Henry Birks Tells Rotarians Story And Romance of Silver Down Ages

The history and romance of silver as a "noble metal" in the age-long story of mankind was the essence of an interesting address, at the Ladies' Day Luncheon of the Rotary Club of Westmount, by Henry Birks, president of Henry Birks and Son, who prefaced his address with a brief history of his company.

Henry Birks, Mr. Birks' grandfather and founder of the company, was born in Montreal, and started in business here some 90 years ago. Through a later amalgamation with Savage and Lyman Company and subsequent development the business has grown to the Henry Birks and Sons of today.

The science of refining silver, Mr. Birks declared, extends back to earliest known civilizations. Silver occurs naturally in two forms: as a metal veined in rock, and as an ore. From galena, a lead and silver ore, the ancients refined the silver by a process known as cupelation which was carried from the East into Europe where it was used extensively in the early days.

Silver is a highly ductile metal which can be drawn to threads of unbelievable fineness and consequent length from a given quantity of the metal, he said. The discoloration often seen on silver is a sulphide, not an oxide (i.e. it has been exposed to sulphur or sulphur fumes). A good way to keep it clean in the drawer is to put in a block of camphor which keeps the sulphur from the silver, Mr. Birks told the ladies especially.

What are perhaps the most ancient silver objects known were unearthed in ancient Ur of Chaldees near the Persian Gulf in 1921 when archaeologists dug down through the remains of 17 successive civilizations and thereby pushed back the dawn of history more than 1,000 years.

Prove Biblic History

Their discoveries confirm much biblical history and show that Abraham was a member of a highly developed civilization in which the use of silver was well established. Mr. Birks revealed, among other things, it was interesting to find that at that ancient time they had developed a system of mathematics based on the number six instead of ten, had evolved an advanced form of architecture and had developed the four-wheel cart.

Mr. Birks said that Byzantine art, which lasted from the 4th to the 7th century was stimulated by Greece and Rome, and that an interesting find was made in England in 1939 when a prehistoric boat was dug up which contained examples of Byzantine silver. Another interesting find was made in 1943 when an English farmer ploughed up 34 pieces of ancient

WOMAN FATALLY STRUCK BY TRAM

Struck by a streetcar coming to a stop last Monday, Mrs. Aileen Sutherland, 4488 Sherbrooke Street West, was knocked down about 11.45 a.m. as she was crossing north to south at the corner of Sherbrooke and Victoria Avenue. She was taken to hospital where she died within a short time. The case was heard before Coroner Duckett, and a verdict of accidental death was given.

Library Display Of Career Books To Aid Young Folk

Featuring a timely display of books on careers to help the young people and veterans who are graduating and are uncertain of the opportunities in different fields of work, the Westmount Public Library announces the main theme of the exhibit is to encourage the youth to find their place in Canadian life.

The exhibit will remain on view until April 15th. The Library is very grateful for the generous co-operation of the Association of Registered Nurses, Province of Quebec, Mr. Murray of the Westmount Junior High School, Miss Jean Worley of the Associated Screen News, and the McGill Library School.

The Library will be closed all day, Good Friday and Easter Sunday. It will be open as usual all day Easter Monday.

Uniteens Present Unity Frolics '47

Bob O'Neil and his Uniteens gave their first public showing of the Unity Frolics of '47 before a packed house in the Assembly Hall of the Westmount Junior High School last Thursday evening. It is a teen-age show made up of members of the Westmount Unity Club.

All backstage work and spotlight effects were handled by members of the Club. To celebrate this very successful venture a banquet was held for members and associates of the show last Tuesday evening at the Queen's School.

WOMAN INJURED IN AUTO MISHAP

Mrs. Mary Wilson, 4023 Dorchester Street West, received a bruised chin, broken teeth and nervous shock in a collision between two autos on Decarie Blvd., opposite Civic No. 3792 at 1.45 p.m. on Sunday.

NEW APPOINTMENT

D. K. Buik, 426 Mount Stephen Avenue, who is named as Assistant to the Managing Director, Canadian Pacific Steamships, by Captor R. W. McMurray, C.P.S.

D. K. Buik Named Ass't Managing Director C.P.S.

MONTREAL, April 1 — D. K. Buik, 426 Mount Stephen Avenue, today was named assistant to the managing director of Canadian Pacific Steamships by Capt. R. W. McMurray, the managing director of C.P.S. With the British Ministry of War Transport in Montreal from its formation in 1940 until 1946, Mr. Buik has been on loan as assistant manager of Saguenay Terminals of the Aluminum Company of Canada for the past year.

He was director of the general division of the Ministry when the Windsor Station offices which controlled the Canadian end of the United Kingdom's shipping pool were closed in May of 1946. In the building of the complex control structure which allotted shipping space for the huge amounts of war material and thousands of troops carried, he was one of the original staff of six.

At the time of taking over war shipping duties he had been secretary to the chairman and president of the C.P.R. for nine years.

For three summers prior to 1931, while studying at Bishop's College from which he graduated with Bachelor of Arts degree, he had taken seasonal employment with the C.P.R. first in construction work near Edmonton, Alta., and then in Maritime summer hotels.

A native of Montreal, he graduated from St. Albans School at Brockville, Ont., before entering college. In 1939 he married Lois Barlow, of Montreal, and they have two daughters and one son.

He is a member of the Canadian Railway Club of Montreal.

VETERANS' MEETING

The Newfoundland Veterans Association of Montreal will be holding their regular monthly meeting at the Legion Memorial Building at 8.30 p.m. on Good Friday.

NEW VALUATION ROLL BRINGS QUESTIONNAIRE

In order to have the necessary information for the new Valuation Roll recorded as correctly as possible, the Assessors of the City of Westmount are mailing a questionnaire to all tenants and occupants of residences and business premises in Westmount. It is desirable that this questionnaire be completed and returned promptly in the stamped addressed envelope provided. The importance of having the required information recorded correctly will be realized when it is understood that from the information supplied the Municipal Electoral List, the Jury List, the Business Tax Roll and the Water Tax Roll will be prepared.

A covering letter to the questionnaire from the Board of Assessors reads as follows:—Dear Sir or Madam: The Board of Assessors is required to record in the Annual Assessment Roll, in addition to the property valuations, information for the use of other City Departments in connection with the Voters' Lists, Jury Lists, Old Age Pensions, etc. To ensure that the information with regard to yourself and the premises you occupy is correctly recorded, will you please answer the questions below and return this form in the enclosed envelope at your earliest convenience."

The questionnaire itself asks fullest personal information.

First Robin Is Reported In Westmount

The first robin of the year to be reported in Westmount was seen Tuesday morning by Mrs. E. E. Shaw, 625 Victoria Avenue, in her back yard, where she declares she heard him happily singing.

Considering the uncertain weather we have been having of late, Mr. Robin may be a lot colder before he is warmer! Nonetheless, we hope with Mrs. Shaw that he is a true harbinger of spring, and soon is able to find the insects and worms he so richly deserves.

Easter Service Atop Mt. Royal

Special Easter Morning Service will be held at the Chalet atop Mount Royal this Sunday at 7.15 a.m. when Professor George Kimble, M.A., Head of the Department of Geography, McGill University, will deliver the Easter message.

Sponsored by the Montreal Presbytery Young People's Union of the United Church of Canada, this service was originated by members of St. James United Church. The Montreal Presbytery enlarged on the plans of the annual service, and for the last ten years young people have joined in this annual Easter ceremony. This year young people of all denominations are invited to be present. Although the service is designed primarily for young people, the general public is also invited.

Members of the Salvation Army Young People's Band will lead the hymns. Soloist will be Len Harbour, of Rosemount First United Church. He will be accompanied at the organ by Miss Vera Jamieson. Others taking part in the service are Miss Sheila Richardson of Rosemount Salvation Army Corps, and Keith Eddy, member of St. Mark's United Church.

In the event of rain, the service will be held in Erskine and American United Church, at Ontario Avenue and Sherbrooke Street.

Scouts & Cubs

BY REG GROOME

Next Tuesday, Westmount's champion Inter-Pack Hockey League team, 2nd Westmount, who, with Dixie, are the co-champions for 1947, will be feted at the Western Area Headquarters at Cote St. Antoine Road and Draper Avenue, when they will be presented with the Poltrick Cup to hold for six months and, also, champions crests for the boys to put on their sweaters.

2nd Westmount did very well in the league, in spite of some criticism form this corner. They went all through the season without a defeat and entered the play-offs with Dixie, coming very close to winning the honours. However, as it turned out, it was better all round for both teams to share the laurels, with the arrangement pleasing all players on both teams. Those invited to the Party Tuesday at 7.30 p.m. are all players who played in at least one league game and any parents who wish to come along to watch. Hope to see you there!

Congratulations

Jaywalkers received congratulations in Columbus, Ohio, yesterday, but the persons handing them out meant them the other way around. Boy Scouts approached persons crossing the streets away from intersections or walking against red traffic lights and handed them little cards reading: "Congratulations, Jay Walker. You made it".

Sea Scout Camp

Some two weeks ago we mentioned in this column that staff positions were open on the Scout Tamaracouta Staff. We neglected to mention at the same time that there are also three positions open at the S.S.S. Venture, Sea Scout Training Camp Base on Lake St. Louis. These positions are that of Assistant Skipper, Bos'n and Cook. Applications, addressed to Scout Headquarters on Bishop Street, will be received up until April 21st, after which definite appointments will be made. Applications should have the words 'Venture Staff" marked on the envelopes.

Forum Scout Show

The Scout Show, to take place at the Forum on May 17th, is rapidly taking very concrete form and tickets went on sale yesterday. We would like to remind all units that proceeds from the entire ticket sales will be divided amongst the units in the Montreal area, including, of course, Westmount. However, the proceeds you will gain by this is entirely dependent upon the amount of tickets you have sold prior to the show, so let's go! Ask you Scouter for further details!

Former Scouts

When Howie Meeker, rookie of the year, playing for Toronto Maple Leafs this year, recently visited a Toronto Scout Troop and answered questions about hockey players, it was learned that several of the Leaf players are former Scouts! Syl Apps was a Scout in Paris, Ontario; Gus Morton was a Cub and a Scout in Kirkland Lake; Syd Smith was a Scout at Essex Street School in Toronto and Howie Meeker was a Scout in Kitchener, Ontario.

Scouts in D.P. Camps

Some 15,000 Boy Scouts have been organized into Troops in camps for Displaced Persons in Germany, a survey has revealed. These include Latvians, Estonians, Lithuanians, Poles, Ukrainians, Russian Emigrants and White Ruthenians. Many of these people, it was discovered, had continued the Scout programme throughout the war despite great difficulties.

Bermuda has no income tax and practically no land tax. The entire income of the Colony is derived from import taxes. To vote or to be eligible for election to the House of Assembly, one must own at least a small portion of land. In 1944, the franchise was granted to women.

Roslyn News

Some of the senior classes in the school have been listening to radio programmes. These broadcasts have been specially written for school listening. They are on different subjects. Two interesting ones were on the poems of two Canadians, Pauline Johnston and Dr. Drummond. Some of the others were on Health, Science and Adventure. On the musical series there are very good orchestras and bands.

there are very good orchestras

Last Thursday, March 27th, two exciting basketball games were played between Roslyn and Queen's. In the first game Roslyn Juniors played Queen's Juniors. Roslyn won 6-1. Roslyn opened the scoring and the first basket was scored by Ross Southward. In the second game. Roslyn Seniors tied Queen's Seniors 9-9.

On Tuesday, the Roslyn Senior and Junior basketball teams wound up their schedule. In the first game the Roslyn Juniors had little trouble in turning back the King's Junior team 6-1. The scorers for the Roslyn team were Eddy Martin, Bill Torrey, and Ross Southward. In the second game which was very exciting the Roslyn Senior team turned back the King's Senior team 13-6. The scorers for the Roslyn team were Allan Warnock, Ray Baillie, Charlie Baillie and Tony Skinner.

On Wednesday the players received their crests and the two basketball cups for the Junior and Senior championships.

Four student teachers from Macdonald College have been visiting the school this week.

Barbara Chadwick, Mary Cliff, Ailen Thatcher and Gwen Macnamara have done an Easter sketch on the Gym blackboard for Miss Spencer.

Damaged By Fire Church Repaired

Disastrous fire, on November 10 last year, played havoc within Melville Presbyterian Church, completely destroying the organ and resulting in considerable damage to the Church interior.

During recent months, while repairs were being made, the congregation accepted the kind invitation of Rev. J. A. Johnston, Westmount Baptist Church, where services have since been held.

Repairs to the Melville Church have at last been completed and on Easter Sunday the congregation will resume worship in their own Church. A Hammond cathedral organ has been installed and to mark re-opening there will be a special musical service in the morning at 11 a.m. by a choir of fifty boys and girls from the Peace Centennial School, under direction of the organist and choirmaster, Lloyd G. Hoffer, R.S.M.

The service will be conducted by the minister of Melville Church, Rev. William Orr Mulligan.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

"Spring's come," called Anne from the kitchen. "There are Grackles in the back yard."

I rushed to the kitchen window; but the hurry was unnecessary. The four birds, with bodies about the size of Robins but much longer, more fancy-looking tails, seemed in no undue haste. They strutted pompously around under the sumacs, poking their long bills down into the old, brown grass of last year's lawn. Though actually completely dressed in iridescent, metallic black, in the sunshine their backs shone as polished bronze, and their dark, green-blue heads glistened like Peacocks' feathers. Straw-colored, glassy eyes gave the striking looking birds an unnatural appearance.

Every now and then one of them tipped forwards, raised its wings somewhat, spread its splendid, 5 inch tail, and let out a grating, unmusical screech that surely hurt its throat. However, it seemed quite satisfied with its own performance.

These Bronzed Grackles are born Canadians, brothers of the more widely-known Purple Grackles which are more southerly: seldom if ever crossing the border. Both kinds belong to the Blackbird tribe, all species of which travel north together in large flocks every spring. Blackbirds are chummy, nesting in communities of like species.

Grackles build bulky nests of mud and grass, preferring evergreens or heavy vines in parks and cemeteries or near residences, but they occasionally use hollow trees. From 3 to 7 greenish-blue eggs, spotted and lined with brown and black, are laid. If a colony has begun on your property, do not expect much sleep after daylight, especially when there are nestlings. Noisy at any time, when feeding children their discordant racket is particularly trying early mornings.

Another of their bad traits is stealing the eggs of other birds and preying on their young. So when surrounded by Grackles do not count on seeing other species, which fear these marauders and stay at a distance. Grackles also eat vegetable matter — fruit and seeds —sometimes spoiling crops. One of the few benefits they confer on us is to catch injurious grubs and worms that the farmer turns up in his spring ploughing.

A Grackle characteristic is what is known to ornithologists as "boating" the tail. When flying the tail which resembles a pointed fan is spread, and the ends of the feathers are turned up, making a small fence. This is more evident in spring flight than at other seasons.

Westmount Highlights

The recent visit to Montreal of Barbara Ann Scott, newly-acclaimed world champion figure-skater, coupled with the extensive press publicity, uncovered this amusing incident which was related to me by Roy Howard, who, along with Joe Dufferin is in charge of the Montreal office of the Canadian High News.

On the Sunday morning during Barbara Ann's visit, C.H.N. received a call from the Toronto office, saying a reporter was en route to get a story from "the champ". The idea was to get a reservation on the same plane that was to take the eighteen year-old skater to Toronto on Tuesday, two days later. Roy and Joe worked all Sunday, making the necessary arrangements, including a letter to Mrs. Scott for permission to interview her daughter on the plane. On Monday, Mary Dilworth, Toronto high school student who was to interview Barbara, had arrived and attended the public functions where Barbara appeared.

Tuesday morning, at Dorval airport, Barbara and C.H.N.'s correspondent boarded the Toronto plane. Inside, Mary sat beside Barbara for the remainder of the trip, obtaining the story which appeared in the High News a few weeks ago. A reporter of the Toronto Star also on the plane, was left to view the scenery, having no opportunity to reach the skating queen for an interview.

At Toronto, after the plane had barely come to a stop, the High News editor and a photographer climbed aboard and locked the door. As the representatives of the Toronto papers were forced to wait C.H.N. took pictures and an on-the-spot interview. Emerging from the plane the cameras flashed as Barbara and Mary walked down the steps.

One of the papers printed a picture of Barbara with the other half of the picture noticeably removed. That night High News was receiving the congratulations from the people they had "scooped". I think Joe and Roy are to be commended for the part they played to chalk up a major victory for their paper.

Don't be surprised if on one of these fine spring days, while strolling along one of Westmount's avenues, your attention should be drawn to an airplane, which will probably be painted a brilliant purple and white. So what? Because the pilot of the craft will be as far as we know, Westmount High's first licenced pilot, Willard "Moe" Morrison, nineteen years old and an eleventh year student. He started flying a year ago, working part-time for flying lessons, as well as going to school. After eleven hours intermittent flying with an instructor, Moe went into the wild blue yonder alone one day and returned successfully, flying solo for the first time in his life. "This", Mr. Morrison says, "was the outstanding feature of my flying career". That was last September. This summer Moe will be employed at Cartierville by the Laurentide Flying School, during which he hopes to do some cross-country flying. The ace of Westmount High will apply for a commercial licence, authorizing him to carry passengers or in other words operate an air taxi. In the future Moe's preference would be to fly the air lines.

To the holder of Private Flying Licence No. 5655 remember, horizons are unlimited and good luck.

The student Production Committee who presented the three-one-act plays at the Jr. High a few weeks ago, report a financial success for the two nights it ran. Let's see something of a larger show for next year, possibly another Purple and White Revue.

The Westmount Boys and Girls Annual Hobby Show will be held this year in the Westmount YMCA beginning April 9th, through the 12th, so to all hobby enthusiasts now is the time to ready your entry for the big show. . . . Speaking of big shows, the Oriole was around giving us the bird the other day, his topic was the performance of the "Georgiantics" he saw last week. Quoth the Oriole; "The dancing was good likewise Ray Lank and Bill Roberts". O.K. Oriole, back to the cage for another week. From another source comes word that A. Voronka, J. Dickins and R. Grindley deserve "For Merit" badges for their part in the show. They were stooges in a magician act. Mr. V. was a natural.

The Easter Parade: The W.H.S. hockey team will journey to Ottawa a week today for an exhibition game with Lebeau High School. . . . School closed yesterday for a ten day period, the numerous ski fans heading north. . . . Ron Morrow won his first fight of the local Golden Gloves Tournament last week-end by a T.K.O. in the first round. Ron, and Boo Marshall are Westmount's finest Fuller salesmen. . . . The Roof Gardens opening was postponed two weeks due to exams. . . . Sol's twelfth anniversary was observed quietly last Sunday. Mark Stevens, Hollywood star, featured at the soda fountain one summer. He was then known as Bill Cooke and attended the local high school. . . . Crowds have increased at Johnny Holmes dance Saturday nights since the band has broadcast coast-to-coast each, week, 11.30 to 12. . . . When a power failure struck the Plaza late Saturday night, George Apostalatos, acting in his father's absence, and always master of the situation, cleared the darkened premises quickly, carving knife in one hand, cash register in the other. Great work, George! . . . Frank "Cheeks" Read is an ardent admirer of the Canadian White Ribbon Tidings, in which Frank finds the short stories especially interesting. . . . Claude Root's impersonation of a British Army officer at the school masquerade dance two weeks ago was very well done. So was Doug Mitchell's of Mr. Jolson who was brought by his son Al and friends. . . . George Cochrane taught at Roslyn last week. . . Check and out.

Westmount Park Church To Present 'Dawn', Two-Act Drama, Sun. Night

By GEORGE COCHRANE

One of the most ambitious theatrical projects attempted by any local church group in the last decade will have its culmination on the evening of Easter Sunday when members of Westmount Park Church will present "Dawn," a two-act drama, in their church's chancel. The play, which is strongly reminiscent of the mystery and morality plays of the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, was written by Roy Trevor and is being directed and produced by W. R. Chadburn who has enjoyed a great deal of theatrical experience in England and the continent.

The cast of the production is made up entirely of members of Westmount Park Church, for many of whom this is their first attempt at drama. Mr. Chadburn has nothing but praise for his cast, however. Says he, "Although most of them have had little experience on the stage, they are seized with 'Dawn' as being a drama of modern faith, and they are rapidly developing a professional manner in their acting."

This reporter, who attended a rehearsal last week-end, can back up Mr. Chadburn's opinion of his cast. I was particularly impressed with the histrionic talent of Dorothy Copland who plays the role of Mary Magdalene and who does it in a manner that many professional actresses would find difficult to equal.

Moderator Praises Play

The play has received high praise from such an authority as Right Rev. T. W. Jones, D.D., moderator of the United Church of Canada, who read the script and expressed great interest in its possibilities as a contribution to better understanding of the Easter message. With an accolade from such a quarter, Roy Trevor, the nom de plume of a member of Westmount Park Church, can really feel proud of his work.

"Dawn" is actually divided into four parts, a brief prologue, with the setting the sepulchre of Christ, the first act, with the same setting as the prologue and the date the first Easter, a musical bridge between the first and second acts, and the second act, set in West-

Among those taking part in the programme will be Miss Dorothy Hunter, Miss Audry Hunter, Mrs. E. W. Griffith with her daughter Miss Norma Griffith who will render selections on the Xylophone. There will also be numbers by a Radio Quartet of Mrs. A. S. Robertson, Miss Mary Moon, Miss Olive Skeith and Miss D. Wallace.

Spread of Bible

Since its inception in 1898 this great organization now numbering some 6,500 members in Canada and the U.S.A. has placed the impressive volume of 2,750,000 Bibles in Hotels, Hospitals, Penal Institutions and Schools. During World War II approximately 10 million well bound New Testaments with Psalms were distributed to the Armed Forces, male and female, including all Nurses in the Forces.

The Gideons continually seek for new places in which to place the Word where it will be of real value, and at present are placing millions of a beautifully bound New Testament with Psalms and Proverbs in a maroon cover in the hands of Protestant School children in the U.S.A. and Canada. Already this winter 2,500 of these fine books have been given to pupils in Grade V of our Montreal Schools and another 1,000 to 1,500 will be so placed prior to school closing in June. This process will be repeated each year, so that in 6 or 7 years every child leaving Schools, above Grade V, shall have received one of these Testaments.

In order to take care of this ever widening Ministry a Church Service Field Day is to be held in Montreal on Sunday, May 18th, when members of the Local Camp hope to present the Gideon Ministry in 25 or 30 Churches.

WOULD WINSTON BE REQUIRED TO LAY BRICKS?

A few immigrants are being admitted to Canada, where hundreds of thousands are needed to increase wealth by production, on undertaking that they will work on farms for two years. Our agriculture is so unsound in relation to urban production that it is unsafe to permit the free flow of labor within Canada.

Although Winston Churchill appears to be fully engaged at home, there is just a possibility that he may become so fed-up with the British scene that he would consider making his home in Canada for a while. In view of the shortage of bricklayers, should we require him to lay bricks for two years if he applies for admittance. Such a requirement would be completely consistent with our present policy.

MAKING FILMS SOMETIMES DANGEROUS

Doubles are usually used for dangerous film sequences. But the players who appear in Ealing's Australian picture "The Overlanders" (which has been enjoying a long run in New York) had to do all the dangerous scenes themselves. There was one shot in which Chips Rafferty, John Fernside and John Nugent Hayward had to face a mob of stampeding cattle. When they had finished, they discovered that side bets had been laid by the drivers on the chance of one or more of the three actors being injured by the charging herd. The odds were three to one against all of them getting off uninjured.

REVENUE MAKES REAL FREEDOM

When we published newspapers and periodicals which carried advertising, the more advertising we got the freer we felt to speak our mind and to extend our services, writes John Atkins in The Scene from Singwauk Form. We have never known a publisher worth a shot of penicillin for pneumonia, who permitted his advertising to colour his news or editorial columns. We have never known an advertiser worth a new customer, who felt that his advertising should affect the views expressed by a publisher. An outstandingly successful Canadian publisher differs with many of his advertisers more often than he agrees with them. The more advertisers he has the less likely is any one of them to take exception to the free expression of his views.

There is no probability of any Canadian publisher, whose publication is a good advertising medium, being hampered in his expression of opinion by his advertisers. We have known publishers who thought they should have some regard for their advertisers' opinions but they had that kind of minds and, usually, poor publications. Advertisers themselves hold a wide variety of opinions, some of them pretty radical from our viewpoint.

IMMIGRANTS SHOULD BE TESTED

Amid applause in the House of Commons, Dr. W. G. Blair, M.P. for Lanark, calls for establishment of venereal disease tests for immigrants entering Canada. Until some of the Polish war veterans brought across as agricultural workers turned up in hospital with cases of V.D. contracted overseas, most Canadians were probably unaware that newcomers, as a matter of policy, are admitted to the Dominion without examination into this particular phase of their physical well-being) — Current Press Comment.

WEEKLY REVIEW

Those Unofficial Strikes

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

A queer situation has arisen in the British Labor movement, as revealed in the recurrence of what are called "unofficial strikes." It had been naturally expected that, with a strong Labor Government in power, organized Labor would be solidly united and that strikes would be eliminated or reduced to a minimum. That this has not been achieved is not, however, the fault of the Government or of responsible labor union leaders.

As I understand the situation, it resolves itself into a problem of central authority and control — that is, authority of the high officials of organized labor in all matters of dispute, and full control over the actions of the union membership, especially of lower union officials. It was the shop stewards who led the truck-drivers strike in London which paralyzed transportation and threatened the city with starvation. Both the high union officials and the Labor Government were powerless to prevent or to call off the strike. The shop stewards thumbed their noses at the hierarchy of the Labor movement.

"Ever get the feeling you'd like to get away from it all?"

Commenting on the situation, the London Economist of Jan. 18 said: "The drivers of Smithfield thought they were striking for holidays and overtime. But they have blundered into the very centre of the chief problem of high economic policy. They have disproved the theory upon which the promise of work for all, combined with the rising standard of living, has been based. At the very moment when the Labor Government and the Trades Union Congress were in solemn conclave on these matters, the shop stewards of Smithfield have poked their heads in at the door to warn the Government that they should not rely on any promises from the union leaders, since they cannot deliver the goods, even in the most literal sense of those words."

This rebellious element has always been strong in the Labor movement — indeed, the movement originated in rebellion against real injustices, Now that labor unions have got the upper hand in industry and even in government, the rebel complex which was cultivated in the early days still survives and is turned against the high-placed leaders of the Labor movement. As the Economist says. "The way to rise in a labor organization is, very often, to make a nuisance of yourself. To the extent that this is true, it puts a premium upon irresponsibility and makes appeals to reason self - defeating."

Thus the problem faced by the talks about abolishing profits, is reconciling organized Labor and employers, but rather of controlling the active leaders of the rank and file who actually start and lead the unofficial strikes. "How can these men be reached and influenced? asks the Economist. "It would be presumptuous on the part of any outsider to give advice to the Government, whose members have spent a lifetime in the Labor movement. But it is legitimate to insist that it is with these men, and not the official hierarchy of the unions, that the issue rests. Unless the unofficial leaders, the articulate but non-office - holding 10 per cent, can be brought to see, and to account willingly, their own responsibility in the national economic policy, then the Labor Government's game is up. And so is the game of all those who believe in a conscious economy directed towards the twin aims of stable employment and rising standards of living."

Those are the words of broad and deep wisdom which the leaders of labor and the workers themselves should seriously consider. The glib agitator, who still uses the language of the class war and Labor Government is not one of the workers' worst enemy. Especially is this so in Britain at the present time, when what they need is industrial co-operation and rising profits as a sign of rising productivity and increased capital.

In a recent speech, Sir Stafford Cripps promised that there would be "no conscription of labor," but the very fact that he mentioned such a thing would indicate that the Government may have considered it as one of the possible means of solving the present labor problem. Sir Stafford said it was necessary to bring 100,000 foreigners into British industry to meet the present year's labor requirements. But he as much as told Labor unions that they were responsible for the situation when he said: "The nation cannot afford increases in wage levels and shorter hours of work unless the change can be shown to increase output per man." That is merely a repetition of what the employers have been saying to the unions right along.

It is now quite obvious that the socialist planned economy launched by the Labor Government is not working the miracles of production and economic recovery promised by the Labor Party in their bid for power. Such planning can only be made to work by complete authority and control over the freedom of labor. That is how it works in Russia. But the British people are too fond of their freedom to submit to the dictatorship required for the success of a planned economy.

THE FORUM.

Conducted by Howard S. Ross, K.C., D.C.L.

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

The opinions expressed in this Forum are not necessarily those of this newspaper, and it does not accept responsibility for them.

The press of G. B. reports the possibility of a general election in that country. The Labor members do not favor a coalition and Mr. Churchill agrees with them as to this.

The Government ministerial ranks have lost a lot of fighting strength. Hon. Ellen Wilkinson is gone, killed by a faulty economic system. Morrison is very ill in hospital. Bevin has been warned against continuing his difficult work and even the Prime Minister seriously shows the strain.

Sir Stafford Cripps was a very distraught and pale man (so the newsmen reported) when he gave his interview on the situation.

The brave men and women in all political parties have a difficult time and there are many casualties. Economic warfare is not far removed from actual war and all because of the fact that our economic system is faulty. The rules of the game are not fair to anyone as the net result too surely shows. By and large those who operate any of the systems in use throughout the world are doing their best in all the circumstances, so what is badly needed is not more checks and balances but rather a system so just to all that it will not be necessary to kill people in war or in legislative assemblys because of a faulty economic system.

France's plan to combat inflation, commonly called "The Blum Plan," after its founder, former Premier Leon Blum.

The experiment does not deal so much with economics as it does with the principle of regimentation of a nation and will be watched with interest by people everywhere.

Instead of attempting to pacify the workers with wage increases the Government has "frozen" wages and will roll back all wholesale and retail prices. The first cut in prices was 5 per cent and the second 5 per cent.

In announcing the second price cut Premier Ramadier said the first reduction had "stopped the crazy price race and brought France back from the brink of an abyss." Admitting that the new price decree would strike some producers harder than others, the Premier commented, "But don't look for justice in all that. There is no more justice in the distribution of sacrifice than in sickness or in death."

William P. Tolley, Chancellor of Syracuse University, made a report recently to his trustees in which he opposed the establishment of a State University on the ground that education facilities need to be decentralized. He maintained that the son or daughter of a family of limited means needs a college within commuting distance from home: "A State University three hundred miles away is not the answer to the problem; even with free tuition a student cannot meet the cost of living away from home. Higher education must be brought to the community where he lives. He urged more generous State and Federal aid to enable students to attend existing institutions and the organizing of additional tax-supported junior colleges.

A war-time invention designed to prevent the emission of smoke from U-boat-threatened ships at sea, has now been adapted to suppress excessive smoke discharge from heating-plants. The invention was worked out by scientists at the fuel station of the United Kingdom. Department of Scientific and Industrial Research.

Let us hope the smoke nuisance in Montreal and district will be reduced as at present experts say our smoke ladened air does millions of dollars worth of damage each year to health and property.

Dover's white cliffs took a heavy pounding during the war so it is not surprising that a 250,000-ton chunk, 150 yards long, tumbled into the sea leaving a new peninsula thrusting out 100 yards from the old shore line of one of the beauty spots of the Kentish coast.

Slice of ham, ¾ inch thick
Whole cloves
2 tablespoonfuls cider vinegar
2 teaspoonfuls dry mustard
Maple syrup

Parboil ham 10 minutes. Drain. Stud with cloves and place in a casserole. In a measuring cup combine vinegar and mustard. Fill the cup with maple syrup and stir well to blend. Pour sauce over ham, reserving enough to baste once or twice, cover and bake in a 350° oven for 45 minutes.

Ink Stains On Hands

A solution of peroxide of hydrogen containing a few drops of ammonia will remove ink stains from the hands.

Can't keep away from oysters in this most oysterish of months, so don't try. Hollow out hard rolls, dip in melted butter or margarine and brown to a crisp. Fill with fried oysters. Serve hot with tartare sauce.

Sask's Care For Sick And Aged Described By Mrs. Gladys Strum

Mrs. Gladys Strum, M.P. for Qu'Appelle, Sask., only woman Member of Parliament, spoke recently to a large meeting held at Preston Hall and stated that tremendous strides had been made by the C.C.F. Government in Saskatchewan in the field of social services. Mrs. Strum was the first speaker in the series of four lectures on Saskatchewan arranged by the Quebec C.C.F. and gave listeners an idea of the progress made by the Government of Saskatchewan. Every person in Saskatchewan is entitled to free hospitalization, said Mrs. Strum, which is not limited to a certain number of days, but is available to the patient as long as the nature of his illness necessitates hospital care. Mrs. Strum emphasized the fact that this legislation also covers any person from Saskatchewan who may be taken ill, or meets with an accident in any other part of Canada or the U.S.A.

Old Age Pensioners are entitled and are supplied, when necessary, with eye treatment, including eyeglasses. The speaker, in relating the advances made in the field of supplying general medical care, stressed the importance of these changes in the fight against cancer and the value of hospitalization for work in the psychiatric branch of medicine.

On Wednesday, April 16th. Mr. Eric B. MacKay, M.P. for Weyburn, Sask., will speak on "Government Enterprise and Cooperatives". The lecture will take place in Preston Hall, at 8.30 p.m.

FLOWERS SMART TOUCH TO EASTER OUTFIT

New York — Don't be surprised if you see flowers decking even the shoes of those who walk in the Easter parade. According to Irene Hayes, famous florist who has originated many flower fashions, if there are no flowers on your shoes, it will only be because they are impractical there for they will be seen everywhere else—in buttonholes, hats, belts and hair.

Miss Hayes likes to do things this year with big clumps of freesia in yellow, lavender and white. Besides arranging fresh flowers for hats and hair, she is also making up a line of Easter bracelets in which the bright-colored flowers look like precious stones.

"One of the newest flowers this year is the African chincheriche, paper-white with a black center," says Miss Hayes.

"There are all sorts of new orchids, too, in a wonderful range of color and all varieties of shapes, even stars. Color is the season's flower note."

Dorothea Wells, who this year has persuaded even brides to wear the great colorful amaryllis suggests a single vermilion flower of this sort sensationally placed on blue, gray or turquoise spring costume. For a maiden aunt or grandmother who likes sweet-smelling bouquets, Mrs. Wells makes a corsage of lillies of the valley with grape hyacinths or Queen Anne's lace. She has also done charmingly sophisticated things with English primroses and coppery French marigolds to wear with the tailored suit, especially if it is brown or tan. Yellow marguerites or orange poppies make other tailored bouquets of great charm. Mrs. Wells has also combined gardenias with grape hyacinths, freesia or migonette to give a new zest to an old favorite.

A BREATH OF SPRING

For those who want to relieve the severity of the dressmaker suit there's the little bouquet like this of mixed spring flowers.

Orchids, according to Mrs. Wells, must never be arranged with what she calls spinach—that is ferns. You ruin the orchid with frills. For the table on Easter day she suggests a big low bowl of white glass or silver filled with Easter lillies cut short and massed. A colorful centerpiece would also be Iceland poppies in yellow, peach or orange. And, says Mrs. Wells, the poppies will keep for days if, when you have cut them to the desired length, you hold the ends over a lighted candle for a second or two in order to seal the fluids in.

Double stock which she also likes for a house decoration will last longer if after it is cut to the right length, you smash the ends with a hammer and slit them up two or three inches.

Copper tulips in a yellow bowl or double white Holland lilacs with pink and lavender tulips are other arrangements favored by Mrs. Wells. She also urges that you think of the home to which flowers are going when you send them. Fussy little flowers for a modern home are out of place, she warns. Rather yellow Calla lillies or amaryllis.

Reports By Committees Given At Westmount Club Session

The Westmount Women's Club Inc. held a general business meeting on Friday, March 28th, in Victoria Hall, at which the president, Mrs. C. S. Fortier, presided.

The members approved the following donations from the funds of the club towards welfare and post-war work.

Parcels for Britain under the Lady Reading Personal Parcel Scheme, $600.; Scholarship to Westmount High School, girl graduating into McGill University, $100.; Victorian Order Nurses (Special Car Fund), $25.;Save the Children Fund, $25.; Welcome Hall Mission, $10.; Herbert Reddy Memorial Hospital, $25.; Homoeopathic Hospital, $25.; Salvation Army, $25.; School for Handicapped Children, $10.; Westmount YMCA, $35.; Aid to China, $25.; Old Brewery Mission, $10.

In addition to the foregoing, $420. was allocated to take care of expenses for the ensuing year of the Ste Anne's Military Hospital Visiting Committee.

After the reading of the minutes by the secretary, Mrs. D. L. Stewart, reports were given to various chairmen.

Mrs. H. S. Jacques reported parcels sent to Britain under the Lady Reading Personal Food Scheme; Mrs. P. G. Delgado, the Fashion Show; Mrs. Herbert C. Holland, Charter Day Luncheon; Miss Muriel Dennis, Ste. Anne's Military Hospital Visiting Committee; Mrs. John Aplin Foster, Child in Britain; Mrs. Andrew A. McNiece, Door and House; Mrs. Harold Mills, Music; Mrs. Eric C. Riel, Publicity; Mrs. T. de G. Stewart, United Nations Society in Canada; Miss Sarah Gardner, Girls and Counselling Centre; and Mrs. S. Jacques, Welfare. Mrs. Jacques also told the meeting that an appeal had been received from the F.W.A. for used toys to amuse the children while their mothers were being interviewed. It was suggested that members who would like to assist should bring toys when attending the annual meeting.

Following this, tea was served by Mrs. Herbert C. Holland and her committee.

Fruit, Vegetable Juices Popular With Canadians

A few decades ago, leading food authorities recommended the use of fruit and vegetable juices in the daily menu. At that time, many a person considered this recommendation merely a fad of the hour. However, as many homemakers and nutritionists continued to sing their praises, homemakers learned to value these juices for their nutritional value, as well as for the flavour and colour which they added to a meal. Today, juices are a very popular and valued item of our daily fare.

Speaking of juices native to Canada, tomato juice and apple juice are the two which are used to the greatest extent, being served most often at the beginning of a meal. Grape juice is also popular while many like the blended vegetable juice, a refreshing combination of two or more juices made from garden fresh vegetables, such as tomatoes, celery, carrots, lettuce, beets, spinach, parsley, and watercress.

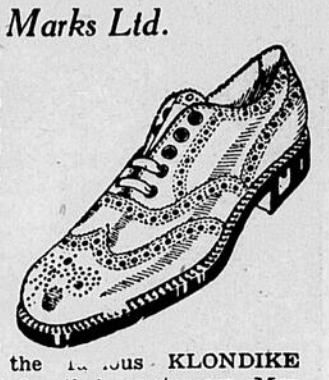
GERRY'S CHATTER COLUMN

Old Masterpieces Being Brought to Life

I am sure there are many people in Montreal who have never heard of BEAUMANOIR? 1498 Sherbrooke St. W., just east of Guy, or who when passing have never realized what a wealth of beautiful objects are on display in this unique shop. It has no equal in Canada. The artistically inclined person who can appreciate real hand carving will revel in the old French-Canadian French masterpieces, although at the time these artists did not realize the gift they possessed, which has never been surpassed. When I visited this shop yesterday, Mrs. Gouin was lost in admiration over an old wood carving of a lamb, nestling amongst the palm trees, the original gold and cream paint being preserved, this was placed on the mantel of the fireplace. There is a pair of gold leaves, about 48" in length, carved by Ambroise Fournier in 1836, that would make an unusual wall decoration. Have you been looking for a good sturdy man's desk lamp? Then be sure and see the beautifully designed wrought iron lamps here; they are most attractive. Soon, believe it or not, we will be tossing salads together again, and if you are an expert, be sure and see the large hand carved green cabbage salad bowl, with its large green leaves spread out, and the spoon and fork to match. There are some very fine Ceramic cheese or sandwich plates here also, each different, and done in soft blues, browns, and greens in most unusual designs. These must be seen to be appreciated. While down in the store room to view some rare pieces of carving, I spied an old Chelsea tea set; it was beautiful in its old gold, pink and blue floral design.

The New Henry Marks Ltd.



Have you ever noticed that when men find a make of shoes which gives them comfort as well as style, earth and high heaven will not make them change. That is one of the reasons why The New Henry Marks Ltd. Store, in The Mount Royal Hotel, always have a complete stock of the famous KLONDIKE CALF shoes on hand for their customers. Men know when repeating with this make, it is like putting on an old glove, for comfort and ease. In fact some fathers start their young hopefuls wearing the KLONDIKE CALF just as soon as they graduate to the size. Yes, I guess we must admit when it comes to buying shoes, the head of the house will not be dictated to, after he has made a point of always wearing KLONDIKE CALF SHOES. However, when you accompany "DEAR" down to buy his shoes, don't let him stop at the shoe department, but bring him upstairs to see the new 100% pure wool Mohair pullover sweaters, with cardigans to match. Both have a ribbed neck and waist, sizes 34-40, and come in eight beautiful shades; these are exclusive to this store. The next surprize "DEAR" will have is when he learns that you too can buy your slacks here. Now, these are no ordinary ones, but, like the majority of merchandise bought at The New Henry Marks Ltd. Store, are imported from England. The tailoring of these Bermuda doe skin slacks has been as meticulously cut as for any of the finest English tailored suits. Here are slacks that have really been made for women, and the shades are so soft and feminine in rust, sand, apple green, and nut brown. The girl or boy who goes riding will be thrilled with the bootjacks in this store. They have wooden frame, trimmed with rubber and leather, and are just the thing to pull off those special riding boots.

PLEXON . . . Trademark of Plexon Inc.

A Wonder Yarn

During the war years we heard of the wonderful new materials that would be appearing on the market. At the time, some of these yarns sounded as if they might have come from MARS . . . After having visited THE CORONET TEXTILE LTD. and viewed the many articles that they are displaying, made from PLEXON, I am convinced that we are now living in a wonder age. This summer we will be carrying white PLEXON handbags, which will rival anything shown in white plastics last summer. A notable characteristic is that it will not discolor. You will rave over the shoes made from PLEXON, yes, and there are handbags made in multiple colors, very attractive table mats, colorful belts, and Milady who wants her complete ensemble to match, can even have her travelling bags to correspond. Another important characteristic of this wonder yarn is a hat or a purse of lustrous PLEXON yarn that pays no visit to the drycleaners; a damp cloth will suffice to keep them looking fresh. The Coronet Textiles, Ltd., University Tower Bldg., St. Catherine St., are the sole distributors in Canada, for the Plexon yarn. In a very short time you will see many of these articles, including furniture, displayed in the departmental stores in Montreal.

A Preview at the Salon Vendome

Simpson's

How envious you ladies will be when I tell you that last week I had the unique experience of being taken behind the scenes of Simpson's Salon Vendome. However I did think how you would have enjoyed the preview of this Spring's styles. It was a revelation to be shown beautiful dress after dress; it made one feel like Alice in Wonderland. The most popular color seems to be navy, having the long torso effect. There is a very tricky Doucet print of dancing figures, with the V neck, cap sleeves and bustle in back. Bruck's have a navy Maracane two piece crepe dress, with long torso and an unusual three-tier neck treatment, which results in a square neckline. There were some exquisite bridal gowns, made of white Skinner's satin, having pearl beaded yokes, and to complete the ensemble were the beautiful formal gowns for the mothers. There are bound to be some formal dances after Easter, and if you have one in mind, just wait 'till you see the black moire formals with the bustles, and also the striped taffetas. You may notice when walking through Salon Vendome that there are only a few dresses displayed, which is the reason for this large reserve section. Miss Foster, the buyer of all these beautiful frocks, was most enthusiastic about how Simpson's have arranged to take over all your wardrobe troubles. There are many bright fitting rooms where you may choose your styles at leisure, and have alterations made with the least inconvenience. Miss Foster was brimming over with praise for our Canadian Fashion Houses, in that we no longer need to rely on imported fashions, although Simpson's do import the finest dresses available in the leading European and American fashion centers.

What Is Your Fur Coat Worth to You?

In this northern climate a fur coat is not a luxury, but the most valued part of a woman's wardrobe. Maybe you bought your coat this winter, or it may be an old coat, whatever way one looks at it, here is an investment that one cannot afford to take chances with. You may say, "Oh, I just send my coat to the nearest furrier, then when the cold days return I can have it delivered when I want it." Yes, that is very true, BUT, have you ever visited the vault or the room where your precious little animal snoozes away the summer days? If some of you ladies could see the storage space where your coats are kept, while you have completely forgotten about them, you might then realize why in the winter, when you try on your coat, it seems to have a tighter fit than when you sent it to be stored. The first thought that enters your mind is "gracious, I must have put on a few pounds this summer," never thinking that it is your coat that has shrunk, due to improper storage. I, too, was surprised when I visited some of the fur storage rooms lately. So, it is with complete confidence that I can recommend L. P. Lazare's Store, 1454 Peel St. Here is a company of three generations of continued service, and a reputation that has been earned by giving the public only the finest of furs and workmanship, which is continued when your furs are placed in their well-guarded vaults. They charge the usual 2% plus ½ of 1% for year round, world-wide insurance. Telephone MA. 1255.

Treasures of the Past

TRADING POST

MORGAN TRUST CO., 2085 City Councillor St., just below Sherbrooke St., has a wealth of untold treasures to offer the public, if they only realized it. After having visited these rooms for the last six weeks, I have come to know and appreciate many beautiful pieces of furniture; some perfectly new, and some only in need of a piece of furniture covering. The best way to appreciate what this firm has to offer, is to visit, first, the furniture stores and then compare prices, and what a shock you will get. You may be surprised to find on your first visit here people to whom the price is no object, only the quality of furniture. Remember that delicate pattern of a rose bud on a rose background in the Ainsley china? You will find seventeen pieces of it here, for $12.00. I hope the person who has been looking for a Victorian settee will come and see this rare old piece of black mahogany, with the grape pattern. It is in perfect condition. Here is a chance to pick up a two-piece chesterfield set, covered with fine English linen, with blue floral pattern on a fawn background. There is a set of 6 hand-carved mahogany diningroom chairs for $35.00 each. I saw the duplicate of these for $75.00 each in a furniture store. As you enter the furniture room you will notice a glass showcase. Take time to study its contents, because you will find some amazing bargains. Here are just a few: a solid silver fruit dish, hand chased around the edge—there is not a scratch on it. One cut-glass pair of decanters, beautifully cut. Also there are some exquisite Madeira lace doilies for glasses and plates. If you are looking for a particular piece of furniture, phone PL. 6261, and Mr. Drinkwater will only be too pleased to help you.

Ella Rott, a Viennese Artiste

During the long war years we all knew how difficult it was to purchase a satisfactory under garment, and as the old saying goes, "there is never an ill wind that doesn't blow somebody good" certainly is true in the case of ELLA ROTT. Miss Rott is a well known Viennese corsetiere, who, driven from her homeland, came to our country several years ago. Not until you have seen her work could you believe what a difference there is in a hand made garment. When she showed me her beautiful corsets, of exquisite loveliness, designed on sound principles of figure control, and created with the incredible skill of the Viennese artiste, to fit perfectly to your figure, I thought, in having her here, how fortunate we are. Miss Rott uses only the very finest of heavy satin or brocade, even to the interlining of these garments being lovely figured satin. With the long, unbroken torso lines of Spring styles, you will be sure to want something very special in the line of a corselette, so be sure and visit Miss Rott's Salon at 768 Sherbrooke St., W. You may phone for an appointment at LA. 7029. Miss Rott told me that the wired Bra was not new but a very old form of a bust support, but after looking at her superb workmanship, I feel that one has not seen the new wired brassiere until you have seen her creations. One immediately senses the old world thoroughness in her workmanship. With every garment Ella Rott makes, goes a one year guarantee to repair any little mishap that may occur. You will be agreeably surprised at her prices, as I was, and there is no comparison with a manufactured garment.

Rare China, and a Collector's Dream

C.S.L. Gift Shop

The C.S.L. Gift Shop, 1480 Sherbrooke St., W., near Mackay, is greeting Easter in their usual unique manner in their window display. Once again Miss Morton has shown her originality. Their little mascot, the kitten, has many friends around him. Two large bunnies are drawing a cart load of brightly colored eggs, and the colorful china chicks are marching alongside of them. Those of you who are connoisseurs of rare old china have a treat in store for you when you visit the C.S.L. Gift Shop. As a matter of fact, this china is so exquisite and unique that it is considered a collector's item. There is a collection of plates and consoles of the famous Nast china, made in France towards the beginning of the 19th Century. It is cream colored having a floral center and a gold grape chain encircling the rims. Before 1790, the famous Clignancount china was made at the Mottle factory in Paris. At that time small bugs were placed on the china to cover defects, this factory was renowned for their exquisite specimens, hence the name, BUG CHINA. These pieces have the black and rose pattern. Next comes the old Davenport china, in navy and gold, and also in this make, are the pale blue plates with scenic designs. Anyone interested in rare china should not miss this display. In Mademoiselle, for March, you will notice a page showing the new shoulder pouch bag, with a gold buckle and clip, and also the belt and gloves to match; you will find these very smart accessories here. Here is an Easter suggestion . . . start a friend with a set of demi-tasses, you will find little gems at The C.S.L. Gift Shop.

Thriving Figurine Trade Begun In Garage By Dentist's Wife

No place to work and no tols with which to do the job? Don't be discouraged. Just have a look at one of the exquisite examples of Vilas ceramics, and see what a simple "homemade" start can produce.

Mrs. Grace Vilas, who with her husband, Dr. Walter C. Vilas, now conducts a thriving business at Bakersfield, California, started her clay modeling in the family garage one day when her husband was away on a brief vacation trip two years ago. She was surprised at the charming little ballerina which grew beneath her skillful fingers. So was her husband when he returned; and he also saw the possibilities of doing a little work in this field himself.

The idea of trying her hand at figurines came to Mrs. Vilas after she had attended a performance of the Ballet Russe. She went home and thereupon fashioned a dainty ballet dancer, the first of many little figures to take shape in her fingers.

The Vilas specialties have already earned for themselves spacious workshops with modern equipment and display rooms. A dozen experts now assist with the work, too.

One unusual feature is that the hands of each tiny figure have individual fingers. Assembling these offers one of the most difficult tasks of the workroom.

Delicate Ballet Skirt

Another distinctive feature of the figurines is the ballet skirt made of special lace treated by a patented dipping and spraying process. After being blown, the skirts are put on the figurines, other decorations are added, and the pieces are ready for their three firings.

The figurines are prepared for the final china glazing in the decorating room, where the decorating is done by hand with china glazes. The dresses are painted in delicate pastel shades with shoes in gold or pastels to match the costumes. Base decorations, such as flowers, are colored. Facial coloring, the hair, and the fingernails receive particular attention.

Brush edges of baked pie or tarts with melted mint jelly and dust with chopped nuts. Return to oven to set glaze.

Graceful Lines In Fashion-Wise Coat

A Spring coat with a Future, in soft wool crepe deftly tucked and gathered for a rounded silhouette. Balloon sleeves and front fulness emphasize the waist-hugging, set-in belt with its decorative fastening. In red, green, grey, brown, blue black and navy with a rayon lining that's pre-tested for long-term service. Sizes 12-20.

Cherries And Roses Bloom On New Hats

A quick look and you'll be convinced that the hat of the moment has a definite off-face tilt with trimmings concentrated at the back, in some instances cascading down to the shoulders—whether of flowers, bows, of ruffles of lingerie or lace.

Flower hats and fitted caps rush right up to the front, too, in their impetuous spring way, and pansies, forget-me-nots and roses will vie for first place at June weddings. Particularly important are the deep skull caps, one covered in pink roses, another bouncing with red cherries.

Spring hats as a whole reveal pink as an outstanding color, closely seconded by misty greens and the well-loved neutrals — beige, sand, and gray. Fedoras for suits are almost perennials.

Travel hats abound as travel increases on all sides. Milliners go to town designing these hats, and women love them because they're so completely versatile. They must crush and come up smiling. They must serve for at least six occasions. These are the hats you don't take rabbits out of — they are the rabbits themselves —unexpected and full of tricks.

Q. How can I make a good toilet perfume?

A. A good toilet perfume can be made by mixing two ounces of alcohol with one-half ounce of orris-root. Keep in a bottle tightly corked, and shake well before using.

Avalon Keats Chapter Hears Dr. Norwood On "Literature Of Bible"

The Rev. Dr. F. W. Norwood's lecture on "The Literature of the Bible," at the recent meeting of the Avalon Society, was an extremely interesting and informative exposition of his subject. The culture and training the speaker has had, from study and travel, and a long experience as pastor in the Great City Temple in London, England, has shown him to be a past master in expression, with beauty of voice and diction.

"Ave Marie' 'and the "Angel's Song' 'were sung by Mrs. Harold Mills with accompaniments on the piano by Mrs. J. Willis Jones and violin obligato by Norma Longhurst.

"The Mist of Dreams"—music by Ida Jones and words by Dorothy Sproule—was also sung by Mrs. Mills with the piano and violin accompaniment.

A prize poem by C. Maguire Bagg was read by Ena Gillespie, with musical accompaniment.

The entertainment proved an ideal one for the Lenten season, and was appreciated by the large audience.

Mrs. J. H. Bruce, of Westmount, had charge of the refreshments.

LEMON FROTH

In top of a double boiler put 2 egg yolks, beaten light; juice and grated rind of 1 small lemon; and ½ cup sugar. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until thick. Beat 3 egg whites until stiff. Add two tablespoons sugar, a tablespoonful at a time. Beat well after each addition. Fold hot lemon mixture into the whites. Blend well and chill in freezing tray. It takes only a few minutes, so remove it before it freezes.

The good old name of Smith is said to be a British family name meaning "an iron worker or smith."

THE FOOD GIFT

Every hostess appreciates gifts of food whether these gifts are presented when the guests arrive or at a time following a visit. If the household is a large one candy is welcome, but there may not be any candy-eaters in a small family. Practical presents of fruit or canned goods are appropriate for a large family for they provide variety as well as economic help. And if one is a guest in a household where there is no need of practical help there are unusual tidbits that make pleasant surprises — borsch, or anchovy paste or smoked shad. Be original if you have time and ideas, but even the conventional candy or nuts will show your appreciation or hospitality.

For luncheon, especially when the bridge club is a-coming, have a chicken roll. Minced chicken in cream sauce or better still with good chicken gravy, rolled up in biscuit dough, baked, sliced and served with mushroom sauce. Green salad, fruit dessert. 'Nuff said.

Cotton Coats Are Dashing

Cotton continues to find new ways to convince us of its smartness. This season ushers in the cotton coat—a fashion that manages to be poetic and practical at the same time. Duck — that-all-but-forgotten fabric that went to war with all its yardage—gives this coat its swank. It moves among the softer coat fabrics with a certain bravado.

Depend on its cut to verge on the bold with capacious patch pockets or side slits to bury hands in deeply. Some of these coats are wrist length—belted and fitted through the waist with a straight front and a perky peplum flaunting its flare at the back.

They're also found doing a neat cover-up job at the edge of the new long skirt—tailored and finished as carefully as though they were made of wool. Collars tend to be the Directoire type, high with spike points that invite an ascot or a bright scarf.

Circular Sweep Skirts Blow In Spring Breeze

Spring coats for gay young sizes this year follow much the same lines as the dresses. Waists lean to the long-basque silhouette and the skirts are gathered over the hips, or else they're cut with wide circular sweeps. These look well in a breeze ,and they're graceful whether the wearer stands or sits.

Buttons play dramatic parts on these young-looking coats. They march up and down with double-breasted boldness, stand at attention in single lines, and even adopt echelon formations. Collars are small and turnover with a guileless little-girl air, some of them allowing for just a touch of the crisp whiteness of a lingerie blouse.

CARE OF KNIVES

Kitchen knives should not be thrown pellmell in a drawer with other equipment. Keep them in a separate rack or hang them on the wall. Proper care will preserve the knife's keen edge upon which its usefulness depends.

Roman silver on some of which were Christian symbols.

Silver craftsmanship was carried through the dark ages by the Church, monks carrying on the trade, until in the 13th century, guild craftsmanship developed. The hallmark of silver as we know it today was developed after that time; an article of silver would be sent by its maker to the guildhall. There, it would be tested for quality and stamped with the mark of the hall; next a standard mark (the lion) was stamped on; a duty mark next; and finally a date letter by which old silver can be traced to its date of manufacture. The apprenticeship system in use in those days was a system of virtual slavery through which all artisans had to go for some years before becoming qualified members of the guild.

Origin of "Sterling"

The name "sterling" came from the name "Easterlings" applied to members of the Hanseatic League whose currency was adopted by teh English as standard when the English currency lost value.

Silver plate as we know it evolved from the original Sheffield Plate, made by annealing silver on to copper. Present silver plate is made by electroplating copper and the original type of Sheffield is very expensive. Before plate came out, aside from sterling there was only pewter, explained the speaker.

Mr. Birks had exhibits of Silver in different stages of development and manufacture, and told how it was made. Early silver was cast, a second method was to strike a sheet out on a die, and join the two halves. a third method of making silver, one much used today is to spin a flat disc in a lathe, forcing it over a mound and a fourth method is to draw it. In the last two operations it must be annealed to keep it soft and ductile.

Proud of Trade

Mr. Birks concluded his address by saying he is proud of the business he is in, that it is an ancient and honoured trade and that it satisfies two fundamental urges of man, to adorn his mate, and to decorate his nest.

The speaker was introduced by past president Archie Callard, and thanked on behalf of the Rotary Club by Mr. H. L. Spicer. Mr. A A. Boire was Chairman. Three songs were capably rendered by Miss Lillian Ellis to an appreciative audience. Mr. Doyle accompanied on the piano. At the termination of the meeting, the lovely flower display was awarded to the ladies.

Hints On Fashions

There should be plenty of duty ahead for this staunch suit, the sort of garb that can be a wardrobe wonder, since it is such a pleasing balance between the soft and the tailored model. Fashioned on long, slim torso lines, of town gray woollen, it has attractive details. Set-in tabs parade down the front, the ends at one side being loose. Similar detail is repeated down one side of the very slim skirt.

Children Love Pictures

By M.-R. JACKSON

I was in the yard of our large apartment building, hanging some clothes on the line, when Mrs. Stevens, my neighbor, came out to speak to me.

"Your little Teddy gave me quite a surprise this morning," she said, smiling, but evidently rather impressed. "It was the first time he'd been in my living room. He looked up at a picture and said, 'That's The Blue Boy.' Imagine a five-year-old knowing the name of that painting."

It really was not remarkable at all; Teddy was well acquainted with the picture. Mrs. Stevens would not have been surprised if on looking at a newspaper comic strip he had said, "That's Donald Duck." Mrs. Stevens has three children and I have two. We have often gained mutual benefit from discussing ways and means in helping our "twigs" to grow in the right direction, so I said, "Would you like to come to our apartment and see what I do with regard to pictures?"

She came that afternoon, and I showed her my collection and told her all about it. One of the magazines which we take had published copies of pictures by great masters, and I had saved them together with reproductions of famous pictures, statues and buildings, which had come into our home in connection with advertisements. Besides this, I had purchased from the Art Institute, for a few cents each, a number of charmingly-colored prints of well-known paintings. I found, too, that firms often advertise copies of art treasures in school magazines, for the use of teachers.

I showed Mrs. Stevens that when not in use I kept these pictures in a home-made portfolio. This was constructed of two large oblongs of cardboard hinged together with stout tape. In the middle of the front edges I had punched holes and had drawn through them lengths of the tape, so as to be able to tie the portfolio when it was closed. In this way the pictures were kept clean and unwrinkled.

However, had they remained always in the portfolio, they would seldom have been seen. Having realized this, I had bought several size frames at the ten-cent store and had hung some of the pictures in the children's room, in the dining room and in the living room. Almost every week I changed the pictures in these frames. The Blue Boy in colors had hung in front of Teddy as he had dressed and undressed for at least seven days. But it was not the first good painting with which he had become acquainted. Romney's groups of children had attracted him first, and after that several animal pictures.

At the library I had found books on famous artists and often ferreted out stories and anecdotes that would lend additional interest to the pictures. Incidentally, I had learned a lot myself. I had learned to recognize beauty in line, form, color, and composition. I could not pass all of this on to a five-year-old child, of course, but I knew my boy was gaining impressions of beauty that would stay with him all his life and make that life broader and happier.

"If you had asked Teddy some questions about your Blue Boy," I said to Mrs. Stevens, "I think he would probably have told you that The Blue Boy wasn't really a rich boy, but that he was the son of poor parents and his handsome clothing was borrowed.

"Here is Rosa Bonheur's Horse Fair," I continued. "I told Teddy how farmers still take their horses to the fair, to show them off—and sometimes to sell them.

Mrs. Stevens interupted me. "I have a large, illustrated book with many stories of pictures and artists in it. It's been standing in the bookcase, doing nobody any good. I'm going to begin making a collection of pictures right away .I'll show you the ones I choose, and perhaps you'll tell me some of your stories about them—and I should like to lend you my book."

Art appreciation may be too pretentious a name for what Mrs. Stevens and I are teaching, but I feel that, as a result of our efforts, our children have, without doubt, already taken their first steps in that direction.

Put Cutlery Boxes To Work As Holders Of Odds And Ends

If you buy some small cans of enamel, a package or two of decals and three or four cutlery boxes at the five and ten, you can have a lot of fun fashioning handy containers. Those cutlery drawers that so efficiently hold together knives, forks and spoons can be put to work in other parts of the house—and so convenient will they be, you'll wonder where the odds and ends strayed before you had them. Two coats of enamel will give the boxes a smooth, glossy finish, and decals will add a gay touch.

A cutlery box painted blue can go to the sewing table will hold thread, scissors, thimble, buttons, needles, snaps and various sewing gadgets.

To the living-room desk can be appropriated a box in aqua and white stripe. Pencils, pens, ink bottles, stamps, clips will find a haven here.

In the nursery tiny tots will treasure a cutlery box painted red and white with Mother Goose children marching around. In one collect crayons, chalk and pencils, paste, paints, and brushes. Keep the box on an open shelf of the children's cupboard.

NEW ORCHIDS SEEN IN WIDE COLOR RANGE

Matching of accessories and corsages for the Easter parade will be the essence of smartness. With tweeds and yellow gloves and etceteras, nothing could be finer than a spray of tawny yellow orchids as pictured above.

LEAFY SAILING

Sails, made from leaves, propel the swift outrigger canoes of one group of Solomons islanders.

Tartare sauce, as you probably know, is mayonnaise mixed with chopped pickles, maybe a little onion, perhaps a chopped olive or two. And good it is.

Regional Drama Festival Revived After Seven Years

The revival of the Regional Drama Festival, after a lapse of seven years, having been cancelled for the duration of the war in 1939, took place March 25, 26, 27 and 28 at the Sun Life auditorium. His Worship Camilien Houde, Mayor of Montreal, attended on the opening night, and congratulated the players backstage after the performance. Madame L. Mercier Gouin acted as chairman on the first two nights, graciously maintaining the bilingual atmosphere already established by a programme balanced between both languages. Louis Mulligan was chairman on Thursday night, and Madame Gouin returned again on Friday when the winners of the four-night competition of plays were declared.

Those acting on the Western Quebec Regional Committee have a recognized reputation amongst Montrealers as theatre-lovers who have ever been great supporters of Little Theatre development. The committee was headed by Mr. Arthur B. Wood, Honorary President, and Madame L. Mercier Gouin, Honorary Vice-President. On the Executive Committee, handling the arrangements for the revival of the Festival were Miss Doreen Lewis, producing director of MRT, who acted as convener; Mr. Frederic Willcox, acting as Secretary-Treasurer; Jean Beraud, of La Presse and Herbert Whittaker, of The Gazette, handling Public Relations, Reta Wheatley, of the Montreal Drama Guild, did the publicity; Jean de Savoye, of the Westmount Women's Club Drama Group, Alice Rogers, of The Cathespian Guild, and Suzanne Avon, of Les Quinze, were in charge of tickets and programmes. Stage Management and Lighting were looked after by Joy Thompson and William Springford, of the Canadian Art Theatre. The Sun Life Assurance Company gave the use of their auditorium as well as contributing backstage assistance.

Groups competing in the Festival were Les Quinze, Catholic Teachers Guild; Southwestern "Y" Players; Les Jeunes Comediens; Montreal Repertory Theatre; Les Compagnons; Carl Dubuc; Theatre Libre; Sun Life Dramatic Society; Montreal Drama Guild.

The Martha Allan trophy, for the best production in the Festival, went to the Montreal Repertory Theatre for their production of "Amphitryon 38," directed by Roeberta Beatty, setting by Hans Berends, costumes by Virginia Watt and production management by Doreen Lewis.

Les Compagnons, directed by R. P. Emile Legault, C.S.C., setting by Jean de Belval, costumes by Lucienne Lalonde and Mme. Masson, were a close second, actually taking an equal marking with MRT.

Carl Dubuc was awarded the Arthur B. Wood trophy for the best production of an original Canadian play, for "Lorazim". His play was actually the only original play presented in the festival, although another group had entered and cancelled.

Shields presented at the festival were as follows: France Films donated a shield for the best performance in French by an actor, which was won by George Groulx playing Sganarelle in Les Compagnons' production of an act of Moliere's "Le Médecin Malgré Lui". Mr. Jean Lallemand gave a shield to the actor whose performance in English was the best. This was won by Walter Wakefield as Captain Isaiah Bartlett in Eugene O'Neills' "Where the Cross is Made", produced by the Sun Life Dramatic Society. Mr. Paul L'Anglais' shield for the best performance by an actress in English went to Cicely Howland for her portrayal of Alkmena in Giraudoux's "Amphitryon 38," presented by MRT.

The 'piece de resistance' of the whole festival has been kept till the end. She is none other than the adjudicator, Virginia Vernon. Her stimulating criticisms both in French and English were the highlights of the evenings' entertainments. Mrs. Vernon comes to us from London, England. She has had a varied and interesting theatrical career. Born in America, the daughter of a theatrical manager, she was educated in France. She married Frank Vernon, a well known London producer and collaborated with him in adapting continental plays for the English stage and vice versa. During her career, Mrs. Vernon has been closely associated with such famous personalities as John Gielgud, Noel Coward, Claude-Andre Puget, Marie Tempest, Andre Maurois, Gracie Fields and many others.

The winners of the Regional Festival, MRT and Les Compagnons, will go to London during the week of May 5th to compete there in the Dominion-wide Drama Festival.

MASTERPIECE OF MELODY! 32 Irving Berlin song-hits form the musical background of "Blue Skies", in Technicolor, which starts on Sunday at the Westmount United Theatre, playing for one week. Lovely Joan Caulfield, Fred Astaire and Bing Crosby are co-starred in this film.

"The Cornish Rhapsody" Features Monkland's Film — "Love Story"

"Love Story", which is now playing at the Monkland United Theatre until Friday night, though not to be described as a musical film, uses music to enhance and accentuate the feelings of the characters in the story. Music becomes not so much a quiet, pleasing background to the plot, as an integral part of the development of the characters themselves.

Margaret Lockwood, as Lissa, a celebrated concert pianist, goes to Cornwall on a holiday, and, with what she supposes to be only one year of life before her, mets an emotional experience of such strength that it inspires her to write a piano concerto. Into this composition, her new-found love, her feeling of freedom underneath the Cornish skies, the emotion inspired by the grandeur of the rocky coast and the sea, the sadness that her life may be ended just as she has found love, are all poured. The resulting concerto is the extremely popular "Cornish Rhapsody".

Co-starring with Margaret Lockwood are Stewart Granger and Patricia Roc, with Tom Walls in an important supporting role. They combine their talents to bring this modern story to the screen in a frank and entertaining manner.

HOME LOT

Randolph Scott returns to his home lot, Paramount, to star in "Albuquerque" for Clarion Productions. The story is from a Luke Short novel and will be photographed in color on location.

ACTING FAMILY

Now that Robert Preston's brother Frank Meservey, has turned actor, it makes three in his family emoting at Paramount. His wife, Catherine Craig, has the lead in "Seven Were Saved" for producers Pine and Thomas.

STAR HONORED

For his courageous work behind enemy lines with the OSS, Sterling Hayden, now starring in Paramount's aviation epic, "Blaze of Noon," was awarded the Silver Star.

MOTORCYCLE ADDICT

Barry Fitzgerald refuses to drive an automobile. Instead, he rides a motorcycle to and from Paramount studios where he is currently appearing in "California."

James Mason Stars In "They Were Sister", At The Seville Soon

James Mason, the extremely popular British star, will be seen in "They Were Sisters," which starts at the Seville United Theatre on Wednesday, April 9th. The dramatic film, based on the popular novel by Dorothy Whipple, tells of the poignant story of three sisters, their lives, loves and misfortunes.

The large cast is headed by co-stars James Mason and Phyllis Calvert with Hugh Sinclair, Anne Crawford, Dulcie Gray, Barrie Livesey and Pamela Kellino in supporting roles.

Phyllis Calvert is seen as the calm and gentle Lucy who, through her love and devotion for her younger sisters, tries to salvage their unhappy marriages.

Anne Crawford enacts the bright and brittle sister, Vera, who makes an unfortunate marriage of convenience and then becomes involved with another man.

The third sister, Charlotte, played by Dulcie Gray, is a sympathetic person, but lacks the courage and character of her older sister Lucy. Charlotte's unhappy marriage to a brutal and sadistic husband, played by James Mason, drives her to suicide.

M.R.T. Promise Treat Of Season

Community theatregoers have the biggest treat of the current Little Theatre season in store for them when the MRT opens its doors April 10th for the first of ten performances of Rudolf Besier's famous play, "The Barrets of Wimpole Street." Not only is this play considered to be the most popular dramatic romance of the 20th century, but MRT is putting its best foot forward to give the drama an outstanding production. Three professional Montreal performers have been selected to portray the leading roles of Elizabeth Barrett, her psycgopathic father, and Robert Browning. Eleanor Stuart (Elizabeth) formerly toured with George Arliss and Phillip Merrivale, George Alexander (Mr. Barrett) was last seen in Montreal in the New York production of "St. Lazare's Pharmacy" starring Fridolin and Miriam Hopkins, while Charles Miller (Browning) is a staff announcer of CBM.

The play itself has had a most distinguished career on the stages of England, America and the Continent, having been translated into several languages. It ran for two years in London, and later the American rights

Poor Gable! Must Kiss Trio Of Glamor Girls

HOLLYWOOD—By the time M-G-M's "The Hucksters" winds up production Clark Gable is likely to be the most-kissed man in Hollywood.

For his opening scene in the film Gable had to kiss Connie Gilchrist, who portrays a telephone operator.

Then when Ava Gardner, who plays a night club singer, started to work, her first scene is one in which she receives a kiss from Gable.

And, finally, when Deborah Kerr reported for her first scenes she found them to be love scenes. And, yes—Gable gives the kiss.

Gable's comment: "It was never like this even in the old days.

Margeret O'Brien Gives Grand Performance In Snowdon Film

"Three Wise Fools", which is now playing at the Snowdon United Theatre until Friday night, is a delicious comedy about an Irish tot who brings sunshine into the lives of three rich but sour old men, with little Margaret O'Brien sharing honors with Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone, Edward Arnold and Thomas Mitchell.

In one of the most appealing and touching characterizations she has yet attempted, little Miss O'Brien plays Sheila O'Monahon, who comes from Ireland to make her home with her three American godfathers, played by Lionel Barrymore, Edward Arnold and Lewis Stone.

At first reluctant to accept the little girl into their bleak lives, the interest of the elderly trio change when they discover Sheila to be the owner of some property they wish to dispose of. There is a problem, however, for the estate bears a tree which Sheila insists is the home of her friends, the pixies, and she won't hand over the deed to the property until she is sure their tree won't be cut down.

An unsuccessful hoax by which the scheming godfathers try to pass off a group of midgets as the pixies leads Sheila to run away. It is only when she is gone that the embittered trio realize the emptiness of their lives and make amends.

The role of the little Irish lass is made to order for Miss O'Brien and she makes the most of it, even to a captivating brogue. Barrymore, as the first of the rogues to be converted to Sheila's belief in fairies, is excellently cast, as are also Edward Arnold and Lewis Stone. Thomas Mitchell endears himself in the role of the personal servant who has brought his little mistress from Ireland and who acts as her guide and protector. Others in an excellent cast include Ray Collins, Jane Darwell, Charles Dingle, Harry Davenport, Henry O'Neill and Cyd Charisse.

Gary Cooper Stars In "Cloak And Dagger", At Westmount

Starring Gary Cooper, featuring Robert Alda, and introducing the famous European actress, Lilli Palmer in her first Hollywood production, the exciting film "Cloak And Dagger," is now playing at the Westmount United Theatre until Saturday night. It tells the thrilling story of what happens when a mild-tempered man of knowledge is faced with the sudden need to become a man of action.

Gary Cooper is cast in the new drama as Alvah Jesper, professor in a small New England university, happy in his scientific work and completely integrated to a quiet life composed of work, occasional relaxation and the numerous, unimportant details that go to make up any normally placid, peace-loving existence. But, when is becomes suddenly necessary for Jesper to put his life behind him and, almost overnight, to engage in the highly dangerous pursuit of unseen and powerful adversaries, the easy-going professor proves himself more than equal to the occasion and every bit the popular conception of a hero

Jesper's exciting saga begins with the search for one Katerin Lodor (Helene Thimig), continues through his betrayal by the beautiful Ann Dawson (Marjorie Hoshelle), through the ever-present threat of murder, to the discovery of an unexpected source of aid in the person of Pinkie (Robert Alda) and, last but not least, to the realization of a stirring romance with Gina (Lilli Palmer).

TWO NEWCOMERS TO TRINITY PLAYERS

Newcomers to the Trinity Players appearing in "A Quiet Weekend" from April 16th to 19th inclusive, include Jean Dent and Myron Galloway.

It was in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" that Miss Cornell toured the occupation zones during the war, a theatrical saga that has recently been put into book form and published under the title, "The B.O.W.S." It was also this play which brought the Birmingham Repertory Theatre to Canada in the thirties and gave Canadians their first glimpse of Donald Wolfit, recently seen in his own repertory of Shakespearean classics.

The MRT production will be directed by Roeberta Beatty.

Roslyn Cagers Win Laurels

Juniors, Seniors Both Champs

Roslyn School's several hundred pupils enjoyed a half-holiday yesterday afternoon as a result of the Westmount Avenue institution's basketball teams winning both the junior and senior elementary school cage titles this season. Both teams clinched the titles last Thursday in the Roslyn gym when the junior aggregation handed Queen's a 6-1 defeat while the seniors battled to a 9-all tie.

ragged contest that frequently degenerated into a series of wrestling outfits in the Kingpins' own gym. The juniors won out 6-1 in a of this week when they chalked by victories over King's School's bouts while the seniors, in a fast-paced, action-packed tussle, chalked up an impressive 13-8 win.

The trophies emblematic of the championship were presented to the Roslyn team captains at an assembly on Wednesday morning by Principal G. H. Penrose. Individual crests were also presented to each member of both teams.

There was little doubt about the outcome of Tuesday's junior contest. The Roslynites displayed complete superiority in every department. Featuring a fast-passing attack that left King's almost completely bewildered, Coach Gordie MacLeod's lads ran up a 4-0 first quarter lead, increased it to 6-0 before the half-time whistle blew and, while they went scoreless in the second half, held Dave Binmore's team to a scant one point, a free throw sank by J. Smith in the final quarter.

The winners' three baskets were scored by Ross Southward, who was Roslyn's most consistent scoring threat throughout the game, Eddie Martin and Bill Torrey.

The senior game was much the better of the two and unveiled some really good basketball, particularly that displayed by Roslyn's Skip Warnock, Tony Skinner and the Baillie twins, Ray and Charlie.

Roslyn led 2-0 at quarter time, 4-2 at the half and in the third quarter they took the wraps off a diversified attack to sink six points while holding the King's lads to a mere two. That made the three-quarer score 10-4 for Roslyn.

The losers put on their best display in the final canto, outscoring Roslyn 4-3 and enjoying a wide margin in territorial play. Had their shooting been more accurate, it is quite possible that King's would have walked off the floor with the verdict. Jerry Apostalatus and Beaton were particularly outstanding for King's.

This is the second consecutive year that Roslyn has won both the senior and junior basketball championships.

ROUGH-HOUSE WILL EVENTUALLY KILL HOCKEY

The series which the Montreal Canadiens and the Boston Bruins are currently playing to decide which team will meet either Detroit or Toronto in the Stanley Cup finals, has developed into one of the roughest ever played in the league. The toll of injuries for the four battles that these teams have played so far has been unusually high, and the stars of each team have been the objects of much physical as well as the usual verbal abuse.

The first game of the series was a rough one, but the only player to be more than shaken up was Milt Schmidt of the Bruins, who was hurt when slammed into the boards. The second game of the series, also played in Montreal, was one of the roughest we have ever seen, and besides the multiple injuries, holding, slashing, and hooking were prevalent throughout the battle. Several players were forced to retire to the Forum clinic for repairs after they had suffered minor head cuts, and Jack Crawford, Boston defenceman, left the game with a hip injury that has kept him on crutches ever since.

CASUALTIES MAY DECIDE TITLE

The scene then shifted to Boston, and the play, if anything, grew rougher and more belligerent. Throughout the third game, won by the Bruins, there was continual holding and slashing, and six fist fights on the ice livened up the proceedings. Injuries once again came to the fore, and Kenny Reardon, hero of Montreal's first two wins, left the game with a foot injury, and Don Gallinger of the Bruins, had the head cut which he suffered in Montreal, reopened. Even the fans had to get into the act, and the Canadiens were continually fighting with the ring-side customers, much to the amusement of the rest of the crowd. The fourth game was no less rugged, and in place of the usual speed and fine passing plays that make hockey the great game that it is, this series has resolved into a rough-house affair.

All these infractions of the rules of the game would seem to point to unusual laxity on the part of the linesmen and referees—and that is saying a lot.

From what we have seen of the series, the refereeing has been excellent in regard to offsides and other such technical mistakes, but when it comes to actions that deserve a penalty, the men in white have been sadly deficient in the fulfillment of their duties.

For a long time, the feeling has been that the play-off referee should bear down on offsides and other such rules, but should allow acts that would ordinarily call for penalties to go free, so as not to handicap either team by too many penalties. What is the more important, for the teams to continually play rough-house tactics with six men a side or for the young players to be able to retire from hockey with unmarked faces? If the brand of game that the Bruins and Canadiens are playing keeps on, these youngsters will be leaving Canada's national game with faces that resemble those of the slap-happy fighters, disfigured veterans of 10 or 15 years of the ring game, whom you see hanging around the gyms and fighters' training headquarters.

Most of these young hockey players are dead game, and will take it till they drop, but in later years it will be a different story for these same young men.

President Campbell should do something to remedy this deplorable drift now, or hockey will go the way of lacrosse. Lacrosse magnates, too, thought rough play appealed to the crowd, for the crowd jammed the stands — for a while — to watch the gore flow when the French, Irish, and English swung their sticks. Referees were given orders to let the rough stuff go—it made the turnstiles click. But the crowd eventually grew tired of it. The magnates forgot that it was speed and finesse that built up lacrosse — not donnybrooks — and the game sunk into oblivion.

Yes, Mr. Campbell should do something about this to protect both players and the game itself.

Hockey used to be the fastest and one of the most skilful games in the world, both to play and to watch, but it is fast becoming the roughest and most brutal of sports.

St. Leo's Sports

The playing of the Old Boys hockey game at Lachine Arena last Saturday morning brought to a close another highly successful season. It was a hectic few months and there were many difficulties that had to be overcome. Coach Andy McGillis and his capable student athletic staff were kept on the move seven days a week and more than a few nights thrown in for good measure. Only those close to the scene could realize how much work there is attached to the carrying out of a St. Leo's athletic program with its many hockey games, practices, carnivals, boxing, ski meets, etc.

Here is a brief sum up of the hockey activities for the past season. The Academy iced no less than eight teams in competition and the totals show 119 games played with 104 students participating in the hockey program. Starting out with the Pee Wee youngsters at ages of 10, 11, 12 and 13, it reveals this four team St. Leo's section played 49 games in all and provided a couple of games a week for fifty two pint size would-be hockey players.

The Bantam Q.A.H.A. group looked after the hockey needs of boys 13 and 14 and participated in 14 games. The Midget B Club were not very fortunate as their Q.A.H.A. league fell apart and they only managed to play seven games. The Bantam Interscholasic aggregation with boys 13, 14 and 15 years old, played the most games of any team in the school with an impressive total of 26 games played.

Our Senior B City Champions faced the starting gun 23 times, including their playoffs and Old Boys game. These figures for hockey activity will take a lot of beating, especially when you look back on the poor winter it was for outdoor rinks.

In addition, there were two ski teams in the school, a Junior and Senior club and both fared very well.

A weekly boxing class also operated throughout the winter months.

For a well balanced program, the following boys are deserving of a lot of credit for their assistance and co - operation, without which such a complete athletic program would not be possible: John Rolland, Johnnie Mace, Martin McKenna, Vincent Heney, Jimmy McCarthy, Louis St. James, Ronny Shaw, Tony Sciampocone, Pat Palmer, Dave O'Meara, Moe Strachan and Peter McMullen.

St. Leo's Old Boys hockey team, with goaler Kevin Kennedy in a star role, managed to hold the Senior B champions to a five-all draw at Lachine Arena last Saturday morning. It was a rugged contest with no holds barred and at the end of the game, both outfits found themselves with a casualty list. Bernie Gatto of the Senior B Club suffered a broken wrist and Jack Martin of the Old Boys kept him company at the hospital while awaiting to get taped up for a minor strain to his shoulder. Both injuries were accidents and not the result of rough play.

The Old Boys turned out for the game with twenty players and went all out to win. They enjoyed a two-goal margin with less than five minutes of play left but the Senior B squad, fighting back like champions, evened the score before the final bell that not only ended the game but brought down the curtain on the 1946-47 hockey season.

This year's annual Boxing Show will be held as usual on the first Friday in May. A suggestion to switch to a Saturday night instead of the traditional Friday night was not found advisable as coach Andy McGillis pointed out that Friday has always proved a good night in the past and could see no advantage to the competitors by making a change.

Martin McKenna and Neil Potter were St. Leo's two best point getters in the recent Interscholastic Ski Meet. Martin took the Senior jumping honors and Neil finished second in the junior cross country.

The Bantams wound up their hockey chores with a 3 to 2 win over an all star team picked from the school. Brian Shea, John Dozois, Brendan Neeson and Donnie McDonald, all played well for Dave O'Meara's All Stars.

A new Athletic Committee has been organized in the school by Brother Bernard, school director. A representative elected in each class by a vote of the students forms the committee, with the Brother Director acting in the capacity of chairman. This committee had a meeting this week to discuss plans for the forthcoming boxing show and also to make suggestions for a celebration of the Senior B city hockey championship.

The Interscholastic Hockey League made it a clean sweep in the city hockey playoff series with the winners of the Protestant Union. Catholic High defeated Westmount High for the Senior A title. St. Leo's took Lachine High into camp for the Senior B honors. C.H.S. Juniors beat Dawson Intermediate for the Intermediate championship and Loyola Bantams took a fall out of West Hill Juniors.

Westmount High School Old Boys' Association, who took the initiative to raise a storm of protest over the possible sale of the Westmount Athletic grounds, are pleased to announce that the City of Westmount intends to re-open these grounds in the near future in the interest of the youth of Westmount. These grounds and club house were taken over by the Army at the outset of the war and are still being used for military purposes.

SHORTS on SPORTS

By George Cochrane

Bob Lord, one of the best-liked athletes to ever tread the corridors of Westmount High School, has achieved a new distinction. He has been signed up by Steinberg's senior city championship ball club of the Snowdon Senior Fastball League and will be the first Negro to ever play in the high-class Snowdon circuit. Up Macdonald Park way they're calling Bob the Jackie Robinson of the Snowdon League and there's little doubt but that Lord will make just as big a hit, on a smaller scale of course, as the illustrious Jackie did last year. For up Snowdon way they don't harbour racial intolerance. Bob will be judged solely on his playing ability. And on that score he has nothing to worry about.

It's of more than passing interest that he has ben signed up by Steinberg's, a Jewish-run outfit.

Incidentally, Steinberg's earned that city championship tag in a rather unusual fashion. They were defeated by Snowdon Stars in the Fastball Circuit's finals last fall but when the Stars' pucksters departed for the ice wars Steinberg's replaced them and topped the East End League champs in straight games.

But to get back to Bob Lord.

Bob is a real all-round athlete. He has starred at football, hockey, track and field as well as softball. His fast flying feet earned Westmount grid teams many a yard. I remember one occasion when Bob pulled off a miracle run. It happened in the fall of 1943 when Westmount was playing Catholic High up on the King George Park field. Lord received a CHS punt behind his own goal line, zigzagged brilliantly behind a protective umbrella of interference and ran 110 yards for a touchdown.

He was just as starry in hockey, his jet propelled tubes hurtling him all over the rink at a clip that frequently left his linemates panting several yards behind him. Bob was on that championship Junior B Winged Wheelers team last year.

Steinberg's have really acquired themselvs an acquisition. They have secured the services of not only a good athlete but, and more important, a great guy.

SHORT SNORTS

A nod to Doug Alexander's Westmount Junior basketball crew for a fine season. The local cage wizards piled up an enviable record. . . Incidentally, it was Doug who wrote for The Examiner all those well-phrased despatches about the Westmount club. . . Jack McKissock, the labour hating athlete, reports that his refereeing has netted about $200 tnis season. . . Alex Anderson , the Thornhill avenue lad who's now in the third year of his degree course at Macdonald College, placed second in the individual scoring race at Mac's recent inter-class swimming meet. .. It looks as if Roslyn School, for the second consecutive season, is going to win both the junior and senior elementary basketball crowns. Gordie McLeod, of the above-mentioned Westmount Juniors and Westmount High Seniors, is coaching the Roslynites. . . Stolen from last week's Time: King George and Princess Elizabeth are both frequently worrid about the conduct of Princess Margaret Rose. Once George asked his daughter. "Where did you ever learn that slang?. . . To which the princess replied, "From my mother's knee or some such low joint."

EASTER HAS ITS RACKETS, TOO-BBB

Business offices are warned by the Better Business Bureau against an individual who calls at lunch time with a C.O.D. parcel ordered by the "boss." When the boss returns he finds he has two small cotton Easter Bunnies in the parcel, for which his staff has obligingly disbursed $4.50. The bunnies look innocent enough, but the boss shows unmistakable signs of irritation. This artifice has been worked on Craig Street very recently. The perpetrator is a man between 35-40 years of age, about 5 feet 7 inches tall, and wearing a cap and windbreaker.

This is known by the Bureau as the "Unordered Merchandise" racket.

Shakespeare Society Announce Annual Play

The Shakespeare Society announce the opening of its next play will be May 1st at Moyse Hall, McGill University. "Romeo and Juliet" has been chosen as this year's presentation. This marks the third production of the society, which so far has been an annual event.

The Shakespeare Society made its debut into the theatre in the spring of 1945, charming the hearts of their audiences, which ranged from very young to very old, by its presentation of "Much Ado About Nothing." Last year the society produced "King Lear" and established a reputation for themselves through the excellence of their work.

This year the story of the two immortal lovers will be told by a group who have been carefully chosen and who have been rehearsing now for some weeks.

"Books Bring Adventure" Over The Air Saturday

Final "Books Bring Adventure" play in the series for children, sponsored by the Montreal Junior League, over the air on Saturday, is "On to Oregon."

The old Oregon Trail is the scene for an exciting story of six children who fight ther way through the wilderness to reach the Oregon country and the far Northwest.

Honore Morrow, the author, has written a whole shelf-full of books, both novels and books for children. She is best known for her Lincoln Trilogy, which appeared in one volume as 'Great Captain'.

Featured in 'On to Oregon' is Allen Bunce, who has a wealth of stage and radio experience behind

Quebec Football Union

Record Number Of Teams Expected For Next Fall

The Quebec Rugby Football Union, at their Annual meeting held last Thursday night at the Sun Life building, seem to be ready to roll their next fall schedule with a record number of teams, which will top all previous years.

President Myer Insky, was elected to head the group for the third successive term, and the complete executive of last year is again in the driver's seat.

Mac Parsons, of Point St. Charles, is the 1st vice-president, Reg Watson is the second while Allan Kerr is the third. Norman Gillespie was elected as secretary-treasurer again for his fifth term.

The intermediate ranks will have five of the six teams of last year. Verdun Grads, according to Eric Wright, told the gathering that it was a question mark at the present to say whether Verdun would have a team this year.

The balance of the teams are Sherbrooke, McGill, Dawson College, Eastward and Rockland. A new entry was accepted, Comets, from Laurier Park. Their games may be played at either Jarry or Lafontainne Parks. It will be a French-Canadian squad

The juniors seem pretty sure of all their eight entries namely: Verdun Mustangs, Rosemount, Eastward, Rosemount, St. Lambert, Notre Dame de Grace, Dixie-Lachine and Holy Cross.

Spotlight on Juveniles

Secretary Gillespie told the meeting that he had received letters from two groups in Sorel for junior while another was received from Three Rivers.

But, the spotlight is upon the juveniles and midgets. For the last two years the Verdun Rugby League had had four midgets and juvenile teams, but now the trend is turned to a Montreal Island juvenile league.

Rosemount, Notre Dame de Grace and Dixie played exhibition games last year with the Verdun teams. At the meeting, applications were received from Springfield Park and St. Aloysius Catholic Youth Club for juvenile. Verdun is bound to have a single entry leaving them still with four teams to operate their league. They are expected to have their midget group in operation again this coming fall.

A very favourable bank balance was shown on the annual report, which is the first time in many a long season that such a thing has occured.

President Myer Insky paid tribute to the winning teams: Eastward for the Intermediates; NDG for the junior and New York Fashions for the Juvenile and Midget. It was also remarked that three of their teams tried for Eastern Canada honours, and he hoped that it would be a yearly item.

The juniors were sure of a Dominion Playdown, according to his report that he brought back from the annual CRU meeting in Toronto. A well known Service club were going to sponsor them.

Over 30 delegates were presented at the meeting and another will be held in mid-summer

451,726 NEW DEPOSITORS CHOOSE THE B of M

Nearly half a million Canadians began saving at the Bank of Montreal during the war years. Today, the B of M family of depositors has well over a million and a half members.

Many of our customers know this: what they can spare today they may need tomorrow. So—bit by bit—their nest-eggs grow.

These are the people who have been fighting the battle of inflation—doing a good turn for their country and a good turn for themselves.

These people know what saving means—they know that growing dollars mean growing confidence—that a "backlog" in their bank account is the first step to achieving personal independence and to getting those things they want most.

Why not follow the lead of more than a million Canadians and begin saving now at the B of M?

Old Directories Still Are Useful After Re-Process

Announcing an organized effort through which telephone users throughout Greater Montreal can aid themselves indirectly, and help telephone manufacturers directly toward overcoming one serious aspect of service and supply shortages,. R. H. Keefler, Bell Telephone manager, said that old directories will be reclaimed during the week and next when they are replaced by copies of the new issue now being distributed.

"Uniformed men delivering the new telephone books are collecting the old ones," he said. "From the users' point of view, paper shortage seems to be as acute now in Canada as at any time during the war. Then nationally and locally, salvage committees, Service clubs, Boy Scouts, schools and other groups—generally aided by newspaper publicity—conducted intensive campaigns to put waste paper back into the stream of mill production. At that time the telephone company co-operated in full measure with the constituted authorities and donated heavy tonnage of directory and other paper products to the country-wide effort.

"Today, among other telephone supply scarcities there is a serious shortage of waste paper that, when re-processed, goes into many important reuses. Paper wrappings insulate telephone wires and fibre conduit employs a large paper content, to mention but two items that consume paper waste in great bulk."

Building superintendents and janitors both in commercial and residential districts are co-operating with office workers and tenants in the current effort, it is reported.

Carriage, bicycle, ferry, miniature train or bantam sized motor cars (as taxis and privately owned vehicles) furnish Bermuda's transportation. Since 10 horsepower is maximum for passenger cars, a jeep is classified as a heavy truck. Speed limit is 20 miles per hour and 15 miles per hour in town or on narrow roads . . . only a little faster than the rate of horse and carriage.

Westmount Park

mount Park Church on Easter evening, 1947.

The 15 minutes of music between the two acts which will be played by George Flower, organist of Westmount Park, and sung by the choir under the direction of J. C. Scott, the church's choirmaster, has been designed as a method of transition from the first century atmosphere of the first act to the twentieth century setting of the second. This musical interlude will include selections of music from various periods between 33 A.D. and 1947

Written specially for presentation in the chancel of the church, the play combines a strong spiritual appeal with a dramatic study of the moving events at the tomb of Christ. Most of the lines in the first act are in the exact words of the gospels while in the second act various characters in the cast present the impact of the risen Lord on the Christian cavalcade of modern times.

CBC Man Helps

Mr. Chadburn has received a great deal of help in directing and producing the play from Jeff Hogwood of the local CBC studios. Mr. Hogwood attended a Sunday evening service at Westmount Park a number of weeks ago, stayed a while after the final prayer, saw the cast of "Dawn" begin rehearsing and offered his help. His offer was enthusiastically accepted and since that time Mr. Hogwood has given up many of his leisure hours to help lend to the play a really professional touch.

Truth to tell, there is nothing amateurish about this play. Scenery, lighting and music all combine to make it very, very impressive and very, very good theatre.

The presentation of the play will take the place of the regular Sunday evening service. It will commence at 7.30 p.m. and will last approximately one hour and ten minutes.
