World News In Brief

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—(CP)—Canada Savings Bond sales now total $349,937,200, an increase of almost $75,000, 000 over last Saturday's total of $276,614,050, the Bank of Canada reported today.

Applications now total 890,546.

The sales include 523,826 applications for $93,233,950 worth of bonds through the payroll savings plan and 366,720 applications for $235,702,250 from general sales.

The recent buying "rush" came as a surprise, an official at bond headquarters said.

Moscow, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Central Government rushed aid today to the Russian Asiatic industrial district in Uzbek and Kirghiz Soviet republics, stricken Nov. 3 by an earthquake which official sources said caused deaths and devastation to buildings.

Destruction was reported centred in the district of Namangan, Andizhan and Fergana in Uzbek and in the Dzhalal Abad region of Kirghiz—an area of about 70,000 square miles, east of Samarkand.

Immediate aid was given by the governments of the two republics concerned, but the Moscow Government also decided to furnish assistance, indicating the seriousness of the quake, which one official said had an intensity of nine points, with 10 points considered the maximum.

Halifax, Nov. 6.—(CP)—The Halifax Herald said in a newspaper story today it had "learned reliably" that the aircraft carrier Warrior, which sailed from here yesterday, is due for temporary decommissioning when she reaches her western base, Vancouver.

The story added that the crew of the Warrior, which put to sea with the destroyer Nootka for winter exercises with the cruiser Uganda and destroyer Crescent in Magdalena Bay, is to be posted to the new Canadian carrier H.M.C.S. Magnificent, now under construction in Belfast.

Reason for such a transfer was given as the lack of experienced hands in the navy to keep both vessels in operation.

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover issued last night a statement in which he said the election returns showed the United States is "again moving to the goal of free men."

Mr. Hoover, at his New York hotel, said:

"This has been much more than just another congressional election.

"The whole world, including the United States, has been for years driving to the left on the totalitarian road of 'planned economy.' America is by this election the first country to repudiate this road.

"And it defines that the Republican party is the party of the right. We are again moving to the goal of free men. This decision of the United States will have a profound effect on nations which have been following along the road to the left."

Republican Majority Seen In Both House And Senate As Late Returns Tabulated

Dewey Wins By Large Margin

GOVERNOR THOMAS E. DEWEY, of New York, left, the Republicans' potential 1948 presidential candidate, was re-elected with a record-breaking majority over Senator James Mead, New York Democrat, in yesterday's national elections in the United States. Mr. Mead was also slated for presidential consideration if he won this election and if President Truman declined to run two years from now.

Second Trial Of T. Gibbons Opens Today

Ontario Farmer Granted New Hearing on Charge of Murdering Two Neighbors Last February.

Pembroke, Ont., Nov. 6.—(CP)—Retrial of lumbering Tom Gibbons on the charge of murdering Joseph and John Fitzmaurice on his Adamston Township property last Feb. 1 was scheduled to get under way today before a full assizes jury under Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel.

It was expected the trial would start shortly after selection of a new jury.

The 48-year-old farmer was judged mentally fit to stand trial by another jury which deliberated 1½ hours last night before reaching a verdict.

Russian Strength Growing Marshal States At Moscow

London, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Marshal A. A. Zhdanov delivered in Moscow today an address such as Prime Minister Stalin had been expected to make on the eve of the Russian revolution's 29th anniversary. Soviet sources here said it was uncertain whether Stalin would speak later.

Caouette Will Sit With SC Members

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—(CP)—Real Caouette, newly-elected Member of Parliament for Pontiac, told reporters that when taking his seat in the Commons at the session opening next January he will sit with the Social Credit members.

Mr. Caouette, whose political affiliation in the recent by-election in Pontiac was listed as "L'Union des Electeurs de Quebec," said:

"In the House of Commons I will sit with Solon Low (Social Credit leader) and his supporters. I am 100-per-cent Social Credit, but on many questions I will obtain the opinion of my constituents before following the policy of any party."

He predicted his party's candidate, Roland Corbett, will win the by-election being held December 23rd in the Quebec riding of Richelieu-Verchères to replace Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, former independent member who died recently.

Highlights In U.S. Elections

By The Canadian Press
Republicans drive towards control of House of Representatives, Senate, in sweeping victory over Democrats.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey re-elected in New York State by landslide Republican vote; Irving H. Lehman, Democrat, for New York U.S. Senate seat, becomes first Republican elected to that office in 20 years.

Republicans win control of all New England states except Rhode Island in avalanche of G.O.P. vote.

Democrats wrest state governorship of Colorado from Republicans in exception to country-wide trend as William Lee Knous elected.

John W. Bricker, 1944 Republican candidate for Vice-President and three times Governor of Ohio, elected to United States Senate, gaining seat from Democrats.

Representative Andrew J. May, Democratic chairman of House of Representatives Military Committee who figured in Gasson munitions combine probe, defeated in seventh Kentucky district by W. Howes Meade, Republican.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, unsuccessful Republican candidate for presidential nomination in 1944, re-elected in Michigan.

Adolph J. Sabath, 80-year-old dean of Congress, re-elected to House of Representatives in Illinois fifth district for 21st consecutive term as Democrat.

Former Ohio Governor John Bricker, Republican vice-presidential nominee in 1944 was winning handsily in his home state senatorial contest.

Premier Will Open Plywood Plant

Gatineau, Que., Nov. 6.—(CP)—Premier Maurice Duplessis, of Quebec, will officiate at opening ceremonies November 10th of the Canadian International Paper Company's new $1,500,000 plywood plant here. The Premier is expected to discuss Quebec forestry policy.

The plant will produce millions of square feet of hardwood plywood panels annually for housing construction and furniture. Under construction since August, 1945, the new industry is the first of its kind east of the Rockies.

Youth Is Crushed By Falling Wall

Montreal, Nov. 6.—(CP)—Louis Grief, 17-year-old Montreal construction worker of two weeks, was "very weak" in hospital today after spending nearly seven hours last night with his left arm caught under the wreckage of a 100-ton wall which collapsed.

Grief was extricated and removed to hospital after firemen of a salvage crew worked five hours with pumps, automatic drills and 50-ton jacks to move the mass.

His arm was badly mangled and it is feared an amputation may be necessary.

Three workers suffered injuries and Grief was trapped while about seven feet away from safety.

G. O. P. Representatives Ride Tide of Protest Votes from Citizens Who Gave Evidence of Having "Had Enough" of Democratic Direction.

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Republicans, with a comeback of landslide portions, had the House of Representatives within their grasp today and reached for control of the Senate as well.

Riding a tide of protest votes from citizens who gave evidence of having "had enough" of Democratic direction of the legislative machinery, the G. O. P. swept to its first major victory since it lost power in the depression days of the early '30s.

A thundering tide of votes coursed through New England, lapped at the borders of Dixie and surged on to the West Coast, to turn up these results of Tuesday's balloting:

House — 199 Republicans elected for net gain of 34 (including one former Progressive seat); 163 Democrats elected for net loss of 33. Rep. Vito Marcantonio, American Labor Member from New York, re-elected as only minor party representative.

In 72 contests remaining to be settled, the Republicans needed to retain a net gain of only 26 to have the 218 majority necessary to organization of the House of the 80th Congress.

Senate (including holdovers) — 46 Republicans; 41 Democrats. Nine races undecided, with Republicans leading in six and Democrats in three. Republicans' net gain at this point was eight, with total of 10 needed for control.

In 34 governorship races, the Republicans had elected 19. They took over two formerly held by the Democrats in Massachusetts and Ohio, but yielded one to the Democrats in Colorado. The Democrats had elected eight.

In undecided contests, the Democrats led in governorship races in Arizona, Maryland, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Wyoming. The Republican held the lead in Idaho.

The potential Republican presidential candidate for 1948, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, was re-elected with a record-breaking majority, defeating Senator James Mead, Democrat, who also was slated for presidential consideration if he won this election and if President Truman declined to run two years from now.

Former Ohio Governor John Bricker, Republican vice-presidential nominee in 1944 was winning handsily in his home state senatorial contest.

The elections were for all 435 seats in the House of Representatives (including four for unfinished terms) and for 34 state governorships, in addition to numerous minor state and local offices.

However the voting in Maine took place Sept. 9 in advance polls.

Nightingale Will Testify In Ottawa Espionage Case

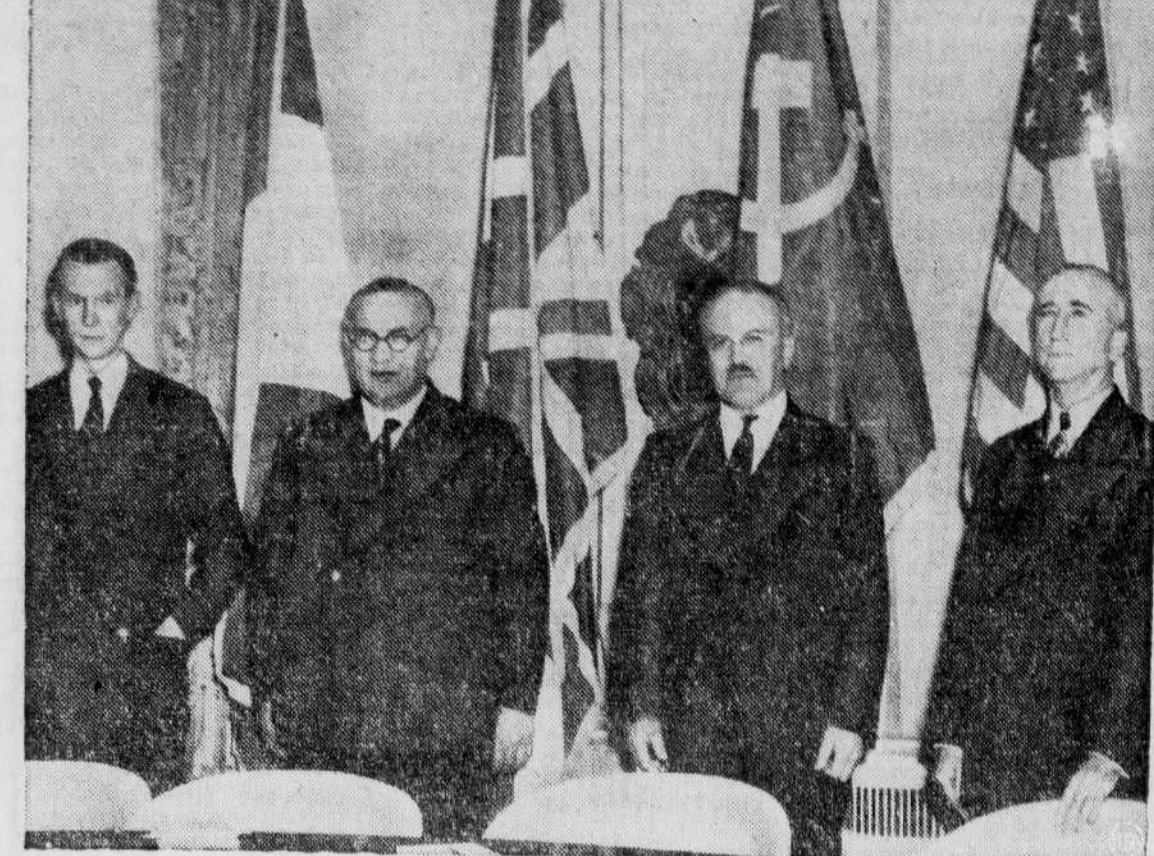

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—(CP)—Former Squadron Leader Matt Simons Nightingale, a wartime communications expert in the R.C.A.F., will take the stand in his own defence today at the opening of the sixth day of his trial on a charge of giving confidential information to Russia.

Defence Counsel Royden Hughes of Ottawa announced at the close of yesterday's sitting of the Ontario Supreme Court that he would call his client as the eighth witness for the defence. The crown called four witnesses.

Nightingale, tall, 40-year-old native of Mobile, Alabama and descendant of an old Quebec family, went on trial last Wednesday before Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland in the fourth of a series of espionage cases in the same court.

Yesterday's evidence was almost entirely devoted to an examination of the importance of

Under Four Flags, The Big Four Pose

In the interval between secret talks by Byrnes and Bevin and the formal secret conferences which began at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York Monday, the Big Four posed for this portrait under the flags of the nations they represent. Big-4 To Hear Testimony From Italy And Yugoslavia On Bitter Trieste Debate

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A showdown fight over control of the key Adriatic Port of Trieste appeared to be developing rapidly today with Yugoslavia and Italy both called to testify before the Big-Four Foreign Ministers Council here.

Yugoslavia, with Russian backing, is driving for domination of the port while the United States, Britain and other western powers, insist on a strong United Nations government.

Last night Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia accused State Secretary Byrnes of trying to deliver an "ultimatum" to the council to force it to take an action considered unfavorable to Yugoslavia.

Mr. Byrnes struck back with pointed digs about Mr. Molotov's constant insistence on his own views.

In one issue after another Mr. Molotov showed up on the minority side of stalemated issues in the projected Italian Peace Treaty—background of the Trieste fight—but the Big Four must be unanimous before any agreement can be voted.

In the United Nations, however, where majority votes can force a consultation, the steering committee of the Assembly last night rejected a Soviet proposal to consider the possibility of moving the United Nations headquarters to Europe permanently instead of keeping it in North America.

The committee approved a United States proposition that New York City and San Francisco be included among possible sites along with

Murder Trial At Winnipeg Nears Close

Verdict Expected Today in Case of 18-Year-Old Telephone Slaying Uncle.

Winnipeg, Nov. 6.—(CP)—A verdict is expected late today in the murder trial of telephoner St. Cyr, 18-year-old, French-speaking farm youth from St. Eustache, Man., charged with the fatal shooting of his uncle last Sept. 13.

The uncle, Modest St. Cyr, was fatally wounded by a rifle bullet when, according to defence testimony, he pursued Telephone and Telephoner's 20-year-old sister, Margaret, as they fled to a neighbor's house to summon police. They and other defence witnesses said Modest had come home drunk to their granary home, attempted to attack Margaret and then chased the two across fields in his buggy.

Spectators who flocked to four previous murder trials at the present assizes and heard death verdicts returned in three of them are still thronging the court for this trial of a boy who "never gives any trouble."

Yesterday Mr. Justice A. K. Dwyer ruled against the admissibility of two written statements and the question and answer portion of a third, all said to have been dictated by Telephone.

He held that after a voluntary statement had been taken from an accused, the police had no right to subject him to further examination, even after the usual police caution had been given.

Telephone, who can neither read nor write, and who does not understand English, is aided by a court interpreter. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William St. Cyr, and his sister Margaret, all of whom have testified, have been present at all sessions so far.

Mrs. St. Cyr told the court yesterday that her son was a "very good boy. He works hard, he doesn't fight or drink. He never gives me any trouble."

U.K. Dominions Must Share In Defence, Peer Affirms

London, Nov. 6.—(C.P. Cable)—Lord Allanbrooke, whose last duty as Chief of the Imperial General Staff was a study of Commonwealth defence, said today that acceptance by each member of the British Commonwealth of a zone of responsibility is one of the four fundamental defence requirements.

In an address prepared for delivery before the Royal Empire Society, he listed the other three "cornerstones" of the edifice of Commonwealth security as:

1. Recognition by British peoples that maintenance of world peace depends more on the solidarity of the Commonwealth than on any other factor.

2. Existence within each Commonwealth country of an organization capable of developing that country's full defensive power.

3. Provision of ways and means for co-ordination of Commonwealth defence requirements as a whole.

The United Nations Organization is in its infancy and it would be many years before it would be able to make its influence felt as a guardian of peace, Lord Allanbrooke warned the society.

He suggested each dominion assume direct responsibility for land, sea and air areas connected directly with its security defence. Within its own strategic zone each do-

Provincial Force Investigating Series of Thefts—Two Tons of Stolen Butter Believed Destined for Black Mart.

Montreal, Nov. 6.—(CP)—Provincial police officers are going to be kept on the hop for some time to come as in addition to seeking a cat burglar who made off with $5,000 from a Laurentians hotel safe, thieves who stole more than two tons of butter and safe-smashers who dynamited a safe and escaped with $500, they now are faced with the following:

A Notre du Bon Conseil, Que., truck driver who claimed to have been robbed of $2,900 now is said to have confessed spending part of the money and disposing of the rest.

Charles Herbert Petit, known in Laurentian Mountain circles as "Major," is being sought for questioning in connection with the $5,000 safe robbery last August at St. Adolphe de Howard, Que. Petit, a Montrealer, was sought in Ottawa, Niagara Falls and Windsor, Ont., and in Detroit last yesterday was reported seen on St. Catherine Street, bringing the case into the news again.

Paul Riopel, manager of a co-operative at Ste. Melanie, Que., today discovered theft from the company warehouse of 59 cases of block butter, 17 cases of pound butter and various other quantities of the material amounting to 4,154 pounds. Police said it was undoubtedly destined for the black market.

Residents of St. Guillaume d'Upton, Que., were awakened during the night by a violent explosion. Investigation disclosed a farmers co-operative safe blown open by dynamite and $500 missing.

Meanwhile, Paul Emile Lavigne, Notre-Dame-de-la-Pointe driver, reported to police last week he had been held up on a highway by two men in a brown coupe and robbed of $2,900 at gunpoint.

After watching the car and arresting two men, later released, police re-questioned Lavigne and the story came out.

Lavigne, police said, admitted taking the money, spending some of it but was vague about disposal of the remainder.

Flag Item Rouses Anger of Senator

Lunenburg, N.S., Nov. 6.—(CP)—Senator William Duff sent off a telegram to Prime Minister Mackenzie King yesterday to give the Federal Government a few pointers on what flags should be flown over public buildings.

The ire of the Lunenburg Senator was aroused by a news item reporting instructions had been issued at Ottawa that Union Jacks flown from public buildings should be replaced by the Red Ensign with Canadian coat-of-arms as the Jacks wore out, pending selection of a new Canadian flag.

"I strongly protest against this change," Senator Duff said in his message to the Prime Minister.

"As long as Canada is, and remains, a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations and the British Empire, there are only two flags which it is proper to fly—the Union Jack on all public buildings, including the Governor General's residence and parliament, and the Red Ensign on business house flag poles, private residences and on ships."

Reich Courts Are Attacked By Gen. Clay

German Officials Accused of "Whitewashing" Suspected Nazis—U.S. Officer Expresses Disappointment in Denazification.

Stuttgart, Germany, November 6.—(AP)—German officials were accused yesterday by Lt.-Gen. Lucius D. Clay of "whitewashing" suspected Nazis in the United States occupation zone, and were given a 60-day probationary period to effect substantial improvements in denazification.

Gen. Clay, United States deputy military governor, told officials of the three states in the American zone that he was "thoroughly disappointed" in what he described as their failure to rid their ranks of Nazism.

Although he had singled out Bavaria for criticism on this score yesterday, he mentioned no particular state today.

"Denazification is a must," Gen. Clay said in a speech at a monthly meeting of the Laenderat, composed of minister presidents of the three states. "If the German people are unwilling to do the job, the military government can and will do it."

While the Germans listened in glum silence, the deputy governor said he would watch their work during the next 60 days "with special attention."

"Unless there is a real and rapid improvement, we can only assume that the German administration is unwilling to accept this responsibility," he said.

Ald. Deziel Objects To Plans For New St. Francis Bridge—Voters' Apathy Is Deplored

The general lack of public spirit in municipal referendums, most recently evident in the $650,000 loan by-law which narrowly missed defeat due to the small number of eligible voters casting ballots, and the question of a new bridge across the St. Francis River linking the East and West Wards directly, were two matters which brought considerable discussion at last night's regular Council meeting.

Alderman Armand Fiset, who described as "dangerous" the narrow margin by which the last referendum was approved, ended Mayor Guy Bryan's statement that if public apathy continued in these issues, the Council would be obliged to take steps to have such matters come entirely within the jurisdiction of the City Fathers, and suggested that voters be notified personally on polling day of their duty to vote.

Ald. Fiset's remarks were supported by the remainder of the Council and one other suggestion was made by Ald. Ovide Deziel—that loud speakers be used at least three times on voting day to this end.

On this same matter, Ald. Hector Lanctot stated that he wished to publicly thank Paul Ledere, president of the local Proprietors' League, who, he said, devoted the better part of the day personally calling voters and reminding them of their duty. Ald. Lanctot felt that if it had not been for Mr. Ledere's efforts, the referendum might not have been approved.

The proposed new bridge across the St. Francis River to extend from the lower end of Galt Street in the West Ward to Joffre Street in the East Ward, according to the blueprints, brought strong objection on the part of Ald. Deziel, East Ward representative. Ald. Deziel was opposed to the east side terminal at Joffre Street, which he felt allowed no further development prospects and as an alternative suggested that the eastern terminal meet Bowen Avenue South directly in front of the Hotel Dieu Hospital with a subsidiary artery at Hubbard Avenue. The Alderman was also of the opinion that eight caissons sunk into the riverbed would not provide sufficient support for the structure, preferring that the bridge span the river at an angle with as many caissons as possible on the island in the middle of the river. In this way, he stated, a certain number of caissons normally in the water would have a more solid foundation on the land.

However, a number of the City Fathers did not agree with Ald. Deziel's viewpoint. Ald. Albert Charpentier felt that Joffre Street was the ideal terminal in East Sherbrooke and he further objected to the amount of traffic which would pass the Hotel Dieu during the late hours as well as the expropriation of property of the Sisters of Charity of the Sacred Heart which would include a large portion of the cemetery to the rear of the convent.

Following this discussion a motion was made that the City Fathers go into the matter at a committee meeting, which was carried.

BUS SERVICE IS STUDIED BY COUNCIL GROUP

Ald. Hector Lanctot, chairman of the committee chosen to study the possibilities of municipalization of the local bus service, was reproached at last night's regular Council meeting for the tardiness of his committee in not presenting some sort of comprehensive report on the progress made to date. In reply to his colleagues, Ald. Lanctot pointed out that he was experiencing some difficulty, due to the shortages of equipment, in obtaining any details which would insure the success of the enterprise. However, he stated that he had been in contact with the Ford Motor Company at Windsor Ontario and had received assurance that delivery of 25 vehicles of a specified design suitable for local transportation could be made within a certain date. He further added that a final cost of these buses had been estimated.

Noting that a proposition to the Provincial Transport Company for purchase of the buses presently operating in Sherbrooke had been turned down, Ald. Lanctot stated that the Ford buses were his only alternative.

Regarding a report on the progress of this committee, Ald. Lanctot stated that he could only give statistics on the success of the enterprise in other towns, mentioning some figures from six cities in Ontario which during the past few years had taken over the bus services.

He added, "I am no prophet and cannot fully estimate or gauge our annual profits or whether the project will be a great success." However, he felt that the population would receive better all-around service if the City took over and personally expressed the opinion that the project would realize satisfactory profits.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

MAN MOVES BED TO BASEMENT

That's a headline your J-M reporter expects to see in the newspaper any day. For two reasons. First, many men spend a good deal of their time stoking the fire, and second, the cellar is often the warmest spot in the house!

Countless thousands have solved this problem—made the other rooms in their house more comfortable—by having their furnace, hot water tank and heating pipes covered with Johns-Manville asbestos insulation. You see, J-M insulation keeps heat from escaping into the cellar—helps send it upstairs where you want it! And remember, J-M insulation pays for itself, by giving you full benefit from the fuel you burn.

Johns-Manville suggests you ask your plumber about Asbestos Boiler Jackets and Pipe Coverings. He'll show you how they can save up to 10 per cent on your fuel bills every year.

Erection Of Technical School On Site Of Pelletier Park Is Quebec Government's Plan

It was learned at the regular Council meeting last night that the Provincial Government will construct a new technical school in this city at the present site of Pelletier Park, situated behind the Belvedere Street Armory. This land, on which the government has had an option for some years, will be turned over to the government and the playground apparatus removed to some other suitable spot.

When the Provincial Government took the option, it was with a view to establishing such a school. The Government has now approached the City of Sherbrooke for the land, and although no further information is yet available, it is expected that construction will begin soon.

Other resolutions passed at the meeting included a work order for the replacement of the boiler at the Brick Mill's property.

A grant of $500 was made to the Hibernian Club by the City and $300 was voted for erection of shelters and side-boards for skating rinks at the St. Francis Park and Boulevard Park.

Judging Of 350 Mink Will Be Completed This Afternoon

The advantage of raising mink in sheds was pointed out to mink breeders from all over the province assembled in Sherbrooke for the second annual Quebec Provincial Live Mink Show who attended a banquet in the Arena last night. Dr. Ronald Bownes, of Toronto, who spoke on sheds, was one of several who addressed the banquet attended by some one hundred people.

Dr. J. E. Laforest, of Quebec, president of the Quebec Co-operative Fur Producers Association, presided.

Organized by the show committee, headed by Mack G. Ross, of Sherbrooke, president of the Eastern Townships Mink Breeders Co-operative, the banquet climaxed the show's second day which saw judging commenced by William Ritchie, of Ottawa, and Pat Ewing, of Montreal.

Judging of the 350 mink will be completed this afternoon when winners of $340 in prize money offered by the Quebec Department of Agriculture will be announced.

Sheds, Dr. Bownes declared, are a means of protecting mink economically and getting the most from them. The first necessity in a shed, he pointed out, is that it be weatherproof, and the next, that it be equipped with sides to prevent wind and inclement weather from discoloring the pelts. The shed, he said, should be built as a shell, well off the ground. He maintained that there is a definite difference between mink raised in sheds and those raised outside—"There is an amazing clarity in the pelt of the mink raised in a well protected pen."

He advised the breeders that if they contemplate building a shed it would be well worth their while to spend a week at a ranch where such a system is used.

Speakers with Dr. Bownes were doctoree in Biochemistry at Cambridge University in England. He also studied at Plymouth in England, Grenoble and Roscoff in France, Zurich in Switzerland and Graz in Austria.

Coming to McGill University in 1928 as a lecturer in Biochemistry, he was promoted to a professorship in 1937 and became Chairman of the Department in 1941. In 1942 he was appointed Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research.

Among the many offices which he holds are those of a member of the consulting staffs of the Royal Victoria Hospital and the Montreal General Hospital, a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and of the Chemical Institute of Canada, and a member of the Society of Biological Chemists, the Biochemical Society (U.K.) and the Canadian Physiological Society. He is also associated with the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, the Associate Committee on Dental Research of the National Research Council, and the Scientific Research Bureau of the Province of Quebec.

Considerable research has been made by Professor Thomson on the problem of endocrinology and metabolism, and in recent years he has turned his attention to the field of nutrition. During the war he was a member of advisory committees on nutrition to three Departments of the Canadian Government (the Ministry of National Health and Welfare, the Ministry of National Defence and the War-time Prices and Trade Board), and was vice-president of the Nutrition Committee of the Province of Quebec.

Annual commencement exercises of the Lennoxville High School will be held in the school auditorium this evening at 8 o'clock. Guest speaker for this occasion will be Dr. Harry A. McKown, noted educator, author and lecturer, of Gilson, Illinois.

McGILL DEAN WILL ADDRESS SOCIETY HERE

Professor David L. Thomson, Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research at McGill University, will address members of the McGill Graduates Society, St. Francis Valley Branch, at their annual fall meeting to be held in the New Sherbrooke Hotel on Saturday, November 9, at 7 p.m.

Professor Thomson is a widely known man of letters and holds many offices in various societies and organizations. Born in Aberdeen, Scotland, he obtained the B.Sc. and M.A. degrees from the University of Aberdeen and the doctorate in Biochemistry at Cambridge University in England. He also studied at Plymouth in England, Grenoble and Roscoff in France, Zurich in Switzerland and Graz in Austria.

Because the production of mink pelts has increased by 50,000 this year, he told breeders: "Get in your ranch and call us you have never called before." Develop a strain that will put you in a position to meet any situation, he advised.

"Quebec can produce the finest mink although not the largest," Judge Pat Ewing maintained, declaring that the texture, color and quality of the mink raised in the province surpasses anything produced elsewhere.

The judges received Ayers blankets as gifts from the Quebec association, which with the Eastern Townships organization, is sponsoring the show.

At the end table with the speakers were Gilbert Ayers, of Lacute, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Schoch, of Laterriere; Carl C. McClay, of Knowlton; J. S. Marier, of Quebec; manager of the show committee; S. Poliquin, of Quebec; Roscio Brooks, of Quebec, editor of La Politique, fur magazine; Cecil Johnson, representing the Hudson Bay Company, and Mr. Cadeley, of Toronto, representing the Fur Trade Journal of Canada.

Among the many offices which he holds are those of a member of the consulting staffs of the Royal Victoria Hospital and the Montreal General Hospital, a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and of the Chemical Institute of Canada, and a member of the Society of Biological Chemists, the Biochemical Society (U.K.) and the Canadian Physiological Society. He is also associated with the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, the Associate Committee on Dental Research of the National Research Council, and the Scientific Research Bureau of the Province of Quebec.

Considerable research has been made by Professor Thomson on the problem of endocrinology and metabolism, and in recent years he has turned his attention to the field of nutrition. During the war he was a member of advisory committees on nutrition to three Departments of the Canadian Government (the Ministry of National Health and Welfare, the Ministry of National Defence and the War-time Prices and Trade Board), and was vice-president of the Nutrition Committee of the Province of Quebec.

Education Termed Investment In Talk At Local Rotary Club

Dr. Harry C. McKown, noted educator, author and lecturer, of Gilson, Knox County, Illinois, last night told members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club that "an intelligent person never laughs at a new idea" and that "all the progress this world has ever seen was foolishness when first suggested."

Addressing the club's regular meeting in the New Sherbrooke Hotel, Dr. McKown had originally been scheduled to speak on the subject of education, but switched instead to the theme "Fools and Foolishness." He interlarded his serious remarks with laugh-provoking utterances to furnish one of the most entertaining addresses heard by local Rotarians in a long time.

Dr. McKown prefaced his theme with a brief reference to the importance of education, marked in Canada by Education Week. In this connection he declared that the wealth of this city and of the country as a whole is in its youth and that education is an investment, one of the best any community can possess.

Turning to his chosen subject, Dr. McKown gave, both from history and from the present era, instances in which a new idea or invention had caused its originator to be ridiculed and, in some cases, to be punished for presuming to defy tradition and accepted beliefs. Deploring the attitude of many towards a new idea, he emphasized that "all the progress this world has ever seen was made against established tradition."

Salient points covered by the speaker in his address included statements that one hundred and ten years ago railroads were condemned as agents of Satan; that in the early days of aviation a certain bishop maintained that if God had intended people to fly in His heaven he would have given them wings, and that deaths from plane crashes were a sign of God's displeasure; that in the early history of electricity, progress was hindered because of a belief that electric currents were unhealthy; and that one hundred years ago doctors described bathtubs as a menace to health.

The speaker was introduced by Wright Gibson and thanked by Past President James Wark, the latter describing the address as one of the greatest on tolerance ever heard by the club.

During the meeting remarks relative to the progress of preparations for the Rotary Fair being held this week, were made by Committee Chairman Gerald Wiggets, who introduced Rosaire Peterson, of Montreal, a representative of Canada Packers attending the meeting as a guest of the club. Mr. Peterson is in Sherbrooke to supervise decorations for the Fair, this service having been rendered for the past five years free of charge.

Michel Leroy, a delegate from the St. Malo municipal government in France, who is in Sherbrooke to solicit donations of food and clothing and financial aid, was introduced by President W. S. Sutherland during the session. Mr. Leroy spoke briefly.

Visiting Rotarians at last night's meeting were Harry D. Taylor, of Westfield, N.J., John P. Coyle, of Toronto, and Frank T. Gettings, of Montreal, while those present as guests of members of the club were C. A. Altwegg, of London, England, Michel Leroy, of St. Malo, France, Rosaire Peterson, P. B. Lyon and Leo Bracken, all of Montreal, Walter Mutchler and many towards a new idea, he emphasized that "all the progress this world has ever seen was made against established tradition."

THE UNITED STATES RESULT

Of the many meanings which might be read into yesterday's Congressional election results in the United States, the most apparent is that the American people as a whole are thoroughly tired of excessive controls and government interference with the life of the individual. For the past fifteen years the Democratic administration has been wedded to the policy of bureaucratic curbs and restraints on business, industry and agriculture. These have been imposed with the avowed purpose of curing any and all ills to which the economic system has been subject but almost invariably they left conditions worse than before.

The brief experience of the country since the demise of the O.P.A. has proved the fallacy of controls as a means of boosting production and reducing prices. For a few days after price fixing was removed, prices sky-rocketed but then the law of supply and demand began to operate and within a couple of weeks the increasing flow of goods served to force quotations down until today most goods are being offered at prices somewhat below the former ceilings, while supplies have expanded substantially.

Controls played their part in bringing about the Democrat defeat but the vacillating tactics of President Truman, especially in the labor field, also increased popular dissatisfaction with the administration. At the very time when a strong hand was needed to guide the country through the difficulties of reconversion, Mr. Truman evaded as far as possible taking a definite stand on any issue with the result that chaos and confusion, often of government making, interfered with progress.

Two years is a long time to look ahead, especially under present world conditions but a logical view of yesterday's results indicates that the long reign of the Democratic party in the White House is nearing its end and under normal circumstances the next incumbent of that place will be a Republican. The Republicans have several strong men, any one of whom are stronger than the best in the present administration, all of whom showed up well in this voting.

A SOCIALIST MINISTER SPEAKS OUT

One of the best outlines of the need for increased production to raise living standards is that given recently by Sir Stafford Cripps, one of the senior members of the British Labor Government. In dealing with the building situation, Sir Stafford declared:

"We can't get more houses and factories built by putting up wages in the building trade unless it leads to greater production. We can only afford a certain limited amount of labor for building—there is no inexhaustible reservoir to draw upon. The only way we can increase our production of buildings is by more efficient techniques and by each individual doing more in the course of the year, either by working fuller hours—not more hours but consistently all the working hours—no absenteeism—or by doing more work per day. It is a brick-layer lays, say, 500 bricks instead of 400 bricks a day, then production goes up by twenty-five per cent. There is no other way of getting the extra production we need. That must be our general approach to the problem. It is a question of what each man and woman produces within the year."

These are not the words of some company executive but represent the considered opinion of one of the greatest trade union leaders in the democratic world. Sir Stafford has hit at the very root of the problems facing the world today—the lack of goods and supplies needed for the recovery of all nations. Only by increasing real production can the general standard of living be improved.

BRITISH SHIPBUILDING PROGRESS

The basic soundness of the British shipbuilding industry is evidenced by figures issued during the past few days by Lloyd's Register of Shipping, the standard authority on ship construction and affiliated trades. During the war, United States plants showed phenomenal progress in shipbuilding, but apparently much of this was due to the unnatural impetus of wartime conditions, for Great Britain is now a long way out in front of the United States and all other countries in post-war mercantile construction.

The statement shows that the tonnage building in United Kingdom yards during the first nine months of this year is five times as great as the United States total. Merchant construction throughout the world totalled about 3,370,000 tons of which Britain constructed fifty-two per cent or approximately 1,875,000 tons. The United States follows with 352,000 tons and Sweden is next with 241,000 tons. About twenty per cent of the United Kingdom total is for overseas countries compared with fourteen per cent during the previous quarter. In addition to 464 vessels actually under construction, the United States has no less than 1,000,000 tons on order.

From these figures it may be assumed that history is repeating itself. Whereas the British shipbuilders are maintaining and improving their plants, as happened after the First Great War, the United States yards are falling into desuetude.

REVOLUTION ON THE FARM

With only a slight increase in total acreage under cultivation, American farmers are this year producing a third more than they did before the war, and with 10 per cent less labor. Farm population is actually declining. Farms have become bigger in area but smaller in number. They are being mechanized increasingly. The productivity per acre has gone up a fifth, while the productivity per man has gone up a third.

These are the main findings revealed thus far by the Census of Agriculture, now being completed by the U. S. Census Bureau. Lumped, they give some indication of the revolution that has taken place on the farm in recent years. It had been proceeding gradually, but the war speeded it up tremendously.

Experts at the Bureau of Agricultural Economics have been studying these trends. Reviewing them in the department's monthly "Agricultural Situation," they come up with some ponderous problems: Has mechanization of the farm made the farmer's life easier and more leisurely? Or has it merely enabled the farmer to increase the size of his operations?

FARMING IS MORE AND MORE MECHANIZED
Ten years ago there were a million tractors on U. S. farms. Now it's two million, one tractor for every three farms. By 1950 it will be three million, a tractor for every other farm, says Sherman E. Johnson, assistant chief of BAE.

Wheat-growing has been almost completely mechanized. Corn and cotton are on the way towards complete mechanization. Mechanical hay-harvesting, sugar-beet planting, sugar-cane cutting and flame-throwing weeders are coming into wider use. It takes only half as long to milk a herd of cows by machines as by hand.

Machines enable the farmer to cover more ground in a given amount of time, reducing production costs and so increasing profits per acre. As farm labor has become scarcer, farm wages have risen to today's range of $3 a day in the South, $9 in the West, with a national average of $5 a day without board, $100 a month with. Farm labor today is skilled labor, not just manual labor, and must be paid accordingly. The higher the wage rate goes, the greater the demand for mechanization to cut costs.

Still the migration from farm to town and city goes on. The Census Bureau finds that since 1920, half a million U. S. farms have disappeared. That's 20,000,000 fewer farms per year. In the same time, the size of the average U. S. farm has gone up from 143 to 195 acres.

FARMERS WILL CONTINUE TO DESERT
Arthur Raper of the BAE predicts that "Farm families will leave farms at a faster rate during the next decade than they have in the previous two and a half decades." That would indicate a drop of from a quarter to a third of a million farms from today's total of six million farms, by 1956.

Why haven't good roads, automobiles, trucks, electricity, telephone, radio, inside plumbing and central heating—with television and helicopters coming up—made people content to stay on farms?
Half the farms are now electrified. Four out of five have radio. A third have mechanical refrigerators. Hot and cold running water and automatic heat need no longer be considered novelties in a farm house.

Ninety-eight per cent of the American farms are family-type farms, says J. C. Capt, director of the census. Only two per cent are large-scale commercial ventures with over $20,000-a-year incomes. But there are over 110,000 farmers of 1000 acres or more, and the number is growing. Farming has become a business.

Arthur Raper points to several other important trends. Subsistence farming and barter are being replaced by farming for larger-income crops. The average farm worker now produces $2,500 worth of crops a year, or seven times as much as his grandfather did. More fertilizer, better soil conservation, better seed and stock have done that.

Selling and buying through co-operatives is on the increase. Two-thirds of all the farmers now belong to co-ops, which this year may do six billion dollars' worth of trade. The farmer has to go to town more and more now, just to look after his business.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Things are not always what they seem; the first appearance deceives many; the intelligence of few perceives what has been carefully hidden in the recesses of the mind.—Phaedrus.

Christian Science Monitor

Has France a lost generation? If so, when does it begin and end, and what are the prospects for the future because of it?

You cannot travel around France much these days and talk seriously with people in every city and village without those questions taking form in one way or another.

The thing that impresses you most is the different tones and texture of the men who fought in 1914 in contrast with those who followed afterward. The French Army of World War One was a tough, hard-hitting outfit, and its men were tough and resilient.

Those men are among the most unhappy people in France today. Their world has sunk around them, yet their hearts, strength, and determination are as great as ever.

They struggle to comprehend what has happened to the men who followed them. Take two instances as typical.

Albert runs a hotel in Vierzon. He is the best of the old school, alert and hard-working, yet friendly. One day he will talk of France and her problems.

"It's young men," he says, "they will not work. They are soft and lazy. And everyone lets them get away with it in this age of social consciousness which is as often abused as justified. They get paid for doing little or no work, and so have lost all sense of values."

"There is only one thing to do. Make them work and work hard; and unless they do, they do not eat! It sounds hard to you, does it? Well, these are hard times. France's future is at stake. Let the men go without food, and you will see how quickly they will learn to work and work well. More important, in the end they will be happy, which they are not today, for getting away with things never appeases discontent."

Let us take another hotel man, this one a top-flight executive who runs three hotels, is director of 12 others, and an adviser to French hotel training schools. He is Pierre, self-made, erect and rigid as a Russian drill sergeant, a Frenchman to whom order is the first law, yet a socially conscious employer who only asks that people do their work and do it well.

"Monsieur, France failed in 1940 because it failed in 1936; because it failed in turn after the last war.

We got a soft generation and in the pinches it just was not there. Why? I'll tell you some main reasons. France lost 2,000,000 men in the last war. Mothers of all the children left behind looked at their sons with an intense clinging which they never would have had otherwise. The result was the sons became too important and were spoiled. Families must go on, and every effort was made to save the children from cares, hardships, problems, et cetera.

"You know what happens in that case. Youth, like raw iron, needs heating and pounding to make it into useful steel. These boys never got it. Came 1936, and politicians suddenly began to convince Frenchmen that they need not work hard and should embrace the Popular Front to see that they did not drive themselves any more.

"Somehow, workmen of France suddenly believed that the work they had done and which had made the country go could be cut in half suddenly and France would still have everything it needed. How my normally intelligent countrymen ever became hypnotized by such specious arguments I will never know—but they did. In three months, France became a lazy nation!

"Take our soft generation and get them that way in 1936, and what do you think you have in 1939? You have what we then saw, an unfocused, loose army of aimless men, completely lacking in even a modicum of discipline. The Germans went through France fast, but it still took them twice as long as was needed. They merely moved cautiously, for they could not believe France was as soft as it was."

Pierre did not need to go on from there on the lost generation. His expression alone told the tale of subsequent occupation. "But what about the future?" I asked. "Generations continue, and that one must pass on and new ones follow. Have you seen signs of a new one yet?"

A quick smile lighted up his face. "Yes, I have. I have noticed it first at hotel school and since then elsewhere. The dividing line comes with children of fourteen now. Boys of sixteen are different from those of fourteen. These boys have had their fathers. It was not a question of family perpetuity.

"Further, their parents could not spoil them, for there was nothing to spoil them with. These boys were thrown on their own resources during the tough years in France in the formative and priceless ages from eight to fourteen. They show it. They are different.

"Our hope is in that group of boys, and apparently only time will solve the problem for they must grow to manhood and maturity, and the lost generation fade away before the new France, full of native vitality, will be born." Pierre finished speaking with a slight gesture of resignation but not despair.

These two views do not present a full answer to our questions. They leave out the strength developed by the best young men of the Resistance. But they disclose why old soldiers believe France will—with patience—develop new leadership.

BRUSSELS BOUNTIFUL:

Nylons, New Cars, Steaks for the Asking

By DOUGLAS GORDON

Brussels once again is a city of civilians. No longer do the contingents of Allied troops disgorge daily from trucks at the Allee Verte Station to throng the streets and choke the cafes. The feverish Brussels of the "Leave Center" days has virtually vanished.

The British "Town Major" sign is still out at the corner of the Place Rogier but it already is looking somewhat like a period piece. The American Military Police station is still functioning at the bottom of the Boulevard du Jardin Botanique. Here and there you see British Red Caps on patrol in a jeep, but apart from service personnel visiting friends in Brussels, the city is demilitarized. The soldier now is really noticeable.

ALADDIN'S CAVE OF GOODIES
Today Brussels has all sorts of commodities, from chocolate, cakes and nylons, to bananas and bird cages. The capital is an Aladdin's cave of good things and almost everything that is unobtainable elsewhere in Europe can be procured.

In the restaurants you can order, casually, two eggs or a beef steak and French fries at any hour of the day or night. New cars, like shining futuristic beetles, crawl along the boulevards making the old trolley cars look ready for a museum.

The many jewelers' shops are packed with a glittering array for hand, hair, ear, or neck. This may be bad in the eyes of the Communists, since the sale of jewelry in Russia was forbidden after the Russian revolution. But it is dear to the hearts of Belgian women who, rich or poor, believe there still is value in the pink plastic flowers with which they deck their cars.

The city itself is getting a post-war beauty treatment. The Brussels which looked so shabby and dowdy after the liberation is blossoming out in new shop fronts, and many buildings are having their fronts repaired and repainted.

And wonder of wonders, the night signs are on again. From dusk onwards, the giant illuminated neon flash out their multiplicity of messages across the Place Rogier and the Place Broucker, urging the citizens to buy a host of things that now really are available. By contrast, London's Pleasance Circus must look like a place of shadows.

ONE LITTLE CORNER OF PLENTY

Of course Brussels is not Europe and does not present a picture even remotely representative of the cities in the Western half. It is an oasis of plenty in a corner of the devastated continent, a fantastic little world where plump matrons sit eating from plates piled high with creamcakes, a "never, never" land.

Yet perhaps there is a reason in it all. Maybe this well-stocked morsel of old Europe is left as a tribute to the tolerance and industry of the Belgian people. They ask only freedom and peace to work at the reconstruction of their country.

Colds are responsible for more than one-third of all the days lost in American industry.

DOROTHY DIX

War Years Change GI's

Many Vets Lost Affection for Fiances During Army Service

Dear Miss Dix: We are two girls of 19 who had boy friends in the army for two years, but they have now gotten their discharges and are home again. During these two years we were true and wrote to them every day, and the boys did the same in writing to us. But since they have come home they won't have anything to do with us, and they seem to have forgotten us.

Have we lost our feminine touch, or just what is the matter? Answer: Your feminine touch is doubtless just as potent as ever, only these two GI's no longer respond to it; so the wise thing for you to do is just wipe them off your slate and turn the current on some other lads.

Your problem is one that is very common now and that is causing a lot of heartache among the girls who waited patiently and faithfully for their sweethearts to come back from the war, and who find that the boys' love for them has died and that they are no longer desired.

Understandingly the girls resent this and feel that they are being badly used, but, in reality, the lads are not to blame. They were just immature boys when they went into the army. Too young to know their own minds, or what love really is, or what kind of girls they were going to want when they grew up.

But the war has matured them. The discipline they have endured, the experiences they have been through, the things they have suffered have made them old beyond their years. And so when they come back home many of them find that they have outgrown the girls they left behind them.

Much of the restlessness and nervousness and the drinking and the dissipation of the returned soldiers is due to the fact that their old girls, whom they no longer care for, are insisting on marrying them and making them feel like heels if they don't. They don't want to hurt these girls. They don't want to seem traitors to them and their families. And they don't seem to know how to get out of the sentimental web in which they are involved.

The wise girl should accept the situation as it exists and set Joe free. In refusing to marry his ex-love he is doing a far kinder thing than he would if he let himself be wept into a marriage for which he lost his taste.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I was happily married at the age of 20. For a few years my husband was good to me. Then he began having affairs with other women and I divorced him. Later on he married. I am still a widow, but my ex-husband insists on calling on me, using every excuse he can muster up to see me although he is living with his wife.

I want him to let me alone to live my life, but he will not do it. When he thinks I am going to have a date he passes by my home, and if my date happens to be there he comes in and abuses him. What can I do about it?

Answer: It looks as if you will have to call in the police to protect you from being annoyed by the unwelcome attentions of your former husband. Apparently he is still in love with you and is jealous of anyone whom you seem to like.

It is a common thing for husbands with a wandering foot to be unfaithful to the wives they really adore. They cannot resist running after every fluttering skirt that crosses their path, yet at the same time the only women whom they really love are their wives whom they honor and respect and whose hearts they break.

I would say your husband belongs in this class. The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

Mitchell officiating.

The church was effectively decorated with fall foliage and baskets of yellow mums adorned the altar, while the pews reserved for the guests were marked with white satin ribbon. The organist, Mr. Roger McKergow, rendered suitable music and accompanied Mrs. Margaret Scripture Goldstein, of Montreal, who sang "Because" as the guests were gathered, "O Perfect Love" during the prayer, and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte, during the signing of the register.

Mr. Gilbert King, of Montreal, brother of the bride, acted as best man for the bridegroom, and the ushers were Messrs. Alan McKergow and Eugene Sheppard, of Waterloo.

The bride, who was given away by Mr. Leroy Hayes, wore a floor-length gown of white broadcloth satin, with sweetheart neckline and long sleeves ending in points over her hands. Her floor-length embroidered veil was held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Her only ornament was a pendant with a sardonyx in a pearl setting, which had been the groom's mother's at her wedding.

The bride was attended by Miss Lorna Taylor, of Montreal, as bridesmaid, who wore a floor-length gown of fuchsia crepe with a matching shoulder-length veil held in place with a garland of plumes. She carried a bouquet of yellow mums.

Little Miss Katherine Donahue, sister of the groom, acted as flower girl, wearing a long full-skirted dress of peach satin, with a matching halo hat of tiny feathers and carrying a nosegay of pink and white roses.

For more than forty-two years he engaged in the shipping business, during most of which he acted as superintendent of the White Star Line. For many years he acted as manager at Portland, Me., during the winter seasons. Mr. Ross retired from business fifteen years ago and in 1933 moved from Quebec to take up residence in the Eastern Townships.

The Doctor Says

LONG OPERATION MAY END BRONCHIECTASIS

By William A. O'Brien, M.D.

In bronchiectasis, the bronchi are expanded as the result of chronic infection which has weakened their walls. Patients with bronchiectasis have a loose cough and bring up large quantities of foul sputum.

Dr. O'Brien.

The infection may follow one of the infectious diseases of childhood, especially whooping cough or measles. In adults, bronchiectasis can develop after pneumonia or influenza.

In individuals of any age, an aspirated foreign body in the lung can be the cause.

Some persons apparently are born with weakened bronchi. Mild at First Bronchiectasis begins as uncomplicated, mild chronic bronchitis. As the disease progresses, however, the cough becomes more severe and more sputum is brought up, especially if the position of the body is changed.

In advanced cases, the fingers become clubbed and the nails develop a resemblance to watch crystals.

The diagnosis can be confirmed by X-ray examination of the chest. For bronchiectasis fills the bronchial system of tubes with a chemical which shows on X-ray.

In the beginning, such simple remedies as bed rest and inhalations of steam are helpful. Solutions of penicillin can be sprayed into the lungs to treat more effectively infections caused by germs which can be destroyed by penicillin.

By holding his head over the side of the bed on arising in the morning, the patient can drain his lungs of sputum collected during the night. A special tube may be passed down the bronchi to relieve any constriction and to inject iodized oil, which may produce a temporary improvement.

Treatment of bronchiectasis with surgery has brought remarkable results in those cases in which the diseased portion of the lung is removed. As bronchiectasis usually develops in the lower portions of the lungs, the cases best suited for surgical treatment are those in which the disease is limited to one lobe.

Lung May Be Removed

The entire lung has been removed in bronchiectasis cases, and portions of both lungs have been removed with success.

As bronchiectasis tends to progress, surgical treatment should be considered. It is especially advisable for young patients whose disease is limited to one portion of the lung.

The bronchiectasis patient must be carefully prepared for operation and accorded special care while he is on the table.

Dr. Thomas J. Kinsella reported in Minnesota Medicine his belief that the most grateful patients are young persons who have been relieved of chronic coughing and expectoration of foul sputum. The change in the appearance, attitude, and outlook of such a person is striking.

Question: I am 54 years old and have high blood pressure. How long do you think my heart can hold up under the strain, which at present has no special effect on me?

Answer: The size of a high-blood-pressure patient's heart can be measured by a competent physician, who is then able to advise the patient as to his activities on the basis of the symptoms he presents. Being unable to examine you personally, I cannot give you the opinion you seek. Consult your physician.

Leslie Rattray; runner-up, Mrs. A. A. Macartney.

Monkey Golf: Driver, Mrs. Leslie Rattray; No. 2 iron, Mrs. A. E. Fee; No. 5 iron, Mrs. Grant Campbell; putter, Mrs. Stanley Bushey.

Ringer competitions were won by two lady members with a score of 40, Miss Jean Pepler and Mrs. E. O'Dell.

Mr. A. A. Macartney made the presentations on behalf of the men's division as follows: Club championship, Mr. Leslie Rattray; handicap cup, Mr. J. O. L. Michand; class "A", Mr. J. O. L. Michand.

Mr. Macartney spoke very highly of the enthusiasm displayed by Mr. J. O. L. Michand during the past season and the very splendid assistance which he had given to the club.

In closing Mr. Michand urged that there be more interest shown in the coming year and an increased membership.

Q—What is a piranha?
A—So-called "man-eating" fish of South American rivers. Six to 10 inches long, equipped with large, strong teeth, they attack in large numbers any creature that disturbs them. Dogs, hogs and even cattle have been devoured by these voracious little monsters.

US Magazine Sees Canada As Eldorado

"It's Easy to Get Rich in 20th Century's Land of Opportunity," American Author Declares About Dominion.

New York, Nov. 6.—Canada, the land with everything but enough people to take advantage of her myriad opportunities, was presented to American readers today under the flattering title:

"Why it's easy to get rich in Canada."

The heart-warming article on the 20th century's land of opportunity is featured in the December issue of the American Magazine, published today. Its author, Hawthorne Daniel, 56-year-old natural history expert and writer, says "more opportunities of various kinds are to be found there (in Canada) now than in any other land on earth."

"The war did so many things to the country that even yet a good many Canadians don't quite know what has happened," says Mr. Daniel.

"To the astonishment even of many Canadians, this lightly populated land, which has fewer people than the State of New York, became during the war the second-largest exporting nation in the world. She has expanded her industries until they are exceeded today only by those of the United States, Great Britain, and perhaps the U.S.S.R."

Mr. Daniel, a native of Norfolk, Neb., who now lives in Tuckahoe, N.Y., commenting on Canadian mining and especially the future of nickel and silver, says:

"Ontario is the great Canadian producer now, but that may not always be the case. The Northwest Territories are three times the size of Ontario and as yet they are hardly developed at all. . . . The more recently discovered deposits of iron ore of Ungava, and of Labrador may prove more important to Canada than any other single source of mineral wealth. . . . They were shown to consist of ore that runs as high as 64 per cent iron."

CRASH!

What's the reason for the tragic boom in crashes that is stalking the busy post-war boom in air travel? Is it carelessness, faulty equipment, cockpit failure?

Those are some of the questions NEA Service Correspondent S. Burton Heath asked airline officials, pilots, maintenance men, safety experts. He tells the answers in

Around The Town

Plans for the approaching winter sports season in Richmond are indicated in the bingo party planned for tonight at the Holy Family Church Hall in aid of the Richmond "Phantoms" Hockey Club. Indications are that Richmond will once again have a top-notch team in the circuit this coming winter, and activities in connection with training and practices will get underway as soon as ice is ready in the Coliseum.

Next Monday, Nov. 11th, will be observed throughout the Dominion as Remembrance Day, in honor of those brave men who fought and died that we might live. Each year, those who have survived pause a moment in reverent memory of those who paid the Supreme Sacrifice, and on the preceding days to "The Day of Remembrance" those ever-significant symbols of their sacrifice, Veterans Poppies, are sold and worn by citizens of every community. This year, Poppy Days are being observed on Friday and Saturday and Legion branches in each district will have charge of selling poppies on the streets and in the stores, urging citizens to "Purchase and wear a poppy on Remembrance Day. . . . Brave men died that you might wear it."

Richmond Branch No. 15 of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. will have charge of local sales.

Another important change in the business life of Richmond has taken place this week with the sale of the well-known E. Bruce Bailey store to a partnership consisting of John Barrington and Barry Armistage.

Formally taking over the business this week-end, Mr. Barrington formerly operated the Melbourne Ridge Creamery, while Mr. Armistage, recently of Sherbrooke, has been connected with the Sherbrooke Pure Milk Co. Ltd.

Plans are to continue the same line of business, dealing in general hardware, sporting goods, electrical and farm supplies. Mr. Bailey's future plans are indefinite.

Emphasis On Education Week Aply Stressed In Local Window Displays

Current interest in the National Education Week, November 2-9, is vividly demonstrated by the staff and students of the St. Francis College High School. In several well-arranged, thought-provoking and extremely interesting window displays in Richmond stores this week, telling in graphic manner the trends and progress of modern educational methods, with particular stress on the work accomplished in the Richmond school.

Annually observed with the thought and object of acquainting the parents especially, and all the friends of the school, with the work of the students and the benefits of modern education, National Education Week is more than a mere figment of imagination, it is a clear and forward step in presenting the wide scope of learning and possibilities presented for the youth of today through the medium of our excellent and widely-commended school system.

The work of St. Francis College High School, recognized as one of the most modern and progressive schools of its kind in the province, if not in the Dominion, is amply demonstrated in five Education Week displays in leading store windows along Richmond's Main Street.

Southern Canada Power Co. Ltd., is featuring a most descriptive display of the benefit of Vocational Guidance, stressing through the medium of charts and various pamphlets and publications the need to assist, and the opportunities presented, students to choose, prepare for, enter and progress in an occupation or career. Four groups of such fields for life work are shown, including Trade, Industry, Farm and College.

RICHMOND FAIR BOARD TO MEET AT COURT HOUSE

Notices have been sent out for the annual meeting of the Richmond County Agricultural Society which will be held at the Court House in Richmond on Friday, November 15, not at the Coliseum as previously stated, due to the necessity and consequent cost of having to heat the latter building.

A special assembly of the Board of Directors will take place at 10 a.m., when reports of the 1946 Fair will be presented by the Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Antoinette Linahan, and plans made for the coming year. Mayor A. E. Dyson, President of the Society, will preside.

At 1:30 p.m. a meeting of all members of the Society will also be held at the Court House for the purpose of electing directors to form the Board of the Society for 1947 and to appoint an auditor.

Sport equipment used at the school.

S. Billings' window display shows the work and activities of the schools' promising Junior Red Cross group, with samples of the work done by the pupils and charts and photos of the various phases of Red Cross activities done at the St. Francis College High School.

WINGS OF TOMORROW: The Story of Aviation

BY CHARLES TRACY. Aviation editor, Cleveland Press; former Army pilot (Written for NEA Service). (1) Modern aerial warfare brought from the skies such terror as the German V-2 rockets and ram-jet-propelled "buzz bombs" launched on England in a final desperate attempt to defeat her. The Allies' best countermeasures were radio-controlled bombs dropped from high-flying planes and guided by radar and television. Meanwhile, American scientists worked in great secrecy on the most powerful weapon devised since man learned to fight wars with explosives—the atomic bomb. Unleashed on two Japanese cities, it brought the Pacific war to a quick end. These fantastic developments indicate how awesome future weapons may be.

RICHMOND MAN NEW REGIONAL ADMINISTRATOR

High Honor was accorded a Richmond man at the recent meeting of the Upper St. Francis Chamber of Commerce when Gaston Desmarais, well-known local lawyer, was named Regional Administrator for St. Francis District. During the same re-union of the regional council, Dr. Albini Menard, president of the Garthby Chamber of Commerce, was named president of the Upper St. Francis group, replacing J. A. Archambault, president of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce.

RUBY GROUP ENTERTAINED AT RICHMOND

Richmond, Nov. 6.—Mrs. M. Lodge entertained the members of the Ruby Group of the Richmond and Melburne United Church at her home on College Street. The special guests present were Mrs. W. J. Ewing and Mrs. W. D. Ross, who acted as judges for the apron competition, which took place at the close of the meeting. The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. M. Lodge.

THE RED CROSS

The quota of sewing and knitting material for the Richmond Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society is on hand and there is an urgent need for knitters and sewers.

The rooms at the Library will be open from two o'clock to five o'clock every Thursday. Articles may be taken home or the sewing and knitting may be done in the rooms.

The conveners of the different groups are urged to get in touch with Mrs. L. R. Boast or Miss B. Harkom to receive their supplies.

In a recent list of conveners which was published, the name of Mrs. Arthur Smith, convener of Rebekah Lodge Group, was inadvertently omitted.

General Notes. Mrs. James Hardy was a guest in St. Hyacinthe and attended the Hardy-Boucher wedding.

Mrs. H. West was a guest of Mrs. Bertha Boast, in Montreal.

Miss W. Ross, a member of the St. Francis College High School, was a guest at her home in Montreal.

Mrs. Wilson Bieber and daughter, Carol, were guests of Mr. Wilson Bieber, of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Taylor have returned from the United States, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baldwin, in Orleans, Vt., Mr. and Mrs. George Irwin, in Claremont, N.H., and Mrs. F. Pillsbury, in Newbury, Vt., and relatives in Newport, N.H.

Miss Betty Hall, of Montreal, was a week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall.

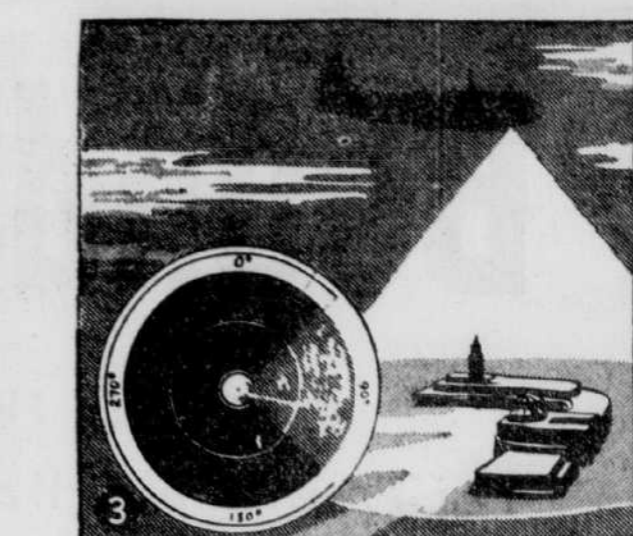

Mrs. Chester Fay, of St. Lambert, was the guest of Mrs. W. D. Ross, while in town for the stated meeting of Connaught Chapter, O.E.S. She was accompanied home by Miss Edith Johnston, of Charn, who had been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stewart, Main Street.

Mr. and Mrs. George Galbraith, of Drummondville; Mrs. Ella Robinson, of Ulverton; Mrs. Grace Gordon, of Montreal; and Miss Edith Johnston, of Charn; attended the meeting of Connaught Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Sinclair, of Lac Saguy, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hills and Mr. and Mrs. J. Sinclair.

Mrs. Bellevue, of Asbestos, was a guest of her sister, Mrs. S. Demers.

Mrs. J. D. Coles, president of the King's Daughters of St. Ann's Church, convened a very successful Halloween tea, which was held in the Parish Hall, when over seventy dollars was realized. The attractive tea tables were in charge of Mrs. George Walker, Miss Eleanor Bieber, Mrs. Marveau Alexander, Mrs. H. Wyatt, Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mrs. A. Murchie, Mrs. W. Coles, Mrs. Eileen Flinders, Mrs. E. Newell, Miss Edna Farrer and Mrs. M. T. McKee presided over the table which was reserved for war brides, who were the tea guests of the King's Daughters. Mrs. M. Morrill poured tea at the artistically decorated lace able to carry one atomic bomb, packing the punch of an entire squadron of the past war's Superfortresses.

(3) Radar and television are now being used to flight-test jet fighters. Controlled from the ground or from a "mother" plane, the craft can be maneuvered beyond the limits of safety applicable when a human pilot is carried. Latest navigation aids include a radar device which pictures the surrounding country on a screen when the ground is obscured by clouds from the pilot. A wartime development, it aided bomber crews in finding their targets. Air liners will soon make use of similar devices.

(4) Rocket-propelled planes, already glide-tested by the Army and now being prepared for the first man-carrying flights, will succeed the jets in military aviation. Later, scientists may find ways of applying atomic power to aircraft, improving upon the astounding performance of the rocket planes. To do this, the problem, at present insurmountable, of protecting the occupants of the atom-powered plane from radiation must be solved. Perhaps by that time, if fighting air forces are still being built, it will no longer be necessary that men pilot the planes. Radio-guided missiles will do the fighting.

RICHMOND

Miss Beverly Whitehead presided at the monthly meeting of the Mission Band, which was held in the United Memorial Hall, Mrs. T. Mitchell conducted the devotional period. The theme was "Thanksgiving." An interesting discussion took place. Miss Marion Pepler closed the worship service with a prayer. The minutes were read by the secretary, Miss Helen Armstrong. Twenty-seven members responded to the roll call. Mrs. Mitchell announced that the prayer-partner for the year would be Miss M. McHarris.

The study book on "India" was introduced and discussed. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served, after which several games were played.

(4) Rocket-propelled planes, already glide-tested by the Army and now being prepared for the first man-carrying flights, will succeed the jets in military aviation. Later, scientists may find ways of applying atomic power to aircraft, improving upon the astounding performance of the rocket planes. To do this, the problem, at present insurmountable, of protecting the occupants of the atom-powered plane from radiation must be solved. Perhaps by that time, if fighting air forces are still being built, it will no longer be necessary that men pilot the planes. Radio-guided missiles will do the fighting.

Miss Beverly Whitehead presided at the monthly meeting of the Mission Band, which was held in the United Memorial Hall, Mrs. T. Mitchell conducted the devotional period. The theme was "Thanksgiving." An interesting discussion took place. Miss Marion Pepler closed the worship service with a prayer. The minutes were read by the secretary, Miss Helen Armstrong. Dedication Of Alumni Memorial Gate At The College On Sunday

No more fitting choice of time or tribute could be made than that of Remembrance Day to dedicate a war memorial, and friends of Stanstead College, and alumni especially, have been notified of the special dedication ceremonies for the Annual Memorial Gate to be held on the College Grounds this coming Sunday at 4 p.m.

Erected by the Alumni Association of Stanstead College, following a decision reached at the annual meeting last June, the Alumni Memorial Gate is being dedicated as a memorial to the 67 former Stanstead College students and teachers who died in the defence of their country and in the cause for justice and freedom, thirty-two of whom gave their lives in the war of 1914-1918 and thirty-five in the Second World War.

The Gate, which will be dedicated on Sunday afternoon at a special ceremony arranged for Remembrance Day week-end, consists of two markers featuring pillars 8 feet high with outreaching lower walls. The markers are of cut granite from the quarries of the Stanstead Granite Co. Ltd., at Beebe, and each of the two pillars will support a bronze lantern, which will be illuminated at night. The only inscriptions on the gate will be "1914-1918" on one marker and "1939-1945" on the other. Designed by Ernest Barott, of Barott, Marshall, Montgomery and Merrett, architects, of Montreal, the Alumni Memorial Gate is simple in design, created to give the appearance of chasteness and dignity and lives up to the full hopes of the alumni in every respect, creating one of the most appropriate memorials in the district.

Erected at an approximate cost of $4,000, the Gate will serve a double purpose, not only perpetuating the memory of those gallant men of the College who paid the Supreme Sacrifice, but serving as a beautiful addition to the campus in an utilitarian sense, guiding those strangers to the community who have in the past experienced great difficulty in locating the entrance to the College grounds.

Officiating at the Dedication Ceremony on Sunday afternoon will be Dr. C. W. Colby, Rev. Dr. George G. D. Kilpatrick, D.S.O. and Frank B. Wilson, president of the Alumni Association.

Next of kin of those whose names are perpetuated by the erection of the Gate have been invited to take their places on the College driveway as near to the Gate as possible.

Those who died that we might live, and for whom we are asked to wear a poppy on Remembrance Day, in whose honor the Alumni Memorial Gate has been erected are as follows:

Stanley Aldrich, Philippe Bieler, Arthur Bishop, Carl Brown, Edgar Christie, Albert D. Carter, D.S.O., Stanley Cooper, Wesley Dorman, Edward C. Dyer, Royce Dyer, D.C.

BOOK CHAT

AND REVIEWS OF
NEW BOOKS

by Patricia J. Carroll
Librarian at Haskell Free Library.

Books, like everything else these days, are hard to get, but the shelves at the Haskell Free Library are gradually being filled with many of the new fall releases. Among the new books just received is one about the taming of the energy of the atom written by Robert D. Potter. Most worthwhile books on this subject are completely beyond the grasp of the layman, but due perhaps to the fact that Mr. Potter is both a physicist and a journalist, this book is written with a simplicity which you or I understand and yet it remains authoritative.

In the first part of the book, which is written in two sections, each complete in itself, the story of how the atomic bomb was created and those who were its creators is told in a most comprehensive manner. The second is an outline of nuclear physics from the time when Becquerel first discovered radioactivity, and it presupposes no previous knowledge of the subject on the part of the reader. The first part gives a broad, quick, overall picture of the subject, for those who merely want to keep abreast of the times, while the second part is for those who wish to pursue the subject more thoroughly and systematically. Mr. Potter's "Atomic Revolution" is both exciting and informative, and the New York Times claims that no better book on atomic energy has been written.

Latest additions to our shelves also included: "Missus Masham's Repose" by T. H. White, which depicts the hard facts of every day life and indulges in enchanting fantasy. It is the story of Maria, who is ten years old and an orphan. She lives with an unkind governess, and a kindly old cook in a house described as "Four times longer than Buckingham Palace." One day Maria escapes from her governess and goes exploring on a lake in the grounds of Malplaguet, which is the name of her home. Here she discovers a colony of Lilliputs, whose forbears escaped from the

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH PROUD OF NEW VESTRY

Men of Community Unite in Volunteer Effort to Accomplish Much - Needed Improvements - Work Is Greatly Appreciated.

Twenty-odd men well-spiced with enthusiasm, plus shovels, scrapers, paint brushes and materials aided by a pleasant fall Saturday and several long evenings, add up to a newly-repaired and redecorated vestry for the Derby Line Universalist Church. The people of the parish are congratulating themselves on the loyalty and ability of the men of the Couple's Club, who recently undertook a project that had long needed doing in the church.

Seepage from the window-wells through the cement walls had for many years blocked every attempt to make the vestry attractive, no matter how often the interior was re-painted. Estimates of methods and cost of remedying the situation had run as high as two hundred and fifty dollars, which the church could hardly afford.

Finally a group of men led by Walter Campbell and Bert Bacon volunteered their labor. The old cement window-wells were broken out, a ditch dug outside the stone walls, gravel and cobblestones put in and cement laid to form a sloping drain for surface water. This outside work was completed in one day, Saturday, October 5th, with twenty men and boys working all or part of the day. It was of special interest that several men of the community, not belonging to the Universalist Church, gave so freely of their time and help. Coffee and doughnuts were served both morning and afternoon by a group of church ladies.

The interior work was done in several evenings during the following week. The old paint was scraped off the walls, and fresh cement

RAMBLING 'ROUND THE BORDER

Rock Island is seemingly imbued with the spirit of progress. Not only had the Council taken due pride in having all the principal streets of the town given an asphalt coating to provide a clean, attractive and up-to-date appearance to the Boundary but Maurice Fregau, Secretary-Treasurer states that the Town has also received a new utility truck for the Roads Department and a new Sawyer-Massey hydraulic hoist snow plow, to keep the streets clean during the winter months. Considerable new building is being done, many alterations are in process and new stores are opening up emphasizing the fact that Rock Island is truly growing, developing into a bustling border community.

Among new buildings recently completed, under construction, or acquired are the Roberge Building, recently purchased from Leo Me-

CALL ME LIZ by Rene Ryerson Mart

CHAPTER I. Red McFan hopped off the bus and snapped his hand to the rim of his glaucous pilot's cap in a smart salute to the grinning driver before he started up the street.

A few yards ahead he could see the modernistic office building of the Condon Varnish plant standing out like a sore thumb in the grimy industrial district.

He chuckled, remembering the first time he had seen the place and how awed he had been then by that front expanse of gleaming chromium and heavy plate glass. A gawky red-headed kid fresh out of high school and looking for his first job, he'd been. Shaking in his shoes as he had sidled up to the gatehouse and asked to see "the boss."

He headed for the gatehouse now, again. But this time his walk held a bit of swagger and his chest swelled out, tightening his closely fitted officer's tunic and bulging into prominence the double row of combat ribbons above the pilot's wings on his left breast.

He was in the gatehouse door before Heinie, the day guard, saw and recognized him and then Heinie's rook-marked face lit up like a sunrise. He grabbed one of Red's hands and thumped him on the back with a wallop that left Red breathless and roared: "Red McFan, you good-for-nothing bum!"

He held Red off a minute and looked at him, the smile fading in his round Dutch face. "It's good to see you, Red. It's been a long time, boy . . . a long time."

But solemnity was as foreign to Heinie Miller as a salmon is to middle western rivers. The look was gone in a minute and he was pounding Red hard on the muscle of his right arm with a huge fist and declaring profanely that the Army had made a man of him. "Yes, sir—a man. Feel that arm."

Heinie roared with laughter. "And the first time you came in here you were just a spindly kid."

Red laughed. "Oh, not so little, Heinie. I was six feet. You just had me scared—that was all."

He let out his breath. Boy, they had had him scared, no fooling. What a dog's life they had led him for the first two weeks he'd worked here.

He let out his breath. Boy, they had had him scared, no fooling. What a dog's life they had led him for the first two weeks he'd worked here. The sedate head chemist in the laboratory, where Red had gone to work as a helper, had found the new red-headed kid fair bait. Sending him out to the gatehouse to get a rushed express package of H-2-O from Heinie, and Heinie filling a milk bottle with water and handing it to him saying he'd better not spill a drop of it for it was expensive stuff.

How red had face had been, Red as his carotid hair.

Not that Red minded now. All the horse play had been in fun. They were all good guys. They'd been sorry to see him go and they'd be glad to see him back. Almost as glad as he was to get back. "Going in to see the Old Man?" Heinie asked, jerking his head toward the office building. "From what I hear you're the fair-haired boy with him now."

"Later," Red said. "I'll see him and Russ."

It was another of the sharp changes war had brought into his life that he spoke now familiarly.

ly of Arthur Condon's son. In the old days he had only known Russ as a college kid who occasionally drove up to the front office in a flashy convertible. Now the thought of him focused a nagging worry in the back of Red's mind.

There was something he wanted to know, but he was afraid of the answer. He evaded it for the moment.

"Think I'll drop into the laboratory first," he said finally. "The old gang still there?"

"Oh, sure, Mendel and old Coons and two or three other die-hards. All right, kid, get along. I'll see you later." And then as Red started out the door, "Be careful and don't bust the buttons off that fancy coat of yours."

Red grinned and thumbed his nose at his old tormentor. He could take a ribbing as well as the next one.

He walked across the dusty yard to the skylighted low building that connected the front office with the main factory building. Unceremoniously he pushed open a door marked "Laboratory" and walked into a big room. For a moment his eyes roved along the rows of tables cluttered with chemical apparatus, and he sniffed nostalgically the pungent biting odors that filled the air. Here and there busy fingers in white lab coats bent over the tables. The first one Red recognized was Mendel, the head chemist.

Red walked over to him and slapped him on his shoulder. Mendel looked up and yelled Red's name and the next moment a whole group of workers bore down on him. They pumpe his hand and slapped his shoulders. Red laughed and called each one by name.

But it was old Coons, long ago dubbed The Professor because he was so absent-minded, who remembered Red's wound and asked about it.

"Didn't amount to that," Red said and snapped his fingers.

"We heard you got the DFC for it," Mendel said.

"Yeah," Red grinned. He felt their looks travel over the ribbons on his chest.

"Tell us about it," someone said. That was Barney, assistant to the head chemist. Barney would have been in the war himself if it hadn't been for his bad eyes. He squinted at Red now through thick glasses.

Red needed no second urging. "Oh, I caught a piece of flak here—" He lifted one leg and indicated a place just above and back of the knee. "It came up through the seat of my plane and got me there."

"Sort of a hot seat, wasn't it, Red?" someone quipped.

"Yeah, you might have called it that." Red went on. "It hurt like the devil, but it made me mad, too. So I fixed up a tourniquet and kept going. Dropped my bombs right on one of Jerry's ammunition dumps and then went down and strafed a gun crew. Laid three of them out before I finished. Then I turned around and went back. They kept me in the hospital four weeks."

"OH-H-H—" The voice this time was feminine.

Red turned and looked at the speaker, a tall dark-haired girl in a bulky lab coat that tried but didn't quite succeed in disguising her femininity. There had been no women in the laboratory when Red went away to war. This was something new and he liked it.

"What did you say, sister?" She was staring at him. "You said—you killed three gunners. How do you feel when you know you've killed a man?"

"How do you feel?" Red granted. "Mostly you don't feel anything. Not after the first one, anyway."

He laughed brutally. "Well, that's war," Mendel said with the easy philosophy of a man who's never been there.

"Yeah," Red echoed and then his mouth fell open. He had just recognized the thin-faced young man who had come up to the edge of the crowd around him. Jim Gary, the kid who had come to work here the same day he had, the kid he'd fought with half in fun and half in earnest, the kid who had always been his rival in wheeling, favors or pay raises from Mendel.

Red's eyes lit with gleam. He yelled boisterously, "Well, say, you old cow! Guess you owe me that dollar you bet, Jim. Remember, you said I'd never make pilot rating." He thumped the wings on his chest proudly.

And then he noticed Jim's plain civilian suit. There was no bronze discharge button in the left buttonhole where it should have been.

Caught by his surprise Red blurted, "Hells bells, you never got in at all . . . You've been back here all this time holding down a nice soft job?"

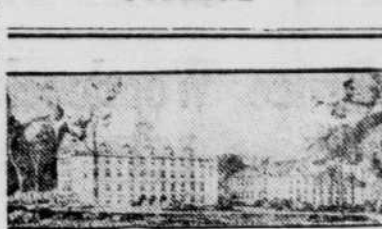

Jim Gary had started to put out his hand toward Red, but now he paused uncertainly and a red flush crept over his white face. But it wasn't Jim's face that stopped Red's tongue. It was the sudden silence that had fallen on the group.

He saw old Coons who a moment before had been beaming give him now a disapproving look, and Barney was shaking his head as if to signal him, and Mendel cleared his throat loudly. Somehow Red knew he had put his foot in it.

"What gives anyway?" he demanded truculently.

BUGBEE BUSINESS COLLEGE

At an enjoyable meeting of the Literary Society the reading of the minutes and the business part of the meeting took up only a few minutes of the half-hour period.

The program began with Mr. McFadyen reading a few pointed paragraphs on "Personality," an essential quality in the business world. This was immediately followed by all joining in singing "The Maple Leaf Forever" and "Home on the Range," led by Peter Thomson at the piano. Gaetano Gauthier, one of last year's graduates, sang "Les Fillees de Cadix."

"Mother, Please Explain" and "Come and Obey the Voice That Is Calling." The society is very grateful to Miss Gauthier for helping out in the musical program.

On Tuesday, in recognition of Education Week, the entire school, including the Commercial College, held open house, so that parents and friends could fully appreciate what the pupils are doing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McFadyen spent the week-end with friends in Montreal.

Peter Thomson hiked home to Abbotsford recently, and with friends journeyed to Quebec City, returning in a couple of days.

Robert Walters has joined the commercial class at B.B.C.

Spencer Supports of Canada Ltd., which embodies the most modern features of architecture and in which the superstructure is practically completed, with the steel work up; the new funeral home being erected by L. O. Cass and Son at the top of the so-called Plain Hill; while considerable alterations have been done to the busy little Pep's Newstead, at the old Mellon building, which now houses a busy restaurant, the Doug Furney furniture store and Don Sevigny's shoe store; as well as to numerous other buildings in the community. Considerable work is being done by the Eastern Townships Telephone Co. in Rock Island, and the Rock Island Post Office has received a most noticeable face-lifting, with the metal roof and trimmings given a fresh covering of copper paint, the woodwork, doors and window casings all redecorated, and now work on redecorating the interior is in process. Many appreciated changes have also been completed at the popular Del Monty Hotel, including the installation of a most-attractive cocktail room. O. Poisson's store and apartment, which recently suffered heavy fire and water damage, is rapidly being redecorated and it is expected to open the store very shortly.

Members of the Parent-Teachers Club are discussing the possibility of having a kindergarten organized at the Boundary, and have requested better supervision of street traffic in the border communities, with a request that a speed law be established in Derby Line. Two special speakers have been engaged for coming meetings, Melvin Carter, principal of Derby Academy, at this month's meeting and Mrs. Patricia J. Carroll, new librarian at the Haskell Free Library, for the December meeting.

Dr. Harry McKeown, eminent educationalist and faculty member of the University of Pittsburgh, Pa., who is the author of several books on education, particularly on Student Councils, was the guest speaker at the Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, at the Del Monty Hotel. In recognition of Education Week, he delivered a most forceful and thought-provoking address on "From the Three R's to the Three O's," stressing the trend of modern education.

Tonight's speaker at the International Community School will be from Macdonald College, and will address the Public Assembly session on Deep Freezing and Preservation of Foods. The Women's Institute will have charge of the meeting.

R. Paradis, former banker, from Waterloo, is a newcomer to the Boundary, and has purchased the plant and business of the Rock Island Laundry and Dry Cleaners Regd. He will carry on the same business, serving the entire surrounding district and plans several improvements.

Gerald Laughrea, former owner, will carry on his present business in Derby Line, where he operates under the name of Northern Vermont Dry Cleaners. Friends of Mr. Laughrea will be sorry to learn that he is a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Sherbrooke, where he is undergoing a much needed rest.

NOTED SPEAKER HAD BUSY TIME DURING VISIT

Rev. Eric Alton Ayer of Medfield, Mass., who spent several days in the Boundary Communities, was a guest at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Suetson.

During his stay here he spoke at the Universalist Church at Derby Line last Monday evening at the Rotary Club of the Boundary, where he showed pictures of Quebec, and on Tuesday evening of last week he addressed the Kiwanis Club in Newport. On Wednesday afternoon he was at Derby Academy, and last Wednesday evening Rev. M. Ayer was the speaker at the International Community School. His talk at the school was entitled "You Are Democracy," and was unusually interesting.

He returned to his home in Medfield, Mass., on Thursday and was accompanied by Earl Heath who was his guest for a few days in Medfield before continuing on to New York City for a brief visit to various research and outstanding educational institutes, Mr. Heath, who is president of the International Community School, is a well-known book collector, specializing in "Vermontiana" and his visit to New York was combined with book love and adult educational work.

notorious Capt. Biddel who rescued Gulliver, and formed an independent colony on the island called "Mistress Mauhnam's Repose."

The story about these little people is most delightful, and extensively written. They learned English during the time of their captivity and discourse in elegant Swiftian periods, and lest you tire of the Lilliputians, the author turns back from time to time to the moichesten grandeur of Malplaquet. Through all this, two plots are going forward, Maria's conquest of the hearts of the little people, and the machinations of the governor and the vice to deprive Maria of her vast inheritance. It is a book like no other, and while it is not quite up to the author's previous work "The Sword and the Stone" it is one which I am sure the majority of readers will not want to miss.

At last we have something for those among you who cry "Havin' you any new detective stories?" Kenneth Kearing's "The Big Clock" is a really original mystery. One foggy evening George Stroud watched Pauline Delos walk into her apartment house where she met violent death. Two days later, all unwittingly, her murderer assigned him the task of finding the man who lurked in the shadow—the task of finding himself. To refuse meant the loss of his career, to accept, and he did accept, placed George Stroud in increasing peril, for the murderer had both the plan and the power to place the blame on the man who stood in the shadows. This story in which George Stroud becomes both the hunter and the quarry is set against the tense background of big business in New York. It is both satirical and ironic, and so original in conception as to stand out among all others of its kind.

While no new children's books have come in during the past few days we hope to have several on hand for our special "Book Week" displays which will be in the library from November 10th to 16th.

Books are Bridges

Children's Book Week was started in 1919, just after the last war when both the quantity and the quality of children's books was at a low ebb. At that time the Chief Librarian of the Boy Scouts Association addressed a meeting of the American Booksellers Association. As a result of his address it was decided that something should be done to arouse an interest in children's literature. With the cooperation of the American Library Association, Book Week was inaugurated and it has since become an event celebrated each November throughout Canada and the United States.

During the week of November 10th to 16th there will be displays of the various types of Children's books which the Haskell Free Library has at present, and on Saturday, November 10th, there will be a special display borrowed from the Vermont Free Library Commission. This display consists of a carefully chosen number of the latest children's books, and will be of interest both as an indication of what is intended to be done in the Children's section of the Haskell Library and as a guide to those who are anxious to add carefully selected books to the collections of their own children. The books will be here for the one day only, and it is hoped that as many as possible will come in and see them.

Special displays in connection with Book Week will be given prominence in several store windows in the Boundary Communities and as a special feature, many attractive posters and group book displays will be arranged in the library. Your attendance is invited.

SHERBROOKE WIN SECOND HOME GAME, TRIMMING TIGERS 8-2

Sherbrooke Outshot Tigers Last Night To Win Fast Skating Game

Sherbrooke Hockey Club outscored Victoriaville Tigers 8-2 last night to win their second home game, and also their second P.H.L. tilt.

It was a fast skating game, in which the locals outshot the Tigers, with Dion handling 25 shots to Nadeau's 38. With the aid of Ray Ogston and Lloyd Smith the team played better hockey than when they eked out their first victory over Cornwall on Sunday last. The permission to use these two players arrived just previous to game time from the Q.A.H.A.

Both goalies were kept busy as the play hopped from one end of the rink to the other at a fast clip. They were both called upon to make some outstanding saves from blank range, as players on both sides rifled shots at them from all directions.

In the first period Sherbrooke carried the better part of the play. The play had only started when Adj. Cote broke from his own blue line and made a rink wide pass to set Len McDougal up, but he missed the net. Play see-sawed back and forth with changes being made as play continued. Ossie Carnegie got the jump on the Tigers when they were ganging up on Dion and skating in on the wing, let his shot go but missed the corner. At the 4:25 mark Herbie Carnegie, on a pass from Manny McIntyre, put the locals out in front when he dumped the disc behind Nadeau for the first encounter. Mushi Morehouse then got a penalty for holding. The Tigers tried their best to tie the score, but McDougal, Herbie Carnegie, Ossie Carnegie and Bill Heibel kept the puck away from the Tigers and they could not get a clear shot on Dion. Morehouse returned before any damage was done.

Sherbrooke at the start of the second period really settled down and kept Nadeau on the jump. Herbie Carnegie missed two good scoring opportunities when Manny McIntyre set him up on ice passes. Dion was called on to make some good saves, when the Tigers started to roll around him, but he kept them off the scoring sheet. Tony Demers broke out into the open on a pass from Maurice Bastien but shot wide. Hayden, Tigers, received a penalty for playing with a broken stick. A new rule this year and was chided to the cooler.

Coch Dugre threw on four forwards and it paid off when Morehouse on a double pass from Cote and Demers put the home boys out in front. Hayden had only returned when Marcotte, his team-mate, received a nod for the cooler for skating and left his team short-handed once again. Sherbrooke seemed to apply the pressure and on a passing attack, Ossie Carnegie rifled a beautiful corner shot that had Nadeau beat the whole way. His brother, Herbie, and Manny McIntyre set him up for the tally. Tigers, on a breakaway, scored when Hayden, on a pass from Burnett, beat Dion for the Tigers' first goal. Herbie Carnegie then put the locals further out in the front when he accepted a pass from Wright and Ogston and sank the

SAINTS EKE OUT WIN OVER CORNWALL 5-4

Cornwall, Ont., November 6.—(P)—Cornwall Cougars dropped their third straight Provincial Hockey League game here last night, bowing to St. Hyacinthe Saints, 5-4, before 1,600 fans.

Paced by Bourdon who tallied three times, the visitors took a 2-1 edge in the first period but the home team came back to deadlock the score in the middle frame on a goal by Telkinnen. Cornwall's first period goal came from the stick of Gardner.

Proulx gave the Cougars a short-lived lead by opening third period scoring but the Saints came back with three markers to put the game on ice. Planche rounded out the scoring five seconds before the game ended.

The defeat was Cornwall's second home loss of the season. St. Hyacinthe—Goal, Renaud; defence, Despeiteau, Longpre; centre, Bonin; wings, B. Lauzon, F. Lauzon; subs., Gagnon, Toshack, Gladu, Prefontaine, Hebert, Bourdon, Bouchard.

The Sherbrooke team will now stand by until this week-end, when they clash with St. Hyacinthe here Saturday evening and travel to St. Hyacinthe for a Sunday afternoon tilt.

Baksi May Meet Bruce Woodcock Following Victory Over Mills

London, Nov. 6.—(P)—Big Joe Baksi, latest in the parade of American boxers to cash in on booming British fight gates, appeared likely today to be matched in the near future with Bruce Woodcock, British Empire heavyweight champion.

Baksi dispensed with Britain's No. 2 fighter, light-heavyweight champion Freddie Mills, in a non-title fight before a sell-out crowd of 10,700 in Harringay Arena last night. The American was awarded a technical knockout when Mills failed to answer the bell for the start of the seventh round.

Mills was bleeding badly from both eyes when his seconds pitched in the sponge after six stanzas of the scheduled 10-round bout. Baksi weighed 211-12, Mills 184.

The Kulpment, Pa., clown, who came out of the encounter unscathed, had the lighter Mills in a bad way after three rounds. The game Mills did not retreat but his good left was an inadequate defence.

Promoter Jack Solomons had said before the bout there was a possibility of matching Baksi with Woodcock if the American performed well against Mills.

After the fight, Baksi told sports writers they he had failed to impress them in training, causing odds in his favor to drop before the bout. He said he had five stitches taken in his left hand before leaving New York and he allowed the hand in training to allow it to heal.

In post-mortems today, several British sports writers criticized the matching of Mills against an obviously superior Joe.

The Daily American called the match a "mistake," and the Express in a sharply-worded page one article headlined "The Slaughter of the British," asked "who staged last night's big fight? Thousands at Harringay Arena wanted to know."

Saskatchewan Asks For Revision Banning Pros From Amateur Tennis

Regina, Nov. 6.—(P)—The sight of a professional hockey player dashing about a tennis court gladdens the hearts of the Saskatchewan Tennis Association to a point where it is pressing the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association for a revision of its "mildewed" rules banning professionals from amateur tennis tournaments.

Hopes of a favorable reply from the C.L.T.A. are not high, however, as the Dominion body recently expressed happiness over the visit of Don Mediamid, Canada's No. 1 tennis man, to these parts for an exhibition series last month. The C.L.T.A. didn't hear about the event until it was over.

The Regina Tennis Club has replied to a query about Mediamid's expenses on the trip but the C.L.T.A. is still silent.

The only Canada-United amateur basketball league got under way at Moose Jaw, Sask., last week when the Regina Army and Navy Vets defeated Moose Jaw Jesters 29-18. The picture becomes International next week-end when the Peersles, (Montana) Pirates arrive to jostle with the Jesters.

The five-team International City League which also includes Plentywood and Scooby, Montana was formed this year. The Saskatchewan teams have made exhibition forays into Montana in previous years.

The League executive are mulling the possibility of swinging into the big-time with an international play-off with teams of the professional international groups of the West Coast and the 11-team basketball association of America in the East.

CUP RETAINED BY RICHMOND AT TRACK MEET

Richmond retained the cup that is emblematic of the championship of the annual St. Francis Valley Fall Intercollegiate Track Meet at the events held at Richmond Fair Grounds on Saturday, October 26. The Richmond team earned 151 points.

However, this is only in the matter of team points. Individually, the most outstanding performer was Lindell of Asbestos, a junior competitor, who won 23 points. In fact, of the eleven leading male and female entrants, five, four of them boys, represented Asbestos. Asbestos performers led the point-winners in the boys' junior, intermediate and senior groups.

The teams that competed in the meet were Richmond, Asbestos and Windsor Mills. Drummondville would have entered a team if the events had not been postponed a week and if there had not been uncertainty about the weather. As it was, fine weather prevailed, though the home stretch of the race track looked soupy. Seventy individual competitors took part in the events.

Richmond girls turned in a particularly fine record, winning all seven of their girls' events and achieving a total of 53 points on the basis of the 5-3-2-1 scoring system.

The following are the detailed results and point standings:

Notre Dame And Army Renew Old Rivalry, First Time Since 1943

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor
New York, Nov. 6.—(NEA)—With a normal Notre Dame team coming into Yankee Stadium on Saturday for the first time since 1943, a lot of people are wondering about the cloak of invincibility which they so carefully wrapped around Army.

The last time the Irish hit Broadway fully equipped, the Cadets didn't do so well. As a matter of fact, West Point looked rather pale on the short end of a 26-0 count.

"And that team had Glenn Davis in the backfield and was rather highly regarded, too," they stress.

All of which is true, but the modern T with man-in-motion was entirely new to the young men of the Hudson Highlands three years ago, and they possessed no blasting fullback like Doc Blanchard to make it go.

Army did not get tough, launch its 25-game winning streak until 1944, when Mr. Inside Blanchard came along to assist Mr. Outside Davis.

Junior Davis is the only member of this fall's Army varsity who remembers the Notre Dame holcaust. Several of the current Notre Dames appeared against Army in 1943, notably Johnny Lujack, Jim Mello and the place-kicking Fred Early.

To compare stars, Lujack, who stepped in for the incomparable Angelo Bartelli, put it all over Davis that autumn, completed eight of 15 passes for 179 yards, passed to two touchdowns, scored on a quarterback sneak, kicked an extra point.

The job was too much for young Davis. Lujack had more stuff around him. Davis was held to 33 yards from scrimmage. His three fumbles kept the Future Generals back on their heels, two setting up scores, another checking an early drive on the South Bend 13. Tackle Jim White stole the ball out of his arms on the Army 7, and two plays later Lujack pitched 11 yards to John Yonaker, for the second touchdown. He had a pass intercepted that led to another touchdown.

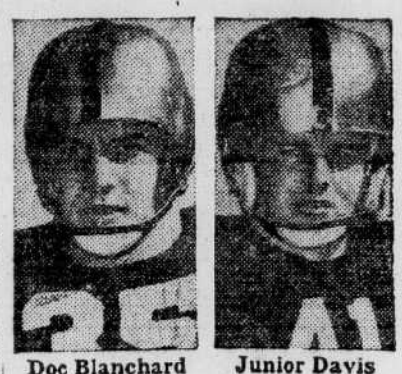

Lujack and Davis were 18 at the time. Davis has played a lot of football since, come a long way, has not forgotten his humiliation. Lujack has been out of football the past two falls.

Notre Dame made 21 first downs to Army's nine three years ago, gained 287 yards rushing to 114, completed eight passes against four, picked up 175 yards on forwards against 30, ran back Army's single punt 63 yards. On three punts West Point did not run the ball back a yard. Army fumbled eight times to once for Notre Dame.

But that Army team also was tied by Pennsylvania, 13-13, and beaten by Navy, 13-0.

Things like that are just not happening to this Army team.

Notre Dame may prove too deep in reserves for the Cadets, but this is an entirely new deal.

Saskatchewan Asks For Revision Banning Pros From Amateur Tennis

Regina, Nov. 6.—(P)—The sight of a professional hockey player dashing about a tennis court gladdens the hearts of the Saskatchewan Tennis Association to a point where it is pressing the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association for a revision of its "mildewed" rules banning professionals from amateur tennis tournaments.

Hopes of a favorable reply from the C.L.T.A. are not high, however, as the Dominion body recently expressed happiness over the visit of Don Mediamid, Canada's No. 1 tennis man, to these parts for an exhibition series last month. The C.L.T.A. didn't hear about the event until it was over.

The Regina Tennis Club has replied to a query about Mediamid's expenses on the trip but the C.L.T.A. is still silent.

The only Canada-United amateur basketball league got under way at Moose Jaw, Sask., last week when the Regina Army and Navy Vets defeated Moose Jaw Jesters 29-18. The picture becomes International next week-end when the Peersles, (Montana) Pirates arrive to jostle with the Jesters.

The five-team International City League which also includes Plentywood and Scooby, Montana was formed this year. The Saskatchewan teams have made exhibition forays into Montana in previous years.

The League executive are mulling the possibility of swinging into the big-time with an international play-off with teams of the professional international groups of the West Coast and the 11-team basketball association of America in the East.

STRIKES TO SPARE

Hook Has High Strike Percentage; Curve Effective On Polished Alley

By JOE WILMAN
World Champion Bowler

A hook is rolled with a counter-clockwise twist of hand and wrist to impart spin. The thumb comes out first, fingers apply spin. The ball is placed on the alley from eight to 12 boards in from the right-hand gutter. It travels in a straight line toward the No. 3 pin. Just before it reaches the pin, it hooks sharply into the one-three pocket, heading for No. 5.

The hook is used by practically all outstanding bowlers because of its high strike percentage.

A curve is used by players who roll a slow ball and is very effective on highly-polished alleys.

The straight ball is easiest to master, therefore is recommended for beginners until they perfect their approach and delivery unless they roll a natural hook.

A backup ball is used only by a few. Its strike percentage is low, so I do not recommend its use.

Rolling the curve, english is applied as the ball leaves the hand, and it begins its long swerve by the time it reaches the center of the alley, or slightly before.

It is usually rolled from near the center of the alley and aimed toward the right side to allow for the curve in toward the one-three pocket.

Joe Wilman's release for hook.

Bucky Harris "Boy Wonder" Named To Revive Sagging N.Y. Yankees

New York, Nov. 6.—(P)—The task of reviving the sagging baseball fortunes of the once-mighty New York Yankees has been handed to Stanley (Bucky) Harris, reported $35,000-a-year ex-boy wonder who returned to the playing field from the executive ranks.

A minor shake-up imminent after Harris' admission yesterday, when his new job was formally announced by President Larry MacPhail, that he is interested in a first baseman, a catcher, some pitchers and another outfielder.

Nick Etten definitely is on the block.

Tommy Henrich can be used either at first or right field.

Harris realizes that catcher Aaron Robinson needs relief help if he is to continue his long-distance slugging. With Red Duffing and Egie Bonham both departed, the pitching staff needs at least two starters in addition to Allie Reynolds, a chestnut leading owner.

A New York skipper has been a big league pilot for 20 years, starting at the top of the ladder by winning Washington's first pennant and World Series in 1924 in his first year as a manager. He was only 27 at the time and the "boy wonder" tag was hung on him. He will be 50 Friday.

NOVA SCOTIA HOLDS BOXING CHAMPIONSHIPS

Halifax, Nov. 6.—(P)—It was a free-swinging slug-fest at the Halifax Arena last night as Nova Scotia amateur boxers ploughed through 27 elimination contests of the Provincial boxing championships. Semi-finals and finals will be held tonight.

Johnny Stewart of Amherst and Harold Hannegan of New Waterford scored two of the evening's six knockouts. Stewart, fighting in the 147-pound class, took a three-round decision from Joe Henworth of St. Mary's College of Halifax and then kayoed John Vaughan of St. Joseph's school of Halifax after 27 seconds of the second round.

Hannegan, a 135-pounder, knocked out Navy's Bellevue at the 1:50 point in the third round.

MONTREAL HORSE PLACES THIRD

New York, Nov. 6.—(P)—Golden Count, a chestnut gelding owned by Dr. Mrs. Paul Latour of Montreal, placed third yesterday at the National Horse Show in the judging of three-gaited saddle horses (not over 15.2).

SHAMROCKS AFFILIATE WITH PHILADELPHIA

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—(P)—The dwindling fortunes of San Francisco Shamrocks, losers of four out of their five hockey games this season, brightened perceptibly yesterday with announcement of their affiliation with the Philadelphia club of the American Hockey League.

George J. Campbell, president of the Pacific Coast League, said he had authorized the tie-up to bolster the San Francisco entry with eastern players.

The friction match, which is more than 100 years old, was invented in England.

WALTER JOHNSON REMAINS IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Washington, Nov. 6.—(P)—Walter Johnson, former strikeout king of the American League, remained in critical condition today at hospital after realizing a wish—to reach his 50th birthday, yesterday.

The game old pitcher whispered his wish a few days ago to Clark Griffith, who was his boss during 21 seasons with Washington Senators.

Johnson has been in the hospital since April 15 with a paralyzing brain tumor.

STUDENTS MUST TRAIN IN UNITED PROVINCES

New Delhi, Nov. 6.—Compulsory military training for university students in the United Provinces has been ordered by Premier Pandit Govind Ballabh Pant. He stressed, however, that the government was not trying to prepare young men for world domination or aggression. The object was rather to revive discipline among the youth of the country.

One year's intensive social work will also be compulsory and no student will be allowed to enter university or any government service until he has completed this term. This training will be practical, enabling students to live in villages, and with laborers to study their conditions and try to improve them.
