REASON PREVAILS.

Portugal Agrees to Arbitrate
the African Dispute.

LONDON POLICE AGITATING FOR A STRIKE

The Postmaster's Difficulty With the Letter Carriers.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT

Portugal Agrees to Arbitration.
LONDON, June 12.—In the House of Commons this evening Sir James Fergusson stated that Portugal had accepted in principle the arbitration of the Delagoa Bay Railroad matter proposed by England and America. Home Secretary Mathews announced that the resignation of Chief Police Commissioner Munro was due to a difference with himself on questions of legislation and administration. Mr. Balfour declined the request of Mr. Parrell that a committee be appointed to enquire into the matter of violence on the part of the police of Tipperary.

THE DISMISSAL OF CHIEF MUNRO.

Whispers of a Police Strike.
LONDON, June 12.—The war between Home Secretary Mathews and Mr.
Munro, Chief Commissioner of the Metropolitan police, having culminated in the resignation of the latter, which Mr. Mathews has accepted, Chief Wood, of the Manchester police, is again mentioned for the vacancy. At the time of the resignation of Sir Charles Warren Mr. Wood was the most prominent of the candidates mentioned for the succession, but the previous record of Mr.
Munro in the capacity of First Assistant Commissioner found for his promotion to the Chief Commissionership.
The virtual dismissal of Mr. Munro, arising from the action of the Government in the matter of police pensioning, increased pay and reduction of hours of duty, which measures were favored by Mr. Munro, will make it very difficult to avert a police strike in the event of the Government's adherence to the present policy toward the force.

DIVISIONS IN THE TORY RANKS.

Postmaster-General Raikes Censured.
LONDON, June 12.—Everything points to the certainty that the Conservative census at the Carlton Club to-day ended in a row upon the questions of procedure and the advisability of shelving one or other of the important bills now in various stages of parliamentary advancement.
Not only the cabinet, but the unofficial leaders of the Tory party as well as the contingent of the ministry in the House of Commons have for some time been divided in opinion, while the pressure of the constituencies upon their representatives also variously directed, has increased. To-day's census, it was asserted by the dictators of the ministerial policy, would restore harmony, but the bitter discussion which characterized the conference, and the failure of the meeting to reach any conclusion, denotes a widening of the breach to an extent that threatens hopeless division in the ranks of the party. It is announced tonight that another census will be convened, when a further attempt will be made to subdue the refractory element, but the determined attitude of the cabinet ministers gives very little encouragement to the majority that their efforts will be successful. In addition to the party rebellion against the headstrong policy of the ministerial leader in regard to pending bills, the Government has a very serious difficulty to confront in dealing with the defiant postal employees and all politicians agree that the case requires delicate handling. The wisdom of the action of Post Master-General Raikes of reducing the wages of 50 postmen by $5 a week and suspending 150 were for attending a meeting of the new union of post office employees is seriously questioned. A general strike is feared as the result of Mr. Raikes' arbitrary course.

Dock Laborers' Gratitude.

LONDON, June 12.—The London dock laborers in remembrance of the labors of Cardinal Manning in their behalf on the occasion of the dock strike, presented him to-day with a purse of £150 in honor of his silver jubilee. The cardinal announced his intention to devote the money to the endowment of a hospital bed for the benefit of laborers.

Stanley's Chief Surgeon.

LONDON, June 12.—The medical fraternity of London are very indignant at the government's neglect of Surgeon Park, of Stanley's expedition, who they believe should receive some substantial recognition. They are therefore urging his promotion and their petition is backed by prominent men outside the medical profession.

THAT MYSTERIOUS BALLOON.

Capt. Lindh Believes it Must Have Hailed from Newfoundland.
QUEBEC, June 12.—Capt. Lindh, of the Swedish bark Architect, is by no means sure that the car of the balloon he saw in midocean on May 24, contained living or dead people. The Captain told the World correspondent to-day that it was too dark for him to see positively whether it carried people or not. He was on deck with the entire crew at 9 o'clock at night and saw the balloon bearing rapidly down on the sea, about twenty feet above the level of the sea. It had long stout ropes hanging from the car, with grappling irons attached. The balloon appeared to be forty feet in circumference, with two red stripes around it. It was inflated with gas and all the gear seemed to be in working order. Believing that people were in the balloon, the captain intended to capture it, but, hearing no cries for help, and as a stiff south-west wind was blowing, it was decided not to run the risk. For two or three minutes it looked as though the grappling irons would catch the spars of the vessel, but when within a hundred yards or so the balloon was caught in a terrible air current, and soon wafted out of sight. Capt. Lindh believes the balloon was blown off the coast of Newfoundland.

ANCIENT ORDER OF FORESTERS.

High Court Session in Kingston.
KINGSTON, Ont., June 12.—Delegates to the Canadian Order of Foresters are greatly enjoying their visit to this historical place. Every available moment is being spent in visiting the many notable institutions of military and governmental character.

At the high court session to-day it was decided that a high court should be created for Manitoba, the North-West and British Columbia; the executive committee was instructed to prepare a constitution and submit the same to the next annual meeting, when, if approved, a high court will be created.
Afterwards a motion to increase the age limit from 45 to 60 years was voted down without much discussion. It was decided to elect a member of the executive committee in place of two as a present. The afternoon was occupied in considering various amendments to the constitution. A resolution was passed allowing members joining after the fifteenth of each month to pay their proportion of the monthly fees instead of for the whole month. It was decided to hold the next meeting in Toronto. A constitution for the government of juvenile courts was adopted.
The work of instituting the courts will be at once proceeded with. At the evening session a resolution was unanimously adopted expressing thanks to Court Stanley and Mayor Drennan for their hospitality and kindness. It was decided to grant an extra insurance of $1,000 to those desiring it. The election of officers is now proceeding.

A CRAZY REPORTER.

Makes an assignment with death.
NEW YORK, June 12.—A young man in full evening dress entered the drug store at No. 1218 Broadway last evening, and handed J. W. Ferrie, the clerk, a card bearing the words "Louis J. Beattie, New York Herald." He wanted information regarding the amount of landman required to bring about death. The clerk told him that if he were to take half an ounce he would not live many hours.
Beattie wanted to see what such a dose looked like. Ferrie poured a quantity of the stuff down his throat. He refused an antidote, and attempted to walk out of the store. Then Ferrie called a policeman and explained what had happened. The officer summoned an ambulance, and Beattie was taken to the New York Hospital.
For some time Beattie has been a regular attendant at the Eden Musee, a d has been paying great and unwelcome attention to Omene, the Circassian girl who has been assisting Yank Hoe, the juggler. Manager Jurgens said last night that Beattie always occupied a front seat, and his applause of Omene was so wild as to disturb the audience and performers, and he was requested on several occasions to leave the place. George Dalton, press agent of the Musee, said that Beattie attempted to force his way into Omene's dressing-room Tuesday evening and was ejected from the building. The physicians at the hospital used the stomach-pump vigorously upon Beattie.
His condition is considered critical.

A Defaulting Cashier.

ALBANY, N.Y., June 12.—A new a damaging development affecting the 'grity of an old and supposed faithful employee of one of the banks of the city is in circulation. The story of crookedness of the Albany City National Bank led to careful searching examination of the books, where some suspicious entries had been made. It is said that one of the banks of the city had been discovered to be short $1,000 strong effort is made to withhold the name of the cashier. The cashier is the shape that another clerk in the National Bank was discovered to have been in collusion with Whitney. bank official denied the rumor in most emphatic terms. The cashier is well known and has been his respected. Both his name and the name of the bank will be withheld for the present.

STRIKERS DEFEATED.

After Six Weeks' Suffering.
HAMILTON, Ont., June 12.—The weavers in the Ontario Cotton Mills, who have been on strike since April 25th against a reduced scale of wages, amounting to about 10 per cent., returned to work this morning, accepting the reduction. One hundred and thirty weavers went on strike, but one-third of these have gone to the United States, and many of those who remained were beginning to feel the worst results of strike, and were glad to return at the reduced scale. The mill has been running for ten days past, many of the weavers, places being supplied by inexperienced hands.

cialists have called a congress to meet stown disaster. Mr. Tarbell brought suit against the Penna Company for $50,000, claiming that the loss was due to negligence in not having the train run to a place of safety.

Newfoundlanders Address to Her Majesty the Queen

G. M. MIGRATION.

NEWFOUNDLAND FISHERY.

Prorogation of the House of Assembly and Address to the Queen.

(SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.)

ST. JOHN'S, N.W.F., 12.—The House of Assembly was prorogued yesterday afternoon with all the impressive ceremonies attending the prorogation of the lower House of Parliament. It was a sort of London done in miniature and Governor O'Brien, in a formal speech of dismissal, thanked the delegates and alluded to questions of peculiar delicacy and matters of vast interest to the colony's future which came before them, but made no direct allusion to the fisheries troubles. One of the last acts of the House of Assembly was to agree upon the address to the queen on the French fishery remonstrance. This is a very strong remonstrance with the Imperial Government against the French encroachment on the French coast. It makes an emphatic protest against the French being permitted to fish for lobsters on the ground that this was not contemplated in the treaty, and does a great injury to the colony's interest, because they are not permitted to erect more lobster factories under the modus vivendi.
The modus vivendi is criticized altogether.
The point insisted on is the colony's right to legislate for the French shore, which the French deny. Great indignation is expressed because Great Britain's right of sovereignty of the soil is virtually conceded to the French. Attention is called to the treaties as merely giving the French concurrent rights to fish with British subjects, not an exclusive right, and the use of the strand during the fishing season, but only for the purpose of drying their fish. Codfish only was contemplated at the time of the treaty, not lobsters. The address shows how the treaty operates to prevent the settlement of the valuable country adjacent to the French shore and claims that the French assumption of right to prevent access to develop the interior of the country is entirely unwarranted. The French have no right to prevent the erection of permanent structures on the shore, except fish houses, under the treaty. The French have committed repeated violations of the treaty in permitting the Island of St.
Pierre to become a nest of smugglers.
The next mail to England will take the address to the Queen.

Sir William Whiteway, the premier, when asked his opinion as to the effect the address would have on the Imperial Government, shrugged his shoulders and said: "It is impossible to say. We have been appealing for years to the home country for a remedy without much effect, but the present remonstrance is very strong, and might convince the colonial office that affairs are rapidly growing unbearable. It is admitted that the Bait Act this season is a failure, so far as being a retaliation on the French is concerned, because the act is not enforced. It is very difficult to prevent the smuggling of bait across the St. Pierre from Placentia Bay, only about 15 miles distant, but Sir William Whiteway said that if the bait law could be enforced by a patrol of fast cruisers, it might do a great deal to induce the French to sell out their rights. Arbitration is the only remedy short of war, which is not at all likely. The difficulty is to get France to consent to the arbitration.

MANITOBA AND NORTHWEST.

IMMIGRANTS FROM DAKOTA.

WINNIPEG, June 12.—The influx from Dakota still continues, and daily there are parties arriving to find homes for themselves in the Canadian North West.
Mr. Cooper, Collector of Customs at Kit-lamey, reports that prospects are bright for even a greater influx in the fall. He also says he has heard nothing lately of opium smuggling to the United States, through Canadian Territory. Wheat is quoted twenty cents higher in Manitoba than in corresponding Dakota points.

DAIRY PRODUCE FOR THE WEEK.

The first C.P.R. refrigerator car of the season containing Manitoba dairy produce, left this morning for Vancouver.
Shipments will be picked up en route at the various stations. The train will be continued every Thursday during the summer. The railway officials report that shipments of Manitoba's produce to the coast is steadily increasing.

struct their road to Winnipeg on charter granted them at last session of Manitoba legislation.

sement Convention opened here today at Association Hall. Among prominent advocates of the movement in attendance at convention are Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw, Boston; Mrs. McLaren Brown, ball, M.D., Chicago. Dr. Emily Stowe, Toronto, president, occupied the chair.

Reports were presented at this morning's session showing fair progress in the cause the ladies had at heart. The financial report showed expenses of $382.23, which was fully met by annual subscriptions, etc. Mrs. R. McDonald delivered an address of welcome to the delegates. Dr. O'Connor was to have responded, but he being absent Mrs.
O'Connor did so. Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw then spoke. A number of prayers were read during the afternoon. Mrs. Curzon gave a history of the movement in Canada. The president delivered the and considerably discussed.

communion which may be obtained by all parishes. Notice was given also of a resolution providing for the election at their annual vestry meetings of a parochial council and that no change in services be made that are not agreeable to the council and eminent bishop.

JUDGMENT FOR THE CITY.

Argument in the case of city and the Street Railway Company was concluded this morning at Ogilvie Hall before Chancellor Boyd. He decided in favor of the city and the appointment of arbiters to determine the value of the street railway property, the city's rights, &c., and announced he would proceed to appoint the same. He suggested that each side should appoint one, and those two a third, he to appoint the third in case the two first appointed failed in doing so.

ONTARIO MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

At today's session of the Ontario Medical Association, the place of next meeting was chosen. During the afternoon session, a letter of greeting was received from the Women's Enfranchisement Association, now in session in Toronto.
Dr. J. P. Brown moved sympathetic and congratulatory resolutions to be sent to association and Moorehouse, seconded.
Richardson, Toronto, strongly protested against terms of proposed reply, on ground that Medical associations should not express sympathy with associations whose objects they were not sure of. A brief but warm discussion followed, and a compromise effected by reply being sent association thanking the ladies for their kind greeting.

FROM THE DOMINION CAPITAL.

SEIZURE OF A SCHOONER.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 12.—Mr. Ward, M.
P., Port Hope, is here interviewing the government regarding the seizure of the schooner Collier, which was fined $300 for not reporting to the customs author-will submit extenuating circumstances.

ARTESIAN WELL AT DELORAIN.

Hon. Edgar Dewdney, Minister of the Interior, is contemplating a visit to Deloraine to watch the success of the artesian well boring now being tried there. Dr. Selwyn, who has examined the district, states that he thinks it will be as successful as the trial sinkings in Dakota, where they large volumes of good water have been struck.

Lordships sat to deliver judgments.
The following appeals were dismissed:—

vs. Farwell; and Ontario Car and Foundry Co., vs. Farwell; Hielop vs.
McGillivray; Grant vs. British Canada Lumber and Timber Co.; Titus vs. Colville; Clarkson vs. Ryan. In one case, Ferguson vs. Troop, the appeal was allowed. In the appeal of the Phoenix Insurance vs. McChes, their Lordships read individual judgments, but the decision of the Court was withheld for a further judgment. The Judges present were:—The Chief Justice, and Justices Gwynne, Fortier, Strong and Paterson.

CROPS IN MANITOBA.

The department of Indian affairs is receiving private official information from Manitoba and the Northwest territories which contain most favorable prognos-tics for the harvest. These all agree in stating that there has been plenty of rain, that crops are doing magnificently and frosts are not hurting.
In fact from all reports the harvest will be one of the finest in the annals of this district.

A COLONY OF GERMANS.

It is learned in the Department of the Interior this morning that recently a delegation of Germans, representing about one hundred families who have settled in the Blizard region of Dakota territory, made a trip through Manitoba.
They are now at Winnipeg arranging for the removal of their whole settlement into Canada. Part will settle near Winnipeg, the remaining few going to the German settlement at Regina.

and made no effort to evade it. It is thought that he was insane.

A Struggle for Extradition

LONDON, Ont., June 12.—J. W. Parker of Burlington, Kansas, who had been committed for extradition on a charge of forgery, was released from jail to-day by order of Justice Rose. He was taken to St. Thomas, where the extradition proceedings will be begun over again. It was a failure on the part of the prosecution to produce the original note forged that caused the first proceedings to miss fire.

curities, etc. The total amount of claims proven before the referee was $6,824,874.
Ninety-eight per cent. of these agreed to

FIRE IN THE ASTOR HOUSE.

Fortunate Escape of a New York Hotel.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Fire at 6 o'clock this morning gutted the building, No. 123 Vesey Street, occupied by L. Benjamin as a dry and chemists supply store. The building is separated only by a narrow alley from the rear of the Astor House.
The fire was so fierce, that all efforts to prevent its spread to the hotel were fruitless, and shortly after 7 o'clock the upper story of the hotel began to burn. The fire in the Astor House was extinguished after it had done $10,000 worth of damage. A good deal of damage was done by water. There was no panic.

to-day gives the property to Estelle Prats Bowman, the third wife daughter of a prominent New York and Brooklyn merchant.

PHENOMENAL LAND SALES.

Nearly Half a Million Realized from the Sale of Lots in Kimball.

KIMBALL, Tenn., June 12.—The public sale of city lots was resumed and concluded here to-day. Trains from Chattanooga and Nashville brought a great number of people by noon, when the sale began. At 5 o'clock, when the public sale closed, 233 lots had been disposed of for the aggregate sum of $265,000. The announcement was then made by Col. Root's, the President of the company, that no lots would be sold at private sale, except to actual builders, and that the next public sale would take place the last week of October. The officers of the company naturally feel elated over the results of two days' sales, aggregating about $345,000, and pronounce it the most remarkable of the kind ever made in the South.

SHOULD THE GRAND JURY BE ABOLISHED?

The question of dispensing with the services of the Grand Jury in connection with the administration of justice in criminal cases, has been mooted from time to time within the past few years, but agitation of the subject has not as yet taken definite form. Mr. Cloran devotes some space to discussion of this question in his report on the jury system, and notes the different plane occupied by the grand jury in the United States and in Canada. The original purpose of the grand jury was the initiation of criminal prosecutions, and in the United States this purpose is adhered to. Then the Grand Jury sets the machinery of law in motion. It takes cognizance of all criminal acts and indictors for the same even where no magistrate has intervened with a committal. In Canada this purpose of the Grand Jury has been abandoned in practice, though not dispensed with by law. Here the machinery of law is set in motion by the magistrate who issues the warrant and conducts the preliminary examination. If he commits the party for trial, then the Grand Jury comes into play. They hear afresh the evidence taken at the preliminary examination and decide whether or not the party shall be placed on trial. That is, practically the grand jury simply repeats the procedure taken before the magistrate. This looks very much like a fifth-wheel-to-the-coach arrangement. But it has sometimes happened in all the Provinces, that the grand jury undertook to usurp the functions of the petit jury, and instead of deciding whether there was sufficient evidence to place an offender on trial, undertook to try and acquit him by finding "no bill," and in consequence frequent and regrettable miscarriages of justice have taken place. It is also quite possible that injustice may have been done by the grand jury straining their functions in the opposite direction.

As to abolishing the grand jury, or dispensing with its services in the administration of criminal justice, Mr. Cloran expresses no opinion and makes no recommendation; he merely presents the views expressed by prominent judges and lawyers for and against its maintenance. The strongest points against retaining the services of the grand jury in connection with criminal trials is that expressed by Hon. Charles Drury of Ontario, to the effect that with our system of preliminary investigation by magistrates, it is not necessary to go through the same performance before a grand jury. This point is emphasized by the opinion of Mr. McLaren, Q. C., of Toronto, who regarded it as ridiculous to have decisions of magistrates reviewed by a grand jury—for that is practically the work it does. If the administration of criminal law could be so modified that a magistrate's committal made in a correct legal form should constitute the indictment which would place the party on trial before the petit jury, there does not seem to be any reason why the services of the grand jury should not be dispensed with in criminal cases. More care, of course, would have to be attached to proceedings at preliminary investigations, particularly in the matter of taking evidence. It would probably be necessary to have all such investigations conducted under the supervision of the Attorney General or his accredited representative; and it might be necessary to provide that they should be held before magistrates of discretion and experience, specially empowered to hold such examinations. If under such circumstances the services of the grand jury in criminal cases could be dispensed with, why should the services of that institution not be dispensed with for all other purposes?

This is one way of looking at the question; but it must not be supposed that the case is all one-sided. Mr. Cloran quotes the opinions of many who favor the retention of the grand jury on general grounds, and who hold that its abolition would be an experiment attended with great risks. Bearing this in mind it will be seen that the question is one on which at present it would not be wise to express very dogmatic opinions. It is, however, a legitimate subject for discussion and one which should be ventilated by the press, by the public and in the Legislature.

THE BASEBALL TEAM.

It is understood that the baseball team from Buffalo, known for a week or so as the Montreal team, have transferred their services to Grand Rapids, Michigan, in sufficient encouragement having been given to the proposition that Montreal should have a professional team. We are glad to hear it. Montreal, with its

M.A.A.A. and independent clubs, is well organized for all legitimate athletic sport; it does not require, and we trust, will not desire to add the element of professional athletes. When the young men of a city cannot supply all the muscle, skill, etc., that is required for their own amusement in this direction they had better turn their direction to other things. Purchased athleticism is not worth the money, and in our opinion is a direct evil. It discourages that which should be encouraged, and fosters that which is the degradation of sport. We do not desire to impute anything that is unworthy to the team which has made so short a stay in Montreal. We know nothing, nor have we heard anything, to their discredit; our remarks are based on general principles.

As to base-ball as a game, there are two very contrary opinions. Some people hold that it is preferable to cricket or lacrosse, and this would be found to be the popular opinion in the United States and perhaps in some parts of Western Canada. In the Dominion generally, lacrosse is by far the more popular game, and certainly, in Montreal at least, is not likely to give place to the other. Still, though quite unworthy to enter into comparison with cricket, it is a very good game. Its chief defect is that the batter, who should be an important factor is practically no one. The batting is simply a wild swipe with a round stick, and an utter uncertainty of hitting the ball at all, with an absolute uncertainty of the direction it will take if by accident it should be hit. The combination of "Strikes," "Balls," "Fouls" and "Errors" makes it difficult for many spectators, especially ladies, to understand the merits of a game as it progresses, and so the interest in it flags. These intricacies are of course easily mastered, particularly by men who understand other games, but as a matter of fact they are there and are not always mastered. The skill and science of batting at cricket inevitably occurs to the spectator as he watches the random and furious attempts of a batter at baseball, and the general activity of lacrosse is missed by those who view these games with superficial knowledge. Baseball has been a craze in the United States for some years, but there are evidences of its declining popularity, and we believe that not the least potent agent of decay is the extent to which professionalism has taken possession of the game.

FATAL TO MACDONALDISM.

GAZETTE.—With direct taxation in the provinces we would have very little Mercierism.

And a very short stay of Macdonaldism. If there were direct taxation in the provinces there would be direct taxation in the Dominion. Sir John would not then boast of being able to bribe the people with their own money. He would not then be able to squander $2,000,000 on an admittedly unnecessary road in order to secure seats in Parliament for the two Tupper, McLean and McDougall. He would not then be able to present the Chignecto ship railway with $320,000 for twenty years; merely because Sir Charles Tupper for some reason or another wanted it done. He would not then be able to spend $1,500,000 of the public money to steel rail a private railway, in order that one of his own colleagues, who owned it, should be able to force it upon another company at an enhanced price. He would not then be able to allow enormous sums for "extras" to contractors on the implied condition that they handed over to himself and his friends such sums as they might call for. With direct taxation, as the Gazette suggests, there would be no Macdonaldism, the regime of robbery and corruption would be destroyed. And if respectable conservatives, themselves honest and upright men, would recognize that they are directly responsible for that sink of iniquity at Ottawa, some amelioration of the country's condition might be effected. To the attention of these gentlemen we would call the following remarks of the Montreal Gazette. It is not often that we can agree with that journal, but the following has our cordial endorsement. We should say in explanation that we have changed a name and territorial division ("Macdonald" and Dominion for Mercier and "Province"), but that in no wise touches the lesson the Gazette teaches. It says:—"The character of an administration is of very real importance to the people, not only as affecting the country's reputation abroad, but, ultimately, as affecting every interest in every county, township and parish. The two questions are inseparable, though short-sighted persons, blinded by the glitter of Government money (which is their own), may fail to recognize the fact. It will require years to free this country from the discredit and consequent disadvantages that the extravagances, corruptions and wholesale scandals the Macdonald regime have brought upon the Dominion." Comment upon the above would merely be to paint the lily. We may only repeat two remarks concerning Canada which we read in London newspapers. "The Government of Canada," said a gentleman at a public meeting in London, "is too venal an institution to be worthy of serious consideration." The other newspaper, speaking editorially of our Government, described it as "the gang" that had worked the Dominion of Canada quite long enough. So true. And the journal in question knew very little of the extent to which Canada has been worked by the gang. Every now and again a Rykert's working of it, or a Robillard's, or a Burns', or some dicker between a contractor and one of Sir John's Government crops out of the undiscovered mass, but, as Sir Richard Cartwright said, these are only peaks in an undiscovered but not undeveloped mountain range of corruption, or, as Rykert put it: there are dozens of men sitting in the House of Commons voting money into their own pockets. Yes, we have a truly discreditable Government and we are, as the Gazette shows, thereby not unjustly discredited in the eyes of the civilized world.

COTTON AND SUGAR.

There is a considerable amount of protectionist "combine" in the air. Representatives of Canadian cotton mills are in town, and it is understood the gathering is convened to hear the report of Mr. Gault's mission to England in connection with the proposed consolidation of the cotton mills of Canada under one general management, with a capital of $10,000,000. What the outcome will be is, of course, uncertain, as the representatives of the mills are not at present disposed to give definite information.

There is another huge combination in process of incubation connected with the sugar refineries. Representatives of an English syndicate are negotiating for the purchase or control of the sugar refineries of the Maritime Provinces. The negotiations, it is said, have made considerable progress, and although Montreal sugar refineries have not been specifically mentioned in connection with the scheme, there is a shrewd suspicion abroad that if the Halifax and Moncton refineries are secured, the others will fall in the line. As in the case of the cotton mills, the main objects of the proposed consolidation are to cheapen management, restrict production and maintain prices, which can only be secured by running on reduced time, or closing down some of the refineries from time to time, or perhaps closing down some of them for lengthened periods. These movements among the papered industries must necessarily possess considerable interest for the people who bear the burdens of protectionist taxation.

It is the Gazette which reminds Liberals that "Mr. Mowat's government is a very different looking beast from that appertaining to Sir John Macdonald." Yes; "Mr. Mowat's gerrymander" was an honest re-distribution of the constituencies, designed to equalize as nearly as possible their voting power without arbitrarily interfering with natural and geographical divisions. Sir John's re-distribution was purely and simply a "gerrymander," which did not equalize the voting population of the constituencies, which arbitrarily disregarded municipal, natural and geographical divisions, which "hived the Grits" in some constituencies and weakened them in others. The Gazette is not far astray in tacitly admitting that it is a "beastly" arrangement. The wonder is that, claiming to be a respectable journal, it should venture to defend Sir John's infamous gerrymander.

The Ottawa Citizen admits that the Mercier Government is likely to come out of the present contest successfully.

If there was no other reason for electing Mr. Beland for St. Mary's division the fact that Mr. Jeannotte is his opponent should be enough. Mr. Jeannotte says he was brought up as a blacksmith and only relinquished that trade because of an accident which compelled him to go to college and study the law. The law has our sincere condolences, and the owners of horses in Mr. Jeannotte's native place have our congratulations.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

BAD INDEED. The situation must be getting pretty bad when the ultra-Tory Senator McCallum describes the Federal Government's policy as "a huge system of bribery."—Ottawa Free Press.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

If fresh proof were required of the fact that ecclesiastical ascendancy does not always contribute to the greater purity of politics, it could be found in the campaign now going on in Quebec. The Opposition have no difficulty in showing that contractors have been systematically black-bagged by friends of the Government, that "budding" has been elevated to the rank of a fine art in almost every department of the public service, and that the province is to all intents and purposes bankrupt beyond redemption. Per contra, the Government is in a position to retort that if the treasury is empty and the people saddled with a debt of thirty millions, the Opposition is primarily responsible, because when it was in office it rushed into all sorts of undertakings apparently with no other object than to enable its friends to grow rich at the public expense. Amidst these truthful charges and counter-charges, each side finds breath to protest before heaven that it is ready to do the will of the Church. An impoverished and demoralized country with a rich and domineering ecclesiasticalism have often been seen before, coupled to each other in the relation of cause and effect; but the phenomenon was perhaps never more strikingly presented than it is in Quebec to-day.—Toronto Mail.

PLEASANT COMPANIONS.

Herded like cattle in foul dens, and with habits more filthy than their surroundings, the South African savages live out their sum of weary years. It is among beings of this class, but little removed in their ways of life above the beasts of the field, that the missionary casts his lot, and tries with unflinching zeal to win them to better ways. The heathen native in his lair, for it cannot be called a home, is an unclean thief steeped to the lips in the vilest superstition, and when such is the raw material which the missionary has to mould into Christian habits and Christian ways of thinking, it surely is worse than foolish to expect, as too many now-a-days do, large and assured results after a few months work.—Cape Times.

CONSERVATIVE DEFEAT ADMITTED.

The fact is, every indication points to a sweeping majority for Mr. Mercier. There are seventy-three constituencies in the province now. Fifteen are decided. Twelve of them for Mercier. Of the remaining fifty-eight about thirty were held by Mr. Mercier's supporters in the last Legislature, to twenty by the Conservatives, while there are eight new constituencies. The state of the elections by acclamation goes to show that Mercier has gained, not lost, strength in the province. He is more likely to win seats in next Tuesday's contest than to lose them. This may not be palatable to all of us, but it is as well to face the truth.—Ottawa Journal (Ind. Con.)

SQUITS.

Frenzied citizen (to census enumerator)—I hope, sir, you have completed your inquisitorial list of questions?
Enumerator—There's but one more, Citizen—Out with it.
Enumerator—Where did you get that hat?
Mistress (to servant who is about to throw away an old lamp)—What is the matter with that lamp, Bridget? Does it smoke?
Bridget—I don't know nothin' 'bout whether it smokes or drinks; but it goes out noight, moun'!

Proprietor—I want you to run the business for a time, while I take your place and tend bar.
Bartender—Why do you want to change places with me?
Because I want to get a little of the money that is made by this concern.

Ferguson—Why did Richard III. offer to give his kingdom for a horse?
McCusker—I don't know, unless he had once paid cash hire in New York and thought it would be cheaper to own a horse, no matter what he paid for it.

At an Eating House—Waiter, do you keep any cats in this establishment?
Yes, sir; we've got too splendid ones. Be good enough to bring them here; I am so fond of cats!
Waiter exits and returns presently with a couple of fine fat pussies in his arms.
So, put them down there; and now go and order me a dinner of roast hare!

Kentucky Colonel—I've been from one end of this town to the other and I can't find a single barroom.
Towhee—Or course you can't. This is a prohibition town.

Kentucky Colonel—Well, I never heard of prohibition before, but I can tell you it will never be a successful man can get a drink when he's just dying for it.

Stranger—Say, have you any perjurers locked up here?
Prison Warden—Why, yes, of course, but—Stranger—Any regular Judas Iscariots, weather prophets, or—Prison Warden—Yes, we have some pretty hard character men who would rather lie than eat, but—

Stranger—Got a man who would just as lief swear that Peredict Arnold was the first President of the country, or that—Warden—Yes, but what on earth—
Stranger—I should like to talk with the worst liar you have, if you please.
What for? Who are you?
Stranger—The proprietor of a summer hotel, and want him to write the prospectus for it.

The Natural History Society's Hall held a very large audience last evening on the occasion of the pianoforte recital by the pupils of Mr. Septimus Fraser, assisted by Miss Mary Malby and Messrs. Hutchins, tenor, Baker, flutist, and Campbell, accompanist. The programme was a very long one, but it was composed of such choice numbers that the audience were well satisfied with the last hardly seemed reached. The pupils, young ladies and gentlemen, without an exception, performed their parts with that ease and decision which has always characterized the efforts of the young people who have received the tuition of Mr. Fraser. Were they criticised as many performers are even then there would be but little fault to be found with them. The duets were probably the most pleasing; but the difficult technique required in order to make the solos successful was shown in more than one of the pupils. The lady and gentlemen who assisted were well chosen and equally numbers were rendered. Mr. Fraser has every reason to be pleased with the success of the evening.

THE MARCO AND RETO COMPANY.
The programme at the Royal is being gradually changed this week so that those who make a second visit may enjoy something new.

STRUCK GAS.
The company who are to present Mr. Tarmehill's comedy next week are well spoken of by the press of the city which they have recently visited. The play itself is well known here and if the company are equal to its merits a very humorous performance will be seen.

THE PROTESTANT INSANE ASYLUM.
What the Grand Jury Learned by their Visit Yesterday.

The grand jury, continuing their visits to public institutions, went out to the Protestant Hospital for the insane yesterday. They left the Court House about eleven o'clock in carriages, in charge of the Deputy Sheriff. Within an hour's pleasant drive they found themselves entering the gateway leading to the new and extensive hospital for the insane. They met with a cordial reception at the hands of Messrs. Alfred Perry, Chas. Alexander, Wm. Kennedy, Dr. Burgess, and others. As this was the first official visit of the jury a good deal of interest was centred in it. The jury were shown over every room in the vast building and they carefully examined it in detail. Particular attention was paid to the protection of inmates in case of fire. Mr. Perry showed the visitors that he could flood any floor in either wing of the building with six or seven inches of water in as many minutes. The jurors found that the executive were furnishing the building from top to bottom in a thorough manner. They also assured the jurors that in a few weeks they would be in a position to receive patients. After spending about two hours in the hospital the jurors left thoroughly satisfied with the equipment and protection of their less fortunate brethren and sisters. The city was reached about three o'clock.

HOMEWARD BOUND.
The Royal Party Sail from Quebec.

In spite of the cold northeast winds large crowds of people had gathered on and about the Allan Line wharves to witness the departure of the royal visitors yesterday. The "B" Battery band took position early on the wharf, also a squad of police fifty strong under the command of Chief Vohl. At 9.15 His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Angers arrived and was received with military honors. Shortly after brilliant equipages with cavalry escorts emerged in Champlain street. First came the vice-regal carriages with the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and His Excellency Lord Stanley and Lady Stanley. The second carriage was occupied by Hon. Edward Stanley, Major-General Sir John Neil, Capt. Colville, A.D.C., and Sir John Ross. As the party drew in sight of the scene of the last disaster, where, on the 19th of September last, fifty persons lost their lives in an avalanche of rock from the cliff's side, the carriages slowed up and the distinguished visitors viewed the place where are still hundreds of thousands of tons of rocks lying at the foot of the cliff; afterwards the ruins were examined. His Royal Highness seemed grieved at the horrible details given him by His Excellency Lord Stanley. At 9.30 a.m. the royal party drove up to the ship's wharf and Mr. Wm. Rae guided the party to the steamer. Standing at the foot of the gangway the worthy commander of the Sardinian, Capt. Richardson, surrounded by his crew, received the Duke and Duchess, who shook hands with him.

Lord and Lady Stanley accompanied the Duke and Duchess to their quarters; after some time the party re-appeared on deck and the crowd on and about the wharf cheered them. At 9.40 Lord and Lady Stanley bade adieu to the Duke and Duchess, the gangway was hauled ashore and the shrill whistle of the boatswain mate mustered the men to the fore and aft moorings, the stout hawsers were hauled ashore, and slowly the Sardinian steamed off. At this moment the brass bands were deafening. Major Wilson had his men ranged on the edge of the wharf, and as the Sardinian began moving the men presented arms while the band played the national anthem, then Home Sweet Home. Lord and Lady Stanley stood on the wharf waving good bye, the Duke and Duchess answered by kissing their hands to them. The S. S. Sardinian looked like a royal yacht. Her yellow decks, the clear polished brass work, the freshly varnished houses, the enormous quantity of hunting displayed from her bowsprit over her masts and down the taffrail made her look like a fairy thing. As the Sardinian passed in front of the terrace a detachment of artillery under Lieut. Oscar Pelletier, fired a royal salute. Presently as the vessel changed her course rounding Orleans Island, several rockets flew heavenward and exploding fell downward in a luminous column. It was the last manifestation that came from our royal visitors. Mr. Charles Vezina of St. Michel, the pilot, has been upwards of twenty years in the service of the company; every inch of the River St. Lawrence is known to him.

Fulton's Lectures.
The Rev. Justin D. Fulton, D.D., of New York, lectured last evening in Queen's Hall, taking for his subject "Numerical, Frisians or worse." The lecture was of a similar nature to that delivered on Wednesday evening and was listened to with evident interest. To-night he lectures on "Washington and Ottawa in the lap of Rome." On Sunday special meetings are to be held at 11 a.m., 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. The evening subject will be "Christian and Romish possession compared."

Stole Wagon and Trunk
Chief Detective Cullen last evening, after considerable difficulty, succeeded in arresting a man who gave his name as Thos. Corvieu, on a charge of stealing a wagon belonging to Messrs Sharpe and Curtin. It contained two trunks belonging to a Chicago young lady who was leaving for home. The party was traced to the Back River, after which for a time he was lost sight of. The Chief Detective, however, was not to be outwitted and following up the clue arrested, the man who finally admitted that he had left the trunks at Riviere des Prairies with instructions that no one should get them but himself. The trunks were restored to the owner's father, who will leave for Chicago this evening while the prisoner will be brought up in court.

Accompanion in Poverty.
A waif of a boy was eating a stale half loaf on the street yesterday with the air of a starveling, says the Detroit Free Press, when a stray dog came along and crouched at his feet. The hungry look remained in the boy's eyes, but he glanced down at the vagabond dog and said in a friendly way:

"Got you want? This ain't no bone. Git!"

The dog moved off a little and again it crouched and looked wistfully at the food.

"Say, do you want this wuss nor I do?" asked the waif. "Speak, c'ant yer?"

The dog gave a quick bark and the boy threw him the rest of the loaf.

"Nuff ced," he remarked as he watched him eat ravenously: "I ain't the feller to see a pard in trouble."

And the boy went off one way and the dog he had befriended another, both the better for the encounter.

As there are only a few more claims to be heard on the Notre Dame street widening, the Commissioners expect to get through to-day. It will likely take about a fortnight for them to prepare their report, which will remain in the City Clerk's office for ten days prior to being presented to court. It is expected that the work of demolishing will be commenced about the first week in August.

Mr. Louis Mayer, agent for Knowles & Co., who had Mr. J. A. Rafter arrested on a cognus some time ago, is now testing the statement of creditors. He asks that Mr. Rafter be sent to jail for fraudulent abandonment. His allegations are secretion by sending cognus to him when he knew he was insolvent, false entries in his books, a preference payment of $4,000 to Gault Bros. when he knew he was insolvent. All of these allegations Mr. Rafter positively denies.

Mr. Napoleon Aubin, Consul-General for Switzerland, died at his residence, No. 92 St. Denis street, at noon yesterday, at the ripe age of seventy-eight. The deceased was born in Chene, near Geneva, Switzerland, and after a thorough education in Chemistry and Natural Philosophy at Berne came to Canada in 1833 on the eve of the rebellion and immediately took an active part in the politics of the day as editor of several papers. He was well known in the United States and Canada as the inventor of water meters and gas meters. About twelve years ago he was appointed Dominion Gas Inspector, from which position he was superannuated two years ago. The Swiss societies here are making extensive preparations for the funeral, which will take place from the deceased's residence next Saturday at two o'clock.

The Coal Handlers' Strike

The strike of the coal handlers still continues. Several of the steamers, which had gone into the basin to unload coal, were compelled to go down to Hochelaga, as men could not be procured to work in the former vicinity. As a consequence, berths at Hochelaga are at a premium and Captain Howard, the Harbor Master, has all he can do to accommodate the steamers that wait space there. The captain of the steamship Gay Colin said he expected to finish discharging his cargo of coals last night about midnight. He had plenty of men to do the work and experienced no delay. Several other steamers have about finished discharging. Some return to the mines and others will move to new berths to load lumber. The strikers still hold out, but it is believed that a few days will see the matter satisfactorily settled.

THE FIRE COMMITTEE.

The Damages awarded for the Killing of a Child.

The Fire Committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon which was attended by Ald. Stevenson, (chairman), Roberts, Ferreault and Grenier.

Mr. Geo. Gill, of No. 45 Inspector street, sent a letter to the Committee relating the circumstances whereby on the 20th of May his six year old son had been run over by the chemical engine going to a fire in Messrs. Clendinning's establishment. Mr. Gill stated that his little boy had the same evening died from the injuries he had received. He had no desire to put in a claim for damages, but all he requested was that the medical and funeral expenses should be borne by the city. Agreed to.

A letter from Wm. Smith was read, asking for promotion, as he had been 9 years on the brigade, on the reel and salvage wagon. It was laid on the table pending the appointment of a sub-chief.

A communication was read from Mr. A. Brunet, who wants to build on St. Lawrence street, adjoining Mr. Grothe's building, the wall of which had been condemned. Mr. Brunet considered it safe enough and wanted a permit to build which the Building Inspector refused.

The Building Inspector explained that the courts had decided that he was not in accordance with the law and at a later period the committee had refused to interfere in the matter.

The Chairman did not think that the committee were in a position to decide, and it would not be wise in them to interfere, seeing the courts had decided the matter.

Ald. Grenier thought that, as Mr. Brunet was willing to take the responsibility of the wall, they should not refuse him the permit.

The Building Inspector said that the architect who previously, under oath in the courts, swore that the wall was unsafe, had now turned round and said it was strong, being, it was said, engaged by Mr. Brunet. The building inspector produced a letter from Mr. Grothe, in November last, who admitted that the wall was not built in accordance with the law.

In answer to a question from Alderman Grenier, the Chairman said that the Building Inspector was under the control of the Fire Committee for departmental purposes, but in matters of administration he did not think they should interfere.

Ald. Grenier, however, insisted upon the permit being granted and moved that a previous motion be reconsidered and that Mr. Brunet be allowed to go on. This was lost, no one supporting it.

The chairman stated that in company with Mr. Badger they had visited St. Ann's church and decided to put another fire bell in the belfry, to replace the old one.

Ald. Robert suggested having one in the East End, which was favorably received, and will likely be acted upon.

It was decided to advertise for tenders for winter clothing, the same to be in by noon of the 26th inst.

It was also decided to recommend that Mrs. McCulloch, widow of the deceased sub-chief, be paid his salary up to the end of the year.

Before adjourning the committee passed a unanimous vote of thanks to Dr. Rene de Cotret for his services to the firemen who were overcome at the fire in Messrs. Dowe's on the 11th inst.

THE SHOOTING CASE.

Yesterday afternoon Judge Desnoyers proceeded to the General Hospital to induce the man Cowles to make a deposition which he would lay before the Grand Jury. The deposition practically exonerates Hale from any premeditation to kill him. In it he says: "I stated to Hale and my wife several times that any one interfering to deprive me of my child would be shot by me. I did not get the protection of the Court in time. The threats I made were against any one who would try to deprive me of my child illegally. The lawyer of whom I spoke is a sheriff from Cleveland. I acted all through upon legal advice from Cleveland and Toronto, and never overstepped the bounds of the law. I cannot charge and will not accuse my brother-in-law with shooting me, with intent to do me any harm. I believe that he was momentarily wrought up to that state by the sufferings of my wife, and not that she suggested this to him, because I believe them both incapable of doing an evil act and more especially of doing me any harm."

The Accident to a Girl "Parachutist."

The South Wales papers contain full particulars of the extraordinary accident which occurred to Miss Ida Macdonald, a "parachutist," at Pontypool, on a recent evening. It appears that previously to her ascent Miss Macdonald had a thick strap fastened around her waist, the strap being attached to the thin white cords of the parachute, which was, in its turn, attached to the bottom of the balloon. One of the male friends of the young woman, who was dressed in a suit of fine white lambswool, stepped forward, kissed her, and said good-bye to her. Some men held the back of a small wicker chair upon which the girl sat, with her back towards the balloon. The cry "Let go!" was raised and the balloon shot up, but the men holding the chair let it go too soon, and the consequence was that the cordage between the chair and the parachute straightened with a violent jerk, and the poor woman, to the horror of all present, was jerked out of the chair and hung suspended by the belt. The balloon was ascending with great velocity and the girl seemed helplessly struggling in the air among the cordage of the parachute. After the balloon had ascended between two and three thousand feet, the parachute passed underneath her, and her fate seemed sealed inevitably. She was seen to break loose from the balloon, with the parachute still below her. But after descending with lightning speed a dozen yards, her white figure passed the parachute which all the time was closed. She, in her rapid descent, was too fast for the balloon, and the moment the cords beneath the parachute became distended the parachute opened, but in an awkward fashion, while the little white figure in the air spun round and round. She was descending rapidly between the fields and town. Hundreds ran over the fields beyond in the direction she was seen to drop. Her white figure, with the parachute close by, was seen lying on a broad grass field between Yvysgarth House and the Tall River. She had dislocated her ankle and was suffering severely from shock, but was otherwise uninjured. It is impossible to convey anything but a small idea of the terrible sensation the accident produced upon all who witnessed it.

MOSES HAD ASTHMA.

MY HUSBAND had asthma for eight years with severe cough, and his lungs were affected. He could neither rest, work, nor get relief from any medicine he tried. Some time ago we got Haygard's Pectoral Balm, and after taking six or eight bottles, his cough is entirely cured, the asthma greatly relieved, and his lungs greatly benefited.

LAYING THE STONE.

Ceremonies Attending the Laying of the Corner Stone

Of the Y. M. C. A. Building.

History of the Association since its Organization in Montreal.

Yesterday afternoon was a golden era in the history of the Young Men's Christian Association, the occasion being the laying of the foundation stone of their new building on Dominion Square. Notwithstanding the unpropitious state of the weather, there were present a large number of ladies and gentlemen interested in the noble work being carried on by the Association. Amongst those present were Messrs. A. Kingman, President; Warden King, Sir Wm. Dawson, Revs. Dr. Mackay, Dr. Barber, S. P. Rose, Battersell, Troop, Dr. Cornish, Massey, Therien, and Messrs. Chas. Alexander, Dr. Kelly, Dr. Brown, T. Lyman, Henry Lyman, D. A. Budge, secretary; W. G. Brown, T. J. Claxton, W. Coates, S. Muirhead, W. Ross, S. H. May, L. H. Packard, James Wilson, D. W. Corbett, R. H. Holland, F. Myers, W. Tees, J. H. Carson, C. Jackson, Dr. Ross, W. Whitman, Jas. Williamson, J. Kennedy, S. P. Lee, Dr. Walton, Toronto Baptist Seminary, W. Wille, etc. Amongst the ladies could be seen Mrs. Budge, Mrs. Troop, Mrs. R. Henderson, Mrs. Patterson and others. The proceedings opened with the singing of the hymn "Come, Thou Almighty King" to the tune of "God Save the Queen."

The Rev. J. Osborne Troop, M.A., next read the 107th Psalm and followed by the reading of the last part of the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians, after which he offered up a prayer. Mr. Warden King, before proceeding to lay the stone, said he realized the honor accorded him in taking such a part in the official initiation of this new building. The building will become the centre of one of the most important classes of our community, viz., the young men of the city. He was pleased to bear personal testimony to the practical utility of all denominations in this work. Its work went to promote every pure, manly and elevating principle which was honoring to God and for the best interests of their fellow young men. He felt sure that multitudes of the youths and young men of this city would gratefully remember the merchants and friends who had contributed towards this erection. He expressed the delight it gave him to know the cheerful financial response which even the boys had made, and trusted the funds required to erect it free of debt would be supplied.

He then proceeded to lay the stone, which was done with a handsome silver trowel, presented to Mr. King by the directors.

The Rev. Dr. MacRay was asked, owing to the threatening aspect of the weather, to announce to the large concourse of spectators, that the remaining part of the programme would be carried out in Knox church and accordingly an adjournment was made to that place of worship. After all had been seated the President requested all present to join in singing the hymn "The church's one foundation."

At its conclusion the President read the historical address, but before doing so said that in the laying of the foundation stone of their new home that afternoon, they had witnessed the growth of their Association from childhood to manhood and in it they looked forward to doing better work than in the past in behalf of Jesus Christ. This, however, was not meant in a detrimental point of view as regards the work done in the past, which had been grand indeed when the limited space in which their occupations had been confined was taken into account; but in their new home they would have more space, more air, more light, and, with God's blessing, more work to do, which, judging from the Association's past record, would result as well if not more satisfactorily than in the past. It was no happy accident that brought about such bright prospects for them, it was simply a beautiful example of man's activity under the supervision of God Himself. "It was God's own work."

He congratulated the executive on the choice of ground which they had made in selecting the spot for the new building. Many a mother's prayer had been offered up in gladness because her boy had been brought to believe in Christ, and many a house door was wide open ready for the prodigal son to return, who had been brought back into Christ's fold by the Young Men's Christian Association. This alone was well worth all the labor its Christian supporters had done in the past. Many a subscription had been received from young men in different parts of Canada and the far away places in the distant world, from young men who at one time or the other had experienced the blessings of that association, and who returned their gratitude by wishing to have a stone to their memory in the new building. When those who had so nobly worked for the association in the past read these epistles, they offered up thanksgiving to God that their Christian labors had not been in vain. It was a noble work and all should join heartily in helping them to carry it on successfully in the future.

The historical resume is as follows: On Nov. 19, 1851, a meeting was held in the Baptist Church, St. Helen street, to consider the question of organizing a Young Men's Christian Association. Rev. F. H. Marling was chairman. Result: Representatives were appointed from city churches to draft a constitution and report on Nov. 25. Their constitution was adopted, and Mr. J. H. Winn, of St. George's Church, elected first president; The Rev. Donald Fraser, of Cote street Church, was asked to deliver the opening lecture.

This constituted the first Young Men's Christian Association on the continent of America.

Since its formation this Association has occupied the following "homes" in this city:

1. The Oddfellows' Hall, Jt. James street, one room, 1852-55.
2. On Notre Dame street (near St. Francois Xavier), one room, 1855-56.
3. St. James street (near Ottawa Hotel), 1856-58.
4. On McGill street (near J. H. Jones & Co.'s present warehouse), 1858-62.
5. On St. James street (over Bank of Upper Canada), 1862-63.
6. On St. James street (next Post Office), 1863-66. First General Secretary employed here.
7. Corner Alexander and Craig streets (Coffee House), 1866-72.
8. Entered their present building, Victoria Square, 1873-90.
9. Expect to remove to Dominion Square, their second building, May 1, 1891.

From its organization to the date of its entering the present building on Victoria Square, the following important points are to be noted:—

1. Their City Mission work largely absorbed the Association. It resulted in the Nazareth street building, now controlled by Crescent Presbyterian Church. During that time three City Missionaries were employed: Rev. Samuel Massey, Rev. C. P. Watson and Mr. John Milne.

2. The "Out-Door Relief" was organized, the rooms of the Association being given to this work one day of each week. This is now done by the House of Industry.

3. "The Seamen's Mission" organized, and for many years carried on by the Association. Now the Sailor's Institute.

4th. "The Soldier's Mission," continued until the Imperial troops were removed.

6th. A mission to the newly-arrived emigrants.

With the exception of a weekly meeting for prayer and bible study amongst the workers, there seems to have been very little, if any, aggressive efforts made to reach the young men of the city. This lack was frequently discussed.

During this period two important conventions of the Young Men's Christian Associations of America were held here, one in 1856 and the other in 1857. The latter was perhaps one of the most important in the history of the American Work, on account of the final settlement of every question, so far as the associations were concerned.

As having an important bearing on association work at present, the following resolution should be noted, which was discussed as far back as 1856:—

"That, as vital piety and earnest, practical godliness are intimately connected with a healthy physical system, it is very advisable, in the opinion of your committee, that Associations should, as far as possible, make arrangements for the physical improvement and development of their members. Especially is this necessary in the associations of our larger cities, the members of which, generally, are confined during the day to sedentary employments, without any opportunity whatever of renewing their relaxed and wearied system by those generous appliances which are open to the young men of the world."

Your committee would also suggest to the convention that the establishment of such means as are here alluded to would doubtless induce many young men, whose health had not been given to them, to join the association, and thus they would be brought under the influence of active members, and led, perhaps, to the prayer meeting, and finally to the foot of the cross."

On Nov. 17th, 1862, the difficulties had increased to such a degree that a meeting was called by the President—Mr. F. E. Gifford—to disband the association and wind up its affairs. The result of this meeting was a new impetus to the work: A canvas in the churches for new members followed and 200 names were added.

The frequent removal of their rooms and the inability of the Association to do its legitimate work for the young men of the city led to the discussion on the necessity of a permanent building, and a resolution to that effect was passed as far back as 1859. In 1869 the building movement took shape, and largely through the efforts of Mr. T. James Claxton, the President, the building on Victoria Square was erected. The Association took possession in 1873. At that time but one weekly meeting for young men was held in the building, with an average attendance of about 25.

In 1875-76, three years after entering the building, the question of debt became serious, the Sheriff having twice made a demand for unpaid taxes. The mortgage and floating debt amounted to about $20,000. A directors' meeting was called, when Mr. Stephen Caldecott, the chairman finance, since President of Toronto Association, made a stirring appeal, proposing that 100 young men of the City be secured to subscribe $100 each, making $10,000, and then the merchants be asked for the balance. Mr. J. S. McLachlan generously guaranteed to secure the $10,000 from the merchants. The Secretary agreed to undertake the canvass amongst the young men, and in six months the amount was secured. In 1877 the debt was paid, and the Association was free to do its legitimate work.

The Victoria Square Building has developed the following lines of work:—

1st. The Boys' Department, organized 1874. One of the first Associations to undertake this branch.

2nd. The work clearly defined to be by young men and for young men; not general city mission work.

3rd. The circulating library to meet the present needs of young men.

4th. The evening educational classes for commercial and mechanical young men.

5th. The "committee organization" of the younger members, making a division of work, rather than all being done by members of the governing committee and the paid employees.

6th. The "training class" idea, which aims at the practical development of the "rank and file" of the membership.

7th. The value of the social features of the work.

8th. The education of the active members that their responsibility is not local, or provincial, or continental, but the Association work is for the young men of all lands.

As an indirect result of working on these lines, it may be mentioned that already 35 young men from amongst our numbers have given their lives wholly to Christian work, as pastors of churches, evangelists, missionaries to foreign lands, or secretaries of Young Men's Christian Associations.

In 1885, the Board began to consider the question of removal to a more central and larger building "up-town." The reasons were as follows:—

1st. The present building overcrowded. The various departments of the work conflicted for lack of accommodation.

2nd. Because nine-tenths of the present members reside north, north-east and west of the building, making it more difficult each year to secure their attendance for evening work.

Physical Work, which is now a necessity.

4th. Because there is no suitable provision for the growing demands of Evening Educational Class Work, the Junior Department or the Social or Religious Work.

Therefore, after careful consideration, the present central site was secured. The joint ownership of the Victoria square building with the Bible Society was a question which, after two years' conference, was settled by the association paying the Bible Society $12,000 for their interest in it.

The following gentlemen have occupied the position of president since its organization:—

- 1851 J. H. Winn, 1857-68 Lemuel Cash-

Mr. Budge, the secretary, next read part of a letter he had received that day from a young man in Toronto who was formerly connected with the association in this city, in which he thanked that gentleman for the good advice he had given him whilst here and the benefit he had received from the association. Thanks to these he had been brought to Jesus Christ and already he felt a better man, and by God's help he would strive hard to continue on in the path of righteousness. Letters like these he was continually receiving, and his heart leaped with joy whenever he received such testimonies of the good work being carried on by the Association.

Sir Wm. Dawson was next called upon to address the gathering, and commenced by informing his hearers that he had not come prepared with a speech, because he had been under the impression that he would be obliged to speak in the open air, and owing to the unfortunate state of the weather he had decided only to make a few brief remarks. He could remember when the Association was only five years old, when he was then a young man properly speaking, but although now advanced to what was termed the "sere and yellow leaf" of age, his heart and Christian feeling towards the Association were still as young as ever. The President had said the Association had that day emerged from childhood to manhood, but like himself he considered that the Association was still in its childhood, in fact it was scarcely beyond its infancy. It was true its progress had been a wonderful one, when they considered the great difficulties the earnest Christian men in times past had to contend with. The Association was doing a grand and noble work, inasmuch as they were holding out a helping hand to young men who were strangers to the city. They were doing a work which no other organization could take hold of and he for one was delighted with the success that had attended them in the past and they deserved the greatest success in the future. The authorities of McGill owed the Association a debt of gratitude for the helpful hand held out by it to the students of that university, as witness the branch formed there, and he looked forward to the time when they would have a building of their own. Furthermore the executive were to be congratulated on their securing the finest building in the city, when the magnificent building was finished, of which they had that day laid the corner stone, he felt sure its work would be extended far beyond the aspirations of its management. He would impress upon them the necessity of making it the centre from which branches all over the city could emanate and when another thirty years had passed over, they would find that the same words that had been spoken that day of the growth of the association would be repeated on that occasion, but in a tenfold sense. He concluded by wishing the association God speed in its noble work.

Mr. Budge then read telegrams of regret from Messrs. W. Paul, Drysdale and others who were detained in Ottawa.

The doxology was then sung, after which the Rev. Mr. Rose pronounced the benediction, and the joyful proceedings came to a close. The secretary of the association asks THE HERALD to state that the organ used at the ceremonial of the laying of the foundation stone was kindly loaned for the occasion by Messrs. Willis & Co., of Notre Dame street.

SPORTING NEWS

BASEBALL.

THE BUFFALO ALIENS MONTEAL TEAM LEAVES THE CITY.

The Montreal professional baseball team is defunct but what remains of it has left the city. From the time the posters announcing the games were put upon the walls, those whose eyes were not blinded could see that the scheme was not to place a permanent professional team in this city, but simply to raise funds with which to lift the Buffalo team out of the financial hole they have fallen into. Had the management brought the teams here, and fairly announced its intention, it would at least have been dealing honestly with those who patronized baseball.

On Tuesday a telegram from the west stated that the team did not intend to settle here permanently. This was denied by the manager and yet the following day his team played their last match and prepared to depart.

From the first THE HERALD spoke of the games as it found them. Yet no word of complaint or even criticism was made by the paper which gave such lengthy and often inaccurate accounts of the matches. As soon as the team is gone, however, it says: "Good bye, gentlemen, but luck next time, but for goodness sake better ball." Why this was not said before it is hard to say, but it certainly looks very significant. Good, honest amateur ball will be enjoyed and patronized in Montreal, but such games as those played during this week will do more to injure baseball here than local men who were interested in the matter have any idea. Grands Rapids is welcome to the team but the probabilities are that the season will be finished with five clubs in the league.

The Sugar Combine.

A meeting of sugar refiners was held at the Windsor Hotel yesterday afternoon, for the purpose, so it is said, of forming a combine in connection with a London syndicate, which would have supreme control of all the refineries in this country. A lengthened discussion took place, the majority of those present being in favor of the scheme, but two of the Lower Province men requested further time to consider the matter. There seems very little doubt that they will fall into line at the next meeting.

THE C. P. R. AND N. B. R.

Acquisition of the Latter by the Former.

It is understood that all the details for the acquisition by the C.P.R. of the New Brunswick Railway have been agreed upon, and that the Canadian Pacific Company will take formal control on the first of July. This is confirmed by a despatch received last night from St. John. It is believed in that city that nearly all the officials and employees in the N. B. general offices will be removed to Montreal, and that General Manager Crum will become manager of the Eastern Division of the C.P.R., embracing from Mattawamkeag to St. John. It is further stated in St. John that the C.P.R. will at once begin extensive repairs on the N. B. Railway wharf property at Sand Point, on the western side of the harbor. This would seem to indicate that St. John will become the chief Atlantic port of the C. P. R.

What Are the Wardens' Powers?

The presiding judge of the Queen's Bench will have a very knotty question before him this morning. It will be whether the grand jury can visit all public institutions as grand jurors or on suffrage. The point has arisen over the visit of the jury to the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary on Wednesday, when on their arrival they were informed by Warden Oulmet that they were there on suffrage and not on right. Several jurymen felt very much incensed at their reception and between them and now sought legal advice on the matter. They were informed that they as grand jurors had a perfect right to visit all public institutions in and around the city. The decision of the court will be awaited with more than ordinary interest.

Cotton Men in Council.

The Dominion Grey Cotton Association held their quarterly meeting yesterday at the Windsor Hotel. There was a full gathering of representatives of the mills engaged in the manufacture of grey cottons. They decided to shut down their mills for six weeks, as raw cotton is high, and likely to be higher, and there are sufficient goods on hand to last for a few weeks. They also decided to advance prices on any new goods they may manufacture two cents per pound, to in part recoup them for the advance in new cotton. They, however, agreed to allow any of the mills which chose to do so to sell off, if taken at once, the stock of cotton they have on hand at old prices. Some of the mills, it is expected, will avail themselves of this permission, while the others will hold out for the full advance. It is also understood that a member of the association was fined for cutting rates. The meeting was presided over by the vice-president, Mr John H. Parks, St. John, N. B., to whom a hearty vote of thanks was tendered for the capable and impartial manner in which he had conducted the proceedings.

Some of the cotton men were interrogated by THE HERALD representative as to what results had followed the efforts of Messrs. A. F. Gault and D. Monice in England, in connection with the scheme of an English syndicate buying up all the cotton mills in Canada. They had nothing to say on that matter, and professed to be quite ignorant of what was going on.

Prostitution.

Lloyds Weekly: At a hotel a waiter came out of the coffee-room and informed the manager that a man was raising a disturbance because he could not have his accustomed seat at the table. "Go in again," said the manager, "and propitiate him in some way." Back went the waiter and said: "If you don't like the way things is done here, you can get out or I'll propitiate you pretty quick."
