Canadian National Ayrshire Sale Held Here A Record To Date

The Canadian National Ayrshire Sale held in the Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena on May 23rd, was both a Red letter day for Canadian Ayrshires and the Town of Huntingdon. The selling of 39 head for the sum of $37,550.00 was a record for a Canadian Ayrshire Sale.

The first twenty sold for an average of $1248.00 and had the quality of the offering been maintained to the end, there would have been no difficulty in making $1,000.00 average. The cattle went to five Provinces in Canada and three U.S. States, but did receive good support from Quebec buyers.

The highlight of the Sale was that of the one bull offered, which sold to E. Ont. A.I. Unit at Kemptville for $4,800.00. The selling of the four Scotch heifers was a feature of the sale and one could just feel the excitement of the huge crowd while they were selling — the four sold for a total of $6,800.00 and as many more of the same quality could have been readily sold. Altogether eleven females sold for over $1000.00 and the average of the entire sale was $962.00.

The sale list gives the details.

The staging of an event like this poses a much greater problem than appears on the surface, for those staging such an event and the Committee in charge, must be given full credit for a job well done. Huntingdon and district should also be made aware of the possibilities offered in the staging of events of this nature, and they made a good start, but there is still much to be done. A great opportunity is offered in cleaning up the Fair ground and making it a credit to the whole district. It must be said that those responsible for both the Arena and the grounds did offer a splendid degree of co-operation and are to be congratulated for it. The weather man did however do his best to show the value of the facilities provided and just what more is need to complete the job.

Due credit must be given to the men in charge of the cattle for the fine condition they were in when presented in the show ring.

The taking care of an influx of nearly 200 outside people overnight is also no small matter, but those responsible for this did their best and we think none went away unhappy.

The gesture of the Rotary Club in trying to make the visitors feel at home was a fine one and was appreciated. The Kensington Grange is also due for a word of praise for the job they did in catering to the visitors on sale day. In fact the co-operative spirit displayed by the people of the town to those who worked so hard to make the event a success, was such that they may have laid the foundation for attracting events of a similar nature.

Refreshments were served and an enjoyable social hour was spent with the Guest Speaker Mr. Beaudin, and the County "Queen", both honoured guests.

Spectacular Performance In H'don High School Track and Field Meet

John Thompson Wins Aggregate Trophy With Six Firsts

Last Tuesday, May 17th, was a perfect day for track and field events, and for John Thompson, local High School student, the the sun could not have been shining more brilliantly. The Huntingdon High School's Annual Track and Field Meet was held at the Fair Grounds with an estimated 200 students taking part. The most outstanding performance of the afternoon was put in by John Thompson, an eighth year student, whose academic record is also an envious one. Out of a possible thirty points, young (13 years old) Thompson garnered a total of thirty by placing first in the 100 yd. dash, the 220 yd. dash, the High Jump (with 4'6"), the broad jump (16'5½"), the softball throw, as well as the mile (time 6:06). Not satisfied with this performance John went on to the Chateauguay Valley Track Meet, sponsored by the Canadian Legion and the Chateauguay Valley Teachers' Association and held on Saturday, May 21st at Sauve Park in Valleyfield with most of the schools from the Valley represented, where he won the Aggregate Trophy for the Intermediate Class by placing first in the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash, the High Jump, and placing second in the Broad Jump.

For the girls, an excellent performance was put in at the Fair Grounds by Joanne Gardner who won the Girls' High Aggregate Trophy, with a total of 16 points. These points were won by paleing first in the 75 yd. dash, the 100 yd. dash and the softball throw, and third in the broad jump.

Both these aggregate winners are in Grade 8A and assured for that class the win for the afternoon, the total points won amounting to 62; second place going to Grade 9B with 44 points, and third place going to Grade 7A with a total of 32 points.

14-Year-Old Boy Buys Heifer At Ayrshire National Sale

Jamie Wallace, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wallace, and a grandson of the late J. M. Wallace and Mrs. Wallace, Athelstan, Que., was the youngest buyer at the National Ayrshire Sale, held in Huntingdon, on Monday, May 23, 1960.

"Springburn Farm" became a noted farm for Ayrshires under the ownership of first Macmillan & Leggatt and then of Gilbert Macmillan. Previous to their acquiring "Springburn" it was owned by the late W. F. Stephen, who was Secretary of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association. Mr. Stephen sold by private sale the first purebred Ayrshire cow owned by "Fairview Farm" and it was the late J. M. Wallace who led the cow home that his father had purchased.

The late J. M. Wallace was a successful breeder of purebred Ayrshire cattle, and likewise has been the case of his sons. Jamie, the fourth generation of the Wallace family, is building up a purebred Ayrshire herd. Grandfather J. M. Wallace bequeathed some money to his grandchildren. Jamie's Money was in the savings bank earning interest but the returns were not too rewarding, so he made an arrangement with his father whereby he could get into the Ayrshire cattle business, so that by the time he got through with school and college he would have a good Ayrshire herd of cattle. To-day Jamie has seven head of Ayrshires plus the latest acquisition from the National Ayrshire Sale. Jamie went to the sale, with his father and mother, with a view of bidding on one heifer up to $500. The heifer sold for $1,150. His consolation was that he selected a heifer that fetched a big price. Late in the sale he purchased the consignment of Luke Eskritt & Sons, Ridgetown, Ont., and acquired Beechwood Edna Jean 1N for $390. He took his heifer home, and proud as punch of the buy he had made.

Jamie Wallace has bought and sold Ayrshires, and as another sideline he breeds and sells the popular beagle pups. He advertises the pups and has sold them to buyers in New Brunswick and Quebec during the years 1959, and 1960.

High School Students' Visit to Ausable Chasm

On Saturday, May 21, Grade 9A, accompanied by students from Grade X and 9B, were privileged to travel by bus to Ausable Chasm, that vast open area, which shows the geological history, dating back, perhaps a million years.

It was an ideal time of year for such an excursion — the weather was perfect; apple trees and lilacs were in full bloom; all the other trees were wearing their new green dresses. The brown of freshly tilled fields contrasted pleasantly with the fresh green carpet of grass, dotted here and there with cattle of various breeds. Many geographical terms such as mountain lakes which attract tourists, the tremendous erosive force of running water; a "rejuvenated" river; "resistant" as opposed to "soft" rock, etc., now have added meaning to these students.

The trip was organized by the Grade 9A teacher, Mr. K. R. Freeman, who, with his mother, Mrs. R. W. Freeman, and the Grade X teacher, Mrs. MacGregor, accompanied the students.

Just before the group disembarked at the school, Beryl Middlemiss, on behalf of her classmates, presented each of the supervisors with a pretty souvenir. So ended a pleasant experience which will be remembered especially by those who may not be privileged to participate in the activities of a Graduating Class.

O.H.S. Home Economics Class Students Present Fashion Show

The Annual Fashion Show, presented by the students of the Home Economics classes from Grades VI to IX, was held in the school auditorium on Friday evening.

The stage was attractively arranged, a mural, depicting a school house, provided an attractive background, and baskets of lilacs were arranged in profusion on the stage and the runway.

Throughout the fashion show, a commentary was given by Misses Maurene Greig and Gail Cavers.

Pianists were Misses Shirley Dunn and Connie McClintock and Miss Jean Cottingham designed the programme cover.

Grade VII students modelled practical gathered skirts; Grade VI displayed the aprons made during their sewing course and being used by their cooking classes this year and no doubt for several years in the future.

Grade IX were in pretty cotton dresses in preparation for the summer season.

Grade X made a creditable showing in the art of sewing when they presented an array of wool dresses made in attractive styles to suit each individual.

Circular skirts and blouses by the fourteen young models from Grade VIII. These were done in a most interesting selection of materials.

The highlight of the Show was the presentation of Party and Dance dresses, made from carefully selected patterns, and materials, and individually finished to the last detail. These gowns were modelled by the fourteen girls from the graduating class and included some dresses to be worn for the Graduation exercises on June 3rd.

Two young ladies from Grade VIII, Carole Cottingham and Shirley Sproule stole the show when they appeared as a closing number in sleepy time togs.

Mrs. Eric Johnston, Home Economics teacher, deserves much credit for the arranging of the show and the professional look of the garments modelled on this occasion.

At the close of the program Mrs. Johnston was presented with a bouquet of red roses and white mums.

Ormstown Rebekahs Honored At Assembly At Granby

The Rebekah Assembly of the Jurisdiction of Quebec was held last week-end at the Windsor Hotel, Granby.

A banquet on Thursday evening, was the opening event of a busy session.

Business meetings were held through Friday and Saturday and on Saturday afternoon new officers were installed.

Mrs. Ralza English was elected to the highest honor when she became the President of the Rebekah Assembly.

At the same time, Mrs. Reg. Clifford of Valleyfield became the Marshal of the Rebekah Assembly of Quebec and Mrs. Jennie Helm of Huntingdon accepted the office of Chaplin of the Assembly.

Mrs. Ivan Barrington was appointed District Deputy President of District No. 1.

Among those who attended the sessions were: Mrs. John Wallace, Mrs. Ivan Barrington. Miss Dorothy Morrison, Mrs. D. Booth, Mrs. George Elliott, Mrs. Duncan Brown, Mrs. Ralza English and Mrs. Wallace Kerr.

Mrs. Ralza English was the recipient of numerous gifts to commemorate the honor conferred on her. Among these were a basket of pink carnations from her husband and daughter, Joyce; a brief case from the local Lodge and several other individual gifts.

Rev. Walter Mullen To Assume Nazarene Circuit

Rev. Walter Mullen of Havelock, Nova Scotia, will be the new pastor of the Churches of the Nazarene, Franklin Centre, Ormstown, and Huntingdon commencing the first of June.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullen were former students of Eastern Nazarene College where he received the Bachelor of Arts degree, and was elected to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. He has been preaching at Brampton, Ontario for the past year.

H. W. Henderson, who has been the pastor for four years, has resigned to attend the Bible Institute at Athelstan to take the French Language course.

Miss Bea Leehy Winner Of Grange Highway Essay Contest

Mrs. Roy Goodfellow announced that Miss Bea Leehy Grange Winner of this County "Highway Safety Begins at Home", and her Essay has now gone to New York State Grange for judging. This contest is sponsored by the Automotive Safety Foundation, a non profit organization working for safety on the highways, etc. The National Award presented to the 1960 winner whose Essay will have competed with the entire United States, will be a trip for two to the National Convention to be held in November at Winston-Salem, North Carolina, where the essay will be read, plus a one hundred dollar Bond. The members of Maple Leaf wish Sister Bea the best of luck in this venture. Following is the essay prepared by Miss Leehy:

Safety Driving Begins at Home

This is a very true statement and many thanks go to our devoted parents for making this fact true. Safety of any kind begins in the home. It begins from the time we are able to walk. Our parents are constantly warning us not to walk on roads or busy highways, but to keep on the sidewalks. From walking, safety goes to learning to ride a tricycle. We are taught where and how to ride one. You have never heard a parent instructing a child to ride a tricycle on a road or on the main streets of our villages and cities. Then comes the important factor, a "bike". From this moment on, safety is beginning to be even more noticeable as regards safe driving beginning at home. When a child receives a bike, the parent instructs the child how to ride and care for the bike. You often hear a proud father with his son saying "Son, remember the safety rules: Ride on your own side of the road. Drive with both hands on the wheel, Don't Be A SHOWOFF. Ride in single file and don't dally along preventing other cyclists from passing. But remember the most important rule is to observe and obey all road signs, stopping at every "STOP" sign, looking in both directions, and watching for red lights.

These are all important factors leading to the topic of this Essay, "SAFE DRIVING BEGINS AT HOME". For if we are not taught the fundamentals from childhood, it is useless to begin teaching them the moment Junior asks for the car.

Teenagers should be taught to drive by an instructor or parent who is an experienced driver. A parent should undertake the responsibility of teaching their children to drive with care and understanding. In the beginning a parent should see that the child knows and understands each traffic law. To know the law is not sufficient, one must observe, obey and see that others keep these laws. After a teenager has learned and understands these laws, a parent must see that in teaching an adolescent to drive, he must stress the importance of speed and the danger of drinking and driving. In Canada, the majority of accidents caused by drinking and driving are greater than the number caused by any other fault. Teenagers do not seem to realize the danger caused by drinking and driving. Alcohol causes a person in most cases, to lose control of the auto and as a result an accident occurs. In many of these accidents persons are killed or seriously injured. As regards speed, a parent should point out all the faults of speeding. The maximum speed on our highways is 50 miles an hour and any speed exceeding this is extremely dangerous. Although the traffic bureau stresses a point of speed, this does not mean a person can drive 15 or 20 miles an hour on a crowded highway. One must use his judgment and follow the traffic.

Then comes a most important step of all: Dad teaches son to drive an auto. A parent should demonstrate and explain the use of each instrument in the car. After a teenager has learned to drive a car, he should never be allowed to drive without having obtained a driver's license. Nowadays, many of our teenagers drive without a license, but sooner or later, they will be apprehended.

As we go about our daily duties, we should be taught alertness in all things, and to observe what is going on about us, and thus we will be more able to detect danger and safely prevent accidents. To think of others is an important factor in all walks of life. This must be taught to us in the home. We must think of others as well as of ourselves, if we are going to avoid accidents.

Remember the slogan of the highway, "DRIVE THE OTHER MAN'S CAR AS WELL AS YOUR OWN". When Teenagers are taught to practise obedience, observance, thoughtfulness, ability to concentrate, safe control and alertness, they are well on their way to become safe drivers. I think if all this is practised in the home, we can honestly say: "SAFE DRIVING BEGINS AT HOME".

Notes From The Police Blotter

Doing Mischief

The Town police apprehended several young boys on Wednesday, who had been guilty of mischief. These boys had on several occasions over the past few weeks, let the air out of about 40 car tires. Some damage was caused and no little inconvenience to the owners of the cars. The parents of the boys were notified and Chief L'Heureux gave the boys a good talking to and warned them what would happen if they continued in this way. It is hoped that this will stop this mischief and be a warning to others not to indulge in this sort of thing.

Provincial police are investigating damage done in the church cemetery at Georgetown Church. Several of the grave stones have been broken and flowers, etc., have been taken from the graves.

Accidents

On May 23rd, in front of the lower bridge on Chateauguay Street, a collision occurred. George A. Beattie, was driving on Chateauguay Street east to west and came in collision with a car driven by Thomas McNaughton, who was coming off the bridge south to north. Damage to the Beattie car was about $50. and to the McNaughton car about $75.

On May 24th at about 11.40 a.m., a boy leaving St. Joseph's School on a bicycle, ran into a truck. Medard Gariepy, driving the Romain Menard truck on York Street, west to east which was hit by the bicycle, riden by Phillip Lefebvre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lefebvre, Somerville Street. As the boy came out of the school yard fairly fast, the bicycle skidded into the truck when he tried to stop. The handle of the door on the truck was broken, but the boy suffered a wound in the back. Mr. Gariepy took the boy to the Huntingdon County Hospital and he was treated by Dr. F. G. McCrimmon.

Resigns From The Force

Const. Onil Bousquet, who has been on the Town Police Force for some time has resigned and will now be employed on the security force of Quebec Hydro. He and his family moved from Huntingdon the past week.

On Following Through

Everyone has been vexed at times by his failure to follow through on a good project or hunch or job. Many a brilliant plan has come to nothing because the person who thought it up lacked the spunk or spine to put it across. Many a fine idea has died at birth because its parent put off the job of starting to rear it.

This is a good time of year for young Canadians, who in their thousands are graduating from high school and university, to take a look at what they need to do if they are to follow through to success and happiness in life.

Merely to step upon the stage does not make a great actor or actress. To be given a chair at a desk does not make an expert business man. To be given a place at a factory bench does not make a skilful mechanic. A person may have had an impressive array of "Excellent" grades on his compositions in school, but when he sits down to write his first business letter he is still a novice. He may have majored in bricklaying at a technical school, but he still must serve his apprenticeship.

This introduces the follow-through. The solemnity of graduation symbolizes the end of preparation: now is the time for energetic doings if one is to make life worth living. The machinery of theory and the stock of knowledge gained hitherto must terminate in the cutting edge of direct action.

One is always starting from where one is now, but school leaving is a special milestone in youthful lives. It is like the Golden Milestone set up in the Roman Forum by Augustus: from it, roads lead to everywhere.

One must have some destination one wishes to reach, and then step out. To day-dream about far-off places and great achievements can be inspiring, but you must come back to the reality of this starting place. Great men have not been merely dreamers. They have returned from their visions to the practicalities of replacing the airy stones of their dream castles with solid masonry wrought by their hands.

Everyone knows that nothing significant is done by lotus-eaters. It was only after Adam and Eve had been expelled from their Eden Lotus-land, says Toynbee in a Study of History, that their descendants set about inventing agriculture, metallurgy and musical instruments.

The sense of purpose which we call ambition is no mysterious gift. It is the imagination playing with future possibilities and telling us how to overcome the obstacles that lie between our starting place and their realization.

Our ambition should be big enough to be a challenge to our powers. Only a shallow-brained person will aim at being the only figure among ciphers: one should seek to be eminent among people who count. Ambition should be big enough to give us room to expand. We should copy in this regard the custom of some parents, who buy their children's clothes a size larger than fits at the moment, so that the children may have something to grow into.

Impatience is not a great help to the ambitious man. Plutarch tells us in his memorable Lives that Brutus might have been the first man in the commonwealth if he had had patience but a little time to be second to Caesar. Take the next step; reach the next milestone; then raise your sights.

How does one go about the business of reaching the desired objective? There are five things to do: fix your purpose, make sure that it is the right one for you, search out the ways by which you may reach it, study the details about these ways, and get busy.

A Star To Steer By

It is a good thing that we so often have a feeling of incompletion, that we reach the end of a period with the feeling that we are at the beginning of a new one. We traverse a long path toward a desired end, and arrive there, only to see another road passing into wider fields, and beckoning us to things more wonderful than we could have imagined at our starting place.

An ambitious man, more than others, sits lightly in his chair. He is ready to spring into action when action is required. Activity and the challenge of difficulties bring out the best of a man's qualities, because what he seeks is an opportunity to do his best. And it, at the end of his career, he feels that he has approximated in achievement the potentialities which he possessed, he is fully rewarded.

It must not be expected that the road of life spreads itself in an unobstructed view before the person starting his journey. He must anticipate coming upon forks and turnings in the road. But he cannot hope to reach his desired journey's end if he thinks aimlessly about whether to go east or west. He must make decisions purposefully.

One necessary decision is to move forward; we cannot stand still. John Mansfield, who ran away to sea when he was a boy and became poet laureate when he was fifty, wrote in one of his poems: "... all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by."

Progress may seem slight, and the horizon far away, and the port only a dot on our map, but so long as we complete a stage of the journey every year, steering by our star and making the

For Economical Transportation... CHEVROLET

YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS... UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!!!!

IF you're considering an economy car, you couldn't do better than Corvair! Count up its big, big advances: Remarkable rear-engine traction ... the supple riding qualities of 4-wheel independent suspension ... the extra storage space of a fold-down rear seat ... the economy of an air-cooled engine (no water, no antifreeze, no radiator repairs ever!).

Corvair 700 4-Door Sedan

THERE'S NO BETTER CAR FOR TENDING YOUR DOLLARS THAN CHEVROLET. FOR RESOUNDING PROOF, LOOK AT THESE FINE FEATURES. YOU JUST DON'T GET THEM ALL ON ANY CAR NEAR CHEVY'S SIZE AND PRICE—EVEN ON SOME CARS THAT COST A WHOLE LOT MORE!

A General Motors Value — Bel Air 4-Door Sedan

1 FULL COIL CUSHIONING

Chevy puts a deep coil spring at each rear wheel, too. Unlike old-style leaf springs, they don't have to anchor the rear axle or transmit the focus of braking and acceleration. Chevy's coils have nothing to do but tame the bumps —and what a gentle job they do!

2 WIDEST CHOICE OF POWER TEAMS

Eight spunky engines with five velvety transmissions — 24 combos in all. No other car anywhere gives you such a wide choice!

3 Body by Fisher

Those crank-operated vent windows, for example, will give you an idea of all the extra consideration your comfort gets in Body by Fisher.

4 SAFETY-GIRDER FRAME

Chevrolet's frame is X-built, not just X-braced. This extra attention pays off in greater torsional rigidity, and it's one reason for Chevy's silence.

5 MORE "EXTRAS" at no extra cost!

Single-key locking and starting, anti-glare hoods for each instrument, enclosed steering column, Safety Glass all around, precision-balanced wheels and tires. And a whole lot more besides. C-1760D

Mrs. John Koski.

Obituary

The Late
Victoria Graham Semple

Miss Victoria Graham Semple, who passed away on Tuesday, May 17, 1960, at the Royal Edward Laurentian Hospital, was the younger daughter of the late Thomas Semple and his wife Diana Thompson of Havelock Township.

To the host of friends who knew her as Vickie, her illness and death brought sad concern.

The deceased possessed physical and mental powers which, with shrewd business sense, found scope in the labor and management of her farm. Throughout her years of strenuous effort, she retained a sunny attitude toward life which attracted youthful friends and made her a welcome guest to the shut-in and lonely. To these the kindness of her heart often prompted her to bear a message of cheer.

Vickie had literary tastes and a notable degree of dramatic talent which lent interest to social

She was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

One brother, William, predeceased her, and her survivors include one sister, Annie, (Mrs. Chester Atkinson); three nieces, Viola, Georgina and Marjorie of Holyoke, Mass.

Funeral services were held from the Covey Hill Church, conducted by Dr. Allan S. Reid, and pallbearers were: Messrs. Andrew Allen, J. B. Antle, W. Jackson, G. McKee, W. Mannagh and M. L. Antle.

Floral tributes were numerous and beautiful.

Among those who attended the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wilson, Valois; Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Antle, Mr. and Mrs. F. Marshall Mrs. P. Adams Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Antle, Mrs. G. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rodgers, Mrs. A. Rodgers, all of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. F. most of wind and sail, we have cause for happiness.

Many little things must be done to accomplish one big thing. If the Wright brothers had sat down at their planning board on December 16th, 1903, to figure out a scheme of world air transport, they would never have tackled the job. Instead they tuned up their flying machine. Next morning they put it into the air and it stayed aloft for twelve seconds — the first heavier-than-air flight by a self powered machine, the vital spark that kindled life in aviation.

Difficulty Provides Opportunity.

The best way for a youth to think of opportunity is this: his greatest opportunities will be found in difficulty. When a task is troublesome, that gives him the chance to show his capability: when a decision is perplexing, that gives him the chance to show his superior judgement.

Opportunity in business is provided by certain conditions which if handled in the right way, will yield a profit. Something must be done to take advantage of the favourable occasion, because opportunity has no virtue unless it is buttressed by activity. It is no relative of luck.

He is a weak man who depends upon luck for his success. Distinction is not bestowed upon us by some favouring goddess. It is gained through search and work and adaptation of a man's powers to the conditions that surround him. Only when our calculations prove false, and wisdom can teach us no more, and our efforts have exhausted us without bringing us success: only then, said the wise Roman emperor Hadrian, is it excusable to turn to the random twitter of birds or the distant mechanism of the stars seeking lucky omens.

It has been said of a man who seized his opportunities with success that he "stumbled on a good idea." There may be some truth in the comment, but the whole truth is that the moment of inspiration would not have come to him if he had not prepared himself for it. Pasteur once wrote that "chance favours only the prepared mind."

Nobody in this world ever gets anything for nothing. The sciences of business, sociology, medicine and space travel have this in common: they are attempts to formulate a satisfactory balance between what is desired and the price to be paid for its attainment.

Temporary defeats are a small price to pay for success. In the acid words of the artist in The Picture of Dorian Garay: "The stupid have the best of it in this world. If they know nothing of victory, they are at least spared the knowledge of defeat."

Adapting to Change

It may be necessary to change our views in the process of following through to success. Among the most pitiful people are those who are trying to fight the twentieth century, to live in a past age. To resist change, to refuse to adapt to it, is like holding your breath: if you persist you kill yourself.

In today's society there is no fixed state, but only a changing pattern. Innovation and obsolescence make their mark in the short time the commuter takes to travel to work and back. The rate of change is so great that a human being of ordinary length of life will be called upon to face many novel situations which find no parallel in his past.

But change is terrifying only to those who refuse to recognize it, who try to leave it out of account. At a crucial period in the history of science Albert Einstein showed that ancient ideas about the universe were not in any way sacred. Before that, Charles Darwin's Origin of Species persuaded the world that the difference between species of animals and plants is not the fixed immutable difference that it appears to be. And, ages before Darwin, Homer showed continual flux and change to be the law of life.

At the bottom of their final examination papers young people could very well write: "This is what looks true today, but tomorrow it may be something quite different." To follow through is to search for new ideas, to proceed from clumsiness to skill, to avoid complacency and seek advancement, to look for a better way of doing things.

This involves making choices. A man is mature and free in the proportion to which his life is governed by his own choices, for maturity and freedom do not consist in doing as one pleases, but in doing what one chooses.

In sheltered childhood and adolescence we move in grooves according to custom and with parental guidance. Now, seemingly suddenly, we become aware for the first time of the burden of choice. We come into contact with people who try to persuade, cajole, seduce, shock or dazzle us into accepting their views and following their plans. It is important to listen to them — for how else can we know between what courses we are choosing but we should retain mobility of thought.

There is nothing more certain in life than that we must make decisions. If we debate long about what to do, history is going on behind our backs. Things are changing. Our decision may be out of date before we reach it. Crowned king at a time when one swift blow would have scattered his foes and united his friends, Saul stood, like hamlet, midway between his duty and his task, and indecision slew him.

Almost any decision that jogs us out of our abstractions is a good one. If we stay shut up in our thoughts we shall never grow, and growth is one of the tests of development. Having got one idea upon its feet we should swing our searchlights here, there and everywhere, seeking more ideas to beget new inspiration.

Neither the extent of the knowledge we have gained up to now nor the capacity of our talent is one half so vital as our driving power. Enthusiasm turns ideas, plus interest and ambition, into whole-hearted effort that adds zest to life. We should follow every task with a sense of expectancy and all the ardour of which we are capable.

Courage For New Starts

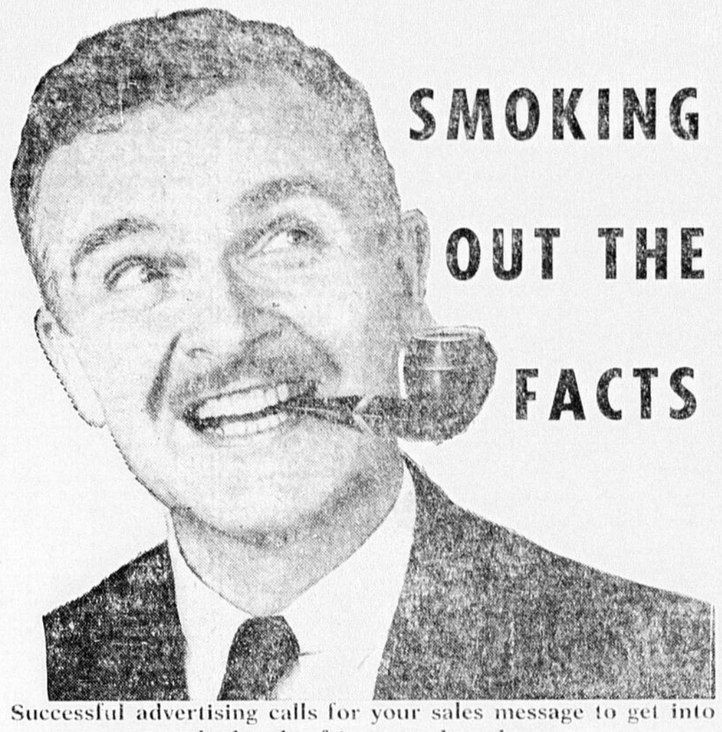

The man who wishes to make his follow-through effective will not do so by timid and tremulous ways. He needs to be able to stand up to buffeting and setbacks.

People are born with different degrees of courage, but every natural disposition may be improved by training and exercise. There are different sorts of courage, too. When Athena, the goddess of wisdom and the liberal arts, bestowed courage upon Menelaus, it was not the courage of a lion, but of a fly — the most fearless in attack and the most persistent of all creatures small or great.

One effect of going forward courageously is that a man does not need much armour on his back; he need not build many fortresses to which to retire. Battles are seldom won by running away, anymore than hockey goals are scored by backchecking.

There will be discouragements.

Howick

HOWICK — A joint meeting of the Afternoon, the Evening Auxiliary and the Siloki C.G.I.T. Group was held in the United Church on Tuesday evening, May 17, with a record attendance.

Mrs. R. W. Templeton presided. Separate business meetings were held. The treasurer, Mrs. Russell Stewart reported a bequest of $100. to the Auxiliary from the estate of the late Mrs. Alex. MacGregor. She also reported for the tea held in April, $161.65 being the total proceeds, $47.65 at the food table and $114. at the door.

The devotional was taken by the C.G.I.T. Marilyn Smith presidde. Scripture readings were given by Jennifer Champ and Christina Turner, prayers by Carole Tennant.

Mrs. John Logan, leader of the group, led in the re-affiliation service. Linda Miller, as treasurer of the C.G.I.T. offered to give all the help possible to our Missionary efforts. Mrs. R. B. Tolhurst acting for the Presbyterial Secretary replied and thanked the girls for their co-operation. A seal of re-affiliation was then presented and a number of the girls told of what they had learned of Africa. An opening chorus, "Fairest Lord Jesus" was sung by the twenty girls present, followed by the C.G.I.T. hymn at the close.

Mrs. R. W. Templeton then presented 7 new members with World Friendship badges.

Mrs. Eric Smith was asked to come forward and Mrs. Tolhurst presented her with a Life Membership Certificate in the Women's Missionary Aux. in recognition of the splendid leadership she has given to the Siloki group. Mrs. Smith thanked Mrs. Tolhurst for this unexpected gift.

Mrs. Bradley reported for the serving committee. An overseas parcel weighing 31 lbs., also a box to our Montreal Presbyterial containing a quilt, mittens, pyjamas, etc., were sent.

The special speaker was Principal Martin of Mountrose School, Montreal, introduced by Mrs. Eldon Orr.

Mr. Martin spoke on Africa, where he was born and where his grandparents still live. Having visited there recently he has a clear understanding of the clash between the white and black races which has been steadily becoming worse. He outlined the history of the white man's advent into Africa; the Dutch coming in 1652, the British in 1820. They came as explorers, hunters, missionaries, slavers and settlers, and brought with them many good things such as wealth, experience, knowledge, the Bible and healing. The white man had to fight against ignorance and superstition. He keeps himself separate from the black and truly believes himself his superior. This is the main trouble causing racial disputes. The speaker feels that the white man is much to blame.

Mrs. Bruce Chisholm thanked the speaker for this informative and interesting address.

A social hour was enjoyed in the Church Hall, where refreshments were served to all.

On Sunday, May 15th, 1960, the Rev. W. M. Brown of Georgetown and Riverfield, conducted the 140th Anniversary Services at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Prescott, Ontario. At the evening service the congregation of St. Paul's United Church, Prescott, joined with the people of St. Andrews at worship.

Over the week-end the Rev. and Mrs. Brown and Sheila were guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Alexander Morrison at St. Andrew's Manse, and they attended the Anniversary Supper on Monday, May 16th.

Memorial Unveiled

At Riverfield Presbyterian Church, on Sunday, May 22nd, a lovely "Pulpit Fall", in memory of Mrs. Chester Orr was unveiled by Mr. Donald Black, Chairman of the Board. The memorial was handed over on behalf of the congregation by Mr. W. G. Brown, Clerk of Session, and Dedicated by the Rev. W. M. Brown.

The Rev. Brown chose as his text, "Behold, a sower went forth to sow" and emphasized the fact that every sower carries on in the faith that there will be a harvest, contenting himself with the thought that he is doing all that he can do. This thought can be applied to the Christian way of life, and was exemplified in the life of the late Mrs. Chester Orr, a life-long resident of Riverfield, a diligent community worker, and a devoted member of the Christian church.

The first summer service for 1960 was held in Beech Ridge Presbyterian Church last Sunday afternoon, with a good congregation in attendance, many visitors being present. The next Beech Ridge service will be on Sunday, June 5th, at 2.30 p.m. with the Rev. W. M. Brown conducting the service.

Members of the Georgetown and Riverfield Y.P.S. attended a Youth Rally Service in St. Edward's Presbyterian Church, Beauharnois, on Sunday, May 22nd, at 8.00 p.m.

A large congregation heard the Rev. Alex. MacDonald from British Guiana, tell about the work of the Church there, and a number of beautiful slides were shown which helped to give a clearer picture of the people and conditions of life in British Guiana.

Georgetown Sunday School Picnic takes place on Saturday, May 28th. The location is again the lawn, at the Manse, and it is hoped the weather will be as kind as it was last year at this time, when a great crowd enjoyed a grand picnic.

At a meeting held at Georgetown Manse, representatives from Howick United, Riverfield, and Georgetown, decided to hold a Summer Vacation Bible School in Howick High School, by kind permission of the School Board, commencing on Monday, July 4th, and closing on Friday, July 15th. The theme chosen for this year's school is "Pioneering With Christ" and it promises an interesting and happy time for all boys and girls attending.

—o—

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Strongitharm of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Fiskin.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lawton were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilkinson at their summer home in Selby Lake.

Two laymen from Ormstown, Mr. B. Brittain and Mr. R. Eastwood, were able representatives of the Gideon Society at the United Church, on May 15th. It is heartening to hear business men from town and farm witnessing to the great work of spreading the Gospel.

On May 22nd, the W.M.S. led by Mrs. Robt. Templeton and Mrs. Melville Brown conducted the morning service in Howick United Church. Mrs. Wm. Templeton sang the "Lord's Prayer". Mrs. Dupre, secretary for the Christian Stewardship of the Montreal Presbyterial, was the speaker, and as usual brought an inspiring message. The suggestion was made that people should live more as they pray; then the various passages of the Lord's Prayer were read and enlarged upton, to re-awaken us to their meaning.

C.G.I.T. Hold Mother And Daughter Banquet

The C.G.I.T. Group of Huntingdon United Church held their annual Mother and Daughter Banquet in the Church Hall, last Friday evening, with over one hundred in attendance. Miss Carmie Ruddock, President of the Group, acted as Chairman of the Banquet. Toasts to the Church, the Mothers, and the C.G.I.T. were proposed by the Misses Heather Runnalls, Heather Reid and Mildred Caldwell. In replying to the Toast to the Mothers, Mrs. L. Sherry expressed the appreciation of all for the excellent and devoted leadership that has been given to the girls through the years. She also paid tribute to those who have provided transportation for the girls living in the rural area.

Mrs. R. Beal presented a brief resume of the group's activities through the year following the Banquet. Each of the four groups then presented a skit that provided much entertainment for all.

The evening was brought to a close with a Vesper Service conducted by four of the graduating members, the Misses Ann Tannahill, Alice Hamilton, Margaret Currie and Dorothy Taylor. Miss V. Garold gave an address, based on the C.G.I.T. purpose, that was greatly appreciated by Mothers and Daughters alike.

On Following Through

In fact, it is generally true that life seldom gives us any more than just that degree of encouragement which suffices to keep us at a reasonably full exertion of our powers. Following through is a series of recommencements, some of them after defeats, so that "each tomorrow finds us farther than today."

When Donald Campbell drove his boat at 260.35 miles an hour in 1959 the record-making run was the latest in a series. His father had brought him up on the principle that upon reaching one record he must set his sights on another. It was natural, then, when his Bluebird gave him the world's water speed record at 202.32 miles an hour to call his team together and tell them he was tuning up for 250 miles an hour.

In starting to follow through from school, or from a present job, make sure that the job you seek is one which will give you the best opportunity to do the thing you are most interested in doing. Then make a list of the qualities of work and recreation that will contribute to your successful follow-through, and use or develop them.

The Quality of Work

In weighing work against pleasure, Lord Beaverbrook advised in his book Don't Trust to Luck, let the leaning be toward work. "A man will come by less harm by over-working than he will by over-playing." Loafing is not fun to the man of spirit. He knows that the strenuous life gives him as rewards not only the necessities but the happiness he desires.

A man may misrepresent himself to you in many ways. He may sparkle at parties though he be dour at home; he may be the soul of discretion in his service club but gossip meanly over the card table; he may have a front of culture but be niggardly in spirit. But he cannot deceive you in his work. There is the fruit of his life, of his hands, of his mind, by which he may be truly judged.

A piece of work may be tested by three questions: (1) does it please the person who did it? (2) does it satisfy the person for whom it was done? (3) does it accomplish the purpose for which it was done? If these can be answered "yes" the job has added grace to the doer, the recipient and the work.

The job we do should be a part of our follow-through in the direction of still more polished output. Again and again we are tempted to relax, to look upon some position we have reached as a place where we can feel secure. In it we have achieved a reputation, a satisfying amount of worldly success. Its appeal of sensuous ease tempts us to delude ourselves into believing that this is the point for which we started from the Golden Milestone.

It is possible for us on any plateau of achievement, to retire from competition and the noise of society, to weave ourselves a triumphant garland of inactivity, and to fly the banner of mediocrity. This is something for the person with ambition to guard against continually. To give in to the temptation marks the end of his follow-through.

The story was told in Technology Review, the magazine of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, of a firm which sought a man of high ability and imagination for a new enterprise. A young man of excellent academic record was being interviewed for appointment to this position with all its exciting possibilities. The company interviewer outlined the great opportunities in the new development, and then asked the young man if he had any questions. The applicant asked, "What assurance can you give me of promotion?" The interviewer closed the interview right there. The young man evidently had no sense of follow-through. He wanted to be carried.

On getting started

Doing at once what there is to do inevitably increases the probability of success. While we may see dimly what lies at a distance, we must do what lies clearly at hand. As a proverb has it: 'The best way to peel a sack of potatoes is to take one potato at a time and peel it."

Everyone knows people who are strong in this or that way — physically or mentally, in theory or in practice — who disperse their efforts over many objects and fail to achieve perfection in any. It is not so generally appreciated that a person who is weak may, by concentrating his powers on a single object, accomplish greatly.

When should we start? On our present job or on one we hope to get? "Forthwith" is a good word that has gone out of style, but it has the imperative ring needed here. Plans are useless until steps are taken to realize them. They are like music, silent unless performed, though all the notes are there.

Time does not pause for our delays. It waits for nothing before moving on to the next chapter, and it is in the present chapter that we must prove our right to be represented there. If you doubt your ability, get busy to test it. A prominent man gave this advice to a youth starting his business career: "Do the wise thing if you know what it is, but anyway do something — the wisest thing you know."

This may seem to be reminiscent of Nelson putting his tele-

Liberal Party's Manifesto

Provincial family allowances of $10 per month to parents of children between 16 and 18 who attend school, and a $10 increase in the monthly pension to the needy are promised by the Liberal party if it wins the June 22 general election.

These social security measures were the most loudly endorsed by Liberal Leader Jean Lesage in the party's 53-article manifesto.

Mr. Lesage said the proposed social security measures would be paid for "out of the millions the provincial government will save by calling public tenders for contract work."

More, Bigger Pensions

The extra $10 per month provincial aid will also go to pensioners over 70, those between 65 and 70, invalids and the blind, "according to needs."

In addition the party promises to pay pensions to needy widows and spinsters currently paid from age 65 on, at the lower age of 60.

It was promised to "immediately institute a governmental system of hospital insurance in collaboration with the medical profession and allied services."

Three New Ministries

The platform foresees three new portfolios for the provincial government.

1—A Cultural Affairs Department, including a Linguistic Office, Provincial Arts Council, Provincial Planning Bureau, Historical Sites Commission, and French-Canada Division for points outside Quebec.

2—A Natural Resources Department.

3—A Federal-Provincial Affairs Department.

The 53 articles are divided under four headings: National Life, Economic Expansion, Social Welfare, and Administration.

The Cultural Affairs Department would be charged essentially with asserting "the French-Canadian profile of Quebec."

All Schooling Free

Concerning education, the platform promises "free schooling at all levels, including universities."

All schools under the jurisdiction of the Public Education Department would provide free textbooks.

It was noted on these articles that Quebec had the lowest school attendance in the country, with 50 per cent of students quitting at age 15, "and studies show 76 per cent of the unemployed today never went past Grade VIII."

Education would be compulsory to the end of the school year in which the pupil reaches the age of 16, all school commission debts would be assumed by the province, and the government would create a Provincial University Commission charged specifically with determining a student support allowance formula.

The manifesto forsees Royal Commission enquiries into education, the administration of the National Union party and into sale of Hydro-Quebec's natural gas facilities.

Under the heading of economic expansion, the Liberals foresee creation of a Provincial Council, including an economic and an industrial development bureau. It would be engaged largely in long-term planning of provincial development, and form an Institute of Mines.

Mr. Lesage said the new Natural Resources Department, (he was Federal minister of the department bearing the same name), was a "vital" need, "since we absolutely must co-ordinate all departments to allow for economic expansion."

The new department would promote establishment of secondary industries here to transform natural resources, and the "birth of heavy industry with government guarantee if necessary."

The platform promises to standardize the consumer cost of electricity, revision or royalties paid to the government by firms exploiting Quebec natural resources, and "an end to the regime of closed company towns with their possible exploitation of labor and violations of certain fundamental rights."

Another article details a plan for the provincial government to assume "its responsibilities" concerning unemployment, including re-adaptation of workers, more geographically equalized economic development, appraisal of precise reasons of unemployment and financial assistance for industries which might solve them, and more year-round public works projects.

Agricultural Reforms

Mr. Lesage placed special emphasis on agricultural reforms, with reorganization of the Department of Agriculture, modernization of farm work, establishment of an efficient warehousing system, and payment of premiums on milk and cheese if Ottawa replaces the support price with a compensation payment, as well as premiums on hog production, "due to the nefarious policies of the National Union."

Colonization would be carried out under a consolidation policy.

There would be a master plan for traffic, and special attention towards developing the tourist industry.

The social welfare platform would be organized around a family theme with emphasis on family needs, and the Youth Department would become the Family and Youth Department.

"One of our first pre-occupations will be to solve the grave problem of water pollution," the platform reads.

Labor legislation reforms would cover a wide scope and would include production of a Labor Code, creation of Labor Courts, reforming of the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Minimum Wage Act, and laws. Labor unions run by management would be outlawed.

Family housing legislation would be adopted, with special aid to co-operative housing projects.

Married women would receive legal property rights equal to that of men.

On relations with Ottawa the platform includes "calling of an interprovincial conference by Qubec before 1962, and use of the Tremblay Commission report as basis for preparation of a brief by Quebec to this conference in order to solve the fiscal problem. Quebec will propose conciliation of the constitution, and creation of a Constitutional court."

A system of equalization payments by Quebec to municipalities would be instituted.

There would be a reform of the civil service set-up, electoral reform including redistribution of ridings, limitation of election expenses, state payment of some election expenses, and return-officers to be subject to the normal jurisdiction of the courts.

"There will be an end to discretionary grants and handing out of contracts without public tenders," the manifesto says.

Taxation in general will be subjected to an investigation, for the following reasons:

1—"Provincial succession duties hamper family capital considerably because they are too high, and they endanger our industries. Furthermore Ottawa must be urged to abandon this field.

2—"The sales tax is difficult to administer for the province. It is a constant source of annoyance to our merchants, and vexing to the consumers. It should be abolished immediately on fuel oil, patented drugs, and other neccessary family goods.

3—"The Provincial income tax is so badly arranged that a married man pays more than the single man.

4—"A number of existing nuisance taxes must disappear."

Boy Dies After Accident

Royal Rochefort, age 4 of Aubrey, died shortly after admission to the Barrie Memorial Hospital, on Monday, following being struck down by a car near his home. Full particulars of the accident are not to hand.

Dedication, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Hemmingford

An interesting service was held in St Andrew's Church, Hemmingford, at 2.30 P.M. on Sunday, May 15th inst, when twelve memorial windows were dedicated to the glory of God and to the memory of various men and women who had been prominent in the work of the church.

St Andrew's Church, Hemmingford, is one of the oldest, if not the oldest Presbyterian Church in the frontier district. It was established by Reverend John Merlin, a young Irishman, in 1822.

Reverend John S. McBride, B.A., Moderator of the Presbytery of Montreal, presided and conducted the service of dedication. The Very Reverend C. Ritchie Bell, D.D., preached; and Mr. Charles Coombs, Missionary there, read the Scriptures. A sacred solo was sung by Mrs. James Kyle. Reverend Allan S. Reid, D.D., gave a brief outline of the history of the church, and presented the windows to the Moderator asking for their dedication.

The church was filled to its capacity by members and friends interested in honouring the memory of the men and the women whose names are inscribed on the windows dedicated.

Lacolle

LACOLLE. — Mr. Ross Lathe of Montreal spent the week-end at the home of his mother here.

Mr. Peter Sutton of Ormstown, was the guest of Mr. Don. Robinson on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones and family from Montreal were holiday week-enders at the Lawrence Van Vliet home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Grant recently visited his mother at Ormstown. Mrs. Grant is in her 98th year and retains her faculties.

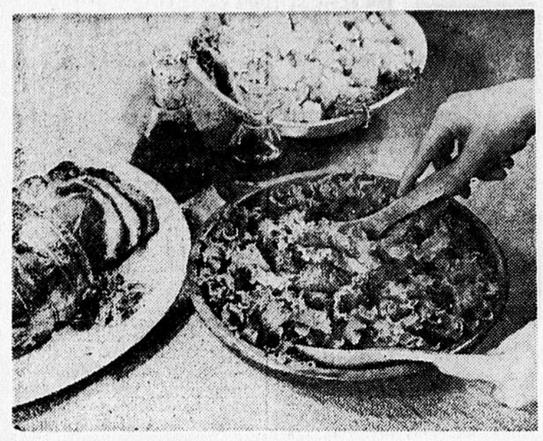

Mrs. H. Cahil has joined the staff at the Customs.

Little Miss Judy Douglas had her tonsils removed on Wednesday at the Barrie Memorial Hospital, Ormstown.

The Lacolle Sunday School is having a turkey supper in the new auditorium of the United Church, on May 28th, commencing at 5 p.m.

VICTORIA (CP) -The motor vehicle branch reported 41 people died in highway accidents in the first two months of this year in British Columbia, compared with 20 in the same period last year.

KENNETH FRASER

A TEAM YOU CAN TRUST

I was born at Dundee, P.Q., 42 years ago on the Fraser Farm established by my forbears in 1820. Since graduating from Dundee High School in 1935 I have been carrying on the farming tradition of our family and have participated in our municipal affairs.

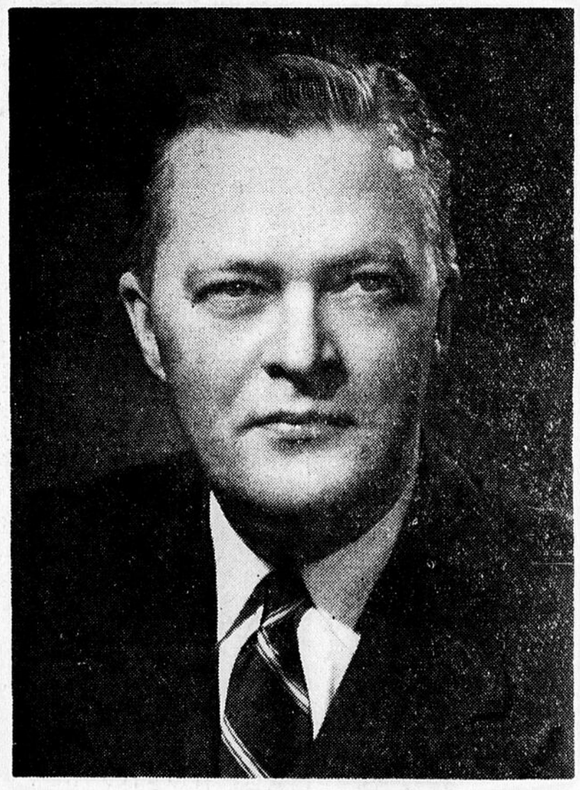

As your official Liberal Candidate I support the policies and platform of the Provincial Liberal Party as set forth by my leader, The Hon. Jean Lesage, which I propose to present and discuss with you during my campaign.

As a farmer, accustomed to hard work, I promise not to shirk my responsibilities and to be readily available to my constituents.

During my campaign I am looking forward to meeting you personally and I solicit your support on election day.

Sincerely,

KENNETH FRASER

Hon. JEAN LESAGE

You are invited to attend my campaign opening meeting on

Maple Leaf Grange

May 27th., Friday, 8 P.M. — "Queen" and Quartet Contest at Malone Grange, when Miss Shirley Grant will compete in Regional Contest for N.Y. State Fair honours. Please try to be there.

May 31st — First and Second Degrees will be conferred by the Youth Group. This should be a meeting of interest to all members.

June 2nd., Franklin County Pomona will convene at Gabriels, N.Y., All Fifth Degree members are invited to attend this session. Supper will be served by the Host Grange, Brighton-Harrietstown. The Pomona Lecturer's program will be in the evening.

June 7th. — The Senior Degree Team under the direction of Mrs. Geo. Paul will exemplify the Third and Fourth Degrees of the Order. Come and welcome the new members.

National Grange. — An invitation was extended to all members wishing to attend the New National Headquarters Building Dedication to take place at 12.30 P.M. July 9th at Washington, D.C. President Eisenhower will perform the Dedicating Ceremony. The United States Marine Band and Soloist will also take part in the program. This should be a very historic and interesting event for all those able to make the trip.

A very interesting talk was given by Mr. Leon Beaudin, the County Agronome, who was guest speaker at the regular meeting held May 17th. Mr. Beaudin spoke about the different phases of the Department of Agriculture, etc., with which he is connected. It is astonishing the numerous ways this Department has of helping the farmer, including some which are never taken advantage of by the farming community. To name aa few of the department's services, there is root cellar disinfectant, landscaping service, spray calendar for apple trees, agricultural educational section, school fairs, free seeds for school children through the Women's Institue. Farm improvement assistance for drainage, rural construction, costs and plans for same, planned protection service, technical overseeing superintendents for diseases, weeds and pests, etc., limestone transportation, sheep breeding, rural economic service, maple division (replacement of tap buckets), farm loan board, Animal Husbandry, drainage tile freight by carload, farmers' sons' grants (if married), production reports, etc., milk inspection service, 1960 new policy fertilizer cost, etc. This information proved to be very informative to all concerned, and was followed by a question and answer period.

May we of Maple Leaf Grange once again take this opportunity of thanking the Huntingdon Gleaner and members of the staff for their courtesy in publishing the Grange News in such a magnanimous manner, as it has been quite copious of late.

Dundee

DUNDEE — Mr. Ronald Fleming was a guest of Mrs. Dan Ryan at Hemmingford, last Wednesday. On Sunday, Ronald went to Ottawa with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dawson of Athelstan. He is staying until Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Dawson.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Mack of Lennoxville, were overnight guests of Mrs. E. J. Fleming on Sunday. Other guests at the Fleming home on Sunday were Miss Lila Winter, Mrs. John Winter, Mr. Ross Winter, Florence, Dorothy and John Winter of Ormstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ferguson and family spent Sunday in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gardiner went to Copenhagen, on Sunday, to visit their cousin, Mrs. M. Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Gardiner and family and Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McPherson of Valleyfield, spent Sunday in Ottawa. The day was fine in the capital and the display of flowering tulips was said to be wonderful. So many visitors from out of town points were in the city for the day that those wishing to go on the elevator into the Peace Tower had to wait for an hour.

Glenelm

GLENELM. — Pleased to report that little Ruth Pringle who has been in Montreal Children's Hospital for the past two weeks is greatly improved, and is expected home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Duff and Mr. and Mrs. J. Duff, all of Montreal, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Brown.

Misses Margaret and Evelyn Brown spent the long week-end at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Knox and daughter Eleanor of Ottawa, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art. Goodfellow, returning home on Monday.

Mr. Gralwick and grandchildren spent the long week-end at their summer home.

Mr. Leslie MacFarlane has returned from Huntingdon County Hospital much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Coffey and daughter Maureen of Montreal visited at the Coffey home for the holiday week-end.

Rain came for the 24th, which made a difference in plans for holding the picnics, etc.

Mr. Raymond Massam, son of Eddie Massam, called at the home of Mr. Spencer Gavin and Mrs. Janet Gavin. Mr. Massam went West about forty years ago, and intends returning ere long.

OF MANY THINGS

PROPAGANDA STEPPED UP

One of the first things the labor union bosses got across at the recent conference was an okay from delegates for a tremendous propaganda campaign in newspapers, radio, and TV. There is not much doubt about the form such propaganda will take. Everyone knows that the CLC officials intend to back the New Party, even though it is not very likely to get anywhere in politics.

Why are they ready to spend so much money on a party which is really the old CCF in disguise and can be expected to fail, just as CCF has failed, to gain power at Ottawa?

The answer, surely, is that many of the leaders in the union movement are career socialists first, and union workers next. And if they can make it almost compulsory for all union members to pay fees into the coffers of the New Party, they will have a pile of money to publish leftist propaganda.

What do I mean by "almost compulsory?" I mean that a union member who must pay to support the New Party unless he goes to the trouble and possibly the embarrassment of "contracting out" is really being pressured. It is much like the old gag, in a meeting, where the chairman says, "If there is anybody in the hall so tight with money that he is against this progressive step your executive has taken, he need only stand up and his fifty cents will be refunded!"

In this sort of left-handed way, many of rank-and-file union workers will be in the position of financing socialist ideas which he does not believe in, and undermining a system which has given him a higher standard of living than most of the world's workers. His money will be used to do to Canada what Socialism did to the UK and to Australia.

Will followers of the Conservative, Liberal or Social Credit parties, who are also rank-and-file union members, stand still for this sort of arrangement? Will they pay fees to pay for leftist attacks on the principles of the Social Credit, Conservative, or Liberal parties? Not willingly, they won't. There are bad times ahead for Canadian unionism, and an almost certain shakeup in leadership. Rank-and-file members have refused again and again to vote at the polls, in secret, the way their leaders have wanted them to vote; and unless the laboring man has completely lost his independence, he's going to do a lot of squawking before he shells out his money to promote principles he is dead set against.

scope to his blind eye as he sailed into the battle of Copenhagen, or of the ship's captain at Camperdown who, unable to read a complicated signal, flung his signal book on the deck and ordered: "Up with the helm and get into the middle of it!" These may strike today's reader as being old-fashioned maxims, but even in these days there are ancient principles which cannot be disregarded with impunity.

What is advocated is not recklessness. Deliberation and analysis are, in risky situations, positive approaches to dynamic action. Tidy up your problem so that you can decide quickly and with certainty what to do. Analysis is the foe of vagueness and ambiguity and hesitancy.

What is the cause of the foolish air some people have of always being shocked and surprised by the things that happen around them? It is lack of foresight. They have not made themselves aware of the changes that are taking place; they have not kept up to date; they are taken unaware by the consequences of causes they did not know existed. When a person has analysed the present, and looked ahead to appraise the worst that can happen in future, he is protected against shock and he is ready for the appropriate action.

This is a constructive sort of preparation. You may have to invent or make the tools of progress, or even wrestle along without them. Aristotle was an astronomer without a telescope, a biologist without a microscope, a chemist without a laboratory, and yet for nearly 2000 years his conception of natural phenomena ruled science.

The uses of experience

A lot is said about learning by experience, and experience is a good thing, but if hard personal lessons can be avoided by studying the experiences of others, why not avoid them? He is an unhappy motorist who becomes an expert driver by his participation in many highway accidents; he is an unhappy business man who does not learn except by becoming many times bankrupt.

The intuition which prompts the decisions and actions of many business men in the product of a large store of memories of previous experiences — their own and those of others — which can be linked in a meaningful way with the present situation.

You cannot wait through the tedious process of learning by personal experience how to answer the questions "What shall I do?" and "How shall I do it?" The principles on which you may base your answers in science, business or the arts are to be found by reference to the past just as much as in today's trial and error.

This does not mean that we are to live by the past, but only that we should look there for anything that will make our way more certain. Going onward is the only way to gain practical acquaintance with the full colour, flavour, poetry, passion and variety of life.

By making use of the knowledge our forefathers gathered, and applying it in such a form as to fit today's changed environment, we can face difficulty with stout hearts. Only a little bit more knowledge than others have, just a little bit more effort, merely a trifle more fixity of purpose and determination, can turn an apparent minus into a plus in business as in sport. At the Winter Olympics, the winner of the women's giant slalom was only one-tenth of a second faster than the runner-up, and in the 1,000-meter speed-skating the difference between first and second place was only two-tenths of a second.

In Search of Health

The history of antibiotics goes back a long way, but its big day was in 1928 when Dr. Alexander Fleming isolated penicillin. This life-saving substance is now numbered among our "wonder drugs." Like other antibiotics, it should be used only under guidance of a physician because he understands the possibilities and limitations of antibiotics. Some of these drugs can be deadly dangerous when taken casually as one would take a headache remedy.

Ignorance of the laws of health and ignorance of the advances made by medical science can no longer be pleaded as an excuse for being ill. Literate pride themselves on their sophistication, may choose to ignore hygiene and science, but they cannot longer pardon their transgressions on the grounds of lack of knowledge. As Montaigne wrote in one of his essays: "The sick man is not to be pitied who has his cure up his sleeve."

We are no longer ignorant in another area of health: the effect of the mind upon the body, and the effect of the body upon the mind. Any organic sickness has an effect on the emotions and the mind, just as an emotional disturbance affects the body. Anger, hatred, grief, worry and fear are among the influences most destructive of vitality.

About seeking competent advice

We need to copy the spider about which Oliver Goldsmith tells in his History of Animated Nature: when it found a wasp in its web it "instantly broke all the bands that held it fast, and contributed all that lay in its power to disengage so formidable an antagonist."

This is not said to glamorize fear, but merely to repeat that our search for health requires that we take all possible precautions. We must heed danger signals, take periodical inventory, accept the preventive measures offered to us by science, cut loose from the habits and dietary indiscretions that harm us, and use our reason.

In seeking health it is important to admit our lack of exact knowledge. Personal theories about our illnesses and personal plans for curing our illnesses are likely to have melancholy endings. An orgy of self-treatment may on occasion do no lasting harm, but it is at best a risky way of seeking health.

It is infinitely better to take competent advice, and in these days we have a great galaxy of persons and institutions and equipment at our service.

Big things to be done

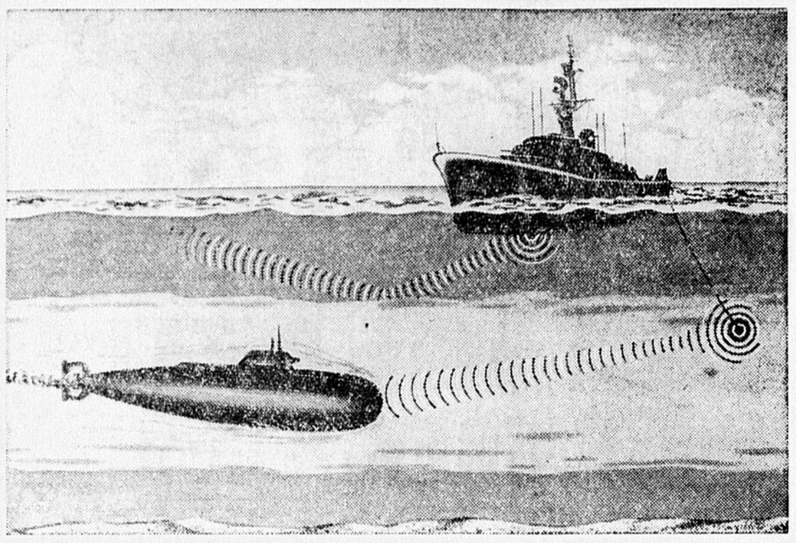

Important evidence of the goodness of a community is to be found in the low mortality and morbidity rates of its people. The death and sickness rates tell us how successfully the community is performing its health functions — in sanitation, child care, health education, cleanliness of milk, purity of water, and protection against the spread of infectious diseases. But in the last analysis health is the responsibility of individuals, who need to see to it that the best that can be done is really being done.

Perhaps there are truly big things we can do to promote health by carrying our individual responsibility into co-operative action with our neighbours.

Why should there not be an earnest, active committee on health in every Home and School Association, in every Chamber of Commerce, in every branch of the National Council of Women, and in every business men's service club? These committees should be of the "keep well" sort, working ardently to bring the best possible health to children, members, and people in the community.

The first Canadian Olympic winner was Etienne Desmarteau, who won the gold medal in the hammer throw at St. Louis in 1904.

USED IN SUBMARINE DETECTION

Pictured above is an artist's conception of the new Variable Depth Sonar (VDS) to be used by the Royal Canadian Navy for submarine detection, VDS, the result of more than ten years' research and development by Defence Research Board scientists of the Naval Research Establishment, Halifax, enables warships to lower sonar gear through the ocean's thermal layers, thereby overcoming submarines' ability to escape detection in or below these layers. The drawing shows sonar gear lowered from a typical RCN destroyer escort detecting a submarine "hiding" in a thermal layer (lighter strata of water) while the sonar beam from the conventional transmitter is deflected back to the surface.

Editorial Notes

Where Do We Go From Here?

OUR editorial last week on the summit conference, while written before the collapse of the conference, was somewhat a dead issue by the time it appeared in print. We entertained doubts of the success of the conference within that editorial and we would not have been surprised if the parties had not even met.

It is a severe blow to the Western Allies and to the people of all the Western Allied countries. After pinning much hope on the possible outcome and then for there to be very little discussion before the collapse, means that hopes were dashed to the ground. The plane incident, coming as it did just prior to the meeting, gave the Russians a wonderful opportunity to wriggle out of a situation that we believe they had no liking for. They were probably looking for just such a loop-hole. It can be said that the collapse of the conference hinged upon that very incident as Khrushchev demanded a public apology from President Eisenhower right at the conference table, or he would not proceed. We wonder, if that apology had been forthcoming, if he would have continued. We feel that he would have found some other excuse.

We now face many possibilities as to the future and it would be well if all citizens face up to the situation and be on the alert for the eventualities. This particular time is perhaps the most explosive period since the end of World War II. While the propaganda by Russia against the United States had died down somewhat since Khrushchev's visit to that country, it has now been intensified. Reports have come in of demonstrations in Russia and Khrushchev had not lost an opportunity to pound home the incident of the spy plane and how bad the United States is.

Khrushchev has threatened to send missiles to countries which have United States bases. There is the danger of signing a separate peace pact with East Berlin. These and many more threats constitute a danger to the whole world. It is hardly likely that Khrushchev would take the responsibility for starting World War III, but one can never tell what the Russians will do — they are unpredictable. It is easy to be seen however, that there are possibilities and in consequence, the Western Allies will need to see that there are no provocating incidents.

There is no doubt that we will return to the cold war and that it will be worse than ever. We can expect all kinds of new propaganda and the second plane incident of the latter part of last week will help this considerably. It is hinted that another summit conference will be called, but we do not feel we can place much hope on that anymore. A meeting of the United Nations, it is feared, will not bring much in the way of relief.

Then where do we go from here? We cannot answer that question, we doubt if anybody can, not even Khrushchev. It is quite probable that something may happen which will set the spark that will explode the tinderbox and we shall be off on something that may be disastrous.

We All Have Need of Training

WHEN war came to England in the second world war, it was evident from the start that everyone would have to be pressed into service if an invasion took place and if air raids were intensive. As a result, a force was set up to combat whatever might be entailed. This force worked along much the same lines that our Civil Defence Force in Canada has been set up to follow. Without this force, Great Britain might have been more sorely pressed, for the men and women did a wonderful job all through the horrors of that war.

The Civil Defence has been organized in Canada for some years now as a part of the defence plan in case of surprise attack on this side of the world. Under peace time work it can act as an emergency force in case of disasters of any kind and has performed in this way on many occasions. Unfortunately, while all communities should be organized under this plan, there are large number which have declined to be bothered. Huntingdon is one of these communities, even though the equipment has been sent here and at least some of it still remains.

We believe the time is here right now when serious consideration should be given to this matter. Not only should this community be giving thought to it, but all surrounding communities also. Let us look at our position. We are situated close to Montreal, in almost direct line with New York City and close to the border of the United States. It is logical that in the event of a surprise attack, these points would provide important targets. Apart from the fact that missiles might fall short of their mark and fall in this territory, our community would in all probability be an evacuation point for the citizens of Montreal.

Would we be prepared to accept thousands of people—house them, feed them, give medical aid and so forth that would be required. All this needs planning for, even though it may never be needed. We could be in a contaminated area and need all the medical aid possible — we should know where this is likely to be obtained.

It has been announced by officials who know, that the length of the warning possible, is 15 minutes. This is from the time a missile is launched from Russia until that missile would reach its target. As far as we are aware there is nothing at the moment with which to intercept these missiles except a special interceptor plane. The chances then of interception would be very slight. It remains therefore that our action is preparedness to combat the effects after the missile has struck its target. This would entail fire fighters and equipment, decontamination squads, medical services, hospitals and evacuation areas. It may mean that much of this force would have to be sent from this area to those where the actual disaster was in effect. It would also mean that a force would have to be retained to look after evacuees. Highways between the target and points outside would have to be controlled to prevent congestion as far as possible as people fled the target area to possible safer points. The warning time — 15 minutes.

It is not likely we should be immune on this side of the world, as in the case of other wars. It is our belief that this side would become the first target. In other wars we have been the supply depot to a great extent. It follows then, that if we are knocked out, or crippled, that our help could not be as great as in the past. Once this had been accomplished, then it would be relatively simple to knock out the European bases. Of course, we would retaliate, but the first blow would no doubt count for much.

If our plans are made and we know the course of action that is to be taken in the event of attack, there would be far less confusion and the work would go on in orderly fashion and thus speed would be the watchword. Every person so organized would take his or her post in the part they are to play. Training is needed for such a plan to work smoothly and without panic at a time when every alert sense is needed.

Our hospitals would need to be alerted and Barrie Memorial did institute a plan for such an eventuality. But there are other hospitals in the area which need to formulate plans. Emergency plans would have to be worked out whereby more people could be taken in and attended and perhaps some patients moved out to other points to provide extra room for those more seriously in need.

There is much more than this, this is only some of the things that may be required and we believe we should be prepared just in case. Preparedness would mean much if the time should come that a need is required.

The Farmer's Wife

THE Canadian Federation of Agriculture is dealing with a touchy subject when it tries to determine the value of a farmer's wife.

Some of the ladies in question may be pleased to learn that experts have estimated their monetary value at between $2,000 and $5,800 a year.

But others may be unhappy to discover they're not regarded as worth more than that. And many may be displeased to find that they're being assessed almost as part of the farm property.

The $2,000 estimate mentioned in the CFA statement came from Washington State University and was based on a 40-hour work week at $1 an hour as housekeeper, baby sitter, nurse and governess.

But whoever heard of a 40-hour week for a farm wife? It certainly doesn't take into consideration the hours spent in the evenings knitting, ironing, repairing, canning and planning. And how about overtime pay when the children awaken during the night?

The higher figure of $5,800 is based on another survey which assumes a family is made up of a husband, wife and two small children. It figures $80 a week for the wife in her role as combination nurse-governess; 16 hours as part-time housekeeper at $1.50 an hour for $24 a week, plus baby-sitting at $1 an hour.

But this is based on a 48-week year, allowing four weeks for vacation, and that should be worth a laugh from most farmers' wives.

The Federation statement has a further comment:

"Isn't it time we mere men wakened up to the fact that our most valuable asset is a neatly proportioned bundle of enticing humanity?"

That remark may help appease some of the ladies who feel you just can't put a price tag on hard-working companionship and maternal affection.

But it's a far cry from the poets who preferred to dwell on the beauty and charm of the fair sex and were careful not to remind the ladies of the mountains of laundry they must work their way through in the course of a year.

Still, if the government should decide to allow a farmer a $5,800 tax deduction for his wife, perhaps all would be forgiven.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) Like others all over the non-Communist world, Canadian leaders reacted with shocked dismay to the collapse of the long-heralded summit conference.

As the Paris talks between Nikita Khrushchev and the Western Big Three leaders teetered on the brink of collapse last Monday, Canadian skokesmen refused to give up hope.

"This conference must surely be kept going," Liberal leader Lester Pearson said in the House of Commons. Prime Minister Diefenbaker expressed hope that the conference on which so many of the world's hopes had been pinned would continue, and "achieve that measure of disarmament which the world expects."

Hopes Dashed

On Wednesday, after it had become clear that the conference had been killed at birth, the two party leaders verbally flayed Khrushchev for his intransigence but at the same time called for new efforts to reduce international tension.

"Efforts to make progress toward peace and security must not be abandoned," Mr. Diefenbaker said. "This is a time for review and reflection, not for provocation and incitement."

Mr. Pearson said: "This is no time for panic any more than it is a time for yielding to the temptation to give up in the search for peace."

Hazen Argue, the Commons CCF leader, said he hopes NATO will resist any temptation to mimic the "bluster and threat" of Premier Khrushchev. This was a time not for rattling swords but "to show unity, yes, and to show a fervent desire for peace and for an amicable settlement."

Earlier in the week Mr. Diefenbaker rejected a suggestion by Mr. Argue that Canada consider a declaration that no American spy planes will use Canadian bases or fly over Canadian territory.

It was the flight of an American U-2 which Russia claims to have downed in the Urals that precipitated the breakdown of the Paris conference even before it got started. Both Mr. Diefenbaker and External Affairs Minister Green have said that no U-2s have ever taken off from bases in Canada.

Commonwealth Meet

The Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London, judged by whether it succeeded in effecting a modification of South Africa's extremist race policies, must be counted a failure.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, reporting to the Commons, said conference proceedings brought no perceptible change in South Africa's attitude. Nor had the informal discussions at London had any apparent effect.

"It is clear that the issue of racial conflict will continue to pose a fundamental problem for Commonwealth countries, and indeed, the world community," he said.

He expressed hope that the people of South Africa can "work their way out of the dreadful impasse" to which the union government's race policies had brought them.

The Liberal and CCF leaders joined in expressions of concern about the future for the Commonwealth after South Africa votes in a plebiscite later this year on whether it shall become a republic.

The Commonwealth leaders had made clear in their London communique that South Africa would not necessarily be able to retain membership as a republic.

Air Defence

Canada's contribution to North American air defence at present consists of nine squadrons of obsolete CF-100 jet interceptors.

Defence Minister Pearkes hinted last week that these may be grounded. He indicated, in testifying before the Commons defence committee, that the RCAF effort in continental air defence will be confined to manning ground radar stations and keeping two Bomarc anti-aircraft missile squadrons in readiness — if the Bomarc program is not scrapped.

Mr. Pearkes said it is "quite reasonable" that one partner in the defence arrangement contribute all of one type of defence "and none of another."

The implication seemed to be that Canada will provide the warning and the United States the interceptors.

Emergency Setup

Transport Minister Hees announced plans to establish the nucleus of an emergency organization to control and administer the national communications systems in event of a nuclear attack.

The organization is to be known as the Emergency National Tele-communications Organization (ENTO). It will be developed within the transport department and under control of the transport minister.

In the discharge of its responsibilities, ENTO will be advised by a committee of senior representatives of other government departments having a major interest in telecommunications, Mr. Hees said. Advice from commercial telecommunication agencies will also be sought.

Divorce Issue

Persons seeking divorces from Parliament will continue to have to produce evidence of adultery. That is the effect of a Senate decision to uphold the majority ruling of its divorce committee in refusing to hear the case of a Quebec woman who sought a decree on grounds of desertion.

Parliament hears divorce petitions only from residents of Quebec and Newfoundland, which have no divorce courts.

Senator John T. Haig (PC — Manitoba) suggested that the Senate urge the government to introduce legislation to remove divorce from parliamentary jurisdiction altogether and assign it to a court.

Meantime, in the hour set aside Friday afternoons for private members' bills, R. J. McCleave (PC—Halifax) asked CCF members to relax their filibuster against divorce bills to pass those which, if delayed, might affect the legitimacy of children to be born to persons involved in the divorce actions. Frank Howard, (CCF—Skeena) leading the campaign to have Parliament devise some new way of handling divorce bills, agreed. But the only two bills passed last Friday did not fall in this category.

Quebec Has More Than 300 Iron Ore Deposits and Occurrences

When iron ore is mentioned, there leaps immediately to mind the vision of the vast New Quebec and Saguenay territories, hundreds of miles from civilization. This is where giants of industry like Iron Ore Company and Quebec Cartier Mining are carving a new mining empire which has already placed Quebec among the leading world producers of iron ore.

There are also other active iron ore mines in the province which are playing an important part by supplying the Quebec and Canadian primary steel industry, but it is not generally known that there are literally hundreds of iron ore deposits in the Province. A report just published by the Department of Mines, under the authority of the Honorable William M. Cottingham indicates that there are 340 of them in almost every district, about which information is available.

This compilation, made for the Mineral Deposits Branch of the Department by G. W. Waddington, points out the immense resources of iron ore known in Quebec. It describes briefly these deposits and gives a summary of the exploration, development and exploitation work done on them.

Titaniferous iron ore and iron bearing sands are also included in the report.

In a brief introduction, Mr. Waddington points out that iron ore was the first metallic substance to be extracted in the Province of Quebec, and the only one to be actually exploited under the French regime.

Copies of this publication "Iron Ore Deposits of the Province of Quebec" (P.R. No. 409) may be obtained from the Department of Mines, Quebec City, or from other offices of the Department located elsewhere in the Province.

The Older Worker

The Minister of Labour several months ago circulated to employers a questionnaire regarding their experience with older workers. Now, we learn, the great majority of those replying agreed that in such matters as turnovers, learning ability, absenteeism and accidents, the older worker gets high marks; higher marks, in fact, in many cases than younger employees.

This tests of Canadian employer opinion confirms many earlier studies on this continent. On the strength of these there can be no doubt that a whole lot of preconceived notions on this subject are in need of drastic revision.

Among the comments made: Older men have proven their ability. They stay with the company for a longer period of time. They bring a good measure of maturity to the job. They account for fewer lost days than their junior counterparts. They have better judgment and are less likely to be diverted by wine women and song. They are more persistent, less easily discourged.

One manufacturer reported hiring four salesmen five years ago. Two of them turned in superlative results and are still with the company. They were both over 50. The two younger

The Story Of

The Coming Of Electric Light And Power To Huntingdon

EXCERPTS TAKEN FROM HUNTINGDON GLEANER FILES

August 28, 1913 — J. G. Dunn submitted his offer for electric power in writing. The main clauses were:-

1st — That we have the exclusive right of erecting lines in the village, also the selling of power for twenty years, up to the limit of his power capacity.

2nd — The corporation to use at least 55 street lights of 32 candle power, and to pay for the same $10. each.

3rd — He supply power for pumping the water.

4th — The rate to be $3.60 per light of 16 candle power or 40 Watt Tungsten for all residences, offices, stores, etc. The rate for 8 candle power light to be $1.80. Churches half price.

5th — The service to come into force January 1st, 1915.

7th — In case of breakdown in his plant, owing to an unavoidable accident, 8 days shall be allowed for repairing it, after that a proportional reduction shall be allowed to customers.

8th — Huntingdon village shall have the first call for the power.

Will — How much will you charge for pumping the water?

Mr. Dunn — How much will you want? If it is a matter of 10 horse power, naturally I will have to charge more.

Crawford — We would need about 25 to start with.

Mr. Dunn — Let me know about how much, and after seeing what can be sold in the village, I will name a price.

Will — If we find that in a few years the original amount of horse power allowed us for pumping the water is not enough, are we certain of getting more? I think that Mr. Dunn should give us first right to a certain horse power, say 100 horse power.

Mr. Dunn — I allowed you that, it would mean that from the beginning I would have to let that amount go to waste. Put it rather, that sufficient power be supplied for pumping the water.

Mayor — How about the present line. Will you buy it?

Mr. Dunn — I will have a man value it, and then see if we can come to terms.

On the motion of Smaill, seconded by Will, the Mayor and Couns. Kelly and Crawford were appointed a committee to secure a man to value the line. Also the same committee to draft a contract and submit it at the next meeting if possible.

Smaill — In one clause you state that the street lights be of 32 carbon candle power, now before 20 years is up new styles may be used. I think you should allow for that.

Mr. Dunn — If they cost more I would have to charge more.

Smaill — We give you a contract for 20 years and we want something in return.

Mayor — Coun. Smaill is right. We should have a clause in the contract providing for that. We do not, however, expect Mr. Dunn to pay more. Let the over cost, if any, be borne by the council.

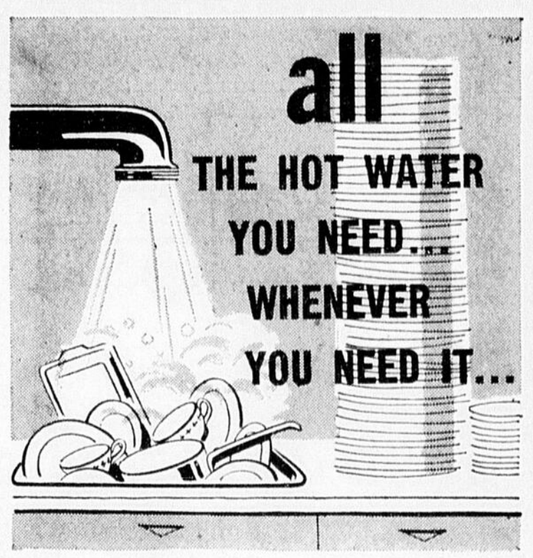

Mr. Dunn — That is satisfactory.

September 18, 1913 — J. G. Dunn submitted his proposal for lighting the village with amendments included. The council agree to sell the present electric line for $2,250, $1,000 to be paid by February 1st, 1915, and the balance in two equal payments within eight months. The rate per light caused a long discussion. The agreement called for a sixteen candle power carbon light, or a 40 watt Tungsten to be the standard size. Coun. Kelly however thought that the watts should be increased to 54 — the amount a carbon light used. This, Mr. Dunn refused to do, saying it would cost him half his revenue, as consumers would only use 8 candle power lights or the equivalent in Tungstens. He gave the consumers a big advantage by allowing them to use 200 watt lights and he had to protect himself on the 16 candle power lights.

According to the submitted agreement the council is to buy 35 horse power for pumping the water at $30 a horsepower, and Mr. Dunn has not to deliver it until he has sold 100 horsepower. Coun. Kelly took exception to this, saying there was no clause compelling him to try and sell power. He would rather see Mr. Dunn contract to pump the water as well. The council offered $1,500 a year for pumping, Mr. Dunn asked $2,000 and after some discussion $1,800 was agreed upon. Mr. Dunn having the use of the power-house dwelling and lot, paying for same $5 rent. The contract for pumping to be for 19 years and commence January 1st, 191.

After and agreement had been reached as to security, the council accepted the proposition and Mayor, Coun. Kelly and the Secretary were ordered to draft a bylaw to be submitted for consideration at the next meeting.

THIS HOBBY OF MINE

HOW IT BEGAN WHERE IT HAS LED

by ARNOLD McNAUGHTON

PART X

To set before the reader a proper account of the lives and tragedies surrounding Queen Victoria's family and their descendants is impossible here and would require literally speaking, volumes. I have already written the story in a simplified manner but even this took close to 300 pages. Added to this were 34 sheets of 11" x 17" size genealogical charts showing every descendant. These were presented in extreme detail with every name, title and complete data of birth, death or marriage plus place of residence, etc. The charts, being the main body of work, involved many hours of preparation and as I undertook to type all this it meant every name had to be evenly spaced, each one containing their own particular block of information. No, the work has not been published. The Dent Publishing Company in Toronto and their head office in London, England, considered the manuscript however. It was in their possession for 6 to 8 months. I must say I was kept well informed and the Editor and I exchanged over a dozen letters during this time. I consider his advice most helpful and his criticisms likewise. I refer to paragraph 1 of the Editor's letter dated Dec. 12, 1957.

"I have read with great interest your manuscript about the descendants of Queen Victoria. It is a very thorough and well-researched piece of work and I doubt if anything like it exists in print. What its chances would be on the market, is rather hard to say — partly because it does not fit in to any of the usual categories. The main market for such a book would probably be in Britain and... I would be prepared to send it to our London house to see whether they would be interested in publishing it over there. It would clearly not be practicable to publish such a book for the Canadian market alone."

On October 2, 1958, I received the final reply from the Editor—the contents of which realized what I had long expected but nevertheless fails to discourage me.

I have now head from our London house about your manuscript, The Descendants of Queen Victoria, and I am very sorry to have to tell you that they do not feel able to undertake publication. They certainly found the manuscript interesting but is of course a rather specialized piece of publishing and the genealogical tables make production fairly costly. They feel that these costs would probably outrun the sales potential. I am very disappointed by the verdict, as I know you must be, and I had hoped for a better verdict."

The letter went on to mention that the Librarian of the Windsor Archives at Windsor Castle had seen my work and was interested in the charts I had prepared. He wanted to know if he could buy them, at a price agreeable to us both. The charts would be kept in the Archives. The mere thoughts that my charts would be secured in these famous Archives was wonderful, however, since it was understood that I would agree never to publish them elsewhere I declined the offer. The result is that the charts are mine today to do with as I please should there ever be any future possibility of this work being published. Not only was the Editor, himself, pleased with my decision but so was the Earl Mountbatten in his letter of Nov. 28th, 1958. I felt rather good to think these people were concerned with the decision at all.

So the manuscript came back. I didn't tear it up. Instead I intend to try other possible avenues. After all this has been a hobby and I am in no great hurry to get a book out simply because of the money which would be realized from its sale. In the meantime I have had quite a few unusual and interesting experiences with this hobby. The interesting fact is that it is never ending.

Now to present the reader with the who's who amongst Victoria's descendants. Space does not permit the privilege of giving any detail surrounding all the involved and interesting events and data in her enormous family. It would be pointless to pursue detail in an acount such as this anyway. Notes after certain names may be given to add colour to who these people were and are. I begin with Queen Victoria herself:

ALEXANDRINA VICTORIA, Queen-Empress, born Princess of Kent at Kensington Palace May 24, 1819; died at Osborne House, Isle of Wight 1901; married 1840 at St. James's Palace, her first cousin, Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, Duke of Saxony, born at Rosenau Castle, Coburg, Germany, August 26th, 1819; died at Buckingham Palace in 1861 of typhoid fever. Victoria succeeded as Queen on the death of her uncle, King William IV in June 1837 and was crowned the next year. On Victoria's marriage the Royal Family name was changed from the traditional Brunswick to Saxe-Coburg and Gotha which name it remained until July 1917 when her grandson King George V changed it to Windsor because of its German origins. The Queen and Prince Albert had 9 children all of whom survived and married.

1. VICTORIA, The Princess Royal, Empress of Germany, Queen of Prussia (1840-1901) m. Emperor Frederick III of Germany. Both died of cancer of the throat. From this eldest child descends the Royal Families of Prussia, Hesse, Greece, Romania and Yugoslavia.
2. EDWARD VII, called Bertie; King of Great Britain and Ireland, Emperor of India (1841-1910) m. Princess Alexandra of Denmark. Through his efforts to keep the peace in Europe, Edward VII was known as "The Peacemaker". He was 60 years old when he came to the throne and is the paternal great grandfather of Queen Elizabeth II. From him descend the Royal Families of Great Britain and Norway.
3. ALICE, Princess of Great Britain (1843-1878) m. Prince Louis IV, Reigning Grand Duke of Hesse and the Rhine and are the maternal great grandparents of Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh. The Royal Families of Russia, Hesse, The Mountbattens of England, Baden, Hesse-Cassel, Hohenlohe-Langenburg and Prussia descend from this third child of Victoria.
4. ALFRED, Duke of Edinburgh; after 1893 Reigning Duke of Saxe - Coburg and Gotha (1844-1900) m. Grand Duchess Marie Alexandrovna of Russia, daughter of Emperor Alexander II. Alfred, called 'Affie', was the Sailor Prince of the family. He was in Canada during the time of the Fenian raids. From him descend such Royal Houses as those of Romania, Yugoslavia, part of the Hapsburgs of Austria, Hohenlohe, Schleswig-Holstein, Russia, Prussia, Leiningen and Bourbon-Orleans. The male line died out with his only unmarried son 1899.
5. HELENA, known as Princess Christian (1846-1923) m. Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein - Sonderburg - Augustenburg who was 15 years her senior. Helena distinguished herself in welfare and nursing. Their children died without issue so that this branch of the Queen's descendants has died out. The last died in 1956.
6. LOUISE, Duchess of Argyll (1848-1939) m. John Campbell, Marquess of Lorne and 9th Duke of Argyll who from 1878-1883 was Govérnor-General of Canada. He composed the words for the hymn "Unto The Hills Around Do I Lift Up" taken from the 23rd Psalm. They had no family.
7. ARTHUR, Duke of Connaught (1850-1942) the last surviving son of Queen Victoria; m. Princess Louise Margaret of Prussia. He was named for his famous Godfather, Arthur, the Duke of Wellington who figured so prominently in the Battle of Waterloo. Prince Arthur was strictly an army man and made that service his career. He was Governor-General of Canada 1911-1917. He died at 92 living long enough to see the Second World War well in progress His wife was the first member of the Royal Family to be cremated. From him descend the Royal Families, in part only, of Sweden and Denmark. His male issue died out in 1944 when his grandson died at Ottawa.
8. LEOPOLD, Duke of Albany, (1853-1884) named for his mother's uncle, King Leopold I of the Belgians; m. Princess Helena of Waldeck-Pyrmont, aunt of former Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. The most delicate of Victoria's children Leopold suffered from haemophilia, the bleeding disease, for which there was no known cure and which he had inherited from his mother. From him descend the Royal Family of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha and the Athlone's of England and part of the Swedish Royal Family. The male issue line still survives but owing to their alien loyalties during World War I they were "struck out" by King George V of England as being "outside" the bounds of the British Royal Family and were deprived of all their English titles in the Peerage of the United Kingdom. Strange as it appears the male line made its home in Germany while the female line remained in England. They were divided in their respective loyalties in both World Wars.
9. BEATRICE, Princess of Battenberg (1857-1944)) m. Prince Henry of Battenberg, uncle of the Earl Mountbatten. Beatri was the last of Victoria's children to survive. Prince Henry died of a fever contracted in the Ashanti War in Africa. The Royal House of Spain descends from this youngest daughter of Queen Victoria. The male line has died out.

Valleyfield

VALLEYFIELD. — On Sunday evening, May 15, the Valleyfield Presbyterian Young People's Society held a church service for all the Societies of the South Shore.

The young people took part in the service with Joan Clifford as leader.

The solo entitled "In the Garden" was sung by Mr. Bob Page of Beauharnois.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Lionel J. Robb. After the service everyone went downstairs for refreshments and a social gathering.

Dundee

DUNDEE — Week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl McNicol and Mrs. Ella McNicol were Mr. Sam McDonald, Miss Barbara Adams, Mr. Robert White, Miss Jackie Dupuis, McMasterville; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Graham of Valois were Sunday afternoon callers at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Platt also Mr. and Mrs. Harland Platt and daugher Linda of Fort Covington went to Montreal on Sunday to see Mr. Lawrence Haverstock of Rooseveltown, N.Y. who was a patient in the Ross Memorial Pavilion of the Royal Victoria Hospital. Mr. Haverstock has been in the hospital for three weeks where he is undergoing operations and treatment for a hip ailment. Miss Lelle Cameron, R.N., who is a friend of the Haverstock family also recently visited him.

L.S. Calvin McNicol of H.M.C.S. Stadacona, N.S. spent a few days last week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. McNicol. Calvin has been in the R.C.N. several years and plans to make a life work of serving the country. A couple of years ago he was involved in a serious accident while riding a bicycle through one of the Nova Scotia peasoup fogs and suffered severe head injuries and had to undergo extensive skin surgery during the past two years. He likes his work and is now taking up a station in the medical course. He is married with a small family. He and his wife live in a large house trailer near where he is stationed. When Calvin returned during the early part of the week, his mother left by plane for the East coast with him.

W.M.S.

The members of the Womens' Missionary Society of Zion Church held a very successful Anniversary tea on Wednesday afternoon, May 18th, in the Church basement.

There was a splendid representation from some of the neighboring churches, Howick, Huntingdon, St. Andrew's Huntingdon, Rennie's, Fort Covington and Bombay, N.Y., who gathered in the Auditorium where a service of Worship was conducted by Pres. Mrs. C. Platt.

Mrs. Kay Williams of Kensington rendered a beautiful solo "My Task", with Mrs. E. J. Cameron as accompanist. The Guest Speaker Mrs. E. D. Errey, President of the Montreal Presbyterial, gave a very splendid address which was much enjoyed.

A delicious tea with sandwiches, cup cakes, and cookies was served to about (80) eighty ladies.

The tables were beautifully decorated with spring flowers and candles on the head table where the guests of honor were seated. The collection amounted to $60.00. All extend sincere thanks to those who helped make this event such as success.

There is a real menace from weeds allowed to go to seed on farms which are left without either cutting or pasturing during the summer and there is getting to be quite a number of such in this district.

It would seem that some law should be passed, compelling owners of such farms either to cut, burn or spray these weeds before they have gone to seed and carried by the wind to adjacent farms where crops are grown.

Final Account Of Trip To Western Canada

(By Mrs. M. A. Reese)

It was our privilege to see the Fabulous Hearst Castle at San Simeon. It stands on the summit of what is known as "The Enchanted Hill" composed of 123 acres ,owned and built by the late William Randolph Hearst, who operated a chain of some 31 newspapers, 15 magizines, several Radio Stations and a number of film companies. It was reputed that he spent a million dollars every year for a period of fifty years on the art treasures, fountains, carvings, statuary, tapestries, etc. The wealth and beauty contained here cannot be described, it is beyond human expression.

One is spell bound at the grandeur, both inside and surrounding this Castle. This Castle is now owned by the State, having been given over to it by the Hearst heirs after his death in 1951.

Fresno was another very lovely city, with its population of over 100,000, it is situated in the valley of San Joaquin. It was there in mid March we got very warm weather, temperature about 90°. This city has a very beautiful public park, Roeding Park of 157 acres. Lake Washington and Japanese Gardens add to its beauty. It has an elaborate zoo, picnic acres, tennis courts, boating, beautiful flower beds, etc., etc., and the Amusement part of this park, is sponsored by the Rotary Club.

We spent a delightful day at Yosemite National Park and in Mariposa Grove of giant sequoias (Redwoods). The entrance called "The Range of Light" stands 9,941 ft. high on the crest of the Sierra Nevada Mts. Here we saw Grizzly Giant, the oldest and largest of the giant sequoias in the grove. Its estimated age is 3,800 years. Height 209 ft. Here and in Yosemite once again a person is spell bound by the grandeur and majesty of the sights seen. The work of the Master Builder. From the "Portal of Grandeur" a most fitting name given to the East Partal of the 4,233 ft. Wanona Road Tunnel, may be seen the most sublime and beautiful view of Yosemite Valley with El Capitan towering 3,600 ft. at the left. Half Dome rising a mile in the distance, the Three Graces and the ever changing Bridal Veil Fall on the right. There are many more grand masses of rock towering thousands of feet heavenward and beautiful water falls also. One especially lovely one is Yosemite Falls, composed of two, the upper one, 1,430 ft. high is an intermediate chain of cascades, the lower 320 ft, of a drop.

The Fire Fall from Glacier Point is world famous. Every night at 9 o'clock, a renowned spectacle occurs, a cascade of glowing embers is dropped 3,254 ft in answer to Camp Curry's call (situated immediately below) "Let the fire fall" all the wonders have to be seen to be appreciated.

In Southern California our stay was centered in and near Yucaipa and San Bernardino and equally enjoyed. At the latter place, we spent the week-end with Frances McCracken and family (a nephew of the late Mrs. Henry Wilson) who has several interesting hobbies, one of which was growing of Orchids, where he had over 2,000 in his hot house. But and motor trips took us to beautiful Forest Lawn Cemetery at Glendali, where one can see world famous treasures of art, which have brought world wide recognition to Forest Lawn as Californias leading cultural centre. This beautiful place is continuing to build and serve the community not only as a sacred resting place of beauty for the departed, but also a place of inspiration and comfort for the living.

Some of the loviest places we visited here were The Little Church of the Flowers, and The Wee Kirk o'the Heather. They were equally beautiful. The latter one is a reconstruction of the church where Annie Laurie worshipped in Scotland more than 250 years ago. The gigantic pieces of statuary on the lawns throughout its acres were magnificent. The "Last Supper" Window in Memorial Court of Honor is a magnificant re-creation in stained glass of the world famous painting and "The Crucifixion" by the renowned Polish Artist Jan Styka, partraying the second great moment in the life of Christ were wonderful. The latter painting is 195 ft. long by 45 high. Dramatized Stories of these are given at every hour when being shown.

Knott's Berry Farm and Ghost Town was certainly an interesting place to visit. One could spend many hours here and then not see everything there is to be seen.

We certainly enjoyed Palm Springs America's foremost Desert Resort. The main street known as Palm Canyon Drive, at night was most pecturesque. Each tree (and there were many) had two electric lights on each one and the illumination made a most spectacular sight. Here were seen some of America's foremost delux Hotels. Temp. was 89 degrees at 10 P.M.

We really had a good taste of the desert and its heat when we visited the Shield's Date Gardens at Indio the temperature was 120 degrees. The date groves were a sight. The date harvest is in the early Fall months. Each date palm produces about 200 lbs. per year. The harvest is quite prolonged due to the fact that the date clusters do not rippen all at the same time. We found this particular visit most educational.

On our return trip from Southern California we travelled through nine different States via Santa Fe and New York Central Railways. Each State having something of special interest to see. In the desert parts of California and Arizona, various types of cacti with their own particular showy blossoms. The lovely Red Cliffs of New Mexico, towering so high and of so many shapes. As we crossed from New Mexico to Colorado we reached the highest point on the Santa Fe 7588 ft. above sea level. We crossed the Missori and Mississippi Rivers the latter is such a muddy one, noted sand bags and debris all along its shores, where recent flooding had taken place. We crossed the Iowa — Illinois border at the entrance to East Fort Madison. Each turn of either car or bus wheels bringing us nearer home. After visiting cousins in Albion and Syracuse, N.Y., we travelled by Grey Hound Bus to Huntingdon which completed a delightful holiday and trip of approximately 11,000 miles of travel.

(The End.)

A Tribute To "A Lady"

My dear friend the Late Mrs. A. W. McNaughton of Huntingdon, P.Q., who died May 5th, 1960, and was buried on Mother's Day, Sunday May 8th, 1960.

By Mrs. ALICE PARRY

Just a small advertisement, inserted in the paper,
Gave out invitations, for vacationists to read
'Reservation could be had', it said.
On a very lovely farm,
A quiet place, where one could rest, and enjoy the scenic charm.
One day, just twenty years ago, I made application,
For a room, in that lovely place, where I might go,—alone,
To spend a quiet, restful time, with other quiet people.
Never dreaming for a moment, the joy that trip would bring,
To me, throughout the years ahead, —it's praises, I can sing.

The rooms were not 'Hotel Rooms', but were clean and 'comfy' too,
The food was good,—Always the best,
And Fertile Valley Farm,
Was a place, where each and every guest,
Was made to feel 'at home'.
The owner,—and his dear wife:—"McNaughton" is their name,
Were courtesy, and kindness, to all who cared to share,
Their lovely home, their restful lawns, the swimming and the swings,

And when they took a drive themselves, they never went alone,—
They took their guests along with them, and gave them a good time
And when the holiday was through, no one was glad to go,
For most every one who went there once, would want to go again.

Those who derived much happiness on the farm were many,—
Old age pensioners,—youngsters,—adults,—any,
Who cared to try, Her cosy rooms and lovely food,
Her winning smile, Her cheery voice say "Hi",
She could not do enough for you,—she had to make you happy,
And if you could find a room to stay, you were indeed, "SO LUCKY."

I loved Mrs. McNaughton,—her husband?—He was grand,—
They had three girls and one boy,—a very lovely band.
They all were young, in those days twenty years ago,
Polite and well behaved, they were, and never were they slow,
To do what each one could, to help another soul,—
They always tried, in every way, to reach "Their Mother's Goal.

Through years that passed:—Through joy and sorrow,
I watched those children grow,
Till each one married, and left the nest,
Then—none was left to go.
Their Mother helped them,—each in turn, with homes,—and babies too,
And did what e'er she could for them,—as all good Mothers do.

Those years have happy memories, for me and many more,
Who always went back to the farm, for holidays—galore.
Then came the time when I took ill, that was eight years ago,
Then my friend proved her worth, as many people know.
She showed concern for me on all occasions,
And for restful holidays on the farm, she sent me invitations.

Those restful sojourns, in quietude, with companionship like hers,
Were as Life, given back to me, she thought of me in her prayers.
Then illness overtook her too, she was not very strong,
She tried hard to resist disease, but could not linger long,
It seemed it was not meant for her to stay,
And so, at last, God called her home, to His mansion far away.

They buried that dear Lady, just a week or so ago,
And just how much I'll miss her, no one will ever know.
The Minister,—a good man, who also knew her well,
Gave a tribute to her life,—it was wonderful to tell.
He spoke of how she loved to help any person in distress,
And those who might need her advice, always had her address.

The minister said her whole life's work, could be summed up in one word,
She lived for "OTHERS", not for herself, now has gone to her reward.
The place where they have laid her, is quiet and peaceful too,
I could not ask a better fate, than to be laid beside her,
When my time comes, without any more ado.
And so a wonderful friendship, is broken, only by Death,
But I will love her memory, till my very last breath.

Elgin

ELGIN — The Elgin W.M.S. met Thursday, May 19th, in the Church Hall.

A delicious luncheon was served at noon to about twenty-five members and guests by the hostesses for the meeting: Mrs. Angus Stark, Mrs. Leslie Macfarlane and Mrs. Arthur MacFarlane, who were assisted in serving by Mrs. Donald Ferns and Mrs. Tommy Brooks.

The afternoon was spent in quilting.

The devotional and business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Arthur MacFarlane, Pres. pro tem, who opened the meeting with Prayer.

Roll Call was responded to by repeating a verse from Scripture.

Following the business part of the meeting, instead of the usual lesson, the report of the Annual Presbyterial held in Town of Mount Royal Presbyterian Church in February, was given, as only part had been given at a previous meeting due to small attendance.

The meeting closed by singing the hymn "Come to the Saviour, Make No Delay", and prayer. Proceeds of the meeting $20.50.

Wedding

DAVIDSON-CARSON

Miss Gertrude Blanche Carson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Carson, of Franklin Centre, Que., was recently betrothed, in the Queen Mary United Church, to Clifford E. J. Davidson, son of Mr. J. W. Davidson and the late Mrs. Davidson of Dublin, Ireland, Rev. Eric D. Errey officiated. Mrs. Fred Sherrington Jr., sang the "Lard's Prayer" and "Where E'er You Walk" Gladioli were used to decorate.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a full length silk organza gown appliqued with alencon lace having long sleeves and a scalloped lace neckline. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a pearl tiara, and she carried a white bible with a bouquet of sweetheart roses attached.

Miss Kathleen MacKay was the maid of honour, and Mrs. Thomas McArdle and Mrs. Stuart Duncan, as attendants wore street length pink and mauve taffeta dresses appliqued with darker pink and mauve flowers matching accessories, and they each carried bouquets of pink and purple split carnations.

Mr. Alister McKenlay was the best man, and the ushers were Mr. Ian Brown and Mr. Walter Judge.

The bride's mother wore a dusty rose lace dress over silk taffeta with white accessories and a white rose corsage.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the Oak Room in Victoria Hall, Westmount.

After the reception, the newlyweds left for a trip to Sarasota, Florida, with the bride travelling in a mauve linen suit, with mauve accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Upon their return the couple will reside in Montreal.

New Erin

NEW ERIN — Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rankin and Mrs. J. I. McWilliams of Shawinigan Falls, Que., enjoyed the holiday week-end with their brother and sister, Mr. Earl and Miss Effie Rankin.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Lyall Sparrow accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kriebel of Settle, Wash., returned this week from a motor trip to Washington, D.C., Columbia, S.A. and Tamper, Clearwater and Dayton Beach, Fla. They enjoyed beautiful scenery and good weather all the way.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Douglass and Karen of Nitro, Que., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Douglass.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith of Montreal, were callers during the week of their sister, Mrs. C. L. Starr.

Holiday week-end guests at the same home were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Starr, Mr. Richard Starr and Miss Jane Hamilton of Montreal.

Mr. Grant Cameron of Alexandria, Ont., visited on the long week-end with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Cameron.

How To Prune Ornamental Shrubs And Trees Which Have Been Damaged During The Winter

Those of us who have ornamental shrubs or trees which have been damaged during the winter by cold, ice and snow or sleetstorms should come to their rescue with skilful pruning if we wish to keep them in good condition. As a rule this pruning is done at cleaning up time in spring, regardless of whether a shrub flowers early or late in the season.

A good time to do the job is when the buds begin to swell because it will then be easier to tell which are the healthy, living branches and, with these in view, to remove the dead wood as well as broken branches and to thin out, rejuvenate and shape the shrub so as to give it a well-balanced appearance.

Sometimes it is better to give the plants first-aid as soon as they are injured, as for instance in the case of large ornamentals such as honeysuckle bushes, lilacs, decorative apple trees and certain conifers, which had their trunks split or a main branch split from the trunk. If the two parts are not too seriously damaged, it may be possible to save the shrub, at least for several years, by wiring them together, taking care to prevent direct contact between the wire and the plant by interposing lengths of rubber hose or some other material in order to protect the bark. The crack should be covered with an asphalt emulsion ("Braco") to guard it against decay but, notwithstanding these precautions, the shrubs should be examined later to make sure that water is not collecting in the wound. If it is, it may be necessary to bore a hole at the bottom to allow it to drain away. Wires should be slackened too, if they are cutting into the bark.

Broken and superfluous branches which have to be pruned away should be cut off as close as possible to the parent limb or trunk, since any stubs which are left are likely to die and so may allow rot to gain a foothold. When removing heavy branches, its better not to run the risk of splitting them by sawing through them from above. Instead, an initial cut should be made from the underside of the branch, then another cut from above to meet the first and, finally the stub should be sawn off flush.

All scars more than an inch across should be daubed with shellac or some protectant, preferably an asphalt emulsion such as "Braco."

Some shrubs of small or medium height will profit from a severe pruning because in many cases they are likely to have been neglected and will be in need of rejuvenation.

The oldest of the broken branches should be removed at ground level and the remaining older branches may then be cut back to a lateral shoot or a little above an outwardly facing bud.

Shrubs which have been very seriously damaged or deformed should be pruned rigorously, leaving several stems from six to twelve inches high above the soil so as to encourage new shoots to start as close as possible to the ground.

The rapid growth of leafy shrubs and the presence of dormant buds on their stem makes it possible for them to be pruned severely and to recover quickly.

Conifers are affected more than other ornamentals by breakages because they are slow-growing plants and — except for the yew (Taxus) — they have no dormant buds from which new stems can arise. Those which have a divided trunk should be given the same sort of treatment as the larger ones mentioned. Withered branches should be cut off as close to the soil as possible: it is useless to cut them off within the zone where the needles are dead, leaving a certain length in the hope that new stems will arise from it. As in the case of other ornamentals, it is necessary to prune flush with the parent branch, that is, without leaving stubs.

Spruce and fir which have had their tops broken off can be reshaped by having a lateral branch to take the place of the leader.

Some hedges may have suffered severe damage. Mr. Daniel Seguin of the Quebec Department of Agriculture says that if the plants are deciduous (such as honeysuckle, spiraea, barberry, etc.) they may be pruned individually. After two or three years the gaps will have filled in and the hedge will look quite normal again. Mr. Seguin says that it is a good idea to take advantage of extensive injury of this kind to carry out pruning so as to rejuvenate the hedge. Severe pruning may also be necessary for other reasons. For example, it may be abvisable to cut back the whole hedge by six or twelve inches if it contains too many damaged shrubs. In the case of conifers, and especially cedars, which have been broken off within a few inches of the soil, it is better to pull them up and plant new ones.

Nitro

NITRO — Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. Steele, Laurier Street, this past week-end were: Mr. John Lowden, Huntingdon; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Steele, St. Laurent; and Mr. and Mrs. G. Radford, Cornwall.

Mrs. H. Dawson has returned home after spending some time with her sons in the U.S.A. and daughters at London, Ontario and Sarnia, Ontario.

Miss Judy Dando has completed her year at Bishop's University and is spending the vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Dando.

Mrs. Wm. Damery has recently returned home after spending some time with her father at Saint John, N.B.

The Church Service at the Nitro Protestant Church was conducted by Rev. W. C. Pelletier, Valleyfield United Church, with Mr. Robert Anderson, Valleyfield, presiding at the organ.

Mr. and Mrs. Fullerton had as their week-end guests, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Fullerton and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McKinnon and daughter Cindy spent the week-end with Mrs. McKinnon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brindle, Lapointe Avenue.

Mr. A. Hodge and sons, Mr. Leslie Champ and family, April Harrigan and Coleen Swartz attended the Circus held in Montreal, on Saturday last.

On Wednesday, May 18, a film "Safe Bicycling" was shown at the Recreation Centre to many boys and girls of the community who will be participating in the second Bicycle Road-eo which is scheduled to take place on Thursday, May 26. This Road-eo is sponsored by the Canadian Arsenals Limited Safety League to encourage cyclists and their parents to practice traffic safety rules, safe bicycling, and to observe courtesy and prudence. One Hundred Dollars in prizes will be awarded.

Confirmation and First Communion Services were held at St. Jeanne D'Arc Roman Catholic Church on Saturday evening and Sunday morning.

Our sympathy is extended to Mr. R. E. Hales on the recent death of his father at Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The Softball Season got underway on Thursday evening, when the Canadian Arsenals team defeated the Valleyfield Police in a very close game.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Baskin and family attended the Circus at Montreal, last Saturday.

Congratulations are extended to the Canadian Legion for the excellent arrangements made for the holding of the Track and Field Meet at Valleyfield on Saturday, May 21st. There was a fine turn-out representing Gault, Ormstown, Howick, Huntingdon and Hemmingford Schools. Gault School won the individual school trophy for the highest total points. Two of the individual winners were from Nitro — Miss Debbie Dando was high in the 13-14 year age group for girls, Miss Debbie Kennedy won the individual trophy for the highest points in the 10 and under classification.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Burke and family spent the week-end at their cottage at Mountain View, N.Y. They had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. D. Gallagher and family, from Ottawa, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hales spent the week-end at their summer home at Chateaugay, N.Y. and had as their guest Master Neil MacLean. The children enjoyed their first swim of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. DiLabio and family spent the week-end at their cottage at Mountain View, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Saunders visited their cottage at Chateaugay, N.Y., on Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday Night the tenth anniversary of the Valleyfield Golf and Country Club was held when an excellent buffet dinner was served followed by an evening of dancing. Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Donohoe, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Clarke, and Mrs. G. A. Crepeau, Mr. and Mrs. G. Boisclear, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Marshall from Nitro were among those present.

The Older Worker

men were recently replaced — by older men. Today, 17 of the company's 28-man sales force are over 50.

The company president had the following to say about his "senior" sales staff: "The customer reacts favourably to the dignity and reserve of older men, and often accords time and attention he would deny a younger, high-pressure salesman."

He continued: "Geriatrics experts tell us that men and women never grow old as long as they keep their sense of humour and active interest in others. It must follow then that being profitably employed, rather than just sitting in a rocking chair, helps add years as well as happiness to life."

Clearly, the older worker, far from being a company liability, is more than likely to prove a first-class investment.

Not So Weak

We have long harboured the suspicion that in Canada at least the weaker sex is not the one most of us like to think it is. Now, official statistics under four different heads would seem to put the matter beyond all reasonable doubt, hard as this may be on the male ego.

The infant mortality rate for females, we note, is 25 per cent lower than that for males. On the other hand, the male suicide rate is 11.8 per 100,000 of population compared with only 3.0 for females.

In mental institutions, males outnumber females by 15 per cent. Finally, the life expectancy of the females of the species in this country is a good five years greater than that of mere males (71 years against 66).

To sum up: The Canadian male is more likely than the female to die at birth; enter a mental home; commit suicide; and fall short of three score years and ten.

All of which cause us to revise our ideas about which of the sexes is basically the stronger, at any rate, in terms of capacity for survival.

More tender (we will not say more deadly) than the male the Canadian female may be; weaker she obviously is not.

"Teen Antics", a three act play under the capable direction of Mrs. Margaret Campbell is in its final stages of preparation, and will be presented on Friday and Saturday evenings this week.

Grass In Abundance

Farmers have three effective methods of pasture management at their disposal for obtaining a plentiful supply of grass throughout the growing season. Mr. Rodolphe Cloutier of the Quebec Department of Agriculture believes that they would find that it would pay them to make much more liberal use of these methods, which are as follows:

1—The reseeding of old pastures;

2—The adequate application of manure and commercial fertilizer;

3—The methodical control of grazing.

Many pastures, the yield of which may seem satisfactory from the point of view of quantity, are actually producing grass whose quality leaves much to be desired from the point of view of milk production. Moreover, this delusive abundance of grass is often only available for an all too brief period, mostly at the beginning of the grazing season. The rejuvenation of these old pastures, either by seeding or by means of generous fertilization, will result not only in grass of better quality but also in an increase in the number of days of grazing, spread out over a much longer period.

Manure and commercial fertilizers produce quick results, even though perhaps not in the year of their application. There are plenty of pastures, in their second and third year after seeding, which only need a good top-dressing of manure or fertilizer to double or treble their yield.

On the whole, the control of grazing is an aspect of pasture management which is too often neglected, or improvised rather than planned. It is much better to divide the pasture into two or three sections which can be grazed in rotation. This system will permit intensive grazing and, at the same time, avert the waste and losses caused by too few animals pasturing too large a field. It is a well-established fact that, generally speaking, the best recovery is made when the plants are browsed down to about one third of their height. Pastures which are grazed too closely at the beginning of the season sometimes suffer badly with the coming of the hotter and drier summer weather. Finally it should be pointed out that the mower is a means of keeping pastures in a good state of vegetation and of preventing them from becoming ragged and weedy, which is within everyone's reach.

White Grub Damage

OTTAWA — Turf in many areas of Eastern Canada may be damaged by white grubs this year, warns J. H. Boyce of the Plant Research Institute, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Since 1960 is the flight-year of June beetles on Montreal Island and vicinity, residents in this area in particular should apply an insecticide this May or June.

Modern insecticides give highly effective control of grubs when properly applied. Among these are aldrin, dieldrin, chlordane, DDT, hoptachlor and BHC. All are available in various forms and concentrations and each should be applied according to the directions on the container. Before these insecticides were developed, arsenate of lead was used. Although expensive it is still useful as it also controls earthworms and, on some soils, prevents the germination of annual blue grass and sometimes crabgrass. All these materials are poisonous so instructions on the labels should be strictly observed.

Actually, in most areas of Eastern Canada, one of these insecticides should have been applied last May or June, when adults were flying. This would have killed many of the adults and most of the larvae. In districts where many June beetles were observed last year, an insecticide should be applied in May or early June this year and immediately watered into the soil.

White grubs, which are the larvae of June beetles, feed voraciously on grass roots and destroy large areas of turf if not controlled. Lawn owners and turf managers will recall the serious damage caused by the grubs in 1957, the last heavy feeding year. Skunks and other animals often cause further damage to turf by digging for the grubs as food. Maintaining a good turf, particularly with regard to soil fertility, is a necessary part of a control program against the grubs.

PRAIRIE FRUIT

MORDEN, Man. (CP) A new variety of raspberry, Boyne, has been developed at the federal experimental station here and will be made available through commercial nurseries on the Prairies this year. The Boyne is said to have a higher yield than other varieties recommended for growth on the Prairies.

SUCCESS is confidence in yourself . . . your future!

HAVE YOU ENOUGH CONFIDENCE? Look at any successful man. He knows what he's doing . . . knows where he's going. He's not afraid of tough jobs, tough decisions. Think! Do you have this kind of confidence?

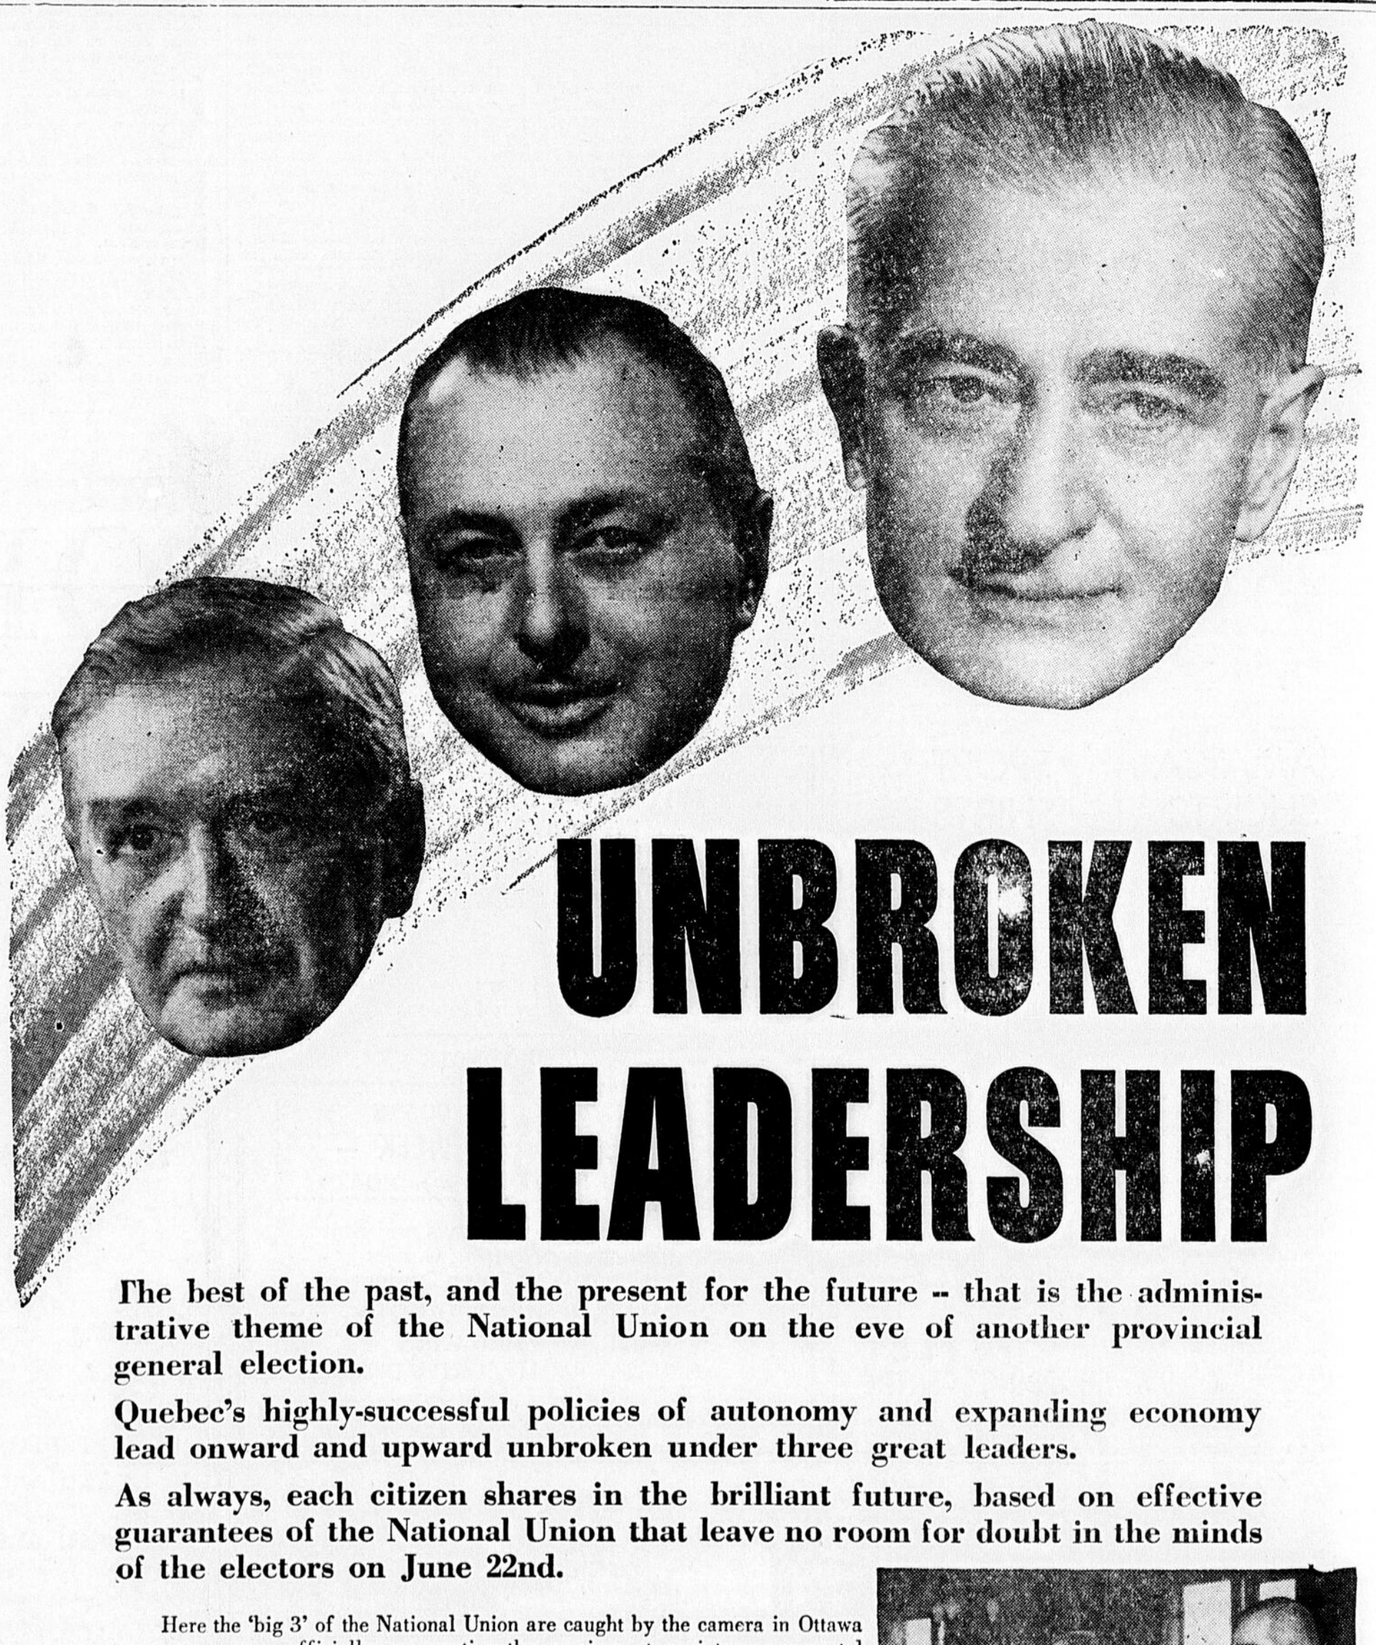

No man can have real confidence unless he has security for himself, his family, his future. Successful men realize this early in life. They create and protect this security with LIFE INSURANCE. They know that whatever happens, their financial future and the future of their families is unconditionally guaranteed. This is a good feeling to have . . . a feeling that gives a man the kind of confidence that breeds success.

How about you? If you don't have enough confidence . . . maybe it's because you don't own enough LIFE INSURANCE. Look into it. Your LIFE INSURANCE man is a most important person to talk to on your road to success.

There is no substitute for Life Insurance!

If you want success you need: CONFIDENCE in yourself and your future . . . SECURITY to give you freedom of mind . . . EXTRA MONEY to seize opportunity. And in the later years, when you'll appreciate it the most, LEISURE to enjoy the rewards of your achievement. These are the ingredients of success. These are the things that LIFE INSURANCE can help to give you.

UNBROKEN LEADERSHIP

The best of the past, and the present for the future -- that is the administrative theme of the National Union on the eve of another provincial general election.

Quebec's highly-successful policies of autonomy and expanding economy lead onward and upward unbroken under three great leaders.

As always, each citizen shares in the brilliant future, based on effective guarantees of the National Union that leave no room for doubt in the minds of the electors on June 22nd.

Here the 'big 3' of the National Union are caught by the camera in Ottawa — officially representing the province at an intergovernmental conference where they stood, shoulder to shoulder, defending the constitutional rights of Quebec, and of every other Canadian Province.

At the time no one suspected for a moment that the Honourable Maurice Duplessis, premier of Quebec and leader of the National Union, had with him a pair of ministers who in such short time would be called upon to succeed him in the two posts, and to take up the fight for provincial rights, liberties and prerogatives as well as for administrative autonomy and provincial sovereignty . . . so essential to the progress and development of every province, and of Quebec in particular.

Principalship Shared In Chateauguay-Mosher-Maple; Harrowing-Julius Richardson

Due to ever -increasing enrolment in Julius Richardson and Maple Schools in Chateauguay, the Chateauguay Protestant School Board recently decided to offer the principalship of Julius Richadson School to Mr. Colin R. Harrowing. Mr. Harowing has accepted the position and his appointment has been made retroactive to May 1st.

Mr. Russel Mosher will continue in his capacity of Supervising Principal of Chateauguay Protestant School Boards. A new high school will be built in the immediate future and will be located near Maple School, and in due time a third principal will in all probability be appointed while a supervising principal will have over-all charge.

RUSSEL MOSHER

COLIN R. HARROWING

Russel Mosher, 36-year-old Supervising Principal of Julius Richardson and Maple Schools, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mosher of Noyan, Quebec. President of the Chateauguay Valley Teachers' Association, Mr. Mosher has for some time had the responsibility of two schools and has also been active in a number of local organizations. The appointment of a Principal for Julius Richardson will undoubtedly relieve Mr. Mosher of some of the pressure and responsabilities he has faced, especially during the present school term.

Mr. Mosher received his elementary schooling in Noyan and Clarenceville and attended high school at Phillipsburg and Granby. He later attended Macdonald College and McGill University and was Principal of Julius Richardson for four years until the new Maple School was built and since that time has been Supervising Principal of both schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Mosher (nee Marjorie Curtis of Clarenceville) are greatly interested in community activities in and around Chateauguay. Mrs. Mosher conducted a kindergarten class for a number of years and was forced to give this up on account of sickness some months ago. They have two school age children, Jimmy in Grade 3 and Kathy who is in Grade One.

Mr. Mosher has four brothers: Kenneth of Cantic; Clarence of St. Lambert; Gordon at home in Noyan; Gerald in Clarenceville; also a sister, who lives at home. Previous to the teaching profession, Russel Mosher was a civil servant for seven years and was also secretary of the Customs and Excise Officers Association of the Montreal area.

In the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War, Mr. Mosher saw North Atlantic Convoy service. He was a warden of St. George's Anglican Church of Canada in 1956 and 1959 and in 1953 was Master of Clarenceville Masonic Lodge.

Mr. Mosher wishes to publicly thank the Chateauguay Protestant School Board for recognizing his request for a principal for Julius Richardson School. For some time he has been doing more than any one man should be expected to do. The appointment of a colleague, Mr. Harrowing, is undoubtedly most acceptable in this fast-growing municipality.

Mr. and Mrs. Mosher have owned three homes since moving to Chateauguay. The first two were older residences which they bought in order that they could renovate them, a hobby which they have found both interesting and rewarding to a degree. Their present home was purchased some time ago and is located at 20 Lang St., Chateauguay Gardens; because they have little spare time in which to pursue hobbies, it is perhaps fortunate there is little they can do to modernize this home.

Colin Robertson Harrowing, whose recent appointment to the position of Principal of Julius Richardson School has been made retroactive to May 1st by the Chateauguay Protestant School Board, has been a resident of Chateauguay since September, 1959, when he accepted a position as Grade Seven teacher at Julius Richardson.

Born in England in a town outside London, Mr. Harrowing came to Canada when he was six years old. He attended kindergarten and also went to a public school in England before the family moved to Verdun. In Verdun he received his elementary schooling at Woodlands School, later obtaining his Senior High School Leaving Certificate from Verdun High School.

Mr. Harrowing has held positions with Northern Electric Co. and Canadian Tube and Steel Products during which time he and his family lived at Allan's Corners, near Howick. During this period he was enrolled as an evening student at Sir George Williams College, from where he obtained his Bachelor of Science degree in May, 1959; preparatory work for this degree was made at the University of New Brunswick.

At the end of the present school term Mr. Harrowing will leave Chateauguay to attend the first of a series of three summer courses at the University of New Brunswick, from where he will obtain his Bachelor of Education degree.

27-year-old Colin Harrowing was married to the former Miss Ruth Hill of Verdun in 1956. They have two charming children, Jeanie, who is three years old, and Douglas 1½. Mrs. Harrowing is a former teacher, having held positions with the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal before her marriage.

Mr. Harrowing enjoys woodworking if and when he has spare time and a number of pieces of attractive furniture in their home were made when he found time to pursue this hobby. He also enjoys gardening and has been connected with the Boy Scout movement in various localities. Mr. and Mrs. Harrowing will be moving from their present home on Hamilton Avenue in The Heights to their new residence at 39 Mountain, nearby, witthin the next few weeks. The Harrowings have purchased the former Martin Marlow home.

Principal Harrowing and family have become fond of and family have become fond of Chateauguay since their arrival in September and are interested in community welfare and social events. They are members of St. George's Anglican Church of Canada here.

Mr. Harrowing has had wide experience in writing for weekly newspapers and at one time was on the staff of the Fredericton Gleaner. Chateauguay Gleaner is pleased to announce to its readers that starting in September Mr. Harrowing plans to contribute a weekly editorial for this newspaper.

Presentations Made To Boer War Veterans

Mr. Bob McGlashan, President presented a cheque to Mr. Harry Holly and Mr. John Ross on behalf of the Executive and Members of Branch 108 at the Legion Hall on Thursday evening May 19th. Mr. Holly, a Life Member of the Canadian Legion and Mr. Ross Honorary President of Branch 108, both Boer War Veterans are attending the 60th Reunion in Toronto. Mr. McGlashan said on making the presentation that the Branch considered it an honour to have two veterans of their age as members, and the cheque was given as a taken of comradeship.

Following the Legion presentation Mayor David Currie of Chateauguay Heights made a presentation of another cheque to the two gentlemen from an anonymous friend and wished them an enjoyable trip and reunion. Members of the Executive of Branch 108 on hand for the presentation were Messrs. Harry Robinson, Hartland Rowell, Alex Kinna and Roger Hammerbeck.

Leaves Bus Is Killed On Highway

The Late Euclide Bertrand

A tragic accident occurred at 2.25 a.m. on May 21st, when Euclide Bertrand, 65-year-old resident of Chateauguay North, died instantly after being struck by a car on Route No. 3 near the outskirts of Ville de Lery.

Mr. Bertrand had gotten off a bus and was walking along the highway towards Chateauguay, when he was struck by a 1951 Chrysler coach owned and operated by 30-year-old Jean-Jacques Lapare of 1018 Chemin du Lac, Ville de Lery. Mr. Lapare stated he was proceeding along the highway and saw Mr. Bertrand but the latter suddenly turned towards the centre of the road as he was about to pass. The impact threw the victim more than 100 feet from the scene and he is reported to have died instantly. The Parish Priest of St. Joachim Parish in Chateauguay arrived and administered the Last Rites of the Roman Catholic Church. Dr. Jean-Marie Sauve pronounced Mr. Bertrand dead when he arrived on the scene. The body was released for burial and the funeral was held on Tuesday morning. An inquest will be held at 8 o'clock this evening, Wednesday.

Mr. Bertrand and family lived at 7 Latour St. in Chateauguay North. A jovial man, he was well liked by neighbors and a large number of friends in Chateauguay. The Chateauguay Gleaner wishes to join in expressing sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

Damage to the car that struck Mr. Bertrand amounted to $200. The accident was investigated by Sgt.-Det. Arthur Gagnon of the Provincial Homicide Dept. and Officers De Rail and Marchand of the Provincial Police assisted by Chief Rousseau and Officers Lamarche and Dubuc of the Chateauguay Police Dept.

On May 20th, at 7.45 a.m. an accident occurred on Mercier bridge where the bridge narrows to a single lane, when one car ran into the back of another. The cars in collision were a 1952 Pontiac sedan owned by Bertrand Hebert, age 29, of St. Remi and a 1955 Chevrolet sedan owned and operated by Robert George Bouchard, age 32, of 424 Cardinal St., Colonia, Chateauguay. Both cars were travelling towards Montreal and damage was slight, $10. to one car and $25. to the other. Officers De Francesco and Roussel of the Provincial Police investigated.

A hit-and-run accident occurred in front of South Creek St. in Caughnawaga at 3 a.m. on May 22nd, when a car owned by Mr. Mitchell Thomas was struck by an unknown motorist who failed to stop. Damage to the 1953 Oldsmobile owned by Mr. Mitchell amounted to $250. The Provincial Policemen named above investigated.

—o—

At 2.40 p.m. at Haute Riviere road in Ste. Martine Rene Boucher, 39, of R.R. 3, Beauharnois, was backing his 1953 Monarch hard-top into a parking lot when he struck a truck owned by Roger Pouliot of Beauharnois. Driver of the truck was Rosaire Levesque of 56a Couillard St., Beauharnois. Damage to the car amounted to $200. and to the truck about ten dollars. Officers De Francesco and Roussel were called.

Gilles Poupart, age 25, of Hemmingford, suffered cuts and bruises when his car went out of control at 2.45 p.m. on Sunday, on St. Laurent Road, St. Remi. A passenger, Yvon Baheu, 23, of St. Remi, also suffered cuts and bruises to his face and head. The car, a 1951 Chevrolet sedan, was heading south when it went off the road and struck a tree. The front right hand wheel was forced well back into the frame of the car by the impact. The two occupants were treated at their homes for their injuries. Sgt. Bourre and Lieut. R. Laberge investigated the accident.

Mercier Name Long Linked With Chateauguay Politics

(Special to "The Chateauguay Gleaner")

The name Mercier has been so closely linked with the County of Chateauguay that every time it is mentioned, publicly or privately, it brings back memories of the past or good things to come in the future.

Honoré Mercier, the liberal candidate in the provincial election for Chateauguay riding on June 22nd next, is not a newcomer in the political field. He decided to accept the liberal candidature at a recent meeting held in Ste. Martine because his followers were so numerous and confident that he had to leave aside personal reasons, if any, to carry to the people Hon. John Lesage's political platform.

HONORE MERCIER

Mr. Mercier has been closely identified with the liberal party. He was schooled at home in politics by his late father, Hon. Honoré Mercier who served this same riding of Chateauguay as a member of Parliament at Quebec from 1907 to 1936. He held the important post of Minister of Lands and Forests from 1919 to 1936. With such an able teacher, the present liberal candidate is away to a better start than most candidates. To further enhance his chances, many of the older generation make it a point to remember the days when his grandfather, Hon. Honoré Mercier I, was Prime Minister of the Province of Quebec from 1887 to 1891. With such a solid and brillant background in the political field, it is easily understood why the liberal party in Chateauguay County insisted upon the nomination of Honoré Mercier as their man for the forthcoming election.

Mr. Mercier served this riding at Quebec from 1944-48 and during his tenure of office he rendered many valuable services to his constituents. From 1948 to date, Mr. Mercier always made it a point to greet any and all of the residents who sought avidly his suggestions and counsel.

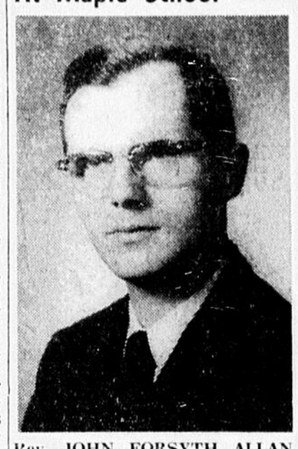

Mayor of the town in which he resides with his family, Ville de Léry, Mr. Honoré Mercier was Mayor of this community on the shores of Lake St. Louis from 1948 to 1950. Active in social and parochial groups, he contributed to the betterment of his riding by attending as many meetings as possible in every corner of the county.

Married to Heva Fauteux, Mr. Mercier is the father of two sons: Honoré, 19 years of age, who is presently completing his scientific studies, and Jacques, 10, students at the elementary school at Ville de Léry.

When he met the Gleaner representative a few days ago, Mr. Mercier stated that "I feel that in the present campaign, the electors of Chateauguay are giving me their whole hearted support. In return, they can rest assured that I will give my all for the cause of my party, the advancement of Chateauguay County and the whole Province of Quebec".

Service Of Recognition At Maple School

Rev. JOHN FORSYTH ALLAN, B.A., B.D.

A Service of Recognition for the Reverend John Forsyth Allan, B.A., B.D., will be conducted by the Presbytery of Montreal in the Maple Protestant School, Vetville, Quebec, on Thursday, May 26th, 1960, at 8 p.m. Mr. Allan has been appointed by the General Board of Missions of The Presbyterian Church in Canada to serve as Ordained Missionary in the Vetville-Chateauguay area and as Minister of the newly organized Maplewood Presbyterian Church.

The Reverend Mr. Allan was born in Thorold, Ontario, where he received his early education. He is a graduate of Waterloo College of the University of Western Ontario, where he received his B.A. degree in 1957. He attended the Presbyterian College, Montreal, where he received his B.D. degree at a recent Convocation. During his College career he was active in a number of Youth organizations. He was Junior Champion in Public Speaking (Niagara District) in 1949. He is a past President of the St. Andrew's Crusaders, Thorold; and of the Presbyterian Young People's Society of the Synod of Hamilton and London. During the past year he was President of the Student Society for the Presbyterian College.

He has served the Church on Summer Mission Fields in Fort Erie, Ontario, and in Assiniboia, Sask. While attending Presbyterian College, Montreal, he was Student Assistant at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, St. Lambert, and did Extension Work in Preville where he laid the foundations of a new congregation. His appointment to the Maplewood Presbyterian Church, Chateauguay, is a testimony of his past record of service, and is indicative of his many gifts and qualifications as a newly Ordained Minister. His Ordination took place on May 6th, in his home Church in Thorold, Ontario.

The service of Recognition will be conducted by the Moderator of Presbytery, The Reverend J. S. McBride, Minister of Ephraim Scott Memorial Church. The sermon will be preached by the Reverend J. B. Inglis, M.A., newly Inducted Minister of MacVicar Memorial Church, Montreal. The Charge will be delivered to Mr. Allan by the Reverend G. C. Dalzell, B.A., Minister of St. Andrew's Church, St. Lambert. The Service of Praise will be led by the Organist and Choir of the Church in St. Lambert.

Heights Tennis Club Elects New Officers

(By W. B. MacDonald)

The election of new officers for the Chateauguay Heights Tennis Club has just taken place. This year the Club will be jointly governed by four co-chairmen; Lee Gilbert, Mackie Whyte, Dave White and Robert Moore, all four have been playing and organizing tennis for may years. This year the Secretary is Helen O'Connell and the Treasurer is Ilse Hellemans. Publicity will be handled by Dave Smith, Entertainment Committee is Bruce MacDonald and Marilyn Gardner. The Membership Committee will be spearheaded by Larry Gardner.

The coming season all members of the Club will also be members of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association.

The planned activities for this year besides tennis every day are as follows:-

Every Wednesday a Round-Robbin Tournament for all, prizes will be awarded.

26th May at 8.00 p.m. George Mansfield pro tennis player from Britain will give instruction.

29th May Sunday at 1.00 o'clock opening tournament for all Chateauguay residents.

Valleyfield Tournament.
Cornwall Tournament
Hudson Tournament
Closing Tournament at Chateauguay.

All these events will be open for the members of the Tennis Club, and it doesn't require expert skill to enter the tournament, because they are arranged to allow all calibers of players to compete fairly.

Besides tennis, the Club house will house a snack bar, dart boards, ping-pong tables, and records for all to use.

The Club has been organized especially to supply the needs of the local teenagers and their parents. It is hoped that the Club will become a Social and Recreation Hot Spot in Chateauguay this summer, and if the planning enthusiasm that has gone into the Club this season is any indication, it will be a success.

The fees this year will be $15. for married couples, $10. for senior players and $6. for juniors. There is an additional $3. fee to become members of the Heights Recreation Club.

Tennis Pro To Visit Chateauguay May 26th.

Make Saturday night an enjoyable one and attend this dance and support our Aquatic Club.

Quick Action Saves Child's Life

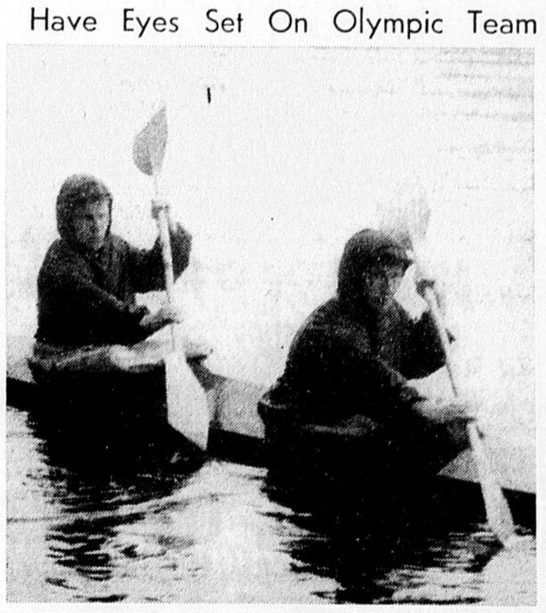

(By John Pugh)

On May 18, 1960, at 9.30 a.m. Chief of Police Rousseau received an emergency call from Maurice Laberge, M.P., that a young child had nearly drowned in the Village.

Mr. Rosseau immediately got in touch with Florian Jodoin, who not only lent his resuscitator but provided transportation through his chauffeur Jean-Paul Allard and they arrived on the scene in minutes. Chief Rousseau applied the resuscitator under the able direction of Dr. Paul Sauvé of Chateauguay Village for 15 minutes. Louis Ducap is in good health at the time of this writing, thanks to cooperation of everyone forementioned, especially Mr. Florian Jodoin. If he had not had his resuscitator handy, who knows what could have happened. This is something that the local police could use in their station wagon as emergency equipment.

Louis Ducap who is 5 years old was playing near the river when he fell in, His mother, Mrs. Ducap leaped in after him and was swept away by the current when an unidentified man jumped in and saved them both. Mr. Rodger Ducap, the father is grateful to everyone involved.

Have Eyes Set On Olympic Team

On the left Donny Duffy; on Right, Paul Duffy, who are training for a position on the Olympic team. They are seated in a (K 2) (2 two seater K) and they are using Double Blades. Notice the apron around them and boat seat to keep out the water.

Paul and Donny Duffy along with Graeme MacGregor and Sandy Morrison all residents of Chateauguay are entering the Olympic Trials at Otterburn Park on June 21st and 22nd, and if successful the Finals which will be held in Ottawa on the 25th of June.

Paul and Donny have been paddling for 15 years and at one time they were the Dominion Junior Doubled Blade Champions.

They have been in training since last November at McGill's Gym, and they can be seen paddling in the Chateauguay River every evening and weekends; in hope of making their dream of representing Canada in the forthcoming Olympics come true.

The MacGregor and Morrison crew will be competing for the Single Blade Tandem position and the Duffy crew will compete for the Doubled Bladed Tadem position on Canada's Olympic team. These four fellows have been very active in the Canoe Racing Circles.

The Best of Wishes are extended to both crews and all of Chateauguay will be pulling for you fellows come June. — By W. B. MacDonald.

Three Local Boys Win Fifty Dollars

On Friday evening May 20th, three local fellows, Bruce MacDonald, Ian Scott and Collin (Butch) Chesser, took a trip to the New York States, and attended the Border Drive-In Theatre, and were fortunate in winning Fifty Dollars in money for having a winning ticket. The following day they returned to the States to dispense of the American money to offset the value discrepancy.

A reminder, that the Ladies of Parkview Social Committee are holding their Home Baking Sale on Saturday, May 28th, at 111 Hillsdale Drive, commencing at 2.30 p.m. All are welcome.

Missing

A Thistle Red and White Tricycle from 90, Hillsdale Drive. It has a black seat and one peddle missing.

If anyone knows the whereabouts of this tricycle, please phone OX. 2-9126. and make a little child very happy again.

Your Co-operation, please!

We have been requested to ask the people who go to their mail boxes and find papers and circulars they don't want, to take them home and destroy them, not throw them around to make the place untidy.

We are still looking for names for the A & P store list. Anybody interested please phone OX. 2-6534.

This sort of winds up the news for this week, but next issue we will be reporting again, so keep the phone OX. 2-6534 ringing with your items.

Attention parents of boys between the ages of 8 and 13. A softball league is being formed in the Chateauguay Area. It would be nice if there were enough boys in that age group to enter a team, as it would make their summer much more interesting. Those who read this column, please pass the word along and call Mr. Jim Keddy at OX. 2-4424 or Mr. Bill Soles at OX. 2-9217.

Happy Birthday wishes go to Donna Clarke of Laurier St., and Marjorie Smith of St. Michael St., who both celebrated their birthdays on Saturday, May 28th.

The Prudential Home Owners Association's Executive had a meeting with Mayor Laberge concerning the future development of municipal affairs. This interview will be repeated in the form of a question and answer period at the next Home Owner's Meeting, Monday, May 30th at the Chateau-Gai Motel at 8.00 P.M. Please plan to attend.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Jean Lacoste of Oxford Crescent, who celebrate their 5th Wedding Anniversary, Saturday, May 28th.

The ladies of Parkview Community Club are having a Home Bake Sale on Saturday May 28th at 111 Hillsdale Drive at 2 P.M. The bargins will be good and will save you baking for the week-end. The ladies of Prudential are cordially invited.

Sorry to report that Mrs. Doiron of St. Eugene St., is still seriously ill in the hospital. All wish her a speedy recovery.

There will be a bingo on Friday evening, May 27th at the Catholic Church on Route 4.

Happy Birthday to Cheryl Ann Williams who is 4 years old to-day, May 25th. Cherly lives at 121 St. Michael St.

It was very fortunate for the Prudential driver of the Chev. Stationwagon, that no one happened to be at the front of Mr. Kramme's home on Laurier St., last Saturday evening, when he lost control of his vehicle, and ended up in the ditch. Let this be a warning to drivers to use a little more caution, and to parents to keep their children in the yard where they belong.

Anyone interested in signing their name for an A.&P. Store in the New West End Shopping Centre, please call me at OX. 2-4424 or Mrs. S. MacKey at OX 2-4673 and we will arrange to come to your home. Quite a few signatures have been sent to the company, but we feel the more names the better.

Sorry to report that Ronnie McDonald of Adam St., met with a serious accident last Wednesday afternoon. Ronnie, 13 years old, had just got off the school bus at Chateauguay Park. He was crossing Highway 4 to face the traffic as he walked along the highway when he was hit by a car. He was sent immediately to the hospital with a broken arm. His 1 week stay in the hospital is almost over and all wish him a speedy recovery.

Please keep calling the news to me at OX. 2-4424 before Monday Noon. Many thanks to the many who have been so helpful in the past.

Historical Notes Gleaned From "Sellar's" History

The Late ROBERT SELLAR
Founder of the Gleaner in 1863

Gen. DeWatteville knew that the army of the enemy, now fast approaching him, numbered at least 5000, that they were all regulars, and had an efficient artillery-train and a squadron of cavalry. To meet this formidable force he had only 1600, who, with the exception of Captain McKay's artillery corps and the Indian bands, were all milita, and a large proportion sedentary-militia, upon whom no reliance could be placed. It does not appear, however, that even for a moment he contemplated allowing the enemy to advance without a struggle. On Sunday, the 24th October, he, accompanied by Adjutant-Gen. Baynes, Colonel de-Salaberry, and Colonel Huges of the Royal Engineers, reconnoitred their camp at Ormstown, and, observing that they would soon be ready to make another advance, saw the time had come to concert a plan of action, and this he did before returning to his quarters.

The present aspect of the country between Ormstown and Allan's Corners is very different from that presented to the eyes of the four officers on that memorable Sunday. It is now a great smooth plain, calculated to excite the admiration of every lover of good farming, level as a floor, edged on one side by the Chateaugay and on the other by a thin fringe of bush, the sole remnant of the primeval forest. In 1813 the square flat ifelds, which now present themselves in unvarying succession, were represented by a narrow strip of clearance full of tree-stumps, which ran along the riverbank, with the forest, from which it had been carved, walling it in and occasionally, where the backwoodsman's axe had so far spared it, intervening. The thick foliage of the all-pervading bush sheltered the soil from the sun and wind, with the result that the rain accumulated on its level surface and formed a marsh, from which, at frequent intervals, there were small creeks flowing into the Chateaugay. This, too, has changed. With the clearing of the bush, the land has become dry, and it is hard to realize that those fields, covered with waving grain, were once so swampy that they could only be traversed when the winter's frost made them solid. With the drying of the land, the creeks have all but disappeared, and water only flows over their beds in the fall and spring. In 1813 the creeks were always full and their banks were densely covered with trees. In the course of the centuries, their currents washed away the deep clay soil until they had made beds for themselves at the bottom of ravines varying from 10 to 245 feet below the surrounding level and in breadth from 20 to 100 yards.

General deWatteville's plan was to convert these ravines into rude lines of fortification. The road that ran parallel with the Chateaugay, the only possible avenue by which the Americans could advance, crossed, between Allan's Corners and Neil Morrison's, no fewer than six of these gullies. First tearing up the bridges, he ordered that the trees be felled on the east bank of each ravine, so as to form a barricade, behind which he would post his men. By such a plan it was plain the Americans would be at a great disadvantage, that as they came to each successive ravine, they would have to rush down and struggle through the waters of the creek, all the time exposed to the fire of a foe safely ensconced behind an impenetrable slash of felled trees, and which they could leave in time and fall back to the next ravine to repeat the same opposition with perfect safety to themselves. The entrenching of the three first ravines on lots 34, 29 and 23 he entrusted to Colonel de-Salaberry, who, at once, set his men to work in felling trees, though they did not make much speed from scarcity of axes. The second line, which included the ford at Morrison's, the key of his defensive plan, he left in the hands of Colonel Macdonell. The main body he concentrated at Gardner's creek, where the artillery was posted. Of this he retained command, ready to make a final stand should his front lines be forced.

The weak point in the plan was the possibility of the enemy going round the entrenchments, and this General DeWatteville foresaw. On the north side there was no possibility of flanking, for the barricades were carried into the bush a short distance, and through the bush, so swampy was it, no troops could move. Where the danger lay, was in the Americans moving down the south side of the Chateaugay, and crossing it, at either of the two fords, taking the fortified ravines in the rear. The ford at Grant's rapids was, at that time, so obstructed by large stones, that it was rarely used and only at low water, but to make sure a body of militia was stationed behind a rude breastwork facing it, and 150 Indians placed in the ravine above it. The other ford (Morrison's) perfectly practicable and easy of passage, was entrusted to Col. Macdonell, who quickly threw up an entrenchment which fully commanded it. In all these works, Col. Hughes took little part, for, despite his position, he was far from being respected, and he and Col. deSalaberry had a quarrel in his interfering. On the afternoon of the 25th, DeWatteville inspected the works, and approved of all that had been done. Although he did not know it, at that very time the Americans were preparing for the attack, and the gloomy October day, now darkening in its close by the rain clouds that swept the sky, was the eve before the battle.

General Hampton was fully informed of the preparations made to resist his farther progress, and resolved that he would not force his way but endeavor to turn the British line of defence by a bold flank movement. The south side of the Chateaugay was an unbroken forest, and he conceived that it would be possible for a detachment of light troops to cross at Rapid Croche (Ormstown) and march downwards to the ford at Morrison's, where, regaining the north bank, they would take the 7 fortified ravines with their defenders in rear and easily capture them, when the main army would move down unopposed. Without enquiring into the feasibility of a brigade penetrating 6 miles of thick woods, interspersed with hemlock swamps, he at once set about carrying his plan into operation. The flower of his army, comprising of best conditioned of the infantry, to the number of 1500, were got in readiness and, at sunset, on the evening of the 25th Oct., they were marched to the river side and waded through the rapids to the southern bank. Before they had advanced many hundred yards, it became apparent that it was impossible to proceed. The guides, two in number, had assured Hampton before starting that they were not very well conversant with the country on the south bank, and soon proved to Purdy that they were incompetent. The night was dark and cold and rain began to fall, while the advance was thrown into confusion by unexpectedly finding themselves floundering in the waters of a creek, which, in the darkness, they had not perceived. Gen. Purdy was compelled to call a halt and wait for daylight. The long night wore wearily on for the Americans in their wretched condition, for they dared not light camp-fires to warm and dry themselves, and their only food the little in their haversacks. Clad in their summer uniforms, they felt the cold and wet very much. At the first streak of day the expedition silently resumed its march, but its progress was necessarily slow, for, apart from the guides not having a competent knowledge of the ground, their route was over what was little better than a hemlock swamp, through which they could only advance as a body of axemen in front of the column brushed a road. Had the guides kept closer to the river all might yet have gone well, but instead of seeking the comparatively dry ground that skirted the Chateaugay, they led the army into the intricacies of the creek that empties near Morrison's rapids.

Informed of the nature of the bush on the southern side of the Chateaugay, Colonel de Salaberry, who had been entrusted with the picket service, had sent no scouts across the river, so that the Americans continued their advance unobserved until several hours after daylight, when the guards at deSalaberry's position near Allan's Corners were astonished to see several American soldiers, who had straggled out towards the river, when the alarm was sent to Col. Macdonell, who, as already stated, had been assigned the guarding of the ford at Morrison's, which was evidently the point aimed at. He at once ordered Captains Daly and Bruyére to cross the ford with their companies and reconnoitre, while a body of the sedentary militia, composed of habitants from the adjoining parishes, followed in support. Capt. Daly, threading his way quickly through the woods, came upon a party of the enemy, consisting of about 100 men of the advance, who had made their way through the bush in single file, until they had nearly reached the river bank on lot No. 36, when a brisk engagement ensued. At the sound of the first shot, the sedentary militia, reluctantly following behind, were seized with panic and fled wildly back to the ford, their blue tuques streaming behind. So provoked were the spectators on the north bank, who saw them plainly, that they were strongly inclined to open fire upon them. The Fencibles were of other stuff and aided by a few Indians, kept up a skrimishing fire, during which several on both sides were hit. The Americans behaved badly, for after feebly returning the fire of the Fencibles, and not seeing their supports, they broke and fled,* one portion rushing backwards over the route they had come and another taking the more solid footing that led out to the river. The first squad had not run far, when they came in sight of the companies behind, hurrying to reach the place from whence they heard the sound of musketry. Never dreaming that the men they saw running towards them were their countrymen, and supposing them to be British troops rushing to assult them, they began to fire, and several were killed before the mistake was discovered.† The second squad on on lot 43, found, the moment they exposed themselves, that theyewere under the fire of a corps on the opposite bank and surrendered, when 5 French Canadians* swam across, and making the Americans held on to a pole, brought them over.

*Colonel King, who was with the detachment, said his "countrymen behaved in the most cowardly manner and disgraced themselves."

†Edward Wilkins, a U.S. private who was taken prisoner, said, "I saw one man dead, and there was 1 captain, 1 lieutenant, and several privates wounded; shot by ourselves in mistake." coming out on the river's edge

*Their names have been preserved: Vincent, Pelletier, Vervais, and Caron — all privates in the Voltigeurs regt.

Outdoor Fun

Steven Watson had a weiner roast and a party on Saturday night. After it was dark, Mr. and Mrs. Watson put on a display of fireworks for the teenagers and others present.

Jimmy Ross, Ricky Powell, George Neal, Raymond Travers and a few other boys were seen getting in some baseball on Saturday afternoon ... Bobby St. Onge, Steve Breakell, Keith and Lorna Lord, also Lennie Larmour, taking in some horseback riding the same afternoon. Steve met a girl at the riding school and from what we have heard has taught her to sit and ride a horse properly. Wonder who she might be.

The long week-end has brought out some anglers, one of whom is Robert Wormald. He was up at the rapids on Friday night looking for some fish other than bass, which are still out of season. Robert also has his new boat and 15 h.p. motor in the Chateauguay River in front of their home. So far Bob has refused all offers for his old 2½ h.p. motor.

Janet McNally has been playing housewife lately. She went out to clean five bachelors' rooms on Saturday just out of the goodness of her heart.

George Neal making the best of Friday night down fishing. Caught nothing, like usual.

Steve Breakell had some trouble over the long week-end. He got a flat tire on his bike and took it down to the garage to fix it. About an hour later Allan Bailey came storming down the street and drove right into Steve's front wheel, caused considerable damage. Better learn to drive, both of you!

Fabian Hare and Bonnie Breakell celebrated their first anniversary of going steady this week-end. Good luck and many more.

Ricky Powell left school last week and is reported to be looking for a job.

Bob Burns is quite scarce these days. Maybe has his nose to the grindstone like? But he uses the shovel to the best of his ability. Future job?

Bruce Dixon is saving on bus tickets by getting rides from John Wall every morning. The latter was seen crusing around on his scooter Friday night.

The recent variety show at Maple School was a great success. All enjoyed themselves immensely. The fashion show was the funniest and best. The boys dressed as girls and the girls dressed as boys and it was a scream. Rex Langman had a little trouble because he didn't have his whole band and Ronny Thornberg had other troubles. All in all the whole show was well worth seeing. Too bad it was only open to students of Maple School.

At long last (Wednesday p.m. of the past week) the grader arrived at Maple School to level off the grounds at the rear of the school. Over the week-end Mr. Taylor measured off the race track in the middle of the field. Don't forget next Saturday, the 28th: the Track and Field meet takes place at Maple School for the Chateauguay Valley Intermediate schools.

The grader also made a visit to the football field behind the Bon Prince Restaurant on Route 4 and leveled most of the field on Saturday.

Let's not forget the dance at the Recreation Club on Friday the 27th at 8.15 p.m.

Birthday congratulations go out this week to Sandra Malpass who celebrated her birthday on Friday, May 13. Sandra is at last a teen-ager, this birthday being her thirteenth. Also congrats to Marge Smith who was 18 years old this week.

Geoffrey Summer was sporting a thick white bandage over his right eye the past week-end. On Monday when we saw him the bandage was off but he had a dilly of a shiner. Geoff was playing ball and the accident occurred during the game.

Please keep the news coming in. The phone calls are getting more frequent and the column is getting longer and that's what we all want.

Wedding

HAMILTON-AIRD

The marriage of Ann Elizabeth only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stewart Aird of Lennoxville, formerly of Valleyfield, to Mr. Robert Duncan Hamilton, son of Dr. and Mrs. Reginald Hamilton of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., took place on Saturday afternoon, May 14, 1960, in Lennoxville United Church. The Rev. A. B. Lovelace officiated. Mrs. Fox played the wedding music and Mrs. W.J. Fuller sang during the signing of the register. Pink and white snapdragons and carnations decorated the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of ivory peau de soie and Chantilly lace, fashioned with a basque bodice, the portrait neckline edged with Chantilly lace, sleeves ending in lily points over the hands.

The bouffant shirt was caught in the back by a cluster of small roses of peau de soie to form a bustle, the underskirt extending into a chapel train. Her floor length veil of tulle illusion and Chantilly lace fell from a coronet of matching lace, and she carried a cascade bouquet of Lester Hibbard roses. Her only jewellery was a diamond pendant. Mrs. J. W. Donaghy as matron of honor, and Mrs. A. M. Ward and Miss Joan Hamilton, sister of the bridegroom, as attendants, were in frocks of silk brocade fashioned on princess lines with sabrina necklines and short sleeves; the matron of honor in beige, the attendants in mist green. They wore matching tulle headdresses, and carried Colonial bouquets of palest pink carnations.

Mr. Arthur Fulford acted as best man for Mr. Hamilton. Mr. Raymond Smith and Mr. William Aird, brother of the bride, were the ushers.

Mrs. Aird, the bride's mother, wore a gown of dusty rose silk shantung. A small beige hat and accessoires completed her ensemble, with which she wore a corsage of Queen Elizabeth roses.

Mrs. Hamilton, mother of the bridegroom, was in a gown of cocoa brown silk. With this, she wore a pink petal hat, beige accessories and a corsage of pink feathered carnations.

The reception following the ceremony was held at Rockcliffe, Sherbrooke, where yellow roses, white snapdragons and chrysanthemums were used as decoration. Later Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton left for Pennsylvania. The bride travelling in a suit of lilac French wool, with which she wore a mauve hat, black accessories and a corsage of white feathered carnations.

They will reside at 51 Rennie's Mill Road, St. John's, Newfoundland.

Did you know that
The swing set disappeared from the back of Mr. and Mrs. R.H. Bailey's home at 80 Lang Ave. one night last week?

Welcome home to
Mr. and Mrs. W. Whalleys who spent a most enjoyable week in Quebec City. The Whalleys were attending the Canadian Warehousemen's Association Convention and while there were guests at the Chateau Frontenac.

Attending Conference
Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Blanchfield of 51 Edward St. left last Saturday April 21st on a combined business and pleasure trip. Mr. Blanchfield is attending the Colombia Southern Chemicals Engineering Conference in Granville, Ohio. He is speaking at the conference about the Standard Chemicals new Chlorate plant in Beauharnois, Que. Mrs. Blanchfield is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Palo of Colombus, Ohio. The Blanchfields will be returning this weekend.

Chateauguay Home Owners Association
The Chateauguay Home Owners Association are planning on holding a dance sometime in June. Watch this column for the date. Anyone interested in providing music for this event call Anne Kennedy at OX 2-8642. There will be door prices and some have already been donated.

Christ The King Church News:
Mr. J. Downing, parish councillor of this area, and some of his co-workers held a meeting Sunday May 22nd. Those attending were as follows, Mr. L. Leclaire, Mr. A. Dufort, Mr. P. Hutchinson, Mr. J. Dooner and Mr. R. Beauchamp.

The meeting was held to discuss the progress of the parish. This group was unanimous in agreeing there is a great need for workers in the parish and that they should be drawn from both French and English. They all agreed to each find an additional volunteer. Similar meetings with the same purpose are presently being held in the other four districts of the parish.

By the middle of this week it is expected that the number of workers will have grown to at least fifty. With this number the parishoners attending French and English masses at 10.30 A.M. and 11.30 A.M. can look forward to better accommodation in respect to ushers, parking lot attendants and dialogue readers.

Well Wishes:
Friends and Neighbours of Miss Diane Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Hill of St. Francis Blvd., wish her success in her future profession. Diana on the completion of her exams for the year is taking over a class at Christ the King school.

Get Well Wishes:
Mr. Oborne Lang of 16 St. Francis Blvd., is at present a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital and we take this opportunity of wishing him a speedy recovery.

Winner
Young Michael Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murphy of 79 St. Francis Blvd., was proud winner of a young red maple tree last week at Daniel O'Connell school. The Murphys, being new residents in this area, are certainly in a position to use it.

Anniversary Wishes
Congratulations go out to Mr. and Mrs. F. Kennedy who recently celebrated their nineteenth wedding anniversary.

Anniversary wishes to Mr. and Mrs. C. Hill of St. Francis Blvd., who were married nineteen years last week.

Birthdays
Belated birthday greetings to baby Margaret Ann Lepine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Lepine of Lang Ave., who was one year old last week.

Jim Downing, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Downing of St. Francis Blvd., celebrated his ninth birthday last Saturday. Fourteen of his friends joined him and they thoroughly enjoyed a weiner roast.

The Colley family of St. Francis Blvd., had a party last weekend to celebrate son Ralphs ninth birthday. Guests attending were as follows-Alan Stanley, David Robbie, John Thornburg, Donald Tatrie, Keith Osborne, David Hughes and Ralphs young brother David.

Nest
Hedge sparrows have built a nest in a spruce tree in the Gay's garden on Lang Ave. There are three tiny eggs in the nest.

Social
Mr. and Mrs. M. Hart of St. Francis Blvd., spent the holiday week-end in Otterburn Park. They were visiting Mrs. Hart's son, Mr. H. Irving and family.

Mrs. Colley's cousin, Mr. George Botting, Junior 2nd. Eng. Officer on the Ivernia, was a visitor to the Gardens last week. Mr. Botting's visits will be shorter now as the Ivernia is on summer schedule.

Guardsman Earl Gay of Camp Borden, Ont. and Miss Christina Price of Barrie, Ont. were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Gay of Lang Ave. last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard of N.D.G. Montreal parents of Mrs. V. Muir of Lang Ave., spent the holiday visiting the Muir family.

St. Andrews United Church
The W.A. of St. Andrew's United Church catered to the annual meeting of the Chateauguay Valley Teachers Association. One Hundred and eighty-four suppers were served to the teachers and their guests.

The christening of Natalie Biloserskyj, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Biloserskyj, took place in the Canadian Ukranian Greek Orthodox Church of St. George in Lachine on Saturday, May 21st.

Mrs. G. Neil, our Avon representative has been quite busy lately caring for her 2½ year old grandson, Steve Pinck. No doubt the little fellow will be missed by the Neil family (especially his young aunt Joanne) when he will soon return to his Ville Jacques Cartier home joining his parents along with a new baby brother, born on May 16th.

Happy wedding anniversaries to the following: Mr. and Mrs. E. Wakefield celebrating their 9th on May 26th, and to Mr. and Mrs. A. Voyame, who celebrated their 10th on May 20th.

Congratulations to Peggy St. Onge, who received her Girl Guide badge having made her an honorary guide on Monday, May 16th.

Announcements
After approximately five years, the residents of Park Ave. between Edward St. and Park Ave. will finally be free of dust. The paving of the roads for the balance of the Park is due to commence this week, or at the very latest by the 1st week in June. Guy and Yvon Streets on the other side of the traffic circle will also be paved. While the paving equipment will be in this area, a few repairs will be done on the other streets in the Park.

There will be a bingo held in the basement of the Roman Catholic Chapel on Highway No. 4, on Friday, May 27th, at 8.30 p.m. All are welcome!

Should there be anyone in the Park who has not already obtained a "Kinsmen" mailbox and would like to purchase one; would you kindly call your correspondent at OX. 2-6777 and she will gladly have one of the Kinsmen representatives call on you.

Interesting Notes
At long last, the final stumbling block has been eliminated, no more horn honking, frayed nerves, wasted gasoline, overheated cars and humans. Why? The Senate Transport Committee has finally passed the bill authorizing the Quebec Government to build a new bridge parallel to the Honore Mercier Bridge which will be built at an angle towards Ville Lasalle thus enabling one way traffic on the existing bridge and opposing one way traffic on the other bridge. While on the subject of Mercier Bridge, all those who may have seen what they thought to be a "seal" under the railway bridge were not far from wrong when it turned out to be a "sealed" cylinder.

A warning to all of you regarding mosquitoes. It's been reported that the suburbs are due for a worse than usual invasion of mosquitoes this summer especially where there are open fields and streams. We have already had a share of them this past week and if this continues it would be wise to spray your bushes and other clusters with DDT as this does not harm plants and may give you and your children some protection. For persons who may be bitten, the rule is "no scratching", (if you can) plus the option of liniment which may give you some relief.

Last Thursday, May 19th, Ronnie MacDonald age 10 was struck by a car while crossing highway no. 4 after leaving the Catholic School Bus. Ronnie was taken by ambulance to the Lachine General Hospital for treatment.

The very next day, Friday, May 20th, Clodine Leblanc age 7 was struck by a panel truck while crossing Montee St. Marguerite in front of the playground area. Clodine was also taken by ambulance to Lachine General Hospital for treatment.

We send both these children our sincere wishes for a speedy recovery.

It is unfortunate that these mishaps have occurred. We cannot stress enough, the safety of driving. When will we ever get the needed protection for our children regarding traffic safety. Will they wait until another child gets hurt? Why won't the buses leave the children from the Park in the Park and not on the other side of a busy highway?

We did receive our "Slow Down" signs but unfortunately many can't read or more to the point won't read. What we need is a flashing warning signal for our playground area, our school zone and our church crossing. This is a growing community but I'm afraid it won't be for long if nothing is done about it. A suggestion is that we get together and present this problem at the next Council meeting.

This is the last week for the writer to remind all dog lovers that May 31st is the deadline for your new dog licence. Those of you who are new in Chateauguay or those of you who have forgotten, you may obtain your licence from the Municipal Building opposite Danjou's Garage on Blvd. Danjou.

Also May 31st is the last day for those who have bicycles. Remember you must have a licence which also can be obtained from the Municipal Building on Blvd. Danjou.

Preparation for Mail Delivery
There has been a lot of activity during the past week in the basement adjacent to the Post Office in Chateauguay Centre in preparation for the postmen who, very shortly, we shall see around our streets delivering our mail. The mail boxes are ready for use on so many front doors and it is generally know that the delivery of the mail will be appreciated.

Mr. Lefebvre has now moved into his new store in Chateauguay Centre and all who know him wish him great success in the future.

Miss Sandra Malpass of 20A Blvd. Danjou, celebrated her thirteenth birthday on Saturday, May 21st, the weather was fine enough for a garden party and her guests were Gillian Stockdale, Clare Moore, Susan Jarvis, Judy Magee, Susie Brosseau, Linda Darling, Roy James, Barabar Caton, Diana Colley Willa Mitchell Cheyrl Evans, Jane Modeland, Sandra's auntie Mrs. Lorna James of Montreal was there to join in the fun along with Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis; also Lydia Thompson who so kindly helped with the cutting of the sandwiches, and after such a strenuous afternoon the writer is sure the girls all went home tired but with pleasant memories.

A late birthday party for Coleen Parker of 22 Reid Blvd., was held on Sunday, May 22nd, the real day being May 3rd; but to children a party is always such a treat and they don't really mind if it is late. Happy Birthday Coleen.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis of Normand Blvd., spent the week-end entertaining guests, and after Mr. Jarvis being away for so long it certainly was a pleasure for them to have their friends visit them.

Once again I would like to remind all the readers of this column that my number is OX. 2-9012 and I would appreciate your news no matter how small so please phone; mentioned before, the Chateauguay Gleaner is at your service.

The weather seems to have turned tables once again and given us a breath of cool air. Real chilly compared to the weather enjoyed by all last week, with the prospect of a long week-end most people had made plans for a real busy time outdoors, too bad the weatherman had to interfere with so many well laid projects.

Before very long we'll be hearing the merry tinkle of the ice cream man's bell as he wends his way around the development in his familiar orange wagon. Mothers have some fun at times if the ice cream man decides to pay a visit just when it's time for supper. The children get quite a kick out of the pony and cart not to mention the contents of same. Even the wee ones recognize the bell and know its time for their treat of ice cream.

Our Home Owners Association is holding their meeting this Thursday, May 26th at 8.15 p.m. in Vetville Community Hall. Anyone wishing transportation is requested to stand at the entrance near the Sunoco Station and they will get a lift to and from the meeting. Just a reminder that this meeting is important as a new slate of officers will be nominated and any member in good standing is eligible to vote.

Hope everyone has bought their tickets for our Spring Dance to be held this Saturday in the Chateau-Gai Motel. If not same can be obtained by phoning Bob Sylvestre at OX. 2-9023.

New Assembly Hall
The Directors of West End Development are planning to build a hall which can be used for conventions, weddings, receptions, movies, etc.

This will be built in West End Commercial Centre near the Bowlarama. Rumours are that it might also be used as a recreation club for the teenagers in this vicinity.

Also heard via the grapevine that a wading pool is to be built near the I.G.A. in the village. This is something that the youngsters can look forward to if not this summer, next year.

Anyone in the development had a call from the Kinsmen Club in connection with their sale of mail boxes? Several people around have not bought their's thinking the Kinsmen would be calling on them. So far as this writer is aware no one around here has been contacted about this necessary purchase if we expect to have mail delivery this summer.

Last Chance
All those who have forgotten to get their new bicycle licenses, also dog licenses, this is your last week so hurry before you get a reprimand, or worse still, a fine.

Well Earned Award
Congratulations to Mr. K. Smeall of 20 St. Louis Square. On Tuesday, May 17th. Elmhurst Dairy gave a Bar-B-Q Supper to their drivers who had an accident-free year of driving Mr. K. Smeall received the highest award as being the driver with the longest no accident record.

Cattle Poisoning Hazards

Cases of accidental poisoning are not uncommon amongst cattle during the summertime. Those most frequently met with are as follows:

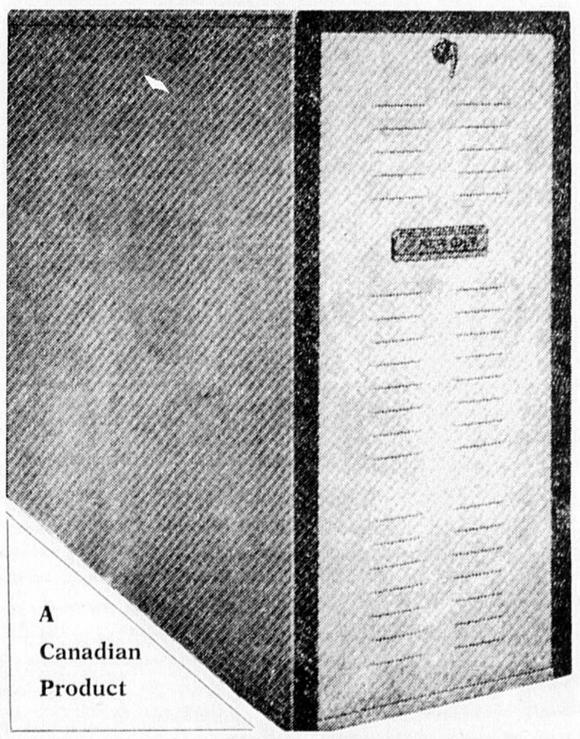

a) lead poisoning caused by paint licking;
b) nitrate poisoning due to the consumption of commercial fertilizer or of certain plants;
c) arsenic poisoning from certain insecticides (arsenate of lead, arsenate of copper, etc.);
d) poisoning due to the eating of the bracken fern by cows grazing in woodlands during hot, dry summers;
e) poisoning by tobacco, especially pipe tobacco when it begins to dry;
f) poisoning due to the eating of too much sweet corn;
g) poisoning due to the consumption of too large a quantity of sugar beet tops.

Poisonings of cattle confined in the barn are comparatively rare, though it is well to remember that they may be poisoned by mouldy sweet clover or by grain which has been allowed to heat or become musty.

In general, cases of poisoning are characterised by the suddenness of their onset and by evident symptoms of nervous and digestive disorders which call for early treatment by a veterinarian.

When an owner finds some of his cattle dead, however, he should not immediately jump to the conclusion that they have been poisoned: lightning and certain contagious diseases may also cause sudden death. The veterinarian is able to make a discriminating diagnosis of the trouble and to indicate what measures should be taken to prevent a repetition of such deaths. Dr Emile Poitras of the Veterinary School at St-Hyacinthe believes that a word to the wise is enough and that the mere mention of these poisoning hazards, some of which are found on nearly all our farms, will be enough to put farmers on their guard against them.

Vetville

Vetville Community Hall will be closed every Monday morning until 12 o'clock noon to enable cleaning of Hall. The Post Office in Hall will also be closed as mentioned above.

On Thursday, May 26th, the Presbyterian Church will hold a Preparatory Service in Maple School Hall at 8.00 P.M. Rev. Mr. Miller will introduce our new Minister, the Rev. Mr. Allen, to the residents of Vetville at this service.

One of the most pleasing events in this area over the week-end was the improved condition of Dunver Rd. and McLeod Ave. The repairs and cementing of these roads made through the interest of M.P.P. Mr. Laberge is appreciated by Vetville residents.

Vetville Sub Post Office open hours are from 1.30 P.M. to 3.00 P.M. daily, Monday to Friday inclusive.

A meeting of The Ladies of Vetville was held on Monday May 16th. in connection with Rummage Sale of last Saturday. Mrs. Hextall, Chairman of The Ladies Committee and members of the Committee reported regarding Rummage Sale and outlined future activities of The Ladies Association to the Ladies of Vetville.

Now that the summer weather approaches many residents are practicing on the Horse Shoes mounds. This includes the Ladies of Vetville and with the newly erected mounds for both Ladies and Men we should have lots of fun this coming summer.

Our belated wish of Many Happy Returns of the Day to Mrs. E. Alton of Cambrai Apt. Bldg. who celebrated her birthday on May 18th.; also our same good wishes to Mrs. W. Wright of Vimy Apt. Bldg. Mrs. Wright's birthday being on May 20th.

The Vetville Ladies Bingo game was held in the Community Hall on Tuesday afternoon as usual. During the interval of games the drawing for the Pyjamma doll was held with Mrs. R. Mitchell officiating and the winner was Mrs. Clarke of Lens Apt. Bldg. Mrs. Clarke kindly donated the doll to the Committee of the Bazaar which will be held at a later date.

Mr. R. Mitchell, Bldg. Supt. notified residents that the Liberal Canditate for Province of Quebec for this district would like to meet the residents of Vetville at a Public Meeting to be held in the Community Hall on Monday, May 23rd, at 7.30 P.M.

Mr. Mitchell, the Bldg. Supt. of Vetville, has asked your Correspondent to mention the fact that burning the grass on the lawns at the present time is forbidden and when it is allowed must be under the supervision of the local Fire Brigade. Burning the grass without necessary permission could be a serious practice and is inexcusable.

Vetville Mens' Club are holding a Smoker on May 27th. at 8.00 P.M. in Vetville Community Hall. All members are expected to attend.

Residents of Vetville welcome Mr. and Mrs. F. Burr who became residents of Dieppe Apt. Bldg. on May 17th.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barker of Vimy Apt. Bldg. enjoyed the visit of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. Rowe of Verdun the past week. Tom and Mrs. Barker visited Mrs. McMillan in Montreal over the past week-end. Granddaughter Patrica Hayes spent Monday with Tom and Mrs. Barker.

A happy week-end was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Farmer of Dunkirk Apt. Bldg. by the visit of their daughter Mrs. E. Poirier of Montreal and their granddaughter Cindy Ann. Wee Cindy Ann was the big attraction and in her carriage operated by her grandmother was a treat to the folks in Vetville.

Bus for Roman Catholic Church left Molson Ave. at 10.00 A.M. for Service at 10.30 A.M. as usual.

The Presbyterian Church Service was held in Vetville Community Hall on Sunday at 9.00 A.M. May 22nd. Service was conducted by Mr. Pollock with Mrs. Miller as pianist. As this was a farewell service by Mr. Pollock, Vetville members of the church wish him all that is good and assure him we will always welcome him here in Vetville in the future. Mr. Cooper kindly donated flowers from his Mons Apt. Bldg. garden for the Pulpit.

Special Award For Rose Growers At Spring Flower Show

(By Mrs. Mildred McCutcheon.)

The Four Roses Distillers Ltd. have very kindly donated an annual trophy to the Chateauguay and District Horticultural Society to be awarded for the four best roses exhibited at the Spring Flower Show which will be held on June 18th, at the home of Mr. Reg Redston, Austin Avenue, the Heights.

As this is the first time an award of this kind has ever been offered to Canadian rose growers, every effort has been made to obtain the most unusual and distinctive trophy as a prize for the winner.

The Four Roses Award Trophy is an original Canadian design by James E. Ritchie, a well-known Canadian potter and sculptor. His design for the trophy was created exclusively for this award, as will be seen by the unusual rose motif in relief around the bottom of the vase.

After the design was completed, the trophy itself was produced in the studios of Gaston La Flamme, director of a foundry which has greatly contributed to Canadian Handicrafts for the past 30 years. Made of polished, hand-shaped white alloy, the Four Roses Trophy stands a full 11" high and weighs approximately 5 lbs.

Though specifically designed for long-stemmed roses, the trophy will make a beautiful and distinctive vase for many varieties of cut flowers. The Society is looking forward to many entries for the Four Roses Award. For further details please contact the President or Directors. Points will be awarded on the following basis, Color 20, Form and substance 30, Fragrance 15, Foliage 15, Stem 10, Size 10, according to the Canadian Rose Society's Standard of judging.

Police cars will follow in case of emergencies arising from the parade. All citizens are asked to cooperate in 'Clean up week', Mr. Beaudry has also been elected as Vice-President of the Regional Chamber of Commerce as well as Secretary of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Chateauguay.

Legion Notes

Ken Campbell, Director of Sports Activities, Branch 108 of the Canadian Legion announces a Dart and Cribbage Tournament. Entries for teams are solicited from each district and development in Chateauguay. Subject to entries, a date will be set and publicized.

Gala Performance for Red Cross held by Children

A gala performance of Red Riding Hood was held by a troop of young performers a week ago Saturday, on Stanton Avenue. A windy, chilly day did not dull the efforts of these little eager beavers. Stage manager Ross Murdoch had a hard time deciding between his duties in his efforts to hold up the curtain in the high wind and his job of prompter. The Misses Shirley Yarnell and Lesley Smith with performers Bonnie and Marlene McGreavy assisted by Snowball the kitten gave a happy rendition of the Night Riders and Red Riding Hood. Snowball, the star of the show obliged by leaping through a hula hoop as the main attraction. Hot coffee was served to the adult viewers on the Smith Lawn, courtesy of Ken Smith. The Red Cross will receive $1.14 raised through the efforts of the girls who hammered and nailed their own platform and provided the costumes. Sorry the pictures did not turn out, kids.

News Round-Up

Warrant Officer Charles Hamilton, Mrs. Hamilton and the children of Smithfield, Ont., spent the holiday week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Holmes, the Heights.

Mrs. Elsie Darvill of Beaurepaire, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holly, Oliver Avenue, the Heights, during the week.

Get well wishes are extended to Mrs. W. Garden, the Heights, who had a bad fall during the week in her home and is at present hospitalized with a broken hip.

Get well wishes to Miss Audrey Simms also of the Heights who is a patient in St. Mary's Hospital.

Congratulations to Alderman Alex Kinna, the Heights, who has just completed twenty years service with the Dominion Textile Company and is now wearing the Company button.

Congratulations are also in order for Mr. Des McCutcheon who came up with a 29 Crib hand while playing with Matt Willock, a fellow employee of the Northern Assurance Company last week.

Mrs. Margaret Rice of Watt Avenue, the Heights, has returned to her home following a three week stay in Hong Kong and Tokyo.

Mrs. Hugh Evans has returned to her home in St. Laurent, following a three week stay at the home of Mrs. Margaret Rice.

Birthday greetings to Marion McGregor from her friends at the Legion.

The year book of the Chateauguay Horticultural Society is now available and may be obtained upon payment of fees.

Messrs Bill Parsons, Harry Robinson, George Johnston and Joe Pickard of the Heights off to Lac St. Remi for a week-end of fishing.

Sorry to report that Frances Saunders of Oliver Avenue, the Heights, is once again hospitalized at the Mayfair Hospital in Montreal, and we wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Bessie Herbert and her daughter Lorna, Smith Avenue, were the week-end guests of Mrs. Leo Byrne of Verdun. While in Verdun Lorna attended a dance at the 'Y' and enjoyed a wonderful evening.

Mr. Dan Huckle of the Heights is enjoying a holiday at the home of his neice, in the Eastern Townships.

LEGION NOTES

At a special meeting held last week, plans for the July 1st Legion Festival Day were discussed and committee chairmen elected to produce and manage the various events.

In addition to the usual Bingo for which many and varied prizes will be offered by chairman John Thompson, and dancing, there will be numerous sideshows and attractions, and, with the cooperation of Jupiter Pluvius, the Legion grounds should be well crowded with entertainment for young and old.

Prier to the evening dancing, there will be a square dancing competition for which entries are solicited from teams near and far with a trophy to be competed ed for. The chairman for this event is Comrade Bill Murray, to whom entries should be submitted.

A pie-eating contest will be held for which entries will be accepted right up to the event. The chairman responsible is Comrade Dave Watson, and he is anticipating huge feats in the pastry swallowing line.

Comrade Merrill Smith is organizing a crowd-drawing event in the afternoon, with the anticipation of national sporting celebrities appearing. More details of this later.

The refreshment booths will be in the capable hands of the lady members of the branch, while the Ladies' Auxiliary is being asked to assist in various capacities.

To make this day the success it should be, the help of all members is needed and we trust that the next monthly meeting will be crowded with enthusiastic volunteers.

Comrade Jack Elliott is in charge of equipment, lighting, etc. and he will need lots of help.

The shuffleboard season is gradually closing with only one more game scheduled — on June 4th when Caughnawaga will be the guests at the Legion Hall.

We trust as many players as possible will be on hand to welcome the members of this fine branch, which, hosted our disappointingly small delegation a couple of weeks ago, right royally.

Last Sunday, our team visited Wilson's Bordertown Motel and played on what must be the finest board in the area. Apart from the board, the geniality and hospitability of hosts Chuck and Rita Wilson make this rendez-vous a very popular one and we look forward to many visits in the future.

The Canteen at the Legion Hall is undergoing a process of facelifting with the replacing of the old "Coke" cooler with a more efficient refrigerator giving faster and cleaner service.

This is the first of the improvements projected to give members more congenial and comfortable surroundings, but to offset them we need better attendance. Don't forget it is your club: use it.

Letter To The Editor

A STRANGE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN?

It, at least, seems strange to Me that a candidate who has no apparent organizer is sponsoring his own campaign. Particularly as this candidate is a long-standing member of the Union National.

Yet it may be that as he is using his own resources he will be free, when he is elected, from the usual party ties.

This seems the only sensible and correct way to be elected to a position of responsibility, representing the people in this democracy.

A candidate elected via the big money route will represent big money only, whereas a candidate elected by the people will serve the people and his province.

You will by now, no doubt, have recognized Mr. Jean Desjean, Insurance Agent of Chateauguay Centre.

Signed: "M. D."

One who likes to think out loud.

Teatime Topics

Scottish-born Margaret Reilly has retired from the John Inglis Company Limited in Toronto after 18 years of service.

During her years as matron at the plant, she often consulted other women employees on topics ranging from cooking to get along with people.

Fellow employees have often heard her formula for solving problems.

"Above all, don't worry. Excessive worry reduces your ability to think clearly and find a solution," she would say.

Born in Dundee, she came to Canada 38 years ago and now lives with a bachelor brother.

Earth Colors

The current collection of summer dresses appear in gay "earth" colors. Shades of brown, green and gold are seen in everything from bikinis to town costumes, says the Canadian Fabrics Foundation of Montreal.

Patio dresses in white cotton pique are big news in the fashion world. Often they are sashed with gingham. Checks are used in multilayered skirts and in apron effects.

Stripes are often used to outline the shape of the neckline and border of a white garment.

Bathing suits are in casual paisley cotton prints and in beautiful nylon-acetate lace.

Pleats and fringes are predominant for dresses and the sleeveless dress is noted in nearly every collection.

Divided skirts are being shown in sports wear in simple designs or in elegant ankle-length versions for evening wear.

The daytime silhouette is relaxed with straight jackets and plenty of pleated skirts.

The emphasis romantic for evening wear with marked waistlines, curved decolletes and full skirts.

Cucumber Spread

Want a new accompaniment for tomato soup? Here's one using cucumbers.

Ingredients for the spread are: 2 cucumbers, peeled, seeded and chopped; 1 tsp. salt; ½ cup chopped chives; pepper to taste; and sour cream to bind.

Sprinkle salt on cucumber and let stand one hour. Drain. Add chives and pepper. Bind with sour cream. Serve with crackers or rye bread as an accompaniment to tomato soup.

With the remainder of the sour cream, you may make a sour cream dip, delicious with finger-foods such as carrots sticks, green onions and radishes.

Mix 2 cups sour cream; 1 cup raw spinach, chopped fine; ¾ cup each chives, parsley, both chopped fine; 1 tsp. salt; and ½ tsp. pepper.

The word pizza means pie... so every time we say pizza pie we are actually saying pie pie. No matter what you call them pizzas are delicious and this modified version of little pizzas is quick and easy.

It's a good treat for the family's lunch or for informal parties.

Webster's dictionary explains pizza as "a large, flat tart made of bread dough spread with tomato pulp and strips of cheese and often shreds of meat, anchovies or the like, highly seasoned with savory herbs, and baked thoroughly."

The ingredients for little pizzas are: one six-ounce tin tomato paste; ⅛ tsp. pepper; ¼ tsp. garlic salt; ¼ tsp. oregano; 16 slices process cheese (this is one pound); 16 slices of ½-inch bread; 16 slices side bacon; ¾ cup finely grated Cheddar cheese or ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese.

Combine tomato paste, pepper, garlic salt and oregano. Toast one side of the bread under broiler. Arrange slices, toasted side down, in shallow baking pan. Cover each piece with a slice of cheese, spread with 2 tsps. tomato paste mixture, cover with one strip of bacon cut into three pieces, then sprinkle with about 2 tsps. Cheddar cheese or ½ tsp. Parmesan.

Quickly Cooked

Place under broiler so that the tops are 7 inches from broiling unit and cook until bacon begins to crisp, about five minutes. Yields 16 single or eight double servings.

Hamburg buns can be substituted for the bread. Do not toast the buns but otherwise follow the directions. The cheese slices should be trimmed to fit the curve of the bun.

Chili sauce is also a suitable substitute for the first three ingredients. Combine ¾ cup chili sauce with oregano and then proceed as directed.

Election Rally Held In Interests of Jean Desjean

(By John Pugh)

Election rally for Jean Desjean was held in Chateauguay Station at the residence of Mr. Frank Bebe on May 22nd. The following is an outline of the events that took place.

The General feeling was that it was time for a change In Mr. Jean Desjean we have young blood, a man who is close to the man in the street; the man in business, the type of man who is seriously considering the whole community, not just himself.

It was pointed out that Mr. Jean Desjean was considered as thus the free man, Independant Union National, no money from Union National; he is strictly organizing on a free basis. Young is the main purpose of his party; the lack of organized youth movement in our vicinity is unfair and unjust. It is about time that something was done and something can be done by voting for Jean Desjean as a vote for Jean Desjean is a vote for youth.

The enthusiasm with which the voluntary workers of Jean Desjean are organizing is almost unbelievable; they are ready to give their utmost to see that the people get to know Mr. Jean Desjean, elect him to the Quebec Legislature where they feel he would be the man to do the best for the people of this constituency.

Mr. Roger Filion had this to say: (Quote) "If Mr. Maurice Laberge was to ask his workers to work on a free basis, what would happen? I feel that at least 95% of his workers are being paid. Further more why did Mr. Maurice Laberge not call a gathering or a convention where upon he could have been asked by the People to run in this year's election. The late Mr. Arthur Laberge always waited for the People to ask him to run for election. Mr. Maurice Laberge did not hold any Convention Meeting this year. WHY?"

For the free man, is Jean Desjean, Youth is the most urgent necessity in the county of Chateauguay; in the past they have been neglected. Most of the people in Chateauguay are faced with the same problem, not enough organized activity with the proper direction for the young children and that it is why we have so much juvenile delinquency. Instead of our children growing up into honorable citizens of value, if something is not done soon, we will not have enough schools of correction; we do not need prisons, we need action in the direction of organized youth. All this and much more for youth is what we can expect by voting for Jean Desjean.

Mr. Jean Desjean who dropped out of the last election, only did so because he was asked by the late Hon. Maurice Duplessis not to run in the election. Maurice Duplessis knew that Mr. Jean Desjean was a man of honour and only because Maurice Duplessis asked him not to run, did he decide not to go through with his election campaign, but it was understood that he would be given the right to run in the next election. Unfortunately, with the death of Maurice Duplessis followed by the death of Paul Sauve this did not come to pass. Under these circumstances Mr. Jean Desjean has every right to run Independent Union National.

Mr. Barney Young of Ville de Lery had this to say: "There is a great deal lacking in our social welfare and is becoming more evident through the youth of our community. Let's not let any more time go by before something is done. I believe most sincerely by backing Mr. Jean Desjean to the limit of our ability and giving him our full support, we certainly will have a man in the Legislature who knows the situation from every angle and he will see that we get results without fail.

Mr. Jean Desjean took the floor in answer to a question as to what he intended to do about the unemployement situation and just what could be done. Mr. Jean Desjean said that he would form a committee of industrial men to line up an industry in Chateauguay that would employ at least 100 men Also stated that in regard to the roads throughout Chateauguay County, he would endeavour to have the necessary repairs and where new surfacing was needed, carried out as soon as possible and not just in one area but in the whole county.

Mr. Jean Desjean went on to say that most people knew that the backbone of his organization was in the development for youth. He intends to go all out in this campaign for the benefit of the children of our community."Right now there is nothing for the Youth and we need something in the worst way. Should I be elected, I will go directly with a body of men from our County and not only ask but demand after showing the facts for a reasonable grant with which to lay the foundations of my Youth program".

Come June the 22nd., Mr. Jean Desjean would appreciate your vote. Jean Desjean was born and brought up in this County. As a young boy, he worked as a farmer for $5.00 a month and the road up to to-day has not been easy; the future with your vote is not going to make it easier. He is the type of man who will put his whole heart into his work.

What's Doing In The Chateauguay Station Area

(By John Pugh)

The Chateauguay Aquatic Club will be holding its second annual dance at the Heights' Recreation Club on Saturday, May 28th, at 9 o'clock p.m. This dance will feature door prices, refreshments and an orchestra. The proceeds from this dance will go toward helping the club financially. This is one of the ways in which the club calls upon supporters to make it a success. Hoping everyone who possibly can, will either attend, or buy tickets for the dance.

An invitation from the city of Longueuil for a representative from the Town of Chateauguay to attend a banquet celebrating 25 years of service by Paul Pratt, on May 29, has been accepted and Secretary J.A. Doucet will be our delegate.

The Junior Chambre of Commerce is backing a clean-up campaign to be held throughout the town of Chateauguay and surrounding area. There will be on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week between 6 and 8 o'clock in the evening a parade led by the fire truck of the Town of Chateauguay with the siren going announcing on placards and streamers in both French and English that it is time that all the citizens of Chateauguay got together and worked together in a effort to clean up Chateauguay. Old rubbish and excess garbage are among the major problems. We suggest whenever anyone has excess garbage they consult the man who collects it in their area and see if they can make some arrangement to have it carted away. This incidently was approved by the Town Concil at the meeting.

Hope everyone is preparing for the civic election for the Mayor and 3 seats in the Council which take in Wards 4, 5, 6. These seats are now held by Ward 4, Gilles Montambault; Ward 5 by Ernest Dupont, and ward 6 by Jos. Laberge. Nomination day is set for July 2 and voting day the 10th of July. Everyone is looking forward to more contestants, especially for the Mayor seat. It would be nice if some clean cut well educated thoroughly diplomatic man would put himself up for nomination, as this is the type of man we need for Mayor. Let's hope that 5 or 6 people come forth and are nominated for each seat. Then the People will have a bigger choice.

General Town News

Released by Mr. J.A. Doucet, Secretary of the Town of Chateauguay. Tenders were called for May 17th, 1960 for the paving of the area of the pyramid project. Two tenders were received and opened; one from Jean Bedard Ltd., to the amount of $35,920.00 and one from St. Regis Paving and Supplies to the amount of $39,127.00. The lowest dealer being Jean Bedard Ltd. was accepted.

Plans were submitted for a subdivision of lots No 51 and 52 and accepted by the Council. The subdivision was prepared by Jacques Kieffer.

The ratifications of the accounts for the month of April were passed by the Council.

It was passed that the Town would now recognise henceforth sub-chief of police Mr. Rousseau as the official chief of police of the town of Chateauguay.

The Council of Chateauguay had decided as a body to see Mr. Bruchesis, M.P., in connection with obtaining a cement wall on both sides of the Chateauguay river. However, Mr. Hector Duranceau, Mr. Roland Voisard, Mr. Jean Robert and Mr. Gilles Montambault were the only ones to go. Mr. Bruchesis, M.P., will certainly give this matter full consideration in the near future. Missing from the delegation were Mayor G. Soyez, Ernest Dupont and Jos. Laberge.

M. Laberge, M.P.P. Announces Increase In Annual Grant To B.M.H.

Mr. Maurice Laberge, M.P.P., for Chateauguay County, making one of his periodic visits to the Barrie Memorial Hospital, recently brought particularly good news to that institution when he came with the assurance that the Provincial Government would in 1960 double its annual operating grant to The Barrie.

Mr. Laberge has shown a keen interest in The Barrie Memorial Hospital ever since his nomination as candidate for Chateauguay County. This was first demonstrated during the hospital's 1957 financial campaign when he succeeded in securing a Provincial Government Grant of $40,000.00 spread over four years, to aid in paying off the hospital's capital indebtedness and to complete construction of the Nurses' Residence.

When the new Barrie Memorial Hospital was opened in December 1950, it was allocated an annual grant of $10,000.00 to help cover its losses on patients admitted under the Quebec Charities Act as well as on that of others who were unable to pay for themselves. Inadequate even then, the continued inflationary trend made the hospital's financial position more and more difficult with each passing year.

In 1950 the cost per patient day to the hospital was $8.33, while the audited financial report for 1958 showed that the per patient day cost had risen to $17.04, or just over double that of 1950. The major portion of this was due to increases in wages and salaries which, in hospitals, are still much below those obtainable for comparable work in industry.

From the beginning of his closer acquaintance with the Barrie Memorial Hospital, Mr Leberge realised that if its high standards of service were to be maintained, the hospital should have more adequate government assistance. He therefore, continued to press its needs and finally received the assurance of the Quebec Ministry of Health that the present grant would be doubled.

As Mr. Laberge himself expressed it "The Barrie Memorial Hospital is an extremely well-operated hospital in every respect, and I am proud of it. It is worthy of the utmost support from Government and public alike."

In his dual capacity of Mayor of Chateauguay and Member of the Provincial Parliament, Mr. Laberge always acted on the motto "The greatest good of the greatest number", which also explains his concern for an institution which is devoted to the common good. It is obvious that because The Barrie Memorial Hospital serves with equal care all who come to it without regard to race, creed or ability to pay, Mr. Laberge feels that in securing more financial assistance for it, he is benefitting greatly the residents of this end of his constituency.

Religious News

On Thursday, Ascension Day, at 4 o'clock p.m., will take place in Notre-Dame de l'Assomption's Church the ceremony of the Confirmation of the children. His Excellency Mgr. Caza will confer to the 71 children who made their first communion last Sunday the Great Sacrement of Confirmation.

The Roman Catholic Church believes that those who are confirmed received the Holy Ghost in a special way in order to make them strong and perfect Christians and soldiers of Jesus Christ. The gifts of the Holy Ghost are imparted in their fullness in the Confirmation; they are: wisdom, understanding, counsel, fortitude, knowledge, piety and fear of the Lord. St. Paul also enumerated the fruits of the virtues infused by the Holy Ghost as follows: charity, joy, peace, patience, benignity, goodness, longanimity, mildness faith, modesty, continency and chastity.

Cure Patenaude cordially invited all the parishoners to this ceremony. He also asked for their prayers so that those confirmed will be ever fighting against the devil, the world and the flesh and ever ready to profess their Faith, to suffer for it, to persevere in it at no matter what cost, and to radiate it.

Cure Patenaude also reminded that Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday are Rogations days. Following the public calamities that afflicted the diocese of Vienne in Dauphine in the fifth century, St. Mamertus instituted a solemn penitential procession to be held on the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday preceding Ascension Thursday. By 511, the devotion had spread throughout the rest of France and in 816 Pope Leo III introduced it at Rome. It was soon extended to the whole Church. Rogation means supplications. The object of those devotions is to turn away from us the scourges of divine justice and draw down God's blessings on the fruits of the earth.

Social activities

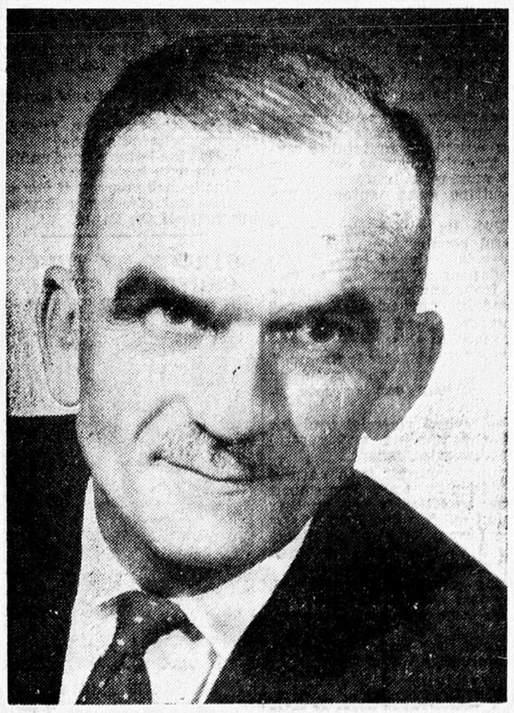

The Recreational Centre of Notre Dame de l'Assomption is extending its activities. Besides the Tennis team, you will be invited to join either one of these different teams: Badminton, Volleyball, Horseshoes, Ping-Pong. Participation is free of charge but the membership fee for the tennis club is $10.00 for adults and $2.00 for children. For further informations, contact Mr. Claude Auger at OX. 2-6952.

A CALL TO THE VOTERS OF

CHATEAUGUAY COUNTRY

MAURICE LABERGE

MR. J. MAURICE LABERGE, Official Candidate of the National Union

Official Candidate of the National Union would like to recall the following facts to the attention of the electors of his County:

Farmer's Friend

Mr. Maurice Laberge wants to reassure the Farmers of his County that he will continue to give them all his help and support in the future, as well as he did in the past, by a well organized and complete program.

—Necessary help and support for farmer's sons;
—Drainage of all the farmland in the county through completing the irrigation-works;
—Completion of public roads in the whole County;
—Maintaining the agricultural class at its highest level, thus insuring the agricultural economical expansion in every corner of Chateauguay County.

Apostle of Education

Increase the number of Schools and classes in the whole County to provide our youngsters with all facilities to get the best education and to so enable them to earn their living in an easier way in the future.

The New Developments

Since his election as M.P.P. in 1957, Mr. Maurice Laberge has always given his full support and collaboration to residents in the New Developments of Chateauguay County. He will continue in the same manner in the future, by obtaining loans, grants and by putting the legislation of National Union in practice concerning the draining, roads, etc., and everything which will help the development of the new centers. The Government of the National Union has spent over $20 Million in Chateauguay County during the last 12 years.

The Reelection Of

MAURICE LABERGE

Official Candidate of the National Union in Chateauguay County will assure the continuation of his work and the development of one of the most progressive Counties of this Province.

BOY KNOCKED DOWN WHILE WALKING ALONG HIGHWAY

RONNIE McDONALD

Ronnie McDonald — 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald of 51 Adams St., Prudential Developement, Chateauguay, is a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, Lachine, following an accident that occurred on Route 4 at the intersection of St. Marguerite St. on Wednesday of the past week.

A student in the parish school in Chateauguay Village, Ronnie was on his was home from school and had alighted from the school bus. He and a friend, John Smith, had started to walk along the highway towards home when Ronnie is alleged to have stepped from the curb towards the center of the road. He was struck by a two-tone green 1956 Chevrolet owned and driven by Roger Chabot, 40 years old, of 977 St. Joseph St., Beloeil.

Ronnie was walking on the left side of the road towards Prudential and the car was travelling towards Mercier Bridge. He suffered cuts and bruises to his head and face and a compound fracture to his right shoulder. He was taken to hospital in Lachine by Brisson ambulance. His mother told a Gleaner reporter on Tuesday that Ronnie's big worry is that his shoulder and arm will be in a cast most of the summer holidays. This is quite possible as Mrs. McDonald says surgeons have knitted the bones together with a silver clasp in much the same manner that ends of a belt are spliced together. If the silver clasp does not cause complications, Ronnie may be home for the week-end.

Officers Marone and Cyre of the Provincial Police investigated.

Selling — by Letter

In letters, as in conversation, we are selling most of the time — selling an idea, selling goodwill, selling ourselves, selling a product or service, selling quality, dependability, integrity and economy.

Thus, principles which apply to the writing of sales letters, can be used very effectively in everyday business correspondence.

The writing of good sales letters requires thoughtful planning. Rare, indeed, is the writer who can dash them off.

First, clearly define in your own mind what you want to achieve. Then make a note of the points to be covered. You will confuse your reader if you try to cover too many points, so eliminate the least important. Deal with each points in its entirety before passing on to the next.

Be careful not to cram your letter with a mass of unorganized thoughts, facts and statements.

Usually, it is hard to start a sales letter, because we must warm up to the job. Just begin to write and the strong, attention-getting starting sentence you want, will show up.

Tell the prospect how HE can benefit, because he is not interested in anything else. Unsupported claims of superiority usually leave him cold. Don't lead him to expect more than you can provide. Exaggeration destroys confidence.

Be careful how you use technical terms and descriptions of things which are second nature to you. Make sure that they are clear and can be easily understood by the reader.

Reasonably short sentences are best and much more readable. Long sentences, containing several thoughts, can be confusing. Pack more meat into your letters by cutting down sentences like this:—

"With its smart styling and careful construction, the Jones Heater is designed to eliminate the danger of fire and to free you from any worry of damage caused by inexperienced users."

Cut down and improve such sentences, to this:

"The Jones Heater is fireproof, foolproof, neat and precision built. Anyone can operate it safely."

The revised material contains half the wording and several times the sales impact.

Express yourself in a natural and friendly way. Remember, selling by letter is just another form of selling — so don't be any more formal, or any less dignified, than you would be when selling face to face.

Some sales letters don't end. They just stop. Make sure your letters come to a logical conclusion. Sum up the advantages you have been stressing and include an urge for action.

To establish a particularly important point, consider a postscript. Experienced users of sales letters have proved that postscripts stand out from the rest of the letter and make a greater impression on the reader.

Reproduction of pen and ink notes on a letter, can be very effective. When your list is small and you know your recipients, handwritten comments about personal or business matters add a helpful, more personale note.

Finish off your sales letter, and put aside for an hour or two. Then check it very carefully, with these questions in mind:—

1. Have I covered each point, fully and clearly?
2. Have I told my prospect how he can benefit?
3. Does the letter contain useless words and too-long sentences?
4. Can others clearly understand this letter?
5. Has the letter a friendly, sincere, believable tone?
6. Has the letter a good ending, with an urge for action?

Finally, ask yourself if you are clearly and effectively Expressing yourself On Paper.

The Week In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) Interest in the campaign for the June 22 general provincial election heightened this week as Premier Antonio Barrette agreed to meet Liberal Leader Jean Lesage in an old-fashioned "Assemblee Contradictoire" — A rally where two political leaders argue their respective views from the same platform.

Mr. Barrette, speaking at a political rally in Ville Marie, in Temiscamingue riding, said he is willing to meet Mr. Lesage on a public platform anywhere in Quebec City or Montreal to thrash out differences on the subjects of Federal-Provincial fiscal agreements and the university aid program.

But the Premier declined Mr. Lesage's proposal that the debate be made on a provincial television network.

Premier Barrette started the ball rolling two days earlier in St. Jerome, north of Montreal, when he said he would challenge Mr. Lesage to a debate if the Liberals did not stop making what he called confusing statements about the Federal-Provincial University aid arrangements.

Mr. Lesage accepted the challenge the following day, saying "Mr. Barrette knows where I live and where I travel by reading the newspapers. All he has to do is get in touch with me."

The Liberal Leader also suggested that since the subject was of interest to a great number of voters, the debate should be held over a Provincial television network.

No venue or date was set for the debate.

Premier Barrette spent most of the week on a speaking tour of Northwestern Quebec while Mr. Lesage kept his speeches to a minimum and continued his grassroots campaign — visiting factories, meeting people in small groups and shaking hands.

In Quebec, Premier Barrette said enumerators — those who prepare voters' lists — appointed on the recommendation of the Opposition Party in urban ridings were acting as party agents.

He asked Attorney-General Antoine Rivard to open an investigation and the following day Mr. Rivard reported that a certain number of enumerators had been fired. Mr. Rivard did not indicate how many were involved but all were appointed on the recommendation of the Liberal party.

The Attorney-General said an investigation is underway.

The irregularities occurred in the ridings of Abitibi-East, Montreal Laval, Montreal St. Jacques, Montreal St. Louis, Lake St. John, Quebec County, Quebec West and Shefford, Mr. Rivard said.

Under the Quebec Election Act, the Cabinet has the authority to fire enumerators who act as canvassers for a political party. They are replaced in each case by the Chief Returning Officer of the Province.

The two enumerator system in urban ridings was incorporated into election laws during the last Session of the Legislature. One enumerator is appointed on the recommendation of the Government Party and the other on the recommendation of the Official Opposition Party.

The Quebec Election Act also stipulates enumerators convicted of irregularities are liable to both fine and a jail term.

Gerard Martin, 49, of Quebec City, was appointed director of the Provincial Government's Public Librairies Service, Provincial Secretary Yves Prevost announced.

The announcement was made following the first meeting of the Public Libraries Commission, created during the last session of the legislature as an advisory body.

Mr. Martin has been Chief Librarian at the Provincial archives since 1945 and Secretary of the Province's Art Contests. He is a graduate in Library Science from the University of Montreal.

Mr. Prevost also announced two appointments to specialized schools operated under the Provincial Government.

They are: Robert Elie, 45, Director of Montreal's Ecole des Beaux Arts, who was named director of Fine Arts Schools operated by the Government and Noel Mainguy, 34-year-old Quebec City architect, who was appointed Director of the Architectural School of Quebec.

STRUCK BY TRUCK CROSSING STREET

CLAUDINE LEBLANC

A second traffic accident in the Chateauguay Park area involving a child occurred on Friday about 4.30 p.m. when 7-year-old Claudine Leblanc and her 5-year-old brother were crossing Ste. Marguerite St. to their home after playing in the park. They had just started to cross the street when the little brother saw an approaching truck and yelled at his sister to turn back. Little Claudine, undecided, tried to cross and was struck by the truck, owned and driven by 33-year-old Jean-Louis St-Marseille of St. Isidore. The child suffered bruises and cuts to her face and body and there was some speculation her nose was broken, but Claudine is now at home and her mother says they are thankful she was not killed. She is shown in the accompanying picture in her First Communion dress.
