Council to meet lessees

City Assistant General Manager Norman Dawe said yesterday that Westmount's six gasoline station lessees will be called before Council Committee at 8.30 p.m. Monday night to offer further suggestions on solving the closing hours of their stations.

"The meeting is routine," Mr. Dawe said, "to hear if they (lessees) had anything to say."

He explained that a great many people and different groups, including the owner oil companies, have submitted their views and this meeting was to hear more about the views of the operators.

"We want to hear from the people affected by the hours," Mr. Dawe said.

Canadian authors meet to discuss television

By VALENTINA RAHR

BLANCHE and SANDY HINKEL, Somerville avenue, a husband and wife team of architects, are working on a project involving a large park in St. Johns, Newfoundland. It will be regional in character, over 200 acres in area, and the master plan calls for a restaurant, bathing pool, amphitheatre and play area for children.

It will be the only park of its kind in Newfoundland. The government has acquired additional property to add to the older, smaller park which stood on the site proposed for the new one.

Blanche (nee Lemco) is a graduate of Westmount High, and a McGill gold medallist.

FRANK SCOFIELD, Sherbrooke street west, ski school instructor, and ski shop owner at St. Adele, is flying abroad next weekend to Switzerland, with 15 to 20 ski enthusiasts. They will visit Zurich, and other famous Swiss ski resorts, returning to Canada by March 30.

This will be Mr. Scofield's tenth annual ski trip abroad. Some members of the party plan to visit Paris and Rome also.

AUTHORS

The TV Group of the Canadian Authors Association, will meet next Thursday, March 24, at the home of Mr. Wm. N. Agard, 70 Columbia avenue.

Chairman of the TV Group this year is Rev. Fred Wilkes, author of "They Rose From The Dust," a recent review of which read: "superbly written collection of anecdotes and episodes garnered from settlement days on the central prairies of Canada. For all its humor, colorful characters, this is a scholarly work."

The author has gone over five diaries, and 1,100 letters to compile it. The final result is perhaps as important a piece of history as has ever come out of the Canadian West.

The Westmount YMCA starts its 24th annual Learn-to-Swim campaign on March 28. Boys' classes will be held on Tuesday and Friday starting every half hour from 2 p.m. and ending with a 4:30 p.m. mixed class. Girls' classes will be run the same times as the boys but will be held on Mondays and Thursdays.

Registration has been heavy, especially for the second course which starts in May. Due to this fact registrations for second course are temporarily closed.

Parents who wish to avoid disappointment are urged to register in the first course. Places in the following classes are still available: Boys, 2:30-3:30; 4 and 4:30 p.m. Girls: 2:30, 3, 3:30, 4 and 4:30 p.m.

The instructors this year will be Miss Nellie de Voss who is a qualified Royal Life Saving instructor, and Mrs. Olive Campbell who is a qualified YMCA instructor and examiner. Both have experience in teaching.

Miss de Voss has been with the Westmount YMCA Learn-to-Swim program for the last four years. Mrs. Campbell was with Southwestern Y in Verdun for many years and instructs for them when their classes are held at the Westmount Branch.

It's official! The Gym Revue will be held on April 8 and 9 at the Westmount Y. The theme of this year's show will be "Around the World in 80 Minutes!".

Boys and girls are already hard at work getting this show in top shape for the opening night. A wide variety of acts will entertain and amuse the audience.

Tickets are now available and may be secured by contacting any youth member of the Westmount Y or by inquiring at the YMCA, 4585 Sherbrooke street west.

LEW KOZLOV

Lew Kozlov, 60, 4488 Circle road, one of Montreal's most prominent real estate figures and leader in the local Jewish community, died suddenly last Saturday. The funeral was held Monday afternoon from Paperman and Sons on Cote des Neiges road.

Mr. Kozlov was generally considered as the man most responsible for aiding the rapid growth of St. Laurent, Cote St. Luc, and lately St. Martin by his foresight in erecting dwellings and apartments where people were formerly reluctant to settle because of the distance from the centre of the city.

Born in Russia, Mr. Kozlov came to Montreal as a boy. He was educated in a local public school and attended the High School of Montreal.

Mr. Kozlov entered business when he took up manufacturing of hats and caps but gave it up in 1927 to move to New York where he started his work in real estate.

Mr. Kozlov is survived by his widow, the former Mildred Kalichman; a daughter, Mrs. I. Durben (Benita); two brothers, Ben and Bill; a sister, Mrs. A. Klein; and one grandchild.

R. G. Long to speak

Unity plans 'open house' — National Boys' Club Week

By MAURICE MARIASINE

NATIONAL BOYS' CLUB WEEK — APRIL 4-10: In commemoration of National Boys' Club Week, which takes place in Canada and the U.S. the week of April 4, the Unity Boys' Club will provide an opportunity for citizens to see the benefit accruing to youth from the well-planned programs — physical, vocational and cultural — that are being operated under the direction of qualified leaders.

"Open House" at Unity is an invitation to everyone to take an interest in what their sons and daughters are doing to develop into good citizens, irrespective of creed or nationality. The boys and girls are proud of the skills they have developed, of their hobbies and handicrafts. The praise of their elders is an encouragement to even better effort.

A series of special events is planned for National Boys' Club Week. It is expected that the ninth annual invitational table tennis tournament will take place during the week.

UNITY QUIZ CONTEST: The seventh week of the 10 week series in the Unity Boys' Club Quiz Contest has been reached and some 20 contestants of the 100 playing the game are maintaining a steady pace with near perfect scores. The contest continues until April 15.

Smoker lights up - and boom!

An unidentified pedestrian walking on Summit Crescent Tuesday received a rude surprise when he lit his cigarette and had the street flash up in his face.

Fire department officials explained that a gas leak somewhere along the street had permeated the air with gas and the man lighting a match caused a small flash explosion.

The man was not injured, but he called the fire department to investigate.

Fire inspectors are checking for the leak by recording meters to determine if any houses are suddenly using an abnormal quantity of gas. Quebec Natural Gas are also trying to locate a leak in their piping.

Fell asleep at the wheel — crashes car

It doesn't pay to fall asleep at the wheel of a car at any time, and Ronnie G. Lalonde of Huntingdon found out it can be worse when it's done on Western avenue in Westmount, especially when he hit another auto.

The accident sent three occupants of the car, Lalonde, Leo Coppiello and Grace Coppiello to the hospital to be treated for cuts and bruises.

Lalonde told police he dozed at the wheel while driving east on Western avenue. His car crashed into one driven by Albect MacWha, 3518 Addington, causing extensive damage but no personal injuries.

Baha'i New Year Sunday

This Sunday marks the beginning of the Baha'i New Year, an event which coincides with the coming of spring.

To the Baha'is, the significant springtime is the renewal of the spirit of man which comes at the time of the appearance of a new Prophet.

This will be discussed further at a public meeting by Rowland Estall at the Montreal Centre of the Baha'i World Faith, 1548 Pine avenue west at 8:15 Sunday night. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Fund drive solicitors are sought

Volunteers to help in the 1960 fight to save lives from cancer are urgently needed, Mrs. D. Slattery, Holton avenue, Westmount chairman of the Canadian Cancer Society said today. The Society's annual education and fund-raising drive starts here April 6.

Mrs. Slattery said that "any persons who can and who will spare the time will be of invaluable help in a number of important capacities.

"Through the careful planning and organizing which has been going on for the past several weeks under our committee chairmen, each volunteer will have an integral role in this life-saving campaign."

We need people to solicit funds in the door-to-door drive. The provincial goal is $505,000 which will be used for research, education and service," Mrs. Slattery declared.

Those who wish to volunteer are asked to register at 2185 Bishop street or telephone VI. 9-2392.

STUDY OF CONCENTRATION: When photographer Tedd Church was asked to come up with something different from last Thursday's Westmount stamp auction, he turned in this picture showing A. Sadler examining the watermark on a German air mail issue. For philatelists, he is magnifying a small light source and difussing it evenly over the surface of the stamp.

Ex-NHL referee 'decides,' two exotic dancers freed

For a fellow who for years as a NHL referee was subjected to such calls of derision as, "Where's your seeing-eye dog?" Red Storey, Beaconsfield avenue, can see pretty good when the sights are worth watching.

Storey's business was to rule on what was clean hockey in the NHL.

Last Friday he was called on by Sessions Judge Gerald M. Almond to give evidence on an entirely different matter, but with the same question — was it clean?

Storey was called to testief on a night club dance routine he saw at Champs Showbar last August. The 42 year-old former senior arbiter of the NHL called it "clean" and helped to get two young exotic dancers acquited.

Once a Big Four football star, and now a distillery salesman, Storey told Judge Almond he was present at Champs on the night in question and saw the two accused girls go through their routine.

"There was nothing wrong with it," he said. "I like a ringside seat and I had taken my wife to see the show several times. If it was good enough for her I can assure you it was not shocking or depraving."

Storey's views were confirmed by a Valleyfield sports events promoter who was also a customer in the club on the night of the visit of morality squad constables.

The accused, Georgette Blaise, 21, and Barbara Braga, 24, both denied the depositions of the constables who said their performance included immoral features. Both insisted the only "clothing" they shed consisted of an eight-yard length of veiling which left them properly covered.

So far we haven't heard the complaints usually thrown out at Storey that he's showing favoritism.

Vic Hall heating tenders approved

Westmount City Council, at a whirlwind nine minute meeting Monday night, approved tenders for new heating in Victoria Hall in the total amount of $24,935, less $100 for salvage from the present system.

In the absence of Mayor J. C. Cushing, who was out of town on private business, Alderman F. B. Common conducted the brief meeting.

The tender of A. Cooper and Son Limited for the installation of central heating equipment in the hall was approved. The tender, submitted March 9, was for $18,000 less the $100 salvage.

The contract, to be awarded subject to the approval of the City attorney, will include the price of $1,050 for electrical work to be done by Girouard Electrical Service Reg'd. The taxes will also be included.

The March 3 tender of Robert M. Miller Construction Company Limited for alteration work to the boiler room of the hall in the amount of $6,935 was also approved. The price includes taxes, permits and insurance.

The two contracts will bring the total approved so far for the central heating to $43,835. Council approved $17,000 for modern boilers and $2,000 for bringing in natural gas at their meeting of February 29.

Referred to committee at the last council meeting was the question of piping and radiators, which will be an additional expense.

The motion on the tenders, unanimously accepted, stated the contracts should be signed by the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer. This means a delay at least until Monday when Mayor Cushing returns to the city.

LIBRARY ADDITION

Expenditures approved last year by Council for construction of the new library addition and renovations to the existing building, $235,000, needed a new shot-in-the-arm by committing a further $3,700 from by-law 625 to pay the final bills.

Council changes public relations committee name

Alderman Michael Tucker moved at Council's Monday night meeting to change the name of the newly-formed Public Relations Committee to the Public Information Committee.

"It is considered," he said, "that this is a more appropriate name."

Mr. Tucker was appointed to this committee at Council's first meeting following the January aldermanic elections.

No announcement has been made as yet regarding the purpose of the Public Information Committee, or whether it has been put into use.

A letter was read by secretary-treasurer A. W. D. Swan from the Council of Baie d'Urfé, copies of which have been circulated to all municipalities, advising a motion had been passed censuring the decision of the Metro Corporation to attempt to regulate store closing hours on the Island of Montreal.

The chief complaint seemed to be in the fact that Metro had not served prior notice of their intention to have the closing hour regulation added to their list of administrative powers.

"We'll think about it and discuss it again," pro-Mayor Common said.

ADJOURNMENT

The Council meeting, which started at 8:01 p.m. was adjourned at exactly 8:10 p.m. when it went into private session.

WE SAY

Who says Westmount is 'Montreal 6'?

WE advocate mass public disobedience.

To Montreal Postmaster Rene Boileau we say: "Nuts!"

Westmount is a City, one of the most distinctive in the Province of Quebec.

We are proud that we work and live in Westmount.

Just because it is considered more bureaucratically convenient to the Post Office Department that we should sink our civic identity and simply become "Montreal" followed by a number — this is no reason why we should do it.

And we won't.

Let Mr. Boileau quote the authority by which he tells us to change our addresses. Was it an act of Parliament, or an order-in-council?

In fact, we think Mr. Boileau could be getting himself into hot water with the Quebec authorities, jealous guardians of provincial rights. It seems Quebec names places and grants them charters. A federal official, albeit the important Montreal Postmaster, is not readily going to change what is writ in law at Quebec without a first class row.

To help our mail on its way we will permit of Westmount 6, Que.

But Montreal 6, never!

Thick barbed wire and boards marked "Danger" guard nothing but a heap of scrap-iron. The actual site of the rocket-pit seems to be a thatched farmhouse, with yokels in smocks smoking clay pipes. Oil companies send replies

Sir: In response to letters written to the presidents of five oil companies with service stations in Westmount, I have received three replies:

1ST: From J. C. Clapinson, president of the Champlain Oil Products Limited.

"Our Montreal retail supervisor, G. E. Morency, did attend a meeting at the Westmount City Hall in response to an invitation to do so. Before attending he was instructed by our vice-president, Mr. Esdaile, to act only in the capacity of an observer in order that we should be kept informed of any changes in the City's regulations.

"Since that time no action has been taken by our company and any suggestion that threats or coercion, either real or implied, have been used towards the operators of our two Westmount service stations is entirely unfounded. I have the highest regard for Mr. Desjardins and Mr. Gaumond, the two lessees in question and am quite content to leave to their good judgment, as successful and independent businessmen, the opening hours of their two stations.

"I just wish to assure you that we made no overtures to the City of Westmount about opening hours, and have had no contact with them since."

2ND: From W. Harold Rea of Canadian Oil Companies Limited (White Rose):

"It should be pointed out that this is a matter for the operators of the stations to work out among themselves. They are independent businessmen, with the right to organize as they see fit. There is no reason why these people cannot get together and work out an arrangement for their combined benefit and convenience.

"Let me assure you, Mr. Morris, that Canadian Oil is not a prime mover in this matter. We are prepared to abide by the local regulations but intend to remain competitive."

3RD: J. P. Callum, writing on behalf of W. M. V. Ash, president of the Shell Oil Company:

"We, ourselves, have left the solution of the difficulty with the City of Westmount and the service station people. Shell has just one service station in Westmount, and our dealer has been with the station for many years. I am sure he respects the feelings of his customers and the citizens of the City and would do everything possible to maintain the community character."

No doubt we will soon have similar expressions of good spirit from both the Imperial Oil Limited and the British American Oil Company.

I am sure that we all are extremely proud of the service station lessees we have in Westmount and the outstanding service provided by the oil companies through them to our city.

Examiner profile:

He prevents rather than cures

WHEN the Dawson Boys' Club opened last September in Verdun the men behind the move hoped for an initial enrolment of approximately 600 children and teenagers and their long range plans called for an eventual membership of 1,000.

Within six months, however, 1,600 boys and girls between the ages of six and 16 had crowded into the spanking new club quarters.

At their disposal they had a complete gymnasium, woodworking shop, six craft rooms, a choice of 15 different crafts for boys and girls, and a roof outfitted with barbeque pit, shuffleboards layouts plus hopscotch courts for the younger children.

But while these material benefits may have helped attract the children at first they are not unique. The YMCA and YMHA, plus several churchgroups, have offeerd similar attractions. Yet the Boys' Club movement in Canada and the United States continues to gain momentum.

A year ago there were 64 clubs in Canada. Now there are 75 with more underway. "We're speaking now of clubs that are members of the Boys' Clubs of Canada and through the national organization affiliated with the U. S. government," Lorne Walls, of Thornhill avenue, Westmount, president of the Dawson Boys' Club explained.

"I think the movement would spread even faster if more people realized just what today's Boys' Club is," he said. "It's not a club for underprivileged children, nor for juvenile delinquents. We haven't found one juvenile delinquent in our Verdun club."

The misconceptions so many people have stem from the origin of the movement.

"The Boys' Club movement," he explained, "started as an undertaking for underprivileged children back in depression days. The youngsters were given coal, shoes and other clothing, food and free medical care. In the late 40's such clubs were found to be of some volue in helping so-called 'delinquents' straighten out, but this is a byproduct, not the main purpose of the club.

"Whenever we're forced to discuss our work in terms of juvenile delinquency we state that the Boys' Club movement is a preventive measure rather than a cure. We can't hope to end juvenile delinquency. There are too many factors that can cause it in the first place, not just a lack of something to do for the children. But we're willing to work with other groups wherever possible to help alleviate this problem."

The Dawson club is an outgrowth of the first Boys' Club in Canada which opened in Griffintown. When this area of the city became heavily industrialized the club sought new quarters.

"We chose Verdun, again not because we felt children there were underprivileged in a material sense, but because there was a large population of youngsters in the area and not sufficient recreational and social outlets for them."

The club opened with a full-time staff of four and supplemented these with volunteer workers drawn from parents and other interested members of the community. There are approximately 60 volunteers today "and we'll need 100 within a short time," Mr. Walls said.

LORNE WALLS

"It's the responsibility of people between the ages of 20 and 40 to get out and work with a movement such as ours—or with any other organization devoted to the welfare and well-being of the community.

"It's not just a question of 'doing good'," Mr. Walls said, "nor of showing others what a wonderful person you are. It's necessary that people my age (he's 29) help shoulder the responsibilities of living in a community."

Responsibility is perhaps the key to the success of the Boys' Club movement, the youthful president added.

"The club provides the means whereby youngsters can put into practice the disciplines taught in the home and the spiritual and secular knowledge given them by church and school.

"We've provided the children with their own little world. They run the club, we only supervise and assist where such help is needed or requested. The Club is theirs to administer, improve and control.

"In the near future the Boys' Club organization will be the voice of adolescence — a well-trained, disciplined voice heard with respect throughout the country and raised with respect.

"After all," said Mr. Walls, "isn't this claim for recognition given as the biggest problem of adolescents today and one of the underlying causes of their rebellion?"

Mr. Walls came by his interest in boys' club work quite honestly. "My father had been active for years in the Griffintown club and the keen interest and satisfaction he derived from it attracted me. He encouraged my interest and in 1950 I joined as a member of the Board."

He was elected president in 1954.

In addition to putting in full-time work at Dawson, Mr. Walls has found time to play a leading role in his Westmount community. He is an executive member of the Westmount Municipal Association, a member of the board of management of the Westmount YMCA, chairman, public relations committee Metropolitan YMCA and a director of the Boys' Clubs of Canada.

He was educated at Roslyn School, Bishop's College School and McGill. After graduation he spent nine years in the Army's Black Watch regiment and retired with the rank of captain.

He is married to the former Barbara MacLean.

His work as an account executive with Cockfield Brown Co., Ltd. is a far cry from the social worker or child psychologist so often associated in the public mind with youth work.

"I admit to having no experience in this field, except what little I've picked up during the past 10 years," he said.

"But no one should be frightened away from such work by inexperience. All that's needed is desire."

The oversubscribed membership of 1,600 in the Dawson Boys' Club is sufficient testimony to the desire shown by Mr. Walls and his fellow workers.

Cancer Society plans 2 meetings

Two meetings of volunteer canvassers, who will take part in the Canadian Cancer Society's annual fund raising campaign in April, will be held shortly. The first is at Westminster School, 5621 McMurray avenue, Cote St. Luc, at 8:15 p.m. on March 23 and the second at Loyola College (foyer) 7141 Sherbrooke street west at 8:15 p.m. on March 24.

A doctor will be present to answer questions and an officer of the Society will tell the canvassers something of the work and the aims of the Canadian Cancer Society. One short documentary film, dealing with cancer work and education in Canada, will be shown.

Capital Punishment:

Judge may suggest, jury passes sentence

By SHIRLEY FENTON

While Parliament debates the issue in Ottawa, electors here passed judgment on capital punishment. An ethical standard which forbids premeditated taking of life outside the law and condones it within the law was found to be basically unsound by West End voters.

A sizeable panel was chosen at random. They were asked:

Do you thing capital punishment should be abolished?

If you were called to serve on a murder trial jury what would you do?

70% were against the death sentence, 90% would remake the laws governing it. 85% would serve as jurors but all of these, although willing to accept their responsibility, expressed grave doubts as to their right to take a life. They found themselves to be precariously balanced between upholding the written law and observing the unwritten law — conscience.

Louis Boucher, 4841 Sherbrooke street west: "We are told that our lives do not belong to us. We didn't ask to be born, but we are not allowed to take our own life. If a man takes a life and we put him to death because of this, aren't we doing the same thing? What can he do then? There must be some other way . . . there must be."

Some were startled by the realization that in a murder trial, the juror is the judge. The bench proposes, but the jury disposes.

Mrs. E. Brooks, 6815 Sherbrooke street west: "I've got very mixed feelings . . . if a man is thoroughly bad and has done a bad deed I think I don't (wish capital punishment to be abolished) . . . He's no good to himself and no good to the community. Other times, I think there are many causes for murder. It's a tremendous responsibility."

Would Mrs. Brooks act as a juror? "You have me now . . . I hate to think I'm not so brave. Mrs. Brooks is not sure she is in favor of the death penalty for murder committed in excitement . . . "but under certain circumstances I think I could convict a man. You've given me something to think about."

Mrs. G. E. Broomhall, her son Fred and a young friend, Jim Watt, 4641 Bessborough avenue. Both Mrs. Broomhall and Jim Watt are against capital punishment; Fred is for it. "Let 'im burn," he called out from the background. His friend Jim commented tersely: "He hasn't too much on the ball." There was laughter and Jim continued: "I don't think they, the jury, should have the right to take anyone else's life." All would agree to serve on a jury.

One thoughtful young man commented on "the U.K.'s new idea . . . second offenders and for murdering a policeman. I think that's better than absolute capital punishment for murder."

Boyd Campbell, 4217 Kensington avenue: "Not altogether, but a lot of revision is needed . . . as to who is entitled to it and who isn't." Mr. Campbell would not feel right in accepting the task of judging anyone in a murder trial. He said it would be "too serious a responsibility."

Both Mr. and Mrs. L. Cameron, 1260 Decarie bouleavrd think that capital punishment should be abolished. On consultation with each other, they found the matter a difficult one, but were in final agreement. "My husband thinks my judgment is pretty good," said Mrs. Cameron.

Murder in the first degree — that is, premeditated murder — is punishable in this country by the scaffold; in others, by the gas chamber, electric chair, decapitation, impalement, the firing squad and more or less ingenious methods.

Members of parliament argue and vote; the public searches its conscience. If the people of the country have begun to toll the death knell for capital punishment, the sound is of a tocsin, an alarm bell.

Meanwhile, men will swing.

Oil Companies . . .

sured me that this was a private matter between the lessees and the oil companies.

Last Monday night I attended the council meeting expecting to hear this vitally important issue discussed. As usual, disappointment greeted me for about eight dull minutes, then adjournment as usual for a private committee meeting.

I met a man in the hall who said he worked for an oil company and had come for an appointment with the committee. It would be interesting to know what was discussed in the secrecy of that meeting.

We hope the new committee on information will use the Examiner to dissipate some of this secrecy, and that each councillor will stand up and be counted.

It is now about six months since the lessees first asked for a by-law to be passed. We hope that we don't have to wait till the next election to get justice on this issue of vital importance to the character our city. Democratic procedures should function best at the local level, but if they are confined by secrecy, there is little hope that they can survive on the provincial or national level against the inroads of totalitarianism.

Everyone knows that a policy that would force unpopular and unreasonable hours upon a quiet residential, God-fearing community such as ours without consideration for the wishes of its citizens, or the economic well-being of the service station operators, should be doomed to failure.

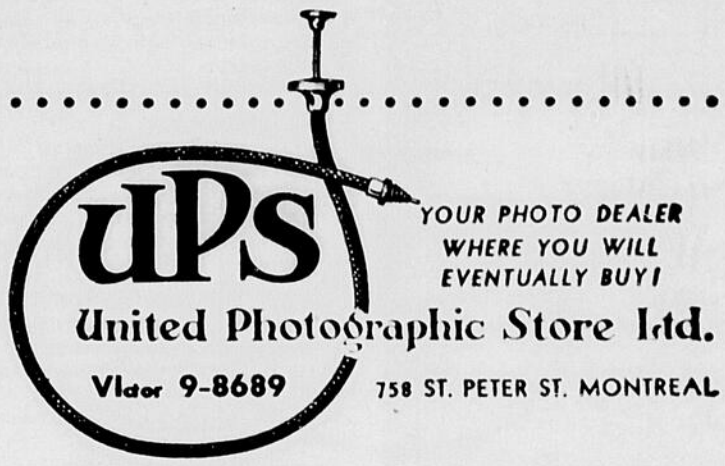

To whom is the City Hall responsible?

God has abundantly blessed Westmount in so many ways, and we at the peril of our lives dare not forget His Statutes or the costly and noble sacrifices of the past which have so enriched and blessed our lives.

Let us stand resolutely united to maintain those high principles that have made Westmount great, and will make her even greater tomorrow, be a blessing to all her people and a worthy and honorable example to the whole world.

Retarded Kids campaign slated for May 15 to 30

The Quebec Association for Retarded Children has announced a combined campaign for 1960 to cover its four schools in the Montreal area and its summer camp at St. Lazare. Previously, respective schools in Cote St. Luc, L'Abord-à-Plouffe, on the Lakeshore and the School for Handicapped Children on north St. Lawrence Boulevard conducted independent campaigns to cover operating needs.

Named to head the 1960 campaign, which has an objective of $370,000 to cover an

A. TONER BRODEUR

18-month period, is A. Toner Brodeur, 72 Sunnyside avenue, Westmount, president of Cassidy's Limited, who has been a director of the School for Handicapped Children since 1942. His deputy chairman is J. Wallace Powell, supervisor, Quebec Branches, Royal Bank of Canada. The campaign will be held on Montreal Island and environs from May 15 to 30.

In announcing the combined appeal, under the Retarded Children's Fund, Mr. Brodeur said that the tremendous increase in demand for admission of mentally afflicted children into the Association's schools calls for a period of consolidation and a careful look at the future by all concerned with the problem.

He pointed out that, "although mental retardation is not new to our society, it is only in recent years that it has really come to the attention of the general public. Statistically," he added, "it is authoritatively recognized that 30 of every 1,000 children born are mentally retarded; the most significant handicap in our society today.

"In Montreal and vicinity alone the number of retarded children could be as high as 16,000. The public school system absorbs some of these children in special classes but there are thousands more who cannot be accommodated."

He said, "the Association is conducting an organized program of development in its class curriculum and parents' counselling activities with the assistance of qualified personnel and professional advisory boards.

"The Association," he continued, "has no endowment. Lack of operating funds now limits its present work and denies it the opportunity to expand its services to meet the needs of a long waiting list.

"We have only received modest amounts in government subsidies and school board tuition payments. We seek a more equally divided share of cost between government and the public."

Mr. Brodeur said the problem of mental retardation is everyone's concern. "It is not restricted to the afflicted children but is a serious physical and emotional strain upon parents and family life as a whole." He said, "retarded children can be helped, and are being helped through the work of the Association."

'Dia's Muire Duit, agus Naom Padraig leat,' or an Irish blessing on you all

By VERONICA SINEL

An emerald set in the gem of the sea,
Each blade of thy meadows, thy faithful heart prizes.
Dear Erin, how sweetly thy green bosom rises,
Thou queen of the West, the world's cushla ma cree.

Ireland! The land of saints and scholars! Tir-na-oge. Land of the ever young. Of the hundred thousand welcomes. The soft rain clouds spread a grey veil over the hills, but soon the magic that is Ireland burst through as the golden sun tears apart the misty cloak releasing to view the incredible green of the fields, heavenly blue of sky, and the clean air, fresh and sweet, over all.

On this 17th day of March many Irish exiles will turn their thoughts towards Ireland, and recall happy childhood days spent climbing the hills, guzzling for trout, or walking barefoot through the fields to search for wild flowers, or gather blackberries, juicy and sweet. I can still smell the brown, wet earth, and hear the busy stream rush by, as I reached for the first primroses of Spring, and my excitement as I discovered the first shy violet. The best primroses were always on the far bank of the stream, and I well recall how often, in taking a buck lepp across, I'd landslap in the middle of the water!

St. Patrick came to Ireland in the 5th century, bringing Christianity to the pagan Celts. The date of his death is said to be March 17, 484 A.D. Since then the Irish, at home and wherever they have scattered to the four corners of the earth, celebrate the March 17 as their special day. I never heard it called "the 17th of Ireland" until I left Ireland.

There was a song we used to sing as children back in Ireland, "St. Patrick was an Irishman, he came of dacent people." It wasn't until years later that I found out the sad truth that, although he undoubtedly came of dacent people, he most certainly was not an Irishman. This was such a blow to my national pride that for days I ran around hanging my head in shame and refusing to talk about the dear saint. However, one gets used to anything in time, and eventually I came to accept him for what he was — Irishman or no. He loved old Ireland, and, let's face it, he dug us out of a pagan rut we'd been in for centuries. He was one of our original "saints and scholars."

One fantastic story has him banishing the snakes from Ireland and casting them into the sea. Apparently he just kicked them in the teeth, and presto! with a heave, ho and a slither, they were off into the great blue wetness never to return. This fable I have never been able to accept. Snakes like a warm, dry climate, and whatever else Ireland may be it is not warm and dry. I think the snakes symbolized the evil that St. Patrick banished from Ireland.

There was a poem I used to like that went, "I was out in the rain today; Out in the soft, cool rain; And I felt it beat on my face, and rejoiced at its coming again." If you like cool, wet stuff, you'd have a ball in Ireland. Rain sloshes around with gay abandon, and if you venture out without a raincoat, be sure your suit is shrink proof, wrinkle proof and quick drying.

But the charm of Ireland wraps a warm cloak around you, and you soon learn to ignore the discomfort of damp weather, as you enjoy the warm hospitality of the Irish people, who have managed to retain their ability to relish to the full the joy of living. Not for them the mad, hectic rush, the head long dash to keep up with the world. No sir. "Sure what's the hurry. Take your time," becomes a familiar saying if you are there for any length of time. This is all very well while you are staying in Ireland. The trouble really starts when you return home to your own native land, and have to join in the mad

Niagara—honeymoons and hydro

By LARRY McINNIS

Many people have planned on spending their honeymoon at Niagara Falls, and those who don't get there usually plan on doing so for their so-called second honeymoon. Usually this bid to see the great sight is just as frustrated as the first.

If you fall in the category of the "willnots" (will not give up the idea) then you had better hurry up :

Geologists predict that in another 6,000 years, the Niagara Falls will have cut their way back to Lake Erie and have disappeared.

USELESS FACTS DEPARTMENT

More than 23 million tons of water go over Niagara Falls every hour. It only takes 25,000 pounds of water to grow one pound of cotton. Therefore 1,840 pounds of cotton could be grown every hour at Niagara.

But Niagara's water is mainly used for honeymooners and hydro electric power. A television set uses 297 killowatt-hours of electricity annually on the average, while a vacuum cleaner uses about 29 killowatt-hours.

An electric razor uses one kilowatt-hour annually. Which all goes to show it's much cheaper to spend your time shaving than cleaning the house or watching TV.

Even though there's a lot of water at Niagara, the Pacific Northwest is considered the wettest area in the United States.

More than 200 species of birds find sanctuary in Yellowstone, the world's oldest national park. And do you know that most of these birds have no teeth, so they use bits of gravel in their gizzards to grind food into an easily digested form ? One type of bird, the goshawk, is the largest North American hawk.

Although more than 1,000 species of wild flower have been found in Glacier Park, not one of them contains all three primary colors.

WE'RE HELPING

In a bid to help underprivileged countries, we take note of the fact that, while the United States has only six percent of the world's population, it has 68 percent of the world's automobiles. Also, there are nearly 100 different models of European cars sold in the U.S. and Canada.

Several of our staff are driving European cars because they know that Michigan, best known as an automobile producing state, also manufactures 81 percent of all types of industrial goods.

As a further effort to help the national economy, especially Springhill, we note it takes nine pounds of coal to produce one pound of paper. Which is the only reason for this article in the first place.

Police win rifle meet

Policemen are supposed to be good shots just in case their ability is ever needed, and Westmount police proved they are better than the average at the Royal Victoria Rifles armoury last Saturday.

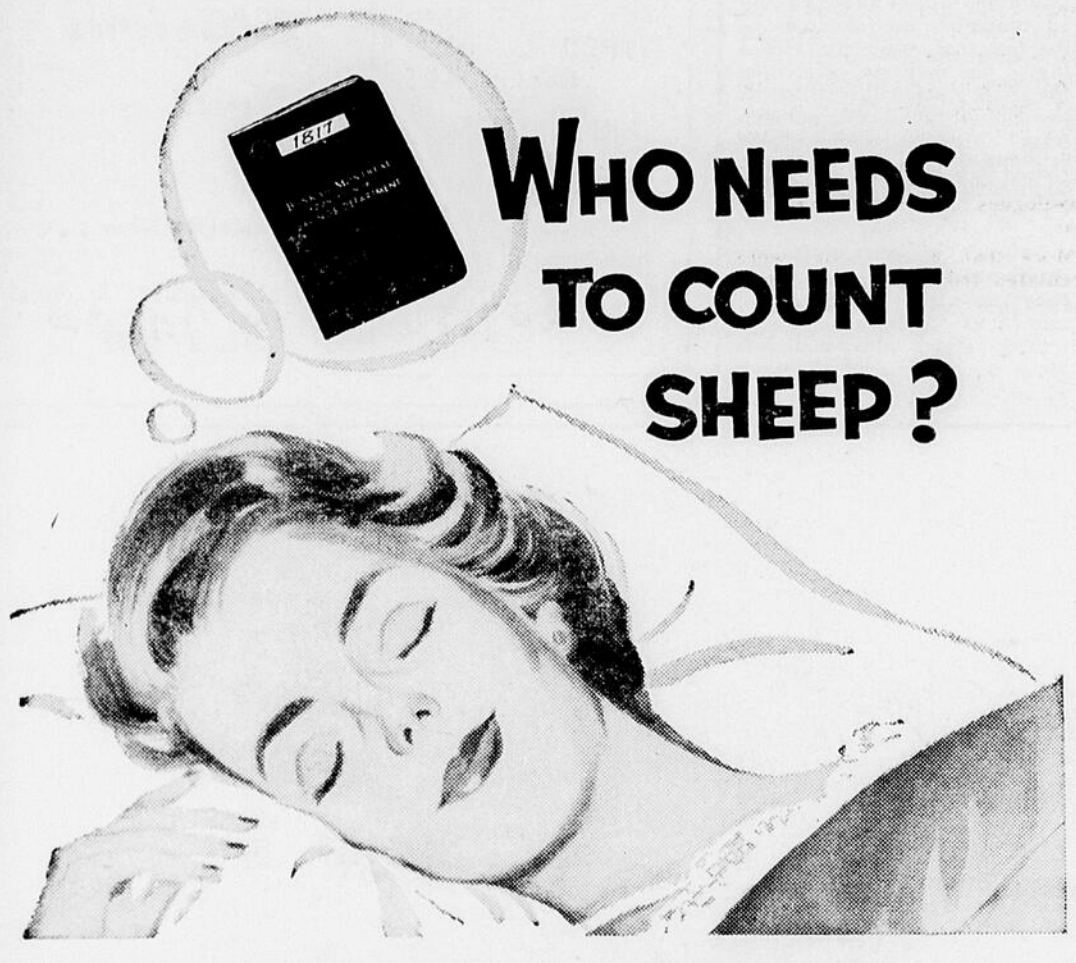

A picked police team using .22 rifles and pistols defeated a team from the Vics in a target competition.

"It was en enjoyable evening," Inspector Andy Lowson said, "and we hope to have another meet in the near future."

A list of scores was not available, but Inspector Lowson said most of the police men shot in the 90's.

'Folies Bergeres'

Impressions of Paris

By JANE RELDAN

Editor's note — The following letter arrived this week from nine year-old Jane Reldan. As mentioned, she has just completed an extensive tour of Europe. We thought our readers might be interested in a child's eye view of a fabulous city.

Dear Editor:

I just came back from a long trip. I have been in France, Spain, Italy, Austria, Switzerland, Greece and Israel.

Maybe you could use some articles about these countries. I send you one about Paris, so you can see for yourself.

I am now in grade 4, in St. George's school and am 9 years old. Our school paper has bought many stories from me.

I have written everything alone but the typing was done by my mother.

Sincerely yours,
Jane Reldan.

The first thing we saw in Paris, was the Eiffel tower. Luckily there is an elevator or else not many people would make it to the top. I went up to the floor just below the top. The Eiffel tower is so high that you can see whole Paris when you look down. It is very windy up there and sometimes the top of the tower swings up to 8 feet. Lightning strikes the Eiffel tower about 12 times a year, without damaging it.

We also went to see the Castle of Versailles, which was built by Louis XIV. It really is very beautiful because Louis loved beauty and fine arts. In front of the castle are wonderful gardens. Unfortunately the furniture was stolen from the castle so that only pictures and chairs remain.

We also went to see the Bois de Boulogne. That's a very big park in the middle of the city. There you find ducks to feed and boats to rent to go around a small lake. The water has fish in it, but it is too dirty to swim in. There are chairs around the water but you may use them only if you pay for them. If you decide to rent a chair, swans will come very close and you can see them eating out of your hands.

I liked the Cathedral of Notre Dame a lot. It was built in the 12th and 13th centuries in Gothic style. The arches are pointed on the top. The windows are made of beautiful stained glass and represent religious scenes.

Next to Notre Dame you see the river Seine. Alond the Seine there are many small open shops. They sell mostly old books, paintings and ancient things. Many students walk along these shops and enjoy looking at the paintings, without ever buying anything. Who knows how the shopkeepers can make a living?

Close to where I lived, I saw the "Arc de Triomphe" with the Eternal Flame. It is a flame which burns day and night in memory of all the soldiers who gave their lives for France.

Paris is a very big city and tourists don't find their way around easily. The best is to use the "Metro." This was the first time for me to travel by subway. The Metro is an underground train which goes very fast. It is much easier to go by subway than by car. There are no stop signs and very few red lights in Paris and everybody seems to drive the way he wants, so that foreign drivers feel very confused.

I also went to see the "Folies Bergères." That's a big theatre where the girls dance completely naked. But it is very artistic, the Plan novel savings method through new Dividend Club

A novel method of saving through receiving dividends on purchases has been introduced this week by a new company, the Dividend Club Reg'd., according to Dr. J. J. Brown, executive vice-president of the company.

Dr. Brown, who lives in the Town of Mount Royal explained that the principle is simple in that members of the Dividend Club can shop at a selected group of reliable, well-established merchants who regard a discount for club members a fair exchange for increased sales volume.

"This is really a very old idea," Dr. Brown said, "however, handling thousands upon thousands of bills and pieces of paper was very costly before. Now we can process all we need quickly and economically by means of the electronic data-processing machines we have.

"I have been interested in industrial automation work for a long time, and have been searching for new applications of the electronic equipment. We are very excited about our prospects in the Dividend Club."

Members pay a nominal fee to join and receive a shopper's directory each month, which indicates those shops that have agreements with the dividend club. They shop and pay regular prices in the store, without showing any card, asking for any discount or having any limit on their choice of merchandise.

Each month the member sends his paid bills to the Dividend Club and his account is credited with the discount that had been indicated in his shoppers directory.

When the dividend has reached a total of $10, he receives an initial payment of that amount.

Judge R. Roche safety conference guest speaker

A conference committee, representing various districts of the Island of Montreal, acting as hosts for the April 2 meeting, have been meeting regularly to map up plans for the campaign. The committee, under the chairmanship of Sam Malton, includes, Mrs. C. A. Penniston and Mrs. D. Bowes-Lyon of Verdun, Mrs. H. L. Schwartz of N.D.G., Mrs. Jean Moodie of Ahuntsic, C. J. Mechanics' Institute new board

Ernest A. Thorne, vice-president of Continental Diamond Fibre of Canada, was elected for his sixth consecutive term as president of the Mechanics' Institute library at their 120th annual meeting Monday night.

Mr. Thorne, in his annual report, spoke of the unusual interest taken by the public in the Institute's medical forums, music appreciation concerts and film travelogues given during the year.

More than 83,000 books were circulated from the library during 1959, the librarian, Miss Sybil Grimson, reported. 60 percent of the books were fiction.

Students and research workers from all parts of the city used the reference rooms for serious studies, she reported.

Officers elected at the meeting:

Vice-president, Norman English; secretary, R. T. James; treasurer, W. A. Eversfield. Past president, Dr. A. A. Bramley-Moore.

Management committee: E. S. Booth, R. B. Caldwell, J. H. McCulloch, R. S. Robson, and W. J. Sheridan.

dancers are really beautiful and the whole thing doesn't offend the good taste.

The food is good in Paris but it takes very long to be served and they don't give you any cold water with your meals. I guess they want you to drink a lot of wine. All the waiters seemed puzzled when I asked for cold milk with my meal. It also makes you mad that you have to pay extra for paper napkins and the use of knives and forks.

Life in Paris is not very funny for children. There are few parks in the city and no playgrounds. The only place where children may play is on the sidewalks. There are only big houses in Paris and they have no back yards. Almost everybody lives in apartments. There are no fire escapes in the buildings, but on the other hand there are very few fires in Paris.

Children are dressed rather modestly but ladies clothes are very beautiful. Almost all the girls and young women in Paris are very pretty. They all have a really slim waist and walk on very high heels.

Detective W. Wylie is retired

The badge of Detective Sergeant William Wylie will go into retirement with him when he "packs it up" after 30 years service on the Westmount police force.

Det. Sgt. Wylie is on a three month leave of absence prior to officially starting his retirement on June 8 to allow him to become accustomed to his well earned leisure time.

The sergeant is planning to live in Boston.

At a ceremony in his honor last Wednesday, City Assistant General Manager Norman Dawe presented Wylie with a wallet and a sum of money in appreciation of the long years of service, and announced that the badge would be later inscribed and presented as a token of the City's esteem.

Lt. S. Ashford, on behalf of the Police Association, also presented Sgt. Wylie with a cheque.

McGill Choral 'Springsong' Saturday nite

The McGill Choral Society, under the direction of Gifford Mitchell, will present its 15th annual "Springsong" concert on March 19, at 8:15 p.m. in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium, 475 Pine avenue west. William Stevens will be guest artist.

The Society is a 250 voice group made up of students selected from the University. They have recently returned from a successful concert with Gifford Mitchell in Ottawa.

Mr. Mitchell has distainguished himself with other choirs in the city, notably the Choir of St. James United Church and the Montreal Elgar Choir.

William Stevens, the Canadian pianist featured as guest artist for the evening, has selected a program of Rachmaninoff, Mendelssohn, Ravel and Balakirev. Well known in Montreal for his appearances with the CBC Symphony, Mr. Stevens has made several concert tours throughout Canada and the U.S.

The first half of the program will contain secular choral works by contemporary composers, and arrangements of Newfoundland and American folksongs. The second half will be donated entirely to Mendelssohn selections, consisting of four Mendelssohn Chorales and 'Hear My Prayer' with Miss Eleanor Carr as soloist.

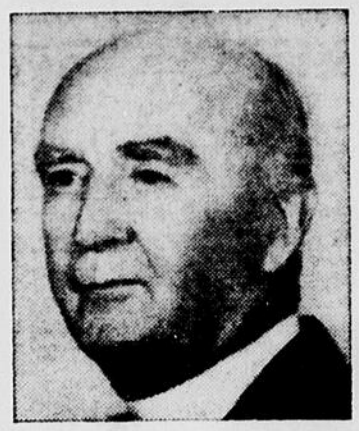

Tickets are $1.25 and may be obtained at the International Music Store, the McGill Union or at the door.

Towns get new powers in Quebec Amendments

Widespread amendments to the Cities and Towns Act, giving substantially more autonomy to municipal councils, were approved by the Legislative Assembly Tuesday.

The 44 amendments adopted in Bill 38 will curb a majority of the private bills submitted every year by municipalities.

Increased powers are headed by those dealing with town planning, greater use of referendums, annexations, and general procedures.

Provisions adopted include:

1 Instead of requiring a private bill, any municipal corporation governed partly by a special charter and partly by the Cities and Towns Act may place itself under the act's provisions merely by obtaining letters patent.
2 Any municipality may constitute itself into a town or city if a referendum approves council decision.
3 Municipalities may award cultural and similar grants, but only to a total amount set by the Quebec Municipal Commission and the municipal affairs minister.
4 For annexations it will no longer be necessary to have private legislation adopted by parliament; instead, the cabinet will decide after both municipal councils involved have agreed.
5 Councils may vote salaries for its members providing referendums approve such actions.
6 Zoning amendments will require a referendum each time if six electors ask for one at a special meeting which must be called following every council decision to amend zoning.
7 Planning powers include authorization for councils to join with neighboring towns in setting up joint planning commissions and master plans.

Councils may also require new structures to provide for parking spaces, and are given powers to expropriate for parking lot purposes; homologate land for five-year periods for school and church construction, and set up park schools.

Opposition House Leader George Lapalme said lawyers had asked him to oppose provision No. 1 above as it would complicate the tasks of judges and lawyers. Studying the statutes would not necessarily provide them with all the laws dealing with any specific town or city.

Municipal Affairs Minister Paul Dozois thought his department might prepare an annual brochure which would inform all interested parties of changes occurring by letters patent during the past year.

Mr. Lapalme voiced some objections to new provisions for annexation. He felt this was a clear case in which the Legislature should retain its powers to prevent so-called "shotgun weddings."

COMPLAINS OF ARTICLE

He also complained against another article whereby offences against municipal by laws and the Motor Vehicle Act may be handled by registered mail summonses, rather than through bailiffs. Mr. Lapalme said some lawyers maintained this was a clear violation of the code of civil procedure.

New zoning powers include the right of councils to decide in which sectors industrial, residential and commercial properties will be allowed, and the construction details of each.

Another amendment allows all councils to regulate installation, height, number and maintenance of radio and television aerials.

Still another allows prohibition of trailer parks.

Councils may also decide that farms are being held for speculation purposes and hence tax them accordingly instead of as farmers.

They are also authorized to set up working funds.

City trucks not insured — Council pays

It has not been the policy of Westmount City Council to hear remarks from citizens at their meetings, but Monday night pro-Mayor Frank Common stepped down from the chair to discuss a query from Jacob Livinson about insurance on city-owned vehicles.

The question came up when Council unanimously approved the recommendation of the city attorney to pay Conrad Lavoie, Frank Gough and their attorneys $1,134.53 from the city's insurance reserve for an accident caused by a city truck on June 26, 1958 at the intersection of Western and Olivier avenues.

The truck was proceeding through the intersection at a slow rate of speed when it struck the car of Mr. Lavoie which, in turn, struck that of Mr. Gough.

The attorney admitted the day on which the accident happened was hazy, which made the circumstances mitigating, but believed the truck driver would be found at fault in a court of law.

Mr. Common explained to Mr. Livinson that it was a policy of the city, based on past experience, not to maintain collision or property damage insurance on its vehicles, although policies covered public liability. In effect, the city maintains its own insurance by putting funds into an insurance reserve to pay private claims.

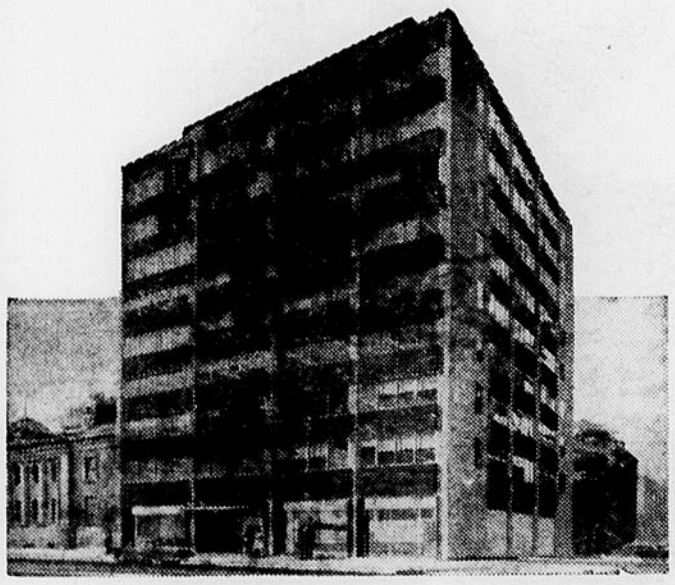

Christian Science

The power of faith when raised to spiritual understanding will be a prominent theme at the services in all the Christian Science churches this Sunday, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Matter". The Golden Text is from Colossians: "Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth." Bible teachnigs on this point are expounded in appropriate selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including the following: "Faith if it be mere belief, is as a pendulum swinging between nothing and something, having no fixity. Faith, advanced to spiritual understanding, is the evidence gained from Spirit, which rebukes sin of every kind and establishes the claims of God."

ENTERTAINMENT: Pretty Pat Nelson doesn't mind donating blood as long as Carolyn Blythe's dummy, Annabelle, is around to keep her amused. Ross Webster offers advice and takes a kidding from Annabelle. The picture was taken at the Westmount Young PC's blood clinic at Victoria Hall Wednesday night. Mr. Webster is the Conservative representative for St. Antoine Westmount.

Mr. Webster said he was disappointed in the turn-out for the clinic. First estimates were about 240 pints of blood donated, less than half the 500 or more they hoped for.

Therapeutic centres needed

Need for the development of therapeutic centres in Canada for the successful treatment of delinquents and criminals was stressed last Thursday night by Father Noel Mailloux, professor of psychology at the University of Montreal and internationally-known rehabilitation authority.

Speaking to the 66th annual general meeting of the John Howard Society of Quebec in the Queen's Hotel, Father Mailloux noted that rehabilitation of criminals was a difficult problem because they are "pathological phenomena" who are incapable of change under the present system.

"Despite the good intentions of penal authorities in teaching them trades and providing better facilities of welfare groups aiding them before and after release, they will say thank you and then commit another crime," Father Mailloux declared.

The best way to solve this problem, according to Father Mailloux, is establishment of therapeutic centres such as exist in England and Holland.

In his presidential report, L. R. Canning reaffirmed the stand taken by the society in 1955 on capital punishment. In which it

Officers re-elected were Mr. Canning president; Air Vice-Marshal A. L. James and Fred Kaufman, vice-presidents; Mrs. Errol B. Clift, secretary; and Leed M. Nelson, treasurer.

Blood clinic

"It would seem as if Westmounters would rather give money than blood," Mr. Webster said.

The clinic — the only one in Westmount during the year — offered a host of sports personalities and stars of radio, clubs and television to keep the donors entertained, plus refreshments.

In spite of the fact that the clinic was widely advertised, and individual letters sent out to Westmount residents, "it was disappointing," Mr. Webster said.

Extra week for MRT performance

Leo Ciceri and Eleanor Stuart have arranged to postpone other commitments and continue to play for an extra week in The Importance of Being Earnest, the Montreal Repertory Theatre production now playing in its second week at the MRT Playhouse on Closse street.

This most successful of Wilde's comedies was directed for MRT by Roeberta Beatty. Playing Canon Chasuble is Tom Owen, who also designed the 1895 costumes. Mr. Owen won the Martha Allan cup for visual presentation at last week's Regional Drama Festival. Kay Tremblay, who recently directed a production of Death Takes a Holiday, appears as Miss Prism.

The two girls, Gwendolen and Cecily, are played by Barbara Wilson and Carole Kirby. Michael Carver is Algernon Moncrieff. John Codner and Michael Granger are the two men-servants.

MRT'S two stars in The Importance of Being Earnest, Leo Ciceri and Eleanor Stuart, appear as John Worthing and Lady Bracknell.

The period settings have been designed by Earl Preston.

Catholic Hour

This Sunday, over Station CJAD at 1:35, the Catholic Hour will feature a talk by Reverend Michael J. McManus, assistant priest at St. Augustine's Church.

Bahamas resort islands offer many varieties

Whatever your heart's desire in recreation, sports, or relaxation, you'll find it in the Resort Islands of the Bahamas. Vast stretches of pink-powder sands, irridescent waters teeming with tuna, marlin, snapper, barracuda, king, wahoo, and bonefish. Tennis and golf, sightseeing by bicyele or rental car, and shopping for bargains in imported wares and liquors.

Whatever the season you visit, you'll find an ideal climate, the Islands' year-round temperature averages vary little from one season to another.

The Resort Islands of the Bahamas are easily accessible from everywhere, by scheduled plane and ship service, and by yacht, charter boat, or charter plane.

New Providence. Situated on this island is the Bahamas' capital, Nassau. Whatever time of year you visit here, you'll find all the makings of vacation pleasure. Fascinating landmarks for sightseeing . . . sports of all sorts . . . duty-free shopping. . . and gay night life that beats with an exotic calypso pulse.

Abaco is actually more than a single island. In addition to Sandy point on Abaco proper, its resort areas include surrounding cays — Green Turtle Cay and Elbow Cay, site of Hope Town. All of these settlements provide safe and picturesque harbours, fine ocean bathing, duck shooting, wild boar hunting, and fishing for amberjack, grouper, Allison tuna, wahoo, kingfish, and bonefish.

Andros, largest of the Bahama Islands, is divided by many creeks running far into the land. Once noted as a pirate rendezvous — and later for its now-extinct sponge beds — Andros is a rich source of lumber, fruit, coconuts, and conchs. For vacation fun you'll visit exotic native villages and fabulous sea gardens . . . troll for jack, dolphin, or grouper . . . tackle the flats for bonefish . . . and try the deeps for a world-record marlin, wahoo, or sailfish.

The Berry Islands are a distinctive, delightful group of the Bahamas which present that ideal combination—flats for bonefish, reefs for grouper, and deep water for the larger gamefish. Typical of the Berry Islands is Frazers Hog Cay, just 30 miles northwest of Nassau. This tropical retreat presents iridescent waters, broad white beaches . . . and a delightful 75° average temperature!

Bimini is truly the Angler's Paradise you've always read about. Here's where world's records are rolled up regularly, the Gulfstream waters teeming with blue and white marlin, sail, wahoo, kingfish, bonito, giant bluefin tuna, and many others. Just 50 miles from the Florida mainland, Bimini, according to legend, is the original site of Ponce de Leon's famous Fountain of Youth.

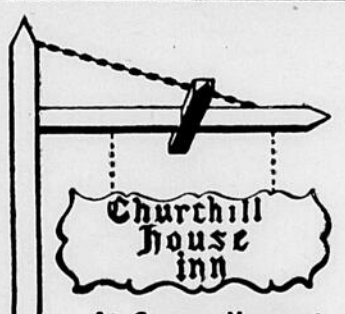

Eleuthera, first of the Bahama Islands to be settled by white men, presents a fascinating opportunity for exploring by vacationers today! Miles of ribbon-like beaches . . . shallow flats for fine bonefishing . . . charming Bahamian villages. The island takes its unusual, name from the Greek "eleutheros," meaning "free."

The Exuma Islands — Great and Little, with adjacent cays — are widely known as the scene of the Bahamas' annual Out Island Regatta. The population of George Town, Great Exuma's chief settlement, is growing by leaps and bounds, as more and more people are discovering the great appeal of this area! And, just a mile or so across the iridescent blue-green bay lies delightful Stocking Island, which has been described as "the loveliest beach the Lord ever made."

Grand Bahama, just 50 miles from the Florida mainland, is a serene vacation paradise that holds pleasure for all. Here you will bask on inviting, picturesque beaches . . . charter a boat for deep-sea fishing . . . go duck shooting . . . bicycle to quaint native settlements to shop for souvenir craft by day, or listen to calypso during the evening.

Yes, you'll love all the Resort Islands of the Bahamas . . . so why not plan to visit some of them soon? For your FREE color folder that tells about places to stay in each of the major resort areas, as well as the plane and ship transportation facilities to each, just contact one of the local travel agencies such as Robban Travel Co. on Greene avenue.

UGLY BUT EXP showing a jar of MacRae and Alan

Not only the "pearl of purest ray serene," but the ruby, the sapphire, the topaz and the emerald, already mounted in silver and gold of exquisite design, shimmering and sinuous — the jewels of the oceans and all Alive, Alive-ho ! go to the highest bidders at the Montreal Aquarium Society's monthly auction.

A society for the study and advancement of the aquarium hobby, it is open to all for a very small fee. Men, boys, six women and one little girl, many of them bearing picnic hampers, bait cans, ice cream bags, cardboard boxes and woollen - stockinged jars, fill Prince Albert Hall to capacity.

George Hayward, the president of the association and Mr. Roberts Scafe, secretary-treasurer, aid in removing the contents of the mysterious receptacles. In the jars, that personification of grace and color — tropical fishes. Novices, cubs and scouts striving for their aquarist badges crowd round.

"I couldn't stand breeding the same fish for ten years. Some people never give up."

The comment referred to a specialty, line breeding. An expert in this phase will have a fish room, with aquaria to the number of twenty-five or more, of five to fifty-gallon capacity each. He will be an expert in marine plant life, will know all about fish genealogy and quite a lot about oceanology. He buys the best pair of fishes he can afford and breeds the best of their offspring, exercising scrupulous care in keeping them separated from less well-endowed relatives.

This may go on for years, possibly forever, but the end result may be the line breeder's pinnacle of success, a new mutation. The humble Guppy-fish's descendants can thus aspire to the prefix "Fancy", and will be bought at over twenty-five dollars for a pair.

The Clown Fish, for example, orange backed and blue striped, may be shown. Native to the Indo-Pacific oceans, the Clown lives and spawns in and around the deadly Sea Anemone. It attracts other fishes to be eaten by the hungry plant which, perhaps in gratitude and knowing the indispensable value of such a supplier, allows the little Clown to go unscathed.

When asked the difference between goldfish and tropical fish, Mr. G. T. Iles, a famous aquarist, explained that the Japanese and Chinese peoples took the common carp, and after line-breeding it, produced the scintillating little charmer kept in most pet shops.

"If you take a goldfish and throw it back into the river and it survives, it will go wild and eventually revert into a carp," he said.

One fish lover was shocked to hear someone asking for a painless method of killing culls and sick fish. Someone recommended rubbing alcohol. "They are dead when they hit," he said succinctly.

"You mean, killed and preserved at the same time," another quipped.

Brother Marcel, who last month bid for and took home a pair of Jack Dempseys, has a club of thirty boys who attend Mount St. Louis Colle asked if his Jack had fared well, he sai "They fared very w had 200 little ones w now 1 inch long." Bro cel and his friends no large nursery to care

Disasters II

By
The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

Last week we spoke of man-made disasters, and deliberately omitted the disasters which arise out of the nature of our world, for which man is not responsible at all. The simple fact is that this planet is both a most desirable place and also a very dangerous one. Philosophers have always disputed whether the trouble or the happiness of human life was the greater. Leaving the philosophers aside let us consider the natural disasters.

The world is a globular planet made up of nearly 100 elements. It has a rocky framework, with an intensely hot interior and water covering about two-thirds of the framework. Further, it has an atmosphere consisting mainly of four gases, oxygen, hydrogen, nitrogen, carbon dioxide, as well as water vapour. It is the presence of those gases along with sunlight that makes vegetable and animal life possible. There may be no other planet where such conditions are reproduced.

These elements not only make human life possible; they also produce the imbalance of forces that bring about hurricanes and floods; they are also responsible for the rivers which cut enormous gashes across our continents and deposit fantastic loads of silt at river mouths. That is another imbalance resulting in shifts of the Earth's crust, and earthquakes and tidal waves. Those are some of the natural causes of disasters.

It would have been quite possible for God to have created a different kind of world. In fact, He did create many planets, but to the best of our knowledge they are not inhabited by human beings. Further, if He had made a different kind of world from this and had given that world inhabitants, they would have been different from us.

Accepting the world as it is, if we look back to the days of primitive man we can imagine two states of affairs; the one would be the condition of danger in which man actually found himself, and in which he had to develop his own skills to save his life. That is the way in which man grew out of savagery into modern civilization. We could also imagine a state of affairs in which man would have been in no serious danger from the world around him. In that case he would have remained in his primitive savagery; he would presumably have enough to eat, therefore, why should he develop his skills? He might even have been able to keep clear of the danger spots to some extent. Man after all is an animal, and the animal world is kept in a condition of health by warding off danger.

This sounds callous and hard-hearted, and I confess that I have never been in a disaster; but it seems a certainty that God did not create a soft, easy, comfortable world for men to live in. He created a good world, but at the same time a world which would draw out all the potential skills of men. Further, He did not design this world to be man's permanent home. He created it for a temporary home, and a school where we are trained by hardship, in order that we may be ready for life in the world to come.

We may end by saying that God did not create this world and then withdraw from it. He sent His own Son to enter into it and to share its hardships, and to show that by suffering He entered into His glory.

SCHOOL FOR ADULTS CLOSES 33rd SEASON: Last Monday evening, an assemblage was addressed by Ehud Ben Yehuda, eminent Israeli scholar who spoke on "The Two Exoduses". William Hoffman, chairman of adult education presided with Samuel Garfield, co-chairman.

Greetings were brought by Abraham Izenberg, president of Temple Brotherhood which, through the years, has sponsored the School for Adults.

Each member of the faculty was a recipient of a token of appreciation.

During the season eight special lectures were presented by outstanding authorities in their respective fields in a special study of mental health in modern society.

Special gratitude to William Hoffman, Samuel Garfield and Rudolph Lustig, who headed the work of adult education in cooperation with a special committee.

The school for adults was founded in the fall of 1928 by Dr. Stern for the purpose of affording the opportunity to Jewish adults to acquire and deepen their knowledge of Judaism, and in subjects of Jewish interest. It is a part of the larger Temple program in adult education which includes such institutions as the Book Lovers' Forum; the annual institute for Clergy and Educators and the many lectures before the constituent societies of the Temple at regular meetings.

Soulanges Canal to Dieppe—route for a Military Medal

By LARRY McINNIS

All fairy tales traditionally start off with, "Once upon a time there was . . ." and the story of Major D. L. Hart, should start the same way, with one exception — his is no fairy tale.

Once upon a time there was a militia, lance corporal who, on a normal parade night on August 25, 1939, was promoted to corporal. In the midst of the celebrations he was "asked" to volunteer to "guard the armouries" due to increasing tension in Europe.

The next day saw Corporal Hart parading up and down Bleury street with a rifle and bayonet at the slope guarding the Signal Corps armouries (i.e. keeping the "rubbies" from trying to volunteer for the defence of Canada). Also parading up and down the street was the corporal's brother, Eddie, another volunteer.

Born in 1917 and christened David, Hart found when he got into public school that he needed a third name. His brother suggested his parents should call him David Lloyd after David Lloyd George, the famous statesman.

"I was burning up the first grades at the time," Dave says, "and I guess they expected me to do as great things as my namesake."

Dave and his brother Eddie joined the reserve Signals Corps in 1936 when Dave was studying for his degree in chartered accountancy. He had one year to go when he got the call at work on August 26, 1939 to appear at the armoury in uniform.

"Without hesitation," Dave recalls, "I just closed the ledger I was using and walked out."

Just a few days before the outbreak of World War II he was sent to provide communications for a small force guarding the Soulanges Canal.

"I never have found out why we were guarding it," Dave now laughs.

MAJ. DAVID LLOYD HART

On the day Canada entered the war Dave signed active — except they told him he was too short to be a soldier. But he wouldn't give up. He found a sympathetic medical officer who ruffled his hair and said, "You're tall enough now."

Dave, still with brother Eddie, arrived in England as part of the advance party for the Canadian Second Division at the time of Dunkirk.

"We were having it pretty easy," he said, "until I found myself being briefed on an extensive manoeuvre preparatory to the Dieppe raid in 1942."

When he was assigned to the Isle of Wight to take commando training, Dave knew something big was afoot.

"It's a little known fact," Dave recalls. "but there were two attempts to raid Dieppe. The first was scheduled for July 4, 1942, because it was good propaganda for the Americans, who were taking a helluva licking in the Pacific."

The army sat in their boats on England's south coast from July 2 to July 9 waiting for good weather. At the last minute the whole show was called off, the men returned to their units, and were told to keep quiet.

On August 18 they went on another "exercise" on the coast. When all the troops had boarded their boats they were told, "This is it!"

The first attackers at Dieppe landed at 4:45 a.m. on August 19.

"I'm not saying the Germans knew about it," Dave said, cocking his right eye, 'but it seems coincidental that just a few days before, they increased their garrison from 1,000 to 6,000."

Canadians sent in 5,600 troops at Dieppe: 1,700 came out.

Dave, who was a sergeant at the time, was awarded the Military Medal for "coolness under fire and devotion to duty."

Les Fusiliers de Montreal, an infantry regiment ashore and cut off without communication at Dieppe probably would never have received the order to retire if Dave had not noticed their plight and established communication with them to order them out.

"It's not a big deal," Dave said modestly, "but they probably wouldn't have got out otherwise."

Was he scared at Dieppe?

Dave explains, "It was just another job at the time. I was too busy to be scared."

"But," he added, "three days later, back in England, someone found me sitting in the woods shaking like a leaf. The implications of the whole thing had just struck me."

Commissioned in 1944 and released in 1945, Dave joined the militia immediately, rapidly rising to the rank of Major. He is known as the fiery second-in-command of the 11th Signal Regiment.

Brother Eddie was, until two years ago, a captain in the same unit. Another brother, Paul, is now a lieutenant colonel with Army Staff in Ottawa.

At least once a month you can hear Major David Lloyd Hart, MM, CD, at mess meetings shouting, "Point of order! It's against regulations . . ."

ALVIN B. JACOBS, BA, BCL, recently was appointed Queen's Counsel by Order in Council of the Quebec Government. A member of his father's law firm, Jacobs and Jacobs, he received his BA in arts and law at McGill in 1941 and his Bachelor of Civil Law in 1944. He was admitted to the bar in July, 1944. In addition to being associated with Lyon W. Jacobs, QC, he is a director of Dalfen's Limited and president of Town Lodge, B'nai B'rith.

MR. AND MRS. REGINALD STANLEY WALLACE whose marriage took place recently in the Church of St. James the Apostle. The bride was formerly Miss Joan Bourinot Moseley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Tilton Moseley. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Goodwin Wallace of Princeton, Ontario.

MRS. WILLIAM HAMILTON, left, wife of the Postmaster-General, and MRS. PIERRE SEVIGNY, wife of the Associate Minister for National Defence, who are co-chairman for a reception to be given in honor of Mrs. Harry Quart, OBE, president of the Progressive Conservative Women's Association. The reception will take place March 22 in the Windsor Hotel.

Miss Joan Bourinot Moseley marries Reginald S. Wallace

The Church of St. James the Apostle was the setting for the March 12 marriage ceremony uniting Joan Bourinot Moseley, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Tilton Moseley to Mr. Reginald Stanley Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Stanley Wallace, of Princeton, Ontario. Rev. Ralph Latimer officiated.

A profusion of pure white flowers, gladioli, snowball pompons, white snapdragons and spray mums intermingled with greenery were used to decorate. Mr. Christopher Gladhill played the organ during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an original gown of white de-lustered slipper satin fashioned on classic lines with a moulded bodice, a scalloped portrait neckline of re-embroidered Alencon lace appliques; beaded with seed pearls and re-embroidered with miniature iridescent sequins and Swiss crystals in bridal rose design. Her long tight fitted sleeves ended in jewel-incrusted Alencon lace points over her hands, while her full skirt fell into a chapel train and her full length heirloom silk veil was held in place by a diadem of pearls and white sapphires set in silver. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses and hyacinth bells.

The matron of honor, Mrs. William Warren Lynch III and Miss Marie Crosbie as bridesmaid wore gowns of pure silk in two-toned prints in varying shades of blues and jades. The dresses featured scoop necklines, and full skirts and they wore accessories to match. Their imported French model hats of roses were held in nylon wisp veils. They both carried bouquets of white feathered carnations and hyacinth bells.

Mr. George Vincent Orser, of Ottawa, was best man for Mr. Wallace, and Mr. Derek James-Spiers and Mr. David Webster were the ushers.

The bride's mother, Mrs. E. Moseley wore a midnight blue sheath gown of silk chantilly lace and a blue and gold toned French model hat, Russian squirrel stole and a corsage of gold toned roses.

Mrs. R. Wallace, the bridegroom's mother, wore a blue Mousseline delaine gown with a model hat, fur jacket, navy accessories, and a corsage of white gardenias.

The reception was held in the Blue Room of the Ritz Carlton Hotel which was decorated with white and pink gladioli, snapdragons, pompons and sweetheart roses.

The bride wore a travelling costume of pale beige dubonnet wool under a short squirrel cape. An imported model hat, draped with printed rust and beige print silk completed her ensemble.

Following the reception the couple left for a brief trip to New York and then for an extended trip to Florida. Upon their return they will reside in Ottawa.

Miss Moseley is the great niece of the late Sir John Bourinot, KCMG of Ottawa. Mr. Wallace is a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ontario.

Many out-of-town guests attended the wedding.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Maybury of Montreal announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Meryl, to Mr. Harold L. Mayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Mayes of Toronto. The wedding will take place at 2.30 p.m. on Saturday, April 30, in Westmount Baptist Church.

Use This Home Recipe Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky unsightly fat right in your own home. Use this recipe plan yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full twice a day and follow the Naran plan.

If your first purchase does not show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Educational aid is main project of IODE chapters

The IODE is aware of the national need for more highly educated people to provide for Canadian expansion, and is proud to be one of the sponsoring organizations of Educational Week. Last year the Order spent over a quarter of a million dollars as its contribution to the education of Canadians.

The National Education Committee of the Order is studying the loss of our academically talented young people from secondary schools and universities. Mrs. D. W. McGibbon, National Educational Secretary, states that Chapters across Canada are encouraging children to remain in school longer through the IODE program of monetary assistance, scholarships and bursaries.

Dr. R. W. B. Jackson, Director of Educational Research, University of Toronto, recently addressed the Order's National Educational Committee on the need for research and action in identifying and developing talented Canadian youth.

Many isolated rural schools of Canada are "adopted" by the IODE. Almost $60,000 was spent last year in libraries and equipment to provide enriched school activities. In 1959 a pilot scheme of adoption in the West Indies was instituted. This included eleven secondary schools in the Leeward Islands and Dominica.

Leadership in sponsoring or assisting cultural aspects of education was provided by the Order and $53,000 expended.

SYSTEM OF SCHOLARSHIPS

The IODE is the only voluntary organization in Canada providing a national system of scholarships. In this, its sixtieth year of patriotic service, it is pledged to maintain and increase its commitments.

The Chapters under the jurisdiction of the Provincial Chapter of Quebec, IODE help to sponsor two Agricultural Scholarships in the Province — one at Macdonald College, the other at St. Anne de la Pocatiere, also a Household Science Bursary at Macdonald and, students from Labrador and Gaspe have been assisted by the Quebec North Shore Bursary.

The Municipal Chapter of Montreal offers bursaries at the Institute of Education, Macdonald College and many Chapters have their own local Bursaries and assist the schools in their communities in many ways. Help is given by some Chapters to retarded children, also the handicapped.

Assistance to educational work is one of the main projects of many of our IODE Chapters.

Tomorrow

The wind today, that roughly blows,
May softly sigh tomorrow,
The night of fear, will pass away,
Why load your life with sorrow?

Though flowers fade, true love lives on,
Life is too short for sorrow,
Hope's gate of gold, swings open wide,
To usher in tomorrow.

scramble that seems to be a necessary part of life on the North American Continent.

Whether this easy-going outlook is a good thing, is, of course, debatable. The economy of Ireland must surely suffer, for nations trading with Ireland are not inclined to smile beginly when orders are held up because workers are not to be hurried.

The statistics on heart attacks on this continent are pretty grim, and the tensions of modern day living are considered to be the cause of the high incidence of deaths from heart attacks. It would be interesting to compare this with statistics on the same subject in Ireland. I think the findings would be, that while people are dropping in their tracks like anywhere else in the world, it is seldom due to diseases resulting from tension.

In Canada, St. Patrick's Day is celebrated with parades, bands, dances and dinners. Everybody gets into the act. It was something of a shock to me when I viewed the St. Patrick's Day parade for the first time here, and saw all nationalities marching along in their tall hats, wearing the shamrock proudly, all happy as Larry to be Irishmen for a day. In Ireland it is a holy day, and from the churches "Hail, Glorious St. Patrick" rings out loud and strong as his special praises are sung. After church, there is usually a parade, and traditional Irish airs are played by the marching bands.

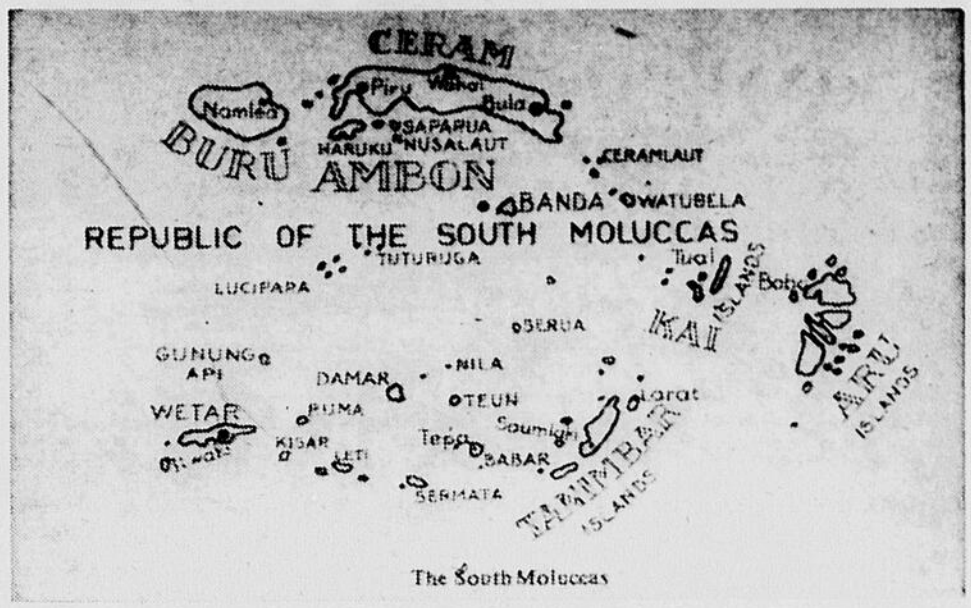

With so much to recommend it, Ireland must surely be a great tourist attraction. To confirm this pleasant thought I asked Mr. R. L. Huysmans, of the Westmount International Travel Service, 4935 Sherbrooke street west, if there had been any increase in travel to Ireland in recent years. He informed me that very few tourists book direct to Ireland. "They often take it in as a side trip," he said, then added as an afterthought, "If they have time."

This was not the sort of news I wanted to hear, so I tried again. Mr. W. F. Henry, of W. H. Henry, Ltd., 3417 Cote des Neiges, travel agents, informed me that only about 4% of tourists book to Ireland, but said that most people travelling to Europe include it on their itinerary. This was more heartening, but not exactly the sort of situation suited to a little slogan I had dreamed up — "While in Ireland, see Europe." Mr. Mooney, of the Irish Tourist Office, 1015 Beaverhall Hill, said that there had been a considerable increase in travel to Ireland in 1959 compared to 1958. Approximately six to seven thousand Canadians visited Ireland last year, and he expected a considerable increase over those figures this year.

A taste of Irish coffee is an experience, the like of which, they will tell you, you'd never had before nor since!

To Irish exiles in Montreal on this grand St. Patrick's Day, "Dia 's Muire Duit, agus Naom Padraig leat," an Irish blessing on you all.

Indonesia vs South Moluccas

The South Moluccas

For those people who have given up on the apparently insoluble problems of Russia vs. the West, we have brought to light some facts that may just keep you occupied in a similar — and yet entirely different — course of thought for some time.

We would like you to consider the case of Indonesia vs. South Molucca. Since we haven't heard officially from the Indonesian government, we can only give the side of South Molucca which, in a recent letter to The Examiner, has clearly laid their cards right on the table.

First of all, there actually is such a place as South Molucca. It is a group of islands between Borneo, Indonesia, Australia and New Guinea.

The people of South Molucca, a "small and predominantly Christian nation" declared their independence on April 25, 1950, under the presidency of J. H. Manuhutu because Indonesia had acted in a "way which is incompatible with the resolutions" taken at the round-table conference, and in violation of its own constitution.

In the fall of 1950 the Indonesians occupied the newly-formed country, driving the Moluccan government, now under the presidency of Dr. Christian Soumokil, into the interior of Ceram Island, one of the larger in the chain.

The new republic is still holding out and conducting guerilla warfare.

Last year the head of South Moluccas' political mission, Dr. J. A. Manusama, was invited to Montreal by the Model United Nations and the United Nations Club. He found Canadians had a great interest in his country, but other representatives complained so loud and bitterly about his presence that he was asked not to speak at the model assembly.

In an effort to gain international recognition the South Moluccans have opened an information office in Holland, and a "Committee of friends of the Republic of the South Moluccas in Canada" in Montreal.

When they're feeling blue and don't know what to do, they remember that ant — whoops! there goes another rubber tree plant.

MUSICAL

Fruitful Festivals

By FRANCES GOLTMAN

A NEW MUSIC FESTIVAL is being inaugurated in Saint Laurent and young people in surrounding areas are given the privilege of entering also. There are many things to consider when organizing a music festival because this art is different from any other category. The Notre Dame de Grace Arts and Letters Festival did not have music for a number of years until I approached the committee and after two years was able to succeed in adding this section. Besides forming a committee of competent musicians, I had the able assistance of Mrs. Elsie Uden of the Community Council and Mrs. W. J. C. Hewetson who was Liaison Officer of the Festival at that time. After four years as chairman of the Music Section I resigned and as each person has different ideas it has been run with various changes.

THE SAINT LAURENT FIRST ANNUAL Music Festival, which is being sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Women, Saint Laurent Chapter No. 993 will take place in May.

THEIR AIMS AND PURPOSES: "To stimulate active interest in the arts, and to recognize and encourage young students in a positive manner." The contest will be divided into three categories: Piano — Violin — Vocal. It will include children in the grades 4 — 11 age group.

SINCE THERE WAS not enough time to select test pieces after deciding to hold the Music Festival this year, the committee asked permission to use the same test pieces as those just used in the Notre Dame de Grace Arts and Letters Festival. As the children in surrounding areas are allowed to compete, those who have just participated in the N.D.G. Music contest know the pieces and it will be to their advantage to enter. Unfortunately in the opinion of this columnist, there is not enough time to learn certain of the test pieces in the short space between March to May if a child does not do much practising. However next season they will have things in better order.

ST. LEO'S SPORTS

By PETER RASSENTI and RAY MAYNARD

A FEW of St. Leo's top athletes came in for some well earned recognition last week, with the announcement of awards that will be formally presented on the annual athletic award day.

Allan Keith, 16 year old co-captain of the senior hockey club, is the big individual winner, walking off with the coveted senior athlete trophy and a place on the first all star hockey team in the senior GMIAA hockey union.

Allan a rugged well conditioned athlete had the distinction of going through the schedule without incurring a single penalty, while playing practically the entire time of every game.

He was highly regarded by his own coach as well as oppossing hockey coaches who saw fit to vote him on to a defence spot on the first team and this in his graduating year at St. Leo's it is a fitting climax to a fine young athlete and a solid sportsman. He will be the recipient on award day of the Rev. Msgr. Edward J. Lapointe Trophy.

Mike Johnson, co-captain of the seniors and a reliable stand-by for the past four years on the senior team, repeated his last year's triumph when he was again selected as St. Leo's most valuable hockey player.

Mike started his senior high school career in hockey at the early age of 13 and for four years his dashing style of play and strong competitive spirit made it easy for anyone to pick him out as one of the finest all around hockey players ever to wear the school colors. He retains the George Marler Trophy for the second successive year.

The bantams went to the polls to decide the top junior athlete and made no mistake by giving Connie Nucci a clear cut majority over his teammates. Connie is enjoying a fine year and played a major role in the success of St. Leo's dandy bantam hockey club.

Co-captain of the bantams, Connie has a fine school spirit and is always ready to pitch in and help any sport project in the school. Allan Keith and Mike Johnson, were coach's Andy McGillis choice as St. Leo's selection for All Star senior hockey honors. Keith made the grade but Johnson hampered by a serious early season injury, fell short of the required number of votes to place on the first or second team.

The seniors held Daniel O'Connell School to a four all draw in an exhibition hockey match played at the Forum. It was an interesting game featured only by the spirited play of bantam line of Connie Nucci, Tony Tyrrell and Peter McCormick who were brought up as a trio to gain experience.

Bob Fournier, Jacques Lemieux, Connie Nucci and Allan Keith did the scoring for the Westmounters. Daniel O'Connel school were minus a few regulars.

The bantams blanked Mt. St. Louis 3-0 in an exhibition encounter played at the Westmount rink. Connie Nucci, Peter Johnson and Tony Tyrell dented the twine for the winners.

St. Leo's pee wees moved out in front in the Westmount Public School hockey play-offs when they set down King's School 7-3 in the first game of a best two out of three series for the championship.

John Donnelly, Bob Brault, John Lang and Mike Farrell were outstanding for the Academy. In a pee wee exhibition played at Lower Canada, the Collegians nosed out the locals 3-2 in a well played game. Neil Capper and Dougie Muncy scored for the losers.

The bantams breezed to an easy 6-0 exhibition win over Daniel O'Connell school. Maurice Cusson and Connie Nucci notched two goals each, while singletons went to Tony Tyrrell and Peter McCormick. It marked the second straight shut-out for goaler Peter Rassenti.

Mike Lunny's St. Leo's Old Boys team, were edged out 5-4 by the school's senior club. The Old Boys started out like they were going to blast this year's team right out of the Westmount Artificial rink, but only superb goalkeeping held them at bay.

Claude Fleury gave a fine performance in goals and steadied the team with a job only an experienced goaler like Claude could supply. Joe Froio, Mike Lunny and two goals for John Roche were the Old Boys goal getters, while Pierre Leduc, George Spare, Bob Fournier got singletons for the winners, with Mike Johnson netting two goals.

The Old Boys tired in the later stages of the game but were always dangerous. Mike Johnson, Allan Keith, Pierre Leduc, Bob Fournier, George Spare and Larry Grant turned in top games for the 1960 group and avenged last year's 4-1 defeat at the hands of the Old Boys. Bob Lunny the former Inkerman Rockett made a few good rushes but seemed to run out of wind.

Cam Grout wins McGill top award

Cameron Grout, the top athlete of the island and of his home city, Westmount won himself another award to the dozens he has already earned in his young life as an athlete.

The swimming star was named this week the top athlete of McGill University. Just recently he was voted the outstanding amateur athlete of Montreal and district.

Grout, 20, received the D. Stuart Forbes Trophy, the prize sports award at McGill, for his exciting swim exploits this past season that carried him to every conceivable record in intercollegiate splash circles.

The young undergraduate student who is Canada's top swimming hope for a medal this summer at the Olympic Games in Rome, was honored at the annual McGill awards banquet at the Sir Arthur Currie gymnasium along with athletes in every university sport.

The Forbes Trophy is presented to the McGill performer who brings the most honor to the university through his athletic achievements.

Grout suitably filled the bill this year to join such illustrious past award winners as Dick Hinton, Peter Reid, Jerry Anderson, Len Sigurdson and Leo Konyk to mention a few.

Other individual major awards were also handed to squash champion Ross Adair, football stars Carl Hansen, Paul Harasimowicz, Tom Stefl, Al Klevorick and Gary Cullen and hockey standouts Alex Herron and Bruce Hutchison.
