Mr. Clark retired in 1953 after more than 50 years with the canning company, founded by his father, the late William Clark, in 1877.

A long-time member of St. George's Anglican Church, Mr. Clark was at the time of his death a director of the Montreal Lithographing Co. Ltd. and of the Gould Storage Co. Ltd. He was a member of the Engineers' Club and of the Islemere Golf Club.

He is survived by his wife, the former Florence Jane Upton, and two daughters, Patricia (Mrs. Howard C. Cotterell) and Ruth (Mrs. John H. Baker).

Funeral was held Wednesday at 2 p.m. from Joseph C. Wray and Bros. Funeral Parlor, 1234 Mountain St., to Mount Royal Cemetery.

A funeral service was held at 5 p.m. Friday at the Rosedale Chapel, 4911 Cote des Neiges road, for Archibald M. Elliott, a former employe of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, who died here yesterday at the age of 67.

Mr. Elliott was born in Westmount and educated at Westmount Academy. Before World War I he was employed at Westmount City Hall. During the war he enlisted with the 23rd Battalion Westmount Rifles and served with the Third Battalion.

Later, he was employed in the office of the Welland Canal's engineer-in-charge as private secretary. He lived for many years in St. Catharines, Ont., before returning to Montreal and a post with the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority. He retired in 1957.

Mr. Elliott was pre-deceased by his wife, the former Edna Griffin; and his son Leslie was killed in action in Boulogne, France, in 1945.

He is survived by two daughters, Jeanne (Mrs. Harry Parker), and Mavis (Mrs. Bryan Hewitt), both of St. Catharines; two brothers, T. Movie of prize book planned for summer

By VALENTINA RAHR

Clin McDougall, Lansdowne avenue, Registrar of McGill University and successful short story writer, was named winner of Canada's top award for fiction for his first novel "Execution" last year.

In the fall of 1959, Mr. McDougall was approached by a Toronto film representative, and the outcome of their meeting was a contract for a $1,000,000 production film based on his book.

It will be shot this summer in Canadian army camps and in Italy by Torontonian Julian Roffman, co-produced by Ralph Foster's Toronto Meridian Film Co., and by Yvonne Taylor, wife of the Toronto film tycoon Nat Taylor.

"This is the first time a Canadian film made on Canadian soil will have an international distribution by this company." Mr. McDougall said. "If the venture is successful, plans are being made to film about two pictures a year based on Canadian books."

"Execution" is the story of a Canadian infantry battalion in the Italian Campaign of World War II. The prize-winning novel reflects Mr. McDougall's own career. A strong and vivid novel, it is told with an acute understanding of war's human element, and the Canadian soldiers who fought in the Allied campaign in Italy, are recognized in this gripping narrative of battle.

EATING HABITS

"National characteristics such as laziness, energy, persistence, or instability, often bear a direct relation to the habits of eating," according to culinary expert, radio and TV personality Jehanne Benoit, Churchill avenue.

"Proof exists that foot is linked with every branch of cultural history," she said. "We should believe in and try to propagate our own Canadian national foods. The Indians mixed all the wild fruit in their own corn bread—which makes it the father of the 'upside down cake.'"

Canadians from the East and West, as well as New Englanders, learned to make upside down cake from the Indians, but adapted it to their own way.

WMA getting geared for future elections

By LARRY McINNIS

The Westmount Municipal Association, at their regular monthly meeting held Tuesday night at Victoria Hall, took firm steps to prepare themselves for the eventuality of their chosen candidates being opposed in future mayoral or aldermanic elections by starting an "election committee."

President J. G. Harper announced he had been empowered to select a chairman for this committee, which will deal with necessary procedures for having WMA candidates nominated in future elections, and that he had approached R. L. Hunter to take the steps needed to get it functioning.

★ Mr. Hunter accepted the chairmanship.

It is expected that this will be one of the important committees within the framework of the WMA. In their March newsletter they state: "If elections are best for Westmount, let's have one every year. You can be sure the WMA will do its part by selecting good candidates for vacancies on the Westmount City Council."

With the idea obviously in mind that the association may be taken at its word, considerable time at the meeting was devoted to ways and means of raising the membership, and subsequently the income of the group. The January aldermanic election necessitated cashing of a $1,000 bond to help pay campaign expenses of $1,100.

For some time discussion has been going on about expanding membership in the association to a "family" or "couples" plan whereby the "legal consort" of a present member, who pays $2, could also join the WMA for a proposed additional fee of $1.

Lansdowne future still indefinite

The traffic and circulation committee of the WMA reported to the Tuesday night meeting on the city's recent decision to prohibit heavy truck traffic on Lansdowne avenue between Sherbrooke and St. Catherine streets.

The report said three parts were made in the original petition to city authorities:

PETITION

1. To prohibit all trucks, except those on local delivery, from using the street as a thoroughfare;
2. To make Lansdowne a one way street between Sherbrooke and St. Catherine going south;
3. To re-route the two bus services now using the street.

RESULTS

A traffic survey was made on authority of City Manager T. J. Hughes of the street and it was decided to enact a prohibition of heavy traffic. This was passed at the February 15 council meeting.

The plan to make the street one way was decided against as being an inconvenience to everyone, particularly residents.

A memo has been sent to the Montreal Transportation Commission asking for a proposed plan to re-route the buses. As yet no reply has been received.

A complaint was tabled from residents on Somerville that a lane at the back of their houses was being used for parking by residents of Burton.

The investment in plant and equipment in the Canadian steel industry is now $21,700 per employee. — Quick Canadian Facts.

Oh where, oh where has Westmount gone?

Has Westmount lost its identity? Where has Canada's pretty little city gone?

Relax! It hasn't gone the way of the fabled Atlantis — disappearing beneath the sea.

But Westmount is non-existent as far as the post office is concerned. Circulars issued by the Postmaster, Rene Boileau, announces that the postal zone for Westmount will be Montreal 6 in an effort to offer some standardization for areas served by letter carriers.

The City has two post offices — one at Greene and Western and one at Sherbrooke and Prince Albert.

In a telephone interview Wednesday with St. Antoine-Westmount member of parliament, Ross Webster (PC), The Examiner asked about Westmount's identity.

"No, the city has not lost anything," he said. "Montreal 6 or Westmount will be enough to have the letter delivered."

"But," he added, "if you just put Westmount it will probably take one day longer for delivery."

"Deliveries have been slow, and this is a way to speed them up," he said.

Wading pools out

Westmount Park to be improved

Westmount Public Works Commissioner, P. A. Ouimet, told his WMA counterpart committee that all the money to be spent for park improvement within the city in 1960 will be spent on Westmount Park. No plans have been made for other city parks. Improvements, listed below, were tabled after consultation with a City of Montreal park expert:

1. The "muddy hole" in front of the library will be partially filled, and shrubs, flowers and grass will be planted in the area.
2. A drainage sewer will be installed to run underground from the lily pond to the main sewer on Western avenue. The open stream above the pond will be cleaned and enlarged. An additional amount of water will be provided for the pond, re-circulated by a pump to provide a constant flow and level for children who like to use the stream and pond to sail boats.
3. The games area will be relocated to the south of its present location and paved to keep down the dust. The possibility of erecting a fence, hidden by shrubbery, as a protection to children will be studied at a later date.
4. The two pools under the arched bridge will be enclosed with a low shrubbery-hidden fence. The drain to the duck pool will be put underground with provision above the drain for a small stream of clear water.
5. The bandstand now located on the edge of the playing field will be re-located on the island in the skating pond, but probably not until 1961.

The cost of the proposed improvements was not given.

Alderman Ouimet mentioned Rev. William Morris' requests for wading pools in Westmount Parks. He said the city medical officer, and City Council, is strongly opposed to the idea because the pools would be very expensive; would need heavy chlorination with its resultant danger to the eyes; and would be used mainly by non-residents of Westmount. He said Westmount residents would probably not allow their children to use the pools if they were built.

Woman trapped, rescued

A fire on the top floor of a two-storey building at 385 Claremont avenue early Saturday morning saw Mrs. A. H. Tellier rushed to Queen Elizabeth Hospital in a police car suffering from smoke and shock.

Westmount Fire Department received the call at 7.17 a.m. They arrived within a few minutes to find flames coming from the window of a room used as a den. Mrs. Tellier was trapped in a room at the rear of the building, from where firemen had to remove her with the aid of an aerial ladder.

Mrs. Tellier was alone in the house at the time; her husband and two children were visiting in the Laurentians for the weekend.

WE SAY YOU SAY

Louis Gordon story one of success-plus

PUSHCART to president is a common enough success story.

But add to it warm friendliness, specially toward children, and a keen sense of philanthropy. Then place the thriving business he built right here in Westmount for 35 years where it is an institution, and you have a story quite out of the ordinary.

We speak of Mr. Louis Gordon, who came from Russia early in his 75 years which ended with his passing Tuesday; the same Louis Gordon who for 35 years was president of this community's probably best known grocery establishment, Gordon & Sons, Inc.

From door-to-door fruit peddling to highest community respect he rose, with acumen and humanity.

His kind is specially missed.

Philatelists held auction for Red Cross

An appeal to philatelists (stamp collectors to you) and stamp dealers to donate their prized specimens to the Westmount Stamp Club for auction as a fund-raising project for the Canadian Red Cross produced good results. It was announced last night by Ken Smith, president of the club.

The club held its annual auction of postage stamps at Victoria Tall.

The club is an active chapter of the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada, and claims the largest membership of its kind in Canada.

While results of the sale are not yet known, in 1958 a contribution of $750 was made, and $350 last year, to the Quebec Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society at their campaign time.

"Our aim is $1,000," Mr. Smith said. "There are many other collectors in Montreal who would contribute if they knew collections from the auction will help to swell the Red Cross fund."

Canadian Council expresses thanks

Sir: Thank you for your cooperation during Brotherhood Week 1960.

Preliminary reports indicate the success of the observance in all parts of Canada.

Dentist wins sports rally

Results of the Rallie des Neiges, the 700-mile sport car test that was re-routed because of drifting snow and bad road conditions, were released yesterday by the Sport Car Motor Club of Montreal, sponsors of the event.

Winners of the first overall prize, the Volkswagen Trophy, are Westmounters Dr. Ronald Herbert Louttit (navigator) and Henry Grace (driver), who won in a Singer Gazelle.

Other winners from Westmount are: Dr. M. Reuteky, navigator, with driver J. Jones, who won the Cooke - Toledo Trophy in a Sprite; B. Van Marken, who had to stop along the way to change his damaged windshield.

Trophies will be presented at the Annual Dinner of the Montreal Sports Car Club on April 9.

Dr. Louttit is an avid sports car enthusiast, who has won many trophies and ribbons.

Witty comedy is featuring Westmounters

Residents of Westmount have been assigned featured roles in the McGill English department's production of "The Relapse" by Sir John Vanbrugh, which will be presented at the University's Moyse Hall on March 10 to 12.

Professor A. J. Frueh of McGill's geology department, who lives at 457 Stratheona avenue, will be seen in the role of Coupler, a match-maker, and James Khazzam, of 44 Sunnyside avenue, will play Lorry, the servant of Young Fashion. Also in the cast is David Francis, of 4341 Montrose, who plays Lord Foppington's shoemaker.

A sparkling and witty comedy of manners, "The Relapse" recounts the adventures of a confirmed rake and libertine who attempts to mend his ways and remain faithful to his long-suffering wife.

Old Boys meet:

Principal announces resignation this year

"The level of scholarship at Westmount High School, which Stephen Leacock once praised as being unequalled in Canada, has continued down through the generations," the vice-principal of the school, J. Douglas Lawley, told the Westmount High School Old Boys' Association at their annual dinner last Friday night.

The school, he said, has never let down on standards of scholarship required of teachers as well as students, established when it was incorporated in 1913.

The happy gathering of representatives of the more than 2,000 members of the association was marred only by the announcement by Principal Roland Bartlett that he was resigning his post at the end of the year to attend to private business.

Mr. Bartlett joined the school staff in 1944 and has been principal since then. He said he has already forwarded his resignation to the school board.

The more pleasant activities in-medal to principal emeritus H. B. Parker in celebration of his 80th birthday.

Presented with a medal of honor was Ian Motherwell, who graduated last year from Westmount High, and now attends McGill University. He was voted by his own classmates as the student best fulfilling the criteria of scholarship, sportsmanship and character.

Outgoing president William G. McCrudden announced that, of the scholarship fund objective of $10,000, $5,400 had been collected so far.

The scholarship fund, to establish a permanent fund for Westmount High graduates, the association main project this year, he said. It is hoped to collect the balance of the objective from alumni members contacted within the past month.

He also announced the Student Loan Scheme, under which graduates borrowed money for higher education, was been discontinued "in view of the paramount importance of building up the scholarship fund." Some $400 in loans is still outstanding.

In another bid to give added impetus to the establishment of the scholarship trust fund, the association raised the Howard H. Mussells Memorial Scholarship to $300.

Elected for the coming year:

President, R. Edward Fisher; vice-president, John Waterston; secretary, Gerald Burke; treasurer, Leslie Ham.

Directors: Michael Fish, John S. Foch, Ernest A. Hutchison, Hugh Jones, Eric Laffoley, Richard Lord, Peter Merrill, James Patrick, John Priestman, Ian Stewart, Frank Stark and Stephen Vineberg.

EASTER SEALS: Dr. Arnold F. Jones, 17 Willow, has been named as one of the executive of the 1960 Easter Seals campaign for cripples. The campaign will run from March 17 to April 18 with an objective for the Greater Montreal areas of $100,000. It has also been announced that their campaign headquarters will be on the 20th floor of the Sun Life building, and will be open from March 15 to April 20.

Tokyo anyone?

The Westmount Rotary Club is looking for volunteers among its members to go to Tokyo in 1961.

The occasion is the 52nd annual Rotary convention to be held in Tokyo from May 28 to June 1, and plans are already underway by Rotary International for travel and accommodation plans.

Pre-convention and post-convention tours with groups of Rotarians and members of their families are being arranged with stop-overs in Hawaii, tours of Japan and visits to other Asian countries.

Also planned in connection with Tokyo attendance for the convention are round-the-Pacific and round-the-world trips.

City planner asks to save old buildings

According to Montreal's city planning director, Romeo Mondello, the city has very little to show of its historic past.

New building have replaced structures erected a few hundred years ago.

"In fact," he said, "there is practically nothing left of the French regime architecture and very little dating more than 200 years."

Because of this situation, Mondello said, preservation of old buildings should be stressed.

Mr. Mondello suggested that, because the old stone buildings do not stand up well, even though their walls are thick stone, special treatment should be given them for their preservation.

The planning director said he was convinced that an appreciable number of the old buildings are still in a good state of conservation.

Mr. Mondello mentioned many historic buildings in Montreal's downtown area, but brought attention to the old farmhouse of the Hurtubise Farm, built in 1692 and still standing at 561-3 Cote St. Antoine road.

Also mentioned was the farmhouse of the Decarie Farm, erected in 1697 and still standing at 459 Cote St. Antoine.

Cancer Society drive to open here April 6

The Canadian Cancer Society Campaign which opens here April 6 is not just a drive for funds. Mrs. Slattery, chairman of the Westmount district campaign said today.

"The number one goal of the drive," she said, "is to save one out of two of those who develop cancer. That is the number who could be saved by broad application of present knowledge and skills instead of one out of three we are now saving."

"The second target is for funds urgently needed to step up the Society's nation-wide program which offers a promise of solving the cancer problem. That promise has never been as great as it is today. Until that final goal is reached we must apply every bit of knowledge and skill to saving lives today."

"Thousands of life-saving leaflets will be given away in our house-to-house canvas here," Mrs. Slattery said. "The leaflets are designed to save lives that might otherwise be lost to Canada's number two disease killer by alerting those who receive them to the dangers of neglect and delay."

She explained that while more lives are being saved every year due to improved methods of treatment, needless deaths still occur because the disease is not diagnosed in time. Regular health check-ups are the best safeguard," he pointed out, "to protect the family and the home."

Mrs. Slattery was confident that one day cancer, like other diseases in our time, will be brought under control. "But until that day comes," she said, "public knowledge of the facts of cancer is still one of the best means of saving lives."

The Canadian Cancer Society has a three-pronged program of research, education and service to patients in its all-out effort to conquer cancer.

The power of the press! Society's plight heard

(Ed's note: Three weeks ago The Examiner did a story on a small organization formed in Montreal by six couples who had adopted children of multi-racial background, and who were trying to tell other people interested in adopting children that they should give every consideration to some of the more than 160 children of Negro, Oriental or Indian background who need the care and affection due every child. The following report was received this week from the group.)

In this city alone there are 60 small children and over 100 older ones who are desperately in need of a home. They are presently being maintained in foster homes at public expense.

The group, whose members have adopted multi-raced children and which three weeks ago had not picked a name, have now called themselves the Open Door Society, and work in cooperation with the Children's Service Centre.

Mrs. Muriel B. McCrae, executive director of the Children's Service Centre, and four of the six founding members of the society, will be appearing on TV's Tabloid program on March 24. They will discuss their experiences and underline the plight of these Canadian children so long forgotten by their fellow citizens.

(Ed's postscript — Never underestimate the power of the press!)

THEY SAY

I SAY!

Among the many things teen-agers never learn to hang up is the telephone.

Dr. George Goth of Metropolitan United Church, London, Ontario, and formerly Minister of Westmount Park-Emmanuel Church, will be the speaker at the Life and Lent services which continue at Wesley United Church on Wednesday, March 16 at 8 p.m. Dr. Goth will take as his topic "Overcoming the World." Rev. Norman Slaughter, Minister of Erskine and American United Church will conduct the service and will be assisted by Rev. David Searfoss, assistant minister of St. Andrew's Church, Westmount. Dr. Goth has been much in demand as a speaker and lecturer and has travelled widely. In 1952 he had conversations with Marshall Tito in Yugoslavia and his travels have carried him to Russia. He is currently leader of a tour that will visit many European countries this summer.

REFLECTIONS

When a man has reached his allotted span of three score years and ten, all his possessions seem to become more valuable. This includes knowledge as well as material goods.

Material goods may be lost, stolen or destroyed but knowledge of any subject cannot be destroyed. But prohibition of the use of that knowledge is a tragedy that cannot be remedied.

The damage has been done, irreparable damage. My most prized possession, my knowledge of the diseases of God's creatures, "the little birds", and my ability to treat their ailments has been denied me by the Veterinarians' Association. This is a personal tragedy to me. My only hope is that someone, somewhere, will shortly take my place with a mandate which is not controlled by man.

WMA reminds its members — attend Council meetings

A smoothly run meeting of the Westmount Municipal Association Tuesday night at Victoria Hall heard reports from chairmen of its eight committees on subjects ranging from the city's study of zoning to the proposed date of commencement of construction of the new high school.

Tenders have been called for the new $1,800,000 school, to be built on the site of the old Westmount Athletic Grounds, but when the contracts will be let, or when the work will start, has not as yet been determined.

The nominating committee for the new WMA executive was announced: Crosby Lewis and Lyman Williams from the present executive; the retiring president L. C. Harper; two past presidents; four members at large, G. B. Puddicomb, Rev. William Morris, D. R. Ross and J. W. Kennedy.

The committee has had one preliminary meeting and will submit a report of proposed nominations to the April executive meeting for approval. If the slate is approved, the nominations will be put to a vote at the annual meeting scheduled for May.

It will be noted that Rev. Morris, president of the short-lived Westmount Voters Association (formed to put up candidates at the January aldermanic election in opposition to WMA's candidates) is an active member of the nominating committee, and is on record as having attended their first meeting.

President Harper told the meeting that housing and zoning was being studied by the City, and that they had engaged the services of architect Professor John Bland to assist them. A full report will be made to Westmount citizens later in the year.

but an interim report will be made to the WMA at their annual meeting.

The question of the use of Westmount's park facilities by business tenants was raised. Mr. Harper said he would bring the matter to the mayor's attention — especially the use of the new artificial ice rink.

One of the questions most thrown at the WMA aldermanic candidates in the last general election was about their experience in attending City Council meetings. The association had detailed chairmen, or their representatives, to attend certain meetings of council.

Mr. Harper said he had reports stating this required attendance was not being followed and reminded the executive to follow this up in future. He also said it was not necessary to take notes at these meetings because the WMA was being supplied with copies of the minutes of council meetings.

Young PC's want blood

"If you think this is not a request for blood, then read no further."

The St. Antoine-Westmount Young Progressive Conservatives mean business for their second blood clinic, to be held Wednesday, March 16, at Victoria Hall from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The group appeals to its members, and readers of The Examiner, to help them by supporting the Red Cross and donating a pint of blood.

The call is to "help us swell the diminishing Red Cross blood bank by at least 500 pints."

The clinic, in Vic Hall's lower room, will be opened by one of the newly elected Westmount aldermen (Irving Backler or Michael Tucker) and will be attended by members of the entertainment world, several players of the Alouettes, and possibly by some players of the Canadiens hockey team.

The group assures potential donors that transportation will be available at the hall to pick up people and return them to their homes.

Reports no fatalities in January

There were no fatalities in Westmount due to accidents during January it was reported in the City Manager's report for the month, although 152 accidents resulted in injuries to 51 persons.

The figures show a decrease of one accident, and an increase of 18 injured as compared with December's statistics.

124 of the accidents were due to traffic, resulting in injuries to 23 persons.

Snowfall down, but costs high

The total snowfall during the month of January, according to the report of the City Manager's office, was 19.4 inches against an 86 year average of 26.5 inches.

A surprising statistic for those who complain about the weather, realizing nothing can be done about it, is the fact that .58 inches of rain fell in the month against the 86 year average of one inch.

Snow fell on 17 days during January, 10 of which the total fall exceeded one inch. At no time during the month did the snow fall exceed three inches.

But expenditures to keep Westmount with its well earned reputation for good streets and sidewalks cost the Public Works Department $78,205 for the month's work.

1,054 tons of salt were used on city streets, roads and walks plus 408 tons of sand and over three tons of cinders.

43,095 cubic yards of snow were dumped at the pond and dump during the month.

And that's a lot of snow!

Unity Boys' Club

Citizenship program is urgently needed

By MAURICE MARIASINE

Good citizenship and the meaning of democracy can best be learned through actual experience and participation. Because of its methods, philosophy and informal setting, the Unity Boys' Club of Westmount is in an extremely favorable position to train boys and girls for responsible citizenship.

Although this is and always has been one of the primary objectives of the Club, there is an urgent need to go beyond the regular activities and develop an organized and purposeful citizenship training program.

Such a program should include—and more specifically focus attention on—the following objectives:

1. To develop a respect for our system of government; respect for law and order, and for those who administer the laws.
2. To develop understanding of the rights, privileges and obligations of citizenship.
3. To foster understanding and respect for the property and legal rights of others.
4. To create an interest in civic affairs.
5. To provide opportunities for boys and girls to learn how to function in our democracy.

6. To develop an understanding of the importance of voting and elections.

7. To develop in boys and girls the skills for democratic participation in our government.

GROUP CLUBS: Group clubs, as part of a balanced boys' club program, provide one of the tools useful in helping to attain the objectives of good citizenship. The technique has been used as long as there have been boys' clubs and has been found to be one of the effective ways of directing youth

DENTIST:
Dr. Maurice G. Sussman, a graduate of McGill Dental School, has just returned from Ontario to open a practice at 1410 Guy street.

into constructive behaviour, attitudes and experiences.

In group clubs, youngsters have the opportunity to practice leadership in democratic procedure, and develop a working knowledge not only of the privileges of a member of democracy, but also of the responsibilities of citizenship, and to become aware of the rights of others.

OPERATION: Within the last few years, efforts have been made to increase the group clubs at the Unity Boys' Club. This year, 10 group clubs are operating on a regular scheduled basis and four more are in the process of organization.

We are hopeful that this method of programing will enable us to carry out our objective of providing the youth of our community with an opportunity to learn the fundamentals of good citizenship.

HOUSE COUNCIL: The Unity Boys' Club house council, with representatives from the various age categories in the club membership, is but one example in the club's over-all program that is paving the way and providing the tools useful in helping to attain the objective.

The council meets on a regular bi-monthly basis. Topics discussed to-date include: The relationship between club members and staff, the general operation and program of the club; the conducting of special projects; discipline of members and ways of finding solutions to problems.

House council members were elected to office through a club-wide election campaign and vote.

Meetings are currently being conducted on a high-standard system of democratic procedure indicating the value of group clubs.

PROGRAM NOTES

WOODWORK: Matthew Roguski and Michael Ryan are conducting woodwork classes every Monday and Wednesday evening. Articles are being produced to display at the Annual hobby show in May.

TEEN HOP: On Friday, March 11, the club will hold a Teen Hop for senior club members. At the "Hop" a final selection will be made of the group that plans to travel to Plattsburgh, N.Y. on Friday, March 18, to attend TV's Teen Time.

Seventeen couples and club officials will leave club headquarters at 3 p.m. and return the same evening at approximately 10 p.m.

Friday's Hop will be conducted as a St. Patrick's Day Dance. Program plans and decorating will be under the supervision of Margaret Hickey and her committee. Prizes will be available.

QUIZ CONTEST: Unity's Quiz Contest enters its sixth week. Questions for Quiz No. 6 can be picked up at the club on Friday. Please note that the answers to Quiz No. 1 can be found elsewhere in the Examiner.

In reply to a query regarding the eligibility of staff members entering the contest; "It has been understood from the very beginning that the families of full-time staff members would not be eligible to participate in the contest." However, families of volunteers workers are eligible. Also eligible for a special prize are citizens of Westmount in the classification of non-members.

Interest in the quiz contest is still keen. After this week, there are four more weeks to go. It is expected that at the completion of Quiz No. 8, the accumulative points of the top contestants will be posted at the club and announced in the Examiner.

Westmount Council

By Royal appointment—purveyors to the Queen

"By appointment — purveyors to Her Majesty the Queen" has come to mean the utmost to commercial firms throughout the Commonwealth, working on the assumption that suppliers to the Queen can only produce the best in products.

A letter to Westmount's mayor, J. C. Cushing, from Sir Edward Ford on behalf of the Queen is reproduced here:

"Dear Mr. Mayor:
I am writing to thank you for your letter of the 19th February to say that the Queen will be delighted to accept a supply of maple syrup each spring for the replenishment of the jug, which the City of Westmount gave to Her Majesty last June. It should be addressed to the Master of the Household, Buckingham Palace.

Yours sincerely,
(sgd.) Edward Ford"

The letter, read in council February 15, has sparked such controversy an editorial in the Sherbrooke Record suggests that if anyone is to be appointed purveyor of maple syrup, then the Eastern Townships should deserve the honor. In fact, they suggest the syrup will come from there anyway.

City Council has received several offers to supply — free, of course — the syrup. The latest addition to the list is the Canadian International Paper Company.

One person has suggested council find a maple tree in Westmount, erect a fence around it, and use it to tap the supply of syrup each spring.

In any case, the final decision will be handed down in Council at their next meeting Monday night.

As the Record puts it, "The appointment certainly must pose a problem to a city that hasn't produced a gallon of maple syrup in its whole settled history."

Is TV educational? Here are the views

By SHIRLEY FENTON

Television, long regarded as a subject for argument and dissension, appears to be the No. 1 form of entertainment in West End homes.

Criticism of the mass-circulation medium was slight and commercials, which might have been expected to produce some outcry, were not even mentioned.

It would appear that this form of advertising is being "unconsciously absorbed into the viewer's consciousness" as predicted by specialists in this field some years ago, or at least, has ceased to produce any appreciable amount of interest, vexation or otherwise in watchers.

Three questions were asked — (1) What do you think of the level of television production? — (2) What is your favorite type of program? (3) What is its effect on viewers, children and adults?

Fourteen types of programs were mentioned to those who asked for clarification on the second query.

Comments to the first question were 85% favorable, with the following adjuncts: mass circulation media must necessarily appeal to the average mind, Canadian producers may be hampered by insufficient funds and the machine can always be shut off.

Is the machine shut off? 65% "sit through it anyway," the other 35% either find something else to do or actually rise up and dispense with the entertainment. One viewer mentioned the arm-chair "on-off gadget" which enables the watcher to change programs or regulate sound by pressing a button. "It's under the chair cushion — I don't think I've ever used. I sit on it," he said.

Panel discussions and interviews took precedence in 6 out of 10 polled, with comedians and family shows in second and third place: Plays were approved by 40%; 8 out of every 10, however, stipulating that they must be "good" or that "they could be better."

Children's shows generally found favor, especially with children. It was noted that after the age of 10 years, cowboy pictures lose popularity in favor of animal and nature programs and those dealing with teen-age adventures. 50% interviewed were men, 40% women and 10% children.

Most of the adults watch the news and sports, especially the men. Men favor TV first as a form of education, then as entertainment. The ladies prefer to be entertained, Children claim to be entertained and educated at the same time, which would indicate how serious-minded children are getting these days. They like cartoons, though!

Here are some comments! Mr. P. Mora, 23 Barat road: "I like comedians. I watch, generally, very late at night — never before 10 . . . comedians and the news . . ." His opinion of television is that it is a good medium for gaining "information on Canadian life and problems and the Canadian way of living."

Mr. H. Williamson, 18 Anwoth road: "They do the best they can with what money they've got. They're just as good, if not better, than American programs. It's a tough job for the producer. They have done a lot as far as the finer arts go, in bringing them into the home. "They could do a lot more if they had more time, but then we all could, couldn't we?"

Mrs. C. Ellis, 10 Somerville avenue: "I like panels, good plays and some big musicals. TV and radio are both wonderful if you use them with your own good taste."

Mrs. Ellis added, "All the people who complain of the low level of television — what did they do before? It can provide a lot of pleasure and if it doesn't, well, they lived without it before, didn't they?"

Miss Judie Brodie and Master Jackie Brodie, 4525 Draper avenue: ". . . family shows and a bit of comedy . . . you enjoy it and you learn something," said 13-year-old Judy, adding, "you can't learn anything from all these cowboy pictures they've been showing, though."

What about Jackie, who is 10? "He likes cowboy pictures," said his sister.

Disasters

By
The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

THE loss of five firemen on active duty was a great shock to the City, and the whole City expresses its sympathy with the survivors. The firemen are covered by group insurance through the Firemen's Union, but the coverage is very inadequate in comparison with the protection a man gives to his family. There is also a pension, but again it is far from sufficient to provide for the bringing up of a family. The experience that our community went through some years ago in meeting the needs of the family of a policeman shot on his patrol, should have warned us to make better provision for such cases of tragedy.

The other disaster of this week is so immense that it leaves us almost incapable of any action. To have a city like Agadir completely wiped out with the loss of thousands of lives, and, apparently, the abandonment of the site, is simply horrifying. However, there are still survivors, and help will be sent to them by international and national agencies. It is hard to visualize the situation and to do what is best.

The two disasters bring to our consideration once more the whole question of God's Providence. Why do disasters happen? If the world is God's world; and if it is, as we know, a good world, why are such things allowed to be?

It is a very hard question to answer. Job said, "Man is born to trouble as the sparks fly upward." It would seem that hardship is a part of the make-up of the world; and trouble is part of man's lot.

I know this sounds cold and heartless. We should like to think of the world as being a cosy, comfortable place, where everything ran smoothly and no one was unhappy; but it is not so. There is sorrow and suffering, loss and hardship, and there always will be. We do our best to guard against them, and we do rightly. We do all we can to relieve the suffering when it meets us or our neighbors. But suffering will always be there in great tragic losses or in smaller personal sorrows. There are some things we can say, and each of them has value for our own lives.

The first of these comments is that in sinful and selfish world there are bound to be man-made calamities. We make disasters for ourselves through our carelessness and our deliberate wrongdoing. Most car accidents are the result of carelessness. So are most fires. Back of the loss of five firemen is a fire that could have been prevented.

The second thing to say is the world we live in is a temporary resting place on the way to a world beyond. The Christian should always think of this world as the school where he is being trained for something greater, something eternal. Sorrow and trouble as well as happiness and joy are part of that training.

The third thing is that the sorrow and trouble of our friends draw out the best that is in us, the sympathy with which we make that trouble our own.

Lastly, in our own griefs we remember that our Lord shares the griefs and sorrows with us. In the New Testament the writers give a positive value to suffering. It was through suffering that He attained to His glory. St. Paul further says that it is granted to us to fill out that which is lacking in the suffering of Christ. He takes our sufferings and adds them to His for the salvation of the world.

man J. G. Brierley said he "viewed the idea with alarm." He objected to the plan because there are very few dual memberships in the WMA. "Let's not have second class citizens in the WMA," he quipped.

In a close vote the family membership plan was defeated as not a practical means of increasing income.

Is teaching a profession? 'Not yet,' says director

Is teaching a profession? What are the distinguishing marks of a true profession?

These two questions were asked Westmount Rotary at their regular luncheon at Victoria Hall on Wednesday by J. M. Paton, executive director of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec.

The answers: "No, teaching is not yet a profession in the proper sense of that term." Distinguishing marks — "(Teachers) practise an art based upon a science or a body of knowledge and skills."

"In short," Mr. Paton said, "teachers ought to have superior intellectual ability plus knowledge and special skills acquired by study and training."

In fact, he said, only one-quarter of Canada's teachers hold a university degree or equivalent, and in Quebec it is still possible to obtain a permanent certificate after two years of teaching following a one year training course for which entrance requirements are only junior matriculation in the sense of ten papers in Grade XI.

"We (PAPT) believe the career teachers now in our schools would redouble their efforts to encourage good high school students to consider teaching as their life work . . . if the authorities would show more vision . . . than they have so far displayed by adopting an ultra-conservative, go-slow, foot-dragging policy in this vital matter of raising minimum entrance requirements," he said.

Knocking the permanency of Class III certificates, Mr. Paton singled out as, in a good many cases, holders of these diplomas, women interested in finding a husband, or putting one through medical school; married women who wish to supplement the family income; and other people attracted by the low entrance requirements and the supposedly short hours and long vacations.

"Surely it is obvious we cannot attract or hold in teaching the best of our young people unless we offer them financial inducements that are competitive with those obtainable in other professions and in some skilled technical occupations," he said.

Summarizing his opinions, Mr. Paton said teachers will not gain the recognition and influence they crave until they weed out the incompetents from their own ranks, and until:

1. The continued refusal of some school boards to reject the hired hand concept of the teacher and,
 2. Public apathy and indifference towards the entire problem is overcome.
- "I feel sure," Mr. Paton said, "this public apathy or indifference is due to lack of knowledge and not lack of sympathy."

Tickets, we get tickets

Parking inspectors in Westmount issued 736 court tickets and seven caution tickets during January, police report.

Policemen worked the opposite way — 345 caution tickets were issued for traffic infractions, and 68 summonses made as a result of these infractions, 43 speeding tickets were issued and three arrests were made.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

The fire department received 26 calls in January, only four of which were for fires. 22 calls were for miscellaneous reasons.

23 of the calls were from police or fire telephones.

The fire inspectors inspected 271 premises and 79 extinguishers from which seven cases of defective wiring were reported.

And to keep the chimney sweep followers up to date: 412 buildings were visited and 583 chimneys were swept during January.

Playing cards were the first paper money used in North America. World Book Encyclopedia says that in 1685 the French colonial governor of Canada failed to receive money from France to pay his troops. When the soldiers threatened to desert, the governor seized all playing cards and declared that they were to be honored as currency when bearing his signature.

PIMLICO TO THE PALACE: THE STORY OF TONY ARMSTRONG-JONES . . .

• Was it chance that brought Princess Margaret and Tony Armstrong-Jones together — or did some special quality of personality single him out? The century's most secret romance has suddenly become the World's Number One topic of discussion. Yet intriguing questions have been left unanswered. Today two London Express MONEWS writers who are friends of Tony Armstrong-Jones tell the story of the man they know

HE NEVER CALLED HER MA'AM . . .

THE stage door of the grand new Opera House rattled, clattered, and opened violently. The placid Viennese paused on the pavement to watch a most intriguing sight. First emerged rapidly a white-faced, slim, short young man.

There was the glimpse of the heavy-handed commissioner and then the door slammed shut.

The passers-by watched the young man with interest. He scowled, shook back the lank, fair hair from over his eyes, and pushed his way through the crowd.

They would have looked on with even more interest had they known the news. They had just seen Princess Margaret's fiancé-to-be ejected from the Opera House for the fourth time.

The glitter

Tony Armstrong-Jones was fed up with the round of country houses and society dances, with taking those pictures of carefully posed conversations between Lady Bloggs and the Master of Foxhounds.

He wanted to break into the glitter of the theatre. So he went to Vienna for the state opening of the new Opera House.

But the Austrians had never heard of him and since he had no Press pass they ejected him.

Armstrong-Jones might have been cast out, but he was not cast down. He went round the corner and with his little money he bought a great bunch of yellow roses. These he sent to the soprano Sena Jurinae, who was on the stage rehearsing her part in "Der Rosenkavalier."

When he was sure they had been delivered, he hung around until he saw some obviously important visitors arrive.

They were portly and Armstrong-Jones was small. He walked in among them.

He got as far as the wings before authority caught up with him.

Two guineas

Struggling to avoid being flung out again he shouted to the soprano, "I'm the man who sent the roses."

She heard him and understood him. He couldn't have had a better ally. She said,

"Let him stay. If he goes I go."

He got his pictures, and they even let him in the first performance the next night.

But after all that trouble no one wanted the photographs.

He eventually managed to sell them to Lord Harewood's opera magazine for two guineas.

That is the kind of man that Princess Margaret plans

by ROBERT GLENTON
and STELLA KING

to marry. He may not always have good fortune, but he has enough determination for ten.

He is a lonely soul. He has many acquaintances, but very few friends indeed.

He is single-minded to a degree. Not one of those who know him well can think of any one hobby that absorbs him save his occupation of the moment.

Sailing . . .

He will sail a boat because his bluff, easy-going father, barrister Ronald Armstrong-Jones, Q.C., is a keen sailor. But his interest is purely mechanical.

He will fish because his father is an enthusiastic angler. But no one has heard Tony Armstrong-Jones tell a fishing story afterwards.

He likes the open air—but no energetic open-air pastime.

He goes to race meetings—but soon gets bored.

Armstrong-Jones is a founder member of that peculiar upper-middle-class Chelsea set which never utters a really profound thought, whatever it thinks.

Indeed that is its sole similarity to the country house establishments which have so often been rumored to be in the process of embracing Princess Margaret as a daughter-in-law.

Armstrong-Jones has one great interest . . . the theatre. And his fascination: the big musical spectacular.

On such a joint interest did

Princess Margaret and Armstrong-Jones, the Court photographer, first join in conversation.

The rendez-vous

For two years they have known each other, but only recently, in the last six months, have they been close and secret companions.

They have been meeting in small and private rendezvous in the houses of friends in quiet London streets—in Pimlico and in his hideaway overlooking the dingy Thames near Paradise street in the East End.

It has been quite a performance.

Tony Armstrong-Jones made all the arrangements. He and his secretary would spend the afternoon tidying up the room where they were to meet and then in the evening his char would do the cooking.

The meals were nearly always the same. Smoked ham and melon to start and then something vaguely Continental.

What is more fascinating has been their attitude to each other.

Princess Margaret, as is well known, can stand very much on her dignity. She has swept out of a party because some brash guest has called her by her Christian name.

But Armstrong-Jones has never been heard to call her even by the obligatory opening salutation of "Ma'am."

When they have been deep in conversation he has often interrupted her to win his argument and she has smiled and listened.

The proposal

In the last few weeks, surprisingly enough, they have seen less of each other than once they did. Armstrong-Jones has spent much time in Ireland with his sister.

No one has any doubt at all

THE OPPOSITION: There was a party. There was a scuffle. It happened near a goldfish pond. Mr. Armstrong-Jones (top), is not in the pond yet . . . he soon will be.

that Princess Margaret, following the usual royal fashion, sent him there while she finally made up her mind.

Did she propose to him? Those close to the couple think it extremely likely that when her mind was certain she did. And thus added a most illustrious name to the Leap Year tradition.

Meanwhile Armstrong-Jones has been slowly shrinking his business, becoming more selective and more careful.

And last week he took the final steps to make sure that those few private mementoes of his past that were in the possession of other people were returned to him. He had lent his precious album for a book to be written about him. On Tuesday he telephoned asking its return.

He didn't say why. He just asked for it back.

Antony Armstrong-Jones, the uncommunicative young society photographer, was ready for the royal announcement.

ANTONY Armstrong-Jones was born in elegant Eaton-terrace, London.

Later his parents divorced and his pretty mother, who is Oliver Messel's sister, married the Earl of Rosse.

By the time Armstrong-Jones went to Eton his father had married again.

During his first week at Eton he received two letters. One from his father and the other from his mother. Both contained the usual parental advice.

They said they hoped he would be happy and work hard, and they both were sure they would be proud of him.

Unhappily for his parents' wishes a malevolent master was soon to comment in an end-of-term report . . . "Maybe he is interested in some subject . . . but it isn't a subject we teach here."

His days at Eton were not distinguished save for occasional rows — such as the time when he had measles and was discovered to be maintaining contact with the outside world by means of a bottle and string dangling from his window.

He did, however, become interested in photography.

At that time he was given a special present. His paternal grandfather was a famous physician and Visitor in Lunacy, Sir Robert Armstrong-Jones. When it was decided that young Tony was old enough to appreciate it, he received his grandfather's treasured microscope.

It was a splendid instrument gleaming with brass, but Armstrong-Jones promptly exchanged it for a camera.

He entered some pictures for the college photographic society's opinion. The criticism was not flattering. The society reported: "One feels, for example, that the picture of the rebuilding of Upper School might well have been made more exciting if there had been signs of human activity."

... UNRECORDED EPISODES IN THE LIFE OF A VERY SURPRISING YOUNG MAN

His camera brings him trouble... he rows with society

To Cambridge

From Eton, Armstrong-Jones went to Jesus College Cambridge, to study architecture.

As soon as the rowing enthusiasts saw the slight, slim Armstrong-Jones they knew he would make an ideal cox.

But they had a deal of trouble at first.

He was inclined to take his camera in the boat with him. He would spot something on the bank, focus his camera, and before the unhappy crew knew what was happening there would be a monstrous tangle of legs, arms and oars.

There were times when Armstrong-Jones was extremely unpopular with his crew before that day arrived when he coxed Cambridge to victory in the 1950 Boat-race.

Even then there was trouble.

Armstrong-Jones rammed the Oxford boat. They touched oars, and according to those rarefied folk who write on such things . . . he "had a conversation" with the Oxford Cox.

Armstrong-Jones told his friends afterwards, "All I did was to keep on my line, I told the other chap to move over. He didn't, and we touched. We swore at each other so loudly it could be heard both sides of the river."

With all his preoccupations it is small wonder he failed his exams. Undaunted he wrote and told his mother that he had decided to be a photographer.

She replied with a frantic telegram. "Do not agree suggestion changing career. Telephone this evening. Fondest love, Mummy."

But as he told her that night, photography was a career he had always wanted, but had not seriously thought about. Failing his exam had made it possible.

Tea boy

Soon after he came down from Cambridge he became apprenticed to Baron, that great friend of Prince Philip. But Armstrong-Jones was not to make his first acquaintance with royalty then.

Instead he got all the odd jobs to do. He was more or less the tea boy. That apprenticeship didn't last long.

He set up on his own. First of all he started doing portraits with his girl friends as models. He had only one room in Albany which he had borrowed and it became bedroom, sitting-room and studio.

The only window was a low one at floor level. He made quite a reputation for the strange portraits with the lighting coming from below the chin.

He also got his toe in the door of the glossy magazines where his early efforts are heavily salted with pictures of his relatives and close friends.

Business was beginning to look up for Antony Armstrong-Jones. Nevertheless, he was not without his troubles. He was commissioned by the late Helena Pickard, Sir Cedric Hardwick's first wife, to produce 300 postcard-size portraits for her friends at Christmas.

Afterwards Armstrong-Jones said sadly, "I didn't even know enough to get the cards at wholesale price."

With only a girl friend to help him he toiled all day and most of the night to get those pictures ready on time.

"I think I only charged 50 cents each," he said later, even more ruefully.

Another of his first jobs was to photograph guests at a very glittering charity affair. It was in January 1953 and called the Golden Cage Ball. Mayfair was there in force.

It was his task to photograph the guests with their heads in a golden cage. No one paid less than $1.00 for the privilege, many a great deal more.

But not one of them got a finished photograph.

Armstrong-Jones had lost the films.

"I don't know what happened to them," he said recently. "They have never turned up. It was all so embarrassing. Fortunately everyone took it very well and nobody asked for their money back."

Despite these little setbacks Armstrong-Jones was making headway. More and more he was hired to attend parties and first nights.

They were not always pleasant.

At a party given for April Brunner, the top debutante of 1954, he was involved in a playful scuffle near a goldfish pond. Armstrong-Jones, impeccable in white tie and tails, got knocked in. He emerged dripping with mud.

"Oh dear," wailed Mrs. Brunner, "I had no idea the pond was so dirty."

"Neither had I," retorted the bedraggled Mr. Armstrong-Jones as he made his watery way to the door.

Trouserless

At another party given by copper heiress Sarah Chester Beatty, two Old Eatonians debagged him. Two sat on his head. He was left trouserless and unconscious in the bushes outside the Savoy Hotel.

Later he said, "It may have been funny to some. To me it was unforgivable. It seems that it is rather infra dig to be in society and a photographer at the same time. It seems I should be a stockbroker or someone stinko with money."

But there were many good days too.

Armstrong-Jones was getting known. He helped the process by begging friends on newspapers for publicity.

Sometimes he got it. But he was invariably described as the son of the Countess of Rosse.

"Why can't they use my name without my mother's?" he grumbled.

With the money that was coming in Armstrong-Jones could afford to expand.

He found an ironmonger's shop in Pimlico-road, not far from the gloom and grime of Victoria Station.

And it is here that Princess Margaret has often made her discreet way recently.

The basement

Armstrong-Jones did most of the redecorating himself.

He slept on a bunk on top of a bookcase and had a drawing room in the basement filled with antiques from his mother's house. On the floor, he laid a fine needlework carpet she had let him have.

He set to work in his new studio and built a wood and copper spiral staircase.

Tired of the bunk, he built a bedroom in the basement. It is a gaudy room with violet patterned paper and a startling purple bed.

He hung 85 cent wallpaper in the bathroom and arranged shelves laden with pots of cream, hairbrushes and face powder for his sitters.

Armstrong-Jones' first portraits were dull and rather wooden stereotyped pictures of typical debutantes.

But soon he became more experimental. He has his Cecil Beaton period . . . all flowers and lush tapestry. His Angus McBean eraze, when he had Mary Anne Hare, daughter of Cabinet Minister John Hare, rising out of a daffodil, and Jane Sheffield, now Mrs. Jocelyn Stevens, reclining on Cellophane and yet another girl sitting on tinfoil.

His clients were not always pleased.

A Mrs. Legh wrote to him after he had taken pictures of her daughter. "I found your photographs waiting for me. I am returning them. I think they are awful."

Then he took a picture of a mayor complete with chain. The proofs rapidly came back.

The mayor was angry. He didn't look in the least dignified he complained.

Sentimental

But there were good pictures too. One was extremely sentimental. The wedding day picture of the girl he had once loved very much. Lady Barbara North, sister of the Earl of Gailford. She married Clive Bossom, MP, son of Lord Bossom.

But although business was good, expenses were heavy, and Armstrong-Jones was working in his darkroom until three or four every morning. He was exhausted.

Perhaps one of his biggest handicaps is his health.

He is not strong.

When he was little he had polio and now has to take physiotherapeutic treatment from time to time to ease his limbs.

He frequently looks tired and his eyesight is worse than he pretends. He uses glasses a great deal but scratches them off whenever he meets a stranger.

Back in those fatiguing days he decided to take a rest. With only $40 he hitch-hiked to France for three weeks. On the way back he had to travel for 20 hours on the back of a lorry laden with sulphur.

He returned to London refreshed and with a great new scheme in his head.

He was about to force his way into that select little band of royal photographers.

He knew no one to help him.

So the photographer from Pimlico-road sat down and wrote a letter to the Duke of Kent, asking very simply if he could take his picture.

As he waited for the reply he had no idea in the world that it was to lead him to Princess Margaret and a home in Buckingham Palace.

Miss Audrey Anne Wolfe weds Dr. Gerald P. Olney

The marriage took place in the Church of the Ascension of Our Lord, Westmount, of Audrey Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Frederick Wolfe, of Westmount, to Dr. Gerald P. Olney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Patrick Olney, Rt. Rev. Edward J. Lapointe officiating. White gladioli, snapdragons and pompons, arranged with greenery, and candles in candelabra were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white duchess satin, appliqued with Chantilly lace, having a round neckline appliqued with seed pearls and long sleeves, and a skirt which fell into a chapel train. Her fingertip-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, gardenias and white hyacinth bells.

Mrs. Harold Wolfe, as matron of honor for her sister-in-law, and Mrs. Brian Crowley, as attendant, wore frocks of poul de soie with bodices embroidered in seed pearls and matching bandeaux. Mrs. Wolfe who was in lavender carried a bouquet of yellow carnations and lavender sweetpeas. Mrs. Crowley wore a turquoise gown and carried yellow carnations and white sweetpeas.

Little Miss Müja Wolfe, niece of the bride, as flower girl wore a frock of ice-blue organdy, with a bandeau of the same material, and carried a nosegay of pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Donald E. Brophy was best man for Dr. Olney and the ushers were Mr. Harold Wolfe, brother of the bride, and Mr. D. O'Donnell.

Mrs. Wolfe, the bride's mother, wore a sheath gown of powder blue brocade with matching jacket with which she combined a blue straw hat trimmed with velvet flowers and corsage bouquet of tiny pink roses.

Mrs. Olney, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in Dior blue lace, with which she wore a matching straw hat and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

The reception was held in the Green Room of Victoria Hall, Westmount, where gladioli and snapdragons were used for decorations.

Later Dr. and Mrs. Olney motored to the United States, the bride travelling in a suit of caramel wool, with a Norwegian fox collar completed by moss green accessories.

Mrs. H. Meadows chairs Presbytery WA meeting

The sixth annual meeting of the Montreal Presbytery Woman's Association was held on Feb. 12 in Mount Royal United Church. Mrs. E. C. Stockwell presided at the organ and the soloist was Mrs. A. P. C. Leneveu. The president, Mrs. H. Meadows was in the chair.

The morning session consisted of various phases of church work, the findings from each conference being brought to the general meetings for discussion.

At the afternoon session the speaker was the Rev. C. R. Plaskett, minister of Calvary United Church. Mr. Plaskett likened life in the church to a triangle. One apex is the institutional aspect consisting of the actual building and the sacraments therein. These should be beautiful and one of the disciplines we should follow. The next is the teaching of the church, this involves the discipline of the intellect and a study of the ethical side. And most important of all is the mystical side. It is in worship that we strengthen the other aspects of our church work. To be a growing, vital and spiritually strong church it must be built upon faith, so that we can make our church real and our faith real.

Mr. Plaskett then inducted the new officers. The slate is president, Mrs. H. Meadows; 1st vice-president, Mrs. W. Stirling; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. B. K. Wasson; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. R. L. White; recording secretary, Mrs. P. D. Rossiter; corresponding secretary, Mrs. O. W. Mattinson; treasurer, Mrs. S. Loucke; literature secretary, Mrs. H. Hern; christian stewardship, Mrs. F. C. Martin; co-operation with christian education, Mrs. E. M. Judge; devotional, Mrs. J. Midgley; parsonage, Mrs. P. Ruta and press secretary, Miss M. W. Good.

11th Signals Ladies Auxiliary tests rifle shooting skill

By SHIRLEY FENTON

Did you ever lift nine pounds from a prone position and hold it steady for an extended period of time? The object of this exercise is to put a .22 calibre bullet into the center of a two-inch circle 25 yards away. In order to make the target visible, the top half is black, and this is what the would-be marksman sees at that distance. To make matters worse, the black half-circle appears to be wavering.

"The target keeps on moving around," you say over your shoulder. There is a polite laugh from behind and you concentrate on lifting the heavy converted .303 to a suitable firing position. Now the barrel aims at the ceiling, now to the floor. You peer along its shinning surface and lift. Is that it? No, that's a suspended load of end-to-end eight-by-eights above the row of targets. This will absorb any stray bullets. Something's wrong. You can see all the targets. Oh, you've forgotten to flick the sight up. By this time, in an effort to obtain maximum comfort in handling the gun, you have stomach-scrunched half off the pad on which you are lying. You put the gun down and scramble back. Click! A firm hand has lifted the action to put the bolt up. It's Major C. W. Spencer.

"Always release the bolt when you are not in firing position." His blue eyes are friendly, but his voice is firm. "I'll get you ladies a

FOOT TROUBLE

Bunions, corns and hammer toes are usually the result of wearing ill-fitting footwear during the growing years. The child's first footwear should be carefully chosen for correct fitting, from his first wooly booties which, if too small, could shrink in the washing and distort the child's foot. When purchasing shoes for children be sure that there is plenty of room for "growing".

sling. That's a heavy gun when you're not used to it."

The ladies referred to are members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the 11th Signals Regiment. They met at Hillside Armoury, to be initiated into the mysteries of target shooting, under the guidance of Major Spencer, a Bisley team member several times over. Both Major and Mrs. Spencer have represented Canada at the Commonwealth prize meeting, held annually in England.

"Some of the other ladies auxiliaries have formed rifle teams and we hope to have some friendly matches with them," said Mrs. E. Alsop. "It takes a year, at least, sometimes two years, before consistently good shooting can be expected." Mrs. Alsop's son Keith, a cadet, explained the target markings.

"This is the bull, and this the inner bull. The outer rings are marked from nine down to five. If you hit the nine ring and the eight, you score a 17. You get five shots on the sighting target, and two each on the other five. Only the five shooting diagrams are counted in your score." Keith remained throughout the practice, helpful and also watchful.

Petite and pretty Mrs. L. McInnis, whose husband is a crack shot, handled a rifle for the first time. Mrs. McInnis, who tips the scales at a trifling hundred pounds or so, hefted the heavy gun and took top place with a score of 88.

Crack! The pleasant, acrid smell of burnt powder fills the air. Click! You break open the action, insert another round. This is good. You remember the time when you took a bead with your wooden gun and killed off fourteen "bad guy" pals in one morning. Crack! "Now you're shooting," says Major Spencer.

Life and Lent

I searched upon the starry heights for God,
Climbing with tired feet, each cloud-wrapped peak,
My search was fruitless, — and in doubt and fear
Downward I turned, — a lowlier path to seek.

As down I stumbled, toward the valley dark,
Wearied of life, — in bitter deep despair,
Feeling my quest for Him, was at an end,
Just then, — I found the shining Presence there.

Travel agency has freighter cruise service

"I would like to take a slow boat to China," How often one hears this expression. But do you know that there is a travel agency right here in Westmount that deals in that very type of transportation?

"Freighter Cruise Service" at 1223 Greene avenue was started four years ago by Mrs. Geraldine Simpson after her first freighter trip to Egypt. It had been a dream of hers since childhood to visit Egypt, and the idea then struck here what fun it would be to go by freighter.

The big problem was to find a ship that took passengers. After making the rounds of local travel agencies with no encouragement, she finally found an Egyptian ship that took 40 passengers. With her years of experience in advertising and promotion, (you will remember her column "Gerry's Chatter Column") which appeared in this paper, she started what was the first organized freighter cruise to the Mediterranean.

Notwithstanding the fact that she was caught in the Suez trouble on an Egyptian ship, she then and there decided that when she returned she would turn her experience into starting a travel agency just for freighters.

This year she expects to take her dream trip, "Round the world cruise" by freighter — four months for $1,200.

If you wish to hear and see more about freighter travel, Mrs. Simpson will be given a lecture on freighter travel, besides showing colored slides of her Mediterranean Cruise, at the Mechanic's Institute, corner of Atwater and Tupper, March 16, at 8:15 p.m.

Education week

By FRANCES GOLTMAN

EVERY YEAR for many seasons "EDUCATION WEEK" is publicized widely to draw attention to the importance of instruction. It should serve a two-fold purpose . . . to inform the parents of the kind of education and enlighten them for their task of carrying out their duty in this most important matter. How many parents will benefit? How many parents will see that their offspring do their assignments?

BOTH SCHOLASTIC STUDIES and music learning, if taught properly will bring results. Fundamentally this is in the hands of parents because no education can be attained without work and no work is accomplished without discipline in the home.

THERE IS NEED for quality in teachers of all subjects and if the instructor has the necessary competence it is the duty of every parent to see that directions are fulfilled. How many parents see that their children practise every day? The majority expect the teacher to make the child do his work . . . the teacher is not in the home and the home is the place where educational directions must start in routine manner.

PARENTS DO THEIR DUTY a little better when it comes to school work because (1) if Johnny has a low report card he will not pass (2) it hurts the parents' ego to see other children doing better than theirs (3) their friends know if the child fails and has to repeat the year.

SINCE CHILDREN have to go to school, the parents often engage coaching teachers for the final exams (especially in high school since social activities take up so much time and many teen-agers have their own telephones). Cramming can be done only if a pupil is bright but a below average student cannot make up in a short time what he should have assimilated over a period of months.

"EDUCATION WEEK" does not accomplish its mission if the attention for early discipline and order in learning is not brought to the notice of parents. Ministers, Rabbis and educators agree that there is not enough discipline in the home, so let us hope that this year's "EDUCATION WEEK" will have an impact in the realm of those parents who are too lax with their children. The children will thank them in adult years.

THANKS TO the many who have telephoned regarding "Surprising Statistics". More of this series will appear shortly.

Model yachtsmen plan '60 program

The Montreal Model Yacht Club will hold its next meeting late in March and is extending an invitation to attend to all owners of model yachts or those contemplating building. An interesting and helpful program has been arranged.

Formed in 1932, the club has each summer carried out an active program of competitive sailing on Beaver Lake, Mount Royal Park.

Although the popular 6 Metre International Class is the yacht used in competitive sailing, anyone owning a sailing model of any size is welcome in the club.

The park authorities have made available to the club members storage facilities for their yachts in the new Chalet at the pond side. This is a great convenience, especially for those with larger yachts.

Anyone interested in model yachting should communicate with H. M. Davidson, 318 Grosvenor avenue, Westmount, H.U. 8-6884, and full details of the club's plans will be furnished.

Health program well under way

Evidence of communicable disease in Westmount for January showed nine cases as compared with 26 for the same period last year, the city Health Department disclosed in the City Manager's report.

The school health program made 233 medical examinations, and nurses made an additional 674 individual inspections.

The Child Health Centre held four doctor's and four nurse's clinics during the month with a total attendance of 40. The Centre has a total family registration of 289 plus an additional 413 children.

Two teacher-nurse conferences were held and seven classroom inspections were made. 116 minor treatments were given and 369 audiometric tests made.

Also on the health scene, the City Sanitary Inspector made 63 inspections of food establishments or restaurants, inspected 12 boarding or rooming houses, 6 barber shops, 11 massage parlors, 5 laundries, 5 public buildings and one dwelling.

Loyola hockey teams capture one college, two school championships

By RON HORE

The College pucksters won their 10th Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference championship in 11 years Friday night with a convincing 10-6 victory over Collège Militaire Royal.

Warriors struck fast in the first period on goals by Jim

Royals capture Biddy crown

Jimmy Holton's Royals won Unity's Iddy-Biddy Basketball House League title defeating Roger Harte's Lakers in an over-time final, two games to one.

The final game of the series was very close with the Royals edging out the Lakers 23-21 after five minutes overtime. Holton was the top marksman with 19 points and Gerald Grimes tallied four points.

Other members of the Royals were: Philip Lecouffe, Ronald Ryan, Frank Ansell and Nicholo Missori.

For the Lakers, Steve Alleyne was high man with nine points. Other scorers were Randolph Dash 6; Roger Harte 5, Jan Anamaet and Bradley Syvret and Derek Walklate.

O'Reilly and Luc Henrico before the Cadets answered with one of their own. The Maroon and White led after the opening set 5-2, and for the rest of the game, were never in danger of losing their comfortable lead.

O'Reilly was hero of the night with four goals. Linemates Luc Henrico, and Mike Labrosse each netted two while the remaining pair were counted by Bob Beaufgard.

This marked the sixth time in seven years that coach Bernie McCallum has led the team to victory. He took over the coaching reigns in 1953. The only year the Warriors have not won the honors, they went down to C.M.R. 1-0 in the crucial game. One goal mars a perfect record.

The Labrosse, Henrico, O'Reilly line registered 6 assists to go along with their eight goals to bring their season's point total to 153. Labrosse has the highest individual total—55.

BANTAMS TRIUMPH
The bantam hockey team

climaxed a near perfect season last week when it defeated Daniel O'Connell in a sudden death playoff game for the city championship 4-1.

Peter Quelch led the Warrior attack with two goals while the others went to Des Clark and George Lackenbauer. Dave McInich scored for the losers.

The bantams lost only one league game all season, that one coming at the hands of St. Leo's.

Top performers who led them throughout the year were Quelch, Lackenbauer, Clark, Wayne Mosdell, Dave DeBrule and Phil Daly up front, and the two Cullens, Mike and Jim, on defense.

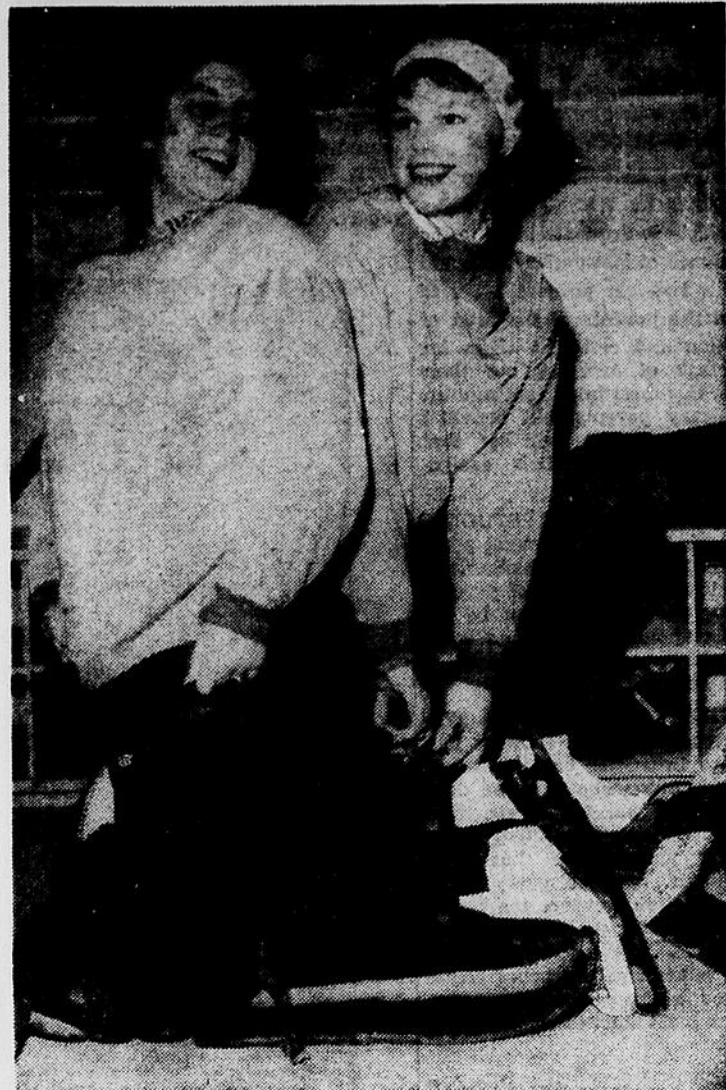

Gordie Pallett and Clark Cada split the goal-tending chores and turned in some excellent performances.

SENIOR TITLE

With these two championships, the school completed a perfect record — three teams, three winners. The seniors won their laurels two weeks ago.

The team closed off the season last week with a 9-3 triumph in a game against Westmount which amounted to nothing more than an exhibition.

However, it did help lead-leading scorer Gary Dineen add to his output. Dineen scored three times and helped on two others to boost his total to 43, 11 points more than his nearest rival, Gary Wheeler of D.O.C.

THESE TWO YOUNG ladies wasted no time in getting right into the game when the girls from St. Pauls played the Duds, and lost 2-0. Here the goaler gets a little help from one of her teammates in strapping on the pads.

S T. LEO'S SPORTS

By Peter Rassenti and Ray Maynard

St. Leo's Seniors bowed 2 to 0 to West Hill at Loyola Stadium in the closing game of the G.M.I.A.A. hockey schedule. The Saints got off on the right foot and were making an excellent job of fore checking their opponents, when they ran into a double penalties that paved the way for the winning goal.

The West Hill went two up when they stole the puck after a face-off near the losers' nets to slip it passed a surprised John Bonneau. The Red and Grey were shooting sharper and earned the win on this count.

The Academy club finished the season with a record of three wins and nine losses, not too impressive but all in all for a small school it can be safely said they gave a good account of themselves and improved over last year's performance when they were in senior 'B'. At least it can be said they did not finish in the cellar.

George Spare with five goals and six assists led the team in scoring, a department which was
