SAILING OF McDONNELL.

George McDonnell, the bank of England forger, was taken from Fort Columbus to the "Minnesota," which sailed at noon.

Judge Davis dismissed the writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Fancher in the case of McDonnell, the English forger, who obtained £100,000 through his forgeries on the Bank of England. As alleged by McDonnell and his associates all but £30,000 has been recovered.

While the counsel were arguing before the Court on the legal technicalities relative to the rendition of McDonnell, the Bank of England forger, he was being transferred from Fort Columbus to a station in the Bay, where he was safely placed in charge of British officers.

CHOLERA AT MEMPHIS.

MEMPHIS, June 4.—For the past ten days a disease has appeared here, which at first the physicians pronounced to be cholera morbus or malarial fever, but no alarm was felt until yesterday, when the physicians generally agreed that it was cholera, some classing it sporadic and others as Asiatic. Thus far its ravages have been chiefly confined to negroes and laborers, and in the absence of an organized board of health it is difficult to estimate the number of fatal cases. The doctors say the disease, if promptly attended to, yields readily to treatment. Among the latest victims was George Moore, of the Memphis and Louisville Transfer Company, who died last night. Reports from town below on the river say the disease prevails there also. There is but little excitement in regard to it.

Judge Hy. E. Hudson, United States attorney for this district, died at noon to-day of cholera morbus. He was taken ill at midnight.

THE MODOC PRISONERS.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—The following despatch has been received:—

BAYLE'S CAMP, TULE LAKE PENINSULA, June 2.—After writing my report of yesterday I rode to this camp, and despatched it by courier. The captives and captors were at Applegate's ranche before night. Captain Jack, the murderer of General Canby, and Schonchin, Commissioner Meacham's would-be murderer, were ironed together and placed with the other warriors, in a small building adjoining, under guard. Neither Captain Jack nor Schonchin spoke a word; not a muscle of Captain Jack's face moved. Scar-Faced Charley protested against the indignity placed upon his fellow-captives, &c. The Warm Spring Indians held a war dance until midnight. All the military forces will be united at this point. The cord of Gen. Canby's hat was found in Captain Jack's satchel. The question now is, What will be done with them? To-morrow we will go for the last of the Modocs.

Both the prisoners were discharged by the Coroner, but Corcoran is held in default of the $2,000 bail required under the Police Court commitment. Roderick has been released, and will return to his former employers.

KINGSTON.

EPISCOPAL SYNOD OF ONTARIO.

KINGSTON, June 4.—The Synod of Ontario met this morning. The Bishop presided, and there was a large attendance of clergy. The Bishop's charge was interesting. He was grateful for the progress of the Church and the zeal of its clergy. The Provincial Synod and its unsatisfactory results in the matter of the Algoma Bishopric he would not touch upon further than to hope the Diocese of Toronto would take the establishment of the Diocese in its own hands. The funds of the Ontario Diocese are in a healthy state. The missions are not properly filled, however, one section—between Napanee and Perth—being devoid of clergy. This is a result of the poor stipends offered. The salaries of all classes of the country must be raised. It was a matter of necessity; for while the laity are becoming richer, the clergy are, by the advance in all rates of living, becoming poorer. The presentation of reports and notices of motion took all day. A memorial was received on behalf of the Bishop Strachan Memorial Church asking that a pastoral be issued to the Diocese to enlist aid. The Algoma matter was referred to a committee. This evening a temperance meeting is being held in St. George's Hall, the Bishop of Ontario in the chair.

HAMILTON,

THE "CITY OF CHATHAM."

HAMILTON, June 4.—The "City of Chatham" was built at Chatham, last year, by Hyslop & Ronald, and was owned by Tait & Co., the officers being Capt. Tait and W. B. Geddes, purser. She was valued this year at $32,000, and classed as A. 1. She formed one of the Lake and Railway Navigation Co's line, had discharged a cargo from Montreal, and was loading up again for the same port. The vessel and cargo, consisting of 700 barrels of flour, are a total loss, having burnt to the water's edge. Amount of insurance not ascertained; but the vessel is thought to be fully covered. She was beached on the shore near the Desjardins canal.

The doctor reports the sufferers by the late railway accident as progressing favorably.

MELBOURNE, QUE.

FATAL BOILER EXPLOSION.

MELBOURNE, QUE., June 4.—The boiler in Bolsvert, Senecal, Brown and Co's Saw Mill, at Wickham, exploded this morning at eight o'clock. One man was killed and two were fatally injured. The cause of the explosion is unknown. The building was totally destroyed. Value about $10,000.

QUEBEC.

N. S. RR.

QUEBEC, June 4.—A full meeting of the directors of the North Shore Railway Company was held at the Company's offices at noon to-day, at which Colonel Rhodes was elected President, Mr. James G. Ross having stated his intention to decline the office in consequence of his numerous engagements. The proposition of the English capitalists was taken into consideration, but no decision was arrived at, and the board adjourned till noon on Saturday next.

G. T. R.

The Grand Trunk Railroad Company have sent an officer to survey the contemplated extension of their road from South Quebec to Point Levis.

The captain of ship "Philadelphia," wrecked at the Bird Rocks last week, arrived here this morning with five of his men, and reports his vessel went to pieces in the late gale.

A new light-ship will be stationed at the entrance of the Miramichi river in a few days.

HALIFAX.

THE CHAMPION SCULLER.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 4.—George Brown, the champion sculler at Halifax, has challenged Henry Coulter to row a race at Springfield, Mass., for the championship of America. Brown's friends think he is the rightful champion of America, and they are willing to match him on any reasonable terms with any man who disputes the justice of his claim. Pending the acceptance of the challenge, Brown has gone into practice on the Bedford Basin.

FUNERAL OF LT.-GOV. HOWE.

IMPOSING CEREMONY.

The funeral of Lt.-Governor Howe took place this afternoon with imposing and impressive ceremonies befitting the occasion and the worth of the deceased statesman.

In conformity with the request from the Mayor and City Council, the citizens closed their establishments this afternoon from 3 o'clock. From every flag-staff in the city and every vessel in port the flag of the Empire and the flag of Canada, as well as all foreign colors, were flying half-mast high.

Long before the hour appointed for the funeral the streets in the vicinity of the Government House were crowded with citizens. Thousands visited the remains, which were and up to the hour of the funeral the rush of people to take a farewell look was tremendous.

Shortly after three o'clock the blue jackets from the "Royal Alfred," Royal Artillery, Royal Engineers, 60th Rifles, 78th Regiment and city brigade of volunteer militia, comprising three battalions, arrived and took their positions, lining both sides of the street through which the procession was to pass, from the Government House to Camp Hill Cemetery, a distance of over a mile.

The crowds of people on the streets were immense, there being not less than 20,000 to 25,000 present of all ages. In the memory of the oldest inhabitant no greater demonstration at the funeral of any public man has ever been seen.

At four o'clock precisely the funeral procession moved from the Government House in the following order:—

Division of City Police under a sergeant.
Officiating Minister.
THE BODY.
Three Pall-bearers on the right and three on the left.
Immediate Friends.
Executive Council of Nova Scotia.
The Admiral and Staff.
The Lieut.-General and Staff.
Senators, Judges of the Supreme Court, Members of the House of Commons, Members of the Legislative Council, Members of the House of Assembly.
Four Abreast.
The Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Halifax.
Custos and Magistrates of Halifax County.
Wardens and Councillors of the City of Dartmouth.
Officers of H. M. Navy.
Private Friends.
North British Society, Charitable Irish Society, St. George's Society, Officers and Members of the Grand Masonic Lodges, Germania Society, Citizens Carriages.

There were about four thousand persons in the funeral procession.

The pall-bearers were Sir E. Kenny, Sir W. Young, Chief Justice; Lt.-Col. Bremner, Dr. Almon, M.P.; Capt. Lewis, R.N.; and Col. Laurie, of the General Staff.

As the procession moved through the extended line of the troops the saluting battery commenced firing which were continued until the remains were enclosed in another earth.

The occasion was one of deep solemnity to the vast concourse of citizens who thronged every avenue to the cemetery and filled every sidewalk on the route of the procession, and will not readily be forgotten by the youngest person who witnessed the reverential respect paid to the remains of Nova Scotia's greatest son.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[For the WITNESS.

FRESH AIR FOR THE CHILDREN.

Cool breezes to refresh our languid frames, worn out by the heat of the day, where shall we find these necessaries of a Canadian summer within easy reach of our stores and counting houses? This is a query that comes with every recurring month of May to many an anxious head of a family.

Twelve years ago some friends pining for the country, but too much engrossed in business to be able to leave the city for a lengthened sojourn at the far away sea-side, discovered that by the hourly ferry from the city the village of Longueuil could be reached with but little loss of time, and found summer quarters in a row of brick houses left vacant by the removal from Longueuil of the employées of the Grand Trunk Railway. They found in their summer house a good many disadvantages and some privations to be endured, such as the impossibility of procuring good bread in the village, the total want of ice, and the necessity of bringing over all the marketing and provisions from the city. The little Anglican church built originally for the convenience of the G. T. employées, was only occasionally supplied with a minister, and the services were consequently uncertain; yet, with all these drawbacks, at the close of the summer our friends left Longueuil with refreshed and invigorated frames, and a store of pleasant memories to enlighten the winter fireside. Year by year these disadvantages disappeared, and the privations were among the memories of the past.

The Steamboat Company provided a boat with accommodation for passengers, an accommodation sorely needed, as timid women and frightened children in the old days struggled for vantage ground with restless horses and crowded carts, while the horrors of the cabin below, the only refuge from storm and rain, are best shrouded in the darkness that belonged to it. Now the boats that ply hourly and half-hourly between the city and Longueuil are well appointed and comfortable, and to the man of business the morning and evening trips are among the pleasures of the day.

Landing at the wharf and glancing along the shore one sees numbers of pretty cosy villas that have sprung up as equal to those he had listened to in the British Parliament. Arrangements were made that the Canadian deputation should be received at the opening of the Assembly on a Saturday. Some suggested that the speaker might come in with the deputations from foreign bodies, however they were soon enlightened by the Rev. Dr. telling them that he came from the Church in Canada, in connection with the Church of Scotland, a part and parcel of themselves. In addressing that influential body he had, to the best of his ability, informed them of the veneration as well as warm attachment for the Church of Scotland shown by its members in the Dominion. In reply the Moderator had asked him to assure the Synod that the Home Church entertained the highest regard for its branch in Canada. As his report was already made public in the Presbyterian, he would not occupy the time of the Synod in reading it, but would notice the peculiar movements of the Church in Scotland. Great interest was shown for the spiritual advancement of the masses of people collected in the cities, and a portion of the Assembly's time had been taken up in considering schemes for the prosecution of the work. Another fact he would allude to, was the apparent scarcity of men to fill vacancies that were occurring in the Church; the lack of ministers was a general complaint. There was also discernible a desire on the part of a large portion of the people belonging to the Church for a closer intimacy between them and the dissenting bodies; already there was a drawing together between them. He had heard the late Rev. Dr. Norman MacLeod's eloquent speech before the assembly upon the Indian Missions, which was conceded by all to have been one of the greatest efforts he ever made. The scene was never to be forgotten; the fervid eloquence of that saintly man, his earnestness and touching pathos affected all present. It was generally felt that it was his great valedictory to the Church. It was the speaker's privilege to spend a day with Dr. MacLeod at the latter's house in Bath street, Glasgow, the very last day in fact on which the mighty champion of the truth sat at dinner with his family. He talked of Canada and the delight it would afford him to revisit it; he also alluded to his tour in Nova Scotia in terms of pleasure. Said he, "I will try to go across once more, see my friends, and live over again the scenes of five and twenty years ago." Alas, the stern hand of death claimed this noble man, with unerring aim the dart sped, and the good, the noble Norman MacLeod was not, for God took him.

In conclusion the speaker said all the recollections of his official visit were satisfactory, and he had returned home feeling the bonds of love and fellowship between the Mother Church and that in Canada were strengthened.

The Moderator, who said he had listened with great pleasure to the verbal report of Dr. Jenkins, thanked him therefor, on behalf of the Synod. Rev. R. Campbell moved a vote of thanks, which was seconded by Rev. Dr. Cook, and carried.

The Clerk next called for the report of Correspondents to Synod of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Rev. C. A. Doudiet, one of the deputation, regretted his having been unable to attend, on account of unforeseen circumstances intimately concerning his connection with the French Mission.

Rev. J. C. Smith, M.A., of Belleville, the other delegate appointed, had also been prevented from going, for, as he was about to start, the dreadful accident took place on the G. T. R., near his residence, and duty called him to remain at the scene of suffering and death.

The Synod being satisfied that the causes detaining the delegates were unavoidable accepted their excuses.

Rev. J. B. Muir, of Galt, not being present, his report as delegate to the General Assembly of the Canada Presbyterian Church was not forthcoming.

The report of delegates to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States was next called for. Of Revs. Messrs. Lang, Michie and Maclennan, the delegates, the latter, who was the only representative, gave an interesting and eloquent account of his reception across the lines.

He met 600 members at the Assembly, coming from all parts of the Union, and in addressing them gave a brief account of what Canadian Presbyterians were aiming at in the matter of union, and that while desirous of recognizing those in the United States as brethren in the Church, yet that living under different flags, their political and ecclesiastical status must be separate. He said these views, though distasteful to some of those present, were heard with respectful attention by all. During the session the speaker in company with the Assembly in a body visited the Annapolis Naval Institute, and while passing through the hall of that college he noticed among the trophies of war that decorated the wall a Royal Standard of England, which had been captured at York (Toronto, Ont.) in 1813. One asked him if he recognized that flag. "Yes," said Mr. Maclennan, "I do; it fell into your hands according to the fortunes of war, though it was Canadians hands' flags, we made live captures, which couldn't be suspended so readily as your trophy, so we magnanimously returned them." In the American Assembly were several colored brethren, who addressed the audience with clearness and pertinency. The debates were animated and the speeches did not exceed 5 or 10 minutes; consequently, a large amount of business was got through with in a very short time. One thing surprised him, viz.: that 2,000 of their ministers were without charges. Questions of better clerical education and foreign missions also occupied their attention. The number of their missionaries in foreign parts was more than twice as large as those of the Synod of Ontario and Quebec; there being over 300 in the various foreign fields. In replying, that Assembly had expressed the wish that the next delegate from Canada would represent a United Presbyterian Church, and they had also received a letter from the Canada Presbyterian Synod to the same effect. He hoped that soon, the union being accomplished, one deputation would represent all the Presbyterians in Canada. (Applause.)

Rev. Dr. Cook moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, which was seconded by the Rev. Dr. Jenkins, and carried.

Rev. Mr. McMillen, of Salt Springs, and Rev. Mr. McCann, of River John, delegates from the Synod of the Lower Provinces, were next introduced, and came forward. In bearing a message of brotherly affection from the Church in the Maritime Provinces, they referred to the spirit of life manifest amongst their people. A Young Men's Bursary scheme had been started, with good results, and also a scheme of foreign missions which they understood the body before them lacked. They had trouble in commencing their foreign work; but it had borne fruit; the Church had kept extending its bounds, while an increase in spiritual life was manifest. In conclusion they could not but hope that, when the Presbyterian bodies were one, the Synod they addressed would inaugurate a foreign mission work.

The Diet then adjourned, an important meeting of the Sustentation Board being held afterwards.

MORNING SUMMARY.

THE CZAR'S illness was a canard.

THE EMPEROR WILLIAM is indisposed.

THE CARLISTS continue to give trouble. A few good soldiers could squelch them.

THE EX-EMPRESS EUGENIE is reported to be in Paris.

THE EPISCOPAL SYNOD of Ontario met at Kingston yesterday.

THE LATE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR HOWE was buried at Halifax yesterday with imposing ceremonies.

THE MODOC PRISONERS are strongly guarded, Captain Jack and Schonchin being chained together.

BISHOP REINKENS has been elected Bishop of the Old Catholics, who seem progressing rapidly.

ONE MAN KILLED and two fatally injured is the result of a boiler explosion at Melbourne, Q., yesterday.

COL. RHODES has been elected President of the North Shore R.R., Mr. J. G. Ross being unable from pressure of business to undertake the office.

HEADS OF RELIGIOUS ORDERS have formally protested against the Bill for Suppression of Religious Corporations in Rome. The protest does not seem of much use.

CHOLERA is raging at Memphis, Tenn., and some fatal cases have occurred. It is said to yield readily to treatment, and it does not appear to be the Asiatic type.

MCDONNELL, the forger, after exhausting the resources of the law in New York, is safe in the hands of English detectives on his way to Britain, where he will receive strict justice.

THE CARLISTS' object in obstructing communication is said to be to prevent as much as possible publication of authentic news, so as to be able to practice on public credulity with the view of raising a loan.

HOSPITAL FOR CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

The Health Committee of the City Council, it is announced, meet this evening to consider as to the selection of a site for the erection of a small-pox hospital. This is probably consequent on the announcement by the ladies of the Hotel Dieu through the Nouveau Monde to the public in general, and those charged with the sanitary interests of Montreal and its suburbs in particular, that they are no longer able to admit to their wards patients suffering from small-pox or other infectious diseases. They state that it is not for the interests of the general patients that they should be exposed to the risk of contagion by having such diseases treated under the same roof. When it was proposed to erect a separate hospital expressly for such small-pox patients the ladies put themselves in communication with the City Council for the purpose of helping on such a necessary and benevolent work, and at the request of the Health Committee they set aside 24 beds in their establishment for the temporary accommodation of such cases. For each of these they were allowed by the Corporation 50c. a day, a mere trifle when the expense of treating such cases is considered. The ladies had been told till they were tired that the Corporation always intended to provide them with the means of erecting a new hospital when practically nothing was being done, and no prospect visible of ending the provisional system which was imposed upon them by means of fine promises, but which has brought them only sacrifices hitherto.

It is certainly little to the credit of the city that up to this time a hospital for small-pox, cholera, typhus and similar diseases has remained a desideratum. The want of such an institution was clearly demonstrated during the prevalence of small-pox last year, and the action of the Council did certainly lead to the impression that something was to be done to secure it; but the matter has been shelved till we are again brought face to face with it by the refusal of one of our large hospitals any longer to supply the accommodation the city neglects to provide. It is plain that if cases of contagious disease are refused admission to hospitals and driven back among the community, all other efforts to preserve the public health will be neutralized and epidemics will have free scope to decimate the population as the fire sweeps the forest.

We observe that it is hinted on behalf of the ladies of the Hotel Dieu that for the sum of forty thousand dollars granted them out of the city funds they will build, equip and conduct a hospital of the kind required. They are a very wealthy corporation and probably could make such a sum forthcoming without burdening a community that bears heavy taxation in consequence of the exemption of religious corporations. They are supposed to hold their property on condition of applying its revenues to purposes of charity, and the addition of a small-pox hospital to their other establishment would be eminently in keeping with this destination. As, however, this is not likely to be done, the Health Committee will have to consider the subject in the interests of citizens generally. Perhaps the cheapest and simplest way of securing an establishment of the kind wanted would be for the city to erect a suitable building in a proper locality and hand it over, under proper conditions to the authorities of the General Hospital and Hotel Dieu, to manage for the accommodation of such cases as may apply to either of them respectively.

Now that the matter is up again, it is to be hoped the Committee will take hold of it and not let it out of their hands till the hospital is an accomplished fact. Let them lay aside formalities, and remember that with the small-pox smouldering in our midst, the dreaded cholera is showing itself in Western Europe, and is reported in the Southern States, and now is the time to prepare for its possible advent here. The choice of a site for the hospital may not be easy, but perhaps the best rule to go by would be to locate it in a least frequented neighborhood, which is yet easy of access, and in this view perhaps a very suitable place would be on some of the vacant ground above East Sherbrooke street near the Ordnance lands. This is merely given as an example, however. Of course an ambulance or ambulances to convey patients to the hospital will also have to be provided. While we are at it, let us have the thing provided and equipped in as perfect a manner as possible. It will be the cheapest way in the end.

CHANGING MINISTERS.

We know of no church that is changing ministers just now and therefore these remarks are of no "private interpretation." It is, however, an event that occurs sufficiently often to be made a subject of foresight on the part of congregations. Should any circumstances, however, looked for or unlooked for, remove a respected pastor, it is quite certain that the world can furnish no successor who can exactly fill his place, and the ablest teacher who attempts the office will find that his congregation is made up in a great measure of people who had gathered about his predecessor on account of a preference for him, or who have been so long taught and governed by him that they fit but awkwardly into a new state of things: so that the history of many churches is that dissatisfaction follows change and change follows dissatisfaction. Indeed some say that in those churches which aim at a permanent pastorate, the average term of office is as short as in the Methodist churches which follow the itinerating system. The evils of this state of things might in all larger congregations be much mitigated, even though changes should continue frequent, by the plan of having two active clergymen in each church, a senior and a junior, who might be dubbed curate-assistant, co-pastor, or whatever might under the circumstances be thought suitable. The activities and the varied powers of two men are needed in many congregations which have now but one, and would probably promote the vigor of the congregation sufficiently to make two as easily supported as one had been. In most businesses a partnership of some kind is found serviceable. By it there may be consulting over things which are not submitted to others. There may be the temporary absence of one party without serious damage, and, most important of all, the removal of one does not involve a general breaking up. It seems, therefore, worth the while of any church which has but one pastor, and where there are whisperings of discontent, to consider whether, instead of agitating for the removal of the pastor and getting another who would, probably, have just as many out of sympathy with him as the present one, it would not be better to advise the strengthening of the pastor's hands, by seeking out for him an equally able assistant or co-adjutor, who could fill up what in the minds of some was thought to be lacking of perfection. This system might remove to some extent the much deplored fact that elderly ministers are often cut adrift and wanted by nobody.

— Mr. Dorion's election by his professional brethren as Batonnier of the Province of Quebec is regarded as a significant mark of sympathy with the course taken by him in regard to the reform of the judiciary, and it will probably have due influence in making the Minister of Justice clear-sighted enough to see where the Bench needs weeding out. In other respects the honor is a well deserved tribute to Mr. Dorion's professional ability and gentlemanly character.

THE OLD CONFIDENCE GAME.

AN UNSUSPECTING GERMAN FLEECED OUT OF $300.

The old confidence game, by which in times past swindlers gulled the public, was yesterday evening played in the most barefaced manner in this city. It seems a respectable German, residing in the United States, was on his way to visit his wife's family in Sorel, and was waiting in Montreal for the departure of the "Quebec" steamer. Shortly before the hour of sailing, he was coming down in a carriage, when, finding he required to make some small purchases, he sent the cab on to the steamboat with his wife and children. Having transacted his business he was making the best of his way down when he fell in with a well dressed, low sized man, giving his name as Latour. They entered into conversation, when, to the German's surprise, the former stated he was bound for Sorel. "Where are you going, sir?" "To Sorel also," replied the German. "Ah, I think I know your relations living there," continued the stranger. Being off his guard the German imparted his wife's maiden name; of course the other knew her; they were in fact well acquainted. The two men instantly became fast friends. At this juncture another well-dressed man came running up, and, pulling out informed Mr. Latour that he had tried hard but found it impossible to get it cashed. "Dear me," said Latour, "that upsets all my plans; I must have a few dollars any way," and, turning to the unsuspecting German, he asked as a great favor that he would accommodate him with two or three hundred dollars. The former without hesitation counted out the money; Latour pocketed it, and winked at his confederate, when the two decamped, leaving the victimised German to gradually realise the fact that he had been swindled in the most barefaced manner. The Water Police were informed, but Latour has not yet been arrested. The poor German continued his journey to Sorel, moralizing on the wicked ways of this world, and probably thinking Montreal has got past New York in wickedness.

CITY ITEMS.

— Prof. Pratt, the horse educator, has gone to Quebec.

— The door of Mr. J. Goulden's chemist shop, No. 175 St. Lawrence Main street, was found open this morning. It was secured.

— The ladies of the Committee of the Home and School of Industry have decided to hold their bazaar in aid of the Building Fund of that institution, on or about the 23rd and 24th of December. A site has been purchased, and the ladies ask the support of all in raising the money necessary to erect a suitable building for that charity. We would also ask ladies and children, while taking their holidays, to remember this bazaar and the object of it.

THE WEATHER.—Yesterday the weather was rather dull, and towards evening a shower fell. During last night it rained rather heavily, and this morning the sky was overcast.

INQUEST.—Coroner Jones yesterday held an inquest on the body of the old man Olivier Trundel who fell down and died instantly while walking in a yard at the rear of his house in the Tanneries. The jury returned a verdict of "death from apoplexy."

FIRE.—At 9 o'clock precisely, this morning, the alarm was sounded from Box 67. The Brigade were soon on the ground, and quickly extinguished the fire, which originated in some bundles of straw in the cellar of a grocery on the corner of Craig and Montcalm streets.

STREET REPAIRS.—Certain much-needed repairs are being made at the foot of Hermine street. The drain is not deep enough where it enters the Craig street sewer, and consequently much filth and stagnant water remains in the drain to pollute the air of the neighborhood.

BAD SIDEWALKS.—A correspondent would like to see the sidewalk on Craig street, between Alexander street and Victoria Square, renovated. He says "a few planks were laid in front of Messrs. Evans Bros' office, a short while ago, but, for some reason or other, the work was discontinued. We should like to see it resumed."

MENDELSSOHN QUINTETTE CLUB.—This Club last night, gave the second of its two concerts in Queen's Hall. The attendance, probably owing to so many families being out of town, was not very large, but the excellence of the entertainment was, if possible, yet higher than on Tuesday evening. Nothing seemed left to be desired, and the singing by the distinguished vocalist, Anna Granger Dow, won both the admiration and the encores of the audience.

THE VOLUNTEERS OF 1837 AND 1838.—Benj. Lyman, Esq., former Captain of No. 5 Company, Montreal Rifle Corps, has invited all the surviving members who served under his command during the civil disturbances of '38, to meet him at his residence this evening. The reunion will no doubt be of a highly interesting character, as the veterans relate some incident or anecdote illustrative of events that occurred 35 years ago. We are informed there are, so far as known, but 25 members of the corps now living who aided in quelling the rebellion.

THE ABOLITION OF THE TRINITY HOUSE.—The Act of Parliament entitled "An act respecting the Trinity House and Harbor Commissioners of Montreal," does away with the Trinity House after the 1st of July next. Its duties will be divided between the Department of Marine and Fisheries and the new Harbor Board. The former will control the lights between Montreal and Quebec; while the buoying of the channel, management of the shipping and pilots is in the hands of the latter. The new Board will consist of 9 members, 4 appointed by Government, 2 by the Board of Trade, and one each by the Corn Exchange, shipping agents and the Corporation. This new Board goes into operation on the 1st of October. In the interim following the dissolution of the Trinity House, the present Harbor Board conducts the business.

GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND.

— The Record had an article recently strongly objecting to the selection of Earl Russell to lay the foundation-stone of Mr. Newman Hall's new church, London, on the ground of the unorthodox opinions avowed in his lordship's latest book on Church History.

MR. ADAM BLACK.—An announcement has just been made of the retirement of Mr. Adam Black from the firm of Adam and Charles Black, Edinburgh. Mr. Black, who is upwards of ninety years of age, represented the city of Edinburgh in Parliament for some years.

THE LAW AND ITS LITTLE PROTEGES.—The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals prosecuted at Worship street, the other day, a man who was said to make a considerable income by depriving birds of their eyesight, in order to improve their singing. In this case he was charged with having blinded a chaffinch by thrusting a pin into both its eyes. A question was raised whether the common chaffinch was protected by the statute, and the magistrate having decided that this bird was a domestic pet, fined the man £3, with the alternative of fourteen days' imprisonment.

DEBT AND DRINK.—Lord Derby was in the chair on the 9th ult. at the annual meeting of the Provident Knowledge Society. He expressed his opinion that habits of prudence and forethought were not very common in this country, and thought that to encourage them was one of the wisest forms of benevolence. The slavery of being in debt was akin to the slavery of drunkenness; and the fact of a man being in debt was a great incentive to recklessness and intemperate habits. A very large part of the suffering existing among the people was owing to the want of economy and forethought; and if thrifty habits were to be encouraged, it was necessary to offer facilities which did not yet exist. It was not sufficient to establish banks and provident institutions, it must be made as easy for a man to invest his savings in these institutions as it was for him to spend them at the public-house.

Last week	1272	665	.....
One year ago	100	1276	156

Of the cattle, 6 were from Canada.

Prices of Steers—Extra, 6 Tons, 6 Tons @ $6 03 @ $6 10; extra $6 @ @ $6 50; first quality $5 @ $5 50; second quality $4 @ $4 50; third quality $4 @ $4 50.

Prices of Store Cattle—Working Oxen per pair, from $150 @ $175; to $210 @ $225.

Milch Cows and Calves from $30 @ $65; extra $66 @ $80.

Yarrow Cows, $15 @ to $40.

Yearlings $10 to $18; two years old $19 to $28; three years old $20 to $36.

Prices of Sheep and Lambs—In lots, wool sheep, $3 @ $3 50, $4 @ $4 50, each; extra, $5 @ to $6 00 ₱ head, or 5c @ 5½c ₱ lb. Nice yearlings 7½c @ 8c ₱ lb.

Spring Lambs $5 @ $7 50. Sheared Sheep 5½c @ 6½c ₱ lb.

Veal Calves, $3 to $10.

REMARKS.

Cattle—For corresponding weight of cattle prices are the same as at the opening last week. It was thought by butchers that the market would close firm. Trade was largely confined to Western cattle. The live weight being the guiding price; these same Steers would not cost over 6½c @ 6¾c ₱ lb.

Sheep—Spring Lambs are received freely, with fair supply from the North, and plenty of Western. The trade in the city does not seem to rally, and butchers are paying only 6¼ ₱ lb or $5 @ $6 50 ₱ head. Yearlings that are first rate sell at 7½c @ 8c; one lot of Northern wool sheep sold at 8½c ₱ lb.

Swine—For quality that is nice, it there is a mixture of part Turkeys, the best price is 6½ ₱ lb. Dressed Hogs are dull in the city. We quote best select lots 7¾c ₱ lb; medium grades 6½ ₱ lb; ordinary Fowl 5½ ₱ lb.—Boston Journal.

EUGENIE REPORTED IN PARIS

LONDON, June 5.—It is reported that the ex-Empress Eugenie is in Paris and has been there two days.

A CARLIST DODGE.

MADRID, June 4.—The Carlists, by continually interrupting communication between France and Spain, and thus rendering it difficult to obtain authentic information, seek to make it appear that they have complete control of the frontier provinces. On the creation of this false impression abroad they base their hopes of successfully launching a loan of one hundred millions. It should be understood that no faith can be placed on their representations in the markets of Europe.

CHINESE FOR EAST AFRICA.

LONDON, June 5.—The London Times urges the immigration of Chinese to East Africa, as the means of bringing about the abolishing of the slave trade.

UNITED STATES.

MURDERER CAUGHT.

RICHMOND, Va., June 4.—Jim Brown, the alleged murderer of the two old ladies Mrs. Johns and Mrs. Dozier, was captured last night; to-day he confessed the crime. The feeling against him is intense, and it is more than probable he will be lynched.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—Mrs. Fore, who was assaulted by her husband to-day, will probably recover.

THE STOKES' CASE—A RUMOR.

NEW YORK, May 5.—A rumor prevails that the Court of Appeals has given a decision adverse to the application of Stokes for a new trial.

CITY ITEMS

DROWNED.—On Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock as a Canadian and his son were coming up past Molson's wharf in a canoe, a long steamer passed at the same time and the motion made by it in the water caused the canoe to upset. The man was saved, but the poor boy was drowned. He was about 12 years old. The body as yet has not been discovered.

MEDICAL FACULTY OF BISHOP'S COLLEGE.—The following appointments have recently been made in the Medical Faculty of this University. Dr. J. Baker Edwards has withdrawn his resignation of the Professorship of Chemistry and Dr. Geo. B. Shaw has been appointed lecturer on Chemistry, Dr. A. Latour has been named Assistant Demonstrator, and Dr. Wolfred Nelson, Curator of its Museum.

WRECK OF THE "L. RENAUD".—(To the Editor of the Witness.)—Sir,—Since the wreck of the "L. Renaud" the public are afraid to go down the Lachine Rapids, and consequently trade is suffering. Seeing that the lumber trade was almost stopped on account of the passage down the rapids being blocked up, we caused the said way to be visited, and we publicly testify that it is now very good and clear of every obstruction, and that the rafts can easily go down without the slightest danger. We are, Sir, yours, COOK & BROS. CALVAN & BRAKE, foremen of the rafts; and JOSEPH DELISLE, pilot.—Montreal, 3rd June, 1873.

STABBING AFFRAY.—ANOTHER DEN BROKEN UP.—Last night, Sergeant Burke received information that a desperate fight was going on in a house of ill-fame in a yard off German street. Gathering together a posse of men, he quickly went down to the place, where he found a crowd of drunken loafers and women engaged in a free fight. Getting more help, he arrested C. Webber, the proprietor; M. Sullivan, a frequenter; 5 women—Cassidy, Upton, Passby, O'Hara, and Fernandez, inmates of the house. During the row it appears Sullivan was attacked by Cassidy with a knife, and could not get away from her till she had stabbed him in the face near the mouth. He then jumped out of a window ten feet from the ground, rushed round the corner, but was seized as he was making off. This morning the Recorder fined Webber $25, or two months, and the others $10 each. The women were haggard, and presented a dreadful spectacle, two of them having young children. It is said the house is owned by F. X. Beandry.

WIFE MURDER.—THE HUSBAND CONFESSES THE CRIME.—On Saturday night at Yonkers, N. Y., a roundsman, attracted by an offensive odor in a house kept by a Mrs. Mary Fitzpatrick, burst open the rear door and found the corpse of the woman on the bed and covered up with some old quilts. The body had been lying there some five days, so that, according to latest reports, the identification of the body was not complete. The husband, who was a gardener at Cold Spring, visited the house about two weeks ago, and had been quarrelling with his wife. The woman had lately kept an intelligence office, and as late as Friday morning Fitzpatrick was seen sitting on the stoop, and two women were observed coming out of the house. One young woman has been arrested. A note from Fitzpatrick was found in the house, it was addressed to the landlord, and read as follows: "Mr. Archibald, you pay yourself out of this Store and give the Rest to My Daughter in cold spring. I committed the Deed in Self-Defence. All that is There is mine." Two hatchets covered with blood were found. Fitzpatrick has been arrested.

MORE LIVERPOOL STEAMSHIPS—ANOTHER LINE PROPOSED.—Messrs. N. D. Spartale & Co., of Liverpool, write to Mr. L. J. Higby and Messrs. A. French & Co., of this city, in reference to the establishment of a new line of ocean steamships to transport the produce of the Mississippi valley. The object is to compete permanently and successfully with the railway and water routes via New York, Boston and Montreal and to link the Liverpool interests and connections with the river barges on the Mississippi, Missouri, Ouachita and Red rivers and the Illinois Central railroad. This firm proposes to have steamers built of twice the dimensions of the "Lord Clive," suitable for both grain and cotton carrying. They will cost from £150,000 to £200,000 apiece, but will carry 10,000 bales of cotton and a large quantity of grain.

The proposition is to call it the Atlantic and Great Western Steamship Company, connected with the river barges and cotton presses of this city. The opinion is expressed that iron screw barges of six or seven feet draft could be built there, and sent out here in pieces to be fitted up. It is proposed that Mr. Higby should interest himself to induce St. Louis, Chicago and other places to join in the enterprise, especially the barge people and railways. We hope the project may be vigorously carried into execution, and that the ships may be speedily built and put into the line.—Crescent City, New Orleans, May 21st.

Alex. Urquhart and Henry Bulmer, Esqrs., are the Visiting Governors at the Protestant House of Industry and Refuge for this week.

(Special to the Witness.)

UNITED CANADIAN ASSOCIATION.

TORONTO, June 5.—Representatives of the various societies constituting the United Canadian Association met yesterday. Col. R. L. Denison was re-elected president. It was resolved to petition the Dominion Government for leave to erect the Tecumseth monument on Queenston Heights and to petition the Ontario Government for a grant for that purpose. In the evening representatives from a distance were entertained at supper by the York Pioneers. J. V. Spohn, of Hamilton, made a speech strongly in favor of Canadian independence.

BUILDINGS.

The Globe estimates the value of buildings erected or commenced since the beginning of December at $980,000.

THE ONTARIO AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION met yesterday. It was decided to have a building in which steam power could be exhibited at the Provincial Exhibition. A settlement with R. L. Denison, the late Treasurer, was arrived at, he giving security for all amounts due.

FROM HALIFAX, N. S.

(Press Despatch.)

THE WOODS ON FIRE—IMMENSE DESTRUCTION.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 5.—Heavy fires have been raging in the woods in different parts of the Province during the last week. The woods in the vicinity of the town of Liverpool have been on fire the last two days, and last evening the town was in danger. A large tract of land has already been traversed by the flames, and much damage done. In Pictou county a very destructive fire swept along a distance of twelve miles from the west branch of the River John to Black River, on the east branch of the River John, on Sunday last, destroying everything in its course. A large amount of property has been destroyed, the value of which cannot be estimated, as the woods through which the fire passed are the most valuable in the county. A large number of people living in the vicinity have had their buildings burned. Among the disasters reported, are Peter Holt, house and barn burned; Robert Sutherland, house and barn; W. Murray, house and barn; Mr. Lawren, house and two barns and their contents; Wylie's grist and saw mills and house and three other residences, the names of the owners of which were not ascertained. A large fire prevailing in the woods between Westville and New Glasgow.

SYNOD OF THE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND.

THURSDAY—MORNING SEDERUNT.

The Diet having been constituted, the Moderator called on Rev. R. McCunn, one of the delegates from Nova Scotia, to lead the devotional exercises.

The Clerk afterwards read the minutes of yesterday's Diet, and the same were sustained.

Mr. Grant, of Halifax, appeared as a delegate, and was asked to sit and deliberate with the Synod.

On motion of Rev. Gavin Lang, Rev. Mr. Ellegood, of St. James the Apostle (Episcopal), who was present, was also asked to sit and deliberate.

The Ottawa Presbytery recommended that the Rev. Mr. Cleland be received as a minister of this church without the usual year's probation. The application was referred to the examining committee.

The Guelph Presbytery reported, recommending that Rev. Mr. Waits, late of the Primitive Methodists, be received as a minister. Referred.

J. B. Taylor was also recommended by the Presbytery of London, to be received as a probationer. Referred.

The four retiring managers of the Temporalities Board were re-elected.

On motion it was resolved that the next meeting of Synod be held in St. Andrew's Church, at Ottawa, on the first Tuesday of June next, at 7.30 p. m.

Mr. Smith read a report of a commission at Whitby, on Rev. Mr. Maclennan's memorial. The Commissioners held that the Presbytery of Toronto were answerable for the sum of $500 to Mr. Maclennan, owing to improper administration of glebe lands. They also recommended that a compromise be made, whereby the Presbytery give Mr. Maclennan $350, on condition that he furnish the Presbytery with a discharge in full of all claims.

Rev. Mr. Baynes, on motion of the Synod, gave the history of the case, which was long and rather complicated.

Rev. Mr. Maclennan replied to show that Mr. Baynes' account was in several particulars incorrect, and declaring that he could prove his claim by legal documents.

It may here be stated that the loss claimed to have been sustained, was owing to nonpayment of interest to Mr. Maclennan, as the annuitant upon certain capital, resulting from a bequest of real estate. He set forth his case in a dispassionate manner, and concluded by stating, in effect, that he wished to know whether the Presbytery, having affirming his point again and again, now shirked the case, believing the Courts of Law could not enforce his claim.

It being now after one o'clock, the Diet adjourned.

INTERNATIONAL TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION.

TWENTY FIRST ANNUAL SESSION.

The sittings of the Union were resumed this morning at 9 o'clock, when reports of committees were taken up.

The report of the Committee on Female Labor, to the effect that females who have served their apprenticeship be admitted into Subordinate Unions, was adopted.

The report of Committee recommending that the resolution advising the plan of not allowing piece-work, except on daily newspapers, be not concurred in, was adopted.

The report of the Committee on endorsing the action of the Ottawa Union in the case of J. C. Boice, of the Citizen, and stating as their opinion that he must present a clear card from the London (Eng.) Union, before he be allowed to work, was by a vote of 27 against 23 referred back to the Committee for amendment.

During the debate some confusion arose as to the facts of the case, some stating that they had no jurisdiction over London (Eng.), others stating that Mr. Boice had "ratted" in England and did not apply for his card till he obtained his situation as foreman of the office.

The Committee reported favorably on the motion of the representative from Indianapolis to the effect that the secretaries of Subordinate Unions be supplied with a book in which to inscribe the names of all persons expelled from other unions.

The report was adopted.

The Committee reported favorably on motion of Mr. Douglass that "sub" lists are unfair and unjust, and come in contact with our card system, and that as far as possible they be done away with.—Report agreed to.

On advice of committee, it was resolved that the seal of Subordinate Unions can be used only for legitimate business purposes.

The report of the Committee recommending the adoption of the resolution to the effect that whereas various persons, in certain cities, are in the practice of furnishing publishers with what are called "patent outsides," we consider such papers to be an imposition both on the readers thereof, and on the craft generally, and recommend that, as far as possible the influence of Subordinate Unions be directed against the system,—was laid on the table.

The report of Committee endorsing the action of the Typographical Union of Toronto in their strike was adopted.

It being now ten o'clock, the hour was spent in receiving names and memoirs of deceased members, at the conclusion of which, by a unanimous standing vote, the names recorded were ordered to be placed on the list of deceased members.

The recommendations of the Finance Committee fixing the salary of the President at $450, that of the Recording Secretary at $650, and the Corresponding Secretary at $200, were adopted after a warm discussion.

St. Louis was appointed as the place of meeting for next year by a majority of 40 against 31, Boston being the other candidate.

Invitations were received from the Secretary of the Mechanics' Institute, extending the freedom of the reading room to the delegates; from the Montreal Lacrosse Club, to the Lacrosse match to be played on their grounds on Saturday, and from the Toronto Union to such as may be in that city on Saturday to accompany them on an excursion to Niagara.

The meeting then adjourned to meet at 8 o'clock sharp. This afternoon there will be an excursion to Back River.

— The Montreal Telegraph Company has opened offices at Goderich harbor, and Enterprise, in the Province of Ontario, at Riviere du Loup, en bas, wharf, and Indian Cove, in the Province of Quebec, and at Fisher's Landing, in the State of New York.

THE STRENGTH OF THE HORSE.

BY THE AUTHOR OF "STONE EDGE."

We are so completely in the habit of regarding the horse as a docile slave, expected to minister to our necessities with uncomplaining complaisance,—unresisting generally under ill-treatment, often half-killing himself by struggling to drag loads beyond his powers, that we are apt to forget the tremendous strength which he can exert if he pleases to put it forth.

I saw lately a small pony running away with a little carriage, in which were two large strong men; one sat in his place dragging at the reins with all his might, the other was on his knees, adding his utmost power nearer the head, but in vain. They were just able to give some sort of direction to their course, so as to avoid the carts and carriages, which fortunately were not many, and in turning several sharp corners, but they could not moderate the pace in the least, till it pleased the pony to stop at the door of his own stable. They set their strength against his, and on the tenderest point, the mouth, and the pony won.

The great dray horses of a London brewery are almost like elephants in weight and power, yet are so good-tempered that they can be guided by a child. The strength of the neck, of the heels, of the teeth of such a beast, are fearful indeed, if they were used against, instead of for, the service of man, and it may help us to treat him with greater respect to hear how powerful, and at times how savage an animal a horse can be. We have much to learn in our treatment of him. An Arab will make his mare go far longer distances without suffering than we can our horses. In South America, the "topping merchant" of Santiago used always to have at hand horses which could be ridden to Valparaiso, some ninety odd miles, and back next day, with no food but hay and a little chopped straw. The Hanoverian troopers in the Peninsular war were able to keep their chargers in good condition, while those of many of the English cavalry regiments were dying by wholesale. The Germans were more kindly anxious for the welfare of their rough ugly beasts than the English "horse subduers," as they count themselves, were of their far superior animals. We shut them up in stifling dark stables, with no fresh air, and with abominable smells, while they are by nature hardy creatures belonging to temperate climates, and used to exposure. It has been found that the mortality in some of the great cavalry stables in London has been diminished very greatly by admitting more air and light.

The courage which horses will show in a charge during a battle; the temper, when in a mob (the good-natured giants of the Household Brigade back their horses, as to disperse a crowd by mere force of the terror of their heels, or the switching of their tails, without doing any harm to man, woman or child); the intelligence with which a horse, that is set to move whole lines of trucks and carriages at a railway station, understands the complicated commands made to him by word and sign, all show powers and qualities of which at present we make but very indifferent use.

A curious proof of the courage and strength of the horse is to be found in a book some twenty years old, by a Mr. Knighton, an Englishman, who was in the service of the King of Oude in 1835. He tells the following story of what he himself once witnessed at Lucknow.

The King, whom he calls "a sensual, cruel savage," kept many wild beasts, which he sometimes set to fight with each other as in the Roman games. One day, Mr. Knighton was driving from the River Goomtee to one of the palaces in a sort of little open gig. As they passed along the streets, there was not a creature to be seen; if any one came in sight, they were rushing hurriedly off. Presently he saw in the middle of the road a trampled bloody heap. He stopped; it was the corpse of a woman terribly lacerated and torn, the face crushed by teeth into a shapeless mass, the long matted hair clotted with blood.

Such was the capricious tyranny of the King, that Mr. Knighton was hardly surprised. "It was probably some execution," he whispered to his companion. On they drove—there were still no signs of any inhabitants to be seen; the houses were everywhere closed, a sort of breathless terror seemed to reign in the city. Presently they came to the body of a lad similarly mangled, lying by the side of the road, and they stopped once more. On the top of an adjoining house they saw one of the king's troopers looking intently up the street.

"What is the matter?" said Mr. Knighton. "The man-eater is loose, wallah! Lookout, Sahibs, he is quite wild to-day."

I had heard (continues Mr. Knighton) of a savage horse belonging to one of the troopers, who was called "Kunewallah," because he had destroyed many men.

"He is coming, he is coming!" shouted the man suddenly from the house-top, "take care, take care!"

Far down the road we could see the wild brute, a large bay horse, savagely shaking a child which he had seized in his jaws, and evidently coming our way. In another moment, he had seen the carriage, thrown the child on the road, dead no doubt, and rushed forward furiously to attack us. We turned, our horse almost unmanageable with terror, and drove on at a mad gallop towards a sort of yard which was closed in by strong gates. We could hear the iron hoofs of the man-eater clattering over the road in the silent street, as he pursued us at breakneck speed.

We gained the enclosure, and drove within the doors, which were luckily open. I jumped out and threw back the gate; which fortunately shut with a heavy iron bolt into a socket. As it fell in, the man-eater came thundering up his head and chest covered with blood, his jaws steaming with the recent slaughter of his victims. He stood looking savagely through the rails, with cocked ears, distended nostrils, and glaring eyeballs, a ferocious looking monster. Our horse trembled from head to foot as if he were shivering with cold; the man-eater glared at us through the bars, walked round to try and find an opening, but it was all hard iron railing. Satisfied that he was baffled, he turned round, rattled his iron heels against the bars, and with head and tail erect and cocked ears, galloped off down the road. Later in the day we heard that the trooper had contrived to let fall a noose over his head, he had been upset, muzzled, and taken back to his stable.

I mentioned what I had seen to the king when I came to him shortly after. "He is as savage a wild beast as a tiger," said I.

The king laughed. "Then he shall fight the tiger Burrhea," so called after the name of a village at the foot of the Himalaya, from which the animal had been brought.

There was a courtyard in the palace about sixty yards square, surrounded by thick bamboo railings on two sides. On the third was a gallery, in which the king sat surrounded by male and female slaves fanning him with peacock fans. The man-eater was lured on into the yard after a little mare of which he was fond; and the tiger, which was without food or drink, was let loose into the enclosure.

AN EXTRAORDINARY REVELATION.—A remarkable story is told in the London Record by a clergyman who signs his name and vouches for the truth of what he says. It seems that the minister of a certain parish died a year or so ago, appointing as his executors two friends, both of whom were admirals in the British Navy. Among his effects was a bulky package sealed up carefully and indorsed, "Inviolably sacred: to be destroyed." After mature deliberation, the executors decided that as faithful trustees of what their friend had left behind him, they could not destroy anything without at least first knowing what they were destroying. So they opened the envelope and found therein two documents, one of which was a dispensation from the Pope, permitting the deceased to retain his position as a clergyman of the Church of England, though actually a priest of the Church of Rome; the other document contained a list of clergymen in the same diocese or its vicinity, who were in possession of similar dispensations, and consequently to be relied on for sympathy and co-operation in case of necessity. If this statement was not made by a well known and respectable clergyman, it would be set down as an obvious attempt at imposition.

HOW MUCH SHALL I GIVE?—At a missionary meeting in the Fiji Islands, held last year, each tribe came, led by its chief, singing as they came, and laid their gifts upon the table. One old chief leading his tribe, as he reached the door of the building, became deeply moved and greatly excited, and with tears streaming from his eyes, cried out, "What shall I give unto the Lord? O that I had something to give Him in return for all that He hath given me. O that I were rich, that I had gold or land to give. I have only this mite (holding up a sovereign). No, this is not all; I will give myself, my body, my soul my all!"

MISCELLANY.

"HUSH, CHILDREN!"

The dreary American silence! If grown people choose to indulge in it, it is their own affair. It blunts only their fine edges of sympathy and human brotherhood. It deprives them, certainly, of one great opportunity to study character; or to throw in a cheery word here and there to some wandering and way-worn soul. But it is their affair. They may open their mouths or shut them, at their own sweet will.

But how about the "'Sh! 'sh! children!" How about going around all day with a moral cork in your mouth and a moral stopper on your spirits?

"Happy noise," says a mother I know, "I never even hear." Would that the deafness were epidemic. "There is a time for all things," children are reminded when they would fain break the silence of the dinner-table with some chirping question. When does it come, the time for free and open talk between sire and son? at bed-time, if she chooses the mother has her chance to strike a tender chord and listen with hushed and reverent ear to its music; but when is it that the busy father can take time and satisfaction with his boy?

And in the time appointed for all things under the sun, when does this come in our modern ways, the time for hurrah and hullabaloo? In the girls' schools now-a-days, a decorous hush prevails; a little "walking up and down" at recess; a gathering round the "heater" to discuss, with precocious criticism, dress and dancing at the last juvenile ball. Here is just the hot, forcing atmosphere that tends to premature grown-up-ness and early decay.

It is dreadful to think of all the unused strength of lung and limb, starving and dwindling for want of a sturdy shout and a hearty romp in even the miserly minutes of the snatched recess. It is incredible that fathers and mothers, even the best intentioned, as aforesaid, submit to these things. They feed their flock with the richest roast-beef and the ripest fruit in the markets; yet they sit calmly by, consenting, while another starvation goes on beneath the sanction of their eyes. Organized play and organized noise is the need of modern schools. "Would you have us a nuisance to our neighbors?" Let the neighbors move away, then. Nobody objects to the sounding organ and the swelling chant of the church round the corner; though it does make a good deal of noise, it is pleasant and harmonious. If you will but listen aright you will hear symphonies and choric songs in the happy, eager shouts of children at their play. Yes, even in the squealing and screeching into which the feminine octave rises; it is a chorus that promises strength of lung and bids defiance to dyspepsia—an early morning psalm.

The rotation of crops has long been understood by our farmers, but the cultivators of our most precious growths, the instructors of our children, are unable, it seems, to grasp the idea. A good grass period of half an hour or more in the morning routine will leave the soil all the stronger and fresher for Latin roots and serial lectures on chemistry. To draw the blood from the heavy brain and send it tingling through feet and fingers is but one of the many balances in physique and morale, that plenty of romp and noise a discretion will give to the modern school-girl.

How few children are trained to talk well or, indeed, to talk at all. Their early efforts at expansion in this direction are chilled and nipped by their mother's curt responses and their father's absorbed replies. What business have fathers and mothers to be absorbed in business thoughts or household worries to the extinction of youthful voices, and to the repression of those "far-reaching instincts" of childhood, which seek the reason why of all things under the sun!

If there be a time for all things, let the father and the mother take the lesson home. When their children are around them, eating bread and butter, or playing "under their feet," as one expresses it, is their time. Clear and concise expression re-acts on thought; the value to a child of the training is not to be estimated. Is he incoherent or halting in speech, does he talk in disjointed and scrambling English?—be sure that his thought is shapeless and inert under these slouching words.

It is perhaps to the eternal "Don'ting" of the mother, and the "Run away now" of the father, that we owe the scant progress among us of conversation as a fine art. Stand in a popular library for ten minutes, and listen to the buzz round the register's desk. "Pale as a lily," "Why did he not get well?" "Who married them?" are under discussion. "Is it good?" we hear, on all sides, with the queer dwelling on the latter word that makes it a dissyllable.

"Oh, it's elegant! It's perfectly splendid!" goes up from a chorus of voices. We have heard the same adjectives applied to the "Descent of Man," and to the publications of Mark Twain. No discrimination, no genuine criticism; critics are trained in childhood. The seeing eye and the hearing ear are brightest and keenest then. Then is the time to give exactness, to teach the child to modulate his thought; while the mother learns as well, from his quick observation, another page of criticism. We shall have no light and shade, and no delicate discrimination in our conversation, such as makes French talk the most delicate mosaic of color in the world, until we stop hushing and don'ting with our children, and learn, with them, the silver art of speech.

Once there was a little girl whom a bevy of aunts strove hard to entertain during her yearly visit to them. Various plans were suggested stealing for this drive and that walk; and visits in the village. They didn't seem to meet with approval, and were rejected in pantomimic scorn. At last a long-suffering aunty ejaculated in despair, "Well, Bessie, what do you want to do?" "What I want to do," replied the oracular child, "is to do what I want."

We commend this philosophy to fathers and mothers; not so much in the matter of amusement, but in the interest of free speech. Let your child's voice and talk have its full, natural measure; let it ask one hundred questions a day, and if you cannot answer them, acknowledge, in meekness, that there are some things no father and mother even "can find out." Cultivate, modulate, coaxes your children into natural and hearty and loving speech.—Mrs. Hallowell in "Christian Union"

SCIENTIFIC ITEMS.

SAVING TEETH.—A curious case in dental surgery recently came to our knowledge, and deserves notice as a rare, though not entirely unique exhibition of the skill of man and the recuperative powers of nature. A gentleman in Brooklyn had the misfortune, during a friendly bout with the boxing-gloves, to receive a blow in the face which broke off one of his teeth. Supposing that the damage was irreparable, he neglected, at first, to consult a dentist; but, after a day or two, yielding to the importunity of friends, he called upon Dr. Myrick, tooth in hand. The doctor, doubly apprehensive of danger by reason of the delay, and the alteration of the surfaces of fracture, as well as the inherent difficulty of the operation, nevertheless decided to attempt to restore the tooth. The broken piece (comprising, we believe, nearly all of the visible tooth) was carefully re-set, and bound ingeniously to its place. The patient was obliged, for a considerable period, to "hold his jaw"—abstaining from conversation, and confining himself to liquid food. But the result was that the two parts of the tooth united, and, at a recent gathering of dentists, the doctor was able to exhibit his patient so completely restored that the assembled experts were unable to decide where it had been broken.—Christian Union.

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE.—It was in England that solution of the great problem of hygiene was first attempted. "Preventive Medicine," it is there called. Palmerston told a deputation which waited on him in order to ask him to order a fast on the approach of the second epidemic of cholera, to cleanse their sewers and diligently visit the dwellings of the poor. And he did not confine himself to good advice, but, with his usual energy, he laid his hand on sanitary legislation, and purified the air of London and the large manufacturing towns. The result of the sanitary measures carried out was a reduction of the mortality of London from 26 to 23 per 1,000, and in some of the towns to 17 per 1,000—a low death-rate previously only equalled in the Isle of Wight. More than four thousand lives have been preserved yearly in London; and, assuming that the mortality among the sick is 1 in 20, this number represents a diminution in yearly sickness to the extent of eighty thousand. Franklin's maxim, that "public health is public wealth," has become a part of the inner consciousness of the English people; and every Englishman, proud as he is of the inviolability of his domicile, and closing his house like a castle against intrusion from without, abandons this inviolability, and cheerfully submits to each proceeding of the sanitary law, which, when the death-rate in a town exceeds 23 per 1,000 gives the officer of health the right to examine each house, search out nuisances, and control the consumption of water.—By Dr. Seegenn, of Vienna, in Vienna Figaro.

DETECTION OF COLOR-BLINDNESS.—Color-blindness is not an unfrequent affection of the eye. In some persons it assumes the form of an insensibility to all colors, and then light and shade, or in other words, black and white, are alone perceived. In others it amounts to an inability to distinguish between the various shades of browns, grays, and neutral tints. Or, again, it may manifest itself by a want of power to discriminate between such colors as red, blue, and yellow, which are called primary, and the secondary and tertiary colors, such as green, purple, orange, and brown. The prevalence of this affliction may be judged from the circumstance that of 1,154 persons of several professions examined at Edinburgh by Dr. G. Wilson, sixty-five, or about one in eighteen, were color-blind. Of these, twenty-one could not tell red from green, nineteen were unable to distinguish between brown and green, and twenty-five mixed up blue and green. An instrument has lately been invented to facilitate the detection of this infirmity. It consists of a rotating disk, with a circle in the middle half white and half black. Around this are three rings, the first being half red and half green, the second half violet and half red, and the third half violet and half green. When the disk is rapidly rotated the central circle will appear to be gray, while to the green-blind, the red-blind, and the violet-blind respectively, the inner, middle, and outer rings will appear of the same hue. When once the peculiar character of the color-blindness with which one is affected is discovered, the infirmity may be palliated by the use of appropriate spectacles.—Galaxy.

THE NEW PRECENTOR IN CHURCH.—It has recently been suggested that the cornet-a-piston be introduced as an element of church music, taking the place of choir or precentor in leading the singing. It is claimed that it is better than any other instrument now known, obviates the dragging of congregational singing, and that its tones are of an awakening and inspiring character. It is not intended to supersede the organ where there is one, with the cornet, but merely that the latter shall take the place of choirs and precentors. The cornet alone should be used to lead; but a good organ accompaniment, it is said, vastly improves the quality and volume of sound produced.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

ASPHALT WALKS.

Smooth, dry, and hard walks about the yards, gardens, and lawns of country houses are very desirable. A little labor and a little expense will ensure this luxury to all who appreciate pleasant walks in wet and in other weather, and whose love of order and good taste makes them prefer cleanliness and comfort to uncleanliness and discomfort. It is no unusual thing on a farm for the walks between the house, and barn, and outhouses to be almost impassable in wet weather, except by wading through mud and water. A little attention to improvement in this direction will amply repay the outlay necessary, and give an appearance of refinement that will be of more benefit to the farmer than his hoarded saving, at the expense of comfort and good taste.

The following extract is from the London Gardener, and may be of use to such as contemplate laying out walks:

After the walks are cut out, the bottoms filled up with rough ashes or other material to within about three inches of the desired level, rolled firm, and the edges of stone or box laid, commence to prepare the asphalt walk as follows: A clean space having been made near the large heap of sifted ashes, two men set to with shovels, by taking about two barrowfuls from the heap and spreading it in a circle, about three or four inches deep, a little to one side. The tar is then lifted out of the tubs with a long-handed ladle, and poured over the ashes until they have just got sufficient to soak them without any going to waste by draining away. Then, much in the same way as a mason's laborer mixes mortar, the ashes are turned quickly over once or twice, the better to soak them, and again laid a little to one side as the foundation of the heap. Another similar quantity of ashes is drawn from the large heap, soaked and turned in the same manner, and thrown on the top of the first; and so on, until the whole is finished and thrown up in a conical heap. This is the first stage. The heap is now allowed to stand for about ten days, or longer if the walks are not ready. By that time the ashes will have absorbed the air thoroughly, and will appear to be much drier than at first, when the same operation of turning the heap by small quantities at a time, and soaking with tar, is again repeated as before, the object being to add just sufficient tar to make the ashes "sticky," without making a puddle of them. The evil of too much tar is that the walks are soft, and the tar comes up to the surface in the rolling. For this reason it is better to leave the heap to drain for a week or so after the second turning also.

This much being accomplished, and supposing all to have gone right, it will now be time to make the walks. Some fine morning, and when there is a prospect of the weather being dry for a day or two, all the barrows are put in action. Two men are set to fill, with strict injunctions to take the heap straight forward as it comes, as the ashes are always wettest in the centre of the heap, and driest at the sides; and two are set to spread the asphalt on the walks as it arrives, about three inches deep, with iron rakes, using the back or teeth of the rake as may be needful, and taking care to have the walk slightly round in the middle. Putting on or spreading the asphalt does not take so long as might be imagined—six or eight men will cover one hundred yards of walk, six feet broad, in about three hours. After spreading, the walk is then rolled with a heavy roller, two men pulling it slowly along, and one going behind, sweeping the asphalt off with a besom as it sticks to the roller, whose duty it is also to wet this roller at the end of each journey. After being rolled for an hour or two, until it is middling firm, the walk will be ready for sprinkling with the spar or gravel. Whatever material is used, it should be got ready beforehand. We use Derbyshire spar mixed with shale, which gives the walk a clean, smart appearance; but common river-gravel, put through a half-inch sieve, would do well, and would give the appearance of a smoothly-rolled gravel walk. The spar is sprinkled regularly with the hand and just thick enough to hide the black surface of the asphalt, then rolled in with the roller until the walk is smooth and firm, when it is finished and fit for traffic. It should, however, be rolled for three or four mornings in succession, before the sun gets strong, in order to insure a firm "set."

The objections which have been urged against asphalt walks for gardens are, that in hot weather the tar smells disagreeably, and that it is injurious to box edgings and the roots of trees. As regards the smell, it soon almost disappears, and even in very hot weather it is never so perceptible as to be in the least disagreeable. Box does not thrive very well if it has not got established before the walks are asphalted. But I could point to walks in the garden here where it thrives as luxuriantly as could be desired, although they have been down in asphalt for years. We are, however, replacing the box with imitation stone-edging, which is neat and substantial, and resists the hardest frost, harbors no vermin, saves much labor, and is in every way superior to box for the kitchen garden.

DOMESTIC.

BREAST OF VEAL.—Cover thickly with crumbs of bread, put small lumps of butter about on it, and sprinkle with pepper and salt when baked, making a gravy of butter. This is a very nice dish. Both the rack and breast, as commonly dressed, are but little esteemed, yet in this way make excellent dishes.

ROSKS.—One pint of warm milk, one teacup of yeast or one yeast cake, half a cupful of butter, one of white sugar, flour enough to make the dough of the consistency of biscuit. After the sponge of milk, yeast and flour is light, add the other ingredients. Let it rise again, then mould into small round cakes; put in buttered tins, and bake half an hour. Beat the yolk of an egg in milk, and rub over the top of each rusk as soon as baked.

CHEAP PAINT.—A lady asks for a cheap paint for kitchen floors. The following recipe from an exchange paper may suit her:—If the kitchen floor needs painting, a cheap paint can be made from five pounds of French ochre, and a quarter of a pound of glue dissolved in one gallon of boiling water; dissolve the glue thoroughly, then stir in the ochre, and apply to the floor while hot. When perfectly dry, put on one coat of boiled linseed oil. This paint is very cheap. Ochre will not be more than 12 cents per pound; glue, not over 25 cents, and the oil may cost from 75 to 85 cents, or perhaps a little more, per gallon. It will dry very quickly, hardening over night, but it is better to let it dry for twenty-four hours before stepping on it.

TO CLEAN KID GLOVES.—Wash the hands thoroughly, and then put on the gloves, and wash them, as though you were washing your hands, in a basin containing spirits of turpentine, until quite clean; then hang the gloves up in a warm place, or where there is a free current of air, which will carry off all the smell of the turpentine. Or make a strong lather of soap and warm water, in which steep a small piece of new flannel. Place the glove on a flat, clean and unyielding surface, such as the bottom of a dish; and having thoroughly soaped the flannel (when squeezed from the lather), rub the kid till all the dirt be removed, cleaning and resoaping the flannel from time to time. Care must be taken to clean every part of the glove by turning it in every direction. The gloves must be dried in the sun or before a moderate fire, and when dry, they must be gradually pulled out; they will then look as well as new. To clean colored kid gloves, have ready on a table a clean towel folded three or four times, a saucer of new milk and another saucer containing a piece of brown soap. Take one glove at a time, and spread it smoothly on the folded towel. Then dip in the milk a piece of flannel, rub it on the soap till it receives a tolerable quantity, and then with the soaped flannel commence rubbing the gloves. Begin at the wrist, and rub lengthwise toward the ends of the fingers, holding the glove firmly in the left hand. Continue this process until the glove is cleaned all over with the soap and milk. When done, spread them out, and pin them on a line to dry gradually. When nearly dry, pull them out evenly, the crosaway of the leather, after which stretch them on your hands.

There is no diseased condition of the body in which Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya may not be used with positive benefit. Being a Chemical Food and Nutritive Tonic, it acts physiologically in the same manner as our diet. It perfects Digestion, Assimilation, and the formation of Healthy Blood. It sustains the vital forces by supplying the waste constantly going on, of nerve and muscle, as the results of mental and physical exertion, enabling mind and body to undergo great labor without fatigue. Its action in building up constitution when broken down with Wasting Chronic Diseases, by fast living and bad habits, is truly extraordinary. Its effect in the debilitated is equally as great, for all the organs of the body. Phosphates being absolutely essential to cell formation and the growth of tissues, must for all time be Nature's great restorative and vitalizer.
