NAVY'S WORK IS SATISFACTORY

WINSTON CHURCHILL AD-DRESSES "CALL TO ARMS"
MEETING.

Winston Churchill, accompanied by F. E. Smith, M.P., and T. P. O'Connor, addressed the great "Call to arms" meeting in Liverpool.

"The times in which we live," Mr. Churchill said, "are terrible. Events have passed outside the boundaries of the most daring imagination. The actual facts are so stunning, the scale of all the phenomenal, presented to our view so vast, that we can only feel that we must lay hold of the next obvious, simple step which duty indicates. (Cheers.) The end we cannot see, nor how we shall reach the end, but the immediate step before us we can see quite plainly. I have not come here to ask you for a million men for the gallant army of Sir John French—a million of the flower of our manhood, nothing but the best, every man a volunteer. (Cheers.)

"A million men maintained in the field and equipped with everything that science can invent or money can buy, maintained and supported by the resources which, while we maintain command of the seas, we can draw from every quarter of the globe and feed up steadily to their full strength until this war is settled in the only way. Loud cheers. I come to ask to you for this with great confidence, because it can quite easily be done as long as we continue all of the same mind. (Cheers.)

"I have only one song to sing. These are days of action rather than of speech. You have no need to be anxious about the results. God has blessed our arms with unexpected good fortune. For myself, having studied this matter with some attention, I could not have hoped that at this stage of the war circumstances would have been so favorable to the allied cause. (Cheers.)

"We must look to solid foundations for our real sources of strength, and even if this battle now pending were to prove as disastrous as it appears to be triumphant, and even if other battles were to come sinister in consequences, still the British Empire, if its resolution does not fail, could finally settle this matter as it chooses. (Cheers.)

"So far as the navy is concerned, we cannot fight while the enemy remain in port. We hope a decision at sea will be a feature of this war. Our men who are spending a tireless vigil, hope that they will have a chance to settle the question with the German fleet; and if they do not come out and fight they will be dug out like rats in a hole. (Loud cheers and laughter.)

"Under the shield of our navy we can raise an army in this country who will settle the war."

SIXTEEN KILLED IN MINE EXPLOSION

THE EXPLOSION WAS CAUSED BY STRIKING A POCKET OF GAS.

Birmingham, Ala., October 5—Sixteen men are known to be dead and twelve injured as the result of a pocket gas explosion early today, at the Mulga mines of the Woodward Iron Company near Ensley. Removal

HOW THE RUSSIANS CROSSED MOUNTAINS

HAVE DISPELLED LEGEND
THAT THE EASTERN CAR-
PATHIANS WERE IMPREG-NABLE

London, Oct. 5.—A Reuter despatch from Petrograd says:

"Side by side with the official account of the German defeat on the Russo-Prussian frontier details are published of the Russians crossing the Carpathians, which, as one writer says, destroys the legend that the Eastern Carpathians are impregnable. "Before attaining Uzok Pass, the Russians successfully captured, thanks to a wide flanking movement, three well masked positions which were strongly defended by guns. Each time the Russians charged the enemy fled, and the Russians followed up the Austrian retreat with shrapnel and quick-firers, inflicting heavy losses. "During the Russian retreat through the Mazur Lake district, in East Prussia, a Russian battery was surrounded on three sides by the enemy's quick-firers. The infantry was on the other side of the lake, and the Russian ammunition was exhausted. In order to avoid capture, the commander ordered the battery to gallop over the declivity into the lake. His order was obeyed and he himself was among the drowned.

"During an assault on the fortress of Ossowetz, a German column got into a bog. The Russians shelled the bog and the single road crossing it. The Germans in trying to extricate themselves sank deeper into the mire and hundreds were killed or wounded. Of the whole column there were only about forty survivors."

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

The Strand War Series and Kinema Color Pictures proved very attractive at the Auditorium and the patrons of this house seemed to like this kind of pictures better than anything else although there is a good vaudeville bill on this week. The illustrations of Paris, the pictures of all the cities damaged or destroyed, by the Germans in France and Belgium are certainly at this moment the most interesting scenes one can set his eyes on. And the fighting ships of all nations will also give you an idea of what wealth has been spent just for safeguarding the costs of all the countries exposed to their enemies' guns.

The five acts of vaudeville are greatly varied. Valdos' trained dogs and monkey were more than interesting and they deserved the applause of both audiences yesterday. The bicycle experts greatly amused the patrons of the theatre with their wonderful feats, and the Desmond Sisters, with their partner, Barney Stone, made a real hit with their singing and dancing.

As an equilibrist, Alexander Brison has very few rivals and his work is so neatly done. The Musical Alexanders have many catching numbers all of the bodies is proceeding slowly, only nine of the sixteen dead having been brought out early tonight.

Mine officials state the explosion was purely local and was caused by striking a pocket of gas. What ignited the gas has not been determined.

The mine itself was not seriously damaged. Mulga mines had a previous explosion on April 20th, 1910, when thirty-five were killed.

ADVANTAGE IN YESTERDAY'S BATTLE SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN WITH FORCES OF THE KAISER

French Troops Were Compelled To Yield Ground At Certain Points---Paris And London Display Confidence---Germans Lose 70,000 in Encounters With Russians---Situation In Antwerp Remains Unchanged---British Repel Raid In East Africa

London, Oct. 5, 9:57 p.m.—General Von Kluck, reinforced with troops from the German centre, continues to make a determined stand against the attempt of the Allies to outflank him.

The French, who yesterday officially reported that all the German attacks in this region had been repulsed and that the Allies had resumed the offensive, followed this today by the announcement that while to the north of the Oise the battle which commenced seriously about September 25, continues with great violence, no decisive result has been reached and that at certain points the French troops have had to yield ground.

The Germans, in their report issued last night, say that the battle is proceeding successfully for them.

Both in London and in Paris there is the greatest confidence, although some surprise is displayed at the success of the Germans in preventing the outflanking movement. There is a feeling, however, that the Germans cannot extend their line much further north without weakening it at some point.

Along the rest of the line, the French communication says, there has been change; so that the progress in the region of Soissons and in Woivre, reported on Sunday night, either has satisfied them for the moment or they have been checked by the Germans. Of the fighting here, as on their right, the German report says it is proceeding favorably for the German arms.

Naturally progress by either side must be extremely slow, for after every advance, not matter how slight, the troops making it must entrench themselves for protection against the shells from the enemy's guns posted in strong positions from one end of the line to the other.

The defeat of the German army which invaded Russia from East Prussia appears from Russian accounts have been even more decisive than previously stated. According to the Russian ambassador at Rome, the Germans, who he says were completely defeated and routed, have suffered a loss of 70,000 men and have been forced to abandon everything.

The Russians are now moving forward with the object of again invading East Prussia. This victory, if it is as complete as reported, is of the greatest importance to the Russians, as it will prevent the Germans from undertaking any operations from land and sea, which would have compelled Russia to turn at least a part of its attention in this direction.

Gen. Rennenkampf apparently drove a wedge between the two German forces which were advancing upon Druskeniki and Ossowetz and brought about the battle of Augustowo, which resulted in a Russian victory. If the Germans have not already retired from the left bank of the Niemen River at Druskeniki, their defeat at Augustowo must compel them to do so. The moral effect of another invasion of East Prussia will also be of importance.

From the Silesian and Galician battlefields nothing has come through today, and probably the main armies have not come together, though a big battle cannot much longer be delayed, as, particularly on the Silesian frontier, both armies are moving forward and will meet in Russian Poland.

Before the Russian advance in Galicia the peasants are fleeing the country, and it is reported that 20,000 of them have reached Bohemia. The sanitary department of Vienna reports that four cases of Asiatic cholera have occurred among the troops returning from Galicia, but that all have been isolated.

Of Antwerp the official report says that the situation in the fortified positions remains unchanged.

Fighting, too, continues in the Near East, and the Anglo-French has succeeded in destroying Lustica, an outer defence of the Austrian seaport of Cattaro.

While the Servians and Montenegrins are attacking the outer fortifications of Saravevo, Belgrade, which has been so often under fire has not been bombarded for several days, probably as a result of the re-occupation of Semlin by the Servians.

Skirmishes have occurred on the Anglo-German frontier in East Africa, due to German raids into British territory for the purpose of cutting the Uganda railway. All these raids have, according to the British official report, been repulsed.

While the usual life in England is not seriously upset by the war, the regulations in many respects are becoming more stringent. An instance of this is to be found in the action of the authorities, who, in order to keep the army provided with warm clothing, have commandeered large quantities of woollens in Leicester, a step which is likely to be followed elsewhere.

WAR SUMMARY

Only laconic reference concerning the actual fighting is made by the French War Office in its latest report on the warfare in northern France. "The general situation is stationary," it says.

Of present conditions on the left wing of the Allies' line, where a previous report had said the French had been obliged at certain points to cede ground to the Germans, the later War Office statement merely declares that the action still continues. It adds that in the Argonne and Meuse regions day and night attacks by the Germans have been repulsed by the Allies.

In the eastern war zone the Russians report that having conquered the Germans in Russian Poland, two Russian armies are invading East Prussia with Allenstein as their objective.

In the south, on the Adriatic, French men-of-war are reported again to be bombarding the Austrian port of Cattaro.

As yet the situation surrounding the forts at Antwerp, which are under bombardment by the Germans, has not been definitely cleared up. The Germans still claim that they have captured several of the outer fortifications, while the Belgians declare that the defences remain intact.

A report from Berlin that British ships have arrived at Lisbon and that Portugal's co-operation with the Allies in the war is imminent brought forth a statement from the Portuguese Minister at Washington that his country was prepared to take such a step whenever Great Britain could call upon her to do so under the treaty of mutual protection existing between the two countries.

Great Britain is investigating coal shipments from the United States under the suspicion that the cargoes instead of reaching the ports to which they are destined reach German warships at sea.

The Prince of Wales Relief Fund has now reached $15,000,000.

The Weather

Toronto, Oct. 5.—A fairly pronounced area of high pressure has moved down over Ontario and Quebec today from the north, while the western disturbance mentioned yesterday has dispersed. Rain has fallen locally in Manitoba and Saskatchewan and snow and rain in Alberta; from Ontario eastward the weather has been fair and warm.

BAPTIST MINISTER

SAVED FROM DEATH.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 5.—Mrs. P. O. Rogers today saved the Rev. William Kirkpatrick, a retired Baptist minister, from death under the wheels of a Michigan Central passenger train. The woman, seeing Dr. Kirkpatrick on the track, in an epileptic fit, rushed from her home, near the crossing, and dragged him away just as the train passed. The engine struck the man a glancing blow, but he was not seriously injured.

Dr. Kirkpatrick is past 65 years of age.

GLIMPSES OF OLD QUEBEC

From the Files of The CHRONICLE, October, 1884, and 1914.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Caught At Last

A correspondent 30 years ago reported to us the following interesting story: John Powers' house is built on the line between the Province of Quebec and Vermont, half of his cellar being in Canada and half in Vermont. He has been in the habit of selling liquors, he sold them in the States, and managed to keep pretty clear of the law on that side, consequently keeping his stock on the Canadian side. The other day, however, the Revenue Officer in the States made arrangements with his brother Revenue Officer in Canada, and the two officers met at the residence of Powers; the American officer secretly watching the premises, while the Canadian officer went into the house and made known his business to Powers. The latter's wife getting her suspicions aroused slipped down into the cellar and began moving the liquors from the Canadian side to the American. This was the signal for the American officer to begin operations, both officers entering the cellar at the same time, made a seizure of several hundred dollars worth of liquor. Powers having but just a day or two before laid in a large stock. The American authorities will compel him to move wholly on one side or the other. Powers was building a fine new residence on the line out of the profits of this traffic.

DUTCH STEAMER SUNK BY MINE.

"Nieuwland" on Voyage to Rotterdam Sinks in the North Sea After Striking Mine.

London, October 4—A Rueuter despatch from Amsterdam says that the Dutch steamer Nieuwland, while on a voyage from Goole, Eng., to Rotterdam, struck a mine in the North Sea and sank. Her crew of seventeen men were saved by a trawler and landed at Ymuiden, Holland.

Available shipping records do not contain the steamer Nieuwland.

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY

Ought to Support Canada

The English Ministry do not seem to be anxious to bring the war to a close; determined, no doubt, to make the Americans feel the weight of the British arm. In the Canadas the waste of strength has lately been so great that the reinforcements have scarcely been more than adequate to cover the casualties, particularly in the right division. If at any time, we in Canada can boast of success, it must be admitted that our laurels are not acquired a la Bonaparte, by overwhelming numbers. Unfortunately for us, such has lately been the magnitude of the European wars, that a contest with the Americans at this day scarcely calls up the attention of the nation, it is treated as such a funny war that the clergy scruple to read the prayer appropriated to a time of war and tumult. Yet funny as the war may be, our strength is daily wasting by thousands and that without being able to prevent the enemy from strengthening themselves and taking root on Canadian ground. Why, is this? Equal to a regiment, is another, and only another, sent to fill the vacancies. Why not double or treble the numbers where they are most wanted so as to make an end of the war in a short time?

ANDREW JACKSON'S FINE

How Judge Hall Came to Punish the Doughty General.

When the war of 1812 was over vague rumors of peace drifted into New Orleans, but still Jackson did not feel justified in revoking the martial law, under which he had placed the city. While the city was in this state this peculiar incident started. A man named Louallier was tried as being a spy and was acquitted. This displeased Jackson, and feeling that in the martial law he had complete command of the city, he, in opposition to the court, retained Louallier in prison and sent Judge Hall, out of the city with orders not to return until it was regularly posted that peace had been declared or that the enemy had left the coast. The following day came the overture notice officially explaining that peace had been declared and that the treaty had been ratified. Upon hearing this Jackson revoked the martial law and set all his prisoners free. Then preparing to send home the detached militia from Louisiana, Tennessee and Kentucky amid the greetings and demonstrations of the populace, Judge Hall returned to the city.

In order to uphold the honor, as it seems of the civil over the martial government, Judge Hall issued, on March 21, an order summoning Jackson to court for contempt of a habeas corpus writ and also to state his reason for so doing. The next day Jackson appeared in court in person. He held a written protest against the decision which was to be given.

Hall then imposed a fine of $1,000, remarking that "the duty was unpleasant, that he could not forget the important services of the defendant to the country, and that in consideration thereof he would not make imprisonment a part of the punishment."

The fine was promptly paid amid cheering of the crowd for the popular hero.—Philadelphia Press.

ECZEMA STARTED IN A RASH

Suffered Terribly. From Eyebrows Spread to Neck, Chest and Arms. Completely Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

Briefest, Satisfying. "When my baby boy was about four months old he suffered terribly from eczema. The trouble started in a rash and was very itchy. It made him very cross and fretful. I noticed the rash first in his eye-brows. From there, it spread to his neck, chest and arms. When he would scratch, it would make sores. I got medicine but it did no good. I tried different remedies without result. At last I got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using them for two days I noticed a change. I then purchased a full-sized cake of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I would give him a hot bath with the Cuticura Soap every night afterward applying the Cuticura Ointment. Before I had used half of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment he was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. H. L. Stromberg, May 29, 1913.

The regular use of Cuticura Soap for toilet and bath not only tends to preserve, purify and beautify the skin, scalp, hair and hands, but assists in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, redness and roughness, yellow, oily, mothy and other unwholesome conditions of the skin. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

MOVEMENTS OF ALLIES MAY GREATLY AID BELGIAN ARMYBRITISH AND FRENCH CONTINUALLY EXTENDING TOWARDS NORTH COMPEL GERMANS TO MOVE
LARGE FORCES FROM CENTER TO KEEP PACE.

From the battle front, via Paris, Oct. 5.—The allied armies, after having permitted their adversaries, as they thought, to exhaust themselves by continued attacks, today took a most vigorous offensive. The British and French, however, encountered such a strong resistance that their most advanced detachments on the western wing were compelled to fall back.

Only at this part of the long battle line did the opposite troops actually come into close contact.

Many picturesque villages, around which hundreds of thousands of men occupy positions, have suffered severely in the recent fighting, and probably will suffer still more before the struggle for supremacy is over.

The country where the chief fighting is going on is flat and under cultivation. In many places it is boggy and there are scattered coal mines. The allied armies are continually extending toward the north and bending eastward toward the Belgian frontier, and are thus compelling the Germans, in order to prevent the crumbling up of their main army, to move large forces from the center, and so keep pace with the Allies, whose position menaces the invaders along the whole line. The Allies' plan, it is thought, may compel the Germans to release the pressure on the Belgians.

The rapidity with which the French change position is remarkable. Two entire divisions of infantry marched thirty miles Saturday and 28 miles Sunday. The Germans, however, by means of their aviators who are continually flitting over the lines despite numerous casualties, discovered the positions and brought up reinforcements to meet them. As the Germans occupy the inside of the circle, they are able to reach an appointed spot with much shorter marches.

It was this that enabled them to force the advanced guards of the Allies to cede a small amount of ground until further assistance came.

At one point on the Allies front, a French regiment after a three days' spell in the trenches on being ordered to the rear for a rest, sent a petition through their colonel to the commanding general, asking permission to remain until the German position facing them was taken.

This was granted and the men advanced and although they met with such a terrific fire from the machine guns that an advance of 800 yards took eight hours, they captured the position and a number of prisoners. They themselves suffered severely.

French cavalry executed a daring raid back of the German lines, where they blew up a railroad tunnel and escaped before their presence was discovered.

British lancers and French troopers performed a brilliant exploit at another point. Getting between the Imperial Guard and their artillery ammunition train by a long dash, they cut off the supplies, destroying them, so that the Guards' big guns were rendered temporarily useless.

General Jean Rousseau, of the French cavalry, died today of wounds. Audacious espionage carried on by the Germans has caused the staff of the Allies to deal severely with all strangers found within the lines.

When two curious Irishmen, who were arrested yesterday, had proved their identity to the satisfaction of the officers they were asked to go to the headquarters building where an automobile was drawn up with two officers, apparently French, occupying the front seat. Behind them were two supposed German officers with a manacled civilian between them. The staff officer said:

"This is the reason for our severity. These five men are German officers who were captured today near the firing lines."

PASTORAL CALL.

Rev. J. B. Silcox Called to Pastorate of London, Ont., Church.

Lodon, Ont., Oct. 5.—Rev. Dr. J. B. Silcox, of Kansas City and formerly of Winnipeg, has been called to the pastorate of the First Congregational Church, this city. Dr. Silcox is a brother of Rev. E. D. Silcox, of Toronto, editor of the Canadian Congregationalist, and is a grandson of the founder of the First Congregational Church in Ontario, that at Frome, near St. Thomas.

Governor-General of Canada.

U.S. OFFICIALS
HOLD UP VESSELWAS SAILING UNDER GERMAN
FLAG BUT INVESTIGATION
WILL BE MADE FIRST

San Francisco, Oct. 5.—The steamer Alexandria, formerly of the Kosmos Line, is detained in the harbor here with a United States naval officer on board until questions concerning her registry can be settled with Washington. The collector of the port refused to allow the vessel to clear for Valparaiso under the German flag because he said he had been informed that the vessel's cargo consisted of provisions and coal. The German cruiser Leipzig was last reported in Chilean waters.

As matters stand the steamer is at anchor here without a name or a flag but with a full cargo aboard and with a master and crew ready to put to sea.

Recently she was reported sold to the Northern and Southern Navigation Company, a newly organized corporation, and ten days ago the owners applied to Washington for permission to register her as the Sacramento, under the American flag. Permission failing to come with the desired promptness, perhaps because of a strong protest from the British consul, a second application was lodged with the collector of the port for leave to clear for Valparaiso under the German flag and the old name.

The collector replied that he must be satisfied first of the vessel's neutrality and Rear-Admiral Pond placed an officer from the United States cruiser New Orleans on board.

TO PRISONERS ARRESTED

Berlin, Oct. 5, via The Hague to London, 9.05 p.m.—Edward Page Gaston, an American, who recently distributed blankets, underwear and clothing to British prisoners of war, was arrested yesterday when about to depart from the city.

The charge against him was not made public. James W. Gerard, the American Ambassador, is endeavoring to secure the release of Mr. Gaston.

Edward Page Gaston is well known in the United States and Europe as a journalist and lecturer. His home is at Harvey, Ill.

METHODIST CHURCH
TO HAVE RITUAL IN NEW HYMN-BOOKFIRST TIME IN HISTORY OF
METHODIST CHURCH THAT
RITUAL WILL BE EMBODIED

Ottawa, October 5.—For the first time in the history of the Methodist Church in Canada, some ritual will be embodied in the new hymn book for the church. The General Conference decided on this this afternoon. The ritual will include the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments, the Apostles' Creed, the questions and answers of the Reception Service, and the General Confession of the Service of the Lord's Supper.

Discussion on the report of the hymn book committee, of which Rev. Dr. S. P. Rose, of Montreal, was chairman, and Dr. A. D. Watson, of Toronto, was secretary, absorbed considerable time and was the feature of the business today.

The conference plans to conclude its business tomorrow and will sit until midnight if necessary.

The report of the hymn book committee provoked considerable debate. One of the first items to cause discussion was the recommendation that "amen" be sung only at the end of certain or suitable hymns. Some of the delegates favored singing amen at the close of all hymns.

Rev. Dr. Salem Eland, of Winnipeg, pointed out that some hymns are in the nature of a warning. The committee desire prevailed.

The conference favored embodying in the new hymn book the Lord's Prayer, the Apostles' Creed, the Ten Commandments, the questions and answers of the Reception Service, the General Confession of the Service of the Lord's Supper. This is a new departure as there is no ritual in the old hymn books.

There was a feeling amongst some of the delegates that the committee had in selecting hymns for the new book omitted to put in some of the best old tunes.

Rev. Dr. Bland suggested an appendix for the new volume in which some of the old favorites thrown out by the committee be placed. "Some of the old tunes have been dear to us since childhood," said Dr. Bland.

W. S. Dingman, of Stratford, Ont., said he had a good deal of sympathy for Dr. Bland's suggestion, but he did not favor an appendix. It would be better, Mr. Dingman said, to put the old tunes right in the book.

Rev. A. D. Watson, Toronto, secretary of the committee, appealed for the adoption of the recommendation of the committee.

Rev. W. H. Hall, Revelstoke, B.C., favored a canvass being taken of the different congregations throughout the country. The acceptance of the new book would mean a considerable break from the old associations.

An amendment that the new book be sent to the annual conference before it is approved, was lost. An amendment to the amendment that an appendix be added was also lost. The report was adopted.

Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, general superintendent, by virtue of being elected head of the church, will in future reside in Toronto. Two years ago he went to reside in Vancouver, primarily for the purpose of putting Ryerson Theological College on a practical working basis; also to attend to the affairs of the church in the west, while Rev. Dr. Carman, then general superintendent, attended to affairs in the east.

Rev. Dr. Carman informed the conference he would accept the position of general superintendent emeritus. A resolution expressing appreciation for the good work done in the mission field in the west by Rev. Dr. James Woodsworth, of Winnipeg, retiring superintendent of home missions, was passed, all the delegates standing as a significant mark of respect and approval.

ANOTHER VESSEL
STRIKES A MINEBRITISH STEAMER ARDMOUNT GOES DOWN, CREW WAS SAVED.

London, October 5.—Telegraphing from Ostend the Exchange Telegraph correspondent, says:

"The steamer Ardmount, loaded with grain, which left Dover at 6.30 o'clock this morning for Zeebrugge, Holland, struck a mine. Her crew of 35 was saved."

The Ardmount was from Galveston and it is reported that when she reached Falmouth last Saturday she was ordered on to Antwerp.

The British steamer Ardmount, a vessel of 3,510 tons, commanded by Captain Ronald, sailed from Galveston, on September 9th, and arrived at Falmouth on October 3rd, and sailed shortly afterwards for Antwerp. The Ardmount was owned by the Ashmont Steamship Company, of Glasgow.

REFUSED TO FIGHT BELGIANSGERMAN UHLAN CONVINCED
HE WAS TREACHEROUS IN-
VADER OF A FRIENDLY
COUNTRY

Antwerp, September. (By mail to New York).—A contributor to the Antwerp Socialist paper, De Volksgazet, who is a soldier with the Belgian army in the field, writes the following remarkable story.

Last Thursday we succeeded in making 13 German Uhlans prisoners of war. I was one of those ordered to guard them and to escort them from the theatre of battle. First we did not speak to our captured enemies. They, too, were little inclined to talk. As I could understand and speak German, I was ordered to address the commands to the prisoners.

One, a smartly built fellow, not too big, but broad shouldered, of manly and proud bearing, began to whisper all sorts of questions to me. He asked me where we were, what would happen to them, and whether the Belgian population were infuriated against the Germans.

At first I did not enter into any parley with the talkative Uhlans. Before answering any of his questions I asked him who he was, whence he came, and what had been his business in his own country. Imagine my amazement when he told me that he had been a paid official of a trade union in one of the largest towns in Prussia. Thus I stood face to face with a leading comrade in the labor movement.

It was now time for me to make myself known and to listen to him. I shall now repeat as faithfully as possible what my captured comrade told me.

"Our party," he began, "was fully occupied with an enthusiastic agitation against the war when we were being mobilized. Countless meetings, and even riotous demonstrations, were taking place throughout the length and breadth of the country. Day by day our press published violent articles against the war. In the last resort, Vorwaerts even addressed an appeal to the Emperor to preserve the peace. It availed us nothing. The Junker clique was bent on war."

"I am fully convinced, that it is the Kaiser and his satellites that are the chief culprits in the European war."

"We then had hastily to make all preparations to march to the frontier. Wherever we came our army was enthusiastically cheered by the overheated population. This caused my colleagues to go into raptures, but it made me feel sad. In the towns we heard nothing but 'Hochs' for the Kaiser and cries of 'to Paris' and 'to St. Petersburg!' Of our destination we had no knowledge. On arrival at Cologne our regiment was divided into two. We proceeded to Aix-la-Chapelle, where we remained for two days. I had a dread presentiment that we were going to march against the French. The report reached us there that Juarez had been murdered and that the revolution had broken out in Paris."

"With a feeling of great anguish, I heard the news of Juarez' death. In secret I wept bitterly. We loved him dearly, our great Juarez. He was the darling of the German Social-Democrats. He was the man who had drawn closer and closer the bond of fraternity between the German and French workers. They did not leave me much time to ponder over the great loss of the international. We had to advance, and to my horror—over the Belgian frontier."

"When that came clear to me, I finally settled it in my mind: I would not fight. Not that I am afraid, or a coward. Had I been sent to Russia, I would have fought to my last breath against the paid soldiers of the Tsar. But now I was told to become a treacherous invader to a friendly country and to deal out murder among a brave and industrious people. In Belgium, where the seat of the Socialist International is, in the country where Marx and Engels, driven from all lands, found a haven of refuge, in the country of the pioneers of the general strike—no never! I have kept my word, comrade. Now I am your prisoner of war, they may do with me what they will, but I can rest content in this."

When we parted we grasped each other's hand, and he said his most fervent wish was to see a speedy conclusion to the war, so that he might set to work again with his might in the organization of the working class.

PROTESTANT TEACHERS.

His Worship, Mr. N. Drouin, Mayor of Quebec, has generously placed at the disposal of the Protestant teachers.

Association rooms, in the City Hall, where the sessions of convention will be held during the days of Oct. 8, 9, and 10th.

The sight-seeing tours, which are to be special features of the convention will be made more interesting by the fact that through the kindness of the officers and members of the Boy Scouts' association, trained guides of this organization will conduct the tours as outlined on the programme and will also be on hand to direct visiting teachers to hotels and boarding houses.

HOW THE LEIPZIG
SECURED COAL
FROM "MAZATLAN"BRITISH WIRELESS OPERATOR
REFUSED TO COMMUNICATE WITH GERMAN CRUISER

San Francisco, Oct. 5.—The German cruiser Leipzig was coaled and supplied near Magdalena from the cargo of the German freighter Mazatlan, which left here Aug. 13, according to a story told today by C. D. Smith, wireless operator of the Mazatlan, to Rear-Admiral Pond, superintendent of the 12th United States naval district.

Smith said that the Leipzig took mail and supplies direct from the Mazatlan but took on board the coal after it had been transferred from the Mazatlan to another vessel. Smith is a British subject. He was ordered to communicate with the Leipzig off the Coast of Lower California, he said, but refused and wrecked the wireless apparatus of the freighter.

After much correspondence with Washington the Mazatlan, with 900 tons of coal aboard, was permitted to clear from San Francisco for Guaymas, Mex., Aug. 13, under $20,000 bond to deliver the coal as consigned.

Two days later, said Smith, Capt. Frederick Jensen, the owner, who is a German reservist; a German officer called Helle, and one Gustave Traub were taken on at San Pedro.

"When I refused to communicate with the Leipzig, I was threatened with a beating. To make good my refusal I put the apparatus out of commission," Smith declared.

"North of Magdalena Bay, however, we picked up the Leipzig and transferred mail and stores to her. The coal was carried to Guaymas where it was transferred to the German steamship Marie which in turn later coaled the Leipzig."

"Somehow the British cruiser Newcastle got wind of us and came cruising southward, but the Leipzig gave her the slip."

The Mazatlan was formerly under the Mexican flag. During the series of revolutions in Mexico she was transferred for safety to German registry and when the European war broke out she again hoisted the Mexican flag.

The coal she carried south was said to have been originally consigned to the Leipzig but later was declared to have been sold to others for delivery at Guaymas.

STATE DEPARTMENT FOR MORE RELIEF MONEY.

Washington, October 5.—Ambassador Morganthau, at Constantinople, has appealed to the State Department for additional funds for the relief of Americans in the Ottoman Empire. The recent deposit by this government of $150,000, has been found inadequate.

Ambassadors Page and Herrick, at London and Paris, respectively, were advised of the situation in an effort to make quickly available funds for Turkish distribution and steps also were taken in that direction by London officers.

THE BALKAN WAR IS NOW CHOSEN.

Paris, October 6.—12.15 a.m.—A despatch from Durazzo, dated October 4th, says that the Senate has named Essad Pasha, President of the provisional government of Albania. His 10,000 Albanian troops occupy strategic positions in the city.

Essad Pasha was formerly Albanian Minister of War and was also commander-in-chief of the Turkish forces at Scutari in the Balkan war. He was opposed to the rule of Prince William of Wied, who was appointed to the Albanian throne by the Powers.

GEN. VON MOLTKE DISMISSED
AS CHIEF OF GENERAL STAFFCLASH WITH THE KAISER OVER SEVERAL IMPOR-TANT QUESTIONS OF STRATEGY CAUSED HIS SUPERCESSION BY GENERAL VOIGHTSRHETZ.

here tonight that Lieut-General Helmuth von Moltke has been superseded by General Voigtsrhetz as chief of the German General Staff.

General von Moltke is a nephew of the great strategist of that name who engineered the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, and died in 1891. At the funeral in that year, the Kaiser told Major von Moltke, as he then was, that he would be promoted to the rank of personal aide-de-camp. He was promoted to be Major-General in 1899, and appointed commander of the First Infantry Brigade of the Guards at Potsdam, and he became Lieutenant-General in 1902.

On January 1st, 1906, General von Moltke assumed the office of chief of the General Staff, in succession to Count Schlieffen. It was common knowledge at that time that von Moltke did not consider himself qualified for so high an honor and strove hard to avoid it, even declining the office on two occasions, but the Imperial will was not to be thwarted.

General von Moltke has the reputation of being a serious, hard working soldier, as taciturn and silent as his more illustrious namesake, and a man who has done perhaps more to bring the German army to the fighting pitch than any other of his colleagues.

Of General Voigtsrhetz, who succeeds General von Moltke, very little can be gathered even from German reference books. His name is not even mentioned in "Wer Ist's." His father, however, was a great soldier, he was born in 1809, and rose to high rank in the Ministry of War. He commanded a division in 1870-71, and afterwards was appointed Governor-General of Hanover. He died in 1877 and had an infantry regiment named after him.

Thus the new chief of staff may be described as a dark horse, and it remains to be seen whether he has inherited his father's ability and whether he is a better man than the one he has displaced.

The military expert of The Standard, commenting on the removal of General von Moltke, says:

"If this is true, it is news indeed, it will constitute evidence of serious panic in high places. Even in minor affairs of the world, it is not often that the policy known as 'swapping horses while crossing a stream' is adopted."

"There must be something very gravely wrong indeed, if the Germans find it necessary to get rid of the man who originated and directed the whole of the strategy of their campaigns, and that at a vitally critical moment."

"At the same time one can understand that dissatisfaction is felt in high quarters with von Moltke's work, which has been often of a kind calculated to make his uncle of famous memory turn in his grave, but then we don't know how many of the mistakes were due to von Moltke's bad judgment and how many to interference with his work by the Emperor or his camarilla."

"One cannot for instance, believe that von Moltke of his own initiative and free will withdrew troops from France at a moment when they were urgently needed to secure a decisive result in that area of war. Having withdrawn them, one cannot either imagine von Moltke sending them on a useless errand to East Prussia when their presence in Galicia might have saved the Austrian army from disaster."

"But if he was responsible for such a fatuous policy, then supercession is not sufficient punishment. He should be sent to take a Landsturm division into action."

An Amsterdam despatch to The Daily Mail says that "the dismissal of General von Moltke was due to a collision with the Emperor over several important questions of strategy."

Continuing the despatch says the Emperor wished to subordinate sound

JAPANESE CAVALRY
AT TSING-CHOWCHINESE GOVERNMENT STILL
USING EFFORTS TO CAUSE
WITHDRAWAL OF TROOPS.

Peking, October 6.—The Japanese cavalry, the advance of the troops that are occupying the German-owned railway connecting the German leased possessions of Kiao Chow with Tsinan in the west of Shan-Tung, has reached Tsing-Chow, 35 miles west of Wei-Hsien.

The Japanese legation has promised the Chinese Foreign Office that Japan would occupy the railway with the fewest troops possible who would remain close to the line and that civilian railroad men would be brought from Japan to displace the soldiers as soon as was possible. Further all the Chinese railway employees would be continued in the service.

The Chinese government, however, will continue its diplomatic efforts to cause the Japanese to withdraw to the vicinity of Kiao-Chow. The Germans threaten to dynamite all the bridges and burn all the stations on the line if the Japanese continue their march westward.

A correspondent at Tsinan, north of Tsing-Tau who was compelled to leave that town because of illness, on September 26th, has arrived here. He reports that he saw no siege guns in the neighborhood of Tsing-Tau. The Japanese are proceeding leisurely he states, which supports the general understanding here that they are not yet ready to attack the formidable final line of the German defenses.

The British troops, like the Japanese, went to Kiao-Chow without tents and are camping in the open air at Tsinan, which is the Japanese headquarters. A correspondent at Hankow, under Monday's date, reports that the Russian garrison numbering 238, sailed for Vladivostok on Monday night. Japanese soldiers and British and French civilians displaying the flag of the Allies, witnessed the departure.

strategy to a desire to attack England, but General von Moltke preferred to postpone the latter action as it would have no effect upon the immediate situation.

The Emperor, adds the despatch, wished to reach a large number of airships and aeroplanes to attack England, but General von Moltke declared that all available air craft were needed in Europe.

MOTHER! GIVE CROSS SICK CHILD
ONLY "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"IF PEEVISH, FEVERISH, TON-GUE COATED, GIVE "FRUIT LAXATIVE" AT ONCE

No matter what ails your child a laxative should be the first treatment given.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign your "little one's" stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in just a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless fruit laxative. Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt!

QUEBEC, OCTOBER 6, 1914.

THE RUSSIAN FACTOR.

It is probable that the historian of the future in analyzing the causes of the final failure of the German rush on Paris, will give a share of the credit to the Russians. Rennenkampf's sensational foray into East Prussia, threatening Königsberg, the ancient home of the Prussian kings, and the crushing defeats sustained by the Austrians in Russian Poland and Galicia compelled the German General Staff at a critical moment in the western operations, to detach several army corps, probably five or six, from the western to the eastern theatre of war. The places thus vacated on the western lines were filled by men from the reserves, older men less able to sustain the rigors of forced marches and hard fighting. With the arrival of these reinforcements the German forces in East Prussia took the offensive and drove the Russians out; but while they were doing this the offensive in France had passed from the Germans to the Allies. It is conceivable that if the German authorities had had the hardihood to abandon East and West Prussia to the Russians, making their stand, with the forces at their disposal, behind the fortified camps along the Vistula, the plan for a victorious march upon Paris might have been carried out successfully. But time, the Russians, and the Allies were all prime factors; and the Germans found they could not control them all.

The critical situation, which thus proved to be too much for the German General Staff, will recur again and again in the war. With the Russian tide rising against the boundaries of Germany, the Kaiser has again to choose between having his forces on the offensive in France and keeping the Russians out of German territory. Immense as are his armies, the task of carrying on a successful offensive in both France and Russia is one beyond the powers at his disposal. To weaken further his fighting line in France means a retreat upon the fortifications along the frontier; not to do this is to make it probable that the sacred soil of Prussia will echo to the tread of the Czar's millions.

We may see a complete reversal of the original plan of campaign. The Germans may fall back upon their defences along the Rhine and take the offensive in force against the Russians in Poland and Galicia. Indeed, if the Russian successes continue, these tactics will be imposed upon the Germans by the fact that Berlin lies much nearer the Russian than the French frontier. An offensive campaign in the west and a defensive campaign in the east would be the shortest road to defeat for Germany.

THE VANDAL SPIRIT

The resourcefulness that is being displayed in the attempts to make it appear that the destruction of Louvain and the demolition of Rheims cathedral were anything rather than twentieth century manifestations of the barbarian spirit of the Vandals is far from successful in convincing the civilized world. It is noteworthy that one of the facts urged on behalf of the Germans in this connection has turned out to have an exactly opposite significance from that which it was sought to have it carry.

This fact is that in 1870-71 the Germans refrained from demolishing Paris. Is not this proof, it has been triumphantly asked, that vandalism cannot be charged against German militarism? Unfortunately for this argument, there is the strongest possible evidence, namely, that of Bismarck himself, that it was only the influence strongly exerted by Queen Victoria and by her daughter, the wife of the then Crown Prince and mother of the present Emperor, that Paris was not bombarded.

Bismarck, to whom any compunction about smashing a great and beautiful and historic city into ruins was nothing but sentimental nonsense, was eager for the bombardment. But the Crown Prince, won over by the pleadings of Queen Victoria and of his wife, succeeded in having the bombardment deferred. This is recorded in the memoirs of Bismarck's secretary, Moritz Busch:

"It appeared from some further remarks of the Minister that in his opinion, first Queen Victoria, and then at her instance the Crown Prince, and, finally, the Crown Prince, persuaded by his consort, will not have Paris bombarded."

Bismarck at once had his "reptile press" in Germany, his "inf-beasts" to use his own expression, make attacks on the Crown Prince, later the Empress, whom he hated for her English sympathies. Was it true humanity he asked, to let gallant soldiers suffer to save a hostile city from damage? The Geneva Convention, with its checks on warfare, must be denounced; it was impossible, Bismarck said, to conduct war in that manner. The trouble lay with the King and the Crown Prince: "They want to be praised. They like to have it said in the English and the French press that they are considerate and generous."

When the bombardment did begin, it was jealously watched and Bismarck suppressed as "impolitic" news that shells had fallen in the Luxembourg Garden. Were it not for the strong English influences at the Berlin Court which saved Paris from a ruthless bombardment, Prussian militarism would not have exercised the self-restraint which is now claimed as a virtue. Busch records, further, that Bismarck said to him in Berlin that "the Queen and the Crown Princess had become very unpopular on account of the intervention in behalf of Paris."

Another historical fact which has been brought into prominence by this attempt to account it for righteousness unto German militarism that it did not destroy Paris in 1870-71 is that after Waterloo the Prussians under Blucher attempted to blow up the Pont d'Iena in Paris and were only prevented by Wellingtons placing a guard of British troops on that structure. The vandal spirit of Prussian militarism has thus twice been checked at Paris by British influences.

BLUE BLOOD SHED.

The casualty returns from the scene of the war reveal the fact that the blood of the nobility of Europe is mingling freely with that of the peasants on the battlefields. Proportionately the aristocracy is contributing the largest number to the toll of death. The bullets and shells that mow down the rank and file do not spare the officers. There is no discrimination of birth or position with these death-dealing missiles. Nearly every able-bodied man of the so-called upper classes is engaged in the war either with the land or sea forces. Most of them are officers and the percentage of deaths among them has been remarkably high. In the European countries military service is compulsory which accounts for so many of the nobility being in action. Although not a conscript nation, the best families in Britain are strongly represented at the front. Austria, the haughtiest of all nations, has suffered the most, for her losses have fallen upon the crack regiments. Germany, France and Russia are not much behind and Britain has contributed her full quota.

Should the war be prolonged the result can scarcely be imagined. The death of a young man may end a direct line of princes. Titles will pass to younger brothers or distant relatives. Direct heirs to estates will fall. The French revolution worked marvelous changes among the aristocracy. Great estates were confiscated and sold as small holdings.

A similar breaking up may result from the present war, with a curtailment of class privileges and a corresponding increase in opportunities for the tillers of the soil.

PRESS COMMENT.

Rochester is the chief centre in the United States for the manufacture of fine shoes. Manufacturers in that line are now inclined to think the war will benefit more than it will injure them. A good market, it is believed, can be worked up in South America, where European wares have hitherto been sold. But the most encouraging feature of the situation is the chance for a sufficient supply of leather at reasonable prices. One firm of tanners says: "Germany, which has always been a great factor in the hide market, is out of the running, and all the smaller countries which have been shipping hides to her are turning their goods to us. I believe that all the shoe factories are supplied for six months ahead, and that business will be better this year than ever before." If this is true in the United States, conditions ought to be equally favorable for the industry here. One of the Rochester men, by the way, says there is a big demand for army shoes of the cheaper class, which are not made in Rochester. This will help the factories in Massachusetts, and it may help some of our factories in Quebec. Many of the American factories are not only working full time, but taking on extra help.—Hamilton Herald.

The unity of a nation when engaged in a great struggle is one of the most important factors that enters into its efforts. There seems no doubt that Germany looked for internal political strife in Great Britain and disaffection in India to prevent the best effort being given to the struggle. So, too, in all probability Berlin expected that the labor troubles which prevailed in Russia up to the very outbreak of the war, together with disaffection among the Jews and the Pole, would be checks upon the effort that Russia might be able to put forward. In both these suppositions the advisers of the Kaiser made grievous errors of judgment. We are well acquainted with the facts as regards Great Britain, how a truce was declared in the Irish question and the support of Irishmen unanimously to the British Government; how, far from insurrection breaking out in India, that great Eastern Empire, has volunteered its assistance to Britain in a way that has astonished even Englishmen. With regard to Russia there has been a parallel situation. The Poles have dropped their racial hatred and are today fighting with all their might for the Russian cause. So, too, the Jews, who form such an important element of the empire's population, have manifested a striking patriotism and are giving full support to the country's cause. Close observers of Russian conditions are declaring that no country will come out of this war so vastly changed as will Russia. They see in the unanimity with which the various peoples of the empire have entered upon this war the foundation upon which will be built a new national feeling that will make the Russians one of the great peoples of the world in days to come. We have been accustomed to thinking of Russia as a semi-barbaric nation. That is partly because attention has been directed to its barbaric features, the Cossacks, Siberia, etc. It would be possible to view the British Empire in quite the same light were attention directed only to its barbaric possessions and peoples. But there is another Russia, the Russia that has, within the last generation given the world great treasures in literature and music. A nation that is producing the literature of Russia of today is no barbarism, but a great powerful influence in the civilization of these modern days. The result to be expected from a war as widespread as the present one must be a readjustment of the powers. There will be some former great nations which will come out of the conflict reduced to second rate powers. That result seems to have almost been made a fact already in the case of Austria. There will be other former minor powers which will probably come out of the war stronger than when they went in. Servia and Montenegro are almost sure to gain strength in the event of the Allies being victorious. Belgium, too, should surely gain more than the mere money compensation that is owed for the suffering she has endured. Political effects can be produced by two months of war that a century might not accomplish in times of peace.—London Free Press.

DOMINION GRAIN COMMISSION SITS.

Toronto, October 5.—The Dominion Grain Commission today heard final argument against the proposed advanced storage charges for grain in the elevators at the different lake ports, and at the elevators of the Montreal Warehousing Company. Dr. Magill, chairman of the commission, stated that the members would defer rendering judgment until they had looked into figures submitted by both sides.

Had No Power Over the Limbs

Locomotor Ataxia, Heart Trouble and Nervous Spells Yielded to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It would be easy to tell you how Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures locomotor ataxia and derangements of heart and nerves, but it may be more satisfactory to you to read this letter. Mrs. Thos. Allan, R.F.D. 3, Sombra Ont., writes: "Five years ago I suffered a complete breakdown, and frequently had palpitation of the heart. Since that illness I have had dizzy spells, had no power over my limbs (locomotor ataxia) and could not walk straight. At night I would have severe nervous spells, with heart palpitation, and would shake as though I had the ague. I felt improvement after using the first box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after continuing the treatment can now walk, eat and sleep well, have no nervous spells and do not require heart medicine. I have told several of my neighbors of the splendid results obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food." How to Destroy the Dandruff Germ

BY A SPECIALIST.

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well-known fact, but when we realize that it is also indirectly responsible for many other diseases as well, we appreciate the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are, therefore, particularly pleased to give herewith the prescription which an eminent scientist states he has found after repeated tests, to completely destroy the dandruff germ in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of partial baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you: 6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavone de Composee, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger-tips. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. While this preparation is not a dye it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color.

IN AND ABOUT TOWN

CANADIAN-BORN WILL RESPOND

WRITER OF OPINION, NATIVE CANADIAN, WILL ANSWER SECOND CALL TO ARMS

Editor Chronicle;

Dear Sir:—With regard to the comparatively small proportion of Canadian-born volunteers in our first contingent, I think that there is a reasonable explanation of the fact in the history of our political and national development. It is due neither to lack of courage nor lack of loyalty, and I am convinced that a much larger proportion will come forward for a second contingent as the knowledge become more widespread, and the conviction more profound, that the present war is a momentous struggle for those principles of liberty for which the Empire stands.

It must be remembered, firstly, that, so far as English-speaking Canada is concerned, the native-born Canadians anywhere from one to about six generations back. Next, that the great task since Confederation has been that of breaking down provincialism, and moulding an all-Canadian spirit. This has been a most necessary step in our own development, and it has surely been necessary for the development of the Imperial outlook. For one example of the development of a Canadian spirit, consider the absolute neglect of Canadian History in our Canadian Universities a quarter of a century ago as contrasted with the large amount of attention given to the subject today.

For nearly half a century we have been developing, rightly, a broader Canadian spirit. It was our obvious national duty, but if at the first "call of the blood," the response was greatest from those who had been born in the British Isles, we have still good grounds for hope that a second call will bring out a contingent in which the native-born English and French will preponderate. The sense of Imperial responsibility has been naturally of slower growth than that of national consciousness; but, the great principles involved in the present war may be expected yet to give it a profound impetus.

Unquestionably, also, the second aid should be given as promptly as possible—indeed at once.

YOUNG GIRL'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER

AND LANDED HERE—SUSPECTED TO BE VICTIM OF MONTMAGNY-LANGAN COLLISION

The body of a young girl, supposed to be that of one of the victims of the ill-fated steamer Montmagny, was picked up down the river yesterday.

The steamer Querida, Captain Lund from Anticosti, which arrived here yesterday afternoon, reports picking up the body of a girl, aged about fifteen years, just below Crane Island. When the Querida arrived here at 7 p.m., the body was taken ashore in one of Mr. George Pederson's boats and landed on the King's wharf. Mr. Pederson notified the coroner, who had the remains transferred to Moisan's morgue, where an inquest will be held.

From the fact that the body was found near Crane Island, it is supposed to be that of one of the victims of the ill-fated C.G.S. Montmagny, which sank in that vicinity after being in collision with the steamer Langan, some time ago.

ANOTHER BODY

PICKED UP.

C.G.S. Montmagny, which arrived from below last evening, picked up the body of a woman in the river. It was clad in a night dress. Around the neck was a glass necklace, while on a finger was a wedding ring, which was cut. There were no marks of violence on the body. It was conveyed to Moisan's morgue.

PRAISE FOR CONTINGENT

The following resolution, adopted by the Manchester, England, Association of Importers and Exporters, has been received by the Secretary of the Quebec Board of Trade:

Manchester, Sept. 25th, 1914.

T. Levasseur, Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Quebec, Can.

Sir:—By order of the Council I enclose herewith a copy of a resolution of the Manchester Association of Importers and Exporters which, it is believed, will be of interest to your members.

Yours faithfully,

J. L. WILSON GOODE,

Secretary

The Manchester Association of Importers and Exporters have placed on record the following resolution:

"The Association representing all classes of the mercantile and manufacturing community of this district hereby give expression to their feelings of gratitude for and admiration of the spirit of loyalty and devotion to the British Empire shown at this crisis by the King's Overseas Dominions and possessions in offering the services of their troops and by giving valuable assistance in other ways.

"The united services of the soldiers of His Majesty the King assembled from all parts of the Empire to take part in this great war will further strengthen the ties and interests which already bind together the various sections of the Empire in one united whole.

At a meeting of the Firemen's Benevolent Association, it has been resolved that the Association, not being able to subscribe an amount for the Patriotic Fund, the committee of this said Association has unanimously decided that one or more of its members who shall unfortunately fall on the field of honor for the Motherland, that their widows and orphans will benefit of their rights as in the past.

JUDGMENT IN THE

FLORISTON CASE

Captain Demers, Dominion Wreck Commissioner, will render judgment in the Admiralty Court this morning at 10 o'clock in the case of the steamer Floriston.

It will be remembered that the steamer Floriston, grain-laden, while on the passage from Montreal to the United Kingdom, struck an iceberg near Belle Isle, and was subsequently beached on the Coast of Newfoundland. An investigation was held in the case some days ago, hence the decision this morning.

An investigation will be opened in the Admiralty Court this afternoon at three o'clock into the cause which led to the collision between the C.G.S. Montmagny and steamer Langan, off Crane Island some days ago by which the Montmagny was sunk.

PRESENTATION.

Mr. W. Walsh Given Purse of Gold on Eve of His Marriage.

Mr. Walter Walsh who is about to be married to Miss Duplain of this city, was the object of a flattering demonstration at the Victoria Hotel last evening, where a number of his friends gathered and presented him with a well filled purse of gold. The address was read by Mr. Kirk, and the presentation made by Mr. W. J. McNamara.

Following a very suitable reply from the recipient, the usual toasts were proposed and responded to. There were speeches and songs among those contributing being Messrs. Holmes, McNamara, Jobin and Perry. Those present included Dr. McKay, Messrs. L. Hamel, E. Beland, P. O'Brien, George Quart, J. A. Van Dolson and others.

THE CITY AND THE Q.R.L.H. & P.CO.

CITY ENGINEER-LOOKING INTO COMPLAINTS AGAINST "FLAT" CAR WHEELS

"The City of Quebec is certainly making an effort to compel the Q. R. L. & P. Co., to remedy the conditions which from the number of complaints received appear to be far from satisfactory as regards the rolling stock of the company, and Mr. Baillarge, the city engineer, has been instructed to take the matter up with the management in order that steps may be taken to improve matters along these lines."

The above statement was made by His Worship, Mayor Drouin, to a Chronicle reporter in a reply to a query by the latter as to what action was contemplated by the city to reduce the complaints made by the public against the noise and general inconvenience supplied through the apparently worn equipment of the local street railway company.

Mr. W. D. Baillarge, city engineer, stated that the Q. R. L. H. & P. Co. had been duly approached or reproached in the matter, and he understood measures were in the course of consideration which were calculated to minimize the annoyance caused by "flat" wheeled cars. The question will be taken up further on the return of Mr. C. J. Pigot, the company's engineer, and it is to be hoped that some solution will be discovered.

"The company contends," said Mr. Baillarge, "that the hills of Quebec, together with the climatic conditions, are in a great degree responsible for the extraordinary pressure and wear on the car wheels. The hills necessitating the constant application of the brakes cause such wear on the wheels that in a short time they become uneven, while on the other hand it is alleged that the intense cold weather of winter and the usual thaw in spring time tends to raise the tracks slightly, naturally rendering the road far from smooth."

The city engineer is under the impression that the company is prepared to remedy conditions, but the main point, according to them, is the submission of a feasible plan to offset the unusual difficulties which are to be met only in a city built on a hill such as Quebec is.

"What about the absence of passenger signal bells in some of the pay-as-you-enter cars and very often the neglect to renew the batteries of those installed?" Also, can nothing be done to remedy the noisy, creaking, and rattling, as well as the jangling sound when the cars come to a stop?

To these questions Mr. Baillarge replied that all complaints would be looked into thoroughly upon the return of Mr. Pigot.

It is trusted that the efforts of the city engineer will be successful, as it is about time that something was done to relieve the sufferings of the public in this direction.

WILL INSPECT THE PORT IMPROVEMENTS

MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF TRADE TO VISIT WORKS THIS AFTERNOON.

The members of the Quebec Board of Trade will be the guest of the Quebec Harbor Commissioners this afternoon for an inspection tour of the harbor to see the improvements which have been made during the past season.

Government steamer Lady Grey will be at the disposal of the members of the Board, and will sail from the Harbor Commission pontoon at the Customs House at 2.30 o'clock this (Tuesday) afternoon.

All members of the Board of Trade are cordially invited.

Something Different in Fur.

The long, cool evenings are now with us, when thoughts turn to the most fascinating of all things—FURS. The warm, thick-furred Raccoon always considered a good fur can now be had dyed a beautiful glossy black with none of its original wearing qualities impaired. Having all the richness of the more expensive fox, it far surpasses that fur in durability.

We have made this fur in many fascinating shapes, both for the young lady and matron, in plain sets of single animal shape or else two or more skins put together in a charming manner, showing just enough heads and tails to be in good taste.

Sets as low as $36.00.

Furs purchased now may be left with us till required.

SPARKLE WATT'S VICTORY FEATURED

VETERAN "POP" GEERS DROVE WINNER HOME IN SPLENDID
FASHION

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 5.—The victory of Frank G. Jones' Sparkle Watts driven by the veteran "Pop" Geers in the $5,000 two-year-old trotting futurity, featured the program of the opening day of the Grand Circuit meeting on the grounds of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association today. After losing the first heat to General French, Geers came back in the second and won in a driving finish, repeating in the third, a neck ahead of Native Spirit.

GERMAN PRESS IS OPTIMISTIC

THINKS GERMANY'S MANY TROOPS WILL PREVENT
OUTFLANKING MOVEMENT

London, Oct. 6, 6:20 p.m.—A despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Amsterdam says:

"In a long and optimistic review of the situation in both the eastern and western theatres of the war the military correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt, Major Morath, though apparently not well pleased with the scarcity of news from German headquarters, says that the German general staff has sufficient fresh troops at its disposal to oppose fresh troops and British tactical attempts to outflank the German right wing and to attack the German flank.

"It is Major Morath's opinion that the long drawn out line of the allied forces will be the cause of their final defeat.

"Reviewing the situation in the Argonne the writer maintains that the fall of Verdun, despite the activity of the garrison of Toul, is approaching. Though the German offensive is hindered by the strong resistance of these fortresses this resistance will at the same time weaken the French east army."

IRVING'S HEAD

Why The Spot That Washington
Touched Could Not Be Seen

Among Dr. George Haven Putnam's early recollections was a meeting with Washington Irving. He tells of it in his "Memories of My Youth." The Irving home was near Yonkers and the Putnam family occasionally visited their neighbors. Dr. Putnam remembers one Sunday afternoon when his father was busy arranging some of Mr. Irving's papers and the old gentleman took pains to give him some word about his own childhood. "His mother told him some years later, when he was old enough to be interested in historical events and personages, that when he was a year old the nurse, taking him out in his baby carriage, saw at the corner of Broadway General Washington passing by on horseback. The nurse, holding up the little boy, called out to the general that here was a boy that had been named after him, and she hoped that the general would be willing to give the boy his blessing.

"Little Washingtons were not so plenty in 1784 as they became in later years, and the general was quite ready to delay his ride for the purpose of giving a greeting to his little namesake. He took the boy up on the saddle and, placing his hand upon the little one's head, gave him a formal blessing. I looked up with interest at the head that had been touched by Washington, and then found myself perplexed at Mr. Irving's word that I should not see

FEDERALS MAKE CHANCE AN OFFER

ONCE PEERLESS LEADER HAS
NOT YET DECIDED TO AC-CEPT.

Chicago, October 5.—James A. Gilmore, president of the Federal Baseball League, tonight said that his organization had offered Frank Chance the former manager of the New York American Club, the management of a Federal League club next season. Chance, he said, had taken a short time to consider the offer. He said if Chance refused, the Federals would make no further effort to obtain his services. Chance and Mrs. Chance resumed their automobile trip to California today.

AWAITING TICKETS TO WORLD'S SERIES

SALE BEGINS WEDNESDAY—
CROWD ALREADY IN LINE
FOR TICKETS.

Philadelphia, October 5.—Although the public sale of world's series baseball tickets does not begin until nine o'clock on Wednesday morning, a line of prospective purchasers half block long had taken up their places early tonight in front of the department store where the tickets will be placed on sale. One enterprising young man camped on a soap box at the head of the line at 7 o'clock this morning. He is Joseph Banks, of Camden, N.J., and says that he and his brother, by taking turns in holding the coveted place, hope to secure the first tickets disposed of. They are for his father, who, he said, had not missed a championship series for many years.

Several of the men and boys in line did not hesitate to say that they would dispose of their places if they received a fair offer. Many in the waiting line had come prepared to spend the night as was evidenced by the lunch boxes and cushions they carried. Crowds of onlookers surrounded the line and a detail of police was on hand to keep order.

WOMAN ELOPES WITH 'HALF-BREED'

COUPLE MARRIED 22 YEARS—
HUSBAND WORRIED OVER
MONEY SHE STOLE

Cornwall, Ont., October 5.—Mrs. W. Holbeck, of Duquesne, Penn., deserted her husband last July, running off with an Indian halfbreed named F. Good, and a thousand dollars of Mr. Holbeck's savings. The loss of the money seemed to trouble the wronged husband almost as much as the elopement of his wife, after twenty two years of married life, but there were still $2,000 in the bank in Duquesne, and this he proceeded to safeguard. The thousand Mrs. Holbeck made off with had been deposited in the bank in her name, as well as the remaining two thousand—such was the husband's confidence in the wife before the Indian lured her away. First, Mr. Holbeck stopped payment of the $2,000. Then he began a search for the missing woman. She was discovered yesterday near Massena, N.Y., across the river from Cornwall, driving with her halfbreed lover, and compelled in the highway to sign off her claim to the remaining two thousand dollars. She was then allowed to go her way in peace, while the husband returned to Duquesne.

"FABER SYSTEM"

Longspan Reinforced Hollow-Tile Flooring

This system of Fireproof Flooring consists of porous hollow tiles bonded into slabs, it does away with the beams and may be used for every ordinary span and live load in buildings of all kind.

It is a very cheap floor, because its simple construction makes a great saving in labor and material; it is the lightest and thinnest without exception, on the market.

It is fireproof, being built up with hollow terra cotta blocks, cemented together and reinforced by steel rods, it is classified by the British Fire Prevention Committee under "Full Protection."

The safest and strongest without exception.

WILL INVESTIGATE COAL VESSELS

MANY HAVE LEFT AMERICAN
PORTS LADEN WITH COAL
LATELY

London, Oct. 5, 9:12 p.m.—An official investigation is being made regarding the movements of a number of vessels which left American ports carrying coal, presumably bound for ports which have not been reached. While there is no disposition on the part of the British Government to question the efforts of the American Government to prevent the coaling of German warships by vessels from American ports, it is explained that every effort is being exerted to forestall a repetition of the coaling of the German cruiser Karlsruhe.

DECREASE IN CHILD PROTECTION

WHILE SOCIETIES FOR PRO-TECTION OF ANIMALS HAVE INCREASED IN NUMBER.

Atlantic City, N.J., Oct. 5.—Humane societies for the care of children have decreased in number during the past year from 313 to 307 while societies devoted to the protection of animals have increased from 180 to 191, according to reports submitted today at the opening of the annual convention of the American Humane Association. The number of children cared for by the societies last year was 191,964 as compared to 177,747 during the previous year. The number of animals that received attention by the societies devoted to them increased from 2,539,186 to 6,345,707.

G. A. H. Scott, Secretary of the Illinois Humane Society, deplored the fact that many organizations for the welfare of children are inactive while those that specialize in the protection of animals are energetic in securing the enforcement of the laws.

BRITISH WANT 500,000 SWEATERS.

Philadelphia, October 5.—Agents of the British government, it was reported here today, are securing bids from local knit goods manufacturers for 500,000 sweaters similar to those recently furnished the United States army. Yarn dealers have been asked to quote figures for the necessary yarns.

GERMANS SEIZE DYE-STUFFS FOR U. S.

New York, Oct. 5.—Dye-stuffs valued at $500,000, shipped from Basel, Switzerland, by Walter F. Sykes, of the firm of Walter F. Sykes and Co., of this city, and consigned for America by way of Rotterdam, Holland, were seized on Sept. 14 by the German Government. Such is the information contained in a cable despatch received here.

A protest against the seizure has been lodged with the State Department at Washington, and Secretary Bryan is said to have notified Ambassador Gerard at Berlin to use every endeavor to persuade the German Government to release the shipment. According to the despatch, the dye-stuffs were taken by Germany one day before the German Government issued an edict forbidding the shipment of chemicals from Germany. The dye-stuffs are urgently needed by American textile manufacturers, who, it is said, have faced a shortage of dyes since the war started.

DOCTORS AT FRONT DO GREAT WORK

London, Oct. 5.—The Times' medical correspondent, who went to France to investigate the medical organization on the British side, sends a reassuring report.

He visited the hospital in the Astoria, which is in charge of the British Red Cross Society. There a wounded officer said:

"Our army doctors were magnificent. One of them I saw going about his work in the trenches under a heavy fire. A shell burst quite near him. The concussion threw him back but, though he must have been dazed about a quarter of an hour, he went on steadily with the work of dressing the wounded and making every one as comfortable as possible.

"Considering the huge amount of work to be done, it is remarkable how soon help was at hand. The Royal Army Medical Corps worked day and night to undertake all their work. Nothing that devotion and courage could do was left undone.

"The work of clearing the trenches demands everything of strength, endurance and bravery that men may have to give it. The task is a colossal strain on the workers and necessarily tremendous.

"It is foolish to suppose that a great battlefield can be cleared of its wounded within an hour and probably under a damaging fire.

"It is impossible to imagine a more excellently equipped hospital than the Astoria or of the serenity and comfort which characterizes the whole institution.

"Thanks to the extraordinary amount of care, many of the wounds which, in other less favorable circumstances must prove fatal, the healing in a most satisfactory manner. The operating theatre appointments represent the last word in modern surgical science."

MONTREAL VOTES $7500 FOR AID

AMOUNT WILL MAINTAIN TEN
HOSPITAL BEDS IN PARIS
FIVE MONTHS

Montreal, Oct. 5.—The sum of $1,500 was voted by the City Council today for the maintenance of ten hospital beds in Paris for five months. The proposed vote of credit of $10,000 for the Belgian relief fund was deferred owing to a misunderstanding as to the legality of money being taken from the loan account, and it will come up later.

As a result of the slack times Aid. Weldon suggested that the City Hall staff should be reduced and the recent vote for salary increases be rescinded. These questions were referred to the Board of Control.

SUBMARINE IN ITALY DISAPPEARS

LIEUTENANT IN CHARGE STAT-ED EXPLANATION WOULD BE FORTHCOMING.

London, Oct. 5, 10:30 p.m.—A despatch to the Canadian News from Rome, says:

"A submarine boat which has just been completed in a private shipyard near Spezia, on the Gulf of Spezia, has disappeared and it is declared that a retired naval lieutenant, Angelo Belini, who was in charge of her, has taken the vessel to some unknown destination.

"The submarine was out for trial in the Gulf of Spezia and when she did return a torpedo boat was sent to search for her.

Lieut. Belini in a letter to the firm that constructed the boat said he would furnish an explanation for the disappearance of the craft. He added that the crew of the submarine was ignorant of his plans."

GERMAN RETREAT BECOMES A ROUT.

Rome, via Paris, October 5.—The Russian Embassy here tonight made public an official communication received from the Russian Headquarters Staff, saying:

"The defeat of the Germans is complete. Their retreat is changing into a rout that is so disorderly and precipitated that they are forced to abandon everything.

"Two Russian armies are proceeding, one from the west and another from the south, toward Allenstein (in East Prussia, 50 miles south-east of Elbing).

"The German losses have not yet been officially ascertained, but it is estimated that they had 70,000 men disabled."

JAPANESE SEIZE GERMAN ISLAND.

Tokio, Oct. 6.—The Navy Department this morning issued the following official statement:

"The Japanese squadron delegated to destroy the German fleet in the South Sea has landed bluejackets on Jaluit Island, the seat of government, in the Marshall Archipelago, which was annexed by Germany in 1886.

"It is believed the German base was destroyed and that the fortifications, arms and ammunition were seized. A British steamer in port was released. There was no resistance to the Japanese."

HOW TO GET RID OF DYSPEPSIA

Don't Rely on Medicine; Don't Go on Freak Diet; Common Sense and an Antacid Usually All That Are Needed

"If you have dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach, belching, distress after eating, heartburn or any other stomach trouble due to hyperacidity (the usual cause of stomach troubles), you should take no medicine to act upon the stomach itself. That is positively not the way to cure the trouble. Again you should not half starve yourself by going without the nutritious food that you need to rebuild waste tissues. Some foods are not good for people even when in perfect health—very rich, sweet, highly seasoned dishes. Avoid these, but eat fairly substantial meals of plain foods. Eat slowly. Even if you drink nothing but water, you should not drink with meals. Drink before and after eating. Do not take pepsin or other artificial digestants. If you follow the foregoing simple instructions it is probable that you will not need any medicine at all except, if you want to call it medicine, a little antacid after meals. The best antacid is ordinary bisubated magnesia, which can be purchased at any drug store. This is not to act upon the stomach but on the contents of the stomach. The antacid, as you can learn by consulting your dictionary or encyclopedia, the excess acid so the stomach can digest the food normally. Take a teaspoonful of bisubated magnesia in a little cold or hot water after each meal. You should get immediate relief, even if your case is severe. Careful, moderate eating and the use of bisubated magnesia should put your stomach in normal condition in a short time; if you have not allowed dyspepsia to advance to the extreme stage of developing stomach ulcers,

A VALUABLE INVENTION

INVENTOR.

Ed. Gaboury,

By Edouard Gaboury

WITNESSES.

The invention deals with the perfecting of "joints of rails," in which figure (1) is a view of the plan of the invention.

The invention is more particularly adaptable to electric roads, and its object is to keep the two ends of the rail level in order to prevent adverse electric contacts, shocks and derailments. Nevertheless, this invention is also applicable to ordinary rails of railroads in order to avoid all jolts or shocks.

In conformity with the invention, a long plaque knits the joint of the rails, and have not the ordinary fish plates. Plate or blocks are adapted to hold the rail on the bed.

Letters in the illustration indicate where the parts are to be joined. (1) and (2) designate the ends of the rails at the points where they are joined, having the support of the clog, (3).

(4) is the plate forming the bed with a flat surface. (5) This plaque (4) is placed under the points of the rails of which clog (3) is retained (4) is placed under the joint of the

against the surface of plate (5) by means of blocks (6) having an indentation (7). (8) is a prolongation of blocks (6) which repose on clog (3) and the vertical wall (9) prevents all lateral movements of the rails in connection with the bed (4).

According to the drawings four blocks or plates (6) are attached to the bed (4) two on each side of the rails, by means of the bolts, (10).

It indicates a pair of fish plates attached to the blade of the rail in the ordinary way. It is evident that the end of the rail rests on the bed plates (4) forming a rigid support which will obviate all shaking or shocks, and the plates of blocks (6) prevent all lateral movement of the rails. If the end of one rail becomes worn before the other, it is evident that it may easily be raised by means of the leaves of metal placed between the blade (3) and the bed, (4).

On electric roads any known convenient means may be employed to retain the rails end to end, but the duration will be prolonged if this invention is adopted which prevents all movements between the rails and the bed.

This is what I claim I have invented and I want to secure protection by means of a patent:—

1.—"In a 'joint of rails,' the combination between two rails end to end having the ordinary blade forms the bed having a flat surface. A pair of blocks, or cramp-irons, are added to the surface of the said bed, the said cramp-iron having a protection resting on the blade of each rail and bolts holding the said cramp-irons of the bed, consequently retain a constant contact with the blade and the superior surface of the bed as described.

2.—"In the 'joint of rails,' the combination between two rails end to end, and the fish plates holding the said rails, long plates forming a bed placed under the joint of the rails, having a level surface on which the ends of the rails are rested, cramp-irons adapted on the flat surface of the said bed cut out in a manner to form a tongue resting on the blade of the rail and a vertical wall on the said tongue in order to prevent all lateral movement of the rails in their relation with the roadbed, as described."

NO DECISIVE RESULTS

London Times Emphasizes Value of Russian Victory

London, Oct. 6.—The London Times in its war summary dismisses all the news from France in three words, "no decisive results!"

Of Russia's attack on Germany's north-eastern frontier, it says: "It is now certain that the Russian army under General Rennenkampf has inflicted a very serious defeat upon Germans under command of General Hindenburg. The German loss is very heavy. It is estimated that the total force engaged on both sides in this battle is not less than half a million men.

"The importance of General Rennenkampf's victory is great. The Germans, under General Hindenburg were flushed with success. They had checked the too precipitate Russian advance across East Prussia and had raised the investment of Koenigsburg and had driven the invader over the East Prussian frontier.

"Now they have met the Russian counter stroke, and this first shock of the great encounter that is impending between the armies of Russia on one side and Germany and Austria-Hungary on the other has gone heavily against the Germans.

"The main Russian army on the lower Vistula has yet to come into contact with the enemy, but the screen of Cossacks on its flanks has already got into touch with the Germans."

NO REPORT OF RAINBOW ACTION.

Ottawa, Oct. 5.—G. J. Desbarats, deputy minister of the naval service, states that the Department has received no report of the Rainbow being in an engagement, and the wounded being at Victoria. The cruiser reported to the Department on Friday night off the British Columbia coast. "It is, of course, possible that she has been in action, but not probable, and we have no report of it," said the deputy minister. "They would report immediately."

$15,000 FOR PRINCE WALES' FUND

PRINCE HOPES PORTION WILL BE APPLIED TO RELIEVE CIVIL DISTRESS.

London, October 5—9.15 p.m.—The Prince of Wales Fund has reached $15,000,000 and the Prince has issued a letter expressing his thanks for the generous contributions.

"I trust," he says, in the letter, "that the portion of the fund which will be applied to the relief of civil distress may, as far as possible, flow into productive channels, such as assisting schemes for male and female employment and perhaps industrial training, for it is repugnant to me, as it must be to the recipients, that assistance should be distributed only in the form of doles."

EMPEROR PENGUINS.

Very Ceremonious They Are With Their Bows and Speeches.

In Sir Ernest Shackleton's "The Heart of the Antarctic," there is a chapter by James Murray, the biologist of the expedition, on those queer creatures, the penguins. The following is an extract:

"Their resemblance to human beings is always noticed. This is partly due to their habit of walking erect, but there are truly a great many human traits about them. They are the civilized natives of these regions."

"Emperor penguins are very ceremonious in meeting other Emperors or men or dogs. They come up to a party of strangers in a straggling procession, some big, important, aldermanic fellow leading. At a respectful distance from the man or dog they halt, the old male waddles up and bows gravely till his beak almost touches his breast. Keeping his head bowed, he makes a long speech in a muttering manner, short sounds following in groups of four or five. Having finished his speech, the head is still kept bowed a few seconds for politeness sake, then it is raised, and he looks in your face to see if you have understood. If you have not comprehended, as is usually the case, he tries again. He is very patient with your stupidity."

"Their most solemn ceremonies were used towards the dog, and three old fellows have been seen calmly bowing and speaking simultaneously to a dog, which, for his part, was yelping and straining at its chain in the effort to get at them."

AMERICA TO BRITAIN

Oh, brothers of the sea-girth isles, Behold! We cancel all the miles That sunder us; and by your side We stand in Anglo-Saxon pride.

Our hearts go out to you today While you are girding for the fray. Your cause is sure; but if you need Us, call; and we the call will heed.

We want not war. But want surcease Of this Disturber of the Peace. Whose foolish dreams of empire greed Have scattered wide dissension's seed.

We shrink from war! But if the right Demands it, then, we fain must fight And fighting, stand in brotherhood With those who seek the common good.

This crazy Prussian Lord of War Insults his neighbors near and far. And soon, if his wild plans prevail, The farther nations he'll assail.

Safe none would be from his assaults— The higher his ambition vaults And greater grow his powers, then The lesser all the rights of men.

But never shall this crime be done While Anglo-Saxon blood doth run Through veins of men who stoutly dare To challenge tyrants everywhere

Let minor feuds of years ago Forgotten be in danger's dawn; Let Celt and Saxon, Scot and Frank Fight freedom's foe in solid rank.

And freemen, all, across the sea, We send this message unto thee: With anxious hearts we ready stand To stretch to thee a brother's hand.

UNDERCLOTHING FOR BRITISH TROOPS.

War Office Taking Measures to Insure Adequate Supply.

London, October 5—7.30 a.m.—According to the Yorkshire Post, the War Office is taking drastic measures to secure an adequate supply of hosiery, under clothes, gloves and other woollen goods for the army and navy. All the manufacturers in Leicester, the chief center of the woollen industry, have been informed that their entire product of heavy goods must be placed at the disposal of the War Office and that if a single garment be withheld by a manufacturer or is supplied to any firm whatever, the War Office will at once take over the factory at which it is made and run it, giving the firm a certain percentage of the profits.

COPPER SHIPMENTS TO BE UNMOLESTED

ARRANGEMENTS WITH U. S.
RELATIVE TO SHIPMENTS
TO NEUTRAL COUNTRIES.

Washington, October 5—American copper shipments to neutral countries will not be molested by British ships when covered by an understanding between shippers and consignees that they are for domestic use only. This was made known here today after a conference between Secretary W. J. Bryan and Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador.

The ambassador expressed the approval of his government of the suggestion of American copper exporters that cargoes en route to Holland, Italy, or other non-belligerent countries be shipped under the restriction that they would be used in those countries and not exported to Germany.

RACING FOR SLEEP.

Running Around the Bed is Said to Induce Drowsiness.

There is nothing in the world quite so exasperating as not being able to go to sleep when you want to, and persistent insomnia is one of the greatest curses of mankind. But many people suffer from insomnia from lack of knowing many of the simple devices that have been used in the past to provoke sleep, and Sir Jas. Sawyer in a recent work points out how valuable some of these simple means have been.

Few plans are more successful, he suggests, than that of running around the bed, particularly if the night is cold. It will be remembered that Charles Dickens, who was greatly affected with sleeplessness declared that if he could lean on the bedpost in thin attire, in which he usually slept, until he got chilled clear through the return to a warm bed would produce a drowsiness that led him along the path to sleep.

William Harvey, the discoverer of the circulation of the blood, was a believer in the circulation of the bed also. He declared that for sleeplessness nothing was better than to jump out of bed suddenly, as though frightened, race around the bed with very little on until the skin was cold and the body heated and then jump back into bed. Not only was the exercise good, he believed, but also the feeling that one was being withheld from going to bed caused a desire for it, which prepared the mind for sleep when once more lying down.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

A New Discovery.

Thin men and women—that big, hearty filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those single Sargol tablets. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol charges your weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—gives the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol, and the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a scientific combination of six of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive and all druggists sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.

GERMANS FEAR MORE ENEMIES

PRESS THINKS GREAT BRITAIN
IS URGING SCANDINAVIAN COUNTRIES TO WAR

Rome, Oct. 5, 12.15 a.m. (by way of London, 7 p.m.)—The German press, according to communications received here, thinks that Great Britain is using pressure to induce the Scandinavian countries, particularly Denmark, to abandon their neutrality and participate in the war against Germany.

Deutsche Tages Zeitung of Berlin says it is rumored that many hostile ships have been seen in the Skagerrak and the Kattegat, adding: "These ships are British; it shows an intention to make a threatening demonstration against the Scandinavian states, particularly Denmark."

SYNOPSIS OF REGULATIONS
 GOVERNING TIMBER ON Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, the Northwest Territories, the Railway Belt in the Province of British Columbia, and the tract of Three and a Half Millions Acres, Located by the Government of the Dominion in the Peace River District in the Province of British Columbia.

LICENSES
 A license to cut timber on a tract not exceeding twenty-five square miles in extent may be acquired only at public auction. A rental of $5.00 per square mile, per annum is charged on all timber lands excepting those situated west of Vale in the Province of British Columbia on which the rental is at the rate of 5 cents per acre. In addition to rental, dues are charged on the timber cut at the rate set out in section 30 of the Regulations.

TIMBER PERMITS AND DUES.
 Permits may be granted in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, to owners of portable saw mills, to cut over a definitely described tract of land not exceeding one square mile in extent, on payment of dues at the rate of 50c. per thousand feet, B.M., and of a fee at the rate of $100.00 per square mile for each permit.

TIMBER FOR HOMESTEADERS.
 Any occupant of a homestead quarter-section having no timber of his own suitable for the purpose may, provided he has not previously been granted free allowance of timber, obtain a free permit to cut the quantity of building and fencing timber set out in Section 30 of the Regulations.

W. W. CORY, Deputy Minister of the Interior.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency, (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months' residence upon cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.
 Duties—Six months' residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G., Deputy of the Minister of the Interior. N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for—64353.

IN FIVE MINUTES

NO SICK STOMACH,

INDIGESTION, GAS

"PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN" IS THE

QUICKEST AND SUREST

STOMACH RELIEF

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent boxes of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes.

"Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless, tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes.

COPIED HIS LETTERS.

A good story is being told by Lord Lovat, head of the famous Lovat Scouts, who is to command the Highland Mounted Brigade, with the Allies on the Continent. A very much ruffled private was under arrest for some offence, and Lord Lovat enquired of the sergeant as to what his offence was.

"He is a very troublesome fellow, sir," replied the sergeant. "Got too much lip, goes out without leave, comes back when he likes, and gets drunk when he likes—just as if he was an officer."

WHAT A SUBMARINE IS

So much has been written concerning what the submarine, by a flight of imagination, may achieve, writes the naval correspondent of the London Morning Post, that most people are somewhat uncertain as to what the submarine actually is and does. To begin with, she is shaped like a cigar, and she carries a tower on her back. Inside the tubular steel hull, valves and tubes and pipes line the walls; aft, in a space so low that the engineers can hardly stand upright, are the internal combustion engines and the electric motors which drive the vessel when she is under water. Below the floor, or deck, of the inside, there projects downwards from the ceiling a thick brass column ending in a brass cross-piece. This is the base of the periscope. When the boat is submerged and the officer desires to see what is going on above, he sets a hand on each arm of the cross-piece, which is level with his face, and rotates the column, while he looks into the mirror. In the mirror he beholds an image, little and bright, of a section of the sea and horizon, and by swinging it around he can scan the whole circle, reflected in the periscope above, which is the eye of the steel fish. Alongside the periscope is the upright steel ladder leading through two hatches to the deck of the conning tower, which is raised five or six feet above the top of the hull. It is about four feet in diameter, and is protected by a breast-high rail lined with canvas. Here is the wheel, and here, when the vessel is running awash, stand the captain and the quartermaster. In fine weather those of the crew who are not required below are grounded on the little half-deck below the conning tower, just above the steel hull itself. Officers and men are dressed in sea-boots, sweaters and rough clothing. The submarine running awash forges suddenly onwards with a heavy grinding noise, the water lifting and dripping from the gills which project on either side of her snout. Below the hull is filled with the crashing of the furious engines crammed into the narrow tube of steel. The engineers snarl nautically among the racing rods and pistons, in the thick atmosphere tainted with fumes. Should the sea water enter the hull and mix with petrol gas, the fatal chlorine gas is formed, and the crew are suffocated. The method of the submarine is to cruise at economic speed, ten knots or less, on the surface, until she sights a hostile vessel. As she is so small she can see another vessel before the other vessel can see her. Then she sinks. The captain and the crew go below: the hatches are closed, and the captain, swinging his weight upon the cross-piece from the periscope, his eye upon the mirror, gives his orders. The crew are living along the sides, ready to turn valves on or off. The internal combustion engines are stopped and the propeller shaft is connected up to the electric motors. There is a sudden silence.

The process of submerging is a process in the brain of the captain. He has a mental picture of what each tank contains and how much weight is driven out forward or aft at each order, and what will be the effect upon the vessel. He communicates this process to the vessel itself. He must first dip her bows slightly, then her stern, then bows again, and so on. If he makes a mistake the submarine may dive down, and then all is done. The process is deflected in the brain of his lieutenant, who stands near by the captain. In ordinary vessels if an officer faints or makes a mistake, there are a dozen people at hand who can put it right, because they know what ought to be done. Not so in the submarine. The only person besides the captain who knows what is going on is his lieutenant; but the consequences of a mistake would follow so quickly that the lieutenant could not rectify it. Nor would he know in all probability that a mistake had been made until the consequences began. The men lying outside the valves know nothing except how to do what they are told. Nor is there any sensation of motion as the boat sinks. It seems to be as still as a drawing room on shore.

The periscope, which is about the size of a saucer, remains about eighteen inches above the surface, and viewed from the deck of a ship, all that is seen is a fitting pennant of white spray, as it cuts the waves, like a sea-bird's wing. In any day it would be almost imperceptible at two or three hundred yards.

Upon approaching to attack the submarine sinks lower and submerges looking in the mirror, sees his little and bright picture washed out in green—the green of the water. And from above nothing is visible at all.

The submarine is now blind. She cannot see through water. But she can steer a course. The captain has made his calculations before he submerged his periscope. And the range of a German torpedo is about 3,000 yards at 25 to 30 knots. The submarine can fire her torpedoes, go about, presently rising until her periscope is above water, then herself continue beneath the surface until it is safe to

PATRIOTIC MEETING AT MONTMAGNY

MR. D. O. L'ESPERANCE AND OTHERS CALL FOR AID
FOR PATRIOTIC FUND

A largely-attended patriotic meeting was held in the City Hall at Montmagny for the purpose of raising subscriptions to the Patriotic Fund, which has been started under the patronage of His Royal Highness
the Duke of Connaught. Rev. Cure Marois addressed the meeting and strongly urged his parishioners to donate what they could afford to this praiseworthy cause.

Mayor Bender presided and asked several members who were present to address the gathering.

Mr. D. O. L'Esperance, who always commands attention, spoke of the splendour of the patriotic work to which the Governor-General has given his distinguished patronage and of the good which could be done by the citizens for the families of hundreds of the men who had gone forth prepared to make the extreme sacrifice for their country. Mr. L'Esperance explained that he was not speaking as a representative of the people on a public question, but as a citizen of Montmagny, happy to offer his feeble oratory and modest contribution to a work of extraordinary good.

Mr. Laverne also delivered an eloquent address in which he made particular allusion to the suffering of the heroic Belgians, innocent victims of the war. Several other citizens added their remarks urging a prompt and generous response to the worthy cause. Messrs. Lebois, Hebert and Rousseau being the speakers.

A committee has been formed composed of the mayor and aldermen of Montmagny together with other prominent citizens for the purpose of raising money for the fund. Rev.
Cure Marois, Mr. L'Esperance and others gave a good example by inscribing their names for generous amounts.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Marier, merchant, of St. Roch des Aulnais, announces the engagement of their only daughter, Rose, to Mr. P. W. Levesque, merchant, of St. Paschal. The marriage will take place on the 12th inst.

The Rev. Edward Hughes, Pastor of the Baptist Church has left for Boston on vacation, where he expects to meet his bride, a highly accomplished lady from Cardiff, Wales, and to be married by his brother, the Rev.
Mr. Hughes, Baptist Minister, Boston, Mass.

Lady Evelyn Ward is in Ottawa from Toronto for a few days and is stopping at the Chateau Laurier. Hon.
Gerald and Lady Evelyn Ward have made their home in Toronto of late, but the former has been called to England to rejoin his regiment. Lady Evelyn is a daughter of the Earl of Erne.

Is your skin tender? Try
Resinol Soap

Any soap will clean your skin—
a bar of laundry soap will do if you do not care what becomes of your complexion. But you know that laundry soap contains harsh, drying alkali that would ruin your skin and hair, so you never think of using it for your toilet.

Many toilet soaps contain this same injurious alkali. Resinol Soap contains absolutely no free alkali, and to it are added the Resinol balsams. These give it soothing, healing properties which clear the complexion, comfort tender skins and keep the hair rich and lustrous.
Sold by all druggists. For sample free,
write to Dept. S-F, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

In Daily Fear of Death—Until
"Fruit-a-tives" Brought Me Out

Chatham, Ont., April 3rd. 1913.
"Some two years ago, I was a great sufferer from indigestion. One day my eye caught a billboard of "Fruita-tives" and I said to myself "If Fruita-tives will build me up like that, it is good enough for me". I bought some.
After taking these wonderful tablets for only three weeks, I found myself wonderfully improved. In a short time longer, I cured myself entirely.
My case was no light one, either. Gas would often form in my stomach and I was in daily fear that it would get around my heart and kill me. "Fruita-tives" is the only remedy for Indigestion".

PRESENTATION TO MR. LENDER CONWAY

HONORED BY FRIENDS ON
EVE OF HIS APPROACHING
MARRIAGE

A number of the friends of Mr.
Lender Conway, who is about to be married to Miss Mary E. O'Gallagher gathered at the Kent House last night and presented him with a handsome cabinet of cutlery.

An address, testifying to the kindly feelings in which the groom-elect is held by all with whom he has associated, whether as a member of one of the sporting clubs in the city or the Otter Club of Lake St. Joseph, of which he is a member, was read by Mr. C. Henchey, while the presentation was made by Mr. M. J.
Hanrahan. At the conclusion of the address the gathering sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

A very fitting reply was made by the guest of the evening who frankly admitted that he was at a loss for words to adequately express his gratitude for what he considered a gift he hardly considered deserving and was especially touched by the heartly wishes of success and long lives of happiness, embodied in the address for himself and future wife.

The toast to the bride-to-be was proposed in a very capable manner by Mr. Adj. Turcot, all joining in a merry response. Mr. R. H. Price, was conspicuous in the amusement program provided in recitations, while
Mr. Lepage proved a very capable accompanist at the piano. Mr. Ferd.
Fraser, Manager of the Kent House saw to it that all arrangements were made to the comfort and pleasure of all.

Following were among those invited to the presentation: J. Alex
Leprie, Mark H. Kane, H. B. Ramsay,
F. Power, Edgar Langlois, D. J.
Griffin, Jeff Malone, G. Leonard, B.
Hall, L. A. Russell, H. Renault, Gus

MISS O'GALLAGHER REMEMBERED

Bride-to-be Presented With Handsome Cut Glass Lemonade Set

The members of the St. Agnes' Association of St. Patrick's Parish held a very pleasant meeting last evening when a presentation was made to Miss Mary Eileen O'Gallagher who,
on Wednesday, will become the bride of Mr. Lender Conway.

The gift presented to Miss O'Gallagher consisted of a handsome cut glass lemonade set, which was accompanied by suitable remarks and good wishes on the part of the Association
by Miss Alice Murphy, the President.
A number of former members were present for the occasion to add their congratulations to those of the actual members and during the evening which was very pleasantly spent. Refreshments were served.
