World News In Brief

London, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Douglas Monro, 25-year-old British seaman, was jailed today pending a hearing Oct. 23 on a charge of breaking into Buckingham Palace.

A Scotland Yard inspector told a judge in the old Bow Street court that Monro was identified by two persons as the man they saw early yesterday with a dispatch box stolen from the Royal residence.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 14.—(AP)—A small but growing tropical storm, threatening to become the eighth hurricane of the season, churned today through the Atlantic about 550 miles southeast of Bermuda, with highest winds about 60 miles an hour.

Military reconnaissance aircraft winged out from Bermuda at dawn to probe the disturbance, born yesterday in a low-pressure area.

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Yugoslav sources yesterday said the government will abolish special food "benefits and supplies" which have been going chiefly to government and communist party workers to ease their living conditions. Under the new plan, this food will be diverted to the workers' market to help meet ration quotas which have been affected by the country's severe drought.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Russian Orthodox Church in America announced it is breaking all ties with Moscow and will henceforth function independently of Russia. Leaders of the church, meeting for the first time on their own initiative, named Metropolitan Bishop Joseph Krivosheev of Springfield as patriarch of the church in the United States.

San Vigilio, Italy, Oct. 14.—(Reuters)—Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, is in bed with a slight chill, it was learned yesterday at the hotel where he is vacationing here.

Paris, Oct. 14.—(Reuters)—France has the situation in Indo-China "well in hand," Jean Letourneau, minister for the associated states of Indo-China, said last night after a cabinet meeting. He told reporters that reinforcements in men and material will be sent to Indo-China within a few weeks.

Vancouver, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The News-Herald, in a dispatch from Fort Lewis, Wash., today quotes a senior Canadian officer as saying 300 officers and men of the special brigade will leave "in a few days" for an island base in mid-Pacific.

Truman And MacArthur To Meet Today On Wake Island

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Honolulu, Oct. 14.—(AP)—President Truman today for the first time met face-to-face with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme American commander in the Far East.

MacArthur already had arrived at Wake from Tokyo. The United Nations commander's plane landed on the little mid-Pacific atoll last night.

Truman and the General will meet for a brief but historic conference.

The site is a pinpoint of coral that a battalion of U.S. Marine and 1,000 civilian workmen defended for 16 days in the second world war before its capture by the Japanese.

The Presidential party will arrive at Wake about 6:30 a.m. Sunday, Wake, time, (2:30 p.m. EST Saturday) after a hop of 2,300 miles.

In Truman's party are Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff; army secretary Frank Pace; ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup; W. Averell Harriman, special Presidential assistant for foreign affairs; Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for the Far East; and Charles S. Murphy, the President's principal speech writer.

With MacArthur are two advisers: The U.S. ambassador to Korea, John J. Muccio; and Brig. Gen. Courtney Whitney, head of

U. K. Faces Newsprint Rationing

London, Oct. 14.—(Reuters)—Britain's meagre newspapers learned today they must end their circulation war because of dwindling newsprint supplies.

From Oct. 22 they will return to the wartime system of tonnage rationing, it was announced by the Newsprint Supply Company.

At present newspapers are limited on the number of pages they print, but there is no circulation limit, and some papers sell in millions. Tonnage rationing means each paper will have a certain allocation to cover a four-week period.

Stocks today are as low as in the war's worst period, the Newsprint Supply Company announced. It added that in terms of weekly consumption more papers are larger now than in wartime—stocks are at their lowest point ever. These could not be further reduced without serious risk of a breakdown in supply and distribution.

Consequently, said the supply company, a distribution body sponsored by leading British newspaper organizations—the wartime rationing system would be back in effect Oct. 22 for at least six months.

The current ration permits most daily papers to turn out six-page editions. During the war and for some time afterwards they could produce only four-page papers. The newspaper company added that "the acute world shortage of newsprint make it impossible at present to increase supplies" and that it would be many months before British publishers could again expect adequate deliveries.

It said that after the government's cancellation of newspaper supplies from Canadian mills earlier this year, Canadian suppliers could not quickly resume deliveries. It added that British newspaper mills export a much larger proportion of production than before the war, and imports from Scandinavia are already back to pre-war level and cannot be increased.

Singapore, Mayala, Oct. 14.—(Reuters)—Four British service men, wounded in a jungle encounter with guerrillas in central Java state, were brought to safety and medical care yesterday by a helicopter which made four trips to pick them up one at a time.

Marseille, France, Oct. 14.—(AP)—A military court sentenced five French communists to jail yesterday for from one year to 15 months for sabotaging war material. The communist party had called a general strike in this port city in protest against the trial, but city officials said it fizzled.

MacArthur's government section for the Japanese occupation.

It will be the first face-to-face meeting of the President and the supreme American commander in the Far East. They will confer both before and after luncheon, and will depart after issuing a communiqué.

Pausing yesterday at Hickam field here, Truman said: "I am not one of those who thinks that another war is inevitable. I am just as sure as I stand here that the people behind the Iron Curtain are just as anxious for peace as I am."

"I am just as sure as I stand here that if the truth be gotten to these people there would be peace in the world, and we are going to get the truth to those people, and we won't have to do it with guns, I am sure."

Truman at the same time gave an idea of how he proposes to use the MacArthur conference as the basis for important foreign-policy talks in San Francisco Tuesday night and before the U.N. General Assembly in New York Oct. 24.

He said that at San Francisco he will "tell the world what our policy is as it affects the world and world peace."

And before the U.N. he will "try to drive the matter home in such a way that we may begin to arrive at a situation where we can have world peace and not world war. That is my sole ambition."

War Enters Closing Phases — MacArthur Leaves For Rendezvous At Wake Island With President Truman.

Tokyo, Oct. 14.—(AP)—United Nations troops seized Kumchon today in a roaring battle on the southeastern approaches to Pyongyang, the Korean communist capital. It rammed a steel lid over an estimated 20,000 trapped Reds.

On both the east and west coasts of central Korea's narrow waist, allied carrier planes raked fast-disappearing Red targets.

But there was no further word on the big task group led by the U. S. battleship Missouri which smashed supply lines from Soviet Siberia on Korea's east coast Thursday and Friday. The bombardment fleet was made up of 37 Canadian, British, U. S. and Australian warships.

Except for the U. S. 1st Cavalry division's capture of Kumchon—the steel cork on communists bottled up southwest of Pyongyang—there was a drought in reports of ground action.

But there seemed no question that the Korean war was in its final phases. Gen. MacArthur flew from this Japanese capital to his rendezvous with President Truman at Wake Island.

The President and U. N. commander are expected to discuss implementation of the U. N. directive for a unified, independent Korea and the problems of containing communism in the rest of Asia.

Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay of the 1st Cavalry announced the capture of Kumchon, a communications centre 11 miles north of parallel 38. One of the Cavalry spearheads smashed eight miles north of Kumchon to Hanpo, 65 miles from the Red capital.

"The trap is closed," said Gay. "They will not get out any tanks, guns or vehicles."

At Hanpo, the Americans were astride the Reds' main escape route to the north. But Gay conceded that some enemy soldiers might slip out of the trap.

It didn't seem likely that too many would get out. The South Korean 1st division was driving northward on the American right flank and was 4½ miles northeast of Kumchon at the time of the capture.

A captured Red lieutenant said the North Koreans were trying to fall back on Namchonjin, 13 air miles northwest of Kumchon. Heading that way was another 1st Cavalry division spearhead, on the left flank of the troops who captured Hanpo.

The cavalrymen were supported by British and Australian troops. MacArthur's spokesman said that although Kumchon is in allied hands, some fighting was raging today south and southwest of the city. Counter-attacks by communists in regimental strength were rolled back.

The push toward Pyongyang from the Kumchon-Hanpo area north of liberated Seoul was at the west end of the spotty 130-mile front slanting northeastward across the peninsula.

At the east end, South Korean columns headed north from captured Wonsan toward the big chemical centre of Hamhung and west toward Pyongyang.

The main force, supported by carrier-based planes, was more than three miles north of Wonsan, 50 air miles south of Hamhung. This is on the east coastal road heavily hammered by the Missouri task force headed by the Missouri. Possibly two of Canada's three destroyers in Korean waters—Athabaskan, Cayuga and Sioux—were in the task fleet.

Tanchon, 80 miles northeast of Hamhung, was the southern end of a 130-mile sea front battered by the allied warships. The northern end of that front was near Soviet Siberia and Red China's Manchurian border.

A United Nations naval summary said the warships struck "with typhoon-like fury in one of the navy's biggest field days of the war."

An estimated 3,000 Red guerrillas swooped down on the east coast port of Samchok. The latest report from South Korean army sources, about 24 hours old, said street fighting was in progress.

Six miles south of Inchon, allied troops repulsed an attack by some 800 ton-supported Reds. A third attack, on a smaller scale, was reported thrown back near Kaesong, just south of parallel 38 and north of Seoul.

For the second time in a month, the Reds pulled a one-plane aerial raid. The Red raider dropped bombs on the edge of Kimpo airfield, northwest of Seoul, and continued westward to Inchon harbor where it bombed but missed the U.S.S. Comstock.

Ontario Men Win Trips For Plowing

Alliston, Ont., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Herb Jarvis of Agincourt and Hugh Leslie of Georgetown are mentally packing their bags for expense-paid, six-week tours of the United Kingdom.

The 27-year-old Jarvis, and Leslie, 28, won the trips yesterday when they topped the fields in open classes of horse and tractor plowing on the final day of the 37th international plowing match.

The two defeated Ontario county champions and plowmen from other provinces to earn the trips.

Eight plowboys, all under 20, are just as happy about free trips through the United States and to the 1950 Chicago livestock exposition. Winners and runners-up in two-man intercounty competition, both horses and tractors, they showed themselves the best in competition both yesterday and Wednesday.

The Chicago tours for tractor plowing went to winners H. Baird and D. Dunkel of Ontario county, and runners-up H. Hare and Earl Bacher, representing Haldimand county.

Although the weather was wet until the final day of competition, the sponsors, the Ontario Plowmen's Association, were pleased. Rain dampened the sandy soil sufficiently to give top plowing conditions, and it never rained hard enough during the day to postpone competition.

The static exhibits of farm machinery and equipment, and demonstrations and competitions in fire-fighting, farm welding and horse-shoeing, also helped attract the estimated 100,000 spectators who attended the four-day matches.

The facilities of Alliston and district were stretched to the full by the influx of visitors from all over Canada, from the United States, Britain and South America.

Competition wound up last night with the presentation of prizes at a banquet at nearby Repton. Guest speaker was Premier Frost, who forecast great agricultural development in Ontario as an outcome of current discussions concerning increased co-operation among federal, provincial and municipal governments in the fields of conservation and agriculture.

Gander, Nfld., Oct. 14.—(AP)—An American Airlines flag ship Scotland landed here early today with two star-board engines dead and 44 passengers wearing life jackets. The pilot, Capt. Robert Lindsey, said there was no panic aboard when the engines quit four hours before reaching Gander.

London, Oct. 14.—(Reuters)—British matches will be smaller soon because of the dollar shortage. The big British match firm of Bryant and May said yesterday the light will be one-eighth of an inch shorter and somewhat thinner. The firm can't get dollars to buy enough Canadian timber.

Chinese Famine Was One Of Worst In Modern Times

By FRED HAMPSON
Hong Kong, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Last winter's famine in China proves that the Chinese communists can keep a secret.

Nobody knows its toll. But enough information has leaked through the bamboo curtain to show:

1. It was one of the worst if not the worst such disaster in modern Chinese history.

2. More than 50,000,000 people were affected, and, through malnutrition, will continue to be affected.

3. Crops of at least 20,000,000 acres were wiped out.

Not even a rough estimate of the death toll has come from inside Red China. All that has leaked out is an occasional admission that a few hundred had succumbed in this or that town or county, or that refugees had died by the road trying to reach greener fields.

The total death score, if anyone knows it, has been slipped into the pigeonhole of things the Reds want to forget.

The famine followed the march of the communist armies into China. It started in 1949 in the northeast provinces and parts of Manchuria after a drought which ruined thousands of acres of grain crops.

Herefords' Breeding May Be Costly To Flood Fund

Winnipeg, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The number 13 may spell $5,000 worth of bad luck to the Manitoba relief fund.

Thirteen is an important figure to the United States Hereford Association. The association has a ruling that only United Kingdom Herefords with trace-backs to volume 13 of the United Kingdom herd book are acceptable for registration in the U. S. as pure-bred foundation stock.

The Canadian Hereford Association falls in line with its U. S. counterpart because Canadian cattle sales depend heavily on American buyers. And so a Hereford without the back-to-13 pedigree doesn't rate in Canada either.

And where does the Manitoba relief fund come in?

Earlier this year the government of Britain bought up 68 head of the finest cattle in the United Kingdom. They were given to the flood fund as a British gift to compensate the fund, through resale, for some of its expense in rehabilitating Red River valley's flood-stricken farmers.

The cattle are to be sold—all except five Herefords—at Brandon, Man., Oct. 21 in a sale of pure-bred foundation stock.

Two of the Herefords failed reaction tests for bang's disease on arrival in the Dominion, and the three other heifers—one the winning Hereford of this year's Royal Agricultural Society show of pure bred at Oxford, England—ran afoul of old No. 13.

Experts value the three animals between $4,000 and $5,000. They say the animals are perfect in other respects, but their trace-backs go only to volume 14 and 15—one and two books short. The United Kingdom Hereford Association currently is entering registrations in Vol. 60.

A United Kingdom representative said the volume 13 qualification is much too high and it is "absurd" that three such perfect animals should be barred from sale.

One cattle man suggested the heifers be donated to the University of Manitoba to be held in trust. It was understood that representatives from Hereford associations at the next international Hereford association meeting will try to persuade the United States group to revise upward their Vol. 13 ruling.

France Will Get Help From U.S.

Washington, Oct. 14.—(AP)—France was assured today of substantial American aid in building up its military strength, but may have to settle for much less than it requested.

Moreover, American officials are reported to want a part of any help given France to go to native troops fighting beside the French against communist forces in Indo-China.

Defence Minister Jules Moch of France yesterday laid before top American officials a plan for tripling France's armed force in Europe over the next three years, coupling it with a plea for $3,170,000,000 in military assistance by the end of 1951.

The reaction of State Secretary Dean Acheson, Defence Secretary George Marshall and Treasury Secretary John Snyder was reported to be that the French were asking too much.

U.K. Troops Take Part In Korean Raids

Tokyo, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Two British commando raids on North Korea's east coast only 65 air miles from the Siberian border were disclosed today.

Vice-Admiral C. T. Joy, commander of naval forces in the Far East, said Royal Marines destroyed two bridges and a tunnel in lightning hit-and-run raids Oct. 7 and 8.

The Marines went ashore in rubber boats from two U.S. destroyers. Their faces were weirdly painted. They were heavily armed.

On the night of Oct. 7, the commandos landed at Kyongsong, just south of Chongjin, the big industrial centre bombed this week by 37 warships.

The operation at Kyongsong was the nearest to the Siberian border. Twenty-three hours later they struck 100 miles to the south near the city of Songjin.

Working on a carefully-rehearsed schedule, one group quickly severed all communications and power lines. The commandos subdued a group of civilians without firing a shot.

Other commandos carried 40,000 pounds of explosives to the tunnel. They planted it on the seaward wall. More charges were placed on telegraph poles.

At a signal, the fuses were set and pulled. As the commandos withdrew from the beach, the charge exploded. Flames rose more than 100 feet.

The next night the commandos went ashore four miles south of Songjin.

They killed a sentry and rounded up a group of refugee women and children, hiding in what might have proved a danger zone. The commandos placed two tons of high explosives on the bridges, set the fuses and returned to their escape boats.

They were just a few hundred yards off shore when the charge exploded.

East German Vote Set For Tomorrow

Berlin, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Soviet-ruled east Germany holds its first big election tomorrow, but there's no speculation on the results. The voters only have one set of candidates.

With no opposition to think about, east Germany's rulers have beaten the propaganda drums to insure a massive turnout, mingling persuasion with stark threats.

Political observers, therefore, expect some 95 per cent of east Germany's 13,000,000 voters to troop dutifully to the polls and endorse the hand-picked communist slate—virtually the same government which appointed itself on the founding of the east German "people's republic" a year ago.

The United States government yesterday officially branded the election a "sham" which "will simply amount to a forced show of hands for the government in power."

Meanwhile, the communists took steps to insulate their election even more from any taint of opposition.

Quebec Government Plans Regulation Of Truck Loads

Quebec, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Quebec government plans to regulate the loads of trucks using highways of the province, Premier Duplessis indicated yesterday.

The government leader told his regular press conference that trucks have become "elephantine" and their loads "exorbitant."

He said the "best interests of the province require cessation of these abuses."

The Premier also announced new discoveries of iron ore in Ungava, plans by the Campbell Chibougamau Mining Company to spend $1,000,000 on development in Chibougamau, and progress of Quebec's tourist industry this year.

The Quebec Legislature is due to go into session Nov. 8 and possibly legislation covering trucking loads will be introduced, though the Premier made no mention of this.

The latest iron-ore deposits uncovered in Ungava are located about 250 miles north of the Hollinger North Shore Mining and Exploration Company concessions in the Knob Lake-Burnt Creek district, the Premier said. They are about 75 miles away from Ungava Bay.

His information was that building a rail line from the recently-discovered deposits to Ungava Bay would not be a difficult as along the 320-mile route from Sept. 15, on the St. Lawrence north shore, to the Hollinger concessions.

The Premier saw "considerable and profitable" development in the Chibougamau mining district 350 miles directly north of Montreal, though he warned persons planning to make investments to make certain their money was going in to productive mines and not to enterprises as a "purely speculative" character.

Quebec's tourist industry, up to Aug. 20, was up 4.9 over the $100,000,000 brought in last year by visitors here, the Premier said, and increase in the tourist business was better than in any other province.

The Premier also paid tribute to J. W. McConnell, Montreal newspaper publisher and business man, as Quebec's foremost philanthropist.

The Premier said Mr. McConnell donated $50,000 to the campaign for funds being conducted by Jeffery Hale's Hospital here. In recent years the Montreal publisher had donated large amounts to universities and hospitals as well as personal contributions for the relief of the fire-swept towns of Rimouski and Cabano.

An Order-in-Council adopted by the Cabinet gave effect this week to legislation reorganizing Quebec's system of caring for juvenile delinquents. The "reform system" has been changed into a "youth protection" system, removing penal aspects of old methods, the Premier said.

Are Women Less Talkative Of Species? Speak Less Of Achievement Than Males

By ARNOLD BARON

"Jones," said the college professor, exhibiting a human skeleton, "is this the remains of a man or woman?"

"A woman," the bright young student replied in a flash, "It's mouth is open."

So the old joke goes. But women seem less talkative than men when it comes to praising themselves. The Y.W.C.A., in any community fortunate enough to have it operating, seems particularly reluctant to talk of itself.

Yet it performs a service equally valuable, as that of the male counterpart, the Y.M.C.A., an organization of which one hears much more.

In Sherbrooke, the Y.W.C.A. was first organized in 1908 over Spearling's store on Wellington Street. Since then, old newspaper clippings tell us, the "Y.W." has acquired the Howard Residence (1905) on Moore Street, a beautiful building which affords excellent board and lodging to many young women visiting our city or employed here.

The MacKinnon Memorial building, 40 Montreal Street, was given to the "Y.W." in 1929 and has since then been used as the administration and activities centre for countless young women members and their friends.

The local Y.W.C.A. has 375 members but these figures, kept by Miss K. Fales, office secretary, are deceptive. Both Miss Fales and the "Y.W." Health Education director, Miss Peggy-Jean Ross, agree that thousands of young women use the premises each year.

The activities of the Y.W.C.A. are many and these include: Swimming classes for the young and grownups; badminton; bowling; ladies keep fit and crafts; basketball; dancing, gymnastics; exercises; and Clubs such as the Quaintance Club; Overseas Wives; Public Affairs and Interest groups; and Teen-age groups. The club rooms and bowling alleys are available to outside organizations.

Another valuable "Y.W." service is the nursery school, held five mornings a week which allows mothers, for a very small fee, to have a few hours away from their youngsters when they want to go shopping, do housework undisturbed, or just relax. The Y.W.C.A. is one of seven organizations which will benefit from the current Red Feather Drive, and, at this point, it might be well to record again the words of the late Rev. G. Elery Read, on the occasion of the local Y.W.C.A.'s first birthday, nearly a half century ago.

"I honor this band of women who are trying to help their sisters, and I do not believe that the city of Sherbrooke is so poor that the money will not be forthcoming to furnish them with a suitable home. We all have a duty to perform to the young women who come to this town. Let us recognize it, and give freely of our time and money to help on the work of the Y.W.C.A., which is a work for our Master, Christ."

4-H Club Officers Have Meetings

From the very first days of the 4-H year beginning in September, the central office of the movement organizes important gatherings for the governors and the secretaries of the clubs, thus permitting these leaders to discuss among themselves their regional problems and to draft the program for the months ahead. The movement has kept expanding through the years and is now composed of 290 clubs. The 4-H formula has proved to be so accurate that many rural communities insist on having a club founded in their parish.

Several matters have been brought forth and thoroughly discussed during the 4-H leaders meetings which took place in Sherbrooke (Eastern Townships Region), in Quebec (Quebec-Jacques Cartier Region), in Riviere-Portneuf (North Coast) and in Rouyn (Abitibi and Temiscamingué). The main subjects under study were: the establishment of a small demonstration forest called "Le Bocage 4-H" which will be put under the care and supervision of the 4-H Clubs; the organization of a committee composed of leaders of the different youth organizations in rural parishes; the realization of the provincial contest program.

Roger R. Cote, assistant to the secretary general of the movement has attended all these meetings and will also be the chairman at the other meetings which will be held in Chandler, Riviere-du-Loup, Hull, St. Jovite, St. Jerome (Lake St. John) and Grand-Mere from now to the end of the month.

Thrift Shop Is Set For October 25-26

The Thrift Shop, operated annually by the Victorian Order of Nurses in Sherbrooke, will be staged again this year on Oct. 25 and 26 in Plymouth United Church hall.

Mrs. Raymond Provencher is in charge of the Thrift Shop which bargains in many lines of dry-goods and many other articles may be obtained.

The Thrift Shop, next to the annual campaign and grants, is the largest money raising project of the Order and is one of the few such enterprises undertaken by the V.O.N. in Canada.

Merchants and industrial concerns are generous contributors to the Thrift Shop but contributions are being sought from the general public. Any articles which may be of use will be welcomed wholeheartedly by the organizers.

Receipts From Gas, Electricity Departments Show Further Increase

Continued expansion in the receipts from the utilities departments as compared with the corresponding month of the previous year features the report of collections for the month of September issued this morning by City Treasurer Maurice Cormier.

Sales of gas and electricity produced $128,497 during the month as compared with $123,150 in September 1949. Collections for the water department last month were $2,449 or approximately $500 above the figure of $2,139.77 for the same month in 1949.

The sharpest increase registered in the general section was in the collections of rental taxes which last month totalled $36,767, more than triple the figure of $10,806 received in September 1949. This increase is attributed to the fact that the bills were sent out approximately a month earlier this year than in previous years.

Stepped-Up Canvassing Expected For Second Week Of Red Feather Campaign

The first week of the Community Chest campaign in Sherbrooke ends today, an abbreviated week due to the Thanksgiving holiday last Monday, and returns in the drive for $45,000 for seven organizations coming in slowly.

Forest Keene, co-chairman of the drive, commenting on the first week of canvassing, noted with satisfaction that a number of subscribers are increasing their donations, a necessity if the objective is to be met.

"We must never lose sight of the fact that we are seeking funds for 18 months of service," Mr. Keene said.

The last Community Chest campaign in Sherbrooke was in February, 1949, which means that the organizations which depend on Red Feather funds for their operation have gone a year and a half without this assistance.

Campaign dates were set forward to this fall to coincide with Red Feather drives in other parts of Canada and the United States and to avoid conflict with other campaigns which are staged in Sherbrooke in the late winter and early spring.

No figures on local subscriptions will be announced until next week, but it is understood that only a small part of the big objective has been turned in to campaign headquarters so far. In this connection Mr. Keene urged canvassers to speed up their collections and to report promptly so that the drive can be wound-up by the end of the month.

Sharing in the money that is being raised are the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., the Sherbrooke Library, Lennoxville, Library, St. John Ambulance Association, Salvation Army and Boy Scouts.

Local workers were encouraged by the Montreal Red Feather campaign which wound up this week with an oversubscription of the big objective there. The opinion of local officials was that if Montreal can achieve its goal so can Sherbrooke.

Costs of providing the services that are a feature of the seven local groups have come up considerably in the last 18 months and if these services are to be continued then the objective of $45,000 must be met.

The budgets submitted in drawing up the total objective are the minimums on which the organizations can operate efficiently.

King, Queen, P.M. Honor The Kerrs Of Island Brook

Island Brook, Oct. 14.—With the best wishes of Their Majesties, The King and Queen, and a congratulatory letter from the Prime Minister of Canada, the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, already received, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kerr of Island Brook are today (Saturday) ready to launch their 67th year of married life.

No formal "at home" is planned by the happy couple but they expect numerous friends and relatives will call to mark the occasion.

The Women's Auxiliary is holding an oyster supper in the Town Hall, tonight, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Kerr who were both born at Lakefield.

Not only were they born in the same town but they were distantly related to each other. Mrs. Kerr's maiden name was Catherine Kerr.

Mr. Kerr, who celebrated his 90th birthday anniversary on October 10th, came to Island Brook when he was 10 and for many years was engaged in farming here. Mrs. Kerr came here with her parents at the age of six. She will be 89 on April 10th of next year.

The Kerrs, who attribute their long lives and happy time together to just "plain hard work," were married at Island Brook, by Rev. F. A. Read.

They have four sons and two daughters, Gordon, Franklin and Enoch, Kerr of Island Brook, Everett Kerr of Montreal, Miss Lilla Kerr at home and Mrs. James Doherty of Island Brook. Another daughter, Mrs. Lorne Dawson (Maria), passed away a few years ago.

There are 18 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

RUSSIAN "PEACE" TALK

If you didn't know the Russians so well, you might conclude that their "peace" proposals for Korea had a faint air of reasonableness about them.

They talk of new national elections to be supervised by a United Nations committee, after all UN armies have been withdrawn from Korea. They want the committee to include the countries which border Korea—in other words, Russia and Red China.

Luckily, the rest of the UN already has recognized the booby-traps in this plan and gives no sign of accepting it. But the Russian motives behind it will be expressed in other forms, too. And we must be steadily on guard to see them for what they are.

The Soviet plan for Korea is nothing more than an effort to salvage by diplomatic means what the North Koreans have lost in the field. The proposals were not made while Korean Communists were winning; only when they faced total defeat.

Furthermore, if the plan for elections were sincerely meant, it is obvious it could have been put into effect at any time in the past five years. It wasn't necessary to fight a war to win the privilege of holding such elections.

If that balloting were held on Russian terms, it might well be disastrous for the freedom of Korea. With Russia and Red China on the suggested UN committee, the Communists could block every attempt to conduct honest, really free elections. Damaging delays would occur and Korea's future would be clouded in confusion.

There may be some in the UN who feel the West is merely prolonging the agony by keeping armies pressing northward in Korea when an offer has been made to end the fighting.

But it was not the West which resorted to arms; it was Russia. The Soviet leaders chose that field as the decisive one for Korea. That being so, the decision must now be taken there.

When the Communist armies have been finally crushed, then the UN must set about organizing the whole of Korea for real national elections unfettered by Russian interference. It must give the country the unity it is intended to have from the start, and must boldly grapple with the tasks of economic reconstruction in that war-devastated land.

Nothing but complete surrender should be listened to from the Russian side. If that surrender is not volunteered, it must be enforced by weight of arms. And the Soviet Union must be barred from having the slightest voice in Korea's future.

For no proposal it could make would really be any different from this first peace plan. They would all have the same aim: to restore the "old order" in Korea by diplomacy, now that Russian efforts to upset it by force have come off so badly.

LINE MUST BE DRAWN

Wars sometimes arise from an aggressor's ignorance of his intended victim's will or ability to resist. Winston Churchill, for one, believes World War II arose thus; he calls it the "unnecessary war."

Many observers contend Russia never would have goaded the North Koreans into war had she realized how the United States and others in the United Nations would respond.

The Soviet Union and her satellites are today the only nations in the world likely to launch aggressive moves of major consequence. Russia has made clear in Korea that she's willing to undertake military action to gain her ends.

Knowing these things, it seems that the least the free world can do is to make known to Moscow that any new aggression will not go unchallenged. We can't just say this in general terms; we've got to be specific, to draw a distinct line across the globe and say: "No farther."

The recent Big Three foreign ministers' declaration on Germany therefore is highly commendable. Britain, France and the United States pledge that they will regard any attack "from any quarter" upon either West Germany or Berlin as an attack upon themselves.

That was plain speaking which ought to be readily grasped in Moscow. It means any move against Germany either by Russia, a satellite nation or by the East German Communist "stooge" government will precipitate general war with the West.

Thus the critical line has been drawn in the most vital sector of Europe—the portion Russia certainly views as the greatest prize she could win. And that's a big step forward.

Yet it's not enough. The line must be extended throughout Europe, through the Middle East and across Asia. The allies' presence in Korea makes it evident we believe Communist encroachment must be prevented there; but that's only a tiny segment of sprawling Asia.

What would we do if Chinese Reds, prodded by Russia, lent substantial aid to Communist forces in Indo-China, or Malaya, or even India? What about Turkey, Greece, Yugoslavia?

Until that line is firmly drawn everywhere, we can't claim we have dispelled possible ignorance in the Kremlin about our intent to resist. So let's draw a big red pencil line on the map from Korea clear around to the Baltic. And ship a copy airmail special delivery to Joseph Stalin, Moscow.

ONE DOOR TO INDIA

St. Catharines Standard

In the days of Czarist Russia, there was one door to India, jealously guarded by British regiments of the line. That was the route from Russia through Afghanistan, where serious fighting is now in progress with Pakistan. It is more than a mere border skirmish and, without doubt, the trouble has been blueprinted in Moscow. More than that, it has the general communist pattern and approach.

As one observer comments, Soviet agents have been busy in both Afghanistan and Pakistan. Russia has long sought an approach to India through friendly territory. This raid into Pakistan by the Afghans is more than coincidence. It follows right on the heels of Russia's failure in Korea. War with Afghan tribes on the border has been almost incessant for decades past.

Lord Roberts in 1878-1880 fought the Afghans and made one of the greatest marches in military history from Kabul to Kandahar, which he relieved. The country has always been a trouble spot, and as such, in the present day, extremely useful to the Soviet. And in India itself the communists are active, the appeasement of Mr. Nehru notwithstanding.

The impression is gaining ground that Nehru is a dangerous man, who seeks to have western influence entirely destroyed in Asia, and the British scuttle out of Hong Kong and Malaya, with Indo-China and Burma left at the mercy of the Reds. He is strengthening communist expansion ideas in Asia, and the communists would drive him out of India as quickly as they drove Chiang out of China. It is notable, too, that India, which contributed 2,000,000 men for the struggle of 1939-1945, did not offer a man to stop aggression in South Korea.

MANY CAUSES OF FARM FIRES

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

A study of farm fires indicates that there are at least 12 common causes for fires in rural areas. They are: chimneys of sub-standard construction, sparks from dirty chimneys, smoke pipes and stoves installed without regard to radiation of heat, seasonal grass and bush fires, spontaneous ignition of hay through dumping badly cured hay, worn-out shingle roofs, lighted lanterns, misuse of electrical equipment, threshing operations with gasoline power, gasoline vehicles stored in barns, matches and smoking in outbuildings, trespass by thieves, and lightning.

With regard to the spontaneous ignition of hay, most farmers are careful in harvesting and storing the hay crop, but a few loads of badly cured hay are a continual menace.

It is stated that in lubricants spontaneous combustion does not occur, whether the lubricant is soaked in rags or not, but they burn fast when ignited. Oily rags should not be allowed to lie about. If they are not disposed of by burning they should be washed.

For fire prevention on the farm it is recommended to have a roof ladder always at hand. Keep a few water buckets full and ready for use; also it is wise to have a few barrels of water ready for instant use. During winter the water should be kept in a warm place.

USES OF GRAMMAR

Peterborough Examiner

Grammar is more than a system of rules for the use of the English language; it is a mental discipline which leads toward clarity of thought.

If a man understands the use of a language, he is not likely to slip into the vague and foolish writing which is so common, and so infuriating, today. The question which is always at the back of his mind is not "How am I saying it?" but "What am I saying?" And his ear becomes sensitive, not only to grammatical niceties, but to niceties of reason and expression.

The sensitive ear—the outpost of a sensitive intellect and a sensitive conscience—is too rare in Canada today. Those who have it have acquired it in all likelihood at home. Our educational system not merely neglects it, but is hostile towards it. And for that the directors and heads of that system must bear the blame.

ACCIDENT RATE RISES

Toronto Globe and Mail

Although there were fewer deaths than a year ago, the official report on Ontario highway accidents for the first six months of 1950 shows no evidence that safety campaigns have made headway. Fatal accidents decreased by 11.5 per cent from the same period in 1949, but the total of non-fatal injuries was up 12.1 per cent, and the total of all reported accidents was up 25.5 per cent. In the same period the increase of registered motor vehicles was 12.2 per cent.

A larger percentage of new cars on the road, with improved safety provisions, may help account for a drop of fatalities. But most of such escapes must be credited to good fortune rather than to increased travel safety. The measure of comparison for highway safety lies in the total number of accidents. The statistics on their location should give added concern. In villages the increase was especially alarming, 52.7 per cent. Towns, cities, rural roads, county roads and King's highways followed next in line, in that order.

The accident statistics give only part of the picture. Often the real offenders are those who drive on and escape. A glare-light driver who brings a motorist to grief may be half a mile away when the accident happens. Safety campaigns are lost on such people unless backed by strict discipline.

"HEY, SON! HOW YOU GREW WHILE YOU WERE IN KOREA!"

"Me And The Birds"

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

Often I wish I had lived when Jesus lived here. I would love to have heard Him preach. I like to imagine that day He drew His follower's attention to the Birds. How surprised they must have been! Imagine the Master referring to these common ordinary birds! But His method was—and is—to get us to look for God in such happy living commonplace things as birds of which God makes so many.

Then, as now, too many are too busy to practise the Presence of God. And the Master would remind all such that all around us are evidences of God's loving care. "Look at the birds which fly in the air" (Matt. 6:26). In these simple chattering words, the Master reminded His listeners of the simplicity of true beauty as well as the joy of living and raising our voices in song as a grateful expression of our Heavenly Father's wonderful goodness to us.

Appropriate, is it not? That we should think of those Birds just after Thanksgiving Day. In our confused, out-of-joint days people need the assurance of a loving Father's care and His provision for them. The Birds remind those worried fretful people who prefer trust in themselves to that of trust in God, and, at the same time, challenge us to greet the unknown Future with melody in our hearts for God! We have this promise that He will be with us to the end of the road. All through the life's changing scenes He is ready to strengthen and sustain all who all upon Him. To bring cheer and inspiration as we travel along the Road of Life He has given us a free orchestra—the Birds! Their music heals and inspires. If you have no radio or gramophone, you have the music of the Birds. Listen to them and thank God that there is anything in the world so beautiful and then bow your head reverently to sing your Maker's praises and find your peace—"peace within"—in Him alone!

THOSE BAFFLING MIGRATIONS
In October the birds interest me as they prepare for their annual return trip South. Since May, and earlier, our feathered visitors have added color and interest to the Canadian scene. In August, with their work complete, they remained silent. That's why August is named the Silent Month. So, after having trained their progeny as to the way to get on in the world, the parental birds are now ready to pack up and fly South. Lately they have been congregating in large numbers. Soon they'll be on their way.

This trip is an "annual." Every year millions of them in every part of the world take wing and fly varying distances to foreign climes. No one has yet been able to satisfactorily determine the prime impulse of these migrations and to fathom the great mystery of its accomplishment. Even the birds do not know. That's the beauty of it. Of course we explain it by using the profound word of instinct. They fly instinctively. But you do not explain a thing or lessen its mystery by giving it a name. It is better—far better—to call it God and be done with it.

But those skylarks interest me, as well as the skilled aviators who often fly without detours. They are capable of swift and sustained flight; their journeys are long and difficult. Flying at under 3,000 feet, they fly on an average about 200 miles a day even though the full flight may be a thousand miles. Many species manage to cross these enormous distances without even a break.

To me the wonder of wonders is that even young birds making the trip for the first time, make the flight unerringly, without the guidance of the older birds! Just here God enters. These birds follow a God-given instinct. Blessed then is the man whose strength is in God. (Ps. 84:2-5).

FIVE YEARS AGO

October 11 fell on a Sunday.

The birds, felt that "there is a power whose car teaches they way along that pathless coast—the desert and illimitable air—lone wandering, but not lost." With a profound faith in the Unseen Guide, Bryant penned: "He who from zone to zone guides through the boundless sky this certain flight, in the long way that I must tread alone will lead my steps aright." Here then is a sermon on Guidance written by a poet preacher. Surely it should challenge us today to let God guide us, holding us with His powerful Hand. Daily we should we contact the Source of all that is good, true and eternal, looking upward with an earnest desire for guidance and there will certainly come to us a revelation and a benediction from the Giver of every good and perfect gift.

"In time with the Infinite" were those people called in the yesterday. They recognized God's signals. Today God is sending out a constant flow of signals to guide us safely home. Sometimes our receiving sets are clogged and short-circuited by the dust of earth, by money, and the love of material things so that God's signals are hard to pick up. Then we lose our way and run the risk of "cracking up." There is only one thing to do. Watch for God's signals and follow the Guide each day! Then, and only then, can we ride out the blackest night and the most violent storms and make a "happy landing."

Youth, at least those I know, are confused, baffled, needing that leadership and proper guidance that alone comes from God. Unfortunately everyone but God is quoted. Yet He is the source of all things good. And only when we regain the guidance of God then will life be full of meaning and we shall know again "self-reverence, self-knowledge and self-control; these three," and live happily ever afterwards.

Cast care aside! Lean on your Guide! He will lead you all your journey through. Trust Him knowing well that every test is ever-ruled by God for best. (Rom. 8:28). To those who draw nigh to Him seeking grace and strength unseen, He will never fail you. Never! If you are aged, sick, infirm, unloved, unwanted, uncared for, remember that God will take care of you over all the way, through every day for He will "forget, forsake you never." (Heb. 13:5).

Jesus assures us that there's room in His Father's Home for you. Before you can move in there, however, you must seek pardon and be cleansed and healed and by the Holy Spirit sealed. Begin your preparations now by engaging in prayer for God's guidance. Jesus your Saviour takes your part and pleads for you in Heaven above.

The Record Short Story

MILK TRAIN

By SANFORD JARRELL

Most people who travel between Los Angeles and San Diego ride the streamliners, with their excellent diners, swank lounge car and bar, and—for the carriage trade—reserved parlor car seats. These luxurious mobile units move swiftly and halt briefly only at Santa Ana, Oceanside and Del Mar.

Then there is the Milk Train, which leaves Los Angeles after midnight and makes all the whistle stops. It should be called the Milk Train because, as everyone knows, the bulk of the milk produced in Southern California is now trucked to market. However, tradition being what it is, this nocturnal carrier is known to the few who take it as the Milk Train.

Two or three coaches of hoary vintage are set aside for the few patrons who ride the train, but ordinarily only one is used and that only partly filled. On week-ends, when San Diego and Camp Pendleton sailors and marines are returning from liberty, the Milk Train gets a fairly good play. These exuberant youths raise their voices in song and oratory and bring to the train a merriment that is lacking on week nights. On the average run the passengers are tired men and women, with an occasional child, who attempt to sleep as the train rambles noisily through the night and making its 25 or more wayside stops.

Fred Kimball sat alone in his apartment on Wilshire, overlooking MacArthur Park. It was a bright moonlit night, and from his window he could see the motorboats on the lake, each occupied, he reflected, by a boy and a girl or a man and a woman with stars in their eyes and love in their hearts.

Fred had tried to read all evening, ever since he had dined at the Jonathan Club, but without much success. He had fiddled around with Millikan's Autobiography, with a fine account of the Shenandoah Valley campaigns of Stonewall Jackson, and even with a pocket-sized mystery novel by one of his favorite whodunit authors. He could not concentrate on a single page.

Therefore, the lanky lawyer, a man in his early 30s who was not his own boss, his friends as being of the morbid type, devoted his attention to Scotch and brandy water, no ice. He kept refilling his glass from a bottle of expensive whisky, plus water from the tap, often.

And, along about the fifth or sixth drink, Fred decided to go to San Diego. It was at Coronado, across the bay, where they had spent their honeymoon. That was five years ago, just after he had returned from the ETO where he had commanded a battery of 155 howitzers. And tomorrow her in-laws' birthday would become final.

Fred vaguely recalled that there was a midnight train to San Diego and he telephoned Union Station Information to confirm this. Yes, it left at 12:30 A. M. He had time to catch it. He called a cab, put on his coat and took the elevator down into the lobby.

The Union Station was like a ghostly barn when Fred bought his ticket and strolled through the empty waiting room to the gate. He descended the long ramp to the train. There were two brightly lighted coaches and a purple-jacketed porter stood at the steps.

"Any bags, sir?" the porter inquired. "No, I'm coming back later in the day," Fred explained. "Coach to the left, sir," said the porter.

There were only half a dozen passengers in the old day coach and Fred had his pick of seats. He sat down heavily at a window in the middle of the car. The porter, who came by a moment later, asked him if he wanted the seat.

(Heb. 7:25). Think not lightly of His love! Rather think on the eternal home, the Saviour left for you: think on the Lord most holy, come to dwell with hearts untrue. Alleluia! I have a guide! The Holy Spirit! Commit your way unto His direction so that He may in all things direct and rule your

CARL BRINGS STRAY CONTRACT BACK

HOME

"Carl, old boy," said Generous George, "your carelessness can sure make work out of a lay-down hand."

"Well," replied Carl, "I did make it anyway."

"So you did," said East, "but if my partner had really been on his toes you would have thrown it out the window."

George, sitting North, had correctly raised Carl's opening trump bid to two. There was no good reason for George to confuse the bidding by showing his diamond suit. Naturally, Carl had continued on to game. East opened the king of clubs and continued the suit when Carl ducked.

Carl won that trick and promptly started after what looked like five diamond tricks. There would have been five all right if he had started by leading the nine or ten but Carl was careless and led the deuce. He won with dummy's ace, returned to his queen and continued the least little bit when West discarded a low heart. You see, Carl's careless play had left him with the ten and nine and after he took the king one of those cards was going to block the suit.

Carl had to find a way to discard one of those two diamonds. Borrowing a leaf from George's book Carl played the eight of clubs. West won with the ten and East signalled with the queen of spades. He knew what was going on and hoped to persuade his partner to leave the clubs alone.

West did think for a moment. He did consider leading the spade. However, he was in the lead and knew that he could never get in the lead again. The temptation was too great. He cashed his two good clubs.

Of course, one club play was all Carl needed. He discarded one of the two diamonds on the next. Then when West finally led the spade Carl won with the ace and made the rest of the tricks. The stray contract had been brought home.

OUT OUR WAY

History Repeated Itself In The Village Of Hatley On October 1

Hatley, October 14. — History repeated itself on Sunday, October 1, when the Hatley common was once again used for military manoeuvres, presumably by the 74th Battalion of Stanstead.

This spacious green was used as a drill ground by the military in the early days, especially during the Wars of 1812 and 1837. Cpt. Eberhart Honey, Cpt. Simon Bean, Col. Henry Cull, Col. John McConnell and many others drilled their men here in the early days of the present century.

The Queen's Invalids were stationed here around 1837. On their departure, they presented their beautiful flag bordered with gold fringe and embroidered with the name of the regiment in gold letters, to St. James' Anglican Church, where it still holds a place of honor.

The soldiers of those days with their clumsy muskets and powder horns, could be much astonished at the mechanized equipment of the present day.

The village owes a debt of gratitude to those pioneer soldiers, who left among us a memorial for more lasting than their flag, in the beautiful shade trees, which they planted along our streets. For over a century, these have been the pride of this small community.

A Thanksgiving Service
A Harvest Thanksgiving service was held at the Anglican Church, on Sunday evening, October 1.

The church was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers, fruit and vegetables. The rector, Rev. C. Jensen, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Frank Marshall, of Colborne, N.H., who read the lessons, and Rev. Bauford, of North Hatley, who preached an interesting and helpful sermon.

Well known harvest hymns were sung by the choir.

During his term of office as Chairman of the Camp Committee, considerable progress has been made in the development and maintenance program of the permanent camp site at Lovering Lake, a permanent building erected, additional boating equipment obtained, etc., and his outstanding record in this respect, together with many years of practical scouting experience, caused the local Commissioner to recommend appointment to the new post which has received the approval of the Provincial Commissioner, G. Woman Fined For Practising Medicine
A local chiropractor, Miss Fleur-de Vandaudague, found guilty of illegal practice of medicine, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs or 60 days in jail in Court of Sessions here yesterday. Judgment was handed out by Judge Joseph Marier and the accused decided to pay the fine.

The action against Miss Vandaudague was taken by the College of Medicine, Montreal.

The case started on August 2nd, Miss Vandaudague was visited that day by a woman, employed by the College of Medicine, used to produce evidence against the accused.

The College of Medicine employee, using a false name and a false ailment, called on Miss Vandaudague. She told her she had several ailments, complaining of pains, etc. She was X-rayed and was given chiropractic treatment.

Judge Marier, in pronouncing judgment said "Anybody offering advice or attempting to cure someone who complains of an illness, is practising illegal medicine unless he has a doctor's certificate." Chiropractors are not allowed to treat a person who complains of any sort of disease or illness, he concluded.

An investigator for the College of Medicine said later that chiropractors "can massage all they want and it has helped many, but they must leave medicine and examinations to the doctors."

In ever loving memory of Richard Charles Martel, dearly beloved son of Dorothy Dix and Cyriel Martel, formerly of Sherbrooke, Que., accidentally drowned in Montreal, October 14th, 1949, aged 18 years, 11 months.

Where has he gone since yesterday, The son who left us here? Tonight he seems so far away Who yesterday was near. No map of ours, no sea or land, His journey may reach us here. We only know he's reached his home. And seen his Father's face. O' sad familiar yesterday! O' sad and strange today! Yet who would call the glad soul back To rouse the resting clay? Or who could wish that he might know, Our sorrow's pain and strife, When he who, once, so longed to live, At last has ended life. But God will redeem my soul from the power of the grave; for He shall receive me. Ps. 137:5. Sadly missed by

The Doctor Says

EXERCISE AND DRUGS MAY STOP FORMING OF DEADLY BLOOD CLOTS

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Every once in a while a person who has had an operation and seems to be recovering quite well suddenly develops a frightening condition which is called a pulmonary embolism.

This is a clot which has been carried to one of the blood vessels of the lung from some distant vein elsewhere in the body. Its unexpected appearance several days or weeks after an operation is tragic and alarming.

The original clot, which has broken off and been carried by the blood stream through the heart to one of the arteries going to the lungs, is most commonly formed in the legs or lower abdominal regions. What happens is that the clot loosens and is swept forward by the blood stream.

In some cases of pulmonary embolism the symptoms are extremely severe, and sudden death can occur. In others the outlook is much better. Usually there is a sudden pain in the chest and shortness of breath. Sometimes the area of the lung supplied by the blocked artery becomes infected, and recovery may take a long time.

Although treatment of a pulmonary embolism is still not too satisfactory, great strides have been made in developing methods of preventing this alarming and dangerous condition. There seems little doubt, for example, that becoming active soon after an operation—early rising it is called—helps to prevent many cases of pulmonary embolism. This keeps the circulation going and prevents stagnation of blood in the veins, so that clots are far less likely to form. If they do not form obviously they cannot break off and cause trouble later.

In addition, it is now possible to give people who need it certain drugs which slow blood clotting. This often helps in preventing the dangerous clots from forming. In those who do develop a pulmonary embolism, drugs like penicillin can be most useful in preventing the formation of abscesses and other complications. A few patients who have had pulmonary embolism have been saved by removing the clot from the lung by an immediate operation.

Pulmonary embolism is a highly dangerous condition and it is therefore most encouraging to know that so much progress has been made in preventing it. Perhaps the time is not distant when all cases can be prevented, and it will no longer be a menace.

Subject: "Doctrine of Atonement."

Reading room open Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3-5 p.m. Friday evenings, 7-9 p.m., at His Majesty's Building.

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 15th. The Golden Text is from I John 4:10—"Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, Teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world; Looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ; Who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good work." (Titus 2:11 to 14).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine Truth, Life, and Love. Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage. His mission was both individual

Is Office Experience Best Training For Matrimony?

A young man wants to know if working girls make good wives. To which inquiry one must return the noncommittal answer of: "Yes—and no."

Undoubtedly in many ways the best training a girl can get for matrimony is in business. It broadens her mind and clears her vision. It brings her down out of the clouds and plants her feet on a hard world. It cures her of sentimentalism and the propensity to make everything a personal issue, which are the curses of her sex.

It teaches her to control her temper and her emotions, for no girl could keep a job if she went into hysterics every time she was criticized. It teaches her promptness and accuracy, for her bread and butter depends on her punching the timeclock at the precise minute and turning out good work. It teaches her the value of money and how much labor and pain and weariness go into the making of every dollar.

TEACHES UNDERSTANDING
Above all, it teaches her understanding and sympathy with men. She knows, as the home-keeping girl cannot possibly know, how terrific is the strain of life upon men, how killing is the pressure under which they work.

She knows from experience that the worker cannot always control his or her own time. She knows what it is to have nerves so frazzled that everything that anybody did irritated her into a sharp speech. She knows what it is to be so tired when she came home at night that all in the world she wanted was just to crawl to a couch and flop down on it and rest.

So the working girl is pretty sure not to waste her husband's money and to get value received for every cent she spends. She is also pretty sure to be interested in his work and to be willing to make sacrifices to help him along. She doesn't have conviction fits when he is late for dinner or telephones at the last minute that he has to meet a buyer from Oshkosh. She does not feel herself aggrieved because he does not feel bright and chatty at an evening, nor does she drag him out when he is half dead with weariness to night clubs.

So far the business school is better than the domestic school for brides, but if it fits them in some ways for marriage, in other ways it unfits them. For the effect of a business training seems to be to kill the domestic instinct in women.

At any rate, you seldom see an ex-business girl who isn't bored to tears by cooking and washing and scrubbing, and who doesn't pine for her mahogany desk or her old place behind the ribbon counter. Of course work in a kitchen is no harder than work in an office and sweeping floors is no more monotonous than pounding a typewriter, but the one is done in silence and alone, while the other is done to the tune of bustle and excitement, people coming and going, and gay comradeship.

Girls just naturally get more kick out of beautifying themselves of a morning and going downtown to work than they do out of putting on an apron and getting busy with the vacuum cleaner. Besides, the girl in business feels that she is doing something worth while and that she is an important cog in a big machine, whereas she despises the domestic labor that she can do with one hand and a half a lobe of her brain. A young woman who gave up a high executive position in a big firm to marry once said to me: "To put me to run a six-room apartment is like putting a thousand-horsepower engine to do a one-horsepower job."

THE DOMESTIC TYPE
Of course there are girls who have the domestic complex, who never thrill to anything but pots and pans and whose favorite reading is the cookbook. These are always outsiders in the business world. They never take root in an office and they are never happy until they hang up their own parlor curtains. But the average woman, and especially the successful business woman, no matter how much she loves her husband, always casts a wistful backward glance at her old job.

Then there is the financial side of the matter. For any woman to once hold her pay envelope in her hand is for her to have tasted blood, and never again can she be contented to be a parasite and have nickels and quarters and dimes doled out to her by even a generous hand. She has realized that she can stand upon her own feet, that she can support herself, that she need not be dependent upon anyone. That is the greatest and most glorious feeling that any human being ever experiences, and the joy of it is raised to the high power to a woman, because it is something she didn't dare even hope for.

And so when a girl marries and gives up her financial independence and goes back to panhandling a husband for her clothes and movie money, she doesn't take kindly to it, and she doesn't do it in a way that is soothing to masculine vanity. If a man wants a wife who will kiss the hand that hands her a dollar bill and who will tell him how wonderful and generous he is, he should never pick out a working girl. So it would seem that there are both advantages and disadvantages to marrying a working girl. Which, of course, also goes for marrying any kind of girl.

Waterville, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Percy L. Beane and Mrs. Fred W. Ayer entertained on Thursday evening, Oct. 5, at the home of the former, at a miscellaneous "shower" in honor of Miss Thelma Williams, R.N., a popular October bride-to-be.

Autumn flowers were artistically arranged about the spacious parlor, the predominant shades being pink and white.

Upon the arrival of the bride-elect, the "Wedding March" was played by Mrs. Ayer, and the guest-of-honor was escorted by Mrs. Beane to the seat of honor in the living-room, beside a glowing open fireplace, followed by little Miss Janie Simpson, who entered the room wheeling a tea-wagon laden with gaily wrapped parcels, and prettily decorated with pink and white streamers, the work of Miss Anne Beane, who also made the presentation.

The guest of honor was assisted in unwrapping her many attractive parcels by Mrs. Robert Simpson. After the gifts had been unwrapped and admired, Miss Williams graciously thanked her friends for their gifts and good wishes and invited all to visit her in her new home in Montreal.

Later, delectable refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Frank Williams, grandmother of the bride-to-be, presided at the lace-covered tea-table, which was centred with Shasta daisies in a silver bowl and pink tapers in silver holders.

Miss Doris Swanson and Miss Anne Beane assisted in the dining-room. Out-of-town guests present were Mrs. C. E. Trafton and Mrs. Norman Phelps, of Lennoxville, Mrs. Norman Coates, R.N., of Sherbrooke, Mrs. Robert Simpson and Miss Janie Simpson, of Mel-

Coach Dick Irvin States Flatly That Outcome Of Canadiens Depends On Performance Of Doug Harvey

Montreal, Oct. 14.—(P)—Coach Dick Irvin came out flat-footed and said Montreal Canadiens not only will be in the Stanley Cup series but can win it if one player comes through 100 per cent.

All that is needed, said Irvin, is for this player to shed a tendency to hot-and-cold play and to produce consistently a fighting spirit and a will-to-win enthusiasm.

Then he named his player openly: Defenceman Doug Harvey.

Irvin added: "I think he can do it. He has more incentive now. He has an extra mouth to feed and has just built himself a house."

Irvin's surprising statement was made before Montreal newspaper and radio men. The occasion was a pre-season luncheon gathering attended by the playing squad and there was a lot of taking down of hair before the affair ended.

Coach Irvin also went so far as to deliver his usual pregame dressing-room talk right in front of everybody, and with considerable rhetorical effect.

Both managing director Frank Selke and Irvin took a dim view of predictions that Canadiens will finish last.

Paul Masnick, 19-year-old centre from Regina, was singled out as resembling Elmer Lach in style and the youngster who ultimately might take over Lach's place when the veteran centre retires.

Irvin told his men the going won't be easy this season but would take a lot of heart and courage. He told them they weren't signed "to finish last."

Then he singled out his men. McNeil: Keep relaxed, clear to the corners as you were told. Defencemen: Play defence, at least one man back at all times; never two behind the net or in the corner. When you go up don't loaf.

Centres: Play your position. Wings: Have a trailer on every line. On face-offs the centre man

United States Hockey League Opens This Week-End; Denver, Milwaukee New Entries In Five-Team Circuit

Minneapolis, Oct. 14.—(P)—The United States Hockey League will swing into its 1950-51 campaign this week-end, with two new towns represented and three new playing coaches to be introduced to the fans.

New teams in the circuit will be Denver and Milwaukee.

First games, tonight, will have Omaha's Knights, last year's winners of the Directors' Cup, playing at Tulsa, and Kansas City entertaining St. Paul. Sunday St. Paul will play at Denver and Milwaukee will take on Kansas City on the former's ice.

It will be the first competition for Kansas City under the direction of Wilf Field, former National and American League player, who will take his regular turn on defence in addition to coaching.

Kansas City Mohawks will operate without a major-league club tieup this year. A group, with Vern Banks as general manager, will run the club under a franchise purchased but not used by the father-son combination of Paul and Morris Fogel. The Fogels felt they could not put a team on the ice this year and granted permission for Banks' group to use the franchise.

Tulsa likewise will sport a new playing coach. He is Bud Poile, 26-year-old former National League player. The third newcomer will be Red Hammill, who played last year with Chicago Black Hawks.

Hammill will direct Milwaukee Sea Gulls, the new team in the League operated by William J. Tobin, who sold his Kansas City must direct the detail for the others. One exception to this is when the freshman line of Masnick, Frank King and Bert Hirschfeld is on the ice. Then one of the veteran defencemen will call the spots for the face-off.

General Manager Frank Lane and vice-president Chuck Comiskey of the Sox emphasized in announcing Richards' appointment yesterday that the veteran minor-league skipper will have free rein.

The Sox turnover of managers started after Jimmy Dykes served from 1935 until May, 1946. Ted Lyons, long-time Comiskey pitcher and favorite, took over and survived the next two seasons. In 1949 Onslow was brought up from the Memphis farm club under a two-year pact. He remained until his coach, Red Corriden, relieved him last May.

Corriden, who guided the Pale Hose to sixth place last season, is expected to return to the Sox coaching lines.

Applying, the darling of the fans, set a record for number of games played at shortstop. This year young Chico Carrasquel replaced him and Applying served as a player-coach. He is reported to be in some disfavor with the Sox front office because of his hesitancy to fill in at first base early in the campaign.

There have been rumors Applying will be offered his release, if he isn't claimed on waivers. But such a step may be avoided and franchise to the Fogels.

Denver, the other new club in the circuit, will have the old Minneapolis lineup virtually intact, with the veteran Bill Cook, former New York Ranger star of years gone by, as coach. The Minneapolis franchise was purchased last spring by a group of Denver business men.

The other two teams, St. Paul and Omaha, will have the same coaches as last year. Clint Smith will again act as manager-coach for the rebuilt St. Paul Saints, while Omaha will have its veteran "Mud" Bruneteau directing the activities of another youthful club.

Paul Richards Becomes Fifth White Sox Manager In Five Years

Chicago, Oct. 14.—(P)—Paul Richards retained as protection at the shortstop spot.

Richards piloted Buffalo in 1947-1948 and 1949, taking one International League pennant. Last season his Seattle team landed in sixth place in the P.C.L.

In addition to his baseball chores, Richards finds time in the off season to serve as sports editor on a daily newspaper, of which he is part owner, in his home town of Waxahatchie, Tex.

The 41-year-old Richards apparently is the type who gets what he wants. Appreciating the fact that Sox managers seem to serve short terms, Richards demanded and finally received a two-year contract. A two-year pact was not offered him a year ago when the Sox were thinking of luring him away from Seattle in the Pacific Coast League to replace Jack Onslow.

Dick Wray's Transfer Is Still Pending

Montreal, Oct. 14.—(P)—Quebec Amateur Hockey Association officials confirmed the "temporary suspension" of Dick Wray of Lis-towel, Ont., now on loan to the Chicoutimi Saguenays of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

Registrar Frank Dilio of the Q.A.H.A. said negotiations were under way between the two clubs to grant Wray a transfer to the Quebec club.

Dilio said the trouble started when the Maritime team granted Wray a provisional transfer but recalled him when Beavers' management was changed.

Wray indicated he would rather stay with Chicoutimi, but Dilio said the player could not be allowed to play with a Q.S.H.L. club while he still belonged to a team from another league.

Dilio said that there is a special provision in the transfer agreement regarding games in which Wray played for Chicoutimi.

He said the club was protected and no games would be cancelled in the event Wray did have to return to the Beavers.

Chicoutimi played two games so far, winning one of them in which Wray played.

In tomorrow's feature the Senators of Ottawa will supply the entertainment. Gorman's crew has a new coach in the person of Bill Durnan, who is now newcomer to these parts having played with the Montreal Canadiens in exhibition tilts against the locals. Hi Bithorn, the former Cubs' pitcher who has been doing a good job of calling 'em in Puerto Rico this summer, plans to attend Bill McGowan's umpiring school next spring in hopes of landing a good pro job. . . . Clyde Smith, Indiana University coach, admires this week's coaching rival, Ohio State's West Fessler, so extravagantly that he remarks: "If my son is good enough to play college football, I'd like him to play for West." . . . That's before the game, of course. . . . Johnny Attel, who has just "imported" Bobo Olson from Hawaii to fight Ray Robinson in Philadelphia, also is promoting in New Haven and Watertown, Conn. . . . Sort of a chain-store job. . . . Robinson and heavyweight boss Ezzard Charles seem to be running a contest to see who'll be the busiest champ. . . . Moans matchmaker Al Weill: "That Charles wants to fight once a month. That's why we're using so many heavies—trying to dig up some opponents."

tion while Marcel Bessette is flanked by Bernie Vinet and Marcel Fillion to complete the three lines of attack.

The executive is still looking for help for both the blue line and up front and are expecting some encouraging news in the very near future. The team dropped their first tilt in Chicoutimi Sunday, but Thursday night they edged out Shawinigan Falls with a display of their form of last spring.

Coach Dugre is looking for tough opposition this evening from Frank Carlin's bunch of young hockey players, and also from the veterans of Joe Gorman's Ottawa aggregation. The Royals will present many of last year's team in the lineup with a few new up-and-coming juniors and will no doubt battle every inch of the way.

The Senators are a seasoned bunch of players and should give a good account of themselves. Last year both teams, during the schedule, put up some very good games and from the lineups should do the same again.

SHERBROOKE SAINTS HOSTS TO MONTREAL ROYALS TONIGHT

Senior Hockey Is Dead Duck At Lakehead; Junior Teams Going Strong With Four-Club League

Port Arthur, Oct. 14.—Senior hockey is a dead duck at the Lakehead.

Port Arthur Bearcats, one of the oldest senior clubs in the Dominion and winners of four Allan Cup championships, aren't expected to play this season.

For years, a combination of circumstances has been slowly smothering the senior game in this area. In 1949-50 the 30-year-old Port Arthur club—called the Bearcats for half that time—carried the Lakehead burden alone.

An experimental hook-up with Fort Frances and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., collapsed. That was the writing on the wall for Bearcats who were later eliminated from Allan Cup play by Fort Frances Canadians, district champions for three straight years.

The Lakehead's isolation, a heavy loss of young talent to professional clubs, and public apathy to under-par senior teams have been factors contributing to the senior game's decline.

The Lakehead has always been a good spot for professional material, having turned out such recent hockey league stars as Edgar Laprade, Gaye Stewart, Gus Bodnar, Bud Poile and Davey Creighton. Its teen-aged Danny Lewicki is trying to make the jump from junior ranks to the Toronto Maple Leafs in one season.

Hockey will miss the Lakehead Senior loop.

The rival and adjoining Lakehead city of Fort William is to have a hockey rink for the first time in years. But a movement there to revive senior hockey so far has received a cool response.

In contrast with the senior slump, junior hockey looks healthy. Four clubs last season had their best-ever financial year. All four teams—the district champion Port Arthur West End

GOING MANY PLACES — BUT FAST

Just how the ducks are coming down to their familiar lower-Quebec resting places is difficult definitely to state. The weather must be getting tough enough in some northern districts however to have sent them on their way, for Dan Ryan reports three big flights of Canada geese over his Verdun ballfield during the past week. The greater snow geese are down below Quebec in greater numbers than ever, and the Lord willing, I'll be seeing and hearing them once more come Sunday night. Then, on Monday and Tuesday I hope to find out if I learn d anything about shooting geese at James Bay. I better have, for I shall have several very critical companions including General E. de B. Panet, Mr. Charles Fremont and Mr. Tom Wheeler of Wheeler Airlines.

The white geese at Cap Tour-morte will be the centre spot of the most hectic bit of jumping around the country I have ever attempted. Friday evening with Harry Larkin's party I head for Clova, the headquarters of the kingdom of Rodolph Adelbert East, manager of that big operation for the Canadian International Paper Company, which you have heard of before.

Looking Over Kamashigama I leave Clova by fast freight Saturday evening for La Tuque where I hope to catch the midnight train for Quebec. Tuesday evening, after the goose shooting, I fly back to Montreal and pack to leave at 8 a.m. Wednesday for Lac Ouimet thence to fly to O'Connell Lodge on Lac des Loups and again thence to Lake Kamashigama that morning. The latter lake is about 45 miles northeast of Lac des Loups and is territory newly leased by Mr. O'Connell. The real object of this wind-up trip is to try to find out something of what Herb O'Connell has in there.

Reputedly it is excellent moose territory. I'm not very keen to kill a moose, but am taking out a licence in case one attacks me. Archie Jerome and another O'Connell guide will be with me. There should be lots of birds and pik and dore. Anyway I'll be able to tell you about it when I get out I hope.

Headquarters at Cou-Cou Depot. At Clova the party will be bivouaced at Cou-Cou Depot. Who said, "How appropriate?" Right in front of the camp there is a big swirling pool of the upper Gatineau which should be swarming with dore. The last time I was there moose had recently been walking around the camp. Bill White goes this year in place of Sandy McGill. Gordon Hulme, Oscar Knebel and Jim Paisley are repeaters and John Noel will also draw cards this year. John and I will be leaving the rest of the Cou Cous Saturday evening.

Rains Have Helped A Lot. The recent rains have helped out in the bush. First of all they have assisted the wind in beating enough leaves off the trees and shrubs so that a deer or partridge might possibly be seen if flushed. Then the moisture has made the walking less noisy which is always a factor with both deer and birds. And most important of all it has helped to reduce the fire hazard. Quebec has been lucky this fall in this respect, as indeed it was last Spring despite a long drought. It starts to look as though our people are starting to respond to the constant urging to exercise care.

N.B. Forests Are Reopened. New Brunswick had been having a tough time of it up to yesterday, and it started to look as though the bush in the sister province might be closed through the most important portion of their hunting season. The rains came, however, and a wire arrived yesterday from Horace Olock, to the effect that at noon all New Brunswick Counties with the exceptions of Restigouche and Gloucester had been reopened to woods travel and hunting. This will be good news to the many (some from Quebec) who go down there to enjoy their excellent sport for woodcock, grouse, waterfowl and deer.

Dynamiting Season Is On. Among other things this is the dynamiting season. Those fish, including speckled trout, which spawn in the autumn congregate in Bruins, Port Arthur Flyers, Fort William Hurricanes, Rangers and Fort William Columbus Canadians — are hard at practice.

Silk Again Becoming Popular. From Dick Jennings, public relations director of the Cortland Line Company, Cortland, N.Y., who introduced the popular Cam-O-Flage lines, I get the tip that owing to the nylon shortage there is likely to be a return to silk for a time at least.

Nylon has been steadily growing in popularity in recent years owing to several factors. Principally it does not deteriorate as does silk when left wet on the reel. Then again it gives a smaller diameter for equal strength in comparison with silk and is used very generally as backing for salmon lines and trout lines used on salmon or other far running fish.

SPORT SHORTS FROM BRITAIN. By EDWIN S. JOHNSON. London, Oct. 13.—Charges of corruption, trickery and flagrant defiance of recognized rules of sportsmanship, are being tossed in the general direction of an almost sacred British institution—professional soccer.

"Trafficking" in high-class player talent, which critics say is threatening the very foundations of the sport, is the cause of it all. They admit it's a severe indictment involving as it does a game which over an eight-month season attracts more than 1,000,000 spectators every week-end.

Leading the attack is veteran Bob Smith, chairman of the second division club, Manchester City, who for more than 40 years has been actively associated with the development of professional soccer in the country.

"I have heard of men boasting openly of the tainted money they have made out of the transfer racket—and of how they knew that certain panic-stricken clubs could do nothing about it," he said.

He charged that not more than one out of every four clubs affiliated with the football association stood firmly behind the rules they themselves had helped to draw up to govern player transfers.

"The black market in transfers, the under-cover 'drops' of substantial sums of money to players as inducements to join a club, grows worse every season," Smith said. "Today it is threatening the very foundations of big football."

Players, he said, sometimes demanded and got as much as $3,000 as their share of a transfer deal, when the competition between the clubs was particularly keen. Smaller cash payments, gifts of cars, furniture and free rent homes, had also been offered to players, either to change clubs or to remain where they were instead of insisting on a transfer.

When Manchester City last season faced the prospect of losing its place in the first division, the manager had been instructed to strengthen the team regardless of cost. Overtures had been made to several clubs for reinforcements, but nothing had come of the negotiations when the players held out for a "handsome cut" of the transfer fee.

"Believe me, it would have been an easy matter for a rich club like ours to buy or bribe its way out of trouble," Smith declared. "But we preferred to sink nobly to the second division, rather than keep our heads above water by dealing dishonorably."

Unless the clubs agreed wholeheartedly to put a stop to the practice, and action was taken by the football league to enforce existing rules, the future of the game, he said, would be seriously undermined.

As a remedy Smith suggested an amnesty, covering past offenses, should be declared, permitting players and clubs alike to start again with a clean sheet.

"With the amnesty," he added, "I would issue a warning to clubs and players that future defaulters

Veteran Record Carrier

Earl Oates joined the staff of the Sherbrooke Daily Record carriers with a bang, 36 years ago, and he is still going strong. Oldest carrier in years and in years of service, Oates, now 48 years old, picked one of the world's most historic days on which to become a carrier, August 4, 1914—the start of the First World War. He has been selling papers ever since in Sherbrooke with the exception of a brief period at the start of the 1930's when he was a carrier in Danville. The first war, elections and the second war are the times Oates had his biggest sales and he recalls VE-Day in 1945 as one of the biggest of all time. Today his deliveries average about 100 a day. He has customers on Wellington street, Albert, Frontenac, Marquette, Dufferin, Bank, Court and Melbourne.

Activities of Legion Branches in the Eastern Townships

SHERBROOKE BRANCH NO. 10

Kilroy was there, John Kay was there. Result: Kilroy is back here (temporarily, anyway).

So here's the gen. such as it is. Last Monday being a holiday, the scheduled meeting of the Branch was postponed until this coming Monday, October 16th. It is to be hoped that the members will turn out for this meeting, and don't forget that the annual Poppy Day will soon be upon us and plans have to be laid for it. Also Obergefreiter George Irving has his plans made to revive what used to be an annual event in event in Sherbrooke before the war, and a wall attended one too: an Armistice Day dinner. As George and his confreres have put and are putting a lot of work into this project, it is to be hoped that they will have the support of all Legion members and veterans. I shouldn't have to tell you that you needn't expect to get your supper for about fifty cents nowadays, unless you just want a glass of water and a toothpick. No doubt George will tell us on Monday just what the score is.

Joe Morrison is pondering on whether to organize a Cribbage tournament or not. If it is decided to try it, it will be designed to be run-off in a couple of weeks, with a rule to the effect that "you play at such and such a time, or else" on the other tenor drum.

We are planning to try and get Having had a hand in such affairs

KILROY.

Mrs. T. P. Ross Of Melbourne Addressed The Melbourne Ridge Women's Institute

Melbora, Oct. 14.—The October meeting of the Melbourne Ridge Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. John Stalker with Mrs. M. Miller, Mrs. Neil Fowler and Mrs. John Hamilton, the joint hostesses. There were twenty-five members and six visitors present. The present, Mrs. Henry Fowler presided and the meeting opened by singing "O Canada" with Miss Emily McMorine at the piano. The salute to the flag was repeated in unison. The motto was "Love thy neighbour as thyself."

Ross call subject was to name a city in Canada and tell where situated. The secretary, Mrs. G. Stainthorpe read the minutes, which were approved as read. Mrs. R. Kerr gave the regular monthly financial report. The W. I. quilt netted $19 and the social evening held recently $28.63. The balance on hand was $87.

The correspondence consisted of thank you notes, a letter from Mrs. F. E. Taylor, secretary, I.W.I. Macdonald College; and a letter announcing that there will be a "Consumer Meeting" in Melbourne Hall, on October 13, with a guest speaker from Montreal.

Mrs. Florence Roster reported for the sick committee that flowers had been bought for a bereaved member, who is ill.

Three members handed in their birthday money. The County W.I. is selling Christmas Greeting cards. Those wishing to order some, are asked to do so before the County meeting, on Saturday, October 14. This branch is ordering three dozen cards.

Plans were discussed to hold a Halloween masquerade party and it was decided to hold this in the Kingsbury school, on October 20. Admission to be 50 cents with a 10 cent fine for anyone not in costume.

Musically Speaking

By MARGARET DOHERTY

A number of sleepy Cartersville, Ga., citizens have had too much of "Good Night, Irene."

The group recently petitioned the city council to force a drive-in cafe operator to unplug his outside speaker-equipped juke box every night at 10 p.m.

"We've been putting Irene to bed every night until midnight for months," the petitioners complained. "Now we'd like to get some sleep ourselves."

Our thanks to Harry Long, conductor of the Harmonie de Sherbrooke, who, when he heard we were battling a bad attack of 'flu last week, kindly offered to cover the Gagnon-Garant concert at Mont Notre Dame. Other reviewers' opinions are always interesting and particularly so when they do not hesitate to offer constructive criticism.

A memorial to Stephen C. Foster was dedicated last week on the banks of the shady Suwannee River, in White Springs, Fla. The strains of "Way Down Upon The Suwannee River" drifted softly over the water as Mrs. Jessie Welsh Rose, the minstrel's granddaughter, cut the ribbon across the entrance to the memorial building.

Plans are being made for the second in the annual Young Artists Recitals, sponsored by the Quebec Epsilon Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, and more information will be relayed through this column shortly.

The Daughters of Isabella believe in encouraging Canadian talent and as a result are sponsoring a recital by Montreal harpist Cecile Prefontaine, Tuesday, November 7, at the Granada. Miss Prefontaine is well-known to radio listeners and has appeared successfully as soloist with the Quebec Philharmonic as well as with Les Concerts Symphoniques de Montreal, under the direction of Desire Defaux.

October 24 is the date for the second Community Concert Recital, featuring Polish born pianist, Maryia Jonas, who has established a fabulous reputation during the comparatively short time she has been in this country.

Our best wishes go to Serge Garant for success in his New York studies. A talented young musician and composer, proficient on several instruments, Mr. Garant has a promising career ahead of him.

LETTER FROM BRITAIN -

Volunteer Cold Catchers

By A. K. Astbury

One hears a good deal about unorthodox holidays these days, but I doubt if anyone spent a stranger holiday in Britain last summer than the 12 volunteers who have just completed their three-months' stay on a tiny island off the north coast of Scotland. These young people, ten of them university students, spent their summer vacation on Eilean Nan Ron, or Seal Island, trying to do what most of us can do at some time or other without trying—catch a good cold in the head!

You may have heard of the Common Cold Research Unit at Harvard Hospital, Salisbury, in the south-west of England, where volunteers, human "guinea-pigs," are given free board and lodging and three shillings a day pocket money in exchange for the risk of catching a cold. Some of them, for instance, have taken hot baths, stood in draughty passages for half-an-hour without drying, and then sat in wet socks for the rest of the morning—and then not caught cold!

Such investigations into the causes of colds have been continuing at Harvard Hospital for some time, but the occupation of Eilean Nan Ron is the first of the Research Unit's outside ventures, the aim of his new experiment being to find out whether folk living in isolation catch colds more easily than living in towns or cities. The island is isolated enough. It was abandoned 12 years ago by its 25 inhabitants because winter gales often cut it off from the mainland, and for the last few years sheep (and seals) have been its only inhabitants.

Safety Measures

The volunteers' only contact allowed with the mainland was by radio; letters addressed to them on the island were opened in Skerray, nearest village on the mainland, and transmitted across the water by radio. Even the local doctor, in an emergency call to the island, would have been rowed across dressed in a cape with a hood of transparent material in order not to carry infection. There is a standing appeal for volunteers for this valuable work of common cold research.

There has recently been an appeal for volunteers of another kind—for hand knitters, men or women, to knit the woollen jumpers, cardigans, scarves and babies' woolies which find such a ready sale overseas. The appeal, for 2,000 more knitters, came from a non-profit making company run by Britain's Women's Voluntary Services. Then already have 4,000 knitters carrying out overseas orders, but even these are not enough.

The whole of this newly-developing home knitting industry seems to be on a very business-like basis. All knitters answering the appeal have been asked to send in a four-inch square knitted in stocking-stitch with either two-ply wool and No. 12 needles, or three-ply wool and No. 10 needles. If their tension (that is, the number of stitches to the inch) is right and they are enrolled as volunteer knitters, they will then receive patterns and instructions

Frontier Legion Will Hold A Supper On Armistice Day In Stanstead

Rock Island, Oct. 14.—The Women's Legion Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion Frontier branch, No. 5, held its regular meeting on Wednesday evening, October 4, in the officers mess of the local armory.

The meeting opened with the traditional ceremony, the colors were deposited by Mrs. Ada Curtis. The third vice-president, Mrs. Adelaide Frangley was in the chair. It was with regrets that the resignation of the president, Mrs. Henry Crawford, was accepted, due to illness. Mrs. Byron Jenkins was nominated and unanimously elected for this office. It was also decided at the time to elect a first vice-president and Mrs. Richard Reynolds, was unanimously voted into office.

It was voted that a bank account be opened at one of the local banks, by the treasurer, Mrs. Douglas Putney and that the secretary, Mrs. Aileen Arbery, will sign all cheques issued.

In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. Arbery gave the report that $1 had been added to the amount from the food sale, and that $33.82 had been realized from the rummage sale, with the expenses amounting to seven dollars.

It was decided to purchase a two-burner electric hot plate, the purchase to be made by Mrs. Hattie Lowell.

The ladies were then joined by the executive committee of the senior branch, and Mrs. Prangley welcomed the comrades, E. C. Middleton, John Shipway, Lloyd Bliss, Howard Wells, Alex Bacon, Charles Clark and Douglas Putney, who were present to discuss the arrangements for the annual armistice supper, which will be held on Saturday evening, November 11.

Comrade Lloyd Bliss stated that the branch had invited the Foster Cooley Post of Derby Line, the Newport Post, and that this event was open for all men of the service, whether a member of the Legion or not. The menu was planned for approximately seventy-five guests. Mrs. George Hatch was appointed convener of the supper committee to be assisted by Mrs. Edward Curtis, Mrs. Adelaide Frangley, Mrs. Byron Jenkins, Mrs. Ina Wilson, Mrs. Hattie Lowell and Miss Ruby Labere, with the committee meeting held at the home of Mrs. Lowell, on Thursday evening, October 12, at 7.30.

The Ladies' Guild members of Christ Church, Stanstead, were contacted and agreed to serve the supper this year as in the two previous years, and a sum of money was voted to be given them also to pay the sum of $10 to the Anglican Church for the use of their hall for the supper.

There were nineteen members present, one new member, Mrs. Richard Reynolds, was accepted into the branch.

The singing of the national anthem concluded the meeting.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Byron Jenkins, Mrs. Gertrude Lees and Mrs. James Kendrick.

All Auxiliary meetings are held the first Wednesday of the month, but the November meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, November 7, as November 1, is a holiday.

needed parking space.

A tribute was paid to the ladies for the excellent tea which they had provided during the whole year. The treasurer, Miss Kathleen Topp, presented a cheque of $150 to the gentlemen, with the hope that it would be larger next year.

At the close of the dinner, tables were cleared away and dancing was enjoyed by young and old until a late hour.

which they must follow to the letter.

Designers At Headquarters

The promoters have their own designers and, at the London headquarters of the Women's Voluntary Services the "back-room girls," as they are called, work out these designs on sheets of graph paper and then draw up detailed directions in that curious shorthand which only knitters can understand.

At the moment, I understand, cardigans knitted "on the cross" are a speciality, also knitted skirts of very fine wool with stitched pleats. A number of the knitters are men, and very expert they are too. And the fact that hand knitters can work anywhere and in almost any conditions means that the bedridden grandmother in her cottage in the mountains of Wales or Scotland can, and does, work as well as the typist who knits in the bus going home from her office in London. And both get the recognized trade rate for the job.

So much for two classes of volunteers. I am not quite sure whether the members of my third and last class were technically volunteers or not, but I am certain they were quite as happy to carry out their unusual duties as the cold-catchers or the wool-knitters: I refer to the Guardsmen who recently occupied the benches in our new House of Commons so that technical tests could be made of its acoustics and ventilation.

(The old House of Commons was destroyed in a raid in May 1941; the new one, to the furnishing of which the Commonwealth has contributed generously, has yet to be put into use.) Coldstream Guards sat in the Government front bench, while the Irish Guards sat opposite them. While they were addressed successively by an Army education officer and the Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Works, as in a parliamentary debate, the Guardsmen watched the engineers moving about measuring sound, puffing smoke from small generators to test air currents, or observing small sheets of tissue paper fluttering near the ventilators.

Outside, in New Palace Yard, sightseers stared at the strangest sight of all—hundreds of pairs of black army boots guarded by a military policeman and neatly arranged according to sections and platoons. They had been changed for rubber shoes by the Guardsmen so that in marching to their places they should not damage the brand new green and brown carpets just laid on the floor of the new House.

We Are Proud That We Were Chosen To Construct Sherbrooke's Illuminated Cross!

From the earliest settlement days, the Cross has held an important place in the life of French-Canada. The close place the cross held in the hearts of the early settlers is evidenced by the many shrines, some of them centuries old, which dot the country-side.

ATHLETICS AT HOME TO LAKESHORE TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Locals To Field Reinforced Squad To Meet Flyers; Mizner, Laidlaw, Mott And Menyes To Be In Uniform

Sherbrooke Athletics, winless in the first half of the Quebec Rugby Football Union Senior "B" schedule, enter the second half tomorrow, hoping for better things as they go up against Lakeshore, who share the lead with Westmount.

In their first meeting this season, opening game of the schedule, Athletics were beaten 17-1 by Lakeshore. The Flyers then won three more games, but last weekend they suffered their first loss, bowing 7-5 to Westmount.

Athletics, whose inexperience was a big factor in all their losses this fall, will field probably their strongest team of the year for tomorrow's game.

Art Mizner and Ernie Laidlaw, backfielder and end respectively, who have been laid up with injuries, will be back in action and Edgar Mott, husky plugging half from Montreal who was with the team last year, will make his first appearance of the season.

The backfield will be strengthened additionally by the presence of Andy Menyes, a star Montreal soccer player now working in Sherbrooke. Menyes has been keeping in condition by working out with the A's and has decided to turn out with the team.

The additional backfielders likely will result in a strengthening of the line as Bob But, whose fine tackling was a feature at last Sunday's game, will be able to go back to his regular position at end. He played on the half line last weekend, but is more at home at end.

Tomorrow's game is a big one

Sun State To Compete In $10,000 Classic

San Mateo, Calif., Oct. 14.—(P)—Sun State, stretch running three-year-old colt, will go after his third successive stakes win here in the $10,000 added 1 1/16 miles feature race at Bay Meadows today.

Off his preceding performances, Sun State probably will be the post time favorite. He will pack second high weight of 11 pounds. Vito Fino will tote high poundage of 120.

Others named overnight were: Stoner Creek, Outthelblue, Precision, Blue Tiger, Golden Glory, Coma, Tarado, Call Bell and Marconi II.

Socrates Given Nod In Cambridgeshire

London, Oct. 14.—(P)—Socrates remained the favorite for the Cambridgeshire Stakes at an official call over of the odds by bookmakers at London's Victoria Club. The three-year-old colt lost some support however and slipped from odds of 7-1 a week ago to 15-2. The 1 1/4 mile race will be run at Newmarket Oct. 25.

Odds on the second choice, Fastnet Rock, shortened from 100 to 9 to 17 to 2. The biggest drop involved Burnt Bow, quoted tonight at 100 to 7 after being only a 33 to 1 shot a week ago. The big change came after the colt ran a photo finish second in a good class race yesterday at Newmarket.

COACH CLAIR FIGURES

Canadians Will Be O.K.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—Canadians needn't take a back seat to any nation in sports. Frank Clair, U.S. born and trained coach of the Toronto Argonaut Football Club said during a series of football talks on the weekly radio sessions of Sports College recently.

Summing up fundamentals of the game for the benefit of young players and their coaches, Clair stressed "condition" and "desire" as the two most important factors in football. "I'm impressed with the Canadian boys I've seen," he added. "I like their attitude, competitive spirit and their ability to absorb rugged contact, such as you get in hockey."

Clair was interviewed by Lloyd A. Percival, director Sports College, a public service product which distributes coaching and advice on all phases of sports and physical conditioning through its weekly C.B.C. radio show which reaches an estimated 750,000 persons, a large literature service and a special clinic service.

The former American pro star who has resulted Argos into a Gray Cup contender warned high school coaches that they often hurt their team's chances by teaching too many plays, while failing to concentrate on the fundamentals of blocking and tackling. "I played on an undefeated team in high school," Clair said, "and we only had 12 plays."

"Adapt your system to the player, not the player to the system," Clair added.

"I can always tell when a player on my team has been well coached in high school because of his attentive attitude and the habits he has brought with him."

Clair, now considered one of Canada's top coaches, said the real secrets of coaching success are a sound knowledge of the game's fundamentals, plus proper presentation and organization of practices.

HOCKEY SEASON OPENS TONIGHT

Ivan Dugre will present his 1950-51 edition of the Sherbrooke Saints to the local fans this evening when they will be hosts to Frank Carlin and his youthful Royals at the Arena.

Tomorrow afternoon His Worship Mayor Charles B. Howard will officially open the season. The Senators of Ottawa will be the visiting club to get things underway.

Coach Dugre and Forest Keene will present a different lineup to the one which reached the Eastern Canada finals last spring. In fact they have only ten left from the championship squad and the rest are newcomers to the team, but if we can judge by their showing in Shawinigan Falls Thursday, it won't be long before the fans will make them feel right at home.

The Saints got away to a head start Sunday in Chicoutimi when Rolfe Hebert's Saguenays took them by the count of 5-1, but they were a going aggregation in the Falls Thursday. The boys put on a real display of two-way hockey and had plenty of fight as well.

Even the little fellows on the squad were throwing their weight around to good advantage.

After listening to the reports about Sunday's tilt it seemed that I was looking at a completely different hockey team Thursday.

Even Dugre and Manager Keene, who were disgusted with the boys Sunday, seemed very well pleased with them in the Falls.

We understand that it is quite early to judge the squad but at least they can put up an effort and fight a little, which some of the boys just failed to do. But Thursday they made up for it and gave the fans something to think about. In plain English "they were a going concern."

We understand that the executive after a couple more players are big, strong skaters and look as though they can take it when the going gets rough. Ivan has laid down the law and the boys are taking orders without a grumble, which speaks very well for everything. The team spirit looks good and everyone is doing his best to win.

This week-end the squad will get real hard tests as both the Royals and Senators have pretty good outfits together, but if Thursday's tilt can be used as a measuring rule than the fans will see two very good games, unless some of the boys get a little nervous before their home crowd. Which happens quite often.

To the fans, let's give them a real hand and make the newcomers feel right at home. I know for a fact that some of boys are a little on the shaky side, after listening to their conversation coming home on the bus Thursday. They know they are on the spot, but you can rest assured that they will do their best. So let's give them 100% support tonight and get them started off on the right foot. What do you say fans?

Two football games are on the agenda this week-end starting this afternoon when the Sherbrooke

High School will be hosts to Bishop's College School and tomorrow afternoon the Athletics will be at home to the Lakeshore Flyers from Montreal.

This afternoon's tilt will take place on the High School Campus and is slated to commence at 2:30. The purple-and-white youngsters from Lennoxville have a pretty good squad and have plenty of speed, as for the local team it will be their first tests against a strong outfit.

It is a shame that tomorrow's affair should clash with the opening of the hockey season but that is the way the schedule was drawn up. The local team tried to change it but was impossible and so it stands. Just another instance of sporting events over lapping.

A good crowd is expected to be on hand when things get underway as well over hundred twenty-five tickets have been sold. The dinner is scheduled to commence at 7:00 followed by the presentation of trophies and then end up with a dance. It looks to me as though the softball boys, and their supporters are in for a fine evening.

Bob Wach, the hurler who tossed the ball over the catcher's head in St. Hyacinthe to give them a victory over the Granby team last summer, was investigated by Mr. Trautman's office for his actions in the game.

Wacha claims he lost his temper and tossed the ball away because his second baseman, Al Armour, was not playing ball. Sounds funny to me and it isn't the way we heard it. But Wacha has entered the Armed Services, and it looks as though that is what saved him from further suspension. He was warned however if a second affair comes up he will be placed in the ineligible list.

See where Bill Heindl staged a one-man brawl in Saskatoon last week. He was a Portland Eagle player when he got a stick on the noggin but Old Bill came roaring back and landed a couple of lusty punches before retiring. He was always a tough customer and could look after himself pretty well.

He is playing for Saskatoon with Larry Zeidel, although neither one has obtained their release from their former Q.S.H.L. teams. That is still in abeyance and will be cleared away within the next few weeks.

Ray Barry was waived out of the league and is now the property of the Edmonton Flyers. No doubt they must find it hard to do business with Forest Keene, at least the local guiding hand obtained his price for Barry, which is something.

World champion New York Yankees To Receive $5,737.95 Each While Phillies To Draw $4,081.34 Apiece

Cincinnati, Oct. 14.—(P)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler today split up the players' share of the receipts from the World Series.

The world champion New York Yankees gave full shares of $5,737.95 to 32 players, coaches and others. Thirteen others received partial shares.

Philadelphia Phils, National League champs and losers to the Yanks in four straight games of the World Series, allotted full shares of $4,081.34 to 32 members of their roster. Nine others came in for partial shares.

Walter Mulberry, secretary of baseball, who made the announcement of the split, said the shares were "a little on the low side" but he explained it was due to the fact players of both clubs were generous in deciding who should share in the money and for how much.

The split did not include any part of the $975,000 derived from the sale of television and radio rights. Mulberry said a final decision on that would not be made "for some little time."

The other first division finishers in both leagues also came in for a share of the spoils.

Detroit's runner-up Tigers in the American League split full shares of $1,042.23 among 31 men with partial shares going to 11 others. The third-place Boston Red Sox gave out 31 full shares of $736.93 and there were six partial shares. Fourth-place Cleveland had 31 full shares of $347.41 and 10 partial shares.

In the National League, runner-up Brooklyn allotted 30 full shares of $1,128.18 and seven partial shares.

The third-place New York Giants had 31 full shares of $736.93 and there were six partial shares. The fourth-place Boston Braves split their money into 35 full shares of $334.66 and four partial shares.

Dart Out To Cop Maryland Race

Bowie, Md., Oct. 14.—(P)—Dart By, which put Broome Stable ahead of Calumet Farm in money winnings for the year last week, is favored to bring in some more dough today.

The five-year-old gelded son of Whirlaway — a famous Calumet horse — is the "hot horse" in the $10,000 added Southern Maryland Handicap, closing feature of Bowie's 12-day meeting.

Dart By will be after his fourth straight stakes triumph in the 1 1/16-mile event. Last week he won the Farrell Handicap here and the $7,875 he brought in put Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane ahead of Calumet in 1950 earnings, $508,064 to $507,955.

Calumet has been leading money winner the last four years. Mrs. Sloane's only such distinction was in 1934. Nine other horses are entered in the Southern Maryland.
