In referring to the bravery displayed by Gagnon, Mr. Bulloch stated: "We are here today to pay homage to a man who was prepared to lay down his life for others. His actions have indicated that there still remain among us those heroic qualities which we are prone to believe do not exist today."

"We present to you our respect and admiration for the magnificent manner in which you braved death to save these little ones. We express to you our most cordial congratulations on the success which attended your efforts."

Mr. Bulloch pointed out that the certificate of merit of the association was presented only on rare occasions, and that it was the token of esteem and appreciation of the citizenry.

MAN IS GIVEN 2-YEAR TERM BY RECORDER

Thief is Captured by Church Caretaker After Lengthy Chase

Pleading guilty to charges of breaking and entering by day, and of theft, a man giving the name of James Wilson, of Toronto, was sentenced to two years in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary by Recorder Grigg on Saturday.

The accused, who was captured after a lengthy chase through Westmount streets by the caretaker of St. Andrew's Church, whose residence he had robbed of valuable jewelry, was arrested on Jan 10.

The janitor, James Griffith, gave chase to the burglar when he was discovered escaping down a ladder from a window of his home, adjoining the church. Griffith pursued him on foot as far as Sherbrook street and continued the chase in the car of a passing motorist until he had caught up with the thief at the corner of Redfern and Western avenues.

He succeeded in holding him there until the arrival of Sergeant Arsenault, and Constables Brooks and Crone, who were summoned by witnesses to the capture.

In his possession were a gold watch and chain, gold bar pin, and diamond wedding ring, the entire lot taken from the Griffith home.

Rotarians Hear Talk On Air Conditioning

Air conditioning experts in co-operation with doctors, are doing much to eliminate respiratory diseases. G. Lorne Wiggs, Montreal consulting engineer, stated while addressing the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Westmount Rotary Club in Victoria Hall on Wednesday. Mr. Wiggs had as his subject "Air Conditioning and Refrigeration."

"There is no doubt that sinus trouble, the common cold and hay fever, can be greatly reduced by air conditioning," the speaker stated.

However, the underlying principal of air conditioning is to create comfort, he said, and it was here that engineers had faced their greatest difficulty. Years of tests had been necessary in order to determine what comfort actually was and to define it in scientific terms.

Taking a night club as example, Mr. Wiggs was introduced by Dr. F. M. A. McNaughton and thanked by Wilf Buckley. The president, John Colton, was in the chair.

CHURCH UPHELD BY MINISTERS HERE SUNDAY

Reply to Charges That it Has Failed Made by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett

Two Westmount ministers replied to criticisms of the church made by the Right Honorable R. B. Bennett in Calgary, in their sermons on Sunday.

Preaching to his congregation in St. Andrew's Church, Rev. Dr. F. W. Kerr stated that post-war politicians and not the church, were responsible for world ills. In denying that the church had failed, Dr. Kerr stated that these politicians had placed their faith in anti-aircraft guns rather than the goodwill that can come only from the teachings of Christ.

In Melville Presbyterian Church Rev. W. Orr Mulligan expressed the opinion that, because it had not obtained all its objectives at once, it was ridiculous to brand it a failure.

Dr. Kerr stated that the successes of the church were far more numerous than its failures and spoke of it as shining as the light of the world in the darkest area of the most remote continent. "It is the world leaders who have lacked the courage to trust Christ who have blazed the path to this present-day failure," he stated. "Men who are not ready to accept the Christian mandate scoff at the church as a failure."

The crime was not the fact that Christianity had not realized all its ideals but was one of low aims, he said.

In his sermon Rev. Mulligan stated that if the democratic countries of the world became one in Christian policy permanent peace would be definitely assured. The church is still the mightiest influence in the world. It is not perfect because its members are not perfect, the minister said.

Mr. Bennett's words, because of his position and influence, will be recognized in places where they will do harm, stated Mr. Mulligan who found it strange that Mr. Bennett, a lawyer, could not find the reasons for the failure where he spoke. Making the last of his brief references to the former Prime Minister, Mr. Mulligan asked "would Mr. Bennett take up residence in Japan, China or Central Africa instead of in England if the church had failed?"

BLAZE IN SYNAGOGUE IS FOUGHT FOR THREE HOURS BY TWO FIRE DEPARTMENTS

Westmount and Notre Dame de Grace Fire Fighters Respond to Alarm for Outbreak on Boundary of Two Cities—Eight Sacred Scrolls Snatched From Flames—Defective Furnace Pipe Believed Cause

Regular Shaare Zion services will be held today and tomorrow in the Hebrew Orphans' Home, corner of Claremont and Windsor avenues, Rabbi J. Berger told the Westmount Examiner yesterday.

Arrangements are presently being made to rent a large vacant house in which to hold services and school activities until the synagogue, partially destroyed by fire, is repaired, or a new building erected.

Fire, thought to have been caused by a faulty furnace pipe, partially destroyed the Shaare Zion Synagogue, 2120 Claremont avenue, Wednesday morning. Flames first broke out shortly before 6 o'clock and the rear of the building was still smoldering at 9 a.m.

Firemen of the Montreal Brigade under Director A. T. Ouimet, Deputy Director Messett and Acting Chief Roche responded to the alarm as did the Westmount Fire Department, in charge of Deputy Fire Chief Burriss. The synagogue is directly on the boundary line of Notre Dame de Grace and Westmount.

When firemen arrived the rear of the building was a mass of flames and, hampered by the near-zero weather fire fighters had considerable difficulty in bringing the flames under control.

The rear of the building, where the chapel is located, was entirely destroyed and the first seven rows of pews were badly burned. Smoke and water caused great damage to all parts of the building.

Eight sacred scroll documents, among the synagogue's most valuable possessions, were ruined, although firemen, at great risk, succeeded in reaching them before they were entirely destroyed. Some of the scrolls were hundreds of years old and their loss will be felt deeply by the congregation.

Six streams of water were played on the structure for over two hours and precautionary measures were taken to prevent fire from spreading to nearby buildings, one of them a large apartment house and the other a two-storey garage with gasoline tanks imbedded in the ground.

The synagogue, a landmark in the west end of the city, was formerly the Church of the Good Shepherd. It was taken over by the Shaare Zion congregation fourteen years ago. At the time of the transfer Ven. Archdeacon J. M. Almond was rector of the parish.

WESTMOUNT, FRIDAY, JANUARY 20, 1934

THE LATE LT.-COL. JOHN LONG

A great many local residents will mourn the passing of Lieut.-Col. John W. Long, Inspector of Physical Training for the Catholic schools of Montreal, who died on Saturday, last, after a long illness. He was in his seventieth year.

The late Lieut.-Col Long was of the old school of the British Army, steeped in the best traditions of the army in the days of the Great Queen. Born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, he was educated in Glasgow, Scotland, and joined the army at an early age. He quickly distinguished himself in athletics, notably in boxing, fencing, and rugby. He was runner-up in the British Army fencing championships in 1893, and was a member of several All-Army rugby fifteens. He was later physical instructor at Sandhurst, among his pupils being Winston Churchill.

Coming to Canada in 1894, Mr. Long was for some time attached to the Imperial garrison at Halifax, but in 1903 he left the army to become director of athletics at the M.A.A.A. He became associated, in an honorary capacity, with many Canadian Olympic teams and attended the games in 1908, 1912, 1920, and 1924. During the Great War he served in France and Egypt, first with the Canadian forces and later with the Imperial Army. He remained on active service until August, 1919. Since the war he has been instructor of Physical Training under the Catholic School Commission at Montreal. Besides his widow, he is survived by his only son, Lieut.-Col. John W. Long, commanding officer of the Loyola Contingent, C.O.T.C., and Liberal candidate here in the last provincial election, and by a brother, Very Reverend Canon J. C. Long, chaplain of Blair's College, Aberdeen.

WHO PAYS FOR ADVERTISING?

Judging from the frequency of its reappearance, "Who Pays for Advertising?" written by John H. Casey, professor of journalism and advertising at the University of Oklahoma, is on the way to becoming something of a "Newspaper Classic." As it is of interest to merchants and buyers alike, we reprint it here in full:

What is advertising? One form of salesmanship.
Purpose? To sell.
Who pays for it?
John and Mary Public say they do, indirectly.
Solomon Isaac Business Man says he knows too well that he pays for advertising.
But I say the customer does not pay an advertising bill if the advertising is effective, efficiently done, run in the right medium at the right time, and is, in every other respect, right.

For when greater demand for goods is created by advertising, more goods can be manufactured in larger quantities, and shelves restocked at less cost per unit of production per item of merchandise, in consequence of that created demand, either at less cost or with more quality at the same cost—which amounts to the same thing.

Yes, the merchant is sure he pays the advertising cost. But I say he does not, for the larger the volume of business the retailer can do, the less his percentage of overhead, of which advertising is but one of many items. No more light, no more heat, no more of several other overhead items required for $110,000 turnover than for $100,000.

Well, if the customer doesn't pay and the merchant doesn't pay for advertising—then, who does pay for it?
Why, bless your souls! The truth of the matter is that effective advertising is self-supporting, self-liquidating. Nobody pays for good advertising, unless, if we must find someone to pay for it, I guess it comes pretty near being the non-advertising merchant who pays—and pays and pays—whose overhead goes up as his sales volume goes down—and the non-ad-reading customer who buys blind, fails to read the ads and in consequence, gets stuck with inferior, non-advertised goods, at higher prices than he need pay.

And there you have one answer to the old, old question: Who pays for effective advertising, in the final analysis? Not the buyer of advertised goods, not the merchant who sells the goods and uses the advertising space, but the non-advertiser who fails to get the business and the non-ad-reading public.

TAX ON SPORTS EVENTS

Local electors were being following with considerable interest the campaign being waged by W. R. Bulloch to have the amusement tax removed from amateur sporting events in this province. Mr. Bulloch points out that in Ontario amateur events are tax free, while in Quebec the government "take" amounts to some twenty per cent of the gate—a heavy burden for amateur organizations to meet. Mr. Bulloch is entirely right in the attitude he has taken, and will have sportsmen solidly behind him in the matter.

"Not sufficient identity," said the cashier, pushing the check back.

WOMEN'S GROUP HEARS TALK BY RABBI BENDER

Outlines Parallel Between Age of Don Isaac Abarbanel and Present Time

In a message of hope and encouragement to the Women's Auxiliary of Shaar Hashomayim on the occasion of its annual "give or get" luncheon, held in the Montefiore Club, Rabbi Charles Bender outlined the remarkable parallel between the age of Don Isaac Abarbanel of Spain, 500 years ago and the present time, in a review of "The Life of Abarbanel" by Dr. Jacob Minkin.

"That era" stated the Rabbi "witnessed the peak and decline of the greatest civilization of Europe, when the Jews of Spain attained heights of eminence never equalled in recent years. But as high as that eminence grew, so deep was the abyss of persecution that followed." Through it all went Abarbanel like a human life spring, never losing his Jewish identity or individuality, one who suffered the "misery of being great." He became the most brilliant and productive intellectual in a galaxy of outstanding writers and literary giants. When the inquisition fires were beginning to burn in Spain, Don Isaac Abarbanel became the premier statesman, advisor to King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella, the speaker said.

Rabbi Bender told his audience that Abarbanel financed Columbus' voyage to America. "It is prophetic" said the speaker, "that this eminent Spanish Jew and Columbus whose Jewish ancestry is supported by many scholars, should have made possible a new world where a new life is opened for the oppressed."

Carrying forward his comparison between the time of Minkin's hero and our own day, the lecturer told how Abarbanel took his place in the line of refugees, fleeing persecution, impoverished, just as intellectual Jewry is scattered today to the four corners of the globe.

This exile was the instigation of Abarbanel's Modern Hebrew Commentary to the Bible, which has stood the test of 500 years, and is an immortal contribution to Jewish literature.

Rabbi Bender pointed out that the Jewish Hall of Fame has given greater immortality to its sons than any other medium.

Dr. H. Abramowitz thanked the speaker for his message of inspiration and courage to carry on in these difficult times. Dr. Abramowitz spoke of the work accomplished by Shaar Hashomayim members in all branches of endeavor and stressed the need of the Synagogue to inspire youth to support Jewish causes. "The Synagogue," said Dr. Abramowitz, "is the central spiritual center power house, spreading warmth and good deeds everywhere." He appealed to the gathering to continue their loyalty to the Synagogue, the inspiration for all other charitable endeavor, and to avoid a breakdown of Jewish life here as we do our duty elsewhere.

Mrs. Edward Solomon, the president was in the chair. She told the meeting that members of the Auxiliary were acting as hostesses to part of the group of refugees in Montreal, at their homes and in supplying various forms of entertainment to the transients.

Seated at the head table were Mrs. Edward Solomon, Dr. H. Abramowitz, Rabbi Charles Bender, Mrs. J. Levinson Sr., Mrs. Ger-

Sermon Theme To Be Based On Book

In St. Andrew's Church on Sunday morning, Rev. Dr. F. W. Kerr's topic will be "Nellie McClung's Answer." In her recent book, Mrs. McClung records having heard a voice proclaiming over the radio, "The church is dead, dead from the neck up, and from the neck down." So she has written an inevitable reply to that statement, and with all the breezy style of a Westerner, tells on tale upon another of her own experiences, to show that the church has not been so great a failure as it is sometimes charged.

At the evening service Dr. Kerr's topic will be, "The Signs of the Time," or "What Lies Ahead." In this sermon, he will review the economic and political trends of the day, with a view to discovering where our present politics are likely to lead. On the following Sunday, Dr. Kerr will preach on "Lloyd Douglas's new book, 'Disputed Passages.'"

Goldwyn's great wall for him. It will be seen in Gary Cooper's new starring picture, "The Adventures of Marco Polo," which is now playing at the Westmount United Theatre.

Though no effort was made to be exact in every small detail, a great deal of research went into the building of the sets. The art director had to know what life in 13th Century China was like before he could design settings that would be in keeping with the period.

Day's great wall is much more spectacular, though not as beautiful. It rears up from the level plain for nearly 100 feet and is broken by the huge gates.

United Theatre, was a big one for the natives. State policemen herded them up on hill tops out of danger. The Warner employees went down to dugouts—that is some of them did, the ones who had to run the cameras.

New Movie Trick Is Provided By Old Magic Book

A book of magic written 78 years ago provided Hollywood movie makers with one of their most ingenious camera tricks in the filming of Sonja Henie's latest triumph, "My Lucky Star."

The stunt could have been done by double exposure, split-screen or stop-camera methods. But the camera was required to keep moving, the mirror had to be a real one. It had to show Sonja's reflection and still allow her and the camera to pass through it.

"Brother Rat," College Film For Laffs Only

They flew in the teeth of sacred tradition at Warner Bros. studio by making a college picture without a football game, a single song and dance routine or a solitary dumb professor.

"Brother Rat" depends upon cadet reviews and parades for its spectacle thrills. Discipline defying escapades of the upper class cadets and the hazing of the lowly Rats (freshmen) provides the laughs.

Nan Blakstone Continues At Tic Toc Cabaret

Nan Blakstone, cabedon's favorite "Eicher of Songs" came, saw, and conquered the smart Tic Toc Cafe the other night with one unhibited ditty. After four or five more the lady could have asked for our city hall and anyone present would have been willing to trade it in for just one more encore!

Thirteen years ago Miss Blakstone was a carpet-bent pupil at the Chicago Musical College, taking an awful razzing about her voice from her fellow students who seemed to think she ought to take up whistling.

Her "break" wasn't long in coming. Gordon and Revel, America's top song writers, saw the possibilities of her half recitation—half song style and wrote a song entitled "I'm a good girl."

Nan's current repertoire is as new as today. In many of her numbers she is assisted by a taciturn little stooge named, "Snooper," whose caustic cracks go a long way toward keeping the customers in a hilarious mood.

Miss Blakstone is surrounded by a host of stars in the new Tic Toc revue, including Billy Vine, the "Madman of Mirth" a great favorite in Montreal, Zang and Todd, a sensational comedy adagio team, Eddy Burns, cowboy yodeler, and Fred Nichols with the new Paul Florenz dancing girls. Len Howard and his orchestra dispense music both for show and dance.

In "Wagons Westward," Richard Dix will age from 20 to 70 years in the course of the picture. captain of industry, as the butt of circulation-building campaign. Then he makes love to Olivia de Havilland, Connolly's granddaughter, which in turn makes everybody hopping mad—Rosalind because she is in love with Flynn, Patric because he's in love with Olivia and Connolly because he likes to get mad. From there on it's a free-for-all, with high comedy sustained throughout.

When Rosalind Russell, a newspaper reporter, wins Patric Knowles, playboy publisher, over to hiring Errol Flynn, a whirlwind press agent, as his editor, Flynn picks Walter Connolly, a piratical

TEA TIME TOPICS

AN AFTERNOON OUT OF THE PAST we enjoyed when we had afternoon tea with Mrs. W. T. Rodden recently. Our hostess has one of the loveliest collections of lace, pictures and other objects d'art that we have ever had the pleasure of seeing. Shortly after Mrs. Rodden's niece made her debut, she went on a tour of the world, bringing back souvenirs from many of the ports of call. One of the gifts she brought to our hostess was a multicolored embroidered Spanish shawl from Gibraltar, made entirely by hand. The colors woven into the shawl, are exquisite, one can almost picture the fiery nature of the Spaniards, who settled in Gibraltar years ago, by their choice of reds, blues, greens, and unusual yellows, all woven on a black background.

AFTER ADMIRING OLD LACE FROM BRUSSELS, handmade Irish crocheted blouses, French and English lace, we were delighted to see wedding dresses, worn by Mrs. Rodden in 1899 and her sister, who was married a few years previous. These dresses were really gowns, for they were trimmed with yards of hand made lace. One made in real ivory satin and lined with taffeta, the train of the skirt falling from a pleated waist into a fan effect was about three yards long. A bodice of the same satin was topped with an inserted yoke of hand made lace, with long tight fitting sleeves to match, the neck of the bodice, fitted up to the back of the chin, and was held in place by several rows of satin covered wires.

THE SECOND GOWN, NOT UNLIKE BRIDAL FINERY of today, was made of a heavy corded silk, and was also lined with a heavy white taffeta, the tight fitting bodice, made in a corsetlike style, with a pointed waistline was embroidered around the edges with pearls and set off with leg-omotion sleeves, the skirt boasted of a train, made similar to the first gown. The outfit was topped with a long flannel cape, of cream color and trimmed with eight yards of gold beads. This style cape is now being worn at smart formal by the younger set.

AFTER LOOKING AT BEAU-

velvet trimmed with silver, and a matching hat with an ostrich tip. Her corsage bouquet was of Johanna Hill roses. Mrs. Kimball, mother of the bridegroom, was in a gown of iris crepe, with quilting on the bodice and sleeves, and black accessories. Her corsage bouquet was of pink rosebuds and violets.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 4344 Westmount Avenue, where spring flowers and white tapers were used in decoration.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Arthur S. Kimball, mother of the bridegroom, of Battle Creek, Mich., Mrs. Henry R. Billard aunt of the bride, of Detroit, and Miss Mary O. Kimball, sister of the bridegroom, of New Brunswick.

TIFUL ENGLISH CHINA, and other small china figures, we had tea from a majestic Duncan Fyfe table. All too soon we bade adieu to the past and started on our way home, wondering why similar beautiful things were not made today. While we have many lovely things in this day and age they seem to lack the personal touch.

ST. LEO'S SENIOR TEAM DOWNS DANIEL O'CONNELL; JUNIORS DEFEAT LOYOLA

Hockey Schedule Opened on Saturday — Andy McGillis Again Coach of St. Leo's Squads — Senior Entry in First Place in Inter-Scholastic Standing

St. Leo's senior team so far, in Inter-Scholastic hockey, has been highly successful. Under the astute coaching of Andy McGillis they have vanquished, in turn, Loyola by the score of 5 to zero and Daniel O'Connell by the score of 3 to 1.

They opened their hockey schedule against Loyola on Saturday last at the former's rink and impressed with a workmanlike display which featured smooth skating, and air-tight defense in which a newcomer to Inter-Scholastic competition, Aumais, gave a sterling example of goal-tending, and forward lines with scoring punch. Dougie Maher, Laberge, Desrosiers, Keating and George were also outstanding.

On Monday, at the home rink, they continued their successful campaign by winning over a vastly-improved Daniel O'Connell team which put up a very creditable showing for such a young and inexperienced group of players. However, class told here also with Keating and Lellig contributing the goals for St. Leo's total of 3 while Neville scored for Daniel O'Connell. Keating, Nantel and

St. Leo's Junior team has played one game to date—a one-goal draw against Loyola.

Thus far the senior only holds first place in the Inter-Scholastic standing. It might be added that in opposition, perhaps, to the point of view of other schools in the Inter-School and Interscholastic competition St. Leo's believes in fostering game in the school for the benefit of the student body rather than draw on any of its pupils who are taking part in the Junior A. H. A. Although this point of view may weaken the team from the point of experienced players, the school believes in developing hockey players from the ranks of the otherwise unfavored students rather than fill their places with those who have the added experience of an outside senior league.

Hockey Crosses the Border

Canada, First Kingdom of the Fast Ice Sport, Sees Control Pass More and More to Great Financial Interests in the United States, writes Web Morse in the Christian Science Monitor.

Originally an all-Canadian organization, there are only two Canadian teams remaining in the N.H.L. "They seem permanent enough, but..." Web Morse writes in the accompanying article.

Canada is losing her national game to the United States. Perhaps that statement is slightly exaggerated and premature, but assuredly something like that is happening, writes Web Morse in the Christian Science Monitor. The National Hockey League, the major organization of Canada's national game, has embarked upon its twenty-second season, and to borrow that political campaign phrase of a few years back, "let's look at the record."

The office of President of the League is being retained by a Canadian, and the players are Canadians in overwhelming numbers, but the controlling interests are steadily crossing the border. At one time Hamilton, Ottawa, Toronto, and Montreal all were active members; but today there are only two teams representing Dominion, Canadiens in Montreal and the Maple Leafs in Toronto.

In the city of Montreal in November, 1917, the present National Hockey League was formed. At that meeting a small body of individuals formed the plan and enlisted four teams to comprise the league. It was professional, as it is today, but wages were not comparable to the present scale. The four teams were Wanderers and Canadiens of Montreal, Toronto St. Pats, and Ottawa Senators.

The game itself bore slight resemblance to the game we see played around the circuit today. The founders of the league had no conception of the eventual growth. The league, in fact, floundered over a period of years and financial problems regarding its existence were more than trivial. Artificial ice, for instance, now a necessity, was decided a novelty.

Conditions improved slowly as the years passed but not until the late Thomas Duggan foresaw the need of new finance and new interest did hockey approach its present state of being the only major professional sport of international importance. He tried to sell the game in New York without success, but did interest Charles F. Adams of Boston.

It took the ingenious Mr. Adams, a successful business man and hockey fan, to see the heights hockey could and should reach. He entered the league with a franchise and team in 1924 with all the vigor of his keen business sense. The first sign of "giving" major professional hockey to this country came right then. Mr. Adams met with little co-operation

Anderson Choice Of Red Dutton

According to manager Red Dutton of New York Americans in the National Hockey League, the best player in the big loop is Tommy Anderson, who finished 1938 high up in scoring. "Tommy may not make any all-star team, but he's a manager's player," says Dutton. "I wish I had a whole team of Andersons. It took him four years to correct his faults, but now he's straightened away and doing about everything you can ask of a forward."

"He's always in there battling, back-checking, setting up plays and making everybody on his side look good."

Dutton bought Anderson from Detroit Tommy didn't have the natural ability of most big league players, but each year he stepped along at a faster pace.

and at present he is the Americans' most versatile forward, a player whose competitive spirit leads Dutton to believe he may yet attain all-star ranking.

Jack Adams, manager of the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, recently came out with a declaration that Barry and Aurie, two of his stars in Stanley Cup title days, won games for him when they should have been in hospital. This was prompted by the fact that his sturdy rear-guard "Scotty" Bowman, had been playing a star game with a deep gash on the back of his foot. Adams had to pull him off the ice in New York after other players had told him Bowman was bleeding badly through his shoes. Bowman swore up and down to reports that it was perspiration and wanted to continue.

Ban on Orientals Urged in Move In British Columbia

Despite the Government's request that it do nothing to aggravate the international situation, the British Columbia Legislature, as the last act of its session at Victoria, B.C., passed a resolution declaring that no more Orientals should be admitted to Canada.

The Government itself sponsored this motion when it became clear the House as a whole would insist on voting for Oriental exclusion in some form Conservatives in opposition had sponsored a motion asking the Federal Government to cancel its gentlemen's agreement with Japan, under which a limited number of Japanese are admitted to Canada every year. The Government objected to this motion as

BRIGADE UNIT DEFEATS 11TH COMPANY 9-4

First Westmount Squad Downs Calvin Westminster at Murray Park

The First Westmount Company of the Boy's Brigade got off to a good start in the West End Brigade hockey league last Saturday night by defeating the Eleventh Co. of Calvin Westminster by the score of 9-4 on the Murray Park rink.

The First Company turned out a team with a strong defence and two well balanced forward lines. D. Patterson, center of the first line, was the individual star of the game as he netted the puck four times to account for almost half of his teams goals.

Although outweighed by almost 15 pounds per man, the Eleventh Co. put up a hard fight from start to finish. T. Smith with two goals and A. Rousseau and A. Costello with one each, accounted for their teams counters.

Midway through the game the Eleventh team made their big effort of the game when they pierced the First Co. defence for three counters in succession to bring the score up to 6-4 but the Westmount Boys rallied and ran in three more goals before the end of the game to make the final score read 9-4 in the favor of the First Company.

Girls Hi-Y Club Heard H. Murray

Taking "Hi-Y Clubs" as his subject, K. H. Murray, physical instructor of Westmount public schools, addressed the regular weekly meeting of the Girls Hi-Y Club in the Y. M. C. A., last week.

Mr. Murray addressed his remarks, particularly, to the 36 members of the club, which now has an enrolment of 86 former Westmount High School girl pupils.

The meaning of the Hi-Y, its purpose, duties, advantages and its history were outlined by the speaker. He concluded his address by expressing the hope that all members of the club would do their best to improve its usefulness to the community.
