CHURCH UNDERMINED — St. Peter's Anglican Church at Durham Bridge, N. B. hangs precariously 30 feet over an embankment swept away by flood waters. An estimated $7,000,000 in damage has been caused by New Brunswick's flooding rivers this spring. (CP Photo)

N.B. flood damage to hit $7,000,000

FREDERICTON (CP) — Early flood damage estimates were placed at about $7,000,000 Wednesday by officials of the New Brunswick disaster fund as reports trickled in on the havoc caused by rampaging New Brunswick rivers last weekend.

A meeting of fund officials said about $2,000,000 of this was personal loss to home owners and damage to bridges, roads and other government property.

Evacuated residents were slowly moving back to their homes as the rivers crept back within the confines of their banks. The level of the St. John River here Wednesday night was 21.5 above mean sea level compared to the peak reached Monday of 24.7. Flood conditions are created at 19.

Premier Robichaud said in Montreal Wednesday night he considers the floods a "national catastrophe to which the federal government must contribute."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker earlier described the floods as a catastrophe but said it is presumed in Ottawa that the provincial government is financially able to pay any compensation.

J. Ernest Anderson, chairman of the fund committee, announced that the federal government will be asked for a $250,000 contribution toward a minimum objective of $1,000,000.

Claim Robt. Kennedy assisted bus riders

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Attorney-General Robert Kennedy interceded on behalf of "Freedom Riders" after they became stranded in Birmingham, a bus company official testified Wednesday.

However, a Kennedy aide, John Seigenthaler, denied that the justice department was working with or helping sponsors of the rides.

This testimony preceded a request for a temporary restraining order to prevent several pro-integration groups from interfering with interstate travel. The motion was filed with U.S. district Judge Frank Johnson who is hearing a justice department demand for a federal court order directing Montgomery police officials to provide protection for interstate passengers.

Johnson also is still considering possible action against two Ku Klux Klan organizations.

Earlier, Birmingham police and one Klan group were dismissed as defendants in the government's complaint, which grew out of violence which greeted a group of bi-racial "Freedom Riders" in Anniston, Birmingham and Montgomery.

Trujillo's political heirs still hold power

By HORST BUCHHOLZ
 SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Strongman Rafael Leonidas Trujillo's political heirs appeared today still to be in control of the Dominican Republic after the assassination of the dictator. But a power struggle generally was expected.

The 69-year-old dictator's hand-picked government proclaimed "the continuity" of his policies and declared nine days of mourning for the generalissimo who ruled the eastern half of the island of Hispaniola with a tyrannical hand for 31 years.

Lt. Gen. Rafael Leonidas Trujillo Jr., the dictator's playboy elder son and some believe his father's choice to succeed him, hurried from Paris by special plane.

A dispatch from Ciudad Trujillo said high government officials were among the crowd that greeted the plane Wednesday night. With him were his younger brother, Rhadames, and the Dominican ambassador to France, Porfirio Rubirosa.

A communique announcing the assassination was signed by President Joaquin Balaguer, whom Trujillo installed as a figurehead president last August when the dictator's brother Hector resigned.

The communique said the generalissimo had been the victim of a "treacherous attack" Tuesday night, more than 19 hours before the assassination was announced. But it gave no details.

Other sources said seven persons in an automobile made the attack, that two of the assailants were caught or killed and the other five were presumed to have got away.

Dominican exiles in Mexico City said Diaz was a career soldier whose sister and her husband fled to Brazil last year. But Diaz continued as army commander of the country's central zone, at least until last January.

For the moment the Dominican masses appeared to be stunned by the removal of the man who had dominated their lives for so long. One report said, "the people are very sad—

de Gaulle seeks an equal voice

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
 PARIS (AP) — President Kennedy and President de Gaulle began their second day of talks on world issues today, agreed the West must stand firm in Berlin but still divided on France's demand for an equal voice with Britain and the United States in the direction of Allied policy.

Kennedy arrived at the Elysee Palace shortly after 10 a.m. for the first of two extended conversations today with the French president.

Delivering his toast to Kennedy at a state dinner Wednesday night, de Gaulle said France is to help carry out Allied policy, it must have the fullest possible voice in making that policy.

Kennedy, speaking earlier to a group of members of the French parliament, had said that "the way to have consultations is to consult." Diplomats considered that his answer to de Gaulle's bid for a greater role for France in Allied policy-making, Kennedy in effect was saying that all the machinery necessary for consultation already is in existence.

Kennedy reinforced this impression with a statement Wednesday night that "American forces will remain in Europe as long as they are required, ready to meet any threat with whatever response is needed."

Khrushchev has threatened to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany this year, giving control of supply routes to the Allied garrisons in West Berlin to the German Communist regime which the Western powers do not recognize as a valid government. Any East German attempt to interfere with the Allied traffic would produce a showdown on the Allies' rights to remain in West Berlin.

Britain joined Kennedy and de Gaulle Wednesday in their determined Berlin stand. The foreign office reiterated that Britain "cannot and will not acquiesce in any unilateral Soviet action purporting to change the status of Berlin."

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano, winding up a visit to Ireland, said he expected Khrushchev to make new moves on Berlin soon. He expressed confidence that at Vienna "President Kennedy will put to him in a clear, realistic and serious way the American attitude toward the problem."

In addition to Berlin, Kennedy and de Gaulle discussed Southeast Asia, the slow-moving conference at Geneva on the future of Laos and African problems.

Sources close to the two presidents reported that they had established a cordial friendship and got on well in their talks.

The meetings were almost overshadowed by the warm welcome the president and his wife received from the French people.

Parisians clearly took the couple to their hearts on the first day of their visit. Almost as many cheers were reserved for Jackie as for the president.

U.S. problem Trujillo outlived his time

By JAMES M. MALLOY
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The problem with the Dominican Republic is just beginning for the United States. The assassination of dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo solved nothing.

Trujillo, 69, after 31 years of tyranny, had outlived his particular time.

The middle class had risen against him. Exiles had invaded him. The Roman Catholic church had denounced him. And all Latin American nations had broken relations with him.

He survived as long as he did on sheer muscle at a time when social revolutions were sweeping not only Latin America but the world. What outlived him was this:

While all around him the masses of Latin America were demanding greater gratification of their desire for a better life, and a better part in it, he kept his so-called republic frozen in the old ways.

Trujillo had some glimmering of the true nature of this wave of discontent which is sweeping over the dispossessed of Latin America. He pacified the peasants by parceling out land to them. They were docile.

Yet, the farmers scratched out a bare existence. The slum dwellers were ragged.

He parcelled out little else. He lived in the past. In the end his berserk tyranny—mass arrests, persecutions, executions, repressions—was too excessive, became his undoing.

He, his family and his friends got rich and fat off the republic. It's unlikely Trujillo's fat cats will yield control to some other outside, reform force without a struggle. So there may be bloody days.

If they triumph and set up another tyranny without broader reforms, it will be only a matter of time before they too are smashed. The sweep toward a richer life for Latin Americans is too strong for standstill reaction.

The real struggle eventually will be between communism and the U.S., meaning: The influence the U.S. can bring to bear through economic aid and support for a reform government.

Presidents agreed

After two hours and 35 minutes of talks Wednesday, the two presidents announced "general agreement" to stand firm against Soviet threats to West Berlin. French officials indicated they were confident Kennedy would take a firm, no-compromise line on this issue in his meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna this weekend.

Kennedy reinforced this impression with a statement Wednesday night that "American forces will remain in Europe as long as they are required, ready to meet any threat with whatever response is needed."

Generals sentenced to 15 yrs.

PARIS (Reuters) — Two former French generals today began serving 15-year sentences at hard labor for leading the abortive army coup in Algeria in April.

The sentences were handed down on former generals Maurice Challe, 55, and Andre Zeller, 63, Wednesday night after a three-day hearing. The two men will be moved shortly from Paris' Sante prison to an unnamed fortress to serve their sentences. There is no appeal.

The nine judges took only 75 minutes to decide by majority vote that the two men were guilty of leading a military insurrection and endangering the security of the state.

Challe and Zeller stood at attention and showed no emotion as the sentences were passed.

Challe was a former commander-in-chief in Algeria and Zeller a former chief of staff of the French army but neither was on active duty when they led the uprising in Algeria April 21.

Two other alleged leaders of the revolt, ex-generals Raoul Salan and Edouard Journaud, are still in hiding. They are due to be tried in their absence in the near future.

Pictures spoiled newlyweds sue

TORONTO (AP) — A Toronto couple has filed a writ asking $5,000 damages from the Toronto commercial photography firm of Ashley and Crrippen because pictures of their January wedding were spoiled.

Mrs. and Mrs. Raymond Zuchiaty claim Mrs. Zuchiaty has been in a "constant nervous and worried state" as a result of a miscarriage in March because they had been deprived of a pictorial record of their wedding.

Public comes to its census

By JAMES EMMERSON
 Today Canadians come to their census. Or—more accurately put—it might be said the census comes to Canadians.

Today, about 30,000 enumerators begin the decennial countdown on Canadian noses, houses and a host of other pertinent facts supposed to help produce a better life for all.

O. A. Lemieux, director of the census division of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, has laid the groundwork carefully for Canada's greatest population count.

This year's census, the 10th since Confederation, goes far beyond the mere counting of heads.

It will be the most comprehensive economic survey ever undertaken.

Government planners will be able to use the information—not personal information—in planning for the health and welfare of the country as well as distribution of seats in the House of Commons.

Ottawa authorities point out that every citizen is legally obligated to answer the census questions.

Information supplied by individuals, they stress, is protected by law against use by any other Government department or individual for any other use but that of compiling statistics.

The information will be fed onto tapes in the form of nameless dots which will allow the planners a field day with their graphs and charts without divulging how much you earn, what you paid for your house or if you have been married before.

The Government has even taken steps this year to guard against one of the major complaints of past censuses. This was from people who resented neighbors in the role of census takers, prying into their personal affairs.

They pointed out, with good reason, that all the elaborate precautions of secrecy guaranteed by Ottawa were in vain if their private information fell into the hands of local gossips.

TRAPPED IN TANKER — A reassuring hand is placed on the shoulder of John Hester as he looks up dazedly after he was rescued from a transport tanker in Toronto this week. He was rescued by firemen after being trapped inside the fume-filled tank for nearly an hour. The coal tar and asphalt fumes also overcame three firemen who were taken to hospital along with Hester. A co-worker was unable to drag the 200-pound Hester through the small hole in the top of the tank when he first collapsed from which are not likely to cause of the fumes. (CP Photo)

Anxious Washington waiting for Dominican clues

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. policymakers watched anxiously today for clues on whether the post-Trujillo Dominican Republic will move toward democracy or erupt in revolution with dangerous results.

The United States wants to be able to throw its weight behind a reform Dominican regime dedicated to democracy, economic improvement and anti-communism.

Scant information on Tuesday's assassination of strongman Rafael Trujillo seeping out of the tightly censored Caribbean land so far suggests the new rulers, for the time being, are carryovers from the right-wing Trujillo nest.

State Secretary Dean Rusk put off his trip to Paris for the Kennedy-de Gaulle talks to take charge of U.S. strategy at a dominant moment of change which could have heavy impact on the future.

Informed sources said both President Kennedy and Rusk had the recent Cuban invasion fiasco very much in mind and were determined to avoid any mistakes on the neighboring Caribbean island.

Some U.S. authorities foresaw a struggle for power, both within the Trujillo group and between it and the large elements of Dominican society persecuted during the dictator's 31-year rule. A continued harsh right-wing regime without Trujillo's personal leadership, they reasoned, would set off revolt—perhaps pro-Castro the next time.

The United States joined other American republics last year in breaking diplomatic relations and normal commercial ties with Trujillo.

Raid office in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-one opponents of slain Dominican dictator Rafael Trujillo, who greeted news of his assassination by invading the Dominican consulate here, were to appear in court today to answer disorderly conduct charges.

The 31, who claim to represent five anti-Trujillo exile groups, were released on bail Wednesday night after the money was raised from contributions of some 200 sympathizers in a court room.

A spokesman for the demonstrators said they went to the consulate on hearing of Trujillo's death "to find out what is going to happen to our country." But one policeman said they acted like victors.

Home goes to dogs over cats

CHICAGO (AP) — Robert Wilson, 43, and his wife, June, 38, at the suggestion of a judge, are going to try living together for a couple of weeks without Mrs. Wilson's two dozen cats.

Judge Harry Hershenson asked the couple Wednesday to effect a reconciliation now that Mrs. Wilson had the 24 cats removed from their home.

Wilson had sued for divorce, charging cruelty. He said it cost him $80 a month to feed the cats; he was allergic to cats and his wife beat him three times after they quarrelled about the felines.

The judge, who enjoined her from keeping the cats in their house, said he could understand the procurement of one cat as an affection substitute. "But," he added, "24 is carrying the need for affection too far."

Behan starring in usual role in film capital

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Irish playwright Brendan Behan was in an isolation cell at police headquarters today, accused of disturbing the peace.

Officers picked up Behan, 38, at a restaurant in Hollywood Wednesday after manager Jerry Brentari refused to serve him a beer. Brentari told police he arrested the playwright after he started swearing and acting disorderly in the restaurant.

Patrolman Charles Brewer said Behan swung at him but missed, while officers were trying to take a photograph at headquarters.

At Bishop's in July

300 leaders expected to attend first national CGIT conference

The first national conference for leaders of Canadian Girls In Training groups will take place at Bishop's University from July 22 to July 29. About 300 leaders are expected to attend.

Miss Margaret Quigley of Montreal, girls' work secretary for the province of Quebec was in Sherbrooke Wednesday arranging for the conference.

She explained that the delegates were chosen by the provincial C.G.I.T. offices and by the different denominations which sponsor C.G.I.T. The United Church of Canada, the Presbyterian Church, the Baptist Church and the Church of Christ Disciples are all sending leaders to the conference.

No inquest in death of infant

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — There will be no coroner's inquest into the mysterious death of the six-month-old baby found in a cemetery vault at St. Armand May 1.

"As far as the provincial police and I are concerned," Bedford District coroner Dr. J. H. Boileau said, "the case has been filed."

"There will be no coroner's inquest into the death unless provincial police come up with some startling new developments," he said.

Montreal provincial police medico-legal experts had been working for the past month trying to establish the cause of the death, but to no avail.

"It was impossible for them (medico-legal experts) to determine what the infant died from, the body was in such a bad state of decomposition," the doctor added.

An autopsy on the body did reveal that the infant was about six months old at the time of death and had been dead for about six months at the time of discovery.

The baby was in a small plywood coffin when discovered by Rev. J. P. Fontaine, Monday May 1.

Vosburgh case Refuse summer trial

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — A request for a special June term of the Bedford District Criminal Assizes by John J. Gottlieb, defence attorney for Abel Vosburgh, has been refused by Attorney-General George Emile Lapalme.

Attorney Gottlieb made his demand May 8 in the form of a letter which was sent to the attorney-general at Quebec.

Mr. Gottlieb was not available for comment yesterday on the attorney-general's decision.

At the time he made the demand, Mr. Gottlieb said, "at present there are five months between now and Mr. Vosburgh's trial scheduled for October and I don't think that the wait would be beneficial to his defence."

"The sooner it's over with, the better it will be for Vosburgh."

Vosburgh is charged with the murder of his wife and 11 of their children as the result of a shanty fire which destroyed their home at Noyan, December 29.

Life insurance will provide 'solid values'

In the next 10 years, times will be good for Canadians, but quick profits and inflation will not be the factors they were in the fifties, C. B. Lindsay, President of the National Association of Life Underwriters, told more than 150 of his Eastern Townships colleagues Wednesday night at the New Sherbrooke Hotel.

People will be looking, he emphasized, for solid guaranteed values, and will give increasing attention to life insurance as a combined form of investment and savings.

"The safety of capital, the emergency money provided by life insurance, and the living values of permanent insurance will become much more important to the people of Canada during the next 10 years than the last," said Mr. Lindsay.

In "the challenging sixties," he said it will be the job of the life underwriter to counsel and advise people wisely in planning their life insurance programs.

Mr. Lindsay was making his fortieth speech since leaving his home in Vancouver in February on a tour of the 76 local underwriters' associations across Canada. Last night's banquet in Sherbrooke was the twentieth meeting he has attended. "And the end of my year of

Damages Windsor store

A Sherbrooke man who pleaded guilty in Sherbrooke Court of Sessions Wednesday to a charge of causing $800 damage to a Windsor store had his sentence put off until June 27.

John Sunborg, 20 years old, pleaded guilty before Judge Redmond Hayes.

Benoit Turmel, crown prosecutor, explained to the court that Sunborg had broken the windows of Rene Godbout's store in Windsor and had hurt himself while entering the establishment.

Sunborg, who has a criminal record, admitted being under the influence of alcohol. He said he was unable to pay for the damages because he had only $1. He also said that his parents were poor.

Said Judge Hayes: "It's very easy to win a fight when you hit a window."

Quick profits seen on wane in the next decade in Canada

He said there are a number of differences in the problems experienced by cities in this province compared with those of cities and municipalities in other provinces.

"The Quebec representatives," said the Mayor, "just don't feel at home."

Among those expected to speak at the convention will be at least one provincial premier, federal and provincial cabinet ministers, a mayor representing a city of another country, and representatives of airlines, civic groups and various businesses.

Wednesday the convention opened with an

Richmond-Melbourne group meets

Board of Trade executive is named

RICHMOND — (Special) — C. A. "Jim" Chartier is the new president of the Richmond and Melbourne Board of Trade. Mr. Chartier, local manager of the Southern Canada Power Co. here replaces Gilles Marcotte, local merchant, who finished his term this month.

Dr. Jean Smith, was named vice-president and Hywell C. Griffiths remains as treasurer. A secretary will be named later by the executive.

The elections of the board took place at the regular monthly supper-meeting held at the Bellevue Golf Club.

Eight directors were named: H. C. Powers, R. W. Simpson, Roger Trudeau, L. P. Labrosse, P. V. Delaney, Pierre Masse, George Ewing and P. Marcel Dallaire.

Various committees will be set up shortly by the executive and directors. It was noted that the next meeting will be held at the golf club in June with newly-elected president Chartier presiding. This will be the annual Board of Trade golf tournament and supper.

Mr. Marcotte chaired the regular meeting Monday night and reports of the committees were read. Paul Delaney of the Industrial Committee reported that his group is at work on the possibility of another new industry.

Robert Simpson reported on agriculture and said he hoped that the board would set up a night for agriculture and invite local farmers to the regular meeting.

Gerard Desmarais, roads and bridges, reported some progress being made on route 32 and 39, Richmond to South Durham and to Waterloo, respectively. Regarding the bridge question, he said that some $500,000 has been budgeted by the Provincial government to be spent this year.

Another problem discussed was that of parking facilities, mainly on Richmond's Main Street between Craig and Adam.

Several suggestions were made to relieve the congestion along Main Street during shopping hours. A one-hour parking limit between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday to Thursday and 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday. Parking meters were also suggested as well as one-way routing of Main and College Streets.

These and other suggestions will be brought up before town council.

Mr. Marcotte, on ending his term, offered his thanks to the members for their splendid cooperation during the past year.

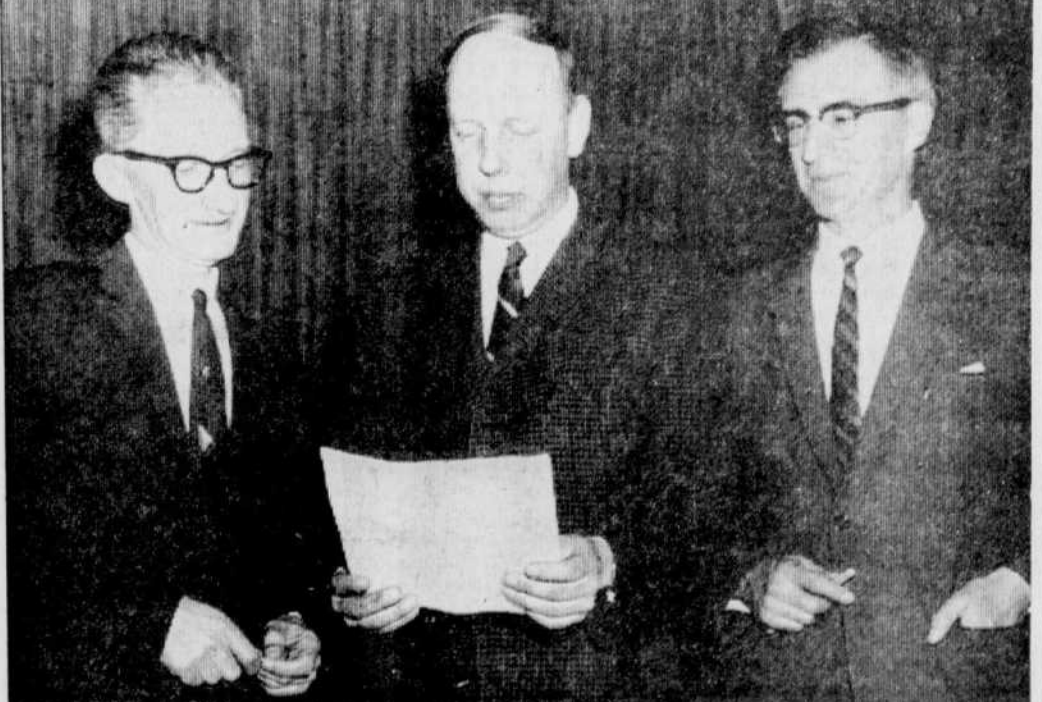

Mr. Marcotte then handed the chair over to the new president.

K. G. Nourse offered a vote of thanks to Mr. Marcotte for his work.

The members also noted the absence of one of their long time members, B. G. Husk of the attendance committee. Mr. Husk was injured in an accident last fall and has not been able to attend the board meetings since that time.

It was suggested that if he was not able to keep the post, then he would probably be made an honorary life-member.

Among the 57 attending this meeting were three guests, namely Bob Langlois of Claremont, N.H., guest of George Dorin of the H. H. Brown Shoe Co.; George Laroche, retired CNR conductor and Edgar Poulin, also CNR conductor, Rev. J. J. Simpson of Richmond and Melbourne United Church.

Mayor Nadeau also commented that Sherbrooke has not taken an active part in the operations of the Federation although it remains a member.

address by Federation president Mayor M.L.S. Huckwold, of Saskatoon, Sask.

Committee reports will be made by the secretary-treasurer Mayor J.R.P. Dawson of the Town of Mount Royal, and executive director George S. Mooney, of Montreal.

relationship between councils and the municipal employees, costs of education, problems of transportation, industrial development, municipal contracts and town planning.

Nova Scotia premier R. L. Stanfield, and the federal minister of Public Works, David Walker, are also expected to address the convention.

Record litter
 EAST ROYALTY, P.E.I. A young sow produced her first litter of piglets Wednesday — and farmer Alex Rhynes is mighty proud of her.

The sow gave birth to 39 baby pigs, a feat provincial agriculture officials think may be a record. Ten to 12 is average. Thirteen of the arrivals had to be adopted — for feeding purposes — by another sow.

Coaticook postal service improved

COATICOOK — (Special) — Louis Devost, postmaster, has announced that postal service has improved, with an additional pick up from post boxes throughout the town each day. In addition another box will be placed at the corner of Michaud and St. Marc Streets.

A check of postal boxes revealed that the one at the Corner of Child and Wellington, near the Banque Nationale, is the most widely used. Others are at St. Jacques South and Main, St. Jacques North and St. Edmond, Verreault Store, Union and Johnson and at the Coaticook Hospital.

Tank explodes at Magog garage

MAGOG — A recently installed gasoline tank at the Roger Service station in Magog, containing some 2,000 gallons of the inflammable liquid, exploded Wednesday morning, hurling debris for some distance.

However, no one was injured in the blast.

Chief Telesphore Lavoie, head of the Magog police and fire departments, said Wednesday that children often play near the station, but none of them was near at the time.

An employee of the company which supplies the station said the explosion may have been caused by a spark from a nearby grass fire.

The remaining tanks on the property were removed immediately to prevent any possibility of other explosions.

Heading the list of officers as president is Elvyn M. Baldwin. Named as vice president was Stanley Beerworth; secretary, Mrs. Bruce Ham and treasurer, Archie Fraser.

Also named to the new executive were: program committee convener, Ivor Whitehouse; ways and means committee convener, Murray Woodman; Cafeteria committee treasurer, Mrs. Charles Williams; membership committee Mrs. Ralph Hayes, Mrs. Wallis Bailey, and Mrs. Gordon Patterson representing Coaticook, Dixville and Baldwin's Mills; regional delegates, E. Baldwin, Stanley Drew and Mrs. Bruce Ham; Operation Bootstraps convener, Stanley Drew.

Named auditor for the Cafeteria Fund was Archie Fraser, UNICEF campaign convener, Burton Mosher; rink committee convener Bill Armstrong; and refreshment committee convener, Miss M. Watt.

At the meeting, Stanley Beerworth acting as chairman in place of Rev. E. Jenkins, introduced for discussion suggestions for a safety campaign among the school children, in safe driving rules, use of bicycles, and the crossing intersections. A number of pamphlets were made available and it was decided to take this up again early in the fall season.

The participation of the Home and School Association in Operation Bootstraps was discussed and it was agreed to give this a try also next fall. A committee will then be formed to start Operation Bootstraps again and Mrs. Scott has been invited as guest speaker to explain how to get the project underway.

Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Engelhardt gave reports of their visit, as delegates to the annual Home and School conference held in Montreal. Mr. Beerworth read a financial statement prepared by the treasurer, Archie Fraser, who was unable to be present.

A report from the cafeteria committee was given by Mrs. Charles Williams, and it was agreed that the service of the cafeteria would be available through exam time, or at the decision of the cook, Mrs. Bailey, if the numbers taking advantage of the hot meals become too few to handle economically.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, George Engelhardt and were adopted.

Improving the waterways

Provincial legislation authorizing the Quebec Government to meet one-sixth of the cost of sewage-disposal and garbage treatment plants, coupled with similar federal aid already in existence, makes it imperative that the Sherbrooke City Council press its study of the water purification scheme advanced by Ald. Gerard Berard.

In the very near future Sherbrooke will be compelled for reasons of public health to undertake some such project. Already the St. Francis River odors, at time of low water, are obnoxious and even dangerous to health because of the sewers dumping their waste into the slow-moving stream. And the Magog river promises to become equally polluted.

The senior governments, by proposing to absorb one-third of the cost of such undertakings, obviously are seeking to encourage the municipalities to adopt these projects voluntarily. But it is probable that if the response does not reach the expected proportions, some compulsory legislation will be adopted, perhaps without federal and municipal assistance.

The new provincial legislation goes far beyond the simple problem of sewage disposal and tackles the more urgent issue of industrial wastes dumped into the rivers. Some companies, including major Eastern Townships firms, have taken steps to end their contribution to water pollution. But, unfortunately, their efforts have been offset to a degree by the failure of other interests on the same stream to co-operate.

By taking disciplinary action against recalcitrant firms, the government will encourage the sympathetic firms to increase their efforts.

U.S. electoral reform studied

The photo-finish in the last American presidential elections has resulted in a flock of bills before Congress to revise the present system of voting for Presidents through electors and by states. While President Kennedy did get a slight edge in the popular vote and was thereby entitled to election under strictly democratic processes, the complicated United States system has resulted in giving victory twice to a candidate receiving the smaller vote.

Senator Karl B. Mundt of South Dakota, appearing before the Senate Committee on Constitutional Amendments, claimed that the importance of big or heavily-populated states in the electoral college tempts politicians to try to swing the votes of these states through fraud. He cited contested counts in Illinois, California and Missouri last year.

In an effort to remedy the effects of the present system whereby a small majority in New York swings forty three votes and a plurality of the same number in Vermont only three, Senator Kenneth Keating of New York suggests the electoral college be abolished and the election be made by direct popular vote.

This, of course, would require a general re-vamping of the electoral laws. Now voting practices and qualifications, even for federal positions, are determined by state laws. Some federal control would be essential to prevent individual states from liberalizing their laws unduly to strengthen their say in the naming of a president.

First and last

It probably all started on Nov. 7, 1885, when they drove a last golden spike into the trans-Canada CPR railway line at Craigellachie.

Since that time a bewildering variety of openings and closings have been achieved to the accompaniment of symbolical first and last efforts.

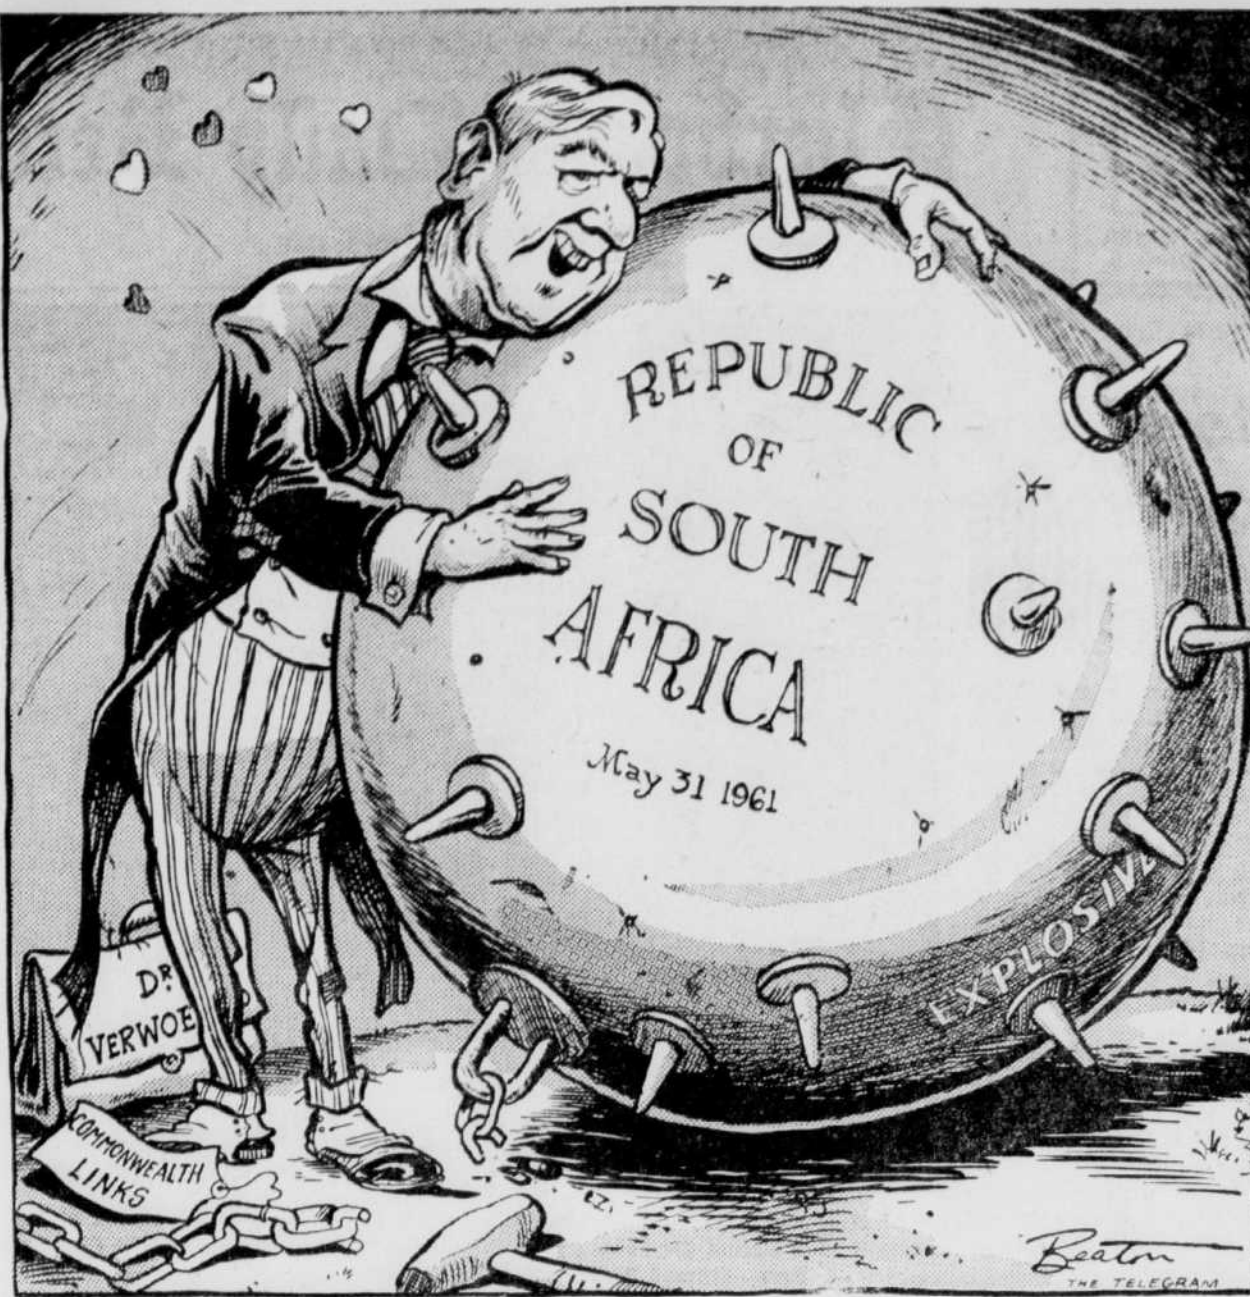

Last spikes don't get driven very often any more, but we still have gaily decorated last steel beams finishing off skyscraper structures; silver-bladed trowels and shovels for laying cornerstones and turning sods; festoons of ribbons to be cut.

These are more or less standard ceremonial trappings, but there's an occasion coming up this Saturday in Alberta that must be setting a precedent for this kind of thing.

Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton will stick a syringe into a cow to mark the completion of Canada's war against bovine tuberculosis.

And — you guessed it — the syringe will be gold plated.

England's 'colored' crisis: Last in a series

Commonwealth plan is needed

LONDON — (TNS) — The Commonwealth is people on the move. Yet its leaders are only now awakening to their task of planning for the needs of shifting populations.

And if the Commonwealth is to fulfil its declared role of bringing harmony into the association of white and non-white peoples, it must be expected that the extent of human interchange will grow.

When Prime Minister Macmillan last month suggested to Mr. Diefenbaker that Canada should absorb twice as many West Indian immigrants as at present, he was opening an entirely new phase of diplomacy within the Commonwealth.

The next Prime Ministers' conference may be asked to set up machinery to help guide migrations from one Commonwealth land to another.

And — within a decade — Commonwealth civil servants may be working to prepare the first world-spanning study of the economic and social problems caused by the impulse to leave home and seek better opportunities abroad.

If they are, they will learn much from a study of the West Indian migration to Britain.

Critic Cyril Osborne claims that the colored population of Britain will be 2,000,000 before 1981. Experts dispute his figure. But they do not dispute that the figure will be vastly higher than the present 300,000.

Since existing social and psychological problems have been seriously aggravated by the presence of 300,000, how can Britain contain the tensions and pressures continued immigration will doubtless impose?

Haphazardly, under the spur of necessity, a beginning has been made. Now an official of the West Indies Federation awaits the arrival of every immigrant ship at Tilbury docks, ready with the answers incoherent need most.

Now Jamaican George Evans Hackney, seeking out problem families, helping to find homes, explaining Britain's health and education services to migrants. That is his job. He is a full-time employee of Hackney Borough Council — paid to help and inform.

Now half a dozen voluntary welfare agencies sift the problems, recommend solutions. It is a long way from being a national plan. But it is a beginning.

The Family Welfare Association has followed up these developments with the suggestion that every municipality with a colored population of more than 5,000 should appoint a Community Relations Officer concerned with the assimilation problem.

The Institute of Social Service has published a more far-ranging plan. It urges: That Britain should formally outlaw racial discrimination. That communities should elect committees drawn from industries, local authorities and welfare groups to advise colored migrants on jobs, houses and the subtler, more difficult problem of how to "fit in."

That Britain's schools should include in their curricula lessons on the background, outlook and traditions of West Indians. Certainly the bewildered migrant is not now so helpless as those who came five years ago. Equally certainly through a multiplicity of spontaneous local efforts, Britain is learning to cope with its problem.

Macmillan publicly recognized, on his West Indian tour last month, that the basic need is to funnel trade and aid to the West Indies.

The participation of most of the Commonwealth will be needed to bring prosperity. It will be a long, slow job.

In the meantime, the restless, ambitious and desperate will continue the exodus. Britain — having firmly maintained the Commonwealth citizen's right to live here — has no wish to face this problem alone.

As Macmillan told Diefenbaker last month, average annual West Indian inflow to Britain over the last five years has been 30,000. The average number entering Canada has been 1,200. In 1960, Britain admitted 50,000; Canada 1,276.

Ottawa says there is no quota restriction on West Indian entry — applications are judged on individual merit. An official of the West Indian Migrant Services Division told me that freer entry to Canada could ease his problem.

West Indians, he pointed out, already have an emotional attachment and a political respect for Canada. He recognized that Canada, with more men than jobs, could not countenance the massive influx Britain has received.

But he suggested that Canada could absorb the 2,500 West Indians a year suggested by Macmillan without strain. It $500 million for the Inter-American social progress fund be appropriated along with the $100 million the U.S. had promised Chile after the earthquakes and tidal waves of May 1960.

Congressional approval finally came, 14 months after the idea took shape in President Eisenhower's mind.

By now, though, more and more Latin Americans are coming to wonder if the U.S. really knows what it wants. Kennedy has talked about "recreating our social systems" (in Latin America) "so that they will better serve both men and nations."

Exactly what he meant, Latin America does not know but it does sound revolutionary. (Distributed by Telegram News Service)

WOMEN ADDICTS

(Windsor Star)

Drugs are starting to take a heavy toll on women. It's estimated that 85 percent of the women serving jail sentences are addicts, compared to 30 percent of the males.

This explains why women are greater parole risks than men. Incomplete figures given by Miss Mary L. Lynch, only woman member of Canada's National Parole Board, show 12.9 percent of the women have their parole revoked as against 6.9 per cent of the men. This is the result of so many women going back on drugs once they are released from jail.

Unfortunately, no reason is given why there are so many women drug addicts. It could be that they become more different to the law, feeling that their sex may save them if they are caught. It would also be interesting to note just how many women addicts there are and why they have taken up this degrading habit.

Mexico spent $640,000,000 on public works projects last year, a $16,000,000 increase over 1959.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

VICTORIA, B.C.—In the peaceful warm beauty of this unique city, it was hard to sense the forces that produced Monday's election results, affecting as they did the political futures of the Diefenbaker government and the three anti-government parties.

The sun, the flowers, the leisurely pace, the local absorption and the international sailing regatta created a nostalgic illusion, a harkening back to years when there were no nuclear bombs, no Khrushchev or Castro, Laos or Congo. It was a feeling I hadn't had since the summer of 1939.

Intruding on this peace—in the newspapers, on the air—the five candidates fighting for the federal seat of Esquimalt-Saanich jarred one back to reality. For the Conservatives this was the most important by-election of the four—as they demonstrated by despatching no less than eight cabinet ministers to show their faces and defend their deeds to the voters here. They could not afford the loss of this constituency—not after Gen. Peckars' 15,000 majority here in 1958. The prestige of John Diefenbaker's government was riding on the result—and as well a good deal of the Ottawa Tories' political thinking, planning and strategy as the afternoon of the second Diefenbaker administration draws towards its close.

I have written that the by-election in Leeds, in old Ontario, was strategically—not necessarily psychologically—the most important one for the Grits to win. But they badly wanted Victoria too, and organized such a sharp campaign that John Diefenbaker personally rushed out reinforcements for his man George Chatterton—first the non-atomic foreign minister, Howard Green, closely followed by the atomic-essential Defence Minister, Douglas Harkness. The Tories were running scared by then. They had started off supremely confident. Chatterton, obedient to made-in-Ottawa strategy, kept away from national issues such as nuclear arms, the missing budget and foreign policies and instead tried to win the election on local issues he had dealt with as the popular reeve of Saanich.

Liberal David Groos declared flatly that the government's record was on trial. Rated no better than a show at the beginning of the race, Groos was neck and neck with Chatterton a fortnight ago. Then Diefenbaker rushed out Harkness to counter the rather astonishing impact of Grit leader Lester Pearson. At the same time Chatterton sharply reversed his strategy, replying vigorously to critics of government policy.

I talked with all five candidates and came to realize that among four of them the voters' choice was not easy. There was Socialist Party candidate Don Poirer, 22, a seaman just out of the navy whose views are left of the Communists. He didn't count. Those who counted most were Chatterton, 46 RCAF veteran, and Groos, 43 retired naval captain.

Then there was George Hahn, 49, former MP, apparently Premier Bennett's candidate for the national leadership of the Social Credit party.

And there was Glen Hamilton, 41 army veteran, social worker, New Party test rocket and Burma Shave candidate. His roadside signs: Turn old parties Out to range Vote new party Time for change.

But with half a hundred sloops, yawls and ketches heeling in a 25 knot breeze off Victoria, who had time to think about turning the old parties out?

Latin-American report

Hemisphere summit in making

A Western hemisphere summit conference seems to be in the making.

If all goes well, President John Fitzgerald Kennedy and many, if not all, South American presidents will meet in Uruguay in mid-July.

Their task will be to plan a peaceful social and economic revolution in Latin America. Much depends on Kennedy.

If he is able to attend the meeting of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council July 15, Latin diplomatic circles say that the presidents of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru, Ecuador and, possibly, other countries will accept Uruguay's invitation.

Such a meeting would provide Kennedy a rare opportunity, one he may never encounter again, at a crucial moment in hemispheric history.

At a Latin summit Kennedy might be able to communicate to his Latin counterparts the sincerity, the originality and the feasibility of his alliance for Progress plan to help Latin America help itself. A tougher task might be explaining the apparent contradiction between the seriousness with which the United States seems to view the Communist threat from Cuba and the failure to support the Cuban exile effort to overthrow the government of Fidel Castro.

A presidential conference in Uruguay also might provide the Latin chief executives a chance to explain to Kennedy their growing doubts about U.S. policy toward Latin America.

Much of the confusion in Latin America arises from the fact that the U.S. cannot seem to make up its mind what to do and how to do it.

The Cuban invasion fiasco is a case in point. Despite the fact that the testimony taken by a Senate subcommittee has not been made public and, in fact, even before Sen. Wayne Morse's group began its hearing, Latin Americans had a pretty accurate idea of what happened April 17 at the Bay of the Pigs.

The anti-Castro Cuban exiles landed on the beaches expecting U.S. air and naval support. The invasion area was chosen precisely because there was only one route—the railroad and paralleling highway—to and from it.

Plans, as Latins report them, called for use of the exile invaders as bait to draw the elite of Fidel Castro's forces down that path through the Zapata swamp.

They say that here was where the U.S. failed the exiles and, by projection, anti-Communists the hemisphere over. They say U.S. naval vessels offshore were supposed to bombard the access route and U.S. naval planes were supposed to strafe and bomb the Castro military units, presumably wiping out the pick of the Cuban Communist armed forces.

Why, having committed the anti-Castro Cubans to the inva-

UNLUCKY EXPERT

The unlucky expert continued his tale of woe by showing a grand slam that his opponents bid and made.

One of his audience ventured to remark, "You can't blame your good cards for this one, can you?"

"I not only can, but I do," replied the unlucky expert. "I am very careful about my minor suit overcalls and with a weaker diamond suit I would have stayed out of the bidding entirely."

"If I had passed there is a good chance that North and South would only have reached game. A very good chance that they would have gone to six and almost no chance that they would have reached seven."

"As a result of my diamond overcall, South was able to see very distinct slam possibilities in spite of his mere 13 high card points. He cue bid diamonds twice and went all the way to seven when North showed the other two aces."

"Finally, and most important, my partner held three spades to the queen. After my overcall, South led a low spade from his hand toward dummy. I showed out and he was able to pick up my partner's queen. If I hadn't overcalled, he might have played the ace of spades first."

Canada experiences explosive progress

By FORBES RHUDE
 Canadian Press Business Editor
 VANCOUVER (CP)—We are experiencing the most explosive quarter century in technological history, Dr. George M. Dick, president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, said Wednesday night in an address to the institute's annual meeting.

To meet the challenge of the coming years, Dr. Dick said Canadian engineers will have to tackle objects much more ambitious than those of the past. "The engineering possibilities which are likely to become realities are so revolutionary that it is almost impossible to appreciate them."

"Many phases of engineering work will be simplified considerably by continued development of electronic computing devices."

"The crowded air travel channels of 1975 will be safely policed by computing devices so that air control tower attendants will be largely relieved of this agonizing responsibility."

FUTURE IN HIS HANDS
 Dr. Dick, who is chief engineer of Canadian Ingersoll-Rand Ltd., of Sherbrooke, Que., said that in the changing technological world, the future of the Canadian economy is to a large extent in the hands of the Canadian engineer and technician. Canadian industry, he commented, is often criticized because so much of its research and development work is done outside Canada.

"Under today's conditions of operation, however, with profit margins a commercial necessity, there is not much choice left in many Canadian organizations but to accept these developments from our foreign counterparts."

He suggested that the government recognize this problem by granting tax concessions.

"The long-term effect of this recognition would clearly be increased employment and productivity and, eventually, increased tax revenue."

Fifth generation owner occupies farm near Bury

Following the death of his parents, he retained possession of the home, where he lived and brought up a family of nine, until the fatal day, October 6, 1906, when a disastrous fire demolished all their buildings, leaving them homeless.

Disheartened by this misfortune, Col. Dunsmore did not rebuild but moved away from the vicinity, later selling the property to Alex Dougherty.

For the next 15 years the farm was unoccupied until, in 1921, Mr. Dougherty transferred it to his son Russell who erected new buildings, the house on the same site as the old one, and with his young bride established a home. There their family of eight grew up and married leaving their younger brother, Jimmy to assist his father in carrying on the farm.

Recently, upon his father's retirement, Jimmy Dougherty took over the property and is now the fifth generation owner and occupant.

Next is a turquoise and white plaid sheer wool dress. At right is pale turquoise light-weight woolen coat. (NEA)

No fashion shows for "Jackie"

PARIS (AP) — The Paris fashion world wanted to give a private showing for Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy on her visit here, but the proposal was turned down by the White House, a designer said today. Jacques Heim, president of the French high fashion syndicate, revealed that an approach was made through the French Embassy in Washington a month or so ago. "Time restriction was the only reason given against it," he said, but did not conceal that he suspects other reasons. In fact, the French syndicate has feelings slightly bruised over the fact that Mrs. Kennedy will not see any fashion shows here, much less buy any French clothes. "We understand, of course, that the first lady should wear mostly American clothes," Heim said. "But we consider that no harm would be done if once in a while she could wear a French dress. On the contrary, it would only help friendly relations."

Marriage

MACK — STEVENSON

MAGOG — The marriage of Louise Ann Stevenson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Stevenson, Lachine, Que., to Mr. Arthur Robert Mack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan A. Mack, Lennoxville, took place recently in St. Paul's United Church, Magog, Que. The Rev. R. A. Mitchell officiating. Decorations for the church were hyacinths, daffodils and palms. The soloist was Mrs. Gertrude Jean Whittier, accompanied by Mr. James Connor, at the organ. The bride who was given in marriage by her father was dressed in a street length gown of white applied nylon with long sleeves and a straight cut neckline. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a diadem and carried a bouquet of white hyacinths and pink sweetheart roses. Her only jewellery was a pendant of gold petals with inlaid pearls, which was given to the bride's grandmother on her wedding day. The Misses Patricia and Carol Stevenson were bridesmaids, one wearing a dress of pink taffeta with a bouquet of yellow rosebuds and palms, and the other blue taffeta with pink rosebuds and palms. Both dresses were slightly trimmed with black velvet and their headresses were of gathered pink and blue net held in place by black velvet centres. Mr. Glendon P. Goodhue was best man and Mr. Kenneth Stevenson acted as usher. Mrs. Stevenson the bride's mother was attired in a sheath dress of beige and green floral print with matching three quarter length coat, beige hat and matching accessories. More bursaries announced by I. O. D. E.

CALGARY (CP) — Scholarships and bursaries totalling $60,000 were approved Tuesday by delegates attending the 61st annual meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. Bursaries of $1,600 each were approved for 30 students—sons or daughters of deceased or disabled Second World War veterans—entering Canadian universities next fall. Six scholarships of $2,000 were approved for overseas post-graduate studies by graduates of Canadian universities. The bursaries from the Second World War memorial fund have been offered since 1946 and will continue until 1965. The scholarships perpetuate. At earlier sessions, delegates approved scholarships totalling $18,000 from the First World War memorial fund for nine graduates of Canadian universities since 1920. 205 such scholarships have been granted. Bursaries from the fund ended some years ago. "Many prominent Canadians got their start through IODE scholarships and bursaries," said IODE war memorial secretary Mrs. R. C. Bennett of Toronto, including Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, president of Acadia University. Special credit is due to people who continue to appreciate the value of civil defence training despite frequent changes. Mrs. Guy G. Simonds of Toronto reported. Mrs. Simonds, wife of the former chief of general staff of the Canadian Army, did not attend the meeting and her report for the IODE defence committee was read by Mrs. B. B. Isler of Toronto. Mrs. Simonds' report noted that rapid development of modern weapons led inevitably to continual changes in emergency measures planning. "To many this has given rise to feelings of futility and frustration which could readily degenerate into a dangerous defeatism," she said in her report. Quebec members had suggested their provincial government institute a civil defence correspondence course and as a result, a course was sent to all chapters in January.

Former L'ville couple receive congratulations

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winslade formerly of Lennoxville, and who now reside in Renfrew, Ontario, celebrated their Diamond Wedding Anniversary on May 26. Mr. and Mrs. Winslade were the recipients of several lovely gifts, and received greetings from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, and many relatives and friends in Quebec and Ontario. They celebrated the day quietly in their home on Cameron Street, and in the evening were guests of honor at a family dinner at the home of their son. In a toast to his mother and father their son wished them many more years of health and happiness together. In reply Mr. and Mrs. Winslade expressed their thanks to the many people who had so kindly remembered them and who had helped make this memorable day such a happy one.

Tips for parents

HELEN R. HEWSON
(Parent Education Associates)

Have you ever been annoyed with your child's teacher? A parent has written to complain about the teacher's out-of-school behaviour: he chose his own Christmas gift, he denies his class the use of the gym if a lady teacher wants to use it, he has "no patience with pupils who are not brilliant."

COMPLAINTS
This is quite a list of complaints. However it is not wise to pay too much attention to children's reports. They are not always objective or accurate, especially if the parent is disturbed by tales told out of school. It is rather fun to create excitement. Remember too that teachers hear some rather odd stories of home happenings which they find best to ignore. If the parents feels there is legitimate cause for complaint he should discuss the matter with the school principal and say little about it before the children. It is very difficult for a child to respect a teacher who is frequently criticized by his parents. Respect for the teacher is an important part of class discipline and makes both teaching and learning more enjoyable.

HOME AND SCHOOL
We wonder if this parent is a member of the local Home and School association? This organization provides an opportunity for parents and teachers to meet as individuals. When they have met as people who share an interest in the happiness and welfare of children it is much easier to discuss problems as they arise and to avoid misunderstanding. Most parents feel the urge at some time "To go right over and tell that teacher a thing or two." But the parent who only goes to the school when he is annoyed or worried is not creating the best conditions for his child.

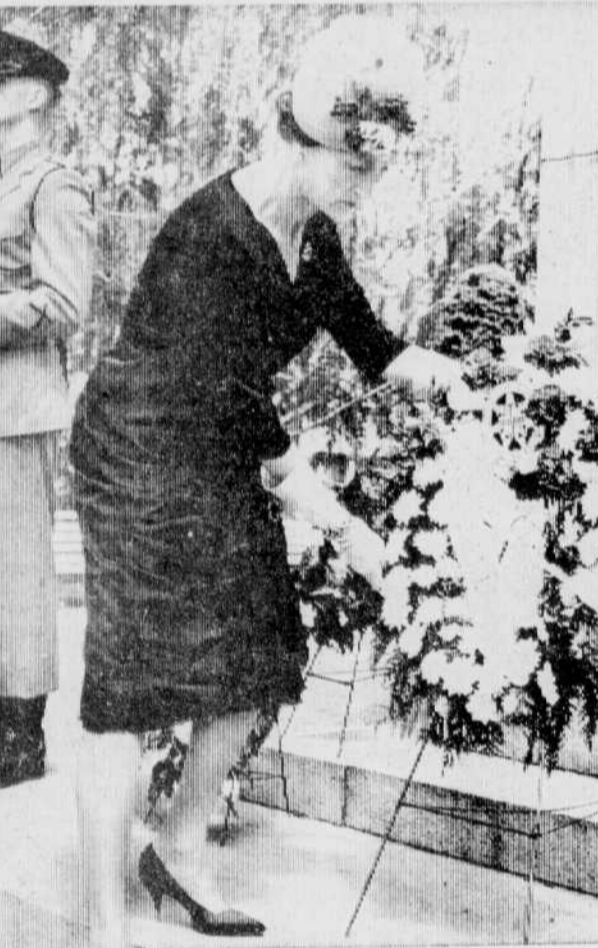

MODERN METHODS
A well-conducted Home and School association gives the parent an opportunity to know something of the courses of study, of modern teaching methods, of school discipline. The association provides an opportunity for genuine parent-teacher co-operation and understanding. This helps to create an atmosphere that encourages the child to do his best in school. (TNS)

L'eglise des Cantons de l'Est and Mrs. W. Winget. After discussion on these reports, the morning session was closed with Mrs. George MacDonald leading in prayer. A delicious dinner was served by the members of the Auxiliary in their newly-renovated hall. Some of the visitors were driven to the camp site through the kindness of Rev. J. Smith and Mrs. Malboeuf, where a group of young people from one of the Montreal churches were enjoying themselves. The afternoon session opened with devotions conducted by Miss J. Farquhar. The offering was received by members of the Inverness Auxiliary, and dedicated by Mrs. J. Stokoe. Mrs. J. A. Smith reported on the Council meetings she had attended earlier in the month. She spoke especially of the pleasure all felt at the presence of Lady Ibiam of Nigeria and the talk she gave them. She told them that 80% of the people are illiterate, and many more workers, especially Christians, are needed. With conditions as they are today, she said many Africans wonder if God is really Lord of all. Talks were given by many others, and all expressed the need of more workers, in Canada as well as overseas. Mrs. Henry Moulard, who also attended the Synodical meeting, spoke of the coming 100th Anniversary of the founding of the women's Homes Missionary Society and the 50th Anniversary of the present W. Sandford, Mrs. J. E. Nicholson, M. S. in 1964. A duet by the Misses La-

New store shows confidence in city

This weekend Paul-Henri Hamel is opening his new store at 112 Main Street West in Magog, to provide the city with another handsomely-designed place of business.

Mr. Hamel himself designed his new store, which incorporates many attractive features and an excellent floor arrangement.

Not the least bit superstitious, Mr. Hamel says "I opened my first store here on a Friday the 13th six years ago last May", and expresses his confidence in the Magog future.

The new "paul henri" men's wear shop is just three doors east of its old location at 154 Main West.

The modernistic entrance is set between two metallic gold block pillars topped by an extending marquis. The walk is of large flagstone, and arrangement.

Paul Henri Hamel

though only 17 feet wide, the store carries 26 feet of display windows.

The left window is a tapered open display, allowing a complete interior view of the store. The entrance forms an indent into the front portion, and a suspended window resembling a huge showcase is at the right.

Inside the store there are many notable features, including well-displayed merchandise covered by a good daylight-type lighting system. The new store has 1,200 square feet of floor space, including a small office, cash counter and two dressing rooms.

Rocky Marciano, Former Champion, Ducks Flat Answer On Comeback, Testified At Special Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano ducked a flat answer Wednesday as to whether he might try a comeback.

"I really don't know," Marciano told the senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee. "It's an exciting thought."

A newsman told Marciano he interpreted this as meaning the door was not definitely closed to a comeback.

"It's pretty hard to close the last inch," Marciano replied. The retired undefeated heavyweight champ was among witnesses who testified in favor of the federal government helping to clean up boxing.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, has before it a bill sponsored by Kefauver and Sen. Clair Engle, to establish an office of boxing commissioner within the department of justice.

A 1959 statement by Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California set the tone for the hearings, which began Wednesday and will continue through Friday. Brown's statement of Aug. 25, 1959 that boxing "smells to high heaven" was quoted approvingly by Kefauver and Engle among others.

Marciano, came with a prepared statement but was at a loss for words to supplement it.

In advocating a federal boxing czar, Marciano said: "It is abundantly clear that the individual states have failed in the supervision of the sport."

Adios Butler Favored To Win Miracle Mile

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Adios Butler, a loser in his last start, drew the rail position Wednesday and was made the 6 to 5 favorite for Saturday's $25,000 Miracle Mile race at Roosevelt Raceway.

The syndicate-owned American pacer was given the edge over the New Zealand pacer duo of False Step and Arania and the Australian Ampat, as well as the other American entries in the eight-horse field.

Adios Butler, fastest pacer ever with a clocking of 1:54 3/5 on a mile track, finished fifth in his first 1961 start a week ago. The race was over a sloppy track and was captured by False Step. Adios Butler, however, was less than a length behind.

False Step, purchased by Jack Dreyfus, Jr., of New York just before his victory over Adios Butler, was made the 7-2 second choice.

517 Athletes In Montreal Meet

MONTREAL (CP)—More than 500 schoolboy athletes had filed entries Wednesday for next Saturday's ninth annual track-and-field invitational meet of the Greater Montreal Interscholastic Athletic Association.

The figure stood at 517, with about 160 entered from out-of-town schools, and may be increased before the day of the meet.

Entries have come from 22 schools in the greater Montreal area and 21 outside—the highest from the Ottawa and Eastern Townships areas. One entry from New Brunswick has entered from the Northwood School in Plattsburgh, N.Y.

Five age classes will compete in the day-long meet—boys under 14, under 15, under 16, under 18 and under 20.

Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris Hammering Away

It's still "Dial M for Murder" with New York Yankees. Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, one-two in the American League home run race when New York ran off with the flag last year, have come alive again, powering the Yankees along for seven victories in their last 10 games. And with the front-running Detroit Tigers suddenly gone cold, they couldn't have picked a better time to get hot.

Between them, Mantle and Maris have hammered 10 home runs and have driven in 20 runs in those 10 games. Maris has had only nine hits in 32 at bats in the 10 games, but six of them have been homers. Mantle, 9-25 while dogged by injury and with same span, has hit four home runs—good for seven RBI—in the last three games.

They were at it again as the Yankees regained third place, 3 1/2 games behind Detroit, with a 7-6 victory at Boston Wednesday night. Maris drove in three runs, one with a homer. And Mantle put it away capping a five-run fourth inning and taking the AL lead with his 14th home run.

Fifth-place Kansas City spilled Detroit 6-4, handing the Tigers their fifth defeat in seven games and shaving their lead over the Yankees and Cleveland. Chicago White Sox dropped Baltimore to fourth place, beating the Orioles 9-4, but stayed in the cellar as Los Angeles Angels, after losing 13 in a row on the road, won 5-3 in 12 innings at Washington.

BROKE THE TIE

Maris, who edged Mantle for the 1960 most valuable player award by three points after hitting 38 home runs to Mantle's leading 40, broke a 1-1 tie with his 12th home run in the third inning off loser Billy Muffett (0-5). He then drove in two runs in the fourth ahead of Mantle's winning shot.

Rookie Roland Sheldon won his first in the majors, although he gave up a homer by Frank Malzone, who drove in three runs for the Red Sox and needed late relief by Luis Arroyo and Danny McDevitt. McDevitt nailed it with one pitch, getting Vic Wertz to hit into a game-ending double play with the tying run on third.

The As made it two in a row over the Tigers and handed ace Frank Lary (7-3) his second straight setback to boot. Joe Pignatano had four of the As' 13 hits, a homer, a double and two singles; drove in their first three runs, and scored the lead run on Dick Houser's double when Kansas City broke a 3-3 tie with three in the seventh. Joe Nuxhall (3-1), like Pignatano a NL discards, was the winner with relief help from Bill Kunkel after giving up home runs by Chico Fernandez and Steve Boros.

Al Smith's op-or-on homer triggered a three-run third inning that wrapped up the White Sox first victory over the Orioles in seven tries. Jim Landis also homered for the Sox, who had managed just one run in their last 24 innings while losing nine of 10. Frank Baumann (2-4) was the winner with his first complete game of the year, Chuck Estrada (2-4) was the loser, giving up five runs on four hits and four walks in 2-2-3 innings. Both clubs had 10 hits.

The Angels, whose only other road victory was a 7-2 decision at Baltimore in the season opener, finally beat the Senators on a walk and Ken Aspromonte's tie-breaking double in a two-run 12th. The Nats had tied it 3-3 with a run in the eighth after blowing a 2-0 lead. Southpaw Ted Bowsfield (1-1) of Penitenc, B.C., was the winner and Marty Kutyna (3-1) the loser, both in relief.

Ray Washburn Is Proving Himself In Minors, Top Hurler For Marlins, Stops Jersey On Neat Two-Hitter

Ray Washburn is a thrifty person. For one thing, he is proving his worth, having cost the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League $80,000 in bonus money last year when he was signed off the Whitworth (Wash) College team as a p u s, as the leading pitcher of the Charleston Marlins.

For another, he has an earned run average this season in the International League of 1.91, one of the best in the IL after ringing up his fifth straight victory Wednesday night, 9-1 with a two-hit job on the Jersey City Jerseys.

The victory kept the Marlins two-games in first place as the second-place Columbus 9-2. Rochester went on an offensive binge in beating Toronto 16-6 and Buffalo held off the Syracuse Chiefs for a 10-6 victory.

Washburn gave a fifth inning single to Ultus Alvarez and a homer in the ninth to Larry Novak while facing only 28 batters. He has allowed only 33 hits and 12 runs in 47 innings. His mates clubbed 12 hits off loser Orlando Pena and reliever Bob Risenhoover.

Columbus benefited from reliever Hal Reniff in a six-run eighth inning against the Virginians.

EIGHT IN FIRST

Rochester's 16 runs marked the most in one game by a single IL club this season, getting eight in the Ellis Burton, Chuck Tanner and Lou Jackson honored off winner John Anderson, while Dave Pope tagged Art Kay for one. John Powell, Ray Barker and Ron Kabbes also homered, for the wings as Barry Shetrone had five hits and Fred Valentine four.

Buffalo's seven runs in the first two innings wrapped up its game against Syracuse, though the Chiefs outthit the Bisons 14-12. Tony Curry and Woody Smith each hit three run homers for the Bisons.

Joe Louis Tells Senators It Is Time To Drive Racketeers Out Of Boxing, To Be Called As Witness

WASHINGTON (AP)—Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion, told senators today it is high time for federal action to drive racketeers out of professional boxing.

He said the sport "has become a racket." Louis' views were in a letter made public by the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee to the witness stand today.

Louis was billed as an expert witness in this second day of hearings on a bill by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) to place professional boxing under tough federal policing.

Kefauver, a subcommittee chairman Wednesday indicated a continuing interest in the troubles of Sonny Liston, the No. 1 ranked challenger for the heavyweight crown now held by Floyd Patterson.

Introducing his bill some time ago, Kefauver had expressed concern that control of the title would "revert to the underworld" if Liston ever won a world title by Gene Fullmer, recognized by the National Boxing Association as middleweight champion, and Tommy Light, former light heavyweight champion.

29 Players And 18 Schools In Cage Scandal

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ron Lawson, 19, UCLA basketball star, has quit school after admittedly being approached by gamblers.

The sophomore's name was added Monday to the swelling list of college basketball players who either co-operated with professional gamblers or failed to report bribery attempts.

Wilbur Johns, director of athletics at UCLA, said Lawson voluntarily quit the campus for failing to report immediately to his coaches that he was approached by a contact man for the gamblers.

Lawson, from Nashville, Tenn., appeared before the New York grand jury last week in connection with its investigation into point shaving by college basketball players.

"Lawson appeared voluntarily," Johns said. "Since his return, he has told us he was approached by a contact man for the gamblers, but that he did not ever shave points in a game."

COULDN'T GIVE DETAILS

Lawson said he was not allowed to say what UCLA game the bribe attempt was aimed, who offered the bribe or how much he was offered to shave points.

The Lawson incident was the second report of such activity on the West Coast. Sylvester Blye, former University of Seattle player, was listed March 24 as among players who rejected bribe offers from gamblers but did not report the fact.

Games Switched With Tuesday As Coach Ruel Looking For Tough Duel; Drolet To Hurl For Waterloo Club

Sherbrooke Alouettes will journey to Coaticook this evening to meet the Canadiens. This game was scheduled to be played in Sherbrooke but was changed with the tilt slated next Tuesday.

Two other games are on tap with Acton Vale visiting Waterloo and Drummondville moving into Granby. Acton Vale will be trying to maintain their pace on top of the heap. They have five straight wins to their credit.

It will be the first meeting between the Canadiens and the Alouettes and should be very interesting. Coaticook is in second place in the standing, while Sherbrooke is a game and a half behind.

Coach Ruel hasn't named his starter but no doubt he will have his top men ready for the battle. The Als won over the Royal here Sunday but in the evening they were shutout in Drummondville. These are the only games until Sunday.

Sherbrooke tangles with Granby in the Sunday twin-bill fixture playing away in afternoon and back at the Park Ave. Stadium in the evening. This will be the first clash between these teams this year and should be very interesting. Ernie Drolet has been named as the hurler for Waterloo when they face the league leaders tonight. It is expected that Henri Corbiel will be his opponent. He will be seeking his third straight win and Acton Vale will try to maintain their winning streak. They lead the circuit with five straight and will be after number six.

Manager Lemay states that he is after another good hurler and a slugger. He claims the team needs more hitting power and is in contact with two players and expects to sign them in the near future.

Jim Brosnan And Bill Henry Playing Big Part In Redlegs' Comeback, Stop Dodgers, Giants And Pirates Win

What has put Cincinnati on top in the National League race? It boils down to a matter of pairing relievers Jim Brosnan and Bill Henry with one of the Reds young starting pitchers. When one can't do the job, the other does.

The Reds have won six in a row at the moment for a share of first place with San Francisco Giants, and Henry, a 33-year-old lefty, and Brosnan, a 31-year-old right hander, have combined to save four of those six victories.

They did it again as the Reds pulled out an 8-7 victory at Los Angeles Wednesday night. Henry, snuffing out one Dodger rally in the eighth, and Brosnan nailing it in the ninth for starter Joey Jay's sixth straight success.

That matched the Giants' 3-2 afternoon victory over St. Louis and kept the tie for first, while dropping the Dodgers a full game behind in the three-way scramble for the lead.

Pittsburgh shook off a slump with a 9-1 victory over Milwaukee and Warren Spahn and Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia 5-4.

Ron Santo drove in the deciding run with a ninth-inning single for the Cubs as winless Robin Roberts, once a leading ace in the majors for the Phils, lost his seventh in a row. The only other time Robin had that long a slump was in 1957, when he was 10-12. Bob Anderson was the winner for the Cubs in relief with help from Don Elston in the ninth.

Another Record Broken By Kidd

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Kidd, 17, of Toronto, broke the Canadian senior open and native record for the 1 1/2-mile at Varsity Stadium Wednesday night with a time of 6:29.5.

The previous record, 6:59.4, was set in 1956 by Selwyn Jones of the Hamilton Olympic Club.

Kidd also broke the Canadian junior record of 6:59.8 set last year by Toronto's Chris Murray.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

HITTING — Joe Pignatano, As, had four hits, a home run, a double and two singles; drove in the first three runs and a double play. But with the tyro scored the lead run in 6-4 victory over first-place Tigers.

Doug Harvey Signs Three-Year Contract As Rangers' Coach

Signs For Estimated $27,000, To Introduce New Style, After New Players, Lou Fontinato May Move

NEW YORK (CP) The signing of Montreal defenceman Doug Harvey as player-coach of New York Rangers makes one thing certain—the 1961-62 version of the Rangers will be different.

Harvey, considered the best rearguard in modern hockey, signed a three-year contract with the National Hockey League club Wednesday and gave prompt indication he wants to change the Rangers style of play and bring a few new faces into the lineup.

General Manager Muzz Patrick promised Harvey a free hand in the revamping job designed to make Stanley Cup contenders out of the perennial also-rans. Although his salary was not disclosed, it was estimated Harvey will get about $27,000 annual under the pact.

Harvey takes over from ex-Ranger Alf Pike, who coached the club for a season and a half. Pike, dropped last March as coach, will remain in the Ranger organization in some unannounced capacity.

TOLD OF CHANGES
At a press conference following the signing, Harvey indicated what he plans for the Rangers.

"I hope to introduce some changes in playing style. I'd like to see the Rangers do more forechecking and backchecking and work all up and all back together better. That's the style I was brought up on with the Canadiens."

Harvey said the Rangers would use the same power play as the Canadiens, and it could turn into a deadly weapon with Harvey himself running it from point. Last season he was a chief contributor to Bernie Geoffrion's scoring spree when he tied Rocket Richard's 50 goals.

If he could do that with Geoffrion what will he be able to do with Andy Bathgate, the Ranger forward considered by many as the best shotmaker in hockey? Harvey figures to give Bathgate the direction he needs, not pressing for full value in.

At 36 Harvey feels he still has exchange.

Sand Traps

Regardless of how well you play, sooner or later you're going to land in a sand trap. That's what they're there for. Remember that it takes at least one shot to get out of a trap. If you have and doubt about be-

Psidium's Owner Most Surprised When He Wins

EPSON (AP) — Psidium, a 66 to 1 and 90 to 1 long shot, came from last place in a field of 28 and won the 182nd Derby Wednesday in the biggest upset in nearly half a century.

French jockey Roger Poincelot, last with a mile to go, took him through the pack unnoticed and flashed to the front 150 yards from the finish. He won by two lengths from Dicta Drake (10 to 1) with American owned Pardao (12 to 2) third, neck away.

The tote — British equivalent of pari-mutuel betting—paid odds of 99 to 1 against Psidium. Bookmakers had Psidium at 66 to 1. It was the most sensational Derby since 1913, when 100 to 1 Aboyeur won.

The most surprised person in the crowd of 250,000 thronging Epsom Downs in bright sunshine was Psidium's owner, Mrs. Arpad Plesch, wife of a Hungarian financier who lives in the south of France.

"I never expected he would finish in the first 10," Mrs. Plesch said. "I never even bet on him."

An average player, using a sand wedge, can beat a touring professional out of a sand trap, if the pro has to use a pitching wedge or No. 9 iron.

"You must have the proper club, called a sand wedge and used exclusively for this shot. Since the wedge was introduced it has become about 100 per cent easier to get out of a trap."

Comedian Danny Thomas And Group Acquire Option To Buy Controlling Interest In Chicago White Sox

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Comedian Danny Thomas and a group of associates have acquired an option to buy controlling interest in the Chicago White Sox of the American League.

Thomas said Wednesday night he and a group of associates have acquired an option to buy controlling interest in the White Sox from Bill Veeck.

But Veeck, in Chicago, said he has no knowledge of any option. A denial was also issued by A. C. Allyn Jr., a director-stockholder of the White Sox who said "no option was signed."

Thomas, advised of these relations to his announcement indicated strongly that he wasn't kidding.

Thomas added that he felt a premature release of the story would not hurt his chances of buying stock in the club. But he said it would hurt Veeck if the option — reported limited to seven days — were not picked up.

Thomas declined to say who was acting for him in Chicago or with whom they were dealing.

Thomas said the plan was to acquire 54 per cent of the Sox stock from the Veeck group.

Sam Snead Fires Six-Under 66

DORADO BEACH (AP) — A one-legged golfer is under the same handicap as the proverbial one-armed paperhanger, as Ireland's Norman Drew may demonstrate at the ninth annual Canada Cup matches opening at this Puerto Rico course today.

Sam Snead, perennial member of the U.S. team, could be the individual favorite after shooting a six-under-par 66 in his final practice round. The U.S. duo is the defender in the team competition, with Snead this time paired with veteran Jimmy Demaret, filling in for U.S. Open champion Arnold Palmer.

The teams for South Africa, and U.S. and Canada were altered last week by a PGA ruling that kept Palmer, Masters champion Gary Player of South Africa and Canada's Stan Leonard of Vancouver, two-time winner of the individual title, on the sidelines.

As a result, Drew and his Irish partner, Christy O'Connor, rate among the favorites despite the throbbing in Drew's left foot. The sore foot isn't a serious injury but it is annoying and keeps the young British Ryder Cupper from making a full pivot on a tee shot.

The Irish are paired with Mexico in today's opening round. That pits them against Roberto Divicenzo one of Latin America's best pros, and Juan Antonio Estrada, the first amateur ever to play in this links show. Also well regarded was the Australian pair of Peter Thomson, four-time British Open champ, and Kel Nagle, 1960 British Open king. They won the Canada Cup in 1954 and 1959.

Australia is paired with Canada, the U.S. with Japan and South Africa (with Harold Henning, a subbing for Player) with the Wales pair of Dai Rees and Dave Thomas in other key pairings on opening day at the par 36-36-72 layout that wanders 7,115 yards through tropical jungle.

In the tournament, in which 18 holes will be played each day through Sunday, the aggregate strokes of the two players on each team are added and the country with the lowest total wins the cup. Flory Vann Donck of Belgium is the defending champion in the individual competition, based on medal scoring for 72 holes.

Representing Canada are Toronto's Al Balding and Montreal's Al Johnson.
