of the Civic Sanitary Committee, a quantity of pamphlets giving detail instruction as to the care and feeding of infants have been received, these will be distributed among the applicants for milk.

The object of the Pure Milk League is to supply the earner of small wages, and the very poor with a pure food for infants at the same price they would pay for ordinary milk.

The proper modification of pure milk so to make it suitable for the enfeebled digestion of sick infants necessitates very considerable expense in skilled labor and a proper laboratory. These the league have in command, but such labor entails considerable expense and the small sum which is charged the recipients of the food suffices hardly to pay the cost of the milk employed.

The executive of the Pure Milk League confidently appeal to the public for the necessary financial assistance to enable them to carry on their beneficient work.

Red Letter Days for Small Boy.

Monday and Tuesday of next week are to be the red-letter days on the calendar for the little boy and his big brother. It is circus day and that means the grand climax to the plans and the meditations of the past several weeks. According to the Forepaugh-Sells announcement there is some instructive and entertaining amusement in store for those who witness the unloading of the circus paraphernalia. This is said to be an education in itself.

From the past reputation of the circus it is only reasonable to expect that it still carries with it some of the finest horses to be seen in the country, and these will all be seen to advantage while the train is being unloaded. Then, when this work is nearly completed, there will follow the monster parade in which the spectators will be given their first opportunity to pass on all the animals and interesting features that go to make a circus menagerie.

Two performances are announced for Monday and Tuesday afternoons at 2 o'clock, and again in the evenings at 8 o'clock. The doors will be opened at one and seven o'clock, allowing a full hour for visiting the zoological collection in the menagerie.

MR. PLUMMER'S HISTORY OF THE BATTLE BETWEEN STEEL AND COAL

President of Steel Company Explains the Various Features of the Fight Between the Two Big Concerns—Prices Paid for Coal.

The Star last evening published the two concluding paragraphs of Mr. Plummer's history of the dispute between the Dominion Steel and Coal Companies. The first part of the circular, which has been sent to the Steel shareholders is as follows:

1. The questions in dispute have arisen under the contract for coal dated 20th October, 1903, which was approved by the shareholders at a special meeting held on 23rd October, and subsequently ratified by the Legislature of Nova Scotia. The history of this contract is as follows:

2. The first contract for coal between the two companies was entered into in 1899, the price being fixed at $1.20 per ton, with .04 cents for car hire. The coal to be supplied was whatever might be required for the Steel Company's operations of every description, without limitation as to quantity or place. It was, in effect, in order to create a steady market for coal all the year round. However such a contract might turn out, the Steel Company was in the position of having been induced to raise and expend its capital in reliance upon it for the supply of its fundamental necessities, and it was, therefore, peculiarly entitled to be treated with full consideration and good faith.

3. In 1902 a lease of the Coal Company's property was made to the Steel Company, and the contract became inoperative. The lease contained a provision that would revive the original contract in a slightly modified form in the event of the lease for any cause being cancelled.

Prices for Coal.

4. In 1903 the lease was surrendered and the contract of 20th October, 1903, which is now in dispute was entered into. It was based on the old contract, but with important modifications, one of which was the limitation of the quantity of coal to be supplied to the amount necessary to operate blast furnaces at Sydney of the capacity of the four existing furnaces, with their adjuncts. The price was fixed at $1.24 per ton, with .04c for car hire, in all $1.28 per ton, subject to revision in 1909, or .04c per ton more thereafter; $1.28, or .04c per ton more than the original price, being the minimum.

5. This contract was to run until 1992, and the requirements which it was intended to supply will, it is estimated, before long reach 100,000 tons per month. Among other things, it bound the Coal Company, in express terms, to supply coal for the manufacture of coke for the Steel Company's blast furnaces; also coal for the gas producers used in connection with the open hearth furnaces and mills. From 75 to 80 per cent. of the company's entire consumption of coal is used for these two metallurgical purposes, which are set out in the contract in full detail.

6. The directors are advised that by law the Coal Company was bound under the contract to supply coal which would be suitable for these uses, and in addition the contract contains provisions intended to ensure that it should be of the best charcted that the Coal Company could furnish. They exclude coal not reasonably free from impurities, coal which has been standing on the bank for any time, coal from any seam or seams those product the Steel Company might deem less suitable than other coal, and, until the end of four years, slack coal. At the time that the dispute arose the Coal Company was bound to furnish all the Steel Company's requirements in coal from the Phelan seam, on which the main collieries of the company are situated. The returns to the Mines Department show that over 600,000 tons of coal was mined in October, November and December, 1906, from these mines.

Deliveries Reduced.

7. The Coal Company did not always perform its obligations under the contract to the satisfaction of the Steel Company, and in December, 1905, with the object of making the Steel Company's requirements less onerous to the Coal Company and to improve the relations between the companies, an understanding was reached (with full reservation of the rights of both parties under the contract), which it was hoped would obviate any future trouble. This arrangement, which worked satisfactorily until July, 1906, covered concessions on the part of the Steel Company in the matter of slack, banked coal, delivery of coal in advance, etc. The concessions were to continue as long as the Steel Company's requirements were supplied, unless interrupted by causes beyond the Coal Company's control, and, when in August, September and October, 1906, deliveries were seriously reduced without justification, to the detriment of the Steel Company's business, notice withdrawing from the understanding was given, to take effect on 1st November, 1906.

8. Beginning with the latter date, the Coal Company tendered large quantities of coal largely accumulations from a new colliery known as Dominion No. 6, situated four or five miles from the nearest colliery on the Phelan seam. This coal was, within the knowledge of the Coal Company, entirely unfit for the purposes for which it was required. It had been recognized as such on previous occasions and had been rejected by the Steel Company, and taken back by the Coal Company, although this was usually done without prejudice to the Coal Company's rights under the contract.

9. A portion of this unsuitable coal tendered in November was rejected as not coming within the terms of the contract, and on 9th November, 1906, the Coal Company, declaring that the Steel Company had by its rejection and by outside purchases of coal(which had been made necessary by their short deliveries) violated the contract, declared the same void, and refused to make further deliveries of coal.

Plant Remained Idle.

10. In order to avert the serious injury to all interests which would result from an enforced stoppage of the Steel Works, the directors immediately proposed that the Coal Company should continue to supply coal, but at the ordinary market price, subject to the adjudication of the courts as to the rights of both companies. The Coal Company, however, refused to supply coal unless the legality of its action on 9th November should be admitted, all claim for damages waived, and a new contract for coal entered into.

11. As it was impossible for the Steel Company to accept this proposal, the coke ovens and blast furnaces remained idle until other arrangements for the supply of coal could be made; the rest of the plant was as far as possible kept in operation with the stock of materials on hand, and with the coal that could be obtained from other sources. The Nova Scotia collieries made every effort to assist the Steel Company in its difficulties, but on such short notice they were unable to supply sufficient coal to keep the plant fully in operation.

FREE GOLD
LARDER LAKE OUTCLIPPING COBALT

Wonderful free gold deposits are now being discovered in Larder Lake District 60 miles north of Cobalt, the famous silver belt. Both Cobalt and Larder Lake are "poor man's camps," because the mineral is near the surface. We have properties there assaying $25 to $500 on the surface to the ton. Great excitement prevails in Canada over these new gold discoveries; so close, you can leave Toronto in a Pullman car at 9 o'clock at night and be up there before noon next day. Prospectors, mining men and investors are rushing into this district. Many companies are being formed to develop these gold fields. Our company, the Larder Central Gold Fields, Limited (no personal liability), one of the first on the market, incorporated $1,500,000, par value $1. The first allotment is now 25c per share, fully paid and non-assessable, this money to be used for working purposes. These shares will be worth $1 before the end of August—that is 400 per cent. on your money. Fortunes by the poor as well as the rich are being quickly made. Men in 1906 poor, in 1907 rich. We have had men in the field from the start who selected some of the very best claims in Larder.

WE ARE TAKING OUT FREE GOLD

Don't wait. Write us. Now is the time to buy. A little money placed with us will mean a fortune to every early investor. We want to interest people in the Mother Country in this splendid proposition, because money and people are scarce here. We require machinery, etc., for developing and taking out the ore. Only 600,000 shares of stock will be sold at this price. Orders are entered in rotation. You can obtain a Canadian draft from any bank payable to us at par, or get a P. O. International Money Order. We issue a guarantee, which accompanies the stock, giving all investors fifteen days' time to investigate; then if not satisfied, money will be returned. SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE.

The Suspected Incendiarism in the Case of the Crystal Stream.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Coles Island, June 27.—The feature of yesterday's session of the inquest into the death of the victims of the Crystal Stream tragedy was the testimony of Mrs. May Coleman, cook of the Crystal Stream. In her testimony she swore that there was a special reason for fearing that the boat would be burned. It was common talk that the Crystal Stream would not run through the summer. Mrs. Chase told the witness that a party had said that he would have vengeance if it took 10 years. She thinks Captain Perry, of the steamer Aberdeen, was the party. She also swore that on running to the deck after discovering the fire, she saw Captain Perry run across the wharf in his bare feet.

Captain Maybee was on the stand. His testimony brought out little that was new except that shortly after he came from his cabin, the boat was in flames, practically from stem to stern. The inquest goes on this afternoon.

COLLINS MURDER CASE.

The Second Trial of Thomas Collins Opened at Hopewell Cape, N.B., To-day.

Special to The Montreal Star.

St. John, N. B., June 27.—The trial of Thomas Collins, for the murder of Mary Ann McAulay was resumed today at Hopewell Cape, Albert County, a jury having been chosen last evening.

Dr. Murray, of Fredericton Junction, proved the death of Father McAulay, brother of the victim and the dead man's evidence as given at the first trial was admitted on the stenographer's oath.

Prof. Andrews, of Sackville, was engaged to make a chemical test of stains found on the trousers worn by Father McAulay, and will report this afternoon.

Aylesworth Milton, the only other witness, told of driving Collins to Elgin station on August 20 last, and receiving two dollars from him. Collins said he expected to meet Father McAulay there.

Township Telephone Dispute.

Comber, Ont., June 27.—A few years ago the farmers of Rochester Township formed a co-operative telephone company. They carried the wires along fences and over farms, and when they reached a highway they carried the wires over on poles. Recently the present council went into the municipal telephone business and ordered the co-operative company to take down its wires. This the latter declined to do, whereupon the Township Council ordered the constables to cut the wires and to arrest any one who attempted to restore them. The co-operative will take the matter into the courts.

HAYWOOD DEFENCE PARTIALLY SUCCEED

Orchard Flatly Contradicted, But Important State Evidence Gets in.

Boise, Idaho, June 27.—Four witnesses were called by defence in the Haywood trial yesterday. Two of them were torn to pieces by the cross-examination of the prosecution, and from each of the other two, testimony of decided importance to the State was elicited. Three of them were witnesses upon whose testimony Richardson had based the formal impeaching question which had already been propounded to Orchard and which he denied. These witnesses all emphatically re-affirm the statements on which those questions had been based, and to that extent the defence fulfilled its object in calling them. But cross-examination utterly discredited two of them, and left the other in the unhappy situation of having contributed more to the State than to the defence.

The four witnesses examined were: Mrs. Lottie Day, keeper of Cripple Creek rooming house; John M. O'Neill, editor Miners' Magizine; John T. Elliott, the man who says he held a remarkable conversation with Orchard on the train between Weiser and Caldwell in November, 1905, and William Davis, the union man so frequently implicated by Orchard in violent doings about Cripple Creek during the strike. Davis and Elliott were the two completely undone on cross-examination. Mrs. Day stuck to her story about threats Orchard had made against Steunenberg while talking to her, but contributed the new information that on one occasion, while she was talking with him in Belmont hotel at Denver, where she knew him under the name of Dempsey, Haywood came into the hotel looking for him. Dempsey introduced her to Haywood, and after a few moment's general conversation, Dempsey took Haywood to his room for a private talk. This was the first testimony brought out from any witness except Orchard that directly linked Haywood with Orchard, and that coupled the secretary-treasurer of the federation with the murder machine under the name of Dempsey. O'Neill was called, apparently to bear out the statements first made by Richardson in his cross-examination of Orchard, that on one occasion Orchard had called at O'Neill's office and asked for the house address of Governor Peabody and Sherman Bell, when O'Neill had told him to look in the city directory for them.

"OUGHT TO BE BUMPED OFF."

O'Neill gave that conversation yesterday, and added that after he had told Orchard to look in the directory, there was some little further talk, during which Orchard said that both Peabody and Bell "ought to be bumped off."

O'Neill has been editor of the Miners' Magazine for five years. He told of having seen Orchard about headquarters in Denver a few times, but remembered no special talk they had had except this one conversation. O'Neill is a rather striking-looking man, who does not show the twenty-seven years that he said he had been a miner. He is tall and slender with a strong face, small gray eyes, thin high nose and pointed chin. He wears a moustache and small side whiskers that are jet black. He was a frank, clear witness with a convincing air of sincerity about him. Senator Borah conducted the cross-examination and almost immediately got before the jury articles from the Miners' Magazine, which Judge Wood had refused to admit the other day, when the prosecution offered several such articles in a bunch. "The magazine is the official organ of the Federation," declared O'Neill emphatically, in response to Borah's question.

"And is edited as such?" asked Borah.

"Exactly," replied O'Neill.

"Your editorials are written as the agent and representative of the organization?"

"They are."

O'Neill went on to say, in response to further questions that he had never heard any criticism from the organizations of his work, and that if he should not be in sympathy with the principles or policy of the organization he would either have to write as the organization believed or resign his job. Thus, if he did not personally believe in socialism he would have to advocate it in the magazine anyway, or quit. When the official character of his work had been thus thoroughly established, Borah asked him if he had written an editorial published January 6, 1906, a few days after the Steunenberg murder, which contained the following sentence:

"Press despatches report the dissolution of Steunenberg via bomb route." O'Neill said he had. "It's a fact, isn't it?" he asked.

"Yes, it was a fact," replied Borah.

Borah then read another long editorial published the week after the 'bomb route," and O'Neill admitted writing that. It was not so violent as some other things that appeared in the Miners' Magazine, but it did not conceal the satisfaction of the organization at the death of Steunenberg. "That reflected the views of the organization?" asked Borah.

"Yes, it did," replied O'Neill. He admitted also that the articles about Bell and Peabody expressed the feeling of the Federation toward those two men. He denied having received a call from Orchard at headquarters when he was in charge, during the absence of Moyer and Haywood, when Orchard presented an order for a ticket to Salt Lake City for Mrs. Steve Adams, signed by Max Malich.

O'Neill had been preceded on the stand by John T. Elliott, a sixty-one year old inmate of the Soldiers' Home here. He told a long and circumstantial story of meeting a man on the train from Weiser who introduced himself as Hogan from Colorado, and began to talk about the labor war there, winding up with an expression of hostility to Steunenberg and the remark that "something startling was about to happen in that neighborhood."

WITNESS HAD BEEN INSANE.

On Hawley's cross-examination Elliott described Hogan as having a somewhat smaller moustache than Orchard—whom he identified as Hogan—now wears. As a matter of fact Orchard was at that time smooth shaven. Hawley brought out the fact that Elliott had twice been in the insane asylum and was released each time on the promise of relatives to take care of him. There was nothing left of Elliott's credibility when he was dismissed.

The entire afternoon session was devoted to the examination of W. F. Davis, and Borah had not concluded his cross-examination when adjournment time came. He will finish today. Davis is a fine, strapping, upstanding, two-fisted man, whose appearance justifies his selection as the man to dominate a strike situation in which his union is concerned. He is a good-looking chap with a frank expression and good-natured eyes. He displayed good wit and intelligence above the average. Davis had been implicated by Orchard in about everything that went on in crime and violence line in Cripple Creek during the strike, as well as in the blowing up of Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines. In answer to Darrow's questions on direct examination Davis qualified as a white-winged angel of peace throughout all his union connections, and as a man who had suffered persecution and injustice because of his union connections and activities. He denied every assertion Orchard had made about him, but admitted knowing Orchard in Cripple Creek district, having admitted Orchard into the union there, of which he was then president, and having seen and talked with Orchard on various occasions there in the presence of several other men, whom Orchard had named as being associated with him and Davis in their criminal enterprises.

He denied specifically Orchard's charge about the Vindicator mine and shaft, about the train-wrecking incident and everything else except the sending of Orchard to Denver to go to Ouray with Moyer as guard, and he was not asked about that. He said that he had nothing whatever to do with the Bunker Hill and Sullivan explosion; was not a member of the union at the time and had not known Orchard in Coeur D'Alenes, although he admitted Orchard had talked to him in Cripple Creek and to having known him there. In reciting his experiences as a wanderer in search of work, after quitting Coeur D'Alenes, he told of having been discharged from a mine in Bisbee, Arizona, when the foreman told him he was fired because he had been black-listed on account of his union connections. He was then living under the name of Jones, but did not know how the foreman had found out his real name. Senator Borah went at Davis in whirlwind fashion and in less than five minutes had him mixed up in a remarkable account of his doings on the day of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill destruction. Jurors watched the contest between Davis and Borah with close attention and evident interest. Haywood sat back in his chair and watched his old associate like a hawk.

PERSONALS.

A pretty house-wedding took place yesterday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sparrow, Sherbrooke street, when their only daughter, Miss Lillian Winnifred Sparrow, was married to Mr. Arthur E. Dick, of Montreal. Only relatives and a very few intimate friends were present at the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Des Brisay, of Ste. Agathe des Monts. The floral decorations in the drawing room where the marriage was solemnized were beautifully carried out, principally with white lilacs. W. Churchill, of Hantsport, N.S. The drawing room, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Young, of St. James Methodist Church, was simply but effectively decorated with white peonies, carnations and palms. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. George W. Sparling, wore a gown of white crepe de chine over taffeta trimmed with lace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Bertha Sparling, sister of the bride, was in white silk, and carried pink roses. Mr. E. Godfrey Burr, of London, England, was best man. To the bride the bridegroom gave a diamond ring, to the bridesmaid a pearl and topaz brooch, and to the best man a gold watch fob. A reception was held after the ceremnoy, and later Mr. and Mrs. Churchill left for a trip to the West, the bride travelling in a gray tailored suit and cream hat trimmed with green. On their return they will reside on Roslyn avenue, Westmount.

St. Matthias Church, Westmount, was the scene of a pretty wedding at half-past four this afternoon, when Miss Ida May Hamilton, eldest daughter of Mrs. Robert Hamilton, 515 Victoria avenue, Westmount, was married to Mr. Thomas Robin Fulton, of Montreal. Rev. E. Bushell performed the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. John McLean, wore a gown of white Duchess lace, over chiffon taffeta. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Fowler leave for Toronto and Niagara, and on their return will rehide at 909a Park avenue, Annex. Cruikshank, wore a gown of ivory satin trimmed with ecru lace, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Her tulle veil was arranged over a coronet of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a pearl and emerald pendant, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaid was Miss Marjorie Anderson, who wore a gown of silk tissue organdie, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas. Mr. Alexander Hannah was best man. PRIZES CAPTURED AT SEA.

The Hague, June 27.—The text of the proposals presented by the British delegates to the Peace Conference provides for the establishment of an international permanent court of appeals in regard to prizes captured at sea. A neutral power may appeal to this court from the finding of a prize court.

A German proposal in the same connection provides that within a fortnight after the opening of hostilities each belligerent must appoint an admiral, who will request a neutral power to appoint within a fortnight a member of The Hague court of arbitration. Within another fortnight these two neutral powers will meet and choose a fifth member of the proposed court from among their own members of The Hague arbitration tribunal.

Why an Honest Doctor Died Poor

"You need five drugs," said an honest physician to a patient, "water, food, air, sleep and exercise." But the patient sought another doctor, and the honest physician died poor.

• • •

Some one has said that the Canadian people like to be fooled. If a doctor tells a patient that drugs won't do him any good, that patient doesnt believe him, he doesn't want to believe him. I've been telling people for years that Nature's way is the right way to cure disease. They didn't believe me at first, but they believe me now. It has been proved that the human body is electrical and that the stomach creates this power out of the food we eat. Every breath of air you inhale carries a certain amount of electricity into your system. Exercise draws it into the muscles and tissues of the body to build up physical strength.

If your stomach is out of order it cannot generate electricity. That's why the honest doctor's treatment sometimes fails to cure. Nine out of every ten sufferers have stomach trouble of some kind. It may not appear to be stomach trouble, but the distress may be in the heart, liver, kidneys, or some other organ.

You see, the whole body machinery works in sympathy. When one part breaks down or fails to do its work the rest of the machinery will also suffer.

A healthy stomach is soon ruined by drugs. When this happens your supply of body electricity is cut off and the organs that depend upon the stomach for support will soon break down.

As your stomach is unable to generate electricity, the only way to restore it to a healthy condition is by giving it electricity—artificial electricity, as applied by Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt.

Electricity is a relief from the old system of drugging. It does by natural means what you expect drugs to do by unnatural means. It removes the cause of disease, and after the cause has been removed Nature will do the rest.

Mr. Thomas Johnston, Box No. 233, Deseronto, Ont., says: "It is some five or six years since I got your Belt. I am well satisfied with it. It cured me, and I haven't been bothered since, and have not used it since then."

Dr. McLaughlin:— Dear sir, I write to let you know that your Belt has cured me, and I am entirely satisfied with your treatment. I then gave it to my sister to wear and she, too, was entirely cured, after being treated by many different doctors, and also being told that she would have to go under an operation, to which she would not consent. She used your Belt and was entirely cured.—JOHN W. THIBAULT, Bruce Mines, Ont.

If you are sceptical, all I ask is reasonable security for the price of the Belt, and you can

To many it merely means a vacation and physical enjoyment; but there are others who are leaving school, and that of course will give them more time to devote to that most elevating instrument, the piano. The Grand Trunk and Sunday Work.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, Ont., June 27.—Another adjournment for a week has been agreed to by Mr. H. L. Drayton, county crown attorney, of the cases in which the Grand Trunk Railway, their engineer, T. J. Loobey, and yardmaster, Richard Orews, are charged before Magistrates Peter Ellis and W. H. Slade with breaches of the Lord's Day Act, by following their usual avocations on Sunday. The counsel for the defendants have not been able to secure all the necessary information in the case from their terminal points. The case will be fixed this afternoon peremptorily for next Thursday.

"THE WOMAN'S CORNER"

About Town

Dog Days in the City.

We who live in comfortable houses—reasonably so—and on comparatively broad and airy streets, grumble and fume and fret about the heat. But take a trip down through the crowded parts and see the tired women and white-faced children sitting on the doorsteps or sprawling over the dirty sidewalks, and we can faintly realize what our intense summer heat means to thousands and thousands in our big city.

This being so, it comes home to us that we must do something for those less fortunate than we. There are others, it is true, more fortunate; but it is seldom indeed that the most unfortunate cannot find one still lower down in the scale. Let us all put out a helping hand to some poorer brother or sister. This can be done in a variety of ways. One of the prettiest is a little private flower mission of our own. There is a flower mission which takes flowers to the hospitals, but this little private flower mission can provide flowers for some few well ones who have no way of getting a blossom of their own.

The love of flowers is universal. Just the other day I saw some small girlies picking dandelions gone to seed in a public square. So anxious were they for a flower that the puff-balls of dead and gone weeds seemed to them beautiful. A man who has a lilac bush in his city garden says that when it is in bloom his door bell rings all day long with children offering the endless cry, "Please, give me some lilac." The love of flowers is as universal as love itself. Perhaps they are connected. As a great poet writes:

"Lilac blooming perennial and drooping star in the west,
And thought of him I love."

We may not rejoice in a large garden, but even a back-yard or a window-box may be made to yield a few flowers. One geranium given to a passing child will brighten a home for a few days, while a bunch of peonies or golden glow will give unlimited happiness.

A New Floor Covering.

A new floor covering which much resembles, but is not, matting, is as well adapted for walls as for floors. This is especially the case in rough summer cottages without plaster. Two girls have, this year, taken for their own use an empty carriage house on the place rented for the summer. They have covered the walls, up to eight feet, with this material, and it makes a charming background for the sketches pinned on it. Some old willow chairs, painted by the girls themselves, complete the furniture of a cosy den, which they call the "studio."

Fashionable Hat Trimmings.

A notable millinery trend this season is to walk hand in hand with horticultural laws. Simultaneously with nature's blossomings do the hat shops burst forth in harmonious sympathy; hence the plea for geraniums, especially the pink variety, shaded pansies, japonica, and white arum lilies. More difficult, indeed, impossible to account for, however, is the craze for a curious white star flower and foliage, a freak fancy that is nevertheless finding plenty of grace among a certain select community, who are applying it with their customary acumen and good taste. But of all these floral advances the geranium asserts the first claim, perfectly irresistible effects being obtained by light massed arrangement of flowers on the becoming Dolly Varden shape, tempered by some cute loop and and additions of black ribbon velvet. So far, however, for some inexplicable reason, we are spared the anomaly of green, blue and mauve geraniums or any outrageous color distortion.

Soap Trees.

The housewife will be interested in the account which comes through the report of a United States consul stationed in Germany in regard to a new variety of soap which is said to be especially desirable for domestic purposes other than the toilet. It will undoubtedly be exported later to this country. The consul says that the domain of Mr. S. Bertrand, chairman of the Algerian Agricultural Society at L'Arba, near Algiers, comprises many thousand hectares (hectare, 2.471 acres), which are planted with vines, oranges, olive and soap trees.

"He has succeeded, after numerous experiments, in cultivating a large plantation of soap trees, from which he gathers several thousand tons of berries annually. The soap tree resembles an apple tree of medium growth. The fresh fruit is green, the interior of which, besides the kernel, contains a yellowish, gelatinous, sticky substance. The fruit used for making soap contains three times as much soap as the "panama" wood. It seems to be destined to be of great service to the cloth and linen manufacturers, and, above all, for domestic purposes, as it can be used to clean linen and silken fabrics and colored embroideries. The colors are in this way renovated, while the use of soap makes them run together."

The Day's Little Story.

She—"So you are going abroad. Write to me from every place you go to."

He—"Delighted. Excuse my asking, but is this a declaration of affection, or are you starting a picture post-card collection?"

Spiced Trout.

One cup of vinegar, one cup of water, one tablespoonful of sugar, one-half a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of paprika, one piece of bay leaf, one whole clove, six whole black peppers, one lemon peeled and sliced thin, two slices of onion. Cook fish whole in this mixture (about thirty minutes for small fish). When cooked, turn fish into dish, either whole or broken in pieces, pour over liquid, and let stand several hours.

Parsley Sauce.

No. 1. Bruise and crush a cup of parsley leaves. Then let boil five minutes in a cup and one-fourth of water. Strain off the water and let cool. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter. Cook in it two tablespoonfuls of flour and one-fourth a teaspoonful each of salt and paprika; also a grating of nutmeg if desired. When frothy, stir in the parsley water. Let boil once, then finish with the yolks of two eggs, a tablespoonful of finechopped parsley, half a tablespoonful of lemon juice, and one-fourth a cup of butter, added in little bits and beaten in thoroughly.

No. 2. Put one cup (lightly measured) of fine, soft, white bread crumbs and half a cup of fine-chopped parsley (lightly measured) over the fire in a pint of broth. Add a scant half-teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper, and cook and stir until smooth and very hot. Beat in two tablespoonfuls of butter and a tablespoonful (scant) of lemon juice, and serve.

Cleaning Steel Knives.

In cleaning steel knives, a bit of pumice stone is better than almost anything else that can be used. It does not scratch the knives, as do many forms of "sand soap," and it is less disagreeable to use than brick dust, because it will not affect the finger-nails of the one using it.

For the Home Gardener.

Nicotiana Sanderae.

This is perhaps the most easily grown of all modern flowers. It does not seem to matter to it what kind of soil it is planted in, as it does equally well either out-doors or in the house or conservatory. It forms a bush three feet high, and is covered from top to bottom with flowers. It comes in a variety of shades and colors, and makes fine cut flowers, as they last so long in the vase. They should be planted thinly where they are to bloom, either in the open air, pots, or the conservatory, and thinned out to three feet apart as soon as they make the third leaf. They will yield a more profuse bloom if given plenty of water during the hot weather of mid-summer. Plant weekly for a succession of bloom.

Aquilegia Haylodgensis.

This is a hybrid of the beautiful Rocky Mountain Columbine, and like its parent bears large deep-spurred flowers, the latter being of a tender satin-rose, of a most beautiful tint, passing to a delicate light yellow at the crown. This is one of the best plants for the rockery, and will do well in almost any partially shaded location, but for the finest growth and bloom the soil should be especially prepared for them. Get it from the woods if you can, but if not, use a soil which contains a large proportion of humus, or leaf-mould. Enrich it by the addition of bone-meal, and aerate it well before placing the plants. It can either be planted where it is to bloom, or be started in the house in pots or flats.

5690 Girl's Dress.

Design by May Manton.

A SIMPLE LITTLE FROCK.

The simple sleeveless frock that can be worn over any guimpe is a most desirable as well as most fashionable one for the younger girls. Here is one that is daintily charming, yet which involves little labor in the making. The five-gored skirt is plaited, and both it and the pretty waist are joined to a belt. In this instance the material is ring-dotted batiste with trimming of embroidered banding, but not alone are the washable fabrics, both cotton and linen, appropriate, the dress also is well adapted to challis, cashmere, veiling and the like. For the seashore and the mountains these last always are desirable, and no matter how many washable frocks the girl may possess, one or two of light weight wool really are necessary to perfect comfort. For a girl of ten years of age the dress will require 5¼ yards of material 27, 4½ yards 36, or 4¼ yards 44 inches wide, with 6¾ yards of banding.

A May Manton pattern, No. 5690, sizes 6 to 12 years, will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents. (If in haste send an additional 2-cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

Women the World Over

Geraldine Farrar.

Miss Geraldine Farrar won a splendid success during her recent engagement at the Paris Grand Opera. The correspondent of London Truth says: "As to her voice, its ease, sweetness and flexibility are marvellous. It can be as soft as an echo. The brilliant vocalizations, while exciting wonder as tours de force, give the liveliest pleasure by their rare beauty. Her style is simple and has a noble quality not often to be met with in the light soprano. Krauss had it; but she was a tragedy queen. I do not remember to have heard any Swedish nightingale who had this quality—the quality of all others of which gives the stamp of mastery to an artist."

Miss Marrar reappeared on 3rd June in the home of her early triumphs—the Royal Opera at Berlin in Traviata, before a notable ovation from a large audience.

The Crown Prince and Princess, who attended the performance, afterward invited the young American singer to the imperial box and listened with interest to a lively account of her experience in this country.

An Extraordinary Mistake.

Mlle. Deschamps, who was about to be married to M. Lenoir the other day at La Haye, Malherbe, in Normandy, discovered that the marriage would be illegal, because, in the eye of the law, she is a boy. The bride and bridegroom and their friends were gathered together previous to the ceremony, when the village schoolmaster—who is also the register of births and the village clerk—rushed into the room, exclaiming, "The marriage is impossible!" He explained that his predecessor had by mistake registered the birth as that of a boy, and under the registration Mlle. Deschamps would become liable to serve as a soldier this year. M. Lenoir and his bride hurried off to the local mayor and magistrate, and pleaded with them to authorize the marriage, but the authorities turned a deaf ear to their pleading, for French red tape is not to be treated lightly, and it will take time to repair the mistake.

The King and Queen in Ireland.

The news that the King and Queen are going to Ireland, and will spend a day at the Exhibition and at Leopardstown, has been received with pleasure throughout the breadth and length of the country. The people had been hoping against hope that their Majesties might put in an appearance before the end of the season, and now—well! content reigns. It is satisfactory, by the way, to learn of the genuine success of the Dublin Exhibition, which is well worth seeing from the artistic as well as industrial point of view, and is attracting a large number of American visitors now on this side.

Mr. Balfour and the Old Lady.

When Mr. Balfour in the nineties was about to be made Burgess of a townlet in Scotland, an old body of the working-class, who professed herself a worshipper of the politician, hung about the entrance of the public hall at the hour at which he was expected there and managed, somehow, to waylay him. "Oh, Maister Balfour," she exclaimed, "I juist want so fair to shake hand wi' you, juist for the sake o' your uncle, "that dear guid man, Maister Gladstone." Mr. Balfour shook hands heartily with the woman and refrained in his tactfulness from suggesting to her that his uncle, dear guid mon, happened to be Lord Salisbury.

A Preventive of Cancer.

Most serious is the charge brought by Dr. Robert Bell, formerly a prominent Scottish physician, and now practicing in England, who maintains that cancer is not caused by any micro-organism, but results from faulty diet and improper sanitation of the body. Cancer, for example, according to this authority, is attributed to errors of diet, one of the primary faults being the ingestion of too much red butcher's meat. In his long experience Dr. Bell states he has met only one cancer patient who was a vegetarian, and that plenty of vegetables are among the necessaries of a cancer-resisting diet. He also insists that cancer, which is distinctly a disease of civilization, is preventable, and he predicts that before ten years have passed it will be as rare as it is now prevalent. And, finally, there is Adelina Patti, at 64 years of age, a miracle of physical youthfulness, who is graciously giving out her formula for retaining bodily loveliness beyond three score years, who says she eats no red meat, nor takes spirituous liquors of any kind.

Strauss's Disapproval of Dancing.

The rings on the fingers and the bells on the toes fell into argument the other day. Dr. Richard Strauss's "Salome" being performed in Paris. Two persons have a hand—or rather one has a voice and the other has two feet in the presentation of the heroine. One of them sings the part, the other one dances it. At the first three performances the dancer, Mlle. Trouhanowa, returned to the stage at the end of the opera to acknowledge the applause of the audience along with the composer and the singers. So far so good.

But at the fourth representation the composer forbade her to do this, because, he said, she had no right to share in the homage due to the music. Dr. Strauss seems further to have told the lady that she followed and practised an inferior art.

This need we take the trouble to recount—was too much for Mlle. Trouhanowa. She was feminine; das ewige Weib che resided in her; and she retorted that the public probably drew as much pleasure from seeing her come back as in receiving the salutation of Dr. Strauss, who is stall, who is angular, and who—unlike Salome—wears all his clothing when he appears in public.

Mlle. Trouhanowa also stoutly defended the dignity of her art, and in the particular instance declared that the dancing half of "Salome" was in no wise inferior to the singing half. And M. Henry Bidou, writing in the Journal des Debats, drily points out that history is on the side of Mademoiselle. "It was not by singing," he says, "even had she sung the music of Dr. Strauss, that Salome obtained from the Tetrarch the head of Jokanaan."

CUNNINGHAM'S BREAD

Eczema is Baby's Enemy

Causing Keen Distress From the Dreadful Itching—Sometimes Lasts for Years.

The first indication of eczema is a red pimple, or blister-like eruption. The points run together, making a moistened patch, which "weeps" at first, and then dries into a crust.

The intense itching of eczema of the face and scalp is very hard for the little one to bear, and the result is scratching until free bleeding takes place, and recovery is further retarded. Besides the suffering from the distressing itching, the child is restless and sleepless.

When left to itself, eczema runs on indefinitely, covering the body with sores, but fortunately there is positive cure in the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, a preparation which, by its marvellous soothing and healing powers, brings quick relief from itching and heals up the sores.

Dr. Chase's Ointment has proven especially successful in the cure of baby eczema, as well as in the prevention of this torturing disease, when used for chafing and skin irritation, in which eczema finds its beginnings; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Thieves Were Fond of Knives.

Long before the usual opening hour the store occupied by C. H. White, in St. Catherine west, was visited by gentlemen who took the opportunity of laying in a few supply of knives, razors, flasks and other small goods. The rears door had been forced open, and, after selecting the articles they fancied most, they packed them carefully away in a large satchel, which they also found in the shop.

Rain Put Out Forest Fires.

News was received at the central offices of the Canadian Pacific Railway yesterday to the effect that the heavy rains had practically extinguished the forest fires, which have been raging on the north shore of Lake Superior and which have done such terrible damage. The Canadian Pacific has been in constant telegraphic communication with the threatened districts since the outbreak of the fire, and was thus the first to learn of the deliverance brought by the rain.

SARAH MAXWELL MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

The Turning of the First Sod Took Place This Morning.

SIR MELBOURNE TAIT SPOKE

Gathering of Prominent Ladies and Gentlemen Witnessed Interesting Ceremony.

This morning the committee having in charge the Sarah Maxwell Memorial Fund met and placed at the disposal of the Children's Memorial Hospital Committee the fund thus far collected, and what is yet to be received. The committee consists of Sir Melbourne Tait, Rev. Dr. Shaw, Rev. Dr. Barclay, Mr. Richard Lane and Mr. H. J. Silver, B.A.

This morning friends of the Memorial Hospital met on the site on the mountain side, where a little girl, daughter of one of the friends of the institution, turned the first sod. Sir Melbourne Tait made a happy speech, referring to the fact that the Children's Memorial Hospital was really established by the children, who were now adding to its resources through the Sarah Maxwell Memorial Fund and in other ways, thirty-one thousand children having contributed to the Maxwell Fund.

The Maxwell Memorial—Sir Melbourne Tait making the address.

Addresses were also delivered by Dr. Blackader, Dr. Mackenzie Forbes and Mr. George G. Foster, K.C., who said that although the hospital had had dark days, and gloomy prospects at times, it was entering on a new era, and was manifestly destined to carry out a grand work.

ANNEXATION DOES NOT DESTROY RIGHTS.

Parties living in territory annexed to the city lose none of the rights and privileges which they would enjoy had no such annexation taken place. This was the principle invoked by Mr. Justice Fortin, in granting the mandamus applied for by Mr. Laurandeau, attorney for Messrs. Vandelac and Carat, whose place of business is in that portion of the municipality of St. Laurent, which became a part of the city of Montreal on May 1st, 1907. Quoting the act authorizing this annexation, Mr. Justice Fortin recited the principle above referred. As the municipal council of St. Laurent had issued certificates entitling the petitioners to licenses, the court held that while the city charter provided for only four hundred licenses outside of St. Henri and Ste. Cunegonde, and while the provision above quoted might apply only to a whole municipality and not to a portion, as in the present case, he must interpret the law on the side of leniency and order Mr. L. H. Boisseau, the collector of provincial revenue, to issue the license as prayed for in the mandamus proceedings. As the matter was in considerable doubt, however, he would grant no costs.

Two Employes Robbed Employers.

Thefts by servants from their employers are becoming quite the fashion in Montreal, a procession of this class of criminals passing through the courts every day. Joseph Ouimet, a driver in the employ of the Canadian Express Company, is one of the latest recruits to this army. For some time back he has been pilfering small sums from his employers, his total defalcations amounting to $16.38. He confessed his fault at the Arraignment Court to-day and will be sentenced on 2nd July.

Another of the same coterie is a tailor named Edmond Choquette, 52 Cadieux, who robbed his master of eight yards of silk valued at $10.50. He was also remanded for sentence till 2nd July.

Robbed Till of His Friend.

A young man named Cyrille Mercier, 63 St. Gabriel street, strolled into the grocer's shop at 21 St. Dominique St., for the apparent purpose of paying a friendly call. He knew Henri Enos, the proprietor, and it was never for a moment imagined that he had any evil in his mind. But he had, and when an opportunity presented itself he stole $50, which had been kept in a little tin box behind the counter. Nemesis overtook this false acquaintance, however, and he appeared before Judge Lafontaine at the Arraignment Court this morning and pleaded guilty. He will be sentenced on Tuesday.

This Man Did Not Feel Heat.

A charge of having appropriated a Persian lamb coat, valued at $200 is hanging over the head of Armand, alias Joseph Ethier, 923 Mount Royal avenue. The complainant is Cyrille Hebert, who resides at the same address. At the Arraignment Court today, Ethier denied the indictment, and enquete was fixed for Tuesday.

Train Derailed Near St. Rose.

About eight o'clock this morning the Canadian Pacific train from St. Rose to Montreal was derailed a short distance from the former town. The accident was due to the breaking of a wheel on the locomotive tender. No one was injured and but slight delay was occasioned.

Run Over by Street Car.

John Staffen, iron worker, 40 years of age, 92 Bourbonniere street, was run over by a street car early to-day, on Notre Dame street. He was severely cut about the head and shoulders, and unless he escaped being killed. He was taken to the Notre Dame Hospital.

BENEFIT CIRCLES MOVED BY JUDGMENT

Judge Holds Mutual Benefit Societies Cannot Raise Assessment on Older Members.

A judgment at Hull yesterday, in the Circuit Court, has caused considerable comment in fraternal benefit circles. Mr. Justice Lafontaine, maintaining an action brought by G. Barron, a member of St. Joseph's Society of Hull, a fraternal benefit society, held that the older and long standing members must not be assessed in larger amounts than the younger and newer members. The society had adopted a by-law raising the rate on the members of long standing, but the judge's decision declares this by-law illegal under the charter of the society.

There are several among the older assessment societies which have taken similar action, and some of the older members are anxious to find out the exact conditions under which the judgment was rendered in order that they may see whether they can obtain relief under the same conditions.

The A. O. U. W., one of the oldest and strongest fraternal organizations, has in recent years raised the assessment on old members from $1 to over $8, besides increasing the number of calls from an average of eight or nine a year to twelve. This is found extremely irksome by the older members, who find themselves in the obligation of paying the largely increased assessments or losing the benefits of all their previous payments. The question arises, however, whether the charter under which the order is incorporated does not allow the increase referred to.

The Artisans Canadiens Francais, the leading French-Canadian fraternal body, within recent years increased the assessments on older members. Up to 1902 there was a flat rate for all members, but in that year the general convention adopted a new rate of assessment. Under this new arrangement the older members are called upon to pay considerably more than they did under the old conditions. There was no difficulty in applying the new regulations, however, as the members present at the convention were made thoroughly acquainted with the condition of affairs which demanded the new rates.

Mr. Germain Beaulieu, general secretary of the Artisans, to-day in discussing the judgement rendered at Hull remarked: "I do not care to criticize the judgment until I know exactly under what conditions the change was made. It seems to me, however, that the new arrangement was the most natural in the world. If an old member has had protection for years at a rate much too low, it is but natural that he should expect to pay more than a new member who will, from the beginning have to pay a higher rate than the older member. The whole principle of mutual insurance is that each must pay up enough to ensure the payment of the benefits to those who need them. For that purpose, our association, from time to time has changed the rates to meet the conditions arising. Every one entering the society signs an engagement to accept the rates as they may be fixed by the general conventions. When the change came in 1902, it was accepted by everybody, although it involved a considerable increase on some of the older members. Some who had been paying $1.50 a call saw their assessment raised to over $2.00 a call, while those coming in later had to pay higher rates according to their age. Of course, the charter of a society may contain a provision for a fixed rate for all members, and this may be the reason upon which the judge based his decision. So far as I can see, however, the action of the society in Hull is the most natural thing in the world, for no society is able to stand unless its members pay enough to keep it in existence on a satisfactory basis."

SUDDEN DEATH OF NATHAN LEWIS.

Nathan Lewis died last night at Sheepshead Bay, New York, after a brief illness. Mr. Lewis was a member of the cigar manufacturing firm of L. Lewis & Co., his brother, Mr. Louis Lewis, being his partner. Mr. Lewis had gone to Sheepshead Bay on the advice of his physician, intending to spend the summer there with Mrs. Lewis. He was taken ill on Sunday night, gradually sinking, until death came last night.

The body will be removed to Montreal, and will arrive here to-morrow morning on board the New York Central train which reaches the Windsor street station at 9 o'clock. The funeral will take place in the afternoon at 3 o'clock from Mr. Lewis's late residence in the Colonial Apartments, West Dorchester street.

Mr. Lewis was a native of Warsaw, Poland, and had been in this country for twenty-five years. He is survived by a brother, Mrs. Lewis, and a family of two sons and three daughters. One son is a doctor in Seattle. One daughter is married to Mr. J. A. Jacobs.

For many years Mr. Lewis had been representative of the American Tobacco Company. Afterwards he formed a partnership with his brother and went into the manufacture of cigars.

The Late William Bill.

The funeral of Mr. William Bill, which took place from his late residence, 11 Chatham street, at two o'clock, to-day, was attended by members of Court St. Jude, No. 5889, Ancient Order of Foresters, with which the deceased had been connected. A service was held at the house, conducted by the Ven. Archdeacon Ker, rector of Grace Church. The chief mourners were Messrs. L. Aston and S. Walford, brothers-in-law, and Masters Walter Connolly and Archie Thompson, grandsons. Others present included Messrs. David Stoba, W. G. Murdock, William Rodden, J. W. Spalding, Robert Mack, J. D. Miller, R. C. Thompson, and H. Thompson. Among the floral tributes was a wreath from the members of Court St. Jude.

Asked to Run for Council.

A delegation of electors of St. Jean Baptiste ward waited on Mr. Eugene W. Villeneuve, son of Hon. Senator Villeneuve, ex-mayor of Montreal, and asked him to be a candidate for municipal honors in February. Mr. Villeneuve was for many years proprietor of the Blackstone Cigar factory, and is well known by the cigarmakers, as well as the business people of St. Jean Baptiste ward. Mr. Villeneuve, if he decides to be a candidate, will oppose Ald. Proulx.

Body Found in the River.

The body of a man was found floating in the water at Cote St. Paul today. The remains are supposed by the morgue officials to be those of J. Juigio, the Italian, who was employed by the Dominion Coal Company, and who was accidentally drowned last Sunday.

Acquitted of Perjury.

Joseph Boyer, who was charged with perjury in connection with an assault case, was acquitted this afternoon.

MUTILATED BODY FOUND.

Saint Theophile du Lac, Que., June 27.—Arthur Brouillette, of this parish, while out fishing on Tuesday, had a most lugubrious experience. Thinking he had hooked a large fish he pulled in his line but dropped it in a hurry when he discovered that the body of a man was at the end. He recovered courage, in a moment, and pulled the corpse out of the water.

The body is that of a man about five feet eight inches in height, weighing about 160 pounds, and judging by appearances about forty to fifty years of age. He had a light brown moustache, blue eyes, wore navy blue trousers and vest and a black satine shirt with the sleeves rolled to the elbows. He also wore a scapular. On the right side of his neck is a wound an inch and a half in length, and two or three inches deep beneath the right ear. There is a wound half an inch long on the left cheek and the eyes are swollen, while there are bruises all over the face. The joints of the right hand are split, as if they had been cut. The man is unknown in these parts and some mystery is believed to underlie the strange find.

AFTER STOLEN ASCOT CUP.

Special to the Montreal Star.

New York, N. Y., June 27.—Three Scotland yard detectives on business bent arrived yesterday on the Oceanic. They refused to talk of their errand except to say that they were going to the British Consulate as soon as possible. There are various rumors to account for the arrival of the English detectives. One story was that they are here to look up the records of some American crooks. Another was that they are here to find and take back an English criminal wanted in England. Rumor gained ground on the steamer that they sought the recently stolen Ascot cup, and that some one on the Oceanic was under surveillance on the voyage. The cup is believed to be headed this way in the baggage of an American.

VIRGINIAN DID NOT STOP AT SYDNEY.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Sydney, N.S., June 27.—While awaiting the arrival of the Virginian this morning, the Government steamer Montcalm received a wireless from the Allan liner to the effect that the mails and passengers would not be landed this trip on account of fog. The captain of the Montcalm reports that there was no fog off the mouth of Sydney harbor this morning, and in this he is corroborated by the captain of the steamer Bruce. Messrs. Alex. Johnstone and A. C. Ross, the federal members for Cape Breton, have forwarded a protest to the Trade and Commerce Department against the payment of the mail subsidy this trip.

Steamer Struck by Lightning.

Special to The Montreal Star.

St. John, N. B., June 27. — Steamer Senlac from Nova Scotian South shore ports, arrived off St. John early this morning, and owing to thick weather, anchored outside Partridge Island. A heavy lightning storm came on and during its course, the Senlac's main mast was struck. The current badly damaged the electrial mechanism of the steamer, burning out the dynamo and other portions of the plant. The woodwork and furnishing of the interior was also damaged, heavy pieces of plaster and rail being thrown about. The accident will not interfere with the steamer's schedule, but a good deal of repair work will be needed.

The Doctor Beat the Burglar.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, June 27.—On Tuesday night a burglar entered the house of Dr. Chabot, of this town. The alarm was given and Mrs. Chabot, in descending the stairs, tripped and fell. While she was lying at the foot of the stairs, the burglar came along in full flight, and he tripped and fell upon her. Dr. Chabot followed in pursuit, found the burglar prostrated, gave him a sound thrashing, and let him go.

PROPOSAL TO CARRY FREIGHT IN CITY STREETS DISCUSSED BY MAYOR AND MANAGING DIRECTOR ROSS

"While the Street Railway Company is not particularly enthusiastic over the question, yet if it is the desire of merchants and manufacturers that the company should undertake cartage of freight, and the city will grant the necessary permission, doubtless a suitable arrangement could be arrived at."

Mr. W. G. Ross, managing director of the Montreal Street Railway system, was to-day asked what the position of the company is in regard to the petition being circulated locally, and which yesterday was presented to the City Council, asking that steps be taken to confer with the Street Railway Company, in the matter of hauling freight through the city. His reply was as quoted in the foregoing.

"The work could be done, of course," continued Mr. Ross, "but we are not very anxious to go into the business. It would, no doubt, be of immense convenience to shippers and those compelled to send goods from one end of the city to the other. However, it is a costly service from the street railway point of view. Of course the cost to the merchant and shipper would be reasonable, but the difference between operating expenses and net earnings would be rather slim, so far as the company is concerned."

Asked if the company had gone into the matter at all, Mr. Ross answered: "No, we have not any plans in the matter. Of course, I am aware that such business is carried on in various cities in the United States. As far as I can see it has not been a very paying line for the railway companies, but, naturally, it has been found beneficial to people who use this method of cartage."

Mr. Ross said that in a city of the peculiar topographical conditions of Montreal, handling freight over the rails would be of great convenience. For instance, there were occasions on which is was necessary to send goods from St. Paul to Longue Pointe. This could be done with facility and speed over the rails, and in a manner far quicker than over the roads by present methods. The condition of the roads, the long distance between manufacturing plants at the extreme east and west ends of the city, and the steep grades to the northern section of the city, were all factors which would go to make this form of carriage useful.

"It would be good, too," continued Mr. Ross, "in bringing in milk and produce from the country. This would relieve the necessity of leaving milk standing in cans in exposed places for hours until a train was ready, and would aid in getting fresher milk to the city. The city itself could benefit by this method of carriage. For instance, the city hauls stone from its quarries by cart. These quarries are situated outside of the city, and it is quite an expensive item when the stone has to be hauled from an outside municipality to the end of the city. This class of work could be done by cars for about 25 per cent. of the cost now compelled by the use of horse and cart and small loads."

MAYOR EKERS FAVORS PROPOSAL ON PROPER CONDITIONS.

The aldermen are much interested in the demand that a number of merchants have made on the City Council, that Council shall make an arrangement with the Street Railway Company whereby the company shall be permitted to haul freight through the streets to the railway stations and to the boats.

The contention of the merchants is that carters are so scarce in the city that the trade of many large merchants is badly hampered.

Speaking of the demand of the merchants His Worship, Mayor Ekers, said to-day: "It stands to reason that the city should do everything in its power to enable merchants to get their merchandise removed to the stations and to the boats as promptly as possible. I know that carters are very scarce. So long as a good arrangement could be made with the Street Railway Company I see no reason why the company should not be allowed to enter upon this new branch of service. Any contract made with the company should result in the city getting an increased revenue by the use of its streets. Such an arrangement, then, would both help the merchants, the Street Railway Company and the civic exchequer. I presume the subject is one that will be carefully discussed in Council."

Ald. Clearihue said that the city should do all in its power to help trade and commerce, at the same time he would not approve of the Street Railway Company doing a freight carrying service in the city, unless the company was disposed to give generously of its increased earnings to the city. He was of the opinion that the city ought to benefit more than what had been the case in the past, when franchises were given out for street privileges.

COUNCIL HAS NO POWER TO PAY POLICE FOR STRIKE OVER-TIME

To the hundreds of policemen who did duty on the wharves, during the longshoremen's strike, the news will not be comforting that the city attorneys have prepared a report to the effect that the city is not authorized by any law, or by-law, to allow any extra remuneration to the policemen who did duty on the wharves.

A petition sent to Council, by the police, asking that they be allowed extra pay for overtime they alleged they put in on the wharves. When it was figured out it was found that the overtime demanded would amount to about eight thousand dollars. This was in addition to paying the board of the officers.

The Police Committee asked Council to give the extra time demanded. When Council discussed the question, the opinion was advanced by a member that the policemen were supposed to be on duty, night and day if required, as is the case with the firemen.

The law department was finally asked to make a report showing if there was any by-law authorizing the city to pay policemen for what was termed extra hours.

The reply of the city attorney, as stated above, is distinctly in the negative.

The text of the attorney's opinion is as follows:

"After having considered the city charter, as well as rules established for the government of the police force, which are contained in a police manual made especially for the use of the police, it is obvious that, although the length of service of the police should be regulated in a precise manner, the police must consider themselves as being liable to be called at any time of the day and of the night to do duty in the interest of public and private peace.

"On the occasion of the longshoremen's strike the services of the police were required on an exceptional occasion, but these services were due to the city owing to the functions which the police are expected to perform, and the police have no right to any extra remuneration for such services, which must be considered as ordinary duties. Such being the circumstances, we are of the opinion that the claim of the police is neither justified nor authorized by any civic enactment."

When the City Council meets on Tuesday next the above opinion will be read. It is understood that a new move will then be made. The move will be to the effect that Council will be asked to vote a lump sum as a "bonus" to the police.

HAD MONTREAL IN VIEW.

Rev Mr. Taylor, Accused of Keeping Conference Funds, Meant to Build Church Here.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Brantford, Ont., June 27.—Nearly all of the members of the B. M. E. Conference "Colored," now in session here with their friends gathered in the police court yesterday to follow the trial of one of their number, Rev. John G. Taylor, of Woodstock, charged with retaining the books of the conference with intent to defraud.

Mr. Taylor left the conference suddenly last week, and was arrested at Montreal. When arraigned yesterday he pleaded not guilty. The complainants allege that instead of supplying the books for audit, Mr. Taylor gave the conference a typewritten statement, in which he showed the funds which he had collected as special agent of the church. Mr. Taylor also outlined his visits to some of what he termed the grandest millionaires in New York, including Carnegie, Morgan, Hettie Green and Rockefeller, from all of whom he solicited funds. The conference wanted the books to see just how much he had collected. The prisoner's argument was that while in New York he had received the intimation that the conference was about to expel Rev. Mr. McGowan, of Windsor and himself, and he did not want to hand over the books, and thus allow his successor to canvass the best men in the country. His desires was to build a big church in Montreal, and to this end he was not divulging the names of the contributors.

Rev. Mr. White, secretary of the conference, swore that Taylor had refused to turn in the books, and had ignored the conference order to appear himself, but instead had left Brantford, presumably for Hamilton, and was finally arrested in Montreal.

Magistrate Woodyat presided at the hearing, remarking that the title of Reverend often covered a great deal of iniquity, even in Brantford. "You are skinning a little just now," he said to the prisoner. "Restitution should follow repentence. The conference should give a little prayerful entreaty to have the matter straightened out. The prisoner was bailed and will appear again, the office being directed to secure the books in the meantime with the object of substantiating the charge.

Beaten and Stabbed.

It is reported that an employe of the Great Northern Railway was beaten and stabbed in Hochelaga early this morning. The police are on the track of the assailant.

EXPELLED FROM MINISTRY.

Why the Baptist Council at Toronto Expelled One of the Ministry.

Toronto, June 27.—Stating in a resolution that they were convinced that the Rev. M. D. Coltman, "had been guilty of conduct utterly unworthy a minister of Christ," the Baptist Council, at a meeting on Monday, formally expelled him from the ministry of that church. Charges of immoral conduct also has been laid against Mr. Coltman, and when these charges came up for investigation he offered no defence. It was also alleged that he had bought and sold mining stocks.

The offending clergyman was ordained about five years ago and had charges at Brampton and St. Catharines. At present he is residing in London. The resolution of the council reads; "whereas Rev. M. D. Coltman has been reported to be guilty of immoral conduct, and whereas a council duly called, convened and constituted at the Baptist Missions, Toronto, on June 24, 1907, received evidence that convinced them that the said M. D. Coltman had been guilty of conduct utterly unworthy a minister of Christ; Therefore, be it resolved, that this council do hereby withdraw from the said M. D. Coltman the hand of fellowship of the Baptist ministry, and that this action be given due publicity by the moderator and clerk of the council."

THE TRANS-CANADA LIMITED.

The C. P. R. New Fast Transcontinental Service.

The new fast service to be inaugurated by the Canadian Pacific Railway, Tuesday, July 2nd, will carry passengers across the continent in a little over three days and a half, the quickest time made by any railway in America. The new trains will consist of two or more sleeping cars and a diner—of latest pattern—with baggage car, and will rank among the most luxurious in the world. No day coaches will be attached, and the trains will be exclusively confined to holders of first-class tickets who desire sleeping car accommodation. These "Trans-Canada Limited" trains will leave Montreal, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12.30 noon during the months of July and August. Connecting trains leave Toronto for North Bay at 1.45 p.m. on the same day. Close connection is made at Moose Jaw with the new fast trains for Spokane and other western American points.

DAVIS WAS NOT INTERESTED IN IT

The Haywood Witness Saw Train Full of Masked Men, But it Aroused No Curiosity.

Boise, Idaho, June 27.—W. F. Davis, the witness for the defence in the case against William D. Haywood, took the chair again to-day and Senator Borah continued the cross-examination commenced yesterday.

Orchard commenced his story of bloodcurdling crime with the blowing up of the concentrator at Wardner by a mob of 1,000 union men. The mill was at that time being operated by non-union laborers. Orchard told the story of the trip to Wardner, when the miners captured a train and compelled the engineer to run it to Wardner. He said W. F. Davis was one of the leaders of the mob.

The defence put Davis upon the stand to contradict Orchard and tell the jury that Davis, instead of being at Wardner on that day, was in fact in the town of Gem. In the direct examination Davis told of his movements on the day of the explosion at Wardner, said that he did not know Orchard, did not belong to the union and was not at Wardner.

Under Senator Borah's cross-examination the man stuck to the story that he was not at Wardner. He added that he saw the train go by with some 300 men on board, all wearing masks, but said he did not know any of the men; that he took no interest in the fact that the train was going thrqugh under such peculiar circumstances. He could not give the names of any union man on the train. Heard it stated later, he said, that the concentrator of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine had been blown up, but he did not learn until the following day that anyone had been killed. Immediately afterwards Davis said he fled to the Hercules mine, where he remained in hiding and then got out of Idaho, changing his name to Jones.

Senator Borah took Davis over the period he spent in hiding in the Hercules mine after the Bunker Hill explosion. He said that Paulson and another man were there. He remembered two men calling at the mine while he was there. They were union men getting out of the country. Orchard said that he was at the Hercules at this time. Davis was unable to recall Orchard as one of these men, nor could he remember when he first met Steve Adams at Cripple Creek. Davis said he was at home on the night of the Vindicator mine explosion and denied that he had called at Orchard's house early and taken him to a union meeting.

Davis was followed by William Easterly, who was concerned in the strike at Cripple Creek and will testify as to the Independence Depot and and the Vindicator mine explosions. Easterly will be examined at length as to Orchard's statement that "Bill" Easterly was one of the men who was concerned in the plots to blow up the Independence Depot.

GRAND TRUNK ENGINEERS.

Railway Company Establish Precedent by Applying for Conciliation Board.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, June 27.—The Department of Labor has received from Mr. W. B. Robb, superintendent of motive power for the Grand Trunk, an application for a board of conciliation and arbitration with regard to the relations between the company and its locomotive engineers.

The investigation will affect all engineers on the system, or some 1,300 men. It is to include wages, rules, hours of labor, etc., and the application specially asks that the agreement of April 1st, be gone into. This is the first instance of a company asking for a board.

TO BAR EARTHQUAKES.

Canadian Fire Underwriters May Exclude Damages Arising From Earthquakes.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Toronto, Ont., June 27.—The annual of the Canadian Fire Underwriters Association is being held at the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, to-day. Perhaps the most interesting matter to be discussed is the situation in Winnipeg, where the supply of water is bad. It is said that an effort may be made to raise the rates there.

An effort likewise will be made to mak it possible framing policies to exclude liability for damages that are the direct result of earthquakes.

NEW STATISTICS OF CANADIAN INDUSTRY

The Census of Manufacturers Presents Some Interesting Figures.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, June 27.—Another bulletin issued this morning relative to the recent census of Canadian manufactures shows that the capital employed in manufacturing establishments in Canada in 1905, was $843,931,178 as compared with $446,916,487, or about ninety per cent., while production increased $234,000,000. or about fifty per cent.

The apparent disparity in the ratios of increase, it is explained, is no doubt owing to the inability of recently established works to produce to their full capacity. In cars and car works, for example, the ratio of production to capital in full was 151, and in 1905 it was 101. In Portland cement works it was 86 and 16. In smelting works it was 675 and 325, and in electric light works it was 17 and 9 for each year respectively. The five years have been a growing period in industrial investment, and the full results are not yet realized.

The bulletin shows that there are twenty industrial interests in Canada in which over ten millions of capital are invested.

In the five years the greatest increase in capital invested is credited to lumber, including log products, with the electrical and smelting interests next on the list. The figures for the leading industries are as follow:

Heavy Buying of Dominion Steel--Sharp Rise in Call Money in Wall Street

STEEL UP TO 23 AND BIG BLOCKS CHANGED HANDS

Call Money Takes a Spurt And Goes Over 5 p..c. In Wall Street.

MARKET THERE WAS RATHER IRREGULAR.

Earnings of Some of the Concerns Listed on the Exchange—Coal Sold at 56.

The demonstration in Dominion Steel common was the sole feature of the Montreal market this morning, and there was a hungry demand for the stock when the gong sounded at 12.30.

There had been pretty big buying all through the session, and, opening at 22½, the stock went to 23 before the close, representing a clean advance of 5 points over the recent low level.

As stated elsewhere, it is believed by people in a position to know that Mr. Jas. Ross was increasing his holding and accumulated a good deal of stock.

The rise in Steel imparted a firm tone to the rest of the market, but trading in other issues was extremely limited.

Power was firm at 87, and that stock is still going into the hands of investors at the rate of from 300 to 600 shares a week.

There was a sale of 100 shares of Dominion Coal at 56, and Twin City, after selling at 93¾, was off to 93.

Textile common stock again sold at 45, a lot of 150 shares changing hands on that basis.

IN WALL STREET.

The Wall Street market during the first hour showed considerable strength and activity. There was, however, profit-taking on strong spots, and towards noon the market became irregular and less active.

The Gould shares were the strong features, and held well, while the Harriman issues were inclined to weaken.

Money was quoted at 5 per cent., but the rise had no material effect on prices.

TO INCREASE CAPITAL.

The directors of the North of Scotland Canadian Mortgage Company, Limited, have issued a circular to shareholders proposing that the capital should be increased to meet the increasing demand of loans at remunerative rates in the Canadian North-West. The directors recommend that the capital be increased by £250,000 in £10 shares, of which it is proposed that £2 should be called up and paid, as in the case of the existing shares. The capital will then be £1,000,000.

HILL ROAD DOING WELL.

The earnings of the Great Northern for the month of May and June break all previous records. June receipts promise to show an increase of more than $1,000,000 and will turn som...ship like 25 per cent. ahead of June last year. This will bring the total earnings of the year up to about $56,000,000, probably somewhat more, not including the earnings of certain proprietary lines.

C. P. R. BUYS COKE.

Word was received in Montreal yesterday from the management of the International Coal & Coke Company, of Coleman, Alberta, to the effect that a contract had been signed with the Canadian Pacific Railway, by which the latter agrees to take the total output of the mines over and above the company's own requirements, for their coke ovens.

HAVANA ELECTRIC.

Havana Electric showed an increase of $2,993 for the second week of June. From January 1st to June 23rd the earnings total $528,882, an increase of $99,545.

Toledo earnings for the first three weeks of June show an increase of $4,423, or 4.9 per cent.

SATISFACTORY EARNINGS.

On the basis of net earnings for the three months ending May 31st, the earnings of the Porto Rico Railways Company, Ltd., for twelve months would amount to $141,980, while the interest on present bond issue of $2,300,000 is only $115,000.

Only $850,000 of the bond issue is represented in the present earnings, the balance being for developments which have not yet an earning power, consisting of the incomplete water power development and the railway to Caguas now under construction. The net earnings are therefore nearly three and one-half times the amount required to pay interest on $850,000 of bonds.

Twin City for the second week of June shows an increase of $3,030; from January 1, increase $260,864.

Banks lost $7,521,000 since last Friday to sub-treasury.

T. W. Lawson Is The Bull Leader

Wall Street papers generally agree that the bull leader in the stock market is Thomas W. Lawson, the prophet, of Boston, who has expressed the belief that prices have gone low enough.

If he is the leader, Mr. Lawson will not advertise that stocks are cheap until he has accumulated a line that he wants to sell.

Some think that James R. Keene has also been a mild bull on the market, but Lawson's hand, the papers say, was in evidence the day after his return from the other side.

Another Denial Of Rubber Deal

The report that the Canadian Consolidated Rubber Company had been sold to the United States Rubber Company has been emphatically denied by the vice-president of the Canadian concern.

The Star telegraphed Mr. Samuel P Colt, president of the United States Rubber Company, and asked:

"Is it true that the United States Rubber Company has secured control of the Canadian Consolidated Rubber Company?"

The following wire promptly came in reply:

New York, June 26.

Star, Montreal.

United States Rubber Company does not own a share of the stock referred to.

(Signed) JOHN D. CARBERRY,
Secretary to the President.

ANOTHER OFFICIAL DENIES.

(Wall Street Summary.)

An official of the U. S. Rubber Co. denies the report from Montreal that his company had acquired control of the Canadian Consolidated Rubber Co., and adds that he does not know how or where the report had its origin.

WILL ISSUE A MILLION MORE.

Shareholders of the Home Bank Authorize An Increase.

The shareholders of the Home Bank of Canada at the annual meeting authorized an increase of $1,000,000 in the capital stock, making a total capitalization of $2,000,000.

The directors' report, in referring to the proposed new stock issue, pointed out increased trade of the country, especially in the North-West, where there are very advantageous opportunities for the use of capital. None of the new stock, is was announced, may be issued this year.

Consols Have a Good Recovery

British Consols have had an excellent rally from their recent record low level, and the advance has helped to make general sentiment more optimistic.

To-day in London Consols sold as high as 84⅝, making a gain of 1 3-8 from the low point reached on June 19.

SILVER IS A LITTLE HIGHER.

Price of Metal Has Advanced 2 1-2 Cents From Low Level.

The latest purchase by the United States Treasury Department of 100,000 ounces of silver at 67.803 cents an ounce represents a recovery of 2½ cents an ounce from the low point of the year resultant from a slump from last year's high price.

Last year the price of silver was advanced from 64.597 cents, the average price for the month of March, to 70.813 cents in November; the subsequent reaction caused the metal to drop to 65.462 cents in April of the current year, while later transactions have been at a constantly advancing figure, the last recorded being at 67.503 cents.

SAID MR. ROSS IS STILL BUYING STEEL COMMON

Three Plans are Proposed to Avoid a Long Conflict in the Courts.

HAVE NOT BEEN PUT BEFORE MR. PLUMMER.

Possible That There Will Be a Demonstration of Strength at Steel Meeting.

The "Street" continues deeply interested in the plans on foot to settle the Steel-Coal war before it goes to the courts, but so far not a great deal has been accomplished, as Mr. Plummer and his friends have not been interviewed recently.

The peace-makers have three propositions, it is said, and the claim is made in some quarters that Mr. Ross is agreeable to a settlement upon at least two of the three plans proposed.

In the meantime there is talk that there may possibly be a demonstration of strength at the Steel meeting on July 5th on behalf of the people who are opposed to a prolonged battle in the courts.

A decided factor in the situation is the large interest Mr. Ross has acquired in the Steel Company, and the support he is said to be getting from powerful interests.

Mr. Ross returned to Montreal late this morning, while it will be some days before Mr. Plummer gets back to the city.

On the stock market the view is held that the recent buying of Steel is significant, and before the week is out it would not be surprising to learn that Mr. Ross' holdings of Steel are much larger than indicated by the official figures given in the Star last night.

It was said that he was a buyer of the stock again to-day on a large scale.

Small Holdings Of the Directors

Financial Editor Montreal Star:

Sir,—I must confess that the statement of Steel shareholders in last night's Star opened my eyes, and I was astonished to learn of the small holdings of stock by the directors who are apparently dictating the warlike policy of the company.

If your figures are correct—and you appear to speak with authority—there were represented at the last meeting of Steel directors at the Windsor Hotel exactly 1,117 shares of common stock out of 200,000.

In other words, the market value of the directors' holdings at that meeting was $22,000, or $111,700 par, and they are asked to swing a company capitalized at $25,000,000 stock and $9,500,000 bonds!

It seems to me an anomolous situation that the affairs of this vast company should be swung by a small but active body of men who have no substantial interest in its securities.

To my mind the larger shareholders should be represented on the board, and perhaps we would be able to avoid a long and costly lawsuit with Mr. Ross.

A LIVELY MEETING LIKELY.

Foster Shareholders are Meeting in Toronto This Afternoon.

A good deal of interest is centred in the general meeting of shareholders of the Foster Mining Company, which is to be held in Toronto this afternoon.

For the past two weeks a big bid has been for proxies, and some dealers have collected a good bunch of them.

The general anticipation is that the meeting will be a strenuous one.

"There is going to be a pretty lively discussion," said one mining man, "and developments can be expected."

OPINIONS ON THE MARKET

Burnett & Co.—Those who have had the widest experience in the movements of the market and who are in the best position to get information regarding conditions the world over, that are the most important factors the world over in the financial situation think that the time has not yet come for a sustained upward movement, but they believe that the tide has turned toward better times.

J. B. Picken—The late selling yesterday apparently satisfied the demand of the short interest inquiry for stocks in the loan crowd after the close being reported as very light.

A. O. Brown—The stiffening of call money rates had been expected, and exerted no adverse influence.

J. S. Bache—Some activity is expected in the market this afternoon, and we look for prices to do better.

A FAMILIAR WALL ST. SCENE.

The entrance to the New York Stock Exchange.

The Star was not very far astray when it stated some weeks ago that Mr. James Ross was persistently buying Dominion Steel stock, and was strengthening his hand in the affairs of that company.

Many thought that because Mr. Ross was sailing European waters in his yacht that he would not likely be accumulating Steel, but the authentic figures given in last night's paper show that his buying orders were being filled while he was holidaying.

That Mr. Ross is the largest individual shareholder of the company he is fighting is one of the interesting features connected with the battle between Steel and Coal.

There are 178,358 shares on the Montreal register of the Dominion Steel Company and 21,642 shares on the Boston register, making a total of 200,000 shares.

The recent declaration of a 200 per cent. dividend by the Adams Express Co. has sent the price of its stock to 315, the highest point ever reached.

There are those who believe that Wells-Fargo is to follow Adams' policy in distributing its surplus. It is said that, upon this assumption, a syndicate is offering $50 a share above the current market price for its stock, and its quotation on the exchange shows a proportionate advance.

The high and low for the past year of the four leading express stocks is shown in the following table:

	High.	Low.
Adams	315	240
American	272	204
United States	136	95
Wells-Fargo	305	256

A year ago American and United States were selling higher than now. They continued on a rising scale until September, then, in sympathy with the general market, they declined until Adams' dividend action again sent them skyward.

Mr. J. H. Plummer is in New York today attending a meeting of steel manufacturers and railroad leaders to discuss the steel rail question.

Mr. Plummer will go to Toronto from New York, and expects to be back in Montreal early next week.

A bill designed to drive the bucket shops out of Connecticut has just passed the Senate of that state.

Broker Is After Lawson's $5000

From the Special Correspondent of the Montreal Star in Wall Street.

New York, June 27—Van Cline Holmes, a Consolidated Exchange broker, who exposed the fallacy of the stock market theory propounded by Thomas W. Lawson in his novel, has been hot on the Boston man's trail ever since Lawson landed from Europe last week.

Holmes wants $5,000 that Lawson offered as a reward if the stock market did not go to smash as he prophesied.

Holmes has not met with much success in his pursuit of Thomas, being pretty close to him several times, but never within speaking distance.

Yesterday he got to the door of Lawson's room in the Waldorf, but the author's secretary interrupted him, and said Lawson could not possibly see him.

Holmes has been hanging around the Waldorf until his legs ache, he says, but Lawson always seems able to get out of the way.

Turned Bullish On the Market

A prominent Wall Street house well known in Montreal has long been bearish on the market. The other day it sent out over a thousand circulars saying that stocks were a buy.

For the guidance of its customers it drew up a list of the most attractive stocks.

The list does not include Union Pacific, Pennsylvania or New York Central, but the omission is not accidental. When attention was drawn to this feature of the table last night the explanation was vouchsafed that these three stocks contain elements that render them insecure from a strictly investment point of view. "We all know what Harriman is—and that is enough to condemn U.P.," said a representative of the house. "Pennsylvania has far too many obligations, and the New York Central is in a sad muddle over its financing."

"The following," says the circular, "is a list of the best class of representative railroad and industrial stocks, which are selling at attractive prices and returning from 5½ to 7 per cent. and over. We are recommending their purchase strictly as an investment proposition to hold:

Antwerp, June 27. — Petroleum, 22 francs.

Notices have been posted on 'Change to the effect that the London Corn Trade Association has adopted the Montreal rule defining "first half" and "second half" of a given month's shipment. A revision of the contract forms will take place in the autumn.

"We are disappointed at the action of the 'longshoremen in refusing to accept the award," declared a shipper on 'Change to-day. The men received what in reality they fought for, but seem to baulk at the provision which requires them to stay at the work right up to the end of he season. This is important to the shippers, as sometimes we are seriously handicapped by the absence of the men towards the close of navigation, and with the increase granted we believe they should put in the full time. However, if there is going to be another strike, it is better that it should come on now than in the autumn when business will be much heavier."

European visible, 81,248,000 bushels of wheat; decrease for the week, 1,652,000 bushels.

A wire from New York to-day says: "The nearness of the monthly Government cotton report, which will be published on July 2nd, will naturally cause a nervous feeling, as conservatives prefer to even up before such a critical period."

Broomhall cabled the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. to-day: "Quiet demand; cargoes continued. Kingdom, fine and warm."

The following gentlemen were introduced on 'Change to-day: Messrs. T. Lisle Maughan, Newcastle-on-Tyne, by Mr. W. W. Craig; J. Hunter, Newcastle-on-Tyne, by Mr. W. W. Craig; R. McGinn, of Winnipeg, by Mr. R. W. Oliver.

Advices from Seattle state fishermen from Puget Sound are departing daily for Oregon because higher prices are paid for salmon on the Columbia River than on Puget Sound. The year of a light run of salmon on Puget Sound next month has also caused many to leave for the South.

CHEESE MARKET IS DULL.

The cheese market to-day is exceptionally quiet, practically nothing doing, as the cable responses to offers made have been most discouraging, and in cases where replies have been received the bids are lower than the current prices.

The prospects are for comparatively light shipments this week, and if so there will undoubtedly be a good quantity of cheese carried over until next week, which should have the effect of causing prices to decline.

From different accounts the rains have been general all over the cheese-producing section, and as a result the flow of milk is expected to materially increase during the next two weeks.

The official quotations to-day are: Ontario, 11½ to 11¾c; Townships, 11¾c; Quebecs, 11½c.

The local receipts to-day were 20,839 boxes.

BUTTER MARKET STEADY.

The butter buying to-day has been done mainly by one or two of the local houses, while other firms evidently do not believe in the present prices, judging by the way they refuse to operate at the moment.

As far as can be learned there is nothing doing for export, and if the make increases it will cause a surplus over the home trade requirements, and as soon as this occurs prices cannot help but ease off.

The official quotations to-day are: Ontarios 20c, dairy 17½c to 18c; Townships 20¾ to 21c; Quebecs 20½ to 20½c.

The local receipts were 5,924 cases.

Mate of Lady Grey Killed.

Owing to the easterly gales and fogs prevailing down the river, the Government steamer Lady Grey, with the dredge Cumberland in tow, has put into Riviere du Loup. Captain Mercier, the commander, yesterday wired Mr. F. W. Cowie, harbor engineer, that the mate of the Lady Grey, named Charbonneau, had been struck by a cable and killed. The Lady Grey will continue with the dredge to Nova Scotia as soon as the weather becomes favorable.

According to the gulf report yesterday a Thomson liner was passing outward at Point Amour. This is the first steamer to be reported in the Strait of Belle Isle this season. Messrs. WHEAT PRICES WERE FORCED UPWARDS TO-DAY

Bulls Boomed Prices on Strength of Less Favorable Reports.

FOREIGN REPORTS ARE VERY GLOOMY.

Cheese Market is Quiet — Export Butter Trade Slow—Provisions in Good Demand.

From the Special Correspondent of the Montreal Star on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Chicago, — Wheat closed to-day, July 95¾, against an opening of 92½; September 99, against an opening of 95¼.

Chicago, June 27.—William Carruthers, of the big grain exporting concern of James Carruthers & Company, Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, was on the Board of Trade to-day, after a trip through Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin, where he went to look over the crop situation. "Our party of crop inspectors passed through 250 miles of wheat territory in Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin," said Mr. Carruthers.

Millions of Bugs.

"We stopped at random and found millions of bugs—in fact the wheat was alive with them. Hoyt, the crop expert, who is on the road for W. H. Lake & Company, of Chicago, and Armstrong, the Ogilvie crop expert, both of whom covered almost every country in Kansas, pronounced the north-western bugs the same as those in the south-west with the exception that those in the north-west have black legs.

Sampled Pests.

"We took a sample of the bugs to the Experimental Station outside of Minneapolis, where they were placed under a powerful glass and pronounced by the professors the same bug as those in the south-west."

"While the damage thus far is not noticeable, it is sure to follow the ravages of these insect pests in about three weeks."

Slow to Believe.

The Chicago trade is slow to allow these bug stories just as they discredited the damage from the south-west, but they will be forced to accept the truth when the damage develops.

Wheat Plant Late.

The wheat plant in the North-West is three weeks late, and there is likely to be more or less trouble from this cause, as there will surely be a lot of crop scare talk later on with the appearance of the early frost.

Halp Watson, the Minneapolis wheat man, in a message, said: "Lots of bad reports coming from the North-West. It does not look as if we were going to have much of a crop up here, in which case wheat will have to sell a great deal higher."

Chafton, of Carrington, North Dakota, wires: "Wheat weedy and three weeks late, and looks very bad; needs rain badly."

Bullish Reports.

Winnipeg wired Carruthers: "Weather very warm. Crop needs r

Canadian Associated Press.

London, June 27.—The Tribune says its recent article on the All-Red route gave expression to the view widely prevalent in the lobby of the House of Commons, where it was thought advisable to prevent any possibility of Hon. D. Lloyd-George's half-hearted consent to the scheme being translated into action.

RUSSIAN MINISTER RESIGNS.

Von Schwanebach, Comptroller of Empire, Forced Out by Premier.

St. Petersburg, June 27.—The Emperor has accepted the resignation of Charles Von Schwanebach, the comptroller of the empire, and leader of the reactionary wing of the cabinet in the campaign for the dissolution of the Douma.

The retirement of Comptroller Schwanebach marks the culmination of Premier Stolypin's protracted struggle for the control of his own ministry. M. Von Schwanebach, who has spent his entire life in State service, is unlikely ever to return again to an influential position. His retirement was followed by the resignation of other reactionary ministers.

Much Food Was Confiscated.

There was quite a large quantity of food confiscated in the city last week as being unfit for human consumption. There was confiscated at the abattoirs 2 cattle, 6 calves, 3 sheep, 3 livers, 105 pounds of meat. At the various stalls and markets there were confiscated, 1,037 pounds of beef, 958 veal, 249 mutton, 341 pork, 208 poultry, 396 sausages, 139 livers, 109 pounds of kidney, 39 tripe, 146 blood pudding, 670 fruit, 500 veal, 628 fish and 260 sundries.

MOTHER AND FOUR CHILDREN CREMATED

Five Charred Bodies Taken From the Ruins in To-day's Fire at Arnprior.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Arnprior, Ont., June 27. — At two o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the Neilson block on Madawaska street. The fire originated in the Arnprior steam laundry and completely destroyed that building together with the meat shop and dwelling of Robert J. Charbonneau and part of the Hamilton and Lewitt knitting factory. Mrs. Armstrong, wife of the manager of the laundry, and her four little children were cremated in their rooms above the laundry. Mr. Armstrong barely escaped with his life. The five bodies were taken from the ruins this morning.

THE PETER FONTAINE CASE.

What the Doctor and Magistrate Testified and the Text of Jury's Verdict.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Dalhousie, N.B., June 27.—The evidence in the coroner's court in the closing day of the Fontaine inquest, was chiefly technical.

John J. Lapointe, sworn, said: 'I reside in Balmoral. I was at the graveyard in Balmoral on Saturday last. I swear that the body that was raised and upon which Dr. Martin made an examination, was that of the late Peter Fontaine."

Dr. Martin, sworn: "I am a physician residing in Campbellton. I am duly registered. I was not acquainted with the late Peter Fontaine. I held a post mortem on his body on Saturday. The whole body was pretty much swollen. I found several marks on the legs, and found a bullet wound situated about five inches from the spine. The bullet hole was about a quarter of an inch in size, but I could not locate the bullet. On further examination, I found a bullet wound situated about five inches from the spine. The size of this second bullet hole was exactly the same as the first bullet hole described, also clean cut. There were no mark of powder around first described wound, while in the second there was, especially in the right side, a sign of burning. I could not say if it was powder in that state of putrefaction of the body. I could not locate the bullet. I then opened the skull to examine the brain, but no examination was possible. There was no sign of blood, therefore no hemorrhage of the brain. I found that first bullet did not injure any big blood vessel. In an examination of the heart, I found a bullet wound at its base. There were no traces of bullet holes into the liver. There could not be any large quantity of blood from the hemorrhage of which Peter Fontaine died. The wound in the buttocks would not be fatal. He might have been shot while stooping or climbing the stair. Allan, firing at seven feet, could not inflict a wound on a man crawling on his hands and knees. To do so, he would have to be very close. Both wounds, by appearance, were about the same size."

Coroner showed witness bullets, size 22 and 32. He replied: "The latter sized bullet caused the wounds. It was impossible for the smaller sized cartridge to cause the wounds. They were caused by bullets of the same calibre. I only found two bullet wounds on the body. The other marks on the body were not serious. A man could not live longer than two or three minutes after receiving the wound he said in the heart. I am satisfied there were only two wounds on the body. I am satisfied that death was not caused by any trouble with the brain. It is difficult to tell how long a man could live after gun shot wounds. If the appearance of the burn were caused by powder, the shot would have to be fired near the body."

James S. Harquail, sworn, said: 'I am a barrister. I am also sitting magistrate for Dalhousie, and Clerk of the Peace. I issued warrants for the arrest of Peter and Andrew Fontaine at the instance of Charles Doyle. I did not warn the officers of the danger in arresting the Fontaines. I had a conversation with Gallop. I gave the warrants to Doyle. I said to Gallop, when he suggested to take a second man with him, that he had better. I did not tell the coroner that I said to Gallop to be careful. Mr. Gallop mentioned Mr. Seely's name. I said he had better get some one who knew the locality. I may have told the officers that it would be better to get there early in the morning. Mr. Doyle asked me for a warrant. It was their duty to make the arrests as soon as possible. It would be the duty of the officers to say 'I arrest you in the King's name,' putting hands on the prisoner. It is all a question of circumstances whether a constable should point a revolver or not." This concluded the evidence, and Mr. Trueman addressed the jury for more than an hour.

Coroner Ferguson spoke briefly, leaving the matter in the hands of the jury.

The jury retired at 3.30 and reported at 8 o'clock the following verdict:

"We find that the said Peter Fontaine came to his death from a bullet discharged into his body from a revolver in the hands of George Seely, a peace officer, while executing or attempting to execute a warrant for the arrest of the sai Peter Fontaine, but we cannot agree whethere there was any criminality on the part of the said George Seely in the act or not."

Mr. Lawlor congratulated the coroner and jury for the way the investigation had been conducted. In this he was seconded by Mr. Trueman.

ONTARIO CONSERVATIVES.

Dr John Barr, M.P., Again Shelburne's Convention's Choice for Parliament.

Shelburne, Ont., June 27. — At the Conservative convention here yesterday for the purpose of selecting candidates to represent the electorate riding of Dufferin in the Dominion and Ontario Houses, Dr. John Barr, of Shelburne, the present member, was the choice for the Dominion House, against J. R. Gillespie, of Orangeville, by 130 to 81. For the Ontario House there were five names before the delegates, viz.: C. R. McKeown and J. L. Island, of Orangeville; John A. Best, of Mulmur; W. A. Wansborough, of Amaranth, and Alexander McDonald, of Mono. The first ballot stood: McKeown, 110; Best, 69; Wansborough, 25; Island, 14; McDonald, 7; thus leaving McKeown the choice. All parts of the riding were well represented, there being 281 delegates present.

THIRTY-EIGHT TEACHERS WILL TOUR EUROPE.

Among the passengers on the Allan liner Sicilian, which sailed from this port for Glasgow this morning, was a party of St. Louis school teachers, thirty-eight in number, who are on their way to Europe to spend the summer holidays, visiting the educational institutions of the old world. The trip will be partly a pleasure one and partly for the purpose of familiarizing themselves with the educational systems on the other side.

SHIPPERS HAVE WASHED HANDS OF WHOLE AFFAIR.

Representatives of the various shipping companies met at the offices of the Shipping Federation yesterday afternoon to discuss the recent award of the Board of Conciliation and Investigation in the matter of the 'Longshoremen's trouble. After the meeting it was announced that the 'longshoremen, having refused to accept the award of the board, for which they asked, the shipping companies will make no move in the matter. The shipping companies pledged themselves to abide by the award on condition that the men did the same and worked until the end of navigation. The men having refused to do this, the matter thus ends, the companies claiming they have washed their hands of the whole matter.

AGED INDIAN KILLED BY TRAIN.

While walking along the railway track during yesterday morning's thunderstorm, Frank Requis, a 75-year-old Caughnawaga Indian, was struck and killed near the Lachine canal, by the Valleyfield local of the New York Central railway. It is supposed that the thunder prevented the old man from hearing the approaching train. The victim is survived by two daughters and many grandchildren. Requis was a team driver and was on his way to get his horses when he was run down.

DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD

APPLIED AS A COLD CREAM

Wherever applied, its healing and nourishment is instantly absorbed by the pores. It strengthens and builds up the tissues underlying the skin and Firm, Healthy Flesh is the result.

DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD is no new experiment. It has been in use for more than fifty years and during that time thousands of women and men have used it with entire satisfaction.

That it is not to be classed with "Cold Creams" and other things of like superficial potency is proved by the fact that it is prescribed by leading physicians and used in hospitals for the nutrition of invalids whose stomachs are too weak to digest food.

DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD should be used by every woman who has the least desire to be attractive. It is the only preparation that will round out hollowed, thin cheeks or scrawny neck with Firm, Healthy Flesh and Remove Wrinkles from the face and hands, no matter how deep the furrow.

FOR DEVELOPING THE IMMATURE BUST or to make the breast firm, large and beautiful nothing can equal it. To prevent the breasts from shrinking, after weaning baby, mothers should always use DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD. It will also restore a bosom to its natural contour and beauty lost through nursing and sickness.

SPECIAL OFFER. The regular price of DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD is $1.00 a box, but to introduce it into thousands of new homes we have decided to sell it through W. H. Scroggie's, Montreal, for 45 cents a box. Mail orders are also filled at this price.

FREE A Sample Box—just enough to convince you of the great merit of DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD—will be sent free for 10 cents, which pays for cost of mailing. With this sample we will also send you our illustrated Book, "Art of Massage," which contains all the proper movements for Massaging the face, neck and arms and full directions for developing the bust. SANITARIUM AT ST. AGATHE HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Another big fire has occurred at Ste. Agathe, by which Guay's mill and woodworking factory was destroyed and the Brehmer Rest had a very narrow escape.

The fire started late Sunday night after the patients at the Rest had retired for the night, and the mill was soon enveloped in the flames. The Sanitarium is only about a hundred feet from the burned building, and only the fact that the night was very calm saved it from destruction. The only male patient in the Rest was sent to the village for assistance which arrived promptly headed by Dr. Ritcher. In the meantime, however, all the patients had dressed and packed their belongings and all the furniture had been removed to the lawn, where it was unfortunately soaked by a heavy rain storm. The building was saved from destruction by the good work of a bucket brigade. Some of the patients have been confined to their rooms since through the shock and exposure, but no serious results are anticipated. The loss to the owners of the mill is estimated at about $12,000, with insurance of only $2,000.

THE WEATHER

PROBABILITIES FOR THE NEXT 24 HOURS.

Strong north-westerly winds, fair. Friday, westerly winds, fine and cool.

In some ways to-day was not a pleasant one. It was dark most of the time, and threatening all the time, so that one never felt safe, especially after yesterday's demonstration of what the weather could do when it got rightly started. There was, however, one great blessing in to-day's weather which more than compensated for all drawbacks, and that was the respite from the heat. To-day was cool, be it said to its great honor; and Montrealers felt that any man who could find the heart to complain was ungrateful indeed.

COUNCIL WILL SERVE PROTESTS

Maisonneuve Criticizes Light, Heat and Power and Water and Power Companies.

At its regular meeting last evening, the town council of Maisonneuve determined on serving protests on the Montreal Water and Power Company and the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company.

Ald. Michaud, chairman of the Finance Committee and leader of the council, declared that the Water and Power Company had failed in all its engagements. The company had caused the discontinuance of street watering, and still it allowed enough loss of water at its hydrants to water the streets thoroughly every day. Besides the pipes were in bad condition all over the town. It was therefore determined to serve on the company a protest which would render the company responsible for any damages arising from failure to carry out the contract.

Many complaints were also voiced against the lighting service. Twenty-three lights in the streets failed on one night, while the gas service is defective and it is difficult to get any gas at all. Ald. Dufresne declared that he had been trying in vain since last September to get gas put into his place. There was some talk of cancelling the contract with the company, but it was finally decided to serve a protest.

Death of Customs Employe.

Martin Neher, one of the employes of the Custom Department, in this city, died at the General Hospital yesterday at the age of 62 years. The funeral will be private and will take place on Thursday, June the 27th, to Cote des Neiges cemetery.

CITY COUNCIL PETITIONED TO ALLOW STREET RAILWAY TO CARRY FREIGHT ON THE CITY STREETS

Protest Made Against Delay in Collecting Taxes From Big Corporations—No Decision Reached Regarding Admission of Southern Counties Line —City Secures Loan of Two Millions.

If the City Council grants the petition of a number of merchants, the Street Railway Company will soon enter upon a new line of business—that of carrying freight. The petition in question was read at the meeting of the City Council yesterday afternoon. It drew attention to the fact that it was extremely difficult for merchants to get teams to haul merchandise; for this reason the Street Railway Company, ought to be permitted to haul freight. The petition was as follows:

"We call your attention to the congestion of handling freight in this city and would respectfully ask that you should take up the question of asking the Montreal Street Railway to haul freight through the city.

"As you are aware, the city is extending rapidly and great difficulty is experienced by different manufacturing concerns in obtaining sufficient teams to haul their material with any sort of despatch. We would strongly urge upon your council the advisability of considering the matter at an early date."

It was decided to discuss the petition at a later meeting.

When a report was read showing that the Street Railway Company, the Light, Heat & Power Company, and other companies owed the city over one hundred thousand dollars in taxes, Ald. Deserres took the occasion to say that he could not understand why these companies should be favored in any way; they should be compelled to pay up. He explained that when the city needed money so badly for street repairs an effort should be made to have the taxes collected more promptly.

Ald. L. A. Lapointe explained that there was litigation in regard to some of the outstanding amounts.

Ald. Ward.—"Council should be given full information as to how these outstanding amounts were allowed to run so long."

Ald. Giroux.—"It is too bad to treat these big companies so carefully; if a poor man owed for taxes he would be sued and he would have to make good."

The contention of Ald. Lariviere was that legal action should be taken against the companies without delay.

It was decided that more information should be got as to the nature of the debts.

SOUTHERN COUNTIES RAILWAY.

Council did not settle the question of the Southern Counties Railway Company entering the city. The matter was left over for final decision till a later meeting; this was owing to the pressure of business before Council.

The city attorneys, however, submitted opinions to Council in regard to the powers the company already possesses, and in regard to the question of the City Council permitting the company to come into the city. One opinion declared that Council, if it desired, could permit the company to reach Grey Nun street without trespassing on any rights which the Street Railway Company might have.

City Attorney Ethier, in an opinion declared that the Southern Counties Company had no power to operate cars on the north shore of the St. Lawrence, except to make connections with other companies.

Another question put to the city attorney was to ascertain if Council could legally give the company permission to construct tracks in the city. The answer was that the company might enter the city, but only after it had received permission from the City Council.

Two petitions were received concerning the company entering the city. One was from the ratepayers of that part of Point St. Charles known as Victoria Town, who declared they are in favor of having the line constructed as it would be a convenience to them, and would provide the means of communicating with the South Shore, and that finally it would increase the value of property in Point St. Charles. The petitioners hope the company will be allowed to go ahead and construct the line.

The petition against the line objected to having cars on Common and Grey Nun streets. Among the signers were: James Wilson & Co.; the Canada Paper Company, and the Standard Paper Box Company.

These petitions will be considered when the question is taken up at the next meeting.

A statement was submitted by City Treasurer Robb to the effect that the city had floated a loan of two million dollars in England.

The interest is four and a half per cent. The loan is for twelve months.

Mr. Robb's statement to Council was as follows:

"The city yesterday had the proceedes of the $2,000,000 loan, arranged for some time ago with the Bank of Montreal, placed to its credit in London, and the market for exchange being favorable, had it transferred to this side at a profit.

"Out of the proceds the city retired $1,600,000 of advances which had been obtained in the anticipation of revenue, etc., and has a comfortable balance to go on with until the taxes come in during the months of September and October, when the $2,000,000 will be restored to the city treasury and held available for objects for which the above-mentioned sum is an advance."

When asked what the profit consisted of, Mr. Robb said:

"As a matter of fact, the city sold its exchange here at 3-32 over par, making a profit on the exchange of between $500 and $600. This is quite gratifying to this department, as considerable anxiety was felt as to what would be the rate of exchange on June 25, the date on which it had been arranged to place the money to the city's credit in London. The city has thus affected a loan at a very moderate rate of interest, and not only did not lose anything in transferring the money to this side, but in consequence of the high rate of exchange made the above-mentioned profit."

REPAIRING SIDEWALKS.

There was some discussion when a report was read from the Roads Committee asking that a large sum should be voted for putting down new permanent pavements. Ald. Ward strongly objected. He said: "It was understood that no money should be spent on putting down new permanent walks this year. The truth is that all the money we can get should be spent on repairs. I say that it is not right that in order to please a few aldermen that a little permanent work should be done in certain wards. What the aldermen should do is to look after the good of the whole city. There are miles of sidewalks in the city that are in an utterly disgraceful state. If we have money we should spend it on repairing them. The practice now is to fill the holes in the sidewalks with ashes. This is an absurd practice; the ashes soon wash away and then the condition of affairs is worse than ever. There is not a city anywhere that has worse walks than Montreal. The fault is our own. We have money but we spend it on a bit of permanent paving in isolated places. This is not just."

A motion, to adopt the report of the Roads Committee asking that the money be spent on permanent paving was adopted, Ald. Ward dissenting.

The Mayor took the occasion to say that he had got a report from the City Surveyor saying that repairs were needed all over the city. His Worship hoped that the Roads Committee would not attempt to get any more money this year for new permanent works; all the money the city had for street work ought to be spent on repairs.

Ald. Lariviere made a strong plea in favor of the city voting money so that Rosemount could be supplied with water. He explained that this municipality had been annexed to the city for quite a long time; despite this citizens of that place had to get water from wells. He argued that water pipes should be put down in the streets at once, and that service pipes should be put into every house in the place.

Ald. Dagenais also made some forcible remarks in regard to the great need of the city supplying this municipality with water. He said there were hundreds of householders in Rosemount that were suffering because they had no water in their houses.

No definite action was taken on the matter.

A motion was passed allowing civic employes, at the City Hall, to stop work at twelve oclock on Saturday during the summer months.

It was decided that a high pressure water system should be put down in St. Catherine street, west as soon as possible.

By-laws making a new agreement with the Water & Power Company and giving the city the right to erect poles for municipal purposes were given a second reading.

Ald. Levesque enquired about the delay in laying permanent sidewalks on Christopher Columbus street. The wooden sidewalks had been removed three weeks ago and since that time nothing had been done. The inconvenience was considerable, and Ald. Levesque asked to have the new work rushed along.

Ald. Lariviere promised to have it attended to without delay.

THE MARVELS WROUGHT BY Automatic PIANO-PLAYERS

The wonder of the musical age is the automatic piano-player. It enables people who are devoid of musical education to produce at will the works of the greatest masters or the simple melodies of the people. A person may be musically uneducated and yet have a great taste for music. This taste he is enabled to gratify by means of a Chase and Baker attachment, or a Kurtzman player piano.

The chief merit of these instruments is their simplicity of operation. No dazzling blue, black or red lines to follow with straining eyes. Such were the bewildering features of the old style "Players." In the Chase and Baker Player, or Kurtzman Interior Player, these complicated distractions are conspicuous by their absence. A child can operate them after 10 minutes' instruction. Come in and let us demonstrate these facts to you. Even if you don't purchase we will know that we have made another friend for these instruments.
