Fine Foods Plant Seek Increase In Production of Peas, Corn in Ormstown and Huntingdon

Ste. Martine Cannery Representative Explains Advantages of Growing Corn and Peas—Financial Returns Run as High as $40 and $50 Per Acre—Ste. Barbe Farmers Increase Corn Acreage Yearly

Mr. A. Deardale of Fine Foods of Canada, who operate the large cannery in Ste. Martine, met with a few farmers in the Empire Garage, Huntingdon, on Friday evening. Mr. Deardale informed the farmers that this year the cannery has already contracted for the pea acreage, which is 1,200 acres; 150 acres of beans and 1,500 acres of corn. The cannery is still open to increase the corn acreage and it was for this purpose that Mr. Deardale was in the community.

At this cannery a number of other vegetables such as asparagus, brussels sprouts, etc., are put up and frozen, but just what is going to be done in this respect for 1941 is not yet definitely decided.

The growers supplying vegetables to the cannery number around 350. These growers are found in all the parishes and townships in Chateauguay County, in many parts of Beaufort County, and in the parish of Ste. Barbe in Huntingdon. In 1941 this field is being extended and Mr. Deardale hopes to have many farmers produce corn in the Huntingdon area, while at Ormstown peas will be grown. A unit for the threshing of same is to be installed at or near Ormstown. The company hopes to install additional units for this purpose in future years so that the pea production may be extended.

Cannery Supplies Corn Seed

In connection with the corn growing, the cannery supplies the seed and from time to time will visit the fields and give any advice that may be desired. When the corn is ready for plowing, this is done by the farmer and then the product is shipped to Ste. Martine. At the cannery a sample of the corn is taken for grading and the farmer is paid according to the grade. The price of the corn runs from $3.35 to $1.11 per ton of cobs as pulled. The yield of corn per acre averages 3 1/2 tons. The financial returns may run as high as $40 and $50 per acre but the usual average is in the neighborhood of $30 net. Yet, when poor crops are harvested, the returns may run as low as $10 per acre. Mr. Deardale stated that on a five-year average it was quite safe to figure on the yield representing $30 per acre.

The sweet corn stalks are of course the property of the grower and it is said that these stalks make a more tender and sweet ensilage than does the ordinary field corn. The amount of corn per acre is naturally a great deal less as the corn is planted in hills, the hills being 3 1/2 feet apart. The husks and cobs that go to the cannery belong to the farmer and are put into a large pile. According to the tonnage of corn supplied by the farmer he, in turn, receives this ensilage. This ensilage belongs to the grower and he can take it away or sell it in his behalf. It sells for $2.00 per ton. The acre of corn that produces 3 1/2 tons of corn yields 800 lbs. of this ensilage.

Farmers Increase Acreage

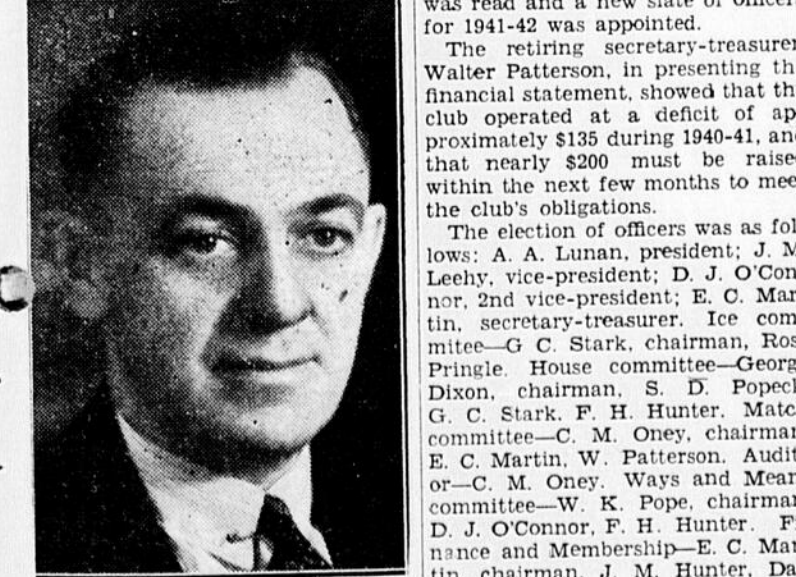

For the five years this cannery has been operating in Ste. Martine we have had farmers in Ste. Barbe growing corn, said Mr. Deardale. Each year we find they are increasing their acreage. Many of our growers started in by growing two acres and today they are growing 10 and 15 acres of corn.

ORMSTOWN EXHIBITION IS CANCELED FOR SECOND YEAR

For the second consecutive year there will be no Ormstown Exhibition in 1941. At a meeting of the directors of this exhibition on Monday it was mutually agreed that there would be no spring show this year as it was felt that without a provincial and federal grant it would be impossible to operate.

This will be a disappointment to the thousands of farmers and others interested, who yearly attended Ormstown Fair, Canada's leading agricultural show.

CHIEF WARDEN

MR. GEORGE F. DIXON, who was appointed Chief Warden of the Civilian Protection Committee at Huntingdon, replacing Mr. A. S. Mackay, who resigned due to ill health.

THOMAS CHAMBERS SERIOUSLY HURT IN FALL FROM LADDER

Mr. Thomas Chambers of Huntingdon, suffered a very severe concussion while inserting a cement block in connection with the installation of new stage curtains in the gymnasium of the Huntingdon High School on Monday afternoon.

The ladder on which he was standing slipped, causing Mr. Chambers to fall to the floor of the stage, a distance of approximately fourteen feet. He was picked up in a state of unconsciousness, and was still in that condition late Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. H. R. Clouston was hastily summoned to the scene of the accident and found Mr. Chambers to be in a serious condition. The patient was removed to his home on Cemetery Street, where his condition is reported as being slightly improved.

It's Sugaring Time in the Chateauguay Valley

Farmers in the Chateauguay Valley are kept on the alert these days in preparation for one of the best maple syrup and maple sugar seasons in years. Sap started running last week and farmers anticipate an exceptionally good yield.

There is still an abundance of snow in the bushes, which is helpful in carrying the sap to the shanty for the manufacture of maple sugar and maple syrup. The above scene shows a farmer pouring the contents of a huge collection tank into a reservoir filled with sap which in turn feeds into the steaming pans in the shanty. The first "new" syrup was sold in Huntingdon on Friday at $1.95 per gallon.

T. T. GEBBIE NAMED ADMINISTRATOR FOR THE 1941 CENSUS

Names of 248 census administrators for the 1941 decennial count of Canada's people and resources were announced by the Trade and Commerce Department on Thursday.

The census starts June 2, and announcement of administrators—directors of the census in various divisions—came after the trade minister's statement in the Commons on Wednesday that the count would be taken as scheduled.

Suggestions the census be delayed to permit a saving of $2,470,000 were made when the estimates were brought down, but Mr. MacKinnon said the value of the census did not permit of delay.

Following is the list of census commissioners for the 1941 decennial census in the counties of Chateauguay, Beaufort and Huntingdon: Beaufort—Laprairie; Jean D'Amour, Beaufort; Chateauguay—Huntingdon—Thos. T. Gebbie, Howick.

A large number of men from the Military Camp favoured the party with their attendance. The general public were pleased to have such an opportunity to meet with the boys. Several of the soldiers intimated that last evening was their most enjoyable evening since they arrived in Huntingdon. If such is actually the case it is an indication that local organizations should make a greater effort to promote evening entertainments for them to attend. The Hussars gave a short sing song that was fully appreciated.

Following the card games refreshments were served in the Domestic Science Room by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion. As a result of the effort put forth $100 will be realized. This money is to be spent by the Ladies' Auxiliary through providing furnishings, etc., for the Military Hospital, Canteen or Huts as the case may be.

Mrs. P. M. Clouston, of Huntingdon, has temporarily supplied the hospital at the Chateauguay Military Camp with a radio.

In the auditorium of the high school was noted for the first time by many people a beautiful stage curtain. This curtain cost upwards of $200 and was paid for out of money raised at the dance when the high school was officially opened, plus some other donations received for school equipment.

REV. E. J. WHITE IS CALLED TO ST. MATTHEW'S CHURCH

Rev. Edwin J. White of Ormstown Presbyterian Church at Ormstown, Que., has been given a call to St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church, Point St. Charles, Montreal, it was announced on Tuesday after a congregational meeting on Monday.

Rev. Dr. P. S. Morley, minister of St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church, Westmont, interim moderator of St. Matthew's, presided. The call was unanimous. The former minister, Rev. James Milroy, was called to Toronto from St. Matthew's.

A native of Charlottetown, P.E.I., Mr. White was educated at Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown, and McGill University. He graduated in arts from McGill in 1932, and in theology from the Presbyterian College two years later.

His first charge was at Tyne Valley, P.E.I., and for the past two years he has been pastor of the joint charge of Ormstown and Rockburn churches.

The call will come up before the next meeting of the Montreal Presbytery on April 15 for consideration and approval.

KIN OF ORMSTOWN RESIDENT IS SAVED FROM SINKING SHIP

On March 27 many learned with regret of the loss of H.M.C.S. Otter and 19 men of her crew while on a routine patrol just off Halifax.

The whole story as reported in the daily papers was that of a tragedy. There were but 22 saved. Among this number was one, George E. White, Able Seaman, A-2737, 313 Manning Ave., Verdun, P.Q.

Mr. White is married to Vivian Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Davies of Verdun, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Elder of Ormstown. At the time of going to press, Mr. Smith had still not arrived in Montreal, but was expected hourly.

Valleyfield Gault Institute Held

Pupils Attend Valleyfield Church to Hear Prof. Hughes—Discuss Changes in Education of Children

School, Church and home must form a common front if children are to receive the best upbringing under difficult modern conditions, said Prof. John Hughes, head of the department of education of McGill University in addressing the Valleyfield Gault Institute on Sunday morning.

The service held in Valleyfield United Church was the concluding event of the institute's second annual school and community week.

It is with good reason, said the speaker, that the dictators aim at the destruction of churches. For the forces of religion and intelligent education are their two greatest enemies. Prof. Hughes quoted Lord Stamp's recent definition of the school's job, that the school must prepare a student to earn his livelihood, live his life as a person, and play his part in world affairs.

Pointing to recent advances in education, Prof. Hughes said that the greatest consideration be given education of children if the twin ideals of liberty and democracy are to be maintained.

Rev. M. W. Williams, minister of Point St. Charles, introduced Prof. Hughes, and the lesson was read by the principal, John McLeish. The service included selections by the school choir under the direction of Miss Dorothy Haselton and with Leonard Roberts as boy soloist, and also a solo by Miss Genevieve Getty of the school staff.

LARGER DONATIONS ANTICIPATED IN WAR SERVICES DRIVE

The contributions for the War Services campaign are coming in so fast that the giving of small amounts is very commendable, in other cases where people have large incomes they are contributing more than $100 towards the Six War Services in place of a multiple of $10. Then again it is to be noted that some single people earning $25 to $35 a week and even more are offering, and there $2 bill for their contribution. This is not justice being accorded by the public to the boys who are wearing the King's uniform. People who have already contributed such small amounts should reconsider their decision and call upon the canvasser who solicited their subscription and considerably increase their donation. If this is not done, it will likely mean the campaign managers will have to name a special committee to canvass some of the contributors for a second donation. This, we feel, would be a very unpleasant task, justifiable as it may be. Surely everybody can contribute the equivalent to at least two days pay, or income, as the case may be, for such a worthy cause.

HARRIGAN BROS. ARRIVED SAFELY IN ENGLAND

Mr. and Mrs. William Harrigan of Huntingdon, who have three sons in the Canadian Active Service Forces, recently received word from two of them, Benjie and Gerald, that they had arrived safely in Great Britain. The following article, taken from a British newspaper and sent home by the Harrigan boys, gives some idea of the conveyance system as carried out by the Allies.

Thousands more Canadian troops have just landed in Britain. Several great liners, each estimated to have been carrying between 1,500 and 2,000 men, crossed the Atlantic Ocean with one of the strongest Naval escorts yet provided for a convoy, such was its importance.

Besides British ships, the escort included units of Allied Navies, the Royal Canadian Navy and former American destroyers.

The entire operation was carried out with split-second precision in accordance with the pre-arranged plan. More than once snow and ice had to be cleared from decks and guns.

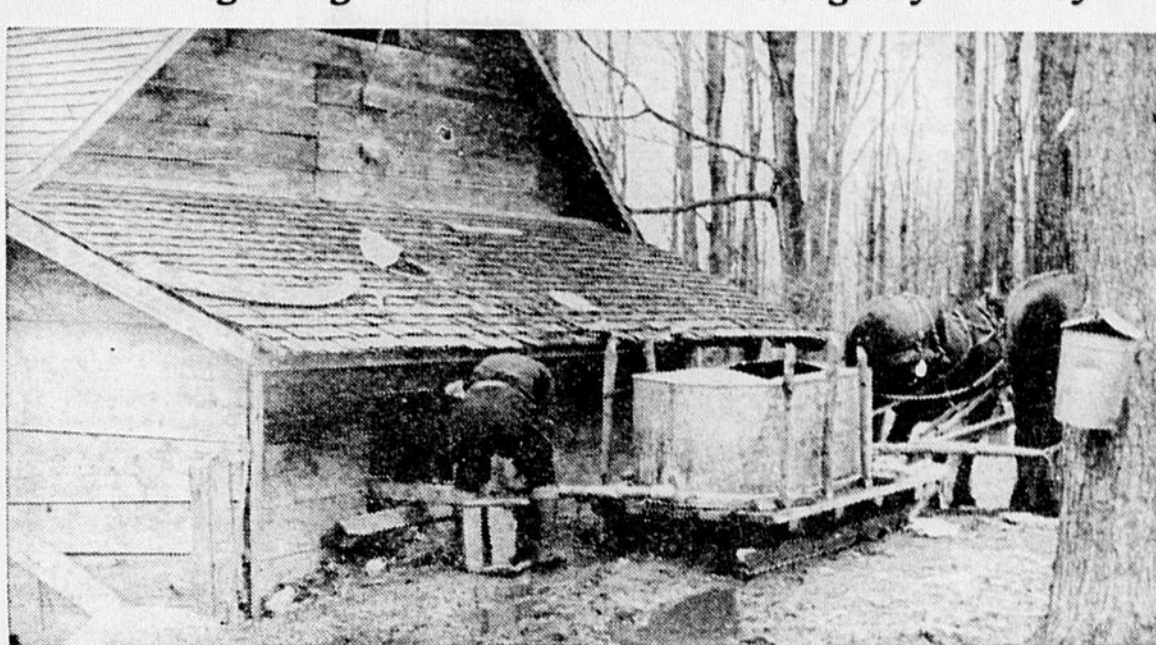

Atlantic Rendezvous

We sailed from our British base one night just after dark to meet the convoy in mid-Atlantic and escort it back to Britain. Our rendezvous was a tiny pencilled dot on a chart representing a vast expanse of ocean.

Almost at the minute arranged the convoy was sighted.

Before we parted from the liners, the senior officer in charge of the convoy sent a message welcoming the troops to home waters and wishing them "every success in the enterprises they have come over here to share with us." He also congratulated the liners' captains on the good handling of their ships.

Louis N. Larche, Retired Can. Immigration Officer Passes Away in Plattsburg Hospital

Widely Known Malone Resident Had Served For 28 Years as an Immigration Official on Train Between Malone and Montreal—Deceased Had Many Interesting Recollections of Service at Border

Louis N. Larche, 65, of 12 Beman St., Malone, N.Y., retired Canadian immigration officer whose years of service had given him a wide acquaintance through this area, died Thursday night, March 27, at the Physicians' Hospital in Plattsburg.

He was stricken ill three weeks ago and an operation was performed on Thursday, March 29 in the hope that his health might be restored. But medical and surgical aid proved an exemplary one; his condition continued critical until death came peacefully.

His passing brings sorrow not only to his bereaved family but to the multitude of friends he leaves in Malone and all along the route which he had traveled on his official duties for so many years.

Mr. Larche was born in Athol, P.Q., November 26, 1875, a son of Daniel Larche and Mary Neron. He became a station agent for the New York Central Railroad at St. Stanislas, P.Q., and continued in that capacity for 13 years.

He entered the Canadian immigration service as an inspector July 1, 1912, and was assigned to Malone to inspect the New York Central trains running between Malone and Montreal. His record of service during his 28 years as an immigration official is an exemplary one; marked by a conscientious devotion to his duties. During all of that time he had never missed a run except for a period when he was recovering from a fractured leg sustained on the St. Stanislas station platform.

Mr. Larche was particularly well fitted for the work he performed. He was an official without being officious, and regular in his routine, but he remained undimmed even during his last illness.

Mr. Larche had many interesting recollections of his years of service at the border. He had served on the railroad in various capacities, and had been one of the many who had seen the Kaiser when he had been in Canada as a German spy.

Railroad men and border officials with whom he had been associated in his work held him in high esteem.

Mr. Larche was married May 7, 1901 at St. Stanislas to Miss Sylvia Chapin and their life together had been one of mutual happiness. They had resided in Malone since his appointment as immigration inspector.

He had always enjoyed good health and his last illness was the only serious one he had ever experienced.

He was a member of Notre Dame Church and had been a member of the Royal Order of Moose at Malone for many years.

Surviving are his wife; four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Brewer, of Malone; Mrs. Walter Jennings, of New York City; Miss Lucille Larche, of Malone; and Miss Marie Larche, of Plattsburgh; four sons, Alcide Larche, of Albany; Sergeant Florant Larche, of Port Devens, Mass.; Orance Larche, of Malone; and Floyd Larche, a flying cadet at Floyd Bennett Field.

Ambulance Corps Branch At Valleyfield

Arthur Sullivan Appointed President of St. John's Ambulance Corps—Each Parish Will Have Its Group of Workers

A meeting of the St. John's Ambulance Corps was held last week at the home of Mrs. Therese G. Amyot, Valleyfield, for the purpose of forming a branch of this association for the Counties of Beaufort, Chateauguay and Huntingdon.

Among those who attended the first meeting were: J. A. Larin, Lieut.-Col. J. R. J. Dubault, Mr. and Mrs. Donat Lalonde, of St. Timothee, Mrs. W. K. Phillips, of Huntingdon, Dr. McDonald, Messrs. Lester McGillis, Arthur Sullivan, E. G. Gaze, Donat Lalonde, E. G. McDonald, J. G. Fortier and Miss Simone Lebeuf. This committee is scheduled to form a branch of this Association in each parish in the Counties of Beaufort, Chateauguay and Huntingdon.

The ladies who were appointed on the Committee are: Mesdames Jacques Malouin, W. K. Phillips, O. J. Gaze, Donat Lalonde, E. G. McDonald, J. G. Fortier and Miss Simone Lebeuf. This committee is scheduled to form a branch of this Association in each parish in the Counties of Beaufort, Chateauguay and Huntingdon.

Changes Made by Huntingdon C.P.C.—Larger Attendance Anticipated At Meetings—Seek More Members

Owing to ill health, Mr. A. S. Mackay has been obliged to resign as chief warden of the Huntingdon C.P.C. unit. On Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the unit, Mr. George F. Dixon was named "chief-warden". The C.P.C. regrets the inability of Mr. Mackay to carry on as "chief-warden" but the unit does not want to lose his guiding influence so made certain he would continue his identity with the C.P.C. as its Honorary Chief Warden.

Mr. L. H. Bowden, being transferred to Sutton, meant the appointment of a new Adjutant. Mr. H. G. Bickford was named to this office.

Mr. Hector Prevost, who was 2nd in Command and found it difficult to be present at all meetings and he was replaced in this office by Mr. L. T. Brown.

Due to Mr. Dixon being elevated in office, Mr. L. Cairns was raised to the office of District Warden of Section No. 3 and Mr. Dan Murphy to Captain of the same section.

On Thursday evening, April 3rd, the lectures by Serg. Major Agutter of the Military Camp will be continued. If the attendance of members as a whole is not more up to par, the resignations of several members may be expected. This would be regrettable, for if the day should come that the C.P.C. would be called upon to render assistance to men who at one time were sworn in as C.P.C. members and then were requested to resign due to their lack of attendance at meetings. More members are wanted in this unit. Any British subject is eligible for membership.

Supporting the Colour Party were the three cadets Dudley, Ruddock and Marshall. Miss Connie Salter presided at the piano and S. M. Howden was in charge of the military ceremonial.

Bldg. By-law Is Inadequate At Valleyfield

Mayor Larin Urges Council to Alter Building By-law Immediately—$250 For War Services Fund

Mayor J. Armand Larin launched an attack on the building by-law at the regular session of the Valleyfield Council on Wednesday evening, following requests for building permits by Valleyfield residents. Mayor Larin explained that the huge construction projects which are contemplated for Valleyfield will ruin the streets of the City if the builders do not observe the by-law. It has been repeatedly mentioned that citizens ask for building permits after constructing whatever they needed. "There must be some cities in Canada whose building by-laws are more adequate than ours and I would ask the Council to take action in this matter as soon as possible," concluded Mayor Larin.

It was later proved that some of the requests for building permits as presented to the Council were ridiculous, and if the interested parties were granted permits the streets of Valleyfield would be ruined.

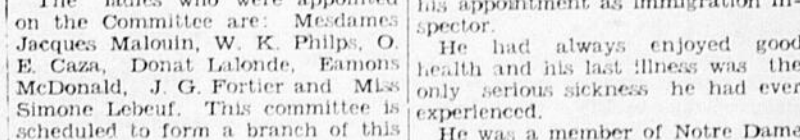

At the request of property-owners and tenants, the Council passed a resolution asking Mr. Justice Martin, Rentals Administrator under the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, to take immediate action in the law which was passed a few weeks ago in regards to the Valleyfield area.

The Finance Committee voted the sum of $250, for the War Services Fund. The Council decided to purchase a truck to collect garbage for $3,250. The chairman of the water committee was authorized to purchase a 1,000 gallons water reservoir amounting to $500. D. Lebeuf purchased the City building which was located on his premises for a reported sum of $100, on the condition that the City be granted permission to store some of its stock in the building for three or four months.

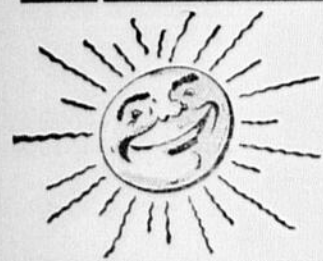

DONATIONS BY MAIL SOUGHT IN DRIVE FOR WAR SERVICE FUND

N. W. Sparrow, chairman in Huntingdon County, for the War Services drive, announced this morning that owing to the bad roads that still prevail in some of the Townships, it has been found impossible for canvassers to call on many prospective donors to the War Services Fund. "We know that all would like to contribute something to this worthy cause, so please send your donation direct to Mr. J. O. Michaud, Treasurer, Huntingdon, and he will promptly acknowledge same. The minimum quota for the Town of Huntingdon is $900.

Huntingdon, Wed., April 2nd, 1941

It is no disgrace not to be able to do every thing; but to undertake, or pretend to do, what you are not made for, is not only shameful, but extremely troublesome and vexatious.

Red Cross Appeal Indefinite

THE National War Services Drive goes on and each day the report towards the $5,500,000 objective appears more certain. Here in Huntingdon County the returns indicate people are willing to support the cause with their dollars. The number of contributors is going to be large; how big the subscriptions are going to average is yet unknown.

In the literature for the War Services campaign it is definitely stated no Red Cross appeal will be made in Canada during 1941. At Ottawa on March 27th, War Services Minister J. G. Gardiner told the House of Commons there would be no Red Cross appeal, nor would a permit for such be accorded. It is a known fact that the Red Cross were asked to join in on the united appeal for funds in 1941, but it also appears the Red Cross officials felt it best for them to conduct their own campaign in 1941; and if all went well to figure jointly with the War Services in the 1942 appeal.

We certainly can't let the Red Cross stint in its war work through lack of funds. If the Red Cross is not to have a national drive for subscriptions, then it will have to be financed in some other manner. Will that other manner be through social and entertainment benefits of all kinds, or will it be through increased members in its Branches, which in turn will look for generous voluntary contributions?

The Red Cross must not be allowed to suffer for the want of funds; for in the first two months of 1941 they have been called upon to supply more needs to the people of England than throughout the whole of 1940. Let us now make it our job to subscribe the $5,500,000 required for the War Services drive and after that if the Red Cross must make an appeal, let it be made and met.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Being Considered

IN Canadian War Services financial campaign that is now being canvassed for across Canada, one of the organizations to benefit from this fund is the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. The literature indicates it is for the I.O.D.E. of Western Canada, and whilst that is quite true it does not mean that this worthy organization does not function in eastern Canada. Actually the I.O.D.E. is very active in all provinces, and more especially in the cities and large towns.

Here in Huntingdon a group of ladies have been given the idea of having a local chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire organized. The question arose in the minds of some, will such an organization mean a duplication of effort in comparison with the Red Cross, and will the responsibility of keeping such a society active fall upon the shoulders of the same executive officers as we find are the faithful workers in the Red Cross? To help solve this problem, Mrs. A. T. Stikeman, Regent of the Municipal Chapter, Montreal, and whose husband Captain Stikeman is the Adjutant at the local Military Camp, met with a group of ladies where this subject was given progress. Another meeting is being held on Thursday, when a further expression will be vented.

The I.O.D.E. provides a multiplicity of services that are not attempted by the Red Cross Society. This organization endeavours to provide many field comforts for soldiers. When our boys of the Chateauguay Valley go overseas and fight our battles we must not imagine they go into battle for the love of it and to kill as they must. They go into the battle knowing it is their duty and that they as well as their loved ones may continue to live, worship, be governed, read what they wish and do what they may most desire in leisure hours. That, we believe is why the boys of the Chateauguay Valley, as well as all others in Canada, have enlisted in the King's army and all its branches. When the soldier is off duty, the mere fact that he is wearing the King's uniform does not compensate him for all that he is giving that we may live in comfort. No, he looks for some modest comforts when he is away from home, and here is one place where the I.O.D.E. accords a very valuable service.

Only a few days ago the writer was in Ottawa and in conversation with Mrs. Watson Sellar, she told of some of the activities of the I.O.D.E. Chapter to which she belongs. Their Chapter has a canteen on Queen Street. In this canteen they serve meals to soldiers for 25c per meal. The meals served by the members of the I.O.D.E. have not that wholly commercial atmosphere that is to be found in restaurants. The canteen has a home atmosphere, in that the ladies behind the counter, serving at the tables and in the kitchen, are the I.O.D.E. ladies of Ottawa. The ladies give of their time, and they may be called upon to work once or twice a week, six hours at a time as may be amicably arranged. It is generally acknowledged by soldiers that where the

I.O.D.E. operate such canteens they get meals more comparable to home cooking than at any other time when in the army.

I.O.D.E. besides doing a great deal of field work for the benefit of the army, accords many services to underprivileged youths, soldiers and ex-soldiers, aids them in getting an education and offers bursaries, etc. One might go on almost indefinitely speaking of its good work. Yes, we would like to see such a worthy society organized here in Huntingdon, but rest assured ladies, if such a responsibility is shouldered it means a great deal of work; for only if the Chapter is active is it worth being created. We do believe there are potential members in sufficient numbers that such a Chapter can be created without disturbing the worthy work of the Red Cross Society.

Our Moral Duty to the Soldiers in Camp

A YOUNG college student, who for many years lived in England, was seen wending her way home along with a number of other college girls. The young lady saw the garbage man emptying several cans of rubbish. The day was bright and springlike with plenty of slush underfoot which did not tend to make even such a chore any easier to perform; but the young student bid the garbage collector a word of cheer by remarking upon the brightness of the day. It was indeed a kind act for the day and a word of recognition appreciated by the old man. The other college girls frowned upon their companion student and commented upon her speaking to a man, performing in their minds such a humble chore. With such a thought being voiced by her companions the young student turned upon her companions and in a distinguishably loud voice said, "Girls, what are we fighting this war for? Isn't it for democracy?" With that the group of students were dumbfounded and in a meek and lowly manner went home, and we understand they offered words of apology the following day for their unbecoming words.

Not so many weeks ago a young lady living not far from town made a statement to this effect: "It's the 'unemployed' and 'no-goods' that should be in the army." That individual has been properly squelched by all her former friends who knew she vented such a thought.

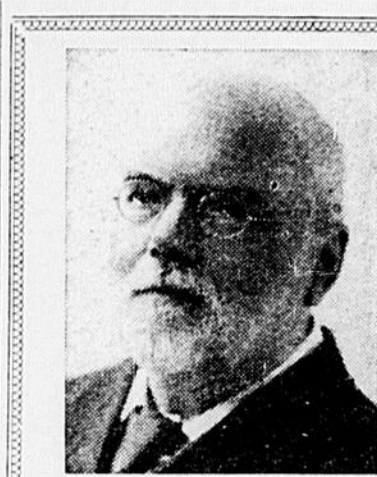

Since the local camp has been converted into a Basic Training Camp, soldiers for active service have been coming here in great numbers. Many of the Hussars are from Montreal, Cornwall and an even greater number from Western Canada. The townspeople are gradually gaining an opportunity to visit with these lads when they are off duty. We have found them to be boys of exceptionally fine type, not "no-goods" but men who will figure amongst "the cream of Canada's manhood." We all know right well that you can't have 1100 men and find everyone of them to be a "goodie-good," for that many men put together would not make a good army. It takes a mixture of ingredients to make a delectable and savoured dish of food and so it takes a variety of types of men to make up a good army unit. For the few weeks the Hussars have been in our midst we feel certain, and all will agree, that they are a very wholesome lot of men, men of good repute who will give a good account of themselves, not only in the field of battle but in their life's avocation after the war as they have done in years past.

On Sunday the men of the Military Camp were privileged to go to their respective churches. They went, not only to the special military parade services held in the morning, but returned of their own free will for the evening services in astonishing numbers. This we feel speaks well for the type of men we have at present in training at Chateauguay Military Training Camp.

These boys, a great many at least, have never seen maple syrup being made. Hot sugar or taffy on snow is something they have never enjoyed. Many have already visited a sugar bush for the first time and have enjoyed it beyond words of expression. It would appear to us that the people in town have a democratic obligation to fulfill and that our duty is to entertain these boys in small groups in our homes. The boys have been in military camps for several months. Many of them are now long distances away from their homes. The boys from Western Canada like the appearance of the east. They like the reception accorded them by the public at large. Let us give them a reciprocal reception in our homes as the people of the west are so noted for their hospitality to easterners.

In entertaining boys from the Military Camp, you will place them at ease if, in the first place, you provide them with a mat of some kind or other so that they can give their heavy boots a good cleaning before they enter your private home. They know right well their heavy boots are a bug-bear to a housewife. However, if these boys are going to fight our battles why should we worry over such trivial matters as a little dirt on their essentially heavy army boots. They boys appreciate being in a private home where they can just visit with the people of this community; listen to the radio, perhaps have a sing; a game of cards. If time permits before they return to camp serve them a cup of tea or coffee and a snack of food that was like what they got back home. Hot sugar or taffy on snow would be doubly appreciated. A visit with the boys of the Hussars or boys of any other regiment that may be encamped here, either now or in the future, will be enjoyed by the hosts as well as by the boys. It is surely our democratic duty to be good to the boys in Camp, as it is for college students to respect men of all avocations, rather than be snobbish.

Our District will undoubtedly become the big industrial belt of Canada. After the war we will have a greater number of men who will come to this area. If we give the army boys a good reception now, we are certain many of them will be open to consider locating here in after years, or at least speak a good word to others on our behalf. In the meantime these boys are actually going to fight our battles and it is our moral duty to entertain them as best we can when they have leisure hours.

From Manuscripts of
The Late ROBERT SELLAR

MRS. ROBB—Old Patterson (first concession of Elgin) was a passenger on the "Rebecca" and brought a good deal of money with him. On complaining of mosquitoes, she was told there was worse to come; that on a frame bonnet to keep them off, but would have to put up with what would not have, as she then had a hat made of bark. She replied that if that was so she would not stay in such a country. House and clearance by her father; got a saw second year. When he cut down his first tree (some six inches through) he came in to tell her. He hacked it all around, knowing no better, and used afterwards to say it was a miracle he was not killed by the uncertain way in which the trees fell. His clothes, made of superfine, were soon in shreds, when she envied the home-made grey of Mr. Barr, who had a farm on shares near Cornwall, and came over with some stock and a quantity of bread and boiled pork as provisions.

ROBT. CLARK—Arch. Henderson and Andrew Anderson worked together and began at Hemmingford, putting up frames, the last named being the framer. H. being a workman. They worked west and put up several frames near Huntingdon, among them a barn for Mr. Barr. In 1828 they bought the privilege at Hendersonville and put up a grist mill. It had a large board wheel. From the height of the wheel, the machinery was on the second story, necessitating a great deal of carrying and besides there were no elevators in those days, so the ground stuff had to be carried up to the bolts. The wheels, except the shelter one, were of pie and brought, he thinks, from the States. (In 1851 the mill was rebuilt as it is now). In 1831, during the great freshet, one end of the dam was swept away, when 5 acres on the other side were got and the sawmill put up. In 1835, finding they were involved, they separated, Anderson taking a farm on the Ridge, James Henderson, who had advanced the money to build the mill, forgave Arch. some 10 or 12 years' interest, and he went on. In 1836 C. came and took charge. On the night of the 18th, 19th and 20th of August of that year there was severe frost, the grain in the morning being quite white, destroying it all except what was ripe. Most of the wheat being late sown it was all lost and there was much scarcity. On the lower Chateauguay, where the land was fall plowed, the wheat was saved, and Henderson bought some. The weather after the frost was very cold, and C. remembers in digging H's potatoes that the soil came up in great lumps and the potatoes were knocked out with an axe. The Scotch ground barley and peas and made a shift. Some were badly off. In the following summer he recollects a settler seeing in the mill some bran and shorts lying below the bolt and begging for a quantity to mix with berries, on which his family had lived for 3 weeks. Wheat went up to $2.25 and $2.50. The crop of '37 was good, however. The seed then used was red and white chaff and it failed totally from rust in '18. There was no mill at Durham or Dewittville and Bowron's at Huntingdon was badly managed, often without a miller, so it had lost its character. The one at Constable was frequently at a standstill for want of water. C. had therefore a good deal of work. The grain was mostly drawn by oxen, and in summer half at least came on horseback, the roads being so bad. Fitch and Wooster (at the Lines) had the first barges, after which Capt. Wallace got one. In bringing a cow from Anderson's on the Ridge C. thought she would break her legs, in stumbling over the logs that formed the road. There was a sawmill at the Lines, which, on its dam being swept away, was not rebuilt, and Barlow's, whose dam the farmers prevented being renewed because the back water troubled them. The farmers on the T. R. Jeal largely at Lanville, where Ogilvie kept store and bought their polish along the creek, which was sort of

War Sacrifices Inevitable For Western and Eastern Farmers—250,000 Canadian Men in Active Service

Adjusting Canada's agricultural industry to meet the demands and sacrifices of the war is not a very easy problem. Discussions on the floor of the House show that many Eastern farmers feel that concessions to wheat growers in the West mean an inequality of sacrifice. In particular a few representatives of Eastern agricultural constituencies have claimed that the two dollar an acre bonus given to Western farmers for turning their wheat acreage into coarse grains means that Eastern farmers are asked to help Western farmers to go into livestock production in competition with them. The main attack on the government's wheat policy has come from members from the province of Ontario. The agricultural problem confronting the country is admittedly very complicated. Difficulties of moisture and markets made wheat a perplexing question in peace time when many European countries preparing for war were trying to make themselves self-sufficient in wheat production. With the occupation of the major part of Europe in war, markets were restricted to Britain, at all times the principal market, and two or three small purchasers. There is of course no question about supplying Britain with all the wheat she needs in war time. The only ques-

WATER POWERS (Shawinigan Falls Standard)

Like every other activity of a fundamental character, the water powers of Canada assume an added importance when we are at war. Production is all-important.

Canada's water powers constitute one of her greatest natural resources. Their development has not only facilitated the growth of industry, but has resulted in giving value to marginal products, which, without the low-cost power provided by water, would have remained unmarketable. This low-cost power has also resulted in the creation of entirely new centres of population for the processing of raw materials imported from abroad. So general and widespread is its availability that all but the most isolated hamlets enjoy the amenities of electric lighting, radio, cooking and domestic appliances which in many countries are associated only with the larger urban centres.

Canada's water powers have an estimated capacity of almost 34,000,000 h.p. which, under average conditions of use, will provide for a turbine installation of about 43,700,000 h.p. of which the installation, as at Jan. 1, 1941, represents approximately 19.23 p.c. These water powers, developed and undeveloped, are found from the Maritimes to British Columbia in production (Continued on page 6)

The Consumer Section, Marketing Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, suggests a few ways of using maple syrup, in addition to serving it as syrup with toast, pancakes, waffles, fritters, hot biscuits or muffins.

Maple Pudding

1 cup maple syrup, 4 to 6 slices stale buttered bread, 2 eggs, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups milk.
Boil syrup 10 minutes. Butter slices of bread 1-3 inch thick and cut in strips. Dip bread in syrup and arrange one layer in buttered baking dish. Place next layer of bread strips in opposite direction and repeat until dish is nearly full. Cover with custard mixture of eggs, remaining syrup, salt and milk. Place dish in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) until set—about 40 minutes.

THE CHILDREN'S COLUMN

ANIMALS IN THE WAR

E. M. Buchanan

An English Journalist recently arrived in Boston, having been sent to America in charge of a group of evacuated children.

That animals' instinct of danger is keener than humans', has had many proofs during the present war in England.
A donkey had been some little time in a London shelter for animals, awaiting removal to a place in the country. I was walking along this street one day, when the donkey began to "Hee-haw" loudly. Someone seized my arm and dragged me quickly down into an air-raid shelter.

"What's the hurry?" I panted. "I didn't hear the final warning."

A bomb exploding nearby had prevented an answer. When the noise subsided somewhat my rescuer nodded wisely, and explained, "That donkey is the best air-raid warning I've ever known. Never fails to tell us when danger is near." And so it proved.

Then there is the old lady who sleeps peacefully in her bedroom, in her London home, yet is always down in her shelter before the bombs come too near. Congratulated on her bravery, she laughed, "I'm not brave. It's this clever old parrot of mine."

"I'm not brave. It's this clever old parrot of mine." She pointed to a knowing-looking gray bird in a cage near her. "That bird warns me in plenty of time, so I can sleep in peace."

Then there is "George," a common alley cat. When his family take to their shelter under the stairs, they listen, and if the patter of paws is heard, running down the stairs, they say, "Here's George!"

And faces are buried in blankets, and hands held over ears, while George takes his place under a chair. Without fail, no sooner is George settled, than a very near crash is always heard. And though the "all clear" may not have sounded, if George leaves the shelter, the family know that they can safely do so.

"Harry Tate," is a ginger cat, belonging to a little girl. It was Harry who came and woke his little mistress when an incendiary bomb had set the house on fire. One of the family, who was sleeping in the room where the bomb had landed, was able to throw the sand, that is always ready in a pail, over it. Probably lives and property were saved by that animal's instinct.

Dogs, too, have contributed their share in saving life and property in this war.

Mike is an old Irish roof-spotter. He always has "Paddy," his Irish terrier, with him on this job, for that dog always barks ahead of the explosion, giving Mike time to reach safety as well as giving the warning to the people in the building he guards. "Duke" is a Great Dane, who has won a row of pots, medals, and blue ribbons, at peace-time dog shows. One night as he and his master were running to an air-raid shelter, he suddenly caught hold of his master's trouser leg, and pulled him to the ground, where he stood guard over his master's body. A moment later a mass of debris fell and buried the shelter, where the people would have been but for that animal's instinct.

Hens, too, showed their sense of danger, for a flock of these birds flew from their roosts, just before their houses were smashed to smithereens. The chicken farmer said the birds were safe, but some of them were so frightened that they laid an egg no bigger than a twenty-five cent-piece.

Bravery, too, is a quality of animals.

beaten with 1 cup of milk. Sauté to a delicate brown in a little butter and serve them with maple sauce.

Maple Sauce
Bring 2 cups of maple syrup to a boil. Dissolve 2 tablespoons cornstarch in a little cold water and pour it gradually into the boiling syrup, stirring it to prevent lumps. Add a little grated nutmeg if desired. Cook the sauce 5 to 8 minutes. Two tablespoons of butter may be added if desired.

Maple Ice Cream
Melt 2 cups of maple sugar in a little water and boil it 5 minutes. Add to this 4 well beaten egg yolks and 1 cup of milk. When cool, beat into this mixture 1 quart of ice cream to which 4 egg whites have been added. Freeze the mixture as for any ice cream.

Maple Salad Dressing
Mix 1 tablespoon of flour with 1/4 cup of lemon juice until there are no lumps and stir into this 1/2 cup of maple syrup. Cook this mixture, stirring constantly until it is as thick as honey. Cool it and fold in 1 cup of whipped cream. Serve it with a tart fruit salad mixture.

The value of the Canadian maple tree is not in its wood alone, for every year thousands of gallons of syrup are made from the maple sap. Now the welcome sign "New Maple Syrup" appears in grocers' windows, to tell the public that the first of the 1941 maple syrup has come to market. Spring is naturally associated with maple syrup because it is made at this season, but it is really a year-round food, for properly stored at cool temperature, in sealed sterile containers (preferably glass) the syrup retains its colour, flavour, and other distinctive qualities, indefinitely.

Dahlia's Whatnots

In housecleaning we usually plan to start at the attic and finish at the cellar. Also there have been social reformers who, in propagating their theories, have made effective application of the fact that a woman always starts at the top step of the stairs and cleans downwards. Is there anything new under the sun? Yes, there is a new way of washing a painted wall. To help avoid leaving streaks begin washing at the bottom and work upwards. So I read. It sounds topsy-turvy but that is supposed to be the regular state of things in housecleaning time, anyway. As a matter of fact, the whole world seems to be topsy-turvy. The Ottawa Journal even applies the word "topsy-turvydom" to this Canada of ours, saying in an editorial of March 18th, there must be many to wonder what sort of topsy-turvydom we have come to when, with vital need for war industry workers in the East, we bonus people practically to do nothing in the West. This is an allusion to Ottawa's plan of paying $4 an acre for land left fallow in an effort to reduce the wheat glut. This bonus will pile up to $30 millions over and above the $57 millions to be paid for storage, interest, and insurance. Even those Eastern politicians may ask why the Government does not pay the freight to the East instead of storage in the West, and so keep wheat and bran, etc., at reasonable prices in this province.

A certain Mr. A. H. Acres, M.L.A. in Ontario urged his Government as well as of humans. A house was bombed, but a mother bird set bravely protecting her young ones, in their nest under the eaves, and remained there in spite of all the noise and the fact that practically all the wall fell around her. An A.R.P. warden, patrolling a devastated area, heard the loveliest trilling bird song among the debris. He called a rescue squad, who dug out seven people and a canary in a cage whose song had saved them.

Another warden, after an explosion, saw a cat come out of the debris, carrying a kitten which she laid at his feet, and with a little "meow" she ran off and brought out another. In this way she saved her whole family of five. I can assure you they had the safest and most comfortable home that could be found.

A little girl was grieving in the shelter because her pet mouse was left behind. She had tried to save it, but its cage was empty. What was her surprise when her little cocker spaniel came to her and laid the little damp mouse at her feet. It was quite unhurt. The soft trained mouth of her dog had carried it safe.

Is it any wonder that England has so many animal lovers? We know our dumb friends are worthy of the best we can give them.

HOT TAMALES

The "tamale" in this game is a knotted hamper. One player throws the hot tamale to some one in the circle who must throw it to another player in the circle and so on, tossing it from one to another without stopping.

The Hot Tamale man tries to catch it and if he succeeds, the one who last tossed it changes places with him and the game continues.

HUNT THE SLIPPER

The players seat themselves in a circle on the floor, having chosen one of their number to remain outside the circle. The children seated on the floor are supposed to be cobblers, and the one outside is the customer who has brought his shoe to be mended. He hands it to one of them, saying:

"Cobbler, cobbler, mend my shoe; Get it done by half-past two."

The cobblers pass the shoe round to each other as quickly as they can, taking care that the customer does not see which of them has it. When the customer comes to get it he is told that it is not ready. He pretends to get angry and says he will take it as it is. He must then try to find it, and the cobbler who has it must try to pass it on to his neighbor without its being seen by the customer. The person upon whom the shoe is found must become the customer, whilst the customer takes his place in the circle on the floor.

Household Hints

RULES FOR WASHING SHEER CURTAINS

Whatever the finish wash by hand or with plunger on stick unless fabric is new and sturdy, in which case use the washer. Water just comfortable to the hands is best throughout the process for most curtains, but hot water can be used on ordinary white cotton curtains.

1. Duck curtains, dust and all, into tub of clear lukewarm water for a few minutes. By removing acid elements in the soil and loose dirt you leave less work for the soap.

2. Knead and squeeze in tub of heavy suds for three or four minutes or until soil is well loosened. Extra soap here does three things for you: it takes out dirt easily, saves friction on the fabric and protects it with a sudsy cushion.

3. Change to fresh suds at least once, often if necessary to remove all blackness. These second suds are as light as their function is to flush away blackness rather than loosen it from the curtains.

4. Rinse in quantity of water small enough to stay slightly soapy. 5. Rinse twice in plenty of water, the last rinse blued if your curtains are white.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

QUEEN ELIZABETH

As the women of Britain rally to do their bit in this time of war, the outstanding woman in the Kingdom, the one who sets an example to all others, is a gracious lady whose features and whose voice are known to all the Empire—Her Majesty the Queen.

When the royal couple visited Canada, in the last twilight months of peace, the remark was heard on every hand: "But the Queen is lovely, her photographs don't do her justice!" People had been led to expect a lady of grace and charm; what they saw was well, was a woman of great beauty with a marvellous natural complexion and startling blue eyes.

Elizabeth is known as the "Commoner Queen." She is the first non-royal queen to occupy an English throne in more than three centuries. She is also the first queen for several centuries who is purely British by blood, and she was not of the "Blood Royal," although her family is descended from the old royal line of Scotland.

The Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon (as Her Majesty used to be known) is the daughter of the Earl and Countess of Strathmore. Much of her youth was spent in Scotland, where the haunted turrets of Glamis Castle. This famous seat of the Bowes-Lyon family is the place where Macbeth is said to have murdered Duncan, King of Scotland;

Howick Wins Championship Ormst'n Loop

Ormstown High School Downed 2-0 on Double Tallies by Mackie—Winners Take Beauchamp Trophy

Howick successfully captured the title of champion of the Ormstown and District Hockey League on Wednesday evening, March 26. The team was victorious by defeating the youthful O.H.S. team to the tune of 2-0.

Similar to a previous play-off, the ice was soft, hence the would-be speed of the game was considerably slackened. However, the players on both teams worked hard from the beginning to the finish. Mackie again proved to be Howick's No. 1 player and scored both goals. The first was at the five-minute mark in the first period, while the second was mid-way through the third period.

Willand Hamilton did not spare himself and deserves special mention. Melville Cairns was sorely missed from the Boyd-Hamilton-Cairns line. Bill Cavers made a fine attempt in replacing Cairns; as would be expected, however, that line did not click in their usual good manner. "Bud" Elliott has nothing to worry about his game on left wing. Goalie Morris Pringle pulled many a smart trick off in the nets. Tough luck fell upon defenseman John Moffat. In the last minute of play he had the misfortune of having two teeth broken.

Congratulations are extended to Howick for the sportsmanship which they displayed throughout the season and also in the finals. The Beauchamp trophy was presented to Captain Mackie at the conclusion of the game by the donor, Mr. Albert Beauchamp, accompanied by Mr. J. D. McDougall, president of the Ormstown Skating Rink Co. Officials: D'Aoust and Forget.

George Ellis Writes Article On Fort Malden Museum
Mr. George L. Ellis, who was on the Gleaner staff for three years, is now sending out feature articles for The Windsor Daily Star, Windsor, Ont. The March 22 issue comes to hand, and in looking it over we note a profusely illustrated article he has written on the Fort Malden Museum at Amherstburg. Amherstburg is in Essex County and in that area the population is found to contain a very large percentage of descendants of the old French pioneers of Canada. It naturally followed that the architecture of the museum take on French style, and be built of stone, which was donated by Brunner, Mond, Canada Ltd. When the stone was offered for the museum and fence about the property, a genuine move was made to make the dream of a museum come true. Our good friend, Mr. John A. Marsh, editor of The Amherstburg Echo, is given much credit for bringing the museum into reality. It was built on the site of old Fort Malden, which for many years was owned by a German.

Soldiers Attend Local Churches
On Sunday morning the men in the military camp were allowed to attend whatever church they desired in Huntingdon. The men were drawn up for church parade and wended their way to their respective churches. These church services were held at 9 a.m. and were largely attended. It is yet too early to state what will be the procedure this week in regard to church parades, but it is quite probable that it will follow the same course as on Sunday last. The regular congregational church services were held at the usual hours.

The March of Science

PUTTING THE VITAMINS BACK IN FLOUR

At the present time, the people of Britain are faced with endless aerial bombardment, long hours in air-raid shelters, lack of sleep, lowered vitality, and consequent susceptibility to disease epidemics. Aware of the danger, the government recently took a very simple precaution. They ordered white flour to be fortified with a chemical called thiamin.

Hardly an epoch-making event, you say! As a matter of fact, it was an event of the first historical importance. For the first time, the government of a great country recognized the necessity of supplying vitamins as well as bulk food to the whole population. Thiamin is one of the vitamins bearing constituents of whole-wheat bread. It is not found in white bread, yet lack of it means all the difference between vitality and fatigue, between courage and despair, between fight and flight.

The addition of thiamin in crystalline form to white bread was made possible only in 1936, when R. B. Williams, a chemist in the Bell Telephone Laboratories, made thiamin out of coal tar. Now, riboflavin and nicotinic acid, two other essential constituents of whole-wheat bread, can also be made in crystals. As a result, white flour will in future be "supercharged" with vitamins. It will not only contain the chemicals hitherto milled out, but will carry an extra ration to help allay our unsuspected vitamin hunger.

The man who made possible the addition of thiamin to white bread, Robert R. Williams, is director of chemical research in Bell Telephone Laboratories. His work on vitamins is a spare time hobby. As a chemist in the United States government laboratories in the Philippine Islands just before the Great War, he was among those who revealed that the beriberi, due to a lack of thiamin, in polished rice, with part of the original bran still clinging to the grain and eaten with it, does contain vitamin. When he joined the Bell Telephone Laboratories at the end of the last war, Mr. Williams continued his work on vitamins in his spare time. The extraction of thiamin from coal tar is one of a series of successful experiments which he has completed.

It is scientists of this calibre who are constantly engaged in research for the improvement of our telephone service.

McGerrigle Is Eliminated In Semi-finals

E. Smith's Thistle Rink Wins Elgin Trophy Championship—Chateaugay Valley Curlers Well Represented

Emmett E. Smith's Thistle rink of J. A. Beausejour, G. P. Morgan and R. G. Hutchinson turned aside E. "Pete" Dagenais of Lachine for the Elgin Trophy championship on Montreal-Caledonia ice on Saturday night by 11-9.

Both teams moved into the play-off of the two-day gruelling series by narrow verdicts in the semi-finals. Dagenais rallied behind an early deficit against W. E. Markham of Heather and evened the count going into the last end and then won out by 11-9. Smith also had a tough battle on his hands in the veteran W. G. McGerrigle of Ormstown who bowed out 11-5.

Although it was a tough one to lose, Dagenais' rink played a splendid game against the Smith system, and the way his rink curled ahead of him he might have won the crown, if he had been playing against an opponent that played the kind of game generally used in Montreal.

Immediately after play concluded, the trophy was presented to H. C. Fortier, president of Thistle, by William Paterson, president of the Canadian Branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club. Medals to the winning rink were also given out by Paterson, while R. E. Raguin, immediate past-president of the branch handed out the runner-up awards.

Covey Hill

Cars have not displaced horses altogether in this and adjacent districts, and within the next few weeks there have been races even between horses, hatched to cutters, no more impromptu affairs, mind you, but regularly organized and properly judged. St. Antoine Abbe had such an event, and so had Covey Hill. It is apt to be windy away up here and the day of the race was no exception in that regard. Blowing there was, but betting, we imagine, was carried on mostly in figurative language. The distance covered was from the Stevenson byroad to Mr. Wm. Day's gate, something less than two miles, witnesses being posted at intervals along this course. "When Greek meets Greek" the fight is no fake; in other words, when two Covey Hill horses race, the contest is likely to be close. Of the two entrants, Mr. John McDowell won with his sorrel by just 24 seconds, which also spoke well for Mr. Arthur Sutton's horse. The sorrel's practice on an uphill course route doubtless stood in good stead in point of both wind and limb.

On Tuesday of last week the Red Cross group were entertained by Mrs. C. W. Potter and Mrs. Wellington Potter.

The price for the first syrup sent from here to Montreal is reported at $2.25. So far the flow of sap has been but moderate.

A SPRING RECOVERY PROGRAM
Slip Cover and Upholstery News — Gathered Flounces and Novelty Trimmings — Big Florals and Companion Prints

In the spring a lady's fancy turns to bolts of bright flowers. And while she's in the mood, her decorative ambitions are limited to baggy slip covers that were just meant for summer use—or to permanent upholstery that was staunch and stern, stuff that was meant to last a lifetime and looked it.

A Toss-Up

Now slip covers are getting to be trim and tailored and versatile for year around use, while upholstery covers have become more light-hearted and casual. As a result, it becomes something of a toss-up as to which to have where.

Personally we think it's actually easier to put a nailed-on upholstery cover on a chair than to make a slip cover. On the other hand, a slip cover can be whisked off for cleaning and is a wonderful way to vary the effect without committing yourself permanently (thus making possible regular seasonal changes). So in deciding between slip covers and upholstery, it's important to think through these aspects of the question. On the style side, there's not much difference any more. The same designs and finishes are used for both, while slip covers are expected nowadays to fit as smoothly as nailed-on covers.

The deep gathered flounce is the mark of this year's fashion in coverings for chairs and sofas. Not so many box pleated skirts are seen, though they're classic so it cannot be said that they are really "out". Often the straight skirt with kick pleats at the bottom looks smarter than either the gathered or pleated flounce, especially in a more formal room. While the smooth-fitted cover without any flounce at all has even more dignity. All these various types are used in both slip covers and nailed-on covers.

Fashion Flashes

Among the novelties are draped swags of contrasting material around the bottom of the skirt, along with deep fringes, sometimes attached at the top of the flounce and over it. We also saw a moire slip cover made with insets of heavy lace over the arms and at the back and around the skirt. Amusing was a pinafore cover made with sashes tied in a bow at the back. Battened-on slip covers for tailored side chairs often have a smart look, especially if the buttons are big ones and are used with bound button holes or heavy loops. Often a chair or sofa can be given a decorative distinction by having a plain chintz cover trimmed with flowered bands cut from a chintz used elsewhere in the room. Plain and figured materials can be combined pleasantly in other ways too—by using the plain fabric on the outside and for the flounce, with the figured material for the inside arms and back and for the seat.

Quilting adds ever so much aplomb to a chair cover. Sometimes the quilting may only appear on the cushions. Again it may be used only on the inside arms and inside back—or the entire cover may be quilted. The quilting may vary too—an all-over quilting in a diamond or shell design is nice, or else the quilting may outline the central flower design. This can be done on your sewing machine, with the proper attachment.

White Slip Covers

Here is an interesting slip cover made with the body of white quilted chintz and the ruffled flounce of red and white striped chintz. The welting is also covered with the red and white striped chintz.

There's not quite so much heavy moss fringe used in the seams as formerly, though it's still perfectly good to have where it fits into the picture. A trim cord, welting or gimp looks a little newer. There are attachments that automatically hug the fabric closely over the cord, as you stitch, doing away with any fear of loose bulky casings. The newest slipcovers have corded zippers, closings and even the zipper foot attachment on the modern sewing machine. Even moss fringe is no trick on a modern machine if you aren't an old hand, consult the experts at your local sewing center.

Fabrics for furniture coverings this spring are varied and provocative. In printed fabrics, glazed chintz continues to be the decorator's darling, and now that it is available in permanent finish washable qualities, it is practical for everyday wear. But there are all sorts of other fine cotton fabrics—flowered sail cloth, twill, sateen. Besides these there are many woven fabrics of both formal and informal design, of both period and modern mood. The trend is all toward attractive fresh materials in place of the forever and ever damasks and velvets. For more elegant rooms, satin, more textured weaves, pastel velvets and innumerable other materials are used. A big help in combining various fabrics in the same room is the trend toward "sister prints" or "companion ensembles" which are coordinated fabrics to be used in the same room. They take the guesswork out of decorating, for the different colors and designs have been combined by artists.

Facts of Interest To Movie Fans

MEET THE STARS

Kathryn Grayson, who makes her screen debut in the latest of the Hardy family series, "Andy Hardy's Private Secretary," is realizing her life's ambition. To be able to realize it before you're twenty-one is unique, but then, Miss Grayson is a unique young person.

When she was twelve years old she began singing on the stage of the Municipal Opera House in St. Louis, to an audience of one: an elderly janitor who kept smiling and nodding as though he enjoyed her music immensely.

It was not until two years later that Kathryn learned he was stone deaf, but by that time he had performed a rare service in providing her with just the kind of encouragement a young singer needs.

A California screen recovery year later she traveled with her family—her parents, a younger sister and two older brothers—to California, where she entered the Los Angeles Manual Arts High School and also began to study singing in earnest.

She made her first screen test last July, although she was already under option to M-G-M. She was signed after studio officials had heard her voice.

Miss Grayson was born in Winchester, Mass., but spent her childhood in St. Louis. She has brown hair and hazel eyes, loves sports, has a bulldog named Fritz and lives with her family in West Los Angeles.

FRED MacMURRAY

Inheriting musical ability from his father, a concert violinist, Fred MacMurray started out to be a saxophonist, leaving college to join a jazz band. For the next few years he played with orchestras—when he could get a job. When he could not, he tried everything from house-to-house selling to extra work in movies. Turning point in Fred's career came while he was working his saxophone with the California Collegians in Broadway musical hit Roberta. He made a hit with a Paramount talent scout who signed him, but what made Fred even happier was making a hit with one of the show's beautiful showgirls, Lillian Lamont. When Fred went to Hollywood in 1934 she followed to be near him and worked as a fashion model until they were married. They still live in the modest 8-room house they built in Brentwood near the Gary Coopers, where they were first married. They have added a swimming pool, tennis court, badminton court, greenhouse and Fred's workshop. All this wasn't handed to him on a platter when he stepped off the train. The first six months he couldn't get any assignment, but when he did it was worth while waiting for the second male lead with Claudette Colbert and Gary Cooper in The Girl of the Year. Ever since he's been in demand by film stars. He's Hollywood's tallest star, six feet, 3½ inches, and one of the most popular.

JACK BEUTEL

Jack Beutel, 21, from Dallas, Texas, came to Hollywood last summer to break into the movies. After months of fruitless searching he got his first job, and what a break, picked to share top billing with veteran stars Thomas Mitchell and Walter Huston. He had called at the Hughes' casting office while making the rounds of the studios and was told to leave his photograph. It reached Howard Hughes' desk among hundreds of others, and he was called for a test. Weeks of waiting followed before he was given lead, a break movie aspirants dream of but seldom realize.

WEEK AT OTTAWA

tion there is the problem of transportation. But on the other hand heavy carryovers raised the imperative question of restricting wheat acreage. The necessity of keeping a rein on public expenditures and of maintaining agricultural economy of the West was involved. At the same time a balanced agricultural economy in both East and West has had to be maintained. Concessions have been made to the dairy industry, a food ministry in Britain puts cheese in a very high category of essential foods, and a steady supply is expected from Canada. Certain concessions have also been made on the cost of food from the West for livestock. There is a large contract for the sale of bacon to Britain, but the question there is one of oversupply rather than shortage. A thing that is clear is that the situation must inevitably arouse differences of opinion. Whatever action may be taken by the government, sacrifices in this war are equally inevitable. There must always remain thorny sides to the agricultural problem during the war.

The C.N.R. Report

The annual report of the Canadian National Railways for 1940 seems to indicate that in 1941 the government owned system will be entirely out of "the red". In 1940 freight revenues increased over 34 million dollars and passenger revenues nearly 4 million. The movement of war materials to munitions plants, of munitions of war and all other kinds of supplies to ocean ports and of construction materials to training centres has all contributed to the improved financial report of the railway. For 1940 the railway has made enough profit on operations to pay 33½ million dollars out of the $48,766,000 the interest on funded debt owned by the public. This is a great relief to the public treasury, and it is expected that next year the full amount of this interest will be paid from railway operations.

The Prime Minister on Canada's War Effort

The outstanding event of the past week end of the entire session has been the explanation given by the Prime Minister of the real scope of Canada's war effort. So much had been said by isolationists in the United States which belittled Canada's part in the war and the suggestion from some quarters based on an entirely false idea of what Canada was doing that this country should also have a "lend lease" measure, that the speech in the House of Commons was very timely. It was given in the closing hours of discussion of the war appropriations bill, which has now passed both the Commons and the Senate and awaits only the Vice-regal signature. During the coming year Canada would be spending about 44 per cent of the entire income of the country in its war effort. The national income has been estimated at just under 6 billion dollars. Canada's direct war effort will cost about $1,450,000,000. But in addition to this Canada will be sending to Britain during the next twelve months approximately $1,500,000,000 worth of munitions of war, raw materials and agricultural products. Britain's deficit in her balance of payments for the year is estimated at $1,150,000,000. To meet this deficit Canada must provide Britain with Canadian dollars either by the purchase of Canadian securities now held in Britain or by the accumulation of sterling balances. From September 1939 to February 1941 the United Kingdom's deficit was 787 million dollars, 45 per cent of which was provided by Canada through the repatriation of securities and 21 per cent by the accumulation of sterling balances while only 34 per cent was met by the transfer of gold. Since December no gold has been received from the United Kingdom. The Prime Minister said he hoped Britain could send some gold but he emphasized that "whatever gold or United States exchange Britain makes available to Canada is for one purpose only and that purpose is to enable Canada to make payment to the United States for war purchases." In relation to the national incomes of Canada and the United States, Canada's direct and indirect war expenditures would be the equivalent of 35 billion dollars from the United States.

Canada's financial aid to Britain would be about 15 billion dollars. But Canada was giving of her blood as well as her treasure. There were 250,000 men on active service and 175,000 in the reserve army. "Never in the history of war have 11 million people," said the Prime Minister, "given so freely and pledged so fully their treasure, their resources and their manhood." The people of Canada have nothing but admiration and gratitude for the great contribution of the United States and the still greater contribution it will make, but in the enthusiasm of our satisfaction over United States aid, "we as Canadians have no reason to discount the magnitude of the material contribution which the people of this Dominion are making."

gay, comely Scot's girl whom he had known as a child. Quite without the prompting and arrangement which go before most royal marriages, he visited her home in Scotland, wooed her and won her. The Royal Family had not intermarried to any great extent with British aristocracy, but consent for this match was quickly forthcoming. The young couple were married eighteen years ago. Their two daughters, Dorian's well-loved little Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, were born in 1926 and 1930. Elizabeth and her husband did not live in unbounded luxury. For years, as befitted the younger son of a king and his wife, they filled in on the round of royal duties; opening fairs, visiting institutions, inspecting mines and depressed areas, and visiting far-off corners of the Empire. They lived most of the time in a town house and a modest cottage in Windsor Forest. Then suddenly the accident of fate hurled them into the full limelight of the throne! For two people, still young, devoted to simplicity in their private and public lives, the fierce light which beats about the throne must have been an ordeal, but King George and Queen Elizabeth proved more than equal to their task.

Then the war—war that brought darkness to the Royal Family as it did to many others. Close friends have died. Like everyone else in the British Isles, the King and his spouse face the perils of war. Their beloved children, whom they have refused to send out of the country, face the same deprivations as they do. The Queen bravely maintains that it would be unfair for her children to take shelter as long as other children in the Kingdom are unable to do so.

Queen Elizabeth broadcasts to the world, in clear and beautiful French, her faith in the ultimate victory of the right and the triumph of justice. In that faith she lives—a constant, magnificent example to every woman in the Empire!

With soft, persuasive prayers woman wields the sceptre of the life which she charmes; she lulls the discord which roars and glows and teaches the fierce powers which hate each other like fiends to embrace in the bonds of love, and draws together what are ever flying asunder.—Schiller.

ximity to all industrial centres, the largest mineral deposits and pulpwood supplies. Widespread transmission networks distribute the power from developed sites to consumers within radii of hundreds of miles.

The water powers of the Maritime Provinces, while small in comparison with the sites in the other provinces, are a valuable economic resource that is augmented by abundant local coal supplies. Quebec has the largest known resources of water and the greatest development, her present installation is a little more than 50 p.c. of total installation is operated by central electric station organizations. Ontario, like Quebec, is without local coal supplies, is second in both power resources and development. Here the Hydro-Electric Commission operates plants aggregating more than 67 p.c. of the total installation of the Province, while an additional 18 p.c. is operated by other central station organizations. Of the Prairie Provinces, Manitoba has the greatest power resources and the greatest development, more than 72 p.c. of the total hydraulic development of the provinces being installed on the Winnipeg River to serve the Winnipeg area and over the transmission network of the Manitoba Power Commission, approximately 135 cities, towns, and villages in southern Manitoba. In the section of the Prairie Provinces containing least water power, there are large fuel resources. British Columbia ranks fourth in available power resources and her hydraulic development is exceeded in Quebec and Ontario only. The water powers of Yukon and the Northwest Territories are considerable, but present development is limited to mining uses.

New water-power installations during 1940 aggregated approximately 295,000 h.p., bringing Canada's total installation as of Jan. 1, 1941, to 8,584,438 h.p.

Said Rouser to Gayboy, "Five minutes after a girl was introduced to me she borrowed five hundred dollars."

And Gayboy snorted, "Well, that's a fine how do you do."

"I live only with my thoughts," sighed the dull boy-friend.

"And this caused the girl to say: 'Yeah; empty life isn't it?'"

BABY'S HOT LITTLE HEAD IS A DANGER SIGNAL

WHEN your Baby's head feels hot to your hand you must do something. And do it quickly. Read what Mrs. B. of Enterprise does and what results she gets: "My baby's cheeks and hands were so hot I was frightened. I gave him a Baby's Own Tablet at noon and by after supper, I gave her three every two hours and by night she was up and around."

And Mrs. Francis Carroll, of Midland, has this to say: "My little girl was so feverish I was really alarmed. Then I thought of Baby's Own Tablets, so I gave her three every two hours and by night she was up and around."

Baby's Own Tablets are sweet-tasting, easy to take, absolutely safe. They relieve all sorts of fever, quickly reduce simple fevers, equally good for teething fevers, diarrhoea, upset stomach, colds and other minor ailments of baby. Get a box today. Sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if you are not satisfied.

Thinking Back ... and ... Looking Ahead

Hitler's Bloodless Victory in Yugoslavia Frustrated—Overnight Victory For Nazi in Balkans Now Impossible

By DONALD C. MACDONALD

The Regent Prince Paul and the Cvetkovitch Government of Yugoslavia did sign an agreement with Hitler. Like the leaders of so many other German neighbors who have walked the death-plank by way of a visit to Berchtesgaden, they were willing to sign away the first bit of their independence. That's all Hitler wanted . . . for a start; give him a little rope, as it were, and he'll get more to hang you. Although little was said publicly about it, it is known that in the negotiations between the Germans and Prince Paul, the spokesman for Hitler insisted on the demobilization of the Yugoslav army, which had been placed on a war footing.

A perfect situation that would have been for Hitler. Of course, he promised that there would be no military obligations for Yugoslavia; all she was conceding was free passage of German supplies through her territory—not passage of men! But there might come a time, as there always does with Herr Hitler, when expediency would demand that he throw the agreement on the large scrap heap of broken treaties he's been building up, and if the Yugoslav army were demobilized, what would there be to stop him? Why, it would be just another of these ingeniously contrived, bloodless victories of the Fuehrer!

Yugoslavia United

And yet, the possibility of civil war in Yugoslavia, should its government sign such an agreement, did not materialize. It didn't materialize for the simple reason that the people of the nation were so overwhelmingly against such concessions to their implacable foe, that as soon as a leader arose to overthrow the politicians, the citizens of Belgrade turned out in celebration of which experienced correspondents wrote that they had never seen such manifestations of unrestrained joy. "Yugoslavia has found its soul this morning," Churchill declared in his own inimitable fashion.

It seems that after hesitating for weeks before the rising tide of public opinion, Prince Paul went off to Vienna to sign the pact. The report spread among the army officers that he intended to sign the secret understanding with the Germans.

HOW TO COMBAT Rheumatic Pains

Rheumatic pains are often caused by uric acid in the blood. This blood impurity should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and excess uric acid remains, it irritates the muscles and joints causing excruciating pains. Treat rheumatic pains by keeping your kidneys in good condition. Take regularly Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite kidney remedy.

Dodd's Kidney Pills

providing for the demobilization of the Yugoslav army. It is now reported by the new regime that he did make such a commitment, although it was not mentioned in the public notice given out. Apparently this was what spurred the army leaders to resistance. Given leadership by General Dusan Simovitch, the government was placed under arrest, a new regime established with King Peter ruling in his own right. The young monarch immediately appointed the nation's saviour to the position of prime minister.

Turning Point of War?

The repercussions of the affair have been tremendous. Certain it is that last week, with London free from raids, with the Italian East African Empire crumbling like a house built on sand, the swift turn of events made for the most successful week of the war for the Allies. All winter Hitler has been planning for the big spring push. With all the care of which the Germans are capable, the broad plans had been laid out, and the details completed—for what? The world is none the wiser yet; but beyond a doubt Hitler had planned on at least the non-belligerent co-operation of Yugoslavia. Meanwhile he would be able to drag the nation into his net so that sooner or later it would fall disintegrated, just as Rumania did.

But now it is doubtful whether he dare move southward without revamping all his plan. Greece, at least for the time being, is saved. Turkey is so enheartened that she is attempting, according to reports, to build up a mutual assistance bloc, including Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia, backed by Britain. Then a move by Germany anywhere would result in a new battle-front being formed throughout south-eastern Europe. That is just what Hitler fears, and what the Allies want.

Stunning Nazi Reverse

Hitler has received no more stunning set-back during his career. For even if he should be able to revamp his position, and start the long-delayed push; even if he should sweep through the level plains of Croatia and Slovenia in northern Yugoslavia, from which the Yugoslavs would likely make a strategic withdrawal, in any case, to take their stand in the mountains of Serbia and Montenegro in the south; even if, the worst coming to worst, his terrific land war-machine should be able to drive the combined forces back—in any case it would take months. Hitler cannot achieve any over-night victory in the Balkans now. And these next few months, until American aid becomes really effective, will be vital. The Germans must strike and succeed this year, or their chance will be gone forever by the spring of 1942.

Meanwhile, with the most terrifying phase of the war still impending, even if temporarily postponed.

the democratic peoples of the world might well recall with a deep sense of gratification that this turn of events has been made possible primarily because of the gallant stand of the Greeks. By facing up to the Italian invaders, this little nation has not only gained undying fame in the record of history, but provided the Allies with a foothold in southeastern Europe. That foothold has been so strengthened, especially of late, through British support in Greece, that such nations as Yugoslavia have been encouraged to take a stand. Hitler is going to be locked in the continent which he believes he has mastered "for the next 1,000 years"—and locked there long before he reaches the sea.

A Revealing Visit

If there was any room for humor in such a situation, it was to be seen in Berlin where the Germans planned an impressive show for Matsuoaka, the Japanese Foreign Minister, so that he might go home with an impression of how they were sweeping all before them, and thus be willing to lead Japan onto the Axis bandwagon. Everything was working out to perfection. The Japanese representative was greeted with all the pomp and show of which the Nazis are so capable; he arrived in Berlin amid rejoicing over the new success which had brought Yugoslavia into the camp.

But the R.A.F. paid a number of well-timed visits, just to let the Japanese Foreign Minister know that the B.B.ish are in this part of the world too, as well as at Singapore. And then, horror of horrors, the Belgrade coup d'état turned Hitler's Yugoslav triumph into so unmistakable a set-back that Berlin could not hide its bewilderment. Matsuoaka would have many things to think about besides Nazi suggestions for some devilment in the Orient. And he'll have still more after his visit to Rome just as the African Empire is being chewed to bits.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Senneville, Que. March 26, 1941.

JOSEPH WORKS, JOHN IDES. "Every man has a right to live." Doubtless, but by whose work—his own or another's?

There are two brothers; they were brought up together and had similar opportunities. Joseph works and saves; he married a sensible girl. John and his wife are different. John dislikes steady work and finds farming "too much trouble." He receives relief and, occasionally, gets a government job; in elections, he's a busy fixture. John is discontented; his wife is shiftless. They have a puny child and a mortgage on the cottage which was inherited from John's worthy father.

Joseph rents his house and farm; he works with all his might. For a dairyman, there is no day of rest and, in summer, five hours of sleep each night suffices. Joseph and his wife have nine strong children, fourteen cows, three horses and a long lease on forty acres which their labor has brought to fertile tilth.

Joseph has just left the place he held for ten years; his farm and customers require more attention than can be given by his children and by his spare time. Henceforth, he will work for himself during the ten hours daily for which he received $54 monthly from his admiring employer.

We Canadians are unjust. We permit taxation to take from Joseph a fraction of his work in order to provide privileges for worthless John; why should John be supported in negligent idleness by his brother's arduous and life-long effort?

Joseph and his children need neither unemployment relief nor Yuk. aid; they support themselves and, when parents are past work, the fire-sides of nine industrious children will comfort aging years.

Everywhere, idle land offers livelihood to Canadians and to their children. There is work, hard farm work, for every John; but, the John-like Joseph and his sons—know that it is cold, grinding toil, to milk and groom cows at five on a zero morning!

Will someone, please, say why industry and thrift should work and pay taxes in order to provide dole and pensions for Canada's wilfully idle and sterile Johns.

THOMAS L. JARROTT.

The Finest Sand Table in Canada

Most of Huntingdon County is reproduced to scale on the above sand table. "B" Corps Signals built the table itself and they were advised by Military District No. 4 at Montreal that the selection of the district around Huntingdon was the ideal terrain on which to carry out tactical manoeuvres. Sawdust, cement, molding clay, asphalt, aluminum powder and shellac were used in the construction of this fine miniature reproduction of the Huntingdon County. The execution of the order is being demonstrated to a class of signalmen by Major G. M. Grant, second in command, "B" Corps Signals, as Capt. T. R. Keene, adjutant and map reading instructor, looks on.

Howick Defeat Ormstown H.S.—The third game of the finals of the Ormstown and Parish Hockey League was played in the Ormstown rink on Wednesday night. A large crowd turned out, so hockey teams were well supported. Howick residents are showing an increased enthusiasm in hockey. They cheered their boys to victory. The Beauchamp trophy was keenly contested during the season by teams from Dewittville, Franklin Centre, Howick, Ormstown and Ormstown H.S. Due to soft ice the game was slow. Good hockey, clever passes, neat stick-handling and daring stops were in evidence. In the first period Mackie scored with an assist from Archie Roy, splitting the Ormstown defence. Hamilton of Ormstown made several brilliant plays, almost scoring a well-deserved goal. The period ended with a score 1-0 for Howick.

A great deal of excitement was aroused in the second period when Mackie scored a doubtful goal which was not counted. The dispute was ably handled by the referee, D'Aoust, and the game continued. There was no further scoring during the period. Howick still led 1-0.

Ormstown High School was very much on the offensive during the third period, making desperate efforts to equalize the score. Boyd and McRae came to blows in the Howick area, getting major penalties of five minutes. Anderson of Howick then drew a penalty which let Howick with four men on the ice. Howick's defensive tactics were successful in preventing the Ormstown raiders from scoring. Shortly after Mackie scored the second goal of the game, assisted by Anderson, with two minutes to go. Moffatt skating at high speed, collided with McRae and lost several teeth. He was able to finish the game in a sporting manner. The game ended, Howick 2, Ormstown 0.

Beauchamp presented the cup to Captain Mackie with a few well chosen words. The trophy is now on display at Gebbie's store.

Rev. Taylor
Passes Away
At Knowlton

Eastern Townships
Pastor, 93, Had Been Active Until Recently—
Held McGill's D. Litt.

An important link with the religious, educational and historical life of the Eastern Townships was severed Wednesday, March 27, by the death at Knowlton of the Rev. Ernest Manley Taylor, M.A., D.D., D.Litt., in his 94th year.

Pastor, school inspector for more than 40 years and one of the founders of the Bromie County Historical Society, Dr. Taylor had recently completed the second volume of a two-volume history of Bromie County.

In full possession of his faculties, he looked after his own affairs until a few days before his death. Although in failing health to a certain extent due to his great age, he was able to make an appearance last summer at the McGill University Convocation where he received his Doctor of Laws degree. This past winter he had been in somewhat poor health and took to his bed two days previous to his death.

Born in Foston, Que., in 1848, the son of the late Daniel Taylor and Christina Biesee, he was educated at the model school at Mansonville and at the Waterloo Academy, as well as at the McGill Normal Ministry in 1877 and served the churches of Beebe, Hatley, Melbourne, Mattawa, and Chamblay. He was appointed to the position of principal of the French Methodist Institute in 1887 and resigned from that post to accept a post of school inspector in the Eastern Townships on June 4, 1889. He held this position until June 30, 1930, when he resigned.

The trials of a school inspector in that arduous task were rewarded in a portion of an article Dr. Taylor wrote for the Educational Record and which was entitled "My First Year as Inspector." When he tried to point out an error, the teacher, who held a diploma from a board of examiners, said, "Mr. Taylor, I seen through it myself. I done the best I could. I learn them as well as I can."

Dr. Taylor received his Doctor of Divinity degree at the convocation of the United Theological College in Montreal in April, 1939.

He was thrice married, all three of his wives predeceasing him. His first wife was Margaret Louisa FICTION . . . ?

How can we obtain the best brains of the country? By a Union Government? Yes, that would be one way, a way perhaps that might meet with general approval because possibly every political party would be asked to participate in the government and there are some very able men in all our political parties.

However, a Union government is not essential, our present government can invite into its deliberations men of another political party and appoint to places of importance men of any or no political faith, the only requirement should be that they are the best men obtainable and they should have the confidence of the people.

If, say the Conservative party, the C.C.F. or Labour have a man of outstanding ability, and they have men of that calibre, our present government should invite their co-operation and on their part they should be willing to co-operate. The man who does not want to co-operate but desires to sit back and find fault is not the type of man we want in our government, now or at any time. We all must realize the need for that which we may have to give and be prepared to give it without stint.

Perhaps our present government would not be willing to ask outsiders to co-operate with them, they may feel that they can do a perfectly good job without outside help, but it is as good as all that but the odds are great that outside help would have some real value. The job to be done is vast, experienced men and well-meaning mistakes may and will be made, but rather welcomed and surely all possible help from any quarter should be appreciated.

We sometimes offer help to our government, although they do not see it as such, they often receive our offer to help as angry at it and discourteous to those who offer it. I refer to criticism. Very few people take kindly to criticism, but to the really big man a well-meaning criticism can be a very great help indeed. The criticism may be wrong, based on wrong information and ignorance of the full facts, but if it is honestly given it does not indicate at least that one person is thinking and if it does nothing else it gives the person criticized an opportunity to give his point of view and so perhaps correct a wrong impression.

A government may say, "We were placed in power by the people, we must have their full confidence, otherwise we would not have been elected." True, it had the confidence of the people, but does it still have it? We have seen a government elected by an overwhelming majority and at another election, swept from office by an overwhelming majority of the opposite side.

Some time between the two elections the will of the electors, the people, changed. When did it change? What changed it and how can a government know just what the people will do? There is one method and it is most definite and easy to understand if we will only take the trouble to make use of that method. Find out just what the people are saying when they talk about events of general importance, the actions or otherwise of the Government. Who does the talking? General conversation brings this out, it is about this or about that, it is reflected in newspaper editorials, magazine articles, letters to the Editor, to the local Member, etc., criticism, yes criticism, it is the

GIVEN WINGS IN
OTTAWA CEREMONY

The largest class of airmen to graduate from No. 2 Service Flying Training School, operated under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan at suburban Uplands, received their wings on Tuesday in a ceremony conducted by Group Capt. Frank McGill, officer commanding.

The young men, from many parts of Canada and the United States, had finished their course ahead of its schedule time.

"Remember the enemy you go to fight has no spirit of fair play," Group Capt. McGill told the graduates. "He is a coward and a beast who bombs women and children, churches and hospitals without discrimination."

"He will take advantage of every despicable treachery to try to trick you into a position where you'll be prey for him. I hope you don't let him. Suck on his tail every time."

Among the graduates was Gerald Philbin of Montreal and Valleyfield, who starred with the R.C.A.F. team in the Ottawa City Senior Hockey League during the winter.

Philbin played previously with Montreal and Valleyfield teams and for a time played in England and France.

All the graduates had rank of leading aircraftman.

W. A. Conrad of Bedford, Que., brother of Mrs. Raymond Riel of Huntingdon, also graduated on Tuesday.

St. Louis de Gonzague
Little Jean Paul Sauve was removed to the Children's Memorial Hospital in Montreal last week. We wish him a complete recovery.
