Device detonates two days before planned demonstration

Vacationing Canadian killed in explosion

BUENOS AIRES (CP-REUTER) — A vacationing Canadian airlines worker was killed and her optometrist husband injured Monday night when a terrorist bomb exploded on the 22nd floor of a luxury American-owned hotel 48 hours before planned demonstrations in support of former Argentine president Juan Peron.

Lois Crozier, 35, of West Vancouver, was killed when the blast shook the 24-storey Sheraton Hotel, starting a fire that affected the top four floors. She was employed in the ticket agency of the Vancouver branch of Pacific Western Airlines.

Her husband, Gerald, 35, was taken to hospital suffering from a fractured right hand and shock.

The bomb went off at 6:20 p.m. in room 2204, which had been rented by two men who gave addresses in Rosario and Mar del Plata.

A section of the corridor wall 20 feet square was pulverized and the blast ripped into room 2203 across the hall where Crozier and his wife were talking with an American woman who also was badly hurt.

Crozier was rescued first by firemen and was conscious as they took him to an ambulance. His badly burned wife was brought out minutes later and died in Fernandez Hospital.

Crozier was listed in critical condition.

Nearly a dozen of the 35 countries entered in a world amateur golf tournament had their four-man teams, captains and fans in the Sheraton, and leaders struggled through the crowded lobby to make sure their groups were all right.

CANADIANS NEAR

The Canadian team was on the 21st floor under the blast.

"I was talking on the telephone when there was this very loud noise," said Marion Mins of Toronto, the president of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Association.

"The building shook a little, and when we saw the men in the hallway with fire extinguishers we shouted, 'Gang, let's go!' and walked down the stairway. There was no panic."

Police demolition experts searched the building. More than an hour later guests were permitted to return to their rooms, and occupants of the blast-damaged 22nd floor were transferred to other rooms.

The blast followed a series of explosions in Argentine cities Sunday night, apparently set by Peronist supporters in commemoration of Peron's march toward the presidency 27 years ago.

Most of the other bombs had been placed in the homes of military officers in Buenos Aires, Santa Fe, Mar del Plata and Mendoza. A navy captain and a neighbor were injured in a Buenos Aires suburb blast, but the other explosions only caused property damage.

Demolition experts defused at least six other bombs.

The Croziers apparently left Vancouver Oct. 8 on a South American holiday with Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, their first stop.

Neighbors said Mrs. Crozier was believed to be originally from Calgary and her husband originally from Toronto.

A spokesman for Telam, the Argentine government news agency, said it received an anonymous telephone call moments before the hotel blast, announcing the explosion.

The bomb — five pounds of gelignite, the hotel manager said — exploded in a room on the 22nd floor and tore a jagged hole in the steel-and-concrete building completed less than two months ago at a cost of $26 million.

The hotel, owned by International Telephone and Telegraph Co., had 450 guests at the time of the explosion, including golfers of the world amateur team championships beginning this week, and delegates to the World Forestry Congress.

One other person, Patricia Trakas, a 30-year-old American, was severely injured.

Unofficial reports earlier said the explosion killed three persons, including a Dutch couple, and injured three, but this was not confirmed today.

The blast destroyed the room the bomb was placed in and those immediately above and below it. It hurled furniture aside, blasted out the windows of the top four floors sent masonry crashing, which severely damaged two cars and scattered personal effects into the gardens.

Two men had checked into the room where the blast occurred under the names of Argentine citizens Carlos Lugones and Leon Cardoso. Police sources speculated that the perpetrators of the attack may have registered under false names and left a suitcase containing the bomb in the room.

Unofficial reports said leaflets were found near the scene of the explosion saying it was detonated "in honor of the 17th of October."

Today is the 27th anniversary of the day in 1945 when thousands of workers thronged the square outside government house demanding — and getting — the release of Peron, then a colonel, from jail. Peron soon afterward was elected president and ruled Argentina with an iron fist until a military coup d'etat overthrew him in 1955. He is in exile in Spain.

Supporters of Peron, who still number millions, plan meetings and marches Wednesday, though police have banned outdoor meetings.

Peron is at present engaged in complicated negotiations with Argentina's military government concerning general elections planned for next March.

The armed forces seized power again in 1966. Since then, there have been three military presidencies.

The latest, Gen. Alejandro Lanusse, plans to return the country to civilian rule through the elections.

Peron says he is a candidate for president, but the government laid down rules including a provision that any candidate must reside in Argentina continuously between last Aug. 25 and the time of the polls. Peron fails to meet this requirement.

Regional meeting tomorrow

SHERBROOKE (WM) — The principal and director of student services of Richmond Regional High School will report on the school's educational programmes and extra curricular activities at a public meeting of the regional school board tomorrow, Wednesday, October 18, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the Richmond Regional High School auditorium.

The regular board meeting held after the school administration report, will include discussion of the powers and responsibilities of the executive committee, remuneration for commissioners, retroactive pay for teaching personnel who left the board's employ in 1971 and the appointment of a member of the board to the Council of Champlain Regional College.

Parents and other interested citizens are encouraged to attend and participate in the meeting.

which has proposed a plan for Newport Centre; Jacques Reed, assistant to Mr. Scott; Donald H. Donnelly, Vermont Republican Candidate for the Jay, North Troy, Troy and Westfield District; Wayne Briggs, one of Newport Centre's Selectman (aldermen); Stewart Hopps, President of H.D.G. Chemicals Inc. and inventor of Aquaid; and Lewis Leclerc, a member of the Newport Centre Taxpayers Association. The group visited several systems, including that of Omerville, where they were hosted by Omerville Mayor Rosario Raymond and two of his aldermen. (Photo: Catchpaugh)

Predicts decline in agriculture market

HALIFAX (CP) — A representative of the agricultural industry predicted Monday the decline of Atlantic producers' markets within the current decade unless some means of reducing the cost of freight rates is found.

In an address to a seminar at the annual meeting of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council, Keith Russell of Moncton, chairman of the planning and education commission of the Maritime Farmers Council, said the primary producer now is bearing the burden of shipping cost from two sides.

The primary producer paid the entire cost incurred by the supply sector and had passed back to him, in the form of lower prices for his product, that cost which the processing and marketing sector was unable to pass on to the consumer.

Increases in rail rates in the last three years had increased the burden and projected increases would render producers non-competitive with the passage of time.

The shipping costs for potato farmers were projected to be about $1.65 per hundredweight by 1980 and "if this is allowed to happen, Prince Edward Island domestic table potato markets will soon be confined to the Atlantic provinces," Mr. Russell said. New Brunswick producers would face the same fate.

Two transportation experts, who shared the seminar on transportation with Mr. Russell, suggested that regional control of transportation was something to be considered, though they differed in their approaches.

Dr. F. R. Wilson, professor of engineering at the University of New Brunswick, said it is most important that Ottawa recognize the need for regional control of transportation.

He recommended the establishment of a regional office of the federal transport department to handle the responsibility, which would include improved policies aimed not only at assisting the region but also at stimulating and encouraging greater efficiency and competitive ability.

Dr. Wilson said rail systems in the region were adequate to serve the shippers and suggested providing service where rail transport was superior and eliminating lines where cost recovery was not possible.

VIEW CHALLENGED

His contention about the adequacy of the rail system was challenged briefly by Mr. Russell, who noted that producers in the agriculture industry face many occasions when shipments are uncertain and when there are not enough cars, properly serviced, to carry out functions required of them.

Mr. Russell said refrigerator cars, essential to movers of agricultural produce, were being eliminated from outdated rolling stocks in the area and, as far as he could determine, were not being replaced.

R. H. Matheson of Montreal, an internationally recognized transportation consultant, agreed with Dr. Wilson's approach that there should be regional control of transportation.

However, Mr. Matheson suggested a study by the four Atlantic provinces into the feasibility and practicability of setting up their own transport departments.

He said there would need to be effective liaison with federal and private enterprise in planning, direction, research and development. The Atlantic provinces transportation commission would be the co-ordinating link.

Gerald Lawson, a lawyer for Irving Pulp and Paper Ltd., of Saint John, N.B., argued for a rail system dedicated to helping the region develop rather than devoted to the profit motive.

ESSENTIAL SERVICE

In Atlantic Canada, transportation is "an essential service, not an optional service, to the economic life of the region," Mr. Lawson said.

"Low-cost transportation is the one element that stands between us and prosperity," he said, and contended that current rail freight rates were prejudicial to the development of the four provinces.

Speakers at an afternoon seminar on development and a national industrial strategy stressed the absence of any real national industrial strategy.

Nine held for gas bomb possession

MONTREAL (CP) — Nine persons were arrested by police Monday for alleged possession of gasoline bombs during a protest march organized by the Milice de la Republique du Quebec.

About 75 persons, mostly teen-agers, participated in the march, which began in an east-end park and terminated at provincial police headquarters.

The march was organized to mark the second anniversary of the invocation of the War Measures Act and to coincide with the 29th birthday of Paul Rose, convicted slayer and kidnapper of Pierre Laporte, former Quebec labor minister.

The milice, or militia, has been described by Andre Maheu, its leader, as "something like a group of peasants organized to seize power from the present government."

Police said the nine arrests were the only incidents in the demonstration.

The War Measures Act, invoked in October, 1970, following the kidnapping of Mr. Laporte and James Cross, British trade commissioner in Montreal, gave police sweeping powers of arrest and seizure and suspended many traditional guarantees of civil liberty.

Pipeline said premature

Election statements continued to flow Monday from the Mackenzie Valley pipeline proposal as two cabinet ministers denied there is a firm decision to go ahead with the $5-billion project.

Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien said at an Arctic research seminar in Mont Gabriel, Que., that it was premature for New Democratic Leader David Lewis to claim the government is committed to construction of the pipeline.

Mr. Lewis said Sunday the government plans to go ahead with the project despite warnings that it could bankrupt the Canadian economy. He was referring to study papers prepared for the Mont Gabriel seminar which suggest the pipeline cost may be too much for the economy to bear.

In Ottawa, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald released a telegram to the Committee for an Independent Canada saying there is no commitment at this stage to the pipeline, proposed as a means of exploiting Arctic gas reserves.

But the telegram, sent last week, adds: "There seems little doubt that a pipeline will at some time be constructed in view of the indications of a successful exploration program in the region of the Mackenzie delta."

SHOULD STOP

Mr. Lewis said the pipeline plan should be suspended until there is enough Canadian money to complete it. Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said in Chicoutimi, Que., that Canadian equity control should be the aim of the government pipeline proposal.

And he added that there should be guarantees of environmental protection before actual construction gets under way.

The Conservative leader's campaign was relatively quiet Monday but today he is to appear in Chicoutimi with his Quebec campaign leader Claude Wagner.

The Conservative premier of Ontario, William Davis, said in Bowmanville, Ont., that his participation in the campaign is neither unusual nor an indication of his desire to enter federal politics. He was responding to an earlier suggestion by Prime Minister Trudeau that there is some sort of Stanfield-Davis deal.

Mr. Lewis appeared excited that former Liberal cabinet minister Eric Kierans will vote NDP Oct. 30, and told a cheering Ottawa audience that the party has a realistic chance of forming the official Opposition in Parliament.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Kierans released a letter to the prime minister in which he said he would support the New Democrat candidate in Mr. Trudeau's own riding of Montreal-Mount Royal. The former communications minister resigned from the Trudeau cabinet last year in protest of government economic policy.

In his letter, Mr. Kierans told the prime minister:

"If I were to vote for you it would mean that I accept and approve courses of action which I firmly believe will worsen our present problems."

He said the Conservatives were not a satisfactory alternative because they agree with Liberal economic approaches.

Mr. Lewis said Mr. Kierans is only one of thousands of people disenchanted with the Trudeau government.

Escaped man back

COWANSVILLE — Quebec Police Force officers arrested Rino Clourde, 20, approximately 25 minutes after he escaped from the medium security penitentiary in Cowansville, Sunday night. Clourde, who is serving 15 years for armed robbery with violence, surrendered without struggle. One of the arresting officers stated that Clourde was attempting to hitch-hike towards Montreal on Highway 40. The escaped convict revealed to police that his ultimate destination was Mexico. A police spokesman said that Clourde appeared to be under the influence of drugs.

Steinbergs denies charges

MONTREAL (CP) — Sam Steinberg, chairman of the food chain Steinberg's Ltd., said Monday NDP Leader David Lewis's remarks about the company are "wholly irresponsible and unfounded."

Mr. Lewis said in Timmins, Ont., during the weekend that a tough competition act is needed to police activities of large food corporations and control rising food prices.

Mr. Steinberg said in a statement that Mr. Lewis "is obviously an antagonist of those who believe in efficient administration of business."

"Mr. Lewis speaks of a profit increase of 47.8 per cent but neglects to mention that this profit was realized on sales which had increased by 63.7 per cent," Mr. Steinberg said.

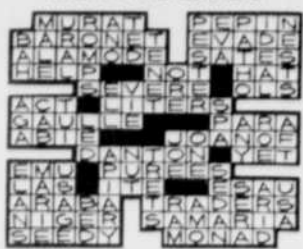

"For Mr. Lewis's information, our net profit from all retailing and processing during the years 1968 through 1972 has not exceeded 1.3 cents per dollar of sales. The percentage markup on food sold in our stores was reduced by more than 15 per cent during those years."

Birthday celebrated

ROCK ISLAND — The sixth birthday of Miss Linda Thayer, Rock Island, was celebrated with a party on Tuesday afternoon, October 6.

The guests were Bonnie and Lisa Davis, Cindy and Cathy Dustin, Peggy Alger, and Linda's sisters, Betty and Janice. Later, Donna Whitehouse and Claire Alger joined the group.

It being a beautiful autumn day the young people played games on the spacious lawn. Linda's mother and grandmother, Mrs. Arnold Thayer and Mrs. Ethel Whiteman served a supper at the dining table which was most attractive with the traditional hats, candy filled baskets, balloons, and in the center the birthday cake. This was made and decorated by Mrs. Horace Doyon in the design of a yellow and black skidoo encircled with Happy Birthday, Linda, on the seat and with six candles around the "snow base".

The cake was much admired by the young people and several neighbours who dropped in. It was cut and served by Mrs. Thayer.

Linda received several lovely gifts and good wishes making it a day she will long remember as a highlight of her first year in school.

Birthday Tribute to marvellous mother

Dear Ann Landers: This person I am writing about will never receive any citations or awards. No one will give her a testimonial dinner. She'll never get her picture in the paper, even when she dies, because she's not important or famous. But she is truly one of the greatest human beings who ever lived. October 17 is her birthday and I would like to "immortalize" her in a special way. She reads your column every day.

This woman lost her parents when she was very young. She was raised by relatives who worked her like a slave. She had learned to cook for dozens of boarders by the time she was 16. She married at 20 and reared 15 children. They had no store-bought luxuries, but tons of home-made bread and fresh vegetables from her own garden.

This woman had a marvelous sense of humor. She knew how to administer discipline and give people faith in themselves because she had faith in herself.

She knew how to live with small-pox, whooping cough, measles, T.B., broken bones, cancer, heart failure and alcoholism. She survived miscarriages, business failures and had three sons in the war in Vietnam.

She is not a nervous wreck, has never taken a sleeping pill or tranquilizer in her life and refuses to spend five minutes feeling sorry for herself. In case you haven't guessed it already, this woman is my mother — and she is my candidate for The Mother Of Any Year. — Proud of Her.

Dear Mother: Happy Birthday to you, dear. Your cup runneth over.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a 20-year-old daughter who is in college. The other day, out of a clear sky, she said, "I want to tell you something so you won't be surprised when it happens. I am not going to live very long." Then she pointed to the lifeline on the palm of her hand and said, "There it is — plain as can be.

My lifeline is crossed by another line about one fourth the way across the palm, which means a very short life."

I tried to persuade her that palm reading is bunk, that there is no significance to it whatever, but she is unconvinced. Can you give me some facts that will ease my mind? If YOU said it, she might believe it. Please, Ann. — Mother in Distress

Dear Mother: Everybody knows somebody who went to a fortune teller, a tea leaf reader, a palmist, a crystal gazer or an astrologist, and was told something that came true. It was a combination of guesswork, coincidence, happenstance, exaggeration, imagination, adding facts, deleting facts — and it is without validity.

There is no scientific basis for palm reading or kindred fields that predict the future. Tell your daughter to use her head. If those Gypsy fortune tellers could predict the future they'd be out at a racetrack or the Las Vegas gaming tables instead of sitting in those hot tents reading palms for a dollar a pop. Many an octogenarian has been buried with a short lifeline, according to a relative of mine who is a funeral director.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 16 and the original girl who can't say "no." They call me "Rosie Roundheels" and make a joke of it, but it's not funny. My reputation is bad and I'm scared to death my folks will get wind of it. Everytime I go out with a different guy I say to myself, "This time I'm going to be a lady." But one kiss and I'm a goner. Don't tell me to get professional help. Give me some practical advice. — Want To Be Good

Dear Want To: I know of no shortcuts or easy solutions to a problem that goes back 16 years. It will take a lot of hard work to get rid of this kink in your thinker but unless you do your life could be a mess. Start talking with your school counselor and good luck.

ACW meets in Community Hall

NORTH HATLEY — The first meeting of the North Hatley Anglican Church Women, after the summer recess, was held in the Community Hall on Wed. Sept. 20. Mrs. C. Coleman, the president, presided. Seventeen members were present.

Miss M. Riley was in charge of devotions. Next meeting's roll call will be the name of a parable.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

Several thank you notes were read.

Mrs. G. LeBaron gave the treasurer's report. The proceeds from the summer bazaar were most gratifying.

It was moved by Mrs. E. Ditchburn, seconded by Miss M. Riley, carried, that the usual sum of money be given to the wardens of the church.

Mrs. C. Cote moved, Mrs. V. Wilson seconded, carried, that Mrs. Dutton's name be inscribed in the Memorial Book.

Mrs. A. Eke suggested a letter be written to Mr. Charles Coleman thanking him for his time and energy spent on the Memorial Book and also his professional advice regarding the reparation of the church window.

Suggestions were made for Mrs. J.H. Whelton to take to next meeting held to discuss the Antique Show.

Several ladies offered to decorate the church for Harvest Festival.

Mrs. F. Auger and Mrs. R. Springs reported a busy summer — many calls were made, many cards and flowers were sent to the shut-ins.

Mrs. Eke gave a short report for the Altar Guild.

The meeting was adjourned by Mrs. Whelton, and delicious refreshments served by Mrs. A. Styan and Mrs. Wilson.

one up. There is East with one jack finding a chance to collect two tricks against three no-trump, but using his deuce of hearts to refuse both of them.

We hold no brief for West's diamond opening except to point out that if he leads his jack of clubs South will romp home with his contract.

Anyway, West does lead the deuce of diamonds. Dummy wins. The ace of spades is cashed and a club to South's queen loses to West's ace. A second diamond is led. The king of clubs is cashed and South has to abandon that suit.

He plays out his ace-king-queen and three of hearts.

If East wins that heart trick he can cash two heart tricks, but must give South the rest of the tricks in spades.

An even closer race in Compton this time

Guest speaker announced

SHERBROOKE — Su-ti Tan, principal of Tam Kang High School, in Tamsui, Taiwan, will be the featured speaker at a joint meeting of the Presbyterian Church in Canada and a trans-denominational church renewal service to be held at St. Andrew's Church, Frontenac street, in Sherbrooke, on Wednesday, October 18, at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Tan, an accomplished musician, has been principal of the Tam Kang School since 1956. He is on a tour of churches in the Presbyterian fellowship in Canada, conducting evangelistic and youth meetings.

The series of church renewal meetings is sponsored by Christians of several denominations in the Townships and has been held in a different church each Wednesday night for the past four weeks. Succeeding meetings will be held in St. George's Anglican Church in Lennoxville, and Bulwer United Church.

All persons interested in spiritual renewal of the church in the area are invited to attend all of these meetings. A fellowship hour is held after each meeting.

Five candidates are vying for the Compton county seat in the upcoming federal election. The Record today begins a series of articles examining the candidates in the eight Eastern Townships ridings. Tomorrow, The Record looks at Drummond county.

"The economic system under which we live is nothing but quiet extortion — taxes and duties, taxes and duties — with minimum revenue and guaranteed poverty for the great majority," according to Henry Latulippe, Social Credit candidate and MP for Compton.

"I have had enough of the type of government which goes from crisis to crisis, which keeps the population in its economic mediocrity by its economic system and maintains and increases unemployment while giving grants for the modernization of industry," Mr. Latulippe continued.

"I have had enough of the endless bureaucratic power of the state which now restrains individual liberty at all levels and of the incapacity of both our present and past governments faced with the problems of automation and the right to work."

Mr. Latulippe declared that reform of the economic system is needed and cited the fact that debts and deficits of the government are growing and taxes have tripled.

The Social Credit Party proposes a completely new economic system which would include subsidizing consumers rather than industry and would give interest-free loans from the Bank of Canada to provinces.

"I am convinced that Social Credit offers valid alternatives to the great problems an evolving society faces which is why I am again offering my services as Social Credit candidate for Compton," he said.

Speaking of his achievements during his term as MP for Compton, Latulippe said he had always tried to obtain the most possible for the area. He claimed that his efforts had been responsible for obtaining 40 new post offices for the area and more than $940,000 in local initiative work programs.

"I would not hesitate to say

"People who vote Social Credit don't stop to think that it is impossible for that party to take the power. They have only 103 candidates in Canada and they are going to lose seats this election," he predicted.

"Also the Liberal government's aid from Mr. Marchand's regional expansion program in Megantic will take away a lot of votes from Latulippe," Mr. Rene added.

"Twelve or 15 companies have been authorized by Marchand to expand and all the industry in Megantic now is working to its full capacity."

He said that there are not yet specific figures available on the amounts that have been given to these industries for expansion.

"The southern part of Compton region is also going to benefit from Liberal programs," Mr. Rene said.

"The federal government has studied the possibilities of developing tourism in the Stanstead County area and plans are being made to expand the tourist industry."

Mr. Rene also pointed toward the federal aid given to farmers in the Compton region during the last four years.

"The Liberal government has helped the farmers by establishing and subsidizing milk quotas," he said. "The government also provided aid after the recent storms which ruined crops this summer," he added.

"The promises of Stanfield and the conservatives to cure economic ills and unemployment are not worth while," Claude Tessier's campaign manager said. "The Liberal government does not make empty promises but will continue to run its program of support for both agriculture and industry to the best of its ability."

Mr. Rene thinks Mr. Tessier will appeal to the young persons voting for the first time this election. He is director of the Lake Megantic regional school commission and is well supported by youth, Mr. Rene said. As well, he is only 29 and understands and is responsive to many of the concerns of youth, his manager said.

Claude Tessier is married and has one child. He has lived in Megantic for seven years.

claimed that funds provided under the agricultural and rural development act were diverted by the provincial government for road building and that very little in Quebec and nothing in Compton County had been achieved with this program.

He cited the Panier Ceramic company in Magog which made pottery. One year after being given a large grant by the government, he said, it closed down operations. He also claimed that a company on the limits of Compton County, which he would not name, received $200,000 under the regional economic expansion program to provide 35 new jobs.

"The company shortly after installed new automatic machinery and fired 70 workers," Mr. Gauvin claimed.

"To make such a program of aid work," he said, "grants should be given to those with knowledge of how to stay in business or applied to new fields such as plastics or electronics equipment. It only does harm to try to keep open plants which are outdated."

One of the answers to industrial and rural problems in the Eastern Townships could be cooperative enterprise, Mr. Gauvin suggested. He theorized that the answer to extremely poor farming regions such as the Lake Megantic area is to form committees or cooperatives of farmers to pool land and redirect the resources of the land.

He said that several years ago the Eastern Townships Rehabilitation Council, of which he is founder and president, recommended that certain extremely unproductive areas be redeveloped into forestry or tourism areas.

"The farmers would still own the land," Mr. Gauvin said, "but in a cooperative or committee arrangement. With 10,000-acre lots they could afford to hire accountants and obtain modern equipment. It would be possible for the government to give aid or loan machinery under such a system," he added.

"Five years ago," he continued, "farmers would have objected to such an arrangement but in certain regions they are so poor now that they would earn a much better wage under a cooperative arrangement."

The oldest, Francois, is president of Action Jeunesse, the youth action group supporting the Progressive Conservatives. He is, at present, studying law at Bishop's University.

NDP
The New Democratic Party is the only real choice for voters who want to see change," Duncan Graham, NDP candidate for Compton said yesterday in an interview.

"All the other parties have established structures which are not susceptible to change," he continued. "Even with a dynamic leader they are still basically committed to establishment systems and therefore they are unable to bring about the basic changes that our country needs."

"The New Democratic Party, because it is a new party and, unlike the others, not committed to maintaining the status quo, would be able to act in changing the basic injustices in our society," he continued.

"For example, in the area of equality for women, the NDP will enact policies which will enable women to participate fully in society as equals. Canada has been slower than most other modern countries in legislating measures for women's equality. Although governments have paid lip service to recommendations for change, very little has been done. The NDP are committed to actually effecting new laws," he said.

Regarding unemployment, Mr. Graham claimed, "It is criminal negligence that with sophisticated planning techniques, unemployment figures have risen still further. The cost to the community in unemployment benefits as well as the effects on the unemployed are incalculable," he said.

"The attempts of the government to relieve unemployment by giving aid to industry are for the most part showing hardly any benefits to the community," he said. "The government is giving out money without seeing it handled properly or getting appropriate results."

Mr. Graham holds firmly to the belief in the federalist principle and believes it would be a mistake for Quebec to separate but added:

"We must listen with respect to the views of those who argue for Quebec sovereignty. I would not dismiss separatists as anarchists or local aberrations."

"This feeling of one part wanting to break off from the whole is a world wide phenomena. It is happening with the Scottish nationalists, the Welsh nationalists and Biafra to name just a few."

Duncan Graham is a specialist in world affairs and was national vice-president of the World Federalist organization and recently named consultant to the world law fund. He said he would like to see Canada take a more active part in world peace and peace-keeping operations.

"Canada must make a much greater effort to participate in building a world community more responsive to the rule of law," he said. "We must start to take the initiative and not wait for other countries."

He added that it was a pity Canada took such a long time to recognize China, waiting until the United States was prepared to open up relations. Duncan Graham's campaign strategy is mainly to meet as many people as possible and introduce the NDP's ideas. He is scheduled to take part in a hot-line show on CKTS in the near future.

Mr. Graham, a teacher at Stanstead College, is married and has four children. He was born in Scotland and emigrated to Canada 15 years ago.

The other candidate of the five for the Compton riding, Mr. Conrad Descoteaux, was unavailable for an interview.

Mr. Descoteaux, who was defeated by Mr. Latulippe at a recent Social Credit nominating convention, is running as an independent candidate.

No firm leads, hunt continues

COATCOOK (AR) — Police are continuing their investigation today into the armed robbery which netted three masked assailants over $1000 Sunday night.

No arrests have been made.

The three men, armed with rifles and disguised with nylon stockings covering their faces forced their way into the home of Bissonnette and Rose-Aimee Bissonnette of 115 Union street, Coatcook.

They induced the women to reveal where the money was hidden by beating them about the face. When the information was divulged the hoodlums forced the sisters into the basement and tied them up.

Salomee Bissonnette, 77, managed to free herself from her bonds shortly after the bandits had left and alerted a neighbor who called Coatcook police. Her sister Rose-Aimee, 81, remained in the basement suffering from a broken leg inflicted by the thugs.

A spokesman for the Quebec Police Force told the Record last night police were checking several leads but that no positive identification of any of the assailants has been made.

It was rumored yesterday that one of the trio had been seen in the area posing as an antique buyer but police denied this was the case.

"There are many rumors circulating but there is no truth to them," a QPF constable told The Record. All roads out of the area were sealed by QPF roadblocks about one half hour after the crime was reported.

The QPF spokesman said police abandoned their posts early yesterday morning.

The investigation is under the joint leadership of Corporal Guy Bouchard, Sherbrooke QPF, and constable Marcoux of the Coatcook municipal police force.

Council sees hard slogging

By ALEX RADMANOVICH
Record Reporter

SHERBROOKE — Sherbrooke City Council met last night for the third time this month to clear the agenda in preparation for the stormy and difficult months ahead.

A quiet air of confidence was in evidence as council efficiently and systematically disposed of the items slated for approval. The Mayor and the councillors visibly enjoyed the respite in prelude to budget confrontations which are soon to follow.

Following acceptance of the minutes from the last meeting, the clerk read a pleasant resolution from Communication Services Co. on the subject of the annexation of parts of Ascot Township.

The company, one of five interested parties according to provincial law, approved the annexation of its territory to the city of Sherbrooke strengthening the position of the city in this vital matter. It now seems certain Sherbrooke will assume fiscal control of the land containing the University of Sherbrooke, despite protests from the municipality of the Township of Ascot.

Only one major issue was on the agenda, a request from Mr. M. Martineau to erect a cardboard recycling plant on land adjoining St. Michel's cemetery. The city accepted a proposal to rent 4,000 square feet of land provided the operation conforms to existing regulations.

For several months the request circulated within the city administration while extensive study was made to determine the effects of such an operation. Council finally gave approval on condition the builder encloses the terrain with a fence.

Martineau must also build according to city zoning regulation and ensure that the operation will neither attract rats nor become an eyesore.

In return the city will receive approximately $600 in annual rent and taxes plus $6000 annually for use of the city scale.

A letter from the Ministry of the Environment was received by the city supporting the establishment of all enterprises involved in the recycling of paper.

Council approved a $1500 contract for demolition services at Lyon Farm and sent another bid back for study. One of the bidders submitted a certified cheque too late and the next lowest bid would have cost the city $2355 more.

In view of the fact that the demolition on Grand Fourches street north had not been approved by the provincial government, council found it expedient not to approve the higher bid.

Councillor Antonio Pinard spoke on behalf of concerned parents living on Bonin street deploring the lack of safety for children in the area. Pinard echoed the desire of the residents of the street to have the city enforce speed limits and erect a sidewalk.

The complaint was submitted for further study.

Towards the end of the meeting Councillor Camirand asked that the city conduct an investigation into the danger to pedestrians crossing King street near Camirand street. He pointed to the large number of accidents involving pedestrians and motor vehicles.

Several council members also pointed out that numerous lots and ugly walls do not conform to city regulations. They suggested that these eyesores do nothing for the city's image.

The meeting ended on a light note when Councillor Roger Giguere drew the attention of the media to an error committed by Bell Telephone in listing him in the new directory under Gingsar. He wished that all residents of his ward be informed that his telephone number is on page 63 of the directory in the second column from the left, fourth number.

Conservationist addresses Galt

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — David Hancock, a wildlife conservationist, spoke to 500 biology students at Alexander Galt Regional High School yesterday. The naturalist, from Sanction, B.C., spoke on the almost extinct bald eagle which has taken sanctuary along the favorable British Columbia and Alaska coastlines.

He complemented his talk with many interesting color slides of his trips into the northern B.C. wilderness.

Mr. Hancock and his wife, Lyn, are on a national tour to promote Mr. Hancock's new book, There's A Seal In My Sleeping Bag. The couple have also co-authored another book, Wild Islands.

The Hancock's itinerary in the Eastern Townships includes two lectures, one which was held last night at the Bishop's University Centennial Theatre. The feature length color documentary film, "Coast Safari" was shown with the lecture.

AGRS is the site of the second talk on Saturday Oct. 21.

Struthers talks tonight

LENNOXVILLE — Stanstead's Mayor Struthers, an expert on local history, will speak at Bishop's University tonight on early settlements in the Eastern Townships.

Mayor Struthers' lecture will cover the first surveys of the region in 1793 and the development of the Township's until the American Civil War in 1861. He intends to explain why the Townships were not surveyed or settled earlier and the eventual founding of the communities.

Price controls?

The immediate and automatic reaction of many Canadians on reading the latest consumer price index figures, released on Wednesday, was "Why don't they put on price control?" This fall, instead of dropping, the index rose — from 141.3 in August to 141.8 in September. Last year the comparable figure was 134.7. Which means that in the past 12 months the cost of living has gone up by 5.3 per cent. This is a dismal performance; and it is not made more palatable in the eyes of Canadians by the knowledge that the price of food — for which a substantial part of every family budget must go — has increased by ten per cent in the past year.

The only "they" who can impose price and wage controls is, of course, the federal government. In recent months government spokesmen, from the prime minister down, have said that a rise in living costs of four to 4.5 per cent each year is quite acceptable; and there would be no chance of controls unless a crisis arose. The increase in the cost of living has now gone well past the acceptable figure; and it has done so long before the end of the year when it was anticipated that the five per cent figure might be reached.

It will be instructive to see if the latest cost of living figures have any marked effect on the announced policies of the parties now campaigning across the country. For if the government has shown a reluctance to grasp the nettle, the same criticism can be applied, in greater or lesser degree — but not much — to the other parties. Real Caouette, speaking for Social Credit, is flatly opposed to price and wage controls. David Lewis of the NDP would solve matters by an eight per cent cut in taxes — a solution that would have the effect of a can of gasoline dumped on the fire. The Conservatives have made lukewarm and half-hearted overtures toward the idea of controls, but only "if they should be necessary." If Canada's politicians do not feel that they are necessary now, then they are sadly out of touch with most Canadian wage earners.

It would take courage, even after the latest figures, for a political leader to come out flatly and say that in light of the worsening situation his party would, if elected, impose mandatory price and income controls. A party which did so would run the risk of alienating some segment of organized labor, which does not want to see any curb on its wage demands. On the other hand, such a promise would undoubtedly get the whole-hearted support of a great many Canadians — including many in organized labor — who realize that the present trend cannot continue indefinitely.

Interesting idea

Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford has raised an interesting question by pledging this week to devise a national system of new-home warranties.

It is not an issue that has any particular urgency in the Calgary area, because for the most part the Calgary house buyer has been well served by the construction industry here.

But still, there is always a risk that, as Mr. Basford put it, "the contractor or sub-contractor may go out of business, or is one of the few fringe operators whose standards are below those of the industry."

There is also an element of incongruity, as the minister said, in the fact that warranties are readily available for steam irons or cars, but similar guarantees are not always available to purchasers of houses.

But no one should minimize the difficulties which lie ahead for Mr. Basford in achieving the task he has set himself.

The problems of ensuring quality standards in a product as complex as a house are great, particularly when responsibility for the end product, unlike a steam iron, is shared by several crafts and trades.

McGovern no match for Hubert

HAMTRAMCK, Mich. — It was a holiday afternoon, and the Detroit Tigers were playing a crucial game. So it may have been understandable that the costly, glossy Republican storefront on Hamtramck's main drag was closed and dark. All the same, the McGovernites' sordid walk-up was open for business with a fair number of young people hard at work.

In the midst of this small junior beehive of amateur politicians was Dennis Neuner. Dennis is the 25-year-old son of a Detroit seafood merchant, pleasant looking, blond haired and seeming younger than his years. But he is already something of a veteran of the political wars.

He "got into this last December" — "this" meaning the McGovern movement — and before that, in 1970, he worked for Sen. Philip Hart. Between whiles, he goes to graduate school.

For the present, however, Dennis' main concern is Michigan's eastern Wayne County, comprising 600,000 people in all. He now commands seven full-time, paid staff officers and 1,400 McGovern volunteers of varying degrees of industriousness.

Hamtramck, where he has his headquarters, also sums up Dennis Neuner's problems. This overwhelmingly Polish enclave in Detroit went 4-to-1 for Gov. George Wallace against Sen. Philip Hart. Between whiles, he goes to graduate school. Hamtramck gave approximately eight votes to Sen. Hubert Humphrey for each one-and-a-half votes for Wallace and one vote for President Nixon.

Deeply troubled but formerly rock-solid Democratic is the right way to describe Hamtramck, in fact. There is another clue to it, too. Once you leave the main streets, you find block after block of neatly kept one- and two-family houses, with yards full of flowers and tidy paint jobs. But the houses were all built in the 1920s.

"That's an advantage for us here," said Dennis. "Most of these people are older. They remember the depression. They can hardly imagine voting anything but Democratic. But their sons and daughters all live further out, in St. Clair Shores and Warren, for instance. That's where the busing issue is so hot the antibusing people are organized, not just by precincts but by blocks. It's a lot rougher out there."

with Joseph Alsop

Dennis and his youth corps have just started telephone canvassing after finishing a reasonably successful drive for voter registration. Given Hamtramck's 1968 vote, their first returns have been ominous.

The admitted Nixon vote is generally very low. But the McGovern vote is way, way below what Hubert Humphrey got four years ago. And the allegedly undecided vote — meaning mainly lifelong Democrats who cannot stand Sen. McGovern — is really enormous. At a guess, Hamtramck should go Democratic by about 3 to 2, instead of 8 or 9 to 1 as in the past.

"I've already found out national elections are nothing like primaries or senatorial elections," Dennis said ruefully. "I've learned a lot of other things, too. But I guess every little bit you learn comes in useful someday."

The truth is that Hamtramck is mainly worth a report, not because of the possibility of a fairly horrendous drop in the customary Democratic majority but mainly because of Dennis Neuner. These McGovern people you meet out in the states and districts, to begin with, seem to differ as much as cheese from chalk from the squabbling prima donnas in the McGovern national headquarters.

Neuner and the Detroit co-ordinator, Carl Wagner, shrewd Vick French in Pennsylvania, Richard Sklar and pretty Judy Scheerer in Ohio, twenty-four-year-old Donald Tucker acting as McGovern co-ordinator for all of Connecticut — all of these and others one could mention have a lot of things in common. They are pleasant and intelligent. They are idealistic but not

"Now what — we can't afford the cost of THAT either . . ."

Want more blacks in congress

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — With Negro support for Senator George McGovern almost a foregone conclusion, black political leaders are concentrating much of their election-year effort on greater Negro representation in Congress.

The 13 incumbent black representatives—all Democrats—are expected to be re-elected and four new such candidates are given a good chance for seats in the 435-seat House of Representatives.

A fifth Democrat and four black Republican candidates are given little or no chance.

In all there are 23 Negro contenders in 12 states, including Massachusetts where Senator Edward W. Brooke—the only black Republican in Congress—is seen as a certain winner.

Since the presidency of Franklin D. Roosevelt the Democratic party has received an estimated 70 per cent of the Negro vote. Republican President Richard Nixon got only a virtual handful of black votes in 1968 and nothing he has done in his four years in the White House is likely to improve his standing much with Negroes.

Indeed, his stand on school busing, opposition to "work quotas" to ensure proportional Negro employment in government and on government work contracts and other controversial issues has tended to alienate them even more from the Republican party. In his enthusiasm for a broad mandate from many segments of American society, Nixon has openly courted the Jewish, Mexican-American and trades union vote, sometimes taking a stance that put him in opposition to Negro interests.

COUNTS ON NEGROES

On the other hand, McGovern has not been making a big, obvious play for Negro support, apparently confident that he can take it largely for granted on the basis of his life-long liberal stance on social issues generally. And, of course, civil liberties are not the campaign issue they were in presidential elections of the recent past, when school integration and big-city race riots inflamed the atmosphere.

The Democrats tend to look on school busing to ensure greater racial balance in schools as a necessary evil, although many blacks as well as a majority of whites have expressed themselves against the forced transportation of young children out of their home neighborhoods.

But Nixon and the Republican party platform have come out four-square against busing. Critics charge that the president's stand was politically based, in view of the findings of a number of polls that the majority of Americans oppose busing.

One of the most prominent blacks in Congress is fiery Shirley Chisholm, 47-year-old Democrat from Brooklyn, N.Y., who earlier was one of more than a dozen candidates for the party presidential nomination. The only black woman ever to serve in the House of Representatives, her re-election Nov. 7 is taken for granted.

TWO LIKELY TO WIN

There is a good chance she will be joined by two other black women—Yvonne Braithwaite Burke, 39, a California state assemblyman who gained national television exposure presiding over much of the Democratic national convention in July, and Barbara Jordan, 36, a lawyer and Texas state senator running in a heavily Democratic district.

Much of the black effort on McGovern's behalf centres around a new organization of black union members set up in reaction to the AFL-CIO decision to remain neutral this time rather than give its traditional support to the Democratic nominee.

Initially the group, established at a recent meeting of 1,200 Negro union members in Chicago, will concentrate on registering black voters and getting out the vote for McGovern. After the election it plans to continue operating, recruiting new black union members and focusing on peculiar problems of the black union member.

There are only about two million black members of trade unions although total blacks in the work force are estimated at 9.8 million. Blacks number about 20 million in a total U.S. population of more than 200 million.

"The AFL-CIO decision did not take into consideration the negative impact that Nixon has on the poor, especially the black poor," said William Lucy, an official of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees who is spokesman for the new group.

"There is no way black unionists are going to remain neutral in this election."

self-righteous. They are remarkably hard working. And they are all having the same baptism by fire in the practical realities of American politics.

Some of the results are pretty funny, such as the near father-and-son relation between Don Tucker and wise but case-hardened veteran Democratic satrap in Connecticut, John Bailey. But the main thing is that whether the immediate results are funny or sad, you have a lot of able, decent, politically interested younger men and women learning the hard way about what grass-roots politics is really like.

Without regard to the McGovern cause, this is an exciting thing to see. And whatever happens in the election, it will do good in the end.

Digs Derek

Dear Sir:

I would like to comment on your article about Derek Sanderson published in the October 11th edition of the record. I doubt very much if you will publish this letter but I think that it's about time to set the record straight.

Obviously you are among those people who are jealous of Derek. Please don't try to tell me that if someone offered you that much money you would turn it down because I may be young but I am definitely not stupid. A man has to live and if he is offered that amount of money to play for a different team than he is presently with then tell me why he should turn it down.

Obviously the Philadelphia Blazers know that Derek is one of the best hockey players around today, and are willing to pay for his services. I do not personally know you nor do I care to but if you think that Derek could not be the team leader you don't know too much but you do not happen to be head of the Blazers (thank Goodness) and they undoubtedly don't think that they have thrown 2.6 million dollars down the drain or as you would say down the toilet. They are the hockey experts, not you, and they know who can play and who can't!!

I think that Canadians should be proud of Sanderson for what he said about Team Canada because although he was not allowed to play he still stood up and applauded them. Who do you think you are when you cut him up because he said Dryden was off in that series?

You yourself and many others said the same thing during the Canada-Russia series. As for your statement that Derek hates Ken Dryden I think you should research that a little and if it does happen to be true it still doesn't alter the fact that Dryden did not play as well as usual in that series so lay off Derek for stating the simple truth.

I am positive that there are some people you hate and it is quite obvious that Derek Sanderson is one of them. You think because of this you can take it upon yourself to sit in judgement of him but baby, let me tell you this, you are definitely in no position to judge anyone. When you can play hockey as well as Derek then maybe just maybe you will know a little more about what you are talking about.

There is one other matter I wish to correct you about and that is the headline you used. It is quite clear that it was you who decided for Derek that Boston had lost a good one in Sanderson and for once you were right about something but it was not Derek who said it.

A disgusted reader and Sanderson Fan.
B.B.

Dear Reader:

Thank you for your interest in Derek Sanderson. I know that blind faith supercedes logic and cannot therefore reply to your criticisms.

However, everything in quotations was actually what your hero said. I merely tried to point out the tongue-in-cheek remarks.

If you wish to be proud of Derek Sanderson that is your choice. Most of us choose to ignore him once we've had the opportunity to meet him.

ALEX RADMANOVICH

Doesn't dig Derek

Dear Sir,

I read Derek Sanderson's remarks in his interview recently and I have a few of my own I would like to voice:

1. I understand that there is a rumor circulating to the effect that plans are now underway to enlarge the Sports Palace to accommodate the size of Mr. Sanderson's head.

2. Mr. Sanderson is a hockey player in that a woodpecker is a carpenter.

3. There is absolutely no truth to the rumor that Mr. Sanderson blushes whenever he body-checks Brad Park.

4. I wish Mr. Sanderson was an American — then we could say "Yankee go home!"

Yours very sincerely,
Ken Dryden Fan Club, chapter 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Benjamin Adams at their wedding in Bermuda.

Adams-McKenna wed

The marriage of Martha Ann, daughter of Mrs. Paul J. McKenna and the late Mr. McKenna, to Mr. Ronald Benjamin Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Adams, of Cavendish Heights, Devonshire, Bermuda, was solemnized at St. Patrick's Church, Bermuda, on Sept. 2 at 5:30 p.m.

Rev. Father Anthony Mancini, Pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The wedding music was played by the organist Mr. Neil Warner and Mr. William Stack, of Plainview, Long Island, N.Y. uncle of the bride, sang the hymn Panis Angelicus during the ceremony, and O Perfect Love, at the signing of the register.

Standards of chartreuse gladioli, light pink carnations and pale yellow chrysanthemums were used in the sanctuary.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Timothy Dwane, of Montreal, was attired in a gown of white embroidered silk organza over taffeta, fashioned on Empire lines and trimmed with lace, the high neckline, bodice, and short puffed sleeves had inserts of satin ribbon, the skirt having a large bow at the back with wide streamers extending to the hemline of the chapel train. Her shoulder length mantilla was of tulle illusion, trimmed with lace, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mrs. Timothy Dwane, matron of honor for her sister, was in a floor length Empire gown of melon silk organza over taffeta. White lace daisies trimmed the square neckline, bodice, short puffed sleeves and skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of white shasta daisies.

Mrs. Charles Jane of Montreal, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Keith Adams sister-in-law of the groom, and Mrs. Kevin Laudadio, of Bermuda, as bridesmaids, were attired in pale yellow gowns fashioned similarly to the matron of honor, with lace trimmings of white, yellow centered daisies. They carried similar bouquets, and all the attendants wore small clusters of white feathered carnations in their hair.

Mr. Keith Adams, brother of the groom, was the best man, and the ushers were Mr. Gordon Gibbons, cousin of the groom, and Mr. Kevin Laudadio.

Mrs. McKenna, mother of the bride, was in a floor length gown of aqua silk chiffon, the square neckline and cuffs at the wrists were edged with a ruffle. Her accessories were of gold and she wore a corsage of white sweetheart roses. Mrs. Adams, mother of the groom, wore a floor length gown of shocking pink silk chiffon, with a V-neckline and long flowing sleeves. U.C.W. meetings in the Townships COOKSHIRE — Mrs. O.C. Farnsworth entertained the U.C.W. of Trinity United Church at her home on Wednesday evening, Oct. 4. There were 17 present.

Mrs. P. Gaudine presided, and welcomed the members and visitors. She thanked all who had helped with the recent U.C.W. Presbyterian meeting which was held in the Church.

Three portions of Scripture were read by Mrs. Gaudine and Mrs. Everett Parker, Mrs. Heatherington gave a meditation on the theme "Are We Circumstance — directed or Guided by God?" She maintained that everyone should have a God-given direction and a goal in life in order to be happy, for if one is not God-led, he or she will be muddled, he or she is detrimental to the individual. Without a sense of guidance, life turns dull and insipid, conversely, life can become exciting and useful. She then gave a prayer of thanksgiving, and the Lord's Prayer was repeated in Unison. The worship service was then concluded with the singing of the hymn, All the Way My Saviour Leads Me.

Routine business was then conducted, Mrs. H. Burns read the minutes and Mrs. Earl Parker gave a very satisfactory treasurer's report. Two letters of thanks were read for favors received, bills were presented and ordered to be paid.

The ladies were asked to give good, clean, warm clothing for the Harrington Harbor project, these articles may be left with Mrs. Gaudine as soon as possible.

A definite date was set for the Fall Tea and Sale, Nov. 18 and the ladies were asked to work on articles for the sale tables.

The ladies brought in their Thank Offerings to this meeting, the next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Parker on Nov. 18, and at 8 p.m.

Following adjournment, Mrs. P. Cassidy showed some interesting slides of the locality, which were enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Farnsworth then served delicious refreshments.

MAGOG — The U.C.W. of St. Paul's United Church held their first meeting of the season recently in the church hall. Mrs. G. Bailey presided.

Plans were made for a Hot Dish Supper to be held this month. Plans were also discussed for other various activities to be held during the coming season.

At the close of the business meeting, the members were occupied with the creating of posters for the Rally in Beebe, the theme to be Come Alive for a New Day.

Lennoxville Auxiliary undertakes ambitious project in aid of retarded

BAZAAR SOON — In front of some of the articles that will be on sale at a bazaar in aid of the mentally handicapped on Thursday are, Mrs. Helen Ross, president of the Lennoxville

Auxiliary for the Mentally Retarded; Mrs. Frankie Noble, past president; and Mrs. Isobel Beaulieu, Convenor.

LENNOXVILLE — The Lennoxville Auxiliary for the mentally retarded completed plans for a very large Bazaar, tea-sale of manufactured and hand-made articles to be held on Thursday, October 19, in the Lennoxville United Church, starting at 3 p.m. This is the Auxiliary's most ambitious undertaking to date and hopefully it will be the most successful.

So far this year, the Auxiliary has donated an 18-inch television set to the Alderbrook Home in Knowlton, a $50 cheque to the Dollard des Ormeaux School in Lennoxville for expenses on the trip to the Granby Zoo, 28 bed sheets and a $100 cheque for barber and beauty equipment for the Dixville Home, as well as being instrumental in obtaining a fine shipment of beauty products, valued at $300, to this same Home from Clairrol, Canada, in Knowlton.

With good support and patronage from the public at large, this Bazaar and sale will enable the Auxiliary to complete the year's plans for more aid to the retarded children.

The President, Mrs. Helen Ross, chaired the meeting held on September 26 in the United Church hall when the report of the Recording Secretary, Mrs.

Margaret Dale, that of the Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Marjorie Rick, and that of the Treasurer, Mrs. Edith Bennett, were all accepted as read. Mrs. Rick also reported that the appeal in May for used clothing for one of the homes had received an excellent response.

Mrs. Marjorie Blachford will officially open the Bazaar at 3 p.m., with no selling before that time. The immediate past-President, Mrs. Jack Noble, and the president will receive at the door. Mrs. George Beaulieu is the general convenor, it was decided.

The phone committee has notified the 46 active members of the auxiliary of their involvement and the alternate phoning committee is requesting donations from the 72 associate members. It was pointed out that there is need of baked goods, candy, jams, pickles, vegetables, plants, new-to-you articles, as well as miscellaneous articles from these members.

The Auxiliary has received fine donations from various manufacturers and these will be on sale at the Bazaar. There are lovely blankets from Esmond, sheets from Dominion Textiles, vinyl from Beckwith-Bemis, beauty aids from Clairrol, overshoes from Minor, as well as yard goods and chinchilla skins from private donors.

Children's clothing has been made from materials donated by Paton Manufacturing and Bruck mills. The clothes in the 2-5 years old range are reasonably priced and should be a real drawing card for mothers with young children. Also, there is a large assortment of all kinds of knitted goods.

Mrs. Vivian Aird reported a good variety of handicrafts is coming in and Mrs. Lilian Watson and Mrs. Olivia Parent have a fine assortment of Barbie-doll clothes ready.

There will be a display of a few of the Bazaar items in the windows of Clark's Pharmacy and the Auxiliary appreciates this courtesy.

The Dixville Home will have a table of articles for sale which have been made at the Home and will have charge of the articles. The Alderbrook Home will also have a similar table. It will be in charge of Mrs. Kat Jenckes.

The pleasant meeting closed with refreshments being served by Dr. Kay Atto, Mrs. Winnifred Moore and Mrs. Stella Saunders. The date of the next meeting has been changed to October 24, because of Halloween.

Liberals say Wagner in for tough battle

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
ST. HYACINTHE, Que. (CP) — The federal campaign in this mixed urban-rural constituency features Claude Wagner, 47-year-old Quebec Progressive Conservative campaign leader, out to retain the seat held since 1967 for the PCs by Theogene Ricard, who has retired from politics.

Liberal strategists say their man, Paul Foster, 29, has a Kennedy-like appeal that will halt the political comeback of Mr. Wagner, former provincial Liberal justice minister and judge.

The Conservative and Liberal parties made St. Hyacinthe virtually a two-man race in the 1968 general election, when candidates of the smaller parties won only small portions of the popular vote.

Yvon Descoeurs, 39-year-old St. Hyacinthe manufacturing executive, is contesting the seat for Social Credit, while Henri Mons, a student at University of Quebec, represents the New Democratic Party.

"I won't be doing any door-to-door campaigning — I've never done that in my life," said Martha Adams, an independent candidate who advocates legal prostitution and increased old-age pensions.

SOME UNCERTAIN
Miss Adams, 42, listing her occupation as interior decorator, said she is strong among "the young and old people," but not so sure about the in-betweens.

Nominated five days after he resigned as Montreal sessions court judge, Mr. Wagner charged the Liberal government with "wastage" of public funds and lack of "human compassion."

His nomination was at an old-style political rally in this town of 20,000 some 30 miles from Montreal. The candidate won a law-and-order reputation as justice minister and opposition member of the Quebec legislature for Montreal Verdun from 1964 to 1970, when he temporarily retired from politics.

A loudspeaker blared martial music for an hour before partisans carried Mr. Wagner on their shoulders to a platform filled with mayors from surrounding parishes.

Later named provincial campaign leader, Mr. Wagner began stumping the province's 74 ridings, only four of them won by the Tories in 1968.

AIM IS VICTORY
But Mr. Wagner said that his primary aim now is victory in St. Hyacinthe and he came back to the riding Oct. 5 for four days of rallies and personal meetings, after a swing through the Eastern Townships and Gaspé.

Tactics shift as election approaches

OTTAWA (CP) — Political strategists nearing the Oct. 30 federal election are disclosing tactical campaign shifts designed to touch up party policy positions.

Issues that so far may appear unrelated will be packaged by voting day, say Liberal party sources offering insights into their grand design.

Prime Minister Trudeau will bring it all together "to chart the course for the last quarter of the 20th century" in the words of one spokesman.

Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield is described as finishing Phase III of his campaign this week and moving next week into what is called a more national approach with greater emphasis on what he would do as prime minister and less on the alleged sins and omissions of the Liberals.

For David Lewis and the NDP, there is to be a switch from the prolonged attack on the tax law advantages said to be enjoyed by many big companies—those so-called corporate welfare bums.

CHANGING TACK
Mr. Lewis is being touted as aiming instead at high costs for consumers.

Real Caouette, Social Credit leader, has cancelled a short sortie into Newfoundland which means renewed concentration on the party's Quebec power base with some attention to the French-speaking areas of northern New Brunswick.

Liberal party aides eagerly making available the message to media say there's a big master plan under the broad and even sweeping umbrellas of national integrity, economic growth, personal fulfillment and social justice.

A foretaste was delivered Wednesday by Ron Basford, urban affairs minister, in saying a re-elected Liberal government will seek parliamentary approval for a program of re-developing downtown railway property.

That, and a blueprint for a parks program announced by Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien, are said to be part of the personal fulfillment plan.

Similarly, voters can expect to hear other Liberal party statements so far greater in breadth than detail.

MANY PLANS
These are said to include improved grants for volunteer citizen groups, improved legal services for rich and poor, an Opportunities for People program lumping together existing programs such as Opportunities for Youth, and a commission for protection of human rights.

Background information on these statements is being sent to Liberal candidates.

Scott the Hunter brings back Pack

DETROIT (AP) — Green Bay Packers scored a come-from-behind 24-23 win over Detroit Lions Monday night to take sole possession of first place in their National Football League division.

The Packers now have a 4-1 record to lead Detroit, 3-2, in the National Conference Central Division. Minnesota Vikings are third with a 2-3 mark and Chicago Bears last at 1-3-1.

Quarterback Scott Hunter fired a 15-yard touchdown strike to rookie wide receiver Leland Glass with 1:54 left on the clock, and rookie Chester Marcol kicked the extra point, to give the Packers victory in the game televised nationally in the U.S.

Green Bay had trailed nearly the entire game before Marcol's closing moments' conversion, and the Lions never recovered from the shock.

The Packers trailed 17-7 at halftime. Then Errol Mann of the Lions and Marcol traded field goals of 45 and 34 yards respectively before Packer cornerback Ken Ellis turned the game around by racing 80 yards with a punt return for a touchdown.

LIONS ALERT
Detroit capitalized on two Packer mistakes to score its two first-half touchdowns. Landry ran around right end from two yards out for a first quarter TD and Albie Taylor plunged off right tackle in the second period for the other.

The Landry score came eight plays and 30 yards after cornerback Lem Barney picked off a Hunter pass, breaking the quarterback's string of 80 passes without an interception.

Taylor's TD came three plays after linebacker Wayne Walker recovered Packer MacArthur Lane's fumble and returned it 14 yards to the Green Bay 11. Lane had fumbled on the first play after Mann kicked a 12-yard field goal for Detroit.

Mann also boomed a 51-yarder in the final quarter, equalling his club record.

Green Bay consumed nearly eight minutes in its final scoring drive, moving 83 yards in 13 plays. Six of the plays were complete passes by Hunter and the rest runs by John Brockington or Lane.

The drive was reminiscent of the Packers' 81-yard, nine-play march late in the first half, climaxed by Hunter's one-yard sweep.

The teams play a rematch Dec. 3 in Green Bay.

Sacking unfair, player charges

BALTIMORE (AP) — Centre Bill Curry criticized the firing Monday of Don McCafferty, contending the head coach of Baltimore Colts had been improperly blamed for the team's losing record.

"Mac is a decent man and a talented coach," Curry said, "and the way he has been treated is a real injustice." Curry also rapped Joe Thomas, Baltimore's new general manager, who fired McCafferty Monday, replaced him with defensive line coach John Sandusky, and said the Colts would "sort of start a new regime with young players."

Noting Thomas had announced that the dismissal of McCafferty was made "for the good of the team," Curry said: "That's the same general manager who hasn't bothered to go around and meet all the guys and learn their names."

"I know I'm sticking my neck out, and I might be gone after this," Curry said, "but this is the way I feel. Don McCafferty is the finest gentleman I have played for in pro football."

Curry noted that McCafferty had directed the Colts to the Super Bowl title as a rookie head coach in 1970, following 11 years as an assistant Baltimore coach, and that his 21-6-1 prior to this season was the best among active NFL coaches.

FOUR MAKE A GOAT
Now that we've lost four games, he's been made the scapegoat, and that's wrong," Curry said.

Curry argued that McCafferty had no control over numerous injuries, notably to all-pro defensive end Bubba Smith and guard Glenn Ressler, who have been out all season, or the loss for several games of running backs Norm Bulaich and Tom Matthe, and wide receiver Eddie Hinton.

McCafferty, 52, took his firing with outward calm, but admitted he was shocked by the sudden dismissal. He wished the best for Sandusky, who also has been with the Colts since 1959 as an assistant coach.

McCafferty, however, has a perpetual five-year contract, at an estimated $50,000 annually, which runs through the 1977 season. Thomas said the contract, signed when Carroll Rosenbloom owned the team, will be honored through its life span.

Not a day to recall for Stanstead

By BILL BROWN
LENNOXVILLE (AP) — Saturday October 14 will not be remembered kindly by Stanstead football Spartans either varsity or junior varsity.

In Lennoxville on the old Bishop's University field, the Alexander Galt Regional High School Pipers behind the power running of Alfred Aleksa and Tim Bronson coupled with a strong defensive effort tripped the Varsity Spartans 15-10, the first Piper victory since the series began in 1970.

The Pipers piled up 110 contained the Stanstead running game. Joe Cammalleri, who had a big day against BCS the previous week, was held to only 35 yards. The Piper defense also harried Spartan QB Jim Etcheverry to the extent that he was able to complete only 6 of 21 passes, and most of these after the game was out of reach.

The Pipers scored first with a 34-yard field-goal by Robichaud in the first quarter. Stanstead countered with a safety and a single to tie the game 3-3 at the half.

In the third quarter, the Pipers caught the Stanstead defense napping as Barry Grant scored on a 33-yard reverse. When the convert failed, Galt led 9-3.

Near the end of the game, Ray Smith recovered a Spartan fumble in the end-zone to put the game out of reach at 15-3.

The Spartans rallied on a passing attack culminated by a pass from Etcheverry to Cammalleri. The extra point brought the game to 15-10. However, the Pipers were able to control the ball the rest of the way.

Meanwhile in Montreal, the JV Spartans lost their quarterback to Selwyn House 42-0. This was to Selwyn House 42-0. This was the JV's second big loss to this varsity team.

The Junior A soccer team won 4-1 at Selwyn House. Scoring for Stanstead were Dan Rowan, 2, and Steve Philip and Danny Coffin with one each. The Junior B team was held scoreless again but returned the favor to earn a scoreless deadlock also against Selwyn House.

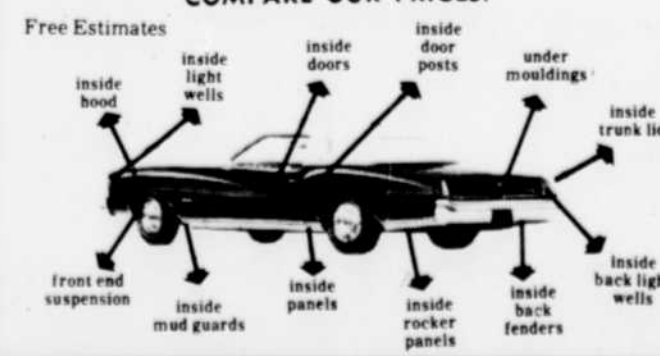

In action this week, all four soccer teams play AGRHS on Wednesday. On Saturday, the footballer's travel to BCS for their rematches.

Varsity and JV soccer teams entertain Northwood School from Lake Placid, N.Y., while the two junior teams are home for rematches with Selwyn House.

The A's never stop complaining, never stop winning

By WILL GRIMSLEY
OAKLAND (AP) — If the gaudy, shaggy Oakland Athletics should go on to beat Cincinnati Reds for the World Series baseball championship, it would be a staggering blow to the old theory that success is built on harmony and goodwill.

The sports world perhaps has never experienced a more disgruntled, edgy and unhappy team of winners.

Everybody's got a sore toe—from the madcap owner, Charles O. Finley, and the chess-board manager, Dick Williams, to the star pitchers and the gripping coterie of un-sure second basemen.

Dissension is rampant on the Oakland team, yet the 1890 throwbacks with their handle-bar moustaches and muttonchop sideburns continue to win.

It's one of the game's great mysteries.

The internal friction came to a steamy boil on the Athletics' wild overnight charter flight home after the team had gone 2-0 ahead of the Reds with a sweep of the first two games in Cincinnati.

CONFRONTS MANAGER
Mike Epstein, the team's burly first baseman, confronted manager Williams with his displeasure at being yanked for a pinch-runner in the sixth inning of Sunday's game.

A shouting match ensued. "It seems you don't like my kind of baseball," Williams said.

"I just feel you don't appreciate the way I've been bus-

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland Athletics have staggered the Cincinnati Reds with two quick jabs and now hope to deliver another solid punch in the third game of the World Series tonight.

"I think we have them on the ropes," said Oakland pitcher Vida Blue. "But you can't count the Reds out yet. You can't let up."

The surprising American League champions are sitting pretty with a 2-0 lead in the 1972 baseball classic as a result of 3-2 and 2-1 victories in Cincinnati during the weekend.

Added to this margin, the Athletics also have the theoretical advantage of the home field in the next three games of this best-of-seven showdown for the world's championship.

After playing on Riverfront Stadium's unfamiliar artificial surface, the Athletics returned home to their field of natural grass at the Oakland Coliseum.

PLAYING FIELD SOGGY
Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson wasn't too happy about its condition, either—the field was soggy from rain and craggy from use by the Oakland Raiders' football team Sunday.

"I thought Oakland owner Charles Finley had more class than this," said Anderson, whose team's running game obviously would be hurt by the slow conditions.

In addition, the possibility of stormy weather threatened to further muddle the situation at the Coliseum, where a sell-out crowd of 50,000 will watch the struggle. A 30-per-cent chance of showers has been forecast for the contest, which starts at 8:15 p.m. EDT.

The situation has got the Athletics confident.

"We're handling the Reds easier than we did the Texas Rangers," said Blue, referring to one of the patsy American League teams.

WILLIAMS OPTIMISTIC
Oakland manager Dick Williams is optimistic about finishing off the National Leaguers in his cozy Coliseum. He said when his team first went to Cincinnati for the opener last Saturday, he would have settled for a split of the two games.

since the affair began in 1903.

Rose doesn't pay attention to odds.

"All I'm looking for is some way to get our momentum going," said Rose, the Reds' acknowledged leader. "Somewhere along the line, we lost our momentum."

The Cincinnati momentum starts with the first three hitters in the lineup—Rose, Joe Morgan and Tolan. They've been bullied so far, however, by the Athletics strong-arm pitching staff.

ODOM ON MOUND

The Reds will get to see another one of the Oakland aces tonight—John (Blue Moon) Odom. The right-hander, who notched two victories in the American League playoffs against Detroit Tigers last week, was 15-6 during the regular season.

Odom is a member of an eight-man staff that fashioned a 2.58 earned-run average this season and did even better in the post-season games. Oakland pitchers have allowed only 11 earned runs in the five playoffs and two World Series games.

In the series, Ken Holtzman, Rollie Fingers and Vida Blue combined to pitch the first game victory. Jim (Catfish) Hunter and Fingers did a job on the Reds in game No. 2.

Jack Billingham, a right-hander who had a 12-12 record and led the Cincinnati staff in strikeouts with 137 this year, has been nominated to pitch for the Reds.

Hughes' widow suing

DETROIT (AP) — The widow of a Detroit Lions football player, Charles (Chuck) Hughes, filed a $21.5-million lawsuit Monday against Ford Hospital and three unnamed physicians or osteopaths claiming "they wilfully and wantonly" failed to tell Hughes of his heart condition.

Hughes, 28, died during a game with Chicago Bears at Tiger Stadium, Oct. 24, 1971. He apparently suffered a heart attack.

Sharon L. Hughes contends in her suit that while her husband was a patient at the hospital in May, 1971, doctors determined from electrocardiograms that Hughes had a damaged heart but failed to inform him of the condition.

"The defendants well knew that Hughes was a professional athlete and as such was required to engage in strenuous physical activity not advisable for one who had suffered heart damage," the suit said.

The suit charges that the alleged failure to disclose the heart condition was a direct cause of the Oct. 24 seizure.

Suderman, 31, dead

EDMONTON (CP) — Dick Suderman, a 31-year-old athlete who played in the Canadian Football League for seven years, was the victim Monday of a fatal cerebral hemorrhage which apparently had nothing to do with the sport he loved.

Suderman, a defensive end with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference, died in hospital about 26 hours after he suffered the hemorrhage while lunching at a restaurant.

A hospital spokesman said the hemorrhage was apparently the result of an aneurysm in a blood vessel within the brain—a weak part of the vessel which burst under pressure. It was something Suderman could have had for many years.

Married and with three children, aged four to eight, Suderman was having lunch with four team-mates Sunday when he suddenly became violently ill. He was taken to hospital by ambulance and died at 2:15 p.m. Monday.

Suderman, an all-star last year with Calgary Stampede, was selected as the outstanding Canadian in the 1971 Grey Cup game which was won by Calgary. He was traded to the Eskimos last week for rookie Dave Herbert.

He played in the Eskimos' 22-16 loss to British Columbia Lions Saturday at Vancouver but did not appear to have been injured in the game. He flew home with the club early Sunday.

A University of Western Ontario graduate, he was drafted by the Stampede in 1964. He was traded to Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Conference in 1969 but did not join them because he was a partner in a Calgary firm of accountants. He rejoined Calgary in 1970.
