Summer fun for crippled, deaf children

By CROSBIE COTTON

AYER'S CLIFF — The sun was shedding its golden rays on the crystal sands along the 200-yard long beach. Before one's eyes a glorious scene unveiled.

Several youngsters were playing in the water while others were fishing, boating and sailing. Others were building sand castles, and surfing.

Still others were just lying in the sun, enjoying the pleasures of the weather, the outdoors and the happy sight of others having a good time.

Such was the picture painted late Tuesday afternoon on the shores of Lake Massawippi at the Mackay Camp Centre for Deaf and Crippled Children, near the outskirts of Ayer's Cliff.

Most of the children here have at least two things in common. Most of them are happy and they are all physically handicapped or deaf.

"There is only one condition needed to be able to attend the camp. The child must be physically handicapped or deaf," Art Douglas, camp director, told The Record.

Mr. Douglas, a vice-principal for the Lakeshore Regional School Board during the winter, has been the camp director for five years although he has worked at the camp for 12 years.

The camp is a summer extension of the Mackay Centre in Montreal.

"You might say for six weeks of the year we give the parents a break. During the rest of the year the youngsters live at home. In the summer, they come out here to enjoy the great outdoors," he said.

In all, the camp houses an average of between 85-100 youngsters during the summer. Most of the children come for the whole six weeks. The children range in age from 7 to 17 and come mostly from the Montreal region.

"The camp is financed by the Makay Centre. Only children who attend the school in Montreal can be subsidized by the school. It costs the students nothing to come here in the summer," Mr. Douglas said.

Although most of the children come from Montreal there are others that do not. The Sherbrooke Rotary Club sponsors four Eastern Townshippers to the camp. It costs the Rotary Club $6.50 a day for each of the children.

The camp is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year. Started in 1951 by Dr. L. P. Patterson who was then the executive director of the crippled children school in Montreal the dimensions as well as the standards and equipment have increased as the years went by.

It started with only a few buildings. About 30 youngsters attended the first year.

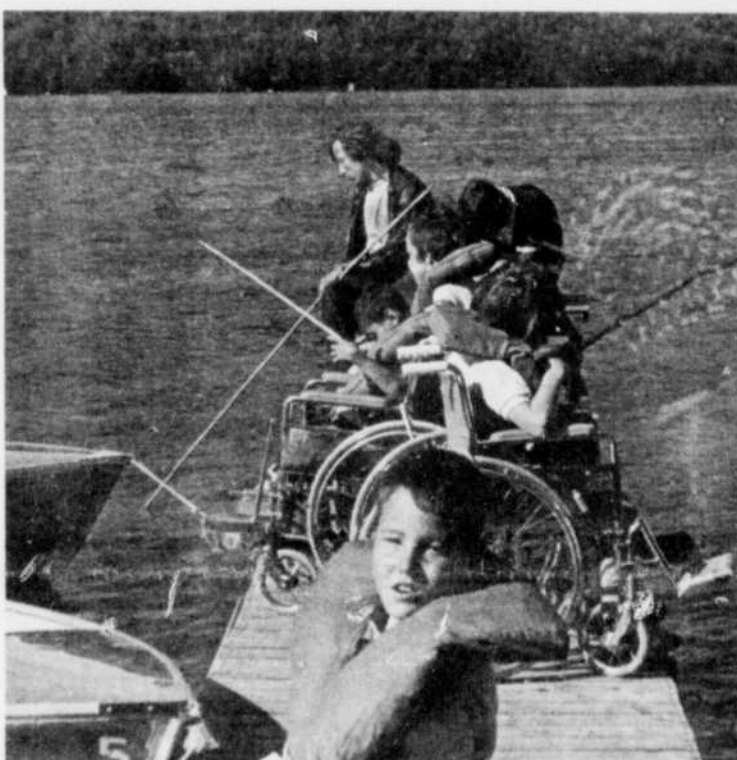

Today the camp is a miniature village dotted with buildings and paved streets. There are 13 cabins in which the youngsters live. Other buildings include an auditorium, a craft building, a dining hall, a well-equipped infirmary, a physiotherapy building, a director's cabin, an administration building, a recreation hall, a laundry and a shower house.

A fire pumping house as well as a sewage treatment plant is located on the site.

Barn dance Friday

AYER'S CLIFF (PT) — Last event of the season at the Crippled Children's Camp in Ayer's Cliff is the Sherbrooke Rotary Club-sponsored barn dance tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m.

The Rotary Club—particularly Rotarians Doug Racey and John Mathias—have been working for a number of years on projects involving the MacKay Centre Camp here, and this summer enthusiastic Rotarians turned out to give the children pony and boat rides, provide them with pipe band music and, finally, give them a square dance.

The camp is located near the Ripplecove Inn. Turn right at the fork in the road leading to the Inn, and you'll come to a sign pointing the way to the camp.

Agency to regulate communications likely

OTTAWA (CP) — A giant federal regulatory agency embracing telecommunications and broadcasting is likely to be proposed in upcoming communications legislation.

Also likely is a federal-provincial clearing house to deal with interlocking communications problems.

These are two children of exhaustive efforts to survey the telecommunications industry and prepare new federal legislation. It is still not certain when legislation will be introduced.

The telecommunications, a body appointed in September, 1969, to study telecommunications in Canada, suggested there should be changes in federal regulation of the industry.

In its April report, the telecommunications said this might mean enlarging the Canadian Radio-Television Commission to include responsibility for telecommunications carriers such as the telephone companies. The CRTC has authority only over broadcasting.

Currently, telephone company rates are regulated by the Canadian Transport Commission.

A second telecommunications suggestion was that a new regulatory body might be set up, responsible solely for the telecommunications carriers. Or the transport commission could be beefed up to handle telecommunications problems better.

Eric Kierans, then communications minister, expressed no preference for any of the proposals at the time the telecommunications report was tabled in the Commons.

But he did say that the transport commission "doesn't relish the prospect of being built up to take care of this tremendous responsibility for telecommunications in Canada."

It appears certain that the transport commission will be relieved of its authority over telecommunications carriers.

A single agency responsible for telecommunications and broadcasting is favored by the communications department.

The predominant feeling seems to be that separate sections should be set up—one dealing with broadcasting, the other with telecommunications. They would be under one administration.

Placing telecommunications carriers and broadcasters under one roof might eliminate some of the current friction between the communications department and the CRTC. The two bodies do not always see eye to eye.

The telecommunications report also called for greater co-ordination of federal and provincial planning in telecommunications.

Private industry might be consulted by the council.

Apollo water supply intact

HOUSTON (AP) — The Apollo 15 spaceship sped into the grasp of the moon's gravity early today, shortly after the crew plugged a leak in their water supply.

Following instructions from Mission Control, Commander David R. Scott turned space-age plumber and plugged the water-tank leak that left the command ship looking like a laundry room, with towels hung up to dry.

As they hurtled toward Friday's scheduled landing on the moon, he and astronauts Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin were given a new procedure with which to bypass a short circuit in the engine that will fire them into lunar orbit today.

"It sounds like you've done a lot of deep thought on this," Scott radioed Mission Control.

The short circuit and the water leak were two of a series of bugs that have developed in the spacecraft.

Scott was preparing to chlorinate the ship's water supply, a nightly chore before retiring, when he called to Mission Control.

"We find we've got a leak. You might take a look at that right quick and see if you can come up with any ideas. We're getting a fair-sized amount of water."

As the problem was pondered, Scott called again: "We need to isolate this thing pretty quick."

Finally, he was given instructions on use of two tools to tighten the chlorine injector port and the problem was solved.

It turned out that a similar leak developed in the spacecraft in a pre-launch check and the system for dealing with it was prepared on the spot by a member of the launch crew, Chris Perner.

"That was good thinking," Scott said, "because we about had a small flood up here."

"All we have to do now is hang out a few towels to dry."

The astronauts were given the procedure for bypassing the short circuit after Scott and Irwin checked the lunar module, Falcon, for a second time and reported nothing wrong.

Astronaut Richard Gordon of the Apollo 15 backup crew had tested the bypass technique in a spacecraft simulator and said the rocket should be fired at critical times using both of its electrical circuits. He said the good circuit only would be used to start and stop the engine.

After coming within the moon's gravitational pull the spaceship increases in speed to about 5,700 miles an hour when the astronauts loop around the moon's backside later today.

Col. Cosgrave, 90, diplomat, soldier dead

KNOWLTON (CP) — Col. Lawrence Moore Cosgrave, decorated First World War veteran and a long-time Far Eastern envoy, died Wednesday at his home in this southeastern Quebec community. He was 90.

In a distinguished career in both Canada's military and foreign service, Col. Cosgrave served as assistant Canadian government trade commissioner to England in 1924, moving to Shanghai between 1925 and 1935. From 1935 to 1942, he served in the department of trade in Australia, remaining there until 1945 as Canadian military attaché.

Col. Cosgrave was Canada's official signatory after the surrender of Japan at the end of the Second World War.

After the war, Col. Cosgrave returned to Canada where he was commercial councillor for Canada between 1946-49.

Between 1952-1955, he was charge d'affaires at the Canadian embassy in Portugal.

In spite of his heavy military and diplomatic duties, Col. Cosgrave found time to recount the two World Wars in his book Afterthoughts of Armageddon.

Born in Toronto Aug. 28, 1880, Col. Cosgrave attended St. Michael's College in Toronto and graduated from the Royal Military College in Kingston, Ont. in 1912.

He was a lieutenant in the first brigade of the Canadian field artillery at the outbreak of the First World War, finishing the war with the rank of lieutenant - colonel, commanding the first brigade of the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

In 1916, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Order and later received the French Croix de Guerre.

QUEBEC IN FOCUS

Suspect spotted

MONTREAL (CP) — Michel Joly, wanted on a coroner's warrant in connection with the slaying of two teen-age girls near Trois-Rivières July 16, was spotted positively driving a car along St. Catherine Street East here Wednesday noon.

Police said a description of the white, 1963, Chevrolet bearing Quebec licence plates 241-042 was broadcast to all police in the Montreal area.

July 23, is one of two men for whom coroner's warrants have been issued in the killing of Carole Marchand, 13, and Chantal Cote, 12, both of Cap de la Madeleine.

Ludger de la Rosbil, 23, was arrested last Saturday in Montreal and is being held in Trois-Rivières.

The slain girls were reported missing July 16 and found dead the next day in woods not far from their homes. Two men in an automobile were reported to have picked them up when the girls finished berry-picking.

Trois-Rivières and Cap de la Madeleine are about 85 miles northwest of Montreal.

Opposed to project

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec Indians Association Wednesday stated their opposition to the province's $6 billion James Bay hydroelectric project.

Chief Max Gros-Louis of the nearby Huron village of Ancien Lorette told a news conference that dams proposed for the project would flood their trapping and hunting grounds.

On the Fort George Indian reserve alone, 39 trapping grounds would be flooded, he said. Several potential mines in northern Quebec which could provide income to local Indians would also be submerged if the project was carried out.

To visit New York

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa announced Wednesday he will visit New York Aug. 2-3 for talks with Governor Nelson Rockefeller and his brother David, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank.

Mr. Bourassa said in an interview the visit was first suggested to him by the Rockefellers during a trip to Woodstock, Vt., last April.

The premier said no agenda has been set for the talks. Discussions would cover "subjects of mutual interest."

Mr. Bourassa last visited New York last March when he had talks with prominent U.S. businessmen.

To head delegation

QUEBEC (CP) — Jean Fournier, former president of the Quebec Civil Service Commission, has been appointed head of the Quebec delegation to London, Premier Robert Bourassa announced Wednesday.

Mr. Fournier, 57, replaces Guy Roberge, who has been appointed vice-president of the Canadian transport commission.

Work begins soon

MONTREAL (CP) — Lucien Saulnier, Montreal Urban Community chairman, said Wednesday he expects work to begin by mid-August on a ten-year plan to eliminate the dumping of raw sewage into the St. Lawrence River.

Mr. Saulnier was commenting on a Quebec water board order to that effect announced Tuesday by Dr. Victor Goldbloom, Quebec minister responsible for the environment.

He said that the MUC had recommended such a plan itself and "found it heartening that the water board regulation conforms to plans submitted to it by the urban community."

"We have a meeting of the executive tomorrow and I expect that at the next MUC assembly Aug. 18, we will recommend that money be voted to begin the plan for west island treatment."

Under the plan, a central collector sewer is to be built by 1976 which will replace all the sewage outlets in the west end of the island.

A similar project was announced last year for the eastern half of the island. Each phase will cost approximately $150 million.

E.T. REPORT

Investigate animal thefts

VALCOURT (PT) — Quebec Police Force has opened an investigation into two animal thefts committed here lately. The thefts brought a total of $425 to the guilty parties.

One of the thefts occurred Monday night when individuals trespassed on land belonging to Fernand Beaudry, of R.R. 3, Valcourt, to steal a calf and a young colt together valued at $275.

Upon discovering the next morning that his two animals had disappeared, Mr. Beaudry called the Quebec Police Force. The animals had been grazing in a field beside the road.

The second theft occurred the same night when burglars broke into a barn owned by Christophe Demers, also of R.R. 3, Valcourt.

Two young calves were stolen from the unlocked barn, as their owner discovered at about 6 a.m. the next day. He immediately alerted the Granby detachment of the QPF.

Police agent Marcel Grondin has been put in charge of the investigation, which could be a long, tedious one because of the complete lack of clues of any sort.

Young cyclist injured

GRANBY (PT) — A young 15-year-old cyclist suffered various injuries when the bicycle he was riding was hit and overturned by a car at the corner of Bouchard Blvd. and Frechette Street on the outskirts of Granby.

Police identified the injured as Alain Paquette, 15, of 586 Frechette Street. He was taken to Shefford General Hospital suffering from a probably fractured leg as well as cuts and bruises.

His condition is described by hospital authorities as satisfactory.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Claude Desjardins, 42, of 17 Plaisance Street, Bedford, hit the bicycle.

Under the force of the impact, the boy was violently thrown onto the ground.

Damages to the two vehicles are estimated at $100. Granby municipal police took charge of the accident.

Economic upswing should restore popularity-PM

OTTAWA (CP) — "Time is in our favor," Prime Minister Trudeau told a Tuesday news conference.

"No it isn't," Gerald W. Baldwin, Progressive Conservative House leader, asserted Wednesday in an interview.

Mr. Trudeau said an economic upswing and

Quebec's resources exploited

QUEBEC (CP) — Fabien Roy, the provincial Creditiste party's financial critic, says Quebec's Liberal government is using tax dollars to encourage foreign corporations to strip the province of its natural resources.

Mr. Roy, member of the national assembly for Beauce riding, said in a statement Tuesday the recent announcement of a $25 million government loan to help finance construction of a pulp mill in Eastern Quebec illustrates Liberal policy of subsidizing wealthy companies at the expense of the taxpayer.

He said the loan to Rayonier Quebec Inc., a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. of New York, will be paid back over a period of 25 years and that $19 million of it was given interest-free.

"We have to ask ourselves," Mr. Roy said, "if our immense natural resources are becoming a cause of poverty as a result of heavy taxation on Quebecers to finance millions of dollars of interest-free loans to international companies who, in return, exploit our resources for their profit."

decrease in unemployment would give the government time to retrieve by an election date next year its substantial—his word—loss in popularity of the last year or so.

Mr. Baldwin said the Conservatives could not win an election today. They and the New Democratic Party would increase their strength but the Liberals would still be re-elected, though with a minority government.

But by September of 1972 "I think we can beat them," Mr. Baldwin said.

"By then, the Liberals can no longer win on Trudeau. The knight-in-shining-armor image is getting tarnished and once that happens the rot spreads pretty rapidly."

"That leaves issues and on that basis we can win. The Liberals' only hope is better policies and, so far, their legislative program doesn't show any sign of them."

Mr. Trudeau said he is giving up foreign travel to stay at home and explain government policies to the public.

He said he and his ministers and other Liberal MPs will travel across the country to make such explanations of "misunderstood" and "misinterpreted" policies.

Mr. Baldwin commented that Canada can look forward to an election campaign of 12 to 15 months with the taxpayers footing most of the bills for government travelling.

He said Mr. Trudeau would not need to travel nearly so much if he produced a good legislative program, explained it fully in the Commons and made the necessary compromises to win parliamentary approval for it.

Informed sources said Mr. Trudeau had planned to make an extensive tour of Africa, including Commonwealth and French-speaking countries, to go to France if officially invited and to visit mainland China.

They said all these plans have been scrapped except in the case of an official invitation from France, now expected to be made this fall.

Liberal party sources said part of the strategy for a 1972 election is a hoped-for upswing in the United States economy which would automatically flow north.

We regret to report that Mrs. Harry Campbell was seriously injured in a car accident near Kinnear's Mills on Saturday night, July 17, while returning from a wedding reception in the Pontbriand Hall. Due to almost zero visibility caused by a heavy shower of rain at the time, Keith, her son, the driver of the car, failed to make a curve and went into the ditch. Mrs. Campbell suffered a fractured right arm, ribs fractured in twelve different places, also a severe cut near her right ear. She is presently in Room 8001, Montreal General Hospital, Montreal.

Mrs. Ella Patterson, of Rectory Hill, is under observation in Room 202, Jeffery Hale's Hospital in Quebec City. Mrs. Patterson underwent surgery in St. Joseph's Hospital, Hamilton, Ont., in the early days of June and returned home on July 9th, but was obliged to enter the Jeffery Hale's for further treatment shortly after her return.

The many friends of these two ladies sincerely hope for an early return to better health.

Residents of this area are certainly delighted to see a long-awaited improvement of the Goford Road. Crews are now busy widening this road, and cutting down curves between the junction of the Goford and Route 49, near St. Ferdinand d'Halifax. Your correspondent has been informed that a new road surface of crushed rock and tar will be laid down before the coming winter sets in between Route 49 and Lysander Falls. This, when the same road is completed between Lysander and Ste. Agathe de Lotbiniere, will provide motorists with the shortest possible route to Quebec

Heart attacks rare in young women

Dear Dr. Lamb—I'm a married woman of 30. Last week, during sexual intercourse I had a tension feeling in my chest. I scared me. Since that day I feel like there is a tension pressure in my chest and abdomen. I have indigestion and food particles come up and I belch a lot.

I should say I was and still am nervous and tense. Can tension cause a heart attack? I'm trying to just get it out of my system because I know it can cause ulcers and all kinds of trouble, but it's not easy. Then I think maybe you won't tell me the truth since you don't want me to get worked up since I am nervous. Can you advise me? Please answer soon!!

Dear Reader—Young women of childbearing age seldom have heart attacks. If they do it is usually because they have some other contributing medical problem, like kidney disease, high blood pressure or diabetes. I could be reasonably certain your problem is not a heart attack even without an examination.

Individuals with indigestion can have tightness in the chest and abdomen. The esophagus can go into spasm and cause pain in the chest. Gas trapped in the colon can cause referred pain even into the shoulder.

I can't cure your nervousness but to the extent it is caused by worry over a heart attack you can forget about that. You should, however, consider what is causing you to have indigestion. Nervousness contributes to that too. It is helpful if nervous people do not drink coffee, colas, tea or stimulants and also helpful, after the initial shock, if they don't smoke. Exercise helps relieve tension, so does developing a good healthy concern for someone else's problems.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I wonder if you could enlighten me as to the reason I get cankers in my mouth about every two or three months? Is it a virus? I have asked my doctor about them and he seemed to think nothing of it. But they are very painful and sometimes I will have two or three in a row. Usually around the inner part of the lips and corner of the mouth.

Dear Reader—The reason your doctor doesn't think much about your canker sores is that we don't really know what causes them. One idea is that they are caused by activating a virus that permanently lives in the lining of the mouth. We do know that they are not harmful even though they are painful.

Indigestion and common colds seem to precipitate their recurrence. Mouthwash and medicines applied locally to relieve the pain is about all there is to offer other than time.

The young expert took the first trick with dummy's king of hearts and led a spade toward his hand. The old man hopped up with the ace while the young expert carefully dropped his 10. Obviously, the old coot had a singleton ace or doubleton ace-jack.

The old timer chuckled and led back a heart to knock out dummy's last stopper. The young expert led a spade to his queen and burst into doggerel when the old duffer played the nine. Without question, the old fool was senile! How could anyone rise with the ace when he could have played the nine?

EXCHANGE STUDENTS ARRIVE — Eastern Township students began hosting 21 Alberta exchange students yesterday afternoon.

An official reception was held at the Alexander Galt Regional High School.

Alberta students here on exchange

LENNOXVILLE (WC) — The student exchange program has finally matured in the Eastern Townships region. Twenty-one students from Vermilion, Kitscoty and Clandonald, Alberta arrived Wednesday afternoon at the Alexander Galt Regional High School in Lennoxville where they were introduced to their Eastern Townships counterparts.

The western students will be billeted among ET families in their homes for one week before returning to their own homes.

"We are extremely happy to have you in our town," said Robert Nichol, Lennoxville mayor, on the students' arrival.

The westerners are being housed in the homes of 21 students after returning from Lethbridge, Alberta five days ago.

"The students that have come to the Eastern Townships have never met the local students before. While in Alberta, the Eastern Townships students stayed in another area," John Greer, exchange co-ordinator told The Record.

Mr. Greer, a teacher at AGRHS, and his wife accompanied the ET students out last week. The supervisors of the western students are Mr. and Mrs. Angus Smith.

The students were chosen from the Richmond Regional School and the Alexander Galt Regional High School. "It was a very complicated system. In the end, it was the house principal's decision," Mr. Greer said.

Many interesting events, trips and activities are on the program during the exchange students' visit. A tour of the townships, mountain climbing at Mt. Orford, a concert at the Orford Art Center, a trip to Quebec City, Montreal and Man and His World, a tour of Bishop's University and various local industries and the Lennoxville Research Station are just a few of the scheduled items.

The visitors will leave for home next Wednesday, August 4.

The Eastern Townships students involved in the exchange program are: Ian Bailey of Sawyerville, Mead Baldwin of Coaticook, David Hatch of Stanstead, Rene Presse of Richmond, Karl Hunting of Huntingville, Robin Orr of Lennoxville, Robert Ross of Sherbrooke, Clifford Sparks of Cookshire, Daniel Vincent of Sherbrooke, Alan Wagner of Lennoxville, Nancy Conway of Lennoxville, Elaine Cooper of Ayer's Cliff, Beverly Davidson of Lennoxville, Nancy Jill Fairbairn of Cookshire, Kathleen Keenan of Greenlay, Augusta Lokhorst of Cookshire, Florence McDougall of Danville, Sharon Ross of Cookshire, Wendy Snowe of Richmond, Linda Vance of Ayer's Cliff and Deborah Ward of Hatley.

CRTC decision suggests new federal policy

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal policy placing a total ban on provincial governments owning broadcasting licences appears to be on the way out.

A Canadian Radio-Television Commission decision allowing the Quebec Deposit and Investment Fund, a provincial agency, to buy 30 per cent of a cable television company is the latest sign that the policy is about to die.

The CRTC suggested the agency was not the licence holder because it holds a minority of shares in the company. But other provincial governments may not accept this logic.

Government sources say some provinces have been pressing hard in recent months for an end to the federal regulation.

FLORENCE — Gilles Lefebvre was re-elected president for the third consecutive year of the International Federation of Jeunesses Musicales during the 25th world congress presently being held in Florence.

little sense in it. They say the CRTC, in its regulatory role, can ensure that federal broadcasting policy is maintained even if provincial governments own broadcasting outlets.

They argue that provincial governments should be able to own their own educational TV stations.

State Secretary Gerard Pelletier's office will say only that the regulation has been discussed with the provinces in the last two months. Mr. Pelletier is responsible for broadcasting.

The policy, issued in June, 1970, said any municipal or provincial government body is prohibited from obtaining a broadcasting licence. It was based on fears that such broadcasting outlets might be used to the political advantage of the controlling government.

DEFINITION UNCLEAR
 The state secretary has never laid down clearly what constitutes a licence-holder. Is it someone who owns 10 per cent or 60 per cent of a broadcasting company?

This, apparently, is behind the Tuesday ruling that permitted the Quebec Deposit and Investment Fund to buy shares in National Cablevision.

The commission implicitly rejected the notion that anyone who has shares in a broadcasting undertaking is a licence-holder.

The ruling seems to suggest that the fund would have held the licence if it had control, but control is sometimes difficult to determine.

There were suggestions at the June hearing on the National Cablevision application that the fund could exercise control through guaranteeing the company's $12 million debt. This was denied by the fund.

The commission also noted that the fund said that it operates independently of the Quebec government, though it is a government agency.

Town of Brome Lake

New chief of police appointed

TOWN OF BROME LAKE (PT) — Gregor A. Lambourne was appointed Chief of Police of the Town of Brome Lake, it was announced at the regular July meeting of town council.

The appointment follows the resignation of acting chief Raymond Gaudreau, who took over that post shortly after the incorporation of the town.

At that time, police commissioner J. W. Noyes presented a report to Council indicating that there was uncertainty as to what kind of force would be required for the district.

In order to avoid mistakes and confusion, he said, it was decided to name a temporary acting chief for the time being. Mr. Noyes emphasized that Gaudreau was well aware of the temporary nature of his appointment, which is a matter of public record in Council minutes.

The commissioner, who is also a Town of Brome Lake councillor, told The Record that Council's decision was based solely on the desire to appoint the best qualified man to the position.

He said that over 50 per cent of the chief's time is involved in management and administration, thus at least partially revealing Council's reason for delaying things.

After the town had been in existence for a while, and it was determined how the chief's time would be apportioned, council was then in a position to make a better judgment.

They need someone who is administratively capable as well as being a good policeman.

On the other hand, Mr. Gaudreau has said he will appeal Council's decision not to hire him as chief, to the Quebec Police Commission.

Yves Pouliot, Cowansville

Chief of Police and local representative of the Quebec Association of Police and Fire Chiefs, has already assured Mr. Gaudreau of his support, deploring the departure of "such a dedicated man."

These sentiments were shared by Cpl. Bessette of the Cowansville detachment of the QPF as well as Paul Miellette, Dunham chief of police.

Delayed report cards to be mailed shortly

LENNOXVILLE (PT) — If your son or daughter going to Alexander Galt Regional High School hasn't got his or her report card yet, there's nothing to worry about.

Phone calls and letters to The Record from several anxious parents prompted us to check with the school to find out exactly what was going on.

Here's what we discovered: The school had signed a contract for computer processing and print-out of the some 3,000 report cards with a company which later incurred severe financial difficulties and finally folded.

This necessitated negotiating a new contract with another firm, S.M.A. of Montreal, which does a lot of computer work, school report cards being only a small part of their business.

Naturally, they have to respect earlier obligations first, before doing the report cards.

They couldn't process the information as it stood, and have had to rearrange it for their equipment, involving long hours of keypunching the information onto computer cards.

Half of the reports have so far been received at Alexander Galt, says Mrs. Sylvia Loomis, computer coordinator at the school, but since it is their policy to send the reports out all at once, the whole lot is delayed.

Mrs. Loomis assured The Record that the reports would in all probability be in the mail by next Monday, August 2, and sympathized with parents who, she said, "obviously want to find out what little Johnny has been doing all year."

School finished in early or mid-June for most pupils, and parents have been wondering what reasons there could be for the month-and-a-half delay.

A job well done

More often than not you can pick up a newspaper or magazine, open it and read about something terrible happening, even as unconcerned people stand around and watch but do nothing to help. Other times you can read about people saying, "What did it have to do with me? I wasn't involved."

Well, Sherbrookers should be proud. Courageous action by many people was shown Tuesday night. The opposite of not becoming involved, not becoming implicated, saved the life of a 26-year-old woman.

A motorist driving by in his car saw a woman leaning over the Jacques Cartier Bridge. Seconds later he looked in his rearview mirror. The woman wasn't there anymore.

Was it an illusion, he probably asked himself. If he had second thoughts, they didn't linger long. He rushed to the nearest telephone and called the police. He waited until the police arrived so that he could show the officers where he had seen the woman.

Two young boys were canoeing near the bridge. They hurried to see if they could help.

Then there was the quick, efficient work of our men in blue. Although many people in the critical situation might have become excited and disorganized, they, as many young people would have put it, didn't lose their cool. Constables Roger Dion and Fernand Donahue scrambled down a rusty fence without considering personal safety.

It is because of the actions of many people that a young woman's life was saved.

Our admiration must go out to the caller, the canoeists and policemen for a job well done.

Opportunity missed

It will be interesting to find out the results of Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier's Opportunities for Youth plan when a random selection of the financially minor projects as well as all of the larger undertakings are audited at the end of the summer.

It will also be interesting to read the findings of the groups which supposedly are doing research on one thing or another.

While many questions on the government's program have been asked and many still remain unanswered, it would be a sad disappointment to the whole concept of such a program if authorities found out exactly what is being done with some of the taxpayers' money.

Just locally, for instance, a recreation park of sorts has been set up near Richmond, Quebec — and has rapidly become the drug haven for stoned or would-be-stoned Eastern Townships youth of all ages.

Rumors about the place grow every day, and reports of extensive dope trafficking seem to be substantiated by the vast numbers of Sherbrooke area kids who make the trek every weekend.

This is just one example of a project gone astray.

Other projects with high-sounding sociological names have been approved by the federal government while to most citizens they sound like so much garbage — which is what a lot of them are.

Of course, the day of reckoning will come eventually when reports have to be submitted and project accounts audited.

But by then it will be too late for the tens of thousands of unemployed young people who submitted the thousands of projects that got turned down — many of them with a worthwhile purpose in mind.

And one cannot help wondering that will happen if, at the end of the summer, when the government officials come by to check up, some projects just haven't felt any pressing need to keep track of expenditures and receipts in the proper way.

The chaos evidenced among many Opportunities for Youth projects at the present time leads one to believe that exactly this may happen in some cases.

Of course, it is well also to remember that the money for the projects didn't appear just out of nowhere as a gift to students from the benevolent Liberal government.

No, sir, the money was found after all government departments tightened their collective belts and pooled the money they spent every summer on student employment.

Which means that none of the government departments are in a position to employ students this summer...even students they have taken on steadily for the past four summers.

What a mess...

Hitler—a nice guy in comparison

By LUBOR J. ZINK

OTTAWA — A smart tactical move or a moral cave-in?

Depending on where they stand ideologically and where they live, politicians and commentators around the world praise or condemn President Nixon's decision to visit Peking.

In the non-Communist countries bordering China, the reaction is mostly negative. Elation grows with distance from that area.

The pattern is reminiscent of the reaction to Chamberlain's decision to go to Nazi Germany in 1938 to negotiate "peace in our time." Then, too, there was shocked disbelief, apprehension and despair among the immediate neighbors of Hitler's Third Reich — jubilation grew with distance from central Europe.

People in the Western democracies were tired of international tension and wanted peace at any price. Political pressure created by pacifist agitation so enfeebled and demoralized the governments of the free countries that any course other than appeasement was tantamount to political suicide.

Tempting as the parallel with the mood of the late 1930s may be to such skeptical observers of international events as myself, it is imprecise.

When the Chamberlain peace-trip euphoria gripped the world, Hitler was in power for only five years. The public knew next to nothing about the horrors of Nazi totalitarianism. Foreign newsmen visiting Germany found the country neat, the regime efficient and obviously supported by the populace.

Hitler was depicted as a reformer — a pleasant if somewhat dull fellow of peasant stock (Canada's then-prime minister, Mackenzie King, described him that way after a cordial meeting).

Nazi fifth columns in the Western democracies were operating discreetly, enlisting the support of prominent personalities in the public and social life of France, Britain and the United States.

Hitler's demands for unification of all Germans seemed reasonable. The annexation of Austria was carried out "peacefully" with crowds in Vienna cheering their new leader. Stories of alleged oppression of the German minority in Czechoslovakia sounded credible and a settlement of the Sudeten German question on Hitler's terms therefore appeared morally justified.

In this grossly-distorted yet credible picture, people such as Winston Churchill who sounded alarm in the fog of wishful thinking were regarded, with seemingly ample justification, as lunatic anti-Nazis and dangerous warmongers.

In 1971 there is no excuse for the delusions of 1938.

Mao Tse-tung's regime has now been in power for 22 years. The horrors of Communist totalitarianism, which has "liquidated" in cold blood tens of millions of innocent people, are well documented.

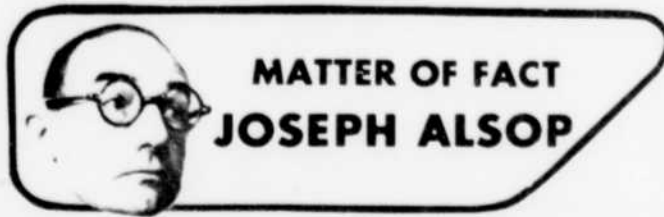

Red China stands condemned in the United Nations for aggression in Korea. The list of its international crimes includes the rape of Tibet, invasion of India, and fomenting of guerrilla warfare throughout Southeast Asia. Oppression at home includes mass murders and atrocities unsurpassed even by the Stalin period in the Soviet Union.

The latest wave of terror during the "great proletarian cultural revolution" has not yet entirely subsided. Fifth columns of the Chinese brand of Communism incite and organize violence all over the world.

It was the combination of these manifestations of domestic and international gangsterism which made the Maoist regime ineligible for membership in the United Nations under the terms of the charter of the organization. For the same reasons most of the non-Communist countries found it morally unacceptable to extend formal recognition to the ruling clique in Peking.

"How was I to know he wasn't Nixon — all these occidentals look alike to me . . ."

MATTER OF FACT
JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — The leading polls, the leading newspapers, the leading politicians have lately begun saying much the same thing about Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts. In very crude summary, they have been saying that if all the other Democrats cut one another to bits, Kennedy may well be the party's best compromise nominee.

In the main, this is based on the sensible view that except among the instinctive Kennedy-haters in the electorate the memory of the tragedy at Chappaquiddick is fading from men's minds. So it should, indeed. But there is another problem for Sen. Kennedy.

If President Kennedy was a normal American, in fact, the liberal Democrats have long ceased to be normal. Almost every tenet of President Kennedy's inaugural address has now been viciously denounced by the self-proclaimed liberals in the Democratic party. Yet these are the people in his party that Sen. Kennedy has been fairly lavishly catering to. The situation is immensely complicated in two different ways.

To begin with, American liberalism's entire remaining intellectual content appears to be the double slogan "Lose in Vietnam, and disarm the United States." Hence some very odd bellwethers have begun to have much power in the flock. Two of the more conspicuous bellwethers, The New York Review and the English New Statesman and Nation, have lately taken to calling President Kennedy the same names they have long called President Johnson.

The other complication is what may be called free-form declassification of government documents. If the documents of the Kennedy Administration were handled the way the stolen Vietnam documents have been handled, the impact among the Democratic liberals would be genuinely sensational.

To give only one instance, there was a body known as the Counter Insurgency committee. In this committee, the late Sen. Robert Kennedy was the real moving spirit, while Gov. Averell Harriman was the official chairman.

The Counter Insurgency Committee did two things, in essence. It organized the machinery in the U.S. government which made it possible for the bewildered Bolivians to puncture that gasbag-guerrilla, Che Guevara. There was nothing to Guevara except his ego, and of course his ailments. He had none of the peasant support the U.S. press credited him with. But the fact remains that Robert Kennedy mainly forged the weapon that struck him down.

Second, the Counter Insurgency Committee presided over all sorts of operations, against Fidel Castro's Cuba, for example, that might look very strange on the public record of today. They did not accomplish very much. But they were more serious, as operations, than the little pinpricks known as the "Thirty Four A" operations that are now supposed to excuse the North Vietnamese attack on the destroyer Maddox.

In the record of President Kennedy's Administration, there are a good many other things of the same sort that could come out. If free-form declassification is now to be generally practised, furthermore, there is no reason for President Nixon not to follow the rule about sauce for the goose being sauce for the gander.

Sen. Kennedy, of course, is well aware of all this. The lingering influence of the views of his brother, the President, led him to issue a moving but now forgotten endorsement of the U.S. effort in Vietnam, after his first trip there following the American intervention.

With all his ability, with all his courage, with all his many other high qualities Sen. Kennedy further owes an obvious debt to his inheritance. President Kennedy, particularly, was the true founder of the Kennedy greatness.

So where is Sen. Kennedy going to be if he finally has to choose between repudiation of his present admirers or repudiation of his brother, the President, and indeed of Sen. Robert Kennedy when the latter was serving under President Kennedy?

Repudiating his brothers or repudiating his partisans will surely be the senator's choice if he is a candidate. It has been disheartening, to put it mildly, to watch the Democratic liberals' failure to rally to President Kennedy's closest subordinate, former Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara.

Gov. Averell Harriman, almost alone in this special group of Democrats, has behaved like an honorable man in that respect. But for Sen. Kennedy, if he is a candidate, the question of honor will be far more painful.

(The notable exception among the Western democracies was Britain, which established diplomatic relations with the Maoists before the Korean War and maintained a low-level mission in Peking, despite insults and harassments, since that time.)

The hoped-for effect of the U.S. Jeddah ostracism of the Maoist regime was an eventual change in Peking's attitude toward the rest of the world. Recognition and U.N. membership were held as inducement of such a change.

Whether or not this policy could have the desired effect in the long run will never be known, because defections from its application destroyed its credibility.

The first important defector was Canada under the Diefenbaker Government which, placing domestic economic and political expediency above everything else, concluded a huge wheat deal with Peking. France, motivated by de Gaulle's intense anti-Americanism and dreams of leadership of a "third force" on the international scene, soon followed and went a step further with diplomatic links.

These major cracks in the U.S.-forged China policy made it clear to Peking that the whole edifice could be demolished bit by bit.

The prospect of collapse became so acute after Canada last fall took the lead of a whole series of formal recognitions of the Peking regime that President Nixon was left with no choice but to scrap the China policy of his predecessors he tried to continue.

He now is abandoning that policy, not because it ceased to be valid but because U.S. allies and the effect of their actions on inflamed and disoriented American public opinion had rendered it untenable.

The consequences of this cave-in could be worse than those of the 1938 moral collapse.

READER FORUM

Clarifying the matter

Dear Sir:

In your issue of Tuesday, July 6, 1971, you carried a very interesting article by Crosbie Cotton about the work of Mr. John Visser of the Dixville Home. One of the activities at the Home was referred to in two places in your article as "the Christian Science Brigade."

Mr. Visser explains that this was a typographical error for "Christian Service Brigade."

We realize that this reference was undesirable from Mr. Visser's point of view as implying a close and special relationship with a particular church organization or religious denomination. From our point of view it was undesirable as suggesting that we might have singled out for special sponsorship one of the very many humanitarian enterprises which equally have our admiration and esteem. This would certainly misrepresent the manner in which our work for mankind is carried on.

Mr. Visser said he intended to write and ask you to put this matter right. We wish to add our support to his request, in order that none of your readers may be left in the belief that the apparent affiliation exists.

We are most grateful for the use you have made of our church news items over the years. With every good wish for your continued success,

Yours very truly,

Of aggressors and victims

Dear Sir:

Why is there always so much sympathy for the aggressor or perpetrator of crime rather than for the victim?

This was so in Nigeria. The aggressor, Ojukwu, was aided in his Biafra fiasco against the legal central Gown government by a lot of irresponsible people throughout the world, who won't admit even yet that their misplaced sympathy only aided rebellion, prolonged suffering and delayed justice.

Are we having a repetition of this in Pakistan, where East Pakistan attempted to secede and murdered a hundred thousand in the attempt before being subdued by the elected Pakistani government?

Again much sympathy is being directed towards the aggressor, desiring to restore the rebellious leader to his former rule, instead of realizing that one cannot sin with impunity, and that rebellious leaders forfeit the right to rule, and must expect to reap as they have sown.

THE FAMILY

William Wunderlich, Audrey Baldwin wed

The marriage of Audrey Esther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Baldwin, of Rock Island, Quebec, to Mr. William C. Wunderlich Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Wunderlich of Cincinnati, Ohio, took place on Saturday, July 10, in Centenary United Church, Stanstead, Quebec.

The Reverend Carl Gustafson officiated for the double ring ceremony. Mrs. A. P. Gordon played the wedding music at the organ. Mr. Wunderlich was soloist. White seasonal flowers were arranged to decorate the church with white satin ribbon bows used to mark the guest pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a gown of ivory silk organza over peau de soie, reembodyered with Alencon lace and seed pearl clusters. It was fashioned with an empire waist and Victorian neckline, short scalloped edged sleeves and scalloped hemline with a chapel length train having lace applique. Her headpiece was cage style in matching lace and scalloped along the edge in elbow length. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and stephanotis. Her jewellery was her maternal grandmother's old gold locket.

Miss Gail Bacon, of Montreal, as maid of honor, was in a gown of yellow, blue and cranberry floral chiffon over peau de soie and fashioned with long puffed sleeves and a yellow velvet ribbon at the waist line. She wore a yellow straw picture hat with matching velvet streamers and carried a cascade of yellow shasta daisies.

Miss Cathy Royer, of Orleans, Vermont, as flower girl wore a floor length gown of ivory crepe with lace trimming. She wore blue velvet streamers in her hair and carried a basket of blue and yellow shasta daisies.

Master Kenneth J. Lummis of Edmonton, Alberta, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. He wore an ivory blouse and short blue trousers, and carried the rings on a lace trimmed white peau de soie cushion in heart design.

Mr. William C. Wunderlich Sr. was best man for his son and the ushers were Mr. P. Bennett Buckland of Hornpayne, Ont., and Mr. Charles Colt, of Beebe, Que.

Mrs. Baldwin, mother of the bride, choose an ensemble of turquoise chiffon with matching hat and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Wunderlich, was in a pale blue satin dress with white over lace, her corsage was yellow sweetheart roses.

The reception took place at the Hatley Inn, North Hatley. The bride and groom left for Cincinnati, Ohio, where they are residing. The bride travelled in a red, white and navy blue dress with white straw accessories.

Mrs. Charles Colt, Beebe, Que., was in charge of the guest book. Guests attended from Cincinnati, Ohio; Edmonton, Alta.; Ottawa, Windsor, Hornpayne, Ont.; Montreal, Lennoxville, Coaticook, Waterloo, and the Boundary Villages.

Not all psychiatrists charlatans

Dear Ann Landers: I admired your raw courage when you blasted the chiropractors. And now, my dear, when are you going to unmask the psychiatrists? You know good and well that most of them are charlatans, interested only in a lucrative practice. Have you ever heard of a mentally sick person who was set right permanently by psychiatry? I have not.

No amount of therapy can cure a problem caused by heredity. Hours of talking cannot alter defective genes. Surely you know that depressions are cyclical and most people who believe psychiatry helped them would have gotten better without it. No one will ever sell me the idea that mental illness yields to persuasion. Why don't you give up?

—With You on Most Things
Dear With: I won't try to sell you anything. Your mind is not only closed—it is nailed shut.

Charlatans can be found in every field and psychiatry is no exception. In addition to the quacks, there are also incompetent psychiatrists, and downright nutty ones who went into the specialty in search of solutions to their own problems.

While emotional illness may seem to run in families, it is not inherited in the same way that a syphilitic mother passes on the disease to her offspring. Our central nervous systems are inherited, however, and this is a factor which cannot be discounted.

I have stated repeatedly that a sick person who seeks psychiatric help has only a 50-50 chance of getting well. Of those who do get well, some credit their doctors with rescuing them from a prison of hate and bitterness, unable to work, unable to love and unable to accept themselves.

True, talking cannot alter defective genes, but it can dissipate hostility and anger which is like poison to the body and mind. Talking can also bring tremendous relief to people whose real feelings have been hidden even from themselves. Moreover, talking can uncover an enormous amount of unearned guilt, which is a major cause for nervous breakdowns.

You say you've never heard of a mentally ill person who was set right by psychiatry? Well, I have. Furthermore, I receive letters of appreciation almost every day from people who say therapy saved their lives and they thank me for urging them to get professional help.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been looking at this piece of paper for half an hour trying to put this delicately. But there's no way—so here it goes.

Last weekend we had guests. (Close relatives.) One of the guests came out of the bathroom with a very sheepish expression on his face. Finally he said, "I broke the toilet seat." Everyone roared.

He was embarrassed, and I felt sorry for him. Later that evening he asked me to buy a new seat and send him the bill. I informed him that it wasn't necessary—that the seat had been cracked for some time and it could have happened to anyone. His response was, "You are just trying to make me feel better. I don't believe it."

Yesterday we received a blank check with a note saying, "Please buy a new seat to replace the one I broke. I won't be comfortable until you do." I would feel like a fraud accepting his money. That doggone thing was ready to go any minute. My husband says we should accept the check, buy a new seat and forget it.

What do you say?
—A House Divided

Dear House: Accept the check. Buy a new seat and forget it.

Family birthdays surprises to honored

Mr. Wilfred Beaucage, a grandfather, was entertained on his birthday recently, by his son Thomas and family. They had organized a barbecue steak supper on the front lawn of his father's home in St. Elie d'Orford. Around 20 guests participated in the festivities, and Mr. Beaucage thanked everyone for making it such a complete surprise.

Mr. Beaucage was supposed to be bringing a couple of neighbors over to play cards. While he was preparing for the card game, the guests arrived unexpectedly.

The granddaughter, Judy Ann Beaucage, had a long birthday celebration shortly after her grandfather's. At noon, she, and her father, and her sister Cindy, were entertained at her grandfather's home, by Uncle Doug, Aunt Marguerite, and cousin Wanda, all of Waterville.

Receiving presents, especially a Brownie outfit from her mother, delighted the little girl.

At her home, later in the evening, she was again given a pleasant surprise when her grandparents and Aunt Jeannie accepted the invitation to a cookout on the lawn. After refreshments, her father suggested to go behind the tent, where she found a swimming tank. The evening ended happily for Judy with seven bounces for her seven years.

County WI enjoys Outing

BRIGHAM — On July 14 about 25 ladies of Missisquoi County WI enjoyed a day's outing.

Several cars met in Dunham at the WI Cairn and then proceeded to the Museum in Stanbridge East where they were joined by other ladies. They spent some time at the museum and then took a ride through the beautiful countryside by way of Krans' Corner, past the apple co-op which stores fruit and potatoes under "Atmosphere", the Bishop Stewart Memorial Church in Freighsburg, past beautiful apple orchards, the Pinnacle ski run, the old Baptist Church in Abbots Corner, East Dunham and then to Dunham where a bountiful lunch was served in the Anglican Church basement.

The afternoon was spent in playing cards and social conversation.

They then continued on to Mrs. Bidner, the county president's home, where apple juice and apple cider were served, thus bringing to a close a delightful day in spite of the rain.

SUMMER CAMPERS GET SET TO EAT

"We have come a long way but our goal would be to not have the camp exist. If there were no deaf or crippled children we would not have to be here," the director said.

Already the camp has progressed towards its goal. When it was first started 20 years ago, it was primarily for polio victims. Today there is not one person afflicted with polio in the camp. "That's a start," the camp director said.

A good deal of staff is needed to look after the children because of the nature of their illnesses. There are seven senior staff members. "Most of the senior staff are teachers on summer vacation," Mr. Douglas said.

In addition to the senior staff, there are a number of professionals, including two nurses, a physiotherapist, a student helper and two speech therapists aided by a student.

"The real unsung heroes of the camp are our counsellors. There are 47 of them who work night and day six days a week. Without them there wouldn't be a camp," the director said.

There is usually a ratio of one counsellor to every two or three youngsters in camp but sometimes one counsellor may be assigned to just one child.

"I guess our main aim is to offer recreation to the children. If they are having a good time they are probably happy. Indirectly we hope to teach the campers how to socialize with others," Mr. Douglas said.

The day starts bright and early for the campers. Wake up time is 7:30 a.m., followed by breakfast at eight. During the morning, different crafts are organized followed by swimming lessons. Dinner is followed by a rest hour, then further activities followed by a swim. Different special events are slated after supper as well. Every Tuesday night is movie night.

"At night, we have campfires and sports activities and just last night the senior boys played the staff at field hockey," Mr. Douglas said.

Each Wednesday, the whole camp goes out for a picnic. They've been to Granby, Mt. Orford and Magog. The girls have organized a pajama party in the recreation hall as well as a tea party.

"We have a well-equipped craft shop. Some of the girls learn to cook. Other crafts include ceramics, photography, tooling, metal enamelling, plastics, felt and tile work as well as weaving," the camp director said.

It is hard to measure the success of the camp but if smiles, laughs, and horseplay could be measured the Mackay Centre Camp for Deaf and Crippled Children is an overwhelming success.

NHL's Campbell, Basford to discuss competition bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The first studied reaction to the competition bill, time bomb on the parliamentary legislative table, will come Friday when National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell discusses it with Corporate Affairs Minister Ron Basford.

The private meeting here is the first of dozens being scheduled with corporate presidents, trade associations, and others who may be affected by the bill.

It would replace the Combines Investigation Act, caulking ancient loopholes and extending the provisions against price-fixing, monopoly and other practices to service as well as produce industries.

This would include professional sports—including draft systems and players contracts—and could affect everyone from doctors to barbers.

A spot check of groups shows that the Canadian Medical Association, the Canadian Trucking Associations and the Canadian Bar Association are among those giving the bill close scrutiny.

Meanwhile, Mr. Basford has a team of five top officials from his department touring the country to explain the bill to the press in one-day seminars.

HAS IMPLICATIONS

Its 103 clauses have so many possible implications for business that few writers have been able to do more than a superficial outline of it for the public.

Canada has had combines legislation on the books since 1889, when a parliamentary committee found trade groups monopolizing commodities such as salt and coal—and driving up their prices.

A Senate amendment to the 1889 bill inserted "unduly" in the prohibiting clauses, making it difficult ever since to nail restrictive trade practices in court.

The Basford bill removes the word "unduly," opening to prosecution industries that engage in practices such as bid-rigging or price-fixing.

"An effective combines law would crack prices," says Liberal MP Douglas Hogarth (New Westminster). "Some contractors have provinces divided like pies, and there is no real competition."

Besides outlawing a number of trade practices, it establishes a competitive practices tribunal to oversee activity ranging from mergers to franchise operations.

MUST REGISTER

Any acquisition of a Canadian company by a foreign company would have to be registered with the tribunal, which could approve, modify or reject the merger.

Within Canada, where mergers involved companies having combined assets or revenues of $5 million a year, they also would have to register in advance.

Conceivably the tribunal could force senators or anyone else to shed directorships where an interlocking set affected competition.

After the bill received first reading in June, Mr. Basford sent copies to 300 associations, corporate executives, economists and others. They were urged to present their views to him in private meetings. The meetings are being scheduled now.

Meanwhile, it may be a year before the bill is passed. While second reading is possible this fall, lengthy committee sessions appear likely, it is believed.

A joint Commons-Senate committee may be established to hear the expected briefs and representations.

Palmer, Nicklaus rated favorites

By BOB GREEN

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus ranked as the heavy favorites to repeat as titleholders in the $200,000 National Team Championship which begins today.

Lee Trevino, the gregarious Super Mex who swept the U.S., Canadian and British Open titles and emerged as the dominant figure in the game this year, is threatening on two fronts.

He's pushing Nicklaus as the game's greatest performer and Palmer as its most popular player.

Neither had made direct reference to the challenge, but it's obviously there.

"Lee's been playing super golf, but it finally caught up with him," Palmer said, referring to last week, when Trevino's hectic, non-stop pace caught up with him and he missed the cut for the final two rounds in the rich Westchester Classic.

"With the pressures of playing every day, there just comes a time when you have to relax," said Palmer, who picked up the $50,000 first prize last Sunday as he scored his third victory of the season.

WENT FISHING

"I just went fishing for a couple of days," Trevino said. "I feel fine now. It's surprising how much a couple of days off will help."

He has 45-year-old Howie Johnson, a non-winner since 1959 but a consistent money winner in recent years, as his partner in this event, in which scoring is based on the better bill of each two-man team.

The 72-hole test is on the scenic 7,045 yard, par 71 Laurel Valley Golf Club layout, Palmer's home course in these rolling hills of western Pennsylvania and the site of the Palmer-Nicklaus victory a year ago.

Among the leading contenders in the field of 64 teams are the three pairs who tied for second last year, former champions

Bobby Nichols and George Archer, Gardner Dickinson and 59-year-old Sam Snead, and Orville Moody and Australian Bruce Crampton.

Other standouts include CBS Classic champs Bert Yancey and Tom Weiskopf, Ken Still and Gene Littler, veterans Miller Barber and Don January, and brothers Dave and Mike Hill.

Nicklaus and Palmer are the top-heavy choices, however. They've won this event two of the last three times it has been played and have teamed to win four World Cup titles for the United States.

Among the missing are Billy Casper, competing in the Swiss Open, South African Gary Player and England's Tony Jacklin.

Jobs don't grow on trees. They grow from the initiative and enterprise of the private sector. That's a plain fact of economic life. And here's another one. The most promising growth opportunity in a decade is staring you right in the face. Right now. If you're ambitious to grow along with Canada, this is the time to start.

In the past year, we've contained inflation more successfully than any other country with a free economy. Economists (both inside and outside the Government) are predicting that Canada is at the beginning of a new period of growth. Things are moving. Companies are expanding. Opportunities are opening up. But we can do much better still. This is no time for undue pessimism; no time for sitting back and waiting to see what happens. Now (while the growing is good) is a time for building and expanding into new markets and new product areas.

There are thousands of skilled people ready and anxious to help you build your business — and Canada Manpower Centres are just as ready to help you find them. If necessary, they can arrange the training of people you need, and help them relocate to wherever you need them for more productive employment.

Canada Manpower economists and researchers are ready to help in their own field, too — with analyses of market potential in every part of the country, with detailed reports covering the probable effects of technological change in your industry and in your company — with whatever facts and figures you need to take advantage of existing opportunities and to create new ones.

Just how far and how fast Canada will grow in the next few years is very much for you to decide. The stimulus must come from your energy, your enterprise and your confidence in the future of this country. We're ready to grow when you are.

The forecast is favourable. The people are available. And the Government has plans to help with all kinds of business expansion programmes.

IOOF-Rebekah Lodges hold church services

DANVILLE — Sunday morning, June 20, saw a large number of members of IOOF Golden Rule Lodge and of Maple Leaf Rebekah Lodge joined by members of other lodges enter Trinity United Church for the annual District Church Service.

Bro. Roy Carson PDDGM acted as Parade Marshal — and the newly appointed District Deputy President of the Rebekahs, Sis. Irene Sexton of La Tuque and Bro. Sexton were among those present from out-of-town, as was the newly elected Deputy Grand Master, Bro. Francis Healy of Pioneer Lodge, Richmond.

Colors were carried into the church by Bros. Henry Lockwood and Hilton Findley, where they were received by the minister, the Rev. G.L. Crowthers and placed on either side of the communion table.

The Scripture Lessons were read by Bro. Roy Monahan, Grand Master, and the anthem "In The Garden" was sung by the choir. Mr. Crowthers chose as his topic Discipleship is Discipline.

Following the service all enjoyed the cold ham dinner served in the Lodge Hall dining room by Maple Leaf Lodge. Bro. Ronald Stevens, DDGM called upon Rev. Crowthers to ask the blessing, and at the close of the meal — thanked all those who had been so kind in furnishing the food and in serving it.

The tables were most attractive with vases of spring flowers and two large baskets of peonies added a bright touch to the room. Bro. Roy Monahan in his capacity as Grand Master, also spoke, as did several others.

Later in the afternoon, Bros. Roy Monahan, Ronald Stevens and Harold Wiley, accompanied by their wives, motored to the Wales Home, Richmond, where they presented Bro. W.A. Olney with his 65 year jewel.

Until the time that Bro. Olney entered the home he was a faithful member of Golden Rule Lodge and of Golden Encampment and Maple Leaf Lodges. To those who had attended Church Service earlier it was the first one to which Bro. Olney was not present.

As it was an extremely humid day — Bro. Olney was not able to attend — and the Bros. had chosen this method of presentation as their way of honoring him for so many years of faithful membership. While at the home they also visited Bro. G.A. Lockwood, another member of long standing in our Lodge.

Stampede. They have now returned after a very pleasant trip. Mr. B. Armstrong's two young daughters, the Misses Susan and Lynda Armstrong, remained in Sudbury, Ont., where they visited relatives.

Dr. and Mrs. Dykeman and family are visiting Dr. Dykeman's father in New Brunswick. They will also tour P.E.I. and other parts in the Maritimes.

The Sunday afternoon service held on July 18 was conducted by Rev. D. Campbell from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Sherbrooke. Rev. Campbell and other counsellors, who are in charge of a Presbyterian Camp about three miles from Richmond, brought thirty or more of their girls who filled the choir chairs and provided the music and singing throughout the service. This proved to be a rare treat for the residents who thoroughly enjoyed every moment of the afternoon. Mrs. Farley graciously thanked Rev. Campbell and his choir, then invited them to the Reception Room where light refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

Miss F. Cunningham of Apt. 9 motored, with Mrs. Sarty of Nova Scotia, to Elmsville, N.B., where she will spend the month of July visiting her cousins Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson.

St. Paul's ACW hold Tea

MARBLETON — The ladies of St. Paul's ACW held their annual tea, food and fancywork sale on June 25. Each tea table was attractively centred with summer flowers.

Mrs. Mark Genge poured tea at the head table while Miss Hunt, Jane Bishop and Mrs. Hetherington served the guests.

Mrs. J. Mackay attended the food table sales and Mrs. R. Davidson the table of many fancy gifts and aprons.

Despite the bad weather there was a good turnout, including children, who were each given a balloon. The afternoon was considered a great success and thanks are extended to all who helped.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLOSES

The children of St. Paul's Sunday School held their closing class for the summer in the form of a picnic.

Parents, teachers and children gathered at the church hall about 11 a.m. and then went to Silver Lake Public Beach for a swim before returning to the large lawns of the parsonage for their lunch and games.

A peanut hunt was organized as well as several classes of races which included the nursery age children as well as the older ones. Prizes were won, naturally by everyone.

The children returned home late in the afternoon exhausted and maybe a bit over-stuffed with candy and ice cream, but very happy with their day's outing. Sunday School will resume in the fall.

Expos victims of Fergie Jenkins' 17th win

MONTREAL (CP) — Right-hander Ferguson Jenkins registered his 17th win in 25 decisions Wednesday night, scattering 10 hits and drove in two runs to lead Chicago Cubs to a 10-2 victory over Montreal Expos in National League play.

Jenkins walked two and struck out five to bring his season strikeout mark to 177, tops in the National League.

The Cubs jumped on Montreal starter Carl Morton (8-12) for three runs in both the first and third innings.

Morton, last year's National League rookie of the year, was touched for six hits in the two 2-3 innings he worked.

He gave up run-scoring singles to Billy Williams and Ron Santo to account for two runs in the first while the third came home on a fielding miscue by Gary Sutherland.

The Cubs' first run in the third came in on a bases-loaded walk to Chris Cannizzaro while the next two came in on Jenkins' two-run single.

Bob Bailey scored the Expos' first run in the fourth when Bob Bailey scooted home on an in-field out.

But the Cubs came back with one in the sixth and three in the seventh off reliever Dan McGinn before Boots Day singled home

Bobby Wine with the Expos' second run in the seventh.

It has taken Luke Walker a while to convince Pittsburgh Pirates' manager Danny Murtagh that his arm is sound. Los Angeles Dodgers were sure of it 11 days ago.

Walker, slowed by elbow problems this season, pitched his second straight strong game—both against the Dodgers—stopping Los Angeles 4-0 on four hits Wednesday night.

It was his first start since he downed Los Angeles 7-1 July 18, losing his no-hit bid in the ninth inning on a leadoff homer by rookie Joe Ferguson. Murtagh said: "I wasn't convinced Luke didn't make a couple of starts without a sore arm. So I had him in the bullpen after the one-hitter against the Dodgers. He worked some out there and it looks like the layoff helped."

While Walker was shacking the Dodgers for the second consecutive time, Ferguson Jenkins of Chatham, Ont., the National League's top winner, posted his 17th victory as Chicago Cubs trounced Montreal Expos 10-2.

Elsewhere, San Diego Padres downed Cincinnati Reds 4-2, Houston Astros defeated Philadelphia Phillies 6-3, San Francisco Giants edged Atlanta Braves 2-1 and St. Louis Cardinals trimmed New York Mets 6-3.

HAS 5-7 RECORD

Walker, the biggest winner on the Pirate staff last season with 15 victories but now only 5-7, was in complete command against the slumping Dodgers, who

FERGUSON JENKINS

15 victories but now only 5-7, was in complete command against the slumping Dodgers, who suffered their 15th loss in 21 games. He retired 19 batters in a row before allowing ninth-inning singles to Manny Mota and Maury Wills.

Dave Campbell's three-run homer in the fifth inning carried Clay Kirby and the Padres past Cincinnati. Kirby stopped the Reds on four hits, including on Perez' two-run homer.

Joe Morgan supported Don Wilson's six-hit, seven-strikeout pitching against Philadelphia with a triple, a single and two runs batted in.

Alan Gallagher drove in both an Francisco runs against Atlanta with a run-scoring double in the sixth and a tie-breaking single in the eighth.

Joe Torre, the league's leading batter at 368, cracked a two-run homer and rookie Jose Cruz belted a solo homer, helping St. Louis beat the Mets for Steve Carlton's 14th victory.

Orioles down Oakland despite Brooks' errors

"All I ask," Oakland manager Dick Williams said before the game, "is that my players hustle and not beat themselves."

The Robinsons of Baltimore must have overheard him—with a couple of astonishing results.

Brooks Robinson, the Orioles' third baseman who has been voted the American League's top man at the position for 11 successive seasons, suddenly turned butterfinger Wednesday night.

He committed three errors on a pair of two-out grounders and slapped into a pair of rally-wrecking double plays that gave the Athletics a 2-0 lead.

But in the bottom of the ninth inning, Frank Robinson followed singles by Don Buford and Merv Rettenmund by rapping reliever Roland Finger's first pitch into the right-field bleachers for a 3-2 Baltimore victory.

Fingers, only the night before, had been victimized by Brooks Robinson's two-out, two-run homer in the ninth that powered Baltimore to a triumph.

SOX RALLY

In other contests, Chicago

White Sox rallied to beat New York Yankees 5-4. Milwaukee Brewers silenced Boston Red Sox 5-0, California Angels topped Cleveland Indians 5-1, Detroit Tigers overhauled Kansas City Royals 8-7 and Washington Senators blitzed Minnesota Twins 7-1.

"It just wasn't my night," understated Brooks Robinson, who couldn't recall ever committing three errors in an inning.

When a seventh-inning grounder took a bad hop and struck Mark Belanger in the face, Brooks said he ambled over to the shortstop and quipped: "I think that ball was meant for me."

Frank Robinson's clout ended a personal 9-for-15 hitless streak. Ron Swoboda cracked a two-out homer in the top of the ninth, his first of the year, to put the Yanks ahead 4-3 before the White Sox swarmed back in the bottom of the inning.

Mike Andrews' leadoff walk and pinch singles by Pat Kelly and Carlos May tied it up against Lindy McDaniel. Then Ed Herrmann slapped a double play grounders to shortstop Gene Michael. His relay to second base got the second out of the inning.

STEAM HOME

But Horace Clarke's toss to first bounced past Danny Cater and Kelly steamed home with the winning run.

Rookie Jim Slaton of the Brewers blanked the Red Sox on just three hits, the 17th shutout by the Milwaukee staff this year.

Shortstop Jack Heidemann booted a pair of routine grounders providing the Angels with a pair of fourth-inning runs, the only ones they needed as Rudy May went the route, scattering six Indians hits.

Al Kaline and Gates Brown unloaded two-run homers in the bottom of the ninth to carry the Tigers back from a 7-4 deficit.

Bill Gogolewski had a one-hitter for seven innings before tiring, then Joe Grzenda came on as the two Washington hurlers, backed by Frank Howard's two-run double and a three-run uprising in the ninth, combined for a four-hitter to tame the Twins.

Andrusyshyn had trouble with his conversion, missing on two of the three point-after attempts. His 55-yard single closed out the third-quarter scoring.

Quarterback Don Jonas scored one of the Winnipeg touchdowns, added a convert, kicked two field goals and one single. Bob Larose scored the other Bomber points and a 24-yard pass from Jonas.

Argos nip Bombers

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts capitalized on a Winnipeg turnover late in the game Wednesday night and Zenon Andrusyshyn's subsequent 50-yard punt single sent the Bombers to a 21-20 loss in a Canadian Football League interlocking game. It was the opening game of the 1971 season for both teams, played before a sell-out crowd of 33,135.

The Argos survived a series of fourth-quarter miscues before Andrusyshyn's booming punt sent Winnipeg's Doug Strong back to the end zone line and the Bomber deep back stepped out of bounds as he fielded the ball.

Leon McQuay, who carried the bulk of Toronto's ground game, scored twice, including one of 70 yards. Mel Profit took a Joe Theismann pass for the Argos' other six-pointer.

Andrusyshyn had trouble with his conversion, missing on two of the three point-after attempts. His 55-yard single closed out the third-quarter scoring.

Quarterback Don Jonas scored one of the Winnipeg touchdowns, added a convert, kicked two field goals and one single. Bob Larose scored the other Bomber points and a 24-yard pass from Jonas.

Winnipeg coach shoulders blame in club's 21-20 loss

TORONTO (CP) — Head coach Jim Spavital of Winnipeg Blue Bombers shouldered the blame for his team's 21-20 loss at the hands of Toronto Argonauts Wednesday night, but admitted he was going for the win and not the tie.

"A tie is just like kissing your sister," he said following the game. "You might say I blew it electing to go on third down instead of punting and keeping them away from our end, but we were playing for the win."

Spavital was referring to a decision late in the fourth quarter with the score tied 20-20.

After Don Jonas passed to Mack Herron for seven yards, and Charlie Bryant plunged for two, Winnipeg elected to go for the yard on the third down at their own 45.

Injuries force Esk coach to juggle tonight's lineup

HAMILTON (CP) — An ankle injury suffered by running back Alan Pitcaithley in Edmonton Eskimos' 22-11 loss Tuesday to Ottawa Rough Riders has forced coach Ray Jauch into shuffling his lineup for tonight's interlocking Canadian Football League game.

The Eskimos, however, are fortunate in that they've been able to retain four import running backs, and Jauch used this versatility in his lineup shuffle for the game with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

With Pitcaithley sidelined, import Terry Swann will move from his split end position into the backfield and give the Edmonton coach an opportunity to dress Henry King, an import defensive end who did not see action at Ottawa.

With King in the lineup, Jauch would activate Ross Guinn, former New Orleans Saint, at guard and shift Keith Christensen into his familiar offensive tackle spot.

The Eskimos had a successful pre-season schedule, winning three of their four games. Their only pre-season loss was also to Ottawa, a team Jauch says is going to give the rest of the Eastern Football Conference trouble.

Hamilton coach Al Dorow isn't sitting still, especially in view of his team's four exhibition losses. "It's going to be a lot different club than we had in the exhibition games," said Dorow Wednesday as his club prepared to meet the Eskimos in their season opener on the artificial turf at renovated Ivor Wynne Stadium.

The Eskimos had a successful pre-season schedule, winning

Alberta Open begins today

CALGARY (CP) — Provincial amateurs will have almost as much to shoot for as the professionals when the Alberta open golf tournament starts today.

The amateurs' returns will be in prestige and a berth on the Alberta Willingdon Cup team for the four low finishers.

For the professionals, it will be a share of the $8,000 prize money with the top golfers getting $1,500.

The 54-hole, medal-play tournament—with a record field of 144 including 83 professionals—will be held on the rolling course of the Calgary Golf and Country Club.

The open is normally the second of two tournaments from which the Willingdon Cup team is chosen, but the Alberta Amateur was rained out earlier this summer in Edmonton and could not be rescheduled until late in the season.

Among those competing for top money will be Tom McGinnis of Memphis, Tenn., who won the Saskatchewan open Sunday in a playoff, and John Elliott of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who took the Manitoba open a week earlier, also in a playoff.

HOMENUEK BACK

Defending Alberta champion Stan Homenuek of Dauphin, Man., will be back, along with Moe Norman of Gifford, Ont., top money-winner so far this year on the Canadian tour.

The country club course is sprawled in a crook of the Elbow River and rises, falls and twists along the bank.

It is a short 6,260 yards and is par 35 on the front and back nines.

Club professional Bud Loftus said the holes would be lengthened by five yards on each day of the tournament as the pin and tee placements are placed farther apart.

The shortness of the course is compensated for by the small greens, many of which slope to the rear and are difficult to hold.

There is a generous amount of bent grass in the greens' mixture, said Loftus, which also makes the ball run. The rough is deep and filled with trees which come together from each side of the fairways to form "keyhole" entrances to many greens.

Traps abound, both on the fairways and around the greens.

SHAVING STROKES

7-That Left Knee

One sure way to tell the difference between a good golf swing and a bad one is to cheer the left knee. Often a poorer player will stick a left knee straight out toward the ball. His shots don't usually fly straight out toward the target.

The left knee should roll to your right on your backswing and then back to the left on the downswing. If it does, it's a sign that you've shifted your weight properly. If your knee points toward the ball, your weight shift needs work.

Bobby Jones, who may have been the greatest player ever, almost used to sway to his right and then back during his swing. The modern trend is toward a slight lateral shift, for control and consistency. Ideally, you would shift about 65 per cent of your weight to your right on the backswing, then transfer it into the ball on your downswing. (Keeping both knees flexed from start to finish helps.)

By shifting your weight this way, you are able to stay in balance and get more power. If your left knee sticks out, it means you are shifting your weight forward instead of to your right, and the
