Valleyfield Wins League Game; Huntingdon Wins O'Connor Trophy

Defeat and victory were the attainments of the Huntingdon-Valleyfield bowling which took place in Valleyfield on Friday evening. Three rinks participated in a 14-end league game, which resulted in Valleyfield winning two of the three games, and an aggregate score of 44 to 35. Two rinks continued their game to 16 ends in competition for the O'Connor Challenge Trophy, which Huntingdon lifted from Valleyfield with an aggregate score of 33 to 29.

During the first half of the bowling, Valleyfield had very substantial leads on all three games. In the Martin-Hannah game, Huntingdon scored heavily in the last half, scoring 22 points in 8 ends, winning their game by 25 to 13. W. Grant and C. Mayoh won up their game by a 16 to 8 score in favour of Valleyfield. It was these two teams that competed for the O'Connor Challenge Trophy. When entering the final end of the game the score stood at a tie, 28 to 28.

The third rink was skipped by Jack McAlpine vs. A. L. Sellar. At no time throughout the game was there ever a doubt but that Valleyfield was to be the winner with a good margin, the game ending 19 to 7 for Valleyfield. The teams were: Huntingdon: Captain Brice, G. C. Stark, D. M. Currie, A. L. Sellar, skip 7, vs. Valleyfield: J. McFarlane, S. Chambers, C. Webster, J. McAlpine, skip 19.

Huntingdon: Rev. T. Knowles, J. Fox, A. Fawcett, E. C. Martin, skip 25, vs. Valleyfield: H. Stretch, G. H. R. Fishwick, W. T. Hannah, skip 13.

Huntingdon: J. B. Carr, W. K. Pope, J. Holmes, W. Grant, skip 8, vs. Valleyfield: R. Pomfret, F. C. Moore, D. P. Boyd, C. Mayoh, skip 16.

Rival Gangs of Hoodlums Cause Disturbance in Town

Man Stripped of His Clothes and Maltreated, is Taken to Lock-up For Protection—Fracas is Culmination of Brawl at Country Dance

A disturbance occurred on Friday night at Prince Arthur Square and the street surrounding the Chateau, which involved two separate gangs of men numbering a total of 35. There were two factions to what might be termed this gang warfare. On the one side were French citizens of St. Anicet and Casaville and on the other were English speaking men from Athelstan, Elgin, Cranston and Huntingdon. The height of the trouble seemed to occur between 10:30 and 11 p.m. and occurred at the same time that a dance was being held at Huntingdon High School for the graduates. In consequence, a number of persons attending the dance heard the noise being made by the hoodlums and went out to see what was taking place.

It appears that the rival gangs had previously been out to a barn dance in the country and had caused some trouble there, but had been turned away and proceeded to Huntingdon to finish it out. The gang from St. Anicet and Casaville had parked a car close to Prince Arthur Square, while the other gang were mustered close to Dr. McCrimmon's house. The first gang went to the car and got out a number of missiles and sticks and started toward the opposing gang, when the latter made a flying attack and got the Frenchmen on the run. In the melee the missiles were flung far and wide and the sticks were freely used. A young chap, who claims he was an innocent bystander, got himself mixed up in the scrap, but the Frenchmen being the speedier, left him behind for the mob following to tackle. This they evidently did with gusto, for they tore the clothes from off his back, leaving him with only his birthday suit on and severely mauled him, causing numerous scratches and bruises. In the meantime the Frenchmen were celebrating in their car, the police were called and also the military police from the barracks, who between them rescued the unfortunate victim, and took him to the lock-up, where he was made more respectable. The man detained, was attended to by one of the local doctors, who said his knees were badly cut, his back and his arms, and it looked as if he had been dragged across some stones or gravel for a distance. While the man was properly dressed when he appeared for a medical examination, he claimed he had the clothes torn off him and had been maltreated in a naked state. However, after he had been conducted to the lock-up a friend was found who secured some clothing for him and he was freed.

Town authorities state that the names of the men comprising the English speaking gang are all known to them, but those of the French gang are unknown. For this reason no charges can be made unless someone can identify the latter. This can be done, a case in point being the case of the parties responsible punished. In any case the authorities are prepared to take steps to stop occurrences of similar nature taking place in Huntingdon. The whole affair was dusting and revolting to say the least.

Judging from stories recited, the first occurrence dates back two weeks previously when a dance was held at the same place in the country. The members of the Casaville gang had made some trouble and were stopped. A certain man was supposed to have remarked that other persons had better be present at the dance on Friday night as they were going to be fought. The culmination of the fight then took place in Huntingdon. It is alleged that both gangs had been imbibing freely and that enmity and the introduction of liquor had been like adding gasoline to a fire and trouble flared up.

Procession Marks Corpus Christie Feast on Sunday

The parishioners of the congregation of St. Joseph's Church, Huntingdon, fittingly celebrated the feast of Corpus Christie, on Sunday morning, by making the usual procession through some streets of Huntingdon. A repository was erected at the home of D. J. O'Connor, M.P.P., on Dalhousie Street, where the congregation gathered for the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and other prayers. Special prayers for peace were recited. The procession which started at St. Joseph's Church at around 11 o'clock, immediately after the High Mass, was headed by Sgt. Nash and a few soldiers from Chateaugay Barracks, Huntingdon, the Cross bearer and acolytes and followed by the different leagues of the parish. The streets and homes along the procession route were beautifully decorated with evergreen trees, flags and bunting, etc., which added much color to an already impressive ceremony. The Blessed Sacrament was borne by Rev. Father A. P. parish priest, and a few soldiers stood guard. The repository was abundantly decorated with flowers of all kinds, flags, etc. The procession which went up York Street, turned to Dalhousie Street and stopped briefly at the Repository. From Dalhousie the procession continued on Wellington Street, Cemetery Street and returned to the Church where a short prayer brought the service to a close.

The following was the order of the procession: Heading the procession were Sgt. Nash and a few soldiers from Chateaugay Barracks, Huntingdon, the Cross bearer and acolytes; pupils of the Convent; girls from the Country Schools; banner of the Children of Mary and the Children of Mary; banner of the Ladies of St. Ann; and the Ladies of St. Ann; altar boys; Blessed Sacrament; boys of St. Joseph's Church; boys of St. Joseph's School; the children of the Country Schools; the banner of the league of the Sacred Heart, members of the league of the Sacred Heart, and the men of the parish.

Hinchinbrooke Schools Hold Enjoyable Picnic

Program of Sports and Races Provide Entertainment—List of Prize Winners

The fourteenth annual picnic of the Hinchinbrooke schools, sponsored by the Commissioners of the Hinchinbrooke School Board, was held on Friday, in the grove of Norman J. Pennel. The day was ideal, and an enjoyable time was spent by all who attended, although the number in attendance was not as large as in former years. Ball games were played by teams chosen from the different schools. Pupils from the Hinchinbrooke School played those from the Grosvenor, St. Ann, Boyd Settlement, Athelstan and Powerscourt against a team from Elm Tree, Rockburn and McKay, score 18 to 9. The winners Johnston played the winners Boyd Settlement, Athelstan and Powerscourt ending with a score of 23 to 12. Other games were played amongst the young people. The refreshment booth, under the management of Nelson Anderson and Royal Gamble, did a thriving business in the sale of chocolate milk, soft drinks, ice cream and fruit, until their supplies were sold out early in the afternoon. Races were run by the school children and a money prize for the first five.

The following programme of races was run off and the results are: Girls 5 yrs. and under: 1. Angelina Millejour, 2. Ann Flynn, 3. Doreen Cooper, 4. Lois French, 5. Helen Lindsay.

Stolen Car Recovered Few Hours Later

Two Soldiers Driving Car Caught at Mercier Bridge as They Tried to Reach City

To have a car stolen and returned in a few short hours, undamaged and all complete, is something out of the ordinary in these times. But such was the case when Dr. H. R. Clouston of Huntingdon, had his car stolen on Saturday night.

The doctor had driven his wife down to the United Church at about eight o'clock on Saturday evening, for the purpose of leaving some papers at the church. Not expecting to be very long in the church, the doctor accompanied his wife and left the keys of the car in the lock, his dog was also in the car. The whole lapse of time could not have been more than ten minutes, but in that time the car was stolen. When the doctor came out of the church, the car was gone. He immediately notified Constable J. C. Robbins, who in turn notified the Provincial Police in Montreal. Dr. Clouston did a little police work of his own and notified the police at Valleyfield, the customs at the different ports, and the various bridges were watched and cars stopped. The message was also relayed to customs and squad cars in the States, who were immediately on the look-out for the missing car.

Several persons in town had spotted the doctor's car being driven by two soldiers and had noticed the dog. Apparently the thieves left the dog on the outskirts of town and proceeded on their way with the car. It was suspected that it was not a professional job, as they would not have singled out the doctor's car with its conspicuous markings and would have taken great precautions in taking the car. An alert watch was kept at all possible points with the result that the doctor received word at about midnight that his car was safe, having been stopped at Mercier Bridge, Caughnawaga, with two soldier occupants driving it.

The two soldiers were from the personnel at Chateaugay Barracks, and had been anxious to secure a car to drive to Montreal. Their anxiety had overcome their scruples, so they took the doctor's car and proceeded to carry out their desires. The doctor's quick resourcefulness in making a complete chain around their movements, nipped their plan in the bud and the Montreal trip was off. The men were held and the military police notified so that they will have to face charges of a military nature which will no doubt make them think twice of attempting such a thing again. Dr. Clouston decided not to press civil charges, for the men will have plenty to answer to the military authorities.

The car was not damaged in any way and nothing was taken from it. In the back were a few baskets of strawberries and a cup of sugar, but these were still intact. Dr. Clouston left on Sunday morning and returned later with his car, a very happy man.

The doctor wanted to make known the measures taken by him which led to the recovery of the car, because he thought it may prove useful if other people are made the victims of like circumstances. He said that in the ordinary way he would not have left the keys in the car, but he will be more cautious in the future.

In these days when cars and equipment are so precious, it is well to take all possible precautions against theft of a car or its component parts.

Industrial Taxation Ontario vs. Quebec Provinces

Quebec Cities and Towns May Now Deem it Advisable to Enact Laws to Protect Industry Against Machinery Tax

The regional conference of the Chamber of Commerce held in Valleyfield were privileged to hear the Hon. Oscar Drouin, Minister of Finance, and other officials, speak to them. Mr. Drouin endeavoured to explain his stand in regard to the presentation of Bill Number 37—An Act to amend the Cities and Towns Act.

Mr. Drouin expressed the opinion that Bill Number 37 was no new legislation, but merely a clarification of a previous Statute. He endeavoured to explain that previously municipalities had had the power to tax the machinery used by industry, but that it was not clear in the legislation as to whether it extended to those who had not fully paid for the machinery, or who rented the machinery. Mr. Drouin contends that the privilege of taxing movable as well as immovable machinery has existed since 1871. There are no restrictions on taxation and they are adamant on the point that Bill Number 37 establishes a new precedent in that the provisions of the previous legislation never did apply to movable machinery. The figures for the year 1938-39-40 for the whole of Canada, for Ontario and for Quebec are as follows:

Province	1938	1939	1940
Canada	374	234	62
Ontario	377	147	42
Quebec	399	248	77

These figures, we believe, are absolutely reliable and can stand investigation. It can readily be seen that a preponderance of new industries is locating in the Province of Ontario as against the Province of Quebec—the only reason that presents itself to us is that the weight of advantage lies in favour of the Province of Ontario already. It behooves us, therefore, who have pride in our municipality and who entertain great hopes for its future to enquire before we take any steps that might prejudice our obtaining new industries in the future.

With the law as it now stands, cities and towns in Quebec Province that wish to obtain new industries will quite likely have to accord the prospective industrialist protection, that the machinery installed in their plants will not be subjected to taxation as the law will allow. The towns and cities in the Beauharnois District that have industrial plants are the best business centers. Huntingdon went for years without a sizeable industrial payroll, and since the establishment of several light industries employment has been commensurate; the plants have all done well. We don't want to hear of any one killing a goose that lays a golden egg, so it would now seem that the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce and the municipal councils of Beauharnois District will have to get together, prepare and enact laws to protect our industrial future. The Beauharnois District is facing an era of industrial expansion of considerable proportions and we certainly don't

Pioneer Rebekah Lodge No. 1, Huntingdon, Attends Divine Service

Pioneer Rebekah Lodge No. 1, Huntingdon, Que., celebrated its fiftieth anniversary of founding, by a special church service, held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, on Sunday evening, Rev. J. B. Maclean, D.D., was in charge of the service, assisted by Rev. Thomas Knowles of the United Church. The guest speaker was H. Capt. L. E. McNeil, Protestant Chaplain of the Chateaugay Barracks, Huntingdon. Members of the Pioneer Rebekah Lodge No. 1, Huntingdon; Bayview Lodge, Valleyfield; and Ormsdale Lodge, Ormsdale, attended in gala. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and flags and the music was in charge of Mrs. Gay, organist of St. Andrew's Church. Friends from other churches assisted in the choir.

The service opened with a hymn, followed by the National Anthem, Scripture lesson and a prayer. Miss Eunice Ross, of Valleyfield, rendered an appropriate soprano solo, after which the guest speaker, H. Capt. L. E. Mason gave an address along the lines of the Rebekah Order and its spiritual significance. Mrs. Raymond Ross, of Huntingdon, sang a soprano solo at the conclusion of Capt. Mason's address. A collection of $40.27 was taken up and this will be handed over to Huntingdon County Hospital Fund. A cornet solo by Master Douglas McGerrigle, (being hymn, and Benediction followed by an organ postlude, brought the service to a close.

Among the members of the Pioneer Lodge No. 1, were two of the original charter members: Miss Margaret Hunter and Mr. W. C. Hunter.

The event was a memorable one in the lives of the members of Pioneer Rebekah Lodge No. 1, Huntingdon, as not only did the anniversary mark the founding of a lodge fifty years ago, but it marked the first founding of the Rebekah Order in the Province of Quebec. Furthermore, it was outstanding in the fact that two of the original charter members were able to be present, and incidentally, they are still active members of the lodge.

Ayrshire Club Holds Field Day Picnic

Type Classification Demonstrated Through Grading Terrace Bank Farm Ayrshires

At the Howick-Huntingdon Ayrshire Field Day, Saturday, June 26, held at Terrace Bank Farm, the type classification plan was demonstrated to the public. The Ayrshire herd of E. E. Ness and Sons, 35 strong, was brought out, wonderful fit after being on grass for six weeks. The cows were shown in the yard until the downpour of rain at 2 p.m. sent the proceedings to the barn where the following results: 5 excellent, 3 very good, 13 good plus, 4 good, 8 J. Chagnon, Supt. Provincial Dairy School, St. Hyacinthe, was the official inspector.

In addition to the 5 excellent cows, Burnside Glen Beauty, 14 years old, with a lifetime record of over 110,000 lbs. milk, mother of 12 calves or one every fall had a score of 89 points or one less than that of an excellent cow. 21 of the 35 presented were the descendants of Gontie, a two imported cows, Hightide Lily and J. McNeil's Brownie purchased in 1930. A son of the latter by Howie's Top Grade had several daughters in the top classes. 33 of the 35 were home bred. Burnside Mossy, Bobby's Boy's Bull heifer was scored very good which is the highest possible score for a heifer.

Among visitors from a distance were Prof. G. Toupin, Oka, Que., past president C.A.B.A.; Prof. and Mrs. Alex. R. Ness, Macdonald College, Que.; Frank Napier, Secy. C.A.B.A.; L. C. McQuinn, St. Anne de Bellevue; Miss M. E. Hawkes, Family Herald and Weekly Star; Mr. Vincent, representing Boy's Clubs.

There was a large gathering of Ayrshire enthusiasts from the two counties, many more were expected but pressure of field work kept some busy cropping. Proceedings were brought to a close with short addresses by Prof. Toupin and S. J. Chagnon, both complimented the owners on the apparent ability of production of the herd, they also spoke on the merits of the type classification plan.

Mr. Pringle, a native of Huntingdon, Quebec, has been with the system since 1911 when he joined at Winnipeg. He served at various points and has been in Boston since March, 1928. His office also covered New England territory and in that capacity Mr. Pringle was general passenger agent for the Central Vermont Railway, maintaining an office at St. Albans, Vermont. At Boston to succeed Mr. Pringle, S. C. Vaughan has been appointed acting general agent, Canadian National Railway, and acting general passenger agent, Central Vermont Railway at St. Albans, Vt.

When is Dominion Day?

WE have often heard the question asked—"When did Good Friday fall on a Saturday?" The reply in most cases is that such a thing is impossible. The question of course is a trick one, it concerns a race horse by the name Good Friday, which fell in a race which was run on a Saturday.

It would appear, therefore, that there is only one day on which to celebrate Good Friday, even though the date might be different each year. But in the matter of Dominion Day, it is the date that decides the celebration of the day. Over sixty years ago the Fathers of Confederation signed a document declaring all the provinces of Canada to be under one dominion. July 1st was the date recorded for this event and it was decided to call it Dominion Day, in other words it was the birth of the Dominion of Canada. Not the birth of Canada, because before this it was known as Upper and Lower Canada. It was decided that July 1st should be recognized as a Dominion holiday and be suitably celebrated with patriotic displays.

But the Government of today and of this wartime, decided that owing to wartime pressure and need, the holidays for the year should be cut down to six. That was perfectly agreeable as a wartime measure. But for some unknown reason it was also decided that Dominion Day should be celebrated on the first Monday of July instead of on the first day of the month. A large number of patriotic citizens banded together and put up a hue and cry that the Government was ignoring the significance of this day and especially so in wartime and with the record that Canada has in the present war. The bigwigs of Ottawa evidently saw that they had put their foot in it, so to speak, and immediately made a turn-about face and changed their ruling so that Dominion is to be celebrated as always, on July 1st.

In the meantime, the peaceable citizens who had planned celebrations to take effect on July 5th, went ahead with their arrangements. Even the Quebec Legislature passed a Bill to enable the celebration of Dominion Day on the first Monday in July. All this happened before the Government at Ottawa decided it had made a wrong move and changed the ruling to its original status. Thus confusion is rampant. But from all this it is a decided fact that Dominion Day will be celebrated on July 1st, the same as was originally intended.

In Huntingdon, the Town Council has declared July 5th a Civic Holiday, this on account of plans which had already been made by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion. The merchants of the town have also decided that they will close on July 1st, Dominion Day, as it is a legal holiday set by the Federal Government. Thus both days will be holidays in Huntingdon.

The confusion was very unnecessary as the Government should have pondered longer before announcement of the change. There is no reason to change July 1st any more than there is to change December 25th. It might have been known that people would raise objection to changes in outstanding holidays, which are more or less immovable and have sentimental and traditional values. It has been hinted that the change was made to accommodate certain individuals with a convenient week-end. It is also hinted that the reason the King's birthday is celebrated in June instead of December, is so that people may enjoy the better weather at that time of year. But if your income tax return is not filed by June 30th, watch out.

When neighbors apologize and start teamwork, it's a first 'down' for democracy.

A sure way to get rid of the skeleton in the closet is to hold a public funeral.

A Disgusting Disturbance

WORDS available in the English language are not strong enough to fittingly describe the disgusting disturbance which took place on Friday night near Prince Arthur Square. Many of our High School students of both sexes were enjoying a graduation dance at the school and were witnesses to the disgusting spectacle of a hoodlum brawl and the sight of a man being dragged around naked. Truly not a pleasant sight for any one to witness and much less so for the boys and girls of our school.

While Huntingdon is not as a rule subject to such occurrences, steps will have to be taken to see that they do not occur again, and we are pleased to note that the authorities are determined to take whatever acts of prevention are necessary. It is to be hoped that the other half of the guilty offenders are made known to the authorities in order that justice can be meted out in this particular case.

It must be made known to persons who are liable to be leaders of such gangs or instigators of such occurrences, that they will meet with a hot reception if they bring such disturbances to Huntingdon or vicinity. Many law-abiding citizens like to attend a dance, but they do not wish it to become the scene of a brawl, because a gang of hoodlums have been allowed to enter and make it so. Further, we want no occurrences in Huntingdon of the Zoot-suit class that have been taking place in the United States. Take the necessary preventative measures now and make sure that occurrences of this nature do not happen here.

We missed Hitler in the cradle, but we'll see him in the grave.

The Gullible

AS one goes through life, it is extraordinary to find how many people are taken in, believe almost anything, and can be sold any article that is offered to them. Such people make the life of confidence men a happy one, they make the ordinary salesman's life an easy one; unless they have the finances to withstand their state of foolhardiness, they make their own lives a nightmare.

Most people have heard the story of the man who bought the Brooklyn Bridge. We have heard it has been sold many times to different persons, but the one story stands out in bold relief and is a world-wide fable.

We did not, however, think that in this day and age anyone could be found who would be gullible enough to fall for anything of a similar nature. But a story has come to light which proves such things can still happen. Strangely enough it concerns a Yank in England.

It appears that a certain American soldier, who had arrived in England and was enjoying the sights of London, on one of his leaves, was strolling along in Hyde Park, when he met a stranger. With the easy going gait of the average American, the soldier struck up and acquaintance with the stranger and concluded from this he was a person of trust. He was one of those American people who have the idea that the British are a slow and easy going bunch of people, who do things today if they have to, but if tomorrow they do, they leave it until then. He was also one of those who know all the rackets and have all the answers. Thus the blow, when it came, was a hard one, but he had to take it.

The stranger was very solicitous for the soldier's welfare and eventually asked the soldier if he would like to buy one of the many barrage balloons and send it home as a souvenir. The stranger said he could buy one for $180.00. The soldier jumped at the opportunity and turned over his money, so that the deal was all complete except the delivery of the balloon. The soldier waited for this delivery for a few days and confided to one of the easy going Britishers. The easy going one looked in astonishment at the soldier, then smiled, "You've been had," he said, then advised the soldier to tell his story to the police.

The American soldier poured over hundreds of pictures in order to assist the police in recognizing the salesman, but without result, Scotland Yard is now doing its best to run the stranger to earth. The soldier is poorer in wealth, but richer in knowledge, he is also aware that there are still some answers he doesn't know.

The British are a slow, easy going bunch of people and might easily cause their American cousins to think they are not very smart. They stumble and blunder through somehow, but they usually get there and they have been doing it for years. Drake and his game of bowls is one of the most outstanding examples of British easy going. He finished his game of bowls, then went out with his fleet and beat the Spanish Armada. He evidently knew what he was doing despite his seeming uninterest. The salesman who sold the barrage balloon also seemed to have a fair knowledge of his possible customers.

It is not difficult to rise to the occasion. The hard thing is to see that the occasion does not arise.

It's the Trickle That Counts

WAR, so big that it spreads into almost every part of our world, is won by the organized little efforts of individuals. The monotonous left and right turns on the drill field, the collection of fats in the kitchen, the unvaried motions beside a lathe, the added work of feeding larger numbers of live-stock and the extra number of daily taps on the typewriter, flow into and make possible the great stream of war effort destined to overwhelm Hitler and his shady colleagues.

While this is true, many of us fall to appreciate it sometimes. Our humdrum job can appear to be so remote from our idea of war as something exciting and important. It is fair and accurate, nevertheless, to say that the flood which will take proper care of the enemy depends entirely on the trickling flow of individual effort from all of us.

With that conception of our part in the job of war, we see more clearly the reason why individuals should buy Victory Bonds, no matter how small; why each war worker cannot afford to stay away from his shop unnecessarily, and why even in the simple matter of making an income tax return, the co-operation of the individual is vitally important.

Money which goes into the Dominion Treasury from the income tax returns made by more than two million Canadian citizens is just as necessary as the money received through the sale of Victory Bonds in shaping the military machine which is to be poured into the fields of Europe. When each individual jumps to meet the request of the Department of National Revenue for prompt completion and return of the income tax form, he is making a vital contribution to the efficiency of his country's war job.

Some people tell you high ideals are unattainable, as their excuse for putting up with low ones.

Note About Dundee by John Davidson of Dundee

The early traders or merchants of Dundee were John Davidson, Patrick Buchanan, Norman McDonald, Charles Marsh and David Baker, all of which made money but not one of which have been successful in saving it, and all are now dead (except David Baker) without leaving their successors very much property. There was in early times considerable money made by trading in Dundee and during the American War and for sometime after, times were good and a great amount of money was made and anyone who did not save money at that time need never try business to amass a fortune. If a living can be made now they are doing well.

Rev. Duncan Moody was the first minister who officiated in Dundee and located on lot No. 12 in the fourth concession. He preached in the different school houses and private residence until 1835, when a church (more like a barn) was built on lot No. 8 in the second concession on the opposite side of the road from the present church. The frame was put up and a pulpit built by one of the elders, octagonal shape and high enough so that not much more than the minister's head was seen when preaching and there was a great projection over the head of the preacher with no visible support and it gave one the idea that it was about to fall and rock the top of the head of the divine. Immediately below was another box into which the preacher was placed to lead the singing. Gaelic was preached in the forenoon and English immediately after or as soon as the one got out and the other in. Most of the young Gaelicers stayed for the English part. As books were scarce, especially among the Gaelic people, the preacher had to read two lines in a droning way so as not to lose the run of the time and then go back and sing it over. The seats with the exception of one for the minister's family was constructed of boards with a back to it were made of slabs. This was continued until the church was kind of respectably finished and a gallery put up at one end.

The successor to Mr. Moody was the Rev. John Livingstone who died in 1860. After him came Rev. John Cameron, brother of Dr. Cameron, M.P.P. but he did not stay long as the situation was not to his liking and he returned to Scotland, a more genial climate for his way of thinking. Next came Rev. Donald Ross.

and a new church was agitated for and built in 1868, costing the congregation and what was begged for outside $12,100. It is a very nice structure but the congregation find it is too expensive to keep up and a cheaper building would have answered as well to offer up their devotions in. After the church was finished, the Rev. Mr. Ross left for Lancaster and the Rev. John C. Cuthbert was inducted and officiated at present. The church is free of debt.

The Rev. Mr. Moody was but poorly paid by his parishioners; the amount that each was to pay was not a trifle and even that was not paid and as far as cash was concerned, he hardly ever received any, but was paid in something they could spare down to a cake of maple sugar for one year. Had it not been that he had a farm and a very provident and careful wife he could not have lived, and his own wants were easily supplied as making any show was not his forte.

One Oslondo Bronson lived on a Point or what was called a March Island in the Indian Reservation of Dundee. Sometime about the time of the last War two deserters from the British Army called at Bronson's, tired and weary and asked for something to eat and if they were not safe from pursuit as the poor wretches did not know where they were and as they had got to the south side of the St. Lawrence they felt quite secure and they were told that they were out of harm's way, so they refreshed themselves with something to eat and then went to bed. Then Mr. Bronson went to a neighbors, who lived on lot No. 12 in the first concession (our old farm), by the name of Phillips and told him about the deserters and wanted him to help him capture them but Phillips would not do it, so Bronson went to the man living on the farm to the east of that one, to one Campbell who went with Bronson and seized and bound the deserters and took them back to the Coteau where there was a Military post.

LET'S FIRST WIN THE WAR

What bosh some talkers indulge in! To speak of the United States swallowing up Canada in the post war period is too silly for words and should be shunned by all, especially leaders in public life. Recently, in a broadcast, Speaker James Clark of the Ontario Legislature is reported to have talked along this line with the side-stepping interjection that it was not because we do not love Great Britain but because our trade relations should be closer. Coming from such a source it is little wonder that sections of the press, not omitting the "Independent" Globe and Mail, takes the broadcaster to task. The speech is doubtless another headache for Premier Harry Nixon, who no doubt has many matters to ponder over. But even with oratorical effort being indulged in and wasted on this and other untimely questions, let them be forgotten. Let us first win the war and then turn to talking of other matters, domestic or imperial. Blithering and blathering on side issues is waste energy. Why do it?—Exchange.

MORE GATHERING YEARS

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports that Canadians under 20 years of age comprised 41.6 per cent. of the population in 1931, and in 1941 only 37.5 per cent. The population over 64 years of age in the same period advanced from 5.5 per cent. to 6.7 per cent. of the whole. In other words, we have fewer coming along to produce the essentials and the good things to keep an ever-increasing army of beneficiaries beyond the reach of want in their waning years. Here are two paragraphs from a recent bulletin of the Bureau: "In no province has the number

WEEK AT OTTAWA

The man who holds the most enviable job in the cabinet these days is Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor. It is generally agreed even by opposition members that he made a masterly and comprehensive review of the work of his department in the house, but manpower is the lifeblood that flows through the veins and arteries of the country's war effort, and the man who has to direct and pump the blood to all the branches of that great organism has certainly a job on his hands. A good deal of time is spent, probably uselessly, in debating whether one limb of the organism is more important than another. The main thing is that no limb be allowed to become anemic through lack of the blood of manpower and that all the limbs can thus work together and put forth their full power.

A few of the many points brought out by Mr. Mitchell in his review of the manpower situation are these: there are now 1,700,000 persons in Canada's armed forces, war plants and associated industries, and 2,100,000 in agriculture and essential civilian industries, these totals including 70 per cent of all males in Canada of 14 years and over. The object of the manpower policy is to get the largest possible number for the armed forces while supplying needed man and woman power for war industries, farms, mines, lumber camps, railways and shipping. The guiding principle on which national selective service has been working is distributing labor among industries through priority lists. No one is deprived of the opportunity of enlisting in the armed forces, but men and women are diverted from low to high priority industries, according to their expert technical knowledge and ability and their physical strength. Coal is in Canada Needs You Strong!

Make the Most of Summertime

School is out and the children will be enjoying the pleasures of vacation from learning, but they will not be conserving their energy. They will, however, be getting a lot of that Sunshine Vitamin "D", this together with the proper foods listed under Canada's Food Rules will help a great deal in keeping their young bodies strong and healthy. Let them enjoy the outdoors and be sure that they EAT RIGHT and in the right amounts.

Adults may not have the same opportunity to enjoy a vacation, but the summertime provides wonderful opportunities of enjoying fresh, green vegetables, which provide Vitamin "C", the body welder. While working in your Victory Garden, you will secure the benefits of Sunshine Vitamin "D", which turns minerals into bones and makes the body strong. Both adults and children will need energy foods and these are Bread and Butter, Shortening, Cereals, Fat Meats, Sugar, Pies and Cakes. EAT RIGHT! FEEL RIGHT!

Rationing Brings Changes In Meat Buying Habits

Meat rationing brings a change in buying habits and also in meat recipes, for both have to be adjusted to the new coupon value of the meat.

Buying must be planned and coupons budgeted in advance and before the housewife goes to market she should jot down on her shopping list several alternate cuts of meat which are suitable for the dish she plans to make; the group—A, B, C or D to which the meat belongs and the amount of each cut she can obtain for the number of coupons she plans to spend.

The Home-Economists in the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have been working out new and old favorite recipes in terms of meat rationing. Most meat dishes can be made from any several cuts of meat and in many recipes veal, beef or lamb are interchangeable. Today's recipes list suitable alternate cuts of meat and include their coupon cost.

Spicy Pot Roast of Beef (4 coupons—six servings) left-overs for an "extended" dish next day. 5 lbs. chuck, blade or round bone shoulder (group D) or 4 lbs. rump or short rib roast (group C) or 2 lbs. round roast (group B) 1/2 cup water 1/2 cup vinegar 4 cloves Small bay leaf 1 small onion, cut fine 1 teaspoon salt Place meat in a bowl, combine other ingredients and pour over the meat. Let stand at least 3 hours, turning the meat several times. Remove meat from liquid, dredge with seasoned flour and brown well on all sides in a little hot fat in a heavy pot or Dutch oven. Place a rack under the meat, add strained spiced liquid. Cover closely and cook over low heat or in a slow oven, 300-325F until meat is tender, allowing about 40 minutes per pound. Turn the meat several times during cooking. Use the drippings in the pan as a base for gravy. Left-over pot roast may be made into a stew or meat pie with the addition of vegetables and left-over gravy for dinner the second day.

Scalloped Lamb, Beef or Veal (2 coupons... 6 servings) 2 1/2 lbs. front of lamb (group D) or 1 1/2 lbs. boneless chuck steak or stewing beef (group B) or 1 1/2 lbs. round steak (group B) or 1 1/2 lbs. boneless stewing veal (group B) Flour 2 medium onions, minced 1/2 teaspoon pepper 1 1/2 teaspoons salt 1 1/2 cups hot water 1/2 cups seived canned tomatoes 3/4 cup sliced fresh mushrooms (optional) Trim excess fat from meat, melt

DAHLIA'S WHATNOTS

In the days of Christ it was a custom of the Roman governors of Judea, to keep the Government of Rome well informed on all important events. One of the letters sent to the Senate of Rome by Publius

Caesar, is said to have been largely concerned about Jesus Christ, the New Prophet of Truth. The letter is very interesting on account of the description it gives of the personal appearance of Jesus. It runs thus:

"Conscript Fathers: There appeared these our days a man of great virtues, named Jesus Christ, who is now living amongst us. Of the Gentiles he is accepted as a Prophet of Truth; but his own disciples call him the Son of God. He is tall, of a fair and comely manner of dress, with a manly stature rather tall and comely, with a very reverend countenance, such as beholders may both love and fear. His hair is of the colour of a flaxen yellow, plain to the ears.

There are several varieties of sloths, all of them extremely deliberate in movement, but the three-toed sloth is the slowest of all. It is generally credited with being the champion in slowness. It somewhat resembles a small, scrawny long-legged bear. The hair is long, coarse, and of a grayish color slightly tinged with greenish.

Strictly a vegetarian, the three-toed sloth eats nothing but leaves—and to be even more exclusive, only the leaves of one tree, the Cecropia. The leaves of this tree are very large, which is probably fortunate, otherwise it might starve to death traveling between leaves.

Here is a recipe for canned rhubarb which has been strongly recommended to me. Canned Rhubarb Wipe rhubarb, peel carefully, put through food chopper, being careful to save all the juice. Fill into air-tight glass jars (with new rubbers, of course), and see that jars are absolutely full. Screw down tight, and store. Add neither water nor sugar and do not cook.

Athelstan The United Church Women's Association, met on Wednesday, 26th inst. at the home of Mrs. J. Ross. Quilting was the work for the afternoon. An amusing anecdote was the response to the roll call. For the past six months the members have been laying aside a cent for each "Sunny Day" which amounted in all to $1.68 and netted a tidy sum for the Association. Refreshments were served at the tea-hour.

Business Closing for July 1st and July 5th.

The stores in Huntingdon will be closed on Thursday, July 1st and also the Banks, but the Mills and the Gleaner Office will remain open on that day. On Monday, July 5th, the stores will be closed as well as the Mills and the Gleaner Office, but the Banks will remain open on that day. Much confusion has been occasioned by the orders respecting the observation of the Dominion Day holiday. In order not to interfere with plans already made for the Ladies Auxiliary Carnival, the Town Council declared July 5th a civic holiday and this is the day which will be generally observed. The Banks are compelled to observe Thursday, July 1st as the holiday due to certain regulations.

Band Concert Enjoyed

The first band concert of the summer season was held in the bandstand at Prince Arthur Square, on Wednesday evening, June 23rd, with a good attendance of citizens present, who thoroughly enjoyed the selections. The Chateaugay Barracks Band under the leadership of Sergeant Norman Montland, rendered some very pleasing numbers, many of which were well known to the audience and thus were deeply appreciated. Taking a consensus of opinion through the audience, the general feeling seems to be that the band gave a very enjoyable concert and that it sounded real well. The number of persons present to hear the concert signified a feeling that the citizens are anxious to have the band play each week, and must have been gratifying to the members of the band itself. This Wednesday evening a further program has been arranged to commence at the same time and is as follows:

1. March: "Mon Ami."
2. Overture: "The Golden Scythe."
3. Waltz Selection: "Gold and Silver."
4. Cornet Solo: "Ava Maria," by Franz Schubert. Soloist: L. Opl. N. Buzell.
5. Overture: "The Scarlet Mask."
6. Highland Patrol: "The Wee Wee Mac Gregor."
7. Song Selection: "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen."
8. Selection: "Mikado," from Sullivan's Comic Opera.
9. Popular Song Selections: "With a Song in My Heart," "Spring is Here," "Slouching Men" from "The New Moon."

A Lindsay Chambers who is now with the U.S. Army, in training at Camp Crowder, Missouri, arrived in Huntingdon, this week, for the special purpose of attending the funeral of his late father, Arthur Chambers. Lindsay enlisted in October, 1942, and at present is in the Communication Division, as a sergeant. He is in Canada, the Signal Corps. Change in Church Service Time

Service at the United Church, Huntingdon, on Sunday, will begin fifteen minutes later for the morning service, commencing at 10:45 instead of the usual 10:30. The reason for this is because H. Cap. L. E. Mason, Protestant Chaplain of Chateaugay Barracks will preach at the service and he is unable to arrive before that time. Capt. Mason will also preach at the evening service which will be held at the usual hour.

Kerr and Miss Jean Ferguson, of Montreal, all attended the rally held at the Presbyterian Church, Huntingdon, on Saturday afternoon.

Our old friend Mrs. George White, of Southern Pines, N.C., maintains interest in Huntingdon through reading the Gleaner weekly. This week Mrs. White further demonstrated her interest in the welfare of this community through sending a subscription of $20. for the benefit of The Huntingdon County Hospital for which we all express thanks.

Mrs. White, when she takes pen in hand always sends along a bit of news information, and in part, we are going to pass it along to our readers. I have a garden with a little of almost everything in it. I have been using vegetables from it since the middle of April. Sometimes I think it does not pay, you have to use so much fertilizer in this poor soil, but fresh vegetables are high priced. Late frost killed peaches, raspberries on market at $1 a quart. Only the newly rich soldiers' wives can afford to buy them. We are allowed 10 lbs. of sugar for canning but I don't know where the fruit is coming from.

I am glad you to have a hospital. It is much needed."

Miss Madeline Rider, Montreal, spent the week-end visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Churchill Moore, Wellington St.

Mrs. R. L. Clute and son John, of Toronto, are presently visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Douglass Moore, Chateaugay St.

Mrs. John Teifer and daughter Miss Isabel Teifer of Toronto, are spending a two week's vacation in Huntingdon, the guests of Mrs. J. C. Moore, Chateaugay St.

SOUTH SHORE RALLY AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

The St. Andrew's Presbyterian Y.W.A. entertained the annual South Shore Rally on Saturday afternoon, June 26th, at St. Andrew's Church, Huntingdon, with President Mrs. G. Graham, of Beauharnois, presiding.

Members from Athelstan, Beauharnois, Georgetown, Ormstown, Riverfield and Huntingdon to the number of forty-eight were present. The programme planned by the acting auxiliary members consisted of singing, readings and a questionnaire which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Addresses were given by Mrs. Dunlop, Miss Morton, Miss Jean Ferguson and Mrs. Tristram, of Montreal, on departmental work of auxiliary, and on "Training reports" were read from each group.

An address by Miss Kimball on the Christian life of Madame Chiang-Kai-Shek, proved very interesting, and also greetings from the W.M.S. by vice-president Mrs. Pearce, of Deseriville. Thanks to speakers and an invitation to Athelstan, was extended by Mrs. Baird for the 1944 Rally. Singing of National Anthem brought the successful meeting to a close. Following this a social hour was enjoyed by all present.

Catholics Comprise 43 Percent Of Canada's Total Population

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported recently that results of the 1941 census showed Roman Catholics, including those of the Greek Catholic faith, comprised 43 percent of Canada's total population, and that nine of the principal religious denominations in Canada had more than 100,000 adherents.

The bureau said five other denominations had from 25,000 to 100,000 adherents. The lowest proportions of adherents of the United Church of Canada, whose followers comprised 19.2 percent of the total population; Anglicans, with 15.2 percent; and Presbyterians, 7.2 percent.

Figures by Religions

Figures for each of the religions having more than 100,000 followers, with percentages of the total population in brackets, follow:

Anglican, 1,781,188 (15.2); Baptist, 459,522 (4.2); Greek Orthodox, 139,629 (1.2); Jewish, 168,367 (1.5); Lutheran, 401,153 (3.5); Mennonite, 111,380 (1.0); Presbyterian, 629,147 (7.2); Roman Catholic, 4,886,552 (43.3); United Church of Canada, 2,304,875 (19.2).

In Quebec persons of Roman Catholic faith comprised 86.9 percent of the population, and in New Brunswick 82.2 percent. In Ontario and the Prairie Provinces they formed roughly one-fourth of the population, and in British Columbia only 13.9 percent.

Almost 30 percent of Ontario's population followed the United Church of Canada. About 25 percent

Obituaries

The Late George Arthur Chambers

There passed away on Thursday, June 24th, at his home in Huntingdon, Que., a respected resident in the person of the late George Arthur Chambers, a veteran of last war. He was a member of 149th Bat. in the last war and was wounded. It was the results of this wound which caused his ill health for some time and he was treated in the Military Hospital at St. Anne's, Que., until he returned to Huntingdon a few weeks ago. Previous to his health breaking, the deceased had followed the trade of an expert electrician and was kept very busy with this work.

He was the son of the late Mr. James Chambers and Mrs. Charles, who was formerly Margaret Shearer. The deceased was in his 60th year. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, and one son, Arthur Lindsay, who is serving with United States Air Force, and was present at the funeral.

The funeral service was conducted in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Huntingdon, Que., on Monday, June 28th, by Rev. J. B. Maclean, D.D., assisted by Rev. W. S. Hatcher, of St. John's Anglican Church, Huntingdon. Members of the Canadian Legion, Huntingdon Branch, attended.

Interment took place at the Protestant Cemetery, Huntingdon, and Rev. Maclean was in charge of this service. A squad of soldiers from Chateaugay Barracks fired three volleys over the grave and the Last Post was sounded.

A large number of people attended, attesting to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The Late Mrs. Isabella Daly

Mrs. Isabella Daly, widow of the late Michael Daly, of Montreal, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. Lajoie, in Longueuil, Que., on Saturday, June 26, 1943, after a lingering illness. The deceased was in her 92nd year, and was born in St. Anicet, Que., in 1851, the daughter of the late Peter McNeil and his wife, Mary MacDonald.

She went to Montreal at an early age and later married Michael Daly of that city, who predeceased her about 25 years ago. Mrs. Daly was the last surviving member of her family to mourn her loss other than Charles, and three daughters, Maud (Mrs. Alfred Macdonald) Montreal; Minnie, and Nora (Mrs. A. Lajoie) of Longueuil, Que.; also seven grandchildren.

Baptists were the relatively most numerous in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, with 15.4 and 19.4 percent of their respective populations professing this faith. They were followed by Prince Edward Island, with 5.7 percent, and Ontario with 5.1 percent.

Adherents of the Greek Orthodox Church, together with Lutherans and Mennonites, were found mainly in the Western Provinces; the bureau said. Persons of Jewish faith were concentrated in Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba, with relatively small numbers in the remaining provinces.

Monday Big Day in Town

International Day Carnival Will Provide Plenty of Entertainment

Huntingdon will observe Monday, July 5th, as the holiday this year and to make it more enjoyable the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion is holding an International Day Carnival on that day. Much has been said in the past weeks regarding this carnival that most people will be fully aware of it.

It will be a busy day for all who wish to take part and will commence in the morning at 10 o'clock at Log Lodge with children's sports and a softball game. In the afternoon, commencing at 2 o'clock, the scene will shift to the Fair Grounds, where softball and baseball games, public addresses and other activities will take place.

In the evening at 7:30, the International Parade will take place and should prove to be a colorful affair. Chateaugay Barracks Band and soldiers from the barracks, Company G, Malone, Montreal Fliverts R.C.A.F. Cadets Squadron, Floats, Decorated Bicycles and many other attractions will comprise the parade. Special speakers will address the people at the conclusion of the parade and throughout the day. A big street dance will be held with the Texas Ramblers supplying the music. The big event of the day will take place some time during the dance and that is the drawing for the prizes.

It is expected that a large crowd will be in town for this day and there will be plenty of fun and entertainment for everyone.

Fire at Mrs. K. McConville Farm on Sunday

A fire occurred at the farm of Mrs. Kathleen McConville, Lost Nation Road, on Sunday morning about 5 o'clock, when a car in a milkshed was damaged through a short circuit in the wiring of the car. The damage was kept to a minimum through the fact that it was quickly seen, and with the help of neighbours the flames were soon extinguished. Two tires on the car and the body were badly burned and the walls and roof of the milkshed sustained some damage. It is estimated that the damage would amount to roughly $500.

Wedding

Helen Reeve and Elphege Page were united in marriage at St. Anthony's Church, Montreal, at 11 o'clock Saturday, June 26, 1943. The bride wore an afternoon gown of blue and white and a picture hat to match, with corsage of Johanna roses and white sweet peas. The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Laumon, grandparents of the bride, at Verdun, where 50 guests were entertained. The couple are now spending their honeymoon at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Helm, Kingston, Que.

Major J. H. Molson, Officer Commanding Huntingdon T.C. 41, is shown here congratulating Lieut. Phil Shaughnessy, two-time winner as the army camp ran off their track and field day at the exhibition grounds, Huntingdon, on Thursday last. Lieut. Shaughnessy, son of the famous "Shag" Shaughnessy, president of the International Baseball League, led the way home in the 440 yard dash and tossed the shot put the best distance, as well as helping "B" Company win aggregate honors by taking part in their winning relay team.

Covey Hill

A letter from eastern Ontario told us that hundreds of acres would be unsown this year except for buckwheat and this was not plentiful.

The Cavers-Abbott wedding at Verdun last Saturday was an event of interest to the Hill friends of the groom, Corpl. Cavers of the V.R.C. as he attended school here for several terms, while a member of Mr. Simpson's household.

Miss MacDiarmid closed her school on Friday.

The poet's "sermons in stones," doubtless based on Luke, 19-40, was transposed to "stones in sermons" last Sunday in Hemmingford Presbyterian Church. While the regular church services and the Corpus Christi procession were progressing in the usual orderly way the Sabbath calm was rudely interrupted when a stone came hurtling in through a window, fortunately falling near the pulpit where no one was sitting.

On Sunday afternoon at the Union Church, Covey Hill, Mr. Thomson spoke on "Democracy in Religion," earnestly pleading that those of us who are left at home should guard the freedom for which our young manhood is sacrificing life itself. Mr. Thomson was accompanied from Burlington by Mr. and Mrs. Hill, Sr.

The bus on Tuesday to tidy the church yard was well attended, while the ladies cleaned the church interior.

While Edward Baskin and friends were returning Sunday evening from a convention in North Hatley, Que., the car failed to make a turn and was ditched east of Hemmingford. Mrs. Donald Douglas, also Mrs. Thos. Waddell, were considerably hurt so that they were taken to the Barrie Memorial Hospital. Mrs. S. M. Simpson was able to return home.

Mrs. F. Gordon of Methuen, Mass., arrived last Wednesday to spend some time with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Perry, "Greenlea".

Mrs. Hollis Lowden, Geraldine and Thomas of Hemmingford, have been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Waddell for a few days.

During Sunday evening's terrific storm the Customs House telephone was badly damaged.

Mrs. Griffiths went into town with her daughter last week for a visit of a few days.

Miss Florence Steele is a good deal better under treatment at Montreal General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Watt, Mr. Geo. Watt, and Mr. McClinchy and daughter, Miss Helen McClinchy, all of Montreal, were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Watt.

List Remaining Open For Few More Days

Reports as received for the Greek Relief Fund up to Tuesday noon, show that a sum of $385.65 has been contributed. While the list has not yet been closed, the campaign of officials came to an end on Saturday, but several people have checks in the mail and have notified the local committee to this effect. These did not arrive in time to be included in the list for this issue of The Gleaner. The following is the list of donors and contributions received as above.

Reported in last issue, June 23rd, $235.65. Donations of $1.00 received from Miss Julia Myers, Horton Almond, Albert Dupuis, Miss May Edgar and J. J. Tannahill.

Donations of $2.00 received from Miss E. C. Leeb, Dr. J. E. McEwen, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. E. Platt, F. C. Moore and C. W. McClatchie.

Donations of $5.00 received from P. G. Braithwaite, A. L. Sellar, Anonymous, Wilfred Grant, Dr. H. R. Clouston, Dr. H. E. Purcell, Harry Holiday, Rev. and Mrs. Thos. Knowles, W. A. McClatchie and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Smellie.

Donations of $10.00 received from Mr. and Mrs. A. Pawcett and Mr. and Mrs. E. McHardy.

Miscellaneous donations: A friend from Hemmingford $15.00, B. W. Allen $25.00, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Blachford $4.00 and Louis M. Levine $3.00.

The whole makes a total of $385.65.

Havelock

Mr. and Mrs. McKee, Mrs. R. McKee and Miss Muriel Bastien, of Calgary, Alta., visited friends in Huntingdon recently.

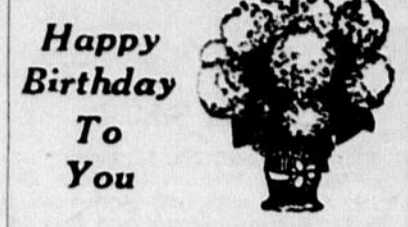

Mrs. Jas. Frier, who spent some time in Ormstown and Montreal has returned home.

Mr. D. R. Douglas motored to Morrisburg, Ont., to visit his daughter, Mrs. Cross, this week. He was accompanied by his niece, Miss Baskin, who is on her way back to Alberta, after spending two weeks with relatives here.

Mrs. Donald Douglas and Mrs. T. Waddell are patients in the Barrie Memorial Hospital, as the result of an accident while returning from North Hatley on Sunday night, east of Hemmingford.

Mrs. Douglas's brother, Mr. Edward Baskin, and her son Phillip, were also in the car, but escaped uninjured. Mrs. Douglas suffered a broken nose and other head injuries, while Mrs. Waddell has a bad cut in the forehead. We wish them both a speedy recovery.

What the C.C.F. Plans To Do With Canada The C.C.F. and the Press

Make no mistake about it, if the C.C.F. comes into power in Canada, it will proceed to carry out its socialist program. As it proceeds with that program it will obliterate that priceless freedom of expression, the freedom of the press, which is the result of centuries of battle in the ceaseless struggle of mankind for light and freedom.

As Richard Brinsley Sheridan said in one of the great debates in the British Commons: "Give them a tyrannical monarch; give them a truckling court; give them a corrupt House of Lords; give them a venal House of Commons—give me an untrammelled press and I will defy them to enroach a hair's breadth on the liberties of England."

The purpose of Canada's socialists as stated in "Social Planning for Canada", a book written by a group headed by Professor Frank Scott, now national chairman of the C.C.F., is in a very substantial way to obliterate advertising. The socialists were rather frank in this their first book.

Anybody reading "Social Planning for Canada" will find like a thin stream of poison running all the way through it, an unremitting animus against advertising. They take a position somewhat as follows: (a) We want socialism in Canada; (b) We want it because we are opposed to capitalism; (c) We are opposed to capitalism because we are opposed to profits; (d) We are opposed to profits because we are opposed to the chief ingredient in the profit system is high pressure, competitive selling of branded articles; (e) The chief ingredient in competitive selling is competitive advertising; (f) Therefore we shall standardize everything, thereby making competitive advertising unnecessary and bringing under the control of a commission such advertising as may be permitted.

Quebec Bonds Over-subscribed

New Issue of $15 Millions Sell on 3.20% — Debt Reduced
A strong reception was accorded an issue of $15 millions of Province of Quebec 3% sinking fund debentures, due 1955, the issue being oversubscribed on the offering day.

These debentures are a direct obligation of the province and a charge as to principal and interest upon the consolidated revenue fund. The purpose was to refund a loan of $15 millions 3-year 2 1/2% debentures, dated Feb. 15, 1943, and called before expiration of their term.

At the Movies
"This Land is Mine"
The plight of occupied Europe under the rule of the conqueror has inspired another drama of taut excitement and underlying comment on men and freedom. "This Land is Mine" being the story of the re-generation of a weakling, offers a rich characterization for the talents of Charles Laughton and sharply-drawn supporting roles for an accomplished cast, including Laurence Harra, George Sanders, Walter Slezak, Kent Smith and Una O'Connor.

a special category, as a national emergency exists. In March, 1942, control of manpower was extended. Restrictions were placed on manpower moving from the farms and on the occupation of able-bodied men and women in certain industries considered non-essential. Controls were further tightened in June and August, 1942. The employment branch of the department has now 216 offices with a staff of 4,400. In April, 1943, the authority was given the department to transfer to essential employment all men not fit for military service who are within the age categories called up for compulsory military training. This power of compulsory transfer to industry has now been extended to youths between the ages of 16 and 18.

The Bomber Press In Great-Britain...

Another in a series of articles written by W. R. Legge and C. V. Charters, who represented the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in a recent tour overseas.

CONFERENCES WITH CABINET MINISTERS

(Article No. 26) By Walter R. Legge

As mentioned in an earlier article, in addition to the conference which we had with Britain's Prime Minister, we had informal meetings with a number of the Cabinet Ministers. Naturally as editors we were particularly interested in meeting the Minister of Information, the Hon. Brendan Bracken. Before his appointment to this post in July, 1942, Mr. Bracken was Parliamentary Secretary to Prime Minister Churchill. He has had practical publishing experience, having been editor of "The Banker," chairman of the "Financial News," and managing director of "The Economist."

Mr. Bracken is the fourth man to have held the Ministry of Information post since the beginning of the war.

Our conference with him was an inspiring one. He told us something about what England is doing. "The people of England," he said, "are working harder than any other people have in any war. A series of nothing but misfortunes has not destroyed our senses. The English people are all out in their war effort, but they will still do more. Whatever happens, we will see this thing through to the absolute end. Some people think that after the war, England will give up her Empire and Imperialism. This is entirely wrong. We will not sell our heritage for a mess of pottage. Only an immense contribution to pay to posterity, and no government will ever agree to the dismemberment of the British Empire. The British lion is not a many dying animal, nor will he be confined in an iron cage. Only in the end to come will the effort of England be really understood."

Such was part of the message that the Hon. Brendan Bracken had for us.

We found the Ministry of Information co-operative during our stay in England. The passes issued by that department were so effective that the others which had been issued to us were almost superfluous.

We met the Hon. Ernest Bevan, Minister of Labour, in his office and had a talk with him. Mr. Bevan was born in 1884 and started his career as a truck driver, was general secretary of the Transport Workers' Union, and, in 1940, became Minister of Labour and National Service. Some people think that he may some day be Prime Minister.

His is one of the most important tasks today, for Britain is manning the world's greatest navy, maintaining armies in many parts of the world, supplying a steady stream of youths for the R.A.F., keeping up home defences, fire fighting and A.R.P. services, and steadily increasing production of war supplies. No wonder that he told us there was no such thing as a saturation point in manpower.

He has made a wonderful success of his task, but it must be remembered that this result could not have been attained without the enthusiastic co-operation of the entire population.

In answer to our question he said that there is very little wilful absenteeism. But when we asked him about labour troubles in certain places, he impatiently replied that the newspapers had no news, and "virtue has no new value."

He thinks that the war is teaching the United Kingdom a great deal about transportation which will have an effect after the war is over.

We had an interesting conference with the Hon. L. S. Amery, who is Secretary for India and Burma. He told us a great deal about the troublesome elements in India. Most of us went away with a new conception of the India problem. We also began to realize how little most people know about it.

Mr. Amery has travelled in most parts of the world, and as we left, he said, "I wish the war were over so that I could pay another visit to Canada."

The last conference we had was with Sir R. Stafford Cripps, who is probably better known to Canadians than any other minister except the Prime Minister. He has been a very successful legal counsel, and is now Lord Privy Seal.

He has a very attractive personality, a keen mind, and our whole impression of him was entirely favourable. It was an intense interesting conference, for he spoke of Russia and his mission to that country, and about India and the failure of his mission there.

Sir Stafford Cripps is a deeply religious man. A few days before we met him he had given an address in Bristol which aroused wide discussion. He declared that he felt the Church had failed to give the leadership expected of it, and that it must be reawakened to a realization of its responsibilities. He thinks that the disestablishment of the Church of England is not far off.

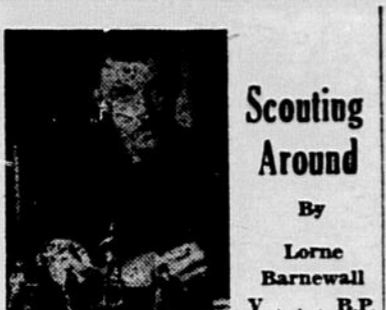

Next to the conference with Prime Minister Churchill, this was the most interesting meeting we had. It gave us much food for thought.

Our conference with Lord Woolton, Minister of Food, and the Hon. Herbert Morrison, Minister of Home Security, have been described in previous articles. Lord Woolton, whose name before he became a peer was Frederick James Marquis, has brought a fine business experience to his task. He was chairman of Lewis Limited, one of Britain's largest departmental stores, treasurer of Liverpool University, chairman of the Liverpool Medical Research Council, director of Martin's Bank and director of the Royal Insurance Co. and of many other corporations.

The way in which he has handled the food situation in England compares the situation of all.

The Hon. Herbert Stanley Morrison is another Labour man, having been secretary of the London Labour Party and also of the National Labour Party. He led the group assailing Chamberlain's war policies. He became Minister of Supply, and later Minister of Home Security. His chief task is to look after CIVIL DEFENCE, which was formerly known as Air Raid Precautions. His talk with us was covered in the tenth article which was about A.R.P. work.

These ministers whom we met are charged with the work of conducting vital parts of the war effort. They gave us a valuable insight into the way they have overcome their problems.

Scouting Around

By Lorne Barnwell V. B.P.

At the conclusion of last week's lecture, Private Black reviewed all his series of lectures in a brief form. He asked the boys of the 1st Huntingdon Troop to study and practice what had been shown and taught them. The boys were informed of the examiner's decision to hold the Ambulance Badge examinations in about two weeks' time. The reason for this decision was reached after due deliberation. It seems that many of the Scouts would be away at School Cadet Camp for a few days and thus it was thought advisable for all concerned to postpone the exams till the time specified. The approximate date will be given later. This will afford every boy the opportunity of trying out for this important badge.

If by any chance some of the local Scouts are able to write and tell me of their experiences in Cadet Camp, I shall be only too glad to share them with our readers through this medium. Also, if any of you happen to be fortunate enough to spend a period at Scout Camp Tamarcote, up in the Laurentian Mountains, around Morin Heights way, I would be more than delighted to follow up the lead you have left behind.

Now, let me delve into my source of information which I'm sure will be found interesting reading. First comes word that Lady Baden-Powell, widow of the late founder of our Boy Scout Movement, returned to England recently from Kenya, in Africa. Kenya, you will recall, is the beautiful spot that B.-P. and his wife loved so much and had lived for a number of years. You will remember, I'm sure, Lady Baden-Powell is the Chief Guide of the world. I came home because I felt I must be in England in the centre of activity. I do not mind danger—in fact I like it," so said Lady B.-P. on her arrival in London. She has great courage, this woman, as well as the will to carry on.

Secondly, word has come concerning the fund which has been instituted and to be known as the Boy Scout Endowment Fund. This fund was opened with a bequest made by the late Sir Edward Beatty, the first and only president of the Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts Association. His bequest amounted to $10,000. It is expected to grow as time goes by.

Thirdly, this is the 25th week that this column has been running. You might call it a sort of anniversary. These local boys are a grand crowd to work for and with, and it is indeed a real privilege to write of their activities.

Well, time has pointed its ugly finger at me again, notifying me that I must close this column until next week, when I hope to bring you some news of what the boys are doing while away from home. Hoping you will all keep happy and keep your sunny sides up, cherrio—Chief.

With this deep, understanding sympathy was combined strong moral fibre; where principle was involved in any sphere of his life, there was complete fearlessness in facing any issue honestly and frankly, doing and saying what he believed to be right.

He loved little children, flowers, animals, and all lovely things. Next in his life was contact with others, the ability and privilege of knowing and speaking the Christian names of so many persons meant much to him.

"The abiding Christ still walks with those who joy in Nature and in simple things and serve his sick and poor" is as applicable to his life as to that of St. Francis of Assisi.

Through the years of unsparring service to others, his personal attributes enriched so many lives, his medical skill brought healing, and beyond praise are "The good deeds which do follow him."

On up over the sunset-clad hills, beyond the valley into the West his noble spirit has gone leaving blessed memories to the many who loved him, and a challenge as well, and we may best honour him if we humbly attempt to carry on in ways he would approve and in which he would appreciate and, and beyond that, we who benefited so much express deepest gratitude for an enriching personality. John Clarke Moore, Hall and farewell!

MARY M. MAITHER, R.N.

In Memoriam

One evening a few years ago, looking out from the porch of an Adirondack Mountain camp, down across a valley and on up over the Western hills to an incredibly beautiful sunset beyond, our beloved physician and friend, John Clarke Moore, deeply moved, voiced some equally beautiful thoughts of the life beyond the visible; thoughts which had come to mind as he travelled the country roads, especially in hours of dawn and sunset, on missions of healing to body, mind, and spirit of countless persons bereft of the comfort and help he always brought, now that he is "away."

For him came dawn, entering life with a fine inheritance, education in its truest interpretation. "That which fits one for life." He developed wisdom, a deep and sympathetic understanding, and other attributes which enabled him to a marked degree to enter the inner sanctuary of many a life, stimulating minds, encouraging troubled souls, that bodily healing might inevitably follow, instinctively realizing that patients were not just cases to be treated scientifically with medicine and surgery, but persons in whom he became deeply interested, often seeing in them possibilities scarcely realized by themselves.

His sureness in diagnosis, skill in medicine and surgery, whether with use of scalpel or surgingon of ill of mind and spirit, inspired faith, confidence and courage, and in consequence established a deep affection between Doctor and patient.

Down through life's valley of labor and experience he has travelled, a rare personality and tower of strength; his contact with others, whether patients, friends or foes, were not just cases to be treated, never sparing himself, ever giving, his great heart always deeply touched by suffering, his skill in its relief too well known, his consistency of repetition. A favorite motto was—

"A rose to the living is more than infinite wreaths to the dead."

This was a practicality, as so many can testify, the giving of the plus beyond mere necessities of professional practice, and one instance seems fitting to insert just here.

A young patient who had utter confidence in him was fighting for life following a long and critical operation he performed; very restless in spirit and begging for attention and remain close by. Utterly weary from work, strain and additional anxiety over an illness in his own home, nevertheless, he remained throughout the night at the bedside, his presence sufficed, giving sleep and rest came with his healing power, the tide turned, and the long uphill process of recovery began. This out-giving of self was what endeared him to so many.

A. E. Hamilton's lines came to reality in his life. "Ask God to give the skill In comfort's art— That thou mayst consecrate be And set apart To a life of sympathy. For heavy is the weight of ill In every heart. And comforters are needed much Of Christ-like touch."

With this deep, understanding sympathy was combined strong moral fibre; where principle was involved in any sphere of his life, there was complete fearlessness in facing any issue honestly and frankly, doing and saying what he believed to be right.

He loved little children, flowers, animals, and all lovely things. Next in his life was contact with others, the ability and privilege of knowing and speaking the Christian names of so many persons meant much to him.

"The abiding Christ still walks with those who joy in Nature and in simple things and serve his sick and poor" is as applicable to his life as to that of St. Francis of Assisi.

Through the years of unsparring service to others, his personal attributes enriched so many lives, his medical skill brought healing, and beyond praise are "The good deeds which do follow him."

On up over the sunset-clad hills, beyond the valley into the West his noble spirit has gone leaving blessed memories to the many who loved him, and a challenge as well, and we may best honour him if we humbly attempt to carry on in ways he would approve and in which he would appreciate and, and beyond that, we who benefited so much express deepest gratitude for an enriching personality. John Clarke Moore, Hall and farewell!

his wife went into its manufacture, only to have it picked up by the preventive officer and burned with gasoline in the presence of witnesses. Other smaller nets have been picked up and it is reported that as a result of this vigilance on the part of the fish officer much better fishing is to be had for those enjoying the sport.

In an attempt to help restock the lakes and rivers with game fish, 1000 base fingerlings were recently released at St. Anicet on the shores of Lake St. Francis. The young bass were tagged before being given their freedom and notices have been posted to the effect that any one catching any of the fish tagged are requested to report the fact of the office of the Association.

Rev. Mr. Hagar and Mrs. Hagar, of Savyerville, Que., moved into the United Church Manse, on Thursday. Rev. Hagar was appointed by the Montreal Presbytery to fill the vacancy in the Dundee and Laguerre charges. Delegates from the Settlement Committee of the Presbytery will be in Dundee for his induction, which is to take place on Friday, July 2, at 11 a.m. Mr. Hagar occupied the pulpit on Sunday morning and preached an optimistic and inspiring sermon to a large congregation.

VITAMINS ARE A VICTORY WEAPON

Nature is lavish with her gift of vitamins in vegetables, fruits and meats. The trouble is that we waste many of them by improper home storage and cooking.

Here are five good rules for a balanced diet:

- Use short cooking time. Long cooking destroys flavour, colour and texture as well as soluble vitamins.
- Use little water, thereby retaining all those valuable vitamins and minerals lost through too much liquid in cooking.
- Have water boiling before adding vegetables.
- Bake vegetables in their skins.
- Roast meat in odorless, draftless heat.

If you are fortunate enough to have electrical refrigeration and cooking facilities, you can store food at correct temperatures and humidities; you can cook it to preserve valuable vitamins and minerals.

So value your electrical equipment. Treat it well and it will serve you well.

CANADA'S FOOD RULES

MILK—Adults one-half pint. Children more than one pint. And never use more than one pint.

FRUITS—One serving of tomatoes daily, or of a citrus fruit, or of tomato juice, or of fresh fruit, fresh, canned, or dried.

VEGETABLES—(In addition to one serving of tomatoes daily) Two servings daily of vegetables, preferably leafy green, or yellow, and frequently raw.

CEREALS AND BREAD—One serving of a whole grain cereal and one serving of white bread, or one serving of white bread, or one serving of white bread, or one serving of white bread.

MEAT, FISH, EGGS, etc.—One serving of a day of meat, fish or meat substitutes, liver, heart or lean beef once a week. Eggs, of at least three or four weekly.
