Rap withholding of ECM speech

LONDON (CP)—British newspapers have set out some bitter criticism of the government for denying Canada and other Commonwealth members full details of Britain's opening statement in bidding for entry into the European Common Market.

One paper, the Times of London, suggested today that Ottawa may have the full document in its possession.

The flurry of press reports followed reports from several capitals that the text of the statement was slipped to the United States by France or one of the other five Commonwealth members.

The Times said today: "At all events, there is a very strong indication that Washington and possibly Ottawa have a document which the British government declined to give the Commonwealth countries."

"TRUST BETRAYED" Noting the same reports, the London Daily Express says "foreigners have been trusted before our own kin—a trust that has been instantly betrayed."

The newspaper said "one of the Six has leaked the text to Washington" and Britain's government "humiliated itself and embarrassed the nation" by attempting to keep the text secret.

Labor Party Leader Hugh Gaitskell also joined the critics Friday. He said it was "absolutely wrong" for the U.S. to know Britain's negotiating position for entry into the Common Market while the information was not available to Commonwealth members.

The foreign office denied that Britain had any part in leaking to Washington a copy of the speech made by Edward Heath, lord privy seal, at his Paris meeting with the Common Market members last month.

The Times said Britain should not have kept the information from Commonwealth members.

Prime Minister Macmillan "will be expected to make a full and precise statement on the whole lamentable affair" to the House of Commons, it added.

The Daily Express said "the bond of brotherhood of the Commonwealth peoples has been treated with contempt."

Spells out position in UN speech

U Thant to use his power to train army, stamp out secessionist moves in Congo

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Acting Secretary-General U Thant has made plain he will use his powers to train the Congo Army and stamp out secessionist moves in any part of that country, despite Soviet efforts to limit United Nations authority.

U Thant spelled out his position Friday night in his first speech to the Security Council since he became UN chief after two Soviet vetoes killed U.S. efforts to give him a broader hand in the strife-torn Congo.

The Soviet Union warned U Thant that it would be watching closely to make sure he does not go beyond the mandate of the council.

The council finally adopted a watered-down Afro-Asian resolution demanding that secessionist activities "cease forthwith" in Katanga province alone and empowering U Thant to use force if need be to drive foreign mercenaries out of that breakaway province.

USE VETO The Russians used the veto to defeat U.S. amendments which would have had the council deplore "all armed action" against the central Congo government and authorize U Thant to help the state reorganize and retrain its army.

The amendments could be interpreted as empowering the UN to move against any uprising by Congo leftist leader Antoine Gizenga.

Observers expressed belief, however, that the Soviet vetoes were checked by U Thant's assertion that the UN force represented — namely, Africa, Asia and Latin America.

"We might agree, for example, on an expanded committee of 13 or 16 by adding one or two representatives from each of these areas to the 10 powers which were engaged in the negotiations in Geneva."

Canada was a member of that group. Friday's proposal was in contrast with last year when Green proposed only the addition of a chairman and two other officers to the committee — none with negotiating powers.

Green said at a press conference after his speech that he feels the proposal for three additional members from the vast geographical areas has the best chance of finding favor with the U.S. and Russia.

WORLD WOULD WATCH The mere appointment of a negotiating group would be no guarantee of success but the main problem now was to get the great powers negotiating again — "with the world watching."

The Soviet Union has been demanding a 5-5-5 formula in disarmament along the line of a trioka and the United States has firmly resisted any combination of figures that might reflect the trioka.

Green's reference to the "numbers game" was a departure from the text of his speech. "After all, there is not much difference between 13, 19, 20 — it is really a numbers game," he said.

should suppress "all armed activities" and secessionist moves anywhere.

The Burmese acting secretary-general also said steps must be taken toward the "training and reorganization" of the Congo armed forces.

He called on all member governments to give the UN the financial support needed to carry out the costly Congo operation.

The Soviet Union, France and many other nations have refused to pay their share of the bill.

CLARIFIES STAND In calling for action against all uprisings in the Congo, U Thant made clear he was carrying out all resolutions of the General Assembly and the council and not just the Katanga proposal.

After U Thant finished speaking, Soviet delegate Valeriy Zorin expressed hope the acting secretary-general would "act in accordance with this resolution" in co-operation with his chief advisers as he had announced when he was appointed.

Blames West Germany

Khrushchev charges Scandinavia now a potential battleground

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Friday West Germany had transformed Scandinavia into a potential battleground and promised action to curb "Hitlerite" border revision demands.

Khrushchev spoke at Novosibirsk, Siberia, 2,000 miles from Moscow, where he talked with Finnish President Urho Kekkonen on a Soviet note of Oct. 30 charging that West Germany and its NATO allies threatened Russia through Finland.

Khrushchev's remarks indicated pressure behind a Soviet demand in the note calling for joint Russian-Finnish measures against the alleged West German threat. He appeared to be calling for an early Finnish reply.

After receipt of the note the Finnish Parliament was dissolved and elections were called for early next year. No Finnish reply to the note has been announced as yet.

"WILL TAKE MEASURES" "We regard it as our most important duty to take all measures now, before it is too late, to curb the West German militarists and revanchists who are arrogantly demanding revision of the state frontiers that took shape after the Second World War," Khrushchev said.

The official news agency Tass' version of the address, published here, did not specify what measures would be taken.

He said West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer "tells the truth, but he does not tell the whole truth" in the joint statement he issued with President Kennedy at the end of their talks in Washington last week.

Certainly, it is true that West German armed forces are under NATO command and said Khrushchev, but it is also true that the "Hitlerite" West German officers are taking command of the alliance.

As one example Khrushchev named West German Gen. Hans Speidel, commander of NATO land forces in central Europe.

Two Bishop's students have been awarded $2,500 scholarships by Union Carbide Canada Limited it was announced today.

Eight other scholarships went to Laval University and the University of Montreal.

The winners at Bishop's were Clifford J. Maclean of the Town of Mount Royal and Miss D. L. Gillmeister of Hudson Heights.

The windup communique indicated they agreed to try to negotiate a settlement "if there is reasonableness on the part of the Soviet Union," but kept silent on what the West would be prepared to offer in such talks.

Woman member for legislature?

By CUTHBERT JONES (Record Staff Writer)

When the next session of the Quebec Legislature opens in January, the Legislative Assembly may be graced with the presence of a woman member for the first time in its history. The precedent will result from the by-elections to be held in Jacques Cartier and Chamby constituencies on December 14.

At a convention the Jacques Cartier Liberals by a wide margin named Mrs. Claire Kirkland-Casgrain as their candidate in the Montreal suburban riding which for many years was represented by her father, Dr. Charles Aime Kirkland. At the time of his death, last summer, Dr. Kirkland was Minister without Portfolio in the Lesage cabinet.

While Mrs. Kirkland-Casgrain, a lawyer, is carrying on an active campaign, she may enter the Assembly by acclamation. The Union Nationale official opposition has made no move towards nominating a candidate and the party leader, Daniel Johnson, has indicated that his party may default both Jacques Cartier and Chamby, former Liberal seats.

Thursday he said no definite decision had been made and that any developments would be dependent on local conditions.

UN LEADER'S TROUBLES—Mr. Johnson appears to be experiencing trouble in his relations with the press, judging from his frequent attacks on editors and reporters. His latest outburst occurred during the course of a press conference Thursday when he launched out against the CBC and a Montreal English-language daily for what he declared was unfair treatment of his publicity.

This has been a pet peeve of Mr. Johnson's ever since he was named party leader at the Quebec City Congress in September. At a press conference following his selection, he made it clear he did not like the way he was being handled by certain publicity media. He extended an olive branch to his critics but this was held in a mailed fist. Several times since then he has renewed his criticisms.

Perhaps one of the reasons behind Mr. Johnson's dissatisfaction is his difficulty in realizing the Union Nationale are now the "outs."

Until his party was defeated in 1960, he had been a member of the governing group and served for many years as a cabinet minister known to have the confidence of Premier Duplessis.

turn to exile. As members of the Trujillo dynasty fled, mobs ransacked their homes and tore down symbols of the regime. The capital city, Ciudad Trujillo, was given back its original name of Santo Domingo.

The Dominican troubles brought a heated session of the United Nations Security Council Wednesday, with Cuba charging that the U.S. ships and planes had violated Dominican territory.

CHELWOOD GATE (Reuters) Prime Minister Macmillan and French President de Gaulle came to grips with the Berlin crisis today at Macmillan's Sussex home.

The two leaders entered their second day of talks amid reports Macmillan had received a message from President Kennedy on his Washington meeting with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

As he headed home he was assured of another term as Finland's president.

In the Finnish capital, former chief justice Olavi Honka withdrew Friday from the January presidential election in which he stood a good chance of beating Kekkonen, long known for his personal good relations with the Kremlin.

STANLEY, N.B. (CP)—A fast-talking bank manager Friday persuaded three masked men who invaded his home to call off their plans to force him to open the bank's vault.

The would-be robbers ended by driving past the bank six miles into the country where they tied up bank manager Gordon Coffin and left him there. They believed Coffin when he pointed out the vault at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce was locked by a clock mechanism and could not be opened any time.

Coffin was confronted by the men when he answered his door at 3 a.m. and was ordered to accompany them to the bank. "I asked for time to get dressed and told my wife not to worry, I was just going down to the bank."

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bing Crosby is in town this week for a check on what he admits is the Crosby "population explosion."

"I not only got a new kid of my own," said the exuberant Bing. "I've also got three grandchildren in the oven."

Bing had come home from England to meet his sixth son and seventh child, Nathaniel Patrick, born Oct. 29.

"We haven't figured out who he looks like yet; it's a little too early to tell," said the crooning patriarch.

Bing will now have more time to spend with his expanding family. He was leaving for his Nevada ranch for four weeks rest from his overseas rigors.

He started Road to Hong Kong with you-know-who last July, finished one day and started a TV special the next.

The ABC show, which will be on the air Dec. 11, has a storyline of Bing searching for his ancestors. He finds an authentic inn, Crosby's head, and is aided by such British comics as my own," said the exuberant Bing. "I've also got three grandchildren in the oven."

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS, rather inconsiderately for the U.S., scheduled the second of its exciting and illuminating Eisenhower on the Presidency programs on the late evening Thursday. Most Americans were tired and sleepy by that time after Thanksgiving dinner.

The 34th president of the United States continued his conversations with Walter Cronkite. He covered a wealth of subjects. Again it was television at its best.

Now that Robbin Bain is planning to leave NBC's Today show—it only took her a couple of months to decide she didn't ADMIRE ENGLISH How did Bing take to such a long stay in England? "Fine," he said. "The eating was excellent; the English have come a long way since austerities days. The London restaurants are among the best and we had an English cook at our place who could do anything. She was so good that I'm bringing her over—if I can get through the red tape."

"London is my favorite city. The people you meet are middle class, friendly and amazingly well informed; you hear one of their man-in-street broadcasts and you find out they know what's going on in the world."

"The theatre in London is marvelous. I thought I had had it with Romeo and Juliet, but I saw a production at the Old Vic that was simply great. Hope and I loved Beyond the Fringe."

"It's just four young guys in a revue, but what talent! haven't laughed so much since Ted Healy was alive. . . ."

ROCK ISLAND — Stanstead South Church Hall, adorned with evergreens and Christmas decorations was the setting for the annual Christmas sale and tea held under the sponsorship of the Ladies Aid, Helping Circle and 35 Club. The event was well attended.

The Ladies Aid table of aprons in charge of Mrs. A. P. Bliss, and Miss Agnes Green, wood, found a quick sale, as did the home made food, a project of the 35 Club, in charge of Mrs. Robert Darby and Mrs. A. S. Judd Jr.

Mrs. Herbert Rice, Mrs. Howard Walsh and Mrs. William Hull were sales ladies of small articles for the Missionary and Maintenance fund. Mrs. Golda Standish and Mrs. Carroll Smith were in charge of the Helping Circle fancywork table, and Mrs. Merton Davis, the greeting card and wrappings. All tables reported satisfactory returns.

A salad tea was served by members of the societies at small tables centred with Christmas candles and other decor.

KNOWLTON — Mrs. L. Kirby, the former Miss Iris Armstrong is a patient in the B.M.P. Hospital at Sweetsburg. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Armstrong and Miss Karen Wedge have visited her several times.

Miss Brenda Crandall, Miss Christine Bockus and Miss Dawn Brown spent the weekend at their homes in Stanbridge East.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Windle were guests of their son, Mr. Grant Windle, and family, at Ottawa, for a few days.

Mrs. Gertrude Partridge is spending a holiday with her family at Dorval.

Messrs. Austin Pettes and D'Arcy Aldridge were successful hunters in this area, each getting a deer.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Marsh are spending a holiday in Florida.

Here is one reason! Miss Solange Pepin has been our receptionist and cashier for the past two years. Solange realizes that her work contributes greatly to the overall efficiency of our organization. Since a receptionist's job is to meet the customer in person and on the phone she must have a pleasing personality but above all she must be able to assist the customer by answering his questions, or refer him to the person in our organization that can best help him with his problems.

As we have said before efficiency is a must in our organization. Efficiency enables us to keep our costs to a minimum and thereby assuring you of the most value for your dollar.

Our highly trained personnel at your service is ready and able to give you the high quality service you want.

The 1961 cars are selling fast so we have a fine assortment of top conditioned late model used cars on our lot. Why not drop around today and look them over. We give top trade-in allowances for your old car too.

NATIONAL BALLET — The National Ballet of Canada will perform at the Granada Theatre in Sherbrooke on November 28 for their annual spectacular. Shown above is a scene from George Balanchine's Concerto baroque, a new ballet added to the troupe's repertory. The production calls for several principal soloists, Galina Samsova, Lillian Jarvis and Hans Meister, and eight other dancers of technical virtuosity.

Three Villages Happenings

Miss Sally Smalley, Beloit, and Miss Ina Koch, Ste. Agathe, spent the weekend at the parental home of Miss Diane Farley, Rock Island.

Mrs. Howard Wilding, Stanstead, spent two days in Montreal.

Visitors of Mrs. Millie Adam, Derby Line, were Mr. and Mrs. Jaron Hill and their four grandchildren.

Mrs. J. Baldwin's Mills, R.C.M.P. Constable and Mrs. Delbert Anderson, Toronto, Ont., other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wright, Mrs. Effie Andrews and Mr. Arthur Morris, all of Sherbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hill and Tom and Mrs. Thomas Goodsell.

Mr. George Batchelor, Stanstead, has returned from the Sherbrooke Hospital, and is reported improved after a heart attack.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Chamberlain have sold their home in Stanstead and with their family moved to Lennoxville to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Blodreau and family, who purchased the house, have moved in.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Curtis, Stanstead, were their daughter, Mrs. Bruce Phillips, Dr. Phillips and family, of Montreal West; Mrs. Curtis' brother, Mr. A. C. Gill, and Mrs. Gill, of N.D.G., Montreal. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bleakney and Mrs. Christina.

Archdeacon I. M. Lidstone, rector, welcomed the guests. Mrs. Douglas Baker and Mrs. W. Whitehead were co-conveners and thanked all for their patronage.

The booths were gaily decorated with evergreen and Christmas bells and holly in keeping with the season and held the usual knitted articles, aprons, novelties, and a most attractive table of home baking. Tea was served from four to five o'clock.

Mrs. W. D. Hinkhouse, president, and all who worked, expressed satisfaction at the success of the event.

ACTING BUG HITS S.H.S. — The acting bug has sure hit students at Sherbrooke High School. Besides preparing for their school opera, the Pirates of Penzance, students from grade 10C acted out several scenes from the Shakespearean play Julius Caesar.

Four scenes were acted out, says Maureen Westgate, S.H.S. correspondent. They included the first act where all conspirators met with Brutus; the scene between Brutus and his wife Portia; Caesar's assassination, and the last scene, the violent argument between Brutus and Cassius.

Portia was played by Linda Heath; Brutus by Gordon Bennett, Cassius by Alan Marit and Julius Caesar by Michael Morrison.

They went all out in their costumes and wore the togas, Roman sandals, and even the hair styles of that time.

GUESTS AT WOMEN'S CLUB — Two Sherbrooke High School Grade Eleven academic girls, Donna Elliott and Roslyn Newton were guests of the Women's Canadian Club of the Eastern Townships at a meeting held Monday night at the New Sherbrooke Hotel. The girls had a chance to hear guest speaker Willson Woodside speak on his impressions of the United Nations. Joan Leslie and Elizabeth Marshall were the two S.H.S. girls to attend the meeting last year.

TODAY'S THE BIG DAY — Just a reminder that today is Sadie Hawkins Day, and Elaine White, North Hatley High School correspondent says N.H.S. will celebrate the occasion with a dance tonight in the school gymnasium. The dance is being sponsored by the Junior Red Cross.

TOP BANTAM ATHLETE — Martha Smyth, a grade nine student at the Asbestos-Danville-Shipton High School has been named the Bantam Athlete of the year in the Province of Quebec. Her sister, Brenda, a grade eleven student at A.D.S., also, has won the Juvenile Athlete title for the Province of Quebec. Both girls will receive their trophies today at an awards banquet at Dorval.

I looked back to the November 12, 1960 issue of High Times and saw, at the very top of the Column, that Martha won the same title last year during provincial track competition.

The awards are given by the Province of Quebec Amateur Track and Field Association, authorized by the Quebec Branch of the A.A.U. of Canada.

Other winners in their fields were Wade Gifford, Brian Gagnon, Dora Frost, Kathy Barnard, Kent Gardner, Charlie Boreham and Bruce Ross, all of A.D.S. says Sandra Gallup, A.D.S. correspondent.

KANGAROO COURT HELD — A Kangaroo court was set up at Sunnyside High School, Stanstead, this week in the school gymnasium by the boys of the school. During noon hours, several of the young ladies were sentenced after a hearing to polishing shoes, cleaning blackboards and various other sentences imposed by the panel of male judges. — The reason? The girls evidently didn't comply with all the rules of 'smorg' week which ended at Sunnyside with a Sadie Hawkins dance last weekend. They'll know better next year.

ATTEND COMMUNITY CONCERT — Two Sherbrooke High School students attended the Community Concert held in Sherbrooke at the Granada Theatre Wednesday night as student guests. They were Linda Miller and Andrew Truxav.

EXAM TIME ENDS — Many of the E.T. high schools students have been in the middle of first term exams this past week. Now that the struggle is over for a month or two, extracurricular activities will once again be stepping up. Ruth Rafal, Lennoxville High correspondent says first term exams at L.H.S. ended Friday afternoon. They started at L.H.S. November 16. Exams at Sunnyside High began November 22. Knowlton High began their exams this week and Cookshire students begin exams Monday.

GRADE ELEVEN CLASS ASSOCIATION — Ilene Clarke, St. Francis High School correspondent from Richmond caught a mistake in last week's column under the heading of Collection for UNICEF. It was the Grade Eleven

Insurance frauds results in $25 fine

A Sherbrooke man was fined $25 and costs in Sherbrooke Court of Sessions Friday morning after he pleaded guilty to three counts of false statements in connection with the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Ovila Vachon admitted before Judge Joseph Marier that he had collected a total of $89 in Unemployment Insurance during a period of time extending from April 7 to April 21, 1961, while earning approximately $65 a week at that time.

Prosecuting lawyer Richard Crepeau told the Court that the accused intended reimbursing the money, but that only $5 had been returned. He asked the court to impose a heavy fine or a jail term.

Judge Marier however imposed a total of $25 in fines, or in default, 15 days.

A Sherbrooke restaurant owner was fined $50 and costs by Judge Joseph Marier in Sherbrooke Court of Sessions Friday morning after he was found guilty of selling alcoholic beverages without a permit.

QPP officer Guy Charbonneau testified in court that on February 19 last, with officer Joseph Mercier, he had seized 21 bottles of beer from the restaurant of Delphis Gilbert, Hertel street, in Sherbrooke. He said that five persons were drinking beer in Gilbert's house, which adjoins the restaurant. The raid took place at 11:30 a.m. on a Sunday.

Officer Joseph Mercier corroborated Charbonneau's testimony, following which Judge Marier imposed the fine.

Prosecuting Attorney was Dewey Zaor, of Sherbrooke.

Three men were each fined

Christmas spirit glows

COWANSVILLE—(Staff) — There may be no snow, but the spirit of Christmas is gradually gaining momentum in Cowansville, as municipal employees started installing Christmas decorations here Thursday.

Fifty strings of lights will be installed this year. This is about 15 more strings than last year. Each string has 25 lights and will be decorating Main Street, Albert Street, River Street part of the Dunham Road and the town's two bridges—River Street and James Street.

In addition to the lights, six small trees will be placed on the posters of the River Street Bridge and as many on the James Street bridge.

A Christmas tree will decorate River Street, another one will be erected on Depot Street, one will be placed in front of the Cowansville High School and three trees will decorate the new Town Hall building in the municipal park on James Street.

Scouting and Cubbing

BY DIANE DURRANT

Despite a cold and blustery day, the Cubs and Scouts of 3rd Sherbrooke turned out in full force and carried on a very successful paper drive. The Group Committee Chairman, Gord Smith extends his thanks to all those who assisted in making the drive a success.

The Cubs of Second Lennoxville have been very busy passing tests last week. Peter Kerridge passed his compass test. For this test, Peter was required to know eight points of a compass and have a basic knowledge of how to use it. He must also be able to identify several constellations and be able to locate the North Star.

Ronnie Barber passed his shoe polishing test and Steven Mitchell, David Huitson, and Dean Rick passed ball throwing.

At an investiture ceremony last week, David Huitson and Lyall Sample were presented with their maroon and white neckerchiefs.

A New Chum, Richard Blais, was also welcomed into the Second Lennoxville Pack.

A number of badges were presented to Cubs of 5th Sherbrooke last week. Jimmy Strev has a very good stamp collection which enabled him to win his collector's badge.

The homecraft badge was presented to Steven Schofield, Stuart Schofield, Steven Moore, and Steven Coles. The house orderly was awarded to Steven Coles, Steven Schofield, and Steven Moore.

Danny Stock received his toy maker and gardener badges making a very impressive right arm display of thirteen badges. As an acknowledgement of his fine achievements over the year and a half that Danny has been with the 5th Sherbrooke Pack, he was presented with

Choice of equipment should be weighed

The announcement of something new appears to have a magic spell on humanity.

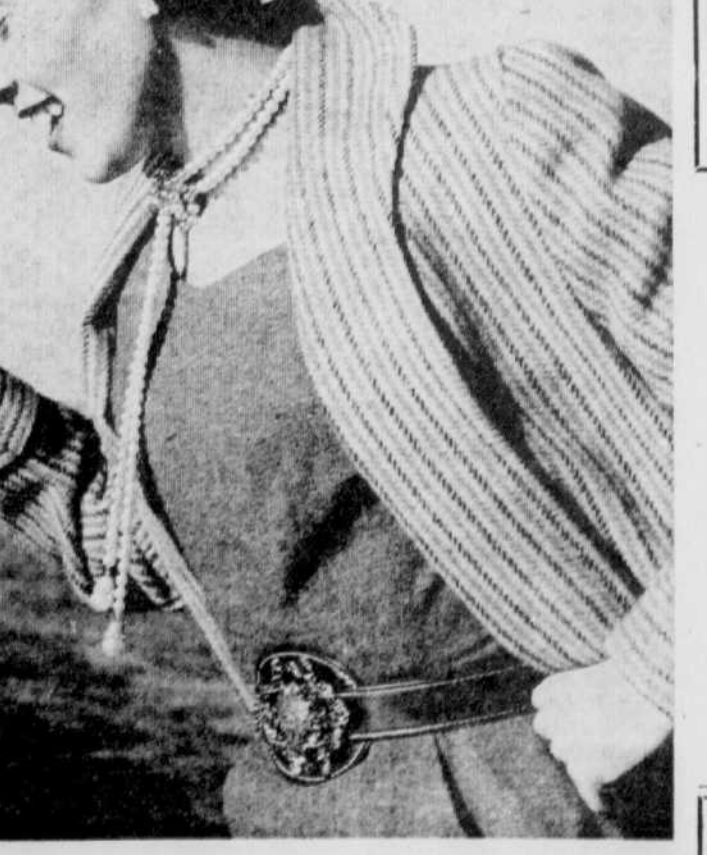

For a minority, it is like putting a curtain around themselves because they don't wish to have anything to do with something new.

Photographically speaking, something new to the hobbyists could mean the difference between a run-of-the-mill picture and something really worth looking at. Or, this new piece of equipment could mean a total waste of money.

With Christmas shopping coming up, a little thought should be given as to what kind of gift could be given to the photo fan, or perhaps, what you would give your self.

In most cases, not enough time is spent weighing the actual use one will get from this new purchase. This week I will mention only one example: telephoto versus wide-angle as to its value to the hobbyist.

It is assumed that your camera can use these lenses.

THE LOOK A thousand words couldn't describe the expression of this young girl as does the above picture which captures her spontaneous and vivid look. This photograph was taken with a 35mm camera and 135mm telephoto lens on panatomic X film with a lens opening of F16. The shutter screen was 1/100 per second.

M. Jablonski Pianist to be guest here Dec. 5

The pianist Marek Jablonski, 21, will be heard on December 5th with the Sherbrooke Symphony Orchestra which will be conducted by its permanent conductor, Sylvio Lacharite, at the Granada theatre.

Born in Poland like Chopin, Jablonski will play for the Sherbrooke audience the concerto in E minor of Chopin. The complete programme of the evening includes: William Tell Overture of Rossini; Siegfried's Rhine Journey and the Ride of the Valkyries of Wagner; Poesmes symphoniques (Les Preludes) of Liszt.

This young man, according to the critics, is already a great pianist with the address, the sense of style, the technique and control of a seasoned professional.

He entered the Conservatory of his native city of Krakow when he was six years old. In 1949 he moved to Edmonton, Alberta with his parents. He attended for several years the Banff School of Fine Arts and was a pupil of Gladys Egbert in Calgary, in 1957. Last summer he was the winner of the 1961 piano National Music Competition.

Formation of stamp club is considered

The formation of a stamp club in Lennoxville will be discussed at an informal meeting to be held on November 29.

The first organizational meeting will be held in the dining room at Pat's Restaurant in Lennoxville at 8 p.m.

If enough stamp collectors show an interest in the formation of a club, elections will be held and a program planned.

The members of the organizational committee, Murray Woodman and Fred Smith suggest that interested stamp collectors bring along their displays and duplicates.

WIDE RANGE

Most types of sharks favor the warm and temperate oceans but some roam to the far north, and a few inhabit tropical lakes and rivers.

ESSEN, West Germany (AP) — Nearly 45 per cent of West Germany's population left their homes on vacation trips during 1961. Statistics produced here showed this was the highest mark in the world, Americans ranking next at 40 per cent.

They have different price tags and some are rather high. In fact, they look like the national debt!

The hobbyist if he feels he can afford it, could purchase both. But for the person who wishes to have one of these lenses for this year, he would be well advised to weigh up the usefulness of each to him.

First, in most instances, the amateur is using a small format or small negative size. And the number of times he would wish to use a telephoto lens would outnumber by far the wide-angle which would be called for.

The telephoto lens seems to be the one to purchase first or possibly the only auxiliary lens needed. It has the same effects on the camera as putting a telescope to your eye.

It also has many other uses other than at the lake or for sports pictures. It is excellent for doing portraits since it will give a better perspective of the subject. The short focal lenses or normal lenses of a 35 mm camera, distort the features at close quarters when taking portraits.

The wide-angle lens can take a scene in its entirety and in most cases without having to step way back from the subject.

There are many other advantages in the wide-angle lens but are mostly only important to the professional photographer.

This is chiefly why wide-angle lens do not have so many uses for the hobbyist. In most cases he is quite able to step back to snap his picture.

So, weigh the advantages, and disadvantages, before making your purchase.

However, the movie camera makes better use of three lenses, normal, wide-angle and telephoto. This has the advantage of moving in on your subject by switching from wide angle to telephoto.

Bishop's presents guitar & flute recital

Julian Bream, world-famous guitarist and luteist, will present a recital in Bishop's Memorial Gymnasium tomorrow afternoon. The program will begin at 3 p.m. and is open to the public.

This 25-year old musician is one of the most fascinating artists to appear on the American scene in many years. In two short seasons, his Town Hall recitals have become eagerly awaited events in New York's music world.

Born in London in 1933, Bream played his first professional engagement at Cheltenham Festival in 1947. Two years later, he made his London debut at Cowdray Hall.

At the age of ten, Julian Bream took up the piano, but a year later changed his interests to the guitar. He soon came to the notice of the Society of which he was greatly influenced by Segovia.

These renditions will be followed by guitar recital. Here the artist has chosen works ranging from Bach to Joaquin Turina, a modern composer the notice of the Society of which he was greatly influenced by Segovia.

Louis St. Laurent Tentatively accepts to speak at seminar

Louis St. Laurent, former prime minister of Canada, has tentatively accepted an invitation to give the keynote address at the Quebec regional seminar of the National Federation of Canadian University Students (NFCUS). Bishop's will host the seminar the weekend of February 17 and 18.

Mr. St. Laurent presently heads a list of invited speakers that includes such well-known figures as Frank Scott, Dean of the McGill Law Faculty, and Albert Trueman, head of the Canada Council. No plans are final as yet.

Theme of the bilingual seminar is "The Canadian Identity — A positive Force." Bishop's NFCUS committee is planning on three speakers and one panel, each dealing with a specific aspect of the seminar theme.

Approximately 33 students from seven Quebec universities and colleges will attend. Delegates have been invited from the University of Montreal, McGill, Loyola, Marianopolis, Laval, the University of Sherbrooke and Bishop's. All are members of NFCUS.

Sir George Williams University, which withdrew from the Federation this September, has not been invited.

All seminar functions will be open to Bishop's students as well as to formal delegates.

Hidden barriers to freer U.S. trade

The announcement by President Kennedy that he will fight for a reduction in tariffs in an effort to promote world trade is greeted by the trading nations of the world as a sign the United States chief executive appreciates the need for expanded trade as a deterrent to Communist infiltration.

Undoubtedly Mr. Kennedy is sincere in his expressed desire to cut tariff barriers but, unfortunately, the published levels of customs duties are not the worst barrier a foreign manufacturer must hurdle in his effort to sell his products on the rich American market.

The United States tariff schedule is filled with hidden and indirect bars to the easy export of goods to that country. Too often when a foreign producer develops a substantial market in the United States, he finds his product reclassified and brought under another classification which carries a much higher rate of duty.

These category changes can be effected by some junior official of the customs department at the insistence of some domestic producer who finds himself facing competition from a foreign source.

Another difficulty faced by many potential exporters is the lengthy delay in obtaining a ruling on the classification of their products.

Sometimes products are held up in customs for months while officials debate among themselves as to which rate of duty shall apply to the article in question. There are many recorded instances in recent years of foreign firms losing valuable orders because the purchaser became disgusted with these delays and turned to a domestic producer.

These are causes of irritation which the President could remove by executive order or by the simple process of telling the department heads to adopt a logical policy in determining duties.

Until these hidden barriers to trade are removed, outsiders will find it difficult to compete effectively with domestic producers in the United States.

Dominican Republic future murky

That the end of the Trujillo regime in Dominica did not solve all of that republic's problems has been clearly evident by the disturbed and in many ways confusing situation of the past few weeks.

Latest reports indicate the country is still in the grip of unrest, caused mainly by conflict between remnants of Trujillo support, the left-of-centre 14th of June movement and the present government.

In an effort to bring some stability to the country, president Joaquin Balaguer this week proposed the creation of a provisional civilian-military junta headed by himself.

If one is to give Balaguer's government a designation, it would appear that his rule could, at the present time at least, be called a conservative one.

It certainly does not appear that so long as Balaguer remains in power and is able to enforce his will the Dominican Republic is in any danger of going into the Communist camp the way Cuba did.

Balaguer has shown opposition to Communist influence by blaming riots and looting this week on the Reds, and his reliance on the military forces at his command shows a strong right wing bias.

It will be interesting to watch how this right wing tendency develops. Balaguer has made attempts to set up democratic forms of government machinery; he has, for example, enunciated a number of reform proposals, including the creation of a vice-presidency (a position now lacking), and invited all opposition groups to help form a government in September, an invitation that was not taken up by at least one major opposition party.

But the danger exists of yet another dictatorship developing. Batista, when he was first elected president of Cuba in 1940-44, gave the Cubans a liberal constitution and a new national bank managing sound currency. But he gathered military power around himself and turned conservatism into something resembling Fascism.

This is not to say that Balaguer is on the way to becoming another Trujillo or a Batista. It is too early now to say for certain what he or the Dominican Republic will become.

But the possibility of a new dictatorship exists, as does the possibility of extreme leftist, anti-Trujillo groups attempting a coup.

It is not yet the time to see anything very encouraging in the Dominican situation.

New town hall for Cowansville

There is a saying that fine feathers do not make a fine bird. Yet it cannot be denied that brilliant plumage does enhance a creature.

And so it is with the new $195,000 Cowansville town hall which opens officially this Sunday.

The town hall is a well designed, attractive building featuring a panelled council room and a spacious office for the mayor.

Of course a new modern building does not guarantee good municipal government and to some there may be no connection between the two.

There is, however, a connection. A properly designed town hall which houses fire and police departments as well as municipal offices is conducive to orderly, efficient administration aided by high morale.

For the residents of Cowansville the new town hall is a proud reminder that their town is progressing.

It is something to point to with pride.

Other papers say:

Archaic taxes for the right to work

Municipalities in this part of the country have been concentrating on putting people to work if possible. Now we learn that in the staid Prince Edward Island of the potato and fox farmers they are taxing the people for the privilege of working if they do not live within the municipal boundaries. Fortunately no other province has laws so anachronistic as to permit such a practice or we would probably see municipal councils elsewhere charging a head tax for employment.

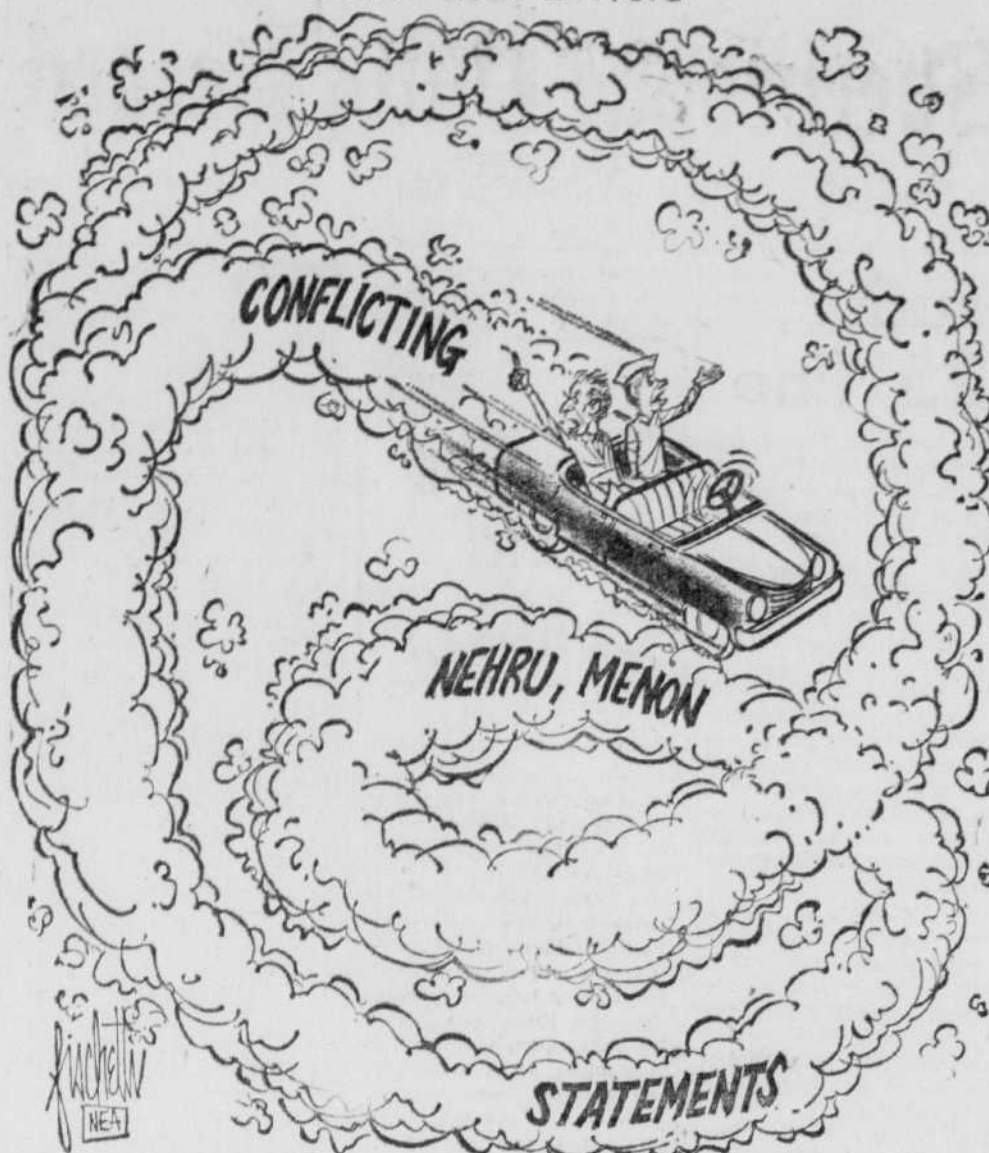

As far as we know, Charlottetown started the ball rolling by passing a bylaw assessing everyone working in the city and living in a suburb or on a farm $25 for working in it. The suburbs retaliated with a $15 tax and the farming townships took their place in line at the bottom of the list with a $5 tax. All of these are legal under the Village Service Act and the Town Act.

P.E.I. has a feudal background. Originally a French colony, the British conquered it in the 18th century, tossed the poor farmers in the galleys and hauled them off to Louisiana in the Evangeline migrations. The British then started their own form of feudalism. They divided the colony into 67 townships and bestowed mammoth estates on loyal servants of the House of Hanover. From 1769 until the Canadian federal cabinet paid off the landlords in 1875 and turned the land over to the farmers, the tenants lived under a form of tenure similar to feudal days with landlords sometimes owning more than the human eye can see.

We do not know when this legislation permitting taxation of the right to work was passed but it also looks like a throwback to those days.

Adventures with God

Our CD plans may be inadequate but He has a plan for survival

Twenty-four hours after Exercise Tocsin B the majority of Canadians were in the old rut of apathy and indifference. Relatively few who heard the wail of sirens and the Take Cover orders showed any concern regarding their own or others' future.

Those who were concerned were frustrated by a sense of the futility of measures for survival. And in company with the indifferent and apathetic they went back to eating and drinking and living as they have always done.

But the wail of sirens had a profound effect on some people particularly on those who are versed in the Bible and are expecting a worldwide climatic holocaust that will end this dispensation of injustice, unrighteousness and tribulation in a final stroke of judgment.

As we listened we were one of those overcome by a sense of futility. When the Take Cover warning sounded we had no place of refuge ready and again we began to wonder about all the little children who greet us on the street. What of them?

COMMUNITY SHELTER
We have had a full and happy life and by the law of averages our days are numbered and we are prepared to go out into the darkness trusting God. But we would like to see something done to give our younger countrymen a chance to rebuild a new world wherein dwelleth righteousness.

Earlier we suggested a community effort to build a shelter but only one church group responded. The majority feel that it is useless to spend money for shelters when the chances of survival are limited.

But the promise of God and the prophecies of His ancient spokesmen assure us that for the sake of His elect the days of tribulation will be shortened and enough dedicated, God-honoring men and women will be left to carry out the plan of God.

The wail of sirens sent us back to the only Book that throws light on the world situation. And we reviewed with renewed interest Isaiah 26. The chapter is graphic.

DIVINE EXERCISE
It is a divine word picture of the Tocsin B exercise. It acquaints His people with signs and signals which will give them their cue to Take Cover in the day when "He shall bring down them that dwell on high; the lofty city, he layeth it low; he layeth it low even to the ground; he bringeth it even to dust."

In the midst of the fury He will direct His elect saying: "Come, my people, enter thou into thy chambers (or bomb shelters) and shut thyself as it were for a little moment, until the indignation is overpast."

"For, behold, the Lord cometh out of his place to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity; the earth also shall disclose her blood, and she shall no more cover her slain." Isaiah 26:20, 21.

Under the mighty destructive forces many of the chambers (or shelters) men are building today will crumble like a house of cards and the occupants will perish with them.

It is my firm belief that in that day of fury and judgment men will witness the miraculous preserving power of God at work in a convincing way.

"He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty" who shall "deliver him from the snare of the fowler and the noise-some pestilence" and "He shall cover him with his feathers."

TO BE PROTECTED
Therefore those who trust in God and abide under his shadow may expect to be protected and need not be afraid for "the destruction that wasteth at noon day."

Says the Bible: "A thousand shall fall at thy side and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee. Only with thine eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked. Because thou has made the Lord . . . even the most High, thy habitation . . . For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways." Psalm 91.

A few years ago there was a terrible earthquake in a town in South America. The missionaries in a certain town had been persecuted and misrepresented but they stayed on bringing the good news of the Gospel to the people. Daily they prayed that God would vindicate them in some way and convince the people of their sincerity and faith.

The earthquake destroyed every building in the town except the mission property. Hundreds of people were killed and injured but not one of the mission staff suffered a scratch.

MISSIONARIES SPARED
They were spared to carry on an extensive ministry among the natives who were convinced that this little group of devoted people were indeed divinely sent and divinely protected.

We met the missionary who had this experience. And we OTTAWA — Finance Minister Fleming was not rebuffed by Prime Minister Macmillan last weekend. Despite London press despatches to the contrary, we now have Mr. Fleming's emphatic declaration that "there is no truth whatever" in the suggestion he had been rebuffed.

All that happened, he explained, is that he asked Macmillan for a text of a statement the British government made at the start of its Common Market negotiations, but Macmillan didn't give it to him.

The British PM didn't say yes and he didn't say no and he didn't say maybe, so Fleming doesn't know if he'll get this text for which High Commissioner George Drew has been asking for more than a month.

But rebuff? Heavens, no! That's no rebuff.

Mr. Fleming also cleared up another point in the press conference he held following his return from Europe, namely, what about the promises of Macmillan and Commonwealth Secretary Sandys that in a choice between the Common Market and the Commonwealth, Britain would choose the latter.

"They've given us their assurances they're going to do everything they can to protect Commonwealth interests," Fleming replied, adding "we rely on those assurances."

Then the finance minister belittled the value of this weakened interpretation of the original Macmillan-Sandys commitment.

"It's not going to be easy for the British government to do that," he said. And if anyone missed his point, he repeated himself more explicitly: "It's going to be EXTREMELY difficult," he said with just that stress, "for the British to carry forward their objective."

The whole text and tenor of Fleming's comments indicated that the minister had returned home after talks with Macmillan, Sandys and Drew in London, and President de Gaulle in Paris, convinced that Britain is going to join the ECM, let the chips fall where they may, and that France will not go along with British maintenance of Commonwealth preferences after Britain joins the ECM.

On Tuesday Trade Minister Hees disclosed his department is making a thorough study of the advantages and disadvantages that would follow if Canada joined the Common Market. Then, he said, "we will know whether joining the Common Market would be a net gain or a net loss in production and employment for Canada as a whole."

While Mr. Hees was collecting kudos for being on the ball, Mr. Fleming was saying in effect that Mr. Hees was wasting his time.

"We wouldn't be welcomed in there (the Common Market) now even if we wanted to join," Fleming declared because the ECM is "essentially a European market. It does contemplate the association of overseas territories, but not of the kind . . . we have in the Commonwealth." Besides, he said, the ECM has European political union as its ultimate objective, and so the Common Market nations do not want non-European countries as members.

"This is not a course (ECM membership) that is open to Canada," he declared. Canada is barred from joining "by the nature of the institution that was created," he said.

It would appear that in the trade game, the Tory team has two quarterbacks, and they're not calling the same signals.

CNR, union begin experiment

Streamlined contract tried out

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP) — A new labor agreement between the CNR and one of its biggest unions, worked out during a year's quiet negotiations, has gone into effect experimentally in Edmonton.

Both the CNR and the union—the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC)—hail the new pact as the most significant forward step of its kind in North American railway labor relations.

Federal Labor Minister Michael Starr calls it striking evidence of management-union cline in business, the CNR within which special planned to set up a carefully planned and says both integrated road-rail system of parties deserve congratulations, delivery, using trains for long in the agreement eventually will haul with trucks making the

Both company and union say the plan put into operation in Edmonton provides a good basis for a nation-wide program and, barring unforeseen complications, few revisions are expected.

Basically the new program means the railway and union will be tearing up three admittedly antiquated contracts, one each for the freight, express and cartage employees.

Replacing them will be one new contract, streamlined to meet the needs of both labor and management in the competitive transportation industry.

capital amounts at least to usurpation and at most to a kind of creeping aggression of which the UN might reasonably take note as "a threat to peace."

If the Communists insist upon incorporating East Berlin into their "Democratic" Republic, there would remain then no further reason why Western powers should not recognize West Berlin as constitutionally a part of West Germany with voting members in its Parliament.

All these possibilities are less desirable than the possibility of resuming negotiations on a bilateral rather than a "dictate" basis. When the Soviet Union is willing to do this, it may expect to find Washington and Bonn — and even Paris and Moscow — readily responsive. Let Moscow have as much time as it likes to think it over.

From the company point of view, this is a major step toward speeding up revision of its package freight and express operations to meet the increasing competition from trucking firms.

More and more shippers are turning to trucks to carry the highly-rated package freight new pact as the most significant forward step of its kind in North American railway labor relations.

Bygone days

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
(From the Record of Wednesday, November 25, 1936)

The City of Sherbrooke's population was placed at 30,908 an increase of 1,396 over the 1935 city census of 29,512 residents. The West Ward with 9,134 residents had the largest population. The East Ward came next with 7,363 residents, and the North Ward third with 5,857 residents, followed by the South Ward with 5,122 residents. The Centre or business Ward, with 3,422 residents had the smallest population.

The cafeteria tea and sale held in the Oddfellows' Hall, Scotstown, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of St. Alban's Church, was a decided success. The fancy work table was in charge of Mrs. Scott Parsons, Mrs. Basil Woolley and Mrs. G. C. Beard. The table of useful articles was in charge of Mrs. Roy Desruisseaux, while Mrs. Robins was in charge of the candies. Miss Bea Cowan supervised the fish pond. The cafeteria was convened by Mrs. H. A. Scarth, Mrs. A. H. Cowling and Mrs. Harvey Parsons. Cashier was Mr. George Riglar.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Housing situation is grave, speakers describe problems

RICHMOND—(Special)—is great. Board president C. A. Chartier said that a committee should be of formed members to help solve this housing problem.

The need for more rentals, homes and possibly apartment dwellings was brought up by five members of the board who gave their views on the situation in this community.

The speakers were Paul V. Delaney who stressed the need for more homes, Gilles Marcotte who said a survey should be made as to what is actually required, Dr. Smith spoke on the construction side of the project, George Savoie on the financial aspects and Roger Trudeau on the need for a resident contractor.

Each subject was thoroughly outlined by the speakers and they stressed their points as to the gravity of this situation in Richmond today.

The need for more dwellings is great, they said and in order to help serve those working in our local industries, we should have more dwellings available for rent. There are not enough vacant dwellings to house those wanting to remain in Richmond. Many have to travel back and forth to their homes outside of Richmond and most would like to have their own homes right here, near their place of employment. To help out this situation, the necessity to build more homes or an apartment building

Board president C. A. Chartier said that a committee should be of formed members to help solve this housing problem.

Mr. Wilfred Lupien, appointed chairman of the committee, agreed on this and said that the members would agree to find out what is actually needed here.

Sitting in on the meeting were 75 members and friends with head table guests being Rev. Hugh I. Apps, Anglican minister; George Poulin, board secretary; C. A. Chartier, president; Mayor Alfred Geoffroy, H. C. Griffiths, treasurer; Jerome Desmarais, newly-elected president of the Richmond Junior Chamber of Commerce; Wilfred Lupien chairman of the Housing Committee and Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Desmarais reminded the members of the 20th anniversary of the local Jaycees to be celebrated next Monday evening, Nov. 27th at the Cabaret Richmond with cocktails and banquet. A special guest speaker will be on hand in the person of Mr. Fernand Drapeau, member of the Executive Committee of the City of Montreal.

the various committees on the Board with the membership now totalling 104. Mr. Marcotte reported that membership should reach 125 shortly.

Speaking on the pollution problem, Mr. R. A. Marcotte and Mr. George Ewing noted that a meeting will be held in Sherbrooke next Wednesday to discuss the question and asked members who are interested in this problem to attend.

B of M announces new high levels

MONTREAL — Bank of Montreal resources, deposits and loans all reached new high levels in 1961, according to the bank's 144th annual statement for the year ended October 31, published today.

The statement, covering the most active year in the history of the B of M's history, shows resources increasing 13 per cent over 1960 — to $3,950 million.

Deposits reached $3,647 million, up 14 per cent from the $3,200 million figure of a year ago, and total loans rose nine per cent to a record $1,934 million.

The year's operations of some 890 offices at home and abroad produced record net earnings of $14,578,817, an increase of 2.5 per cent over 1960. Taxes, also at a new high, amounted to $18,043,791, compared with $17,352,044 a year ago.

Around the campus at Bishop's

By NORMAN WEBSTER

Despite a load of publicity, the annual blood clinic at Bishop's failed to reach its objective of 300 pints. It did, however, manage a healthy jump over last year — from 243 pints to 273.

Bishop's student donors numbered 193, an increase of 20 from last year's total. A large number of students also registered at the blood clinic, but were unable to donate blood because of tender years or former disease.

Bishop's again retained the Codere Cup over the University of Sherbrooke. The trophy is awarded annually to the institution which amasses the highest percentage of blood donors from its student body.

In Bishop's inter-faculty competition, Education walked off with the honors, all eight potential teachers donating.

The National President of NFCUS, Walter McLean, visited Bishop's and the University of Sherbrooke last Sunday and Monday. He was accompanied by his wife and the Federation's permanent Executive Secretary, Leonard Legault.

Mr. McLean spoke to members of Bishop's Students' Executive Council, NFCUS committee and World University Service committee Monday night at the University.

Outlining the expanding and vital role of NFCUS, both nationally and internationally, the president emphasized the importance of a Dominion-wide federation of Canadian university students. He also dealt with the purposes, services and accomplishments of NFCUS.

The Reverend D. S. Forth, professor of Systematic Theology and New Testament at Bishop's became the father of twin daughters last Saturday. The twins, Mrs. Forth and Dr. Forth are all reported doing well.

Student delegates to the McGill Conference on World Affairs, Vic Suthren and Dave Knox returned to the University Thursday terming it "a tremendously interesting and worthwhile experience."

The conference theme was "Russia and the West: Challenge and Response." Featured were the presence of two Soviet students and an address by the Russian Ambassador to Canada, A. A. Aroutunian.

Said Bishop's Vic Suthren: "The Russian students were obviously well-acquainted with the party line. Each question was given the familiar Soviet answer."

The Students' Executive Council (SEC), at its regular weekly meeting Wednesday, voted to send a Bishop's delegation to the annual University Model United Nations at McGill in February.

The SEC also voted approval of CUSO — the Canadian University Service Overseas organization — Canada's non-governmental equivalent of the Peace Corps.

In a final important item of business, it was announced that at long last a choice of ice cream flavors, one of them vanilla, will be offered in the men's dining hall. No longer will there be nothing but chocolate ice cream to go with lemon meringue pie.

On the sporting scene, both major athletic teams began their seasons on the wrong foot this week, but things don't look as dark as this might seem to indicate.

The basketball squad dropped a pair of teams from south of the border, 62-28 to Lyndonville and 66-42 to Johnson State.

The games have served as a quick toughening-up, however, giving game experience that will prove valuable in a

Meanwhile back at the ranch, Bishop's hockey team will host Macdonald in the Sherbrooke Arena. The game begins tonight at 7:30.

Gaiters lost their season opener to the Technical Institute of Sherbrooke 3-2 Monday evening. Holding a two-goal lead going into the third period, Bishop's threw away on a raft of cheap penalties that allowed Technical to press hard and score three times.

Against Macdonald, Bishop's will ice a team containing nine rookies.

END BITS

Carl Ekland, noted Antarctic explorer, gave a talk Thursday on penguins and Antarctica during the International Geophysical Year. He also showed an interesting color film dealing with the amusing habits and elegant sartorial turn-out of the penguins.

The English Forum heard a paper by William Converse on Mordecai Richler at its Thursday afternoon meeting.

The Film Society this Friday is showing a movie in keeping with the general pre-exam spirit at Bishop's: On The Beach.

Cookshire WA makes plans for Christmas party

COOKSHIRE — At the bi-monthly meeting of the W.A. of Trinity United Church, held at the home of Mrs. Earl Parker, plans were made for the last meeting of the year, the Christmas party to be held at Mrs. Stanley McVetty's on Dec. 5.

The treasurer gave a favorable report on the proceeds of the recent tea and sale. It was decided to make a donation to the Committee of Stewards, and also to pay the insurance premium on the church and parsonage.

Members were reminded of the meeting to be held in McKenzie Chapel in Bury on Nov. 28, when Rev. Ernest Breen will explain the new United Church Women's organization.

Mrs. F. Tredinnick was in the chair, and Mrs. Breen conducted the devotions.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Parker. General Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Parker and two children, of Ste. Rose, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Parker and of Mrs. Florence Cook.

White Gift Sunday will be observed in Trinity United Church on Dec. 10, and the Christmas tree party will take place on Dec. 16.

make news, while private members do not. Thus a statement by a cabinet member receives wide publicity while the remarks of a private member, especially in the opposition, get little coverage outside their own bailliwicks. An exception, of course, is the Opposition leader himself.

The result is that Mr. Johnson now finds that less prominence is given the remarks of some of his lieutenants than they received prior to the 1960 elections. This accounts, perhaps, for some of the complaints voiced by Mr. Johnson.

ON THE HOME FRONT — The local Progressive Conservatives are planning an active propaganda this fall, with a series of general meetings being held at which prominent members of the party will review its accomplishments and records.

Probable speakers include Transport Minister Leon Balcer, Associate Defence Minister Sevigny and Mrs. Paul Sauve, president of the Quebec Progressive Conservative Association.

No dates have been set for the meetings.

Jo Duperrault, who survived 3½ days without food or water on a tiny cork raft.

But before long there was only one survivor. Capt. Julian Harvey, who had told of a fire aboard the Bluebell, heard of Terry Jo's rescue and slashed his wrists before she could give her version of the disaster.

When the little girl revived, she told of a night of terror when she awoke to find her mother and brother lying in pools of blood, was struck by the angry captain and groped her way onto the raft as the yacht went down.

The body of her sister, Renee, 7, was recovered on the lifeboat with Harvey. Nothing was known of the fate of the other two persons aboard — Harvey's wife and Terry Jo's father.

ROCKEFELLER HUNT

A member of the famous Rockefeller family disappeared on the swampy coastline of Dutch New Guinea last Sunday, touching off an intensive search. Michael Rockefeller, 23-year-old son of New York State Governor Nelson Rockefeller, was still missing six days after he left a companion on a disabled native boat and set out swimming for shore with two empty gasoline cans.

SEPARATIST SUSPENDED

The Quebec separatist movement was in the spotlight again this week as the movement's leader, Dr. Marcel Chaput, was suspended for two weeks from his biochemistry job with the Defence Research Board for defying a ruling that he could not have leave to address a Quebec City meeting.

At the meeting, Laval University's first Congress on Canadian Affairs, Chaput had declared that "we want our independence . . . we are tired of being a minority."

In a speech to the same congress, Quebec's Premier Jean Lesage warned that Confederation "could finish by endangering its very existence" if it impeded Quebec's development.

AIR DISASTERS

An Argentine Comet IV jet airliner crashed in Brazil Thursday, killing all 52 persons aboard. On the same day a U.S. Air Force C-119 flying boxcar went down in the Yukon Territory. Four persons were rescued but six were missing.

WEEK IN QUEBEC

Delegates to the annual McGill University conference on world affairs this week heard two opposing points on view on West German foreign policy.

Amassap Aroutunian, Russian ambassador to Canada, said "the absence of a German peace treaty makes it possible for the West German revanchists and militarists to prepare a new war, this time a nuclear war."

Harry Schwartz of the New York Times said the assumption that West German foreign policy is based on revenge is "fantastic nonsense." The remarkable thing, he said "is that there is so little militarism today in Germany, a country that was defeated and humiliated in the last war."

Montreal lawyer H. Heward Stikeman told the Annual conference of the Canadian Tax Foundation that "the present income tax system is harmful to Canada as a growing nation."

It had enough legal loopholes to permit "the sophisticated to shift the burden to the unsophisticated . . ."

All of these boys were fine Cubs and will carry into Scouts the good-will and enthusiasm they have always displayed.

Honka, a Social Democrat whose candidacy won support from four centre and right-wing parties, said "the good of the fatherland" made his withdrawal necessary. Two other candidates, left-winger Emil Skog and Communist P. Atlio, were still in the race but Kekkonen's re-election was assured.

CALLER ELECTION

Kekkonen, a member of Finland's Agrarian Party, called the election after receiving Russia's Oct. 30 note. The move was followed Thursday by a call from the legislature speaker, Social Democrat Karl August Lagerholm, for Kekkonen's continuance in office because of "exceptional circumstances."

Kekkonen met Khrushchev before attending a luncheon at which the Soviet premier claimed West Germany had transformed Scandinavia into a potential battleground.

Khrushchev's speech appeared to call for an early Finnish reply to the Oct. 30 note. Before going to Novosibirsk, Kekkonen had sent his foreign minister to Moscow to sound out the Russians on their note.

Khrushchev said Russia was concerned about anti-Soviet right-wing groups in Finland. "We regard it as our most important duty to take all measures now, before it is too late, to curb the West German militarists and revenge-seekers who are arrogantly demanding the revision of the state frontiers that took shape after the Second World War," he said.

Khrushchev did not specify what measures would be taken.

Spotlight On Business

By JOHN BELANGER

Canadian Press Staff Writer

It was a week of higher volume, lower industrial prices and increased speculative action.

Lake Dufault again started by rising $1.75 to $12.12½ with volume of 379,357 shares. Dufault issued a revised assay report Tuesday on hole N-127 (100 feet south of N-126, which is 100 feet east of the discovery hole) which showed slightly lower copper values, and higher silver values.

Speculative action increased on the whole with a number of newcomers leaping into the fray. Wilsey - Coghlan, with property adjacent to Lake Dufault in Quebec's Norbec field, lost three cents to 50 cents and finished first on the weekly most active list.

Black Bay Uranium, Canadian North Inca, a newcomer, and Harrison Minerals all gained small amounts, while Acadia Uranium dropped two cents to 17 cents.

INDUSTRIALS FALL

Industrials fell 3.51 to 602.43 on index on the week, and have fallen for eight consecutive daily sessions. The drop this week was mainly due to weakness among steels, utilities and foods, with widespread fractional losses predominant.

Steels were hardest hit in the decline with Dominion Foundries and Steel, Atlas, Canadian Vickers, Page-Hersey, Dominion Bridge and Steel Company of Canada all off as much as 2½.

Utilities ranked with foods and fractional drops again made the difference. Calgary Power, Galtel Power, Consumers Gas and Shawinigan all contributed to the fall with losses as high as 8½ cents.

Weston B. Canada and Dominion Sugar and Canada Packers Baced foods with losses of $1 or more while small drops went to Loblaw A and Dominion Stores.

Liquors were somewhat stronger with Canadian Breweries, Corby's and Distillers Seagrams all ahead fractionally in moderate turnover.

The senior base metals list was decidedly ahead with Ventures, Falconbridge, Waite Amulet and Noranda 1½ at new highs in considerable volume. Gains in the four ranged as high as $3.75, while fractional advances went to Quement and Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting.

The senior basemetals index, a cross-section of 15 market leaders, closed Friday at 210.53, ahead 2.98 on the week, its highest point since May, 1957.

OILS DO WELL

Western oils fared well with new highs scattered throughout the senior list. Home A and B consolidated Mic Mac and Hudson's Bay were prominent in this category, as Bay Street analysts feverishly continued to predict a western oil boom.

Gold trading was heavier than usual amid rising prices. Dome, Kerr - Addison and Giant Velt lowknife all gained substantially, while McIntyre Porcupine after see-sawing all week, finished at $47.37 down $1.62.

Index changes at Toronto: Industrials down 3.51 to 602.43; golds up .31 to 88.50; base metals up 2.98 to 210.53 and western oils up 3.52 and 111.07.

Week's volume at Toronto was 34,831,000 shares compared with 33,242,000 last week, and the total dollar value was $56,263,792 compared with $66,233,546.

Index changes at Montreal: Banks up .36 to 71.70; utilities up .6 to 146.6; industrials down 1.9 to 331.1; papers down 4.8 to 493.2 and golds up .47 to 84.40.

Week's volume at Montreal was 762,679 industrial shares compared with 5,138,177.

Of the 445 issues traded, 177 advanced, 137 declined and 131 were unchanged.

The atomic and hydrogen bomb

The atomic era really started when we made the atomic bomb. The events that led to the fabrication of the atomic bomb during World War II are, as surprising as the creation of the engine itself. While the United States was leading a war in Europe and another one in the Pacific, they still found the means, the energy, the grey matter and the money, needed for the realization, in four years, of a project which in other circumstances would have required half a century. The costs of the enterprise determines the amplitude: two billions dollars.

It would be difficult to quote all those who had a part in this task: American, British, Canadian scientists and engineers, and also thousands of workmen in gigantic factories.

Then, on August 6, 1945, at about eight o'clock in the morning, three planes flew over the Japanese city of Hiroshima. From the bomb-bay of one, an object was dropped and began to fall toward the city greeding down on a parachute. A short time later, after the planes had flown out of range the bomb went off. It was still in the air, well above the rooves of Hiroshima.

There was sheet of seering fire in the air that spread blindingly over a tremendous area. Miles away, it was followed later by a tremendous clap of thunder, though accounts of those nearer give no mention of any such sound, the shock was too violent, apparently, too unbraced, to create normal sound waves until dissipated by distance.

That was the first practical application, in full scale, of atomic power. A relatively weak bomb of U-235 had been set off, and men had signalled the beginning of a new age with a violence equals to the change. The bomb had come out of the laboratory, and atomic power had created to be a matter of exploration into the universe. From now on, it would have to be thought of as a weapon.

The atomic bomb is used also as detonator to start in motion the hydrogen bomb which is composed of 98% of light hydrogen and 2% of heavy hydrogen. Because we knew that if four atoms of hydrogen were transformed in to only one atom of helium, it will be a loss of mass. This loss, conforming to Einstein's equation, would be transformed in to energy. Computations show that we would have a loss of 0.0303 unities of atomic mass that would be equivalent to energy release of 28,200,000 volts electrons. That explains an hydrogen and cobalt bomb, going off over the sea, would release huge quantities of radioactive power which, pushed out towards the earth by the winds, would be able to destroy immense territories. Many eminent scientists maintained that several explosions of that kind would be able to annihilate all life on this planet.

In autumn 1951, the explosion of an hydrogen bomb had been set off a small island. The explosion started out by a flash ten times brighter than the sun, followed by a wave of heat comparable to the brief contact of a red hot iron. A mass of fire went off in the air then thousands of tons of soil were thrown in the sky 20 seconds after the explosion, a huge mushroom of smoke took form, 24 km high and 45 km wide. A quarter hour past, the explosion, the vegetation began to burn and all the island was in flame for six hours.

Such is the enormous power of this bomb. On March the first 1954, another explosion indicated the beginning of a new series of tests. The aim of these experiences is not only to perfect an ideal weapon for the defence of the country but also to find out about more atomic energy so that we may found several peaceful applications.

How Science Week began

The project of instituting a national "Science Week" has again become a reality this year. The project which was started last year through the efforts of the faculty of Science of the University of Sherbrooke on a local basis received wide public acclaim and interest.

This initial success proved right the opinion of the faculty authorities that this project should be undertaken on a national basis.

The project of "Science week" was conceived by the Faculty of Science of Sherbrooke University was outlined in the Canadian Engineers Institute convention in Winnipeg and then inaugurated in Sherbrooke. The success of the event prompted the Institute, to recommend during its next convention in Vancouver, that all the universities organize a similar event.

The Institute left the universities interested in organizing "Science Week" on their campus the liberty to choose the date of the event and the nature of the activities which would be undertaken.

It is hoped that the Institute will undertake to coordinate the projects of various universities by establishing a general plan based on a general theme which could be studied under its various aspects in the college campuses from coast to coast.

The advantages of instituting a national week are three fold. First it will enable science students and teachers to learn about scientific activities outside their specific field of study, second give the secondary school students a chance to learn more about the fields in which they wish to prepare their career.

Schedule of activities

Monday, November 27

10.30 a.m. Official opening by mayor Armand Nadeau.

2.30 p.m. The reading of scientific papers by four students.

Tuesday, November 28

10.30 a.m. Showing of the film, The Strange Case of the Cosmic Rays.

6.30 p.m. Dinner meeting at which prizes will be presented to students who took part in the essay contest.

Wednesday, November 29

10.30 a.m. Showing of a film, Gateways to the Mind.

12.30 p.m. to 2 — tours through the residence and the laboratories for all faculties.

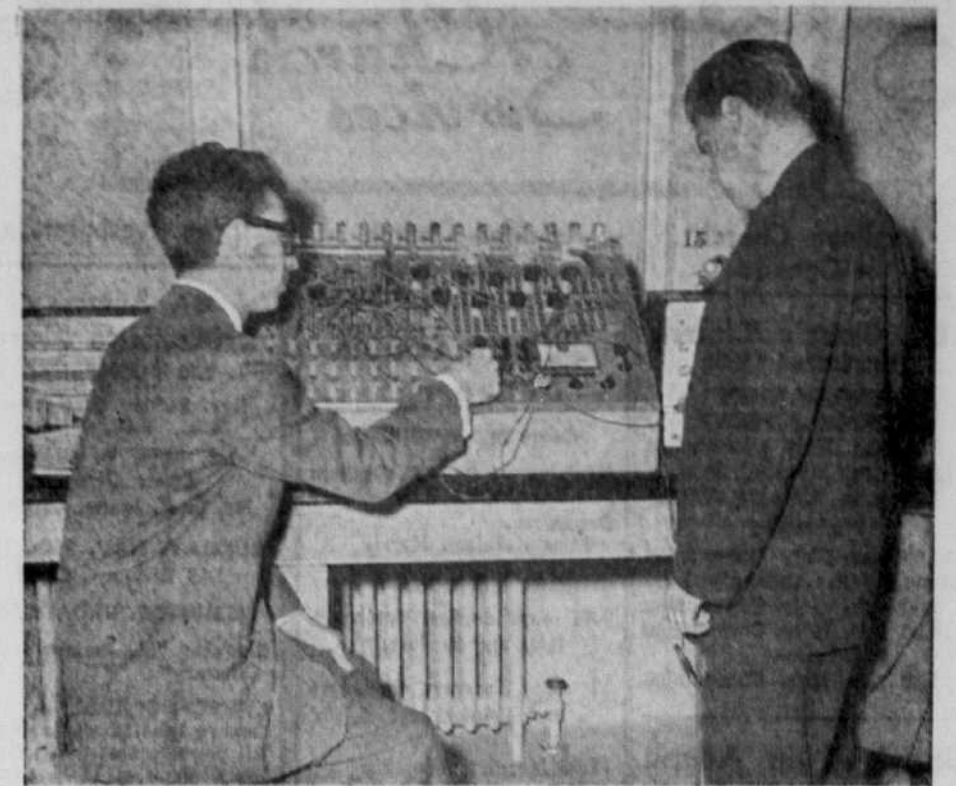

2 to 6 p.m. Tours for secondary schools.

Thursday, November 30

Guest speaker Andre Robert, talking on meteorology in the science auditorium.

Friday, December 1

7 to 10 p.m. Tours for the general public.

A challenging call to overcome evil, no matter how subtle, with the power of God will be heard this Sunday at the services in the Christian Science churches, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced." Typical of the pertinent Bible selections will be this verse from Revelation: "He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son." Correlative passages from the Christian Science text book "Science and Health" by Mary Baker Eddy will include: "At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good." The Golden Text will be from I John: "Whosoever is born of God overcometh the world; and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."

Yuletide atmosphere prevails at winter wonderland tea in L'ville

"Walking in a Winter Wonderland" — To the strains of soft organ music the guests were received by Mrs. F. Smith and Mrs. T. J. Matthews at the door of the St. George's Church hall, Lennoxville, when the members of the St. Monica's Guild were hosts at their Winter Wonderland Tea and Sale, held Thursday afternoon.

The upper hall and the tea room were decorated throughout in a Yuletide setting with boughs of spruce and poinsettias arranged in the windows and in baskets and vases about the rooms. Strung across the hall were strings of colored tinsel and lights and upon the walls were large murals of snowmen.

Placed either side of the stage were two small Christmas trees, and by ascending the stairs the kiddies were highly delighted with the fish-pond which was set amid an Eskimo setting, complete with igloo and fur trees, and even a big brown bear. This was supervised by Mrs. A. Hunting and Mrs. J. Mitchell.

MUSIC'S RICHEST VOICE IN YOUR CHURCH

The table of delectable home-made cooking was in the capable hands of Mrs. A. Kyle, Mrs. H. Wollerton, Mrs. C. Belding and Mrs. L. Memory, the cashier being Mrs. A. Hall.
Mrs. D. Miller, Mrs. H. Hunting, Mrs. C. Dougherty and Mrs. J. Scott were in charge of the apron table.
The table of very lovely knitted articles was cared for by Mrs. G. Herring and Mrs. R. Mathews, while the Christmas table which consisted of centre-pieces, jams, puddings, etc., was centred by a large snow man holding a twig in hand with very pretty snowballs made of styrofoam and covered with multicolored sequins hanging from each branch. These were made by members and sold for Christmas tree decorations. This table was under the supervision of Mrs. W. Pearson, Mrs. N. Hunting, Mrs. H. Nichol, Mrs. R. Mitchell and Mrs. L. Saunders.
The girls of the G. A. did very well in their handiwork this year and decided to have a small table to display their articles and sell their boxes of peppermint patties. The Misses Elaine Memory and Judy Hart, displayed talent as sales girls.

The cashier for the event was Mrs. E. Hobbs, and the decorating committee consisted of Mrs. H. Way, Mrs. A. Hunting, Mrs. J. Mitchell, Mrs. G. McKinsey and Mrs. T. J. Matthews.

After the guests had browsed around the upper hall and made several purchases, they made their way to the tea room, where a salad plate was served, with hot rolls and a variety of squares. The individual tables were arranged with white damask cloths, with an unusual centre-piece, depicting a skating rink, banked with silver sprinkled snow, in the middle was a red candle and skating around on the ice were pipe-cleaner figures, the girls wearing a short checkered skirt. The ice was made of aluminum which gave a very striking effect.

Pouring at the tea table which was arranged with a white linen cloth and centred with a large silver vase of red carnations and pine, were Mrs. T. J. Matthews, Mrs. R. Blake, Mrs. K. Herring, Mrs. H. Hall and Mrs. L. Saunders. The tea replenisher was Mrs. A. Wright.

The dining room conveners were Mrs. H. Way, assisted by the Misses O. Harvey and M. Hurley, Mrs. H. Pratt, Mrs. J. Planche, Mrs. A.

...Or life is tough enough for plump chassis lassie

In Los Angeles a wife sued her husband for divorce on the grounds that he told her she was "too fat." She won, too.

Marriage

Wellspeak-Russell

SOUTH LEE, MASS. — The marriage of Audrey Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton K. Russell, Great Barrington, Mass., and formerly of Sutton, Quebec, and James George Wellspeak of South Lee, Mass., took place on Saturday, November 18 at 10 a.m. in St. Francis Church, South Lee, Mass., with Father Champoux officiating in a double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with baskets of white mums and the organist was Mrs. William Corcoran.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a gown of satin with fitted pearl-trimmed bodice, bateau neckline, long tapered sleeves and bouffant skirt with bow at the waistline terminating in a bustle. Her elbow-length illusion veil was held in place by a tear drop pearl-encrusted crown. She carried an orchid on a white covered prayer book.

Miss Nancy Rodda of Pittsfield, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Anne Russell, the bride's sister, and Mrs. David Griffin, of Lee, who wore matching dresses of forest green velvet bodices and Nile green satin skirts with matching headpieces and veils. They carried cascades of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

Mr. Gerald Gallagher of Pittsfield was best man and the ushers were Mr. David Griffin and Mr. Donald LaGrande of Lee.

The mother of the bride chose a winter white wool dress with deep purple hat and accessories. Her corsage was of orchids and pompons.

The mother of the groom wore an emerald green wool jacket dress with white feathered hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow pompons.

Coffee was served following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents with a reception at 12.30 p.m. at Cove Inn, Great Barrington, after which the happy couple left for a honeymoon to Washington, D.C., the bride travelling in a beige wool dress with leopard and brown accessories.

Upon their return they will reside in Great Barrington.

Maybe the judge decided that women who have trouble staying as thin as fashion models, whose figures are currently considered ideal, get enough guff without having to hear from their husbands that they are too fat to be attractive.

Other women make sure that the woman who is overweight is always conscious of her less than slender figure. Oh, they don't tell her she is too fat or even mention that she has put on a few extra pounds. They are more subtle than that.

They call attention to the contrast between their own pencil-slim figures and her plump lines with such remarks as, "I've simply got to quit eating lunch. I'm up to 110 pounds. Isn't that disgusting?"

Or they delicately chide at the number of calories in the dessert the not-thin friend has just ordered and then say "Just black coffee for me."

The overweight woman can't even pick up a magazine today without a crash diet staring her in the face or serve a delicious dinner to guests without having the women say, "It's delicious but I hate to think of how many calories are in it."

Even when she goes shopping there is the inevitable, "It's so slenderizing" comment of the saleswoman to make the overweight woman self-conscious.

So maybe the judge who gave the woman a divorce because her husband told her outright that she was too fat just decided that an overweight woman today heard enough "weighty talk" without her husband joining in the chorus.

The deft tracing of suggestive outlines

ONE WAY TICKET — Norman Levine McClelland & Stewart Ltd., 190 pp. $3.50.

Norman Levine has indeed cultivated a distinctive writing style. To some extent it resembles the clever technique of the cartoonist, a deft tracing of suggestive outlines—often grimacing the imagination of the reader to fill in relevant details.

Most of this author's collection are fragments of experience. They are vignettes of life or incidents rather than "stories". Even his personalities are vignettes of individuals and there is little effort made to delineate character. His sentences, in the main, are short and crisp. This generally fascinating effect is occasionally carried to the point of chopiness.

"The breaking waves, white scars in the dark. They gash the black in several places. The gashes grow wider. They join. One white line the length of the beach..."

The title is apt. The transient author manages to retain his round trip ticket while the people he describes have to remain in their more or less dismal and hopeless environment.

Some of the nine "stories" in this book are quite plotless, such as "A Memory of Ottawa" (the author's birthplace). This sketch of Canada's capital city consists of a succession of impressions and recollections on the occasion of a return visit to the capital by the writer.

Levine's descriptions glow at times with a hard brilliance but much of the telling seems pointless. The reader is left in the same mood of loneliness as that created by the author when he portrays the end of a summer season at a seaside resort, "the chairs stacked upside down on the tables and in the window guttered candles with the wax of the season run down and hardened..."

In one passage Levine consciously or unconsciously describes his own talent, "words just poured out of him and he could mimic almost anyone."

LEAVES FROM A JOURNAL by Queen Victoria—Andre Deutsch Ltd. . . . $4.50, 150 pp.

Intriguing and amusing

LAURELS ARE POISON by Gladys Mitchell — Penguin Books — 50c. Mrs. Beatrice Lestranger Bradley, one of fiction's most unusual detectives turns up, in this story, as Warden of a girls training college. With her sharp mind, bright black eyes and unerring cackling laugh, she considerably enlivens the normally rather staid college.

Before the mysterious disappearance of a previous Warden has been solved, skeletons appear and disappear, weird noises are heard and all sorts of hanky-panky occur. Mrs. Bradley unravels the whole tangle in her usual intriguing and amusing manner. The author has added another to her long list of successful mysteries.

D. G.

NORMAN LEVINE

Readers will have difficulties

THE JOURNAL OF MARY HERVEY RUSSELL — by Storm Jameson — Macmillan Co., 228 pp., — $3.75.

In her preface, the author tells us that she, herself, does not rightly know what she was trying to do in this book. The reader has even more difficulty in finding a special purpose between the covers.

THE JOURNAL OF MARY HERVEY RUSSELL cannot possibly be called an autobiography or even an autobiographical novel. It is, rather, a long soliloquy, a collection of reminiscences, many of which are tinged with bitterness, despair or self-loathing. There are moments when one wants to shake the heroine, if such she can be called, as one shakes an impossible child.

There are times when one wishes to comfort and reassure her. There are other times when one is startled into admiration by a truth fearlessly stated, or by a piece of purely beautiful prose.

This book is not for light entertainment. It is serious reading. It will use the emotions well. In many instances it will hold up a mental mirror and cause one to look searching into one's own mind and motives. In all, it will be well worth the effort of concentration.

— MARGARET GILBERT

A book for young and old

OWLS IN THE FAMILY — Farley Mowat, Little, Brown & Co. (Canada) Ltd.—105 pp. — $3.50.

Perhaps the highest compliment that can be paid to any work of fiction is for a critic to say that it was too short, that twice as much would be as entertaining. For young or old I think that this is true of the latest product of Farley Mowat's facile pen, "OWLS IN THE FAMILY."

The story concerns the efforts of a Saskatchewan boy (a literary soul mate of W. O. Mitchell's kid), to find, nurture and enjoy a pet owl. This he does but instead of one he ends up with two owls which, along with the rest of his menagerie of pets, afford the background for this series of engaging anecdotes.

"OWLS IN THE FAMILY", however exaggerated, is pure delight particularly for anyone who ever kept an owl as a pet or who would have liked to have done so. This reviewer falls in the former category and may well be prejudiced and even argumentative when it comes to whether owls can swim (they can't).

This is a book for a boy, a North American boy, a Canadian boy, a twelve, thirteen or fourteen year old Canadian boy for Christmas, for a birthday or for any occasion. It is suggested to you, as an adult, that you read it before the act or you may have trouble finding it again for this is a book for borrowing.

Sensitive thoughts

THE TIMBER WAS SILVER — A NOVEL OF SPIRITUAL ADVENTURE IN MODERN ROME — by Michael Novak, — Doubleday, — $4.50—286 pp.

This is the sensitive story of a young American seminarian in Rome, in doubt as to his relation with God. Richard McKay is torn between two strong desires: to gain recognition as a truly great artist, and to surrender his whole life to the Church.

Mr. Novak paints word scenes as an artist paints a picture on canvas—vivid, shining—as, in fact, Richard might have done. Indeed, I felt throughout, that the author was Richard, although he disclaims the fact in his preface. Be that as it may, he knows his subject well, having attained his Theology degree from the Gregorian University in Rome.

MUSIC ON RECORDS

By HUGH DOHERTY

WHEN SWEDEN'S GREAT TENOR JUSSI BJOERLING died in 1960 at the age of 49, the musical world was deprived of one of the most glorious voices of our time. But unlike some of the great tenors of past eras, Bjoerling and his career fall almost completely into the age of high fidelity recordings, and through them, his reputation lives on. In the first of a posthumous collection of Bjoerling performances to appear on the market, RCA Victor this month presents The Incomparable Bjoerling (mono LM 2570). In it, Bjoerling sings showpiece tenor arias from Tosca, Turandot, Cavalleria Rusticana, Verdi's Requiem Mass, La Gioconda, The Girl of the Golden West, Fedora L'Arlesiana, A Masked Ball and Manon Lescaut. The selections are ones in which the full range and beauty of the Bjoerling art are displayed to best advantage, and sound is stunning.

RESPIGHI — FESTE ROMANE; SIBELIUS — Symphony No. 7. The Philadelphia Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy cond. (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6275) — The Feste Romane is one of the most sumptuous recordings to come along in some time. The Philadelphia Orchestra performs the rich and colorful tone-poem, the last of a trilogy, in magnificent fashion, and the performance is captured in fine sound.

The Sibelius work is of a more sombre hue than the brilliant Feste Romane, and provides a fine contrast to the latter work. Mr. Ormandy and the orchestra give the symphony a thoughtful reading with moments of genuine poignancy.

BEETHOVEN — Piano Concerto No. 4 in G major; Glenn Gould, pianist; New York Philharmonic, Leonard Bernstein cond. (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6262) — This is the same concerto Mr. Gould played in his guest appearance with the Sherbrooke Symphony here a few years ago. On the recording, the performance is a spell-binding one, not only because of Gould's artistry, but also because of the novel treatment he gives it. The concerto in this recording is as much Gould at it is Beethoven, and while Beethoven purists may object to the liberties Gould takes, no one can say he doesn't add extra fascination to a tried and true concert piece.

A CHOPIN COLLECTION — Scherzo in C Sharp minor op. 39, Impromptu in F Sharp major, Op. 36, Ballade in A Flat major op. 47, Polonaise in A Flat major op. 53, Fantasia in F minor op. 49 Abram Chasins (KAPP stereo KC 9663-S) — The five recorded compositions are typical of Chopin's compact drama, of elegant, but spontaneous style, intensely expressed with high sonorities of fire and fury. Mr. Chasins' interpretation captures and transmits perfectly the enormous emotional issues raised by Chopin.

GREAT WALTZES OF THE WORLD — Freddy Martin and his orchestra (KAPP stereo KS 3261) — In a light popular vein, Mr. Martin and his orchestra play waltzes everyone is fond of in a traditional "last waltz" dance tempo. Everything from Tennessee Waltz to Tales from the Vienna Woods to Sweet Rosie O'Grady is included.

Collecting

Townships

The collecting of postal items and related material from the Townships has always been a subject written about in this column and it is felt that the work being undertaken by Dr. A. C. Hill of Sherbrooke along these lines should be recognized by local groups. Dr. Hill has a wide and varied collection of stamps but his main interests are Canadian and West Indies. One part of his collection is devoted to cancellations, and he now has these from a great number of post offices in this province, with many from now extinct offices in the Townships. The work that has to be carried out to accumulate these postmarks is prodigious, and the patience it takes to sort through thousands of covers and envelopes to see if there are any you may be missing is beyond many of us. The writer has seen much of the material that Dr. Hill has. It is amazing that so much can be obtained even in these times if you are willing to wait and search. An interesting sideline is the collecting of related material to Canada, these would include covers with cancellations commemorating visits of Royalty or world famous individuals, stamps issued by other countries in honor of certain Canadian institutions or undertakings. The Doctor is always willing to drive miles to see anything that could be of use to him and many residents of the Townships have had visits from him. It is noted that he contributed to the last catalogue published by Dr. Holmes and this is the sort of thing that makes a real philatelist. Our congratulations are extended to this stamp collector who is doing his share towards keeping the material from the Townships from going elsewhere and who appreciates the history that has become part and parcel of Canada.

Tanganyika will become an independent nation on December 9 and a new set of stamps will be placed on sale throughout the country on that day. A burning torch, symbolic of the thoughts expressed by Prime Minister Julius Nyerere will be included in the design. This great leader recently stated in speech "The people of Tanganyika would like to light a candle and put it on top of Mount Kilimanjaro which would shine beyond our borders as a ray of hope to all our fellowmen wherever they may be." The stamps will have as their theme the country's scheme for social and economic development. The 5-cent stamp will feature education and health a field where striking progress has been made. The stamp will show a teacher instructing villagers both young and old and may be taken as symbolic of the nation's desire to raise the standards of all her people. The 10-cents and 15-cents stamps will feature the work of the District Nurse and child welfare. The 5/ stamp will indicate the change from age old hand cultivation to modern methods and the 10/ stamp will show one of the great diamond mines. The 15-cent and 20-cent stamps will show the coffee being picked and the corn being harvested. The 50-cent and 2/ values will show the scenic and big game attractions of this vast country. The 1/30 and 2/9 stamps will depict the great burning torch of liberty and the motto of this new country "Freedom and Unity". The stamps will be printed in yellow, black, blue, green, pink and brown and should form a part of all collections of British stamps as well as representing one of the great new countries of awakening Africa.

The Christmas stamp from Australia has been issued and the illustration is taken from an ancient prayer book. The message is one of hope for all Christian people. Hungary will issue a set of stamps consisting of eight values showing medicinal and industrial plants. There will be the following flowers shown, Monk's Hood, Centaury, Blue Iris, Throat-apple, Purple Hollyhock, Hop, Poppy and Mullein. This will make a nice addition to your collection.

FINDING INFECTION
SOURCES PROTECTS
CHILDREN FROM TB

At the next meeting of your parent-Teachers Association, it might be helpful if you brought the following summary of a recent report to the attention of fellow-members:

An outbreak of primary tuberculosis occurred in a rural public school.

Alert school authorities made the significant observation that most of the infected children rode on a single bus.

Examination of the bus driver revealed the fact that he was a victim of the disease and presumably the source of the infection.

When tuberculin testing was done throughout the school, it was revealed that the youngsters who rode this single bus had a reaction rate that was 18 times the rate of those who rode the other buses.

The happy end to this potentially dangerous situation is the outcome of two years of treatment with antituberculous drugs, taken by mouth. For, with the exception of a few healed scars (shown only on X-ray) each of the 69 treated youngsters was completely well.

I do not know if this experience is unique, but certainly it's the first of its kind that has come to my attention. The lesson to be drawn is clear.

Through the action of your P.T.A. you can urge that every bus driver have a thorough examination. Insist that the examination include a chest X-ray and whatever other tests appear indicated to the examining physician.

If you don't have facilities for these examinations at the school, try to get a physician who is a fellow member of the association to volunteer his services. And, failing that, refer the candidate to the nearest health facility equipped to perform the needed survey.

For all you know, one resolution that is unanimously passed and promptly acted on may save a child from a prolonged illness.

And that child may be your very own.

Melbourne Ridge W.M.S. marks 53rd anniversary

MELBOURNE RIDGE — The home of Mrs. Gerald Fowler, Women's Missionary Society of the United Church celebrated its 53rd anniversary on Nov. 16.

Mrs. Dora Beers of Richmond, the only living charter member was unable to be present because of ill health, but she was in the thoughts of those present, and a floral tribute was delivered to her at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Barrington, by Rev. Miss Eleanor Carr.

Members and guests were welcomed by the president, Mrs. Cecil Johnston, and many good wishes were received from those unable to attend. The devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Gerald Fowler.

Mrs. Leonard Driver, supply secretary, distributed materials to be made up for a layette, which will be sent to the Settlement House in Montreal, and donations were voted to the Cancer Society and the Salvation Army.

Miss Carr gave an interesting talk on her trip to Africa, and answered many questions from her appreciative audience. Miss Carr also rendered a delightful solo, "The Stranger of Galilee," accompanied by Miss Marion Kerr.

An amusing skit, "What's Wrong with My Husband," was presented by Mrs. Henry Gowler and Mrs. Albert Smith, at lunch time in the Church Hall. The tables were adorned with artificial flowers, and three anniversary cakes, spelling out United Church Anniversary, and beautifully decorated by Mrs. Albert Smith.

Mrs. N. Fowler, Mrs. C. Johnston, Mrs. G. Beers and Mrs. R. Woods were thanked for the work in organizing the meeting. Among those attending were ladies from Sherbrooke, Beebe, Richmond, Ulverton and Bishopston.

The next meeting of the Women's Federation will be held at

H. & S. executive at Beebe reports bank balance

BEEBE — The executive of the Beebe Home and School Association met at the school on Nov. 15. All outstanding bills were voted paid and the treasurer reported a bank balance of $122.53.

Appreciation was expressed to all who helped with the recent afternoon tea and food sale and with the Halloween party following the canvass for UNICEF.

It was announced that there will be no regular meeting of the Association this month, so that more parents may visit the school on Parents' Night.

A discussion was held on stop signs to be placed near the school, and in regard to traffic stopping for stopped school bus it was decided to inquire whether there is a town law to this effect.

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP) — British engineers have completed tests for installation of a VHF (very-high-frequency) radio-telephone link between the 18,635-foot peak of Mount Kilimanjaro, highest point in Africa, and this coastal city.

Bury family honored prior to departure

BURY — Mrs. Eric Fisher, resting places who with her family is leaving for Gagnon, was honored at a meeting of the Women's Auxiliary.

Rev. W. Walker on behalf of the W.A. and Ladies Guild, presented Mrs. Fisher with gifts, the new Bible from the Church Choir, of which Mrs. Fisher has long been a faithful and valuable member, and a personal gift from the Guild, expressing regrets at the departure of the family, but with best wishes for happiness and success in their new home.

At the meeting the new Study Book was discussed, and the year's supply of the leaflet, The Living Message, was ordered. The birthday and thank-offering boxes were opened and showed a ready response.

A social evening followed, and lunch was served.

How does your product stack up?

In an era when many forms of advertising are criticized by the public, daily newspaper advertisements have retained their popularity. Most people not only like newspaper ads, but want them. And one of the most important reasons is "comparison shopping." Through their daily newspapers people check the features, benefits and prices of competitive products and services. They also discover where to buy. They find newspaper advertising definite, informative and... IN PRINT. Print advertising can be reviewed and remembered. Retailers who sell your merchandise spend 82% of their own advertising money in daily newspapers.

EEN O'DONNELL'S Sport Shots and Pot Shots

Curling has opened with a bang throughout the Townships judging from the various reports received. The O'Keefe Mixed Invitation Bouspiel is under progress at the Magog Curling Club while on the local scene a men's tournament is being held.

The Lennoxville Club is in full swing while out at the Border a club event is being staged. At Magog this evening the finals for the main and consolation sections of the tournament will take place. The public is invited, it starts at 8 p.m.

We are told the students at Bishop's University are turning out strong and that well over twenty rinks, boys and girls, are competing. They play twice a week at the Lennoxville Curling Club and no doubt they will be in some of the coming bouspiels.

Ronald Bullard of Magog and a student at Sherbrooke High School took part in an indoor track meet in Montreal and emerged with honors. He competed in the senior men's 45-yard dash and set a new record while winning the event.

Bob McMurray, one of the founders of the Lennoxville Curling Club and an ardent curler himself, is celebrating his 85th birthday today and on behalf of his many friends we would like to extend hearty congratulations.

The Bury High School boys finally won the St. Francis Valley Inter-scholastic volleyball championship when they downed Lennoxville High in the special playoff. Sherbrooke had won the title but the committee disqualified them on a technicality and ordered Bury and Lennoxville to play for the crown. The Bury squad pulled through with a 14-12 and 11-9 verdicts to take the title. Congratulations Bury.

The Hillcrest Ski Club is holding a social evening at the New Sherbrooke Hotel tonight at 8.30 p.m. and all members are asked to be on hand. Special films will be discussed. Following the meeting a dance will take place.

Argos will be out today to prove that their upset victory over the Ticats last week was no fluke. They hold an 18-point spread in the two-game, total point series and no matter how you look at it, this is quite a cushion.

Tobin Rote is the main cog in the Toronto machine but don't forget that they have some pretty good players to back him up. The odds are low and the experts figure Ticats may win the game. But can they overcome the spread?

Argos pulled a big surprise by taking the Rough Riders in the sudden-death tilt and then the following week dumping the Ticats 25-7. Everyone figured they couldn't do it as they have been off-and-on all season but when you look over the lineup you must admit they have the horses to do the job.

The Ticats will lose everything at the Argos but we think Cookie Gilchrist and company can stop them. They are rated with the best in defensive circles. If the Argos can get a few points at the start things will certainly be tough.

Argos' 18-point lead is not insurmountable and past history bears this out. This season the Ticats came back to win games when they trailed by 17 and 16 points and you can rest assured that today they will be going all out.

So once again here we go. We pick the Argos to win the series and represent the East in the Grey Cup. The Argos are a hungry club and we think this has been a big factor in the past two games. It will be close but we think the Ticats must get away fast and stay out in front all the game. Any let up will be fatal. So fans can expect a wide-open battle with all the stops pulled out.

Four post-season football bowl games have been lined up. The Bluebonnet Bowl will take place Dec. 16. Gator Bowl Dec. 30, Cotton Bowl Jan. 1 and the National Football League playoff Bowl will be held in the Orange Bowl, Miami, Fla., Jan. 6. All these games will be seen over Channel 3 and the teams who will participate will be named shortly.

A 20-inch snowfall, which hit the Eastern slopes of New Hampshire the past week, was certainly a shot in the arm for the ski industry. The majority of the ski areas have opened, in fact announced they were ready on Thanksgiving. Around the Townships it is hard to say just when the skiers will be able to get out on the slopes. Just a case of waiting until we get our cold weather.

Gordon Pirie's switch to pro running calls attention to once popular sport, Ken Wood joins him

LONDON (CP) — Gordon Pirie's decision to quit the amateur ranks has raised an old question. Can professional running be a paying game?

Pirie, formerly Britain's top distance star, got off on the right foot last month by circling a San Sebastian bullring 100 times. Those who watched him toiling in the hot afternoon sun thought he earned the £1,000 fee put up by local bookmakers.

But there are plenty of sceptics, particularly in amateur circles, who say his venture is doomed to failure—and history supports them.

The list of ex-amateurs who have tried and failed to turn their running talents into cash includes Jesse Owens, Lloyd La Beach, Barney Ewell and Herb McKenley.

Pedestrianism, the Dickensian term that was the title for pro running, boomed around the 1890s. But over the decades its popularity and financial rewards have dwindled.

AUSTRALIA TOPS
The world centre now is Australia, where the sport arrived with the prospectors and gold miners of the middle 19th century.

The top meet there is the Stawell Easter gathering in Victoria, where the prize money is best. The 130-yard event is worth £750 to the winner.

In Britain, the sport is in a poor state, surviving mainly in Southern England and parts of Scotland. Prizes rarely rise above £50 and the most a crack athlete can earn in the three-month season is about £300.

Meets usually are held in connection with traditional feast days, with such names as the Egremont Crab Fair and the Old Flan Sports. Running surfaces are soccer pitches or meadows.

Pro running in Britain has often been accused of crookedness, reports having it that bookmakers sometimes make it more profitable for the athlete to lose than to win. The Australian claim to have eradicated crookedness by enforcing strict rules.

PIRIE OPTIMISTIC
Pirie's optimism has not been blunted by the pessimists. In fact, he now has a partner in Ken Wood of Sheffield, a four-minute miler.

They hope to form a track circus similar to the globe-trotting tennis squad.

British official Jack Crump sums up the general feeling here. He says: "Jolly good luck to them... Whether they succeed is a different matter."

The last word goes to Pirie: "I'd like to see it work if only for the reason of showing up the stupid set-up called amateur athletics."

Rockets and Beavers clash for second place

Granby moves to Montreal in other fixture, Coach Dube and his squad ready for tough battle at local Arena

Sole possession of second place in the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League will be at stake here tomorrow afternoon when the Beavers square off against the Drummondville Rockets. At present both teams are deadlocked with eight points and tomorrow's winner will slide into the coveted spot.

In the other tilt Granby will travel to Montreal to take on the up-and-coming Olympics of Montreal at the Paul Sauve Centre. Coach Filiou's team has one win over the Vics and will be seeking a second Sunday afternoon.

The Beavers will take on last three starts. Coach Dube will not doubt go with the same lineup as performed on Thursday. The team turned in one of their better performances but tomorrow they will have to go all out as the Rockets are strong.

Coach Jack Illick has gathered a fine club and once they get going they will make it tough for the rest of the loop. The Rockets are the other club who have stopped Granby this season and after dropping a close 4-2 win over Drummondville the night previous. It was Sherbrooke's first victory in their

The Rockets are the other club who have stopped Granby this season and after dropping a close 4-2 win over Drummondville the night previous. It was Sherbrooke's first victory in their last three starts. Coach Dube will not doubt go with the same lineup as performed on Thursday. The team turned in one of their better performances but tomorrow they will have to go all out as the Rockets are strong.

Coach Jack Illick has gathered a fine club and once they get going they will make it tough for the rest of the loop. Windsor at Richmond and Asbestos moves to Rock Island as St. Francis Valley Intermediate League opens

The St. Francis Valley Hockey League opens tomorrow with two games on tap. In the first game the Windsor Paper Makers, last year's champions, travel to Richmond where they will open the season against the new edition of the Braves.

In the other fixture, the Asbestos Meteors journey to Rock Island to play the Jets, who seem to be as strong as last year.

The Paper Makers gave a good account of themselves last Sunday when they met the league All-Stars. The club features many new players and teamed with the best of last year's veterans will certainly be a top contender for the league title.

The Braves seem to be a bit of a mystery. According to reports the Richmond team has nearly a completely new lineup and they too could develop into a title threat.

The Richmond-Windsor game promises to be a good one and Township hockey fans should see some good hockey.

In the game at the Border, there also should be some good hockey. The Jets fought right down to the wire against the Paper Makers last year and they should be as strong this year as they were last. Asbestos had some fairly young players in their line-up last year and with a year's experience under their belt they too could make a good run for the championship.

E.T. Junior B hockey league opens Sunday

RICHMOND—The E. T. Junior B Hockey loop gets under way Sunday Nov. 26 with two games on tap. Drummondville travels to Asbestos while Richmond is at Victoriaville. The game at Asbestos is scheduled for 2:30 and the game in Victoriaville is slated to start only at 3 p.m.

The other clubs in the Conic Dion loop are Thetford Mines and Windsor. The first game to be played in Richmond will be held next Friday night with Windsor the visitors. Asbestos and Richmond are on the road next Tuesday, Nov. 27, in a double-header at Victoriaville and Richmond at Drummondville.

The statistics back him up although Rangers have a chance to make a better showing—five victories in 10 away games—if they trip Leafs tonight.

Toronto has played back-to-back on six occasions this season. They took a possible four points from one dual encounter and three out of four on another occasion with a tie and a win.

Coach Toe Blake of Canada's national team was all smiles after his squad snapped out of a sagging spell by a come-from-behind 5-3 victory over Detroit Thursday night. Earlier Blake had been bearing down hard on his forwards for not back-checking. After the win over Red Wings, he said "everybody worked hard and it paid off."

If Canadiens can recapture the furious pace they set during the early days of the season, the other five teams in the league had better watch out.

Giants can eliminate one serious threat to their bid for the title if they beat Cleveland Browns

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Giants have a chance virtually to eliminate one of the two biggest threats to their bid for National Football League Eastern Conference supremacy Sunday when they battle the Browns in Cleveland.

A Giants' victory over the NFL's rushing leaders would drop the Browns two games off the pace being set by the New Yorkers and leave Philadelphia Eagles — if they beat Dallas Cowboys — as the only remaining serious challenger.

It's possible for the Giants to walk off the field with eastern title all but tucked away. This would happen if New York beats the Browns and the Cowboys bump off the sagging Eagles in Philadelphia.

The slightly-favored Browns and the Eagles both have 7-3 records and are tied for second place behind the Giants, who are 8-2.

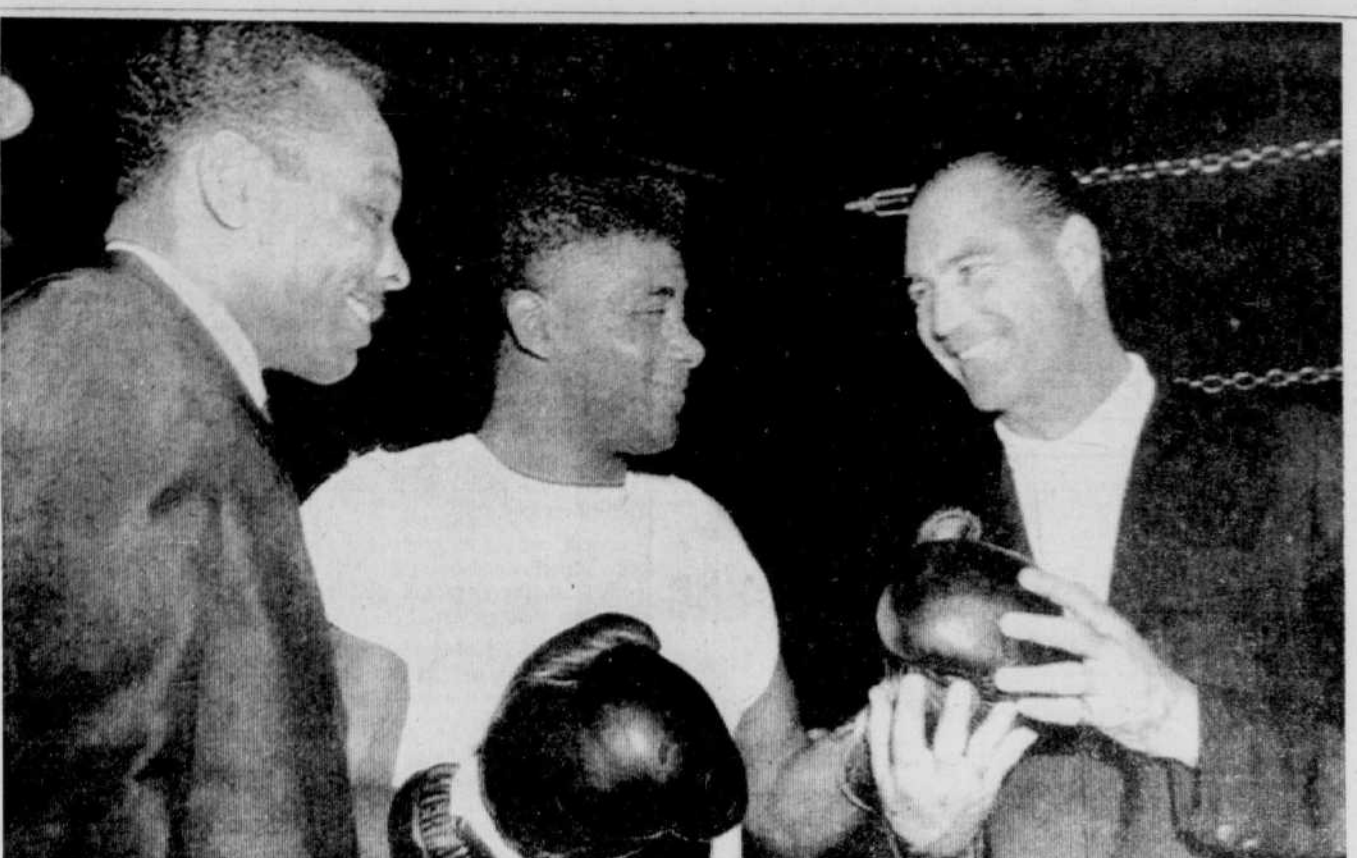

WELL IN FRONT
Green Bay Packers have already assumed a commanding lead in the Western Conference. They stretched their advantage to 2½ games over Detroit Nov. 23 by defeating the Lions 17-9. Green Bay now is 9-2 and Detroit 6-4-1.

Packers need only to win one of their remaining three games to remove all doubt. Even if they lose all three, Detroit or San Francisco 49ers would have to take all of their remaining games to knock Green Bay out of their second straight western championship.

While the Packers and Lions sit idly by, the 49ers hope to keep their flickering hopes alive in a game against Minnesota Vikings (2-8) in San Francisco. Sunday's other games send Los Angeles Rams (3-7) to Chicago (5-5), St. Louis Cardinals (4-6) to Pittsburgh (4-6) and Baltimore Colts (5-5) to Washington (0-9-1).

TRADING TIPS? — These three might have something in common when it comes to stopping tough opponents. Ticats face tough task in fired-up Argos

HAMILTON (CP)—The fired-up Toronto Argonauts, who only a few weeks ago hardly were given a chance to get to the Grey Cup final, carry a formidable 18-point lead into the deciding game of the Eastern Football Conference final against Hamilton Tiger-Cats today.

The Argos, whose playoff surge has come as a big surprise, clipped the claws of the league-leading Tiger-Cats with a 25-7 upset last Sunday and left Hamilton facing a supreme effort for the second encounter of the two-game, total-point series.

Opinion is divided and the odds are all against them that they can overcome the margin won't be seen in the Maritimes.

The winner of the series will play the western champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Grey Cup final in Toronto next Saturday. A Hamilton victory will send the Tiger-Cats into the East-West classic for the fourth time in the last five years while a Toronto win will give them a chance at the Grey Cup for the first time since they won it in 1952.

A Tiger-Cats' victory in today's game wouldn't be surprising. The big question is if they do it is whether the margin will be large enough to wipe out CBC's western network. If Argos' solid lead.

The game, starting at 2 p.m. EST, will be televised over the CTV network of private stations in Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal and out west over the CBC's western network. If Argos' solid lead.

Star centre Jean Beliveau, who was injured in training, longs for day when he can return to active duty

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean Beliveau, the mid-manned six-foot-three centre who has unbalanced and fell on top of Beliveau's knee in a pre-season exhibition game — will be sound enough to come back in about two weeks.

"I can hardly wait to get back in there," he said in an interview. "I guess the hardest thing for me is watching the Canadiens play and realizing I can't go out on the ice to do my share."
