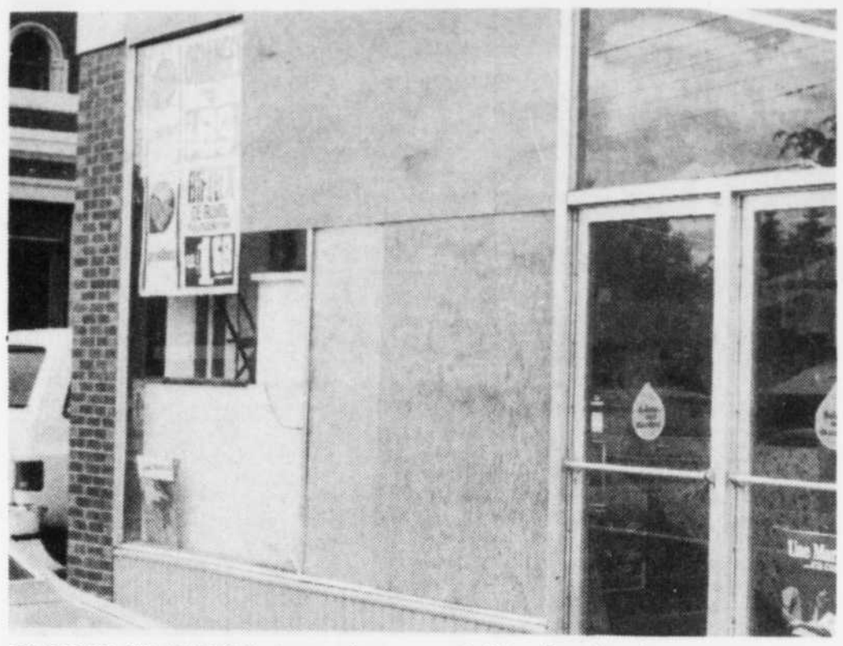
Murder warrants issued for Cowansville escapees



BOARDED UP WINDOW shows where police were kept busy early Saturday morning while thieves broke into the Canadian Industries Ltd. warehouse on Massawippi St. in Lennoxville. Police checked for possible missing merchandise at G.L. Beaulieu Inc. grocery store, unaware that the broken window was acting as a diversion. Two suspects were later picked up and charged for the CIL break-in.

MONTREAL (JM) — The QPF have issued arrest warrants for Benoit Roy and Dennis Pearson in connection with the murder of Jean Maurice Tringle. Mr. Tringle, 47, a Farnham taxi driver, was found bludgeoned to death in a house on the St. Joseph's Concession Rd., Dunham at approximately 1 p.m. Sunday.

Roy and Pearson, both of Montreal, escaped from the Cowansville Penitentiary during the evening of June 5. Neither was considered dangerous by penitentiary authorities.

Mr. Tringle had been called to the house at approximately 9:30 p.m. Friday. The dispatcher from the Farnham taxi company told the municipal police of Mr. Tringle's disappearance. They in turn notified the QPF.

Constable Robert Berube, Cowansville detachment, QPF, discovered the body. The investigation is headed by Constable Jean Lapierre of the QPF homicide squad, Montreal.

Richmond widow, son share bonanza

By ROSA HARRIS
(Record Reporter)

RICHMOND — An 80-year-old widow and her 53-year-old bachelor son are nearly half a million dollars richer after the Olympic lottery ticket they shared with six other people claimed the grand prize Sunday.

The two, Helinda Bouchard and her son, Marcel, whose share of the windfall amounts to $400,000, live in a $40 a month flat on Main St. in this industrial community of 4,000.

"Maybe we'll move," Mrs. Bouchard commented, removing the kettle from the hotplate that serves as a stove in her three and a half room apartment. "The doctor says all these stairs I have to climb are bad for my back. Maybe we'll buy a little house somewhere close by."

She plans to bank most of her money now, and eventually treat herself to a trip to California. "I've always wanted to see what Hollywood looked like," she explained.

Mrs. Bouchard, the mother of seven children and 19 grandchildren, says she will leave the bulk of her money to her family.

"One of my children and a daughter-in-law, Rosaire and Louise, also had shares in the winning ticket and won $100,000 each, so I'll split the rest among the others," she said.

She foresees no drastic change in her lifestyle. "I believe in routine," she commented, "and I don't plan to change mine very much. I have always lived frugally, and I will continue that way.

"I must have made at least 40 phone calls when the news came through, although at first, my son had a hard time convincing me it was true. I've never won so much as five cents before in my life.

"I called the officials in Montreal, then I called Sherbrooke, then I called Montreal again just to check. After that I telephoned all my friends and relatives who've been coming around ever since with their congratulations."

She is especially pleased that she will now have the means to visit a hospitalized friend in Sherbrooke.

"I had no way of getting around before now, but Marcel is talking about buying a car so he can drive me."

Marcel Bouchard says he won't believe his good fortune "until I see the money in my hands."

The sometime construction worker and odd jobber says he plans to continue working. "I'm too young to stop work," he declared.

Mr. Bouchard, who has never married, intends to continue living with his mother in a bigger home. "I have no intention of leaving her now," he stated. "I have no reason to. We're happy living together."

He added that he expects to have a lot of girlfriends, when the news of his wealth gets out.

"But I'm not sure I'll ever marry anyway. It depends if I find the right person."

He too, claims he will not let his new-found status affect his life. "We're simple people," he remarked. "We can't change old habits."

He does admit, however, that the money will ease his life considerably.

"There's no getting away from it," he said. "The money will help. We can both afford to relax a little more now.

"After all, it will be easier to pay the rent."

$400,000 RICHER — Marcel Bouchard and his mother, Helinda, are thinking about moving from their $40 a month flat since they won $400,000 in the Olympic Lottery draw Sunday. The Bouchards shared the grand prize with six other people.

Police crackdown on rash of Lennoxville break-ins

By BRUCE PORTER
(Record Reporter)

LENNOXVILLE — This community has been plagued with a rash of break-ins in the last two months, but two members of the gang who are possibly responsible for six of the last 10 breaking and enterings were arrested over the weekend.

An adult and a juvenile, both males were picked up just before dawn Saturday morning, following two break-ins at two local businesses. Both have been charged and will be processed through Court of Sessions on three counts of breaking and entering each. Two counts for each stem from break-ins during December and January.

Police received a call about a broken window at G.L. Beaulieu Inc., a grocery store on Queen St., at 12:01 a.m. While the constables were checking with the owner to see if goods had been stolen, thieves were using the diversion to break into Canadian Industries Ltd. (CIL) on Massawippi St.

There, Lennoxville police chief Kryszak stated, they broke into the wall safe but found nothing. They then proceeded to take drills, wrenches, flares and other tools from the warehouse.

About 3 a.m., thieves broke into Bown Lumber Inc. but were scared off when a look-out spotted the police cruiser approaching on its rounds. Nothing was taken in the second break-in. Most of the tools from the CIL robbery were recovered when police searched the Bown Lumber area for the suspects.

Lennoxville police are still looking for three suspects believed to be members of the group which has been responsible for the majority of recent break-ins.

The chief of police denied that last Thursday's breaking of a window at the Perrette store had anything to do with the same gang. He said someone had come out of the pub and thrown a beer bottle through the plate glass and that it was just vandalism.

A third break-in early this month or late last month netted thieves close to $3,000 in stereo and camera equipment. The people living in the apartment which was broken into were away for 10 days and discovered the foul deed on June 6.

Both breaking and entering suspects, after giving declarations, were set free on promises of appearing in court.

Asbestos strikers seek funds

THETFORD MINES, Que. (CP) — A teachers' association appealed Tuesday to teachers throughout Quebec to donate money to a welfare fund for striking asbestos workers before schools close for summer vacation.

Thetford Mines teachers voted to contribute one-half of one per cent of their salaries at the beginning of a legal strike by asbestos mine and mill workers March 16.

A total of $97,096.67 has been donated by union locals, groups and individuals since the strike began.

The Thetford Mines Teachers' Association urged teachers across the province to have their contributions to the strike fund deducted from their vacation pay cheques.

Thetford Mines is about 70 miles south of Quebec City.

To ban asbestos products

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government intends to ban importation of blue asbestos and sale of consumer products containing free asbestos fibres.

Through regulations under the Hazardous Products Act, the government also intends to ensure that non-consumer products containing asbestos bear labels "which give information on their contents and safe use," the consumer affairs department and health department said in a news release.

The statement said research has revealed that exposure to "free asbestos fibres is a potential health hazard which can result in cancer. . . . Experience outside Canada shows the hazard may be greater with blue asbestos."

Blue asbestos is not produced in Canada, but small amounts are imported from South Africa for use in the manufacture of asbestos-cement sewer and water pipes.

Products to be affected by the proposed regulations on free asbestos fibres include some humidifier plates, certain types of modelling clay and joint sealant.

The statement said no danger exists to consumers from the presence of blue asbestos in water pipes. The health hazard is associated primarily with inhalation of the fibres during the manufacturing and handling process.

Bombs hurled in Lisbon

LISBON (Reuter) — Leftist youths hurled four blazing gasoline bombs at the Lisbon headquarters of the right-wing Christian Democrat party Tuesday, while separatist troubles in the Portuguese Azores Island reopened old political wounds.

The attack followed a 12-hour siege of leading Christian Democrats during the weekend by leftists who surrounded a barracks at Evora, a town 100 miles east of Lisbon. There were no injuries and no damage.

Meanwhile in Angola, troops helped clear shanty towns of bodies on the outskirts of Angola after recent fighting between rival liberation movements.

More than 200 people were killed, and the Angolan health department broadcast warnings about dangers of an epidemic.

Ford to act on CIA probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will act within two months on the Rockefeller commission recommendations for ending unlawful domestic activities of the Central Intelligence Agency and will try to have all CIA investigations finished by Sept. 1, an informed White House source predicts.

Meanwhile, another source said the chairman of the Senate intelligence committee is prepared to endorse one of the commission's major recommendations—creation of a SenateHouse of Representatives body to oversee the CIA on a continuing basis.

One gun killed Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is no evidence that more than one gunman was involved in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy or that the Central Intelligence Agency was involved in the murder, the Rockefeller commission says.

The commission in effect confirms the basis of the Warren commission's conclusion nearly 11 years ago that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in assassinating Kennedy. The commission also discounts all of the major conspiracy theories surrounding the slaying.

The Rockefeller report also rejects claims that photos showed Howard Hunt and Frank Sturgis, who later took part in the Watergate burglary, were at the assassination scene in Dallas, Tex.

However, an expert medical witness, whose testimony was included in the report, said his views were misrepresented and that he still believes at least two gunmen were involved in the Nov. 22, 1963, slaying.

Brezhnev appears

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev made his first official appearance in more than a month Tuesday and said: "As I was before, so I will remain."

His remark, paraphrasing a popular Soviet song, was directed to a Czechoslovak delegation which had just presented him with a commemorative award.

The 68-year-old Kremlin leader appeared to be fit and visibly unchanged from his last official appearance on May 9.

After that there were rumors that he was ailing and undergoing medical treatment.

But diplomatic sources said Monday that he attended a Soviet-Italian soccer game Sunday evening and looked well.

Prison employee dies in convict escape bid

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — One of 15 prison employees being held hostage by three convicts at British Columbia penitentiary died early today as an attempt by the convicts for freedom ended abruptly at 1 a.m. PDT today (4 a.m. EDT).

Jim Murphy, regional director of the federal penitentiary service, said the hostage, Mary Steinhouser, was dead on arrival at hospital.

He said full details of how she died will not be released until 8 a.m. PDT (11 a.m. EDT) at a news conference to be held by the New Westminster chief of police.

Mr. Murphy said at least two prisoners were injured as their bid to be taken out of the country failed.

Broadcasters call on CRTC to control cable industry

OTTAWA (CP) — Domestic broadcasters called on the Canadian Radio-Television Commission (CRTC) Tuesday to clamp tight controls on the country's growing cable television industry.

Complaining that they are losing audiences and advertisers to outside competition, the broadcasters appealed to the CRTC to either defer or reject a series of proposed new regulations for 400 cable companies across the country.

Murray Chercover, president of CTV Television Network Ltd., told the 13-member government broadcasting regulatory body that cable operators should be barred from competing directly with conventional television broadcasters even if it means massive deletions of programs for cable subscribers.

Cable operators in the audience at the three-day hearing laughed in apparent disbelief as Mr. Chercover suggested that they be forbidden from carrying imported programming already available from local television stations.

Earlier in the day the Canadian Cable Television Association told the commission that cable operators should be subjected to only the bare minimum of federal regulation if they are to meet subscriber demands for a greater variety of programming.

SEES THREAT

Mr. Chercover and officials of the 370-member Canadian Association of Broadcasters (CAB) said it was this variety that is fragmenting local television audiences and posing serious threats to the future stability of television broadcasting.

Mr. Chercover told the hearing a ban on duplicate programming could mean deletion of up to 80 per cent of prime time programming imported by cable from U.S. and other non-local television stations.

Food prices up more than ever

OTTAWA (CP) — The largest rise in food prices so far this year, as well as higher housing costs, helped push the consumer price index eight-tenths of one per cent higher in May, Statistics Canada said today.

After steadily declining in each of the previous four months, beef prices rose again in early May. Fresh fruit and vegetable prices also were up sharply.

The higher food price rise was expected. The Food Prices Review Board, which has started compiling its own monthly price reports, had noted the trend two weeks ago. It said meat, vegetables, fruit and dairy product prices were rising more quickly than had been expected.

The board's index is based on a weekly monitoring of food price changes and is published within a week of the most recent survey. It covers about 85 per cent of the food items the consumer price index contains.

Statistics Canada's report is based on a survey done about a month ago. It says the rise in the food index during May was the largest for any month this year, but still is well below the rate of increase in the comparable 1974 period.

The food prices board is predicting about a 15-per-cent rise in food costs this year.

Higher costs for housing also were an important factor in the May change in the over-all index, accounting for about one-quarter of the increase. These higher costs applied to both owned and rented accommodations, Statistics Canada says.

Quebec, Ontario to watch flow of dead animal meat

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario and Quebec governments have agreed on an exchange of information to monitor the flow of dead animal meat between the provinces, Ontario Agriculture Minister William Stewart said Tuesday.

He told the legislature that Quebec is drafting regulations on dead or incurable animals and meat inspection effective June 15.

These were being forwarded to the Ontario government for information, review and comment.

Mr. Stewart also said both provinces will submit names of those handling meat from dead animals, volumes, buyers, carriers involved and the dates of shipments which have crossed provincial boundaries.

"This mutual exchange of information will assist investigators in both provinces to monitor the flow of meat from one province to another," he said.

REACH AGREEMENT

The Ontario minister said the agreement was reached at a meeting Monday in Ottawa with Quebec Agriculture Minister Normand Toupin.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index was off .77 at 90.44, and the NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common issues dropped .42 to 48.12.

NYSE volume, heavy in the early going, eased off and wound up at 21.13 million shares compared with 20.67 million Monday.

Analysts said the early selloff stemmed in part from talk of a possible new oil price increase by members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries as their oil ministers met in Africa.

One participant announced at mid-day that a final decision on the oil price question would be put off until September.

Winnipeg street comes back to life

WINNIPEG (CP) — Little more than two years ago, the collection of old shops on Osborne Street were usually empty. Its dingy appearance and distance from the prime downtown business and shopping district made the area decidedly unnattractive for prospective proprietors.

Now, a new breed of optimistic young entrepreneurs has moved into the area more than two miles from the main downtown intersection of Portage Avenue and Main Street with the hope of making it as appealing and distinctive as Vancouver's Gastown or Toronto's Yorkville.

"If any shopping area in Winnipeg is going to make it, ever going to come of age, this is it," says shopowner Carlo Gabbriellia.

With that in mind, the 30-odd merchants formed the Osborne Street Business Association about six months ago to foster stability and promote the area as a uniquely offbeat shopping district.

Bearing such names as Gad's Creations, Floating Ecstacy, The White Elephant and Head Quarters, the shops offer wares ranging from waterbeds to jewelry. And the names of the shops accurately reflect the personality and objectives of their owners.

LEFT CAREERS

Many of the merchants left lucrative professional careers to escape boredom and enjoy the freedom of running their own business.

"I couldn't tolerate the nineto-five rat race in a temperature-contolled environment," says Basil Lagopoulos of Desart Ltd.

"If it's not my lifestyle, if it's not me, I'll kiss it goodbye."

A former interior designer, Mr. Lagopoulos sells furniture, jewelry, personal accessories or "anything that's well designed and fits through the door."

He says the Osborne Street area is finally achieving credibility after the hippie movement gave it a bad reputation several years ago.

Mr. Lagopoulos should know. After seven years in the area, he is one of a handful of merchants that successfully avoided bankruptcy.

The confidence merchants have in the future of Osborne Street is exemplified by Mr. Gabbriellia, who constructed an unusually-designed building that now houses five boutiques.

His own shop manufactures metal sculptures and handblown glass made by himself and his employees. He was selective in renting the shops.

"I wanted to rent only to people who I thought would enhance the area."

JOINED ASSOCIATION

Most of the merchants have joined the association, says president Dick Finkel, mainly because of a recognizable need to act in unison.

"They all realize we have a symbionic relationship here— that as one goes, so goes all of us."

Unity will also give the association political clout to persuade governments to help refurbish the weather-worn exteriors most of the buildings still feature.

Once that is done, Mr.Finkel is confident the area will blossom into a major attraction.

"Winnipeg has never had a specialty shopping district. For tourists and local people alike, we're it. And we intend to put ourselves on the map."

Railways to answer herbicide petition

SHERBROOKE (BP) — An answer from Quebec Central Railway management is expected in the next few days in regards to a petition from southern Eastern Townships residents concerning herbicide spraying along railway tracks, a spokesman for the company said yesterday.

The petition, signed by 191 persons living along the tracks in the municipalities of Beebe, Rock Island, Stanstead, Tomifobia, Boynton, Fitch Bay, Ayer's Cliff, Hatley, Massawippi, North Hatley, Lennoxville and Sherbrooke, lists the complaints of the people being ill effects caused to the people living near the tracks, as well as wildlife and agriculture.

The Stanstead North Women's Institute, which circulated the first petition, has been joined by two other groups which will be submitting similar petitions asking the QCR to find other means of brush removal along their tracks. At present, two herbicides are being used to destroy the growth of brush along QCR lines.

The other groups have a combined total of 65 signatures to present to the company. One is from 45 people bordering along the railway's tracks as well as from Coaticook, Bury, Bishopton, Brookbury, Weedon, Scotstown, Sawyerville, Cookshire and Derby Line, Vt.

The remaining 20 names were submitted by Bishop's University professors and staff. They include: S.L. Black, Assistant Professor of Psychology; E.H. Yarrill, Professor of Modern Languages; D.F. Hilton, Assistant Professor of Zoology; W.F. VanHorn, Professor of Chemistry; S. Murray, Assistant Professor of English; J.L. Redding, Professor of Physics; G. Tucker, Assistant Professor of Political Science; F.A. Siddiqui, Assistant Professor of Economics; H.F. Brown, Professor of Music; S.J. McKelvie, Assistant Professor of Psychology; Gary Richards, Executive Secretary - Alumni Association; L. Standing, Associate Professor of Psychology; Keith Moore, Associate Professor of Botany; R. Reid, Assistant Professor of History; J.D.F. Anido, Professor of Religion; W.G. Ross, Professor of Geography; J. Haywood-Farmer, Director of Extension; David Rittenhouse, Drama Department; K. Harper, Professor of English.

The railway spokesman said the head office in Montreal is seriously considering the first petition — the only one received to date — and that the others would also have a bearing if received within the next few days.

Bishop's offering summer courses

Bishop's University will likely boast a summer session enrolment greater than that recorded during the summer of 1974.

According to John Haywood-Farmer, Director of the University's Extension Department and organizer of the sector of the program, registrations are increasing rapidly and should exceed the 100 course registrations of last summer by the time the 1975 summer session gets underway June 30th.

"The program definitely served a certain need in the community," Haywood-Farmer asserts, "in that it is aimed at teachers and other persons needing university courses for their professional careers, as well as at regular university students."

Some 80 per cent of the students following summer courses at Bishop's fall into these categories, he observes, with the remainder being drawn from the general community.

Plans call for courses to be offered in business, English, history, linguistics, religion, biology, liberal science, introductory psychology, political science and sociology.

Haywood-Farmer stresses that all courses have been planned in the light of areas for which Bishop's is ideally suited or in terms of concerns which hold center stage in the contemporary world environment. He explains: "Bishop's, for instance, is excellently situated, by virtue of its rural location, and in terms of the present summer season, to offer a course in field biology.

Persons interested in registering for any of these courses, Haywood-Farmer declares, can do so by calling him at 569-9551, extension 327.

The second sector of the Bishop's summer session program is organized for teachers, specifically, by the University's Graduate School of Education.

Intended to lead toward the Diploma in Advanced Studies in Education and the Degree of Master of Education, courses in this sector include evaluation in education, curriculum development, comparative education (part two),

Around Town

The Sherbrooke cultural scene is slowing down again, now that Festival des Cantons is over for another year. Nevertheless, there's a fair share of activities in store for those who didn't get their fill last week.

Wednesday, June 11. An ongoing exhibit at the University of Sherbrooke of Canadian Engravings, will be featured in the Pavillion Hall there. The exhibit is open daily Monday to Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 10 p.m. On Saturday, it's open between 8:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. and on Sunday, you can take in the show between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Thursday, June 12. German graphics are featured at the University of Sherbrooke Art Gallery, on loan from the Goethe Institute in Germany. The show can be seen from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday to Thursday. The exhibit is also open between 1 and 5 p.m. on Sunday, but is closed Friday and Saturday.

Friday, June 13. An unlucky day for Sherbrooke culture fans. All will be quiet on the Eastern Townships front. There is, however, a good movie at the Carrefour de l'Estrie. The film, Shampoo, with Warren Beatty, is rollicking fun.

Saturday, June 14, Sunday June 15 and Monday, June 16. The exhibits continue at the University of Sherbrooke and the movie carries on at the Cinema Two in the Carrefour. Carrefour showtimes can be found out by calling the theatre at 565-0366.

Tuesday, June 17. At the Piggery Theatre in North Hatley, Gilles Valiquette, a Quebec chansonniere will perform. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. and the cost is $3.

RECEIVES FUNDS — Andre Vachon, 16, a Seminaire de Sherbrooke student who is an avid pianist, received $200 this week from the Sherbrooke Kiwanis Club to help offset his expenses while attending advanced piano classes in Montreal next year. Young Vachon, who has played the piano for nine years now, spends about seven hours a day practicing, on top of his usual school work. He has won awards at various music festivals, and has appeared on a Radio-Canada broadcast recently. Above, Andre receives the cheque from Kiwanis President Gaston Charland.

Asbestos closing some streets

ASBESTOS (BP) — Asbestos municipal council was kept busy last month with much business, including a notice of motion for by-law 649 to close or partially close several streets in town.

Those streets which would be affected are St-Dominique, St-Roch, St-Jacques, Lafrance, Panneton, Laurier, Notre-Dame and St-Joseph. The notice gave reasons for the motion that Canadian Johns-Manville Co. Ltd. needs the streets or portions of streets for their mining expansion, that the company owns the majority of land beside the roads and that a technical plan for closing the streets has been prepared by a Sherbrooke surveyor.

Receipt of a grant for $1,800 from the High Commissioner for Youth, Recreation and Sports was acknowledged with thanks to the Hon. Paul Phaneuf. The grant will be used to put summer sports schools into operation.

A letter was received from the Commission Scolaire Regionale de l'Estrie (CSRE) informing the recreation committee that $400 has been set aside for costs at the 'pocket theatre' at the Community Recreation Center.

A motion was proposed and carried that a budgeted grant amounting to $6,000 be authorized to the Harmonie d'Asbestos Inc. for new uniforms.

It was resolved that Real Hinse be engaged as foreman of electrical service in the town commencing June 1.

Tenders for renovations to the council offices were opened with Richard Lemay submitting the lone entry for painting. His bid was accepted. Chez Marcel Enr. and Paul-Emile Ratte submitted tenders for draperies and carpeting respectively and were accepted. Both were the lower of two bids.

Formation of new municipal committees were held and the following people were named as heads of each: Police and Fire — Gaudiose Leclerc; Water, Roads and Electricity — Marcel Brown; Town Planning and Construction — Leopold Frechette; Parks and Recreation — Bruno Bisson; Finance, Administration and Employees — Gerard Poire; Public Relations, Industry and Tourism — Roch Frechette.

It was proposed and resolved that Roch Frechette, Arthur Breault, Gerard Veronneau and Yvon Hamel will renew their mandates and that Lucien Bachand, Gerard Poire and Jean-Marc Ryan be accepted for a period of three years as members of the Municipal Habitation Office of the Town of Asbestos.

It was carried that the date of the regular monthly meeting for July be changed from July 23 to July 2 at 7:30 p.m. The change was made because annual holidays for Canadian Johns-Manville employees begin July 13.

The council offered its congratulations to Camille Tremblay after being named recently as president of the Eastern Townships Regional Development Council (CRD). Mr. Tremblay is from Asbestos.

Council will set aside a sum of approximately $500 to cover costs of the official opening of the Quebec Summer Games on June 21 in Asbestos. The town was named earlier this year as host city for the opening for the Estrie section. The cost will be partially reimbursed by the amusement tax, with council accepting the remainder.

Red Cross campaign opens at the Border

BOUNDARY (IH) — It has been announced by Mel Van Sickle, of Stanstead, general chairman for the Canadian Red Cross annual campaign, that it officially starts tomorrow.

His area chairmen will be: Rock Island, Allan Nourse; Beebe, Mrs. Lawrence Goodsell and Mrs.Carroll Cooper; Stanstead, Mrs. Jean Beasse; Fitch Bay, Mrs. Kenneth Pelkie; Stanstead East, John Byers; Fairfax, Mrs. Rosario Fauteaux, Way's Mills, Mrs. Arthur Jordan. As yet there is no chairman for Tomifobia or Heathton. If anyone is interested they may contact Mr. Van Sickle by phone at his residence or office at Butterfield's, Rock Island.

Mrs. Cecile Joyal, Manageress of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Rock Island, is campaign treasurer.

Costs for the Red Cross have been hit by inflation and if they are to continue with their help to those in need, campaigns must be a success. If one is not at home when the Red Cross calls, one may leave a donation with their name and address with Mrs. Joyal or the area chairman of the district.

Only a few days ago a family of eight children and two adults were assisted when $57. dollars in groceries plus blankets were given to them. This family had lost their home by fire and had no insurance. Relatives, neighbours and friends also helped and clothing was donated from the Red Cross and Rotary clothing pools in Rock Island.

Another local project assisted by the Red Cross is the Three Villages and Vicinity Swimming School where in the past 28 years, over 8,000 children have learned Red Cross swim skills and water safety.

Blood for transfusions is another Red Cross project. This alone takes 20 cents of a dollar donated to the campaign. Last year close to 250,000 men and women donated blood and this was distributed by Red Cross to some 190 hospitals in Quebec. Many in this area had blood transfusions.

In addition to this there is disaster relief, such as to fire victims, as well as health services, international assistance and many more. The provincial budget for 1975 is: Blood Procurement, $289,648; Health Services, $192,289; Disaster services, $107,625; Services to Veterans, $24,969; Water Safety, $147,497; Youth Services, $163,429; International Assistance, $195,849; Administration and other services, $257,945; Campaign expenses and supplies, $65,943; Total, $1,445,192.

The Boundary and Vicinity objective is $1,500.

Rock Island hires new police chief

ROCK ISLAND (IH) — At the council meeting held Monday evening, June 2, Ernest Breton, the new police chief, signed a contract and was welcomed by Mayor Edouard Girard. Mr. Breton is from Sherbrooke, and has police experience as a former Quebec Police constable.

Council went on record as strongly protesting the closing of La Providence Hospital in Magog. Since the Quebec Health Services announced that the hospital would be closed protests have come in from the entire area, including petitions with thousands of names.

Correspondence included a letter from Hydro-Quebec in regards to the right-of-way for the new trunk line that will pass through this area. Council was advised that Hydro would expropriate the required land and that owners would have the opportunity later of contesting the amount paid for it. The line will pass over part of the lot on which the Rock Island sewer system is located.

Another letter was received from the Stanstead South Church informing council that a new roof will be put on the Community Center this summer. They asked council to supply a truck to draw away the old roofing and this was agreed to.

A letter from George Vaillancourt, MNA, indicated that no money is available for Rock Island this summer, but that picnic tables, fireplaces and benches will be supplied. This park is being built on the east bank of the Tomifobia River on land donated by Dr. H. Banting. The council authorized $500. for the purchase of top soil and turf. A retaining wall will be built along the side of the small brook to prevent further erosion.

With several lots already sold, a plan was submitted for the sub-dividing of land at the east end of Notre Dame Boulevard. The plan was approved and council agreed to contact an engineer in regards to the extension of the sewer system.

Hydro-Quebec will also be advised of the need for electricity and will be asked if it is possible to install underground wiring in this new section.

There was a letter from the Municipal Affairs Department stating that no grant will be possible for the International Water Company for new facilities because it is a privately owned company and the new filtration system will be located in the United States.

The company is almost entirely owned by the Municipality of Stanstead, Town of Rock Island and the Village of Derby Line. Because of its international nature in its business, government grants are not available from either country. Cost of the required filtration plant and reservoir will probably exceed a half million dollars.

There was a suggestion by Alderman Robert Alger that when the Rock Island police are called to Stanstead they should be charged for the service. Police Chief Breton said this would be possible only if Stanstead asks for assistance at Stanstead, there no charge can be made.

The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. M. Masse, was directed to write to Morin-Tessier and Associates about the costs of evaluation. The decision of whether or not to have full valuation on all property in the municipality will be made at the next meeting when all information is available.

School is closing year

DERBY LINE (IH) — Derby Elementary School closes Friday, June 13.

Several outings have taken place recently. The beginners primary youngsters had a trip to Granby Zoo; the middle primary, a visit to the Maple Sugar House in St. Johnsbury, and to the WIKE Radio station and Newport Fire department. Upper primary went on a trip to Brownington to visit the Old Stone House Museum.

The June 5 trips were cancelled due to weather conditions. However, later that week, the upper primary visited the Derby Granite Quarries and shop and the Newport Ski shop. Grade 6 went to Orleans, Vt., and visited the Orleans Manufacturing Company. Grade 4 visited the Brownington Stone House museum.

Thursday evening, June 12 will be the presentation of the play, Snow White, at 7 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of the school to which the general public is invited.

The day school closes, an award assembly will be held in the school.

U.S. Example

One of the feared aftermaths of the end of the Vietnam war and consequent American withdrawal from that country has been the possibility of a return to isolationism on the part of the U.S., leaving its allies in the lurch. It is clear, however, from recent happenings, that the Ford administration is working hard to remove any such doubts on the part of those countries which depend, to a greater or lesser degree, on U.S. support and co-operation, and to restore confidence around the world in America's willingness and ability to carry out its international commitments.

Thus last week President Ford, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Secretary of Defence Schlesinger all went on record on the same theme: that the U.S. does not intend to desert its allies. Mr. Ford acknowledged that, following the end of the Vietnam war, a mood of isolationism gripped the U.S.; but, he felt, this was passing. He cited the decision to send U.S. military forces in to rescue the freighter Mayaguez and its crew from Cambodia as "a clear, clear indication that we are not only strong but we have the will and capability of moving" to meet any challenge. Mr. Kissinger used as his example of proof that the U.S. keeps its word to its friends, the city of Berlin which he called the "acid test" for East-West detente. Later, on his arrival in Ankara, he told the Turks that his country would defend its interests and principles and "will stand by its friends in a forceful and understanding manner".

Actions, however, speak louder than words, and for that reason Mr. Schlesinger's statements, oral and written, at the NATO defence ministers meeting in Brussels were probably the most important of the three announcements. The defence secretary criticized those NATO members who have cut back their military spending at a time when the Soviet Union is increasing its expenditures in this area at an estimated rate of three to five per cent a year. And in an article for the NATO Review, Mr. Schlesinger said that far from following some NATO members' example, the U.S. has already begun to deploy two more combat brigades along with other ground and air force strength for the 300,000 American troops now stationed in Europe.

Where other members, including Canada, stand on this all-important matter, will be known when the NATO summit meeting is held later this week. Defence Minister James Richardson has said, for Canada, that this country will not reduce the level of its NATO contribution. But it is anticipated that the defence review now taking place in Ottawa will bring about a change in the form of our contribution so that in perhaps five years this contribution will consist of air forces only and we will have no ground troops in Europe. Whether or not this fits in with NATO's future planning remains to be seen. But certainly no amount of structural changes in Canada should result in any depletion or deterioration of our contribution to the defence of the West. The U.S., in face of considerable difficulty, is showing the way — a way that other NATO members would do well to follow.

US end to recession gradual

WASHINGTON (CP) — The end of the United States recession, eagerly looked for by the rest of the industrial world, now seems unlikely to be either as sudden or as dramatic as many had hoped.

A number of governments, especially in Western Europe and particularly in Britain, had been counting heavily on a major upturn before the end of 1975 with salutary effects for transatlantic trade and the health of their own economies.

But the administration here, while stressing with considerable justification that things are not as bad as they were a year ago and have begun improving, is quietly acknowledging that it now will probably be sometime in 1976 before the full effects of an economic turn-around are felt.

On the surface, there have been a number of promising developments recently. Inflation has been roughly cut by half so far this year from its 13-percent level in 1974. The government's index of 12 leading economic indicators jumped by 4.2 per cent in April over the previous month and the number of available jobs is increasing although 9.2 per cent of the labor force is still out of work.

VITAL ELEMENTS MISSING

Nevertheless, there are at least three underlying, vital constituents of any economic upturn which remain sluggish and are troubling experts here.

The three are new house building and construction generally, business confidence and new investment in production equipment.

Usually, one of the first signs that a recession is fading comes from an increase in funds flowing into savings and loan, or mortgage, companies which, coupled with lower prices, leads to a surge in housebuilding. This acts as a spur to other areas of the economy as well.

But this time, construction of homes is increasing at an agonizingly slow pace and it seems improbable it will provide the lead economists are looking for.

Meanwhile, the government's general optimism that the economy is on the road to eventual recovery does not seem to have filtered down to leading businessmen. Independent surveys show business confidence at alarmingly low levels with little indication of any imminent improvement.

INVESTMENT SLASHED

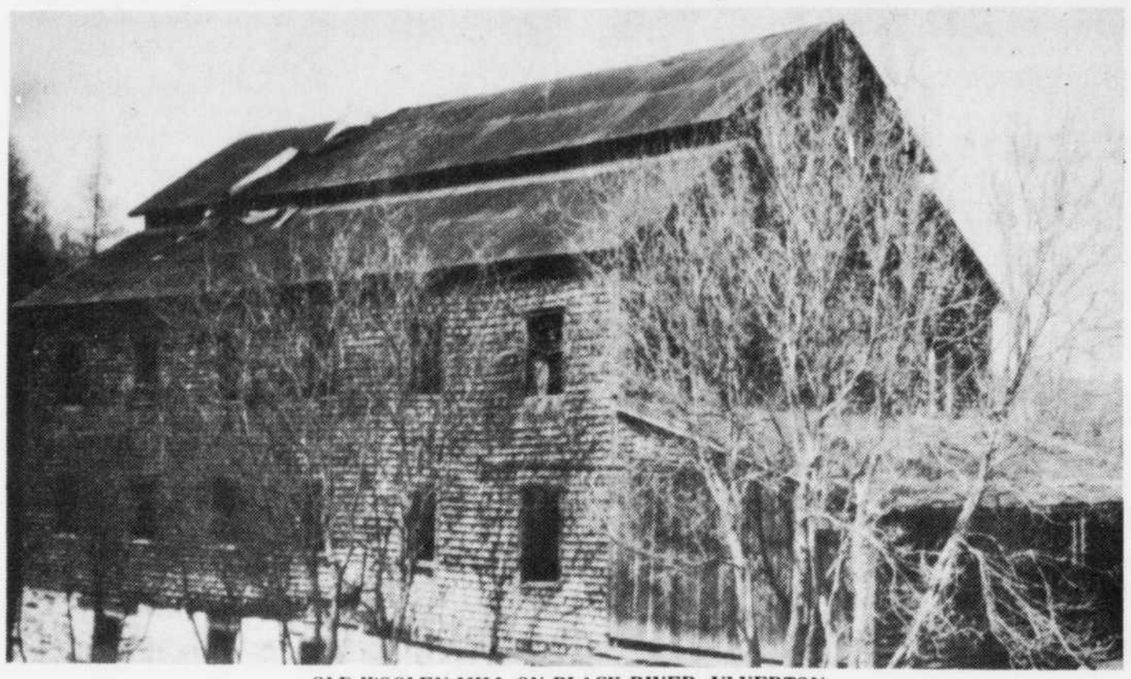
And this in turn has led to a slashing of plans for new investment in productive machinery, necessary to increase output and meet stronger consumer demand without fanning inflation as the recovery takes place.

The Conference Board, a nonprofit business research group, reports that big manufacturers cut their appropriations for capital expenditure in the first quarter of this year by 9.4 per cent from the last quarter of 1974.

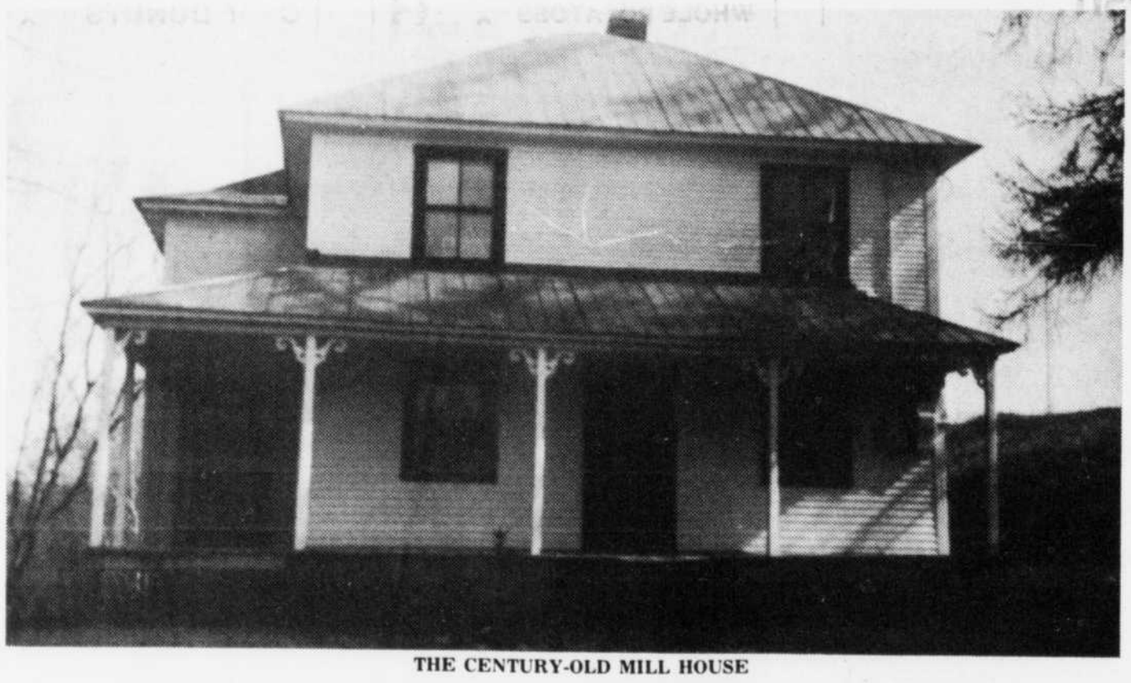
This in turn followed a staggering 26-per-cent decline in capital spending in the last three months of 1974 over the previous quarter.

Many economists suspect that the cuts in capital outlays now have reached their limit and that spending will start to increase by the end of the year if inflation is held in check and real incomes improve, allowing consumers to increase their demand for goods.

But there are few experts here willing to predict that the stimulus from such a development will be felt much before the final months of 1976.



OLD WOOLEN MILL ON BLACK RIVER, ULVERTON



THE CENTURY-OLD MILL HOUSE

Milling business once thrived

By JOYCE HIBBERT

At one time several mills operated along the banks of the Black River in the vicinity of Ulverton. Only one remains, near the scenic falls that provided power to run its machinery. The stone-based, cedar-shingled walls and tin roof enclose a 60' x 40' area of what was once a thriving woollen mill.

Erected in 1868, it stands about three miles from Route 143. John Porter was its builder, working for a William Dunkerley who was an English immigrant millwright.

In 1870 the property was purchased by G.H. Goddard and became known as the Goddard Mills of Ulverton, according to the Annals of Richmond County and Vicinity, Volume 1.

To enable the people from the west side of the river to get their bales of wool to the mill, a covered bridge was planned. In 1885, John Porter received payment of five dollars for his bridge design. The wooden structure stood until 1958 when it was replaced by the present concrete bridge.

A.H. Hepworth took over the woollen mill in 1896 and operated it for 10 years.

The next owner was Joseph Blanchette who ran the operation from 1906 until 1939. Mr. Blanchette had learned the milling business at Way's Mills near Coaticook. He then worked with his brother at the Trenholm mill before buying the Ulverton property.

Under his ownership the mill flourished and provided employment for several local families. Knitting wool, blankets and wool batts used for quilts and comforters were shipped out from the establishment.

Farmers in the district were encouraged to raise sheep and enjoyed a profitable market for their wool. According to Rachel Johnson of Melbourne, it's a different story today. Mrs. Johnson is secretary-treasurer of the municipality of Ulverton and until recently she ran a Kirkdale farm. "Very few sheep are found around here today" she commented. "The sale of wool is not practicable and it takes years to develop good breeding stock."

The Misses Bernice and Dora Blanchette, daughters of Joseph, now live in Melbourne and watch with interest any developments regarding the mill and its century mill house.

During the years 1939-44, Gerard Raymond was the last owner to operate the mill as such.

Bill Westlake was the next owner of the 17 acre property. He and Fred West raised mink in and around the mill for two years. At any one time there would be close to 750 animals kept in pens within the mill walls.

Mr. West, who lives in Drummondville, recalls that a man was employed during the week, while at weekends the owners took care of the mink. "It was hard work, alright, but when we started the pelts were selling at 22 dollars each. One winter we lost a lot of animals on the ground floor of the mill. Those kept upstairs and outside were healthy but those below seemed prone to pneumonia. Later I moved the mink to the Armstrong farm at Dennison's Mills. The bottom fell out of the market soon after and I sold them off at $7.50 a pelt."

One thing Fred West remembers distinctly. "The water from the wells at the mill house was the best I ever tasted."

In 1953 the mill was bought by Hilaire Blanchet. The present owner is Hugues Simoneau of Drummondville.

Although the mill has lost all its windows and is in need of repairs, it is still sturdy and imposing. "A well-built place" in the words of Fred West. In over a century it has been mellowed by the elements and stands in harmony with the surrounding countryside. The mill house appears to be solid and in good repair.

Soon Route 51, the new highway from Sorel to Sherbrooke, will pass within half a mile of the property.

According to Madame Savoie, secretary to Robert Malouin, MNA for Drummond County, the mill has been offered to the Quebec government as a tourist attraction or historic site. At this time the government is not considering purchasing it.

TOWNSHIPS' HISTORY.

Canadian Travel Bits

Since 1969, the Scotian Railroad Society, the developers of the museum in Halifax, has acquired four historic railway cars and a steam locomotive.

Of the four cars on display, one houses a railway exhibit. This exhibit, which focuses on the history of Nova Scotian railways, consists of a collection of old photographs, maps, timetables and other railway artifacts.

A yellow baggage car dates from 1875. It was built by the Intercolonial Railway in Moncton. An early model orange caboose is also on display.

Car 99, the H.B. Jefferson, is a well-appointed private car, built in 1891. Its interior woodwork and decor typify the business car elegance of the late 1800s.

The last car is a steel mail and express car which was built for Canadian National in 1939.

The museum is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"EXPLORE NOVA SCOTIA"

A new program linking the Prince of Fundy line to two hotels in Nova Scotia has been added to the Portland-Yarmouth ferry service between Maine and Nova Scotia.

A special "Explore Nova Scotia" package will enable motorists to tour Canada's Ocean Playground at reduced rates.

In a co-operative promotional venture between the Canadian Government Office of Tourism and the Swedish ferry line — operators of M-S Prince of Fundy and M-S Bolero — motorists will be offered a five-day package program with rates starting at $110.50 from Portland.

The package includes round-trip passage for an automobile and one passenger, one night's accommodation at the Grand Hotel in Yarmouth and three nights at Oak Island Inn between Yarmouth and Halifax on Nova Scotia's west shore.

There will also be a series of reduced-rate motorists' packages for the shoulder season April 15 to June 17 and Sept. 2 to Oct. 31.

A motorists' one-day special will cost $89.50 for one-way passage for two passengers, one automobile, cabin and breakfast on night sailings. A smorgasbord dinner will be served on daytime sailings.

This package represents a reduction of $32 from standard fares.

Round-trip passengers will be offered a similar package for $135 with a $73.50 reduction from standard fares.

The mini-and-maxi cruise program, which has proven popular since the start of the Portland to Yarmouth service in 1970, will be continued with minimum rates of $42.50 per person for the round-trip mini-cruise package between May 1 and June 15. It will cost $54.50 per person June 16 to Sept. 15 on the Prince of Fundy and $59.50 on the Bolero during the high season.

The package includes cabin, breakfast or smorgasbord dinner. To accommodate traffic on usually slow Tuesdays and Wednesdays, the line is offering the Bolero package for $5 less per person.

The mini-cruise may be extended into a maxi-visit with a day and a night at either the Grand Hotel, Braemar Lodge or Manor Inn in Yarmouth for $18 to $21 extra per person based on double occupancy.

ROCKHOUNDS

If you're a rockhound — one of that increasing species of travellers who collect rocks and minerals — New Brunswick offers many rewards.

Modern paved highways carry collectors to deposits of minerals with fancy-sounding names like wolframite, molybdenite, apophylite and rhodochrosite.

Specimens can be cut in two, polished and mounted as bookends or placed on the mantel.

New Brunswick is a cornucopia of semi-precious metals and rocks. Few places in North America afford such a peek into the geologic origin of things.

Here, the beginner and the dedicated rockhound can poke for shiny stones and fragments of minerals at a large number of locations, enjoy the scenery and a fascinating hobby.

Grand Manan, the largest of the famous Isles of Fundy, is also of interest to rockhounds. The minerals on the island include agate, jasper, zeolite and others.

Information and maps are available at the Mines Branch, Department of Natural Resources, University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, N.B.

It was on this site that the first show of the Seven Years' War in North America was fired with the English capturing the famous French fort.

HIGHLAND GAMES

Canada's capital, Ottawa, will present the second National Highland Games at Lansdowne Park June 27 and 28.

Contestants from coast to coast have indicated their intention to compete in the Canadian Inter-provincial and the Canadian Open Championships with a total of 45 bands and some 500 solo participants.

The two-day event will end with the staging of a Scottish Spectacular Saturday night at Lansdowne Park. The spectacular will include massed pipes and drums, Highland dancing displays, massed military bands and a sheepdog demonstration.

Highlight of the Games will be a Parade of the Provinces and a Grand Finale.

Record Yester Years

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

LONDON — Lloyd George, speaking in the by-election in the Eastbourne division of Sussex, caused through the appointment of Sir George Lloyd, Conservative M.P. as High Commissioner for Egypt in succession to Field Marshall Viscount Allenby, delivered his opinion on Premier Baldwin and Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill.

"Both of them are very good fellows in their own way," Lloyd George said, "but they hold the weakness in common of being very head-strong. You will hardly think it of Mr. Baldwin, for he looks so domesticated, but he went to America and made a headlong, one-sided arrangement, which was protested against strongly by our Premier at the time, Mr. Bonar Law, for tying us up to pay America 34,000,000 Pounds for fifty years, while we up to the present have not received a penny piece from the people to whom we lent 2,000,000,000 Pounds.

"As for Mr. Churchill, he is a very clever man, but he is a bolter, not from danger, but into danger. The biggest luxury I know of is Mr. Churchill himself. He is a very costly one as the Government has discovered."

Ballet recital held at Border

BOUNDARY (IH) — The stage of the Haskell Opera House on Sunday evening, June 1, under the lights, was the scene of budding and more advanced ballet dancers. They are the students of Mado from Montgomery, Vt. and the students are from the Border towns.

The members of the 1974-75 ballet school were Jo Ann Alexander, Arlette Bolduc, Julie Charron, Christina Cheney, Cindy Clifford, Stephanie Collins, Julie Desautels, Lisa Erwin, Joanne Fletcher, Laura Fletcher, Denise Guyette, Sheila Guyette, Amy Hussey, Lorilynn Johnson, Gillian Joughin, Sally Joughin, Gina Lafontaine, Michelle Legeault, Kelly Lovelette, Jill Marbach, Andrea Nugent, Vanessa Nugent, Kelly Olio, Margaret Place, Joanne Poulin, Mary Ann Poulin, Sheri Provoncha, Melody Robinson, Leslie Sargent, Cecily Sheppard, Robin Skoll, Colleen Snelgrove, Sylvie Vallee, Heidi Von Conta, Ann Wadleigh, Elizabeth Wadleigh and Heather Walsh.

The ballet recital scene was The Magic Forest. First, the "strawberries" danced to music by Offenbach. These were the younger dancers who performed well. Their costumes were red with green caps.

The Magical Trees, were a group of fir trees costumed dancers who performed to the music of March, Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy.

The playful foxes, in costumes of brown with real red fox tails danced among the trees to music from the Russian Dance.

J.S. Bach - Prelude No. 1, was played for the two witches mixing their brew and their kittens nine. This was a dance arrangement of older ballerinas. Then followed Pantomime Foxes in their search for rescue with music by Vigneault and the dance of a St-Dilon that featured dancing foxes and trees.

The enchanted fairies, a group in two tone blue chiffon and net with white floral hair bands, danced exquisitely to the music of Chopin, Les Sylphides.

The Finale, with all on the stage, was supported by a March. It was Memories of Childhood.

Andree Woodard and Josee Drapeau were choreographers. Music for the dances was recorded. In opening, Mrs. Mado welcomed the audience and thanked parents for the beautiful costumes, and her pupils for a "wonderful year".

The applause of the audience expressed the appreciation of the people for the recital. After the final curtain, Mrs. Mado was presented with two potted, flowering plants.

25th wedding anniversary marked

WINDSOR — Mr. and Mrs. William Paterson were feted on Saturday evening, May 31st on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary of June 10. The party, arranged by their immediate family, was a complete surprise.

The couple expected to attend a regular monthly card party that evening and were taken by surprise when the cheering and clapping began as they entered the door of the Langlois Hall.

White streamers, bows and wedding bells, as well as silver "25" numerals were used to decorate. Arrangements of spring flowers — iris, lilac and apple blossoms, were also used.

On the couple's arrival, Mrs. Paterson received a corsage from her son, Robert, while Shirley pinned a boutonniere on her father. Bill and Winnie then proceeded to go around the room where they received congratulations and best wishes from over 125 relatives, neighbors and friends.

Card tables had been previously set up and the evening was spent by the majority playing "500", while others visited around the room. Outside the younger set enjoyed an evening of dancing to rock and roll records.

Prizes for cards were won by Joyce Williams, Daisy Allison and Effie Healy for the ladies; while Steve Perkins, Everett Lariviere and Jack Hutton won for the gents. Two door prizes, won by the holders of two marked cups, were claimed by Don Cullen and Effie Healy.

Later in the evening a buffet lunch was served from a long table at the front of the room. The guests-of-honor were seated at the head table which was centered with a prettily decorated anniversary cake, made by Mrs. Bud Paterson. The cake was flanked by tall lighted tapers and a small flower arrangement. Along with Bill and Winnie were seated Mrs. Donald Perkins, Mrs. Archie Samson and Mrs. Myrtle Lilgigren.

At this time a number of gifts, numerous cards containing currency and a guest card containing a sum of money was presented to the celebrants. The guest card, in charge of their nieces, had been signed by all present. A number of pictures were taken throughout the evening.

Both Bill and Winnie expressed their thanks and appreciation to all for the gifts and their pleasure at seeing so many people out.

Attending the anniversary celebration were relatives and friends from Holland, St. Jean, Delson, Bury, Austin, Lachine, Lasalle, Richmond, Bromptonville, Granby, Derby, Vermont, St. Cyr, New London, Sherbrooke and the local area.

Bill Paterson and Winnie Perkins were married at the bride's home in New London on June 10th, 1950. They have two daughters, Carol and Shirley; and two sons, Robert and Don. A son-in-law, Charles (Chuck) Nixon, joined the family three years ago.

McSweyn-Primeau wed

The wedding took place on May 3 in Edmundston, N.B. of Debra Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Primeau, of Kingsbury, Que. to Kendall, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. MacSweyn, of Bathurst, N.B. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white peau de soie, with lace bodice. Her bouquet was pink, red and white carnations. The groom wore a light blue suit. The bride's mother wore a long blue gown and her corsage was red roses. The mother of the groom was in a pink dress with matching coat. Her corsage was pink roses.

The men in the wedding party wore boutonnieres of white carnations.

The bridesmaid was Miss Karen Alsey of Richmond, Que. Her long gown was of mauve crepe and she wore a mauve picture hat. Her flowers were white and mauve daisies.

Miss Mindy MacSweyn, sister of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a long pink dress and carried a basket of dried flowers.

The best man was Mr. Terry James of PEI, a friend of the groom.

Guests were from Richmond, Sherbrooke, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

The young couple left for their wedding trip to Prince Edward Island, where they hope to make their home.

At Home

BISHOPTON — Mr. and Mrs. Cyril E. Rolfe will be "At Home" to their friends and relatives on June 14, 1975, from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. on the occasion of their 30th Wedding Anniversary.

To make a patio lantern, reseal the gable of a half-gallon plastic coated milk carton. Cut a hole in the top of the gable. Cut out any desired design on four sides of the carton. Cut a hole in the bottom of the carton large enough for an electrical socket, cord and decorative candlelight bulb. Insert fixture through the bottom. Reseal the hole with masking tape or electrical tape. Or suspend a small bulb through the top of the carton. For extra sparkle, fill the lantern with miniature Christmas lights.

Ann Landers

Girdle no hurdle, Panty lover says

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from Barney's friend who said he had been wearing pantyhose and a girdle ever since his wife found them in the glove compartment of his car.

I'm a normal, healthy male. I don't wear pantyhose but I wear a panty girdle. I intend to keep on wearing one. My doctor recommended it for a back problem and it has done me a world of good.

The good news is that men can now buy panty girdles without going into the ladies lingerie department. They are offered through at least one leading mail order catalogue. I hope in the not too distant future all men's stores will stock panty girdles and display them with the conventional types of men's underwear. It's high time men enjoyed the right to purchase ANY kind of undergarments, for any reason — without being labeled gay.

I'm straight as a string and I'll fight anybody who tries to take away my panty girdle.1— Firm, Solid and Pain-Free

Dear Free: That letter from Barney's friend was an eye-opener. I had no idea so many truck drivers, construction workers and business executives wore girdles. All who wrote — and there were dozens — assured me that there was no lace on THEIR girdles and their back problems had improved considerably. One man confided, "When my wife was pregnant she wore my shorts and I wore her girdle. We were both very comfortable."

Unisex is here to stay.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you used the word "chutzpah" in your column. Many readers outside the Jewish community may not know the meaning of the word. It has been translated as nerve, gall or brass, but it loses a great deal in the translation. It is better explained this way:

A young man kills both his mother and father. He then throws himself on the mercy of the Court because he is an orphan. THAT's chutzpah!

Have a good day! — Irish

Dear Irish: My day will be better because you wrote. Thanks for clarifying one of the most expressive words in the Yiddish language. Another one is "schlep." Anyone out there want to tackle it?

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is being written from the hospital. Things got too heavy and I tried to commit suicide. I shot myself in the chest. I'm out of danger now but I need to know what to do about my girl after I get out of here.

Mabel and I have been living together for almost a year. I always gave her everything she wanted. Last September I found out she was sleeping with my brother. I overlooked it and we went on from there.

In October Mabel had a hysterectomy. I visited her in the hospital every day and bought her a house full of new furniture as a "welcome home" present. I even took off three weeks from my job and stayed home to take care of her.

Mabel started back to work in December. All this time she has refused to have relations with me. I thought it was because of the operation. Now she says she wants to move out because she is in love with a so-called friend of mine. (She started sleeping with him after my brother.) I still love Mabel but she says she wants to leave. What should I do?

Langley

Dear Lang: Buy her a bus ticket and make her some sandwiches.

Dr. Lamb

Father persists in booze habit

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Since we are living in a world of drugs and alcohol why don't we see a few movies on TV on what drugs and alcohol do to the vital organs in our bodies. My father is only 48 years old and has a very good job. He works every day and gives his boss a good eight hours a day.

He supports mom and us all very well. Yet he drinks almost a fifth of booze every night. On weekends he drinks more. He goes to work in the morning feeling fine and is never late.

We are afraid in time this will kill him, but he won't listen to us. We love him dearly, and he is good to mom and us kids. If he could see how the liver and other organs suffer from that booze, maybe — maybe — he would quit. Please help us kids make him understand.

DEAR READER — At least knowing that you cared enough to write to me about it may cause him to think twice about his habit and its effects on his children who love him so much.

Your idea of a few good TV movies to show the changes from alcohol is a good one, and I hope some network will see this and follow up on the idea.

While most people think about the damage alcohol does to the liver, its effects on the body are far more widespread. For a more complete discussion of the effects of alcohol on the body, write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019 and ask for The Health Letter on Alcohol (number 1-4). Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for mailing and costs.

The biggest tragedy is the effect of alcohol on the brain. Your father may be surprised to learn that long term consumption of alcohol causes brain damage. Those of us who have examined the brains of people who drank heavily for years are all too familiar with the shrunken appearance of the brain from alcohol. It affects the cortex, the area you use for thinking.

No wonder, then, that many regular drinkers lose their ability to keep on learning. In time this does affect such an individual's capacity to perform on the job, if his work requires any significant amount of intellectual effort. The brain literally becomes senile before its time.

There are also problems of "rum fits," convulsions and a host of changes indicative of the damage the alcohol habit imposes on the brain.

Alcohol affects the stomach and may lead to chronic gastritis as well as causing other damage of the digestive system. It can also damage the heart muscle.

I hope your father quits, but anyone who has been drinking that much for any length of time needs to taper off. A sudden withdrawal may actually precipitate delerium tremens, a dangerous complication. Most people have trouble doing this on their own and usually need professional help.

I have visited your town and know it is not large. You might check the yellow pages of your phone book under alcohol and see if there are any organizations there to help people with alcohol problems. Your father could use one of these. If he won't consult a doctor or go to one of these organizations, then your mother should go to one and see what can be done to encourage him to do something for himself and "us kids."

Beatlemania strikes behind Iron Curtain

By Stephen Ford

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Back In the USSR: Even if they weren't the first as is their wont (or so they often claim), Russia is all aflutter over an album released in Moscow last week called "Hey Jude", by four moptops from Liverpool. Russia's biggest record label, Melodiya, has just introduced the first non-bootleg Beatles' album there, a mere 11 years after the rest of the world turned upside-down upon seeing Ed Sullivan's show that fateful February Sunday eve. Russia's rockers previously have had access to Beatles' albums but it was always via the black market and always at three times the normal cost. But now Melodiya has cornered distribution rights for the former Fab Four's material behind the Iron Curtain and anyone with sufficient rubles can be smitten with Beatlemania.

After his contract with Apple Records expired, Paul McCartney returned to the Capitol label and his next album, which you've probably already had a taste of, "Venus and Mars", will be distributed by Capitol. A single from the Lp called, "Listen To What the Man Says", is strangling radio stations' airplay in such classic overkill that listeners are crying "enough already!" only a week after its debut. But it's a certainty for number one anyway. . . . Joan Baez turned up for an interview over a Los Angeles radio station with her latest love, fella by the name of Marlon Brando.

Caveat Empty: If any of those unfortunate friends of yours who sunk several bucks into a quadraphonic rig have not yet told you, avoid quad like the plague. Consumer Reports, magazine of noble, non-profit consumer advocates, has concluded that shelling out over $800 for a roomful of quad clutter is an sensible as staring into a solar eclipse: it may be a great rush initially but in the long run, well, how do you look in dark glasses? After extensive testing of quad equipment, CR determined you'd be better off with a four-channel receiver since quad is too dicey. Apparently the record industry concurs since it's cut production of quad albums by half in the past year.

NEWEST companion of singer Joan Baez is Marlon Brando who turned up with her at a Los Angeles radio station where she was interviewed over the air.

Dan Hicks (& His Hot Licks, remember?) will be penning the score to Ralph Bakshi's animated film "Hey, Goodlookin'", described as the ultimate putdown to all nostalgia films. Bakshi also produced Fritz the Cat and Heavy Traffic. . . . Johnny Cash was named honorary chairman of the National Society of Autistic Children.

It looks like Woodstock will continue to haunt every promoter in the world looking for that same magic. Now Britain's Merlins have booked Elton John and The Beach Boys in Wembly Stadium, the Misty Isles' biggest, for a June 21 concert expected to sell out 100,000 tickets at $8.50 a hit. . . . On the subject of mad dogs and Englishmen, the people who brought you Pink Floyd, Bonzo Dog Band and Monty Python shall now unveil their most bizarre cult hero by far—Frankie Laine. Mr. Rawhide has been lining 'em up outside every bistro he appears at in London and is currently considered among the hottest attractions in Britain.

Mike Jagger received 20 stitches in his hand at a New York hospital last week after accidentally putting it through a plate glass door. . . . The Robert Stigwood Organization (RSO) which manages Eric Clapton, the BeeGees and owns the rights to THE rock opera, Tommy, is next on the Warner Communications' conglomerate list of acquisitions. For a hefty $11 million pricetag, the moguls who oversee the Atlantic-Warner-Elektra labels are hoping to add RSO to their stable.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Metropolitan London's Finest estimate 350,000 fans of Hackensack's (N.J.) Good 'Ole Boy with blue eyes, Frank Sinatra, stormed the box office at the Royal Albert Hall to squabble over a mere 15,000 tickets. Scalpers are now fetching up to $400 for a pair of tickets to the show later this month. . . . They call it "Salsa" and as far as the record industry is concerned, that's Salsa with a capital "$". Salsa is the current name for latin soul music which has drawn so much attention these days, both in terms of commercial success and fan appeal, that those wonderful people who foist the Grammies upon us each year have added it as a category starting next year.

Music Hath Charm: Vietnam vets may feel a twinge of nostalgia at memory of the Armed Forces Radio and Television Service (AFRTS) "Dawnbuster Patrol," the military radio station in Vietnam that kept our boys abroad abreast of rock's abracadabra. As the last of the GIs in Saigon turned off the light in that infinite tunnel, the Viet Cong were right there last month to turn it back on, musically anyhow. The VC captured several thousand rock albums abandoned by AFRTS deejays manning their microphones up to the last moment for the benefit of Yanks still in Nam. Imagine the black pajama crowd's reaction should they happen across "Ballad of the Green Berets."

SWEEPING across the nation next month and most of July will be Eric Clapton and his band on the road for a 21-city tour.

Kite flying is an art

. . . for which some have a knack, and some don't. Plenty of both types turned out in New York City's Central Park for the Police Athletic League's annual kite flying contest.

Young achievers also got into the act while one of the older fellows (right) demonstrated what a little body English could do. Nine winners in decoration, construction and best flying received U.S. Savings Bonds.

MacDuff the best player in Scotland looked over his fine hand. The hour was late and it was a long ride home from Glamis castle. Still, he felt that it would be cowardly not to bid a slam with that rock-crusher even though MacBeth, his host, who sat North, couldn't have much of a hand.

When he saw the dummy he decided to play as safely for his contract as possible so he won the heart lead in dummy; drew trumps with four leads and led a low diamond.

West took his singleton king and shifted to a spade, which MacDuff ruffed. Now he led a diamond to dummy's 10; returned to his hand with the ace of hearts and won the last four tricks with his good diamonds.

MacDuff's play is worthy of study. He had guarded against everything except 5-0 breaks and it was well that he had. However, his brilliant play didn't get him home.

MacBeth the Thane of Glamis and of Cawdor and soon to be King of Scotland refused to quit.

He cried, "Play on MacDuff for one more rubber."

She asked the fraternity to rededicate themselves to the work of the Order.

"It is far better to wear out than to rust out," she commented. "Some people find the whole world in their community, their own backyard and fear change. They are people who have slapped down life everytime it speaks to them," she added.

John Morrison, G.M. introduced Mr. Dodds, P.S.G.M., who made reference to 12 years ago when he was Sovereign Grand Master. An American Master was holding the session in Canada and this is what IOOF is all about; there are no boundaries, he said.

Mr. Dewey, G.P. thanked Mr. Dodds for his remarks and Mrs. Ray for her thought-provoking words.

Mr. Dewey voiced appreciation to Grand Encampment officers during his happy year as Grand Patriarch and especially to his wife, Evelyn, and their family. "It has been one of the happiest years of my life and one I will never forget," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hyatt were given recognition on the occasion of their 35th wedding anniversary on June 1.

George and Ivy Hatch were guests of the Past Officers Association and were taken by complete surprise when extended words of congratulations by Mr. Brock and Mr. Dewey and presented with a beautiful ceramic anniversary plate made by Mrs. Brock, also other cards and gifts of money. Later they received congratulations from the many present. Mrs. Hatch voiced appreciation saying how nice it is to join with the IOOF fraternity on their event. Mr. Hatch also spoke briefly.

The tables were cleared and Ed Stiles Orchestra arrived. Dancing started about 9 p.m. and included many of the old time dances, with Grand Patriarch Dewey calling the square dances. God Save the Queen brought the delightful evening to a close and Saturday afternoon another happy and successful sessions of Friendship, Love and Truth.

Thirteen Quebec athletes picked for National team

Fifty-seven Canadian athletes will participate in the World Championships this summer in four different disciplines. The National Competitions of the month of May served to determine these delegations and 13 Quebec athletes were chosen by the selection jury which represents 22.8 per cent of the total number.

There are some pleasant surprises in swimming with the choice of Camil Chevalier from Quebec in the 100 metre breastroke and Paul Migdley from Pointe-Claire in the 1500 metre free-style. The other Quebec swimmers who will go to Cali from July 18 - 27 are Wendy Quirk, her sister Jill, Anne Jardin, Marian Stuart and Bob Kasting, for a total of 7 out of 31.

In diving, which is integrated into the swimming championship, only Beverley Boys from Pointe-Claire was selected.

In fencing, three Quebec athletes merited a ticket to Budapest from July 10 - 21. These are Chantal Payer, in the feminine foil; Gerald Wiviott in the masculine foil and Denis Lessard - the new fencing champion. There will be 12 fencers in all making up the Canadian delegation.

Two Quebec archers, Lucille Lessard from Loretteville, and Roger Lemay from Sainte-Therese were chosen to make up a team of eight in archery. The championships will take place in Interlaken, Switzerland from June 25 - 29.

TWO VICTORIES FOR LYNE CHENARD

Three swimmers from Quebec who participated in the European tournament in the National "B" Team at the end of May did very well in a comeptition against the Netherlands.

Lyne Chenard from the "Selects de Quebec" won the 100 and 200 metre backstroke; Victor Ivry from Pointe-Claire also won the 200 metre backstroke just behind his compatriot Rick Frame; Mike Blondal also from Pointe-Claire won the 200 metre free-style and came second in the 100 metre free-style. Canada easily defeated her host with a score of 120-74.

FERRAGNE REACHES THE OLYMPIC THRESHOLD

By achieving a jump of 7'2" last May 17th in Bakersfield, California, Montrealer Claude Ferragne became the third Quebec athlete to attain the Olympic threshold in his specialty this season.

Daniel Taillon from Laval in the 110 metre hurdle race, and Bishop Dolegiewicz from Montreal in shot-putting are two others who are likely to rise to this level very soon.

These three athletes will have to repeat these performances between now and July 5, 1976, in conformance with the requirements of the International Amateur Track and Field Federation.

In Ferragne's case his Bakerfield performance constituted a new record for Quebec and proclaims a fine outside season for him, even though he lost to the junior Greg Joy from Vancouver, who profited from a re-classification of his national record as a result.

Manager Wayne Norton figures lack of time may hurt team in getting ready for Cup Tourney

VANCOUVER (CP) — Wayne Norton has about three months until he has to sign his lineup card at the Inter-Continental Cup baseball championships.

But what the manager of the Canadian team would like more than anything else is some extra time.

"Ideally, the team should be housed somewhere for the summer," Norton said. "If we are to advance further in international competition—to crack the top three of Japan, Cuba and the United States—then we have to be better prepared."

As it looks now, Norton will get his 18-man team together in Montreal just four or five days before an exhibition game against Italy. Three days after that game, the Inter-Continental Cup series starts in Moncton, N.B.

The round-robin tournament involves teams from Japan, Cuba, Puerto Rico, U.S., Nicaragua, Korea, Italy and Canada. It ends Aug. 31. A month later, Norton will attempt to put the Canadian contingent together again for the Pan-American Games at Mexico City Oct. 12-26.

Norton said it will be a problem to find capable players who will be able to take two or three months off from work or school.

"I'm counting on employers and school administrators to let their people off because of the importance of the Pan-Am Games," he said.

The situation in Canada is hardly similar to that in Cuba where, Norton said: "The Cubam team is together all year long. They're just like a professional team."

The Cubans are the defending Inter-Continental Cup champions.

The 32-year-old Canadian manager, who was born in Winnipeg and grew up in Port Moody, B.C., said there are enough talented Canadians to form a strong team this summer.

"This year, if we can get the people I know exist in Canada together at one time, I feel that on a given day we can beat the United States, Japan or Cuba. But in all honesty, I wouldn't want to play a 60-game schedule against them.

Pitching staff plundered in Cincinnati

Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson was happy to say goodbye to Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday night after watching them plunder his pitching staff.

"I'm glad to see them go," said Anderson.

"When they're going like that, it doesn't matter who you pitch against them," Anderson said after the Pirates banged out 17 hits and beat the Reds 9-5.

Coupled with Monday night's 9-2 loss to the Pirates, Cincinnati's pitchers were raked for 18 runs and 32 hits in two games at Riverfront Stadium. The Pirates embarrassed starter Pat Darcy and five other Cincinnati pitchers Tuesday night.

"Maybe this is the start of something big," said Willie Stargell, who collected three doubles and a single and drove in five runs.

The Pirates, usually known for their heavy hitting, have been carried most of the year by their pitching staff.

EXPOS BEST DODGERS

In the other National League games, Houston Astros beat Chicago Cubs 4-3, Philadelphia Phillies blanked San Diego Padres 7-0, Montreal Expos nipped Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4 and New York Mets defeated San Francisco Giants 5-0. The St. Louis-Atlanta game was postponed by rain.

Sam McDowell, 2-1, making his first start of the season for Pittsburgh, was the recipient of the lusty Pirate support. He went five innings to pick up the victory.

The Pirates jumped on Darcy, 1-3, for three runs in the first inning on singles by Richie Hebner and Al Oliver, Stargell's two-run double and Richie Zisk's double.

Hebner walked, Oliver singled and Stargell doubled them home for two more runs in the fourth, then they scored twice again in the fifth when Zisk singled and Manny Sanguillen hit his second homer of the year.

The Pirates got their final two runs in the eighth when Hebner walked, Oliver and Stargell singled and Zisk hit a sacrifice fly.

PITCHER GETS DOUBLE

Enos Cabell singled home the tie-breaking run and pitcher Doug Konieczny doubled home another in the eighth, leading Houston past Chicago.

Cesar Cedeno walked to open the Astros' rally, stole second and took third when Chicago catcher Steve Swisher threw the ball into centre field. After Milt May was intentionally walked, Cabell broke a 2-2 tie with a single to left. Konieczny later doubled to provide Houston with a 4-2 lead and the eventual winning run.

Larry Christenson and Tug McGraw combined on a six-hitter as Philadelphia defeated San Diego for the Phillies' first victory in their last 11 road games. Jay Johnstone, who had a single and double, and Terry Harmon, who had two triples, each drove in two runs off loser Dan Spillner, 2-7.

Montreal beat Los Angeles when Pepe Mangual raced home from second base on a misfired pickoff attempt by pitcher Mike Marshall in the seventh inning to break a 4-4 tie.

Tom Seaver pitched a six-hitter for his 30th career shutout and battery-mate Jerry Grote knocked in two runs to lead New York past San Francisco.

Perry, not Ryan pitches near no-hitter

All eyes were on Nolan Ryan again, looking for another no-hitter. They should have been looking at Jim Perry.

In his last two games, Ryan had thrown a record-tying fourth career no-hitter, beating Baltimore Orioles, and had followed that up with a two-hitter. He was expected to do something similar when he and his California Angels teammates showed up in New York Tuesday night.

But it was Perry who came the closest. For 5 2-3 innings, Perry flirted with a no-hitter against Baltimore. It would have been his first.

Then Al Bumbry ruined it with a single up the middle. So Perry, cast aside by Cleveland Indians and acquired by Oakland A's only three weeks ago, finished with a one-hitter as the A's beat the Orioles 3-0.

Ryan, meanwhile, got a taste of things to come before he even took the mound against the Yankees.

The U.S. Army, in a pre-game ceremony celebrating its own 200th anniversary, fired off a 21-gun salute with a couple of 75-millimetre cannons—and inadvertently blew out one portion of the centre field fence and set fire to another.

SCORED EARLY

Then the Yanks unloaded on Ryan with four runs in the second inning, two on Chris Chambliss' homer, and whipped the Angels 6-4.

In other American League baseball action, Chicago White Sox beat Milwaukee Brewers 9-2, Texas Rangers defeated Boston Red Sox 8-3, Kansas City Royals edged Detroit Tigers 4-3 and Minnesota Twins beat Cleveland 5-3 in 12 innings.

A two-run homer by Gene Tenace in the fourth and a solo shot by Claudell Washington in the sixth gave Perry all the runs he needed.

"It was probably the worst I've pitched all year," Ryan said after his bid to become the first 11-game winner in the majors this year wound up with his fourth defeat.

He walked lead-off batter Thurman Munson in the second inning and Chambliss hit a homer to start the four-run inning and the Yankees added two more runs in the sixth to chase Ryan out of the game.

WOOD WINS

Chicago's Wilbur Wood scored his fourth victory of the season even though Milwaukee knocked him around for 10 hits.

He got it because the White Sox had 14 hits, the big one being Pat Kelly's homer which led a four-run fifth inning.

John Mayberry's home run lifted the Royals into a tie in the second inning, Cookie Rojas' RBI grounder put them ahead in the fifth and George Brett's eighth-inning single knocked in what proved to be the run that beat the Tigers. Brett's hit offset Willie Horton's 14th homer of the year for Detroit in the ninth.

Steve Brye's tie-breaking single in the 12th inning and a subsequent bases-loaded walk to Tony Oliva gave Minnesota its winning edge against the Indians.

Jeff Burroughs hit his sixth homer in the last seven games and 15th of the season to help Texas rout the Red Sox.

Ali and Allah to fight in Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Muhammad Ali arrived in Muslim Malaysia Tuesday and declared that with a little help from Allah he'll defend his heavyweight boxing title against Joe Bugner July 1.

"Joe Bugner, with Allah helping me, is just like an ant," the champion said on his arrival where he was greeted by an airport crowd estimated at 25,000. He looked weary and spoke slowly at a news conference after the flight from Tokyo.

Ali said his opponent is a great fighter.

"He's heavyweight champion of all of Europe and possibly he could be champion of the world," he said. "But when Allah is with you, nobody can defeat you. . . .

"When I go in the ring, I go with Allah and when Bugner fights me, he fights Allah. So there's nothing he can say, there's nothing you can say, there's nothing no government, no president can say when I am backed by the Lord of all the world . . . and all true Muslims will understand what I'm saying."

The crowd applauded the tired boxer though there is limited resemblance with Islam as practised in Malaysia and Ali's Black Moslem faith.

CHALLENGE MELLOWED

Ali, 33, said he was not concerned about the difference in age between himself and Bugner, a nine-year veteran pro at 25.

"Archie Moore boxed until he was about 51. I'm only 33, not 51. Sugar Ray Robinson fought until he was 48 . . . so 33 is young for me. If you look at my face, you'll see no scratches . . . I'm about 25 years old physically because of my style."

To whip Bugner, said Ali, "I'm just going to get in physical shape."

"See, when you've beaten the American black fighters, you can beat anybody in the world because they are the best boxers in the world. And I've beaten the best American black boxers like (Joe) Frazier, (George) Foreman and (Ken) Norton, and then I am the best in the world, so it's rather difficult for a European to beat all the black boxers of America. I'm the best of all the boxers of the planet.

"Allah our god has blessed me to be the fastest and the best boxer in the history of all times. So when he fights Muhammad Ali, he is not just fighting a boxer, he is fighting boxing itself. He is fighting Joe Louis, Sugar Ray Robinson, Jack Johnson, Archie Moore. . . . So if he (Bugner) beats me, that will make him the greatest fighter of all time and that's impossible."

BREAKS OWN RECORD

INDIANS DROP BERRY

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians of baseball's American League said Sunday they have released veteran outfielder Ken Berry and returned pitcher Fred Beene to the active list. Berry, 34, played for Chicago White Sox, California Angels and Milwaukee Brewers before joining the Indians this year.

A woman under the influence

Whitworth inherits Babe's drive

By Ira Berkow
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — For young Kathy Whitworth, there was one woman who stood out in sports at the turn of the 1950s, one woman whose feats as chronicled in her daily newspaper in Jal, New Mexico, could make Kathy's eyes widen and fan her dreams of sporting glory.

That was Mildred "Babe" Didrikson Zaharias. "The Babe," as everyone called her, was an Olympic javelin and hurdles gold medal winner, a baseball player who once struck out Joe DiMaggio, a basketball star who led her team to the AAU national title three years running a, yes, football and boxing standout, a crack swimmer and bowler and skier. And, finally, the top woman golfer of her time.

A girl interested in sports had few female heroes in those days, and it was difficult for her to identify with, say, such contemporary stars as the lumpy Yogi Berra or the carbuncular-looking Casey Stengel. But The Babe was a mindful.

Her life was as grand as the ending was sad, however. In the spring of 1953 Babe contracted terminal cancer. After an operation, she returned to the tour, weak and thin, and dramatically won the U.S. Open in 1954. She died on Sept. 27, 1956, at age 43, the same day, ironically, that Kathy Whitworth was celebrating her 17th birthday.

"I felt a terrible loss," says Kathy Whitworth today. "It was such a shame, for someone so great to die so young."

Kathy by now was taking up golf, after having been an enthusiastic tennis player. She said recently that because she played so poorly at the start, golf created a challenge for her.

"And it still does," she said.

Now, though, Whitworth is the greatest money-winner on the pro tour, having won over half a million dollars since she began in 1959 at age 19. And she has more than doubled the earnings of Babe Zaharias.

KATHY WHITWORTH (right) attributes her inspiration to "Babe" Zaharias, one of the most versatile athletes America has ever known. Beside excelling in golf, the "Babe" excelled in tennis, basketball, swimming, shot putting and high diving.

The money is insignificant, according to Whitworth, in taking the full measure of the woman. Babe Zaharias was playing in an age when top total prize money for a tournament was $3,000 or $4,000. In contrast, the 1975 Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle Ladies Professional Golf Championship in Palm Springs, Calif., had total prize money of $200,000, the richest in the history of women's tournaments.

"Nobody today can compare to The Babe," said Whitworth. "I never met her, but I've listened to the stories about her from some of the gals who played with her, people like Peggy Kirk Bell and Patty Berg. She had such flair.

"Once an interviewer asked how it was she played so well. She answered, 'I just loosen my girdle and belt the ball.'

"Or she'd be looking at a 40-foot putt and turn to the gallery and say, 'I guess I'll have to hole this one out.' The stories are that she did, though I'm sure there were times when she didn't.

Peggy Kirk Bell told me about the time she had recently given birth to a child and the Babe was visiting. There was a bit of an accident and The Babe was helping. Just then, there was a phone call. It was President Eisenhower calling Babe Zaharias. The Babe said to tell the President she was busy and that she'd call back. Imagine that!

"Of course, she was no saint, either. And I know she rankled some of the girls. She'd come into the clubhouse after a good round and say, 'Well, who is going to come in second in this tournament?'

"Once Patty Berg told me she said to the Babe, 'You know, you'd better ease up. If not for us where would you be? After all, every star needs a supporting cast.'

Whitworth was once shown a brief film by Peggy Kirk Bell that included shots of The Babe swinging. "It wasn't a classic swing," noted Whitworth, "but it was fluid and strong, and from what I understand, she was able to follow Ben Hogan's theory that, 'It's not how well you hit it, but how well you miss it that counts.' In other words, you have to play consistently even on your off days."

Whitworth will never forget an off day of hers, after which she went to the practice range and hit drives until dark. She happened to notice a man seated under a tree on a cane chair, silently watching her all the time. It was hard not to notice him, even in the gathering dusk, because he had cauliflower ears and weighed about 300 pounds.

When she finished, Kathy Whitworth waved in her caddy from the field and headed for the clubhouse. As she passed the stranger, he said to her, "Well, you know, the Babe always said the driver was the most important club in the bag."

It was an eerie thing, but she thought nothing more of it until a few years later when she recognized that unforgettable man at a party, and was introduced to George Zaharias, the wrestler, and the Babe's widower.

Dairy policy outlined

Ed. Note: The following is reprinted from the Quebec Farmers' Association Newsletter which is published at Macdonald College.

The long term dairy policy was outlined to representatives of the Dairy Industry by Eugene Whelan recently.

Objectives: In the words of the Act which established the Canadian Dairy Commission, the objectives of the government's long-term dairy policy are:

— to provide efficient producers of milk and cream, with the opportunity of obtaining a fair return for their labor and investment, and to provide consumers of dairy products with a continuous and adequate supply of dairy products of high quality.

RETURNS ADJUSTMENT FORMULA

Consistent with these objectives, the government raised the target support level to $11.02 per 100 pounds of milk, effective April 1. This support level is established as the base return under the new policy. The base return of $11.02 incorporates all the adjustments made by the government in the past few years, to offset cost increases, and to bring the earnings of dairy farmers up to adequate levels.

The base return will be adjusted in relation to changing production cost, by a formula. This formula takes effect immediately. The returns adjustment formula comprises — an index of cash input prices to adjust cash costs in dairy production and the Consumer Price Index, as a measure of changes in the earnings of operator and family labor.

A weight of 45 per cent is given to the cash cost index, and of 35 per cent to the labor earnings component.

At the time of the annual review of CDC programs, the target support level would be adjusted on the basis of the formula and a number of judgment factors. The factors which would be considered include: significant changes in the levels of stocks of dairy products; changes in returns to dairy producers in other milk producing countries; and major changes in competitive processing costs.

In addition, if during the course of the dairy year, the returns adjustment formula indicates a change of more than four per cent in relation to the existing target support level, an interim returns adjustment would be made. This adjustment would be brought about through price support changes, and would not involve consideration of judgment factors. Such interim adjustments would be made only when indicated by the formula, and only after an interval of at least three months in relation to the previous adjustment. It should be clear that the formula can move returns up or down.

MARKET SHARE QUOTAS

The Market Share Quota has been an important part of dairy policy. The objective of the Quota, broadly speaking, has been to manage milk and cream supplies, in line with market requirements. This has complemented the price support and direct subsidy elements of the program. It is the aim of the government to progressively increase the share of producer returns coming from the marketplace. The government will not raise direct subsidy payments, per unit of milk and cream, or total dollar expenditures, above present levels. Consequently, the management of milk and cream supplies will be a very important part of the new policy.

The Market Share Quota program will continue as an integral part of the long-term dairy policy. Moreover, if the objectives of the new policy are to be fully achieved, the Milk Supply Management Committee must make the Quota work. This means that it is absolutely essential that the Market Share Quota system be effective in balancing domestic supply with the requirements of the domestic and export markets. Unmanageable and costly surpluses cannot be tolerated.

DURATION OF POLICY

The government has decided, in response to producers' representations, that the new policy will be in place for a five-year period. This is about the right length of time to provide producers with sufficient assurances for their investment decisions. At the end of the first two years, the government may wish to examine the formula itself, to see if the weights are still satisfactory.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE

Exports and imports of dairy products will continue to play an important part in the dairy policy. The government has been successful in reopening opportunities for cheddar cheese sales to the E.E.C., notably to the United Kingdom, and cheddar export opportunities in the United States continue to provide a significant market. Skim milk powder exports can be expected to expand with the recovery of milk production. While powder prices in export markets at present are depressed, world nutritional needs suggest that the prices of this important product should rise to more reasonable levels over the longer term.

As in the past, butter imports may be necessary from time to time. However, domestic consumption will continue to be met predominantly by Canadian production. The possibility of entering into long-term import contracts will have to be examined. A decision on such contracts will have to depend on the advantages which can be obtained for Canada.

Squash demand lots to drink

By Allan A. Swenson

You can enjoy squash in summer, fall and winter. Actually, when you select the right varieties, you can enjoy squash year-round. You have a wide choice — green, white, yellow, orange and multicolored too.

Squash bugs aside, this vegetable is easily grown. New types have been designed to use less space and produce more abundantly.

The hill system is usually the best culture method for all squash. A hill can be merely a marked-off circle on your garden plot from which the squash vines radiate in their growth habit.

Summer squash should be planted directly in the ground after all danger of frost is over. Place five or six seeds 2 to 3 inches apart in a hill. Space hills of bush varieties 4 feet apart each way. These are best for small gardens.

Place groups or hills of running-vine types 6 to 8 feet apart. If they can wander at will over noncultivated areas, try them. Otherwise, stick with the space-saver types.

Thin to 3 or 4 plants per hill or group for bush types, 2 or 3 for runaway varieties. For winter squash, use the same planting and thinning as for bush types.

For a copy of my new book, send name address and check or money order for $1.50 (plus 25 cents postage) to "Inflation Fighter's Victory Garden", c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Allow three weeks for delivery.

Squash contain lots of water, so give them lots to drink. Mulch well around the hills, use grass clippings, compost, peat moss, rotted manure mixed with old leaves. The better you mulch, the less water will be lost, and weeds won't sprout through to rob water and nutrients.

We leave some areas with a permanent mulch. Every week all our available mulch material is distributed evenly. Then each spring we simply use a hoe or four-tined rake to pull away the mulch and scratch open the soil, planting hills in the space cleared. This saves hours of work. Better yet, the mulch keeps adding valuable organic matter to the soil year after year.

Caution: squash tends to bear heavily. Only a few hills will feed you well. It is best to have two hills, each of several varieties. It varies your diet and saves space.

In neighborhoods or community gardens, share seeds around, or arrange to share harvest. That way you can have your squash and eat some of your neighbor's too.

Recommended: For summer squash, by all means try Early Golden Summer Crookneck. This curved-neck squash has meaty fruits, bright yellow skin, and delicious flavor. Pick when young and tender. True, you don't get as much poundage per fruit, but the taste is far superior, especially from young squash. It's less woody and has fewer seeds, too.

True Hubbard, a popular winter squash, serves many purposes. It can be used immediately, stored in cool basements, baked, boiled, and made into pies. It has dark bronze skin with deep orange-to-yellow flesh that is fine-grained, sweet, and dry. Fruits grow 12 inches long, weigh about 12 pounds each, and mature in 120 days. Warted skin is typical.

One of the most popular, most productive squash, Zucchini has many uses, from soups to salads to fried, baked, or steamed meal-perker-uppers. New varieties take little room, and they are so heavy bearing that only two hills will feed your entire family abundantly all season.

Recommended: Fordhook Zucchini, which matures in 57 days, is an All America winner. The best table size is 8 to 12 inches. Its flesh is creamy white and tender. The bushlike, vigorous plants save space.

Change made in classification program by Holstein Association

The type classification program operated by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada has been changed regarding those females imported into Canada from United States. The new policy, effective in September, 1975, dictates that all those females 5 years of age or less at time of their last American Classification must be reclassified by an officially appointed Canadian classifier. The Canadian classification will then become the official classification from that date forward.

The policy is consistent with the policy of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. A Holstein female classified by the American Association can be raised or lowered in classification score until she has been classified at the time of or after her fifth birthday. From that point forward, she can only be raised (or checked) in classification or "reclassified" Excellent thereby leading to the U.S.A. terms 2E, 3E, or 4E, with 4E being the maximum or highest achievement possible. Previous to the new policy change in Canada, an American classification would remain official despite the age of that animal when imported.

In discussing the new policy, Murray Hunt, Director of Extension, Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, stated that "those animals classified in U.S.A. over 5 years of age get the benefit of any doubt. An animal may well have deserved her classification in previous years but now, due to age and milk production, she may have lost some of her desirable type traits. We don't want to knock her down and we won't as long as she is classified on or after 5 years of age. An American animal could also be raised in classification in later years similar to a Canadian animal. At no time, however, is a Canadian classification lowered.

In conjunction with the type classification program, the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada has also made it official policy to quote the country of classification. For instance, if an animal is classified "Excellent" in Japan under the Japanese type classification scheme, the classification shall be quoted "Excellent-Japan".

Vegetable Growing Oriental-Style

The Oriental art of vegetable cookery is coming into its own with the American homemaker. As a result, Oriental vegetable gardens are flourishing—with unusual vegetables such as Chinese Cabbage, edible pea pods, white radish and bitter melon, among others. The new Ortho garden book WHEN THE GOOD COOK GARDENS gives solid information on how to select, grow and prepare Oriental vegetables.

As the delights of Oriental cuisine become increasingly popular with the American homemaker, the gentle art of vegetable cookery is coming into its own. As a result, unusual vegetable gardens are flourishing across the country.

Fresh, tender and flavorsome vegetables are at the heart of good vegetable cooking, Oriental-style. And what better assurance than to raise them in your own garden?

When you grow Oriental vegetables, you can have new, different and appetizing surprises for the family—in appetizers, salads, vegetable dishes, even as separate courses or in full meatless meals.

In contrast to the matter-of-fact approach to vegetable cooking taken by most Americans, the Chinese and Japanese have great regard for vegetables and have evolved ways of preparing them with appeal, care, and flair. The Oriental emphasis is to bring out the delicate flavor of each individual vegetable by Wok cooking in a little oil, by steaming, or by using just a little liquid.

From the new Ortho garden book When the Good Cook Gardens, comes solid information and advice on Oriental vegetables, how to select and grow them in your garden, and how to best prepare them in your kitchen.

There's a wide selection of Oriental vegetables you can grow, including mustard cabbage, soybean sprouts, Chinese Cabbage, edible pea pods, celery cabbage, water chestnuts, Chinese parsley, white radish and bitter melon—just to name a few.

Consider raising Chinese or celery cabbage and edible podded sugar peas—as two good examples.

Hybrid Chinese cabbage is considered an excellent choice for home gardeners, grown either as a spring or fall crop. It has a spicy flavor, and a short broad shape. In planting, tuck the seeds about one-half inch deep, about 8 to 16 seeds per foot. Leave 10 to 12 inches between the plants, and 18 to 24 inches between the rows.

As When the Good Cook Gardens points out: "Celery cabbage, tall or short, has a delicate tartness and celery crunch that is appealing in both Oriental and Occidental dishes. Include it in a sukiyaki platter or Chinese stir-fry mixtures. Or cut it in wedges or slices and steam it, then serve it buttered or topped with sour cream. Or shred it for a coleslaw salad."

Edible-podded sugar peas (a special treat flash fryed with sliced pork or beef) also can be planted either in spring or fall. There's a "Dwarf Gray Sugar" which can be grown without staking, while tall growers like "Mammoth Melting Sugar" and "Burpee Sweet Pod" require stakes. It's best to pick these peas when very young, just as the peas begin to form. Although you can eat the peas shelled at later stages, you won't be able to take advantage of the pods.

The young pea pods are delicious stir-fried in a Wok. You can use them in mixed vegetable dishes, in salads after they have cooled, or as garnishes from both meat and fish dishes.

In preparing Oriental vegetables, the Wok is a critical tool—and it's also fun and fast. Vegetables which are stir or flash fried in a Wok cook very quickly, with just a little oil in the lower portion of the Wok.

But the Wok also can be used for a variety of cooking purposes: for parboiling, simmering, braising, deep-fat frying, and steaming.

When you stir-fry vegetables, remember that cutting and assembling the vegetables in advance is important. Vegetables that are more thinly sliced or sliced on the diagonal will cook more quickly. And faster cooking vegetables, of course should go in last.

At 43, Leslie Caron plans a new and exciting career

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — There comes a time in everyone's life when he or she has to face the fact that he or she isn't young any more. It's a traumatic awakening — but it is even more so if you happen to be a beautiful movie star.

Leslie Caron once flitted across legitimate theater and movie sound stages like a spring raindrop. Her flitting days are over and, being a sensible woman, she realizes it.

"I doubt," she says, "that I will do much more in Hollywood as an actress."

But she is turning her eyes and her talent to other areas. Writing. Perhaps directing. And she is excited about entering a new phase in her career. Still, there is a residuum of bitterness toward Hollywood and this town's reverence for youth.

"I'm 43," she says, "and Hollywood is a town that only wants young women. Look at Bette Davis — if she wants to work now, she must carry a hatch."

(Presumably, she meant "hatchet." Her English is almost perfect but every once in a while she makes a small mistake.)

She says she is only offered mediocre parts these days. She did play a major role in the TV movie, "QB VII," but that, she says, was the exception.

Things are different in France, she says.

"In France, they let women my age have good parts. The biggest women in French films now are Jeanne Moreau, who is 45 or 46 or more, and Annie Girardot, who is about the same."

So she thinks she could work in France. But she is married to an American producer, Michael Laughlin, and most of his work is here, so she would prefer to work here, too.

Because of this situation, she has turned to writing. She has written a script, "Ritchie vs. Ritchie," which is a comedy about a Hollywood divorce and what it does to the couple's child. She says it is not in any sense autobiographical, "although I have certainly used a lot of people I know — and I only hope that they don't recognize themselves."

LESLIE CARON: "In France, they let women my age have good parts."

She'd like, next, to direct her own script. But she says she is getting a lot of resistance here in Hollywood from the moguls and the studios.

"There is no resistance from the actors," she says. "They want to do my script with me directing. Both Buck Henry and Cloris Leachman have read the script and would like to do the film with me."

What sort of resistance?

"Well," she says, "it is both because I am a woman and because I am untried."

She is, however, sticking to her guns. She feels that she should direct the piece because she knows exactly how she thinks it should be done. And, she says, she believes she would be a good director.

"After 25 years in front of the camera," she says, "I have seen so much and I have learned so much that I am sure I would be able to handle it."

She was already a major star in French ballet when Hollywood — particularly Gene Kelly — felt that her beauty and grace would be an asset to film. They were, of course, right and her career has been a notable one.

There have been some down moments, of course. The last time I had seen Leslie was on a Los Angeles-to-San Francisco train, where she was filming a movie her husband was producing. It was called "Chandler" and starred Warren Oates. I never saw it and asked her what happened to it.

"That was a terrible disappointment," she says. "Jim Aubrey, who was running MGM then, cut it to shreds. He ruined more films, that man.

"With us, he locked the editing room, fired our director and editor, cut it himself. The result was so bad it could not be shown at all."

Most of her films, however, were successes — "An American In Paris," "Lili," "Gigi," so many. And, always, she danced. But she dances no more.

"No, I am not dancing now," she says. "At my age, to get in shape hurts terribly. And I hate the epsom salts baths I must use on my legs when I dance."

It's easier to write than to dance, when you're 43. The biggest problem for Leslie Caron now is where to do that writing. The Laughlins have no permanent home.

"I'd like nothing more than to have a home," she says, "but I have none at the moment. Oh, there is an apartment here and a summer home on Sardinia but not what I'd call a real home. Michael works mostly here but my work takes me all over."

The apartment here represents a change in her life style. She says that, for the first time in her life, she has no servants. She comes from a wealthy family and, as a child, the lap of luxury was comfortable.

"There were eight servants in the chateau," she says. "I remember one was a Zouave, in the fancy uniform and red fez, and his only job was to make the coffee. And there was another one, a lady, whose only job was to make the petit point for the house. When she had finished that, and there was no more petit point needed, she was set to work making tasseled linings for the linen shelves."

That way of life is over, at least for most of us. It is for Leslie Caron, too, and she doesn't seem to regret the passing of the coffee Zouave and the petit point lady.

She's too busy now, looking ahead, to look back.

Culinary tips from Sister Berthe

Season the cavity of poultry generously, as part of this seasoning is lost during the cooking process.

To test for doneness, lift chicken gently with the tip of a fork, the juices should run colorless.

To enhance the flavor of poultry, tuck a few sprigs of thyme, taragon and rosemary inside the cavity. The flesh will acquire a delicate aroma.

Make your waffle batter light enough to pour it conveniently from a jar directly onto the hot waffle iron.

You may add leftover oatmeal to pancake or cookie batter or bread dough.

Use a good heavyweight skillet for making pancakes, it should be hot enough but without the fat smoking. Add a little fat to the batter and the pancakes won't stick.

Says Saskatchewan politics once exciting

REGINA (CP) — "Politics used to be exciting in Saskatchewan," Dave Steuart says in a regretful tone before reflecting on the last provincial legislature:

"You look at that last session. It was hard to get a good argument going."

If so, it wasn't for want of trying by the Liberal leader whose style is a mixture of old-fashioned tub-thumping oratory and the fast-paced humorous patter of a stand-up comedian.

As he thunders against the provincial New Democrats and exhorts Liberals in fiery language to get out and work in the current election campaign, he naturally slips into the language of a revival preacher, beginning sentences with phrases like "I'll tell you something friends. . . ."

He drives his points home with clear—if slightly simplified—illustrations asking his listeners to stand on the border and watch oil rigs leaving the province because of NDP policies or answering his own rhetorical question as to why the NDP want to extend government power:

"Why? Friends, they're socialists"

REMINDS CROWD

He appreciates the concrete details of politics, as when he reminds a crowd in Paynton of what the former Liberal government did for the area:

"Who built the only two bridges that have been built in this area in the last 40 years? We did—the Liberals."

His meetings are also made more lively with anecdotes and jokes that—unlike those of other political leaders—are mainly non-partisan and frequently poke fun at himself.

In an engagingly self-depreciatory manner he jokes about his short stature and razor-thin plurality in past elections.

He expresses concern that the NDP government might succeed in making politics "bland" through the techniques of compromise and non-committal statements and thus create apathy and defuse opposition.

His distaste for blandness, however, does not mean he wants a return to the political style of 25 years ago.

"The campaigns of the early '50s were very, very, bitter," he says recalling instances of fights being provoked at party meetings and tires being slashed on cars parked outside.

EYES TRENDS

While maintaining the Saskatchewan tradition of populist-style speeches, he has also been working diligently to support changing political trends.

One of his goals when he became Liberal leader in 1971, he says, was to open up the party, particularly for meaningful involvement by women and young people, to attract more members and to push party activists into the streets to talk to people.

In the past, he says, Liberals wasted hours in lengthy strategy meetings—"it used to be an insult to ask people to knock on doors."

All that has changed under Dave Steuart, however. The 59-year-old leader spends much of his time at community centres, shopping malls, mainstreeting and knocking on doors particularly in the Prince Albert-Duck Lake riding where he is running.

POLITICS CHANGE

He laughs as he contrasts that approach to the years when it seemed beneath the dignity of a party leader to meet voters directly.

"We never used to think of taking a leader out door-knocking ... he would sit in a hotel room and they would bring the party faithful in to see him."

He is the only Saskatchewan party leader making extensive use of aircraft in his campaign travels and the Liberals to date have had by far the most extensive broadcast and print advertising campaigns, but he tells Liberal candidates not to put their faith in such measures.

He recalls telling one candidate, who asked how to learn campaigning methods, "there ain't nothing to learn except go out and knock on doors and talk to people."

Any candidate who could spend five or 10 minutes talking to each voter in the constituency, he says, could dispense with all advertising and win handily.

Birthday Party

ROCK ISLAND — Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rollins of Fitch Bay were visiting at the home of their son and daughter-in-law Norman and Evelyn Rollins in Rock Island on Thursday afternoon, May 29, when Norman and Evelyn's daughter, Mrs. Jean Gaudreau of Stanstead walked in and all wished Evelyn a Happy Birthday.

As they sat chatting, there was a ring of the door bell and when Evelyn went to the door, there were nine neighbors from West Park to greet her with Happy Birthday wishes and laden with refreshments and gifts.

The afternoon was spent chatting.

Refreshments were served and the birthday cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Paul Derosher, was aglow with lighted candles and presented to Evelyn. As the Birthday song was sung, she blew out the candles and later cut and served the cake.

Evelyn thanked everyone for the wonderful surprise arranged by Mrs. Murton Smith and Mrs. Derosher, for the gifts and pleasant afternoon.

The many friends of Evelyn join to wish her many more of these happy occasions.

Ask Dick Kleiner

M*A*S*H'd

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Why did McLean Stevenson leave M*A*S*H and why didn't they just let him be discharged and go home and not have the plane crash and kill him? Did something really happen to him? — CAROL WEIMER, Canastota, N.Y.

As expected, the killing off of Col. Blake (Stevenson) brought on a flood of questions. Stevenson left to do other things — he'll have his own variety show on NBC next season. And the M*A*S*H producers felt they could make their anti-war point more strongly if he was killed. They didn't even tell the rest of the cast what they were going to do, incidentally, until just before the scene was shot — they wanted them to look totally shocked.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me why they took Apple's Way off TV and put on a terrible show like Cher? She was bad enough when she was on with her husband but now she is a mess. She and The Smothers Brothers have the worst shows on TV. — MRS. GEORGE ARNOLD, Deland, Fla.

One viewer's mess is another one's marvel. And, according to the ratings, very few people liked Apple's Way while millions more are watching Cher. The networks, profit-minded as they are, try to attract the most people.

DEAR DICK: Can you help me find what year the movie, "Shane," starring Alan Ladd, was filmed? — ELWOOD LEONHARDT, Providence, Utah.

That great western was released in 1953, so it was probably filmed in 1952.

DEAR DICK: What does the C.C. stand for on the fireplace on The Little House On the Prairie? — DIANA O'DANIELS, Mobile, Ala.

It's a very romantic touch — the initials stand for Charles and Caroline, otherwise Ma and Pa Ingalls, the parents of the Little House family.

DEAR DICK: My niece says that Jaye P. Morgan and Jane Fonda are one and the same. Will you please tell her that they are two different people? — MRS. W.C. MURPHY, Ponca City, Okla.

What a fanciful idea! No, Mrs. Murphy's niece, Jaye P. Morgan and Jane Fonda are two different ladies.

DEAR DICK: Please settle an argument. Are Don Knotts and Carol Burnett brother and sister? — ELSIE ANDERSON, The Dalles, Ore.

It's the week for fanciful ideas! Don and Carol are definitely unrelated.

DEAR DICK: I have noticed that The Mickey Mouse Club is back on TV again. How many Mousketeers were there? What were their full names? And what is each one doing today? — GARY S. FOSTER, Warrington, Pa.

There were 24 in the original platoon, with 12 on hand for each show. I don't have room to give you all the names but among the original group were Bobby Burgess, now with Lawrence Welk, Annette Funicello and Cheryl Holdridge, once married to the late Lance Reventlow.

DEAR DICK: In Star Trek, I have noticed that different people have different colored shirts. Does that have any special meaning? — JAMES D. HUGHEY, Olean, N.Y.

I'm told by an old Star Trekker that the colors denote the different duties — thus, command officers wore yellow, medical men blue, security guards red and so on.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me why they had to take Mary Matthews out of Another World? She was so wonderful. — A READER, Canon City, Colo.

They wrote the part of Mary Matthews out for, they tell me, "reasons of plot requirement." Her death was part of the drama. The actress who played the role, Virginia Dwyer, is still alive and well.

What people are saying...

Fred Harris

"... Let's cut out this $94 billion in subsidies that we give to Penn Central, Lockheed, the timber interests and the oil and gas people directly or indirectly. Let's abolish the ICC, which won't allow any competition in the transportation industry. These people say they believe in free enterprise — let's give them a very strong dose of it. Then, let's implement the work ethic in America, let's start taxing money earned from money heavier than money earned from work and let's assure that everybody willing and able to work has a job."

— Fred Harris, Democratic candidate for the presidential nomination and former senator from Oklahoma.

"In the long run, self-censorship leads to the undermining of self-respect and when a country begins to lose its self-respect, it runs the risk of undermining its right to exist."

— Finnish author Carl-Gustaf Lilius criticizing his nation's failure to withstand neighboring Russia's influence.

"I never gauge approval or acceptance by applause. A smile and folded arms are much more encouraging and welcome than claps and a stony expression. Faces, not hands, are what counts."

— Entertainer Carmen McRae

"Twenty-three per cent of school children are failing to graduate, and another large segment graduate as functional illiterates. If 23 per cent of anything else failed — 23 per cent of the automobiles did not run, 23 per cent of the buildings fell down, 23 per cent of stuffed ham spoiled — we'd look to the producer. The schools here are not blameless."

— James A. Harris, president of the National Education Assn.

"One thing that Israelis have determined is that there is no which-way that you can peacefully destroy us. It's not really a Masada complex. Basically it's an Auschwitz complex. There is no way in which we go on any trains any more anywhere."

— Israeli sociologist Yehuda Paz.

"In 1971, the year of the record harvests, the world produced enough grain to lay a highway all the way around the equator, 55 and one-half feet wide and 6 feet deep. Each year another 78 million people are born, and to feed them we have to grow enough grain to extend that highway 625 miles."

— Dr. Norman E. Borlaug, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1970 for his work in "The Green Revolution."

"Loneliness is the gray menace lurking at the bottom of the champagne glass of life ... It's a far cry from solitude."

— Divorcee Pat Loud on rebuilding her life after marriage dissolved.

"Let the cowards who are leaving with the Americans go, and let those who love South Vietnam stay and fight. Why run? To do what? To eat leftover American food? Even if the country falls to the Communists, at least they have yellow skins like ours."

— Former Vietnamese Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky five days before he fled by helicopter to the Philippines enroute to the United States.

What is Your Water I.Q.?

True or false? Which of the following notions about water are "old wives tales" — and which are true?

1. "We are running out of water." False, according to the Water Quality Association. We may be running out of water in a particular area, but this is due to a need for improved storage, processing and distribution facilities rather than to a lack of water itself. Water is one resource that we don't use up. We use it over and over again.

2. "Water from springs is beneficial to health." False. It's more likely to be detrimental. Springs have few of the safeguards of supervision and purification enjoyed by tap water. Even if a spring is protected from man-made pollution, nature may have polluted it with dangerous levels of nitrates, radioactivity, and other harmful ingredients.

3. "The water grandmother collected in a rainbarrel was better for washing hair." True. Rainwater is soft. Soap lathers best in soft or softened water. Soft or softened water and soap leave no dulling film on hair. Dermatologists all agree that soft or softened water is best for skin and hair care.

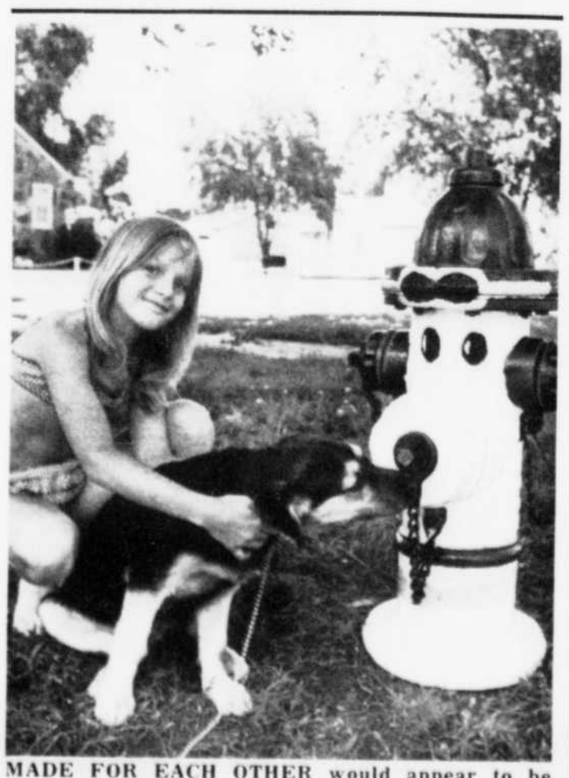
4. "Too frequent washing of the hair may cause hair loss." False. Regardless of how many times you wash your hair it will not cause you to lose your hair. Says noted dermatologist, Dr. Jay Barnett, "The slight increased number of scalp hairs that are usually seen during washing results from previously lost hairs that are entrapped in the hairs in the scalp already, or it's due to the hairs that are about to be lost in the next day or two from natural processes."

5. "More people die from auto accidents in areas with hard water than in areas with soft water." True. This silly correlation was found by the same doctor, Henry A. Schroeder of Dartmouth Medical School, who also believed there might be some connection between soft water and heart disease. Despite the persistence of the notion that hard water is better for the heart and arteries, scientists, after exhaustive research, have not been able to find proof for it.

6. "Because of pollution, people aren't living as long as they used to." False. People are living longer than ever. In the last decade, the lifespan increased from 69.7 to 70.9 years, and the number of persons over 65 increased by 20.6% and over 85 by 51.6%.

7. "The food we eat has far more effect on our health than the water we drink." True. Both as to beneficial ingredients as well as those that are harmful, according to figures reported by Dr. Conrad Straub of the University of Minnesota. Among beneficial ingredients is calcium, essential in nutrition. But typically we get only 45 milligrams of calcium per day from water and a whopping 800 milligrams of calcium per day from food. Of dangerous substances like cadmium, we get 4 micrograms per day from water and 25 from food. Of toxic lead, we get 7 micrograms from water and 300 micrograms from food.

Anyone getting more than three right is an expert — or a good guesser.



MADE FOR EACH OTHER would appear to be Sargent's sentiments as he checks out a specially decorated fire hydrant in Madison, Ill. Kathy Sue Mansfield takes the matter somewhat less seriously.

Film debut shows all Maria's charms

By Stephen Ford

CLIVE DAVIS: Preoccupied with the bottom line ...

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Admired for attributes beyond her voice, the ever sensuous Maria Muldaur is putting those talents up front with her appearance in a brief film promoting her current single, "I'm a Woman." It reportedly features her au naturel in a shower sequence and again in a swimming pool. The film is only available to international licensees of Warner Brothers.... You Shoulda Been There: Imagine Frank Zappa in a classic English tweed three-piece suit and pearl gray wig standing before London's High Court as barristers shoot questions at him. Pretty weird, huh? Well, it's all true. Mother Zappa is embroiled in a very complex case against the management of the Royal Albert Hall concerning a last minute cancellation clause which is expected to set a precedent in booking rock acts throughout Britain.

Ominous Title: Celebrating their signing with Capitol Records for a remarkable $5 million, Dr. Hook and his Medicine Show have announced the title of their forthcoming album, "Bankrupt".... David Sancious, pianist for Bruce Springsteen and very responsible for the clean, erudite sound Springsteen transmitted, has split to form his own group, "Tone".... Those of you who enjoy a dirty phone call now and then or are solid Lenny Bruce freaks, may want to jot down this number: (213) 849-1513. Dial that and hear "The" Dirtymouth offend you with excerpts from his posthumously released album "The Law, Language and Lenny Bruce."

Musician and producer Allen Toussaint, whose so noticeable contributions are heard on the upcoming Paul McCartney and Wings LP, was recently feted in his hometown of New Orleans where Mayor Moon Landrieu proclaimed a day in honor of Toussaint's recording accomplishments.

One of the few recording industry executives responsible for converting rock music from a common flower peddler into a "lady" is Clive Davis, former president of Columbia Records and now head of the Arista label. Davis recently finished a book on his experiences as major domo of Columbia from 1965 to 1973 titled "Inside the Record Business" (Morrow, $8.95). Many record industry types who've met Davis get the initial impression he is all business and no heart. Those spending more time with him find that such first impressions are not always wrong.

In a personal interview, Davis managed to parry nearly every sticky question put to him. Though his 300-page book dwells exclusively on his experiences at Columbia, the 43-year-old rock impresario grows demure when personally relating those vaunted years. The fact that he was fired from Columbia for allegedly cheating the company out of $93,000 in fraudulent expense account vouchers could have a lot to do with his reticence. Yet in his book, he squarely lays the blame on his assistant at Columbia, David Wyndshaw. And the courts have seen fit to release Davis of blame though Wyndshaw remains in hot water. But a close friend of Wyndshaw's, who remains as an upper echelon exec at Columbia, says the former assistant claims he never submitted any vouchers without Davis' approval.

In his book, Davis recounts how he signed such biggies as Bob Dylan, Simon & Garfunkle and Janis Joplin in between longer-than-necessary recapitulations of personal victories over business rivals and competitors. Aside from the titillating anecdotes about Columbia's breadwinners in their golden years at rock's Olympus, the most charitable description of the book is ho hum.

In due fairness, Davis did launch more than one noteworthy group and is to be lauded for his intelligent approach to the genre while his peers continued to treat rock as a vinyl wasteland. But his preoccupation with the bottom line and credits vs. debits is too often more apparent.

MANSONVILLE — On Fri. evening, May 30, the Baptist Ladies Aid met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winston White with a fair attendance.

The meeting was opened with the singing of a hymn, Sweet Hour of Prayer. Mrs. Harold Aiken took charge of devotions and also read from Acts 4:31-37 and "Seven Steps to Prayer."

Everyone joined in singing Take Time to be Holy which was followed by another reading Prayer Changes Things, and a quiz, Seven, Twelve or Forty.

Mrs. Aiken led the group in prayer followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Mrs. Wayne Bedard led the discussion of the business at hand and it was decided that she will shop for articles to fill 10 ditty bags and also material for a quilt.

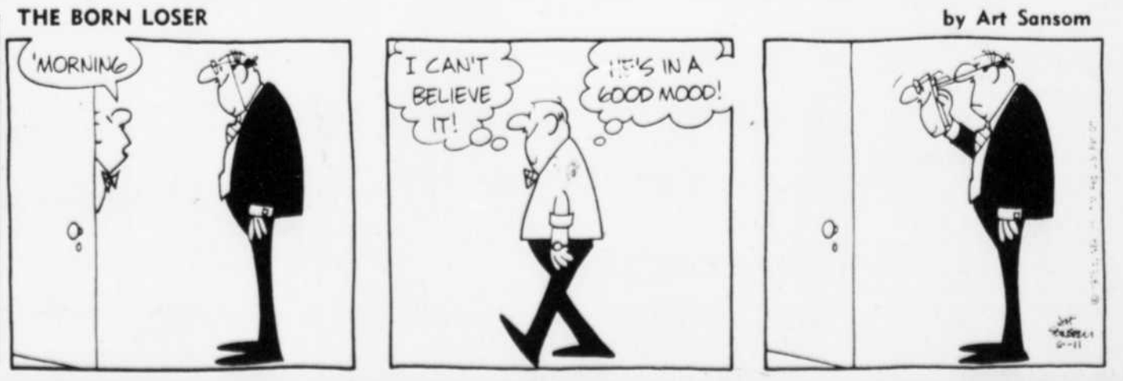
THE BORN LOSER — by Art Sansom



UCW meeting

BIRCHTON — The UCW, with the President, Mrs. Howard Picard in the chair, started with the repeating of the Purpose, in unison, after which Mrs. Murdo MacKinnon took as her theme of worship "Love is our Fellowmen", with Bible references to some of the Commandments, enlarging on the importance of love in the home circle, which then spreads to love of neighbor and to all mankind, that Christianity must have its roots in the home circle, circles then spread and spread, as circles from a penny dropped into a body of water, that life is easier and more rewarding to those who regard each morning as a gift from God.

Routine business was disposed of first, then correspondence of information on Festival Lennoxville; several letters of Thank You for sunshine acts and for help in the daffodil sales were reported.

It was brought to the gathering's attention that string for more bandages for lepers can be picked up from Mrs. Gilbert Nutbrown, a very worthwhile project.

Several anniversary spoons were sold, in charge of Mrs. Nick Turchyn, and she has more.

The Summer Event was discussed, and a motion passed that the group sponsor two to attend it in Ottawa on August 15, 16 and 17, hoping that two will take up this offer, "Dare to share."

Three hundred dollars was voted for the work of the stewards, and $50.00 to the Mentally Retarded in Sherbrooke.

A donation of cloth was gratefully received from Mrs. Alex Glen and given out to be made up for articles for the fall sale table.

Mrs. Audrey Waterman kindly offered to make the curtains for the hall, the old ones having disintegrated when washed during the cleaning.

The date of the Fall Tea and sale is to be October 25. It is hoped that this early notice will avoid duplicates in the area.

The President read a poem entitled Consideration fittingly carrying on the theme of devotions, Love of our fellowmen.

The Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting.

As more time was available, the President read a very interesting and oftimes humorous account of an almost month-long tour in India, by Mrs. Nutbrown's niece, Miss Susan Markham of Halifax, which included Christmas and New Year's in India. A copy of this travelogue would be a souvenir to have and to give to others, even for teachers of history, for added interest and information. It is hoped that appreciation will be extended to Susan.

Then Mrs. Gordon Simons, on arrival, was presented with a gay rattle to mark her as guest of honor at a shower of Tiny Tot articles.

In opening the pretty parcels she was assisted by her husband, after which the dainty articles were passed around the Ladies' Circle, and admired.

Mrs. Simons graciously thanked the donors, and commented on their appreciation of the "Love of one's fellowmen" shown them in the Eaton Valley Charge.

The hostesses, Mrs. Oscar Desruisseaux, at whose home the meeting was held, and Mrs. Albert Halsall, assisted by several other ladies, and Betty Jane Halsall of the Youth Group, served delicious refreshments.
