German Staff Officers Hold Key Position

Large Number of German Officials Rushed to Spain by Air to Organize Great Offensive, Spanish Embassy to London Declares—Heavier Government Manpower Halts Insurgent Advance in East.

London, April 22.—(C.P.-Havas)—Following charges from the Spanish embassy here that German staff officers are in control of Spanish insurgent operations on the Franco-Spanish frontier, the Daily Herald (Labor) today published an "authentic" tabulation of German and Italian forces fighting in Spain.

The accusations by the Spanish embassy were contained in a communique which read:

"On April 16th, the German general staff decided to keep control of all operations on the Pyrenees frontier. That night five high officials left Berlin by air for Burgos. The command in the northern front in Spain is at present in the hands of German Generals Wolf, of the German Air Force, and Wittersheim, of the 14th Army Corps.

"On April 14th and 15th, sixty-three officers left Munich in Junker planes, fifty-two of them for Seville, to prepare an immediate offensive against Almeria from Malaga (in southeastern Spain). This offensive will be commanded by General Prager, of the Reserve Corps, and Colonel Hiler, of the Seventh German Army Corps."

THREE DIVISIONS IN ITALIAN CORPS

The Daily Herald said the Italian Army Corps, commanded by General Berti, whose second in command is General Manzini, includes three divisions, the Littorio, under General Bergonzoli, the "Black Flames and March 23," under General Francisci, and the Arows, under General Roatta.

The article also mentioned three artillery regiments, the First, Second and Fifth, with guns of from 2.55 inches to 11.81 inches, under General Manca, and two tank battalions and one of armored cars, under Colonel Sabini.

Italian air forces in Spain were said to be commanded by General Bernasconi and to include eight squadrons of "Savoia 81" planes, eight squadrons of the Savoia 79 model, ten scouting planes of the Breda 61 model, and 35 squadrons, or 385 planes, of the Fiat and Romeo pursuit models.

General Veidt, commander of the sixth section of the German Air Force, was said to be in Spain directing the operations of the Condor legion, consisting of 149 planes. The Daily Herald declared that Germany also has in Spain eight squadrons of Messerschmidt pursuit planes, two squadrons of Dornier, seventeen bombers, and some 100 other planes of various makes, mostly Junkers and Heinkels.

GOVERNMENT TROOPS STEMMING ADVANCE

Hendaye, France, April 22.—(P)—The Spanish Government's almost two to one superiority in man power apparently has halted the insurgent advance in eastern Spain.

The latest communique issued by the insurgent general headquarters, which for days has detailed a long list of captured towns, spoke merely in general terms of a "continued."

Judicial Inquiry Into Handling Of Dionne Quints' Fortune Is Demanded

Olivia Dionne, in Entering Demand with Ontario Attorney-General, Declares that He Is Not Satisfied that Trust Funds Are Being Administered Properly.

Ottawa, April 22.—(P)—Olivia Dionne, the Callander farmer who fought for almost four years to have his quintuplet daughters returned to him, is seeking judicial investigation of the way their lives are being managed by their guardians.

Acting through Henri St. Jacques, Ottawa lawyer, Mr. Dionne has requested a probe by a judge into the manner in which Dr. Allan Roy Daffoe has supervised the children's health and education and inquiry into the conduct of the quint's business affairs.

Mr. Dionne's move presents the possibility of the amazing story of their birth, their fight for life and their story-book march toward a $1,000,000 fortune will be told for the first time in a law court.

Mr. St. Jacques announced here last night that a request for the judicial investigation was forwarded several days ago to Attorney-General Constant of Ontario. Mr. Dionne is 60 years of age.

Nearly Starved Jap Garrison Breaks Through Chinese Lines

Besieged in Yihhsien for Two Weeks, Garrison of Five Thousand Finally Succeeded in Joining Advancing Columns—Japan Sacrificing Much in Hopeh Province to Send More Troops to Central China Front as Chinese Advance Continues.

Shanghai, April 22.—(P)—The Japanese garrison of five thousand, under siege for two weeks and recently reported facing starvation in the walled town of Yihhsien, twenty-four miles northwest of Taiherchwang, today broke through Chinese lines, the Chinese High Command admitted, and joined columns advancing from Lini.

The United Japanese force then pointed an offensive southward toward Taiherchwang, hoping to retake that battle-shaken town and avenge their stinging defeat there. The invading forces captured Lini Wednesday after bitter fighting.

Meanwhile, it became evident that Japan is sacrificing much of the Hopeh Province area she won early in the war to throw more troops into the Central China front.

The greatest concentration of Chinese forces since fighting started on July 7, 1937, and continuing guerrilla raids against Japanese outposts have created for the Japanese a critical situation.

The Chinese, with more than 2,000,000 troops said to have re- Continued on Page 2, Col. 7.

LADY CREDITED WITH FOUNDED PEACE PARLEYS

Observers Believe Lady Chamberlain Laid Groundwork for London-Rome Peace Pact Upon Which Epochal World History Is Turning.

(By Dewitt MacKenzie, Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)
New York, April 22.—(P)—British Prime Minister Chamberlain's pact of amity with Signor Mussolini is the pivot upon which epochal world-history is turning. Posterity may assay this treaty as being a determining factor in the struggle between democracy and dictatorships.

Perhaps it is because of the worries of these perilous days, when militarism is sending up its crimson flames, that anxious watchers have rather overlooked one of the most interesting and noteworthy facts in connection with the Anglo-Italian agreement.

They say it was a woman who laid the groundwork for the peace pact in Rome. She is Lady Chamberlain, widow of the late Sir Austen Chamberlain, who attained international fame as builder of peace, and sister-in-law of Prime Minister Chamberlain.

Lady Chamberlain used the many Italian friendships she made as a partner of her statesman-husband to close the rift which has existed between the two countries since Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia. It was my privilege to have the friendship of Sir Austen, and he once made a most striking confession to me about the influence which his wife had exercised on his official career.

WALLACE BEERY COMES TO "THE KID'S" SUPPORT

Betty Grable Claims Jackie Coogan's Mother Endeavored to Break Their Engagement by Telling Her She Was Marrying a "Pauper."

Los Angeles, April 22.—(P)—Betty Grable, $500-a-week film dancer, told today of ignoring a warning by her mother-in-law that she was marrying a "pauper" if she married Jackie Coogan.

As Betty described what she said were Mrs. Lillian Coogan Bernstein's efforts to break off her son's two-year engagement, Wallace Beery, a friend of Jackie's kid days in the movies, rallied to his support in his legal fight for a share of his screen fortune.

A hearing was scheduled in court this morning on the petition of Mrs. Bernstein and Jackie's stepfather, Arthur L. Bernstein, to dismiss the receivership declared on the Coogan estate when the twenty-three year old former star filed a $4,000,000 accounting suit against the couple last week.

Jackie maintained, and Mrs. Bernstein denied, that his father, Jack Coogan, Sr., had intended to give him his accumulated film earnings when he came of age. The older Coogan was killed in an automobile accident in 1935, shortly before Jackie's twenty-first birthday.

To "The Kid's" cause, Beery, a veteran actor, added his word to today, rubbing his jaw in a characteristic meditative gesture as he spoke.

"Not once, but many times—more than a dozen, I think—Jack (the young film player's father) told me that he had never used or intended to use a cent the boy earned."

"Every penny the boy was making was being put away and saved for him, Jack said on several occasions. He was careful at all times to impress everyone that Jackie's money would be all his—entirely—when 'The Kid' reached a man's estate."

Spanish Insurgent Fleet Captured Or Sank A Score Of Fishing Boats Transporting Loyalist Militiamen

Hendaye, France, April 22.—(P)—The insurgent fleet, led by the cruiser Canarias, today captured or sank a score of fishing boats in which Government militiamen were attempting to get from Catalonia to the coast farther south to join the forces of General Jose Miaja.

Insurgent despatches said the smallest of the Government ships, which were hugging the coast, were taken by fishing boats the insurgents had armed, while the Canarias and other units of the fleet captured a number of small steam craft.

Most of the fugitives made their dash down the coast at night, but the insurgent navy spotted them with searchlights.

The militiamen previously had belonged to the command of General Miaja, now Commander-in-Chief for all Government Spain except isolated Catalonia. They were caught in the Tortosa sector when the insurgents drove through to the sea at Vinaroz last Friday, driving a wedge between Catalonia and other Government territory.

Quebec Yielding Industrial Prestige By Taxation System

Stringency of Capital Tax Imposes Prevents Many Companies from Carrying on Operations in Province, Commission on Provincial Taxation Told by Canadian Manufacturers Association—Claim Grave Inequalities Exist.

Montreal, April 22.—(P)—Quebec is yielding industrial prestige to Ontario because of anomalies in the Quebec corporation taxes, the Canadian Manufacturers Association charged today in a brief presented to the Provincial Commission on Revision of Taxation.

Quebec loses prestige through its refusal to make allowance for capital re-invested in other companies, the manufacturers claim, recommending that where subsidiary companies are controlled by operating parent concerns the Provincial Government should accept a consolidated statement of the financial set-up making provision for any minority interest and compute the tax on the statement.

The C.M.A. also suggests that where companies have investment in industrial concerns other than subsidiaries an allowance should be made in reduction of the taxable paid-up capital in the proportion that such investments, whether they be share capital, bonds or loans, bear to the total assets of the company.

Capital tax should be applied only to capital or assets actually within the boundaries of Quebec and the corporation profits tax should be applied only to profits made in Quebec, the brief submits.

The gasoline tax should not be collected on stationary engines or any gasoline-operated machinery not using the highways, the manufacturers request. There should be legislation, they recommend, to prohibit municipalities from taxing delivery trucks of firms with their place of business outside the municipality.

The brief suggests the provinces should draw up a reciprocal agreement establishing uniform methods of allocating paid up capital.

WOULD SUBSTITUTE CORPORATE PROFITS TAX

Montreal, April 22.—(P)—Abolition of Quebec's corporation capital tax was suggested yesterday to the province's Tax Revision Commission by the Society of Chartered Accountants of Quebec and the Montreal Board of Trade.

The Trade Board advocated instead a tax on corporation profits and, while the accountants' brief did not suggest a substitute, H. G. Norman, a member of the society's council, said he thought the companies would favor the tax on profits rather than on capital.

The two organizations were heard at the first public sitting of the Commission under Edouard Montpetit which is investigating the province's taxation set-up with a view to revision. The Commission was set up by the Legislature.

Objection to the capital tax was taken by the Board of Trade on the ground it tended to keep outside firms from establishing business in Quebec. The accountants' body claimed the system permitted "inequalities."

"Granting of discretionary powers to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council results in taxation by Order-in-Council with no redress, instead of taxation by statute."

If the capital tax cannot be eliminated, the accountants' brief said, it might be collected by the National Department of Revenue with the monies so collected being allocated to provinces in proportion to the sales in each province of each company from whom the tax is taken.

The taxpayer would effect a saving, it was asserted, through elimination of preparing separate returns. It would avoid also the possibility of payment of a capital tax on more than one hundred per cent. of the taxpayer's capital.

"All Catholics," it continued, "whatever their beliefs, and whatever may be the regime of their country, cannot bind themselves without conditions concerning human questions. The law of God comes before that of men, just as the source of all power comes before the exercise of it. This is a truth as indisputable as it is providential."

"If it were not so, if there did not exist this superior discipline for the social arbiters of the civic order itself, revolution would be imminent."

The newspaper added that Austrian Catholics had declared, "through him who represents their faith and interprets their aspirations, that they wish to safeguard the rights of God and of the church."

It reproduced the statement made by Theodore Cardinal Innitzer, Archbishop of Vienna, after his talk here with Pope Pius, in which he said no changes could be made in the Austrian concordat without the consent of the Holy See, and demanded that the rights of Austrian Catholics under the concordat be recognized.

The vote of Catholics in the rest of Germany, the article said, was cast on the basis of the following "unbinding" conditions always posed by German Catholic Bishops: "The observance of pacts with the Holy See and the protection of religion and the church, not only

FLAMES CAUSED HEAVY DAMAGE AT MILLINGTON

Large Barn and Two Attached Silos Owned by Mrs. Benoit Lost in Fire—All Livestock but Cow and Calf Rescued from Building.

Millington, April 22.—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed a large barn and two attached silos owned by Mrs. Benoit here yesterday, together with a cow, a calf, a small quantity of hay and some farm implements.

Volunteer fire fighters drove all the livestock from the barn with the exception of the cow and calf. Fortunately there was no wind, or the nearby horse-barn and large residence might also have fallen prey to the flames.

The fire-swept barn replaced one razed by flames a number of years ago when the property was owned by the late Frank Patch. Mrs. Benoit had recently rented the farm to Frank Brousseau, formerly of Magog, and moved to an adjoining farm where a new house is under construction.

Insurance amounting to two thousand dollars was carried on the destroyed building.

CATHOLIC VOTE FOR UNION NOT UNCONDITIONAL

Official Vatican Organ Declares that Rights and Privileges of Catholic Population of Austria Must Be Maintained.

Vatican City, April 22.—(CP-Havas)—The results in Austria of the April 10th plebiscite on Austro-German union cannot be considered as "unconditional" ratification by Austrian Catholics of Nazi policies, L'Osservatore Romano, official Vatican organ, said today in an article signed by its editor, Count Della Torre.

Nazi newspapers had attempted to present the vote in this light, the article said. "All Catholics," it continued, "whatever their beliefs, and whatever may be the regime of their country, cannot bind themselves without conditions concerning human questions. The law of God comes before that of men, just as the source of all power comes before the exercise of it. This is a truth as indisputable as it is providential."

Survival Of Democratic Government Is Dependent On Ideals Of The People

Young People Must Interest Themselves in Public Affairs and Machinery of Government Under Which They Live if Democratic System Is to Succeed, Sir Edward Beatty Warns—Party System Essential to Expression of Popular Will.

London, Ont., April 22.—Strongly upholding the ideals of democracy as practised by the British Commonwealth and urging young Canadians to equip themselves to carry out the duties of citizenship, Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., LL.D., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, addressing the Youth Banquet here last evening, appealed to young people to study public affairs sufficiently to justify use of their suffrage, to interest themselves in the machinery of government under which they live, to study political parties appealing for their support, to identify themselves with the party whose leadership seems to them the most sound and the most inspiring and to work on behalf of that party.

"In the last analysis we come down to this," Sir Edward emphasized, "the fate of democracy depends on the ideals of its people. Those, in turn, depend on the acceptance, in public life, of these qualities of kindness, of good-will, of confidence in each other, of charitable interpretations of others' motive, which we practise in private life, and on which the very existence of civilized society depends. In short, the failures of democracy—and I will admit, as you will admit, that there are such failures—are not due to the low quality of our citizenry, nor to the low quality of our leaders. They are not due to some defect in our political system. They are due to the single fact that, because the individual citizen has been too ready to regard the government as something to serve him, and not himself as some one to serve the state, we have implanted in our public life a lasting belief that democratic government must always be based on sectionalism and appeals to narrow interests."

Honored by the City of London with the rank of Freeman, Sir Edward delivered a penetrating analysis of democratic government, and after noting that modern political and business conditions made it difficult for business men to take a stand on controversial public issues, pointed out that the history of British institutions proved that nations could come to a full development of economic and social life under a system by which the voters divided themselves roughly into two great groups and in which the leaders of these groups alternate in office as advisers to the Crown. It was, however, childish to deny that the increasing complexities of the world tended to produce a definite loss of confidence in this system and that not only democracy in general, but also the British parliamentary system were under close scrutiny and suspicion.

Increasing Bureaucracy Menacing Factor
Sir Edward, in describing the dangers facing democracy pointed to the increasing number of people depending on the state for their livelihood. These people become functionaries, not citizens. "I do not think that we can hope that democracy will function well in a state in which too great a portion of the people find themselves dependent on the state." The fiscal policies of a nation tended to become fixed to some degree as time went on. Consequently it was no longer possible to divide voters into two camps on tariff matters and it was more and more difficult to prepare party platforms which were "so distinct and clear-cut in their differences that the platform will be in itself a sufficiently attractive

Dublin, April 22.—(P)—Dr. Douglas Hyde, poet, historian and retired university professor, accepted today the nomination of Ireland's two largest political parties to run for President of Eire in the May 31st election.

All Eire, the former Irish Free State, hailed the joint selection of Dr. Hyde by Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail and the Opposition, Fine Gael. The two parties thus hope to avoid an election contest.

"I feel very touched at both parties in the Dail (Parliament) agreeing to my selection," said the seventy-eight year old nominee. With Government and Opposition agreed on the nomination of Dr. Hyde, Mr. de Valera and his colleagues prepared for a week-end departure to London to resume negotiations Monday for an Anglo-Irish agreement.

The Canadian Press understands announcement of the result of the lengthy talks may be expected Monday night or Tuesday morning as Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is expected to arrive in London today.

Selassie Has Put League Of Nations Council In A Very Awkward Dilemma

Ex-Emperor's Stand Makes It Quite Apparent that a Formula for Wiping Ethiopia from Map Will Not Be Found Without Considerable Difficulty.

London, April 22.—(P) Cable — Haile Selassie is preparing to make his last stand. From his exile the former Emperor of Ethiopia has put the League of Nations Council in an awkward dilemma.

Anglo-French conversations next week were to have paved the way to a final ringing down of the international curtain on the tragedy of Ethiopia with recognition of the Italian conquest. Selassie's notification to the League that he intends to exercise the right to be represented before the Council on May 9, as both Italy and Ethiopia were represented when sanctions were imposed, drops a wrench into the works.

It seems clear that a formula for wiping Ethiopia from the map will not be found without difficulty. Five members of the League Council already have taken action implying recognition of Italy's conquest.

A Council decision requires a two-thirds majority. It is not clear whether Selassie's move will be successful or not.

There must be no misunderstanding on this point, said L'Osservatore Romano. Quoting an article in the Neue Reichspost which said "that state will no longer tolerate that the church should deal with questions appertaining to the Nazi party," the Vatican organ remarked ironically that the party seeks to take over "the whole life of men and citizens here below."

Consider Terminal For Out-Of-Town Buses

City Council Would Convert Site on Big Forks Street into Depot and Parking Ground for Convenience of Out-of-Town Buses and Taxis.

The construction of a terminal on Big Forks street for the convenience of out-of-town buses and taxis is being considered by the Police Committee, according to a statement made to the Record today by a member of that Board.

The city owns a fairly large tract of land between the street and the river and this could be converted into a convenient terminal at a very low cost, the alderman stated.

There already exists a building upon the site which could be renovated and equipped with a small restaurant and waiting room. The only work that needs to be done, the alderman added, is to level the land and improve the appearance of the premises as a whole.

At the present time there are a number of taxis travelling between Sherbrooke and outside points, and ed more influence in some ways than any other man in Europe. He had achieved that great triumph—the treaty of Locarno. He exercised a dominating influence in the League of Nations.

The time this little story developed, I was spending the day with Sir Austen in his picturesque Queen Bess country home in a hamlet called Five Ashes, among the green-clad Sussex hills.

As we lounged in the oak-paneled sitting-room before the huge fireplace with its burning logs, we talked of many intimate things. It was a time for confidences, and I ventured to ask him what part Lady Chamberlain played in his political life.

Chamberlain gave this reply in a voice rich with emotion:

"She has made my career! My married life has been a most wonderful experience. It has been in every way a true comradeship. My wife has known all the secrets of my political life. She has shared my successes; she has encouraged me when I was despondent; she has advised me in my problems when I needed help."

These have to station themselves on Wellington street near the corner of King before they depart and after arriving in the city. They are a traffic problem in themselves, to say nothing of the out-of-town automobiles that stop off in Sherbrooke. These, like the taxis, have no depot and as a result park along the street.

It is felt by the Police Committee that the construction of a terminal on Big Forks street would do much to improve traffic conditions during the summer months. It is terminal, of course, would not be used by local buses or taxis.

BETTER LIVING STANDARDS FOR MODERN FARMER

Ontario Minister of Agriculture Declares More Efficient Farming Must Be Adopted to Meet Increased Expenditure Demands.

London, Ont., April 22.—(C)—Present-day farmers demand a "much higher" standard of living than did farmers of thirty years ago, and the resulting increased expenditure must be provided for by more efficient farming, Hon. P. M. Dewar, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, said in an address here today.

"These extras mean the expenditure of a few hundred dollars more each year," Mr. Dewar told a service club. "This additional expenditure must be provided for by more efficient farming, by the application of science, the application of any economic factor that will increase returns and by better farm management as well."

These factors are "inevitable" and farmers generally must face them as "realities," he said. "The young farmer of tomorrow must be trained for his task—must be armed with every valuable piece of information which is available to him. A local short course in agriculture should be made accessible to every young farmer who cannot avail himself of a course at one of our agricultural institutions."

Governments can give only guidance, direction and assistance, said the Minister. By organization and co-operation, farmers must learn to help themselves. "I fear that in this Province they have not yet learned this truth: that what the Government can do for the farmer is insignificant compared with what he can do for himself."

Turning to a matter of "serious concern," Mr. Dewar said federal and provincial Departments of Agriculture were conducting intensive campaigns to eradicate cattle diseases. "Reasonable progress" was being made in Ontario toward eradicating bovine tuberculosis but Bangs disease was causing "enormous losses."

Fruit and vegetables now are in the class of "big business" said the Minister. New varieties are being tested but new diseases "are creeping in as well." To aid fruit growers, the department is sending trained men throughout the various fruit growing districts in the Province.

advance" down the coastal road towards Castellon de la Plana.

The communiqué, however, placed the insurgent southern columns still in the vicinity of Alcala de Chivert, which was reported captured thirty-six hours before.

A similar impasse seems to have been reached all the way to the Pyrenees frontier, where for the last two days the insurgents have been taking "complete possession" of the Aran valley.

Along the hundred miles of the 190-mile front—from Gandesa north to Tortosa—the militiamen have held firmly for more than a week. At strategic Tremp and Balaguer the Government reported counter-attacks had reduced insurgent bridge-heads.

During the month since the insurgent attack developed in Catalonia, General Franco's troops have penetrated an average of only eighteen miles within the Province—about one seventh of its breadth.

BENOIT WAS HANGED AT MONTREAL TODAY

Montreal, April 22.—(C)—Ezekiel Benoit, thirty-three-year-old farmer who turned to crime when he came to Montreal ten years ago, was hanged today at Montreal jail for the murder of Hyslophe Cote, rich and eccentric landlord, last July.

A companion in the crime, Lionel Gauthier, twenty-seven, received a commutation of sentence to one of life imprisonment less than forty-eight hours before he was scheduled to hang with Benoit.

"I am glad to die," Benoit told the jail governor, Dr. Sylvio Lafontaine, last night. He went to the gallows quietly today.

Cote's body was found half buried beneath a pile of stones on Benoit's father's farm last summer. Gauthier was granted vice-regal clemency on Wednesday. He turned King's evidence during Benoit's trial.

RESCUE SHIP NEARS CREW SEEN ON ICE

Halifax, April 22.—(C)—Wireless messages from the sealer Eagle, off Newfoundland's East coast, intercepted by the Transport Department's radio branch today said the vessel had straggled to within five miles of the sealer Ora, reported in distress. The messages said the crew of the Ora could be seen on the ice, but there was no sign of the steamer.

Despatches from St. John's indicated the Ora, a wooden ship owned by a Norwegian firm, had been

Judicial Inquiry Into Handling Of Dionne Quints' Fortune Is Demanded

Conant could not be reached for comment last night and other officials and Dr. Dafee refused it.

Mr. St. Jacques said he had been retained by Mr. Dionne in a conference at Callander two weeks ago. He had received no reply from the Attorney General and supposed "the Government does not know what to do." He declined to make public the text of his letter to Mr. Conant.

The Ottawa lawyer indicated the purpose of the request was to determine whether the fortune the youngsters have built up—now estimated at $750,000—is being dissipated. He said that while Mr. Dionne was aware guardianship books are audited by Government officials he was not satisfied their funds were being conserved properly.

It has been estimated that $2,000 is spent each month in keeping up the Dafee nursery where Annette, Yvonne, Cecile, Marie and Emilie live, one hundred yards from the humble home where they were born. This covers Dr. Dafee's salary of $200 a month, a grant of $100 a month to their parents and salaries of teachers, nurses, housekeepers and guards, as well as nursery expenses such as food, clothes and heat.

The object of the guardians has been to establish a large enough fortune so that the interest will keep the girls, who will be four years old May 28.

An act of the Ontario Legislature passed March 15, 1935, made the quint's wards of the King until their eighteenth birthday. Appointed as guardians were Dave Croll, then Ontario Minister of Welfare, Dr. Dafee, Judge J. E. Valin, of North Bay, and Mr. Dionne. The children's father has attended only one meeting of the Board since last June.

Mr. Croll stepped out of the picture on March 8, 1937, with the statement that the quint's business had grown so heavy he could not handle it. He added he thought their affairs should be taken out of politics and moved an amendment to the Guardianship Act making the official guardian of minor children in Ontario a quit guardian. This office now is held by Percy D. Wilson, former Ottawa lawyer.

Besides Dr. Dafee, Mr. Wilson and Judge Valin, the quint's have a business manager in Keith Munro, former Toronto newspaperman, and William Flannery, of North Bay, is secretary-treasurer of the guardianship.

The present Board replaced one set up July 28, 1934, when A. W. Roebuck, then Ontario Attorney General, said it was necessary to save the little girls from "certain death" through exploitation. A few days after their birth their father had signed a contract to exhibit them at the Chicago World's Fair, later repudiating it. Dr. Dafee and Oliver Dionne, grandfather of the children, were on the Board.

The first guardianship, which was for five years, was agreed to by Dionne but he has never publicly endorsed the second Board. He opposed his children being made wards of the King and fought to have them returned to his care. He petitioned the Ontario Government several times and in March, 1936, wrote to King Edward VIII in an effort to regain their custody. The petition to the King was referred to the Dominion and then the Ontario Government, eventually finding its way to Mr. Croll.

Mr. Dionne's attitude in recent months has been that while he admitted the children would not have lived without the assistance of the Ontario Government, the time for that assistance has passed. He told friends he would not object to some form of government supervision of their business affairs, but demanded the right to bring them up as members of his family with their three brothers and four sisters.

It is believed he planned building a large home to replace the humble farmhouse where the quint's were born on May 28, 1934, bringing his family of twelve children and he and his wife, Elsie, together. Their latest child, a boy, was born April 5, their second child since the quint's arrived.

The same plan has been entertained by the guardians. Dr. Dafee often has said he would favor having the family live together if numerous obstacles could be cleared away. Recently Judge Valin expressed the same opinion.

In his few public statements on the subject, Mrs. Dionne has pleaded with the authorities to return her babies to her.

She sees them now as often as she wishes. The Dafee nursery is only a hundred yards from her home and she and her husband rarely miss a day visiting the youngsters.

Further separation of the family has come within the past few days. Ernest, twelve-year-old brother of the quint's, became a student at College Apostolique St. Alexandre at Ironides, Que., near Ottawa, yesterday, and their sisters, Rose, eleven, and Therese, nine, were enrolled as students at the Ursuline Convent at Quebec City. Their expenses will be paid out of guardianship funds.

WILL STUDY REPORT BEFORE TAKING ANY ACTION

Toronto, April 22.—(C)—Attorney-General Gordon Conant said today he would take no action on Oliva Dionne's request for a judicial inquiry into the management of the quintuplets until he had studied a report by Percy D. Wilson, K.C., official guardian, who made an investigation recently.

The Attorney-General said Wilson's investigation was made at the request of Dr. Allan Roy Dafee, physician to the quint's. The report reached the Attorney-General's office this week.

rallying point to collect around it a majority of the voters. My own impression is that we shall increasingly find the organization and success of political parties dependent on the personal qualities of their leaders.

This would seem a departure from the rule that the government of this country is always a government of laws and not of men. It was not suggesting that the election of any political party on such a basis would place a dictator in power, but he did feel that the major political parties of this country would come to general and lasting agreement on many of the major questions in principle and therefore he doubted if the difference would be sufficiently clean-cut to make distinctions of platform and policy as appealing to the voters as the qualities of the men who head the parties. He cited national defence, the duty of the community to labor, provisions for unemployment, distress, education, public health and agriculture, and asked his hearers how two great political parties could go to the people with policies diverging to any real extent on any of these points.

Leaders Must Show Faith in System

Faith in democracy was the first quality needed by leaders of a democratic community. Those leaders must believe that the people given all the facts could be trusted to decide wisely. Democratic leaders could not descend to appeals to prejudice, should neither be guilty of ingenious perversions of the truth, nor should they place party before principle. Government by party was not intended to be a struggle for power, but a method of obtaining discussions of public issues, thus permitting the public to judge fairly.

"It is essential to keep in our minds the phrase which distinguishes the British system from all other forms of democratic government," Sir Edward declared, "the custom of referring to the administration of the day as 'His Majesty's Government.' As long as we keep that fundamental fact in mind we shall be saved from one of the most destructive dangers to parliamentary government. We shall be saved from the wholly erroneous and dangerous belief that His Majesty's loyal opposition exist for the single purpose of destroying the reputation and authority of His Majesty's government of the day. I appeal to you young citizens to remember that the government of the day is definitely His Majesty's Government. Liberty makes it necessary that we shall have the power and the right to criticize its actions with absolute freedom. No thought of disloyalty can possibly interfere with the right and duty of those who disagree with the policies of the government to criticize them, and to call for their amendment. What is necessary, however, is that we should remember that criticism of this sort is only useful provided that it is constructive."

People Responsible if System Fails

Sir Edward contended that if the people of this country feel that democracy was not providing them with a truly representative government then the fault was that of the people. Democratic Government presupposed that the citizens would use their electoral powers all the time. It assumed that voters would take an active part in framing platforms, preparing appeals, choosing candidates and conducting campaigns which was the very machinery of democracy. "If you do not play your part in this; if you sit idly by and leave to small groups of more active men and women the task of organizing elections, then you have no right to clamor that your participation in the affairs of the country is limited to choosing between two candidates," he emphasized.

Canadians had tried strange roads to better government. "Have we tried the slower road of building our characters as individual and our character as a nation?" he asked. "Have we tried, with grim determination, the slow and painful process of making the nation better by making its people better? Have we not, perhaps, in seeking short-cuts to making the nation great, rich, wise and happy, forgotten that national greatness, wealth, wisdom and happiness can but be the resultant and the sum of these qualities in the citizen? Has not the time come to reconsider our road to national success, and to consider whether, in too great eagerness to achieve, we have forgotten that achievement must come from courage, honesty and other simple virtues?"

the Exchequer, is expected to refer to the situation in his budget speech in the House of Commons Tuesday afternoon.

The choice of Dr. Hyde, a Protestant, as the single candidate for the presidency was greeted with unanimous approval by all factions of the Irish press.

"The President of the new Ireland must be a man unsullied by mud-slinging, a man commanding the respect and admiration of all citizens irrespective of religious or political beliefs," the Irish Times declared. "Douglas Hyde is such a man."

The Irish Press, organ of Mr. de Valera's Fianna Fail party, declared there would be "a feeling of intense gratification throughout the country that the Fianna Fail and the Fine Gael parties have agreed on this ideal choice."

"For more than half a century," said the Irish Independent (Fine Gael), "Dr. Hyde steadfastly has upheld the finest traditions of the Irish race. The country thus is honoring one of the most distinguished living Irishmen."

Agreement to ask Mr. Hyde, former professor of modern Irish in the National University of Ireland, was reached yesterday at a meeting of Prime Minister de Valera's Fianna Fail party and the Opposition Fine Gael, headed by William T. Cosgrave.

as a tribute to the Protestant minority—Dr. Hyde is the son of a rector of French Park, County Roscommon, where he still lives among his books—as well as a decision to choose an outstanding man of letters rather than a politician.

The election was scheduled for May 31st. The new President will be installed in office June 30th, making his home in the vice-regal lodge in Phoenix Park, the former residence of British Governors-General.

Dr. Hyde was interim professor of modern languages at the University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, N.B., in 1891. He was famous as a scholar of Gaelic and is one of the foremost living Irish writers.

The post he is expected to fill is new, created under the constitution which went into effect December 27, 1937. His duties will largely correspond to those of the Governors-General, a post Mr. de Valera abolished.

unanimous vote. Therefore, since from present indications unanimity is unlikely, Council action may be confined to a recommendation, which requires a majority vote only. Moreover, on July 4, 1936, the League Assembly passed a resolution under which members pledged themselves not to recognize any change in territory acquired by force.

Apart from Ethiopia the Anglo-French conversations of the coming week will cover a wide basis. Unconfirmed reports are current they will be followed by staff conversations laying down more definite plans for mutual assistance in the event of war. They may be expected to cover the situation in Spain and the Mediterranean generally and in Central Europe, with the advisability of extending the Anglo-Italian agreement into a restoration of the Strass front between Great Britain, Italy and France.

Inclusion of Germany in a four-power pact lies beyond. But as tensions Germany probably would demand restoration of her former colonies and termination of the Franco-Russian agreement. France in the present state of the world would not be prepared to drop her mutual assistance pact with Russia. Over the restoration of colonies opinion in Britain is sharply divided.

URGES AIDS TO FASCISM BE STAMPED OUT

Claims Indifference Will Breed Fascism

Failure to Act Against Unemployment, Poor Housing and Low Moral Standards on Part of Majority of People Will Advance Growth of Fascism, Rev. F. A. C. Dooze Tells Y's Men's Club.

Indifference on the part of the mass of the people is what creates the situation in which Fascism may become possible," declared Rev. F. A. C. Dooze, pastor of the Plymouth United Church, before the members of the local Y's Men's Club at their weekly meeting last night.

Mr. Dooze, who was introduced by Wesley Bradley, analyzed the totalitarian state with particular reference to Fascism, and contended that "It is the indifference of just such people as ourselves, who ignore the crying needs of even the people in our own town, among which are employment, better housing, living wages and a general improvement in moral standards, and who do nothing to bring about a better state of affairs, which creates the ground in which the seeds of Fascism can flourish."

"Fascism breeds from within," the speaker asserted. "If the people are happy they will have no use for a system which would mean curtailment of their rights and privileges. But when they are not happy, when they are underfed, poorly housed, poorly paid, and those in a position to do something for them ignore their needs, then their discontent will lead them to see hope in a new system."

Rev. Mr. Dooze described his own experiences in Italy and Germany in 1928 and 1929. In Italy he found the people orderly, fairly prosperous, and generally more hopeful than they had been immediately

Accidents prevalent in Sherbrooke and the surrounding district during the past ten days struck at another victim this morning when Camille Bouchard, of Coaticook, was knocked down by a truck and seriously injured.

Sixteen year old employee of the Belding-Corticelli silk mill, the lad was riding his bicycle from the mill grounds at eight o'clock on route to another part of the town on an errand. He had gone about five hundred feet towards the centre of Coaticook when the truck, proceeding towards Sherbrooke, smashed into him. The truck was driven by Errell Collier, of Coaticook.

A doctor was immediately called and the boy hurried here by ambulance to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, where examination disclosed he was suffering from severe lacerations of the head, face and the left leg, together with numerous body bruises. Although in a serious condition, it is believed the boy will recover.

According to authorities, the youth was riding on the wrong side of the road and it was impossible for Collier, driver of the truck, to avert the smash.

No change was reported by hospital officials today in the condition of Gerald Jobin, local youth who suffered a broken neck in a gymnasium accident at St. Charles Seminary on April 13th.

Although given little chance to recover at the time, the boy's valiant fight for life has given rise to confidence that he will live.

Both Fernand Mercier, seven, of Sherbrooke, and Ivan Bouchard, sixteen of Weedon, who received fractured skulls in accidents earlier in the week, were reported somewhat improved today. The Sherbrooke tot was injured when he fell through a trap-door in a barn, while the Weedon victim was hurt in an automobile accident.

TOMORROW WILL SEE ADVANCED TIME ADOPTED

Sherbrooke Citizens, in Common with Fellow-Canadians in Many Cities, Will Put Their Clocks Ahead One Hour Tomorrow Night.

Tomorrow night at twelve o'clock Sherbrooke citizens, in common with fellow-Canadians in many cities, towns and villages, will put their clocks ahead one hour to inaugurate Daylight Saving Time.

Fast Time has become popular for the summer months as it enables the people to enjoy one hour more of sunlight each evening, although depriving them of a similar period of sunshine in the morning. Few care about the mornings, particularly in the urban centres.

Changing to Advanced Time will be as usual cause considerable confusion. Some citizens will forget to advance their clocks, while others will do it too early.

A pleasant social hour was enjoyed by the members at the close of the agenda, during which dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Estella Weisman.

FUNERAL OF MRS. JOHN WARK
The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Wark, widow of John Wark and a resident of Sherbrooke for the past half-century, was held from her late residence, Bowen avenue, to the Church of the Advent, East Sherbrooke, on Monday afternoon.

The service at the church was conducted by Rev. E. K. Moffat, the choir, under the direction of Miss Doris Price, rendering the hymns, "On the Resurrection Morning" and "Jesus Lives."

The bearers were Thomas Johnson, W. S. McAllister, T. G. Walsh, George F. Chapman, C. G. Bryant and S. H. Bachelder.

Mrs. Wark was born at Broughton on November 18, 1857, and was married to John Wark on July 18, 1878. To this union five children were born, two sons and a daughter, of whom only two sons, John Herbert and James H., survive. Mrs. Wark also leaves two sisters, Mrs. David Cathcart, of St. George, and Mrs. John Manes, of Lennoxville, together with several grandchildren, nephews and nieces.

Her husband predeceased her in December, 1925, just two months after Mrs. Wark had been stricken with what proved to be the beginning of a twelve-year period of ill-health which resulted in her rather sudden passing on April 16th.

Mrs. Wark was a faithful member of the Church of the Advent. She was for years active in the Guild work of the little church, and when ill-health prevented her participation in this active work she held the position of honorary president of the Women's Guild.

The chief mourners at the funeral were her two sons, her sister, Mrs. John Manes; three grandsons, Allan, Warner and Forest Wark; two granddaughters, Catherine and Barbara Wark; and several nephews and nieces, including Mrs. Alberta Ray, of Lennoxville, Wilfred Gillander and John Fraser, of Webster, Vt.

BUSY PERIOD OF TRAINING FOR REGIMENT

Last Night's Activities Featured by Squad Drill, Machine Gun Instruction and Lectures on Pistol and Theory of Small Arms Fire.

Squad drill, machine gun instruction and lectures on the pistol and the theory of small arms fire featured last night's Sherbrooke Regiment training at the William Street armoury. A number of new recruits enlisted with the English-speaking unit and the annual period of training, inaugurated on Tuesday last, is now well under way. Young men who meet the Sherbrooke Regiment's requirements may still join up, however, but they are urged to do so without further delay.

Last night's squad drill, lasting thirty minutes, was carried out under R.S.M. A. Britton, and was followed by instruction to the four different classes on the stripping and assembling of machine guns. The lecture on the pistol (revolver) was given by Capt. Webb Cook and that on the theory of small arms fire by Lt. Lyman Tomkins.

A busy week-end is in store for members of the local militia, with the annual Sherbrooke Regiment Sergeants' Mess dinner scheduled for Magog House tomorrow evening, followed by a dance at the Sherbrooke Regiment armoury, and the Regiment's annual church parade commemorating the 2nd Battle of Ypres on Sunday morning. The 35th Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, has been invited to take part in the church parade.

The Youth And The Empire

The power and value of the Royal Empire Society as a centre for Empire study and knowledge cannot be over-estimated. This society was formerly known as the Royal Colonial Institute and was founded in 1868. His Majesty the King is Patron of the Society, His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, K.G., President and Vice-President.

Throughout the Empire are prominent men and women in various walks of life who, as members, are striving to further the objects of the Society and to make it known to a still larger number of British subjects who have the welfare of the Empire at heart.

Particular and increasing attention is being paid to the youth of the Empire in whose hands the future lies.

The Society's educational work is divided between two principal committees. These are the Imperial Studies Committee and the Imperial Activities Committee, the former an academic body, the latter designed to organize and supervise conferences and summer schools, to direct active work for the Empire in schools and colleges and to establish relations with organizations such as the British Council, the Film Institute and the British Broadcasting Corporation.

The organization of conferences is a new development which was most successfully inaugurated by the Imperial Development Conference, in 1937. This conference, in which members of the Government and Parliament, representatives of the dominions, India and the colonies, as well as leaders in commerce and industry participated, was generally regarded as offering an important contribution to thought on Empire development.

In every way is the Royal Empire Society living up to its name as the principal unofficial focus for Imperial thought and study. Only limitation of funds sets a bound to the work that the Society can achieve.

There is today a growing sense of enquiry about the Empire, especially among youth. Membership of the Royal Empire Society does not only bring with it the more obvious privileges and amenities of a big, modern social centre, but it also means participation in a greater programme of work for the welfare of the Empire, of which the value and the need is so widely recognized today.

Rev. Dr. A. B. McGreer, Principal and Vice-Chancellor of Bishop's University, Lennoxville, is actively associated with the Royal Empire Society and will gladly give any information regarding its aims and also accept any contributions from anyone who might wish to further its work.

The People Who Pay Income Tax

An interesting analysis in the latest issue of the National Revenue Review again emphasizes, as past analyses have done, that the greatest amount of income tax payments are made by a relatively small number of taxpayers in the larger income group.

The total number of individual taxpayers in Canada in 1937 was 217,049—quite a small part of the population of Canada—and the net total paid by them was $33,442,383. The latter figure is a reminder that income tax payments by corporations account for the greater part of the large income tax collections. The income class under $2,000 numbered 98,423, representing over 45 per cent. of the total taxpayers, and contributed $1,033,963 or a little less than three per cent. of the total amount paid by individuals. In contrast, 300 persons, forming 0.14 per cent. of the total number, with incomes over $50,000 contributed $11,636,030 or nearly a third of the total payments. Their average contribution was $38,786 as against an average of slightly over $40 for the $2,000 income class.

Next to the group with incomes of $50,000 and over, the largest contribution was $3,194,978 by 3,520 persons with incomes from $10,000 to $15,000. Third in this standing was the income group $15,000 to $20,000, which contained 1,431 persons and paid $2,674,299. It was followed in amount of payments by the next three ascending income groups to the level of $35,000 income. Then, in seventh place, appears a lower income group of persons with $3,000 to $4,000 income, numbering 28,690, with aggregate payments of $1,194,403. It is again followed by the income class of $4,000 to $5,000, which numbered 13,852 individuals with a group payment of $1,118,943.

An Election Takes Place In Austria

The people of Austria have just had what they call an election. They were asked to register their preference for the new Nazi government or for Austria's former independence.

The Jews were barred from voting. The others realized what was expected of them and the majority voted the only way they knew would safeguard their personal security. As was to be expected, the majority was overwhelmingly in favor of the new regime.

Just in case any of the voters might be undecided, German troops, German guns and German tanks were out in full force. This proved to be a most effective reminder.

We in Canada often criticize our mode of elections. Even the Parliament of Canada studies ways and means of ridding our Dominion and provincial elections of corruption. Our system may not be perfect, but it is certainly one hundred per cent. better than the course of action so popular in dictatorships.

A Canadian voter knows he can go to the polls and cast his ballot according to his own dictates and choice. He knows that once he has exercised his franchise as a Canadian citizen he is not going to come out of the ballot booth a marked man with his very life in danger.

The people of Germany and Austria have lost their liberty and now must bow to the will of one man. We hope such a day will never dawn in Canada, but the fact remains that other countries have fallen under the iron hand of a dictator and now must pay the price.

Thirty Years Ago Today

From the Files of the Sherbrooke Record.
April 22nd, 1908.

Conservative delegates assembled in Cookshire today to select a candidate for the coming provincial elections. It seems a foregone conclusion that the present member, A. W. Gird, will be the candidate. R. H. Pope, at a convention some time ago, was formally chosen candidate for the Federal House.

The Provisional School of Signalling opened last evening at the Sherbrooke Armory under Captain T. C. Greaves, C.S.O., and Sergt. Instructor Meedhurst. The various city corps, the 53rd Regiment, 11th Hussars and the 22nd Field Battery were all represented.

Word has been received that Solomon Vineberg, a young Montreal graduate of McGill, son of J. L. Vineberg, formerly of Sherbrooke, has been awarded the Garth Fellowship at Columbia University at New York.

The annual meeting of St. Peter's Guild was held at the Church Hall. Rev. Canon Shreve presided, and opened the meeting with a prayer. The election of officers resulted as follows: Hon. Somers; Third Vice-President, Mrs. Reginald Smith; Secretary, Mrs. Frank Wilson; Treasurer, Mrs. S. A. Jones.

The deeds are signed for the new church at Asbestos on St. George's Street, and plans and specifications are being prepared.

The Building Committee of the new Episcopal Church, Coaticook, met to consider the tenders of which there are five for the building. It was awarded to Mayor T. Shurtleff, of Coaticook.

West; Rector's Warden, William Gould; Sidesmen, Messrs. Moore, Kelly and W. F. Geddings; Delegates to Synod, Messrs. J. Bruce Payne and W. F. Geddings.

MICROCOSM

Man's hemisphere is narrowing—
The trees are on the march—
Circle time inscribes a ring
Of tasseled birch and larch.
The distant mountain that I knew
Dissolves in purple mist:
Vanished is the valley view
In cloudy amethyst.

Since being captured in this snare
Of interwoven green,
I am increasingly aware
Of beauties seldom seen.
I doubt if I shall ever roam
Away from my own gate,
For all the world is coming home
For me to cultivate.

PRESS COMMENTS

HALTER ROUND NECK OF PROGRESS

(The Financier, Montreal)
Canada's national wealth is 30 billion dollars;

Annual production, gross, about 4 billion dollars;
Industry employs 70 per cent. of all gainfully employed Canadians, and is maintained by tariffs which prevent dumping of surplus foreign production, thus ensuring continuity of jobs for Canadian workers;

$700,000,000 is the yearly tax bill of our citizens, and is constantly increasing;
This is approximately $230 per family, per annum;
Or almost a dollar per family for each full working day of the year;

In 15 years the Government-controlled railways drew approximately one billion dollars in taxes and capital obligations from the people of Canada;
This amounts to three times the national net debt prior to the war; and is one-third the current net debt;

The railway drainage continues at the rate of $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 per annum, notwithstanding a one and one-quarter billion dollar liability write-off.

Canadian banks paid $100,000,000 in taxes during the past 14 years—since raised to over $8,000,000 a year.

Bear in mind that:
Every consumer of every grade of product, from farm or factory, contributes directly or indirectly to stupendous $700,000,000 bill of taxation by Federal, Provincial and Municipal administrations.
Yet there is no evidence of surcease—anywhere. In very truth, signs are not wanting that the easy-going Professional Taxers are even now squabbling amongst themselves for a greater share of what pickings may be left upon the already lean-ribbed carcass of the people's savings.

VERGE OF THE PRECIPICE

(Truth, London)

"France," said Richelieu, "is a country of unbelievable frivolity; but she always pulls herself together in time when she sees precipices ahead." Frenchmen seem rather to pride themselves on this habit. Domestic discord and disunity are regarded almost as virtues when they give the nation the opportunity to bring off a tour de force and display its remarkable capacity for rallying in the moment of danger. It is not a feat, however, which allies of France either appreciate or admire. It is better, of course, that the French should pull themselves together at the last moment than not at all; but how much better still if they would pull themselves together earlier! The international horizon, for instance, in this present year of grace could hardly be described even by an optimist as cloudless. Yet, to those who look to her for support, France offers little else but a spectacle of continual social, financial, political and moral disintegration. It is to be hoped—it is even probable—that as always before, these troubles would melt away if the foreign situation became urgent. Meanwhile, however, their continuance is causing a rapid deterioration in the situation that has to be met, and it is undermining the strength which France may need to meet it. For though the French may be able to forget civil squabbles in an emergency, they cannot make good the time which their squabbling has wasted.

WHAT OF THE HOHENZOLLERNS?
(The National Review, London)
Nothing has been more remarkable since the advent of power of the Nazis than the way in which the ruling families of Germany have kept out of the limelight. The Hohenzollerns disappeared from view after November, 1918, when the Emperor William ingloriously bolted into Holland. The Nazi revolution in 1933 found them encouraging that movement. They welcomed it and have served it. A long family history of kingship seems to bestow a sort of sixth sense upon its members—that of self-preservation. This was never better illustrated than by the way in which the Hohenzollerns have allowed the Nazi flood to roll over them. They have given it lip service; there has been no rupture from them of revolt against either the religious or any other persecution. They are waiting, watching. Sometimes there is a panic. On February 3, when Herr Hitler was striking right and left, the ex-Crown Prince William bolted across the frontier, forgetting even his passport. This was explained away. It is the one mistake the Hohenzollerns have made since the rise of Hitlerism. They have now gone back to their attitude of waiting and watching, with the air of people who are certain that in the end—after the next military disaster, perhaps—things will come their way.

HAVE A SMILE

"Are there any fleas in the room I am going to occupy?"
"Not yet, sir!"

"Hello, dear; I hear you're engaged."
"Yes, we're engaged, but I took my time about accepting him."
"Indeed, waited until he actually proposed, didn't you?"

"How did Cornstossel lay the foundation of his fortune?"
"He didn't lay it. He organized an egg monopoly. The hens laid it."

"Who's the man that keeps circling the lighthouse in that motorboat?"
"Just an actor trying to keep in the spotlight."

"How in the world do you make up your jokes?"
"I sit down and laugh, then think backwards."

USELESS IMPEDIMENTS OF MONTREAL

(L'Illustration, Montreal)

All the elected administrators of Montreal, the whole council, the Executive Committee and the Mayor comprise in reality nothing more than a social body having the status of a minor under the tutelage of a superior authority. If they are all elected by Montreal taxpayers to whom they are clearly responsible they are, from the point of view of their administrative acts, nothing but wards subject to being censured and forbidden to act, at the pleasure of a Legislature the great majority of whose members have nothing but an indirect and far-off interest in the business of the metropolis in which they are neither taxpayers nor electors.

It follows in reality that it is not those who are taxed who run their own affairs, but people who do not contribute one cent to Montreal's treasury and have no municipal mandate. We believe that the autonomy of Montreal is nothing more than a gigantic illusion, in fact as in principle.

That being so, why embarrass ourselves with a council which deliberates, studies, argues and comes to decisions, all quite uselessly? Why not replace it by one or several managers who would be responsible to the Legislature? In the present situation, there is a whole crowd of useless people.

METHODS EMPLOYED BY COMMUNISTS

(Le Devoir, Montreal)

In the United States Communistic propaganda employs these new methods. For the time being it ignores the Whites to devote itself to the Negroes. These latter are in the position of pariahs, but they are all the time increasing in numbers. From the Southern States, where slavery had isolated them, they emigrated to the North, where they have become a political factor, and entered commercial and industrial life.

The distance that separates Blacks and Whites in the United States is well known. The children of the former plantation slaves are denied equality with the Whites. It is, consequently, not surprising that Communism invokes the principles of absolute equality of the races to attract the Negroes. By means of these tactics it hopes to form a "Black Front" against the White bourgeois. It publishes two Negro papers, "The Race" and "The Negro Worker," under pretext of defending the cause of the Negroes, are but tools in the hands of the Communists.

DEFINITION OF CANADA'S FOREIGN POLICY

(L'Evenement, Quebec)

Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King has announced that he will make an explicit statement on Canada's foreign policy shortly after the Easter holidays. The Canadian people have been awaiting this for a long time, and are looking forward expectantly to the Prime Minister's statement.

The declaration of the state chief-tain will do a great deal to clarify the atmosphere; it will definitely show Canada's position in relation to current conditions.

NATURE'S CATHEDRAL.

Silver birches, tall and slender,
Form the portals of thy wall;
Leaves of golden, brown and yellow,
Lay as carpet in thy hall.

Autumn fragrance, scent of birches,
Fumes of incense in the air,
Choir of blue-jays in the branches
Chant the early morning prayer.

Blue expanse, the only ceiling,
Domes and turrets, fleecy white,
Float about while ever changing
In the sun's pure holy light.

Pan-like music of the organ,
Rippling waters of a stream
Blended with the notes of chirpers
Into one harmonious dream.

Beauty's holiness had gripped me,
On the leaves I knelt in prayer,
The linnet sang just one note higher,
I truly felt His presence there.

THE TEXTILE REPORT

(St. Catharines Standard)

Disraeli once said that a royal commission was a device to find out something that everybody knew before. We are reminded of this by the report of the Turgenev Royal Commission on the textile industry.

More than two years ago the Dominion Textile Company closed its Sherbrooke rayon plant suddenly, throwing many out of employment. Came a great clamor that the textile people had acted arbitrarily, without regard for the community, whereupon a Royal Commission to investigate the textile industry was announced.

Now, after two years of investigation, involving the expenditure of scores of thousands of dollars, we have the Royal Commission's report—180,000 words of it.

What does the report say? It—1—Remarks that "in normal hours of labor the textile industry lags behind those of other industrial countries, is on a par with India, China and Japan."

2—Urges employers to "give the same right of association which they themselves enjoy."

3—Emphasizes the responsibility of an industry which enjoys tariff protection.

4—Says there should be a statutory provision making it clear to shareholders of concerns enjoying tariff protection that in the matter of employment the interests of the community should be considered as well as those of the shareholders.

5—Condemns the building up of secret reserves.

Not a word in this is new. Not a thought. Everything the report says has been said a thousand times. More than twenty years ago we listened to debates in Parliament which said the same things.

The Ottawa Journal scores the plan of holding expensive commissions without results showing and proceeds to ask:

And what is this Royal Commission report going to mean—in action? The Journal ventures to say that it is going to mean nothing, that not a stroke of a single official pen will result from it, nor a law, nor a regulation, nor an ounce of betterment. All we have got, and all we will get, is just another report; another blue-book which nobody will read, which will be thrown among the dusty heaps of other blue-books, children of royal commissions that have preceded this one.

The Journal would like to think that some day the people of Canada will rise in revolt over this business of royal commissions. Under all governments, the habit of royal commissions has grown, until today it would take another royal commission to discover all the other royal commissions.

Let anybody start a hullabaloo about something, let him get a lot of articulate people to shout with him, and almost as sure as fate the government comes along with its inevitable royal commission. There was the case of our penitentiaries. Two years ago a certain number of sentimentalists began criticizing our prisons. Day after day they kept the thing up, so in time there came a Royal Commission on Penitentiaries. At a cost of scores of thousands of dollars it has been travelling all over the country and even to Europe, finding out about penitentiaries. Taxpayers, the "patient oxen" of our time, have been footing the bill.

Truly democracy does stand up under terrific punishment.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Nation Builders

 In the lobby of the Hotel Adolphus, in Dallas, Texas, is one of the most significant paintings that I have ever viewed. Time and again I have stood before it for long periods, studying and pondering over it.

The name of this painting, which is a very large one, is "Les Emigrants," and it was done by a Belgian painter named Edouard Farasyn. It was for some time a popular attraction in the St. Louis Art Museum, and at one time, many years ago, it was sent by its owner, Mr. August A. Busch, on an extended exhibition tour and was viewed by thousands of people.

The painting shows a great ocean liner named The Pennland, just landed in America. Great numbers of emigrants have just landed in the new country. Old men and women, young people, and children, are seen. In the eyes of all there seems to be pictured hope, wonder, rapture over being in a new land of which they have probably dreamed all their lives. Upon every face play emotions of an infinite variety, the artist himself, and many of his friends being depicted upon the canvas.

Children are looking around as though in a daze. A weeping woman is shown, supported by a kindly hand. A bearded man is dicker with a woman vendor over the purchase of an apple, from the basket which she carries. A look of confusion, though of peace and satisfaction, stands out upon dozens of the faces of these newcomers to a land which is to become their home.

Emigrants! Rather, did I think, as I stood and looked at that remarkable painting, are those people the ones who build a nation—cultivate its lands, work in its factories, and help to make its laws, as well as to protect them against invasion by those who respect neither our freedom nor our liberty.

In this Western land, we are all descendants of those who forsook the old for the new—who dreamed dreams—many of which have come true. There will never be a perfect government, nor an ideal nation—but those who seek its preservation, as their highest hope of happiness, are the builders for a free and happy posterity.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Friends of Mrs. W. Ledger, McManamy street, will regret to hear that she is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. A. A. McHarg, of Lemesurier, Que., announces the engagement of her only daughter, Eunice Hunter, to Mr. James Richardson Burt, B.A., B.D., of Montreal, son of the late Mr. R. Burt and Mrs. Burt, of Edinburgh, Scotland. The marriage will take place in the near future.

Mrs. Edgar Kellett and Mrs. Roland Larabee were hostesses at the tea hour yesterday afternoon following the regular meeting of the Women's Association in Plymouth Church Hall. Mrs. J. C. Mead was in charge of the brief business session, during which arrangements were completed for the Y.W.C.A. benefit tea next week. Tea was served by Mrs. F. A. C. Dossie, the table being charmingly done with daffodils and pussy-willows in a blue crystal bowl and yellow candles in blue crystal holders. Assisting were Miss Jean Larabee and Miss Carol Jameson.

A distinguished visitor is coming to Sherbrooke early in May in the person of Miss Dorothy Heneker, who will be a guest of Mrs. Andrea Paton Robinson, "Rockmount," during her stay. Miss Heneker is visiting Sherbrooke, her father's former home, through the initiative of the Business and Professional Women's Club, and will be guest-speaker under its auspices on May 2nd. Final plans for Miss Heneker's reception and entertainment will be decided at a special meeting of the club called by Miss Ida Nourse, the president, to make arrangements for the coming event.

Members of the Blue Bird Club were pleasantly entertained last evening by Mrs. A. McNab at her home on Wellington street south. Cards were played at three tables, the prize being won by Mrs. B. Tinker, while special guest-prizes were presented Mrs. Lowry and Mrs. J. Wilson. At the conclusion of the game the hostess served refreshments, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Lowry. The members will be entertained for their next meeting by Mrs. O. Nelson, Island street.

Members of the Evening Branch of St. Peter's Women's Auxiliary were pleasantly entertained for last evening's meeting by Miss Edith Smith at her home on Belvidere street south. Mrs. M. L. McFadden presided and after the disposition of routine business six dollars was voted to the Canadian Hospital in Honan, China, in answer to a special appeal sent out by the W.A. Miss Susie Davidson and Miss Edith Smith were appointed delegates to attend the annual W.A. meeting in Quebec next month. After devoting the evening to sewing for missionary purposes, the members enjoyed a pleasant social hour during which the hostess served dainty refreshments.

One of the most successful bridge parties of Easter week was given yesterday afternoon by the Sherbrooke Chapter No. 22 of the Order of the Eastern Star in the Masonic Temple. Mrs. E. E. Messinger, worthy matron, received, assisted by Mrs. E. Frost, and Mrs. E. A. Tomkins acted as treasurer. Under the convenship of Mrs. Spencer LeHury, assisted by Mrs. C. A. Turner, Mrs. F. Patton and Mrs. E. Frost, bridge was played at twenty-eight tables, a pretty prize being awarded at each of the conclusion of the game. Mrs. Frank Milne convoked the tea, assisted by Mrs. Wilbur Fuller, Mrs. Angus Morrison, Mrs. W. Marchant, Mrs. K. MacRae, Mrs. P. Buckland and Mrs. Earle Peabody.

The lovely tea table was an outstanding feature in the beautifully decorated hall which formed a most attractive setting for the delightful party. Mrs. Z. W. Griffith and Mrs. A. L. Parker did the honors, and on the handsome lace cloth which covered the tea table daffodils in a crystal bowl and matching yellow candles in crystal holders were effectively arranged. An additional attraction was the door prize, which was won by Mrs. J. Peabody.

Mrs. H. E. Macfarlane is returning tonight from Montreal, where she spent the Easter holidays with Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Macfarlane.

Mrs. L. W. Cook and Miss Margaret Cook, High street, have returned from Attleboro, Mass., where they were the guests for Easter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook.

Mrs. Henry Hopkinson and Mrs. F. Symons have returned to their home on King street, after spending the Easter holidays in Nashua, N.H., the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Martin.

Miss K. Harvey, of Montreal, is spending the Easter holidays visiting her sisters, Reid Jenne, Lennoxville, and Mrs. S. Lothrop, and Mr. Lothrop, Esplanade avenue. Later Miss Harvey, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Harvey, will go on to Sutton to visit another sister, Mrs. E. Oliver, and Mr. Oliver.

Members of the Busy Bee Christmas Club were pleasantly entertained at the tea hour yesterday afternoon by Mrs. R. Hamel, Monument Nationale. A pleasing interlude occurred when Mrs. Harold Sunbury, on behalf of the Club, presented Mrs. Hamel, who is leaving shortly for Victoria, B.C., with a ring, and voiced the best wishes of all the members to Mr. and Mrs. Hamel and their daughter, Miss Joyce, for success and happiness in their new home. Tea and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, who greatly appreciated the lovely gift and the kind thoughts which prompted her friends to thus express their esteem prior to her departure from Sherbrooke.

Society is on the qui vive today, eagerly anticipating the Charity Ball at the Masonic Temple this evening. The beautiful decorations are now completed, the "stars" for the floor show have had their final rehearsal and everything is ready and awaiting the large number of guests who have signified their intention of patronizing this popular annual event for the benefit of the Sherbrooke Hospital. Additional subscribers include: Lt.-Col. and Mrs. L. Chevalier, Dr. and Mrs. R. Gaudet, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bryant, Mrs. G. T. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Dr. and Mrs. L. Featuring Miss Estelle Amaron, Y.W.C.A. secretary from Rangoun, Burma, who is home on furlough, a guest speaker, an exceptionally interesting meeting was held at the MacKinnon Memorial last evening. Miss Amaron, who was introduced by Mrs. M. J. MacKinnon, general secretary of the Y.W.C.A., drew a realistic picture of conditions in India today and traced the progress and development of the Y.W.C.A. during the twelve years she has spent in that far distant country.

Rangoun, a city of half a million population, Miss Amaron described as modern and in most respects typical of a city in the western world. The speaker in describing her work in Burma told of the animosity existing between the Burmese, Anglo-Indian and Indian girls, but Miss Amaron felt that through their fellowship at work and in play in the Y.W.C.A., this bitterness was gradually disappearing.

At the close of her most interesting talk Miss Amaron exhibited several of the beautiful and picturesque costumes worn by the Burmese women and girls. In October Miss Amaron expects to sail from Vancouver, B.C., for Colombo, Ceylon, where she will assume her new duties as general secretary of the Colombo Y.W.C.A.

IN THE WOMEN'S SPHERE

ANIMATION IS NEW TREND
IN FASHIONS

If you are interested in fashion trends, then you have long since discovered that the trend is toward animation in clothes. See any style show, whether it parades Paris successes or the American fashions which are constantly growing in professional appreciation, and you are carried along with the impressions of movement in everything. Coats swing out dramatically; dresses are buoyant here and there as though animated by a spring breeze; sportswear has that easy-to-play-in character; evening fashions flutter with the frills and furbelows of the past; millinery is an excuse for delight and laughter anywhere.

And with all this extravagant expression of life and beauty, fashions are not only lovely to look at but easy to wear; not for everyone, of course, because there never could be, although there are adaptations which are possible even for the impossible, if you get what I mean.

There are those who believe that there is no place for laughter or for the amusing in fashions. Perhaps they are right. Certainly, there is no place for the ridiculous or for caricature, and it's easy to step over the line into either.

Speaking of trends—here is a summary of the important ones noted in Paris at the moment.

Daytime trends include the bolero, the bloused jacket, the apron treatment for afternoon dresses, the feminine or knuckle length jacket for suits, the lingerie blouse. A word might be added about this last, in case the world lingerie conveys an idea of fluffy jabots, lace frills and ruffles, because the smart lingerie blouses this spring are rather primly tailored and could be described as soft shirtwaists. Lawn or organdie, for instance, may be pleated in a plastron, or tucked to suggest a shoulder yoke, or used in broad pink and white bands joined by seams, but the neck finish is usually a little band around the base of the throat with only a small bow for finish.

ALLURE FOR THE NIGHT

No matter how tailored or simple you prefer daytime and street costumes, evening wear is definitely feminine. Most important right now is the revival of the old-fashioned gown with the fitted strapless bodice, leaving the shoulders quite bare. Completely charming is the flowered taffeta with a wide, eared skirt, slim pointed corset waist and frilled bodice, the bosom accented by narrow bands of rolled velvet.

Cream cheese mixed with chopped chives or chopped watercress, on thin slices of rye bread, makes a delicious sandwich.

When lighting a birthday cake, always light the candles in the middle first, and those on the outside last.

When washing kitchen curtains, add a little starch and they will stay clean longer.

When tea is allowed to steep for more than five minutes, it develops an unpleasant flavor and is harmful to health.

Use left-over chicken, meat or fish in a creamed or scalloped dish in combination with rice.

SEWING WAS SO HARD ON HANDS

I met a very interesting woman when I visited the sewing circle to give a brief talk on Hinds Honey and Almond Cream. She was a whirlwind of energy. President of the Circle, officer in several societies, and mother of three charming little girls for whom she made endless dresses, "Oh," she said, when I was introduced to her, "I can probably tell you a lot more about Hinds Honey and Almond Cream than you can tell me." And she did.

She always loved sewing, she told me, except for one thing. She found the work so hard on her hands... until she discovered Hinds Honey and Almond Cream. She found, as you will find, that the creamy richness of Hinds worked wonders. In spite of the fact that she keeps on doing the work of two women her hands are simply lovely... thanks to the beneficial Vitamin D in Hinds and the quick acting, rich, soothing ingredients.

You can purchase Hinds Honey and Almond Cream at any toilet goods counter. Attractively packaged. Convenient sizes. Economical to use. Buy a bottle today. Make your hands lovely too.

SHOULDERS CARRY BURDEN OF BEAUTY
FILL HOLLOWS BEFORE SUMMER

Unless shoulders, back and arms are smooth and firm, throat unlined and lovely, and hands soft, smooth and perfectly groomed, bathing suits and frothy summer dance dresses won't be one hundred per cent. flattering. Now is the time to plan special routines that will improve your appearance from head to foot long before the first date for a beach party or a dance on a hotel roof.

If the skin on your back and shoulders isn't as clear and smooth as you would like to have it, start using a bath brush regularly. Its flexible bristles will slough off particles of dry skin, stimulate circulation and thereby discourage blemishes. Get a body lotion (if you prefer, use hand lotion), and pat it on after each bath.

If your shoulders are too thin and there are exaggerated hollows above and below collar bones, do a few exercises to develop muscle and flesh in the scrawny spots. All of the tried and true routines in which arms are lowered and raised, forced backward and brought forward, making shoulder muscles really work, are excellent. Of course, you can make up your mind to gain five or six pounds (some of it is bound to settle around collar bones) but this may mean that reducing exercises for hips and thighs will be in order.

Elbows ought to be brushed vigorously at least once a day. And if you want them to be as smooth and white as your arms, rub hand lotion into them frequently. Use a bit of night cream on them now and then.

The average woman would be pretty shocked if you told her that she wasn't always meticulously clean. Yet it is true that a great percentage of the hands one sees have that "grimy schoolboy" look—grayish knuckles, hard callouses near tips, nails a trifle untidy.

A nail brush is a must. So is a hand lotion. Use the former twice a day, the latter as often as possible. Callouses should be rubbed with a piece of pumice—never cut with clippers or scissors.

Your weekly manicure, whether you have it done by a professional or tend to it yourself, ought to be so gentle. Clean nails with an orange stick and file them with an emery board. Don't let the manicurist scrape a nail with a metal instrument and never, never let her cut the cuticle. Snippers should be used only to remove ragged ends. Once you have acquired a coat of suntan, try a rich dusty rose lacquer. The dusty rose shades will be smarter than the rust and orangish tones of last summer.

Divorce Laws Aid
"Alimony Diggers"

Divorce has become a little too pleasant for women. They get through it without losing much of anything but their husbands. Whereas once upon a time they lost "face" and their places in society.

"It won't be so bad," the woman who is tempted to call her marriage quits, now tells herself. And in one way she is right.

The world doesn't blame her for the marriage failure because it is considered gentlemanly for a man to let his wife get a divorce charging him with any "sin" or any number of "sins" her lawyer thinks advisable.

So she gets to play the not-too-unbecoming role of outraged wife, the blameless woman who has been imposed upon.

Then comes the matter of support. He is almost certain to get alimony, and even that isn't begrudged her by the world. Though it may come to be by the man who has to pay and pay for a dead part of his life.

And as for being a divorcee—any "old maid" realizes that that is the most exciting state for a woman without a husband.

We can't turn back the clock to the time when a divorce was whispered about by the "good" women of the community. And if we could, we wouldn't. There are enough new interferences without digging up old ones.

But we could laugh out of existence the "chivalry" that makes a man shoulder the blame for a broken marriage whether it is his or not.

And we could, and this is more important, stop having husbands pay alimony to women who are capable of supporting themselves.

It's the natural thing for a woman who is fed up with marriage to get a divorce, as long as she loses nothing but the man.

But if the world is going to see her as a wife who is at least partly responsible for failure, and if she knows her support walks out the door with her husband—that woman is going to think a long time before she says "I won't."

As it is, divorce is a smooth road. And smooth roads are always crowded.

Lambing Time Provides Harvest For Shepherd

Special Feeding and Housing of Pregnant Ewes Pays Large Dividends in Young Lamb Crop to Progressive Sheep Raiser—High-Legume Hay and Succulent Feeds Do Much to Improve Quality of Additions to Flock.

Lambing time is the shepherd's harvest. It is also the time requiring the most exacting care. Everything must be in readiness for the coming of the new crop. Three or four weeks before lambing the pregnant ewe should receive better feeds in order to insure a good flow of milk for the young lambs. Alfalfa, red clover and other legumes make the best hay for breeding ewes; they are almost essential at lambing time. If they are not available, mixed hay which contains a fair amount of legume should be fed. Succulent feeds such as turnips or corn silage make a welcome addition to the ration, but not more than one pound a day should be given as larger amounts are known to produce big, soft, flabby lambs which generally die soon after birth. At this time the feeding of grain is essential. The amount necessary will vary according to the size and condition of the ewe. Half to three-quarters of a pound per day of a grain mixture made up of two parts oats and one part bran is generally sufficient. If mixed or non-legume hays are fed, the addition of half a part of oil meal will prove beneficial.

As lambing time approaches and the ewes become heavy in lamb, they will require more pen and feeding space. The ewes which are expected to lamb early should be separated from the main flock. This is easily done if the ram was marked at breeding time and records kept. The warmest and most comfortable pen, one receiving plenty of sunshine and free from draughts should be selected. The floor should be dry, level and well bedded with clean straw. This lambing pen should be so equipped that individual pens can be easily made. For this purpose, light, two-sided, folding hurdles four feet to the side and three feet high are very useful. By starting in the warmest corner and placing the hurdle at right angles, a complete pen is constructed with each hurdle. In this way the ewe is kept quiet and is less likely to disown her lambs. There is no danger of one lamb going astray and getting trampled on by other sheep and special attention can be given to the ewe without disturbing the whole flock.

Two or three days before lambing light feed, such as succulents and bran, should be given in order to keep the bowels in condition. With heavy milkers it will help to prevent milk fever. In order to prevent wool ball and unnecessary soiling and infection, loose wool and dung locks should be clipped from around the udder and rear parts of the body. Let the ewe stand on her feet and handle her gently so as to avoid any possibility of causing abortion. A sure sign of approaching delivery is when the ewe is beginning to make her udder or when she remains away from the flock. It is at this time that the flock should be visited often both during the day and the night. Always be quiet, however, and do not disturb the ewes.

Proper Soil Drainage Regulates Crop Yield

Excess of Surface Moisture on Farm Lands Tends to Prevent Growing Plants from Receiving Needed Air—By Draining Alone Can Proper Regulation of Surface Moisture Be Assured at All Times of Year.

When a handful of soil is examined, it is found to consist of a great many small particles of various materials. Even though these particles are packed as closely as possible, they cannot form one solid mass. There are always air spaces between the soil particles and these air spaces make up about half of the total volume of a soil. It is through these air spaces that air and water circulate through the soil.

When rain falls on the land, part of it soaks into the soil; the rest runs off the surface into depressions and dead furrows left by the plow, then finds its way into the ditches and is led to the rivers. During periods of persistent rainfall the air spaces in the soil become filled with water until the land can hold no more water within it. Then, if the land is flat, the water will stand in pools on the surface. Well-placed dead furrows in plowing and cross ditches to connect low spots with the dead furrows will remove surface water, but these measures cannot remove the water of saturation or free water from within the soil.

Soil scientists usually divide soil water into three kinds: Gravitational or free water, capillary water and hygroscopic water. Gravitational water is the water which is free to follow the pull of gravity; it moves downward in the soil so long as the pore spaces in the subsoil are not filled. When it reaches the level up to which the subsoil is saturated, it seeks a common level called the "water table." While the gravitational water is important as the reservoir from which the soil and plants draw the necessary capillary water, it must not be forgotten that gravitational water is injurious to plants whenever there is so much of it in the soil that it fills the pore spaces in that part of the soil inhabited by plant roots. In fact, a saturated condition of the top soil and upper subsoil layer during the growing season is regarded as poisonous to plants. It is well known that the roots of farm crops cannot develop in saturated soil.

Capillary water is the health-giving water in crop growth. It is so important that it is often the limiting factor in the control of crop yields on farms. It is the water which keeps the soil just moist enough for quick growth. Capillary water is that water which is held in the soil against the pull of gravity; it is, in fact, lifted from the water table by capillary pull to supply the water evaporated from the surface of plants. It is brought up in the soil in the same way as the kerosene in a lamp is carried to the flame by the lamp Wick. A healthy soil condition would therefore be described as one in which there is no lack of capillary moisture but in which there is no free or gravitational water in the pore-space. The only land in which this condition exists the year round is land with good drainage. Hygroscopic or good underdrainage in the form of a thin film of condensed vapour surrounding each soil particle, incapable of movement and unavailable to plants.

The following are some of the indications of the need of improved drainage in farm lands:

- 1.—Pools on the surface in wet weather, as on lands with no natural slope.
- 2.—Baking and cracking of the surface where land is heavy.
- 3.—Stunted grain crops, in company with red top, sorrel, and mare's tail.
- 4.—Heaving of fence posts, grasses and clovers in spring.
- 5.—Dark, moist spots or streaks and springy places on slopes or hill-sides, denoting seepage from higher ground.
- 6.—A high water table as shown by the level to which water will rise when a hole is dug in the ground.

2-12-6. Timothy requires more nitrogen than clover. This may be supplied in the form of sulphate of ammonia at one hundred pounds per acre, or a mixed fertilizer, such as 4-12-6, at about four hundred pounds per acre in the spring. The essential point to remember is that barnyard manure is always low in phosphorus and if not carefully handled, much of the potash and nitrogen is lost. This loss must be made up if soil fertility is to be maintained.

Between Canadian and New Zealand cheese, keen competition exists in British Guiana. Following the unorthodox example of a leading importer who cut up 80 to 100 pounds New Zealand cheese into sizes as small as 3 pounds for distribution to the smaller retail shops, two cheese vendors of Canadian cheese have adopted this method. In 1927 Canada supplied British Guiana with 139,885 pounds of cheese. New Zealand sent 85,885 pounds; the United Kingdom, 17,854 pounds, and foreign countries 47,486 pounds.

For seed, feed, and fertilizer analyses in Canada, Dominion seed laboratories are located at Saskatoon, Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Calgary, and Vancouver. Micro-analysis is made of ground feeding stuffs to determine the constituents, and harmful weed seed content. Feeding stuffs, fertilizers, and agricultural poisons receive chemical analyses. The official analysis is used as evidence to protect Canadian farmers against fraudulent practices in the trade.

HEAVIER PIGS RESULT FROM CREEP FEEDING

Greater Uniformity Within Litter, Lessened Mortality and Less Drain on System of Sow Also Follow Creep Feeding.

Compilation of litter data at the Dominion Experimental Station, Rosthern, Sask., revealed that creep feeding the suckling pigs gave heavier pigs at weaning, greater uniformity within the litter, lessened mortality and less drain on the system of the sow. Moreover, acquaintance with feed prior to weaning resulted in no setback in gains and the total feed consumed by the sow was less. Creep feeding is looked upon with much favor by farmers who consider hogs one of their main enterprises, as it eliminates sudden changes in feeding practices and ration and results in more constant and consistent daily gains in weight. The average weight per pig in numerous litters having access to the creep was 36.4 pounds, many pigs averaging forty-five pounds and one entire litter of seven averaging fifty pounds, while in the case of the litters having no access to creep feeding during the suckling period, the average weight per individual was only 24.2 pounds; a difference of over twelve pounds in favor of the creep-fed suckling pig. The weaning date was fifty-six days in all comparisons made.

Since a critical stage of a pig's life is from weaning to ninety days, the gains made in weight during this period more or less regulate the subsequent rate of gain of the litter. The importance of having the young suckling pig well acquainted and accustomed to skim-milk and meal prior to weaning is therefore apparent. Findings indicate that the heavier pig at weaning is not so subject to scouring and digestive troubles. In large litters the young pigs started to take milk and meal at two to three weeks, whereas litters of four to six pigs hesitate to take feed in the creep for the first four or five weeks. The meal ration fed in the creep should be low in fibre content, the following being used with very good success at this station: 100 pounds sifted, or hulls oat chop, 50 pounds middlings, 50 pounds shorts, 2 pounds fine bone-meal. Care should be taken to see that the feeding utensils and troughs are kept sanitary and clean for suckling pigs.

From 1929 to 1936, Canadians ate 106,000 tons of peanuts. The amount of peanuts imported in 1936 was 15,000 tons; in 1935 practically a similar amount, and 17,000 tons in 1934. Also known as ground nuts and earth nuts, peanuts are used for human food, for feeding live stock, and as an oilseed, yielding oil for culinary and industrial purposes, and oilcake for stockfeed, and fertilizers. The bulk of peanuts in world trade is made into oil. Canada imports a small amount of peanut oil for soapmaking and canning fish. India and China are the chief peanut growing countries.

Canada in 1937 was the chief market for woolen tissues exported from Great Britain, importing 17,700,000 square yards, as compared with 15,300,000 square yards in 1936. Second place was taken by Argentina. In imports of wool "tops" from Great Britain in 1937, the chief market was Germany. Elze (Irish Free State) was second, and Canada third.

QUALITY NECESSARY FOR ALSIKE SEED

Owing to abnormal climatic conditions, alsike seed production declined sharply in Ontario in 1937, exports falling off badly this season as a result. Only about 200,000 pounds were exported. Most of it went to the United States but a few shipments were consigned to the United Kingdom and other countries. This is a different showing as compared with a few years ago when annual exports amounted to 8 to 12 million pounds.

A much larger crop, however, is expected for 1938 as the alsike has wintered well generally and there is a much larger acreage in Ontario than for some years.

Alsike is one of the dependable export seeds grown in Canada. European countries and the United States want the seed but it must be satisfactory in quality. Canadian growers should not overlook the fact that quality is the deciding factor and means the difference between soft and hard seed in growing the crop say officials of the Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture. By quality is meant freedom from weed seeds and good colour. The former may be attained by sowing No. 1 alsike on clean fields and by hand pulling and spudding the weeds before the crop is harvested. Good colour is extremely important also, and this results largely by harvesting at the right time and permitting as little weathering as possible.

In the spring, before growth really starts, is the best time to spud out the catch-flies and campions, the bane of alsike in many localities. Their broad leaves show up well on the relatively bare fields in early spring before growth starts. The growing of more and better alsike seed should be profitable to those who will take the trouble to produce clean bright seed.

FERTILIZERS FOR HAY AND GRAIN ARE DISCUSSED

H. R. Parnell, of the Lennoxville Experimental Farm, Points Out that in Many Districts of Southern Quebec Regular Use of Commercial Fertilizers Is Not General.

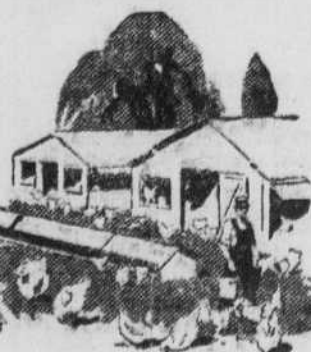

Commenting on commercial fertilizers for hay and grain, H. R. Parnell, of the Lennoxville Experimental Farm, points out that in many districts of Southern Quebec, the regular use of commercial fertilizers is not general. A small quantity is usually purchased to use on roots, potatoes or corn, but only in relatively few cases is any fertilizer applied to the grain and hay crops. The purchase of fertilizer is still not considered by the majority of farmers as a necessary annual investment. The result of this may be seen in almost every section of the Province in run-out farms with their low crop yields and unproductive pastures. Pastures, grain and hay constitute the most important crops in this Province. In view of this it seems evident that every means should be taken to assure good yields.

That good results can be obtained from the use of commercial fertilizers for hay and grain has been clearly demonstrated by work done at the Dominion experimental station, Lennoxville. These crops have been grown continuously for fourteen years on land that has never received anything but commercial fertilizers.

The oat crop of this district was extremely poor in 1937. Notwithstanding a poor season, the oats in this experiment yielded nearly fifty bushels per acre where a fairly liberal amount of a complete fertilizer was used. This may be compared with about forty-one bushels per acre for oats grown with manure only. Good yields of clover and timothy have also been obtained, running up to over two tons per acre, which is considerably above the average production of this district. From results of this experiment, it has been found very essential to use a complete fertilizer if no manure is to be used. On the light soil on which this experiment is conducted a lack of potash has been found to retard ripening of grain and causes severe break of the straw that harvesting is difficult.

While it is not advocated that commercial fertilizers be used exclusively when farm manure is available, this experiment shows what may be done with commercial fertilizers. A system should be followed in which commercial fertilizer is used to increase the fertilizing value of manure and replace the plant nutrients that are removed by crops. The recommended amount for grain and hay is about five hundred pounds per acre of a 2-12-6 mixture without manure for heavy land, and the same amount of 2-12-10 for light soil. With manure these rates could be reduced by about twenty-five per cent. Barley will generally respond better to 2-12-10 than to

DOMINION AGRICULTURAL PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Cattle Judging Power Aids Farming Success

Farmer Desirous of Maintaining Uniformity in His Herd Should Have Practical Knowledge of Livestock Judging and Breed Type—Cow to Be Profitable Producer Must Have Health, Soundness, Dairy Temperament and Strong Organs.

Nearly all farmers have some interest in live stock and the man who is desirous of maintaining uniformity in his herd should have a practical knowledge of live stock judging and breed type. It is often true that a good producing cow may not be very pleasing from a type standpoint, yet it is also a fact that production and true dairy type are a combination that should be sought after and maintained in farm herds. This will not only increase the owner's interest in the herd, but will be a distinct advantage when individuals are offered for sale. Being able to select animals that will be economical producers and also conform to the desired breed type will be a decided asset to the stock farmer.

Four major points should be kept in mind in judging dairy cattle. First, the summary system, which is the udder, the milk veins and the milk wells; these together rate from thirty to thirty-five points out of a total of 100. When in full milk a good udder will be large, extending well forward and far up behind and firmly attached to the body. Its quarters should be even with very little separation between them and the bottom nearly level. When milked out the udder should be much reduced in size, pliable and the skin loose and soft. Always look out for defects, such as lumps in the udder, which are an indication of mastitis. The size and shape of the teats is very important from the standpoint of disease and of convenience in milking. Mammary veins and milk wells should be well distributed and pronounced in the mature cow.

The second point is dairy temperament. This is a quality that indicates ability to convert food into milk. Cows of the dairy breeds should lack a beefy appearance, the bones being fairly prominent and not heavily fleshed. Size of udder is also considered. Extreme thinness because of lack of feed, or fleshing before calving, should not be confused with dairy temperament.

The third point to consider is body capacity and size. All other things being equal the larger cow is preferred and all breeds have a standard of weight. As it takes feed to produce milk, the cow must have capacity for feed, this will mean a well-sprung rear rib, a fairly long and deep body, good heart and lung capacity and deep broad chest.

The fourth point to consider is health and vigor. This should be apparent in all breeding animals; to stand the strain of bearing young and producing a profitable milk yield the animal must have a good constitution.

The summary of these points is, that the cow to be a profitable producer must have health, vigor, soundness, superior dairy temperament, large capacity for food, good heart, lungs and circulatory system.

HEALTHY STOCK ESSENTIAL FOR BERRY GROWER

Use of Certified Raspberry Bushes Best Means of Preventing Spread of Disease Through Plantation.

The ultimate life and productivity of any raspberry plantation is closely related to the prevalence of mosaic and leaf curl diseases. This is particularly true in the case of the more susceptible varieties which cannot be maintained on a profitable basis where these diseases become general. Whether or not they become prevalent depends largely on the amount of disease present in the newly set plantation.

It is from diseased bushes that subsequent spread throughout a planting occurs, and experience indicates that where these diseases are present in the young planting they may increase to two or three times the amount before the planting comes to full bearing. This is to be expected since the manner of spread is through insect (aphids) transmission as they migrate from diseased to healthy plants. The rapidity of spread, of course, will be determined by the number of diseased plants present and the aphid population and their activity. Aphids are nearly always present, but are of importance only if virus diseases are also present. It is evident, then, that the control of these troubles depends either on eliminating the disseminating agents (aphids) by spraying, or the sources of infection by planting only healthy canes.

Experiments show that the former is costly and not practical, while the latter is simple and gives excellent results. Healthy planting stock is the first requirement and this can only be obtained by rigid selection of growing canes, or using certified raspberry stock. It is questionable if a grower can make use of an older fruiting planting for selecting planting stock since mosaic is likely to be prevalent and sometimes difficult to detect. Consequently, he is very apt to introduce disease into the new planting. It was for this reason that a system of certification of raspberry planting stock was started by the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology at St. Catharines, Ont. In order that the best stock be provided, regulations governing its production require that canes for certification must be grown in special propagating beds in which all fruiting wood is removed. This facilitates inspection work and gives a better rooted cane for transplanting. Such certified canes have been available for a number of years and this type of stock has been very successful in checking the incidence of virus diseases. The use of such stock is an assurance to the grower that he is carrying out the first essential in the control of the major raspberry diseases. This practice will always pay in longer-lived plantings, greater production and more satisfaction.

All poisons used in agriculture in Canada, as insecticides, fungicides, weed killers, rat and gopher poisons, and sheep dips, must be registered with the Seed Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, and every package of the poisons offered for sale in Canada must show on the label the name and address of the manufacturer, the registration number, the word "Poison" if harmful to human or animal life, the antidote for the poison, the guaranteed analysis of the contents, and the net quantity by weight or volume.

and a well-developed mammary system. If pure-breeds are under consideration a knowledge of breed type is needed. Although the points for a good cow hold true in all breeds, breed type must be kept in mind when judging a pure-bred or a grade of a particular breed. Good type and high production must be combined.

Repair Of Machinery Important Farm Task

Farmers Should Repair Mechanical Equipment So that No Delay May Be Experienced When Spring Seeding Operations Commence—Speed of Seed Drills Should Be Checked.

Agriculture has become a very highly mechanized industry and much depends upon having the farm machinery in good working order when it is needed. Especially is this true of seeding and harvesting machinery, for delays in performing these operations are extremely costly. Experiments conducted at the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, show a decrease of from one to two bushels of barley per acre for each day that seeding is delayed beyond the earliest possible date. Similar trends, although not quite so marked, have been indicated by experiments conducted with oats and wheat.

From one season to the next, one is apt to forget that certain repairs and adjustments are required by certain machines and these matters are often overlooked until forcibly brought to one's attention at an inconvenient and costly time. Especially is this true where several operators use the same machines.

Dealing especially with machinery for spring work, the essential points are that such cultural machines as cultivators, disks and harrows should have their teeth or blades properly shaped and well sharpened. It is well to remember that cultivators and disks have a much lighter draught when their cutting edges are shaped, sharpened and adjusted properly, also they penetrate better into hard soil and thus prepare a better seed bed.

Seed drills should be checked for rate of seeding. This can be done by jacking up the machine, filling the seed box with seed, setting the indicator at the desired rate of seeding, engaging the gears and revolving the land wheel the same number of turns that it would make in sowing an acre. The amount of seed discharged through the spouts, which has been gathered on a canvas previously spread under the machine, is then measured and checked with the amount for which the indicator was set. If an error is found, it must be corrected by adjusting the regulating mechanism which is controlled by the indicator. Several trials at different rates of seeding should be made.

It should be remembered that drills are made to sow by measured volume and not by weight, as there are often wide variations in weight per bushel. For instance, thirty-four pounds oats occupy the volume of the standard bushel, which is the standard used in calibrating seed drills. Often oats run from twenty per cent to thirty per cent overweight per measured bushel, which necessitates allowing for this variation when seed is weighed out to be sown by the drill which measures by volume. Other seeds are similarly affected but not to such a marked degree, as the percentage variation in weight per measured bushel of oats is greater than with other common seeds.

ACCOUNT BOOK IS IMPORTANT FACT BUILDER

Properly Kept and Analyzed, Account Book Gives Farmer Valuable Information as to Unprofitable Sections of Enterprise.

Modern farming is a business and to be successful should be conducted in a business-like manner. Farming has developed to the stage where it is a commercial enterprise in which the character of the management largely determines income and profit. It involves the production and sale of commodities as well as the use of capital and the purchase of supplies and labor the same as most other kinds of business.

Present conditions in farming emphasize the importance to the farmer of having a record of his business transactions as well as a permanent record of other details of his farm enterprise to which he can readily refer. The problem of the farmer is to meet conditions in such a way that his farm will give him the most satisfactory net returns, year in and year out, for the use of his investment, his labor and his managerial ability. Many farmers realize that some change or adjustment in their combination of enterprises or methods of management might increase their farm income. They may be unable, however, to determine what changes to make owing to a lack of records on which to base any changes in enterprises or methods. A farm account book, properly kept and analyzed, is the fact finder for the farmer. An account book points out the weak spots in the farm business and points out the holes through which the profits have leaked.

A farm account book may be procured from the King's Printer, Ottawa, at a nominal price.

WINTER KILLED PASTURE NEEDS SPEEDY CROPS

Oats Thickly Planted Provide Valuable Fodder Crops Where Meadows Have Been Badly Damaged by Winter Frosts.

It frequently happens in Eastern Canada that hay pasture crops are injured by climatic conditions which prevail during the winter and spring. It may be intermittent freezing and thawing, and heaving of the soil, which breaks the plant roots. Lack of snow covering may result in insufficient protection from low temperatures, or ice may form a covering which smothers the plants. Whatever the cause, the farmer is faced with the problem of reseeded his meadows in order to provide pasture for summer feed and hay for winter forage. What is the most suitable procedure?

It has been found by the Field Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, that if some plants have survived and the killing has only thinned the stand, it may be quite satisfactory to scatter seed of the proper mixture over the area and cover it with a smoothing harrow. Such a practice does not injure the surviving plants and the new seedling will later grow and thicken the stand.

In most cases of severe killing, however, all of the plants in low spots or depressions may be injured, or perhaps an entire field may be affected. Where this occurs, it is more satisfactory to disc or cultivate the area thoroughly and reseed with a seed drill. In order to provide hay for the current year it is necessary to use a species which will produce a crop the year in which it is seeded. A very suitable crop for this purpose is oats seeded at 2½ or 3 bushels per acre. A very good quality of hay may be obtained if the oats are cut when in the milk stage and harvested like any other hay crop. If hay is desired on the area the following year a mixture composed of eight pounds of red clover, two

EASTER SEASON WAS OBSERVED AT SCOTSTOWN

Holy Week and Easter Day
Marked by Holding of Special Services by All Congregations at Scotstown.

Scotstown, April 22.—During Holy Week the usual daily services were held in St. Alban's Church, Maundy Thursday being specially marked by a celebration of Holy Communion as a commemoration of the institution of the Sacrament of the day before the Crucifixion. In the afternoon there was a children's service and in the evening many attended a solemn service of preparation for Easter Communion. On Good Friday the Three Hours Devotions were conducted by the priest-in-charge, Rev. S. Wood. For Easter Day the church was tastefully decorated with lilies, tulips and other spring flowers. There were two celebrations of Holy Communion, the second being choral. At Evensong, St. Alban's "They Have Taken Away My Lord" was sung by the choir, the solo being beautifully rendered by Mrs. Searth.

On Easter Sunday, special music in St. Paul's Church was an anthem by the choir, "He Arose." In the evening, the choir rendered the anthem "I Will Pass Over You." The church was adorned with potted plants and spring flowers. Very impressive services appropriate to Easter were conducted on Sunday last at St. Andrew's United Church by Rev. C. J. Gustafson. The church was nicely decorated with a profusion of Easter lilies, spring flowers and pussy-willows. A mixed choir assisted in the singing and the new United Church Hymnaries recently purchased were used for the first time. The preacher chose for his Scripture lesson St. John 20 verses 1 to 18 and for his text Matthew 28 verse 20 which reads "Lo I am with you always" from which he preached an inspiring Easter sermon. The special music consisted of a solo "Christ is Risen This Happy Day" by S. J. Scott and a quartette "Willing to Bear the Cross" was sung by Messrs. A. A. MacKenzie, S. J. Scott, Tony Helgesen and W. W. Bowman. Seven new members joined with the church and previous to the Communion service a reception service for the new members was conducted by the pastor and the senior elder, Mr. John Macdonald, extended the right hand of fellowship. In the evening the choir rendered an anthem "I Am He that Liveth" and a solo "Memory" was sung by Mr. A. A. MacKenzie.

The theme for the afternoon was "The Church and the World-wide Kingdom."

Smith reviewed a chapter of the Study Book dealing with the different religious sects who first came into Canada and the subsequent union. She also gave an account of work of the travelling missionaries and the difficulties encountered by the student missionaries in the work of the prairies. The secretary was intrusted to write a letter to Miss K. Hockin, of West China, extending greetings from the Society and welcoming her as a prayer partner. Mrs. George Kinsey assisted the hostess at the tea hour.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH GROUP MEET

An interesting meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was held with Mrs. McLellan, at the Manse.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Malcolm Nicholson conducted the meeting. The devotional period was in charge of Rev. A. D. McLellan, who read the Scripture lesson from Luke 24: 1-30 followed by prayer.

Instead of the usual study period, Rev. A. D. McLellan gave a very interesting essay on the life of John Knox, which was much enjoyed by all present. A short business followed. Canvassers were appointed to collect for the "Chinese Relief Fund."

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. D. A. McIver, after which lunch was served by Mrs. McLellan and a social hour enjoyed.

JUDGE: Very well, then. Your crime may not have been deliberate, but it was one of serious neglect. You admit that though you do not get enough time for adequate open-air exercise you have never troubled to take steps to prevent constipation. Your complexion inevitably suffered.

COUNSEL FOR THE DEFENCE: My lord, I protest that there are other causes.

JUDGE: I said that constipation inevitably causes bad complexions; your client admits to the cause and plainly suffers from the effect.

PRISONER: It isn't my fault, my lord. I couldn't help it.

JUDGE: You could help it and you shall help it. This is the first time a charge has been made against you; let it be a lesson to you that young women may not neglect and spoil the good looks that Nature gave them. Your duty to your parents, to your friends, to your future husband is to make the most you possibly can of yourself.

(Here the prisoner covered her face with her handkerchief and was handed a glass of water.)

JUDGE: (continuing): You will be placed on probation for 3 months and I order that you drink one cup of coffee or tea, or a glass of water at breakfast every morning—

PRISONER: But I always do!

JUDGE: (sternly): Don't interrupt! One cup of coffee or tea or a glass of water every morning into which you shall put as much Kruschen Salts as will lie on a 10c piece. You will get rid of constipation and when you do you will never find yourself in your present predicament again.

After consultation with counsel, the judge announced that costs to the extent of less than 1c a day should be borne by the defence. "I believe I am right in saying," said his lordship, "that a 75c bottle of Kruschen contains 95 doses. That is much less than 1c a day."

relieve constipation and rheumatism

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get in some way, to keep the blood pure, the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day; hence the importance of the "little daily dose". Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

Chronic Fatigue Tells of exhausted Nerves

In health, rest soon overcomes fatigue. When you become chronically tired there is an underlying cause. Perhaps you cannot rest or sleep because of the irritability of the nerves. Memory and power of attention soon weaken when the nervous system is exhausted. It is difficult to concentrate the mind and the daily task becomes a worry and a burden. Indigestion and sleeplessness ruin your temper, and you become depressed and discouraged.

Whatever may have been the cause there is a way in which to regain health and that is by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. New Nerve Food is created to restore the functions to the bodily machinery and ensure the healthful working of the mental and physical organs.

SPECIAL MUSIC WAS PRESENTED AT KNOWLTON

Impressive Easter Day Services Held in Knowlton United Church—Interesting Session Held by School Club.

Knowlton, April 22.—The impressive Easter morning service at the Knowlton United Church was marked by a number of special choral numbers, the feature being the anthem, "Low In A Grave He Lay," with Mrs. L. Ball and Mrs. E. Mizener taking the duet parts. Other special numbers comprised a quartette, "My Jesus, I Love Thee," by Mrs. E. D. Mitchell, Mrs. A. L. Bullard, Mr. Gifford Mitchell and Mr. A. L. Bullard and a solo "Voice Triumphant" by Mr. Gifford Mitchell. Rev. E. D. Mitchell delivered the Easter address on the theme, "The Risen Lord."

In the evening, fifty beautifully colored slides were shown of the Passion Play at Oberammergau. The School Club held its regular meeting in the High School with a very good attendance. Supper was served by the hostesses, Miss Doris Beals and Miss Muriel Pearson, which was followed by a set of moving picture reels shown by Mr. Wesley Hoyt on "Life Aboard an Empress" and the "Forbidden City" (Peiping China). A short business session, then took place with the president, Miss Muriel Pearson, presiding. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Robert Porritt, and approved as read. A discussion took place on a suitable name for the Club and each member was asked to submit several names to the president before next meeting, when the most appropriate one will be chosen. The meeting then adjourned.

"DRAMATIZE YOUR IDEAS" SAYS DALE CARNEGIE

Author of the famous book:
"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

"This is the day of dramatization. Mere assertion of facts is no longer sufficient. The truth must be made vivid, dramatic, interesting.

"In other words, to put your ideas across today, you have to use showmanship if you expect to gain attention."

"Here is one instance of effective showmanship. A great newspaper learned that people were saying it carried too much advertising and too little news.

"So the paper published all news matter from one regular edition in book form. The book contained 307 pages."

"The distribution of that book dramatized the fact that the paper carried an enormous amount of interesting matter every day, and effectively squelched the rumours.

"We can all do this sort of thing, though perhaps not in such spectacular ways. So, if you want to gain attention quickly, remember, dramatize your ideas."

Have You Smoked a Turret Lately?

EVERY DAY—everywhere—countless Turret smokers unconsciously dramatize their preference for Turrets. They do so, not by talking about the smooth, satisfying smoke Turrets always give, but by smoking them and enthusiastically recommending them to their friends. Turrets, you know, are made from the finest Virginia tobaccos, in an original and unique blend. No other cigarette is quite the same. The handy calendar on the back of every package is a great convenience, too. If you haven't smoked a Turret lately, try a package today.

Congress commissioned Hopkinson to make such a design.

STOCK MARKET RALLYING LEAD HELD BY RAILS

Although Trading on Wall Street Was Quiet from Start, Gains Amounting to Point or So Were Recorded Near Second Hour.

New York, April 22.—(AP)—The rally in the stock market today was led by the railroads.

Although trading was quiet from the start, gains running to a point or so were well distributed near the second hour.

Prominent on the forward swing were Southern Pacific, Great Northern, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Eastman Kodak, Air Reduction, Douglas Aircraft, Sears Roebuck, U. S. Rubber, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Du Pont and Allied Chemical.

Market analysts, before opening found nothing particularly encouraging in trade news.

Those watching public spending for recovery clues noted the week-end survey of Dun & Bradstreet, which reported a sharp drop in retail sales from the pre-Easter expansion.

Other reviews, commenting on the inventory situation, said store officials now are confident goods on hand would be cut to low levels by June, with merchants in a position to make prompt purchases upon any substantial pickup in retail demand.

Trading slow at Montreal.

Montreal, April 22.—(AP)—Trading was slow at the opening of the Stock Exchange today and only a half dozen issues appeared in the first half hour.

Canadian Pacific, firm 1-4 at 6 3/4 and Canadian Car and Foundry advanced 1-8. There was a loss of 1-8 for Canadian Industrial Alcohol.

Lake of the Woods, Noranda Copper and McCol-Fontenac held unchanged from yesterday's close.

The Ontario Premier will visit Premier Duplessis at Quebec in the summer and will take a side trip to Sherbrooke, the Minister of Works revealed.

CONFEDERATION LIFE SHOWS UPWARD TREND

Toronto, April 22.—In the first three months of 1938 Confederation Life Association showed a gain of 23.1 per cent.

For Canada and an average increase of 17.6 per cent. throughout its world-wide organization.

"This increase is all the more remarkable in that it is made in comparison with the same period of 1937, an excellent year," said C. D. Devlin, General Superintendent of the company.

It shows, too, that business is better in Canada than in other parts of the world, for life insurance is usually a good barometer of general business conditions.

But more important, this gain should comfort those pessimists who say that we are in for another depression," he added.

Confederation Life branches in Ontario had an average increase of 36.3 per cent., Quebec showed 38.1 per cent., while Prince Edward Island, with 55 per cent. increase, led all provinces in Canada.

"Today, more than ever before, Canadians are insurance-minded. There is a great deal of interest in unemployment insurance, health insurance, mother's allowance, and other types of social welfare insurance—but in the light of rapid economic changes, the average man today sees in life insurance the greatest and most certain remedy of them all," explained Mr. Devlin.

after the war and before the Fascists grabbed control of the country. He stated that during the Great War, by a secret treaty signed in London, Italy was induced to enter the war on the side of the Allies by promises of a share in the spoils after the war. "When peace came Italy found that her claims were ignored. She got nothing out of the war. Then, during the post-war years, in the almost universal chaos of world trade and finance, the masses in Italy became downhearted and discontented, and readily followed a man who promised them world power and prosperity," said the speaker.

"Fascism," Mr. Dosssee declared, "is a form of dictatorship in which one person is elevated above all the rest. This is the leadership principle. This man becomes the object of all the endeavors of one's life and even one's worship. This man is the state itself. The dictator occupies a position and accepts an adoration which should only be reserved for the Deity. Everything is subordinated to the power of the state, as personified by this one man. Freedom of thought must die, and we find the universities no longer devoted to the search for truth. There the teachers teach what the dictator sees fit to allow, and no more. Similarly the churches are crushed out of existence, except insofar as they will yield to the dictates of the state. In Italy the church seems to have accommodated itself to Fascism. In Germany we see a struggle not yet over. Christianity says that it is the individual who is important, that a human being is of far more account than anything created by man, such as the political state.

"Lord Baldwin of Bewdley, speaking to the youth of the Empire last year, stated 'No state ever existed or ever will exist that is worthy of a free man's worship, and we must remember this point. Our democratic state itself is unworthy of blind worship.'

"In the Fascist state," Mr. Dosssee continued, "the religious fervor is diverted to the use of the man in power. It has been found necessary to replace religious symbols with political symbols. In Russia the people worship the embalmed corpse of Lenin. In Germany they revere their own Nazi heroes, such as Horst Wessel, and they read Hitler's book, 'Mein Kampf'."

"Hitler himself is a most remarkable man, perhaps the most consistent man in the world today. In his book he made several promises to the German people, and he has kept them. He tore up the Treaty of Versailles, he brought about the union of Germany and Austria, and the armed might of Germany was re-created. He dedicated himself to bettering the position of the working man and the re-establishment of Germany's position in world trade. These he has accomplished as well as other promises.

"There are rumors of the growth of Fascism in Canada today," continued Mr. Dosssee. "I do not know whether there is any foundation in fact for these stories, but I do know that there are conditions which will breed Fascism and which most people are content to ignore. These conditions exist in Canada and even in Sherbrooke, and it is up to the thinking people to decide whether to slough off this cloak of indifference or to let things slide, to awaken when it is too late.

"Democracy cannot survive war, as war, to be successful, must be waged by a government that is totalitarian. The pressure democracy we must work for peace, and to preserve democracy we must remove the conditions in our democratic states which make Fascism appear attractive to our people."

At the conclusion of his talk, Mr. Dosssee was thanked by Howard Sims, President Lyman Tonkins occupied the chair.

Renovated J. Gagne & Co. Store Opened Today

Electric Refrigerators, Electric Washing Machines and Complete Line of Modern Bathroom Fixtures Now Carried by King Street West Establishment in Addition to Its Former Lines.

The trend towards modern and artistic stores, featured by convenient lay-outs and pleasing, though not gaudy, decorative schemes, is becoming more and more noticeable in Sherbrooke, and the latest addition to the already imposing list of renovated premises is the store of J. Gagne and Company, Ltd., which was formally opened to the buying public this morning.

J. Gagne and Company is not a new establishment in the strict sense of the word — it is new insofar as alterations and decorations are concerned and with regard to several new lines which are now being carried. The premises at 156 King street west — opposite the Central School — have been occupied by a hardware store since about 1910 and known under the business name of J. Gagne and Company for many years, although members of the Gagne family are no longer connected with it.

The need for greater floor space, as a result of the steadily expanding business obliged the executive to carry out alterations, and while they were about this they authorized extensive renovations that place the store on a par with any other establishment in Sherbrooke as regards attractiveness. How the firm has grown is seen in the fact that six years ago only two clerks were employed while today the store has no less than eight employees.

Nova Boisvert, manager of the store, has been connected with the hardware business for the past twelve years, having entered that line of activity with Codere, Ltd. Six years ago he assumed charge of the King street west establishment.

The renovated store is now carrying electric refrigerators (Hostess), electric washing machines (Universal) and a complete line of modern bathroom fixtures, in addition to hardware, crockery, paints and varnishes, electric supplies, sporting goods, wall paper and construction supplies.

Officially opened this morning, this new store will prove a valuable asset to the commercial life of the city.

NOVA BOISVERT, manager for the last six years of J. Gagne & Co., Ltd., who have just completed enlarging and modernizing their big store on King street west. Mr. Boisvert is well known in the business life of Sherbrooke, and is particularly prominent in sports circles, being actively connected with hockey, baseball and other outdoor games.

The public is invited to "drop in" for a look around. They will find an interesting assortment of splendid merchandise and a staff possessing amiability and the eagerness to serve as outstanding characteristics.

ANNUAL EASTER W.M.A. SESSION HELD AT GRANBY

Address Delivered by Mrs. J. Ross, Korea Missionary—Much Activity in Granby and Surrounding District During Past Week.

Granby, April 22.—The annual Easter meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the United Church was held in the Church hall on Tuesday with a large number present.

The president, Mrs. J. G. Fuller, led the devotion. Mrs. R. N. Mitchell read the Easter story from St. Luke's gospel and Rev. Charles Huxtable offered prayer.

A delegation from Abbotsford United Church was present and Mrs. R. Gillespie, president of the Abbotsford Auxiliary, brought greetings. Mrs. B. B. Brown, from Wesley United Church, Westmount, was present and brought greetings from her Auxiliary. Miss Marguerite Dickenson sang, "The Holy City."

Mrs. J. Ross, a returned missionary from Korea, was the speaker of the evening and was introduced by Mrs. Thomas Scott.

Thirty years ago Mrs. Ross went to Korea as a bride and for many years was principal of the girls' school which was under control of the former Methodist Church. Last summer with her husband and four children she returned home for a year's furlough.

Mrs. Ross illustrated her lecture with colored lantern views which showed the beauties of the country and the wonderful educational and Christian work carried on by the Canadian churches there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross are leaving in August for the foreign field. Their children will remain to continue their education in college.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Ross for her splendid address.

Tea was served by Mrs. N. E. Clouston, Mrs. F. E. Horner, Mrs. A. E. Solomon and Mrs. E. W. Bradford.

Wesley), and the spiritual, "Deep River." He also gave "Going Home," and "The Lord Is My Shepherd," (Dvorak), both sung with great expression and feeling.

IMPRESSIVE EASTER MUSIC

Holy Week was marked in the United Church by a special service on Wednesday evening when Rev. W. Hamilton, of Abbotsford, was the speaker. On Thursday evening Rev. Merrill E. Wilson, of Waterloo, gave the address and on Good Friday, at the morning service, Rev. Dr. Lennon, of West Shefford, a former Granby pastor, gave an inspiring sermon on the scenes at Calvary.

The choir rendered "Come Unto Him," (from Maunders' Olivet to Calvary), Mr. Alfred Wade singing the solo part most effectively.

Mrs. A. M. Sandler's lovely voice was heard in a sympathetic rendering of "He Was Despised and Rejected of Men," from Handel's "Messiah."

The service on Easter Sunday was well attended. The church was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies and other potted plants, while the lovely basket of spring flowers was a memorial for the late Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace, a tribute from their children.

There was a reception of new members when twenty-five joined the church.

At the evening service the sacred cantata, "Penitence Pardon and Peace," by Maunders, was rendered by a large choir, the solos being taken by Miss Marguerite Dickenson and the Messrs. Herbert Buzzell and Donald Boyd.

The organist and choir-master, Mr. A. M. Sandler and the choir are to be congratulated on the Easter music rendered Sunday morning.

JUNIOR RED CROSS CONCERT ENJOYED

Miss Florence Findlay's class, Grade V, at the Granby High School, gave a most entertaining Junior Red Cross concert that was well attended by interested parents and friends as well as the pupils of the other grades and their teachers.

The programme opened with a Boys' Rhythm Band conducted by Ruth

Hobbs. This band was trained by Mrs. Harlow Bowker, who accompanied them at the piano. Muir Hayes, followed with a violin solo, and David McKenna rendered a solo on the traps and drums. Thirza Robinson gave a tap dance and Betty Williams and Ruth Hobbs a demonstration of physical exercises.

Two compositions were given, one written and read by Ruth Joliffe on "What Is the Junior Red Cross?" and another on "What Our Organization Has Done," written and read by Joyce Reith. Ruth Joliffe is the president of the Junior Red Cross, and Joyce Reith is the secretary.

A song, "I Don't Want to Play In Your Yard," was sung by four tiny tots of Grade II, prettily dressed in pink and blue with sun bonnets to match. This was followed by a composition on "The Life of Archdeacon Scott," written and read by Mae Holleywood. "The River," a poem by Archdeacon Scott, was recited by Thirza Robinson.

Mrs. Albert Coupland gave a humorous recitation, "The Inventor's Wife," this was followed by a patriotic drill entitled "How Our Flag Is Made," given by Grade V girls under Mrs. Coupland's direction. The girls then rendered their own interpretation of the song "Little Backaroo."

Two recitations, "The Snack In School" and "Ten Little Fingers and Ten Little Toes," were given by Miss Findlay. A drill was then given by the boys and girls in which each one held a white pennant with a red letter on it, and at the end of the drill these spelled out the words "Junior Red Cross."

The programme concluded by the Junior's singing the "Junior Red Cross Song," "Sing Along," and "Whistle While You Work," under the direction of Miss Alice Fuller, who was also the accompanist.

Miss Findlay is to be congratulated upon this splendid programme rendered in a most efficient manner by her Grade V pupils.

The audience was most appreciative, and a substantial amount was added to the treasury.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE-TO-BE

A pleasant event took place recently when a large number of friends gave a shower for Miss Adelena Hamel, bride-to-be.

Mrs. M. Choicoin was the hostess and the reception was held in the St. Jean Baptiste Hall which was gaily decorated in red, white and blue.

During the evening Miss Hamel was presented with a purse of money and received the congratulations and best wishes of her friends.

GRANDSTAND TO BE FINISHED BY MAY 15th

Baseball Field Must Be Ready For Opener

Plans Completed for New Ball Park When Quebec Visits Sherbrooke in Provincial Loop Inauguration Here—Heavy Rainfall Should Hasten Levelling of Playing Field.

On May 15th, Sherbrooke's 1938 Provincial Baseball League entry will tangle with Quebec on a completely renovated baseball diamond. The extensive plans for repair work have finally been completed and work will start immediately.

W. T. Hand, chief engineer for relief projects in the Montreal district, and Eugene Suprenant, who will be in charge of work on the ball park, were in Sherbrooke yesterday to make all necessary arrangements and have placed Paul Rousseau, local contractor, in charge of the project.

Mr. Rousseau informed the Record yesterday that between one hundred and one hundred and fifty of Sherbrooke's unemployed will be given work on the job.

Mr. Rousseau stated that the old main grandstand will be torn down immediately in order to have the new structure ready May 15th. As soon as the new grandstand is completed, the side bleachers will be torn down and the grandstand extended to run down the right and left field foul lines.

Mr. Rousseau would make no estimate of the cost of the grandstand work until the work has progressed sufficiently to allow an accurate statement of necessary expenditures.

The work of levelling the field cannot be started until the frost has gone out of the ground. Today's downpour should soften the upper surface of the soil and penetrate the sub-strata, and the work will probably commence Monday.

It is planned to level the grounds three hundred and ten feet into left field, four hundred feet into centre field, and three hundred and fifty feet into right field. The clump of elm trees in the outfield will be removed and the whole playing field drained.

A modern lighting system will be installed at an estimated cost of slightly over $11,000, and work on the lights is expected to start shortly.

Mr. Suprenant has returned to Montreal, but will return to Sherbrooke on Monday morning. The inspector plans to visit Sherbrooke two or three times a week to keep in touch with the repair work.

CORNWALL AND TRAIL HITTING HOMEWARD PATH

Smoke Eaters Carry Allan Cup Back to British Columbia—Flyers' Coach and Players Pay Tribute to Champions.

Calgary, April 22.—(P)—Canada's senior hockey season was ended today with Trail Smoke Eaters carrying the Allan Cup home and Cornwall Flyers returning to Eastern Canada after an unsuccessful bid for the Dominion title.

Both teams left by train last night from Calgary where the British Columbia champions finished the best-of-five series with a three to one victory Wednesday that gave them the championship by the same margin in games. Smoke Eaters won the first game six to four and the second eight to two. Cornwall took the third two to one.

With their name already engraved on the trophy, the fancy-passing machine from the Rocky Mountains took the cup back to British Columbia after a year's absence in possession of Subcity Tigers.

After a quick visit to Banff, Coach Don Peniston's Cornwall crew began their long trip home. "Why worry?" said Manager Clarence Markell, of Flyers, a fighting team which didn't get any breaks during the series against a great Trail outfit. "We put up a good fight, had a good trip and a good time."

Dick Proulx, Flyer forward whose ankle was injured in the third game, left hospital early enough yesterday to join his team-mates in the jaunt to Banff. He was the second Cornwall player to require hospital treatment, Harvey McLelland having gone to hospital at Saskatoon.

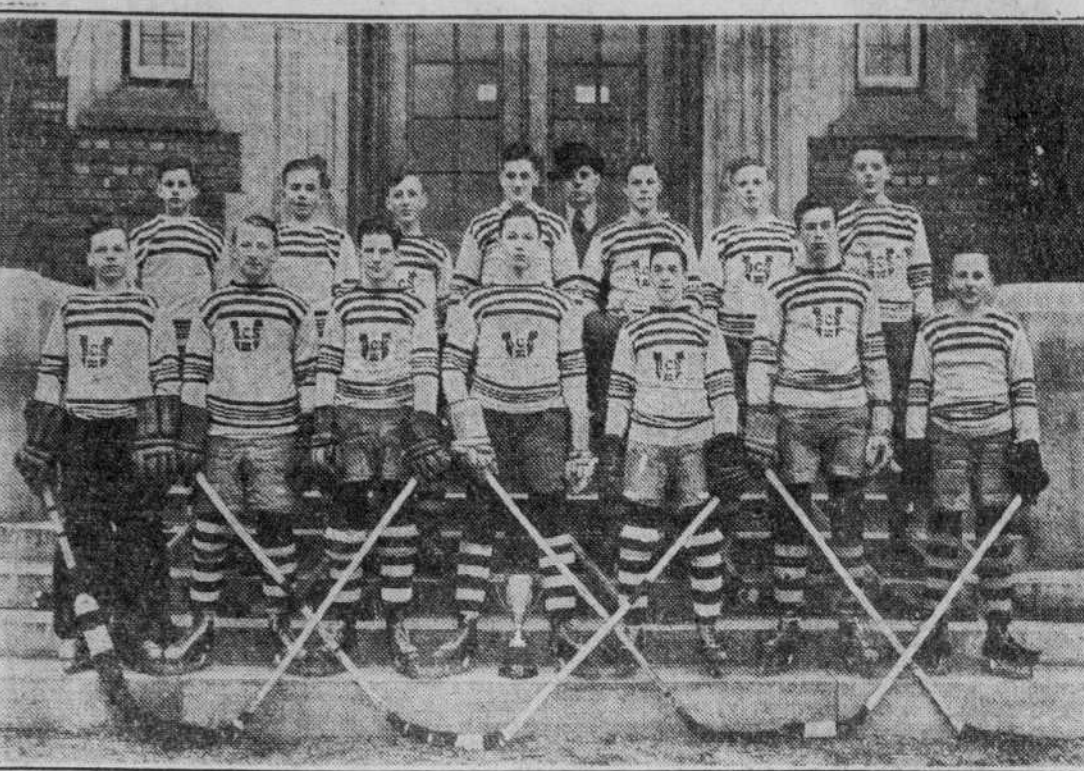

Ford Perras, Cornwall goaler and stand-out performer of the series, left ahead of the other players. It was reported his mother was ill at Porth Arthur. Ab MacDonald accompanied Perras. They will rejoin the team Sunday.

In a special article for a Calgary newspaper, Mervyn (Red) Dutton, manager of New York Americans of the National Hockey League, described Perras' team as "one of the smartest passing amateur teams I have ever seen."

"Trail had a nice balanced hockey club than Cornwall, with no real weakness apparent anywhere from the results out," Dutton said. "The Cornwall Flyers and their supporters should not feel badly about the team's showing for they lost to a very smart and well-coached outfit."

St. Louis Browns, who've been starving for pitchers for years, once had Forest Pressnell, Brooklyn rookie who shut out the Phillies yesterday.

SPORTING NOTES

HUGE GATE EXPECTED FOR ROSS-ARMSTRONG FIGHT

New York, April 22.—(P)—Mike Jacobs, the car of boxing, expects the Barney Ross-Henry Armstrong match May 26 to "do" $250,000 business, one of the biggest purses two little fellows have ever drawn.

The tubs are already beginning to thump for the battle. According to word from Jacobs' office $900,000 in reservations have been received. Under the scale of prices which Jacobs has fixed $16.50 for a ringside seat to $2.20 for a spot in the great out-of-doors, the match could draw $400,000 through the gates of Madison Square Garden's bowl.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Carl Hubbell, Giants: Opened 1938 campaign with eight-hit, three to two victory over Bees and struck out seven.

Forest Pressnell, Dodgers: Made Major League debut with nine-hit shut-out against Phillies, nine to nothing.

Al Todd, Pirates: His two hits, one a double, helped Pirates shade Cardinals six to five.

Paul Derringer, Reds: Limited Cubs to four hits as Cincinnati won first game of season six to two.

Johnny Marcum and Joe Vosmik, Red Sox: Marcum allowed thirteen hits but was tight in pinches and Vosmik's triple drove in winning run as Sox downed Yanks three to two.

Hank Greenberg, Tigers: Hit homer which helped Tigers down White Sox nine to three.

Lyn Lary, Indians: Doubled with bases loaded in eighth to give Tribe four to three win over Browns.

How about those Pittsburgh Pirates collecting forty-four hits for sixty-two bases in their first three games?

BIG LEAGUES' NEW PITCHERS HURLING WELL

Forest Pressnell, Brooklyn "Rookie," Blanked Phils Yesterday, Nine to Nil—Jittery Yanks Dropped Another Game to Red Sox.

It looks as though the Big Leagues have come up with a bumper crop of fine new pitchers. Four already have made their 1938 debut in the big time and their showing has been extraordinary, two of them pitching shut-outs and a third permitting only three hits.

Latest to hit the main show with a bang is Forest Pressnell, thirty-one-year-old Brooklyn addition, who blanked the Phils yesterday nine to nothing. He gave nine hits, but was invulnerable when it counted.

Arlie Donald, star of the Newark state last season, started his career as a New York Yankee by limiting Boston Red Sox to three hits until his wildness caused his removal in the seventh. The eight free passes he distributed enabled the Sox to make it three out of four from the champions by a score of three to two, but such absence of control was to be forgiven under the circumstances and detracted little from the youngster's great showing.

The pitching job that Jim Bagby, Jr., of the Red Sox did in his inaugural against the Yankees on the opening day already has been thoroughly told, nor was Dutch Leonard's feat of whitewashing the Athletics for the Washington Senators in his coming out two days ago overlooked. They complete a quartet of hot looking freshmen.

Donald, only one of the four to start with a loss, could charge it to the Yankees' continued failure to hit in the clutches. They touched Johnny Marcum for thirteen hits all told, but were pitiful with runners on base.

The day's other important news attached to old Carl Hubbell, himself. He exhibited his 1938 model screwball against Boston Bees and beat them three to two, and if all the Giants have to worry about is "King Carlos" they can ease up. The thirty-five-year-old ace struck out seven, one of them with the bases filled, and walked in with the winning run in the fifth.

There was a complete re-shuffle today, with eight new openings in eight cities. Biggest crowds were in prospect at Detroit, where the Tigers entertained Cleveland Indians, and at Yankee Stadium, where the erstwhile "Bombers" were hoping for better times against Washington.

The Tigers, generally picked to give the Yankees their hardest run in the American League, managed to salvage the final of their three-game series with Chicago White Sox nine to three. Elden Auker held the Sox to seven hits and Hank Greenberg bopped his second home run of the young campaign.

In the only other American League tilt, Cleveland Indians took the odd game of three from St. Louis Browns four to three. Lyn Lary doubled with the bases stacked in the eighth, giving a well-deserved victory to the veteran Earl Whitehill.

Pittsburgh Pirates continued their terrific hitting to beat St. Louis six to five and sweep the series. They socked Curt Davis, obtained by the Cards in the "Dizzy" Dean deal, for twelve hits in eight frames and then climbed on Guy Bush and Max Macon for two more in the ninth.

Paul Derringer held Chicago Cubs to four hits and Cincinnati Reds came through with their first victory six to two.

BANNER CROWDS AT OPENING OF INTERNATIONAL

Champion Newark Bears Shaded Buffalo on Blair's Homer, Montreal Bowled to Syracuse, Jersey City Nosed Out Toronto and Orioles Trimmed Rochester.

The optimism that comes in the spring to loyal baseball fans glowed at white heat today to four International League cities—Newark, Jersey City, Baltimore and Syracuse.

The league opened its fifty-fifth season yesterday with banner crowds in each of the cities and fans saw the local boys come through in each game. Jersey City shaded Toronto six to five in a ten-inning thriller watched by 32,652 fans, the largest crowd of minor league history; Newark, defending its championship, knocked off Buffalo five to three on Buddy Blair's homer; Syracuse coasted home to a three to one win over Montreal behind the giant Johnny Gee and Baltimore started knocking down the fences in an eleven to four triumph over Rochester.

The crowds totalled 66,450 for the four games.

The biggest crowd got the biggest thrill. Babe Herman, the amiable but eccentric outfielder, cracked out a double in the tenth with three on, two out and the count at three and two to beat the Maple Leafs for Jersey City. It ended a great ball game. The Leafs had taken the lead in the same inning with a two-run rally and the Giants were sunk until Herman hit one.

Frank Makosky teamed with Blair to beat the Bisons for the Bears. Blair hit his homer with Les Scarsella on base in the eighth but the Bisons came back and put two men on in the ninth with none out. The left-handed Makosky relieved Ernie Bonham and retired the next three men.

Syracuse fans got a thrill from Gee's hurling. He is a native who came to the International via the University of Michigan. The six foot, nine inch youngster pitched a well-paced game, allowing six hits to best the veteran Ben Cantwell of the Royals.

Manager Bucky Crouse set the pace for the Orioles with a three-run homer, Harry Matuzac hurled for the Orioles and breezed home behind the hitting which reached a climax in a seven-run seventh inning.

ROME, April 22.—(P)—Should Joe Louis fail to go through with his scheduled heavyweight title defence against Max Schmeling in June he

London, April 22.—(P Cable)—They turned 'em away at Empress Stadium last night but eight thousand five hundred fans saw Montreal Canadiens defeat Detroit Red Wings by five to four today were spreading the word that professional hockey is all it's cracked up to be.

Canadian amateurs playing in the English League have got to step some to retain their popularity as virtually every sports writer proclaimed the game far superior to anything ever seen in England. The like of Babe Siebert's heading rushes, Johnny Gagnon's masterly weaving, and Wilf Cude's stone-wallings sent the scribes hunting for a type of adjective not usually seen in the British press; hypnotic, miraculous, dazzling were bandied about at random.

Gagnon was bubbled elusive as an eel while Cude "produced" marvels of acrobatic dives to save stinging shots that defied anything ever conceived by the average supporters in England."

As a knockdown, drag-out professional battle it would have drawn prolonged boos from the Maple Leaf rush end. The boys wearily eyed the clock and occasionally climbed into the relief box of their own accord, while play notable lapsed between the spurts which stunned the English crowd.

But as a shot it produced everything—mild fighting, arguing, body checking, penalty shots, overtime, and even a five minute misconduct penalty to Hec Kilrea, who blandly protested his innocence, which is hardly cricket.

The nine-day voyage had not improved the end of the season condition of the players and they complained of the oppressive atmosphere and the sticky ice, but it is a cinch their trip will be a financial success even though The Times this morning does not mention the game and curtly explains to the Canadian Press: "The Times does not touch professional hockey."

CRICKET

BRADMAN BOWLED OUT BY BOOT BOY

London, April 22.—(P)—A boot boy bowled out the Empire's greatest cricketer—and astonished the English sports world.

Don Bradman, captain of the Australian team here for the test matches against England, was practising at Lords.

Paul Wilson Brooks, sixteen, a Lords boot boy, bowled to the Australian. Bradman missed a ball that caught his middle stump cleanly.

Said Brooks later, "I was flabbergasted but Mr. Bradman said nothing."
