Over radio, TV, and economic development Liberal platform calls for greater powers

By DAVE BAZAY

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec Liberal party Thursday made public an election platform calling for greater Quebec powers over radio and television, immigration, taxation, social security and economic development.

The party's program for the Quebec general election April 29 was unveiled at a news conference by Liberal Leader Robert Bourassa, who reiterated the party's "unequivocal" stand in favor of federalism.

While the Liberal program referred to separatism as a plunge into adventurism and unknown, it also said the federal system must not maintain "institutions often obsolete and outmoded."

The program said Quebec's problems and social and cultural objectives often differ from problems and objectives in the rest of Canada and the federal system must recognize Quebec's "distinct vocation."

The program said: "Within this system, Quebec must have all the fiscal and economic powers needed to achieve its own social and cultural objectives."

SEE more power
The program's section entitled "the future of Quebec" listed these as domains where greater powers would be sought: Radio and television, immigration, fiscal, social security, economic development.

The party's constitutional position as outlined in the program reflects resolutions adopted during the period when former premier Jean Lesage was still party leader.

Internally, the Liberals put accent on economic development, promising to create 100,000 new jobs in 1971, and social justice, promising to re-group social services in a new department of social affairs.

Economically, the Liberals pledge to accelerate the economy-boosting roles of such departments as industry and commerce, manpower, agriculture, tourism, lands and forests and natural resources. State aid to industry would be increased.

Socially, the Liberals would regroup various income support programs such as pensions and women's compensation and seek to obtain control of the federal government's family allowance program.

In negotiations, with the rest of Canada, a Bourassa-led government would seek:

—A bigger share of federal equalization payments, which Mr. Bourassa said should be increased to account for Quebec's unemployment rate.

—Participation by Quebec in elaboration of federal tariff policy "in sectors which deal directly with Quebec industries."

—"Quebec government participation in decisions concerning state policy on radio and television," including participation in power to issue broadcasting licenses.

—Co-ordination of immigration policies with an effort to establish common criteria for entry of immigrants.

Mr. Bourassa said the only tax he would reduce is the property tax paid by individuals. This would be offset by increased property taxes for corporations.

He said the program stresses regional economic development, calling for regional development funds and use of Hydro-Quebec.

Independent Socreds make vote pitch in ET

By CUTHBERT JONES

Just to make sure that the people of Quebec, whatever their race, color, religious belief, economic philosophy, personal economic position or social aspiration has someone who might meet their particular ideas to vote for, the organizers for le Parti Credit Social Uni are touring the Eastern Townships in an effort to find candidates in the various ridings of the district to carry their banner in the April 29 provincial general elections.

To make the record clear, Credit Social Uni is not a breakaway group from les Creditistes of Real Caouette and his Quebec Lieutenant, Camil Samson.

CLAIM AUTONOMY

Rather they claim to be an entirely autonomous movement whose roots are planted in true social credit theories.

They also see the need for a return to what they term the basic principles of Christian beliefs, among others the need for preserving the confessional features of the Quebec school system.

But they are also violently federalist, declaring that only through a united Canada can their policies be applied and the advancement of Quebec assured.

During his visit to Sherbrooke this week, Paul Poulin, of Montreal, the president of the party organization announced that candidates had already been selected in two Eastern Townships ridings—Gaston Bourbeau, a salesman, in Shefford and Gregoire Beaudoin, a watchman, in Frontenac.

He indicated that men had been selected in at least two other area constituencies while he, himself, is seriously considering running in Sherbrooke.

Should he decide to enter the race here, local electors would have the choice of at least six contestants, a list that could be increased by the time nominations close Wednesday noon by the entry of one or more independents—a development that is considered unlikely.

NO WEEKEND RALLIES

Officially nominated to date are the outgoing Union Nationale MNA Raynald Frechette, who was speaker of the last National Assembly; Jean-Paul Pepin, Liberal; Adelard Larose, Creditiste; Jean Begin, Parti Quebecois, and Dr. J. P. Blouin, New Democratic Party.

While neither of the old-line parties has announced any major rallies over the coming weekend in the Sherbrooke area, the Creditistes and Parti Quebecois plan considerable activity.

Winding up a tour of this region, Camil Samson, Creditiste leader, will address a rally in the St. Francis School in East Sherbrooke on Sunday evening at eight.

Other speakers will include Adelard Larose, the Creditiste candidate in Sherbrooke, and other candidates in the surrounding constituencies.

LIBERAL MEET MONDAY

Gilles Gregoire, one of the key figures in Le Parti Quebecois, will spend the weekend in Richmond County, addressing rallies at Windsor, Asbestos and other centres in support of the separatist candidate, Maurice Tremblay.

The next meeting scheduled for Sherbrooke County will be a gathering of English-speaking electors at St. Patrick's School Monday night in favor of Liberal candidate, Jean-Paul Pepin. The speaker will be William Tetley, MNA for Notre Dame de Grace, Montreal.

Government still resists postal union demands

OTTAWA (CP) — Little progress was reported at a Thursday night meeting between the government and representatives of unemployed Montreal mail-truck drivers.

Negotiations on terms of entry of the drivers into the employment of the post office remained deadlocked. The government continued to resist a basic demand that the men be allowed to carry their union into the public service.

However, the government agreed to investigate union claims that seniority clauses in the present postal workers-government contract have failed in the past to provide complete job security in some instances.

A new development in the three-month old dispute was the presence at the meeting in the office of Treasury Board President C. M. Drury of Jean Marchand, minister of regional economic expansion.

Mr. Marchand is a former president of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions which is representing the drivers' union in the talks with the government.

WAS CURIOUS

He refused comment on the evening's discussion but when asked why he had attended, he replied lightly: "I just wanted to see how this collective bargaining thing works."

Mr. Drury, outlining for reporters the course of the discussion.

Bertrand promises freeways

HULL, Que. (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, on the hustings for the Quebec general election April 29, Thursday night announced plans to construct two freeways in the Hull area.

Mr. Bertrand told about 300 persons gathered in the city's town hall that the department of highways will call for tenders within the next few days for construction of a $52,000,000 freeway between Gatineau and Aylmer, a stretch of 13.5 miles.

He said plans are being studied for a second autoroute between Hull and Wakefield, a distance of about 30 miles.

"The time now has come when other regions besides Montreal and Quebec City benefit from regionalization," he said.

Mr. Bertrand did not specify the cost of the proposed Hull-Wakefield autoroute nor when work would begin.

Mr. Bertrand, accompanied by his wife, made several other stops in this southern region and was met by groups ranging from 150 to 300 persons.

In Buckingham Mr. Bertrand told about 150 persons gathered in a local hotel: "If you have problems, you may tend to ignore them because you do not want to put politicians on the spot with election promises... that are sometimes not feasible."

Later, Mr. Bertrand promised a bridge to residents of the tiny hamlet of Thurso.

Mr. Bertrand then made a stop at Shawville, about 55 miles northeast of Ottawa, where he was warmly greeted by residents of the mainly English-speaking region.

He reiterated his stand on the need to settle the constitutional issues with Ottawa within the next four years.

The Union Nationale's constitutional plank calls for the federal and Quebec governments to resolve their constitutional differences by 1974 or the province will go about setting up a presidential system.

Flowers for a better world

FLOWER GIRL — Pretty Louise Jacques, 19, a first-psycho student at the University of Sherbrooke cradles a bouquet of daffodils which will be sold all over the Eastern Townships today. Proceeds from the sale of the flowers will go toward the work of the Canadian Cancer Society. The 800 volunteers will be selling the flowers in about 80 locations in the hope that 600,000 of the springtime blooms can be sold.

To combat dairy surplus

Farmers plan ad drive

By RICHARD SPALDING

LENNOXVILLE — Quebec dairy farmers may soon have to decide between dumping money into advertising or dumping milk into the river.

The production restricting measures of the recently-announced federal government milk policy, and Quebec's exaggerated milk production surplus, is threatening to put many small dairy farms out of business.

But local dairy farmers are convinced they will not take the issue lying down.

A group of about 120 non-militant local milk producers last night agreed that the only solution to the production surplus in Quebec lies in sinking more money into advertising.

Although Quebec farmers are responsible for 35 per cent of national dairy production, they have realized that their nine per cent contribution to national dairy advertising is not enough.

In fact, Quebec dairy farmers are only spending $90,000, a year in promoting their products.

Things are in a mess right now because the federal government's multi-pronged milk policy plan launched April 1, 1970, is aimed at increasing net profits for farmers by discouraging surplus production of dairy products.

In announcing the Canadian Dairy Commission policy, federal Agriculture minister Bud Olson said the biggest problem facing Canadian farmers is

Mr. Olson had said that under present conditions the cost of disposing of surplus products was using up about one-third of the funds provided for dairy supports.

"In view of the world surplus and discouraging outlook of world prices for dairy products, we firmly believe that it is in the best interest of dairy farmers who hold Canadian Dairy Commission quotas to limit production to domestic requirements," Minister Olson had said.

Under the terms of the new milk policy, local farmers receive no subsidies for excess production.

Instigated by the Quebec Farmer's Association, last night's meeting drew members from other area farm associations and leaflets were passed around the dimly-lit assembly hall preaching the benefits of that association.

Armed with statistics depicting the dairy situation in Canada, the Quebec Farmer's Association plan last night urged local dairy farmers to press for compulsory participation in a Quebec-based advertising program.

The group will try to sell the idea at a provincial meeting to be held later during the month, when members of all dairy associations will be meeting to plan strategy.

Single-handedly, Jean Paul Laurin, the 33-year-old provincial director of the Canadian Dairy Food Service Bureau in Montreal convinced the milk producers last night that advertising was the key to the solution.

Apollo shot depends on rookie astronaut's ability to plug gap

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The exposure of astronaut Thomas K. Mattingly II to German measles was confirmed Thursday, and the launch of the Apollo 13 moon voyage hung on the ability of a husky blonde rookie to do a whirlwind job of plugging the gap.

John L. Swigert Jr., thrust from a backup astronaut's role into the prime crew with just two days to catch up, began a crash training program with astronauts James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr.

Medical experts at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., tested the blood samples of another backup astronaut, Charles Duke, and reaffirmed an early diagnosis that he has German measles.

Duke, suffering from a rash, fever and arthritic-like inflammation of his fingers and wrists, exposed both the prime and backup crew members last week. Lovell, Haise and Swigert are immune to the disease, but Mattingly is not.

Doctors recommended that Mattingly not fly Saturday. The final decision in Mattingly will be made by Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, but officials said he undoubtedly will accept the recommendation.

The 38-year-old Swigert went through critical rehearsals with Lovell and Haise of lunar-orbit activities and short situations for the launch pad and near the moon. All require perfect, split-second teamwork.

The ultimate decision on whether to blast off as scheduled Saturday at 2:13 p.m. EST or postpone until the next favorable date, May 9, hinges on flight commander Lovell's judgment whether the last-minute replacement will affect the team's co-ordination.

Again the final decision will be made by Paine, but Lovell's recommendation will have considerable weight.

ing his ace-king-jack of trumps and two baby clubs North held two spades, a diamond and the 10-6 of trumps. Poor West still had the five trumps he had started with.

Now South led one of his little clubs. West went into one of those huddles to end all huddles. South showed him his hand but West continued to huddle. Finally South said, "I'll let you try both plays you are thinking of. If you ruff low, I will just overruff in dummy for my ninth trick and will still make all my trumps, since I have no intention of ruffing with my jack. If you ruff high, you will have no way to keep me from making all my three trumps and dummy's 16 later on."

South's jump to four hearts illustrates another bridge disease: Overvaluation of your own suit. We can't blame North for blasting to a slam after that jump nor can we fault West for doubling the slam. His trump holding looked good enough to be proof against any series of plays by declarer.

Actually, West was so sure of himself that he decided to go out for a big set. Therefore, he opened the jack of diamonds and sat back to cash in on the expected bonanza.

There was a bonanza, all right, but it went to North and South. South promptly cashed dummy's top diamonds to get rid of his spades. Then he ruffed a spade, went to dummy with a top club, ruffed another spade, played another club to dummy and ruffed a third spade.

At this point, South had eight tricks in and was hold-

Stanstead Creditiste candidate promises to eliminate government graft

The Creditiste candidate for Stanstead County last night told a Fitch Bay audience that if his party is placed in power it will reduce government expenditures 35 per cent by eliminating graft.

And citing the acquisition and use of a private aircraft by the Union Nationale government, Jean Loslier said there is no need for the government to be taking trips to France and England.

Claiming that the people of the province are "fed up" with the old parties — Liberals and Union

Nationale — Jean Loslier said everyone should work together in trying something new.

He said voters will have nothing to gain if they elect either of the two major parties. "Quebec is poorer than ever before," he said, adding that it would remain that way if the Liberals or the Union Nationale win the April 29 provincial election.

The insurance agent and former Magog alderman said the government, before attempting to meet new people through flying trips to Britain and France, should strive for peace at home.

"We don't have to bicker among the different ethnic, religious and national groups," he told the 65 persons attending the campaign meeting in a Fitch Bay school auditorium.

"Everyone's always trying to put the blame on someone else," Loslier said Quebec is poor in spite of the fact that it has a great many natural resources. He claimed Creditiste governments in Alberta and British Columbia have eliminated provincial debts there, while Quebec's ranges up into the billions of dollars.

During the past few years, he said, the Quebec sales tax has risen in stages from "two per cent to four per cent to six per cent to eight per cent."

"If one of the old parties gets in again, don't be surprised if it goes to 10 per cent," he said.

One of the Creditiste campaign platforms is to abolish the sales tax on purchases amounting to less than $100.

During a question period after his speech, Loslier said the tax would remain at eight per cent on purchases over the $100 mark, "but maybe it could change eventually."

The father of five also praised the role credit unions are playing in the province.

"They started from scratch among the working class and now they own about nine corporations," he said.

Chain reaction collision Sherbrooke man killed in King St. accident

SHERBROOKE — A 62-year-old Sherbrooke man was killed yesterday when he was dragged 50 feet down King Street under a dumptruck that had been struck by a runaway stake-truck loaded with concrete blocks.

The chain-reaction collision that killed Arthur Lafrance of 222 Gillespie St. was witnessed by the lunch-hour crowd at King and Wellington.

Police said Mr. Lafrance, a city employee was placing road markers in front of the Sherbrooke Public Works vehicle when it was struck from behind by a heavily-laden truck owned by Miron, Inc., and driven by Clement Guay, 42, of Ville D'Anjou. Mr. Guay told police the brakes failed on the truck.

Guay's truck glanced off a green pickup truck driven by Jean Vaillancourt, 27, slightly damaging the truck and leaving the driver shaken up.

The truck kept moving, piling into the rear of the Sherbrooke Works Department truck parked about 60 feet up the hill. Although the impact moved the city truck six feet over and 50 feet down the hill, driver Joseph Dumas, 58, was unhurt.

However, Arthur Lafrance was working in front of the truck at the time and he was dragged under the truck and carried along, sustaining severe hip and skull fractures.

Lafrance was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital.

The concrete truck kept on moving meanwhile, rolling to a stop without further incident opposite the Normandy Hotel.

No charges are being pressed against the driver of the truck at this time.

KING ST. ACCIDENT — One man, a city employee, was killed yesterday in a chain reaction collision on King St. at lunch hour. The accident occurred when a cement truck ran into a public works truck (Photos) which in turn ran over Arthur Lafrance who was working on the street in front of the truck.

April 16 to 19 Music Festivals auditions for Sherbrooke at CEGEP

The auditions of the Quebec Music Festivals for the section of Sherbrooke will be held from April 16th to April 19th at the CEGEP on Terrill Street.

During these four days we will be honored by the presence of three distinguished and highly qualified judges, Mr. Leonard Isaacs, Jean-Yves Landry and Boris Roubakine.

Mr. Leonard Isaacs, born in Manchester, England, studied with Herbert Fryer, Gordon Jacob and Sir Malcolm Sargent at the Royal College of Music. Also in Paris with Alfred Cortot and in Berlin with Egon Petri.

His studies consisted of piano, cor, composition and orchestral direction. From 1936 to 1963 he was employed by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Mr. Isaacs has taken up permanent residence in Winnipeg since 1963 where he is director of the Manitoba Music School.

Mr. Jean-Yves Landry studied at the Music Conservatory of the province of Quebec with Claude Champagne and Jean Vallierand. Also with Rudolf Ganz at the Chicago Musical College. He received a bursary from the provincial government and a first prize from the Conservatory of the province of Quebec for orchestral direction.

The Sherbrooke Hospital School of Nursing will not be accepting applicants for first year training in September 1970.

This decision is made following directions received from Dr. Jacques Gelinas, Deputy Minister of Health, and is in keeping with the plans in the Province to phase out hospital schools of nursing and to teach diploma nursing courses in the CEGEP's.

A sub-committee of the Organizing Committee, English language CEGEP, Sherbrooke Region, is considering a nursing course in Sherbrooke. When definite plans have been formed, a formal announcement will be made. Students graduating from High School in this area interested in nursing might submit their names, if they have not already done so, to Miss Jean MacMillan, Director of Nursing, Sherbrooke Hospital, a member of the sub-committee.

An expensive lesson

The Santa Barbara oil spill of January, 1969, was, in the light of drilling experience in the channel up to that time, an unforeseeable accident, a fluke response by Mother Earth to man's intrusions into the thin skin that took even government geologists by surprise.

This sort of thing happens. The February, 1970, spill in the Gulf of Mexico off Louisiana — called a much worse disaster than Santa Barbara by U. S. Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hinkel — was, however, apparently both foreseeable and preventable.

This sort of thing definitely does not have to happen. Hinkel has accused the Chevron Oil Company, operator of the still-uncontrolled well, of some 137 separate violations of federal drilling regulations in its bloc of wells in this area.

Chief of these was the company's unauthorized removal of a downhole storm choke (a safety device to stop oil flow when it begins surging) on the well responsible for a massive oil slick endangering coastal wildlife and fisheries. He believes this to be the possible cause of the fire which struck the well on February 10, followed by a runaway gusher that at its height leaked 1,000 barrels of crude oil a day into the waters of the Gulf.

According to William T. Pecora, head of the U.S. Geological Survey, to choke evidently was removed because it reduced the production of the well.

Talk about a kingdom lost for want of a nail. For want of a $1,000 choke, Chevron began losing $1 million a day in lost production and clean-up costs. It would also face fines of $2,000 a day for each of the 137 violations if the government prosecutes, plus many millions of dollars in liability claims.

A company spokesman has stated that a storm choke would not necessarily have prevented the fire.

But the presence of a choke certainly would not have caused it.

It may not be provable that a choke would have prevented the disaster. The burden of proving the contrary, however, rests with the company, which is in a very poor position to defend itself.

With or without government prosecution, with or without the public's growing alarm over pollution and its wearing patience with those who cause it, this latest oil spill spectacularly has taught the oil industry — all industry — a fundamental lesson in economics that should never have been needed to be taught: Short-cutting on safety to enhance immediate profits can be exceedingly expensive in the long run.

Need concerted action

The murder of the West German ambassador to Guatemala cannot but create a feeling of horror and revulsion in all civilized nations and the Bonn government's reaction to this crime is thoroughly understandable.

Logically it has announced the withdrawal of its embassy staff from the Central American country and has indicated that it is contemplating further steps. Probably one of these steps will be the placing of its diplomatic relations with Guatemala in deep freeze, a move which would be fully justified in the light of the atrocity.

This was not the first case in recent months in which Latin-America-based diplomats have been kidnapped by revolutionaries and held as hostages as a means of forcing concessions out of the ruling government.

Unfortunately the West German ambassador fared worse than his colleagues as the Guatemalan regime refused to deal with the kidnappers, the envoy being murdered in consequence.

The incidence creates a serious issue. Should foreign diplomats be expected to maintain their posts in such a climate of terrorism and there is an element of the unspeakable in making innocent foreign diplomats pawns in the internal struggles of any nation.

For their own protection other nations should make it clear to the Latin-American republics that they will not tolerate such threats to the lives of their representatives — even to the point of withdrawing their embassy staffs until the governments of the troubled countries can give adequate proof they are in a position to safeguard the lives of the diplomats.

A divided but co-operating Germany

Harold Morrison, Chief of Bureau for The Canadian Press in London, has been visiting divided Germany, where the first cautious exchanges between East and West leaders have begun. In this first of a series of articles, he sees the possibility of recognition by Bonn of the Communist East German regime.

By HAROLD MORRISON
BONN (CP) Long-cherished German dreams of reunifying the old Fatherland are being swept away by gradual acceptance of realities which suggest a more co-operative relationship between West and East Germany.

Chancellor Willy Brandt has made the first move, hinting at diplomatic and political concessions for East Germany in step-by-step negotiations which eventually could lead to recognition of East Germany as a separate state.

There is some opposition in this West German capital to Brandt's bold approach, with the old guard in West Germany still clinging to the dream of reunification and others suggesting there is no way of appeasing the Communists. One concession would just give rise to demands for more, they contend.

FEARS THE PRICE
"Our concern is that Germany will have to become neutral, like Finland, as the price for settlement with Eastern Europe," says Dr. Goetz Fehr, head of Inter Naciones, a government-financed agency which sponsors cultural exchanges with other countries. "West Germany will not accept this price."

In West Berlin, where Brandt's approach to East German Premier Willi Stoph are being watched with great eagerness, Mayor Klaus Schuetz fully supports the chancellor's moves providing the outcome does not lead to removal of the Western powers from his Communist-encircled city.

Recognition is no high price to pay for more-secure communications between West

Berlin and West Germany and for freer access to East Berlin, he says.

In fact, Brandt's recent meeting with Stoph at Erfurt, in East Germany, may in itself indicate a form of recognition of a separate government, Schuetz says.

"We all have got to recognize the realities that have developed."

FAVORS NEW TREATY
Schuetz, who is a close friend of Brandt's, says he wouldn't mind an exchange of formal de jure recognition—"I don't see very much difference... I do recognize the existence of East Germany. I'm in favor of a treaty between the (East) German Democratic Republic and the Federal Republic that is binding."

The criticism that Brandt is merely giving in to the Communists in his willingness to bargain with Stoph is strongly advanced by the opposing Christian Democrats, especially by the party's right wing.

But in the West German foreign office, the argument that the Communists may be pushing a grand design to neutralize and finally absorb West Germany is quickly dismissed as unrealistic.

A spokesman says the Bonn government is convinced it is not in the Soviet Union's interest to see East and West Germany reunited—even under the Hammer and Sickle.

"A reunited Germany, under any circumstances, would be too strong for the Soviet Union," he suggests. "As you have seen, the Russians have had enough trouble with Hungary and Czechoslovakia. It would not help them to have at their side an even stronger industrial power which could cause considerable unbalance. It would suit them better to have Germany remain divided."

MUST SUPPORT IT
Schuetz believes that despite the criticism of the Christian Democrats, the majority of West Germans fully support Brandt's approach.

"You can sacrifice something if you have it," he says. "But we don't have reunification."

The growing acceptance of the status quo is also coupled with the more shadowy vision that perhaps one day the two countries may be united as part of a grand European settlement when the cold war is dismantled completely. But Bonn officials who touch on this idea emphasize that this is not a reality of this generation.

Meanwhile West Germany remains in the front line of the European cold war. It is NATO's staunchest member, determined to remain firmly in the West, though, as one Bonn official put it, ready to explore its position as a possible "bridgehead" to the East.

The Bonn government supports a great number of cultural and other exchanges with East European Communist countries, sponsoring trips by lecturers and artists, scientists and teachers as well as trade and other projects.

ENDORSE LONDON BID
At the same time it enthusiastically pushes for an expansion of the European Common Market and keenly endorses Britain's entry bid.

This support for Britain's entry is coupled with some concern that the British people are really not behind the entry move, thereby raising questions of how serious Prime Minister Wilson will be about negotiations.

"The number of people in Britain who oppose Britain's membership is growing continuously," says Prof. Rolf Dahrendorf, the foreign office parliamentary secretary. "There is a growing feeling in Germany that Britain is not really anxious to join."

This concern springs from a seven-country opinion poll published in Paris-Match in mid-March. It found that while Europeans are overwhelmingly in favor of constructing a United States of Europe, the British public is overwhelmingly against it. The poll suggested that the British people are hostile to union with the Continent.

REJECT SANCTIONS
"This is clearly disappointing," Dahrendorf says.

Nonetheless Germany is expanding its co-operation with Britain on a number of fronts—including three-country work on a nuclear centrifuge and development of a new fighter aircraft which may replace the Starfighter after 1975.

But in one area West Germany will not co-operate—and that is in support of Britain's policy on Rhodesia.

Germany does not believe in sanctions against Rhodesia and does not enforce them, Dahrendorf says.

"They're right, immediate steps MUST be taken — take fish off the canteen menu!"

A damning mid-term assessment

Sometimes, one praises to damn; or, if not to damn, to pinpoint.

Whatever my intention, I was aggravated enough a year ago to advise that if one wished to read or listen to sympathetic, well-informed interpretations of the Trudeau Government one should follow the work of Ron Collister (CBC TV), Anthony Westell (Toronto Star) and W. A. Wilson (Montreal Star).

Each is experienced in newspaper work and in covering politics. Each, it seemed to me, had taken, at the least, an attitude toward the Government which was generally favoring and quite optimistic about its leadership, talent and purpose.

Having made the suggestion, I've tended to watch the work of this commentator and these two columnists. The rapport or empathy of Mr. Collister with the Government still seems evident. Not so the columnists. I can't in fairness suggest that they've simply changed or become detached and more objective, but on balance each has become more critical as the months have permitted the Trudeau Government to develop a record.

The purpose of this preface is to get us to a column Mr. Wilson had in his home paper last week. It was headed: Weaknesses Of The Government. It represents the harshest, thoughtful assessment of the Trudeau Government I've seen by a non-politician who is close to it.

Mr. Wilson is serious, even dour, in almost all his writing. He has a rather courtly, gentlemanly code which he brings to his work. Thus Eric Kierans is not an "ass" or a "disaster." Mr. Wilson is not quite so blunt. Rather: "Mr. Kierans' performance as minister of communications would tax human credulity if it were not all a matter of public record."

Is it possible that I and others who write about politics are too introspective, too caught up in our own small world with the politicians, too convinced of the significance of what we say, so that our values and opinions are distorted? Yes, quite likely, and there's only one thing more insufferable than a bigoted politician, and that's a bigoted pundit.

I may be inflating the significance of what Mr. Wilson is writing. I see it as this: A fair, crystallizing judgment on the Trudeau Administration. If it is accurate — and I think it is — the likely course of Federal politics is a reversion to a minority government period as between 1962-1968.

One reason why I quote so generously from it is to demonstrate to those who may dismiss my own criticisms of the Trudeau Government as partisan that another without my bias is even rougher.

For example:
"Arbitrary action mixed with blind stubbornness is the most disturbing substitute in government for clarity of purpose and a sensitive understanding of the needs and desires of the public.

"It would still be excessive to say at this point that this has become the dominant characteristic of Mr. Trudeau's Administration, but it can be detected with increasing frequency. Unless it is corrected by the Prime Minister himself, it will grow. It is precisely the quality that destroys governments when they have to return to the public and permit judgment upon their conduct.

"As recently as six months ago, I would have predicted with some confidence a long life for the present Government. Despite the obvious inability of the Conservative Party to recover under the ineffective leadership of Mr. Stanfield, I would not do so today. One can already see too many of the seeds of a new period of minority government ahead, probably conducted by the Liberals, but without the present power, in the use of which they show little competence.

"The weakness of Mr. Trudeau's Government is exactly that of the Diefenbaker administration 10 years ago. It is essentially a problem of negative ideology. Like Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Trudeau has been unable — or, in his case, perhaps, unwilling — to impress upon his Cabinet any fundamental political philosophy. He has merely left them with a respect of efficiency, which is not an end in itself and which, without purpose, does not even produce true efficiency. Thus it is not possible to day to say of this Government whether it is liberal or conservative: It is merely an administration."

Mr. Wilson finds only three exceptions in talent and humanity in Ministers Mackasey, Turner and Marchand. He dissects Messrs. McIlraith, Kierans and Benson in performance as archetypal samples of the Administration's mindlessness.

He concludes: "Meanwhile, Mr. Trudeau skis to escape the albatrosses awaiting him in the capital. But the heaviest albatross is his own. It is his refusal to be guided by instincts which are sound."

I can find a few more ministers to be optimistic about, for example, Jack Davis or Jean Luc Pepin (each tends to be an efficient technician). I think one must be cautious about doom-saying this Government. It hasn't really been challenged by either noisy and bitter public unpopularity or by the opposition spokesmen and parties. It might respond to them very well.

Meantime, Mr. Wilson's mid-term assessment is both credible to his colleagues and much marked and noted by the Government politicians of my acquaintance. Perhaps even Mr. Trudeau read it when he returned from skiing.

"Nader's Raiders" at it again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has permitted itself to be shackled to a chemical and genetic time bomb by the food industry, a report by investigators working under consumer advocate Ralph Nader said today.

"Nader's Raiders" charged the agency with wasting time on senseless campaigns of harassment while the food industry develops techniques "for manipulating the content of food products as dictated by corporate greed and irresponsibility."

"Until the FDA recognizes the food business for the profit-making giant that it is, this public agency will continue to be the vessel of an industry which through callousness, ignorance, or greed routinely mauls the public interest," the report said.

The report, devoted almost entirely to what it termed the "total collapse" of the FDA's food regulation activities, said the agency had in effect reversed procedures for ensuring the safety of food additives.

Instead of following the law requiring that additives be safe, the report said the FDA accepts often insubstantial industry evidence, allows the chemicals' use and then challenges critical researchers to prove the ingredients unsafe.

In addition, the report said, the agency allows the industry to mask the additives' presence by freeing producers from the responsibility of listing ingredients on labels.

Also called into question by the investigators was the FDA's attitude toward pesticides and food.

Over a three-year period ending in June, 1966, the agency inspected 49,044 food shipments for pesticide residues in excess of federal tolerances, the investigators said, a total of 0.7 per cent of all shipments.

"With over a 99-per-cent chance of going undetected, there is little incentive provided by the program to apply pesticides sparingly," the report said.

The result, said the report, has been deteriorating quality of the U.S. food supply, permitting the market basket to become a carrier of disease and allergies for this generation and possible mutation for future generations.

Accusing the FDA of ignoring as long as possible evidence that additives like cyclamates cause cancer, the report alleged a similar lack of concern for the genetic effects of additives permitted on the market could lead to disaster.

Real Diary

The "Diary of Samuel Pepys" was a genuine chronicle of the daily life of the author from 1660 to 1669. Originally in cipher, it was not published until 1825, and it is believed that he intended the diary only for his own enjoyment.

Population soars

WASHINGTON (CP) — The world's population is growing at a rate of 8,292 an hour and 138 a minute and by the middle of this year will reach 3,632,000,000 people.

These statistics were announced Tuesday by the Population Reference Bureau, a private non-profit organization which issues an annual world population date sheet among other publications.

The 1970 data sheet says that at its current annual growth rate of approximately two per cent, the world will gain 72,600,000 people this year, more than any other year in history.

This increase will represent the difference between an estimated 123,400,000 births and 50,800,000 deaths.

The report says the fastest growing countries are Kuwait and Costa Rica, and the slowest growing are East Germany and Hungary.

Kuwait is labelled "a special case" because its high birth and low death rates are augmented by great numbers of immigrants attracted by a booming oil industry.

Kuwait's yearly percentage increase is listed at 8.3 per cent, about half of which is from migration, and Costa Rica's is 3.8 per cent, virtually all due to a natural increase in population.

BIRTH RATE LOW

The report says the world's lowest birth rates are East Germany's 14.3 for every 1,000 persons a year, Sweden's 14.3 and Luxembourg's 14.2.

Sweden and Norway have the lowest infant mortality rates, with an average of 13 deaths a year for every 1,000 children under the age of one year.

The report noted that the developed nations of North America, Europe, the Soviet Union, Oceania and Japan have about one-third of the world's population and are growing at an average of about one per cent a year.

The underdeveloped nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America contain about 2,600,000,000 people and are growing by a rate of between 2.3 and 2.9 per cent a year.

Mt. Everest

Plunge kills six

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Six Nepalese Sherpas have been killed by a huge block of ice that fell on them while guiding a Japanese expedition up Mount Everest, a message reaching here said today.

It was the worst disaster ever reported on the world's highest mountain.

The message said the accident occurred last Sunday and that two other Sherpas were rescued.

The ice block roared down the slopes of the mountain as the Sherpas were at an altitude of 18,860 feet — 10,168 feet below the summit — carrying equipment to the first main camp site.

It took a Japanese rescue party until Monday to recover the bodies from a crevice into which they plunged.

The message did not mention injuries to any of the Japanese in the expedition, which is led by Yuichi Miura, 36. Nor was there any word whether the deaths would halt the Japanese plans to ski down Everest's slopes later this month.

Sunday Sermon Subject for April 12, 1970
The Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday asks the question, "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" Answers are given from the Bible in accounts of the way Jesus healed a mentally deranged boy and a man unable to walk for thirty-eight years. His injunction, "Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils" is included in the Bible readings. The unreality of sin, disease and death is explained in one of the citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, which reads: "Since God is All, there is no room for His unlikeness. God, Spirit, alone created all, and called it good. Therefore, evil, being contrary to good, is unreal, and cannot be the product of God."

Sex discrimination exists in news media

OTTAWA (CP) — Discrimination against women as employees persists in Canadian newspapers and broadcasting, the special Senate committee on mass media has been told.
Eleanor Dunn, assistant women's editor of the Ottawa Citizen, said in a written submission that sex discrimination exists in pay, working conditions and opportunities for employment, advancement and assignments.

The submission, released for publication today, was among those for which the committee has not scheduled personal appearances at its public hearings.
A survey last fall by the Canadian Women's Press Club, which obtained 36 responses, showed that women's page editors generally are required to be administrators, editors, layout experts, columnists and reporters. Women's page reporters likewise often are required to do layout and headline writing-tasks newsroom reporters generally are not required to perform.

RECEIVE LESS PAY
"In spite of the spread of skills required of them, close to half who answered receive less pay than male editors," the survey found.
Pay figures from newspapers with union contracts with the American Newspaper Guild show: On the Brantford Expositor, weekly minimum pay is $131.20 for women's page writers, $12.73 below the scale for other writers.

On the New Westminster Columbian, the weekly minimum for women's page reporters, at $113.46, is $34.80 less than the minimum for other writers.
A social writer on the Oshawa Times was getting $69.55 weekly a year ago, at a time when the rate for news writers was $123.05.

NEW EXECUTIVE — The Sherbrooke Ladies Curling Club held their closing banquet on Tuesday evening. Members of the executive shown from left are: Mrs. A. G. Currie, 2nd vice-president, Mrs. H. Dale, immediate past president; Mrs. T. Moore, president and Mrs. D. Jones, treasurer. Other officers for the 70-71 season are: honorary president, Mrs. H. B. Johnston; 1st vice-president, Mrs. D. Conley; recording secretary, Mrs. I. Lavallee and corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. Chartier. Directors are, Mrs. O. Goyette, Mrs. M. W. Williams, Mrs. H. Mooney and Mrs. G. Armstrong. I.C.A. delegate is Mrs. J. L. Killoran with Mrs. W. M. Elliott as alternate delegate. (Record Photo Service)

ST. PATRICK MISSION CIRCLE TEA
A capacity crowd attended the ham and salad tea in St. Patrick's Church Hall on April 4th.
The guests were received by Miss Evelyn Hebert, Vice-President and Mrs. Alberic Julien, Past President.
The hall, stage and curtains were very attractively decorated with large colored paper eggs and Spring flowers.
The tea table, covered with an ecru lace cloth, was centered with a large floral arrangement of yellow mums flanked by yellow candles in silver candelabra.
The guest tables were centered with little chicks hatching from colored eggs.
The salad bar had a center of an Easter cart drawn by a bunny, the cart being filled with colorful gum drops.
The food and gift table and surprise box table were very well patronized.

LENNOXVILLE AUXILIARY FOR RETARDED CHILDREN
At a recent meeting of the Lennoxville Auxiliary of the Sherbrooke Association for Retarded Children, the following slate of officers was presented: honorary president, Miss Grace Stevens; president, Mrs. D. Bennett; vice-president, Mrs. J. Noble; secretary, Mrs. H. Dale; treasurer, Mrs. H. Thompson; French speaking correspondent, Mrs. R. Boisvert; English correspondent, Mrs. K. Lane; telephone committee, Mrs. R. Forbes; Mrs. St. Dizier and Mrs. Vaughan; publicity, Mrs. C. Groenewald.

The treasurer reported the following donations: $500 to the summer camp for retarded children; $200 to the Butters Memorial; $200 to Alderbrook Home and School Association Inc.; $115 to Dollard Desormeaux School in Lennoxville.
A Food Sale will be held at Hadlock's Store on April 17 at 2 p.m. Co-chairmen are Mrs. E. Denison and Mrs. N. Tracy.

Discrimination existed despite the fact that women staff often have higher qualifications than male counterparts — nine of 11 women on the editorial staff of The Citizen have university degrees.
Citing other forms of discrimination, Mrs. Dunn says few women are assigned to the Parliamentary Press Gallery in Ottawa and she attributed that to "the preponderantly male management" of newspapers.
Women reporters in Ottawa also are at a disadvantage because they are barred from membership in the National Press Club, a facility used by male reporters as a source of information as well as for social relaxation, Mrs. Dunn said.

Brides entertained

BISHOPTON — Myrna Joyce of Calgary and Arlene Rolfe of Schefferville were the guests of honor at a miscellaneous shower in the Bishopton Town Hall on Monday evening, attended by some sixty guests.
The brides-to-be were each presented with a corsage of pink carnations and escorted to their seats by Mrs. James Mayhew and Miss P. Harrison. Mrs. Gordon Joyce and Mrs. Cyril Rolfe were seated with their daughters and assisted them in the pleasant task of opening the many lovely gifts, arranged on two decorated tables.
Miss Rolfe and Miss Joyce expressed their appreciation of the gifts and the pleasant evening.
A buffet lunch was served. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. R. McKell of Lennoxville, Miss Irene Harrison of Sherbrooke and Mrs. Lloyd Harrison.

ROYAL BANK DIRECTOR

CHARLES E. M. HARDIE
The Royal Bank of Canada is pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. Charles E. M. Hardie, C.B.E., of London, England, a Director of the bank. Mr. Hardie is Chairman of British Overseas Airways Corporation and a Director of British Printing Corporation Limited, Canprint Holdings Limited and M.E.P.C. Canadian Properties Limited as well as many other companies.

ROYAL BANK APPOINTMENT

J. H. COLEMAN

Mr. W. Earle McLaughlin, Chairman and President of The Royal Bank of Canada, announces from Head Office in Montreal that because of the size and significance of the bank's business in Ontario, it has been decided by the Board of Directors that the second ranking officer of the bank should be located in Toronto. Accordingly Mr. John H. Coleman, Executive Vice-President in Montreal, has been appointed Deputy Chairman and Executive Vice-President and will take up residence in Toronto in the near future. Mr. Coleman will continue to have bank-wide responsibilities and will maintain an office at the Head Office of the bank in Montreal.

D. S. ANDERSON

Mr. D. S. Anderson, who is a Director and Vice-President, has been appointed Senior Vice-President and will continue to be located in Toronto.

Dairy farmers

The Canadian Dairy Food Service bureau, a non-profit organization owned and operated by dairy farms across Canada, was set up about 10 years ago to promote dairy products across Canada and elsewhere.

Mr. Laurin, a five-year veteran in the field of dairy management, said that today's consumers are faced with a wide choice in dairy products.

"Dairy production dropped in nine Canadian provinces last year," Mr. Laurin said, "except in Quebec."

Total sales of dairy products in Quebec increased by five per cent last year, he noted, but Quebec spent only $90,000 in advertising.

Looking into the economic situation in the country, the expert warned "The biggest mistake many companies are making today is cutting down on advertising and marketing costs."

How do you raise more money for advertising dairy products in the province of Quebec? the farmer asked.

By a compulsory contribution at the level of all Quebec dairy association, Mr. Laurin suggested.

A contribution of one cent per hundred weight, he continued, would increase the amount of money available for advertising to $600,000 a year.

Mr. Laurin said the low amount of financial participation by Quebec milk producers is due to a lack of interest by the industrial milk producers in the province.

The low level of revenue sources for advertising is compounded by the fact that Quebec dairy farmers are poorly organized and trying to make up for 25 years of lost time.

"But how do you make the compulsory system functional, asked a man in the audience.

"By a Yes vote at the annual meeting of the dairy association," Mr. Laurin shot back.

Local members of the Quebec Farmer's Association will not settle for a "No" answer in their plight for a compulsory provincial advertising scheme.

Provincial milk producers are betting that a well-organized "Drink Milk" movement will remove the pressure squeezing small milk producers into bankruptcy.

Quebec revenue dept. sending tax refunds

QUEBEC — For over two weeks now the Quebec Department of Revenue has been issuing cheques to taxpayers who are entitled to an income tax refund for 1969.

For the first year, returns of income are being completely processed by computer. As is usually the case, the setting up of such an extensive system entails unavoidable difficulties.

These have caused a slight delay in the issuance of the first refund cheques. As an example of some of the problems encountered, 588 refund cheques, although mailed lately, were dated April 14 by mistake.

The difficulties have now been overcome. Issuance of refund cheques from now on will be accelerated, and will make up for the delay, as the new system permits faster processing than in previous years.

The purpose of this system is to increase department efficiency and thereby provide a better service to the taxpayers.

Egg agency soon

An agency for the consumer sale and marketing of eggs will become fully effective on April 27.

In addition, the provincial egg producers have brought several changes into their administrative system, resulting from a general meeting held in Quebec City March 31.

A delegation from Sherbrooke was present at the meeting, including Raymond Lemire, president of the Sherbrooke egg producers' association; Maurice Gauthier of Coaticook, Victor Prevost of Compton, Berthy Gelee of Coaticook, Roger Bedard of St. Elie and Rosaire Coutu of Sherbrooke.

Letendre to head pork growers

Marcel Letendre has been re-elected president of the Pork Producers Association of the Eastern Townships.

Presently the first vice-president of the Quebec Pork Producers Federation, he was re-elected during the general meeting of the Catholic Farmers' Union.

Letendre lives in St. Georges de Windsor.

Five delegates will gather in Levis today to help at the annual general meeting of the federation. Attending in addition to Letendre will be Rolland Simard of Sherbrooke, Eustache Morin of La Patrie, Adelard Dion of Wotton, Gerard Fortin of Cookshire and Rosaire Coutu of Sherbrooke.

During the meeting, a referendum will be held to

A strong and thriving Québec

... is a Québec unfettered, unhindered. The road ahead for Québec can never be charted by a party enslaved by foreign masters, the Liberals, with an inexperienced leader who dances to Ottawa's tune and has been deserted by his best men.

... is a Québec with a lucid economy. The real strength of Québec can never be built by a group of illogical and muddled people, the provincial Creditistes.

... is a Québec that knows where it is going. The future strength of Québec can never flourish in the climate of an ideology based on uncertainty and blindly heading for the unknown, separatism.

More than ever, for Québec, the Union Nationale is the only answer.

Union Nationale, a government free of all attachments. Union Nationale, an experienced and human team that reflects the spirit of Québec's people and exists only for the betterment of their life.

Union Nationale, a party which refuses to risk Québec's future on wild ventures, devoid of any reasonable guarantees of success.

To make your choice crystal clear next April 29th, I invite you to read the Union Nationale programme, a bold, complete and realistic programme which will help us build a strong and thriving Québec, together.

Québec more than ever

and the usual questions are being asked by taxpayers. As a public service, this newspaper is publishing the most common inquiries and the proper answers, which we obtained from H. & R. Block, the Income Tax people.

QUESTION — Does my son have to report receipt of a $900.00 gift I gave him on his income tax return?

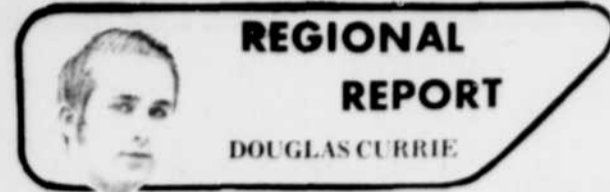

ANSWER — No he does not. Any taxes involving gifts are covered under the gift tax act.

QUESTION — I won a sizeable amount of money at the race track this year. Am I required to report this amount?

ANSWER — No, providing you are not in the gambling business. If you were, this would be classified as income and therefore taxable.

QUESTION — I gave my son a gift of $900.00 cash. Can I claim this as a deduction on my income tax return?

ANSWER — No, you may not. Any gift of this sort is not an expense but merely an act of generosity or kindness and is therefore not deductible.

REGIONAL REPORT
DOUGLAS CURRIE

Galt is going places

With only six weeks left of school at the Galt Regional, it is time for all to think of what we achieved so far during this past year: a very short but memorable period for those of us on the student government and those students who have been involved in any of the activities.

We have accomplished things which no school of our size or of our age would have attempted ever. We have had a successful dance, an adventurous carnival, and a financially rewarding chocolate bar campaign.

Now a look to the near future. Soon, the regional student government is hoping to be able to have some new and interesting noon time activities.

Already plans are under way for some style of a Spring Prom or Grad Dance in the later part of May. More news on these in a couple of weeks.

We would like to remind you that Galt has one of Canada's finest teenagers. Margo Fletcher Margo represented Galt in the Miss Teenage Canada Contest Monday night. We are all very proud of Margo's accomplishment.

Ken Dick, chairman of the chocolate bar campaign, asks all those who still have money or chocolate bars at home to bring them in immediately. We got a refund for unsold bars — so if you keep them you are only cheating your own student council. Prizes won't be announced until all the bars are returned. Bring bars or money to Mr. Haines' office.

Volleyball and Track and Field action in the gym so if you want something to do at noon, visit the Phys. Ed. office and sign up. They'll be pleased to put you on a team but you'll have to do it Monday morning.

The Lennoxville Optimists held their annual public speaking contest at the school Tuesday night. The chosen topic was "Youth — Full Partners in a Better Tomorrow." There were five speakers from Galt and they all did a fine job. The winner was announced by Professor Jefferis. He is James McDonald of Sherbrooke followed by Mike Batrie and Michael Mailhot, both also of Sherbrooke.

The Boy Scouts of Canada in the Sherbrooke and District Counties will hold a banquet supper at A.G.R.H.S. at 6.30 p.m. on April 18th where the presentation of the Silver Cross Award will be made by the Deputy Chief Scout for Canada, Air-Vice Marshal J.B. Harvey.

Deadly cyanide spillage

LUDINGTON, Mich. (AP) — Hundreds of gallons of deadly cyanide were released into Lake Michigan three weeks ago, and officials were at odds today over whether the public could have been endangered by the leakage.

Leakage of the poison was disclosed Monday night when city council at a meeting asked local plating companies to provide emergency waste disposal systems so nothing similar could happen again.

Ken Baars, manager of the Ludington sewer treatment plant, said if the leak had occurred during the summer, anyone swimming near the plant's outlet or drinking water from the outlet could have been killed.

Donald Pierce, chief of the waste water department of the state public health department, said that as far as could be determined the spillage did not endanger Ludington's water supply, a half mile away.

The spillage occurred March 15, and a spokesman at the Straits Steel and Wire Co. said from 800 to 1,000 gallons of eight per cent cyanide solution escaped when electrolytic action ate a hole in a 12,000-gallon holding tank.

The cyanide went into nearby Pere Marquette Lake and eventually into Lake Michigan.

Canadian tourist attractions prove popular

One of the newest ideas in airline charter flights is aimed at helping Canadians get to know Canada better — and the initial trial has been an outstanding success.

A series of special tours to one of Canada's famous tourist attractions — Banff, Alberta — was organized among ski clubs to try out their popularity. Besides skiing in the Rockies, they offered such Western activities as an outdoor ranch-style barbecue — in the snow.

The tours were inaugurated recently among a number of ski clubs in Eastern Canada using Quebecair jets. They are the bouncing brain-baby of a young Toronto group of engineers (and ski enthusiasts), who formed a company called Skican to carry them out.

"We thought it was time someone started running charter flights to tourist attractions in our own country," said Robin Nasmith, the group's 30-year-old president, who reports that the tours have been more successful than they hoped.

"It's the first time it's ever been done and most of the travel experts told us it would never work."

The response made sitz-marks of the experts. Six charters were arranged from six cities, each lasting seven days, one following the other. In fact, the same Quebecair jet that took one group out brought another back and thus was full both ways.

For $210, each person received return air fare, seven nights and breakfasts in Banff's Mount Royal Hotel, plus all transportation and free use of tows and lifts every day on the ski slope of their choice — Lake Louise, Mount Norquay or Sunshine.

Quebecair was chosen for the charters because the airline's new BAC-111 jets presented an ideal package with their fast 550 m.p.h. cruising speed and their compact 79-seat capacity.

The first group, which left February 29 was the London Ski Club, followed by the Ridgewood Club of Montreal, Kitchener-Chicopee Ski Club, Oshawa Ski Club and Butler Academy Club of Toronto. The National Capital Ski Club of Ottawa closed the season.

The Western wintertime cookouts were arranged by Bud Brewster, one of the Brewsters whose services have helped open the Banff area to tourists for many years. "If they could be staged in the summer, why not in the winter," he reasoned with typical Western enterprise.

So he set up one of his big doughnut-shaped tents, built with a hole in the centre to let out the smoke, a few miles from Banff amid the splendor of the Canadian Rockies. The visitors were driven in by 12-passenger Bombardier snowmobiles, instead of the customary chukabrigons.

He is particularly proud of the letter he got from one Quebec couple, which seemed to sum up the reaction of all: "The skiing was great but the cookout was the highlight of the whole tour."

Joe Brewster, whose specialty is sightseeing tours, had a high word of praise for the initiative shown by Skican and Quebecair.

"Our Canadian airlines are flying charters all over the world but this is the first time that I've heard of a charter to one of Canada's own scenic attractions — and it took a Quebec-based airline to do it," he said. "It's good for the West and it's good for Canadian unity."

"To me this is the kind of activity that all the Canadian airlines and travel agencies should be promoting because our own country has many attractions to offer."

Judging from the success of this year's program, there'll be many more. Skican has already announced expanded operations. All the same clubs plan to go again next season, plus clubs from other Canadian and U.S. cities.

"We're going back to Banff and we're considering Garibaldi too," a spokesman said. "Then why not start thinking to some Western charters to the East?"

It could be the start of a know-Canada-better travel plan.

Europe's greatest Show Tour starts from KLM's Amsterdam. And costs only $383*

Here's one of the most spectacular travel values ever offered. KLM's Show Tour of the Performing Arts. Beginning, like so many European vacation packages do, in Amsterdam, one of the continent's most advantageous starting-off points.

KLM's Show Tour takes you not just to one, but to three culture capitals of Europe—Amsterdam, Paris, London—for the amazingly low price of $383 per person: for 2 weeks!

That low price is possible because the tour starts in Amsterdam. You see, Amsterdam is the closest city to Canada in western continental Europe, so you pay the lowest possible airfare. And, Amsterdam's central location—minutes from Paris and London—allows you to fly to both cities for the same airfare you pay to Amsterdam.

Of course, the price of KLM's Show Tour includes much much more than airfare. For $383 you also get your hotel room for 3 nights in Amsterdam, 4 nights in Paris, 6 nights in London. You get all your breakfasts. Get-together parties in all three cities.

Plus—5 tickets to events in the Performing Arts! (One in Amsterdam, two each in Paris and London.)

All for $383. No wonder people are calling it the biggest travel value ever.

And the Show Tour is just one of dozens of KLM value vacations. There are see-Europe-by-car plans, Motorcoach Tours, Tours to Eastern Europe, Sun vacations. And many many more. Just take your pick and be sure you're getting the most for your money, when you start your trip from KLM's Amsterdam.

SKIING
in the Townships
By Charles Catchpau

Skiing is big business, and proof was amply given this week during the 1970 National Ski Industries Association trade show held at Place Bonaventure in Montreal.

For instance, there are skis on the market by Volk that cost $400, and the same firm produces a low-priced budget line, too, with a full in-between range, which include the world famous Zebras. These were among the topics of conversation at the showrooms of Northport Ltd. which incidentally has become one of the leading suppliers to the Canadian ski industry. But this display was typical of many where skis bearing all price tags were shown.

At one of many boot displays, there was a revolutionary development demonstrated by Colin K. Lax Ltd. The coming thing in boot fitting, so we were easily convinced after a brief demonstration, will be pouring of material around the foot to form a perfect mold for inside padding. The Lax firm is already taking a lead in this field, while dozens of boot makers are battling for supremacy in their field.

Clothing is as colorful as ever, but the emphasis on practicality is more obvious than ever. An interesting fact for Townshippers is that many of the ski togs are made from fabrics woven and dyed in this area. Bruck Limited, for instance, is one of the leaders in better ski wear materials.

Leaders in the ski industry, such as Harold Munkittrick of Munkittrick's in Sherbrooke and Bob Bousquet of the Orford boutique, joined thousands of other men and women who are making the ski industry what it is. These gents were making sure their shops would stock the top lines, and choosing from such a vast assortment must have been nerve-racking.

It astonishes me that, being in the midst of eastern Canada's ski wonderland, we have only five manufacturers who are directly involved in the production of skis, clothing or equipment. There's Bruck and their fine fabrics, and Austin Glove Ltd. of Sherbrooke, whose gloves and hats made a big hit at the show. Sohler Skis, produced in Sherbrooke, were big attention compellers, and, to my amazement, I found that Roy Morissette of Sherbrooke manufactures fibreglass baskets for a number of leading pole makers.

The people in this marvelous skiing industry are indeed, the most humanly warm lot you could ever hope to meet. Maybe it's because skiers all talk the same sort of lingo, and one realizes this when chatting with someone like Raymond Lanctot. This gracious gentleman, while skiing a regional area a short time ago, was hit by a young skier, who also injured himself. Mr. Lanctot's wrist was broken and one leg badly injured. He heard the lad was badly shaken and worried because of his mishap. It would take a man of such tremendous character as Raymond Lanctot to go back onto the slopes to find the boy and reassure him, telling him not to worry, that all was OK.

I couldn't leave the Lanctot showroom without first marvelling over their Rossignol ski line and the changes in Le Trappeur boots.

The old days of broken legs, strains and the lot, due to faulty bindings, should be gone forever. The binding makers have taken every step to make sure their equipment works flawlessly. However, skiers have to do their part in making certain all is in good order.

Skiing has become big business, and in its stride has and is doing a lot for districts like the Eastern Townships. My hopes are that more people will join the rest of us whose enthusiasm for skiing has no ceiling.

D. M. "Mack" Matheson, Jay Peak area manager, announced recently that Vermont's northern-most ski area will continue to operate on a daily basis until at least April 19, 1970. According to the manager, "with the 45 to 90 inches of snow we have on the ground and a forecast for cooler-than-normal temperatures for the next week, it seems apparent that skiing at Jay should be first rate for several weeks to come. We have no bare spots on the mountain and conditions are more like winter than spring." Jay Peak will operate its lifts, including the famous aerial tramway starting at 9 a.m. with the last run at 4:15 p.m. daily.

Following Sunday, April 19, a decision will be made whether to continue daily operations, based upon skier attendance and snow conditions. However, the Jay plan is to operate at least until the final weekend in April and perhaps the first weekend in May.

Skiers should check with the various ski reporting services for information on conditions and operations, or call: Jay Peak (802) 988-2611; Accommodations: (802) 988-2647.

The Ski School, Cafeteria Restaurant Services, Gift Shop, Rental Shop, and Slalom Sport Shop will also be open.

how to get your passport in time

Some 35 per cent of passports are delayed due to mistakes by applicants. Don't let yours be one of them. Get it right the first time.

- Get evidence of your citizenship—a Canadian birth or citizenship certificate. This can take time but the document will never go out of date.
- Allow at least one month, plus mailing time, for processing your completed passport application.
- Pick up passport application forms from your post office, travel agency, airline or steamship company.
- Read the instructions carefully. Answer all questions. Select only an eligible guarantor as listed on the form.
- Enclose with your signed application:
 - Two photographs of the approved size and kind, both with your signature on the front and one signed on the back by your guarantor.
 - Certified cheque or money order for $10.00 (do not send cash).
 - Your Canadian birth certificate or other citizenship document.
- Mail the application only after it has been filled in completely, signed by you and by the guarantor. Enclose all necessary documents.

Check it over before you mail it.

SPORTS
IN BRIEF

Sherbrooke Men's Curling Club

At the annual meeting held on Thursday evening, club president Harold Mooney said, "to stimulate the sport we need 18 to 25 year olds. They will have reduced membership rates and receive the same privileges as the seniors." The Sherbrooke club ranks among the best in the province, but there is a very big gap between Quebec and the western provinces where they excel. "This club needs young blood, competitive curling is not an old man's game", according to Mr. Mooney.

Magog Tennis Club

MAGOG (Special) — The Magog Tennis Club will hold its annual business meeting and election of officers Tuesday evening, April 14th at the Magog Social and Curling Club on Hatley Street. The gathering, called for 7:30, will hear a report on the finalized transaction, whereby the Dominion Textile Company Limited has given administrative rights to the tennis club and beach to the City of Magog. The municipality in turn will absorb the taxes and pay for the electricity used, however, shall rely on club members to run the area as in past years.

The Magog Tennis Club, an incorporated group, charge members an annual fee, with tennis, swimming and clubhouse privileges. Magog and district citizens belong, with some of the association travelling from as far away as Sherbrooke and Granby.

Tigers go to Allan Finals

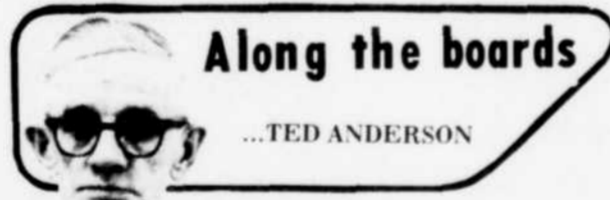

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Victoriaville Tigers wound up the Eastern Allan Cup semi-final here Thursday night with a 7-3 win over St. John's Capitals.

The Tigers won the best-of-five series three games to one. The Capitals had the better of the play for most of the game, but lacked goalmouth finish when they got in close. Tiger goalie Jean Guy Morissette also came up with a big game, stopping the Caps on the few good chances they did have.

Gilles Papineau and Gilles Cartier led the victors with two goals each while Claude Lemieux, Andre Bessette and Andre Aubry added the others.

George Spracklin, Jim Beckman and Jim Penney accounted for the Caps' goals.

Victoriaville now meets Orillia, Ont., Terriers in the Eastern Canada final.

Along the boards
...TED ANDERSON

Victoriaville lead St. Johns two games to one in the Allan Cup playoffs. The best of five series has been marred by frequent squabbles over officiating.

Although the Sherbrooke Junior Beavers didn't have an outstanding season in last year's league, the team was well supported and finances are adequate. The scouting system has been set up and prospects for next season look good.

I see Paul Deshais has been named athlete of the year at the University of Sherbrooke, winning the honor over 20 other contestants. Also honoured the same evening were the Ladies Basketball team, who won the Eastern Townships Ladies Basketball League, defeating Bishop's in the final. The winning ladies are Carmen Goyette, Carole Labonte, Nicole Dufresne, Maryse Lussier, Nicole Parent, and Marielle Ledoux. Yvan Breault was the coach.

The local Provincial baseball league Alouettes have managed to sign on quite a few of last season's players. Team Manager Bob Ainslie said he will release the names of further additions to the team's roster in the next few days. He expects training will start at the Amedee Roy stadium any day now.

Messrs. Connors and O'Donnell are hoping for a few more days of fine weather to bring the track up to scratch before the horse-racing season opens May 3.

Coaches in the Sher-Lenn Little League are now beginning to line up their players for the coming season. Returning coaches are Bob Jarjour, Yves Dubreuil, John Landry, Denis Gosselin, Spike Bernier, and the Warner Brothers from Waterville. The Red Sox are still looking for a coach.

The Waterville Golf Club has named Rosaire Leblanc as President, Gaston St. Pierre as Vice-President, and Louis St. Andre as treasurer.

Rangers, Wings have backs to wall in Eastern Stanley Cup play

The walls may be a little more familiar but Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers still have their backs up against them as they head home for the third and fourth games of their quarter-final Stanley Cup series.

The Wings suffered their second 4-2 loss in as many nights at the hands of the Black Hawks in Chicago Thursday night and now return to Detroit for the next two games in their National Hockey League East Division playoff series Saturday and Sunday.

The Rangers slowed the Bruins down but still took a 5-3 loss at Boston. The Bruins whipped New York 8-2 Wednesday in the opening game of that best-of-seven series which moves to New York, also for Saturday and Sunday games.

But while the Wings and the Rangers may worry about falling behind, Boston coach Harry Sinden doesn't, as long as the disadvantage comes at the right time.

The Bruins fell behind 2-1 and Sinden said he thought his charges may have gone into the second game a bit over-confident.

CAN HELP EARLY
"If that happens and you fall behind late in the game, it's not so good because by the time you wake up they may get another goal or two and then it's too late," he said.

"But early in the game it can work to your advantage, and I think it did for us tonight. It brought our team back."

The come-back started with Johnny McKenzie's goal early in the second period and veteran Johnny Bucyk added another to put the Bruins ahead going into the final session.

Ken Hodge and Ed Westfall took advantage of veteran Terry Sawchuk who again was installed as the New York netminder in the third period with Ed Giacomin sent to the bench for the second night in a row.

Rookie Jack Eggers and Rod Gilbert scored for the Rangers in the first period and defenceman Tim Horton got the other goal in the final session. Jim Lorentz scored Boston's first-period goal.

"Bucyk's goal was the key play," said New York coach Emile Francis. The goal came at 19:14 of the second period.

"Any time you score like that near the end of a period it means a lot," Francis said.

WILL GET HOTTER
Both coaches agreed that the move to New York would make the going tougher for the Bruins who never won a regular-season road game against an East Division opponent until they whipped Toronto Maple Leafs in the second-last contest of the schedule.

Bishop's Athletes Honoured

LENNOXVILLE (Staff) — It's a tossup which is more exciting for Bishop's University sports fans: watching All-Canadian halfback Larry Smith rip for a touchdown or cheering a goal by Gaiter hockey star Ron Perowne.

And that's the way the judges who picked the winner of Bishop's Hart Trophy for the most outstanding male athlete of the year saw it — a tossup.

For the first time in the university's history, the valued Hart Trophy was awarded to two outstanding athletes. Smith for his outstanding season in the football Gaiters' backfield, and Perowne, who narrowly missed being named Most Valuable Player on both the hockey and football teams.

The shared Hart was presented by Bishop's Principal Dr. A. W. Preston last night at Bishop's Annual Athletic Awards Banquet which honored the varsity and intramural athletes who participated in 15 sports.

Lennoxville's tennis great, Bob Bedard, who was recently appointed to the National Fitness Council, was the guest speaker.

Smith, from Hudson, Que., is considered a top prospect for the Canadian Football League. He dominated the Eastern Canada Intercollegiate Football Conference and led Bishop's to a superb undefeated season. He was voted All-Canadian by Sports Canada magazine and was runner up for the Chrichton Trophy, emblematic of Canada's top college football player, which was won by McGill's Dave Fleischer.

Bishop's lost a chance to appear in the collegiate football championships when they dropped a playoff game to University of Windsor by one point.

THE WELL CHILD

Pinworm Eggs Hatch In Digestive Tract

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

I still get many inquiries about various aspects of pinworm infestation, also called oxyuriasis and enterobiasis. Pinworm eggs are microscopic and can easily be picked up on one's hands, transferred to one's mouth and swallowed. In the digestive tract, they hatch and reach maturity. When the adult female, 1/2- to 3/4-inch long, is full of eggs, she works her way out of the digestive tract, usually at night.

The secretions of the worm on the presence of the eggs causes anal itching and the host, usually a child, by scratching in his sleep, lodges some of the eggs under his finger nails. (Adults have pinworms, too, but are less apt to be troubled with itching.) Other eggs remain on the sheets or night clothes and the routine of making the bed and putting away the pajamas sends these invisible eggs flying through the air, whence they land on the floor, a door knob or any other convenient place. They are then ready to start the cycle all over again. It should be noted in passing that pinworms are not transmitted by pets.

Oxyuriasis is an annoyance rather than a health hazard. Such symptoms as itching of the nose, dark circles under the eyes and per-verse appetite, once attributed to pinworms, are definitely due to other causes. The vast majority of victims have no symptoms and about 20 per cent of them shed all their worms spontaneously without treatment.

Although the worms show a preference for children, when one member of a household becomes infested the others probably are also. Pyriminium pamoate (Povan) or thiabendazole (Mintezol), both prescription drugs, will rid a victim of the worms but avoidance of reinfection is a real problem as it may come from within the home or from the outside.

For this reason, heroic efforts to sterilize the family linens and disinfect the walls and floors are no longer recommended and should be replaced by a more relaxed or lighthearted attitude. After all, some authorities estimate that close to 50 per cent of the population are pinworm carriers.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.
